PAINLEVE AND CABINET QUIT; ARE VOTED OUT

Administration Beaten by Three Votes on Its Financial Bill

SCENE IN CHAMBER DRAMATIC AT TIME

Painleve Leaves Chamber; Later Hands in His Resignation

PARIS, Nov. 22.—The Painleve cabinet resigned today following an adverse vote in the chamber on the government's finance bill. The administration was beaten by three votes.

Painleve fell on the question of that, unless his hands were supported, the premier had stated plainly in the protracted session last night consolidation of national defence ed it would be "impossible to conserve longer the responsibility of the government." As soon as the result of the vote (278 to 275) was announced the resignation of the cabinet was promulgated.

The scene in the chamber was dramatic. Hardly waiting for a formal declaration of the result Painleve turned and without a word walked from the room. He was followed at once by his ministers.

Turmoil Ensues

Turmoil ensued for a minute and then on the motion of Herriot, leader of the radical Socialists and former premier, adjournment was taken until next Tuesday.

Growing disagreement with Premier Painleve's financial proposals, even among the government supporters, was responsible for his fall today, less than a month after he had reconstructed his ministry to meet the wishes of the radical groups in the chamber.

Presents Resignation

After the final vote the ministry met hastily and presented their letter of resignation to President Doumergue who immediately began conversation looking to the formation of a new ministry. The ministry considered most likely in political circles would be a concentration government designed to command the support of the center and moderate left and not relying for its existence in a crisis, as did that of M. Painleve, upon the votes of the extreme left.

While numerous names are mentioned as possible premier, including those of M. Briand and Raoul Peret, former president of the chamber of deputies, political experts would venture no prediction, and President Doumergue himself, after consulting M. Painleve, M. de Selves and M. Herriot, withheld action until tomorrow.

The actual rock on which the ministry was wrecked was fear of what was regarded as inevitably heavy inflation of a deep-rooted dislike for a "fault" as the opposition characterized forced consolidation.

ANTI-KLAN IS NOW VANCOUVER BODY

Organization Quietly Formed to Buck "Major" Powell and Dr. Allan

VANCOUVER, Nov. 22.—It was learned today that at a quiet meeting recently held, and which was attended by a large number of local lawyers, doctors and business men, it was decided to bring pressure to bear on the provincial and Dominion governments, to suppress the activities of "Major" Luther L. Powell, and Dr. A. A. Allen, both of Portland, Ore., who recently organized a branch of the Ku Klux Klan here and who have been secretly furthering their activities. In the meantime reports are that the anti-Klan organization embracing many prominent local citizens, has been quietly formed.

DEATH TOLL IN EAST TOTALS NINE PERSONS

Auto Accidents; Babe Is Drowned in Bath; Youth Shot; Others Drowned

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—Violent deaths were numerous in eastern Canada over the week-end, most of them being caused by automobile accidents. When an automobile skidded off the St. Jerome highway near Montreal, and fell into a ravine nine feet deep, Eduoard Lapierre, aged 28, of Joliette, was instantly killed. A Desmarais, aged 30, a companion, is not expected to live and M. Martineau, aged 50, another occupant of the car is in a serious condition. While answering an emergency call Motorcycle Officer Fred Raines, aged 34, was fatally injured at Hamilton, when his machine collided with an automobile. George Chapman, aged 55, was instantly killed when struck by a speeding automobile in Toronto. At Montreal, Frances Claire Chering, aged 13 months, was drowned in his bath tub, when his mother left him for a few minutes while saying good bye to his father. Paul Trozed, aged 38, was crushed to death at Montreal, when the roof of a building collapsed on him. Cyrus Little, aged 16, was fatally shot at Halifax, N.S., while out with a companion, Garnet Giles, aged 18. They were examining a gun at the time. Jesse J. Wallace, aged 14, fell off a raft and was drowned at Annapolis Royal, N.S. Arthur Garfunkel, aged 18, was out of his depth in a Toronto swimming tank, and was drowned before he could be rescued. John Sharon, aged 4, was drowned in an open ditch near his home on the outskirts of Windsor City.

Have Name Second to None on British Market, Says Fruit Representative

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Nov. 22. —Canadian apples have a name second to none in Great Britain, and already a market exists there for the exportable surplus of this country, according to F. B. Crossbitt, of Vernon, B.C., Dominion fruit representative at the British Empire exhibition, who has reached here on his return. He is of the opinion that marketing of Canadian fruit through one selling organization instead of through the different bodies maintained by the various fruit growing provinces, would be advantageous and profitable, and he also thinks that the time may come when Canada will join Australia and Zealand in a similar cooperative scheme, which will not be prejudicial to Canadian fruit, as the Australian offerings reach the British markets at a different season.

Falls From Bridge Into the Fraser River; Man Drowned

MISSION, Nov. 22.—Suddenly losing his balance while crossing the Mission-Matsqui railroad bridge at 1 o'clock Sunday morning, Thomas Harrison, 55, of Regina, dropped 25 feet into the deep waters of the Fraser river and is believed to have been drowned, according to information given the Mission police by Harry Cyr, companion of Harrison, who witnessed the accident. Police have been dragging for the body all Sunday, but without success.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 22. — Charged with the murder of Wilfrid Marshall Tibb, fatally stabbed September 29 outside a house on Gore avenue, Thomas Pilkington, 38, was placed under arrest by city detectives on Saturday morning. He will appear before Magistrate Shaw in police court Monday morning. Tibbs died in hospital on November 6, and a coroner's jury brought in an open verdict on November 10.

'SONNY' WHITE APPEAL SET FOR THIS WEEK

VANCOUVER, Nov. 22.—An appeal in the case of Sonny White, sentenced to death on January 14 for the death of Frank Rosso, slain in his North Vancouver store, will be herd by the court of appeals this week.

LAURIER PARTY PASSED LAW ON CONSCRIPTION

Sir Robert Borden Replies to Sir Edward Kemp's Letter

LAST AMENDMENT WAS LESS ONEROUS

Was Improvement on Sir Wilfrid's Act; Extended the Exemptions

TORONTO, Nov. 22.—Sir Robert Borden, prime minister of Canada from 1911 to 1920, has replied to a letter from Sir Edward Kemp, former minister of militia, in which Sir Edward drew attention to the statement of Premier Taschereau of Quebec province, that the pepole of that province were deceived in regard to conscription during the war. Premier Taschereau's statement was in reply to the speech of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Conservative opposition, made at Hamilton last Monday. Sir Robert Borden, in his letter, states that on examination of his speeches at the short session of 1914, he did not find any statement or promise that there would be no conscription. He had said that "our men were going as free men, by voluntary enlistment." This, he added, was subsequent to Sir Wilfred Laurier's speech at the same session, in which he declared it should be the duty of Canada to assist the mother land "to the utmost of Canada's ability." Sir Robert adds that in replying to Sir Wilfred Laurier on the 17th of January, 1916, he said that he made it clear to the people of Canada that we did not propose any conscription."

Had Two Reasons

"I repeat that announcement today with emphasis," the letter continues, "that statement was made in view of two considerations, (1) the condition of recruiting at that time was so excellent that there seemed no reason to expect the necessity of conscription, and (2) particularly for the reason that there was great fear of a wholesale exodus of American settlers from the western provinces under the apprehension of compulsory military service. War conditions at that time seemed to justify the statement; we believed that compulsory military service would not become necessary, and we had then no intention of invoking the principle of conscription which had been authorized by law for many years.

"However, by the end of 1916 conditions had so greatly altered that, when the trades and labor congress demanded an assurance that there would be no conscription, I declined both orally and in writing. A copy of my letter is inclosed."

Would Have Been Disgrace

After outlining steps taken to avoid the necessity of compulsory service, Sir Robert, in his letter, states that when he returned from Great Britain in the spring of 1917, he was faced with "the alternative of compulsory military service or the practical abandonment of the Canadian army corps. Such an abandonment would have been a disgrace, not only to us, but to our country.

The letter continues:

"As I have already said, conscription was authorized by law many years before 1914. I allude to the measure introduced and passed by the government of Sir Wilfred Laurier in 1898, and which is now embodied in the Militia act, chapter 41, revised statutes of Canada. This statute declared that all the male inhabitants of Canada between the ages of 18 and 60, not exempt or disqualified by law, should be liable to service in the militia, and that the governor-in-council might place the militia on active service anywhere in Canada and also beyond Canada for the defence thereof.

"I understand that in 1904 the department of justice advised that under this legislation the government, without further enactment, had power to send troops out of Canada in time of war.

"The Military Service act of 1917 was less onerous than the law previously in force, as it extended exemptions, reduced the age limit from 60 to 45 and introduced the principle of selection. Tribunals were established that could deal with each particular case upon principles of justice and convenience, rather than upon strict legal liability. Thus the act of 1917 did not create conscription, but rather created exemptions and introduced a new principle under which they should be determined.

"If the support of conscription was a crime, many criminals have been promoted and appointed to high offices by the present government during the past four years. Perhaps Mr. Taschereau has not carefully examined the record, otherwise, we should have heard his denunciation."

Policeman Proves Better Than Both Carpenters, Plasterers

VANCOUVER, Nov. 22.—When a world important question as to which is the most important, a plasterer or a carpenter, arose among a party of working men Saturday on a street corner, police had to be called and they arrested F. Lucus and E. Lucus, plasterers, and G. Dunsmuir, carpenter.

ELKHORN MINES INCORPORATED; NO STOCK OUT

Victorians With Capital of $300,000 Take Over Greenwood Mine

VICTORIA, Nov. 22.—Incorporations were granted last week to the Elkhorn mines, limited, which had been formed with a capital of $300,000 under R. L. Clothier by a dozen Victorians to take over and operate the Elkhorn Fraction at Greenwood, adjoining the Providence mines. The company is a closed corporation, all the money being put up in cash, so that no stock has been offered or is available to the public. Other incorporations included the Porcupine Mining company limited, non-personal liability, $25,000, private, Vernon.

YOUTHS ESCAPE AND TAKE HUGE HAUL

Loot Valued at $150,000; St. Louis Bandits Were Heavily Armed

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 22.—Authorities tonight were searching for two youths, who early today robbed four offices in the Victoria building here and escaped with loot valued by police at $150,000. Both men were unmasked and heavily armed.

Entering the building shortly before daybreak, the yeggmen overpowered the night watchman, blew open a safe in each of the four offices and made off with the gems, Liberty bonds and all available cash. No trace of them has been found.

League Council to Settle the Mosul Row; Transfer Made

THE HAGUE, Nov. 22.—Final decision regarding the dispute between Great Britain and Turkey over the Mosul area of Mesopotamia has been transferred to the shoulders of the council of the League of Nations. The permanent court of international justice which had been considering the question, delivered its finding yesterday, declaring that the decision to be taken by the league council shall be binding upon the parties concerned.

The questions which the court was asked to decide have no bearing on the fixing of the boundary, but only on the powers of the league council.

Catholic Archbishop Has Last Rites; His Own Request

QUEBEC, Nov. 22.—His Grace Mgr. Paul Eugene Roy, Roman Catholic archbishop of Quebec, who has been seriously ill for the last year, at his own request received the last rites of the church this afternoon in the hospital where he is a patient. His condition is not more serious than it has been for the last few months, but the archbishop expressed the desire that the ceremony take place on this Sunday.

BENJAMIN ODDY IS DEAD AT VICTORIA

VICTORIA, Nov. 22.—Benjamin S. Oddy, well-known real estate agent, died Saturday morning at St. Joseph's hospital, aged 70 years. The late Mr. Oddy was a native of Bradford, Yorkshire, and came to Victoria 35 years ago. He served two terms as alderman, in 1904 and 1905, nad was a prominent mason.

BUDGET WILL BE PRESENTED DURING WEEK

Will No Doubt Define Policy of Government in Many Important Matters

EXPECT P. G. E. WILL BE MADE COMPLETE

Minor Issue Is Anti-Klan Vote; Say It's Up to Major Burde

VICTORIA, Nov. 22.—(Special.)—With the budget scheduled for presentation during the coming week of the legislature the policy of the government on many important questions is expected to be defined clearly. Important taxation changes both in regard to personal property tax, and to the mining industry, are known to be under advisement, and it is expected that some of them will be made effective in the current budget.

The agitation for some definite policy to be adopted in regard to the Pacific Great Eastern railway is also believed to have taken effect, and as there are now certain definite proposals before the government in respect of the establishment of industries along the line. It would occasion no surprise if a decision to continue construction of the line both from Squamish to North Vancouver and from Quesnel to Prince George were contained in the budget speech, where, of course, must be given the financial proposals of the government for the coming year.

New Acts Coming Up

Other important legislation on the way is the consolidation of the five Insurance acts of the province into one, together with a number of new provisions, including the licencing of certain types of insurance concerns now not eligible to do business in the province. A new marine insurance act is also to be tabled, as well as a new bill to control the disposition of estates of people who die without leaving wills.

One of the minor side issues of the coming week is the anti-Ku Klux Klan resolution, the disposition of which is giving many members no little anxiety. They do not approve the Klan, but they do not think it necessary to dignify the organization by putting the legislative assembly on record as condemning it. Frank Browne, the mover, demands a vote however, and the only hope is that Major Burde's speech on Monday may laugh the question out of the house.

Mr. Lloyd, Vernon Real Estate Man, Dies in Sixties

VERNON, Nov. 22.—E. F. Lloyd, member of the real estate and insurance firm of Cossitt, Lloyd and Beattie, died here Saturday. He was 62 years old and one of the best known residents of the Okanagan valley, having for years been secretary of the White Valley Irrigation & Power company. He came here from Silverton 22 years ago.

LEGISLATION FOR FARMERS' INTEREST

That Is All Activity United Farmers of Ontario Wish in Politics

TORONTO, Nov. 22.—Prominent in a long list of resolutions, which have been prepared for discussion at the annual meeting of the United Farmers of Ontario, which opens at Massey hall here on December 8, is one dealing with the political status of the U.F.O. This resolution asks that: "The United Farmers, as a provincial organization, refrain from political activity of any kind except to watch legislation relating to farmer's interests, and to urge from time to time by resolution, by article or by advertisements in the newspaper magazines, agricultural papers or papers or other media; or by duly appointed delegates, the passing of legislation required to promote the best interests of agriculture."

The resolution asks further than any official of the organization must resign upon receiving and accepting the candidacy in any election or bye-election for the provincial or federal house.

Faint Distress Signals From Ship Picked Up by Atlantic Stations

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—A faint distress signal from an unidentified ship was picked up by the naval communication station here at 6:30 tonight. Efforts to establish the identity or location of the ship were unavailing.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Nov. 22.—The operator at the Palm Beach Radio company's station reported tonight that he had picked up an S.O.S. call from an unidentified ship in the north Atlantic. The call was heard fro m5:30 to 5:50 p.m.

NO SECOND MESSAGE

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The S.O.S. message was also heard by the Independent Wireless corporation but though efforts were made for 15 minutes to get in touch with the sender no second message was received.

Wireless operators decided that the signal had probably been sent in error and further efforts to locate its origin were abandoned. Broadcasting by commercial stations, ordinarily halted as soon as an S.O.S. message is heard, to clear the air, was not stopped.

WORKMEN DROP NINETY FEET ON SCAFFOLD

Four Killed, Every Bone in Bodies Broken; Fifth Seriously Injured

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 22.—Four workmen were crushed to death and a fifth is critically injured as the result of a 90-foot drop to a cement floor inside a huge concrete elevator under construction here when the hanging scaffold on which they were working, broke Sunday morning.

They were engaged in removing a heavy wooden form at the inside top of the high grain tube when one of the scaffold rods snapped dropping them to the floor below in a mass of wreckage.

Albert Fritz, aged 20, was killed instantly. Paul Gollick, aged 34, Arthur Vanrath, aged 30, and Aasmund Zindsvaal, aged 25, were the others killed. Every bone in their bodies was broken. Robert Zimmerman, the fifth member of the crew has two broken legs and severe bruises from which he may recover.

Men working in a nearby elevator heard the crash and recovered the bodies. It is believed the men attempted to shorten the task of removing the form in three sections, according to instructions, by removing the entire frame. The extra weight was more than the scaffold could bear.

'Suicide Mother' Is Seattle Plan to Prevent Suicides

SEATTLE, Nov. 22.—A "suicide mother" was appointed Saturday by Chief of Police William Severyns, in an effort to check suicides among minor girls in this city. That a "suicide uncle" also would be appointed if the "mother" proves popular, was intimated by Chief Severyns.

Patrolwoman Nan Atkinson was named to be an adviser to girls contemplating suicide. The "uncle" would attempt, among other things, to dissuade men from drinking what police call "dehorn."

Liberals Won in Bagot by Seven Hundred and Seventy-four Votes

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—The official count of votes cast in Bagot, Que., constituency in the federal elections of October 29, reveals that the majority of the Liberal candidate, the late J. E. Marcile, was 774.

The by-election in Bagot, made necessary by the death a few days after his election, of Mr. Marcile, will be held on December 7. Nominations close on November 30.

QUEEN MOTHER RESTS BEFORE CHURCH ALTAR

Ceremonies Almost as Simple as Accorded Humble Villager

MEMBERS HOUSEHOLD STAND ON GUARD

Interment on Saturday Next in Westminster Abbey; Church Open to Visitors

SANDRINGHAM, Eng., Nov. 22. — With ceremonies almost as simple as would have been accorded a humble villager, Queen Mother Alexandra's body, in a coffin cut from oak on the royal estate, by the estate carpenters, was borne early this morning on a wheeled bier by household servants to Sandringham church. It was followed by Princess Victoria and Princess Marie of Greece, the tiny cortege moving along the private path so often used by Alexandra in walking to church. Without ceremony the coffin was deposited in front of the altar and covered with the Queen Mother's own standard as a pall, with a few family wreaths disposed around, but no crepe hangings or candles.

Vigils will be kept by four estate servants until the body is taken to London. The funeral service, held later, was attended by King George and Queen Mary, the Prince of Wales, other royalties, and most of the regular congregation. The King himself walked to the church and carried Their Majesties' joint wreath and cross composed of pink and white flowers and dark violets, blossoms of which were much beloved by the Queen Mother.

Simplicity Marks Service

The minister did not preach a sermon, but delivered a tribute to Queen Alexandra. No further services will be held until the funeral, but the church will be open daily for visitors to file past.

The utmost simplicity marks the arrangements for the interment of the Queen Mother, who will be laid beside her husband, King Edward VII., under the Albert Memorial chapel at Windsor castle, where they were married in 1863.

The first part of the service will be solemnized at Westminster Abbey, Friday morning, but the interment will take place at 11:30 Saturday morning, November 28.

Throughout the last rites for Alexandra the tributes will be like those of friends for a revered and beloved woman, and will be conducted without much of the funeral pagentry customary to royalty.

On Thursday next the King and Queen and other members of the royal family, villagers and retainers, will walk in solemn procession behind the casket from Sandringham church to Wolverton station, from where it will be brought to London. The funeral ceremonies there will be similar to those of the simplest British subject.

Troops to Attend

The coffin will be placed in the chapel of St. James palace Thursday night, and will be removed to Westminster Abbey early Friday, with troops attending, and a limited ceremonial. The public will be admitted during the afternoon. In the evening it will be taken to Windsor Castle, and throughout all the proceedings watchers will be detailed to keep vigil.

Only members of the royal family and the late Queen's household will attend the commital service, after which the body will be placed temporarily in the royal tomb house under the chapel until the sarcophagus now being erected in the chapel for Edward VII. and Alexandra is completed.

Mourning Three Months

King George has approved the arrangement whereby the court goes into mourning for three months, the first two months full mourning and the remaining month half-mourning.

After family service in the death room on Saturday, there was an informal lying-in-state for the household, tenants, retainers and pensioners. The Queen Mother, calm and peaceful, reposed on the bed on which she died, and over which a beautiful pale pink coverlet had been spread; there were a few flowers in the room.

Although the Queen's death affects the social and business life of the whole country, certain events of importance cannot be delayed. The signing of the Locarno treaties at London will take place December 1 but the elaborate ceremonial in connection with this will be considerably curtailed, perhaps entirely abandoned, the procedure being merely the formal affixing of signatures by the premiers. The state banquet at Buckingham Palace and the Lord Mayor's luncheon at Guild Hall on that day and Premier Baldwin's luncheon, December 2, will likely be cancelled.

The house of commons will not adjourn, but on the day of the funeral will not be in session until after the services.

Messages of sympathy and condolence continue to flood Buckingham Palace and Marlborough House from all the corners of the earth.

TENDERS RESIGNATION

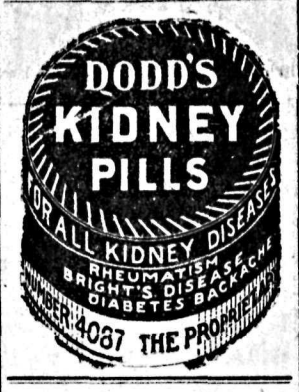
STUDENTS GIVE THEIR SUPPORT TO PASHA

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 22. — Large numbers of students gathered outside the residence of former Premier Zagloul Pasha yesterday to give him their support in his opposition to the present government headed by Premier Ziwar.

The opposition deputies determined to meet yesterday, but were prevented from assembling in the parliament building. Zagloul Pasha went to the Continental hotel, where about 180 senators and deputies had gathered, and the meeting proceeded to elect him president of the chamber.

Mahmoud Pash Mahmoud, vice-president of the Liberal constitutionalists and a Wafanist member, was elected vice-president.



Here is the Proof

That Dr. Chase's Ointment does positively relieve the most severe cases of piles.

While Dr. Chase's Ointment is recognized everywhere as the standard treatment for piles you may be interested in this letter which describes one particular case. There are thousands of similar cases.

Mrs. Wm. Hughes, Appin, Ont. writes:—

"Dr. Chase's Ointment cannot be equalled. I used it for protruding piles of the worst kind. When the Doctor said an operation was the only hope, I began to prepare for one, when I remembered reading about Dr. Chase's Ointment. I resolved to try it, and after using two boxes I had no trace of the piles. It was the greatest relief I ever got, and I only hope other sufferers who read this letter will lose no time in purchasing a box, and see for themselves the miracles it works. It will be the best investment they ever put their money into."

GROWERS WILL NOT SELL TO WHEAT POOLS

Proposition Voted Down by an Overwhelming Majority at Winnipeg

COORDINATION OF FACILITIES FAVORED

Grain Growers' Shareholders Well Represented at Annual Meeting of Company

WINNIPEG, Nov. 22.—The United Grain Growers, limited, will not sell the elevator facilities of the company to the pools as a result of the decision of the annual meeting of the company which closed here yesterday. The proposal to sell the elevator facilities was defeated by an overwhelming vote. At the same time, the shareholders went on record as favoring the coordination of the marketing facilities of the three prairie wheat pools, the Saskatchewan Cooperative Elevator company and the United Grain Growers. As had been predicted the question of the elevator policy of the company proved the main business before the sessions which lasted three days. Representatives of the 25,000 shareholders of the company from the 375 locals attended.

The following is the text of the resolution on the elevator policy of the company which was indorsed:

"That we, the delegates of the shareholders of the United Grain Growers, limited, in annual meeting assembled, having considered the following resolution passed by our board of directors at their meeting on November 17, 1925, hereby indorse same and express our belief that development along the lines indicated therein would be in the best interests of all concerned."

Here was appended the board of directors' resolution and follows:

"That this board, after giving full and careful consideration to the question of the relationships at present existing between the United Grain Growers, limited, the Saskatchewan Cooperative Elevator company and the three provincial wheat pools, and the possibility of conflicts developing between these various farmers' organizations, in a large measure composed of the same individuals and all working for the same end, namely, the betterment generally of the farmers of western Canada and more particularly in the marketing of their grain, hereby declares its convictions:

Strife Injurious

"(1) That any conflict or strife between any of these organization would be highly injurious to the best interests of the farmers of western Canada, whom each of these organizations aims to serve.

"(2) That the pool system of marketing is of advantage to thousands of western farmers.

"(3) That a farmer-owned organization for handling and selling the grain of those farmers who may not wish to pool all of their grain is also of advantage to thousands of western farmers.

"(4) That the interests and welfare of non-pool farmers, who are shareholders or supporters of the two farmers companies, (the United Grain Growers and the Saskatchewan Cooperative Elevator company) must be considered and safeguarded and that it is inadvisable in the view of this board that any arrangement or consolidation of facilities be made upon any basis that would deny to any shareholder or patron the advantages of these country elevators in the disposal of their grain, by shipping selling by wagonload or otherwise which they now enjoy.

"(5) That to the end that all chance of strife may be avoided and made impossible and the most efficient marketing organization be created and maintained to serve all the farmers in western Canada who wish to use it whether they desire to sell through the pool method or otherwise, the grain marketing facilities of the three provincial pools, the Saskatchewan Cooperative Elevator company and United Grain Growers, limited, should be coordinated into machinery that would provide:

Prevent Any Conflict

"(a) For the handling and purchase of pool and non-pool grain through country and terminal elevators.

"(b) For the sale and accounting of pool and non-pool grain.

"(6) That this would consolidate the various organizations and prevent any conflict of interests, and would secure the maximum of efficiency in service with the minimum of cost in administration."

This resolution was passed by a majority estimated at about nine to one by some of those in attendance.

The resolution, which occupied so much time of the meeting was introduced by the Big Valley, Alta., local, and covered resolutions submitted by the locals of Hanna, Stenon, Rufford and Kingman on the same subject, was couched in the following terms:

"Whereas it is essential that the overhead expenses in marketing our grain be reduced to a minimum, and whereas the present situation of having several farmer-controlled marketing associations, is not conducive to economy and whereas, in our opinion, efficiency can be incurred, and expenses can be reduced by consolidation.

"Be it resolved that we instruct the board of directors to at once open negotiations with the wheat pools for the purpose of transferring to them at the earliest possible moment, the elevator facilities of the United Grain Growers at a reasonable price of value."

Was Much Debated

This was debated Friday at both afternoon and evening sessions and again Saturday morning and afternoon. Friday evening it was passed by the meeting but the vote was immediately rescinded as the opinion was expressed that the shareholders as a whole only were able to deal with a matter of such moment, involving as it would the transfer of an elevator system, with an approximate value in the neighborhood of $6,000,000 and would necessitate the winding up of the company.

"Immediately the meeting was called to order by the chairman, Saturday morning, it was again under debate. Owing to a doubt having been expressed as to its constitutionality, H. J. Symington, K.C., was called in and denied the ability of the representative shareholders to order the sale of the elevators and told the gathering that even if they passed the resolution, he did not believe any court would permit the directors to transfer the property on such authority.

Finally this contentious motion was laid on the table and the resolution of the board of directors was dealt with. In the afternoon Thomas Teare of Marquis, Sask., introduced an amendment to the original resolution from the Big Valley local reading as follows:

Is Put and Lost

"That this meeting respectfully requests our directors that when a request is made from the pools that they are wishful to purchase the elevators of the company that they arrange for the sale of the same at an equitable price and that when a provisional agreement has been signed by the respective contracting parties that immediate steps be taken to call a special meeting of all locals and that all shareholders be notified so that they may have every opportunity to instruct its delegate or delegates preparatory to the calling of a special meeting of the company to ratify the contract."

This was lost by a large majority, and then the motion was put and also defeated.

Rapid progress was then made with the balance of the resolutions only two of which carried these being the one from Neepawa, Man., which expressed the opinion that it was "in the best interests of the shareholders to have the cleanest cooperation possible between the company and the wheat pools," and the other approving of the steps taken by the board of directors to bring about closer relationship between the pool and the company.

The first of these resolutions also covered those submitted by other locals on the same subject.

SUBDUED PERFUMES

One Mother says:

Upon the ocasion of my small daughter's birthday, several friends brought her bottles of perfume. She enjoyed sprinkling these various odors so lavishly over her handkerchiefs and dresses that the house became almost unbearably odoriferous. I made a set of flat linen sachet bags, filled them with cotton and used a violet sachet for the scent. These were to be placed in the drawer containing her clothing. When I explained how much more refined and desirable this subtle fragrance was than the strong liquid scents, she was content to discard the perfumes.

UNION MEN SEEK COOLIDGE'S AID

Ask Whether Government Desires to Intervene or if Union Should Act Itself

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—President Coolidge has been asked by the United Mine Workers whether the government desires to intervene to maintain the integrity of the Jacksonville soft coal wage agreement, and, if not, whether the union men would be justified in taking their own measures to enforce it.

The inquiry was made in a letter from John L. Lewis, head of the miners' organization, dated November 21. Mr. Lewis stated that the three-year agreement, expiring March 31, 1922, was reached with the cooperation of the departments of justice, commerce and labor, and added that the annual report of the secretary of commerce referred to the past as insuring industrial peace in the industry, and that no better example of cooperation to secure the elimination of national waste could be presented.

Mr. Lewis asserted that "substantial coal producing interests signatories to the arrangement, have violated and repudiated their written word of honor and in so doing have impaired the integrity of the wage structure throughout the entire bituminous industry.

Naming the Pittsburgh Coal company, Consolidated Coal company and Bethlehem mines corporation and the coal interests of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh railroad as among those he alleges have dishonored their wage agreement, Mr. Lewis asserted that their "savage and dishonest" acts have "added to the burden of those honest coal operators who desire in every particular to operate in accordance with their wage agreements."

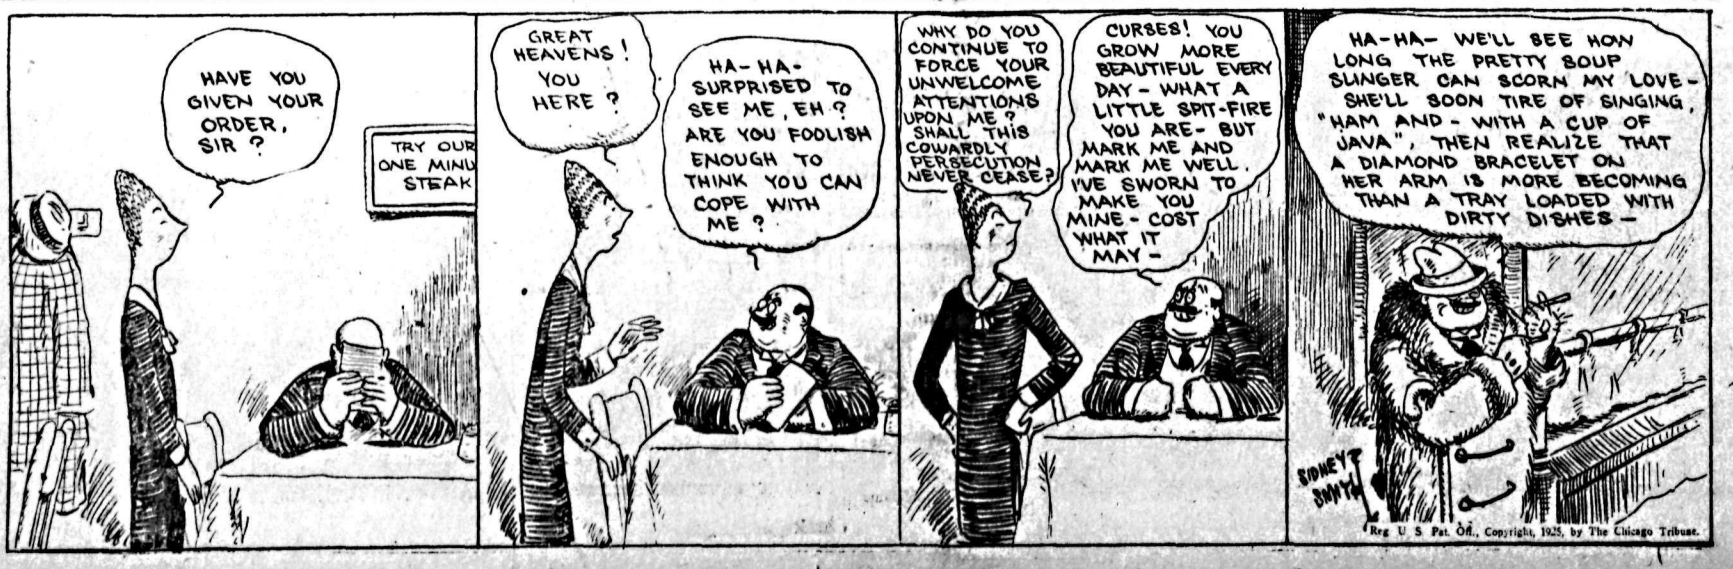
THE GUMPS—AND THE VILLAIN STILL PURSUED HER



THE Red Lacquer Case

By PATRICIA WENTWORTH

CHAPTER XIII
The Threat

"Your pardon—not yet," said the man. "But I will come, as you say, to the point. You sent on Monday a message. It was to say that you were not a fool—a very interesting message, and in response to it I am here to deal with a young lady who is not a fool, but of sufficient intelligence to see when good terms are offered her."

"Let go my wrist," said Sally, in perfectly colorless tones. A white fury was upon her, which completely purged her of fear. She felt as deadly as an electric wire, and as immune from touch. The man released her, but stood his ground.

"Good terms," he repeated.

"Yes?"

"For yourself, and for M. Lasalle."

"Yes?"

"Shall I state them?"

"If you like."

"For M. Lasalle—safety and release, and for you also safety and——" He leaned forward and mentioned a sum of money that fairly took Sally's breath away. She started involuntarily, and the man continued to speak in a low, rapid fashion that was more un-English than his accent.

"For this you will do one thing, one simple thing. You will open the red lacquer case. M. Lasalle he has consented, he takes what has happened as an omen. To him it is fate that has intervened, and he accepts what fate has done. Only — you know him, he has a scruple of conscience—he will not himself open the case. He washes his hands of the whole thing. He has a new idea—something beneficent that shall make his name known. The inventor's fever is upon him again, and for the formula in the lacquer case he no longer cares. He says 'Go to Sally, she will open it for you. Leave me in peace.'"

"Is that all?" said Sally quietly.

"Is it not enough?"

"Oh, dear no."

"What more then?"

"The simplest thing in the world. A written authorization from M. Lasalle."

The man swore under his breath. "You cannot have it."

"Then——" Sally made a slight gesture. The man's hand just touched her shoulder, and lifted again.

"Miss Meredith, I do not think you understand. That formula we most solemnly intend to have. You say you are not a fool. Then reflect. Those who can offer such a sum as I have offered you, is it that they will accept the present situation? I will be frank with you, as one person of intelligence with another. We have the case, and in the case we have the formula; but we cannot open the case without risking the destruction of what we seek. Our experts have examined the case, and they announce that they cannot recommend an attempt at forcing it."

"No," said Sally. "That's just what M. Lasalle told me. I expect you heard him. By the way, was it you at the window?"

The man threw out an impatient hand.

"That report of the experts decides the matter. The lacquer case must be opened. You alone know how to open it. Therefore it must be opened by you. If you open it, you are rich and safe, and if not—you are . . ."

"Yes?"

"I do not threaten—I beg you to understand that I do not threaten—I deal only with facts. It is a fact that if you open the case you will be rich and safe; and it is a fact that if you refuse to open it there is no safety for you anywhere. It is a fact that if you do not open it, it is better for you that you were never born. In the end you will open it—that goes without saying—but first you will wish, as I have said, that you were never born. Does a person of intelligence hesitate between such facts as these?"

"I'm not hesitating," said Sally camly.

"Nothing would induce me to open the case without M. Lasalle's authority. Is that quite clear? I don't mind repeating it if it's not, and I don't mind in the least how often I say it."

"I suppose," said the man, "that you now expect me to admire your spirit. You think, perhaps, that I am impressed. Believe me when I say that so unintelligent a position merely arouses in me contempt; and if I have any other feeling it is, perhaps, a little, yes, just a little pity, because, after all, you are young and charming; and to waste youth and charm is always a pity, is it not?"

"I really don't know," said Sally. "If your've said all you want to say, do you mind letting me pass? I want to get to the station."

"To meet Major Armitage? Yes, you may pass now. Was it Shakespeare who said that journeys end in lovers' meetings? Pleasant, but not always true. Au revoir Miss Meredith."

Sally stepped back a pace, and threw up her right hand with the electric torch in it. Her finger pressed the switch, and the sharp little beam flashed out upon the man whom she had up till now seen only as a dark blur. The light showed her a figure of medium height, a leather jacket, and a head most effectually disguised by a leather cap and motor goggles; the chin was sunk in a dark muffler. So far as recognition was concerned she had gained nothing, and, as the light fell upon him, the man gripped her wrist and turned it back upon herself.

The sudden dazzle and glare made her call out. The man's touch seemed to be forcing fear upon her, a fear which up till now she had not felt.

He stood looking at her with the light on her face. Then he said gravely:

"I shall be quite sure to know you again, but I do not think that you will know me. Think a little of what I have said. Think intelligently. Good-bye, Miss Sally."

He dropped her wrist, turned his back upon her, and walked over to the motor bicycle under the hedge.

Sally stood where she was, and heard him start the engine. She did not move when the noisy, thudding thing came by within a yard of her, but as soon as it was past she flashed her torch upon the number plate, and stamped her foot with sudden fury. These people took no chances. A fold of newspaper covered the plate, adjusted, no doubt, just before he met her, and removable as soon as he was out of sight.

Sally could have cried with pure rage as she put her useless torch back in her pocket and set out for the station; but behind the rage there was fear, and presently her anger died down and the fear rose about her like a cold mist. When the lights of the station came into view it was all she could do to keep to her steady walking pace. She wanted to run, and she knew that, if she began to run, panic would take hold of her.

She came up to the station just as the London train came in. Only three passengers alighted at Lenton. One was an old woman, another a girl in her teens, and the third was a young man with a carpet bag. There was no Bill. Sally stood on the platform and stared at the train. Bill had not come.

She sat down on a hard, wet station seat. She sat down because quite suddenly she did not feel as if she could stand any longer. She wondered when it had rained. The seat was quite wet. It hadn't rained at Chark. There must have been a shower here just now. Why hadn't Bill come? What on earth had happened?"

Sally shut her eyes. The feeling which she had described to Bill as "everything sliding" came upon her with renewed force; and there was no Bill to take hold of. No Bill here, and nearly three miles of dark lane between her and home. She got up, and walked through the little anteroom with its smell of fish and its bright, hard light, and out through the open door beyond. She stood there and looked at the dark.

When she had stood there for five minutes, and had called herself every sort of name that she could think of, she went back into the station and telephoned to the White Hart for a cab.

APPEALS MADE FOR SUPPORT UNITED CHURCH

Educational Sunday Observed; Rev. Mr. Dredge Appeals for Support

Yesterday was educational Sunday in all branches of the United Church of Canada, educational Sunday being the third Sunday in the national maintenance and extension drive of the church, which will this year attempt to raise four million dollars. In all United Churches yesterday appeals were made in which the United Church's responsibility to the challenging problems of the Dominion of Canada were emphasized.

Speaking in St. Paul's church yesterday morning Rev. F. R. G. Dredge made an urgent appeal for support to the drive, but stated that St. Poul's for the present would concentrate on the clearing up of that church's debt before any appeal for funds for the national drive would be made. He stated that the local congregation would have an opportunity to contribute to the extension fund in March next.

Assist in Missions

In speaking of the extension fund, the pastor stated that he believed the four millions necessary would be raised and that replacements would thus be made in work dropped by the churches during and since the war. In that time he stated the Presbyterian church had dropped 82 mission fields and the Methodist church 75 fields. Moneys raised would assist in replacing these fields lost to the church for the present. He urged liberal support to the scheme advance.

The United Church plans the raising of the four million dollars for missionary and educational programs, evangelism and social service, religious work, superannuation, widows' fund, and other things.

The provincial objective, $175,000, has been alloted to the nine Presbyteries of the province as follows: Victoria, $35,000; Vancouver West, $64,000; Vancouver East, $20,000; Westminster, $18,000; Cariboo $1200; Kamloops-Okanagan, $22,000; Kootenay, $9500; Prince Rupert, $5500.

The canvass is scheduled for November 22 to 29.

Rev. E. R. McLean, secretary of the religious and educational council of the United Church in British Columbia, has been in the Kootenays for the past week delivering messages on the campaign.

ILL FARES LAND IF MEN DECAY, SAYS BLACKETT

With Young in White Collar Jobs, Who'll Wash the Dishes?

HIGH SCHOOL GIVES WRONG PERSPECTIVE

Development of 'Faculty' Should Be Aim; Need Is 'Workers'

A Plea for Vocational Training

By GERALD BLACKETT

"Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey,
Where wealth accumulates and men decay."

Who is going to wash the dishes?

That is the problem facing this province. My son is going to be an engineer, your daughter has selected teaching as her future vocation, Blank's daughter is going to a business college, and Dash's eldest son has gone into a garage. Who is going to wash the dishes? Where are the masons, carpenters, plumbers, housewives and the other necessary members of the social body to come from?

It is a general cause of complaint that the boys whom this province has educated in its high schools, are in too many cases attracted away from the province, when their professional education is completed. The girls find the comfortable salary and cleanly work of a typist or a teacher preferable to the strenuous duties of home life.

We cannot blame the boys and girls. We must blame the conditions which have produced this state of affairs.

Producing No Pioneers

Meanwhile, the province is being taxed to train these young people for professions, is being bled by their removal, when trained, to other lands, and is being held back from proper development by the nonproduction of the pioneers, the artisans, the workers of all kinds who are vitally necessary to the progress and prosperity of the land.

Besides this, there are numbers of professional men in our big cities, unable to make a living in their own over-crowded ranks, who are existing by unskilled labor, for which they are unsuited and untrained, or sinking into a hopeless condition of unemployment.

Foreign capital is coming in in increasing quantities into the province and with it come the foreign manager and heads of departments, threatening to make of us mere "hewers of wood and drawers of water."

Builders Needed

This is a new country; a large portion of it is still undeveloped or only partially developed. A city such as Vancouver may be said to have reached the status and solidity of one of the eastern cities; but, as was emphasized in the Daily Province recently, it depends entirely for its supplies and almost entirely for its continued prosperity, upon the development of the interior of the province.

We cannot, as a province, stand still. We must go on developing—or someone else will do it for us. When we consider the immense resources that our province contains, we cannot wonder that other nations—the Japanese, for instance — cast longing eyes upon this land as an outlet for their surplus population, just as they do on the northern territory of Australia, similarly undeveloped by the Australians themselves.

Immigration? Yes, by all means, provided we select our immigrants from the right stock. But immigration is expensive, and to go in largely for immigration whilst we allow such a leakage of our own young people, is as if one should turn on the water into the bath, with the waste pipe open, and expect the bath to be filled.

Are Our Methods Wrong?

We are a new country; we have needs and difficulties peculiar to ourselves. Are we copying too closely the systems and methods of older countries, which have long since ceased to have such needs and difficulties? It is possible that we are trying to run before we can walk? I am speaking more particularly of our educational methods; political problems I will leave to others. The great question is, are we training our boys and girls so that they may and will take their rightful place in the development of the country?

This is in substance the question which the recent educational survey commission was appointed to solve. We are awaiting with keen interest the publication of their report. We all hoped to find in it a reasonable solution of our educational problems. The survey was undertaken by men eminently qualified for the task; it was carried through with painstaking thoroughness; and the results should form a text book for educational reformers and a stimulus to educational reform in this province for many years to come.

No government can go far in advance of public opinion. A great reform can be accomplished only when there is the persistent impulse of the people's will behind it. When the idea of a survey was first mooted, the ministers for education very rightly said that it would be sanctioned when there was a sufficient body of public opinion in favor of it. This was forthcoming and the survey was sanctioned.

The commissioners have recommended many far-reaching changes in our educational system. What is needed now is to keep alive that public spirit which called for the survey, so that the recommendations of the report may be backed up by the firmly expressed approval of the people, and thus strengthen the hands of the government to adapt our educational system to the needs of the country.

II.

Home Atmosphere Not Helpful

The atmosphere of the home and that of the school both militate against the idea of any but "white-collar jobs." I am referring chiefly to the 18,000 rural and the 26,000 rural municipal pupils. In their homes the boys see, and often share in the toil of a farmer's or a working man's life; and the girls are able to compare their mother's arduous duties with the apparently much lighter and pleasanter ones of their teacher. Nor must we leave out of account the instinctive desire of parents to see their children better placed in life than themselves.

In the public schools, the pupils, as they near the higher grades, see before them the inviting sign: "This way to the High School." Beyond the high school they discern avenues leading to the posts they desire, far removed from the drudgery of manual labor.

Vocational Training Corrective

Nor is there in the rural schools such a curriculum as would serve to dispel this illusion, to stimulate a liking for manual work, or to prepare pupils for it. To provide this, and to adapt the school work to the pupils' future calling, is the task of vocational training.

Nor is this the only function of vocational training. How many square pegs are there today being painstakingly fitted for round holes! How many pupils who have shown an aptitude for mechanical or skilled manual work, and an incapacity for literary pursuits, are being passed through the scholastic mill of the public and the high school! The advantage of vocational training is that it would give to those pupils the kind of training that would develop their special faculties, and fit them for a suitable career, useful both to themselves and to their country.

Blackett's Own Case

Permit me to give my own case as an illustration of the need of vocational training. I left school when I was 14½ years of age. I was qualified to take the London matriculation, but a year and a half too young to do so. I was well advanced in mathematics, languages, science and literature; but—I could not do anything with my hands. I could not draw, nor did I know the use of any tool. I was crammed full of book-learning, but had no practical knowledge, and could not apply my book learning to anything useful.

I had then to begin to earn my living. Manual work was, of course, not to be thought of, either by my guardians, who wished to keep me and themselves "respectable," or by my very learned self, who from his scholastic heights, looked down upon mere working men.

And so I became an office boy, at a commencing salary of eight shillings a week; and three years of clerking were to pass before a windfall enabled me to resume my studies and reach a definite result, my studies at the university.

One-Half Educated

Though I can still rattle off the dates in English history and have profited by much that was hammered into me at school, it is obvious that I did not receive the right kind of education for a boy who had to make his own way in the world without money or influence.

The reader will note that only half of me was "educated." I was filled with information, I was taught to reason, more or less accurately, but my hands were never put to use except for writing and being caned (often, alas! a case of palmam qui meruit ferat). Hand and brain were not coordinated. I recall the delight with which, later in life, I found myself able to make working drawings, and then, in the carpenter's shop, to make the article from my drawings.

It cannot be too often repeated that education is the development of faculty and of character. A public school is not intended to turn out plumbers or masons or housekeepers; but it should so develop the faculties of the pupils that they shall have both the desire for work that is not necessarily a "white-collar job" and the ability to tackle with intelligence any occupation that requires the coordination of hand and brain.

Faculty and Character

In the junior school this coordination of eye and hand is an important part of the curriculum; but beyond that stage the rural pupils find their time fully occupied in the acquisition of book knowledge. In the town schools manual training and domestic science are rightly a part of the school course. In some districts the disadvantage of rural schools have been overcome by the appointment of traveling instructors. This is a plan that might with great advantage be widely extended.

There are in England institutions which prepare youths for life in the dominions. I have heard criticisms of these agricultural training schools one of these, from a farmer in Cape Colony, was as follows: "Their training is too elaborate and too narrow. What we want is the man who can take an acre and an empty coal oil can and build himself a house."

There we have the root of the matter. The development of faculty which gives adaptability to any calling, that is surely the function of our public schools; that should certainly be the aim of vocational training.

You remember Kipling's Englishman, who was found perishing of thirst on the banks of a stream, and who, when asked why he hadn't drunk of the stream replied, "How the deuce could I without a glass!" It is up to us to determine that our rising generation shall not perish, nor the province decay, for the want of that training which they and their country demand, and that we shall no longer "lift up the ropes that constrained our youth to bind our children's hands."

Book Knowledge Overestimated

It is not the purpose of this article to discuss the details of vocational training, or the method of its adaptation to the present curriculum, nor yet to enter upon the broader field of technical instruction. If I have made it clear that the development of all-around faculty calls for more than mere book knowledge, and that our present system of elementary education needs to be remodelled to meet the requirements of the pupils and of the province my purpose will have been achieved.

A friend of mine (I crave his pardon for this reference to him) who, by a brilliant feat of arms won the highest decoration which the British army can bestow, was our guest a while ago, and when the meal was ended he was the first to begin "clearing away," and insisted on helping to wash the dishes. He would be the first to disclaim any high scholastic attainments; he earns his living "by the sweat of the brow," and is as competent and as happy to do his bit for his country in peace as he was in war. It is upon such as he that British Columbia, aye, the whole of Canada, must depend for the development of its resources, and the sane and ordered prosperity for its people.

HUGE MINERAL COLLECTION ON WAY TO SPOKANE

Great Exhibit From Here to Meet East Kootenay, Revelstoke

MINES CHAMBER TO HAVE CHARGE

Three Collections Represent Three Hundred Properties

The greatest mineral collection ever gathered together in Nelson is now en route to the Northwest mining convention, to be held in the Chamber of Commerce building, Spokane, from the Chamber of Mines of Eastern British Columbia. The samples represent 139 mining properties in this territory, and 17,000 pounds of ore was in the shipment.

The districts were represented by exhibits as follows: Rossland 5, Crawford Bay 7, Kootenay Lake 8, Ainsworth 12, Riondel 3, Kaslo 15, Sandon 9, Silverton 4, Slocan City 12, Lardeau 11, Duncan River 9, Ymir 7, Sheep Creek 5, Pend D'Oreille 4, Beaverdell 6, Greenwood 5, Nelson 9, Bayonne 3.

Last night the mineral collection sent by the board of trade of Revelstoke, with ore from Illecillewaet, Big Bend, Golden and Fish creek districts, passed through the city on its way to Spokane via Kingsgate. The East Kootenay exhibit has also left Cranbrook, being shipped by J. F. Huchcroft.

Largest in West

All three exhibits will be under the charge of the Chamber of Mines of Eastern British Columbia. When grouped together, about 300 mines and prospects will be represented. This is by far the largest collection of minerals ever displayed in the west. The ores are principally silver-lead with some gold ores, gold and copper, and silver-lead and zinc.

Great interest has been aroused in Spokane, and, according to the correspondence received, the convention heads are anxiously awaiting the exhibit.

"Great credit is due to the many property owners who so willingly gave the samples, and the officials of the chamber wish also to thank the district engineers, B. T. O'Grady and A. G. Langley, for their assistance," said J. W. Mulholland last night. "Invaluable assistance was also received from Hon. William Sloan, minister of mines."

Secretary Mulholland will leave tomorrow to prepare the exhibit for the convention.

Is Arrested Twice in Seattle for Rich Jewel Theft

SEATTLE, Nov. 22.—Charged with complicity in gem and jewel robberies in California, totaling $200,000, George Hall, 26, was arrested for the second time here today, and is being held pending instructions from California authorities. Hall was arrested in an apartment, where police found $1500 worth of jewelry and some furs believed to have been stolen. Detectives said Hall was arrested last Sunday and that they were surprised when they discovered today he was not in jail. When asked how he came to be at liberty, Hall replied: "Oh, they had nothing on me, and let me go."

She Was Troubled With Chronic Constipation

Once your bowels become constipated you are in for a lot of trouble, as constipation is one of the most prolific sources of disease that the human race is addicted to, therefore a free motion of the bowels every day should be the aim of everyone who aspires to perfect health.

Mrs. O. W. Lawrence, Cloverdale East, N.B., writes:—"I was troubled with chronic constipation, and became so bad I was almost afraid to eat anything.

One day I saw your advertisement of

so I got three vials, and after taking them I have never been troubled since with constipation."

Do Liberals Approve Late Campaign in Quebec?

Do Kootenay Liberals approve of the campaign that was waged in Quebec by their leaders?

Are they content that Premier King should have gone around the country speaking his little piece on unity, while his Quebec cabinet associates, Quebec provincial ministers, and the rank and file of the Liberal spellbinders in Quebec, as one instance, held Mr. Meighen responsible for the death of 60,000 Canadian soldiers?

Of all the angry Canadians, angered by the stupefying revelations made about the Quebec campaign by Mr. Meighen at the Hamilton testimonial to him, the angriest should be all straight-thinking Liberals.

"New wars were prophesied and were declared to be part of the program of the Conservative party," said Mr. Meighen, in one of his references at Hamilton. "A war with Turkey indeed was to come right away if the Conservative party were returned."

The Conservative leader did not mention Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, the member of the cabinet who earned the greatest notoriety by his race appeals, but quoted Premier Taschereau, rated as one of the cleanest of Quebec Liberal statesmen, a man who has been staging "bonne entente" demonstrations between his province and Ontario. Premier Taschereau, it will be recalled, was at first rather lukewarm, but he later got into the campaign, and he chose to take the same line that lesser politicians on every side were taking, in their appeals to the home-loving Quebec people.

Here is what this lieutenant—for in this fight that was his rank—of Premier King said, on the island of Orleans, October 28, two days before polling:

"In the present contest you have to choose between two men, Mr. King and Mr. Meighen. I do not wish to be lacking in Christian charity, but I believe I am guilty of no wrong when I say that Mr. Meighen is the man of conscription, that it was he who sent our men to fight in Flanders field. It was he who by his conscription has filled the cemeteries of Flanders with 60,000 Canadians. Has he grown better since? Has he had perfect contrition? No."

Thousands of Liberal electors in West and East Kootenay and Yale voted for the candidates of a government that they would personally have preferred not to support, believing that they were voting "for the boys." Do they approve of this campaign to punish the political leader of whom they were associates in a course that they believed to be a sacred duty?

Do Liberals who stayed with Laurier on that issue, but yet hold their party's honor high, give their adherence to a campaign of unity in the English provinces and race antagonism in the French-speaking one?

There will be many Liberals in Canada who will feel that their leaders have put an unforgivable smirch upon the party's honor.

After You, Alphonse!

Indiana has a law prohibiting prize fights within the state. A promoter has Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills, who are certainly two of the four best ring men known to the world just now, lined up for a boxing contest at Michigan City next summer if Governor Jackson will permit the engagement.

It is probable that minor glove engagements, of an "educational" nature, might be pulled off under the Indiana law.

But on the attempt to match world top-notchers in a title battle, within the four corners of Indiana's interesting enactment, Attorney-General Gilliom has said pretty nearly the last word, when in his opinion, furnished to the governor, he put it, as reported in Thursday's Daily News:

"It is possible that these men might, without violating the law, meet for the single purpose of exhibiting their skill as boxers, excluding from their purpose the exchange of blows which would be calculated to determine superiority between them in their chosen and well-known profession. If this is the intention, there is no intended violation of the law."

With "the exchange of blows calculated to determine superiority" excluded, the appropriate place for the appointment between the two gentlemen named would be the vaudeville stage, for the battle would be reminiscent of that historic football clash described by George Fitch, between Siwash and Muggledorfer, wherein Siwash was represented by its champion featherweight fussers, mandolin teasers and girl rushers, and the football was periodically dusted off with a silk handkerchief, and carried by a loop of blue ribbon.

Succotash: Soak one cup of red kidney beans overnight in water to cover and in the morning drain, add more water, a pinch of salt, and pinch of baking soda, and cook till tender—perhaps four hours. Keep them moist by adding more water as necessary. When well cooked, add one can corn, salt and pepper to suit individual liking, let boil up once or twice, and serve hot. (Requested.)

Celery-Ham Toast: (Tuesday's breakfast calls for Broiled Slice of Ham. Use the ham-left-overs, chopped, for this dish for Wednesday's lunch.) Sprinkle one cupful (or less) of chopped, cooked ham over buttered slices of crisp toast. Over this turn the following sauce: Scald two cups of milk and thicken it with two tablespoons of flour rubbed to a paste with a little cold water. Season with one-half teaspoon of salt, a pinch of pepper, and add a lump of butter the size of a hickory nut. When smooth, add one cup of diced celery which you have boiled till tender in water to cover, and then drained. This amount of celery sauce will be sufficient for four slices of the ham-spread toast. Serve with the sauce very hot.

Thousand Island Dressing: Use the bottled mayonnaise dressing if desired. To one cupful of it, add five tablespoons of Chile sauce, one-half red pepper (cooked, with seeds and stem removed) chopped, and one teaspoon of uncooked chopped onion. Spread on the lettuce leaves.

Peanut Puree: Cook together one cupful of peanut butter, one quart of sweet milk, a bit of bay leaf, one-half teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of celery seed, and one teaspoon of finely minced raw onion, in the top of a double boiler till very hot, then thicken with two tablespoons of flour mixed to a paste with an extra cup of cold, sweet milk. Continue to cook for 10 minutes before serving.

Dumplings for Stew: Mix together either two cups of white bread flour or two cups of whole wheat flour and four teaspoons of baking powder. Add a pinch of salt and, with the fingers, work in one and one-half tablespoons of shortening. Last, add three-quarters of a cup of cold sweet milk and cold water mixed in equal parts. Toss on a floured board, pat to one-half inch in thickness, shape with a biscuit cutter, and place on top of the stew-liquid. Put on a tight-fitting pot cover and do not lift the lid for 12 minutes, during which the dumplings should have steamed to perfection. Serve at once.

Snap and Hook Plant Is Already Numbered in Nelson's Industries

To the Editor of The Daily News:

Sir—In your issue of November 14 there appears a report of a board of trade meeting to consider (seriously) the possibilities of new industries for Nelson. The report above mentioned came in for some severe criticism by a number of men here, in my presence, some of them shareholders in one new industry about to start operation in Nelson very shortly. I refer now to the new patent Frechette Snap and Hook factory at Fairview.

The board of trade meeting, after naming a number of possible industries which were taken up by the committee—excepting the Frechette Snap and Hook factory—adopted the report.

Your report goes on to say: "In this connection J. E. Annable (after reporting on a projected cider mill) also reported on a patent snap factory which 'might' be situated in Nelson in the near future."

Does Mr. Annable know that Fairview is generally considered part of Nelson, and that the hook and snap factory referred to will be doing business as soon as the rest of the machinery (on its way) arrives in Fairview?

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for this indulgence,

FAIR PLAY.

To the Editor of The Daily News:

Sir—As a churchwarden, and with the consent of the vicar of St. Andrew's parish, I wish to protest against the overexaggerated headlines in your paper of today's date re raising the level of the sidewalks around the church. It gives a wrong impression to those who do not know the circumstances which prompted us to interview a member of the council and the city engineer.

We are not up in arms with anyone, but simply watching the interest of the church, and church property.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARNOE, M.D.

A Thought on Sleep

A prominent business man consulted a physician because of his inability to sleep. He would awake about 4 or 5 o'clock in the morning and find it impossible to get off to sleep again. He was very much worried about it.

The physician learned that his patient motored to the office, arriving at 9 each morning, sat at his desk till 1 o'clock, had lunch and a smoke and a short dose at the club till 2:30, returned to his office till 5 o'clock, and then was motored home. Perhaps once during the week, and Saturday afternoon, he got in nine holes of golf. Considering the amount of work you do, you are getting all the sleep you need, so I'd forget all about it. If you would walk home each evening you were not playing golf, I believe you would sleep two or three hours longer.

The physician's advice was followed, and the patient not only slept the night through after the walking and golf, but even when he omitted this exercise found that he was sleeping well.

What's the explanation?

The exercise tired him, and the extra rest was necessary, but also because the physician had removed an "irritation" from his mind; that is, the irritation of feeling that the loss of sleep was a very serious matter.

You know that if you hear an unusual or irritating noise, have a pain anywhere in the body, have any disquieting thoughts, that it is almost impossible for you to get to sleep.

And really, as I said once before, a sleep of a few hours for most of us is all we need, because we are practically resting our bodies all day long.

Lying down with all parts of the body partly bent takes the tension off all the muscles, and with the tension off, the brain itself relaxes, and sleep comes on.

It is, of course, sometimes a difficult matter to thrust care or worries aside, but this relaxed position, with deep breathing, will, as someone has humorously remarked, "Put a lot of sheep out of a job."

Points Out Attorney as Man Who Sold Liquor to Her

SANTA ANA, Cal., Nov. 22.—Mrs. Concio Lleva of Anaheim was sentenced by Superior Judge Marks to a term of six months in the county jail for possession of liquor. "Where did you get the liquor?" queried the court, hoping to learn the source of the evil, but the witness had a poor memory. She shook her head. "Look around you," persisted the court. "Was it anyone here in the court room?" And he pointed to a group of Mexicans in one corner. Mrs. Lleva surveyed the group and again shook her head, then her face lightened as though with recognition. "There," she said, "that's the senor," and she pointed to Chief Deputy District Attorney Moseley. Moseley joined in the head-shaking.

THE TRUE CONNOISSEUR, SAY THE ARTISTS, IS THE BUYER

PARIS — Artists of Paris are geographically divided roughly into two groups. One consists of those residing in the Montmartre district, on the right bank of the Seine, and the second, of those living in the Montparnasse section, on the left bank, which is the successor to the old Latin Quarter.

This year, the Montmartre artists innovated a street sale of pictures and sculpture, and the "Horde of Montparnasse," as the left bankers call themselves, followed suit.

The Montparnasse show was the better.

In posters, with which the city was placarded, the "Horde," under the sarcastic heading: "How do we spend all this money?" called attention to the fact that the French government, in its budget of nearly 34,000,000,000 francs, set aside only 85,000 francs for the acquisition of new pictures for the state galleries, these pictures to be selected from the displays at five official "salons," and more than 120 private exhibitions, while the city of Paris, out of its budget of 1,500,000,000 francs appropriated 3000 francs (about $150) for distribution of scholarships among painter-students.

"But millions are annually consecrated to sport," they say.

"Without doubt, the artists are going to ruin the country, so large are the governmental appropriations for their befenit," continues the poster, which then proceeds to take a crack at the picture dealers and the art critics, whose sole function has been to praise "with rare impartiality" a dozen artists among the 30,000 paintersand sculptors in Paris, but who, say the artists, will now admit that there are "some others."

"For an artist, the only true connoisseur is the buyer," they observe, and conclude with an invitation to the public to visit "with its pocketbooks," the open air display of works of art.

The display consisted of thousands of paintings in oil and watercolor, etchings, engravings and work in crayons, and of all genres from the severely classical to the most modern impressionistic and even cubist.

For five or six blocks the pictures were displayed, forming an alley down the center of a wide boulevard. An enormous crowd passed up and down throughout the two days of the show, stimulated into buying pictures by the novelty of the idea, and perhaps partly by the fact that pictures gain added interest when purchased direct from the artists.

Most of the artists looked the part. Long hair predominated, and the velvet jacket and the corduroy trouser were much in evidence, though here and there one noticed an artist clothed in the more conventional garments of the average business man. Prices were not high, but many of the artists seemed so much to enjoy talking about their pictures and what they represented that they forgot to drive home their selling arguments They sold 82,000 francs' worth.

LOSES DRIVING RIGHT FOR YEAR

Youth Failed to Render Aid When He Ran Down Pedestrians

ONTARIO, Cal., Nov. 22. — Arrested on a charge of reckless driving and failure to give aid after running down and injuring pedestrians with his motor car on the night of October 31, and held in jail since in lieu of $2000 bail fixed at his arraignment, George Freeman, 18 years of age, a telegraph messenger boy, was released and the case against him indefinitely continued when he appeared this morning for preliminary hearing before Judge George R. Holbrook.

Continuance of the case was granted b ythe count upon representation of Deputy District Attorney A. S. Malone, with the stipulation that the youth be deprived of the right to drive a motor car for a period of one year. Mr. Maloney at first fixed six months as the period that the youth should be deprived of driver's rights, but at the suggestion of his mother, Mrs. J. H. Freeman, who appeared in court, he raised it to one year.

Young Freeman was arrested on complaint of J. A. Fletcher, whose two minor children—Ruth, 8 years of age, and Hugh, 14—were severely injured when struck by the messenger boy's car at Laurel avenue and State street, the girl sustaining a fractured ankle. After striking the children, Freeman, who was reported to have been driving without lights, continued on his way without stopping and giving aid.

PITY THE CHILDREN FED ON GHOST CEREALS

Feed your children upon ghost cereals—if you will—but a farmer would laugh at you if you told him to feed them to his live stock, for he would know that live stock will soon die if fed upon them exclusively. Yet your children have not half the resistance of horses and cows. Then why feed them food that will kill horses and cows?

Ghost cereals is the name science applies to certain unsubstantial cereal foods whose chief claim for your attention is flavor and ease of serving. Now would you not rather buy real foods, especially for your children, than to buy these fancy packages which, without milk, are hardly foods at all? Certainly you would.

Well, Dr. Jackson's Roman Meal is precisely such a real food. Science proves that it is the darker, rougher parts of the grain that nourish and build sound and vital health. Roman Meal has the dark parts of three whole grains with bran, used in proportions to make a balanced human food. Beef contains 592 food units to the pound: Roman Meal contains over 1600 food units to the pound. Prevents indigestion, positively relieves constipation. A truly wonderful food. You ought to try Roman Meal. At grocers.

REELECT TRAIL MEMORIAL HALL DIRECTORATE

Growth and Improvement in Every Department Shown After Year

MEMBERSHIP FEES SHOW POPULARITY

Bowling Alley, Gym and Library Most Popular Features of Organization

TRAIL, Nov. 22. — Showing growth and improvement in available facilities in every department of its manifold activities, a sustained and growing membership and a substantial cash balance on the credit side of the books as the result of its first year in operation, Trail Memorial hall building and association entered on a second year of existence today with rosy prospects of continued expansion and service to the people of this community.

At the first annual meeting last night the whole project was shown to have been administered so capably and efficiently by the first directorate and the executive body, that the directing board was reelected for another term by acclamation without a dissenting voice being raised. While the election of executive members to fill the vacancies caused by the automatic retirement of three executive members resulted in substantially the same executive body being returned.

This year's directorate therefore, consists of: President, R. A. Stimmel; vice-president, George J. Kinnis; treasurer, J. R. McLennan; secretary, F. W. Warren.

The executive officers elected for the three-year term were: R. Gordon, F. E. Dockerill and Percy Hallett. Executive officers whose term of office is unexpired, are E. N. Stiles, Dr. J. Bain-Thom, R. C. Crowe, F. S. Willis, P. McIntyre and T. W. Bingay.

Over $50,000 Books Show

Some idea of the magnitude of the operations involved in the association's work may be gleaned from the fact that the books were balanced at a figure in excess of $50,000. That figure, of course, included the cost of the building, its equipment for gymnasium, bowling alleys, library, various offices and halls all of which are in constant use, and subject to periodic extension and improvement, and maintenance. The further fact that the association showed a sizable profit above operating expenses and starts the new year with an adequate cash balance testified to the care and foresight of the administration.

Some suggestive figures and comments contained in the report of the financial and other committees were indicative of the popularity of this civic center and of the whole-hearted support it enjoys. Membership fees totaled $5959. When it is remembered that the flat rate fee of $6 in advance in many cases covers membership of a married man and his whole family; that the gymnasium is used, under supervision, by hundreds of children in physical training classes; that concerts and meetings of various bodies draw hundreds of adults to the building, a realistic picture is at once obtained of the enormous social activities of which this center is the stage. Further, 18,000 players rolled games on the bowling alleys, necessitating the purchase of two and the immediate installation of one new alley. From a nucleus of about 300 volumes, the original donation, of the G.W.V.A., the library lending department has grown until there are now 1500 volumes on the shelves with an ordered consignment of 160 volumes due.

Social Happenings In Nelson

This column is being conducted by Mrs. M. J. Vigneux. All news of a social nature, including receptions, private entertainments, personal items, marriages, etc., will appear in this column. Telephone Mrs. Vigneux at her residence.

Under the convenership of Mrs. B. E. Chace, Mrs. Thomas Sargent and Mrs. George Boyce the ladies' and and the Anti-Cant club of the Baptist church held an exceptionally well-attended sale of work and tea Saturday on the main floor of the Maglio block on Baker street, which Mr. Maglio loaned for the occasion. The handsome sum realized was the amount required to clear off the debt of the church. The spacious hall was emblematic of Christmas with its quantities of cedar boughs used on the various booths, where the colored bells and yard of tinsel added greatly to the brightness of the whole affair. The ladies' aid fancy work table was taken charge of by the president of the Anti-Cant club, Mrs. A. T. Richards, Miss Belle Wolverton and Mrs. B. E. Chace. Mrs. J. E. Tyner supervised the bargain booth. Mrs. Hipperson convened the bake table assisted by the president of the aid, Mrs. N. Wolverton. In charge of the Anti-Cant work table was Mrs. Thomas Sargent, assisted by Mrs. D. H. Davis. Miss May Lawson, at an exceedingly pretty booth carried out in cerise and white, dispensed the candy. Mrs. George Boyce was convener of all tea arrangements and received many compliments on her capable helpers who were Miss Mildred Lutes, Miss Mabel Perdue, Mrs. R. Gray, Miss Edith Walton, Miss Ruby Gray and Miss A. Mastberg. Much credit is due to Mrs. B. E. Chace in making the whole affair a pronounced success.

JUDGE ORDERS BABY CLOTHES

GLENDALE, Nov. 22.—Herbert L. Johnson, 616 North Pacific avenue, proved himself a man of his word when he appeared before Judge F. H. Lowe to show that he had carried out the court's instructions after he had been arrested six months ago on a speeding charge.

At that time he told Judge Lowe that he had been hastening home to see his first-born son, and the judge ordered him to spend the amount of $15, which was what his fine would have been, on clothes for the boy. Johnson showed up recently in court with smiles on his face and a wallet full of snapshots of his wife and baby. "That sweater the kid is wearing is silk, judge," he said. "And it cost $10 of the fine. I'll pick out something else one of these days to spend the other $5 on for her."

SHARP REACTION ON WALL STREET

Selling Believed Inspired by Raising of San Francisco Federal Reserve Rate

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Stock prices experienced another sharp reaction today with selling probably inspired by the raising of the San Francisco Federal Reserve bank rate, making the 4 per cent charge effective in all reserve centers outside New York. The selling, which is reported to have originated largely with bear traders, was most effective in the motors and high-priced industrial specialties, with most of the standard industrials and rails showing only minor recessions.

Outside the stock market, chief speculative interest centered in the further collapse of French francs to a new low record for the year and the sharp rally in cotton prices which followed the publication of the government crop estimate showing a reduction of 88,000 bales in production.

Motors showed a lack of effective buying support. Chrysler, which sold as high as 253 only a few weeks ago, was hammered down to 184 and then rallied to 184⅞ for a net loss of about 10 points. Hudson sold down to 90¼ as against the year's high of 139½ and then moved back to 91⅛ off 3⅝ on the day. Nash Motors broke 7 points to 432 on one sale Mack Trucks and General Motors each closed 3 points lower at 215 and 123 respectively and Jordan, Pierce-Arrow preferred and Stromberg and Yellow Truck fell back 1 to 2 points. White moved against the current trend, closing 1¾ points higher at 82¼ after having sold as high as 84¼.

Dupont was hammered down more than 8 points to 213¾ and American Can, Atlantic Gulf & West Indies, Brown Shoe, the Commercial Solvents issues, Mathieson Alkali, Sears Roebuck and U.S. Cast Iron Pipe showed net losses of 3⅛ to 6½ points. U.S. Steel common closed 1½ lower at 129¾. Radio Corporation touched a new record low at 39¼.

French francs broke 10 points below last night's closing quotation to around 3.87 cents and then rallied slightly on short covering. Demand sterling held fairly steady around $4.84¼ and French francs around 4c. Polish zlotys rallied 20 points, to 15.20 cents from the year's low, established yesterday. Other leading rates showed only nominal changes.

RED GRANGE IS NOW REAL PRO

Signs With Chicago Nationals at Figure Over $30,000 for One Game

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Harold (Red) Grange today plunged into the business of capitalizing his gridiron fame by signing to play professional football against the wishes of his father as well as George Huff, directors of athletics of the University of Illinois, Coach Robert Zuppke and others who had hoped he would accept other offers held out to him.

The famous redhead contracted with the Chicago Bears to play his first game with them in the Chicago National league park Thanksgiving day against Chicago Cardinals. George also signed Charles C. Pyle, a Champagne, Ills., theater man, as his manager.

The 22-year-old star said he had decided to play professional football instead of accepting other alluring offers because he had no training or experience that would have enabled him to accept the others. He said the public would be better satisfied if he turned his efforts to the field in which he had been most useful.

Grange, in deciding to play professional football is in a position to earn a fortune within the next few weeks on the chalk lines and another fortune awaits him in other fields. Although the terms under which Grange will play professional football were not made public, it was reported that Grange's share of his Thanksgiving day game alone will amount to about $30,500.

QUEENS JUNIORS BEAT LOYOLA COLLEGIANS

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 22.—The deadlock between Queens juniors and Loyolla college of Montreal in the junior intercollegiate rugby service was decisively broken at the Richardson stadium here on Saturday when in the play-off game necessitated by the tie on the round, Queens were victorious by 22 to 2. There was a wide margin between the two teams yesterday with the advantage all on Queens; whereas in the previous game here the locals lost right on their home field.

Grange in Last Amateur Game Leads Illinois to Victory Over Old Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 22.—Harold (Red) Grange, that flaming ghost of the gridiron, dropped behind the intercollegete football horizon leading his "fighting Illini to a 14 to 9 victory over Ohio State before 85,000 spectators.

Grange, although failing to score a touchdown in his final amateur appearance finished his career blazing in full glory and was running with the ball as the pistol barked, ending the contest and his spectacular intercollegiate career.

"Blue sky" is pictorially beautiful, but a very poor security for hard-earned money.

Blue Sky laws date back to 1911 when Kansas passed a law designed to keep stock salesmen from selling shares in "the blue sky." The people of the state had been the easy prey for every stock-jobbing salesman who landed in the state.

Blue Sky laws do not guarantee any person against loss in purchasing stock authorized for sale under any such law in any state. These laws attempt to minimize losses through the purchase of fraudulent stocks. To prevent loss, the concerns which wish to sell stock in any state where a Blue Sky law is in force must file information, show certain earnings, paid-in capital and property values as represented in plant and equipment, and other facts.

No Blue Sky law can take the place of your own judgment. Plain fraud can be prevented; good judgment cannot be given any buyer by the passage of a law.

Saving Becomes Habit

Sometimes saving habits are formed best by assuming an obligation which requires a fixed amount from income.

The partial payment plan of bond investment has this asset without any chance for loss of savings if anything should happen to prevent payments.

Such savings earn 5% to 6½% and moneys can be withdrawn.

SENATORS SHUT OUT COUGARS TWO-NOTHING

Ottawa Team Stands Pace Better; Boucher and Halderson Stage Battle

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—For the second time in three days, Ottawa Senators sent the Victoria Cougars tumbling down to defeat when they emerged victorious over the world's champions here last night by a score of 2 to 0.

This match marked the conclusion of the two-game exhibition series which the teams played here in aid of the humane society.

The Senators won because they seemed able to stand the pace better than the visitors. Their reserve strength surpassed all expectations and Coach Currie always had a line up on the ice that could cope with the speedy attack that was the feature of the Victoria game. The westerns cut out a pace that was a killer, especially at the commencement of each period, but they slowed as the game progressed and in the closing stages were plainly tired. While the Ottawa margin was not so decisive as on Thursday evening, there was enough decision about their victory to make it impressive. Again they outshot the Cougars, Holmes making a total of 43 stops during the game as compared with Connell's 17. The game was played under western rules, but even at that the persistent backechecking of the locals offset the advantage the visitors enjoyed in their knowledge of how to use the forward pass.

Holmes in the Way

A penalty shot was awarded to the Ottawas in the first period when Fraser violated the code inside the blue line. Denenny took the penalty and placed a screaming shot in the corner, but Holmes got in front of it.

Fast end to end play featured the opening minutes. The Senators took a few minutes to settle to the new style, but once they got their feet, it was an even break. Over 15 minutes had elapsed before Kilrea put the Ottawa crew in the lead. Kilrea scored his first goal in pro hockey, and the first of the match when he took a loose puck from Boucher's rush and drove it past Holmes. The second Ottawa goal was hung up 12 minutes after the second period started.

Following back from a rush by Sheppard, Smith and Gorman broke away with the latter carrying the puck on left wing. His shot missed the net and in a scramble which ensued it came out in front. Nighbor pounced on it and scooped it into the net.

Third Is Scoreless

The third session was scoreless. There were many times when a goal for each team looked certain only to have the play spoiled when the critical point was reached. About half way through the period a mixup started which threatened to attend dangerous proportions.

Boucher and Halderson had been exchanging compliments all through the series and when Boucher went down on a rush, he and Halderson became tangled. Players of both sides mixed in and it looked like a mêlee until Boucher and Halderson were chased to the cooler with major penalties.

Lester Pattick used all his men with the exception of Oatman. Cooper Smeaton of Montreal handled the game in capable style, nothing getting by.

FAIRVIEW GETS SIXTY COUNTERS

St. Joseph's Accumulate Only a Measly Six Against Them

After claiming for some time that they were the city basketball champions, the St. Josephs academy basketball five were nothing else but whitewashed by Fairview's snappy junior five, who won by a score of 60 to 6 in a very one-sided game, at the Hume school on Saturday night.

Fairview started off with a flash and before the uptown boys could realize that the game had been started, Fairview had netted six baskets making the score 12 to 0. The St. Josephs hoop artists were more than puzzled with the combination play, and the accurate shooting Fairviewites and at the end of the first half the score stood at 35 to 6 in favor of Fairview.

Put on Their Mettle

A remark was made by a sideliner that Fairview could not make 60 points, and Fairview started after their meat. Every man on the Fairview team seemed to net the ball in their turn without giving the academy boys a chance to barely touch the ball. Before the period was completed Fairview had made their 60 points, and for the remainder of the game they had a good combination practice.

The Nelson Gas Works Goofers also beat a strong team and the Fairview boys have accepted their challenge and within the next two weeks this game will decide who are the city junior basketball champions.

The teams were:

Fairview—Rothery, Chapman, Curran, forwards; StDenis, Ringrose, Lauritz, guards; Waterer, center.

St. Josephs' academy—Oginski, Vigneux, forwards; Burns, Hunden, guards; Realyea, center.

Referee—J. Huddleston.

FOOTBALL HONORS FOR WEST DIVIDED

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Western conference football championship honors for 1925 tonight are divided between Michigan and Northwestern. Each has one defeat, but the Michigan defeat was at the hands of Northwestern, while Northwestern was defeated by Chicago, which finished in seventh place.

Wisconsin also won three games and lost one, but held to a tie by Minnesota.

Dumb Boys Often Score in Football

By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher, N. Y. Giants)

The following little football tale shows that it pays to think backward occasionally in football just as in baseball, and that at times a dumb play, a "boner" or "skull," is more successful than a brainy one, especially if the opposition gives you credit for being smart.

"A substitute back was in the game," relates Fred Eberle, Trinity college end, "and was called upon to punt. The team was in punt formation, the ball passed and the entire team was off to their assignments. After what seemed to be an age and no boom of the pigskin had been heard, the team looked around for the kicker. They finally located him away over on the other side of the field running with the ball. He made 40 yards without interference before he was finally brought down.

That play reminds me of "Josh" Devore, the old New York Giant outfielder. Josh, after he left the Giants, managed a club in a small minor league. "What kind of a league is it, Josh?" I asked him. "Well, I'll tell you Al," he answered, "I'm considered a smart ball player in that league!"

ROSEBUDS PLAY MAROONS FIRST GAME TONIGHT

Western Canada Hockey Loop Gets Under Way for a Busy Season

VANCOUVER, Nov. 22.—Portland Rosebuds and Vancouver Maroons officially open the Western Hockey league season here Monday night and henceforth for three months the teams of the various clubs making up the circuit will battle regularly for championship honors.

The season on the coast opens with a rush. Following Monday's game, Maroons go to Portland for the official opener there on Wednesday night. They then return for the entertainment of "Newsy Lalonde's Saskatoon Sheiks, here on the following Monday. On Saturday night, November 28, the Sheiks and Lester Patricks' world champion Cougars open the season in Victoria. Lalonde's aggregation is next in action in Portland on the following Wednesday, December 2. Returning from Portland, the Sheiks engage Victoria again on Saturday night, December 5. On Thursday, December 3, however, the Cougars and Frank Patrick's Maroons will meet for the first time this season. From Victoria the Saskatoon outfit come to Vancouver and again encounter the Maroons. Then on Wednesday December 9, Victoria and Vancouver cross sticks, while Calgary is playing in Portland. The schedule thus calls for 10 games in the first 12 days of the season on the coast. Both the Maroons and Rosebuds are reported fit for tomorrow night's opening struggle.

STANFORD SWAMPS CALIFORNIA STUDENTS

PALO ALTO, Cal., Nov. 22.—Stanford university swamped the University of California, 26 to 14, their thirty-second annual football encounter here yesterday. It was the first victory for Stanford since the colleges returned to American football in 1919.

RIDEAUS DEFEATED BY MONTREALERS

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—Displaying strength on the line that was far too much for the local team to cope with Montreal Amateur Athletic association juniors marched to victory over the Rideaus at Lansdowne Park Saturday afternoon by a score of 15 to 1. The was the first of a home and home series in the dominion junior rugby semi finals and gives the winged wheelers a 14-point lead for the return game in Montreal next Saturday.

TIGERS DEFEAT THE HAMILTON ROWERS

HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 22.—In a loosely played game, Tigers defeated Hamilton Rowing club here yesterday and won the city championshp and the Glassco cup. The final count read 25 to 13 in favor of the Bengals.

QUEENS BEATS BALMY BEACH RUGGER SQUAD

Score 21 to 9 but Does Not Represent Great Game Put Up by Losers

TORONTO, Nov. 22.—The star squad wearing the tri-color of Queens university overcame the third last obstacle in their effort to set a new record by winning four consecutive Canadian senior rugby championships on Saturday afternoon when for the second year in succession they defeated Balmy Beach, Ontario rugby football union champions 21 to 9, but the margin in points does not do credit to the losers although the winners were undoubtedly the better team.

The victory was the 29th consecutive one for the present title holders since the season of 1922. While Queens were called to win, the losers lived up to expectations Balmy Beach came out of the game with a 12-point deficit but also with colors flying. They did one thing that no other team has done this season—score a touchdown against the champions and bottled up the Queens' back field in a manner that has not been equalled by any team since the tri-color started its triumphant march four years ago. Only once during the game did Queens make yards from a scrimmage by means of their backs.

On the line it was sturdy argument all afternoon and there was some fine plunginng, Airth and Norrie being the best for the winners with Ogden and Reeves making progress more frequently for the losers, but Earl Smith, the Beachers' plunging half and secondary defence back, was the best ground gainer of the game from scrimmage and it was only his just deserts that he should score the touchdown for his team.

Regina Pats, Junior Champs, Whitewash Winnipeg Vics Eighteen Points to Nothing

REGINA, Nov. 22.—Whitewashing Winnipeg Vics, 1924 champions, in an exhibition game here Saturday, 18 to 0, Regina Pats supplied convincing proof of their right to the junior rugby championship of the west. The Vics had defaulted in the regular play off but the game here was registered as an unofficial final. The Pats scored their points by three touchdowns two kicks to the deadline and a convert.

SPLENDID CARD FOR TRAIL FANS

Excellent Prelims Lined Up for Arthur-Day Wrestling Battle Wednesday

TRAIL, Nov. 22.—A splendid card of three preliminaries by all local amateurs, has been arranged to precede the main bout, Ernie Arthur of Trail versus Ernie Day of Spokane, in the big wrestling show at the Knights of Pythias hall on Wednesday. In addition, Herb Sheppard, well-known local mat game referee, has been secured to referee the Arthur-Day bout.

In the semi-windup, Stanley Allibone, formerly of Nelson, a snappy lightweight scrapper, will meet Louis Demore, a very promising Trail boy, in a three-round points go with the padded mitts.

Two middleweights whose individual performances have shown Trail fans that they know their stuff, will also go three rounds with the mitts. They are Joe Haywood and Bill McLeod.

The third fixture will be a wrestling bout between E Olsen and E. Lyppo, welterweights, both of whom are pupils of Ernie Arthur. They will wrestle for a single fall.

SCOTTISH PLAY SUFFERS WHEN FOG IS HEAVY

Two Games Postponed, Third Cancelled; St. Mirrens Disappoint Followers

GLASGOW, Nov. 22.—The west of Scotland was fog-bound yesterday and the net result was two postponed games, and one, that between Motherwell and Rangers, abandoned. The tilt at Celtic park with Heart of Midlothian had to be called off, while the Hampden park fixture, between Queens Park and Airdrieonians, suffered a like fate. The Rangers arrived late at Motherwell after having lost their way in the fog and the game was begun late, but eventually had to be abandoned, 10 minutes after the start of the second period.

The big surprise of the other seven games played was the defeat of Aberdeen by St. Johnstone at Aberdeen. The margin was only one goal, but it was sufficient to send the Perthshire team back home with a new lease of life.

Proves Disappointment

St. Mirren provided another big disappointment for their supporters when, after leading by a couple of goals registered by Whiklaw and MacRae, they were suddenly rushed off their feet by Partick Thistle. Ness and Grove drove home the equalizers for the visitors.

Three goals by Wiere at Kilmarnock gave them the big advantage over Raith Rovers on the former's ground.

Another excellent display was that of the Hibernians at Easter Road, where they took Clydebank into camp by 5-1.

Cowdenbeath swamped Greenock Morton by exactly the same score, Leonard being in great form for the home team.

An exciting tilt between Dundee and Dundee United resulted in a scoreless draw. In the game between Falkirk and Hamilton, Paterson obtained the only goal in the game for the "Bairns."

Belgian Horse Clears Six Feet Seven at the Royal Winter Fair

TORONTO, Nov. 22.—The feature event of the final night of the royal winter fair yesterday was the high jump and Belgium again carried away premier honors when Lieutenant Bradbandiere, on Hant Tarllur, cleared six feet seven inches which other contestants failed to do. The winner was cheered by a crowd which filled the coliseum. Last year the jump was six ten.

Fizaro, which was second prize winner and which was ridden by Com Meackers of Belgium, knocked down the bars on all three attempts at six feet seven. The winner, Hant Parliur, knocked the bars off on the first two attempts but cleared on the third.

Belgian, French and American horses were prize winners in other events on closing day of the show, Winnipeg and Montreal exhibitors won in harness horse classes.

Harvard Plays in Scoreless Battle Against Yale Team

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Perhaps the outstanding result of Saturday's eastern play, the features of which were Harvard's scoreless battle against Yale, and Georgetown's decisive upset of Fordham, was to emphasize the dominant position of Dartmouth.

The Box Green eleven, which closed its season a week ago by trouncing Chicago and establishing a strong claim to national honors, now stands in the east as the only aggregation neither beaten nor tied.

Tammany Tigers Withdraw From Manitoba Amateurs

WINNIPEG, Nov. 22.—The Tammany Tigers, Winnipeg, withdrew from the Manitoba Amateur Hockey association, at the annual meeting today. The withdrawal was because of dissatisfaction with the decision of the executive to hold a test series with the possibility of a six-team circuit emerging. The committee was appointed with full power to canvas the senior situation and add any team to the league they believe qualified and to take action toward holding the test series.

The resignation of the Tigers leaves the Monarchs as the only Winnipeg team in the league.

All officers were reelected for another term.

CARDIFF TIES NEWCASTLE IN ENGLISH PLAY

Arsenal Wins by Goal; Sunderland Beats West Ham United

LONDON, Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press Cable) — The National mourning that is being observed for the late Queen Alexandra was manifest on Saturday when, despite the excellent matches carded in the first division of the English league, the attendances dropped far below normal. All players wore black armlets in memory of the dowager queen.

Arsenal's victory, by the odd goal in five, was rather fortunate for Rolla headed the ball through his own nets, thus giving the Highbury club the lead. The accident happened, however, when Arsenal had the advantage in the general run of play, and the goal was excellent value for this display. The game, coupled with Sunderland's handsome victory over West Ham United, served to keep the margin between the two teams as it was, one point, only continuing to divide them in the aggregate.

Cardiff City's enterprise in spending freely to engage new players, for the most part recruits from the Scottish league, brought the gate of 40,000 on Saturday, when they drew with Newcastle United at Cardiff.

For the third week in succession Manchester City rang up a three to one score against their opponents, their victim on Saturday being Bury.

Aston Villa Draws

Following upon their magnificent win over Huddersfield Town a week ago, Aston Villa's draw with Everton was something of a surprise, for they were fully extended to win.

The defeat of Tottenham Hotspurs on their own ground by Bolton Wanderers was one of the upsets on the day, and it constituted the Spurs' theird defeat in four games played.

Sheffield United's attack, yesterday, was led by amateurs for the first time in many years, Roxburgh occupying the center position. He found the net once in the game against Leeds and was responsible for the "Blades" fine victory.

In the second division, the sensation of the day was the defeat of Chelsea, the first trimming handed out to the pensioners this season. The victories was Swansea, who graduated from the southern section of the third division last season.

TWENTY-FIVE TAKE HONORS IN FIRST AID

Canadian Pacific Exams Are Held; a Woman Gets Possible

Twenty-five persons, comprising 15 men and 10 ladies, successfully passed the 'First Aid' held in Nelson Wednesday and Friday, under the auspices of the Canadian Pacific railway; Drs. Bennett and Eaton officiating as judges.

Reversing the order of last year, the men on this occasion excelled the ladies, securing an average percentage of 86.6, against the ladies' 85.

The awards for St. John's Ambulance work are 'progressive,' inasmuch that one must first win a certificate, may then, the following year obtain a voucher, and at the third successful sitting would secure a medallion. Those having progressed so far, are granted 'labels' for each subsequent successful examination. Altogether 12 certificates, nine vouchers, three medallions and one label were awarded in last week's function.

The only 'possible' to be gained in either the men or the ladies' class was secured by Mrs. Mary Shardelow, who in addition to obtaining all possible marks, was highly commended by the judges for her excellency of detail.

Those Passing

Those securing awards were Mesdames M. E. Donaldson,, C. Heddle, H. A. Johnson, E. E. Lepper, M. Shardelow, E. Thain and F. Wright; and A. Fawcett, M. Heddle, C. Notman S. Bate, T. Bate, F. IMPERIAL BANK REPORT SHOWS GOOD PROGRESS

Fifty-first Annual Statement Shows Marked Improvement in Business

TORONTO, Nov. 22.—Very satisfactory progress is indicated in the fifty-first annual statement of the Imperial Bank of Canada which will be mailed to all shareholders tomorrow. The statement reflects a marked improvement in business conditions in the last four months, and places the profits for the year ending October 31, at $1,162,148.73 an increase of $55,000 over the figures of the previous year.

The feature in the statement is the large increase in deposits which stand at $95,934,168.29 as compared with those of last year of $88,123,096.90. Deposits bearing interest increased by $6,200,000 while deposits not interest show an advance of $1,700,000.

The bank not only maintained its liquid position but during the last 12 months improved it considerably, as liquid assets stand at $66,875,829.76 as against $58,951,118.69 at the close of the previous year. In fact the bank's liquid assets are over 61 per cent of his liabilities to the public, says the statement.

Cash on hand and kindred assets are placed at $26,338,271.38 or over 24 per cent of the bank's liabilities to the public.

Funds Show Increase

During the year the funds in the bank represented by Dominion and provincial ecurities showed a considerable increase and stand at $15,317,561.11.

Current loans at $50,839,845.66, or a million and a half more than year ago are given as indicating a gradual improvement in business conditions during the past few months. Further evidence of improved business conditions is given in the note circulation which stands at $10,678,152 as compared with a year ago at $9,526,554.

With profits for the year of $1,162,148.73 to which is added the amount carried forward from last year $1,039,223.19, the bank after setting aside $150,000 to provide for Dominion government taxes paid dividends at the rate of 12 per cent per annum and a bonus of one per cent to shareholders and contributed $42,500 to officers guarantee and pension funds, leaving $1,098,871.92 to be carried forward, or nearly $60,000 in excess of the amount carried forward last year. The annual meeting of the bank will be held at the head office in Toronto on Wednesday next, November 25.

LINKS FOUND IN EVOLUTION CASE

They Were Wrapped Around Neck of Fundamentalist, According to Court

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22.—The evolutionary necessity on the part of Mrs. Mrs. Grace V. Roser for wrapping a tire chain around the neck of James Merry of the Bible institute in the latter's fundamental right to make bitter protest were aired briefly in Judge Georgia Bullock's court yesterday. The case was continued to permit Merry to bring his chain of evidence, the missing links, so to speak, into court, and to allow Mrs. Roser to subpoena character witnesses to prove she does not habitually emphasize her theories on evolution so strongly.

Mrs. Roser contends that she brought the tire chain into the religious discussion because Merry insulted her daughter, Queen Silver, 14-year-old girl evolutionist, and author of a lecture called "Evolution From the Monkey to Bryan." Merry was lecturing on fundamentalism in the Plaza a few weeks ago. In the course of his talk he held up a copy of Miss Silver's lecture, the front cover of which showed the young woman with a monkey in her lap and a gorilla standing beside her.

"Look!" he is said to have shouted. "People are known by the company they keep!"

Whereat Mrs. Roser, lecturer on evolution, arose, according to the complaint, and wrapped said tire chain around Merry's neck. The powerful chain of circumstances effectually ended his lecture.

Mrs. Roser was represented legally yesterday by her husband, Harry H. Roser, defeated Socialist candidate for governor in 1918, who gravely informed the court that "this case will require an entire day, inasmuch as it is not a simple assault and battery case, but deeply involves the theories of evolution and fundamentalism."

Miss Silver also was in court, but denied she intended to act as assistant counsel. The young girl, who is declared by her mother to be "the direct result of an educational experiment," has never been to school, was educated at home, and edits a magazine and earns her own living.

A cow at Wiarton charged a lake steamer with such force as to necessitate the boat undergoing repairs.

Nelson Receives Colder Weather Over Week-End

Cold weather has set hard in the city for the past 48 hours and heavy frosts have been seen on the earth early in the morning. The minimum temperature for the 24 hours ending at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon was 26 degrees and for the 24 hours ending at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon was 23 degrees. The maximum temperature for the 24 hours ending at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon was 39 degrees and for the 24 hours ending at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon was 33 degrees.

Meteorologist J. S. Goulding last night stated that the barometer was falling fast, and the weather for today was undecided.

BERMUDA MOURNS DEATH OF ALEXANDRA

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Nov. 22. — Flags were at half staff throughout Bermuda today and yesterday because of the death of Queen Mother Alexandra. There was no sitting of the house of assembly, and all social engagements at the Government House and Admiralty House were cancelled.

Japanese Royalty Stop Social Engagements in Honor of British Queen

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22. — All social engagements made in San Francisco for Prince and Princess Asaka of Japan, who arrived late today on the closing lap of a three-year tour of the world, have been cancelled because of the death of Queen Mother Alexandra of Great Britain.

Fruit Store Is Gutted in Saskatoon; Damage Is Thirty Thousand

SASKATOON, Nov. 23.—Fire, said to have originated in the Grand Central Fruit market about 11 o'clock Sunday night, gutted the fruit store and the premises of the Standard Fur works and Scotland Woolen mills, adjoining. Roughly, $30,000 damage resulted, which was partly covered by insurance.

Woman Is Granted a Divorce From Ex-Pastor Hubby

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 22.—Mrs. Wilson W. Culp, four times deserted by her husband, gave him liberty recently. She divorced the unfrocked preacher on the grounds of desertion, cruelty and nonsupport of their 10 living children, the youngest 2 years of age, the oldest 18.

Judge Oare granted her the decree, gave her no alimony and ordered that she should not remarry for two years.

"I should say not," was the remark that Mrs. Culp shouted when Judge Oare asked if she would wed the missing husband should be appear again.

Mrs. Culp told how she had been a happy bride in the country church parsonage near Nappanee, Ind., about 20 years ago.

It was several years ago in Ohio that Rev. Culp, then pastor of the country church, fell in love with a choir girl and eloped with her, only to be unfrocked. They were caught in Michigan.

Reconciliation brought the family to Sound Bend, where the ex-preacher got a job. Three times since he has wandered away, however, the last two times with his sister-in-law, it is asserted, and with whom he is now living somewhere, it is believed.

It was with Mrs. Clio Culp, who deserted her husband and baby, that he ran away to Chicago, only to come back when Mrs. Clio became homesick for her baby. They received forgiveness, but they took flight again, after Culp had accumulated a little money for railroad fare to Mexico.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 22.—A campaign against the sale or display of immoral postcards, pictures or publications has been undertaken by the National Council of Mexican women.

Secretary of Education Puig, petitioned by the council to take action upon the ground that the youth of the country is being subjected to evil influences, expressed his sympathy with the movement and promised his governmental influence in its support.

Government inspectors have been instructed to investigate the conditions complained of by the Women's council.

OFFER PRAYERS FOR LATE QUEEN AND REGIMENT

Archdeacon Graham Makes Special Allusions at St. Saviour's

FIFTY-FOURTH LAYS A WREATH

'Meaning of Life' Affords Theme to Rector of Church.

Before a large congregation at St. Saviour's church last evening Ven. Archdeacon F. H. Graham offered special prayers for the late Queen Alexandra, mother of King George, her death having occurred Friday, and also for the fallen of the 54th Kootenay battalion, whose comrades of the church provided flowers for the decoration of the church, a white wreath for their fallen comrades, yesterday being the Sunday nearest the anniversary of the taking of Desire trench.

Mr. Graham stated that last night was the last Sunday in the Anglican year, next Sunday being Advent. In referring to the new church year, his text being taken from the epistle of St. James, he asked, "What is your life, and what does your life amount to?" He said if all were perfect, they would find life a great jumble, and there would be a great many differences and attitudes.

Individuals' lives were much different from each other's, almost in everything, and there was a great difference intellects. Some had seen things through microscopes, and seen things all sizes, shapes and colors, all of which were in a jumble in a small glass, and yet there was a pattern to it. He said often God saw men, and yet they did not know it, but there was a different pattern and purpose in God's sight. After all, Mr. Graham stated, though men could not see God, as God saw them, they could believe in him.

Three Parts of Life

The speaker said life was made up of three things—Intention, duration and nature.

Life was indefinite, and yet it all fell into one of two things, and there was a great eternity. Life, he stated, either was lived for selfishness, or not for selfishness. But the world contained a wide area populated by those who did not realize that selfishness was a power of God, even although some of the oldest of Christians who by grace of Christ had drawn near to the cross of Christ, had caught much of his spirit, that of the power of unselfishness.

Those, he stated, who admitted selfishness and believed selfishness, were lead to destruction, and lost their own souls.

"What is the intention of your life?" he asked.

Mr. Graham said through experience and study of life, Christians constantly brought power that would be built in the divine spirit and in the divine heaven. At a first look, the world looked large, but as the years went on, it looked much smaller, and soon some had only a focus of Christ.

But, he stated, in Christ men had light, authority and power.

He stated that by losses men found control, until they came to humanity and measured up to the stature of Christ, and not the simple sons and daughters of God they came to first of all.

"What is the nature of life?" asked the speaker. He said it was the sonship of God, if it was anything at all.
