Social Credit Party's Majority Grows

Has 43 Elected and 13 in Lead in Alberta Elections

STEVENS SEES VOTE IN ALBERTA AS "INDICATION"

OTTAWA, Aug. 23 (CP) — Brief comment on the victory of Social Credit forces in Alberta was made by Hon. H. H. Stevens, leader of the Reconstruction party, on arrival here today.

"It is a clear indication the people are thoroughly dissatisfied with things as they are, particularly the manner in which private direction of credit and finance is conducted," he said. "No matter what opinion one may hold on Social Credit, it is impossible to disregard this expression of the public will."

Only Two Liberals and One Tory So Far Elected

ALL PROMINENT MEMBERS BEATEN

Lymburn Stands Good Chance to Be Reelected

CALGARY, Aug. 23 (CP)—Promising a new economic deal with basic dividends for all, the Alberta Social Credit league tonight went gathering greater strength to take control of the government of Alberta.

Ousting United Farmers of Alberta candidates, Liberals, Conservatives and Labor nominees alike, the newly formed party headed by William Aberhart, dean of the Calgary Prophetic Bible institute, was adding new seats as the counting of ballots in yesterday's provincial election continued.

With 43 members already definitely elected and 13 others leading, Social Crediters were conceded the largest majority ever held by any party in the 30-year-foothills province. The tide turned against the United Farmers of Alberta administration, in power since 1921, with greater deluge than the farm party swept the Liberals out of office.

JAPANESE SEEK SPIES

TOKYO, Aug. 23 (AP)—Japanese authorities, ever nervous of espionage, detained an American freighter tonight and sought two United States youths said by police to have taken photographs of a fortified zone from the ship.

After naval planes joined in a wide hunt for a "mysterious foreign vessel," she was detained by gendarmes at Port Okyama in Yamaguchi perfecture.

The ship was the Golden Mountain, out of San Francisco. Her officers and crew were said to be undergoing a rigid examination at the hands of military authorities.

Police attempted to trace two young Americans they suspected of having taken photographs of the fortified zone from the freighter and then having left the ship at Tokyama and started for Kobe by train.

Their names, possibly garbled in dispatches, were given as Phillip Maas, a graduate of Stanford university, and William Felix.

SON OF FORMER U. S. MINISTER TAKES OWN LIFE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23 (AP).—Worried by failing health, Robert V. H. Work, 37, son of Dr. Hubert Work, secretary of the interior in the Coolidge cabinet and former Republican national committeeman, today committed suicide by firing a pistol bullet into his head. He left a note address to his wife, Lucie, whom he married last November, saying "I cannot drag you through any more of unhappiness."

TO ISSUE CASH RELIEF

OTTAWA, Aug. 23 (CP)—Pursuant to one of the recommendations of Justice J. D. Hyndman's commission, which enquired into unnemployment conditions among ex-service men in Canada, the department of pensions on September 1 will issue cash relief, instead of vouchers, to unemployed small pensioners. This is announced by Minister of Pensions Sutherland.

Hitherto the practice of issuing unemployment relief to the small pensioner followed that of the municipality in which the recipient resided. Since most of the municipalities issued chits for food and the like, departmental district administrators did the same.

The system will be altered beginning September 1.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 23 (CP cable)—Success of candidates sponsoring the Social Credit plan in the Alberta elections today recalled the sweeping campaign the Douglas Social Credit party put on here in the general elections of last September.

The party ran candidates in three score ridings and rolled up a large popular vote, but failed to elect a member of the house of representatives.

The next general elections here are in 1937 and the Alberta success will spur the Australian Douglasites to continue preparations for another vigorous campaign.

GUFFEY BILL TO WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—The hotly disputed Guffey coal stabilization bill finally was voted tonight by an adjournment-minded congress.

It went to the white house for certain presidential signature after months of pressure by both the administration and organized labor. Mr. Roosevelt openly requested enactment of the bill to set up a "little NRA" for the soft coal industry despite "reasonable" congressional doubts of its constitutionality.

Producers opposing the bill have promised a supreme court test of this latest new deal measure for regulating industry.

WINANT CHOSEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP).—John G. Winnant, Republican, was chosen by President Roosevelt today to put his huge social security program into operation.

To work under his chairmanship on the three-membered social insurance board two Democrats were named: Arthur J. Altmyer of Wisconsin, second assistant secretary of labor, and Vincent Morgan Miles of Arkansas who has been a Democratic national committeeman.

All three nominations went to the senate today. But immediately the likelihood arose that little but preliminary work will be done before mid-September.

UTILITIES BILL TO GO TODAY TO THE PRESIDENT

Will Regulate the Holding Firms in U. S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP).—Congressional conferees pounded the contested utilities bill into final form tonight and predicted it would go to the President Roosevelt's desk tomorrow.

Capping one of the session's bitterest struggles between the white house and congress, weary house and senate conferees reached a final agreement on all points. With the holding company abolition issue compromised, speedy house and senate approval of the conference settlement was forecast.

The measure emerged in a form highly satisfactory to Chairman B. K. Wheeler (D-Mont) of the senate interstate commerce committee, champion of sterin rgeulation for the power industry.

"If any one can see a victory in this," he replied to a question on whether senate or house had won the gruelling contest, "it is hardly one for the utilities people.

"No measure has ever gone so far toward regulating holding companies and eliminating them when they are unnecessary. It is a good bill."

Philip H. Gadsden, chairman of the committee of public utility executives, said in a statement that the "so-called" holding company compromise "is simply the original death sentence in another form." In accepting it, Gadsden said the house had "struck a blow at the millions of Americans who have invested in utility securities." He blamed the "government lobby" and "patronage."

ALBERTA BONDS LOWER

WINNIPEG, Aug. 23 (CP)—Investors adopted a "wait-and-see" attitude on the Winnipeg bond market today toward Alberta bonds, following yesterday's sweeping victory of the Alberta Social Credit league in the provincial election.

Dealers reported a "thin" market for Alberta with no bids. However, holders were reluctant to sell at price concessions, it was stated.

The market for provincial issues was generally quiet and inclined to be easier. Losses up to four points had been registered in some of the Alberta bonds on the Winnipeg market in the past few days, and this weakness had spread to many sections of the provincial list.

At Lillooet and again at Soda Creek, the party is taking soundings, charting a cross-section of the proposed dam sites, and examining the topography of the ground and the nature of the river bed If rocky wall canyons extend to the bed of the river, possibility of securing favorable dam sites is said to be excellent.

Ethiopian War is Certain States Pierre van Paassen

"Not Even Duce Can Now Put on Brakes," He Says; Tens of Thousands of Italians Clamor: "Let Cannons Talk"

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN
Central Press Canadian Writer

ROME, Aug. 23.—The fury against Japan for mixing in the Italo-Ethiopian quarrel is equalled only by the blasts of blind, unreasoning hatred against Abyssinia herself. Amongst the Duce's hysterical followers the war-spirit is mounting to a white, livid fever-heat. Mussolini said once that Italy would either "expand or explode." That supreme hour of Napoleonic destiny is about to strike. For the kettle of passions is seething in an ultra-dangerous atmospheric tension. The lid is rattling ominously under the convulsive spuming of a million souls on fire. When that lid flies off tomorrow, it may be the crack of doom of a civilization.

After an absence of two weeks I am astounded at the change in Rome and other Italian cities. Not an hour passes without a demonstration of tens of thousands of young men in the streets clamoring screaming, bellowing for war. "Duce, Duce, Duce, la parola alla canone! Duce, let the cannons talk! Enough deliberations! Enough negotiations! Death to the Negus! Death to the black African monsters!"

Nothing of what happens in Geneva can now prevent the Italians from marching into Abyssinia. The mass of blackshirts is like a loaded Mills bomb. Mussolini has pulled the pin. He must

"Sure took them for a ride, didn't I?"

Smiling broadly he referred to an astounding story he related last night to a group of newspaper reporters in which he said he had killed 25 other men in, the mountains east of here besides James G. Kennett, Sr., retired Chicago business man, and John T. Mangan, 17, of Sacramento.

"Sure I killed Kennett and the red-head—I had reason to kill them, didn't I?" he asked of District Attorney Lowell Sparks and Sheriff Elmer Gum as they requestioned him about the entire case.

"But the other 25—I told them all of that stuff out of devilment to get some more bananas and cigarettes," he continued.

"Do you know what I said? Well, I said I'd give them a real story for some bananas and something to smoke. I gave the story all right—it's all a lot of baloney."

pable of holding the canal and at the army and air force have ready received instructions for use case of trouble.

An enlarged Mediterranean fleet, ready provided for before the July naval review, will be assembled at Malta soon, naval observers said.

ITALY STIRRED

ROME, Aug. 23 (AP)—Unconfirmed reports Great Britain is moving part of her Atlantic fleet to Gibraltar and is making strong defence plans for Malta stirred Italy today.

These reports and word that Britain might attempt to invoke sanctions against Italy at Geneva shared first place in the discussion in informed circles.

Newspapers took no formal notice of reports Britain might urge the invocation of sanction, if all peace efforts fail.

A government spokesman said Emperor Haile Selassie's reported offer to sell the province of Aussa to Italy in an effort to avert war could hardly change Il Duce's designs. He described it as a "death country" and a region which defied exploration of white until an Englishman, accompanied by two Italians and native rifle men, passed through it in 1928.

Italy, it was said here tonight, could not possibly be satisfied with the "right of way" through this relatively barren region.

Naples, the principal embarkation point for East Africa, was busy. The S. S. Quirinale sailed tonight with 411 Blackshirts, 50 officers and 100 mounted Carabinieri. The Saturnia will sail tomorrow with 400 troops and the Atlanta with 100 Blackshirts.

PROVINCE OFFERED

By JAMES A. MILLS
Associated Press Foreign Staff

ADDIS ABABA, Aug. 23 (AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie, who already has decreed death for any Ethiopian who attacks an Italian, took further precautions today to make certain no Ethiopian act or situation will touch off the powder of an African war.

He offered Italy his province of Aussa, hoping its sale might save his empire from war.

He ordered a sharp watch set upon the activities of Italian consulate staffs.

He personally directed a roundup of beggars, lepers and chained debtors on Addis Ababa streets and their removal to prevent offense to foreigners.

Determined to overlook no detail in his effort to keep peace with Italy, he sent his secretary sloshing through the mud of the capital's streets to the Italian legation to express his personal sympathy for Baron Muzzi Falconi, the Italian consul who was critically injured by accidental discharge of his own revolver on a hunting trip.

The emperor said that, if Italy will accept Aussa, he will apply the proceeds to the abolition of slavery, the building of schools and roads and the establishment of hospitals.

While he made overtures to Italy, the emperor ordered close watch of the Italian consulates as a precautionary measure, complaint having been made to him that some of them were staffed beyond the needs of Italian trade or Italian nationals and maintained wireless communication with the governors of Eritrea and Italian Somaliland.

VIENNA, Aug. 23 (AP)—Austrian newspapers, heretofore quiet in the Ethiopian dispute, spoke up today. The Stunde bitterly denounced what it described as Britain's dilatory tactics in the face of an impending catastrophe.

Asserting there is a real danger of an European war as a result of Italo-British tension, the newspaper said: "In this already almost unbearable atmosphere of tension Great Britain's cabinet deliberates five hours to reach a decision—if indeed it reached any decision, and Premier Stanley Baldwin goes off on a vacation again without a reassuring word to a waiting world.

"One cannot but recall the tragic July of 1914. Then, too, British ministers vacationing came together for a conference—then went back to their vacationing. Soon after this the world war broke out."

REOPEN DISCUSSION

LONDON, Aug. 23 (CP-Havas)—Britain reopened discussion with France tonight in a last-hour effort to avert an Italian-Ethiopian war and at the same time prepared to take precautionary measures in its colonies should this final peace effort fail.

A surprise caucus of several ministers in the cabinet took place at Downing street today presided over by Acting Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald. It became clear that the government has far from given up hope, and contemplates a definite series of peace steps before asking for the most extreme measures possible in the league of nations—military, economic and financial sanctions.

Britain's communication to France tonight was believed to contain an analysis of the position assumed by the cabinet at its extraordinary meeting yesterday. The response to this note will be of the utmost importance in formulating the policy which Great Britain and France and associated nations will take at Geneva, should the conflict be arraigned formally before the bar of world opinion at the September meeting of the league.

France in turn is continuing its conversations with Italy and it was said the British government will not step into the situation unless the Franco - Italian exchanges prove fruitless.

NEUTRALITY BILL BACK TO SENATE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—A neutrality plan revolutionizing traditional American policies was pressed swiftly through the house today by administration leaders, operating under a "gag" rule.

It went back to the senate where an agreement—foretelling probable approval—was made to vote by 11 o'clock tomorrow morning on the amendments specifically requested by President Roosevelt. Out standing was the February 29, 1936, limit clamped on the senate's mandatory arms embargo provision.

Besides the embargo, the resolution creates a new national munitions board to control licensing of arms exports and lets the president by proclamation take action to keep Americans off foreign ships, bars submarines from American ports and forbids American vessels to carry munitions.

MORE ABOUT ALBERTA VOTE

inces definitely elected, there were two Liberals and one Conservative. W. R. Howson, Liberal leader, was elected in Edmonton, and J. J. Bowlen, a Liberal, was elected in Calgary. John Irwin, Conservative stalwart for many years, was successful in Calgary, which, like Edmonton, elects six members to the 63-seat legislature.

But all the Social Credit strength did not come from the rural polls. E. C. Manning, F. Anderson, J. W. Hugill, K.C., and Mrs. F. Bostick, all Social Credit nominees, were elected in Calgary and, with Mr. Irwin and Mr. Bowlen, completed the Calgary slate. In Edmonton, Social Credit nominees were to the fore.

The cabinet of Premier Reid, who succeeded J. E. Brownlee as head of the U.F.A. party a year ago, failed to withstand the avalanche of new party votes. Only J. F. Lymburn, attorney-general, stood a good chance of reelection although Hon. Hugh Allen, minister of municipal affairs, still stood a chance in Grande Prairie.

Premier Reid was defeated in Vermilion. Hon. Perren Baker, minister of education, was beaten in Cypress. Hon. George Hoadley, a party stalwart and minister of trade and industry, tasted defeat in Okotoks-High River. Hon. F. S. Grisdale, called from the Olds Agricultural college to join the U.F.A. cabinet as minister of agriculture, was ousted.

Hon. J. Russell Love, provincial treasurer, was running third in Sturgeon with little chance of election. Hon. J. J. MacLellan, minister of public works, was beaten in Taber. Mr. Brownlee was beaten in Ponoka by Mrs. W. W. Rogers, Social Credit, who was the first woman to achieve election in yesterday's voting. O. L. McPherson, a former cabinet member, lost his seat in Little Bow.

Fred J. White, Labor leader and long an alderman in Calgary, was beaten so badly he lost his deposit. F. C. Moyer, recognized leader of the Independent group, bowed out of Drumheller constituency. D. M. Duggan, Conservative leader, was fighting hard for a seat in Edmonton. Every one of the prominent members lost out to Social Credit nominees.

Women Pleased at Election Result

CALGARY, Aug. 23 (CP)—Women of the Social Credit league, successful at the polls Thursday, do not consider the sweep of their candidates a victory.

"It is only a milestone on the road of progress. Victory will not be won until poverty has been abolished from our midst," declared Mrs. F. Gostick, a successful Social Credit candidate in Calgary.

She said, however, the election of a Social Credit government would, for the first time, mean economic independence for women.

A cashier in a departmental store, Mrs. Gostick, behind her desk today, learned of her election in Calgary.

Mrs. Gostick will have feminine company in the legislature. Mrs. W. W. Rogers, an organizer for the league, was elected in Ponoka, where she defeated former Premier Brownlee.

Three other women sought legislative office and failed. The trio were candidates in Edmonton. Mrs. Marion Conroy, a Liberal; Mrs. T. D. Fitzsimon, Conservative, and Miss Elsie Wright, lone Cooperative Commonwealth federation candidate in the province.

MORE ABOUT VAN PAASSEN

hurl it away or be torn to smithereens himself, he and his regime. Not even the Duce can now put on the brakes. War is certain.

INTOXICATED BY WAR IDEA

The youth, Mussolini's blackshirt legions, are intoxicated with the idea of war. The supreme adventure is beckoning. The great release of years of pent-up emotion and artful excitation is at hand. The sense of the Fascist revolution becomes at last apparent. It is glory and conquest and loot and suffering and blood and death.

The city which proclaimed Christ the King in a delirium of joy embraces the bloody idol of Moloch. From a thousand altars rise the clouds of incense to Mars, the god of war. And the figure of the pale Galilean recedes into the subterranean gloom of the catacombs once more.

Under my window swarms a band of youngsters, 50,000 or 100,000, I do not know. The end of the tumultuous procession is lost in the bluish morning haze of the Pincio gardens. They carry streamers: "Death to the Mikado!" "Down with the Japanese murderers!" "White Peoples make a common front against the Yellow Peril." Their shouts are like the lowing of a tempest at sea.

The old crystal chandeliers in my room tinkle softly like silver bells in response to the mass invocations to the hounds of Mars. Japan has dared to interfere in the Italo-Ethiopian quarrel. Japan must be punished. The blackshirts are beyond themselves with fury, "Duce, Duce, Duce, send the ships against Japan! Let the cannons silence the Nipponese barbarians, Eternal is Rome! Eternal! Eternal!"

DESERTS AWAIT BLOOD

The Latin blood is boiling. Presently the deserts of Ethiopia will lick it up and it shall be no more. The Roman courage is tense as a still blow. The heat of Africa will melt it like paper foil before a fire.

Wide gape the grinning jaws of Moloch. Human sacrifice did not end with Abraham. Mussolini is offering the children of his people. And they, their brains in a whirl with the heady wine of promised glory, walk willingly into the fire with a song on their lips, with hope in their hearts. Civilzation is about to wipe out her own name with the blood of her own children.

The noon papers announce that 300 bombing airplanes are on the way to Africa. We will bomb our way through the heathens! . . . . Addis Ababa will be a heap of debris in a month! . . . The negus will be buried under the ashes of his own pride! . . . The black warriors will come back from the front to search the ruins for the fragments of their wives and children! . . . Rome is eternal. Glory to Rome! Her speech is a destroying fire! . . . Duce, Duce. Duce, why delay? Why wait? Let the cannons speak! Duce, do you hear us?"

Does he hear In the hall of the Mappemonde. Mussolini sits over his charts. Generals go in and out of the Palazzo Venezia. The bayonets of the guard gleam in the golden sunlight that plays about Michelangelo's sculptured portals. The ochre facade of the Bonaparte mansion across the square shimmers in a purple gleam. Slowly the bell of St. John Lateran tolls out the hours. Time fleets away imperceptibly, but the minutes count. Duce are you ready? Duce have you made up your mind? Must this flame of ardor then burn out in the wastes of Abyssinia? Must these glorious children then perish for your idols of blood?

Mussolini does not answer. Every hour the crowd tells you what occupies the son of the blacksmith of Predappio. "The Duce is on guard . . . The Duce telephones to Geneva . . . The Duce receives the British ambassador . . . The Duce orders the troops in Tripoli to the front" . . . Right in the midst of peace negotiations he orders another 100,000 men to the front. "Mussolini ha sempre regione" (Mussolini is always right).

Across the Tiber last night, beyond the square where Peter was crucified, I saw a lamp burning after midnight. "That is the Pope's room," whispered the shadow of a guard. An anguished silence hung over the dwelling of Christ's vicar. But in the Forum Romanum a silver moon laughed mocking amidst the ruins of the pagan gods.

63-Year-Old Gives Up Hope for Job; Earned $750 Month, Then Gradually Less

1923-1926, assistant vice-president of the Heelman bank, Los Angeles, $450 a month.

1934-1935, unemployed, then on relief, "promised a government job for a long time but have been put off from week to week."

A note with the salutation "Mr. Coroner" said: "Dispose of me as you see fit. Have no relatives in this country. My mother lives in Belfast, Ireland but she is very old and poor."

The Knights of Columbus supreme council was told that attempts by representatives of the Mexican government to destroy the religious liberty in the United States has spurred the organization to a campaign in defence of individual rights.

Hon. R. R. Bruce Is Back at Invermere

Christian Students Hold Two-Week Seminar

INVERMERE, B.C.—The Hon. R. Randolph Bruce, former lieutenant-governor of British Columbia, with Mrs. Bruce, has arrived in Montreal, after touring the continent of Europe. During their travels, they visited Italy, Switzerland, and after attending their Majesties' silver jubilee celebrations in London, have toured in Norway and Sweden.

They will be visiting the Columbia valley in a few weeks' time where Mr. Bruce still retains his home on the shores of Lake Windermere.

Mount Swansea, one of the small peaks of the Rocky mountains, situated opposite Invermere, seems to have a great attraction for parties of mountain climbers this year.

The climb is not difficult, if a cloudy or cool day is chosen but is the reverse if the day is hot, as the last part of the ascent is fairly steep.

The view from the top is ample reward for a wide range of rugged peaks and valleys, both of the Rockies and Selkirks greet the view.

Those visitors from the prairies have been intensely thrilled with the scenery, and some have made up parties to climb to the Paradise mine, situated on the shoulder of Mount Nelson in the Selkirk range.

The members of the Student Christian Volunteer movement who are occupying the Lake Windermere bungalow camp for their annual two weeks seminar are kept very busy these days, with their studies all morning and lectures from their leaders. In the afternoons, recreation in swimming, riding or hiking take up all their spare time, and the evenings are given over to social intercourse and community singing, interspersed with indoor games.

This year the party numbers 65 and the members are graduates, undergraduates of several universities, teachers and others doing social welfare work.

Professor Gregory Vlastos, of Kingston, the Rev. H. Avison (McGill) of Deloraine and the Rev. E. Birdsall of Edmonton university are the principal leaders.

At Trinity United church last Sunday the morning service was conducted by members of the Student Christian Volunteer movement. The choir was composed of members from the musical group of the movement, and the sermon was preached by the Rev. H. Avison, pastor of the United church at Deloraine, Man.

A large congregation turned out to attend this service which was much enjoyed by the interested listeners.

Mrs. Oliver of the Gateway lodge, Radium Hot Springs, received the news of the serious illness of her mother and left this week for her old home at Grand Harbor, Mich., U.S. She expects to be away for a couple of months.

A. E. Fisher and Miss Fisher, accompanied by Miss D. K. Bodecker motored to Calgary last Saturday, where Mr. and Miss Fisher spent the week-end.

Miss Bodecker expects to stay a week with friends in Calgary, when she will leave to visit friends in Revelstoke, Vancouver and Victoria before returning home the first week in September.

Dr. Mary Crawford, chief medical inspector of schools for Winnipeg, who has been spending a two month holiday with her sister, Mrs. A. M. Hamilton of Invermere Heights, left on Wednesday's train for Victoria, where she will spend a short time, before returning to Winnipeg for the opening of the schools.

The constitutionality of Montreal's 2% per cent sales tax was upheld by lower courts.

Umbrellas Mark of Caste in Ethiopia

Two more exclusive pictures from Ethiopia show top, a young cavalry officer, in this case son of a tribal chieftain, with his small but speedy steed. Ethiopian horsemen wear no shoes, but hook the stirrup between big and second toes. J. E. Pinchbeck Fined at Trail

Convicted on Driving to Common Danger Charge

TRAIL, B. C., Aug. 23— After pleading not guilty to a common danger charge, J. E. Pinchbeck was convicted and fined $15 and costs by Police Magistrate R. E. Plewman Friday afternoon. The charge arose out of an accident Friday, June 21, when a bus driven by Pinchbeck knocked down a bicycle on which Morris Modsley, 14, and Edward Fowler, 12, were riding, at the inter section of Second street and Rossland avenue. Pinchbeck was proceeding up Rossland avenue and was turning left to go up Second street (comonly known as Glover road), when the bus struck the bicycle, which was proceeding down Rossland avenue. The case had been adjourned a number of times as Modsley, who had suffered a broken leg, had been unable to appear in court.

Eight witnesses took the stand. Constable Fred Steele, Nick Turik, George Tognotti, William Turik, Morris Modsley, and Edward Fowler, were called on by the crown proscutor, J. R. Clegg, while Andrew Weir, Mrs. Sara Pearson and the accused testified on behalf of the defence.

R. J. G. Richards was counsel for the defence. After hearing of the witnesses, the scene of the accident was viewed and the case was not completed until after a three and one half hours session.

Andrew Weir, who was a passenger on the bus, proved to be a key witness to the case, stating that he called to Pinchbeck driver of the bus, to look out for the "kids," whom he saw approaching. Pinchbeck admitted he had not seen them until drawn to his attention by Weir.

Mrs. Pearson testified that the driver stopped the bus so quickly that her little boy on the seat beside her was thrown to the floor. She also stated that the driver had signalled to turn up Second street, although Morris Modsley affirmed that he had not seen the driver signal, and that he was watching the advancing bus for some time prior to it reaching the intersection.

Magistrate Plewman believed that Pinchbeck had taken every precaution after noticing the boys on the bicycle, but due to the fact that he had not seen them until Weir called to him, he believed that had he watched more carefully, he would have seen the boys coming down of his own accord.

Three robbers held up a transfer-service garage in Winnipeg, obtained $30 and then added insult to injury. They forced their two victims to help them escape in a garaged taxi.

MONEKY CAUGHT, THEN ESCAPES

MASSAPEQUA, N.Y. — "Al Capone," sinister, elusive leader of a gang of escaped monkeys, permitted himself to be captured long enough to have his picture taken and eat a few bananas and then took it on the lam again. "Capone," who has carried a price of $50 on his head since he led a wholesale zoo break from Frank Buck's monkey colony here Wednesday, surrendered meekly to L. C. Nicol, a member of Buck's "Bring 'em back alive" organization. "Capone" was a willing subject, as long as the bananas lasted. He seemed so penitent that Nicol relaxed his vigilance a little. Immediately "Capone" scampered across the park, over the fence and away. Nicol, highly disgusted, thereupon announced that the hundred or more monkeys still at large probably never would be captured.

TRAIL TAKES NELSON 10-6

Leroy Hard to Beat; Two Fights in Boxla

Marked by spells of roughness in which two fights blossomed forth, the Trail box-lacrosse team downed the Nelson seniors at the rink Friday night 10-6 in a West Kootenay league game. It was closer than the score would suggest, and had the Nelson players been able to take advantage of the scoring opportunities they had, they might quite easily have won. Leroy played his usual consistent game in the Trail net and he blocked men time after time when they had only him to beat.

Early in the game Bill Freno and Stewie Patterson began throwing fists at one another, and McQuarrie ran out of the box in time to get one slug at Freno before the squabble was settled. Late in the final period McLeod resented familiarities imposed upon him by Davy and he swung at the Trail player. A free for all appeared to be in the making but the referees managed to get the players calmed down. Stephenson, who had lost no time in unloosing an attack against McLeod, was given five minutes, and McLeod and Davy were put off for the remainder of the game. Freno and Patterson each got 10 minutes.

A fair-sized crowd witnessed the match and they found it to their liking. Nelson outshot the visitors in three of the four periods but found it hard to fathom Leroy.

NELSON OPENS SCORING

About five minutes of the opening period had passed when Freno ran to center and then passed to the uncovered Proudfoot, who raced in to draw first blood with a nice shot. Nelson was passing neatly, and was boring in well.

At 12:50 Sherwood took a pass from Latham to tie up the score. Patterson worked his way in but found Langill on and in the return play DesBrisay got by the defence and then couldn't bring the pass down for a shot. DesBrisay soloed again but missed the net.

With Trail short through the absence of Merlo, Davy picked up a loose pass and drilled home Trail's second.

Leroy blocked Melneczuk at the opening of the second quarter. Murdock carried the ball to just past center and tried a long one. Langill attempted to block it but it slipped into the net. Merlo scored his next one a few minutes later on a pass from Patterson. Stewie was through for an open shot and sent it wide. Latham got it and returned it to him and although Stewie scored, the referee ruled that he was inside the crease.

MERLO GOING GOOD

DeVoin made Nelson's next one when he picked up a ball near the goal and beat Leroy. Merlo added his third on a solo rush, evading the defence and going right in. Proudfoot made a nice try but found Leroy in his way. Merlo was going good and was very effective.

Art Wallace took Freno's place at half time, Freno having twisted his ankle. Wallace did not waste any time. Within two minutes he found some one had left the switch open and he ambled down to take a long shot and score. A few seconds later he got a penalty and was in the game up to his neck.

Patterson added another for Trail on a pass from Latham and Sherwood made Trail's seventh on Patterson's pass. Nelson did not managed to get another that period. Twice Bishop was through with no one to beat but Leroy, and DesBrisay and Beattie each had scoring opportunities.

Each side scored three goals in the final session. Merlo opened up with two more for Trail and then Jackie Bishop added one for Nelson on a solo effort. Both Merlo's tallies were individual efforts. At 13:10 DeVoin picked up a loose ball and whaled it home. Proudfoot tried another and was blocked. Then Stewie Patterson made Trail's final counter by nabbing a bouncer that seemed to be nobody's, and put it by Langill.

Bishop hit the post and was wide a second time when he went in. Leroy saved from Beattie and then Bishop was konked on the head. He returned to the game, however, DeVoin closed the scoring for the night by adding his third.

Teams were:

Trail — Leroy, Stew Murdock, Stevenson, Gifford, McQuarrie, D. Latham, Davy, Sherwood, Patterson, Smiley.

52 PROPERTIES IN ORE EXHIBIT

Samples Are Shipped to Exhibition in Two Lots

A splendid Kootenay ore exhibit, in which 52 properties are represented by new ore samples, including in the case of each the most recent discoveries, or concentrates, is now on its way to Vancouver, from the Chamber of Mines of Eastern British Columbia, which sponsored the exhibit and collected the ore.

The main shipment, weighing 1250 pounds, and packed in a number of boxes, was shipped from Nelson Monday by freight. Samples coming in since were shipped by express Friday, in a 50-pound package. At Vancouver they will be in the care of Mr. Marsden, former Kootenay resident, who capably supervised the last Kootenay ore exhibit sent to the Vancouver exhibition.

By next Wednesday the fine ore collection will be on display in the mines building at the exhibition.

Insurance Topic of School Board

A special meeting of the Nelson school board Friday night in the city hall, called for the purpose of discussing property insurance, developed into a lesson on the subject with Chairman E. P. Dawson and Secretary Fred L. Irwin presiding.

The question of adopting blanket insurance for the school buildings in place of a direct insurance was discussed at length.

One of the suggestions arising out of the discussions, made by Leslie Craufurd was the possibility of going in with the city and take in the new auditorium in a blanket scheme. No decision was reached as complete information was not available.

TO BUILD ROGERS MEMORIAL

CLAREMORE, Okla., Aug. 23—(AP)—Will Rogers' home town turned from eulogy to its famous son to lay plans for a fitting memorial.

The city council will name a committee later today to handle the scores of small contributions that have been sent here and consider various plans presented.

One suggestion was to build a monument on a tract of land owned by Rogers that overlooks the city.

On frequent trips to Claremore Rogers used to say:

"Some day I'm coming back to Claremore to live and build my home right here."

Will G. Kates, editor of the Claremore Progress, suggested converting into a national shrine the ranchhouse near Oologah where Rogers was born.

More than 6000 persons sat in broiling heat at the Will Rogers airport yesterday to hear Congressman Josh Lee laud the actor-philosopher as one of the greatest Americans.

News of the death of Rogers and Wiley Post in an Alaskan plane crash Lee described as "the saddest news since the assassination of Abraham Lincoln."

Miss A. W. Harrop Weds W. H. Elmes

HARROP, B.C.—A pretty wedding was solemnized Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock in the United church, Harrop, when Anne Winnifred, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Harrop became the bride of Walter Henry Elmes, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Elmes of Corbin. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. C. Pound of Procter. To the strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. W. S. Ashby, the bride entered the church on the arm of her father, looking charming in a floor length gown of white crepe cut on princess lines with lace yoke and sleeves and high lace collar, with picture hat, white shoes and gloves, and was attended by her sister, Miss Jessie Harrop. The groom was supported by his brother, Harold Elmes of Rossland. After the wedding service, Mrs. L. C. Piper sang "Your Heart Is More."

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where a buffet luncheon was served. Tea was poured by Mrs. J. J. Hawkins of Nelson and Mrs. W. D. Ridge of Bonnington, aunts of the bride. A toast was proposed to the bride and groom by Mr. Pound, the groom replying suitably.

The happy couple left immediately on a motor trip to Calgary via Spokane, the bride travelling in a costume of maroon wool crepe, jacket and cape effect with black satin and fur trimming. Hat and accessories to match. Mr. and Mrs. Elmes will reside in Invermere where the groom is on the teaching staff of the public school.

MRS. ABERHART HAPPY

CALGARY, Aug. 23 (CP)—Tired but happy Mrs. William Aberhart, wife of the leader of the Alberta Social Credit league, today told interviewers she "certainly approved of women in politics."

Mrs. Aberhart was not a candidate herself, but assisted her husband in his campaign to bring a Social Credit government into power in Alberta.

Great credit for Social Credit's success was attributable to the women of rural Alberta, Mrs. Aberhart believed.

"The women have played a great part in this campaign and I am grateful for their work," she added.

Good Housekeeping

By MRS. MARY MORTON
MENUS, RECIPES and HINTS

Menu Hint

Ham and Apple Rings
Sweet Potatoes
Sliced Tomatoes
Sponge Cake With Lemon Sauce
Tea

If the day is warm and sunny this menu will taste fine, likewise if the weather is cool and dull. Apples always are best in the late summer or early fall—for cooking, anyhow, and they really are an excellent addition to any menu, so use them freely. I always have said that I am sure my family uses more apples than any other possibly could, but perhaps some of you would like to challenge that statement.

Today's Recipes

Ham and Apple Rings—Cut baked ham into squares and pan brown, adding a little ham fat if the meat is very lean. Remove to a warm place while browning in the same skillet rather thick slices of unpeeled coredapples. Sprinkle with brown sugar and cook and mash a quantity of sweet potatoes. Pile in the center of a hot platter arranging the ham and apples about the outer edge.

Lemon Sauce — One tablespoon cornstarch, one-half cup sugar, one teaspoon lemon rind, one cup water. Mix, bring to boil and boil five minutes. Remove from fire and add; two tablespoons lemon juice, two tablespoons butter, sprinkling nutmeg, sprinkling salt. Serve hot over individual sponge cakes.

Bridge Luncheon Salad. — One package lime gelatin, two-thirds cup hot water, one cup pineapple juice, one tablespoon vinegar, one-fourth cup chopped stuffed olives, one cup shredded pineapple, one cup finely diced ham. Dissolve gelatin in hot water, add pineapple juice and vinegar. When partly thickened fold in olives, pineapple, very thoroughly drained, and ham. Mold individually.

ORANGE ICING

Two cups sugar, two-thirds cup boiling water, four egg yolks, one tablespoon butter, one-half grated rind and juice of orange. Cook sugar and water to the thread stage. Beat yolks until light, pour syrup slowly over them and beat well as you pour. When well blended add butter, a speck of salt and the fruit juice and rind.

Gas Range Cleaner

After taking apart the gas range for a good scrubbing, find one of hubby's pipe cleaners and run the cleaner through each little valve. This will clean the openings of all grease and dirt and make the gas flare much better and brighter.

"A watched pot never boils," they say. It is because in watching it you remove the cover, and part of the heat escapes. Keep the covers of utensils on when possible, and see that they fit.

After oiling your sewing machine, stitch through a blotter several times. This will take up any surplus oil on the machine and keep it from getting on the material to be stitched.

A PASSBOOK FOR EVERY ALBERTAN

Caught by the glamor of the $120,000,000 a year that William Aberhart, leader of the new Social Credit party, has promised to put into their pockets, via the "basic dividend" of $25 written into the bank passbooks of 400,000 citizens once a month, Alberta has set full sail on the Social Credit sea, which Prof. Douglas, who propounded the original theory, declared to be one unsailable by a provincial craft.

Canadian history will be searched in vain to find a parallel for the overwhelming capture of a province by a new party espousing a new economic theory, which was recorded in Alberta Thursday, though since the war Ontario, Alberta, and Manitoba have each "gone farmer" so surprisingly that the victorious party has had to select its leader after the event.

In the instances where provinces "went farmer," the governmental change was chiefly one of personnel, not of essential theories, and the governments that resulted were not greatly different in their effects from similar governments by parties of national names.

But in the present case, a revolutionary change is promised, for all alike are to share in dividends to be declared on account of the aggregate wealth of the province, inclusive of the "cultural heritage" claimed to be common property. There is to be a scientific system of recovery through the cycle of credit, a plan by which the provincial government will reduce the spread of prices on basic commodities, among other features.

There will be a pretty large gallery observing Alberta for the next two or three years, to see when the basic dividends begin and where the money comes from for them, and to see what will happen if it should chance that the new party fails to produce.

"IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN"

In this era of dictatorships—and, for the world's good, may it be not too long!—at a moment when despotic power is seemingly hurling the eastern hemisphere headlong into a war whose limitations cannot be easily seen, may we pause to reflect upon how history might have read if at certain crises men had arisen to defend representative institutions?

Many an individual act turns the tide of a nation's fortunes.

Suppose when Lenin and his fellow conspirators, constituting a small wing of the Russian douma under Kerensky, gave the Russian revolution its second turn, some able peasant member, some natural leader, had fought tooth and nail the muzzling of the douma and the handing over of his class to the small minority that had seized power?

But Russia had no Hampden, and the douma, that might have ruled, became first a nonenity, and later a reflection of the new ruling class, the creature of a dictator.

Take the case of Italy, with a free parliament on the British model.

When Mussolini, Milan editor, organized a black shirted army of volunteers who would be willing to work hard for the nation, and marched on Rome to dispossess Giolitti and try to reconstruct the national fiber, he fired the nation. Later, when he developed into the despot, at least three former premiers, including Giolitti, raised their voices to save the Italian parliament, but a house of yes-men voted the premier despotic power. Mussolini is now the parliament, as well as the rest of the government. But the self-chloroformed chamber of deputies might have saved for Italy responsible government. Within the ranks of the Fascist members, burning with zeal for Italy, should have been many fiery spirits to insist on the rights of the people's representatives. But they defied their leader, and handed Italy over to one man.

How about the German reichstag, which dared to stand up to the All-Highest, and caused one chancellor after another to rack his wits to make the parliamentary combinations necessary for carrying on the kaiser's government on the lines wished? Put on a popular basis after the revolution that followed the collapse of the central empires, the reichstag should have been a freer body than ever in its history. But under Hitler it has surrendered its powers for a term of years, and gone into voluntary eclipse. The reichstag could have been the governing force in Germany today, but the men sent it to represent the people did not measure up to their trust. So Germany is in a despot's hands, and the world is re-arming.

PROBLEMS

Religious and Social Questions Answered

By DR. WYLIE CLARK

Can this world be made into a decent place to live in—a real home of true Christians? G.D.A.

That is our vision and the hope upon which we are working. At times the powers that are against are so many and so powerful that we are apt to think that the task set us will never be accomplished. Ours is a conquest of love and goodwill. We are assured that love never fails. It is one of the things which abideth forever and never acknowledges defeat. Of course it will take time—perhaps much time; but in our day we have only to do our bit.

From your experience of life, do you think that Christ is the "solid rock" and all else is "shifting sand"? L.T.C.

I have learned to have a great trust in human beings. We are all bad enough or weak enough in spots; but most of us have rock parts in our make-up. However, while this is so there is only the one Christ. In literature He is one by Himself. To those who have learned to know Him as Savior He is the all of life. In Him life is a new experience and it is founded on something which gives the soul the sense of security and a future assurance.

Applied to social conditions what does the phrase "lacks something in the mixture" mean? L.H.G.

This is a phrase that is used of plaster or cement and means that there is an insufficient quantity of lime to hold it together and make it solid. Applied to social conditions it would mean that society is crumbling or falling to pieces for lack of some adhesive power to bind it together. The comparison is a good one. Just at present we could do with large quantities of binding material.

What in short is a definition of a parable? R.B.

A parable is a short account of something which might occur but has not necessarily occurred in nature or in life designed to convey some moral or spiritual lesson.

What is happening between the fundamentalists and the modernists? Are they making peace? S.C.

There seems to be a halt in hostitilities. Evidently both parties realized that they had been over extreme and too dogmatic. The way to truth could not be blocked by the one nor over rushed by the other. Perhaps the one had to admit that there was a new aspect of old truths and the other had to acknowledge that their new had often to be superseded by another new.

A WISH

Mine be a cot beside the hill;
A bee-hive's hum shall soothe my ear;
A willow brook that turns a mill,
With many a fall shall linger near.

The swallow, oft, beneath my thatch
Shall twitter from her clay-built nest;
Oft shall the pilgrim lift the latch,
And share my meal, a welcome guest.

Around my ivied porch shall spring
Each fragrant flower that drinks the dew;
And Lucy, at her wheel, shall sing
In russet gown and apron blue.

The village church among the trees,
Where first our marriage-vows were given,
With merry peals shall swell the breeze
And point with taper spire to Heaven.

—Samuel Rogers

FLIGHT OF YOUTH

There are gains for all our losses,
There are balms for all our pain:
But when youth, the dream, departs,
It takes something from our hearts,
And it never comes again.

We are stronger, and are better,
Under manhood's sterner reign:
Still we feel that something sweet
Followed youth, with flying feet,
And will never come again.

Something beautiful is vanished,
And we sigh for it in vain:
We behold it everywhere,
On the earth and in the air,
But it never comes again.

—Richard Henry Stoddard

THEN THERE ARE "DEMON PATIENTS"

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

The demon patient. He or she is always trying a new doctor, or telling you that that doctor had sent him to a nose and throat specialist, and that was a very good thing because he remembers that he never was able to breathe properly since he was a child. You know, couldn't get enough air past his nose. And the nose and throat specialist found a spur sticking right out into his nose, shutting off the air, and took it off. And really, now he gets so much air he's a little afraid. Do you think a person can get too much air? It makes him a little dizzy. Perhaps he'd better go and see the doctor tomorrow because of dizziness, and see what is the best way to prevent getting too much air, now that his nose is so improved.

That is the demon patient. The one who is bent on being always a patient. Everyone must have seen a few of the species.

Is there anything the matter with them? Well, so far as any classifiable disease is concerned, no. There is no anatomical change anywhere sufficient to make any real trouble.

TINY SPUR MAKES BIG TROUBLE

Take the spur on the nose. Some spurs cause real trouble. But a little spur in a demon patient causes all kinds of trouble. Undoubtedly the spur is an anatomical change, but there are hundreds and thousands of people who have that much change in the nose without experiencing any symptoms whatever.

It is easy to make fun of the demon patient. We say their troubles are not due to organic disease, that they are mental or emontional and we are inclined to discuss them with a shrug. But to say their troubles have a mental or emotional origin does not mean that they are "imaginary", or that "there is nothing the matter with them."

They have been described as follows: "(1) The emotional disturbance and the change in behavior are out of proportion to the symptoms; (2) the personality of these people is often of a similar type—they are very sensitive, very egotistical; (3) their physical well being seems impossible in the presence of such suffering."

The last point is important. The demon patient is constantly having blood tests, basal metabolism tests, treatments, massage, baths, operations. They submit to being cut and scored and hacked like a cod, and baked and chilled; there is no portion of their bodies the pathologic changes of which they can't describe, but in spite of all this, to all appearances, they are in blooming health and go on year after year, perfect specimens of huskies.

Do not let yourself become fascinated by the demon patient's recital of his surgical operations. At least not fascinated enough to want to be operated on yourself without good cause.

ADVANCE WEATHER BULLETIN

Monday, Aug. 26, 1935—In most of central and southeast sections cool, but about west and southwest turning warmer; clear in nearly all parts of the country.

Tuesday, Aug. 27—About northwest becomes cloudy and unsettled, though in most other sections weather should be quite clear and cool.

Wednesday, Aug. 28—Cloudy, unsettled, showery conditions drift across the central regions toward the southeast; much warmer in all sections.

Thursday, Aug. 29—About southwest cloudy and unsettled with a few light showers, though most of country clearing and turning cooler.

Friday, Aug. 30—Cloudy condition and the mildly unsettled weather reaches the great lakes regions and southeast; most of north and northeast clear and cooler.

Saturday, Aug. 31—From west and southwest probably mild storm disturbance, carrying cloudy, showery conditions into central provinces and along the southern borders; cooler in west.

Sunday, Sept. 1—Some disturbance on Pacific slope; unsettled about central and southeast parts of the central provinces, though no very heavy rains are expected. Temperatures in general slightly declining.

Week Aug. 26 to Sept. 1, 1935, in central provinces begins with clear, cool weather everywhere, and in a few of the northwest plateau sections temperatures may decline to near the frost line for a short time near 25th or 26th. Then soon cloudy, unsettled conditions come on which last most of the week, though with intermittent clearing spells. Temperatures decline after the 28th in central regions and a mild disturbance, with some rain, drifts in by way of the southwest near end of week. Rainfall showery, light and scattering.

At the end of August in the prairie provinces a notable seasonal change comes on from summer to autumn weather. This year about the 28th is expectel to be the turn of the season, and from that time on the summer showers become a few scattering spells of unsettled weather, the winds turn cool and strong and in northern sections often chilly. The temperature forecast seems to indicate that the autumnal frosts this year ought not to come on until near end of first week in September. Then after a warm second week another cold spell. However, this should be rather a mild autumn and the severe killing frosts will probably be later than usual in most of the central provinces.

GARNISH GROWN IN YOUR OWN GARDEN

Caraway is an herb made famous by the use of its seeds to garnish our breakfast rolls.

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Central Press Garden Expert

The American housewife has often been accused of being entirely without imagination in the preparation of foods and the decoration of the platters. Yet in our own gardens we may grow the very ingredients that lift our recipes out of the ordinary class. Without going beyond our garden gate we may prepare dishes which come to us from far-off lands, simply by growing the necessary herbs.

To flavor cold drinks with mint, marjoram, thyme, or borage, the herbs are wrapped in cloths and bruised, and then steeped in the liquid for some time. In making iced tea or drinks from hot juices, the herbs are steeped in the hot liquid, which is then cooled. When a sprig of mint is perched on top of a glass of iced tea, it is fresh and green to look upon, but this last-minute association does not serve to impart any of its spicy quality to the liquid.

Herbs are pleasant for filling sandwiches, and particularly appropriate for a garden party or any other out-of-door meal. Jasmine or linden tea served with them and a bowl of sweet smelling herbs placed on the table, would compose an aromatic repast.

Most people think of mint in relation to julep, and everywhere it is used with lamb. Few know how pleasant it is scattered over glazed carrots, and that minced and sprinkled over sliced oranges or chilled fruit salads it is pretty, also having a refreshing scent. A little of this herb with a dash of nutmeg stirred into creamed spinach, makes that much maligned dish a delicacy.

During the year, save all cellophane and cut into four-inch squares. These can be used on jelly glasses that have no lids. When the paraffin has hardened dip the cellophane quickly in water, put over the jelly glasses and fasten with a rubber band. It is neat, quick and clean.

MASTERING BRIDGE (11)

A forcing bid is one obligating partner's response, unless excused by an intervening bid when he is too weak to volunteer an overcall. Natural forcing bids are calls which their maker wishes to play, unless further bidding discloses a better call for the point 26 cards of his side. Artificial forcing bids are calls announcing possession of the conventional holdings required to make the bid, without enlightening partner as to which suit the bidder is willing to play as trump. For example: The Vanderbilt opening bid of 1 Club shows possession of three quick tricks, without letting partner know wether the opening bidder can afford to play clubs or is void of that suit. Under another system an opening bid of 2 Clubs shows at least five quick tricks and seven playing tricks, although the bidder may or may not be strong in the suit named. Both these club bids are purely conventional, requiring further calls to show even a biddable suit.

Both natural and artificial bids possess merit. In North America the great advances made in the game, with the occidental directness of the natural bids, have caused the great majority of experts and average players as well, to prefer that type of force to the Oriental indirectness of the artificial opening bids. A least for the present we will let followers of artificial forcing bids make their own explanations to partners and opponents. We will confine ourselves to explanation of the most popular opening forcing bid of two of a suit.

The simplest and sanest method of determining whether a hand justifies an opening forcing bid is to apply my original "Rule of Ten". The number of playing tricks plus the number of biddable suits must equal 10 to make a hand worth an opening forcing bid. That is easy to remember. Nine playing tricks make a single biddable suit worth an opening force. Force on two biddable suits if eight playing tricks are held, while three biddable suits justify forcing upon seven playing tricks. Single suiters or two-suiters worth only minor suit makes require one added playing trick. Be wary of including promotional values of honors in counting playing tricks, until partner's response shows real strength. Bid the following hands as indicated.

VERSE

WILL ROGERS

The whole nation, it's in mourning.
All the flags at half mast,
To show all their sorrows
Of a friend that has passed.

"Please stay," his wife cried,
"'Tis not right I am sure."
But his roaming nature
They could not moor.

Away to the north lands
A friend and he flew.
They both had a warm smile
As they bid all adieu.

Whatever their plans were
Fate, it said "no."
And both met their death
In that land of snow.

Although you've been taken
Your memory lives on.
So we'll all bow our heads
To our friend that's passed on.

Exchange Clubs

A large number of readers of our column have written in from time to time, requesting information as to how they can get in touch with collectors in other countries for the purpose of exchanging stamps.

There are any number of exchange clubs with members in almost every country of the world, and we know of no better medium for getting in touch with such collectors than by joining one or more of these clubs.

The Stamp Collectors' Exchange club is the only one that I know of having its headquarters in Canada. I do not know just what the total membership is, but the club claims to have members in over 100 stamp-issuing countries. A partial list of these countr s included on the application form covers almost every corner of the globe. A bi-monthly magazine goes along with each membership, and from the sample seen it is a most interesting and newsy magazine.

The president of the club is N. C. Carmichael, Seaforth, Ont. Anyone interested should write direct to Mr. Carmichael for further details.

Another club that we can recommend is known as the "Guiana Hobby club," with headquarters in Georgetown, British Guiana.

This club has been in operation for over a year, that we recall, and the membership list must be in the neighborhood of one thousand.

An excellent magazine, published every three months, is sent free to all club members, and from a list of members included in the last edition of the magazine we note that the British West Indies are strongly represented, with an excellent coverage of most other parts of the world.

The Canadian representative to whom you should apply for further details is Garnet M. Herbert, P. O. Box 540, Kelowna, B.C.

The many splendid letters and liberal dontations of stamps, etc., that we have received from readers to date is most encouraging. If you have not done your bit so far, why not get busy at once and send along such duplicate stamps, magazines, catalogues or albums that you can spare.

All donations will be distributed among several hospitals and homes for children early in the fall.

THE DEVIL'S MANSION

COPYRIGHT — By REX JARDIN

READ THIS FIRST:

Answering a newspaper ad for a companion, pretty Janet Lord finds herself in a big, old house with a speechless servant named Nita, a fiendish dog that answers to a mysterious whistle, and an elderly mistress, Miss Boisevain, who wears a live chameleon around her neck and admits she is peculiar. On the way to the big house Janet met Blair Rodman who came with her in a truck from the village to retrieve his car, mired in the ditch near the Boisevain house during a terrible storm the night before. Refused shelter there and chased from the house by the dog after his accident, Blair relays his trip west to investigate the mysterious house and satisfy his curiosity. After one night in the house, Janet tries to leave but her employer declares the dog will not let her go. During a walk about the grounds Janet sees the face of a girl in one of the high towers of the house. Although begining to like Miss Boisevani, everything about her and the great house mystifies Janet. Back in her room, which is barren except for a small cot, Janet opens a note which has been transmitted to her in a napkin. Janet thinks she sees Blair's car from her window and is convinced of it when the headlights go on and off as if to signal her. In the late hours of the evening, she hears someone playing the piano in the living room, music played furiously like a maniac, followed by loud sobbing.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 23

Again, as the morning before the window was open and the blind half way up when Janet awakened. Someone had been in her room during the night! She ran to the door. The key was still in the lock and turned!

Hastily dressing, Janet hurried downstairs and into the living room. Miss Boisevain was sitting by the fire, her head bent over her chest. She looked up at the girl's "good morning" and Janet saw that her eyes were red and inflamed. She had been weeping. Miss Boisevain was the person she had heard sobbing the night before, after the music had stopped!

With a quick glance, Janet eyed the piano. It was closed.

"I heard music last night," she said, hoping the woman would talk.

Miss Boisevain leaned back in her chair and closed her eyes.

"You were dreaming," she murmured in a tired weak voice. "You were dreaming."

"I know I heard music. Were you playing?"

"No. I tell you you were dreaming. This house is cursed. . . . "

Wisely Janet said no more. She was positive she had heard the music, as positive as she was of sitting before the fire, at Miss Boisevain's side. And Miss Boisevain, she decided, had been the one who had wept so hysterically.

Presently Nita came in with a breakfast tray for Janet. She set it down on the table, and went to her mistress to tuck a small pillow behind her back, and pull a footstool up for her feet. With a tender hand, she brushed the hair from her forehead. Miss Boisevain's eyes thanked her silently, and a kindly expression passed over her features.

The skin which had seemed yellow to Janet was gray today, dull gray as if the woman were ill or frightfully fatigued.

"Is there anything I can do for you?" she asked. "You seem to be ill."

"I am child. I'm not myself." She sat up in a listening attitude, and watched the swinging door, through which Nita had just passed. The servant appeared again for an instant in the doorway, and Janet thought she saw a nod pass from maid to mistress.

Miss Boisevain leaned toward Janet. "Did you burn my note?" she whispered.

"Immediately after I had read it." Janet could feel her heart beat wildly.

Miss Boisevain nodded and leaned back again.

There was a little silence before she spoke.

"You must go tonight. If I can manage it. I will try to think of a plan."

"If you would only tell me . . ." Janet pleaded, but her employer interrupted her with an imperious gesture of her hand.

"You are to ask no questions, and do as you are told. It is for the best. That is all I can say now."

"There is one thing I must know, Miss Boisevain. I locked the door of my room last night. Nita had locked the windows. This morning they were open. Someone must have been in my room last night. How could anyone get in?"

"Don't worry your head about it."

"But I must know that."

"I can't tell you, child." The woman closed her eyes wearily. She seemed older to Janet, much older. And broken. There was something worn about her; beaten. She was different than she had been the previous day. She must have played her heart out, last night, the girl thought. Yet, she denied she had played . . . .

When Janet took the breakfast tray out to Nita, she avoided the piano, deliberately did not glance at it, nor pass near it. The beautiful instrument she had longed to touch had assumed frightful proportions. It was a monster. . . .

When she came back into the living room, she offered to read to Miss Boisevain, but the woman bade her go out and take a walk.

Trying to conceal her pleasure. Janet hurried out, thinking perhaps she could get down to the road to the place where she had seen the lights of the car before Rajah discovered her. However, as soon as she had stepped out onto the porch, the dog came forward, his sleek hair shining in the sun, and his eyes like fire.

She made her way through the field to the trees, and came to a brook rippling merrily over a bed of stones. Sitting down, she looked around. The bridge to the road was at her right, an old bridge fashioned of heavy worn logs. It must have stood there a long time, she imagined. Perhaps in the days of Miss Boisevain's father. The water was cool to her fingers, and when she cupped her hand to bring it to her mouth, sweet to her taste.

If only the house weren't so strange. If only Miss Boisevain weren't so queer . . . she would like this place. The quiet, the restfulness of the outdoors. . . .

Again she thought of Blair Rodman and wondered whether he had left Boisevain; whether he would come back today, or tonight. Miss Boisevain said she must be gone by tonight.

Rising, she walked toward the bridge, and was about to set foot on it when Rajah growled. Evidently, she decided, he had orders to keep her on this side! Well, she didn't relish having the beast spring at her. So on this side she must stay.

Up the slight hill again, and on to the tall weeds. She kept her eyes on the east tower window where she had seen the face the morning before. But now, there was nothing, only the glint the sun made as it touched the glass. Not a sign of a face, or the waving arm that had beckoned her. She found a little path into the neglected garden and started around the back of the house.

She would not mind the loneliness, if only she could be by herself; if only Rajah would not trail her every place she went! If she could wander at will, she would be so much more content. . . .

The little garden house — that might be a refuge. But when she started toward it, there was Rajah snarling again. Another place she could not go. What was there? The place was enticing with its low roof that she could just glimpse through the shrubs.

Turning to the back of the house, she noticed a pile of wood against the table, freshly cut. Was that Nita's job, too? Poor Nita! An ax lay on the ground. These logs must have been trees, huge trees not so long ago. Pitch, yellow as taffy, was dripping on the cobblestones.

Surely Nita could not saw those trees! Perhaps the man who brought the supplies once a month cut the logs for Miss Boisevain. A man's job, hacking down trees. Besides Nita had enough to do, with the kitchen garden, the cooking, and the care of her mistress. . . .

The sun was making her sleepy. The drone of the bees in the flowering shrubs was music in her ears. . . .

Walking to the stable, she tried to pull the door open. It was locked.

A whistle close at hand. The whistle she knew. Yes, Rajah was running away!

That was the third time she had heard it . . . the third time . . . and each time Rajah had left . . .

It had sounded very near, and the shrillness of it was still ringing in the air.

She could not have dreamed it this time, and the whistle could not possibly have come from a bird, as Miss Boisevain had suggested the first time she had heard it in the living room. . . .

Rajah obeyed it, instantly.

Janet ran to the back door, and entered the kitchen, where Nita was already starting the dinner.

"Who was it that whistled for Rajah, Nia?" she whispered, panting. She was out of breath. "That is the third time I have heard that same whistle."

The servant looked at her for a moment, then went back to her cooking.

Janet repeated her question, but Nita shook her head slowly.

Seeing she could get no information from Nita, the girl went into the living room where Miss Boisevain, her eyes still red, was leaning weakly back in her chair.

BAER'S ALIBI WAS FALSE

Plates Show Fists Not Injured in Years; Fight on

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—Max Baer's alibi that he couldn't whip Jimmy Braddock in defence of the heavyweight championship because his hands were hurt went the way of most fistic alibis today.

A group of New York State Athletic commission doctors reported that examination of a dozen plates showed the former heavyweight champion's hands hadn't been injured in years, let alone this summer.

As a result Brigadier General John J. Phelan, chairman of the commission, notified Promoter Mike Jacobs that it was all right to go ahead with Baer's battle of redemption against Joe Louis, the negro sensation from Detroit, in the Yankee stadium here Sept. 24.

Baer was back in Speculator, N.Y., today resuming training for his comeback against the powerful negro. He starts boxing this weekend.

YORKSHIRE NOW CRICKET CHAMP

Derbyshire's Loss to Kent Cinches It for Tykes

LONDON, Aug. 23 (CP Cable)—Yorkshire today was declared winner of the English county cricket championship although the season has a couple of weeks to run. Since the competition was inaugurated in 1873, White Rose county has won the honor 18 times.

The Tykes succeed Lancashire, which, after a weak start, is making a great run to beat out Derbyshire for the runner-up position held last year by Sussex. Yorkshire has a wide margin over the rest of the field and Derbyshire's first innings defeat at the hands of Kent today made the northerners' position certain.

Rain was general throughout England today. Play was possible only for a short time in three matches. Gloucester won a welcome victory over Glamorganshire by an innings and 63 runs. First innings victories were also obtained by Essex over Hampshire, Nottinghamshire over Warwickshire and Lancashire over Northamptonshire.

GAME ABANDONED

The game between Surrey and Sussex was abandoned before the teams had completed one innings each and they will be credited with four points each in the standing.

The scores:

Gloucestershire 440 for nine, declared; Glamorgan 238 and 139; at Cardiff.

Kent 560; Derbyshire 380 and 121 for two; at Dover.

Warwickshire 113 and 290 for three wickets; Nottinghamshire 324; at Nottingham.

Hampshire 223 and 299 for five wickets; Essex 247; at Bournemouth.

Lancashire 521 for five, declared; Northamptonshire 178 and 110 for no wickets; at Northampton.

Sussex 489; Surrey 330 for nine; at Eastbourne.

Sir Julian Cahn's eleven 235; South Africans 91 for no wickets; at Nottingham.

13 TO START AT LONGACRES

SEATTLE, Aug. 23 (AP).—With 20 nominees, 13 or more thoroughbreds will run the $10,000 Longacres mile, tomorrow, the feature racing event of the season at the Washington Jockey club's track. A wet track is expected to reduce the field. The track was slow this morning following rain last night.

GRIFF IS A CONVERT

WASHINGTON (CP) — Clark Griffith, owner of Washington's American league team, opposed night baseball when the subject arose at the last annual meeting, but now he's all for it. Griff saw 10,000 at a night game in Cincinnati and he's going to fight to give the capital night entertainment.

LADIES' EVENTS TO BE FEATURE

Girls Are Entered From Trail for Labor Day

The ladies' track and field events promise to be the feature of Nelson's big Labor Day celebration which is featuring men and women's track and field events in conjunction with highland dancing and piping contests.

Early entries show four of Trail's young women speed artists entered in Jean Downie, Margaret Manduca, Dorothy Laarz and Molly Sutherland.

All four are entered in the 75-yard dash; Molly Sutherland and Jean Downie are entered in the 100-yard dash; both Margaret Manduca and Jean Downie are entered in the high and broad jumps, while all four comprise Trail's relay team.

Jean Ramsay, Bertha Moir, Edna Formley, Doreen Long and Maudie Stewart, are all entering from Nelson and it is rumored that Alice Dunn, who took the aggregate cup last year, is also planning to compete again.

The Nelson entrants are all going in both the 100-yard and the 75-yard events, with Doreen Long entering the high and broad jumps.

EQUALLED RECORD

Barring a last minute change Bertha Moir, Jean Ramsay, Doreen Long and Edna Gormley will represent Nelson in the relay race. Last Labor Day Bertha Moir equalled the Canadian junior record for 100 yards and is reported to be going better than ever. Jean Ramsay is also reported to be burning up the track in practices.

For the first time in many years the local athletes have the benefit of several trainers and coaches to assist A. Wallach. William Bate, Lyman Carter and George Kulai are spending considerable time in an endeavor to assist the Nelson athletes get into condition.

Last Foreigners Are Eliminated

Shields and Parker Beat Menzel and E. Maier

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 23 (AP)—Frank Shields fired the cannon and Frank Parker thrust the rapier to rid the United States men's doubles tournament of its last foreign threat today at Longwood.

Bowing before this nicely mixed attack of force and skill were Roderick Menzel of Czechoslovakia and Enrique Maier of Spain by scores of 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 9-7 in a quarter-finals match.

Wilmer Hines of Columbia, S.C., and Henry Culley of Santa Barbara, Cal., entered the semi-finals by trouncing Berkeley Bell of New York and Gregory Mangin, Newark, N.J., 6-3, 7-5, 5-7, 6-4.

In the women's division the defending champions, Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Cal., and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Brookline, overcame Nancy Lyle and Evelyn Dearman, who won a doubles point for England in the Wightman cup matches last week, 8-6, 6-4, while Dorothy Andrus, Stamford, Conn., and Caroline Babcock, Los Angeles, eliminated the Wimbledon champions, Freda James and Kay Stammers, 6-3, 8-6.

When these American women players clash for the titles tomorrow, Shields and Parker will face off against the United States Davis cup youngsters, Don Budge, Oakland, Cal., and Gene Mako, Los Angeles, in the upper semi-finals and Hines and Culley will oppose Wilmer Allison and Johnny van Ryn, 1931 doubles champions and 1934 runners-up.

Black Bass Fail to Click With Harshaw

Largemouth black bass of Christina lake and Sergt. Robert Harshaw of the Nelson police force failed to appreciate each other during the officer's vacation of a fortnight, and the tempting lures presented by the conventional casting method along the lake margins snared principally pond weeds.

As the Kamloops trout, in all the big lakes of the interior, keep pretty much to depth in July and August, Sergt. Harshaw made the silver trout his main objective, and took large catches of them trolling. They have not yet started their spawning runs in that water.

Sergt. Harshaw returned to Nelson Thursday night, and to duty Friday.

Wins Trapshooting Honors

VANDALIA, Ohio, Aug. 23 (AP)—J. B. Royall, 51-year-old railroad conductor from Tallahassee, Fla., won the grand American championship, the most prized title in trapshooting today.

He defeated S. G. Vance of Tillsonburg, Ont., 47 to 46, in a shoot off. They had tied at 98 out of 100 targets from 20 yards in the regulation event.

ILFORD'S THE PLACE

ILFORD, England (CP) — The man who suggested that Ilford would be a good place for Essex to stage one of its county cricket games certainly knew what he was talking about. Essex took him up and Middlesex played here recently. The first day's receipts amounted to $2180, a record for any Essex county match.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—The Giants National league lead dwindled to a single game today as the leaders took a 7-4 drubbing from the Chicago Cubs in the second game of their important series while over in Brooklyn the second-place St. Louis Cardinals took a double-header from the Dodgers.

Victorious in their last six games with the Giants—four straight in Chicago—the Cubs put themselves only two games behind the pacesetters and in a position to make it a virtual tie by sweeping the remaining games of the series.

The Cards smacked Lefty Watson Clark freely in the opener, piling up 15 hits while Ed Heusser, pitching his first complete game in the majors, held the Dodgers in check. Then they went on against a trio of flingers, Emil Leonard, Obby Reis and Tom Baker for 17 blows in the second game.

St. Louis had to come from behind to win both games.

Casts Salmon Fly 164 Feet

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 23 (AP)—Ed Braddon, Cleveland, broke two world salmon fly casting records in the Fly and Bait Casting association's tournament today. Braddon's best cast was 164 feet. His average was 158 1-3 feet.

The old distance record was 162 feet, held by Fred Peet. The former record average, 154 1-3 feet, was held by J. P. Cuenin.

Perry Wins Again

OTTAWA, Aug. 23 (CP)—Fred Perry, slim Englishman who holds first ranking among the tennis amateurs of the world, defeated Walter Martin of Toronto and Regina, former Canadian Davis cup player, 8-6, 6-3, in an exhibition match here today.

Teamed with Ross Wilson, Perry won an exhibition doubles match 6-1, 7-5 from Martin and Gilbert Nunns, Toronto.

USES COBB'S TRICK

NEW YORK (CP)—Following the example set by Ty Cobb when the Georgian led the American league in batting, Johnny Moore, leading hitter of the Phils, always swings a bat made with lead during the batting drill. When the game begins he uses his regular wood and it feels light as a feather.

CROSETTI VICTIM OF SLEEPER

NEW YORK (CP)—Add dangers of being a big leaguer: Frankie Crosetti, peppery Yankee shortstop, wrenched an ankle undressing in a pullman berth, aggravating an old injury, and was out of the game a couple of weeks.

GOLF

BY ALEX MORRISON

A 70-foot shooter was playing against the low ball of three 80-shooters. One of these three managed to get on par nearly every hole. It kept the good player pressing to ward off defeat.

The match was all square going to the sixteenth. All hit wild tee shots. The good player took six shorts to get on the green. He was about to pick up his ball and concede the hole when he learned that none of the others could hole out in less than eight strokes. He finally won the hole with an eight.

I don't advocate trying to win holes with eights, but there is a valuable lesson to be had from this case. Never give up until the last putt has been holed. Anything can happen at any time on the course. Keep this in mind and play every shot as though the final outcome depends on it. You'll bring in lower scores by doing this.

Telephone Beats Sons of Italy

More Scotchmen Needed on the Team

With two more Scotchmen on the team Bill Freno's Sons of Italy could have given the B. C. Telephone team a good run, but lacking the additional help they went down fairly easily, 16-6 in a softball tilt at the Recreation grounds Friday night.

Two errors and two walks promoted the B. C. Telephone cause in their first inning at bat, providing three runs for them, and they kept adding to this lead in all but the sixth, eighth and ninth innings. The winners were so fast on the bases that Catcher Tony Arcure was always a base behind on his throw. Twice he nearly caught the following runners by mistake.

Three home runs featured the game, one by Kulai with three on, one by Stewart with one on, and one by Bird with one on. Bird and Goble, although both were born in the heart of Scotland, were allowed to play for the Sons of Italy. Goble got three of the losers' nine hits. Louis Aurellio got two hits.

Joe Fierro pitched for the Sons of Italy. He made seven strike-outs and walked six. Carter, on the mound for the B. C. Telpehone, struckout four and walked one. He was given good support by his infield and with Dufy Stewart covering three-quarters of the outfield, he was seldom in difficulties.

Stewart with three, Patterson, Kulai, Carter and Monteleone with two each were the big hitters for the B.C. Telephone. Metzgar nearly had a perfect night at the bat. Of Joe's seven strikeouts, the altruistic "Metzy" contributed four. Drew made a two-bagger.

Walter Hollman and "Jean" Nadeau umpired.

Summary by innings:				R	H	E
Telephone	343	330	200	16	12	5
S of I	103	100	010	6	9	6

Teams were:

B. C. Telephone: Scanlan, Patterson, Carter, Kulai, Drew, Stewart, Sanderson, Metzgar, Monteleone.

Sons of Italy: Aurellio, Arcure, Bird, Del Puppo, Freno, Romano, Goble, Bialkowski, Fierro.

Batting Leaders

By The Associated Press

The big six managed to keep its membership intact yesterday although three of the six hitting leaders suffered losses in the percentage column and only one gained. Arky Vaughan, the leader, dropped a point below the .400 mark again as he hit only once in four attempts for a two-point loss. Gabby Hartnett showed the day's only gain, picking up three points with two hits in three times up and moving out of the big six cellar past Hank Greenberg and Buddy Myer. Those two remained tied losing a point apiece while Joe Medwick and Joe Vosmik kept their marks unchanged.

RAINBOW TROUT CAUGHT WITH CHEESE

DEL NORTE, Colo., Aug. 23 (AP).—Fish eat cheese? Sure, it's a new lure for fishermen in these parts.

The discovery was made by a fisherman who noticed that giant trout would come to the surface for bits of cheese curd that floated from a cheese factory here.

The big ones wouldn't rise to flies, so the cheese gave the fisherman an idea. He baited a hook with its and captured two rainbows that made a basketfull.

Now all the fishermen are doing it.

Syd Howe was a javelin thrower. On Aug. 24, 1929, Syd appeared in a track and field meet at Ottawa billed as the Ontario interscholastic champion with the javelin. He won with a throw of 137 feet, 4½ inches. Now he's rated the most promising player in National League hockey with Detroit Red Wings.

NELSON CHALLENGES TRAIL TO FOUR SOCCER GAMES FOR RIGHT TO PLAY KIMBERLEY

To the Editor:

Sir—Would you be so kind as to print the following letter in your valuable paper as I think it airs the views of many of the footballers in this town and Trail.

On paper, Nelson possesses today one of the strongest line-ups in football in its history and is extremely anxious to prove in practice what it believes in theory. The team has been bolstered up by the addition of four former coast players, three of whom have played in Trail and have won fame for their ability and sportsmanship there. These players are all working in Nelson and are bona-fide residents of this city.

When has a soccer cup emblematic of the West Kootenay championship ever been won by Nelson? Some of the old-timers can remember when the McLearies were in their heyday and they, I believe, were the last to turn the trick. Has Nelson ever tried to win the cup back from Trail who have held it ever since? Yes, and with some old stand-bys who refuse to let soccer die a natural death. Trail imports a new team practically every year from the braw land of Scotland or other parts of the football world which, of course, gives Nelson little chance to regain the trophy. Now that it has a good team and can't get a game, well, soccer deserves to die a death unless something can be done to thwart it.

For the past week I have been wondering what excuse Trail would have for not meeting the challenge of the Nelson team for a home and home game series, goals to count, the winners to play Kimberley for the Blaylock cup.

Their excuse of claiming that the West Kootenay Football constitution calls for four games is doubtlessly true. Last year when football suffered a lapse during the summer months and only two games had been played and because Kimberley wished to play Trail on Labor day before they (Kimberley) went stale, Trail claimed the championship of the West Kootenay. The protest lodged by Nelson claiming that they had till October to play for the Blaylock cup was disregarded and Trail calmly went on to play Kimberley.

Now that Nelson consents to play two games that is a horse of a different color or am I color blind? I have not the least bit of doubt that the challenge issued by Nelson was thrown in the waste-paper basket by some of the Trail officials without the consent or refusal of any of the Trail players. I have always found the Trail players to be good sportsmen and a game more or less makes no difference to them.

Trail plans to go to Fernie Labor Day to play in a football tournament previous to which they plan to play Kimberley for the Blaylock cup emblematic of the championship of East and West Kootenay. "Lest the best laid plans of men and mice gang aft' agley" or Nelson upsets the proverbial apple-cart the cautious Trail officials have thrown the Nelson challenge on the scrap heap.

If there are so many grievances regarding the football constitution, get together gentlemen, and reverse it. Mr. Blaylock, I am sure, donated his cup for increasing the interest in this sport and is not aware, I am sure, that Trail plans to pose as the champions of West Kootenay for 1934-35 without actually being so.

The Nelson team now challenges the Trail team to four games, the winner to play the East Kootenay champions for the Blaylock cup. The two games that were suggested before could have now been played and Trail if they proved the winners could have carried on with their above-mentioned schedule and nobody's feelings would have been hurt. If Trail refuses this challenge Nelson intends to challenge Kimberley for the Blaylock cup as Nelson are the champions of West Kootenay until they are proven not to be.

Umpires Warned

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—As an outgrowth of disturbances on and off the field during a series between New York Giants and the Reds at Cincinnati a month ago, Ford N. Frick, president of the National league, today made known he has warned all umpires against haranguing or otherwise attempting to control the actions of baseball spectators.

The policy was set forth by Frick in confirming the fact that Umpires John Reardon and John Sears had been "disciplined" for their part in the outbreak at Redland field July 17 when feeling over a decision adverse to the home team reached such a pitch that pop bottles were hurled from the stands and a melee threatened.

ROSSLAND GIRLS IN NELSON SUNDAY

Meet Toronto Stars in Softball Game

Due to the fact that it will probably be the only inter-city game of any kind for two weeks, Sunday's softball game with the Rossland Gold Diggers and the Nelson Toronto Stars, will no doubt draw a large turnout of fans. The game is scheduled to start at 5:15 p.m.

Rossland has a strong team as they will have all their regulars in Nelson on Sunday. A fast game is expected.

As some of the Stars are out of town, changes will have to be made. Peggy McGovern is expected back in Nelson Saturday night and will hold down the backstop position. Berna Kline will play first base if Peggy is available. Hazel Spiers, speed ball artist, will be one the mound. Others turning out for the Stars will be Alice Dunn, Elvera Matheson, Jean Spiers, Dot Jarbeau, Peggy Donaldson, Barbara Kingzett, Isabel Donovan and Rosa Stewart.

Base Metals Start Climb From Low Prices, Victoria Reports

Copper and Lead Higher Than Last Year, and Zinc Recovery Expected; Silver Steady

VICTORIA, Aug. 23 (CP)—Solidly and substantially the basis of British Columbia mining prosperity in the last five decades, base metals have recommenced their climb out of the cellar of abnormally low prices, according to data before the British Columbia mines department. Copper and lead, particularly, have advanced a cent or better since this time last year, while structural materials are showing signs of increased activity, following a rise in paving and allied stocks on the open market.

Zinc remains unchanged at the moment, though its return to better prices is believed to be on the way.

Copper, selling at a London price of 7.4 cents per pound a year ago, is being quoted at 8.5 cents per pound now. Lead, which held steady at 2.4 cents on the London market last year, has advanced to 3.5 cents per pound. In both cases the gain has been better than a cent a pound, which means a great deal to large scale operations within the province.

As base metals recover, so by-products used and incidental gold and silver recoveries move up too for British Columbia mines working base metals with a small content of precious metals in the same ores.

Miscellaneous metals and minerals come in the bi-product groups, and these, too, will be stimulated by the general undertone of firmness in the base metal division, it is expected.

Silver has been holding at from 60 to 65 cents an ounce, being attractive to British Columbia mining at that level.

Recovery in part of the base metal prices, if it proves to be sustained, will, added to a record year of gold production, give British Columbia mines an exceptionally good year, by comparison with what has transpired in the last four or five years, provincial officials believe.

LEADERS STEADY

TORONTO, Aug. 23 (CP)—Leaders of the various groups were firm to strong on the Toronto industrial share market today and the index registered a mild advance.

CHICAGO RALLIES

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (AP)—The wheat market rallied briskly today to the accompaniment of bullish foreign political and crop news. Easing from the day's highs, wheat closed ½-1 cent above the previous finish. Dec. 91⅝-¾, and corn was ⅝-⅞ up, Dec. 56⅝-¾. Oats closed unchanged to ⅜ higher, rye was ¼ up and barley was steady.

Broomhall's Argentina agent cabled it was the general opinion the Argentina acreage would show between 9,800,000 and 12,300,000 compared with 18,804,000 last year. Another statement, however, said sowings were increased after the recent rains but that an appreciable reduction in the crop is anticipated.

BANKING ACT IS LAW IN U.S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP).—A powerful centralized control over the life-blood of business—banking credit—was made law today by President Roosevelt.

His signature put the "Banking act of 1935" on the statute books after months of congressional wrangling over its unprecedented authority over the ebb and flow of credit in a revamped federal reserve board and open market committee.

President Roosevelt told newsmen he hoped the law would accomplish purposes outlined in its title. These were "to provide for the sound, effective and uninterrupted operation of the banking system and for other purposes."

NANAIMO HELD TO 1-1 DRAW BY MONTREAL

Fourth Game Needed to Decide Title Holders

WINNIPEG, Aug. 23 (CP)—The fate of Canada's premier soccer diadem will be decided in a fourth game. Montreal Aldred, eastern Canada titlists, and Nanaimo, champions of the west, battled through a keenly contested match here tonight that resulted in a 1-1 draw.

Tonight's game was named the "rubber" match for possession of the Dominion Football association challenge trophy, emblematic of Canadian soccer supremacy. Aldred won the first game last Monday, 3-2, only to have their Pacific coast opponents come back with a 7-3 victory Wednesday. The fourth game will be played Saturday to a decision.

A crowd of more than 2000 saw the westerners show superiority in the first half and assume a one-goal lead. On the turn-over, Aldred, aided by a stiff wind, equalized midway in the second half and deadlocked the series at one game each.

"Bud" Sandland, tricky Nanaimo left winger, set western hopes surging when he outguessed Aldred defence men and caught Jimmy Nelson helpless in the Montreal net. The Aldred goalie dived across the goal-line to save a hard drive directed at him by Sandy Bell. Streaking in from left wing, Sandland caught the rebound and booted the ball over Nelson's prostrate figure into the net.

The westerners found the wind against them in the second half and Aldred pressed to the attack. Difficult to control, the ball was held in mid-field for a greater part of the time. The equalizer came at the 30-minute mark as the result of a pretty combination effort. Charlie Fitzpatrick went down right wing and centred to Bejshak.

PLAN TO PRINT SYLLABUS EARLY

To Be Off Press Middle of September for Music Festival

Plans to have the syllabus for the annual Kootenay Musical Festival, which will be held in Nelson the first week in May of 1936, ready for the middle of September, were announced at an executive meeting in the offices of George Horstead, Nelson secretary, Thursday night.

By putting out the syllabus the Nelson association hopes to do away with the trouble of securing test pieces. Considerable discussion was also given to the securing of an adjudicator. Arrangements were made to obtain a reliable source of music. President Leslie Craufurd presided.

EXTRA COACHES FOR EXCURSIONS

Heavy patronage of both the westbound and eastbound cent-a-mile excursions of the Canadian Pacific between the Great Lakes and British Columbia, involved the use of extra coaches for Friday and Saturday trains over the Kootenay division.

Friday's westbound train had two packed day-coaches, and the eastbound arriving here Friday evening brought an unusual number of passengers for points east, an extra coach being added here for the trip to the prairie.

Sergt. Harshaw Back in Nelson

Sergeant Robert Harshaw returned Friday from a holiday spent at Christina lake and has resumed his duties on the local city police force.
