HINTS BRITISH POLITICS MIGHT BREAK, GROUPS

Divisions Like Continental System Are Possible

MOVEMENT OF THE LEADERS SUSPECTED

Simon, Churchill, George Are All Named in Prophesy

LONDON, Feb. 1.—(C. P. cable)—"Is Britain's political system in danger of breaking into small groups, after the manner of continental politics?"—this question, which has been discussed in political circles for months has been afforded fresh and significant impulse by the events of the last week or so.

There has been the persistent demand by a section of the parliamentary Laborites, led by Sir Oswald Mosley, for a national conference on unemployment and for a general energizing and vitalizing of the government's attitude towards this greatest of Britain's present-day problems at home. Sir Oswald, incidentally, is coming more and more to be regarded as one of Britain's men of the future and his name has been coupled frequently with a future prime ministership. Since he resigned the chancellorship of the Duchy of Lancaster last year, when Prime Minister MacDonald and Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas refused to entertain his solution for unemployment, Sir Oswald has been prodding the government without ceasing though he has maintained his adherence when victory or defeat in the house of commons was at stake.

A few weeks ago Sir Oswald Mosley cited Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George as the only one of the three leaders who retained his youth in

THINKS 12-MILE LIMIT CLAUSE IS NOT BINDING

M P. Says Searching Ships Outside Three-Mile Limit Is "Bunkum"

LUNENBURG, N. S., Feb. 1.—(CP)—That in his opinion the provision of a 12-mile limit in the liquor treaty agreed to by the British and United States governments with the concurrence of Canada was not binding because no such provision dealing with the high seas outside the three-mile limit could be made by these governments unless every nation agreed, was the statement made yesterday by Will Duff, representing Antigonish-Guysboro in the Dominion parliament and prominent in the fishing industry of this port.

Discussing the shelling of the motorship Josephine K. by the United States coast guard, Mr. Duff said there was no such thing as a 12-mile limit, and all this talk in the last several years about the United States authorities having power to search ships of other nations outside the three-mile limit is "all bunkum."

APPOINTMENT OF GOVERNOR-GENERAL NEXT

Premier R. B. Bennett Confronted With Many Problems, Ottawa

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 1. (CP)—With the return of Premier R. B. Bennett from his Washington visit Tuesday the government will be busily engaged in preparing the legislative program for the coming session of parliament. A number of important appointments are still to be made, and in the next few weeks may see the filling of several vacancies in the higher ranks of government service. Overshadowing all, of course, is the selection of the governor-general. This appointment, however, is not made in Ottawa, but by the king after consultation with the government here.

BY-ELECTIONS IN ONTARIO ARE TREAT TO ALL

TORONTO, Feb. 1 (CP)—Ontario's two by-elections, to be held on Feb. 11, are providing a treat to the "faithful" of both the old line parties. Nominations for West Hamilton and Grenville went through according to schedule yesterday, and in both seats there will be a straight fight between Conservative and Liberal candidates.

FOOD POISONING CLAIMS LIVES NINE PERSONS

GRAFTON, N. D., Feb. 1.—Nine Grafton residents died last night and today from what doctors have identified as botulism, a form of food poisoning.

Three other persons are ill from the same malady, and are not expected to recover, said Dr. G. W. Glaspel, public health officer, who has taken charge of the cases.

The 12 became ill Friday after attending a party at the Edward Hein farm home, two miles from here. Home preserved peas used in a salad are believed to have contained the poison.

MINISTER CALLS SKIPPER'S DEATH MURDER AT SEA

Makes Short Address at Funeral of Rum-Runner Captain

LUNENBURG, N. S., Feb. 1.—(By Charles Bruce, Canadian Press staff writer) — Declaring the death of Captain William Cluett to be "nothing more or less than murder on the high seas," Rev. Major W. E. Ryder, in a brief address in the course of the public funeral service here today pointed to the death of the Josephine K.'s captain as "one of the inevitable tragedies that follow the hypocrisy of prohibition."

Making clear that he was not justifying the business in which Captain Cluett was engaged when the United States coast guard fired on his vessel off Ambrose light a week ago, the rector voiced a demand for "fair play and justice."

"This tragedy must not be hushed up," he declared. "Incidents of this sort are becoming almost a daily occurrence. They are evidence of the futility of trying to make a country dry by prohibition. I am confident that British justice will see fair play meted out."

PLANE CRASHES AT LETHBRIDGE; TWO ARE KILLED

Hurtles Earthward in Plain View of 3000 Spectators at Ball Game

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Feb. 1.—Hurtling earthward in full view of 3000 fans watching a baseball game, a light Moth airplane crashed here this afternoon and carried two young men to instant death.

The dead are Ivan Thompson, 19, pilot, son of Major O. Thompson, acting physician to the Royal Canadian Mounted police in Lethbridge, and Donald McKenzie, 18, passenger, son of Alderman W. L. McKenzie.

The plane was owned by the Southern Alberta Air Lines, limited, with headquarters in Lethbridge, but was operated by the Lethbridge Flying club.

GOT COMMERCIAL LICENSE RECENTLY

Thompson, the pilot, was recently awarded his commercial flying license and was taking his friend for a short flight when the accident occurred. A good take-off had been made and the plane was mounting at a slow rate of speed when it crashed, between 300 and 500 feet off the ground.

Eye-witnesses said that Thompson had attempted to bank but the plane went into a tailspin instead.

Fans att he baseball game saw the plane as it climbed into the air but a few minutes after it had fallen to the ground every seat was forsaken and the game had to be cancelled, players and all going to the scene of the wreck.

Local officials stated that a complete investigation will be made and that government officials had been notified of the crash.

Both victims of the crash were well known in Lethbridge.

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 1 (C P cable via Reuters)—A serious reverse for the Scullin Labor government was seen today in the victory of the Nationalist (opposition) party in the Parkes consituency by-election. The Nationalist candidate, Marr, captured the seat from Labor by a majority of 8833 votes, notwithstanding the fact that Prime Minister J. H. Scullin took an active part in the campaign.

LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands, Feb. 1.—The German seaplane DO-X landed in the harbor here at 3:10 this afternoon after a flight of 715 miles from Lisbon, where she departed at 3:10 this morning. She will stay here overnight to check the engines and then take off for Cape Verde islands, 850 miles away. From there the long water hop of 1300 miles to Brazil commences.

LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands, Feb. 1. (AP)—The German seaplane DO-X postponed the second leg of its flight to Brazil until tomorrow because of rough seas, cloudiness and generally unfavorable weather conditions.

SECESSION IS NOT APPROVED BY THE U F C

Find That Only Eight Men Issued the Ultimatum

30,000 MEMBERS HAD NOT APPROVED

Report, January 10, Said Meeting Largely Attended

WILKIE, Sask., Feb. 1. (CP)—Only executive members of the Farmers' Charter of Liberty movement, which advocates the formation of a cooperative free trade commonwealth in Saskatchewan, with such of the provinces as wish to join, unless the Dominion government takes immediate action to relieve the present agricultural crisis, attended the meeting held here on January 10.

At this meeting the charter of liberty, based on a resolution adopted at a previous meeting here and at a conference in the central office of the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, in Saskatoon, was approved.

A report of the Wilkie executive members' conference had implied that the meeting was largely attended. Investigation by the Canadian Press now shows that only eight men were in attendance.

Those present, according to a statement obtained here, were Joseph Phelps, of Wilkie, director of the U. F. C. district; George P. Stirling, former U. F. C. publicity director; Waldo Summer, of Dods-

PROPELLER FLIES OFF IN MID-AIR BUT PILOT LANDS

OTTAWA, Feb. 1 (CP)—His airplane converted into a glider when the propeller dropped off near a cemetery here today, A. P. Lapointe, Ottawa Flying club member, flew his plane a mile to Rockcliffe aerodrome and landed unhurt.

The pilot, who had not flown solo for more than a year, displayed unusual skill and coolness in keeping his plane out of a tail spin. He dived toward the ground, levelled off and with the aid of a 65-mile wind and clever flying, brought the machine in unaided. The propeller crashed through the roof of a barn.

ECKMANN SAFE ONCE MORE IN RETURN, COAST

VICTORIA, B. C., Feb. 1.—Ancell Eckmann, Alaska-Washington Airways flyer, for whom fears were felt when he was not heard of since leaving Ketchikan Thursday, reached Victoria this afternoon after three weeks' search for Pilot Renahan and friends, lost last November. Fog forced Eckmann to make a forced landing last night and wait until this morning to continue his flight to Victoria.

Court Registrar Townsend Dies Suddenly, Los Angeles While Visiting Daughter

Popular Official in Provincial Civil Service 38 Years

BEGAN IN ROSSLAND: BROUGHT TO NELSON

Keen Participant in and Follower of Sport: to Be Buried Here

Succumbing to a brain hemorrhage that followed an attack of the flu, Herbert R. Townsend, registrar of the supreme court at Nelson, died Friday night at Los Angeles without recovering consciousness. News of his death was received from his daughter, Miss Helen Townsend, whom with his wife he was visiting. The wires were addressed to members of the family, and to John Cartmel, government agent.

Burial will be at Nelson, at a date yet to be fixed, and Mrs. Townsend and her daughter, bringing the body, were already at Sacramento Saturday, according to a wire received by Mr. Cartmel. It is possible for them to reach Nelson by Tuesday night.

OFFICIAL 38 YEARS

Mr. Townsend, who had just turned 62 years, and who left for his southern holiday shortly before Christmas, was a widely known and popular provincial official. In civil service circles in Nelson it is accepted that he has been for 38 years in the government service.

Born in New Westminster, and going to school in Victoria, young Townsend moved with his family to Rossland, which he could recall when it consisted of "one shack." His father, Ridley Townsend, was a broker, was justice of the peace, and from time to time relieved the magistrate of the day in Rossland police court. The elder Townsend was killed when a Great Northern train was wrecked at Beaver canyon, near Erie, in the Salmon valley, some 25 years ago.

Thus a resident of Rossland, "Bert" Townsend was in his early twenties when he was first appointed to the civil service, and was registrar of the supreme court for the Rossland-Trail sub-district for some 20 years. About the time of the war he succeeded to the post of government agent and gold commissioner while still discharging his court duties. On the superannuation of T. M. Bowman, as registrar of the supreme court at Nelson, Mr. Townsend was transferred here to assume that office, moving here May 7, 1922.

Had Mr. Townsend lived, he would have been eligible shortly for superannuation.

ACTIVE IN SPORT

Throughout his life Mr. Townsend was engaged in or was interested in athletic sports. He played lacrosse in New Westminster, was a tennis addict all his life, was an enthusiastic curler and golfer, and was a warm patron of hockey. He was also known in the hunting field, with both rifle and shotgun.

Mr. Townsend is survived by his widow, and by three children—a daughter, Mrs. Archie Gray, of Salmo; a daughter, Miss Helen Townsend, of Los Angeles; and a son, Herbert Townsend, who lived with his parents in Nelson.

MINISTER LOST IN NORTHLAND FINALLY FOUND

EDMONTON, Alta., Feb. 1.—Rev. J. H. Webster, Anglican missionary at Coppermine, lost for almost seven days on the Arctic ice fields, was found Friday morning by Eskimo searchers in an exhausted and badly-frost-bitten condition, according to meagre reports received here.

The young missionary, who first went into the north country in 1926, left Coppermine a week ago to visit the Eskimo sealing camps, the first of which was located 10 miles from Coppermine.

Two days later the lead-dog of his team made his way into an Esimo camp and the natives immediately started to search for the mission worker.

Rev. Webster is a graduate of the University of Saskatchewan, Anglican college, class of 1928.

THE PAS FIRE DOES DAMAGE EXTENT $25,000

THE PAS, Man., Feb. 1.—Fire early today caused damage estimated at $25,000 in the business section of The Pas. Firemen battled the blaze for more than five hours, flames threatening for a time to sweep along the main street's line of frame buildings.

MONTREAL, Feb. 1—A request that substitutes be allowed in matches in the province will be forwarded to the Dominion Football association as a result of a discussion on this subject at the annual general meeting of the province of Quebec Football association held yesterday afternoon.

DAYS OF THE INDIAN MUTINY ARE RECALLED BY FIGHTING AFTER A MOSLEM TEACHER COOKS MEAL BEEF

Hindus and Sikhs Are on Rampage: Moslems Throw Beef into Temples

RAWALPINDI, Punjab, India, Feb. 1.—(C. P. cable via euters)—The leaves of the book of India were turned back, in a sense, today to the page of the Indian mutiny.

A Moslem teacher, living in a boarding house, cooked a meal of beef today in a village some 40 miles from here. Hindus and Sikhs, to whom the cow is sacred, protested; the teacher sought Moslem assistance and before the wild riot which succeeded was over a Sikh officer had been burned alive and scores of persons had been injured.

The infuriated Moslems who answered the teacher's call came from adjoining communities. They looted the village, set fire to shops and threw all the beef they could find into Hindu temples—the supreme insult.

Then began terrific fighting and the Sikh was burned alive by Moslems. Quiet was not restored until a deputy district commissioner and a police superintendent took a large force into the district from Rawalpindi.

HOPE GIVEN UP FOR IMMEDIATE PEACE, INDIA

Gandhi and Colleagues Vote for Disobedience

PICKETING WILL BE CONTINUED

Second Round Table Confidence Is Impossible

ALLAHABAD, India, Feb. 1 (AP)—(By James H. Bills)—Mahatma Gandi and his colleagues in the working committee of the all-Indian National Congress, who were released from prison last week to confer on Premier Ramsay MacDonald's offer for qualified Dominion status for India, voted unequivocally today for continuance of their civil resistance campaign. Thus all hope for immediate peace in India was abandoned.

Gandhi has declared all along that all political prisoners must be released before the Nationalists will treat with the government, and the principal resolution adopted today embodied the demand for the freedom of these prisoners.

Other resolutions declared for continuance of the Nationalist activities which were begun almost a year ago—for the picketing of foreign cloth, narcotic and liquor shops; for the right of the people to make their own salt, and for withdrawal of "repressive government measures" against Nationalist activities.

It was clear from today's decision of the working committee that under existing conditions the congress will have nothing to do with a second round table conference to be held in India, as envisaged by Mr. MacDonald.

It is considered even doubtful whether Gandhi and his associates will treat with the Indian delegates returning from the London round table meeting unless the latter recognize the demands formulated by the working committee as a condition precedent to peace.

Unless, therefore, Mr. MacDonald

PASSENGERS ARE TAKEN SAFELY FROM STEAMER

Vessel Bound From Vancouver to Tokio Collides With Another in Fog

TOKIO, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Seventeen passengers were successfully taken aboard the steamer Takao Maru after she collided in a fog with the steamer Arabia Maru off the mouth of Tokio bay shortly after noon today.

The Arabia Maru for a time seemed in danger of sinking, but she steamed full speed ahead to shallow water. Her crew of about 87 remained aboard.

A survey showed the Arabia Maru received a hole in her side above the waterline and one hatch was leaking. The vessel was in no danger, however, officials of the Osaka Shosen Kaisha, owners of both vessels, said.

The Arabia Maru was inbound from Vancouver, British Columbia, and the Takao Maru outbound from Yokohama when they collided.

Work of unloading the Arabia Maru's cargo was started soon after she reached shallow water. Her cargo consisted of wheat, lumber, 30 automobiles and salt fish from Vancouver.

LEGS OF TWO MEN PIERCED BY ONE BULLET

EDMONTON, Alta., Feb. 1—Oscar Carlson and Claus Steen, each shot through one leg by a single bullet fired by Viggo Neilson, trapper, who believed that he was shooting at a deer, were brought to the city Saturday from House river, approximately 260 miles north of the city, in a Western Canada Airways monoplane.

The injured men were taken to the University hospital where their condition is reported as excellent. Walter E. Gilbert piloted the airplane which brought them here.

McKNIGHT ABLE TO TAKE SEAT SASKATCHEWAN

ESTEVAN, Sask., Feb. 1 (CP)—David McKnight, Conservative, yesterday became eligible to sit in the provincial legislature as a supporter of Premier J. T. M. Anderson. Elected by a majority of 13 after a recount had been held, following Estevan's by-election last December, the Conservative candidate applied to Judge E. R. Wylie for abrogation of recount proceedings. Yesterday, he requests that his application be withdrawn and Judge Wylie decided in his favor.

HIT TWICE BY TRAIN, TWO OF FOUR ARE ALIVE

CLAREMONT, Mass., Feb. 1—A week end trip of four Williams college seniors ended last night with two dead and the other injured after their automobile ran into one train and was tossed back into the path of another locomotive.

Alan Livingston Grosvenor, of Hartford, Conn., died on the way to the North Adams hospital and Paul M. Brandagee of Farmington, Conn., was taken to the Franklyn County hospital in Greenfield, where he died soon after the accident.

ENGINEER KILLED WHEN FLUNG FROM SIDE LOCOMOTIVE

Loses Balance While Oiling Throttle From the Running Board

DEVILLE, Alta., Feb. 1—Falling from the running board of a locomotive near here today as he was oiling the throttle shaft, Engineer A. B. McGillivray, of Edmonton, Alta., was almost instantly killed. The engineer lost his balance as the train, No. 2 eastbound, Canadian National railways, rounded a curve.

An engineer named Bachelor who was riding in the train as a passenger took over the throttle after the fatality. The regular fireman was operating the locomotive when McGillivray was killed.

The body was taken to Tofield, a junction of National lines and an inquest will be opened here Monday.

BASEBALL, GOLF BEING PLAYED ON THE PRAIRIE

Mercury Stands Well Up Toward Summer Heat in Cities

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 1.—(CP)—Summer time sporting events crowded winter pastimes from the fans' week-end program in western Canada.

In Alberta, baseball games took the boys to the corner lots, the hot stove leaguers adjourning to the outside to finish some of their wintry arguments.

Golfers invaded the links to put in practice the "perfect drives" talked of before the southern breezes dashed across the prairies.

And, too, the "hikers" abandoned the customary snow-shoes for heavy brogues in their cross-country hikes.

The mercury stood high in both Saskatchewan and Alberta, Lethbridge, to the south of Calgary, and Swift Current, Sask., were in a draw for a top mark of 58 above zero. Calgary was close behind with 54. It was still mild in Manitoba, but not quite as warm as the neighboring provinces, Winnipeg holding the high mark with 30 above.

"Fair and continued mild" was the forecast for tomorrow.

PREMIER BENNETT CONCLUDES VISIT TO WASHINGTON

No Inkling of Conferences With State Heads Has Leaked Out

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1. (By Ken Clark, Canadian Press staff writer) — Canadian-American relations and problems confronting the two countries were the subjects of informal discussions between Premier R. B. Bennett and official Washington during Mr. Bennett's two and a half day visit here. The prime minister, accompanied by W. D. Herridge, of Ottawa, left Washington at 3:50 o'clock this afternoon, New York bound.

No inkling of the conversational exchanges was allowed to escape, but the fact that the prime minister saw not only the president and the secretary of state, but also the United States authorities of commerce, power and finance, suggests that discussions covered a wide territory, and that events of moment may be in the air.

COMMUNISM HOLDS SWAY IN PRAIRIE FARMER'S MEETING

SASKATOON, Sask., Feb. 1—Refusal to sing "God Save the King" and substitution of "The Internationale" for the National Anthem featured a secessionist meeting of farmers at Steeldale, Sask.

The red flag of Communism was prominently displayed in a sketch, "labor vs capital," which was given at the session, called by the Farmers' Unity league.

Request to close the meeting with the national anthem was refused by the chairman, and the man who made the suggestion stood up and sang "The King" alone. Police were present as observers.

BOARD INQUIRY ON JOSEPHINE K CASE DECIDES

Mate Karl Schmidt of Cutter Acted Within Rights

RUM-RUNNER WAS IN 12-MILE LIMIT

Coast of United States Is Immaterial in Situation

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1. (By Ken Clark, Canadian Press staff writer) — The Canadian government has been informed that a United States coast guard board of inquiry upholds the action of Boatswain's Mate Karl Schmidt in taking with violence the Canadian rum-runner Josephine K., and in firing on the vessel with the resulting death of her master, Captain William P. Cluett, of Lunenburg, N. S.

Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury, describing the coast guard report, said, "The board found that the Josephine K. was discovered by Schmidt, in charge of coast guard patrol boat CG-148, in the act of transferring liquor to an American vessel, within 12 miles of the coast of the United States."

IMPORTANT QUESTIONS RAISED

Two important questions are raised by the publication of Lowman's summary of the report. First, how far out was the Josephine K. when she was first observed and how far was she from shore when she was fired upon? Second, in

ABANDON HOPE FOR PEACE IN BRITISH INDIA

Is Result of Resolutions Passed by the Working Committee, Congress

ALLAHABAD, India., Feb. 1 (AP) All hope of immediate peace in India was abandoned today as a result of the passage of the resolution of the working committee of the all-Indian National Congress declaring unequivocally for continuance of the civil disobedience program.

The resolutions adopted also declared the release of all political prisoners, picketing of cloth, drug and liquor shops; the right of peasants to make their own salt; and withdrawal of repressive government measures against Nationalist activities.

It is believed certain that these conditions, which were formulated by Mahatma Gandhi in consultation with his associates, will be rejected by the government.

MUST DIE FOR THE MURDER OF UNKNOWN MAN

NORTHAMPTON, Eng., Feb. 1—(AP)—For the first time in 145 years a Briton was sentenced to hang yesterday for the murder of a man whose identity has not been learned.

Alfred Arthur Rouse, a travelling salesman, was sentenced to die on the gallows for the murder of an unidentified man whose charred body was found in Rouse's burned automobile on a lonely road near here last November. The prosecution suggested that Rouse had hoped the body would be identified as his own and that he would disappear and escape the consequences of his own armorous dalliances.

The last case of this kind was in 1786 when a sailor was killed in Portsmouth road near Hinhaid. His name was never learned but three men were hanged in chains at the scene of the crime.

McHUGH INDICTED FOR MURDER TAXI COMPANY CASHIER

MONTREAL, Feb. 1 (CP)—Thomas McHugh was indicted for murder while Maurice Polsmans, Carman Lefebre and Amy Irish were charged as accomplices, at their arraignment yesterday on charges arising out of the shooting to death last Monday morning of Arthur G. Reid, cashier for a Montreal taxicab company. All were remanded for preliminary hearing February 6.

Reid was shot by a lone gunman when the cashier refused to give up the keys to some $15,000 in cash in his office. Polsmans, a former employee of the company, was the first arrested and named McHugh as the gunman. The two women were companions of the men.

SUPREME COURT HAS HEAVY LIST CASES TO HEAR

Will Decide Whether Committee Direction Can Regulate Fruit Sales

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 1.—(CP)—The supreme court of Canada will open its winter sitting Tuesday when it is expected two important decisions will be handed down. One will be on the reference from Dominion government and the government of the province of Saskatchewan in regard to the return of the natural resources to that province. A series of questions was submitted to the court. The principal point the court was asked to decide was whether the Dominion must account to the province for any natural resources sold before September 1, 1905, when the province was organized.

The province of Alberta associated itself with Saskatchewan in this reference so that any advantage accruing to one province will be applicable to the other.

Another decision of widespread effect, particularly in British Columbia, will be that of A. C. Lawson vs. Interior Tree Fruit and Vegetable Committee of Direction. This committee was formed under the produce marketing act in British Columbia, and the case will decide whether the committee has power to regulate the marketing of fruits and vegetables in a section of the province.

The list of cases to be heard by the court is a heavy one and totals 36.

The first case on the list is the reference by the board of railway commissioners as to wharfage charges at Vancouver.

SECESSION WAS NOT APPROVED BY THE U. F. C.

WAS PROMINENT ORGANIZER

Stirling, prominent for years in agrarian organizing in the west, is the best known of those linked with the charter. About a decade ago, he was secretary of the old Non-Partisan league in southern Saskatchewan, now defunct. At that time Summers worked with Stirling as field man, and since then he has been associated with western farm movements, and has done some organizing in the United States.

Petitions, based on the charter of liberty, are being circulated throughout the Wilkie district, in northwest Saskatchewan. The signatures of farmers and business men are being sought.

The initial movement of the chartists developed at a United Farmers of Canada meeting held at Wolfe, near here, on December 16. The idea was suggested by a secession resolution passed some time previous at Wynard, Sask. Phelps and Stirling attended, and drew up the resolution which was adopted at the Wilkie meeting. Later, a meeting was held in the U. F. C. office in Saskatoon, attended by Waldo Summers, and an official of the U. F. C., whose name has not been divulged, also by Stirling and Phelps.

The latter two drew up the charter into the form in which it reached a meeting of U. F. C. district executives in Wilkie on January 10. The executives reviewed and approved the charter as an expression of opinion at the former Wilkie meeting, and the chartists' movement was placed almost immediately under way.

While all five articles of the charter, demanded from the government under threat of secession, are approved by U. F. C. policies, no official of the 30,000-member Saskatchewan farm organization has approved the charter. All state the charter will come before the annual convention in Saskatoon this month and that the U. F. C. attitude will then be decided.

The charter demands: A fixed wheat price; abolition of grain exchanges and establishment of a 100 per cent pool; nationalization of currency, credit and natural resources; national crop insurance and establishment of a board of standards to set up proper relationship between prices of farm products and commodities purchased by farmers.

Cramps Doubled Him Up

TANLAC Stopped All That

Mr. Alex. Krenbrenk, of Clavet, Sask., suffered terribly with his stomach. Constant indigestion brought on severe stomach cramps that just about doubled him up with the pain. He was not getting any nourishment out of the food he ate. He lost weight and was so weak and miserable that he could not work.

Then a friend told him to try TANLAC. He did—and now Mr. Krenbrenk says, "I feel like myself again. I digest my meals and the cramps are gone for good."

That's the way TANLAC acts every time. It tones up the whole digestive system—stops pain after eating, bloating, gas—makes you want to eat and relish what you do eat—gives you the energy to wipe out that dangerous weakness and tiredness—and re-builds your shattered nerves.

More than 55 million bottles of TANLAC have been sold—over 100,000 endorsements have been received.

Get a bottle today at your druggist's. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

"THREE ON ONE"

Three young men of North Cobalt started out Monday, January 25, on a pair of giant skiis, which accommodates the three of them, on a hike to Toronto, Ont., which they expect to accomplish in eight or 10 days. They will make stops at Temagami and North Bay. Their rate of travel, they think, will be 35 to 40 miles a day. Above shows: (1) The trio on their pair of seven-league boot skiis. Left to right: "Ken" Kearney, "Jim" McCauley and "Dub" Stoughton. (2) Some trio closeups. Left to right: "Dube," "Ken" and "Jim;" and (3) Map indicating route they will take in ski trip from North Cobalt to Toronto.

$150,000 FIRE GUTS BUSINESS BLOCK IN SASKATOON

SASKATOON, Sask., Feb. 1—The Ferguson block, landmark of the early days here, and housing the Daylight apartments, the Willson Stationary company, the Silver Gray cafe and Len Hillyard's photo finishing plant, was gutted by fire early this morning with a loss estimated at $150,000. The building may be a total loss.

view of the fact that the CG-145 was proved in test off New York to be faster than the Josephine K., was the firing justified?

The coast of the United States appears to be immaterial in the international situation. The United States claims customs jurisdiction within 12 miles of her coast, but this is a domestic law, and there is no international convention to support it.

The anti-smuggling treaty between Canada and the United States specifically gives the right of search and seizure up to within an hour's sailing distance of the coast. The New York test proved the Josephine K. capable of doing not more than 9.55 knots. It is hinted that she was more than 9.55 miles from the coast when she was observed, and in such case Ottawa would have every right to press the issue under the anti-smuggling treaty.

It will be remembered that in the famous I'm Alone case the point of unnecessary violence has made by Ottawa. This question obviously arises from the discovery that the CG-145 could do 11.15 knots, a refutation of the testimony of Boatswain Schmidt that the Josephine K. was going away when the firing took place.

Far from clearing up the case and concluding the incident of the night of January 24 off New York, Lowman's account of the board's inquiry with the omission of the exact distance from shore at which the affair occurred seems merely to confuse the issue.

The board's conclusions, according to Lowman, were:

"The board found that the Josephine K. was discovered by Boatswain Karl Schmidt, in charge of coast patrol boat CG-145, in the act of transferring liquor to an American vessel within 12 miles of the coast of the United States, Boatswain Schmidt had hoisted his coast guard ensign and pennant. The Josephine K. immediately fled in the darkness, and, without lights, was pursued by the CG-145. The coast guard patrol boat hailed the Josephine K., sounded the Klaxon repeatedly, lighted her distinguishing flag and pennant, and finally fired three blank warning shots.

"The Josephine K. did not stop, and the CG-145 fired three solid shots, well clear of her. As these also failed to stop the Josephine K., Boatswain Schmidt was compelled to fire into the rum-runner, in an attempt to stop her. Two solid shots were fired, whereupon the rum-runner stopped.

"The board found that all the positions involved in the sighting of the Josephine K., the chase, and the surrender, were clearly with 12 miles of the coast of the United States.

"The testimony shows that Boatswain Schmidt acted promptly and efficiently, and with rare presence of mind, to secure medical attention for the wounded captain of the rum-runner. The allegations of certain of the crew of the rum-runner that Boatswain Schmidt was intoxicated were undoubtedly false, and intended simply to discredit the government officer."

BUTLER AND OLD COLLEAGUE ON OPPOSITE SIDES

Fighting Marine Must Face Capt. Watts in Court-martial

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1—(AP) — Two colorful personalities who worked side by side in the navy department years ago will be pitted against each other in the courtmartial of Major General Smedley D. Butler.

Captain William C. Watts, prosecution counsel, and Major Henry Leonard, one of those who will defend the outspoken marine, were together in the navy judge advocate general's office back in 1913.

Watts was judge advocate general and Leonard was his assistant.

They untangled many naval legal problems together.

Butler, who was ordered courtmartialed for remarks he was quoted as making about Premier Mussolini of Italy, remained in seclusion today at the Quantico, Va., marine base as he awaited word of the charges against him.

HINTS BRITISH SYSTEM POLITICS MIGHT BREAK UP

the matter of initiative and purposeful energy. This, and other compliments, were taken, at the time, as a possible sounding of the Liberal leader. And at about the same time Mr. Lloyd George threw more piquancy into the situation by having luncheon with several Conservative members who were not considered strong in their allegiance for their own party leadership.

The last week has seen Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill stand out strongly against the government's yielding policy in India and take issue with the members of his own party who arose in the commons, one after another, to praise and support the issue of the round-table conference. And, from this divergence, the similarity between certain of his views and those of the newspaper magnates, Lords Beaverbrook and Rothermere, and from the fact that Mr. Churchill appeared a day later on the same platform as Lord Rothermere's son and heir, Hon. Edmond Harmsworth, there sprung the query: Would Churchill throw in his lot with the Fleet street Empire free-trade section of the party?

The latest 'rebel' in the house is Sir John Simon, who said openly in the house last night that he reserved the right to personal decision on all issues of the day and urged the Liberals to maintain their independence, voting as they thought right instead of "fetching and carrying" for the Laborites.

Not one of the three major parties, it is frequently pointed out, can today claim any real solidarity within its ranks. Mr. Baldwin, in person and policies, has his opponents within the fold; Mr. Lloyd George, ditto as regards the Liberals, while Prime Minister MacDonald and his cabinet face the periodical outbursts of the Maxtonites and the insistent demands of the Mosleyites.

All of which led one politician, over the week-end, to remark that, if policies were parties today in the house of commons and the members voted as they spoke in private there would probably be a dozen parties and a dozen leaders on the floor, while if new alliances instead of new divisions were the order, Mr. Lloyd George and Sir Oswald Mosley might be found hand in hand; Sir John Simon might move to the Conservative camp and Mr. Churchill might sally forth as the leader of a new hope with powerful allies at his back.

FIRE DOES $300,000 DAMAGE, MONTREAL

MONTREAL, Feb. 1—Two fires within a few hours of each other this morning caused $300,000 damage to the wholesale grocery firm of D. C. Brosseau and Company, drove 150 homeless men from the adjacent Notre Dame de la Mercie refuge, and caused considerable damage from smoke and water to the premises of Le Devoir, French language daily newspaper. St. Nicholas cathedral also suffered slightly from smoke and water.

capitulates on these latest demands —which is considered altogether improbably at present—it is believed here that the unrest, uncertainty and economic stagnation resultant from the congress program must continue indefinitely.

In the meantime Great Britain will deal with that section of the Indian people not within the orbit of congress influence in the hope that they will accept the offer of Indian provincial autonomy within the British Empire, accompanied by safeguards.

The only ray of hope appearing now in India's darkened horizon is a meeting scheduled at Bombay this week between Gandhi and associated and the federation of Indian chambers of commerce.

The representatives of "big business" embraced in this powerful organization may succeed in persuading the wizened little mahatma to modify his demands—or, at least, to call an armistice that the MacDonald proposals may be discussed in a quiet and dispassionate atmosphere.

ROSSLAND, TRAIL SCHOOLS DIVIDE BASKET HONORS

Trail Girls Win 32-4: Rossland Boys Score High, 21-14

TRAIL, B. C., Feb. 1—Rossland and Trail school basketball teams divided honors in girls' and boys' games at the Memorial hall Saturday morning, Trail girls and Rossland boys winning.

Trail girls won their game 32-4. They held a lead of 8-0 at the end of the first quarter. In the second quarter the second string of five players went on, G. Mandeville scoring 10 points to make it 20-0.

Rossland scored two baskets in the third while Trail added six points.

The final quarter saw the Trail first string giving a wonderful exhibition of offensive and defensive play forgetting the basket.

Rossland started the scoring in the boys' game and the quarter ended with the visitors leading 8-1. They increased the lead to 14-3 at half time. Zinio, who played hockey before starting on basketball, was benched and the smaller man who took his place, was unable to fill the job.

The second half, after a "pep talk" Trail boys started to work and when the third quarter ended they were only two points behind with the score 14-12.

Rossland swept through in the last quarter, scoring even point to Trail's two to make the final tally 21-14.

An effort is being made to arrange games with Nelson in the near future.

The teams were:

Rossland— N. Purcello (2), G. Palmquist (2), M. Hale, B. Wright, J. Bourdon, K. Sanderson, L. Jones, D. Irvin, J. Morrison and A. Lins.

Trail—M. Drapaka (2), C. Mandeville (10), J. Davidson (10) M. Smith, (2), I. Moorcroft (2), E. Baillie, L. Cooper (6), C. Ringwood, M. Honchar and L. Girard.

Referee—Magnus Lunde.

Scorer —N. Angerilli.

Trail—M. Sammartino (4), A. D. Archangelo (2), B. Turik, G. Orlando, J. Zinio, O. Battistella (2), T. Wyatt, N. Baldassi (6).

Rossland—M. Purcello (10), H. Mathew N. Zanussi, B. Martin (1), L. Brown (6), A. Laface (4), S. Simcock, M. Delich and H. Beaulieu.

YEAR IS ONE OF MOST IMPORTANT TO SOVIET RUSSIA

Head Economic Council Says Must Buy $410,000,000 Farm Machinery

MOSCOW, Feb. 1—G. D. Ordjonikidze, president of the supreme economic council, today told a conference of Soviet industrial engineers that 1931 is the most important year thus far in the five year plan for industrialization of the Soviet union.

During this year, he said, there must be produced 83 million tons of coal, 25 million tons of oil and eight million tons of pigiron.

Agricultural machinery valued at $410,000,000 must be purchased.

PILOT McMILLAN HAS SAFE FLIGHT

VANCOUVER, B. C., Feb. 1.—Pilot Stan McMillan, who hopped off Tuesday from Fort McMurray in an airplane to assist in salvaging the Burke plane in the Liard river district, had not reached Whitehorse early Friday, where Pilots Van der Byl and Joerss of Vancouver await him. It is possible McMillan flew direct to Atlin.

H. KAY HURT IN TRESTLE FALL IN CORRA LINN

Falls 20 Feet to Ground: May Have Internal Injuries

Falling from a 20-foot trestle on which he was working at Corra Linn, and alighting on his back, Horace Kay sustained severe injuries Sunday afternoon about 3:15 o'clock. An examination showed possible injury to the pelvis and possible internal injuries. Last night he was resting well at Kootenay Lake General hospital.

Mr. Kay was working on a trestle at the Corra Linn power plant construction when the accident occurred. He was attempting to move a timber on the top of the trestle when his peevy slipped and he lost his balance and fell to the ground. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Kay of Nelson and is 36 years old.

He was brought to Nelson in the Howell ambulance.

WORK TO START, TRAIL-COLUMBIA ROAD AT ONCE

Equipment Has Arrived for Widening Curve at End of Merry's Flats

TRAIL, B. C., Feb. 1—Widening regrading and filling on the hairpin curve of the Trail-Columbia Gardens road at the far end of Merry's flat is expected to make progress with a gasoline shovel at work this week.

The shovel has arrived at Columbia Gardens and is now being moved to the scene of the work. It is expected to be in position today.

A road camp is being established and the work is expected to go ahead rapidly.

Widening of the first hairpin curve, at the Trail end of the flats, has made a wonderful improvement in the road. The extremely sharp curve has been eliminated and the long, hard grade to the flats reduced. The road has also been widened considerably. Most of this work was done by pick and shovel as relief work.

BRANDON INDIAN SCHOOL

The modern residential school for the education of Indian children at Brandon, Manitoba, has a fine assembly hall, four dormitories, four class rooms, a large study room, recreation rooms for both boys and girls, sewing room, sun room, hospital ward and nurses' quarters, and a laundry equipped with the most modern hygienic appliances. Adjacent to the school are a number of first-class buildings, one of which, the cow-barn, is one of the finest in Manitoba. There are also four residences for the use of the school principal and married members of the staff.

FARMING MATTER OF TEMPERAMENT AND LAND SENSE; IS NOT LIMITED

LONDON, Feb. 1. (CP)—"Can a woman farm in Kenya?" She can, and she does. "Successfully." Just as well, and sometimes just as badly as a man does, for farming is not a matter of sex at all. It's a matter of temperament; of land sense, says a writer in "Overseas".

Comes the eternal question, "How can a woman manage the labor? And after 18 years of experience of Kenya in years of war and peace comes the unhesitating answer, "Where small gangs are concerned, anything up to 50 men she finds it quite easy and often does it with less irritation than does a man." The woman manager on the estate of a woman employer who is often away, said in an interview:

"A man can run his farm successfully in lots of different ways, through head-men if he likes, or in any way that suits him; he need scarcely know his laborers if he doesn't wish; but a woman hasn't a hope that way. Some of the workers here are married, without being actually squatters; that is, they have their wives here without their cattle and their goats, and all the rest of the family paraphernalia. The thing to do is to make them thoroughly comfortable, take an interest in their youngsters or anything else that comes along, and then, if there is trouble with any of these particular men, I go down and have a talk to their wives, or the wife of the man chiefly concerned. Women may be chattels out here, but they know when the yare well off, and they let their menfolk know it too. These are the men that can always be relied on. Where a white man can manage through his head-man, as his fathers have managed through their N. C. O.'s for generations, a woman must be entirely individualistic, and keep each individual loyal to herself. For if the whole mob turns against a white man he can still hold his own. He has the strength and the prestige to do it. A woman is different. And, of course, every employer must expect a spot of trouble some time or other from his employees, and what I have to do is to localize it by making sure that when trouble arises with one, the others are standing loyally by me, or are, anyway, remaining tactfully neutral. It works all right as long as you treat each boy as an entirely separate entity, and of course you cannot do it for a large number. I cannot run more than 50 competently."

DR. STEELE IS TAKING PLACE OF DR. BORDEN

Has Been Practising in Province Since 1923: Some Years in North

Dr. J. T. Steele, recently physician at the Premier mine, is now in Nelson, associated with Dr. R. B. Shaw in the practice of Drs. Borden & McKay, during the absence of Dr. L. E. Borden, M.P.P., on his legislative duties at Victoria.

Immediately on obtaining his medical degree from Manitoba university, Winnipeg, Dr. Steele came to this province, where he has been in practice continuously from 1923.

He was house doctor at the Vancouver general hospital in 1923-24; was then in practice at Burns Lake, in the north country, for three years; and was then with the Premier mine for two and a half years, was doctor of the Eagle Lake Spruce Mills at Giscome for two months.

Dr. Steele is reported to play hockey, tennis and baseball.

He Has $2622 in Bank Held in 'Hunger Riot,'

NEW ORK, Feb. 1— Isadore Pogusoloff, remembered by police as one of those who shouted, "We want work!" as Communists marched about the City Hall in demonstration was arrested for his part in the disturbance.

Police found in his pockets a receipt showing he had made a deposit in the Bowery Savings bank on December 19 of $2622.91.

Pogusoloff explained that this represented his savings transferred from another bank.

PLAN SEVERE MEASURES TO HELP POLICE

Photographing and Fingerprinting of All Persons Provided for in Bill

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 1—Drastic measures by which police plan to photograph and fingerprint every person arrested in this state for even the most trifling offense excepting those involving city or town ordinances, are contained in a bill which the Massachusetts Police Chief's association will attempt to make law.

The proposed measure, prepared by Police Commissioner Hultman and unanimously approved by the police chiefs at their monthly meeting here, wil be submitted to the legislature shortly. It is the most startling legislative bill of its kind ever considered in this state.

The measure would have an extremely wide scope. Such trivial offenders as persons charged with drunkenness, profanity, simple assault, speeding, evading a fare, making excessive smoke with an automobile and hundreds of other minor offenses would undergo the same procedure in the rogues gallery that criminals do at the present time.

In addition to the photographs and fingerprints, a record of the name, age, height, weight and general description of each person arrested would be placed on file. Police would also be permitted to take measurements by the Bertillon system.

As a result of the increase in crime during the past few years better means of coping with criminals must be employed, said Commissioner Hultman in presenting the bill to the Police Chief's association. The proposal was to establish a fingerprint bureau in every city and town in the state, and the head of any police department would be obliged to furnish copies of fingerprints and photographs to any other police chief requiring them. The records would be sent to the National Identification bureau at Washington, D. C., which acts as a clearing house for all police departments, and would also be available for direct transmission from one state to another.

For years Boston police have been taking fingerprints of persons arrested for serious crimes, although statutes make no provision for the taking of either fingerprints or photographs of persons not convicted of any crime.

Everyone arrested in London and Paris, said Commissioner Hultman, was fingerprinted and photographed. Sir Hugh Turnbull, police commissioner of London, had told him that the number of "wanted" persons discovered by these records was astounding.

Chief of Police Arthur H. Pratt, of Weymouth, President of the Police Chief's association, expressed the opinion that every child should be fingerprinted.

According to William A. Donaldson, reeve of East Garafraxa township, there were only eight deaths in that township last year, and in every case the age was 80 or over.

AUSTRALIA'S OWN GOV.-GENERAL ALWAYS A HUSTLER

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 1—(CP)—"Hustle" perhaps sums up the career of Rt. Hon. Sir Isaac, the first native-born governor-general of Australia, better than any other description. But it by no means indicates a man who has rushed from one post to another. Sir Isaac has won signal distinction in everything he has essayed. He was the intellectual giant of the Liberal party even in the days when Alfred Deakin was its brilliant leader. And in the legal world while he was leader of the Victorian Bar he persistently studied so that he could take his place on the High Court.

He can write shorthand faster than most professionals. He can give pleasure to a Paderewski on the piano, and he can play the violin without faltering in the presence of Kubelik. His command of languages would enable him to act as interpretor at a Tower of Babel.

Less than two years ago he wandered into the Federal Parliamentary Library and docketed Soviet literature, published in Russia, for record purpose. And Australia has never known a better son, a better brother, or a better father.

Born in 1855, Sir Isaac was the son of a Jewish tailor in the small village of Beechworth, Victoria. He gathered with other children of humble parentage in the remote country village and hustled himself into a pupil teachership. He moved up into the public service into the law department into the university, into a practice at the bar, into politics. Then he moved to the quieter atmosphere of the Australian High Court, where he has been for the past 24 years.

Sir Isaac became a member of the Victorian legislative assembly in 1892, three years after he had become a Queen's Counsel. He was solicitor-general and then attorney-general of the state, and he was a member of the Australian Federal Convention of 1897 which framed the Commonwealth Constitution. He entered the federal parliament on its establishment in 1901 and was attorney-general of the Commonwealth from 1905 to 1906, when he retired from politics.

His prodigious memory was responsible for a novel feature in the fighting tactics of the Ministry. Nearly every man who made an attack upon it was suddenly confronted with former utterances which seemed to cut the ground from under his feet. Nevertheless it cannot be said that Sir Isaac Isaacs made that impression which is essential if the premiership is to crown a ministerial career. Town members said he was "too clever;" country members growled that he was "too much of a lawyer." There was truth in both assertions.

EARLY MARRIAGE OFTEN FAILURE

Bryn Mawr Professor Holds Wedded Bliss for Minors Ten-to-One Shot

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—Any time between 22 and 30 is the best age for marriage, Dr. Hornell Hart of Bryn Mawr college told the Chicago Association for Child Study and Parent Education recently.

Persons married before the twenty-year mark are ten times more liable to land in the divorce court than not, he said, adding that trial marriages fail because they are tentative and secret.

RHODESIAS SLOW PROJECTED UNION

Colonial Secretary Said to Be in Oppositon to Proposals for Amalgamation

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Feb. 1—(CP)—"Despite the enthusiasm felt in southern Rhodesia for the idea of amalgamation with northern Rhodesia," says the Cape Argus in an editorial, "the proposals for amalgamation are making very slow progress. A couple of months ago it was announced that at an unofficial conference between members of the two legislatures, virtual agreement had been reached, and a telegram was dispatched to the Colonial secretary, Lord Passfield by the Northern representatives asking him to consider amalgamation.

"Shortly afterwards the governor of northern Rhodesia Sir James Maxwell landed in Cape Town on his return from England and took the unusual step of throwing cold water on the proposal and suggesting that southern rhodesia's ardent wooing was dictated by the development of the copperfields in the north. Sir James indeed has never disguised his hostility. A year ago when the matter was dicussed in the legislative council he suggested self-government as an alternative ideal adding that 'in all reasonable probability' self-government would come within a few years.

"It is a little difficult to understand why the colonial house should oppose a step which would relieve it of much trouble and responsibility except on the assumption that it has been piqued by the attacks upon its administration. However that may be the elected members have cooled off since Sir James's return, and the project seems to have lost some of its driving force.

"At Bulawayo recently W. W. Leggate Colonial secretary of southern Rhodesia, made a strong effort to revive enthusiasm, even going so far as to promise that the northern territory should receive a representation in the joint legislature which would in effect give it control. This final throw may very well bring the people of the north into line. But obviously it will not overcome the opposition of the colonial secretary and his deputy, which remains as strong and as incomprehensible as ever."

STEAMERS AND TUGS COLLIDE

Four-Way Crash Involving Two Steamers and Two Tugs Occurs, Chelsea

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 1—An unusual accident in which two tugs were damaged and two steamers escaped damage occurred recently at the North Chelsea drawbridge.

The four-way collision happened at the steamer Sago Brush, attended by the tug Nathaniel P. Doane, was proceeding through the draw for Charleston, and the steamer Sewalls Point, with the tug Taurus, was heading down stream. In some manner the Taurus swung into the paths of the Doane, which forced her stern against the Sage Brush. The Taurus then turned about directly under the bow of the Sewalls Point, the steamer's sharp prow slicing off a large section of the towboat's stemhead and splintering her bow.

Pearl B. Crowley, cook on the Taurus, suffered a lacerated leg and Sam Justassen, cook of the Doane, sustained a hip injury.

With the Taurus in danger of sinking, she was rushed to a shipyard.

KASLO HOSPITAL COMPLETES YEAR IN GOOD SHAPE

Institution Financially Sound; Take Means Make Repairs

ETHAN TO HEAD BOARD IN 1931

Report of Matron Extensive; Visiting Committees Named

KASLO, B. C., Feb. 1.—The annual meeting of the Victorian hospital of Kaslo was held Wednesday afternoon in the city hall. In the absence of H. Giegerich, the president, first vice-president E. H. Latham presided. Others present were Ronald Hewat, Walter Hendricks, J. W. Power, W. G. Robb, J. A. Riddell, A. L. MacPhee, A. Tapanila and Mrs. A. W. Anderson. Mr. Giegerich, in his president's report, regretted his enforced absence. He stated that due to lack of mining activities, the past year's revenue had been very low, a small loss being found at the end of the year. He also called attention to the fact that there was unfinished repair work at the hospital and urged that this work be finished immediately.

FINANCIALLY SOUND

Secretary-treasurer B. F. Palmer gave a clear report of the year's work which showed the institution to be in a sound financial condition, as well as up to standard in every way. At present the society has three life members and 53 ordinary members. Fees for the latter are $10 per year. The year's receipts were $10,605.16, with disbursements of $10,805.46. Accounts receivable amounted to $3,543.66; assets are $21,561.52, liabilities, nil.

The report of Miss Ethel Graham, matron of the hospital, showed there had been 3097 hospital days, 168 cases treated. There were nine deaths and eleven births, three major operations, 47 minor operations, 100 x-rays. The hospital has 18 beds, and employs three graduate nurses, one cook and one janitor.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: President, E. H. Latham; first vice-president, W. G. Robb; second vice-president, J. A. Riddell; secretary-treasurer, B. F. Palmer. The newly elected directors, to serve two years, are H. Giegerich, Walter Hendricks and A. L. MacPhee, who with directors J. W. Power, Ronald Hewat, Mrs. A. W. Anderson and a representative to be appointed from the city council, together with the officers, will form the 1931 directorate.

A general meeting was held immediately after the annual and matters of unfinished repairs taken up. The repair work was left in the hands of E. H. Latham, W. G. Robb and J. A. Riddell. Visiting committees for the year are for the months of February, June and October, H. Giegerich and Walter Hendricks; March, July and November, A. L. MacPhee and Ronald Hewat; April, August and December, J. A. Riddell and J. W. Power; May, September and January; W. G. Robb and the representative from the city council. Ronald Hewat is the government representative and Mrs. A. W. Anderson represents the Ladies' Hospital aid. A. L. MacPhee and Walter Hendricks were appointed from the board to work with Mrs. E. H. Latham and Mrs. J. J. Streit, from the ladies' aid, in securing data on the laundry question, reports to be made at the next meetings of each society. Altogether the past year has been very satisfactory and the board, ladies' aid, Dr. D. J. Barclay and the hospital staff were congratulated.

BACK TO THE FARM

A new significance attaches to the old familiar slogan "Back to the Farm" in the way the Brood Sow Policy enumerated by the Hon. R. Weir, federal minister of agriculture, at the royal winter fair, is working out. In the first month in full operation over five hundred sows of the select bacon type have been saved from slaughter, bred, and sent back to farms. Saskatchewan and Alberta lead in the number of orders placed but keen interest is evidenced all over Canada. Sows of suitable type are provided farmers at cost, with a further saving of one-half the cost of freight from the stockyard to the buyers's farm.

Lieut.-Col. J. B. Dunbar, district engineering officer of Military District No. 13, Calgary, will be transferred to Quebec on April 1, and Major A. N. Martin, district paymaster, will leave on March 15 for Kingston.

CANADA'S NORTHERN MEDICAL SERVICE

The medical posts maintained in the Canadian North by the Department of the Interior have proved of immense value both to the natives and to the whit population. The principal posts are established at Pangnirtung, Baffin Island and Chesterfield, Hudson Bay in the eastern Arctic; and at Aklavik, Mackenzie River delta, and at Coppermine, coppermine river, in the western Arctic. Medical assistance is given within a radius of hundreds of miles from each post and, in addition, there are medical officers of health stationed at Simpson, Resolution, and Fort Smith, all in the Northwest Territories.

MANITOBA TREE SEEDS

As a result of the efforts of boys and girls of Dauphin, Manitoba, who collected 139 sackfuls of tree seeds last year, there will probably be several million new trees sprouting on Canada's western prairies during 1931. The weight of the seed gathered was a ton and a half, and, when it is considered that a pound of Manitoba maple seed on an average contains 13,000 individual seeds, the number gathered by the young people reaches the astounding total of 39,754,000.

The Gamin

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

Eddie Costello staggered and weakness softened, a bit, the aggressive advantage her fear had given him. The pressure of his body as he leaned against her filled her with dread—disgust. Grimly, she steeled her heart. This was going to take all of her courage, all of her wit. At any cost, any sacrifice, she had to keep the menace of Eddie Costello away from her husband.

Even at this crisis, when her whole future seemed to hang in the balance, she found herself softly throbbing with a deep current of devotion for Kent. Now, as never before, she felt the depths of her love. Slowly, a peculiar, remorseless desperation began to generate in her breast.

"I think I'm going to faint," Eddie Costello said in a voice so low that it scarcely reached her ears. Her arms bore his heavy weight.

"You mustn't! You've got to buck up . . for a few minutes longer."

She felt his body grow taut with responsive effort.

"Don't try to trick me and call the cops!" he said grimly. "You can't get away with it."

Her mind was as busy as a hive of bees swarming. The need was desperate, urgent; in the stress of the moment she arrived at a quick, definite decision. The empty garage on the property, a hundred yards from the house, had a small attic bedroom for a chauffeur. Justin Kent, as yet, had neither car nor chauffeur. In this emergency, the upstairs room offered an immediate solution. Later, when she had time to think calmly, she would plan better.

Eddie Costello leaned on her with almost overpowering weight, but she managed, step by step, to get him along. An electric switch inside the door of the garage gave them light. Every ounce of her strength was necessary to assist him up the narrow dustry stairs to the little narrow room with its rumpled quilts on a narrow iron bedstead.

Stretched out, Eddie Costello seemed thinner than Connie had ever thought him before. His cheeks were sunken; dark shadows like pools, stood under his eyes. For a time he lay with his eyes closed, his chest moving slightly with a slow labored breathing. Quite suddenly he opened his eyes and spoke to her in a hollow voice.

"Never mind about betting a doctor for me. It's too dangerous, he might tip off the police. There's always a reward, you know. I think my leg will get well by itself, in a couple of weeks. Can I have a drink of water?"

She went to the small adjoining bathroom, washed a glass and drew him cold water from the pipe. Eddie gulped it greedily.

"Sleep—good God, how I need sleep!" he said, feebly.

His eyes closed again. A streak of natural wisdom told her that for the present, rest was the thing he needed most. Perhaps it would calm him. Now he was almost delirious . . dangerous.

"You can sleep with a clear mind now as long as you live," she told him in a low voice, "I'll see you tomorrow."

She was quite close to the bed. Eddie captured one of her hands in a feeble grasp, and tried to press it to his lips, but she drew it away instinctively.

"You're an angel, Kid," he breathed.

A moment later she had turned off the light, was downstairs and speedily crossing the lawn toward the house.

Once more she was in her own happily furnished bedroom. A quickening fear that Justin Kent, by some accident, might have discovered her absence caused her sharp worry and she glided down the hall to his door and stood listening outside. If Justin knew, she realized excitedly, a deadly climax might develop immediately. Time was what she needed . . time! After a moment her ear was able to detect the steady breathing of deep sleep from within . . temporarily all was well.

A passing, conflicting emotion tore at her power of decision as she returned to her room and threw herself on the bed. In all the world, she imagined, no woman ever before had been enmeshed in such a hopeless snarl of circumstances.

This—this was her wedding night with Justin Kent!

Tomorrow . . what would tomorrow bring? Shaken inwardly with a terror that sickened her soul, Connie crept noiselessly to her own room.

STYLES IN SHOES, CONVENTION THEME

Shorter Heels for Women and More Conservative Modes for Men Rule

Contrary to opinions and edicts of previous years, masculine shoe styles for the approaching spring and summer will demand the wearing of "subtle brown" shoes with gray suits.

Such were the general opinions of shoe stylists in addressing the session of the seventeenth annual convention of the Middle Atlantic Soe Retailers Association held at Atlantic city.

The meeting was given over to the consideration of footwear style, both for men and women. The speakers were Miss Ruth Kerr and Miss Rhea Nichols, both New York shoe stylists.

The most marked tendency in women's shoes, the two stylists declared, would be shorter heels.

"High heels," Miss Kerr said, "at least, height in extreme, are no longer the mode. Just what is causing the woman of style today to desire lower heels is beyond definition. She is insisting, nevertheless, that heels bel ower."

Declaring that the flare for "collegiate" emphasis on men's footwear also was being discarded, Miss Nichols said men's styles for the ensuing year would bear a marked resemblance to the conservative lines of the English "beau brummels."

Styles displayed in the shoe exposition being held in connection with the convention indicate that snake skin will continue in wide vogue for women's footwear.

Reptile slippers and reptile trimmings are shown conspicuously for smart spring shoes. Color also is predominant. Among those shown is a dark blue slipper trimmed with gray reptile and a beige buckskin trimmed with pigskin.

Advent of the miniature golf course has brought a demand for footwear, from both men and women, manufacturers declare, that will be "in perfect style" on the peewee links. To meet this demand, a shoe is being offered that combines good taste for the street, dance floor and miniature golf course.

Frequent Washing Brightens Lights

Electric lights will be brighter if the glass shades are washed at least once a moth. Remove them from lamps and sockets and wash in warm suds handling them very carefully. Rinse in clear warm water and dry thoroughly.

Wrinkled Velvet

If you hang your velvet frock or coat in the bathroom, far enough from the tub so it won't get wet, and turn on the hot water in the shower and shut the bathroom door, the steam arising will do wonders to get the wrinkles out and make your velvet look as if it had been scientically steamend pressed. Perform this process sometime before you want to wear the garment, as it should be allowed to hang in a dry room after the steaming is over.

MY OWN SALAD

Place a portion of very finely shredded lettuce on each salad plate. In the centre place a slice of tomato, peeled and cut three-quarters inch thick, and on it place a canned pear (half) filled with pink-covered mayonnaise dressing or half mayonnaise and whipped cream mixed, and a marchino cherry.

How to Prepare Candied Sweet Potatoes

Sandied fruit potoatoes are a general favorite, but not everyone knows the trick of making them tender and using corn syrup as well as sugar to candy them. The parbotled sweet potatoes are baked in the syrup mixture.

Another good sweet potato dish which can be served in a casserole or baking dish is a combination of sweet potatoes and apples. Still another is made with pineapple to furnish the sweet-acid flavor that goes so well with sweet potatoes. All three recipes are supplied by the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Candied Sweet Potatoes

6 medium sized sweet potatoes, 1 cup corn syrup, ½ cup sugar, ¼ tsp. salt, 4 tbs. butter or other fat.

Partially cook the sweet potatoes in boiling water, cool, and skin. Cut the potatoes in halves lengthwise, or in three pieces if the potatoes are large enough for just one layer, not of packing too closely. Make a syrup by boiling the corn syrup, sugar, salt, and fat until fairly thick. Pour the syrup over the potatoes and bake in a very moderate oven for one hour or more. Turn the potatoes carefully as they are cooking.

Scalloped Sweet Potatoes and Pineapple

3 medium sized sweet potatoes, 1 can crushed pineapple, ¼ tsp. salt, 4 tbs. melted butter or other fat.

Select a dry mealy variety of sweet potatoes and cook in the skins in water to cover. When tender, scrape cut in slices of uniform thickness, and place in a shallow greased baking dish. Pour the pineapple over the potatoes, sprinkle with salt, and add the fat. Bake in a moderate oven for 30 minutes, or until light brown on the surface and the sirup of the pineapple has become thickened. Serve from the baking dish.

Scalloped Sweet Potatoes with Apples

3 medium sized sweet potatoes, 4 medium sized apples, pared and cored, ½ cup sugar, ½ tsp. salt, 3 tbs. butter or other fat.

Cook the sweet potatoes in boiling water until tender, cool, and skin. Cut the potatoes and apples into slices, place in alternate layers in a greased baking dish, sprinkle each layer with sugar and salt, dot with fat, add a little water, and bake for 30 to 45 minutes, or until the apples are soft and the top layer is brown. Serve in the baking dish.

She Goes With Other Boys

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am in love with a young girl and she says she loves me very much. Still she goes out with other boys. I have been going with her for one year and I want to know if you can tell me a way to find out if she loves me as she says she does. I read your column every day and enjoy it very much.

DAILY READER

Unless you're engaged to the young lady, it is her privilege to go about with other boys, and you should try to summon enough good sportsmanship to pretend not to care too much. As for discovering if she cares as much as she says she does, time alone can tell. However, if she keeps her "dates" and seems happy when you are around, you have every reason to hope.

Spent Much Time Day-Dreaming

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 16 years old, not beautiful, but nice looking. I wear glasses. I do not care for boys, and know very few. Five years ago I met a boy a little older than myself at our summer home in the mountains. I cared for him until two summers ago, when he did not come to the hotel again. I saw him only a few times, during which we hardly spoke. I feel foolish saying it, but, much as I wanted to see him, I did all I could to avoid him. Yet I spend much time thinking and dreaming of him, and I think he cared for me a little.

If he should come to the mountains this coming summer should I avoid him and act indifferent, or place myself near him, and as some would say, "flirt"?

M. R. C.

If you meet the boy again, I hope you'll be sensible and speak to him as an old friend, without any idea of flirting or coquetry. Sixteen is pretty young to spend so much time day-dreaming; put that amount of time into something useful, like learning a language, studying music or dancing. And if you happen to meet the boy again, he'll find you more interesting than if you had spent your time in visions.

She May Have Company Now

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I like a certain young man very much, but he doesn't seem to pay much attention to me, but to my girl friends. Sometimes I think he doesn't care so much about my girl friends, but is just attentive to them to make me jealous. In the past he has asked me a number of times to go out with him but I've always had to refuse on account of conditions at home. But now I'm allowed to go out with boy friends to a certain extent, but he doesn't ask me any more. He may think I'm still not allowed to go. Should I inform him that now I may have company?

LOUISE

By all means tell him that the ban has been lifted at home, and that you are now permitted to go out with your friends.

Seems to Be a Gold Digger

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm just a poor boy struggling along on a small salary, but I managed to save a little till I met a girl last October and fell for her. She always suggested expensive treats — no movies for her, but high-priced theater tickets with dinner before or supper afterward. Whenever I said anything about marriage, she said something like, "Aren't you joking?" or just laughed. She's not above borrowing from me on pay day either, but she will break every date with me to go out with someone who is more "high hat." She has just written to borrow some more money, $25 this time, and yet I hate to turn her down. ART W. S.

I am afraid you're what is known as "soft," and your fair young gold digger is taking advantage of you. If you'll take my advice—which I fear you will not—write her a letter, short and to the point, saying it is not convenient to lend her any more money. And then cultivate the friendship of some nice girls who are not related to those young ladies spoken of in the bible as daughters of the horse-leech, crying "Give! give!"

Correct Food; Dry Toast Good

New theories and discoveries about foods are being presented to the housewife almost daily and sometimes in her conscientious attempts to apply them to her own needs, she becomes puzzled and wonders how she can know what is scientifically proper and correct and what is taboo.

Research workers and investigators in foods and nutrition are constantly working to verify experiments and establish definite results. Consequently, the doubt about some foods seems to be accepted.

Toast, that breadstuff which is so popular nowadays from breakfast to midnight lunch has come under the experimenter's eye and some worthwhile information is available about it.

We have known for some time that the heat of toasting acts on he sarch in he bread, changing it to sugar or "dextrinizing" it, and thereby shortening the time required for body digestion. However, the question recently has been whether the effect of the toasting heat might not be so harmful to the protein content of the bread that the good effect on the starch might be counteracted.

Tests are shown that the protein of toasted bread is as completely digested as the protein of untoasted bread, so the points are all in favor of the toast.

Dry toast is more readly digested than soft toast because it requires more chewing and breaks into tiny particles. The process of digestion is started by the increased flow of saliva.

When bread is cut thick for toasting to keep it hot all the points in favor of toast are lost. The thickness of the bread prevents the heat from penetrating and thoroughly effecting the change in the starch content. Covering the hot toast produces steam which softens the inside and destroys the crisp toasted surface.

Bread should be cut in thin slices and toasted not too fast if full benefit is to be enjoyed from its toasting.

BROILING PLAN FOR CHICKENS

To broil chicken, brown the breast lightly, then turn the fowl and baste the back with hot water and butter. When brown, turn again and finish by crisping the breast side.

A VARIETY

Dont't get into a rut and serve too much the same make and kind of bread every meal. If you use baker's bread, vary it by buying bran, whole-wheat or brown bread occasionally. Bought bread will not seem so tiresome, if this method is employed.

ENAMEL PAINT

Enamel paint has a hard smooth surface and does not hold dust as other paints do; but, of course, in due time it must be cleansed, especially if spots and stains appear. Do not try to remove these with soap and water. Soap will dull the enamel, and success in cleaning wood surfaces depends upon using the smallest amount of water. So just wring a woolen or cotton flannel cloth out of hot water and rub with this, then follow with a clean, dry cloth. The hot water will dissolve grease and readily free dirt, but will not harm the gloss.

If very dirty, says St. Louis Post-Dispatch, it may be necessary to use a scourer, but this should be very fine and must be applied lightly so as not to scratch the surface. Baking soda or whiting are good. Wring the flannel cloth from hot water, dip into the scourer and rub with the grain of the wood; then wash with clean cloth wrung out of warm water and dry with a soft cloth.

NEW DISHES THIS WEEK

Pineapple Rice Pudding: (This will be called for in Saturday Night's dinner menu, to be made from one cup of rice left over from the boiled rice used as a vegetable in Friday night's dinner). In the top of a double boiler put one cup of cold boiled rice, one-half cup of granulated sugar, a pinch of salt and one cup of canned crushed pineapple and its juice; stir till well mixed, then add two teaspoons of plain granulated gelatine which you have previously soaked for several minutes in two tablespoons of cold water. Cook four or five minutes, or till the gelatine is dissolved and mixed thoroughly with the rice, then take from fire and turn into a bowl to cool. When almost congealed, fold into it one-half cup of heavy cream, stiffly whipped (measured before beating). Divide between four molds which hold one cup of liquid, each. However, if you do not wish to buy heavy cream for whipping, you may, instead, fold into the rice-gelatine mixture one stiffly whipped egg white, and divide between four individual molds in the same way. Do not turn out of molds, onto desert plates, till stiff and well chilled. Serve either with a dab of additional whipped cream, or topped with a canned maraschino cherry. (A fine way to use two cups of leftover boiled rice, is to make it into a Butterscotch Rice pudding by putting it into the top of a double boiler and stirring into it a butterscotch sauce made as follows: In a separate pan cook one-half cup of brown sugar and one tablespoon of butter till the sugar is dissolved, then turn this into the warmed rice and cook several minutes. Serve cold with thin cram and sugar.

Pumpkin Pie Filling (requested by a reader who wrote for "pumpkin filling containing no molasses"). Use either one cup of freshly cooked pumpkin or the same measure of canned pumpkin. Into this vegetable stir three slightly beaten, unseparated eggs, one cup of granulated sugar, one cup of cold, sweet milk, one tablespoon of butter melted, one teaspoon of vanilla extract, one teaspoon of ground ginger and one-fourth teaspoon each of ground cinnamon and nutmeg. Scrape into a pie pan lined with unocoked pastry and slip into a very hot oven for five minutes, then reduce heat to medium and continue baking for 30 minutes.

SWEEPER

Why is it a woman can let a sweeper squeak until it is weak before she realizes that all it needs is a little oil in various parts? She will find, says Baltimore Sun, the sweeper will work 100 per cent better and easier after she has oiled it besides going about its duties in a quiet manner.

QUEEN MOTHER'S HEALTH REPORTED NOT IMPROVED

LONDON, Feb. 1 (AP)—Physicians of Princess Beatrice, who is lying ill with bronchitis, said late today that her condition was not so satisfactory as this morning.

"A slight rise in temperature took place this afternoon, associated with an exacerbation of bronchitis."

An earlier bulletin said that the princess, who is the aunt of the king, had gained some strength following a comfortable night. The queen of Spain, the princess' daughter, is at her mother's bedside.

PEACE OF MIND UPSET BY SIN PASTOR STATES

Overcoming Temptation Is Virtue, Rev. T. J. S. Ferguson Tells

"Out of the Garden of Eden into a world of sin" was the Sunday morning sermon at St. Paul's, continuing the series of sermons given by Rev. T. J. S. Ferguson. A duet, "God Will Take Care of Thee", was pleasantly rendered by members of the choir.

In narrating the allegorical story of the first man and woman, Mr. Ferguson drew the comparison between their experiences and experiences of today. They had no shame until they had done wrong. When people sinned they became upset, their peace of mind departed, and their discomfiture was exceedingly poignant and vaguely disturbing.

But, virtue that had not been tested, went on Mr. Ferguson, was blank virtue, not real virtue. Having never been tried it must out of necessity remain the same. Virtue resulted from struggle plus conquest. Innocence was found in man and woman when they were first put in the garden, but once they had eaten of the tree of knowledge, they knew, and were ashamed. Innocence was found in children, too, but given the power to differentiate, in their own minds, between a right course and a wrong one, temptation was put in their path, and they must encounter sin or follow in the way Christ would have them.

Unless one followed the highest known, unhappiness resulted, because then God, or the summum bonum, which is God, was then thrown aside. A lower path was taken when a higher one could have been followed. That in itself led to unhappiness and sorrow.

Though man was cast out of the Garden, God did not entirely forsake them. He helped them to make coats and skins, which Mr. Ferguson asserted, was the nucleus for the hope that there was a possibility of saving even the transgressor.

MARRIED WOMEN TO BE JOBLESS

Two Hundred Telephone Operators Who Have Support Laid Off

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 1—All married women employed as operators in the telephone exchanges of Greater Boston will be laid off on January 26, the only exceptions being cases where husbands are unemployed and incapable of supporting the family. This decision, affecting about 200 operators, was taken by the telephone company to meet "its problem of force distribution in the face of slack business.

"In so doing," said the company, "the management is observing a recommendation of the State's Committee on Unemployment Relief, which, however, is supported by its own judgment as the most equitable step in such an emergency.

"Within the metropolitan division the entire group of central offices, because of their inter-relationship, had to be treated as one unit, and it was decided that, instead of allotting periodical days off to all employees, it would be far more equitable first to lay off married women living with husbands able to support their families. In some of the large centers outside the metropolitan division, similar emergencies have been met by allotting one or more days off per week or per month, as the case might be among the entire force of a given central office.

"In its announcement to its employees, the telephone company made it clear that its action was taken not because of a purpose to discriminate against married women as such, but to meet in the most equitable way a situation which, for the time being, would require a reduction in its force of employees."

The Russian Threat

The Soviet Government of Russia is spending thirty-two billions of dollars to mechanize the Russian farms and to create great industrial establishments and centers.

To get the money, the Soviet is dumpng wheat in the British market for any price it will bring, without regard to cost of production, and to the temporary dislocation of the world wheat prices and the consternation of growers in other great wheat countries. Through the polyangular process of international trade, Russian wheat is being exchanged for foreignmechinery and manufactured goods—which are being put into plants to turn out machinery and manufactured goods in Russia, and implements to produce more wheat.

A good many people are shudderiing at the prospect that Russia a few years hence may be also doing with manufactured goods what it now doing with wheat: dumping in foreign markets at ruinous prices. They foresee a world inundation of Russian products the general bankruptcy of farmers and industrialists in other countries, and a static condition of unemployment and destitution on an unprecedented scale.

These apprehensive souls overlook one important fact. Russia will not dump goods abroad unless it gets paid for them. Products have to be paid for in products. How is Russia going to flood the world with products for which it cannot accept payment?

When Russia's great manufacturing plants are going concerns, it obviously will not accept manufactured goods in payment for farm products, as it is doing now. And certainly Russia will not accept wheat and other farm products in payment for any world-sweeping tide of exported manufactured goods.

The Russian economic menace will end when the thirty-two billions have been spent, the farms mechanized, and the manufacturing plants built. It will end for the reason that Russia cannot dump unless it can collect and it will not then be able to accept payment for exports in products of either the farm or the factory.

The vision of a world inundated by cheap Russian products is only a nightmare. The nightmare will end when the thirty-two billions are gone and the Soviet starts looking about for a chance to sell wheat or manufactured goods without having to take manufactured goods or wheat in payment.

Demons for Speed

Mr. Billy Arnold, America's autombile racing champion for 1930, says something worthy of consideration by all the everyday motorists of the country. He admits, first of all, that he does not care to drive an automobile fast on the open highways, because:

It's too risky, with all those Sunday drivers to outguess. Those amateur speed demons who like to tell their neighbors how they "hit seventy" never had a front tire go out when they were making fifty miles an hour.

Thus the gentleman who won last year's big racing event at the Indianapolis speedway declares himself. The speedway, to his notion, is safer than the highway, primarily because the drivers on the speedway know just what they are doing.

Canada's motorists should clip out these words, paste them on their windshields and read them every day.

As compared with November, births registered in December 1980 in Canada, showed an increase of four and one-half per cent. In the Maritime provinces the increase was 20 per cent. in Ontario nine per cent. and in the prairie provinces 5 per cent. Quebec showed a decline of two and one-half per cent and British Columbia of one per cent.

Deaths registered in these provinces in December numbered eight and one half per cent. more than in the preceding month. In the maritime provinces there was a reduction of seven per cent, but Quebec showed an increase of nine per cent., Ontario eight per cent., the prairie provinces 15 per cent. and British Columbia 17 per cent.

The number of marriages registered in December was less by twelve and one-half per cent than in November. In Quebec there was an increase of seven per cent. and in British Columbia thirteen and one half per cent, but other sections of the country registered declines, amounting to 11 per cent. in the Maritime provinces, fifteen and one-half per cent in Ontario and twenty-five and one-half per cent in the prairie provinces.

Now we understand what Einstein's fourth dimension means. It is just time. And here we have been worrying over the darn thing all our lves.

A talkie containing only women characters is announced from Hollywood. Sometimes the movies show distinct genius in seeking their talent.

Mayor Thompson is making his fight for re-election on the slogan, "Every Pledge Fulfilled." "To whom?" the voters of Chicago should ask.

A large rubber company plans to take on 10,000 more men for 1931. Apparently that business is getting over the tired feeling.

Labor council asks a law enforcing one day's rest in seven for all. A law like that would be difficult to enforce in case of golf players.

When they take all the mechanical sound out of the talkies and the natural voices of the actors are revealed maybe we'll be sorry.

Seen and Heard in NELSON

(By J. B. C.)

On Friday night the composing room made a little error that seemed to put your correspondent in a bad way. The actual wording in the paper was as follows:

"Here is a little bit of rough verse I am passing along for students of all ages.

A LESSON IN ENGLISH

We'll begin with box, the plural
is boxes,
But the plural of ox should be oxen,
not oxes.
One fowl is a goose, but two are called geese.
Yet the plural of mouse should never be meese.
You may find a lone mouse, or a whole nest of mice,
But the plural of house is houses,
not hice.
The cow in the plural may be called cows, or kine;
But a bow, if repeated, is never called bine;
And the plural of vow is vows,
never vine.
If I speak of a foot and you show me two feet
And I give you a boot, would a pair
be called beet?
If one is called tooth, and a whole
set are teeth,
Why shouldn't the plural of booth
be called beeth?
If the singular's this, and the plural
is these,
Should the plural of kiss ever be written keese?
Then one may be that and two may be those,
Yet hat in the plural would never be hose.
And the plural of cat is cats, and not cose.
We speak of a brother, and also of brethren,
But though we say mother, we never say methren.
Then the masculine pronouns are
he, his and him,
But imagine the feminine, she, shis
and shim!
So the English, I think you all will agree,
Is the funniest language you ever did see.

—Typosium.

For some reason or other our composing room forgot about the verse and left me talking to the air. However despite the composing room I am passing on to you this verse which was picked for Saturday's paper.

* * *

Some two or three weeks ago I was discussing in these columns the overcrowding of numerous jails in the country. Yesterday I picked up an eddition of The Metaline Falls News and they had a leading editorial dealing with the same subject. It said: The Seattle Sunday Times recently gave Newport some publicity about its empty jail and said: "The prize sinecure is the job of police judge at Newport, Washington—not a single arrest was made by the city police during 1930." The article was embellished with a cartoon of a jail door securely locked and marked "vacant". Somebody, please page The Times' feature writer and inform him that Metaline Falls is without a jail, and has been for over a year or more, when the last vestige of the old jail was removed. Oldtimers say that one of the first occupants of the old jail was the then mayor, who harbored the notion that because of his office they couldn't put him in jail—but they did.

After reading this, there is only one thing to do and that is to move a few miles south of the international border. Evidentally we would be quite safe with the police force in that district.

I was tempted to run this little poem during the last civic campaign. Somehow it would fit in but after it is all over it is only right that the readers of this column should read something about getting licked. The poem goes this way:

* * *

If you think you're beaten you are,
If you think you dare not you don't,
If you'd like to win, but think you can't,
It's almost a cinch you won't;
If you think you'll lose you've lost,
For out in the world you find
Success begins with the fellow's will,
It's all in the state of mind.

Full many a case is lost
Ere ever a step is run.
And many a coward fails
Ere ever his work's begun.
Think big and your deeds will grow,
Think small and you'll fall behind.
Think that you can and you will,
It's all in the state of mind.

If you think you're outclassed, you are,
You've got to think high to rise,
You've got to be sure of yourself before
You can ever win a prize.
Life's battles don't always go
To the stronger or faster man,
But soon or late, the man who wins,
Is the fellow who thinks he can.

Britain Hoodwinked U.S.

While General Pershing whose reminiscenes are now appearing in the press, quite evidently laments that his country had not been able to enter the Grea War earlier, another American comes out with a book in which he deplores U. S. participation. The latter person is T. St. John Gaffney, former American Consul General at Munich whom President Wilson recalled to Washington in haste and dismissed from office because of Gaffney's pro-German behavior. Following a cold reception by his own government, Gaffney sailed back to Europe and re-entered Germany where he joined the German-Irish Society and worked actively for Irish freedom. Gaffney admired the traitor Sir Roger Casement, through Ireland cruelly oppressed and declared that Britain had cunningly lured Germany into a trap to crush a trade rival. The fact that Germany with her huge and wonderfully efficient army struck the first blow and was over-running Europe with her field grey millions, ere Britain declared war, evidently carries little weight with Mr. Gaffney.

PLOT AGAINST GERMANY

This gentleman who thought that Britain was all wrong from the start and that Ireland must be assisted by Germany to win her independence, has been nursing a grievance ever since 1914. So he had to write a book and a red-hot one. Its every chapter seethes with indignation. He strikes at President Wilson, at Ambassadors Gerard and Page and at Secretary Lansing (who incidentally was born a Canadian.) The Allies and the United States come in for castigation. Mr. Gaffney sums up his attitude toward Britain as follows:

"For 20 years previous to the war I had been an annual visitor to England where I had also a large acquaintance with all classes of the people. I was both astonished and amused at the growth of hostility to Germany, and my English friends did not hesitate to declare to me with perfect frankness and customary English bumptiousness, that it was necessary to destroy Germany or England would lose her commercial predominance in the world's market. The question was with them purely one of trade supremacy, and, with English arrogance, they spoke as if the required no allies to accomplish their purpose. Little did I dream at that time of the conspiracy that England had woven to mobilize the world against the German peoples and how she would succeed in using the blood and treasure of other nations to accomplish her criminal ambition."

SCORES WILSON'S ATTITUDE

Again the pent-up fires of Mr. Gaffney's wrath burst forth when he ponders on President Wilson's natural sympathy toward Anglo-Saxons as oppossed to Teutons;—"I may here remark," said Mr. Gaffney, "that the majority of the American officials with whom I came in contact after my resignation were offensive partisans of the Allies for the simple reason that they believed that President Wilson leaned that way. They would have changed their opinions as readily as they changed their coats if President Wilson had veered to the German side. American prestige, American honor or American rights played a minor role with them. . . . . An American official was regarded as neutral by President Wilson as long as he manifested sympathy with the Allies and criticized the Germans, but if he said a word for the cenidal powers he was reprimanded and warned not to repeat the offense."

N. Y. PRESS TOO ENGLISH

When he got back to the United States from the Fatherland. Mr. Gaffney professes to have been greatly shocked with what he saw and heard. That an English-speaking nation based on Anglo-Saxon traditions would not look calmly on and see Prussian autocracy triumphant and American security menaced, seems to have passed Mr. Gaffney's comprehension. He was disgusted with the American public.

"The old American sense of justice and fair play had almost disappeared," he laments, "and a spirit of hypocrisy and vindictiveness taken its place. Under the vicious influence of the New York press, which was more English than the English, public opinion had disappeared or become so debauched as to be a mere echo of the notorious Northcliffe papers. . . . One fact glaringly apparent to me —the spirit of Americanism, as understood by the founders of the republic, was temporarily dead, and a spurious Anglo-Saxonism had taken its place."

FRIEND OF CASEMENT

In Germany, Gaffney had had many heart to heart talks with Sir Roger Casement, the Irish baronet, who after years in the diplomatic service of Britain turned rebel and later tried to stab her in the back with the Dublin rebellion of Eeaster week, 1916. Gaffney thought Casement a hero and bade him farewell on the fatal journey by U-boat to Ireland.

Naturally, a man of Gaffney's sympathies would have no patience with the "German war guilt' theory. He thinks that the Allies, not the Central Powers, must bear the burden of responsibility for causing the war and its ruthless inhumanities.

BLAMES ALLIES FOR WAR

"I also," continues the author "consider it to be the duty of honest Americans to expose the mass of lies, misrepresentation, and calumny by which our country was hoodwinked into taking part in the interests of a European power in the most infamous war of all time. . . Although repeatedly appealed to, our President failed to make an honest or intelligent effort to maintain peace or bring the slaughter of mankind to an early conclusion. The crime of Wilson in taking a partisan side instead of adhering to his proclamation of neutrality. . . can never be excused. Instead of announcing himself as champion of the neutral states. . . he became the humble bondsman of England, and abandoned the small nations to their fate."

In view of history, it is hard to follow Mr. Gaffney in his arguments. Fortunately, people of his mentality were not too numerous. Just what would have happned to the world at large, including the United States, had Germany emerged victorious from the war, one shudders to contemplate.

Foreign Titles in Canada

If a Canadian citizen be debarred from accepting a decoration or an order from his Sovereign, why should he be permitted to accept and wear an order or a decoration from a foreign soverign?

The position is not only, as Mr Sladen says, ridiculous; it borders almost upon an insult to King George.

The Journal does not now and has never favored hereditary, titles for Canada, and for an obvious reason. But the Journal, on the other hand, has never felt that Canada was doing much to strengthen the fibre of her democracy by preventing His Majesty the King from bestowing honor upon a Canadian citizen who in some field of high endeavor had given noble service to the world, or to the Empire, or to the Canadian people. It hopes that, at some not distant date, parliament will reconsider its position.

In the meantime, if it be considered undemocratic and wrong to have Canadians accept honors from their own Soverign, it should be held to be similarly wrong to have Canadians accept titles from a foreign soverign. Parliament ought to make that clear, and at the earliest possible date.—Ottawa Journal.

—o—

"But, darling, if your ear ache is better, why do you keep on crying?"

"I'm waiting for D-dady to c-come home. He's never s-seen me with an ear ache!"

The Brighter Side

When we are fed up with inactivity we'll move out of the valley in the same fashion that we went into it. Some bright morning a number of individuals will hop out of bed on the right side. They will hear the birds singing and will see the eastern sky aglow. They will say to themselves that life is too short to waste any more of it like this. They will swing into action with old-time vigor, accept hazards as in other days, snapping their fingers at wiseacres and charts and curves and carloadings and head-shakings. Then all of us will scramble and jostle to get into the van.—Merle Thorpe, in November Nation's Business.

That Body of Yours

By JAS. W. BARTON, M. D.

HOW THE MIND AFFECTS BODY PROCESSES

When we thipk of the aids the medical students have at the present time as compared with those of just a few years back, we are apt to think that there should not only be more cures than in previous times, but also fewer actual cases.

As a matter of fact, these mechanical aids to the laboratory, x-ray, microscope, and so forth, help physicians to be more accurate in their diagnosis, but there is one very serious fault to be found about it. That is that in his effort to be accurate, the medical student and physician is likely to think more about his methods and their results than about the patient himself.

And yet the patient's feelings, his anxieties, his fears, worries, or other emotional disturbances are a big factor in actually causing his trouble, and a big factor in the success or failure of the treatment.

Dr. George Stevenson found in a large medical clinic treating stomach and intestinal diseases that abou 20 per cent of the patients had se vere emotional problems, and tha another 55 per cent had less seve problems. This means that on 25 per cent, just one out of ever four, of these patients, was fre from any emotional problems.

Now it has been proven first animals and later in man th mental conflicts and emotional di turbances upset the normal fun tions of what is called the sym pathetic system. It is this syste that regulates the circulation of th blood, the juices in the digestio the action of the lungs in breathin and so forth.

If this sympathetic system disturbed then the various process do not do their work so well. Th do not stop entirely but they b come irregular and do their wo poorly, with the result that actu harm often results in the stomac intestine, kidneys, heart or oth organs.

Dr. C. C. Wholey, Pittsburgh, r ports a case of a girl of 14 yea who had all the symptoms of ga stones simply because she had bee with her mother so much, and th latter had suffered with several a tacks. He reports another case severe vomiting in a woman, b cause her little boy recovering fro an anaesthetic, had a vomiting sp and she thought he was going die.

Now you can see how the ment factor would have to be treated these cases before any real he could be given to the patient. mention this for the reason that your stomach, intestine, liver, even heart or kidneys bothers yo you would be wise to tell all yo troubles to the doctor.

BAD WEATHER IN ENGLAND RESULTS, WEIRD FOOTBALL

Coulter of Carlisle United Scores Goal From Own Half of Field

LONDON, Feb. 1 (C P cable)—Sleet, snow and rain storms made soccer football as disagreeable to play as to watch on Saturday in England. The conditions produced several freak results, while Coulthard, a right back playing for Carlisle United, scored a goal on a kick from his own half of the field, an almost unprecedented feat.

The first visit to Stamford Bridge of one of England's three most dangerous soccer forwards, the South African, Hodgson, was anticipated by London's cup hopes with some anxiety as previously he bagged the three goals with which Liverpool trounced Chelsea at Liverpool. He got a great reception from the 40,000 present, but their applause had hardly died down when Alex Jackson, Chelsea's international, juggled the ball through the Liverpool defence and put over a perfect center which Crawford shot at an acute angle into the Liverpool net. The game ended in a draw, two all. Riley, the Liverpool goalie, made amends soon after the first score by saving brilliantly from both Crawford and Mills and he also foiled Jackson by running out and picked the ball of his toe. Hodgson got a stylish goal just before the interval. In the second half Liverpool set the pace and Hodgson valiantly but unsuccessfully assailed Chelsea's goal. At the other end Riley turned a fine shot from Cheyne round the post. Then Mills raced through and scored with a great left-footer. Gunson immediately burst through Chelsea's defence in similar fashion and equalizer.

ARSENAL DROPS MATCH

Arsenal scored through Alambert in the 16th minute of their match with Birmingham at Highbury, although the visitors were superior in front of the goal for the balance of the half, Briggs being particularly prominent in many attacks. Four minutes after the interval Bradford equalized on a pass from Curtis, Arsenal subsequently redoubled their efforts, but Birmingham's international goalkeeper Hibbs, saved his side with repeated daring clearances. Birmingham rallied finally but could not maintain their attack. Arsenal lost the match by their poor finishing.

Aston Villa piled up eight goals against Middlesborough, despite the fierce snowstorm which raged in the first half. Beresford opened the scoring for the Villa and Waring netted their second after a fine run from half way. Walker made it three and scored again after Houghton had also goaled. The Villa led by five goals to nil at the interval. The storm abated in the second half but the Villa remained on top. Waring scored their sixth and Mandley their seventh. Camsell netted for Middlesborough and Houghton completed the Villa's total from a penalty.

SCOTTISH FOOTBALL RESULTS

GLASGOW, Scotland, Feb. 1 (C P cable)—The elements triumphed in a number of Scottish Football association cup ties Saturday and effectually prevented several of the matches from being played. Terrific rain fell in some places, while in others snow blotted out the field markings. Five matches were declared off, while two were abandoned at half time. The bad conditions at Aberdeen were responsible for Pope, Partick Thistle amateur international breaking his collar bone.

The uncertain terrain helped in the downfall of Rangers, the cup holders, who were eliminated at Ibrox Park by two goals to one by Dundee.

Results were:

Motherwell 4, Albion Rovers 1.

Murrayfield Amateurs 0, Ayr United 1.

Third Lanark 1, Airdrie 0.

Bo'ness 0, Alloa 0, when abandoned.

Montrose 1, Civil Service Strollers 0, when abandoned.

Rangers 1, Dundee 2.

Inverness Caledonian 2, Falkirk 7.

Hamilton Academicals 2, Hibernian 2.

Kilmarnock 3, Hearts 2.

Aberdeen 1, Partick Thistle 1.

Queen's Park 0, Morton 1.

Postponed games were: Dundee United versus Celtic; Clyde versus St. Mirren; Cowdenbeath versus St. Johnstone; Arbroath versus Edinburgh City; King's Park versus St. Bernards.

Eds: Pls note preceding results in Scotish cup ties should be substituted for list sent Saturday.

NEW BALL ALTERS PLAYERS' GAME

By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

The average golfer will find that he will have to readjust his game to a certain extent with the new ball and move his clubs forward one number to get the same results.

Where he formerly employed a number 7 for a certain distance he will now need a number 6. And if a number 5 was his favorite club on approaches to the green he will find it necessary to groove his swing with a number 4 the same shots.

The spoon is going to come back with all its old time popularity and many players will use it in place of a number 1 and 2 iron.

However, the new ball will not make a great deal of difference in the game of golfers like myself. I will continue to dubb my second shot if I am fortunate enough to get off a good drive from the tee, and execute a beautiful second if my tee shot is a total loss and follow up with a terrible third. Some of those Florida courses are going to suffer. I wonder how the larger ball will sit on the sand?

TRAIL BOWLERS WIN BY 18 PINS, TELEGRAPH GAME

Nelson Last on List: A. Choquette High Man With Single of 234 Pins

Nelson bowlers dropped one more place in the telegraphic fixtures with Trail and Cranbrook, according to scores from Trail Friday. The Trail bowlers piled up 5333 pins, just 18 more than Cranbrook, to lead Wednesday's fixtures. Nelson bowlers lagged behind the sister cities by some 300 pins.

Choquette's high single of 234 was still unbeaten, however.

Scores were:

TULSA DEFEATS MINNEAPOLIS, 3-2

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 1—(AP) — Thirteen minutes of overtime play was needed for Tulsa to defeat Minneapolis here last night, 3 to 2, in an American league hockey game.

Moffat scored the deciding counter. Tulsa got the jump one minute when the Minneapolis goalie let markets' shot pass between his legs. In the second Minneapolis evened it up when Lessard and Carbol maneuvered McCusker out of position. Williams then staged a brief solo to put Tulsa ahead, but O'Neil and Depaul again got McCusker out of position to tie it up again.

CANADIENS BEAT BLACKHAWKS AT LAST SCORE, 4-2

Record Crowd of 17,000 Fans Pack Chicago Stadium

CHICAGO, Feb. 1 (AP)—The world champion Montreal Canadiens, tonight blasted their Chicago jinx, walloping the Black Hawks, 4 to 2 before a record crowd of more than 17,400 spectators in the Chicago stadium.

The victory was Canadiens' first of the season over the Hawks and marked their first scoring of the campaign against Dick Irwin's team. Little Johnny Gagnon was the spearhead of the Canadian assault. He scored the first two goals, and had an assist on the third one which was credited to Pete Lepine. The one and only Howie Morenz scored the last one on a solo dash made possible by a five-man Black Hawk offense.

AMERICANS BEAT SENATORS, 4-2

Effective Shooting of Himes Is Feature of the Game

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (AP)—The effective shooting of Normie Himes, to which was added a couple of good passes and some timely penalties, enabled the New York Americans to defeat the Ottawa Senators 4 to 2 in a stirring National Hockey league game tonight. The result had no effect on the standing, leaving the Americans fourth in the Canadian division and Ottawa last.

Himes scored three of New York's four goals and led troublesome attacks nearly every minute he was on the ice. Two of New York's counters were aided by penalties to Joe Lamb, scrappy Ottawa center. The Amerks got off to a two goal lead in the first half of the game, lost it to Ottawa's exciting second period rally then regained it as Himes scored twice in the final frame.

George Patterson scored the other New York goal in the comparatively dull first half of the game.

SUMMARY

First period—1, Americans, Himes, 4:55.

Penalties: Gagne.

Second period—2, Americans, Patterson, (Emms, Burch) 3:40; 3, Ottawa, Gagne (Alex Smith) 2:09; 4, Ottawa, Finnigan (Lamb) 3:40.

Penalties: Lamb (2), Massecar.

Third period—5, Americans, Himes, (Dutton) 9:44; 6, Americans, Himes (McVeigh) 9:52.

Penalties: Emms, Finnigan, Lamb.

ESPINOSA WINS GOLF MONEY IN TEXAS TOURNEY

BRACKBRIDGE PARK, SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 1.—Abe Espinosa, veteran Chicago professional, with a pair of 69's, each two under par, won the 10th annual Texas open golf tournament and $1500 first money today with a total of 281 strokes for the 72 holes.

Harry Copper, Joe Turnesa and Frank Walsh secured a three-way tie for second place with 283, dividing $1900. Denny Shute, defender of the title, finished in a tie with Wiffy Cox, Brooklyn, for third with 284.

WILL PROTEST GOAL, PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 1 (AP)—It was a hectic session for the boys at the local arena on Saturday night, but Cleveland Indians departed in a happy frame of mind with a 2-1 victory to their credit over the Yellow Jackets. However, the locals do not admit defeat and an official protest has been lodged with officials of the International Hockey league, who will be asked to decide upon the issue of a "goal" that was not allowed.

"GOOD GOLF" IS REPORT COMING FROM SASKATOON

SASKATOON, Sask., Feb. 1—Well, it's happened again in the short space of two years.

Two Saskatoon couples, today played golf over the nine-hole course at Pike lake, a resort 22 miles from here and enjoyed the game. The course was in fine condition.

Two years ago golf was played on the city course here on New Year's Day.

Saskatoon streets were water soaked as a warm sun melted the snow throughout one of the finest days of an extraordinary winter.

FALCONS BEAT MAPLE LEAFS, 2-0

Hard Session With Quakers on Night Previous Proves Undoing

DETROIT, Feb. 1 (AP)—Toronto's Maple Leafs put up a hard battle against the Detroit Falcons here tonight, but after a game on the previous night with Philadelphia, they tired in the late minutes of the session, and Detroit won, 2 to 0.

The Leafs battled the Falcons evenly during the opening period, and slipped back on defense during the second period, waiting for breaks before they charged the Falcon defense lines. In the final period they faltered, and Carson Cooper and Johnny Sorrel, Falcon wingman, slapped home a goal apiece, each of them on assists by Ebbie Goodfellow, Detroit's sharp-shooting center.

Summary:

First period—No score.

Penalties: Cotton, Filmore.

Second period—No score.

Penalties: Conacher, (2).

Third period: 1, Detroit, Cooper (Goodfellow) 13:04; 2, Detroit, Sorrel (Goodfellow) 14:08.

Penalties: Jenkins.

CHAPMAN BEATS EDWARDS IN 1000 YARDS AT BOSTON

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 1.—Sturdy Russell Champan, of Bates, making his first indoor start of the season, ran the great Phil Edwards into the ground here last night to win the Bishop Cheveus "1000," one of the featured events of the tenth annual Memorial track meet card.

The Maine collegian ran a well-timed race, and held his spurt until the gun sounded for the final turn about the Boston Garden track. At this point the negro flyer from Hamilton, Ont., had a 15-yard lead on Chapman and the other seven starts, including George Bullwinkle of C. C., N. Y., the intercollegiate mile champion, who finished in the ruck. Chapman's mighty lift carried him past Edwards with apparent ease, and, although the former New York university star gamely answered the challenge, he crossed the finish line five yards behind the red-shirted New Englander. Chapman's time was 2:15 4-5, the best ever made for that distance in this historic track and field shrine.

MISS WALLING IS NEW FLASH FOR SPEED SKATING

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 1.—A new comet flashed across the speed skating firmament here yesterday when the Old Orchard Skating club held its annual competitions, and old-timers of the flashing blades must look to their laurels. The newcomer was Miss Pat Walling, who won both the senior lady handicap events, dashing across the finish line ahead of Lella Brooks Potter, Canadian champion. Miss Walling won the 220-yard event and aslo the three-quarter mile event. In both cases Mrs. Potter finished a bangup second.

MANITOBA U WINS FROM FRANCE 9-0

KRYNICA, Poland, Feb. 1 (AP)—The University of Manitoba grads representing Canada, defeated France 9-0, in the opening match of the international hockey tournament here today.

The French team, which lacked its best player, Hasler through illness, fought desperately but vainly against the Canadian's overwhelming superiority.

The Canadians scored one goal in the first period and four in each of the second and third periods.

Harry Dunbar, well-known Kamloops barrister, is dead. He belonged originally to St. Thomas, Ont.

NATIONAL HOCKEY PLAY-OFFS COME LATE IN MARCH

All Games Except the Finals Will Be Home and Home

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 1. (CP)—The board of governors of the National Hockey league, at their regular meeting here yesterday, set the dates for the playoffs, upheld the referee's decision in the matter of a protested goal, and discussed at great length, without reaching a decision, Ottawa's application for financial assistance.

The dates for the playoffs were announced as March 24, 26, 28 and 31, with the final series of three out of five games for the Stanley cup scheduled to start around April 2. The three leading teams in each group of the league enter the playoffs.

An innovation this season is that all games except the finals for the Stanley cup and the game between the group leaders will be played on a home and home basis, total goals to count. In the event of a tie resulting at the end of the second game, overtime will be played until one team or the other scores a goal.

The protested goal arose from the Detroit-Montreal Maroons' game, played last Tuesday at Detroit. The timekeeper reported he pressed the button of the siren which signals the end of a period at 20:01 and the goal scored by Nels Stewart of the Maroons was scored after he pressed the button. Referee R. W. Hewitson stated he did not hear the siren until after the goal was scored, and he allowed the counter.

INEFFICIENT EQUIPMENT

President Frank Calder of the N. H. L. stated a contributing factor in the governor's decision to uphold the referee was the "inefficient equipment" for signalling used by the timekeeper. It was stated the siren used in the Detroit rink required a few seconds to reach its maximum intensity. Since that game a gong has been installed in the Detroit rink.

Redmond Quain of Ottawa presented the case for the Senators in their request for financial backing of the league. He stated that a few years ago the Senators were a great drawing card around the circuit, resulting in great financial returns to the clubs they visited, of which the Senators received very little in return.

A larger share of the gate for visiting clubs was advocated by the Senator representatives, who thought the weaker clubs should receive some form of financial backing from the league to enable them to carry on.

DISCUSSED FOR LONG TIME

The question was discussed for over three hours, and when the meeting adjourned President Calder's only announcement was the laconic, "No decision was reached."

The Ontario Hockey league, recently organized professional loop, was officially affiliated with the N. H. L. at the meeting yesterday. The draft price fixed for players in this loop was set at $2500, instead of $5000, fixed for the other minor leagues.

INDOOR GOLF IS ANCIENT TOO

Tom Thumb Variety Had Its Devotees Thirty Years Ago

SAINT JOHN, N. B., Feb. 1.—Miniature indoor golf was played more than thirty years ago, according to an account taken from a Saint John newspaper in 1897. The item appeared originally in a London journal of that year, and described a course laid out "from garret to cellar", with a saucer in a baby's crib, one of the sportiest holes.

The affair, which was characterized by one of the golfers as "the greatest fun imaginable", was held in an ordinary house, and played by a group of guests, at the instigation of the hostess when wet weather precluded golfing on a regular-sized course. One interesting shot was described:

"My ball was under a great four-poster bedstead in one of the spare rooms; and I had to crawl under and draw it out with my niblick. I could not see the door it was to go through, but Reggie said if I hit it against a certain sofa, which was stuffed with horsehair, the rebound might send it where I wanted it to go. So I tried it, and it was the most perfect success."

COLOMBOS TRIM SCOUTS, TRAIL BASKET CONTEST

TRAIL, B. C., Feb. 1—The Sons of Colombo beat the Scouts 44-35 here Saturday in a fairly fast game, the Scouts scoring most of their points in the second half. A feature of the game was the prolific scoring of Angerilli, Merlo and Graves. Angerilli and Graves took 20 points each and Merlo 16.

Teams—Scouts: J. Baldrey, W. Baldrey 2, Caldicott, Gibson, Balfour 4, Graves 20, Mason 3, Lunde 6.

Colombo: S. Martin, Angerillo 20, Merlo 16, A. Martin 4, Battistella 4, Christante.

EDMONTON JUNIORS BEAT SASKATOON WESLEY TEAM

SASKATOON, Sask., Feb. 1.—The Edmonton all star junior hockey team invaded here Saturday night and took the local Wesley team into camp to the tune of two to one in an exhibition game played on heavy ice. Holmes and Trudel scored the visitors' goals, Clint Smith tallying for Wesley.

Regina has been selected as the place for the annual convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce this fall.

MAPLE LEAFS WIN FROM QUAKERS, 3-2

Philadelpha Turns in Excellent Game to Hold the Torontonians

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 1. (CP)—Playing a fast, snappy game, supported by the brilliant goalkeeping of Wilfred Cude, Philadelphia Quakers belied their lowly position in the American group by holding Toronto Maple Leafs to a close 3 to 2 victory, in a National Hockey league match here Saturday.

A near capacity crowd saw the Quakers hold the Canadian section runners up scoreless for 30 minutes. A sparkling play engineered by the Leafs' defence man, "Red" Horner, resulted in the opening counter. No further scoring occurred until the start of the final counter frame. Conacher then blazed two smoking drives past Cude for his second and third markers within three minutes of the start. The first followed a neat pass-out from the corner by Harvey Jackson and the second on an assist from the wiry Joe Primeau, center man par excellence.

A penalty to Clancy gave Quakers their chance and Jerry Lowrey cut the home team's lead by one, on a pass from Kilrea. The same pair came right back les than two minutes later for another beautiful goal. This time the order of procedure was reversed, Kilrea scoring on Lowrey's pass.

SUMMARY

First period—No score.

Penalties—Cotton, Coulson.

Second period—1, Toronto, Conacher (Horner), 10:24.

Penalties—Jackson, Lowrey.

Third period—2, Toronto, Conacher (Jackson), 1:37; 3, Toronto, Conacher (Primeau), 1:07; 4, Philadelphia, Lowrey (Kilrea), 7:55; 5, Philadelphia, Kilrea (Lowrey), 1:19.

Penalties—Horner, Clancy.

ROBINSON LEADS INTERNATIONAL HOCKEY SCORERS

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 1. (CP)—Earl Robinson, speedy pivot of the Windsor Bulldogs, has left Ken Doraty, flashy left-winger of the Cleveland Indians, six points behind in the struggle for International Hockey league point scoring honors.

Latest statistics issued by President Charles S. King, which included games of Thursday, January 29, show Robinson has notched 20 goals and assisted in scoring 13 others, for a point total of 33. Doraty has 14 goals and 13 assists to his credit, for 27 points.

Alex Gray, captain and center of the Indians, still leads as the circuit's best goal getter. He has beaten opposing goalkeepers 21 times, and this fine sniping record, coupled with four assists, placed him third in the list with 25 points, on a par with Asholmes of Syracuse, who has the distinction of leading in assists with 17. He also has eight counters to his credit.

MAROONS AND RANGERS PLAY TO 2-2 DEADLOCK

Siebert, Boucher, Thompson and Ward Figure in Scoring

MONTREAL, Feb. 1 (CP)—An overtime period failed to break the 2-2 tie between New York Rangers and the Montreal Maroons in their National Hockey league tilt here last night.

The score was tied twice, and both Rangers and Maroons saw themselves with a goal to the good only to have the lead swept away. The Maroons broke away with a goal in the irst when Babe Siebert took Stewart's short pass in a scramble to beat Roach. Frank Boucher evened up in another scramble four minutes later.

The second period was scoreless, and the Rangers forged ahead in the third, Thompson snaring Murdock's pass-out from behind the nets to score. It appeared that the Maroons were beaten, but Jimmy Ward, rangy wing, was loafing near the board, and picked up a loose puck, tieing the score.

SUMMARY

First period—1, Montreal, Siebert, (Stewart) 10:27; 2, Rangers, F. Boucher, (W. Cook), 4:58.

Penalties: Conacher, Ward, G. Boucher, Johnson, Stewart, Regan.

Second period—No score.

Penalties: Stewart, Trottier, Peters, Gallagher, Johnson.

Third period—3, Rangers, Thompson (Murdock), 8:06; 4, Montreal, Ward, 12:24.

Penalties: F. Cook, Peters.

Overtime—No score.

Penalties: Phillips, Jerwa, Regan, Siebert.

BUFFALO WINS FOURTH GAME

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 1 (AP)—Buffalo Americans won their fourth straight home game last night when they defeated St. Louis Fliers 4 to 1 in a fast contest before 3500 fans. The Fliers were saved from a shutout when Kendall took the puck down the bowled Stark over with a shot. Jackson coming in to net the puck. Heyd scored twice for Buffalo, St. John and Thorstienson netting one each.

CLEVELAND BEATS WINDSOR

CLEVELAND, Feb. 1 (AP)—Cleveland entrenched itself more firmly in fourth place in the International Hockey league standing tonight by defeating the second place Windsor Bulldogs, 2 to 0. The Indians now head Pittsburgh by five points, and trail the third place London sextet by only one point.

Dunning and Williams scored.

EAT TWO EGGS A DAY SUGGESTS THE INSPECTOR

Bowell Speaks at Nakusp: Suggests Shippers' Federation

GLENBANK NAKUSP, B. C., Feb. 1—At a special meeting of the Farmers' Institute held in the school house Tuesday evening, S. R. Bowel, Dominion egg inspector addressed a well attended meeting. Mr. Bowel said after a prosperous year among the poultry and egg producers, there loomed difficulties owing largely to the grain situation, mild weather conditions, reaching all over Canada. The speaker suggested a shippers' federation being formed in a community way to keep up the continuity of supply for local marketing. The speaker also suggested instead of the slogan, "Eat one a day," to the slogan being eat two eggs a day. This he said would keep the supply and demand about equal, when people realized the real food value of the egg during the winter months.

THEY WORK TOGETHER

In a review of the trend of the livestock industry for 1930 the Dominion Livestock Branch observes that the market demand for fed calves and yearling beef has brought about a change in production activity of tremendous significance to the range cattle industry. With the growing preference for small joints and steaks, finishing is essentially a job for the mixed farming area. This situation rather clearly defines the function of the ranges as breeding and rearing young cattle of suitable type, and leaves the finishing to the mixed farming areas. This means increased opportunity for each with the turnover on the range materially accelerated.

SAYS SOVIET RUSSIA HAS SECURED "STRANGLE HOLD" ON WOOD PRODUCTS MARKET IN BRITAIN; HARD TO CHANGE

Retiring Agent-General for the Provincial Government Makes Report

VICTORIA, B. C., Feb. 1.—Russia, with convict labor, has achieved actual preference in the British market for its wood products, and nothing but a political upheaval in Britain or a change in policy by the present government will alter this situation and give Empire timber a real opportunity to enter that market, according to a report framed by F. A. Pauline, retiring agent-general for the provincial government.

In this report, his final account to the government, Mr. Pauline says British Columbia Douglas fir continues to rank as first in the imports of Empire softwoods into Great Britain, and during the year substantial shipments of British Columbia timber have been sold in Great Britain.

"THE "STRANGLE HOLD" ON MARKET

In view, however, of foreign competition, and particularly of the "strangle hold" which Soviet timber has on this market, conditions are not at present favorable for an increased trade with Great Britain, Mr. Pauline says.

"The dumping of Russian timber, cut from confiscated lands, by convict labor, and sent to this country for sale at any price, has culminated, he said, in "an attempt to stabilize prices by the formation of a syndicate of timber brokers here, who have contracted to buy $40,000,000 worth of Russian timber in 1931," the report goes on.

"This, it is estimated, represents one-third of the annual softwoods required for this country. So that the Russian government, by its ruthless tactics, has achieved a kind of preference in this market which no other country has."

"Russia also is affecting the fish market," says Mr. Pauline, adding: "The consumption of chilled and frozen salmon has increased, and Labrador fish imported by the Hudson's Bay company in London has become a new factor in this year's trading.

SIBERIAN FISH BELOW BRITISH COLUMBIA PRICE

"In canned salmon the imports from Siberia, at a price below the cost of production in British Columbia, is detrimental to the satisfactory marketing by us of this product. The salmon committee of the British Empire producers' organization prepared a survey of the industry, for the information of the delegates to the Imperial conference, showing how severely this Russian competition is felt, particularly this season, when our output of canned salmon is the largest on record.

"In this item, as in timber, our position cannot be greatly improved until Great Britain changes her policy, and gives a preference to Empire products, as against goods produced by foreign countries."

BOYS AND GIRLS TO JUDGE AT THE WORLD GRAIN SHOW

VICTORIA, B. C., Feb. 1.—Preparation for active participation by British Columbia boys and girls in the seed judging contest to be held at the world's grain show at Regina, in 1932, are being carried out by the department of agriculture, Cecil Tice, field crops commissioner, stated Saturday.

Preliminary contests are to be held throughout the province this year, leading to the selection of the team which will represent British Columbia.

District agriculturists in each area are cooperating heartily in the plan, by training teams of boys and girls for entry in the various preliminary contests that will be held this year.

SHORT SESSION FEATURES PENNY ISSUES, TORONTO

Gold Stocks Are Reactionary: Oil in Softer Trend

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 1.—(CP)—With the exception of the penny issues, trading and prices of stocks on the Standard mining exchange were dull and listless during the short Saturday session. The gold list was reactionary under dull trading, but price changes were comparatively small; base metals showed a softer trend which also was followed by the oils. Total sales 203,887.

Noranda opened at $17.50, sold down to $17.25, and closed firmer at $17.30 for a net loss of 30c, while Nickel closed off 25c at $14.25.

Slow trading with slightly lower prices featured the movement of the precious metal issues. Teck-Hughes gained 10 points to $7.15 and Granada Rouyn two points to close at $1.82. McIntyre dropped 25 to $22.25.

In the oil list, Imperial rose 25c to $17.75; British American broke 50c to $14.50; International Petroleum down 25c closed at $14.50, and Chemical Research lost 20c to $2.80. The lower priced oils were featureless.

MORE BRITISH WEALTH COMES TO PROVINCE

VICTORIA, B. C., Feb. 1.—More wealthy British people came to British Columbia in the last year to settle, through the agency of British Columbia house, London, than ever before, F. A. Pauline, retiring agent-general, reports.

For the 12 months ending September 30 last, Mr. Pauline said, 308 people left Britain for this province, with a view to immediate settlement or in order to make a personal inspection with a view to settling, and all these people had capital. Their total capital amounted to £686,610, apart from annual incomes, totaling £42,438.

CHICAGO CORN HITS LOWEST LEVEL, YEARS

Big Domestic Receipts Weaken Wheat: Oats Off Slightly

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 1.—(By John P. Boughan, Associated Press market editor).—The lowest prices for the season resulted yesterday from new breaks in the corn market. Trade reports said that there had been four months of probably the lightest feeding on record, that this was the third warmest January ever known, and that a larger movement of corn to market centers was in prospect. Wheat was weakened by big domestic receipts, likelihood of rain in Kansas and Oklahoma, and by Liverpool reports of free offerings from Argentina and Australia.

Corn closed nervous, ⅝ to ⅞ cents down; wheat at ⅝ decline to ⅛ advance; oats ⅛ to ¼ off; and provisions unchanged to five cents decline.

PROPOSED FRASER RIVER BRIDGE TO COST MILLIONS

VANCOUVER, B. C., Feb. 1.—Three million dollars is the estimated cost of a bridge which the Terminal Engineering Co. L Ltd., proposes to throw across the Fraser a short distance upstream from Ladner, about 30 miles from Vancouver.

Construction is planned to start in June and contracts will call for completion of the work in two years from that time.

Incidental to, and an important feature, of the bridge will be building of an arterial highway furnishing a direct water grade between Vancouver and the Peace arch at Douglas, on the international boundary. This road will shorten the distance between Blaine, Wash., and Vancouver.

CANADA'S FURBEARERS

Taking an average of the eight years prior to June, 1928, the muskrat stands first in order of value of raw fur production for Canada as a whole, but in several of the provinces it yields place to other kinds of fur bearers. In each of the Maritime Provinces, the silver fox leads; in Quebec and British Columbia the beaver is first; in the Northwest Territories, the white fox; and in the Yukon, the lynx. In Ontario and the Prairie Provinces the muskrat is of chief importance.

CANADA'S LEATHER INDUSTRY

The capital investment of the leather industry in Canada in 1929 had a total value of $27,059,201.

PRICES EASIER ON THE MONTREAL STOCK EXCHANGE

Lake of the Woods Is Strong Point on the Board

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 1.—Prices were easier on the Montreal stock exchange yesterday in very dull trading with movements narrow. The trend of the New York market was not sufficiently definite to exert any effect,ure and closing prices were irregular, without any appearance of an in. ovement. Lake of the Woods was a strong feature, closing at 15, up ree points.

Closing prices, with net changes, included: Atlantic Sugar, off 1½ at 25½; Canadian Car, unchanged at 18; Car preferred ¾ higher at 25; Brazilian Traction, off ⅛ at 28⅜, ex dividend; Canada Steamship preferred, ½ higher at 19½; Dominion Bridge, off ¼ at 52¾; Goodyear preferred, off 1⅛ at 102⅞; Massey-Harris, unchanged at 7½; McColl-Frontenac, off ¼ at 19⅛; Power Corporation, unchanged at 51; Nova Scotia lost two to 316.

Montreal Power closed at 55, up ½ net. International Nickel closed at 14⅛, off ⅛ net.

Total sales 8148 shares; bonds $7700.

SLATE CREEK CLAIMS CHANGE HANDS IN U. S.

METALINE FALLS, Feb. 1.—Negotiations were closed in Spokane last week, whereby a group of capitalists, headed by L. K. Armstrong, well-known mining engineer, and organized as the Lead Hill Mining company, completed their option on the "Lead Hill" group of claims in the new State creek mining district, the scene of last summer's sensational discoveries.

Just who is interested in the venture with Mr. Armstrong has not as yet been made public, but the assumption is that among his associates are men closely connected with some of the large mining companies of the Coeur d' alene region and other prominent interests in the Inland Empire. The consideration has not been made public, but it is generally considered a very good deal from several angles. One of those interested in the claims stated to the News that it was for a good cash consideration and stock in the company.

10 CLAIMS

Ten claims are involved in this deal and include the discovery claims generally known as the Bostrom & Luhr group, which were owned by Chas. Bostrom, Ivar Luhr, C. M. Jeffries and Roy Buffington of this place and T. F. McCarthy of Ione and O. J. Bandelin of Sandpoint.

The new company expects to start further exploration and development on the property as soon as possible under prevailing conditions, and bids are being asked for tunnel driving. The development plan also includes a proposal made to the forest service for the construction of a road on a 50-50 basis with the forest service from a point on the Pend Oreille highway near the State creek bridge to the new field. Also a warehouse for supplies, which will have to be packed in over the trail until the road is completed, is to be constructed near where the present road and trail leave the highway near the Dumont properties.

This is the first deal to be completed for properties in the new Slate creek district, although it is known several others of equal importance are pending and may soon be closed with one of the large companies of the Coeur d'Alene district Surface showings in the new field are more extensive than anywhere in the Metaline section and it is confidently predicted by prospectors and mining men who have visited the field that some good mines will be developed, opening up large bodies of high-grade lead and zinc and possibly more precious metals. Development work will be watched with interest, and it is highly probable that shipments will be made from that district in a surprisingly short time after the road is completed and development work really gets under way.

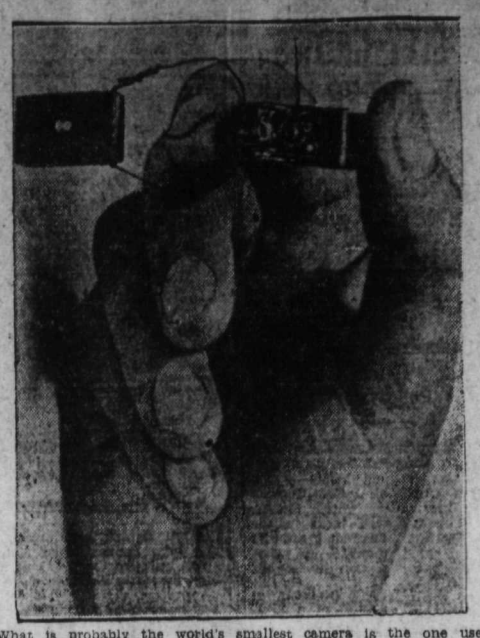
WORLD'S SMALLEST CAMERA



What is probably the world's smallest camera is the one used in the Queen's doll house. The camera was made by the Eastman Kodak company, and is a masterpiece of construction. It is no larger than a thumbnail, yet is is perfect in every detail, and capable of making pictures as mechanically perfect as possible. It required three months to construct it, every part having been made by hand with the aid of jewelers' tools and a microscope.

OKANAGAN WATER RATE DEFINITELY SET, LEGISLATION

Government Has Drafted a Bill Settling Fruit Growing Uncertainty

VICTORIA, B. C., Feb. 1.—The government has drafted legislation finally settling the irrigation problem of the Okanagan, which has been in a state of uncertainty for many years. The substance of this legislation is unknown, but it is designed to fix definitely what the fruit growers must pay to the province for water services.

For 1929 and 1930, according to Mr. Evans' earlier recommendations, the growers were required to pay an amount equal to an average of what they paid for the past 10 years. This was an arbitrary figure designed to cover the situation until a final policy could be adopted.

This year the final policy will be introduced in the form of a government bill already drafted. In brief, Mr. Evans recommended that irrigation rates be based on the ability of the growers to pay. Whether the government has followed this recommendation is not known.

FOOD STOCKS ON TORONTO BOARD ACTIVE LEADERS

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 1.—(CP)—The market on the Toronto stock change was characterized on Saturday by price changes of some issues in the foods list. Atlantic Sugar went off two points to close at 25 and Hunts A gained two to 20. International Milling first preferred gained two to 103.

WINNIPEG WHEAT PRICES DROP

Fair Buying Session Prevents Further Rift in Prices

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 1.—(CP)—Chicago's unsteadiness depressed wheat prices on the market here Saturday. Figures slipped ⅛ to ½ cent lower, only some fair buying preventing a wider break. Profit-taking was another weakening feature.

A one-half cent drop occurred in May and July futures. May closed at 58 cents and July 59 to 59⅛ cents. October fell ⅛ to ¼ at 61 to 61⅛ cents per bushel.

MARKET PRICES ON EGGS STILL SHOWS DECLINE

Extras Sell at 40 Cents, Meats Sell Well, Potted Hyacinths 30 Cents

For the third consecutive time, egg prices declined five cents on the local market list Saturday. The price of first eggs was 35 cents and extras 40 cents. This line was practically cleaned out at the close.

Vegetables stocked the stands in an abundant quantity. Cabbage, turnips and celery were prominent on the stands.

All meat lines sold well, with the prices unchanged from last week.

Yellow Ontario apples were new on the list, selling at $1.50 a box.

Potted hyacinths sold at 30 cents apiece.

STOCK PRICES POINT UPWARD AT VANCOUVER

Home and Lowrey Pete Are Leaders, C. and E. Lands Up Also

VANCOUVER, B. C., Feb. 1.—Values mostly pointed upward in light trading during yesterday's abbreviated session of the Vancouver stock exchange. There was little of outstanding interest, however, and the vast majority of changes were of minor importance.

Home and Lowery Pete led in what activity there yas, and both were firm. Home was up four cents at 1.60, while Lowery on a turnover of approximately 1,000 shares sold up 10 cents to .75. C. and E. Corporation gained two cents to .67.

Pioneer Gold led a quiet mines list with an advance of four cents to 1.45. Big Missouri was fractionally higher.

POLICE REVENUE IN CITY GROWS BY 60 PER CENT

Police Court Cases Number 309, Gain of About 50 Per Cent.

PRINCIPAL GAINS, LIQUOR, TRAFFIC

New Commission Receives the Chief's Report: Asks Police Car

When the police commission held its first meeting of the civic year on Saturday, it had before it the report of Chief of Police Thomas H. Long for 1930, whose figures, when compared with those in the report for 1929, showed practically a 50 per cent increase in police court cases, and a gain in revenue of 60 per cent.

Where the cases that went to police court in 1929 numbered 210, there were 309 in 1930, and the resultant revenue in fines and costs, which was $4024.65 in 1929, grew to $6478 in 1930.

The increase in court cases, comparison of the reports showed, was attributable very largely to increase in liquor prosecutions of various kinds, and to the many prosecutions under the Railway act, though several other classes also showed gains. The intoxication cases increased from 78 to 102, the Liquor act infractions from 22 to 37, and the prosecutions for driving while intoxicated from none to four. Railway act offences that reached the city police court rose from 19 to 35, while the prosecutions under the Streets and Traffic bylaw numbered 18, as compared with five. There were also other classes that gained.

Where 51 persons were sent to jail in 1929, 72 were sentenced to jail terms in 1930.

The chief's report for the past year, dated January 6, but only seeing the light of day on Saturday, was as follows:

POLICE COURT CASES

"During the past year there were 309 cases disposed of by the police magistrate, a summary of which is as follows:

Intoxication	102
Liquor act infractions, other than intoxication	37
Intoxicated while driving motor vehicles	4
Thefts	10
Theft of automobiles	3
False pretences	2
Receiving stolen property	3
Assaults (common)	12
Assaults, doing actual bodily harm	2
Intimidation	1
Vagrancy	14
Damage to property	6
Causing disturbance	8
Railway act	35
Motor vehicle act	32
Streets and Traffic bylaw	18
Pound bylaw	1
Offensive Weapons act	4
Fire Marshals act	1
Income War Tax act	1
Radiotelegraph act	3
Game act	1
Opium and Narcotic Drugs act	1
Housebreaking	1
Shopbreaking	2
Barber Shops Closing bylaw	1
Non-payment of room rent	1
Insanity	3
Total	309

"There were 72 persons committed to the provincial jail for terms of imprisonment ranging from one hour to one year, a summary of which is as follows:

"One person for one hour; six for five days; three for eight days; two for 10 days; one for 14 days; one for 15 days; four for 20 days; 36 for 21 days; one for 25 days; eight for 30 days; one for two months; three for three months; two for four months; one for six months; two for one year.

"Some 17 charges were dismissed, 10 charges were withdrawn, and 15 persons received suspended sentence.

"Receipts for the year, fines and costs, were $6478.

"During the year 453 meals were furnished prisoners in the city lockup.

"Some 119 destitute transients were given shelter in the city lockup during the year, and 74 meals were furnished the more needy ones.

"An average of 75 destitute unemployed men are being supplied with meals daily by the city.

"During the year there were a large number of complaints of a minor character made to the department. Each complaint was investigated and nearly all were settled to the satisfaction of the complainants without having to resort to police court proceedings.

"Some 75 doors of business places were found open or insecurely fastened during the year. In all cases the premises were made secure and the owners notified.

STREET TRAFFIC

"Altogether, 70 written reports of motor vehicle accidents were received during the year, in which a man fell off a truck on Nelson avenue and was killed instantly, two persons sustained broken legs, and 10 other persons were slightly injured.

"Three cars were stolen during the year, one of which was recovered by the British Columbia police at Grand Forks, who furnished information that led to the arrest of the man responsible for the theft. This man was convicted and sentenced to one year's imprisonment. Another stolen car was recovered by the British Columbia Boston Bar, B. C., but the thief escaped. The other car was recovered inside the city limits, and the man responsible for the theft was arrested, convicted and sentenced to one year's imprisonment.

"Ten cars were reported as having been taken from where they were parked on the streets, presumably by "joyriders." All were recovered, some of them slightly damaged, by the police inside the city limits. Fifteen persons surrendered their drivers' white licences, and received blue licences instead. Two persons surrendered their drivers' blue licences and received drivers' yellow licences instead. The drivers' licences of three persons were suspended during the year, one for 12 months, one for six months, and one for three months.

STOP SIGNS

"The stop signs installed at the intersection of Railway and Baker streets, and at all intersections along Baker street and at all intersections from Baker street to Lakeside park, are now being religiously observed by motorists and others, although at first it became necessary to prosecute a number of motor vehicle drivers for not observing these signs.

"I find that quite a number of parents appear to toally disregard the curfew bylaw by allowing their children under the age of 15 years to roam the streets long after the ringing of the curfew bell.

"Two men died suddenly in their rooms in local hotels. One man committed suicide by shooting himself, one committed suicide by hanging himself in the city jail, one man was run over by a C. P. R. train between the city wharf and Lakeside park, and one man fell off a truck on Nelson avenue and was killed instantly.

"Inquests were held on the bodies of four men who met violent deaths.

"Three persons were committed to the mental hospital at Essondale, two of whom were taken there at the expense of the city, and the relatives of the other patient paid all expenses in connection with his transportation and escort to Essondale.

"Hallowe'en passed off with very little damage to property having been committed. This was largely due to the splendid entertainment provided by the city for the young people, to the principals and teachers of all the schools in the city, lecturing the pupils against the practice of committing acts of destruction, and to the vigilance of special constables and the regular force. The thanks of the department is hereby tendered to the teachers and all others who interested themselves in the welfare of the young people.

RECOMMENDATIONS

"I would again respectfully recommend that a motor vehicle of some sort be provided for the department, which would greatly facilitate the work of the department.

"The thanks of the department are hereby tendered to Warden Jarvis of the provincial jail, to the members of the British Columbia police, to Constable Brown of the Canadian Pacific Railway police force, for their cooperation and assistance during the year, and to The Nelson Daily News, for publicity given in matters pertaining to the department, which greatly assisted in many ways.

"In conclusion, I wish to thank His Worship Mayor Barnes and Commissioners Fletcher and Ewing for their support and encouragement during the year."

PATRONS LEAVE SHOES IN TAXIS

All Sorts of Things Are Collected by Taxi Drivers From Vehicles

MONTREAL, Feb. 1—If you lose an article in a taxicab, you have three out of four chances of having it returned to you, according to an official of one of the large taxicab companies in Montreal. If you find an article left in a taxi by a previous patron, you will probably be asked about it, although the average in this matter is not so easily arrived at. Day by day throughout the year from eight to 12 articles are reported lost by taxi patrons. Others that are not reported are deliberately left behind. For the most part these are shoes.

Umbrellas, the easiest thing to forget anywhere else, keep their distinction among articles turned in by drivers or reported lost. Next in number are purses or handbags, and parcels of all kinds, shapes and sizes.

Among the unusual articles left behind are shoes, often of an age which must have endeared them to their owners. The apparent explanation, said the official, is that people suddenly deciding that they need new "kicks", buy them and change into them forthwith in the comparative privacy of a cab. Sometimes patrons, temporarily financially embarrassed and unable to pay their fares, give watches or other pieces of jewellery as pledges.

Reposing on a shelf in the official's office is an interesting exhibit a bottle of brandy and an envelope containing over $7. The unknown owner called a cab, gave the driver $10 to buy him the brandy and then failed to appear at the appointed meeting place.

Lost articles are kept one month by the taxicab association, three months subsequently by the police, and then if not claimed are turned over to the driver who handed them in.

The official had no recollection of anyone ever trying to dispose of troublesome pets by leaving them in taxicabs, as was the experience of a Chicago company, whose drivers turned in one tame skunk and one small but very active bear.

Man Hides From Thug Anna Loses Temper

CHICAGO, Feb. 1— Anna Gladman, 20-year-old clerk in a sporting store, is quiet, home home-loving girl, but when a bandit walked into the store, pointed a pistol at her and asked to see the contents of the cash register, she lost her temper.

Anna led with a left, crossed it with a right, and hit the bandit soundly on the chin.

Then she walked over to the telephone and called the police. The bandit, retrieving his pistol, repointed it at the girl clerk and said: "Get away from that telephone or I'll kill you."

Anna finished telephoning. She locked the door, walked over to the bandit, and hit him on the nose and in the stomach. She was kicking his shins when the police arrived.

Then Anna reached under a counter with her broom, and dislodged a man customer who had been hiding there since the bandit entered.

MORE LIGHT ON CLOP DISAASTER

Capt. John P. Horwood Defends Those Who Jumped to Death

ST. JOHN'S Nfld., Feb. 1—Exception to the opinions of those who saw the stranded hull of the schooner Warren M. Colp after the wreck at Burnt Point, Bay De Verde, and expressed the view that if her crew of six had remained on board until the sea went down, four of their number would not have been lost, is taken by Captain John P. Horwood, veteran sailing master of St. John's.

The Warren M. Colp was lost in Conception bay on December 15, and on the following day witnesses said men could walk around her in rubber boots, so low was the water.

"Some men declare that if people would stay by their vessels longer than they usually do in times of shipwreck, there would not be so many men lost," notes Captain Horwood in the Evening Telegram. "I cannot substantiate such a statement, simply because I have known so many men lost who waited for a better chance to get ashore in times of disaster. I wonder if the master or crew of the Warren M. Colp knew the depth of water around Gull Island when they jumped from the bow-sprit to that island rock? Did they know whether there were three fathoms or twenty-three fathoms under that cliff where she drifted in? If it were deep enough she would eventually sink out of sight, as many others did."

Captain Horwood points to many wrecks as evidence bearing out his contention. When the Bonnie Lass struck at Pouch Cove in 1833, Captain Dan Hogan and four of his crew were lost. The captain's brother and another seaman jumped from the bow without delay and were saved. The schooner Hopewell was lost on Miscayan Island in 1875. One man jumped to a rock and was saved, the other seven going down with the vessel.

The writer refers to many other sea tragedies of more recent date, and referring to the Warren M. Colp asserts that "in my humble opinion these men were lost, like many others, because they were overtaken by a snowstorm and tried to get into Conception Bay for shelter, but were unacquainted with the bay."

Captain Horwood points out that there is not a harbor on the northwest side of the bay from Bacalieu to Carbonear, a distance of 26 miles of coast, exposed to rough weather. Nor is there a haven from Cape St. Francis to Holyrood, 28 miles, on the southeast side.

"Be it far from me," he concludes, "to make any statement as to what time master mariners should abandon ship, when all sensible men know that that depends on the surrounding circumstances in time of trouble."

INTERCOLLEGIATE RUGBY ADOPTS FORWARD PASS

MONTREAL, Feb. 1—The forward pass rule was adopted at yesterday's annual meeting of the Intercollegiate Rugby Football union, the exact regulations governing its use to be worked out at later deliberations. The playing season opens October 10, next, and games will be played each Saturday as in the past.

SCHNEIDER CUP AFFAIR DRAWS FIRE, ENGLAND

Lady Houston and Under-Secretary Exchange "Compliments"

LONDON, Feb. 1.—(C. P. cable)—The recent offer of Lady Houston to guarantee £100,000 toward the expenses of British participation in the Schneider cup air races and her charge that the Labor government was doing its best to make Great Britain a third-rate power, brought a piquant exchange of "compliments" tonight from F. Montague, parliamentary under-secretary of state for the air ministry.

"Lady Houston's statement to the press in which she claimed the government was doing its best to make us a third-rate power and 'that we are not worms to be trampled under the heels of socialism,' is another proof of the fact that many rich people regard the Labor government as merely a hateful interlude wherein only the barest pretence of social decency is called for," Mr. Montague said.

"The Houston wealth did not drop from the skies," he declared, "but it came from the toil of the nation." He concluded that Lady Houston would have to tolerate a socialist government for some time and added that one day the workers of the country, "who really constitute the British nation," will refuse to tolerate longer what he described as "the impudence of the present ruling class."

GERMAN INDUSTRY IS BEST ORGANIZED

An extensive yet condensed picture of the economic and political conditions in Germany is contained in a new study of that republic which has just been finished by the Institute of International Finance at New York University. The work is a compilation of information from three international, eleven foregin and eight domestic sources. The study takes up first the political situation and then the economic condition of Germany, explaining that the country's budgetary problem is owing primarily to political conditions and not to any inherent economic inability to balance its finances, as Germany is, industrially, the best organized and equipped country in Europe today. Although the institute's economists confine the study mainly to a shifting of facts and are frugal in expressing opinion, several encouraging conclusions are indicated in the report:

"First. That no party in Germany, excluding the Communist Party, is in favor of the repudiation of German public securities privately issued abroad and, hence, regardless of the party or group of parties which is now in power or which may come into power in the future, no repudiation of such obligations for political reasons will take place.

"Second. There seems to be no danger of a willful breach of the new reparation plan. Any change that may take place will be in accordance with the provisions of the Young Plan.

"Third. The merits of German securities issued abroad depend primarily, as heretofore, on economic factors, although political factors have a bearing on the financial situation of the country.'

The report proceeds from a discussion of the political situation, to an analysis of budgetary history, revenues, expenditures and public debt of Germany, and then to a review of the economic situation with details on industrial and financial resources and activities.

In contrast to the American method of collecing taxes and allocating expenditures, the institute's study presents a picture that is interesting and revealing. A large part of the important revenues are collected by the German National Government and are then turned back to the states and communes without regard to their respective budget requirements.
