JUVENILE BASKET TEAMS IN ACTION AT THE ARMORY

Trail Rangers and Scouts Mix in Three Very Fast Contests

A triple-headed basketball program was dished up to fans of the younger generation at the Armory last night. The games were all fast and remarkably clean, only nine personal fouls being called in the whole three games, by Referee Ken Rees.

In the first game the Scouts' Juvenile "A" team lost after a losing battle throughout to the Trinity Trail Rangers "A," by the score 12 to 4. E. Green, J. Buchanan and Alex. McLeod each netted four points for the Rangers, while Tom Bird and Douglas Ritchie made up equally between them the Scouts' score.

SCOUTS "B" PLAY TWICE

In the second tilt the Scouts' Juvenile "B" wiped out their brother team's defeat by downing the Trail Rangers' "B" team by the score, 16 to 2. J. Edmondson and W. Gallicano each scored six points for the Scouts, while E. Woolls and W. Rowe each contributed two points to the cause. G. Steed put in the Trail Rangers' only basket.

After putting away the Trail Rangers' "B" team, the scouts' "B" attempted to do the same to the scouts' Juvenile "C" team, but the best they could do was to hold them to a draw, which even overtime play could not break. The game ended 14-14. W. Gallicano scored six points for the "B" team, while J. Edmondson and E. Woolls helped out with four points each. J. Teague put in six points, G. Beattie four, C. Jeffcott and E. Wheeler each put in two points for the "C" team.

The teams were:

FIRST GAME—

Trail Rangers Juvenile "A"—L. McEachern, E. Green, J. Weaver, J. Buchanan, A. McLeod, E. Chase.

Scouts Juvenile "A"—Tom Bird, Alex. Ritchie, A. Warner, D. Ritchie, C. McDougall.

SECOND GAME—

Trail Rangers Juvenile "B"—G. Kirby, M. McLeod, G. Steed, D. Allen, S. Jackson.

Scouts Juvenile "B"—J. Edmondson, E. Woolls, W. Gallicano, W. Rowe, J. Townsend.

THIRD GAME—

Scouts Juvenile "C"—J. Teague, G. Beattie, C. Jeffcott, E. Wheeler, G. Bates, S. Smythe.

Scouts Juvenile "B" had the same personnel in this game as in the second.

George Von Elm Denies He Will Leave Amateurs

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 11.—George Von Elm, former national amateur golf champion, tonight denied reports that he would sign under the management of Jack Kearns, fight promoter, as a professional. Von Elm insisted he would never consider abandoning the amateur ranks for the professional.

While Kearns insisted the star linksman was considering seriously his offer, Von Elm declared the suggestion had been made only in a "kidding way" and that he would not for a moment think of making such a change.

ALLEN CHARGED WITH ATTEMPT POISON O'NEIL

Pleads Not Guilty to Causing the Latter to Take Wood Alcohol

CASE IS ADJOURNED TO TOMORROW MORNING

Analysis Shows Identity of the Liquid That Put O'Neil in Collapse

An attempt to poison James O'Neil, by wood alcohol he allegedly sold him, was yesterday charged against James Allen.

Allen appeared in city police court yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock before Magistrate William Brown, and pleaded not guilty to the charge that he "unlawfully did cause to be taken by James O'Neil certain poison, to wit, methyl hydrate, so as thereby to endanger the life of the said James O'Neil."

The case was remanded until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

IDENTIFIED BY VICTIM

O'Neil, being treated at Kootenay Lake General hospital for the loss of fingers, was given, it is alleged, some wood alcohol to drink at the Kootenay hotel, by Allen, while O'Neil was on leave up town Tuesday night. The latter collapsed at the hospital, some time after, but was revived by Dr. D. W. McKay sufficiently to allow him to accompany Constable George Harlow to the hotel, where the constable arrested Allen, who O'Neil said gave him the stuff to drink.

A small quantity of the liquor was obtained, and yesterday analyzed as methyl hydrate or wood alcohol.

OTTAWA DEMANDS THAT 'STRANGLER' DIE

ADJOURN PROBE ON LONG; TO HEAR STEWART

POLICE COMMISSION RECEIVES CERTIFICATE CHIEF LAID UP; TO GIVE HIM CLEAR FORTNIGHT

Stewart, Represented by Counsel, Formally Applies for Hearing of Any Charges Against Him and for Reinstatement; Same Date Set

JARVIS CASE TO COME UP SAME TIME; SHERAN ASKS APOLOGY; GETS LECTURE

Member Wants Wasson to Give Private Conversation in Which Did Not Treat Commissioner With Deference; Wasson Refuses and Matter Ruled Out

After hearing Dr. W. O. Rose certify that Chief of Police Thomas H. Long was in hospital with his leg in a cast, having injured himself back by his attendance at the inquiry last week, the police commission last night adjourned the inquiry into the charges of incompetence against the chief, to an unnamed date that will give him two clear weeks to prepare his case after he is discharged from hospital.

STEWART ASKS RECONSIDERATION

Former Sergeant Alex Stewart, who was dismissed from the force at last week's hearing without charges having been laid against him, after his charge of being drunk on duty last night against Constable Ralph Hale had not been sustained, was represented last night by counsel, E. P. Dawson, who submitted a written request from Stewart for a rehearing and a statement. This application was referred to the same date as the hearing to be dealt with.

The "searching inquiry" asked for by R. W. Jarvis on behalf of his son, Pat Jarvis, at present on the force as a special, whose name was brought into the inquiry in connection with a charge against the chief, also goes over to the same date.

WASSON REFUSES TO ANSWER QUIZ

An acquisition brought against City Clerk W. E. Wasson, clerk of the commission, by Commissioner R. H. Maber, for his having spoken to him, as commissioner, in an unbecoming manner, produced some unanticipated fireworks, Mr. Wasson refusing absolutely to go into the matter, stating he was under inquiry, and that the conversation in question was a private one.

Commissioners P. J. Sheran and R. H. Maber demanded an apology from the chairman, Mayor J. A. McDonald, for his remark at the last session that a police commissioner and a police officer should ought to have a character beyond reproach.

The feature of the meeting was a ceremonial to Alex Stewart's uniformly good work as a police officer, paid for by the mayor.

SMALL ROOM CROWDED EARLY

Owing to the council chamber being used to today's election, with the screened booths occupying the center of the stage, the session was held in the police court, and in consequence only a small portion of the crowd that gathered got within hearing distance of the proceedings. In fact, the room was packed half an hour before the session opened.

In the absence from the city of Chas O'Shea, K.C., C. B. Garland was present to tender advice as city solicitor.

The commissioners sat at the table, while Sergeant Hale has previously asked the crowd were "the $5 seats," filing in at 8 o'clock. Among the spectators were Alderman Samuel Barton, Former Police Commissioner J. J. Fitch, Warden W. R. Jarvis, William Hobbs and a number of ladies, the majority of the latter being included in the number standing.

Mayor McDonald announced the commission session had been adjourned to the present date for the purpose of inquiring into the charges made against Chief of Long, who, however, was now in hospital, as a letter in the hands of the clerk would explain.

CHIEF'S LETTER

Mr. Wasson read the letter, of yesterday's date, as follows:

His Worship Mayor McDonald and Members of the Board of Police Commissioners of the City of Nelson:

Sirs—Being still confined to the Kootenay Lake General hospital, I regret that I shall be unable to be present this evening at the meeting of the board to hear charges preferred against me. Dr. Rose promised to be present at the meeting to furnish any information that you may require regarding my medical condition.

I would respectfully request that you adjourn the meeting to some future date.

REGINA GREETS TORY CHIEFTAIN

Takes Part in Conferences and Addresses Public Meetings as Well

REGINA, Sask., Jan. 11.—Greeted enthusiastically by many Regina citizens despite his late arrival from Saskatoon today, Hon. R. B. Bennett, chieftain of the Conservative party, spent a busy day in the city. Conferences with the city and provincial Conservatives' associations were held during the day, while in the evening Mr. Bennett addressed a public reception in the city hall.

"The future of Canada is the future of democracy and unless we make it what it should be, Canada cannot make the progress it should, for its wealth lies not in broad acres, fertile prairies, extensive trade or wealth in banks, but in the character of its people. How glibly we politicians talk of government for the people," he said during the course of his address, "but you must remember that your public men are just as good or just as bad as you make them because you are the source of the power of democracy which rises to the level of the power at its source.'

Youthful Pair Elope on Seven Dollars Which Belongs to Neither One

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J., Jan. 11.—Robert Loomis, aged 18, of Bridgeport, Conn., and Louise Parson, aged 16, of Stratford, Conn., the latter wearing a youth's clothing and hair cut close in boyish fashion, were held by South Orange police today, their elopment a failure as far as authorities were concerned.

Police said Louise confessed that the escapade was financed with $7 entrusted to her as secretary of the Home Study room of her High school and $16 from the bank account of a girl friend. The youth had no money.

Local Options in the Manitoba Liquor Bill Are Further Debated

WINNIPEG, Jan. 11.—Rapid progress has been made by the law amendments committee in considering Manitoba's new liquor legislation and it will be in a position to report when the legislature reassembles January 18.

Local options of the bills were considered today. When the beer by the glass plebiscite was taken last June 23, ridings, including Brandon and Portage La Prairie cities, voted "dry." Unless these constituencies take a local option vote within six months of the passage of the bill, they will automatically become wet. The bill also stipulates that after the 23 ridings have noted, no local option vote will be taken in any part of the province till after Sept. 13, 1931.

Hammond to Return Home and Continue Breaking Fruit Act

VANCOUVER, B.C., Jan. 11.—W. H. Hammond, "rebel" potato grower of Ashcroft, is returning to the interior tonight.

"I am determined to compel the government to make a test case to ascertain the validity of the market control legislation," said Hammond. "At Ashcroft I intend to break every regulation the board has made."

VESSEL IS IN DISTRESS ON THE PACIFIC

Calls for Aid Cease; Fear Is Lost; Was on Way to Honolulu

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 11.—The Seattle harbor radio tonight intercepted an S.O.S. call from the steamship Griffco, en route from Seattle to Honolulu. In its first distress call the Griffco gave no details. The vessel's position was estimated as 300 miles south of Cape Flattery, Washington.

Several weeks ago the Griffco, a steamer of 1463 gross tonnage, was sold by James Griffiths & Sons to a Hawaiian concern. The ship left here this week to enter Hawaiian interisland trade.

Forty minutes after the first S.O.S. message nothing further had been heard from the distressed vessel. Radio men along the coast, who were making frantic efforts to get in communication with the Griffco, took the ship's silence as portending possible disaster to her.

Reports received here by the United States weather bureau indicated that a gale was raging off the Washington coast. Storm warnings had been posted all day.

The Griffco was in command of Captain Herbert Martin, and there were 23 other persons on board when the vessel left here Monday night.

MRS. SNYDER IS GIVEN RESPITE OF BUT A DAY

Stay of Execution Caused by Insurance Suit to Stop Policy Payment

JUDD GRAY WILL BE EXECUTED TONIGHT

But Salesman Makes Eleventh Hour Attempt to Escape the Executioner

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Mrs. Ruth Snyder, whose execution for the murder of her husband had been set for tomorrow night, was granted a stay until 10 a.m. Friday by Supreme Justice Aaron J. Levy tonight.

The stay was reported to have been granted pending hearing of the suit brought by the Prudential Life Insurance company to avoid payment of $97,000 on the life of her husband, Albert Snyder.

The company claimed that the policies were obtained by Mrs. Snyder by fraud and without the knowledge of the insured. A suit brought in behalf of Lorraine Snyder to compel payment of the insurance has been held up pending the outcome of the Prudential suit.

GRAY MUST DIE

The Queen's village housewife was convicted with her former lover, Henry Judd Gray, a corset salesman, of the murder of her husband, a magazine art editor. Snyder was found slain in his bed March 20, last. Mrs. Snyder and Gray confessed to the killing a few hours after Snyder's body was found.

It was stated by Justice Gray that the order did not apply to Gray, whose execution has been set for tomorrow night.

Warden Yawes, at the prison tonight, when informed that the stay had been granted, said he would issue no statement until formal papers had been served on him.

GRAY TRIES AGAIN

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—A writ of habaes corpus signed by Henry Judd Gray was in the hands of his lawyers tonight for presentation to a federal judge in an 11th hour attempt to prevent Gray's execution tomorrow for the murder of Mrs. Ruth Snyder's husband.

Samuel L. Miller, of counsel for Gray, said that the writ would be presented to a United States judge late tonight or tomorrow morning. Miller's announcement was made just before he went into conference with William J. Hillard, his associate counsel in the case. No announcement regarding the conference was forthcoming.

Juvenile Court Will Not Accept Hickman as Institution Ward

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11. — One more chance to escape the noose for the kidnaping and slaying of Marian Parker was lost by William Edward Hickman late today when the juvenile court judge dismissed a petition filed last summer making him a ward of the juvenile court.

The action definitely ended Hickman's claim that he is a minor. The 19-year-old accused youth is now eligible for trial in the superior court, where conviction for murder is punishable by death.

ENGLISH MISS PROVES HERO IN THE FLOOD

With Danger to Herself She Saves Woman and Two Boys

LONDON, Jan. 11.—"If we have girls like this we need not fear for the future generation of English people," declared the Westminster coroner today after his court had heard how Marjorie Franckeish, aged 20, rescued a woman and two boys from drowning during Saturday's flood. The girl told her story with obvious reluctance to dwell upon her part in it. At 2 o'clock in the morning she awoke to find the water at her window ledge and a few moments later she and the other woman were washed out of the room by the force of the water.

"We crouched on a bed floating near the ceiling. I finally got out of the window and while swimming managed to relieve myself of my dressing gown."

What followed was told by another witness who saw her swimming outside his own doomed house.

DIVES UNDER

"Miss Francheish swam to our window, but refused to take hold of the sheet we held out, and asked where the others were. She pulled her brother up and we told her Mrs. Watson and Billy were in a room underneath.

"I saw Marjorie dive and swim through that window, reappearing with the little boy, whom we pulled up. She still refused our help, but dived in again and got Mrs. Watson.

"The girl was exhausted," he continued, "but would not come until she saw Mrs. Watson saved. She placed a second sheet under Mrs. Watson while swimming around her. She then allowed herself to be hauled up by my wife and maid. Her legs were badly cut by window glass."

Miss Frankeish was driven to the inquest today from Fulham hospital, where she has been confined since Sunday. She received a great ovation when she reached the court.

CLAIM VANCOUVER JUDGE IS WRONG

Refusal of Naturalization Papers to Japs Contrary to Act, Ottawa

OTTAWA, Jan. 11. — The action of Judge Grant of Vancouver in refusing to recommend several Japanese applicants for Canadian citizenship, taking the stand that Japanese were not assimilable into the Anglo-Saxon race, was a violation of the provisions of the Naturalization act; and in so doing the Vancouver judge exceeded his duties as these are governed by the act.

This was the comment here today of high officials of the department of the secretary of state when attention was drawn to the Vancouver dispatch.

It was pointed out that the Naturalization act of Canada lays down no requirements from an applicant as to whether his racial origin is of a nature that would make him assimilable or not.

It was further declared here that the act stated plainly that grant of a certificate of naturalization was in the absolute discretion of the secretary of state.

MISSING SECRETARY . . IS IN HOLLYWOOD

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 11.—Word has been received here that David G. Shearer, missing secretary of the Hindoo Koosh Grotto, is in Hollywood, Cal. A former Hamilton woman is said to have written to friends here that she had met aShearer in Hollywood, and had conversed with him. The writer had no knowledge of Shearer's mysterious disappearance.

Since the secretary vanished some time ago, Grotto officials have been investigating the club's finances, which were under Shearer's stewardship.

CABINET REVIEWS EVIDENCE AGAINST NELSON AND DECIDES NOT TO INTERFERE HANGING

Will Go to Death Tomorrow Morning, Friday 13th, for Murder of Mrs. Patterson; Receives News in Calm Manner

TELLS GUARDS "WHEN THEY ARE READY, I AM READY"; HANGMAN ARRIVES; ALL IS READY

Catholic Priest Visits Condemned Man; Hundreds Seek Invitation to Hanging; "Strangler" Spends Time Reading in His Cell

OTTAWA, Jan 11.—Earle Nelson, internationally known as "the dark strangler," will pay the death penalty at Winnipeg Friday morning next for the murder of Mrs. Emily Patterson. The cabinet having reviewed his case has decided that there will be no interference, it was announced early this evening.

RETAINS CALMNESS

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 11.—With official word from Ottawa that executive clemency had been refused, preparations for the hanging of Earle Nelson, the "dark strangler," slayer of a score of women and children in Canada and the United States, were completed tonight.

Tonight Nelson was told the fatal news that clemency had been refused when his spiritual adviser, Father Webb, visited him. Arthur Ellis, the hangman, arrived in the city from Vancouver, where he officiated at a double execution earlier in the week, and provincial jail officials stated that work of erecting the scaffold in the court yard of the jail had been completed.

READS IN CELL

Nelson, convicted of the murder of Mrs. Emily Patterson, and also indicted for the slaying of 14-year-old Lola Cowan, here last June, showed no concern as he sat reading in the death cell tonight. He talked in a low tone with Father Webb, but when told that he must prepare for death at dawn on Friday, Nelson remained silent. Earlier in the day he had told his guards: "When they are ready, I am ready."

Friday will be the 13th day of the month, and by a strange coincidence Nelson will be the 13th man who has walked the 13 steps to the platform of the gallows.

HUNDREDS SEEK ENTRY

While hundreds of requests, including many from women and young girls, have been received from persons seeking admission to the execution, but few have been granted. In the little court yard of the provincial jail, which is situated a short distance from the city's main business thoroughfare, the scaffold has been erected. The 13 steps leading to the platform have been put in place, and at the back and sides have been placed a covering of canvas. Only the witnesses directly in front of the scaffold will see the actual springing of the trap door through which Nelson will go to his death. A heavy guard will be maintained outside the jail yard and preparations for the additional police were completed tonight.

Hangman Ellis tonight is staying at a downtown hotel and tomorrow will visit the jail where he will view Nelson and inspect the scaffold.

CHILD BURNED TO DEATH IN SCHOOL

Six Others Cannot Live; Were Being Taught Handicraft in Community Center

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 11.—Trapped on the third floor of the Germantown Community Center when fire swept through the building late today, 8-year-old Francis Pifano was burned to death and six other small children were burned so severely they may not recover. The fire started from an undetermined cause in the hallway leading to the floors occupied by the Community Center, where children between the ages of 6 and 14 are taught handicraft.

Approximately 100 children, mostly girls, were caught in the rooms when flames and smoke surrounded them. Frantic parents struggled and screamed in the street below as firemen and volunteers ran up ladders and carried the panic-stricken children to safety.

Negotiations Not Yet Completed for the Purchase of Rifles

LONDON, Jan. 11.—The rifles which Canada is reported desirous of buying from the Irish Free State are surplus stock, which are to be disposed of to help the Free State public funds.

A report in Ottawa was that 1200 rifles had been purchased for the Canadian naval volunteer reserve at a cost of $7 each, but it is stated at Belfast that the negotiations are not yet concluded.

The Daily News will receive and give out election results tonight. As the polls in Nelson and other Kootenay cities do not close till 8 o'clock, there will be no returns to give out till nearly 9.

CATTLE BREEDERS ASK BREEDING POLICY

EDMONTON, Jan. 11.—A resolution urging the Alberta government to introduce legislation for some policy for the distribution of pure bred sires through the province was passed at the opening session of the annual meeting of the Alberta Cattle Breeders' association here today. This step was taken in view of the abandonment of the bull purchasing policy which has been carried out for years by the federal government.

J. G. Robertson, live stock commissioner of Saskatchewan, was present and outlined the policy as carried out by his province.

POLICE BOARD GRATNS CHIEF A FORTNIGHT

date, when I hope to be in a position to be able to attend and meet the charges that have been made against me.

"Obediently yours,
THOMAS R. LONG,
Chief of Police."

Dr. Rose was not then present, but a telephone message to his house elicited the information that he was on his way, and immediately he was heard coming up the stairs.

CHIEF'S ATTENDANCE PUT HIM BACK

Asked by the mayor to inform the commission of the chief's condition, Dr. Rose recalled that Chief Long at the end of November sustained an injury to the ligaments of his right knee, and that in December he was obliged to send him to the hospital. The chief's determination to come out and attend the session of the inquiry last week unquestionably put him back considerably, Dr. Rose said, stating that the immediate consequence was that he had to return him to the hospital, and to immobilize the knee in a plaster cast.

Answering Commissioner Sheran, Dr. Rose was unable to say how long it would be before Chief Long was out again, but suggested it might be two or three weeks. "These knee cases are sometimes tenacious," he explained.

PROVISIONAL DATE SET

Assured it would be impossible to fix the chief's recovery any closer, Commissioner Sheran offered a motion that the charges against the chief be inquired into on the evening of a date two weeks after Dr. Rose should advise the commission the chief was out of his care.

Commissioner Maber seconded this.

"I think that is fair," said Dr. Rose, "as it will give the chief a chance to prepare his defence, which he has had no opportunity so far to do on account of being laid up."

Commissioner Sheran—We want to be fair.

JARVIS SAME DATE

On motion of Commissioner Sheran, also, the Jarvis matter was deferred to the same date.

A motion by Commissioner Maber that the commission "now stand adjourned," immediately seconded by Commissioner Sheran, appeared to bring the session to a close, and Mayor McDonald was starting to rise when Commissioner Sheran remarked if Alex. Stewart had anything to say, now was his chance. His worship thereon resumed his seat and the session continued.

The mayor remarked that one of the rights of citizenship was to be given a right to defend oneself against charges, and to be considered innocent until proven guilty. Sergeant Stewart was a citizen and had every right to fair play.

DAWSON STATES STEWART'S INTENTION

Mr. Dawson stated he represented Mr. Stewart. In view of Commissioner Maber's letter in The Daily News of the morning, stating he was willing to be convinced, Mr. Dawson said, Mr. Stewart was prepared to attend the session and make application for a rehearing and reinstatement. While Mr. Stewart was prepared to go into the matter now, it would probably be better for it to come up later with the other issues.

Commissioner Sheran moved that Stewart be heard then and there, being seconded by Commissioner Maber.

Mayor McDonald, however, said there was no reason why the Stewart inquiry should not go on at the same time as that into the charges against the chief.

"I want to go on record," said Mayor McDonald, "that during the several years that I have been chief magistrate of Nelson, I have been perfectly satisfied with Stewart in all cases. Anything I gave him to do was well done. I wish to go on record as being opposed to his dismissal."

Silence on the part of Commissioners Sheran and Maber appeared to give consent to Stewart's case going over.

Commissioner Sheran—I think there is an apology due from the mayor to the members of the commission. At the last session you made some remark that a commissioner as well as a police officer should have a good character. Have you got anything to say against our records?

Commissioner Maber—Yes, what have you got to say about us?

Mayor McDonald—I have been in the chair of this city for a number of years, and while discharging the duties of presiding officer I have never been addressed except in respect by anyone but you, Commissioner Sheran. You are in an office of great dignity, but I am sorry to say that you have not treated it with dignity, and as head of the commission I have not been addressed by you in a manner becoming your office.

Commissioner Sheran—I have a gift from God, and I use it. I am not as well posted as you are on legal matters, but I say what I have to say.

The mayor demurred that he was not posted in legal niceties.

Commissioner Maber—Have you anything against my character, Mr. Mayor?

Mayor McDonald—No, Commissioner Maber.

This seemed to dispose of the last matter on the minds of commissioners, but it was not quite the last.

MABER TRIES TO QUIZ WASSON

"I would ask Mr. Wasson why he said to me this afternoon what he said," stated Commissioner Maber. "I ask him to repeat that here before the commission."

Mr. Wasson's reaction to this was to look amazed. Pressed by Commissioner Maber to explain why he addressed him as he did, Mr. Wasson said firmly and slowly:

"I absolutely refuse to answer before the board of police commissioners Commissioner Maber's request. I state that the conversation I had with Mr. Maber was of a private nature, and I contend this is not the place or the time to repeat such conversation.

"Further, I would say that in my opinion, Commissioner Maber is not using much courtesy to me, or to any*one else, in bringing up a private con*versation of this character in a public meeting."

COMMISSIONER IMPROPERLY ADDRESSED

Commissioner Maber—I would like to know why a commissioner should be addressed as I was by Mr. Wasson.

"You don't wish to tell the chairman what you said," commented Commissioner Maber, as Mr. Wasson deliberated.

"Mr. Mayor, is Commissioner Maber addressing me or addressing you?" pointedly queried the clerk.

"The mayor," Commissioner Maber hastened to amend.

"Then, Mr. Mayor, I will tell you privately," stated Mr. Wasson.

To the assertion of Commissioner Maber that Mr. Wasson's remark related to the inquiry, and to his reiterated demand that Mr. Wasson give an explanation of why he had said to a commissioner what he did, Mr. Wasson replied:

"I absolutely refuse to answer this question. I am not under investigation here. Further, I was not clerk to the board of police commissioners when I was speaking to Mr. Maber.

Mayor McDonald — Commissioner Maber, Mr. Wasson was not clerk of this board when he was speaking to you. I do not think this is the right *place to bring up a private conversa*tion.

SOLICITOR CONFIRMS VIEW

His worship then asked Mr. Garland, city solicitor, what his view of the matter was.

Mr. Garland replied:

"I would not think this was the right place for something that was said in a private conversation to be discussed."

No more remarks were offered by anyone, and the commission adjourned.

STEWART'S LETTER

The letter from Alex Stewart filed by Mr. Dawson with the commission was as follows:

"To the Police Commissioners, Corporation of City of Nelson, B.C.:

"Sirs—I read with interest Commissioner Maber's letter in The Daily News of January 11th, and note that Commis*sioner Maber is personally willing to give* me the opportunity of a hearing with a view to reinstatement.

"I am sure that at such rehearing I should be in a position to answer all charges which have been preferred against me, fully and satisfactorily, and I trust that I may be given the opportunity to make such full answer.

"I am, therefore, hereby applying to yourselves, formally, that such a rehearing may be held at the earliest opportunity available in order to present my case.

"Trusting that you will see your way to reopen the matter in accordance with this request, I am,

"Yours truly,
"A. STEWART."

BROWNLEE TALKS OF POSSIBILITIES PEACE COUNTRY

Live Stock and Grain Production on Large Scale Possible, He Says

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—Possibilities of increased development in the Peace River district and prospective prosperity to be derived by new settlers in that area, were pointed out with enthusiasm tonight by Hon. J. E. Brownlee, premier of Alberta, during the course of an interview.

Premier Brownlee explained that he had come to Montreal for discussion on the Alberta railway question with Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National railway, and E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific railway. The provincial government operated two roads, the Edmonton, Dunvegan & British Columbia railway and the Alberta Great Waterways railroad, both of which in the premier's opinion, should be incorporated in one of the two great transportation systems. He was prepared to discuss terms for the disposal of the two government-owned lines, being convinced that both the provincial and the absorbing company will derive benefits from the amalgamation.

GREAT OPPORTUNITIES

At the present time there were 300,000 acres under cultivation in the Peace River district, between eight and nine million bushels of wheat being harvested in 1927, from this area, and it was estimated by the highest federal authorities, the premier pointed out, that 12,000,000 acres could be placed under cultivation in that domain. It was further explained that the provincial crop for 1927 was estimated at 180,000,000 bushels of wheat, and that this was raised on between 12,000,000 and 13,000,000 acres. What then, were the possibilities of the Peace River district? he said.

Japan, he affirmed, was a good prospective market for Canadian cattle and when reasonable ocean freight rates for the carriage of the animals could be obtained, a very good trade in live stock with the orient, should be developed, he declared.

In conclusion the Alberta premier said that he would like to repeat the advice of the Prince of Wales, given recently in England, that Canadians should visit the Peace River district, and judge its possibilities for themselves.

The Day the Voters Rule

Today Nelson and Trail almost in full, and some other Kootenay cities in part, select their local governments—the governments that are in every way closest to them, affecting them directly by the quality of the service they give, and by the monies they expend.

No good citizen who is in a position to cast his vote, and take part in the momentous choice of civic representatives, will voluntarily stay away from the polls.

The right to vote was once so esteemed that men laid down their lives in order that it might be conceded.

Now conceded to the full, it is by some lightly valued.

In the light of his conception of the issues at stake, and of his knowledge of the candidates, an elector should give his best service, selecting for the posts to be filled those who he believes will make the best representatives.

It is not compulsory on every elector to vote, but it is compulsory on every good elector.

Attack on Sir Henry Cannot Rest on Religious Grounds

Hon. Charles Marcil, a distinguished Quebec member of parliament and a former deputy-speaker, is attacking Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National railways, for consenting to make a report for the Mexican government upon the Mexican railways, taking the ground that Mexico's alleged mistreatment of its Catholic citizens made acceptance by a Canadian official impossible.

The genial and able French-Canadian statesman is now setting up for Sir Henry Thornton a standard he has not applied to himself.

Twenty years ago France, then very largely dominated by infidelity, was pursuing just the same course toward the Catholics that the Mexican government is, confiscating, banning, and generally earning opprobrium from the Catholic world. What did Mr. Marcil do? As he himself tells in the "Parliamentary Guide," he went to France, made a critical study of French parliamentary institutions, and accepted at the hands of the French government a knighthood in the Legion of Honor.

There was, of course, not any real reason why Mr. Marcil should not have admitted that France had its good points, and have accepted any honor the government of that country had to bestow.

Equally there is no reason any Canadian, in either public or private life, for international reasons should not do any expert service for the Mexican government he is able to, —no reason whatever—and especially is this so if he conceives that his service will contribute to the making of good relations.

Criticisms of Sir Henry for this particular act cannot validly rest on this basis.

Bank Failures and Bank Stability

The Calgary Albertan says:

"More banks have failed in the United States in the past six years than in any other six years in American history. More than 11,000 new banks were organized over there since 1914, an increase of about 35 per cent. There is a connection between the two statements. Most bank failures, according to officials of larger banks, are caused by the fact that there are too many banks.

"In some states of the Union there is a bank for each 740 persons, while in one of the largest eastern states one bank suffices over 73,000 inhabitants.

"Canadians manage to get along with only 11 chartered banks and about a dozen small private banks. There are 4034 branches throughout the Dominion directed from the 11 head offices. While there are critics of the Canadian system, it should be borne in mind that bank failures are next to impossible today. The centralized system has its merits and one is that of great financial stability."

There are a number of other contrasts in method besides those that the Albertan mentions.

For instance, in addition to the "national" banks, those chartered under the laws of the United States, and subject to federal inspection, 48 states charter what are called "state" banks, subject to state laws. Just across the line from British Columbia are Washington banks with capital as low as $10,000. One well-to-do citizen could have a flock of that kind. Naturally, a system based on small individual banks of limited resources and field is going to find the going rough in times of stress. Witness the wholesale Florida failures at a time the United States was markedly prosperous.

It is impossible to imagine a Canadian bank failure where the notes that the bank had issued would not be good. Before one of them could be questioned, the entire resources of the bank, and after that, the entire reserve deposited by all the banks with the Dominion treasury for note redemption, would have to be exhausted. As a matter of fact, that reserve has never yet been called upon. But across the line there is not the virtual guarantee of all the banking system of the country behind every note that is issued, and notes of a defunct bank do not always have value.

"Can you tell me what a white elephant party is? writes a reader of this column. "A friend of mine, living at a distance, wrote that she had attended one. As it would be new in my vicinity, I thought I might like to give one, if you can explain its nature."

You could not give a party which would cause more fun. In some sections of the country the term "white elephant" means some article which one has had "wished on" one—an unliked wedding gift, something which has come down to one through inheritance, or perhaps a "horror" which one once admired and bought (before one's tastes were developed by maturer years!) We all have at least one white elephant in our homes—and it is generally hidden in some closet or in the attic!

You can imagine the fun, then, of inviting each of your guests to bring his white elephant to your party and give it away to somebody else in exchange for some other guest's white elephant! Decorate your invitations with sketches of an elephant (if you can find an artist who can draw this animal—or you can paste a pictured elephant on them, or trace an elephant from a child's story book). Word the invitations as follows: Mrs. Horace Smith requests the pleasure of Mrs. Sidney Black's presence at a White Elephant Party on the evening of December the twentieth at eight o'clock." At the bottom write: "Note: By the term, 'white elephant' is meant some possession which one dislikes and which is to be brought to this party by each guest and exchanged for the white elephant of some other guest!"

Each white elephant should be wrapped and tied in a neat parcel, with no name on it. Seat the guests in a circle. At the sound of a bell, start passing the bundles around the circle. Each person opens and examines his bundle, trying to conceal it from the other players. If he likes what the parcel contains, he withdraws from the circle, after exhibiting his prize. If he does not like the white elephant passed to him, he wraps it up again and passes it on to his neighbor on the right. Allow an hour and a half for the unwrapping, rewrapping and passing on of these articles, and surely at the end of this period each object will have found someone who is willing to accept it. When the final bell rings the player must keep the particular object he is holding at that moment. This makes the passing of "elephants" frenzied at the end! Bridge or some other card game completes the evening's fun. The "elephant episode has broken the ice sufficiently to insure a jolly time for everybody.

Tomorrow—Finnan Haddie Dishes.

Australia-to-England Flyers Crash; Minor Injuries; Plane Wreck

MUNTOK BANKA ISLAND, Dutch East Indies, Jan. 11.—The airplane Red Rose, in which Captain W. W. Lancaster and Mrs. Keith Miller have been flying to Australia from England, crashed here this morning.

Mrs. Miller's nose was broken, Captain Lancaster's lip was cut and he sustained a slight concussion. The plane was badly damaged.

Captain Lancaster and Mrs. Miller decided to return to Singapore by steamer after the crash. It was considered doubtful if the plane would be able to resume the flight.

Rev. W. H. Harding and Mrs. Harding of Summerside have had goose served at their Christmas wedding anniversary for 45 years and 40 of these years the festive bird (not the same one!) was served on the same platter.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

Heat and Infection

Perhaps you are one of those individuals who have periodic attacks of rheumatism of the joints, lumbago, sciatica, muscular rheumatism and make regular visits to hot springs, Turkish baths, or to an establishment where you are given "heat" treatments by means of electric bath cabinets, hot packs, or other forms of heat application.

And the result of the treatment is that you feel somewhat better, get more motion into your limbs and back, and you figure the expenditure of time and money as a good investment.

Now, as a matter of fact, it is a good investment, because the heat has stimulated the circulation, and poisons have been hurried out of the system by means of the increased action of the skin, lungs, kidneys and intestines.

However, there is one question that should come home to you, and that is, "Why do I have these attacks, and why am I free from them for a time?"

Now, the answer is simple. There is some infection in teeth, tonsils, sinuses, gall bladder, intestine, or elsewhere, and when your tissues are unable to handle it, you get your symptoms of pain, and stiffness.

And thus, when you go to the "heat" establishment, and your circulation is so stimulated that it hurries out the wastes, as mentioned above, then you get some relief from your pain and stiffness.

Now, I believe you see my point, and that is that your first thought should be to have your doctor, and perhaps your dentist, try to locate the cause of the trouble. It is there, all right, and in the majority of cases can be located. As a matter of fact, it is only when the amount of the infection greatly increases that you have your pain and disability. The infection seems to "overflow" the boundary lines of your resistance.

Thus, if you eat and sleep properly, get regular exercise, and establish regular hygienic habits, you may often be keeping ahead of an infection, and not realize it.

After the infection is removed there is still considerable of the poison in the system, in the glands, joints, lower intestine, and the blood itself.

It is then that these heat applications do wonderful work. In fact, a few days or weeks thus spent, will get the system rid of poisons that might otherwise take months to remove.

So put first things first, and get the cause located.

This Frock Has a Flare for Fashion

THERE's no doubt about this frock: it is absolutely the latest thing from every point of view. First and very important is the new flared skirt, which is here made in two pieces, the back straight and the front cut with the circular flares. These may be made either on the bias or the straight of the goods. The length of the bolero is a new feature, continuing as it does almost to the hipline. The narrow little collar with its long ribbon-like ends and the snug hipline and belt are recent fashion features. Satin or silk crêpe, crêpe de Chine, sheer wools and light weight velvets are smart materials. (Copyright, 1927, by Butterick)

ARROW LAKES ICE IS BROKEN SOME

NAKUSP, B.C., Jan. 11.—Much to the delight of the settlers at Burton City, the steamer Minto was successful in plowing through the ice between Carrols and Burton on Thursday morning. Precautions, however, had been made to have the mail and passengers to come up to Carrols, in the event of the effort to cut through the ice being a failure. The ice now extends to the point immediately north of Nakusp and the ice breaker is in full use.

Crystal rink, Summerside, was officially opened.

Old-Time Resident of Nakusp Is Taken by Death; Seventy-five

She was the widow of Joseph Crowell and was born in Arcadia, Nova Scotia, where she lived until 1906, coming to Winnipeg with her sons until 1908, when the family removed to Nakusp to settle on land when Glenbank was placed on the market for fruit growing.

She was a member of the Glenbank Methodist church, and leaves to mourn her loss her son, Joseph S. Crowell, of Vancouver, who recently visited her and her son, F. W. Crowell, with whom she has lived here for the time. Her grandson, Byron Crowell, had arrived here at Christmas and remained until her death.

To the Editor of The Daily News:

Yours truly,

Pirates at Work in Shadow of the Mighty Gibraltar

GIBRALTAR, Jan. 11.—Piracy almost within the shadow of the great fortress occurred yesterday when the Spanish trawler, San Antonio, was attacked by 50 Spanish fishing boats. The pirates numbered about 300 and were armed with pistols, knives and clubs. They boarded the trawler, looted the vessel and cut the nets.

Another trawler was treated in a similar manner. Their boats were run aground at Atumara, where the Spanish coast guard was driven off.

Later the trawlers were refloated and taken to Gibraltar.

SHOWER OF GIFTS FOR NEW YEAR BABY

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 11.—The first baby born in the new year within the city limits of Hamilton is always "born lucky", for numerous gifts are showered upon the new arrival by merchants of the city. This year the new year prizes go to the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cooper, who was born at 12:25 a.m. January 1, 1928. The merchants here keep a record each year of the stork's first visit to a Hamilton home, and as soon as the birth is certified by a medical man the gifts begin to pour in.

The luck, however, is practically all with the parents, as the gifts consist chiefly of milk tickets from several milk dealers, bouquets of cut flowers, carriage robes, baby basket, dresses, bassinet, baby shoes, crib blankets, baby bonnet and photographs of the infant. However, the baby will receive one gift that likely will be preserved until he grows up, a handsome sterling silver baby cup.

HIGHER EDUCATION ENLARGES ITS SCOPE

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—McGill university has established a department of extramural relations and in this connection a series of lectures will be given on psychology, beginning January 27. The first lecture will take up the matter of what psychology is and is not, its general relations to the problem of life in education, business, industry and medicine and will be followed by an examination of the claims made by those who "sell" psychology "secrets" and what is meant by the psychological underworld. Character reading, measuring minds and capacities and abilities, memory and its training, habit and character formation, the role of instinct and emotion in life, success and failure and the psychology of character and personality will make up other interesting topics.

Another series of lectures to be given in connection with the department of extra-mural relations will be on Canadian economic problems. The series will consist of lectures on economic questions involving the public policy of Canada given for advanced students of economics and for business and professional men whose work has brought them into contact with the problems concerned.

Early part of the New Year will probably see considerable activity at Lake George, N.B., the antimony mines now being under new control.

CHAPTER VII.

That was, any other man might have thought, a little too much to say. He had a fight on his hands still. But all John MacVeagh in those days ever wanted was a chance to win; the knowledge that he wasn't actually beaten. He had thought the game lost when he went home to Eileen; when she put the money she had saved in his hands he knew the final whistle hadn't blown.

Even that night, once he knew what resources he still had, he kept on working. The representatives of the great New York syndicate he was fighting for the control of these local power companies suddenly became pawns in a mighty contest, rested, no doubt. They had every reason to think themselves secure. They knew all about John MacVeagh by now.

He had taken them by surprise, all these big men, in the beginning; he had come near to defeating them in the final rush before they even knew they had a fight on their hands. Had they wanted, and they might very well have done so, a few months more before making their bid for control, they would have found so entrenched, so firmly in the saddle, that they would have had no chance to unseat him.

But, as it was, they must have thought that night that he had shot his bolt. They knew—such men have ways of their own of getting information—what his bank balance was, to a penny. They knew how much Lovewell and the other local financiers had lent him; they knew, too, that his credit was strained to the utmost, almost to the breaking point, and that another loan from Lovewell's bank, if the State Banking department learned of it, would result in the closing of the bank. And they were prepared to invoke the law. Shrewd gentry, these, prepared to use the law for their own ends; to evade it when it suited them, to appeal to it for protection when that was the way best to conserve their own interests.

But one thing they had overlooked; a woman's bank account. With reason. MacVeagh's habit of putting securities in his wife's name they must have known about. But they knew also that his bank accounts had always stood in his own name. So it had not occurred to them to suspect a hidden reserve of cash.

Aware of it, now, John acted swiftly. He was busy at the telephone, first; then he went out to the garage, took out his car and was busy most of the night, traveling around the country. He carried a check book with him and, a few shares at a time, he picked up before midnight, almost enough stock to make him safe. He slept for five hours; before daylight he was up again and off, visiting farmers he had been unable to reach in the night, men who went to bed early and rose with the lark.

At 10 o'clock he walked into the hotel where the syndicate's agents were staying. Burton, the chief of the opposition, sat in the lobby smoking a cigar. He looked up with a grin as he saw John approaching.

"Hello!" he said. "Have a good cigar! Well—I guess you wish now you'd listened to reason when I was trying to buy your stuff, eh?"

"I didn't hear any to listen to," said John, dryly. "Every man has his price. I'd have sold if you'd made me a fair offer. You had too keen an eye for a bargain."

"It's what I'm paid for," said Burton. "Listen. You're a good fellow, MacVeagh. And you're right. I've got a keen eye for a bargain. We don't want to be hard on you. What do you say? I might persuade my people to buy some of your stuff if you name an attractive price."

"I don't doubt it," said MacVeagh. "Yes. I think your syndicate will want to buy some of my holdings."

"Oh, you do, do you?" said Burton. His tone was confident, but his eyes were puzzled. Experience had taught him to beware of men who talked quietly and didn't bluster, no matter how badly beaten they seemed to be. "Don't be too sure. Once my people have control they won't care especially about buying more stock. Especially as—" He winked broadly. "Especially as it seems to me very unlikely that these local companies will be able to keep on paying high dividends."

"That's where we disagree," said John. "I think the dividend rate can and will and must be maintained. And—" His voice, his manner changed. "Who do you think has the control?"

"We have!" said Burton.

"Oh, no!" John's manner was gentle, suave again. "Think again. I have."

"You're crazy—" But Burton was on his feet.

"Oh, you can take my word for it. Though I don't mind, if you want to check up. I control the key power companies—the ones you've got to have to establish your super-power lines. You can tell your chief, with my compliments, that when he gets ready to put his plans through I'll be ready to talk to him—and that he's got to talk to me."

"I don't believe it!" cried Burton. "You—"

"Oh, you believe it, all right," said John. "Or you soon will, anyway. And—I wouldn't waste much time sending word back to New York, if I were you."

Burton took two or three quick, nervous steps up and down.

"Wait a minute," he said. "MacVeagh—look here. I've a good deal of authority. Can't we settle this between us? I—well, frankly, I don't want to have to refer this matter back to my principals."

"No. I can readily understand that," said John. "I'm sorry—but I'm afraid you must. I doubt very much if you have the power to accept my terms."

"What are they?" said Burton eagerly. "Anything within reason—if you actually have control—"

"You won't think my terms are within reason," said John. "I want a full participation in this syndicate. I want to be vice-president of the holding company that's to be formed, and I shall require stock in that in direct proportion to the value of the companies I control."

Burton threw up his hands.

"Oh, well!" he said. "That's all right! As long as you're naming terms like that I'll be glad to have you talk with the chief! He can't expect me to deal with a madman with delusions of grandeur on that scale!"

John smiled. He was, he was ready to admit, a little tired. And there was, in fact, no reason why he shouldn't go home and make up a little lost sleeping time. Eileen met him with a smile.

"Well?" she said.

"I've been called a madman, with delusions of grandeur," he told her. "On the whole, that's probably the biggest compliment I've ever received!"

The Least Excitement Made Her Heart Palpitate and Flutter

Mrs. Ambrose Orser, Elginburg, Ont., writes:—"I suffered for some time with a bad heart which seemed to be controlled by my nerves. The least little excitement would cause it to flutter and palpitate, and at times I would have real bad spells. I suffered in this way for some time when, one day, I saw advertised, so decided to try them. I had only taken a few boxes when I noticed that I felt better, so I continued taking them and in a short time my heart felt entirely different.'

CANADA WILL EXTEND TRADE FACILITIES

Plan Steamship Line to Latin America With Commissioner at Lima

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 11.—In an effort to extend Canada's trade in Latin-American countries, the department of trade and commerce has under consideration the possibility of inaugurating steamship service between Canada and Central and South America. A Canadian trade commissioners office will be established in Lima, the commissioner to have jurisdiction over Peru, Bolivia and Ecuador. The office will be filled at the earliest possible date by a promotion from within the service. The department will also arrange to furnish the newspapers of that area with a constant stream of news from Canada.

These announcements were made here tonight by F. C. T. O'Hara, deputy minister of trade and commerce, addressing the Export club of Toronto and district. Mr. O'Hara has recently completed a 14,000-mile trip through South America, Central America, Cuba and Mexico and emphasized in tonight's address the great possibilities for development of trade with the countries he visited.

WARM FRIENDSHIP

"Everywhere," he said, "the name of Canada was received with the warmest expressions of friendship, and in commercial centers the earnest desire was expressed tha trade with Canada might be increased."

Mr. O'Hara stated that United Staes firms were gaining on the British firms which had almost a monopoly of South American business for many years and they were doing this by selling their goods through British commission houses. Canadian exporters would find these houses eager to sell Canadian goods.

During his visit at Cuba, negotiations with that country were renewed, which resulted in the proclamation of an agreement with Canada.

EARLY KOOTENAY MINING THEME OF PROSPECTORS

Alec McLeod Said to Be Purchaser First Miners' Licence, Not "Rory"

BEAR STORIES OF EARLY DAYS ANOTHER FEATURE

Prospector on Cultus Creek in Early 80s; Talk Slocan Exploration

Recollections of earliest Kootenay mining days was a theme of interest at a meeting of the British Columbia Prospectors Protective association in the chamber of mines office last night. President Roy Hunter was in the chair.

R. G. Joy, secretary of the association, reported receiving a letter from Hon. William Sloan, minister of mines, stating the department was investigating the claim that Roderick (Rory) McLeod, old-time prospector, who died recently, was the purchaser of the first free miner's certificate in the Kootenays.

ALEX McLEOD FIRST LICENCE

M. S. Davys of Kaslo, in a letter to C. W. Busk, asserted Alex McLeod, not "Rory," was the purchaser of the first certificate.

Alec McLeod is believed to have arrived at Ainsworth about 1885. He was married in Ainsworth, raised a family and died there. He worked for Mr. Davys as foreman on Rover creek in 1891.

"Rory" McLeod, according to Mr. Davys, did not come to the Kootenays much before 1889 or 1890. He was in East Kootenay before that and brought out some men who were interested in Ainsworth. "Rory" afterward built a large hotel, which was burned down.

BEAR STORIES

How Alec McLeod "played possum" to escape the furies of a bear was the substance of another story. Alec was out hunting with two men, the story ran, when suddenly he stepped off a log right on to a bear.

Mr. Bruin didn't like the intrusion a bit—so he roused himself and took a swing at Alec. And while this was happening Alec's companions were breaking all records getting up into a tree.

The bear's swing ripped the tendons of Alec's arm, and he afterward had it taken off. Utterly helpless, Alec simply breathed a prayer, sank upon the ground and "played possum." The bear nuzzled him and then walked away.

SCALPED BY A BEAR

One bear story led to another. The tale of the scalping of Dan Rice, another old-time rancher, was its theme.

Reconstructing the story from the evidence found later, this was the story told:

Thirty years ago Dan Rice went hunting for grizzlies on Shutty bench, north of Kaslo. Carrying his 45.90 octagon barrel rifle at full cock, he advanced toward the bear.

In his eagerness he failed to watch where he was placing his feet, and tripped. The bear closed with him, scalping him with a swipe of a giant paw as an Indian would with a knife.

Turning upon the rifle in his rage, the bear bent the barrel and nearly bit through the stock.

The rifle is preserved in Kaslo.

SLOCAN EXPLORATION

Bart Henderson, according to Mr. Davys, was the first man to explore the Slocan. Henderson hailed from the Black Hills in Dakota, where President Coolidge spent his holidays last year.

Henderson went into the Slocan by way of Six-Mile creek and came out by way of Grohman creek and up the shore of the West Arm to where Hoover's ranch was.

He went in with just his overcoat, a gun, a small sack of salt and a little tea. He was away for about a month.

WAS TO GO BACK

"He told me all about finding the Slocan lake, and also about finding some good showings of galena," Mr. Davys' letter says. "He gave me some specimens of what he brought out with him, and I made some assays of these and found they were good high grade silver.

"We arranged that he should go back early the next spring and locate some of the ground. I agreed to grubstake him and give him a good interest in what he located.

"The old fellow was in pretty bad shape when he got back, with a very bad cold, which gradually got worse. I do not think he lived much over a month after he got back, dying from pneumonia.

REAL LOCATORS

"He had his tent pitched about where the Frank Fletcher house on Baker street was, and was buried, the first man to die a natural death in Nelson, about where the C.P.R. superintendent's house is. He was then taken up and removed to the cemetery back of the hospital, and then again removed to the present cemetery. This was in 1889 or 1890.

"The Slocan was really discovered and claims located in the late summer of 1891, when Eli Carpenter, Seaton, McGuigans, Henessy and those fellows located the first claims."

EARLY PROSPECTING

Charles Woodrow reported finding an old pick on ground on Cultus creek now owned by Alex. Carrie. He also found a place where this early prospector had broken off a piece of rock while examining a lead.

The pick, which had a yew handle, had evidently been left standing against a cedar tree, for the tree had grown about it. To release the pick, Mr. Woodrow said, it was necessary to chop eight inches into the cedar tree. The pick will be brought to Nelson.

It is estimated by the growth of the tree about the pick handle, that the prospecting must have been done in the early '80s.

FIRST COAL PROSPECTORS

Harry Rowley, who died recently, was recalled by prospectors as "Crow's Nest Harry." It was claimed Harry was the first man to locate on coal fields in the Crow's Nest. It is stated he was on the ground before Bill Fernie, after whom Fernie was named.

Harry and his partner located a number of coal claims, but due to lack of finances they were unable to develop them. Harry left the ground to his partner.

Mr. Joy reported the Prospectors association was instrumental in securing an old age pension for an old man who prospected with one of the members 30 years ago.

DEAN ENGLISH LITERATURE IS DEAD, ENGLAND

Thomas Hardy, Famous Novelist, Passes After Illness of a Month

DORCHESTER, England, Jan. 11.—Thomas Hardy, aged dean of English literature, died tonight at his home here after a month's illness.

The famous 87-year-old novelist had a chill on December 12 and thereafter his condition was alternately hopeful and then critical, but his age imposed heavy odds against his recovery. Death came at 9 p.m. after optimistic reports today.

With Hardy's death one of the greatest of the Victorians, scenes of whose novels of English life, were laid in his belong, Wessex, where he lived most of his 87 years, passed from the literary world.

Hardy died in surroundings which he, no doubt, would have chosen for his end. The historic countryside of his home was to him the most loved of spots. More than 40 years ago, the novelist planned and built a fine red brick and stone country house which has been his home and sanctum ever since; it was in his home that he produced some of the great literature of modern times.

WAS HOME MAN

His estate is in a beautiful undulating country side about one mile from the ancient Roman town of Dorchester. When he selected the site it was part of the Duchy of Cornwall and belonged to the then Prince of Wales later Edward VII., but through the intervention of the prince himself, Hardy was allowed to purchase two acres.

Hardy never deserted the home which he loved so well. His declining years were spent largely in penning poetry in his study from the windows of which he could see his trees and the birds he had encouraged to build in them.

Whether any of Hardy's recent poetry will ever be given to the public is problematical. Hardy is said to have written it most for himself.

In his latter years, Mrs. Hardy, his second wife, much younger than himself, was the novelist's secretary and encouraged him in the poetic work.

ATTACK IS MADE ON TARIFF BODY AT FORMER MEET

Bird Delivers Ultimatum; Urges Its Abolition; Like the Council

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man., Jan. 11.—An attack upon the federal tariff board, in which he urged the organized farmers of Canada to demand its abolition, was delivered by T. W. Bird, Progressive member for Nelson, Man., at today's session of the United Farmers of Manitoba convention.

The discussion developed out of a consideration of a resolution calling upon farmers to increase their financial support of the Canadian council of agriculture in its fight to protect the legislative rights of the farmers of the Dominion.

The speaker variously described tariff boards as a "menace," a "government shock absorber," and an instrument that "might serve as a veil behind which nefarious schemes were fostered to the disadvantage of the common people."

The tariff question, Mr. Bird maintained, should be tackled in the full view of enlightened public opinion. The Mackenzie King government could say at once that there would be further increases in the tariff structure of the country.

"This the government has elected not to do, because it has no convictions at all on the tariff. As farmers, it is our duty to ask the government to dispense with the tariff board," declared Mr. Bird.

W. R. Wood of Winnipeg explained that the federal tariff board was more of an investigational or fact finding body and suggested that even if it did not meet with the satisfaction of the farmers' movement, it could, notwithstanding, serve as an effective vehicle for the propagation of the farmers' viewpoint.

FAVORS COUNCIL

The convention placed itself on record as wholeheartedly in support of the work of the Canadian council of agriculture and voted to increase its annual grant to $1200.

Indorsation of the council automatically precludes the possibility of immediate absorption of the U.F.M. by the United Farmers of Canada, it was stated. Overtures seeking the fusion of the two bodies had been made by the national organization, but the latter organization's policy provides for nonrecognition of the agricultural council.

Results of negotiations between representations of the U.F.M. and the United Farmers of Canada were reviewed in the annual report of the board of directors. Certain constitutional amendments were suggested as a means of composing the differences existing between the two organizations. These involved minor changes relating to membership and providing for local autonomy with regard to political action. The discussion had failed to produce any accord on the questions of "closed doors" or acceptance of grants from commercial concerns.

MOISTURE CONTENT

Lengthy debate ensued on the subject of moisture content of grain. A number of delegates suggested that the moisture content of straight grade wheat be raised from 14.4 to 15 per cent. This proposal was assailed on the ground that it would lower the standard of Canadian wheat on the markets of the world, affecting prices; it would tend to penalize the producer of grain of normal moisture content and it would involve the creation of approximately 100 additional grades.

A recommendation of the board of directors was ultimtaely approved in favor of deferring application for any increase in the moisture content of straight grades of grain.

NO COMMENT

OTTAWA, Jan. 11.—W. H. Moore, chairman of the federal tariff board had no comment to make this evening when criticism levelled against the board by T. W. Bird, Progressive, M.P., for Nelson, Man., were referred to him.

"It's his opinion," said Chairman Moore, when Mr. Bird's remarks with regard to the board were read to him.

Would Organize Canadian Clubs in Every Hamlet

VANCOUVER, Jan. 11.—Organization of Canadian clubs in every city and town in the province and the utilization of the radio to broadcast to them addresses delivered at luncheons of the Vancouver club was proposed at a meeting today of the directors of the local club and favorably received.

Col. J. S. Tait, a past president of the Vancouver club, in outlining the proposal said that "with broadcasting service as now perfected, it is now comparatively simple to organize Canadian clubs in all centers of B. C. population so that the people in the hills and dales as well as those in the small towns can have the advantage of hearing speeches from Vancouver."

The directors took steps to investigate ways and means of organizing clubs throughout the province, along the lines suggested by Colonel Tait.

E MAY BE SOFT

Mild weather of the past week has softened the ice to some extent, and though it seemed last night to be tightening up a bit it is likely the ice will not be all that it might be.

Trail supporters will come to Nelson aboard a six-coach special, and with the hundreds of Nelsonites who are out to boost their team, there is likely to be a capacity crowd. Rink officials are making arrangements to handle the crowd efficiently.

THE TEAMS

Nelson's team for tonight's big battle will be the same which won from Trail in the opening game: "Scotty" Notman, goal; Leo Desireau and "Dutch" Richardson, defence; "Duke" Waiman, "Frenchy" Pelletier, Roy Heximer, Sid Desireau, Frank Ogenski and Bob Penny, forwards.

SEVEN TEAMS IN EIGHTS IN ROSSLAND CUP

Five Teams Reach Eights in Nelson Cup Play at Kimberley Bonspiel

PLAY IN TRAIL CUP IS NOW UNDER WAY

Rain Falls and Ice Is Heavy; Chapman and Kimberley Defenders in All-Comers

KIMBERLEY, B.C., Jan. 11.—When the draws in the British Columbia Curling association bonspiel were concluded Tuesday night, there was every indication of favorable weather today, but to the regrets of all a slight rain greeted them today. It had rained all night. Playing conditions remained about the same and the spiel goes merrily on.

A few games were played in the Grand challenge which by tonight is out in the fours. Blackwood is the first to get out into the Jewelry class by reaching the fours in this event.

In the Rossland cup, play was well advanced, seven teams being now out in the eights.

In the Nelson cup, McLeod of Nelson, Andrew of Nelson, Elliott of Chapman, Woodburn of Trail and Finny of Rossland are out in the eights and will be ready for the fours tomorrow.

In the Cammell-Laird, Cameron of Cranbrook, who entered the thirty-second of this event, after his defeat by Shaw of Kimberley in the sixteens of the challenge today, beat Myers of Nelson and Corrie of Kimberley in succession so is now out in the eights of this secondary event. These games showed up well how the Chisholm draw works. Cameron was defeated in the 1:30 draw today in one events and was out in the eights in a new competition by the 4 p.m. draw the next day.

START TRAIL CUP

A start was made in the Trail cup which by Thursday will be out in the thirty-seconds.

Draws are being made in the Kimberley cup, the first games being played tonight.

In the All-Comers it has been decided that six teams from the Curling club of Chapman and Kimberley will oppose six teams composed of one team from each of the clubs of the various places playing. Dr. E. G. Smyth has been chosen by the Nelson skips to pick a team to represent Nelson and says that possibly W. R. Dunwoody or J. B. Gray will skip.

In the Grand Aggregate at the end of play yesterday James of Kimberley and McKay of Trail were the only undefeated rinks, James having five wins to McKay's four. The supremacy for leadership was decided in the 11 o'clock draw today when they met in the first of the Rossland cup. McKay won a hard fought game which at one time James had a chance to win. The final score was 8 to 4. They were then tied each having five wins.

Playing in the eights of the Grand Challenge tonight James of Kimberley won against Sharp of Nelson while McKay of Trail lost to Shaw of Kimberley thereby winning a place in the fours and again stepping into a clear road in the aggregate with a total of six wins and one loss to five wins and one loss from his Nelson opponent.

SHARKEY WILL SEE THE DOCTOR

Will Demonstrate Fitness for Bout With Tom Heeney

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Cloaked in ominous silence and with or without a tender left, (Maulie) Jack Sharkey, will descend on the doctors of the New York state athletic commission tomorrow to demonstrate his physical fitness for a 12-round battle with Tom Heeney, bulgy-muscled New Zealander in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Jack's bout with Heeney, originally scheduled for early in the year, was postponed when Sharkey fractured a finger during a workout. While local experts have voiced suspicion that all was not well with Sharkey's left hand, reports of the New Englander's workouts indicate that he is in splendid condition and weighing 193 pounds. He is reported to have developed new ring technique by leading with his right hand in violation of all fistic fundamentals.

"Let him do that a couple of times to me just to show he's in earnest and I'll knock him into somebody's lap," declared Heeney today as he wound up training with three rounds against George Courteny, middleweight star.

Odds as high as 9 to 5 were offered, however, that Sharkey would win over the thumping Irishman who boasts the championships of New Zealand, South Africa, Australia and Ireland, in addition to American victories over Johnny Risko, Bud Gorman and Jimmy Maloney.

Peyton All Wrong About Being Right

By AL DEMAREE

(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

Charlie Bachman, former coach at Northwestern, and lately at Kansas Aggies, tells me about a star fullback named Sam Peyton, at Northwestern, who didn't know when he was good.

Playing against Michigan in 1919, Peyton got away on a 65-yard run that put the ball on the 1-yard line. On the next play the quarter called Peyton's signal.

"Check!" yelled Peyton, "don't call my signal. I'm not right today."

This reminds me of the time Babe Ruth hit one of the longest homeruns of his career. As he came in to the bench, Manager Huggins remarked to him, "You sure got a hold of that one."

"I was fooled on that ball," Ruth said. "I never got a hold of it. I hit it on the handle."

HORNSBY TRADE JUST TO AVOID ANY CONFLICT

So States Stoneham, Explaining Sensational Baseball Deal

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—"Rogers Hornsby was traded to the Boston Braves in order to avoid any future conflict in the management of the club and for no other reason," Charles A. Stoneham, president of the Giants, said today in explaining the sensational baseball deal, announced last night by which the Giants sent Hornsby to the Braves for Catcher Hogan and Outfielder Welch.

Mr. Stoneham's statement referred to statements which have been made that Hornsby would be the future manager of the club.

"I have never been consulted regarding this and have had no conference about the selection of a manager as Mr. McGraw still retains the management of the New York Giants."

Answering Mr. Stoneham's statement at St. Louis, Hornsby said there never had been a word of controversy between himself and McGraw and he never contemplated getting the management of the Giants while at Havanah, Ga., McGraw said:

"There is nothing to add to the announcement." The trade has been made and that is all there is to it," he declared.

"Amby" Moran Is Traded to the Chicago Hawks

MOOSE JAW, Sask., Jan. 11.—Ambrose (Amby) Moran, defence man and captain of the Moose Jaw Maroons of the Prairie Hockey league, was today traded to the Chicago Blackhawks for Teddy Graham. Moran will report at Chicago on January 16. No cash was involved in the deal.

ADANACS TAKE FINAL GAME FROM KELOWNA

NEW WESTMINSTER, Jan. 11.—Kelowna's fast stepping aggregation of basketeers dropped the final game of their coast tour to Adanacs here tonight by a 23-17 count, after one of the best played games of the season. Slightly superior in combination and ability to find the hoop oftener at close range, the home team had just enough edge to secure the verdict.

IRREGULARITY ON NEW YORK LIST

Steels Off; Railroads Firm; Specialties Have Fluctuations

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Frequent shifts of speculative sentiment in today's stock market was interpretated in Wall Street as revealing the nervousness and uncertainty of professional traders. Final quotations were decidedly irregular, the gains running as high as 7 points and losses as much as 5 points.

Steel shares failed to make much response to the reported increase in mill operations and the firming up of commodity prices. United States Steel common sold down a point to 147¼ after having touched 14 in early trading.

Most of the others showed only fractional changes. Railroad shares displayed a firm undertone; several made gains. General Motors closed a point lower at 131 and Nash, Dodge Bros. preferred, Packard, Peerless and a few others yielded fractionally.

Wide fluctuations continued in several of the high priced specialties. Midland Steel Products preferred, which ran up from 106 to 315 last year, dropped from 259¾ to 249 and rebounded to 251, off 5 points net. Greene Cananea Copper closed 6 points net higher at 135. Adams Express broke 5 points on a few sales. Christie Brown attained a new peak at 110⅝ and then broke to 105, off 4¼ points net.

Total stock sales 2,395,400 shares.

STILL IMPORTING BANANAS BY CARLOAD

Flour and Rolled Oats Steady; Oranges High, Look for Decline

Continuing advances in the price of feed oats at the rate of about 50c per ton per week features recent developments on the local wholesale market. These weekly advances have been going on for about a month.

Flour and rolled oats prices have been steady for some time. Sales are good.

Popularity of bananas is attested by the continued importing of bananas in large quantities. The practice has been to bring in bananas by carload lots for about five months during the summer, and in small quantities during the winter. During the past 12 months importing has been by the carload.

ORANGES STEADY

The orange market is holding steady, the seasonal decline having failed to materialize as yet. Prices are considered rather high, and a decline is expected shortly.

Local apples and root vegetables are still moving. Vegetables of other than the root type are being imported from California.

Groceries are holding fairly steady. No price changes have been recorded in the past week or so.

EXPORT DEMAND WHEAT IS OFF

Accounts for Stock Increases Over Canada, Says Statician

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Jan. 11.—A decided decrease in the export demand for Canadian grain with a subsequent increase in the stocks all over the country is reported by E. A. Ursell, statistician to the board of grain commissioners.

Export of the new Argentine crop is under way and Ursell points out that this may account for the falling off of expert demand for Canadian wheat. He, in his report issued today, says:

"At the end of December, including some 27,000,000 bushels afloat in vessels at lower lake ports, there are 55,000,000 bushels of wheat east of Fort William and Port Arthur, with 34,000,000 at the latter port, 53,000,000 at interior points and 6,000,000 on the Pacific coast, beside several thousand cars in transit.

"The quantities in store and afloat at eastern points, together with the grain moving via the Pacific coast ports, would appear from present indications to be amply sufficient to satisfy the export demand for the next two months at least."

Reporting on conditions at the Pacific coast, he says:

"The movement via the Pacific is larger this season than last, although not, so far, as large as anticipated."

St. Maurice and Laurentide Will Become Canada Pulp & Paper Company

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—Directors of the St. Maurice Valley corporation and Laurentide company today agreed upon terms upon which will bring these two large producers of newsprint together under a new holding company, the Canada Pulp & Paper corporation.

The deal is set forth in a letter from Sir Herbert S. Holt, president of the St. Maurice Valley corporation, to the shareholders of that enterprise. The new company will be a Quebec corporation with its head office at Montreal. Its authorized share capital will consist of 750,000 shares without nominal or par value. This amalgamation will bring under unified control the operations of mills of the St. Maurice corporation at Shawinigan Falls, Three Rivers and Windsor Mills, and of the Laurentide company, limited, at Grandmere.

ARMOUR PROFITS FOR YEAR UNSATISFACTORY

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Despite total sales in excess of $900,000,000 profits of Armour & Co., for 1927 were unsatisfactory, primarily on account of steady declining prices for live hogs, said F. Edson White, president of the packing company in the annual report today.
