Warships and Troops Sent to India

LINCOLNSHIRE REGIMENT NOW ON WAY INDIA

Third Destroyer Flotilla Dispatched to Quell Indian Rows

CONTINGENT IS BEING MOBILIZED

Mobilization in India Hinges Upon Situation at Peshawar

BOMBAY, India, June 9.—(AP)—Encouraged by reports that the war office had dispatched troops and warships to India, harrassed officials tonight assumed a more optimistic attitude towards a situation in the Peshawar disrict which was regarded as critical.. The government has had its hands full coping with the irritative passive resistance campaign for which Mahatma Gandhi is interned at Yeroda prison, Poona, and with activities of the Afridis beyond Khyber Pass, on the fringe of the north west frontier.

The Afghan tribesmen, stung by repeated bombing raids of British airmen when some 5000 projectiles were dumped on them in their mountain retreats, were said to be swarming like hornets through the district and watching the pass as a cat watches a mouse.

Advices from London indicated that the third destroyer flotilla and a Linconshire regiment were on the way and there was hope of another contingent soon. How soon actual mobolization in India, would take place hinged upon developments in Peshawar.

Tonight India was somnolent. There was an air of suspense awaiting the report of Sir John Simon.

Wheat Prices Make Advance in Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, June 9—(CP)—For the first time in many weeks, wheat prices registered an advance of more than two cents a bushel today, the close ranging from 1⅝ to 2⅛ cents above Saturday's finish.

Disregarding the recession in stock markets, wheat traders were influenced by unfavorable crop weather and an increase in export trade over the week end. Closing quotations found December registering the greatest gain—2⅛ cents a bushel—to finish the day at $1.19⅝. July closed out at $1.14½ and October at $1.17¾ to ⅞.

Though trading in the future market was active, the demand for cash wheat and coarse grains was meagre, and without feature.

RURAL REGISTRARS ARE AT WORK IN NELSON, LIST WILL BE COMPILED BY JUNE 17TH

13 Rural Registrars at Work in Various Sections of City

REVISION CLOSES ON JULY 2 NEXT

British Subjects Resident in Riding on May 30 Entitled to Vote

Nelson citizens during the next few days should not shut their doors in the faces of unknown persons who knock at their house doors and inquire for information. These people are not salesmen or saleswomen, peddlers or other usual characters termed as nuisances by the housewife. They most likely are the rural registrars seeking information for the compilation of the voters' lists to be used in the coming federal election of July 28 next.

Yesterday 13 rural registrars appointed through orders of A. M. Grimmett, Revelstoke, returning officer for Kootenay West riding, started work in Nelson. Nine of these registrars are women and four men.

According to word received recently by E. Ferguson, president of the Nelson Liberal association, Mr. Grimmett will open an office in Nelson shortly. Whether he will make his headquarters here or will send in a deputy returning officer for headquarters in Nelson, as has been suggested, was not known by Mr. Ferguson last night.

The rural registrars at work in

BEAR MOTHER LOVE VICTOR

First Seeks Vengeance on Motorist When Cub Killed; Then Grief Stricken Returns to Fondle the Dead Fuzzy Ball of Hair

BANFF SPRINGS HOTEL, Alta., June 9—Reckless driving on Saturday robbed the Rocky Mountains park of one of its greatest attractions, cost one tiny cub its life, and may result in forced destruction of the mother bear and her remaining cub.

For the past three weeks an old bear and two tiny cubs have delighted the hearts of motorists in this vicinity. The little animals learned to climb on the running boards of cars and take titbits as gently as would kittens.

On Saturday afternoon, four cars, running between the Banff Springs Hotel and the Lake Louise Chateau, were parked at the highway spot where the bear bandits waylay cars. Two cars were facing one direction and two the other with a fair space between them. One cub was on a car running board, when a California car shot through at a fast speed.

The cub jumped off the running board to its death beneath the fast driven car.

The mother bear sent out one cry of anger and chased the death-dealing car from the running board of which a small dog jumped. The avenging mother centered her attention around the car while onlookers hurried to car while onlookers hurriedly climbed into their cars and the California driver nervously fumbled to start his car, which he had stopped as soon as possible.

Suddenly mother-love and grief overcome the desire for vengeance, the bear slid to a halt, turned in her tracks and trotted to her dead cub, voicing heart rendering cries.

She nuzzled the crushed furry ball that a moment before had been a frolicking atom of life. Held fascinated by the scene while tears ran down many cheeks, the onlookers watched the bereaved mother.

Mr. Chubra leaves to mourn his loss, a wife, four daughters, Emma, Mary, Kate and Victoria, and one son, Joseph. They are all residents at Fernie and three of the children are still in school.

COMMITTEE OF ALDERMEN WILL DISCUSS IDEAS

Board of Trade Delegations Ask Cooperation From the City

MAYOR OPPOSED TO DISTANT AIRPORT

Says Expenditure Warranted If Nearer Nelson; Sites Limited

Cooperation between the city council and the board of trade in investigating airport possibilities for Nelson became assured last night when the city council, after hearing representations from the board's airport committee, authorized Mayor R. D. Barnes to appoint a committee for the city on the same subject.

Though complying with the request of the board of trade, the city fathers, through the mayor, intimated that the council had reservations in the matter of distance and cost.

For the board of trade delegation, which consisted of C. B. Garland, President H. M. Whimster, J. E. Annable and C. F. Sedgwick, Mr. Garland was the spokesman. He presented the board's offer of cooperation with the civic authorities, and the request for a civic committee.

While members of the council might have opinions on the advisability of making provision at Nelson for air one things was certain; air traffic was going to come, just as surely as did motor cars,

OLIVER TRIAL LIKELY START VERNON, TODAY

Indictment Will Be Presented and Trial Will Likely Start Wednesday

VERNON, B. C., June 9—Indictment will be presented to the grand jury on the Oliver case on Tuesday afternoon, according to the crown prosecutor, who expects the trial will come on Wednesday morning.

Court house officials refuse to make any statement at present. Court is called for Tuesday at 2:30 p.m.

VERNON, June 9—The spring assizes commence here tomorow morning with Chief Justice Aulay Morrison on the bench.

There is a lengthy docket of criminal cases including one attempted murder. Five separate manslaughter charges, one burglaring and blowing up of a safe of the liquor store and one charge of forcible seizure.

Mr. Horace W. Galbraith of Vernon is crown prosecutor.

The forcible seizure case is that of Charles Oliver who in that court elected for jury trial and was granted bail in two sureties of $1000 each.

From all present indications it does not seem likely that this trial will take place until some others have been disposed of. Those favoring that view note among other things that Mr. Oliver's counsel, Mr. J. W. Deb. Farris, has not as yet arrived in Vernon.

Police Rout the "Jungle Hoboes" in North Bay District

NORTH BAY, Ont., June 9—A joint offensive against an entrenchment of "hoboes" on the shores of Lake Nipissing, carried out by a detachment of city, provincial and railway police late last night resulted in the netting of 28 inhabitants of the "hoboes" jungle. A general charge of trespassing on railway property was pressed today and Magistrate Weegar issued an order that they would have to be on the march by mid-afternoon. It is understood that a general exodus westward commenced immediately on the adjournment of court.

FOREST FLAMES ARE RAGING ON, SASKATCHEWAN

200 Men Battle Them; 40 Trapped Seek Shelter in Lake; Weather Is Warm

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., June 9.—(CP)—Fires raced over many square miles of forest lands in northern Saskatchewan today as 200 men under the direction of forestry chiefs battled the flames.

Showers over the week-end aided in the battle but today a hot sun beat down on the timberlands Though there was an absence of wind and the calmness brought renewed hope to the rangers for success.

The batteries against flames have had many miraculous escapes. At one time more than 40 of the men were caught between fires; and had to seek safety in a small lake. Another force was driven from their camps with just sufficient time to save food and equipment.

Birch lake, district 60 miles northeast of here, has suffered the greatest damage. Here a 10-square mile area of valuable timber berth, owned by The Pas Lumber Company, has been destroyed and flames are still uncontrolled.

So far settlements of the northern district have escaped damage.

POLE BUSINESS IN INTERIOR IS HOLDING UP WELL

So States Cotterell of C. P. R. on Return to Coast Via Kootenay

VANCOUVER, June 9—Conditions throughout the west are becoming more settled and in some parts of the prairie provinces crop conditions are excellent while in other districts more moisture is needed, according to C. A. Cotterell, general superintendent of the British Columbia district, Canadian Pacific Railway, who returned to the city today after attending a conference of Canadian Pacific officials at Winnipeg affecting the company's activities through the western district.

Returning from Winnipeg by way of the Crows Nest and Okanagan, the railway officials had occasion to study conditions in the interior.

"The pole business is holding up well, and is proving a great help to the interior. The Okanagan has had some good rains and conditions have been materially improved. Crop prospects in this locality have been rather encouragain." Progress is being made on the C.P.R. new 35-mile line between Procter and Kootenay Landing, Mr. Cotterell stated.

Huge Crowd Cheers Bennett in Opening Campaign Speech

Stabalization of Economic Conditions; Development Inter-Provincial Trade; Empire Trade; Old Age Pensions Among Leaders

AMPHITHERTRE, WINNIPEG, June 9.—(By Thoma. Green, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent)—Launching the first of a series of cannonades in the Dominion campaign which will carry him from the Atlantic to the

HON. R. B. BENNETT

The Conservative leader in his speech, acclaimed from every corner of the auditorum summarized as follows his platform for the coming election:

(1) We pledge ourselves to a policy of protection for Canadians in the development of our national resources, our agricultural and industrial life, and our consumers from exploitation.

(2) We pledge ourselves to foster and develop agriculture and the livestock and dairy industries now so badly neglected.

(3) We pledge ourselves to the stabilization of economic conditions, and to continuity of trade and freedom from the manipulation of home and foreign tariffs.

(4) We pledge ourselves to the development of inter-provincial trade, and of a Canadian fuel policy, and development of a foreign market.

(5) We pledge ourselves to the improvement of the whole scheme of Canada transportation northward by the completion of the Hudson Bay route, and the construction of such branches as may be necessary to render it most readily available to every part of Canada: to the Pacific slope by a Peace River outlet, and east and west by the development of the St. Lawrence waterways. And we pledge ourselves to aid existing tariff channels and to increase port facilities on the Great Lakes, Hudson Bay and the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, and to the establishment of a national highway system. (Applause).

(6) We pledge ourselves to foster and support a plan for great Empire trade and based on mutuate advantage.

(7) We pledge ourselves to a national Old Age Pension scheme.

(8) We pledge ourselves to such compensation adjustments as will ensure the benefit of the above policies to every part of Canada.

In emphatic terms, Mr. Bennett denied a report that the identity of the Canadian National railways might not be preserved if the Conservative party were returned to power. Unequivocally, the opposition chieftain pledged his party to the preservation of the Canadian National railways. He went further and asked that his resignation be demanded the moment any sign might portend the breaking of his pledge given tonight.

COMPETITION EVER

"Amalgamation never, competition, ever, that is the policy I shall follow," the Conservative leader asserted in no uncertain tones. He categoried as "cowardly and untrue" the "tittle-tattle" in the Canadian National railway shops that he would not give the National lines a chance if given control of the government of this country.

"I haven't a dollar in the Canadian Pacific railway—good, bad or indifferent," Mr. Bennett heatedly exclaimed in further denial of a rumor that he would turn the National road over the Canadian Pacific railway to swell his dividends.

Warmly continuing, the opposition chieftain stated that in keeping with a promise he had made three years ago when selected to lead his party, he had divested himself of all securities, stocks and debentures of the Canadian Pacific railway before he entered into his

Will Circulate Street Lighting Petitions at Trail City

OTHER PLANS ARE LAID OVER TILL OUTCOME KNOWN

To Secure Signatures in Business Section and Riverside

SECOND PETITION RECEIVED, GULCH

Council Divided on Plans; Second Bylaw Being Prepared

TRAIL, B. C., June 9.—Trail's ornamental street lighting was a little closer to being a reality, following a lengthy debate on the subject at city council meeting tonight.

D. H. Bailey, assistant engineer, is to go through the business section and along Riverside and secure signatures to a petition to have the work carried out under the local improvement plan. This action was precipitated by a second petition from the Rossland avenue district for the carrying out of the work under local improvement, the property owner paying 90 per cent of the cost and the city 10 per cent.

ORIGINAL PLAN

Originally the street lighting was to be done on the local improvement plan, a petition, fully representative, being presented from the Rossland avenue district. This plan was dropped and a bylaw which would have given the city power to borrow the money needed for street lighting, was submitted to the ratepayers and was defeated. A second bylaw was being prepared when a new plan of lighting was introduced and the bylaw was laid over for a time. Now the new plan joins the bylaw on the table pending the outcome of petitions for carrying out the program under local improvement.

DELEGATION WAITS ON COUNCIL

A delegation consisting of Joe Wolfe and John Herrick, representing ratepayers in the Gulch, waited on the council tonight. A large delegation had intended to attend the meeting, but Alderman Bruno Lerose prevailed upon it to send only representatives.

Alderman Lerose and Mr. Wolfe stated that so much delay in going ahead with the lighting program made those concerned feel that if immediate action was not taken, they would not get ornamental street lighting at all.

COUNCIL DIVIDED

The council was divided in opinion but Mayor Milligan pointed out that if a petition with the signatures of a sufficient majority of property owners was presented the council could do nothing but put it through.

The mayor also stated that if this street lighting was done on the local improvement plan, he would be opposed, as long as he was in the chair, to doing any future ornamental street lighting under any other plan. Alderman Burgess felt at first that this was a prejudiced attitude to take, but when it was pointed out that a precedent would be set, he did not feel so strongly against it.

The mayor stated during the discussion that if all property owners in the city were as good citizens as those in the Gulch, there would be no need of a petition to enable the ornamental street lighting plan to be carried out.

HOUSE ACCOUNT LEDGER MISSING

Trial of Solloway and Mills Continues; Ledger Lost, Vancouver Branch

CALGARY, June 9—After a list of short position in Alberta Pacific Consolidated stock on dates within the past two years had been submitted, and cross-examination of employees of Solloway Mills & Co., Ltd., failed to locate the house account ledgers of the Vancouver branch of the company, A. A. McGillivray, K.C., senior defence counsel, began his cross-examination of Kenneth Morrison, chartered accountant, in the conspiracy trial of I. W. C. Solloway and J. H. Mills, heads of the firm, Monday afternoon.

A. McLeod Sinclair, K.C., crown lawyer, told his lordship, Mr. Justice W. C. Ives, following the noon adjournment, that he was endeavoring to locate the house account ledgers of the Vancouver branch of the company prior to October 31, 1929, before continuing with Mr. Morrison.

If your new evening ensemble has long fringe on the skirt and wears a cape with fringe border it is very, very smart indeed.

ELECTRICAL WORK TENDERS GO OVER ADJOURNED MEET

Of Four Sets of Tenders in, Only Post-Holes Ones Get Action

TENDERS ON POLES ARE UNSATISFACTORY

Vic Anderson to Dig Nearlly 900 Holes at $2.90 Per Hole

Tenders were opened by the city council last night for both material and labor in connection with the new electrical distributing system in the city and other electrical projects, under the $75,000 power bylaw, but only the post-hole contract was awarded.

In the case of the electrical material, only one concern named a bulk figure, and these tenders were referred to City Electrical Engineer W. D. Fleet and City Clerk W. E. Wasson to work out, and report at an adjourned meeting of the council tomorrow night.

Prices quoted on poles by the three tenderers participating were not considered satisfactory, and it is intended to seek further offers. The same applies to the tenders for transporting the poles within the city to wanted locations.

MANY AFTER POST-HOLES

Only in the matter of the post-holes did the council award a contract, Victor Anderson being the successful tenderer at $2.90 per post-hole, the tenderer furnishing and powder required for blasting, but the city furnishing all tools. There were eight tenderers for this work, Eric Anderson and C. Langlia each offering to do the work at $3, while T. W. Waters & Co. put in at $4.18, Nels Bystrom at $4.40, B. McCreight at $4.75, and W. A. Smith at $5.

Mike Dubec tendered at $1.75, but as he departed from the specifications and stipulated that the city must furnish the powder, he was ruled out.

There are 806 ordinary post-holes to be dug, and enough anchor holes to bring the number nearly up to 900.

PROTEST AGAINST PLAN OF SEWER, TRAIL HOSPITAL

Men State Main Street Sewer Can Not Go Through City; Informed It Does

TRAIL, B. C., June 9.—Trail received a protest against the city giving permission to empty sewage from the new hospital wing into Trail Creek culvert when A. McWhinnie and S. R. Darke waited on the city council tonight.

Mr. McWhinnie, spokesman, declared a cess pool at the mouth of Trail Creek would be at the rear doors of a number of houses. Others were compelled to make sewer connections, he said, why not the hospital?

Mayor A. A. Milligan stated it was planned to make Trail Creek culvert a main sewer line. The plans called for covering the creek mouth into the Columbia and to cover it completely.

Mr McWhinnie protested that a main sewer line could not run through the city. He was informed that the Spokane street line, now the main line, ran through the center of the city.

Without doubt the classiest and most finished soccer team to ever visit Victoria, the lads from the land of the thistle presented a brilliant performance against a team that was able to offer little or no opposition.

Hospital for Insane in Toronto Welcomes the Visiting Shriners

MR. SHAVER WANTS TRAIL TO RETURN WATER REVENUES

Or to Purchase His Water System in East Trail; Meet Again

TRAIL, B. C., June 9.—Asking the city to return to him revenue from certain sections of land served by his water supply or that the city should take over his system in East Trail, or that the city should again purchase water from him, G. S. Shaver had a long discussion with the city tonight, claiming that cutting off his mains from the city's East Trail system had taken away all his revenue. He said he entered into the agreement with the city on the understanding that his system would be purchased by the city.

Members of the council pointed out the Shaver system was cut off at six months notice as fixed by the agreement.

Mayor A. A. Milligan felt that nothing in the Shaver system, except the water rights was of value to the city.

City Engineer S. S. McDiarmid stated he had always been anxious to obtain the system, because ultimately it would be required for East Trail. It had been impossible to get together with Mr. Shaver on this.

City Clerk W. E. B. Monypenny declared no revenues could be returned.

It was proposed the matter should be taken up at a special meeting.

MORE BLEACHERS FOR FESTIVITIES OF DOMINION DAY

Council Grants Request of Bugle Band; Canvass for Tents

At the request of a deputation from the Canadian Legion Bugle band, the city council last night instructed City Engineer B. C. Afleck to make alterations at the fair grounds as desired by the band, up to an outlay of $100, in preparation for the Dominion day celebration, under the direction of the band.

The alterations will include removing the platform, which now screens the finish line on the running track from view of part of the bleachers, and converting it into additional bleachers, the present bleachers having seating accommodation for about 300. Temporary bleachers will also be erected, using sidewalk lumber, which later will fulfil its destination under foot.

Bandmaster Fred Hartwig, who spoke for the deputation, stated that in order to be protected in case of bad weather, members of the band would canvass the town to secure the loan of tents and tarpaulins which would be ready for use if needed.

The other members of the deputation were G. W. Benwell, D. Wade and H. H. Pitts.

ASKS RECONSIDER EXCHANGE OF LOTS, TRAIL GRAVEL PIT

TRAIL, B. C., June 9.—C. R. Walker tonight asked the city either to move a sidewalk encroaching on his land on Binns street, so that he might build, or that the city should reconsider his offer to exchange the land for the old gravel pit on Glover Hill. He claimed his land was more valuable.

Mayor A. A. Milligan and Alderman F. J. Wyatt, indorsed by other members of the council, disagreed and suggested he should bid on the gravel pit lots.

Mr. Walker suggested difficulties might develop with the lots.

The council will look over the ground.

CITY FINDS IT CAN'T FINANCE ELECTRIC DEALS

City Solicitor Renders an Opinion Against Plan

"Referring to the communication of Guy's Electric Store and other electric dealers to the mayor dated May 19, 1930, I am of opinion that the city has not the power to finance these contracts as proposed," wrote James O'Shea, K.C., city solicitor, in an opinion that was read before the city council Monday night.

"While this is a very common practice with companies or businesses established for this purpose the Municipal act does not give the city the right to exercise any such power," he concluded.

Four electrical dealers who joined in petitioning the council to consider financing purchase by householders of heavy household electrial equipment, such as water heaters and electric ranges, on a 10 per cent financing charge after the customer paid an initial 25 per cent, will be informed of the city solicitor's opinion, by which the council must be guided.

which appears on this page, is being run for the convenience of the many hundreds of tourists served by The Daily News who, every year during the summer months, leave to spend their vacations in the important cities and at the various tourist resorts in western Canada and the United States. And who are naturally anxious to know the names of the important places to visit while holidaying there.

These tourists, who form a very large percentage of the 42,000 people living in the Nelson and Kootenay territory covered by The Daily News, spend their vacations in this way every year, and the Guide, which will be appearing in The News every day during the months of June, July, August and September, and which will contain information regarding the popular Canadian and American tourist resorts and the names of the hotels, restaurants, garages, and places of amusement in each of the important cities, will aid them greatly in planning a happy and enjoyable vacation.

Advertisers wishing to reach these tourists through THE NELSON DAILY NEWS TOURIST GUIDE may have rates on application.

Lack of Understanding More Noticeable Among Smaller Growers

CHERRIES, APPLES ARE SINGLED OUT

Committee of Control Brings Growers Respectable Prices

The following article has been written for the Nelson Daily News by the chairman of the Interior Fruit and Vegetable Committee of Direction.

Although the interior tree fruit and vegetable committee of direction has been operating for three years past, and although in 1929 it maintained representatives in the Nelson, Creston, Arrow lakes and Grand Forks districts, there appears to be still a certain amount of misunderstanding regarding its functions and service. This probably arises to some degree from the scattered nature of the orchards in West Kootenay, though it is also somewhat surprising, considering that "The Nelson Daily News" has carried items of information respecting the interior committee since 1927. The lack of understanding is more noticeable among small grower-shippers who have the feeling, in certain cases, that the interior committee exists merely for the purpose of hampering them and protecting the large shipper.

APPLES, CHERRIES

Let us examine the situation with respect to the production in the interior of the two main crops which affect the Kootenay district—apples and cherries.

In the former, the figures of the horticultural department of the province are complete up to and including 1928 when there were produced 4,546,121 boxes in the interior. Of these 4,313,396 were shipped as "boxed apples", and 232,725 were "manufactured". (Bulk apples and manufactured apples were quoted in tons in the report are here reduced to boxes at 40 lbs. to the box).

In 1928 the Kootenay and Boundary districts had 363,565 boxes shipped and 9,748 "manufactured", or about 8½ per cent of the first quantity quoted and 4 per cent of the second.

Leaving "manufactured" apples out of consideration, what became of the 4,300,000 boxes of apples shipped as "boxed apples"? 3,087,000 were reported to the interior committee as sold in Canada elsewhere than in districts of production, and were disposed of under regulations of the committee.

Of the remainder, approximately 1,000,000 boxes were exported from the Dominion were not under control of the committee. The rest presumably were disposed of in the producing districts.

Even a brief perusal of the foregoing figures will show that under existing marketing conditions if approximately one quarter of the apple crop were not exported the Canadian market would be oversupplied and the results would be disastrous to all growers, Okanagan and Kootenay alike. This contingency is avoided by some organizations and some growers taking the risks of the export market, which are considerable at all times.

CHERRY SITUATION

Turning now to cherries, the horticultural department gives the total production for 1927 as 95,051 and 1928, 120, 382. Of these, the Kootenay shipped 19,811 fresh and "manufactured" 507 in 1927. It shipped 29,161 and "manufactured" 3,819 in 1928. The figures as reported to the interior committee as sold in 1927 were 41,359 boxes, in 1928, 75,657 boxes and in 1929, 106,138 boxes. As the committee has no oversight of manufactured products its figures deal entirely with shipments of fresh fruits. The production of the Kootenay appears to run between 20 and 30 per cent of the whole.

The interior committee of direction was brought into being in 1927 in the interests of the whole interior fruit and vegetable industry and for the purpose, among others, of effecting internal stabilization. It is not apparent from the foregoing figures that if there were no such influence at work, either voluntary or legal, the small shipper would be entirely at the mercy of the larger concerns. The latter would only have to swing a small proportion of their extra tonnage into the Canadian markets to demoralize them utterly. As things are now, they are restrained from sending more to the domestic market than it can normally consume. Because of this the small shipper has found a fairly receptive market for his production, particularly as in many instances he seeks to disregard entirely sharing in the export market, which alone—so far at least as apples are concerned—permits reasonable prices on the domestic market.

It is human nature to wish to have the "other fellow" controlled in order that one's own produce may have free action but the Produce Marketing act contemplates no preferences.

CREATED TO HELP

The interior committee of direction, created by that act, exists to help and not to hinder and where any grower is in doubt as to how its activities affect him it is his duty to make proper inquiries, and to enlighten himself. Ignorance of the law is never accepted as an excuse in court and it is less necessary when full details as to the effect of the act upon any grower can be had at the cost of a two cent stamp upon a letter addressed to the interior committee of direction, Kelowna, British Columbia.

DAUGHTER'S SERENADER DUCKS PAPA'S BULLETS

CHICAGO, June 9.—If the strains of martial music can awaken the spirit of patriotism on Memorial Day surely the melody of a love song can awaken love in the heart of a maid. So reasoned Harry Marona 18 years of age as he turned up his banjo early one morning and stationed himself beneath the window of Miss Jennie Marello. A serenade was wafted into the Marello home. Whatever effect the music had on Jeannie is not known but the effect on her father, Joseph Marello was instantaneous and militant.

He grabbed his revolver and quickly decided to put an end to the serenading. Out the front door he darted at Marona. Harry dropped his banjo and fled, pursued by Marello, firing as he ran. Marona darted into a police station. The police started a search for Marello and Harry hunted about the neighborhood for his lost banjo.

MORE FREEDOM FOR TOTS IF THEY ARE TO ESCAPE THE COMPLEX OF INFERIORITY

Such Is Urge of Hygiene Lecturer Discussing Children

If the baby wants to create an uproar by banging the table with a spoon—just let it.

This advice was offered by Dr. J. Reaney, Lecturer in Hygiene.

The doctor said the noise of the banging which attracted the child was the very thing which irritated grow-ups, but to take away the spoon and substitute something which did not make a noise was bad for the child.

If a baby puts out its hands to take a piece of live coal it should, of course, be stopped, but it must be given something of a bright red color in place of the coal. All experiments of little children—such as turning on gas taps and the like—should be given plenty of scope.

The clumsy person sprang from the child who by some means had been thwarted during its early experimental years.

CAUSE OF CLUMSINESS IN ADULTS

"We all know the person who comes into a room and trips over something and then goes to the table and knocks something over, namely, the clumsy person. Well, the clumsy person springs from the child who by some means has been thwarted during its early experimental years."

There are four definite play periods in the development of a child", said Dr. Reaney, "and the first, which lasts from birth till five or six years, is the experimental, imitative and imaginative. The danger with our nation is that we do not have enough imaginative play among our children. It is the one thing which stops morbidness which, as a nation, I think, we suffer from a great deal."

The great danger of the present time is over-stimulation of the emotions of the very young child, especially by taking it to the cinema, he declared. He did not believe in the cinema for young children.

AN EFFECT OF THE WAR

The effect of the war on children who are now of school age was referred to by Dr. William Moodie, speaking at the London Educational conference.

"We are at a time," he said, "when the war baby fills the upper classes of our schools.

"The war has left little mark on the children as regards the physical aspect. But mothers of the war were frequently at work, frequently underfed and frequently nervous and worried about husbands and brothers at the front. Children under these circumstances must tend to suffer temperamentally. Such children become over-active, restless and distractable. They are eager to tackle problems without pre-vision or judgment. They don't know their chances of success. Difficulties are also caused for the modern child by the ambitions of his parents. Children developed an inferiority complex as the result of their parents' "jealousy of other children".

MODERN "SHORT-BOIL" METHOD

for making Jams and Jellies

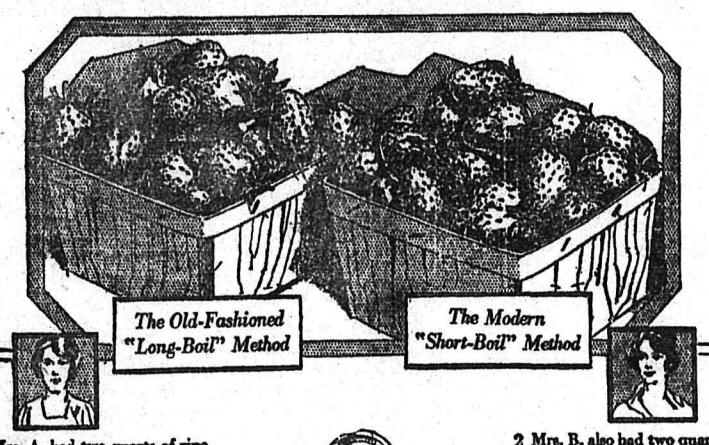
Saves time and money—Insures perfect jams and jellies

THE Certo "short-boil" method is now accepted as the most efficient, economical way to make all your jams and jellies. Millions of women use it!

Certo is a pure fruit product—just the natural jellying substance extracted from fruit in which it is abundant.

With Certo, anyone can make perfect jams and jellies, quickly and easily, from any fruit or fruit juice, even those delicious fruits that never before would jell.

The experiences of Mrs. A. and Mrs. B., as outlined on this page, make clear not only the genuine economy, but also the wonderful simplicity and ease of the Certo method.



1 Mrs. A. had two quarts of ripe strawberries to be made into jam. After hulling her berries, she was ready to start making her jam at nine o'clock.

2 Mrs. B. also had two quarts of ripe strawberries and she was ready to start her jam-making at nine o'clock, too.

3 The dark band on the kettle indicates the amount of fruit and juice from Mrs. A.'s berries (4 cups). The strawberries cost 20c. a quart—2 quarts 40c.

4 Mrs. B., using the same quantity of strawberries, (2 quarts), got the same amount of fruit and juice (4 cups). Her berries also cost 20c. a quart—2 quarts 40c.

5 Mrs. A. added 2 lbs. of sugar to her berries. The sugar cost 7c. per lb.—2 lbs. 14c.

6 Mrs. B. added 3 lbs. of sugar to her berries. The sugar cost 7c. per lb.—3 lbs. 21c. (The next step explains this larger quantity of sugar.)

7 Following the old "pound for pound" standard recipe, Mrs. A. had to boil the fruit and sugar about 30 minutes before the jam thickened to the desired consistency. This long boiling evaporated one-half of the original weight of the berries and carried off most of the natural fresh fruit flavour as fragrant steam.

8 Mrs. B. simply brought her fruit and sugar to a tumbling boil, and boiled them for a few minutes, then added ½ bottle (½ cup) of Certo. The fruit flavor and colour were saved and the juice didn't boil away. That is why extra sugar was needed—simply to jell the juice that would have boiled away by the "long boil" method. The jam will contain no more sugar per glass than by the old method.

9 When Mrs. A. poured her jam she found she had 6 8-oz. glasses.
The cost: Berries.....40c.
Sugar.....14c.
6)54c.
9c.
The 6 glasses cost an average of 9c. per glass.

10 Mrs. B. got 10 8-oz. glasses of jam from her berries.
The cost: Berries.....40c.
Sugar.....21c.
½ bottle Certo @ 35c.....18c.
10)79c.
7 9/10c

11 It took Mrs. A. 45 minutes to make her 6 glasses. It was nine forty-five when she finished.

12 Mrs. B.'s 10 glasses of jam were made in 15 minutes. She was all through at nine fifteen.

This same comparison holds true with all fruits. With Certo, by saving the fruit juice formerly boiled away, you get half again more jam or jelly from a given amount of fruit. You save the delicate colour, the delicious flavour of the fresh fruit. You save time, effort, and fuel, and get a perfect jam or jelly every time at a saving of from one to three cents per glass.

ATHLETICS AND THE GAME OE LIFE

The friends thou hast, and their adoption tried,
Grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steel.

—Shakespeare: Hamlet.

From 60 to 50 years ago 10 boys were passing through Montreal schools in successive ranks, friends and allies, two squads of five brothers each.

A long time afterwards, when indeed the 10 averaged much past middle age, they happened to get together in a golf game at a Montreal club. They decided then to have an annual golf match every summer, an annual curling match every winter, family versus family.

These annual encounters, five brothers on each side, duly proceeded wthout a break for twenty-five years afterward, each meet followed by a dinner, at which a number of friends joined in.

The matches were abandoned last year, death having stepped into the game.

Before that time the combined ages of the 10 brothers numbered more than six hundred years.

The morals begin in this way: All these ten were keenly addicted to athletic sport in their early days—indeed, in their later days, too. All of the ten figured in Canadian amateur championship sport. They contributed at one time or another members to teams or crews holding Canadian championships in lacrosse, football, hockey, rowing and paddling, and they held several individual athletic championships of Canada.

A passion for athletic sport in youth and later does not hurt health. All these ten have had long and vigorous lives; all save two have vigorous life still.

A passion for athletics does not interfere with business success. All ten have been successful business men.

A love for athletics does not knock out public spirit. Several of the ten have given exceptional public service at their own expense.

A love for athletics does not interfere with domestic happiness. All ten have found that.

In a love for athletic sport splendid friends are found, who last through life.

Five of the brothers were named Hodgson; five, were Ross.

COST OF GOVERNMENT

The most interesting item in the estimates toward keeping the machinery of Parliament moving is that of salaries, says an eastern publication. A total of $390,000 is provided for the indemnities of members of Parliament while $384,000 is required for members of the Senate.

Travelling allowances for members of the Commons require $14,000, while the Senators, not being so numerous, require less—$5000.

The cost of printing for the session is $70,000. This also includes printing, paper and binding. The clerical staff of the House of Commons are paid a total of $257,160, while that of the Upper House comes to $170,345, Committees of the House of Commons—where most of the legislative work is done—cost the country $111,950, including the salaries of clerical assistants. Included in the costs of legislation is that of publishing the debates of the House of Commons, which requires $60,000. The service of stenography and typewriting for the use of members of the Commons, whch is provided, costs $55,000.

These figures are decidedly interesting, and if the cost of the various Legislatures were added to them, they would show that the people pay a pretty heavy annual bill for being governed.

GETTING RID OF RHEUMATISM

Although rheumatism is as old as history, nevertheless it is still one of the ailments that has not been overcome, as have malaria, smallpox and other ailments.

As a matter of fact it is only during the past twenty five of thirty years that its cause or causes have been discovered.

Almost any form of infection throughout the body seems to have the effect of causing these changes in the joints which we call rheumatism; from mouth and teeth, throat and tonsils, the sinuses in the face, the middle ear, the appendix, the large intestine, the gland bladder and other organs, have all had a share in causing rheumatism.

Figures prove that from 60 to 75 per cent of the cases can be traced to teeth, tonsils and sinuses.

Further, it has been found that while infected teeth may be partly a cause in some cases, there may be an infected gall bladder or sinuses contributing to the cause.

And the treatment?

The first thought is to try and find out the cause or causes. It is not of much use to remove the tonsils or drain the sinus if there are one or more infected teeth left in the mouth. Any and every possible source of infection should be investigated if you are to rid the patient of this dread ailment, and prevent crippling.

And it isn't sufficient to get rid of the cause, important as that is you must try and get the products out of the system. As mentioned before, getting rid of infected cloing down a factory, no more goods are being manufactured, but a lot of goods are still in the factory on the shelves.

And the shelves in your body mean the glands the large intestine, the joints and other parts where organisms can congregate.

Now to get rid of manufactured goods from shelves an effort is made by the organization to use every means possible.

To get rid of these products from the body Nature has provided four effective channels.

First, the intestines, which should be kept active; small doses of epsom salts should be taken daily.

Second, the kidneys, which should be kept active by drinking plenty of water.

Third, the skin, which should be kept active by hot baths or hot packs to induce sweating.

Fourth, the lungs, which should be given an opportunity of breathing the fresh air in a well ventilated room.

Thus if you get rid of the cause of rheumatism by removing the infection, and get rid of the products by stimulating the organs that throw them out of the body, you are treating rheumatism in a successful and common sense manner.

They Are Both Girls

This photograph, taken at the Stamford Bridge girls' track meet in England, recently, shows a striking contrast in coiffures of two of the fair competitors. The young lady on the left looks like a boy, and is proud of it while her companion, with the many tresses, is wholly feminine, and is also proud of it. Anyway, it's a track meet, not a beauty contest, they say.

The Lighter Side

THE SACRIFICE

In piping times of peace now here,
With naval parity our goal,
No rider rides like Paul Revere
Or acts in Laura Secord's role;
Nor does a Hampden raise an axe
To cut away the income tax.

We're growing soft, yet it is nice
To notice as we niddle through,
That patriotic sacrifice
Is possible in our day, too,
And men of the heroic mould
May suffer with the great of old.

Let those who for big moments pine
When spirits flame into the heights
Take not of him who stood in line
To claim his democratic rights;
The statesman's hand he reached and shook,
Regardless of his pocketbook.

Made His Trip

The traveller looked at the long list of calls and the numerous trains he had to catch during the week's trip.

"I don't mind getting up early," he said, "but you've not even left time for meals."

"You can eat on the trains," replied the manager. "You can't waste time with all those calls to make."

The traveller departed and was again on the mat when the week was over.

"Well," said the manager, "how many orders?"

The traveller hesitated for a moment and then said cheerfully:

"Oh, I haven't got any orders, sir, but I caught all those trains."

TOLD IN RIME

APPLES

Here in the loft
Of the mind they lie,
Seasoned apples
Of memory.

Spring and summer
Watched them grow—
Watched the sun in them
Redden and glow.

Autumn came
And the slow dews fell:
Those apples were ready
And sound as a bell.

Off they were carted
And set in store,
Here where they slumber
The hay-strewn floor.

And hardly a finger
Of light shows through,
To give them again
Their old bright hue . . .

Oh, why is there no one
Climbing the stair,
To sniff their sweetness
And let in the air?

Oh, why is there no-one
Sorting them over,
To carry the best of them
Home, to his lover?

ANSWERS TO INQUIRES

H. A.: "We have an old closet in our living room which we intend to have made into a bookshelf by taking off the door, using wallboard to lessen the depth o. the closet, and then putting in shelves under an arched fan insertion—for our architecture is Colonial. Would you suggest curtains or French door?"

Answer: French doors would be out of keeping with the period, yet they keep the books clean! There is a charm about open bookshelves, however, and I should decide upon an uncertained bookcase without the door if I were planing an improvement in my home.

Your Constant Reader: "We ate a delicious berry mousse at the home of a friend who has an electric refrigerator. Is this dessert very difficult to make. We plan to buy an iceless refrigerator and I wondered if you had this recipe."

Answer: On the contrary, Berry Mousse is very simple to make—either with an iceless refrigerator or in a pail sunk into a larger pail and surrounded with cracked ice and rock salt mixed in equal parts. To make it, beat one-half pint of sweet heavy cream till stiff and then add two tablespoons either canned or freshly stewed and sweetened or berries of any sort. Turn into a tray of the iceless refrigerator to remain untouched four hours—or freeze four hours in the small, ice-surrounded pail as above described. Of course the longer it freezes the firmer it will become, but four hours will produce a soft, creamy mass to pile into sherbet glasses lined with halved ladyfingers.

BUSINESS MAN'S GRATITUDE

Says Kruschen has kept him fit for sixteen years

RHEUMATISM BANISHED

Here is a business man who, having read letters in the papers from other people regarding Kruschen Salts, wants to know if anyone can beat his own experience. It is worth telling, so we give it here—just as he wrote it down.

"In 1912 I had a severe attack of Rheumatic Fever. After six weeks my doctor and a specialist gave up hope of my recovery. A friend suggested Kruschen if I wanted to keep Rheumatism away in future. I bought my first bottle, and kept up the 'little daily dose' until the second year of the War, when I thought my system was thoroughly rid of the acid. I stopped taking it. Within a fortnight I was almost double with Rheumatic pains again (showing that I needed to counteract the acid in my system). Back I flew to Kruschen, and from that day to this I never missed a dose first thing every morning. The result? Never the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain. Being a traveller I am out in all weathers, and I can claim to work hard and fast, and to retain my constant buoyant spirits, thanks to my old friend Kruschen, who has, in very truth, 'kept me going' for 16 years."

If you wonder how Kruschen can achieve all that this enthusiastic user claims for it, you should first of all realise that Kruschen is a perfect blend of 6 natural mineral salts which we all need every day (1) to help keep liver and kidneys to perform their natural duties in a natural way; (2) to clear away gently but completely all the poisonous waste matter that has been clogging the system; (3) to purify the blood. The analysis is on the bottle. There are Sodium and Magnesium to stimulate the organs of elimination. To feed your tissues, there's the tonic Potassium. Each "little daily dose" is a full day's supply of these six vital salts; just the right amount to keep your body and mind tuned up to a pitch of real constant fitness.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle, and is manufactured by E. Griffiths Hughes, Ltd., Manchester, Eng. (Established 1756). Importers: McGillivray Bros., Ltd., Toronto.

To make it more digestible ... this delicious food is Shot from Guns

How 125 million explosions in every grain makes Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice as nourishing as hot cooked cereals

TASTE these deliciously flavory Puffed Grains! ... They are the invention of Professor Anderson. He seals grains of wheat and rice in huge bronze guns. Revolves the guns in a fiery furnace. When the guns are fired, 125 million explosions occur in each grain.

This opens every tiny food cell. It makes Puffed Grains as completely digestible as though they had been cooked for hours. Hence they become virtually as nourishing as hot cooked cereals.

And how crisp ... crunchy ... delectably good to eat Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice are. They melt in your mouth. They give just the splendid grain nourishment everyone needs. Serve them for breakfast, luncheon and supper. Toast them with butter to make a new delicious kind of popcorn. Your grocer has Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice. The Quaker Oats Company.

HEAVY BALLOTING INDICATED FOR ALBERTA POLLS

United Farmers Party Takes to Field on June 19

EDMONTON, Alberta, June 9.—(By The Canadian Press)—Rulers of Alberta for almost a decade, the United Farmers party takes to the field of political battle June 19 in quest of renewed allegiance. In the provincial fray no quarter will be asked or given as followers of Premier L. E. Brownlee struggle to hold their throne. Acclamations will be rare in the joust for ballots.

Premier Brownlee himself demands unreserved approval from the voters; he is no disciple of the creed that a strong opposition brings better government. In campaign speeches he has contended that the Farmer Party's power—holding 43 of 60 legislature seats—has contributed toward the government's ability to protect and serve the province.

But Liberal, Conservative, Labor and other groups have rallied to the fight with lists of candidates which aggregate almost duoble the Farmer Party's total. The Communist party has made its appearance in the provincial field as one of the minor groups seeking representation; at least three candidates will carry the red banner.

At dissolution standing of the Legislature was as follows:

United Farmers	43
Liberals	7
Conservatives	6
Labor	4
Total	60

The next legislature offers seats to 63 members, due to a re-distribution of representation at the last session. Calgary and Edmonton, the province's only multi-member ridings, each alter their number of representatives from five to six. In addition, rural constituencies are shifted with the resulting increase in out-of-town seats by one.

Both Liberal and Conservative groups boast newly-appointed leaders. A. A. McGillivray, former Conservative chieftain, gave way late in 1929 to D. M. Duggan, former mayor of Edmonton. Early this year J. T. Shaw handed over to Liberal leaderhip to Mayor J. W. McDonald of MacLeod, Mr. McDonald has never served in the legislature, but Mr. Duggan has been member since 1926.

Mr. Brownlee made his appearance in the Farmer party in 1921 when he was selected as attorney-general in the first U. F. A. cabinet after Hon. Herbert Greenfield's new-formed party put an end to 16 years of Liberal adminstration. After Mr. Greenfield's retirement, before the 1926 election—the second triumph of the Farmer party—Mr. Brownlee was named premier.

Though the United Farmers' political organization claims independence of the widespread co-operative body, United Farmers of Alberta, the two movements are linked by a kindred feeling. Before becoming premier, Mr. Brownlee was a Calgary lawyer associated with the Alberta wheat pool, a direct offshoot of the United Farmers of Alberta economic unit.

Every member of the Brownlee cabinet is seeking reelection. The premier will run again in Ponoka; Hon. George Hoadley, minister of health, and agriculture, is contesting High River-Okotoks; Hon. J. F. Lymburn, attorney-general, asks reelection for Edmonton; Hon. R. G. Reid, provincial treasurer, for Vermillion; Hon. O. L. McPherson, minister of public works, for Little Bow; Hon. Perren E. Baker, minister of education, for Cypress; Hon. V. W. Smith, minister of railways, for Camrose; Hon. Irene Parlby, minister without portfolio, for Lacombe.

An extra touch of speculation is added to the campaign by the fact that membership in the cities, where proportional representation governs balloting, is now increased. It is pointed out that while the Farmers' party obtained 43 of 60 seats in the 1926 election, they polled but 71,967 out of a total of 175,137 votes.

In seeking to return to power the government party refers to its record in obtaining control of the natural resources, in rehabilitating the provincial telephone system, and in disposing of the government-owned northern Alberta railways. Opposition charges claim the government has been extravagant, has increased unduly the provincial debt, and represents a group rather than the province as a whole.

PIONEER OF C.P.R. PASSES

John F. MacKaracher Was Resident of Nelson and Boundary

Another of the pioneer railwaymen of the west has gone in the passing at Vancouver on Tuesday, morning, June 3, of John F. MacKaracher, veteran C. P. R. locomotive engineer, aged 70.

Mr. MacKaracher was one of the early residents of Kamloops and worked for several years east and west from there after which he went to the Boundary and Nelson divisions.

On the retirement of W. F. Van Antwerp from the S. & O. run about 10 years ago Mr. MacKaracher took it over and remained there until he also was superannuated some four or five years ago, when he joined his family in Vancouver.

For the past three years he had been confined to his home by illness. Deceased had been a member of the Kamloops Knights of Pythias lodge for over 35 years. He is survived by his wife and daughter.

While running out of Nelson Mr. McKaracher resided on Ward street and later in Fairview on Third street.

Paris reports that the length of evening gloves should depend on the length of the arm they partially cover, according to one of the leading French glove makers, who says that two-thirds of the arm length is the correct proportion for long gloves of light color, while dark shades should be a little shorter, ending an inch or so above the elbow.

British Columbia Strawberries Are in Demand in the East

PROSPECTS GOOD ON THE PRAIRIES FOR B. C. STRAWS

Calgary Market on Tomatoes, Heavy Local Supplies

BING CHERRIES COME IN FROM WASHINGTON

Prices Down; Strawberries Sell at $4 Crate, Vancouver

"We are advised that the free detention of 48 hours allowed U. S. refrigerator cars for unloading, reconsignment and so on, in Canada, has been granted to Canadian owned cars, effective June 2," says.. a market news letter from the department of agriculture, Victoria, on agricultural products, under date of June 6. Formerly the detention time on Canadian owned cars was 24 hours.

Victoria—Carlot.. ..shipments.. ..of strawberries are expected to start from the Island on Monday or Tuesday for next week.

Press despatch from Markets Commissioner who is at present in Calgary: "Weather has turned warm. Wheat growth will be rapid abundance of moisture in the soil assures a good start. Lethbridge and local hothouse tomatoes are coming in heavy supply and competing against California field tomatoes. Cucumbers are dragging on sale and market over-supplied. Headlettuce is now arriving from Armstrong, 30 cases arrived to-day. American lettuce comes in cases containing about five dozen and sell at $5.50 per case. B. C. lettuce sells from $3.25 to $5.00 per case of from five to six dozen. Strawberries Lower Fraser points are arriving L. C. L. Carlot shipments expected from there over the week-end. The price for first cars will be about $5.00 delivered. A car of Hood River berries arrived yesterday which will likely be the last this year. Cauliflower is arriving from Vancouver and selling at $2.50 to $3.00 per dozen. Old potatoes are in plentiful supply."

WEATHER UNSETTLED

Vancouver—The weather has been rather unsettled during the greater part of the week, but at the time of writing has cleared considerably and is seasonably warm. Strawberries are down $1.00 from last weeks quotation but supplies are light and no trouble was encountered in disposing of arrivals at $4.00 per crate, indeed the demand was greater than the supply available. There are still a few imports but they are now very light. Bing cherries are now coming in from Washington points and it will only be a matter of a few days before the California Bings are displaced from this market by cherries from the neighboring state. Prices are also down on this fruit. Washington Bings selling at 25 cents per lb. Express shipments of Bings are now on the rail from Kennewick and will arrive this afternoon. A third straight carlot of California canteloupes is now in and also a straight carlot of watermelons, the first of the season. Canteloupes are selling, 36s and 45s at $5.25 to $5.50 per case. Local new potatoes are now in great supply and the price has fallen off about 1½c per lb. It is very doubtful if there will be any more imports from California this year as from now on the market will be dangerous. Hothouse tomatoes hold at $4.25 for No. 1, and for the time being the market is keeping fairly clear. Warmer weather will no doubt help the sale of this products. A carlot of California Red Onions is now on the market and also a shipment from Japan. Prices are up considerably, this product being scarce, California Reds selling at $3.15 per sack. Local carrots, beets and turnips are now on the market and from now on will make importations unnecessary. Local gooseberries are also available.

STRAWBERRIES ARRIVE

Calgary—Strawberries are arriving L. C. L. from B. C. Last week the market was short and on Friday 200 crates arrived from Hood River by express. The prospects for B. C. berries at prairie points are good. The market has weakened on tomatoes owing to fairly heavy local supplies. Another car of California lugs arrived June 6. Local spinach is now taking the place of Walla Walla. The market seems to be very short of asparagus at present and the small shipments from B. C. are having a ready sale at $2.75 per 18-lb crate. Shipments of gooseberries from Mission and Armstrong are now arriving and quoted at $2.25 per 4-basket crate and $2.50 per 24-pint crate. Local rhubarb is ready and B. C. stuff will fall away in demand. There is a good supply of fruits and vegetables on the market, almost all imported.

BUSINESS MORE ACTIVE

Winnipeg—The weather is showing some improvement over the previous week and business seems to be somewhat more active. The apple market is slow with stocks fairly light which is usual at this time of the year. A car of B. C. hothouse tomatoes was unloaded this morning and selling for $5.50 per 4-basket crate. Headlettuce is selling from $4.00 per crate, of four to five dozen. Local rhubarb is now supplying the market, bringing 3½ to 4 cents per lb. Texas tomatoes are somewhat lower in price, repacked lugs selling at $3.50 to $4.00 Missouri strawberries, in 24 quarts are selling at $9.00 per crate. Practically no change in prices of other commodities.

Regina—The weather most of the week was dry and windy. Considerable damage having been done to the crops by soil blowing but on Sunday we had a very heavy rain extending over most of the Province which will be a great help to the growing crops. Business continues fair. We received one straight car of B. C. rhubarb on Monday which opened up in good condition. The demand for vegetables continues good with a plentiful supply, principally imported. Local grown rhubarb is on the market and green onions and radishes are being supplied by the local green-houses. Some very choice B. C. hothmouse tomatoes and cucumbers are on the market. We are also receiving straight carlot shipments of southern field cucumbers. Missouri strawberries are over and Hood River berries are here. Apples are cleaning up; supplies consist principally of B. C. and Washington Winesaps. Onions from Texas are taking care of the demand.

MARKET FIRM

Seattle receipts increasing, market firm price $3.25 to $3.50 per crate. Canneries taking liberal supplies and paying growers 8½ cents per lb in the field. First cars of local cauliflower moving, growers getting $2.00 delivered at packing shed. Liberal supplies of Eastern Washington cherries on market, quality and color fair. Bings, 15 to 20 cents per lb; Anns, 8 to 12 cents; Tartarians, 7 to 10 cents. Hothouse tomato market weak with supplies heavy and demand fair, 10-lb crate No. 1, selling at $1.75 to $2.00 Best Texas repacked tomatoes selling at $3.00.

Douglas Cole, Canadian Trade Commissioner representing the West of England and Wales, who has been Victoria for the past week has left for a trip through the Fraser alley and Sumas districts with Hon. William Atkinson, Minister of Agriculture and W. Wallace Duncan, Director of Markets, looking into the growing of hops and tobacco.

Black and white are still most favored for evening by Parisians except that the season progresses, the fashion changes in degree with more white appearing and less black, while the white is always a snowy pure white and brighter reds are used for evening wraps and an occasional dress, the lighter blues are seen and some pink and light green.

PROTEST INCREASE IN WATER RATES NEAR CRANBROOK

CRANBROOK, B. C., June 9—At a meeting of outside water users held in the K. P. hall on Friday evening the matter of the proposed increased rates was discussed by those affected. At the present time the users of water oustide the city limits are paying a rate of one and a half times as much as city rate payers. An increase approximately 75 per cent has been proposed by the city council.

The contention of the council is that, taking Slaterville as an example an amount of $3000 was expended on the water system in three months time, the revenue accruing during that time being $1700. The difference was paid by rate payers inside the city. The contention of outside users is that the high costs of outside maintainance are caused by faulty construction.

As a result of the meeting a committee of 5, with W. Guthrie as secretary, was appointed to meet with the city council on the evening of June 10 to see whether or not an agreement agreeable to both sides can be reached.

UTAH COWS IN ARIZONA'S GRASS RAISE TAX ISSUE

FLAGSTONE, June 8—(AP)—The story of the man whose backyard garden raised prize-winning chickens on Thursday and is the guest ens for his neighbor being rewritten in the rugged grazing lands of Coconino county.

Coconino, home of the Grand Canyon and some of the roughest land that lies out-of-doors, also boasts some of the greenest pastures in the Kaibab Forest area adjacent to the unfenced Arizona-Utah boundary line. Each spring this grass lures Utah cattle across the State line, where they feed and fatten until the fall round-up.

"If those cows eat Arizona grass", Joseph G. Higginbothem, Coconino County Treasurer, argued, "their owners should pay Arizona taxes."

He dspatched Ed Jolly, deputy treasurer to the Kaibab county with a $5000 delinquent tax bill against Utah stockmen.

"If they don't pay," Joe said to Ed, "bring back enough cattle to balance Coconino's books.

Miss Irene Fulton Tells How Cuticura Healed Eczema

"Eczema started on my face in hard, red pimples which in a few days would break and then scale over. While it was in this scaly form my face would itch and burn, and the irritation prevented me from sleeping or getting any rest. The trouble lasted about four months.

"I used several remedies but they did not seem to help me. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they relieved the itching and burning, and in about five weeks I was completely healed, after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment." Bebe Daniels tells you how to be CAPTIVATING

"HOW to be captivating?" Bebe Daniels smiled a deprecating little smile as she considered my question. But when she began to speak her appealingly beautiful brown eyes were thoughtful.

And then I learned this lovely actress feels emphatically there's one thing has more to do with a girl's attractiveness than any other charm—a beautiful skin—clear, soft, smooth.

How alluring in any girl! How sure to win admiration! And to the screen star, Bebe Daniels earnestly explained, a skin of breathtaking loveliness is really essential!

"Only the girl with smooth skin," she said, "need not fear the relentless eye of the camera. For even the cleverest make-up will not suffice under the searching lens of the close-up.

"That is why," she went on seriously, "many girls lacking great beauty but possessing lovely skin have passed, on the road to fame, the woman with perfect features.

"Lux Toilet Soap is wonderful for keeping the skin smooth and lovely."

PEN GAME OF DISTRICT SOCCER GRANTED NELSON

Will Be Here on Saturday; Dispute With Trail Settled

For the sake of keeping district league soccer going, Trail football officials have dropped their request that the first game of the West Kootenay league be played in Trail, and the smelter city team will invade Nelson on Saturday for the opening game. Announcement of the settlement of the dispute over the scene of the opening game was made last night by A. Wallach, Nelson manager.

Mr. Wallach stated that Fred Webster, secretary of the Trail football association, had announced Trail's decision to come to Nelson. Nelson club was faced with a shortage of funds and the local team was unable to make the trip, without first having had a gate here.

The game will get under way at two o'clock with Jack Draper handling the whistle.

AN OLD CUSTOM

Following an annual custom which has been maintained for several years, F. Trubee Davison, Acting Secretary of War, received 51 baseballs and bats autographed by "Babe" Ruth, for presentation to the outstanding athletes in each of the 51 Citizens' Military Training Camps this Summer. The balls were donated by Colonel Jacob Ruppert of the New York Yankee Cub and the bats by a Louisville, Ky. firm.

BATTING ORDER

FIFTH PLACE—Fifth position is kind of a clean up hitter, a sort of secondary offense. You always station a good slugger there if you have one. Any batter will fit in sixth place, while seventh place is again a sort of clean-up position. You can not afford, however, to put too good a hitter in seventh place. If you do, the opposition is likely to pass him. Station your slower runners near the bottom of the list. They are good men to drive homers, but are likely to clog the bases. Tomorrow—conclusion.

SINGER GRATEFUL TO FERNANDEZ FOR KNOCKING HIM OUT

Being Stopped by Fiery Filipino Made Him Real Fighter

WAS FIRST TIME HE WENT BYE-BYE

Al Confident He Can Take Title Away From Sammy Mandell

It's no joke to take a knockout punch on the chin and practically every boxer in dread of the first time it is his fate to be wafted to slumberland by the blow of an opponent's fist. Yet Al Singer, the popular New York lightweight, believes that the first and only time he was ever K. O.'d was really the making of him as a fighter, says the Police Gazette. Singer was knocked out by the fiery Filipino, Ignacio Fernandez, about a year ago and then recently took a decision over Ignacio.

Singer was cocksure of the outcome of his return engagement with the tawny-skinned lad who fed him his first dose of fistic sleeping powders. He believed he would reverse the outcome, very probably stop Fernandez. Nevertheless he was grateful to Ignacio.

COST $1000, BUT WORTH IT

"It cost me not less than $1000 to keep Fernandez in New York for the bout," said Singer. "But he was well entitled to the money, as I owed him a present."

The foregoing is quoted from an article by Ed Van Every, boxing expert, in the New York Evening World. Van Every's story went on like this:

"'What do you owe him a present for?" I asked.

"'For knocking me out,' was the surprising answer.

"'You don't mean it?'

"'I sure do,' insisted Al. 'Since Fernandez knocked me out I've earned about $125,000, but what was worth more than the money is the fact that it was the making of me as a fighter, getting knocked out.'

"It was odd to hear the unconcerned way in which Singer spoke of his having been knocked out. And his explanations of what that knock-out did to him, and of its effect upon him, interested me very much.

TOUGHEST PART

"'The toughest part of coming back,' Al explained, 'was my next fight, which came two weeks later with Leo (Kid) Roy. A week after being put to sleep by Fernandez I was back in the gym. I was still in the air about myself, wondering if I could take it on the chin. I determined ti find out one way or another. I was working with a boy who was a good right hand puncher. He had been firing his right and missing and then suddenly I said to myself: "It's going to be either bad news or good news." And I stuck out my chin.

"'No sooner had I left the opening than I got belted—and how. I didn't even try to roll with the punch. I was jarred back on my heels, all right, but I stayed on my feet and shook off the punch. I didn't try to get even for that wallop. A few seconds later I stuck out my chin again. This time the punch was harder, but it bothered me even less than the first one. Well, I felt pretty good after taking that pair of smacks. If I hadn't taken them the way I did I guess I'd have gone right home and hung up my boxing gloves.

MENTAL HAZARD BOBS UP

"'The night of the fight with Roy I was full of confidence—that is until I came into the ring. Then I started to think. Taking it in the ring and taking it in the gym, I thought to myself, that's two different things. I was all nerves as the bell rang, and while I came through that fight with a quick knockout I realized that I had been overanxious. I was not altogether satisfied with myself, even though I had come back with a victory after having been K. O.'d.

"'Soon after I fought Augie Pisano, and that was the turning point. Pisano is a rough, tough battler. We fought ten rounds in Dexter Park. I didn't get much money, but for what that fight was worth to me I owed both the match-maker and my opponent money. The going was rough through ten rounds, but there was never a moment that I didn't feel sure of myself.

"'That is a great feeling for a fighter to have, that "feeling sure of myself". And I've got it. I realized this more than ever in my fight with Kid Chocolate. For all the importance there was to that match, and as great a fighter as that little negro is, there never was a moment that I did not feel I was his master. If he had tried as hard to make it a fight as I did it would have been a much better fight than it was, and I am confident that I would have beaten Chocolate that night.'

AS A HELP

"I suppose this 'sureness' has something to do with improved physical condition,' I suggested. 'You probbaly feel that you have grown stronger.'

"'Not exactly,' he said. 'The thing I mean is something more mental htan physical.'"

Singer is matched to box Sammy Mandell for the lightweight championship of the world on July 17, at the Yankee Stadium, New York.

The Bronx boy believes he has improved 75 per cent. since he fought his first 10-round bout on December 14, 1928, with Tony Canzoneri as his opponent. That ended in a draw, and because Tony gave Mandell a hard battle last year, Singer figures he can whip the champion. He believes he's just as fast and a harder puncher than Mandell, and will concentrate on science first and socking second when he opposes the "Rockford Sheik."

In the list of those entered for the Canadian marathon championship to be run in conjunction with the big track meet at Varsity, Toronto, appear the names of Frank and Alf. Roberts of the Monarch A. The boy usually leads pop home, but he has to run for it.

GARLAND URGES ROTARIANS BACK SPORT MOVEMENT

Shows Many Ways of Getting Good Contracts for Boys Work

CAN LEAVE MARK ON YOUNGER GENERATION

Address Is Based on the Deliberaton of Late Convention

A concrete recommendation that the Rotary club of Nelson should endeavor to "get more games going," of both the summer and the winter varieties, for the boys and girls of Nelson, was made yesterday by C. B. Garland, as a conclusion to a brilliant report on the "Boys Work" deliberations at the recent Rotary convention.

For some reason, Mr. Garland said, there seemed to be more need of boys work on the other side of the line than in Canada, possibly because of the large urban units on the other side, or because they were less well served with clubs of this nature.

Each club must decide whether it would center its effort for the boys on individuals who were subnormal and who were unlikely to ever be fully useful citizens, or on those who if they developed normally would become good citizens and return to society what they received from it.

SCHOOL CONTACTS

Next was the matter of how to do "boys work," said Mr. Garland. Unless Rotarians effected personal contact with the boys, they might as well drop the idea of boys work. Boys work, from the Rotarian viewpoint, was not the giving of a dollar—or of a million for that matter—but the giving of service. As the convention many felt they couldn't approach boys, as they didn't have a point of contact with them. How could that gulf be bridged? It took courage to make the approach, but there was no avoiding the step.

A scheme reported by one club was a campaign to get boys who were leaving school to return to class work and go on with their education. The club obtained from the principal the names of boys leaving, and addressed a letter to each such, advising him to go on with his schooling. Perhaps he was immediately responsive, or perhaps the letter was unanswered. In the latter case a visit was paid to the boy and personal contact established. Perhaps the boy was leaving because he felt that no one was interested in him, perhaps because of home conditions. In some cases there might be a financial condition, which could be assisted. Twice a year also this club invited the graduating class to its luncheon, and each Rotarian assigned himself to a boy and talked vocation to him. This club thus had a very effective form of contact.

Another club made a point of attending student activities as a body, instead of a few parents of participants only attending. This contact might be small, but it nevertheless showed the boys the Rotarian body was interested in them, and served to advertise the Rotary ideal.

A less fortunate plan worked out by another club, that of student loans, did not have very happy results.

BOYS IN MISCHIEF

One possible line of action for Nelson was suggested by Mr. Garland, in connection with delinquent boys in court. Happily there was comparatively little juvenile delinquence here, and that was mostly in the nature of pranks without an evil basis. While emphatically against sob stuff, Mr. Garland suggested that the club might be difinitely helpful in certain ways, and if Magistrates Brown and Cartmel were approached, they might be willing to grant a day's adjournment of a boy's case to enable the Rotary club to make an inquiry, which might have the result of aiding the delinquent.

One club helped with the local Boy Scout drive—not with dollars but with service. Somebody had to assume this duty, and it was just as much on the Rotarian as on anyone else. He did not think the scoutmasters got a return other than a feeling of duty performed. Another club got some touch with the schools by giving merit badges, which showed that it had an interest in the young folk.

HIKE LEADERS

A more personal participation was affected by another club, which had song-leaders who attended the school affairs and helped with the community singing. This club also furnished story-tellers, and also hike-leaders.

One essential, Mr. Garland pointed out, was that there must be no charity in the Rotarians' participation in juvenile activities. If there was money spent, the boys should pay something toward the cost. On this basis there would be mutual respect.

Across the line there was an organization that put out prizes for agricultural activities of boys and girls, and some Rotary clubs cooperated with it in this work.

Modern life was essentially different in many particulars from that of older generations, Mr. Garland declared, one difference being in the numbers living in the cities. In the cities there was no way, such as existed on the farm, of the boys gratifying their dominant urge for adventure. This resulted in mischief, though not necessarily in evil.

Some thought that this craving for adventure was in part satisfied by participation in sport, that was to say, team sport, which might be the reason why the same problem was not presented here as across the line. The boys who played games honorably, not kicking his opponent when the referee was not looking, learned priceless ideals. These ideals were observed in business life, and such life would be intolerable if such ideals were not generally followed.

How about a sports instructor for Nelson, asked Mr. Garland. Such a move would require money, but the fact that it had never been done here should not be a reason against it.

Rotarians of Nelson had the opportunity to leave their mark on the younger generation. "Let us try to get some games going this summer and next winter," he advised. "You can do more good to more kids by helping them to have sports, and thus building them up physically, mentally and morally, than in any other way," he declared, amid applause.

President Robert Andrew said he would do all possible to help the new boys work committee, an urged all the members to make a like resolve.

GIVES SOLUTION FOR THE SILVER PROBLEMS HERE

C. F. Cadwell Suggests Manufacture and Marketing of Silver Plate

"The united action of Canada through the Associated Boards of Trade and the Associated Mining organizations, with like organizations in the United States, in getting the governments to manufacture, or assist, in the manufacturing and marketing of solid silver ware and silver plate at a net price over 10 cents per ounce above the market price, until al the surplus silver is absorbed and until it reaches its present coinage value at 129 per ounce," was solution offered by C. F. Cladwell of Zion City, a pioneer mining man of the Kaslo and Slocan when interviewed in the city on the silver problems and the unemployment.

He advocated that the movement be started at once by the boards of trade in Slocan City, New Denver, Sandon and Kaslo, taking the initiative, and a meeting in Nelson, and through all the associated boards of trade and mining men of the East and West Kootenay, pass a resolution and send the same to Vancouver. And through the Chamber of Mines, approved by all the boards of trade of British Columbia, call for an international meeting either in Spokane, Seattle or Vancouver at the chosen seat.

The united action will express the will of the people to the governments, that will cause this action to be approved and be put into force, that will result in the surplus silver being absorbed until the coinage price of 129 is reached and obtained by the mine operators, he stated. This will restore confidence to all business and will solve the unemployment problems of America, he stated, is not to all Europe. It would be the first step towards doing so, he believes.

Committee at Work to Bring in Resolution Covering Situation

VANCOUVER, June 9—The unemployment conference here today of representatives of a number of western Canadian cities and municipalities set a committee to work to bring in a resolution covering the situation, after a frank discussion had brought forth expressions of opinion that the Dominion government had a definite responsibility in the solution of the problem.

Mayor W. H. Malkin, of Vancouver, chairman, asked the delegates to keep away from politics, but Mayor Webb of Winnipeg replied that "if we are going to get anything done in this situation, we have got to tell the truth, politics or not."

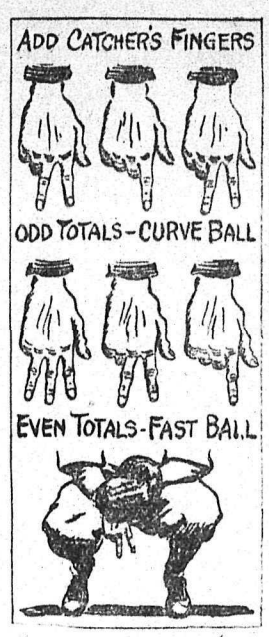
Big League BASEBALL

Catchers' Signs



By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

A month or so ago I gave some simple fast and curve ball signs to be used by the catchers in signaling the patcher.

The above finger signs are much more complicated and are used today by big league clubs and in a number of World Series.

The reason for the catcher giving three signs is to fool opposing baserunners on second base. If only one sign were given, they would be able to read the sign and tip off the batter what type of ball was being delivered. But with three signs, the baserunner does not know whether only one of them uounts, or whether two or all three are the code.

While at first glance the signs appear complicated and difficult, they are comparatively simple. The catcher simply gives three distinct finger signs before each pitch. If he wants a curve ball thrown he shows the pitcher three signs with his fingers, the total fingers shown being an uneven number, three, five, seven or nine.

If he wants a fast ball thrown the fingers shown must total an even number, four, six, eight or ten.

If he wants a waste ball thrown, he repeats the same finger sign three times.

MANY BOXERS ARE BORN IN THE MONTH OF MAY

May, the month of budding trees and plants, of lilacs and early roses, is also the birth month of a number of boxers who have done valiant deeds in the roped square, says the National Police Gazette. Looking over some of the record books we found these present-day and old-time fistic figures as having been born in May:

Gene Tunney, May 25, 1898.
Paulino Uzcudun, May 3, 1899.
Tom Heeney, May 19, 1899.
"Gorilla" Jones, May 12, 1907.
Stanislaus Loayza, May 7, 1903.
"Gunboat" Smith, May 8, 1886.
Young Donohue, May 8, 1885.
Willie Lewis, May 21, 1884.
Charley Neary, May 31, 1882.
Charley O'Rourke, May 1, 1880.
Harry Forbes, May 13, 1879.
Johnny Root, May 26, 1876.

According to these statistics, Tunney, who retired undefeated as heavyweight champion of the world, was thirty-two years old on his last birthday.

AMERICAN SPRINGS SURPRISE TO WIN FENCING HONORS

John R. Huffman First American to Win Denmark Fencing Title

In recognition of the first American ever to win a fencing crown in Denmark, the Stars and Stripes were flown over the stadium at Copenhagen, where the recent Denmark National fencing championships were held, says the National Police Gazette.

The U. S. representative, John R. Huffman of New Haven, Conn., stood first. Huffman, who was graduated from Yale in 1926 and who is atpresent studying chemistry on a fellowship at the University of Copenhagen, surprised the old masters by winning the sabre title in the first day of competition.

On the second day, when he entered the foils competition unheralded and known only as a saber specialist, he took the gallery completely by storm by winning bout after bout until the finals. Here he made a clean sweep, overwhelming Otto Olsen, the world's greatest foilsman, in the final bout.

Huffman's victory over Olsen was the more remarkable as he entered the foil without any training in that weapon, while Olson had been in Budapest for six months preparing for this event with a concentrated training program.

Although he could not receive the medals earned for his singular victories, Huffman was awarded two beautiful cups and is authorized to wear the three golden stripes. The reason for withholding the medals is due to a rule that none but Danish citizens may have these medals awarded to them.

CORNELL COACH FAVORS ROWING

"Brings Devotees Close to Nature," Says Romeyn Berry

Romeyn Berry, Cornell's athletic maestro, whose old eyes have peered at many an oarsman and other athletes, favors rowing above all other sports.

"The fascination of it is," he says, "that it brings devotees close to nature. The atmosphere and environment of rowing the perfect. "Oarsmen row in the most delightful period of the year. They get the air and the sunshine and are not hampered by clothes. In the fullness of delightful spring they enjoy the water. And after a hard afternoon's pull they approach the boathouse effervescent with the joy of living. They dig into the water deep as they come to the float, for just ahead of them is a fine, invigorating shower and a large, wholesome steak."

Flowers seen on newest frocks very often are of self fabric—the organdie dress having its shoulder bouquet of organdie blossoms ,or the lace dress having a knot of violets done in mousseline de soie.

CHAPTER XXXVIII

Brierhalter, faultlessly dressed, stopped short and blocked Joslyn's progress, his gray eyes suddenly lighted with pleasure.

"My luck is endless," he declared. "If Fate seems bent upon throwing us at each other's heads, why should we refuse to accept the hint? Whither bound?"

"Home," Joslyn told him. "I just felt like a stroll up Broadway before I turned in."

"Great minds," he said tritely, "run in the same channel. I was lonesome, too."

The thought of a man worth millions being forced through loneliness to mingle in the Broadway throng struck Joslyn as the height of absurdity. It was in his power, she knew, to surround himself with any brilliant company he might choose.

"Don't you ever stay home?" she asked him, faintly mocking.

"If you but knew!" he returned cryptically.

Though halted for only a moment, they were already interfering with the flow of pedestrians, were being hustled by the living tide. Brierhalter took Joslyn's arm and steered her, as he stuck precariously at her side, into the uptown current.

"The fact is I've been restless all day—ever since I drove you home," he said. "I actually believe it was my intense desire that directed us together again tonight. You can't tell me these things are accidents. I believe the human mind is a great deal like the compass on a ship—that it responds to a magnetic attraction as yet scarcely suspected."

His company, Joslyn decided, was not unpleasant; the more she had come to know him, the more he revealed unexpected angles of a keen, imaginative intelligence. And apart from his obvious infatuation, he was the most interesting man she knew.

But his friendship was too impregnated with power for easy enjoyment. His wealth, for another thing, stirred a remote apprehension in Joslyn; while it had an undoubted fascination it had also a potency that worried her.

"I'm tired of walking now," she said, "I think I'll get in the subway and ride on up home."

"We'll get a taxi and ride up," he told her. "I didn't bring my car out tonight."

She protested but he waved her objections aside and managed to segregate a taxicab out of the maze of traffic.

"We might go over to the Bombay—or any place else you like," he suggested, but she declined.

"Not tonight. I want to get a lot of sleep. I'll need all my energy for my rehearsal with De Costa tomorrow."

"I know you're determined to go through with that dancing business, but I certainly wish you wouldn't," he complained. "It's a strange thing. In Wall street I had very little trouble in swaying some rather important minds, but with a beautiful and desirable young lady like yourself I seem completely robbed of any influence."

"Do I have any influence with you?" she asked him innocently.

Brierhalter assured her that she had a great deal.

"Then I wonder if I could influence you not to take such a violent interest in me, and what I do," she said. "It's flattering, but I've so many problems to face that I haven't room for any more complications."

"On the contrary, I could make things very simple for you, my dear. Here I am head over heels in love with you. I'm a great believer in the great god Money. Do you realize that you have within your grasp everything that money can buy—and that means practically everything?"

"Apparently it is not buying what you want," Joslyn could not help replying tartly.

"That's your fault," Brierhalter retorted. "I want you, but your sense of values is so ridiculously distorted that you don't realize what almost unlimited wealh can do for you."

In rapid order he three appeals that were being urged upon her flashed through Joslyn's mind—the thrilling animal magnetism of James Kelvin, the comradely honorable love of Lee Rogers, the stark commercialism of Brierhalter.

"It might interest you to know," she said, without undue hostility, "that if you ever could have had any chance with me, you continue to blast it by trying to put me on a purchasable basis. I should think that even a millionaire would know women better than that."

"That," Brierhalter told her, "is a perfectly idiotic and dishonest conclusion. Nine tenths of the happiness and unhappiness of life hinges on money. Only the sentimental fools doubt it. Money, plus brains, can accomplish all but the sheerest impossibilities."

"Money, plus brains, won't get me," Joslyn said coolly.

"Some man, however, is going to get you," Brierhalter stated. "I'm so sure that I'm the man that the pursuit isn't even exciting—it's merely tedious."

His effrontery, incredible as it was—perhaps for that very reason—impressed Joslyn, brought the tiniest tremor of uncertainty to her heart. Slowly she was beginning to understand the bull-dog in the man, the steel will behind his well-groomed exterior. In him she sensed daring of a high, almost invincible, order.

"I can't believe you mean all you say," she said. "You say you want me—yet you have never said anything about marriage. I asked you that the other night and you got around it."

Brierhalter smiled, rather kindly. "I was wondering how long it would take you to get to that. Well I'll tell you about it—"

Eggshell eyelet blouses are smart.

Only for the all slender girl are the tiny puff sleeves and peplum effects that are such a temptation, and shoulder capes should likewise be avoided by the woman with generous bust and shoulder proportions, unless she chooses from among the many variations one most flattering to her figure.

Liquidation Sends Prices Skidding Down at New York

HUGE VOLUME OF SALES; TICKER AN HOUR BEHIND

More Than 50 Stocks Hit Lowest of Year; Decline Sharpest, Season

NEW YORK, June 9.—(By John Cooley, A. P. financial writer)—Liquidation, forced as well as professional, sent stock prices skidding today in one of the sharpest breaks of the year. The selling reached its biggest proportions in the final hour as weakened margin accounts were unloaded. Sales in the last 50 minutes approximated 1,800,000 shares, swelling the total to 4,656,270 and the ticker under this heavy burden was nearly an hour late.

More than 50 stocks sold at their lowest 1930 levels and the price index for 90 representative shares broke nearly four points below the bottom touched on the May break. The rail group slumped to a new low.

Prospects of another share decline in the steel corporations, unfilled tonnage for May, to be announced this noon tomorrow, contributed only a minor item to the day's crop of rumors.

AMERICAN TELEPHONE LOW

American Telephone dropped four points to within four of its year's low. Detroit Edison, American Power and Light, Western Union, Electric Power and Light, Laclede Gas and American and Foreign Power showed extreme losses of six to nine points. In the same class were Underwood Elliott Fisher, Westinghouse, Johns Manville, Auburn Auto and Houston Oil.

U. I. Case slumped 32¾, finishing 20 points net lower. Peoples Gas lost off 26 and American Machinery and Foundary 15. Vanadium, Eastman Oak and Ingersoll Rand dropped 10 to 11. Manhattan Electrical Supply lost five points. The state attorney-general's office is taking steps to appoint a receiver for a brokerage house alleged to have been prominent in a recent pool in Auburn stock.

Among the stocks selling at new lows, in addition to U. S. Steel, were Bethlehem Steel, Studebaker, Nash Motors, Hudson Motors, Checker Cab, Chrysler, Badwin Locomotive, St. Louis common and preferred, Lackawanna, Northern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio, Rock Island, Wabash, Missouri-Kansas-Texas and Columbia Phonophone.

Total sales were 4,646,270 shares.

WHEAT PRICES UP AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, June 9—(By John P. Boughan, Associated Press market editor)—Optimism that suited well the magnificence and beauty of the Chicago board of trades new building found reflection in higher prices for all grain today. The upward swing of values was the more remarkable as being in the face of severe set-backs shown by securities.

Aside from the effect of extra cheerful fresh surrounding, the wheat market was influenced by indications of enlarged export business from North America, by continued curtailment of the United States visible supply and by serious crop damage reports from Canada.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm at the day's top most figures 1 to 1½c a bushel higher than Saturday's finish. Corn closed ½ to ⅞c up, oats ¼ to ½c advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2c.

ELEVEN NEW LOWS MADE, MONTREAL

Opening Soft and Prices Continue to Move Lower During Day

MONTREAL, Que., June 9.—Other than the fact that stocks in New York were decidedly weak there was nothing to explain the downward movement of values here. The opening was soft here and prices continued to move lower throughout the entire session with the weakness most pronounced in the final hour. Eleven new lows were recorded here in the course of the day, among them being such prominent stocks as Nickel, Shawinigan, Quebec Power and Montreal Power.

Among the more prominent losses were Dominion Glass, off four at 155; Hydro-Electric six lower at 41, a new low; Gurd, off 1⅝ at 36⅛; Smelters, down 4½ at 215; Bronze, off two at 45; Breweries, off two at 31; Lindsay preferred, off three at 80, a new low; Power Corporation, down 2¼ at 77¾; Quebec Power, off 2½ at 60, and Bridge, down 1½ at 60.

International Nickel was active leader, with sales in 27,978 shares, and at the close was off 3¼ at 43. Montreal Power came third in activity, with sales in 3275 shares, and closed 1½ lower at 60, a new low level.

Total sales were 73,449 shares as compared with 18,862 shares on Friday and 18,853 shares on the corresponding day o last year. Total sales of bonds were $155,550.

EGG MARKETS

OTTAWA, Ont., June 9.—Egg markets continue generally dull and easy. Supplies are still slightly in excess of demand and trading in a wholesale jobbing way is dull. Consumptive demand continues active.

Toronto—The local egg market situation continues unchanged today. Brokers are making sales of graded country shipments extras 30½ to 31, firsts 28½ to 29, seconds 25½ to 26, delivered, in used, free cases. Dealers quotations to country shippers for ungraded eggs are extras 29, firsts 26 to 27, seconds 23 to 24, delivered, cases returned.

Montreal—Egg receipts here Saturday were 1361 cases as compared to 5612 cases on the corresponding day last year. Eggs are selling on spot between dealers at extras 31 to 32, firsts 28 to 28½, seconds 25 to 26. The market is quiet with buyers still holding off. Dealers quotations to country shippers for ungraded eggs are extras 30 to 32, firsts 28, seconds 23 to 25.

Winnipeg—Prices and conditions on this egg market are again unchanged this week with dealers still quoting country shippers extras 25, firsts 23, seconds 20. Lower prices are reported from Regina but other markets in Manitoba and Saskatchewan are unchanged.

Edmonton—Both this market and Calgary have recently undergone price declines on eggs. Dealers here are now quoting country shippers for ungraded eggs extras 20 to 21, firsts 18 to 19, seconds 14 to 15, delivered, cases returned.

Vancouver—This egg market continues steady without any change in rices. Paying prices to producers by wholesale dealers are extras 25 to 26, firsts 23 to 24, pullet extras 21 to 22.

Chicago—Unchanged.

NORTH CAROLINA BANKS ON SHAD

But General Public Unaware of Great Value to State

RALEIGH, North Carolina, June 9.—A strange situation exists in this state where the largest branch of the commercial fishing industry, from the standpoint of catch, is probably the least known to the general public.

The North Carolina department of conservation and development, in its latest report, tells of the menhaden known locally as shad, fatback and alewife, fishing industry which is one of the great sources of revenue of the state.

"More than 100,000,000 menhaden are taken annually by fleets of boats from North Carolina ports," the report states. "They are said to be one of the most abundant of all economic fish, migrating in enormous schools off shore. They are not a food fish, being used chiefly for the extraction of oil which serves for much the same purpose as linseed oil and scrap which is used in fertilizers and for stock feed.

"North Carolina operates about 30 boats which with their outfits cost about $25,000 each. Fourteen factories costing $50,000 to $100,000 each are operated in the state. These have cooked on an average of 30,000,000 fish each year for a season of two months, November and December, for the past four years.

"Motor boats of an average capacity of 50 tons and which are able to carry $450,000 fish are manned by a crew of 25 men, including the captain and engineer. These boats carry two purse boats on which a large purse net 270 yards long is placed so that each boat carries about half. On sighting a school of fish these purse boats are rowed around it, dropping their nets as they go. When the fish are entirely circled, the bottom of the net is drawn together so as to form a purse which brings the fish together in a solid mass. From this mass they can be baled with a large dip scoop, operated by a donkey engine on the motor boat. At times as many as 300 fish are caught in a single purse.

"North Carolina has averaged about 100 tank cars of oil each year for the past three years. The tank cars average about 8000 gallons each. At present oil is selling at 48 cents per gallon and is likely to go higher before the season closes. Refiners get most of the oil as it is a very desirable drying oil. When the market is low soap companies buy most of the oil. New oil is sold on a mixmum of 30 per cent free acid.

present position. Round after round of applause greeted these remarks, as Mr. Bennett assured his audience that his 1927 pledge had been kept.

"I did it that I might be free," the Conservative leader stated as soon as the audience permitted him to resume his speech.

COMPLETE BAY LINE

Touching upon the Hudson Bay railway, the opposition chieftain gave his pledge that his party would support the full completion of this railway. "I would like to assure my friends of the province whose hospitality means so much to me," he exclaimed earnestly, "that the Conservative party recommends the construction of the Hudson Bay railway, and will see it through with all its auxiliary works and developments necessary to its effective operation.

"When in 1922 R. King came to power in this country, the Hudson Bay railway had been constructed within 29 miles of Port Nelson. In 1926 he was diverted to Fort Churchill, 179 miles away, and today in 1930, we are told it will open in 1931 for traffic, although the road is now completed, and it is the irony of fate—one of the just compensations of our political existence—that the party which completed the road within 29 miles will be the party next year that will have the duty of opening it to the people of Canada.

"For we recognize that it is the prime factor in opening up all our north country, and it is a proper attempt to secure for this part of Canada cheap transportation to the European market."

Cheer after cheer greeted this statement. And then Mr. Bennett directed the attention of his audience to the St. Lawrence waterway.

DARES THE PREMIER

"Why has nothing been done about the St. Lawrence waterway?" he demanded. "Why, because it was a business of the government to do it, and the government did not choose—they did not dare—to do anything. Ask Mr. Mackenzie King when he comes to you whether he does not believe that the building of the St. Lawrence waterway will be of immeasurable advantage to the country. Don't let him put you off with an evasive answer. I dare him to answer 'No'.

"The answer he should give to you is known to me; power before progress. How long, Canadians, must we endure this? And I further remind you, ladies and gentlemen, that this matter has been mentioned in parliament for three, if not four years. All responsibility under our law and constitution rests with the government. I and those associated with me have refrained from any embarrassing of the administration and its delicate negotiations lest it should be said that by some act or word of ours we have complicated this great measure so destined for the betterment of Canada but what was done?

"The government did not choose to do anything with respect to it and it stays, in the language of the prime minister, still under negotiation.

PICTURE OF PROSPERITY

"We who have so little time, you who have so little time after the day's work is done, to think of other than your immediate problems, think now a moment about this waterway and look at the picture of prosperity I paint above it.

"See this great route as the carrier of half the world's trade. Factories that grow up on its banks spun by electric energy from the harnessed stream. See people coming to man them, the purchasers of our products. The growth of the cities along its basin, and assured market for all the world to come.

"You have within this province a mighty river, unharnessed power which could give us the energy, the power, to make this great province an industrial center, ranking second only among the provinces of the Dominion.

SUGGESTED CONFERENCE

He had great hopes for the Imperial conference at London in September, which had first been suggested by himself. But Mr. Bennett continued, he questioned the action of the government in respect to British preference changes effected in the budget.

"What right had the government to imperil by this premature unreasoned action," he demanded, "the success of that conference when our Canadian representatives met for negotiation with those from all parts of the Empire? They will do so, if I have the instruction of them, with this principle steadfast in their minds, that the future of the Empire rests upon the upbuilding of Canada. They must also approach the problem with a fixed idea that there can be no treaty for Empire trade which does not insure the proper safeguarding of the agricultural, industrial and all other workers of Canada. But has the government any thought of that? Unless, as I say, this is just an empty gesture—and they claim it is not—the government certainly has no thought either of Canada or the Empire. For a movement such as this hysterically inspired by party exigencies, if not stopped in time, must surely destroy our hope of Empire trade. A sound partnership is founded on mutuality for interest. Good business is predicated upon reciprocal benefits. That is the basis upon which a prudent man desires to negotiate."

Assailment of the tariff attitude of the government brought forth repeated plaudits from the body of the amphitheater and the crowded galleries. The Conservative chieftain regretted that Canadians had been detrimentally affected by the fiscal policy of the administration.

Scene of many stirring and historic political meetings, never before was the building jammed with a greater gathering. A reference by one of the earlier speakers that less than three years had elapsed since Mr. Bennett had pledged himself from the platform from which he spoke tonight to the service of his country struck a very responsive chord. Long before the hour scheduled for the opening of proceedings, the auditorium was filled and a crowd was seeking admittance outside.

A band of the Great War Veterans kept those who had obtained seats in good humor while awaiting the arrival of Mr. Bennett, who reached the city less than an hour before he opened his speech. Summed up, it was a great gathering. Thousands composed the visible audience, but millions of Canadians through the voice on the ether heard the Conservative chieftain over the greatest political radio hookup made in Canada, extending from coast to coast.

Mr. Garland said. However important the other matters that the council had in hand were, he asked the members to give the question serious attention and "give themselves" to the problem of getting Nelson an airport. Grand Forks, Cranbrook and Fernie already had airports, and Nelson certainly did not consider itself second to Grand Forks. It was also no news that the air mail service was to be routed this way.

MUNICIPAL PROJECTS

He admitted an airport would cost money, and also the finding of a suitable location and working out of the project would take time, and he held that the city was better equipped to conduct the full inquiry needed. Further, throughout the west airports were municipal projects. The board of trade believed, he said, that there would at an early date be a considerable air traffic in both passengers and mail this way, and that the business brought by this traffic would benefit Nelson, if handled here instead of being sent elsewhere in the district. Under these circumstances it was desirable that the civic authorities should conduct the inquiry and make the approach to the government. "With our added forces," he predicted a successful issue to the approach to be ultimately made to the government.

OPPOSED AT SOUTH SLOCAN

Replying to Mr. Garland, Mayor Bornes pointed out that the 1929 city council cooperated with the board in its airport investigation, by authorizing City Engineer B. C. Affleck to go to South Slocan with the board's committee and make a report on the site there, with estimates of cost.

While he could not say what the present council would do, the mayor said he was personally opposed to the South Slocan proposal. He intimated he would be strongly interested in an airport site close in, but if the matter was one of going 15 miles or so out of Nelson, and incurring an expenditure of $30,000, frankly he did not believe air travel at the present time justified the proposition.

Answering the mayor, Mr. Garland said the board was very grateful for past cooperation and for the good work of the engineer. While he had not intended to go into details, he said if the airport could be located close to the city the board would be greatly pleased, and obviously if the board brought in a plan for an airport 13 miles down river it didn't come well recommended.

But sites available for development as airports were limited in number, and even if the South Sloran site should be the only one in sight, he yet appealed for some consideration of it. While he did know that in the large cities or airports, Mr. Garland said, he did know that n the large cities distance was not considered to count. While expense might be a detriment, he did not believe that distance was. In any case, he asked the city to take action, so that the committees of the two bodies could check up the figures, and then, if the proposal was found to be impracticable, then an answer giving facts could be given to those who raised these matters.

Alderman J. P. Morgan said he didn't think there would be any harm in appointing a committee to get data on the airport question, and accumulate first hand facts. It would not mean that the city would proceed to build one.

On motion of Alderman W. M. Walker and W. R. Campion, it was decided there should be an airport committee, appointed by the mayor.
