STORM TAKES TWO LIVES IN NEWFOUNDLAND

Boy Swept Into Reservoir; Captain Washed Overboard From Boat

SHIP'S CREW IS SAVED IN ATLANTIC

Rescue Ships Delayed in Heavy Seas; Others Disabled

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Oct. 26.—Partial restoration of telephone and telegraphic commication with outside points brought in today the first news of the tragedies resulting from the hurricane which struck Newfoundland over the week-end and caused at least two deaths, heavy losses to shipping and disrupted public service in many places.

According to the meager reports reaching the city today, James Jackman, a 13-year-old youth and Captain Voiz of a French liquor carrying schooner St. Pierre, and St. Louis, were victims of the gale and two schooners were wrecked. The Jackman boy was blown into a reservoir at Bell island and drowned before aid could reach him. Captain Voiz was washed overboard from the St. Pierre and St. Louis just before the vessel stranded at Lamatine. No details of the stranding were available tonight but it is believed the remainder of the crew escaped. The vessel was bound for St. Pierre, presumably from a French port.

A report from Bona Vista stated that another vessel, the Alma Guy was a total loss on the rocks there. No details were given. The coal carrying schooner, Carrie and Nellie which stranded on the rocks at Fermeuse, Saturday floated off with the tide yesterday.

Rescue in Mid-Atlantic

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The rescue of 32 members of a disabled steamer, damage to other vessels and delays in the arrival of seven trans-Atlantic liners were among the consequences of the storm in the north Atlantic during the week-end.

Huge seas whipped by gales disabled the Norwegian steamer Elven bound from Rotterdam to Sydney in midocean and the steamship American Trader went to the rescue today. Captain Fish, of the latter vessel, found the Elven helpless, with its steering gear broken and its boats carried away.

The crew of the Elven was taken off and the American Trader continued toward the port.

The Elven was one of the ships which went off their courses last week to aid the foundering Italian freighter Ignazio Florio. The 28 survivors of the Italian vessel are bound for New York on the U. S. liner President Harding, which was further delayed by the storm and is not expected until tomorrow.

The paddle wheel of the Fall River line passenger ship Commonwealth was disabled late last night between Point Judith and Watch Hill, R.I. After riding out the night at anchor she was towed to Newport today. Five hundred passengers were sent to New York by special train.

Bishop Doull's Son Now Recovering From Recent Injury

CALGARY, Oct. 26. — Bishop Doull, of the Kootenay, received word today that his son, Alexander Keith, McGill university student, who was seriously injured in a rugby game a week ago, is recovering and out of danger. The bishop is leaving tonight for Kootenay.

Appeals to Stop Fee-Splitting by Surgeons, Physicians

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—An appeal to stop the practice of surgeons splitting their fees with physicians who send them patients, was made today by Dr. J. S. McEachern, surgeon of the Calgary general and Holy Cross hospitals at the opening session of the fifteenth annual clinical congress of the American College of physicians. He denounced the fee-splitters, declaring that there was no use in the college creating standards for hospitals when fee-splitters were harbored in those hospitals. As a remedy he suggested that expulsion from the college be the penalty for those proven to have divided fees.

King Tut's Tomb Again Opened; New Portion Is Located

LONDON, Oct. 26.—A Cairo dispatch to the Daily Mail says it is officially announced that Tutankhamen's tomb was reopened October 12 in the presence of Egyptian officials. The lid of the sarcophagus was lifted revealing another sarcophagus on which lay a thin linen covering several bouquets of flowers in a good state of preservation.

SHOOTS UP FAMILY THEN KILLS SELF

Lover Kills Farmer, Wounds Housekeeper and Daughter, Then Shoots Self

STURBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 26.—Eugene Holden, 60-year-old farmer, lies dead, his housekeeper, Mary Tiffany, 43, is dying at the hospital of bullet wounds in her abdomen, and her 20-year-old daughter is suffering from wounds in the abdomen, left chest and ear following an altercation, punctuated with pistol and rifle shots at the Holden farm last night. Eugene Brown, 47, who fired the bullets and kept the Holden house in a state of terror throughout the night, ended his own life today with a bullet.

The state police patrol declares Brown had been paying attention to Miss Tiffany, and came to the house last night and asked her to accompany him to his house. This the girl refused to do, and the fatal altercation ensued.

KING DENIES HE PAID MONIES TO MASSEY-HARRIS

Just Election Rumor, Says Premier; Not Cent Canadian Money Paid

QUEENSVILLE, Ont., Oct. 26.—Premier King denied the rumor today that his government had paid huge sums of government money to the Massey-Harris company of Toronto. The rumor, it was claimed, was also to the effect that this had been the price of Hon. Mr. Massey's entrance into the cabinet. The premier explained that during the war the Germans had seized Massey-Harris property in Germany. Also the Canadian government had sequestered German property and securities in Canada. Mr. King explained that following the war an international court had decided what damages the Massey-Harris company was entitled to. These damages had been in part out of the German securities which had been sequestered in Canada. The premier stated that not a cent of the Canadian taxpayers' money had been paid the Massey-Harris company. The greater part of the payment had been distributed when Mr. Meighen was in power. The present government had continued these payments from the German funds in exactly the same manner as started by Mr. Meighen. Mr. King added that the report was simply another of those astonishing election rumors which no sane person could credit.

It had been a source of pride, said Mr. King, that the people of the constituency which had returned his grandfather had seen fit to similarly honor him. "North York has always been the cradle of reform and the center of political battles," he said.

Dawson Mining Equipment Goes to Malay Tin Fields

DAWSON, Y.T., Oct. 26.—Transfer of mining engineers and equipment of the Yukon Gold company, limited, under which name the Guggenheim interests of New York have been operating near Dawson, to the Malay peninsula, where the firm has large tin mines, is now proceeding and will be completed shortly, it is expected.

The closing down of the camp, which has produced much of the gold taken out of the district in recent years, and employed a large number of men, is considered here as a serious loss to the Yukon.

Alleged Bandit Caught on Boat Escaped in China

VICTORIA, Oct. 26.—The stowaway captured in mid-Pacific on the Japanese freighter Yokohama Maru believed to be James Burns, alias Gambertoli, a Seattle jail breaker, wanted by the British Columbia provincial police as a suspected Nanaimo bank robbery bandit, escaped from the vessel at Shanghai, according to a cable received here today, from the Hongkong police.

The provincial police expressed surprise at the escape, as the man previously had been reported held in irons on the ship, but thought he would soon be recaptured.

Girl Foils Attempt at Robbery by New York Bandits

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—A payroll of more than $3000 was saved today by Miss Lillian Kaplan, cashier of the Finklestein Coal company, who threw the money in a safe and twirled the combination as three armed robbers entered the office on the fourteenth story of a west side building. The men bound Miss Kaplan, another girl and a clerk, to chairs, and threatened Miss Kaplan's life unless she opened the safe. The girls screamed and fainted, and the men ran. One of them, James Di Angelo, 25, was arrested on the roof of the building.

OVER THOUSAND IN GAMBLING FINES

KING IS GIVEN GREAT WELCOME AT CRANBROOK

Minister of Public Works Talks to Three Crowded Meetings

OVER HUNDRED FROM KIMBERLEY

Criticizes Meighen's 'Blue Ruin' and 'Whisper of Death' Utterances

CRANBROOK, Oct. 26.—Hon. J. H. King, M.D., minister of public works, appeared in this, his western home city, tonight at a final Liberal party rally. Dr. King was welcomed on this occasion by several hundred of his fellow townspeople in a rousing manner. It was his first public appearance in Cranbrook since the nominating convention early in September. The keen interest aroused in this city in tonight's appearance of the minister of public works was apparent from the fact that in addition to the auditorium is was necessary to hold overflow meetings in two other halls.

Kimberley, the famous mining town 18 miles north of here, was represented by a delegation over 100 strong.

Mrs. Eva McKeowan, eminent local authoress, was the first speaker. Mrs. McKeowan was greeted with enthusiastic applause when she paid a high tribute of praise for the great success achieved by a fellow townsman, Hon. Dr. King. The speaker directed attention to the fact that always Dr. King had been given substantial majorities in Cranbrook, notwithstanding the onservatives' claim to the contrary.

Majority Same as Ever

"The majority Dr. King will receive in this election will be just as great as ever, I am free to say," said Mrs. McKeowan. "It has less and less to do with platforms and policies than the man himself."

Hon. Dr. King warmly congratulated his hearers on their kindness in turning out to hear his report of his stewardship as member for Kootenay East and minister of public works. Answering what he termed the mild criticism for not devoting more time here, Dr. King reminded the audience that his duties in public life required his personal attention from Sidney, N.S., to Vancouver, B.C.

"Consider when I am the minister in the government for this

LIGHTS GO OUT; REVOLVERS BARK

General Uproar at Premier Taschereau's Quebec Political Meeting

QUEBEC, Oct. 26.—The sudden severing of electric wiring which threw the place into utter darkness while Premier Taschereau was speaking, followed by revolver shots, stone throwing and general pandemonium, made a political meeting at Chateau Richer in Charlevoix county without precedent in the history of that constituency.

The meeting was held in the interests of P. F. Casgrain, Liberal candidate, who had the support of the prime minister of the province of Quebec. It was while Mr. Taschereau was adressing the crowd that all the lights suddenly went out. A battle royal ensued in the darkness and after stones had been heaved in the direction of the platform the sudden barking of a revolver broke out above the din. The shots were answered by other weapons outside the building whose owners, according to accounts of the evening, began taking "pot shots" at passing automobiles. When the uproar was at its height and it seemed certain there must be many serious casualties, the wiring was repaired and the flood of light brought the turmoil to a close.

Pearl Divers Suffered Losses in Persian Storm

BASRA, Irak, Oct. 26.—Conflicting reports are being brought in concerning the cyclone which swept the Bahrein island in the Persian gulf. The first account of the storm brought in by the Indian merchant ship Lawrence stated that 7000 lives were lost and that 200 pearl fishing vessels were missing. A later report is that 1000 lives were lost and 70 boats destroyed. The cyclone visited virtually all parts of the Persian gulf. The British sloop Cyclamen went to the aid of some of the pearl fishers, but could do nothing. It was forced to witness the destruction of the boats. The casualties were mainly among pearl divers. An earthquake accompanied by the storm was the worst in the memory of the inhabitants. Three inches of rain fell in an hour on the island of Henjam, being equivalent to the usual yearly fall.

BODY FOUND IN BLOODY AUTOMOBILE

WINNIPEG, Oct. 26.—Brutally murdered, the body of Louis Landy was found in a blood-spattered automobile at Kenora park, a short distance north of this city, today. No clue to the assailant has been found, but there was evidence of a terrific struggle.

Dr. King Addresses Closing Remarks to the East Kootenay Electors

CRANBROOK, B. C., Oct. 26.—Dr. J. H. King, federal minister of public works and Liberal candidate in East Kootenay, tonight issued the following manifesto to the electors:

"On October 29th you will as citizens have a serious duty to perform in deciding who is to represent you in parliament at Ottawa for the next four or five years. I have given the people of East Kootenay a full review of what I as your representative have accomplished during my term as minister of public works, and also as to what the government has done for the people of British Columbia and Canada as a whole. I have shown by figures furnished by responsible officials that when the Mackenzie King government assumed office in 1921 the country was faced with a deficit of $81,000,000. I have also shown that by the strictest economies the government reduced national expenditures by many millions of dollars; reduced the national debt; reduced taxation, including the income and sales taxes. The government also undertook an aggressive selective immigration program. It passed legislation stimulating the basic industries of agriculture, lumbering, mining and fishing. Canada's trade balance for the past year was the most favorable in many years, resulting in the Canadian dollar being the most valuable of any in the world. In direct contrast, the Conservative policy is pledged to a higher tariff or higher taxation, a reduction of the British preference, and the placing of a high duty on coal and lumber, which would mean the ruination or wiping out of these industries in the Fernie and East Kootenay district.

"All things considered, I am firmly of the belief that the interests of the people of East Kootenay and of the Province of British Columbia will be best served by returning the Mackenzie King government to office, and by so doing ensure the prosperity and solidarity of Canadian nationality.

"I therefore respectfully solicit your support on my behalf on October 29th."

LEAGUE ORDERS GREEK - BULGAR FORCES HALT

Must Within 24 Hours Order Troops to Own Territory

FIRST TIME COUNCIL HAS GONE SO FAR

Officials of Warring Countries Agree to Proposals Put Forth

PARIS, Oct. 26.—The council of the League of Nations tonight delivered what is virtually an ultimatum to Greece and Bulgaria that they must unconditionally and within 24 hours order all their troops to retire behind their respective frontiers. It is the first time since the birth of the league that the council has gone so far. Its action constitutes the supreme test of the league's power to break up war. It was carried out in a tense atmosphere in the crowded clock hall of the foreign office and was accompanied by an admonition from Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary that it would be an intolerable thing—"indeed, an affront to civilization"—if with all the machinery of the league at their disposal and the council ever ready with its good offices, frontier incidents like those between Greece and Bulgaria should lead to warlike operations instead of being submitted for peaceful adjustment to the council, which would always safeguard the honor and interests of the nations involved.

The resolution was framed by Mr. Chamberlain after the Greek representative, M. Carapanos had told the council that the Greek troops would evacuate Bulgarian soil as soon as all the Bulgarians are not on Greek soil at all.

Sixty Hours for Assurance

It declared that the council was not satisfied that military operations had ceased and that the troops had been withdrawn, and after fixing a 24-hour limit for the issuance of instructions for such withdrawal, the council fixed 60 hours for assurance of the fulfillment of the orders.

All the troops must be warned that resumption of firing will be visited with severe punishment and both governments, Athens and Sofia must give all facilities to the military offices of Great Britain, France and Italy, who will immediately repair to the war zone and report to the council whether the council's edict has been carried out. "And let it be carefully understood," said M. Briand, that this time limit runs from now. It will not suffice to retire to the special frontiers; there must be no shooting from the frontiers."

M. Morloff, representing Bulgaria, said quietly, "My government authorizes me to conform unconditionally to any invitation addressed to it."

M. Carapanos, like M. Morloff, seemed to shrink under the council's implied condemnation. "I have no objections," he said almost inaudibly, "but I must transmit the details to Athens. I think my government will comply."

Council Chamber Crowded

The council chamber was packed to the doors. A large number of prominent French women attended while the notable figures present included M. Louceneur, M. Boncour and the diplomatic representation of a large number of states not represented in the council.

PREMIER DENIES TAXES FOR SUMAS

Oliver Denies Taxpayers to Shoulder Burden; Recommends Committee

VICTORIA, Oct. 26.—Reports that the Oliver government intends to place part of the cost of the Sumas reclamation scheme on the taxpayers of British Columbia were denied tonight by Premier Oliver, who said, however, that he would recommend that the whole question be considered by a special committee of the legislature at the fall session, which opens next Monday. "But," the premier added, "I have never suggested that the province take over part of the cost of the Sumas scheme, which was carried out for the benefit of the landowners involved."

Turkey Refuses to Attend Session Court of Justice

THE HAGUE, Oct. 26.—Turkey has refused to attend the extraordinary session of the permanent court of international justice, which today began consideration of the Anglo-Turkish dispute over Mosul.

A telegram which the Angora government sent to the court declares that the questions submitted to the court are of a distinctly political character and cannot form the subject for legal interpretation.

Deputy Returning Officer Is Found Guilty of Perjury

INGERSOLL, Ont., Oct. 26.—A. F. Todd of Beachville, a deputy returning officer, in the present election was found guilty Saturday of perjury in registering seven French-Canadian Canadian National railway linemen on the south Oxford votrs' list. Sentence was suspended on payment of costs. The action against Todd was laid at the instigation of Donald Sutherland, Conservative candidate.

COL. HATCH CHARGED SLANDER BY KING

Supreme Court Writ Issued; Newspaper Assumes Liability, Is Report

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 26. — Acting on the instructions of Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, which he received last Thursday, Henry Carpenter, Hamilton barrister, today issued a supreme court writ against Col. Arthur F. Hatch of Hamilton, who is charged in the document with slandering the prime minister by reason of a statement credited to him at a recent meeting of the Conservatives of Ward 8 of this city.

The statement credited to Colonel Hatch in a published report was to the effect that he had declared that Hon. Mr. King, when the great war broke out, went to the United States and there applied for and secured papers which made him an American citizen. The newspaper which carried the reported statement credited to Colonel Hatch, but denied by him, has published a statement in which it assumes responsibility and declares it "has satisfied itself, after careful inquiry, that Col. A. F. Hatch did not make the statement attributed to him."

CAILLAUX HAS OWN WAY WITH CABINET MEN

Cabinet Against Its Will Considers His Financial Project

PARIS, Oct. 26.—M. Caillaux who on Saturday was generally considered politically a man of the past, showed today that he was still a factor of the present by obliging the cabinet, against its will, to take into consideration his financial project before adopting the socialists policies approved by the radical party at Nice.

Asked by Premier Painleve, the man who brought him back to public life to hand in his resignation, M. Caillaux stoutly refused. He declared that if the cabinet resigned and was reconstituted without him on a platform involving a capital levy, he would overthrow it in parliament.

The measures which the finance minister forced upon the consideration of the cabinet are based upon the organization of an amortization commission which would have charge of the issue of paper money, short term bonds, regarded as belonging in the same category, and the accumulation of a sinking fund to guarantee the retirement of any new issue of bank notes and the payment of the interior and exterior debts. The amortization commission would have also the duty of preventing the total circulation and the floating debt ever exceeding the present limit.

The finance minister's resolute attitude upset all the calculations of the premier and the majority of the cabinet who, averse to hearing his new projects for financial restoration, were forced to give way and postpone their final decision until the proposed measure had been passed upon.

Caillaux "Hard Boiled"

"Monsieur Caillaux is a hard morsel," said one minister after the cabinet meeting. "What is called in America hard boiled."

This morning's session of the cabinet was one of the stormiest on record. Its echoes reached the lobby where the correspondents waited for news. M. Caillaux not only declared war on what he called the "monied coalition," which was fighting him, but demanded of the minister of justice that action be taken against French bankers, who he said, according to information received through diplomatic channels, had been adding to the difficulties of the hour selling francs short in the foreign markets.

The fate of the cabinet will probably be decided at a meeting of the ministers tomorrow.

SPENCE'S BRIDGE, Oct. 26.—Running into a rock slide at the entrance to a tunnel near Hell's Gate canyon on the banks of the Fraser river, the locomotive of the westbound Canadian National passenger train, No. 1, was badly smashed early this morning, but no injuries were sustained by passengers or trainmen. The train was rerouted to Vancouver over the Canadian Pacific line.

CANADA'S MILITIA GRANTED HOLIDAY

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.—Canada's permanent military force is to have a half holiday on election day. A telegram was dispatched from the defence department today to the district officers commanding the military districts throughout the Dominion granting such a holiday.

BODIES FOUND HACKED BY AN AXE, MONTREAL

Banker and Wife Brutally Murdered; Money in Bank Intact

LITTLE HOUSE IN GREAT DISORDER

Bodies There Over Week-End; Villagers Make Gruesome Find; Was Battle

MONTREAL, Oct. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bernard, aged 50 and 45, respectively, were found murdered in their home in Rougemont, Que., 25 miles from Montreal, at an early hour this morning. Mr. Barnard was the manager of the Branch of La Banque Canadienne Nationale at Rougemont, which adjoins their home. The bodies were horribly gashed, presumably with an axe. Mr. Bernard's body was found at the foot of the stairway, leading to the street and Mrs. Bernard's was found horribly mutilated behind her bed in her boudoir.

The house had appeared vacant since Friday night and the bank did not open for business for usual on Saturday. It was thought that Mr. Bernard had been called out of town, but one of the neighbors, becoming curious, crawled in a window of the Bernard home this morning and discovered the tragedy. The dead couple had lived in Rougemont for four years coming originally from Montreal, and have one child, a daughter, living in the United States.

An inquest will be held this afternoon.

Montreal officials of La Banque Canadienne Nationale report after investigation that the money in the branch at Rougemont remains intact.

Everything Broken Up

The little house was in great disorder upstairs. A bed several chairs and other furniture were smashed, while a stove pipe lay upon the floor, badly bent as though it had been struck with a heavy, blunt instrument. Bed clothes, torn to shreds, lay all about the upper floor, and the deep marks of an axe on floors, walls and furniture, showed where blows had been aimed. Practically every picture in the room had been broken to atoms and the glass strewn in all directions.

The tracks of the murderer, or murderers, were discovered leading from the cellar door through an orchard and fields for several hundred yards, spattered with blood stains.

The sum of $3000 in cash was found in the safe in the downstairs office, no attempt evidently having been made to obtain it. Officials of the bank stated that Mr. Bernard's accounts were in perfect order.

Deed During Storm

The double murder must have been committed on the night between Friday and Saturday, during the severe storm that was raging in the vicinity, otherwise the noise of the struggle would undoubtedly have been heard by neighbors. The assassin or assassins gained access to the Bernard home through a cellar window which was discovered broken.

An inquest was held a few hours after the discovery of the crime, the jury giving a verdict that the couple had been murdered by "person or persons unknown."

Husband Battled Gamely

Most of the evidence points to Bernard having battled with all his power against the invader in an attempt to protect himself and his wife and that the murderer did not escape without injuries is proved by the blood stains leading away from the house. With the exception of this significant trail, however, which can only be traced for about several hundred yards, detectives were late tonight without any tangible clue as to the identity and whereabouts of the assassin.

When the villagers broke into the house, this morning a small spaniel rushed away into the field, apparently crazed. It had evently been shut up with the bodies over the week-end. In a room next to that in which the body of Mrs. Bernard was found a canary. It was singing in the cage when the searchers mounted the stairs.

Halifax, Nova Scotia.—"I am a maternity nurse and have recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to many women who were childless, also to women who need a good tonic. I am English and my husband is American, and he told me of Lydia E. Pinkham while in England. I would appreciate a copy or two of your little books on women's ailments. I have one which I keep to lend. I will willingly answer letters from any woman asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. S. M. COLEMAN, 24 Uniacke Street, Halifax, Nova Scotia.

AND THEIR CHILDREN

CALLING THE CHILDREN

One Mother says:

In the section of the town in which we live the children congregate on some vacant lots to play ball. As they are too far away for me to call them, my husband has fixed a call bell. At one of the railroad shops he secured an old engine bell and hung it at our back door. This can be heard for several blocks, and with a code of rings I can now call one child, or all of them, as I wish.

Mr. Chas A Berryman, Grocer, Wilson & Emerald Sts, Hamilton, says:—

"A badly sprained shoulder put me out of business for a time. The least turn or twist of the body caused torturing pain and I couldn't raise the arm, even to use the 'phone.

"Three different liniments were used for bathing and rubbing my shoulder, but for all the good, I might just as well have used water. At last I tried Zam-Buk. My wife rubbed this balm well into the shoulder morning and night. In a couple of days I felt great improvement. In a week Zam-Buk drove out all pain and made the shoulder sound and strong as ever."

Used for anything from minor pimples and rashes, cuts or burns to stubborn cases of eczema, or poisoned wounds, Zam-Buk gives equally good results.

KING IS GIVEN GREAT WELCOME AT CRANBROOK

province, East Kootenay, is one constituency out of 14 in British Columbia, each one of which has to be given attention," said Dr. King, "and particularly in this election, which I will show you is the most important to the Canadian people, not for the government, but for the Canadian people in history.

Meighen's Reverse Attitude

Dr. King reviewed the result of the last general election and the campaign utterances of Hon. Arthur Meighen. Dr. King characterized these as "blue ruin" and "whisperings of death." Mr. Meighen in preaching high protection now was different to what he had said in 1920, said Dr. King. "At that time the Conservative leader is on record in Hansard as follows," continued Dr. King:

"Canada can never prosper under high tariff for the reason that high tariff is unsound in principle, as it stands to eliminate one of the factors of competition, nothing but a moderate tariff under any conditions would be satisfactory."

"That was Mr. Meighen's policy in 1920," reminded Dr. King, and his reason for now completely reversing his attitude on the policy of tariff is not made clear, unless it is that Mr. Meighen has been defeated since that time, said Dr. King, and is now reaching out with what he hopes to be a means of deluding the Canadian people into electing him to power.

Meighen Unreliable, Inconsistent

The acquisition of the Canadian National railways had been a heavy burden, but nothwithstanding the government under Premier Mackenzie King through reorganization of the management and other economies in the last few years, some 60 millions of dollars had accrued in operating surpluses. This did not include the financial tribute endured through loans to the National railway taken over by Mr. Meighen, said Dr. King.

"Our railways burden is greater than the war burden."

Dr. King characterized Mr. Meighen as unreliable and decidedly inconsistent. Speaking in the various parts of the country he catered to the delight of individual communities, declared the minister, and in this manner propounded a policy of sectionalism.

"Canada under Mackenzie King," said Dr. King, "is going to prosper as a united Dominion, and the greatest Dominion in the British Empire."

Applaud for Dollar Standing

Loud applause greeted the statement that within very recent days the Canadian dollar was the most valuable in the world. This condition was solely att ibutable to the present favorable balance of trade, said Dr. King.

In answer to the statement of Mr. Meighen that 2000 manufacturers had gone out of business in Canada, as an illustration that the Mackenzie King government had destroyed protection of Canadian industry, the prime minister said he had repeatedly challenged Mr. Meighen to substantiate the statement by giving a list of the manufacturers failing, but so far no authentication was forthcoming. Canadian industry was today sound, said Dr. King, and under the tariff adjustment of the Liberal government the basic industries of agriculture, lumbering, mining and fishing had benefitted.

Advancement Promoted

Continuation of this policy would promote advancement in all industry. Dealing with immigration to the United States, Dr. King argued that this was greatly exaggerated by the Conservative leaders. This great eflux was not actually the case by any means. Canadians moving to the United States were attracted there by the wave of commercial prosperity, which, however, already was subsiding and artisans were again returning to their Canadian homes.

Dr. King denounced the arguments of political opponents suggesting there was possibility of annexation. The Meighen tariff policy of 50 per cent, or brick by brick, would close the collieries of Fernie, Michel and Corbin, which would ultimately and indirectly affect Cranbrook and other neighboring Crow's Nest pass towns. Dr. King told the railway workers of Cranbrook, the prime minister was now, and always had been, a stalwart friend of the worker.

Record a Clear One

His record in this respect was clear. Dr. King, in concluding his appeal for the vote of his fellow townspeople, said by so doing the electors of East Kootenay would be lending strength to his hand as minister at Ottawa, with possible advantage not only to the people of this constituency, but the people of British Columbia, the people of western Canada, and he hoped the people of Canada as well.

Colonel Thompson of Ottawa, ex-Mayor H. Gale of Vancouver, and Mrs. Dr. Miles of Cranbrook were other speakers, all of whom contributed eulogies to Hon. Dr. King, wherein he was characterized as a most amiable, most reliable and most energetic and hard working of Canada's public citizens.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxine powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

CHAPTER LXXIV

Salving A Fortune

In the hasty, yet careful reckoning up of chances which he made as soon as his victim was dead Mr. William Kedgin came to the conclusion that it would be some time before her body was discovered in the empty house. He considered that there were two things in his favor. The first was that when Shrewsbury's rooms came to be found empty, the impression would be given that he, Kedgin, had helped Mrs. Walsingham to escape, and that the police would give all their attention to her and none to the place which had harbored her for the night—therefore, some little time would necessarily elapse before suspicion would rest on him for the theft of his master's property. The second—and perhaps more important one—was that he saw no immediate prospect of any examination of the empty house. Kedgin knew all about that house; he had made himself master of it and its history as soon as he came to reside under Richard's roof. He knew it as a poor old derelict, left to itself until the housebreakers were ready to demolish it, and that event was not yet to come off. He foresaw no posibility of its being entered at once, of the immediate discovery of the body of the woman upon whom he had turned as he led her down the dark stairs, and accordingly believed that he had a clear and a serviceable start of the hounds of justice which would sooner or later be let loose on his track. His preparations had already been made—made before Sylvie Werrick came on the scene and interrupted them. Then he had seen a further chance of increasing his spoil—that her death was necessary to that increase was, in Kedgin's opinion, a mere trifling detail. Now that it was over, and her realizable possessions in his power, he could go on with his precious scheme.

So Kedgin went away from the empty house, leaving by the passage which Skarratt had shown to his companions. The passage led him into certain by-ways at the rear of big houses—finally he emerged into Conduit street. No one of all the hurrying throngs there, or in Hanover Square, through which he presently sauntered, or in Regent street, across which he presently hurried, knew him for a murderer; if they saw him at all, they took him for a respectable gentleman's gentleman, going, no doubt, about his business. He was calm, he was serene—there was nothing on him to show the work in which he had been engaged so recently. Nor did the landlady of the little house in the small side-street off Golden Square, to which Kedgin repaired, and wherein he had tenanted a room for some time past, notice anything out of the way or peculiar about her lodger when he came in, and in passing her on his way upstairs observed that he was going away for a day or two and must pack his portmanteau. She had known Mr. Kidd, she said afterward, as a very quiet gentleman whom she understood to be engaged at nights, as a rule, and who was only in now and then during the day; who always paid his rent promptly and generously and had a kind word and a sixpence for the children; that he could strangle a lady in a lonely house was more than she could believe.

Kedgin had everything in readiness for his flight. He had soon come to see that young Shrewsbury was not only callow, but careless, and after Mrs. Kedgin—a lady of whom her husband was weary—had retired to the country to visit a friend, it had been an easy thing to rob him and to turn the proceeds of the robbery into good money. He had the good money in such a form that it was easily carried and always available, and now there was nothing to do but add to it the proceeds of the robbery and removal (he did not care to call it murder) of Sylvie Werrick, who, doubtless, would have been highly disgusted could she have known that her own carefully laid plans had been made for the benefit of another. So, once in his room, he went about his final preparations quietly, methodically, and without hurry. He was under the firm belief that he had at least twenty-four hours' start of any pursuit, and he knew where he would be in twenty-four hours from that time.

It was not in Kedgin's scheme to leave his room just yet, for he had mapped his movements out to a minute. So when he had finished his packing, and had strapped his portmanteau, he indulged himself with a small cigar—one of Richard's—and a glass of wine—also Richard's—and idled about his room, destroying whatever small traces of his occupancy still happened to be in it. And after a time he chanced to be near the window and to look out of it. Then he saw something that made the cigar drop from his lips and sent him staggering against the wall at his side.

On the opposite sidewalk, following the very track by which he had approached the house only an hour before, came a great dog, a blood-hound, red of eye and mouth, straining at a leash held by a big man who hurried behind it. And behind him were other men; Kedgin knew some of them—Captain Burgoyne, and Captain Blair, with his one arm, and Richard Shrewsbury and others. They were excited, they were talking. And the great beast before them came steadily on, came just where he himself had come; if the path had been dripping with blood he could not have come in a straighter line, said Kedgin with a curse. Now he was straining across the street; now the men behind him were pointing upward. . . they had seen Kedgin's white face at the window.

Then Kedgin stepped back and drew a revolver from his pocket. This had been beyond all his calculations. And there was no back way out of this house. This was—the end.

"That was an inspiration of yours, getting that hound, Captain Burgoyne," said Skarratt, later on in the day, "and it was lucky, sir, that you could put your hand on him there and then. You've got to thank Captain Burgoyne, Mr. Shrewsbury, for that notion—if it hadn't been for that, it strikes me that we might have had some difficulty in running down Kedgin and such property of yours as he had on him and at his command. A cool, determined customer, that, gentlemen!"

Nobody made any reply to the detective's remarks. They were all back in the rooms at Berkeley Square, and Richard was feeling as if the events of the last few hours had been too much for him. The woman who had deceived and robbed him had met her death at the hands of a murderer; the murderer had taken his own life; it was little satisfaction to him to know that his property was being salved in this fashion. So he gave no answer to Skarratt; instead, he glanced at Burgoyne. And suddenly he jumped up.

Esling and Humphrey Land at Nakusp on the Steamer Minto

NAKUSP, Oct. 26.—Never since the war days when soldiers departed from the town or returned after the battle did the good old ship Minto present such a "glad hand" appearance as brought in and departed with a miniature army of politicians of both colors and sexes when she docked at the wharf here on Thursday with W. K. Esling and L. W. Humphrey, candidates in the forthcoming political battle, with their retinue of supporters. The Farmer-Labor candidate added a little impression to his presence by having Mrs. Humphrey to uphold him in the contest, while the Conservative prospective member greeted two Nakusp ladies—Mrs. E. H. S. McLean, one of his organizers, and Mrs. C. E. Jestley, who would help him in his attack on Arrowhead voters. There were introductions all along the line—each party vieing with the other as to which could muster the larger or longer queue near the gangplank. All were good-natured — there were no glaring eyes—but smiles and good-natured talk until the steamer drew away from the wharf.

ASSIZES ARE POSTPONED

Mr. Justice MacDonald Adjourns Cases Until November 14

Mr. Justice A. MacDonald, presiding over the Nelson fall assizes, stated from the bench yesterday afternoon that he was adjourning criminal court until November 14. The grand jury is required to be in court on the morning of that date, and the petit jury is required to be in attendance on the morning of November 16.

Because the grand jury will be summoned on November 14, and because John Ward, accused of taking part in the Creston bank robbery last Wednesday elected for trial by jury before Judge Forin yesterday morning, the supposition is that the alleged bandit will be tried on that date.

DRIZZLE CONTINUES THROUGHOUT DAY

Yesterday proved to be another cold and wet day and during the 24 hours ending at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon rainfall amounted to .08 inches.

The minimum temperature for yesterday was 32 degrees and seemingly from the drizzle all day the thermometer barely reached a maximum of 40 degrees.

Just accept, please, this remarkable dental test. Note how "off-color" teeth go and delicate gums become firm when that dingy film is removed

THAT cloudy teeth, yellowish, discolored teeth can be made whiter and toneless gums firmed is now an accepted fact. Foremost dentists of the world are widely urging this new method. You can have clean, pretty teeth and gums like coral if you will start today.

This is accomplished by combating a viscous film that covers teeth. A stubborn, hard to remove film that old type dentifrices do not fight successfully.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you can feel this film. Under it are the clear, attractive teeth you envy in others. Combat it, and your teeth become many shades whiter—more glistening. This offers you a 10-day test free. Mail the coupon.

The enemy of teeth and gums

Film is the great enemy of teeth and gums; a chief cause, according to world's dental authorities, of most tooth and gum troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the common cause of pyorrhea. It holds food in contact with teeth, inviting the acid that causes decay.

You can't have prettier, whiter teeth; you can't have firm, pretty gums unless you combat that film.

Ask your druggist or mail the coupon for Pepsodent. Don't expect the same results from old time dentifrices. Begin beautifying your teeth today.

Mr. Sifton's Canons

A last-hour speaker on the government side in the campaign is Hon. Clifford Sifton, who at Newmarket pleads with North York, Premier King's late constituency, to stay put, and not to yield to the blandishments of Colonel Lennox, superadded to the appealing policy of Mr. Meighen.

And what is the burden of Mr. Sifton's appeal?

First, he argues that Premier King, if returned, will be unable to reduce the tariff, but Mr. Meighen, if returned, will be able to raise it, and certainly will use his power to that end.

That is to say, Mr. Sifton appeals for the return of the man he says is promising things he will be unable to perform, and holds that Premier King, while declaring himself for a downward trend of tariff, "cheapening of the instruments of production," and "cheaper cost of living," will not really be able to do the further damage to Canadian industry that his policy promises.

Is that the qualification Canadians want in a premier?

Secondly, Mr. Sifton contends that Mr. Meighen's majority must be exclusive of the block of seats he receives from Quebec—otherwise he will be dependent on Quebec, and be at its dictation.

It did not worry Mr. Sifton that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the four elections he carried, was not once independent of his Quebec following. Nor did Premier King's dependence on Quebec to the extent of the whole 65 seats, worry him, nor does the certainty that if the premier scrapes through, the Progressives will be his masters, give him concern. All that worries him is the immorality of a Conservative premier being dictated to by Quebec.

Must be that Mr. Sifton has a vision of Thursday's landslide extending into Quebec

Why Not Seek This Destiny?

If Canada could double its population, the railway problem would be gone.—Report of Senator Robertson's speech with Mr. Meighen at Revelstoke.

Instead of liabilities grown by $600,000,000 practically since the war, with a doubled Canadian population the Canadian National would bid farewell to its annual deficit, overhaul the huge accumulation of yearly deficits, and eventually become a money-maker for the country.

With a doubled Canadian population, there would be no debt increase of $1,000,000 a week, as for the four years of the Mackenzie King regime. Extinction of the debt by steady payments would be the order of the day, for the doubled population would not mean doubled overhead or cost of government, but only a slightly increased cost.

It would be child's play to effect this gradual debt reduction, on a far lower level of taxation than prevails today, thanks to the successive increases by Messrs. Fielding and Robb in the first three years of the King government, increases only slightly affected by the cut or two in the most recent budget. Under a low level of taxation business would expand, and there would be more business to bear the lighter burden.

Why not head in the direction of a doubled population?

Why not aim at a large destiny for Canada?

Why not try the experiment of a government that will go out to foster industry by every legitimate way, that will seek to conserve and extend Canadian manufactures of every kind, that will aim at having Canadian raw materials serve the highest use on Canadian soil, that will seek to create industrial payrolls in every province, that will protect Canadian workmen in employment at fair wages, and seek by every means possible to create more employment on Canadian soil, that will endeavor to make conditions so attractive in Canada that an influx will replace an exodus, that will promote settlement of the millions of arable lands within 10 miles of railway that will aim at valuable home markets for Canadian farmers, at increased tonnage for Canadian railways, and for every kind of legitimate development that will tend to produce conditions of prosperity?

Why not cast a vote for a self-reliant and developing Canada, and head our country toward the destiny that all in common desire for it?

Just "Mrs.": "Will you please print some dishes suitable for serving at bridge parties—preferably the kind that can be made the day before? Also will you kindly tell me how to remove a spot on my polished walnut table made by a damp towel left overnight?"

Answer: Next Wednesday (November 4) I will publish an article on Bridge Refreshments. Watch for it. The white spot on your walnut table can be removed by rubbing lightly with flannel dampened with spirits of camphor or essence of peppermint, followed, after a few minutes, by the application of any furniture polish.

Girl Golfer: "My golf clubs have become rusty, due to playing when the dew was on the grass—or perhaps due to using the on a seashore links this summer. How can I remove the rust?"

Answer: Rub the club heads with steel wool moistened with kerosene oil. When you get the rust off, paint the club heads with any good brand of fluid which prevents rust. Hardware stores sell this oily fluid in small, inexpensive cans. If you cannot obtain such a preparation from your local hardware dealer, write to me, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and I will tell you the name and address of a firm that brings out an excellent brand. I cannot mention trade names in this column, as that would be advertising.

Fond of Entertaining: "Is there any way of keeping cut flowers fresh for a long time I love to give little, informal bridge parties, and I always try to afford a few roses from the florist—they do give a room such a festive look! But they fade so rapidly. Can you help me?"

Answer: Hard, woody stems of cut flowers should be split for a distance of an inch and a half. Bits of the stem should also be clipped off every day. A teaspoon of salt and one-half teaspoon of soda is another means of prolonging the life of cut flowers. Some women use a bit of charcoal in the vase-water, which also helps.

You probably know that roses require very cold water to keep them fresh, and for this reason they ought to be put in bowl or wide-mouthed vase; for a small quantity of water will become warm sooner than a large quantity. I change my vase-water twice a day when I have roses, and at night set the vase in a cold place—though not cold enough to freeze the blooms.

PARIS BREAD IMMUNE TO GERMS

PARIS—Public health enthusiasts who would make the wrapping of bread in Canada compulsory would throw a fit if they saw the way bread is handled in France. Not only is it not wrapped in the special paper which can be obtained for this purpose, but a bakery never wraps bread for its customers. They come along, grab a yard or so of bread—it is baked in kilo and half-kilo lengths—pay their 80 centimes or 1.55 centimes as the case may be, and carry it home through the streets. If a little mud splashes on it or a dirty beggar pushes against it in a crowd, no one seems to worry over it. And in the cafes it is handled equally carelessly. In most of the places the waiters or waitresses run around with it in their hands, chopping off lengths and giving them to customers. But no one seems to be hurt.

A kilo is equivalent to 2 1/6 pounds, so that at the present rate of exchange the price is about 8¾ cents for two pounds, but I believe that the government subsidizes bread to the extent of providing the bakers with flour at below cost.

Bread is a very important matter to the French. You often see a laborer making his lunch on a half-kilo of bread and a pint of red wine, the whole costing him about eight cents.

I saw a diner at a restaurant the other day in a furious argument with a waiter because his bread had a big airhole in the center.

Dental Progress

The statement is sometimes made that the medical profession, by furthering all sorts of health measures for the community, is really making less work, and therefore less remuneration for the profession itself.

And now we find the dental profession following closely in the footsteps of their medical brethren.

Even since dental colleges were first organized, the students got their opportunity to do real work on real people, as the college gave the service free to those who cared to come. Charges were made for gold filling, and so forth, but the work was always free.

And now uor dental friends are stepping out, and in addition to this free work in the clinics are giving free work to needy people in a great many cities.

Of course it may happen that sometimes folks well able to pay for these services will avail themselves of the free clinics. This is not fair to the dental profession, nor to needy ones who may be thus crowded out by those less needy.

However, the big point is that children need dental attention the same as do their parents, and infection, lack of chewing ability, mishapen teeth and mouths will be discovered early, and so rational measures will be used to save the health of the children. Sometimes these dental clinics spring up in a city, because some real learge hearted dentists realize that they could do no bigger or effective work for the general health of their particular community than to clear up the dental defects in the children of the poor. And from these private efforts our municipalities wake up to the need and the value of the investment in the health of the children, and get behind them financially.

Dental clinics are on a par with supervised playgrounds, supervised bathing and swimming facilities. Aside from the mental, moral and physical benefits they pay for themselves from the standpoint of the saving in further expenditures in later life.

BOWSER GIVEN WARM WELCOME AT CRANBROOK

Tariff, Immigration and Freight Rate Issues Discussed by Speaker

CRANBROOK, Oct. 26.—On Friday evening W. J. Bowser, K.C., former premier of B.C., and Conservative leader in the province, appeared on the platform at the Auditorium in support of Dr. J. W. Rutledge, the Conservative candidate, who is opposing Dr. King in the election now pending. Mr. Bowser got a good welcome with a crowded meeting.

On the platform were Major H. B. Hicks, A. J. Balment and A. A. Robertson, president of the federal association, who also spoke briefly. Dr. Rutledge was not able to be present, being at a meeting at Coal Creek that evening.

Mr. Bowser gave an exhaustive resume of the connection of the Conservative party with the protective policy since the early 90s, and he showed that the changes the Liberals had made in the fiscal policies of the country had been such as to bring into closer relationship the United States and Canada, and thus raised the question of imperial relations. There was only one way, he said, to prevent the exodus from the country which was now taking place, and that was to put into force a reasonable tariff that would conserve the industries of the country, and create employment.

Conservatives Saved the Day

Deviating from a policy of protection, Britain had on some occasions made excursions into the realm of free trade, but the Conservative party was now in control there, and they had saved the day by imposing some necessary tariffs, 63 other countries having raised their tariffs since the war. Mr. Bowser referred to the high tariff in the States, which was working against Canada, and referring also to the comparative financial conditions of the two countries, pointed to the conclusion that the working of the tariff was one of the reasons for American prosperity. The condition of affairs in Australia and New Zealand were also referred to, and even the Irish Free State had put a tariff into effect since becoming a nation.

Canada Drifting

But Canada in this respect had been drifting along, and in the past four years the farmers of the prairies had held control of the government, and had pressed home their doctrine of highest possible prices for implements and other goods of which they were consumers, irrespective of what the cost was to the rest of the country. At the same time Mr. Bowser showed that immense amounts of farm products were being imported into this country, which ought to be produced in Canada, and would be with the application of a tariff that would protect wool and other farm products, or at least put, a reciprocal duty duty on them when imported into Canada.

Mackenzie King had been tearing down the tariff wall which past governments had erected for the good of the country, brick by brick, and the United States was taking advantage of the situation. Canadian coastal shipping was affected, being prevented from trading with American points, but American ships had only a duty of 25 per cent to go up against. The importation of Canadian raw materials into the States was adding prosperity to that country—steel, pulpwood, asbestos, copper and nickel being especially mentioned by Mr. Bowser, who said that the United States took six tons of raw material and sent back a ton of manufactured goods, when Canada should have the benefit of all the work and hauling arising from the manufacture of these goods.

Freight Rate Politics

He further claimed that the government had injected politics into the freight rates question, and that so far as British Columbia was concerned, the late Sir Richard McBride was responsible for putting on foot the movement for lower rates, and he himself had been working on the case while in office when the war interrupted the course of things. Mr. Bowser concluded by predicting a change of feeling everywhere that was going to result in a strong Conservative majority going to Ottawa this time.

The meeting concluded with cheers for the speaker.

RUTLEDGE AND BOWSER DRAW PACKED HOUSES

Conservative Candidate Is Well Received at All Points

CRANBROOK, Oct. 26.—W. J. Bowser, veteran Conservative campaigner, is spending a few days in the East Kootenay district, addressing meetings on behalf of Dr. J. W. Rutledge, the Conservative candidate who is opposing Dr. King. It cannot be said that Mr. Bowser's star has set in this district, for crowded meetings have greeted him.

On Wednesday evening he addressed a big meeting at Kimberley when the hall was packed to the doors, and on Friday evening an equally enthusiastic, though a little smaller, audience met him at Fort Steele.

Dr. Rutledge, speaking at Kimberley with Mr. Bowser, reiterated the platform upon which he is standing in this election, and the principal points of the Meighen program that would be beneficial in their application to the country at this time. He was very well received, and continues to make an excellent impression with the electors.

Mr. Meighen dealt exhaustively with the tariff, showing the deleterious effect of free trade in various countries, and how sane applications of the tariff wall, to protect industry and to build up manufactures, had resulted in prosperity, particularly in the United States. He also instanced the conditions of Australia as being particularly prosperous at present, and due in large measure to the application of a tariff to protect its industries. By this means importations were reduced, industries built up, employment furnished, the national wealth conserved and additional revenues secured.

Mr. Bowser instanced many industries in Canada that had been affected adversely by the tariff-reduction tendencies of the present government, and he showed also how the Conservative policy would result in more traffic for the railways, especially with the longer east and west hauls in place of the shorter north and south. Figures were quoted to show the immense importations of farm products and other goods which could be produced in Canada, and which are now constituting an adverse trade balance against Canada.

Procter Pupils' Public Debate Draws Comment

PROCTER, Oct. 26.—The pupils of the Procter held their regular social evening last Thursday. It took the form of a debate, "Which is preferable—fruit growing or stock raising?" John Applewaite opened the debate with a very well-reasoned speech in favor of stock raising. Rosa Severy followed on the other side giving strong reasons in favor of fruit farming. Eighteen other speakers took part, their speeches though being quite to the point and in some cases amusing. After the leaders had replied a few adult friends were asked to speak. The principal, Mr. Keyweds, who was in the chair, then summed up and put the question to the vote, and stock raising speakers won its case by the narrow majority of one vote. Afterward games and dancing were indulged in for the remainder of the evening.

Robson Turns Out in Force to Hear Esling and Stacey

ROBSON, Oct. 26.—A large audience turned out to hear W. K. Esling and E. B. Stacey at the Robson hall on Wednesday night. O. B. Ballard acted as chairman. Mr. Esling gave a very full and interesting account of the Conservative policy going into the matter of freight rates pointing out the advantages of a higher tariff in British Columbia farm products. Eggs, apples, etc. He spoke on the advantage of the Conservative party's policy on immigration and the loss of Canadians to the States.

Mr. Stacey went fully into the growth of the Conservative party from the time of Hon. J. McDonald to the present time and was well received by those present.

KASLO FAIR NOW SELF-SUPPORTING

KASLO, Oct. 26. — Wednesday evening the Kaslo fair committee met in the city hall, J. W. Cockle in the chair, and Secretary A. Boyce announced a substantial balance at hand after all liabilities had been met.

Kaslo now will rank in class D for fairs, and will receive no government grant in future. The energies of all members must now be turned toward the "cherry carnival" in August.

T. Speirs, president of the farmers' institute, thanked all the ladies who had helped in the fair. The meeting then adjourned.

Board of trade at Sault Ste. Marie will petition for a daily mail service to Goudreau.

Arrowhead Turns Out Enmasse to Hear Mr. Esling

ARROWHEAD, Oct. 26.—A most enthusiastic meeting was held in the K. P. hall at Arrowhead on Thursday when the residents of Arrowhead and district turned out en masse to hear the Conservative candidate, W. K. Esling, speak.

At 8 o'clock the hall was filled to capacity when Captain Fitzsimmons took the chair and introduced the speakers, who besides Mr. Esling were on this occasion Mrs. Ernest W. H. McLean Nakusp and Mr. Adam Sell, Revelstoke.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served and dancing enjoyed for some time when the electors had the opportunity of becoming personally acquainted with Mr. Esling.

If the wonderful hospitality extended the visitors on this occasion augurs anything for the result of the vote on the 29th, Mr. Esling should poll a splendid majority in this district.

STEEL SHARES SELL WELL AT NEW YORK

Rails Active; Nickel Plate Soars Six Points; Sales Heavy

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Heavy profit-taking, apparently inspired by stiffening call money rates, the sharp break in cotton futures impeded, but failed to halt the upward sweep of prices in today's stock market. Total sales exceeded 2,000,000 shares for the 11th consecutive full session.

Buying demonstrations started in the steel shares, presumably in further reflection of favorable trade reports. United States Steel common crossed 130 to the highest price since the war, and Bethlehem moved up more than 2 points to 49½.

Rails were galvanized into activity when a sudden inquiry developed for the Van Sweringen issues. Nickel Plate soared 6 points to 148, and was followed into new high ground by Pere Marquette and Erie common. Bangor & Aroostook advanced 3 points to a new high at 53 in anticipation of an increase in dividend. Spectacular movements again took place in the motor group, which was featured by an advance of nearly 17 points to a new record top at 218 in Chrysler Motors.

Buoyancy also developed in a number of specialties.

There were a few soft spots. New York Canners broke nearly 6 points, to 67, and then rallied to 69¾. Atlantic Gulf and West Indies preferred, Commercial Solvents "B," Famous Players, General Electric, Remington Typewriter, Underwood Typewriter, United States Realty and Yellow Cab preferred showed net losses of 2 or more points.

Call money opened at 4½ per cent, advanced to 4¾, and thence to 5, closing at the top.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Total sales—2,204,800 shares.

A FORCEFUL AD WITH FORCEFUL COPY

PRODUCES THE BEST RESULTS

The advertisement with an impressive headline and strong sales arguments sells the most merchandise.

It is not the amount of carfare spent, but what a salesman says and how he says it that determines his sales. The carfare pays for the medium of getting the verbal sales message to the customers, just like money spent for advertising space pays for the medium used to get the written sales message to prospective customers. No manufacturer would pay the carfare of a salesman who did not present a real message and sales argument to the prospective customers to whom he was sent. Likewise, no advertiser should spend money for advertising space in which he does not put forth his proposition in a clear, forceful and convincing manner.

A fancy appearing ad with a lot of white space and little to say is very similar to the well-dressed salesman with limited sales talk. The salesman who makes an impressive introduction and then presents strong appeals and real sales arguments usually gets the most business. Likewise, an ad with a forceful headline and enough copy to clearly present the advantages of the advertised proposition will have a better chance to produce results.

MEIGHEN NOW ASKS STABLE TARIFF: KING

Premier Declares Is Admitting Defeat on High Tariff Issue

SUTTON, Ont., Oct. 26.—(Staff Correspondent Canadian Press.)—"Mr. Meighen is changing his ground, he is running away from high protection and saying what is needed is a stable tariff, he is admitting defeat on a high tariff," said Premier King here today.

"Mr. Meighen has not dared to go into Quebec in this whole campaign. That is one reason why Mr. Meighen could not govern this country. It is not a question of tariff stability, it is a question of a national stability," said Mr. King.

"Who would Mr. Meighen have with him? Mr. Patenaude from Quebec as his right bower and Bob Rogers from the west as his left bower."

Mr. King read as an example of the effect of the King method a letter he had received from New York. It was:

"Do you know that some of the Patenaude advertisements in Canadian newspapers are positively detrimental to Canada, when viewed from the aspect of the prospective immigrant or investor? Who this man is or what he means to the public life of his country I do not know but when he blazons forth that Canada is in a 'rut' of despair and similar assertions he is attempting to hoist himself up the political ladder by traducing his own country. A great many people outside Canada gain this only opinion of it, through what they read, yet throughout the Conservative campaign, there runs a note of slander against the very land which gave these gentlemen their birth."

Many Difficulties

People in the old country were kept from migration and investment through these misrepresentations of Canada, said Mr. King.

"No government in Canada has ever been faced with the difficulties with which this government was faced." In the national debt and the railway obligation, the government had unprecedented problems which made economics difficult. The government had cut down expenditure by $110,000,000. For every dollar of your money the last government spent, we have spent 75 cents. We come therefore to the country with clean hands and fair government.

Mr. King quoted the figures of the last general election when 1,250,000 votes were cast for the Liberals, 870,000 for the Progressives, 975,000 for the Conservatives and 20,000 for Independents. The votes cast in opposition to high protection were two to one. This was one reason why Mr. Meighen would not come into power.

Mr. Meighen had asserted that if returned to power, he would restore the tariff on the implements of production which the government had lowered. That was a concrete example of what was to be decided at the polls on Thursday.

ALL IN FAVOR OF UNITY OVER LAND: MEIGHEN

Answers Premier's Challenge to Name His Cabinet Before Election

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—Right Hon. Arthur Meighen came to Toronto tonight and met with the warmest reception accorded him in this campaign. Long before the time set for the opening of the doors Massey hall was packed, its doors having been opened early to let the crowds in out of the rain. For an hour the overflow milled about the building clamoring for admittance. Many stood outside listening to the loudspeaker, an overflow meeting was held in another hall, and it was late when the Conservative leader had finished the speeches to the Toronto electors.

"It is easy to preach unity, but it is harder to practice unity," said Mr. Meighen. He earnestly recommended more practice and less preaching of unity. A policy which would bring Canada prosperity would be the surest step toward national unity, said Mr. Meighen.

Will Have Better Cabinet

"The campaign has been characterized on the part of our opponents by constant effort to evade the real issue, and to dissipate the public thought over a long array of minor matters."

"We all favor unity," he declared. "There is not any Canadian between the two shores of the Dominion who does not favor unity as much as the prime minister does.

"I prefer to recognize the governor-general as the representative of the King in Canada and make known to him first who are to be His Excellency's next advisers," said Mr. Meighen, referring to Premier King's challenge in Toronto on Friday that Mr. Meighen should reveal who his cabinet would be. "One thing I will assure Mr. King," he added, "we will form a cabinet all right after the 29th, and it would not be hard to form out of our supports in almost any one province a better cabinet than surrounds Mr. King now."

Mr. Meighen, in passing, said that in 1921 it had taken Mr. King three weeks to find out who his cabinet would be.

Would Injure Massey-Harris

Following "tariff whittlings" in 1922, the price of agricultural implements increased and the manufacture of the Canadian product decreased, declared the Conservative leader.

"Articles that go into the manufacture of farming implements," he said, "canvas, paints, malleable steel, etc. were placed on the free list at the importunities of Mr. Vincent Massey."

Tariff adjustments, declared Mr. Meighen, would have an injurious effect to the Massey-Harris firm but for the fact that, as Mr. Massey admitted, they were compensated for by the sweeping away of all protection from the industries engaged in producing those things that go into farming implements.

He would like to know how Mr. Massey could reconcile his new attitude when he considered the effect of "tariff whittling on Canadian industries which had no "compensating allowances" from the government. The payroll of Canadian steel workers was $18 500,000 lower now than in 1921. That money was going to workers in the United States now.

Expressing the utmost confidence in the Conservative forces in the balloting, Mr. Meighen predicted for his party a majority over all in the next house, a bigger representation from the west on Conservative benches than on Liberal benches, and a large slice of one membership from every province in the Dominion.

WILLS WINNER OVER JOHNSON IN FLUKY WAY

Awarded Technical Kayo When Towel Thrown Into Ring in First Round

WILLS WAS DOZING HIM TERRIBLY

Johnson's Seconds Drop Towel While Both Men Exchanging Wallops

NEWARK, Oct. 26.—Harry Wills, negro heavyweight, scored a technical knockout over Floyd Johnson of Iowa in the first round of a 12-round match here tonight. The sudden ending left 9000 spectators stunned.

Johnson received Wills' mighty left to the body and head just as the bout started, and he appeared worried. Then a right to the head drove him to the ropes, but he withstood the attack and ventured to the center of the ring as a white towel floated in from his corner. Referee Harry Lewis, Wills and Johnson all gazed at the towel in seeming astonishment, and the throng arose to its feet in clamor. Lewis took Johnson by the arm and led him to his corner, and then informed the press representatives that he could do nothing other than award the fight to Wills after that towel had dropped into the arena. As the fighters departed, loud protests came from the crowd, which had seen two minutes of a contest which had a championship heavyweight contender as one of its principals.

"Fake! Fake!" came the cry. "That's the end of boxing in New Jersey!"

Johnson Not Far Out

But as a matter of fact Johnson was not far from oblivion when the succoring towel appeared. The negro had gone at him smilingly as they tapped each other lightly in the center of the ring. He was fully confident. A half-minute of sparring preceded the first blow of the contest, a left drive to the body, then he wrestled his foe to the ropes and drove a right flush to the chin, after which Johnson became cautious and bore away. Another left found his jaw, and he backed to the ropes to receive a solid shower of rights and lefts to head and body.

But the lowan, known in the past as the "bulldog of the west," continued to throw his arms out before him and gradually worked out to the center of the ring as his seconds went into action. Dr. William Silverstein, physician for the state boxing commission, examined Johnson after he had reached his dressing room, and pronounced him in good condition. The blow that rocked him was a left jab to the head, according to his handlers

Wills Was Favorite

Wills had been a topheavy favorite to win by a knockout within five rounds, for Johnson, once in line for heavyweight honors, had deteriorated as a boxer since his defeat three years ago by Jess Willard in seven rounds at the Yankee Stadium.

"I was punch-drunk," Johnson said in his dressing room, after tonight's bout. "Wills' left caught me on the right side of the neck and left me dizzy. I did not know where I was."

The weights: Wills, 215; Johnson, 203.

George Courtney of Oklahoma and Charles Arthurs of Newark, middleweight, fought a rattling 10-round contest as a preliminary. Courtney proved the better boxer.

BABY'S COLDS

Children's delicate digestions are easily disturbed by too much "dosing." Still, the little ones' cold troubles cannot be neglected.

At the very first sign of croup, sore throat, or any other cold trouble, apply Vicks VapoRub over the throat and chest. There is nothing to swallow—you just rub it on. Colds go over night, croup is usually relieved in 15 minutes.

ALL RUN DOWN, NOW HEALTHY

"Honestly, in all my 15 years of experience as a nurse I have never known of a medicine that compares with Tanlac," is the glowing tribute of Nurse M. E. Chappelle.

"Time and again I have recommended Tanlac and always with surprising results. Some time ago my Mother complained of being generally run down and on the verge of a nervous breakdown. She had no appetite, her stomach was disordered, digestion weakened and her bowels were most irregular.

"Tanlac came to her aid at once, brought on a vigorous appetite so that she began to eat with the greatest relish, and made the digestive organs function properly once more. In a short time she was well, happy and strong, and although over 80 years of age she is now vigorous enough to look after her household duties and go out quite a little, too. This is why I praise Tanlac and consider it the best tonic and health builder ever discovered."

What Tanlac has done for others it can also do for you. Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

CLAIMS THREE THOUSAND FOR FIRE LOSSES

Mrs. Bilton of Rossland Has Suit Against Canadian Pacific

CLAIMS HOUSE IGNITED FROM SPARK

Locomotive Passed Just Before Flames Found; Case to Continue

Damages of $3000 for her house and its contents, which she claims were a complete loss through fire started by a spark from a locomotive engine, were asked by Mrs. Annie Bilton of Rossland, in her suit against the Canadian Pacific railway, being tried before Mr. Justice Macdonald at the fall assizes. Hearing the evidence for the plaintiff and one witness for the defence took up most of the afternoon and all the evening session of the court. C. F. R. Pincott of Grand Forks is acting for the plaintiff, and C. R. Hamilton, K.C., of Hamilton, Wragge & Hamilton, for the defence. The case is being tried before a special jury headed by Foreman James Anderson of Kaslo.

Mr. Pincott told the jury that there was no charge of negligence against the Canadian Pacific railway, but that Mrs. Bilton claimed a spark from a passing engine had burned her house to the ground. On a valuation of $7000 for house and contents, she was asking $3000. She had already received $2000 for insurance.

Making Chili Sauce

Mrs. Bilton told his lordship that about 2 p.m. on September 16, 1924, she was making chili sauce on her electric range, shortly after an ore train had passed the house. She was alone, and had not been upstairs for some time. The corner of the house was 15 or 16 feet away from the nearer rail of the track.

Piano Jammed

When she went into her pantry she heard a crackling, and looking up the stairs, saw smoke upstairs. She ran to the telephone and turned in an alarm, after which she and Mrs. I. Trembath, a neighbor, who had run in tried to get the piano out of the living room, but jammed it in the doorway.

The wiring for the electric stove in the kitchen was nine feet from the northwest corner of the kitchen, she said. When she had turned on the light in the cellar it had been working properly, and her range was in perfect condition and working well.

A piano stool, a damaged bed and mattress and a damaged dressing table where all that had been saved from the house.

After she had written to the Canadian Pacific railway, an adjuster had come to see her. He said he would do his best to settle matters when he went to Vancouver, then wrote her from there saying he must stand by what the fire chief had told him. He had requested her to make an inventory of the value of the contents of the house, taking off 5 per cent for depreciation.

Mrs. Bilton said that apart from the dining room suite and the piano, the prices she gave in the inventory were just what she had paid for her things when she bought them. She had had her furniture for about 10 years, but had kept it in good condition.

Under stiff cross-examination by Mr. Hamilton, Mrs. Bilton admitted that her husband had bought three lots and three houses, in 1904, for $600, and that the house she was claiming for was one of them.

They had practically rebuilt the houses, Mrs. Bilton claimed.

Coming to the inventory, Mr. Hamilton stated that he understood the electric range had cost $84, and the installation for it and the electric water heater $13.35, in place of the $130 given as the value of the range alone in the inventory. Mrs. Bilton said she was including the cost of installing in the $130, and had based her charge on the price she had paid for installation of lights recently.

Claiming Thousand for Piano

She was claiming $1000 for her piano player, but admitted it had cost $600, that she was adding $250 because it would have been $850 had not it been used for demonstration purposes in her home by the agent, by agreement with him. The $150 she added because she had been offered that much more, or $1000, for her piano in Nelson, and felt it was worth it.

The piano was not new, she told Mr. Hamilton, and had been used for demonstration by her family for some years. She felt that her price of $75 for 57 player-piano rolls was a fair one, although she admitted some of them were old.

The three houses, of which the house in question was one, were in Rossland when she and her husband first went there in 1904, she said. The ceilings in the house that had been burned were paper and cheesecloth, she said, but the rooms had been beaverboarded throughout.

Expensive Books

The prices asked for her books were fair, she thought. They included $75 for a set of Shakespeare, $50 for one of Scott, $50 for Stevenson, $40 for Dumas, $30 for a set of railroad books, and $100 for two sets, one each on dressmaking and millinery.

She had added to the cost of her dining room suite in her estimate because she had been told furniture was more expensive now than when it had been bought. She did so at the advice of the C.P.R. adjuster, she said.

Thousand for Shawl

She thought $1000 was a fair valuation for the Indian Kashmire shawl her son had given her.

Mr. Anderson, foreman of the jury, asked if her insurance on contents of the house was $1200, had she reckoned $1000 of it on the shawl and only $200 on the rest of her belongings. Mrs. Bilton said everything was put in together in the valuation.

In reply to a question from Mr. Justice Macdonald, Mrs. Bilton said her husband was a car inspector for the C.P.R.

Miss Evelyn Bilton, daughter of the plaintiff, described the furniture of the different rooms in her mother's house, and was not cross-examined.

Irving Trembath, merchant, Rossland, and his wife, Mrs. Velma Trembath, both told of seeing the roof of the Bilton house, high up near the ridgepole on the railway side, ablaze on the afternoon of September 16, shortly after an ore train had passed. Both said it was a warm, dry day, and that a wind had been blowing, but neither was certain of its direction all the time. Mr. Trembath telephoned the fire department at once.

Mrs. Beley of Rossland told of seeing the fire from her verandah, and turning in a fire alarm at a box near her house, before going over to help Mrs. S. S. Jarvis take things out of her house, which seemed to be in danger. The wind had been very gusty, she said.

Wind Coming "Full Tilt"

Mrs. Jarvis said she had heard the train going up the steep grade, and after hearing the fire alarm went to the door. She saw the roof of the Bilton house blazing, and it seemed to her the wind was bringing the fire "full tilt" at her house. She telephoned her husband and began to carry out things. When the two Bilton houses, side by side, had burned, the wind changed, which saved her house.

Mrs. F. Nixon first smelled smoke from her kitchen window, then saw the fire from her back yard. It was on the side of the roof nearest the track, and a fairly strong wind was blowing it toward the Jarvis house.

After Mr. Pincott had put in a weather chart showing that Rossland weather was clear and hot from September 8 to 16 of last year, the case for the plaintiff was complete.

Mr. Hamilton, in opening the case for the defence, said that upon investigation they had come to believe that they could show there was no evidence the locomotive started the fire, and the damages claimed were exorbitant.

Fire Chief Kenneth Martin, Rossland, for the defence, told of going to the fire. There had been slight delays in reaching it, he said, because they had taken the best and safest road, rather than the quickest, and they had been forced to find out which side of the track the fire was on before getting out the hose. He told of seeing Mrs. Bilton next morning, and having a talk with her about the fire.

At the time he had gone into the house, to find the kitchen full of smoke, and burned about four feet above floor level, as well as higher up on the wall, in the northwest corner of the kitchen, where the range was situated. He believed the wiring was contrary to present regulations.

The wind had blown from the west all afternoon, he said. He told of attempts to set a fire from sparks from the passing locomotive he had made later, using paper, shavings and dried grass. The latter might have blazed if the day had been fine, he said, but he could not get a fire with the others from cinders from the engine.

At this point his lordship adjourned the case until 10 o'clock this morning.

GREB-WALKER BOUT IS OFF

Excessive Financial Demands of Greb Too Much, Says Rickard

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Because of what he characterized as excessive financial demands on the part of Harry Greb, middleweight champion, Tex Rickard today announced that he had called off negotiations for a return match between Greb and Mickey Walker, welterweight title holder.

The promoter had planned this bout as one of the features of his indoor program at the new Madison Square garden on December 18. In place of the Walker-Greb match, Rickard's new matchmaker, Jess McMahon plans to seek a return featherweight title go on that date between Kid Kaplan, the champion, and Babe Herman. This will be contingent, however, upon Herman winning a bout scheduled in Boston November 4 with Honeyboy Finnegan.

Refuse Leave to Appeal Sentences Indian Murderers

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The sensational Malabar Hill murder in India last January was recalled at a meeting of the judicial committee of the privy council here today, when Sir John Simon, in behalf of three Indians sentenced to death for the murder of Abdul Kadir Baule, a rich Parsee merchant of Bombay, petitioned for leave to appeal against the conviction and sentence.

The petition was dismissed without their lordships of the judicial committee hearing argument from the crown counsel in the case. They intimated that they would give their reasons in writing for refusing to grant the petition.

Meighen Launches Attack Against Hon. Vinc. Massey

BOWMANVILLE, Ont., Oct. 26.—Early this evening in the town hall at Bowmanville Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the opposition addressed a capacity meeting in the interest of Fred W. Bowen, Conservative candidate for Durham. Due to the limited time, Mr. Meighen was compelled to speak briefly on the policies of his party. Following a short address of welcome delivered by the chairman, Gen. J. Hughes, Mr. Meighen launched into a criticism of Hon. Vincent Massey, explaining the tariff in relations to the Massey-Harris industry and claiming it was not particularly effective in that industry.

A moderate tariff, Mr. Meighen said, is necessary to make a prosperous Canada and will not mean increase of prices to the consumer in any respect.

The injured man was taken to a hospital where it was reported that he would recover. Yip is being held on a charge of assault.

MOTORIST PAYS FINES INTO COURT

Found Guilty Dangerous Driving and Not Reporting an Accident

James House of Nelson was found guilty of two charges before Magistrate William Brown in city police court yesterday morning, and paid $15 in fines. The first charge was for driving to the common danger, a continuation of the case adjourned last Saturday, for inspection of House's car. House claimed he was so far on the right-hand side of the High street bridge when the car owned by G. S. Godfrey passed him, that his car was damaged on the post and letter box attached to the post on the street bridge. The second charge was for not reporting the accident to the Police.

When court opened House was called upon to bring his car to the front of the city hall, at which place Magistrate Brown, Chief of Police Thomas H. Long and G. S. Godfrey, along with the defendant, inspected the car and saw no marks of damage which might have occurred at the time of the accident.

The party then went to view the post and letter box on the High street bridge, and found no recent markings of any kind on the named articles. The party then returned to police court.

Godfrey Laid Charge

Magistrate Brown found the defendant guilty of the charge and fined him $5.

The information of this charge was laid by G. S. Godfrey, whose car received damage.

Chief Long prosecuted for the city and James House defended himself.

In the second charge House appeared before Magistrate Brown for not reporting the accident to the police, and pleaded not guilty, but on the evidence of Chief Long and G. S. Godfrey, the accused was found guilty and fined $10.

ENTHUSIASM SHOWN AT NAKUSP MEETING

Esling, Mrs. McLean and Fitzsimmons Are the Speakers

NAKUSP, Oct. 26.—The opera house was crowded tonight with an enthusiastic audience to hear W. K. Esling, Conservative candidate for West Kootenay riding, who created an immense impression on his hearers. R. H. Baird, local farmer, was the chairman. Mrs. E. H. H. McLean of Nakusp was another speaker of the evening.

Mr. Esling went into the question of the tariff, explaining how the farmers and laborers of British Columbia were suffering under the present conditions when all kinds of fruits and other things were allowed to enter Canada from the States, with which the growers, particularly, must compete.

He also spoke of the Australian treaty, which dumped vast quantities of goods on an unprotected Canadian market.

Capt. J. Fitzsimmons of the steamer Minto, Arrow lakes, was the last speaker of the evening.

Charles White Trial for Murder Starts at Vancouver Assizes

VANCOUVER, Oct. 26.—When the trial of Charles White for the murder of Frank Rossi, merchant, North Vancouver, in his store, was opened today, efforts of the defending counsel to have evidence regarding the trail taken by the bloodhounds excluded, proved unsuccessful. Bloodhounds trailed from the store to a vacant house where it is alleged White was seen after the crime, and then to the spot on the shore where it is alleged he got into a canoe and crossed to Vancouver.

Atlantic City is reported flooded with more than $10,000 in counterfeit $20 bills.

POLLS OPEN AT EIGHT O'CLOCK THURSDAY NEXT

Voting Continues Through Day Till Six o'Clock; Urban Qualifications

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.—Next Thursday morning at 8 o'clock polling stations in 241 constituencies of the Dominion will open. Under the Dominion Election act the polls "shall be opened at the hour of 8 o'clock in the forenoon and kept open until 6 o'clock in the afternoon of the same day."

Deputy returning officers are required to be at the polls between the hours set down, to receive the votes of duly qualified electors.

When the polls open, the deputy returning officer and the poll clerk are required to open the ballot box in the presence of the candidates, their agents and such of the electors as are present and ascertain that there are no ballot papers therein. Then the box must be locked, the deputy returning officer retaining the key. The box must be placed on a table in full view of all present remaining there until the close of the poll advance polls, as provided in the act are now open from 7 until 10 in the evening. They will be open between those hours each evening until election day.

Rural Voting Order

The procedure at the polls will differ according as whether the polling division is an urban or a rural one. Urban polling divisions are those contained in incorporated cities and towns having a population of 5000 or more, included in certain other areas in which the population is so dense or so transient that the chief electoral officers has directed that the urban procedure should apply. In such polling divisions no one whose name does not appear upon the list may vote, even if he is qualified, but in rural polling divisions the omission of a qualified voters' name from the list does not prevent him voting in the polling division in which he is residing on polling day. He may go to the poll with some other resident of the polling division whose name is on the list, and upon his taking oaths of qualification and being vouched for as qualified by the other voter, his name may be added to the list and he may vote.

HUMPHREY SPEAKS TO CROWD AT SALMO

Cheer Him at Close; Campbell and Colter Are Other Speakers

L. W. Humphrey, Farmer-Labor candidate for West Kootenay riding, spoke to a capacity house at Salmo yesterday afternoon, and was cheered at the close of his address, after which the audience sang "For They are Jolly Good Fellows." Kenneth Campbell, ex-M.P.P., also spoke as well as H. S. Colter of Vancouver. George Mathews was in the chair.

Mr. Campbell said he had felt a warm sympathy with Salmo when he had represented Nelson, and he was supporting a man who was ready to serve Salmo, the whole West Kootenay and the Dominion. He spoke of Mr. Humphrey's Liberal support.

Mr. Humphrey described his work during the last four years, and criticized W. K. Esling, Conservative candidate, for suggesting on the Ymir platform that there had been an understanding between the Premier, Hon. John Oliver, and the Farmer-Labor candidate at the time of the bye-election in Nelson last year. Mr. Humphrey stated he had not known at the time of his nomination that the Liberals would support him, and any statements to the contrary were deliberate efforts to deceive the electorate.

Mr. Coulter spoke of the tariff, pointing out the disadvantages of a high tariff.

Miss Katherine Sapples played several piano selections during the meeting.

When the Humphrey party left Salmo they went to the accompaniment of thrown bouquets of wild flowers.

What Is Farsighted?

Farsighted is caused by a short eyeball, it being round like a marble. This allows the focal, or sharp, clear point of vision, to go beyond or behind the sensitive spot at the back of the eye. For this reason, farsighted persons see better at long distances than close.

To correct this mechanical defect, a convex lens is used. A convex lens magnifies, and is thicker at the centre than at the edge. This lens shortens the rays of light and brings them to a focus, or point forward, to the sensitive spot, causing good clear vision, especially for reading and nearby objects.

This defect causes most eye troubles, and ought to be remedied.
