PRINCE ENJOYS RANCH PRIVACY; VIEWS HIS STOCK

Neighbors Visit His Royal Highness Who Extends a Welcome

TAKES INTEREST IN HIS THOROUGHBREDS

Goes to Calgary Today; Will Attend Hunt Ball at His Ranch

CALGARY, Aug. 11.—Outside of the routine at his ranch, the Prince of Wales spent a quiet day with his brother and entourage, and plans to come into Calgary tomorrow afternoon to meet Premier Baldwin. He will leave for Edmonton following the public reception to the premier. Since his retirement to his ranch the public has respected his desire for privacy, but from the news which has trickled through from High River, the closest town to the ranch, the Prince is thoroughly enjoying himself. Several of his neighbors in the valley of Pekisko Creek have called informally and the Prince was pleased to see them. He was about the place early this morning with the hands and gave a close inspection to his property. He takes a special delight in the fine blooded animals with which the place has been stocked.

Likes Stock

Today on the ranch there are 20 thoroughbred horses, 10 Clydes, 11 Percheron, 40 Dartmoor ponies, 115 Shorthorn cattle, 110 Hampshire sheep, domesticated mallard ducks, white Holland turkeys and hens. This is about the normal animal and poultry population. The Shorthorns from the ranch have been sold as far south as California, where 25 were shipped last fall, and as far east as Ontario. The sheep have been sent to distant Kentucky and the distribution of the horses, thoroughbred, draft and ponies, has been similarly extensive.

The Prince will bring his week's visit to his ranch to a finish August 15, as the guest of honor at a Hunt ball which is being given by the Calgary Drag Hounds. He will be accompanied by Prince George.

The Prince's secretary has announced that the party will arrive at the ball at 10 p.m., sit down to supper with the guests, and then dance until his train leaves in the early hours of the morning.

LIQUOR SHIP IS HELD, NEW YORK

Authorities Unable Identify Ownership of Vessel and Rich Cargoe

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The liquor-laden trawler Sebastopol, classified as a pirate vessel because she tried to enter port under an assumed name, remained a mystery today of inquiry held by customs officials night as to ownership despite a court on her decks.

The Sebastopol of St. Johns, Nfld., with 5000 cases of liquor, was seized today by a coast guard vessel as she was passing the narrows. Metal plates with the name "Westmoreland" of Norfolk, Va., had been placed over the vessel's original name. The 17 members of the crew said the rechristening took place at sea yesterday.

The captain gave his name as Dan MacDonald and the supercargo said his name was Robert Bragg. After the inquiry the crew was taken to the federal building for arraignment and a guard left aboard the vessel.

MacDonald was held in $5000 bail, Bragg and the mate, James Taylor, in $8000 bail, and the other 14 prisoners in $1000 bail for a hearing August 22.

ON-TO-BAY BODY IS DISAPPOINTED

Change in Destination of Bay Line Waste of Money Body Believes

WINNIPEG, Aug. 11.—As far as the On-to-the-Bay association is concerned, changing of the ports at Hudson Bay is a disappointment, H. L. Layet, vice-president, said today in commenting on the announcement that Frederick Palmer, consulting engineer, and Hon. Charles A. Dunning, minister of railways, favored Churchill as the logical terminus of the railway instead of Port Nelson.

The association had several reasons for being surprised at the decision, said Mr. Layet. It would be at least two years before the territory between Limestone and Churchill would be ready for a roadbed because the country was wet and marshy. The association also felt that the change in policy involved construction of 90 additional miles of steel, whereas only 60 miles remained to complete the railway to Port Nelson, also six million dollars had been spent on Port Nelson harbor.

Mr. Layet referred to the report of W. A. Bowden, chief engineer of the department of railways, who gave evidence before the senate commission in 1920 setting forth the advantages of making Nelson the Hudson Bay port.

TRANS-PACIFIC PLANE FLIGHT IS POSTPONED

Aviators Gathered for Start Take Precautions for Sake of Some

BRITISH WAR ACE IS DOWN, DETROIT

"Spirit of Los Angeles" Nose Dives to Destruction in a Test

7 AIRPORT, Oakland, Cal., Aug. 11.—Aviators entered in the Dole transpacific ocean flight to Honolulu, scheduled to start tomorrow noon, tonight signed a unanimous consent agreement to postpone the takeoffs until next Tuesday at noon, Lieut. B. H. Wyatt, the navigation test inspector, announced.

AIRPORT, Oakland, Cal., Aug. 11. — The first great aerial derby, over a course across the Pacific ocean, from San Francisco Bay to the Island of Oahu, 2400 miles away, will not be "on" at noon tomorrow.

Climaxing a day in which another plane in the flight narrowly escaped disaster similar to the crash which killed two fliers yesterday, the decision at Honolulu left in doubt only which of the planes at the starting line would take off at noon tomorrow.

Nine In Line

Nine pilots and their crews were at the airport tonight, but only four appeared in condition to pass inspection tests for the flight. They were Bennett Griffin, piloting a Travelair monoplane; Jack Frost, flying the San Francisco Examiner plane; John A. Pedlar of Detroit and Major Livingstone Irving, who plans to fly alone.

Naval Lieut. H. B. Wyatt, conducting navigation tests for the flight committee, announced he would not allow any plane to start unless he is reasonably certain it has a chance to arrive in Honolulu.

Crash Occurs

Today's crash in which three members of the crew of the twin-motored triplane, Spirit of Los Angeles were precipitated into the waters of San Francisco Bay, occurred when something went wrong with the plane as Pilot James L. Giffin reached the runway for a lanling. The plane swerved suddenly, and sensing the danger, Giffin went upward again and nose-dived into shallow water. None were injured. The plane was so badly smashed that no attempt will be made to get it ready for the hopoff tomorrow.

Captain Frederick Giles, British war ace, piloting a new monoplane, was reported down at Detroit tonight.

The plane looks like a huge gnat. It has a pointed body, curious wings and a cockpit so small that the pilot must squeeze himself in sidewise.

Places Head on Track in Front of Train; Gives Care of Child to Her

SASKATOON, Sask., Aug. 11—As he heard the whistle of Canadian National railway train No. 1, westbound, at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, Kristof Leifki ran from his home, about a mile from the tracks, near Grandora, Sask., followed by his screaming mother who he had told to take care of his child, and placed his head on the tracks in front of the train, which struck him before it could be stopped, crushing his skull, in sight of the mother ,who had reached the scene just as it happened.

Declares Teachers Must Be Prepared to Become Martyrs

TORONTO, Aug. 11.—"If teachers are prepared to teach the only type of morality worth while they must also be prepared to be martyrs," was the rather startling statement made by Rev. Dr. S. G. Bland of Toronto in adressing the committee on character, moral and religious education at the World's Federation of Educational Associations here today.

One delegate declared that morals could not be taught through text books. The lives of the teachers were better lessons.

Dr. Bland in conclusion said:

"The children should be taugh not merely such negative things as to refrain from robbery and violence, but should query the morality of land speculation and the general competitive policy. Trying to make this present anti-Christian system of ours respected as a moral one is like flogging a dead horse or trying to galvanize a dead horse into life."

LEGAL BATTLE FOR VANZETTI, SACCO TUESDAY

Prisoners Moved From Death Cell to Await Further Steps in Court

PRISONERS BOTH REFUSE FOOD

"I Shall Not Eat," Declares Vanzetti; Sacco Drinks Coffee

BOSTON, Aug. 11.—Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti tonight were lodged at a more comfortable distance from the execution chamber of state prison than they had been for a week while the way was cleared for a hearing in their defence before the full bench of the Massachusetts supreme court.

In contrast to last night when they waited in the death cells until half an hour before the time scheduled for their execution for the word which brought them 12 days more of life, tonight they were resting in obviously better spirits in the Cherry Hill section of the prison.

In contrast, too, to the flat denials of federal judges, the last pronouncement of the courts yesterday, today gave them assurance of a hearing in the state supreme court of exceptions to denial of a writ of error and also probably of exceptions to superior court rulings which barred them from seeking a new trial or stay of sentence.

Battle on Tuesday

The next legal battle in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti was scheduled for 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning when the four available justices of the supreme court will meet as a full bench to hear the bill of exceptions allowed by Judge Sanderson to his denial of a writ of error.

Should their decision be favorable, the case will go back to a single justice for hearing on the merits, with a possibility that it might again reach the full bench. In event that Judge Webster Thayer, superior court justice, who presided at the trial, should allow exceptions to his rulings of lack of jurisdication on a motion for a new trial and denials of stay of execution and revocation of sentence, the supreme court might hear this bill at the same sitting.

Vanzetti today drank coffee at two meal times while Sacco, whose hunger strike has now ended its 26th day, replied to the urgings of the prison physician with: "No, that is my state of mind; I will not eat."

Signs Bill

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 11. — Judge Webster Thayer, who presided at the trial of Sacco and Vanzetti in 1921 and who recently refused a motion for revocation of sentence, tonight signed a defence bill of exceptions asking a review by the supreme court of his ruling. One Mother Says:

Singing is excellent exercise for children's body and minds. # TWO WOMEN ARE FOUND SHOT TO DEATH IN BED

St. Paul Crime Is Tacked Onto Gang Warfare Raging in the City

HUSBANDS OF BOTH WOMEN MISSING

Had Rented House in Fashionable Part of City; Makes Four Victims

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 11.—Two young women were found shot to death in their home in an exclusive residential section here today and the police charged their murder to gang warfare that cost the lives of two other women here five weeks ago.

It brought to more than a dozen the number of slayings police have charged to this underworld fighting in the past year, and it started them on a search for the husband of one of the victims of today's tragedy.

Dressed in night attire, Mrs. James Barrett, aged 30, and her sister, Mrs. Lillian Kooser, aged 25, were found dead shortly after noon today on a bed in the house the Barretts leased on Mount Curve boulevard, near the fashionable river road district.

Police had been unsuccessful tonight in their search for Barrett, an officer in a local finance corporation.

Immediately Chief of Police Edward Nunae declared Barrett was a friend of a gangster found slain here May 12, and that one of the women had visited the University avenue apartment, where Mrs. Sadie (Teddy) Dubois and Miss Anne Grenville were found murdered last July 6.

Score Questioned

More than a score of persons were taken into custody for questioning after the July 6 crime, but all of them were released. No arrests have been made in direct connection with that crime, on which the police still are working.

Blazing lights within the Barrett house, undimmed since Tuesday night aroused the suspicions of neighbors and they notified the police, who found all outside doors and windows locked. Forcing entry they found the bodies, each shot once through the neck or head, while on the bed between them a young bulldog stood guard, at first repelling the officers' approach.

Neighbors knew little about the Barretts who rented the house May 18 and had furnished it with expensive furniture. They had a year's lease and their rent was paid promptly, their landlord said.

Police after questioning neighbors, set the time of the double slaying as late Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning. Mrs. Kooser lay as though she had retired for the night, while Mrs. Barrett had fallen across the end of the bed. Mrs. Kooser, according to the police, formerly lived at Mankato, Minn., where it was said she had moved to Minneapolis some time ago. Her husband, John Kooser, was said to be in Canada. He has a police record.

EMPIRE MINING CONGRESS MANY KOOTENAY STOPS

Official Program in Big Volume Covers Three Days in This District

FERNIE FIRST AND TRAIL THE LAST

Also Kimberley, Cranbrook, Rlondel, Bonnington and Nelson

The official program of the Second Triennial Empire Mining and Metallurgical congress, which is meeting in Canada August 22 to September 28, has reached Nelson, and is a handsome book, in the form of the Canadian Mining & Metalurgical Bulletin, of 270 pages. The congress special will be in Kootenay from September 9 to 11.

The congress will travel western Canada in two trains, the Blue special and the Red special. It will visit Fernie September 9, and Kimberley on September 10. Full programs are arranged for all the places it will visit, the main events being visitations of mines and mills. Delegates will visit the Bluebel mine at Riondel on September 11, before coming to Nelson.

Day at Trail

Leaving Nelson at 5 o'clock on September 11, the trains will carry the delegates to Bonnington, where they will go over the West Kootenay Power & Light company's plants. The trains will return to Nelson to stop overnight, going on to Tadanac and Trail in the morning, where delegates will visit the Trail reduction plant of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company of Canada, from 9:30 a.m., to 4 p.m., when they will leave for Penticton.

The program is illustrated with pictures of developments to be visited by delegates. In East and West Kootenay, the illustrations are of the colliery and coke ovens at Fernie, the Coal Creek colliery, the coarse crushing plant at the Sullivan mine and the Sullivan concentrator at Kimberley, the Bluebell mine at Riondel, the West Kootenuay Power & Light company plant at Bonnington, the city of Nelson, and the Consolidated smelter at Tadanac.

The program also contains descriptions of the finding of coal at Fernie, development of the Bluebell mine, the city of Nelson and the Trail smelter.

Commissioner Fred A. Starkey has received a number of these programs.

It is expected that the mining committee of the board of trade, and the special committee of the Mine Owners association, which jointly have in hand the entertainment of the party on Kootenay lake and at Nelson, will meet shortly to proceed with arrangements.

POULTRY SCHEME GOOD

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 11.—The Canadian government scheme for records of poultry performance, first of its kind in the world, has had a remarkable effect on Canada's poultry, both as regards home production and export trade in breeding stocks, since it was instituted eight years ago. This was the statement of W. A. Brown of the Dominion live stock branch, speaking to the breeding section of the world poultry congress.

The scheme, he explained, provided for certification of trapnest records made on the breeder's plants under a system of government inspection and supervision. Its object is the production from certified females of large numbers of cockerels which are prepotent as regards vigor, production, egg-size, breed type, etc. These are used on the farm flocks of the country to improve the general run of stock.

TURKEY RAISING

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 11.—Turkey raising still holds an important place in the United States, despite disappointments and downward trends, Miss Harriet Cushman of Boseman, Mont., said, in an address to the world poultry congress. No section from the beginning had remained raising turkeys extensively, because of the almost inevitable block-head which followed, and the turkey raising had moved from New England to Texas.

"Today, however, turkeys are coming back," Miss Cushman said. With meat at $1 a pound in the east, the hills of New England, so close to our best markets, are not going to give up without a struggle. It has been found by experimenting that the disease can be controlled by artificial incubation and brooding."

INCUBATION FACTS

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 11.—Results of experiments regarding artificial incubation were given to the breeding section of the world poultry congress by Dr. Luther Weinmiller of Erding, Germany. He concluded that the moisture of air in the incubator had determinative influence on incubation results. That the degree of ventilation in most incubators is more than sufficient; that a constant egg temperature of 8 degrees gave better results than at any other figure; that under-cooling of eggs is necessary; and that moving or turning of the eggs is a factor of primary importance without which successful results cannot be obtained.

FLASHY HABIT

PARIS, Aug. 11. — Mistinguett, France's favorite music hall artist, sometimes wears a riding habit of black and white calfskin when she rides in the Bois de Devoyne. It includes breeches of calfskin, laced quite high at the sides, and a short jacket with a rolled collar.

MRS. CAMPBELL OF NEW DENVER GETS FORTUNE

Her Father Sir Thomas Robinson, Leaves Her Around $150,000

HIS TOTAL FORTUNE IS NEAR MILLION

Cabin Boy Became Great Fish Operator; Attained Knighthood

A fortune of something over $150,000 has been bequeathed to Mrs. Colin J. Campbell of New Denver by the will of her late father, Sir Thomas Robinson, the great English fish operator.

Mr. Campbell is manager of the Denver Waterworks company and the Denver Light & Power company, and he and his wife are Slocan old-timers.

The following account of Sir Thomas Robinson's career and will is given in an Old Country paper:

"Sir Thomas Robinson of Southlands, Cleethorpes, Lincs, grocer, fish salesman and merchant, and fishing boat owner, who started life as a cabin boy on a fishing boat at the age of 14 years, left £161,496.

Held Important Posts

"He was technical adviser to the board of agriculture and fisheries, and to the fish food committee, and chairman of the Dominion Steam Fishing company, Ltd., and other companies.

"He left £1500 to each of his daughters, the proceeds of a life policy for £1000 and bonuses upon trust for his grandson Alan G. Welton, and his gold watch and chain, the goodwill, stock and trade, plant, book debts (but not bank balances) and all other capital and business premises upon trust as to three-tenths, to his son Frank Wheeler, one-tenth to his grandson, and one-fifth to each of his three daughters; the residue of his property upon trust for his children."

CHANGE OF NAME

MOSCOW, Aug. 11.—Changing names has become such a simple and inexpensive process that it is being widely practiced in the Soviet union.

A change costs about $10 and entails only the filing with the proper authorities of a brief declaration stating the motive. It is sufficient if the name sounds odd or is too common.

Some applicants seek more revolutionary names. Communists usually apply for names of old revolutionary leaders, commoners for aristocrats and noblemen and officers for common names.

An advertisement appears in the official Soviet organ—a month or so elapses while the applicant is investigated—and then an Ivan Ivanovitch Ivanov may become a Rudolph Georglevitch Zapolski.

Rules to Follow When Visiting Farmer's Wife

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 11.—The following hint to visitors approaching a farmer's wife on a busy day is given by a correspondent of a women's page in a local paper: When calling on a farmer's wife, try and leave before five, so she can get her cows milked, eggs hunted and supper ready at 6 o'clock. So often I have callers; they can't stay for supper, but won't leave till 5:30; then the rush. I have kept a list of what I have baked for a family of three and a hired man (coming April 1), from Jan. 1 till July 1: Fifty-six double loaves of bread (not all home-made), and the following, all home-made—833 buns, 716 tea piscuits, 25 muffins, 96 scones, 1070 cookies, 124 pies, 44 cakes, 98 tarts, 15 puddings, 194 doughnuts, 18 cream puffs.

LAUDS THE WEST

WINNIPEG, Aug. 11. — It's a pity more eastern Canadian do not travel through the west. They have no idea of the marvelous scenic beauty or of western progress, in the opinion of Lady Roddick of Montreal, who has been in the city on her return from a seven weeks' tour of the west and Alaska—her first trip west of the Great Lakes. Marveling at the mountains, she was yet most enthusiastic over the prairies, and the size of the prairie towns she found most astonishing.

What Holds Back These Signs

It should not be a matter costly in either money or effort to place suitable signs around Nelson, giving the guidance that strangers need in order to get to the city's points of attraction.

In summer not a day passes without visitors bringing up at the east end of Baker street in bewilderment, looking for means of getting up on the bluff. Judge Forin's steps are ascended daily, at least to what would be the sidewalk level, and often further, by bewildered strangers. Some apply to nearby residents for direction, others prospect up and down the Cedar street hill, and still others obviously abandon their intention and turn back into town. The latter alternative was followed by some groups of the recent Quebec province visitors.

Perhaps the city is waiting for the board of trade, the board of trade is waiting for the Rotary club, the Rotary club is waiting for the Automobile club, the Automobile club branch is waiting for the Gyros, who have done so much already for the bluff, and so it goes.

Meanwhile we let visitors wear out sole leather and fray their tempers inefectually to reach the lookout point of all others from which to view Nelson, and let them depart from Nelson without even being informed of such attractions as Cottonwood falls and canyon.

Every approach to the bluff ought to be marked, and at Baker street, which has no direct approach, directions ought to be posted.

If this state of affairs persists any longer—the matter of these signs has been agitated for nearly 20 years—it wil be a severe reflection on our progressiveness.

Aims to Meet House

Holding of a byelection for the provincial riding of New Westminster means, of course, an intention on the part of the reorganized Liberal government to remain in office until forced to meet the people. That is to say, the government does not propose to go up against the generally anticipated general defeat so long as it can contrive to get by in the house.

The government can hardly view the prospect in the riding opened with satisfaction, and it is possible the riding may withstand the government's blandishments and prepare a spike for the government's coffin.

At any rate, an interesting time is going to be had, and the session now being prepared for is bound to be an exceptionally interesting, and very likely a highhly critical, one.

Our Arm of Water

Before the white man came to these mountains, the West Arm of Kootenay lake was the travel highway of the red man.

In the Kootenay's early days, the steamboat era, its shining surface transported the adventurous, the supplies that sustained them, and the treasure they sent or took away.

Until the road era arrived, it was the only "highway," aside from its supplementing railway, that the section had.

Similarly, it was the district's playground.

Today the route may be followed in various diverse ways, but it still is the main passageway.

The only use to which Nature has not fitted it is affording an ice road in winter, for sleigh or skate travel. We can't have all the balminess and still freeze up hard for a five months winter.

Tomorrow our regattas may take to the air, instead of being confined to the surface of the water. But if we have air regattas, they will certainly follow this same sheet of water, the route laid out by Nature ages ago.

A busy commerce, a busy social activity, a busy fabric of human interests may center on this sheet of water in the future.

Whatever may be the developmnt of this portion of the upper country in the future, this arm of water will be a stretch in the main channel of its intercourse.

"A king sat on the rocky brow
That looked o'er sea-born Salamis."

To wrest this idea from its original connection, we may imagine a queen—the Queen City of the Kootenay—looking over this water, with the spirit of the morning.

Brining String Beans—This is an easy method of preserving this vegetable when your garden offers too much to use at once on the home table. String, wash, drain and weigh young and tender string beans. Break larger beans into two-inch-pieces. Now place them in a cheese-cloth bag and lower into boiling water for three minutes if the beans are young, otherwise for five minutes. Remove bag and plunge it at once into cold water for one minute. Fill hot, sterilized glass jars with the vegetable, putting in first a two-inch-deep layer of the beans, then adding a layer of salt, then another of beans, etcetera—allowing one-fourth pound of salt to one pound of the beans. Save out enough salt to make a final layer on top, and weight down the beans with a cork covered with paraffine. Then grease the jar rubber with petrolatum, put it on, put glass cap in place, and completely seal. Beans canned in this method may be kept for a year. When you wish to use them, freshen them by soaking in cold water for three hours, then cook them for the table. Green peas, green corn, kale, spinach, beat-tops, dandelions and chard may all be successfully canned exactly the same manner. Try it with a few jars this summer and next year you will want to use no other method.

White Clingstone Peach Pickle—The ingredients are one pound of peaches, two cups of vinegar, one-fourth teaspoon each of ground mace and whole all spice berries, three one-inch pieces of Ginger root, one-half pound of granulated sugar, one cup of water, one-half teaspoon of whole cloves (broken up, however,) and two sticks of cinnamon also broken small. Peel the peaches and boil them for five minutes in one cup of vinegar and one cup of water. Now, make a sirup by combining the second cup of vinegar with the sugar; tie all the spices in a small cheesecloth bag and put this into the sirup. Drop the peaches into this sirup and boil for 30 minutes. Remove peaches, place them in a bowl, turn the hot sirup over them and let stand two hours to "plump", then pack them into sterilized jars, put on rubbers, partially seal, and process 10 minutes in a hot water bath outfit before completely sealing.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

The Fast Heart

One of the causes for the rejection of recruits for the army was very rapid beating of the heart. Although 72 to 76 beats is considered normal, allowance was made for excitement and nervousness, and if the heart was over 90 beats, the candidate was allowed to sit down for a few minutes until he 'quieted down."

Now, some individuals have hearts that always beat rapidly and they seem to get along all right. However, even in these cases regular daily exercise will often slow down the heart by 10 beats in a few months' time.

Formerly, we frequently heard about hearts being worked so hard that they became greatly dilated and these were called dilated hearts. Since the advent of the X-ray and fluorscope, and these dilated hearts may be seen, it is found that they are very rare indeed.

Why?

Because nature looks after us by increasing the power and rapidity of the heart beat, so that the heart is enabled to do the work without having to enlarge itself or become dilated. And what about these hearts that beat more rapidly than normal, even when no exercise is being taken? Here, again, nature does her work in the same efficient manner.

Drs. H. J. Stewart and J. H. Crawford of New York City have been investigating this matter of the naturally rapid heart. They found that when the heart was beating very fast, but with a regular rhythm, there was an actual decrease in the size of the heart, whereas where the heart was fast, but irregular, due to the different parts of a certain chamber of the heart not working all together, they found that the size of the heart remained the same, or was increased. This means, then, that folks with hearts that beat rapidly, but regularly, are being taken care of by nature decreasing the size of the heart. Football players, boxers, in fact most athletes, get the heart slow and strong by "road work," which means slow running on the road.

Jogging 100 to 200 steps slowly in front of your open window, morning and evening, should give you the slow, strong, regular heart.

NOTES FROM MY DIARY

By G. S. REES

No. 27

Printer's ink is a malicious disease; a splitting of an infinitive a crime that calls for drastic penance. So far as penmanship is concerned, my writing is the despair of the recipients of my favors. I think mechanical writing does much to impair a natural style of penmanship. My tin lizzie of a typewriter carries this reproach for me in silence.

I well remember, one time, when at sea, a high roller all but washed it overboard. Odd fragments littered the deck. It was never the same afterwards, yet it completed its tour of duty, loyal to the end. Where is it now? I do not know. Perhaps it lives to recall tropic suns blistering its topknot, or of chilled bones when passing through the iceberg channels of the North Atlantic.

Considerable road work is still being carried on and much improvement in the condition of the roads is noticeable.

R. Soft Ball Team Is Victor in Cranbrook Play

CRANBROOK, B.C., Aug. 11. — The softball game last evening between the Canadian Pacific railway and Collins' Invincibles, resulted in a victory for the Canadian Pacific railway. Ira Brighton of the Canadian Pacific umpired the game. E. A. Hill and Jack Taylor, in the field for the Invincibles, covered and were covered a great deal of ground, while Gravonahue, with the bat, knocked the ball high, wide and handsome. ## CRESTON TALKS ON GOAT RIVER CANYON POWER

Willing to Do Business if Concrete Proposal Submitted to Village Council

CRESTON, B.C., Aug. 11.—The electric light and power situation was to the fore at the August meeting of the village council last night, at which all the commissioners were present, with the chairman, H. S. McCreath, presiding.

The matter first came up in the correspondence, when the clerk read the tenders for the supply of 30, 35 and 40-foot poles, all of which indicated that an expenditure of about $1400 will be required for a pole line alone.

The chairman reported on a conference he had had that day with J. H. Dubois, of the Standard Electric company, Cranbrook, who had made a preliminary survey of the Goat River canyon, and assured that he could secure plenty of financial backing to develop the waterpower, provided satisfactory arrangements could be made to supply the village, and consent obtained from the authorities at Victoria to erect a transmission system to serve all the tributary country.

Will Investigate

Mr. McCreath had assured him that that as the village had prior rights on the canyon power, they were going to do business with the first person or corporation that made them a businesslike offer, and that it was up to Mr. Dubois and his associates to submit a concrete offer to the commissioners. The visitor assured that he would return to Cranbrook at once, secure his engineer and at once make a more thorough survey, and be prepared to talk business to the council within a week, probably.

Letters to the council were numerous and included prices on a dust control mixture for street use, offers from electrical firms to come in and submit sketches for the street lighting system, complaints of the poor shape of the sidewalk at points on Fourth street and a request from the water works company that the grading the village is doing on Fifth street should be gone at with a view to not taking too much off the pipe line and thus rendering it liable to winter freeze.

Accounts for the month totaled about $250, a considerable part of which had been spent on repairs to the Mallandaine bridge, and the expenditure of another $50 was authorized in the annual contribution to Creston's fall fair.

Taylor High Man at Gun Shoot on Cranbrook Ground

CRANBROOK, B.C., Aug. 11. — The Rod and Gun club shoot, Wednesday, was better attended than a week ago, and was marked by the introduction of some new members, who threaten to become enthusiasts at the sport, as well as deadly at the birds. J. Taylor was high man with 21, and Harry Mott runner-up with 20. Corp. D. Wilson's first appearance was very favorable, as he had 12 birds to his credit. Jake Jacobson did not do so well, but claims he will be high man before the real birds fly.

"Jack," a dog-veteran of Mons and Ypres, where he was three times wounded, celebrated his 20th birthday in London.

CRESTON SCOUTS ARE IN CAMP

Out for 10 Days; Church Boys At Hazel Creek; Young People Go Soon

CRESTON, B.C., Aug. 11.—The village is quite deserted of its juvenile boy population at present. The Creston troop of boy scouts went into camp at Johnston's Point on the west side of the Kootenay river, Tuesday, and will be under canvas for 10 days, in charge of Assistant Scoutmaster John Murell, with Misses Nora Payne, Joan Hilton and May Murell in charge of the cookhouse. About a dozen youths make up the party, and their holidaying has been facilitated by loans of rowboats by Campbell Blair and J. W. Hamilton, which are used to good advantage on the river. Already reports are coming in of some very fine catches of bass in the back bend of the Kootenay.

A group of two dozen boys in charge of Rev. S. Newby, rector of Christ church, are in camp at Hazel Creek, near Goatfell. They are drawn from his congregations at Yahk, Camp Lister, Erickson, Wynndel and Creston, and are enjoying the excellent fishing in Meadow Creek.

On August 18 the young people of Trinity United church will leave for their annual camp at Sanca Creek on Kootenay lake. In other years this group has numbered about 50, and at the rate of applications coming in, the 1927 camp will be fully as well attended as in past season.

AVIS SHIPS TWENTY TONS STRAWBERRIES

PERRY SIDING, B.C., Aug. 11. — J. Avis has completed marketing his strawberry crop, and has shipped in the neighborhood of 20 tons.

H. Robertson, the horticulturist, was inspecting his acreage a few days ago, and stated that it was the largest acreage in British Columbia. Mr. Avis, who has always advocated the growing of small fruits in this valley, is contemplating increasing his irrigation installation.

Cranbrook Will Pave and Lay New Sidewalks

CRANBROOK, B.C., Aug. 11. — The board of works of the city council met Wednesday morning in the city hall at 9 o'clock, and decided to lower the sewer on Dewar avenue lane, put down a 10-foot sidewalk on Hanson avenue next the Cranbrook hotel provided the necessary proportion of expense will be borne by the owners, and to pave the road on Durick avenue from Van Horn to Louis street on the same conditions.

They also decided to lay sidewalks before Mr. Stajack's and Alderman Cameron's property on Watts avenue and Edwards street, the cost to be borne by the owners.

The report of the committee that the cost of the diversion of Gold Creek had exceeded the allotment for that purpose came in for some censure from his worship Mayor Roberts, who claimed that while the money was, no doubt, well spent, the board of works had no authority to authorize the extra expenditure, but should have referred the matter to the council as a whole.

Codling Moth Exterminator Is Creston Visitor

CRESTON, B.C., Aug. 11. — A. A. Dennys, who is in charge of federal entomological work in East Kootenay again this season, was in town at the first of the week, leaving on Wednesday for Trail. He had with him about 40 lively specimens of the ascogaster carpocapsae, which had been shipped in from Washington in the larvae and hatched out here. These little bugs are to be used for reproducing many hundreds more of their sort, which are to be used in fighting codling moth in the British Columbia interior. He will turn them loose in a codling moth infested orchard near Trail, where they will instinctively take up lodging in the egg of the codling moth which are now being laid, and in the spring, when Nature incubates the codling moth egg, it gives birth to a flock or the ascogasters, and next year's brood will not only furnish more for reproduction, but also a supply to turn loose at the work of exterminating the codling moth itself.

KIMBERLEY NOTES

KIMBERLEY, B.C., Aug. 11. — Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Hayes of Chapman Camp left by motor, Wednesday, by way of Spokane, to visit at the former's home in Nelson.

While driving to Cranbrook, Tuesday, M. J. Evans of Kimberley had the misfortune to run his car off the road, causing some damage. No one was injured.

Miss A. Pearson of Spokane arrived in Kimberley, Wednesday, to visit with relatives.

Calgary Welcomes Prince and Baldwin This Evening

CALGARY, Aug. 11.—Calgary's official welcome to Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, prime minister of Great Britain, and Mrs. Baldwin, in which His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, will share, will take place shortly after 5 o'clock here Friday evening.

It is understood that Premier Baldwin will speak for a least 20 minutes. Mayor Osborne has been informed that the Prince of Wales will motor up from his ranch with his brother, Prince George, to take part in the official welcome to Premier Baldwin as a citizen of the province of Alberta and a landowner here.

West Is Intensely Loyal to Union Jack, He Reports

QUEBEC, Aug. 11.—"The people of western Canada are intensely loyal to the Union Jack. Any talk of the Americanization of the west is purely fable," said Hon. A. David, provincial secretary, on his return from a trip to the west.

MINISTER VISITS

OTTAWA, Aug. 11.—Hon. H. E. Pratten, minister of trade and customs of Australia, will arrive in Ottawa at the beginning of next week. Mr. Pratten is stopping off here on his return journey from England to Australia and will, it is understood, discuss some matters with the Dominion government.

Creston Valley Teachers Are in Demand Elsewhere

CRESTON, B.C., Aug. 11. — Former Creston valley principals are in demand this year. R. Jenks, who was at the head of the Camp Lister school last term, has been engaged for one of the senior divisions of the new 12-room consolidated school at Michel, which will serve the pupils of that town as well as Natal and Hosmer. Safer Summer Hygiene While Wearing Filmy, Thin Frocks

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND, Registered Nurse

INSTEAD of risking old-time "sanitary pads," 8 in 10 better-class women employ a NEW way called "Kotex." Filled with Cellucotton wadding, the world's super-absorbent, it is 5 times more absorbent.

Kotex also deodorizes. It discards easily as tissue—no laundry. Thus, in three important ways, it solves a serious summer problem for women.

More than a mere sanitary pad, Kotex offers safe and certain scientific protection.

Obtain Kotex. For peace-of-mind's sake, accept no other. See that box is marked "Kotex." If it isn't, it is not genuine Kotex.

CURSE O' LOVE

By MILDRED BARBOUR

Concerning the Action and Characters

CYNTHIA GREER, the beautiful, spoiled, ultra-modern only daughter of a wealthy family, receives, on the eve of her marriage to

MAJOR BASIL HARCOURT, retired, of the British army, a man nearly twice her age, the anonymous gift of a magnificent black opal. At the sight of the opal, Major Harcourt is greatly agitated.He goes back to England without explanation. Frantic at being jilted in the eleventh hour, Cynthia dashes out in her car, determined to marry the first man she can find, so that it will appear that she eloped on the eve of her wedding. She meets a gay adventurer. His name is

KING CARSON, and she asks him to go through a marriage ceremony with her. Carson, who has spent ten years in the oil fields in Mexico, where he has made a fortune, is keen for adventure, and the situation appeals to him. He agrees to marry her. They part immediately after the ceremony. During the drive home, Cynthia's car is wrecked in a storm, and her purse, with her marriage certificate and the black opal, is swept away, while she is desperately injured. When she recovers, her memory of all the events of that night are gone, and her parents are in ignorance of what has happened. Meanwhile, Cynthia's hand-bag, containing the opal, has been found by

NORMA COLLINS, the charming daughter of the noveau riche,

J. P. COLLINS. His ambition is to see Norma married to a poor, but socially eligible young man,

PHILIP KENDALL, who is in love with Norma, but is forced to swallow his pride and ask her father for a loan to save his business, since his friend, King Carson, upon whom he depended or help, is delayed in arriving. Collins offers the money to Kendall as his son-in-law only, and Kendall, torn between love for Norma and dire necessity, proposes marriage to her. She joyfully accepts, ignorant of the financial transaction between Kendall and her father. Carson arrives in town just after Kendall and Norma have left on their honeymoon.

Chapter XIV

The Flaw

Norma was not entirely happy. She had been married three days to the man she had loved for two years. During that time, she had despaired of his asking her to be his wife. She had told herself that she would be in the seventh heaven of ectasy, should he confess that he loved her. And she was, in a way. But there was something—a shadow—something she couldn't define or fathom which dimmed the radiance of her spirit.

No one could have been a more splendid bridegroom, a more tender lover, a better companion and playmate than Phil. They spent long, luxurious days on the beach, putting on their bathing suits directly after breakfast and plunging into the cool green surf. For hours, they lay on the sandy beach under Norma's gay parasol and talked—or rather, Kendall talked and Norma listened rapt, adoring, though the long lashes of her Irish blue eyes were lowered, that he might not see too much.

In the late afternoon, when the heat of the day had passed, they took long walks on the cliffs and watched the sea that washed languidly below. At night there was moonlight, the scent of flowers, the voice of the ocean, the star-studded sky.

They were alone, except for an old Chinese cook, and he vanished as soon as the meals were served.

Norma loved the bungalow by the sea. It had been of her own choosing and was modest, simple, and cool. Her father thought it was scarcely suitable for a person of his wealth, he would rather have built a marble palace, with a dining salon that was a reproduction of a certain famous submarine grille in an Atlantic City hotel, where the glass ceiling is filled with water, and fishes of exotic coloring swim languidly about. But Norma had had her way, and now she blessed her wisdom. The bungalow was a veritable paradise for honeymooners.

And yet, there was a flaw in her happiness.

Her bridegroom had moments so distrait that she felt forgotten, forlorn, shut out of the love he professed for her. She was intuitively aware that something troubled him, and she dared not ask what it was. Even now she could not overcome her shyness with him. She was reserved, a little tense and breathless. She longed to give, and give, and give; to open her whole heart to him and have him open his to her.

Though she didn't guess it, Kendall was in much the same quandary. He loved her with all his heart, but the happiness that had come to him through her was marred by his shame over that bargain with her father. He had sold himself—there was no other word for it. And he wanted to give himself to the girl he loved. His manhood demanded the right to win her, not to have her thrust upon him, in a manner of speaking, much as he wanted her. He had lived his life in a clean, orderly, precise way, according to his strict code of honor, and he felt that his arrangement with Collins was not honorable.

Did she know—was she a party to the shameful bargain he had made with her father? That was the question that haunted him night and day, even when she was in his arms.

Her shyness, her reserve, made him believe that she did know. Not in the least understanding her awe of him, he attributed her reserve to the fact that she didn't love him in the least; that she had married him solely to satisfy an ambition that he, with the modesty of a man who is a man, could not comprehend.

So, with each thinking and acting at cross-purposes, the honeymoon continued. And only in the moment of their kisses was the shadow forgotten.

One afternoon Norma, plucking up courage, asked suddenly:

"Phil, why did you come that afternoon so—so suddenly and ask me to marry you? You—you never hinted at such a thing before."

He averted his gaze from hers, as she regarded him gravely, and let the white sand trickle through his fingers. They were sitting on the beach under her crimson sunshade that cast a rosy glow over her clear pallor and struck purplish lights in her dusky hair, still moist and curling from their swim.

"I came," he said, measuring his words carefully, "because—I was afraid of losing you." And he hated himself with his whole soul for the lie.

She flushed.

"Oh, then you'd heard?"

"Heard?"

"About Sydney—Sydney Stokes? It wasn't my fault, really. I never encouraged him. It wasn't my fault, if he proposed to me and I told him I couldn't marry him, and he was foolish enough to get drunk and tell every one that he was going to commit suicide."

Kendall was silent. He had not heard about Sydney Stokes, though he knew him well. He was a gaunt young man, employed in the bank that handled Collins' investments, and had been, for several years, a suitor for the hand of Norma Collins! He was just the type that would get drunk and make a ridiculous threat of suicide.

After a moment, feeling that he must say something, Kendall asked:

"You didn't love him, Norma?"

She shook her head, shyly, stretched out her hand to him, and drew it abruptly back.

"No, I—I loved only you."

He turned to her quickly, but already her gaze was averted, and he sighed and began to dig in the sand with his long, sensitive fingers. Inwardly he prayed for a diversion—anything to keep her from returning to her question as to why he had proposed to her so abruptly and married her—all in one afternoon.

His prayer was answered when a small boy appeared on the beach and came toward them. He handed Kendall a telegram. It was from King Carson.

Hope sprang into Kendall's heart, as he read a message that was typical of his friend.

MUCK SOIL MAY BE PUT IN USE IF IS TREATED

Drainage Important; Fall Plowing Desirable; Some Crops Do Well on it

The profitable production of farm crops on muck land depends, in most instances, upon such factors as drainage, proper cultural methods, the use of potash and phosphorous-carrying fertilizers, and the selection of suitable crops.

Drainage of muck land is almost always necessary for maximum crop yields. Open drains are generally used first, followed in two or three years by clay tile-drains. If the land, on account of its location, is low in value, the cost of an extensive drainage system may not be warranted.

Fall plowing of muck land is desirable. A furrow 16 or more inches in width and about six inches in depth, turned flat, is best for muck soils. A long mold-board and a rolling-coulter should be used. Muck land may be plowed only when it is in sod, as the more compact the soil can be kept the more it will produce. For firming meadow land and for use after plowing sod and before seeding, a heavy roller, or an ordinary one heavily weighted is recommended.

Type Land Sets Dressings

Muck soils which are acid require lime, except where only acid-tolerant meadow plants are grown. There are many areas of muck, however, that are not acid. Light dressings of well rotted manure applied to muck land will give very beneficial results, but when only sufficient manure is available for the upland soils, commercial fertilizers should be applied to the muck areas. Almost all soils of a peaty or mucky character are deficient in potash and usually lacking also in phosphorous. Mixtures of 75 to 150 pounds of muriate of potash and 200 to 300 pounds of acid phosphate (superphosphate) per acre will, in almost every case, give excellent returns in crop yields. Dressings such as these may be applied to intertilled, cereal and hay crops.

Hay mixtures composed of alsike clover, timothy and red top, and other crops, such as rye, wheat, corn, mangels, flax, potatoes and sweet clover have all been grown with success on muck soils. Meadows and pastures, however, cover a larger area of these soils in Eastern Canada than any other farm crop.

CRUDE OIL MOTORS FOR NEW AIRSHIPS

Engines Now Being Tested in England-Montreal Waiting on Mooring Mast

MONTREAL, Aug. 11. — Interest in crude oil engines for aircraft has been revived by the fact that this form of motive power has been selected for the British passenger airship due to berth at the local airport next summer after crossing the Atlantic in the inaugural flight of a regular inter-Empire air service.

Results of the official trials by the British air ministry of the specially designed engines are eagerly awaited in Montreal. The preliminary tests conducted by the manufacturers, Messrs. Beardmore of Glasgow, were completely satisfactory. If the engines come through the official trials with flying colors, assembly of the huge rigid airship, R101, will commence at the Cardington airship works early in September.

Greater safety is claimed by experts for crude oil driven aircraft over those using petrol. In addition they consume a lesser weight of fuel and are therefore capable of longer flights without breaks for refueling. The vital importance of these points in aircraft destined for transoceanic flights has led to the favoring of the crude oil engine over the petrol engine, and has greatly stimulated its development.

Montreal Elated

Montreal is justly elated over its selection recently by British air specialists as the Canadian airport for the trans-Empire service. The 600-acre field between St. Lambert and St. Bruno, which has been chosen is on the opposite shore of the St. Lawrence, but within a few miles of the city. The new bridge across the St. Lawrence, now under construction, has gained an added importance from this fact.

Before long the huge mooring mast to which the Empire air argonauts will tie up on some eventful day next summer will commence its towering ascent into the sky and the south shore will see monstrous refueling and regassing plants under construction. Plans for similar work in Australia and South Africa are well under way, while airports in Ismailia and Karachi are nearing completion.

CROSS GAME WITH LEGHORN WITH SATISFYING RESULTS

OTTAWA, Aug. 11.—Results obtained in crossing a handsome Indian gamecock with two White Leghorn hens (English type), which had good trapnest records, were detailed to the breeding section of the world poultry congress by Professor A. Ghizi and Dr. A. Jaibell of the Rovigo poultry experiment station. The object of this cross was to combine the masses of muscle found in the Indian gamecock with the extreme fecundity of the Leghorn, while preserving the form of the Italian fowl.

Neither the large size and corresponding heavy weight of the game breed, nor the medium size and bodily weight of the Leghorn had predominated. The two characteristics combined to produce subjects intermediate in appearance and weight.

'SHAMATEURISM' GREATEST MENACE

So Declares Suzanne Lenglen's Manager Referring to Tennis Players

LONDON, Aug. 10.—"Shamateurism" is the greatest menace in the world to good tennis, in the opinion of Charles B. Cochran, who has been managing Suzanne Lenglen and other professional tennis stars on a tour through Great Britain.

"Professionalism will do no harm to tennis than it has to golf, cricket, football and baseball," said Cochran. "The all important thing is to keep amateurism and professionalism entirely separate and not to have amateurs camouflaging their professionalism."

Professional tennis has brought great tennis within the reach of the masses, so Mr. Cochran says, and since municipalities have encouraged tennis playing so generally by providing courts there is universal desire to see good tennis at a low cost. This was impossible with strictly amateur matches.

"At Glasgow a crowd of 15,000 sat through a rain to watch Mlle. Lenglen and her associates in professional tennis," said Mr. Cochran. "This is said to be the largest crowd which ever attended a tennis match."

DELANEY WINS FROM PAULINO ON FOUL BLOW

Bout Ends in Seventh Round With the Crowd Howling in Protest

DELANEY HAD TAKEN FOUR OF SIX ROUNDS

First Setback for Spaniard Who Was Being Given a Boxing Lesson

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Staging a comeback in his debut as a full-fledged heavyweight, Jack Delaney scored a hollow victory at the Yankee stadium tonight over Paulino Uzcudun, the Spanish wood chopper, on a foul in the seventh round of a scheduled 15-round match.

Coming on top of the disputed Dempsey-Sharkey battle and ending in the same round, but with a different result, the finish aroused almost as much uproar and controversy.

Paulino was disqualified by Referee Crowley after three warnings for hitting low with left hooks, but the French-Canadian did not appear to be hurt by any of the blows. Neither had he made any protest when the referee waved Paulino to his corner to the complete astonishment of ringside critics, as well as a crowd of about 35,000 spectators.

So dissatisfied did a big share of the crowd appear that fully 5000 swarmed about the ring, jeering and booing the verdict, while Paulino, to show his annoyance, somersaulted and performed a series of acrobatic stunts, while strawhats sailed about the ring.

Opinions Differ

Newspaper opinion at the ringside was as sharply split as it was over the Dempsey-Sharkey go. A majority of the critics, apparently, while believing Paulino had technically transgressed the rules, did not regard the infractions as serious enough for disqualification.

Referee Crowley, however, declared flatly he had no other recourse after Paulino had failed to obey his warnings.

Pete Reilly, Delaney's manager, showed newspaper men a dented protective cup to show that the French-Canadian had received several blows in the region of the groin. The finish was no more convincing to most observers than six previous rounds of comparatively tame action, although there was no question that Delaney, in spite of being outweighed 16 pounds, was giving the squat Spaniard an artistic boxing lesson and leading by a decisive margin.

Four of the six rounds went to Delaney, while one, the second, was even, and the other, the fourth, on Paulino's side of the ledger.

Paulino's setback was the first he has sustained since he began a colorful invasion of this country's heavyweight ranks. Unless he gets a return match, however, it may mean his elimination from the punching parade which already is forming to determine next year's title challenger.

Dick Fullum, Yonkers, middleweight, and Felix Sportiello, rigged importation from Italy, fought four fierce rounds to a draw in the opening preliminary of the Delaney-Uzcudun fight tonight. Both scored knockdowns, Sportiello with a short right to the chin in the second and Fullum with a left to the head in the third. Fullum weighed 159½ and Sportiello 160.

Hilario Martinez, colorful junior lightweight from Spain, whipped Sammy Vogel, clever New Yorker, in a 10-round preliminary.

Dave Shade, veteran California middleweight, outslugged Joe Anderson of Covington, Ky., in a slambang 10-round semi-final. Dave was altogether too fast for the southerner, making him miss freely and leave wide openings for clean wallops to the head and ribs, but both mixed at a lively pace. Shade weighed 157½ and Anderson 159½.

TORONTO, Aug. 11.—The 53rd annual meeting of the Canadian Rifle association closed at the Long Branch rifle ranges this afternoon, one of the most successful meets the association has ever held.

The governor-general's footguards of Ottawa had a very successful week, winning no less than three team prizes.

Lieutent Desmond Burke of the G. G. F. G. took the gold medal in the president's match, won the Mercer militia aggregate and was second in the All-comer's aggregate. The winner of the All-comers' aggregate was Captain J. B. Holk, 91st Hamilton regiment.

The feature of today's matches was the brilliant shooting of the permanent forces team from Esquimalt, B.C., in the MacDonald Brier team match. The team of four men dropped only 22 points in 400 to win the match.

The famous skirmishing match for the Gzowski cup, was won by the Queen's Own rifles of Toronto from five other regimental teams.

The lieutenant-governor's match, the most important of the meeting was won by Corporal E. G. Stock of the Royal Grenadiers of Toronto. He had a score of 66 in the first stage on Tuesday and got a possible at 800 yards in the second stage today.

The Scores

Following are the scores in the MacDonald Brier match, returned by the 10 leading teams:

H. Q. Esquimalt regiment, B.C., 378, $125; Queen's Own Rifles, Toronto, 377, $100; G.G.F.G., "A", Ottawa, 377, $75; P. L. (A. and S. H.) of Canada, Hamilton, 374, $50; R. H. L. I. ## Gehrig's Hits Shorter, But Just as Good

By AL DEMAREE

(Former Pitcher New York Giants.)

Lou Gehrig is the typical collegian in baseball. His chief eccentricty is eschewing coat, hat and vest, regardless of weather conditions. In the dead of winter, 5 or 6 degrees above zero, Gehrig goes down Broadway to the Yankee's headquarters sans coat, sans hat, sans vest.

He is a big powerful fellow, who because of the lack of wrist action and pivot cannot hit a ball as hard as Ruth, but he hits them far enough to clear the fences for homers. Ruth can hit higher and longer homers than Lou, but Gehrig's drives are good enough to count just as much.

Gehrig believes in himself, and it would not be surprising to see him step out and give the Babe plenty of competition before the season is over.

SAM WILLIAMS IS RACE VICTOR, OHIO

NORTH RANDALL, Ohio, Aug. 11.—Sam Williams, owned by W. H. Cane, Goshen, N.Y., won the 3000 Ohio stake here today in straight heats, equalling the record for the stake with a mile in 2:03 3-5 in the second heat.

OLD COUNTRY SOCCER SEASON OPENS SHORTLY

Scottish Players Get Into Action on Saturday, August Twentieth

ENGLISH PLAY IS ONE WEEK LATER

Teams Shuffle; Post Season Practices Are on in Earnest Now

LONDON, England, Aug. 11.—The Scottish Soccer league swings into action on Saturday, August 20, and the English season opens a week later. For the past few weeks the professional clubs have been recalling their players, while the soccer fan is having plenty of excitement in the post-season practice matches. The money derived from these games annually goes to charity, and each year an amount of half a million dollars is realized for worthy institutions.

In the English League

Leeds United and West Bromwich Albion have been relegated to the second division, and the vacancies thus created in the first division will be filled by Middlesbrough and Portsmouth. With regard to Middlesbrough, it is a case of renewing acquaintance with a division of which in former years they achieved some distinction, but Portsmouth will be in the upper circle of the league for the first time.

The clubs that have lost their places in the second division are Bradford City and Darlington, and the relegation of Bradford City means that the great Yorkshire industrial center, which has had both of its clubs in the first division, will have to be content next season with third division fare.

The promoted clubs from the third division are Stoke City and Bristol City, both of whom have had experience of the first division.

Good Shift

The league has placed Bradford City and Darlington in the northern section of the third division and, to enable this to be done, Walsall has been transferred to the southern section, a change they will probably appreciate, because they are likely to receive larger gate money percentages from the southern clubs than they did from the majority of the northern organizations.

The two retiring clubs in the northern sections were reelected, Accrington-Stanley and Barrow both finding favor at the annual meeting of the league, but in the south there is one important change, Aberdare Athletic having been dropped.

Torquay United were elected in their stead, in spite of the fact that the southern section clubs recommended the reelection of the Welsh club.

Get Team Together

Torquay have been earnestly at work getting together a team, and the management are confident that the side they will place in the field will abundantly justify the choice the league has made in admitting them.

The annual report of the Welsh Football association says the association are gratified in the upward trend of the game, but many clubs are financially embarrassed through the aftereffects of the industrial trouble in their areas, while other clubs through making rash contracts and not carefully considering their position, found themselves in difficulties. In the Scottish league Boness comes up into the first string by virtue of winning the second division championship last season. They will be accompanied into senior company by Raith Rovers, who spent last year with the juniors, but who have been in the first division before. Dundee United and Greenock Morton are demoted from the first division because they were at the bottom of the standing last season.

FAIRVIEW BEATS THE ALL-STARS BY FOUR RUNS

Score 7-3; Married Men to Play Live Wires Fifth Time Tonight

In a five-inning exhibition baseball game at the Trafalgar grounds last night, the Fairview senior "B" team beat the Trafalgar All-Stars, 7 to 3. It was a fast game, and the result was much in doubt till the last inning, the All-Stars leading 2-1 up till then.

St. Denis started on the mound for the All-Stars, but had to retire at the end of the second inning on account of a sore arm. Patten took his place, but was replaced by Bob Riesterer in the fifth. Reisterer, in turn, was replaced before the inning was over by J. Hunden.

G. Roynon, hurling for Fairview, stayed in the whole game.

The score by innings was:

| | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| All-Stars | 1 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 1 | —3 |
| Fairview | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 6 | —7 |

Boyd C. Affleck umpired the game.

The teams were:

All-Stars—J. Brennan, c; St. Denis, p; Whitehead, 1b; Patton, 2b; T. Arcure, ss; R. Riesterer, 3b; E. Reber, rf; P. Hunden, cf; J. Hunden, lf.

Fairview—E. Boyes, c; Roynon, p; G. L. A. Marquis, 1b; H. Chapman, 2b; E. Chapman, ss; A. Ionian, 3b; J. Ringrose, rf; Ira Marquis, cf; T. De Ferro and E. Langell, lf.

Hot Clash Tonight

Tonight the Married Men clash with the Live Wires for the fifth time at 6 o'clock at the Trafalgar grounds. Although the Live Wires have taken three out four games with the benedicts, the score was so close each time that the Married Men claim the right of another game. St. Denis wil pitch and either Reber or Brennan will catch for the benedicts.

The Live Wires' team will be—Ed. Reber, c; J. Hunden, p; Cy Jackman, 1b; P. Hunden, 2b; R. Riesterer, ss; A. Waters, 3b; R. Waters, lf; S. Leno, cf; M. Hecklar, rf; E. Riesterer and R. Sommers will be reserves.

SCOTCH SOCCER TEAMS TO START GAMES TOMORROW

Celtics Meet Hibernians in Opener; Thistles Play Queen's Park

GLASGOW, Aug. 11.—The advent of the soccer season is a rude reminder that the summer—what there has been of it in this country—is nearly over and that the autumn is rapidly approaching. The great football code will swing into action once more on Saturday when the 1927-28 season opens. The English league will not get going for another two weeks, the Scottish season usually preceding it by that length of time.

On Saturday there are several interesting games, although regional contests have been reduced to a minimum. In the metropolitan city only two clubs are playing at home, the champion Celtics entertaining their fellow Irishmen, the Edinburgh Hibernians, at Celtic park, and Partick Thistle being at home to their near neighbors, Queens Park. The Rangers are scheduled to travel to Pittodrie park to engage Aberdeen while Clyde slip to Paisley and take on St. Mirren.

With regard to the capital city teams, Hibernians, as stated, are engaged here while the Heart of Midcloth are hosts to Kilmarnock at Tynescastle.

Considerable interest surrounds the contest at Bo'ness where last seasons division champions will be used in senior company for the first time. Bo'ness play Falkirk. Raith Rovers, who were promoted after spending one season in the lower string, are the guests of the Airdrieonians.

Nithsdale Wanderers have been dropped from the second string and their place taken by Leith Athletics, who will play on their own grounds against Kings Park.

LONDON PAPERS IN CONTROVERSY

Mail and Post Delve Into Politics and Lloyd George's Affairs

LONDON, Aug. 11.—The Daily Mail and Morning Post, both nominally organs of the Baldwin government, are having a lively controversy over political matters.

The Post is hammering Lloyd George for having retired from the premiership with a political fund amounting to "millions of pounds in his sole possession, and control" which, the Post asserts, must have come largely from men whose names appeared later in honor lists.

The Mail rebukes the Post for harping on this matter and says, in so many words, that the Conservatives have done the same thing in connection with honor lists.

The Post retorts that the Mail's eagerness to sustain Lloyd George's credit is the reverse side of its impatience to get rid of Premier Baldwin. "Mr. Asquith was prime minister longer than Mr. Lloyd George," the Post says, "but Mr. Asquith retired with a personal fund running into millions of pounds and with a proprietory interest in newspapers valued and paid for at the sum of $2,900,000?"

Today the central office of the Conservative party stepped into the controversy with a repition of that flat denial that in 1922 the Conservatives won the election with funds that had been collected under the coalition government in the manner suggested with reference to honors lists, and asserting that the Conservative funds were always kept distinct from the funds of the Liberals of the coalition government.

The Mail publishes this denial: "for what it is worth," and promises to return to the subject later on.

ELECTRICAL ISSUE IN COLLAPSE

Manhattan Electrical Supply Company Drops From 20½ to 58¼; Motors in Loss

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The sensational collapse in the common stock of the Manhattan Electrical Supply company, which broke from 120½ to 58¼ on selling, presumably inspired by the stock exchange's investigation of recent transactions in that issue, overshadowed all other developments in today's stock market, which turned decidedly reactionary after an opening period of strength. Several other pool specialties broke 5 to 15 points, while the losses in the so-called investment stocks ran from 1 to 4 points.

General Motors closed with a loss of 4¾ points, at 221, which was the low price of the day.

The break in Manhattan Electrical Supply, one of the severest in recent stock history, caused extreme nervousness among both professional traders and investors.

After the market closed, directors of General Motors recommended a change in capitalization and an exchange of stock, which, in effect, amounts to the distribution of a 100 per cent stock dividend.

Credit conditions continued easy. Houston Oil broke from 144¼ to 128, and then rallied to 129½. Declines of 5 to 10 points took place in Air Reduction, Case Thresing Machine, Delaware & Hudson, Sterling Products, Timken Roller Bearing and United States Cast Iron Pipe.

In the opening outburst of strength new peak prices were established by about a dozen issues, including American Express, Consolidated Gas, General Railway Signal, Sears Roebuck and Vanadium. Mackay Company and New York Central also showed strength.

Total sales—2,079,600 shares.

MANITOBA CROP GOOD IN WEST

Eastern Section Poorer; No Frost Damage; Red Rust in the Eastern Portion

WINNIPEG, Aug. 11.—The western portion of the province of Manitoba has a good crop generally, but the eastern part, with some satisfactory exceptions has a much poorer crop, according to a report issued by the provincial department of agriculture, today.

Practically no damage has been done by frosts, the report states. Wheat cutting in Manitoab is expected to begin about the end of August. The Durum variety of wheat predominates in southern Manitoba this year, very little Marquis wheat being sown.

In eastern Manitoba there is an abundance of red rust and some fields have a pretty liberal dose of black rust. The report also states that the eastern part of the province has suffered a great deal more from rust than the western section.

Almost everywhere the fall rye crops that were above the standing water line in May are very good, and rye cutting is now in progress.

The oat crop has suffered severely from red rust, especially in southern Manitoba and in the Red River valley.

GUESTS ASLEEP HAD CLOSE CALL SOUTH SLOCAN

One Emerged With Hair on Fire; Other Jumped From Second Story

DEFECTIVE WIRING THOUGHT THE CAUSE

Kenneth Campbell on Way Home; $6000 Insurance on $15,000 Building

Robert Allison, with hair aflame, and Pat Mulleady, in his bare feet, made violent and unceremonious exits from the burning Pinehurst inn at South Slocan Wednesday afternoon, being rudely awakened by the flames that consumed the building and turned 15 guests out of doors, besides three members of the staff. Both men were asleep, being night workers. Allison's hair was burned as he rushed through the hall and out the front door. Mulleady jumped from his second story window.

Hot Pitch Pours on Head

The scalds Albert Gibbon, one of the partners who were taking over the hotel from Mr. Campbell when the beer licence should be transferred, received on his head and arms were from boiling pitch from the roof. Mr. Gibbon, after extracting the cash in the safe in the beer parlor, ducked to get a cigar box of change that was under the counter, and brought himself under a storm of hot pitch, pouring down from a manhole in the roof.

E. Jurisich, the power construction employee around whose neck a burning wire fell, was the only person to receive more than trifling injuries. He is doing well.

A man who appeared in pyjamas and played a banjo, emulating Nero, is thought by South Slocan residents to have donned the costume for the purposes of comedy.

In Room of Nonsmoker

That the fire is probably attributable to defective wiring is the opinion of Mr. Gibbon, who came to Nelson yesterday. It broke out in the room of A. H. Tidman, machinist, whose wife has been conducting the hotel part of the business. Mr. Tidman, who is employed on the night construction shift, arose a couple of hours before the fire, and he is a non-user of matches.

Mr. Campbell received a wire at Victoria from E. P. Dawson, of Brown & Dawson, and left for Nelson, being due tonight by the Kettle valley train.

Converted Watts Residence

About a year ago Mr. Campbell purchased the large residence of A. E. Watts, built new wings to it, and converted it to the purposes of a hotel. He recently sold it to Albert Gibbon and F. M. Barnett, but subject to a transfer of the beer licence, pending which the purchasers were operating for him. Insurance of about $600 was carried on the building, which was valued at about $15,000.

Residents of South Slocan assert that a hotel is urgently needed there, and it is generally assumed that the burned one will be replaced.

HUMIDITY HOVERS AT DANGER POINT

Long Nights Help Fight Fires; Thunderstorms Are Forecast

Though moisture in the air is slightly more of late than it was a week or so ago, the humidity is still such as to worry forest branch officials. Yesterday's humidity readings at 8 a.m., 2 p.m., and 5 p.m. were, respectively, 69, 35 and 34. The danger point is 30. Officials say lengthening nights are assisting the branch in its work, as fire spreads more slowly at night.

Today's forecast, "cloudy with thunderstorms and showers," is likely to mean more fires, according to officials.

Yesterday's temperatures were 51 and 80.

DOUK IS FINED FOR DRIVING TO COMMON DANGER

Bayoff of Tarrys Pays $25 and Costs, He May Appeal the Case

Nick Bayoff, Tarrys Doukhobor, was yesterday afternoon convicted on a charge of driving to the common danger by Stipendiary Magistrate John Cartmel. He was fined $25 and costs.

E. P. Dawson of Brown & Dawson, acting for Bayoff, intimated an appeal would be made. Staff-Sergeant Ernest Gammon conducted the prosecution.

The offence was on July 23, when Bayoff's car and a forest branch truck driven by A. H. Noakes of Rossland collided near Thrums, the truck being considerably damaged.

Mr. Noakes stated that Bayoff was driving too fast, and that the collision occurred on a curve. There was room for two cars to pass, but when he saw Bayoff coming toward him he stopped his truck in the middle of the road so as not to take any chances on going over the bank.

His daughter, Catherine Noakes, supported his evidence.

Bayoff with two witnesses, William and John Sukaroff, who were riding with him, endeavored to prove the forest branch man was doing the fast driving. They claimed Bayoff was not going any faster than 12 or 13 miles per hour, and that there was plenty of room for two cars to pass. Mr. Noakes, they said, was driving in the middle of the road. They blamed Mr. Noakes entirely for the crash.

His worship declared he did not believe the Doukhobors were going as slowly as they stated. He upheld Mr. Noakes in stopping his truck instead of taking a chance on going over the bank.

POWELL LUMBER LOSS LESS THAN WAS ESTIMATED

Fully Covered; No Clue Yet As to How the Lumber Yard Caught Fire

White pine lumber of the W. W. Powell company lost in the fire that destroyed the contents of John Sherbinin's lumber yard at Crescent Valley Wednesday midnight was only about 670,000 feet, instead of something over 900,000 feet, as estimated at Crescent Valley at the time of the fire, Mr. Powell stated yesterday. The company has been using from the stock. The loss was practically covered by the insurance.

Origin of the fire is still a mystery, investigation by the forest branch and by the provincial police failing to throw any light on the matter.

The first official on the ground after the fire started was Percy Young, of the forest branch, who had been on duty at South Slocan, dealing with the spot fires starting from the hotel fire. Mr. Young was starting back for Nelson late at night, when he observed the glow in the sky in the direction of Crescent Valley, and turned his car back. After locating the fire, he got the forestry pump that had been used at South Slocan, organized a force and had the fire under control when reinforcements arrived in the shape of the C.P.R. tank car from Nelson, the big fight having been to save the school house.

No evidence was found by Mr. Young of how the fire originated.

FREE CODLING MOTH PARASITE AT BIRCHBANK

Forty of Ichneumon Ascogaster Carpocapsae Flies Freed by Entomologist

CRANBROOK MAN URGES WATCH POTATO BEETLE

Prevalent in East Kootenay; He Describes Its Appearance

A. A. Dennys of Cranbrook, Dominion junior entomologist, yesterday liberated 40 parasite ichneumon flies, ascokaster carpocapsae, in a Birchbank orchard. These flies are parasites, feeding on the larvae of the codling month, otherwise, the apple worm. E. C. Hunt, district horticulturist of Nelson, recently liberated eight of the parasites at Birchbank. They were imported, being shipped here by F. J. Newcomer of Yakima, Wash., state entomologist. They are also being bred at the Vernon laboratory of the Dominion entomological branch.

The flies will act as a secondary check on the codling moth, assisting in the work mostly done by spraying.

Describing the action of the parasite, Mr. Dennys last night stated: "The fly lays its eggs in the codling moth egg, which hatches and lives as a natural codling moth larvae in the apple, coming out when full grown, and spinning its cocoon, out of which, instead of the moth, the fly emerges. The fly larvae feeds on the codling moth larvae.

"The parasite has to be carefully hatched to eliminate a secondary, or hyper parasite which kills the beneficial parasite.

"It is hoped to draw supplies of the beneficial parasite from this district in future, to assist in the work of combattling the codling moth in other parts of the province. It is possible another 30 or 40 will be liberated here.

Two Broods in Season

"These parasites will lay on the natural second brood of the codling moth. The moths from the first brood are now laying eggs which will hatch into moths next spring. It is this brood that the parasite will affect. The parasite has two broods in a season, similar to the codling moth," Mr. Dennys stated.

A number of codling moth eggs were taken for shipment to the Vernon laboratory, where they will be used in the work of raising parasites by other members of the entomological branch.

Watch Potato Beetle

Mr. Dennys urged farmers in West Kootenay to continue on the lookout for the potato beetle, against which a stiff battle is going on in East Kootenay.

"The nearest the potato beetles have come to Nelson is Wynndel," said Mr. Dennys, "but I won't be surprised to hear of them here any time. We are using a compound of calcium arsenate and lime, sifted over the plants in a dry dust, to combat the beetle in the East Kootenay. The results have been good.

"Any striped beetle found feeding on potatoes is fairly sure to be the potato beetle. The larvae of the beetle are pink soft grubs with black heads and black spots down the sides. Many people have been confusing the grubs and adults of the ladybird for the potato beetle. These are smaller and beneficial, as they feed on aphis, and also potato beetle eggs and young larvae, if present."

FINED CATCHING TOO SMALL TROUT

Arcure, Deferro and Kennedy Pay $10 Taking Trout Under Eight Inches

Carl Arcure, Tony Deferro and William Kennedy pleaded guilty before Stipendiary Magistrate John Cartmel yesterday morning to charges of taking trout under eight inches from the Six Mile lakes. They were fined $10 each, their tackle confiscated, and the fish turned over to the Kootenay Lake General hospital.

C. H. Robinson, fisheries overseer, laid the information. The offences were committed over last week-end.

MISSIONARIES ARE RETURNING TO CHINA

VANCOUVER, Aug. 11.—Noticeable for the fact that several missionaries boarded the ship to return to their life's work in China the Canadian Pacific liner the Empress of Asia sailed at noon today for the orient with a capacity cargo and a passenger list of 448.

In addition D. R. Hill of England, who is encircling the globe by means of a motorcycle and side car, is travelling through to Yokohama on the Asia.

Among the passengers who sailed today were Judge S. Delrosario of Manila; Major E. J. Groves, D.S.O., of London, England; Mr. and Mrs. Beaumont, prominent residents of Melbourne, Australia; J. Rosenthal, eastern merchant, and Mrs. George W. Steele, wife of Captain George Steele, commander of the United States steamer Pittsburgh.

VANCOUVER, Aug. 11.—Rain last night and today caused a postponement of all draws in the British Columbia hard court tennis tournament.

SMOKE HAZE FROM FIRES IN STATES

No Large Fire in Southern Interior, Say Officials; All Controlled

Smoke haze overhanging Nelson yesterday was ascribed by forest branch officials to fires in the United States, probably in Washington or Oregon. They stated there was no large fire in the southern interior of the province, for which Nelson is headquarters.

The fire at Crescent Valley, which destroyed $35,000 worth of lumber Wednesday night, was reported out.

Another fire burning west of Ymir on a mountainside, is under control

There are a number of small fires in the district, but all are under control.

Record speckled trout of the year was caught near Fergus in the Grand river. It weighed three pounds seven and one-half ounces.
