CANADA'S RAILS GIVEN PLACES IN HOUSE DEBATE

One Speaker Advocates Linking of C. P. R. and C. N. R. Lines

HUDSON BAY LINE DECLARED NECESSITY

Prog Says Tariff 'Diabolical Frameup' Between Manufacturer and Producer

OTTAWA, Jan. 27.—Canada's railway problem received some attention from speakers during continued debate on the address in the house of commons today. W. F. MacLean, Conservative, South York, advocated amalgamation of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways. Unnecessary duplication of lines, with consequent waste of millions, would thus be eliminated, he said, and the new system would be equipped with a great steamship service operating on the two oceans. He told the house that the time had come to sink party feelings and get together to solve the railway problem. The railways he believed were willing to discuss a proposal for consolidation.

C. R. McIntosh, Liberal, North-Battleford, who preceded Mr. MacLean, emphasized the importance of the Hudson Bay railway. It was a short route for Canadian products to the markets of the world, he said. Parliament, he thought, should lose no time once the government made a decision for completing the road, in approving it.

Tariff Is Frameup

From the Progressive ranks, John Evans, Rosetown, Sask., called the tariff "a diabolical frameup between manufacturers and politicians." He estimated that the Canadian people would lose a quarter of a million dollars this year through the tariff.

Hon. J. W. Edwards, Conservative member for Frontenac-Addington, occupied the few remaining minutes before adjournment and will continue tomorrow. He charged Mr. Evans with insincerity. The member for Rosetown, he said, had stated in a speech that the government was "wallowing in corruption" and yet he had supported it in the recent division.

Favors Bay Road

C. R. McIntosh, Liberal, North Battleford, resumed his speech begun last night, when the house of commons took up again this afternoon the debate on the address. Glancing at the question of the maritime rights, Mr. McIntosh said he believed the whole house was sympathetic to the problems of that part of the Dominion. He spoke emphatically in favor of the Hudson Bay railway. Nobody who studied the geographical position of the Hudson bay could doubt that it was the logical route through which the haul of Canadian products to the markets of the world could be considerably shortened. West Canadians had demanded the building of the road since 1880. They were now greatly encouraged to hope for an early consummation by the promises in the speech from the

OLIVER'S RAILWAY PLANS PROGRESS

Ottawa Asks More Data on P. G. E. Proposal to Settle Peace River Area

VICTORIA, Jan. 27.—That British Columbia's preliminary efforts to settle the Pacific Great Eastern railway problem through the development of the Peace river district are meeting with success in Ottawa, was indicated by official communications received today by Premier John Oliver.

In a letter to Mr. Oliver, Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of the interior, asks him for further data on the proposal that the province be given control of the Peace river block, deeded over to the Dominion several years ago. Mr. Stewart and his colleagues desire this information before giving a final ruling.

The British Columbia government has asked for control of the block so it may be used to subsidize the construction of a railway through the Peace river country tributary to the Pacific Great Eastern.

Retrenchment in Government Cost Is Lumbermen's Urge

WINNIPEG, Jan. 27.—Retrenchment in the cost of government was the most urgent necessity in Canada at the present time and should be placed beyond the arena of party conflict, A. K. Godfrey, president of the Western Retail Lumbermen's association, declared in his address here today before the annual convention of the organization. Heavy taxation, Mr. Godfrey asserted, was detrimental to the development of the industrial and commercial life of the Dominion.

Tornado Levels Fishing Village West Australia

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Many buildings at Broome, West Australia, have been razed and nearly 200 loggers of the Pearl fishing fleet sunk during a tornado, says a dispatch to the Daily Mail from Sydney, N.S.W. The wind blew at the rate of 100 miles an hour.

Simultaneously there was a 20-minute hurricane at Kempsey, N.S.W., on the other side of the continent. It levelled a number of houses and carried the roof of a hotel three hundred yards.

The dispatch adds that local scientists suggest that the phenomena were connected with the enormous sun spots visible in Australia.

PROGRESS SLOW FRUIT COMBINE CASE AT COAST

McRuer, Crown Prosecutor, Bases Case on Books and Documents

VANCOUVER, Jan. 27.—That he based the crown's case of conspiracy on books and documents which had been seized by Royal Canadian Mounted police officers on the premises of accused corporations, was the statement made in assize court here this afternoon by J. C. McRuer, crown prosecutor in the Nash Fruit organization trial. Strenuous objection was raised by counsel for the 53 defendants to the introduction of these books and documents in the evidence. The court, however, permitted the crown prosecutor to mark the books and documents as exhibits, and when court adjourned for the day 25 exhibits, comprising books, and records found in the Victoria office of the Mutual Vancouver limited, had been tendered in evidence.

Progress Retarded

Progress of the case this afternoon was retarded by frequent clashes between crown counsel and defence counsel. A long argument centered on the testimony of Sgt. Major Douglas Martin, of the Royal Canadian Mounted police, who stated that on July 15 last, he seized under search warrants books and documents in the Victoria branch, whose manager is J. W. Dilworth of Mutual Vancouver limited. A truck load of books and papers was brought into the court room for the witness to identify. Martin stated that he conversed with Dilworth and defence counsel objected to evidence of the latter's remarks and after considerable argument the court decided that the evidence of a statement by Dilworth was admissible, but not at that stage and his lordship directed that the witness should be recalled for the purpose. Mr. Justice McDonald remarked that the evidence was admissible against Dilworth, but not against the company.

WHITE GIRLS ARE SLAVES, CHINESE

Vancouver Woman Tells of Drug Evil in British Columbia, to Council

TORONTO, Jan. 27.—"I have seen young white girls who are slaves of the Chinese, just so that they may get drugs," Mrs. D. M. McKay, of Vancouver, told the social service council during a discussion on the dangers of narcotic drugs at the closing session of the 19th annual meeting here today. "I have also known of a white boy who introduced his sister to Chinese in order to get the drug," Mrs. McKay added in discussing the situation in British Columbia. The only solution to the problem, she said, was to strike at the source of the difficulty, to deal with the actual growing of poppy and the manufacture of drugs. "I don't know how bad the government control of opium is in India," Mrs. McKay said, "but if it is worse than government control of liquor here the situation is pretty bad."

Education of the young to realization of the dangers of drugs and a campaign to bring about the cessation of the production and manufacture of more narcotics than are legitimately required for medical and scientific purposes were urged during the discussion.

Dean L. Norman Tucker, London, Ont., was reelected president of the council at today's session and Rev. J. Phillip Jones was appointed general secretary.

Walker President Engineering Institute at Toronto Meeting

TORONTO, Jan. 27.—G. A. Walker of Vancouver was elected president of the Engineering Institute of Canada, at the annual meeting of that organization, which opened here today.

More than 400 delegates, from every branch of engineering and representing cities from coast to coast, are attending the sessions, which will last until Friday.

SENATE FAVORS ADHERENCE TO WORLD COURT

United States Party Lines Disappear as Vote Is Taken

SEVENTY-SIX FOR, SEVENTEEN AGAINST

Fourteen Republicans and Twenty-two Democrats Opposed to the Adherence

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Adherence of the United States to the world court with reservations was approved tonight by the senate, 76 to 17.

The vote brought to an end one of the bitterest fights the senate has hand since the memorable struggle over the League of Nations.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the war president, sat in the crowded galleries with rapt attention as the senate cast the vote giving its "advice and consent" to United States membership in the court set up under the covenant of the league which her husband brought back from Paris and the senate rejected on March 9, 1920.

The final roll call came suddenly after Senator Johnson, Republican, California, had made a dramatic last minute appeal for ejection of the resolution of adhesion. Party lines disappeared in the voting, 40 Republicans and 22 Democrats casting their ballots for adhesion and 14 Republicans, two Democrats and the one Farmer-Labor member voting in the negative.

Must Be Approved

The resolution of ratification, offered by Senator Swanson, Democrat, Virginia, contains not only the Harding-Hughes-Coolidge reservations but declarations of policy worked out by friends of the measure, which reassert the sovereign rights of the United States.

These reservations are known to be acceptable to President Coolidge, but before this country has its signature officially affixed to the court protocol and statute they must be accepted through an exchange of notes by the other 48 nations already members of the court.

The salient features of the reservations are that the United States is to have no legal relation to the League of Nations that it may withdraw from the court at its will and that the tribunal shall not, without the consent of this country, entertain any request for an "advisory opinion" touching any dispute of question in which the United States "has or claims an interest."

FARMER FOUND DEAD IN HIS FIELD

Gun Beside Body, His House Burned to Ground; Fear Foul Play

REGINA, Jan. 27.—Murder is suspected in connection with the death of Matt Litkalla, Frontier district farmer, whose body was discovered lying in the open on his farm today. A rifle was found beside him. His house had been burned. Neighbors discovered the tragedy.

Meagre details of the tragedy were outlined in a telegram sent to provincial police headquarters in Regina this afternoon. Frontier is in the southwest part of the province, about 15 miles from the international boundary. Owing to lack of telephone and telegraph service communication with that part of the country is extremely difficult.

Mrs. Rosie's Body Bears Marks of Being Beaten Up

VANCOUVER, Jan. 27.—That Mrs. Donald Rosie had died from the effect of "knockout" drops and that the body bore a black eye and abrasions which could not have been caused by a fall, was the medical evidence at the inquest today on the body of the woman who was found dead in a bed beside her husband. He was in a stupor and claims to know nothing of the events. He is held for investigation.

Anthracite Coal Miners Still Are Without Settlement

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 27.—The anthracite joint wage conference adjourned at 6 o'clock tonight until 1:30 p.m. tomorrow without having reached an agreement.

An hour after the conference adjourned a statement was given out revealing that the miners had proposed a modification of the Lynett peace plan as a basis for negotiations for a two-year agreement at the old wage scale. This was voted down by the operators.

Jap Premier Dies

VISCOUNT T. KATO

TOKYO, Jan. 27.—Viscount T. Kato, the premier, is dead.

According to the Japanese Newspaper, the premier died early this morning. The entire cabinet assembled at the official residence of the premier, and later tendered its resignation. There is much speculation as to who will be the new premier.

The diet has adjourned.

Early this morning members of the imperial family sent wine to the official, where the death took place. This is the invariable custom in Japan when death is imminent. The imperial physician was also despatched to the premier's bedside.

MINER FOUND DEAD AFTER BEING SHOT

Police Bullet Lodges in Side as He Gets Bucket of Snow

DAWSON CITY, Y.T., Jan. 27. — John Smith, Sulphur creek miner, who ran amuck on Saturday, and who, since that time, has held a small force of police, who had been sent to arrest him, at bay, was found dead in his cabin this afternoon by the police. Yesterday the officers fired a number of shots when Smith came out of his cabin to get a bucket of snow. He reentered the place immediately, leaving the door open, and it was still open when the police rushed the cabin this afternoon. One of the bullets fired yesterday had entered Smith's side. The body was found crouched behind a packing case with a rifle in the left arm and a shotgun within easy reach.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 27.—Traveling more than 800 miles across blizzard-swept prairie, Brother W. Fafard of the Big River Indian school staff, is in hospital here today receiving treatment for an accident sustained in northern wastes of Manitoba.

Brother Fafard was seriously injured when a fly wheel on a gasoline motor gripped his clothing. He suffered broken bones of both legs, fractured ribs and a broken left arm while the rest of his body was painfully bruised.

Far from medical attention the man was rushed by wagon, dog sleigh and train to Winnipeg.

INDIAN DIES AS TRAINS COLLIDE

C. P. R. Freight Trains Meet Near Saddle Rock; None Are Hurt

VANCOUVER, Jan. 27.—Francis James, an Indian, was instantly killed late this afternoon, when the Toronto express, train No. 3, on the Canadian Pacific railway, and an eastbound freight train were in collision at Saddle Rock, about 110 miles east of here. None of the passengers or any members of the train crews were injured. The trains were traveling slowly when they came together. James is believed to have been riding between the engine and mail car of the express train. The express engine was derailed, the train being held up five hours.

Waterway Will Come Says Sir Henry Thornton at Duluth

NELSON LADY FAILS TO GAIN CUSTODY CHILD

Judge Says Christian Babe Receiving Good Care by Grandparents

MOTHER MAY TAKE IT WHEN ABLE TO KEEP IT

If Mother Becomes Established in Nelson Judge Will Again Hear Application

VANCOUVER, Jan. 27.—Health, bodily comfort, and reasonable moral care, were held by Justice Morrison in supreme court today as most valuable considerations for the welfare of an infant, in temporarily refusing an application brought by writ of habeas corpus of Mrs. Evelyn Christian, of Nelson, to recover her three-year-old child from its grandparents. Frank and Rose Christian, parents of the mother's husband, living here, asked the court to allow them to keep the child for whom they had already cared for some time.

Must Be Able Care Child

The mother, formerly Miss Evelyn Marquis, was going back to Nelson to visit her parents, it was explained, but until she could show the judge that she would be able to care for the child properly, the baby remains where it is. The mother contemplates going back to her home, but in response to queries from the judge, it was explained by counsel that she was not certain whether or not she would remain there. She might look for work in that district.

"There is no reason why the child should be dragged around," his lordship commented. "I will only consider the welfare of the infant. If the mother becomes established at Nelson, and she or her parents, there, can properly look after the child, then I will hear application again. "In the meantime the baby is well nourished and attended to and might just as well remain where it is. Application was adjourned for one month.

SAYS CUSTOMS WATCH CLOSELY

Hon. Mr. Boivin Replies to Charges by Ontario Temperance People

OTTAWA, Jan. 27.—Discussing the charges made at the meeting of the Ontario Prohibition union in Toronto yesterday that liquor was being shipped from Canadian ports to the United States and that the Dominion customs officials were issuing regular clearance papers for such shipments, Hon. G. H. Boivin, minister of customs, said that the department of customs was watching closely for any irregularities in the export of liquor.

The minister of customs pointed out that when a certificate is issued on a shipment bound for the United States the designated United States custom offices are notified of the same.

Mr. Boivin declared that regulations were being enforced to the letter and all treaty obligations to the United States observed so far as the Dominion department of customs was concerned.

Incidentally the minister of customs stated that there would be an inspection of all departments of every customs "port" in the Dominion as the inspection department had opportunity.

Montreal was now being inspected. Toronto would be next.

TORONTO, Jan. 27. — J. A. M. Armstrong, former M.P. for York North, and Henry Coffey, former bank manager at Schomberg, Ont., were today both remanded for one week on the several charges of theft and other accusations against them. Bail of $50,000 was demanded by Magistrate Brunton in each case. The defendant, Armstrong, handed out a prepared statement declaring that the crown's action in seizing his papers was "nothing short of Prussianism or Sovietism," and could neither be "explained or exonerated."

Storm signals have been displayed at all ports along the coast, while small craft have been notified by wireless to seek shelter.

Vast Storm Predicted

VANCOUVER, Jan. 27.—A vast storm area with a diameter of more than 3000 miles, centered due west of Prince Rupert, is causing heavy gales in the North Pacific, which will spread to the British Columbia coast by Friday, according to reports received by the Dominion observatory officials at Victoria.

Reports from vessels at sea indicate extremely rough weather, the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Asia, from Yokohama for Vancouver, encountering winds of gale force off the Alaskan coast on Monday. The liner is due here Friday night. Between San Francisco and Honolulu a 60-mile gale was reported this morning.

Storm signals are flying along the British Columbia, Washington and Oregon coasts, with predictions of heavy rains accompanied by high winds.

TWENTY-FIVE CREW MEMBERS THOUGHT DEAD

Tramp Antinoe Still Afloat in Heavy Gale; President Liner By

RESCUERS PLAY WAITING GAMES

'One Hell of Storm,' Says Captain of Crippled Leviathan, Just in Port

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. — Death prowled the waves tonight as the worst storm to rake the Atlantic in years continued in full force and reaped a human harvest.

Bits of wreckage bobbing in a gale-frenzied sea gave tragic evidence that the British freighter, Laristan, with a crew of 25 men, has been pounded to pieces in the heavy seas which have held her helpless and at bay on the coast of Nova Scotia for two days.

The British tramp steamer Antinoe, which has been tottering on the edge of a similar fate since Sunday, still was afloat in midocean tonight, but the only rescue ship in sight was unable to reach her today through the blinding snow and tempestuous waves.

All hope for the Laristan and her crew was abandoned this afternoon when the North German Lloyd offices in New York received a wireless from its steamer, Bremen, saying:

"In a storm with heavy seas and blizzard, saw Laristan last Tuesday, 12 midnight. Wednesday at 9 a.m. some wreckage was found floating in water, and as nothing more was found of Larisjan, it is assumed steamer sunk."

Saves Six Men

The message was signed by Captain Wurpts, of the Bremen, who has stood by the broken Laristan since the storm swept down on her. Yesterday the Bremen held the driving snow and 90-mile gale at bay long enough to pick up six of the Laristan's crew, and was prepared to make another effort today.

The message to the steamship offices indicated the task was hopeless, and another wireless from the Bremen received at Halifax said she had abandoned the search.

While the wireless operator aboard the Bremen was tapping out the final chapter of the Laristan's losing fight, another on the United States liner, President Roosevelt, was writing in staccato code the story of the vessel's efforts to aid the crippled Antinoe.

Roosevelt Saves Twelve

The sea forced both the Bremen and the President Roosevelt to play waiting games in their attempts at rescue. Lifeboats sent to the Antinoe and to

THE PAPER DOLLS' HOUSE

One Mother says:

"What kind of a house shall my paper dolls live in?" asked Betty. Aunt Ruth took an old composition book that would do for a scrap book and opened it to show Betty how it made the walls of a room. They decorated each room with chairs, tables, windows and other accessories cut from magazines, finding many beautiful ones in gay colors. Each room of the house was represented; living room, dining room, kitchen and so forth, each with its appropriate furniture. Betty had lots of fun arranging and playing with her house, and she also learned something about color schemes and interior decoration.

EDWARDS HEADS GRAIN GROWERS IN THIRD TERM

Convention Votes Against Opposition to Present Immigration Policy

SASKATOON, Jan. 27.—George F. Edwards was reelected president of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' association for a third term tonight. There were no other nominations for the office. The delegates accorded Mr. Edwards a demonstration.

Following Mr. Edwards' reelection the convention began consideration of resolutions. A resolution opposing the present immigration policy caused debate.

The convention voted against the resolution. The convention proceeded to pass a resolution urging the executive of the association to concentrate attention on the problem of currency and finance, and urging the Dominion government to appoint a committee to investigate the whole question of credit currency and finance, paying particular attention to the possibility of issuance of consumers' credit with a view to extending effective demand for goods produced and also into the question of nationalization of the currency system.

George Langley, Regina, vice-president of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' association, declared that recent years had witnessed a gradual concentration of the money power of the country in the hands of a few men. This, he believed, was a danger to the whole country and to agriculture in particular.

NOT FAVORABLE TO REVALUATION

Majority of Soldier Settlers in Alberta Satisfied; Settlers Are Doing Well

WINNIPEG, Jan. 27.—There is not by any means an unanimous desire among the soldier settlers themselves for a general revaluation of lands, according to the opinion given here tonight by Major John Barnett, chairman of the soldier settlement board.

A questionaire sent out last year to 1700 soldier settlers in Southern Alberta, showed, said Major Barnett, 45 per cent in favor of a revaluation and 55 per cent against any radical change in the original valuation. In some cases, settlers of the drought stricken area of Goose Lake, Alta., had asked for a cut to 40 per cent and Major Barnett was in favor of this, and also that ex-soldiers settled west of Lake Winnipeg, in Manitoba, should have their farms revalued.

Major Barnett said the settlers under the board are doing well on the whole, and misfortune which some had suffered could not be attributed to the board. "Such misfortunes might have overtaken them, even if they had not bought from us," he said.

THORNTON PREDICTS TRADE REVIVAL

Another Successful Crop Will Make 1926 Banner Year in Canada

DULUTH, Minn., Jan. 27.—All signs point to a promising trade revival and business prosperity in the United States and Canada during the coming years, Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National railways, told a gathering of more than 700 persons at the open forum luncheon of the local chamber of commerce today. Another successful crop such as Canada enjoyed last fall, Sir Henry said, would make 1926 a banner year.

The Canadian railway chief gave his impression of conditions in Europe gleaned during his recent trip to England and France. Both these countries were rapidly recovering from the period of post war depression and the Dawes plan, he said, has been favorably received everywhere in Europe.

CANADA'S RAILS GIVEN PLACES IN HOUSE DEBATE

throne, and he felt sure that when the government brought down its bill to authorize the building of the road, that bill would receive the support of all sections of the house. Parliament should lose no time in dealing with the question, and the government should go ahead at once to show western Canada that the public men of the Dominion were prepared to keep their word.

Mr. McIntosh concluded his speech by urging all members to cooperate toward building up a Canada that was anticipated by the fathers of Confederation.

Urges Better Rail Service

W. F. MacLean, Conservative, York South, declared the transportation problem was of vital interest to Canada. Transportation in this country might be divided into two classes: first, by land; second, by sea. Passenger service on land he considered was undergoing a great revolution in Canada. The people, however, were not satisfied with it. If our railways desired to meet the present needs of the people they should adopt the smaller and more modern electric cars which permitted a more frequent service.

Unless the railways were prepared to go into the motor truck business, they would miss one of the most revenue producing features of the transportation industry. Mr. MacLean pictured the time when cities on the Great Lakes would be made ocean ports by the deepening of the St. Lawrence. He also mentioned the inevitable competition of transportation by air. "If we as a nation are to undertake transportation, we must go into all these agencies, and if we don't, all the present investment will have to be scrapped."

Mr. MacLean declared he "wanted a show-down" from the press of Montreal, the Bank of Montreal, the Royal bank and the whole C. P. R. management, as to whether or not they were bent on destroying the Canadian National railway.

Puts Up Example

Mr. MacLean supported the principle of taking "profiteering out of public services." This policy was being adopted in the United States, and one of the greatest illustrations of the success of public ownership in the world was the Federal Reserve bank in the country of the United States. Furthermore, the United States, through the interstate commerce commission, was administering all railways in that country and consolidating them into systems.

"Canada is going to have a banking system similar to what they have in the United States," prophesied Mr. MacLean.

Canada today was cursed with a duplication of railways, Mr. MacLean added. He believed that the Canadian Pacific railway was ready to discuss with the Canadian National the elimination of unnecessary duplicating lines. He believed that the C.P.R. was even willing to discuss the consolidation of the two roads into one great Canadian national system.

In his constituency were many market gardeners who would derive benefit from the tariff protection called for in the amendment. Therefore, said Mr. MacLean, he proposed to vote for the amendment.

John Evans, Progressive, Rosetown, said that agriculture had been the one great product of wealth in this country, it was the only industry which had advanced since 1913, and whatever prosperity the country enjoyed today was traceable to agriculture.

Tariff was a fallacy, "a diabolical frameup between manufacturers and politicians," and agriculture had to bear the entire load.

Industries Cornered

"Advocates of protection in Canada today do not believe in their own policy," he declared. Protection prospered on the blood of others. Agriculture was impoverished because "our manufacturer is not standing on his own feet."

Mr. Evans declared that every small industry in Ontario "has been cornered by fair or foul means."

Small businesses in the maritime provinces had been closed out so that these provinces had become "hewers of wood and drawers of water for this industrial area situated between Montreal and Windsor."

Farmers Remain Poor

This year Canada would probably export more per capita than any country in the world, yet the farmers, the actual producers of the wealth, would remain as poor as before. He estimated that the Canadian people would be "filched" this year by $225,000,000 by the protected interests through tariff. The tariff, he said, was manipulated secretly by orders-in-council and by negotiations with manufacturers, and it was all designed to make the consumer pay.

Mr. Evans argued that tariff stability could not be built on oppression. Canada must cease from putting the consumer at a disadvantage to preserve "an industry which cannot stand a breath of fresh air."

Favors Free Trade

Several Conservative members questioned Mr. Evans about his attitude to the tariff, and asked "Are you in favor of free trade?"

Mr. Evans replied "Certainly I am."

the Laristan before she disappeared were smashed or capsized. Lines could not reach them. The President Roosevelt lost two men sent out in a lifeboat the day before yesterday. That night, however, 12 men were rescued by the Roosevelt during a lull in the storm. Both the Antinoe and the Laristan were without lights, their engines wallowing in waves 40, 50 and 60 feet high. Their wireless voices were stilled. At nights and during the darker hours of the storm, the rescue ships kept in touch with them with searchlights' fingers, assured that there was life aboard only when the lights picked up figures of the men clinging to the decks.

At the offices of the United States lines earlier messages were received from Captain Fried, of the President Roosevelt, saying the ability of the Antinoe to stay afloat another day was "very doubtful." Captain Fried had been standing by her more than three days. At his home office it was stated he will stay there until all are saved or the ship sinks.

Leviathan Limps In

Meanwhile, four other ships buffeted by the gale, struggled into port today two days late. One was the Leviathan, the crack steamer of the United States line.

The adjectives which Captain Wurpel of the Bremen and Captain Fried of the President Roosevelt have been too busy to broadcast, the Leviathan's commander, Capt. Herbert Hartley, hollow-eyed after his worst battle in 33 years, supplied.

"It is one hell of a storm," he said, "the worst in my time."

"It is the Leviathan's 35th voyage, and her slowest—7 days, 10 hours and 9 minutes." Captain Hartley, his officers said, was off the bridge for only two hours' sleep during the trip. Sunday, when the storm was most fierce, the Leviathan made only 78 miles. The day before she made 428. The passengers did not suffer overmuch, however, and the only damage was a twisted rail. A baby was born on ship during the storm.

The other ships which came in today were the Columbus of the North German Lloyd, the Zeeland of the Red Star, and the Regina of the White Star. A giant wave tore away 15 feet of the Regina's bulwarks and smashed ships, Saturday, and flooded three staterooms.

Thirty ships, from New York to Lound to New York from other ports are still in the storm area tonight. The Aquitania is due here tomorrow two days late, and the Caledonia, due Friday, wirelessed today she could not make it before Saturday.

DAIRYING OVER CANADA IS BETTER

Domestic and Export Trade Picks Up; Butter Increases 12½ Per Cent

EDMONTON, Jan. 27.—The dairying industry in Canada has enjoyed one of the best years in its history in 1925 both in domestic and export trade, stated Joseph Burgess, chief of the division of dairy production, Ottawa, in an address to the Alberta Dairymen's convention today. Export of butter in 1925 show an estimated increase of 12 1-2 per cent over those of the previous year while exports of cheese in the same time increased some 19 per cent and at the same time the position of the Canadian products on the British market has been noticeably improved. Canada's exports of butter in 1925, reached a total value of $10,639,944, an increase of $2,852,879 over those of 1924, stated Mr. Burgess, and cheese exports in the same time showed an increase of over $11,000,000 to a total of $33,674,871 in 1925.

PROTEST EXECUTION IN HEART OF CITY

Winnipeg Ministerial Body Says Hangings Should Be in 'Less Public Place

WINNIPEG, Jan. 27.—A protest against the execution of Steve Nazar and John Stanton, sentenced to be hanged February 9 in the jail yard of the provincial jail, situated in the heart of the city and near the university buildings was wired today to Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice, Ottawa, by the Winnipeg Ministerial association. The wire urges that the executions should be carried out in some less public place, if it be found necessary to exact the full penalty of the law.

TRAIL LADIES' ORDER HAS ENTERTAINMENT

Royal Purple Entertains to 120 Friends; Old-Time Dances

TRAIL, Jan. 28. — Ladies of the Royal Purple entertained over 120 friends at a whist drive and dance in Moose hall here last night.

Twenty-four tables entered the drive. The winners were: Ladies' first, Mrs. C. Howship; consolation, Miss F. Kavik; men's first, R. Dougall; consolation, C. Fransen.

After the drive a delightful sit-down supper was served. It was followed by the dance in which old-time set dances proved irresistible, even to the younger set with the alluring music rendered. It was attended by many later arriving guests also. Mrs. C. Morrice was convener, with H. L. Jackson assisting as master of ceremonies.

Prelim Hearing of Murder Trial Starts at Saskatoon

SASKATOON, Jan. 27.—Opposing ocunsel crossed swords in Wednesday afternoon's session of the preliminary hearing of Mrs. Laura Johnson, charged with the murder of her husband, in city police court, when A. E. Bence, defence lawyer, attempted to have Constable Albert Flavelle's notebook, containing the notes taken by him on the scene of the crime Christmas night entered in evidence as an exhibit and placed in the custody of the court. Before doing so Mr. Bence asked Flavelle a number of questions in an effort to get him to admit the notes had been changed since Christmas night. This Flavelle denied.

J. W. Estey, crown prosecutor, sharply opposed acceptance of the policeman's notebook as an exhibit, as contrary to the rules of evidence and was upheld by Magistrate F. M. Brown. Finally the matter was left over until the morning when the case continues at 10 o'clock.

Mrs. Johnson sat in the prisoner's box throughout the long afternoon from 2:15 when court opened, until 4:45 when adjournment came, almost without moving, except when at times she appeared near a nervous collapse.

POLICEMEN SHOOT OUT THEIR AFFAIR

One Dies, Second Fatally Hurt; Crowds Perilled as Bullets Whizz About

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 27.—A feud of long standing was settled tonight at the De Young building in Kearny street, when two uniformed policemen "shot it out," recklessly firing into the throngs on the sidewalks and in stores, resulting in the death of one of the combatants and the probably fatal injury of the second.

The dead man is Fred Grant, who has for several years been on the Market and Kearny street beat. Sam Shipman, 552 Goettingen street, is dying in the Harbor Emergency hospital, three bullets embedded in his body.

Scores of men and women, passing in and out of Compton's restaurant, as well as hundreds of pedestrians, ran to safety as the bullets began to fly.

According to eyewitnesses, the men came down Kearny street a few minutes before 8 o'clock arguing with each other. They stopped at the cigar stand operated by F. F. Stover at 6 Kearny street and continued their quarrel.

Suddenly a blow was struck, and in a moment the pair were engaged in a furious fist fight. One of the men drew a "billy" from his pocket, and the air became charged with flying leather.

Bullets Hit Man

During the melee, witnesses say, Grant slipped and fell to the pavement. Shipman, it is said, then drew out his service revolver and started pumping bullets into the body of the fallen man. Leaping to his feet, blood gushing from his bullet-riddled shoulder, Grant drew his pistol and returned the fire.

In the meantime an unidentified youth, standing behind a parked automobile, opened fire on Shipman.

Shots penetrated the window of the cigar stand and the window of the barber shop in the rear of Stover's cigar stand. Eight men were seated in chairs in the shop. Panic reigned as the windows and mirrors crashed. The shots were too high to strike any of the men, however.

When the shooting started crowds began to gather, not realizing what it was all about. As little crowds of persons got together they were immediately dispersed by the cries of the battling men and the whizzing bullets.

About 10 shots in all were fired. Three of them lodged in Shipman's stomach.

In a few minutes Grant had fallen to the street fatally injured. He died shortly afterward with several bullets in his body.

SALT LAKE IS A CHURCH CITY TO ARCHDEACON

Gentiles Outnumber Mormons Now; and All Faiths Represented

STATE CAPITOL A NOBLE STRUCTURE

Southern Utah and Nevada a Desert Country, He Notes

Ontario, Cal., January 11, 1926.
To the Editor of The Daily News:

Sir—My last letter to your paper gave some of my impressions about Salt Lake City. Of course, I did not say all I know of that beautiful city, and I have since thought of one or two things I forgot at the time of writing.

Tabernacle Acoustics

One interesting item I missed was the seating accommodation of that wonderful building, the great Mor*mon Tabernacle. It can, without* any crowding, seat comfortably 8000 people, and a gathering, on some special occasions, has been counted up to 10,000 and then the counting was given up because those counting grew tired.

In spite of the great audience, every word of the speaker can be heard in any part of the building. Of course, it must be remembered, there is a very deep gallery, seating thousands, which materially helps out the seating accommodation.

Capitol on Hill

Another thing I failed to mention was the visit I paid to the state capitol. This is a very noble building, situated on the side of a hill, and so is to be seen from almost all parts of the city. The department offices are all upstairs, and I did not go up there.

The ground floor is used as a museum, where may be seen samples of the products of Utah, grains and fruits of many kinds are shown in large glass jars. Minerals also are not overlooked, and as minerals are abundant in Utah, the display is well worth study. There are also stuffed animals, bears, beaver, and Mr. Porky are there—and other cases contain the remains of long deceased Indians, and the skulls of many a warrior lie on the shelves like small boulders on the beach.

Of churches there is a large number, and they represent all denominations. Many of these buildings are worthy of a special description, but I had not time to study them, and in fact entered none of them save the Mormon Tabernacle. I have already said the Mormons *are now outnumbered by the Gen*tile population, and since all denominations are represented, you can understand there must be a very large number of church edifices.

Commercial Grandeur

Any city in the United States that makes any pretence to being a city will, of course, have any number of palatial business places. The Hotel Utah is a very large place, with several hundred rooms, and I was told that the owners are to build on an additional hundred rooms. I was too short a time in the city to take notice of the large mercantile houses, so must leave it to the imagination of the reader to picture to his mind these noble structures.

After spending two very pleasant days with my cousin, and receiving all kinds of attentions, I left the city on Wednesday morning at 8:35 for the more southern parts of California.

Desert Country

I was on the train for about 24 hours before we reached Ontario. Most of that time we were passing through a level country with a range of mountains on both the east and west sides of us. Sometimes the hills were only a mile or so from the railway, but then they would diverge from us and be 10 or 15 miles away. The level valley through which the train passed was a deso*late sort of country*, the land being chiefly occupied by sage brush.

Of course, every here and there we came to a small station of the usual desolate type, and between these stations we saw here and there the deserted home of some adventurous pioneer settler, who had tried to make a home there, and after a few seasons of disappointment had been obliged to give up in disgust and despair and seek more congenial conditions.

In a few places, where I suppose they were favored with a supply of water, I saw some few small houses, with outbuildings and stacks of hay, but such places were few and far between.

All through the southern part of Utah and across a southern corner of Nevada, until we got well into California, this desert plain prevailed. I have no doubt this desert could be turned into a glorious agricultural country, if a bountiful supply of water for irrigation could be turned on the land, and it may be that in time to come irrigation may be accomplished, but as it is, I found it a dreary, weary ride through a desert land.

Even here in California, the weather conditions are a greaterer matter of anxiety than with us in Canada. Rain is needed, and frost is not, but from the coolness of last night it seems to me that frost is more likely than rain.

EDUCATION BILL PAST COMMITTEE

Measure Empowering School Fees Expected to Pass in Saskatchewan

REGINA, Jan. 27.—Buffetted by contrary winds, the Secondary Education act amending bill in the legislature Wednesday, went through the committee stage with the addition of three house amendments, despite opposition of the Conservative groups and two others, opposition members.

The measure empowering high school and collegiate boards to charge fees for resident and non-resident students if they wish, is now ready for third reading Thursday, and it is practically certain it will receive royal assent when the house prorogues.

House amendment made by Hon. S. J. Latta, minister of education, provide that the new system shall come into force July 1, that rural town and village municipalities shall be authorized to enter into agreement with high school or collegiate boards to pay the fees of children from their districts if they wish, and provision authorizing the boards to fix a scale of fees according to the grade of the pupils.

SAYS HANGING IS BARBARIC METHOD

WINNIPEG, Jan. 27.—Declaring he did not believe capital punishment a deterrent to murder and that the more civilized communities were getting away from "these barbaric methods of punishment," John Queen, Labor leader in the provincial legislature, today expressed the hope that the house would take some action to have the death sentences of Steve Nazar, taxi cab murderer, and John Stanton, "hammer" murderer, sentenced to die February 9, commuted to life imprisonment. The executions are to be held in the provincial jail yard, near the university buildings, and Mr. Queen said students actually were reserving places in the varsity building from which to view the hangings.

In his address during the debate in reply to the speech from the throne, Mr. Queen made a plea for pensions for the blind and aged, and indicated that the Labor group would introduce its bill to provide one day's rest in seven for workers.

Tomorrow Premier John Bracken will continue the debate, outlining the policies of his government.

Don't let germs set you a'reeling —better far "that Kruschen feeling."

Kruschen v. 'Flu

Grandpa: Look here, Parker, this won't do at all.

Parker: It's a little hard if a chap can't sneeze without getting permission from you in writing beforehand. And anyway, what's a sneeze more or less in this world?

Grandpa: You never know what it may lead to, my lad. Many's the fine upstanding young fellow I've——

Parker: And how long, pray, has "Wischeimer" been your middle name? A-tishoo!

Grandpa: It's criminals like you who not only walk about picking up colds but must go sneezing all over the place that start these blessed epidemics.

Parker: Heavens alive, a chap can't go on indefinitely in a climate like this without picking up a bit of a cold once in a way, even if he's as fit as a fiddle.

Grandpa: Stuff! If you were fit you wouldn't go catching colds, or at least you'd shake them off pretty smartly. But because of the impurities in your blood-stream you allow a cold to get a real grip of you, ready to turn into 'flu at any moment. I know what's the matter with you?

Parker: What the deuce d'you — wishoo!

Grandpa: Who's been missing his Kruschen? Well, it's your own funeral if you throw away your first line of defence — the one thing that keeps your blood pure and virile. But when I think of all the 'flu that's about, I'm jolly glad I've stuck to the little daily dose. No giddy germ's going to catch me napping.

Parker: The worst of it is, you know, that you're right. I can almost feel the little creepers parading 'round inside me already. Yes, I ought to have bought a new bottle days ago. Well, it's me for good old Kruschen again tomorrow morning!

Kruschen Salts

Good Health for Half a Cent a Day

The ingredients of Kruschen Salts are necessary for healthy life. Your body must of necessity extract these ingredients from somewhere, or you could not live. If you led an ideally healthy life in the open air, with plenty of exercise and no worries, your body would extract these six vital salts from your food. But the artificial life you lead prevents this. Hence the need for the "little daily dose" of Kruschen, which, unlike any other saline preparation, is a scientific combination of the six salts your body needs for its proper health. "As much as will cover a 10 cent piece" every morning, tasteless in your breakfast cup of coffee or tea, expels all clogging waste matter, purifies and invigorates your blood, and sets you all a-tingle with "that Kruschen feeling." Every druggist sells Kruschen.

A 75c bottle contains 160 doses — nearly enough for six months. Get a bottle to-day and begin a new life to-morrow. It's the "little daily dime-ful" that does it.

Tasteless in Tea or Coffee.

'A Governor-General From England'

All that had been discussed at Ottawa . . . was whether a governor-general from England would decide, or whether the people should choose.

Who said this?

Hon. G. H. Boivin, minister of customs, specialist on unity talk in the commons, but in Quebec—not so conspicuous for sowing the seeds that fruit in unity.

If Mr. Boivin had used this slurring language in the house, he would have received answers that would have made his ears tingle, not to speak of what Mr. Speaker would say to him.

Last Wednesday this minister of the crown was there with his unity talk, in Montreal. Some of his sayings were:

> It was the duty of the Liberals to finish the Hudson Bay railway so that peace, unity and harmony may reign in the country. . . .
> Those (the principles) of the Liberal party were always the same—for the good of Canada as a whole.

Then, to illustrate real Liberal principles of applied unity, he used language suggesting that some popular principle was at stake in a contest between "a governor-general from England" and the Canadian people.

In the Canadian Press report in The Daily News of last Thursday, Mr. Boivin was reported to have given his Montreal hearers this intimation: "The government will consider itself beaten only by an adverse decision of the people in a general election."

But later in the report he was stated to have declared that the crisis—the vote on the non-confidence amendment of Mr. Meighen—"the biggest since Confederation," was past.

If the government accepted the house's endorsement by a majority of two—for that was what it amounted to, one opposition member being sick—as a mandate to govern the country, a mandate clothed with the people's authority, where will be the logic in refusing to accept a withdrawal of confidence should such occur on the next division?

A crisis cannot be the "biggest since Confederation" in one breath, and a mere incident the next time it is repeated.

"The governor-general from England," if the King government is beaten shortly in the house, is to be called on, evidently, to grant or refuse a dissolution to Mr. King.

If the house sustains the King government, it is an act of the people.

But if the house defeats the King government, it is not an act of the people, who accordingly must be given a new opportunity to pronounce their sentence of displeasure on their misrulers.

Because of this fine point, fine to all but the cabinet ministers and their supporters, the King government naturally entertains some doubt as to whether the governor-general may be able to see it.

In preparation for a possible difference of opinion with the governor-general, therefore, who might think that if the opposition commanded a majority in the house, it should take the reins of government, the propaganda is starting against Lord Byng, who is "from England," in the hope that the fine soldier-statesman sent to Canada as the representative of the crown may be cowed and deterred from interpreting his duties under the constitution for himself.

For exceeding the speed limit in Fort Madison, Iowa, Mayor Tower fined himself one dollar.

I have been asked by a bride reader just how much—and what—china and glass I would buy if I could spend only $50 on it. The inquirer has only her kitchen utensils and a nickel percolator at present.

To begin with, I would decide upon an open pattern in china ware, for economy's sake; it is less expensive than other sets and can be replenished when there is breakage. I would provide for six persons (allowing for four guests). Enough china for six persons will cost $25, possibly under. The pieces are: Six service plates (large, to go under dinner plates, etc.); six dinner plates (medium size); six supper or luncheon plates (still a smaller size) and six bread and butter plates (even smaller); six coffee cups (these may also be used for tea and cocoa on the home table, as most people like their cups generous!); two cereal bowls (I assume that the young couple will not have overnight guests at first, so need not provide more breakfast ware than they themselves will need); six after-dinner coffee cups (most open pattern china sets have these too, and they are nice for serving black coffee at a guest dinner); a sugar bowl to match the set; a cream or milk pitcher, also to match; two vegetable dishes without covers; one vegetable dish with a cover; one large and one small meat platter; a butter plate.

The above-named articles are all to be included in the $25 spent for the open pattern china. We now have $25 left for other things. Five dollars of it may be apportioned for a set of six glass salad plates. For glass salad plates, both white and green, are extremely popular now, and the most reasonable that one can buy cost around $10 a dozen.

A luster-ware tea set (to go on a tea cart) is necessary. These come as low as $10 for six cups and saucers, six individual cake or sandwich plates, a tea pot, cream pitcher and sugar bowl. I would advise you to choose the luster-ware in a color to match your open pattern china, so that pieces from the two sets may be combined when necessary.

We have now accounted for $40. With the remaining $10, I would buy: A glass casserole with glass cover in a nickel holder, at about $3.40; a large glass water pitcher, at $3.00, and six glasses at 10 cents apiece; an inexpensive oblong glass celery dish, at $1.00 (or less); a reasonable glass sandwich server (the kind with the stem and handle rising from the center of the plate), for another dollar. Perhaps you can get a cheese server (large glass plate with raised cup to hold cheese in center) for the remaining dollar.

Tomorrow—Brining Meats at Home.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

Your Need of Lime

You are reading a great deal these days about the lime salts that should be in the body if the body is to keep well, and be able to fight off certain ailments like "rickets" or tuberculosis.

This idea of increasing the amount of lime that should be taken in the system, in the form of food or water, is engaging the attention of research men everywhere.

One of the earlier investigators discovered that patients with tuberculosis who recovered, had regular deposits of lime in and about the healed tubercules of the lungs. That is, when sufficient lime was introduced into the system and remained long enough, it walled off these tuberculous areas.

He also noticed that with an acute attack of tuberculosis there was considerable decay and loss of lime from the teeth. With an increase of lime in the system, the process of decay in the teeth stopped.

He was able to prove that tuberculosis was more frequent where there was a deficiency of lime in the soil and water in the district. That outstanding dental specialist, Dr. Price of Cleveland, is administering lime to his patients to arrest decay of the teeth.

Lime, then, is a sort of preservative of the tissues, and its use is to prevent any wasting of the body.

Where lime is used, the other precautions used to prevent wasting are likewise a part of the treatment, that is mental and physical rest. The diet is the important factor, and as these patients are below par, with a slow digestive process, only the foods that are easily and rapidly digested are given.

Fats, while a good food in many conditions are not advisable, because they are so slow of digestion and produce the fatty acids so harmful to the system.

The meals are spread a good distance apart so that the stomach is completely emptied before the next meal.

The simplest method of taking lime is in the form of mineral water, and if you should wish to try a mineral water make sure that lime in the form of the carbonate or chloride is one of the salts in it. It is called calcium by the druggist or physician.

For most of us, a little fruit and green vegetables will take care of our lime needs.

GETS KING'S MEDAL

For 42 years' service and exemplary conduct in the military and prison services in Great Britain, Joseph Hayes was recently presented by Lieutenant-Governor Cockshutt of Ontario, on behalf of the King, with the King's medal. Hayes joined the Coldstream Guards when 16 years of age, serving with them seven years, of which a year was in the Sudan campaign. At the end of that time he joined the prison service at Pentonville prison, London, and was promoted until, after service in several institutions, finally returned to Pentonville, where he became chief warder for England, Ireland and Scotland, and was known in the old country as "dean of the service." Later he retired on pension and came to Canada last August.

The Court of Justice

By GERALD S. REES

Spending a few moments in the court of assize some time ago, one was deeply impressed with the majesty and the solemnity of the law; with the scrupulous fairness with which the scales of justice were balanced; with the intent earnestness of the jurors, and the cold unimpassioned unravelling of the tangled skeins of evidence by those appointed to the task. One was favorably struck with the smooth running of the "machine," with the efficiency of the stage managers of these momentous plays that deal with the drama, tragedy, and occasional gleams of comedy, of our human relationships.

How should it be otherwise when a man's life hangs in the balance? For him, the cynosure of all eyes, the trial brings forth a definite issue—life or death. Either to step from the dock a free man, or to pass behind the bars of a penal settlement to work out his punishment, according to law, or to be led forth one morning to glimpse the sky for the last time, and to be swung with a deadly celerity through the wide open gates of eternity.

One wonders what thoughts pass through a prisoner's mind as he sits between his wardens. Familiar faces are all around, and one is able in some measure to analyse the mental reactions of those who are called upon to render the verdict.

One cannot observe such an event in any condemnatory spirit, but feels as the godly man who gave voice to the prayer "There but for the grace of God, I stand."

"Between two worlds, Life hovers like a star
"'Twixt Night and Morn, upon the horizon's verge
"How little do we know that which we are! . .

For many a man stands trial for his life or freedom that, never in his darkest moments, visioned such episode in his earthly span. Justice will be done. Thank God for our great heritage of justice and fair play. One raises the hand, however, as if to ward off the stroke of impending doom when the dread word "Guilty" pierces the silence of a court room.

I have memories of some trials attended at the Old Bailey in London, and have watched the concluding chapter of more than one man's life as the chaplain cried "Amen" to the invocation of the judge "And may the Lord have mercy on your soul."

Die we all must, but the manner of death matters. A spectator in a court of justice may receive the final call ere the doomed prisoner mounts the scaffold. Yet the feel*ings of the one cannot be* compared with the other. . . One becomes at such times almost overwhelmed with the terrific forces that control our destinies.

We know that whereas our words and actions are usually the result of conscious rational thoughts, there are moments when we, so it seems to ourselves and others, are in the clutch of a higher power, sometimes inspiring us to good, and at other times dragging us down to evil deeds and words.

God and Devil are the explanation that theologians offer for this duplex phenomenon. Psychologists question this explanation. They tell us that our conscious life of reason has a deep penumbra of which we are not habitually conscious; it makes itself felt only when undue emotion or some other cause calls it into action. It contains all the instincts, ethics and thoughts of the past generations whose history is latent in each individual.

If the lower element of it be called into action by some momentary collapse of our usual psychical balance, anyone of us may relapse for a time into the condition of primitive man, with primary instincts and animalistic thoughts. This was certainly amply demonstrated during the war, as many who came face to face with our whilom enemy can offer undisputed testimony.

But there is another side to the mirror; The converse is true: there is also contained within us the germ of all the achievements and triumphs that will make life better and fuller for those who follow after us.

If by the splendor of art and music or by the inspiration of religion, this higher element can be roused into life, we become capable of rising even temporarily to the heights which only our remote descendants will fully master.

"For the Devil is but the ghost of primitive man, and God
"Is the unborn life of the world that is to be.

MR. DANIELL IS VICAR'S WARDEN ON MAIN LAKE

Kokanee Parish Meeting Held at Boswell; Higgins People's Warden

BOSWELL, Jan. 27.—For the first time in the history of the parish of Kokanee the annual church meeting was held in Boswell on Thursday morning, January 21, in the large and handsome Memorial hall.

The following delegates and visitors were present from other parts of the parish: Rev. Christopher Reed and Mrs. Reed, Procter; Mrs. Major, Procter; Mrs. James Kennedy, Mr. Gates and Mr. Irwin of Balfour; Mrs. Way, Mrs. Symonds and E. Mahood from Queens Bay; Major and Mrs. Gooch, from Crawford Bay; Mr. and Mrs. K. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bowman, Mrs. W. L. Hepher, J. R. Higgens, Mrs. Kennedy and Miss N. Kennedy, Mrs. Bowden, Mrs. Bebbington and Miss Bebbington, C. S. Bourne, Mrs. James Coupland, Mrs. H. Johnstone, Mrs. Russell, C. R. Higgens, Miss Holliday Smith and B. Holliday Smith, Boswell. In opening the meeting the vicar stated how pleased he was with the financial standing of the parish as for the first time in many years it had been able to meet all its obligations in full and bring forward a satisfactory balance. A great deal of credit was due to the various sub-wardens of the parish for work in connection with the large increase in the guarantees, whilst the excellent support from the members of the women's auxiliary and the ladies' guilds had also helped considerably. In addition, the open offertories had also increased, each portion of the parish having done considerably better than in the previous year. The vicar was pleased to say that Mr. Daniell of Procter would again act as vicar's warden. Owing largely to Mr. Daniell's unremitting efforts Procter's contribution was one of the best in the parish. The work of the different local organists was also of great benefit and assistance in making bright and cheerful services, and he was much indebted to them.

Higgens, People's Warden

It would be necessary to appoint a people's warden, as Major Gooch, who had acted in that capacity for the last four years, was retiring. Various nominations were made, and J. R. Higgens of Boswell was the choice of the meeting. A very hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the retiring people's warden.

Delegates to Synod

The delegates to synod were appointed as follows: K. Wallace, Boswell; Mr. Cooper, Balfour; Mr. Forster, Crawford Bay; the substitutes being E. Mahood and W. Bashford, Queens Bay, and M Major, Procter.

B. Holliday Smith, Boswell, was appointed auditor. The vicar was tendered a vote of appreciation for his work during the past year.

Following the conclusion of the meeting the visitors were invited to become the guests of the Boswell Women's auxiliary at a hot luncheon which was served in the hall, and at which practically everyone sat down, a splendid hot meal being served. Miss M. Kennedy and Miss Bebbigton acting as waitresses. Mr. Irwin of Balfour expressed the pleasure and thanks of the visitors, and Mr. Reed seconded.

During the afternoon the members of the parish council held a business meeting, when various important matters were gone into, amongst others the provision of a rectory, which had been referred to the council from the general meeting, and the assessment of the different parts of the parish for the coming year.

BURNS NIGHT IS CELEBRATED IN CRANBROOK

Real Scotch Concert and Dance; Haggis Is Piped and Addressed

CRANBROOK, Jan. 27.—Burns' club of Cranbrook and district celebrated the 167th anniversary of the birth of Burns in the Auditorium, Cranbrook, on Monday. President David Halcrow was in the chair.

Fraternal greetings from the Calgary St. Andrew's Caledonian society, Lethbridge Scottish Pipe band, Caledonian society of Kimberley and Clan McLeary of Nelson were read from the chair.

Proceedings opened by singing of "O Canada," followed by a quartet, Mesdames Muirhead and Patrick and Messrs. Noble and Russell, rendering "There Was a Lad Was Born in Kyle," in a very pleasing manner. Mrs. Frank MacPherson's rendering of "Afton Water" and an encore, "Loch Lomond," brought the minds of the audience back to the hills and glens of "Bonnie" Scotland. Ross Pascusso's fine tenor voice was heard to perfection in his rendering of "Mary o' Argyle." Miss Jean Patrick favored the audience with the exquisite old songs "Ye Banks and Braes" and "Lassie o' Mine." Jim Russell in "The Nameless Lassie" was heartily encored and gave "Dark Lochnagar" in fine style. Miss Wanda Fink gave very pleasing cello selections, accompanied by Mrs. Frank MacPherson on the piano.

Haggis Is Addressed

Tommy R. Stewart, in his happy, rollicking style, sang "It's a Long, Long Way to Bonnie Scotland," and "Dear Hame o' Mine." Mesdames Coutts and Norgrove, although hailing from south of the Tweed, were not to be outdone, sang "O Wert Thou in the Cauld Blast" and as an encore gave a fine rendering of "Annie Laurie," which was well received. Jock MacDonald with his inimitable command of Scottish style and character, sang "Green Grow the Rashes O," followed by "My Love, She's But a Lassie Yet." As a finale to the very excellent concert program, the haggis was carried around the hall and onto the platform by a burly Scottish highlander, preceded by Piper Allan Graham. Mr. MacDonald gave "Burns' Address to a Haggis." Bill Derbyshire, popular character comedian, gave the comic song "Oh, I'm a Daddy," and was very well received.

Rev. M. Blackburn of Knox church gave a very interesting and instructive address on "Burns, His Life and Works." Mr. Spruell gave a short address on "Scottish Characteristics."

Mrs. Jim MacDonald, assisted by a bevy of handsome and sprightly ladies, looked after refreshments, and great credit is due the ladies for the excellent fare provided and arrangements made.

The dance program was in the capable hands of Hughie McGill, and during a recess in the dance program Miss Hazel Bowley gave an excellent exhibition of the "Highland Fling," Piper Allan Graham making the rafters ring to the skirl of the pibroch.

CITY CONTROLS GRAND FORKS SKATING RINK

Free Skating for All Comers Except on Band Nights; Is Novel Idea in Province

GRAND FORKS, Jan. 27. — Taking over the local skating rink as a municipally owned and operated institution, Grand Forks is perhaps the first town in British Columbia to boost free skating to all comers. Coing into effect the past few days the innovation is proving very popular.

The scheme is one proposed by Mayor T. A. Love immediately on his return to the post of chief magistrate, and, sanctioned by the city council, the rink has been taken over as a public utility.

Curfew Enforced

It is part of a plan of directing wholesome recreation for children, commenced last summer in organizing other amusements. Students, including those of the high school, as well as that of the public school, will be allowed freedom of the rink every afternoon till 5:30, and on Friday and Saturday nights as well, but on all other nights they will be barred, except in the case of carnivals, etc., nor are they to be permitted on the streets after 8 o'clock without guardians. Juvenile hockey teams will be fostered, and children will be given first consideration in all rink arrangements, though adults also have free use of the rink when it is open for skating, except on band nights, etc., when a charge will be made to help financing.

Winnipeg, Minneapolis, Chicago and Fargo, N.D., will be linked up in daily air service, both ways, starting June 1.

Her Face Was Covered With Large, Red Pimples

WILL INVESTIGATE AIR DISTURBANCES

Peg Scientists to Study Recent Disturbances Over Canada; Annoyance Reported Great

WINNIPEG, Jan. 27.—Atmospheric disturbances, which have played havoc with electrical communication over a wide expanse of the Dominion during the past few days, will be subject of investigation by a committee of Winnipeg scientists, electrical experts and other authorities. The committee will launch upon its task during the present week. Violent disturbances have proven a great annoyance to radio fans since early last fall and, according to scientists here, the forces of interruption are traced directly to the sun.

Sunlight Interferes With Canada

"We already have proof here that sunlight interferes with radio transmission. Experiments have shown that the sun kills or weakens long waves and broadens short waves," Dr. Coates, superintendent of C K Y broadcasting station of Winnipeg, declared in commenting on the recent disturbances.

Dr. C. N. Bell, who has devotd much of his life to the study of this particular question, points out that the atmospheric congestion has coincided with the appearance of peculiar spots on the sun. He firmly believes the phenomena to be closely correlated.

EX-KAISER CELEBRATES HIS BIRTHDAY

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 27.—The black and white Hohenzollern banner floated over the turrets of the former kaiser's residence here today in honor of his 67th birthday and a constant stream of messengers entered, bearing huge baskets of flowers tied with the Dutch and German colors.

A number of ministers arrived in automobiles to be received by the court marshal, who wore gala uniform in honor of the occasion, and entered their names in the congratulatory register kept at the entrance to the lodge.

At 11 o'clock the ex-kaiser with his wife, the Princess Hermin and her daughter, emerged from the lodge for a walk through the village, where they were snapped by a half dozen photographers.

A few passers by doffed their hats, but there was nothing in the shape of a demonstration.

In general, railroad and public utility bonds qualify better than industrial bonds, as investments.

* * *

When a man takes a position at a certain salary, one of the most important features of that job to him is its stability. He does not want to make $50 one month and $300 the next, or he would take the risks of business and strike out for himself.

The same principle applies to investments. Stability is one of the requirements of a gilt edged bond. A corporation cannot earn interest by a wide margin one year and fail to earn it the next if it expects its bonds to have an investment rating.

Earnings of railroads and public utilities are most stable than industrials. They perform a necessary function. Consequently their services are required in both good and bad years. Many industrials do not deal in necessities and the demand for their products is subject to wide variation, which sometimes means extreme fluctuation in earnings.

A bond which reports extreme fluctuations in earnings is as undesirable as an investment as a job which pays a different salary each month.

NO ARSENIC IN CANADIAN APPLES

Spraying Poisons Not Hurting Fruit; Some States Apples Said to Retain Arsenic

OTTAWA, Jan. 27.—Canadian apples are not contaminated with arsenic. Recent complaints that apples grown on this continent often carried a residue of the poisons contained in insecticides used for spraying during their growth has prompted the department of agriculture to make a rigid investigation.

"No trouble has ever arisen over this danger, so far as any one in Canada is aware, through such treatment of apples, and the department is doing all in its power to prevent its happening," the deputy minister, Dr. J. H. Grisdale, stated this morning. It is understood here that the complaints arose because apples grown in some districts in the United States were said to have retained a quantity of arsenic, residue of the paris green spraying solution used in the orchards.

W. S. Borden of Royal, Neb., was burned to death following the explosion of a can of kerosene.

DEER AND ELK ARE TOO NUMEROUS

One State Furnishes Hay to Them From Starvation; Others Shoot Them

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Despite its "great open spaces," the west has congestion problems. Deer and elk overcrowd their ranges. In the Jackson Hole country in Wyoming the size of the elk herds—25,000 to 40,000—is such that when snow drives them from the mountains the forage in the lowlands is not sufficient and many die of starvation. This year in that region the Izaak Walton league, other sportsmen's associations, the National Forest service, stockmen and county and state officials of Wyoming have been supplying hay for the elk.

Another overcrowded—and at present unrelieved—section of the west is in the Kaibab national forest in northern Arizona. Deer in this forest have been protected. So greatly did they increase that forage became insufficient. The 80,000 deer was in a section hemmed in by a part of the canyon of the Colorado river. To relieve the overpopulation an attempt was made a year ago to drive 5000 of the animals across the canyon into other parts of Arizona.

To do this it was necessary to descend the south rim of the great canyon, a mile deep; cross the Colorado river by swimming and then ascend the north rim. From the top of the south rim to the top of the north rim is thirty miles. The man who made a contract with Arizona to perform this feat assembled the best cowboys, but found at the end of the third day that he and his men had attempted the impossible. If is one thing to drive a bunch of cattle or horses, but quite another thing to drive a large herd of deer. The undertaking proved a failure.

Then the government tried the expedient of reducing the number of deer in the Kaibab forest by opening a limited season for shooting. Their operation made no appreciable reduction in the number of the deer.

Last winter fawns and mature deer were captured and shipped to whoever wished to purchase them at a nominal sum. This method of reducing the herds proved unsatisfactory. The deer were hard to capture; many of them died in the crates in which they were shipped.

This autumn the agricultural department again issued orders that, under the supervision of the Forest service, hunters would be permitted to enter the forest and kill a certain number of deer. Governor Hunt of Arizona refused to recognize the authority of the department of agriculture to open the season on deer in the national forest.

$12 to Shoot One Elk

An official of the department of agriculture is now preparing the necessary petition to be filed in an Arizona district court seeking to enjoin the governor from interfering with the plans of the department to deplete the number of deer in the forest by shooting. It is probable that the litigation will require considerable time. It is feated that pending the settlement of this question the herds of deer will lose great numbers through starvation—and the hunters get no venison.

The third crowded space is in Utah. Several years ago Utah found that its elk were in danger of extermination. The state established preserves, stags were imported in numbers and assigned to these preserves, and a closed season of several years was promulgated. The elk increased and have become a nuisance.

No person has as yet devised a wire fence which the elk cannot with ease demolish to get the forbidden forage. As a last recourse the farmers and stockmen called on the state fish and game commissioner. As a result an open season on male elk has been granted to Utah gunners, each being required to pay $12 for a permit to kill one bull elk.

The longest forward pass in football history was recently established by Pooley Hubert when he threw the ball 65 yards to Mack Brown in the Alabama-Washington game. The longest previous completed pass which resulted in a touchdown was made in 1924 when John Levi, of the Haskell Indians, tossed the ball 62 yards to George Kip, who ran only five yards to tally.

ST. GODDARD IS WINNER SECOND DOG DERBY LAP

Beats Boy Musher by Three Minutes; Grayson Quits Because of Dogs

REAL BATTLE FOR THIRD POSITION

Olensky Has Lead; Pelley Wins Freight Race at The Pas

THE PAS, Man., Jan. 27. — Emil St. Goddard, young French-Canadian musher, who is known internationally as the winner of the Quebec and The Pas dog races of 1925, is tonight on his way to a third notable victory. He is the strong favorite for the fourth annual The Pas dog derby this year.

Handling his team of seven hounds in a remarkably fine style today, he covered the 32-mile course on the Saskatchewan river in 3 hours and 15 minutes.

Earl Brydges, the "boy musher" of The Pas, and victor in the 1924 international derby at Quebec, again finished second being 3 minutes behind St. Goddard. Ross Moxley finished third today, and Harry Olensky fourth. Billy Grayson, a veteran of many long-distance races, was forced to withdraw from the race on the last lap of the day. He was unable to control his dry team, and could not keep to the course.

St. Goddard's team, despite the two-days' hard grind, is in excellent condition, and, barring accident, he is considered a sure win tomorrow when the final lap will be run. He has a lead of 3¼ minutes over his nearest rival, Brydges.

St. Goddard's time today was 13 minutes slower than that of Tuesday.

Grayson Causes Surprise

The withdrawal of Grayson was a great surprise to derby followers, but he explained it by saying tonight, "I simply cannot spurt these dogs on a short lap race because they have been trained for a straightaway trail."

Olensky and Moxley staged a great race today, and a real battle for third place is assured tomorrow. Olensky has a lead of 8 minutes on the two-day run.

St. Goddard has his team trained to perfection. They obey every command, and show every indication of being well cared for and treated. He has bred and raised his dogs, and they are a cross between the stag hound and huskies. With the exception of the leader they are all under 19 months old.

Dogs Well Cared For

Like the champion race horse, the racing dogs of the north country are given the most careful attention and treatment. Following the races they received alcoholic massages and the best of nourishment, their menu consisting of choice beef steak, fresh eggs and oat gruel. Great care is taken of their feet, and at the start of today's race many of the dogs wore moccasins.

The 14-mile work dog freight race was won today by Isaac Pelley, who covered the distance in 1 hour and 12 minutes. Bill Winterton, who placed first yesterday, was second, "Belgian" third, and Gilbert MacDonald fourth.

FARRELL TIES GORMAN FOR SKATE TITLE

Stand With Eight Points Apiece in Second Day's Events

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Jan. 27.—O'Neil Farrell of Chicago and Charles Gorman of Saint John, with 80 points each, were tied for first place in the world's skating championship at Lily Lake at the close of the second of the three-days' racing here today. Farrell's showing was the feature of the day. The sensational youngster, skating for his first year in senior company, closed the point difference between himself and the Saint John boy by winning the half and the three-quarter-mile events, while the best that Gorman could do was make second in the three-quarters.

Duke Donovan of Endicott City, N. Y., won the two-mile race, with Willie Logan, Saint John, a close second and Clas Thunberg of Finland, third. The 10 points he got in the two-mile were the only ones the Finn, who won the olympic championship in 1924, has gathered so far in the meet.

During the early part of the program the judges announced that Gorman had been awarded first place in the mile skated yesterday, and protested, after Donovan, who did not qualify for the final, entered the race and crossed the line first.

Summary

Three-quarters mile—Farrell, Chicago; Gorman, Saint John; Murphy, New York—2:26 4-5.

Senior 2-mile—Donovan, Endicott; Logan, Saint John; Thunberg, Finland.

220 yards, senior, ladies—Ruth Muhlmeyer, Chicago; Sibil Beatty, Saint John; Mary Heaton, Saint John, 24 2-5.

Half-mile senior—Farrell, Chicago; Murphy, Chicago; Boyd, New York—43.

Fire Alarm Blamed on Rising Vet!

By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher, S.Y. Giants)

Grover Cleveland Alexander, one of the greatest pitchers of all time, and still shooting 'em over for the Chicago Cubs, has never pitched a no-hit game in the big league. But this hasn't soured him or kept him from telling many a good yarn. Alec gets a big laugh out of a story he got from Joe Cantillon. Joe tells the story on Dave Altizer, one of his veterans on the Minneapolis club. Altizer had played so many years they had lost the records of when he broke in.

"One morning in the hotel," says Alec, "the guests and ballplayers were awakened by a series of shrill whistles and the ringing of bells that produced a weird din. Everybody figured it was the fire alarm and tore out of the rooms into the lobby. It must have been a false alarm as they found Cantillon sitting in the lobby calmly smoking a cigar. In answer to their excited questions he calmly said, 'Oh, that noise! That's nothing. That was just Dave Altizer getting out of bed.'"

PIRATES HAVE BETTER PLAY IN OVERTIME

Defeat Montreal Maroons by Two Goals to One in a Rough Game

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 27.—Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Montreal Maroons in a scheduled engagement of the N. H. L. here this evening by a score of 2 to 1. The game was replete with rough stuff, particularly in the first period. The teams were deadlocked in the initial session, and similarly at the end of the middle period, when each registered one counter. Pittsburgh scored the winning goal in the first overtime period after the third session had also gone scoreless.

There was no denying that Pittsburgh deserved the spoils of victory. It was up against one of the best teams in the league; not once was there a dull moment. The Maroons were constantly in Pittsburgh territory and it was only the elegant goal tending of Worters which staved off defeat for the Pirates.

Summary

First period—No score.

Second period: 1—Pittsburgh, Milks, 5:10; 2—Montreal, Stewart, 12:45.

Third period—No score.

Overtime: 3—Pittsburgh, Darragh, :48.

ROSSLAND AND NELSON CLASH HERE TONIGHT

Fight for League Lead; Bob Thompson in Lineup; to Bring Special

Arriving home on the early train yesterday morning, after defeating the Trail senior sextette to the tune of 5 to 1 on Rossland ice, the Nelson boys rested up for the remainder of the day, and are now ready to take to the ice with the Rossland hockey team tonight at 8:30 o'clock. A lively clash is expected for the Nelson boys are out to climb to first place in the West Kootenay Hockey league standing tonight.

At present Rossland heads the league with one game ahead of Nelson, having won two games and lost one, whereas Nelson has won two and lost two. Should the Nelson aggregation come out on top of tonight's score, they will head the league with the same number of points as Rossland now possesses.

A Special Train

The hockey fans in the Golden City are not allowing their boys to make the trip to Nelson alone, for they have ordered a special hockey train for the affair, and it is understood that a few hundred boosters will accompany the Rossland boys to this city tonight.

Icemaker Bill Glenn took advantage of the cold temperature yesterday, and will have a fairly smooth and hard sheet of ice for the match which will allow for a fast game.

Bob Thompson Nelson forward, who received a cut under the eye only a few moments after he had scored the first goal for Nelson in the clash with Trail at Rossland Tuesday night, reported to Manager Madden yesterday that he will be able to play with the Nelson lineup tonight.

"Arrangements have been made with the city police to throw out any spectator who interferes with play tonight, or goes onto the ice during any argument, or rough argument among players during the game," said Tommy Madden, manager of the Nelson hockey club last night, "and if such a party does not stay out of the arena when ordered out, he might be harshly dealt with."

The lineups are as follows:

CALGARY GOES UPON SCORING BUST AT COAST

Portland Swamped Nine Goals to Two on Home Ice

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 27.—Calgary went on a scoring rampage in their Western Hockey league game with Portland here tonight, and not only defeated the Rosebuds, but smothered them in an avalanche of goals. The score was Calgary 9, Portland 2. After the first period the Tigers prevented the locals from scoring while they added five counters to the four annexed in the initial session.

The second period was 11 minutes and 21 seconds old before the net felt the impact of the rubber. Calgary carried the puck down the ice, and Dutton took possession of it close to Portland goal, shooting from two feet out directly in front. Calgary soon annexed the eighth goal of the night, Gardiner sending the puck into the hemp on a long shot from the Rosebud sectional line. Four counters up, the Tigers played a more defensive game for the remainder of the session.

Just Goal After Goal

Portland opened the scoring before the game was very old. Irvin's shot rebounded from the side of the goal post, hit Winkler in the back and bounded in for the score. Scoring then started with a vengeance. McFarlane dribbled the puck past Traub and Trapp and shot so hard that McCusker did not see it. McFarlane repeated in less than four minutes. Portland next shivered the hemp, a shot from McCormick on a relay from Hay, making the Buds' second goal. Calgary went into the lead when Dutton took a swipe at the rubber from a difficult angle. In a mixup in front of the Portland goal Wilson made it 4 to 2 for Calgary.

In the final period, the "mountain division," Duncan, Gardiner and Dutton got in his work for Calgary. The three Tigers lay back on defence, which the Rosebuds found impenetrable. Portland took many long shots and threw defence to the winds. The period was less than 16 minutes old before the Tigers caged another tally. Duncan sent the shot past McCusker, unassisted. Not satisfied, however, Duncan pushed another into the hemp for the Tigers. Briden took the puck at the faceoff and another score resulted for the Bengals. That was enough.

BOYS MAKES A RECORD BREAK

WINNIPEG, Jan. 27.—Chalking up a century break on his first visit to the table, and running out at night with an unfinished 107, Sid Boys, English billiard champion of British Columbia, overwhelmed Harry Abbott, Alberta champion, 1004 points in their 3000 match up to decide who will oppose Tom Brownlee, provincial champion and winner of the Saskatchewan-Manitoba series, in the western Canadian professional title match. The scores: Boys (in play) 1500; Abbott, 496. Boys made breaks of 117 (all off the red) 107 (unfinished), 91, 81, 76, 71, 57, 54, 49 (twice) 44 and 54 and averaged 26 for the day. Abbott could only retaliate with 42 and 31.

The break of 117 is a record for Canadian professional championship billiards. Abbott is suffering from a slight attack of the "flu" and seemed unable to concentrate on his game.

SLOCAN MINING HAS MADE GOOD, HOLDS TOWGOOD

Predictions Made a Year Ago as to Activity Borne Out

HILLS AROUND SANDON BUSY

Old Silverton Is Coming Back; Kaslo Area Busy

"I told you at the beginning of 1925 that mining was going to be better in the slocan district," remarked S. J. Towgood, veteran Sandon business man, in an interview yesterday. "I feel sure that I did not overestimate, at that time, the amount of work that has been done since. The two big mines of Slocan today are the Silversmith and the Ruth-Hope. One has only to look at the shipping list to know that these two companies are not only producing and developing their mines, but are getting returns for money invested. For sometime the Ruth was unable to ship, owing to the lack of accommodation at Trail. This has been adjusted, and from now on it should be shipping every week.

Leasers Again Do Well

"Leasers have again done well in the last year. This winter cars have been rawhided down from several properties, including the Colonial, Richmond-Eureka, and Hope. There are two cars ready to be shipped from the Surprise mine, Charley Towgood shipping one, and Bruce Kirk and associates another.

"Bruce Kirk has lately taken charge of the Soho mine, above the Rambler-Cariboo. Supplies were taken through to the Soho this winter, and J. C. Ryan, the mainspring of the company, intends to do a lot of work this winter and summer.

Corinth Developing

"Another concern that operated all last year was the Corinth Mining company. It worked all last summer and winter, supplies were packed up in good time. The road has been kept open all winter. I am not in a position to give out any future plans, but am told by the manager that they intend to do extensive work next summer. The shipment they made in the fall was better than expected. The people behind this company are among the best in the United States, so one feels that every effort will be made to make this mine a success. It is above the famous Queen Bess and has to be operated from that side of the mountain. A baby tram from the mine to the Alamo wagon road, until the tram is fixed, would simplify and lessen the costs of transportation, which is one of the mine's biggest problems. They have the ore, clean ore, and it can be hauled at a profit, but there are large bodies of milling ore in sight and which cannot be transported at a profit under present conditions.

"The leasers at the old Ivanhoe mine will have a car to ship this winter.

"Above this is the Canadian group, owned by Brandon Brothers of Silverton. Several parties have been experting this property and next summer something will be doing.

On Reco Mill

"I am at a loss to understand why the Noble Five mine at Cody is lying idle. The ore is there, and it seems to me that if certain people could get together we would soon have one of the biggest properties in the Slocan working, not only with profit to themselves, but to the whole Slocan.

"I. M. Harris is quietly working his properties on the same hill, which is known to old-timers as one of the richest hills around Sandon.

"A property not worked for a long while is the Goodenough mine, just below the Reco. Big dividends were paid from this property in the old days and in my opinion it is one of the best prospects in the Slocan today

Silverton and Kaslo Hum

"A certain party once made the break that we would see the grass grow on Silverton's streets. He was quite correct, but times have changed. Mining has taken a new lease of life in good old Silverton; the Galena Farm has been taken over by a big company, the Hewitt mine by another. The Van Roi operated by C. Cunningham, has a splendid showing, and numerous other properties around Silverton which I am not in touch with.

Are Showing Activity

"Looking toward Kaslo, we have the Lucky Jim making shipments every week and the Whitewater is holding its end up.

"Altogether, looking back on last year, I feel we have gone ahead very fast in good clean mining. I feel sure that by the end of 1926 there will be a better tale to tell of the prosperity of the Slocan mining district.

"I understand the Lardeau is likely to open up. I have been through their country, and know they have the mines. Transportation is against them. If that is overcome they have a very rich and untouched mining district to give money to investors and work for hundreds of people."

FOUR PENS SHOW GAINS ON LEADER

Chalmers' Pen Has Only a Lead of 7.4 Points Now

While the ranking of the first three places remain the same as last week, the big feature in the 11th week of the egg-laying contest at Agassiz is the remarkable gains made by the second and third pens on J. Chalmers' White Leghorns, in first place. Last week Chalmers' hens led by 14.5 points, but reports this week show that the second and third pens have gained until there is only 7.4 points' difference in first and second places and 2.3 points between second and third pens.

Chalmers' hens now have 493.5 points scored on 520 valid eggs. Simpson & Holland's White Leghorns still stand in second place with 486.1 points scored on 507 valid eggs, and F. W. Appleby's White Leghorns still remain in third place with 483.8 points scored on 454 valid eggs. The fourth and fifth pens also show gains on the leading pen. E. S. Flowerdew's Leghorns are in fourth place with 478.3 points, and are closely followed by the Bolivar farm's pen, with has 477.5 points.

Weight Counts

Another feature of the week's report is that while the Bolivar farm's hens had to lay 519 eggs to obtain 477.5 points, Chalmers' pen only had to lay one egg more to make 493.5 eggs, which shows the Chalmers' eggs to have been the heavier. Again, Appleby's pen only had to lay 454 eggs to score 483.8 points, 65 eggs less than the Bolivar farm hens laid, and yet Appleby's pen has 6.3 points more than the Bolivar farm pen.

The production of eggs during the 11 weeks is now 58.79 per cent, showing a gain of 6.18 per cent above last week's production.

The following are the figures for the 11th week:

SCHOOL BOARD LOOKS COYLY AT ESTIMATES

Will Finally Grapple With Them the Middle of February

STENOGRAPHER COG AT HIGH SCHOOL

Trustees Adopt Winter and Summer Schedule for Sessions

A preliminary canter with the estimates, to the extent of a few desultory remarks, marked last night's school board session, when the trustees had before them figures of costs. The estimates do not have to be officially adopted until February 14, and it was decided to have the grand wrestle with them on February 13, to which date the board adjourned.

Trustee D. StDenis inquired of L. V. Rogers, high school principal, if some of the stenographic work of his office could not be done by pupils of the commercial department.

Stenographer Earns Salary

Among reasons advanced by Mr. Rogers for a negative reply were that the pupils were not accomplished typists, that even if they wanted to do the work their teacher rightly would not let them touch the typewriter except in their training, and that pupils could hardly be given the typing of examination papers upon which other pupils were to write. Mr. Rogers said that if he worked three hours a day longer he could not do the work done by his stenographer in preparing test papers, and that was but a part of her work. He mentioned that Inspector DeLong gave much of the credit for the standing of this high school to the organization for keeping tab on the work of teachers and pupils by these tests.

Trustee StDenis said he did not mean by his question to imply that he was willing to do away with the stenographer, but had in mind possible practical work for the commercial pupils for their benefit.

Rearrange High School Fees

High school fees for city pupils came under discussion, and Trustee StDenis observed that it amounted to charging a pupil $1 a month for being smarter than the majority. He could see no difference between sending a boy to Central school and sending him to high school.

Trustee Ross Fleming said he looked on the high school as being more or less a vocational institution.

That the legislature decided otherwise, was the comment of Principal Rogers.

It was decided to continue to charge high school fees, and on motion of Trustee W. R. Campion a plan suggested by Principal Rogers, of charging $2 per subject, was adopted for 1926. Under this plan, as all branches of mathematics will be grouped as one subject, all English branches as one, and so forth, the maximum any pupil will have to pay will be $10 a year.

On motion of Trustee StDenis, the secretary was authorized to buy temporary supplies for high school tests, pending the estimates.

The board will enjoy a contribution from the department, equal to half the sum spent on laboratory equipment last year, and a claim also exsists on account of physics supplies purchased last year, Mr. Rogers informed the board.

Board Fixes Dates

It was decided to hold the board meetings on the second Wednesday of the month during the "winter season," and on the second Tuesday of the month during the "summer season," this idea being the child of Trustee Fleming's brain. According to Trustee Fleming's definition, only for school board purposes, winter will be deemed to begin with October and end with March, while summer will last from April to September.

Certain matters to be placed before the board in regard to salaries, by Principal H. McArthur of Central school, and Dr. E. C. Arthur, the board's medical health officer, were taken up in committee after adjournment of the regular meeting.

Those present were Chairman John Notman, Trustees F. R. Jelfs, Ross Fleming, W. R. Campion and D. StDenis, Secretary F. L. Irwin, Principals L. V. Rogers, H. McArthur, C. E. Sparkes and Dr. E. C. Arthur.

ORGANIZATION IS GREATLY ALTERED

Conventions Triennial in Future With General Executive

At the four-day convention of the Baptist Union of Western Canada, which closed at Edmonton Monday, the delegates decided to concentrate efforts for 1926 on the work already established in the west, as many weak churches were in need of a helping hand, Rev. J. E. Tyner of the Nelson Baptist church stated last night. Mr. Tyner arrived home Tuesday night.

Constitution of Executive

It used to be the custom of the union to meet in convention every year, but two years ago a biennial system was arranged.

The convention just concluded made a radical change in organization, adopting a triennial system, which will call for a general delegate convention only once in three years.

Under the reorganization, the union, between conventions, will be represented by a president, secretary and committee of 16, four from each province to be appointed by the provincial convention, two members of the four from the regular convention of each province, one from the women's convention, and one from the young people. The mission superintendent of the province and the director of Sunday school work will be advisory members of the provincial committees. These 18 persons will form the executive of the union.

The fall convention will be held in January, 1929, and will be composed of delegates appointed directly by the churches, three for the first 100 members or fraction thereof, and one for every additional 100.

Big Year in Missions

The convention reported 1925 as being one of the most successful years of the denomination in the west, there being over $150,000 raised for mission work, and a surplus at the end of the year of nearly $10,000.

During the past year there were 1260 baptisms in western Canada and in India approximately 200 were baptised by the 18 Baptist missionaries working in that country.

Two notable men at the convention were Dr. Joan MacNeil of Walmer Road, Toronto, who gave a devotional address every morning of the five days of the convention, and Dr. David Bobington, new president of the Brandon college, who gave two great addresses, one on education and the other on religious ideas of today. He stated that a great many men of today had no place for the church, but nevertheless respected and honored Christ.

The delegates from Nelson, besides Mr. Tyner, were Dr. and Mrs. N. Wolverton. One delegate was present from Cranbrook, making four from the Kootenays. Vancouver sent 22 delegates.

Kimberley Vagrant Is Given a Month With Hard Labor

James Choppey was lodged in the provincial jail here after having been brought in from Kimberley by Provincial Constable Nelson. He was arrested at Kimberley and brought before M. P. Halpin, justice of the peace, charged with vagrancy.

He was sentenced to one month imprisonment with hard labor.
