WORKER KILLED IN CROW'S NEST MINE AT MICHEL

Second Death in Same Tunnel in Past Two Months

MICHEL, B. C., May 7.—An inquest was held here Monday night to inquire into the death of Steve Borsody, coal miner, who died from injuries received after a fall of rock while working in No. 1 mine at the Crows Nest Pass Coal company.

There was little hope of his recovery after the accident occurred and he died as the result of a broken pelvis and other smaller bones around the abdomen.

All details regarding circumstances of his death were related to a coroner's jury and the verdict returned was accidental death.

This was the second death that had occurred in this tunnel within two months.

Frank Gibby, partner of Steve Borsody, testified that the fall of rock came down on Borsody unexpectedly and could not be avoided in any way. Other employees testified similarly. Dr. Blair, who performed the autopsy, testified that Borsody died from internal injuries.

Borsody, a resident of this town for a great number of years, is survived by his brother, John, of this city and a sister in the Old Country.

Saskatchewan House Ranks Will Not Be Depleted For Election

REGINA, Sask, May 7.—There is little likelihood of the ranks of the opposition in the Saskatchewan legislature being depleted to furnish the material for the coming federal campaign, at least so far as its leaders are concerned. Tonight J. M. Uhrick, Liberal member for Rosthern, and formerly minister of health, denied emphatically that he had any intention of resigning his seat in order to enter the Federal field. Such a report had arisen in the city Wednesday.

No estimate of the number made homeless was available, nor had any official estimate of the property damage been made but those in touch with the situation predicted the loss would easily exceed $500,000

The series of tornado disturbances spread their havoc at widely separated places over an area of approximately 201,250 square miles, from Abilene on the west to Marshall, about 450 linear miles, and from Childress, on the north, to Runge, about 625 miles to the south.

Grand Forks Fruit Gr... Must Wait for Fall Hearing

LAWSON PLEA DISMISSED TO FALL SITTING

Appeal Decision in Action Against Interior Committee

SOUGHT HEARING AT SPRING COURT

Counsel Declares Important Decision Be Made At Once

VANCOUVER, May 7.—Appeal of A. C. Lawson, fruit rancher of Carson, near Grand Forks, from the decision of Mr. Justice Murphy in Supreme Court, in the action against the Interior Tree Fruit and Vegetable Committee of Direction, in which the validity of the Produce Marketing act is attacked, will probably come before the Supreme Court of Canada at its fall sittings.

It is a test case. Lawson is nominal plaintiff for independent fruit growers of the Interior, including Doukhobor organizations, in the vicinity of Grand Forks.

Mr. Justice Murphy in March affirmed the validity of the act, and rejected a contention that an enactment authorizing the collection of levies is ultra vires. Plaintiff had submitted that levies constituted indirect taxation.

An attempt was made last year to bring the Produce Marketing act before the privy council. The application, however, was refused on the ground that was against a conviction where a fine or imprisonment could be imposed and that the British Columbia appeal court did not have power to grant leave to appeal in such circumstances.

The present action was then taken to test the validity of the act. It was lost in the Supreme Court in March, was taken on appeal to the appeal court in April, when the validity of the act was again affirmed. Appellant then applied for leave to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada, which was granted.

Counsel for appellant applied today to the Supreme Court of Canada for leave to set down this case for hearing at the present sitting of the court. He urged that it was of the utmost importance to his client to have a decision at this time. The court, however, dismissed the application, deciding that the appeal should be heard at the fall sitting.

WOODTICK TAKES LIFE OF GIRL, CAMP LISTER

CRESTON, B. C., May 7.—For the first time in many years Creston reports a death from the ravages of woodtick.

The unfortunate was Martha, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Herman of Camp Lister, who died on Friday afternoon. She had only been living at Lister about six weeks, coming with her parents to reside there the latter part of March, from Weyburn, Sask.

Up till the time she expired the child made no complaint of feeling ill and when she toppled off a chair and died almost immediately the parents decided to have an investigation which was made by Dr. Henderson with such a startling finding.

The funeral took place Tuesday to Creston cemetery after a service in the Lutheran church parsonage, which was in charge of the pastor, Rev. in charge of the pastor, Rev. Carl Baase.

TELLS HOW HE KILLED MAN IN BRAWL, VERNON

Japenese Took Knife From Assailant and Killed Him In Scuffle

VERNON, B. C., May 7.—That Hanichi Matsumato came to his death at the hands of Kilshi Maekawa during a brawl which occurred in their rooms at the lodging house near John Kidston's packing house on Monday night or early Tuesday morning was the verdict of the coroners jury who today heard the evidence. The jury expressed the belief that the accused was acting in self defence.

The story as unfolded before Coroner Dr O. Morris was that the accused and another man had some drinks early in the evening with Matsumato. The accused retired early and awoke with the feeling that some one was near him. He cried out and attempted to get up. His attacker had a knife which Maekawa finally wrested from him. He fought back in deadly fear of his life and, throwing off his assailant, using jui jitsu, threw himself on his man as he lay prone. Arising he found the light, turned it on and discovered he had killed his roommate. He then roused a neighbor and asked to phone for the police. When they arrived he was placed under arrest.

$377,036,000 For U.S. Navy

Big Sum Set Aside for Battleship Construction

Washington, D. C., May 7.—(AP)— Although forecasting economies as a result of the London naval treaty, the house appropriations committee today recommended an outlay of $377,036,000 for the naval establishment of the United States in the fiscal year 1931, of which it is proposed that $57,365,000 be expended for modernization and construction of warships.

The measure carries an increase of $14,851,000 over the current year's outlay, but is $1,170,590 less than the budget estimates, $4,000,000 being eliminated as the first allotment for the third group of five cruisers under the 15 cruiser programme, which, under the London treaty, would not be constructed.

CHARGES LIBS WITH TURNING TO PROTECTION

Ladner, Vancouver South, Offers Criticism on Budget

LITTLE EXCITEMENT IN HOUSE, OTTAWA

Members Think of Election; Speakers For and Against Budget

OTTAWA, May 7.—(CP)— The house of commons presented a different appearance today from that of yesterday. The crowds of yesterday which thrilled to the challenge of Hon. R B. Bennett and the prime minister's election announcement, were gone. The floor of the chamber was but sparsely filled. While a number of speakers carried along the deate on the budget, interest in it appeared to have evaporated. The idea of an election dominated parliament.

Speches today were both critical and appreciative of the finance minister's proposals. J. T. Thorsom, Liberal member for Winnipeg South Centre, found much in the budget to approve. While agreeing that Canada should participate in no tariff wars, he saw no reason why this country should not want to turn a very large part of its trade from the United States to Great Britain. The former country was apparently not anxious to trade with Canada.

Dissatisfaction with the budget was voiced by Col. Thomas Cantley, Conservative, Pictou. He devoted much of his speech to discussing the iron and steel business and the probable effect of the tariff thereon. He doubted the sincerity of the government in its avowed intentions to benefit the iron and steel industry.

WITH A VENGEANCE

J S. Woodsworth, Labor member for Winnipeg North Centre, suggested that the prime minister was "getting away from Laurier Liberalism with a vengeance." He advocated extension of the free-trade idea into the international sphere. It would not be confined to the British Empire.

The final speaker, L. J. Ladner, Conservative, Vancouver South, charged the government with accepting a doctrine of protection which had been formerly denounced.

Mr. Ladner quoted from a recent article dealing with Mr. Dunning in which the minister of finance had declared that the tariff must be made to serve the best interests of the Canadian people as a whole, and that it should be adjusted from time to time as circumstances warranted. The government stood by its past policy and intended to pursue that policy in future, the minister had said. But that policy, continued Mr. Ladner, had brought economic depression, unemployment, and adverse balance of trade, and a reduction of revenue. Consequently with some knowledge of the public mind, which reflected Conservative policies, the prime minister had reversed his own attitude and a budget had been brought down contrary to all previous declarations

When the election campaign begins the prime minister will find it difficult to navigate through the maze of proposals and policies which, said Mr. Ladner, he had propounded for the past nine years in order to reconcile them with what he now advocated.

The debate was adjourned by Hon. H. H. Stevens (Cons., Vancouver Centre) who will resume the discussion tomorrow afternoon.

PARKS QUESTION UP

OTTAWA, May 7.—(CP)—A bill was introduced in the house of commons today dealing with the number of national parks by Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of interior. The principle changes brought about by the bill are reductions in the areas of parks in Alberta and British Columbia.

TERM OF HOUSE UNKNOWN

Leaders Have Not Made Agreement as to Session Length

OTTAWA, May 7.—(CP)—Conferences which have taken place between leaders in the house of commons have not thus far resulted in an agreement as to the length of the session. It is stated on excellent authority, however, that there is a desire to cooperate in getting the business of the house through with reasonable despatch. A number of members have signified their desire to speak on the budget, and it is expected the government will permit the debate to proceed for a few days more at least.

As far as can be ascertained there is no desire on the part of any party or group in the house to obstruct the business of the session. Some conjecture prevails as to what course the government would pursue in the event of such an intention manifesting itself. Naturally the government will wait until such a condition becomes evident before announcing a course of action. It would, however, be surprising if there were any hesitation in dissolving parliament should there be evident obstruction in the house.

BOMBAY CENTERS CONTINUE QUIET

Government Makes No Statement; 96 Treated in Hospitals

LONDON, May 7.—(AP)—As suddenly as they had flared up India's civil disobedience disorders today subsided. From a widely flung storm of violent encounters yesterday Mahatma Gandhi's campaign of resistance to the government today had simmered down to a few widely separated clashes.

The worst of these, costing nine lives, occurred at Chittagong, the scene on April 18, of a previous battle in which two Europeans and several natives were killed.

Again at Calcutta armed police were compelled to act A mob raided the police station, smashed in its iron gates and there was checked. Several police officers suffered injuries and 25 arrests occurred.

Simla reported officially that four deaths had occurred in yesterday's riots. In the civilian hospital 95 persons were treated. To this number were added 18 police injury cases.

Advices from Delhi stated that patrols of cavalry, infantry and armored cars were being maintained today.

CALLS BOYCOTT

The arrival of V. J. Patel at Bombay and his pronouncement for a widespread boycott against British goods was the oustanding development in that district. Dispatches did not indicate how Mahatma Gandhi's followers would accept this attitude.

The comparative quiet in Bombay was broken only by an early onslaught of a mob upon textile workers who sought to prevent reopening of cotton mills.

The government continues to avoid any utterance which might tend to inflame the native mind. Moderate Indian opinion it was stated, continues to support the government.

Thus far the government force has emerged with only one fatality. The killing of a British citizen in Peshawar. This was pointed to as a matter for congratulation as well as an indication of the prompt action taken by the authorities

SPORTS

AUSTRALIA AND JAPANESE NET STARS SHINING

Lead in Zone Play; American Zone Play Starts May 15

NEW YORK, May 7—Brilliant performances by Japan and Australia, interlopers in the European zone, furnished the highlight of first round Davis cup play abroad.

With the completion of the first round schedule, 16 of the original field of 24 in the European zone remain to carry on the fight in the second round. The survivors included the four favorites, Great Britain, Australia, Italy and Japan. One of these, however, is certain to fall in the third round for Great Britain and Australia will be pitted against each other should they pass the second round obstacles, Poland and Ireland respectively.

Pairing for the second round, play in which must be completed by May 18, follows:

Zecchoslovakia vs. Denmark, Holland vs. Finland, Norway vs. Austria, Italy vs. Egypt, all first round byes; India vs. Japan, Jugoslavia vs. Spain, Australia vs. Ireland, and Poland vs. Great Britain.

Play in the American zone will start at Philadelphia May 15, when the United States, team of youngsters, meets Canada. Mexico and Cuba are the only other nations challenging in the American zone so that the United States seems almost certain to survive cup play on this side of the Atlantic and gain the right to meet the European zone winner. The survivor of that final match will challenge France for the cup.

BANNER YEAR AT CRESTON

Appe Crop Expected to be Large; Pears and Cherries Are Almost as Promising as Big Year of 1929

CRESTON, B. C., May 7.—This is apple blossom week in the Creston valley, and if bloom is anything to reckon with it would look safe to predict that 1930 will bring Creston orchardists a crop well up to 1928 standard, when over 100,000 boxes were shipped—that is provided ample moisture is available.

Wagners, McIntosh Red and Delicious, which are the heaviest varieties planted locally, are showing a wonderful lot of healthy looking bloom, and the Wealthy is equally promising. Big yields are in order from the Macs and Wealthy as 1929 was their "off" year.

Reports coming in are to the effect that notwithstanding the banner crop of 1929, pears, with the exception of Flemish Beauty, are almost as promising as a year ago. Identically the same report is made on cherries which also had a big year in 1929—the biggest in local history—as last year was the first season Creston ever shipped cherries in carload lots.

IN VEGETABLE LINE

In the vegetable line cucumbers, peppers, cabbage and corn will not be grown any heavier than a year ago, and right now the outlook is for less tomatoes, but the planting of the latter will depend on the possibility of water being available from the new East Creston irrigation pipe line in time to help tomatoes. Right now it is questionable whether water will be flowing in time. 1929 was a big year in tomato culture, though due to the smoke pall from the many forest fires ripening was greatly interfered with and the outgo was not in line with the acreage planted. But at that the smoke nuisance was helpful to orchardists as it tended to prevent evaporation somewhat of the very limited rainfall in the valley, thus increasing apple tonnage.

While optimism respecting yields is fairly general this spring cheerfulness is not exactly 100 per cent in evidence. Last summer and fall were abnormally dry and little moisture benefit accrued from the winter snow as it came after the ground was frozen and very little of it soaked in during the spring thaw, and 1930 rainfall to date is below normal.

The absence of moisture has also had a crippling effect on land clearing this spring. Stumping powder purchases were generous through farmers' institute channels but due to the dryness at depth very little stump blowing has been done to date.

Minister, Run-Down in Health, Gains 7 Lbs. in 3 Weeks

Rev. W. H. Taylor writes, "After a 7 weeks' revival campaign I was entirely run down and losing flesh rapidly. I decided to give Ironized Yeast a 3 weeks' trial. After 2 weeks I found my strength returning and the tired feeling gone. In 3 weeks I had gained 7 lbs. and was myself again.

Imagine just 3 weeks to change from a "skinny" tired person to a strong, well-filled-out man or woman. Ugly hollows vanish. Broomstick limbs become round and chubby. Tired feeling disappears. Blemished skin clears.

Only when yeast is Ironized is it more effective—for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building and strengthening values of Yeast. Pleasant-tasting tablets. Safe for everybody. Never cause gas or bloating, no harmful drugs.

Go to any druggist today and get a full size treatment of Ironized Yeast. If after this generous trial you are not delighted, your money back instantly from manufacturer.

GOOD YEAR HAD BY CO-OP. STORE AT CAMP LISTER

CRESTON, B. C., May 7.—The generally improved conditions in Creston Valley last year are reflected in the balance sheet submitted at the annual meeting of Lister Trading & Supply Co., Ltd., the co-operative store at the soldier settlement at Camp Lister on riday night. The increased profits on the past year's business permits of the paying of an 8 per cent dividend this year as compared with 6 per cent a year ago.

Trade has generally expanded to an extent where the directors have decided to erect a new and larger flour and feed warehouse.

The annual meeting was in charge of the vice-president, Fred Powers, in the absence of the president, E. J. Malthouse.

Directors elected for the ensuing year are Mr. Powers, Harry Helme, R. T. Milliner, A. R. F. Bernard and John Bird with Mr. Helme named president; Mr. Powers re-elected vice-president, and John Bird named secretary-treasurer and manager.

Lime water can be made at home very inexpensively by dissolving a fresh piece of lime in 2 quarts of water. Allow it to stand 2 or 3 hours, shaking it occassionally and removing any substance that may rise to the top.

WORK ON POST OFFICE, GOLDEN CITY, COMPLETE

Interior Fixtures Are Now in Place at Rossland

TRAIL, B. C., May 7—Work on the Rossland post office is completed; fixtures are installed and the staff is working in comfortable and pleasing surroundings. The building was extensively damaged in the $500,000 fire in Rossland's business section March 1 last year.

The post office has plenty of room for even the busiest of rush days. Nothing seems in any way crowded, yet it is all very compact and all space has been sufficiently utilized.

Fittings and wood work are in oak, the light stain showing the perfect grain of the wood. Wickets letter boxes and chutes are in polished brass, while the bars of the wicket gates, in dull finish, present a striking and artistic appearance. A tiled floor of small pattern, gives the interior an air of durability and artistic finishing.

The actual architecture of the building is practically unchanged and the stone exterior is as before, a delightful contrast to the brick and stucco commonly used.

Inside the walls are finished in a satin glow plaster, easily kept clean and startlingly white.

Two large counters in the post office are conveniently placed for the use of the general public.

COULD NOT SOMETHING BE DONE ABOUT THIS?

For the past two or three weeks Carbonate street between Hendryx and Hall, has been the scene of near accidents to motorists using this road. During the rainy period there is no more dangerous street in the city--and what is more, motorists do not know of is danger until it is almost too late.

During this week no less than four or five automobiles have become, unsuspectingly to their drivers, mired in the mud or cast to the side of the road or into the ditch, or even suddenly turned side ways or completely about when striking the clay pitch.

In wet weather it is impossible to drive down this road in safety. Unless a good gravel surface is put upon it, or signs of warning posted at the top of the hill to motorists, there is every likelihood of a good spill on this block and it may be any day.

AGE OF MIRACLES IS NOT PAST

The age of miracles may be past, although there are persons who doubt it, but the age of wonders has come. The Prime Minister of Great Britian has been exchanging the time of day and holding interesting converse with the Premier of Australia, with a space of twelve thousand miles between them. The great gulf was bridged by means of the telephone. There was not even wire connection between the parties who saluted and talked, but the voices were as distinctly articulate as if the parties engaged in conversation had been sitting in one room. But we are told that television also is in the air and that before very long distance will be merely an illusion, for conversations will be conducted with the parties conversing face to face.

NO UNEMPLOYMENT AMONG HOUSEWIVES

Are Nelson and district housewives worrying about the unemployment situation? Certainly not, as far as it pertains to their own homes.

There is more employment for the housewife today than almost at any other time of the year. Gaze about as you walk through the residential section. Here can be seen curtains done up as white as snow drying on the stretchers. Rugs are being beaten in another back yard. Nearly all curtains are down in numerous Nelson and district homes.

Spring cleaning has arrived. Paint brushes are being weilded floor polishers are working, walls are being groomed or papered. No, today, there is no employment among the housewives at least.

Mrs. John Sloan who won the Holton prize for her definition of art thus: "That beaty which imagination has created and which awakens in the observer an emotion of pleasure similar to that of the Creator."

That Body of Yours

By JAMES BARTON, M. D.

WHEN TONSILS SHOULD BE REMOVED

You have had yourfamily physician examine your tonsils and he has given it as his opinion that they should be removed.

You visit another physician perhaps hoping that he will advise otherwise, and you are rather relieved when he advises against their removal. You visit another and he advises that teeth be checked up, and if any should be removed, that you wait until you see the effect upn your general health, and upon the tonsils, before you have the tonsils removed.

ow why this difference of opinion among physicians?

Because after all the operation for the removal of tonsils is not one that should be performed by the general practitioner nor should the final decision as to their removal be llet to the general practitioner.

However in a general way there are certain symptoms which you experience, and others that can be seen by the physician, that may help you and your physician in making a decision.

Dr. J. Du Plessis, Chicago, outlines these briefly.

The tonsils should be removed if they are so large that they interfere with breathing or swallowing, or if they are so large and heavy that they 'thicken' the speech and interfere with hearing.

Also if there are acute attacks of tonsillitis occurring frequently, or if the tonsils seem to be always slightly inflamed and irritable.

Tonsils should also be removed after attacks of quinsy—that is formation of pus between tonsils and the bed or sac in which it lies.

Old tonsil stumps from previous operations should be removed, as very many of these stumps contain harmful organisms.

Halitosis or bad breath is frequently due to bad tonsils. The odor is readily absorbed by blotting paper pressed on the tonsils. The tonsils should be removed in such cases.

And where there is a feeling of tiredness all the time, depression and digestive disturbances, the teeth, sinuses and other points have been found healthy and the tonsils are only fair, then it would be wise to have them removed.

The above points should be of help to those in doubt as to the wisdom of having tonsils removed.

The Lighter Side

The Poem of His Love

She's plump and fair
With golden hair
And face serene and sunny;
She's worth to me
A lot, you see—
She helps me earn my money.

Her costume new
Of Belgian blue
Her real lace cuffs and collar
Enchant me so
Because I know
They'll cost me not a dollar.

She's gracious sweet,
And always neat
In gowns or simple dresses;
She's never pert
She does not flirt
Or cause me sharp distresses.

This maid to be
Would perfect be
If she were only slimmer.
Her weight's a tax—
She's made of wax
And I'm a window trimmer.

A bride-to-be has written to ask for a list of the necessary silverware for her new home. Here is an ideal list:

Twelve fruit knives, 12 breakfast knives, 12 breakfast forks, 12 bread and butter spreaders, 12 dinner forks, 12 salad forks, 12 dessert spoons, 24 teaspoons, 12 soup spoons, one sugar shell, six tablespoons, one gravy ladle, one Mayonnaise or cream ladle, one pie server, one lemon fork, one pickle fork, and one butter knife. These are the necessary pieces. In the following list are the extra pieces which it is nice to have, but which are not absolutely essential.

Twelve oyster forks, 12 fish knives, 12 fish forks, 12 steel-bladed knives for cutting steak, etcetera, 12 bouillon spoons, 12 ice cream forks, 12 after-dinner coffee spoons, 12 orange spoons, 12 ice-tea spoons with long handles, two bonbon spoons, a sugar tongs, a silver coffee service, one serving knife with fork to match, for fish, one cold meat fork, one tomato server, one ice cream server, one berry spoon, one butter pick, salad fork with spoon, to match, one tea strainer and holder, one large carving set, one small (steak or game) carving set, one nut cracker and 12 nut picks.

Miscellaneous silver pieces are: a crumb tray with scraper, one large serving tray, one small serving tray, a roll tray, three platters of graduated sizes, and a celery tray.

Now, Reader Friend, do not be discouraged at this complete list! Few of us have all these things—so begin to equip your home with the attitude that "things waited for are more appreciated."

NELSON PARTY WELCOMED AT GET-TOGETHER

Five Washington and Three Idaho Centers Have Delegations

ORATORS SPEAK ON GOOD WILL

Nelsonites Missed Banquet; Affair Second Of Series

Nelson was one of nine centers represented at the "good will get-together" held at Newport, Wash., Monday evening, and its delegation received an uproarious welcome. H. M. Whimster, president of the board of trade, who headed the delegation, stated last night, on return of the party from Newport by way of Spokane.

Making slower time on the way than was anticipated, the Nelsonites arrived at the church where the affair was staged too late for the banquet that opened the proceedings. Their entry was the signal for a rousing demonstration of welcome, however, and they were taken up to the front, and introduced to the audience while the program was temporarily suspended.

Besides the Newport Commercial club, which acted as host, there were large delegations present from the Commercial clubs of Metaline Falls, Ione, Cusick and Usk, in Washington, and Blanchard, Priest River and Sandpoint in Idaho.

HELPED GET PULP MILL

The "good will" feature was no idle boast, President Whimster stated, for when the spokesmen for the different Commercial clubs were speaking in turn for their various communities, the Priest River orator, speaking of the pulp mill that that Idaho center has obtained, extended thanks to Newport and Blanchard for friendly help in the matter.

Most of the emphasis, however, was on road development, and the value of cooperation to obtain it.

President Whimster, J. A. Kerr, who took the party in his car, and W. Haig-Smellie of Procter, all spoke on behalf of Nelson and the Kootenay, emphasizing the value of cooperative effort in regard to motor tourists.

This get-together was the second held, the first having taken place at Sandpoint, Idaho, a month ago.

TRAIL BAND IN GOOD FORM FOR MUSICAL FESTIVAL

Maple Leaf Performers Turn In Good Concert, Says Critic

"The Maple Leaf band, which has been working extremely hard in preparation for the Kootenay Musical Festival in Nelson in May 9 and 10, was in grand form," says Charles E. Stiff of Trail, referring to the fourth concert of the band at a Trail theatre Sunday night. "It delighted the critical though appreciative audience."

The band consisted of 38 performers. The concert was presented after church services. The program lasted one hour.

"A visiting music lover from Victoria," Mr. Stiff continued, "expressed great surprise, after having previously listened to coast city bands, at the progress made by this new organization at Trail.

"Perhaps the most pleasing numbers on the program were "Erminia Marcia", Petix; "The Vision of An Angel," waltz, Colistro; and "Rigoletto," Verdi." Rigoletto is a particularly hard number in technique.

"Many voted this concert as one of the choicest yet given in Trail and one of which both G. D. Colistro, director, and band members may be justly proud, Mrs. Stiff concluded.

Dr. Maria Likartz-Strauss, a specialist, of Vienna, Austria, has been honored by eight universities for her attainments in the medical profession.

COLLEGES AT LEICESTER GET KOOTENAY ORE

English Technical Institution Sends Thanks For Fine Gift

CHAMBER OF MINES SENT 50 SAMPLES

Will Be on Display and Also Be Used in Work In Class Room

A collection of about 50 samples of Kootenay ores of all varieties, sent at the end of the year by the Chamber of Mines of Eastern British Columbia to the Leicester Colleges of Art and Technology, Leicester, England, has resulted in highly appreciative letters of thanks to the chamber. One letter is from the subcommittee of the Leicester board of education that deals with the institution, this being transmitted through the registrar, F. W. Drewry, and the other is from the principal, Lawrence W. Kershaw.

The exhibit was sent to the Leicester institution through the fact of E W. Widdowson, president of the chamber last year, having been a graduate of it.

Principal Kershaw, in his letter of appreciation, says:

"With reference to your letter of 14th January, the two boxes of ore samples have now come to hand, and with the few exceptions mentioned below, all are in good condition.

VALUABLE COLLECTION

"Mr. Blount, who is in charge of our metallurgical department, informs that the collection is an exceptionally valuable and comprehensive one and includes a large number of ores of which the college had previously no specimens.

"In expressing my best thanks to you and to Mr. E. W. Widdowson for the trouble you have taken in collecting and classifying the samples and sending them over to Leicester, I would say that the college committee very much appreciates the help of external bodies and especially that received from old students . . .

"It is intended to display the collection as soon as a suitable case can be obtained, but in the meantime the specimens will be very useful for illustrating lectures. In this connection Mr. Blount would be pleased to receive from you at any time any literature that you may have to spare dealing with local processes of extraction.'

KERR PAYS VISIT TO SPOKANE OVER THE EXCURSION

Makes Final Arrangements In Connection With the Migration

J. A. Kerr, chairman of the committee on the board of trade motor excursion to Spokane next Monday and Tuesday, spent yesterday in Spokane, meeting officers of the Spokane chamber of commerce, and others interested in the coming visit.

While originally, Mr. Kerr states, the visiting Rotarians, who will be attending a great Rotary convention, were to have the larger place on the program for next Tuesday's luncheon, arrangements with them having been made earlier, circumstances are now such that Nelson will at least have an equal share in the limelight. Mr Kerr states that the Rotarians will be distributed at at least three luncheons.

Headquarters for the Nelson excursion will be at the Coeur d'Alene hotel, where the Kootenay Kilties band will put up, but the excursionists will make their own hotel arrangements as they see fit.

As was the case last year, the Kilties will go down Monday by bus, and will play at various points in down-town Spokane. There will be accommodation on the bus for a number of excursionists.

Motor parties from the district at large, going to Spokane at the time, are invited to join the Nelson caravan.

'FRIEND HANNAH' IS UNSHAMEDLY ROMANTIC PLAY

U. B. C. Players Club Will Present Play Here, May 22

The Players' club of the University of British Columbia will bring this year's play, "Friend Hannah", to the Nelson Opera House on the evening of May 22.

"Friend Hannah" is a delightful play, unashamedly romantic, sentimental and tender. It tells the romance of George III and the Quaker girl, Hannah Lightfoot, of their secret marriage, her renunciation of the King's love, and how they cherished memories of the interlude to the end. Being thus a costume play of the 1760 period it gives ample scope for effective scenery and costuming—nor has the Players' Club missed its opportunities in these respects. When the curtain goes up on the first act one's eyes are dazzled by the colorfulness of the scene—an old English country garden, glowing with old-fashioned hollyhocks, zinnias, and the purple grapes which cover the quaint stone dairy-house, and the whole surrounded, as one would expect, by a high red brick wall. Contributing further to this riot of color are the gay hunting-coats of the young Prince of Wales and his escorts, while, to offset and sufficiently subdue the vivid scene, there is the restful sober grey of the Quaker dress.

Other scenes are equally attractive. One a Georgian interior of which the authenticity is established by the smallest detail serves as a richly sombre background to the brilliant court costumes of the Dowager Princess, the Prime Minister of England, the newly crowned King and the lovely Hannah who abandons, for once, her dull Quaker grey.

Alberta Man Used Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mr. E. J. Moores Was Completely Relieved of a Very Painful Back Trouble

De Winton, Alta., May 8. (Special)

Mr. Moores, a well known resident of this place, is a firm believer of Dodd's Kidney Pills. He writes: "Some years ago I had my back hurt. I tried several different things, but never got relief until I used Dodd's Kidney Pills. I at once began to feel better. After I had taken four boxes I was completely relieved. I fully believe if it had not been for Dodd's Kidney Pills I wouldn't have lived till now. Ever since that time I have kept a box in the house and they are used by the whole family. I cannot recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills too much and my advice to people suffering with their back, is to give them a trial. They will get relief. You can publish this letter, it may help others." It is statements like this that have built up and maintained the reputation Dodd's Kidney Pills holds today.

Mother

"MOTHER" We may not possess much of this world's goods, we may not be learned or excessively intelligent, but there is—in each one of us—a deep understanding, and a responsive chord that is awakened, when that one word is mentioned. We can't get away from it.

Look back just a few years. Think of the sleepless nights and ever watchful days—when measles, mumps and chicken pox reigned supreme. When, "I want a drink of water" was just an excuse, when we growled at helping with the dishes, and took as a matter of course the cookies for "the gang". One could go on and on—harking back to the days when "Mother" spelled service every day of the three hundred and sixty-five, and loving, willing service at that.

All the world welcomed the setting aside of a particular day for the recognition of what we owe to the one who gave us life, cherished and cared for us in infancy, stuck to us whether we were worth it or not.

Mother's Day is always the second Sunday in May. Though very recently established as a national holiday, there are other Mothers' Days in history and folk lore. In ancient times, Rhea, Asia the rites were taken to Greece and Rome where they became a part of the Feast of Hilaria, held on the Ides of March. Later grew the beautiful old English custom of visiting one's parents on the mid-Sunday of Lent, taking some present. A youth who observed this ceremony was said to go a-Mothering, and thence the day itself was called "Mothering Sunday."

By Robert Terry Shannon

CHAPTER X

The invitation from Bates to a midnight party in his apartment came as a breath of pleasant adventure to Joslyn. Despite the man's crudities he had a flattering persistence of attention that any girl might have enjoyed. Hair recklessly, Joslyn accepted.

Kittie came up to the dancing academy and at midnight they went down to the closed car Bates had sent around for them. Beyond a faint peakedness Kittie showed no sign of her recent illness.

"You can't keep a good man down!" she announced gayly. "All the same though, you saved my life ,friend Joslyn. You scuttled the old family pride and took a honkytonk job to see me through."

Joslyn, in a spirit of fairness, attempted to give Bates full credit for paying the hospital and doctor's gill.

"You're goofy!" Kittie declared scornfully. "That old daddy was just making a flash for you—putting out propaganda. Believe me, I'm not suffering from any misplaced gratitude."

When they arrived at Bates' apartment both girls were amazed at its pretentiousness. The elevator ascended to a private reception hall; through an arch a broad living room was visible. Joslyn caught a confused impression of soft, expensive furniture, deep rugs, paintings. A haze of talkative voices hung in the rooms; there were hurried glimpses of nine in smart, glistening linen, modish women with bare shoulders and trim bobbed heads.

Bates, immaculately garbed, directed them to a luxurious bedroom to remove their wraps. Later he presented them to the others. Cocktails and cigarettes were everywhere. Joslyn's knees suddenly weakened, as yet another guest strolled into the room—

It was James Kelvin.

Surrounding objects — people— grew dim in Joslyn's vision; all she saw was Kelvin's rakish figure, the stencilled regularity of its features. The voice of Bates going through introductions was a blur.

"Welcome, welcome, welcome!" Kelvin had her hands in his electric grasp. His voice was charged with magnetism. "I've looked everywhere for you. I've been back to The Galloping Hind almost every night. . . ." Joslyn's replies were scattering, inane.

Bates put a hand on the other man's shoulder. "Look here, Kelvin!" he said sharply, his breath spicy, and aromatic with liquor. "This gal's my guest—not yours."

Kelvin flushed quickly. "Get your hand off me!"

"All right, brother." Bates had a stony calm. "Come on girls—let's meet the rest of the guests."

The hushed resonance of an expensive phonograph filled the room with deep-throated jazz.

Two couples, in close embrace, were dancing. On a brass tray were cocktails circulated by a Jap in a white coat. Introductions were extremely casual.

Joslyn was caught up and swept into a dance on the polished hardwood beyond a Chinese rug. It was Bates, silent and aromatic. "Where'd you ever meet Kelvin?" he asked finally, as the music stopped. Joslyn explained briefly.

"Kelvin better keep his hands off," Bates growled.

A middle-aged man, definitely stamped with the theatre, came up and bore Joslyn away from the sullen Bates and into another dance. A moment later she saw Kittie and Kelvin dancing together; later they were sitting in a deep divan with cocktails. "Bates and Kelvin are both soaking up a lot of stuff tonight," her partner remarked. "In fact, everybody's getting potted."

Interruption came in the form of rarebits from steaming chafing dishes. Conversation became louder somewhat boisterous. Kittie, Joslyn observed, was improving her shining hour with several men. Kelvin, slightly unsteady, came up; his face was hot and dark.

"I got to make a date with you! Understand? Got to!"

His growing intoxication had weakened his magic pull for Joslyn and she was able to look at him with cool eyes. Now, for the first time, she could fathom him as he really was . . . the tragedy of fiery, unrestrained wilfulness riding over a great ability . . . seeds of greatness rotting in a corrupt soil.

Kelvin seemed to sense what was in her mind. "Now don't start criticizing me!" he cried, with a touch of wildness. "You got no reason to high-hat me—not when you're playing around with a rotten old chaser like Steve Bates——

His voice had risen to a startling height, had rung through the room. All other conversation halted in abrupt silence. "Keep still!" Joslyn commanded in a whisper. "Bates'll hear you!"

"I don't care who hears me!" Kelvin's voice was defiantly drunk. "Bates is going to lose his sweetie right now! I——"

From behind a swift hand reached his shoulder and spun him around. Stephen Bates faced him, fish-eyed, his mouth a crack in granite.

"When I've got anything to settle htwima an ETOIN SHDL SHC tle with a man I don't require an audience—I'm not a cheap actor," he said, his tone cold, brittle. "I'll be glad to listen to your ideas anytime . . . . . in private."

Kelvin's eyes were dancing pin points of flame. "Where can we go-" he cried from a tight throat.

"When I get through with you, you——"

"Cut it!" Bates broke in sharply. "Where do you think you are—in a joint? I don't care to have my guests insulted. If you'll step into another room I'll be glad to listen to you." He waved a steady hand toward the hall. For a moment Kelvin looked at him levelly, then, shrugging his shoulders, moved out of the room. Bates lingered a moment, spoke generally and in a perfectly contained voice to his guests.

"You can all see I did not start this. Kelvin has drunk himself into a dangerous mood. I'm going to try to reason with him and ask him to leave."

A cold smile was on his lips; as he left the room he bowed slightly. When he had left the others the face of Stephen Bates lost its deceptive urbanity, hardend, contorted, until it was a mask of viciousness, the snarling countenance of the gutter from which he had sprung. In the library, separated from the main room by the hall, he found Kelvin.

Moving on the balls of his feet, Bates entered the room, locked the door swiftly and thrust the key in his pocket.

"Put that key on the table!" Kelvin commanded hoarsely.

Contemptuously, Bates complied. "Now you——

In a voice reeking with the sewerage of his upbringing he began to curse Kelvin with words so foul that the movie actor, arrogantly drunk, blanched at their horrible implications.

"And now that I've told you what I think of you I'm going to hammer your face off!"

But it was Kelvin who struck first with a lashing fist that caught Bates full in the face. The older man reeled, caught a table, recovered and charged like a rushing bull. At close quarters his hands found the movie actor's throat. Kelvin, at a disadvantage, rained furious blows at his antagonist as his own face blackened above the throttle grip at his throat. It was useless. Under the stifling pressure his arm weakened and dropped slowly . . . . by accident one hand fell on a squat bronze paperweight, the figure of a Buddah, as Bates pressed him back over a table.

Hope, strength, surged with a final rally through Kelvin's choked body. Desperately he fought himself upward . . . . swung the hand that clutched the heavy Buddah. With a crunch it reached Bates' temple . . . . crumpled him to the floor.

Looking down at the motionless figure, the sunken place in the skull, Kelvin, suddenly, knew the truth.

Bates was dead.

His hands, all at once, were nerveless. Tremblingly, he managed to unlock th door to call Joslyn —everybody . . . . . .

LIST GENERALLY LOWER AT CLOSE ON WALL STREET

Call Money Renews at 3 Per Cent; At Two Outside

NEW YORK, May 7—(By John A. Cooley, Associated Press financial writer)—Sharply irregular price movements characterized trading in stocks today. At the close the list was generally lower.

Money was plentiful and a renewal rate of 3 per cent was posted on the stock exchange for the first time since March 21. Funds were available outside as low as 2 per cent but the official figure held.

Manhattan Electrical Supply, whose recent market course is under more stagnation by the securities bureau of the state attorney general's office, flopped 35 points, to 18, closing at 19⅜. Celotex tumbled nearly 2¾ points on the filing of receivership proceedings. Eight points of the loss were recovered when Celotex's president announced that the concern was solvent and that the court action was unjustified.

These broad declines revived the bears, who started an aggressive selling movement in the final half hour. U. S. Steel, which had sold as high as 173⅜, dipped to 168⅛, recovering only a fraction for a net loss of 4⅝. Sterling Cables, touching a new low for the year at $4.85 27-32, approached the gold import point.

Chicago motorist arrested for speeding and did not have $50 for cash bond, left his wife as security while he hunted up the bond money.

Interior of B. C., Alberta Breeders Buy Cattle

TRAIL, B. C., May 7—According to William Forrest, British Columbia director of the Canadian Ayrshire Breeder's association and farm superintendent of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting company, there is a keen demand for Ayrshires in both the interior of British Columbia and in Alberta and they have many enqiries for bull calves for herd sires.

The following bull calves have recently been sold in British Columbia: Warfield Donald, to H. Nixon, Perry Siding; Warfield Fieldman, to R. D. Kennedy, Lemon Creek; Warfield True Descent, to P. Drake, Rossland; Warfield Sam Barkley, to Glenone Dairy, Trail; Warfield Prince Charlie, to Leonard Clark, Gray Creek; Warfield Bruce to Sam Barkley, Salmo.

Six heifers were supplied to the Greenwood Calf club and a similar number to the club at Rock Creek. Ten heifer calves have also been ordered for the club at Castlegar.—Province.

STRENGTH OF THE COUNTRY PROVEN SAYS E. W. BEATTY

MONTREAL, May 7—General confidence throughout Canada is unshaken by the combination of unusual conditions which has developed the present situation, the country's strength has been effectively proven and the future is not to be viewed with any degree of apprehension, in the opinion of E. W. Beatty, chairman, and president of the Canadian Pacific railway, as declared to the shareholders of the company at the annual meeting held here today.

While a number of factors, particularly the failure to market Canadian grain, have slowed up freight traffic it is felt that there is nothing of a fundamental character to prevent the return of normal business conditions within the next few months.

OIL ISSUES IN DECLINE, COAST

Mostly Confined to Narrow Limits; McLeod Leads

VANCOUVER, May 7.—Oil issues on the Vancouver stock exchange today turned somewhat reactionary following yesterday's "bull" session. The majority of yesterday's strong spots moved downward today on selling mostly inspired by profit taking.

Losses were generally confined to narrow limits, however, McLeod leading with a 15-cent drop to 1.55. Van Alta was off five cents at .50, while one, two and three-cent losses were suffered by A. P. Consolidated, C. and E. Corporation, Dalhousie, United and Mill City.

Calmont proved an exception to the general trend and continued to move forward under the stimulus of heavy buying. It closed at 1.82, up nine cents, after touching 1.84. Amalgamated also was strong selling as high as .30 and closing with a three-cent gain at 27°.

The mines were quiet. George Copper featured with a 30-cent gain at 1.30, while Pend Oreille was up .12 at 1.32.

MORE RECOVERY, MONTREAL LIST

Net Gains at Close Have a Good Majority Over Losses

MONTREAL, May 7—Further progress was made in the current recovery on the Montreal stock exchange today. Net gains at the close had a good majority over net losses, but the return of stability to the list was the important development.

The opening was one of extreme dullness, with all leading issues fluctuating within a very narrow area. The late dealings saw several stocks, notably Montreal Power, slip off from their higher levels, but the market closed steady. Volume showed another sharp contraction.

In the matter of leadership, Brazilian left International Nickel far behind, and unlike Nickel managed to close higher on the day. Group movements were lacking. Canada Power, the leader of the paper group, closed up a fraction, while Abitibi held unchanged. Shawinigan and Power Corporation advanced. While Montreal Power broke 2. Famous Players voting trust was an active feature, closing nearly a point lower, while the common advanced ¼. Dominion Bridage held steady until the late trading; when it eased a point. McColl-Frontenac was active and firm, closing fractionally higher.

Other moderately active stocks were Fraser, unchanged at 13; Alcohol, unchanged at 7; Canadian Car; ⅜ higher at 24⅞; Winnipeg Electric, ¼ higher at 43, after selling up to 44½; National Brick, off a point at 7; Steel Car, which was consistently strong, closing 2 higher at 62; National Breweries, unchanged at 30, and Massey-Harris unchanged at 33.

Brazilian first in activity at the close was ⅜ higher at 47¾, after selling up to 48¾. Nickel, which was second closed off 1⅛ at 32. Montreal Power closed off 2 at 125.

Total sales were 56,883 shares.

Total sales of bonds were $149,600.

GRANT TO ENGLISH CADETS IS RAISED

Church Lads' Brigade Not To Be Affected By Loss Grant

Some little time ago when the English secretary of state for war announced during the presentation of the army estimates before the house of commons that it would be necessary, for the sake of economy, for the annual grant of £15,000 for the Cadet Force and Cadet Grant, to be suspended

The Church Lads' Brigade to which many folks living in Nelson and district have belonged in the old country has issued a leaflet telling just how little the suspension of the grant will affect the Brigade.

The leaflet explains that certain statements made by the secretary of state for war might do injustice to the Cadet Corps in general and to the Church Lads' Brigade in particular

The object of training lads in the corps is to develop in them principles of patriotism and good citizenship during peace, and to fit them in the event of a national war to take their places in the defense of their home and country.

Also appearing in the leaflet are testimonials praising the Brigade for their work done during the past 20 years Lord Kitchener said "I have not looked to the Church Lads' Brigade to give me soldiers. I can train soldiers at Caterham. But I do look to the Church Lads' Brigade to give me men of character, whom I can choose for non-commissioned officers."

The Brigade officials did not see that the loss of the grant would affect their organization particularly since it was only a small portion of the money which was raised through donation and fees.

T. W. Bush of Nelson became connected with the Church Lads' Brigade in the early days of the war. He has been on the reserve list continuously since.

What Do You Think?

GENERAL UPSET FORSEEN IF THE CALENDAR CHANGES

To the Editor The Nelson Daily News.

Sir— How about this proposed change in the calendar sponsored by one Moses B. Cotsworth, backed by a multi-millionaire, to start Jan. 1, 1933. Calendrical magicians want to put 12 months into Father Time's hat and take out 13. One senses an instinctive antipathy to the idea of tampering with the venerable calendar over the kitchen sink and there will be plenty of lively protest, notwithstanding the many apparent advantages of the change. Born by the old calendar, we celebrate out notable days thereby; it may be a wretched hangover of bygone days, but, by jiminy, we are so used to it that the revolutionary changes will take a generation or so to get used to it. It is proposed to divide the jolly old year into thirteen months of 28 days, each week, month and year beginning on same day, with a new month "Sol" between June and July, and the left over day—the blank day—coming between Dec. 28 and January 1—a Year day or holiday. Leap year day is to be moved from February to June. What price trying to get the ancient rhyme "30 days hath September, etc." out of the brainpan?

Unless born in January, you lose your birthday; I lose mine, and there will be a frightful row at home, I know, with one young lady.

I do not want to receive "congratters" on Sol 27th—my birthday. The change will mess up all birthdays, wedding days, holidays and other cherished anniversaries after January 28, will give us 13 Fridays the 13th (think of that, ye who hold superstition as some reality) it will cause a complete change in all our calendar thoughts. If we are goin to reform the calendar, make a good job of it. Start the year in the blithesome spring with the long winter past and faint stirrings in the earth heralding the flowers; Julius Caesar, who originated the earlier date has been dead a long time now; he will not mind. Prior to 1752, England approximated the idea of the New Year on March 28 with her legal and ecclesiastical years, but when the Gregorian calendar was adopted, this reckoning was abandoned. Judged by some standards, the present calendar is quite simple. In India, they have 17, and it takes three months to compile the six officially recognized by the government.

The new calendar will have advantages, of course, it will do away with those proclamations "The First Monday after the first Sunday, etc., etc." we sometimes have thrown at us; it would make comparative statistics absolutely reliable, and these are the compass and chart of modern business. February could be compared with January, and so on. It would remove a lot of present date vagrancies, though the churches will not wan to have their feast, fast and holydays disturbed, and have no objection to having Easter fluctuating through a 35 day period. Under the new proposal, Easter would always by April 8th. There would be the same number of working days, paydays each month, and holiday. would always come on the same weekday; reckoning of lapse of time for your margin account interest would be greatly simplified for the brokers.

Russia has got the "bug" of calendar changing too; she has done away with happy farmers, prosperous lawyers, home ties, Christmas trees and now Moscow proposes to abolish Saturday and Sundays. Life in Russia under her new calendar will be just one five day week after another, and the golf outlook is very gloomy. After all these years, we have found out that the jolly old year refuses to come out even, so it has got to be brought to time and task, and I imagine the only person in the world today who will look upon the change with lofty disdain will be Herr Albert Einstein!

The theory may be all right, but when all is said and done, it is the ultimate consumer and not the cook who decides on the excellence of the pudding. If the thing goes through with next year's budget, 1933 is going to be quite an interesting year, but what are we going to tell the children on their birthdays?

Yours truly,
GERALD S. REES
