MUNICIPAL RELIEF IS PROVINCE'S DUTY

END WASTE IN MINE WORK IS TUPPER PLEA

Similkameen Member Deals With Coal Industry

ASKS PROTECTION FOR MINE WAGES

Term Uphill's Speech "Semi-Comic and Wholly Tragic"

VICTORIA, March 1 (CP) — Amendments to the Coal Mines act to enable mine inspectors to enforce proper mining practice to the end that wasteful operation may be eliminated; legislation preventing coal mining companies beginning operations unless properly financed; legislation protecting wages of miners through bonds deposited with the finance department where deemed necessary, and a thorough study by some government board, such as the fuel commission, with a view to finding markets for summer production of lignite in the Princeton coalfields, were some of the suggestions offered the government today by C. H. Tupper, Similkameen, in the debate on the budget.

Mr. Tupper drew attention to the serious plight of the coal industry in his riding. Of a dozen companies formerly operating, but two remained, under the management and perhaps substantial financial assistance of W. R. Wilson. All the others had met financial reverses, some of them defaulted on miners' wages to the extent of $15,000 and nearly all owed large sums to merchants of the district.

BOY MONARCH FOR SIAMESE?

CRANLEIGH, England, March 1 (CP)—The world may know another boy-monarch if King Prajadhipok of Siam carried out his threat to abdicate in favor of his 11-year-old nephew, Prince Ananda.

King Prajadhipok tonight framed his formal abdication of Siam's throne, while a phonograph in his study played dance music.

The king had strongly insisted he could not return to the throne unless the government granted his conditions.

Two of the points were the monarch's demand for trial in an ordinary court for persons suspected of opposition to the governments instead of summary judgment at a secret trial, and his objections to provisions specifying that half of the members of the national assembly shall be nominated by the government.

Queen Strikes Past Fault Add Big Virgin Territory to Old Producer's Reserves

Extensive Shoots on No. 7 and No. 3 Levels; Third Strike in a Year; Big Mill Well Advanced

By H. H. CURRIE

Recent ore discoveries on levels 400 feet apart beyond the great fault that for 30 years has formed the westerly boundary of the Queen mine ore showings, and that therefore extend the famous Queen's ore reserves into a territory hitherto entirely virgin, promise to strongly influence the immediate mining policy of Sheep Creek Gold Mines, Ltd., the operating company that is giving the big Sheep creek producer its chance with adequate capital, modern facilties, and large scale development.

The large ore shoot opened in the faulted area on No. 7 level, and not yet completely defined as to length, will speed the further deep development, and in fact the further sinking of the new shaft for a No. 8 level by which the deep ore will be taken out has already begun. Though the exploration of the new shoot on No. 3 level, the one just found, is as yet only at an early stage, it has already been decided, should the new upper shoot be found to be extensive, that it shall have the honor of leading off in sending its ore to the fine new mill just nearing completion on the bank of Wolf creek.

This is the third new body of ore found by the company since the mine, last operated at depth during the war, was unwatered last winter, as the company's first step in applying capital to it.

GREAT STRIKE IN SUMMER

That initial strike was on No. 7 level, the deepest of the mine, in an easterly direction from the old shaft, and beyond a small fault which had foiled the earlier operators. This ore body, the apparent downward continuation of ore known above, was practically continuous for 300 feet of drift, and of drift width, its values averaging 5 ounce in gold, or better than $20 per ton, a high grade milling ore.

On the strength of this discovery, the company adopted a policy of

NIP REVOLT IN GREECE'S NAVY

Army Also Intended Walk Out Upon Government

ATHENS, March 1 (AP).—Martial law was invoked throughout Greece tonight after an attempt to launch a simultaneous revolt in the army and navy was crushed by the government.

Several warships and the arsenal at Salamis were reported still to be resisting "feebly", but government circles said their surrender was expected hourly.

The revolt was blamed upon supporters of former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos, political foe of the present regime.

Lady Killed by Auto in Spokane

SPOKANE, Wash., March 1 (AP) —Mrs. Elva Cotter, 79, was killed almost instantly here tonight by an automobile.

Deputy sheriffs said Joseph Percy, Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, drove the automobile which struck her as she was crossing a highway near the city limits. Percy was ordered to report to the county prosecutor's office tomorrow.

The officer quoted him as saying he did not see her until the car was upon her.

SAAR'S RETURN TO GERMANY A HAPPY DAY FOR EUROPE DECLARES HITLER

Way Finally Cleared for Improving Relations With the French

By RUDOLF JOSTEN
Copyright 1935 by the Associated Press

SAARBRUECKEN, Germany, March 1—Adolf Hitler—amid such storms of cheering as even he has seldom heard—welcomed the Saar back to Germany today as 15 years of foreign control of the basin officially terminated.

Hitler terrified the day, one of delirious rejoicing for the Saar and all Germany, "happy not only for Germany but for all Europe."

"It is quite possible," Hitler told his vast; widely cheering audience, "that by this return the crisis was

QUEEN'S STUDENT KILLED IN CRASH

COBOURG, Ont., March 1 (CP).—David Sabbath of Montreal, a student at Queen's University, was killed and two fellow students were injured when an auto in which they were riding collided with the westbound Canadian National Railways Montreal train at a crossing here tonight.

Hyman Levine, also of Montreal, suffered a fracture of his skull, and other injuries. He was taken to a hospital unconscious. Levine was riding in the back seat with Sabbath.

Alex Grant, driver of the auto, suffered a fracture of one arm and leg injuries. William Goldberg, Montreal, who was in the front seat with Grant, was unhurt.

The four students were on their way to Toronto for the week-end.

KOOTENAYITES ON COMMITTEE OF C. M. A.

VANCOUVER, March 1 (CP) —W. J. West, Vancouver, was chosen chairman of the British Columbia division, Canadian Manufacturers' association at the annual meeting here tonight. A. E. McMaster, Vancouver, was elected vice-chairman.

R. E. Horton of Nelson and C. O. Rodgers of Creston were selected as members of the division transportation committee.

TRAPPER KILLED

EDMONTON, March 1 (CP)—Believed to have been attacked by a grizzly bear Monday while on his trap line in northern Alberta, Malcolm MacDonald, 50, veteran prospector and trapper in the north is dead, according to an unconfirmed report received here today.

MacDonald had been trapping in the northern section of the province for the past 20 years and was a veteran of the Alaskan gold fields.

Police Threaten To Go on Strike

TORONTO, March 1 (CP).—Faced with an emphatic announcement from the Toronto Police association that local police officers would strike Saturday at midnight unless the good conduct badge system was restored, Mayor James Simpson moved tonight to avert a tie-up in the city's police service.

PARIS, March 1 (CP-Havas).—The chamber of deputies today voted overwhelmingly for women's suffrage in France, and simultaneously granted women the right to stand as candidates for national, departmental and municipal office.

The vote was 453 to 124.

Roebuck Terms Power Contracts "Illegal Strangle-holds Upon People"; Predicts Ruin

TORONTO, March 1 (CP)—Power purchase contracts negotiated by the Ontario hydro-electro power commission with three Quebec power companies, Beauharnois, Gatineau and MacLaren, Quebec, "are illegal, unenforcable and void ab initio," Hon. A. W. Roebuck, attorney-general, declared today in the Ontario legislature.

Concluding a nine-hour address in which for three successive days during the throne speech debate he has been reviewing Ontario's hydro situation, he invoked the British North America act in his attack on the contracts.

"These contracts are iniquitous," he said. "They are strangle-holds upon the people whom we are sworn to represent. They will cramp the development of this province and may ruin its commercial structure."

He had made no recommendations, nor would he comment further when questioned later, but left the matter in the hands of the legislature.

WHERE ILLEGAL

MONTREAL, March 1 (CP) — Rather than to make flat statements that power purchase contracts between the Ontario hydro commission and three Quebec power companies are "illegal, unenforcable and void ab initio," it would be better for Attorney-General A. W. Roebuck of Ontario to outline in just what manner the contracts are illegal, George H. Montgomery, K.C., vice-president and counsel for the Montreal Light, Heat & Power, Cons., stated here tonight.

BONDS WEAKEN

MONTREAL, March 1 (CP) — Marked weakness in public utility bonds was reported today by the Montreal Bond Traders association following the speech by Hon. Arthur Roebuck, attorney-general of Ontario, who attacked validity of contracts between Ontario hydro commission and certain Quebec power companies.

ESLING URGES BLIND PENSION

Says Million a Year Is Little Compared to Public Works

OTTAWA, March 1 (CP) — To give pensions to blinded persons at the age of 40, in accordance with the Old Age Pensions act, would cost about $1,000,000 a year, W. K. Esling (cons., West Kootenay) today told the house industrial and international relations committee. In view of large sums being spent on public works, this was an infinitesimal amount, said Mr. Esling.

The committee was occupied through much of its sitting with discussion of whether the Dominion had the power to grant such pensions in view of the fact old age pensions were a matter of contract between the Dominion and the provinces.

Mr. Esling, however, did not think a province would "humiliate itself by refusing pensions to the blind."

Witnesses were heard today from the Canadian federation of the blind.

J. T. Heggie of Montreal said the blind would prefer a separate federal measure. However, the house of commons should bear in mind that any pensions should be paid to all needy or unemployed blind with or without age limitations.

J. A. Conley of Regina, federal vice-president of the federation, informed the committee the blind were not asking for charity but a chance to make good.

Imperial Tobacco Surplus Increased

MONTREAL, March 1 (CP)—Surplus of $2,018,808 compared with a 1933 surplus of $1,980,540 was shown today in the 1934 financial statement of the Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada, Ltd. Earnings were equal to 56.3 cents per share on the 9,651,032 ordinary shares of $5 par value outstanding against 55.7 cents per share earnings in 1933.

Net profits were $5,619,767 in comparison with $5,713,358 in 1933. Deduction of preferred dividends at $402,959 and common dividends at $3,207,861 left a surplus of $2,018,-808, and there was a profit and loss balance of $8,500,468.

MEXICO CITY, March 1 (AP).—Police announced tonight a plot to overthrow the Mexican government had been discovered with the arrest of seven men and the seizure of 2500 rifle cartridges.

Five of the men were arrested in the town of Celaya, state of Guanajuato, where police said seditious propaganda was also seized.

NOTABLES FOR CANADA START CANCER FUNDS

Open 66-day Drive in Connection With Jubilee

TO FIGHT RISE OF THE DISEASE

Countess Makes But Brief Appeal Over the Radio

OTTAWA, March 1 (CP) — The Governor-general, Countess Bessborough, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, and Sir George Perley joined tonight in launching a 66-day campaign to raise money for a national cancer relief fund to commemorate the 25th anniversary of King George's accession to the throne. The prime minister, ill with a cold, was not present but his speech was read by Sir George, acting premier.

Over a coast-to-coast network of the Canadian radio broadcasting commission the Earl of Bessborough inaugurated the campaign for the King George V Silver Jubilee Cancer fund for Canada by asking that every household in the Dominion send $1 or more to Lady Bessborough who has undertaken to receive and acknowledge all contribu-

JUNGLE HIDES FATE OF LADY

Wife of Governor of North Rhodesia and Doctor Lost

LIVINGSTONE, Northern Rhodesia, March 1 (CP cable via Reuters)—Lady Margaret Young, pretty wife of the governor of Northern Rhodesia, and her physician, were still lost in the jungle tonight many hours after their airplane had been forced down.

They took off from here for Lusaka, 300 miles distant, yesterday afternoon. When darkness fell tonight hundreds of searchers who had begun to scour the animal-infested terrain had to report failure to find any trace of the machine and its passengers. Lady Young, although convalescing from an attack of influenza, was at the controls with Dr. J. Kerby, government medical officer, as passenger.

Four planes conducted a systematic search from the air and will resume it tomorrow.

In addition, the Rhodesia railways organized a search party of 100 men while 200 native soldiers of the North Rhodesia regiment were enlisted for the hunt.

Customs Rules on Tourists in Canada Relaxed

OTTAWA, March 1 (CP)—Beginning today customs restrictions affecting tourists will be somewhat relaxed, a statement issued by Hon. R. C. Matthews, minister of national revenue, indicated.

A change of particular interest to Canadian motorists has been made concerning collection of duty and taxes from Canadians on compulsory repairs effected outside of Canada. Hereafter, the returning tourist will be required to satisfy the collector as to the bona fides of his case, and will be called upon to pay duty only on those repairs effected abroad which cannot be regarded as compulsory.

Included in other changes are two which affect the nonresident temporary visitor in Canada. In the past the tourist who arrived by automobile with a considerable quantity of tourist's outfit, such as sporting paraphernalia, was required to complete two forms. The automobile permit will now take the form of a combination of the two.

The other important revision affects the temporary admission at frontier ports of tourists from abroad whose visit is confined to points within the jurisdiction of the frontier port of arrival. This period has now been extended to 48 hours to cover week-ends and holidays.

Founder of Biscuit Company Dead

VANCOUVER, March 1 (CP)—Frederick Walter Harris, 79, one of the founders of the National Biscuit and Confection Co., is dead here following a lengthy illnes.

After his arrival here 45 years ago from London, he became active in salmon canning and was prominent in that industry for 30 years. He was associated with the National Biscuit and Confection Co., Ltd., until a few years ago when failing health forced him into retirement.

Pound Sterling Sinks Three Cts. Below Parity With Gold

Bar Gold Goes to a Record High on London List

LONDON, March 1 (CP cable) —Public attention was focussed tonight on the pound sterling's continued decline in terms of foreign exchange, even while commentators stressed it naturally was as good as ever so far as internal purchasing power is concerned.

The continued decline, ascribed to a variety of causes in which continental nervousness over the pound's future seemed foremost, was accompanied by a stimulation of trade on the stock exchange in which South African gold mine shares were predominant. Industrial stocks improved on better trade returns.

While the price of bar gold went to a record high, advancing a shilling an ounce to 45 shillings and one penny—the equivalent of better than $35 in United States funds—the pound sank to three cents below its old gold parity with the United States dollar here. (New York the pound closed at $4.81½, a loss of nearly five cents in two days.) Measured by the French gold franc, the pound was down to 11 shillings and eight pence.

FEAR FUTURE DECLINE

The blunt statement of Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, that no stabilization was in prospect in the near future, likely touched off the new drop. But also figuring, were the British deficit on the international balance of payments in gold, the large increase in British government subsidies, the adverse trade balanced and the belief—correct or incorrect—that further decline was in prospect.

So far, however, the depreciation has not affected the cost of living here. The index, indeed, is still slightly below the figure of September, 1931, when Britain went off gold. The Evening Standard declared there was neither nervousness in the country nor cause for nervousness over the pound's fall abroad. "The most important fact is that it still purchases a pound's worth of goods in this country, and a very good pound's worth at that," it added.

HARD ON GOLD BLOC

All markets seemed to be taking the current weakness with equanimity. The Financial News declared the "half-hearted attitude of the London authorities has given rise to the view on the continent that the British government is in favor of a renewed depreciation of sterling for political reasons," and added "there is reason to believe those who assume our authorities would like to see the sterling-dollar rate much lower are not far wrong."

The Telegraph asserted that if the decline was not arrested "big questions may soon be forced to the front for settlement," saying a further fall in the sterling rate against the franc would produce acute difficulties for the remaining gold bloc nations.

MARCH COMES IN LIKE THE LAMB

A bright, sunny day with but an odd zephyr to stir the air, brought March in like a lamb at Nelson Friday, and if the soothsayers are to be believed, the district is due for another dose of bad weather when the month "goes out like a lion."

With but 5 degrees of frost during the night and a high for the day of 45 degrees, snow went faster than on any previous day of the last week.

ADVERTISE AND BRING TOURIST TRADE IS URGE

VICTORIA, March 1 (CP).—Formation of a B.C. development commission to foster, supervise, advertise and develop the tourist industry of B.C., and the flotation of a domestic bond issue in small denominations to finance construction of roads were advocated in the legislature today by Norman W. W[illegible]ker, Liberal, Saanich.

"The time has come for our provincial government to step in and take a hand in placing B.C. in the position where she rightly belongs—that of the foremost tourist province of Canada," the Saanich member declared.

Lloyd George Calls "New Deal" Experts for Study of Plans to Submit to Government

LONDON, March 1 (AP)—David Lloyd George, the little "Welsh wizard," called his "new deal" experts into conference tonight to draft detailed recovery plans for Britain after Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald requested their submission to the cabinet.

The government leader's invitation to Lloyd George, himself a former premier, which was revealed today, said the cabinet would be pleased to consider the "new deal" immediately if Lloyd George would submit details, estimates, and calculations.

From his home in Churt, the little Welshman, who has been stumping England and Wales in behalf of his plans, telephoned he would be "pleased to accede to the prime minister's request."

A week ago, speaking at Manchester, Lloyd George attacked Mr. MacDonald and Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, charging they had turned down his proposals for economic reconstruction.

Mr. MacDonald told the wartime prime minister his government had been awaiting details of the "new deal" ever since the Welshman's speech at Bangor, Wales, in which he launched the movement.

HOW WILL B.C. FINANCE WHEN CITIES FAIL?

Cities in Trouble Due to Inaction of the Government

CLAIMS ITEMS OUT OF BUDGET

Urges Drastic Cut in Government Cost in B. C.

VICTORIA, March 1 (CP).—The provincial government should grant some measure of relief to municipalities at the present session and reimburse itself by the proceeds of temporary legislation until it is ready to implement the situation in a permanent way, Herbert Anscomb, Ind., told the legislature today.

"I find it difficult to see how the government can continue to ignore the requests of the municipalities for some immediate relief," said Mr. Anscomb.

"We have the spectacle of the two largest cities in the province openly telling the government that they are unable to continue to function and that they will repudiate their obligations unless relief is granted to them.

WHAT WILL B. C. DO?

"What use, I ask, will it do the province to attempt even to place its own financial house in order if these two cities with a combined debt equal to half of that of the province, and nearly all of it held outside the province, are to be

TWO MISSION MEN MURDERED

Executed in China by Bandits Who Asked Ransom

CHANGTEH, Hunan Province, China, March 1 (AP).—Two British missionaries, R. A. Boshardt and A. Hayman, captured by Communists in Kwichow province last October, have been executed by their captors, according to Chinese reports reaching missionaries here.

A Chinese asserted he saw the hacked bodies of the two missionaries lying in a street in the village of Pengchiangkan, 10 miles west of Tayung, in northwestern Hunan province. He reported that the alleged double murder occurred Christmas day and said the incident had not been reported sooner because of the remoteness of the village and the difficulty in penetrating red army lines.

VENIOT, FORMER P.M. GENERAL, SAYS HE WILL FIGHT BEFORE IS ARRESTED

Hears Contempt of Court Proceedings Launched; Asks House Protection

OTTAWA, March 1 (CP).—Hon. Peter Veniot, former post-master general, stood in the house of commons today and warned he would fight if anyone attempted to arrest him. He called for protection of the house against possible action for contempt of court arising from statements made by a Montreal lawyer in the Bronfman preliminary hearing in that city.

The veteran Gloucester Liberal startled the house at the end of a leisurely discussion of farmers' debts when he arose to protest utterances of the Montreal lawyer who was said to have asked for a writ against him. It concerned Mr. Veniot's speech in the house a week or so ago when he charged that the Royal Canadian Mounted police used third-degree methods. This was the contempt alleged.

ENJOYS IMMUNITY

Prompt assurance that Mr. Veniot would enjoy full privilege of parliamentary immunity was forthcoming from Hon. E. N. Rhodes, minister of finance, who was leading the house, and Hon. Maurice Dupre, acting minister of justice, said he had never heard of the matter.

Parliament was the highest court in the country, said Mr. Veniot, and although he was prepared to "take my medicine" any time and stand by his statements he would not tolerate any lawyer representing the crown bringing his name "before the courts in a matter of contempt" for what he had stated on his honor as a member of parliament.

B. C. RELIEF ROLL IS OVER 100,000 MARK, JANUARY

VICTORIA, March 1 (CP).—The relief roll in British Columbia went over the 100,000 mark in January, according to official figures released today by the relief department.

The figures showed 20,319 heads of families, 57,437 dependents and 15,255 single persons dependent on relief, with 7780 men in national defence camps, a grand total of 100,771.

This compares with 111,001 persons on relief in January, 1934, and 93,924 in December.

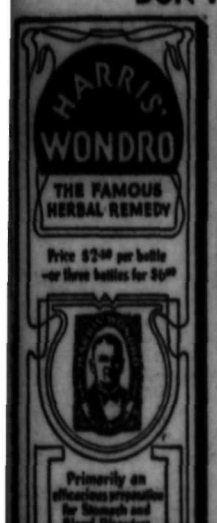
ARTHRITIS CONQUERED BY FAMOUS HERBAL REMEDY

DON'T GIVE UP HOPE



Life's Greatest Asset is Good Health.

PROMINENT VANCOUVER LADY WAS HELPLESS WITH RHEUMATOID ARTHRITIS

Dear Sir:—Seven years ago I contracted Rheumatoid Arthritis. I tried every treatment and remedy which I thought would help. My doctors did everything possible for me but finally told me there was no hope. I grew worse and my system got so run down I only weighed 89 pounds.

The pain in my hands and feet, in fact, all over my body, got so bad that I became helpless. Friends advised me to try Harris' Wondro and after the first two bottles I was able to stand on my feet. Since then I have improved steadily, gaining in health and strength until now I do all my own housework and even go shopping. It was sure a Godsend for me, for after years of suffering I can now write and even play the piano, and have gained 20 pounds in weight. I can not speak too highly of Harris' Wondro and what it has done for me, and can recommend it to anyone suffering as I did.—Yours very truly,

MRS. A. McKENZIE,
2555 West 10th Avenue, Vancouver B.C.

NEW WESTMINSTER MAN OUT OF BED AND BACK TO WORK AFTER TAKING HARRIS' WONDRO

Dear Sir:—I was laid up about two years ago with what the doctor diagnosed as Arthritis. I had it in both my knees and right ankle which confined me to bed for over four months. I tried Harris' Wondro on the advice of a friend, with the consent of my doctor who, needless to say, was frankly sceptical, but agreed to wait and watch results. He waited and the results were highly satisfactory. After taking four or five boxes of Harris' Wondro Capsules I got out of bed and went back to work and have not lost a day since. The trouble seems to have disappeared.

I have recommended your remedy to several friends and they are finding it very beneficial. I am still taking it myself and shall have no hesitation in recommending it to anyone similarly afflicted. You may make use of this testimonial if you care to.

Yours very truly,
ROBERT BEDGAR,
2319 Eighth Ave., New Westminster, B. C.

RHEUMATISM, RHEUMATOID ARTHRITIS, NEURITIS, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, ETC.

Harris' Wondro offers complete and lasting relief from any of the above-mentioned afflictions. Hyperacidity, inflammation of the nerves and a shortage of calcium and other mineral elements in the blood are some of the causes of these painful maladies. Rheumatism, if allowed to continue without treatment often rapidly develops into a chronic disease such as Rheumatoid Arthritis, which makes life miserable for the sufferer. Do not harm your system by taking powerful drugs to relieve the pain when you begin to find it painful to move your cold fingers, hands or feet, particularly in the morning and your realize that your joints are swollen and stiff. These warnings prove that your run-down system is susceptible to the excruciating torments of rheumatism or any of its kindred and more chronic diseases.

DELAY NO LONGER—TAKE HARRIS' WONDRO

Harris' Wondro can also be obtained in capsule form—reduced price $2.50 per box, straight. One separate bottle of Harris' Laxico, a medicine for constipation, is included free with every bottle or box of Harris' Wondro, sent by mail postpaid, from Calgary to country points.

ENTER FINAL SESSION UP 2-1 AND THEN SCORE THREE UPON CUB TEAM—POWER PLAYS PAY

Cubs Play Open Game Only One Assist in Scoring

VANCOUVER, March 1 (CP).—Kimberley Dynamiters took a stranglehold on the British Columbia senior amateur hockey title and the right to advance into the Allan cup inter-provincial playdowns when they defeated Vancouver Cubs 5-1 here tonight. It was Kimberley's second straight victory in the three-out-of-five series. They won Wednesday night 3-0. The teams will meet here again next Tuesday night.

POWER PLAYS BRING GOALS

The Dynamiters, after breezing through two periods entered the final session with a slim 2-1 lead, then cut loose with a series of power plays that netted three goals and blasted whatever hopes the coast club had of carrying the series to three games.

Cubs counted their lone tally early in the first period but their lead was short lived as the Dynamiters tied it up before the session ended, marked up a second goal in the middle period, and went on to win decisively with a furious third session attack.

CUBS PLAY OPEN GAME

The victory gives Kimberley the right to represent British Columbia against Alberta in the Allan cup playdowns for the second consecutive year.

Under orders from Manager George Irvine to "go out and score," the Cubs dropped the defensive style of play that characterized the game Wednesday and played wide-open hockey as they bore in on the Dynamiters' net.

AN EASY GOAL

Just before the five-minute mark in the opening session the Cubs broke through the tight Kimberley defence to chalk up their first score of the series. Norm McQuade, veteran winger, grabbed the puck near center ice and raced down right wing. He stumbled as he started to skirt the Kimberley defence and let go a weak backhand shot that rolled toward the Dynamiters' goal to bounce off Eric Hornquist's skate into the net.

Two minutes later the visitors evened the score when Ken Moore and Harry Brown combined. Bill Henderson, Vancouver defenceman, carried the puck to the Kimberley defence, where he was stopped dead by Clarence Reddick. Brown, who had followed the Vancouver rush, swept in and hooked the loose puck, then tore back toward the Cubs' goal with Moore on his wing. Brown went around the defence, then passed to Moore who was close in and batted a low hard drive that Engleman in the Cubs' goal had no chance to save.

Puffy Kempt put the Dynamiters ahead at the half-way mark in the second session on a solo effort.

KEMP SCORES

Kemp picked up a loose puck at his own defence after a Vancouver rush had been broken up and carried the disc into Vancouver territory. After a scramble in front of the Cubs' net Kemp drove a whistling shot past Engleman as the Vancouver goalie lunged vainly in an effort to save.

The Dynamiters speeded up play, tearing in on Engleman to shower him with rubber from all angles. McRae missed a chance to tie the score for the coast club when he sneaked past the Kimberley defence only to shoot wide of the net.

Near the latter part of the period the Dynamiters played two men short as Brown and Moore went off, but the Cubs were unable to use the advantage as the visitors laid down a defence that refused to open up. Moore and Brown came back, but Ralph Redding went off for tripping Dick Scott, who broke through for an almost certain goal. Dynamiters, however, tightened up and the Cubs failed to take advantage of the break.

Cubs opened the final session with a series of rushes that carried McQuade and Larry Stevens close in to the Kimberley net but Hornquist easily handled their rather feeble drives.

REDDING SCORES

Just before mid-period Redding, following up on a two-man Kimberley rush, cut in to pick up a loose puck in front of the Vancouver net which Engleman had failed to clear, and banged the disc past the Cub goalie.

Five minutes later Brown added another counter for the Dynamiters on a smart play. The Kimberley defenceman carried the puck from near his own net, splitting the Vancouver defence, but found himself too close in to shoot. He circled the net and poked the rubber into the corner before Engleman could change position.

Paul Kozak ended the scoring with a minute and a half to the final whistle, cutting loose with a hard drive from just inside the Vancouver blue line. The shot slipped underneath Engleman's outstretched arm.

LINEUPS

Kimberley: Hornquist; Brown, Reddick; A. Mackie, K. Moore, Redding; subs, Kozak, Forsey, Kemp, Botterill.

Vancouver: Engleman; Henderson, Gamlin; Scott, McQuade, Schuman; subs, Stevens, McRae, Helem, Mapes.

Officials: Leo Desireau, Nelson, and Carl Jacobs, Vancouver.

SUMMARY

First period:

1—Vancouver, McQuade 4:58; 2—Kimberley, Moore (Brown) 7:10. Penalties: Gamlin, McRae.

Third period:

4—Kimberley, Redding 8:10; 5—Kimberley, Brown 13:30; 6—Kimberley, Kozak 18:30. Penalties, Schuman (2), Moore, Redding.

MORE ABOUT TUPPER'S TALK

"Shoestring" operators, the Similkameen member charged, had ruined some properties through wasteful mining practices and something must be done to correct the evil.

Mr. Tupper described himself as a newcomer to public life who received his baptism last session. He confessed he secretly envied the dynamic ego of Gerry McGeer, the lightning flashes of Hon. Dr. Weir and the machine-gun like staccato of Attorney-General Sloan. He tried to follow the ponderously involved phrases of Clive Planta (Ind., Peace River) and studied the effect of the "semi-comic and wholly tragic" effort of Tom Uphill. In the end he concluded that the best method for a common locomotive engineer was not to try adopting any style, but to get up steam, blow the whistle, open the throttle and roll along.

Mr. Tupper believed little benefit would accrue from debating the efficacy of the present social system or comparing controlled capitalism with socialism.

"We all admit," he said, "failure of uncontrolled capitalism but neither controlled capitalism nor socialism has yet been demonstrated fully enough to permit of true conclusions.

After describing the plight of coal mining, he spoke of brighter prospects for gold and silver mining, particularly at Hedley, where several companies were coming into production. In the Oliver field six properties were under development. Fruit growers in the Oliver area had a fairly satisfactory crop in 1934. Good roads would prove a boon to the tourist trade and he hoped something would be accomplished along that line.

He proposed hard surfacing of roads from Osoyoos through the Okanagan valley to Kamloops and on to Vancouver. This, he believed, could be done through an issue of British Columbia bonds bearing low interest. He was convinced the people along the uroposed route would gladly subscribe to all the bonds and, if not, the government need not go ahead with the plan.

Steady progress was being made with the Hope-Penticton road, which was 20 years overdue. This season eight miles will be built to the summit of Allison pass, Mr. Tupper told the house.

MORE ABOUT ANSCOMB'S SPEECH

allowed to break that confidence down due entirely to lack of government action.

"With provincial revenues this year almost three million dollars greater than estimated last spring, by what stretch of imagination can anyone justify the continued ignoring of the request of the municipalities for aid that is justly theirs, and was taken away from them in order to bolster up government finances due to the government's inability to handle its own problems?

"It would be difficult of course, to find any business, any household, that could not balance its budget; that is, leave out the sinking fund requirements and unemployment relief costs, two of the largest items of government expenses."

Mr. Anscomb drew attention to $600,000 of workmen's compensation funds being invested in bonds of defaulting municipalities. Continuation of such a policy would inevitably lead to decreased compensation for widows, orphans and disabled workmen, or the government would be forced to make good the difference between the amounts they now receive and the amounts available due to defaults of municipalities.

Reading a letter from the assistant comptroller of the London county council, Mr. Anscomb corrected an editorial in a Vancouver paper to the effect that the London body had reduced interest rates on its outstanding bonds without notice. The letter explained that all bonds had become redeemable in 1929 and a year's notice had been given of intention to call them in. This had been done.

The speaker drew attention to the fact that inscribed stock was not included in Hon. Mr. Hart's refunding scheme and asked just what equity there was in giving better treatment to a holder of securities living in England than to one living on this continent. It was well known, he admitted, that if this government introduced legislation to repudiate inscribed stock, the legislation would either be disallowed by Ottawa or the British government would close the English market to Canada for future loans until the matter was properly adjusted.

There must be drastic reduction in the cost of government, Mr. Anscomb charged. The estimated increase of three millions in revenue this year should be placed to the credit of the municipalities, used to replenish sinking funds and to further reduce the debt of the province. Yet it is proposed to spend it.

There is no scientific approach to debt. If we can not pay the debts of the past, we certainly can not continue our present rate of taxation and our present level of expenditure. Out of 169 votes in the estimates, no fewer than 58 show increases over the estimates of the previous year. How long can that go on before the banks and bondholders decline to lend further?"

Goatfell Notes

GOATFELL EAST CAMP, B.C., March 1.—Among those who motored to Kingsgate and Eastport Wednesday were C. W. James, John Molensky, Fred Coffey Jr., and F. Briggs.

Cyril Radford, of the clerical staff, here, accompanied by Jean Gorrigan and John Molensky, first aid administrator and kitchen assistant respectively, motored to Yahk, on business and pleasure Tuesday.

A. Church of the younger set here has cast his lot with Brum Howard, as assistant on motor-truck activities.

Tom Hickey is making a good showing on his gravel haul for the surfacing of grades here.

Doctor Henderson made a professional call here en route to group headquarters, Yahk, Tuesday.

The new grade, eliminating the old road bed with reverse curves and heavy grades, will be open for traffic Monday, it is expected.

Timbers are being cut and placed in readiness to be utilized for cribbing purposes at the base of the big fills to withhold the loose earth which from time will be required to measure up to grade and thereby re-inforce the road-structure.

Charles Chenier, veteran relief camp worker, is making preparations to leave here, owing to his advancing years rendering him physically unable to carry on. Mr. Chenier has worked in the mines of east and West Kootenays, and in logging camps from Quebec to B. C. for upwards of 30 years and helped blaze the trails for the Crow's Nest Pass railway and other undertakings.

Charlie Madsen has left the kitchen job and is truck driver's assistant under Mr. Briggs.

mill building, and of reorganization of the underground connections on a more economical plan, by a new shaft adjacent to Wolf creek, which would eliminate many hundreds of feet of haulage on every car of ore or waste from the new easterly shoot, which extended underneath Wolf creek. The new shaft was plotted in the country rock of the north wall 30 feet from the nearly vertical vein, and was constructed as a three-compartment raise from No. 7 level to within 80 feet of the surface, encountering of gravel making it necessary to sink from the surface for the final section. Underground it cuts Nos. 5 and 7 levels, while No. 3 comes out at the surface.

While the new shaft was under construction, a site was being graded on Wolf creek for the big new mill decided on, and the building was put up, together with accessory buildings, the actual building program, apart from the installation ,being completed in December. Simultaneously the Queen was equipped for commercial hydro-electric power from the new Sheep Creek line of the West Kootenay Power & Light company, and a new 1000-cubic foot compressor was installed in a new compressor house to handle the drills, the plant in the old mill facing on Sheep creek being in reserve.

DEEP ORE PAST WEST FAULT

First use of the electric power development work, apart from the shaft construction, was in exploration started in December on the westerly end of No. 7 level—past the old shaft and past an old stope that was cut off by a major fault that diagonals through the whole mine. After passing through 40 feet of broken rock marking the fault, the drill turned to the north with a crosscut, which located the vein in a distance of 80 feet. The vein was picked up about the turn of the year, and early in January the drift was carrying on in ore.

This deep ore was followed for a distance sufficient to prove its large extent, or for 190 feet, the latter half of that distance averaging .4 ounce in gold, or close to $14 a ton, and then the drift was discontinued as superfluous, as ore could move by No. 7 tunnel to the new shaft only against the grade of the tunnel, which conformed to the necessities of the old shaft.

HIGHER VALUES No. 3

About the first of February the drills started to bite through the major fault as it cut off No. 3 level at its westerly end, on a mission of exploration, and after drifting 29 feet through the broken fault area, they crosscut to the north, as had been done 400 feet lower down, this crosscut picking up the vein after 60 feet. This six-foot vein has now been followed for 40 feet in a westerly direction, and still carries values, for drift width, averaging about .5 ounce in gold, or $18 or so per ton. This work heads into the mountain, with automatic increase of backs.

Both these new ore occurrences are indentified as belonging to the Queen vein, but apparently of a much lower depth than the ore mined in the long-existing workings. It is pointed out, however, that though the two occurrences belong to the one vein, they are not necessarily parts of one ore shoot.

EXTRACT THREE WAYS

Plans for extraction of the ore from the area past the fault cover three distinct routes of attack. The ore from No. 3 level up to the surface will be taken out by way of No. 3. No. 5 level being cut in on the new shaft, the ore from No. 5 to No. 3 will be taken out by No. 5. When the deep ore in the area beyond the fault is mined, its route of exit will be by No. 8.

One week ago further sinking of the new shaft, to give greater depth on the two great shoots on No. 7 level, east and west, was begun, and already 40 feet of new depth has been attained. The new sinking will go down 175 feet below No. 7, and No. 8 level will take off from the shaft at 125 feet. After that the program will be to extend it into the faulted ground to tap the downward continuation of the shoot on No. 7.

General Manager H. E. Doelle has three shifts working on the new shaft extension, and two shifts on continuing the development of No. 7's shoot in the faulted area. Apart from these two activities, the company at present is centering its attention on getting the new mill installed in time for early operation as soon as the new development on No. 3 gives a lead as to which ore source should be used first. In all three shoots, of course, the cutting of chutes for stoping is a matter of the future.

Under the new lineup, when mine and mill are in producing order, the ore from the shaft head will be trammed 300 feet by surface tram to a large crushing plant which will be situated above and at one corner of the new mill, with a bin of 150 tons capacity, the feed passing through a jaw crusher and a gyratory crusher and then entering the 200-ton storage bin at the top of the mill. The crushing plant will handle all the feed the mill can take, in one shift per day.

The main mill building is 115 by 48 feet ground plan, and 48 feet also in greatest height.

All its machinery has been shipped from its various points of origin, and much of it is on the ground. This is the case with most of the agitating and thickening equipment and pumps, which are now being installed. The ball mill and the gyratory crusher are expected to arrive next week.

Cyanidation will be the characteristic process of the big mill, which will dissolve all the gold content of the ore with cyanide solution, later precipitating the solids, and refining the gold to bullion. Its capacity is expected to be between 125 and 130 tons per day of 24 hours. It was designed by the General Engineering company of Salt Lake, and Walter Oliver of Port Arthur is installing the plant as superintendent of construction. It will be ready to go by the time the new shaft gets down to No. 8 level, which will be in another 80 feet.

MORE ABOUT VENIOT TO FIGHT

authorizing issue of a writ against him and Mr. Rhodes said he would be very much surprised if any such instruction had been issued.

"I am not blaming the department of justice at all," said Mr. Veniot. "I wanted to know whether they had heard anything of it, because it has been done. Suppose between now and Monday an attempt is made to arrest me. Your honor, I want to say to you and to this house I would not stand for arrest. I would use force."

Mr. Veniot based his uterance on a newspaper telegram handed to him which said: "Crankshaw, assistant prosecutor in Bronfman case, charges Veniot in contempt of court for charging R.C.M.P. with third degree methods while case proceeding."

NO CHARGE MADE

MONTREAL, March 1 (CP).—"I know nothing of it, and I doubt very much the possibility of a writ being issued," Judge Jules Desmarais commented here tonight on a report from Ottawa that former Postmaster-General Peter Veniot had claimed to have receive information he was about to be served with a writ charging him with contempt of court.

Judge Desmarais is now presiding over the preliminary hearing of several accused charged with participation in an alleged $3,000,000 liquor conspiracy uncovered by Royal Canadian Mounted police. Mr. Veniot made statements in the house of commons recently tending to indicate that the R.C.M.P. had resorted to third degree methods to secure evidence in the smuggling case.

During the hearing today Judge Desmarais stated he had never been given any evidence that the R.C.M.P used third degree methods in the present case or in any other.

REALIZES ACTION IMPOSSIBLE

MONTREAL, March 1 (CP).—Although he realized no action could be taken against former Postmaster-General Peter Veniot for remarks he made in the house of commons concerning the alleged use of third degree methods by Royal Canadian Mounted police, James Crankshaw, special Dominion government prosecutor in the $5,000,000 liquor conspiracy case, declared here tonight. "I still thing that for anyone to pass remarks such as Mr. Veniot made while a case is pending technically constitutes a contempt of court."

averted under which two great neighbor nations suffered.

CLEARS WAY FOR PEACE

"By this act of equality and justice, the way finally has been cleared for improving our relations with France. Just as we desire peace, so it is hoped our neighbor folk is willing to cooperate in common work for averting the difficulty which threatens to engulf Europe."

Earlier the administration of the tiny coal basin, taken from Germany after the war by the treaty of Versailles and administered the last 15 years by the league of nations, was officially turned over to the Nazis.

The city's population, swelled by the more than 300,000 holiday-making visitors from the reich and elsewhere who poured in yesterday and today, went quite mad with adulation. Hitler was thunderously applauded as he drove for 25 minutes through streets smothered in flags and buntings and lined with throngs shouting "heils."

"It was one of the most beneficient decisions imaginable when at last this election was set," Hitler told the uncounted thousands listening. "Its result was expected, and this region, which might have become an apple of discord, was returned to Germany, from which it was torn in violation of right and common sense."

FUN IN BERLIN

BERLIN, March 1 (AP)—Germany welcomed the Saar back home today in the greatest fanfare since the Nazis seized power two years ago.

The reich, from one end to the other, was on the march until well after dusk, while bands played and crowds sang.

Biggest celebrations took place in Berlin, where the city's entire population appeared to have joined storm troopers and reichswehr (regular army) forces in tramping through the streets.

All Germany's other cities, almost without exception, staged celebrations and parades, and local speakers addressed enthusiastic throngs.

TECUMSEHS WORK WAY INTO A TIE AT LEAGUE TOP

LONDON, Ont., March 1 (CP).—London Tecumsehs jumped into a tie with Detroit Olympics for International Hockey league leadership tonight by defeating Syracuse Stars 4-1.

Three thousand five hundred spectators watched Jack Toupin and Eric Pettinger, former Regina playmakers, score two goals a piece for the winners. The Stars' lone goal was registered by Dave Downie.

tions which will be turned over for administration to a seven-member board of trustees.

The campaign will close May 6, silver jubilee of his majesty's accession.

CANCER INCREASES

In his speech the governor-general recalled that in 1926 a total of 7614 persons in Canada died of cancer and that the figure had risen by 1933 to 10,646 deaths. "I am told," he said, "that the public's knowledge of present-day facilities for the diagnosis and treatment of cancer is not much better than it was in respect to tuberculosis 20 years ago."

His excellency said the director of "one of the largest and oldest radium institues for the treatment of cancer in this Dominion states that 25 per cent of all cancer cases that come to that institute are cured. In his opinion the ratio of cures would be raised 75 per cent if only the public and physicians would cooperate in reporting cases in the early stages of the disease."

SOME CENTRAL AID

"It is essential," he declared, "that there should be some central source of assistance in this cause. Therefore, it has been decided that the silver jubilee of his majesty can be permanently commemorated in no more fitting manner than by the creation of a permanent anti-cancer fund."

The governor-general referred to the fact that Lady Bessborough "is especially anxious to be associated with me in commending to you this great cause." All contributions should be sent to her and they would be acknowledged.

Prime Minister Bennett's speech told the nation-wide audience it was asked to contribute to the fund "in order to make possible the work of investigation and demonstration in cancer research and suggested that "possibly some Canadian may, like Banting, make all mankind his debtor and discover the cause and cure for this relentless foe."

THANKFUL GIFTS

Earlier in his speech the premier referred to Sir Frederick Banting's discovery of the insulin treatment for diabetes, "one of the greatest enemies of health." He recalled also the work of the late professor and Mme. Curie, French scientists who demonstrated radium emanations could be used for cancer treatment.

It would be difficult, Mr. King said, to imagine an act of thanksgiving more suitable than the cancer fund. "It is due to the though of his excellency that the tangible sign of our loyalty and affection is to be devoted to scientific research and to the alleviation of suffering in our own Dominion. * * *"

The premier ended the program with a brief appeal, saying: "I am only going to add a very few words to what you have already hear this evening. I believe that the men and women of the Dominion are anxious to have a lasting memorial of their love and respect for their majesties. I believe, too, that it is impossible to have a better memorial than this trust fund which is launched to work against this dreadful disease. I am asking you all to send me a dollar, or anything more you are able to spare, so that this national memorial may be worthy of a great Dominion, and now, good night."

Luscar Ties With Edmonton's Sups

LUSCAR, Alta., March 1 (CP).—Luscar Indians evened the series for the northern Alberta senior hockey championship tonight when they defeated Edmonton Superiors 4-2 here. Michael Onyschuk led the Indians to victory with two goals.

Superiors won the first game of the series at Edmonton last week, 4-2, and the final and deciding game will be played here tomorrow.

B.C. BUSINESS IS ON THE UPGRADE

Day of Rugged Individualism Passed, Says Robson to Manufacturers

VANCOUVER, March 1 (CP).—"Cooperation, either voluntary or involuntary, is an establisned part of our business structure," J. G. Robson, chairman, said in his annual address to the British Columbia division of the Canadian Manufacturers' association tonight. He was referring to marketing legislation.

"There seems to be a growing feeling throughout the country that the heyday of 'rugged individualism' is past and that we definitely are entering a new era in merchandizing under which the producer is quite definitely his brother's keeper," Mr. Robson stated.

Of other recent legislation, he did not feel at ease as to the possible effect of eight-hour day legislation on British Columbia industry. It was necessary in a province whose industrial development was in a large measure in a pioneering stage, that any such regulation, however desirable it might be, be administered with considerable flexibility as had been the case with provincial laws of this nature. If applied rigidly or by rule of thumb, hardship would be worked on both employees and employers.

"There can be no question that business in British Columbia is on the upgrade," the chairman stated.

Honest Man Insane

The opinion of sceptics is confirmed in the case of Frank Gregg (above), $5 a week New York sign carrier, who found $42,000 in bonds and he returned them. The man fell dead at his feet.

FERNIE CONCERT HELPS HOSPITAL

FERNIE, B.C., Mar. 1.—The first to come to the aid of the Fernie hospital with a benefit concert following the government's recent order stopping the monthly sale of tickets was Miss Helen Podbielancik, A.L.C.M. and her pupils. The costume recital given in the Catholic auditorium Friday was enjoyed by a highly appreciative audience.

The program opened with a play written by Miss Podbielancik "One Hour of Music and Fun in Fairyland". This play displayed the talents of the youngest children ever presented in a recital in Fernie. The cast of characters included Mary Gates, Albert Ingham, Jack Owen, Gordon Blair, Arthur Winstanley, Evelyn Laurie, Margaret Rewers, Bertram Britney, Muriel Robson, Claire Podbielancik, Charlotte Dicks and Donald Walker.

Those from the kindergarten class taking part were Katherine Thomson (4 years old), Irene Hockley, Irene Manion, Bill Commons and Clifford Lindenberger. The play included several vocal and piano solos, duets and trios and a two piano number by Charlotte Dicks and Donald Walker. The play closed with a brilliant rendering of the song "The Fairy Pipers."

The solo, duet and trio work of the advanced students was excellent. Special comment was made on "The Poet and Peasant" piano trio by Lorraine Nolan, Edith Rewers and Joy Yates, the piano duet "Barber of Seville" by Lorraine Nolan and Edith Rewers and the artistic rendering of Joy Yates' piano solo. Advanced students who took part were Lorraine Nolan, Edith Rewers, Janet Walker, Joy Yates, Alice Payne, Eileen Krall and Adeline Ungaro. Interspersing the instrumental numbers were two delightful dancing choruses "Winter Wonderland" and "Stars Fell on Alabama" rendered by Margaret Rewers, Mary Gates, Muriel Robson, Charlotte Dicks, Claire Podbielancik, Bertram Britney, Donald Walker and Jack Owen. The vocal solos and solo dance parts were taken by Charlotte Dicks and Muriel Robson.

Local artists assisting were Miss M. Anderson, Miss I. Dicken, F. Alexander and J. Connick. H. E. Douglas opened the recital and at the close presented certificates for the London College of Music examinations in theory to Lorraine Nolan, Edith Rewers, Muriel Robson, Hilda Winstanley, Adeline Ungaro and Eileen Krall. All were honor students.

CURLING SPIEL ENDS

The local curling bonspiel wound up Tuesday. In the finals Sanborn defeated Prentice for the Grand Challenge, Wilson defeated Sanborn for the Burns Cup, Maffioli won over Wilson for the Wee McKay. Wilson topped Sissons for the Fernie club. Reid scored over Maffioli for the Ingram cup and Gates defeated Edgar for the consolation.

MUSHROOM CULTURE IS EASY IF DIRECTIONS ARE FOLLOWED

Fair Returns for Any Person Who Will Be Diligent

"While there is nothing in mushroom culture of the "get rich quick" nature, it will provide a reasonable return to those who are willing to take the necessary care in the various cultural details," declares H. R. McLarty, of the Dominion experimental station at Summerland.

"Mushroom culture has long been shrouded in an air of mystery and even now it is more of an art than a science. Nevertheless enough is known of the procedure to assure the amateur a reasonable chance of success, providing the directions are followed exactly.

"The first consideration is the place in which to grow the crop. Though mushrooms do not require any light they are very particular about temperature, and ventilation. Any room in the cellar, the storage house or the root house that can be maintained uniformly at a temperature of 50 to 65 degrees F., is quite suitable. The room, of course, should have some means of ventilation as it is essential that the air in the chamber be changed once a day after the spawn has been planted. The ventilators should be so arranged that a direct draft of air never comes on the culture beds.

"The beds in which the crop is to be grown can be placed either on the floor, if this is not too damp, or they can be made in tiers along a wall. If a large bed on the floor is to be used, walks, 15 inches wide, should be constructed so that any portion of the bed can be easily reached without stepping on the bed. If tiers are used they should be about three feet in height and no more than an arm's length in width. The depth of the bed should be about 10 inches.

"Success or failure in the growing of this crop is largely dependent on the nature of the compost which is to be used in the beds. Many different types of compost have been tried but the only one which has given consistent results, is that which has been properly made from horse manure. An absolutely certain method of curing the manure is one of the grower's most serious problems. Horse manure in which plenty of straw bedding has been left should be selected, since the straw lightens the compost and tends to prevent sourness and sogginess where there is too much water. The manure as it is collected, is placed in flat topped piles three to four feet high, at least that wide, and of any length desired. If dry, it should be wet evenly with a nozzle or sprinkler as it is piled. After three or four days the whole pile is turned over, placing the manure that was on the outside, in the interior of the new pile, at the same time shaking it with the manure fork, sprinkling it with water if it appears dry, and packing it down slightly by tramping. This turning is repeated three to five times at intervals of several days. During this time the temperature of the manure should reach 140 to 150 degrees F. Three or four inches of good loam soil should be placed over the pile after each turning and this is worked well into the manure at each subsequent turning. When the compost has become a coffee brown color, the straw, in it has broken up and lost its new appearance, the mass has a velvety feel and its odour is that of newmown hay, it should be ready for the beds. At this time the compost should contain sufficient moisture so that when pressed in the palm of the hand, the hand becomes wet but free water is not pressed out. If there is not sufficient water to hold the compost in a ball after pressing, it should be sprinkled again and as it is forked over to take into the beds. Under local winter conditions the period of composting will probably last six weeks or more depending on the temperature. The essentials of good composting are sufficient moisure at all times and enough forking over to cause uniform fermentation throughout the whole pile. When the compost is ready it is dumped into the beds and packed firmly to a depth of eight to 10 inches. When the beds are first made the temperature of the compost may rise to over 100 degrees F. If this is the case the spawn must not be planted until the temperature comes down to 65 to 70 degrees F. which is usually a matter of 10 days or two weeks. This is very important for the spawn is killed if the soil is too warm.

"The spawn, with which the beds are planted, can be purchased from reliable seed houses and usually comes in bricks. This spawn consists of live strands of fungus threads and compost. It is a good plan to purchase the spawn in plenty of time so that it will be on hand when the beds are ready. If the bricks appear to be dry they should be placed on the bed for several days before being planted. Brick spawn should never be soaked before planting as this is very injurious. In planting the beds, the spawn brick is broken into 10 to 15 equal sized pieces and each piece planted in a hole 1½ inches deep. It is then covered with the compost and pressed down firmly. The holes are placed 10 to 12 inches apart each way.

"A period of two weeks to a month will elapse before the spawn has run well through the compost. The running of the spawn is indicated by a white mold-like growth which develops from the piece of spawn. This is found by either removing a piece of spawn or by removing one of the side boards of the bed. When the spawn has thus developed the beds are ready for casing. This procedure consists of the spreading over the surface of the beds a layer, 1 to 1½ inches deep, of light loam soil. Heavy clay loam should never be used as it is not porous and cracks very badly. Six to eight weeks usually elapse after casing before enough mushrooms appear for picking to start.

"Little heavy watering is needed for mushrooms if the manure has been properly prepared before placing it in the beds. No water should be applied from the time the beds are spawned until the casing is applied. After the casing is applied watering consists in sprinkling the surface with a hose or watering can with just enough moisture to keep the top soil moist. As long as the casing is kept moist the compost below will seldom dry out. More water will be needed after the mushrooms appear than before. When the crop is growing sprinkling should be done just after picking as all mushrooms exposed to the water will turn brown and rot. Any buttons so exposed should be picked off and destroyed. Slightly warm water should be used at all times.

"After the spawn has been planted attention to ventilation is very important. The growing plants require oxygen and give off carbon dioxide and a daily fresh supply of air is necessary to maintain the correct proportions of these gases. Care must be taken to prevent cold drafts from coming into direct contact with the beds as this seriously checks the growth. The maintaining of a proper temperature is also important. Fungi are very sensitive to temperature and it is very essential that a temperature suitable for the mushroom fungus is maintained. Experience has shown that this temperature should always be from 50 to 65 degrees F. Mushrooms do not require light. The light that reaches them from the opening windows, shutters or doors during the picking of the crop, however, does no harm.

"In height of the season mushrooms develop so quickly that pickings may be made as often as twice a day in order to secure them in prime condition. The mushrooms are twisted off rather than cut, since the latter practice would leave stubs which would provide a favorable place for rots to develop. When several plants are removed together, and a depression is left, this should be filled and left smooth. On removal to the packing table the base of the stems should be cut off and the caps brushed free from any dirt with a camelshair brush. It is hardly necessary in this district to stress the necessity of packing only a first quality product. Specimens with a blemish should be discarded for these will not stand up when placed on the market. Mushrooms are usually marketed in small containers to prevent injury from squashing. A convenient size is of four quart capacity holding approximately three pounds.

"Since among the toadstool stribe, to which the commercial mushroom belongs, there are many that are extremely poisonous, the question might arise as to whether there is any danger of any of these growing in the bed. Though this is rather remote, such a possibility exists. Moreover, there is the high probability that various forms of wild non-poisonous mushrooms will occur from time to time in the beds. It is essential therefore that the growers be able to recognize the commercial variety without any doubt. There is considerable variation in the color of the cultivated mushroom owing to the fact that there are several varieties on the market, ranging in color from dark tan to snow white. This variation in color applies to the cap and stem only. While this color has no influence on the eating quality it is an important consideration in view of the fact that certain markets often prefer a particular color. The important thing to remember is that the gills of the cultivated mushroom are always pink when young and turn brown when mature. Great care should be exercised to determine whether the gills are pink in the young condition as the poisonous kinds have white gills when they are young, which may turn to a brownish color when old. The gills) by the way, are the platelike folds on the under side of the cap.

"If the crop is grown during the late winter and early spring months when there is no insect life in the air there is less likelihood that it will be seriously attacked by insects. The most troublesome insects are gnats, springtails, mites and sow bugs. The nats are most destructive during warm weather and are pretty well held under control by keeping the temperature of the room to 55 degrees F. Mites are very destructive and are difficult to control. When they appear in a bed little can be done to control them on that particular crop. Like gnats, however, they are less active at lower temperatures. Springtails feed directly on the gills and caps. When once established dusting the beds with quicklime or pyrethrum is recommended. Sow bugs feed on the mushrooms as soon as the first buttons appear. They can be fairly well held in check with the use of poison bait. The best bait to use is a raw potato or apple dipped in Paris green or arsenate of lead.

"It is evident from the above that an amateur may begin the cultivation of mushrooms with a small financial investment and with a fair assurance of success in return for patient, intelligent and painstaking care. While for the beginner mushroom growing is not a source of certain and phenomenal wealth, it may reasonably be expected to yield a fair return for the capital invested and for the attention and labor required in the care of the crop. He should begin in only a small way. When he has gained experience, and an understanding of peculiarities of mushrooms, he may safely enlarge his business with the expectation of continued success.

"Mushroom growing is distinctly a business that requires great aptitude for detail, exactness and promptness in the execution of work. Carelessness in the selection of the manure, indifference on the preparation of the compost, neglect of the proper conditions of humidity and temperatures, and lack of proper ventilation will not tend to success. The formula for success may be given as good compost, pure spawn, a constant given temperature, together with faithful attention to details.

"Copies of this talk may be obtained from the provincial district agriculturist, or more detailed information on the subject, may be procured by writing to the Dominion laboratory of plant pathology, Summerland.

"The average farmhouse is used for 60 years, and a selection of a poor plan may prove a thorn in the flesh for three generations," warns Wallace Ashby of the U. S. bureau of agricultural engineering, suggesting that farmers consult agricultural extension services when planning to build.

Van Paassen Helps 'Healer' Escape From Maddened Mob

"Doctor" Uses Red-hot Iron to Give Boy a Sloping Forehead in Sahara

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN
Central Press Canadian Writer

GOUREH, South Sahara, Mar. 1.—There are some half-extinct volcanic cones on the edge of the Sahara desert, but I was warned beforehand not to try visiting them because the natives believe that in these sulphurous smoky depths lie inestimable hoards of treasure, mountains of gold, pools of molten silver, jewels for the picking, and diamonds by the bucketful. Any stranger approaching the volcanos is suspected of magic designs on that inaccessible exchequer. I never looked down a crater before in my life, although I once clambered up the vine-clad slopes of the Etna to such a height that the soles of my shoes became unbearably hot. The temptation was great therefore to have a peep at last into the mysterious netherworld of fire and smoke and boiling rivers.

And then I thought by myself, "Suppose these natives are right after all! Just suppose! A little sack of diamonds is certainly not to be sneezed at!"

We never saw those diamonds. They are still there—for the picking. Things never turn out exactly as one hopes or fears. On our way to a fabulous fortune we discovered that the nearest village to the smoky mountains was in roaring excitement because—as we soon learned, a great healer had arrived that day to cure all the local diseases, the cripples, the blind, the lepers, the sore-backs and the asthmatic. The population had gathered in the market to witness the medical performances of the miraculous stunter.

USED RED HOT IRON

We saw that physician at work. Patients suffering from eczema were treated with a red-hot iron which he massaged sizzlingly over the affected spots. The ravages of leprosy were dealt with in a similar manner. An old woman who suffered from a nasty cough, obviously tubercular, had the searing metal applied to her chest. The blind were treated with green tobacco-juice, but the choicest medicine and the most expensive, was used for the curing of childlessness. Ladies suffering from this complaint had to swallow a dose of hash made from sacred toads. The physician carried a large quantity of this exotic fluid in a pig-skin gourd.

The doctor, a bow-legged negro with a green turban (sign that he had been to Mecca on a pilgrimage), wore a cast-off coat of a Foreign Legion private over his perspiring epidermis, and that's all. He worked in dour silence on his patients, while a helper from among the local youth took care of the fire in which the surgical instruments were heated to a livid white. I must say that the sufferers bore the ordeal with amazing fortitude. They broke into a sweat of fear as soon as their turn came—maybe therein lay the cure — and went away howling with pain. For that healer did not just touch the surface, nor did he move over the diseased head or abdomen with a few hocus pocus passes. Oh, no, not he. There was nothing conservative about that medico. A real radical in the medical science. He went right down to business till the smoke arose and the stench of cooking flesh filled the air.

WANTED NEW HEAD

But he made one mistake which came mighty near costing him his life and which deprived me from the pleasure of looking down a volcano. A youth came up to him and had a long confidential consultation with him, which involved a good deal of whispering. We heard the details of the boy's complaint later under circumstances I shall relate further on.

However, this was the trouble: the young man was displeased with the shape of his head. He had a straight forehead, one of his forebears had probably been an Arab. Now the other members of his tribe all had sloping, receding foreheads, real neggoid skulls. Being an exception to the general rule, an anomaly, a non-conformist, so to speak, in style of forehead, the lad was the constant object of ridicule, of contempt and discrimination in the community. No girl would have anything to do with him. And so, he seemed condemned to a state of permanent involuntary celibacy.

But now the great healer had come. A great hope had sprung up in his breast. Perhaps he might yet gratify his fondest wish of marrying one of the girls of his tribe. Could the doctor cure him? Could he give him a decent orthodox forehead? Was there any hope that he might assume a normal position among his fellows, cease to be a laughing-stock to the men and an odious repulsive creature to the girls? This was the substance of that whispered conversation.

TURNS ON HEALER

There was hope indeed, apparently, for the doctor, having listened intently to the lad's troubles, invited him to squat down. With a gesture in the best operating-room style, the aethetic surgeon then seized the white-hot iron and pressed it to the boy's forehead, figuring no doubt that the human head is made of solid ivory anyway, and can be worn down and put into the required shape by simply burning a chunk off! I saw the boy wince, heard him scream in pain and then I saw him come to his feet with a bound. The doctor dropped the iron, but the lad seized it and knocked the healer down. With one blow he stripped him of his army great-coat, turned him over and began to apply the hot metal to the doctor's back.

In a flash, all the other patients had piled in, howling revenge and . . . getting their money back from the doctor's cash-box, a leather purse which had also slipped to the ground.

I quietly stepped back into my car and told my chauffeur and bodyguard, Youssef Ibn Ayhahim from Fez, who was already nervously fingering his pistol-holster, to start up. The mob was pummeling, beating and kicking the healer and bellowing in an uproar that promised to become serious. Some women had grabbed sticks of burning wood from the fire which was used to heat the iron and were trying to stuff the flaming sticks down the man's throat.

SPEEDY EXIT

"They are going to kill him!" I said to Youssef, "let's get him out. You stay at the wheel and I will fire off a few shots to draw them off."

I fired twice in quick succession. The mob whirled around in surprise. I made gestures with my hands and pointing to the postrate healer shook my head as if to say leave him alone.

The doctor looked up dazed. He was bleeding profusely. But catching sight of the car, he had sense and strength enough left to leap to his feet and to race over to us. He jumped on to the running board, stuck his head inside and hung there, his legs kicking in the air. In the same moment the car was moving, but not quickly enough, for a bunch of savages jumped also on the running board and began tugging frantically at the doctor's body and legs. I beat them neatly over the knuckles and head till they let go and dropped on the dusty road.

On the advice of that now thoroughly naked Aesculapius we took him past several villages and deposited him only at Oulan, which is inhabited by another tribe, after having fixed him up with an old sweater to cover his rotund tummy and a can of bully-beef to keep it rotund.

Invermere Church Has Splendid Year

Finances In Good Shape; Attendance Holds Up; Stewards Elected

INVERMERE, March 1—The annual Congregational meeting of Trinity United church was held in the church. The reports showed the church to be in good financial standing, with all obligations met and a balance on hand.

Feeling tribute was paid to the late J. C. Pitts for his good work, for many years as chairman of the board, and sympathetic references were made on his loss to the church and the community.

The reports of the Ladies aid, the C.G.I.T., and Trail Rangers showed continued good work and thanks were tendered to the various officers. The church attendance had also kept up well during the year.

Rev. Clark Stewart and William Armstrong had attended the meeting of the Presbytery recently held in Nelson.

The following were elected as stewards for the present year: W. H. Cleland, E. E. Tunnacliffe and Dr. Hawke.

At the close of the meeting a series of magic lantern slides of fThe Passion Play at Oberammgau were shown, to which the general public was admitted.

Last year was not a big tornado year for the United States; The weather bureau recorded only 76, as compared with 260 in 1933.

SIX FERRIES IN DISTRICT CARRY MAJOR B.C. BURDEN

Account for More Traffic in Province Than Remaining 49; Nelson Ferry Carries More Cars Than Any Other in the Province

Figures released by British Columbia minister of public works, Hon. F. M. MacPherson, for the year 1933-34, show that of the 55 ferries operated by the provincial department during that time, the six ferries in this district took care of over half the number of cars carried on such conveyances, and that the Nelson ferry carried over 2000 more than the Castlegar ferry, the next one in order. Noticeable also, was the fact that over half the total number of passengers carried in the province on ferries, crossed the ferries in this district, and about one third of the total crossed the Nelson ferry. This number was over twice as great as the Castlegar ferry which carried 143,662.

During the space of a year, then, on an average of 943 people cross the Nelson ferry daily while the number crossing the Castlegar ferry averages 396 the year around. These two ferries also have by far the greatest freight tonnage pass over them, the tonnage in each case being over 7000.

In the table below the figures for the various ferries in the district are given, and also the totals for the whole province:

Name of Ferry	Trips	Autos	Trucks	Rigs	Pass.	Tons	Animals etc.
Castlegar	18,709	33,311	13,627	2,925	143,662	7,643	656

INSTITUTE MEETS AT CRAWFORD BAY

CRAWFORD BAY, B.C., March 1.—A meeting of the Women's institue was held at the home of Mrs. Hincks with Mrs. C. H. King, vice president, in the chain.

This being the Valentine meeting, little business was discussed. A letter read from Ontario regarding flowers for the peace garden was held over until next meeting.

A short whist drive was held during the social hour, prizes being won by Mrs. J. Ink and Mrs. McDonald. Mrs. Gooch and Mrs. Francis attended to the drive. Mrs. Hincks and Mrs Fisher were tea hostesses.

Mrs. Trail who was visiting her son-in-law and daughter Capt and Mrs. Hincks, has left for her home at Mirror lake.

Mrs. J. Ink and young son have left to join Mr. Ink in Trail. They were accompanied by Mrs. Ink's sister, Miss E. Jacobson.

Mrs. Fisher spent a few days in Nelson.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson who spent two months in Vancouver have returned home.

Mary's Skin Is Fresh, Youthful Because She Treats It Properly

By GLADYS GLAD
"America's Most Famous Beauty"

The charming Mary Pickford, the undisputed queen of screendom, has a very lovely complexion. Mary's skin today possesses every bit of the youthful freshness and bloom that it did when she first acquired the title of "America's Sweetheart". And that was quite some time ago, you know. Mary, however, claims that if the skin is treated properly during adolescence, it will retain its loveliness for years and years. And she's absolutely right.

Girls in their 'teens really should have smooth, flawless complexions. Of course, when women grow older, their skins do sometimes become somewhat coarsened. But no youngster should possess a coarse skin. Often, of course, a coarse, large-pored skin results from the too hearty consumption of rich, fatty foods. But it can also result from improper cleansing and toning methods.

The first step in the treatment of a coarse-pored skin is to give attention to the daily diet. Rich, heavy, fatty foods should be almost totally obtained from, and fresh, cooked and raw fruits and vegetables substituted. Plenty of water should be consumed daily, too. And the diet should be generally inclusive of bran, agar, spinach, carrots, figs, dates, oranges and onions to help cleanse the intestines of all poisonous wastes.

Thorough cleansing of the skin is also essential in treating an enlarged pore condition. The skin, you know, is quite elastic. And when dirt and grime accumulate in the pores, they stretch and distend these minute organisms. The deeply imbedded impurities must therefore be removed by cleansing, as well as the surface impurities. If this is accomplished, the pores will be able to contract, and the surface of the skin will appear smooth.

A weekly astringent face mask, such as an egg pack is most effective in correcting enlarged pores. A good astringent lotion, however, should also be used daily on the skin if the pores are enlarged. An excellent astringent for this purpose can be made of a 4 per cent solution of boric acid and eight ounces of witch hazel. This astringent not only closes the pores and refines the skin, but is also very soothing and healing for any blemishes on the face.

FATHERS AND SONS GATHER AT SUPPER OF UNITED CHURCH AT GRAND FORKS

G. L. Landon Presides; Mr. Fenwick Talks at Young People's Meeting

GRAND FORKS, B.C., March 1.—The annual "Father and Son" supper of St. John's United church took place Friday in the basement of the church.

G. L. Landon occupied the chair and associated with him at the head table were Miss Elizabeth Mooyboer and Miss Edna Wiseman, leaders of the girls groups.

Seventy dads and lads were present and after supper the chairman called upon J. C. Tonks to take charge of the community singing. The boys sang lustily some of their favorite songs. The Trail Ranger leader William Euerby, Jr., had his group give their opening ceremony with code and verse of scripture, etc.

The toast to the King was proposed by the chairman and the National Anthem sung. The toast to the church was proposed by Caswell Todhunter and a reply was given by Rev. Milton Perley, pastor, in which the fourfold program was outlined.

The "fathers" was the subject of a toast by Aulay Miller, answered by E. L. Kidd, Mr. Kidd after some remarks about the relationship of father and son, gave a humorous reading entitled "Tim O'Grady's Goat" which was loudly applauded.

A violin solo was given by Alan Perley after which the guests were welcomed, in a toast by James Lawrence, Kenneth Campbell replied on behalf of the guests.

The two young ladies Miss Mooyboer and Miss Wiseman replied to the chairman's greetings to the C.G.I.T. groups.

Mr. Landon explained the meaning of the word "Tuxis" and the aims of the organization, and Mr. Euerby gave a short talk on the idea of the summer camps and the splendid training for boys to be obtained there.

The tables were in charge of Ed. Stuart with Miss Jean McDonald, Miss Lola Huton and Miss Fern Henniger assisting in serving.

EARLY KOOTENAY DAYS

The senior group of the Y.P.S. of St. John's United church met at the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Kingston following the evening service Sunday.

After singing favorite hymns, Mr. Fenwick again delighted the many present with his tales of the early days in the Kootenays. He took his hearers back to the early eighties, when the Ainsworth Co. of San Francisco first came into the country; the discovery and opening up of the Kootenay Belle, and the murder of T. Hamil.

At that time the government allowed a $600 appropriation to build trails in the district. After clearing a trail from Moyie to Fort Steele, $600 was returned to the government.

Later Mr. Fenwick told of the discovery and operation of the Le Roi and War Eagle mines which started the opening of the entire country.

Another interesting incident was his tale of the sinking of the "Surprise" one of the first boats on the lake; the launching of his own boat "The Midge", better known as the "Mud Hen".

He gave an interesting account of smuggling foodstuffs across the line, Bonner's Ferry in those days, said Mr. Fenwick, was one of the toughest spots in the country, a hangout for all outlaws, a refuge for many undesirables who had been chased out of other Idaho centers and Montana.

Mr. Fenwick gave an interesting account of a hunting expedition with Theodore Roosevelt who was at that time governor of New York. As on a previous occasion when Mr. Fenwick was guest speaker, his story ended all too soon. However, his promise was secured to again entertain the Y.P.S. with tales of pioneer days in the Kootenays.

The annual father and son service was held in the St. John's United church Sunday evening. Assisting Rev. D. M. Perley was E. L. Kidd, a father and John Gowans, who represented the sons.

"Crying over nothing"

When a mild reproof brings a flood of tears . . . or a plucky child cries for a trifling hurt . . . take heed! Often such outbursts are little things of warning!

One of several things may be to blame—acid stomach, flatulence . . . perhaps your child is catching cold. Or maybe it is constipation—a disorder so common that 90% of all children are affected by it.

Give your child Castoria

When a child is unusually "touchy" it is wise to give a laxative. But be sure to give a child's laxative . . . not an adult laxative that may upset digestion and cause griping pain.

Give Castoria! It is made especially for children. They love its pleasant taste. It is gentle, safe—yet effective and thorough.

The "standby" in 5,000,000 homes! Is more than 5,000,000 homes, mothers of children of all ages—from babyhood to 11 years—give Castoria for constipation—and for all those little symptoms that point to incomplete elimination.

Next time you take your child to the doctor for a regular check-up, ask him about Castoria. He will tell you that it contains no harsh, irritating ingredients—only such ingredients as are mild, effective and suitable for children.

Buy the family-size bottle. It is more economical.

CRESTON HEARS ABOUT GAME AND FISH FROM OFFICIALS OF NELSON

C. H. Robinson and Game Inspector Kearns Give Fine Talks

CRESTON, B. C., Feb. 28—Much useful information regarding big game, game birds and fish, and regulations for efficient conservation in the Kootenays was presented in very practical fashion at an open meeting of the Creston Valley Rod and Gun club in the United church hall Monday. The meeting was splendidly attended, and the speakers, Game Inspector Kearns of Nelson, and C. H. Robinson, fishery inspector, were much at home in discussing game and fish respectively, while Col. Mallandaine presided.

Col. Mallandaine spoke briefly in opening proceedings giving a sketch of the club's activities since its organization in 1926. He referred to game as B. C.'s heritage and worthy of every effort to see that it is effectively safeguarded. He defended the pheasants as being friends rather than enemies of the local agriculturists, advocated the tightening up of the regulations to curtail the slaughter some of the Washington state sportsmen indulge in with game birds in this section, and pointed out with the extensive dyking operations now under way there was bound to be a greater scarcity of wild fowl. The chairman was applauded in his references to the efficiency and fairness of the local game guardian, W. H. Cartwright, in enforcing the game laws in this district.

GAME LAWS FAIR

Inspector Kearns covered considerable ground in his talk, concurring in the chairman's remarks that game was a heritage, and sketched game conservation efforts that had been effective from the world's earliest days. B. C. game laws were fair, he said. In this province the usual fine for an infraction of the regulations was $25; in Washington the minimum penalty was $250. He dealt quite extensively with the pheasants, stating that the birds were being bought at $1.35, mostly from U. S. game farms. He expected shooting licenses for 1935 would cost less than last season. He referred to recent investigations on the habits of ducks which demonstrated that these birds did not confine their flights to north and south, but were just as liable to travel east and west.

He did not favor bounties, and with coyote skins worth from $5 to $8 he was opposed to any bounty on these animals. He displayed full knowledge of the habits of hawks, owls, crows, rabbits, as well as the diseases to which they are subject.

Mr. Robinson confined his remarks largely to matters of local interest. He made it quite clear he still considered the bass a doubtful asset, and there was little hope of a daily catch being enforced on these fish. Bass were back again in Kootenay lake as far as Crawford Bay and their liking for lake trout was anything but encouraging for improving fishing for the latter variety. Eastern brook trout were not native to Goat river and before stocking with these fish he proposed making a careful survey of the stream. He was well pleased with the better fishing in Meadow, Corn and Summit creeks as a result of restocking. Kid Creek would also be investigated before further supplies were deposited.

He defended the protection that had been given the kokanee or redfish. These were the favorite feed for Kootenay lake trout, and to keep up the fishing standard of the lake it was absolutely necessary to have the kokanee in generous supply.

Still further investigation would be made before any pronouncement might be expected on the extermination of squawfish. He also observed that the sucker was not the menace to other varieties that many supposed. No protection would be given the Rocky Mountain whitefish. A liberal winter take of them was in the best interests of the trout in the streams the whitefish frequent.

Both Mr. Kearns and Mr. Robinson spoke highly of the services the club rendered in its recommendations from time to time both as to game and fish, and assured that it was on the strength of such recommendations from clubs all over B. C. that the regulations were framed from year to year. A vote of thanks tendered the speaker at the close of proceedings was carried with enthusiasm.

BIRTHDAY PARTY HELD AT KASLO

United Church Ladies' Association Entertains the Congregation

KASLO, B. C., Feb. 28—The Ladies' association of St. Andrew's United church entertained members of the congregation at a birthday party Tuesday in the church hall. Community singing was followed by a few contests and games.

The entertainment committee enacted a short, humorous skit "Pyramus and Thisbe" from "A Midsummer Night's Dream". Those taking part were Miss Margaret Hamilton, Miss Mildred Hamilton, Miss Betty Best, A. L. McPhee, C. Archer and Roy Green.

The ladies served refreshments.

The party concluded with the singing of Auld Lang Syne. The proceeds amounted to $38.

Kimberley Wins in Basketball

Seniors Beat Michel in First of East Kootenay Play-Offs

KIMBERLEY, B.C., March 1. — Kimberley McDougall Memorials defeated the Michel Pirates, 41-37 in a fast game before a good crowd in the first of a two game, total goal series for the East Kootenay Championship. Kimberley plays at Michel next Wednesday.

The Pirates started out fast, playing nice combination to lead Kimberley 11-1. Kimberley came back strong bringing the score to 19-25 at half time. Michel kept the lead by three or four points right up till about two minutes to go, when Dicken tied up the score at 37-all. Kimberley then ran in two fast goals. The Pirates came back strong and but for great work by the Kimberley guards, Swanson and Nicholson, would have tied the score.

The game was fast and clean. Ten penalties were handed to each team by Referees Shaw and Oliver.

Outstanding for Michel were T. Kraal and Katrichak. Tom Kirk was high score man with 19 points.

The lineups:

Michel—Saddlesh 6, J. Kraal 2, F. Venzie 2, T. Kraal 6, Chala 12, J. Katrichak 7, S. Katrichak 2.

Kimberley—A. Foubister, R. Dicken 8, D. Foubister, E. Basso 1, R. Shaw 6, A. Nicholson 3, R. Swanson 4, C. Barr, T. Kirk 19.

The winner of these games plays a game with Trail on their home floor for the championship of the Kootenays.

In the preliminary game the Kimberley Aces senior girls, beat the Kimberley Intermediate girls 43-33 in a fast open game. The intermediates surprised the crowd by their passing and shooting, pressing the seniors hard.

MENUS, RECIPES and HINTS

Menu Hint

Hamburg Steak Mashed Potatoes
Creamed Turnips
Pickles Sweet Potato Pie
Tea or Coffee

Hamburg steak may be cooked in a number of different ways. I am including recipes that will remind you of these variations, and so that you may make your choice.

Today's Recipes

Hamburg Steak and Onions—Cut onion slices one-half inch thick. Lay in a greased baking dish, dot over with bacon fat and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Add a small amount of water, cover and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees Fahrenheit, for 20 minutes. Season hamburg, shape into balls, brown in a small amount of fat, place over the onions and continue baking until onions and the hamburg are cooked, about 40 minutes longer.

Mexican Spaghetti—Cook one-half pound spaghetti in boiling salted water until tender. In the meantime, melt two tablespoons bacon fat in a frying pan, add one onion, sliced, and pantry until a golden brown. Add meat, stirring constantly until it is well browned. Season with salt. Combine spaghetti and meat and moisten with two cups tomato puree. Add one teaspoon flour mixed with one teaspoon chili powder and blended to a smooth past with a small portion of the tomato puree. Stir into mixture, blending well. Bake in a slow oven or on top of the stove, about 40 minutes.

Chili Con Carne — Brown one pound ground beef in one tablespoon bacon fat. Add one sliced onion, cook over a low fire until beef and onions are browned, stirring constantly. Stir in two cups cooked dried beans, two cups tomato puree, and one-fourth teaspoon chili powder blended with one teaspoon flour, one-half teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper. Cook very slowly 30 to 40 minutes, either directly over the heat or in a slow oven.

Norwegian Meat Balls — One pound beef, one medium sized onion, one-half cup milk, one-half teaspoon sage, one-half teaspoon ginger, salt and pepper. Combine ingredients, cover and let stand one hour. At the end of this time, squeeze out milk, shape into cakes and panfry in the usual manner.

Sweet Potato Pie—One cup hot mashed sweet potato, two cups whole milk, one-half teaspoon salt, two eggs, well beaten; one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon brown sugar, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon allspice. Mix ingredients in order given. Bake in deep pie shell, in hot oven 425 degrees for 15 minutes, reduce to 350 degrees for another 30 minutes.

Salad or Cocktail

Grapefruit sections mixed with white cherries make a pleasing salad or cocktail combination. For the "dressier" affair serve in grapefruit cases.

Wife Preservers

If your thread knots or tangles while sewing, knot the end of the thread before taking it off the spool, and the annoyance will be avoided.

Feared Kidnapped

Police of twelve states were searching for 18-year-old Julia R. Fellman, Philadelphia banker's daughter and student at Temple University, following disappearance from her home. Relatives feared she was a kidnap victim.

Victoria Is Asked About Doukhobors

VICTORIA, March 1 (CP)—Members of the British Columbia legislature from the Kootenay district today discussed with relief department officials the problem created by the return of the Doukhobor Sons of Freedom from the Piers island penitentiary to the interior settlement.

Approximately 400 are being shipped back and will not be received by the other Community Doukhobors, the members said. The problem of caring for them is becoming a serious one.

$254 PER TON FOR K. BELLE

Is Gross Return on Concentrates in a Week

Kootenay Belle Gold Mines Ltd. report that smelter returns from two shipments to the first week in February covered 58.93 dry tons of concentrates yielding 441.25 ozs. gold, being an average of 7.84 ozs. gold per ton or $254.32 gross per ton, valuing gold at $34.00 per oz.

The value to the company, after payment of freight and treatment charges, is $13,711.55. Another carload of concentrates will move in a few days.

The Hadsel mill crushed 713 tons of ore in the first 20 working days of February, an output of more than 35 tons per day.

The company ends its fiscal year February 28 in a comfortable financial position and with one-fifth of its original treasury shares still unissued, states F. M. Black, managing director.

There have been more destructive floods around Salt Lake City, Utah, in the past 12 years than in the entire 20,000 years since Lake Bonneville receded from that region, present floods being due to the decline of the plant cover on the watershed slopes.

Doctors Temper Attitude Toward Health Insurance

CHICAGO, March 1. (AP)— The American Medical association has reiterated its vigorous opposition to compulsory sickness insurance plans being studied by the President's committee on economic security. But it tempered its stand by approving projects for setting up systems of voluntary illness insurance on a community basis.

Decrying what it termed attempts to regiment the profession in proposed legislation and attacking certain sections of the Wagner bill embodying the National Administration's social security program, the association's House of Delegates adopted a declaration of policy for its 100,000 member physicians.

The report, carried unanimously at the second extraordinary session in the organization's history, pointed out more than 150 plans for medical service were undergoing study and trial in various communities.

"Payment for medical service, whether by prepayment plans, installment purchase or voluntary hospital care on one hand and the individual, personal ministrations of the physician on the other."

Escaped Prisoner Sighted?

VANCOUVER, March 1 (CP)—Police believed today they had sighted Roger Van Alken, sought since February 9 when he escaped from New Westminster city jail where he was being held as a burglar suspect.

Two officers in a prowler car stated they recognized Van Alken in a rented automobile yesterday but they reported he abandoned the car after a chase of several blocks and escaped on foot.

Shoe Now on Other Foot Japan Fears Red Siberia

By CENTRAL PRESS CANADIAN

Reports from Moscow and Tokio indicate a further intensification of the tension which has existed for many years between Russia and Japan.

Abrogating their several naval treaties, Japan announces she will "eat rice gruel" in order the build a navy on a par with any nation in the world—United States in particular.

All of which arouses a new fear in the Soviet Union that Japan is preparing to attack.

The island nation, however, lives in fear of Russia's amazing development of her Pacific empire of Eastern Siberia. In the city of Vladivostock almost impregnable fortresses have been built, underground airdromes house hundreds of airplanes, and the harbor offers haven to some 25 Soviet submarines.

But this is not the only development of Siberia that arouses Japan. For many years Tokio has been anxious to get her hands on far Eastern Siberia, rich in soil, minerals and oil, and has even gone so far as to unofficially propose to the Soviet that peace would come to Asia if Russia would withdraw 1,000 miles into the interior, giving the land to Japan in return for security and certain sums of money.

But the U.S.S.R. is doing what the czarist regime failed to do—they are making use of this temperate land themselves and the story of their development contains all the romance of pioneering and colonization.

A country of incalculable possibility, it is being settled and developed at a tremendous pace.

Vladivostock's population has grown in a few years from under 100,000 to over 200,000; that of Khabarovsk—the capital—from 60,000 to 150,000; the brand-new port of Komsomolsk on the Amur is already a city of 40,000 people.

Over 1,000 miles of new railway was completed last year, $5,000,000 was spent on industrial development. The development budget for 1935 is $7,000,000.

There are plans for sending out 1,000,000 colonists every year.

A few years of such development and Dalni Vostock will rank, in its own right, as one of the most important of the Pacific countries.

And Russians do not forget — though the world is apt to — that from 1918 to 1922 the Japanese tried their hardest to detatch all East Siberia from Russia and to make it a sort of "Manchoukuo."

As for the Japanese—they do not forget that Vladivostock is only 500 miles from Tokio!

Canadian Priest Prays U. S. Stay Out of League

A Canadian-born and Canadian-educated priest has quoted a prayer designed in an effort to keep the United States out of the League of Nations (founded by U.S. President Wilson) and the world court, founded by the league. Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin, formerly of Toronto and Hamilton, now Detroit's famous radio priest, quotes the 82nd psalm to the people of the United States in his campaign:

Oh God, who shall be like to Thee, hold not Thy peace, neither be Thou still, oh God.

For lo, Thy enemies have made a noise; and they that hate Thee have lifted up the head.

They have taken a malicious counsel against Thy people, and have consulted against Thy saints.

They have said: come and let us destroy them, so that they be not a nation, and let the name of Israel (America) be remembered no more.

For they have contrived with one consent: they have made a covenant (League of Nations) against Thee.

The tabernacles of the Edomites, and the Israelites; Moab and the Agarens, Gebal, and Ammon and Amalec: the Philistines (Communists) with the inhabitants of Tyre.

Yea, and the Assyrian also is joined with them: they are come to the aid of the sons of Lot.

Do to them as Thou didst to Midian and to Sisara: and to Jabin at the brook of Cisson.

Who perished at Endor; and became as dung for the earth.

Make their Princes like Oreb, and Zeb, and Zebec and Salmana.

All their Princes, who have said: let us possess the sanctuary of God for an inheritance.

Oh, my God, make them like a wheel, and as stubble before the wind.

As fire which burneth, the wood: and as a flame burning mountains.

So shalt Thou pursue them with Thy Tempest: and shalt trouble them with Thy wrath.

REV. FATHER COUGHLIN

Fill their faces with shame; and they shall seek Thy name, Oh Lord.

Let them be ashamed and troubled ever and ever and let them be confounded and perish.

And let them know that the Lord is Thy name: Thou alone art the most high over all the earth.

Two Constables Superannuated

KAMLOOPS, B.C., March 1 (CP)—Constable E. A. Vachon, member of the British Columbia provincial police force for 24 years, will retire on superannuation at the end of this month. He is at present on leave of absence. Constable F. Brindley, now stationed at Chase, also has been superannuated.

Constable Vachon entered the provincial force at Victoria in 1911 and served in many parts of the province during his career. He participated in the arrest of the Indians, Spintlum and Paul, for the murder of Constable Kindeness in 1912.

H. H. Boyle Heads Penticton Tories

PENTICTON, B.C., Feb. 28.—The annual meeting and election of officers of the Penticton Conservative association was held in the Incola hotel February 25. James Kirkpatrick, past president of the association occupied the chair and outlined briefly its activities during the past two years.

The following resolution was presented to the meeting and unanimously passed with considerable applause:

"RESOLVED that this association forward to the prime minister an expression of its appreciation of his endeavors and success in conducting the affairs of our country during an unprecedented period of difficulty; of the courageous and continuous application of his energy and ability to the problems confronting him, as a result of which Empire trade has been so markedly increased and legislation toward social and economic reform placed upon our statute books.

"And further that this association pledge to the prime minister its united support in his 'Reform Program' as recently outlined."

OFFICERS

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

H. H. Boyle, president; Charles Stewart, vice-president; W. R. Long, secretary-treasurer.

The executive consists of: J. Young, James Sinclair, Archie Robb, A. S. Hatfield, William Booker, J. J. Rooney, Frank Morgan, James Finch, Gordon DesBrisay, Cyril Morgan, James Kirkpatrick, John Coe, F. H. Palmer, R. J. Long, D. J. Finch, R. H. Woods.

The question of the formation of a young Conservative association was a subject of considerable discussion. A commitee of five of the executive was appointed to proceed with the organization of younger members of the party and arrangements were made to secure the club rooms in the Incola hotel for weekly meetings.

A motion that Hon. Grote Stirling be forwarded an expression of hearty thanks for his able and efficient work in the formation and passing through the house of the Marketing act was passed with much applause.

MANY FLOWERS AT FUNERAL OF MRS. OWLES, CASTLEGAR

Many beautiful wreaths and sprays from friends all over the district, including Trail and Kinniard as well as Castlegar, were sent to the funeral of Mrs. T. Owles, of Castlegar, Feb. 2 at Robson.

Rev. Mr. Morant officated and pall bearers were J. Lawson, E. Watts, J. Martin, J. McKinnon, A. Lampard and Mr. Fawcett.

Mrs. Owles had been a resident of the district for many years and had made a host of friends.

Fred Gill Presented With Scout Charter

Fred Gill, scout master of Troop No. 2, was presented with his charter by Scout Commissioner J. M. Dronsfield at a ceremony at the scout hall Thursday evening.

The members of No. 2 troop have been busy getting new recruits and they now have 30 in the troop. A hike has been panned for Sunday when the fire lighting, and cooking tests will be taken. A concert is planned for the near future also.

English 1922 pennies are rare, as only 12 millions were minted, compared with hundreds of millions in some years. In 1933 only four pennies were struck. Two are buried under London university, one is in the British museum and one in the royal mint.

St. George's hospital is not, after all, to remmove from Hyde park corner, where it has stood for 200 years, but will be rebuilt at the cost of £1,000,000.

EX-KING GEORGE BEAT TRAIL JUNIORS

RAIL'S ONLY GOAL COMES IN 1ST PERIOD—COAST GETS TWO IN EACH OF FINAL SESSIONS

Vancouver Takes the Defensive in the Opening Play

VANCOUVER, March 1 (CP)—Vancouver's classy junior hockey club, Ex-King George, sprang a surprise tonight when they handed Trail's highly favored Tigers a 2-1 defeat in the first of the two-game total goal series for the British Columbia junior hockey title.

Down one goal, Trail's lone score of the game, at the end of the first period the coast club came back to run in two goals in the second and third periods.

TAYLOR BROTHERS SHINE

Pietrosko counted early for Trail, scoring unassisted. Mortimer tied the score in the second and Levine on Harmer's pass put Vancouver ahead before the session ended. It remained for two brothers, sons of one of the most famous players of all time, Fred (Cyclone) Taylor, to make sure of the verdict in the third. Fred Taylor Jr. counted the last period scores in identical plays from brother John.

The visitors, heavier than their opponents and displaying a polished brand of hockey, kept the Vancouver club on the defensive throughout most of the opening period.

TRAIL GETS ONE

The game was just four minutes old when the Tigers counted the lone tally of the first session. Pietrosko picked up the puck near his own blue line and sped down centre ice with a burst of speed that left his wouldbe back checkers trailing behind him. As he skidded into the defense the Trail winger drilled a beautiful shot that whistled past Tirrell in the Vancouver nets.

For the remainder of the period the visitors contended themselves with an occasional dash into Vancouver territory as they stopped coast rushes before they got past the Trail blue line.

TWO FOR THE COAST

The Ex-Kings pepped up in the second session, rattling home a pair of goals, one of them while Trail was shorthanded. Mortimer scored the first when he eluded the Tiger defense, drew Bishop out of the Trail goal and banged the rolling disc into the net to tie the score, after three and a half minutes of play in the period. Twelve minutes late Harmer and Levine went down, splitting the defence and Levine took the pass to drill in Vancouver's second goal from close in.

Less than three minutes after the third period opened John Taylor picked up a loose puck in center ice, carried it into Trail territory and passed to brother Fred who banged it home. Eleven minutes later the brothers teamed up on an identical play to end the scoring.

Trail—Bishop; Moffat and Kendall; German, Pietrosko and Euerby. Subs: Doherty, Ponak, Purcello and Dabner.

Ex-King George — Tirrel; Levine, and Whitlam; Mortimer; Harmer and Sinclair. Subs: McIver, Byers, John Taylor and Fred Taylor.

SUMMARY

First period:

1—Trail, Pietrosko 4:10.

Penalties: Levine, Moffatt, Dabner.

Second period:

2—Vancouver, Mortimer 3:30.

3—Vancouver, Levine (Harmer) 15:40.

Penalties: Purcello, Harmer.

Third period:

3—Vancouver, F. Taylor (J. Taylor) 2:32.

4—Vancouver, F. Taylor (J. Taylor) 13:22.

Penalties: Moffatt.

AN ERROR

Owing to misinformation from Vancouver the Kimberley Dynamiters, whose pictures appear on page nine are labelled "B.C. Champs." They must win one more game in three to win the title.

MANY OUT FOR HOSPITAL DANCE

In sponsoring the annual spring ball members of the Women's Hospital auxiliary entertained a large crowd in the Eagle hall Friday night. Crepe tulips and other spring flowers, and dainty festoons, lent a spring setting for the dancers. Special dance numbers were given by pupils from a local dance academy. Miss Gladys Ewing, president, was general convener. The decoration scheme was carried out by Mrs. C. D. Pearson.

RESTRICTION ON CODEINE

VICTORIA, March 1 (CP)—In the new British Columbia Pharmacy act, introduced into the legislature by Gordon S. Wismer, Liberal, Vancouver center, the list of controlled drugs will include codeine, a derivative of morphia, and commonly supposed to be non-habit forming.

Under the act, it is proposed to list codeine as a poison, requiring that it be labelled and registered and may be dispensed only on prescription of a physician or dentist.

ACCEPTS OFFICE

VICTORIA, March 1 (CP)—Acceptance of the office of bishop-coadjutor, extended to Rev. Harold Eustance Sexton, vicar of All Saints, Upper Norwood, London, England, by the Anglican synod in session here, has been received by Bishop Schofield.

Flashes From the Wires

SNIPER IN EDMONTON

EDMONTON—A phantom sniper who struck twice this week, the fifth and sixth times in six weeks, was inactive Friday night while police searched the city. They sought a rifleman who has fired into homes, into the city market building, into a car, past a woman's head as she walked on the street, and past a herder near the city limits.

NATIONALIZATION OF BANK

EDMONTON—Complete nationalization of the Central Bank of Canada to bring about full socialization of credit was requested in a resolution adopted by the legislature. The vote was 40 to 5.

Forty members rallied to the support of the resolution, moved by W. H. Shield, U.F.A., Mcleod. Conservatives opposed it.

RUSSIAN COAL IN DISGUISE

OTTAWA—Reports that Russian coal is being imported into Canada disguised as Welsh coal and sold in Montreal were recounted in the house of commons by E. J. Garland (U.F.A.-Bow River) when mines department estimates were under consideration.

Hon. W. A. Gordon, minister of mines, said no Russian coal had come to Canada since 1931. And Mr. Garland asked him if he had heard of the disguising of Russian coal. Mr. Gordon said he had received no such information but could not say of his own knowledge that the report was untrue.

GUARD SUICIDED

LONDON—A coroner's jury returned a verdict that a member of the Prince of Wales' Welsh guards who was found shot to death in the Bank of England's bullion yard had killed himself while of unsound mind.

The body of the guardsman, James Baker, 20, was found two days ago.

U.B.C. 40, ADANACS 19

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. — University of British Columbia handed the New Westminster Adanacs a 40-19 trouncing here to win the inter-city basketball league and the right to meet Victoria Blue Ribbons in the British Columbia men's senior "A" final.

REGINA SQUARES GAMES

REGINA—Paced by the most spectacular display in the hockey career of Clarence (Yates) Acaster, a Vic team that refuses to pass out of the race squared the southern league playoff with Weyburn tonight as it smashed its way to a 4-2 edge and forced a deciding game in Weyburn Monday.

DARING RESCUE

CASA BLANCO, Morocco—After clinging desperately for more than 36 hours to a wave-washed rock 300 feet offshore, a shipwrecked Spanish fisherman was rescued tonight by coast-guardsmen. During his struggle against the stormy waters, he managed to retain a footing on the rocks, and was kept alive by food and clothing dropped to him from a French army plane.

FUEL OIL FROM COAL

OTTAWA—Preliminary researches have been made in laboratories of the federal mines department to extract fuel oil and gasoline from coal, Hon. Wesley Gordon, minister of mines, told the house of commons.

Vast sums of money had been spent on tests in Germany and the United Kingdom, and production was possible under large subsidies or protective tariffs, the minister said.

WHEN WEST IS EAST

CHARLOTTETOWN — It's not often that His Majesty's mailmen make mistakes, but tonight they were more than 3000 miles out. The Charlottetown Guardian received a letter from Toronto bearing the typewriten address on the envelope: "Publisher, the Sun, Vancouver, B.C."

SEATTLE TROUNCES PORTLAND

SEATTLE—The Seattle Seahawks, league leaders all season, clinched first place in the Northwestern Professional Hockey league beyond all shadow of a doubt, trouncing the Portland Buckaroos 5-1 in a speedy game here.

AN EARTHQUAKE

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—A dish rattling, window banging earthquake capped the climax today for midwesterners who thought they'd seen already this year about all that the elements had to show.

The shock, first felt about 5 a.m., was followed a few minutes afterward by one which joined in alarming early risers and disturbing light sleepers in four states.

CONDEMN "LOSS LEADERS"

VANCOUVER—Use of "loss leaders" by retailers to attract business and the selling of farm products below cost or without fair margin of profit were condemned in a resolution presented to the eighteenth annual meeting of the British Columbia division, Canadian Manufacturers' association.

Can't Stay

CUSTOM TOTAL IS $102,866

During 11 months of the fiscal year that ends March 1, the Nelson customs port has collected $102,866.06, receipts show. Last month the collections amounted to $8293.73.

Collections for the port of Nelson and outports amounted to $17,057.56 during the month, the total including: Trail $7494.61; Wanela $1202.36; Paterson, $1.50; Nelway, $40.34; Kaslo, $23.22.

Moscow Trip for Simon Approved

LONDON, March 1 (AP)—The government's approval of a trip to Moscow by Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, apparently was fully confirmed today when it was officially announced that a formal invitation has been transmitted from the Soviet capital.

A formal announcement of acceptance, however, probably will be postponed until it is possible to announce simultaneously a visit to Warsaw and Praha.

Legion Entertains City Councillors

To explain their various functions and to further cement the relations of the two organizations, the Canadian Legion entertained the members of the city council at a lunch in the Legion club room Friday. A pleasant get-together followed.

It was bad luck, even in Indian days, for a skunk to enter a house.

SKIERS PLAN SUNDAY TRIP

Nelson skiers will head out the Ymir road Sunday bent on scouring the surrounding country for a possible ski jump site, and a 250-foot hill is their objective. The trip will be in the form of an outing and skiers will leave the Canadian Legion at 10 a.m. taking their lunches along to make a day of it.

WILL PROSECUTE AUTOISTS WITH 1934 LICENSES

An additional 37 new auto licence plates were issued at Nelson Friday to bring the total to date to 597. Thursday was the last day that drivers could display the '34 plates and on Monday provincial police will prosecute autoists who operate with them.

HOCKEY CHATTER

Through the courtesy of Frank Shannon, of Kimberley, The Nelson Daily News received a group picture, and also individual pictures of the Kimberley Dynamiters, including President Lloyd Crowe, "Coach" Jack Pratt, and Trainer Honeyman. In some way, however, "Daddy" Hornquist was missed out. It may be that when the pictures were being taken, "Swede," with all the troubles that were accumulating around him, could not be wheedled into tranquility, to say nothing of poise. He is not forgotten however.

The game between the Wagstaffe Colts (ineligibles of the West Kootenay league) and the Rossland Miners, went to the Miners by a 7-6 score, and it was reported to be a good game. Tommy Johnston, who went on defence for the Miners, came in for a good bit of inconvenient popularity, as the Colts thought it was a good opportunity to "ride" him. A return game is talked. Moran, Carr, Cronie, Whittles and Snowdon all tallied for the Colts, and Atwell, Carr and Moran got assists. Allan Marshall celebrated his debut by making a goal for the Miners.

Wilfred Cude, the Welsh-born goaler who fronts the twines for Canadiens in the National Hockey league, scored his first shutout of the season when he blanked his fellow-townsmen the Maroons, 2-0, in Montreal on February 14. The slim, sandy-haired youngster was within 16 seconds of a shutout against the Leafs in the first game of the season, and within 54 seconds of a goaler's dream against Detroit Wings later, but on both occasions the opposition got through right at the end. Cude achieved his shutout in his club's thirty-third game.

Wilf Cude

Professional hockey players are subject to all sorts of risks. When Toronto doctors recently operated upon Allan Murray, American defence player, they removed a sliver of wood about three-quarters of an inch long, which had penetrated the tendon. The accident was a most unusual one, as it was a piece of Alex Smith's broken stick that injured Murray.

Peggy O'Neil, one of the season's sensational National Hockey league developments with Boston Bruins, is a blend of the Scotch and the Irish, for his mother, who was born in North Dakota, is descended from the Scots, His father, born in Ontario, is descended from the Celts. Now there need be no questions asked concerning the aggressiveness of O'Neil.

Did you know . . . . Art Wiebe, rookie defence player of the Black Hawks, hails from Vermillion, Alta., close to the farm of his boss, Clem Loughlin . . . Toronto Leafs are interested in Eddie Burke, former right winger of New York Americans and now playing defence for Syracuse . . . Syde Howe, newly acquired forward which the Detroit Red Wings purchased from the St. Louis Eagles, is one of the best stickhandlers in the N.H.L. and has lots of finish around a goal . . . . Eddie Finnigan, younger brother of Frank Finnigan, who has signed up with the Eagles, is 24 years old and was born at Shawville, Que. . . . . Ace Bailey, formerly of the Toronto Maple Leafs, but forced out of the game through an injury, is getting a big hand for coaching the Dominion Brewery team in the Toronto Mercantile league . . . . Clem Loughlin, Black Hawk manager, is now 41 and actually played hockey until he was 38 . . . . Archie Wilcox, former defence player of the Montreal Maroons and now with the Syracuse Stars, sports the largest fur coat in hockey . . . . when Rusty Hughes was purchased by the Windsor Bulldogs, Coach Harvey Rockburn ordered a new pair of pants for Hughes because he said Hughes was bothered by charley horses and he believed he was showing too much leg. "What do you thing you are? A chorus girl," he asked Hughes.

GIVES HISTORY MATHEMATICS

P. H. Sheffield Speaks at Gathering of Engineers

Delving into ancient history to conjure up a picture of the development of mathematics, P. H. Sheffield gave an interesting paper at a meeting of the local branch of the Professional Engineers of B.C. at the Golden Gate Friday night, and provided a pleasant diversion from the usual meeting routine. The luncheon was attended by 15 members of the engineers body and two guests.

Prior to the introduction of Mr. Sheffield by President H. R. Younger, the club voted to carry on the practice of having a speaker and the next addres will be on auditing and accounting. A. R. Pollard read the minutes of the previous meeting.

In introducing the speaker, Mr. Younger gave a brief resume of the practical application of mathematics.

Mr. Sheffield presented a rare collection of interesting facts about the study of methods, the history of arithmetic and the contributions of the early mathematicians.

Arithmetic or arithmetica was the name given by the Greeks and the Romans to the theory of numbers, and the word as it is known today was then known as logistic. The speaker's account of the system of counting and the great stress laid upon the distinction between odd and even numbers, all provided interesting material.

"We speak of the four fundamental operations of addition, subtractions, multiplication and division. In the old days they used to speak of seven, and in the course of time the number was reduced to five, the fifth being notation. In the middle ages, Sacro Basco spoke of nine operations: numeration, additional, subtraction, duplication, mediation, multiplication, division and extraction of roots."

The operation of addition had not changed much since the Hindu Arabic numerals came into use, the speaker said in describing the Arabian casting out of nines, the decomposition borrowing methods and other systems.

From the Egyptian method of duplication and mediation he traced the various forms of multiplication used in modern mathematics. Considerable thought was given to the decimal fraction system and to the development of exchange mediums and of the metric system were also described in detail.

Besides many interesting facts concerning the history of mathematics, Mr. Sheffield brought forward several amusing problems. Various phases of the address were illustrated on a blackboard and extracts from publications on the subject further enhanced its interest.

Those present at the meeting included W. L. Affleck, B. C. Affleck, T. Brown, J. F. Coates, R. E. Crerar, W. M. Cunliffe, W. D. Fleet, W. Hiane, H. D. Dawson, R. E. Potter, W. A. Talbot, E. W. Widdowson, H. R. Younger, B. N. Sharp and R. Pollard of the engineers and A. Coates, a guest.

Urges Church Help Jobless

VICTORIA, March 1 (CP).—Dean C. S. Quainton was strongly for action by the church in an attempt to find a solution to the unemployment problem when introducing a resolution before the Church of England synod here and it was unanimously carried after considerable debate.

The dean expressed the view the sole work of the church was not evangelsim. A deaf ear could not be turned to existing economic conditions and consequent unemployment, he said.

P.G.E. PAYROLL IS $465,401

VICTORIA, March 1 (CP)—Terming as "most unwarranted, unjust and malicious" criticisms being broadcast from a Vancouver radio station by "an irresponsible professional microphone artist for political purpose only, spreading untrue and libelous information and ridiculously attempting to censure the efforts of practical operation and snow fighting on the P.G.E. railway from the smug security of a steam-heated doctor's office in Vancouver," C. H. Tupper, Liberal, Similkameen, today gave the house a review of operations of the government-owned line, of which he is a director.

With an average employment of 362 men and an annual payroll of $465,401, the railway was showing increased revenues yearly, was adding to its roll stock, had carried out repairs and replacements last year to the extent of $250,000.

Mr. Tupper paid a tribute to the loyalty of the employees of the line, asserted that the management is efficient and economical and the only criticism seemed to come from disappointed "job hunters" and "political manipulators."

GALLIHER ESTATE PASSED, PROBATE

VICTORIA, March 1 (CP)—The estate of the late Mr. Justice W. A. Galliher, of the British Columbia court of appeal, pioneer lawyer of the Kootenay country and years ago a member of the Canadian house of commons, was passed for probate before Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson of the supreme court today at a value of $21,687.

The whole estate is left to louise Margaret Galliher, the widow who is named executrix under the will.

The chief items in the estate as presented to the court by Alexis Martin, counsel for Mrs. Galliher, are the Galliher family home on St. Charles street, valued for death duties at $12,000; $240 shares of Alberta Pacific oils; and a $9518 Mutual Life of Canada policy.

Social News of Rossland

ROSSLAND, B.C., March 1.—Mrs. Frank Leeson entertained members of the Women's auxiliary to Rossland branch, Canadian legion, at a sewing meeting at her home on Le Roi avenue, Wednesday. Quite a little was done in preparation for the sale of work which will be held later in the spring and for a card party to be held early this month. Mrs. Percy E. Taylor and Mrs. James Hardy were appointed to look after the cards and Mrs. R. Symmons will be in charge of the refreshments. Those present were Mrs. Harry Smith, Mrs. A. SALMO MALARTIC TO RAISE TO SHAFT BOTTOM BY CONTRACT

"B" Tunnel Will Become the Main Working Tunnel; Mine Shut Down While Snow Handicaps Remain

Having accomplished an important phase in the development of the Salmo Malartic gold-silver property on Deer creek, of the Sheep Creek camp, and because the next stage is to be done by contract, Manager Percy F. Horton shut down the Salmo Malartic Friday, bringing down the crew of approximately a dozen men, and bringing out the supplies.

While the underground work could have been continued, the task of getting up supplies in the face of present road conditions dictated closing, as handling of oil drums and other bulky commodities over the steeply drifted snow became almost an impossibility.

The large shaft sunk on the footwall of the great ore zone followed the big width of ore for 95 feet, at which point a crosscut was carried 175 feet from it in the ore zone. This was sufficient to establish the rake of the ore, and it is expected that after President George Valentine, of the Salmo Malartic Mines, Ltd., comes out from Toronto shortly, a contract will be let for raising from "B" tunnel, to the crosscut from the shaft-bottom, a distance of around 100 feet, according to the point chosen for the departure.

This means that "B" tunnel will be made the main working tunnel of the property, and that all ore above it will be extricated through it.

BROKEN NECK IS FATAL TO YOUTH

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., March 1 (CP)—Robert Ingles, 17, who suffered a fractured neck while doing gymnastic exercises in the Richard McBridge school gymnasium here Tuesday evening, died today in the hospital.

Ingles was reported to have been injured while attempting to complete a somersault in mid-air after jumping from a springboard. He was stated to have fallen sideways and landed on his head and shoulder.

AMBERS BEATS SAM FULLER

Fuller weighed 134½, Ambers 134.

Nearly 10,000 fans—the largest fight crowd the Garden has known in months—filed through the turnstiles to see a superbly trained Ambers turn in the best performance of his short but spectacular career to send the flashy Fuller spinning out of the championship running.

Plans are to pit Ambers against the tough Tony Canzoneri, himself a former lightweight king and then, if he safely hurdles Canzoneri, to send him against Ross in an open air show here this summer.

SAMMY NO MATCH

The squat Sammy put up a gallant exhibition but he was no match for the smooth-working fighting machine that came down from the hills of Herkimer tonight.

After a rushing attack in the first three rounds, he wilted under the deadly firing of Ambers' powerful right and from the seventh until the closing heat, did not win a round.

A last ditch stand in the 10th, during which he rocked Ambers with a right under the eye—the only mark the New York Italian received—had the house in an uproar, but the rally came too late to do any good.

The Associated Press score card gave Fuller three rounds—the third, seventh and fifteenth. All the rest except the first which was even, were captured by Ambers by a wide margin.

There were no knockdowns.

Plan Reorganize University of B. C.

VANCOUVER, March 1 (CP) — President L. S. Klinck of the University of British Columbia stated today that, in a conference last week with Hon. G. M. Weir, minister of education, it had been intimated that reorganization of the university had been decided upon.

"Of course, I cannot discuss the matter in any way until the details are announced," Dr. Klinck said.

CALLS BUDGET A "PIPE DREAM"

VICTORIA, March 1 (CP)—Had the Hart budget been brought down by the C. C. F. instead of Liberals, there would have been plenty of criticism from those who now praise it, E. E. Winch, C. C. F. Burnaby, told the legislature today. Hon. John Hart, minister of finance, was a past master in putting things over in the brightest colors, Mr. Winch himself had been a window dresser at one time but he used real goods, not empty cartons, in his art.

Current expenditures should be met by current revenue, the Burnaby member declared. This could be done but he didn't expect this government to do it.

The four million dollars to be spent on the Fraser river bridge should be put into increased relief allowances, medical care for poor people, replacement of overcrowded mental hospitals and sanitoriums by fireproof structures, Mr. Winch declared. There also were many roads little better than trails and numerous schools that should be enlarged.

The speaker declared there was no real differences between an increased income tax and a new sales tax. Both levies hit the pockets of the poor man.

"This is not a budget at all, it is a pipe dream," Mr. Winch asserted.

IT'S THE FORTS OR THE PORTS TONIGHT

FORT WILLIAM, March 1 (CP)—Fort William Blue Boys and Port Arthur Tri-colors meet tomorrow night in the third game of their five-game series, for the Thunder Bay senior hockey league title. The Tri-colors won the first game 3-2 but the Blue Boys, finalists in the Allan cup series last year, tied up the series with a 3-2 win in the second game.

Object of Fund

The object of the Fund is to give assistance anywhere in Canada to organized action to combat the evil of cancer, which at present is the cause of more deaths and more suffering than any other disease. The Fund is for Canadian research and action, and all the proceeds will be spent in the Dominion.

Operation of Fund

The trustees of the fund will confine their functions to receiving applications for grants to aid against cancer from official or voluntary bodies. The trustees will adjudicate upon the worthiness of the type of work planned for which the grant is requested and if approval is concurred will authorize the payment of an amount to the applicants. The trustees will not set up any personnel or staff to carry out any activities whatsoever.

ANCIENT TEA-MAKING

A discussion in progress about the origin of the teapot has brought the date back to the eighth century of Lu Yu during which a work appeared entitled "Ch'a-ching" on tea. It gives many illustrations of various types of vessels for tea-making. The true teapot of that time resembled the coffee pot of today being tall and slender with a long spout. The Chinese in the centuries long past made tea in a manner different to the present practice. They filled the pot with cold water, added the tea leaves and brought it slowly to a boil. The vessel used then served both as kettle and teapot. It was not until the Sung dynasty that there is any record in China of the adding of tea leaves to boiling water.

In the seventeenth century the proportion of tea to water used by the Chinese was one ounce to a good large glass of water. When the leaves sank to the bottom of the water the tea was regarded as fit to drink. It was drunk then as hot as possible, the supposition being that if allowed to cool it would be "good for nothing." The tea leaves were used a second and third time, but on each of these occasions they were boiled with the water. The Japanese of the sixteenth century had the habit of beating the tea into powder, then putting it into boiling water and swallowing it altogether. Both Chinese and Japanese of those times used a little sugar to correct the bitter flavor of the tea.

AIR TRAVEL TO EUROPE

In a little more than two years it will be possible to travel to Europe in 30 hours with comfort and safety, writes Capt. Hugh Duncan Grant, in the March issue of the magazine Esquire. It will be possible to have breakfast on this continent and dinner in London, Paris or Berlin the following night.

The former superintendent of the meteorological department of the British Navy predicts that by early in the Spring of 1937, the Atlantic will be bridged by four seadromes anchored 600 miles apart between America and Europe and that regular trans-Atlantic air mail and passenger service, on a 30-hour schedule, will be in operation.

The floating airports, with six acres of unobstructed landing deck and hotel accommodation for passengers who want to break their journey, will be filling station and safety harbors for ocean fliers. They will also constitute one of the greatest engineering achievements of the century, according to Capt. Grant, who is now in America as consulting meteorologist for the Armstrong Seadromes. Describing these ocean landing fields, Capt. Grant says:

"The seadrome, of which many models have been built and tested, will be a steel and iron structure with a six acre deck, 100 feet above the waterline, and buoyancy tanks 40 feet below the water. Ballast chambers, filled with iron ore, will extend 208 feet below the surface, giving it stability. A 1,500 ton reinforced concrete anchor, resting on the bed of the ocean and connected to it by two 4-inch galvanized standard steel cables will keep it in place, always lying down the wind in position for aircraft to land."

Tentative plans call for three of these man-made floating islands to be anchored about 600 miles apart along the 40th parallel of latitude between America and the Azores Islands and the fourth between the Azores and Ferrol, Spain. It is expected that the first of these will be anchored about 600 miles out to sea from New York by the summer of 1936.

Between You and Me

By J. B. C.

WELL, NOW, I GIVE UP

A friend of mine queried me the other day about the correctness of "cupsful" or "cupfuls." Of course I replied "cupsful." He laughed and handed me the following from the English publication "Answers."

"I have just had an argument with a friend as to whether the plural of cupful is 'cupsful' or 'cupfuls,'" writes A.D.C. "He holds that cupsful is correct as there is not a plural form of 'full,' while I say that a cupful is a measure which can exist apart from a cup, and that the plural is therefore 'cupfuls.'"

You win, A.D.C. A cupful is a definite thing and certainly takes the final "s." Otherwise, if we asked for six "cupsful" of tea, it might be concluded that we wanted six cups all in a row filled with tea.

Like the joke which appeared recently in which the woman said she couldn't give her husband six teaspoonfuls of medicine, as they hadn't six teaspoons in the house!

NONSENSE!

Here's another handed me by one of the boys in the office, from an English publication:

'Twas in the month of Liverpool,
In the city of July,
The moon lay thick upon the ground,
The snow shone in the sky.
The flowers were singing sweetly,
The birds were in full bloom,
As I went into the basement
To clean the upstairs room.
I saw a thousand miles away
A house just out of sight;
The wall projected backward,
The front was at the back;
It stood alone, between two more,
And they were whitewashed black.

WINTER BLOOM

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Central Press Garden Expert

Those of us who can hardly wait for spring and gardening time can plant some of the earliest blooming shrubs, and thereby still our impatience a bit. The Christmas Rose has received considerable attention the last few years as a winter blooming bush. It has beautiful foliage as well as flowers. The flowers come in deep red, white, purple, crimson, yellow, pink and white with crimson. Various species bloom from November to March.

Daphne Mezereum, not quite so well known, also blooms in winter. The bare branches are studded all over with reddish, fragrant flowers. It is a deciduous bush with rigid, erect branches, a low growing shrub which can be used to good advantage in a rock garden.

Witch Hazel is another winter blooming shrub, which grows very tall, from eight to 12 feet high, sometimes even taller. Its flowers are pale yellow, borne on bare twigs. It has a very fragrant spicy odor. It is quite effective since the clusters of its nut pods remain on the twigs during the blooming season. These are very hardy bushes that can be grown close to the house as they do not object to smoke and dust.

THE POWER OF A 7-6 HAND

There is about one chance in 10,000 to hold two suits and be void of the two other suits. The most desirable two-suiter is the 7-6 hand, with partner able to strongly support one suit. There are about four to one odds that no other player will hold more than three cards of your 7-suit, and there are better than even chances that no other player will hold more than [illegible] cards of your 6-suit. There [illegible] chances in 100 that your partner will hold in one or [illegible] your long suits at least as many cards as either opponent. The following hand affords a good illustration of the advantage of the 7-6 hand.

Neither side was vulnerable when South opened with his forcing bid of two Hearts. When his partner over-called with two Spades, at least one quick trick was shown, but not localized. East overcalled with three Diamonds. South showed his great strength by bidding five Clubs, which North raised to six Clubs. East doubled. Very wisely the declarer did not redouble, or East would have saved money by bidding seven Diamonds, had South dared bid a grand slam in Clubs.

West led his top trump, in an attempt to cut down cross-ruffing. South's 10 won. A low heart was led, and ruffed by dummy. The declarer led a low spade. East hopped with his ace. South ruffed. Dummy trumped another low heart lead. East's king fell, leaving South's hearts established. It was time to pull trumps. The ace of clubs picked up the last opposing club. South ruffed himself in by leading a low spade from dummy. He spread his cards, claiming fulfillment of the doubled small slam contract, with a single overtrick.

Undisputed queens of the basketball world, Edmonton's famous Commercial Grads' basketball team have obtained for the western city more publicity than all its other activities combined. Under the skilful coaching of J. Percy Page, they have developed from just another obscure girls' team to an organization that has no remaining world to conquer.

Perhaps getting away to a good start 18 years ago had something to do with it, for Page's girls surprised even themselves when they won the city high school championship. From that point, they had plenty of places to go—and did! Next came the provincial and after that the western Canadian honors. They went on to take the Dominion title, and then the International. A tour of Europe followed, and when the girls came home they were acclaimed as the world's first feminine champions.

Since then, life has just been one challenge after another, but the Grads have consistently declined to surrender their throne, establishing a record without parallel in any sporting activity. The personnel of the team has been constantly changing during the years, but they have continued under the mentorship of the original coach.

The record pictured is just one of dozens made by the Grads, whose every little movement on the gym floor has a meaning all its own.

HOW WRITER'S CRAMP AFFECTS ITS VICTIMS

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Writer's cramp is a peculiar condition in which there develops pain and spasm in the hand and arm after writing a few pages. In fact, it might be said after doing any fine work with the hands, because there is telegrapher's cramp, stenographer's cramp, and seamstress' cramp, all of them related.

If you watch a patient with writer's cramp you find that he, or she, will start a letter and write perhaps a page and a half, and then have to desist. The patients have different methods of relieving the cramp—some walk up and down the room, throwing the arm around, some hold it above the head, some attempt to massage the muscles of the forearm with the other hand.

The cause of writer's cramp is not entirely clear, but in most instances it comes on after a long period of having done a certain kind of work. The principal inciting cause of the trouble is excessive writing in a bad manner; that is, in any style that depends upon the employment of the small muscles of the hand, wrist or forearm, in which the writing movements are not made entirely from the shoulder. Thus, writer's cramp is practically unknown among stenographers, in spite of the rapidity and tediousness of their work, owing to the fact that the characters employed are best made by the free-hand method customarily employed. Gowers, the well-known English neurologist, once had a patient, who was a stenographer, who could write shorthand readily but ordinary script caused a spasm.

There often is said to be a neurotic tendency in these patients, and it has been described in families, parent and child, but most of the people who acquire it do not have a markedly nervous disposition, and this theory at least is of little value in treatment in most cases.

Under treatment, the most important element is rest. If the patients can abstain from the occupation which produced the cramp long enough, they soon get relief, and in the course of time are able to go back to writing or other occupation without reappearance of the trouble.

There are two main varieties—the neuralgic type and the actual cramp. In the case of the cramp, the fingers go into a spasm which causes the pen to fall from the hand. The neuralgic type simply causes pain without loss of muscular control. The neuralgic type is easier to cure than the actual cramp type.

After a short period of rest, massage and exercises of the hand may be begun with benefit. After that the important element in treatment is reeducation, so that writing is done on a larger scale with a full sweep of the arm, bringing the shoulder muscles into play. In one case which I observed, the writing at the time the cramp came on was one-sixth the size of the writing which was later learned, and which was continued indefinitely without discomfort.

FINALE

While poverty and other trials impede,
E'en through these days of stock stampede
O pioneer! is there in store for thee
The promise of a brighter day to be?
O bless'd be thou! if in this present fit
Thou wilt derive a worthy benefit,
For countless men did roam the hills in vain
And died alone in solitude and pain.
They pass'd from earth unrecognized, unknown,
Upon their tomb no fragrant bloom was sown.
Yet, bless'd with strength and glorious health
'Twas them that gave the world its mineral wealth

In aged shaft and cut appears
The spirit of those pioneers,
And echoes through the night resound,
"Tread thou not here, 'tis sacred ground."
O blow! ye wintry blizzards blow
And gather heavy clouds of snow,
Come, hurl the flakes to mountain side
And hide the pit that's gaping wide;
O! thickly spread the snow-white fleece
And let those spirits rest in peace.

STAMP CORNER

U.S.A. STAMP SCANDAL

Most collectors are by now quite familiar with the recent fireworks stamp enthusiasts set off, when it became common knowledge across the border that some unofficial sheets of Mother's Day stamps had been issued imperforate and changed hands for quite a few thousand dollars for a single sheet. It is finally ended now, with what I would call a doubtful victory to the philatelists.

In as much as it would be practically impossible to secure the return of all of the imperforate sheets causing the trouble, the post-office department have capitulated to the demands of the collectors for a square deal for all, and are now going to issue the following stamps in imperforate condition and in sheets of 200 stamps all without gum. National parks, 1 cent to 10 cents, inclusive, Mothers' Day, 3 cents flat press, Wisconsin 3 cents, and the 16 cent air special delivery.

These stamps will all be put on sale at the Philatelic Agency of the post-office department, Washington, D.C., March 18.

The outcome will undoubtedly be another two to three hundred thousand dollars' profit for Uncle Sam from their sale to collectors.

DETECTING WATERMARKS

The difference in watermarks used in the paper on which stamps are printed quite often makes a big difference in the value of the stamps. To look at them, two stamps may at first appear to be identical, but upon further examination as to watermarks or perforations, turn out to be altogether different from a philatelic viewpoint.

A most common occurrence of this may be found among many of the issues of the British colonies. The principal ones to be noted are as follows: Crown and C.C., Crown and C.A., Multiple Crown and C.A., and Multiple Crown and Script C.A. The first two types appear only once on each stamp, usually pretty well in the center of the design; the latter two, as may be guessed by their title, appear in whole or part more frequently and so are found more than once on each stamp.

Watermarks are found not on the front, but on the back of the stamps. It is sometimes possible to see them by holding the stamp in front of a good light and looking it over carefully, with the back toward you. In most cases, it is necessary, however, to use some solution to make the watermark stand out more clearly, so that it may be accurately identified. Benzine is most commonly used for this purpose, but this is highly inflammable and not to be recommended. arbon-tetra-chloride is equally as effective, and non-inflammable.

To bring out the watermarks clearly, the stamp should be placed, face down, on a hard black surface, such as a piece of metal with a good coating of hard black enamel; or a piece of black bakelite makes a fine surface. Pour a little of the solution over the stamp and as it soaks through the watermarks will show up as black lines against the rest of the stamp. This is due to the fact that watermarks are actually thin spots in the paper.

This procedure may be safely followed with either mint or used stamps. When you are finished examining the watermarks, simply lift the stamps to a dry spot, or hold in the air with your tweezers, and the solution used will quickly evaporate, leaving no trace on either the front or back of the stamp.

IT'S HAMILTON AND TORONTO

Both Teams Beaten But Win Series on Goals

TORONTO, March 1 (CP).—Hamilton Tigers and Toronto's All-Stars, staggered and even humiliated by unaccustomed rough treatment in the semi-finals, qualified for the Ontario Hockey association senior "A" finals tonight. They will play a two-game, total-goals series to determine the championship held last season by the Tigers.

Oakville Villans defeated the All-stars 4-3 before a crowd of 7200 in Toronto, but could not quite overcome the two-goal lead Torontos carried into the contest. Torontos won the first game of the total-goal series 2-0.

At Hamilton the Bengals had a little less difficulty as they dropped a 3-4 decision to Port Colborne Sailors. The Tigers had won the first game of the series 3-0 and they started out by driving in three mroe goals in the first period tonight. A great Port comeback made it close.

GOMEZ IS NOT READY TO SIGN

Offered $13,500, But Wants $27,000 for Two Years

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—Vernon "Goofy" Gomez, ace southpaw of New York Yankees, came back from a world tour today, glanced at the figures in his 1935 contract, rushed down town for a heated session with Ed Barrow, business manager, and then proclaimed in purest Castillian that he is the spring's first Yankee hold-out.

Last season Gomez received $13,500 for leading the American league pitchers both in games won and lost and general effectiveness. He was offered the same salary to try and repeat this year.

The pow wow with Barrow got him nowhere, he said, and he has definitey cancelled his plans to go south for spring training until some sort of an adjustment is made.

"I asked for a two-year contract at $27,000 a year," Gomez said, "and they turned me down. I don't know what the next move is."

Barrow's offer was said to be between $15,000 and $20,000 a year.

Goalie Scores to Save a Shutout

BRANTFORD, Ont., March 1 (CP)—Goaltender Box, member of a team that couldn't score a goal against Acton in an intermediate "B" Ontario Hockey association playdown game here tonight, skated up the ice and into the hall of fame. He scored the home team's only goal.

Brantford St. Judges were well beaten when the netman sprang from his cage and went on the attack, to the utter amazement of a rinkful of spectators, his own teammates and the Acton brigade. Acton won the game 4-1 and the two-game round 10-3, advancing into the second round of the playdowns.

SPORT FLASHES by HARRY "RED" FOSTER

REGGIE J. McNAMARA OF SIX-DAY BIKE FAME

Known to six-day bicycle race fans all over the world, this 50-year-old veteran of the wooden oval stands out as an example of how much the human system can absorb in knocks, shocks, and continuous punishment.

Reggie J. McNamara is undoubtedly a wonder man. An old man, a veteran of 30 years of racing, yet still the king in his chosen field.

He demonstrates, year after year, that age is no barrier to success if you "have what it takes." Twice the all-round champion of America. He has participated in more than one hundred six-day competitions. (Almost two years of continuous riding).

He is the holder of many world records, ranging from one to 50 miles; he has raced in every country in the world where six-day races are held. He has to his credit 16 first place positions in these grinds.

He has had his collarbone broken 13 times, innumerable rib fractures and his jaw smashed twice. On several occasions he has suffered from fractures of the skull. Grit seems to have been the predominating characteristic in his make-up ever since his youth. Bitten on the finger, in his native habitant, Australia, by a snake when a boy and advised by an older brother that the member must come off or he would die. Reggie laid the finger over a log and allowed the older boy to lop off the bitten finger.

The boy who was not afraid to take punishment, developed into the man who has taken enough punishment to kill half a dozen ordinary men and he has taken it all with a smile.

Oldtimers of the bike game, managers and competitors are all agreed that no rider has ever lived to quite compare with Reggie McNamara for gameness, stamina, and all-round skill in six-day bike racing.

Every sport has its iron man. Sometimes they have toppled from their pedestal by the advent of a more colorful, more spectacular figure, but it seems almost beyond the bounds of possibility that six-day bicycle racing will again ever produce a man of the all-round calibre of Reggie McNamara.

JACK DEMPSEY'S REAL NAME IN DISPUTE

Sports Editor,
The Nelson Daily News:

Sir—Kindly answer the following question, which will settle a lot of dispute here in this camp.

Question: Was Jack Dempsey (heavyweight boxer), born with the name Dempsey or Harrison, or was Dempsey a name he fought in the ring with.

E. McGINITY,
China Creek,
Blueberry, B.C.

Answer: Jack Dempsey's real name is Dempsey but not "Jack." His full name is William Harrison Dempsey. On entering the ring he assumed the name "Jack," one made famous by Jack Dempsey, "the non-pareil," who was in his prime as a world's middleweight boxing champion in 1884, having won the title at Toronto, Canada.

BILL CHERNOFF IS GIVEN JAIL TERM

Bill Chernoff, Winlaw Doukhobor, was sentenced to spend 30 days in the Nelson provincial jail for failing to comply with an order for payment under the Un-married Parents act at Castlegar Thursday, and was brought to Nelson. He was up before Stipendiary Magistrate R.A.D. West.

Scotland Names Its Rugby Team

Edinburgh, March 1 (CP Cable)—The following side has been selected to represent Scotland against England in the international rugby fixture to be played at Murray field March 16: Marshall, Forest, Dick, Murdoch, Fyffe, Shaw, Logan, Murray, Tait, Rieve, Beattie, Burnet Thom, Waters and Lamble.

McCarthy Refuses Talk About Ruth

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 1 (AP)—Joe McCarthy, manager of New York Yankees, departed in high spirits tonight for the ball team's training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., but he was still silent on the deal which sent Babe Ruth to Boston Braves.

"I wish Ruth all possible luck" said McCarthy, and that's all I will say about the deal."

CENTRAL SCHOOL WINS BASKETBALL

Walter Thompson, Elmer Tattrie and Alf Ball Are High Scorers

By a 16-6 score, the Central school basketball players took a fast game from the Convent hoopsters at the Central school Friday afternoon, Monty Morley refereeing. Walter Thompson and Elmer Tattrie were the high scorers for the winners with four points each and Alfred Ball made four of the six points made by the Convent.

Joe Dyck was the reporter of the game.

Central: Eric Packingham; Walter Thompson, 4; Herbie Guscott; Doug Winlaw; Harold Tupanilla, 2; Elmer Tattrie, 4; Joe Doyle, Stanley Stasyn.

Convent: L. W. Pivoun; Albert Arnot, Alfred Ball, 4; Leo McKinnon; Pat Wocis; Alberta Lepage, 2; L. Gouzon; Lunn; Reisterer; Charles Lindsay; Choquette.

GOTTSELIG OUT WITH BAD HAND

CHICAGO, March 1 (AP)—Johnny Gottselig of Regina, leading scorer of Chicago Blackhawks of the National Hockey league, may be lost to his team for a week, if not longer, because of a right hand injury suffered in last night's game against Detroit.

Although x-ray photos showed no break, they did reveal severe abrasions, torn muscles and nerves on the back of the hand. He was unable to move his fingers.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS

By The Canadian Press

To Paul Thompson, left winger of Chicago Black Hawks in the National Hockey league, born at Calgary 28 years ago today. A brother of Tiny Thompson, Boston Bruin goalie, Paul broke into major league hockey with New York Rangers when that team was first formed in 1926. Rangers sold him to Chicago in 1930. As a junior he was with the famous Calgary Canadians.

GRAND FORKS COMETS BEATEN 8-5 AT VERNON IN FIRST OF COY CUP HOCKEY

Okanagan Draws First Blood in B. C. Intermediate Finals

VERNON, B.C., March 1 (CP)—The Vernon intermediate hockey team advanced the first step toward possession of the Coy cup for another year at the rink here last night when they conquered the visiting Grand Forks Comets, champions of the Kootenay and the Boundary country, 8-5, in a thrilling struggle played on extremely soft ice.

The end of the first period found the Comets down 4-1 to the Vernonites. The visitors did not seem able to get going and looked anything but able contenders for the cup. However, in the second frame they staged a real rally which netted them three goals without a reply from the Vernon boys and it was not until well over the halfway mark that Vernon found their stride. The lone Vernon marker in this frame came from the stick of Louie Norris, tricky Vernon center man. With just a little more than a minute to go, he slammed the puck past Deporter to bring the score up 5-4 for Vernon.

During the middle frame the Vernon players were not getting their passes down pat and Grand Forks took advantage of the Vernon lack of coordination, while diminutive H. Bailey on the Comets forward line loomed up all over the ice snaring the puck from the locals and causing the Vernon defence plenty of trouble. The other standout player for the Boundary champions was Bickerton, and these two counted three of the Grand Forks goals. The other scorers for them were Boyko and McKinnon.

The shining lights on the forward lines for Vernon were Broom, veteran Vernon player, who got three markers, and Claughton and Murray with two each. The whole Vernon team combined well and their experience and cooperation were the deciding factors in the Vernon win.

The final game of the series will be played Saturday night.

The teams:

Grand Forks Comets—Deporter, Skarattoff, Savage, H. Bailey, M. Bailey, Boalan, Bickerton, Boyko, McKinnon, Graham.

Vernon Intermediates—Hoskins, Gray, Nolan, R. Sparrow, Carew, Norris, Broom, Murray, G. Sparrow, Claughton.

Referee—Mickey MacKay, Grand Forks.

Londos Thrown Out in New York

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—Jim Londos, generally recognized as the heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, today was suspended indefinitely by the New York State Athletic commission. The suspension was in line with the recent action of the California commission, which set Londos down for failure to go through with a match on the coast last Wednesday.

QUEBEC, March 1 (CP).—A trip up to his old stamping ground of the major league apparently worked wonders with Albert Leduc, manager of Quebec Beavers who tonight personally conducted his squad to a 8-0 victory over New Haven Eagles in a Canadian American Hockey league game.

The "Battleship" scored three goals himself and assisted in another, Lafrance, Boursult and Buckles were the other scorers.

CAMPBELL MAY HIT THE TRACK

Will Drive His Speedy Car at Daytona Beach Today

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 1 (AP)—The tension is off Sir Malcolm Campbell, the man who rides the monster, for he's driving Bluebird on the racing sands tomorrow.

The beach is smooth again. While he's about it, he'll probably shove the throttle to the floor and shoot for fulfillment of his racing dream—300 miles-an-hour.

But for the two persons closest to him in this word, the pressure is only starting. Lady Campbell, his wife, is taut, nervous. Little Jean, their 11-year-old daughter, drops her cards as she plays rummy in the hotel lobby with grandfatherly old Ogis Porter, the official timer, who has taught her the game in the month they've been waiting.

For the past month it's been Sir Malcolm, the 50-year-old Englishman who can't get speed out of his blood, who has been restless.

Now, with the next three days almost certain to hold the answer to Campbell's hopes, even his life, as he sends the 2500-horsepower, rebuilt Bluebird thundering down the sands after his own 272-mile-an-hour record, Sir Malcolm is at ease.

All he has to do now is drive—step the throttle to the floor, ride it at hurricane speed through 11½ miles, covering the middle one, he hopes, in 13 seconds flat.

SUDBURY CUBS DEFEAT FROOD

SUDBURY, Ont., March 1 (CP).—Sudbury Cub Wolves came from behind in the third period, forced the battle into overtime against Frood and then bagged the winning goal that carried with it the championship of the Nickel Belt Hockey league here tonight. The score was 3-2 in the third and decisive game of the playoffs.

Miller and Shannon, among the most brilliant juniors the north has seen in its hockey history, were responsible for the tying and winning goals. Shannon bagged the tying goal in the third period on Miller's pass. They reversed the tactics in combining for the overtime goal.

Kit Klein Makes New Skate Record

KONGSBERG, Norway, March 1 (AP)—Kit Klein, United States champion from Buffalo, today set a new world's skating record when she sped over the 1000 metres in 1:42.3. The old mark was 1:44.7. Miss Klein also won the 500 metres in the good time of 49.8 seconds.

Little Sister

BY MARGARET WIDDEMER

CHAPTER 50

One more thing Leila did do before she stopped concerning herself about it all; she asked her mother-in-law elect point blank.

She only elicited a "Now, my little bride mustn't worry herself. What are big strong husbands and fussy old mothers-in-law for but to keep little brides from worrying?"

When her mother-in-law elect went playful that was that. Well, it couldn't be worse. It might be better. Leila braced herself, and went on with her daily round; occasionally running into an informal committee meeting in one house or the other where Mrs. Johnston-Hedges like the dog in Alice, was judge and jury. Even Addison seemed a little dazed finally fit the lady's interest.

"You are sure," Leila heard him say meekly one September evening, "that you don't forget my possession of enough votes to swing open the Manor beach to the Improvements? Because, much as I appreciate your kindness toward me, I'm still trying to free your beach for all the Fernwoods."

"Quite sure," said the lady, with a motherly pat of Addison's hand, lying on the long old living room table where they were all grouped around. He had plumper hands than before Aunt Minnie had taken his feeding in charge. "We are friendly enemies, that's understood, dear boy."

"You're wonderful!" said Addison. "I—" he looked round him at Bet, Aunt Minnie, and Mrs. Johnston-Hedges—"have never felt so completely understood and sympathized with as since I came here. I—I feel I have flowered." His earnest, frowning young face turned to the three women, grateful and flushed. Aunt Minnie and Bet each reached for a portion of him to squeeze; Aunt Minnie pressed the hand nearest her. Bet patted his knee.

"I think," said Leila, "I'll see how my dogs look by moonlight."

And Mrs. Johnston-Hedges, tolerantly, "Just girlish tremors."

"She seemed a little self-absorbed," said Addison, who may have felt that her pats or squeezes also were necessary to a perfect score. "Not so interested in right and wrong as in her own concerns."

"Ah, well, the jazz age isn't long over, we must expect most of you young people to be a little wild," said the lady with still more tolerance. "Leila is a dear girl at heart."

For some reason none of it seemed as funny as it used to.

"I'm silly, that's what it is. I've been so used to being the good girl of the family, I can't stand competition," Leila tried to tell herself. "If I really was selfish, "I'd throw them over and be perfectly happy! I'd think it wasn't my affair, because I was married and had to think of Orton. Whereas—"

She stopped. She did not go to see any dogs. She undressed and went resolutely to bed, which was probably a good thing. She was prettier than ever these days, at least, because she was thinner. . . .Well, this banquet was the next hurdle to take. Then the wedding. That was that. She spent four useless hours trying to plan some way of supporting herself and Aunt Minnie if she broke with Orton and the house was gone. But there was none. You couldn't keep even such a modest kennel as hers with no place to have dogs.

You couldn't do anything but marry Orton and try to be a good and grateful wife.

Jane sneaked into the room, wagging cheerfully. She wanted to spend the night on the foot of the bed.

Leila jumped out of bed and caught her in her arms, and cried and cried. Jane loved her and she loved Jane. In a whirling world Jane was the one security. Jane crawled close beside her, and Leila threw an arm over her and went to sleep.

The fortnight passed inexorably. Amid a sense of excitement that got thicker and thicker day by day, the evening of the banquet came.

The rest of he family went early. They were putting on the actual banquet in the big house on the shore that was Addison's most glorious extravagance, and which Leila had heard called variously the community house and the casino and the white elephant. She had tried not to listen when it was talked about. It was difficult.

She was to wait, of course, for Orton, who fortunately disbelieved in being early for anything. She dressed slowly, but even so, she was ready from her hair to her slippers before he came. She finally went down to the veranda to wait.

"We're a little late," Orton said, appearing rather flushed in his dinner coat, where she waited for him on the veranda in her new yellow trousseau satin that she had gone reckless on. It threw up all her deepened summer tints, the browns and reds and ambers of her skin, the chestnut crest of her hair, the amber-brown of her long live eyes. Its lines slunk and swirled about her in a quiet simple way that spelled "import" to everybody who knew. The rest of the banqueters might be taken from the highways and byways, Leila had thought in one last spurt of feeling, but Mary Martin at least would see her perfectly dressed, from the old amber-topped comb she had managed to stick sideways at the back of her swirled short curls, to the new little slippers. Orton stopped short, impressed, on the lower step.

"You'll knock 'em," said he, with a kiss marital in its possessive approval.

"Worth while wrecking the family charge account for?" asked Leila, laughing brightly.

"Sure," said Orton absently, packing her in the car with the care for her skirt that a good home training had given.

They drove over silently. She wanted to scream at him, "Why on earth are all of you taking this mad banquet so seriously? Why do you do it?" But it would do no good, she knew. She was simply in that isolated mood in which one sees—removed from the rest of a delirious world— that the emperor is in his shirt, not his customary coronation robe.

They were there; a curved sweep, with a low sea wall at its edge, was where the mash used to be.

"They've made a good-looking place of it," Orton said, as he parked.

WINNIPEG IN A COMEBACK

Export Sale Causes a Rally Near the End of Day

WINNIPEG, March 1 (CP)—In as surprising a comeback as the mar- ket has seen in weeks, wheat prices on the Winnipeg grain exchange to- day staged a spirited rally from earlier recessions to close with net ⅜ to ½ cent advances.

Late-session sale for export of 300,000 bushels in Canadian wheat encouraged a wave of buying that swept values from the session's lows to close at or near the day's top, May at 84 and July 83⅜ to 83½ cents.

Losses of ⅝ to ½d were sustained in the English market, where trad- ers put a bearish interpretation on the Canadian grain board news. Chicago showed late strength, clos- ing a half cent advanced.

Cash and coarse grains were again dormant.

SMELTERS UP AT MONTREAL

MONTREAL, March 1 (CP) — Power stocks moved in the van of a general decline on the Montreal stock exchange in today's increas- ing trading. Prices were steadily de- pressed by the pressure of liquidat- ing sales.

Canadian Hydro Electric pre- ferred was the week feature of the day, plunging to 67, a loss of eight points. Montreal Power was off 1⅝ at 19 and Shawinigan ½ at 17.

Consolidated Smelters and Hol- linger led the small group. Smelters advanced 6½ to 13⅝ while Holl- inger gained 95 at 19.60.

NEW CAR SALES IMPROVED

WINNIPEG, March 1 (CP)—Deal- ers' expectation of a good year for Canada's automobile industry strengthened tonight following the issuance of the weekly trade report of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust association.

Sales of new cars during the past week were good, said the report. Volume of sales in other businesses continued to hold up well, maintain- ing the steady improvement under way during the past few months.

U. S. DOLLAR UP

MONTREAL, March 1 (CP)—In line with the downward trend on outside exchanges, the pound ster- ling slumped on Montreal foreign exchanges today.

The pound dipped to one of the lowest levels in the past five months at $4.82 7-16 where it suffered a loss of 2⅝ cents. The franc gained .01 of a cent at 6.67 cents while the United States dollar was 1-32 of 1 per cent higher at 3-16 of 1 per cent premium.

Exchange Rates

NEW YORK, March 1 (CP)— Prime commercial paper ¾; ster- ling exchange heavy at $4.80⅝ for 60-day bills and at $4.81⅛ for de- mand; Canadian dollars, to-day 7-32 per cent discount, year ago ⅛ per cent discount.

Franc 6.65⅝ cents.

STERLING IN A BIG SLUMP

Canadian Dollar Is Off in Sympathy With Pound

NEW YORK, March 1 (CP)— With dealers at times finding it ex- tremely difficult to arrange trans- actions in foreign monies, the ster- ling rate continued heavy in the foreign exchange markets today.

The pound closed at $4.81½, the lowest rate in months, for a loss of 2⅝ cents—nearly 5 cents added to yesterday's two-cent decline.

The sudden weak turn in sterling coincided with a rise in the price of gold to new high levels.

The lack of prospects for early stabilization and the growing belief that the British government favors a cheaper pound to help trade, were cited as possible causes of the downward movement.

The French franc closed .00⅛ of a cent higher at 6.65⅛ cents. The Ca- nadian dollar, lower in sympathy with sterling, finished at 7-32 per cent discount, off 3-32.

"PRODUCTION FOR USE" SUGGESTED AT VICTORIA

VICTORIA, March 1 (CP)—The British Columbia legislature will be asked Monday to endorse the princi- ple of "production to supply hu- man needs rather than for the mak- ing of profit."

Rev. Robert Connell, C.C.F. house leader, has given notice of a reso- lution to this effect and proposes that the province ask the federal government to let British Columbia work out this system within its own jurisdiction.

HOMESTAKE IS LEADER ON THE NEW YORK LIST

Canadian Stocks Are Higher on Wall Street

By FRANK MACMILLEN
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)— Traders awoke to the profit possi- bilities of the mining shares today as silver prices hit another new high since 1929 and the London price for gold touched another record peak.

There was a minor scramble for these issues in late dealings which carried the majority of other divi- sions along to fractionally better prices, while the mines lifted from 1 to around 2 points, Turnover reach- ed 636,562 shares.

Homestake, a high-priced gold stock, led the rally in mines with an advance of 13 points to 379, while other leading issues which got up from 1 to around 4 points included American Smelting at 36¼, Cerro de Pasco at 44⅛, U.S. Smelting at 121½, Howe Sound at 45¾, and Newmont at 38.

Canadian mining stocks responded with advances ranging from 1 to 2 points.

Bethlehem Steel at 27¾, Santa Fe at 42 and Allied Chemical at 135¼ each rose more than a point. Among the fractional gainers were U.S. Steel at 33, Westinghouse at 38, Chrysler at 36⅝, Southern Pacific at 15½, Union Carbide at 47⅛, Montgomery Ward at 25¼, Standard Oil of N.J. at 38⅝ and International Harvester at 40.

Calgary Live Stock

CALGARY, March 1 (CP)—Re- ceipts Thursday, 84 cattle, 20 calves, 1368 hogs and 67 sheep and lambs. Friday, 180 cattle, 1 calf, 345 hogs and 2 sheep.

The bulk of today's receipts were on through billing. Local cattle sales closed strong and higher for the week. Hogs were steady, selects $7.85, bacons $7.15 and butchers $6.65 off trucks. The lamb market was barely steady, good lambs selling from $5 to $5.50 and medium at $4 to $4.75.

Cattle—Good to choice butcher steers $4.50 to $5.50; medium steers $3.50 to $3.75; common to medium butcher heifers $3 to $3.50; good butcher cows $2 to $2.50; common to medium cows $1.25 to $2.

A SONG

Love that is hoarded, molds at last
Until we know some day
The only thing we ever have
Is what we give away.

And kindness that is never used
But hidden all alone,
Will slowly harden till it is
As hard as any stone.

It is the things we always hold
That we will lose some day;
The only things we ever keep
Are what we give away.
