STORMS HOLD THE WORLD FLYERS ON LAND IN SIBERIA

Repairs Made to Damaged Wing But Weather Over North Pacific Is Too Squally for Safe Flying; Flyers Deny Giving Up Flight

TOKIO, Aug. 4.—(AP)—A Rango news agency dispatched from Khabarovsk, Siberia, today said repairs were completed on the plane of the American flyiers, Hugh Herndon, jr., and Clyde Pangborn, and that they apparently planned to continue their round-the-world dash.

The dispatch said the repairs were completed at 8:40 a.m. Tokio time today (6:40 p.m. E.S.T. Monday) but that the fliers were delaying their flight across the north Pacific on account of unfavorable weather. Herndon and Pangborn damaged a wing of their plane when they landed at Khabarovsk.

Weather reports indicated unfavorable conditions prevailed over the north Pacific. High winds whipped across Japan and the region of the north.

The fliers did not set any definite time for their take-off to Nome, Alaska.

Later dispatches said the fliers denied New York reports that they had considered abandoning their round-the-world flight attempt. They say they would continue as soon as weather reports indicated conditions were more favorable.

Five Blocks in Idaho Town Are Burned Out; Loss Fixed at $75,000

GRANGEVILLE, Idaho, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Fire which swept along five blocks of a residential street here today, burned itself out late this afternoon. Firemen estimated the damage between $50,000 and $75,000.

The flames destroyed ten homes and ten barns and garages, besides a number of smaller buildings. Fire fighters were handicapped by a low water supply and lack of pressure, while a strong southwest wind spread the blaze.

FOG, RAIN COMBINE BEAT TOKYO FLIGHT FORT WORTH DOWN

Too Late to Try Again Say Robbins and Jones; Both Planes Safe

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Aug. 3. (AP)—Reg. L. Robbins and Harold S. Jones, Fort Worth, Texas, flyers, who were forced down here on their second attempt at a non-stop refueling flight from Seattle to Tokio, will not try the hop again, they said today.

After sleeping soundly for five hours and a half, but still showing the effects of their 27 hours in the air, the Texans were cheered to learn their refueling plane had landed at Ruby after they lost it in the fog early today.

"It's too late to try it again this year," said Robbins. "We have tried it twice and had no luck, and there is no use playing with it any more."

Robbins and Jones were downcast over the failure after conditions had been perfect during the early stages of the flight.

FOG AND RAIN

"When we came over Fairbanks in perfect weather and saw clear skies to the westward we thought everything was going to be clear sailing, and it was until we got between Caltag and Unalakleet," Robbins said.

"Then it became foggy and rainy. It became right difficult to keep the refueler in sight, and finally we lost it altogether. We realized the refueler could not get over the mountains to Unalakleet so we came back to Fairbanks and flew over town for three hours, hoping Mattern and Greener would return in the refueler so we could refuel and try again.

"But when they did not return, and the ground fog lifted, we started to land. Picking a hole in the fog, we set her down. We had 50 gallons of gasoline in the tank when we landed. Fuel consumption averaged 22 gallons an hour, and the motor worked perfectly all the time."

Jones said they were extremely disappointed at "not being able to put it over," adding he thought it was too late in the season for a third attempt at the $25,000 prize offered by a Tokio newspaper for such a flight.

AIR PAGEANT SPLITS

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 3. (CP)—Aerial members of Canada's cross-country pageant planned tonight to divide forces, seven machines swinging southward through the United States and a dozen proceeding eastward to Fort William. Seven Royal Canadian air force planes, including the five Siskin fighters, are to make the eastward journey to Montreal by way of St. Paul, South Bend, Detroit and Walkerville. They expect to arrive in Montreal by Friday noon.

The main body of the pageant, which has already flown from Hamilton, Ont., to the Pacific coast and back to Winnipeg, plans to stage a pageant at the lakehead Thursday, then proceeding eastward.

BROOKMERE ON KETTLE VALLEY IN PATH FIRE

Every Available Man Checking Flames; Trains Are Rerouted

MERRITT, B. C., Aug. 3.—The forest fire which on Saturday threatened the village of Juliet, has advanced until it is now threatening the town of Brookmere and unless there is some change in the wind abandonment of the town may be necessary. The fire has been fanned by high winds from the south and has followed the railway right-of-way until it is now within one mile of the town.

Efforts by railway crews and the forestry department have proven unavailing and every available man has been recruited to fight the blaze. All trains are still being detoured via Spences Bridge and the remaining railway phone and telephone lines are being maintained with great difficulty.

Valuable timber tracts owned by the Southern Interior Light and Power Co. are still untouched but, should the wind continue as at present, they are in grave danger of being wiped out by the blaze.

LILLOOET, B. C., Aug. 3.—Forest fires across the river from Lillooett are out of control and being driven south by a high wind.

Finds No Seconder; Mineralogist Suggests Put Men in Placer Fields

VANCOUVER, Aug. 3 (CP)—A vigorous protest by Ald. Walter Deptford against police treatment of unemployed demonstrators, and the offer of Major W. H. Cross, Vancouver mineralogist, to relieve Vancouver's unemployment problem by reviving placer mining at the Cariboo, featured an otherwise dull session of city council, this afternoon.

No action was taken by council on either the protest or the offer.

Alderman Deptford, rising to a point of privilege, plunged into the heart of his subject by declaring that the police had struck the first blow in Saturday afternoon's unemployed riot on Cambie grounds.

"The meeting of the unemployed was very quiet and orderly," he said, "until they started to parade and the police broke it up As a result we nearly had a very serious outbreak."

ORDERLY PARADE

In contrast to Vancouver's disturbances, he said, was the orderly parade of the unemployed in New Westminster the same afternoon.

"Until we get to the point where we are broadminded enough to allow parades of unemployed, I tell you

RADIO UNABLE LOCATE PLANE IN FAR NORTH

FRANTIC EFFORTS MADE GET THE LAKE

CHURCHILL, Man., Aug. 3.—(CP)—Silence of the north country cast a cloak over the whereabouts of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his little wife, traversing the Canadian barrens on a holiday aerial jaunt to the orient. The flying idols of United States were believed to have landed safely at bleak Baker Lake, 375 miles to the north, but word of their arrival could not be obtained through the static-filled air.

Three-quarters of an hour after noon today, the Lindberghs' low-wing Lockheed darted up from the blue waters of Churchill harbor. For almost an hour, the compact little monoplane soared above the rising buildings of the west's new seaport town, as the radio station tuned in with Mrs. Lindbergh's set. Then the plane scooted away into the north for Baker Lake.

Even the most leisurely flying along the rocky shore on the west side of Hudson's bay would have brought the flying colonel and his wife to the tiny trading post by 5 o'clock central time (6 p.m. e.s.t.). But not a signal came from the little radio station, Baker Lake's only means of long-distance communication with the outside world.

BAKER LAKE SILENT

"For some reason unknown, the Baker Lake station is not on the air tonight," it was announced from the department of radio and marine

Mr. King—"Before we proceed further, there is a matter of personal privilege of which I wish to speak."

Mr. Bennett—"Would my right hon. friend rather speak now or at a later stage?"

Mr. Mackenzie King—"I have in my hand a copy of the Toronto Mail and Empire of Saturday, August 1, which carries the following headline across the front page:

'Bennett says King told Senator Haydon: Get the Money.'

"A little further down the page there is a subheading: 'Go and get money,' under which appears the following:

'Thrusting an accusing, quivering forefinger directly at Mr. King, Mr. Bennett declared in searing phrase that the former premier had said to his friend, Senator Haydon, 'Go and get money'—and that Senator Haydon had promptly gone and got it from Beauharnois.'

HAPPINESS, PROSPERITY CANADA'S BIRTHRIGHT

"Troubled Times Will Pass" Says Speech From the Throne; Adds That Beauharnois Legislation Safeguards Canada's Investors

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 3. (CP)—Asserting that "These troubled times will pass, for adversity is powerless against the will of Canada to regain the happiness and prosperity which are its birthright," the speech from the throne, which closed the second session of the 17th parliament of Canada this evening, reviews the legislation passed.

Specific mention is made in the speech of the legislation enacted with respect to the Beauharnois power and canal development. Those measures, the speech states, "have been enacted to secure the public interest against harmful exploitation of our natural rsources, and to safeguard the rights of bona fide investors."

Reference is made in the speech to the fact that the great powers in Europe, "following the generous and constructive action of the president of the United States of America, which Canada wholeheartedly endorses, are unitedly striving for the re-establishment of better world conditions.

"Toward this close," proceeds the speech, "we may now effectively contribute, by steadfastly bending ourselves to the task of freeing Canada from the consequences of this universal state of economic depression and of the particular misfortune which has befallen the west, so that this country may be ready to take its place in the forefront of the world's recovery."

Friendly relations, he was quoted as having said, would continue between himself and Helen.

NATIONALISTS CRUSH REBELLION IN CHINA; 250,000 SURROUNDED

SHANGHAI, Aug. 3. (AP)—The rebellion of the northern war lord, Shih Yu-San, was reported nearly crushed today by Nationalist government troops, simultaneously with the government's announcement hat Kiangsi province Reds had been defeated and scattered after two months' fighting.

Only a few bands of Reds of the hordes that for a year had drenched the countryside with blood and burned cities, were left intact after the vigorous campaign directed by president Chiang Kai-Shek.

These reverses suffered by Nationalist foes were believed to have made unlikely any advance northward by Canton insurgent government armies which was planned by Canton to begin last Saturday through Kwangtung and Kiangsi provinces.

More than 250,000 rebels of General Shih Yu-San were said by neutral news sources to be virtually surrounded in southern Chihli province by Nationalist armies advancing northward in cooperation with the southward movement of their Manchurian allies along the Peiping-Hankow railroad.

CHALLENGES COMMUNISM AS THREAT WHOLE WORLD; "NEEDN'T GO RUSSIA"

CLOVERDALE, B. C., Aug. 3. —Denunciation of Communism, as threatening Canada and other nations, was voiced in a Memorial day address here by the Most Rev. A. E. U. Depencier, Archbishop of New Westminster.

Archbishop Depencier spoke at the annual war memorial service of Surrey Sunday afternoon.

"We are challenged today as never has this world been challenged since the fourth century," declared the speaker. "There is the great example of Russia, which has banished religion and whose five-year plan is opposed to the principles of Christianity."

"We needn't go to Russia, for the threat of Communism appears across this country from coast to coast. Communism would first banish God and then upset the rights of the individual. There is no such thing as family life under Communism. Out goes the family, and her sons are treated like brute beasts."

Russia has found that all men are not equal, said Bishop Depencier, and only this month it was found necessary to recognize the intelligentisia.

WILL LOOK OVER PARK TODAY FOR PICNIC SERVICE

Parks and Works Committee to Go Over Betterments Planned

MAY DECIDE TO ADD MORE TABLES

Plans Completed for a Civic Luncheon to Visiting Councils and Company Heads

Nelson's arrangements to supplement those of the Trail committee in connection with the monster picnic here next Saturday of the employees of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company of Canada were before the city council Monday night in several respects.

CHECK PARK FACILITIES

The parks and public works committees, it was decided, should visit Lakeside park Tuesday afternoon, and look over the facilities, and particularly the table accommodation, and the matter of thoroughly wetting down the picnic ground so as to minimize the dust. While it is understood the Trail committee is sending over a fatigue party to erect special tables for the occasion, it was stated by several aldermen that the permanent tables were taxed every Sunday to accommodate the picnic parties using the park, and if more tables are erected, it is proposed that they should be erected now, so as to be of use for the visitors from Trail, Tadanac and Rossland.

While looking into the special question of watering the grounds for the day of the picnic, the committees will also look into the matter of a larger water main to the park so as to make possible more generous sprinkling in hot weather so as to preserve the green grass.

All the special facilities to be provided for the day only will also be reviewed.

Special parking arrangements for the day, it was stated, could not embrace use of any portion of the Canadian Pacific right-of-way, as an answer to the city's application for permission to use a strip of it for additional parking in connection with Lakeside park could not come in time to be of service in this connection.

An improvement at Lakeside park decided on, though having no reference to the Consolidated picnic, will be a red navigation light on the bathing float, which Alderman R. W. Dawson declared was in its unlighted condition a menace to motorboats using the West Arm at night.

LUNCHEON PLANS

Alderman J. B. # Battle Looms After Catalonians Ballot in Favor Autonomy

BARCELONA, Aug. 3 (AP)—Catalonian officials today made plans to present as quickly as possible a statute granting autonomy to the state at the national assembly in Madrid.

The proposal received overwhelming support in a plebiscite taken Sunday in which 600,000 persons voted—a record vote for Catalonia. On the basis of official figures 90 per cent of the voters favored independence.

MADRID, Aug. 3 (AP)—Stiff opposition to autonomy for Catalonia when the measure comes before the national assembly, was predicted today by political observers.

Indications were the Catalonian deputies would try to obtain the support of Basque and Gallegan representatives, who have similar aspirations for their districts. Republicans and socialists were expected to form the opposition.

COUNCIL REFUSES TO GRANT LICENCE TO KAPEL SHOWS

Decides That Nelson Doesn't Want Any Carnival This Year

Despite the verbal assurance of the advance agent of Kapel's All-Canadian shows, that the company's "carnival - midway," composed of merry-go-round, ferris wheel, athletic sideshow, mystery sideshow and all-star vaudeville sideshow, with five concessions, was clean and well conducted, the city council Monday night decided to refuse it a licence for a projected three-day appearance in Nelson, on dates tentatively selected as September 7-9.

The advance agent said the carnival was playing a series of dates through southern British Columbia, from Fernie and Cranbrook westward. No other carnival company was coming to the interior this season, he said.

After hearing the agent, the council referred the matter to committee of the whole, and late at night took up the question of licensing it.

Alderman R. W. Dawson favored obtaining more information as to the character of the carnival before coming to a decision, but the balance of the council held that one carnival was pretty much like another, and that one was not wanted here this year, particularly in view of the business depression, and it was decided to refuse it a licence.

Some question was raised as to whether the council had power under the Municipal act to refuse a licence, but it was decided to assume this power anyway.

LINDBERGHS GET EXCELLENT SLEEP

Much Easier to Sleep in Canadian North than Way Down South Asserts the Flying Colonel

CHURCHILL, Man., Aug. 3 (CP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh are agreed that the Canadian north is 'a great country for rest and sleep."

"We had a great sleep last night and feel much refreshed," said the colonel as he emerged from the cottage home of George D. Kidd, resident engineer of Canada's newest seaport, this morning.

The Lindberghs were extremely pleased with the cordial reception extended them in Churchill. They were interested in the history of the port, and expressed amazement with the ocean port development.

"A night's rest here is as good as a week in the south," the colonel told the Canadian Press correspondent. "We feel great this morning, and we have certainly enjoyed our visit here."

COUNCIL TO USE BOTH KINDS OF ADS FOR BYLAW

Mayor Morgan Insists on Business Locals as Well as Display

SOLD 500 AUSTRIAN SCYTHES BY THEM

Alderman Dawson to Help City Clerk Wasson Frame the Ads

"Beside our regular display advertising in The Nelson Daily News, let us also put notices in the 'business locals', counselled Mayor J. P. Morgan, to the city council Monday night, when discussing a proposal by Alderman R. W. Dawson to specially advertise the new parking bylaw, so that every motorist would have the regulations specially drawn to his attention.

"There is great value in those 'business locals'," asserted the mayor. "I sold 500 Austrian scythes by a 'News of the Day' ad that cost me only 65 cents a week."

City Clerk W. E. Wasson grumbled that it would be prety hard to compress the volume of matter in the new parking bylaw into the space of the city's tri-weekly display ad.

It was pointed out to him that the city had a city clerk who was a first class condenser, but to play fair with him the council appointed Alderman Dawson to help him write the condensed advertising relating to the bylaw.

"The motorists are as a whole carrying out the new parking regulations splendidly and with good civic spirit," declared Mayor Morgan, "and in another fortnight everybody will be doing it, and will forget that we ever permitted all-night parking, or parking on Baker street for more than one hour in the business day."

KING MAKES A THREAT TO SUE EASTERN PAPER

Mr. Speaker, I read through the speech made by the prime minister of which this purports to be a reproduction from which it is to be assumed the headings have been drawn. May I say that I could see nothing in the speech made by the prime minister, from beginning to close, or in any speech made by the right hon. gentleman at any time in this house which justifies the heading appearing there or the statement I have read."

"The prime minister is in this house of commons in front of me at the moment, and I should like him to say whether he ever made any statment of the kind. * * * for any paper to print such a heading and make such a statement reproducing part of a debate which occurred in this house of commons is to render itself open to an action for criminal libel.

"Now I want to remind my right hon. friend, of his own words on Friday last:

Mr. Bennett—"This question of privilege."

IS A CORRECTION

Mr. King—"So long as he held to insinuations and innuendos I remained silent. But had there been a direct statement of the character here ascribed to the prime minister I certainly would immediately have taken exception to it. I am making this statement at the moment, Mr. Speaker, first of all by way of correction, and in the second place to say again emphatically that at no time since I have been leader of a political party have I given directions to anyone with respect to campaign funds.

"I am making it for this reason: That it may become necessary for me, if this kind of statement is repeated by any individual or any newspaper in this country, to consider whether I shall not immediately institute actions for criminal libel.

"And I do not wish the party who produced the statement to be able to raise, in self defence, the plea that, when I had an opportunity in the house of commons, I had not taken advantage of it first to correct what was false and to state to the house what was true."

RIGHT TO DENY

Right Hon. R. B. Bennett (prime minister)—"It is not usual on question of privilege, to avail oneself of the opportunity to make a speech. The speaker has ruled that this is improper. Nor is it usual to make threats against those who are not members of the house or those who are members. This is not regarded as a question of privilege. On a question of privilege it is the right of every member to deny the accuracy of reports that have been made with respect to what he has said in the house.

"The right hon. gentleman was perfectly within his rights in availing himself of the opportunity to deny the accuracy of the report to which he has alluded. I have not looked at hansard, and that the statements made in the newspaper to which he refers are not extracts from speeches reported in hansard, then it must be that the statements are incorrect.

"I am perfectly content to take his word regard. Beyond that I cannot go."

The incident then closed.

MILK WAR ARMISTICE LOOMS, PORTLAND

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 3. (AP)—An armistice, and probably peace, in Portland's milk war appeared nearer tonight.

Governor Meier took a hand in the controversy today by suggesting that whatever the difficulty, it should be suceptible to amicable adjustment by an impartial and just tribunal. Spokesmen for the producers and for the distributors of Portland's milk supply issued statements saying they would be glad to arbitrate.

"We will meet with any arbitration group," said W. W. Henry, secretary-manager of the Dairy Cooperative association.

"We will be glad to arbitrate; in fact, we were arbitrating when the trouble started," said A. M. Work, spokesman for the distributors.

FIGHT CUT IN THE SALARIES OF THE TRAIL POLICEMAN

Proposed 10 Per Cent Cut in Wages Causes a Lengthy Discussion

TRAIL, B. C., Aug. 3.—The city council of Trail tonight discussed at length the refusal of the Trail police commission to make reductions in the wages of police force members. It was suggested that the council should use its right to appeal to the lieutenant-governor-in-council, empowered by statute.

Alderman Anderson opened the discussion by asking why the commission had not fallen in line with the city's action in this respect.

Mayor Bruno LeRose, as chairman of the police commission, said the commission had evidently made up its mind before the meeting at which it was subsequently dealt with. The officers were working hard and were doing a great deal of work when they ordinarily would not be on duty.

Alderman Newman wanted to know why one commissioner had changed his mind in 12 hours with regard to the recommended cut.

Aldermen Saunders and Anderson felt that the police officers were not the only city employees who gave extra time to their work when called upon.

APPEAL DISCUSSED

The question of control over the commission with regard to salaries was also discussed, City Solicitor R. J. Clegg explaining that appeal could be made to the lieutenant-governor-in-council.

Alderman Docksteader was willing to make a motion over Alderman Newman, who declared the commission was bull-headed.

Alderman Burgess felt that the commission and the council should get together on the question.

Alderman Groutage declared he was absolutely opposed to the 10 per cent reduction and said the commission evdiently knew its own mind. The council had voted not to take action for at least three months and then had turned aroudn.

Mayor LeRose said the commission saw the work that was being done by the police. They did not want graft. They wanted to pay the men, and be able to fire them if they did not do their duty.

WANTS QUESTION FACED

Alderman Burgess repeated that he thought it was possible to settle the question quietly.

Alderman Newman disagreed, saying the publicity given to the commission's decision was making fools of the city council.

The discussion continued, and it was finally decided to leave it to the mayor to bring the two bodies together as soon as possible.

radio stations here tonight, "and we cannot get any information regarding Lindbergh. We last communicated with him at 1:10 p.m. and last heard his transmitter at 2:40 p.m."

The radio station's report went on to say: "Since then, he has not been heard by any of our stations. Very heavy static makes communication with Baker Lake extremely difficult. It is possible that efforts to pick up the isolated station's signals will meet with better success in the morning."

FLYING FANS WORRY

Alarm of flying fans at the inability to obtain confirmation that the Lindberghs had landed safely, was tempered by the recollection that a similar situation arose on Saturday when the Colonel and his wife completed their 461-mile flight from Ottawa, Ont., to Moose Factory, Ont. Though the jump was made on perfect schedule, it was not known that the Lindberghs were safe until a plane had flown in on Sunday to the isolated post on the tip of James bay.

of timber in Big Sand creek. It has been giving trouble all week. On Sunday it jumped the fire guards which the fire fighters had placed in its path for the fourth time, and on two occasions fire fighters have had narrow escapes from its vagaries.

The fire has steadily been working south and is at present straight east of McBain's lake and extends from East Kootenay company's high voltage line to the mountain tops directly behind the lake.

NEW FIRE SERIOUS

A new fire of serious proportions started Sunday afternoon near the Roosville road about two miles south of Phillips canyon bridge, apparently from a cigarette or match thrown from a passing auto. Before the fire fighters could reach it, it had spread up the timbered mountain side to the east in a tremendous conflagration. Reports Sunday night stated that it had crossed the valley of the Wigwam river in a heavily timbered country.

Fire number three is raging Monday is raging in Bull river or Iron creek, on of its tributaries northwest of Fernie, and belching great volumes of smoke which cross the Elk valley near Hosmer.

SHOWER HELPS SOME

KIMBERLEY, B. C., Aug. 3.—Fires continue on the east side of Sullivan hill and along Cheery creek. On Sunday evening heavy banks of smoke filled the eastern sky and this morning the town is wrapped in a thick pall of smoke. The shower on Friday helped some but it was too local and too short to do much good.

ORIGIN OF THE NAME "BEOTHIC"

Considerable interest has been manifested in the origin of the word "Beothic," the name of the steamer which for a number of years past has carried the annual patrol of the department of the interior to the posts in the Canadian Arctic archipelago. Some have wondered whether it is of Greek or Latin origin but it is purely North American, being the name of a tribe of Indians who inhabited Newfoundland. The Beothic tribe is now extinct, the last representative having died in 1829.

"They will be dealt with when the time comes, said Ald. John Bennett, acting mayor. "We are not going to permit lawlessness on our streets."

DOMINION HEARS OF DISORDERS IN CITY, VANCOUVER

VICTORIA, B. C., Au. 3.—(CP)—Open clash with constituted authority in the city of Vancouver by marchers who on Saturday and Sunday brushed with the police, using stones and other missels, was brought fully to the attention of the federal department of justice today by the provincial government.

While members of the government declined to make public what steps they had taken in the matter, it is known that a firm stand is being taken and that municipal officails are being fully supported in dealing with the issue.

Meanwhile the attorney-general's department was advised from Ottawa that Allan Llewellyn Campbell alias William McEwan, who was recently sentenced in the British Columbia courts to imprisonment on conviction for inciting to riot and seditious conduct, was paroled on July 16 by the federal authorities for the express purpose of returning him to Scotland. Campbell appealed his conviction to the court of appeal, but was reversed, the sentence standing.

Special notice was taken in official circles of the fact that of those arrested recently for disturbances in Vancouver many were of foreign birth.

Rediscount Credit Renewed to Germany

BASEL, Switzerland, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The Bank of International Settlements went to the temporary relief of Germany again today. The directors voted renewal of the bank's participation in the $100,000,000 rediscount credit which expires Friday.

It was generally assumed the Bank of France, the Bank of England and the Federal Reserve Bank of New York would act in agreement with the World bank and thus make the entire $100,000,000 available for the Reichsbank for a period up to three months.

It was understood the Bank of France already had given its approval and it was confidently believed the Federal Reserve would continue its participation. Its spokesman for the Bank of England, however, again asked for time to consult his directors.

CAIRN AT OLD FORT STEELE IS UNVEILED IN MEMORY OF FORMER MOUNTIE LEADER, MAJ. GEN. STEELE

Resume of Early Frontier Life Given by Speakers at Commemoration

CRANBROOK, B. C., Aug. 3.—The unveiling of the fine stone cairn erected to the memory of Major General Sir Samuel Steele, familiarly known to the local Mounted Police and old-timers as Colonel Sam Steele, which took place in Fort Steele on the afternoon of August 1 at 3 o'clock, was a memorable and colorful event. The monument had been erected on a platform above the Kootenay near the site of the old fort which was named for Colonel Steele. Circling the site are tree-clad hills that lead up to the blue and purple majesty of the Rockies. Veiling the cairn and its tablet was a large Union Jack, and this, and the smart uniforms of the members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police present as guard, were the high lights in an impressive ceremony.

In commemoration of the arrival of the first of the mounted forces in British Columbia representatives of the force were present from various points in K district. Superintendent Junget of Lethbridge, officer in command of the district, was present on the platform. Inspector F. Humby of Fernie was in charge. Others present were Staff Field Sergeant Armitage of Lethbridge, Sergeant Hanna of Fernie, Sergeant Wilson of Cranbrook, Corporal Eddy of Lethbridge, Corporal Culverhouse of Kingsgate, Constable Christenson of Newgate and a trumpeter, who also came from Lethbridge, and who blew the general salute which was taken by Inspector Humby with the members of the force at attention.

HISTORIAN PRESENT

A platform had been constructed beside the cairn for the speakers and distinguished visitors. N. A. A. Wallenger, government agent for the Cranbrook district and a citizen of the district in the days of Colonel Steele's first visit, acted as chairman. With him were Judge Howay of New Westminster representing the Historic Sites Monument board and the department of the interior, Reveend Dr. McBeth, historian of the Mounted Police in the west, Superintendent Horsey of the parks board who made arrangements for the function, Mrs. Drayton who performed the unveiling, John Drayton, Mrs. Young of Vancouver and one or two others interested in the ceremony.

Among the guests from various parts of the district were men who had been in the valley at the time of the arrival of Steele and his contingent of Mounties. These were A. B. Fenwick, E. M. Samdilands of Wilmar, C. Edwards, A. J. McCormick who was the builder of the original for and Chairman N. A. Wallenger.

FOUR OTHER CAIRNS

In his opening remarks Mr. Wallenger alluded to early placer days in the district when the presence of the North West Mounted had counted for a great deal in the keeping of law and order. He expressed his pleasure that the main events in the history of the country were being perpetuated in so fitting a manner. He extended a welcome to the visitors and especially to the speakers Judge Howay and Dr. McBeth, who had made the trip from Vancouver to be present at the unveiling. He then called on Judge Howay, who expressed his delight at being present and stated that he was going to act on the 11th beautitude which was: Blessed is he that maketh a short speech, for he may be asked to speak again. He mentioned spots in the west where similar cairns had been erected to commemorate important events in the history of the regime of the Mounted Police in the west. In Macleod to mark the end of the first journey of the force from Dufferin in 1874; at a post midway between Calgary and Edmonton, where a fort was established in 1875; At Force Walsh in the Cyress Hills where a massacre took place at the hands of Sitting Bull, and at Fort Livingstone in honor of Colonel Macleod.

Judge Howay went on to say that love of country is best inculcated by an intelligent interest in its history and a knowledge of and pride in the daring exploits of hardy forebears. His closing quotation was: "Love thou thy land with love far brought from out the storied past."

CAIRN UNVEILED

Following Judge Howay's remarks the chairman called on Mrs. W. A. Drayton, whose husband had donated the land on which the cairn was erected, to perform the unveiling. As the flag dropped and revealed the tablet the mounted guard stood at attention and the bugler blew the salute. A. B. Fenwick, Fort Steele's oldest resident, then read the inscription which was as follows: "The first North West Mounted Police fort in British Columbia. It was built in 1887 by Superintendent Sam Steele, afterwards Major General Sir Samuel Benfield Steele, K.C.M.G., C.B., M.V.O., with Inspectors S. T Wood, C. F. A. Huot, Surgeon F. H. Powell and the men of B division. The presence of this famous force, acting under the able and tactful command of Steele secured peace and order in the country at a critical time."

STEELE A POWER IN EARLY DAYS

Dr. McBeth, when called on, related an incident in the early days of quelling an Indian rebellion wherein Sam Steele, by giving a timely warning, had been the means of saving his life and making his presence at the unveiling of the monument to his memory a possibility. He stated that he represented Lady Steele, who had not been able to be present as expected, and other members of Col. Steele's family. Speaking of the early exploits and adventures of the force he related several incidents where their presence had saved bloodshed and plunder. He stated that the United States ambassador had once told him that the Mounted Police could be thanked that north of the Canadian border there had been no "wild west." The American nation had sent in police when conditions got to be so bas as to be intolerable, whereas the Canadians had opened up country by sending in their military police first and any settlers who followed had known that they had to obey the laws.

Something of the life of Colonel Steele was touched on. In the fall of 1885 he had left his post at Macleod with a contingent of the North West Mounted Police and had come into Golden by way of Calgary. He had remained there 18 months, during which time a barracks was constructed. Then, being notified of trouble at the hands of Indians led by a turbulent Chief Isadore, he came down the valley with 85 men and remained long enough to clear the plateau of trees and construct a fort on the present site. His handling of the Indian situation was so adroit that he settled the rebellion and left order and peace behind him without the sacrifice of lives on either side. He returned to Macleod the following year by way of the Crow's Nest pass. Later, when the Yukon was opened up, he was sent to Dawson, where the record of the Mounted Police is creditably known in the English-speaking world. At the time of the Great War, Colonel Steele was one of the first to answer the call. His death occurred during the campaign.

Before the national anthem was sung telegrams were read by the chairman. Lady Steele sent regrets at her inability to be present. Commissioner Starnes of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, whose service ended July 31, sent a telegram, as did also incoming Commissioner General J. H. McBrien. A telegram had also been sent to Dr. McBeth by the president of the C. P. R. in gratitude to Colonel Steele and his men for protection in times of construction.

FACTS ON FILE ON ILLEGAL DRIVING ON NEW PAVEMENT

About a Dozen Cases in the Hands of City Police; the Offences

Approximately a dozen cases of drivers who committed irregularities when driving on the new Baker-Cedar pavement, out of thousands who made use of it over the week-end, were in the hands of the city police Monday, to be the basis of summonses.

The offences ranged from speeding, and from driving on the wrong side of the concrete roadway, to parking on the roadway below the retaining wall.

Police have been observing the corner at intervals ever since the new pavement was opened Saturday afternoon, both openly, and from screened observation.

The overwhelming majority of drivers are strictly observing the regulation, and taking the turn carefully and on the proper side and at moderate speed.

JILTED

By Margaret Widdemer

It was five o'clock of an August day; but Helen Heather came down the steps of the gray stone bank at Kingsway as lightly as though the day was just beginning.

"Good-bye, Marjorie. I told Nina I'd be home as fast as I could—I have to hurry."

She smiled, and gave Marjorie's arm a caressing little pat. She swung down the street, slim and tall an buoyant in her demure dark silk office dress with its broad organdy collar and cuffs; the sun shone in her eyes, but it seemed to her only warm and caressing, after the thick-walled stone bank. Tommy had told her yesterday that her eyes turned mottled topaz when the sun lighted them like that.

Helen had been feeling this curious tension of joy for a week or so now. But it wasn't all being in love. Because she had been in love all summer, and she hadn't felt like this. She walked on past the business section of the town, taking the bus about a mile to the part of Kingsway where her cousin Nina's house was.

It was a beautiful old house; dating back, indeed to the colonies, and rebuilt and restored by Nina Higginson into a museum-piece of perfection. The turf was green velvet, from the reverent care of two hundred years. Somebody's ancestors—not Nina's—had felt a passion for seeing travelers pass, travelers having been scarce enough to be a pleasure in colonial Pennsylvania. Nina freted a little over the shallowness of the stretch of lawn, therefore, and had masked it with a thick hedge.

The green turf was very lovely, with its golden overtones and the stiff beds of old-fashioned flowers, sweet-williams and jonny-jump-ups and love-lies-bleeding that had been there since before the old owners' ancestors entertained Washington. There were acres of ground at the back and sides of the house,. It was, indeed, nearly if not quite an estate. It had, indeed, once been a very good farm. Nina, with the admiration and cash of the old husband now no more, had landscaped it in a way which would have irritated the other people's ancestors very much. She covered the excellent wheat lands with arbors and such things. There were trees, not where trees had been, but where trees according to designs in books ought to be. It was altogether a lovely, if slightly stiff stage setting, though it was unofficially more becoming to tall vivid Helen than to little quick-moving Nina.

To the big, raw-boned elderly woman who emerged uncermoniously from between the slim white pillars as Helen came up the walk the place was not at all becoming. She was cook and working housekeeper. Her name was Tacy Broomall, and she was back-country Pennsylvania from her enormous coil of dull brown hair, the kind which never thins or grays, to the round toes of her shiny black "comfort" shoes. She was entirely uncategorical and to certain people her manner had more than a touch of the "I'm as good as you bee' of primitive America. But she cooked with a French passion of creativeness and intelligence which made her dinners a big social asset for Nina. So Nina let it go at that, being a very clever woman, and passed off Tacy's more determined gestures of equality with small humorous stories at which her guests chrieked.

Tacy was on neutrally good terms with her mistress. But she gave Helen more than neutrality; friendly Helen whow sa always flying into the kitchen with magazines and scraps of news, and praising her menus and asking her about her cousins in Lower Dublin and Pennypack.

"Letter for you, Helen," she said, giving it to her. "You're back early. That's right. You go too hard, child."

"All right, Tacy, observe that I recline in yon swing seat and relax completely while reading letter." Helen smiled over her shoulder at Tacy. "You're a darling to worry about me. It's from my little sister."

Jessica, Helen's younger sister, had married casually at 17, and it had never occurred to her that her elder sister shouldn't go on helping her when she needed it. This letter was an adorable cry of thanks for the money to catch Jessica and Lester up on the installments on the new bedroom set they'd bought in one of their accesses of optimism when Lester had his last raise. Now, said Jessica rapturously, she wasn't going to have to ask Helen for a cent forever and ever again, and she was sending her the most beautiful red coat with a fur collar and those stunning new deey cuffs, and all her love.

Helen's brow knitted i little at this. Because she'd been planning to have her own good fur coat done over, and now she couldn't.—

Oh, well, it was sweet of Jessica. And Helen read the leter again, smiling over the love-words in it. For Jessica meant them, every bit. She honestly worshiped Helen, and love was much more than a necessity to Helen than clothes or anything else in the world.

She worked hard for them both. At the bank, where she was secretary to the president. In her cousin's house, though charm had as much effect on Nina Higginson as on a rock, and Nina liked Helen as much as she would anyway. Among the girls and men in the town of Kingsway, on whom charm did have an effect, and who followed after Helen more than she knew. She tried to be everything Mr. Delamater liked in a secretary, except staid. She took on gayly the scraps of responsibility at the house, which were left over from Tacy Broomall's capable rule.

"I suppose I ought to scold her. But she'd feel badly," said Helen, folding the letter. She laughed a little.

Her father's people were of sufficiently good stock. But her mother's were better, if you happened to belive that stock counted for anything in man or beast.

Helen never forgot the day when her too-gallant, too-spendthrift father had sold the down-at-heel immense old house his wife had brought him, pictures, sparse priceless furniture and all, and of course put the money into something wonderful that it, also of course, never came out of. Things always happened to him like that.

Her mother cried, off by herself; but when passionately affectionate little Helen found her sobbing in her bedroom, her mother had sat up and gone to the dressing-table, and powdered her face and rouged her cheeks and smiled.

And she had gone down to where her husband waited for her a little shamefaced and apologetic, and made him laugh over something.

She had laughed to the tired end, that old-fashioned lady mother!

George Heather outlived his wife some years. Helen never told anybody that it was her mother's insurance, painfully kept up through heaven knows what economies, which saw first her and then reluctant Jessica through business school. She carried lax, lazy, caressing Jessica, too, till Jessica had married an anxiously adoring boy who worked in a real estate office and was her slave.

And lately; why, lately, since Nina had sent for Helen to come and live with her, these two past years, everything had lifted. Everything had been happy and wonderful.

"You're nice to have around, and you have social instinct," Nina had written with her usual frankness. "I'm still climbing a little, and you'll be a help. Come ready to recite pages of ancestry, like a lamb; I'll only charge what your food costs, and I have a job all ready for you, I'm nearly sure."

So Helen had accepted the terms and came to Kingsway, and got the job, secretary to Mr. Amos Delamater, the president of the bank. And out of hours she had had such a good time! Friends. Laughter. These quiter Pennsylvanians looking at her wide-eyed, following her wild and laughing lead. . . and Tommy's. She paid Nina her small board, and acted as secretary and companion, and seemed to enjoy it all very much indeed. And she won Kingsway village, in her year there, and Kingsway village looked with approval on her likelihood of winning spoiled Timmy Delamater, social and financial prize though he was of the younger crowd.

She slid through the long window and dashed up to her room to fly into her red georgette and run a comb through her burnt-gold curls. In five minutes Tommy Delamater would be coming down the road.

Being on the edge of actual engagement is a delightful time. Helen was not quite sure, but sure enough to be a little proud, a little mocking, and to show an intenser depth and color and sparkle. And to flirt just a little more with the other boys. But when it was Tommy who was near, the depth and color and sparkle heightened fourfold.

Even now, at the thought of Tommy—Tommy stopping by to take her with him, to go out and secure a final effect of fading light for the little motion picture camera which was his newest enthusiosm, her heart quickened.

He was tall and slouching and big-boned. His face was homely, and yet somehow handsome at times, despite the irregularities of nose and high cheek-bones and hatchet jaw.

He was rather an unnerving—certainly an exciting person. Well as she knew him, easy-going Helen half-consciously found herself getting along with him, adjusting to him, smoothing him down. She never knew whether extravagant flatery or furious, uncalled-for temper was coming upper-most. Back of every mood was a dash of ingratiating sweetness, the sweetness of the spoilt little boy who knows you won't be angry. And finally, half the girls of Kingsway had tried to marry Tommy before Helen Heather came up from Maryland to keep her widowed cousin company and work at the First National Bank for Amos Delamater. Helen, who would have been more than human if she had not been a little proud of Timmy's preference.

Tommy! She leaned out from the porch half unconsciously. He would come loping along in a minute now, with his camera over his shoulder and his tripod sticking out of his pocket.

But it wasn't Tommy after all. It was only Mr. Kingsway, for whose great-great-grandfather the town had been named.

She watched him with dimmed interest. He walked with a quick, easy trained grace, instead of Tommy's lovable rocking lope, and the sun shone on fair, slightly ruffled hair instead of polished blackness. He was straighter than Tommy, and more strognly built, and everything, from his felt hat to his gray suit, had a perfection that to Helen seemed annoying precision.

She woudn't have minded anybody but Ethan Kingsway. Ethan, whose manner to Helen always had something disturbing in it; Ethan, the only man Helen knew by whom she didn't feel approved. He was supposed rather to dislike all women.

It wasn't that he wasn't polite to them. It was, rather, that his politeness had in it a something cool, detached. He did not avoid women. For Ethan to pay a girl attention was a cachet; at the same time it was so clearly atention without intention that only the most confident or the most foolish hoped for any chance of becoming the mistress of the beautiful ancient Kingsway estate, the excellent Kingsway income, and the best social position in town.

"Why it should be me he has it in for," she said half aloud, petulantly, "when it was Nina who broke her engagement to him at the mature age of 21, and married Horace, before he ever knew I lived! And he's as easy and nice with her as you please, and always assumes I'm the lowest form of standardized flapper!"

She sat down, crossed her knees ostentatiously, reached into her handbag and began to make very black the lashes which she preferred, usually, as they were, being brown-gold and long enogh by nature. She liked shocking people who disapproved of her. Especially such impeccable ones ar Ethan.

He was so impeccable! He owned a limestone quarry, also coal lands near Wilkes-Barre. He owned a beautiful walled estate on the outskirts of the town; the town, named for his forebears, had grown up near it. He played polo very well. He belonged to the Rose Valley hunt, and was a good rider. He also possessed an invalid mother whom Nina didn't like, and a luxurious dark-green roadster which she did.

You couldn't go on roughing your mouth forever. She eyed him under the freshly mascaraed lashes as he sauntered whistling up the walk.

She picked up the tune and began to sing softly, in her pretty light voice;

"I had a little nut-tree—
Nothing would it bear,
But a silver nutmeg
And a golden pear,
The King of Spain's daughter
She came to visit me
All for the sake of my Little nut?tree!"

"Do you know that?" he said with what sounded almost a pleased surprise. "I thought nobody knew nursery rhymes any more."

"Of course I know it," said Helen with spirit. "Why wouldn't I? My mother used to sing me to sleep with it."

"Why do you suppose the King of Spain's daughter came to visit? Why wasn't it any other person?"

"I'll tell you the reason, I hope—some other time. But now—will you give your cousin a message for me?"

"Anything," said Helen, yawning with an exaggerated carelessness, "if I can remember. I've been going to parties day and night."

"I know," he said.

"Do you know everything I do?" she said a little angrily.

"Not quite all," he said a little gravely. "I wish I knew less."

"Why do you always have to say such things to me?" she said "Other people like me—why can't you? What do I do that's so dreadful?"

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES

Mrs. Y.: "Please tell me how to make one of those iceless refrigerators which have canton flannel extending into a pan of water for evaporation."

Answer: To make an iceless refrigerator—Build a set of shelves held together at the four corners by uprights which extend downward to form short legs. Make the top and bottom of reinforced galvanized iron screening, quarter-inch mesh. Cover the three sides, and a hinged door frame fitted to the fourth, with canton flannel, the upper end of each strip being cut long into to extend into a pan of water set upon the top of the structure. The water travels down the fabric walls and the contents of the refrigerator are cooled by the evaporation. When stationed upon the back porch instead of on the ground, it should stand in a large pan to protect the floor from the constant dripping. A galvanized iron refrigerator pan is the best for this purpose. Care should be taken to refill the pan on top as often as it becomes nearly empty.

Miss N.: "How can I take spots from an unfinished wood floor?"

Answer: Turpentine will remove many kinds of spots from an unfinished floor. In obstinate cases, apply a strong solution of lye, with a swab of old rags tied to a stick; although this method will remove the stain, it darkens the wood, and to restore the former light color to the wood, apply a solution made by dissolving one teaspoon of oxalic acid crystals (poison) in a scant cupful of hot water, allowing this liquid to stand on the wood till sufficiently blanched, and then washing it off with ammonia and water. (Ammonia will neutralize the action of the acid.)

The Beauty Box

BY Helen Follett

When the big toe slants in toward the foot, beware. A bunion may be on the way. Wear a cotton pad between big toe and its next door neighbor, and get shoes that permit toe spread. Narrow shoes put a curse on feet.

That indefinable quality known as chic is something all the gals are after, but they'll never acquire it unless they learn to carry themselves splendidly. With bad posture the most beautiful robe lacks expression; it never looks distinguished. Too bad that so many of the dear femmes center their ambitions on skin calcinine and lip pigment, when a strong erect backbone, a light step, graceful movement and perfect posture mean so much in the composition of a lovely woman.

To be a successful plastic surgeon, a specialist must have the eye of an artist and the soul of a sculptor. This business of changing the shape of the nose, remodeling a chin or filling out hollows is something more than tissue mechanics. Few surgeons are interested in this line of work; cutting off legs is more important to them than snipping off noses. The wise woman will not submit her only portrait to the knife without ascertaining something about the skill of the knife wielder.

In treatment of oily skin and enlarged pores, the white of egg pack is found beneficial. Bathe the face gently. Beat the egg white slightly; tap into the skin. In five or ten minutes remove with tepid water and apply witch hazel with a bit of cotton. Follow along with a five-minute massage with a good muscle oil or tissue cream.

A good way to turn adouble chin into a single blessedness is to grip the back of the neck firmly, and move the hin up and down. The hand holds flesh and muscles tight, and the exercise is effective. Try it. Easy, It woiks.

To Pet or Not to Pet?

A week or so ago, a young man signing his letter J. F. wrote to this column and said he was like the rest of the boys, i.e., when he took a girl out he "petted," or pretended to have "petted" when he talked the evening over with his chums. "To kiss and tell" has never been part of a gentleman's code but I didn't remind J. F. of this when I answered his letter. A young lady signing herself Dot takes the young man in hand.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have just read J. F.'s letter, and I would like to correct him. He doesn't have to lie to the boys about what he does when he takes a girl out. Most of the boys would like to find girls with whom they could have a good time without petting. Petting is the cheapest way in which to pass the time. A kiss is absolutely vulgar unless you're certain you're in love with the man you kiss.

Decent girls don't want to be kissed every other minute—they would rather dance, walk or talk than pet with every chance Tom, Dick and Harry that comes along. DOT

I'm very much obliged to Dot for her letter and will be glad to hear what other boys and girls have to say on this subject.

Is She Ambitious?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 18 years old and engaged to a young man who acts as a mechanic around an airport. But he has no ambition or pep and I find myself growing cold to him. He has been up in the air only twice and then said it made him real sick. He doesn't seem to care about going up any more. Well, Miss Fairfax, I'd like to marry a man full of courage like Lindbergh, Post or Gatty, so I'm thinking of giving this bird the air. I love ambition.

DAISY B. N.

If that's the way you feel about the young man—that nothing less than risking his life will please you—I think it would be better for him if you did "give him the air" as you put it. Not every man is born to take the supreme risks of the heroes you name, any more than every man who crosses a river in a ferry boat is born to be a Christopher Columbus. Very plainly you don't care about the young man and I can't advise you to keep on with him.

Boy-Friend Is Younger

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I seem to have a weakness for falling in love with someone younger than myself, but this time I am really serious. Several years younger than I am, he did not seem to mind the difference until lately. It comes up every once in a while as a sort of barrier, otherwise he seems to care a great deal for me. It will be hard to give him up. Must I?

R. G. L.

The trouble probably is that you've been stressing in your own mind this question of difference in ages too much. Unconsciously you've probably dwelt on it, talked of it, and made the young man conscious of it. If you continue this friendship, try to ignore the question of age entirely. The best way to keep young is to be vitally interested in a number of things. Don't sit in a corner and rust.

He's Jealous, But—

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have been reading your column for a long time, and now I come to you for help. I am in love with a boy a little older than myself and he claims he loves me. He calls up every night and we talk for a long time. I have asked him out to the house many times and he says he'll come out some time. Every time I bring up the subject he says he does not have much time, but he seems to have time to take other girls out. On a Sunday he goes out with his friends and, when I mention going out with girls, he asks who were the boys. He is very jealous. One night he acted terribly, but the next night he made up and was serious. Since then I have never heard from him. I love him dearly. I thank you for any information you can give me.

WORRIED.

Why waste time and affection on a trifler? A boy who doesn't come to see you, says he has no time but goes out with other girls, etc. Summon your pride, don't let anyone make a doormat of you. Go out and have a good time with someone else. Forget him.

THERE'S the song of the wind in his ears—And there's a song, too, in Ben's heart—as he watches Mary—her soft, radiant skin! Mary's secret? She's another Pompeian Girl' And you can rival her beauty—enjoy her popularity.

MRS. HARTINGER IS LAID AT REST AT GRAND FORKS

Settled in Greenwood Country as Early as the Year 1898

GRAND FORKS, B. C., Aug. 3.—Another of the pioneers of the Grand Forks district answered the last call when Mrs. Mary Hartinger, owner of the Grand Forks hotel, aged 67 years, died peacefully Saturday night, July 25. Deceased had been in failing health for the past year.

Mrs. Hartinger was born in Bavaria, Germany, and came to Minnesota alone at the early age of 14, later moving west to Spokane, where she married the late Frank Hartinger in 1891. ### Organizing Meeting of Musical Festival Needs Large Quorum

"Now that the Nelson Musical Festival association has the desired charter under the Societies act, it is of the utmost importance that it succeed at once in organizing, so that it can begin its work of preparing for the third Kootenay Musical Festival," said Alderman Ross Fleming Monday.

"Under the terms of the charter, a minimum of 15 members must be in attendance at the organizing meeting Tuesday night, or no business can be done. It is certainly incumbent on every intending member to turn out Tuesday night, to start the organization on its way. # ROTARY CLUB TO ORGANIZE DRIVE CRIPPLES FUND

Endorse Principle of Drive to Raise $5000; Five Cases in Hand

COMMITTEE GIVEN ENTIRE FREE HAND

May Be Made a Community Affair; Also Enlist Aid of District

With five cases of crippled children from various parts of West Kootenay in hand, and a crippled children's fund depleted by heavy expenditures made in the last half year, the Rotary club of Nelson Monday afternoon approved a recommendation from the crippled children committee for a special drive for this fund, to take place on Saturday, October 3.

Forty Rotarians will be expected to give an entire day's work to the drive, doing no gainful work whatever for their own individual interests on that day or its equivalent, with the objective of raising a fund of $3000. A fine of $15 will be imposed on the member of the club who fails to take any part in the drive, and of $10 on the member who gives only half a day to the work.

MAY BE OF WIDE SCOPE

The committee, whose recommendation was put before the club by Vice-president C. W. Tyler, was given a free hand to go ahead and organize the proposition, Mr. Tyler suggesting it should be made if possible a community drive, and that perhaps other Nelson organizations might be glad to associate themselves with the object. He also points out that throughout the Kootenay, Women's institutes had crippled children's committees, and were systematically working in this field, and he suggested the possibility of enlisting their interest to augment the fund, the majority of whose beneficiaries to date have been rural children.

A vote of the club on the principle of holding a drive of this character on the line mentioned was practically unanimous in favor of the proposal, and the committee will now proceed to develop the idea.

CRESTON, B. C., Aug. 3—The matter of water supply is receiving very earnest consideration in a couple of places in the valley this month. In the Alice Siding section, just to the west of the village, a petition has been circulated among the land owners to see how many would be willing to organize to take a supply from the big main pipe of the East Creston irrigation district, which comes to the east boundary of Creston village. Only a domestic supply would be available and it is feared the cost of putting in the main pipe would be prohibitive.

For the first time since the system was put in a dozen years ago residents within the boundaries of Canyon City Water Users association are having their supply "rationed" to them, commencing today. At a special meeting of those interested it was agreed to make the water available for irrigation for three days on the east half of the system, and the last three days of the week residents on the west half will have full use of the water.

The East Creston system, which obtains its supply from Arrow creek, and which was inaugurated just about a year ago, is standing up well and there is ample water for all irrigation needs on the 2000 acres it serves.

F. C. DeWolf, superintendent of irrigation for the provincial lands department, was here from Victoria a few days ago making an inspection of the system and all its operations, and found everything in first class shape.

At Camp Lister the land owners are still getting a good domestic supply from the system which was inaugurated a little over a year ago.

Two Big Days at End of Week

Nelson is on for a big week-end. On Friday local and district tennis fans who are unable to get to Trail Thursday will have an opportunity of seeing Dr. Jack Wright perform on the local tennis courts. Dr. Wright is the Canadian champion, having won the title at the coast last week. He has held the title several times. Dr. Wright with Marcel Rainville of Montreal, will be seen in action here on Friday. What will make Dr. Wright's visit to Nelson all the more interesting is fact that he was born in Nelson and is the son of Harry Wright of this city. So Nelson will turn out on Friday to welcome the tennis stars of Canada.

On Saturday Nelson will be the playground for hundreds and hundreds of young and old from the smelter city, Trail. On that day the first annual picnic of the Consolidated employees will occur here. Arrangements have been going ahead smoothly, and a monster crowd is assured. Trailites are coming here for a good time. The program is being arranged in Trail and advance notices an interesting day. Lakeside and Recreation parks will be crowded for the day. Numerous committees are working on the affair. But if it is to be the success it should, the people of Nelson will turn out to welcome our Trail friends. Saturday will see something attempted and put over that has never been tried in the interior before. With cooperation of the Nelson people in entertaining our sister city visitors the event wil be far more successful than ever was anticipated.

Where Is Nelson's Pipe Band?

At the recent international picnic between American Posts of the American Legion and the Canadian Legion one of the hits of the great day was the excellent piping by a highander dressed in his kilts. This man popular throughout the day especially with the American visitors. In fact during the day, several parades were arranged in which the pipes led the way. We sometimes laugh at the pipes. We make them the butt of many a joke. We curse their wailing and screeching. But, we like to hear them.

What has become of Nelson's once famous pipe band? What has become of the eight or a dozen men and boys who proudly walked the streets of Nelson with a swinging gait and with heads erect? What has become of the flowing tartan?

Nelson a few years ago had an excellent pipe band. The band played not ony in Nelson but in numerous cities in the district and usually paraded on Spokane streets once per year.

Nelson's pipe band was an asset. There may be numerous reasons why the band disbanded that the writer does not know. But, the pipers are missed in Nelson. Cannot someone stir up the stirring strains once more?

Silver on the Doorstep

While the issue of debt revision and German economic crisis is in the conference room for settlement, silver stands on the doorstep awaiting next consideration, says the Financial News.

In the United States, President Hoover his promised champions of silver re-establishment and remonetization that when the European economic crisis is disposed of he will turn his attention to silver. An early conference is anticipated.

Recently no less an authority than Sir William Deterding made the statement that the world cannot longer neglect to restore silver to its former position with gold as a basis of currency. Prejudice against bimetallism he ignored as groundless and took the view that the limited production and supply of gold, to say nothing of its present maldsitribution, makes necessary a more respectful recognition of the usefulness of silver as a companion metal to gold.

There is present in most minds an impression that silver has been overproduced and that the supply of the metal might disturb currencies by exceeding the demand. It is a large subject and too positive an attitude may be open to criticism. But eminent authorities have said that silver production, over a period of 20 or more years has varied comparatively little and has been in close ratio to that of gold. The surplus supply fo silver on the markets today is held to be the result of shaken confidence in silver generated in the Far East with the decision of both India and China to base their currencies on the gold stnadard rather than upon silver.

Admittedly certain countries on the gold standard have experienced less fluctuation in their exchanges than have others on a silver standard. But economists who have recommended that the remaining three-fifths of the world's population should go on the gold standard have neglected to say where the gold is to come from, they have apparently overlooked the menace that exists in the removal of gold from other currency systems to support those of the Far Eeast, and had not anticipated the almost world-wide distress and economic chaos that resulted from the precipitate drop of silver from 60 cents to 26 cents which followed upon its loss of prestige.

During the coming 10 or 20 years there will undoubtedly be tremendous expansion of world trade. It is to be expected that world standards of living will rise. There must be currency to finance this development. Unless some great new reservoir of supply is tapped, can gold alone serve as the basis of currency and international settlement. It is, after all, merely a token of more useful, tangible wealth. Is it ecoomic sacrilege to suggest that silver, too, might again be used as a token of wealth? If so, it is noteworthy that the ranks of the sacrilegious are recruiting some of the foremost economists, financiers and industrialists of today.

Jack Wright and his pal, Marcel Rainville will play tennis in the Kootenays. They will be seen at Trail, probably on Thursday and at Nelson on Friday. After several years the Kootenays have at last interested these leading players. Their visit should do much to boost tennis in theh interior. And at that Jack Wright is coming home when he arrives in Nelson. He'll meet many a man and lady who will proudly announce that they used to "bounce little Jackie on their Knees."

Gandhi will travel to London without a wardrobe. He will live aboard ship just as he does in India. He will milk his goat, spin and pray while sleeping on the deck, third class quarters for people so desiring it. Gandhi must travel without expense account.

Sir Harry Brittain is a good enough optimist to believe that the prevailing pessimism has this advantage namely, that "the crowd always lags behind the event."

Seen and Heard in NELSON

(By J. B. C.)

In my hurry down the street last night I noticed Bert Rowley crossing Vernon street with his right hand in a hip pocket . . . Jack Argyle was parked behind a standing street car . . . Waiting for passengers to get aboard . . . W. S. Kink went up Ward street with cane in one hand and straw hat in the other . . . Alf Noxon hurried across Baker street to meet a young lady on Ward . . . And then returned down Ward and back across Baker . . . Al Horswill climbed into his car and smiled as he finished a day's work . . . Dick Poole stood in a cigar store and scratched his head . . . Paul Drozda was leaning upon a door post.

* * *

And in the park dressing house on Sunday afternoon I was asked who was chairman of the parks committee. . . . I informed the questioner that I believed Alderman Reg. Dawson was the chairman. . . Does he ever take a swim? I was asked. . . I asked how I should know. . . Well, said the gentleman, if he ever goes in swimming on Sunday and has to dump his clothing on the floor in this dressing room like we do he must be a regular guy. . . . Say, J. B. C., I'll give the city 10 cents . . . If you will promise that it will be used for the purchase of nails to be banged into the walls at intervals throughout the bathing house . . . I haven't seen the nails as yet. . . . But my friend's point was well taken . . . A few nails would help . . . Yes, even 10 cents worth . .

* * *

Here is a little verse for the golfers but "used to wases" and "never-will-bes" . . .

THE LIGHT OF HOPE

Ten years I've dubbed around from trap to bunker,
Or swung my niblick in the bosky glen,
And rarely is the pellet ever sunk, or
Upon the green, in less than eight or ten.
My friends declare that I have little reason
To hope for either steadiness or skill,
And yet today, in my eleventh season,
I'm at it still.

I buy new clubs, and don't know how to use them;
I learn new swings—they only mar my game;
I buy a gross of balls, and promptly lose them,
Yet year by year I peg along the same.
Whenever I attempt a fresh beginning
And with an added zest the pellet smack,
I top or slice, and feel the caddies grinning
Behind my back.

Professional mild imprecations mutter;
My fellow players rude remarks have made
While the have watched me ply a wabbly putter
Or cleave a divot with a shaky spade.
I know that there are forms of recreation
For which perhaps I'd find that I was fit
And yet I grind my teeth in desperation
And will not quit.

To be quite frank, I cherish the conviction
That I am not the calm, unruffled sort
To master golf, and have no predeliction
For such a baffling and elusive sport.
But, like a person in the darkness groping
Toward some far light, I drag my way along.
For in my inmost heartI can't help hoping
That I am wrong.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

(From The Nelson Daily News of August 4, 1911)

H. C. Hall, the well known local barrister, accompanied by his wife, left Nelson yesterday for the coast and Victoria, where Mr. Hall takes up his new position.

Mrs. Enfield leaves for New York where she will spend a few weeks visiting friends, returning to Nelson at the beginning of next month.

A. J. Becker, manager of the Lucky Jim mine, accompanied by R. S. Lennie, spent yesterday in the city. They leave for Vancouver tomorrow via Spokane.

The charity organization which is being held next week in the board of trade rooms, will be in charge of Mrs. Gigot and Mrs. Laughten.

Sandy McGregor was the village doctor. He was cautious about many things, and was particularly reticent about his own age. His friends tried to find out how old he was, always without success. One morning it was reported that the old man had died, and his curious friends said, "Now we will find out his age from his coffin plate."

At the funeral his friends went up to view the remains and glean the information from the plate on the casket, only to be disappointed again, for, according to instruction, the undertaker had used his silver door-plate, which read, "Dr. Alexander McGregor; office hours, two to four."

Employer—"Why did you take a whole day's holiday? I only gave you a half holiday."

Clerk—"Well, sir, you told me never to do things by halves."

Cannot Read Character by the Handwriting of Person Says Expert

The important part that handwriting characteristics may play in the study of a mystery was emphasized lately in the case of Starr Faithfull, the New York girl whose dead body was found under suspicious circumstances. Various letters of this supposed suicide, in which she hinted at self-destruction, were exhibited in the trial and pictures of them were published in the press. The writing on the letters varied considerably in character, but at the same time the diary of the dead girl is said to have contained different types of writing. Civil case as well as criminal sometimes hinge on the genuineness of documents and papers and distinguishing the false from the true has become a science.

MAGNIFY LETTERS TO 8 INCHES

An expert who may be called in to pass on a supposedly forged signature, the poisoned pen letter, or the apparently substituted paragraph in legal documents, looks for definite points, notes Diana Rice, writing in the New York Times. The pen position, rapidity in writing, distribution in ink, retouching, patching, are all studied with and without the aid of a microscope. Patching not discernible to the human eye is easily detected under a powerful magnifying glass. And many forgeries would be successful were it not for this little instrument which makes clear the tell-tale trail of the pen cheat. Even microscopes, however, do not always enlarge sufficiently to satisfy the expert. Photographic copies with the letters magnified to a height of six or eight inches enable the expert to detect the minute irregularity that proves the questioned writing to be spurious.

CHARACTER READING BAFFLES

In Europe, states B. W. Stein, an expert who has furnished evidence in forgery cases, the terms graphologist and handwriting expert are used almost synonymously ,but in America they do not have the same application. In America, the graphologist is a person who attempts to read character from writing and who claims that in manipulation of the pen, the writer reveals mental, moral and physical development or may show signs of disease. The handwriting expert is merely a specialist in identification. If the deductions of the graphologist could be proved accurate, they would be of great value to the lawyer and the diagnostician. But handwriting is no infallible guide to such things, for crabbed illegible writing which might indicate bad points in some people, have been a characteristic of some very great men. What for instance would experts say to the scrawls of Sir Walter Scott, to the manuscript of Thomas Carlyle, or to the almost illegible pages of some famous scientists and historians whose M. S. had been the bane of printers in the days before secretaries and type-writers had dawned? Of course, the goosequill and poor paper and the exhaustion of the hand of genius had their share in such poor holographic work of men whose torrent of thought out-ran their pens.

VAGARIES OF THE PEN

"To acertain degree and in certain directions," says Mr. Stein, "hanwriting does reflect qualities in a writer. Handwriting does undoubtedly contain individuality, and to a limited extent indicates the exterems of certain habits, qualities and accomplishments. The writing of the school boy can be distinguished from the writing of the mature person. The writing of the old and infirm differs from that of vigorous and forceful manhood. Neatness and care can be distinguished from slovenliness and carelessness, and artistic skill and ability can be distinguished from the bungling work of the illiterate."

The fact that handwriting does not indicate human character with sufficient accuracy to be of any practical use does not, of course, mean that handwriting cannot be identified as that of a certain individual, says Stein. Handwriting in the individual is affected by many different things besides character. Some of these things are: The system upon which the handwriting is based, the way a person is taught to write, use to which the writing has been put, acquired manual skill of the writer and the co-ordination of the muscular and nervous energy used to produce the writing. So simple a thing as the holding of the pen produces, says Stein, who flouts the idea, some of the characteristics which graphologists consider unfailing evidence of character.

TRAPS FOR FORGERS.

Mr. Stein does not agree with some experts who say that no forgery is impossible of detection. The signature of an old or infirm person is easily imitated by a clever penman. Twenty-five known signatures of the person whose signature is under suspicion of forgery form the basis on which the dubious signature is judged, and if the nearest specimen of genuine handwriting is 20 years old, the expert is confronted with difficulty.

John Vreeland Haring, another expert called in the Faithfull case, says that no persistent forger will long escape detection, for sooner or later, through carelessness or overconfidence he will make a slip. Forgetting his disguise, he will automatically lapse into his usual handwriting. 'The man who writes a good, free, bold hand with no lifting of the pen point, is least apt to have his signature forged," says Mr. Haring. "However, the man who does lift his pen, has his own way of doing it. He usually lifts it in the same way and in the same place at each word. The imitator, on the other hand, is following a model. In time he is pretty sure to lift his pen in the wrong place while studying the model in front of him."—Toronto Telegram.

WHAT THE PRESS SAYS

UNEMPLOYMENT CONTRASTS

One feature of the unemployment situation in Canada calls to mind the old saying that the race is not always to the swift. Not so very long ago the active and enterprising people of the west were inclined to despise the plodding and letharic people of the east because they were so slow. When we compare the present business situation in the part of Canada known as the maritime provinces with the prevailing situation in the part of Canada which once was known as the Great West, the advantage seems to be entirely with the patient and plodding east. If there is unemployment in the provinces of Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, the unemployed in this provinces are making very little fuss about it. If there are any downeasters idle, they are not making demands upon governments that they shall be fed at the expense of the public. We have been told that business in the maritime provinces, if it is not booming, is at least quite up to the state known as normal. We know without being told that instead of being down-hearted the people of the larger cities of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick are content with the present and are hopeful for the future.

What is the reason for this eminently satisfactory but somewhat unexpected state of affairs? There may be several reasons for the phenomenon. One of the reasons may be the advice of Horace Greeley, "Go west, young man, go west." The young men of Canada may have fallen into the habit of coming west during the boom times, and in the hard times they cannot fall out of the habit. There is little doubt that there is more unemployment in British Columbia and in some of the adjacent western provinces because men in search of work have drifted in large numbers from certain sections of the east.

But the probable reason for the immunity of the maritimers from the conditions which we call hard times is that the people and the industries of the east are not so highly organized as the people and industries of the west. If there has been any "orderly marketing" of products in the maritime provinces, we have read very little about that new system of conducting business and circumventing the natural laws of trade. The business men and producers of the east appear to have stuck to orthodox and safe methods. Instead of hoarding their products and keeping them off the market in the expectation of getting higher prices, the producers marketed their products when there was an immediate demand for them at fair prices. We expect that if the people of Nova Scotia were to read a story in the papers that the merchants of Halifax had been compelled to sink about 600 tons of potatoes in the waters of the harbor because new potatoes had come in and destroyed the market for the old, there would be a demand for an investigation as to the reason for the wanton destruction of wholesome food. People of old-fashioned notions might say pertinently that speculation in potatoes and wheat is quite as reprehensible as speculation in stocks and shares and securities, and that if there is any difference in principle between the two methods of gambling, the balance is all in favor of the stock speculators, because the values destroyed in the first case are tangible, and in the second fictitious.

Then again it may be that there are few unemployed in the maritime provinces, not because of conditions, but because of traditions. The first settlers in the eastern provinces did not find work already provided for them when they landed upon the virgin territory. They had to go out and find work for themselves. There were no cities for them to drift into and proclaim their natural right to be provided with employment or to live upon the products of the labor of others who were in employment. In fact, that was the position of all the pioneers of Canada. Their lives were lives of toil and hardship, but they did not complain. They fought and conquered, and it may be that their successors have inherited their spirit, and instead of begging for bread, clothing and shelter, are going out into new places and making livings for themselves. The pioneers were simple in their views and primitive in their demands. They cleared the land, and the land supported them in comfort if not in luxury.—Victoria Colonist.

A FATAL FINESSE

NORTH: ♠9-6-2 ♥10-7 ♦10-8-5-4-3 ♣K-Q-9
WEST: ♠K-10-5 ♥J-9-8-4-3 ♦7-6 ♣A-8-6
EAST: ♠8-7-4-3 ♥K-6-5 ♦Q-J-9-2 ♣J-10
SOUTH (Dealer): ♠A-Q-J ♥A-Q-7 ♦A-K ♣7-5-4-3-2
Vul. All

With the above hand at auction bridge, south's bid of one no trump would be followed by three passes. At contract bridge south with a count of 20 would bid two no trumps and north would have a trifle more than the minimum strength for a raise of three.

When the hand was played, west started with his fourth best heart which declarer won, having the suit still stopped, and then led a club won by dummy. Dummy next led a spade which south finessed and west won and took the second heart entry from south's hand. Declarer now cashed one spade and one diamond and then led a second club; but west won and made his remaining hearts, so that declarer lost three hearts, one spade, one club and game.

Could declarer have reached his goal?

THE CORRECT PLAY

Declarer acted wisely in attempting to make up the clubs of which he had eight rather than the diamonds of which he had only seven and for which entries in dummy might be very doubtful; but he erred on the next play. After winning the second trick with the queen of clubs in dummy, he should not have risked the spade finesse which would be fatal if it failed. He should have led a diamond, taking it in closed hand, and then led a second round of clubs.

Played in that way declarer must take four clubs, two diamonds, two hearts and at least one spade. Of course this method of play would give up all chance of taking 11 tricks by the spade finesse; but with a contract of nine, the practical certainty of fulfilling it and going game should not be risked for the sake of possible extra tricks.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Favors Inquiry Into Mental Asylums of Dominion of Canada

To the Editor of The Nelson Daily News:

Sir: I noticed recently in the press that the "Veterans of the War" are considering asking for an investigation of the mental asylums. This is an order. Why not other interests including the prospector associations cooperate in this laudable enterprise?

As an example of unwarranted restriction of freedom of an individual, Mighcal Wargo, (prospector) case is cited. March 28, 1930, he was arrested, charged with threatened suicide. No attempt had been made or had any one been itimidated. He was given a farcial examination by some medical board and because he would not talk he was judged insane. I have known Mike for over 20 years and if he was crazy when committed he always was. This would indicate that the immigration officials were lax.

This prospector was neat in dress and housekeeping. He had erected a Russia steam bath house and used since regularly. He stuttered when excited and his words ran together until he calmed down. Knowing his impediment to his speech, he kept quiet when he was before the board. Get the idea! If you talk you are crazy, if you don't, ditto.

Why are not the patients of our asylums after due observation discharged when they are found harmless and physically able to make a living?

Russia has its Siberia and British Columbia its Essondales.

Yours truly,
GEO. E. McCREADY

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By JAMES W. BARTON

DIFFERENT RAYS IN SUNLIGHT

You are reading so much about sunlight and about the different kind of "rays" that come from the sun, that you may wonder just what these rays really do.

Dr. D. McCaskey, New York, remind us that sunlight is divided into three general divisions.

First, the Hertzian light wavs that is so long in its wave length vibrations that wireless telegraph messages are constantly being sent upon them. We cannot see these waves. These are often called the infra-red waves, and cannot produce sunburn.

The second group of light rays from the sun are the "luminous" group, which the human eye can perceive in the colors of the rainbow, namely, violet, indigo, blue green, yellow, orange and red, the wave lengths being the longest in the red, and shortest in the violet vibrations. These are the heat waves of the ordinary incandescent electric lamp, but cannot produce sunburn.

The third group are the actinic light waves. These might be divided into those that produce only sunburn, because of their low penetration, namely the X-rays.

In speaking of the rays that penetrate just a short distance and cause sunburn Dr. McCaskey says that the cells of the skin are markedly stimulated, the little blood vessels immediately beneath the skin are dilated or made larger, and the four symptoms of inflammation are present. These symptoms are pain, swelling, redness, and heat.

This is nature's method of preventing these particular rays from penetrating any deeper, as millions and millions of dark granules are formed which provide a defence against these actinic or quartz light rays.

This is the reason that in treating patients with these rays to stimulate circulation, and increase number and quality of red corpuscles in the blood, that the dose can be gradually increased, beginning with one to three minutes and working up to 20 to 30 minutes, as more and more of these granules are formed.

Remember then the different kind of rays from the sun, that two groups do not cause sunburn, and that of the third group, the actinic rays are beneficial, by causing an increased activity of the skin and tissues beneath it. These rays can be obtained from "sun" lamps, but as there are differences in these lamps, let your doctor guide you should you desire to purchase one.

Competed for Canadian Championship

The annual Canadian Henley regatta of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen opened at Port Dalhousie, Ont., July 30, with a program which included the preliminary heats of the various events and the quarter-mile dash championship. There are seven entries in this quarter-mile dash, and included in the list are those two keen rivals, Joe Wright of the Toronto Argos, senior singles champion of Canada, and winner of the Diamond Sculls in 1928, and Bobby Pearce of the Hamilton Leanders, winner of the Olympic single sculling championship of 1928, single scull champion of the British Empire and this year's winner of the Diamond Sculls. The layout above shows: No. 1, Joe Wright; No. 2, Bobby Pearce, and No. 3, Richards, the Winnipeg single sculler. Pearce won the Henley final, with Wright a poor third.

ROYALS DEFEAT TORONTO TO WIN DOMINION TITLE

New Westminster's Suspension-Ridden Soccer Stars Win 3 to 0

WIN TITLE THIRD SEASON IN A ROW

Toronto Scottish Didn't Have a Chance; 6000 Fans See Final

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 3.—Just as though they were the mighty Royals of old, supreme soccer squad in Canada during the last three years, New Westminster's football remnants today blanked the strongest in the east, Toronto Scottish, and won a Dominion title they were not granted a chance to take a few weeks ago.

If they lacked anything that historic team from the British Columbia town had, the new Royals easily fooled 6000 fans as they outclassed Scottish to win 3 to 0 in the second game of the Dominion finals.

An attack more potent and more sensational than they flashed to whip the Blue Scots from Toronto in the first series contest last Thursday, 2 to 0, baffled the easterners this afternoon.

Playing football on a par with anything the titled Royals of 1928 and 1930 were capable of, the Westminster team, its starry ranks depleted by suspensions, ran wild through a demoralized Scottish side that fought futilely for even a single goal.

AMAZING CONQUEST

Royals completed an amazing conquest of the Dominion's football elite to stand atop the widespread field for the third time, oftener than any other team. And not since the Norwood Wanderers of Winnipeg swept up two straight titles in 1913-14 has a champion aggregation been able to defend its crown. Westminster did it with five players unable to take part in the playdowns because of suspensions the British Columbia Football association refused to lift.

After a shakey start today, the British Columbians settled down early in the first half, broke through the Scottish defence and hammered in a goal before half time. They added two in the second period, a pair of brilliant counters that resulted from passing plays.

Chief obstacle of the champions was Art Halliwell, Rotund veteran in the Toronto goal. The big fellow robbed Westminster marksmen of three goals in the first half and a half dozen in the second, snatching the flying leather as he skidded on his stomach across the goal front. The trio of drivers that beat him were well out of reach.

BIG LEAGUE BASEBALL

Duties of a Second Baseeman

By AL DEMAREE

Besides taking care of the duties of his own territory the second baseman is also called upon to assume the duties of a first baseman as I have outlined in my above cartoon.

As Frankie Frisch, the great keystone man of the Champion St. Louis Cardinals says: "The second baseman has no fixed position. In a way he is even a roving outfielder. "He must take care of many short flys which cannot be handled by the right and center fielder. There are difficult foul fly catches to be made on the right field foul line which cannot be handled by either the right fielder or first baseman. There is a sort of 'No Man's Land' in center field which if not covered by the second baseman will not be covered at all and in which many 'Texas leaguers' will drop for base hits. He is also called upon to relay *throws to the catcher from the out*fielder on extra base hits."

Al Demaree has prepared an illustrated leaflet on "Art of Pitching" which he will gladly send to any reader requesting it. Address Al Demaree in care of this paper and be sure to enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Siege Gun of Athletics Gets Three Hits Seven Times Up; One of Blows, 17th Homer of the Season; Ruth Gets Lone Hit

Al Simmons, siege gun of the champion Athletics, has come back to claim his own. After having watched various rivals set the pace most of the current campaign, the big outfielder who led the American league in batting last season finally overhauled the last one yesterday and took over the leadership with an average of .381. In taking the lead from Babe Ruth, Simmons made three hits in seven times at bat against Washington while Ruth was hitting only once in five trips. One of Simmons' blows was his 17th home run of the year.

SLATTERY SEEMS INDIFFERENT AS BOUT DATE NEARS

Challenger Fat; Max Rosenbloom, Champ, Trains at Night Clubs

NEW YORK, Aug. 3. (AP)—Jimmy Slattery, the Buffalo boxer who meets Slapsie Maxie Rosenbloom, light-heavyweight champion, in a 15-round bout Wednesday night at Ebbets field, scarcely looked like the next titleholder today as he began tapering off a midtown gymnasium.

His midsection heavily encased in rubber and woollen padding, calculated to remove—or perhaps protect—a conspicuous roll of fat, Slattery boxed four easy rounds, neither giving nor receiving any punishment to speak of. There was nothing in the exhibition, at any rate, to affect the current odds of 6 to 5 on Rosenbloom.

In the midst of Slattery's workout there was a wild rumor that the champion was on his way to the gymnasium to get in a few licks at the punching bags, and generally tune up for the defence of his title, but he failed to show. Rosenbloom, so far as anyone has been able to learn, has confined his training exclusively to night clubs.

FORMER CHAMPS LEAD WAY GOLF PLAY, SEATTLE

Rodia Leads the Face; Long Driving Honolulu Star Has Difficulties

BROADMORR GOLF CLUB, Seattle, Aug. 3. (AP) — Three former champions set the pace in the first 36 holes today of the 72-hole Washington State open golf tournament, with Frank Rodia, Seattle, leading the field with a card of 143 on his home course. The other 36 holes will be played tomorrow.

Neil Christian, Portland, and Walter Pursey, Seattle, two other titlists of recent years, followed Rodia with 145 each. Rodia was three over par with a 73 in the morning and around again in the afternoon in a perfect 70. Christian was 75-70, and Pursey 72-73. All are professionals.

Francis H. Brown, long-driving Honolulu star, was the low amateur with 147. He was off his game on the first 18, taking a miserable 79, but he flashed the most dazzling golf of the day, shooting a spectacular 68, two under par, in the afternoon.

Bert Wilde, Bellingham pro, and defending champion, slipped six strokes over par on his first round and dropped four more in the afternoon to take 76-74—150.

Benny Colk, Vancouver, B. C., took 78-75—153.

Mrs. Shepherd-Barron's way to the final was reached with far less expenditure of energy than Mrs. Van Ryn's. The latter played five hard sets in singles, defeating Mrs. J. Dallas Corbiere of Boston, 3-6, 6-3, 6-1, in the third round and Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup of Wilmington, Del., in the semi-finals 6-4, 10-8.

The British star with the odd service stroke dropped the first set to Mary Greef of Kansas City, but finally won at 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

In all Mrs. Van Ryn played 75 games today. After her singles matches she took the court with Josephine Cruickshank, Santa Ana, Calif., star, and lost in doubles to Sarah and Mianne Palfrey, the Boston sisters, 6-4, 7-5.

Mrs. Shepherd-Barron encountered a serious and hard-hitting Miss Greef in their semi-final round match and she won mainly because she mixed her driving game with a plentitude of lobs of varying length.

Miss Greef and Penelope Anderson, Richmond, Va., were at match point five times before they eliminated the Alfrey sisters in the doubles quarter-finals, 2-6, 9-7, 6-3.

Semi-final round survivors in Women's doubles found both English combinations still in the field. The soft ball game for the chicken dinner which was to have been played by the club team had been postponed on account of players being busy with various district fires.

AUTO TRUCKS CUT DEEPLY INTO THE FRUIT TRUCKING

CRESTON, B. C., Aug. 3.—Auto trucks have cut so deeply into the haul of fruit and vegetables out of the Creston district that it is reported the Canadian Pacific Railway has cancelled the iced car service they proposed to have one day of each week on the way-freight east. In addition to some independents, who are jobbing fruit on their own as far as Fernie, a local shipping house is giving a standard service two or three days a week and are giving an at-the-door-delivery as far as Lethbridge. This has been a great help in moving much of the local, early potato and cabbage crop, as well as other lines. Rail shipping from Creston valley points ir rather light at present. The express rush is over on berries, and it is as yet too early to be loading out mixed cars of tomatoes, cucumbers, plums and early apples.

PIONEER GOLD MOVEMENT SHARP ON COAST LIST

Closing of Toronto Markets Felt on Vancouver Exchange

VANCOUVER, Aug. 3 (CP)—A sharp movement in Pioneer Gold during the afternoon session was the chief feature of activity at the Vancouver stock exchange today. The market threatened to fall back a pace earlier in the day, the closing of Toronto markets reacted unfavorably here.

Sales total amounted to only 11,195 shares, Pioneer accounting for 3050. Reports from the Pioneer mine tell of a bright outlook and this stock has been fairly well in demand for some days. Monday's price hovered around $2.25. One lot of 100 sold for $2.26 and 50 shares brought $2.30.

Lorne Gold had a turnover of 4000 shares at 8 cents and Premier had three small transactions at 60, 63 and 65 cents.

The oils were quiet, the only feature being the downward movement of Home Oil, which closed at 43 cents. Earlier in the day one lot of 100 shares of Home brought 45 cents.

Three odd lots of International Nickel were traded at a steady $12.50.

AMERICAN BOAT OWNERS MAY NOT COME TO NELSON

Nelsonites Enjoy Races at Sandpoint, Idaho; Marathon Is Thriller

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kline, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sargeant and Marcus Martin were among the Nelsonites who took in the motor-boat races at Sandpoint on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Gilbert, captain of the Kootenay Launch club, stated last night that he had a wonderful time and that the $1000 outboard marathon won by Clarence Paulson was the feature of the day and provided plenty of thrills.

When asked if Coeur d'Alene or Spokane boat men who attended the races here last year would come to Nelson again this year for the races, he stated that it was doubtful. The attractive cash prizes that were being offered for the Seattle regatta to be held on August 15 and 16, would probably keep them away from Nelson, he thought. Mr. Gilbert stated that he would receive a definite answer in a few days. He was confident, however, that none would be able to attend the Kaslo regatta.

MARATHON A THRILLER

In describing the outboard marathon race staged at the regatta, in which a prominent part was taken by Joe Pedicord and Clarence Paulson, both well known in boating circles here, he stated that the race was full of thrills. Joe Pedicord, who raced neck and neck with Mr. Paulson part of the way, was forced from the race several times. The first time he broke his rudder and returned to the race after fixing it. A fouled spark plug stopped him a second time, and when he pulled in to the dock to make another minor repair his outboard engine shook loose from his boat and he had to leave the race for good. Rough water slowed up the races considerably. The races were broadcast and a band was in attendance.

Wyatt, offering to hand over to the city the few pictures of the early days of Trail and cash received by the Old Timers' committee organized in 1929, was accepted by the city council tonight. Mr. Wyatt's letter said results of the work had been disappointing.

Did Death Carrying Auto Swerve Upon the Walk Intentionally?

VANCOUVER, Aug. 3 (CP)—Testifying before a coroner's jury this afternoon, Constable R. W. Leatherdale expressed the belief that the car which was driven on to the sidewalk Thursday morning in the 800 block East Pender, injuring three Chinese, one fatally, was deliberately swerved from the road to the walk.

Conduct of Senators and Officials Condemned

CENSURED BY BEAUHARNOIS SELECT COMMITTEE

Senators and company officials were criticized in the house of commons, July 28, by the select committee that had investigated the Beauharnois project. Senator Donat Raymond (1), of Montreal, is censured as a collector of campaign funds for the Liberal party. He was said to have received $200,000 for this purpose, and the report says it was remarkable that he "didn't insist on making some explanation." Senator Andrew Haydon, of Ottawa (2), is also named as a collector of campaign funds, and scored for acceptance by his law firm of a $50,000 retainer, which, the report says, cannot be defended. R. A. C. Henry (3), vice-president of the Beauharnois Power Corporation, is involved in the misuse of funds. The corporation president, Robert O. Sweezey (4), is accused of "misuse" of $300,000 of the company's funds for political campaign purposes. The committee found that he "dealt with a lavish hand with his own and the company's moneys."

CONSOLIDATED TAKES OKANAGAN OPTION

VERNON, B. C., Aug. 3. (CP)—An option has been taken by the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. on the Siwash creek property from which H. J. Blurton recently obtained such promising samples of gold.

Thirty employees of that company are now engaged in ascertaining the possibilities of the claim, which is on the west side near the head of Okanagan lake.

LIVE POULTRY MOVE, PRAIRIE

VICTORIA, B. C., August 3.—Prairie points report much larger shipments of live poultry for marketing purposes than expected. This probably is brought about by economic conditions, as with unlimited quantities of feed at hand, ordinarily the fowls would be kept instead of being marketed, says the maket news letter, department of agriculture, Victoria.

Fruit and vegetable imports into Victoria and Vancouver, during week ending July 29, 1931: California: Peaches, 7326 boxes; oranges, 1074 cases; watermelons, 4778 in bulk; sweet potatoes, 1950 pounds. Washington: Pears, 2042 boxes; apricots, 1021 boxes; plums, 1190 crates; canteloupes, 1872 crates; bananas, 2205 bunches; onions, 1968 sacks.

WINNIPEG—Weather cooler, business quiet. Six cars from British Columbia since last report, five mixed fruit and vegetables, one apple. Seven from Ontario, four tomatoes, three mixed. Two Washington tomatoes, one onion, one plums, three pears. Two California pears. British Columbia Transparent and Duchess apples, crates selling at $1.75. Wrapped, $2.00 per case. Crabapples, $1.75. Cucumbers, peach box pack, 75 cents. Cabbage, $1.50 per hundred. Celery, $3.50 per case. Washington tomatoes, lugs, $2.50. Ontario tomatoes, 11-quart baskets, $1.50. Twenty-pound boxes Ex-Leamington tomatoes, $1.50. American canteloupes, $5.00 per case. Fifty-pound sack onions, $2.50. Alberta peaches, firm at $1.50. California Bartlett pears, $3.50. Peach plums, $1.75. Tragedy plums, $2.00.

SEATTLE—While 1400 cars of prunes were shipped from the Milton-Freewater district, estimates at this time are that in the neighborhood of 100 cars will be shipped, although some growers claim that they have less than half of a crop this year. Picking will start about August 10 at the present rate the prunes are turning. From a distance some trees look like the fruit is ready at the present time to pick, and in reality some of the fruit is as ripe as that shipped at the opening of the season years ago. The growers and shippers are co-operating to get the fruit to the eastern markets in a condition that will insure a repeat market year after year. The shipment of riper fruit creates a better demand and a better price according to the version of most shippers and growers.

EARLY STRENGTH ON WALL STREET PETERS OUT AS SESSION ENDS; THE RAILS AND STEELS SHOW ACTIVITY

Brokerage House Count Upon Recovery After Labor Day; Rails Rise, But Lose Two-Thirds of Gain; Bond Trade Slackens

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Stocks began the new week today with a show of spirit, but tired of the rally in the last hour, when much of the extreme advance, running from 1 to 3 points, disappeared.

Final prices, however, were higher for most principal issues, as the late selling was only half-hearted and failed to accelerate the sluggish pace of the earlier advances. Sales totalled 882,700 shares.

In the absence of domestic influences, it was assumed the smoothness with which German financial affairs appear to be running and the sustained recovery of the English pound had removed immediate causes of worry abroad.

RECOVERY AFTER LABOR DAY?

Brokerage houses are counting on a recovery after Labor day, although it is admitted the durability of any improvement will be the important point.

Market theorists were encouraged by the action of the rail shares, although the trading in that group was lifeless. New York Central got three points higher, but had to yield two-thirds of the rise. Union Pacific, Illinois Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Chicago Northwestern and Delaware and Hudson closed with gains of 1 to 2. New Haven and Nickel Plate preferred were up 3.

Steel shares showed fair vitality but final advances were fractional. American Can, Westinghouse and J. I. Case turned heavy toward the close, although Westinghouse recovered. International Silver dropped 8 on a few sales. Allied Chemical's three-point advance will be cut in half. Standard Oil of New Jersey responded to declaration of the regular and usual extra dividend and there was a moderate amount of interest in other petroleum stocks on the strength of further crude price increases.

After active opening on a week end accumulation of orders, trading in bonds slackened today so that a new record for dullness for this year and last was established.

PRICES FLUCTUATE NARROWLY

Sales on the New York stock exchange totalled $5,906,000, at par values compared with $6,324,000, the previous low record for a full session, made on July 20.

On the whole prices fluctuated about narrowly. German 5½'s and 7's were two of the few issues to show any activity and they were consistently strong. Other obligations of that nation gained irregularly. Hungarian loans made perpendicular descensions to new low prices.

Notwithstanding the dullness of trading and narrow price changes among domestic corporate loans an irregular rising tendency was noticeable among rail and public utilities obligations and industrial obliba-tions generally lost small fractions.

ONCE OVER

THE great Canadian inclination is to look things over. Nothing is either good or bad to the open-minded, until it has received that quick, interested appraisal which we have deftly named the "once over."

We are continually looking over new political leaders and ideas, new acquaintances, new faces, new actors and writers. And by the same token we are constantly called upon to pass judgment on a great variety of merchandise—from soap to sedans—which is presented to us through the advertisements in the daily newspapers.

People who follow the advertisements know that through them they can find out more about articles, values, and the wise spending of their money than they could discover in any other way. New products, new improvements in merchandise, new uses for established articles, are constantly being brought before them.

Advertising makes it possible for you to get exactly what you want, to get full value for every penny, and to be sure of receiving the greatest possible satisfaction from everything you buy.

Read the advertisements regularly, and get the important news they bring you every day!

FIRE BREAKS OUT ANDERSON CREEK BUT IS QUENCHED

Forest Branch Jumps on It With 25 Men as Soon as Reported

FIRE AT BRILLIANT BUT UNDER CONTROL

New Fire Breaks Out Forty-Nine Creek But It Is Being Held

Nelson, after many weeks of immunity, is now in the fire zone, with at least three forest fires of varying proportions in its area.

Saturday night a fire broke out on Anderson creek, above the Great Northern right-of-way, above the city, with dangerous possibilities, as it was leading into valuable timber on the mountainside. The forest branch "jumped on it" with a crew of 25 men, and reduced it to remnants by midnight. A few men are watching at the site of this fire and extinguishing it.

A fire broke out on the mountain above Brilliant, the Doukhobor capital, Saturday night, and a crew was rushed to it. This fire, which ultimately covered about 100 acres, has been brought under control.

FORTY-NINE CREEK BLAZE

Monday evening a fire was reported on Forty-Nine creek, in proximity to the city power plant road, about 10 miles down river from Nelson. Last reports from this was that half a dozen men under the local ranger were successfully dealing with this fire.

Most of the smoke that filled the air over Nelson Monday, in the forenoon obscuring Granite mountain, was from the great forest fire south of the international boundary line, forest officials here stated, with probably some sifting over from the fires in the Okanagan by way of the Arrow lakes.

CREWS LAID OFF FROM WORK ON THE MAIN LAKE

Suspension Temporary, Ramsay Believes; Boswell Camp Is Ready

Three road construction crews, aggregating about 60 men, all engaged on the improvement program on the Kootenay lake highway between Gray Creek and Boswell, were laid off Friday, July 31, by William Ramsay, district public works engineer, because of the exhaustion of the appropriation from the highway loan, including a recent supplementary grant for the work at Gray Creek.

The crews were those of Foremen O. P. Burden and J. A. MacKay at Gray Creek, and that of Foreman Norman McLeod at Boswell.

District Engineer Ramsay stated Monday that exhaustion of the funds made this step necessary, but that he anticipated the suspension of the work would be brief, and would last only until the money should be available for the government's announced relief work program on that section.

While he has received no instructions about preparing road camps, Mr. Ramsay stated, the road camp now at Boswell has accommodation for 40 men, and can be put to use on the shortest notice.
