KIDNAPPERS BABY DEMAND $50,000

Thousands of Friends Take Up Search for Abductors of 20-Month-Old Lindbergh Baby

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT JOINS IN THE SEARCH

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 2.—"The dastardly and cowardly kidnapping" of the infant Lindbergh, as it was described in congress by Senator Barbour, brought a shock to Washington today that quickly steeled itself into a determination that the federal government join the search for him and his abductors.

President Hoover and Attorney-General Mitchell held a consultation at the White House.

Shortly thereafter orders went forth whereby government detectives and prohibition agents will cooperate to the utmost with state authorities. Likewise, immigration and customs agents at the borders were directed to guard against the baby being spirited from the country.

On Capitol hill, wrathful protestations gave rise to signs of early action toward legislation to penalize kidnapping across state lines with death. Bills to that end are being pressed by two Missourians, Senator Patterson, Republican, and Representative Cochran, Democrat.

CAPONE OFFERS REWARD

CHICAGO, Ill., March 2.—Al Capone offered from his county cell today a reward of $10,000 for the safe return of the Lindbergh baby and the capture of his kidnappers.

"It's the most outrageous thing I ever heard of," said Capone, whose own name several times has been mentioned in Chicago abductions. "I know how Mrs. Capone and I would feel if our son were kidnapped, and I sympathize with the Lindberghs."

CONFIDENT OF RETURN OF BABY

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 3—(Thursday) (AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh told a group of state troopers and reporters early today he is "very confident" his baby would be returned by noon today.

The colonel's statement was made at the barred gate of the Lindbergh private road. Colonel Lindbergh had just driven down from his house.

His remarks apparently were intended only for the troopers and not for newspapermen nearby, for a few minutes later the troopers insisted that the reporters leave immediately.

After the colonel left the barrier to return to his home the state troopers said to the reporter:

"Get back where we can't see you, boys, way back. We're expecting some one to come through here in the morning and we don't want cars parked along the road, because they might get frightened."

REFERENCE TO PARKED CARS

The reference to the parked cars was directed to the automobile in which the reporter had driven up to the private road from Hopewell. Four state police were on guard at the gate. Colonel Lindbergh before he left the gate to return to his house was heard to remark something about "waiting for somebody before noon."

BABY GETS TRAINED CARE

PHILADELPHIA, March 2— A man called the city desk of a Philadelphia newspaper tonight and said in a deep, husky voice: "You may say that a trained nurse is taking care of the Lindbergh baby. That's all." Police inclined to the belief the call had been made by a crank.

BRITAIN EXPRESSES SYMPATHY

LONDON, March 3 (Thursday)—(AP)—Intense sympathy and indignation throughout Britain over the kidnapping of the infant son of Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh was reflected today in the newspapers, which featured the account in columns of cabled details and pictures.

JAPANESE CABINET MEETS OPPOSITION TO CAMPAIGN FUND

Investigations Committee Wish to Cut it to $2,000,000

TOKYO, March 2 (AP) (By Glenn Babb, Associated Press staff correspondent)—The Japanese cabinet encountered opposition today in its effort to obtain authorization for a bond issue of 22,000,000 yen ($7,040,000) to finance the campaign at Shanghai.

The investigation committee of the privy council did not approve the plan, recommended instead that only 16,000,000 yen ($5,120,000) be expended.

An extraordinary session of the cabinet was held to consider the difficult political problem involved.

Cabinet minister began a series of conferences with members of the privy council in an attempt to get them to change their minds. If that proved impossible, it was expected parliament would be convened about March 15.

Foreign office and war office officials indipated they did not expect any truce at Shanghai based on compromise. Some doubt was expressed about the ability of General Yishinori Shirakawa to complete the Chinese rout before the League of Nations assembly convenes at Geneva Thursday, but confidence was expressed that the Shanghai action would be over before the Geneva session was far advanced.

CAR BELIEVED USED IN KIDNAPPING IS FOUND AT NEWARK

According to information sent over radio early Thursday morning J. T. Moon, Latimer street, stated that a car, believed to have been the one in which the Lindbergh baby was secreted away, was found in a field near Newark with the engine burned out from lack of oil.

No one was near the car at the time.

CHINESE DELEGATE DECLARES DECISION POINT IS REACHED

World Stands at Cross-Roads of Peace and War; No Middle Course

GENEVA, Switzerland, March 2 (By P. I. Lipsey Jr., Associated Press correspondent (AP)—On the eve of tomorrow's extraordinary session of the League of Nations assembly, Dr. W. W. Yen of China solemnly warned league leaders tonight that the world stands at the cross-roads of peace or war.

"There is no middle course," the Chinese delegate asserted in a comprehensive statement of his nation's position, which is to be used as one of the bases for the assembly's deliberations in the Sino-Japanese conflict.

"If Japan is right in this matter, then militarism and brute force resume their sway over the affairs of nations. If the new order is to be preserved, the hour has struck to defend it."

The Japanese likewise filed a statement of their position, which was very brief and was not published.

Tomorrow's assembly session will open with M. Paul-Boncour in the chair. It is expected that Paul Hymans, of Belgium, will be elected president and that subsequently the Japanese and Chinese delegates will make their declarations.

What will follow is uncertain.

REGINA GETS SEVEN INCHES OF SNOW IN PERIOD OF 27 HOURS

REGINA, March 2.—Seven inches of snow tonight had fallen in Regina within the last 27 hours, by official measurement. It was the heaviest snowfall in this district since the storm of October, 1930.

Skies had cleared, wind had shifted to the north, and the mercury slowly fell from 23 above zero Tuesday evening to 12 above at 9 a. m. today, but climbed to 14 above later.

Reginans and farmers alike, rejoicing in the benefits to 1932 crops which the big storm had brought, stumbled through drifts three and four feet deep where plows had not made their orderly paths. Country roads were heavily drifted, motor-car and street railway traffic was hindered, but no one complained.

TORONTO VETERANS PLAN BIG REUNION

TORONTO, March 2—Local veterans of wartime air services today laid plans for a gigantic reunion of fillers and air observers of all nations who took part in the great war. The fliers said they planned to great reunion dinner to be held here on April 2. A blanket invitation included every air service officer of all combatan nations who won his wings before Armistice day.

JAPANESE ORDER FORCES, CEASE THEIR HOSTILITIES ON CAPTURE OF WOOSUNG

ABDUCTORS ASKED TO WATCH BABY'S DIET CAREFULLY

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 2—Accompanied by the fervent prayer of a grieving mother, Mrs. Charles Lindbergh, issued an open appeal to the kidnapper of her baby to watch the child's diet. Since the baby became ill some time ago, Mrs. Lindbergh said she had maintained a strict diet and added that its recovery would largely depend upon the treatment it got from its abductors.

Here is the diet:

One quart of milk during the day; three tablespoons of cooked cereal morning and night; two tablespoons of cooked vegetables once a day; one yolk of egg daily; one baked potato or rice once a day; two tablespoons of stewed fruit daily; half a cup of orange juice on waking; half a cup of prune juice after the afternoon nap; and 14 drops of medicine called viostrola during the day.

VICTORIA, March 2 (CP)— challenge to the British Columbia government to bring on an election this year was hurled across the floor of the legislature this afternoon by T. D. Pattullo, opposition leader. He and his party, he said, would be ready to take their chances at the hands of the people.

CROWN FINISHES EVIDENCE AGAINST RIOTERS, ESTEVAN

Inspector Moorhead Is Called As Witness; Is Surprise Action

ESTEVAN, Sask., March 2—With the examination of their tenth witness, counsel for the crown concluded their evidence early this afternoon against the first four of 20 alleged rioters on trial at the spring sittings of King's bench court here. It is expected that the case will go to the jury late Thursday afternoon.

Defence lawyers sprang a surprise when they called as their second witness Inspector W. J. Moorhead, who directed the detachment of 50 policemen with whom the accused are alleged to have clashed in a bloody melee on Estevan's main thoroughfare September 29, last. Examination by Frank Cunningham, he admitted that he had not asked the rioters to depart peacefully when he arrived during the thick of the fight from another salient of the strike sector. He believed that the miners had come prepared to battle the police, and thought his men had acted with "admirable restraint" in the face of the mob's attack.

Frank Hanna of Frobisher, a bystander who was wounded by a stray bullet during the melee, was another defence witness. He entered the courtroom on crutches, still suffering from the injury he received more than a year ago. He had not seen in the crowd any of the four accused, Martin Day, Alex Petryk, Peter Smars or Joseph Bernatos, or did he notice any of the alleged rioters carrying sticks or clubs.

Royal Canadian Mounted police constables and offiers told their stories of the conflict, in which many of them were wounded.

AUTHORITIES STATE PURPOSE ACHIEVED, LIFE AND PROPERTY PROTECTION IS ACCOMPLISHED

Chinese Forces Execute a Mass Withdrawal; Japanese Reach Every Objective; Chinese State Retreat was Necessary

SHANGHAI, March 3. — (Thursday) — (By Morris J. Harris, Associated Press Staff Correspondent)—Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press—Admiral Kenkichi Nomura Japanese naval commander, ordered his forces to cease hostilities shortly before three o'clock this afternoon, a few hours before the Japanese finally captured the forts of Woosung, last Chinese stand on the Shanghai battle line.

The Japanese legation issued the following statement: "Now that Japanese military and naval authorities have accomplished their object, the protection of Japanese lives and property, and secured the safety of the international settlement, they have decided that their military operations be stopped forthwith."

The announcement also followed closely a statement that the Japanese had occupied Nanziang, 10-miles from Shanghai in their drive after the retreating Chinese lines.

Still other forces, newly landed at Liuho, on the Yangtze river, 20 miles from Shanghai, were approaching Kating, northwest of Nanziang, in an encircling movement southward.

While Japanese guns ashore and on destroyers and cruisers offshore, with airplanes overhead, combined to throw shells and bombs into the fortification, 1000 Japanese soldiers and sailors landed at Woosung from a small transport and naval smallboats.

RUN UP FLAG

They rushed the fortification, overpowered the Chinese garrison still there, and soon began up the rising sun banner of Japan, while the Chinese fled westward.

Soon after they captured the forts the Japanese said they occupied Woosung village.

JUDGE FROWNS ON BOY'S EFFORT TO SOLVE DEPRESSION

CALGARY, Alta., March 2.—Eight horses in Makepeace, Alberta district are now trotting about without their tails and Reuben Dick is tasting a drop of British justice because of his disrespect for the equine's fly swatter.

In need of spending money Reuben solved the situation by cutting off the tails and selling them as horsehair. Eight horses owned by Thomas Mullin lost their tails as Reuben started solving his own economic crisis.

In court today Reuben received eight months suspended sentence for his tail-cutting career when the magistrate failed to view the youth as a budding financial genius.

WHEAT QUOTA BILL GIVEN ITS SECOND READING, COMMONS

Miss Megan Lloyd George Gives Speech on Debate

LONDON, March 2. (By George Hambleton, Canadian Press staff writer)—After two days of debate, the house of commons tonight gave second reading to the National government's wheat quota bill, aiming to provide a secure home market at a guaranteed price for millable British-grown wheat.

The voting in division of a Labor amendment calling for rejection was 428 for the bill and 55 against it, giving the government a majority of 373.

The house was only half full as the debate, started yesterday, was resumed. A speech by Miss Megan Lloyd George, daughter of the former Liberal leader, delivered with flashes of her father's wit, relieved the dullness of the repeated argument. Speaking from the bench immediately behind that of the Labor leaders, she described the bill as a sort of Socialism through the looking glass.

Doukhobor Conference at Winnipeg Is for Large-Scale Settlement of Members of Sect in South America

Verigin Discloses Fact; Doukhobors in Canada to Remain

WINNIPEG, March 2. (CP)—Plans for large-scale settlement of Doukhobors from Europe in various countries of South America are under discussion at a conference of the Doukhobor leaders and their agents here. Peter Verigin, patriarchal head of the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood, the official name for the Doukhobor sect, disclosed the nature of the conference to the Canadian Press tonight.

He confirmed reports that negotiations are under way to acquire 1,000,000 acres of land in Colombia on which to settle 50,000 Doukhobors. This project, however, had nothng to do with the Doukhobor Community in Canada, he declared. There was no thought of moving any Canadian Doukhobors to South America.

Far from any intention to move out of Canada, Mr. Verigin said his organization was purchasing more land here, building grain elevators for the use of their people, and developing water powers to serve their settlements.

J. M. Hackney, St. Paul, Minn., president of the International Colonization corporation, which is negotiating the land deal in Colombia, is taking part in the conference. Another delegate is a man named Foster from Berlin, Germany. Mr. Verigin declined to name others, but said representatives from London, England, and from Czechoslovakia were in attendance. The meeting will continue several days. No details of the negotiations could be revealed until a later stage, the leader stated.

VICTORIA, March 2.—Municipal agreements were under preliminary review at the resumption of the unemployment committee of the legislature this afternoon, with Hon. R. W. C. municipalities on August 22, 1931, suggesting, at Ottawa's request, the drafting of work programs, as required. On September 18 summaries of seven municipal projects had been wired to Ottawa, and all save two of these were approved within a few days by return wire from Ottawa.

Senator Robertson, continued Mr. Bruhn, came to the coast between September 23 and 25, and met municipal and provincial officials. In Vancouver he approved tentatively of allocations for 22 additional municipalities, or 27 to that date, ag-

GEOFFRION SAYS HE DID NOT SEEK AID OF RAYMOND

Testifies to Committee Investigating Beauharnois Matter

OTTAWA, March 2. (CP)—While acting in a legal capacity for the Beauharnois corporation, he had at no time attempted to secure the influence of Senator Donat Raymond in furtherance of his projects, Aime Geoffrion, K.C., told the senate committee which is investigating the relations between Beauharnois and three members of the senate. The inquiry has arisen out of the report made to the house of commons by a committee of commoners last session. In it, senators Raymond, McDougald and Haydon were criticized for their activities in connection with the big power corporation.

Under the chairmanship of C. E. Tanner, the senate committee began examination of witnesses today. Tomorrow R. O. Sweezey, former president of Beauharnois, Hugh B. Griffiths, secretary, L. Clare Moyer, Ottawa barrister, John P. Ebbs, Ottawa, and Lorne Christie, an official of Beauharnois, will appear before the committee.

Mr. Geoffrion was the only witness today. Earlier proceedings were taken up by J. A. Mann, of Montreal, counsel for the commttee, in outlining the purpose for which the committee was established.

HARM IS THREATENED CHILD IF RANSOM IS NOT MET AS ORDERED

Lindberghs Are Ready to Pay; Searchers Are Tireless in Pursuing Clues; Friends of Every Calling Take Up Trail

CLUES ARE NUMEROUS BUT NONE GIVE EXCEPTIONAL PROMISE OF SOLUTION

Postcard Says Baby Is Safe; Mailed in Newark Just Before Noon; Mrs. Lindbergh asks abductors to Take Care of Infant

LINDBERGH HOME, HOPEWELL, N. J., March 2.—(By Francis A. Jamieson, Copyright, 1932, by the Canadian Press)—The mightiest enforcement arms of the United States—from president to policeman, the efforts of thousands of friends, and the open purse of a famous father were aligned tonight in a far-flung attempt to locate the kidnapped baby of Charles A. Lindbergh.

Ransom was demanded for the return of the 20-month old child in a note found pinned to the sill of a window through which the baby was taken from its sick bed. Harm was threatened the infant if the demands of the note were not met, and the Lindberghs stood ready to pay.

From the moment a nurse ran screaming from the baby's nursery last night up to an early hour tonight both the Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh took an active part in the search for their first-born.

The dramatic moment of the day came when Mrs. Lindbergh, pale, slim daughter of the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow, made an appeal to the abductors to give proper care to the infant. Through the press she out lined the baby's diet in detail.

As dusk descended, Colonel Lindbergh, having exchanged the mud-stained work clothes he had worn during the night while exploring the grounds of his estate, for a gray striped suit, made a formal request that all reporters and photographers withdraw from his estate.

Telephone lines, he explained, had been burdened beyond their capacity, and clearing houses for the information of the press would be set up elsewhere.

SEARCHERS TIRELESS

All during the bright, mild day searchers tirelessly pursued a variety of clues in their quest for the curly-haired, blue-eyed son of the flying hero. Fighting through brush and mud, scanning the surrounding country from the sky, watching railroads and halting automobiles, the task was carried on by hundreds.

Famous airmen friends of the Lindberghs wanted to aid, so three separate groups of them got out their planes, and all day the roar of motors came from the sky over this section.

The American Legion mobilized and joined in the hunt, crack New Jersey detectives came from all parts of the state, and spent the day in a diligent search for clues.

Close friends of the Lindberghs came by the dozens to offer their sympathy and help. The roads leading into the southland hill country were black with cars.

CLUES NUMEROUS

Clues were numerous, but none gave exceptional promise. Posses of police tore through the streets of Newark after a man who mailed Colonel Lindbergh a postcard saying the baby was safe. "Baby safe. Instructions later. Act occordingly," said the postcard, which was mailed shortly before noon in Newark.

The card was written in pencil, the letters being printed in a large, uncertain hand.

PETE DOWLENKO NOT DOUKHOBOR SHUKIN STATES

Learns by Wire That Alleged Shooter of Teacher Is Ukrainian

Denial that Pete Dowlenko, 18-year-old youth accused of having shot and wounded Miss Olga Wasley, school teacher in the Blain Lake Doukhobor in northern Saskatchewan, on February 24, is a Doukhobor, was made by J. P. Shukin, second vice-president of the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood, Wednesday night, speaking to The Nelson Daily News by long distance telephone from Brilliant.

"When The Nelson Daily News published the dispatch from Saskatoon about ths attack on a school teacher, I was unable to recall the name 'Dowlenko' as a Doukhobor name," stated Mr. Shukin.

"So I sent a copy of the paper to John G. Bonderoff, at Verigin, Sask., secretary of the executive committee of the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood, and asked him, 'Is this a Doukhobor youth?'

"Mr. Bonderoff's answer, which I have just received by wire, is as follows:

"'Party accused of shooting school teacher at Blain Lake recently is Ukrainian.'

"I would ask publication of this information, in justice to the Doukhobors."

POTENTIAL WORLD RECORD BREAKERS FORCED TO MOVE

QUEBEC, March 2—Embryo world record breakers were jolted by police tonight. In one hall men and women who had been for several days rocking back and forth in armchairs were forced to shoulder their chairs and depart and the participants of a walking marathon in another building were told to "move along." Police declared that tonight's action was in accordance with their decision that "marathons must cease."

Bill Concerning Debts to Crown Is Given Reading

OTTAWA, March 2. (CP)—First reading was given in the house of commons today to a bill concerning debts due to the crown. The object of the measure is to secure statutory authority to confirm a practice whereby when sums of money are due by provincial governments, municipalities, corporations, public officers, companies or private persons, who are entitled to receive sums of money from the government, the minister of justice, when he is of the opinion that such a body or individual is indebted to the Dominion government, may retain the amount of such indebtedness from the statutory commitment.

HUNGER MARCHERS DECLARE PARADE IS TO BE MADE

OTTAWA, March 2 (CP)—Tomorrow's demonstration of "hunger marchers" on Parliament hill will be held despite the fact no reply has been received from the government to a request for permission to address members of the house of commons and to see Premier R. B. Bennett, leaders of the movement said tonight. They expect 1000 of their followers to be present on the hill tomorrow morning.

Two hundred men who arrived in the capital today by automobile and freight car, attended preparatory meetings this afternoon and evening.

Royal Canadian Mounted police and the local department have made preparations to ensure order in the march to the hill tomorrow.

FUR SEEKERS LAND AT FAIRBANKS

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, March 2.—(AP) — William Graham and Mrs. Edna Christofferson, bound north for a plane search for the missing ship Baychimo, arrived here late today from Dawson, Y. T.

Graham, a Nome aviator, and Mrs. Christofferson, a Portland sportswoman, were missing 11 days two weeks ago, when they ran out of gas and had to land on an isolated lake east of Atlin, B. C.

Fortnightly Steamer Between Montreal and Vancouver Is Impossible

MONTREAL, March 2.—The Canadian National Steamships today announced the possibility of a fortnightly freight steamer service between Montreal and Vancouver via the Panama canal this summer, and stated as a certainty that the Canadian Britisher, the Canadian Ranger and the Canadian Winner would, as last summer, operate a monthly service over this route.

This intercoastal service, maintained between Vancouver and Saint John, N. B., and Halifax in the winter season, "has opened Pacific coast markets which formerly were beyond the reach of eastern Canada manufacturers economically," the announcement says. Lumber from British Columbia and general merchandise from eastern Canada are the commodities carried.

VERIGIN EXPECTS CONFERENCE WITH GOVERNMENT SOON

WINNIPEG, March 2.—Peter Verigin, leader of the Doukhobors, who is in this city for a conference with representatives of the Community in various parts of the world, said tonight he expected to confer with the Saskatchewan cabinet in the near future. He added he did not think it right at this juncture to state what subjects would be discussed.

LETHBRIDGE ROAD BOOSTER MEETS PUBLICITY MEN

R. W. Greenway, President of Lethbridge Board Is Met at Luncheon

HEADS ADVERTISING BODY JUST FORMED

He States Southern Alberta More Optimistic; Good Outlook

That the last few weeks has seen a distinct growth in optimism in southern Alberta was stated yesterday by R. W. Greenway, president of the Lethbridge board of trade, and head of the newly organized Southern Scenic-Red Trail association, composed of eastern British Columbia and southern Alberta boards of trade, who is spending a day or two in Nelson.

"The substantial winter moisture means a great deal to the Alberta farmers, and the deep snow in the mountains means that the streams that come down from the foothills will have lots of water," Mr. Greenway said.

"There seems a good possibility of improved grain prices, and if we get a good price for the crop it will benefit Alberta immensely, and also, of course, our neighbor, British Columbia. A great deal of our last crop of wheat is still in the farmers' hands, and under such conditions could be marketed at the improved prices.

"While prices for sugar and beets were low, the farmers got a good deal of money for this crop, and Alberta led the continent in sugar content of its beets in 1931."

FAIR TOURIST OUTLOOK

Mr. Greenway expressed the opinion that there would be a fair tourist movement this year, pointing out that the exchange situation would be favorable to a Canadian movement.

Advantage was taken of Mr. Greenway's presence here, by members of the publicity committee of the board of trade, to meet him at luncheon at the Hume, those meeting him thus being H. M. Whimster, vice-man of the committee and vice-president of the Southern Scenic-Red Trail association, C. B. Garland, president of the board of trade, Adolph Browne, D. L. Kerr and H. W. Robertson.

Daughter of Indian Princess Speaks at Hamilton Club

HAMILTON, Ont., March 1.—C.P.—Mrs. M. McKinnon, who addressed the Women's Canadian Club on the subject of India is the daughter of an Indian princess and a Scottish soldier and statesman. She was born in the palace of Shalimar.

During the Indian mutiny her grandfather, commander-in-chief of the forces of Oude, saved his family were saved by the British and they have never been ardent champions of British rule in India.

Gandhi, among his many statements had made this one: "Do away with caste," Mrs. McKinnon asserted, saying, "True, but it can never be until the Brahmins are educated as Christians, for centuries ago it was they who instituted and created the caste system, and only under British rule is the life of the untouchable anything better than a living death." Water supplies kept up by public funds in India could not used by the untouchables unless a brahmin would condescend to fill the water pails.

gregating $2,895,000 subject to final approval of the schedule of works in each case. Allocations for these municipalities were later cut at Ottawa to $2,511,759, other municipal schedules were advanced to the federal capital as transmitted to the provincial authorities, until the B. C. government was asking approval of $2,858,000 in civic allocations, these being ratified at $2,750,000 for between 30 and 40 municipalities, at a little later period.

Mr. Bruhn said provincial officials had understood Senator Robertson was assenting to a start on municipal works in certain cases, including Vancouver, which had asked leave to do $2,600,000 worth of work, but had been scaled to $1,000,000 at the start. All initial proposals were larger than Senator Robertson approved of, and he had confined himself to consenting to a named proportion of the amount, rather than any express approval of works, schedules for which had not then been prepared.

The committee at this stage ran into its first halt. T. D. Pattullo, leader of the opposition, and A. M. Manson (Liberal, Omineca) pressed for production of all correspondence between the two governments leading up to the Dominion-provincial-municipal agreement by which Ottawa was to pay half of everything, the province a quarter of the labor cost of civic programs, and the municipalities the remainder in these areas. The actual agreement was already in evidence, they were told.

Mr. Pattullo said he would make it a motion, and was prepared to go back to the genesis of the scheme at the beginning of 1930. H. D. Twigg (Conservative, Victoria), who was in the chair, ruled against the course as impracticable, and was sustained by a vote of the committee. Every relevant fact desired by any member of the committee would be produced on request, but administrative files could not be tabled against parliamentary practice, ruled Mr. Twigg.

CHINESE YOUTH GLORIES AMID SHOT AND SHELL

SHANGHAI, March 2.—Corporal Zee, aged 15, of the 19th Cantonese route army, enjoys the sound of shot and shell and, although he has had little sleep during the last week, he is having an interesting and amusing time at the front.

He told about it during a recent lull in the fighting. Feeling the need of a good meal, the corporal left the battle line and walked three miles to Chenju village, on the western outskirts of Shanghai, where he had four bowls of rice, a dish of boiled vegetables and a few cups of tea.

Thus fortified he started on the return journey to the battlefront. When he heard the sound of an approaching automobile he stepped into the middle of the road, signalled the car to stop and asked for a lift.

The car was being driven by an educated Chinese officer in civilian clothes, and the officer turned around and asked, the newspaper correspondents in the back seat if they had any objections. They had none and Zee climbed in. He had on a khaki uniform and carried complete equipment from haversack to canteen, but instead of heavy military hobnails he wore green tennis shoes.

Being only 15, Zee's rifle was a bit too big for him, and when he sat down the muzzle pointed straight at the face of a British correspondent.

"Look here, my lad," said the correspondent from the back seat, would you mind pointing your sharpshooter at the country-side?"

The corporal shifted his fowling piece. Then he told his story in Chinese to the officer beside him.

"I have had no sleep the last two nights, but we are having a fine time out there," he said, "I have just gone to Chenju for something hot to eat. It's cold on the battlefront. When the real fighting starts we will drive out the Japanese and occupy the whole of Chapei."

As the automobile neared the battle zone, Zee said he would walk across the field. Smiling pleasantly he spoke his profuse thanks and started toward the front—to glory of the grave.

TEA CANADA'S BEVERAGE, THE FIGURES SHOW

OTAWA, March 2.—(CP)—Canadians are tea drinkers. As the hot beverage of the northern half of this continent tea stands first in esteem. In the calendar year 1931 Canada imported 83,115,480 lbs. and in 1930, 50,885,670 lbs. An inconsiderable amount was exported so that the total consumption averaged about 41,000,000 lbs. a year, the import of green coffee direct from countries of origin or from bond in Great Britain in 1931 was 31,739,529 lbs. and in 1930, 29,584,579 lbs., or an average of about 30,000,000 lbs. a year without chicory. And tea goes farther than coffee in household use.

A feature of the Canadian trade in coffee last year was the large increase in the importation of green coffee direct from British East Africa. In 1930 it amounted to 338,181 lbs. and in 1931 it increased to 1,531,643 lbs. That, of course, is far below the figures of the importation from Brazil, Colombia and Jamaica but it shows such a decided increase from newly settled territory that it appears to predict a great change in the near future in coffee purchasing. It is possible that some of the 2,614,778 lbs. which came via Great Britain was of African origin also.

The total green coffee imported in 1931 was 31,739,529 lbs. and of coffee and chicory 33,226,638 an increase in each case of close to two million pounds.

Among the many countries from which Canada obtains its coffee supply is Abyssinia. The amount from that land in 1931 was 206,465 lbs. as compared with 158,708 lbs. in 1930.

ceased in mid-morning. The Japanese said they had cleared out the remnants of the Chinese soldiery hanging back within that stricken area.

FIRES RAGE

Dozens of great fires raged in Chapei, some of them more than a mile in length, adding complete destruction of that section of Shanghai to the conflict's toll. The fires were the outcome of artillery shells and incendiary bombs. Both Chinese and Japanese troops set the blazes, hoping to hinder the enemy's operations.

CHINESE FORCES WITHDRAW

SHANGHAI, March 3 (Thursday).—After five weeks of resistance, the Chinese forces executed a mass withdrawal along the whole front last night and this morning, and established a defence line running roughly north and south through the town of Nanziang, 10 miles west of Shanghai, on the Shanghai-Nanking railway. The Chinese garrison at the Woosung forts was left isolated by the retreating army.

Early this morning the advancing Japanese had reached every objective assigned for this stage of the battle.

They had taken over the abandoned headquarters of General Tsai Ting-kai at Chenju, and their left wing was within striking distance of Nanziang, three miles to the west.

ADVANCE DIFFICULT

The advance was carried out over the most difficult terrain. To the rear of Shanghai the fields are crisscrossed by numerous canals and irrigation ditches, and as the Chinese withdrew they destroyed every bridge.

Chinese military officials asserted they had executed a "tactical retreat" and that they would renew the battle from their positions at Nanziang.

WITHDRAWAL NECESSARY

The withdrawal, it was said, had been made necessary by a vigorous assault from the north made by fresh reinforcements landed at Liuho, 20 miles up the Yangtze river.

This attack had endangered the Chinese rear and threatened to sever the communications of the 19th route army. It was a case of falling back or being penned in on all sides. The Chapei section of Shanghai was relinquished by the Chinese for similar reasons.

It was impossible to determine the exact number of Chinese troops participating in the retreat, but observers here estimated that at least 50,000 men fell back. There were additional Chinese troops in positions to the west, and they were used as the nucleus of the new defence line.

ELECTION

removal of 23,500 names put on Vancouver voters' lists by the Liberal association, Mr. Pattullo declared. Debate on the amending bill continued for an hour.

Replying to the Liberal leader, Attorney-General R. H. Pooley said the government soon after taking office had cleaned up the absentee vote situation and now proposed to the question of voters' registration on as fair a basis as possible, in the interest of all citizens, and not for party privileges.

REGISTRATION A DISGRACE

Registrations in other days had been a disgrace, with 45 "names" registered in the case of one boarding house where only three persons resided.

Affidavits in connection with registration were in some cases now 12 years old, and their signatures utterly illegible. Spinsters of a decade ago had married and changed their names, but not their voting privileges. It was the desire of the government to have the cleanest possible lists when an election did come, Mr. Pooley concluded.

GREAT DISCREPANCY

There had been a discrepancy of 40,000 names between Dominion and provincial voters lists in Vancouver, said Mr. Pattullo, and 38,000 people would have had the entire voice of 78,000 voters if an election had been called on the old lists, he contended. The Liberals had put on 23,000 names subsequently in a vigorous campaign to restore the rolls which had been cut to less than half by the automatic cancellations following 1928. The government now proposed to cancel these lists and throw away the Liberal effort, he contended.

The debate was adjourned by Hon. W. A. MacKenzie.

Mr. Blakeman will hold a class for women tonight in the council chamber. Tonight's instruction will be on miscellaneous injuries, the respiratory system, asphyxia, three methods of artificial respiration, and practical splinting and bandaging.

Mr. Blakeman announces that the date for the presentation of medals and trophies to 1931 first aid candidates will be March 18, at the Canadian Legion. J. Ivan MacKay will make the presentations to the candidates and to the 1931 first aid teams. Mayor J. P. Morgan will take the chair. Dr. F. M. Auld and Dr. J. H. Bennett will give talks on first aid to the injured. Following the presentations, a social evening will be spent.

ALICE PENETTE TO HAVE CITIZENSHIP CANADA RESTORED

Was Without a Country Few Weeks Ago; Born in Dominion

FARGO, N. D., March 2. (AP)—Alice Penette, 24, world rover, snake charmer during fair weather and practical nurse in winters, a few weeks ago a woman without a country, was removed from the county jail here today, and is to have her citizenship in Canada restored.

Taken before a federal commissioner, she was allowed to sign her own bond for her release on a charge of unlawfully entering the United States. The charge against her probably will be dropped. She was taken to Grand Forks by immigration officials, and is to be taken to Winnipeg. Officials said today arrangements had been made between the immigration department and the Canadian government for her return to Canada, where she was born.

Mrs. Panette left her Canadian home when a girl, for the United States. She was arrested and deported. A short time later she again entered the States, and again was deported. The third time she entered she married Claude Panette, an American-born citizen. Together they travelled with carnivals during the summers, and during the winters she practiced practical nursing. Last Christmas Mrs. Panette attempted to cross the border at Westhope, N. D., to see her parents. She was rejected by Canadian officials. She then went to Detroit, was arrested, and brought to Fargo.

Return to liquor and add three cups water, one teaspoon celery seed and one tablespoon butter. Simmer for a half hour, season with salt and pepper if necessary and then strain into bouillon cups. Serve immediately. Some like a dab of whipped cream on top.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, March 2 (AP)—One of the demands of the Lapua Fascists who have been in revolt for five days was met today when Baron E. von Born, minister of interior, was replaced.

His post was given to General K. L. Oesch. Meanwhile President Svinhufvud announced he was taking personal leadership of the national defence forces to put down the revolt.

A proclamation from the aged general warned the public against false rumors, and declared that the civil guard was loyal, and aiding in putting down the revolt.

WAS LOUIS REIL HANGED TILL DEAD?–JOHN RODWAY, NELSON DIGS UP AN OLD TIME STORY

Rebel Chief Got Away and Lived in the United States?

The following item of considerable interest since revival of stories of Louis Reil was handed The Nelson Daily News by John Rodway, Nelson pioneer, who fought in the northwest rebellion against Reil. The story was taken from the Cincinnati, Ohio, Enquirer and bears a date from Woodstock of May 18, 1904.

The arrival in Canada of Gabriel Dumont, Louis Riel's right-hand man in the rebellion which broke out in the Canadian northwest early in the year 1885, is causing considerable comment just now over here. Dumont was in command of the rebellious half breeds at Matoche, where he was defeated by the Canadian volunteers under General Middleton.

After the bloody action Dumont made his escape across the international line and entered the United States. He was exiled by the Canadian government and a price put upon his head. But the time of his exile has expired, and he is now in Canada wending his way, whithersoever he pleases, as free in his movements as the most constant loyalist in King Edward's dominions. He occasionally meets with a half breed who fought under him through the whole campaign, and from these he learns that the veneration of the "breeds" for Louis Riel has lost nothing in its ardor by the fight of 18 years.

EXPECT HIS RETURN TO EARTH

These ignorant men are as firmly attached to their former leader as they were during the rebellion. Many of them will not acknowledge that Riel was hanged at Regina, others, while assenting to this fact, believe that he will appear to them again at the proper time and lead them to victory. The strength of this man's sway over their minds is almost Christ-like. Hanged by the neck until he was dead, almost a generation ago, his strong personality rules them still, and they look with confidence for his glorious resurrection.

These matters have had a revival here since the arrival of Gabriel Dumont, and in connection with them a most remarkable statement has just been made by William Mason a respectable citizen of this place. Mr. Mason though born here, was a resident of Manitoba from 1863 until after the close of the rebellion. His home in Manitoba was almost adjoining the home of Louis Riel, and the two became great friends. Mr. Mason took no part in the first Riel rebellion of 1870 but after its collapse did all that could be expected of one sworn friend of another in assisting Riel to reach Ottawa in order to place his case personally before the government. During the years that followed Mason kept in touch with Riel, and was one of his staunch friends at the time of the historic trial at Regina.

Riel's friends at that time outnumbered his enemies three to one, but on account of the presence of the military these friends found it expedient to avoid any outward expression of their friendship. In secret they worked, however, and, according to Mr. Mason, worked to some purpose. "When it became evident," says Mr. Mason, "that the authorities were determined to execute Riel, we managed to get the ear of one or two of the officials. We found these men did not in their hearts approve of the execution, and we arranged with them—never mind how—that the hangman shou'd have a free hand, that his work should not be scrutinized too closely. We counted upon getting possession of the remains immediately after the hanging, and we knew everything would then be all right.

OFFICIALS WERE STUBBORN

"But the authorities were stubborn; they acted as though afraid of the dead man, and insisted upon burying the body under the steps of the jail after the hanging. We used all our influences, and were willing to spend all our money, but it was of no use. Buried under the steps of the jail he must be at dead of night, and we were in despair. But a few hours remained before the time set for the entombment of our friend, and what could be done in so short a space? As we walked by the jail in consultation our eyes lingered on the steps, and our thoughts penetrated to the ground beneath. We walked slowly along when one of the party said suddenly, 'Let's tunnel from that building.' He indicated a building not far from the jail as he spoke. 'Can we?' said another. 'To be sure,' said a third. 'We'll have to buy the building to be safe,' said another, and in half an hour we were at work on our own property.

"How we worked during those few hours! One thing favored us the ground was not hard or stony, and we fairly made it fly. We struck the hole they had prepared for our friend before they had placed him in it, and had to wall up the opening we made to prevent detection. One of our number remained in the tunnel until the burial hour arrived to give warning. At midnight the coffin was lowered, the clods of earth were piled on it, but before the mound was heaped the end of the coffin was removed, the sides were spread apart and we had Louis Riel safe and sound in the tunnel.

REVIVED HIM

We carried him to the fresh air in the building we so recently bought and after a good deal of difficulty revived him. He was delirious at first but we soon had him sleeping soundly and in the morning he awoke as bright a man as ever was. We kept him in the tunnel nearly three days and then he started for the international boundary. He got over all right and eventually landed in Chicago, where he lived for some time, his residence being a two-story frame house, No. 90 South Morgan street.

Before leaving Chicago for the western states he came on here to Woodstock to pay me a visit and remained several days. He took the name of Jonathan Matthews, and I introduced him to many of the people here by that name.

"Once I was scared half to death through introducing him to Thomas Hardy, a member of the Northwest Mounted police, during the trouble. Tom, in his brusque way, blurted out as I presented my friend, 'Good God, man! you've got the very voice of Louis Riel,' and prated so much about the likeness about town that Riel took the next train for the west. Six months ago I heard from him, and if you care to make inquiries in the neighborhood of Rollins, Wyo., you'll find him a prosperous stockman of that locality today."

NO ROMANCER

Mr. Mason has been a substantial resident of this city since 1886, having returned from Manitoba after the troubles in the northwest had been adjusted. He retired from business a year or so ago and is spending the evening of his life quietly. He is no romancer and tells his remarkable story with such earnestness and detail that he carries conviction to many minds. It is certain he believes the story. No person after hearing him tell it could go away with any other impression. Asked why he had not made it public long ago he said:

"Well, while I was in the west, to do so would have been unhealthy, to say the least. We were not anxious to bring the authorities about our ears, and we did not know what punishment the law provided for the actors in such an enterprise as we carried out successfully. We were reasonably certain, however, that it would be severe. Then to publish our achievement would start the hue and cry for Riel's capture, which was to be avoided at all costs.

CONFESSION MEANT RUIN

"After my return here and entry into business you can easily understand the necessity for silence. It would have ruined my business to be known as a friend of Riel. Besides I had the law to reckon with still, and I was not courting interference from that quarter. I was not aware as to the punishment they could mete out to me, but I felt sure it would cost me a pretty penny to defend myself and I had other uses for my money.

"Before taking up his residence in Chicago, at No. 90 South Morgan street, between West Madison, and Monroe streets—Riel shaved off his splendid beard. This served him as a complete disguise, and he was not once recognized there. Even his old secretary, Mr. Jackson, born in Huron county, Ontario, of Scotch parents, and now residing in Chicago under the title of Colonel Jaxon, failed to recognize him. He was an excellent musician, and while in Chicago secured a sufficient income by giving music lessons and playing the piano at select parties. He has not been in Canada to my knowledge since he visited me here in Woodstock, but he always maintained an affection for his people, as he called the half-breeds, and looked forward to the time when he should again place himself at their head to demand justice and fair treatment for them."

TO THOSE WHO CONTRADICT

At this point it was suggested to Mr. Mason that the story was somewhat fantastical, but he replied: "Oh, I'm not concerned as to whether the story is believed or not. I tell it to you as it happened, as it is. To those who would contradict it I say, inquire of Mrs. Moses, who was the landlady at 90 South Morgan street, Chicago, when Louis Riel roomed there. Look up the record of Jonathon Matthews, the stockman, living near Rollins, Wyoming. Dig up the grave in which Louis Riel's bones are supposed to lie mouldering to dust. You'll find no bones but you'll find traces of a tunnel leading to the spot and you'll find the metal remains of the coffin, the boards probably crumbled away by this time. It is, however, possible that better evidences may soon be put before the public. Upon learning the character of Dumont's reception here Riel may take courage and walk boldly into the Northwest without disguise or fear, and should he do so I believe he would incur no danger from the law."

PATHWAY PAVED FOR BEAUHARNOIS PROJECT, PROCEED

Indirectly Clears Way for St. Lawrence Deep Waterways Scheme

OTTAWA, March 2 (CP)—In one step, the government paved the way today for the Beauharnois project to forge ahead and indirectly cleared the pathway somewhat toward the St. Lawrence deep waterways scheme.

The canal to be built by the Beauharnois Light Heat and Power company between Lake St. Francis and Lake St. Louis on the St. Lawrence, near Montreal, is to be handed over to Canada. The only compensation to be received by the company from the Dominion is the rights granted. The canal will be used as part of the greater scheme for the developing the St. Lawrence.

This provision features an order-in-council passed setting out lengthy safeguards, provisions and limitations under which the company will be permitted to divert 53,072 cubic feet per second of water in the Lake St. Francis and Lake St. Louis district.

Within the next day or two, an agreement will be signed between ing the terms of today's order-in-council.

Recently, a block of 8000 shares of stock at $1 each was returned to the company by people formerly associated with the original enterprise. There remains the announcement of the new directorate made necessary by the elimination of the former directors as a consequence of the parliamentary probe of last session.

Opposition Members Are Asked to Resist Grant Curtailments

VICTORIA, March 2 (CP)—The Union of British Columbia Municipalities in convention here today held a conference with members of the opposition to make representations on unemployment relief and grants to municipalities. Yesterday the union met the Conservative caucus.

The union met the opposition in the city council chamber and urged, mainly, that the members should resist any attempt in the budget to curtail the grants made by the government to municipal treasuries. Need of prompt action in providing relief was stressed.

U. S. WONDERS IF THE LEAGUE WILL SANCTION BOYCOTT

Hoover Opposed to Measure; Would Lead to War, Believes

WASHINGTON, March 2 (By Ken Clark, Canadian Press staff correspondent)—The United States is watching with the keenest interest to see what the League of Nations assembly will do about the Sino-Japanese imbroglio at Geneva tomorrow. It is particularly interested in learning whether article 16 of the covenant which provides for economic sanction—a boycott—will be invoked.

President Hoover is reported to be firmly opposed to the use of an economic sanction by the United States, and Chairman William E. Borah of the senate foreign relations committee has declared a boycott would be a good way to get the United States into a war. Nonetheless, a popular movement for a boycott has gained considerable headway in this country and a report of this reaching Japan is said to have been a factor in recent developments. It is pointed out here that were the league to declare a boycott, the United States might find itself blamed in any case as it would be supposed the league would not act were it not assured the support of a customer with which Japan does a billion dollar trade.

Despite reiterated official pronouncements the movement of the United States scouting fleet to the Pacific is entirely without political significance, observers here remain skeptical. It is pointed out, for example, it would require the support of the navy to enforce economic sanctions in the far east. Further it is contended, even if the manoeuvre were divorced from national policy, it is interpreted in Japan as of direct consequence and therefore becomes in fact, if not in intention, a political move.

POLICE CONSTABLE TAKES TRAIL FOR MISSING TRAPPER

Unheard of Since Last October; Goes by Dog Team

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., March 2.—Provincial Police Constable Harvey Blair, Nipigon, left yesterday by dog team from McDiarmid in search of Sam Kimbens, trapper, missing since October, when he left Gelkie Island, in Lake Nipigon, to procure supplies for himself and his partner, P. Hamilton.

He never reached his destination, and the fact that he was lost was not discovered till recently, when Hamilton returned to the Lake Nipigon fishing port.

Provincial police have also been asked to search for Charles Nelson, who has been missing from MacDiarmid since January. Only vague information is available, however, and a search could be directed only by guesswork.

SYNOPSIS

Six people, Horace Johnson (who tells the story), his wife, old Mrs. Dane, Herbert Robinson and his sister, Alice and Dr. Sperry, friends and neighbors, are i the habit of holding weekly meetings. At one of them, Mrs. Dane, who is hostess, varies the program by unexpectedly arranging a spiritualistic seance with Miss Jeremy a friend of Dr. Sperry and not a professional, as the medium.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Miss Jeremy, the medium, was due at 8:30 and at 8:20 my wife assisted Mrs. Dane into one of the straight chairs at the table, and Sperry, sent out by her, returned with a darkish bundle in his arms, and carrying a light bamboo rod.

"Don't ask me what they are for," he said to Herbert's grin of amusement. "Every workman has his tools."

Herbert examined the rod, but it was what it appeared to be, and nothing else.

Some one had started the phonograph in the library, and it was playing gloomily, "Shall we meet beyon' the river?" when Miss Jeremy came in.

She was not at all what we had expected. Twenty-six, I should say, and w fully conscious and even spoke in black dinner dress. She seemed liked a perfectly normal young woman, even attractive in a fragile, delicate way. Not much personality, perhaps, the very word "medium" precludes that. A "sensitive," I think she called herself. We were presented to her, and out for the stripped and bare room, it might have been any evening after any dinner, with bridge waiting.

Sperry threw open the drawing-room doors.

We all liked her, and Sperry, Sperry the bachelor, the iconoclast, the antireminist, was staring at her with curiously intent eyes.

Miss Jeremy gave the r om only the most casual of glances.

"Where shall I sit? she asked.

Mrs. Dane indicated her place, and she asked for a small stand to be brought in and placer about two feet behind her chair, and two chairs to flank it, and then to take the black cloth form the table and hang it over the bamboo rod, which was laid across the backs of the chairs. Thus arranged the curtain formed a low screen behind her, with the stand beyond it. On this stand we placed, at her order,—i a fountain pen, Sperry a knife; and my wife contributed a gold bracelet.

We all felt, I fancy, rather absured.

We arranged between us that we were to sit one on each side of her, and Sperry warned me not to let go of her hand for a moment. "They have a way of switching hands," he explained in a whisper. "If she wants to scratch her nose I'll scratch it."

We were, we discovered, not to touch the table, but to sit around it at a distance of a few inches, holding hands and thus forming the circle. And for twenty minutes we sat thus, and nothing happened. She once or twice, and at last she moved impatiently and told us to put our hands on the table.

I had put my opened watch on the table before me, a night watch with a luminous dial. At five minutes after nine I felt the top of the table waver under my fingers, a curious, fluid-like motion.

"The table is going to move," I said.

However, curiously enough, the table did not move. Instead, my watch, before my eyes, slid to the edge of the table and dropped to the floor, and almost i stantly an object, which we recognized later as Sperry's knife, was flung over the curtain and struck the wall behind Mr Dane violently.

One of the women screamed, ending in a hysterical giggle. Then we heard rhythmic beating on the top of the stand behind the medium. Startling as it was at the beginning increasing as it did from a slow beat to an incredibly rapid drumming, when the initial shock was over Herbert commenced to gibe.

"Your fountain pen, Horace," he said to me. "Making out a statement for services rendered, by its eagerness."

The answer to that was the pen itself, aimed at him with apparent accuracy and followed by an outcry from him.

"Here, stop it!" he said. "I've got ink all over me!"

We laughed consumedly. The sitting had taken on all the attributes of practical joking. The table no longer quivered under my hands.

"Please be sure you are holding my hands tight. Hold them very tight," said Miss —Jeremy. Her voice sounded faint and far away. Her head was dropped forward on her chest, and she suddenly sagged in in her chair. Sperry broke the circle and coming to her, took her pulse It was, he reported, very rapid.

"You can move and talk now if you like," he said. "She's in trance, and there will be no more physical demonstrations."

Mrs. Dane was the first to speak I was looking for my fountain pen and Herbert was again examining the stand.

"I believe it now," Mrs. Dane said "I saw your watch go, Horace, but tomorrow I won't believe it at all."

"How about your companion?" I asked. "Can she take shorthand? We ought to have a record."

"Probably not in the dark."

"We can have some light now," Sperry said.

There was a sort of restrained movement in the room now. Herbert turned on a bracket light, and I moved away the roller chair.

"Go and get Clara, Horace," Mrs. Dane said to me, "and have her bring a notebook and pencil." Nothing, I believe, happened during my absence Miss Jeremy was sunk in her chair and breathing heavily when I came back with Clara, and Sperry was still watching her pulse. Suddenly my wife said:

"Why, look! She's wearing my bracelet!"

This proved to be the case, and was, I regret to say, the cause of a most unjust suspicion on my wife's part.

"Take down everything that happens, Clara, and all we say," . s. Dane said in a low tone. "Even if it sounds like nonsense, put it down." It is because Clara took her orders literally that I am making this more readable version of her script.

For some five minutes, perhaps Miss Jeremy breathed stertorously, and it was during that interval that we introduced Clara and took up our positions. Sperry sat near the medium now, where Herbert had been.

INFANT'S KNITTED SWEATER

To make an infant's knitted slip-on sweater (one-year size) buy two balls of Shetland Floss of any desired shade and a pair of number four ivory or bone knitting needles. Cast on 70 Sts and K 8 ridges for border. K 1 row, P 1 row for seven inches. To shape for sleeve, increase 1 St at both ends of needle on next three Knitted rows. Cast on 40 Sts at end of next two rows, for sleeves. K 1 row, P 1 row for three and one-half inches, ending with purled row. Knit 67 Sts. and take off on holder. Bind off 22 Sts for back of neck; K 67 Sts, P 1 row, K 1 row, P 1 row, for shoulder.

On next seven knitted rows increase one stitch at neck side. On last purled row, cast on eight Sts to form lap at front opening. (These 8 Sts are to be knitted every row for three inches. Inthis lap make three button holes, one at top and two others spaced equally, by binding off one stitch when knitting over, and casting on one St on next row).

K 1 row, P 1 row till front of sleeve is as wide as back. Bind off 40 Sts on last purled row. Knit the right Sts of lap, break yarn and fasten.

Right Shoulder—Begin at neck side and knit same as other side till lap is three inches. Bind off the eight sts of lap on last purled row. Knit across, decreasing one St. at sleeve side; Knit the Sts from the holder, decrease one St at sleeve side. Decrease one St at each end of needle on next two knitted rows (this makes three Sts decreased on each side to correspond to the three increased on back). K 1 row, P 1 row (70 stitches) till front is as long as back, finishing with an eight-ridge border. Bind off loosely.

Cuff—With right side of work toward you, pick up and knit (knit each stitch as you pick it up) 36 sts. around sleeve. K 2 Sts, P 2 Sts for 2 inches. Bind off loosely. Collar: With wrong side of work toward you, starting at center of lap, pick up and knit 66 Sts around neck, ending at center of underlap. Next row, K 4 Sts, P to within 4 Sts of end, K 4 Sts, and repeat these two rows for desired width (about 2 inches), finishing with four ridges. Bind off.

Men Outdo the Women in Misstating Their Age

"Yarns" Differ, However, According to Census Returns as Shown by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics

OTTAWA, March 2.—It is a myth that women make a mystery of their ages more than do men. In other words, women don't "fib" about the year they were born any more than do the men folk. The Dominion bureau of statistics asserts that this is so. Ascertained facts prove it, and special investigations in connection with census returns demonstrate it beyond the possibility of doubt.

But there is a difference between men and women in the manner of their telling "yarns" about their ages. Generally speaking, the tendency in women who are going to give the wrong age is to understate, while it is about 50-50 whether the male is going to overstate or understate.

Females who understate their ages do so particularly around the age of 40. Apparently they don't want to pass that epoch-marking year. On the other hand, males up to the age of about 60 understate and overstate indifferently. They are as apt to do the one as the other.

After the age of 60, however, the males begin to overstate the mark, and keep on getting worse and worse. Females, after about 60, also overstate, but it is noticeable that they go a little canny on the overstatement. The man is bolder with his exaggerations. The legend of the centenarians makes this indisputable.

The centenarians of the 1871 census, for example, were made the subject of a searching and complete investigation according to the bureau. About that time there was a plethora of stories about vast ages that made the long-lived characters of the Bible look very ordinary so far as their stay upon Mother Earth is concerned.

Eighty-two of the persons recorded as centenarians in that census, 45 women and 37 men, were investigated. Three of the women had given their exact age, but none of the men did. Three men understated their age, that is, they were older than they said they were, one by eight years, one by two years and one by eight years.

So there were 34 males and 42 females who overstated their ages. Three of the men did it royally. One said he was 31 years older than he actually was, another exaggerated by 30 years and the third put 25 years on to his span. Accordingly, if the centenarian who put 31 years to his age, gave it as 131, he was really just a youngster of one hundred.

The centenarian women who overstated their ages were a little more modest in their claims. The one who exaggerated most did it by only 22 years. Of the 42 who overstated, 21 did it by less than 10 years, whereas only nine of the men understated by less than the 10 years.

Note that only very old people were dealt with in that investigation. The ages given by young people were not examined.

The censuses of 1911 and 1921, however, have now been examined more extensively and the cases of 721 persons were looked up, it is stated. Of these 378 gave their ages as exactly 10 years more in 1921 than in 1911, but 167 males and 176 females gave more or less than 10 years. It is almost incredible, but it is a fact that one man and one woman gove their ages as one year less in 1921 than in 1911. The man was 25 in 1911 and 24 in 1921, while the woman was 41 in 1911 and 40 in 1921.

Out of 376 males, 209, or 56 per cent were shown as exactly 10 years older in 1921 than in 1911; out of 345 females 169, or 49 per cent, were recorded as exactly 10 years older. More than half of the 721 persons mis-stated their ages.

Is Your Linen 'Tight Edged?'

How often have you been tempted to run your fingers through that exquisite coiffure upon discovering, an hour before your guest are scheduled to arrive for dinner, that your table linen has unexpectedly, and so disappointingly, developed a "tight-edged" quality that has all the contours of a scenic-railway runaway?

Everything looked all right when you bought it but after a few launderings, it came home to you with uneven edges, whereupon you, quite without justification, blamed your laundry, although the fault lay entirely in your ill-advised purchased a short time before.

There is one thing only to do in future. That is, discuss with your merchant the problem of unequal shrinkage in table linen that may occur at some future date.

There are types of linen damask tableclothes which, with repeated laundering, develop unequal shrinkage in certain yarns running parallel to the selvage edges. This, you know, is due to variations in the shrinking qualities of the yarns, and is most likely to happen in the cheaper qualities of double damask.

It is not intended, however, that this statement infers that all qualities of double damask will develop unequal shrinkage. Nevertheless this problem is more commonly found in the cheaper grades of double damask as compared with single damask.

Cotton damask for table covers is much less serviceable than linen damask, this being due to the fact that linen fibres are much longer on the average than cotton fibres. In a damask, where a thread passes under one cross-thread and over four cross-threads, there is a considerable amount of unbound thread open to wear. Naturally, as all housewives know, a short staple fibre under these conditions will lint to a greater degree than a long staple one. Lintin is always an indication of degeneration and it has been definitely proven that cotton is an unsuitable fibre for the manufacture of damasks.

There are two types of linen tablecovers—double damask and single damask, and it might not be amiss to let your merchant know that you know this in purchasing table linen. In a single damask weave, each thread passes under one and over seven cross-threads. Hence, in a double damask, there is considerably more unbound thread on the surface of the fabric.

At first, this effect gives the fabric a very pleasing appearance and an excellent feel but it has poorer service qualities than the single damask. So it is that, in a double damask, you will find uneven shrinkage occuring. Usually, this is first discerned in the outer portions of the cloth, these becoming drawn and puckered. This is partly due to the variable shrinking qualities of the linen which cannot be predicted. However, the weave has a great deal to do with this shrinkage.

In a single damask, there is, as was pointed out a lesser amount of unbound thread op to wear on the surface of the fabric. Thus it is that single damask, while not presenting so rich an appearance is much more serviceable and will last much longer in the keeping of the original form.

The Type of Wife That Makes Any Man Feel Like a Prince

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
An Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

A man who describes himself as a near-piker writes me that he has the finest wife in the United States, and that "no one would turn around to give her a second glance."

At first glance that sounds rather like topping off benefits bestowed, with a dirty dig—but having some experience with husbands' letters, I read on.

It seems this rather neutral looking little woman, whom my correspondent married after a high school romance "when neither of us had any sense or knew very clearly what responsibilities we were facing," has been a real heroine during these troublesome times.

The brand of magic she handed out to her family was COURAGE. She persisted in believeing in him when he no longer believed in himself. He had lost his job, and there were two children to feed and send to school decently clothed.

Tears and self-pity played no part in this woman's campaign. She gave up a comfortable apartment and moved the family into two rooms and kitchenette, then took in sewing on the side.

Often there was no milk for the children's oatmeal in the morning, but always "there seemed to be some sort of fun going among them. My wife persisted in regarding the hard road we were plodding as an adventure of the spirit, something that put us all on our mettle and which we would come through as surely as Moses led the children of Israel out of bondage."

Besides running the house and stitching up cotton dresses for a factory at 25 cents apiece, the wife took a couple of afternoons off a week and tried job-seeking for her husband. Every available wire was pulled; church, state, friends, employment agencies and municipal bureaus.

The job finally retrieved was that of night watchman, in a building where the husband had formerly sat at a mahogany desk writing advertising copy; "but that $18.50 a week sounded glorious and that night the family had a celebration with pork chops and sweet potatoes."

My correspondent tells me he "would have ended it all" a dozen times if there had been tears served with the scant fare when he was jobless, but always there was courage and the conviction that his wife believed in him.

He says his experience has taught him respect—even a feeling of brotherhood—for the down-and-outer; that it has made him less smug and more humane, and he hopes some day soon to go back to his old work. Meantime, a night watchman at $18.50 a week, with such a wife, feels like a prince.

ST. DAVID'S PUDDING

Four apples, one-third cup orange juice, one-third cup cake crumbs, one-third cup butter. Make a syrup of two-thirds cup water, one-third cup sugar and one-half teaspoon almond flavoring. Pare, core and cut apples into eighths and cook until tender in the syrup. Melt butter and add to cake crumbs. Place a layer of crumbs in a buttered baking dish, then alternate with layers of apples until ingredients are used up. Pour remaining syrup into orange juice and then pour into pudding dish. Bake for 30 minutes in a moderate oven. A de luxe apple betty.

CONCERNING MIRRORS

In these days of so many mirrors it is well to know a few facts concerning them.

Never have a mirror where it faces a glare of light.

The back of the mirror should be protected so that no light or water could possibly enter.

When cleaning be very careful about using so much water that it trickles in under the frame. A semi-dry method of cleaning is preferable.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Hair partings aren't following the old rules; they aren't limited to the side or middle of the head. Some of them show up two inches above the left ear, others trail along on the bias, still others divide the top-crest into front and back portions by chasing across the crown on the head, producing a front fringe and a back curtain that buns.

Operators who give the hard-boiled wave that makes the glory-top curly say that all women don't tell the truth. The cash customer who has used hair dye may swear on 40 bibles that she hasn't. But the operator can't be fooled. The trained eye spots the shami color, tries out a test curl before going ahead, the while the indignant lady expresses her indignant feeling, sometimes with violence. All dyes don't disqualify the hair so that a permanent wave is impossible, but many of them dd; after the steaming the old head may emerge any color of the rainbow. It's senseless not to confess; it's like telling lies to the doctor.

Hot water and cold water are both helpful in treatment of blackheads and pimples. Grease in the pores is dissolved by rubbing soap in with the finger tips, then placing steaming hot moist towels over the face Repeat several times, rinse the face with warm water, then with cold. The cold water invites the blood streams to tone up glands and tissues, provides them with health and resistance.

Those new hats that have brims tilted up in the back offer an elegant chance to display a beautiful coiffure, all curly and puffy at the rear. As chapeaux tilt forward, sidewise or back it's up to the phrail sex to have its glory crown in perfect order, nicely undulated, neatly arranged, carrying much chich and style as can be acquired.

It is a lot better to drive yourself than to be driven by another.

MEDICINE HAT BIDS ADIEU TO C.P.R. WORKER

J. C. Alexander Is Honored Prior to Moving New Post, Nelson

J. C. Alexander, for 16 years stationed with the Canadian Pacific railway at Medicine Hat and Dunmore, Alta., has arrived in Nelson to assume his duties in charge of the local railway shops on the night side. He succeeds W. Crothers.

Prior to leaving the Alberta railway centers, he and Mrs. Alexander were guests at several farewell events. Mr. Alexander, besides taking part in many community affairs, was vice-president of the Medicine Hat Liberal association, and a prominent lodge worker.

Prior to his departure, he was, at the Assiniboia hotel, the guest of the railway officials of the Medicine Hat division. There he was presented with a pipe by Assistant Superintendent W. Thomas. At the Cosmopolitan hotel he was the guest of the Medicine Hat Shrine club. He was presented with a Shrine emblem by Noble V. W. Parrish, who hoped that Mr. Alexander's absence would be but temporary. About 40 attended the event from the southern part of Alberta.

On Saturday night last Mr. and Mrs. Alexander were honored guests at a banquet tendered by the Men's and Women's Liberal Associations of Medicine Hat, at which Redcliff and Dunmore were well represented. On that occasion, after many felicitations, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander were presented by Mrs. E. Dowling, president of the Women's association, with a handsome silver jug.

The Leap Year ball staged by the young men of the Krembo club on the evening of Feb. 29 was one of the best attended and liveliest of the season's dances. The auditorium had been tastefully decorated for the event and the music, which was supplied by Harry Ratledge's orchestra, was snappy and contributed much to the success of the evening. Part of the dances were reserved as ladies' choice and this was one of the busiest parts of the evening.

BRITISH MAY AGAIN BUY ON FOREIGN LISTS

Improved Condition Reflected in Chamberlain's Announcement

UNWISE TO LEND PROMISCUOUSLY

Credit From French Bankers is Reduced to Nearly Two-Thirds

LONDON, March 2.—(AP)—Britain's improved financial condition was reflected today in the announcement of Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, that British citizens again may buy foreign exchange.

Restrictions against the purchase of foreign exchange were imposed to protect the pound when Britain suspended the gold standard last year.

Asked whether restrictions against foreign loans would be lifted, the chancellor indicated that it would be "unwise for us to lend promiscuously overseas."

A cheer arose in the commons when Mr. Chamberlain confirmed that $150,000,000 of $200,000,000 borrowed in the United States last summer to bolster the pound, would be repaid Friday.

The chancellor added that a credit from French bankers of £20,000,000 ($66,600,000) for the same purpose had been reduced to £7,000,000 ($34,360,000).

Mr. Chamberlain recalled that an additional £20,000,000 of French advances last August were represented by treasury bonds to that amount in the hands of French holders.

"We have no power to require them to accept payment before August," he said, adding that the original £80,000,000 ($270,400,000 obtained from loans remains intact and is available for making payments.

REMOVE APPREHENSION

The chancellor said he desired to remove apprehension that repayment of the credits abroad involved a loss to British taxpayers.

"The necessity of acquiring foreign currencies with sterling at its present level involves an apparent loss which will be borne by the exchequer on capital account," he asserted. "This loss is at present offset by the enhanced value of our stocks of gold. Accordingly no burden is being placed on the current revenue of the budget.

The $150,000,000 repayment to the United States was final, the chancellor said.

"The lenders have consented to return a proportionate part of the one per cent commission as from date of maturity of existing bills," he said.

NOTICE IS GIVEN, RESOLUTION, FIX OBLIGATION RATE

Uphill Would Set Rate in Government and Municipal Obligations

VICTORIA, March 2.—Following closely on the heels of the Union of Municipalities' resolution urging legislation to control interest rates, Tom Uphill, Labor member for Fernie, gave notice in the legislature Tuesday of a resolution asking the province and the Dominion to pass legislation fixing a rate of 3 per cent on all government and municipal obligations.

The resolution urges enactment of a measure:

1. Fixing the legal rate of interest on all government and municipal indebtedness at 3 per cent.

2. Reduce all sinking fund obligations by 50 per cent.

3. Affixing a maximum of 5 per cent interest on existing mortgages and agreements for sale.

4. Barring foreclosure suits where 5 per cent interest has been paid and sufficient taxes to preserve the property from tax sale.

Total interest and sinking fund charges of the province are given as $7,886,000 in the preamble, in which the proposed changes would effect a reduction of $3,248,000.

The preamble also asserts that since the only economies foreshadowed by the government to offset the deficit were reductions in salaries and in social, administrative and educational services, it is expedient that capital should share in the lowering of wages.

In addition to asking the government to introduce legislation of this character, affecting its own obligations and those of its citizens, the resolution asks the house to petition the Dominion parliament to take similar action with regard to federal obligations.

Women in Alberta may now file on homesteads.

Upward of 3,000,000 girls and women in Japan are engaged in skilled labor.

PERFUME—JUST TOUCH IT TO THE SKIN.....

YES—my dears—we all use perfume for one reason. But some of us don't know where to use it to make the effect most alluring. Yes, it's right on the skin—never on the clothing. Just touch your perfume stopper behind the ears. Or a drop or two on a small bit of cotton and pat it on as the picture shows.

Now Is the Time to Build

The average index of wholesale prices of building materials is now down to 82.6, compared with 144.0 in 1920. No doubt partly as a result of present low cost of building operations, contracts let in Canada in January are estimated at $12,738,000, an increase of 13 per cent over December.

Undoubtedly this is an exceptionally favorable time to build from the view-point of costs. It is equally a favorable time to carry on minor building improvements. Not only are the costs of building materials at probably the lowest ebb that we will see for very many years to come, but so many of the most efficient workmen are out of employment that efficiency of the highest degree in construction and repair work is being obtained.

Britain Pays Before Due Date

Great Britain, believed some months ago by pessimists to be on its its financial back, has given New York another surprise. It is repaying this week $150,000,000 to American bankers which is not due until August 28. When this sum has been paid it will leave only $50,000,000 of the original $200,000,000 credit to be paid by the United Kingdom.

Not only has the British treasury made this payment of $150,000,000 five months before the date of maturity, but during last month the Bank of England paid a quarter of a billion dollar loan obtained from New York and the Bank of France. Further than that, the Bank of England has reduced its discount rate from ɤ to five per cent.

Accommodation for Tourists

The Vancouver and the Victoria and Island publicity bureaus have recently submitted to the British Columbia government a memorandum, urging upon the government the importance of good hotel accommodation in the development of Brtish Columbia's tourist business.

The memorandum emphasizes the fact that "the most essential asset in connection with prolonging the visit of the tourist is undoubtedly a good road, and almost as essential is the existence of comfortable, sanitary and attractive stopping places.

The memorandum submits that many of the so-called hotels, etc., now in existence, particularly in rural sections of British Columbia, are fare below a proper standard of comfort and sanitation. Such conditions have a tendency to hasten rather than prolong the departure of the tourist.

A lot of money is being spent by these coast organizations for advertising for tourists, and it is pointed out that it costs no more to sell a British Columbia vacation trip to a visitor who stays a month than it does to one who stays only a few days.

It is suggested to the government that some system of licensing might be inaugurated that would necessitate the passing of inspection and thus improve the standard of hotel accomodation.

Such action would raise the general tone of hotels and stopping places throughout the province and automatically eliminate those at present being conducted in an unsuitable manner.

The Manitoba Liquor Control act 1928 has a simple and effective method of license and control of hotels, outside of those holding beer licenses.

The Ontario Liquor act also makes provision for the licensing of standard hotels not having beer licenses.

It will be readily admitted that a most delightful drive over first-class highways, traversing unsurpassed scenic beauties, teeming with those features that are rated as first-class tourist attractions, can be completely spoiled and nullified by lack of proper and comfortable eating and sleeping accommodations.

Canada's Tariff in 1859

Reference is made in the National Service Review to a small leather-bound volume entitled "Customs Tariffs Canada, 1859," which is particularly interesting at the present time, on account of the developments in tariffs, not only in Canada, but in the rest of the world, which are taking place.

The outstanding feature of the small Canadian tariff of 1859 is the preponderance of free goods, numbering 173 items, out of a total of 227 items listed. Included in this free list are such items as animals of all kinds; arms, clothing and provisions for the army or navy, and Indian nations; wine, spirits and fermented liquors of all kinds, imported for officers' mess; meats, fresh, smoked and salt; pig iron, pig lead and pig copper.

Under the heading "Goods Paying One Hundred Per Cent" is listed brandy, gin, cordials, rum, spirits and strong waters, including spirits of wine, and alcohol, not being whisky.

Whisky is singled out for special treatment, being subject to only 18 cents a gallon duty when entering the province of Canada.

Sixteen items are listed under the 30 per cent tariff, including snuff and all kinds of manufactured tobacco, patent medicines and other medical preparations. Boots, shoes, harness and saddlery, clothing made by hand or sewing machine are the only item rated at 25 per cent duty, while book, map and news-printing paper are the sole items appearing on the 15 per cent schedule. Thirty-six commodities are named on the 10 per cent list. These include several iron products such as rolled plate, bar, rod, hoop, boiler plate, wire, locomotive driving wheel tire; jewellery, watches and various parts of locomotives and steam engines. All goods not listed in the tariff were to be entered at 20 per cent duty.

Scientist who has kept a chicken heart alive for 20 years has rather taken the edge off the term "chicken-hearted."

The month of March either comes in like a lamb or like a lion. Well, figure it out for yourself. To me it seems the month came in like the first weather of last winter.

After walking around town I have come to the conclusion that the more snow that disappears the more evidence of a good winter's business at the liquor store makes its appearance. The snow was apparently an easy place to park a "dead soldier."

It snowed hard in the city in spots yesterday. But out in Fairview the flakes had a merry time with the wind. I know, I was out there for a stroll.

Noticed Bill Walker walking around quite spry like. He seems to be recuperating pretty well.

It will be a good thing for the radio listeners up in Canada when some of our American cousins get this coming election campaign off their chests. Some senator put it all over Walter Winchell the other night. Wasn't that lucky?

And why the horror of depression? Now, for instance, take prunes. (Everybody should take prunes.) These little fellows are absolutely covered with depressions, but have you heard any prunes wailing around about the tough times we're going to have in 1932?

Speaking of prunes, by the way, reminds us that another old fetish of the scientists has crumbled—the vitamin story. Somewhere in Toronto an agile-brain figured this one out:

They have started to plank down wooden money at Tenino, a town near Tacoma, Wash.

Tenino is a small spot on the financial map—out in the sticks, as it were.

Money is printed on veneer strips. One dollar means one strip; 25 cents is a mere stripling.

The only bank in town failed, so all they have now is a lumber yard.

The town's rich man is the owner of the lumber yard. He has piles of money.

They say it's quite a sight when the city council starts to whittle down the tax rate.

In using wooden money, it's very convenient to make change, if you have a saw handy.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON

THE MEDICAL PROFESSION AND DENTAL DECAY

One of the gratifying things to the medical profession is to see how faithfully many people are not only visiting their dentists regularly once or twice a year but are having x-ray examination every two or three years. It means that much suffering, much medical and surgical illness will be avoided.

Twenty-five years ago, Osler, the greatest physician of modern times advised his fellow physicians that the teeth were a great source of infection. Twenty years later Lord Moynihan the great surgeon, added his testimony in advising that infections of the teeth were responsible for many surgical conditions.

The Mayo clinic has added its quota of evidence, medical and surgical, as to the great damage to the vital organs of the body from infected teeth.

Sir William Wilcox, a few years ago, gave a clear exposition or explanation of the whole subject of infected teeth, from facts gleaned from several hundred clinical cases and supplied conclusive evidence that as he said "leads one irresistably to the conclusion that a very large amount of disease is due to poisoning from infected teeth.

Although the infection in the teeth is due to organisms of the same family, some organisms are more virulent, more poisonous than others, and affect organs of the body in different ways. One group of organisms for instance by poisoning the blood actually destroy the red corpuscles, so that the individual's blood becomes thin, and he is said to be suffering from anaemia.

Another group of organisms in infected teeth are associated with rheumatic infections. They cause a general poisoning of the system, and may give rise to arthritis-inflammation of the joints, and even inflammation of lining of the heart. Another point is that the intestine itself may be affected by the poisons causing intestinal complications.

From these organisms may follow eye complications, nervous diseases, and other altered or diseased states of the system.

These warnings are from the leaders of the medical profession in Great Britain and the United States and should be worth serious consideration.

Birds of The Kootenay and Arrow Lakes

(By J. E. H. Kelso, M.D., M.B.O.U.)

Sub-family Anserinae Geese—Geese in general contour somewhat resemble ducks, but the bill is higher and often narrower at the base; it is also a stronger organ; the body is not so flat, and they are larger birds. Like the surface ducks, they do not dive except in sport, and sometimes when wounded, and they are less expert divers. When feeding on the water they also tail tip.

On these lakes by far the commonest is the large Canada goose or Honker.

DESCRIPTION

According to the check-list of the American Ornithologists' union, there is only one species of Canada goose, Branta canadensis, running from the very small Cackling goose to the big Honker, with the latter almost all the inhabitants on the shores of these lakes must be quite familiar. Now this splits up the Canada goose into four sub-species. Many practical ornithologists do not agree to these sub-species, being all included into one single species.

As regards plumage, all have a black head and neck, sometimes called a stocking, which ends abruptly at the shoulders. They also have conspicuous white cheek patches, but these sub-species, although often differing greatly in size, have the same plumage, although there may be in all slight individual variation, but their call notes are said to differ from the high pitched one of the Cackling goose to the deep, low pitched, full tone of the Honker.

First, the big Canada goose, Branta canadensis canadensis, or Honker, the largest of American geese.

Second, Huitchins goose, Branta canadensis hutchinsi.

Third, the Cackling goose, Branta canadensis minima. This is the smallest of the geese, and is sometimes only a little larger than a mallard.

Fourth, the white cheeked goose, Branta canadensis occidentalis. All the following notes apply to the big Honker, Branta canadensis canadensis, which is by far the commonest species on these lakes.

Status — Resident breeding almost throughout the province, winters on the coast and in the southern interior of B. C.

On these lakes it remains during the winter wherever there is open water. In very severe winters, when large areas of the Arrow lakes are frozen, I have seen small flocks off Robson in the swift broken water.

Description—There is no need of an elaborate description of this well known big bird, in which, as in other geese, the sexes are alike in plumage.

Average measurements, from my specimens:

Length, 37 inches. Wing, 20 inches. Tarsus, 4½ inches. So it is seen to be a very large bird.

Habits—They fly with slow wing beats but at a terrific speed, with legs laid back, as in ducks. They are extremely wary and when feeding or resting always have one member as a sentinel. Very often in flight a flock goes into a V-shaped formation.

Food—Much of it got in the fall is scattered and fallen wheat, oats, barley, etc., but they sometimes consume sprouting grain. In summer much grass is eaten, also they feed on small aquatic animals, such as minnows, tadpoles, and on these lakes I have proved they also eat the fleshy fresh water mussel, but geese are more vegetarian than the duck tribe. In some killed on the Arrow lakes the stomach is crammed to the fullest capacity with the jointed grass or reed so common along our shores, also growing in other wet places. They also swallow small stones as grit, but it puzzled me greatly how they remained on these lakes in very hard winters and were often seen tail tipping where no weed grew, that is, no water weed, but I think the answer is that in these situations they are getting mussels.

Notes—The well known deep honk, also some softer notes.

Nesting—The nest is placed in a marsh, constructed of grass, leaves, and lined as in all ducks and geese with the birds' down. The eggs are six or eight, of a dull white color.

Human interference has greatly reduced the numbers of this truly magnificent water fowl, for only a certain proportion breed in the far north. Numbers used to breed on the prairies, and do so still to a certain extent; in fact, agriculture and settlements have encroached on their old-time safe breeding grounds, and they have been mercilessly harassed by man, pairs often being shot in the breeding season, but these geese, in diminishing numbers, still breed on the lakes.

Unlike the duck tribe, the male remains on watch and guard with the female during incubation, and accompanies her with the young after the latter have attained the powers of flight.

The two adults get over their moult while the flight feathers of the young are growing, for like ducks, the adults moult wing feathers simultaneously, and are for a time incapable of flight.

The parents and brood eventually leave together for fall and winter quarters.

The snow goose, Chen hyperboreus hyperboreus (Pallas). The Wavey.

Status — Uncommon migrant over most of the province. Winters in large numbers at the mouth of the Fraser river.

Description—Beak red, cutting edge bordered with a black band, plumage pure white, wing tips black. A red rust stain is common on the plumage; immatures have a mixture of greyish brown on wings back head and neck. This is a small goose, length about 23 to 26 inches. It breeds in the Arctic.

Habits—I am sorry to own when a newcomer to Edgewood I did not record this bird regularly. I had no idea at that time it was considered scarce, but I am convinced it is not nearly ah rare as it is thought to be on these lakes. I have recorded it in April, May, July, October. It was interesting to note in May, 1921, an adult wavey joined a rancher's tame geese on the Arrow lakes and stayed with them till the fall.

In my launch I passed it several times in company with its tame associates. I had given my word to the rancher to refrain from collecting it.

The bird appeared in no wise a cripple, for it would take long flights out onto the lake, calling upon the tame ones to follow. Its honk was noticeably higher pitched than theirs.

Eventually it went up with the other geese to be fed, but was wary and never allowed itself to be captured.

The white fronted goose, Anser albifrons (Scopali), appears to be very rare on these lakes.

The dark, black colored brant geese, though most excellent table birds, are essentially marine.

Sub-family Cygninae swans.

Of wild swans, we have two visiting the Kootenay and Arrow lakes; viz., the whistling and Trumpeter swan.

The whistling swan Cygnus columbianus (Ord).

Status — Fairly common migrant, remaining all winter on the coast. Nests in the far north. It may be occasionally seen on the lakes in the fall and spring. In April I have seen on the Lower Arrow lake a flock of no less than 10.

The trumpeter swan, Cygnus buccinator Richardson.

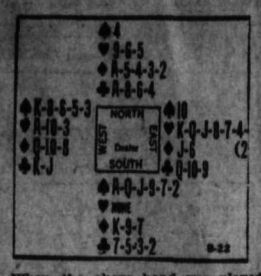
Status—Scarce winter visitant to B. C. There are a few breeding records for the province which may pertain to injured birds. The repeated assertion of the extermination of the trumpeter is an error as far as B. C. is concerned. This swan is a southern breeder, and breeds in the States, and, it is said, close to our southern border, but unfortunately it has got very scarce, and there are grave dangers of its imminent extinction.

I examined one that lay about a hopeless cripple off the Edgewood wharf for two days and was killed April 3, 1914, to end its misery. I took its measurements. Length, 47½ inches. Wing, 21 inches. Tarsus, 5 inches.

Auction and Contract Bridge

By the World's Leading Authority, MILTON C. WORK

A CRUCIAL HOLDUP



When the above hand was played at Contract South, with two and a half high-card tricks and three low-card tricks, bid one Spade, West, with five Spades headed by the King and a No Trump count of 14, bid one No Trump. After North's pass East made a forcing jump-shift to three Hearts, requiring West to bid again. West called four Hearts, which North doubled. (Had West bid three No Trumps over East's forcing bid, East would have bid four Hearts). If this hand were being played at Auction bridge, South would bid one Spade, West one No Trump, and East two Hearts.

South, with no desirable lead in his hand, started the play with the Ace of Spades. He did not wish to open his worthless Clubs, or to underlead his King of Diamonds. He felt certain, moreover, that the King of Spades was held by West, and he hoped that North was short in the suit. When North and East both followed, South could count the Spades perfectly, and led the Queen to draw dummy's King for North to ruff and East to over-ruff. It was played in that way and Declarer then drew trumps and led a small Club to dummy's King, North winning with the Ace and leading the Ace of Diamonds. When South played the encouraging Nine, North led another Diamond, and South's King was the setting trick. North and South won two Diamonds, a Spade and a Club. Do you see how East could have made game against the adversaries' logical defense?

THE CORRECT PLAY

Dummy's play of the King of Spades to trick 2 had nothing to gain and everything to lose. When South led the Queen despite the fall of East's Ten at trick 1, the indication was that North was out of Spades and could ruff; therefore, dummy should play a small Spade on trick 2, and let East ruff. Trumps should then be drawn, the third round being won in dummy. After that the King of Spades would give closed hand a discard of a losing Diamond, and Declarer would fulfill his doubled contract; losing but a Spade, a Diamond and a Club. South's Spade leads to the first two tricks were sound, despite the post-mortem disclosure that a shift to Diamonds would have set the contract.

Sir: In your issues of March 1, 1932, C. B. of Boswell says our local and provincial police are not being successful, regards their methods in dealing with the Doukhobors. This is a trouble of long standing and if our provincial police had the support given the Mounted, results would be different. TRAIL JUNIORS WIN BRITISH COLMBIA HOCKEY TITLE, TAKE TO TUNE OF 9-4 MERRITT TEAM

Merritt's Lead Overcome in Second; rail on Score Rampage

TRAIL, B. C., March 2.—Trail trimmed Merritt to the tune of 9-4 tonight in the second game of the B. C. Junior hockey finals, showing a flash of its speed in the final period for a 7-2 count after tying up the game in the second. Trail won the first game 7-3.

Merritt met Trail on its own ground for two periods and the prospects were none too bright for the locals. At the end of the first the visitors had a 2-1 lead and they tied it in the second. But they were disorganized and Merritt's three man defence holding them out. Then Buckna got two goals on long shots and Trail woke up. There was no holding them. They played combination that had not previously been displayed in the title series and they went through time and again, splitting the Merritt defence and uncovering the goalie for shots that he could not hope to stop. Martin and Buckna were the scoring aces, Martin leading with five goals and an assist. Buckna gave two goals and gave three assists to Martin.

First period—It took just one minute and two seconds to score, Martin getting it on Buckna's pass. Merritt seemed to take it for granted they would be beaten and there was little action. McKendrick saved from Nesbit. Merritt was penetrating Trail's loose defence. There was not much of interest until Stelmock rushed in when a rebound puck rolled out between McKendrick's feet and the goalie knocked it back into the net. The time was 15:30. From then on Merritt put real steam into it. They pressed continually and held their defence fairly well. Nesbit got the lead at 19:37 when the puck glanced off McGowan's stick into the net. Cassidy of Merritt and Ramsden of Trail got their baptisms in this period. Cassidy had plenty of energy but little else and Ramsden was obviously out of condition and slow. There were no penalties.

Second period—McKendrick saved from Carrington and Nesbit at the opening of the second. Trail had no pep and Merritt boys were playing like winners. When Trail first line came on it played to position and carried the attack into Merritt territory. The second line carried on. Trail's equalizer came at 15:07 when Buckna lost in close in and Martin following up scored. Carrington and Buckna drew penalties Neilson was warned.

Third period—Trail woke up in the third, showing a flash of their real style. Carrington and Neilson attacked and Buckna drew a minute for holding Stelmock. When he came to the ice he took the puck on his own blue line and advanced to center for a long shot and scored. Less than a minute later he got another from the blue line. Merritt's hearts were broken. Buckna was near getting another when Morris passed out from the corner, but he fell and Martin picked it up to score. McGowan was chased for two minutes. Carrington got away at the Trail blue line and scored. Buckna got a two minute penalty and Trail was reduced to three men with Merritt bearing down. But it was only for a short time and with the team at full strength again the center of attack returned to the Merritt goal. McGowan broke away and passed to Morrison who gave it to Brown for another Trail score. McGowan broke away and passed to Morrison, who gave it to Brown for another Trail score. Then McGowan took a pass from Martin to add another. Buckna passed to Martin for the latter to score his fourth goal. Martin got his fifth from a mixup in the Merritt goal area and Morris got two minutes in the box. Carrington completed the scoring at 18:50.

SUMMARY

First period: (1) Trail, Martin from Buckna, 1:02; (2) Merrit, Stelmock 15:30; (3) Merritt, Nesbit 19:37.

Penalties: None.

Second period (4) Trail, Martin from Buckna 15:07.

Penalties: Carrington, Buckna.

HIGH SCHOOL WINS BOSKETBALL GAME

Beats Junior High Team 35-16; Good Combination Playing by both teams

After playing a losing battle the younger and much smaller junior high boys' hoop squad submitted to the hefty high school team in a fast basketball game at the high school last night, 35-16.

The junior high squad played as pretty a combination game as could be wished by any of the basketball fans, but were running in "tough" luck under their opponent's basket and were checked with much vigor by the most experienced high school team.

Stewart, for the high school, and Baker, for the junior high, were the high scorers for the night, Stewart scoring 16 points and Baker eight.

Charlie MacLean as referee was changed for Verne Vance at 14 minutes. MacLean handled the referee's whistle in lieu of Vance's absence.

The teams:

High school—Buchanan (5), Stewart (16), McLeod (2), MacLean (2), McCuaig (2), Kirby, Clark 2), Wallach (2), MacDougall 4).

Junior high—Hawkins, A. Bishop, Smith (6), Cooper (2), Baker (8), Anderson, J. Bishop.

BUFFALO BISONS BEAT BULLDOGS IN ROUGH GAME

WINDSOR, Ont., March 2, (CP)—While Buffalo Bisons were registering a well-earned victory over Windsor Bulldogs tonight, referee Jerry Lane was forced to run the gauntlet of an angry home crowd.

Play had to be held up five minutes in the second period while rink attendants cleared the ice after the wildest demonstration ever put on here since the professional ice sport was introduced. Peanuts, golf balls, programs, hunks of coal and pennies, despite the depression, were heaved on to the ice as the crowd vented its exception to a few of the referee's decisions.

Carl Voss was the leading figure in Buffalo's well-earned victory, having a hand in three of the four goals.

It was Windsor's second defeat in a row at home, and pushed them back into third place.

Montreal Athletic Hockey Team Take Quebec Championship

MONTREAL, March 2 (CP)—Montreal Amateur Athletic association became senior amateur hockey champions of Quebec province when they defeated McGill, last year's titleholders, 2-1, here tonight after 20 minutes of overtime. Ralph St. Germain, who was awarded the Forget trophy tonight as the most valuable player to his team in the senior group, scored the winning goal 11 seconds from the end of the second overtime. The round score was 4-3.

M. A. A. A. will next meet the intermediate champions of the province in a series to determine which team will represent the province in its matches with the maritime titleholders. The Quebec intermediate champions will not be declared for a few days but Lafontaine, titlists of the Mount Royal league, loom as probable winners.

CUP SEMI-FINALS SET FOR MARCH 12

LONDON, March 2—The draw for the semi-finals of the English cup was made and the four teams left in the series will play the following matches to decide who will meet in the final game at Wembley stadium:

Arsenal meets Manchester City, Chelsea plays Newcastle United.

The first-mentioned match will be staged at Villa Park and if a replay is necessary at Sheffield Wednesday's grounds. Chelsea and Newcastle will meet at Huddersfield and, in the event of a draw, at Blackburn. These will be played March 12.

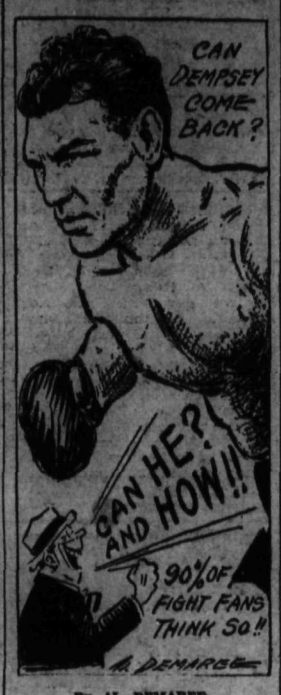
Dempsey Fight Lure for Fans



By AL DEMAREE

Jack Dempsey's 36-year-old legs may not have the tigerish spring they used to possess, but in the opinion of 90 per cent. of the boxing fans, they are still plenty good enough to carry him to another world championship.

I have received thousands of letters in response to a cartoon I ran recently asking the public whether the old mauler could come back. And the replies came from every part of this country and Canada and from every walg of life. Brokers and farmers, clerks and bankers, soldiers and sailors, individuals and replies from whole departments and organizations.

A surprising number of replies came from women and they were almost a hundred per cent strong for Jack's comeback.

I never realized before just how much Jack Dempsey appeals to the imagination of every class of person, and with what affection and loyality he is held by all sport lovers.

I can't imagine ninety per cent. of the fans being wrong in their sublime faith that he can really come back. The old-time bounce may not return to his legs, but he still has three of his old traits—the sock, the same willingness to trade punch for punch and the fighting instinct, one thing he will never lose.

N. A. C. DEFEATS WOLVES IN FAST BASKET TOURNEY

N.A.C. Presents Strong front With Reinforced Team and Wins 20-17

For the first time this season the reinforced N. A. C. team played the Wolves basket squad to defeat at the high school last night when they won 20-17, in an exhibition game.

The Wolves have, up to the present, been the top team of the senior league and have not met with much opposition from the N. A. C. team, but it is obvious that the new, reinforced N. A. C. team is going to buck the Wolves heavily.

Richardson, Stewart and Horswill were the scorers for the Wolves while MacLean and Watson held up the N. A. C. end.

The teams:

N. A. C.—Lukas (2), W. Vance (2), Watson (6), C. MacLean (10), Morley, Whitfield, Buchanan.

Wolves— Wallach, Jeffs, Horswill (5), Lee (1), Richardson (6), Stewart (5).

Referee—Verne Vance.

LINDRUM IS 462 POINTS SHORT OF WINNING MATCH

MONTREAL, March 2 (CP)—Climaxing a 10-day display of marvelous billiard skill, Walter Lindrum, Australia, world's champion at English billiards, tonight just failed to overcome a handicap of 5000 points he gave Tom Newman, former British champion.

The final score of the match which began on February 22 was: Newman (receives 5000), 17,815; Lindrum, 17,354. Lindrum thus scored 4539 more points than did his opponent but was 462 shots of making up the handicap.

The two men will now go to Ottawa, opening a three-day match there tomorrow. The week of March 7 will find them in Toronto. Detroit will see them on March 17, 18 and 19, a western trip following immediately. Dates for western appearances are still to be set. They are scheduled to open an exhibition in New York City on April 7.

NOVA SCOTIA RINK LEADS IN CURLING SPIEL

Threaten Western Canada's Hopes of MacDonald Brier Cup

CONGALTON MEETS TWO BLOCKADES

Four Rinks Tied for Second Pace With Three Wins, Two Losses

TORONTO, Ont., March 2.—(CP)—A new star was in the ascendant in the curling world tonight and seriously threatening western Canada's hopes of retaining the MacDonald Brier trophy, emblamatic of the Dominion championship. Prof. Murray MacNeill's rink from Halifax shot Nova Scotia in meteoric flight to the first place in the quest for the trophy with three triumphs in a row.

Two disastrous defeats today appeared to mark the waning of the supremacy of Manitoba in the championship contest. Jimmy Congalton's Winnipeg Granites, defending titilists, were badly trimmed by Saskatchewan and lost out by a one-shot margin to the Nova Scotia four, holders of the trophy in 1927.

Four rinks tonight were tied for second place in the standing. Manitoba, Alberta, New Brunswick and Southern Ontario, with three victories and two defeats apiece, were pressing on the heels of the leading MacNeill quartette.

DOWN NORTHERN ONTARIO

Eager to capture the tankard they held in the first year of competition, Prof. MacNeill's four downed northern Ontario, represented by A. E. Stephenson's New Liskeard men, 10-7 in a third round match; through the next stage with a last end victory over the defending titlist, 11-10, and culminated a day of triumphs by handing Carl Battell's Moose Jaw men, the Saskatchewan entry, a 13-7 reverse.

Jimmy Congalton's crew met their second defeat of the day, and also of the tournament, when Battell's quartette handed them an artistic 17-5 trimming. The holders of the trophy came back into the hunt tonight with a fifth-round decision over Charley Bulley's southern Ontario outfit, 12-10. They had to notch three on the last end to capture the game, however.

EXTRA-END CONTEST

Tonight's play saw the first extra-end contest of the series, when Alberta and New Brunswick battled on even terms through 12 ends. The decision finally went to the westerners, 12-11, after Nick Thibodeu's Bathurst, N. B., set had tied the count with two points on the last regulation end.

Easiest victory of the contest was that registered by the new Liskeard four over Pete Lyall's Montreal rink, 16-2. Lyall conceded this contest on the tenth end, after only taking two ends. The victory following two successive losses, left the northern Ontario entry just ahead of Saskatchewan and Quebec cellar occupants in the standing.

SCORES ONLY WIN

The Battell rink scored its only win of the series when it gave the Manitoba four a 17-5 lacing in a third round match. The westerners lost to New Brunswick 11-3 in the afternoon engagement and suffered a 13-7 setback tonight, imposed by the victorious Nova Scotians.

Hallonquist's Three Hills entry piled up an early lead in their game with the Lyal rink, in spite of the fighting finish, the Quebec province four had to admit defeat. They held the westerners scoreless in the last four ends, while notching five themselves, but the Alberta lead was too great to be overcome.

After their impressive defeat of the title holding Manitoba set this morning, Saskatchewan could do little against New Brunswick and Thelbodeau's quartette registered a decisive win over the Moose Jaw crew, skipped by Battell. After notching singles on the first two ends, Battell only scored once again, getting a single on the eighth end.

Decision On Protested Game Is Not Expected Before Thursday Night

EDMONTON, Alta., March 2—Decision by the executive of the Alberta Amateur Hockey association as to whether the protested goal in Tuesday night's game between the Calgary Bronks and superiors in the Alberta senior amateur hockey title playoff here will be allowed if not expected before Thursday morning. Dr. W. G. Hardy, president of the Alberta Amateur Hockey association informed the Canadian Press tonight.

In the event of the goal being allowed, the score will be 2-2 for the game. In all probability, however, the game will be thrown out entirely if the decision should make it a tie.

"I do not see how it can be called a tie, since no overtime was played," declared Dr. Hardy.

What Makes a Team Great?

By AL DEMAREE

Do great ball players make great managers? Many smart baseball players claim that a manager has little or nothing to do with the success or failure of the particular club he is managing.

They contend that a great ball club makes a great manager and that a poor club for the same reason, makes a poor manager. And the fact remains that many star players were flops as managers. Ty Cobb, Hal Chase, Christy Mathewson, Roger Bresnahan and Larry la Joie are examples. Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Chicago Cubs, will have this jinx to battle.

While many stars have failed as managers, many ordinary ball players or even "bushers" have been successful. George Stallings, Connie Mack, Bill McKechnie, Gabby Street, Joe McCarthy, Pat Moran, and many others were not super-stars, but they got results.

I often wonder whether a great manager can make an ordinary team win or whether a great team can get results in spite of a poor manager? I rather believe a great team manages itself and that the manager in that case is just an individual who sits on the bench and "second guesses" occasionally when a play goes wrong.

ERNIE ARTHUR AND REED PUT UP TOUGH TIME

Wrestlers Go 10 Rounds to Rough and Tumble Draw

BEND, Ore., March 2. — Friday night's wrestling show at the armory started out with a bang when Ernie Arthur tossed a soup bone across the ring to Robin Reed while the event was being announced. Reed took the hint, and chewed his way out of every head scissors Arthur got on him, by biting Arthur's legs.

Arthur apparently couldn't get up steam enough to pin Reed more than once during the 10 rounds of the match, although several rounds ended with Reed in position for a fall.

ENDS IN DRAW

The match ended in a draw after going the limit of 10 rounds. Arthur took the first fall in the first two minutes of the sixth round, and it was not until the tenth round was well under way that Reed succeeded in flipping Arthur to tie the honors.

The first fall came in a flash when Arthur got Reed aloft for an airplane spin and slammed him to the mat in one of the most vicious tumbles that Reed has taken in the local arena. Reed came back strong in the seventh and tried nearly 20 times to get a flying head scissors on Arthur, but the Canadian profited by his former experience with Reed and stayed away from the ropes.

In a burst of fury, Reed finally got going in the tenth. He caught Arthur's arm, and after a number of savage whip wristlocks, pinned Arthur with a combination whiplock and arm bar.

SPECTACULAR MATCH

Last night's match was even more spectacular than the match two weeks ago, in which Reed took two out of three falls. No holds were barred in last night's go, and both grapplers took full advantage of the arrangement.

The fans are almost united in favoring the Australian round system of wrestling, which was used in the Marshfield arena for the first time last night.

Young Norris threw Kid Woods twice in a curtain-raising event, and Gus Manos of North Bend and Johnnie Flurie of Reedsport went two five-minutes to a draw in a semi-windup. Roy Cederstrom refereed all three matches.—Coos Bay Times.

BADMINTON ENTRY LARGEST YET FOR DOMINION TITLES

Semi-finals will be reached by tomorrow night in the singles divisions. Taylor meets F. H. KOOTENAY SLIDE, SANDON PUTS END SKI PROGRAM; WELL KNOWN IN TO EXCELLENT CROWD SCATTERED

Weather Against Big Tournament Although Some Fine Jumps Made

SANDON, B. C., March 2.—The local tournament sponsored by the ski club of 1927 took place on Saturday, February 27.

The weather man was most unfair. In fact from the time the ski tournament was mentioned old man weather did his best to buck the ski jump, first by snowing for 10 days and nights and then raining for the rest of the time. Saturday morning it was raining in torrents by 10:30. The hill was the worst that the husky lads jumped on in the years they have been skiing.

In the afternoon class B and C held their jump on the big hill which in an even worse condition than the junior hill. In addition to the thrills of watching the jumps and spills, old man weather again had to put his best foot forward to cause more excitement. For those of the outside world who know the lay of the splendid natural ski hill Sandon possesses will also remember that there is a snowslide running close to the ski hill, commonly known as the "Kootenay slide." Mr. weatherman to finish up the excitment of the day, and in the midst of the best jumps, started the slide running and great was the scattering of jumpers on skis and without skis, of spectators young and old, for the Sandon people all know that when a snowslide starts to travel it travels fast. That was the finish of the 1932 ski tournament as far as jumping was concerned. In the evening a well-attended dance was held in the Union hall. Mr. Niel Tattrie acted as master of ceremonies for the evening, also presenting the beautiful prizes given by the ski club to the boys who carried on so successfully throughout the trying day.

In Class D Hartwick Peterson carried off the first prize, favoring the crowd with nice jumps.

Billie Tattrie, caused Hartwick some anxious moments with his jumping and was awarded second prize. Joe Trinca came third and Frank Morton a very close fourth.

In Class E Johnnie Clark showed excellent ability and obtained first prize. Arthur Morton was a close second. Arthur MacLanders and Norman Sibileau ranked third and fourth respectively.

In Class C Blanshard Birtles thrilled the crowd with his daring and captured the first place. Herbert Larsen came a close second. Eugene Peterson carried off the third prize and Cecil Morton came fourth.

In Class B Eide Olson established an early lead with a fine jump and held it. Arthur Peterson was a close second.

There were no Class A entries.

Charles Rund of Silverton gave an exhibition jump, the longest jump of the day. Hans Peterson favored the spectators with two exhibition jumps. When the Kootenay slide came down, missing the jump by a few feet, Arthur Peterson was preparing to establish a record.

The ladies of Candon presented special prizes of sterling silver to those making the longest standing jumps in classes C and E, B. Birtles being awarded the prize for Class C and A. Morton for Class E. In Class D F. Morton received a special prize.

TORONTO STOCK MARKET JOINS DAY'S UPSWING

Tangible Recovery in Financial and Trade Prospects, Influential

TORONTO, March 2. (CP)—Buoyed by constructive news, the Toronto stock exchange joined other North American markets in an upswing today. Evidence of tangible recovery in British financial and trade prospects and optimistic forecasts for the immediate future of the steel industry were favorable factors.

Canadian Pacific's advance of 2⅝ points was the feature. With turnover of 3300 shares, the issue closed at 22¼. Contradicting previous rumors, reports today were that prospects of a C.P.R.-C.N.R. merger are definitely killed, and that no part of the C.N.R.'s operating or financial burden is to become a responsibility of the private carrier. Other utilities were also strong, Bell gaining ½ and Brazilian ⅝.

Metal shares joined in the advance. Smelters was up 1, and Nickel gained ½ to close at 9½.

Some oil issues continued to show strength, B.A. being up ⅛, Imperial ¼, while International Pete was off ⅛.

Walker gained ⅛ to 3⅝ in active trading. The new common was up ¼ at 4⅝, the new preferred being unchanged. Distillers-Seagrams was up ¼.

Total turnover was 17,692 shares. Of the 51 issues called, 23 closed with net gains, 11 with losses, and 17 were unchanged.

WHEAT STAGES COME-BACK ON WINNIPEG LIST

Top Levels Held More Due to Lightness of Offerings Than Any Support

WINNIPEG, March 2 (CP)—Firmness in outside wheat markets aided wheat prices on the grain market here to stage a moderate comeback today from declines of the past few days. Although receding from the high points of the day, values at the close were ⅝ cent above yesterday's final.

Trading was dull and featureless throughout with top levels held due more to lightness of offerings than to any particular support. Closing prices were May at 67, July 68¾ and October 70⅝ each ⅝ cent higher.

Sales for export overnight were not apparent, though some inquiry by continental accounts was noted at prices slightly below current levels.

Little business was done in cash grains and spreads closed fractionally higher due to lightness of offerings. Coarse grains advanced with wheat in dull trading.

CALGARY EGG SHORTAGE IS RAISING PRICE

CALGARY, March 2.—Calgary was facing an acute egg shortage today as a result of reduced production on farms in Alberta, small storage supplies and the recent cold snap's effect on laying hens. Merchants in the city said supplies were the lowest for some period, and that prices were advancing rapidly.

Both Edmonton and this city reported short storage supplies. British Columbia supplies were reported to have slowed up also under increased demand. Fresh extras today were quoted at 40 cents, compared with 30 cents a week ago.

EGG MARKETS

OTTAWA, Ont., March 2—Preliminary figures of storage egg holdings from Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg indicate that stocks of storage eggs in the country are considerably lighter than a year ago at this time. Montreal stocks on the first of the month were 5454 cases as compared to 9807 cases a year ago; Toronto stocks were 535 cases as compared to 1359 cases a year ago, while at Winnipeg storage stocks were 613 cases as compared to 1395 cases a year ago.

Toronto: unchanged.

Montreal: Extras 28 to 29, firsts 25 to 26, seconds 21.

Winnipeg: one car of B. C. fresh is expected this week costing extras 27, firsts 25. pullet extras 23 delivered. Local prices generally are unchanged.

HIGHLAND LASS TO PAY DIVIDEND ON SILVER STOCK

Shareholders Will Get About 24% on Original Investment

PENTICTON, B. C., March 2.—Stockholders in the Highland Lass silver mine at Beaverdell, living largely in Kelowna and Penticton, are shortly to get a dividend of three cents per share, which works out at 24 per cent on the purchase price paid by most of them.

Reference to the forthcoming dividend was made here last week by R. B. Staples, himself a large stockholder, who is in charge of operations.

Since the first of the year the Highland Lass has moved out three cars of ore running to about 37,500 ounces of silver. Silver is at present about 30 cents per ounce. This ore also goes 75 cents a ton in gold and approximately the same in lead.

The mine has been operating four years as a one-machine proposition and the stockholders are now about to reap the fruits of the development which has been carried out.

The three-cent dividend is to be paid out next month. While the company shares are officially of no par value, most of the stock was purchased on a basis of 12½ cents per share. Thus the dividend is almost 25 per cent. Due to the present condition of the mine, Highland Lass stock would be hard to get at 50 cents a share. In fact, it is generally understood that there is none obtainable.

BELL ALSO ACTIVE

The Bell mine at Beaverdell, in which Mr. Staples is also interested as one of four or five partners, is a steady producer at the rate of 150 tons per month, being about three cars.

The Bell and the Highland Lass employ at present a total crew of 30 men. Machine men are paid $4.74 daily with muckers at $4.25. There is also a graduated bonus based on the value of silver. A bonus of 50 cents per day is paid when silver reaches 30 cents, and this has been in effect since the first of the year.

The Wellington property is putting out three cars every two months and has good prospects.

Altogether, on the hill there are from 45 to 50 men at work and, despite the comparatively low price of silver, they are holding depression well at bay.

CHICAGO WHEAT VALUES RISE IN BUYING MARKET

Forecasts of Future Foreign Buyers of Rye Sends That Cereal Higher

CHICAGO, March 2 (By John P. Boughan, Associated Press market editor)—Substantial gains in wheat values today accompanied a broadened volume of general buying, especially purchases of Chicago May and September deliveries for European account.

Evidence of improving financial conditions in Great Britain, together with upturns of securities at New York, helped further to list wheat. A sharp advance in rye, based on forecasts that Germany and the Scandinavian countries would soon be large buyers of that cereal, gave an additional stimulus to the wheat market.

Wheat closed firm at virtually the day's top level, 1 to 1½ over yesterday's finish, rye showing 1⅛ to 2¼ rise, corn ¼ to ½ up, oats unchanged to ⅜ higher and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to an equal advance.

Producers Continue Talks for Drastic Copper Curtailment

NEW YORK, March 2.—International copper producers continued their informal conversations today relative to a more drastic curtailment program, and it was hoped that a decision one way or the other would be reached some time this week.

Revised regulations of Copper Exporters, Inc., are also under consideration, and if the various interests can arrive at an agreement for further reduction of output, it is expected that the new rules will be approved and the organization continue handling foreign sales for the producers.

Buying of copper continued light at the all-time low rate of 5¾ cents a pound in the domestic market and 5⅞ cents for European shipments.

GAINS EXCEED LOSSES ON THE MONTREAL CURB

MONTREAL, March 2.—Gains predominated on the Montreal curb market today, the miscellaneous section showing five fractional advances and one decline, while among the mines, there were four gains and one loss.

Imperial Oil, active feature, finished ⅛ higher at 10½, with Beauharnois Power closing ⅛ higher at 1¾. International Petroleum, Home Oil and British American Oil also advanced, the sole loss being in Imperial Tobacco, which declined ¼ at 7½.

Dome registered the best advance in the mining section, closing $1.25 higher at $11.75. Noranda gained 50 cents at $16.50, Moss 2 cents at 27 cents, and Siscoe 1½ cents at 61 cents. Wright-Hargreaves lost 15 cents at $2.60.

Market Firm During the Day to Make Upward Push at Close

TRADE IS DOUBLE YESTERDAY'S MARK

Advance Made Along a Broad Front With Gains Up to 7 Points

NEW YORK, March 2 (By John L. Cooley, Associated Press financial writer)—Stocks rallied confidently today. In a turnover more than double yesterday's the market advanced along a broad front, closing with net gains of 1 to 7 points for leading issues. Strength was well distributed among all groups, but was less pronounced in oils, coppers and motors.

The market was firm at the opening, but the upward push was mostly reserved for the final hour when transactions approximately 700,000 shares, or roughly the equivalent of yesterday's total business. Total sales amounted to 1,768,463 shares, while the average rise of 2.9 points was the best since February 13.

American Telephone and U. S. Steel were strongly supported, closing with respective net gains of 6¼ and 3 points. Allied Chemical, American Tobacco "B," Gillette, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Coca Cola, Western Union and others made strong gains. Rail were up a couple of points.

Financial circles were looking for another reduction in the Bank of England's rate tomorrow.

VEGETABLES ARE UP IN PRICES

MEASURE WOULD AID FARMERS IN STRICKEN AREAS

Provide Fodder and Seed Grain; Will Be Speeded Through

WINNIPEG, March 2 (CP)—Manitoba farmers in need of feed for their livestock and of seed grain will be aided under a measure introduced in the provincial legislature today by Hon. Albert Prefontaine, minister of agriculture. It is intended to assist parts of the province stricken with total crop failure and will be speeded through all stages to become law at an early date.

The province will guarantee loans by banks to municipalities for the purchase of seed grain and fodder. Any possible loss on the loans will be shared on a three-way basis by the provincial, Dominion and municipal governments. The bill, however, contemplates repaying of advances by the farmers receiving relief.

So far, it was stated, the Dominion government has not agreed to give the aid asked but it has offered to lend the province funds necessary for seed grain and fodder relief.

TORONTO, March 3 (Thursday).—Toronto Mail and Empire today says: "With the announcement of the Canadian Press all-star hockey teams the Maple Leaf Hockey club is $3000 poorer. "Jackson, by being selected on the all-star team, gets $2000 bonus, while Conacher, by being picked on the alternate team, gets $1000."

Woodsworth Urge, Is Remodelling of Economic System

Advocates Socialistic State in Commons; Scores Capitalism

OTTAWA, March 2. (CP)—Remodelling of the present economic system on the general lines of a socialistic state was advocated in the house of commons today by J. S. Woodsworth, Labor, Winnipeg North Center. Indicting capitalism on a score of counts—notably its susceptibility to periods of depression and the concentration of wealth in the hands of a few people—the Laborite proposed the creation of a "cooperative commonwealth in which all the natural resources and the socially necessary machinery of production will be used in the interests of the people, and not for the benefit of the few."

Admitting this ideal could not be developed "in a day or a week, or even a year", Mr. Woodsworth pointed to it as a desirable goal for parliament to set. Legislation might be reviewed with this end in mind.

Capitalism, however, had a staunch champion in John R. MacNicol, Conservative, Toronto Northwest, who said: "There is nothing wrong fundamentally with the present system; it merely is dislocated." The world had experienced depressions in the past and surmounted them eventually.
