DIFFERENCES SUNDER ALLIANCE

French Argue British Plan Overthrows Versailles Treaty

COULD GAIN NOTHING BY CONTINUING

Difference Between French and British One of Principle

BONAR LAW EXPLAINS CONFERENCE FAILURE

He and Poincare Exchange Amenities As to the Their Real Dividing Issue

PARIS, Jan. 4.—Premier Bonar Law, in a statement to the press tonight, explained the reasons why France and Great Britain had reached a point where it was absolutely impossible to agree on the reparations problem.

"The conference is over," he said. "M. Poincare, in the course of his observations this afternoon, stated, what was obvious to both of us, that in the London conference we had felt that this difference between the two countries was so great as to make it almost impossible to come to an agreement.

Cannot Overcome Difference

"That did not prevent the French and British governments, after we met in Paris, from doing their utmost in trying to come to an agreement. At the beginning of our discussions this afternoon, M. Poincare, not at all to my surprise, brought the issue quite clearly to a point where he expressed the view that if there was a difference of principle between us which could not be overcome, nothing was to be gained, and possibly something important might be lost, by futile attempts at a compromise, in the reality of which no one would believe, even while we were discussing it.

"I was and am of the same opinion. M. Poincare then put the ground of the difficulty as he understood it, clearly before the conference. He said there was a hitch between us, that one of the views of the French delegation made a bridge impossible and that as there seemed to be no bridge, the only chance of agreement would be that we should find our way from one side of the ditch to the other.

Principle Constitutes Ditch

"The principle which he put as constituting that ditch was this simple question: 'Is there to be a moratorium with guarantees or without guarantees?' I could not accept this distinction in that form. In the speech I made at the conference yesterday I stated our position quite clearly to be this, that it is not a question of guarantees or principle, that the difference is simply whether the steps to be taken will or will not prevent the recovery of German credit.

"Our views all through, clearly stated, have been that there are two methods of dealing with this question, one is to seize from your debtor whatever is within your reach; another is consider in anything you seize, whether it will prevent recovery of German credit. For that, in the British view, lies the hope to obtain any large sums for reparations.

"I therefore put it to M. Poincare that the real ground of differences between us was not merely a question of particular guarantees, but whether the amounts which Germany is required to give this year and the following years are or are not of an extent so great as to make any question of revived German credit impossible.

"The French propsals would take either in cash or deliveries of merchandise during the first year of the moratorium about 80,000,000 pounds sterling; if this immense sum were exacted during the moratorium, Germany would have to pay her nationals in paper marks, making stabilization impossible.

"Our discussion today, as they have been all through, were of a most friendly character, but as M. Poincare and I came to the conclusion that there was a vital difference of opinion between us, it was obvious that nothing could be gained by long discussion and arguments. We therefore concluded very regretfully and I am sure to the regret of the French government, that an agreement was impossible."

BELIEVE ALL HANDS LOST IN SHIPWRECK

Alaskan Goes Down Off Pachena; Distress Signals Noticed

VICTORIA, Jan. 4.—The 100-ton steamer Alaskan, bound from Victoria for Barclay sound, was wrecked off Pachena on Tuesday night and all members of the crew are believed to have perished.

A body of a man was picked up today three miles west of Pachena point lying beside a lifeboat and three life belts marked Alaskan.

Distress signals were seen by the keeper of the Pachena light on Tuesday night and it is believed they were displayed by the Alaskan. Captain J. A. Baillie of Victoria commanded the Alaskan. The crew of from seven to 10 men was composed of Victoria and Vancouver men. E. W. Brock of Vancouver was first mate. Names of the rest of the crew have not been ascertained yet.

Difficult to Ascertain Names

VICTORIA, Jan. 4.—Names of those lost on the Alaskan are difficult to ascertain because several of the registered crew are ashore and admit that many changes have been made recently in the vessel's personnel without notice to the shipping master. Bert Young, 17-year-old Victoria boy, is known to have been aboard, and the captain. Of the registered crew four were Vancouver men and three Victoria. It is not even known definitely how many men were aboard on the Alaskan's last sailing.

Appreciate Restoration of Strikers

OTTAWA, Jan. 4.—Resolutions expressing appreciation of efforts which have resulted in the restoration of the pension and seniority standing of Grand Tunk railway employees who participated in the strike of 1910, have been forwarded to Premier King; Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National railways; Major Graham Bell, vice-president; Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen; and W. D. Robb, vice-president of the Grand Trunk division, Canadian National railways, by L. L. Pelitier, Canadian legislative representative of the Order of Railway Conductors.

In his letter to the prime minister, enclosing copies of the resolution passed, Mr. Pelitier says, "This satisfactory settlement of a long standing injustice, (1910 to 1922), is an encouragement to those who believe that grievances growing out of industrial relation can be adjusted between men of goodwill by patient, industrious persistence, without resort to revolutionary methods."

OTTAWA, Jan. 4.—Moses Bilsky, pioneer Ottawa jeweler, died tonight, aged 94.

IMPLICATES THREE MEN IN MURDER

Two Under Arrest in Hammer Mystery; No Trace of Third

WINNIPEG, Jan. 4. — After an hour's deliberation, a coroner's jury tonight brought in a verdict implicating John Stanton, Arthur Searle and Albert (Happy) Horton in the murder of 74-year-old John Penny, whose body, with head smashed in and arms and legs pinioned, was found at 527 Young street on December 9, last. The verdict found that from evidence submitted, Penny was murdered "through blows on the head administered by a blunt instrument in the hands of either or both John Stanton or Arthur Searle, and that Albert Horton was an accessory to the fact."

Reward Offered

Searle and Horton are at present under arrest charged with being implicated in the case, but no trace has yet been found of Stanton, for whose arrest on a charge of murder $500 reward has been offered. Stanton, according to Horton's evidence last week, murdered Penny after robbing him of jewels, the property of Annie Selback, and money, totaling in value about one thousand dollars. Annie Selback, who was the old man's housekeeper, was freed on Saturday of implication in the case, having proved to the ploice that she was not home on the night of the murder. She will be used by the crown as a material witness, however.

Searle again refused to make any statement on advice of his counsel, as was the case last week, but it is understood statements made by him to the police prior to the inquest, were submitted to the jury.

J. Morkin, counsel for Searle, registered objection to the original verdict, which did not contain the words "or both," being altered on the suggestion of Coroner H. M. Cameron, who said the verdict's original wording was ambiguous. Mr. Morkin challenged the authority of the coroner. Other slight changes in the verdict also were made.

CANADA SIGNS TRADE TREATY

Complete Pact With Italy; Defer Spanish Negotiations

LONDON, Jan. 4.—A treaty respecting the commercial relations between Canada and Italy was signed in London at the foreign office today by Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. Ernest Lapointe, representing Canada, and a representative of the Italian ambassador, the ambassador being absent at the Paris conference. The negotiations with Italy were completed today.

Speaking to the Canadian Press tonight, Mr. Fielding said that besides the negotiations with the French government, which had resulted in the signing of a trade treaty between France and Canada, he, along with Mr. Lapointe, had discussions on similar questions with the Belgian government in Brussels and with representatives of the Spanish and Italian governments in London and Paris.

Suspend Belgian Negotiations.

Ot the request of the Belgian government, the negotiations had been suspended for a time. In the case of Spain, the commercial treaty recently concluded between Great Britain and Spain contains a clause wherein the Spanish government agrees that Canada may become a party to the treaty. Pending consideration of the action to be taken, the existing commercial relations between Spain and Canada have been allowed to stand for six monhts.

The Canadian ministers hold that the conditions of the British treaty are not suitable to the situation in Canada and therefore a separate treaty should be made. As the negotiations of such a treaty would necessarily occupy some considerable time, the Canadian ministers, who are planning an immediate return to Canada, have asked the Spanish government to maintain the present conditions not only for six months but for a further six months, so that time may be allowed for due consideration of the details. It is expected that such an arrangement may be made.

OBJECT TO NEWSPAPER PROMINENCE

Bench and Bar Condemn Ultra-Sensational Press Articles

LONDON, Jan. 4.—(By Canadian Press Cable).—Certain enterprizes of the ultra-sensational press are bringing condemnation from both the bench and the bar. High court judges recently severely censured a newspaper which, after a notorious trial, interviewed some members of the jury and professed to have extracted from them their reasons for the verdict which they had given.

The council of the general bar has just passed a resolution affirming that it is contrary to the etiquette of the bar for a practicing barrister to give an interview to the press concerning any matter in which he has been engaged as counsel.

This resolution follows the appearance of an article in a certain newspaper signed by one of the counsel who had appeared in a prominent murder trial. The barrister in question, however, declares that he was totally unaware that his remarks would be published, and certainly gave no authority for his name to appear in connection with them.

One society here, which concerns itself with matters of general morality, is conducting a campaign against the alleged undue prominence given to divorce reports in the papers and proposes to bring to the general notice of the English people how such matters receive scarcely any notice in the Canadian press.

The other victim, Mr. Ladd, was also the guest, with his wife, at the O'Connors. Both men were trapped by the spreading of the flames. The other occupants had a narrow escape. Mr. Morris leaves a wife and three children.

The firemen were severely handicapped owing to an inadequate water supply.

TWENTY-TWO LOSE LIVES IN DISASTER

Several Missing Besides Known Casualties When Bridge Breaks

KELSO, Wash., Jan. 4.—At least 22 persons lost their lives in the bridge disaster here last night. Two men injured and taken from the water died today. When rescue parties ceased their labors at dark tonight 20 more were known to be missing and almost certainly drowned. Not one body has been found in the water or under the wreckage. The exact number of victims probably never will be known. Many men employed as day laborers at the lumber mills were transients not even on the payroll of the company and their absence would never be noticed. All eyewitnesses agree that there were at least 150 persons on the bridge when it fell, and it is generally feared that more than 20 of these failed to run to safety or escaping the flooded river.

Conference Breaks With Mutual Goodwill; Cooperate on Near East

PARIS, Jan. 4.—The alliance between France, Great Britain, Italy and Belgium fell apart today over the treatment of German reparations. France, Italy and Belgium remain closely grouped together on that subject, while Great Britain, although separating from them, expects to cooperate, especially with France, on other questions. The conference of the premiers, which has been in progress here since January 2, ended with friendly words. Bonar Law made a statement on behalf of the British government and the British people, as follows:

Cannot Approve

"His majesty's government, after giving the most earnest and careful consideration to the French proposals, have come to the conclusion that they cannot approve them and that, if carried out, they will not only fail to prove the desired results, but are likely to have grave and disastrous results on the economic life of Europe.

"His majesty's government at the same time desires to assure the government of the French republic that, while they regret extremely that there should be an irreconcilable difference of views on a subject so serious, the feeling of friendship, on the part not only of the British government, but, as they believe, of the British people toward the government and people of France remains unchanged."

France Rejects

In his reply, M. Poincare said:

"The French government, for their part, have examined very attentively and carefully the British proposals and the longer they have studied them, the more they have felt obliged to recognize that the proposals would involve, together with a considerable reduction of the debt owing to France, the overthrow of the treaty of Ver-

EDGEWOOD FOR A FERRY RATE WITH ROBSON

Asks Nelson Board of Trade to Support Request to Railway Company

A special ferry rate on the transfer of automobiles between Edgewood and East Robson is being sought from the C.P.R. by the people of Edgewood, and M. McLean, acting for a public meeting held at Edgewood, has written the Nelson board of trade, through Mayor C. F. McHardy, asking it to support this application.

This letter, among others, was considered yesterday afternoon by the council of the board, and was referred to the full board for discussion and action.

No fewer than 11 members of the council were on hand for the meeting, which was the regular meeting in preparation for next week's board meeting.

Bamford drew attention to action by the Toronto board of trade, which is seeking to secure better hotel accommodation throughout Ontario, so that motor tourist traffic will be attracted there. A letter from the Appledale local of the United Farmers assured the board that Appledale was with Nelson in all efforts to secure improved railway service in the Slocan.

Those present were President F. J. Boles, Vice-President J. A. McDonald, J. R. Hunter, Fred A. Starkey, G. A. Brown, H. E. Dill, Alderman L. H. Choquette, W. B. Bamford, Alexander Leith, I. G. Nelson, W. M. Walker and Secretary E. F. Gigot.

Getting Rid of a Stubborn Cough Is Child's Play Now

Make the Medicine Yourself at Home It's Cheap—but You Can't Beat It

If you want to take care of that bad, hang on cough and do it in a few hours, better get one ounce of Parmint (double strength) and mix half a pint at home.

You can do this in two minutes by adding a little sugar and enough water to fill a half pint bottle.

You'll travel the world over before you get a medicine that will act so surely and quickly on the mucous membrane of the nose and throat. It halts the inflamation, the tickling sensation stops with the first spoonful, the heavy breathing goes and clean membrane, free from irritation and mucus follows.

For Catarrhal conditions such as mucus droppings, clogged nostrils and watery eyes, it won't disappoint—ask for Parmint (double strength). Speak plainly so that the druggist will know exactly what you want.

sailles. It is impossible for them to accept such a solution.

"The government of the republic deeply regret their inability to agree with Great Britain on this serious question, but they thank the British government for their friendly statement and can assure them that in spite of this difference of opinion, the sentiments of the French government and nation toward England remain cordial."

Italy Hopes for Agreement

Marquis de la Torreta, representing Italy, said:

"The Italian delegation sincerely regrets to see the efforts it made to reach an accord among the allies on such a grave question have not been crowned with success. The Italian delegation has interpreted the thought of its own government in the conviction that the disagreement among the allies has not influenced the cordial sentiments of friendship so long existing and expresses the hope that eventually, even on this present question, there will be reconsideration and agreement."

Vote Against British

The Italian premier, Mussolini, turned the scales decisively against the British plan. The Italian delegates had reserved their final declaration until today, and this morning it appeared that they were inclined to support Mr. Bonar Law's proposal with slight modifications. A telegram received from Rome just before the conference opened instructed them to vote for the French plan as against the British in case they should find it useless to push their own plan. This strengthened France and Belgium, and Great Britain stood alone.

M. Poincare is not elated tonight over his success. He is described as in sober mood, conscious of anxieties and difficulties ahead. He will proceed farily and will report to the French parliament on its reassembling next Thursday. In the meantime, the reparations commission will meet on Tuesday to pass upon coal deliveries, and also upon Germany's request for a moratorium.

May Not Withdraw

Sir John Bradbury is expected to be present, as the breaking up of the conference does not mean withdrawal of the British delegate from the reparations commission. The Versailles treaty specifies that no member of the commission may withdraw without giving a year's notice.

The French will await the action of the commission before putting their plan into execution. Poincare, in applying the plan in the absence of British support, may, it is said in semiofficial circles find it necessary to support the customs officers and guards by a small military force in the Ruhr. He will still insist, however, that these soldiers will be so limited that such action could not possibly be interpreted as military occupation, properly speaking.

Final Controversy

The final quarter hour of the conference was marked by great courtesy. Each of the delegates seemed concerned that nothing in manner or in word should detract from the gravity of the moment.

There are various indications of sadness on the part of the premiers and ambassadors over the dissolution of the alliance, which carried their countries through the war and up to this time in dealing with what have been found to be insoluble problems of peace. Allusions were made privately to the contrast between this situation and the great whole-hearted enthusiasm during the war.

The climax in the conference came when Mr. Bonar Law returned to the conference room after telephoning to London. M. Poincare, during the British prime minister's absence, had examined the British memorandum drawn up in reply to his speech of yesterday and the French premier immediately took the floor and addressed Mr. Bonar Law rather feelingly. He paid tribute to the cordial spirit in which the British premier had conducted the negotiations. To his great regret, however, he found nothing in the memorandum which made it possible for him to change his attitude. Consequently he considered there was no reason for continuing the conference.

Mr. Bonar Law thereupon arose and read a short note which he had prepared during the recess. M. Poincare also read his closing remarks.

Retains Cooperation Idea

The British see in the friendly manner in which the conference broke up and the mutual expression of good will, a sign that M. Poincare has no intention for the present of departing from a policy of cooperation at Lausanne regarding the near east. The British delegates were anxious yesterday over this aspect of the situation, being apprehensive that the French might withdraw their support.

The British will make special efforts to continue their work under the entente in all fields of European politics excepting German reparations.

Mr. Bonar Law's conception appears to be that France may try a free hand with Germany for a few months, until she becomes convinced that her plans will not fulfill expectations and that then she will turn again toward England.

Fear Results

The British are fearful of the results that would follow the application of Premier Poincare's guarantees in the Ruhr and the Rhineland. The same British official professes to doubt that France will actually carry out its threat of independent action, although the only definite alternative which has been suggested is reference of the whole question to the League of Nations. The Italians are reported to have considered suggesting such a course today, but it is generally believed that there will be only a slight chance of such a solution.

United States Interest

The British are interested regarding the reaction in the United States over the conference. There is speculation tonight as to whether the United States will intervene with some suggestion or plan, now that France and Great Britain have failed to agree.

Dr. Karl Bergmann was given no opportunity to present the German government's plan, although he held himself in readiness during the last two days in case he received a call from the conference to appear before it.

SYDNEY, N. S., Jan. 4.—Serious transportation difficulties are anticipated from a heavy snowstorm which set in early this morning and continued unabated at noon. Up to that time, over four inches of snow had fallen. A 29-mile an hour wind is blowing.

The steamship Keel, from St. Johns, Nfld., to North Sydney, reported her position at noon today 25 miles south of Flint island. A blinding snowstorm and a heavy gale is raging and it is not expected the ship will attempt to make port until the weather clears.

North Cape Breton tram lines have been suspended by the blizzard which has been in progress for the past 12 hours.

Thunder and Lightning

SYDNEY, N. S., Jan. 4.—Reverberating thunder and sharp lightning marked the height of the midwinter snowstorm in Cape Breton today. Old-timers declare that this unseasonable occurrence forecasts an immediate period of extremely cold weather.

MANITOBA HIGH SCHOOL NOW A HEAP OF RUINS

Cathedral City Building Gutted by Fire of Incendiary Origin

WINNIPEG, Jan. 4.—Smoke blackened walls stand, as rather substantial ruins of Provencher high school of St. Boniface, Man., gutted by fire in the early hours of this morning, and the loss to the ratepayers of the cathedral city will most likely exceed $100,000, covered by insurance to about $70,000. The origin is generally accepted as incendiary, as the last signs of life about the building were seen when the trustees left the caretaker in charge at about 11 o'clock last night, after a meeting, and when the caretaker left the building for his home nearby, all was secure.

One man, unknown, was seen near the building about 3 a.m., and two others, also unidentified were seen crossing the St. Bonifac college grounds going in a direction away from the school at the same time, by Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Labelle, who live nearby. The police are seeking traces of the men

There was an arrest made during the afternoon, the man being an innocent farmer from Saskatchewan who established his alibi, having arrived from the west at 10 a.m.

BRITISH YOUTH WILL SETTLE ON CANADIAN SOIL

Government Approves Plans Submitted by Salvation Army Commission

TWENTY-FIVE THOUSAND TO BE CHOSEN AT ONCE

Young Women, Youths, and Children Will Sail Early in March

OTTAWA, Jan. 4.—The Dominion government has approved plans submitted by Commissioner David C. Lamb, international secretary of the Salvation Army, for the settlement in Canada of 25,000 young women, youths and children to be selected from the British Isles. This decision is the outcome of a year of conferences which have been proceeding between Commissioner D. C. Lamb, Hon. Charles Stewart, acting minister of immigration and colonization and other members of the government. In a statement given to the Canadian Press at midnight, Commissioner Lamb announced the agreement reached.

First Under Settlement Act.

"The army has secured the cooperation of the overseas settlement commission of the British government as well as that of the Dominion government, in the project," said Commissioner Lamb, "and the agreement now arrived at is the first of its kind concluded in the interests of Canada under the Empire Settlement act. A new and interesting feature of the work is the provision made for giving the youths a short intensive course of education and training on the army's farms in England. The selection of young women will start at once and the first of the conducted parties will sail early in March."

Finances Under Consideration.

The commissioner stated that the question of finance and cooperation with the provincial governments in the scheme are matters still under consideration by the federal house. Mr. Stewart will meet representatives of the provinces in Ottawa next week.

Commissioner Lamb sails from New York on the Majestic on Saturday. He had been in conference with Mr. Stewart and other members of the cabinet for some days. He also called on Premier King, and was received by the governor-general. Lord Byng congratulated him on the success of the negotiations which have been proceeding for six months.

OLD QUEBEC CONVENT GOES UP IN FLAMES

Nuns, Boarders and Pupils Able to Leave in Safety; Built in 1884

ST. GEORGE DE BEAUCE, Que., Jan. 4.—Only a heap of smouldering ruins now marks the site of the Good Shepherd convent here, destroyed by fire this morning. At one time it was feared that the nearby church and a large part of the village would also be burned, but the danger was averted.

The convent, which was a teaching institution, is normally attended by about 300 pupils, of whom about 70 are boarders, but this being a holiday season, only 10 boarders, eight nuns and three women teachers were in the building at the time of the outbreak. They were all able to leave safely.

The cause of the fire is not known. It started in the roof. It is estimated that the loss will exceed $150,000, partly covered by insurance. The convent was built in 1884 and was extended in 1904. It is stated that the work of rebuilding will begin at once and that steps will be taken to provide temporary quarters for the lay pupils who have been attending the convent.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Jan. 4.—Captain Lunt and the crew of the four-masted schooner Alice M. Colbourne tonight were quartered at the coastguard station here while their sturdy [illegible] was being towed up on Pigeon Cove beach, a mile east of Collidge's point, Manchester.

TRAIL TONNAGE BREAKS RECORD BY A FEW TONS

CUSTOM SHIPMENTS MORE THAN DOUBLE

Eighty-eight Private Properties Ship to Consolidated Smelter

Trail Smelter Receipts

	Custom Shippers	Custom Tonnage	Total Tonnage
1922 ...	88	30,334	411,727
1921 ...	64	9,480	411,612

Final figures of ore receipts at the smelter of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company of Canada, at Trail, for 1922, made up with the aid of the final weekly ore statement, show that the past year exceeded 1921 in volume of ore received by 115 tons. The receipts for the last 10 days of December ran to 11,343 tons. As the tonnage for 1921 was by far the largest of any year up to that time, the 1922 figures set a new mark. It has been previously recorded that the output of metals by the smelter for 1922 exceeded that of any previous nonwar year, and was a gain of 33 per cent over 1921.

A tonnage of 30,334 from the custom mines, against 9480 the previous year, reflects the widespread activity, and the fact that a large number of properties are regularly producing. The tonnage of the Consolidated company's own properties shows some shrinkage from last year's remarkable figure of 402,132, to 381,393, owing to the company's copper properties being shut down while the Sullivan concentrator at Kimberley is being built. The big shipper of course has been the Sullivan.

Of 50 shipping mines of the Slocan, including Ainsworth, three went into four figures, the Silversmith being the leader with 6831 tons of lead and zinc concentrates. The Standard, at Silverton, shipped 2496 tons, principally zinc, and the Bosun, at New Denver, 1240 tons. Five Washington properties also went into four figures in their shipments.

By Districts

By districts, counting the Consolidated properties as a group, the origin of Trail's ore for the year, and the number of shippers, is shown in the following table:

District	No. of mines	Tons
Consolidated company		381,393
Nelson-Arrow lakes	10	551
Rossland	1	286
Boundary-Similkameen ..	13	1,073

East Kootenay	1	811
Other districts	5	508
Alberta	1	4
Washington	7	13,200
Totals	88	411,727

The 1921 distribution table showed six shippers for the Nelson-Arrow lakes, three for Rossland, nine for the Boundary-Similkameen, 39 for Slocan-Ainsworth, two for East Kootenay, and five for Washington.

Shipments for the last 10 days of 1922 included: Black Rock, Northport, Wash., 76 tons; Knob Hill, Republic, Wash., 96; Northport Smelting & Refining company, 86; Paradise, Invermere, 121; Republic, Republic, 42; Rosebery-Surprise, New Denver, 137; Silversmith, Sandon, 103; Standard, Silverton, 151; Surprise, Republic, 370; company mines, 10,161.

PRISONER AT JAIL MAKES BID FOR LINE

Jumps Down Bank While On Wood Loading Gang at Mill Adjacent to Jail

SEARCH FOLLOWS UPON HIS HEELS

Kemp Is Run to Earth at the Perrier Mine After Three Hours' Liberty

Finding life in the provincial jail irksome, George Kemp, a prisoner, decided yesterday that he could not wait out the 18 days still remaining before he would be deported, and made a sensational break for liberty, deserting a wood loading gang with which he was working. Three strenuous hours followed, during which Kemp, after he had eluded his pursuers for the time being, headed for the international boundary line by way of the Great Northern track. He was finally peacefully apprehended, while eating supper as the guest of a man living near the Perrier mine at Hall. Practically in a state of collapse, from his flight through deep snow, he was brought back to the jail.

Kemp made his break for liberty a minute or two before 2 o'clock in the afternoon, while employed with seven other prisoners, under Guards A. A. Pitchford and C. V. Gagnon, loading wood on hand sleds for the jail, alongside the mill of the Nelson Lumber & Manufacturing company, below the C.P.R. tracks, at the end of Ward street.

Prisoner Jumps Down Bank

Guard Pitchford, who was in charge of the party, turned to speak to some boys who were throwing snowballs, and Kemp seized that moment to jump down the bank and duck around the mill. A moment later Mr. Pitchford, seeing Kemp was not where he was supposed to be, grasped that an attempt at escape was being made, and detailed Guard Gagnon to look for Kemp, while he himself herded the rest of the gang back to the jail, and reported to Warden W. R. Jarvis.

As Mr. Gagnon turned the corner of the mill, he saw Kemp running up west at full speed, about 100 yards away, and followed him. Kemp dodged in and out among the various buildings, including the match block mill of the W. W. Powell company, and while out of sight of the guard took a side path and got away from the C.P.R., while Mr Gagnon was still searching among the buildings, believing him to have gone on toward the C.P.R. shops.

Chief Constable Ernest Gammon and Constable H. W King of the provincial police, Guard Pitchford of the jail, and Chief of Police Thomas H. Long were all enlisted in the search in the next few minutes, and the C.P.R. area and adjacent section was given a thorough examination.

Telltale Heel Marks

Chief Gammon, searching the gas works and Rosemont district, learned from a woman whom he questioned, that a man wearing his coat inside out had passed up the hill. He also found the new trail of a man who wore boots with new rubber heels. Ascertaining by telephoning Warden Jarvis that Kemp wore new rubber heels that had a circular ridge in their pattern, the chief went on over the hill, coming out at the junction of Silver King road with the Ymir road.

At that point Constable King, who had been searching with others in the C.P.R. yards, showed up, having heard that the man had been seen up the hill. Guard T. Dolphin, who was off duty, and who had been sent for, was also in the search at that point.

Deciding that the man had probably tried to make the Great Northern, Chief Gammon and Guard Dolphin started east and up the hill for the Mountain station, while Constable King took a short cut by way of the Ymir road, and up by the city cemetery. The constable arrived at the railway first, and noted the heel tracks with the circular depression in each, confirming the supposition as to the route chosen by the fleeing man, the trail leading up the railway track.

At this point Chief Gammon dropped out of the party, and returned to town, leaving Constable King and Guard Dolphin to finish the job.

Sometimes in snow more than knee deep the officers followed Kemp's trail, till it left the tracks and led to a cabin adjacent to the Perrier mine. They found the cabin's occupant, an old woodcutter, entertaining Kemp at supper There was a heavy snowstorm, which the officers figured would obliterate his tracks before morning.

Carry Him Pickaback

The prisoner was practically all in, and the officers had to take turns in carrying him pickaback as far down as the old S. P. Pond ranch, where they requisitioned a horse and sleigh, and got him back to the jail early in the evening.

Chief Long, one of those who was in the downtown search, was out for two hours, searching boxcars and other hiding places, until he had to go to court.

It is figured the man got about 15 minutes start while his tracks were being picked up.

Kemp, who is 27 years of age, received a sentence of two months from a magistrate at Kingsgate for evading the immigration laws. With 10 days off his sentence for good conduct, he had only 18 days still to serve before the authorities would have deported him. His home is Spokane.

It is five years since there has been an escape at the provincial jail. On January 18, 1918, a Frenchman named George Duclow, who was serving for a year, attempted an escape, and was at liberty for three hours before he was run to earth. He is said to be now serving a 15-year sentence at the coast.

THIEF GETS FIVE YEARS.

MONTREAL, Jan. 4.—Convicted of breaking into a residence and stealing jewelry valued at $177, Leo Astroff was today sentenced to five years in the penitentiary by Judge Enright, in the court of special sessions. He has served a number of terms.

Home Rule for Scotland?

The strength of the agitation for Irish home rule and its far-flung, long-continued and skillfully engineered propaganda have obscured to the outside world the fact that in Scotland also there has been for years a fairly strong movement in favor of self-government. The legislative union effected between England and Scotland in 1707 was of the greatest economic advantage to the latter country, which shared to the full the prosperity of her former rival, and politically became, in the truest sense, part and parcel of the center of this great modern empire on which the sun never sets.

Always, however, there have been idealists who, mourning the loss of independence and cherishing alike the memory of the victory of Bannockburn and the defeat of Flodden field, wished to have the old Scottish parliament restored, with England and Scotland two separate kingdoms again, but still reigned over by the same sovereign. Now that the Irish Free State has been established, they think the time is opportune for pressing their claims for the recognition of their country as a separate national entity. The result is the formation of the Scottish Home Rule association, whose professed object is to secure self-government for Scotland.

When one considers the power Scots exercise today and have for some years exercised in the government of Great Britain it seems doubtful if the movement will progress far. Why sacrifice the bone of government of Great Britain for the shadow of local self-government, is the question before the canny Scot.

No Such Thing as Overwork?

No person has ever suffered from overwork, according to Professor William Palmer Wynne, noted nerve specialist. Well organized propagandists, it may be, have determined upon a great final offensive to make man "master of his fate and captain of his soul."

It is easy to prove there is such a thing as overwork. An engine can be run at maximum speed for a long time if it is given the best care but eventually there will be a breakdown. A furnace can be fired to produce seemingly unlimited heat, but a little too much heat will melt the instrument or cause an explosion.

It must be admitted, however, that man seldom is overworked. Nervous breakdowns and illness usually come from dissipation and worry. There is a tendency to drive the human machine beyond its limit, to start it suddenly and stop it as quickly, and to fail to make repairs. Professor Wynne would give everyone an opportunity to have a clean mind, a clean body and a clean home, and consign to the hangman those who failed to take advantage of it. A healthful environment, he believes, would wipe out disease and morbidness.

Coue's "day by day in every way" theory is an old idea in a new dress. The theory is dangerous only when its importance is overexaggerated. It is possible to attain self-discipline by auto suggestion; possible for the grouch to become genial; but it is not possible to cross the ocean by that means. Otherwise, Dr. Coue would not have bothered to board a ship.

Fads, theoretical and mechanical, come and go, and still the race lives. Too much enthusiasm at the start usually brings a quick death. Fads also can be overworked. Still, the new school is preaching optimism, and giving humanity confidence and strength. It is much better than psychoanalysis and other subjects for polite conversation which in the past have been inflicted upon society.

A FIRELESS COOKER DINNER

Try the following delicious dinner in your fireless cooker:

Beef a la Mode
Boiled Potatoes
Coffee Steamed Pudding

Beef a la Mode—Three pounds of beef from the round, ounce of fat, salk pork, 2 teaspoons of salt, ¼ teaspoon of pepper, 1 onion, a pinch each of allspice and nutmeg, 6 cloves, 2 tablespoons of beef fat rendered and water nearly to cover.

Wash the beef and lard it with the pork cut into strips, or gash it deeply with a sharp knife and insert the pork pieces in these gashes. Dredge with the salt, pepper and a little flour, then fry the meat in the beef fat till well browned on all sides. Put it into a two-quart (or three-quart) cooker pail and nearly cover with boiling water. Let simmer on the top of your range for one-half hour, then quickly clamp on the pail-cover and slip it into the "well" of your cooker. Leave it for nine hours. If you wish, you may have this mixture in a small pail, and slip it into your cooker pail; in this case, the small pail will contain the meat with water almost to cover, and will be covered tightly, while the large cooker pail will have in it enough boiling-hot water to rise well around the small pail. It will be necessary to reheat before serving. Strain and thicken the gravy in the usual way—with a little flour-and-water paste. This will serve a large family. The recipe may be halved for a family of only two or three members.

Assuming that you have a cooker with three "wells," I suggest that you cook your potatoes in a second "well," and the following pudding in the third well:

Steamed Pudding—One cup of flour, 2 teaspoons of baking powder, ¼ teaspoon of salt, 1 tablespoon of butter, ⅜ of a cup of sweet milk, 2 tablespoons of sugar and 4 large apples cut in eighths. Mix and sift the dry ingredients, cut the butter into them, add the milk and, when this dough is barely mixed, (just so that no loose flour is left) toss it onto a floured bread board and pat or roll it lightly till it is ½ inch thick. Spread the apples on it, then roll it in like a jelly roll. Place it in a well-buttered one-quart brown-bread-mould or in any water-tight can. Cover tightly, tying on the cover, and stand it in your cooker pail. Pour enough boiling water around it to rise almost to its top, and bring this water to the boiling point on top of your range. Let it boil up rapidly before clamping on the lid of the cooker-pail. When this is done, gently remove the pail from the range and lower it into its well in the cooker. Let cook for four or five hours, and serve hot with any hard sauce.

The matter of lower transportation rates to Canada to intending immigrants is to be taken up at a subsequent meeting. The rate from the eastern gateway, Montreal, to Edmonton, has been reduced to $25, it is stated, which is now almost back to the prewar basis, while the Canadian National officials are stated to be in favor of returning to the old rate of one cent a mile from Fort Francis, the western gateway, to western points. This matter is to be finally decided before the next conference.

Inspect Intending Immigrants Before Their Embarkation

OTTAWA, Jan. 4.—Inspection of intending immigrants before they embark at European ports for Canada will be continued by officials of the department of immigration, it was announced to the representatives of the transportation companies at their conference today with Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of immigration and colonization. The transportation companies asked that this system be dispensed with. The department answer was that inspection would be continued and every intending immigrant would be advised, before embarking, whether or not he would be admitted to Canada.

Mouth Breathing

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

At an athletic meet in England some years ago, I noticed one of the competitors in a foot race wearing an apparatus on his nose that aroused my interest.

The athlete explained it as an apparatus to keep his nostrils widely dilated during the race so that he could obtain sufficient air without having to breathe through his mouth. He could have easily secured sufficient air at the critical moment by breathing through his mouth, but he did not wish to do so for even that brief time.

Why? Well, past experience had taught him that breathing through the mouth on a dirt track with many other competitors meant that considerable dust would land on his throat. Further, the moisture that the lungs demand from incoming air would have to come off his throat instead of from the proper place, the lining of the nose.

Mouth breathers invariably have irritable throats and the explanation is, as you see, very simple.

Air coming into the nose must first filter through the little fine hairs at the opening of each nostril. Then as it passes through the nose the mucous lining there moistens it sufficiently to satisfy the lungs.

This moisture has one time been fine tear drops which have come across the eyeball from a gland on outer side of eye to a canal on inner side of eyeball leading into the nose.

Many people suffer with a slight obstruction of the nose and unconsciously breathe through the mouth. While in some instances the obstruction should be removed, nevertheless more frequently the habit of closing the mouth and breathing through the nose can be established with very little effort.

Canadiens Hand Out Defeat to Jungle Outfit

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 4.—Canadiens excelled in almost every department in their first national league fixture on Hamilton ice this season and handed the Bengals a 4 to 1 defeat in such masterly fashion that they sent a record crowd home praising them as the greatest team that has been seen here in action this season.

Canadiens opened a three-man attack that Hamilton defence could do nothing with and it was only the good work on the part of Forbes that held them to a single goal in the opening period. Canadiens are now tied with Ottawa for first place.

Summary

First period—1, Canadiens, O. Cleghorn, 4:40.

Second period—No score.

Third period—2, Canadiens, Boucher, 3:25; 3, Hamilton, Prodgers, 8:25; 4, Canadiens, Boucher, 1:00; 5, Canadiens, O. Cleghorn, 4:00.

HINTS PRINCE MAY MARRY A SCOTCH GIRL

Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lynn Is Indicated by London Paper

LONDON, Jan. 5.—The Daily News today says the engagement of the prince of Wales to the daughter of a well-known Scottish peer will be announced within the next two or three months.

It was this newspaper which several days ago published the report that the prince would shortly be betrothed to an Italian princess, a report which met with official denial.

The Daily News does not give the name of the peer, but says he is an earl whose title dates back from the seventeenth century, the founder of his line having been ennobled in the fifteenth century by the gift of a Scottish baroncy and thus his family is one of the oldest in the peerage.

"The bride-elect," the newspaper adds, "is of an age ideally suited to a union with the prince, which is 28 years old. She has both beauty and brains and is very popular in society, where she already has played a distinguished part. She is one of the closest friends of Princess Mary, sister of the prince.

This deduction may be made from particulars given to the Daily News. It is assumed that the newspaper intends to indicate Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, daughter of the Earl of Strathmore. Lady Elizabeth was born in 1900 and was one of Princess Mary's bridesmaids.

OTTAWA, Jan. 4.—That a much healthier tone is pervading Italy's economic life, and that "with the Fascisti movement in power, there is a feeling that the days of bureaucratic rule, unproductive administration and contradictory state politics are over," is the belief of Canadian Trade Commissioner William Clarke, expressed in a letter written from Milan to the commercial intelligence journal.

Mr. Clarke says that a wave of enthusiasm for hard work, economy and discipline has spread over Italy. The government's program, he states, included the redressing of the budget, drastic economies, readjustment of taxes, settling of industrial problems and the upholding of Italy's dignity abroad.

Heavy Selling Lowers Prices in the Final Hour

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Stock prices pursued an uneven course during the greater part of today's session and then yielded materially in the final hour on a heavy selling movement which followed announcement of a breakup of the alleid premiers' conference on reparations. A number of the early gains were wiped out and several active issues closed 1 to 3 points below yesterday's final quotations.

Speculators for the decline offered a liberal supply of stocks at the opening but these were well absorbed and the market appeared to be turning upward under the leadership of United States Steel which touched 108¾ but reacted at the close to 107¼ for a small net loss.

Short selling continued in spots, despite the rally in the steels, being particularly effective against some of the oil shares, which were supplied liberally on publication of reports that the Royal Dutch company was closing its Mexican refinery because of a lack of oil resulting from the salt water invasion of its fields. California Petroleum continued its rise to higher ground despite denial of reports by the Pan American and Transport company that it was seeking control of the California company. Revivals of rumors, often denied, that the Baldwin Locomotive and Pullman companies were both endeavoring to acquire Lima Locomotive was attributed for the early activity and strength of those stocks. Baldwin was rup up to 140⅝ but reacted later to 135½ and closed at 137. Pullman got to 133⅝ but closed at a slight fractional gain at 131⅛.

St. Paul common and preferred each receded more than a point, some of the selling being influenced by the announcement that the bonds of that road were no longer legal investments in New York strate.

Total sales, 1,275,000 shares.

59 In Memoriam

BREAN.

In tenderest love and memory of Dear Georgie, who left us three short year ago.

Safe in the arms of Jesus;
Safe on His gentle breast.

* * *

When God calls home our dear ones, whom we love,
To dwell with Him in perfect peace above;
We cannot feel that He has loosed the tie,
Which bound our human hearts on earth, so I
Find comfort in the thought that they may be
My Guardian Angels keeping watch o'er me.

No broken tie, but just a veil between
My earthly vision and that world unseen;
A little time to wait while loved ones there
Keep tender watch o'er me till I may share
Their perfect peace and God's most perfect love,
Known unto those who dwell with Him above.

* * *

Never forgotten, Dear Georgie.

LOCAL BOWLERS PROVE VICTORS

Only Eighteen Pins Difference in Nelson-Cranbrook Telegraphic Scores

On New Year's day Cranbrook and Nelson bowling teams entered in a telegraphic contest, which was won by the local pin smashers, by a margin of only 16 pins, which is an exceptionally close score.

The score sheet of the Nelson bowlers could not be located yesterday, as the president of the bowlers in whose possession the scores were, is at present out of the city. Cranbrook's score sheet in the game was as follows:

Sinclair	202	165	159	526
Dallas	162	170	138	470
Johnston	181	171	166	518
Daw	167	173	233	573
Peterson	170	152	193	515
Total				2602

Jack Daw leads with an individual score of 233.

SAILOR FRIEDMAN FILES CHALLENGE

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Sailor Friedman, Chicago lightweight, today filed with the New York state boxing commission an official challenge for a bout with Benny Leonard, for the lightweight championship of the world and posted a forfeit of $2500 as evidence of his good faith.

Under the commission's rules, if it accepts the challenge Leonard must answer it within a specified time or lose claim to the title in New York state as Johnny Wilson, world's middleweight champion, and Johnny Kilbane, world's featherweight champion, have done.

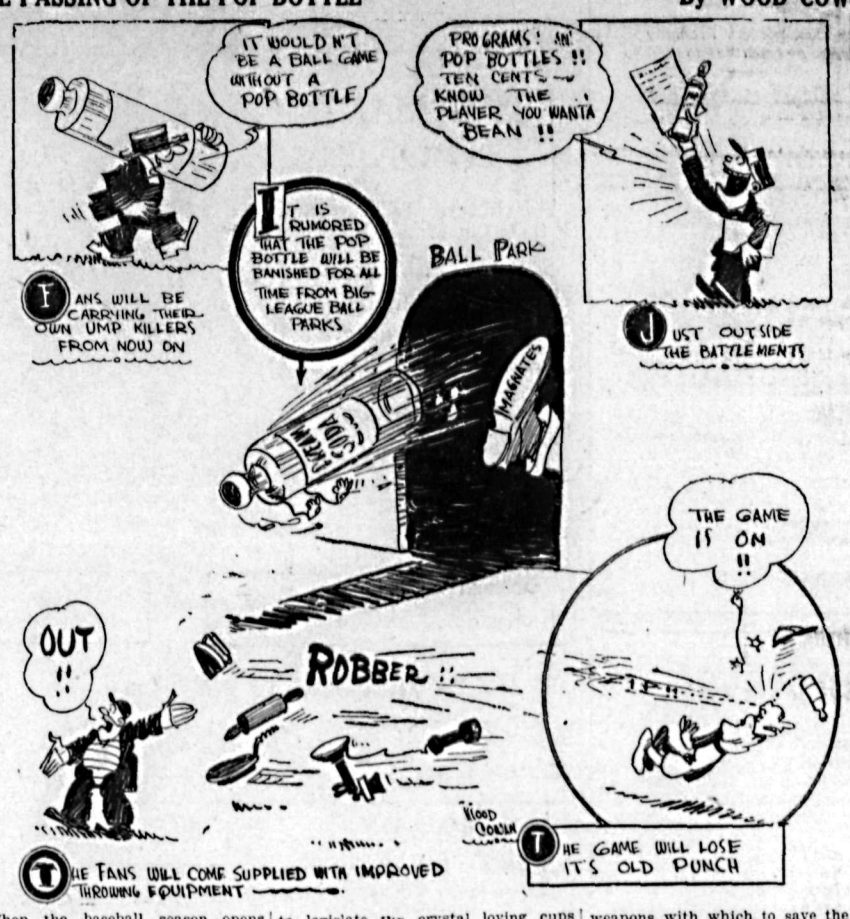
THE PASSING OF THE POP BOTTLE

By WOOD COWAN



When the baseball season opens there are going to be a lot of old familiar faces missing among the spectators—old Pop Bottle and all the little Bottles, Sarsaparilla, Lemon, Ginger and Strawberry, will have passed away into the land of great-things-that-were, around the baseball field. For, from all reports, Pop Bottle has been banished from big league ball parks. Not for anything that Pop has done, but for what has been done with the Bottle.

Since a St. Looie bleacher bottle-thrower bounced a sarsaparilla container off the ivory skull of Whitey Witt, the mag-nuts have come to the conclusion that a bottle in the paws of a rabid fan is one weapon that is much more dangerous empty than loaded. The only way to preserve their million-dollar ivory collection that roves in the outfield gardens, is to legislate the crystal loving cups out of the bug arena for all time.

St. Looie fans whose idea of a fond welcome to visiting players is to bound pop bottles off their domes and christen them with showers of glass, will have to bring a different and improved brand of torture ammunition to the sunkissed bleachers when hostilities open in April.

Will Quaker city bugs, after having hiccoughed in the cellar during the past few years of national thirst, be content to cheer on without their bottles? And will the Boston "beans" become a has-waser when brave fans are deprived of the privilege of throwing a foul one into fair territory? Can the Chicago powers that beef in the National league hold out against a raving stand of bleacherites frothing at the mouth under a hot sun and devoid of dome-denting weapons with which to save the day as a visiting gardener plucks the pillet off the right field fence and turns defeat into victory?

Will stripping the bugs of their rightful weapons of vengeance bring on a new era, and a new type of skull crushing missives representative of the fans' respective alma mater? Will Pittsburgh cuckoos throw smoke bombs, for instance—Boston bugs welcome visitors with a shower of bean cans—Washington fanatics smother opposition under a deluge of congressional records—Chicago toss gas bombs of stockyard ozone?

Is this the beginning of disarmament? Will the powers that be slowly deprive the bug of all missive about his person? Does the fan of the future cherish the idea of attending his favorite sport attired in a straight-jacket or a barrel?

But why make the fan suffer? Throwing pop bottles is one of the joys of the great American game. Why not dress the ivory works in armor? It might slow up the game a little, but not like banishing the glass works will. And then again, a few skulls of the diamond need a protecting veneer—and it might be well to deprive others of theirs.

With the passing of the crystal loving cup the game will lose a lot of its old-time punch. Its sparkling facets, shooting stars and scintillating highlights will be missed by both beaners and beaned.

English Cricketers Have Narrow Victory Over South Africans

CAPETOWN, Jan. 4.—The second test match between the Marlyebone Cricket club team and a South African 11 resulted in a victory today for the Englishmen by the narrow margin of one wicket.

Overnight the tourists had collapsed badly, losing six wickets for 86 runs, but Jupp and Mann made a gallant stand this morning and hit up 68 of the 87 runs required for victory before they were separated. MacAulay, the last man, scored the winning runs amid scenes of great enthusiasm. South Africa scored 113 and 242, the Marlyebone club replying with 183 and 173 for nine wickets.

Jupp and Mann continued the Marlyebone second innings and added 68 for the seventh wicket. Mann was eighth out at 167, or within six runs of victory. Brown was run out without scoring after Kennedy had hit a single. Kennedy then hit a beautiful leg boundary, bringing the scores level. In a desperate effort to stop the winning run, the fieldsmen closed in around MacAulay who failed to hit the second ball of the over but got the third away for a single, England winning by one wicket.

Nelson Senior Hockey Scheduled for Game on Trail Ice Tonight

The third league game of the West Kootenay Hockey association, in the senior division, is scheduled for tonight at Trail. Adverse weather condition has in the past two weeks played havoc with the rival hockey camps, and ice conditions are very bad.

Last night the seniors had a light workout, in preparation for today's encounter, but the ice was very poor. Late last night it was not certain whether today's game would be postponed or not as word was to be received from Trail regarding ice conditions this morning.

Bowlers Captained by Hunt and Smith Now Lead in Tournament

Only eight more games remain to be played in the monster bowling tournament, which has been in progress at the Y.M.C.A. alleys for the past month. To date, honors are about even between teams captained by E. C. Hunt and P. Smith.

Higginbotham bowling in the tournament, rolled a high score of 267 on Wednesday night, a score only bettered by E. C. Hunt, who recently scattered the maples to the tune of 278.

Last night W. Brown's team defeated Sholander's three by 61 pins, only two members of the teams being present.
