ORAH TAKES ISSUE WITH U. S. ADMIRAL

ANADA'S OPTIMISM PLEASES COLONEL AMERY

ERY FINDS EW ATTITUDE IN DOMINION

Tariff Preference and conomic Cooperation Within Empire

ILTON, Ont., Jan. 22.—Comment- the changed attitude which he in Canada now, as compared with the time of his last visit, Rt. . C. Amery, British secretary of r Dominion affairs, in an address d to the Canadian club here ay, said that doubt, fear and am had given way to optimism nfidence. At the time of his last anada had been in the throes of war reaction. Her great war debt to be irredeemable, and the rail- oblem was pressing.

he said, the debt was being re- and many were beginning to re- hat instead of having too many s we would in the near future nany miles more. At that time, , the west boasted of a wheat- ing area of 200 or 300 miles wide Winnipeg to the Rockies. Now ea was at least 100 miles wider, s ever increasing.

da's chief problem, the speaker ed, was how to make the best her resources so as to become not a great world nation, but the t nation on this continent. She ndicapped by the limited range of sources. They were confined to oducts of the northern temperate For this reason, Canada could ith advantage, pursue the policy onomic isolation which had t such success to the United She would always need a great and import trade.

Amery's speech was largely a plea e policy of tariff preference and nic cooperation within the Empire he had urged in other cities hout his present Canadian tour.

da's logical development lay the lines of a "greater Britain than as a weaker replica of the States," said Mr. Amery. Like , she would always be dependent any products such a rubber, cot- d other tropical resources on an al trade. It was well that this , as it would make of her a well e, a broader and more impartial than if circumstances permitted remain isolated.

cluding, Mr. Amery said that the of political theorists, the univer- otherhood of man, was still a long ff, and could only be attained, if by a long and slow evolution. In ritish Empire, however, we had ning which was true brotherhood. ces and peoples were represented t its fold. It did not restrict their al character, but made larger, r, and nobler the service which ere able to render to mankind as le. GRAND OLD MAN DIES, MANITOBA, HUNDRED FOUR

Frederick William Stevenson, Aged 104, Canadian Pioneer, Passes

SPENT NINETY-SIX YEARS IN CANADA

Lived Through Reign of Five British Sovereigns; Ten of Family Survive

WINNIPEG, Jan. 22.—Mantoba's "Grand Old Man" Frederick William Stevenson, 104 years of age, who had watched the building of the Canadian nation, the growth of cities from wilderness and had pioneered in Ontario and Manitoba, died at the home of his son, Sydney S. Stevenson, here Saturday night following a brief illness.

Until a few days before his illness, Mr. Stevenson was active taking part in the life of the community in which he lived and was a regular church attendant, while in the summer he visited his large farm at Hillview, Man., where he supervised harvesting.

Mr. Stevenson who had lived through the reign of five British sovereigns and remembered well as a child the coronation of King George IV, was a resident of Canada for 96 years. Since 1883 he had lived in Manitoba.

WAS A CAPTAIN

During his life he was prominent in civil, militia and church activities, and only last week was made an honorary vestryman of St. Paul's Anglican church. He held a captain's commission in the Canadian militia which he secured 61 years ago during the Fenian raid.

When Mr. Stevenson came to Canada with his family as a child of eight, he first lived at Kingston, later moved to Balsam Lake, now in the county of Victoria, and then in the year of 1854, to Egremont, in the county of Wellington, Ont. His father died at Port Hope, Ont., 53 years ago at the age of 84 years, and this was the first death in the family in 70 years.

Mr. Stevenson was the father of 12 children, seven sons and five daughters, and 10 survive. Mrs. Stevenson died some years ago.

The surviving members of the family are: Mrs. Cushing, Gibson's Landing, Comox district, B.C.; Mrs. Kingston, Guelph, Ont.; Mrs. John Woodman, Winnipeg; Mrs. Chadburn, Vancouver; W. V. Stevenson, Harding, Man.; Walter and Harry, Balcarres, Sask.; Rev. Robert Stevenson, Vancouver; Horace, Hillview, Man., and Sydney, Winnipeg.

'Mercy Bullet' Misses Collie Dog Afloat on Ice Floe; He Is Rescued After Two Days; Feet, Tail Frozen

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 22.—The white collie dog of the Lake St. Clair ice floe lives, although his feet and his tail are frozen. The collie, object of perilous rescue attempts over a period of two days and finally reported humanally put to death to spare him from suffering, has been safely brought ashore.

The dog was rescued yesterday by Emmett Pentecost, who sighted the animal half a mile out in the lake, his feet and his tail frozen solid, in his ice prison, but still able to yelp for help.

By some strange turn of fate, the dog has escaped the death to which his would-be rescuers had left him, even to avoiding the "mercy bullet" sent across the churning waters of the lake by his master to end his misery.

Faint barks, carried ashore by a strong wind first attracted Pentecost's attention. After sighting the animal, he, with Ralph Homes, walked part way across the ice to a lighthouse, where they obtained a small boat. Pentecost set out in it alone, and reached the dog and freed him by chopping his legs and tail out of the ice.

Lancashire Crowd Gives Vicar Hot Time; Police Help

DARWEN, Lancashire, Eng., Jan. 22.—Demonstrations against the alleged Anglo-Catholism of the vicar, the Rev. Mr. F. M. B. Lauria, took place in St. Cuthbert's church here today.

Mild protests have occurred on recent Sundays coincident with the rejection of the revised prayer book by the house of commons, but today, the first Sunday after publication of the Malines conversations, between prominent leaders in the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches, 400 persons joined in the demonstration.

The parishioners protested against the "sung eucharist" by persistently singing hymns and preventing the progress of the service.

One man in the congregation took advantage of a momentary silence to read the 31st article of the prayer book which denounces the sacrifice of the mass as a blasphemous fable.

When the vicar left the church he had police protection, and was followed by approximately 1000 demonstrators who were booing him.

American Legion Hotly Turns Down Mayor Thompson

CLINTON, Mass., Jan. 22.—A letter to Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicao, in which it was stated that his association with any patriotic proram "detracts from and does not add to its effectiveness" has been framed here by the delegates to the conference of the state department, American Legion.

The letter was in reply to one received by the state department from Mayor Thompson in which the latter asked the support of the Massachusetts legion in his program to "Americanize American history." The delegates represented 79 legion posts in the state. The letter said in part:

"You ask our support. You, who, in 1918, by your actions would have in political glee seen the supporters and defenders of our national integrity 'sold out into slavery.' You, a defender of American institutions? You, a patriot? You —You, who had a great chance in the world's greatest crisis and who failed."

Parachute Jumper Fails Make Mark; Timers Fail Appear

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 22.—A parachute jump in which John Tranum, stunt man, attempted to break the record descent for falling before opening his chute, failed to establish any definite mark today. He estimated that he fell about 4000 feet before pulling the parachute ring. The record fall is 4200 feet. Another attempt will be made next Sunday.

YUKON PLANE IS DOWN ONCE MORE

Engine Trouble Forces Queen of Yukon to Ice; Will Overhaul Machine

DAWSON, Y.T., Jan. 22.—The passenger and mail monoplane Queen of the Yukon which has been undergoing repairs near Pelly Summit, where it was forced down on a small lake on November 23, took off again Friday, but after 35 minutes in the air, Lieut. A. D. Cruickshank was forced to make another landing on the slough some 17 miles from Mayo when his engine became overheated. The engine will be taken to Mayo and thoroughly overhauled before another flight is attempted.

Mrs. Cruickshank, wife of the pilot, and Clyde Wann, one of the plane's owners, were passengers in Friday's flight.

The Queen of the Yukon came north last fall to carry on a passenger and mail service during the winter. The engine froze in 30 below zero weather on November 23, forcing a descent on a flight from White Horse to Mayo. For a couple of days, Lieutenant Cruickshank and his passenger, D. McInnes, were missing. Four new cylinders arrived for the plane on January 10 and repairs were made.

A good winter landing place is now ready here at the foot of First avenue, on the Dawson river beach.

AMERICAN NAVY OFFICIAL SAYS U. S. GOING WAR

Predicts Rising Between U. S. A. and Its Nearest Commercial Competitors

SENATOR BORAH SAYS IT IS "SHEER MADNESS"

Declares Admiral's Talk a Notice to Great Britain to Prepare for War

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. — War between the United States and its commercial competitors in the not distant future, was predicted, Saturday, by Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett, commandant of the Brooklyn navy yard.

In a discussion of the proposed $725,000,000 naval building program before the National Republican club, Admiral Plunkett said:

"We are nearer war today than ever before in our history as a nation. The penalty of commercial and industrial efficiency," Admiral Plunkett said, "is inevitably war."

"SHEER MADNESS"

WASHINGTON, D.C., Jan. 22.—Recent "war talk" of United States naval officers, coupled with their demands for a larger navy, prompted a statement by Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee today that such activity was "sheer madness."

Calling attention to the recent advocacy by Admiral Charles F. Hughes, chief of naval operations, for virtually a billion dollar navy-building program, and the declaration yesterday of Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett, commandant of the Brooklyn navy yard, that the United States faced an early and "inevitable war" with its commercial competitors, the Idaho senator called upon the taxpayers to make themselves heard "before this mad policy becomes fixed."

Secretary Wilbur had no comment to make on the Plunkett statement, neither would he indicate that he would have anything to say later.

Senator Borah described such declarations as "mischievous to the last degree." "If anything could possibly bring on war between two great nations," he declared, "it is these enlarged naval programs in connection with declarations from the navies of the respective countries that war is inevitable. This was the insane policy which obtained between Germany and Great Britain from 1900 to 1914 and which was one of the great contributing causes of the world war."

NOTICE TO BRITAIN

Indorsing the original naval program for some additional cruisers to "round out" the navy, the Idaho senator declared "that proposal has now developed into a program for the largest navy in the world."

"Added to this," he continued, "is a notice that this navy is not for protection of our commerce but for war, immediate and inevitable war.

"These statements put out by naval officers is notice to all the world and particularly Great Britain to get ready for war. They are being so interpretated throughout the world. It is incredible that these men should state these views publicly."

BEALBY PLACES WYNNE'S CLAIM UNDER SCALPEL

His Interpretations, Prophecies, Have Little Relation to Facts

REVELATIONS PALTRY; WORLD EVENTS MISSED

Earth but One of Inhabited Worlds; Wynne View Uncomplimentary to Deity

To the Editor of The Daily News:

Sir—In a leaderette about a fortnight before Christmas you called attention, and very pertinently so, to the fact that in the Pyramidal debate which had run through your columns nobody had discussed the part which prophecy plays in human history. The letter from Gull Lake, Sask., which you printed on Thursday, January 5, turns pointedly upon that problem, and it demands a word or two of comment.

It is extraordinary, how shy interpreters of prophecy, whether Biblical, Pyramidal, or any other, are of setting out clearly and in the full light of logic the mental process or steps by which they arrive at their conclusions. The English clergyman, Rev. Walter Wynn, quoted in the letter from Gull Lake, is no exception to this rule. He quotes texts, isolated and disconnected texts, picked out here and there without demonstrating any inevitable or necessary connection between them, and asserts, simply asserts, that they mean so and so, but of logical proof or reasoning he gives not one jot or tittle. This method is altogether arbitrary and without scientific foundation. Like nearly all other Biblical commentators of the same class, Rev. W. Wynn conceives, that there is greater credit due to the man who foretells some minor historical event of the far off future, often about peoples unknown to the prophet himself, than to the man who forecasts major events which have actually found fulfillment within a short period in the history of the prophet's own people. I need hardly say, that such an attitude is one which violates the elementary principles of plain common sense. Surely it is an attitude also which not only shuts the eyes to the ascertained facts of history, which not only degrades prophecy to unworthy ends, but which actually casts reflections upon the inspiration and wisdom of God himself.

WHY NOT DETECTED BEFORE?

Why should the prophecies which Rev. W. Wynn believes to have been fulfilled in the Great war not have been detected and set forth in full, clearly, and convincingly by any of the thousands upon thousands of earnest and intelligent readers of the Bible during the preceding 1900 years? Beyond all question there were amongst them hosts of men as able and keen of insight as Rev. W. Wynn himself. If the texts he quotes really were prophecies and had reference to the events they are alleged to have foretold, why were they not perceived and interpreted centuries earlier? Mankind would then have had so much longer time in which to profit from the message involved, instead of having it sprung upon them in the very heat and turmoil of a life and death struggle? Why should those prophecies have been uttered in relation to such a paltry (comparatively speaking) event as the change of the Turkish calendar, a matter entirely outside the Christian church, and no prophecy whatever have been made with regard to the substitution of the Gregorian for the Julian calendar, a matter that did concern the Christian churches and concerned them very intimately?

WHY WORLD MOVEMENTS OVERLOOKED?

Why should it have been necessary to inspire prophecies with regard to the great world war and not with regard to the migrations of the peoples, (Volkerwanderungen), the Crusaders, the Mongol invasions, the Black Death, the Thirty Years war? In the history of the human race the first-named is in comparison with the others, a matter of minor significance; whereas those five instances were all happenings of major significance. The Black Death is computed to have killed 25,000,000 of human beings in Europe alone in the years 1348-50, to say nothing of the years before and after, and in China and other Asiatic countries the mortality is estimtaed at 37,000,000. Even if these figures are not exact, the imortality amounted to a high percentage of the total population of Europe and Asia. During the Thirty Years' war (1618-48) the population of Germany alone shrank from 30,000,000 to 6,000,000 and several other nations took part in the struggle besides Germany. I do not recall what the total loss of life in the great war amounted to; but if it were 10,000,000, that would be a loss of less than 1 per cent of the populations of all the belligerent countries, instead of a loss of 500 per cent which Germany alone incurred during the Thirty Years' war.

EARTH ONLY GRAIN OF DUST

It is essential to remember, that God is the God of a universe of such inconceivably vast dimensions that in the divine scheme of things our earth is as a grain of dust and mankind as tiny insects living on ephemeral existence thereon. Why should the Creator of all those myriads of worlds—many of them beyond a doubt inhabited by intelligent beings—why should God have been so partial and unfair as to have specially inspired prophecies applicable to only one generation of men on only one of those worlds, and those prophecies about matters of relatively minor importance, and have left all other generations without such guidance? The proceeding cannot very well be absolved from presumption and vainglory on the part of those who, thus presume to put a secular and a profane meaning upon words which are prima facia words of divine and spiritual import.

But are the passages which the interpreters of Pyramid design and Biblical revelation—are they really inspired prophecies? What efforts have those so ready interpreters made to understand the writers they quote and the circumstances under which they wrote? Do they really understand the roles which the prophets of Israel and the New Testament writers really played in the religious history of their own times? How far do they understand the sociological and political histories of the peoples with whom those prophets and writers were contemporary? To judge from what those interpreters tell us, or rather omit to tell us, about these things, they would appear to be ignorant of all such indispensable knowledge, or else they are unwilling to credit historic value to the knowledge which they suppress or ignore.

One of the ablest Americans, Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce under President Coolidge, has said "That it is easy for any fairly intelligent man to forecast in a general way that is going to happen 100 years from now, but to foretell with precision what is going to happen next year or the year after requires a mind of very unusual perspicacity and historical insight." If that be true—and there is much to be said for it—then Mother Shipton and General Roberts were inspired with greater prophetic powers than the prophets of the Old Testament and the writers of the New Testament. One of your correspondents reproved me for quoting Mother Shipton on the ground that her prophecies were forgeries. I was well aware of the fact. But, though not uttered by Mother Shipton herself, they were nevertheless uttered by the forger, and uttered a long time in anticipation of the fulfillments. The point is, that they were precise and exact forecasts; but the biblical prophecies, as these interpreters define them, are neither precise nor exact, except as they are formulated after the events or on the very eve of the events.

LORD ROBERTS' PROPHECY

General Roberts not only foretold the outbreak of war between Germany and Britain, but he foretold that it would be a long and hard struggle, and—note this—that it would be won by the enemies of Germany through the genius of a French soldier, one Foch, a man at that time hardly known even to his own countrymen.

What, therefore, of these circumstantial prophecies of the forger of Mother Shipton and of General Roberts as compared with the vague and general assertions made by the uncritical interpreters of Scripture, or made so close to the events as to lose the essential character of prophecies?

The prophets of the Old Testament were, primarily, not concerned to foretell secular and profane events that were destined to happen hundreds of years later, often to obscure and to them unknown peoples. What benefit would such messages have been to the Israelites if that was all of their purport?

PROPHECIES WERE FOR ISRAEL

The real function of the Old Testament prophets was to keep their people, the Israelites, faithful to the God of Israel, to guard them against the false religions of their neighbors and conquerors, and to inspire in them a higher and a spiritual conception of their national deity. Their mission was that of spiritual leaders, to teach their people that God was not merely a god of wrath and punishment, but a god of justice and wisdom. Insofar as they did forecast the political future, their sagacity did not look very far ahead. The prophecies of this kind which they uttered were sufficiently fulfilled within their own lifetime, or in that of the next generation. They were men who, like General Roberts, possessed a peculiar insight in reading the signs of their times, and skill in deducing from them the inevitable consequences. They were men to whom the gift of spiritual sagacity and intellectual honesty had been vouchsafed to an uncommon degree.

Thus interpreted, the prophets of Israel and the prophecies they uttered both swing into harmony with the scheme of things divine. Both find their appropriate place in the principles of law and order which to every unbiased mind undoubtedly do characterize God's governance of the universe. Thus interpreted, the prophets of Israel and their utterances are absolved, not only of concerning themselves with relatively unimportant and unworthy matters, but of casting reflections upon God's foresight, wisdom, and intelligent governance of the world and the creatures he has created.

INTERPRETER GIVES NO CLUE

Rev. Walter Wynn appears to have published a series of precise dates dealing with the world war. But he published them, be it noted, on the very eve of hostilities or during the course of them. Also, he carefully avoids telling us the really important thing about them, namely, how he arrived at them. Even one example, by way of illustration, would have been illuminating, but not so much as one illustration is vouchsafed. He says that the prophecies which revealed them were "sealed for the wise and never understood by the wicked." If they were sealed even to the wise, then clearly Rev. W. Wynn himself must be more than wise. One is bound to admit that his own statements as quoted hardly point that way.

He states further that after 1934 "inspired biblical prophecy will have served its purpose." How does he know that? What was, or is, that purpose? We are not told; but we are entitled to be told. Otherwise the prophecies in question must have been uttered to enlighten nobody except Rev. W. Wynn, and without his aid they would have remained void of understanding to all the "wicked."

The reverend gentleman declares that all the dates which he quotes, even to the month and the year, are present in the biblical prophecies for the purpose of "giving expounders of the Bible a definite message to the world in the darkest hour." What, in precise definition, was that message? Was it a message to inform mankind that war and incidents of war were to happen on those particular dates? If so, it was a message barren of fruitful results so far as the course of human history is concerned. The message, as it was delivered by Rev. W. Wynn, made the world neither better nor worse. It was a message that might as well have been cast upon the wind insofar as it influenced human destinies. Had God's inspiration really been in it, one cannot refrain from asking—Why did it not take a form which would have prevented that hideous war and the enormous suffering and loss of life which ensued, or at all events have been directed at some less unworthy end than the glorification of intellectual curiosity? Surely some serious moral end would have been more compatible with a message that really emanated from the God who is all love and all mercy.

REV. WALTER WYNN'S "PROOFS"

Rev. Walter Wynn tells us that he announced beforehand that the world war was to begin on April 1, 1914. As proof that his prediction was fulfilled on that date, he quotes a rhetorical flourish of Sir Edward Grey, to the effect that "We knew in April, 1914, we were at war with Germany." War between Britain and Germany was not formally declared until August 4, 1914. One might with more justice and greater truth, assert that we were informally at war with Germany from the day when the German reichstag voted the first national subsidy to the great shipping companies of the empire, or from the day when Germany took possession of her first colony overseas, because both actions were deliberately and admittedly aimed at Britain.

He also claims to have foretold the end of the war as on November 11, 1918. But formally war between Germany and the United States did not terminate until 1921 (Literary Digest, January 7, 1928, page 60).

Rev. W. Wynn declares, but without one word of proof or argument (1) that in Hebrew prophecy a "time" is 360 days, and (2) that "a day in prophecy is a year." How does he know that? What is his authority for these statements? Is it upon such guesswork data that he based the "intricate solar and lunar calculations" of chronology and astronomical cycle which he is so chary of communicating to us? The assertion that certain incidents of the world war were "the greatest events in the world's history" is absolutely untrue, as I have indicated already. The reverend gentleman betrays the caliber of his mind not only by the tone of his writing, but by his express declaration of "contempt" (his own word) for all earnest students of the Bible who do not see eye to eye with himself.

The interpretation of prophecy is, of course, bound up with the much deeper and more important question of the divine inspiration of the Scriptures. That most deplorable and most saddening of all human records, the history of the Christian churches, proves abundantly how deeply contaminated with human ignorance, narrowness, self-seeking, vanity, and lust of power, biblical inspiration becomes when it is filtered through human minds. Had God's inspired messages been permitted to come to us without such tainted mediation, their transparent truth would, of imperative necessity, have rendered all diversities of opinion and of dogma absolutely impossible. Christianity would have been one united whole instead of presenting itself as the spectacle of a multiplicity of divergent, and too often warring, sects with their scandalous enmities, cruelties, persecutions and hatreds one toward another. When, therefore, a interpretation of the Scriptures, prophetic or non-prophetic, is put forward it should be rigorously scrutinized, not once, nor twice, but a score of times in order to make sure it is not contaminated by purely human motives of the kind which in the past have cost humanity so dear. I have read somewhere recently that biblical commentators have at different times proposed and made 30,000 changes and amendments in the text of the Old Testament, and in the text of the New Testament not less than 300,000.

Too often what is asserted to be Scripture is not the spirit of Scripture at all—the Bible spirit is not in it; it is some individual's perversion or misreading of Scripture, and, as such, is devoid of inspiration, except the inspiration of error and of falsity.

CANUCK FLYER NOT IN DANGER WHEN WAS LOST

Hudson's Bay Zero Weather and Snow Kept Him on Ground

WAS DELAYED AT AN OUTPOST FOR WEEK

Was Impossible to Warm Motor Up; Finally Digs Machine Out and Returns

OTTAWA, Jan. 22.—Forced down by darkness at a lonely trading post, with the temperature hovering around 30 degrees below zero, isolated by snowstorms and powerless to take wing again for more than a week, Squadron Leader T. A. Lawrence of Ottawa, in charge of the R.C.A.F. detachment assigned to survey duty on the Hudson Straits, was the hero of a thrilling adventure in the frozen north.

Several days ago rumors reached the capital that the leader of the government's survey and patrol fliers had been lost. Later officials of the department of marine and fisheries, who are in touch with the Hudson Straits posts by radio, reported Major Lawrence safe.

REPORT MADE

The squadron leader's report reached headquarters by radio from his winter headquarters at Wakeham Bay, Ungava.

After being forced down January 10, the aviator reported, he was weather-bound until January 16, when a companion flier, Carr Harris, sent to search for him, arrived. High winds which accompanied the extreme cold made heating of the plane's motor impossible and subsequently Squadron Leader Lawrence was stranded back of the Hudson Bay subpost at Little Sugluk.

With the coming of milder weather, January 17, the airmen dug their machine out of the snow and took off finally reaching Wakeham Bay despite poor visibility.

Mrs. W. C. P. Heathcote presided.

The objective, of providing a stretcher for the first aid work, was more than reached.

SAMOANS BOYCOTT NEW ZEALAND GOODS

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Jan. 22.—Samoan natives have commenced a boycott against New Zealand goods, according to information received at the Auckland office of a well-known shipping company here.

New Zealand holds a mandate over Samoa under the League of Nations. Recently a commission of inquiry was appointed to investigate charges of dictatorship against Sir George Richardson, administrator of Samoa. The commission found that the charges were unfounded, and as a result O. F. Nelson and A. G. Smyth were deported for playing a prominent part in causing unrest among the Samoans. The latter staged a mild demonstration on the day that Smyth and Nelson sailed from Samoa.

MEDICOS WIN CURLING PLAY TRAIL RINK

Doctors Thom and Williams Skip Rinks to Victory on Bean Feed Day

TRAIL, B.C., Jan. 22.—The medicos, rinks skipped by Dr. J. B. Thom and Dr. S. C. Williams, were the winners and runners-up in Saturday's big battle of the rocks, which was the major attraction at the Curling club's bean feast special. In the semi-finals Dr. Thom beat Baldrey and Dr. Williams beat E. M. Stiles.

Fifty rinks entered, playing a total of 49 games to the decision, involving six rounds. Play commenced at 1 o'clock, all games being for four ends. There were some particularly hard fought battles in the fourth round, leading to the semi-finals. They were witnessed by numbers of players knocked out earlier in the competition.

MODEL COMPETITION

The competition itself was commented on by curlers as being a model in the way it was conducted. The sheets were never clear until midnight, matches following each other with clock-like precision, for which the competition chairman, G. Kinnis, was frequently complimented.

On the lighter side the confections of J. Manis, "hot dogs," beans and many other delicacies, were very much in demand by the 200 curlers. Adjournment for refreshments after the matches was a consoling episode for the defeated rinks. High spirits reined at the table. The bean feast was "on" the vice-president's rinks, Fred Hopkins, the official host, who were the losers in the season opening competition, President vs. Vice-President..

CHURCHMEN AND TRAVELERS HEAR OF JUNIOR HIGH

Campion Tells Them of Proposed School; Will Add $1.26 Average Taxes

OBJECT OF SCHOOL TO DEVELOP TALENTS

Train Youngsters According to Abilities; Church Union Discussed

Whether a junior high school is in the best interests of school children of Nelson, and just how such a school proposes to make young men and women more efficient citizens was a major consideration when members of the Associated Canadian Travelers met with St. Saviour's Churchmen's club as guests of the churchmen in the Memorial hall last night, following the Travelers' parade to St. Saviour's church. The discussion followed refreshments.

W. C. Leno, president of the Churchmen's club, welcomed the Travelers. W. R. Gibbon, president, and F. R. Pritchard, first vice-president, voiced the Travelers' thanks to the Churchmen's club.

PRESENT SYSTEM WRONG

C. F. McHardy, in opening the discussion, asserted the present school system was inadequate. Its training was academic, and the majority of young people were not fitted for academic work.

Having failed in public and high school, they were turned out to make their own way in the world, dubbed failures when they might quite easily become leaders in some field other than academic. Their training was wrong.

W. R. Campion, school trustee, told how the curriculum of the junior high school was planned to discover the particular abilities of pupils, and to develop to a slight extent their individual talents.

DEVELOP BODIES, TOO

Then, when their schooling was finished, they would know what they wanted in life, and could plan accordingly. Vancouver was now building an advanced technical school in which students would be able to complete the training in which they became interested in junior high school.

Not only would a junior high school discover individual talents, but it would develop bodies, athletic work being included in the curriculum, Mr. Campion stated.

TO SUBMIT BYLAW

The school board was now planning to submit a bylaw asking for authority to borrow sufficient money to complete and equip the Trafalgar school building as a junior high school, stated Mr. Campion.

If the bylaw passed, it would mean that the average taxpayer would have to pay about $1.26 more per year than at present.

Mr. Campion's explanation satisfied Travelers and Churchmen that a junior high school was the right thing for Nelson. The consensus of opinion was that even if taxes were increased by 25 per cent, as Mr. McHardy said, the proposition should be supported.

UNION ULTIMATELY

Asked whether a union of the Church of England and the Church of Rome was considered, Ven. Archdeacon F. H. Graham replied that certain unauthorized members of the Church of Rome, and representatives of a particular school of thought in the Church of England, also unauthorized, had met and discussed the matter. They arrived at ways of overcoming certain objections to the union, but could not solve the main difficulties.

Mr. Graham believed that ultimately there would be one church, with branches, but he stated any such movement hsould grow from within the various churches, and should be consumated when the people demanded it.

Aviator Lost in Montana Hills Is Frozen to Death

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Jan. 22.—Fred Hoyt, aviator-salesman, whose frozen body was found yesterday in southern Idaho, died either Sunday afternoon, January 15, or during that night, his diary, made public here tonight, disclosed. The diary is being taken to Hoyt's widow by his brother, George Hoyt, of Oak Park, Cal.

Hoyt, employed by the Stearman Airplane company, Wichita, Kan., was delivering the plane to purchasers at Boise, and encountered a blizzard after leaving here Saturday, January 14. The diary said he was forced to leap from the plane near Holbrook, Idaho, after outdistancing an accompanying ship.

A searcher on horseback found the body in an isolated spot in the Black Pine mountains, about 10 miles from the canyon where Hoyt's demolished plane was found by a rancher late today.

It could not be determined whether Hoyt had been injured in a parachute leap from his plane, or whether he had lost his way after leaving the plane.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Reports reached wireless companies here tonight that an unidentified vessel, believed to be somewhere in the vicinity of Cuba, was sending out SOS signals at intervals for nearly an hour. Efforts to get in touch with the vessel were unsuccessful.

LUCAN, Ont., Jan. 22.—Fire, which at one time threatened to wipe out the entire business section of the village, early today destroyed the brick building owned by Hasket Brothers, grocers, and the adjoining two-story building owned by Miss E. E. Atkinson, who conducted a fancy goods store, and inflicted damage estimated at $25,000.

Trotzky Enters Protest and Asks Reinstatement

BERLIN, Jan. 22.—Leon Trotzky and his exiled companions have made a formal protest and appeal to the Communist internationale for reinstatement in the party, the Socialist newspaper Vorwaets reports. Trotzky is quoted as saying: "We submit to force and leave our party work for a purpeseless exile, but we are confident that we shall reappear in the coming "great battle."

ROSSLAND CROWD SEES GOOD PLAY

Young People's League Gives Play Which Pleases Audience of 500

ROSSLAND, B.C., Jan. 22.—Hilarity raised to the nth power reigned in the K. P. hall last evening, when one of the largest crowds in the history of the hall gathered to witness the presentation of "The Minister's Bride," by the Young People's league of the United church, about 500 being in attendance.

From the time the curtain went up at 8:15 till it was rung down on the singing of the national anthem, a little over two hours later, there was not one dull moment. The play showed the preparations made by the Ladies' aid for the welcome of the minister's bride, and her greeting (cordial and otherwise), by the members of the congregation. A long-drawn-out engagement is terminated by marriage, and a bashful swain coaxes a reluctant "yes" from the lady of his choice. The final scene depicts a young people's social evening at the parsonage, during which an impromptu program was given by the young people, including solos by Misses M. Wilkie, Charlotte Lowes, Eleanor Erskine and Marjorie Trembath, a violin solo by Miss Mary Rogers, duets by Edward Daly and Hawthorne Dunn, Miss M. Wilkie and P. Ponton, Miss Patricia Crowe and Edward Daly, and recitations by Miss Marion Bisson and W. H. Schloremner. A number of old-time choruses were sung by the young people, and an amusing feature of the last act was the presentation to the minister and his bride of a pickle dish of the vintage of the early '80s, James Vipond (Mr. Wright) making the presentation with a most flowery speech. Costumes worn were of styles in vogue many years ago and brought as many laughs as did the spoken word.

Those in the cast were: Alex. Kelly, Miss Marion Bisson, Charles Daly, Miss Dorothy Bisson, James Vipond, Charlotte Lowes, Harold Fox, Mrs. J. H. Crowe, Miss M. Wilkie, Mrs. Alex. Kelly, Miss Mary Rogers, Mrs. Howard Ferguson, Miss Eleanor Erskine, Miss Marjorie Trembath, Miss Patricia Crowe, W. H. Schorlemner, P. Ponton.

After the performance the cast was entertained with a midnight supper at the home of Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Daly.

"I talked him out of it . . ."

"IF I had only known this would happen! So suddenly! So unexpectedly! And when everything looked so promising!

"And to think that time after time he wanted to increase his life insurance and I talked him out of it. How hard I worked against myself and against my own interests. I wanted a bigger house. I wanted luxuries! I wanted everything except the protection he was urging me to accept.

"I got my own way, of course. The Life Insurance was not taken. I robbed the children of their education, of my care, perhaps of their future success in life. I robbed myself of the children's companionship. For now I must leave them to earn the money needed to keep our little family together - - the money that Life Insurance would have given me if he had had his way - -

"- - and I talked him out of it."

It has been truly said that, "If every wife knew what every widow knows, every man would carry adequate Life Insurance".

And too often it is the children who must pay the penalty of the wife's prejudice.

Boys and Girls Should Watch Out

"A boy may waste much of his time at a school for boys and a girl may waste much of hers at a school for girls. Send them both to the same school and they are likely to help each other to waste still more time.—Vancouver Star.

Boys and Girls of high school age had better look out. There are breakers ahead of them if they are not very circumspect.

First, Dr. Putnam, Toronto educationist, one of the commissioners who took the British Columbia educational survey two years ago, remarked in his report that 30 per cent of the pupils in attendance could not profit by high school education.

Second, an Ottawa commentator advocates segregating the boys and girls in separate high schools. He doesn't do so very respectfully either. The boys are "bespatted, fedorated young egoists," and the girls, "seductive, brief-skirted, silk stockinged adolescent femininity."

Third, the Vancouver Star, with its eyes on the number of students excluded from British Columbia university after having largely wasted the fall term, has a column editorial on the subject, and bemoans the disproportion "between the reports of the lighter side of student life and those of the more serious side."

The case is serious.

In the days when Dr. E. C. Arthur, R. J. Steel, William Irvine and R. G. Joy were the grand panjandrums in Nelson's school affairs, a historic debate was held on the subject of putting the boys and girls into different rooms. The trustees pointed out that in their day rigid separation was insisted on—and look at the result!

It was actually decided to put this separation into effect, a resolution going into the minutes. But when it came to executing the brave flat, the school board weakened.

But, except for rural schools, which could not, of course, provide separate facilities, it is history that many Canadian towns and cities have had separate schools or classrooms for boys and girls, and the same could happen again.

Mutual interest must not interfere with interest in studies. Boys and girls, youths and maids had better "duteous be."

Ymir and Its Women's Institute

Organization of a Women's institute at Ymir is news of more than ordinary interest.

Ymir has claims to fame in its mines. After years with little doing, it is an active and up-coming camp, with active properties that give every promise of permanence.

But if Ymir should have 10 active mines, or one, a Women's institute in either case could be most useful.

When the business men and boosters generally of a community get together, they form a board of trade. In similar circumstances, the women form a Women's institute.

It may not be apparent to the worthies of Ymir just yet what the activities of the women's organization will be, but they will know in due time. A real Women's institute is not long in leaving its mark in any community.

Grand Forks Lost One Week's Curling

Collapse of the old curling rink at Grand Forks on January 10 was a wallop that simply bounced off that community.

One week later the building was entirely rebuilt, the ice cleaned up and flooded, and the facilities of the roaring game better than ever.

To a large extent the work was done by volunteers, and material was enjoyed at cost.

This is an illustration of what community spirit can do.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

Stimulating the Bile Flow

One of the unsolved points about that little sack called the gall bladder is just how it empties itself.

It has a mouth-like opening that allows the bile to flow out, and then closes again.

It has been thought that some special impulse was sent to this point which stimulated it to open. Also, that the muscle in the walls of the gall bladder contracted and forced the bile forward into intestine.

Research men in Cleveland, Chicago, the Mayo clinic and elsewhere, are working most faithfully on this apparently simple matter of the causation of the flow of bile from the gall bladder.

One point they have discovered, as mentioned before, was that when food was administered, especially food of a fatty nature, such as egg yolk and cream mixture, that the gall bladder appeared to empty rapidly.

In one of the experiments, by the use of a tube inside and pressure over the gall bladder from the inside, this pressure was sufficient to drive some of the bile out of the gall bladder into the intestine.

Now, what does this little bit of information mean to you?

That any pressure over the liver and gall bladder will stimulate action in the gall bladder and some bile will flow into intestine.

And you will remember all that the bile does while there—breaks up the fats, stimulates the sides of the intestine to move the contents along, and is a natural antiseptic.

But the point I want to stress is that this outside pressure stimulates the flow.

And how can you exert this pressure?

By using the old liver squeezer exercise, which is simply standing with feet together, knees straight, and reaching down first to right side with right hand fist closed, left hand curling under left armpit; then bending to left side, reaching down with left hand, right hand under armpit. A good point is to let the fists scrape against sides of body as they go up and down. If this is done 15 to 20 times each side, two or three times a day, it will stimulate the gall bladder to action, and the liver also.

It will be a great investment for the time and effort spent.

Sally Lunn Muffins: Beat together two eggs and one-half cup of granulated sugar till creamy. Sift together two cups of either pastry flour or ordinary breat flour, three heaping teaspoons of baking powder and one-half teaspoon of salt. Add this to the egg-sugar mixture alternately with one cup of cold, sweet milk. Then stir in three tablespoons of melted butter and scrape the mixture into a buttered muffin pan. (I make eight large muffins of this recipe.) Bake in a hot oven—500 degrees Fahrenheit—for about 20 minutes, or till high and light and slightly browned on top. This may also be baked in a sheet pan if preferred.

Shirred Eggs with Crumbs: Rub individual baking dishes with ham fat or bacon fat, and in each little cup put one tablespoon of coarse, dry bread crumbs and one tablespoon of cold, sweet milk. Break an egg into each dish, dot with a bit of bacon fat or butter and dust with salt and pepper. Bake till set in a moderate oven for 10 minutes.

Browned Beef Soup: Put the left-over bones from a roast of beef into a large saucepan and add three quarts of cold water, one-half teaspoon of kitchen bouquet flavoring, a bit of bay leaf, one large peeled and sliced onion, one cup of canned tomato, and salt and pepper to suit individual liking. Bring to a boil and simmer two hours, then strain, let cool, and remove fat. Heat again, thicken with a tablespoon of browned flour mixed to a paste with a little cold water and when it boils up again, serve. (Note—As Tuesday's dinner menu calls for roast of beef ,and the cold left-over meat will be used for dinner Wednesday night, this soup will be used Thursday at dinner, with lamb chops as the main dish.)

What the Press Is Saying

BANNING MOVIES

Film manufacturers cannot be blamed for bringing out pictures of the Hickman murder case, with all its sickening and ghastly details. The film manufacturers are supplying just exactly what the popular demand calls for. It is a sad state of affairs, but nevertheless true. Box office returns determine the popularity of any motion picture just as in any other business undertaking.

The Nelson Women's institute has passed a resolution condemning the showing of the Hickman pictures. That in itself will do no harm or no good. If they are out to "kill" the Hickman murder films, and we are in accord that they should be, let the patrons of the movie houses refrain from patronizing such a performance. No film company nor movie house can live without patronage. When motion picture manufacturers realize that people are opposed to the screening of pictures which appeal to the brutal and savage, they will not repeat such performance. Should the Hickman films appear at Nelson, as they probably will, will the women's institute of that town refrain from patronizing them? If so, then they will accomplish a lot of good and support their resolution, or will they, as in the case of "Strangler" Nelson, executed at Winnipeg last Friday, flock by the thousands to witness the distorted features of a man who only a few hours previous was cut down from the hangman's rope?—Cranbrook Courier.

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the house of George Bartell in the northwest part of Oroville, Wash., at an estimated loss of building and furnishings of $10,000.

IT will—to a marked degree—unless you're very careful. For energy, growth, strength all come from certain food elements. If any of these vital elements are lacking in your daily diet, you'll find yourself actually under-nourished in the midst of plenty.

Grape-Nuts—one of the most delicious foods—was deliberately designed to correct certain dangerous deficiencies often found in modern diet.

Grape-Nuts is made from whole wheat and malted barley. The precious elements it gives your body are dextrins, maltose and other carbohydrates for energy; protein for muscle and body-building; phosphorus for teeth and bone; iron for the blood; and the valuable Vitamin-B. And Grape-Nuts is almost instantly digested.

Eat this delicious, highly-nourishing food beginning to-morrow. All grocers have Grape-Nuts in wax-wrapped packages from which it is ready to eat with milk or cream. Grape-Nuts is one of the most inexpensive of foods—you need serve only four teaspoonfuls to each person. Such a helping costs less than one cent.

Halt Immigration Into Canada Till Industries Develop Says Trail Man

To the Editor of The Daily News:

Sir—I would like to know why some of the powers that be insist on bringing more immigrants to Canada when there are more than enough of the laboring class here now.

I would suggest that all immigration except those that are of the farmer class and will take farms be stopped for at least two or three years.

We Canadians cannot find work, so go to the United States, as there are too many Russians, Slavs, Finns and the like who will be given a job in mining and logging camps before a British subject will have a look in.

Five hundred thousand good Canadians fought in France for this country, so why not give us a job. We were good enough to fight for Canada, but cannot find work as the foreigners will work for next to nothing.

All we Canadians want is a fair chance, to stop bringing immigrants in till we have more industries to absorb them. Then some of our dead lines and poor families will leave us.

Half the men out of work at Trail today are men who went to France and yet foreigners are working and own big cars.

A Thoroughbred Frock Whose Keynote Is Simplicity

LIKE a piece of fine sculpture, which holds us by its sheer beauty of line, this design has used only its own lovely material to fashion a distinguished gown. It has rhythm and poise. The graceful drape of the circular front skirt is accented by the curved line joining it to the waist. To relieve the severity of the square neck, the blouse has been slashed and a strip of the material has been added to this end to make the bow. Belted simply and with tab cuffs, the result is unusually effective. It would look well in satin crepe, crepe de chine, sheer wool crepe or soft light weight velvet. (Copyright, 1927, by Butterick)

'Her Husband's Secretary'

By WILLIAM ALMON WOLFF

CHAPTER XVI.

"Well—that's out of the way!" said John MacVeagh, cheerfully. Katherine Foster and Tony Larue had gone off together; they were due, they had explained, at a party, and the MacVeaghs had declined, in the same breath, a prefunctory invitation to go along.

Eileen said nothing. She walked along, trying to control herself.

"What's the matter?" John asked.

At least, she thought, bitterly, he was still sensitive to her moods.

A woman married as long as she had been ought to be grateful even for that, she supposed.

"Nothing," she said.

"Snap out of it! I know"——He took her arm, pulled her along, making her keep pace with his own swift, nervous stride. "You wanted to wear yourself out looking for a place. Ten to one we'd have come back to this—if we could still get it. It's just what we want—plenty of room—good location—not too expensive."

"Oh, I like the apartment well enough," Eileen conceded. "I might have found something better—I might not. It will do. But——"

"You wanted to do it up yourself. You think because I hire this man to do it I don't believe you could—?"

"I—no—it's all right——"

"Listen, honey—that's not the idea. But this fellow knows what they're doing around here. And he won't do an apartment for every one who comes along, let me tell you. It's a feather in one's cap to be able to tell people Tony Larue did one's place. And—it makes a hit with Katherine Foster to give him the job, and she's one woman we want to get in right with and stay in right with."

"I suppose so," said Eileen. She was yielding, even in her own mind. Reluctantly, but she was yielding, none the less. For this was, the way John was putting it, business, and in business she never interfered. She never had. She had been brought up to believe that women shouldn't; that business was the man's affair, and that in it he must be supreme. Never had she allowed herself even to criticize John in relation to his work. His results, moreover, had brilliantly justified her readiness to leave to him and to his decision everything that affected their financial future.

Yet, she asked herself, she almost, but not quite, asked John, where did this leave her? What part did it provide for her in the structure of their joint life? She had been, ever since she could remember, busy and active. At home, even with John's growing prosperity, she had continued to do most of the work of their home. She was childless; her bitter disappointment on that score had been made bearable only by her constant occupation. She roused herself with an effort.

"What on earth do you suppose Mrs. —Katherine, sees in a creation like that?" she said.

John chuckled, tolerantly.

"Oh, well—he's harmless enough," he said. "From all I hear, you see a lot like him around New York. They're tame."

Eileen made a little grimace of disgust.

"He seemed perfectly poisonous to me," she said. "I was afraid you'd step on him any minute.

John laughed again.

"What's the use?" he said. "He might have bothered me if Foster hadn't warned me what I'd be up against when I met him. And they say he's an artist in his way."

"I noticed he was verfy business-like about getting a check out of you before he did anything at all!'" said Eileen.

Once more her husband chuckled.

"Oh, they're all like that, these artistic fellows," he said. "All for art with a big A—after they get the money. He'll save you a lot of trouble, at that."

"Oh, I'll be good!" she said, and laughed, herself, for the first time "I'm not going to turn temperamental on you now after all these years, my dear! But, John, have you any idea at all of what all this is going to cost?"

"Not much," he confessed. "It won't be cheap—I do know that much."

"And you think it's worth it, whatever it costs?"

He nodded.

"Listen, baby—we don't have to worry about money. It's all pretty complicated—and I haven't had much chance to talk to you lately. But——"

"I know you're going to have a tremendous salary, of course, but if we're going to live on such a scale as this——"

"My salary!" He almost scoffed at the word. "A hundred thousand a year—for the present. Honey, that's not where the big money is—in salaries!"

He walked along in silence for a moment.

"It's pretty hard to explain quickly," he said. "But—well, you see, when a property is taken into a big consolidation like ours its stock rises very fast. And—we know, ahead of time, what's going to happen. And we know about our own plans—improvements that will reduce rates in a whole section and stimulate business there and send other security values up. Or, sometimes, down. And it was a part of my terms that I should have full participation in the syndicate's operations.

"My share of our profits in the last three weeks, since I closed my deal, is nearly eight hundred thousand dollars—and that's only a beginning! So, you see, we don't have to worry about any expense this boy friend of Katherine Foster's lets us in for."

"No," said Eileen. "I—yes, I see that. I didn't know."

She was trying to grasp the meaning of the figures John had mentioned casually. They——they were rich. That vague goal of their young hopes—it was attained. Wealth. Independence. Security.

But—was this what they had talked of, in this first long evenings at home together, when he had sat before an open fire, and she had brought a pillow, and sat upon it, on the floor, her head leaning back against his knees, his hand playing with her short, curly hair, while they talked?

It was not the fulfilment of any dream of hers. So much she knew. Never had she visualized wealth as just another driving force come into their lives, another complication, bringing with it a whole flock of new problems. She shook her head. Life was a strange, confused, confusing thing, beyond her understanding.

Perspiration Odour so unpardonable so easy to banish

What quality is so attractive as personal charm . . . . and what social fault so obnoxious as perspiration odour.

Every person perspires, of course. It's natural, it's healthful. Physicians say the perspiration of the average person measures between one and two pints daily. Nature takes this way of ridding the body of impurities through the millions of tiny pores of the skin.

But perspiration need not be objectionable. Lifebuoy Soap, used in the bath, banishes the odour. Lifebuoy's creamy, mild lather not only cleanses, but also purifies the pores—antiseptically—and keeps them sweet, open and breathing.

To Keep Well

Drink plenty of water, perspire freely and banish perspiration odour with Lifebuoy Soap.

Make sure of avoiding the needless social error of perspiration odour. Use Lifebuoy Soap, for hands, face and bath.

Low in price—wonderful in results.

Slurring of the Letter "R" Caused This Man's Death

POLA, Italy, Jan. 22.—Slurring of the letter R in speaking, harmless and sometimes even laudable vocal action, caused the death here of Beato Marcovich, aged 21.

It happened at a family dinner to celebrate the engagement of Carlo Roncich. After the toast to the finance, Marcovich, cousin of the finance, arose to give a toast to the prospective bridgeroom. When he reached his first R the guests laughed so loudly and so suddenly that Marcovich fell to the floor in a nervous fit. His head struck a table corner and he died on the way to a hospital.

THURSDAY FAVORITE DAY FOR SUICIDES

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 22.—Almost twice as many persons commit suicide on Thursday as on Sunday in Chicago, it has been shown by statistics compiled by Coroner Oscar Wolff. "Blue Monday came second on his life, but according to Frank C. Singleton, director of safety for the board of education, the majority of automobile accidents fall on Monday, particularly between 5 and 6 p.m.

"Police records show that 13 of the 437 accidents to pedestrians in November occurred on Mondays," he said.

The coroner's figures for the year showed 87 suicides on Thursday, 78 on Monday, 72 Wednesday, 65 Friday, 60 Saturday, 52 Tuesday and 4 Sunday.

In an analysis of the report of Dr. James Whitney Hall, alienist, said that love was the greatest cause for suicides. "My observations have revealed that lovers' quarrels following Wednesday 'date night' have the effect of temporarily deranging some young persons sufficiently to cause them to commit suicide," he said.

Older persons, he said, were more likely to take their lives on Monday because of disgust and depression following misconduct over weekends.

Brickmakers Have Not Yet Had Millionaire

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 22.—Ever hear of a millionaire brick maker? The Common Brick Manufacturers' association says the American brick business in America has never produced one.

"It probably is the only basic industry in America that has not produced great wealth for those engaged in it," the association laments. "There are coal barons, lumber kings, steel magnets and even the younger industry of cement has numerous millionaires."

The association says the reason is to be found in the present situation in the brick industry—brick being sold below cost of production.

A word from the publisher . . . about advertising

The products you see constantly advertised in this paper are worthy of your confidence.

It takes two things to make a consistent advertiser. One is a strong conviction that he has a product that will hold its place in public favor despite competition. The other is actual proof that . . . the increasing popularity of his product.

If his product will not stand the test of comparison he would simply be throwing his advertising investment away. If the buying public rejects his products after it has been offered in advertising he HAS thrown his advertising investment away.

That's why the manufacturer who advertises his merchandise consistently is very sure of his quality . . . and why you may be sure of it, too.

Read the advertising here in your newspaper . . . it will guide you to the buying of worthy merchandise.

Ty Cobb Five Years Behind in His Mail

By AL DEMAREE

(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

Baseball fans used to get a big kick out of sending letters to their favorites addressed only with a picture of the star pasted on the front of the envelope.

Letters used to come to Christy Mathewson with nothing but a big figure 6 on the front, representing the "Big Six." A man once addressed a trick letter like this to "Mark Twain, God knows where."

When Mark got the letter, he sent back the reply: "He did."

Ty Cobb once was sent a check for $5 by a syndicate for the use of his name on a feature. Five years later, the syndicate got a reply from Cobb: "I just ran across your check," he said, "and am returning it to you." He had forgotten what it was for. Apparently it took Cobb five years to catch up with his mail.

MAPLE LEAFS AT HOME BEAT SENATOR TEAM

Score Is 2-1; Champions Miss Their Center Star, Frank Nighbor

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—In the most bitterly contested National Hockey league fixture to be played at Arena Gardens this season, Toronto Maple Leafs triumphed over the world champion Ottawa Senators, by a score of 2-1, Saturday night, and thereby strengthened their hold on third position in the Canadian group.

The second largest crowd of the year turned out to witness the breaking of the deadlock which had existed between these teams since the opening of the schedule.

The visitors were without the services of that clever mid-ice general, Frank Nighbor, and his play was missed by his team mates.

BIRMINGHAM IS ABLE TO DRAW WITH EVERTON

Birmingham's Goalie Is Hero; Rain and Wind for Soccer Day, Old Country

LONDON, Jan. 22.—Soccer matches Saturday in England and Wales were played for the most part in rainy, gusty weather with the pitches very soft. Considering conditions, the brand of football played was remarkably good. There were several fine scoring feats, Cookson of West Bromwich Albion and Waterton of Newport County each secured four goals, while Robson, Preston Northend, Turner, Torquay and Beel, Burnley, did the hat trick.

In the English league, first division, Everton were robbed of victory over Birmingham by the brilliant goal minding of Taylor. In the midst of his fine display he was injured and had to retire.

The Birmingham team were two up at the interval. With Taylor gone, Everton were able to equalize through Irvine's two counters.

Huddersfield Town led Tottenham Hotspurs by two goals to one at the interval. O'Callaghan scored for the Spurs and then Browne equalized. Both counters were made in the first five minutes of play. Smith scored for Huddersfield just before the half time. The Spurs had to play the second half without Thompson, who was hurt. Jackson and Smith scored against them. Osborne got the Spurs' second goal just before time. Leicester City had a field day at the expense of Derby County. The City's goals came from Chandler, twice, Lockhead and Adcock. Sunderland at Liverpool played with fine assurance, to carry off the victory. Hopkin and Reid scored for Liverpool, while Halliday, twice, Hargreaves, Riley, through his own goal, and Marshall compiled Sunderland's total. Marshall and Wilks played a particularly brilliant game for Sunderland.

BOLTON WINS

All the goals in the Bolton Wanderers-Bury match were made in three minutes after half an hour of play in the first half. Smith and Jack registered for Bolton, while Hawarth kicked the ball through his own goal to give Bury a point.

The Wednesday ran away from Blackburn Rovers in the first half. Hill scored twice and Hooper once before the interval. Hooper found the range again and Holland saved the Rovers from being blanked.

Newcastle United and Manchester United scored all the goals in their match before half time in a dashing game. For Newcastle, Wilkinson scored two clever goals and Seymour and McKay contributed the rest of the quartet of tallies.

SCORERS

In the second division scorers were: Manchester City, Austin, Broadhurst and Johnson; Chelsea, Wilson and Thompson; Fulham, Elliott; Stoke, Bussey, twice; Swansea, Thompson, twice, Lewis; Blackpool, Neal, Hampson, twice, Browell; Clapton Orient, Gardiner, twice.

Southampton, Rawlings, Luckett, twice, Bullock; Notts County, Mills.

Preston Northend, Robson, three times, Jones, twice; Wolverhampton Wanderers, Phillipson, twice, Chadwick and Charliney.

Some attendance figures were:

Burnley vs. Bury at Burnley, 40,000.

Liverpool vs. Sunderland at Liverpool, 30,000.

Leicester City vs. Derby County at Derby, 30,000.

Manchester City vs. South Shields at Manchester, 30,000.

MAROONS BEAT CANADIENS BY ONE TO NOTHING

Jimmie Wardnet's Only Goal in Second Game; Result Is Surprise

MONTREAL, Jan. 22. — The seeming impossible, but the inevitable, has happened.

Canadiens were beaten by a 1-0 score by the Montreal Maroons at the Forum last night, and thus was brought to an end one of the most impressive records ever compiled by a team in the National Hockey league. It was the first defeat sustained by the Flying Frenchmen in 19 straight games.

The break had to come, however, and it fell to the lot of the Canucks' intercity rivals to rise to hockey heights and completely overshadow the Flying Frenchmen in as thrilling a hockey battle as ever has been seen on Montreal ice.

Last night's game was a typical Maroon-Canadien battle. It was marked by a lot of cautious hockey and was featured by the superb defensive play of the winners. The contest was not without roughness, 2 major and 15 minor peralties bing meted out by the officials, who called the slightest infractions.

DRUMHELLER LAD TO MEET HARLOW HERE SATURDAY

Jim Gorman and Harlow to Mix; Parker and Firth in Semi-Final

For the first time in nearly two years, Nelson boxing fans will be able to see "the manly art as is" in their own town.

Jim Gorman, late of Drumheller, Alta., and a noted heavyweight in western Canada, will test out George *Harlow, promising young Nelson heavy*weight, on Saturday at the opera house.

E. Kirby is promoting an all-boxing show in which Gorman and Harlow will be main contenders. Gorman weighs in at 191, and Harlow at 188.

Gorman has had a lot of boxing experience in western Canada and the United States.

Harlow has been boxing here and there at odd times for some time, and has made a bit of a name for himself. If he is able to handle Gorman it is planned to match him with some of the leading heavies in the west.

Vernon Parker and Henry Firth, who both fight at around 140 pounds, will mix in the semi-final. Parker has boxed here before and is known as a willing boy. Firth will make his first appearance here. He has been working out with the big boys lately.

Timothy Madden Paris, a fighting fool, is shouting for the promoter to find him someone to knock around in a preliminary. Tim is fast, and willing to swap punches with anyone of his weight.

HOCKEY LEAD IS AGAIN STAKE IN TONIGHT'S GAME

Nelson Can Take Lead Again by Beating Rossland Here Tonight

By losing to Rossland in its game here tonight, Nelson can jeopardize its chances to capture the championship of the West Kootenay Hockey league. By winning, it can step into the lead it lost when it was defeated by Trail, in Trail, yesterday.

Tied now, with .714 points each, and the series rapidly drawing to a close, almost anything can happen. The only thing that is sure is that Nelson and Trail will be in the playoffs.

Nelson's team tonight will be: Notman, goal; Richardson and Desireau, defence; Waiman, Pelletier and Heximer, Penny, Ogenski and S. Desireau, forwards.

The game starts at 8:15.

MONTREAL, Jan. 22.—Robert Robson, aged 20, was blown to pieces by an explosion of nitro-glycerine in one of the small work huts at the plant of the Canadian Explosives limited at Beloeil Saturday.

Kellogg's Pact to France Is Believed to Be Defeated Now

WASHINGTON, D.C., Jan. 22.—Arrival of the latest French note in the anti-war treaty exchange served to increase the impression that the six power pact proposed by Secretary Kellogg has been deferred indefinitely.

As a substitute for that evolution of the anti-war discussion however, there are strong indications that the revision of the Franco-American arbitration pact will now be taken up vigorously with the hope that the new treaty, which includes a declaration of renunciation of war between the two governments, may be signed on February 6.

COSGRAVE SAYS LIKES CHICAGO

Also Has Warmth for Mayor Thompson, He Tells Newspaper Men

ABOARD THE MANHATTAN LIMITED EN ROUTE TO WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Fired with enthusiasm for Chicago, its mayor and its citizenry, but slightly fatigued after his 24-hour visit there, William T. Cosgrave, head of the Irish Free State, tonight was traveling toward Washington, where he is to spend the next four days.

Mr. Cosgrave, his aide de camp, and three other members of the executive council of the Irish Free State, who landed in New York on Friday, are scheduled to meet President Coolidge tomorrow afternoon.

"There is no city so libelled as Chicago," Mr. Cosgrave told an Associated Press correspondent aboard the train.

"I never saw such order, such perfect control of traffic, such marvelous buildings and such cordial people. The Irish there are tiptop Americans. You ask me about that libelled man, Big Bill Thompson? If I were not in the habit of discounting much, I would have thought before I came here that he was a toug hand roughneck. He is a kindly, big American, who is full of enthusiasm for his country and its history, is bubbling over with the the idea of making Chicago the greatest of American cities by connecting it with the sea."

Rickard Believes Gene Would Fight Every Week If Opportunities Arise

MIAMI, Jan. 22.—Tex Rickard believes Gene Tunney would "fight every week if opportunities were found," the New York promoter of things largely pugilistic said at a dinner honoring the heavyweight champion here last night.

And Tunney defended himself against the charge of some sports writers that he lacked the "killer" instinct.

"The idea of the killer instinct being the predominant trait in the best boxers is a fallacy," he said. "If this were true, the leading gunman would be the heavyweight champion of the world."

VANCOUVER STOCK MARKET CLOSED

Business for Friday Record; Heavy Buying Orders Pour in Anyway

VANCOUVER, Jan. 22.—With members far behind in their records and exhausted with the strain of the past few days, Vancouver stock exchange was closed Saturday.

There was a meeting in the morning to effect clearing of accounts, but no active trading.

It was estimated that approximately one million shares of an estimated value of $500,000 changed hands during the two sessions Friday. This was by far and away the most hectic day the Vancouver exchange ever witnessed.

Eastern Canadian financial centers and New York sent in heavy buying orders.

Seattle Will Build Million and Half Bushel Elevator

SEATTLE, Jan. 22.—Construction of a 1,500,000-bushel grain elevator for use possibly next spring is expected to follow the formal request for a structure made to the port commission by the Merchants' exchange. The request follows a recent meeting agitating the removal of the Portland grain rate differential. The addition would virtually double the port's grain facilities, which were increased by 500,000 bushels last year.

Kootenay Florence Advances Then Suffers Setback on Toronto List

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—The trend of values on the Standard mining exchange turned more irregular in Saturday's session due to profit taking.

Losses and gains were about evenly divided, however, and the volume was well maintained, at 940,977 shares.

Treadwell Yukon was the outstanding feature with an overnight advance of 25c to $28.25, and a peak for the day of $31.50, a new high for all time. Closing transactions at $31 were at a net gain of $3 International Nickel was $1 lower at $95 and Sudbury Basin steady at $14.

Kootenay Florence advanced to 46c at the opening, but steady liquidation soon brought a reaction to 42c, a decline of 2½. Premier was up 20c. Teck Hughes moved up 5c to $9.65 and Lake Shore was 11c higher at $25.85. Kirkland Lake was up 4c to $2.41, and Beaver was up 2c to $1.95. Bidgood was 2c lower at $1.04. Barry Hollinger declined 4c to $1.02.

Corn Prices Take Setback, While Wheat Eases Down

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—With sales of corn to arrive here amounting to almost 1,000,000 bushels in the last 48 hours, corn prices Saturday underwent a material setback. Cold weather favored country hauling of corn, but also tended to sustain wheat values, which, however, eased down at the last, sympathizing with corn.

Closing quotations on corn were heavy, ½ to ⅞ net lower; wheat, ⅛ to ⅜ off; oats, unchanged to ¼ down; and provisions, unchanged to 12c decline.

HAVANA, Jan. 22.—President Machado Saturday signed a sugar decree confirming the report of the national sugar defence committee which recommended fixing the 1927-28 sugar export at 4,000,000 long tons.

Under the decree, 3,300,000 are for the United States, 150,000 tons are for home consumption, and the balance is for export to other countries than the United States.

Victoria, With the Vancouver Exchange, Closed, Has Busy Day

VICTORIA, Jan. 22.—With the Vancouver stock exchange closed Saturday to permit members to clean up accumulated business, orders from Vancouver as well as Winnipeg and Toronto poured into the Victoria exchange Saturday with the result that there was the greatest and wildest market ever experienced here. In the short morning session sales ran over the 150,000 shares mark and the session had to be closed with brokers still holding bundles of unfilled orders in their hands.

TRADING HEAVY IN STOCK LIST

Prices Trend Up, but Large Buying Confined to About Dozen Issues

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Major speculative activity in Saturday's stock market was again on the upside, but buying operations on the large scale were confined to about a dozen issues. Standard industrials and rails showed little change on the day, but some of the specialties were bid up 2 to 15 points. Trading was fairly heavy.

Hudson Motors, which showed $9.04 a share earned in 1927 as against $3.36 in the 13 months ended December 31, 1926, rallied 2½ points to 32¾, closing within a fraction of the top. General Motors climbed 1½ points, to 135⅝, and Hupp crossed 37 to a new high record. Chrysler and Nash lost ground.

Montgomery Ward, which earned $10.25 a share in 1927 as against $6.25 the year before, ran up 4 points to 125 and also closed near the top. Montana Power was the outstanding individual feature, soaring 7½ points, to 123½. The express shares all recorded substantial gains. Other issues for which there was a strong demand included Continental Can, Fidelity-Phenix Insurance, R. H. Macy, Matheson Alkali, S. S. Kresge, Stewart-Warner, United States Hoffman Machinery, United States Industrial Alcohol and Vanadium Steel.

Profit-taking was most effective in Greene Cananea Copper, International Match preferred and Otis Elevator.

Rails moved within narrow and irregular limits, with a further drop of 4 points in Southern Railway, Mobile & Ohio certificates as the only feature.

Predicts Greater Interest in the Manitoba Mines

WINNIPEG, Jan. 23.—Throughout the North American continent and Europe interest is being taken by mining companies in the discoveries in northern Manitoba adjacent to The Pas, and there will be more intense interest in this area than in any other mining district in Canada because of the wonderful ore bodies, according to J. W. Callinan, well-known mining authority of Toronto.

Mr. Callinan is en route north to make preparations for development work to be undertaken next spring.

The outside interest in the northern Manitoba district is increasing daily, said Mr. Callinan. Nearly all large base metals mining companies in South America, the United States and Europe are sending men into the area.

Northern Manitoba Copper and Zinc Claims Are Sold

WINNIPEG, Jan. 22.—The group of copper zinc claims known as the Smith-McDonald find, three miles west of the Sheritt-Gordon property at Cold Lake, in northern Manitoba, have been purchased by Toronto interests from Malcolm C. McDonald for the sum of $500,000. McDonald and his associates completed the deal with J. W. Callinan of Toronto.

The new owners intend to drill the property at once, it is understood.

DAUGHTER POSES FOR SCULPTOR

Miss Margot Dick, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Dick, Ontario sculptor, posed for her mother, who was making the fine study, "St. John the Baptist," beside which the young model is standing. Many think the new statue is the greatest of the sculptor's distinguished work. The expression on the face of St. John compels interest because of its youthful earnestness, and the shoulders and arms have the muscular leanness of a man who lives in the open.

BLACK TALKED TO TARIFF BODY FUNDAMENTALS

Control Committee Has to Consider Costs of a Complicated Production

PACKING AND FREIGHT MUST BE RECOVERED

Different Markets to Be Weighed; Competitors; System of Distribution

ARTICLE NO. 1.

Receiving from F. M. Black, chairman of the interior tree fruit and vegetable committee of direction, the full text of his submissions to the tariff board on December 9 last, which the dispatches from Ottawa touched only very lightly, The Daily News, regarding them of exceptional interest to the growers of the Kootenay, on account of the complete picture presented of the operations of the "control" that is the pivotal feature of the interior fruit industry this year, proposes to print large excerpts from Mr. Black's testimony before the committee as it deals with various phases. Together, these will comprise very nearly the whole of the "case" presented by Mr. Black.

The first section to be printed is Mr. Black's opening testimony, which, as it happens, presented a condensed enumeration of all the factors entering into the situation that the committee of direction had to account of, and also revealed the committee's conception of its duties.

After the opening compliments, and after it was brought out Mr. Black was asked to testify, not by the tariff board, but by the horticultural council, his examination proceeded:

NO COMMENT ON SEASONAL TARIFF

Mr. Black—Well, sir, in order that this thing might be put before you succinctly, I have taken the liberty of preparing what is a very short brief; that is, I am attempting to give you a skeleton, and the flesh can be hung on later by means of questions if you so desire.

Appearing as I do on behalf of the interior tree fruit and vegetable committee of direction administering the Produce Marketing act of British Columbia, which passed that legislature early in 1927, I do so without comment on the appliaction for a seasonal tariff on fruit. The committee has been seeking to discharge its duties under tariff conditions as it found them and has had no opportunity to formally study details of the application. It understands that the chairman has been asked to be present on this occasion to make a brief statement on the operations of the committee more for the information of the public than of the board, for in the person of Mr. McKenzie you had an able observer in British Columbia last summer. Doubtless he has already reported on what he saw, though I cannot remember that the operations of the committee as such were formally reviewed by him then.

Mr. McKenzie—No, not in any extensive way.

Mr. Black—However, his undoubted knowledge of conditions permits me to condense the present statement into the briefest possible compass, supplemented by certain statements of others and figures which I shall file with the board. May I say here that the conception the committee of direction has of its duties is, I would consider, the conception that the board of railway commissioners have of their duties. We believe ourselves to be a commission charged with the administering of a law. We are not in any sense a selling agency, and while we do set prices and regulate various things, I do not suppose we do it very differently from the way the railway commission performs their duties.

COSTS AGAINST THE FRUIT

Now I proceed to the skeleton which I mentioned to you. There are certain fundamental and permanent conditions applying to fruit raising in the interior of British Columbia:

1. Orchard areas—Involving extensive capital investment per orchard due to (a) cost of land, (b) cost of clearing and planting, (c) years of care and labor before returns possible.

2. Production—Not possible without irrigation, involving heavy annual tax per acre.

3. Recurring annual charges for fertilizing, pruning, thinning and spraying if standards and grades are to be maintained.

4. Fruit—(Exept late winter apples) all a highly perishable product, not all of high grade even in best orchards, all sizes of apples not appectpable on prairie markets, greater or less quantity of culls or windfalls in all orchards, reducing proportion of merchantable commodity.

5. Grading and packing—Must conform to standards set by Dominion.

6. Packing—Must take place before marketing, is a first lien on the fruit, comprises (1) cost of box, (2) labor and cost of wraps; average minimum cost between 45 cents and 50 cents per box of wrapped apples. Other fruits somewhat less. I have given you a very modest estimate there, in fact, I happen to know that the independent packers and shippers have fixed charge this year of 55 cents for packing a box of wrapped apples.

7. Freight is the second lien on fruit, 35 cents to 57 cents per box of apples on the prairies.

Mr. Lambert—To what point?

Mr. Black—The 35 cents covers Alberta, sir, and the 57 cents practically all of Saskatchewan and Manitoba. To eastern Canada it is proportionately higher.

Thus the grower of apples has his fruit pledged for 80 cents to $1.07 per box before being able to expect anything for himself.

THE DIFFERENT MARKETS

Then there is the question of markets:

(a) Domestic.

1. British Columbia—Limited because of coast and local production.

2. Prairies—With minimum rail haul 350 miles; to Winnipeg, say 1000 miles. (Note: This market is frequently very variable in its receptiveness, due to both summer and winter climatic conditions and crop prospects). By that, I mean that during, say, the cherry season, there may be cool or cold weather and heavy rains on the prairies, in which event such a product as cherries would be very limited in their sales.

3. Eastern Canada—Itself a fruit-producing country.

The second division is the foreign market.

Mr. Lambert—Isn't there an enormous quantity of British Columbia fruit sold in the east?

Mr. Black—Yes, sir, happily so for us—5,000 boxes in the province of Quebec this summer.

(b) Foreign.

1. United States—A possible larger market, but highly protected.

2. Great Britain, and

3. Europe, with variable freight rates and uncertain market conditions.

SHIPPERS AND DISTRIBUTING AGENCIES

Then, the third section, distribution in domestic markets.

1. In British Columbia:

Grower may also be a shipper, but usually employs a shipper to pack and ship his fruit.

The shipper may be:

(a) The Associated Growers of British Columbia, a cooperative organization of growers handling about 65 per cent of all supplies; or,

(b) Independent shippers operating on a commercial basis, handling, say, 30 per cent; or,

(c) Grower shippers, handling, say, 5 per cent—these are the small men.

Further distribution is effected outside British Columbia by the brokers, distributing car loads to jobbers; jobbers, distributing by packages to retailers; retailers, distributing by packages or pounds to consumers. Domestic markets, except in years of abnormal crops or large supplies from the United States, appear capable of absorbing all the production with possible exception of (a) cherries, (b) crab-apples, and (c)—always—apples, of which approximately 20 per cent have been exported this year.

(The next installment of Mr. Black's evidence will deal with the conditions that led to the enacting of control).

TRAVELERS ARE ATTENDANTS AT ST. SAVIOUR'S

Archdeacon Graham Tells Them Modern View of Wrong Not Christ's

"KINGDOM OF HEAVEN IS AS A MAN TRAVELS"

Element of Kingdom in Travelers' Work; He Urges Greater Understanding

Declaring moderns took an absolutely opposite view of wrong to the one taken by Christ, letting "wrongs pass us by while we fall heavily upon the wrong-doer," Ven. Archdeacon Fred H. Graham preached a beautiful sermon when the Associated Canadian Travelers of Nelson paraded to St. Saviour's church last night. With a big congregation, as well as the Travelers, the church was packed.

"Our Lord never bore upon the wrongs of the individual, but upon the wrong in the mass. He endeavored to right the wrong, not to crush the individual. He made no dividing line between good and bad, but saw the good and bad in all," asserted the archdeacon.

URGES UNDERSTANDING

The speaker urged greater common understanding. The whole of Christianity, he declared, was contained in these words: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God," and "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

Christ carried about with him "the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man."

"The kingdom of heaven is as a man travels." This was the basis of Archdeacon Graham's sermon. He told of the opportunities afforded commercial travellers to broaden their lives and thoughts by contact with their fellows.

There was an element of the kingdom of heaven in the travellers' work in its necessary cheerfuness, its honesty and hard work.

"It's not what we say, but what we are," he told the congregation.

NEAR THREE INCHES SNOW OVER WEEK-END

A fine powder-like snow, starting early Saturday morning, fell all that day and practically all day yesterday to a total of 2.8 inches. By 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, .9 inch had fallen, 1.9 inch falling in the 24-hour period ending 5 p.m. yesterday.

The temperatures over the week-end were little different from those experienced for the last week. The minimum on Saturday was 19, and the maximum 25, while yesterday the minimum was 20 and the maximum 26.

CAPT. LINDSAY, LATE AIRMAN, DIES, TAHITI

Young War Ace Lived at Boswell With Capt. Roland Ellis for Some Years

Death has ocurred in Tahiti, in the South Seas, of Captain Reginald Lindsay, well known in Nelson and Boswell, according to word received in Nelson.

Captain Lindsay, a British flying ace in the war, became known here through his association for some years with Captain Roland Ellis, at whose late place at Boswell he was a well-known figure. He was a talented gardener, an amateur chef, and an art-lover generally, and had traveled widely in Europe. While associated after the war with Captain Ellis, he participated in various trips, including one to the orient, one around the world, and one to the Society Islands in the South Seas.

He died at Papeete, the capital of Tahiti, largest of the Society Islands, in his early 30s.

ESCAPED POLITICAL PRISONER TAKEN

DUBLIN, Jan. 22.—James Nugent, a wounded political prisoner, who made a dramatic escape from St. Bricin's military hospital early Saturday, was recaptured 12 hours later at Callan, Kilkenny, 20 miles from his birthplace, Clonmel.

Nugent was assisted in his flight by two armed men, who cropt into the dimly lighted hospital ward on hands and knees and bundled him into street clothes. A guard, who was aroused by the noise, interrupted the men, who opened fire on him with revolvers. The guard threw himself on the floor and returned the fire, but the three men fled.

Nugent was one of a number of Republican prisoners who escaped from Mount Joy prison in 1925 and was recaptured in Clonmel, December 21, after a struggle in which he was shot in the hip.
