FIVE THOUSAND FLEE WAVE IN OKLAHOMA

DOMINION BANK MEETS DEPOSITORS' RUN

DEPOSITORS IN TORONTO RUN ON DOMINION BANK

Head Office Keeps Open After Hours to Pay All Who Call for Holdings

OFFICIALS BELIEVE IT WAS ORGANIZED

Bank Said to Be in Strongest Positions in Its History

OTTAWA, Oct. 15. — (By Canadian Press.)—The run on the Dominion bank in Toronto has not up to the present resulted in any action being taken by the government.

No comment upon the matter was available at that department this evening, and it is understood that no formal application for action by the department has been received.

GLOBE TELLS STORY

TORONTO, Oct. 15.—"Thousands of bank depositors in Toronto today gave an illustration of how bank panics begin and spread," the Globe will say in an editorial tomorrow. "There had been rumors afloat in the city on Friday as to the condition of the Dominion bank, one of the strongest institutions in the country, presided over by Sir Edmund Osler, whose conservatism is proverbial. C. A. Bogart, the general manager, believed that the malevolent gossip which had been brought to his notice would cease if no publicity was given to it, and that there was no need to assure the public of the solvency and the strength of the bank.

"Mr. Bogart thought he was confronted by the same form of unorganized and unreasoning panic that had caused runs from time to time on branches of other banks in smaller centers, and that the best way to deal with the matter was to ignore the stories in circulation and pay out the money called for by nervous depositors.

"This method of coping with the situation would have been all right had the run been unorganized. It became evident on Saturday, however, and in a still greater degree on Monday morning, that there were people in Toronto making it their business to spread broadcast statements calculated to injure the bank and bring about withdrawal of deposits.

Issue Reassuring Statement

"The run was met ultimately and overtaken by keeping the head office and branches of the bank open after hours to pay all the depositors who had assembled before the closing hour and by the publication of a statement, signed by Sir Edmund Osler, Mr. Bogart and G. Clarkson, the bank's auditor, that 'The Dominion bank at the present time is in a stronger position than at any time in its history. It has no loans or transactions on its books that are causing the directors or officials any concern, and the bank is in a position to meet all demands that may be made upon it.'

"The Globe hopes and believes that yesterday's experiences will bring the officials of the banks generally to a realization of the value of publicity as a means of preventing such follies as yesterday's run on the Dominion bank."

Ontario Will Deposit

TORONTO, Oct. 15.—That the Ontario government is satisfied with the stability of the Dominion bank was demonstrated by the following statement issued tonight by Hon. G. H. Ferguson, premier of Ontario, who was associated in a conference with Hon. W. H. Price, provincial treasurer, and Hon. W. F. Nickle, K.C., attorney-general.

"We have every confidence in the soundness of the Dominion bank and its ability to take care of the situation, and as evidence of that, we propose tomorrow morning to place on deposit with that bank the sum of $1,500,000."

The foregoing statement is the result of a run on the Dominion bank in Toronto on Saturday and today.

All Other Banks Behind It

MONTREAL, Oct. 15.—The following statement was made here tonight by Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, president of the Canadian Bankers' association:

"The Canadian Bankers' association feels satisfied that the Dominion bank is in an adequately sound and strong position and able to meet without difficulty all demands likely to be made upon it, and I know that all the other banks comprising the association would, without doubt, stand behind the Dominion bank if it were necessary."

LID CLOSES ON DELIBERATIONS OF CONFERENCE

Empire Defence Is Opened to Premiers Behind Closed Doors

LORD SALISBURY GIVES GENERAL VIEW OF IT

Subject Is Only Opened, as Yet, No Proposals Being Submitted

LONDON, Oct. 15.—(Special Cable to the Canadian Press by George Hambleton, Staff Correspondent.)—With Premier Stanley Baldwin presiding, and no less than six other members of his cabinet attending, in addition to the representatives from the overseas dominions, the Imperial conference this afternoon began consideration of the problem of Empire defence.

The official communique issued tonight laconically observes that "the preceding sessions were confined to the problem of Imperial defence. Following a statement by Lord Salisbury, lord president of the council, the conference decided that in view of the nature of the subject under discussion the proceedings should not be made public."

Naval Talk Tomorrow

Although the official communique gives no indication, it is understood that the statement by the marquis of Salisbury, who spoke as chairman of the Imperial defence committee, was confined to a general review of defence conditions. He touched on naval defence, making some references to Singapore, but leaving the main problem of naval defence to Col. L. C. Amery, first lord of the admiralty, who will address the conference on Wednesday.

The discussion subsequent to Lord Salisbury's statement is understood to have been of general character, no definite Empire defence proposals having been submitted. Should definite proposals involving action by the dominions be submitted, it is expected that the attitude of the Canadian ministers will be that they have no authority to bind Canada one way or the other; that the question is essentially one for decision by the dominion parliaments.

Not a Cabinet, Says Canada

The Canadian ministers here are opposed to the view, which is obtaining currency in certain quarters, that the conference is a continuation of the Imperial war cabinet. They take the view that they are here merely as representatives of Canada, empowered only to confer with representatives of other governments in the Empire; that the conference possesses none of a cabinet's executive functions and that therefore any new defence proposals must be submitted to parliament before Canada's attitude can be determined.

The economic conference tomorrow resumes its labors, first taking up the question of technical research, then that of inter-Imperial shipping, and communications generally.

Six Die in Tenement Blaze in Brooklyn; Playwright on "Eve"

NEW YORK, Oct. 15. — With success in his grasp and fame perhaps in the offing, George Keim, playwright, whose long struggle for recognition on Broadway will be realized tomorrow night with the production of his musical comedy, "Ginger," suddenly met death early today with five others when fire swept through the old three-storey frame building in Brooklyn in which he lived.

Lord Birkenhead and Lloyd George "Howdy!"

ST. PAUL, Oct. 15.—Two noted Britishers met here tonight, and "just passed the time of the day," as one observer put it. They were David Lloyd George, former premier of Great Britain, and Lord Birkenhead, lord chancellor during the Welshman's regime.

The two met at a private dinner here. The Lloyd George party left at 8:10 p.m. on a special train for the east.

BERLIN RIOTERS DISARM POLICE HELPING BAKERS

City Has Many Disturbances; Demonstrators Demand Increased Doles

BERLIN, Oct. 15. — The raiding of food shops, particularly bakeries, has been reported today from various parts of Berlin.

Demonstrators against high prices during the day in two parts of the city occupied by workers, smashed the windows of bakeries, and policemen who endeavored to protect property were disarmed before reinforcements could be brought up.

In one district 5000 demonstrators, mostly unemployed men, reinforced by women, repeated the performance of Saturday, making demands upon the authorities for increased doles.

The police reserves were called, and, with fixed bayonets, drove the demonstrators away. The leaders of the mob announced that they would repeat the demonstration tomorrow.

Barber Snits Lloyd George's Flowing Locks

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 15. — David Lloyd George had a "regular" English haircut here today.

It was the first haircut Britain's wartime premier had had since his arrival from abroad, and incidentally it was given by a native of Great Britain.

B. H. Thompson, manager of a local hotel barber shop, was the barber. Like all barbers he talked as he worked, and found Lloyd George to be good company.

"I am pleased to see and meet you again," Thompson said as he entered Lloyd George's suite at the hotel.

"And where did you see me last?" Lloyd George inquired.

"It was during the Boer war riot at Birmingham," Thompson replied.

Did Not Stone Lloyd George

"Is that so," commented the famous Welshman. "You were not one of those who threw stones at me?" Lloyd George smiled.

Thompson, somewhat embarrassed, hesitated before he replied.

"No, I did not throw stones at you. I was in the crowd just trying to get out of it. I am sure I didn't throw stones."

"Lloyd George's haircut was a regular English haircut," the barber continued. "I just used the shears, and clipped off the ends as I ran his waving locks through my fingers. In England we would call it snitting."

Predatory Negro Bows When Civil War Sword Levelled at Midriff

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—With a Civil war sword poised threateningly at his midriff, Alexander Jones, a negro who said he had no home, was captured by Joseph Long, superintendent of the Concord Hall apartments at 468 Riverside drive. He was locked up by police and held to the grand jury later on a charge of burglary after Long and his son told how they had been awakened by someone prowling in their basement apartment. They said a lookout had fled as the police car drove up.

At Great Luncheon in Minneapolis Urges States Act for Peace

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 15.—(By the Associated Press.) — An appeal for the United States to help Europe make peace was made here today by David Lloyd George, the war time minister of Great Britain, in his first public address in this country, after concluding his tour of Canada.

Speaking before many hundreds of persons at a luncheon given by the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce association, the former premier said:

"I am not here on any mission, but let me say to you one thing, that until the United States of America, with its mighty influence, with its great power, with the moral command which it has in the world because of its past, with the great claim that you won by coming into the war without self-purpose but for a holy ideal, sending millions of your best young men across to fight for liberty and for nothing else—until this great land casts its influence into the scale of peace, I despair of the future."

Be Proud of Part in War

Referring to a statement that Americans were doing their best to forget the recent war, he urged that they do not forget.

"There is nothing," he said, "for you to forget — nothing. There is something for you to be proud of. You came for nought but at the call of a great purpose, and a great ideal It ought to be your pride. The part you took in it is one which is worthy of your greatest traditions. And my last word is that so far from forgetting that part, I trust that the United States of America will once more, in due time, in its own way, cast its great might into the scales of peace."

The address was the one formal function on the program of the visitor during his day's visit to this city.

Arriving early this morning, he was welcomed by huge crowds at the station, and on his way to his hotel, while thousands crowded the streets and greeted him with applause as he was escorted on a sight-seeing trip along the Mississippi river boulevard to other parts of interests.

This evening he went to St. Paul for a private dinner at the Minnesota club, and later left for Mooseheart, Ill., and Chicago, where he will arrive tomorrow night.

The welcome extended here to Lloyd George was one of the best. Seated at the table at the luncheon were prominent men from this section, including Governor J. A. Preus of Minnesota, Governor R. A. Nestos of North Dakota, former Senator S. Kellogg and Senators Henrik Shipstead and Magnus Johnson of Minnesota, Congressman W. H. Newton of Minnesota, Minnesota state officials, Mayor Art. Nelson of St. Paul, Theodore Jenson, president of the Minneapolis city council, and other Minneapolis city officials, and C. A. Severance, a former president of the American Bar association.

Behind the speaker's table, the American and British flags were entwined.

Gets Wampum Belt

A colorful ceremony was held during the luncheon, when Lloyd George was formally made an honorary member of the Sioux tribe of Indians by chiefs in full tribal costume and paint from the Cheyenne Indian reservation of South Dakota, who conferred upon him their degree of the Eagle Feather. Chief Brave Eagle, heading the delegation, with the assistance, as in-

HALIFAX IS TO PROSECUTE TWO MORE OFFICIALS

Health Secretary and Housing Secretary Charged; Collector Collapses in Jail

HALIFAX, Oct. 15. — The board of health at a meeting tonight decided to take criminal action in connection with a shortage of $1800 in its funds, uncovered by a special audit of civic finances, and which has resulted in the dismissal of the board's secretary, J. C. Watters.

The audit, which uncovered the board of health shortage, also resulted in the trial and conviction of Robert Theakston, city collector for more than 30 years, for the theft of $34,000. The ex-collector, who is 73 years of age, has been granted bail, following a collapse, Saturday morning, in jail.

A shortage in the vicinity of $3000 was also uncovered in the funds of the housing commission, and the commission's secretary, Thomas Hayes, has been committed for trial on a charge of embezzlement.

West Branches Contribute to the 'Carry On' Fund

WINNIPEG, Oct. 15.—To help the Dominion command to "carry on" with its service work at Ottawa the Winnipeg branch of the Great War Veterans' association has contributed $1000, it was announced today. Several Manitoba branches also have sent donations to the "carry on" fund.

Calgary In It

CALGARY, Oct. 15.—In spite of the fact that their own finances are not exactly in a flourishing condition the Calgary branch of the Great War Veterans' association showed the way to other locals in the province by donating $1000 to the Dominion command at the monthly meeting held in the Memorial hall Sunday afternoon.

BOY WRITES OUT HIS CONFESSION

At Dictate of Alleged Arch-Criminal He Kills Mother With Ammonia

SEATTLE, Oct. 15.—Additional details of alleged plans to kill 27 prominent residents of Bandon, Ore., and seven of their children, by Arthur Covell, aged 46, a cripple and noted astrologist, who, with the aid of Alton Covell, aged 18, a stepson of Mrs. Ebba Covell, who was slain in her home last month, will be tried separately on charges of murder, together with a written confession obtained from Alton Covell, were made public here tonight by Luke S. Lay, criminologists, who has been investigating the death of the Bandon woman.

Furnish Cafeteria with Plunder

May made the definite charge that the astrologist's papers, which he brought back from Oregon, included detailed plans for the sending of letters signed "K.K.K" in an alleged effort to further his schemes, the kidnapping of the wife of a Bandon banker and later the killing of the banker after obtaining the ransom money, the alleged duplication of a slaying by ammonia and the building of a cafeteria to be furnished and operated from the furniture, produce and stock obtained from his intended victims.

Alton Covell confessed to the charge that he had stifled his stepmother with ammonia and that his uncle connived at the murder.

ALLEGED BANDITS CHAINED TOGETHER

Sidney Murrell, Brought From California, and "Slim" Williams, Face Murder Jury

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 15.—The story of the Melbourne Home bank holdup on April 11, 1921, and the murder of Russell Campbell, a Melbourne garage keeper, when he tried to stop the getaway of the bandits, was told by witnesses at the trial which opened today of Sidney Murrell and Henry J. "Slim" Williams.

William Murrell, a brother of Sidney, and Ernest Norton, were reported as accomplices of the accused men in the attempted robbery, but Norton escaped. After a preliminary hearing in 1921, at which the three prisoners were sent up for trial, the two Murrells escaped from jail.

Sidney Murrell was arrested a few months ago in California, but his brother William is still at large.

During the hearing of evidence today, the two prisoners were handcuffed and chained together, and surrounded by heavily armed constables.

The five witnesses heard today gave evidence similar to that given at the inquest.

JUDGE DECLINES TO CHANGE VOTERS' LIST

Refuses Application of North Winnipeg Labor Candidate to Restrain Returning Officer

WINNIPEG, Oct. 15.—Holding that the applicant had not proved sufficient "interest" in the case; that he had not shown where any great wrong was being done, and that if the list being used is an improper one, the applicant has a remedy through parliament, Mr. Justice Dysart ,in the court of king's bench, this afternoon dismissed the application for a writ of mandamus on behalf of Alderman A. A. Heaps, Laborite, to prevent use of the 1921 voters' list in the forthcoming by-election in Winnipeg.

The applicant wanted the 1923 liquor referendum list used, rather than the last Dominion election list,

Has to Leave a Happy Home When Emulates Festive Nightingale

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Because he sings in his home was one of the reasons given by Patrick Condon of 42 Herriott street, Yonkers, in city court, for asking that his son Thomas, aged 27, be ousted from the house.

The son was in court on a summons which technically charged disorderly conduct. The father told Judge Charles W. Boots that among the defendant's faults was his singing late at night, which disturbed other members of the family. The judge, failing to reconcile the father and son, ordered the younger Condon to move out and find other quarters. The son denied all the father's accusations.

DAM CARRIED AWAY SWELLS FLOODED RIVER

Over Hundred Blocks in Oklahoma City Are Hastily Evacuated

BRIDGES AND HOUSES BORNE OUT BY RIVERS

Men Rescued From Tree-Tops in Middle of Swirling Two-Mile-Wide Flood

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 15.—The west bank of the municipal dam, 10 miles west of here, housing the city's reserve water supply, gave way under the pressure of the swollen North Canadian river late tonight, releasing a 7-foot torrent to augment the already swollen stream.

Five thousand persons, living in the lowlands here south of the St. Louis-San Francisco railroad tracks, an area comprising 117 city blocks, fled as city officials, warned of the approaching flood waters, ordered them to evacuate the district.

The overflow is expected to reach the city within a few hours.

FIVE FEET IN HALF HOUR

Breaking through the embankment, after rising 5 feet in 25 minutes, the flood waters swept over a valley of fertile lands and struck an entirely new course in its rush southward. About a mile further down stream the torrent is believed to have turned back into the river.

Government gauges show the rapidly rising water at 23 feet, 9 feet over flood stage and 7 feet above the disastrous rise of last June.

Worst in State's History

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 15.—Western, central and southern Oklahoma tonight was in the grip of the most disastrous flood ever recorded in the state. Rivers and streams, swollen by rains that have fallen virtually without intermission since Friday morning, were sweeping southeastward, carrying away bridges, houses, and other property.

The North and South Canadian rivers, the Cimarron, the Washita, the north fork of the Red river—all are spreading destruction that is estimated already in the millions of dollars.

No authentic reports of the loss of life have been received here tonight.

Scores of families, however, have been forced to flee, leaving their household goods behind them, and at Canton, on the North Canadian, three men were rescued today from three tops in the midst of a swirling stream nearly 2 miles wide.

Reports from Canton indicated that the river, burdened with its unprecedented volume of water, had straightened its course, sweeping through farms heretofore considered immune.

LOSS OF SKILLED HANDS CONCERNS

Scotland Sees Forty Thousand Immigrants Cross Seas in Four Months' Time

LONDON, Oct. 15.—(By Canadian Press Cable.)—The loss of many of the best craftsmen of Great Britain, who are seeking employment abroad, particularly in the United States and Canada, is said to be causing the trades unions and employers of the United Kingdom considerable concern.

In the past four months more than 40,000 immigrants left Scotland for the west, 21,000 of them going to Canada, and more than 19,000 to the United States.

In August 8000 left Scotland for the Dominion of Canada. A large number of these went to engage in the harvest work in the Canadian west, and the great majority of them are remaining in the Dominion.

Five Men Cremated in a Forest Fire Down in Michigan

Have you heard about Peps? Peps is a scientific preparation put up in pastille form, which provides an entirely new and effective treatment for coughs, colds, chest and throat troubles.

Peps contain certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapor, and are breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the lungs.

In a word, while no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, these Peps fumes get there direct, and at once commence healing.

TO RELIEVE PAIN AND BACKACHE

Women May Depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I had heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that when I realized I needed to take something to relieve my pains and backache, and to help build me up I began to take that. I had been sick off and on for years and barely weighed a hundred pounds, but now I have had such good results that I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to every one."—Mrs. J. J. BIEBER, 3939 18th Ave. South, Minneapolis, Minn.

Finds a True Friend

"Every woman who values her health should be proud to have a true friend like the Vegetable Compound," says Mrs. W. E. Shaw, 3227 Walnut Street, Chicago, Illinois. "I had female weakness so badly that I could not stand on my feet. Half of my time was spent in bed and I had pains in my back which were unbearable. I tried everything I could think of to help myself, and when a friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began taking it at once. I recommend it without hesitation."

LLOYD GEORGE GETS OVATION IN MINNESOTA

terpreter, of Dr. Charles Eastman, United States Indian inspector, gave the former premier the name of "Two Eagles," explaining that one was in recognition of his achievement in war and the other in the field of civic affairs in peace.

The distinguished visitor was given the pipe of peace to smoke, while a feathered war bonnet was placed on his head, a bow and arrow in his hands, and an historic quiver filled with arrows used in ancient battle of the tribe, was placed in his arms. At the same time the Indians gave him a belt of wampum, and articles of Indian manufacture for Dame Margaret and Miss Megan Lloyd George, who were among the most interested spectators of the ceremony.

Jews Give Testimonial

Addresses in Welsh were delivered in receiving Lloyd George to the city and at the luncheon, Jewish citizens through Dr. Maurice Lefkovitz, presented a testimonial on parchment in recognition of his services in the attempt to establish in the Holy Land a national home for the Jewish people.

Replying to this presentation, Lloyd George said he hoped the movement was the beginning of a restoration which will leave "almost as deep a mark upon the story of the human race as your first occupation of that holy ground."

"All my life," he added, "I have fought against the oppressor. I have consecrated such strength as God has given me to fight for the weak and for those whom I conceived to be persecuted and trampled."

Referring, in his luncheon address, to his tour of Canada, Lloyd George declared that the Dominion was a vast country with immense possibilities, but "is naturally in the stage of development in which you were perhaps 100 years ago, with reference to your country," adding that he "was anxious to see this amazing new civilization untrammelled, freed from the difficulties, the embarrassments, the traditions, the hatreds, and the terrible problems which are affecting Europe and making it difficult at every turn for progress to have a clear path."

"I am a from a troubled continent," he continued. "This continent is at peace. I crossed the frontier last night—the most remarkable frontier in the world—without forts and guns, or soldiers, or barbed wire to protect it.

"The frontiers of poor Europe bristle with the mechanism of slaughter. You are the continent of peace, and, in God's name, keep it the continent of peace.

Former Enemies One People

"There are races here which have been interlocked in Europe in fearful savage, barbarous conflict for generations. You are welding them into one people, living with the same national hearthstone, by the great national fire."

Speaking of his pleasure at visiting the middle west, Lloyd George said he had heard that, politically, it was the part of the United States that baffled politicians.

"During the war," he added, "whenever we wanted to know something about the United States, they said to us:

"'Well, it depends on the middle west,' and if we said something, they said, 'Hush, you must not say that, otherwise the middle west will hear it.' If we asked something, they said: 'You can't have it, the middle west wants it.' So I was very anxious to see what the middle west was like."

Germany Claims France Is Trying to Keep Railways

BERLIN, Oct. 15. — A semi-official statement was issued today complaining that France is hindering resumption of work on the railways in the occupied areas, by refusing to allow the return of local German experts, and by consolidating the position of the Franco-Belgian railway administration, whose existence is not justified, now that passive resistance has ended ,and can only have the purpose of cutting off Germany politically, and building up an independent Rhine-Ruhr railway system under French control.

Railway Taxation Case Now Before Supreme Court

OTTAWA, Oct. 15.—The supreme court today heard argument on the appeal of the town of Kamsack vs. Canadian Northern Town Properties company, from the decision of the court of appeal for Saskatchewan. Argument will be continued tomorrow.

The town brought action for taxes on certain town lots alleged to be owned by the respondents, whose main defence was that they did not own the lots. The contention of the appellant was that the Canadian Northern Railway company purchased the lots, and the respondents, its successors to the title, were liable to taxation thereon.

The respondents claimed that the railway company was only agents to sell the land, and the title remained in the crown.

The trial judge upheld the appel*lant's contention, but his judgment* was reversed by the court of appeals.

THIS MAN TELLS YOU HOW TO KEEP FIT!

Bear River, N.S.—"My back was so bad I could hardly work. I was always tired out and had no ambition; was nervous and dizzy, and everything seemed to worry me. I also had terrible pains in my right side I felt badly for about eighteen months, and could not do my work as it should have been done. I tried several doctors, and also bought about $25.00 worth of put-up medicines, but I found no relief until I took Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Doctor Pierce's Anuric (anti-uric-acid) Tablets. I have taken two bottles of the Discovery, and four of the Anuric Tablets, and can say that I feel as well as I have felt for the last ten years. I advise any sufferer to give Dr. Pierce's remedies a fair trial. I cannot recommend them too highly for what they have done for me, and shall be pleased to answer anyone who cares to write me."—Norman E. Trimper, R.R.1.

Plaids have returned to favor for autumn wraps and they are the old-fashioned carriage rug variety, camel colored in the reverse side and with fringed edges that play a conspicuous part in the scheme of things.

New York reports that the princess frock is becoming frequent at day time affairs and so is the plaite or otherwise fulled flounce added to the skirt about 14 inches from the bottom, giving a flowing line to the edge.

Blackheads Go Quick by This Simple Method

Blackheads—big ones or little ones—soft ones or hard ones—on any part of the body go quick by a simple method that just dissolves them. To do this, get about two ounces of peroxine powder from your druggist—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly for a few seconds—and wash off. You'll wonder where the blackheads have gone. Pinching and squeezing blackheads only open the pores of the skin and leave them large and unsightly—while the simple application of peroxine powder and the water dissolve them right out, leaving the skin soft and the pores in their natural condition.

Six Years With Pacific

In writing to find who is our oldest friend, many interesting ideas are brought up. One woman, for instance, said she was in Fort George when Pacific Milk first came to her notice about six years ago. She was constantly changing from one milk to another, liking none of them. The first can of Pacific she saw she bought, and for six years it is the only milk she have used for any purpose.

Fifteen Days Produce 70 Hours of Bright Sunshine

With half the month gone, October has failed to record any frost, the lowest temperature, according to the records of J. S. Goulding, local meteorologist, having been three degrees above freezing on the 10th.

The first 15 days of the month have produced 70 hours of bright sunshine and only three-quarters of an inch of rain—yesterday. The highest temperature recorded was 76 degrees on October 4.

There have been four cloudless days. The greatest velocity of wind was yesterday, when it reached 26 miles an hour from the southeast. The barometer was low last night, and indications were for more rain.

MANY MINERS AT ROSSLAND

Consolidated Is Expected to Be Shipping Ores Out Before the End of the Month

ROSSLAND, B.C., Oct. 15.—All indications point to shipments of ore from the local mines of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting company being started before the end of the month.

The new boiler house is now nearing completion and the crushing plant is ready to be placed in operation.

Many workers are arriving, the conditions in the local mines always having been regarded as good, and it is expected that in the next few weeks the Consolidated will have 500 men working here.

POINTS OUT VALUE OF ROAD TO CITY

Mr. Gamble Declares Hope-Princeton Highway Will Be of Great Benefit to Penticton

PENTICTON, B.C., Oct. 15.—J. F. Gamble of Nelson and R. G. Holmes of Vancouver were visitors in Penticton and made a trip to the Susie mine at Fairview. Mr. Gamble stated on his return that good progress was being made with the development work there and new camp buildings are being erected, which speaks of a contemplated increase in the number of men employed.

Mr. Gamble went on to say that the opening of the Banff-Windermere road opened the eyes of the Nelson business men to the value of tourist traffic and Penticton would find a great difference in conditions when the Hope-Princeton road is opened. If Penticton is to secure the maximum benefit from the construction of the Hope-Princeton road, however, the town would have to provide a really comfortable tourist camping ground, and the experience in Rossland showed that it was no detriment to the place to have this located even quite near to the business section.

ROTARY CLUB PROVES SPIRIT

Local Organization Will Send Crippled Boy to Seattle Hospital for Treatment

Harold Hardie, the 6-year-old son of G. W. Hardie of Hall Siding who since birth has suffered from club feet, will be sent to Seattle for treatment and cure, according to steps taken by the members of the Nelson Rotary club at their weekly luncheon yesterday afternoon.

The case of the young Hall Siding lad was drawn to the attention of the local club through the Vancouver Rotary club, and on investigation it was thought by club members that this was a case where the true Rotary spirit could be shown.

Yesterday the little lad was present at the meeting, and Dr. L. E. Borden, who addressed the members, stated that one of the great duties of the Rotary International was the boys' work. At the recent Rotary convention papers had been passed recommending that the case of crippled children be dealt with by the clubs. Dr. Borden stated that at that time he had been directly opposed to any such action, as it would mean the necessity of an experienced orthopedic on the committee.

The case of young Hardie had, however, been taken up, and the boy had been practically adopted by the local Rotary club. The club foot disease, he stated, was a common one, and figures had told that one in every 1200 births was one of deformity of the legs or feet. This disease was more common in the male sex.

Club feet, stated the doctor, was a twisting of the feet, with the tendons and bones out of shape. When cases occur they should be operated upon, and the younger the patient the better the results. What was wanted in the case of this lad was that he go before an orthopedia surgeon. Dr. Borden recommended a six-months' treatment in a Seattle orthopedic hospital.

"Let us show something of which we have been talking about. Let us adopt him and show what can be done." said Dr. Borden.

After a brief discussion among the members the case of little Harry was settled, and he will, through the efforts of the members of the Nelson Rotary club, be sent to Seattle for special treatment.

At yesterday's luncheon Dave Kerr gave a paper on "Business Code."

Rebekah President Pays Official Visit to Prince Rupert

Describing the visit of Mrs. George F. Motion of Nelson to Prince Rupert a Prince Rupert exchange says:

"Mrs. George F. Motion, president of the Rebekah assembly of British Columbia, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, paid her official visit to the local Rebekah lodge last evening, a special degree meeting and banquet taking place in the Metropole hall to mark the occasion. There was a good attendance of Rebekahs and Odd Fellows. Addresses were given by Mrs. Motion and Mayor Newton, the former dealing with the work and ideals of the Rebekah lodge and the latter with the Odd Fellows' home that it is proposed to establish in this province at a point yet to be settled upon. Mrs. Phil McDonald, noble grand, presided, and the committee in charge comprised Mrs. J. S. Irvine, Mrs. Jack McIntosh and Mrs. W. H. Sherman Jr.

"On Monday evening in honor of Mrs. Motion there was a delightful card party at the home of Mrs. G. V. Wilkinson, Dunsmuir street. The prize winners were Mrs. H. J. Smith and Mayor Newton. Mrs. G. V. Wilkinson, Mrs. James Simpson and Mrs. S. V. Cox comprised the committee in charge.

"Mr. and Mrs. Motion are leaving this evening for Smithers and Prince George. This afternoon they were shown various points of interest about the city by members of the order."

DID PRESIDENT, NOW DEAD, MAKE CLOSURE THREAT

Globe Says Eight Years Ago Western Directors Found Hands Tied

TORONTO, Oct. 15. — While the three former western directors of the Home bank refuse to make any comment upon the information which was given them regarding the alarming condition of the bank eight years ago, says the Toronto Globe, "some of the allegations which caused them, at that time, to start an investigation were placed in the hands of Attorney-General Nickle today."

Huge Loan to President's Company

The Globe states that late in 1914 the three western directors, T. A. Crerar, John Kennedy and John Perrse, demanded some investigation at the head office of the Home bank. Among other things, they had heard that a loan of $4,500,000 had been made to a company of which Colonel Cooper Mason — afterward General Mason—then president, was a director, and that the bank's directors knew nothing about it.

At first the eastern directors opposed the demand of the western men for a probe, and Colonel Mason offered to furnish full information of all transactions, the Globe continues. However, it is stated, suspicions were aroused, and the eastern directors acceded to the western pressure for a probe and an inspection. An official of the bank at that time summed up the result of the probe as showing the bank to have been in a position "where the continued existence is most seriously threatened."

Might Have Started Run

The official, in the statement quoted in the Globe, placed the blame on Colonel Mason. The directors, according to the statement, were afraid to remove Colonel Mason because it might start a run, and also because of his threat that "under certain conditions he would 'close our doors.'"

McHaffie Letter

OTTAWA, Oct. 15.—Rt. Hon. W. S. Fielding, minister of finance, tonight issued a statement in regard to the letter of W. N. MacHaffie, a former official of the Home bank, published in the Toronto Globe, and the comment upon it by Sir Thomas White, former minister of finance.

Mr. Fielding said his attention had been called to the following statement:

"While Sir Thomas admitted having received the letter from Mr. MacHaffie, the Globe was informed at Ottawa that it was not now on the files of the finance department. Sir Thomas says when he left Ottawa in 1919 he left this and other correspondence with his secretary, so as to be available should further questions arise affecting the bank."

Untouched by Fielding

"The statement from Ottawa," continued Mr. Fielding, "that the MacHaffie letter was not on the files of the department was correct. Sir Thomas White's private secretary was, and still is, an officer of the finance department. Any papers of a private character left by Sir Thomas White with his private secretary on his retirement from office would be the private property of Sir Thomas. I, as one of his successors, have never had a cause to touch the papers, nor have I any right to see them."

RUM-RUNNING CONFAB DATE NOT FIXED YET

Hon. Jacques Bureau Must First Finish Western Tour; Will Gather Data on Coast

OTTAWA, Oct. 15.—The date for the conference between United States and Canadian officials in regard to rum-running across the border has not yet been reached. The conference will not take place for some weeks, as Hon. Jacques Bureau, minister of customs, has gone west on a business trip and will not return until some time next month.

Mr. Bureau will probably gather some information in regard to rum-running on the Pacific coast while in British Columbia.

COLUMBIA GOES TO A RECEIVER

Friendly Action Is Means to Reorganization of Pioneer Talking Machine Makers

NEW YORK, Oct. 15. — The Columbia Gramaphone Manufacturing company, one of the pioneers in the talking machine trade, was placed in the hands of a receiver today when an involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in federal court on behalf of the several creditors.

The action was a friendly one, and plans for the corporation's reorganization under a new name will be made public tomorrow.

H. L. Wilson, president and general manager of the company, and James R. Sheffield were appointed receivers, and furnished a joint bond of $100,000.

The application for the receivership listed assets at $29,000,000 and liabilities at $21,000,000.

United States Receivers Tell Canadian Creditors Buffalo Interests May Buy Business

TORONTO, Oct. 15.—Creditors of the L. R. Steel company, at a meeting here today, approved the continuance of the stores for another two months, at the request of the United States receivers, who state that there are people in Buffalo investigating the busines in a bona fide way.

These parties hope to make a proposition to take over the Steel interests, it was said, which would pay the creditors in full. Some argument would be made for a reorganization, and protection or some privileges given to shareholders.

The meeting adjourned until December 17.

SENDS SKUNK CURE FROM SAN FRANCISCO

Reading that an unwelcome company of skunks had been making things somewhat annoying for the residents of Crawford Bay, Miss Borghild Olson, who formerly resided in this city and is now in San Francisco, has sent The Daily News a clipping and a small bottle of perfume.

"Put this on the animals' tails," she writes, "three times a day on week days and six times on Sundays."

Another letter received from a Seattle resident proceeds to give detailed, if complicated, information as how the annoying animals may be caught. In brief the scheme is: A half barrel sunk in the ground; a tempting egg in the center of the barrel; the skunk goes after the egg, and the barrel is flooded. That's all.

Get on a Petition

A commendable step has been taken by the Associated Boards of Trade of Eastern British Columbia in enlisting the general public of the Kootenays, Boundary and Okanagan in the fight to secure the realization of the "southern route" for the transprovincial highway. This step has been the starting of petitions, for general signature, through the affiliated boards of trade or other representative bodies.

There is not a community in the territory described, whether itself situated directly on the route or on a feeder to it, but has a most vital interest in this question, and public-spirited citizens should immediately inquire whether there is a petition in circulation in their own community and if there is not take the initiative and launch one.

Baldly the "southern route" proposition proposes to carry this arterial highway along which an enriching flood of travel will flow, like the fruitful Nile, through the developed portion of southern British Columbia. The alternative proposition proposes to take this tide through a relatively undeveloped portion, missing the main population as well as the main man-extracted wealth and—we all think—the main resources.

If any resident of this territory wants the motor visitor—especially the visitor from the south—to see the orchards, lumber operations, mines, smelters, lakes, glaciers of this territory, and be won thereby to cast his fortune here, he should add his weight in the scale just now, for there is little doubt that the coming session of the legislature will be the scene of the final and crucial battle on this question.

The man or woman who does not "vote" on this question votes just the same—in the negative, permitting the inference that this territory is not stirred on this question which, if the people sufficiently declared themselves, could have only one solution, as the feasibility of the "southern route" is not seriously questioned.

What the Press Is Saying

Over-Production

The fruit-growing and packing industries are severely depressed, and pending a settlement of the question of markets it would seem only a prudent course on the part of the state governments to call something like a halt in the policy of encouraging a large and rapid development of orchard cultivation. Great sympathy will be felt with growers who have been induced to launch out in advance of a sound organization to deal with the surplus production, but the case cannot be mended by persisting in arrangements which do not obviate loss, but merely transfer it to the overburdened taxpayers.—Adelaide Chronicle.

Unconditional Surrender

Those who in the past have watched Germany to test the sincerity of that nation will now transfer their observation to France. Time and again France has protested that she has no secret designs, no intention of destroying her defeated neighbor, no desire to do more than collect her just debts. Time and again little incidents of policy and method have cast a shadow on the sincerity of some of these protestations. Now Germany has capitulated unconditionally, and the time for France to prove her intentions beyond question has come. Whether or not she shall forfeit the esteem of the world for a little material gain will be made plain now that Germany lies prostrate at her feet.—Baltimore Sun.

Pick and Shovel

A wise government will always see to it that the economic value of desirable and industrious citizens is impaired as little as possible; and that the racehorse is not put between the shafts too frequently, lest a good track animal is ruined and an indifferent carthorse emerges from the metamorphosis. It is not a good thing to ask the out-of-work shop assistant or town-bred mechanic to go to the other end of the country and dig mains or drains, and then to expect him, twelve months later, to fit himself in the mosaic of urban industrialism once more. Only a man of rare character can do that sort of thing successfully; and such a man is the least likely ever to lose his employment, be times good or be they bad!—Natal Advertiser.

Isolationism Exploded

Sir Arthur Balfour predicts a very considerable modification of the Fordney tariff after the next election, in the interests of American producers, who are learning that selling is inseparably connected with buying. But it is clear that a marked change in the protective policy of the country would be an admission that not even the United States, with all its vast resources of the country at its disposal, can prevent its standard of costs and living from being affected by the conditions in other countries.—The Times.

Twenty—"I can afford only a few new clothes this winter. What would you advise me to get? I have a good heavy coat. I want to look stylish."

Answer — A famous designer of clothing has said: "A fur neckpiece, a string of beads and silk stockings are the secret of a stylish appearance." And I believe he's right. Everybody is now wearing a knife-pleated skirt and a jacquet blouse. My favorite combination is a dark wool-crepe skirt with a blue silk crepe overblouse which has a touch of dark red or green in it—perhaps shot with a fine gold thread.

O.W.—"Is it good form to serve layer cake for breakfast? When, if ever, is it permissable to use paper napkins for home dinners? Of what benefit is charcoal to cistern water when it is kept in the water continually? Kindly give information about the edible artichoke and the way to cook it."

Answer—No, it is not good form to serve layer cake at breakfast. Paper napkins are convenient to use for picnics or at a time of upheaval in the home—such as when moving, when housecleaning or when there is illness. But people do not often use them regularly, even for home meals. Japanese crepe napkins (blue and white) are used by many housewives because they are the easiest to launder—simply requiring washing, and no ironing.

As to the cistern charcoal, the most approved method today is the following: To keep rain water in good condition, first have a cutoff in the pipe so that the fall of rain, for about half an hour, may be prevented from going into the cistern and carrying with it the dust from the roof; after the half hour, open the passageway so that the rain may go from the roof into the cistern, and let it go through a filter, such as a hogshead filled with gravel and pieces of charcoal, mixed. The charcoal purifies the water.

The edible artichoke is the French (or globe) artichoke and the Jsrusalem artichoke. To cook them cut half the stems off the bottom leaves, strip off the withered outer leaves until they begin to feel tender, then soak the artichokes in cold water containing a little vinegar for 30 (or globe) artichoke and the Jerusatender in salted water. Drain and serve hot with drawn butter. French dressing, Ho'landaise sauce or a white sauce will do just as well.

For daylight hours, and especially for wear on the street, the smart young woman is certain to confine herself to straight lines, from which she will deviate, at the most, only to the extent of a modified circular fullness. But for the evening these rules are less rigid. Some of the most likeable dresses, in fact, are made on the bouffant silhouet.

The shifting winds of fashion have once again brought metal brocaded silks to the foreground. Many of these fabrics, however, are softer, more pliable, than the metallized silks we have hitherto known, and the colors are subtly blended with just a suggestion of the gold or silver or sometimes both.

If you can imagine a combination of forest green, mingled with shades of purple and rose and glints of gold, you will know how lovely the dance frock sketched today may be. But, then, you must have already seen some of these lovely brocades. The old-fashioned bodice is made of green velvet up to the bustline, where the brocade follows it, and the off-the-shoulder neckline is completed with a narrow ruffle of silver lace piped with green velvet. Silver lace also borders the shortened front of the skirt, where it tapers off cleverly into the sides.

Straightline frocks, however, are also smart for the evening.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Be Your Own Furnace

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

In these days of coal conservation, and the quest for coal substitutes, it might be well to think about the days that are gone.

You and I can remember the days of stoves, and when only certain portions of the house were kept warm. There would be a stove in the kitchen, another in the dining or living room, and perhaps one in the hall, with a fireplace in the parlor or living room.

We were perhaps not so comfortable as we are now with all parts of the house at about the same temperature?

But what about ourselves?

Why we have so coddled our bodies that the women folk can wear a light blouse in the middle of the winter, and the men folk want to be comfortable in their shirt sleeves.

Now, what is the effect of this upon that body of yours?

Why, your skin is in a warm, relaxed condition all the time, and there is what is known as insensible perspiration taking place all the time, releasing heat from your body because the pores of your skin are wide open.

You step out to the front or back door for a moment, or walk half a block down the street, and you undergo a "chill."

Now what really would be the sensible thing in this matter?

That the houses be not heated above 67 to 68 degrees Fahrenheit. That is the ideal temperature at any time. And the big danger from this love of heat is the desire to keep every bit of fresh air from coming into the house.

You enter an overheated home and the "stuffiness" is the first thing that assails you.

Everything in the way of patented devices are being used to prevent the cold air, the fresh air, from coming in.

I like to think of everybody as being his own furnace. He takes in food and burns it up by exercising his body, and thus produces the heat to keep himself warm.

We are needing more artificial heat these days because we use motor cars, elevators, street cars and so forth.

So when winter comes, instead of burning more coal in your furnace, burn up more food in your body, by taking more exercise. Harden up your skin by getting more of the outdoors.

Animals Have Made Rich Discoveries

The finding of a small piece of gold in a dog's paw, responsible for the recent gold "rush" in Alaska, recalls other instances of animals which have pointed out the path to prosperity to their owners.

Some years ago a boy in Australia was trapping rabbits, and his dog, scratching at a hole, exposed a mass of yellowish rock. The boy, who knew the country to be gold bearing, told his father that he believed he had "struck it rich."

The father, however, pooh-poohed the idea, but when at last the boy persuaded him to go to the spot, he found that what his son said was true. A mine was started, and since then it is estimated that $50,000 has been made as a result of the dog's discovery.

One of the most valuable finds made with the help of an animal was in Montana, U.S.A., where a sapphire ledge was revealed to the eyes of a badger trapper.

The man was setting his traps one day when his hand encountered something hard in the earth thrown out by the animals in their burrowings. Closer investigation revealed a number of sapphires. Today the trapper is a rich man.

In Africa a small diamond find was once made by a man who discovered a diamond in the gizzard of a goose, and explored all its feeding places till he found the valuable one.

Generally speaking even the girl who cuts the "obey" out of her marriage ceremony will bow to the dictates of the man who makes the fashions.

'EVERYBODY IN U.S.A. SWEARS BY VICKS'

Friend of Saskatoon Mother Pays Remarkable Tribute

Mrs. James C. Wilkinson, of 1221 Avenue "A," North Saskatoon, Sask., writes: "My little girl was sick with a bad cold. While I was putting a plaster on her chest a friend of mine came in and said, 'Rub on some Vicks VapoRub.' I asked her what it was. She had just come from the States and she said 'Everybody in the States Swears by Vicks. It's just becoming known in Canada.' She said she always kept it in the house and strongly advised me to give it a trial. I did so, my little girl got well, and I must truly say the results were astonishing. I would not be without Vicks for anything."

Vicks VapoRub, the discovery of a Southern druggist, is a combination in salve form of Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Turpentine, etc. It has been a popular remedy in the States for many years.

Absorbed through the skin, and at the same time inhaled as a vapor, Vicks reaches immediately inflamed, congested air passages.

It is good for croup and all cold troubles—also for skin hurts and itchings.

At all drug stores, 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul St., W., Montreal, P.Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

GRAIN COMMISSION VIEWS NEW YORK

Inspects Floating Elevators and Dock Facilities; Gets Data on Mixing

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(By Canadian Press.)—The members of the royal grain inquiry commission left for Boston tonight, after spending four days in New York investigating grain shipping conditions at this port. This afternoon the commission was on a trip through the harbor, inspecting the floating elevators, and the dock facilities of New York.

The commission will make a brief visit to Boston, and will proceed from that city to St. John. They will hold a hearing at the latter city, and another at Halifax, and are scheduled to be in Montreal on November 2.

While in New York, the commission met a number of prominent local grain men in a series of private conferences. They took up the matter of the mixture of Canadian wheat with lower grades of wheat while in transit to Great Britain, and secured data as to the method of handling Canadian wheat through this port.

The elevator is loading ships at the rate of 100,000 bushels a day, and expects to increase this to 250,000 bushels shortly.

As a health builder, Royal Yeast is gaining in popularity every day. It is a food - not a medicine. It supplies the vitamine which the diet may lack. Royal Yeast is highly beneficial in cases where the system seems "run down". Royal Yeast is the richest known source of vitamines, and when taken into the system acts as a corrective agent. Royal Yeast Cakes are recommended for their purity and wholesomeness. It is the purest, the most convenient and economical yeast on the market.

Two to four Royal Yeast Cakes a day will work wonders. A full day's supply can easily be prepared at one time by using one glass luke warm water and teaspoon sugar to each yeast cake. Allow to stand over night in moderately warm room. In the morning stir well and pour off liquid. Place in refrigerator or other cool place and drink at intervals as desired throughout the day.

RALLY HALTS STOCK SLUMP

Eight-Day Decline at East Stops, and Prices Are Carried Above Saturday's Close

NEW YORK, Oct. 15. — The reactionary movement of stock prices, which has been under way for eight successive days, was brought to a sudden halt today by a brisk rally, which carried most of the leaders 1 to 3 points above Saturday's closing price. The recovery was not associated with any outside developments, being generally regarded as a correction of oversold condition.

Considerable irregularity was apparent at the opening. Bear traders continued to offer the steel, motor and certain oil shares, but they encountered good buying power, and it was not long before the market was pointed upward, with shorts bidding against each other for stocks.

New low records for the year were established in Soc, Colorado & Southern, Ajax Rubber, Producers and Refiners preferred, Magna Copper, Butte Copper and Zinc, Central Leather preferred and Worthington Pump. United States Steel touched 87⅞ and then fell back to 87½, up 1⅛ on the day. Baldwin, Studebaker, American Can, Mack Truck, Stromberg Carburetor, Stewart Warner Speedometer and Gulf States Steel each closed at a net gain of 2 points or more.

Total sales were 518,400 shares.

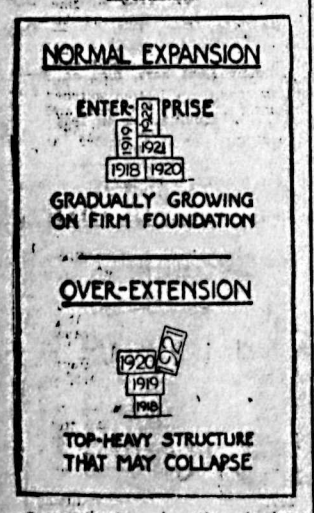
Money AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.



Over-extension is the business term for biting off more than you can chew.

Clarence Saunders and his Piggly Wiggly episode is a fair example, to show how easily over-extension comes.

Mr. Saunders had about 331 stores in May, 1922. By the end of that year it was reported that he had almost four times that many.

The money to pay for them came partly from earnings and partly from loans. The plan was eventually to sell more stock to pay for the stores.

He couldn't sell the stock, although he tried hard enough, even after it was thrown off the stock exchange. What was the result.

He had to sacrifice some of the stores to save the rest. The company is probably in poorer condition, from an earning standpoint, than before the expansion.

Such experience in over-extension is costly but usually proves to be valuable.

OLD I.X.L. STILL YIELDING RICHES

Shipment Nearly Ready Reported to Be of Greater Values Than the Original Find

ROSSLAND, B.C., Oct. 15.—A new shipment of ore being prepared at the old I.X.L. is reported to be of even greater value than was the first sensational find. It goes forward shortly to the smelter.

Meanwhile the gold shoot recently disclosed in the O.K., which is being worked by Harry Gamble and several others, continues promising and is being rapidly developed. This was found close to where a big find was made many years ago when a pocket yielded up gold worth $60,000.

Fall plowing is well advanced, but has been halted in many localities by the hardness of the ground, there having been an unusual scarcity of rain for the fall season. There is a keen demand for farm labor.

PREFERENCE NOT STATES' CONCERN

Coolidge Says It Is Empire's Domestic Matter; More Rigid Protection Possible

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(By Canadian Press)—In response to inquiries at the White House as to the United States government's attitude on more extended application of British preferential tariffs now being discussed in the Imperial conference at London, it has been made known that President Coolidge views this as a purely domestic British question, and one in which this government has no right to interfere.

Whether the more extensive use of preferential tariffs within the British Empire would lead the United States to adopt more rigid protection against products of British dominions and the United Kingdom, is another matter. Opinion here is that this would depend entirely on how the preference affected United States trade.

Mississauga Iron Deposit Is Goal of Expert Survey

TORONTO, Oct. 15.—Provincial geological officials are on their way to a point 64 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie, near the southwest corner of the Mississauga forest reserve, to examine the reported discovery of a valuable deposit of high-grade iron assaying 73 per cent pure.

At the mines department it is stated that if the find, as reported, actually exists, it will mean the opening up of a new era in iron manufacture to Canada.

NEHF CRACKS AND RYAN FAILS TO MEND BREACH

Huggins Puts In Heaviest Clouters When Senses Break Has Arrived

NEW YORK, Oct. 15. — Beaten, crushed, after one of the most spectacular world's series fights in history, the New York Giants today surrendered to the Yanks the world's championship banner they have flown for the past two years, and tonight, with this record-shattering $1,000,000 title battle at an end, the emblem of supremacy flutters atop the Yankee stadium, the greatest and costliest monument of the diamond.

The Yanks won the sixth and final game this afternoon at the Polo grounds, lair of the Giants, by coming from behind and scoring five runs in a dramatic, pulse-gripping eighth inning just when it seemed that the McGraw men, fighting desperately with their backs to the wall would tie the series and force a seventh contest to decide the struggle. The final score was 6 to 4.

Thus the American league champions swept to their third successive triumph; completed the rout of the once proud and mighty Giant machine, and by the decisive margin of four games to two gained their first world's title in more than two decades.

Eighth Inning Historic

The story of that eighth inning today, coming when it appeared that the deadly southpaw arm of Art Nehf and the inspired play of Frisch had checked the headlong rush of the Yanks, will go down as one of the most startling decisive championship turns of all time.

That brief, thrilling, yet tragic span, witnessed with amazing suddenness the assecndency of the Yanks to the pinnacle of their career, and simultaneously the utter collapse of the Giants, the crushed hopes of John J. McGraw for three successive world's titles, a debacle so stunning that tonight it seemed to have marked the passing for all time from championship heights of the Giant machine, as it emerged, broken, from the test.

It witnessed, too, the failure of the game's idol of idols to answer a call to fame that would have raised him to heights greater than any he has ever touched. For Babe Ruth, star of stars, the mightiest hitter of all time, while he had started the Yanks off in the first innings with his third home run of the series, fell down miserably in the eighth-inning pinch, striking out wth the bases full and the Yanks yet one run behind.

In his place a new hero was lifted up, Bob Meusel, who stepped into the breach that the babe had left and delivered the blow that resulted in three runs and clinched the Yank triumph.

Nehf Cracks

For seven innings Nehf, hero of the Giants's 1-to-0 victory in the third game, waved a magic wand over the Yanks' bat, and it seemed that his port side slants would again restore Giant hopes and keep them in the fight. Backed by the spectacular defensive work of his team mates, particularly the dynamic Frisch, he allowed but one other hit outside of Ruth's circuit clout while the Giants were hammering Herb Pennock, Huggins' southpaw ace, for nine hits and four runs.

But out of the clear sky of apparent Giant triumph came the collapse of Nehf, and with him the last break in the shattered chain of McGraw's pitching staff. From the highest peak of effectiveness, from brilliant control, Nehf went to pieces, and Rosy Ryan, who succeeded him, failed in an effort to stem the tide.

Ward started the fatal eighth harmelssly enough by flying out to Kelly, but the first signal of Nehf's downfall came when Schang and Scott singled in quick succession.

Walk, Walk Walk!

Sensing the break of the game, Miller Huggins, little pilot of the Yanks, duplicated the sort of strategy that earned one victory for his rival, McGraw, and threw in the full force of his reserves. Hoffman, who took up the cudgels for Pennock, walked on four successive balls, Haines taking his place at first as the bases were filled.

Nehf tried gallantly to steady himself to save the situation, but facing a new pinch hitter, Joe Bush, batting for Witt, he failed. Bush walked on four successive balls, and Nehf, a slight tragic figure, walked from the box, his head down and tears in his eyes. That pass forced in Schang, and Ryan went into the box with the bases still full and the Yanks still two runs behind.

Ryan, unsteadied by the tenseness of the fight, also was wild, and Scott was forced in with the second run when he walked Dugan on four pitched balls, thus making the 12th successive ball that the Giant moundsmen had issued.

But Mighty Ruth Fans

There was a mighty roar as into this dramatic spotlight stepped Ruth, swinging his all-powerful bludgeon, but instead of unnerving Ryan the sight of the master mauler seemed to steady him, for the babe let the first pitch curve squarely over the plate and fouled the second weakly. The next was a ball, but then Ryan, putting all he had into his delivery, shot one squarely across, and Ruth, swinging wickedly, missed, amid a thunderous outburst from the crowd.

But Ryan, safely past what seemed the hardest part of his task, faltered, and Meusel caught his second pitch for a whistling single over second base.

Haines and Johnson, running for Bush, crossed the plate with what proved to be the tying and winning runs, while Dugan tallied with another for good measure when Cunningham threw wildly to Groh in an effort to catch "Jumping" Joe at third base. Pipp ended the rally by going out, Frisch to Kelly, but the damage had been done, and the Giant cause went down to defeat.

Frisch Giant Star

Sam Jones took Pennock's place, and held the Giants in check in the last two innings, the nearest to a rally coming in the eighth, when Young singled, only to be forced by "Irish" Meusel. Beaten and hopeless, they went out in order in the ninth.

Looming alongside the tragic figure of Nehf in the Giant disaster was that of Frisch, the "Fordham flash," who stood out as the brightest all-round star of the game. It was Frisch whose remarkable fielding in the first seven innings cut off at least two Yank hits, and seemed to put fresh hope into the breasts of McGraw and his men. It was Frisch whose terrific hitting figured in three of the four Giant runs.

The judge deliberated a minute.

M'TIGUE TITLE IS RECOGNIZED

New York Boxing Commission Supports Him; Rickard Plans Bout

NEW YORK, Oct. 15. — Out of the aftermath left in the wake of Mike McTigue's battle with Young Stribling at Columbus, Ga., on October 4, one fact stands out in local circles — McTigue still is the world's light-heavyweight champion. Though no official announcement to this effect was made it was learned that the State Athletic commission will support McTigue's claims to the title, despite the fact that the board disapproves the Irish boxer's action in taking his own referee with him to Columbus.

Promoter Tex Rickard, at his office in Madison Square Garden, declared emphatically that McTigue still was the titleholder by grace of the draw decision which the dispatches from Columbus say Referee Harry Ertle rendered before first leaving the ring. The opinion that Ertle's original decision of a draw would stand and that McTigue still was the holder of the title was expressed on all sides in local boxing circles.

Referee's Decision Stands

From a source close to the commission it was learned that the attitude of the board in this case would be similar to its attitude toward its own referees in bouts here—that the decision of the referee is final. One member of the commission declared yesterday that it would be impossible to recognize Stribling as champion on the strength of Ertle's reported action in reversing his original decision.

"The referee declared the contest a draw when the bout was over, and left the ring, according to reports of the affair," said this official. "Under the circumstances there is nothing left but to regard McTigue is champion. There can be no change of a decision once it is rendered. When a referee gives his decision and leaves the ring, it doesn't mean a thing if he comes back to the ring and reverses himself. The first decision stands."

Promoter Rickard supported this view, but at the same time expressed regret over the circumstances which precipitated the situation. Rickard has an option on McTigue's services in a bout he is planning for Madison Square Garden later this season, and he said he intended to exercise this option in an attempt to arrange a return bout between the champion and Stribling as a Garden attraction. Rickard said he is acquainted with Stribling's ability as a boxer and expressed the opinion that a return bout between McTigue and the Georgia youth would make a fitting attraction for the Garden. The promoter expects within a few days to open negotiations with Stribling for a bout here.

Hundred Miles for English Locomotives

The announcement made in London that the Great Western railway's newest engines are capable of running at 80 miles an hour does not mean that the passengers will be given the opportunity of travelling by express trains booked at so high a speed.

If that were the case, the result would be a world's record, since not even in the United States, where extraordinary speeds have been claimed on special occasions, has any regular train ever attained even 70 miles an hour from start to finish.

On the other hand, these new Great Western engines, like a 60-h.p. motor car, are so designed that when they are "let out" they will be capable of tackling gradients or heavy loads more easily, and in this way it will be possible to increase average train speeds.

This difference between actual railway speeds and the average rate at which an express is timed to travel throughout its journey is very little understood by the layman, with the result that quite fantastic fables have gained credence, says a writer in a London paper.

The "booked speed" represents the average rate of travel over the entire journey. For instance, the "booked" average of the "Sunny South Special," which runs from London to Brighton in exactly 60 minutes, is a shade over 50 miles an hour. But the average speed is very much higher, and bursts of 70 miles an hour are quite common.

The reason is that the steam engine takes a relatively long time to get into its stride, while it has also to slow down on the last lap of the journey, when it may be running with the steam cut off for several minutes. On a short run, the time occupied in getting up speed and slackening occupies a relatively large proportion of the total journey, so that the speed for the greater part of the distance is well in excess of the "start-to-stop" average.

Moreover, the driver has to observe a number of speed restrictions. Some of these are of a permanent nature, such as on curves and when running through junctions. Others are temporary, and are due to track relaying or other engineering works, of which the driver is daily warned by notices posted up in the engine shed.

A timetable speed of 55 miles an hour or over, which is even today rare in practice, may thus mean anything up to 80 miles an hour on suitable sections of the line. But that is quite a different thing from an "80-mile-an-hour express."

What a miserable crowd of pessimists we would be if we could see ourselves as others see us.

BIRD WIDDOWERS STILL CARRY ON

Writing on the subject of "Bird Widdowers," Oliver G. Pike, F.Z.S., F.R.P.S., says:

I am strongly of the opinion that most birds mate for life. This applies equally to those which travel thousands of miles to and from this country and those which are resident with us. Some birds when they lose their mates show great signs of grief, while others will carry on with their duties and as soon as possible secure another helpmate.

A pair of carrion crows which had nested in a certain tract of country for many years unmolested found that under new ownership of their preserve they were being tracked by keepers. At last the hen was shot while building her nest. For many days the remaining bird moped; he sat disconsolate on a tree near which his mate had been destroyed.

About a week later I found him dead underneath it. Examination showed that there was not a trace of food inside him. He had just refused to eat until death ended his sorrow.

Two garden warblers built their nest in a gooseberry bush. The eggs hatched and all was going on well. The hen, in chasing an insect, flew against one of the sharp thorns. She died from the wound, but just managed to carry the food which she had collected to her young, then fell dead by the side of them.

I was anxious to discover whether the male would continue to look after them, so kept a careful watch. At the end of eight days he was still feeding them, and on the day that they left their nest I saw him sitting in the apple tree above singing loudly, evidently proud of having carried on alone, and he reared the five young without the assistance of his mate.

But the most difficult task I ever knew a bird widdower to perform was to bring up a nest of five young blackbirds. A cat was responsible for the death of the hen about three days after the youngsters left the eggs. It was a dry summer, worms were hard to find, and there were five voracious appetites to satisfy.

The male blackbird, however, succeeded in rearing the whole family, although the latter had often put up with short rations. I often watched him bringing food to the nest, and he kept at it from sunrise to sunset, brooding over the babies at night.

YANK VESSEL TAKES BIGGEST WHEAT LOAD

Hartwell Clears From Fort William With Just Under a Half Million Bushels

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Oct. 15.—The record of wheat for the season was taken out today by the big United States steamer F. G. Hartwell, which cleared with 450,000 bushels of wheat.

This record has been beaten by the Grant Morden, but not this season, and it is claimed that the Hartwell can beat the Morden on the same draft. Today she left drawing 12½ feet.

A little more than three million bushels went by the lake during the week-end, the actual figure being 3,020,000 bushels, of which 110,000 bushels was oats and 31,000 barley.

PRINCE OF WALES SPECIAL PICTURE

Never has a moving picture taken the country by storm like that of "50,000 Miles on Board H.M.S. Renown with His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales," it being proclaimed as a masterpiece of motion picture photography. This entire 6000 feet, taken by consent of his royal highness, covers every detail of the entire trip, is lectured by one of Canada's favorite lecturers, so proclaimed on account of the pleasing as well as humorous manner he is able to unfold.

One scene in this film shows one of the most powerful battleships in the world, H.M.S. Renown, in a very heavy storm, when it was estimated that 300 tons of water washed over her forecastle. To obtain this remarkable picture it was necessary to strap the photographer in the lookout. In Melbourne over 15,000 school children turned out to meet the prince. At the word of command they formed the word "Welcome" in living columns as the prince arrived at the grounds. Here you will see the entire crossing of the line ceremonies, and the prince of Wales sure came in for a good ducking after being shaved by Father Neptune's Bears. He won his way into the hearts of our people when he was here, and it will do you a lot of good to see the way he was received throughout the trip. Do not fail to see this big picture, which has the indorsement of his royal highness," shownig at Starland theater tomorrow and Thursday; usual prices.

CHURCH ENTERS PROTEST OVER 'BUFFALO HUNT'

Contractor Who Will Kill Two Thousand Says Will Be Humane Operation

TORONTO, Oct. 15.—Protest against the proposals, reported in news dispatches, to round up and slaughter a herd of buffalo in Alberta while cameramen representing moving picture interests "shoot the picture," is voiced in a telegram which was sent to the premier of Alberta by the third church of Christian Scientists today. The message follows:

"According to press reports, a terribly cruel spectacle is about to be enacted for the commercial benefit of a moving picture concern. It is reported that the province of Alberta is allowing a large herd of buffalo to be rounded up and stampeded by Indians, the resulting slaughter to be filmed for the edification of the public. Is it possible that this bloody scene will be a good advertisement for Canada? Will it provide clean amusement for children in the theaters? Before it is too late, may we register an emphatic protest against this inhuman contract and implore you to take immediate action to have the affair stopped?

EDMONTON, Oct. 15. — The 2000 buffalo ordered slaughtered in Wainwright park by the federal government will be downed by rifle bullets shot by expert gunmen, according to A. S. Ducles of Edmonton, who has the contract for the slaughtering.

Mr. Ducles denied that Indians are to shoot the buffalo with bow and arrow while moving picture machines "shoot" the scene. At the most, the number of buffalo that will be killed in producing the film will run to about 10 head, and this will be done by expert and experienced gunmen.

Instantaneous Deaths

It is very important that these animals are killed by the first shot, Mr. Ducles said, so as to keep the animal in a cool condition, to get the quality of the meat. The process is carried out in exactly the same manner as in the large packing plants with the government inspection of the meats.

After giving his assurance that the moving picture corporation would have nothing to do with the actual killing, and stating that the government was the first to see that no cruelty was allowed, Mr. Ducles said: "If these people who have been making so much fuss about the humane side of it would not believe false rumors, and realize that others beside themselves have just as much, if not more, humane spirit, I feel no cause for alarm."

Premier Oliver replied that "we accept gladly what we got but I do not consider it will affect our appeal at all."

RUSSIAN REFUGEES WITHOUT COUNTRY

Barred From Japan, China and United States, Eighteen Loyalists Refuse to Return to Russia

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—After suffering untold hardships and horrors as the result of the Russian revolution, during which they remained loyal to the monarchy; after fleeing Vladivostok when the Red army invaders assumed control; after drifting thousands of miles from country to country trying to find a landing place, being battered by the elements, starved, and facing plague and disaster at every turn, 15 men and three women are being held at Fort McDowell here for deportation, making them literally men and women without a country.

These men and women are part of the 526 Russian refugee party that landed here from Manila last July on the transport Merritt, and the 526 were the remnants of more than 3000 men, women and children who remained loyal to the late Czar Nicholas of Russian and jointed the anti-soviet government faction. They remained at Vladivostok until the Japanese evacuated the far eastern republic ,and the Red forces assumed control. In order to save their lives the 3000 monarchists fled in 15 ships, under command of Admiral George Stark, and started in search of new lands.

The 18 awaiting deportation here have been barred from Japan, China and the United States, and, they state, their loyalty to the late czar makes it impossible for them to return to Russia. "We are not allowed to land in any country, and if we are sent back to Russia we will be shot," is their constant statement to the United States immigration authorities here.

Mother Too Radical

Among the 18 Russians ordered deported is Mrs. Lubov Shulgovsky, who, with her husband, Alexander, her daughter, Vera, and son, Nicholas, sought a haven of rest under the Stars and Stripes. Husband, son and daughter have been admitted to the United States, but the mother has been ordered deported by the immigration office "because of her radical views." However, a grief-stricken husband, son and daughter vehemently protest that Mrs. Shulgovsky is not radical, and they picture her as a mild, loving helpmate and mother. An appeal taken on the deportation order of Mrs. Shulgovsky, and the other 17 refugees, has been denied by the department of labor, and the mother today awaits the first available transport to carry her away.

Two of the others in the group are being sent back because of their criminal records, one because he is mentally deficient, and the others because of their radical views, the records show.

Wait for Army Transport

However, the actual sailing date of the unwelcome refugees is problematical, army officials state. The law, according to the immigration officers, requires that a deported alian "must be deported on the first available steamer." The United States army brought the refugees from Manila, and, therefore, must take them back. The next available transport is due to sail December 6. Under the law, the army must return these people to Manila, where its jurisdiction will cease. What will happen to them after they arrive in Manila is up to the bureau of insular affairs, governments officials here say.

Of the 508 Russian refugees admitted to this country, many of whom were army and naval officers, society leaders and members of the royal court in the days of monarchy pomp, many are working in the most menial positions in this country. Former doctors, lawyers, and at least one count, are employed as laborers in a railroad repair gang in Washington. Another count is operating a taxi, and practically all of the women are employed as houseworkers.

They brought to this country the eyewitness stories of the fall of the Russian dynasty. They told of the horrors of the Russian revolution, and stated that the revolutionists cut off the heads of the czar and the members of the royal family, and burned their bodies. These heads, they assert, are being preserved in alcohol at the Kremlin in Moscow.

The same fate awaits them if they are returned to Russia, they assert.
