German Regulations Covering Traffic in Foreign Currency Are Drastic

ALL BANKS WILL OPEN TODAY WITH DRAWING LIMITED

New Measures Are Broadcast to the Country by Radio

DISCOUNT RAISED FROM SEVEN TO 10

Rioting Is Reported Among Communists in Some Cities

BERLIN, July 15 (AP) (By Wade Werner)—The government tonight clamped down drastic regulations covering traffic in foreign currencies and at the same time announced that banks of Germany will be reopened tomorrow but only for such essentials as the withdrawal of money for payroll and tax obligations and the unemployment dole.

Both these measures were announced to the country by a government broadcaster who appealed to those discommoded by the bank closure to show "a sporting spirit and get along somehow for a few days more."

Te government's action came a few hours after the Reichsbank had lowered the 40 per cent coverage on currency required by law, thereby releasing millions of marks to ease the credit situation created by heavy withdrawals of foreign credit during recent weeks.

RAISES DISCOUNT

The Reichsbank also raised its discount rate from seven to 10 per cent and boosted the rate on loans against collateral from eight to 15 per cent—both measures being taken to keep the expanded currency down to the actual needs of the nation and to forestall inflation.

German Crisis to Be Faced in Conference "Of Six" Today

U. S. Draws Aloof From Political Side, German Situation

31 TEACHERS AT VANCOUVER WILL NOT BE REPLACED

Is Result of Revised Hinchliffe School Act; 14 Are Dishcarged

VANCOUVER, July 15—When Vancouver elementary schools open for classes in September they will have 31 teachers less than they had when school closed in June, according to plans made by the management of the school board here tonight. This follows the revised Hinchliffe School act.

Actually only 14 teachers will have been discharged as resignations and leaves of absence take care of 17.

The staff of junior high schools will be unchanged but in senior high schools an addition of eight teachers is contemplated.

In elementary schools it is expected this fall will see an increase of 900 pupils bringing the total up to 28,544. The increase in junior high schools is not expected to be materially higher but in the senior high schools an increase of 400 is forecast.

The committee also decided that schools, which have an enrolment of 750 or over should have full time supervision of the principal while in schools of less than 10 rooms the principal will devote his full time to teaching. In schools under 750 enrolment but more than 10 rooms principals will have a half time teacher to enable them to give half their time to supervision.

EXPECT SPECIAL SESSION OF THE MANITOBA HOUSE

WINNIPEG, Man., July 15 (CP)—"A special session of the Manitoba legislature probably will be called right after harvest," the Manitoba Free Press will say in a story published tomorrow morning. "Although Premier John Bracken so far has declined to discuss the likelihood of the members being summoned, there is reason to believe a special session will take place before frost," the paper will say.

The Free Press adds: "There even is a possibility that a session may be called this summer before harvest, but those close to government circles are inclined to believe that the Bracken government will prefer to wait until the wheat is threshed.

"Questions calling for settlement by legislative action would be the proposed sale of Brandon electric and gas utilities to the National Light and Power company for $1,398,000, and also matters connected with unemployment relief."

CANADIAN TRADE TREATY WILL BE AID TO THE U. S.

Has Detriments; Lumber Rates in Australian Treaty to Do Harm

WASHINGTON, July 15—The Canadian-Australian trade agreement, announced in the house of commons at Ottawa by Premier R. B. Bennett, would be beneficial as well as detrimental to United States exporters, in the opinion of some commerce department officials here.

The principal benefit, they believe, would accrue to United States-owned branch factories operating in Canada. Just how much a preferential tariff indirectly, they say, is debatable, would help United States financiers

Commerce department economists recognize the new lumber rates would affect and possibly decrease United States exports. Shingles, allowed preferential treatment in the proposed agreement, are not considered as a possible source of decreased United States exports since the United States now imports shingles from Canada.

Some economists expect United States producers would suffer through a Canadian preferential tariff on Australian beef, but they are not certain Australian fruits would be able to compete with those from the United States.

"It depends upon whether Australian oranges, for instance can stand the long trip to Canada," one department expert asserted.

"In 1930 Canada's exports to the United States were $402,306,000 while her imports from the United States were $659,326,000. Comparatively, Australia was neither a big consumer nor exporter. In the same year her imports from the United States were $476,082,000 and her exports to the United States $17,453,000.

First Non-Stop Flight Across Canada Will Be Tried About August 14

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 15.—The first non-stop flight across Canada, from Halifax to Vancouver, will be attempted August 14 by J. Williams of Ottawa in the course of a triangle flight to Vancouver, Mexico City and back to Halifax, according to a telegram received today by Airport Manager William Templeton.

Williams will fly a Lockheed Vega monoplane, capable of a speed of 170 miles per hour. He will leave Halifax at dawn and expects to reach Vancouver about 7 or 8 o'clock in the evening. He will refuel here and take off immediately for Mexico City, hopping on again from that point for Halifax. He hopes to make the 9000-mile round trip in three days.

BROKER RETURNS MONEY AFTER A 34-YEAR PERIOD

SPOKANE, July 15 (AP)—Thirty-four years ago a young broker induced John Stoppelkamp, Spokane, to invest $1100 in a British Columbia mining company, which soon failed.

Stoppelkamp received a $100 draft several weeks ago and today has another for $1000—sent from New York by the broker, who "didn't have it to spare" but wanted to "fulfill moral obligations."

D. J. STEELE AN OLD TIMER OF NELSON PASSES

Fought in the Riel Rebellion; a Brother of G. W. Steele

D. J. Steele, widely known through the Kootenays as "Jeff" Steele, a pioneer of the Riel rebellion and an old-timer of Nelson, having resided here for 35 years, died Wednesday after a short illness.

He was taken from his shack on Water street on Tuesday evening about 7 o'clock suffering from an attack of heart trouble and pneumonia.

Mr. Steele, who is well known in Nelson as a prospector, came to Nelson in 1896. He was born in Komoka, Ont., and as a member of the Royal North West Mounted Police fought in the Riel rebellion. For the first six years in Nelson Mr. Steele worked as a carpenter. In recent years he had worked on the hatchery staff here.

At one time being a member of the Knights of Pythias, he will be buried in the Knights of Pythias plot.

He is survived by three brothers, G. W. Steele of Nelson; A. Steele of London, Ont.; and E. L. Steele of Strathracy, Ont.; and a sister in Montana.

STEVENS MAY GO TO TARIFF BOARD

Is Rumored at Coast That He Has Been Offered Position if He Wants It

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 15.—The Sun in its news columns today says:

"Possibility that Hon. Harry H. Stevens may retire from active politics, giving up his federal portfolio of minister of trade and commerce, to take a guaranteed 10-year job on the new Bennett tariff board, is agitating higher-up Conservatives of Vancouver and Victoria.

"According to rumors which highly placed men refuse to discuss, but do not deny, it has been intimated to Mr. Stevens by the party chiefs at Ottawa that he can have the job if he wants it.

"Mr. Stevens' health is given as the ostensible reason and it is suggested that he might find himself unable to continue under the strain of administration of a major government department and a leading part in the active political affairs of the Conservative party.

"Some friends here expect that he will go to the tariff board.

"If he does not, Premier S. F. Tolmie would then be in line for the tariff board job, it is also stated.

"Certain Vancouver Conservatives regard the latter suggestion as an explanation of veiled hints from Dr. Tolmie that if anything happens to take him from the premiership, he wishes that mantle to fall on the shoulders of Leon J. Ladner, former M.P."

OTTAWA, July 15 (CP)—Belief that the steam trawler is a necessity in order to insure a steady supply of fish for the Canadian market was stated in the house of commons today by E. N. Rhodes, minister of fisheries. Into the deliberations of the house the vexed question of steam trawler versus hook and line fishermen was injected by W. G. Ernest, Conservative member for Queens-Lunenburg, when Premier R. B. Bennett moved the house into committee of ways and means.

C. N. R. COMMISSION IS A RECOMMENDATION

Special Commission of the House of Commons Condemns Practice of Charging Cost of Social Entertainment to the Railway

OTTAWA, Ont., July 15—(By the Canadian Press)—Recommendations for appointment of a commission to consider the whole question of general transportation, present curtailment of projects entailing capital expenditure; salaries of $75,000 Sir Henry Thornton to treated as a "public document" and non-publication of the list of other salaries paid officials are recommended in an unanimous report of the special committee of the house of commons considering the Canadian National Railways report.

The document further recommends revision of the resolution of former C. N. R. directors for $30,000 life annuity to Sir Henry Thornton on termination of services: consideration of whole question of salaries, allowances, disbursements, pensions and retirement provisions for executive officers. The abandonment of Canadian Government Merchant Marine and the making of arrangements with other shipping companies are also proposed.

CONDEMNS PROCTICE

The report condemns a practice that it declares has grown up under which the National railways are chargeable with large amounts for payment for social entertainment and other activities of officials on other than official business.

Further recommendations include: Continuation of payments under the Maritime Freight Rates act; thorough audit by independent auditor of system accounts from time to time; action for elimination of loss on Vancouver-Seattle-Victoria steamship triangular service; approval of bill to authorize expenditures made and indebtedness incurred during 1931; and approval of measure to authorize the guarantee of securities to be issued under the Canadian National Railways Financial act, 1931.

Senator McDougald Declines to Testify

OTTAWA, Ont., July 15.—(CP)—The Domonion government is considering whether it will introduce legislation within a few days compelling the attendance of witnesses for examination or whether it will deal by way of a royal commission with a "serious situation" which arose in a committee today, Premier R. B. Bennett stated in the house of commons this afternoon. The reference of the prime minister evidently referred to the Beauharnois committee of enquiry. At this morning's sitting, Senator W. L. McDougald, Montreal, through counsel, declined to testify before the investigation.

The prime minister made his statement when asked by Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, opposition leader, what further legislation would be introduced this session.

Premier Bennett said there would be an amendment to the Red Cross act and certain bills bearing on the tariff changes announced in the budget. The prime minister had nothing further to say in the matter at the moment.

ROYAL ARCANUM MEETS

VICTORIA, B. C., July 15.—The annual convention of the Royal Arcanum today referred to the executive council a recommendation by Supreme Regent Harold C. Knoeppel of New York that a home for aged members be established. The supreme regent had suggested that the initial outlay be limited to $100,000.

Proposals for reorganization of the executive council were also presented to the convention by Mr. Knoeppel, who favored a maximum of nine members.

AMENDMENT TO TARIFF BOARD BILL STOPPED

OTTAWA, July 15—The bill providing for the appointment of a tariff board came through the senate in committee this afternoon without an amendment and now stands for third reading. One amendment was moved by Senator Dandurand, leader of the opposition. It would have reduced the tenure of office of members of the board from 10 years to five years but it was defeated on a straight party vote.

Thirty Liberals supported it and 35 Conservatives opposed it.

INDIAN FIGHTER BATTLES DEATH

OLD TOM O'BRIEN TAKEN IN DELIRIOUS SPELL: WAS FIGHTING INDIANS

SPOKANE, Wash., July 15.—(AP)—Tom O'Brien, 83, colorful old Indian fighter, was battling for life today.

O'Brien won prominence a few years ago when, dressed in frontier trappings, he staged a one-man parade here in honor of the Indian war veterans.

Would Stop Pay and Expenses of M. P.'s

LONDON, July 15 (C P cable)—So much opposition exists, especially in Labor quarters, to Premier MacDonald's proposal to deprive suspended members of parliament of their salaries and travelling expenses that it is doubtful whether any action will be taken. Premier MacDonald stated in the house today that he would submit a motion to stop pay and expenses of members who had been so disciplined. Recently, John McGovern, Labor member for Shettleston, Glasgow, was suspended for starting a free-for-all fight in the house.

EXPLOSIVES IN PENS FOUND IN NEF BOMB PLOT

GENOA, Italy, July 15.—(AP)—An alleged bomb plot, in which the bombs were 40 fountain pens loaded with high explosive, resulted in the wounding of two Fascist officials here, it was revealed today, and mobilization of all political police units.

Police said that the fountain pens were sent through the mail to Fascist leaders and that the first two which were opened by the recipients exploded, wounding the men. A bomb also exploded on the dock here during the day, but it injured no one.

The plot was discovered two days ago, it was said, but the pens were arriving in the mails today. Efforts to trace the origin of the bombs have so far been fruitless.

PROVINCE MAY AIM NEW LAW AT WALKATHON

Talk of Legislation to Allow Municipalities to Prohibit Event

VICTORIA, July 15— Provincial legislation giving British Columbia municipalities express power to prohibit walkathons and all exhibtons of any nature which in the opinion of health officials should not be countenanced may be asked of the next session of the legislature, it was learned at the legislative buildings today.

While provincial health officials have already stated that in their opinion walkathons are likely to be injurious to the health of some contestants, no express power exists under the Municipal act to bank their operation. Leave will most likely be sought at the next session to remedy this condition, it is understood.

Reinstatement of Rev. Otto R. Karlstrom, of Vancouver, to the roster of those authorized to perform the marriage ceremony in British Columbia will be made shortly, it was learned in circles close to the government. The pastor has communicated with officials of the government seeking reinstatement. This course, it is believed, will follow almost at once, as the last act in the short but sharp conflict of opinions as to the propriety of walkathon weddings.

Sackatchewan Given More Relief Monies Than Were Expected

REGINA, Sask., July 15 (CP)—Although a program involving the sum of $18,000,000 for relief in Saskatchewan has been mapped out and submitted to the federal government if the large sum of $20,000,000 is allocated to the province it is all for the better, in the opinion of Hon. J. A. Merkley, minister of railways, labor and industry.

Mr. Merkley said this morning that as yet he had received no official communication from Ottawa regarding the apportionment of monies to relief in the province but that word was expected immediately as to what action is to be taken.

No further comment was obtained from any of the ministers as to the program involving an expenditure of $20,000,000 in Saskatchewan as contained in despatches from Ottawa Tuesday.

This week turned over to the National Trust company as receivers and managers.

ALASKAN FIRE FIIERCE

EKAGWAY, Alaska, July 15.—(AP)—A large forest fire in the Kantishna district, near Mount McKinley national park, was described today by men who flew over it as one of the worst in recent years.

Arthur Johnson, manager of Alaska Airways, sighted the fire while returning from Fairbanks in a plane piloted by Ed. Young.

The smoke was so thick over Mount McKinley, Johnson said, that the plane was flown at a low elevation close to the ground to keep their bearings. The trip from Fairbanks was made to meet Hainer Hinshaw, New York and Washington, who is vice-president of the American Airways.

TREASURE ISLAND IN NORTHLAND IS REMARKABLE FIND

Ore Samples Assay $1000 to the Ton in Silver and 58 Per Cent Uranium

WINNIPEG, Man., July 15.—(CP)—Discoverer of a "treasure island" in Great Bear lake, 1000 miles north of Edmonton, T. G. Donovan, Detroit geophysicist and prospector, was in Winnipeg today en route to Ottawa where he will submit samples of valuable ore to the federal department of mines.

In the far northern district, by the use of the most modern scientific instruments, some of which utilize radio transmission and are designed for discovery of radio-active deposits, Donovan located the "treasure island" which abounds in valuable minerals. His samples of ore have assayed at $1000 a ton silver content; copper, a by-product, to the value of $40 per ton; and gold to the additional value of $4.86 per ton.

"These figures, rich as they are, are insignificant beside the astounding discovery that official assays show the ore contains more than 58 per cent uranium," stated Mr. Donovan. The present value of uranium is estimated at approximately $10,000 per ton. A notable discovery of uranium in Belgian Congo contains only 15 per cent of this mineral, the world's greatest source o fradium. A valuable by-product of uranium is helium, a non-inflammable gas used in dirigible airships.

Australia Well Pleased With New Trade Treaty

MELBOURNE, Australia, July 15.—(C. P. cable via Reuters)—General satisfaction is being expressed here at the terms of the new Australia-Canadian trade treaty.

It is stated that the Canadian concession for Australian wines and citrus fruits will stimulate exports to Canada from this country, and provide a valuable market which will give Australia practically a monopoly in currants and raisins.

"Butter exporters have every reason to be satisfied," said the chairman of the Victorian section of the Australian dairy produce export board.

The ss. Canadian Constructor for the scene of the excitement. August and is expected to take more than 200,000 cases of dried fruits. Every effort is being made to load this ship with a representative Australian cargo.

House May Prorogue Within Next 10 Days

OTTAWA, Ont., July 15.—(CP)—An intimation of the possibility of prorogation within a week or 10 days was given in the house of commons today. During a brief discussion of interim supply, Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, prime minister, gave certain reasons why the bill providing for salaries due today had not been introduced earlier.

"I thought that probably the house might like to prorogue within a week or 10 days, and it might not be a matter of tremendous importance," said Mr. Bennett with reference to supply. Representations however, had been made to him as to the situation in city communities, "and the undesirability, perhaps of credit being asked for, with a possible refusal."

In view of these representations he had asked the opposition for its consent to the passage of a further interim supply bill.

PLANE IS STILL GOING SMOOTHLY

Backer of Flight Waiting Patiently for Plane at Budapest

S. S. STAVENGERFJORD, At Sea, (By Radio), July 15—(AP) The airplane, "Justice of Hunbary," which took off from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, today on a projected transatlantic flight to Hungary, reported at 11:00 G. M. T., tonight that it was proceeding eastward in a true course with the help of its radio direction finder. Position was given as latitude 54.08 north, longitude 37.50 west.

The position given by the Stavengerfjord at the time she reported the progress of the airplane "Justice to Hungary" was directed along the route of most of the eastward transatlantic flights and indicated this plane had traversed somewhat more than one-third of the distance from Harbor Grace to the British Isles.

A message to the Radio Marine corporation from the Stavengerfjord tonight said the fliers had reported: "All well, had bad weather but now clear sky."

700 MILES OUT

LONDON, July 16 (AP) (Thursday)—The Daily Mail received a wireless message from the master of the steamer Kennebec this morning saying the Hungarian fliers had given their position at 1:37 a.m. (7:37 p.m. Wednesday E. S. T.) as 700 miles west of Fastnet, southwest Ireland, and stated all was well.

FLINT, Mich., July 15—In Budapest, Hungary, Meil Salay, retired Flint sausage manufacturer, awaits the arrival of George Enders and Alexander Magyar Hungarian fliers, in the plane in which he had invested $30,000 as his payment of what he terms "a debt of gratitude" to the land of his birth.

MEET IN NEWS OFFICE

Salay, 58 years old, met the fliers in a Detroit Hungarian language newspaper office a year ago and heard of their hopes to make a gesture of patriotism toward their native land by a flight from Detroit to Budapest.

The fliers lacked funds and proposed to obtain money by selling picture postcards and obtaining small subscriptions from Hungarian Americans. Salay agreed to underwrite the flight, bought the plane and financed the preparations for the trip.

The flight was to emphasize what the Hungarians assert was an unfair division of Hungarian territory after the great war.

AIR PAGEANT AT MOOSE JAW

MOOSE JAW, Sask., July 15—Fighting planes of the Royal Canadian Air Force, commercial flying machines and the first Autogiro to be seen in western Canada vied for the plaudits of thousands of spectators who thronged the Municipal airport here this afternoon and evening to witness the Canada air pageant. Dust and wind last night threatened to spoil the show and the planes were held overnight in Regina, hopping here today.

Mayor James Pascoe and city officials demonstrated their airmindedness when they soared aloft in the British amphibian, Saro Cloud.

C. B. Garland has been appointed special prosecutor by the attorney-general, to handle the court case expected to arise from a recent raid of the Club hotel, Nelson, when the provincial police seized a quantity of liquor in a guest-room.

REVELSTOKE WOULD HAVE SWEEPSTAKES; DEVELOP RESOURCES

Would Ban Railway Companies Carrying Transients; Urge True Presentation of Cause of the Depression

WOULD ABSOLUTELY STOP ARTIFICIAL PRICE FIXING; ENCOURAGE INDUSTRIES

Discontinue Unproductive Expenditures; Would Have Legislation Permitting Sweepstakes; Use Money for Road Work

Revelstoke city council last week drafted a resolution to be forwarded to the Dominion premier, premier of the provinces, municipalities and presidents of railway companies. It deals with unemployment and is headed, "Creating permanent productive employment."

Following are the main points of the Revelstoke resolution:

"That citizens refrain from giving food or money to transients, but direct them to the police station.

"Make measures and stop railway companies from carrying transients, provide work for all who desire work, send those who do not want work and are citizens to their place of domicile at the expense of the railway companies, deport all who are not naturalized citizens, and refuse to work, at the expense of the agency bringing them here. This can be done by July 31, and will reveal the real unemployment situation.

"Provide temporary work for all by completing a national highway and the construction of a national system of airports, as a temporary relief measure.

Provide permanent productive employment for all by the development of our national resources, so that we may as nearly as possible become self-supporting, with a high standard of living, together with a surplus of products for export.

"Provide a ratio of exchange for all commodities and labor according to their intrinsic value and an efficient means for the distribution of commodities, having in view a nominal spread in the price received by the producer and that paid by the consumer, so that we may induce the non-productive city worker to engage in the production of wealth from our natural resources with increased benefits accruing to himself and the state.

"Absolutely stop artificial price-fixing of commodities.

"Encourage, and if necessary, finance small industries and mixed farming, where conditions permit, having in mind the steady employment of men, which is not possible under existing conditions.

"Stop all propaganda intended to mislead the people as to the cause of the present depression by the publication of matter on economics which is fundamentally unsound, such as overproduction of wheat, or the price of gold and silver, because if we have too much food, no person should be in want, or if the possession of gold made good times, then the United States should have no unemployment.

"Educate the people that productive work and therefore the balance distribution of wealth or the necessities of life is a permanent cure for depression and unemployment.

"Stop all immigration until aliens can be absorbed in the production of wealth and are naturalized, and encourage by every means a spirit of patriotism.

"Discontinue all unproductive expenditures which are not absolutely necessary, such as unwarranted and wasteful duplication of hotels, line extensions, steamship and equipment by the Canadian National railways.

"Pass legislation permitting national sweepstakes, and use half the proceeds in constructing and supporting national highways, airports and a network of high-powered, long and short wave broadcasting stations, which would encourage travelling and buying at home.

CROSSLEY AND DAVIS SNATCH BICYCLE LEAD

Vancouver Boy and English Partner Do Frenzied Sprinting to Advance

Five laps behind the then leaders, Torchy Peden of Victoria and Harold Davies, Vancouver, when the night's jamming began, Crossley and Jim Davies sprinted like fiends, gradually cutting down the distance between themselves and those ahead of them.

They are actually tied in distance with George Dempsey of Australia and Archie Bollcart of Belgium, but take the lead by virtue of their greater number of sprint points, 168 to only 48 for the Australian-Belgian combination.

One lap behind the leaders are Peden and the youthful Harold Davies.

TRAIL MAN HERE TO PLAN SMELTER PICNIC PROGRAM

Transportation Arranged to Accomodate Between 3500 and 4000

KIDDIES' SAFETY IS FIRST THOUGHT

Lost Kiddies' Tent; Constables and Life Guards to Add Protection

To make arrangements for the Trail smeltermen's picnic on Saturday, August 8, when employees of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting company and their wives, children and immediate relatives numbering between 3500 and 4000, take possession of the city, R. W. Savage, sports chairman, P. H. Partridge, transportation chairman, and J. T. Morris, refreshment chairman visited Nelson Wednesday.

In a conference at the office of J. S. Carter, C.P.R. district passenger agent, transportation plans were announced, and a beginning made on the plans for the visitors' entertainment while in the city. Butchers and other merchants were interviewed by the Trail delegates with a view of obtaining prices on food stuffs with which the multitude of Trail people will be fed. Last night Mr. Morris, convenor of the refreshment committee stated that he was not in a position to announce the plans of this undertaking yet.

Four passenger trains, as well as a large number of automobiles, transport the Trailites to Nelson. The first train leaves Rossland at 7 a.m. and after taking on passengers at Tadanac, leaves for Nelson. A train that will transport mothers and their babes only, leaves Trail at 7:30 a.m. A third leaves at 8:20 a. m. and a fourth at 1:30 p.m.

Trains return to Trail 7 p.m. and 11 p.m. This transportation will be free to smeltermen and their wives, families and mothers.

Accompanying the picnickers will be the Trail City Band and the Maple Leaf Band, Girl Guides and the first aid team. The Trail Boy Scouts who break camp at Kokanee the same morning will be in attendance.

One of the features of the picnic will be the operation of a lost kiddies tent. H. Jackson, convenor or the lost kiddies committee, and chairman of the grounds committee, will be stationed in a tent provided for the occassion, and should any children wander from their mothers, they will be taken care of till claimed.

A still further assurance of safety for children, which is the chief aim of the committee in charge, will be the life guard system at Lakeside Park. Five guards in boats will patrol the water. A special force of constables, which will be sworn in will also aid in the safe care of the children. "This will be a children's event, and we are going to see that they enjoy it in safety," stated Mr. Partridge last night.

A big field and track program will be staged at the Recreation grounds for the older children, and races and novelties at Lakeside park for the younger ones. An aquatic program will also be staged at Lakeside Park, and a jitney dance will be staged in the pavillion. The latter starts at 2 p.m., and the music will be supplied by a Nelson orchestra. Free street car service will accommodate the guests between the two grounds.

A microphone will be erected at the Recreation grounds for the speaker and announcers.

Other plans will be announced from time to time, and a program of the day's activities will be placed in each envelope containing the checks of the smeltermen.

PREMIER WOULD LET LIGNITE IN FREE OF TARIFF

Coast Member Protests Against Increased Tariff Against Coal

OTTAWA, July 15 (CP)— The house of commons in committee of ways and means tonight proceeded to give further consideration to tariff changes announced in the budget. With little discussion, several items were quickly approved

When the new coal schedules were reached, Premier R. B. Bennett, minister of finance, proposed one amendment, under which Lignite would enter Canada free under all tariff classifications.

Protest against the increased tariff against coal was made by W. W. Neill (Ind. Comox-Alberni), British Columbia, he claimed, would be injured, not aided, by the increases. Up to the present time, the mines of Vancouver island have been shipping about 50,000 tons of coal a year to Seattle and other United States cities. Under the provisions of the United States tariff, coal entered free but if any country placed a duty against it, that duty automatically would become he tariff against that country.

U. S. TARIFF UP

When Canada placed a duty of 75 cents a ton against United States coal, the United States tariff against coal from this country automatically went to that level.

This would mean, said Mr. Neill, that British Columbia would lose an annual market for 50,000 tons of coal.

Turning to the question of a bonus on coal transported eastward from British Columbia, Mr. Neill said that province was being discriminated against. The bonus for British Columbia would represent about 25 cents a ton but if it were made commensurate with the figure for Alberta, would be at least $1 a ton.

The net result of the fuel policy enunciated in the budget would be that British Columbia would lose $270,000 a year, said Mr. Neill. This was the difference between the revenue secured heretofore for the annual trade with United States, which would be shut off, and the bonus paid at the rate of 25 cents a ton.

The remedy for the situation, continued the British Columbia independent, would be to increase the bonus at least to $1 a ton. S. F. Tolmie, of British Columbia, he said, concurred in this contention and was supported by many boards of trade and chambers of commerce throughout the province.

Mr. Neill suggested the supplementary estimates carrying an item sufficient to take care of the increased bonus indicated.

A LARGER RANGE IS INSTALLED IN ARMORY KITCHEN

249 Men at the Evening Meal Wednesday; Nelson a Mecca

Records are still being broken at the armory, and it is fairly certain that Nelson is becoming a Mecca for transients in this district.

Wednesday night 249 men were served, the largest crowd yet served either night or morning.

An increase in facilities took place Tuesday, when under the instructions of Mayor J. P. Morgan a large range of ancient vintage was installed in the kitchen for the use of Chef William Morgan, while the ordinary range previously there was shifted to the storeroom, to be used for coffee exclusively. The little stove previously used for coffee has been taken down and stored. Before the change, the facilities were taxed to capacity.

While the government agents throughout the province are in charge of the administration of direct relief for transients, the city is continuing, at the wish of Government Agent John Cartmel, to operate the armory, as it is believed its work could not be improved upon.

MORE CANADIANS VISIT SPOKANE IN MOTOR CARS

Western Canada Sends More Visitors Than Does California

SPOKANE, Wash., July 15—More residents of western Canada are visiting Spokane this summer as tourists than come from California. A recent survey of five automobile tourist camps, made by the publicity tourist bureau of the Spokane Chamber of Commerce under direction of W. G. Oves, reveals this surprising fact.

The three western provinces, Alberta, British Columbia and Saskatchewan, contributed 31 per cent of the total cars registered from outside this state at the five camps, during the survey which occpuied the first ten days of July. Figures were taken at the municipal auto camp, one camp on the Inland Empire highway, south of the city, two on the Sunset highway west of the city, and one on the Apple way, east of the city.

At the municipal camp alone visitors from western Canada made 50.8 per cent of the total number of tourists.

California came second with 22 per cent of the grand total number of tourists, and also led all states sending double the number of any other state. Trailing California in individual honors came Alberta, with 20 per cent.

The three western states of Montana, Oregon and Idaho, contributed 22 per cent and middle western states totals were 16 per cent. These divisions with western Canada and California made more than 90 per cent of the total cars listed.

Montana sent 10 per cent of the total, Oregon 6 per cent and Idaho (mostly southern) sent 6 per cent.

States represented in the survey in the order of number of cars, were California, Montana, Oregon, Idaho, Illinois, Minnesota, Iowa, Texas, North Dakota, Michigan, Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, Indiana, Ohio, Utah, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Oklahoma, Maine, New Mexico, New York, Tennessee, Rhode Island, Alabama, Pennsylvania, Florida, Wyoming, Canadian provinces, in their order were: Alberta, British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario.

The survey was made to reveal responses to tourist advertising and publicity and was surprising in that California did not have first place.

Inquiries showed that majority of the western Canada visitors were making Spokane headquarters, many of the parties spending several weeks here or in the vicinity of the city.

NEW MATRON IS FRANK IN VIEW ABOUT HOSPITAL

Criticisms of Condition, the Equipment and Practices Shocking

IN MANY RESPECTS IS NOT STANDARD

Board to Consider Report at Special Session Add to Staff

Declaring Kootenay Lake General hospital was short of sterilizing equipment in many respects, describing its laundry facilities as inadequate, condemning some of the methods as insanitary, describing the building as lacking in cleanliness, asserting that the isolation hospital as at present operated was a menace to society, and terming the nurses training school as not standard, Miss Ethel K. Gray, newly appointed matron, with recommendations from Mayo Brothers, threw a verbal bombshell into the meeting of the full board of directors Tuesday night.

As a result of her detailed inspection of the institution and of the system she found in vogue, the new matron presented a list of recommendations for early realization.

CALL SPECIAL MEETING

Members of the board, most of them surprised at her appraisal of conditions, deemed her report so vital and important that, after adopting some of her suggestions forthwith, they decided on a special session for Thursday night, when the report will be given detailed study, and a policy will be discussed.

Miss Gray said after a preliminary inspection of the hospital she conferred with President C. F. McHardy and told him that if conditions were to remain as she found them, she would feel bound to consider herself a round peg in a square hole. As no suggestion was made that conditions could not be changed, she was emboldened to proceed with her study of the facts, and to give them to the board as she found them.

Presuming that the board wanted the truth, and describing herself as as "fact-finding committee," leaving it to the board to frame policies, Miss Gray verbally roamed over the hospital, examining all its features from the standard of expert and standard practice.

She described laundry facilities as inadequate, and in her detailed comment touched this question a number of times. Among other points she said 180 degrees, which she understood was the highest temperature in the laundry, was insufficient to sterilize. She also found shortcomings in the method of boiling.

While the hospital is equipped with sterilizers, the matron pointed to several places where there were no local sterilizing facilities, one of these places being the utility room in connection with the infants nursery. She found a similar lack in different departments.

Owing to the lack of facilities, the infants laundry was not handled in a standard way, she stated. There was also a shortage of basinettes, but in this case baskets substituted.

CLEANING NEEDED

Walls, floors, stairways and elevator entrances were all in a very bad condition as to dirt, and Miss Gray held that a hospital was not clean unless it had "clean corners." She recommended a thorough cleaning of the entire hospital, and plastering of the cracks.

In certain respects the kitchens were short of equipment—in one case, drain-boards—and she also found the method of collecting the used dishes not standard.

Wash room practice was also found to be very short of standard, particularly as to disinfection of utensils. Miss Gray stated the disinfectant that had been in use was valueless in the quantities used, as it would cost $10 a day for effective quantities, she had switched to chloride of lime. She also found equipment short.

Throughout the hospital Miss Gray found that many untensils needed replacing. In some cases sheets were used as bed covers, which were short. Her inspection of the second floor resulted in one bed being condemned.

Generally speaking, the main kitchen was clean, but it was not in all respects standard.

ISOLATION EQUIPMENT

The department that drew Miss Gray's worst censure was the isolation hospital, which she declared was "a menace to society as conducted at the present time." In her detailed criticism of it she mentioned lack of sterilization facilities for the different wards, and criticised handing of the laundry. It also turned out that, in times of extreme pressure, and with no seniors available, junior nurses had been in temporary charge of the isolation hospital.

The new matron carried her reorganization proposals even into the hospital office, stating several practices she had observed were not on business lines. Though not specifying any of these at the time, at a subsequent stage she submitted suggestions as to handling of drugs, as to general purchasing, ad as to diplomatically approaching patients at an early stage on the subject of how they expected to settle their bills.

INSTRUCTION SHORT MISSING

Perhaps the criticism that jarred the directors most was that respecting the nurses training school. Miss Gray submitted a chart showing the hours of instruction at a training school on whose faculty she had been, and at Kootenay Lake General hospital, with one inch of colored line representing 100 hours. In most of the categories the Nelson institution was around 20 or 25 per cent of standard as represented by the other institution.

Submitting a time-study she had made here for June 30 and July 1, every nurse being required to give a detailed report of how she expended her time, Miss Gray showed that on both days, taking the day shift, the nurses spent 60 per cent of their time on nursing, and 40 per cent on diets and house-keeping. On the night shift, the nurses spent 80 per cent of their time on July 1 on bedside nursing, a small proportion on diets, and nearly 20 per cent on housekeeping. The previous night had less housekeeping.

HOUSEKEEPING MAIDS

Miss Gray's deduction from this was that there should be maids to do the housekeeping, so as to release the nurses to receive the full training that the hospital owed to them. She said the nurses were being trusted to employees instead of as students.

She condemned the past system of having a single supervisor for No. 2 floor and the maternity floor, and said standard practice demanded a separate supervisor for the maternity floor.

"You're out of luck on that," one director remarked.

However, before the evening was out it was decided to allow the new matron her first recommendation, which was for a separate supervisor for the maternity floor, at the usual $75 a month and board. This will bring the staff of graduate nurses, inclusive of the matron, to six.

Economies already effected by Miss Gray, and others in sight, favorably impressed the directors, and were advanced as arguments for giving her immediately a large supervising staff, though this would increase the cost of operation.

She also recommended a graduate supervisor for the isolation hospital.

CHECK ON DRUGS

One of Miss Gray's immediate recommendations was for an expert checking over of the great stock of drugs that the hospital has on hand, with a view to throwing out those that had deteriorated, and to disposing of those that were in excess of the hospital's needs. She suggested that the board get a druggist to do this at once, and the board arranged for Alderman S. H. Smythe, who was present as one of the city's representatives, to undertake this duty, and to report at the special meeting Thursday night.

Miss Gray intimated there should be a stern regime in handling drugs. She said she found that in some cases nurses had done some compounding, and no chances could be taken. On this point the board solidly agreed with her.

She proposed that the hospital keep a supply of standard drugs, but that all special drugs be personally ordered by the patients concerned from the druggists.

Among other recommendations, Miss Gray recommended added laundry equipment.

She read a letter from Dr. Malcolm T. McEachern, of the American Medical association, that detailed the changes to be made to bring the hospital up to the association's standard, and that referred to it as "your splendid institution."

COMMITTEE CONFIRMS

John Cartmel, reporting informally for the visiting committee, said he had been on the board for many years, and on many visiting committees, but he had never been conducted on such a searching tour as that on which Miss Gray had taken the committee recently. He said he was appalled at the run-down and insanitary condition of the hospital as revealed in an entire forenoon's inspection.

HOSPITAL AID COMING

Mrs. J. T. Andrews, speaking for herself and Mrs. H. H. Pitts, said if the board would give them till September, they could promise that a new hospital aid would be organized that would take care of the linen question and that would do good work in every way.

Those present at the meeting were President C. F. McHardy, Vice-President J. A. Irving, Alderman S. H. Smythe, George Johnstone, Mrs. J. T. Andrews, R. D. Barns, H. M. Whimster, John Cartmel, Mrs. H. H. Pitts, Miss Ethel K. Gray, L. K. Larsen, Secretary J. C. Forbes, Alderman J. B. Gray, John A. Smith, Mayor J. P. Morgan, G. A. Brown.

Antipodean Ship Stranded on Reef

STEAMER PROGRESS CRASHES ON NEW ZEALAND REEF

Here is a graphic photograph showing the last few minutes of the Antipodean steamer Progress pounding on the rocky coast of New Zealand at Ohiro bay, near Wellington, after she had crashed on the reef. Caught on the ragged jaws of rock the hungry waves are tearing the ship apart, while most of the crew have taken to the rocks, where some of them may be seen in the foreground. They were later picked up by fishermen. Soon after this photograph was taken the ship broke up entirely.

FEDERAL AID FOR SHEEP RAISERS

New Policy Intended to Benefit Wool and Market Lamb Producers

The supply of pure bred lambs at stated prices and payment of freight to the destination are the outstanding features of direct benefit to the ram club policy announced by Hon. Robert Weir.

Under this policy the federal department of agriculture undertakes to supply at stated prices graded rams as ordered by club members, assuming payment for any additional cost over the stated price. The department also pays freight charges to the nearest railway station to the club.

October 1 is the final date up to which orders for graded rams may be placed with the department in any year. The department reserves the right to limit the number of clbs which may be formed in any one province in any year, and also makes special provision for supplying club members in new outlying districts.

The prices at which pure bred lambs will be supplied to club members are: For three star ram lambs, $10; for three star shearling rams, $20; for two star ram lambs, $5; and for two star shearling lambs $15. Certified cheques in these amounts must accompany orders submitted on forms supplied by the department through its provincial representatives.

Ram clubs comprise not less than 10 sheep raisers in a community owning not less than 10 ewes each. Not more than four rams may be supplied to any one member, and if ordering more than one ram, the owner must own at least 25 ewes for each ram ordered.

The object of the policy is to develop uniform breeding on a community basis, and with this in view club members will be expected to confine their orders to a breed to be agreed upon as best suited to the community.

Considerable savings to sheep raisers are assuered under the terms of the policy, as the cost of purebred ram lambs and shearlings of the grades specified will in most cases be higher than the stated price at which they are being supplied to club members, the department paying the difference.

THIRD INSTALLMENT

"Well, I don't rightly know. Maybe I o'clock, maybe 2 o'clock. I ain't look at no timepiece. I jus' starts down. And when I get on the steps here I hear Mist' Drane and Mist' Dart talkin' together, and Mist' Dart he surely is mighty mad about it. Yes sir! swearin' and cussin; yes sir! Mighty mad! So I don' go down. I comes up."

"What were they talking about?" Simon Judd asked.

"Now, that I don' know," said Norbert. "I ain' listen; it ain' none of my business what gentlemans talk about. I jus' comes up."

The chauffeur George came up the stairs.

"I got Doctor Blessington," he told Simon Judd. "He'll be right out. And I got the polic station; they're sending men."

In fact the police officers arrived almost immediately, the local headquarters having telephoned to the station nearby. They came, two of them, on popping motorcycles which they parked alongside the veranda, and entered the house together. From the top of the stairs Simon Judd bade them come up.

"No one been in the room," one of the officers asked as he saw the group at the door.

"No one," Simon Judd told them. "Not that I know of, anyway," and he told of having heard the scream of the girl Josie and of coming at once from his room. The officers entered the room.

"Looks like murder, Joe," one said.

"Sure is murder," the other replied. "Looks to me like a case for Brenny."

"Yes; he ought to get on it right away, too. You better go down and 'phone headquarters; I'll stay here. This man's dead, all right. Anybody sent for a doctor?"

"One's coming," Simon Judd said.

"We're going to have Brennen on this case, most likely," the officer said. "They hand him most of these murders these days. He's a good one; he'll clear this up in no time if there's any clear up to it. He's the best man we've got on Long Island. Who's that?"

It was Dr. Blessington entering the house. He came up the stairs, a small black case in his hand.

"In here?" he said, and entered John Drane's room. Below, the second officer was telephoning headquarters. "Ah, good morning officer!" he said to the man in John Drane's room. "Murder, is it? Too bad! This sort of thing is getting altogether too common. You might ask these folks to go downstairs. We'll just close this door."

"And all of you hang around down there, see?" said the officer. "There'll be questions to be asked."

"Come! We'll go down," said Simon Judd and, as Amy Drane came from the room where the maid Josie lay, he stood back to make way for her. "She doin' all right?" he asked. "That's good. The cop wants us to go down and wait the doctor's in there."

They went down. The servants went into the dining room off the hall and waited there, and Simon Judd and Amy went onto the veranda. The girl sat twisting her hands, saying nothing, now and again wiping her eyes, and when the doctor came down the stairs did not arise. She held her handkerchief over her quivering mouth.

Simon Judd beckoned the two officers into the house

Dr. Blessington came out onto the veranda and set down his black case. His face was drawn into serious lines and he was frowning.

"You are Mr. Drane's niece—his grand niece, I believe?" he said. "And this gentleman?"

"Why, I'm just a feller that knew John when he was a boy," explained Simon Judd. "Him and me used to play together back in Riverbank, Iowa, long before he ever came east—60 years ago, anyway. I'm east on a sort of business and I telephoned old John yesterday, just for old time's sake, and he says to come out and see him a day or so."

"How long is it since you saw him last, before yesterday?" Dr. Blessington asked.

"Thirty-five years," said Simon Judd.

COLORFUL KITCHENS

Since printing an article on improving the kitchen with bright paints, and a definite color scheme, I have received so many letters on redecorating a kitchen from my readers that I believe another article along the same general lines would be welcome.

I am going to describe another charming kitchen, quite different from the one I described several weeks ago: Walls are cafe au lait color (that is, light cream); gas stove is same color; kitchen stool was painted to match, but its legrungs were picked out in blue, dull-orange and rose, in slender bands; and although the sink is white enamel, it seems to blend nicely with the color scheme.

On the floor is a blue and cafe au lait checked linoleum. At the sunny windows are tie-back ruffled curtains in a sort of sheer novelty wash goods resembling dimity—the colors of these figured curtains being dull orange, rose and blue, with tie-backs consisting of a plain strip of blue oilcloth with two bone rings at each end (the rings simply slip over push-pins of glass, stuck into the wood window sash.

As one end of the kitchen has been turned into a breakfast nook, its cafe au lait table and chairs are decorated with touches of the three bright colors mentioned above; and the runner on the table is of unbleached muslin embroidered with orange, blue and rose.

So that too much blue would not catch the eye (the housewife who redecorated this kitchen, wishing to have a well-balanced color scheme) the white-enamel kitchen cabinet had been painted rose color at the upper part, picked out with slender lines of blue and orange (the white enamel working surface on which bread and pastry are rolled out was left white). The wood door at the bottom of this kitchen cabinet matched the rose upper part. A small work table in the center of the kitchen (near sink and cabinet) was covered with plain rose colored oilcloth—unfigured—but the legs of the table had been painted blue, with bands of dull orange.

Some Marriage 'Presents'

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
An Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

How's your sense of humor? Are you intelligent and a good sport? If you're contemplating matrimony, these things are far more important than what you're going to wear at the wedding, or if you're going away for the honeymoon or save by staying home. The authority for this statement is not my humble self, but Professor Harry A. Overstreet, of the College of the City of New York, who is an authority on heredity.

These two priceless slogans for the married, or those contemplating marriage, were given at a dinner of the American Eugenics society, and, as wedding presents, they are more valuable than cut glass or dinner sets.

"Marry a creatively intelligent good sport," was what Dr. Overstreet said, and, continuing in the same vein, he gave his opinion that the most valuable qualities parents could hand down to their children, qualities which would make the pattern of the coming man, were—"mental efficiency, creative intelligence, and good sportsmanship."

These coming men and women will supersede the type of hero now so popular in best sellers, which type Prof. Overstreet wittingly characterizes as the "sophisticated moron" type. College boys and girls have sighed, wept, and worshipped this "lost generation" characters depicted by Ernest Hemingway and James Joyce. They (the characters) represent a type which could down 15 or 20 cocktails a day, and gloried in being known as the "lost generation."

But the "lost generation" is rapidly becoming the last generation, and a wee bit passe. Soon they will be one with the Victorians and the novelists of the future will be looking for newer types than the men and women whom their authors made as conspicuous for their cast iron digestions as for their sufferings.

Professor Fairchild, taking part in the discussion of marriage and the coming type of man, insisted on a "sense of humor." And that perhaps is the most valuable of all wedding presents. If you can only learn to "laugh it off," you have found life's touchstone. Laughter dissolves calamities. It is the most valuable asset of family life.

All said and done, the American Eugenic Society handed out some great truths about married life—but the one about the sense of humor and good sportsmanship took the palm.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

The Beauty Box

BY Helen Follett

Though curves prevail, there is still misery for the dear one whose figure is like the spreading chestnut tree and not at all like the slender reed that dances in the wind. She should try out the three-day liquid diet which does the work with no harm to the health. Once a month she must, for three days, avoid solid food. She can stoke up on clear broths, clam bouillion, orangeade, buttermilk, any liquid that appeals to her appetite. Between times let her go slow on foods containing fats, dishes that contain starchy elements, and sweets.

Here is the formula for a simple bleaching lotion that will keep freckles off the facial premises, though we won't promise that it will do away with chronic polka dots that flourish like a green bay tree the whole year long; four ounces of rubbing alcohol, two ounces of stronger rosewater, 15 drops of simple tincture of benzoin. Apply at night with a piece of cotton and let dry on. Use cold cream freely.

Summer time is when soft corns appear. Keep the skin surface free from moisture and they will disappear. Sprinkle over with talcum powder, or powdered prepared chalk, and cover with cotton. Before wearing stockings rinse them out in a solution of broax and let dry. Scaling cuticle between the toes may indicate ringworm.

Even the most fastidious woman needs deodorants these days. Especially after the bath. A pleasant powder gives freshness to the skin. Liquids used in the arm pits do no harm; prespiration seeks other outlets. Dress shields only make matters worse, exciting the sweat glands to extra effort, because they prevent evaporation and leave salty deposits upon the cutaneous area.

Coiffures are taking on more and more bounce and fluff. No more sleeked down water waves as if the hair were painted on the skull, but loose, soft flattering undulations.

DESTINY again hung on his decision. As a rural physician he had found practical results with Eagle Brand. Twenty years after, as a great city specialist he again proved Eagle Brand a safe and dependable food for babies who could not be nursed.

So the doctor recommended Eagle Brand for Baby George—as the foundation for a rugged body—as the nearest approach to nature's formula he could devise.

After cards a dainty table supper was served to about 70 guests. The table was charmingly decorated with bowls of roses, carnations, nasturtiums and Canterbury bells, the decorations being carried out in the shades of pale green and yellow. After refreshments, W. TWO NEW NURSES ARE APPOINTED HOSPITAL STAFF

Miss Dorothy Brown to Take Maternity Floor; Miss Smith, Second

NET INCREASE IS ONE SUPERVISOR

Maternity Floor Has 24 Patients; Hospital Has 72 Mid-July

Acting on authority received Tuesday night from the board of directors of Kootenay Lake General hospital, Miss Ethel K. Gray, the new matron, Wednesday confirmed Miss Vera Eidt, R. N., as day supervisor for the first floor, in which position she has been acting since May; appointed Miss Dorothy Brown, R. N., also now relieving, to be day supervisor for the second floor, the appointment to take effect from September 1, when the fall classes will be started.

Resignation of Mrs. Donald Ure, R. N., who has been on the staff for the past two years, created one of the vacancies, and the other arose through the directors accepting the recommendation of Miss Gray for a separate day supervisor for the maternity ward.

STANDARD RULE

Miss Gray informed the board that the rule in standard hospitals was one graduate supervisor for 20 patients, and that the maternity floor here had 24 patients at the present time.

In the hospital as a whole, the average registration for the first 13 days of July was 72 patients, she stated.

When Miss Smith joins on September 1, the staff, inclusive of the matron, will number six.

Miss Eidt is a graduate of Guelph hospital, Miss Brown of Royal Jubilee hospital, Victoria, and Miss Smith of Kootenay Lake General hospital.

HOSPITAL BOARD MAY REALLOCATE FIRE INSURANCE

Idea Behind Move Is to Give All Firms in Business a Share

COMMITTEE WILL REPORT ON COST

To Redistribute at Present Would Mean Paying Special Rate

One of the questions now before the board of directors of Kootenay Lake General hospital is that of reviewing the fire insurance carried on the board's property—the hospital, nurses home, isolation hospital and equipment—which are insured in the aggregate of $106,000.

"WOULD BE WORTH IT"

It is the view of some directors that, following the popularizing of the hospital's control by the reduction of the membership fee and the attainment of a popular membership of several hundred citizens, everything possible should be done to combat an old criticism that the hospital was "a close corporation," giving its business in a limited circle. In the matter of supplies, in the form of groceries, meat, and drugs, for a number of years orders have been rotated among the Nelson business houses, month by month, in those lines, and it is now suggested that the insurance carried by the board should be reallocated, so that the various insurance firms should share this business in fairly equal proportion. R. D. Barnes is one of the sponsors of this movement, holding that the gain in public support would counterbalance the financial loss the board would suffer in cancelling existing large policies and paying for the time they have run on the basis of the annual instead of the three-year rate

OTHER QUESTIONS

Various other views have also found expression at meetings of the board. One question asked is what would be the allotment of a firm that by the purchase of other businesses has worked into what would be a disproportionate share for a single firm. There is also the question of "board" and "non-board" companies. The largest single policy, $32,000 on the nurses home, is now carried in a non-board company. The board companies, it is stated, have a tariff, while the non-board have flexible rates. Another angle, considered by some of the directors, is whether insurance men who have been conspicuous workers for the hospital and others who have not been identified with it should be considered to have equal claims.

Some directors are disposed to view the question as one of finance pure and simple, in which case those quoting the lowest rates would get the business.

NO RENEWALS DUE

As it happens, there are no policies expiring for the next two and a half years, and the view of some directors is that the matter of redistributing this business can best be taken up when they are coming up for renawal, when changes deemed desirable can be made without involving the expense of paying short-term rates.

The finance committee, of which Vice-President J. A. Irving is chairman, was instructed at Tuesday night's board meeting to obtain figures of the cost to the board of cancelling each policy, and to present a detailed report at Thursday night's special meeting, embodying these facts so that the board will have exact information on the subject.

Light Department Head in Seattle Reinstated

SEATTLE, July 15 (AP)—Within 20 hours after Mayor Frank Edwards was recalled by Seattle voters, Robert H. Harlin, president of the city council, was raised to that position today by the council amid the bandying of charges that a "slush fund" was raised to insure his being chosen.

During the day, J. D. Ross, former superintendent of the city light department, out of whose dismissal by Edwards the recall election grew, was also reinstated by the council. His reappointment had been promised before the election.

AIR-DRYING OF WHITE PINE

A careful study of drying rate of white pine conducted by the forest products laboratories, department of the interior, disclosed the fact that a normal pile of one-inch lumber will dry from green to air-dry condition in about six weeks under summer conditions such as existed in the summer of 1930. Lumber in the top zones of the pile dries much more quickly than in the bot being sometimes as much as four tom zones, the lag in the latter case weeks behind the top. The side zones dry more quickly than the middle zones.

Receivers seldom wear out. They are generally discarded only because more improved models have been developed.

UNEMPLOYED MAY BUY OLD PANTS

MANCHESTER, Eng., July 15.—(CP)—Unemployed men of this city have been given the privilege of buying at a nominal price the cast-off trousers of the police force, and as the material is of excellent quality and the garments are usually discarded long before they can be said to be worn out there is usually a mad rush for them whenever a sale is announced. Applicants must live in Manchester and possess a voucher from one of the city's employment exchanges, and outsiders are not given a chance to buy. There were only 120 pairs of police trousers for distribution at a recent sale whereas the applicants numbered more than 200. The trousers were sold at 18 cents a pair.

The increase of buffalo in Canada's national parks since the inception of the main herd in 1908 has been little short of phenomenal. From an original heard of less than 800, the total increase has reached over 20,000, including the animals shipped to Wood Buffalo park in the Northwest Territories and those otherwise disposed of. There are at present about 6000 head at Buffalo national park, Wainwright, Alberta and 1000 head at Elk Island park also in Alberta. In these large fenced reserves the animals roam over sections of their natural habitat much as they did in the early days.

Canadian Gold Production

Canada is now the world's second largest producer of gold, according to a statement issued by the Dominion bureau of statistics. Second position has been held by the United States, but for 1930 Canadian production was greater than that of the United States, unless in the latter is included the output of the Philippine Islands. Canadian production of gold last year was 2,102,068 fine ounces, while that of the United States, not including the Philippine Islands, was 2,053,659 ounces. Production in the Philippine Islands amounted to 178,934 ounces. The largest producer of gold is, of course, the Union of South Africa, which in 1928 had a gold production of 10,354,264 fine ounces, or over 52 per cent. of the world output.

The Canadian figures quoted above are the finally revised returns. The production of 2,102,068 ounces is valued at $43,453,601 on the basis of the standard price of $20.671834 per fine ounce. In 1929 Canadian production was 1,928,308 fine ounces with a value of $39,861,663. The greater part of the Canadian output comes from Ontario, which produced last year 1,736,012 fine ounces, valued at $35,886,552. Towards this the Porcupine camp contributed 859,084 fine ounces, and the Kirkland Lake area 830,733 ounces. The balance of the Ontario output came from gold contained in ores in the Sudbury area and from miscellaneous sources. The Quebec production of 141,747 fine ounces included gold contained in blister copper made at the Noranda smelter and gold in bullion produced from ores mined at the Siscoe, O'Brien and Granada gold mines.

British Columbia had the second largest output of gold among the provinces of the Dominion, producing 164,331 fine ounces, compared with 154,201 ounces in the previous year. Increases occurred in alluvial mining, auriferous quartz mining and in the gold contained in blister copper produced. There was, however, a decrease in the amount of gold contained in base bullion and ores exported. Gold in Manitoba was derived from both sulphide and auriferous quartz ores, and at 23,189 fine ounces showed an increase over the production of 1929. Fine gold recovered from alluvial mining in the Yukon was less at 35,160 fine ounces, compared with 35,678 ounces during 1929. Silver-lead ores exported for treatment from the Yukon contained a small proportion of gold.

Genuine Sales Vs. Approval Sales

When a customer returns something to a store, he or she thinks little about it. It's just "convenient" to have the store give this "little service." Such is the customer's feeling.

But the Amos Parrish Magazine makes the customer think that the "little service" may not be so little, after all, and that it may be one thing which keeps prices higher all the time than they would need to be. Just consider what the Amos Parrish Magazine says:

"When out of every 100 radios that are taken out of a store, 23 are returned—

"And out of every 100 fur coats, 21 are returned—

"And almost 17 negligees—

"And more than 15 pairs of shoes—

"And almost 16 women's coats—

"And more than 18 blouses and skirts—

"And more than 19 misses' coats and suits or dresses and sportswear—

"And so on and so on—when so many things are just lent to lookers rather tahn sold to customers—"

Well, the customer doesn't have much trouble figuring what should come after the last dash. It should be something like this:

"IT MAKES THE PRICE GO UP."

That is one way customers can economize, by not lightly using the return privilege.

Aviation Figures Increase

Airplanes are becoming so common in California that people do not even look up when one passes overhead. California in five years has become one of the most air-minded of states in the union south of us. California has twice as many licensed air pilots as any other state. There were at the end of April 2886 licensed airmen in California. New York had 1558 licensed pilots. And this has come about in five year's time.

Who was it said the airplane was a passing fancy? Who said it would never be of any commercial value? Who said a landing field was a waste of money? Numerous people have said the very things stated above, but statistics are proving them wrong.

Aviation is growing and stretchnig out daily. We in Nelson can at least watch the planes fly past high over our heads.

There aren't enough girls of marriageable age in Chicago to go around. Statistics assembled by the Association of Commerce show there are 50,267 more men, ranging from 20 to 55 years of age, the marriage span, than there are women. There are 985,712 men and 935,455 women between these ages credited to Chicago. The numbers contrast with the 1930 census report of England where there is an excess of 1,866,000 marriageable women. Of the 50,267 extra men in Chicago, 32,010 are between the ages of 35 and 44.

England won the Schneider cup races in 1929 with two planes at speeds of 357 and 328 miles an hour. Having won the cup two successive years, she will try for it again with the same airships improved and hopes to reach a speed of 400 miles an hour. The English may have hard work catching up with their dole chasers; but they are licking the liver out of the rest of the world in fast flying says the Los Angeles Times.

Radio programe are signing off for July and August. Sponsors of programs cannot be convinced that people are staying home in large numbers to listen in. And not many automobiles are yet equipped with radios.

Premier Bennett in the house at Ottawa on Tuesday declared that there would be no dumping of eggs from Australia during the months of January and February and in any other month for that matter. Coast members were worried lest the Australian preference would ruin the egg business in British Columbia. That is "eggsactly" what coast members should do. Watch out for B. C. business.

It is during January and February that our chickens really pay. This is the time of year when the hens become lazy and refuse to lay. But who wants to work anyway with the sun clipping off 90 and 100 per.

* * *

This matter of hens not laying in the summer is receiving attention in the universities to the south of us. The University of California says "give your hens a sunshade these hot summer days" and they will lay.

* * *

It has been found that the matronly hen suffers from prostration in the summer months. Experiments show that hens equipped with sunshades never lay off.

That's a fine idea but in these jungle dwellers hangout, an eyeshade for our hens would almost be an aid life is not worth two cents where times of depression when a hen's to suicide. How would old biddy escape someone sneaking up behind if she is equipped with a shade much resembling blinkers? But at that the hen is about right. This is the time of year in which poets use such language as "He lay beneath a spreading tree."

Noticed Joe Ramsden wearing a fine large, bright yellow pansy the other day.

It was the other day that I suggested in this column that a nice tasting glue be used on the Canadian stamps. We have to lick an extra stamp each time now. Well, apparently Washington, D. C., has got busy. They probably see a way to get a little cash out of Canada. Down there the agricultural department chemists are seeking a native starch which will produce a tasteless dextrin. The sweet potato is being used in the experiments.

I have heard that saying "like breaking into jail. In fact I have seen fellow trying to do just that thing. But I never had heard of anyone really and truly breaking into Louis Regalia was being held in a down in California. A chap named jail. But it has happened. It was certain Californian jail on a charge of robbery. He suddenly disappeared and a district wide search was started for him. Then the jail warden got a postcard. It said: "Don't worry. I'll explain everything."

* * *

Next morning at another prison a mystified guard made a report to headquarters. He had Regalia in a cell.

* * *

"He got inside the jail somehow or other," the guard declared, "so I put him in a cell. He seemed pleased."

Regalia told the warden the first jail he was confined in was not fit for human habitation.

"It was not the sort of place I cared to stay in," Regalia said. "So I cut through the plaster wall under my bunk and started for San Rafael. This is what I call a real jail."

Beach pajamas again—Down in Arkansas they prohibit the wearing of beach pajamas by both women and men. If you should venture forth in Arkansas on a hot day with your nether limbs clad in the flapping, widely cut and cool garments, now so popular, you would be escorted off the streets and told to put some clothing on.

* * *

An odd feature about this affair is that Texas and Arkansas are as one in the city of Texarkana. The state boundary line divides the city. It is okay to wear beach pajamas on the Texas side of the line. But you can't cross to the Arkansas side. You must stay in your own back yard.

WATCH DIVINER'S WORK

Reports received of the work of Miss Penrose, employed by the department of agriculture, to locate wells in the dry districts of the interior, are quite satisfactory to date. At three places indicaed by her, flowing wells have been struck, and the work of digging in other spots is under way. In the Salmon Arm district thre were over 80 applicants for her services, and she has also been working in the Okanagan valley. Following her locations a well drilling machine is being imported for the boring in indicated spots. On the conclusion of her work in the interior, Miss Pemrose will proceed to the Peace River district, where well water is badly needed in certain places.

THE RETREAT OF MOSCOW

Step by step Soviet Russia is retreating from the untenable positions of Communism and Marxian Socialism and is evolving into something less fantastic than the impossible state which succeeded the second revolution.

Out of the welter of wild theory which held sway in Moscow under militant Bolshevism a civil life in which the soldier was preferred above all others, the manual laborer next, skilled laborer third and wealthy peasants, professional men and office holders stragled along in lowliest caste was envisaged.

Childishly conceived, this form of society was to be one in which the whole order of life as built up through the ages was to be inverted so that the spite of the submerged multitude against the educated and well-to-do might be given vent. It reflected not a new human recasting of qualities and characteristics, nor a well-planned economic order, but merely the understandable upheaval of a great, ignorant mass against tyrannical and unprogressive forces which had ruled.

There was to be no money. The state would own everything. Men would work shoulder to shoulder, all laborers on the same plane, and what they produced would be shared equally amongst them. To every man, according to his need, was the slogan. Private merchants, brokers, money lenders, bankers, all who persisted in business through their own iniative and enterprise were to be driven down to the humblest positions in society. Skill in workers was not to be rewarded by so mercenary a means as money. A medal, a high-sounding title, a paragraph in the papers, or a free holiday tour occasionally would be reward enough.

Money, of course, could not be abolished and it remains in Russia, sadly tampered with and ridiculously inflated, but nevertheless a continuing and recognized medium of exchange. Russia could not abolish a facility common in crude forms amongst even the most backward savage tribes of the earth. And so a concession was made.

With the overthrow of the Imperial Russian government and then of the Kelensky government, the revolutionary party of Lenin and Trotzky took possession of practically all the tangible wealth of the country and for all practical purposes it became a fact that the state owned all sources of wealth with the exception of peasant-controlled farm land. Nomnially, the state was credited with owning the farms as well, but when it proceeded to conscript the wealth of the farms over and above the food requirements of the peasants, the incentive to produce was immediately abolished and in two seasons Russia experienced ghastly famine. A primary grade school boy might have anticipated the results, but the laws conscripting farm wealth of the kulaks were passed solemnly by the Soviet government and given effect. Russia will spend the next five years trying to restore her livestock herds to their former proportions.

Men did work shoulder to shoulder, laborers were put on a common plane with one another, and their pay was equal, regardless of workmanship. In fact, laborers were given cards with which they could order food at fixed prices much below the level charged non-holders of cards.

But now it has been found that this ideal state is not efficient. Without differentiation in reward as between care and carelessness, skill and clumsiness, intelligence and dull-wittedness, there was inadequate incentive to excel. A few conscientious individuals worked well for the sake of a job well done, but the great majority labored indifferently and t here came a dearth of skilled workers who could pass along responsible positions of supervision and foremanship.

The very deeply-ingrained human trait of response to a reward that promised individually advanced living conditions—a trait denounced by Socialism as the basis of capitalism and so-called worker-exploitation—would not be thwarted or stamped out in Russia. And so Lenin's successor, Joseph Stalin, is planning to change Russia to conform with human nature.

* * *

In a dozen years the Socialist-Communist experiment in Russia has done many interesting and some menacing things, but nothing it has done has been more significant than its proof of the eternal human verities. It is as though a whole nation had lent itself as a laboratory subject for the most drastic and critical processes of research. And it is as though a mass of human beings had torn down everything and started from the beginning to see what of the century-old products of social evolution was necessary and what could be discarded.

So far the experiment in Russia has shown that a nation can live without Imperialism—not a new discovery. It has shown that money is an economic and social necessity. It has demonstrated that workers are not all equal in ability and cannot be treated as equals in reward; that men are not machines and that individuality in citizens is to be encouraged.

The experiment proceeds, but it has not gone much further as yet. Middle men, or "Nep men" under the New Economic Plan, are to be tolerated, but bled white by taxes and eventually driven out of business. Co-operative, Soviet-controlled stores are to have a monopoly of all business when convenient, but meanwhile small merchants are allowed to exist. Speculators are still beyond the law, and they who are frugal and save more than their immediate day-to-day requirements are objects of execration if not punishment. Private enterprise in business is so circumscribed that there is nothing in Russia comparable to the corporations of other lands in which thousands of people may be shareholders and profit sharers.

* * *

How far is it from where Russia stands today to the conservative socialist governments introduced into such countries as France and Great Britain—governments that represent a fairly sane compromise? Not far, it may be belived.

Time will bring Russia to a recognition of the fact that business and life are essentially speculative and that shrewd speculators are an asset to any nation. She will realize that an efficient piece of national economic machinery has more than a main drive shaft, large gears and bearings—that there are smaller cogs in the machinery playing a tremendously important part in its smooth and successful operation and that they must be oiled and cared for as considerately as the larger moving parts.

Russia will tire of the never-ending government inefficiency and will welcome back private enterprise just as it is now, by latest decree, giving reluctant recognition to professional men, former executives of private corporations, technical experts and others who were trained under the lod regime. Russia has found that she needs their brains and that she cannot continue to keep them in mesirable, ahlf-starved condition, depriving them of social standing, debarring their children from universities and profiteering on the sale to them of the necessities of life.

Russian will not only reward the efficient individual with higher wages but eventually she will, in all probability, develop a system whereby employees in an industry will become shareholders in that industry, profiting as a group in relation to their group effort. Thus, in effect, the plant will be leased from the government. It will be difficult to define the difference between that form of control and the huge, democratized corporations of North America such as General Motors, Standard Oil, General Electric, etc., in which the shareholders are numbered in the hundreds of thousands amongst all classes of society from workmen to financiers.

Russia will admit that in large degree men must be responsible for the conduct of their own lives.

Russia will even concede that men who have labored skillfully and earned a surplus beyond their requirements and men who have accomplished the same purpose through piece work in industry, should be allowed to save that money and spend it or not as they may individually see fit.

In short, Russia will eventually become much as other nations are losing her redness and radicalism as she progresses.

She may continue to be a disturbing economic force for years to come. But her social menace in calling upon the "proletariat" of the world to tear down existing governments by force, will dwindle as she herself finds progressively more and more use for a "bourgeoise" class in attempting to achieve all the amenities of life common to the once hated "bourgeoise" countries of the world.—Financial News.

UNDER PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

By S. W. Fairweather in C. N. R. Magazine

Enough has been said to show that the past decade has witnessed a great improvement in the Canadian National system and that the added capial is more than paying its way. If it is to be a true criticism that the railway problem of Canada was created under private ownership by the expenditure of capital money beyond earning capacity, then criticism cannot be directed at the capital exependitures in the first decade of government ownership.

The program by which the system has been rehabilited and rounded out, of necessity, incured very heavy capital expenditures. The program though not quite complete, is now drawing to a close and a new era will open in which the magnificent transportation machine which has been created and unkied will, perhaps, be given a fair chance to prove its worth unencumbered by the financial burdens of past mistakes.

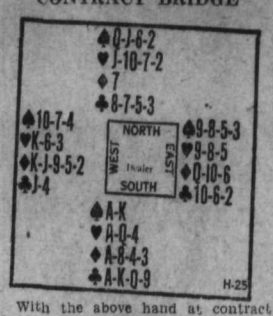
Auction and Contract Bridge

By the World's Leading Authority, MILTON C. WORK

CONTRACT BRIDGE



With the above hand at contract bridge south would be in some doubt as to what to declare. He has terrific strength—a no trump count of 26 with four aces in the hand; but the diamond suit has only one stopper although it contains four cards. The hand falls just short of the 27-with-every-suit-stopped-twice requirement for a bid of four no trumps, so south should bid three; and the result proves the wisdom of the restrictions imposed upon such a bid.

A south using the artificial two-club bid has ample strength to make that declaration; but there would not be much immediate advantage in doing so because he would know beforehand, having four aces in his own hand, that north would have to answer with two diamonds.

If the two-club bid were made (west and east always passing), nort hwould answer with the artificial two diamonds, south would bid two no trumps, and north—with two steppers in spades—would show that suit in case that was the one in which south needed assitsance. South then would bid three no trumps and that would end the contracting. Therefore south would be playing with a three no trump contract in any event.

When the hand was played, west led a diamond; south held up until the third round, led his two high spades and followed with four rounds of clubs. After that he led his ace of hearts and another heart which west won and cashed his two remaining diamonds, saving game

The Correct Play

The declarer who played the hand overlooked a sure and simple way. After he had taken his spades and clubs, he would have in hand seven tricks, needing two more for game. He would know that west had two more diamonds and south consequently should have led a diamond, allowing west to win two more tricks, south discarding a small heart on the second. Then no matter what lead west made, game would be assured. If west led a spade, dummy would take the remaining tricks; if he led a heart, it would be up to closed hand's ace-queen.

RAINE'S DEATH

"Death is always sad, but when it cuts short in youth an upstanding man and cuts short a promising career it is particularly tragic. The death of Harold Raine, general superintendent of the Canadian Press, in an airplane accident in Hamilton, at the age of 34 years, was an event which has shocked journalistic circles from coast to coast.

"A man of outstanding ability, of fine character and a deep appreciation and understanding of men and life, Harold Raine joined this Canadian co-operative news-gathering agency as an office boy in the Winnipeg bureau. His constant promotion in that exacting service until he had attained the second highest post of responsibility in the organization testifies to his ability not only as an executive but as a leader of men. Had he lived he would have some day become general manager and none would have been better qualified for this responsible post. A genial fellow, smiling and even-tempered, nothing ever ruffled his good nature or threatened his sound judgment. Gifted with a fine sense of humor, he looked at news and life through the eye of a trained observer behind which there was an exceptional keen brain. Many and brilliant were the feats of news-gathering and distribution which he achieved during his brief and outstanding career and no more competent craftsman ever graced Canadian journalism.

"Harold Raine died in the pursuit of that which had been his life blood—copy for the newspapers. A thoroughly modern young man he was airminded and he saw in the air pageant he was covering that which he loved—a spectacular, dramatic and important event. In his life he had faced death hundreds of times and when the end came, if he knew it was coming, one knows he was calm and unafraid. Possibly with that dominant curiosity of the journalist, which was one of his leading characteristics, he wondered what it would be like.

"Competent soldier, journalist extraordinary and thorough-going Christian gentleman, newspapermen everywhere in Canada will grieve at the tragically abrupt '30' to this promising career. To those who knew him there is a deep sense of pesonal loss and sympathy with his young widow and daughter."—London Free Press.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By JAMES W. BARTON

GETTING A DIRECT VIEW OF INTERIOR OF STOMACH

You have often heard of the use of the X-ray in examining the stomach. A barium sulphate meal which makes a dark shadow, enables the physician to see the outline of the stomach, how it empties this material out into small intestines, and whether there is an ulcer or a cancer present. It also shows whether the opening from the stomach into the small intestine is large enough, because sometimes the scar tissue from a healed ulcer will contract or make the opening too small to allow anything but liquids to pass through.

A couple of years ago, a photographic apparatus, an actual tiny camera was inserted into the stomach by means of a tube down the throat, and pictures of the lining of the stomach were thus obtained.

And now a Russian physician, Dr. G. Belenkiy has discovered a method whereby the physician can look down the throat and actually see the lining of the stomach.

He has been able to do this by means of the oesophagoscope, an instrument that is used to inspect or see the lining of the oesophagus or gullet, the tube that connects the throat with the stomach.

This tube like instrument is first put down the throat, and then a smaller instrument which he calls the gastroscope, or stomach scope (gastro means stomach) easily passes through the larger tube right down into the stomach. The end of the gastroscope is provided with a rubber cap. This gastroscope is connected with the source of the electrical energy, from which the oesophagoscope or outer tube has been disconnected.

This method allows a direct inspection of the lining of the stomach; it has been used by Dr. Belenkiy for the last four years. Difficulty or complications were never encountered.

Now you can see that while the X-ray method of examination will continue to be used as it shows the shape of the stomach, rate of progress of the meal through the stomach, and the length of time it takes a meal to get completely out of the stomach, nevertheless this gastroscope or stomachscope gives the physician an exact and immediate view of the entire lining of the stomach.

It is certainly an advance in our knowledge of that necessary and busy organ, the stomach.

HELENE MADISON ACQUIRES 14th SWIMMING MARK

Holds All but Two of Standard Records; Breaks 1500 Metre Mark

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP)—Miss Helene Madison, 18-year-old school girl wonder from Seattle, Wash., successfully defended her senior National A. A. U. outdoor swim titles in 100 metres and the mile here tonight. In the latter event she broke the four-year-old world mark for 1500 metres by more than 27 seconds, setting a new standard of 23 minutes, 17 and one fifth seconds.

She thus acquired the fourteenth world record of the 15 recognized standards.

Miss Madison now holds all but the 100 yard and 1000 metre marks, both of which are held by Martha Norelius, whose 1500 metre mark Helene broke tonight.

The Seattle girl did not threaten her own records in her two winning efforts, but in neither race was she pressed.

She won the 100 metre race in 1:09 2-5, a full second behind her own best mark, while her winning time of 24:45 in the mile is 11 and 1-5 seconds behind her world standard for that distance.

Frank Hogan Breaks Into Batting Scale

Frank Hogan, hefty New York Giants catcher, got only one hit in two times at bat yesterday, but it was good enough performance to put him in baseball's big six. As Hogan entered the select group, he shoved Hendrick of the Reds out. Chuck Klein, Babe Ruth and Goose Goslin all improved their batting averages.

The standings:

LAUNCH CLUB TO STAGE REGATTA HERE AUGUST 12

New Races Created to Aid Owners of Moderate Speed Launches

At a meeting of the Kootenay Launch club Tuesday evening, Wednesday, August 12, was set as the date for the club's annual regatta, and a program which includes added attractions was drawn up.

While an equal number of American competitors with last year is expected, no definite assurance has been received. The Kaslo regatta follows the Nelson one on August 13 and 14.

On August 1 and 2 a number of Nelson boat men go to Sandpoint, Idaho, to attend a regatta there, and on their return a more definite idea as to the number that intend to come to Nelson will be available. This year the club will be unable to obtain a barge for the accommodation of the spectators, but an attempt will be made to take over the city wharf for that date.

The new races this year will be favorable to the local launch owners, who in the past have been unable to gain a great deal of benefit from the races other than watching the events.

NEW RACES

Races have been created for inboard motorboats capable of not more than 40 miles an hour or less than 25 miles an hour, and for boats whose speed ranges between 25 miles and 15 miles an hour. These will be run over a 10-mile course.

The feature race of the regatta will, of course, be that for the Patenaude shield and the championship of Kootenay lake. This will be a 20-mile marathon free to all comers and all types of boats.

A 10-mile marathon and "C" and "B" class events will be arranged for outboards. These races proved popular with the boating enthusiasts last year.

Appointment of officials will take place at a future meeting.

LOSES TO HAGEN

Percy Alliss, British star, who was the sensation of the first round of the Canadian open golf championship play, went down to a one-stroke defeat before Walter Hagen in the finals yesterday. It was a ding-dong battle all the way through, with Hagen turning in a par-shattering score of 141, against Alliss' 142.

LEHMAN SHOWS GREAT GAME IN WESTERN GOLF

Defending Champion Said to Be Off Game Until He Blazed Into Action

PORTLAND, July 15 (By Frank G. Gorrie, Associated Presss sports writer)—The defending champion and only middlewesterner in the tournament—Johnny Lehman of Chicago—put on a little surprise party today in the first and second 18-hole rounds of the western amateur golf championships, and he made a lot of the boys sit up and take notice.

Lehman pranced through his two matches, trouncing Lloyd Byerly, Portland, 6 and 5 in the morning, and conquering Chuck Hunter, Tacoma, 4 and 2, in the afternoon.

Before the tournament started it was common talk around the clubhouse that Lehman was "off his game" and would be "lucky to get through the first round." He refrained from competing in the qualifying round, a privilege allowed the defending title holder and today was the first time the experts had an opportunity to study his game under fire. And there was nothing wrong with it.

DON'T PRESS BUT HIT HARD

BY AL DEMAREE

"Most golfers confuse the terms 'pressing' and hitting a golf ball hard," says Jack Redman, the well-known pro. "You don't see the pros and high class amateurs holding back on their wood shots. They give it all they've got, but their timing is correct and they do not get their hands or body in ahead of the clubhead on the shot. "Wait for the clubhead" is a good slogan for any golfer. If you do this you can slug to your heart's content and the bal wil go far and true."

The fear of pressing may cause too lazy a swing. You've got to bring that clubhead through with all you've got to get distance and a good shot.

SERGEANT REGAN OF VICTORIA TAKES BRONZE MEDAL IN KING'S SHOOT

Makes Brilliant Score of 104 Out of 105; Four Years Since Last

BISLEY CAMP, Eng., July 15.—(By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press staff correspondent)—A Canadian turned in one of the finest samples of marksmanship ever seen at the great Empire meeting of the National Rifle association today when Sergeant J. H. Regan of Victoria, British Columbia, won the bronze medal of the King's prize.

To win the bronze medal, emblematic of leadership in the first stage of the Empire's greatest service rifle shoot, Sergeant Regan returned the remarkable score of 104 out of a possible 105. It was the best score in the shoot in four years, and had been done only five times previously.

FEAT WELCOME

The feat was all the more welcome to the Canadians here after the disappointments of the present meeting which has seen Canadians right up to the leaders in the big individual shoots, but always nosed out of first place.

Canada will have at least 11, and possibly 12, marksmen in the final stage of the Bisley classic on Friday. Friday's shooting cuts the big field down to 100 for the final on Saturday. Very close to 1000 crack shots, the best from Great Britain and from many parts of the Empire, started in quest of His Majesty's prize of $1250 today. The field included 13 former winners of the prize and of these Lieutenant Desmond Burke of Ottawa was the only one to score as high as 99.

Sergeant Regan was a point in front of Richards of Barnstaple and Lieut. Archdale of Manchester, who each scored 103. Three more competitors scored 102, and 17 more reached 100.

CARPENTER PUTS ROWING SHELLS IN FINE SHAPE

Enthusiasm Maintained; Rowers Ill so Team Unable to Go to Kelowna

Work has been completed by a carpenter on the overhauling of the boats of the Nelson Rowing club and now the craft are in beter condition than they have been in for many years. Along with the hired carpenter, T. D. DesBrisay, coach of the club, has been doing repair work to the equipment.

HON. MR. BURDEN ADVERTISING THE PRODUCTS OF B. C.

Investigate Slumber Possibilities; Mrs. Burden Talks to Women

The Honorable F. P. Burden, the agent general for the province, has been undertaking a self-imposed task in the interests of the timber industry and has been making an extensive tour of the north of England for the purpose of personally investigating the number situation and surveying the possibilities of a more general use of B. C. woods in the United Kingdom says a London dispatch. Among the places visited have been the Grimsby Docks, where considerable quantities of B. C. timber are being employed in the Docks extension works and of the quality of which the contractors speak in the highest terms; Stockton-on-Tees, where the agent general investigated some complaints received from some local firms and the Highland exhibition at Edinburgh, where the grand display of the forest product research laboratory included a whole range of B. C. woods. Driving his own care and making his way by easy stages from point to point, the agent general did not disdain to visit the humblest factories. Wherever shooks and boxes were being manufactured he was at pains to advance the qualities of the lesser known B. C. timbers and ask that they be given a trial. Altogether, he regards his trip as exceedingly fruitful in possibilities and calculated to yelld valuable results.

MRS. BURDEN TALKS TO ENGLISHWOMEN

The wife of the agent general has also been no less busy in the sphere which she has mapped out for herself ever since she arrived in England and has been tireless in addressing women audiences in the subject of life in the province. A speaker with an easy conversational style and gifted with a rare faculty of making an audience feel it is being personally addressed, Mrs. Burden enjoys great popularity and the demands made upon her come sometimes from the most unexpected places. At the moment she is away lecturing in Ireland. One of the most important of her recent engagements was an address on June 24 at the Institute of Journalists where she spoke to a gathering of the British Commonwealth League. Her theme is always the same: British Columbia for British women; but she contrives to impart so many spontaneous personal touches on every occasion that the theme is always fresh.

CRESTON VETS PLAN A PICNIC

Plan to Form Brass Band; Will Institute Special Cup for Use Public Demonstrations

CRESTON, B. C. July 15.—Creston Valley post of the Canadian Legion had their July meeting at the schoolhouse at Camp Lister and had one of their best turnouts of the year, president Walter V. Jackson presiding.

Amongst the business transacted was the naming of a representative committee to make all arrangements for a veteran's picnic at the second bend of Goat river for the afternoon of August 2.

A committee consisting of the president and F. H. Jackson, Hilton Young and John Bird was named to look after the interests of all returned men in the matter of securing a share of all public works and, if necessary, unemployment relife work during the fall and winter.

John Finaly was authorized to proceed with the formation of a Legion brass band. This is work that he is familiar with as during a couple of years' residence at Chapman Camp he was leader of the band at that center. Mr. Finlay is now permanently residing on his farm at Camp Lister.

The meeting also named a small committee to recommend to the next meeting a suitable design for a cap which returned men would be asked to wear on all occasions. This is something that has had the attention of American Legion posts and added much to the appearance of the Idaho and Washington veterans who were in the parade on the occasion of the international reunion on May 23 at Creston.

STERLING EXCHANGE SURPRISES THE NEW YORK MARKET BY BREAKING TO NEW LOW FOR THE PAST SIX YEARS

Goes Down to $4.83 11-16; Whole Market Turns to Reactionary Trend

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP)—While Germany was taking steps today to bolster her own financial structure without the immediate aid of additional foreign credits, markets in New York, London and Paris turned rather severely reactionary.

Stocks here had their widest breaks in several days, although part of the damage was repaired in a late rally.

Weakness at London and Paris had an immediate influence on stock prices here and the market quickly tumbled out of the narrow trade range of the last few sessions under the push of heavy selling. At the day's lows most of the recovery since President Hoover's debt moratorium plan became public had been lost. On the basis of final quotations, which averaged about two and a half points lower, roughly 5 per cent of the advance remained.

STERLING EXCHANGE BREAKS

Sterling exchange surprised the markets by breaking to $4.83 15-16, the lowest since stabilization six years ago. It rallied a little before the close. With the rate below the gold export point to both New York and Paris, bankers here believed the Bank of England would increase its discount rate at tomorrow's meeting as a means of checking shipments. It was hardly thought probable, however, that any metal would be sent from London to New York.

The German mark was quoted nominally, occasionally dipping under 21 cents. The French was very strong both here and at London. A $10,000,000 increase in earmarked gold at the New York Federal Reserve bank was assumed to be for French account.

Stocks opened heavily and quickly extended their losses as offerings became larger. Some of the selling was said to have come from abroad, this was unconfirmed, but the market improved when the European exchanges had closed. At their worst, prices on numerous principal issues were off 3 to 7 points. U. S. Steel, which closed Tuesday at 94½, broke to 89⅞ and finished at 92. American Can, after going under 100, closed at 101¾, off 3⅝.

Sales totalled 2,600,000 shares.

BOND DECLINE GENERAL

The decline in the bond market today was almost universal. Early trading was moderate but selling pressure increased about mid-day, and the market continued active thereafter.

During the last hour a tendancy to rally developed, permitting some issues to close above the day's lowest prices although final sales generally were lower than on Tuesday.

Foreign obligations provided the bulk of the large declines and a number of them reached further all time low records, reflecting general apprehension over conditions abroad. German 5½'s of 1965 dropped to a ne wlow at 54½ but closed at 58 with a net loss of 1 point. The 7's of 1949 slumped to 79¾, another all time bottom price, but recovered to 83 which represented a net loss of 3¼ points for the day.

Sharp losses were scored by various German municipal, provincial and corporate issues. That the selling pressure was not exclusive to this group appeared from the unusual activity and lower prices in Italian 7's, Kreuger and Toll 5's, Paris-Lyons Mediterranean 6's and 7's, Rome 6½'s, Shinyetsu Electric 6½'s, United Kingdom 5½'s, Szechoslovak 8's of 1951 and of 1952 and Belgian 6's.

Railroad loans scored many of the largest losses among domestic obligations. But the declines, except among the more speculative issues, were principally fractional.

CHICAGO WHEAT SHATTERS LOW PRICE RECORDS

Rebounds More Than a Cent a Bushel; Late Buying Sweeps Pit Clean

CHICAGO, Ill., July 15.—(By John P. Boughan, Associated Press market editor)—Shattering all bottom price records for wheat future delivery contracts in Chicago, the market today quickly rebounded more than a cent a bushel. Late buying swept the pits clean of offerings, and every kind of grain closed at a substantial advance. Tremendous outpouring of newly-harvested wheat, together with disturbed European financial conditions, did much to pull prices down, but many traders had apparently been waiting to purchase in a hurry whenever the market struck a new all-time bottom.

Wheat closed unsettled, ⅝ to 1 cent higher, corn 1⅛ to 2⅜ up, oats showing ⅝ to ⅞ gain, and provisions 12 to 15 cents down.

FOREIGN TRADE OF CANADA SLIM SO FAR IN '31

In June Loss in External Trade Is Over 63 Million Dollars

OTTAWA July 15 (CP)—Canada's foreign trade continued light in the second quarter of the year. A statement today from the national revenue department shows the following comparative figures for the three months ended June 30, 1930 and 1931.

	1930	1931
Domestic exports	$ 96,707,977	148,116,741
Exports of foreign origin	5,800,150	2,722,202
Imports for consumption	264,498,637	17,252,198

In the month of June alone, the loss in external trade was $63,100,000. Figures are as follows:

	June, 1930	June, 1931
Domestic exports	$ 78,703,281	$ 53,348,421
Exports of foreign origin	1,832,966	971,424
Imports for consumption	91,543,981	53,601,418

For the three months the largest decrease in exports was in newsprint which declined in value from 33,461,000 to $28,650,000. The loss in wheat was almost as heavy, from $38,067,000 to $33,910000 due to lower prices although more wheat was exported. In several other items not so important in volume of shipments, the reductions were about as large. These were unmanufactured copper, planks and boards, wheat flour and wood pulp.

EXCHANGE RATE BREAK GENERAL

POUND STERLING FALLS TO THE LOWEST POINT SINCE SPRING OF 1925

LONDON, July 15 (AP)— The pound sterling fell below $4.84 today on the New York exchange—the lowest point recorded since Great Britain returned to the gold standard in the spring of 1925.

Similar slumps in sterling occurred in Paris, Amsterdam, on the Swiss exchange and in other continental financial centers.

The downward movement was attributed to the general calling home of capital by the United States and European countries due to world uncertainty and anxiety, to cover commitments in central Europe.

Big movements in the bullion market followed upon these developments. The Bank of England sold 863,883 pounds sterling (roughly $4,120,000) in bar gold, mainly for France and set aside 2,000,000 sovereigns ($10,000,000). Despite these and other developments arising from the German situation the city as a whole remained tranquil.

Heavy shipments of gold including 5,000,000 soverigns ($25,000,000) from Australia, are on the way to England and complete confidence was felt in the Bank of England directors and other financial leaders whose policy—criticized in the past as too rigidly conservative—was seen to be bearing fruit.

The possibility of a rise in the bank rate tomorrow as a protective measure against the loss of gold was, however, widely discussed.

A HIGHLY SENSITIVE INSTRUMENT

The eye, extraordinarily sensitive though it otherwise can be, experiences great difficulty in discriminating between white and nearly white substances. To this end, an instrument has been designed wherein the eye of the observer has been replaced by a photo-electric cell, which enables the instrument to measure accurately the extremely small differences between "white" surfaces. By this means differences inappreciable to the eye of even a trained observer can be detected.

MONTREAL CURB DROPS SLIGHTLY

Barley is the hardiest of all cereals and can be grown through a greater range in climate than any other. Its production dates from the most ancient times when it was used principally as an article of food, but as the years progressed the uses became varied. The production of barley ranks third among the cereal crops of the Dominion in acreage and total yield and second in average yield per acre.

Sugar Demands Heavy

Three Cars Arrive and Two on Way for Preserving Season Smoked Meat Prices Up With Demand, Preserving Plums on List

Now that the canning season is well advanced, sugar is taking an important place in the wholesale market here. During the past week three cars rolled to the city and two more are in transit. Wholesalers stated yesterday that although no recent advance had been made in the price of this produce, one was expected. A 15-cent advance in the price of raw sugar and a 20-cent advance in the price of granulated sugar on the New York market, and an advance of 10 cents in the price of granulated sugar on the eastern Canada market perhaps gives rise to this belief.

With the increase in the demand for sugar is the steady advance in the movement of all other summer commodities. Noticeable among these are canned milk and cereals. Two cars of canned milk and one of corn flakes arrived this week to meet the increasing demand caused by the prevailing hot weather. A car of salt was also received by wholesale grocers.

MEAT PRICES UP

During the past week, the affect of the weather was noticeable on the meat markets. A tightening up of the sales of cooked and smoked meats sent the prices up one cent. A similar advance was also noted in the price of beef. The local egg supply slipped another notch resulting in a five per cent increase on the importation of prairie eggs.

Preserving apricots were added to the fruit list this week and local raspberries are now being offered. California plums and peaches are also selling. Car arrivals included one of bananas.

Flour and feed wholesalers received a car of salt during the week as well as the one received by the grocers, and a mixed car of flour and wheat.

CRESTON RASPS, STRAWBERRIES SELL CALGARY

Prices for Rasps Low; Aphis Hurts Pea Vines, Fraser Valley

VICTORIA, B. C., July 15—Our markets representative has just returned from a trip to Lulu Island and Fraser valley points says the market news letter, department of agriculture at Victoria. Reports of heavy hay crop being harvested and the hot dry spell has injured the pea vines which are now heavily infected with aphis. This will reduce the cannery supplies greatly. Rain has prevented the pickers from cleaning the loganberry patches and many of the berries are too ripe for canning before they can be harvested. There is a noticeable increase in Pole beans which are displacing the dwarf varieties. Celery is now ready for prairie shipments. Some very fine Montmorency cherries, loganberries and raspberries are being shipped from Chilliwack to the prairie markets and the pack is equal to the best that has gone out this year. The potato yield is heavy with quality good.

CALGARY

Monday morning L.C.L. raspberries were over 1600 crates including direct shipments. Over 400 of the above came from Salmon Arm. All arrived in good condition but the heavy over-supply, for Monday, had a bad effect on prices. Brokers made every effort to maintain Saturday's price of $3 per crate but lack of demand quickly sent prices skidding. A low of $2.35 was reached and all shipments were billed out at this price. In addition to above shipments from the west 130 crates of raspberries arrived on the Creston train. These were in good condition but were sold on the same basis as the others, which are costing the jobber $2.10 and reselling at $2.35. Very few loganberries are being received. A few strawberries are arrivig mostly from Creton and costing the jobber $3.50 per crate. A few Bings are still arriving and selling at $2.75 to $3. Some Lamberts were jobbed this morning at $2 on account of condition. The potato market is very unsettled. Jobbers are selling both Okanagan reds and coast whites at $1.50 per cwt. Victoria hot-house tomatoes were quoted on Saturday at $2.50 and selling today at $2.35 to jobbers and reselling at 25c advance. The trade is waiting for the B. C. field product. Okanagan celery is very small and California has still the edge on quality. Weather hot and dry.

Ottawa to Investigate Price of B. C. Potatoes

VICTORIA, July 15—Immediate investigation into the price of British Columbia potatoes on the prairies was promised by the Dominion department of agriculture today. In a wire to the provincial government the department said it would look into the protests of the British Columbia authorities against the sale of local potatoes to prairie consumers at prices said to represent too great a "spread."

Officials of the market branch of the provincial department of agriculture here today noted the reply of Winnipeg dealers that a date difference accounted for the alleged spread from $28.50 to $70 per ton, between the cost of potatoes on the coast plus freight, and the prices quoted wholesale at Winnipeg on July 3.

CLEAN UTENSILS WILL PREVENT THE SOURING OF MILK

Every warm spell sees hundreds of farmers lose money through milk being sour on arrival at the milk plant. How can such losses be avoided?

Nowadays it is generally realized that souring of milk results from excessive bacterial growth. Consequently the first step is obviously to protect the milk from contamination with bacteria, especially from the two main sources—dirty cows and unsterilized utensils and equipment Milking machines in particular add large numbers of bacteria when not properly cared for. The shipping can, although generally leaving the dealers in good condition, when next used often contains enormous numbers fo bacteria growing in the traces of moisture remaining inside. For destroying this growth, as well as for sterilizing the other metal utensils, a hypochlorite rinse is most effective, as tests conducted by the division of bacteriology, central experimental farm, Ottawa, have shown.

Since even the most carefully handled milk contains some bacteria, it is necessary to check their growth by cooling to below 50 degrees Fahrenheit and holding below that point. Promptness in cooling helps conserve the natural "bacterial growth restraining" property of freshly drawn milk, which is of real protective value where milk encounters high temperatures during shipment. Probably the greatest single aid to cooling is a well-insulated covered tank. Such a tank, with either electric refrigeration or an ample supply of ice, is far more efficient than the old-style open concrete tank, saving an enormous amount of ice and labor, besides cooling the milk more rapidly and thus improving the keeping quality. The provisions of such a cooling tank is good insurance against losses from sour milk.

C. P. R. TO MAKE DRIVE AT ONCE ON TRANSIENTS

Hoboes Riding the Rods to Be Picked Indiscriminately by Police

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 15.—A determined drive on transients who steal rides on freight and passenger trains in order to move from one part of the country to another was started today by the Canadian Pacific railway in an effort to curb what has become a serious abuse of railway services, particularly in the west.

Sixteen arrests on the lower mainland in the last few days represents but a small fraction of the total number engaged in the dangerous business of stealing rides, according to C. A. Cotterell, general superintendent of the British Columbia district.

Railway train crews backed by C. P. R. police and with the cooperation of municipal and provincial police forces, have been instructed to do all in their power to prevent persons from stealing rides. Train crews already have shown willingness to cooperate with the railway management in this regard by carefully checking their trains at intervals, ridding them of non-paying passengers before proceeding.

NOT ALL INCORRIGIBLES

A significant feature of the present wave of ride-stealing lies in the fact that many who indulge in the practice are not incorrigible hoboes. In many cases, on the contrary, they are unemployed workers travelling in search of jobs. Two 18-year-old girls are among those waiting sentence after being convicted of trespassing.

Unfortunately, however, it is not unusual to find in the possession of persons caught stealing rides enough money to buy their fares. This fact, coupled with the risk to life and limb to the "passengers" themselves, the menace they represent to safe and efficient handling of trains and the danger of their tampering with goods in transit, makes the situation serious.

In serving notice today that every effort will be made to arrest offenders and see that they are brought speedily to justice, Canadian Pacific officials also point out that little is to be gained by indiscriminate ride-stealing from one place to another. Governments of the various provinces have notified the public that they will not be responsible for transients arriving in search of work while urban and rural municipalities have made the same declaration in self defence.

Dominion Will Not Appoint a Federal Wheat Board in '31

OTTAWA, Ont., July 15.—(CP)—The Dominion government will not appoint a federal wheat board, Premier R. B. Bennett today told the house of commons. This attitude has been made known to the premiers of the three prairie provinces, together with "an alternative suggestion." Replying to John Vallance, Liberal, North Battleford, the prime minister said no reply had been received by the Dominion on the suggested alternative.

Fines of $50 Are Paid to the City

Fines aggregating $50 were paid into the city coffers Tuesday, when Oscar Swanson and Albert Kelson, who were brought before Magistrate William Brown in city police court on charges of being intoxicated in a public place, both pleaded guilty. They were fined $25 each, with the alternative of 21 days in jail, and paid their fines.

The followig visitors from Nelson were present: Mary Phillips, Shirley Boomer, Queenie German, Reg. German, Ted Chase, and Jack Meeks. Others from Trail were: Fred Attaway, Alex McKendrick, Leonard Richardson, and Kit Wilson. Camp dwellers have been enjoying a series of Musical Appreciation talks by Miss Anne Fountain, demonstrated by selected records and by charts.

Miss Louise Foster has aroused a deeper and more intelligent interest in China today by her challenging series of four addresses at the camp fire.

Baseball, swimming, volley ball, boating, and hikes up the mountain have been daily recreational features.

Moving pictures were greatly enjoyed on London, Paris, previous camps and glacier scenes, and the life of Christ.

Rev. George Kinney made this valuable contribution to the camp program.

Interesting features on various nights were playlets. The Leewa tribe presented the tragedy entitled "The Fatal Guest." The Meneseno tribe staged t hree stunts: "Ticket Office Scene", "The Egg Sale", and the "Chinese Bargain."

The camp paper presented on alternate nights is enlightening, clever and humorous. J. D. McDonald and Miss J. McInnis are the editors.
