'ORANGE SAM' GOT BEATING FROM PETER

Day and Night Before the Explosion He Was in Farron Area

FIRST DOUKHOBOR AT TRAGEDY SCENE

Was in Heaven Several Times; Barred From Community

GRAND FORKS, Nov. 6.—Arrest of "Orange Sam," or Sam Kamenshikoff, one of the fanatical Doukhobors of the North Fork district, which took place at Castlegar at the week-end, fearing his making trouble at the funeral of Peter Verigin, may yet furnish a real clue to the bombing of the railway coach at Farron, October 29, when John MacKie, Peter Verigin and seven others lost their lives.

Kamenshikoff is said to have spent the day before the tragedy within a few miles of Farron; that he was the first Doukhobor on the scene of the wreck following the explosion, and that it is said that he and the late Peter Verigin were recently combatants in a fistic duel at the Grand Forks depot.

More Heavenly Than Peter

Kamenshikoff is one of a group of Doukhobors who were exiled from the Verigin community because of their "advanced" religious beliefs. With them Verigin was not the Holy Spirit, because several of them claimed to have been to the celestial regions several times and had personal acquaintance themselves.

To designate his religious advancement, Kamenshikoff wore about a dozen oranges in the form of a crown, which has made him quite conspicuous among the flock in recent years.

One evening two months ago Kamenshikoff accosted Verigin at the local railway station, and whatever may have been the conversation, it resulted in quite a physical battle, in which Verigin gave Orange Sam quite sever usage, according to spectators.

Although never friendly with Verigin, because of not being allowed to visit the community, Kamenshikoff is said to have frequently expressed a grudge against the leader.

Pointed Out Pilot Bay

Kamenshikoff ordinarily lives a few miles of Grand Forks, and is rarely elsewhere, but it now transpires that he spent the day and night before the tragedy within an hour's walk of the scene of the wreck, allegedly on railway construction work.

Robert Kabatoff, who has known Verigin many years, was one of the two or three local Doukhobors who rushed to the scene of the accident early Wednesday morning. They went by motor part way and then walked some miles. He states that on his arrival there Kamenshikoff was already looking over the wreckage, and was able to direct as to location of Verigin's body.

Police are following up the clues closely, and are now trying definitely to place Kamenshikoff at the time of the wreck.

SIXTEEN WOMEN WIN AT POLLS

Beside Two Governors and a Congresswoman, Others Succeed

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Two women governors, the first woman member of congress from an eastern state and a woman secretary of state in New York were elected in Tuesday's elections.

Mrs. Miram Ferguson, in Texas, and Mrs. Nellie Ross, in Wyoming, both Democrats, are to be the first women governors to guide the destiny of states. Mrs. Florence P. Knapp, Republican, is elected secretary of state in New York state, and Mrs. Mary Norton, Democrat, will represent Jersey City in congress.

While the platform spotlight has been focused on these women who captured major offices women were successful in other states.

In Three Legislatures

In South Dakota four women won seats in the state house of representatives and in each instance ran ahead of their party ticket. Mrs Mabel Moddie, Elk Point, won a seat. Three Republican women also were successful. They were Miss Gladys Pyle, Huron, reelected; Miss C. M. Kelly, Mitchell, and Miss C. Olson, Sioux Falls.

For the first time in history women will sit in the legislative halls of Wisconsin, three having been elected on the Republican ticket. They are Helen M. Brooks, Colona; Mildred Barber, Marathon, and Helen Thompson, Park Falls.

In addition to the election of a woman member of congress the voters of New Jersey elected five other women to sit in the state legislature. They are Miss May A. Thropp, Republican, Mercer; Miss May McCarthy and Mrs. Catharine Finn, Democrats, Hudson; Mrs. Lilac W. Thompson, Republican, Ocean, and Miss Marge Ebert, Republican, Essex.

VANCOUVER BROKER HELD FOR PRETENCE

VANCOUVER, Nov. 6.—Percy K Lomax, well-known broker, was arrested on a charge of obtaining by false pretences the sum of $3000 from S. H. Biddle. Lomax was released on bail of $3000.

Defence Claims "Beer" Is Whiskey; Court Tests It

VANCOUVER, Nov. 6.—Gordon Grant, lawyer, gave the police court a real shock today when, in defending prisoner charged with selling beer, he declared the bottle exhibited was not beer but whisky. Off came the cap. The court clerk said beer; the magistrate, beer or whisky, and the case was adjourned for analysis.

The denouement is that the accused, twice convicted of selling beer, would get a jail sentence if convicted on that charge now, whereas he has not been convicted of whisky sale and would draw merely a fine.

Designated for Foreign Office

RT. HON. AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN

Who led the Conservatives of the Lloyd George coalition government in their trek into "The Wilderness," failing to support either the Bonar Law or the Baldwin administrations in an active way, is now in office at the helm of foreign affairs. Lord Curzon, former Conservative foreign secretary, will lead the house of lords.

BALDWIN GIVES SURPRISES BY NEW PERSONNEL

Churchill Gets Exchequer Instead of Horne, Who Stays Out

CHAMBERLAIN IN FOREIGN OFFICE

Birkenhead Secretary for India; Churchill Means "No Protection"

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Stanley Baldwin, the new premier, has lost no time in drawing up the list of his new cabinet, which was submitted and approved by the King tonight. The King will hold a private council at Buckingham Palace tomorrow morning for the transfer of the seats of office from the old to the new ministers.

The Cabinet

Chancellor of the exchequer—Winston Churchill.

Secretary for India—Earl of Birkenhead.

Secretary for the Colonies—Lieut.-Col. L. C. M. S. Amery.

Foreign secretary—Austen Chamberlain.

Lord president of the council and leader of the house of lords—Marquis Curzon.

Lord privy seal—Marquis of Salisbury.

Lord chancellor—Viscount Cave.

Home secretary—Sir William Joynson-Hicks.

Agriculture—Edward Frederick Lindley Wood.

First lord of the admiralty—William Clive Bridgeman.

Secretary of war—Sir Laming Worthington-Evans.

Air minister—Sir Samuel Hoare.

Minister of health—Neville Chamberlain.

Minister of labor—Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland.

President of the board of trade—Sir Philip Lloyd-Greame.

Minister of education—Lord Eustace Percy.

Secretary for Scotland—Sir John Gilmour.

Attorney-general—Sir Douglas M. Hogg.

Mr. Baldwin's official position will be prime minister, first lord of the treasury and leader of the house of commons.

It was understood that this list of 19 ministers constitutes the cabinet, although it is officially announced that it is not necessarily complete. The other ministers and undersecretaries will be named later, and the government is not likely to be completed until next week.

Will Be Well Received

On the whole the new cabinet is likely to be well received by the country, but Premier Baldwin supplied two first-class surprises the—first, in killing the fatted calf for Churchill, a new-comer to the ranks of Conservatism, which he deserted 20 years ago, and the second, which is generally held to be a consequence of the first, in the exclusion of Sir Robert Stevenson Horne.

Mr. Churchill, by reason of his political record, which under one party or another covered the most important offices in the government, could have considered himself entitled to high office, but it was generally supposed, in view of his so recent reconversion to the Conservative creed, that he would be required to serve a period in one of the less important offices.

Under the Liberal flag, as now under the Conservative colors, he always waged unceasing and bitter war against Socialism and Bolshevism, and since the recent elections were won by the Conservatives on an anti-Socialistic plank Mr. Churchill undoubtedly held that he was thereby entitled to the highest consideration.

Horne Passed Over

It is said that he coveted the chancelorship of the exchequer, which office had been held by his famous father, Lord Randolph Churchill. Details differ as to what exactly happened; but, with a show of authority, it is said, Sir Robert Horne, although willing to drop his present lucrative commercial pursuits in order to join the government, was willing to make the sacrifice only if appointed chancelor of the exchequer.

Apparently the premier offered him the portfolio of labor, deeming this office one of first importance in view of the urgency of questions like unemployment and reforms for the benefit of the workers. The chancelorship of the exchequer is the position of highest importance in the cabinet next to the prime minister, while the labor portfolio has heretofore been regarded as one of comparatively minor importance. Sir Ribert Horne has held the chancelorship in the coalition ministry; and, according to his friends, not being paid even the compliment of being offered the chancelorship, he declined to take any other position.

The incident is rendered more piquant because the premier now has given the labor portfolio to Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland, who previously had held only minor offices in the government.

Has a Tariff Angle

By appointing Mr. Churchill, a free trader, to the chancelorship, Mr. Baldwin positively intended to emphasize that there was no going back from the verdict of the country in the 1923 elections against a protectionist policy, but he has probably thereby incurred the anger and resentment of the protectionist "die-hards" section of his party.

Whatever may be the real history of these incidents neither the elevation of Winston Churchill nor the exclusion of Sir Robert Horne is likely to make peace within the Conservative ranks.

On the other hand, the formation of this ministry sees an end to the feud which has existed ever since the collapse of the last coalition government between "Simon pure" Conservatives and those like Austen Chamberlain and Lord Birkenhead who associated themselves so closely with Lloyd George in the coalition.

Perhaps the next most distinctive thing about the ministry is the disappearance of Lord Curzon from the foreign office. This change, however, had been generally expected. Austen Chamberlain, the new foreign minister, has no actual foreign office experience either to help or hamper him. He is expected, as a man of generally moderate views, to

Speaker Buckham and Sergeant-at-Arms Race Daily Down Corridor

VICTORIA, Nov. 6.—Speaker Buckham will go down in history as the legislature's most informal speaker, not that he cannot act the part of a most austere speaker when occasion arises but because of his habit of slipping out of the chamber when the session is over by the nearest exit while the sergeant-at-arms, who has waited patiently by another door in order to precede Mr. Speaker through the corridors with the mace, gallops madly down the corridor after Mr. Buckham, mace meanwhile under his arm.

As a rule they arrive at the speaker's room in a neck-and-neck finish.

HOUSE CONTROL IS WITH THE REPUBLICANS

Have Twenty-eight Over All Other Parties Combined

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The Republicans will have full control of the house of representatives, the political lineup now being: Republicans, 246; Democrats, 183; Farmer-Labor, 3; Socialists, 3; in doubt, 1, in a house of 435. The Republicans thus have a lead over all parties of 28.

None of the gains are from the La Follette bloc which returned its full strength. One of these insurgents—Lauguardia of New York City—was reelected on the Socialist ticket, and with Victor Berger of Milwaukee, will constitute the house membership of that party. In three Minnesota districts Farmer-Labor candidates were successful, one of them capturing a seat now held by a Republican.

With the removal of Fred H. Gillett from the house, through his election as a senator from Massachusetts, in place of David I. Walsh, Democrat, the Republicans of the next house will face what how promises to be a sharp fight over the speakership. Martin B. Madden of Illinois, chairman of the appropriations committee, already has announced his candidacy for that office, and friends of Nicholas Longworth of Ohio, the present Republican floor leader, have stated publicly that they will seek his election.

New Mexico To Come

With one district—that of the member-at-large from New Mexico—still in doubt the political complexion of the new house by states on the face of the unofficial but practically complete returns is as follows:

Alabama—10 Democrats.
Arizona—1 Democrat.
Arkansas—7 Democrats.
California—2 Democrats, 9 Republicans.
Colorado—1 Democrat, 3 Republicans.
Connecticut—5 Republicans.
Delaware—1 Republican.
Florida—4 Democrats.
Georgia—12 Democrats.
Idaho—2 Republicans.
Illinois—5 Democrats, 22 Republicans.
Indiana—3 Democrats, 10 Republicans.
Iowa—11 Republicans.
Kansas—2 Democrats, 6 Republicans.
Kentucky—2 Democrats, 3 Republicans.
Louisiana—8 Democrats.
Maine—4 Republicans.
Maryland—4 Democrats, 13 Republicans.
Massachusetts—3 Democrats, 13 Re-
Michigan—13 Republicans.

Farmer-Labor in Minnesota

Minnesota—7 Republicans, 3 Farmer-Labor.
Mississippi—8 Democrats.
Missouri—9 Democrats, 7 Republicans.
Montana—1 Democrat, 1 Republican.
Nebraska—3 Democrats, 3 Republicans.
Nevada—1 Republican.
New Hampshire—2 Republicans.
New Jersey—2 Democrats, 10 Republicans.
New Mexico (in doubt)—Democrat leading.
New York—22 Democrats, 20 Republicans, 1 Socialist.
North Carolina—10 Democrats.
North Dakota—3 Republicans.
Ohio—6 Democrats, 16 Republicans.
Oklahoma—7 Democrats, 1 Republican.
Oregon—3 Republicans.

Pennsylvania Solid Thirty-Six

Pennsylvania—36 Republicans.
Rhode Island—2 Republicans, 1 Democrat.
South Carolina—7 Democrats.
South Dakota—3 Republicans.
Tennessee—8 Democrats, 2 Republicans.
Texas—17 Democrats, 1 Republican.
Utah—2 Republicans.
Vermont—2 Republicans.
Virginia—10 Democrats.
Washington—1 Democrat, 4 Republicans.
West Virginia—5 Republicans, 1 Democrat.
Wisconsin—10 Republicans, 1 Socialist.
Wyoming—1 Republican.

A FIGHTING CHANCE IN NORTH DAKOTA

La Follette Has Bare Possibility of Overtaking the Coolidge Lead

FARGO, N.D., Nov. 6.—Senator Robert M. La Follette's chances for overtaking President Coolidge's plurality of 9037 votes in North Dakota received a setback tonight when 129 additional precincts, almost wholly from the La Follette strongholds in the western part of the state, gave him a gain of only 566 votes. To overtake Coolidge he must now average a net gain of approximately 32 votes per precinct.

Only 284 precincts are to be heard from, out of the state's 2160. The vote from the reported precincts, 1876 in all, gave Coolidge 89,086, La Follette 80,049, Davis 15099.

OPERATORS ASK REDUCTION IN MINE TAXATION

Mining Association Reiterates Its Position in Regard to Industry

OVER THIRTY AT LOCAL MEETING

Allowances for Betterment of Plants Urged; Smoker Winds Up Meeting

A most enthusiastic meeting of the Mining Association of the Interior of British Columbia was held in the Hume hotel last night. A record attendance for the periodic meetings of this association was had, with mining men present from all parts of the province and district. During the evening several members expressed their views on present conditions in the mining industry of the province.

The associated reiterated its position in regard to mining matters and confirmed several resolutions recently forwarded to Premier Oliver and the provincial government.

Some of the resolutions approved were to the effect that the vital needs of the mining industry at this time is the adoption of regulations allowing depletion charge on mine incomes; reduction in present mine taxation, and allowance for plant betterment charges as a deduction from current income.

Urged Before

All of these matters have been urged upon the government during the past three years, and it is the feeling of the association that by giving effect to them the provincial government would do much to encourage the investment of capital in the province.

A committee to press these matters was appointed, and will interview the government at once. Members of the committee as appointed consist of J. J. Warren of Trail, R. Randolph Bruce of Invermere, J. P. MacFadden of New Denver and T. W. Bingay of Trail.

Following the business meeting a smoker and entertainment was held. Songs and music wound up the evening.

Mayor L. H. Choquette, L. W. Humphrey, M.P., W. O. Miller, J. S. Carter, W. B. Bamford, D. StDenis, W. M. Myers, J. A. Gibson and F. F. Payne were among the guests at the meeting.

Many Present

Following are the members who were present: A. G. Larson, Spokane; W. H. Burgess, D. S. McLellan and James, Anderson, Kaslo; J. P. MacFadden, New Denver; A. B. Ritchie, J. J. Warren, R. C. Crowe, H. B. Fuller and T. W. Bingay, Trail, R. B. D. Guthrie and S. S. Fowler, Rossland; W. A. Cameron, New Denver; W. T. McDowell, Ymir; C. B. White, Sandon; R. Randolph Bruce, Invermere; R. A. Grimes, Three Forks; Harold Lakes, W. J. Mulholland, H. E. Dill, L. K. Larsen, F. J. Sherran, F. E. Morrison, E. C. Wragge and E. C. Wragge, Nelson; C. Woodrow, Trout Lake; Ed Nordman, Beaverdell.

WILL CHOOSE A NEW HEAD IN SIX WEEKS

Doukhobors Have Postponed Choice of Spiritual Leader, Says Cazakoff

M. J. Cazakoff, vice-president of the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood, limited, when asked over the long-distance telephone last night the result of the deliberations of the Doukhobors respecting the choice of a new spiritual leader, and of the meetings of the shareholders respecting a new president for the organization, stated that final choice had been postponed for six weeks.

As far as the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood is concerned, Mr. Cazakoff, as vice-president, is automatically in charge of its affairs, and will continue to direct them with the assistance of the directors until the choice of a new president is made.

DEPOSITORS PLAN FRESH OFFENSIVE

Will Ask Government to Suggest Liquidators Take Over All the Bank's Assets, to Realize

TORONTO, Nov. 6.—Another attempt is to be made shortly by the committee representing depositors and shareholders in the Home bank to persuade the government to come to the relief of the depositors to the extent of 60 per cent of their losses.

W. T. J. Lee, chairman of the depositors' committee, announces that the committee will shortly ask another interview with the federal government to propose that the liquidators take over all the bank's assets and realize on them.

Meantime, however, the government, having added 60 cents on the dollar to the 25 cents already paid depositors, will endeavor to obtain the remaining 15 cents for the depositor, and perhaps a little over the 100 per cent, which would belong to the treasury.

In round figures the government would be asked to put up $7,000,000 now for the scheme.

SPANISH PRISONER IS PINING AGAIN

VANCOUVER, Nov. 6.—It looks as though the poor prisoner in far-off Spain who offers even as much as $100,000 for slight aid to gain his freedom is going to be allowed to pine away in jail, as far as a prominent butcher of New Westminster is concerned. For George Bowell, the butcher, has received another of the Spanish prisoner swindle letters.

Draws the Prize Post in Cabinet

RT. HON. WINSTON CHURCHILL

Elected as a "Constitutionalist," after having declared he would support the Baldwin policies, becomes Premier Baldwin's first lieutenant, in being allotted the chancellorship of the exchequer.

POLICE BLOTTER IN VANCOUVER A GHASTLY SCORE

Four Robberies, a Shooting, and Two Dead in Bed, Record

VANCOUVER, Nov. 6.—Two holdups, in one of which a bullet was fired at a victim attempting pursuit of the thieves; a Hindu robbed of his roll in his room; a traveler who lost $300 while staging a party in the room of a hotel, and the finding of two men dead in bed, were features of a day's police activity in Vancouver.

Two masked men entered the store of George Henry and held him up, taking $15 from the registrar. As they left he moved as though to follow to the door and give an alarm, and one bandit fired two shots, one of which narrowly missed Henry.

W. J. Mandille was held up on the street and relieved of $30.

Arhm Singh was held up in his room in a boarding house by masked men and forced to hand over $22.

A smooth-talking stranger called on a local resident, offering a subscription to a local paper and a tablecloth all for $2. The woman has a tablecloth worth a few cents but the subscription blank is fake.

Retire to Sleep; Die

Oliver Squires called on a friend, and there became intoxicated. The friend put him to sleep on the lounge, and in the morning he was found dead.

Harry Lunderville told the night clerk at the hotel where he stayed that he was not feeling well, then retired. In the morning he was found dead in bed.

J. Martin, St. Regis hotel, notified the police in the early hours that he had been robbed of $300 while a party was being held in his room. The police detained two women, but a search failed to reveal the money.

IS PETITIONER FOR THE CHURCH ALIVE?

Manson Raises New Point Against Union Bill When MacKenzie's Lost

VICTORIA, Nov. 6. No sooner had Mr. Speaker Buckham ruled in the legislature today that Ian MacKenzie's point of order against admission of the church union bill, presented by Gen. V. W. Odlum, was not well taken, than Attorney-General Manson intervened with another. Mr. MacKenzie claimed the Presbyterian general assembly had not the power to sign the petition, which the speaker ruled was a point to be considered by the private bills committee.

Later, Mr. Manson, however, demanded that assurances be received that Rev. James Pedley, signatory for the Congregational church, was still alive. Either he or his brother, Rev. Hugh Pedley, had died recently, he stated, and as the house could not receive a petition from one who is not alive, the speaker stood the petition over until the assurance demanded has been given.

"Hope this isn't going to develop into another holy war," commented Maj. Dick Burde.

Board of Adjustment on Eight-Hour Law Will Open at Nelson

VICTORIA, Nov. 6.—The board of adjustment under the Eight Hour Day act will begin its industrial survey of the province with a sitting at Nelson on November 12, it was decided at the first meeting of the new tribunal today.

Cranbrook, November 14, and Golden, November 18, are the next meeting places, and others are to be arranged.

The board will hear evidence on applications for exemption from the eight hour law.

WILL GIVE CHONG A NEW IDENTIFICATION

VANCOUVER, Nov. 6.—Although picked out of a line of 12 Chinamen by two of the three witnesses to the slaying of David Lew here in the Chinese gamblers' war, Chong Sing, arrested in Victoria, and now charged with murder, is to be given another identification test tomorrow, when he will be lined up with a dozen other celestials, and the witnesses will be asked again to point him out.

STIRLING BEATS SUTHERLAND BY LARGE MARGIN

Eight Small Polls to Come Cannot Change Result

BOUNDARY LEANS TO SUTHERLAND

Final Majority Won't Be Far Short of Late Member's

VERNON, B.C., Nov. 6.—(By Canadian Press.)—Yale constituency remains in the Conservative column, Grote Stirling, the Conservative, having defeated Daniel W. Sutherland, his Liberal opponent, in the federal byelection today.

With all of the main centers in, and eight small polls missing, at 9:30 p.m. Mr. Stirling had a margin of 414. The 102 polls reported out of 110 at that hour gave Stirling 6600 and Sutherland 6186.

In the last election the late J. A. MacKelvie defeated Mr. Sutherland by a majority of 542.

A fairly heavy vote was polled, as the weather was fair and the roads good.

Keremeos, Penticton, Peachland, Armstrong, Coldstream, Grand Forks, Hedley and East Kelowna gave the Conservative candidate good majorities.

The voting in Vernon was fairly close, giving Stirling a margin of only 97.

In Kelowna, Sutherland received the expected good support, obtaining a lead of 201. Ellison, Lumby, Silver Creek and Glenmore also gave him a majority.

The remaining polls will not affect the result, and Conservative leaders tonight predicted that Stirling's majority would reach 480.

PROVINCIAL AND LABOR PARTIES HEARD IN HOUSE

Creery Says His Group Independent; Power Balance

BROWNE SEES THE LIBERALS GOING

Michael Manson Urges Many Changes in Timber Tax

VICTORIA, Nov. 6.—The voice of the Provincial party was heard in the legislature assembly halls today for the first time when A. McC. Creery, Vancouver, expressed gratification that he owed his election to the votes of real live people and not to the phantom votes of so-called absentees.

He announced also that the Provincial party, though small in numbers, was conscious of its big popular following throughout the country, capable of swinging the election in more than 25 constituencies either for or against the government, and while as a Provincial party they were not going to support the government, they regarded themselves as independents rather than oppositionists. Good government, in fact as well as in words, would have the Provincial party's support, he declared.

The Labor party was also heard from for the first time today, when Frank Browne, Burnaby, delivered an able speech, in which he described the speech from the throne as "ostentatious without justification."

He and Michael Manson, MacKenzie, discussed the timber royalty situation from different points of view. Mr. Manson urged the necessity of relief, but Mr. Browne said the Labor members, while not opposed, would keep an open mind until they had submitted the lumber operators to such an inquisition about their financial status as the workmen's compensation board put to widows applying for mothers' pensions.

Says Fruit Defeated Beer

Hon. T. G. Coventry, Saanich, ascribed the defeat of the beer plebiscite in fruit-growing constituencies to the failure to include light wines with beer, and commented that every fruit constituency was represented by a member opposed to the government.

Mr. Manson advanced several constructive ideas on the timber royalty question. He urged that royalties should be charged on the value of the standing timber, not on the selling price of manufactured lumber, as it was in the former that the people had their equity.

He also urged that the province be divided into three instead of two zones, separating the north country from Vancouver Island and the southern mainland, because the quality of timber was different. He also urged that the present application of No. 2 grade royalties to No. 3 grade logs resulted in much inferior timber being left in the woods.

He also urged reform in logging methods, to make use of low-grade timber and to conserve young growth.

Mr. Manson urged that the smaller logger be encouraged by lower taxation, and contended that the position of the whole industry warranted close government attention.

In discussing the general welfare of the province, Mr. Creery said:

"We are all familiar with the man all dressed up and with nowhere to go, but an even more pathetic figure is the man stripped for work and with nothing to do. That is the position in British Columbia."

A Change of "Hart"

He urged the government to give greater heed to development of the basic wealth of the province, so as to provide work for all. Economical government, which would restore the confidence of investors, was the key, and he expressed the hope that the change of "Hart" in the finance department could be spelled with an additional letter "e," so that the burden of taxation would be lifted from the shoulders of those who were striving to make a living in the province.

He approved the granting of an educational survey, which, he said, represented another change of heart on the part of the government, but said that a great deal remained to be done to restore confidence in the liquor administration, and hoped that some of the fine words used on this subject would be translated into deeds.

Browne for Permanent Service

Mr. Browne denounced the party clamor for patronage, and urged establishment of a permanent civil service, in which those who spent years learning the ropes should be given opportunity to rise to the highest responsibilities.

The mildness of opposition criticism, he suggested, was prompted by tenderness for the fast-disappearing Liberal party, which, he said, would never again form a government in Britain, would never again hold complete power at Ottawa, and probably again never in British Columbia.

He referred to freight rates, and said he thought that issue had served its purpose in the election, and that it and "Gerry McGeer's services" might now be dispensed with.

As a solution of unemployment, he urged that the seasonal industries, such as lumbering, be called upon to maintain the unemployment pertaining to their respective industries, instead of using the surplus of labor at only such times and seasons as suited their selfish purposes.

carry on the work of his office without friction.

Birkenhead For Enlightened India

Lord Birkenhead, but for his temporary exclusion from administrative duties owing to his coalition activity, would have been entitled to the lord chancelorship; but as secretary for India he stands for an enlightened Indian policy, and his appointment gives general satisfaction.

Seven of the new ministers were not in Mr. Baldwin's former cabinet, namely Mr. Churchill, Lord Birkenhead, Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland, Sir J. Gilmour, Lord Eustace Percy and Sir Douglas M. Hogg.

One notable omission is that of the Earl of Balfour. Mr. Baldwin himself will nominally be leader of the house, but this duty will mainly devolve upon Austen Chamberlain, who, in addition to the foreign portfolio, has been selected as deputy leader of the house.

The new secretary for the colonies, Lieut.-Col. L. C. M. Amery, is an enthusiastic tariff reformer and a strong supporter of the Singapore naval base scheme.

With Mr. Churchill holding the nation's purse, however, it may be assumed that there will be no dealings with direct protection, although Churchill would probably have no objection to the reimposition of the McKenna duties under the Safeguarding of Industries act.

It also may be assumed that there will be no guaranteeing a loan to Russia.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—In congratulating H. A. L. Fisher, president of the board of education in the Lloyd George government, on his reelection to parliament for one of the two seats in the constituency of the combined English universities, the Yorkshire Evening News suggests that he should sacrifice his seat in order that Mr. Asquith, who was defeated in Paisley, might enter parliament.

PAPER ASSERTS REPORT SHOWS COAL FRAUDS

It Is Said Courts-Martial Recommended for Officers

WINNIPEG, Nov. 6.—According to a local newspaper, Commissioner David Campbell's report of the inquiry into the coal fraud charges in connection with the Winnipeg barracks recommended that several prominent officers of military district No. 10 should be tried by court-martial, and also that members of the engineering staff of the local barracks should be dismissed.

Mr. Campbell refused to comment on the report tonight.

The investigation into the alleged coal combine will opened by Mr. Campbell tomorrow morning. It is understood that 42 coal concerns are mentioned in the list submitted by the Dominion government to Commissioner Campbell for investigation.

Graham Knows Nothing

OTTAWA, Nov. 6.—When the attention of Hon. G. P. Graham, acting minister of national defence, was drawn to the rumor that the report of David Campbell, who investigated the Winnipeg coal contracts, found that over $100,000 had been fraudulently taken from the defence department, he said that the report had been in the hands of the justice department for some weeks now and that the department of national defence was waiting advice before taking action.

Some weeks ago a statement was issued by the acting minister of national defence which made it clear that the finding of Mr. Campbell was of a serious nature and that the situation would be dealt with accordingly.

NORA LEE

Elenore Meherin's Greatest Story

Revealing the Heart and Soul of the 1924 Flapper

CHAPTER XLI.

The Detective Hears Nora Lee's Story of the Bonds

The detective pressed a wet, loose end of his cigar between thumb and forefinger. He had the manner of rite. After a leisurely moment, he cast an upward, knowing glance at Nora Lee that said metallically: "We've got you. Come through!"

"Can you explain, Miss Meadows?"

"The bonds were not stolen. They belong to me."

"You have the other fourteen then? How long have they belonged to you?"

"Since they were given to me."

Mr. Evans smiled tolerantly: "Come, come, no stalling. You understand, young lady, that the theft of $15,000 is a felony, punishable with a long term in San Juentin?"

Nora Lee closed the living room door. She stood here a moment because of the wild swelling of her breath. She held to the knob as though she would shut from the world the infamy she felt had come. Andrew's wife had reported the bonds stolen.

If she surrendered them she would be branded a thief; if she kept them she would have to explain why Andrew, having a wife, should give $15,000 to her.

She cast a frantic look about the room as though inspiration would come from its silent walls. She walked unsteadily to a chair and sat with her hands clasped in her lap.

"Do you understand the consequences of stealing such a large sum, Miss?"

"I have not stolen anything. The bonds were given to me."

"Perhaps the person who gave them to you stole them. The receiver of stolen property shares in the crime. No, Miss, we don't want to make things hard for you. You've got those bonds. You've admitted having them. Best thing you can do is to hand them over. May save yourself a lot of trouble."

"The bonds were given to me by the person who owned them. They are mine and no one elses."

"Who gave them to you?"

She repeated, desperately, her heart flying to her throat: "The person who owned them—"

"That so? The person who owns these bonds has reported them stolen. So you see, your story won't hold. Better not try this game. Miss. Better come clean—"

Her young pride flashed. This raw-faced fellow thought she was a thief. He meant to insist on it. She said burningly: "No! I know who has reported them stolen. The bonds never belonged to her. It is a false claim. And she knows it!"

"Now, see here, Miss Meadows, these bonds belong to Mrs. Lily Stewart. They disappeared from Mr. Stewart's office within a few days after his death. We have the goods on the bonds, all right, and who owns them. If you didn't steal them, how did they come into your possession?"

"Mr. Stewart gave the bonds to me before he died. Mrs. Stewart knows this is the truth."

"Why should Mr. Stewart take community property and give it to you. Miss Meadows, when he had a wife—I understand an invalid wife who needed all the money?"

Nora Lee stared before her, a fixed smile on her lips, but the blood was now fire in her cheeks. An impetous surge of memories pounded in a mad sea against her brain . . . Lily Cornish with the pistol leveled against her mother's heart; Margaret standing at the living room window, that look of immortal grief in her beautiful eyes; Andrew with his head bowed, his hands cold and shaking as he gave her the bonds; the altered humming undertone when he whispered: "I have thought of her in all I do. I would give up life to spare her pain. Speak for me if I do not come, now will you, Nora Lee?"

The love of these two; their sacred love and its final tragedy was in the secret of these bonds. How could she guard it?

It seemed to Nora Lee that Margaret stood behind her chair; that Margaret wrung her hands and pleaded. Her face had the same look as on that day when Andrew left them. She had leaned exhausted against the stone curbing, her clasped hands at her lips—like a white angel weeping. When Nora Lee said, "Oh, mother, is your heart breaking?" she had answered with a sobbing laugh.

That day was the end of life; the end of happiness for her—dear, martyred saint.

And now she lay in her coffin with the seraphic and blessed smile carved from the very spirit on her lips. Who would believe all this beauty of her?

Nora Lee lowered her head. She didn't know what word to say. She wondered if her mother wished her to surrender the bonds. This, she knew, was the last thing Andrew would want—the very last violation of his memory.

"We're not getting anywhere, Miss Meadows. It doesn't pay to sit there so obstinate. I tell you plainly, we've got the goods on you. You might just as well give up this property and avoid trouble."

She repeated blankly: "The bonds are mine. They were given to me. Mr. Stewart brought them here himself the day he died. He left me explicit orders about them. They were entrusted for a certain purpose which I agreed to fulfil."

"What was this purpose?"

She glanced toward him with a flash of shrewdness: "Has it anything to do with the matter, Mr. Evans?"

"Well now, it might prove whether you're telling the truth or not, Miss Sounds like an awful stall to me. Can't see why the man should bring bonds to you on the very day he got killed. Kinda phoey—"

"He was going away when the accident happened. He expected to be gone a long time."

"Is that why he brought you money? Guess he was a pretty good friend, eh?"

"Yes." She opened her hands slowly, adding with a quiet simplicity. "He was the greatest friend we had."

"Humph! Guess you were pretty cut up over his death, then?"

"Yes—we were." Nora Lee wiped tears from her eyes. She looked so extremely young and defenseless; her manner was so convincing the detective fidgeted and made impatient, heeming noises in his throat. He could not pigeonhole Nora Lee.

"A friend of the family was he? Do you live here with your people?"

She glanced about with a vague, unhappy smile, her lips trembling.

The detective frowned: "See here, Miss, you don't seem to realize what you're in for. Where's your father's place of business? I better have a talk with him."

"My father is dead many years."

"Let me talk to your mother, then."

She closed her eyes, pressing her hands together. "My mother is also dead."

"Humph! She dead a long time, too?"

"A week last Tuesday."

"Well—well. Did she live here with you? Did she know about those bonds?"

Nora Lee nodded.

She allowed you to take $15,000 from Mr. Stewart, did she? Did she know Mr. Stewart had a wife?"

She stood up and faced him, her hands gripping the back of the chair. "Mr. Evans, you are trying to fasten evil on me, but I have nothing to conceal. Mr. Stewart was our life-long friend. My mother was very ill. He was going away and brought the bonds to me because he didn't wish my mother to suffer. I took the money without asking anyone whether I should or not, because I knew no one was injured by the gift. I was not going to stand by and see my mother die. There are the facts. The bonds are mine and I am keeping them."

The detective rubbed his chin: "You say Mrs. Stewart knows her husband gave them to you?"

"She knows that I didn't steal them."

"How do you know she knows this? She knew her husband was a friend of yours?"

Nora sat mute; afraid now to say another word—terror-laden because she perceived the detective was piercing her admissions together. He moistened his lips as though he rolled something succulent under his tongue.

Mr. Stewart was your oldest friend. Was Mrs. Stewart also an old friend?

She was growing sick with the sense of Margaret's sorrowing eyes glancing at her from behind the chair. Frantic regrets abused her. Why did she cash the bond? Why hadn't she foreseen the evil consequences.

She said: "I have told you about the bonds. I have told the truth. If anyone says I stole them, they will have to prove it."

"You refuse to surrender them?"

"Yes."

He shrugged: "Charges may be brought. You may be arrested."

She opened the door in a daze, her breath choking. Suddenly she said: "Do you think I stole the bonds?"

He raised his eyebrows smugly: "No, miss! I see the lay of the land."

PRINCESS MARY NOT COMING TO CANADA

LONDON, Nov. 6.—(By Canadian Press Cable)—The lady in waiting to Princess Mary informed the Canadian Press today that there was absolutely no truth in the report that Princess Mary probably would visit Canada next year. The report that the princess probably would pay a visit to Canada in 1925 arose in connection with the return of the Prince of Wales from the Dominion recently, when it was said his royal highness had intimated that his sister would likely be going out next year.

The committee appointed by the MacDonald cabinet to investigate the authenticity of the Zinovieff letter, the alleged propagandist document from the Moscow internationale, was unable to come to any positive conclusion. The communique stated that "the original letter has not been produced in the publication of the letter duced to, or seen, by any government department, and the action in the publication of the letter probably was taken on what now is claimed to be no more than a copy."

Pick Bucketful of Strawberries at Slocan City

A bucketful of strawberries, some of them red and quite ripe, the majority more than half-ripe, was brought into town to Mrs. Eastman on Wednesday. They had been grown at the home of her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. Reid of Slocan City. A cluster brought to The Daily News office showed six large berries, all ripe or half-ripe, and a number of small green ones.

TRAVELLED THE WORLD BUT

'Never Found Anything to Equal Zam-Buk'

Mr. Henry C. Davis, a widely-travelled railway engineer, now of South 17th St., Kansas City, U.S.A., writes that he has found nothing in any quarter of the globe that compares with Zam-Buk for healing. He says:—"As a first-aid I have used Zam-Buk in innumerable instances for cuts, wounds, bruises and similar injuries sustained in my engineering work.

A REAL ANTISEPTIC HEALER.

"I also tried Zam-Buk for a rather common trouble in this country—skin poisoning by poison ivy. Disfiguring sores appeared on the hands, and other parts of the body after being in contact with the poisonous plant. Zam-Buk speedily cooled the affected surfaces, drew the poison right out, and healed my skin perfectly.

"Another time, whilst travelling, I suffered from a virulent outbreak of eczema, contracted through careless use of a public towel. I had medical advice and tried in addition, many special remedies without finding the hoped-for relief. Zam-Buk treatment took away all the pain and burning irritation, and quickly purified and healed the deep troublesome sores. It made my skin quite well."

ZAM-BUK IS— unequalled for cuts, chapped hands, chilblains, cold-sores, burns, scalds, etc., to check bleeding, inflammation and pain, and bring swift clean healing. Also for eczema, poisoned sores, ulcers, piles, bad legs. Of pure herbal origin, Zam-Buk is infinitely superior to artificial ointments composed of pore-clogging fats and crude drugs. Dealers everywhere sell Zam-Buk, 50c. box, 3 for $1.25.

ZAM-BUK FREE & POST-PAID.—The Proprietors of this wonderful herbal healer offer every reader a USEFUL SAMPLE BOX. Send request to-day to Zam-Buk Mfg. Co., Dupont St., Toronto.

Make an Example of Anyone Carrying Dynamite on Train

One outstanding fact which has been brought out by the inquiries into the train explosion near Farron is that it is a fairly common practice for some passengers to carry dynamite in their grips.

Probably the practice is not as widespread among those who use dynamite in their ordinary employment as might be supposed, but it is evidently sufficiently practiced to justify the putting into effect of stern measures to stop it.

Railway train crews cannot be expected to search passengers' baggage for high explosives, but it would be good business for the attorney-general's department to take steps to catch anyone who might be guilty of this criminally dangerous practice.

Let one or two persons be caught with dynamite aboard a train or steamer and be punished to the limit of the law, and the practice would very soon be discontinued.

Substitute for Apple Pie—Instead of serving apple pie to my children I make a plain cake batter and pour half of it into a loaf cake pan, then add a layer of apples and turn the remainder of the batter on top of the apples. Bake 40 minutes in a moderate oven, as for any loaf cake. It is more easily digested than pie pastry and just as delicious. Here is another discovery of mine:

How I Use My Bread Mixer—I proceed as one usually does in making bread with a mixer, but after the dough forms a ball I roll it out of the pail onto a bread board and knead it four or five times, punch it a few times, then form it into loaves and put these in the greased to rise as usual. I have often heard housewives complain that their bread mixers turn hard; I have overcome this by greasing mine well with lard before putting it together. I think there is nothing more useful than one of these mixers, at least the housewife who has small children, as I have, and who wishes to have home-made bread; before I bought my mixer I was invariably required to attend to the children in some way right when my hands were in the stickiest stage of old-fashioned kneading!—Mrs. F.P.

My Way of Frying Pickerel or Brook Trout—Scale, clean and dress the fish carefully; wash them, dry them on a cloth, then place them in the icebox to chill. Cut through the fish down to the bone in two places, on each side (especially if they are large fish), then rub over inside and out with salt; roll them in cornmeal, then place them in a frying pan containing a generous amount of fat fried out from salt pork. When brown turn on one side, turn and brown the other side. Serve at once with sauce tartare or with sliced tomatoes or cucumbers sprinkled with salt and pepper, oil and vinegar.—Mrs. J.M.

My Easily Made Ice Cream—Mix together one quart of cold milk, one pint of thin cold cream, one cup of granulated sugar and one tablespoon of vanilla extract. Turn into the freezer pail, pack with salt and ice as with any ice cream, turn the dasher constantly and steadily but not too fast—this is the secret of making smooth cream.—Mrs. C.

Vancouver Fair Manager Denies Coast Dispatch on the Fair's Finances

To the Editor of The Daily News:

Sir—Referring to an article which appeared in your paper on the 27th ult., headed Vancouver Fair Deeply In Debt, I wish to give this statement a most emphatic denial. There is not a word of truth in it from beginning to end. The Vancouver fair is not deeply in debt in any particular; and, when we pay all our debts, even those which are not due for some time, we will have between $5000 and $4000 in cash in the bank, with substantial payments accruing to us May 1, August 1 and October 1. We have more assets than all the other fairs in British Columbia combined. We spent this year on our grounds $32,000 as a further asset.

We would like you to give this contradiction the same publicity that you gave the other statements.

H. S. ROLSTON,
Secretary-Manager, the Vancouver Exhibition Association.

START PRELIMINARY FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Case Against First of Several Edmonton Accused Is Begun in Court

EDMONTON, Nov. 6.—Only a small portion of the evidence to be submitted in the preliminary hearing of the charges of manslaughter and intent to perform an illegal operation against Dr. John A. Hislop was taken yesterday.

The charges arise out of the death of Pattie Thelma Burnup, 20-year-old girl of this city, who died while under an anaesthetic at a private and unregistered nursing home here on November 22.

Similar charges have been laid against Mrs. Olive Walker, proprietress of the home, and against James Dawson, youthful friend of the deceased.

Dr. McCulla stated death was due to chloroform poisoning.

Mrs. Walker, keeper of the house, underwent a gruelling examination by A. A. McGillivray of Calgary, who is assisting J. J. Frawley of the attorney-general's department in prosecuting the case.

HORSE POPULATION SHOWS AN INCREASE

OTTAWA, Nov. 6.—It is estimated by the Dominion bureau of statistics that more than 56,000,000 acres were devoted to field crops in Canada in 1924, as compared with 55,310,092 acres in 1923. Wheat occupied 22,504,658 acres, a decrease of 167,206 acres from last year, due to the lateness of this year's seeding season. There were 14,480,568 acres of oats sown, a slight increase from last year.

The number of horses in Canada increased in 1924 by over 100,000, there being 3,546,233 horses classed as farm live stock.

The cattle population of Canada, exclusive of British Columbia, is 9,198,714.

LANIGAN ARGUES MOUNTAIN NOT A STEADY FACTOR

On Long Hauls Unimportant; on Short Hauls It Is Larger

VANCOUVER, Nov. 6.—Robert McKee, general manager of the Vancouver Milling & Grain company for several years, and for the past two years general manager of the Canadian Grain & Export company, gave evidence today before the board of railway commissioners on the grain rates question, in support of the representations being made by the British Columbia government. When he had concluded, W. B. Lanigan, freight traffic manager for the Canadian Pacific railway, took him in hand for cross-examination.

Mr. Lanigan's questions were framed with a view to show that the closer the shipping point was to the coast, the more the mountain section of the road entered into the situation, and the farther the point of shipment was from the coast the more equalized became the rate on grain as between consignment to Fort William and Vancouver.

He informed Mr. McKee that the rate from Calgary to Montreal was 47.44 cents, and from Calgary to Vancouver 22½ cents, and quoted other tariff items to show a similar difference in favor of Vancouver.

G. G. McGeer raised the objection that Mr. Lanigan was not conducting cross-Examination, but rather giving evidence, and was sustained by the commission.

Styles

By Lenore

Miss Twelve is certain to feel her importance as a personality when she is permitted to wear one of those tunic frocks exactly like her smart grownup sister's. It is made of cherry-red velveteen, wears a snowy white gardenia on one shoulder and has just that chic and individuality which have so much to do with social triumphs at parties.

The extreme simplicity which characterizes this little frock is a prominent feature of all smart junior apparel this season. Trimmings are also used, of course—bright leathers, colorful embroideries and shining gold buttons—but in so restrained a way as to give a delightfully naive effect.

This same spirit is expressed in an exceptionally charming way in another velvet frock, also cherry-red, which hangs straight from the shoulders, has a double fold of the velvet at the hem and is given an air of quaintness by a deep bertha of ivory milan lace.

MEXICO EXTENDS BAN TO EMPIRE

MEXICO, Nov. 6.—All Mexican consulates in Canada and the other British dominions have been ordered closed beginning November 20. The order was issued by the minister of foreign affairs, in carrying out the policy to sever commercial relations with Great Britain, which suspended official dealings with Mexico after the recent withdrawal at the request of Mexico of H. S. Cunard Cummins, the British charge d'affairs here.

The Sensible Shoes of Today

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright act.)

I have said more than once, that the feet were just as important from the standpoint of making a living as is the head.

The examination of recruits for the army having shown that half had feet that were not absolutely normal, has wakened up the nation, and the shoe manufacturers also.

Accordingly our manufacturers are turning out types of shoes that are more sensible than for a number of years back.

They realize that both men and women like to have their feet look attractive, because the feet are almost as important in the dress effect as is a hat.

The high heel of former days is not seen on the street at least. It was found that the high heel threw the entire weight of the body—one hundred to two hundred pounds—directly upon the toes.

With this weight behind them, pressing them up against the leather, corns, bunions, strains and aches, were simply bound to happen.

Added to this was the narrow toe.

Nowadays the shoes are made with a wider space for the toes.

If my lady wishes to have her foot look more slender, she is actually willing now to wear a shoe a size longer, in order to obtain the necessary room. This is a sensible change indeed.

Another point that the manufacturers are attaining, and yet keeping the styles attractive, is what is called the straight line on the inside.

In former days the shoes widened out at the ball of the foot, and then both the inside and the outside margins curved toward a central point.

By keeping the inside margin in a straight line, the shoe actually conforms to the natural shape of the foot, instead of drawing the big toe to the central line, and thus causing a bunion.

So if you are buying shoes for everyday wear, try and remember these points: Low heel, wide toe, and straight line on inner side of shoe.

If we were manufacturers we would likely make the prettiest shoe possible, because selling shoes would be a part of our business.

It is fortunate for us that the manufacturers are now turning out a good looking shoe, that is also a sensible shoe for the foot.

Edward Hunt of Mount Brydges, fell from the roof of a barn on which he was working, breaking his neck.

Lord Beaverbrook, who has a country house and three hundred acres at Cherkley Court, Leatherhead, Surrey, a town house at Putney Bridge, and apartments in the Temple, has now purchased Stornoway house, overlooking St. James park, close to St. James palace. Lord Beaverbrook will make Stornoway house his town residence and is also installing emergency sleeping accomodation in the offices of his morning newspaper, the Daily Express.

Hugh McArthur, "Klondyke Hugh," aged 65, a pioneer in the early gold fever days and one of the first to pass over the Caribou trail into the Yukon, is dead at Toronto following an operation.

KASLO ENJOYS VIVID SCENES FROM MACBETH

High School Pupils Give a Shakespearean Entertainment

KASLO, B.C., Nov. 6.—The Kaslo high school gave a splendid Shakespeare dramatic performance, scenes from "Macbeth" being chosen. The Macbeth of W. Zwicky in the banquet scene was a clever well-thought-out rendering, and the passages were word perfect. Miss Mabel Parker, as Lady MacBeth, looked very magnificent, and acted both her scenes with great feeling and cleverness.

Eric Johanson in the witches' scene gave a very sound performance of his very difficult part.

The audience was large and very enthusiastic, and the whole evening's entertainment was the best held at the school for a long time, the sum collected at the door being a handsome contribution to funds for the improvement of the school gymnasium.

Saturday the Kaslo Women's Institute held its usual business meeting.

Monday the Kaslo Ladies' Hospital aid met, the date of the annual meeting being chosen for November 24.

Mr. Cowie held service in St. Mark's church Sunday.

PROFIT-TAKING CHECKS STOCKS

Industrials Stop Advancing but Railways Still Move Upward

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Heavy profit-taking checked the early advance in industrial stocks in today's market, but rails continued to move ahead in response to a sustained investment demand for the high-grade carriers and speculative accumulation of several low-priced issues.

Among the 17 rails to reach new peak prices for the year were New York Central, Frisco common and the Wabash and Rock Island preferred issues, Katy common and preferred, Great Western common and preferred, Missouri Pacific common and preferred, Western Pacific common and preferred and Kansas City Southern. Seaboard Air Line sold at the highest price in eight years.

During the early buying in the industrials 22 issues reached new highs for the year, including American Smelting common and preferred, Montgomery Ward, H. R. Mallinson, Corn Products, American Radiator, United States Cast Iron Pipe, Simms Petroleum, American Tobacco B, Westinghouse Air Brake, Iron Products and Maxwell Motors B.

Marking-up of the renewal rate on call money to 3 per cent, followed by a subsequent advance to 3½, also was an influence in the day's selling of the industrials. Time money was firm, and commercial rates unchanged.

Total sales, 1,300,000 shares.

Money AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

Why do prices rise and fall.

The stock answer to such a question is that prices rise and fall in accordance with the supply and the demand, prices increasing when demand is greater than supply, and vice-versa.

However, there is possibly a deeper reason. What makes for supply and demand, and why should they make prices fluctuate? Principally because our present sources of information are not quick enough or accurate enough to keep supply and demand equaling one another—which case would make for level prices.

It is the object of business research today to try and stabilize prices through more accurate and more quickly broadcast information. This is an attempt to take many of the risk elements out of business, and though it may never be entirely successful, due to psychological factors, it will go a long way toward stabilizing industry and establishing the more perfect relations between producer, consumer and marketing agency.

BACKWOOD TAKES AUSTRALIAN RACE

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 6.—Australia's richest race, worth $41,000 to the victor, was won yesterday by Backwood, an imported English horse, running at 7-to-1 odds. Stand By, the former favorite, wrenched his leg just before the race and was beaten by a head. Spearfelt, the favorite, finished third.

FIFTEEN MILLION COOLIDGE LEAD

Popular Vote for Him Overwhelming; Takes Lead in New Mexico

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The Coolidge tide, gathering increased momentum, has found effective resistance only in the solid south, Wisconsin and possibly North Dakota. Its crest has swept a safe Republican majority in the house, and is moving with a force which may accomplish a like result in the senate.

Democrats' only hope of adding to the electoral vote it received from the solid south began to vanish today when the Coolidge-Dawes ticket rolled ahead in New Mexico, where first returns had shown a lead for John W. Davis.

At the same time it showed a resistance in North Dakota that seemed likely to stem the threatened inroads of the La Follette forces.

With Wyoming apparently definitely thrown into the Coolidge column on the basis of latest returns, the president's total electoral vote certainly will be 374, and it may reach 382. This would depend upon his ability to hold his present advantage in New Mexico and North Dakota.

The Davis total stood at 136, and the La Follette vote in the electoral college at 13.

With the returns for the whole country still incomplete, and practically none official, President Coolidge had an excess of 15,000,000 votes, several million in excess of the combined estimated total of Mr. Davis and Senator La Follette.

Five Inches Up to Eleven Last Night; Mercury Is Just Above Freezing

By 11 o'clock last night 5 inches of snow had fallen in the city since early afternoon in the first real snowfall of the winter. The first snow fell last year on November 19, but disappeared almost as soon as it came.

Yesterday the maximum temperature, according to J. S. Goulding, provincial meteorologist, was 33, or 1 degree above freezing and the minimum was 25, ice forming over all the puddles. A year ago yesterday the maximum was 44 and the minimum 36.

The unusual sight of a man picking apples from a tree in the midst of the snowstorm was observed on Stanley street yesterday afternoon.

SEVENTH DAY ADVENTISTS' MILESTONE

Fifty Years of Progress Is Outlined by Mr. Passmore

MEMBERSHIP TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND

Missionary Effort in Nearly Two Hundred Languages

To the Editor of The Daily News:

Sir—Fifty years ago, just a jubilee period, Seventh Day Adventists, who had arisen in America, began to cross the seas to carry this message into all the world exactly as it is written Rev. XIV.; and, wonderfully, God has blessed a small people in quickly getting into all parts of the world. The carrying of this "everlasting gospel" to the world means the bringing into service of every agency which can bless man. It has meant the development in all lands of such agencies as these:

Schools—Central training institutions with over 15,000 students, besides the thousands of pupils in the local mission schools.

Hospitals and sanitariums—In the homeland and over the seas, with 337 buildings in use, with 2541 medical workers and other helpers employed, ministering to the sick and pointing the way to health and heaven; besides this, the myriad services for the sick and suffering in all the mission stations in dark lands, with 5000 missionaries, Bible workers and colporteurs in the service beyond the sea.

Printed Gospel

Printing plants—Somewhere around the circuit of the earth the Seventh Day Adventists' printing presses are running day and night, continuously, printing the message of truth in over 100 different languages. The Seventh Day Adventists are carrying forward the gospel work throughout the world in 194 languages. In 114 of these, gospel literature is published; in 80 other languages, evangelistic work is conducted orally. The number of countries entered is 115, the population of which is approximately 1,479,000,000.

Forty-eight years of missions—During the 20 years following the sending of the first missionary outside the United States in 1874, Seventh Day Adventist missionary endeavor was confined to civilized lands, the membership growing during this period from 7000 in 1874 to 42,000 in 1894. In 1874 practically all believers were in the United States of America; in 1894 5000 were outside the United States. In 1894 our first missionaries proceeded to heathen lands. During the next 28 years the membership increased from 42,000 in 1894 to nearly 209,000 in 1922.

Statistical report—The annual statistical report of all Seventh Day Adventist organizations and institutions throughout the world for the year 1922 completes six decades since the organization of the general conference in 1863. The growth during this time has been a membership of 209,000; total contributions for all purposes, $89,000,000; offerings to foreign missions, $23,000,000; periodicals printed, 154; institutions, 224, with an investment of $35,000,000, including 1834 churches, with an annual income for evangelistic and institutional work of $29,000,000.

No Profits

All the organizations and institutions, including sanitaria and publishing houses of the denomination, are organized on the basis of nondividend-paying, thus yielding no profits to any individual, the gains being used in extending the field service and missionary endeavor of the denomination. The offering and tithing system is practiced, and the per capita for 1922 was $40.

THOMAS PASMORE.

VETERANS WILL PARADE MONDAY

Ceremony for Armistice Day to Be Held at Soldiers' Memorial

Final arrangements for the Armistice day memorial services have been made at the meeting of the Great War Veterans' association. As in the past years a service will be held this year. Preceding it will be Poppy day in aid of the needy and disabled veterans.

On Monday next the returned soldiers will march to the war memorial on Vernon street at 2:30 p.m. There a wreath will be deposited in memory of those who fell in the great war. With the veterans will parade the boy scouts, wolf cubs, girl guides and other organizations. The city band will lead the procession.

As in the past a ceremony will be held at the memorial. Addresses will be given by a member of the ministerial association of the city, a representative of the city council and a representative of the veterans. Poppies this year will be sold on Saturday, and it is the wish of the veterans that the citizens will wear the flower till after, which is the original date of Armistice day.
