BRITAIN PUTS CHECK ON ALL INDIAN PLANS

Ordinances Deal With Every Nationalistic Phase

CITIZENS ARE GIVEN WARNING

Arrests and Searches May Be Made Without Warrants

BOMBAY, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The The government's strict ordinances dealing with every phase of nationalist activity were in effect throughout all India today.

New and sweeping special decrees, covering the whole Bombay presidency, including the province of Sind, outlawed 500 nationalist organizations, including anti-drink leagues, spinning schools and boys' boarding schools.

CITIZENS WARNED

All citizens were warned they might be sentenced to two years hard labor for peaceful picketing, persuading anyone not to pay taxes, boycotting British goods or public servants, or contributing funds to the nationalist cause.

Other ordinances, operative in all India, empowered the authorities to fine children for nationalist activities, the fines being collectible from their parents. Collective fines may be imposed on whole villages and towns.

The authorities may make arrests, raids and searches without warrants, or order the imprisonment of persons without trial. They may control public utility services, posts, telegraphs, railroads and steamships, and exercise the right of confiscation of property.

Banks, retail stores and insurance and shipping companies suffered a serious slump in trade. Nearly all Hindu stores, schools and colleges remained closed in mourning for the arrest of Mahatma Gandhi, the nationalist leader.

Famous Flier Crashes to His Death

Dale "Red" Jackson Unable to Free Self From Plane

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 6 (AP)—Dale "Red" Jackson, daredevil of the skies and co-holder of the world's endurance flying record, plunged to his death at Municipal airport here today, in view of hundreds of persons who watched him stunt a small amphibian plane 3000 feet above the ground.

Jackson had just completed an inside loop when the horrified spectators below, inspecting final preparations fo tomorrow's opening of the all-American air races, saw a wing fall away from the plane.

SECOND WING GOES

The plane tipped over to the side and slipped into its fatal descent. Then the second wing fell away.

The crowd watched for Jackson to jump from the pilot's seat with his parachute, but he apparently was unable to get clear.

The wingless plane crashed to the ground about a mile from the stand for judges of the air races. One wing soared away for several blocks before landing.

An ambulance rushed to the spot and drivers found Jackson's body in the pilot's seat. His right hand clutched the ring of his parachute cord.

The document also declared the arrest in India of Mahatma Gandhi and Vithalbhai Patel, president of the national congress, made it plain the government was "embarking on a blundering policy which will commit the people of Great Britain to the repression of 300,000,000 people in India, which can only end in disaster."

Finance Minister Makes Statement Concerning Relief

NO CHANGES TO PRESENT SCHEME

Conversations With Premier Bennett Bring Nothing New

VANCOUVER, Jan. 6—Reduction of expenditures all along the line is to be the watchword of the provincial government from now on, Hon. J. W. Jones, provincial minister of finance, announced here Wednesday. Mr. Jones was passing through the city on his return to Victoria from Calgary where he had an interview with Premier Bennett.

Drastic economies will be put into effect immediately, Mr. Jones stated. Government employees in every department face salary reductions and whatever possible governmental services will be eliminated. The minister was not prepared to state just which services would be eliminated, pending consultation with his colleagues in the capital, but stated definitely that no department will be overlooked when the axe descends.

NOT PREPARED TO DISCUSS FURTHER

Neither was Mr. Jones prepared to discuss details of other economies he proposes to institute but he declared "they will be drastic."

Those economies will not only be carried out during the current fiscal year, which ends March 1, but will be continued into the next fiscal year, he added.

By means of his proposed economies, Mr. Jones hopes it will not be necessary yet for further increases in taxation. He could not promise that taxes will not be increased, however.

Exemption of the so-called Jones supertax, the one per cent tax which the province deducts weekly from salary paid in this province, from the federal and provincial income taxes does not seem likely. Mr. Jones did not think such exemption would be allowed, He stated, however, that he had not so far given any ruling in the matter. He regarded the question of exemption on the supertax as a minor moment, however.

His conversation with the premier in Calgary, he explained, had actually been a continuation of his last conference with the prime minister

CHINESE PORT FALLS BEFORE JAPANESE ARMY

Great Outlet for Manchurian Products Goes to Japan Without Struggle

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The Port of Hulutao, south of Chinchow on the Gulf of Liaotung, which Governor Chang Hsueh-Liang planned to turn into a great outlet for the products of Manchuria, was captured without resistance today by the Japanese.

Japanese army headquarters explained the occupation was part of the campaign to suppress banditry in south Manchuria and that the larger question of the port's future must depend on negotiations in which the Mukden government of Tsang Shi-yi probably will be considered heir to the equity of Chang Hsueh-Liang who was deposed as governor of Manchuria by Japanese troops.

Already, however, influential Japanese are urging that Hulutao be included in the Japanese-controlled communications system for all Manchuria in which the ports of Dairen, Seishin and Hulutao would share in handling the outflowing products of the province.

JAIL-BREAKERS STILL AT LARGE

Believe Three Oakalla Convicts Have Already Crossed the Border

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 6—A three-day search by provincial police, members of the Vancouver city force and constables from surrounding municipalities has failed to develop any real clue to the whereabouts of William Bagley, Gordon Fawcett and Frank Sorge, three of the five men still at large following last night's jail break.

The belief is now held that the three men got across the Fraser river near New Westminster and made their way over the international boundary. Police authorities in the state of Washington are cooperating in the search.

Meantime Attorney-General R. H. Pooley announced from Victoria today that Oakalla prison will be completely overhauled and made proof against further escape of criminals. He stated that a complete set of new locks, new and heavier steel bars throughout the jail would be installed and that completion of a high wall already started around the prison would be proceeded with.

While the search for the escaped prisoners was going on, Vancouver police were active this morning in clearing up what they believe to be a center of petty burglaries.

They wounded two men who fled when apprehended, and arrested eight others. All had headquarters in an apartment on Comox street. The wounded men are George Thompson, alias Johnston, and Dan Driver. Both are expected to recover.

Most of the arrested men were charged with vagrancy.

MARRIAGE A "PERSONAL MATTER" WITH LAWYER

VANCOUVER, Jan. 6—G. L. Fraser, one of the Vancouver lawyers who were criticized by justices of the British Columbia court of appeal at its session in Victoria yesterday, has an important reason for his desire not to appear before the court until next week.

He is to be married on Friday evening to Miss Yvonne Dreyfus of Vancouver. This is the "personal matter" advanced by Cleve White of Victoria as the reason why Mr. Fraser desired that cases in which he was counsel be set for hearing later.

Mayor Taylor, of Vancouver, Attends the First Council Meeting of the Year in a Invalid Chair; Presides Facing Ceiling

Unique Ceremony in the History of Canadian Municipal History

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 6—Mayor Louis D. Taylor, lying motionless in an invalid chair, covered by a heavy grey blanket, his eyes looking upward to the ceiling, presided at the inaugural sitting of the 1932 city council of Vancouver today, and swore in six aldermen-elect. It was a scene probably unique in the municipal history of Canada.

The chief magistrate, a dynamic figure throughout his long civic career, was making his first public appearance since he was stricken with a severe illness last July.

Characteristically indomitable, he had promised from his bed in St. Paul's hospital on Christmas day that he would preside at today's meeting. And shortly before noon he left the institution in a wheel chair red necktie which has become a tradition during his seven terms as mayor, blazing from his chest. He was taken by ambulance to the city hall where sidewalks were cleared as a crowd leaned forward to catch a glimpse of him, and then taken by elevator to the fifth floor council chamber where he was wheeled to an especially enlarged dias behind his desk. Two baskets of Crimson flowers were placed in front of him.

The mayor told the aldermen and the crowd chamber that beginning Monday, he would visit the city hall for two hours every other day to perform his duties. He said the disease which had robbed him of the

FIND CHARRED BODY OF PILOT

ELKINS, W. Va., Jan. 6. (AP)—Wedged in the cockpit of his wrecked plane, the body of Lieut. E. H. Bobbitt, missing army pilot, was found today on one of the highest peaks of the Cheat mountains.

The body was charred almost beyond recognition. The plane, with a broken wing, was badly burned.

The ship apparently struck a tree on Pool's Knob and crashed bottom down, in the bushes. The peak where Bobbitt met his death rises almost 4000 feet.

JONES STATES MORE CUTS TO BE MADE SOON

in Ottawa. At that time indisposition of Mr. Bennett had terminated the conference before discussions were completed.

While in Calgary Mr. Jones stated he had presented the premier with a picture of conditions within British Columbia. The entire financial situation had been reviewed.

No changes had been made in relief arrangements between the Dominion and the province, he stated, either was the question of retirement of British Columbia debentures in New York discussed.

"As a matter of fact," Mr. Jones stated, "British Columbia has no debentures coming due in New York prior to December, 1932."

Under the arrangement with Ottawa some $7,000,000 to $7,500,000 will be spent with this province on relief measures, Mr. Jones explained.

For unorganized territories, $3,250,000 has been allotted and for municipalities, $2,750,000. This sum of $6,000,000 is to be expended upon relief work. In addition, the minister added, direct relief contributions will be allotted to unorganized territories on a basis of 50-50 between the Dominion and the province, while within municipalities each of the Dominion, province and municipality will pay one-third. While the amount to be used for direct relief has not yet been fixed, Mr. Jones estimates it will run between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000.

Mr. Jones discussed with the premier in Calgary arrangements for advances from Ottawa to Victoria of payments under the relief measures. Already, he stated, Ottawa has forwarded to Victoria, $1,300,000 for municipalities.

The province has spent $3,000,000 to date on relief measures in unorganized territories, including the work camps.

Most of the work camps, he continued, are located in unorganized territories. Cost of construction of the work camps, including material and equipment, he stated, was less than $500,000. How much has been spent on work done by the men in the camps, in allowances and construction costs, is at present being computed by the accountants, Mr. Jones said, and he has not yet received a report.

OTTAWA TO AID ALBERTA CITIES IN RELIEF WORK

Will Do So if Province Agreeable; Government to Consider Matter

CALGARY, Alta., Jan. 6 (CP)—The Dominion government will aid the cities of Alberta in financing approved relief works this year if the provincial government agrees to the arrangement, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett told the mayors of four cities at a conference here today.

The Dominion government would aid in financing relief work, the prime minister said, on the understanding that the cities would give the provincial authorities collateral in the shape of short term treasury notes for their percentage of the cost. Premier J. E. Brownlee of Alberta, who was in attendance, agreed to take the proposal under consideration.

The mayors were told by the Dominion premier that the government could not accord cities assistance in financing capital expenditures.

Jack Burns Star for the Maple Leafs; Play Clean, Ragged and Fast

Deadly accuracy in shooting was the downfall of the Leafs in the first game of the intermediate hockey program at the rink last night when the Fairview club eked out a 3-0 win for the team in an "anybody's" game. The ice was terribly chippy and spills and falls were numerous throughout. Fairview were tired before they went on the ice, having just returned from playing last night at Slocan City. Features of the evening were "tail spins" and "falling leafs" performed by both teams as each endeavored to overstate the bumps and lumps on the ice. Hughie Horswill was especially adept at tail spinning and caused much mirth in the small crowd that was present with his antics, while A. Moore and E. Reisterer did well with the falling leaf act.

Both teams exchanged blows as play opened with a bang. Things looked good until Maxwell Jr. got a stray stick in his eye and had to leave the ice for a rest period. After 10 minutes of fast play Albert Farenholtz scored on Dolphin with a shot that Dolphin didn't see. "Cub" Burns soloed, went through the Fairview team but was upset by Horswill at their defence. Close checking kept play well in the center ice for the rest of the period Fairview assuming the offensive.

FAIRVIEW "LAYS" FOR THE ICE

In the beginning of the second period the fun started as the players commenced to flip, flop and fall, until it became a nuisance to any combination plays that were attempted. After Waterer almost knocked Dolphin down with a timid shot, Clark and Stirzaker combined nicely but Stirzaker was not "there" to receive the pass from Clark when there was no one to beat except Bishop. Bishop saved from Reisterer. Horswill got through on a solo and almost beat Dolphin. Wilf Lauritz put the Fairview team two up on the Leafs when he scored in a melee in front of the Leaf's goal with but two minutes of the period left.

BURNS IN SNAPPY SOLO RUSHES

As the play resumed the Leafs forced and play became slow and ineffective. Maxwell, returning to the ice from a rest, accidently potted one at Bishop but Bishop was on. Clark dumped Waterer and got a minute. Burns kept the fans on their toes when he made rush after rush only to be tripped at the blue line or bottled up by the Fairview defence. Horswill was tripping Burns consistently and was unnoticed by the referee. Clark penetrated the whole Fairview team and as he was about to shoot he was tripped by Horswill. The Leafs were hovering in the Fairview goal mouth and it looked as if they were going to score. Gordon Roynon got the last tally when he scored the rebound from Horswill's shot at Dolphin. Burns again menaced Bishop but Bishop was right there.

The game was clean throughout except for minor penalties for tripping but Horswill got by unnoticed quite often from the eye of the referee with this offence.

Maxwell Jr. and Bishop were the stars for Fairview while Jack "Cub" Burns starred for the Leafs. This player tried hard and deserved a score but luck was not with the Fairview goal.

The teams were:

Fairview—T. Bishop, goal; Horswill and Ringrose, defence; Waterer, Ramsden, Roynon, Lauritz and Maxwell Sr. and Jr.

Maple Leafs—Dolphin, goal, Stirzaker and Burns, defence; Clark, Bird, A. Moore, H. Moore, Reisterer.

CRANBROOK ENDS WELL DECLARES MAYOR ROBERTS

Tax Collections Good; Policing Costs City Less, Aid Jobless

CRANBROOK, B. C., Jan. 6.—An enlightening talk on civic affairs in Cranbrook was given by Mayor T. M. Roberts at this week's session of Rotary. Mr. Roberts dealt with administration of affairs the past year, stating that the city was in a fortunate situation in that the sinking fund had not been touched, and that 85 per cent of the total taxes had been collected.

Estimated revenue from taxes for 1931 had been $74,804.13, taxes collected being $64,670.89. The city had kept well within the estimates arrived at for the past year.

Of particular interest were his statements regarding the expenditures for the policing of the city under the provincial constables. Expenses for this department in 1931 were $6269, as against $9,311.26 for the old city regime in 1930. Fines in the police department were $1386.20, as against $1883.25 in 1930. This is largely accounted for by the fact that many given their choice of paying a fine or going to jail are forced by hard times to choose the latter course.

An outline of the city's unemployment relief program for the year was given. Of these expenditures the federal government had paid 50 per cent of the labor costs. The original program had been for $14,000 expenditure, the additional program calling for $9500 extra. This had been used in sewerage extension, the improvement of the Slaterville water system, and street work.

During November and December direct relief had been given to 58 persons, with 186 dependents. Mayor Roberts concluded with wishing the members of the club a happy new year and continued prosperity.

N. A. A. Wallinger, provincial government agent, was introduced and welcomed as a new member.

POINT OF LAW INTERESTING IN TRAIL'S COURT

Turik Guilty Selling Interdict; Not Necessary Prove Guilty Mind

TRAIL, B. C., Jan. 6.—When Mike Turik of Trail was fined $300 and costs in Trail police court by Magistrate Noble Binns for selling liquor to an interdict the prosecution withdrew a similar charge against Mike Turik sr., as owner and occupant.

The decision of the magistrate was on an interesting point of law. Turik jr. was charged under section 43 of the Government Liquor act with sell g beer in a beer parlor to P. LeDuc, an interdict. Mike Turik sr., father, was also charged as owner and occupant.

Magistrate Binns in his summary found that it was not necessary to prove the men's rea or guilty mind under the government act.

The Turik case was adjourned on Monday after evidence had been heard. On Tuesday argument was presented by counsel and the decision given.

The defence, represented by H. W. McInnes, first dealt with the evidence, pointing out that there were certain discrepancies in the evidence of the interdict. The magistrate interrupted to point out that the defence had not shown that the sale was made prior to the warning given by the witness, H. W. Dunster, to the accused. Mr. McInnes then proceeded to show that the interdict, Leduc, was not known to the accused and that he could not therefore be held guilty, citing several cases on this point.

R. J. Clegg, counsel for the prosecution, argued that the prosecution had shown that Leduc was an interdict, that the accused had notice of the interdiction order and that beer had been sold by the accused to the interdict on December 23, and on this set of facts that the accused should be convicted, as the intention of the legislature as shown in the object and scope of the act in absolutely prohibiting such transactions, deprived the accused of the defence of men's rea. In other words, it was not necessary to prove a guilty mind in the accused, or that he knew Leduc to be an interdict. Once the sale was made, the accused had committed an offence, whether or not he knew Leduc was an interdict.

In support of this contention Mr. Clegg cited decisions of the British Columbia court of appeal and a New Brunswick case.

Police Magistrate Noble Binns thereupon convicted the accused and fined him $300 and costs. In view of this penalty the prosecution withdrew the information against Mike Turik sr., as owner and occupant.

MAN WANTED SINCE 1924 IS CAUGHT, VAGRANCY CHARGE

Disappeared Eight Years Ago When Alleged to Have Stolen Articles

Disappearing in 1924 after he was alleged to have stolen a gold watch and chain and a locket, valued at $150, Paul Evanikov was arrested in Nelson Tuesday by Sergt. Alex Stewart, on a charge of vagrancy and living by gaming. The police, acting on information that Evanikov was doing house prowling, arrested him, and he will appear in city police court this morning before Magistrate William Brown.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Evanikov in 1924 charging him with stealing a gold watch and chain and a Knight of Pythias locket charm from Carl Johnson at the Klondyke hotel. He disappeared, but the watch was later returned by Chief of Police B. Downes of Trail when he recovered it from a Chinaman there.

Circulars were sent through the whole country in an effort to effect a capture, but Evanikov escaped. This charge, however, cannot be proceeded with against Evanikov, owing to the fact that of the two Chinamen who could identify him, one is in China and the other is dead.

INDIAN GOVERNMENT BATTLES AGAINST BENGAL TERRORISTS

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 5.—(CP)—The government of India lost no time in taking the firm action against terrorism forecast by Lord Lothian, under-secretary for India, in the house of lords. Lord Willingdon, viceroy of India, signed an ordinance giving drastic powers to the Bengal government and magistracy and these were shortly extended to the united provinces and the northwest frontier.

Mahatma Gandhi shortly after his return at the end of December asked the viceroy whether the ordinance meant the end of peaceful relations between the government and the congress party, but a few hours before this communication was sent Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald from Lossiemouth outspokenly denounced Indian agitators as selfish blockaders in the path of Indian progress "An enlightened India would not only give them no count ance but would turn and rend them," the prime minister said

The extra powers are described by the Times of India as follows: "The ordinance so closely resembles the Irish Free State Permanent Repression act that its so e of inspiration is obvious. President Cosgrave's administration was faced this summer with much the same problem that confronts the authorities in Bengal, and the remedies applied in Ireland with the sanction of the Free State parliament suggests themselves as clearly suitable for India. Lord Willingdon's ordinance falls into two main parts, the first arming the executive with special powers for tracing and apprehending terrorists. The police are entitled to detain any suspect for 24 hours, one of the main objects of this provision being the temporary removal of terrorist spies. Wide rights of search, commandeering buildings, moveable property and vehicles, closing of thoroughfares and imposing fines on districts which aid terrorist gangs complete the extra powers granted in the chapter.

SPECIAL TRIBUNALS

"The second chapter closely follows Free State precedent by empowering the local government to set up special tribunals and magistrates for the trial of suspected terrorists, with the difference that whereas the Irish tribunals are purely military these in India will be composed of three judges of the high court. As in the Free States, there will be no appeal against any sentences passed by a tribunal; the high courts are totally excluded from interference with the special courts established under the ordinance.

"Nobody likes extra-legal methods; they place powers in the hands of the police which may be used. But desperate diseases call for desperate cures, and none can say that the situation in Bengal at the moment is anything but serious. Following a long series of dastardly crimes and the active existence of murder associations government officials in many districts go about in daily fear of their lives."

Boy Misses His Parents, Calls Cops; Stork Makes Rescue

HALIFAX, N. S., Jan. 6—'Twas a couple of nights after Christmas. All was quiet in the subterranean corridors of Halifax police station; the telephone rang with its customary suddenness.

A boy's voice asked:

"Say, would you mind sending some policemen out here to look for my mother and father? They left the house after midnight and haven't come back." It was then getting on in the small hours.

Hallifax police have been called on many times to look for errant sons and daughters, but this request for assistance in locating runaway parents created a precedent. Station Officer Howard Smith passed the word along to Sergeant Mitchell, who departed on the quest.

Again the phone rang. "All right, mister,"—it was the boy's voice again—"I just got a message from Pop. He's out at the Grace Maternity hospital with mother and a baby brother."

Sergeant Mitchell was called back.

BISHOPS CONSECRATED TO OFFICE

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 6.—Many a dim century of Episcopal history of the Christian church was reechoed in the colorful ceremonies at Christ Church cathedral today when Dean Robert John Renison, D. D., and Canon Arthur Henry Sovereign, D. D., were consecrated to the offices of bishop of Athabasca and of Yukon respectively in the presence of a congregation which taxed the capacity of the building.

Brightest Day in Weeks Is Enjoyed

Wednesday proved exceedingly pleasureable when the sun shone most of the day. About noon it was particularly bright and though hazy clouds seemed to hang on the horizon, they did not manager to dim the ardor of the sun.

The maximum temperature for the day rose to 36 but cooled off quickly toward dark. The minimum was 21.

His worship, who is perhaps 76 years of age—he will never give his exact years—grew weaker toward the end of his address today and he appeared tired, but as he left the chamber to return to the hospital, he smiled cheerfully and acknowledged with smiles the greetings of his friends.

In his augural address, after dealing with his civic program, the mayor said:

"We must have faith in ourselves. Have faith in the men you are working with, have faith in your city, have faith in your province, have faith in the Dominion, and have faith in the empire, which, when the end of the distress arrives, will come back stronger than ever. But above all, have faith in God, for without that none of us can accomplish what we desire."

CHAPTER THIRTY-EIGHT

Sunday morning at the country club.

Laurel—after her near tragedy—had spent the night there, according to the order of her doctor.

The burns were not serious. But she had had a shock and must stay where she was that night. In the morning Dr. Harvey would come in and have a look at her.

What had he thought of her?

Was she in love?

Was there any other name for this strange surge of emotion he aroused in her?

He was attracted to her. When she had regained consciousness and opened her eyes, she had seen a tenderness in his eyes and yet a fire, too, as he bent over her.

She'd foster that. She wanted him. Wanted to bring that light into his eyes again. Wanted him to belong to her.

Was all this love? She'd never felt the same for anybody before. It had been nothing but "B. U." . . . biological urge . . . with Roger.

Connie had stayed at the club all night too. In an adjoining room, with in the call of her daughter.

And Imogen, who adored to be "in" on everything had grabbed the excuse of her friend's accident and Connie's hysteria in order to be Connie's guest . . . because I simply wouldn't dream of leaving you.

She insisted on staying over night and of course in decency—although Connie didn't care for Imogen at all—Connie had to pay for her.

Connie was annoyed about the whole series of happenings.

Laurel and the good-looking Bruce Harvey—her guest—out in the darkness for goodness knows how long, and evidently flirting!

Thereafter, when chided, Laurel's impertinence to her mother . . .

Then the mad, Bacchanalian dance with Diaz, who was Connie's particular admirer.

That Laurel had looked beautiful in the fray, chiffon draperies didn't dispel the fact that she had danced hree-quarters naked!

Bold as brass she'd been, in her seductive postures. And Mr. Delahunt, and other's remarked that Laurel had drunk too many cocktails . . .

Like a moth she'd fluttered, literally and metaphorically, close to the fire . . . had danced provocatively close to young Harvey.

Her dress—if one could call it such—had gone a-blaze, and plunged the whole place into pandemonium.

Laurel's screams had sent Connie into hysteria. It had been a ghastly scene, and might have had a tragic denouement, if it hadn't been for the plucky, lightning-quick action of Bruce Harvey.

He'd burned his hands while beating out the blaze. Connie hoped that Laurel felt grateful to him.

Odd how—when she "came to"—Laurel didn't want her own mother near her . . . ?

She wanted to be alone with Bruce. A thought sped through Connie's brain—"Is Laurel in love with him?"

But Laurel had sneered at romance, many a time . . . laughed it to scorn . . . had classed all such feelings under the indelicate title of "biological urge."

B. U., these youngsters called it. Was that what Connie felt for . . . Diaz?

She looked at her wrist-watch. It was 7 a.m. She'd better go in and have a look at Laurel who might be awake.

Connie slipped into an orchid peignoir, with "mules" to match and walked through the communicating door.

"Hello, Mums! Got a cigarette?"

"Good morning, dear. Are you feeling better?"

"I feel fine, except for a nip here and there."

"Such a narrow escape! Imagine, Laurel, if you'd been—disfigured!"

"Don't be a scare cat!" But Laurel shivered.

If her beauty had been blotted out? What then? She'd nothing in the world to take its place. It would have been the end of everything.

Only yesterday morning, in one of the "tabloids" she'd read of a beautiful girl who'd been badly burned when out motoring.

The car she was riding in had crashed into something, and turned turtle.

The girl—a well-known artists' model—had been pinned under the wreckage.

But that wasn't all, bad as it was. The gas tank had exploded.

Flames had seared that lovely face, and burned the skin from that exquisite body.

But the girl didn't die, though that would certainly have been the best solution in the circumstances.

She was in a hospital six months. And she lived on. Lived—horribly disfigured!

This, though the plastic sugeons and the best brains of the country had worked over her.

They'd grafted skin . . . injected wax . . . and stitched, and sculptured.

One of her ex-employers had brought—for the surgeons' guidance—a little marble bust he had made of her.

They'd tried to follow that. Tried to shape the disfigured face into a semblance of its former exquisite contours.

In vain! Tragedy had triumphed over genius.

And now the girl, bereft of everything—for she'd been one of the type: "beautiful but dumb"—had to face life, hideous!

That might have happened to herself. She ought to be giving paeans of praise to the quick action of the doctor.

But—". . . gave one furiously to think"—according to the French saying.

Beyond her beauty—miraculously saved—Laurel told herself, she too, had nothing to offer.

Connie went back to bed, having provided Laurel with the necessary cigarettes, and adjuring her only to smoke one of them.

Laurel lay quietly, the morning sunshine athwart her.

Presently she dozed off. She awoke to voices immediately underneath her bed-head.

Came Diaz' tones. She heard him say, softly and albeit passionately;—"Darling, do not be angry with me! It is only you I loff . . . "

"You mean that? Honestly?" a woman murmured.

Good God! It was the voice of HER MOTHER!

EYEBROWS NOW CHANGE

This year of grace asks that the hand that makes up faces do it with delicacy, with restraint!

If you look about you, you will notice that eyebrows have changed their ways. No longer is the thin thread of plucked brows considered chic. There is a soft something about a more natural eyebrow that is more in the mood of this pleasing winter.

However, bushy eyebrows never were a boon to a woman and are not one today. If you have bushy eyebrows, they are apt to give you either too seriously heavy a look or too masculine a one. Have them thinned skillfully, by plucking.

Start with any eyebrows that crowd together over the nose and clear that part of your brow. A wide space between brows gives a woman the look of a placid creature. She can be nervous as a hawk, but if she keeps a placid look, what of it?

If your eyebrows hang down or stick up, have the wilder ones removed. The former make you look as if you are frowning, the latter as if everything startled you.

When you have your eyebrows properly reduced to normalcy, take them in hand and give them a suave look. Only brushing and oiling can do it. Do the oiling at night, the brushing at night and just before finishing your toilet in the morning. Castor oil is the best for them. If you object to it, olive oil is excellent, too.

The real reason for brushing eyebrows—and you will need a little eyebrow brush to do it—is to get all the powder out of them. The secondary and quite as important a reason is to curve them nicely. If your eyes are wide-spaced, try arching the brows approximately in the center. If your eyes are spaced together, make the arc highest just beyond the center, toward the outer edge.

A woman's whole expression can be changed by carefully groomed eyebrows.

Always empty the tea kettle in the morning and put fresh water in it before putting it on to boil for tea. It is unhealthy to use that which has stood all night.

Has Marvelous Escape From Death

RECOVERING FROM DISASTROUS PLANE CRASH

Three months ago news of the death of Capt. Thomas Phillips, shown above, was flashed following a glider crash. Relatives gathered at Elmira, N. Y., for the "funeral", and memorial wreaths piled up. Now at Walter Reed hospital in Washington, D. C., Captain Phillips, with a scrapbook full of accounts of his "death", is recovering and is learning to walk again, with the aid of crutches, after weeks spent in a cast. The crash cost him a fractured skull, fractured left foot and ankle, fractured and dislocated right ankle, crushed right hip, three broken ribs and a dislocated finger.

TWINS ATTEND PARTY TO MARK 80th BIRTHDAY

Mahone Bay, N.S., and Lunenburgh Men Celebrate Anniversary

LUNENBURG, N. S., Jan. 6.—Twin brothers, Captain David Mader of Mahone Bay and Stephen Mader of Lunenburg, were 80 years of age on December 26, so they celebrated the anniversary at a birthday party. The gathering was held at the home of Stephen Mader's daughter, Mrs. Charles Dauphinee, Lunenburg, and friends and relatives from near and far attended to extend congratulations.

The twins were born at Mader's Cove, Nova Scotia, on December 26, 1851, sons of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mader. They are the only surviving members of a family of six boys and a girl.

Early in life both Stephen and David followed the sea. David, who signed with the crew of a sailing ship when he was 13 years of age, rose rapidly to the position of captain and commanded vessels for many years. He retired 10 years ago and settled at Mahone Bay.

Stephen's sea going career started when he was 17 years of age. About 15 years ago he retired and took up farming at Mader's Cove. Recently he took up residence in Lunenburg with his younger daughter, Mrs. Dauphinee. Another daughter, Marion, is the wife of Captain John Westhaver of Lunenburg.

By strange coincidence the families of these twin brothers consisted of two daughters each, the older girls of both families being born in the same year, and the younger girls having birthdays in the same year. Captain David Mader's daughters are Flo (Mrs. Charles Welchman) of Carrivalo, Sask., and Miss Laura Mader at home.

For a number of years the twins have been celebrating their birthdays together, either at Lunenburg or Mahone Bay. Both are physically and mentally alert and take a keen interest in affairs of the communities in which they live.

The Beauty Box

by Helen Follett

Every week should be beautifying week, if a woman is going to defeat the old gent with the scythe and the long white whiskers. Won't do to skip the beauty chores, to put them off until tomorrow Once a week the hair needs washing, the nails an overhauling. Every night the scalp should be manipulated briskly for five minutes, the hair brushed and aired, the complexion given its fatty foods, the hands anointed with a healing lotion. It's a big order, but the rewards are wonderful.

By handing over to the beauty shop a small amount of money a gal can have her eyebrows and eyelashes dyed. Treatment takes only twenty minutes and is successful. Does away with the daily use of the old cake of mascara and the eyelash pencil. Dark brown is the right color, black will look artificial, too much like a streak of Indian ink. Dark brows bring out the color of the eyes, frame them, beautify them, put in the star shine.

Ordinary rosewater will serve as a powder base, if no other preparation is at hand. The way to coax makeup to stay put throughout a day of activity to is use some substance that will add moisture to the skin make powder stick like a friend and a brother. If cold cream is the medium, it must be wiped away thoroughly with tissue cleansers or a bit of old, soft Turkish toweling.

To gain weight, make it a practice to a bowiful of cream and milk thick with crackers every night at bedtime Top off luncheon and dinner with a glass of cream and milk, half and half. For breakfast lap up cereal, well sugared, and eat two soft boiled eggs. Slenderness is lovely to the eye, but scrawniness is anything but.

Tomato juice is a good bleach for hands that have become stained through contact with vegetables like potatoes or onions. Put it on with a bit of absorbent cotton and let dry. Fifteen minutes later give a quick massage with a creamy cosmetic.

CHEESE BEAN ROAST

One can kidney beans (about 2 cups), ½ pound cheddar cheese, 1-3 cup chopped onion, 1 tablespoon butter, 2 eggs, well beaten, ½ teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, ¾ cup buttered bread crumbs.

Drain beans. Mince beans and cheese. Saute onion in butter. Combine ingredients, add seasonings and eggs. Mould into loaf. Brush with melted utter, roll incrumbs, or pack into buttered dish and cover with buttered crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees F. for one hour, or until browned. Serve with tomato sauce. Serves six.

A COAT OF VARNISH

If you will give the new gift frames a coat of colorless varnish, the appearance will be the same and the frames will always be easy to clean.

Hats Write "Period" To Winter Styles

Flowers and Feathers Abound in Headgear as Modistes Turn to Past—Beret Takes Paris by Storm

PARIS, Jan. 6.—Modistes certainly have been delving into the very remote past for inspiration, ever since the Eugenie revival, now a matter of legend.

Hats that are modernized versions of Florentine pages' caps, flat-crowned, flower-trimmed shapes reminiscent of the beauties immortalized by Wateau, pert little marquis or tricorns are being offered by the leading hat creators at their mid-season collections. One thing is certain, and that is that next spring will see women wearing flowers and feathers to an even greater extent than at the present moment.

Momentarily, the beret has taken Paris by storm and the only thing that saves it from the early disappearance that was the lot of the Eugenie hat is that fact that every modiste is interpreting it in her own personal and therefore original fashion.

A black felt—with draped ermine is luxurious and chic.

BERETS USUALLY SMALL

Generally speaking, however, the beret remains on the small scale—any increase in bulk being especially avoided in hat fashions—and while it can leave more or less of the left side of the head uncovered it fits snugly and its fulness is generous enough to serve as a minute frame to the other side. The tendency, following a movement started by Rebouv, is to an impression of height at the back and trimmings are placed at the extreme left side or frankly at the back of the hat.

Florence Walton's Florentine beret is a direct copy of a page's cap, complete with the quill trimmings. It is made of velvet, like most of the berets seen at the moment, but there is a very supple felt hat that is equally popular for this type of hat and is just as easy to drape as the fabric. Fur bordered toques will be worn until January, but from then on the fur will be replaced by velvet and satin ribbon trimmings, usually in the shape of a quill, chou or bow, but always placed at the back.

Hair not longer than four inches, that can be softly waved and curled at the end, seems to be the rule these days. The roll worn low on the neck, fashionable last spring and summer, does not harmonize with the new "high in the back" hats, nor, of course, does the very short bob. And so far as Paris is concerned, the wind-blown haircut is rarely seen, and then only on the very young woman. The tendency is to achieve a soft frame for the face yet with the hair drawn back a little more than before.

A SPORTING TILT

For sports wear, although trimmed shapes are the smartest and only possible type of hat to adopt, the fashion is to wear them much more tilted on one side than heretofore and many of the younger women have taken to wearing fine mesh veils under the hat to retain that impeccable, well-groomed look.

The end-of-the-day dress has brought with it the restaurant or evening hat, or rather coiffure, for it seldom boasts of a brim. One of the prettiest models was created by Lemmonier. It consisted of plaited strands of velvet which formed a very open-work cap finished off at the extreme left side with a black velvet bow complete with loops. Still another, a Reboux creation, was fashioned also of the new finely ribbed velvet and finished off at the back with three 'minute birds' heads in white feathers.

BEAUTIFYING THE HOME

A reader friend has written to me for advice on planing a color scheme for an upstairs sitting room for which she already has a purple Chinese rug. She explains that the rug has a fairly wide gold border and is flecked with green and henna, too. I believe that unless the room is particularly sunny, the gold note should be stressed rather than the purple, for purple, although a lovely color, is a bit dark for all but the most sunny exposure. For instance I would advise gold shill rep overdrapes at the window, over cream net glass curtains. The divan couch (to which she refers in her letter) could be covered with tan rep and the cushions be of gold and also of green with a purple binding. The lamp shades should be of tan parchment (best for reading, in a much-used sitting room) but the table runners could be of purple velour, or of gold theatrical gauze.

I believe that a piece of lovely fabric wall hanging behind the couch might add to the room greatly. Although a few of us have old pieces of embroidery to frame, we may buy excellent reproductions of old pieces in the shops. One American manufacturer, they say, has in Europe employees who give their time in searching for old "documents" which he may produce in the same designs and colors.

Unless your fabric is old, or is of silk, you might bind it in gold instead of having it framed. In fact, even if you had a rare old piece of cloth—it would be better to hang it over a mantlepiece, instead of over a couch, where people's heads would touch it! Some women by large squares of fine chintz to hang behind a couch, as this may be kept clean. Possibly you can find such chintz in the colors of gold, green and purple? With the rest of the walls covered with the plain tan paper which you described in your letter, and with the couch cover unfigured, you could safely use a patterned wall fabric behind that couch, without fearing that you had so many figures in the room that they would "fight".

FIG SQUARES

One and one-half cups figs cut in small pieces, 1 cup granulated sugar, 3 eggs, 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon lmon juice.

Beat yolks of eggs until light. Beat in sugar and lemon juice. Add figs and flour, baking powder and salt mixed and sifted. Mix thoroughly and fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff. Spread the mixture thinly in an oiled and floured dripping pan. Bake 25 to 30 minutes in a moderate oven. Cut in squares and remove from pan. Roll in powdered sugar.

SPINACH AND EGGS AU GRATIN

Do Widows Play Fair or Are They Dangerous

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

An Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Have widows no code?

Do women who have been married feel no obligation to play fair in attracting men?

Is there an unacknowledged competition between married girls and widows, in which widows seize all the advantages?

These questions, I assure you, are not of my framing. The unscrupulous, man-devouring widow does not happen to have come under my own observation. But it may be that she exists. A surprising number of my correspondents think so.

We all know, of course, that most widows—and most widowers—wish to remarry; which is, by the way, an extremely flattering testimony to the desirability of the wedded state. And it is quite likely that a lonely young widow, encountering a man whom she could love, has more courage and initiative in putting over her idea than a mere girl could have.

The fact that she has been chosen as a man's lifelong mate, gives her confidence. Her experience of marriage has convinced her that she knows all men. Why, then, should she sit demurely in a corner, waiting, like the old-fashioned spinster, for the man to make a formal proposal? Why not, rather, help the poor tongue-tied creature to know his own mind, tell him quite plainly what he wants, bestow on him the blessing he has perhaps only dimly begun to desire?

But according to reports that are made to me, the widows of the present go much farther than this

"For a whole month," writes a young man who signs himself "Disillusioned", "I was deliriously happy. The most beautiful and charming girl in the world had promised to marry me. She had been married before, but the fact somehow gave her an extra fascination.

"Then one day we went for a drive. In the country, we stopped at the house of a relative of hers where she had parked her two children—children she had never mentioned to me—rough, ill-mannered little creatures of four and six. Knowing this, I could never face life with my fiancee."

"Disillusioned" needn't, of course, be so badly scared by his widow as he admits that he is. All that is necessary is to write her a letter, breaking the engagement and giving the true reason. He should avoid, from now on, any personal interview.

And we mustn't be so stupid as to blame any one widow for the fact that in the eyes of most men, a woman who has emerged from the experience of marriage has a certain "zip", a certain come-hither quality that the most adorable ingenue in the world must naturally lack.

Perhaps the best advice I can give the young girls, who have been complaining to me of late that good-looking widows were spoiling their fun or stealing their men, or introducing an element of unfairness into their common social life, is:

"Don't boycott the widow. Don't start a feud where none exists. Don't let the boys you know see that you are jealous of the widow; that you want to shut her out of things.

On the contrary, be as nice to her as you can. Study what makes her attractive. Is her talk interesting? Does she dress carefully? Is she clever at organizing good times? It is even possible, you see, that you may learn something from her.

CHOCOLATE DROPS

Two squares bitter chocolate, 1 can condensed milk, 3 cups shredded cocoanut, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 2 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon baking powder.

Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder and combine with cocoanut. Melt chocolate over hot water. Add condensed milk and prepared cocoanut. Stir until thoroughly blended. Drop from teaspoon onto an oiled cookie sheet and bake in a moderately hot oven for 20 minutes. Fig squares are another delicious cookie.

Just before midnight the grand march was played and during that novelties, such as whistles, caps and all sorts of noisemakers were distributed.

Then the New Year was ushered in to the tune of "Auld Lang Syne", after which pandemonium seemed to break loose as the noise and hearty good wishes of everyone seemed to mingle. The orchestra played wonderful music and the supper was excellent, so that everybody pronounced it one of the best dances ever held in New Denver.

JOHN CAESAR IS GRAND OLD MAN C. P. R. SERVICE

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 6—John Caesar, 81, of 5947 Yew street, Vancouver, who as employee and pensioner has been connected with the Canadian Pacific railway for more than 60 years remains the "grand old man of the C. P. R.", but William James Grant, of Hamilton, Ont., has just given him a close run for the honor.

A few weeks ago when a Vancouver newspaper, referring to Mr. Caesar's "jubilee" pension cheque from the railway, representing 60 years of association with the company, said he held the distinction of being holder of the longest service record it raised a storm of protest from railway veterans right across the Dominion.

There were numerous claimants of the "oldest employee" title but official records still give Mr. Caesar a one-year edge over Mr. Grant, the runner-up.

The records show that Mr. Grant, who, from 1911 till 1930, was the popular district freight agent of the C. P. R. in Hamilton, entered the company's service in the ambitious city in 1883, serving continuously thereafter till Jan. 1, 1930, when he was retired on pension. This gives him 47 years' active service and 49 years including pension time.

Mr. Caesar, records show, entered the service of Toronto Grey & Bruce railway, later acquired by the C. P. R. in 1873 and continued with the Canadian Pacific until retired in 1917, a total of 44 years' continuous service. To this, however, he added another four years following official retirement by acting as chief gardener during summer season, thereby bringing his total to 48 years and his total time, including pension time, to slightly more than 60 years.

Clothing Needed

There is great and urgent need of clothing of all kinds at the city welfare depot, as for almost two weeks no additional clothing has been turned in by citizens anxious to assist those who are out of work and unable to keep properly covered during the winter weather.

Citizens up to this time have responded very generously to appeals by Capt. A. Cartmell of the Salvation Army, and the chairman of the Community Welfare Fund, but undoubtedly many homes in Nelson could still dig up clothing that is not being used, and which is never likely to be used, unless it is handed at this time to the clothing depot for the unemployed.

Everyone who can find any warm clothing or shoes which have been discarded will do a real service to unfortunates who are out of work, if they will send it to the depot immediately.

Economizing at Victoria

An interesting dispatch from Victoria deals with the plan of reorganization of the British Columbia Department of Agriculture, which has been worked out by the Provincial Cabinet.

In future, field men will report direct to Victoria, and not as heretofor to branch executives. Fruit specialists, vegetable specialists, apiary experts, pest control authorities and so on will take over the general duties of district agriculturists, and will be expected to advise and assist those engaged in all forms of agriculture.

Five separate branches shown in the organization report last year, which are reporting to the minister direct, will now pool their experience, and report to the deputy minister instead, thus centralizing control of the work under the deputy.

Elimination of the Colonization and Land Settlement branch is proposed. Its duties are to be carried out by the Lands Department.

In accordance with the policy of Premier Tolmie of developing mixed farming, which everyone agrees would do much to increase agricultural production in British Columbia and to place the industry on a sound basis, special attention will be paid to this branch of the industry. Repeatedly the Prime Minister has emphasized the advantages of diversified farming, with livestock as the basis, and while men particularly capable of dealing with fruit problems will be retained in the fruit districts, they will be expected to render assistance to bee-keepers, poultrymen, dairymen and others who are not confining their agricultural efforts to fruit.

It is stated, though not yet officially confirmed, that a number of officials will be given indefinite leave of absence, though their names will be retained on the rolls of the department, so that they may be given re-employment when there is sufficient work to justify the expenditure. It is hoped also to effect a big saving in travelling expenses, office expenditures and general administrative costs.

Reports from Victoria have already told of similar plans of reorganization designed to bring about reductions in expenditures in other departments, a programme which will meet with general public approval, as it has been obvious for some years in British Columbia that we have been maintaining a governmental organization far too expensive for the tax-paying population of the province to maintain.

Balancing Government Budgets

Every provincial government in Canada, as well as the Federal government, is being forced by present business and financial conditions to take strong measures in order to balance their budgets.

There are two methods which may be employed in order to bring about a balance between expenditures and receipts. One is to reduce governmental expenditures, and the other is to increase taxes. Judging from reports from Victoria, and from Edmonton, where members of the cabinets of the three prairie provinces are meeting this week, the four provinces west of the Great Lakes are preparing to adopt both measures. They intend to bring about economies in expenditures, and they also intend to take more out of the tax-payers.

No private business in a time of depression is able to adopt more than one plan of making both ends meet. The private business is not able to raise its charges to the public in a time of depression. It has to get out of the red by means of effecting economy. And it is upon reducing governmental expenditures that the provincial governments at Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton and Victoria should concentrate their energies.

The axe should fall on expenditures, and cut deep. It may be perhaps much easier to declare this principle than to put it into effect. Every province in Canada and virtually every state in the rest of the world is loaded with a terrific burden of bonded indebtedness, upon which interest has to be paid. There is no way of making any reduction in this expenditure. It has to be met, no matter what else may happen. Every government is also faced with some other irreducible expenditures, though they would probably appear more easily reducible to a privately operated business than they appear to members of cabinets, who have to take into account considerations from which the private business is immune.

Nevertheless, far more attention should be paid by our financial experts to reducing governmental expenditures than to seeking more revenue. Every increase in taxation that is put into effect will to some extent delay a return of normal conditions, because every increase in taxation ultimately, in some form or another, has the effect of slowing down the wheels of industry and commerce.

"Between You and Me"

Noted United States aviators crashed six storys in an elevator at Washington, D. C., Tuesday. That's one time the flyers could not blame someone for freezing on the controls.

And speaking about airplane pilots did you know that they were just as bad as a bunch of printers and butchers when it comes to razzing the new inexperienced airport helpers. The machine shop apprentice used to go block looking for a left-handed monkey wrench. The raw army recruit can well remember going on the double to get the sergeant the last post. Well in Toronto recently they sent an airways pupil for 25 yards of slip stream, a gallon of prop wash, and 75 revs for a new plane. He was also requested to get three air pockets and two feet of air log.

For the benefit of the uninitiated and any other embryos likely to be the subject of the same jok, slip stream is the rush of air across the surface of the wings and fuselage, prop wash is the back-swirl from the propeller, and revs is the abbreviated flying term for the revolutions of the motor.

Willing but dumb, the lad started out and returned with what he was sent for. He had a gallon jar of pure water for prop wash, a large empty box carried the slip stream and a keg of nails made up the 75 revs. He carted them miles, too.

And so after several pilots had got into conversation with the student regarding clouds and their makeup someone called them "bituminous" and another wise guy said they were "anthracite." "Oh, go on," said the youth, "your only trying to 'fuel' me."

Which reminds me of the apprentice in the newsroom who was looking all night for type lice, or sat down for two hours in the editorial department when sent in for a "long" weight. Well, the boys must have their fun.

W. S. King says the lake will freeze surely if this cold snap gets down to real business.

And I noticed Jimmie Allan all dolled up in a light hat—Albert Glanzmann went into the post office without his overcoat—Felix Schroeder reports a real old-time Christmas in Calgary—"Slim" Horswill and Bill Hipperson were in conversation on the street—And I noticed J. A. McDonald, despite an injured hand, assisting George Johnstone onto a street car—And when Mr. Johnstone stood up he nearly lost his hat at the car entrance—Hugh MacTier went down Vernon street carrying one glove—And then stood in the post office gazing out—Bob Kirkland came from the picture show and had a young lady by the arm—And I noticed Alderman Ross Fleming and H. H. Currie in conversation—Ross claims he will not get one vote at the coming election—But that's a hot one—We all know he was elected for two terms last year—And just as I was hiking back to the office I noticed Roy Pollard assisting his good lady and family onto a street car—And he heaved a white sleigh onto the car and went back to work.

Should the girl pop the question? Yes! The old problem brought affirmative answers from clergymen in Canada on the eve of leap year.

"All this talk of depression has added to masculine diffidence," one cleric said. "There has been a deplorable fall in the marriage rate. By all means young women should take advantage of leap year to do the proposing themselves."

"The tendency of the modern girl to do things for herself should find very desirable expression in leap year proposals," said another. "Let us hope 1932 will be a 'marrying year'."

The idea is not so modern after all, according to a clergyman who quoted history. "Marriage proposals by women have good authority," he said. "They were legalized in Scotland in 1288 and similar laws were passed in Italy and France before the seventeenth century."

Well, boys be careful during 1932. It is a dangerous year for you.

• • •

"O, will you marry me young man?"
Asked the maiden sweet and coy.
"We'll live upon the five-year plan
And I know you are just the boy."
"But what'll we use for eats my dear?"
He slowly but slyly did sob.
"I've just got by this past old year,
And still I have no job."

Between you and me—It looks like a tough old year for the city's shieks.

Japanese Trouble Chinese Since the Middle Ages

(By GEE SOOT SHONG)

Nipponese were known to the Chinese as "Warkow" which means dwarf pirates. They have troubled the Chinese along the coast since the middle age.

In 1349 the great Mongolian conqueror Yin Sai Tze had sent an expedition of 100,000 men to Nippon but met destruction by a typhoon on the way.

Nippon was then ruled by chiefs and used the same Chinese characters and books in education. After the reformation in 1866, the country became united and was ruled by Ming Chee, emperor, who adopted the western ideas and vigorously developed his country. He also knew that Nippon being such a small country could never compete with the American and European countries. Therefore, he determined to overcome this by making one of the most aggressive military forces in the world.

To war on China to get "Man Mon" the name given by the Nipponese to the Manchuria and Mongolia was the first step; second was to conquer China proper but first she would have to deal with America on account of her many interests in China. To start this, they built up a great hatred for China in the minds of their people. They taught their children that "Man Mon" was once part of their country had been taken by China.

"In "Our Imperial Nation's Crisis, the Coming Japanese-American War," written by General Kiokatatsu Sato, he states many reasons why the U. S. A. was the greatest enemy of Nippon. Here's a few points why the Nipponese hated the Americans so much as follows:

1. Their only opposition to the possession of the Philippine islands.

2. The treatment of their people at the hands of Americans after the great earthquake in 1923.

3. U. S. A. was her only rival on the Pacific waters.

4. Rivaling her economics in the oriental countries especially in China.

Nippon always had her eyes on China. She had already taken Korea, Formosa, and Pangwo islands, besides many concessions through all Chinese commercial centers. In 1915 during the European war, she compelled Yen Sai Hoy, the president of China, to sign the 21 demands. In 1927 a Chinese diplomat by the name of Chu Coon Shie was cruelly tortured by them in the massacre of Tainanfoo.

The present occupation of Manchuria had been planned for years by the Nipponese. They kept China busy in civil war by supplying the Chinese rebels with ammunition. This time, they tried for Manchuria on their following advantages.

1 China was facing a flood greater than any they ever had in history. It covered an area of 16 provinces and the number of sufferers totalled approximately 50 millions.

2. The trouble caused by the Cantonese insurgent government disrupted the unity of China.

3. Russia was busy with her five year plan and the rest of the countries facing their economic situations.

To give a reason for their invasion in Manchuria, they first started the trouble of Munposun in Manchuria, and Pangyoung in Korea to break the friendship between the Chinese and Koreans. Next they spread rumors concerning the execution of a Nipponese major by Chinese soldiers to enrage their own people against China. As a finishing touch, they masqueraded in Chinese uniforms and bombed a tiny part of the Southern Manchuria railroad.

Now, since the above reasons would not carry them any further, they applied themselves to the sign of "against bandits," which they hoped would carry them to inner Mongolia, so as to cut off the Chinese reinforcement to General Mah Chan Sun, who is now upon the district of Hailun, conquering "Man Man" will only a few more skirmishes

Nippon has not only violated the nine power treaty and the anti-war pact, but she also squashed the league of nations which as a peace convoy of the world, has been absolutely no use, whatever, for it twice failed to carry out its own rights, and unjustly gave Nippon the right to fight against their so-called "bandits" in China. Why doesn't the League of Nations study this word, "bandits"? If there were such a numerous number of bandits, why don't they forage on the Russians and other foreigners, but only the barbaric Nipponese? On what Nippon has done in Manchuria today, I should say Nippon herself was not only a bandit but worse than a plague of wild beasts.

There are two prophets, H. G. Bywater who wrote "The Great Pacific War," and Captain Liddell Hart, author of "The Future War," in 1925." Those books foretold a war in the Pacific between America and Japan. One of them actually named the year of 1931, but it hasn't been realized.

I have no doubt as to there being a future war, but I don't think that Nippon will be bold enough to war on America presently. Within the next six years, there's a tyrannicide, who will come and sweep out the invaders. This war will be fought mainly on land and in the air; the powerful navy of today will be little in use.

Disarmament is a mask for the nations. One more disarmament means one more warning for the nations to prepare war. It may decrease their present number in army, navy and air fleets, but it cannot stop them in inventing better arms and greater military trainings. Another thing it can't do is to prevent the world's factories from turning into ammunition plants if war breaks out.

Today the whole world seems to be going backward. In one way the people of this world are fearing war, in another way they are preparing themselves for it. Some of them are foolish enough to want to end the war by an invincible invention of power. I think this is no way to end the war but it is a way to end the world.

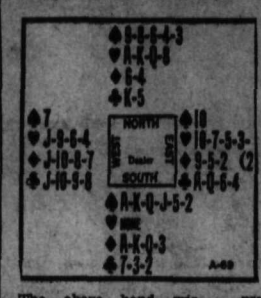
CONTRACT BRIDGE



The above hand was a prearranged one, inserted in a Duplicate Contract game by a wag who wanted to see how many North and South players would bid for a slam and fail to obtain it. The expectation was that South, with a hand good for nine or 10 tricks and learning from the bidding that North had strength also, woud bid for a small slam in Spades; that West would make the natural opening of the Club Jack, and dummy's King would be trapped. This would give West-East two tricks and defeat the slam-bidders—which is what happened at most tables.

The bidding varied, but in every case except one it got to six Spades and two tricks were taken by the adversaries because West had good reason (a three-card Heart sequence) for leading a Club instead of a Diamond.

At one table, however, a small slam was bid and 13 tricks made. South started with the Game-Demand Two-Club bid to find out whether North held as much as an Ace and a King. North answered with two Hearts, which of course was most encouraging; but South could not discard Clubs on Hearts unless a Heart was led, and West would not be apt to open that suit after North's Heart bid. South next bid two Spades, knowing that North must keep the bidding open, and North responded with three Spades; he was interested in a slam bid, but knew tha South would bid again after North's two showings of strength. Most Souths, under such conditions, would have gone on to a higher Spade bid; but this South appreciated that unless North held the Ace of Clubs, a Club lead might keep him from making a slam. To prevent West from making that opening, this South made a "psychic" four-Club bid over North's three Spades. It was not possible that North would permit the Club bid to stand as it was not a game-bid; South, like Steve Brody, was "taking a chance." North now bid five Spades and South ventured six. West, not wishing to open Clubs up to an apparently strong Club holding in the South hand led the Jack of Diamonds and it is unnecessary to explain how South made his small slam contract plus an extra trick.

When Slocan Was Silvery

Burning of the hull of the S. S. Slocan, on Slocan recently was the closing chapter in the early history of a period which never can be again—and never will be forgotten by those who experienced its romance and charm.

Before the "S. S. Slocan" was built the "William Hunter" served the lake camps. The "William Hunter" was not deep enough for a tug, not wide enough for a cargo deck and to high out of water to induce any security of feeling by passengers unless she was sandwiched in between two scow loaded with lumber or mining machinery. They used to say the captain had to stop the machinery whenever he pulled the whistle cord. The boat couldn't go and whistle all at once. And the boatswain was accused of carrying a quid of chewing tobacco in each cheek to keep the ship on an even keel.

Captain Estabrook piloted the "William Hunter" before the C.P.R. bought it. Capt. Estabrook went as captain to the C. P. R. lake service with the "William Hunter," when the S. S. Slocan was put into commission and he transferred from Slocan lake to Okanagan lake, with residence at Penticton.

It was a big day on the lake when the hull was laid at Rosebery for the Slocan. When the boat was finished it brought a new standard of service tothe Slocan. Yet the "William Hunter" period had a charm all its own when men struggled and fought against every obstacle Nature could put in their way, spurred on by that inexplainable thing called Luck, which is as god a name to give it as any other.

Writing of this period, R. T. Lowery, the sage of the Slocan, said: "I shall never forget the panic of '93. It frosted the roses in the Slocan and made Kaslo look like a torn poster in a wet ditch. I escaped with my life, and since then I have done time in nearly all the towns in the Kootenay, without catching sight of the millenium except for a few moments. I have been the father of eight Kootenay papers, and my reward is coming up the pike. I can see an era of prosperity sweeping along towards Kootenay that will eventually make us all so rich that we will grow weary counting our bank accounts and long for the days when bacon was pie and beans our only dessert."—Enderby Commoner.

The Best British Fiction in 1931

The chief successes of the year in fiction have, with one or two exceptions, been all long novels—Miss Clemence Dane's "Broome Stages," the history of the theatrical family over 200 years; Mr. Linklater's "Juan in America"; Mr. Brett-Young's "Mr. and Mrs. Pennington"; Dr. Cronin's "Hatter's Castle"; Miss Naomi Mitchison's "Corn King", writes Mr. Hugh Walpole in the "Daily Mail Year Book." "Shorter novels especially successful have been Miss Margaret Kennedy's "Return I Dare Not," a delightful picture of a well-known popular dramatist; a charming first novel, "Early Closing," by Miss Wynne Wilson; and a beautiful piece of prose, Mr. Neil Gunn's "Morning Tide."

"The most remarkable experiment in the technique of the novel has been Mrs. Virginia Woolf's "Waves," a work that is prehaps more a poem than a novel.

"The two most remarkable new names made in 1931 are unquestionably Dr. Cronin, whose "Hatter's Castle," the story of a Scottish ogre, was the sensation of the spring, and Mr. Eric Linklater, whose "Juan in America" and "Johnson and King James" show how extremely versatile is his talent.

"Which four books of the year, someone has asked me, would I put first on my own bookshelf for 'keeps'? An impossible question; but, if I must answer it, Mr. Ede's "Savage Messiah," the "Collected Poems of Laurence Binyon," Mr. Oliver's "Endless Adventure," and if one must be a novel, Miss Wynne Wilson's "Early Closing."

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON

WHY A PURGATIVE IS GIVEN IN DIARRHOEA

One of the things that is at first hard to understand is way, when you have an attack of diarrhoea, your doctor insists on giving a dose of castor oil, epsom salts, or some other purgative.

Now the reason for this is really simple. The cause of the diarrhoea is something in the intestine that is irritating the walls of the intestine, and they are trying their best to squeeze or push that irritating substance out. The idea of giving castor oil or other purgative is to drive out the irritating substance quickly, and thus the walls of the intestine will stop working, and the diarrhoea will cease.

The substance that is irritating the intestine may be some food that wasn't good, or perhaps some food that was too rough—too many husks or seeds in it.

Very often food eaten too quickly, or eaten when you were excited or upset goes through the stomach without much change, and as the intestine will absorb only food that the stomach has prepared for absorbtion, it cannot absorb this unprepared or undigested food, and this food actually irritates the wall causing them to contract in an effort to force it downward and out of the body.

As the sooner this irritating undigested food is removed from the intestine the better, the physician gives a purgative medicine such as epsom salts or castor oil. After the substance is removed, if the diarrhoea continues, he may then give bismuth or even opium to quiet the intestine.

However your doctor will tell you that even if you have diarrhoea, considerable pain in the abdomen, and feel sick in the stomach, it is not wise to give a purgative, as the trouble may be due to appendicitis. A purgative where the appendix is inflamed is the cause of most of the danger in appendicitis.

With a slight attack of diarrhoea neither a purgative, nor medicine to stop the diarrhoea should be given, as Nature is simply trying to get rid of the irritating substance in her own way.

In a severe attack of diarrhoea it would be well to consult your doctor.

Should your doctor order a purgative or give you no medicine at all, you may rest assured that he will do what is best in your particular case.

THE BABE TO TRY TO STICK THE YANKEE SKIPPER FOR A TWO-YEAR CONTRACT AT $80,000 PER SEASON

Has His Great Physical Condition and Record to Back Up Demands

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP) (By Edward J. Neil)—George Herman Ruth, the Babe, broke his silence today on the matter of a new contract with the New York Yanks, and his words will scarcely reassure Colonel Jacob Ruppert or any other baseball magnate advocating the new policy of reduced wages.

The Babe flatly declared he wants another two-year contract with the Yanks at $80,000 per annum, the same price the colonel has been paying for the home run king's clouting prowess and turnstile appeal through the past two seasons.

ONE OF THE BEST

"Last season was one of the best I ever had," said the Babe as he sat bundled in blankets in McGovern's gymnasium, resting after his first workout in preparation for the 1932 campaign.

"I see no reason why I should take a cut in salary. I haven't talked with Colonel Ruppert about that yet. I would like to sign for one or two years more at the same money I've been getting.

"But I don't think we'll have any trouble getting together. I've been so busy keeping in shape that I haven't given the salary matter much thought. I don't expect to see the colonel before I go down south the first week in February. We'll get together then all right. We always have."

There seems no doubt Colonel Ruppert will ask the Babe to take a cut, but for his appearance today, and the weight and logic of his arguments, the generous colonel, no hand at bickering himself, will have a job convincing Ruth.

NEVER WAS BETTER

Ruth never has been in better physical or mental condition. He scales 235½ pounds for his 19th season in the major leagues. Not only is his weight lower than it ever has been at this season during the mighty years of his baseball career, but his waist, hips, and neck measurements are smaller.

His eyes are clear, his muscles ripple under his skin, and he seems to have conquered once and for all the bugaboo of excess poundage that threatened to wind up a great career as far back as 1926. Two meals a day, lots of golf, exercise and regular hours have kept his weight all winter at his best playing notch.

For these reasons, and because nearing 38 there are few signs of the great machine running down, the Babe believes he might even bust his own home run record of 60 next season, regardless of the tinkering that has gone on with the ball.

HIGH SCHOOL SKI CLUB TO JUMP IN EXHIBITION TEST

Planning to Have Outsiders to Compete in Big Show Near End of Month

Fan supporters of ski-jumping will be given the opportunity of seeing another exhibition on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when the Nelson High School Ski club will give a second performance. The list of jumpers will be practically the same with one exception, H. Bunfield of Trail will participate in Class B.

The club is at present planning to put on a big tournament near the end of January, in which outsiders will be invited, and activities within the next few weeks will proceed with that in mind. They will take up a collection at the exhibition Sunday, as they did at the first appearance, and funds collected will be used to make an excellent jump and also pay expenses of outsiders entering. It is hoped to have good prizes, too.

JUMPING GOOD

Those who saw the performance past Sunday were agreeably surprised at the class of jumping they saw, and with steady practice the boys will easily outdo their first appearance. Providing the day is clear and the jump good, the Class A entrants will be hurtling around 120 feet or more. Jumping was seriously handicapped last Sunday when a steady snowfall made seeing hard. There will be four classes this time instead of three. V. Koski and E. Del Puppo of Class B will give an exhibition run off the big

Entrants in the four classes are:

Class A—R. MacKay, D. McKay.

Class B—V. Koski, E. Del Puppo, H. Bunfield.

Class C—J. Buchanan, Art Gradski, B. Anderson.

Class D—B. BcKay, S. Del Puppo, R. McArthur, D. Ritchie, S. Jackson, B. Brown.

MICHEL JUNIOR HOCKEY TEAM BEATS CORBIN

Score Is 3-2 in Exciting Game; Corbin Shows Comeback

CORBIN, B. C., Jan. 6.—Corbin hockey fans were shown a very nice brand of junior hockey when Michel juniors came to Corbin on Wednesday, December 30. Both teams were right out to win and the outstanding players were Brown and Myles of Michel, the latter saving many hard shots that were labelled for the net; while R. Hoffman, R. Taylor and F. Coates turned in a good performance for Corbin. Michel held the lead all the way through and it was not until the third period that Corbin came up even with them. Michel then scored again and the game finished Michel, 3; Corbin, 2.

Teams were:

Michel—Kuliski, Brown, Smith, Taylor, W. Stanley, Allgreen.

Corbin—Coates, R. Hoffman, Taylor, A. Hoffman, Dorman, N. Petrunisk, B. Roberts, A. Waddington, Grieve, Poster.

Joie Ray, the Man With the Fighting Heart — Dempsey Is Serious—Japan Shows Her Friendship — Nelson High School Skiers Put One Across

JoieRay, one of the greatest milers the world has ever seen, is forced, through straitened circumstances, to compete in a Newark N .J. dance marathon to "keep the wolf from the door". Ray, who has competed in practically every kind of sport and who has done what few other men have done—represented the United States three times at the Olympic games—is well on the decline at his 35th birthday. He already knows the price of fame though even yet his name has not been erased from the record books. In 1925 Ray and Nurmi, the Phantom Finn, were clocked at an even 4:12 on indoor tracks. Ray made his claim to fame in the mile at New York when he equalled the mark of Nurmi set three weeks before in Buffalo. Three years later Ray stepped off the 10,000 meters in 31:28 2-5, a record which still stands. From time to time this stormy petrel of distance races has made records which younger runners have shattered. His fighting heart, which made him famous long years ago, is not so good the doctors say, but Joie won't be downed. As soon as the dance marathon is over he's going to enter the 200-mile snowshoe marathon in Quebec, in which he placed seventh last year. What a man!

Old Comeback Dempsey must be serious about this fight business for now he announces that he will start on another tour with harder fighters to match and lighter gloves to do the matching with. We must hand it to the skiers up at the high school for a valiant attempt to put skiing on the map in Nelson. Last Sunday, through their own efforts they put on a jumping exhibition that pleased everyone who attended This Sunday there will be one of the same and it behoves Nelson people to get out and see what talent they have in their midst. We hear about jumpers doing such-and-such a distance at district points but these marks don't approach those set up by the students last Sunday. They plan to stage a tournament later in January and your money, given when the collection is taken at the exhibition jumps, will help pay expenses of out-of-town jumpers and buy cups for the competition. So drop out to Fairview on Sunday afternoon with a little loose change in your pocket. You won't begrudge it when you see the show.

SECOND HALF OF BASKETBALL TILT WILL BE KEENER

Ladies' Teams Have Added Strength and Shake-Up of Standing Expected

Several factors enter to make the second half of the ladies' basketball league, to start on January 14, a keener schedule. The first half produced plenty of interest, and with changes to nearly every team, a decided shake-up is expected.

Chief interest will be centered on the Nurses' entry. This team has developed wonderfully, having won their last three league games, as well as two exhibition ones, in succession. The High School aggregation has been rounded into a fair team, and will take some beating.

Sickness has badly crippled the Nelsonian crew, but they will be reinforced, and will field a considerably stronger team than that which tied with the High School for first place in the first half of the league.

The Nelsonians and the High School play tonight at the junior high school, and a second game will be between the Nurses and the Midgets.

Trail Juniors Score Shutout Over Leafs

TRAIL, B. C., Jan. 6—Trail juniors defeated the Maple Leafs in a fairly interesting Commercial league hockey game here tonight. The juniors took a lead of 5-0 in the first period, each side added one in the second and the Leafs scored two in the third. The third period was full of action, with several near melees.

FAIRVIEW TEAM TAKES 7-4 LOSS AT SLOCAN CITY

Smaller Ice and Poorer Lighting Plays Havoc With Visitors

The Fairview Intermediates found themselves surrounded by a 7-4 beating at the hands of the Slocan City players when they invaded the latter's hockey domain Tuesday night. Playing in more confined quarters than they are accustomed to, and hampered by the poorer lighting system, the Fairview team found the Slocan boys a determined and aggressive crew. The game was fast and clean throughout, but the home team took advantage of familiar conditions to outplay Nelson.

Most of the goals came from skirmishes in the vicinity of the twined depots, the goalies having but little chance to save, or clear in the event of saving.

Leo Desireau handled the game and kept it well in hand.

The lineup was as follows: H. Horswill and J. Ringrose, C. Ramsden, J. Maxwell, W. Lauritz, A. Farenholtz, E. Waterer, G. Roynon.

U. B. C. Cagers Lose Basketball Game to Manitoban Sharpshooters by Mere Point

WINNIPEG, Jan. 6 (CP)— A sharper shooting University of Manitoba basketball team tonight defeated University of British Columbia, Canadian champions, 39 to 28, in the first game of the Western Intercollegiate union schedule.

British Columbia's second-half rally after trailing by nine points at the mid-way point barely failed to accomplish victory for the six-man squad playing its sixth game on the prairies since the day before New Year's. Record of the touring collegians now stands at three won and three lost.

Riding on a brilliant attack centered around the masterful playmaking of Alex Mitchuk and the deadly shooting of Alex Carrick, Manitoba piled up a 19 to 10 advantage in the first half. The British Columbia cagers reduced this as they fought back with a desperate assault of their own in the second but just failed to overhaul the brown and gold lead.

CAMPBELL AND OSBORNE GOOD

Campbell and Osborne led the far-westerners in their bid, each accounting for three goals from the field.

Carrick, the reformed walkathon contender whose amateur card was returned him by the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada just a few weeks ago, topped Manitoba's scorers with a total of 15 points. Nitchuk scored 10.

Balance of British Columbia's prairie intercollegiate campaign is to be finished by Saturday. They are to play University of Saskatchewan at Saskatoon tomorrow night and University of Alberta at Edmonton Saturday.

Lineups:

U. B. C.—Nicholson (4), Osborne (8), Campbell (9), Wright (5), McIntyre (2), Armstrong. Total 28.

U. of Man.—Carrick (15), Nitchuk (10), Earl (4), Sprung, W. Martin, A. Martin, Proudfoot, Turner Johnston, Ritchie. Total 29.

TILDEN SQUELCHES RICHARDS

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Jan. 6 (AP)—Still disdaining to "pull his punches" for the benefit of the audience, Bill Tilden administered another crushing defeat tonight to Vincent Richards, his foremost rival for world professional tennis honors.

A fashionable audience of 6000 that included such notables as Max Schmeling and Babe Ruth saw the tall Philadelphia tennis master turn his more youthful opponent back by scores of 6-2, 6-3, 6-1, in a ruthless exhibition of power.

It has been felt that Big Bill, if for no other reason than his flair for a dramatic, might ease up a little and let his former doubles partner make a fight of it this time, but any one who thought that, was mistaken. He squelched Richards even more convincingly than in their first combat as professionals here last winter.

THREE MEMBERS PARLIAMENT ON CURLING TEAM

Are Chosen on Rink to Represent Manitoba at Olympic Games

WINNIPEG, Jan. 6 (CP)—Three members of parliament and an outstanding Fort William skip will make up the rink Manitoba sends to the Olympic games at Lake Placid, N. Y., in Febuary. International curling contests are scheduled as demonstrations.

The council of the Manitoba Curling association today selected these men to compose this province's rink: W. H. Burns, M. P. for Portage la Prairie; James L. Bowman, M. P. for Dauphin; Errick F. Willis, M. P. for Souris, and R. B. Pow, Fort William, Ont. Pow is eligible because the lakehead city is in the Manitoba curling district.

Mr. Burns will skip the rink. He is rated one of the best in the province, ranking with Gordon Hudson, Howard Wood and R. J. (Bob) Gourley.

Every province has been invited by Olympic games authorities to send a rink to Lake Placid. Original intention to have the Gourley rink, Dominion champions, represent Canada was abandoned when the U. S. Olympic committee found not enough rinks would be present to give a worthwhile demonstration. There will be six United States rinks in the contest.

BRONX TIGERS BEAT BOSTON, 5-3

NEW YORK, N. Y., Jan. 6.—In one of the roughest games of New York's Canadian-American hockey league season, the Bronx Tigers defeated the Boston Bruins Cubs 5 to 3 tonight.

A free-for-all fight broke out during the second period when Willie Cude, Boston goalie, fell on the puck and the entire New York team tried to push him into the goal. Bill Regan received a two minute penalty as a result of the melee.

INTERIOR CURLING BONSPIEL END OF JANUARY

REVELSTOKE, B. C., Jan. 6.—The annual bonspeil of the Interior Curling association will be held here from Jan. 18th to 23dd.

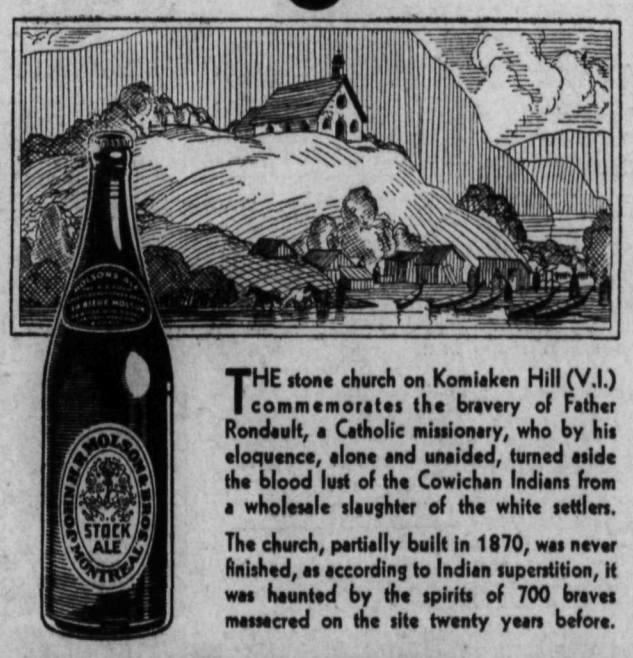
The bansplel was called off last year an account of mild weather, but every indication points to ideal weather conditions this year.

K. G. McRae, president of the association and J. F. Shaw secretary, are making arrangements for a successful bonspeil.

ST. LOUIS FLYERS WIN

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 6.—(AP)—The St. Louis Flyers swarmed all over the Buffalo Majors tonight to win an easy 5 to 1 victory and score their fourth straight win.

1786



THE stone church on Komiaken Hill (V.I.) commemorates the bravery of Father Rondault, a Catholic missionary, who by his eloquence, alone and unaided, turned aside the blood lust of the Cowichan Indians from a wholesale slaughter of the white settlers.

The church, partially built in 1870, was never finished, as according to Indian superstition, it was haunted by the spirits of 700 braves massacred on the site twenty years before.

DEATH OF BARON RECALLS A LINK IN UPPER CANADA

French Baron de Longueuil's Family Built Alwington, Home of Governors

KINGSTON, Ont., Jan. 6.—(Written for the Canadian Press by G. H. Williamson)—The death at Caudenvec-en-Caux, France, of Reginald Charles Grant d'Iberville de Ste. Helene, eighth Baron de Longueuil, recently, and the passing of the title to John Moore de Bienville Charles Grant, who resides in England, has a Canadian interest, for it was the then Baron de Longueuil, more commonly known as Baron Grant, who built "Alwington House," King street west, the home of three governors of Upper Canada, 1841-1844.

Alwington House possesses an interesting link with the heroic age of French-Canadian chivalry, as well as with the emigration of the United Empire Loyalists; Baron Grant, the builder of Alwington, was the fourth baron of the distinguished family of Le Moyne of Longeuil which gave two governors to French Canada. He was descended from the famous pioneer, Charles le Moyne, a contemporary of La Salle. The Scottish name Grant came into the family through the marriage of his father, Captain Grant, with the then heiress to the French title which was finally recognized under the British regime. His son, Baron Grant, married a lady belonging to the United Empire Loyalist family of Coffin, and Alwington was named after the New Brunswick and Old English homes.

It is thought that Baron Grant settled at Kingston owing to his extensive property ownings on Wolfe island, just opposite this city, but the son did not long remain there, and as Alwington came into possession of his only daughter, who married the Rev. J. A. Allen, a native of Ireland, and first clergyman of Wolfe island, it became the home of the family for many years. There can still be seen on Wolfe island the remains of the castle of Baron Grant.

Rev. M. Allen was an accomplished man of letters, and for a time in the 60s he taught political economy in Queen's university when Rev. Snodgrass was principal, but was forced to resign owing to letters he wrote to the Kingston News in favor of the annexation of Canada to the United States. When the Allens lived at Alwington it was a favorite resort for the cultured element. It was here that the famous novelist, Grant Allen, was born.

Wolfe island, which was once largely owned by the de Longueuil family under the French regime in Canada, was later under the British regime, was a British base during the American revolutionary war (1776-1783), and there were gathered British and Canadian troops and Indians. Carleton island, further east, was also a British base, and the remains of old Fort Haldimand are still to be seen on the latter island. So far as is known, no fortification was ever constructed on Wolfe island, which was named after General Wolfe, the great English commander who captured Quebec in 1759 and gave Canada to Great Britain. The island is 22 miles long, extending 16 miles east of Kingston and six west. It is probably the largest island in western Canada, and twice as large as Wellesley island of the Thousand Island group, which was ceded to the United States under the treaty of 1784, while Great Britain received Wolfe island.

TORONTO STOCKS MAINTAIN RISE

Report of Moratorium Between Germany and Great Britain Is the Cause

TORONTO, Jan. 6 (CP)—Early strength on the Toronto stock exchange today was traced to an unconfirmed rumor that France and Germany have agreed on a three-year moratorium on war debts. Although the report was not substantiated, stocks held early gains fairly well to close with gains ranging as high as three points.

The advance saw half of the entire trading list tack up gains. In all, 37 stocks saw action, of which 18 moved upward and eight declined. Volume was 8960 shares.

A feature of the upside was the gain of ⅝ in C. P. R. which closed at 14⅝, and Ford "A" of Canada, which closed ¼ higher at 11¾.

Mining stocks came in for their share of buying. International Nickel closed a point higher at 9⅞. Consolidated Smelters spurted three points to 70.

Oils failed to derive any benefit from the general market advance.

Brazilian Traction, in the utility section, was the day's active leader and closed ⅞ higher at 12.

It was announced during the day that, in order to conserve the company's liquid position, directors of Consolidated Industries had decided to pass the dividend on the common stock, due at this time. The issue dropped ¾ of a point to 4¼.

EDUCATING CANADA'S INDIANS

A total of 350 centers of Indian educational activity in Canada, composed of 78 residential schools and 272 day schools, is reported for 1930 by the department of Indian affairs. The total enrolment was 15,743 and the average attendance, 11,579.

CHICAGO GRAINS FOLLOW RISE OF CANADIAN VALUES

News of Moratorium for Germany Adds Vigor; Wheat Prices Higher

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Big export buying of Canadian wheat, almost 5,000,000 bushels during the last 48 hours, put buoyancy into grain values today.

Rumors that France and Great Britain had agreed on a three-year moratorium for Germany gave added vigor to the upward swing of grains. Stimulus came also from assertions that the reconstruction finance bill would be rushed through congress, and from renewed strength showed by the New York stock market.

Despite late reactions, wheat closed relatively firm, ⅞ to 1 higher than yesterday's finish, corn ⅜—⅝ up, oats ⅛ to ⅝ advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5 cents.

FUTURE SELLING TO BLAME

Late setbacks from the day's top prices for wheat were ascribed to selling of future deliveries by agencies of the Federal Farm board. An interesting development was that Canadian currency discount changes amounting to 3 cents a bushel on wheat gave signs that the United States was getting nearer into line for export business in hard winter grades. Meanwhile, Canada was estimated to have sold huge amounts of wheat abroad, largely to China but including some to France.

An increase in North American clearances of wheat was noted, the total being 7,352,000 bushels, about 3,000,000 bushels larger than a year ago. Another bullish circumstance was that domestic receipts of wheat continued meagre. Notice was also taken of an official announcement that in parts of the Ohio Valley the winter wheat crop was in poor condition to withstand a hard freeze.

MONTREAL LIST GAINS SLIGHTLY

Upward Trend in New York Encouraging; Sales Volume Is Small

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 6.—(By the Canadian Press)—Encouraged by an upward thrust in New York, moderate advances were recorded today on the Montreal stock exchange. The better feeling, however, was not accompanied by an increased volume, total sales contracting to the small amount of 8700 shares.

Conspicuous in the improvement were Canadian Pacific, International Nickel, Brazilian Traction, and Canada Cement while Canadian Car and Consolidated Smelters gained on small transactions. The close found the leaders at the days best levels and the index made a small gain, its first for the new year.

Canadian Pacific touched 14¾ shortly after the opening and closed at 14¾ for a net advance of ⅛. It lead in activity with 904 sales. Brazilian Traction improved a full point at 12 while International Nickel was ⅛ better better at 9⅞. Canada Cement advanced a point to 7½; Canadian Car was up ¼ at 7¼ and Smelters climbed 2½ to 69.

On the weak side of the market were Abitibi, off ¼ at 2⅝; Fraser, off ¼ at 1; Lindsay preferred, off 7 at 60; and St. Lawrence Corporation, off 20 cents at 80 cents.

The bond market was mixed. Abitibi 5's gained 1¼ to 34½ and Montreal Tramway's "B" gained ¼ at 78¾; Ontario Steel dropped ½ to 100½; refunding, 1943, lost a point to 97 and National Service, 1936, eased 25 cents to $96.75.

Sterling eased slightly to close at $3.9589 and United States money lost a fraction at 18 per cent premium.

EXPORT REPORTS SENDS WINNIPEG GRAIN UPWARDS

Make Sharp Recoveries to Close 1 1-8 to 1 Cent Higher at Close

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 6.—(By the Canadian Press)—All news was good news for the Winnipeg grain exchange today. Under the stimulus of moderately-good export, stock market firmness and better European demand for Canadian grains, wheat prices sharp recoveries to close 1⅛ to one cent higher than Tuesday's finish.

May, at 63½, was up 1⅛ with July option up an even cent at 64⅝.

Pressure of offerings was never heavy today and, though the volume was not large, the market was more active than it has been for some time. Export sales were estimated at approximately 1,000,000 bushels, most of which was sold at Pacific ports.

Eastern seaboard point reported some sales of wheat to China, though this was believed to include business previously reported.

Cash wheat trading was slow with spreads fractionally higher. Coarse grain futures were active with good gains registered.

TWO U.S. CONCERNS TO SET UP BRANCHES IN QUEBEC

MONTREAL, Jan. 6. (CP)—Two additional United States industrial concerns are to establish branch factories in the province of Quebec, it became definitely known today.

The M. E. Binz company, of Midland Park, N. J., is establishing a plant at Montmagny, and will employ 150 workers in the manufacture of silk goods.

At Granby, Que., the Stark Brothers Ribbon Manufacturing Corporation of New York is establishing a branch factory, with employment for about 250 workers.

Commodities on the wholesale grocery line were holding firm during the past week, with a tendency for a slight rise. Coffee and white beans were up slightly, but canned fruits were unchanged. A carload of sugar and mixed groceries arrived.

Cars of timothy hay, alfalfa hay, straw and corn arrived in the flour and feed line. Prices remain the same on these commodities.

McLEOD CAPTURES PRESIDENT'S CUP BY SINGLE STONE

Ritchie Counts One on Tenth End But Not Enough; City Schedule

In a curling contest that was a battle to the last end, and was won by the minimum margin, A. D. McLeod's curlers defeated A. G. Ritchie's Wednesday night, by a score of 9-8, thereby winning the President's cup competition, which opened December 15, and in which 32 rinks took part, this being the second general competition of the Nelson Curling club for the season.

At the fifth end the two squads were tied, but in the ninth McLeod was two stones up, which proved sufficient, as Ritchie was only able to count one on the tenth and final end.

CITY SCHEDULE

Ten games were curled in the city schedule, which is now about halfway through the play in the four divisions, which will be followed by a play-down among the four division winners. Results in the 10 games were as follows:

R. D. Hall 12, C. E. Mansfield 5.

URGE VINES TO STAY IN SCHOOL

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—Ellsworth Vines' announcement that Davis cup tennis and university studies didn't mix and that he was dropping the studies today brought quick action from the United States Lawn Tennis association, urging him to reconsider.

Vines, national champion, announced his intention in Los Angeles yesterday of quitting the University of Southern California in favor of tournament tennis to prepare himself for a berth on America's cup squad.

Today Holcombe Ward, chairman of the U. S. L. T. A.'s Davis cup committee sent Vines a telegram urging him to stay in school.

WOLVES DOWN ELKS 7-0 IN HOCKEY

Good Hockey Considering the Ice Condition; Play Fairly Clean

Smashing their way through time and again, the Wolves hockey trounced the Elks' team by a score of 7-0 in a game that was thrilling clean and fast even though the ice was badly cut up at the start of the game. Sandy Martin, Elks' goalie, saved many impossible shots and then missed fluky and easy flips that rolled under his skates as he cleared. Carlson, net minder for the Wolves was the star of the game with his brilliant goal tending and it was through him that the Wolves gained their shutout.

Carlson handled a hot one from Slim Horswill as the play opened with the Elks swarming the Wolves goal area. For the first part of the period both teams were relying on the longer shots and did not attempt to perpetrate each other's goal areas. Johnnie Wallace missed a close one when he received a pass from Gillette but Jack MacDonald cleared. Sandy Jackson did a "Percy Jackson" when he saved a sure shot from McKinley's stick. It was a pretty save. With only Carlson to beat Ted Romano overskated the puck and following this "Red" Muraro stickhandled his way through the whole Elks team but was bottled by McKinley and left Romano wide open. Late in the first period O'Genski opened the scoring when he beat Martin who slid over the puck.

WOLVES SCORE THREE

After one minute of play in the second period Jeffs put the Wolves one more up on a solo attempt. McKewan tried hard to get through the Wolves' defence but it was impregnable but at last he wormed his way through to test Carlson with a hot one but "luck" was with the Elks goalie and the shot glanced off the side of the goal mouth. Wallace, McLean and Gillette combined nicely and at the Elks' blue line McKinley grabbed a loose puck and slipped it past Martin for the Elks' third goal. McKinley repeated almost directly after this when he soloed through the whole Elks team and scored on a neat back hand flip shot, that completely fooled Martin. The Elks staged a last half rally and kept the play well in the Wolves' goal area for the remaining part of the period.

CARLSON SAVES WELL

Charlie Jeffs got his first score of the evening when he received an assist from O'Genski. Play seesawed back and forth between ends and both teams took several long shots. It was obvious that both of them were tired out from the effects of the slow ice. Richardson made the nicest play of the evening when he took the puck in his own goal mouth, stickhandled his way through the forward line, tricked the defence and scored on Martin with a lightning shot. Grice ended the scoring when he lifted one in the dying minutes of the game to make the final score seven to nothing.

The Elks certainly deserved better luck than they had and many times during the play shot almost perfectly at Carlson but were spurned in every effort. McKewan, Muraro and Romano were outstanding for the Elks team which relied more on solo efforts than on combination plays as did the Wolves' team. The teams were:

Wolves: Carlson, goal; Richardson and McKinley, defence; McLean, Wallace, Gillette, Arcure, Grice, O'Genski and Jeffs, forwards.

Elks: Martin, goal; Horswill and MacDonald, defence; E. Muraro, Ted Romano, J. Horswill, McKewan, R. Muraro, and O'Genski, forwards.

SCHMELING AND WALKER TO SIGN FOR BOUT TODAY

Articles Call for a 15-Round Bout in Miami on February 28

NEW YORK, Jan. 6—(AP)—The signing of Max Schmeling and Mickey Walker for the 1932 edition of the battle of the palms, delayed after it was expected to take place, is due sometime tomorrow, Jimmy Johnston, boxing director of Madison Square Garden, announced today. The articles which Max and Mickey are slated to sign call for a 15-round title match to take place at Miami, Fla., on February 25.

The match was all settled so far as the heavyweight champion was concerned several days ago but the Garden magnates found a hitch in the proceedings when they came to arrange terms with Walker, Jack Kearns, manager of the challenger, was understood to be holding out for 20 per cent of the gate but he finally agreed to sign for 15 per cent, Johnston said.

The principals will be paid entirely on a percentage basis.

Schmeling will go 40 per cent of the receipts, leaving the Garden with 45 per cent to pay the expenses of promotion and for its own profits.

Johnston gave an estimate that the winter championship fight would draw about $250,000, one of the smallest "gates" for a heavyweight championship match in several years. On this basis Schmeling would collect about $100,000 for his share of the proceeds and Walker would get about $37,500.

STAG HUNTERS GO TO COURT

Are Charged With Causing Unnecessary Suffering During Hunt

HYTHE, Kent, England, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Stag hunting was put on trial today before the Kent magistrates, but after evidence had been heard, the master of the Mid-Kent stag hounds and secretary of the hunt were acquitted. They were charged with cruelt in hunting a deer, and the magistrates dismissed the summonses against them.

The master and the secretary of the hunt were brought in to answer three summonses charging that they caused "unnecessary suffering to a tame deer by unreasonably hunting it," that they "caused the deer to be cruelly terrified," and that they "caused the deer to be cruelly illtreated."

SWAM FAR TO SEA

This was a sequel to a hunt last November when a tame hind named "Bridget" took to sea and swam far out from shore to escape the pursuing hounds.

Counsel for the Royal Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals introduced evidence to show that the hind was conveyed in a cart to the site of the hunt, and that after she was released she stopped to graze.

She was chased away, and ran into the midst of a herd of sheep, where she stopped again, counsel said. The hounds scattered the sheep and the hind ran back to where she had been liberated. Once more she was shooed away, plodding off slowly, but the hounds took after her and she ran six miles to the channel, where, covered with lather, she plunged into the icy water to escape.
