FONCK'S PLANE WRECKED; TWO KILLED

DEATH LIST GROWS IN STORM SWEPT AREA

MANY DEAD IN FLORIDA ARE ACCOUNTED FOR

Miami Alone Has 250 Deaths; 3000 Treated in Hospitals There During Day

CARLOAD COTS, CANDLES, OTHER NEEDS RUSHED IN

Airplane Shipment of Tetanus Antitoxin Arrives; 74 Persons Arrested for Looting

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 21.—At least [illegible] dead; 150 or more missing; 3000 injured and 50,000 homeless—this was the known sum tonight of human life and suffering in the cities and towns along Florida's southeastern coast in the tropical hurricane.

At Miami, the death toll increased when Biscayne Bay gave up more of the dead. Authorities said the list probably would reach 250, although it was around 200 tonight. Hospitals and Red Cross stations treated more than 3000 injured during the day, many of them only slightly hurt.

At Hollywood, the list of the known dead was 32 with possibly eight other bodies to be brought in, and with 70 persons listed as missing. Earlier reports had included many of the missing as definitely dead and the total had been announced as 75 known dead. There were about 250 injured listed at Hollywood today and slightly over 200 of them were listed as seriously injured.

Many Will Die

Fort Lauderdale's death list remained at 18 during the day but the list of seriously injured increased to 300 as the interior sections were reached and the victims brought in. Of the seriously injured probably a score will not survive. There are 500 other less seriously hurt in the Fort Lauderdale, Floranada and Progresso neighborhoods. The Red Cross relief stations were crowded with injured and refugees.

Reports from other localities indicated little change in the death toll with the exception of Dania and Davie, both of which reported several additional bodies had been located but could not be removed until high waters receded. The inflow from these sections continue to increase.

Fish Are Stranded

In the devastated area where the waters have receded millions of crabs and fiddlers swarm over the land in search of the watering places from which they were so rudely swept last week. Other animals add add to the picture and make a most attractive field for birds of prey circling in great numbers overhead.

From Deerfield south to the coast continues an appalling scene of destruction and tragedy. Despite the attempts today by brave hearted residents to bring some semblance of order out of chaos the picture has changed little. Palms, pines, telegraph poles, gateways and garages are all jumbled together around the wreckage of homes and business houses. The only real semblances of order are the bread lines and the creeping lines of traffic over

FORT LAUDERDALE IS A MASS OF RUINS

Once Thriving Town of 20,000 Wrecked; Eleven Dead and 100 Injured by Storm

FORT LAUDERDALE, Sept. 21.—This once thriving town of 20,000 people lies in ruins as a result of the tropical hurricane of last Saturday.

Eleven dead and 100 severely injured have been accounted for. Many wrecked buildings are yet to be searched, all efforts being directed at caring for the wounded and homeless.

The sewerage system has practically been destroyed and all public utilities are at a standstill.

'Pack Up Your Troubles' Is Tune Played Through Streets of Stricken City

HOLLYWOOD, Fla., Sept. 21.—Hollywood today lifted its head above the fantastic wreckage of Saturday's storm and began to clear away for another start.

As men and women labored side by side to restore some semblance of order, a band marched through the streets playing "Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag," and "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here."

The death list today stood at 32.

Policeman Proves Hero in Miami; Saves Over Score of People

MIAMI, Sept. 21. — P. M. Hanan, policeman, was one of the heroes of the storm.

Arriving at the city docks early Saturday morning, Hannan found many persons jumping overboard from yachts in the harbor. "They seemed to have lost their heads completely," Hannan said today.

With another policeman he threw out lines to several boats which were being buffeted and personallly was credited with having rescued more than a score of men, women and children.

Twenty-five men jumped overboard from a dredge, which sank, and Hannan was credited with the rescue of 23 of them.

GULF COAST IS HARD HIT BY THE HURRICANE

Mobile and Pensacola Latest Cities to Be Damaged; Many People Injured

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 21.—Some loss of life and property damage estimated into the millions resulted along the gulf coast from the tropical hurricane which veered northeastward from southern Florida and careened across the western tip of that state and lower Alabama before spending its force in southern Mississippi.

Pensacola, which was cut off from communication with the outside world for more than 24 hours after the hurricane, blowing 100 miles an hour, had struck it, did not suffer any loss of life, but there was heavy property damage, according to brief direct communications established late today.

The coast guard cutter Tallapoosa, which rode out the storm in Pensacola harbor, reported to the naval station here by radio that many vessels in the harbor were damaged, but no details were given.

Trees and Phones Down

Mobile, the largest of the gulf cities visited by the hurricane, suffered property damage estimated at several hundred thousand dollars, but dispatches said there had been no loss of life and no reports of persons seriously injured. Property losses consisted chiefly of unroofed structures and consequent water damage to stocks of goods in business houses and residences.

Trees and telephone poles were blown down, making streets impassable and throwing some 3000 telephones in the city out of order.

Surveys are now under way to determine the extent of the damage to small villages along Mobile bay and in the interior. There were unconfirmed reports of some loss of life at Jackson and Bay Minnette, Ala.

Pascapoula, Miss., suffered heavy damage but there was no loss of life.

Armstrong Man Is Found Guilty of Murder, Minneapolis

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 21,—Tom Johnston, who told police he had committed 11 murders, was found guilty here tonight of the slaying of Leonard Erdel.

Johnston, a native of Salmon Arm, B.C., surrendered in Seattle recently and was brought here for trial in the Erdel case. Erdel was killed during a holdup last December.

College and Monastery in Oregon Are Wiped Out by Huge Fire

MOUNT ANGEL, Ore., Sept. 21. — Loss in the fire which early today wiped out the buildings of the Mount Angel college and the Benedictine monastery was estimated at $1,000,000. Of that amount $400,000 was on the buildings and the remainder on equipment.

Two and Half Blocks in Business District of Oil City Burned

OIL CITY, La., Sept. 21.—Fire, which broke out early today in a pool room here, destroyed two and a half blocks in the business district, causing loss estimated at $750,000.

Twenty-two business houses and 15 residences were destroyed.

ORGANIZE FOR JUBILEE

OTTAWA, Sept. 21.—Steps will be taken by the National Association of Canadian clubs to ask the Dominion government to appoint a committee, representative of the Dominion, to organize the celebration of the diamond jubilee of Confederation, it was decided today at the first meeting of the newly-elected executive of the association.

HURRICANE IS SPENT SOUTH MISSISSIPPI

Latest Figures Show 400 Dead; 150 Missing, 5000 Injured, 50,000 Homeless

PENSACOLA, LAST CITY VISITED, BADLY WRECKED

But No Loss of Life Reported; Relief Work Proceeds Over Stricken Area

Leaving a long trail of destruction and hundreds of dead, injured and homeless, the tropical hurricane which came out of the Bahamas Friday to rage across southern Florida and along the eastern gulf coast, finally has blown itself out in southern Mississippi.

With direct communication restored to the last of the isolated cities—Pensacola—it appears that there was no loss of life along the gulf, although the wind at times reached a velocity of 120 miles an hour, comparable to that which levelled towns on the southeastern Florida coast leaving at least 400 dead, 150 or more missing, 5000 injurdd and 50,000 homeless.

Government agencies, relief workers and railroad officials were bending their efforts to get into Pensacola to carry relief to the stricken population. There was no estimate of the dead or property damage but the reports coming through told of the huge damage done by the hurricane.

Press dispatches from Mobile early last night said that Gulfport has escaped with a property damage of several hundred thousand dollars. Property loss was caused by the high winds. unroofed buildings and rising waters flooding buildings. The barometer there set a new record in the 50 years' history of the weather bureau.

Other gulf towns escaped the full force of the blast which veered off into south Alabama where there were unconfirmed reports of loss of life and damage and into southern Mississippi where it was dissipated.

Funds Came in

Although only 48 hours had passed since the hurricane had swept Miami, Hollywood, Coral Gables, Fort Lauderdale, Moore Haven and many other Florida towns, the work of rescue was well in hand.

Many agencies—Federal, state and fraternal—were pooling their efforts in relief work. The American Red Cross alone had raised nearly $1,000,000 to succor the homeless and injured and other agencies were supplying funds for rehabilitation of the devastated regions.

Medical and food supplies were being rushed to the east from Chicago, Jacksonville and other cities. Food supplies were going in large quantities, but the West Palm Beach chapter of the Red Cross sent out an urgent appeal for tents, cots with bedding, oil stoves, clothing, candles, drinking cups, lanterns, stools, baby foods, bottled water, blankets and other necessities.

Planes at Work

Airplanes carrying anti-tetanus and anti-typhoid serums were rushing to the storm area in the hope that epidemics might be averted. Through most of the districts sanitary conditions were reported as bad, particularly in the inland towns.

These were damaged by the storm, where some lives were lost and property damage estimated at $16,000,000 was caused.

With the recovery and reestablishment of several lines of communication, refugees began pouring into Jacksonville. The outgoing stream was almost matched by an incoming deluge of relatives of residents of the storm swept district who were seeking direct word as to the fate of loved ones.

Roads Congested

As a result roads down the east coast were congested. Proportionately some of the inland towns suffered even greater damage than did those in the "playground of America" facing the Atlantic and the full fury of the hurricane's first blast. Moore Haven practically was wiped out as was Fort Lauderdale.

The dead at Moore Haven were placed at 61 with the search for bodies still in progress while the dead at Fort Lauderdale was given as 11 with 100 injured. Parts of the town still were under water and rescue workers believed many bodies remained in wrecked homes or in nearby waters.

One declared streets were impassable in Miami and that wrecked houses lay everywhere.

MINERS SEARCH DEBRIS TO FIND MISSING BODY

Hillcrest Colliery at Lethbridge Scene of Explosion; Pit Boss Missing

CALGARY, Sept. 21.—Debris clogging the No. 1 slope of the Hillcrest colliery at Lethbridge continues to impede the progress of the rescue parties, who are deep down in the wrecked mine searching for the body of the missing fireboss, Frank Loto. At an early hour today, not a trace of Loto had been found.

Rescue parties in relays pushed the work heroically during the long hours of Monday night and today but their efforts had not been rewarded when the last message reached this city. It is believed that the workmen clearing their way through the entry will reach some time tonight the spot where Loto is likely to be found some 6000 feet from the pit mouth.

CRANBROOK ED. IS CHRISTENED; SHIPPED SOUTH

Elephant Shipped as Perishable and by Express; Fare Is $1200; Trainer Along Too

CRANBROOK, Sept. 21.—It cost just $1200 to transfer Cranbrook Ed, the elephant, from Cranbrook to San Francisco, where he will rejoin the circus. Elephants are perishable, apparently—and indeed it has been so proven in the case of Myrtle—and therefore they have to go by express, and so Cranbrook Ed was given a baggage car all to himself for his long journey. He was accompanied by Mr. Stewart, the trainer, and others of the circus, and will be well cared for. Mayor Roberts of this city was called upon Sunday morning to perform the christening ceremony by which "Charley Ed" becomes known as "Cranbrook Ed," christening the big pachyderm with a bottle of champagne on Baker street prior to the elephant's departure for the south.

Pensacola, Last City Hit by the Hurricane, Is Seriously Damaged

PENSACOLA, Sept. 21.—Damage from the hurricane here was confined to ships aground, roofs torn off buildings and bridges washed away, it was shown today by a survey of Pensacola and vicinity.

There was no loss of life, and reports from surrounding territory tell of only three children drowned in Baldwin county, Alabama.

Several fishing schooners broke loose from their moorings and went adrift.

During the hurricane the wind velocity at times reached 120 miles an hour.

Santa Rosa island, a natural breakwater, prevented damage to any great extent from the storm.

FIND REMAINS EIGHT PEOPLE IN TRAIN WRECK

Only Body of Engineer Marks on Coquihalla Runaway Train Is Identified

TRAIN WAS GOING OVER THIRTY-FIVE PER HOUR

Inquest Into Tragedy Opens at Merritt; Engineer Shouted, 'Call the Dispatcher'

MERRITT, Sept. 21.—Vivid descriptions of the runaway of the Kettle valley railway freight train on the steep down grade in the tortuous Coquihali valley, east of Hope, before it jumped the track at a curve and plunged over a bridge with a loss of possibly a dozen lives on September 5, were given by eyewitnesses at the inquest held here.

Fred Parnaby, roadmaster at Hope, who was in charge of the salvage operations, testified that the remains of at least eight or 10 men were found and that they were so badly burned that it was quite possible that, as other evidence suggested, others had perished in the wreck. Only one body, that of Engineer Marks, he said, could be identified.

"Tony" Rascalla, section foreman at Jessica, a short distance above the scene of the disaster, said that the train had passed him "too fast to suit me or anyone living," after Charles Hamilton, watchman, six miles up the line, had testified that it was traveling about 35 miles an hour at that spot.

"I heard a roar like thunder coming down the track that still Sunday morning," said Rascalla. "I stepped outside my cabin and then I saw the train coming as fast as it could go. Mr. Marks, the engineer, was standing up on the coal of the tender as the train whizzed past me in a cloud of dust. He leaned out and shouted: 'Call the dispatcher.' At the same time he pointed to the telephone. I understood what he wanted and rushed to the telephone and called up the dispatcher. I could not tell him very well because I was so excited. But he understood. I never saw a train go so fast in my life. Just after it went by I heard the crash."

MOORE HAVEN DEAD WILL BE OVER HUNDRED

MOORE HAVEN, Fla., Sept. 21.—The total of known dead in this vicinity mounted slightly tonight when Mayor Smith announced, after completing a recount, that 67 bodies had been shipped to Sebring and Citrus Center for burial. These figures includes the known white dead, but did not take into account the negro dead, which, the mayor said, "would probably never be known."

Mayor Smith believes that when the missing white residents were finally accounted for the deaths might be 125. He said there might be as many negroes added to the death totals.

VETS IN CONVENTION

VICTORIA, Sept. 21.—When the Army and Navy Veterans of Canada convention here assembles tomorrow morning, it will have before it a four-day business program, in which the question of its relation to the new Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service league will occupy a foremost place. Maj.-Gen. Hon. W. A. Griesbach of Edmonton, Dominion president, will preside.

TRAIN IS WRECKED

GRAFTON, W. Va., Sept. 21. — Twenty-five passengers and one railway worker were injured, none seriously, when a Baltimore & Ohio passenger train was wrecked near Orlando, W. Va., today. The wreck was caused by sagging rails on a culvert affected by heavy rains.

Soldiers Demand More Beer; Are Refused; Then the Troops in Mutiny

AMSTERDAM, Holland, Sept. 21.—The unsuccessful demand of soldiers of the twelfth regiment for more beer after a long march in broiling hot weather caused a mutiny at Assen yesterday which resulted in the death of a non-commissioned officer and the wounding of a number of soldiers.

Serious disorders also have been reported at Ede. The war office stated that complete order has been reestablished.

OVER HUNDRED FIFTY KILLED IN PARAGUAY

Hurricane Wipes Out Larger Part of City; 500 Injured; Relief Work Started

ENCARNACION, Paraguay, Sept. 21.—A hurricane struck this city last night killing 150 persons, injuring 500 others, and causing damage estimated at $1,000,000. The larger part of the city was completely wiped out.

In the most seriously affected district virtually all buildings were destroyed, including two banks, two hotels and the customs house. The streets are blocked with debris and trees uprooted by the gale. Much damage has been done to docks. The power plant collapsed, plunging the city into darkness.

Relief work was hurriedly started notwithstanding the rain and violent gale. Fourteen injured have thus far been removed from the debris. The authorities have taken measures to prevent looting. Medical supplies and food have been rushed here from other cities.

Many of the injured men have been taken across the river to Posadas, Argentine.

Encarnacion, capital of the department of the same name, is situated on the Alta Parana river, 230 miles from Asuncion, capital of Paraguay. It has a population of about 35,000 and is the center of a rich agricultural and grazing district. It produces tobacco, hides and timber.

A ferry connects Encarnacion with the Argentine town of Posadas, just across the River Parana.

Governor Bets on Gene Tunney; Refuses to Stop the Championship Bout

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 21.—Governor Pinchot will not interfere with the Dempsey-Tunney fight. Instead, he will attend it himself, and he hopes Gene Tunney will win.

He so informed Rev. C. Scanton, general director of the department of moral welfare and Christian education, tonight, in a letter refusing a request that he stop the match.

CALGARY BLANKETED IN FOUR INCHES OF SNOW

CALGARY, Sept. 21.—Followed by one of the coldest spells of weather which has struck Calgary this season, September 21, the traditional "last day" of summer, broke over Calgary Tuesday morning in a blinding snowstorm which blanketed the city by nightfall in four inches of white drift and held the local temperatures down to eight degrees of frost on the average all day long. The lowest temperature was felt during the early hours of the morning, when the mercury dropped to 20 above zero, or 12 degrees of frost.

POTSDAM, Germany, Sept. 21. — Prince Sitel Friedrich, second son of the former kaiser, has been sued for divorce by his wife, Sophie Charlotte, former Duchess Von Oldenburg, on the ground of incompatibility, which, she says, has caused her "mental suffering."

SIKORSKY FAILS TO GET IN AIR; CRASHES, BURNS

Traveling at Speed of 50 Miles Per Hour, Giant Plane Falls Over Bank

FONCK AND CURTIN ARE SLIGHTLY HURT

Roosevelt Field Sees Tragic End to First Attempt New York-Paris Flight

WESTBURY, N.Y., Sept. 21. — Disaster struck down the giant Sikorsky biplane S-35 within two minutes after its attempted hop-off today for a non-stop flight from New York to Paris.

A mass of twisted wreckage and the charred bodies of Charles W. Clavier, radio operator, and Jacob Islanoff, mechanic, tonight were the tragic aftermath of what was to have been one of the most daring ventures ever attempted in the history of aviation.

Capt. Rene Fonck, commander of the flight, and Lieut. Lawrence W. Curtin, U.S.N. navigator, saved their lives by scrambling from the plane the instant it burst into flames.

The flight, which it had been hoped would take Captain Fonck and his three intrepid companions on a 3600-mile trip across the Atlantic, ended in tragedy when the monster airplane, carrying a record weight of 28,000 pounds, was unable to lift itself from the ground and crashed over an embankment on Roosevelt field.

There was an instant flare of flames and the black clouds of smoke billowed to the sky. Trapped inside the cabin of the plane, Clavier and Islanoff perished almost instantly.

Thousand See Tragedy

A crowd of more than 1000 that had cheered the fliers two minutes before stood helplessly by, awe-stricken, unable even to attempt a rescue of the two trapped men, while 23,000 gallons or gasoline in the plane's huge tanks burned with the intensity of inferno.

Eighteen months' work spent in building an expected super-plane for strength and endurance in long distance flying had gone up in smoke within 15 minutes after the craft had soared down the field. More than $100,000 had been spent in building the craft and America and France were to have shared in the laurels, had its flight been successful.

Rear Gear Wrecked

The exact cause of the disaster may never be known. A slight unfavorable wind was conceded to have handicapped the heavily-weighted biplane in its attempted take-off, but wrecking of the plane's rear landing gear when it passed over a rough spot near the end of the runway was ascribed as the immediate cause.

Unable because of this drag to accelerate its speed sufficiently to rise in the air, the plane dived over the embankment beyond the runway, plunged a distance of about 100 yards and then crashed. The right wing had tilted downward and the plane's right landing wheel was crushed.

Exonerating all participants from blame in the crash, officials of the Sikorsky Aero-Engineering corporation indicated today's disaster would not prevent attempts to make another non-stop flight from New York to Paris.

Not Enough Speed

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Captain Rene Fonck had insufficient flying speed this morning when his "New York-Paris" plane sped to destruction in the attempted hop-off for his nonstop trans-Atlantic flight in the opinion of C. S. (Casey) Jones, crack civilian aviator, who witnessed the tragedy.

Jones, who won the 100-mile free-for-all for civilians at the national air races at Mitchell Field in August, 1925, and who has been expert pilot for the Curtiss company for many years, said the Fonck plane was not making more than 50 miles an hour when it crashed.

EULER NOW MENTIONED FOR CUSTOMS POST

Meighen and Cabinet in Session; Likely to Resign Thursday; Final Meeting Today

OTTAWA, Sept. 21.—Cabinet making continues here, with Mr. Mackenzie King seeing former ministers, prospective ministers and others at Laurier House. At the same time, the members of the retiring government are engaged in preparing for their departure which is to take place on Thursday. What will probably be the final meeting of the present cabinet is set for tomorrow, and Mr. Meighen will wait on his excellency the following day.

There is still a good deal of conjecture about the portfolios of public works, customs, national defence, post office and immigration. The others will probably all be filled by their former ministers, with the exception of trade and commerce. For this portfolio James Malcolm of North Bruce seems to be the probable choice.

Euler for Customs

The name of W. D. Euler, member-elect for North Waterloo, is now mentioned in connection with the customs department. Mr. Euler has been in Ottawa for some days and will probably confer with Mr. King tonight or tomorrow. He has been mentioned as cabinet material on previous occasions when Mr. King was engaged in selecting his ministers. Robert Forke has returned to Winnipeg, and it is now suggested that he carries with him an invitation to enter the cabinet, possibly as minister of immigration or agriculture. He goes home, it is rumored, to consult his fellow Liberal-Progressives as to what course he should pursue.

Col. J. L. Ralston of Halifax is considered a possibility for the department of national defence, formerly administered by another Nova Scotian. Hon. E. M. MacDonald, Hon. Lucien Cannon, former solicitor-general, may be the new postmaster-general. Hon. P. J. Veniot is regarded as a likely selection for the New Brunswick representative.

ONTARIO BIDS BYNGS FAREWELL

Governor-General and Wife Banqueted; Premier Ferguson Speaks; Governor Optimistic

TORONTO, Sept. 21.—Ontario officially bade farewell and Godspeed tonight to the retiring governor-general of Canada, Lord Byng and his wife, Lady Byng. In terms expressing loyalty to the crown, Premier Howard Ferguson addressed their excellencies at a banquet tendered them by the Ontario government.

When the victor of Vimy rose to reply, cheer upon cheer arose from the assembly.

"Ties that have been so deeply rooted, ties that have been consecrated by such endearing reminiscences, can never fade or wither," Baron Byng said after recounting briefly his admiration for the 300,000 Canadian troops who stormed Vimy Ridge on April 9, 1917, and his optimism for the future of Canada, "and to our dying day we shall remember with feelings which cannot be expressed in words the extraordinary marks of confidence and goodwill we have received from your citizens."

"I am going home with an optimism about Canada that nothing can shake," the governor-general said, amid cheers.

"I have seen your country and your people and I go home optimistic more than ever for the Dominion."

'GRAY TERROR'

The Astonishing Adventures of the Gray Phantom

By HERMAN LANDON

(Copyright by Street & Smith Corp. Serialized by Ledger Syndicate.)

Synopsis of Preceding Installments

HELEN HARDWICK, sweetheart of the Gray Phantom and partner with him in numerous adventures, is lured by a fake phone call to the home of PAUL WARD, on 50th street. New York City, the night he is murdered. Through a series of carefully arranged bits of circumstantial evidence, it is clear to LIEUTENANT CULLIGORE, of the police, that she is guilty, and he is about to arrest her when she is spirited away under his nose and taken to a deserted house somewhere outside the city. Although her rescuer appears to be sent by the GRAY PHANTOM, hero of many miraculous escapades, Helen is soon disillusioned when she is locked in an upstairs room and threatened with violence by RED MAGEE, a brutal criminal.

All this is part of a cleverly arranged scheme, planned by THE DUKE, a supercriminal of the basest type, who has been imprisoned through the Gray Phantom's efforts. Through MISS FAY WINTON, one of the Duke's emissaries, the Phantom learns that Helen is being held prisoner, her release being conditional upon his rescuing the Duke from prison within 10 days.

Desperately seeking some solution to the situation, the Gray Phantom visits the Ward house to interview MRS. SLADE, the old housekeeper. Finding the front door open, he enters just in time to catch the words "Red Magee" from the lips of the housekeeper, who dies in his arms mortally wounded from a knife thrust.

Before the Phantom can escape from the house, Lieutenant Culligore appears, discovers the crime, and covers the Grey Phantom with his pistol.

Quick wittedly, the Phantom diverts the officer's attention by a ventriloquist's trick and makes his escape via the roof—once more an outlaw.

Flight

The night had a thousand eyes, and all of them were searching for the Gray Phantom. The city was converted into a huge man-trap, the jaws of which were ready to snap the moment the quarry made an incautious move. Every foot of the way bristled with perils; every dark nook might contain a snare.

Midnight had just struck when the Gray Phantom crawled out of the abandoned hovel on the North River front, once a low resort frequented by sailors and wharf workers, where he had lain hidden during the late eve*ning and the early hours of the night.* So far he had eluded the far-flung net spread for his undoing, but only by exertion of unflagging vigilance and at the cost of many hours of nerve-racking idleness, while he flitted like a shadow from one dark shelter to another, railing at his enforced inactivity, when every nerve in his body clamored for action.

Now, unable longer to restrain his impatience, he opened the door of the tottering wooden shack and glanced out upon a squalid side street, occupied mostly by low-frame structures, with here and there a cheap restaurant or lodging house.

Doors and windows were open, for the late August night was windless and sultry, and people in scant attire sat on doorsteps, or leaned over window sills. The streets had a humdrum appearance, but he sensed a suppressed tension in the air, due, perhaps, to sensational newspaper articles announcing that the Gray Phantom had emerged from his retirement and had set out on a carnival of crime more infamous than any with which his name had been connected in the past.

Selecting the market streets and hugging close to the shadow line of the buildings, the Phantom moved eastward, now and then dipping into a gloomy doorway or basement entrance to elude the vigilant eye of a policeman. Occasionally, as he passed a group of loungers on the sidewalk, he heard his name spoken in solemn tones, and usually it was coupled with a speculation as to whether or not the dragnet would haul him in. A pile of newspapers on a corner stand caught his eye for a moment. Prominently displayed beneath a streamer of glaring headlines was a photograph of himself, and beside it was a smaller likeness of Helen. He hurried on, but the bright eyes and faintly smiling lips seemed to float away from the printed page and pursue him.

He gritted his teeth. There was a furious, blinding throb at his temples. He knew that those haunting eyes, with all the freshness of youth in them, were clouded now. Those radiant lips were smiling no longer. Perhaps—but he must exclude the maddening picture from his mind. Already in the surge of emotions momentarily unleashed, his sense of caution had deserted him. Unwittingly he had swung into a street more brightly lighted than those he had left behind him, and now, as he was passing a corner cafe, he felt the pene*trating stare of a pair of eyes shad*ed by the low-hanging brim of black felt hat.

He moved on without quickening his gait in the slightest, knowing that any sign of nervousness would be fatal now. Out of the corner of an eye he had caught a glimpse of an unconspicuous looking individual in a drab suit, lounging in apparent listlessness at the entrance to the cafe. He crossed the street and proceeded at an even, unhurried pace, lighting at *cigarette to give semblance of per*fect ease.

He had reached the middle of the next block now, and then steps sounded behind him, steps which his trained ear instantly recognized as out of the ordinary. He walked on, puffing leisurely at his cigarette, but his mind registered faithfully each step in the progress of the man behind. He was not only being followed, but the pursuer was gradually and unostentatiously lessening the distance between them. Doubtless he was eager to catch up and verify at closer quarters the uncertain recognition he had made when the Phantom passed him outside the cafe.

The Phantom reached another crossing, and now he was in a block occupied on one side by a row of old dwellings set back from the sidewalk. A little farther to the south loomed an enormous brick building, with a canopy extending over the sidewalk.

The structure was triangular in shape and stood on a corner where three streets intersected. The building was dark, but a huge perpendicular sign identified it as a motion-picture theater.

The pursuer was now less than a quarter of a block behind, and the Phantom imperceptibly quickened his steps. The street was almost deserted, and most of the buildings on each side were dark. If he broke into a run, the pursuer would probably blow his police whistle, for the Phantom knew instinctively that he was a detective, and it was doubtful if he could escape in time. Moreover the sight of a policeman approaching from the opposite direction warned him that there was danger in front as well as behind.

The Phantom bent his wits to the quandary, and then a sharp voice spoke from the rear:

"Hey, there! I want a word with you."

The Phantom lifted his head, looked to the side as if vaguely aware that some one was addressing him, then seemed to decide that he had been mistaken and continued serenely on his way. He had now almost reached the nearer side of the canopy that extended about 10 feet above the sidewalk. The policeman, he noticed, had stopped on the opposite corner and was gazing philosophically up and down the street.

"Stop, you!" commanded the pursuer, this time speaking so loudly that the policeman jerked up his head and looked sharply in their direction.

The Phantom stopped. He was all tingling alertness now, but he showed no sign of the perturbation felt. If he had acted otherwise, a blast from the detective's whistle would have summoned patrolmen from all directions. He turned and bent a mildly inquisitive glance on the man who now came up to him.

"Did you speak to me, sir?" he inquired in calm tones.

"Twice," said the other curtly. He was a wiry man with an almost square head and hard, bellicose eyes. An hour ago the corner had doubtless been brightly lighted, but now it was almost dark, and he had to come close for a clear view of the Phantom's face. Suddenly, as they stood gazing steadily at each other, a look of excitement animated his flinty features.

"It's a fine night for a stroll," he observed, a cautious look mingling with the elation in his face. His right hand moved furtively toward his hip pocket, and out of the tail of an eye he glanced at the policeman across the street. "Suppose you come along and keep me company?"

The Phantom flung aside his cigarette. His brows curved upward a trifle, and directly above his head he saw the beveled edge of the canopy. He flexed the muscles of arms and legs, while he shook his head regretfully.

"Sorry," he said, "but you and I are not going in the same direction."

A firm, if curiously gentle, shove sent the detective staggering back. Then the Phantom leaped, flung his arms upward, clutched the beveled rim of the canopy, and, with a motion that seemed incredibly swift and agile, swung his body over the projecting structure. He heard a hoarse, baffled shout, caught a sidelong glimpse of the policeman staggering across the street, saw the dazed detective steadying himself on his feet, and then a gleam of steel flashed in the dusk below.

"Stop, or I plug you!" bellowed the detective.

The Phantom moved a few steps along the gently sloping canopy, and then, just as a venomous crack sounded, he gave a sharp cry in excellent imitation of one wounded by a bullet, staggered for a moment or two, then dropped with a swaying motion. Temporarily out of sight, he began crawling toward the wall, which at this point was only slightly higher than the canopy.

"Guess I winged him," he heard the detective mutter to the policeman who had just come up. "I saw him drop. We've got to climb up there and get him, officer."

"Whot's th' charge, sir?"

"Charge? Know who that bird up there is? The Gray Phantom himself!"

A startled exclamation came from the policeman. "Thin it's a good night's wurrk ye've done, sor. But it's cairrful I'd be, sor. The Phantom knows more dorrty thricks thin th' divvil himsilf."

Despite his dangerous position, the Phantom laughed at this whole-hearted tribute to his agility. Easily he swung himself over the low wall rising in the rear of the canopy. His ruse might be discovered any moment, and he must make his escape good before a cordon was thrown around the building. Already a number of straggling pedestrians were running to the scene, attracted by the pistol shot. The street front of the wedge-shaped structure was a one-story projection that doubtless contained the lobby and box office, and in the rear rose the main wall to a sheer height of 40 or 50 feet. To turn back was impossible, so he had no other choice than to go forward.

As he hesitated for a moment, his eyes fell on the tall electric sign that extended along the wall from the level of the canopy to the roof. At the side of it ran a narrow steel ladder, probably used by electricians when changing the bulbs. He could scarcely hope to mount it without being seen from the sidewalk, but he decided to try. Pressing close to the steel rungs, he darted swiftly up the steps, having almost reached the top when an excited shout rose from the sidewalk.

"There he goes!" cried a voice, and a dozen pairs of eyes were trained in his direction. He knew that to the onlookers below he was only a blurred shape, yet distinct enough to make an excellent target.

"Stop right where you are! I've got the drop on you!"

TRAIL PEOPLE PETITION FOR NEW FOOTBRIDGE

Over 500 Signatures on Petition Asking for Better Access to East Trail

ASK FOR "BRIDGE OVER COLUMBIA, CITY CENTER

Gale Had Promised Support to Scheme; Petition Widely Circulated Through Trail

TRAIL, Sept. 21.—The ball has been set rolling to secure for Trail a footbridge across Columbia river to connect the business section direct with the rapidly growing section east of the river.

A few progressive spirits on their own initiative have prepared a petition to the provincial minister of public works, calling attention to the pressing need of easier and better access between East Trail and the city proper, and urging him to take the necessary action.

*The petition is being widely circu*lated in Trail and in Tadanac. It has already been indorsed by over 500 citizens. The support of public bodies is now being sought.

Is Criticized

While the petition is being criticized relative to the authorities to whom it should be directed, practically all agree that it has crystallized public opinion, and genuinely reflects the desire of the whole community.

It was formally prepared by R. Wal*die at the request* of the originators, prior to the election campaign. A suggestion was made that R. H. Gale should be asked to interest himself in it. This was rejected, however, to prevent its being used as a local campaign issue, and it was not used as such.

Mr. Gale, however, was apprised of the contents, and promised his support of it at the coast whether he was elected or not.

Are 1500 People There

There are 1500 people living east of the river today. Practically all the men work at the smelter. Practically all the women do the bulk of their shopping in the business section. What such a bridge would mean to the man going off shift to his home at midnight in winter, and to the women and children who must now walk two miles each way in all weathers can easily be surmised.

The petition follows:

"To the honorable minister of public works, Victoria:

"The petition of the residents of the city of Trail and vicinity showeth that they are desirous of having easier and better access to and from East Trail and Trail city, and insofar as the smelter employees are concerned, to Trail smelter, and

"That the existing bridge across Columbia river is dangerous for foot passengers, and has so been declared on account of the tendency of autoists to 'speed' across this bridge, and also by the lack of a raised or fenced-in side*walk for pedestrians,* and

"That the existing bridge is approximately one mile below the center of activity on either side of the river, thus necessitating a walk of approximately two miles more or less, from center to center, whereas by the erection of a foot-bridge between the desired sites, this round trip could be accomplished in half an hour, more or less, and

"That the acute shortage of workmen's dwellings in the city is directly traceable to the shortage of suitable home sites reasonably close in, which detriment would be immediately overcome by the erection of the desired foot-bridge, and that such a bridge has long been felt to be a local necessity.

"Therefore, we humbly pray that your honor take steps that will lead to the construction of such a bridge at the earliest possible date, thereby meeting a long-felt need in this district."

TRAIL BOARD INDORSES THE TAX PRINCIPLE

Principle of Gross Income Tax to Supplant Personal Property Tax Favored

TRAIL, Sept. 21. — The Trail board of trade tonight unanimously indorsed the principle of a gross income tax, or turnover tax, to supplant the present provincial personal property tax.

The measure projected by Hon. J. D. McLean, minister of finance, was indorsed by the recent convention of the Associated Boards of Trade of Eastern British Columbia. But it is being submitted to individual boards to familiar*ize all commercial and professional men* involved with the contemplated change in the system of taxation; and, it was asserted, to assist the minister in determining his course of action.

It was pointed out that there were real objections to the present personal property tax. It, being based on the value of a merchant's stock and equipment, and without consideration of the value of actual business done, did not equably affect all. The ratio between the value of stock and equipment and the volume of business done varied with conditions of trade and with different lines of business. Some merchants doing a big business, carried only a small stock, and were thus practically immune from personal property taxation.

On Gross Turnover

The gross income tax, however, would be based on the gross turnover. It would be made so low that it would have to be a direct tax assumed by the merchant. On general commodity sales it would be one-tenth of 1 per cent; on professional fees, one-half of 1 per cent; on brokers' commission, one-half of 1 per cent; on transportation, cartage and towing, one-quarter of 1 per cent.

It would be payable monthly with a minimum tax of $1 a month. A monthly declaration of gross income, together with a remittance on the percentage basis given, would have to be sent to the department. At the year's end a return of the total gross income would be required as at present. If a profit were shown, income tax would be assessed in respect of the net income, and the monthly payments previously made would be applied on the net income tax account. In other words, the taxpayer showing a profit, would be required to pay only the difference between the total of his monthly tax payments and the amount of his net income tax account.

President D. MacDonald and Noble Binns, who, as delegates to the associated boards convention, had heard the scheme explained in detail, declared it was the most equitable system ever devised. Following some explanations their view was generally supported.

M. M. Butorac, L. Tonelli and J. B. Twaddle, proposed as new members, were approved without ballot.

The board authorized a letter of thanks to William Ramsay, provincial district engineer of Nelson, for his *services in extending the Castlegar fer*ry service to double shift during the summer. The ferry will resume its ordinary schedule September 30.

Those attending were D. MacDonald, president; Walter Murray, Noble Binns, A. R. Waldie, L. F. Tyson, R. J. McLennan, A. A. Margeson, W. J. Rutledge and Jesse Kemp, secretary.

TRAIL PLANS FOR HUGE MARDI GRAS

Will Celebrate Road Opening; City Council Discusses Plans

TRAIL, Sept. 21.—Trail plans a Mardi Gras celebration, probably October 6, to which all Kootenay will be invited, to celebrate the official opening of the first concrete roadway installed in the Kootenays. From Columbia river bridge to Victoria street, a distance of about 12 blocks, Trail's main business street is now permanently paved and for the most part open to traffic.

Considering this work as an event in the history of roadmaking here, members of the city council suggested last night a little celebration, such as a public dance on one of the paved blocks. The suggestion, the more it was thought over, became more intriguing to the asture coty dance. From a maximum of $100 to be spent on it their ideas soared to heights unmentionable.

The advertising value to this city of an event of this nature, in which Trail as a city would sell itself to entertain neighboring cities on a scale worthy of this episode in its progress, ultimately became a dominant thought.

The proposition now is to decorate the streets with streamers, flags, and so on, to illuminate it brightly with many colored lights and maybe searchlights on the dancing section, to employ two bands, probably the Elks' 20-piece band and the Trail Caledonian pipe band, to play on two different intersections for several hours for public dancing, to have the council form itself into a committee for the purpose of organizing the affair. They will meet this week to draw up the tentative program.

NOGALES, Ariz., Sept. 21.—A dispatch to the Herald today from Guaymas, Sornora, Mexico, said that 75 soldiers and 28 Yaqui Indians had been killed in a battle four kilometers north of Tithaya station. The message said a large number had been wounded on both sides.

VIRGINIA, Minn., Sept. 21.—Heavy rains which weakened a section of an overhead tramway here caused the structure to collapse today. Four men were caught beneath it and two killed and the other two badly injured.

Death from Starvation!

That's the Fate that Awaits Every Moth-Worm that Tries to Live on "Sani-Bilt"

IN their search for a method of permanently mothproofing furniture, a group of scientists and industrial chemists discovered that moth-worms need a certain food element called "Keratin," which is present in wool, feathers, fur and many other materials. Without "Keratin," a moth-worm could not live. It is as vital to them as milk is to a baby.

Remove the "Keratin" or make it uneatable and moth-worms could not live on mohair, wool, feathers, fur and other materials that moths use for food.

These men found it useless to use poison. Liquid arsenic, for example, soon dried into a powder and evaporated into the air. Other poisons lost their strength in time and left the "Keratin" still there and the materials an easy prey for moths.

But patience was at last rewarded. After years of study and research, a chemical compound was found that changed the "Keratin" and made it useless as a food for moth-worms. Not being able to eat the "Keratin," the moth-worms could not exist on materials treated with this compound.

This chemical compound and the process of applying it to the materials not only changes this "Keratin" into an uneatable element, but it can never change back again to "Keratin." Thus, fabrics and fillings given this process of moth-proofing are forever mothproof. As long as the materials last, they are permanently mothproof. Death from starvation awaits any moth-worms, that by any chance, happen to get on any material mothproofed by this process.

Furthermore, this mothproofing process does not injure materials in the slightest. It is colorless, odorless and does not change the appearance or feel of the fabric.

If you are invited to buy other moth-proof suites, just ask this one question:

"Will you replace this suite if Moths damage it?"

Snyder's guarantee says that and protects you absolutely.

Remember, poison wears off or evaporates. Death by starvation—the Snyder process—is the only permanent method. Also, remember that the fillings must be mothproofed, as well as the coverings. Merely spraying bug poison is a make-shift.

Look for the Snyder "Sani-Bilt" trademark under the cushions, also the Guarantee Tag attached to each chesterfield and chair. Then, you'll make certain of permanently mothproof upholstered furniture.

A Replacement Guarantee

Do not be misled, if someone says, "Madam, this suite is guaranteed to be treated against moths" or "This suite is guaranteed mothproof." Just ask him if he will give you a guarantee — in writing — to replace the suite, should it be damaged by moths.

The Snyder Sani-Bilt Guarantee is a replacement guarantee and it is an absolute guarantee. Snyder's, Limited, guarantee to replace any and every Sani-Bilt Suite of upholstered furniture, if moths do the slightest damage. And this written guarantee accompanies every piece.

The Bylaw Needs Your Help

Everyone agrees that the hospital bylaw being voted on today represents the best possible solution of the isolation hospital question.

But the bylaw won't pass itself. Those who believe in it must vote for it.

The arrangement is that the city takes over the building used as the main nurses home, for adaptation to the purposes of an isolation hospital, thereby bringing the province into the matter to the extent of one-third of the cost. This enables the city to finance the isolation hospital from funds already in hand, in addition to important economies in operation obtained by having it in association with the hospital.

Under the bylaw, the city advances $15,000 to the hospital board, to enable it to make good the loss of the nurses home, the loan bearing interest and being repayable.

If this isn't a fine bargain for the city, what would be?

But there is opposition.

Those who want the city to have the advantage of this splendid solution of the matter must support the bylaw by their votes. Take no chances.

Tunney Carries the Most Good Wishes

Jack Dempsey, world champion mauler, noted in recent years for the fights he hasn't fought, is at last to enter the ring tomorrow with a young American who donned khaki and won the championship of the American expeditionary force.

Dempsey postponed his visit to Germany until several years after the war. Gene Tunney was in the great scrap.

If there were no other reasons for the fact than those above, the majority of white people would "pull for" Tunney, who is also said to be white in every respect.

Of course, the wishes of the onlookers have little to do with determining the winner when two men are in the "squared circle" together.

However, the citizen-soldier will have the good wishes of about everybody—except perhaps the German element.

Senate Will Be Liberal in a Year or Two

As a result of the Dominion election, it is fairly certain that long before the next one the senate will be Liberal in complexion. The present Conservative majority is only nine or 10, and the filling of the three existing vacancies will lop three off that at the start.

From February 17, 1921, when Premier Meighen appointed his first senator, to October 6, 1925, when Mackenzie King made his last 1925 appointment, a period of less than four years and eight months, 33 senators were created, or over a third of the total membership, which is 96. This shows the speed at which the membership of the senate changes.

Possibly in a year from now the senate will have a Liberal majority.

This raises the question of whether Mackenzie King—or his successor in the Liberal leadership, if he has one—will then be as keen on senate reform as recently.

In early Laurier days the Liberal party had a plank calling for reform of the senate.

Though Laurier took office with only eight Liberals in the senate, in his second parliament he had a majority of the chamber.

When asked in parliament if he were going ahead with senate reform, now that he had a senate majority, the peerless leader remarked with a smile:

"I have already reformed it."

That was all that was ever heard of that plank.

In a couple of years Mackenzie King's sincerity will similarly be put to the test.

One hundredth birthday was recently celebrated by Mrs. Emma T. Leedom of West Chester, Pa.

We all wish at times, that we could invent some wonderful new dishes to serve our guests after a little afternoon "four" of bridge, or after that simple musical evening, or after our "crowd" returns home with us from a "movie." Yet, the time-honored cup of hot coffee, the sandwich, and the inevitable cake, cannot be improved upon, can they, when it comes to serving our friends what they really like? So let us be original with our sandwiches. And let us choose a light one where a light one is needed, and a nourishing one when our guests are really hungry.

For After the Movies: Tomato Catsup-Egg Sandwiches—Mash six hard-boiled eggs and stir in one tablespoon of tomato catsup. Season with one-eighth teaspoon of salt and a mere dash of pepper and add a very little mayonnaise dressing—just enough to make a paste which "spreads right." This recipe makes one dozen sandwiches, using crustless slices of whole wheat, buttered bread, cut in triangles. Hot cocoa (previously prepared, with the sandwiches) and iced cup cakes complete the light yet satisfying little repast.

For Bridge Refreshments—Ginger-cheese sandwiches are delicate and "just go to the spot." Put crystallized ginger through your food chopper then measure it, by tablespoonfuls. For every rounded tablespoon of it add one 10-cent cream cheese (that is, about one-half cup of cream cheese). Mix well, adding a very little sweet cream or top-milk to make the right consistency for spreading on thin crustless slices of graham bread. Serve with hot coffee (or grapejuice in the new little "footed wear" grapejuice glasses) and fancy cakes.

For Sunday Suppers: Lobster Sandwiches—Turn a small sized can of lobster meat into a bowl, add three or four hard-boiled eggs chopped finely by hand, and stir in enough mayonnaise salad dressing to make the right consistency to spread. Serve on crustless buttered slices of white bread.

For an Evening Party—(Dance, bridge, musical, etcetera). As people are generally rather hungry at the end of an evening, a salad is ideal to serve along with a sandwich, hot cocoa, and cake. If a chicken salad is chosen the sandwich should be light and dainty, such as the following: Peach Sandwiches: Drain the juice from canned peaches and put the peaches through the food chopper. Measure by cupfuls. To each cupful add one-half cup of canned marshmallow paste (or merely melt marshmallow candies in the top of your double boiler over hot water). Blend well before spreading on slices of white bread.

Tomorrow—Fancywork Problems.

English Boys on Way Home After Doing Farm Work

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 21. — A septette of satisfied harvesters reached Winnipeg this morning on their way to England. The first of the 40 boys from Wye Agricultural college, who have spent the past six weeks on Saskatchewan farms, gaining first hand knowledge of Canadian methods. The boys, who have been located with farmers in the vicinity of Arcola and Kerrobert, are loud in their praise of the treatment given them, and feel that their experience has broadened their conception of farm labor and the opportunity here in Canada for men who really wish to work and succeed. Though the weather has been poor, the lads have seen all angles of farm work. Stooking and threshing was about all the handling of the grain they experienced, for which they were paid $5 per day, and on wet days they did odd chores about the farm, painting, mending of barns, chopping wood and the thousand and one small jobs necessary for the upkeep of the farm, for which they received from $1 to $1.50 per day.

Two of this first group will go to Uganda, in East Africa, to teach in an agricultural college there. They leave tonight for Toronto and Niagara Falls and will sail on S.S. Montcalm from Montreal the end of the week. The rest of the party will assemble in Winnipeg and leave there on Monday next for the east, visiting MacDonald Agricultural college at Ste. Anne De Bellevue.

Cowboy Confesses to Murder; Names an Associate Too

SANTA ANA, Cal., Sept. 21. — Albert Dewey Gaines, former Great Falls, Mont., cowboy, has confessed to C. D. Moseley, deputy district attorney, that he and Rev. Philip Goodwin, formerly a priest of the American Catholic church, and at one time a resident of Victoria, B.C., killed Joseph Patterson, Los Angeles stockbroker, several months ago, it was learned here today. Patterson's body was found in Santa Ana canyon, near here.

Goodwin was returned here from New York, where he was arrested two months ago, and charged with the crime. When told of the alleged confession, Goodwin said he would not talk before the trial.

Iodine in Salmon

A couple of years ago I spoke of a Japanese woman on the Pacific coast who was suffering from goitre. As goitre is practically unknown amongst the Japanese, the physician making the examination was mystified, until the woman told him that since she had become wealthy she had ceased eating fish, that she had a white servant and ate only the foods of white people.

In a certain valley in British Columbia every white child born in the valley had goitre, and many male adults developed it in a few months after arriving there.

Further, the live stock suffered in a similar manner. No litter of pigs lived more than one day after birth, 90 per cent of the calves and 85 per cent of the colts likewise died from this trouble. Meanwhile in the same valley was a tribe of Indians none of whom, and none of whose ancestors, ever had goitre. Further, their pigs rarely or ever were afflicted with goitre.

Now, why was this?

Simply because the Indians ate salmon or sea fish, and the white folks did not. Further, the pigs of the Indians ate the dead salmon washed ashore on the gravel banks of the stream. Around our great lakes goitre is very common because of the lack of sea food.

As you know, the bulk of iodine is secured from seaweeds, which have the highest iodine content of any foodstuff. Other sea foods such as lobsters and oysters are likewise rich in iodine, but you have to be rich yourself to indulge in them. Some of the United States government officials have been experimenting upon a large number of food samples as to their iodine content. Butter, eggs, wheat, potatoes, milk and beef all contain considerable iodine, but red salmon contains from four times to 400 times the amount of iodine found in the above foods. The leafy vegetables, fruits and eggs have portions of them rich in iodine, but not used as foods, whereas salmon that is cooked can practically all be eaten.

A further practical point these men have demonstrated is that the ordinary canned salmon is as rich in iodine as the fresh salmon itself.

Most of us do not eat enough fish. The fish habit once or twice a week would be wise for all of us.

And in regions far from the sea, or where goitre is prevalent, it would be good practice on our part to try and eat some sea food somewhat regularly. Butter is about the only food that nearly approaches it in iodine content.

CHINESE STAGE-FIREWORKS SHOW AT CRANBROOK

Parade Precedes Display at Fair Grounds; Chinese Band in Full Force Too

CRANBROOK, Sept. 21. — How well supported the fall fair was in all sections of the community was seen in that fact that even the Chinese felt it incumbent upon them to make some kind of a contribution toward its success. Accordingly they went on Saturday evening in trucks in a procession along Baker street to the grounds. Leading the parade was a truck which carried a Chinese band dispensing queer music with a syncopated effect. At the grounds they treated the crowd to a splendid display of fireworks of all kinds. Though noise seems to be the chief effect aimed at by the Chinese in their fireworks, there were some pretty effects seen. It was the center of attraction while it lasted, and as an evidence of support from an unusual quarter, was something worth while.

Slender men, as well as women, win today. But they always have won, for fat men generally die comparatively young, just when success has arrived. Slender men are apt to live to enjoy success. And fatness can be prevented by proper body care.

With the concession that the St. Louis Nationals have clinched the pennant, Wall Street announced offers of 6 to 5, that New York Yankees will win the world series.

LOW SCORING GOLF FEATURE

Hagen, Sarazen, Diegel and Farrell Win Easy Victories, Garden City

GARDEN CITY, N.Y., Sept. 21.—a wave of low scoring swept over the Salisbury links today, carrying Walter Hagen, Leo Diegel, Johnny Farrell and Gene Sarazen on its crest to easy victories in the first round of the professional golf association championship.

Joe Turnesa of Elmsford, N.Y., offered less vigorous opposition to Hagen than a score of 3 and 2 might indicate. The defending champion steering carefully through Salisbury's maze of traps, cut loose at the start with a commanding lead against the youth, who finished second in the recent national open and was unextended to win on the 34th green.

Barnes Passes

Today saw the passing from the flight of Jim Barnes, former open and professional titleholder, who succumbed to Sarazen, 5 and 4. Others who kissed the turf during the day were Al Watrous, Bobbie Cruickshank, former open champion, and Harry Cooper of Kansas City.

A one-sided victory by Farrell over Al Watrous of Grand Rapids, Mich., at 6 and 5, furnished the outstanding surprise. Watrous, who was second to Bobby Jones in the British open, was swept off his feet by the eastern professional's uncanny putting. Farrell, in the morning, dropped three 25-foot putts and was home in 71, one stroke under par ,to lead by five up. He extended his hot pace into the afternoon, playing every hole in par with flawless golf.

Off the line with his tee and iron shots, Barnes, former open and professional titleholder, yielded to a brilliant second round spurt by Sarazen. With a margin of only one up at the end of 18 holes, Sarazen flashed a withering fire of birdies on the first nine of the afternoon, reaching the turn in 32 strokes, four under par.

Against such an assault, Barnes held little chances and acknowledged defeat on the 32nd green.

TUNNEY SNEAKS EXTRA TRAINING

Evades Hardest of Blows Leveled by Sparring Partners; Ready to Go Now

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 21.—Although Gene Tunney formally closed his training season yesterday he made a last minute change today and added finishing touches to his defensive program. Without warning, the challenger appeared in the ring late this afternoon and after a brief period of bag punching spent eight minutes practicing blocking.

Billy Vidabeck, and Harold Mays were summoned and instructed to fling punches at the challenger with abandon. Tunney, however, parried or cleverly evaded most of the hard driven blows. He ducked out of range almost at will, or brushed the blows aside.

Tunney, sticking to his conviction that he knows his condition even better than his handlers, worked this afternoon against the advice of the camp experts.

"Absolutely satisfied," was his statement of his reaction when he had finished the short workout period.

Tomorrow will be a day of complete rest it was said.

DEMPSEY INTENDS WIN IN THE FIRST

Does Punchbag Work and Bids Farewell to Sparring Partners; Confident

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 21.—With guards stationed at the gates barring admittance to all outsiders, Jack Dempsey today drew the veil of secrecy around his final workout for the defence of his world's heavyweight boxing championship against Gene Tunney in Philadelphia Thursday night.

It became known that the champion shadow boxed two rounds, drummed the light bag for two rounds and drove punches into the heavy swinging bag for a round. Then he called his sparring partners into his dressing room and bade them all a fond farewell.

"I am ready," Dempsey said, "I feel great today. I am on edge now. Tomorrow, I will just get up, out at my bungalow, and probably take a morning walk. I am confident that I will defeat Tunney. I intend to win as quickly as possible—in the first round, if I can."

Weather No Deterrent ON Fair Midway Today

As the result of yesterday's inclement weather, J. J. Moran, assistant manager of Conklin & Garrett's All-Canadian Shows, who are conducting the Midway at Nelson's 24th Annual Fair, under the auspices of the Gyro Club of Nelson, announced that a generous carpeting of sawdust would be spread over the grounds. This measure will assure that the weather cannot in any way interfere with the fun of the thousands of merrymakers who annually enjoy this great feature of the Fair.

Rain Only Increases Interest in Contest

Joe Holland, chairman of the Gyro Contest Committee, reported last night that practically all the contestants were running neck and neck for the coveted honors. In view of the fact that it had been announced that no tickets would be sold on the wheel this year, much more interest was being evinced by competitors and their friends.

Here Is the Order in Which Contestants Stood Last Night:

BIG FAIR WILL OPEN TODAY FOR THREE-DAY RUN

Exhibits Are All Staged; Midway Shows All in Place

PROSPECTS FOR FINE WEATHER

Doors Open at 1 p.m. and Mayor Opens It at 2:30

Resplendent in colored lights outside, and a busy hive of industry within, where the great interior was being visibly transformed into a scene of orderliness and beauty, the fair building, when its doors closed last night, had all the myriad exhibits in place for the 24th Nelson fall fair, which will open today, for a three-day duration.

With a clear sky at last accounts, the prospects are that today will be fine, and that all the amusement features, including both the great Conklin & Garrett shows on the midway and the free attractions, will be in full operation.

But last evening, during the staging of the exhibits, the rain was pouring down as if it would never end. This gave rise to a peculiar spectacle, for at a distance of a couple of blocks the glistening roof reflected the line of colored lights along the rim above, and the broadened reflection of each light gave the illusion of 20 or 30 flaming windows.

Grounds Will Be Bright

Last night, as the rain poured, the Conklin & Garrett shows were snugly under canvas, in their score or so of tents, including the big marquee, and not a light showed. But tonight the fair grounds will be brilliant with electric light, while the big ferris wheel will be marked out in lights. Altogether the midway shows include four "rides," including the wheel, the merry-go-round and the "Missouri mules."

All this forenoon the fair building will be closed, while the judges in the various sections make their awards.

The doors will be opened to the public at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Open Before Grandstand

At 2:30 o'clock Mayor J. A. McDonald, in front of the grandstand, will formally open the fair, and, with the City band on duty, the free attractions will start, and the big carnival will be in motion.

Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." EXECUTIVE AUTO CLUB DISCUSSES A BUREAU HERE

Elkins, Manager Provincial Body, Explains the Proposal

GARDOM TO START DRIVE IN TRAIL

Organization Also May Get Behind Kushook Link

F. J. Elkins of Vancouver, manager of the Automobile Club of British Columbia, and J. R. Gardom, field organizer of the club, met the executive of the Nelson branch, at the Hume last night, to discuss the possibility of establishing one of the club's information bureaus in Nelson.

R. D. Barnes, president of the Nelson branch, presided. He said he understood the Automobile club was to establish a bureau here, the logical tourist center of West Kootenay, as soon as the Nelson branch had a membership of 200

Elkins Describes Work

Mr. Elkins stated the provincial club had 700 members in 1923. At present there was nearly 7000 members in the province, and before the end of the year there would be more than 7000 in good standing.

It was difficult to establish branches. In 1923 branches were established all through the Okanagan, but they all died. In 1924 the same thing happened. The only branch to continue in existence was the one established at Kamloops.

West Kootenay Desires Bureau

The Trail-Rossland and Nelson branches had organized voluntarily, and because of that, the provincial directorate felt West Kootenay should be the first interior district to have a branch.

Trail wanted to operate its own Trail-Rossland bureau. Mr Elkins believed a bureau could be established in Nelson, the branch to include the Slocan and Salmon Valley districts.

An information bureau was absolutely essential, asserted Mr. Elkins, if the provincial board was to keep in touch with all its members, and to serve the touring public. It was no use attempting to do anything, though, unless the proposition was enthusiastically supported.

With 200 members, said Mr. Elkins, the income from membership fees would be annually, $2000. That would pay the expenses of an information bureau.

Getting Roads

The organization was doing its utmost to develop British Columbia. It was the only province-wide organization interested in the motorist alone.

British Columbia was unequalled in North America for scenic beauty, declared Mr. Elkins. But there were few roads to the interior. As an organization carrying some weight with the provincial government it could assist in getting roads constructed.

Every state in the United States was fighting for tourist traffic. But the movement was so general from one state to another that none were benefiting financially. These tourists were potential customers for British Columbia, he asserted if only they could be reached, and if roads could be built to admit them to the natural beauties of the province.

Mr. Elkins said more automobiles from California came into British Columbia this year than from any other state in the union. Californians were looking to British Columbia as a playground. The manager of the Southern California Tourist bureaus was now in the province. He would be here for six weeks with an expert map maker, mapping province highways.

Fraser Canyon Highway

For 10 years the people of the province had fought for the Fraser Canyon highway to complete the transprovincial highway. At last, through the efforts of the Automobile club, the measure passed the house. But the government thought it would have five years to complete the road. The club got to work, however, and as a result, the road was built this year. "It's going to be a Godsend to the country," said Mr Elkins. There were 23,000 miles of roads in the interior opened up to tourists by the Fraser Canyon highway

But to make the provincial highway complete, it was necessary to complete the Kuskanook-Pilot Bay road.

Mr. Barnes said Nelson citizens had hammered at the provincial representative every time he was in town, and he promised the road "in the near future."

"That is just where we could help you," said Mr. Elkins. If the Nelson branch asked for the road, the request would go before the roads committee. They would gather all the information possible, and pass it on to the provincial board of directors. If the directorate thought it was necessary, it would pass a resolution recommending construction of the road and present it to the government.

The house, Mr. Elkins stated, never made an addition to, nor changed the Highways act, nor the Motor Vehicle act, without first consulting the club. The government realized the influence of 7000 members of the Automobile club at election time.

Drives to Be Made

Starting tomorrow Mr. Gardom will take charge of a drive to get 200 members in the club in Trail and Rossland. He expected to get the required membership there in two weeks.

Then he will come to Nelson and put on a drive here.

An information bureau, said Mr. Elkins, would be able to answer any question a motorist might ask. If it did not have the information at hand it would get it. That was something a board of trade or any other local organization could not do, and which the club was only able to do through its affiliation with other similar clubs.

MULHOLLAND IS TRIED, ASSAULT; CASE DISMISSED

William Moore Says He Struck and Choked Him in Altercation

LATTER SAYS WISHED TO CHECK REMARKS

Moore Witnesses Bear Out Mulholland Version; Guilt Trifling

A charge of assault laid against J. W. Mulholland, by William Moore of Kootenay street, arising out of an altercation between the two men on Baker street last Friday, was heard and dismissed Monday by Police Magistrate William Brown.

A. Donaghy appeared for Mr. Mulholland, Mr. Moore acting as his own prosecutor.

In dismissing the charge, Magistrate Brown stated he found the assault to have been committed, but it was so trifling as not to merit punishment.

Started Over Moore Petition

Mr. Moore testified that he was standing on the corner with three men when Mr. Mulholland accosted him, asking if he was "rigging up another scheme to send a petition to the coast," to which he replied in the affirmative.

The petition referred to was a request that Mr. Mulholland be relieved from his duties in connection with the Chamber of Mines of Eastern British Columbia. He explained Mr. Mulholland was supposed to be in charge of the chamber, but he was not to "use it to make sales of his own properties." On one occasion, Mr. Moore stated, Mr. Mulholland was supposed to have tried in the office to sell one of his properties to a Mr. Wolfe of Spokane.

When he told Mr. Mulholland he had another petition in his pocket, Mr. Moore testified, Mr. Mulholland struck him on the breast and then seized him by the throat. He could not breath or speak, but shook his head loose, and called to Chief of Police Thomas H. Long, whom he saw across the street. When Mr. Mulholland saw the chief approaching, he said he would throw Mr. Moore in the lake if he laid any information.

He admitted, to Mr. Donaghy, he had said to Mr. Mulholland before he was hit, "You're such a smart man," and remarked that in his own case he was able to support himself.

T. P. Moran, one of the men with Mr. Moore at the time of the altercation, testified he had heard Mr. Moore tell Mr. Mulholland he was self-supporting, but he did not see any blow struck.

S. L. Williams testified to hearing the same remark, and also not seeing any blow.

Mulholland Admits Choking

In his defence, Mr. Mulholland testified he had known Mr. Moore for about 20 years, and had never had any trouble with him before.

He admitted he had caught Mr Moore by the throat and put his hand over his mouth, but it was only to make him stop making the remarks he interpreted as reflections.

PATTULLO SAYS MEETING COOKED; PEOPLE PROTEST

Point Grey Cemetery Deal Assumed Great Proportions; Municipality Would Buy Land

VICTORIA, Sept. 21.—Not for many years has so warm a session been held between a cabinet and a delegation as today, when a committee, sent by residents of Point Grey, protested at Hon. H. T. Pattullo's sale of the university land there, for a cemetery, developed into a bitter debate in the course of which the minister charged that the protest meeting held in Point Grey had been "cooked," the people misled, and Major MacPherson, a government engineer, treated discourteously.

The charges were indignantly denied by the delegation which pointed out that Mr. MacPherson, sent to meet the residents when Hon. Mr. Pattullo was busy campaigning in the Dominion election, had had the sympathy of the meeting for the job given him by Mr. Pattullo, and that Charles Woodward, had publicly stated that the minister's action was unfair to the engineer.

Finally a Point Grey reeve stated that the municipality would buy the land for a golf course rather than have a cemetery. The cabinet reserves its decision.

The allegations of Hon. Mr. Pattullo in Victoria today that the Point Grey protest meeting against the cemetery had been cooked, has stirred up strong indignation among the Liberals of Point Grey, many of whom attended the meeting mentioned. As a result a number are sending protest to Premier Oliver against Mr. Pattullo.

Island of Bimini Devastated by the Tropical Hurricane

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 21. — Reports reaching here today indicated that the Island of Bimini, 135 miles from Nassau, in the Bahamas, was devastated by the tropical hurricane of last week which ravaged the east coast of Florida. Nassau was not hit hard, but felt the effects of the hurricane, the report said.

The reports that Bimini had suffered severely were confirmed by boatmen. They did not attempt to land or check for dead or injured.

Efforts have been made repeatedly to gain information by radio as to the effect of the storm in the Bahamas. Nassau was heard, but not clearly. It was learned then, however that only property damage had resulted there.

U. S. STEEL GAINS CLOSE TO FOUR

Allied Chemical Soars Six Points; Adams Express, New Peak; General Motors Up

NEW YORK, Sept. 21. — A general recovery took place in today's stock market, which overcame an early selling attack and bounded upward under the leadership of prominent issues such as United States Steel and Allied Chemical.

The recovery in U. S. Steel carried that stock up to 146⅝ at the close, a net gain of nearly 4 points, while Allied Chemical soared 6 points, to 144½. A rise of more than 10 points in Adams Express, which reached a new peak at 133½, also carried American Express and American Railway Express substantially higher.

Aside from the establishment of a record high by Nickel Plate at 195⅞ there were few outstanding features in the rails.

General Motors mounted to 159⅝, the highest price since the deduction of the stock dividend, but closed 2 points under the top.

Funds were reported in free supply at the close after a heavy turnover.

Time money and commercial paper were firm, but rates were unchanged.

Total sales—1,788,600 shares.

Business Facts

YOU MAY DISCOVER THAT THE BOND HAS BEEN CALLED—THE INTEREST YIELD WILL BE LOST...

Watch for the notice of call on any callable bonds that you may hold.

The bonds of many corporations, governments, and municipalities are made subject to "call" or redemption before their actual maturity date. If a corporation decides to redeem its bonds, they cease to bear interest after the date of call and if the investor is not aware of their redemption, he will lose this interest.

Advance notice of such redemption is placed in the newspapers when a corporation intends to call its issue, with the date of call and other information, and often the company notifies its registered bondholders. Investment houses usually notify their customers also.

If such a redemption is announced, you should have your bonds retired and promptly reinvest the money. If the notice of the call escapes your notice, you will not discover that it has been made until you try to cash your coupons at the next interest date, when the yield for that period will have been lost.

CALGARY MARKET IS OVERLOADED, REPORTS GRANT

Commissioner Grant Says the Weather Upsetting Fruit Buying

Says British Columbia's market commissioner, J. A. Grant, in his Markets Bulletin, under the heading of "The Week In Calgary:"

Backward weather still lingers all over Alberta, causing trade to drag.

All markets overloaded with apples. McIntosh are slow, being too green for immediate use. Wealthy crates are moving slowly at reduced prices. Plums, prunes and peaches are cleaning up.

A car of Bartletts from British Columbia arrived here this week. They are apparently cold storage stuff and are of fine quality.

British Columbia quinces are now on the market. Honeydew and Casaba melons are arriving from Washington in small quantities.

Tomatoes are slow. Prices dropped today (Friday) to 75c wholesale.

We expect this market to remain featureless until the weather becomes more settled and harvest operations are resumed.

Local vegetables are heavy on this market. Car lots of potatoes are coming from the southern end of the province, while Medicine Hat and Lethbridge are shipping heavily; pickling onions, gherkins, cucumbers, pumpkins, squash, marrow and citron.

British Columbia onions are quoted today (Friday) at $18 per ton f.o.b.

GRAIN INSPECTIONS SHOW INCREASES

Total of 2109 Cars Inspected; Weather Again Bad in Manitoba, Saskatchewan Points

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 21.—Again today grain inspections for one day in the prairie provinces exceeded those of the same period last year. Totaling 2104 over 1972 cars, the marketing on the Canadian Pacific amounted to 2,297,641 bushels, with a loading of 1209 cars, in storage at elevators along the company's lines at midnight were 7,640,284 bushels of grain. Shipped by boat from the head of the lakes, were 1,754,000 bushels, and report received at the Canadian Pacific transportation department here at 8 o'clock this morning gives a total of 11,913,000 bushels in storage at Fort William. The two days' fine weather have enabled the farmers to carry their grain to the elevators, and if it continues the movement will be fast and steady.

Weather reports this morning, however are not heartening. Rain started in three divisions on the Canadian Pacific in Manitoba this morning. Threshing in Saskatchewan was fairly general yesterday, but with the exception of the Maple Creek, Empress and Burstall subdivision, snow caused the suspension of operations in practically the entire province of Alberta.

NEW MINIMUM WAGE LAW IN EFFECT SOON

November First Will See New Law in Lumber Industry of British Columbia

VICTORIA, Sept. 21.—British Columbia's new minimum wage law will be formally proclaimed in the B. C. Gazette immediately to go into effect in the lumber industry of the province on November 1, it was announced today. The lumber industry will be given one month's notice of the enforcement of the law dating from October 1. Actually, however, lumber companies have been preparing for the operation of the new statute for some months. The precise effect of the enforcement of the law cannot be foreseen yet. It is thought it will eliminate a large number of orientals from the lumber industry by forcing employers to pay the same minimum wage to all workers. The new wage law will be applied to other branches of business later.

JUDGE FORIN DESCRIBES THE BAR SESSIONS

Lord Darling and Ex-Governor Spoke; Judge Held Gavel Once

IN TORONTO UPON ELECTION NIGHT

Maritimes Rich but Wealth Staked Down; Quebec Living Cheap

Judge J. A. Forin, who has returned from his trip to Saint John, N.B., states that he is more than ever impressed with the vastness of his native country and the ever-increasing importance which awaits her in the family of nations.

At the Canadian Bar association, which met at Saint John on the first three days of the month, there were representatives from the bars of all the provinces, also from Great Britain and the United States.

Lord Darling and Rt. Hon. Mr. MacMillan, lord advocate of Scotland in the Ramsay Macdonald cabinet, gave most interesting addresses, and conveyed greetings from the bar of Great Britain. On behalf of the bar of the United States, Ex-Governor Whitman of New York, and an eloquent lady lawyer from Kansas, spoke.

Judge Forin, as represenative of the British Columbia bar, presided at one of the sessions of the Dominion association. The statement that the representatives from British Columbia traveled much farther, and on Canadian soil, in attending the annual meeting than the visiting British guests had traveled, was impressive.

Among the prominent lawyers who spoke were Sir Robert Borden, Hon. Mr. Rowell, Sir Douglas Hazen, Sir Francois Lemieux, and the attorneys-general of each of the maritime provinces.

Toronto Excited

On his return journey, Judge Forin remained over in the cities of Montreal and Quebec for a day. He also visited Belleville, Ont., his native place, for a week, leaving there on the morning of election day to spend the evening in Toronto, where the returns were received. Great crowds gathered on the streets in Toronto to scan the illuminated lantern bulletins provided by the newspapers.

The returns from the Toronto district were, as usual, preponderatingly Conservative, and caused enthusiasm among the supporters of Mr. Meighen during the first part of the evening. The Liberal forces had their thrills of jubilation later in the evening. When the judge left on the evening train, the result of the election was in doubt, but bending toward the Liberals.

The business conditions in Canada were but slightly affected by the election, his honor noted in his travels. A highly prosperous situation is apparent throughout the length and breadth of the country. The maritime provinces are quite normal in most respects, but they seem to feel that they are not getting their share of the business. Their wealth is great, but it seems to be staked down in sure investments. The spirit of adventure in business does not seem to appeal to the canny folks of the Atlantic provinces.

The great resources, and their wise administration, of the province of Quebec, make that province a place where low living costs prevail, an enviable condition when the great and accumulating public debts of the other provinces are realized by the people who have to pay taxes.

Crops Good

Ontario has a bountiful crop, which has been harvested fairly satisfactory, although continued rains interfered.

On the prairies a fine crop of wheat has suffered somewhat by rains, and in Alberta snow is lying on the wheat fields in the eastern and southeastern portions.

"It's fine to get back to this beautiful Kootenay valley; those who are not satisfied are hard to please," were the concluding words of the judge.

GRAND LODGEMAN VISIT AT SANDON

Odd Fellows Hear Speeches and Enjoy Banquet; Rebekahs Also Present

SANDON, B. C., Sept. 21.—Roy A. Perry, grand master of the Grand Lodge I. O. O. F. of British Columbia, paid the Silver City lodge No. 39 a fraternal visit on Friday. F. F. Elliott, grand patriarch, and Joseph Poole, district deputy grand, both of Vancouver, were also visitors.

Following the lodge business, a social evening was enjoyed with speech and song and banquet. Mr. Perry spoke on the fraternal and social work carried on by the order. Mr. Elliott, a former Slocan district resident, spoke of former associates and good times in the area.

A. G. McPhee of Sandon spoke shortly on early experiences with the lodge in the Slocan. Other speakers included Walter Clough of Slocan City lodge, H. J. Cooper, W. P. Budkin, Neil Tattrie, Dan MacKay, Leo Boudin and Douglas Anderson. Two members of the Rebekah order also gave short addresses. They were Pearl McLanders and Miss Dorothy McKay. Following the speeches came a sumptuous banquet, which was greatly enjoyed.

The visiting lodge men were motored to Rosebery, and from there went to Slocan City, where the order at that point was visited.

CANTON, Sept. 21.—The Canton government contemplates lifting the anti-British boycott which has demoralized trade between China and British concerns for more than a year.

EASTERNER HERE TO LOOK OVER VENEER MATTER

Promises Capital if Supply of Cottonwood Up to Mark

G. Dvorjetz, a veneer manufacturer of Montreal, is now in Nelson, looking into the veneer proposition here, with a view, if satisfied, to undertaking the building of the plant, and the management, of the British Columbia Veneer Works, limited.

Yesterday, in company with J. E. Annable, he looked over the waterfront as to suitable sites. He will also look into the supply of cottonwood timber under Mr. Annable's guidance.

Mr. Dvorjetz states if he finds the supply of raw material to be sufficient, there will be no difficulty about the financial end of it. It is understood he will bring in eastern capital if he goes into the business.

The easterner is here as a result of an interview Mr. Annable had with Major Omanney, development engineer of the C. P. R. natural resources department.

FORMER NELSONITE CREDITS OGOPOGO

Middleton Says He Accepts Statement of Logie on Creature

That the existence of "Ogopogo," the Okanagan monster, seems to be fairly established, is the opinion of M. S. Middleton of Vernon, assistant horticulturist with the Okanagan as his district, who is here to judge the fruit section at the Nelson fair.

Logie Reliable Observer

Mr. Middleton, who was stationed here before the war, and before he took up fruit farming himself in the Okanagan, says the evidence that weighs with him is the statement of J. L. Logie, manager of the Summerland Development company, who, while motoring alongside the lake, observed Ogopogo paralleling his course for half a mile, creating a big commotion, and carrying his sheep-like head high out of the water. He says he would accept Mr. Logie's word on anything, and if he reported such an incident, it certainly happened, and just as he related it.

"Whatever the explanation of these appearances, the Okanagan has certainly got great advertising out of it," Mr. Middleton commented.

Simcoe Sea Serpeant

Lake Simcoe, a considerable lake in Ontario, Mr. Middleton says, is also credited with being the home of a "sea serpent" or monster that is supposed to make its appearance in public every 30 years.

HEAVY RAINFALL; THEN SKY CLEARS

Temperature Variation for 24 Hours But Three Degrees

After producing a rainfall of .13 inch in the 24 hours ending yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, old Jupiter Pluvius hit up a real good gait last evening, and the water sluiced down from the heavens and streamed down the streets and sidewalks.

By 10:30 o'clock, however, the sky was clear and, in spite of a barometer indicating clouds today, had the appearance of promising a fine day.

During the 24-hour period standing for yesterday, the temperature held almost steady, there being a range of only three degrees—from 44 to 47.

VOTE TODAY ON BYLAW TO RAISE HOSPITAL LOAN

City Gets Isolation Hospital With Province Sharing Cost

HOSPITAL BUILDS NEW NURSES' HOME

Bylaw Provides $15,000 Loan to Be Repaid Over 20 Years

BYLAW VOTING

Polling place—City Council Chamber.
Hours—8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Voting will take place today on the bylaw to loan Kootenay Lake General hospital $15,000, to be raised by a debenture issue, to enable the hospital board to replace the nurses' home, which, if the bylaw carries, the city will take over for conversion into an isolation hospital. The loan bears interest at 5 per cent, and will be repaid in 20 years, by annual instalments of principal and interest.

Means Economical Isolation Hospital

If the bylaw carries, this result will have the effect of confirming the arrangement entered into between the city and the hospital board, whereby, with the approval and financial cooperation of the province, the main nurses' home will be taken over by the city and converted into an isolation hospital. The $15,000 for this is practically in hand. That is to say, $6000 has been in hand for two or three years, there is also an appropriation in the current estimates, and the $5000, or one-third of the total, which the province will contribute will make up the balance.

Under the necessity of making new provision for the 27 nurses, the hospital board will drop the auxiliary nurses' home across the street, and will erect an entirely new building, on the site of the tennis court, using for this purpose the $7500 purchase price which the city will pay for the nurses' home taken over, and the $1500 loan.

Under this arrangement, the city, in addition to having only two-thirds of the capital cost to meet, will avoid the expense of maintaining a full-time nurse, and of a caretaker, and will be at smaller cost for heating, and for kitchen expense, as both those last items will be taken care of from the hospital plant, and their expense will be shared.

The alternative to the proposition represented by the bylaw is for the city to be at the entire cost of a $15,000 isolation hospital on its site up the hill, with the higher expense for maintenance resulting from full-time nurse, a caretaker, separate heating, and separate kitchen.

A two-thirds majority of the property owners voting is needed to carry the bylaw.

City Clerk W. E. Wasson is the returning officer.

ARCHIE M'KENZIE VISITS OLD SCENES

Rossland Pioneer Meets Old Friends; Is Looking Well

Known to all the old-timers, A. B. Mackenzie, for many years one of the institutions of Rossland, and for many years, also, secretary of the Associated Boards of Trade of Eastern Brtiish Columbia, is here on a visit from Vancouver.

"Archie," who will be here during the fair, is swapping reminiscences with old friends among the pioneer residents. He was recently at the provincial fair at New Westminster, of which he was secretary in the '90s, before he came to the upper country.

Toward the end of the week he will go up to Rossland to hobnob with old friends there.

For some years after Mr. Mackenzie's removal from the Kootenay it was customary for the associated boards of trade to send him greetings, and express a desire for his restoration to health. He looks in the pink of condition now.
