WASHINGTON BACKS VOLSTEAD LAW IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK WET CONSPIRATORS GET SURPRISE

Eleven Alleged Heads of Bootleggers' Bribing Ring "Keep a Date"

SUMMON KEEPERS OF SPEAKEASIES

Federal Government Fires Broadside into Ranks of Open Violators

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The federal government today fired a double-barrelled charge into wet forces alleged to be drenching New York and New Jersey with illicit liquor.

With one charge federal agents, working under direct orders from Washington, brought down a bag of 11 alleged conspirators, rounded up in a local hotel and alleged to have been using $80,000 to bribe prohibition agents not to stop the brewing of real beer in New Jersey, not to interfere with the converting of industrial alcohol into strong liquor and then block the flooding of New York and New Jersey with beer from rival vaults in Pennsylvania.

Double-Barrelled Broadside

With the other barrel the government fired a broadside into the first of several thousand saloon keepers alleged to be running wide open in New York City since the repeal of the state prohibition law. Fifty-four suits were filed in federal court to padlock these alleged "speakeasies," under provisions of the Volstead act, and United States Attorney Hayward added that more action would be brought.

The roundup at the hotel came at the close of the day. Federal prohibition and treasury agents, on appointment made with the alleged bribers, waited in several rooms and took their guests into custody, one by one, as they arrived.

NAVAL RESERVE NOW ORGANIZED

Nine Stations Opened for Receiving Five Hundred Applications

OTTAWA, Oct. 18.—The Royal Canadian Naval reserve of 500 officers and men is now being organized, and it is expected that selection of the officers by the department of naval service will be completed early in November. It is announced by the department of national defence that registrars are to be appointed at each local headquarters to receive applications from men desirous of entering the reserve.

Royal Canadian Naval reserve headquarters will be established at Charlottetown, Halifax, Lunenburg, St. John, Quebec, Montreal, Victoria, Vancouver and Prince Rupert.

Majority Must Follow Sea

Applicants have to be British subjects domiciled in Canada; they must not belong to any other reserve force; must be willing to serve at sea or wherever required; must sign engagements for five consecutive years, and must in most cases follow the sea as a profession.

Naval training at the naval bases of Halifax or Esquimault will be given to Royal Canadian Naval reserve ratings during the winter months.

It is stated by the department that many officers and men of the Canadian merchant marine, as well as fishermen, have applied for entry into the reserve.

ASK BIBLE MANUAL SCHOOL TEXTBOOK

Trustees Will Take Up Proposal With Department; Would Still Bar Clergy

DUNCAN, B.C., Oct. 18. — The school trustees' association convention, by a vote of 26 to 12, this afternoon decided to ask the executive to take up with the department of education the question of introducing into the public schools a manual based on the Bible, for use as a textbook for literature only.

By a poll vote of 22 to 42 the association defeated the motion to delete from the School act the disability clause against clergymen acting as trustees or teachers.

Gulf Storm Wrecks Schooner Bluefields; Four of Crew Drown

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 18.—Four members of the crew of the Mobile schooner Bluefields were lost, and the ship was destroyed, in a storm which struck the gulf coast yesterday. The captain and three seamen reached Pensacola, Fla., today, swimming ashore from the schooner. Search for the other ships that may have been victims of the storm began today.

SIXTY THOUSAND RENT EVICTIONS IN NINE MONTHS

Even Justices Plead for Abolition of New York Landlords' Privileges

MALNUTRITION RAMPANT FROM GRASPING RATES

Many Classes Give Evidence on Housing Shortage Before State Commission

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Stories of whole families suffering from malnutrition because they could not pay the rent and buy food too, and of mothers starving that their babies might eat; of districts where the average infant was six pounds under weight; of "safety last" fire escapes, and gouging landlords—all because of the shortage of homes and exorbitant rents—were related before the state housing commission today.

Mothers With Babes Plead

Judges, welfare workers, professors, wage earners and mothers with babies held in their arms, pleaded to the commission to recommend renewal of the emergency rent laws, so that when they expire next February, thousands of families may not be thrown on the mercy of landlords.

The climax to a steady recital of conditions variously described as horrible, inhumane, indecent and deplorable, came when the commission asked Justice Aaron Levi, president of the board of municipal court justices, if he would suggest any amendment of the emergency rent laws.

Abolish Summary Proceedings

"Yes," answered the justice, "I would wipe out the rent laws and abolish the landlord's right to summary proceedings and ejection of tenants. He still would have the common law to fall back on."

Justice Levi cited that during the first nine months of the year, landlords brought action to eject 65,000 families who were unable to pay rent increases demanded of them, and unable to find homes.

PROVINCE WILL TAX GASOLINE

Three Cents a Gallon Except in Basic Industries; One Price

VICTORIA, Oct. 18.—The provincial government will introduce an amendment to the Taxation act at the next session of the legislature providing for the collection of a tax on gasoline amounting to not more than 3 cents a gallon, it was announced here today by Hon. W. M. Sutherland, minister of public works.

Gasoline used in farming and in the operation of tractors, gasoline saws and fishing boats will be exempt from taxation.

There will be a universal price for gas, and those using gasoline for the purpose for which exemption is provided will be required to periodically swear to statements before justices of the peace as to the amount of gasoline consumed.

Rebates will be obtained on presentation of these statements to the government agency established for that purpose.

Boxer Is Released Long Enough for a Ten-Round Battle

NEWARK, Oct. 18.—Teddy Smacka, local bantamweight boxer, who is serving two weeks' sentence in the Essex county jail here, tonight got a "leave of absence" from the jail long enough to make a flying trip to Passaic, where he defeated Willie Darcy of New York in a 10-round bout.

Johnny Bull and Uncle Samuel to Lend to Hungary

BUDAPEST, Oct. 18.—It is understood here that Great Britain and the United States have agreed to float the Hungarian loan, if the plan for reorganization of the Hungarian finances by the League of Nations is adopted.

Ninety-eight Loops by French Aviatrix Fifty-eight Minutes

PARIS, Oct. 18. — Madame Adriane Bolland, French aviatrix, today established a record by looping the loop 98 times within a period of 58 minutes. This included the time for ascending and descending.

A leak in the gas tank of the plane prevented her from continuing.

GREAT CHAIN OF BRITISH NEWSPAPERS CHANGES HANDS

LORD ROTHERMERE AND SIR EDWARD HULTON

Lord Rothermere, left, brother of the late Lord Northcliffe, has just added to the great Northcliffe newspaper holdings the chain of papers owned by Sir Edward Hulton, with the exception of one, which he has parted with to Lord Beaverbrook.

LEGION DEMANDS NAVY EQUAL TO BRITAIN'S OWN

Ex-Soldiers in States Also for Big Standing Army and Reserves

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—With the adoption here late today of all resolutions, including those favoring adjusted compensation for ex-service men, the 5-5-3 naval ratio plan, a strong and adequate air force, and complete rehabilitation and hospitalization for the disabled veterans, the fifth annual convention of the American legion will elect its new national commander, vice-commanders and national chaplain tomorrow, and adjourn until next year, when it meets in St. Paul.

Back Adjusted Compensation

The convention delegates unanimously voted to back the five-year stand of the legion in favor of adjusted compensation. The committee report covering the subject pointed out that the plan originally was not the legion's but that the legion drafted the compensation law at the invitation of the ways and means committee of the United States.

The resolutions advocated by the naval committee and adopted by the convention recommended "that the navy department keep the United States fleet equal to that of Great Britain, including the establishment and maintenance of such bases and navy yards as may be necessary."

Adequate preparation for national defence was recommended by the military affairs committee, and its resolutions calling for a standing regular army as outlined in the National Defence act and the organization and maintenance of an efficient national guard and organized reserves, were carried by the full convention without a dissenting vote.

MRS. HUGH ROSS HEADS TRUSTEES

Association Asks for Education Survey of Province by Dr. MacLean

DUNCAN, B.C., Oct. 18.—Mrs. E. A. Ross of Nelson was elected president of the British Columbia School Trustees' association, at the closing session of its annual convention here today. Dr. F. J. Nicholson, Vancouver, was elected vice-president, and J. E. Wilton, Point Grey, secretary-treasurer. The executive comprises Dr. Richard Felton; Sooke; George A. Grant, Burnaby, and Mrs. Sheppard, Richmond. Kamloops was chosen as next year's meeting place.

Dr. MacLean Willing

A resolution providing for an educational survey of the province was adopted, with only seven delegates dissenting. Dr. J. D. MacLean, minister of education, already had promised that such a survey would be made if there was sufficient demand for it.

Retiring President Joseph Hardwood made an appeal on behalf of the 400 school boards in unorganized districts, which were not represented in the association. He said single-teacher schools were the weak spot in the educational system in this province. There was a need for branch associations, and Mr. Harwood stressed the fact that in the prairie provinces the governments paid the salaries of organizing trustees.

He hoped the executive would approach the government for assistance for this object.

OTTAWA, Oct. 18.—The conference between Canadian and United *States officials in regard to rum-*running across the border will probably take place about the end of November, it is stated.

ROSSLAND HAS VISITS FROM MINE EXPERTS

Institute Members Inspect Mines and Works; Guests at a Smoker

TRAIL, B.C., Oct. 18.—The second day of the general meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, British Columbia division, opened this morning with a larger attendance than on the opening day.

All of this morning's session was devoted to papers which have proven both interesting and instructive.

The papers presented were: "The Sulphur Industry," an illustrated lecture, by F. W. Guernsey of Texas, U.S.A.; "History and Progress of Mining in the Kootenays," by S. S. Fowler of Riondel; "Undiscovered Mines in the Kootenays," by Dr. W. Ludlow of the University of British Columbia, and "Publicity and the Mining Industry," by C. M. Campbell, manager of the Granby coal mining plant at Cassidy.

History of Kootenays

All papers were well received and thoroughly discussed by those present, that delivered by Mr. Fowler being excepitonally interesting inasmuch as it dealt with the Kootenay district from its earliest days.

Last evening the visiting members, after being taken through the huge Consolidated Mining & Smelting company's plant by the heads of the various departments, were taken by motor to Rossland, where an enjoyable smoker was staged in the Rossland club. The party returned to Trail in the early morning hours.

Today the assembly adjourned early in the afternoon and was taken by motor to Rossland, where the mines are to be inspected and the workings explained.

This evening the guests will sit down at the divisional dinner.

Tomorrow the meeting winds up, when several interesting papers will be given.

SLAUGHTER HUMANE, FIELDING ASSURES

Toronto Christian Science Church Does Not Object to Killing but to Filming of It

TORONTO, Oct. 18.—Cancellation of the contract with a moving picture corporation for the filming of the slaughter of 2000 buffalo at Wainwright park is asked in a telegram sent to acting Premier W. S. Fielding today by the Third Church of Christ Scientist.

The objection is not taken to the killing of the buffalo, it is explained in a telegram from Mr. Fielding, who informed the church officials that newspaper reports respecting the killing of buffalo were sensational and absolutely incorrect and that arrangements for the killing were entirely of a humane character.

"Our objection is to the filming of the incident for commercial purposes," the church's telegram states. "Depicting such a scene would be a bad advertisement for Canada. We strongly urge cancellation of moving picture contracts before it is too late."

Victim of Shooting Succumbs to Wound; His Pocket Rifled

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 18.—An all-day search failed to reveal any trace of the man who fatally shot Homer Lindsay on the Mountain Brown road last night, and the police reported that there are no developments. The victim of the shooting succumbed to his wound in the hospital this morning.

It is learned that there was $25 in the pocket of Lindsay's clothes. The murderer rifled the trouser pockets of his victim after shooting him, but did not search the dying man's vest, where the money was.

GERMANY FINDS BELGIAN PLAN WITHOUT MERIT

Berlin Government Puts Antagonistic Views Before Reparation Body

WOULD ELIMINATE CHIEF MONOPOLIES

Cannot Give Monopolies and Deliver Coal Too; Would Rent Railways

PARIS, Oct. 18.—The German government, in a 30-page typewritten pamphlet, has set forts its views on the Belgian plan for a settlement of the reparations question announced in the Belgian grey book. The document, says a dispatch to the Temps from Brussels, will be sent, shortly, to the reparation commission.

Puts Burden on Whole People

It is said to be strongly critical of the monopolies proposed by Belgium, it being maintained that they constitute a tax on consumption, and throw the burden on the general population instead of on the real holders of the nation's wealth; and it eliminates all the monopolies except three—alcohol, sugar and salt—which, according to the estimate of the Belgian experts, would bring in 800,000,000 gold marks.

At the same time the Germans declare they cannot simultaneously cede monopolies and resume coal deliveries, contending that they either must retain the proceeds from monopolies to pay owners of coal, or, if the monopolies are ceded for reparations, they must be relieved, at least for the time being, of the obligation of delivering coal.

Finally, the Germans will not agree to interallied exploitation of the German railroads, but they say they will consent to pay rent for them on condition that the French-Westphalian railroads are returned to them.

Allies to Share Profits

The question of participation by the allies in the profits of German industry, in the proportion of 25 per cent, is subject to a series of technical explanations, which are rather confused, and full or reservations. But, nevertheless, the Germans accept participation in principle, subject to certain conditions.

ESTHONIANS MAY HEAD THIS WAY

Admiral Pitka Tells Winnipeg British Columbia May Suit His Purpose; Self-Contained Colonies

WINNIPEG, Oct. 18. — Declaring that he had an open mind on the subject, but that from what he had heard, parts of British Columbia appeared to be suited to his purpose, Rear-Admiral John Pitka, retired, representing the Esthonian government, arrived here tonight on a trip to western Canada, where he will endeavor to find suitable tracts of land for 100 Esthonian families.

The aggregate capital of the families who were awaiting his return and expected to return next spring, was $300,000, he said. They would be of the educated classes, and would be accompanied by clergy, schoolmasters and artisans of every kind, in fact, sufficient to form the nucleus of an efficient settlement.

He was hopeful that the first 100 families would be doubled before the end of next year.

FIFTY THOUSAND TO HEAR HIS FAREWELL

Lloyd George Will Speak to Monster New York Audience by Amplifiers; Radio to Broadcast

NEW YORK, Oct. 18. — Lloyd George's farewell message to the United States will be delivered in the Metropolitan Opera house on the night of November 2, and he will sail the next day, it was officially announced tonight.

Arrangements have been completed for an overflow meeting at Madison Square park, to which point the address will be broadcast. It is expected that 50,000 persons will hear the speech in this manner, as numerous amplifiers will be placed at strategic places. The address will also be broadcast throughout the United States and Canada.

Arrangements for the monster reception to the British statesman were completed today.

NARCOTIC CONFERENCE IS FIXED FOR BUFFALO

Canadian Officials Will Go to Drug Suppression Confab Early Next Week

BUFFALO, N.Y., Oct. 18.—Plans for an international conference here on the illicit narcotic traffic, to be attended by Canadian and United States officials, beginning Monday, were expected to be mapped out before the end of the week, with the arrival of Col. L. G. Nutt, chief of the narcotic division at Washington.

In addition to Colonel Nutt, among those expected to attend are W. F. Cowan, chief of the opium and narcotics division of the department of health, Canada, and Supt. G. S. Worsley of the Royal Canadian Mounted police.

MEDICOS STRIKE FIRST OF YEAR WHEN FEES CUT

British Panel Doctors' Union Refuses to Accept Proposed New Scale

GOVERNMENT SNIPS OFF ONE SHILLING

Aim to Save Taxpayer Twenty-six Million Pounds a Year

LONDON, Oct. 18.—A strike of several hundred British physicians on January 1 next was decided upon today. The strikers are members of the Panel Doctors' union, which serves 15,000,000 men and women contributors to the national health fund. The decision to strike was taken at a conclave of the doctors in London as an act of refusal to accept a reduction in fees.

Shilling Less Per Patient

At present the doctors get 9 shillings and 6 pence annually for each patient registered on their respective lists. The minister of health proposed reducing the rate to 8 shillings and 6 pence. The conclave had been considering the proposal for several days.

The health fund is an outgrowth of the National Insurance act, passed when Lloyd George was chancellor of the exchequer in 1911., being one of his many measures aimed to help the masses.

During employment the workers pay 5 pence, in the case of men, and 4 pence, in the case of women, weekly, the employers contributing an equal sum into the fund.

The system cost the taxpayers more than £26,000,000 in 1921, and the government proposes to cut the rate and have the societies foot the entire bill.

Societies Up in Arms

The societies have refused to do this, thus bringing another party into the dispute.

Fourteen thousand doctors are affected by the decision of the conclave, but unless two-thirds of them resign the decision will remain ineffective.

BRITAIN WON'T TRY INFLATION

Minister States Not Slightest Ground for Rumors That Policy Is Changed

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Great interest has been aroused recently by reports that the government was considering a policy of currency inflation as a remedy for the present serious employment question which economists had attributed to too rapid deflation, but if the government ever contemplated such a change of policy it would seem that it has thought better of the idea.

Sir Lamer Worthington Evans, postmaster-general, in a speech at Colchester today emphasized the need of a sound currency system, and said of the rumors that the government intended to manufacture artificial money that there was not the slightest ground for such fear; it had no such intention.

Steady Currency, Says Banker

Frederick Goodenough, chairman of Barclay's bank, in a speech at the same meeting made it clear that he is opposed to any policy of inflation. Great Britain was lending large sums of fresh money to the dominions, India and the colonies for purposes of development, he added. Over £200,000,000 for these purposes had been provided in the last three years. A policy of active deflation would make it difficult to find these great sums. It was most important in the interest of interimperial trade that there should be neither inflation nor deflation, but that sterling should maintain a steady value, which would give greater confidence to traders than anything else.

Nine Million Marks for a Dollar Now; Stresemann Faces Chaos

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—With the situation in the Ruhr and Rhineland rapidly approaching a condition of acute social and economic crisis, with Saxony's Socialist-Communist ministry continuing its defiance of the central government and with Bavaria having severed diplomatic relations with Saxony, Chancellor Stresemann's coalition cabinet is confronted with issues which will afford it an early opportunity to make use of dictatorial authority, voted it by the reichstag in the Emergency Power bill.

While these are the outstanding issues which harbor elements of immediate danger, the internal situation in its entirety, especially with respect to the financial cataclysm toward which all classes of the population are heading through the further depreciation of the mark, is automatically constituting itself a contributory factor which is destined to have a decisive bearing on the further course of events.

With the dollar soaring around the 9,000,000,000-mark notch today a new period of price chaos set in, and with it the government's helplessness with respect to the adoption of speedy deformatory measures became more emphasized.

Masses Clamor at Socialists

The social situation growing out of th ecomplete wreck of the nation's economic structure is making the Socialist party restive in that it apparently is no longer able to cope with the clamor of the masses, whose cause is being espoused by the more militant of the Communists.

Such an eventuality in all probability would wreck Chancellor Stresemann's ministry, unless President Ebert in the emergency should give Stresemann carte blanche authority to wield his dictatorship without heed of party or partisan consideration.

Herman Mueller and Otto Wels, who are the traditional emmissaries of the Socialist party when important assignments are decided upon,

HUNGARY IS A SLAV BARRIER

Apponyi Tells Toronto Little Entente Surrounds Her With Cordon

TORONTO, Oct. 18.—Count Albert Apponyi, Hungarian statesman, addressed the Empire club here today, and painted a vivid picture of Hungary as standing like a bulwark of protection for western Europe against the encroaching east. He emphasized Hungary's role as a protector of Europe against Bolshevism and a Slavic combine.

Hungary was returning to normal conditions, Count Apponyi said.

On the question of reparations, the count said:

"There is no question in the mind of anyone, nor any intelligent German, but that Germany must pay reparations to the full extent that she is able."

A Helpless State

The count said that Hungary was helpless among her neighbors under the present military establishments fixed by the peace treaty.

"Hungary has 35,000 troops," he said; "the little entente has 500,000 troops around her. Hungary is defenceless, with the feeling that her neighbors can walk in on her at any time."

He added that such one-sided military establishment could not be maintained.

BAVARIA PARTS COMPANY WITH SAXONY STATE

today had a lengthy conference with President Ebert.

Representatives of the Socialists and Communists also have been conducting informal deliberations looking toward the creation of a "proletariat working alliance," although the ultra-Reds have put forward such extreme demands that the conference has been postponed for the time being.

Since the German Bolshevists joined in the formation of the Saxon ministry the previously-existing line of cleavage has become considerably blurred, and there is an insistent demand in the ranks of the Berlin Socialists that the central government forthwith assume a more conciliatory attitude toward Premier Zeigner and his Red Saxon regime.

Trained by Moscow

By way of laying stress on its defiance of the Berlin government the Saxon government today announced the appointment of two rabid Communists, Herr Boettcher and Herr Heckert, as Saxony's delegates to the federal council. Boettcher, who is minister of finance in the Zeigner cabinet, is a young Communist who has returned from Moscow, where he is reported to have taken a "course of instruction" at the soviet's fountain head. Herr Heckert is minister of economics, and as such holds a portfolio of strategic importance to his party in view of Saxony's preeminence as an industrial state.

Both these ministers have refused to take the oath of allegiance to the republic's constitution, and this is being made a cardinal feature of the present controversy with the Berlin government.

A section of the Bourgeoisie press demands that both men be forced to swear allegiance to the republic or retire from office.

Poincare an Element

The central government's failure to obtain even a small degree of accommodation from M. Poincare, the French premier, in connection with its program for a resumption of the Ruhr industries, also has gravely complicated matters for the Stresemann regime.

Cabinet Considers Saxony

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—A cabinet council today discussed the situation in Saxony, and the demand of the Socialists for the withdrawal of the state of emergency.

Apparently, according to unofficial statements, the sending of General von Mueller, commander of the reichwehr in Saxony, of an ultimatum to the Saxon government, was approved by President Ebert and his cabinet, but no decision was arrived at regarding the next step to be taken in view of Saxony having ignored his ultimatum.

The cabinet, however, is said to be contemplating reinforcing the reichwehr in Saxony, as acts of terrorism by Communist bands are continuing in parts of Saxony where no troops are stationed.

SAXON DIET IS IN AN UPROAR

Premier Declares Germany Has Secret Illegal Army; Is Called Traitor

DRESDEN, Oct. 18. — There was a tremendous tumult in the Saxon diet today, following a charge of treason by Nationalist members, against Premier Zeigner, who had alleged the existence of an immense illegal armed force in Germany. The diet was debating a Communist demand for the resignation of Dr. Otto Gessler, the reich minister of defence, when Premier Zeigner made the sensational statement that the reich had an illegal army without the knowledge of the reich government.

Hundreds of Thousands Enrolled

The premier declared that at the end of September and at the beginning of October many illegal organizations in the neighborhood of Berlin would have attempted an uprising, but were prevented by the Prussian state police. In camps at Konigsbrueck and Neuse, illegal organizations had been training several weeks this summer, and hundreds of thousands of members of these bodies had been enrolled in the reichwehr. There were about 1500 in Leipsic alone.

The entente, the premier said, knew of these things, and would put an end to them.

People's Party Answers

Thereupon a member of the German People's party replied that it would have been better that today never had dawned in Saxony's history, for today, the anniversary of the battle of nations at Leipsic, there was the first indication that reawakened Germany had been surrendered to the enemy.

Continuing, the speaker declared that Premier Zeigner's procedure constituted open treachery, and he regretted the imperial government had as yet been unable to find means to take action against those guilty of such treason.

At this assertion, the Communists raised violent protests, and amid an uproar the Nationalists rose and left the house.

ENGINEERS MUST PRONOUNCE FIRST

Hon. Dr. King Tells Engineering Institute St. Lawrence Project Can't Be Decided Without Them

OTTAWA, Oct. 18. — Hon. J. H. King, minister of public works, addressing the Engineering institute here, today, said he did not think the federal government or the Canadian people were in a position to even consider the St. Lawrence waterways project, and they would not be in a position until it had been thoroughly investigated by a board of engineers representing Canadian interests.

Emphasizing the public services rendered by the engineering profession, Dr. King said engineers had done inestimable service in developing Canada, and Canadians were largely dependent upon the good judgment and work of the engineers. Land surveyors had led the way to timber and coal, mineral and clay lands, and had made it possible for the business world to move forward in industry. Engineers had also developed Canada's magnificent railway systems.

Generation of Power in Gasoline Engine Is an Interesting Process

Power is developed in the gasoline engine by taking a charge of fuel mixed with air into the cylinders, compressing it, and igniting it so that it will burn, produce heat and pressure. This pressure is exerted on the generator and led to the spark plug, and, through various connections, to the rear wheels.

The ignition of the mixture is obtained universally today through the use of an electric spark. To produce this spark at a desired point in the cylinder a spark plug is employed. Practically all automobile engines use the jump spark. In the jump spark type of plug there are two metal points projecting into the cylinder. These points are insulated from each other electrically by means of a porcelain or mica sleeve, and the ends of the points are set so that there is a space of about 1-32 of an inch between them.

A very high electrical pressure is generated and led to the spark plug by means of a wire which is attached to the terminal communicating with one of the points. The pressure is sufficient to cause the electricity to jump the small gap separating the two points, causing an electric spark. It is this spark which ignites the explosive gas in the cylinder.

High Tension Magneto

To generate this high pressure, or high voltage current, there are two general systems employed: First, the high tension magneto, which is entirely self-contained and generates current only when the engine is running. This system is used on very few cars today. The second system, the battery ignition system, has come into general use because the battery is required for lights and starting, and is, therefore, present for ignition purposes.

In the battery system a low pressure current, usually of six volts, is supplied by the battery to an induction coil. The induction coil is so constructed that it transforms or changes this low pressure to the high pressure required by the spark plug. In order to obtain the spark, it is necessary to have the low pressure primary current that flows from the battery through the coil interrupted, and for this purpose interrupter points are provided. These are included in the igniter, which also has provision for distributing the higher pressure secondary current to the different cylinders, as a spark is required by each.

The action is somewhat as follows: When the switch is turned on at the dash, the current may flow from the battery through the primary winding of the induction coil, then to the interrupter and from the interrupter to the switch, and thence back to the battery. This gives a complete circuit and current will continue to flow as long as these conditions remain the same.

What Causes the Spark?

When the crank shaft of the engine is revolved, a shaft in the igniter, which is geared to it, revolves also. When the crank shaft has reached a position where it is desirable to have power applied to it, a cam on the shaft in the "igniter" causes the interrupter points to separate and stop the flow of current in the primary circuit. When the current stops flowing in the primary winding of the coil, certain magnetic changes take place in the coil, which energizes the secondary winding of the coil. This creates the high tension current which travels to the spark plug and causes the spark which ignites the gas.

In order that this high tension current may be delivered to the proper cylinder it is led from the induction coil to the igniter, where it enters the distributor, which is really a revolving switch, and directs it to the proper spark plug. The spark plugs of all cylinders are connected by wires to the distributor which delivers a spark to each in its turn. When it is desired to stop the engine the ignition switch is turned to "off" position, which causes a break in the primary circuit, consequently no current can flow from the battery to the coil, and no secondary current will be generated to supply the spark plug.

Overheating Induction Coil

It sometimes happens that the operator forgets to turn off the switch when the engine is stopped, through stalling or otherwise. The result is that the current may continue to flow which will discharge the battery and overheat the induction coil. To prevent this some systems are supplied with a resistance unit to limit the amount of current that can flow so that little damage can be done.

Other systems employ an automatic switch, which is operated by a thermostat. With this device, when the switch is left on after the engine is stopped, the current flowing heats the thermostat. This operates a mechanism that automatically opens the primary circuit.

In the modern battery systems the current drawn from the battery for ignition is replaced by a generator whenever the engine is running. As a matter of fact, when the engine is running at normal touring speed the generator produces enough current to the battery to make up for that which was drawn from the battery for starting, lights and ignition when the engine was not running. Thus, generally speaking, when the engine is running, the battery system of ignition draws its current from the generator. When the engine is idle or turning at slow speed its current is drawn from the battery. — H. C. Brokaw.

WORTHY OF HIS HIRE

The real stumbling block to the progress of modern education comes not from "unpatriotic" teachers (who are performing a difficult task with extraordinary devotion and ability), but from the point of view which Dr. Weildon represents—the point of view that the central purpose of modern education is to turn out virtuous clerks who can spell correctly and write a clerky hand, and that for this high and noble purpose it is sufficient to engage patriotic teachers at the wage of a farm laborer.—Daily News.

Don't Squeeze Black-Heads—Dissolve Them

Squeezing and pinching out blackheads makes the pores large and cause irritation. Blackheads are caused by accumulations of dust and dirt and secretions from the skin, and there is only one safe and sure way and one that never fails to get rid of them—a simple way, too—that is to dissolve them. Just get from any drug store about two ounces of peroxine powder—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly for a few seconds—wash off, and you'll be surprised to see that every blackhead has disappeared, and the skin will be left soft and the pores in their natural condition.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache Often Means You Have Not Been Drinking Enough Water

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in the effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys are sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush, clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys also to neutralize acids in the urine, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of soft water. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

New Corn and Tomatoes Likely to Be Dearer Than Last Year

Tea prices are reported by local wholesalers to be still showing a decided tendency to advance. During the past week a well-known package brand went up 4 cents a pound. Coffee prices are also firm, though no recent change in quotations is reported.

Indications are that the prices for the new pack of canned corn will be somewhat higher. Tomatoes, which at the opening were slightly lower than last year, have already registered an advance.

In dairy produce, however, prices have been steadier. Cheese became a little cheaper during the week, while butter prices remained unchanged. There was, too, no fluctuations in the price of eggs, though the market is reported as firm, and advances in the near future are regarded as likely.

There are few more noted English preparatory schools than that at Cheam, Surrey, through which have passed several members of the royal family, and many of the most distinguished men in the country. Lord Milford Haven is an old boy of Cheam school, and on July 4 he unveiled a memorial to commemorate old boys who died in the war. This Surrey private school, whose headmaster, A. S. It includes Lord Burnham, Lord Esher, Lord Edward Gleichen, Lord Willingdon, Lord Hardinge, Lord Dunsany, Lord Randolph Churchill, General Seely and his brother Sir Charles, General Sir Ian Hamilton and Admiral of the Fleet Sir Hedworth Meux.

BRIDE OF TEN DAYS QUITS HER HUSBAND

Her Suddenly-Kindled Love Ebbs When She Learns Iron Manufacturer Is Out of Job

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—After 10 days of married life, which began with a runaway wedding with a man she "had never considered as a possible husband," Mrs. William McKinley Weller, formerly Miss Stephene Tichy, 18 years old, returned to her parents' home at 1838 Woodhaven avenue, Woodhaven, Queens. She was accompanied by her mother and her sister, Miss Bertha Tichy, and came from Cleveland. She had summarily departed during her husband's absence from the hotel.

"I soon learned that he was not an iron manufacturer, but an iron worker, and out of employment, at that," she declared. "I don't know where he is now, but I will soon find out and sue for dissolution of the marriage."

Weller's pathetic, tearful declarations before the marriage that he was misunderstood and lonesome and that he loved her deeply aroused her sympathies, Mrs. Weller said, and, without making any preparations she went with him on the first available train to Buffalo. That was on October 2.

Mrs. Weller, who was a stenographer in Manhattan, was walking along Broadway near her downtown office, she related, when she encountered Weller that day.

"I'd seen him occasionally when he used to live here in Woodhaven," she said, "but never during the five years I knew him did I consider him as a possible husband. He asked me to take a taxicab ride with him, and I consented. In the machine he broke down and cried, declaring that no one understood him, that his life was unbearably lonesome and that only I could help him. Protesting his love, he urged me to elope with him immediately.

Touching Tale

"What he told me touched me, and I consented to go with him. I had little money and, without even stopping to go home and pack a grip, we went to the Grand Central station, where he bought tickets for Buffalo. We took the first train we could get, but arrived in Buffalo so late that night that we were unable to secure a marriage license. We engaged separate rooms at a hotel, and the ceremony was performed the next morning by a justice of the peace."

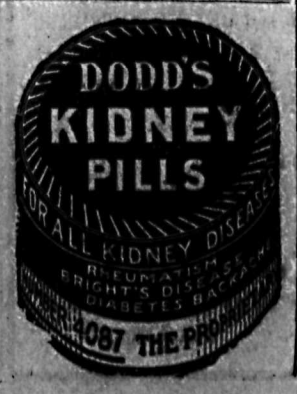
The days following, Mrs. Weller said, were spent at Niagara Falls, Pittsburgh and Cleveland.

"Before the end of the second day I began to regret what I had done," she said. "He refused to give me money for really necessary clothes, and I soon learned that he was not an iron manufacturer, but an iron worker out of employment. I decided right then and there that this was no life for me, so soon after we reached Cleveland I telephoned mother to come and take me home. The next day my mother and sister arrived. Will was out for a walk, and we left the hotel before he returned. I have neither seen nor heard from him since. Where he lived also is unknown to me. We didn't leave any message for him at the hotel, either."

"ESSOIGN" DAY

In the reign of Henry II. the day first mentioned in each term of court was called "essoign" day, because the court then took the essoigns or excuses of those who did not appear, according to the summons of the writs. But as—by a custom traced by Blackstone to the Germans of the days of Tacitus—three days of grace were allowed every defendant in which to appear, the courts did not sit for the dispatch of business until the fourth day after that time. On the other hand, they continued to sit till the fourth day after the last return.

The rule allowing three days of grace in Canada and the United States was adopted from the English law.



Aviators 'Ascend' Over Five Miles While on Ground

Without leaving the ground, three aviators "ascended" to a height of 8500 meters or over 24,000 feet.

The "ascension," which was made in the presence of the air ministry and two air admirals, took place in a pneumatic caisson, through the windows of which the officers watched the strange experiment.

It was the first of a number of experiments to test the physical adaptability of aviators to rise to great heights. Many inexplicable accidents have been attributed to the unfitness of pilots to withstand high altitudes and it was finally decided to create a laboratory where physicians could examine the reactions of aviators to the air conditions they encountered in super-flights.

For this purpose a pneumatic caisson, with a refrigerating machine to cool the interior as the air was withdrawn, was set up at Le Bourget air port, near Paris. Communication with the inside was furnished by telephone.

Into this chamber, Pilot Fronval, who has to his credit 962 loops in 2 hours and 40 minutes, and Politkirsh, who has ascended to a height of 10,000 meters, and the well-known airman, Seitz, were introduced, armed with oxygen masks and attired in flying costumes of fur. The entrance was then sealed and the flight commenced. Through the windows the officials observed the aviators and noted the movement of instruments which registered temperature, altitude and pressure.

The men were seen to don their masks at 3500 meters. At 5000 meters their noses became red with the cold and they were stamping their feet to keep warm. At about this altitude telephone conversation ceased and the aviators were unable to hear sounds.

The flight continued till the altitude of 8500 meters was reached, where the thermometer registered 80 degrees below zero, centigrade. Then the machines were reversed and the "descent" commenced gradually.

When the aviators reached earth the door was opened and they stepped forth smiling. The entire experiment lasted 35 minutes.

Naturalist Quarter Century on Island

Twenty-five years ago an observer of animal life and a lover of solitude bought an island of three square miles off the coast of Queensland, and went there with his wife to live.

Some natives were on the island at the time, but they gradually left, and for many years Mr. and Mrs. Banfield occupied the island by themselves, and cultivated between four and five acres for their food.

Mr. Banfield used his abundant leisure in writing books on birds, beasts, and fishes.

Recently, as the steamer Innisfail was passing the island, a woman was observed signalling from the shore, and a boat that was sent to her found that her husband had died, and she was alone.

The crew made a coffin, and the captain read the burial service over the island naturalist. His offer of a passage to Mrs. Banfield was declined.

On the captain asking his crew if anyone would stay on the island to help Mrs. Banfield at very reasonable wages, one was selected and left behind.

We shall not expect the perfect flower of altruism while people continue to enjoy watching the other fellow's property burn.

Internationalism Would Destroy British Empire

A lot of nonsense is talked about world brotherhood, which is only, in its effects, internationalism under another name.

And internationalism doesn't smell sweet no matter what we call it.

If the world brotherhood advocates, who undoubtedly have the best of intentions, could carry out their theories they would destroy the British Empire.

There is no place for a British Empire in a scheme of internationalism.

At present the British Empire towers above other nations and other groups of nations by the strength which it has gained through energy and good faith, through industry and through the British ideal of playing the game.

Internationalism would reduce the British Empire to the common level of the ruck of nations, seething in a whirlpool of the average, instead of standing upon the peak to which it has climbed, laboriously and by the blood and sweat and strength of character of its people.

Don't Forget Basic Facts

Lloyd George goes too far when he declares that Germany has not been shamming insolvency and exaggerating its inability to pay the debt it owes France, Great Britain and the rest of the allies.

It is all very well to coin scintillating phrases about not examining ledgers with a bayonet point, but the basic fact behind the Ruhr invasion was that France knew, and everyone else knew, that Germany, while it might be unable to fulfil all its obligations on time, was not even attempting to meet them.

Germany was passively resisting as a nation from the day the treaty was signed at Versailles. Passive resistance in the Ruhr was only a concentration in one area of that policy.

Lloyd George may credit Germany with having done its best to pay its debts, but very few others can find reason for so believing. They only have to recall the inflation of the mark, which is the greatest steal ever committed by a nation, to sympathize immediately with the French attitude.

A Fine Edition of a Great Paper

The Calgary Herald is heartily to be congratulated upon the special edition with which it last Saturday celebrated its 40th birthday.

Eighty-two pages were devoted to the industries, the development and the history of Alberta, and particularly of the Calgary district. Especial attention was paid to the old-timers who founded Calgary and laid the foundation of this substantial city which has been built up upon the plains.

The Calgary Herald has become a great newspaper, in every sense of the word. It is one of the most creditable publications in the Dominion. It is well edited, enjoys a strong and far-sighted business administration, and, much as Calgary has grown, the Herald has always kept a little ahead of the progress of its city. It has always led.

The Lighter Side

After all, perhaps the worst thing about poverty is a nickel cigar.

A boob is a man who has loaned money to a relative and classifies the note as an asset.

An idealist is one who thinks the discovery of vitamines in grapes made the price go up.

An old-fashioned practitioner is a doctor who can lance a boil without a nurse and two assistants.

You can say anything with flowers. We know a chap who sends his mother-in-law snapdragons.

"Rich bachelor" is a contradiction in terms. If he's rich, how did he manage to remain a bachelor?

If you don't live where it is convenient for you to rock a boat, you can always sass a traffic cop.

Appearance counts. Any two-for-a-nickel apple will fetch a dime after it has been polished lovingly.

It is estimated that only 1.3 per cent of the girls who win beauty contests can make good lemon pies.

The growth of the cooperative spirit is especially impressive when you catch a tea-hound trying to kiss a flapper.

There isn't much excitement in a village except on the rare occasions when you forget to put out the cat.

What do umpires do during the winter? There are so few callings that adapt themselves to defective eyesight.

About all that is happening is that the lower class is becoming as naughty as it once thought the upper class.

We like the cynical frankness of the department store catalog that lists books under the head of "furniture."

The labor shortage is so acute now that a window-washer at the seventh floor can't attract more than five or six loafers.

Mr. Coolidge's attitude toward a world court won't affect his future so much as his attitude toward mayonnaise dressing.

Correct this sentence: "Yes, you may go to the circus," said the father, "but you'll have to get somebody else to take you."

STONEY CHIEFS GREET THEIR "BROTHER"

"You Said It, Marceline!"

By MARCELINE d'ALROY

On Fear.

Most WOMEN are AFRAID
Of SOMETHING—
Sometimes it's a mouse,
Sometimes, it's a cat
In the guise of
Another woman,
But NO woman
Is afraid of a MAN;
She is only afraid that she
Cannot INTEREST him,
And if she cannot,
She always believes
That he was not worth
The trouble anyway,
Which is probably true.

ONE man's poison
Is ANOTHER man's meat.
But, sometimes,
What looks like MEAT
BEFORE marriage
Seems like POISON
AFTERWARDS—for marriage
Is often monotonous.
If a woman loves deeply
She invariably fears—
For fear is UNCERTAINTY;
That is why
Women, at heart,
Often fear
THEMSELVES!

"What shall I do with left-over egg yolks?" is a question I am asked frequently. Here are some excellent ways of using them:

Onion Soup—Peel and slice 12 mediumsized onions, then fry them in a little butter till they are light brown in color. Now put them into a soup pot with one pint of hot, sweet milk and one quart of boiling water; add two slices of bacon which have been crisply fried, onehalf teaspoon of sugar, and salt and pepper to season. Bring to the boiling point and let simmer for one hour, then strain through a sieve, add the beaten yolks of three eggs, one tablespoon of butter and one cup of cream. Let come to the boiling point again and serve.

Gold Cakes—Cream together one tablespoon of butter and one-half cup of sugar; add the yolks of four eggs (beaten till very thick) and stir vigorously. Now put one-eighth teaspoon of baking soda in a cup and add to it a very little hot water (just enough to dissolve it); add this dissolved soda to one-fourth cup of sour cream, then turn the mixture into the bowl with the butter-sugar-and-egg mixture. Quickly add a scant three-quarters of a cup of bread flour, a pinch of salt and one-fourth teaspoon of grated nutmeg. Beat well and bake in pans that will make very small cup cakes, slipping the pans into hot oven for about 20 minutes. Frost while hot with an ordinary uncooked icing.

Scrambled Egg Yolks—Put three egg yolks into a bowl and add one whole egg to them (this one egg white is necessary to make a good omelet). Beat the eggs lightly, add to them one-half cup of cold sweet milk, a pinch of salt and two heaping tablespoons of crisply fried bacon which has been broken into tiny bits, turn this mixture into a hot frying pan containing one tablespoon of sizzling butter, and cook lightly, holding the pan a little above the intense heat, and scraping the bottom of the pan as soon as the mixture clings to it. When cooked, serve on triangles of hot buttered toast.

Tomorrow—Knitting Your Baby a Sacque and Cap.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman, in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and province.

Styles

BY LENORE

A few of the interesting details from Paris costumes disclose the vogue for lace trimming in a molded sleeve with a frill of antique lace, topped by a narrow band of fur, just below the elbow.

In the deep loop attached, the fur-cuffed sleeve of a rust-red duvetyn coat, the Chinese influence is traceable.

That expensive embroideries are not essential to give color to the cloth dress is demonstrated by a blue rep street frock whose neck and sleeves are trimmed with grosgrain ribbon alternating black and deep yellow, the black superimposed on the yellow so that only a narrow edge of the latter is visible.

A charming detail appearing on the mannish French suit which the house of O'Rossen is creating, is a watch fob made of pierced metal initials strung on black silk cord and worn suspended from the breast pocket of the coat.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Does Your Youngster Look Like You?

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

I heard a speaker recount an experience the other day that was a real lesson.

He had returned to his boyhood home, and as he sat on the platform of the little school where he had attended as a boy, all the children under 14 years of age were unknown to him.

And yet, as he looked into their faces he was able to identify every child. He did not know their first names, of course, but he placed every one of them by knowing the parents when they were children. He went even more fully into the matter than this; but, what is the lesson?

We are what our parents make us in body, in mind, and in spirit.

Therefore, our children will be just what we make them in our homes.

I have no desire to go afield from the physical, but you can readily guess what it means in a child's life if the parent watches the school or everyday life, and likewise the Sunday life.

But, from the physical point, what?

Well, your children will be strong or weak, as you are strong or weak.

If you have a strong body, they will likely have the same.

If you have any weaknesses as to lungs, heart, kidneys or blood, they may have the same tendencies also.

And so it is your duty to watch these strong points and these weak points, also.

From their very earliest years you should see that the youngster gets outdoors a part of every day.

That he learns to play with other youngsters, even at 3 or 4 years of age.

Yes, you are responsible for the whole all-round development of your child.

Your worries are practically over then, because he will develop an all-round body from these games. You may, of course, have the worry of a bruise, a bleeding nose, perhaps even a broken bone, but he has developed the ability to mix with others, to give a licking and take one, to control his temper, and to give way, at times, to his comrades.

CHINA POSTAGE PUTS ROSSLAND CHINKS IN JAIL

Interesting Packets Alleged to Contain Opium; Remand for Eight Days

ROSSLAND, B.C., Oct. 18. — Loy Sing and Ling Yuing, who were placed under arrest by Chief of Police R. Timms, while receiving some interesting looking packets bearing Chinese postmarks at the post office last week, appeared before Police Magistrate R. E. Plewman Tuesday morning, charged with unlawful possession of opium. They were represented by Brown & Dawson, attorneys, of Nelson, who asked that the case be adjourned for eight days.

Sergeant Reel of the Royal Canadian Mounted police, who came here from Grand Forks to conduct the case for the crown, expressed himself as willing to agree to their request, so Judge Plewman ordered the case remanded until next Wednesday.

The accused were accordingly escorted back to the city bastile, where they will linger in durance vile, no one seeming anxious to furnish the necessary bail to secure their freedom.

The local police authorities are still on the lookout for other Celestials thought to be involved in the traffic hereabouts.

Picking of Winter Varieties Rushing in Creston Valley

CRESTON, B.C., Oct. 18.—Picking of all varieties of winter apples is now in full swing, and at Erickson the rush to get them into the packing sheds is so great that picking had to be stopped on Saturday to permit the packers to get clear of the intake. This year, two pickings of winters are being made in the orchards of Growers, Limited, shippers. This gives the fruit on the inner branches a chance to color, and, in addition, gives the concern a chance to sort up on all the varieties demanded in mixed car orders for winter apples.

As was the case with the Wealthies and McIntosnes, the winter apples are running considerably heavier than was at first estimated, and almost every grower is being forced to increase his early-season order for boxes at least 25 per cent.

A considerable quantity of Cox's Orange Pippins are going overseas from Erickson, but so far this is the only variety that has rolled for the English trade.

Erickson Grower Gets Fifteen Hundred Boxes off Two-Acre Orchard

CRESTON, B.C., Oct. 18. — A fair sample of valley apple yields comes from the F. J. Klingensmith ranch, in the Erickson section of Creston Valley, where, from two acres of McIntosh Reds and Wageners, the crop totals 1500 orchard boxes. The Macs have graded out 90 per cent "fancy," and the Wageners will run equally high.

Planted 15 feet one way, the ranch carries about 300 trees on the two acres mentioned, giving five boxes to the tree.

With exery prospect of the Wageners fetching as good a price as the Macs, Mr. Klingensmith will probably get 75 cents a box after packing house and selling charges, as well as box price is taken care of, giving him a total net return of at least $1000, or $500 per acre on not an abnormal crop, and certainly not exactly a normal year for top price marketing.

HUNTERS BAG CATTLE ON KOOTENAY FLATS

As a Result of Careless Shooting, Complete Prohibition of It on Flats Is Talked

CRESTON, B.C., Oct. 18. — Stockmen are complaining of the growing carelessness of hunters who frequent Kootenay Flats. Since the haying ceased two weeks ago and cattle are again pasturing on this area, at least two head of cattle have been shot.

John Spratt lost a fine milch cow, while an animal belonging to George Hood was so effectively killed that the animal was found standing in her tracks a few days after the shooting.

In some quarters there is a demand for prohibition of all classes of hunting on Kootenay Flats.

Precious Metals in Germany Not Yet Confiscated

BERLIN, Oct. 18. — A report in circulation that the currency commissioner had ordered the confiscation of all precious metals in Germany was semi-officially denied today.

It was explained that the commissioner merely ordered the registration of such metals, and that no further measures were contemplated.

It was also declared that the fears of some foreigners that their money was to be seized were quite unfounded.

COMMUNITY OF FREE STATES IS PREMIER'S IDEA

Mackenzie King Speaks on Empire as Guest of Canadian Club

CLAIMS RIGHT OF NEGOTIATION

George Graham Says Development of Outposts Vital to Whole Empire

LONDON, Oct. 18.—(Special Cable to the Canadian Press by George Hambleton, Staff Correspondent.)—"We believe" declared Premier King tonight, at a dinner given in his honor by the Canadian club, "the British Empire is a community of free states. It is a community in which we have interest in common, and we believe that if the honor, integrity or common interests of that community are attacked, every part and portion of the Empire may be expected to rise and act as one. We believe also that in this community of nations, as you give expression to the national life of the different parts of the Empire, as you permit them the authority and full right which goes with the growth of nationhood, so you will help to instill, not only a feeling of greater pride in their own countries, but greater confidence in the Empire to which they belong."

"The large dining room of the Savoy was crowded for the occasion. Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canadian high commissioner in London, presided, and referred to Premier King as having shown his worthiness for the high office he filled with honor to himself and with credit to his country.

Connaught and Devonshire Speak

The duke of Connaught and the duke of Devonshire, who likewise spoke, also had a word of welcome for the Canadian premier. The duke of Devonshire expressed the profound hope that the Imperial conference would make some material contribution toward the solution of these problems which "are pressing with such severity upon a world war-weary to distraction."

Premier King referred to the recent gifts to the Canadian archives of Lord Durham and Lord Moncton papers. He sketched the early Canadian history, and recent developments in the Dominion, observing that the Durham papers threw such valuable light on some phases of Canadian history that a large part has been rewritten.

Canada a Happy Family

Premier King referred to the amicable relations between the different races and religions in Canada, as offering an example to the rest of the world of "live and let live," forgive and forget. "In this old world, particularly on the continent of Europe," he continued, "there still remains an amount of suspicion, hatred and revenge to which the countries of the world would gladly contribute, if they could, to help remove."

The premier believed that in matters of trade Canada was getting back to her normal state. She had turned the corner. For a time following the war, conditions in Canada were very serious. There had been a great deal of unemployment, but employment was now increasing. Production was greater than it had been for a long time. Canada held great opportunities for investment, and was ready to welcome all those from the British Isles who were willing to take their places on the farms.

Halibut Treaty Significant

Referring to the halibut treaty between the United States and Canada, Premier King argued that it was of concern only to these two countries. In having it signed by the Canadian minister of fisheries, there had not been the slightest intention to show any discourtesy to the British ambassador at Washington, but, added Mr. King, "we feel that, so far as domestic affairs are concerned, we have full right to self-government. We feel that as regards matters of trade and tariff, we have the right to negotiate with our neighbors, or with any country.

"It did not take away from the prestige of the British crown that a Canadian minister should have authority from the crown to sign with plenipotentiary powers on a matter that related exclusively to his own country."

Where, however, other parts of the Empire were involved, Mr. King agreed that no one part should take any steps without the full concurrence and consent of all. And, where the question was one of high politics, it would be adding to the prestige of the Empire to see that the signature was representative of the Empire as a whole.

Graham's Three Points

Hon. George P. Graham submitted three points to his hearers—first, that Canada is perfectly contented as a member of the British organization, realizing that in such a membership her people enjoy an ever-broadening freedom; second, that the wider the freedom, the more closely are the links welded together; and, third, that the most lasting good that could come to the British community of nations would be the development of the outposts to their fullest potentialities.

SALVATION ARMY CHIEF WILL ASK A MILLION

Commissioner Higgins Will Launch Drive for New Buildings at Western Canada Congress Just Opening

WINNIPEG, Oct. 18.—Commissioner Edward Higgins, second-in-command of the Salvation Army throughout the world, who will arrive here tomorrow to conduct a western Canada congress for officers of the organization, will ask for $1,000,000 with which to erect urgently-needed hospitals and other public service buildings of a similar character.

All of the cities of western Canada are being included in the building plans of the army. Present hospitals of the army built to meet the most pressing needs of those to whom the army ministered are overcrowded in such cities as Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver, and building projects are forced on the organization, it is stated.

STOCK INTEREST AT A LOW EBB

General List Closes Slightly Lower After a Day of Backing and Filling Movements

NEW YORK, Oct. 18. — Speculative interest in today's stock market was at low ebb, with the general list closing slightly lower, after a day of backing and filling movements. Several new low records for the year were established during the session, particularly by the tire stocks selling of which was influenced by cuts in tire prices and the passing of the dividend on Lee Rubber, which closed down 2½, to 11¾.

Additional reductions in gasoline prices were offset, in part, by reports of another reduction in crude production. Persistent rumors of new financing by Pan American, however, had depressing effects on its issues.

Shipping shares improved on reports of a better inquiry for freight space and the belief that lower railroad rates on grain for export would stimulate business.

Willys Overland preferred was one of the outstanding strong issues, being run up more than 2 points, to 65, but easing at the close. Nash Motors, Davison Chemical and Tobacco Products preferred also registered good gains. Call money opened at 4½ per cent, eased to 4, and thence to the close at the same price. The time money market was quiet on a 5 to 5½ per cent basis.

Total sales were 453,200 shares.

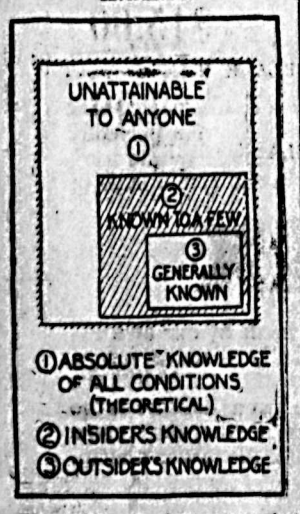
Money AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.



The insider can lose money just as easy as the public, if he is mistaken in his judgment. Don't waste time looking for inside tips.

The popular conception seems to be that the insider always makes money at the expense of the public. Consequently many people spend much time and effort trying to get an inside tip.

What is an insider? He is someone in close touch with the affairs of the company who gets his information a little ahead of the public in general.

He gets his facts sooner, but if he makes a mistake in judging them, he will lose. The public gets almost as many facts, but makes no attempt to judge at all.

The biggest difference between the insider and the public is in foresight and judgment. Being an insider has no effect on that fundamental difference.

Judge the facts which are easily available and don't waste time trying to get inside tips. No one knows everything.

BRINGING UP FATHER

By George McManus

Strong Evidence Is Given By Mrs. Hopkins

"Tanlac is such a grand medicine and has done so much for me that there's nothing too good I can say for it," is the grateful statement of Mrs. F. Hopkins, 77 Poplar street, Red Deer, Alberta, Canada.

"I took the treatment about two years ago when I was all run down after a severe illness. My appetite was gone, I had awful headaches for a week at a time, and did not have strength to care for my housework.

"So many people were praising Tanlac that I began taking it myself, and could feel an improvement from the very start. Four bottles of Tanlac restored my appetite, gave me back my lost weight and strength, and left me feeling like a new person. After all, Tanlac has done for me, I could not help praising it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills.

Liquor by the bagful was being handled in Toronto when the police descended on the scene and rudely interrupted proceedings. Here are two of the bags, each of which was loaded with 24 bottles of whisky, which were seized by the police along the wharf at Toronto, in a cargo estimated to be worth $20,000. The loot booze was being unloaded from a gasoline schooner into two motor trucks when the capture took place.

HOME-BREW DRINKERS ACCUSED OF MURDER

Fatal Wounding of Girl Ran Over by Stuartburn Auto Places Two Men Before Court

WINNIPEG, Oct. 18. — John Bodiuk was held responsible by a coroner's jury here tonight for the death of John Kulyk, who was shot and fatally wounded at Stuartburn, Man., on October 7.

Nick Sedor, from whose revolver the shot was fired, is also held, and both men will face the charge of murder tomorrow morning.

Mary Zahara, who was run over by the automobile from which the fatal shot was fired, and Ed. Toews, who was struck on the head when he attempted to release the girl from under the car, which went into a ditch, both testified tonight. Toews said home brew had been served at the dance at which Bodiuk had been creating trouble. He testified that Bodiuk fired the shots.

G.W.V.A. PUTS OVER REALLY FINE SMOKER

Hardie and McVicar Go Through Three Rounds to a Draw

OTHER BOUTS ARE ALL WELL CONTESTED

Joe Holland and W. Bowkett Produce High-Class Scientific Milling

One of the best smokers the Great War Veterans' association has yet held was staged last night when it supplied a galaxy of music and comedy and, in addition, a number of boxing bouts that were all to the good.

The main event was that between F. M. Hardie, "an unknown quantity," to use the term with which Dr. L. E. Borden, who acted as chairman, introduced him, and Ted McVicar. Hardie had the advantage of weight and height. He lacked absolutely all knowledge of boxing. The "wild bull of the pampas" may have been wild, and Jack Dempsey may have been a ring general, but—the bout was a draw. The best feature of it was the refereeing of Joe Holland, who handled the affair in a masterly manner. More than that, there isn't much to say except that Hardie has a fine physique and McVicar is a good fighter when he is well directed and is not up against "an unknown quantity."

Are Known Afar

The event was in every way a success. Dr. Borden, in opening it, asserted that the Great War Veterans' association was entitled to a great deal of praise for the reputation they had made in running these smokers. All had been undeniable successes, and while it had made a name for itself in other British Columbia centers it must not be forgotten that the smoker held to mark the opening of the Nelson-Spokane highway had charmed a great many United States visitors and had sent them away talking of Nelson and of the Nelson Great War Veterans' association.

Some Fine Bouts

In the bouts, with the exception of the one in which he clashed with W. Bowkett, Joe Holland acted as referee, and his decisions were according to Hoyle. Carleton J. Currier acted as timekeeper. In the Holland-Bowkett bout E. Modrill acted as referee. An orchestra, under Leon McCandlish, dispensed popular music during the evening.

The first bout was that between Jimmie Lowden and Don Hurd. Both boys see-sawed through the three rounds with some lively fighting, and the bout was declared a draw.

The next—Slim Braden vs. Charles McKay—was more humorous than tragic. Nobody was knocked out—in fact, there was not any chance of anybody being knocked out unless he fell and injured himself. But the boys were good. It may be remarked that this was a draw. In fact, so good were the boys that the large audience requester "another round," and this was granted. It made no difference in the decision.

Fast Exhibition

The next bout was undecidedly the best boxing exhibition of the evening—not excepting, at all, Hardie and McVicar. It was between Joe Holland and W. Bowkett, no decision, with E. Modrill as referee. Holland showed a lot of scientific boxing, with Bowkett showing stamina, gameness and a desire to learn.

These was no decision in the S. Alibone-Ed Parker bout. But the former, short in reach and height, gave an exhibition that marked him as worth watching. In fact, he showed more real science in one round than Hardie and McVicar did in three. Parker was there, but up against a boxer who thinks all the time.

Real Comedians Those

Then there were the world's two superheavyweights—Bill Freno and Deferro. Dr. Borden, in introducing them, remarked that Freno had brought his weight down to 290 and that his opponent had been training since August. The boys went through three rounds that gave the audience a real "kick." As vaudeville they are immense, and their bout, looked to with not a little expectancy, was all that was expected. Incidentally it may be remarked that Ben Boles was referee. Yes; it was a draw.

During the evening, at intermissions, enjoyable solos, dances and exhibition on the bones were given by Edgar Mason. W. Coleman, accompanying with his guitar, sang a number of pleasing songs.

LONG LAC CUTOFF TO CUT NATIONAL'S TIME

Diversion in East Will Bring Winnipeg Three Hours Nearer to Montreal and Four To Toronto

MONTREAL, Oct. 18. — Provided weather conditions do not handicap the work the Long Lac 30-mile cutoof, connecting what was formerly the Canadian Northern main line through Ontario with the transcontinental line, will be ready for operation about November 15.

Besides shortening the distance, considerable improvement in grade, alignment and the amount of rise and fall to be overcome is made by taking this route, and will permit trains being operated by the Canadian National railways in less time and at less expense.

The distance saved between Montreal and Winnipeg will be 70 1-5 miles, and between Toronto and Winnipeg 102 3-5 miles. On the basis of the present running schedule the saving in time between Montreal and Winnipeg will be 3 hours, and between Toronto and Winnipeg slightly more than 4 hours.

PAPYRUS FLIES AROUND TRACK

Betting Odds Suddenly Drop to Even Money; My Own to Be on Hand, Too

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—An exceptionally brilliant workout by Papyrus, with Steve Donoghue up, in the English Derby winner's final speed test, and orders for the shipment here of Rear-Admiral Cary Grayson's My Own, ready to substitute for Zev in an emergency, were developments that held the center of interest tonight in the $100,000 international turf classic, to be run Saturday at Belmont park.

Major Belmont explained that the committee simply desired to leave nothing to chance pointing out that My Own was designated as first alternate by the committee, and that Untidy, the second alternate, had already been eliminated as a possible substitute by breaking down.

Meanwhile, Papyrus' chances of victory in the cup race were considerably enhanced in turf circles by the colt's final trial this morning, in which Donoghue guided the Derby winner a mile and a furlong in 1:51 2-5.

One of the immediate results was the sharp decline of betting odds to even money, whereas about a week ago they stood at 8 to 1 on Zev.

COLLINS WILL LIKELY MANAGE WHITE SOX

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Eddie Collins, captain and second baseman of the Chicago White Sox, probably will be selected to succeed William "Kid" Gleason as manager of the club, it was reported in baseball circles tonight, although President Comiskey of the Sox would not confirm or deny the report. Announcement will be made at the annual meeting of the league, to be held here in December.

Mysterious Slayer Has Killed Nineteen in an Alabama City

Tradesmen in the small southern city of Birmingham, Ala., are held in a thrill of horror by the fiendishness of a series of "axe murders" that have occurred in that town during the past three and a half years.

Nineteen victims have been battered to death. Sixteen other attempts have been made. The slayer, believed to be a sadist, has completely baffled the authorities.

The murder of Charley Graffeo, Italian shopkeeper, was the 19th in a series of axe murders extending over the past three years, which thus far have completely baffled the police.

Sixteen other attempts were made, in which the victims escaped with their lives.

Graffeo was killed in his store. Police believe the murderer entered the store for the ostensible purpose of buying 5 cents worth of gerosene and struck the storekeeper down as he filled the order. His head was crushed by a blow from an axe and his throat cut from ear to ear, apparently by a single slash of a stiletto. When his body was found two hours later, his pockets were turned inside out, the cash register emptied and the store looted of a quantity of merchandise.

Battered by Axe Blows

The first victim was John Belser, an aged grocer, on the south side. His skull was crushed by a blow from an axe, December 24, 1919. The police recorded a case of crude murder with robbery the motive.

A few months later another grocer's skull was shattered in the same way, and thereafter followed a long series of crimes, almost identical in detail. The dead are:

John Belser, chain store manager, November 28, 1921.

Mose Parker, negro storekeeper, December 21, 1921.

Joseph Mantione, merchant, and his wife, December 21, 1921.

C. S. Crawford, grocer, and his wife, January 11, 1922.

Joseph Kline, grain store operator, January 10, 1923.

Luigi Vitellaro and his wife, January 23, 1923.

Abraham Levine, grocer, November 6, 1922.

Charley Graffeo.

Seven others were killed under similar circumstances, though not actually in a store.

Those who were injured by blows with axes are:

Charles Baldone, shopkeeper, wife and daughter, June 13, 1921.

H. I. Dorsky, merchant, August 17, 1921.

Mrs. Sam Zidman, storekeeper, September 6, 1921.

Tony Lorino, grocer; Joe Lucia, and Lucia's wife and daughter, June 3, 1922.

J. H. Seay, grocer, September 30, 1922.

Mrs. Abraham Levine, November 6, 1922.

Mary Kline, January 10, 1923.

In every case, but one, the slayer escaped. In the case of Joseph Mantione a negro answering the general description of the murderer was arrested; summarily tried, and sentenced.

Small shopkeepers sighed with relief, and the shopkeepers relaxed.

Their sense of security was cut short less than a week later, however, when C. S. Crawford was killed and his wife mortally injured, in their grocery on the opposite side of the city from that where Mantione had been slain. Mrs. Crawford died without regaining consciousness. Evidently the wrong man had been condemned.

Police Did Nothing

Since then the murderer has appeared at unexpected times in numerous shops in different sections of Birmingham. The murders have been accomplished in the face of desperate efforts on the part of police authorities and the public to catch the murderer. In nearly every instance he has killed or maimed his victims with an axe. His method of entry also has been identical in most of the cases.

A variation of fiendishness has been shown in some cases. Once, after crushing the skull of a storekeeper, the murderer applied kerosene to the store and set it on fire. Four of the victims' throats were cut after they had been struck down.

The accepted theory is that the slayer has been the same in every case. Robbery was at first supposed to be the motive. A vendetta was also suggested, because of the fact that a number of the victims were foreign born.

The theory that the slayer is a drug addict is held by many, who believe he commits the murder while fortified with narcotics and for the purpose of obtaining mopew to buy more drugs. Another hypothesis is that blackmail was being demanded and the victims had refused to accede to the demands.

A Professor's Theory

The sadist theory is the latest. It is advanced by a professor of psychology who argues that the slayer is overwhelmed by a degenerate passion which can be satiated only by the thud of the murderous weapon. Such a fiend would find delight in the details of his victims' death, it is said.

Some of the less violent of these types have been known to seek employment as killers in slaughter-houses, where they can gratify their passion for the sight of death; and the tendency sometimes makes itself recognized in childhood by an obsession for torturing small animals and insects.

Whatever the explanation of the horror that hangs over Birmingham, a veritable reign of terror exists among small merchants, who are adopting the plan of leaving their stores and seeking safety before it grows dark.

Rip Tide Causes Ship to Founder; Worst in Years

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Two men, the captain and engineer of the fishing excursion steamer Halcyon, were drowned today during a tempestuous sea kicked up by the "rip tide" which was caused by a northeasterly gale, the worst old Long Island fishermen could recall in 40 years. The vessel foundered after springing a leak about 2 miles off Coney Island while returning from the fishing banks.

Thirteen passengers and the two other men in her crew were saved.

SOVIET RUSSIA ISN'T TAKING WAR MEASURE

Calling Up of New Classes for Training Relates Wholly to System of Territorial Army

WARSAW, Oct. 18.—The chiefs of the Moscow military districts issued statements to the press tonight, declaring the summoning of six military classes for militia training has no connection with any mobilization for war. The statements were issued in answer to rumors circulated throughout the city that war was at hand.

The classes of 1902, 1903, said the statements, were called up for only 240 hours of preliminary military training, while the 1898, 1899, 1900 and 1901 classes will merely rehearse briefly the training they have already received.

The whole movement is in line with the system of creating the new territorial army.

The man who never told a lie is foolish to risk spoiling his reputation by saying so.

LLOYD GEORGE PAYS RESPECT TO LINCOLN

British War Premier Lays Wreath on Tomb of Great War President in "Reverent Homage"

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 18.—Lloyd George came here today and paid homage to the memory of Abe Lincoln With bared head, heedless of a cold, driving rain, he approached the monument and entered the tomb of the martyred president, where he placed on the sarcophagus a wreath, with his card, bearing the words:

"A humble and reverent homage to the memory of one of the world's greatest men."

Accompanying him were Dame Margaret and Miss Megan Lloyd George, as well as the official reception committee.

Reflects Aloud

Standing with head slightly bowed below the sarcophagus and for a moment in deep reverie, the man who also has known the pressure of great responsibilities in the time of war said audibly:

"He is the greatest man grown upon the American continent. He is growing, too—oh, yes, he grows.

"I've just been reading about the time he had. I read of the most recent ones about two years ago. It was rather an account of the troubles he had in the war with generals and politicians. They were worse than mine."

Also Theme at Banquet

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 18.—Lloyd George was officially welcomed to the state tonight by Governor Small, at a public dinner. The governor said that "his has been a courageous life of service to his country, and to his followers, as was that of our martyred president."

In his address, Lloyd George paid tribute to the memory of Lincoln.

"There have been great men whose lives constitute part of the history of the world," he said. "There are a few whose lives have become part of the legends of humanity. These are the greatest, and Lincoln's name will ever remain conspicuously among these. His fame is wider today than it was at the date of his death, and it is still widening. His influence is deeper, and it is still deepening."

DEPOSITORS WANT COUNTRY TO PAY

Committee of Fifteen Proposes to Ask Dominion to Pay for the Home Bank's Failure

TORONTO, Oct. 18.—Plans to protect the savings of 60,000 depositors of the Home Bank of Canada, now in liquidation, were made this afternoon at a meeting of the committee of 15 appointed by the general meeting of depositors held recently.

According to I. E. Weldon, K.C., counsel for the depositors, the formation of a holding company to take over the assets of the Home bank, with a view to minimizing the cost of liquidation, was recommended, and the proposal will be put before the depositors for consideration at their meeting in Toronto on December 6.

Paid Taxes When no Profits

"As the Home bank has been paying large amounts to the treasury of Canada in the way of business profits tax, when as a matter of fact there were no profits being made by the bank, the government of Canada will be asked to return this money to the liquidators," Mr. Weldon said.

"It was decided," said Mr. Weldon, "to apply to the government to make good the entire losses of the depositors, on the ground of negligence of the department of finance, inasmuch as they were perfectly aware several years ago of the state of affairs of the bank."

Department Negligent

It was felt, he added, that when the assistant to the president of the bank reported to the government that dividends were being paid out of deposits, and not being earned, it was the duty of the finance department to have protected the public in some way.

The committee also dealt with another application which is to be made to parliament, but which Mr. Weldon did not wish to reveal.

The meeting received with a great deal of satisfaction, said Mr. Weldon, the announcement that while no binding agreement had been made, the other banks were considered to be on the point of advancing to depositors a sum equal to 25 per cent of the total deposits, as soon as the legal formalities could be observed.

MARY ELLEN MAY PAY SECOND VISIT

Reports to Minister on Her Immigration Activities; Talked With One Thousand

OTTAWA, Oct. 18. — Mary Ellen Smith, M.P.P., of Vancouver, who has been in Great Britain for the past three months on behalf of the federal government, looking into possibilities for emigration to Canada, today presented her report to Hon. J. A. Robb, minister of immigration.

While no arrangements were made for another visit Mrs. Smith said tonight that it was very possible she would go over again, next spring, at the joint request of the British and Canadian authorities.

Young Women Enthusiastic

During her recent stay Mrs. Smith said she had interviewed more than 1000 individuals anxious to come to Canada, many of them representatives of good families. Fully 50 per cent of these, she asserted, would be able to finance their voyage, if assured of work on arrival. Young women in Great Britain were very enthusiastic about taking up farm work in Canada.

A special problem over there, she said, was that of the young men who had matured during the war period, but owing to unemployment conditions had not yet taken up any vocation. Many of these felt that Canada was their chief hope.

Mrs. Smith leaves for Vancouver Friday night.

SINN FEIN PLAN NOT A SUCCESS

Amusement Managers Ignore Picketing Proclamation; Program Useless Without Force

DUBLIN, Oct. 18.—The plan adopted at yesterday's session of the Ard Fheis convention, for picketing public buildings and places of amusement as a sign of sympathy with hunger-striking Republican prisoners, was not carried out to any great extent today. Entertainment managers ignored it, feeling certain that the military authorities would remove or arrest pickets.

It was pointed out that the Sinn Fein program is helpless without the support of force, and the Republican military faction insists that force must be wholly abandoned, declaring the belief that the Free State government would welcome a resumption of army hostilities.

Mount Joy Facts Elusive

In Mount Joy prison, where most of the Republican prisoners are held, it is difficult to know which of them are striking. Food is left at meal time for all of them, but most of it is untouched. More than 400 are believed to be striking, with about one per cent taking food.

Eamonn de Valera, who is in the Arbour Hill prison, is not hunger striking.
