OTTAWA GOAL FOR RELIEF

Kidnappers Threats to Sell Babe Told by Lindbergh in Case Against Boat Builder

Prosecutor Hauck States Curtis Apearance Put Police Off Clue

FLEMINGTON, N. J., June 27.—Sweeping into action with swift stride against John Hughes Curtis, the prosecution in his trial for obstruction of justice put Col. Charles E. Lindbergh on the stand late today, after outlining a brief and surprising case against the Norfolk boat-builder.

Speaking in calm, even tones, the famous flyer told of the fantastic dealings Curtis said he had with a desperate kidnapping band, of midnight meetings, journeys to the waterfront, and threatening demands relayed by Curtis that the kidnappers might "sell the baby to the highest bidder" among gangsters.

Adjournment late this afternoon interrupted the account, to be resumed tomorrow morning.

"On the evening of March 1, my son was taken from the nursery of our home," Lindbergh said, during preliminary questioning.

NO BREAK IN VOICE

There was no break in his voice at mention of his son's name though he paused several times, as if in thought.

The Lindbergh recital seemed pointed toward statement of the case, that Curtis, instead of "imagining" all the dealings with supposed kidnapper intermediaries, was in actual "contact" with them.

Curtis even pointed out a kidnapper called "Dynamite" in Newark, N. J., the youthful prosecutor, Anthony M. Hauck Jr., declared, adding the state would prove "beyond reasonable doubt" that the boat-builder was in actual "contact" with the kidnappers.

The testimony proceeded to an obligato of objections from defence attorneys.

Judge Adam O. Robbins overruled most of the objections, but occasionally a question was withdrawn.

After consulting a small leather notebook, Colonel Lindbergh said he first met Curtis, with Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, and the Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, former Canadian rector, about the middle of March. The boat-builder told of being approached by a man who claimed he could effect the return of the baby.

"Mr. Curtis wanted to know what amount I would be willing to pay," the colonel said.

DEALING WITH KDNAPPERS

Lindbergh replied, he went on, he would not discuss ransom until he was satisfied the persons with whom he dealt had the baby.

Curtis later told him the kidnappers wanted $25,000 in a Norfolk bank as "earnest money."

Even after a futile $50,000 ransom was paid through another intermediary, Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon, Curtis insisted he was in touch with the real abductors, Lindbergh related.

Supporting this, Curtis told how he had been shown and had checked several of the bills paid by Dr. Condon in a Bronx cemetery, to a man known as "John."

The boat-builder also related, the witness said, the "John" of the gang, "its most dangerous criminal," had threatened to sell the baby to the highest bidder among gangsters.

WORKING ON CLUE

Prosecutor Hauck made the unexpected assertion in his opening statement that the police were working on an important clue "that would have led to apprehension of the kidnappers" when the trail was interrupted by Curtis' appearance in the case.

He did not describe the clue.

The jury was made up of seven men and five women.

The kidnap band described by Curtis, Colonel Lindbergh related, was in two parts, with "John" heading one and "Dyn" or "Dynamite" the other. There were also a man whose first name was "Murray", supposed to have first approached Curtis; two men named "Eric" and "Nils", Scandinavians; and a German nurse, "Gretchen", caring for the baby, who all the while lay dead not far from the Lindbergh home.

Verigin Application for Leave to Appeal Adjourned Till Tuesday

OTTAWA, June 27 (CP)—The supreme court of Canada today adjourned until tomorrow hearing of the application of Peter Verigin, Doukhobor leader, for leave to appeal against a conviction for perjury.

Sentenced by the supreme court of Saskatchewan to three years in Prince Albert penitentiary, the conviction was upheld by the appellate court of the province with the term reduced to 18 months.

William J. Green, Ottawa council, is acting for the province of Saskatchewan who initiated the prosecution. P. B. Markaroff, Saskatoon, is acting for Verigin.

MAISONNEUVE SEAT HELD BY LIBERALS

Joseph Jean K.C. Is Elected to House of Commons Over Fauteaux

MONTREAL, June 27 (CP)—Joseph Jean, K. C., today retained the constituency of Maisonneuve, on the Island of Montreal, for the Liberal interests. He was elected to the house of commons, to succeed the late Clement Robitaille, by a majority of approximately 1000 votes over Jean Fauteux, Conservative. Three other candidates received so few votes that they were not factors in the counting and all three lost their deposits.

While Mr. Fauteux was defeated he could point to a greatly reduced Liberal majority from that received by Mr. Robitaille in 1930. At that time the later member won by 5400 votes over Mrs. Desjardins, Conservative.

The final result available tonight showed that with five small polls to hear from, the vote was:

Joseph Jean, K. C., Liberal, 15,689.
Jean Fauteux, Conservative, 14,328.
Alex. Gauld, Socialist, 616.
Heliodore Binette, Labor, 566.
Deis Courcheane, Independent-Liberal, 265.

The number of voters exercising their franchise was approximately equal to those in 1930. Incomplete returns tonight showed 31,464 votes cast while the total vote in the last general election was 33,754.

COMPROMISE MAY BE REACHED ON U.S. RELIEF BILL

Indications Point Toward Compromise as Congress Speeds Measure

WASHINGTON, June 27—Indications of a compromise on the $2,300,000 unemployment relief bill came from the house of representatives and senate conferees today, as United States congress speeded action on the big governmental appropriation measures.

With all plans for congressional adjournament hanging on the outcome of their negotiations, representatives of the house and senate worked toward an agreement on the jobless aid measures passed by the two branches.

They reported no final decision had been reached but there was evidence of progress.

Speaker Garner threw precedent to the winds by appearing personally before the conferees to urge his bill which the house approved.

The relief conferees generally agreed the $300,000,000 fund provided in the senate bill for direct relief loans to states should be accepted.

One compromise proposal which received serious consideration was that $200,000,000 of this should be allocated on the basis of population, as in the senate bill, and $100,000,000 should be used in the discretion of the reconstruction corporation board where most needed.

One Man Slain and Several Wounded as Guns Blaze at Mine

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., June 27—Guns blazed at the Maidsville mine of the Kelley's Creek Colliery company late today, one man was slain and seven others wounded, one critically.

Dr. W. H. Howell, a surgeon, driving past in his car just as the disorder flared, notified authorities, called for ambulances and gave preliminary treatment to the wounded.

Armed guards were standing near the mouth of the mine while two workmen were shovelling sand from a truck nearby, Dr. Howell said.

A crowd was gathering. Dr. Howell said he did not hear what passed between the crowd and the guards, but that the latter suddenly opened fire.

Eight men staggered and fell.

PUBLISHER IS FOUND DEAD WITH GUN IN HIS HAND

ESPANOLA, Ont., June 27.—A gun in his own hand caused the death of Frank G. Hamilton, Fort Wayne, Ind., publisher, concluded Coroner F. D. Arthur after conducting a non-jury inquest here today into the case.

Hamilton's body was found Saturday in the dining room of his summer cottage on Lake Penage, near here. Alfred Brown, Hamilton's guide, found the body, with a gun held in the left hand and the thumb on the trigger.

GERMANY TELLS FRANCE SHE IS UNABLE TO PAY

French Delegation Stiffer in Attitude; Says Plan Inadmissable

GERMANY WILLING TO MAKE TREATY

Claims Cannot Pay, But Is Ready With Plans for European Recovery

LAUSANNE, June 27 (C P cable) (By George Hambleton, C P staff writer)—The scene at Lausanne shifted again with a darkening sky as it appeared late tonight the French delegation was stiffening in its attitude toward the Germans. The latter had notified France today they could not pay reparations.

After three hours' consultation, the two groups suspended their conversations until Wednesday. Premier Edouard Herriot of France and Chancellor Franz von Papen of Germany interviewed in turn Premier Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain who subsequently remained in conference with his cabinet colleagues until midnight.

When Count Lutz von Krosick, German finance minister, outlined today the development scheme which Germany offers as a substitute for the eventual resumption of reparations payments desired by France, Premier Herriot received the proposal with reservations which he judged necessary. Afterward at an interview with newspapermen from France, he is understood to have declared that the German scheme was inadmissable and that he could not consent to the cancellation of reparations without adequate compensation.

WILLING TO NEGOTIATE TREATY

Germany's willingness to negotiate a trade treaty with France is understood to have been indicated by Count von Krosick today in addition to the following four points of his scheme in substitution for reparations:

1. German participation in the reconstruction of European countries.

2. Participation in a common fund for the benefit of endangered currencies.

3. Participation in a world solution of monetary and economic problems.

4. Germany's decision to work with France for all needs wherever possible.

Commenting on his country's offer, the German chancellor said, Germany bases her case on two points: First, the negative one that she cannot pay; second, the positive one that she is ready to present concrete plans for European recovery."

Grocery Boy Tells of Announcement of Hutton's Marriage

Hutton Stated She Was Going to Cook for Him, Testifies Boy

LOS ANGELES, June 27.—An announcement in a grocery store to the grocer, butcher and grocery boy of the prospective marriage of Myrtle St. Pierre and David Hutton was described by the boy today in the trial of Miss St. Pierre's $200,000 breach of promise suit.

The witness, Sidney Solomon, said Miss St. Pierre entered the store with Hutton one day and made some purchases.

"Then she told us," the boy said, "that Mr. Hutton was her future hubby. Mr. Hutton put his arm around her and smiled. The grocer said he was sure a lucky man to get such a nice girl to cook for him. Mr. Hutton said, 'Yes, she's always going to cook my meals from now on.'"

Occupying the witness stand the greater part of last week, Miss St. Pierre, a Pasadena nurse, declared Hutton betrayed her under promise of marriage and then jilted her to marry Aimee Semple McPherson, the evangelist.

HYSTERICAL AND NERVOUS

Miss St. Pierre's sister, Mrs. Mildred McCafferty, testified the nurse was in excellent health until Hutton "threw her over", and since then has been unable to sleep and eat regularly, and has been hysterical and nervous.

The second week of the trial opened in a storm of protest as Miss St. Pierre's counsel accused Hutton's attorneys of "stealing" three witnesses after they had been subpoenaed to testify for the nurse. The witnesses were Virginia Stevens, Edgar Ebens and Lloyd Curry, all friends of Miss St. Pierre.

Mark Jones, Hutton's attorney, began with a reference to whether the nurse knew Arthur Graves, and asked if Graves stayed at her apartment a week ago last Sunday night. Miss St. Pierre denied it, saying Graves left at 11:30 p. m.

Municipalities Will Ask School Trustees Body to Confer on Joint Authority

With Minister of Education as Chairman, Idea Will Be to Recommend Changes to Legislature in Regard to Finance Problem

IF NO AGREEMENT IS REACHED EXECUTIVE INSTRUCTED TO SEEK ONE ELECTED BODY

Report From Special Committee Deprecates Making Use of Personal Tax Levy for Schools Under Present Tax Status; Vote Unanimous

On the recommendation of a special committee of six, headed by Comptroller A. J. Pilkington of Vancouver, named in the forenoon to confer with Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, minister of education, on the question of school costs and school financial administration, the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, after discussing the report at both the afternoon and evening sessions Monday, adopted its recommendation to appoint a committee to confer with the School Trustees association, as advised by the minister.

Should the conference fail of a satisfactory understanding with the school board representatives, the resolution directs the executive to press for realization of a resolution *passed at both the 1931 and 1932 conventions, which asks leg*islation bring all municipal government under one elected body in each municipality if approved by local referendums.

As explained to the convention, school boards, library boards, parks boards, police commissions, and any other elected bodies, would be merged with the councils, under such legislation.

Under the present division of authority, the resolution deprecated bringing the new personal tax for school purposes into effect.

ECONOMY THE OBJECT

In the lengthy debate, most of the delegates taking part stated the object of any changes in authority to be sought would be economy and efficiency. While a few delegates were critical of school boards, many others emphasized that in their municipalities the boards were markedly efficient and relations were uniformly agreeable, and it was suggested that with the best men from both councils and boards cooperating, there would be a high standard of municipal efficiency.

In introducing the report, Chairman Pilkington pointed out that Hon. Mr. Hinchliffe had recalled that at the last session of the house it was suggested that the two bodies get together to arrive at recommendations as to authority, and that he had also stated, in his address, that if they could not agree, the government would frame legislation of its own to deal with the situation.

Alderman John Bennett of Vancouver in the afternoon said he could not vote for the report, as

Beaten Wife Is Charged With Murdering Husband

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—Mrs. Frances Power, 45, was booked by police here today on a charge of murdering her husband, Nick Power, 48, wholesale grocery employee, who was found stabbed to death in their home last night.

Mrs. Power, bruised and cut, was picked up from the lawn outside the home in a semi-conscious condition. Police declare the evidence indicated she stabbed her husband after he had beaten her.

"BIGGEST LEDGE OF GOLD IN WORLD" IS FOUND IN ALASKA

Ledge Exposed for Width of 1800 Feet, Depth of 1500 Feet

CORDOVA, Alaska, June 27—All Cordova was stirred today by reports of Fred Johanson and E. E. Smith, of Cordova, that they have discovered "the biggest ledge of gold in the world." They have staked 22 claims near Mile 41 of the Copper River railway where the recent breaking of a huge Glacier lake washed away the entire side of a mountain.

They are backed by Emil Helekal, Cordova business man. Experienced mining men here said if present indications hold out it will be the biggest gold mine in the world.

The discoverers said the ledge is only two and one-half miles from the railroad tracks and is exposed for a width of about 1800 feet and a depth of 1500 feet. They could not estimate how deep it extends underground.

They said they already have traced it a mile and a half back and have "three hundred million tons of ore in sight with assays running $3 a ton."

As at many of the world's largest mining sites, the ore is of low grade content but the Cordova men reported it was "free milling" ore. They said it was telluride and sylvanite.

LOGGER IS CRUSHED TO DEATH

ELLENSBURG, Wash., June 27.—Albert Hansleman, a logger, about 45, a Kittitas valley resident for many years, was killed by logs rolling off a truck in the Taneum district today. He was crushed to death.

FINANCE MINISTER JONES WIRES HE WILL MEET COMMITTEE FROM THE UNION OF B.C. MUNICIPALITIES

That he would be pleased to meet a committee from the Union of British Columbia Municipalities this week, was the answer of Hon. J. W. Jones, finance minister, to the wire sent him Saturday night, asking him to delay action on the question of closing the relief camps and replacing them with soup kitchens in the towns, until the union's representatives could meet the cabinet committee.

The minister's wire, communicated to the convention at Monday morning read:

"Your telegram 25th: Financial situation must be regarded. Relief costs must be immediately reduced. Will expect closest cooperation by municipalities. Unless taken on hand now, impossible situation this winter. Our policy must be to prepare for that period. Cannot commit government beyond available means. Munipicipalities should use every available endeavor to cooperate with industrial and agricultural interests to find work for balance of year. Will be pleased to meet your committee this week."

Mayor E. H. Bridgman of North Vancouver suggested that the minister's answer was noncommittal on the main point, and asked if Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, minister of education, could add anything.

HINCHLIFFE REASSURES

Hon. Mr. Hinchliffe stated the government would be glad to meet the union's committee, both for general reasons, and because it realized that the municipalities were as interested in the matter as it was, and were up against the same kind of position. He said he could promise that before any general policy was adopted the government would meet the committee, an additional reason being that, while the government had received a wire from Ottawa giving the general outlines of what the Dominion was prepared to do, it had not yet received the actual proposed agreement giving details, and it would like the representatives of the municipalities to sit in on the examination of these details when they were available, so it would be known if they were such as the municipalities could cooperate in. His parting advice was that the committee should be sent as soon as it could possibly be done.

RESOLUTIONS TAKEN UP

The convention reached consideration of resolutions from the different municipalities at the forenoon session, and dealt with a large number of them in the course of the day. All that bore on unemployment was referred to the special committee on that subject, headed by Mayor David Leeming of Victoria, and numerous others that were of a legal nature were accepted in principle and referred to the solicitor for drafting.

Several that were referred back for further consideration will come up again today for final action.

ROOSEVELT IS STILL SHORT OF HIS MAJORITY

Calls Off His Forces Seeking to Abrogate Two Third Rule

FIRST REAL TEST EXPECTED TUESDAY

Ring of Approbation Greets Speech for Repeal

CHICAGO, June 27 (By Ken Clark, C P staff writer)—A demonstration against prohibition involving a fist fight and the upsetting of some lady delegates and the announcement by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, candidate for the United States presidential nomination, he would call off his forces seeking to abrogate the two-third nomination rule, were features of the Democratic national convention getting under way today all smiles and determination to defeat President Herbert Hoover.

When Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, a life long dry, put it to the convention assembly in the flag-draped stadium, congress should repeal the 18th amendment, the delegates rose with ringing palms and a shout of approbation.

In Oklahoma, Alfalfa Bill Murray's state, in Nebraska, Kansas and Texas was seen some reluctance to join the demonstrations, other state standards wobbled, then moved slowly yet with vigor into a general parade around the hall.

Kepnoting the convention Barkley let loose the vials of his wrath upon the Republicans for permitting the business boom preceding the depression, for high tariffs and a lot of other things. Democrats proposed to reduce the indefensible tariff rates of the Hawley-Smoot act, he said, which was all right except that Barkley himself has voted for some fairly high tariffs.

LITTLE WORRIED

While all this was going forward at the stadium the cohorts of Roosevelt downtown were getting a little worried about nominating the New York governor. They discovered they were about 48 votes short of a majority to get through abrogation of the two-birds regulation and in consequence in the interests of party harmony, the governor informed them by wire from Albany not to press the matter.

Democrats here assembled are not by any means the lock-step performers of the Republican convention. The majority of them want Roosevelt for candidate but they will not stand for any orders from his general staff to change the rules. Because of the now obviously absurd strategy of James A. Farley, Roosevelt's campaign manager, in announcing the two-thirds rule would be abolished and the consequent uprising among the free and independent delegates, the candidacy of the governor tonight is less of a certainty.

The first real test on Roosevelt strength is expected tomorrow when his forces will attempt to substitute for Jouett House as permanent chairman of the convention, Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, a Roosevelt man.

SQUIRES PREPARES TO GIVE ALDERDICE GOVERNMENT REINS

May Become Prime Minister Tuesday; Cabinet Yet to Be Announced

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., June 27 (CP).—His Liberal government overwhelmingly defeated in the general elections of June 11, Prime Minister Sir Richard Squires tonight was preparing to hand over the reins of power to F. C. Alderdice, leader of the victorious United Newfoundland party.

No official announcement was made following a meeting of the executive council, but it was understood that Mr. Alderdice would become prime minister tomorrow.

While the personnel of the cabinet will not be announced until the four-year-old Squires government retires, it was rumored tonight that Mr. Alderdice would take the portfolio of finance. J. C. Puddister, proprietor of the St. John's Daily News, is mentioned as secretary of state, L. E. Emerson, K.C., as minister of justice; J. Stone as minister of fisheries; H. Quinton as minister of public works; W. J. Walsh as minister of agriculture; Capt. William Windsor as minister of posts and telegraphs; and K. Brown as minister of labor.

"JIMMY" GARDINER TO CONTEST MELVILLE

MELVILL, Sask., June 27.—James G. Gardiner, ex-premier of Saskatchewan and present leader of the Liberal opposition, was today nominated to contest the Melville constituency at the next provincial elections.

MUNICIPALITIES SLEEP ON RELIEF RESOLUTION OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

COMMITTEE SETS FORTH FACTS; MAKES EIGHT RECOMMENDATIONS

Some Municipalities at End of Resources; Provincial Financing Suggested; Back Province in Approaching Ottawa

POINTS OF DRAFT RESOLUTION

Relief soley a federal obligation.

Ask Ottawa to take over unmarried and transients at least.

Condemn direct relief and ask works.

Urge retention of camps for single men.

Province ask aid from Bennett's "blank check."

Ask province to state policy on destitute.

Province loan relief money to municipalities shut down on by banks.

Province take over direct relief in municipalities that are "broke."

Eyes of the Union of British Columbia municipalities turned to Ottawa Monday night when, after working on the problem of unemployment since Saturday, a special committee of the resolutions committee finally reported a resolution containing 13 statements of fact and embracing eight recommendations.

Many hours discussion, at a night session following the civic banquet to the delegates, failed to bring the delegates to one mind, though there was a great body of opinion in favor of the resolution without change, and finally after 11 o'clock, President W. A. Pritchard dismissed the delegates to get a night's rest and to be in a position to attack their duties with fresh minds in the morning.

HARROWING CONDITIONS

Harrowing stories were told of conditions in some of the municipalities, such as Port Alberni, where Clerk Bradley said no direct relief had been supplied since May, as the bank's would not honor the municipalities checks and no money could be raised, crying women calling on him at the municipal offices before he left for Nelson.

Other delegates told of their municipalities being broke.

All the scores of delegates who debated the committee's report agreed in demand for action by Ottawa, and opinion was absolutely unanimous on that score, and there was criticism of the provincial government by various delegates because it had not, so far as known, demanded to come under Premier Bennett's "blank check" act, which gives the Dominion government unlimited spending power on the object of unemployment relief.

The chief difference of opinion was between the large body of delegates that were avowedly behind the resolution of the special

YACHT LEADER LEAVES RACE TO GIVE HELP

English Schooner Drops Out of Race to Aid Crew Fighting Flames

NEW YORK, June 27—A gripping tale of bravery and traditional British sportmanship was revealed today when James H. Ottley, Locust Valley yachtsman, described how the English schooner Jolie Brise, a favorite to capture the Montauk to Bermuda race, dropped out to rescue the crew of Ottley's Adriana, which exploded last night with the loss of one life.

The Adriana had started with 26 other craft Saturday for the annual race to Bermuda, but encountered difficulties only a few miles from Montauk. The crew composed of Ottley and his brother Herbert, Henry Stehli of Lucust Valley, Thomas Cutter of Glen Cove, Clarence Cosley of East Orange, N. J., and five professional sailors, was unable to cope with flames which broke out when the cabin stove became overheated yesterday afternoon.

FLAMES SPREAD

As dusk fell, Ottley said, the flames spread. Soon an explosion shook the schooner, throwing Cosley overboard.

Then it was that the Jolie Brise, attracted by the glow against the sky, abandoned a favorable position and went to the stricken craft's aid, standing by throughout the night until it was able to take off the survivors and land them at Montauk.

The Jolie Brise is owned by Robert Somerset of London, and had crossed the Atlantic about a month ago expressly to compete in the race.

The survivors of the Adriana have returned to their homes none the worse for their harrowing experience. Cosley's body had not been recovered today.

Aimee and Picture Director Held for Payment by Writer

LOS ANGELES, June 27—A superior court judgment late today held Aimee McPherson Hutton, evangelist, and J Roy Stewart, motion picture director, jointly liable for the payment of $10,000 to Harvey H. Gates, scenario writer.

Judge Arthur Crum, connecting on Gate's assertion that he was employed by Mr. Hutton and the director in 1929 to write a script based on the evangelist's life and that he had not been paid, held the proposed film production was a "joint venture" of she and Stewart.

Mrs. Hutton, ill in a sanitarium at Palms, was unable to testify personally. The picture was never made.

Burnaby Unemployed State Are Victims of Municipal Politics

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., June 27.—A delegation representing 300 to 400 unemployed who marched here today from Burnaby, interviewed A. P. Grant, government agent, this afternoon, and charged that the unemployed in Burnaby had been made the victims of municipal politics, and that there had been a complete breakdown in the relief system of that municipality. The delegation which met Mr. Grant was composed of L. C. Mabbott, L. G. Parnell and J. Krimmer.

The parade of unemployed reached the provincial courthouse about 2:30 p. m., and while their spokesman interviewed the government agent they waited on the Library square. They were orderly, and after the interview returned on foot to Burnaby.

CHENEY, Wash., June 27.—George Lewis, 19, of Cheney, was killed outright, and Cecil Helmer, 23, of Plaza, was fatally injured when their automobile was crushed by a Spokane, Portland and Seattle railroad train near the South Cheney station tonight.

THREE MEN DROWN WHEN FAST MOTOR BOAT OVERTURNS

TORONTO, June 27 (CP)—Three Toronto men were drowned late tonight when their speeding motor boat overturned. The body of Stanley McCaffrey, 35, was recovered shortly after cries for help gave first intimation of the accident.

The other two, both believed drowned, whose bodies are still sought are Hector Belanger, 25, and Sonny McGraw.

Belanger, a well-known jockey, took the boat out into Ashbridge's bay in the east end and picked up the other pair. Lifeguards overheard cries for help from the darkness over the water, and their prompt search resulted in recovery of McCaffrey's body. They also found the overturned boat, which was equipped with an outboard motor.

COMICAL CAPERS PLANNED JULY 1

Hunt for Costumes Is on; Kiddies Asked to Bring Chain With the Dog

Old costumes are being repaired and attics turned upside down in the search for material for the comic parade, a feature of the big July 1 program. The Bugle band each year starts off the day appearing in comic dress for the morning parade of kiddies, and this year more and funnier things are planned.

The pet section will be a feature of the morning parade, and as in past years many competitors will be on hand with their favorite animals. Children owning dogs should see that they are on a leash or chain, for it is a well known fact that the feeling between dogs and cats is very bitter indeed. The novelty races, such as the sack race, three-legged race, walking race, potato race and egg-and-spoon race, will be held in the afternoon, and many entries are already in. Keen competition is expected in the relay races between the public schools of the city.

3500 Employees of Mexican Railroad Go Out on Strike

MEXICO CITY, June 27 (CP)—Southern Pacific railroad in Mexico was completely tied up this afternoon when 3500 employees went on strike after negotiations for a settlement had failed.

A spokesman for the road here said the walkout was caused by the union's attempt to prevent the Southern Pacific from putting through a 10 per cent wage cut.

The entire 1300 mile road was shut down completely. No disorders were reported.

BODY OF VICTORIA MAN IS BELIEVED FOUND AT KENORA

KENORA, Ont., June 27—The body of a man believed to be T. Burns of Victoria road, Vancouver, was found in the Winnipeg river here today. On June 4, children in a launch were frightened by a man who jumped on their boat, but when police were summoned no trace of the man could be found. A punt was upside down in the water close by, and it is now believed the body found today was that of the man involved in the boat incident.

MANY PLACES IN N. S. NAMED FOR EARLY GOVERNORS

Towns, Villages, Rivers, Lakes Derived Names From English, French

HALIFAX, N. S., June 27 (CP).—Place names in Nova Scotia, of towns and villages, rivers and lakes, recall the early governors who played an important part in the settlement of the province. The French settlements do not seem to have derived many names from their governors—apparently only two—but the English governors were responsible for many more. Since confederation, an occasional name has been bestowed in honor of a governor-general. The following references were condensed from an article in the Journal of Education, official publication of the Nova Scotia department of education:

Ainslie: Lake in Inverness county, named in honor of General Ainslie, last lieutenant-governor of Cape Breton Island as a separate province. He held office from 1816 to 1820, when Cape Breton was reunited with Nova Scotia. The French name of the lake was Marguerite, which survives as Margaree, the name of the river flowing out of it. The township of Ainslee, in the northwest of the island, was formed in 1828, taking its name from the lake.

Carleton: Village in Yarmouth county, named in honor of Sir Guy Carleton, later Lord Dorchester, who was governor-general of Canada, 1786 to 1778 and again from 1786 to 1796. The town and county of Guysboro, together with the township of Dorchester in Antigonish county, also were named after Lord Dorchester.

Cornwallis: Township and river in Kings county. The township was so named by Governor Lawrence in 1759 in honor of Hon. Edward Cornwallis, founder of Halifax and governor of Nova Scotia 1749 to 1752.

Dalhousie: (1) Settlements in Annapolis, Kings and Lunenburg counties; (2) Mount Dalhousie in Pictou county; (3) Dalhousie road from Annapolis to Halifax. In each place the name is given in honor of George Ramsay, ninth Earl of Dalhousie in the Scottish peerage, who was governor of Nova Scotia, 1816 to 1820. During his term of office he founded Dalhousie college from funds collected during the occupation of Castine in Maine in the war of 1812 and placed at his disposal by the British government. In 1819 he was made governor-general of Canada, and had that office until 1828.

Earltown: Village of Colchester county, also is named after the Earl of Dalhousie, who was governor when it was first surveyed.

Port Dufferin: Settlement in Halifax county named after the Marquess of Dufferin and Ava, governor-general of Canada, 1872 to 1878.

Falkland: (1) Settlement in Annapolis county named after Lucius Bentinck, Viscount Falkland, was lieutenant-governor of Nova Scotia from 1840 to 1846. (2) A post settlement in Halifax county, near York Redoubt. Its name honors Lady Falkland, who laid the corner-stone of th Anglican church erected there in 1845.

Hammond's Plains: District outside Halifax, named in honor of Sir Andrew Snape Hammond, commissioner of the navy yard at Halifax and lieutenant-governor of Nova Scotia, 1781 to 1882, under governor Legge, who continued to hold his office as a sinecure for some years after his return to England.

Karsdale: Settlement in Annapolis county, named in honor of Sir Fenwick Williams of Kars, lieutenant-governor of Nova Scotia 1865 to 1870, a native of Annapolis Royal and one of the most distinguished sons of the province.

Kempt: (1) Settlement in Queens county; (2) Kempt Shore in Hants; (3) Kemptown in Colchester; (4) Kemptville in Yarmouth; (5) Kempt Head in Victoria; (6) Kempt road in Richmond. All these places are named in honor of Sir James Kempt, governor of Nova Scotia, 1820 to 1828. After he left Nova Scotia he administered the government of Canada from 1828 to 1830.

Landsdowne: (1) Settlement and railway station in Pictou county; (2) Settlement in Digby county. Both are named in honor of the fifth Marquess of Lansdowne, governor-general of Canada from 1883 to 1888. He was a great-grandson of Lord Shelburne, after whom Shelburne county is named.

LaTour, Port; Village in Shelburne county, named after Charles Amador de St. Etienne, Sieur de la Tour, who came to Acadia in 1610 with his father, Claude de la Tour. He was appointed one of de Razilly's lieutenants and almost immediately began his long quarrel with Charnisay, another lieutenant. Before this time, he had built a fort on the site of the present Port la Tour and named it Fort Louis in honor of the king of France. After Charnisay's death, la Tour became the French governor of Acadia. He died in 1666.

Lawrencetown: (1) Village in Annapolis county and (2) township and settlement in Halifax county; (3) Fort Lawrence in Cumberland. These are named after Governor Charles Lawrence, who played a prominent part in the English settlement of the province.

Lorne: (1) Settlement and railway station in Pictou county; (2) Lorneville in Cumberland; (3) Port Lorne in Annapolis; (4) Lornevale in Colchester. All are named in honor of the Marquess of Lorne (later ninth Duke of Argyll) who was governor-general of Canada from 1878 to 1883. He was married to Princess Louise, daughter of Queen Victoria, and both of them were interested in the promotion of art and letters in the Dominion. The marquess of Lorne founded the Royal Society of Canada in 1881.

Maitland: Settlement in Annapolis county, originally Kempton's Settlement from a family of that name. (2) Village in Hants; township in Richmond; (4) Port Maitland a village in Yarmouth. These places are named after Sir Peregrine Maitland, governor of Nova Scotia from 1828 to 1832.

Mulgrave: Town in Guysboro county on the Strait of Canso, named after the Earl of Mulgrave, lieutenant-governor of Nova Scotia from 1858 to 1864.

New Aberdeen: Mining town in Cape Breton county, named in honor of the Earl (later Marquess) of Aberdeen, governor-general of Canada from 1893 to 1898. Lord Aberdeen, who is still living, was born in 1847. He is a Knight Baronet of Nova Scotia.

New Ross: Village in Lunenburg county, originally called Cherbrooke. To avoid confusion of the name with Sherbrooke in Guysboro county, the Lunenburg settlement adopted the name of New Ross in honor of Lord Mulgrave, then governor of the province, whose title in the peerage included the name of New Ross.

Parrsboro: Township and town in Cumberland county, named after Lieutenant-Colonel John Parr, governor of Nova Scotia from 1782 to 1786, and who after New Brunswick was set off as a separate province, remained as lieutenant-governor until his death in 1791.

Sherbrooke: (1) Village in Guysboro and (2) lake and river in Lunenburg, named after Sir John Coape Sherbrooke, who was lieutenant-governor of Nova Scotia from 1811 to 1816. In 1816 he was transferred to Quebec as governor-general of Canada, but retired in 1818 on account of ill health.

Stanley: Railway station and settlement in Halifax, named in honor of Lord Stanley of Preston, later Earl of Derby, who was governor-general of Canada from 1888 to 1893. He was born in 1841, the son of the 14th Earl of Derby, who was thrice prime minister of Great Britain.

Wentworth: (1) Valley, railway station and various settlements in Cumberland county; (2) Wentworth creek near Windsor, Hants county; (3) Lake Wentworth in Digby; (4) Wentworth Grant in Pictou—named in honor of Sir John Wentworth, lieutenant-governor of Nova Scotia from 1792 to 1808. He died in 1820 and was buried in St. Paul's church, Halifax.

Wilmot: Township and village in Annapolis county, named in honor of Montague Wilmot, governor of Nova Scotia from 1764 to 1766. Colonel Wilmot was made lieutenant-governor in 1763 and a few months later succeeded Henry Ellis as governor, holding the office until his death in 1766.

For the Prince

A ceremony which took place on board the S.S. Loch Goil, when several seedling fir trees were entrusted to the care of Capt. Arthur, master of the vessel, to be delivered to His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, as a gift from the British Columbia Junior Forest Wardens.

Behind Col. T. A. Hiam, who is president of the B. C. branch of the Canadian Forestry association, is Charles Wilkinson, manager. To the right of the box is Captain Cox, with several other officials who attended the ceremony.

JUNIOR FIRE WARDENS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA CONTINUE EXCELLENT WORK

British Columbia can well be proud of its junior forest wardens, declares Charles Wilkinson, manager of the Canadian Forestry association. So far this year the province has had very few forest fires, but the British Columbia branch of the Canadian Forestry association has already received numerous letters from different parts of British Columbia, giving instances where the junior forest wardens have helped to extinguish small fires which could have become large and caused much damage.

These boys are on their toes, not only are they reporting and putting out fires but they are spreading the message of forest fire prevention by warning the people in their district to be careful with campfires, cigars, cigarettes, etc., while in the woods.

Each junior forest warden has received a letter requesting him to obtain permission from his school principal to give a short talk on forest fire prevention to his fellow schoolmates before school closes for the summer vacation, and to ask them to give him their whole-hearted support in his efforts to keep his district free from forest fires.

Aside from the junior forest wardens, the Canadian Forestry association is conducting an educational campaign through the medium of its lecture party, which is in charge of E. V. Ablett. Mr. Ablett, who is at present in the Arrow Lakes district, will visit all the outlying communities in the interior of British Columbia and has reported that to date, the attendance at his meetings has surpassed all previous records. It is interesting to note the eagerness with which the junior forest wardens await the visit of the lecturer, on which occasion they are called upon to give a short address before the showing of the educational films. Mr. Ablett will be around Nelson July 1.

committee as the sane approach to the question, and those who held that appeals to the provincial government were a waste of time unless accompanied by striking and drastic action of some sort.

BURNABY SHUTS OFF RELIEF

Councillor George Gray of Burnaby stated that Burnaby had announced that it would give no direct relief whatever after June 1, whatever the consequences, and he practically advocated united action by the union on those lines, as the one thing that would force the provincial government to act. His view was endorsed by half a dozen delegates, including Councillor Douglas of Coquitlam.

Urged by some delegates to put his proposals in the form of a motion, Councillor Gray moved an amendment proposing that "we immediately notify the provincial and Dominion governments that we will no longer finance direct relief, and ask them to take over."

Alderman John Bennett of Vancouver expressed the hope that the Burnaby councillor would not press his amendment, and stated that Vancouver was feeding 30,000 people, whom it could not possibly abandon.

GET BEHIND PROVINCE URGED

That the important thing to do was for the union to get behind the provincial government and cooperate with it fully through the proposed special committee, with a view to presenting a united front at Ottawa and getting action, was asserted by Alderman G. Miller of Vancouver.

This idea was furthered by several other delegates.

The only Kootenay delegate to take the floor was Alderman E. L. Groutage of Trail, who said that Trail was giving direct relief to around 170 families, and could not even get replies from the provincial government to its representations.

PRITCHARD WANTS ONE FRONT

When 11 o'clock arrived President Pritchard shut off the debate and sent the question over to the morning. He said while as presiding officer he was not supposed to express opinions, he felt the convention had a resolution before it which covered the situation. Delegates must keep their feet on the ground and their heads straight up. He said that the convention must be absolutely united in whatever action it took, and then it would get results. If there was a division, they would leave the convention as single municipalities so far as their influence was concerned.

Alderman John Bennett declared that the delegates must stay with the question "if it took a week," a sentiment that provoked assent from all parts of the hall.

The committee's report, which will still be before the convention for adoption when it reassembles this morning, was as follows—

"Your committee on unemployment present the following facts for the consideration of the convention:

"That the number of unemployed is steadily increasing.

"That clothing, boots and shoes are becoming necessary.

"That owners of property now housing the unemployed, owing to continued non-payment of rent are being forced to take eviction proceedings, thereby placing the responsibility of providing shelter upon the municipalities.

"That electric light is being cut off owing to non-payment.

"That the many organizations working to relieve distress have exhausted the supply of second-hand clothing, shoes, etc., that have been available up to the present.

"That many municipalities have been carrying on direct relief through credit given them by local storekeepers, but said storekeepers now find it impossible to continue giving this credit.

RELIEF EXCEEDING BUDGETS

"That nearly all municipalities find they are exceeding their budgets for direct relief.

"That the banks will no longer extend the usual credits to some municipalities.

"That we are convinced that throughout the province municipal tax rates have reached their limit, and in fact in most cases are heavier than the tax payer can bear.

"That an ever increasing proportion of lands are reverting to the municipalities.

"That the inevitable result of reducing to any considerable extent the amount of relief now being granted the unemployed, will result in great hardships, and consequent unrest leading to riot and possible loss of life and destruction to property.

"That up to this present the municipalities have been able to a very considerable extent to keep the unfortunate unemployed from resorting to extreme measures, and to keep the political unrest from spreading.

"That it is more humane and more economical to keep law and order by reasonable treatment of the unemployed than to allow matters to get out of control and have to pay heavily to repair damage to to prevent the drift of political property, and more important still, thought to the red element that becomes very active immediately the authorities reduce the relief allowances.

"Therefore be it resolved that this Union of British Columbia Municipalities press upon the provincial government the following:

RECOMMENDATIONS

"1. That we reaffirm our strong opinion that the whole matter of unemployment is a federal obligation, and the cost of same should fall on the federal government and not on the provinces or municipalities.

"2. That provided the federal government refuses to take over the cost of unemployment relief as a whole, said government should be urged, as a minimum measure, to take over the whole cost of providing for the single men and women and transients, in addition to their present contributions, thus relieving the provincial government of this expense.

"3. That we reaffirm our strong disapproval of the system of direct relief and again urge that work of a constructive nature be undertaken and paid for in cash.

"4. That we urge that camps for single men be maintained open, as at present, thus keeping the men out of the towns.

"5. That the provincial government seek financial aid for carrying out its obligations under the provisions of bill No. 72 from the federal government.

"6. That a clear-cut policy of what provision shall be made for the destitute be laid down by the government in conference with representatives of this union.

"7. That where municipalities cannot make financial arrangements for getting the equivalent in work in return for relief granted, the government arrange the necessary credits."

"8. That where a municipality is financially unable to continue direct relief, the provincial government take control and handle this particular portion of municipal government."

MORE ABOUT MUNICIPALITIES

Vancouver, with practically half the population of the province, had a highly efficient school board and so far as he knew did not want a merger, but in the evening when it was explained that in the event of merger legislation being asked, local referendums were contemplated, he withdrew his opposition.

The report, which finally was adopted with a thunderous "Aye," was as follows:

"Your special committee appointed to consider the address of Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, minister of education, and to bring forward suggestions to the convention arising therefrom for discussion, beg to report as follows:

"The discussion with the minister covered three special points—The relations of councils and school boards; 2. the financing of education, with particular reference to the School act of 1932; 3, suggestions for reducing of the costs of education.

TO PROPOSE CONFERENCE

"1. On the first point (relations of councils and school boards), the minister stated that the government would be reluctant to take action on the representations of one body only, and suggested that a conference should be held between a committee from the Union and a committee from the School Trustees' association, at which the minister agreed to be present, when the committees should endeavor to agree on recommendations to the government. Failing any agreement or understanding being reached as a result of such a conference, the minister stated that the government would be prepared to proceed to deal with the matter itself.

Your committee recommend that a special committee be appointed by this convention for the purpose of a conference with the School Trustees' association, as above outlined.

IN EVENT OF FAILURE

"Your committee further recommend that in the event of no satisfactory understanding being reached as a result of such conference, the resolution passed at the conventions of 1930 and 1931 to the effect that there be one elected body to carry out the functions of municipal government, provided that merger be optional and not brought into effect until approved by local referendum, shall be acted upon forthwith by the executive in conjunction with the special committee to be appointed, as above.

"2. With reference to the school legislation passed at the recent session, giving to the councils the powers to levy certain personal taxes for school purposes, your committee are of the opinion that the collection of such taxes is not practical; that the costs of collection would be excessive; that the powers of exemption and differentiation are too wide and would tend to discrimination; and that the burden of collection of personal taxes as set out in the act should not be placed upon councils so long as the present status exists.

"3. With regard to the future financing of education, and suggestions for reduction of the cost of education, your committee are of the opinion that this phase of the question should be referred to the special committee recommended above."

VETERAN DIED DAY PENSION RECEIVED

CHURCH JOINT, N. S. June 27—After waiting years for a pension from the federal government, Charles F. Deveau, a crippled veteran of the great war, died the day he received word that his application had been successful.

He enlisted in 1915 and returned to his home near here in 1919, broken in health as a result of an accident while on duty in France. The accident occurred a few days before his unit left France and he thought if he reported to the medical officer his return home should be delayed. His hopes for recovery were shattered soon after his homecoming, when he became a cripple.

Applications for a pension failed because there was no record of his mishap. Two years ago application on his behalf was made by the Digby branch of the Canadian legion but was refused although the man then was confined to bed. Friends continued to appeal for him, however, and on May 23, a few hours before his death, a letter from the war veterans' allowance committee advised him that he was to receive a pension of $40 per month, dating from April 1, 1932.

SCRAPPERS GET "OUTCAST SUB"

M3 Is Last of Ill-Fated Type; Two Sank, Another Not .... Completed

An outcast, the M-3, last of the ill-fated type of submarines, is tied up in disgrace at Portsmouth, waiting to be sold to the scrappers. Her two sister-ships, M-1 and M-2 went down.

Such is the end of the tragic submarines, ordered by the late Lord Fisher for operations in the Baltic with the Russian fleet against the German vessels. They were mounted with an old-style 12-inch gun and their draught was made shallow for the Baltic.

Originally the four submarines were designed with a high speed to operate with the British Grand fleet, but they were revised before they were completed, and their surface speed cut from 24 to 15½ knots and their torpedo armament decreased.

None of the submarines was completed before the armistice, but M-1 went to Turkey during the post-war troubles there. She looked very impressive but had frequent machinery trouble and blew the muzzle of her 12-inch gun three times during practice.

Her end came in November, 1925, while exercising with the Portsmouth Flotilla off Start Point. She dived and did not reappear. She had a crew of 68. It was believed that a Swedish vessel rammed her while partly submerged.

The fate of the M-2 in January, 1932, was similar. She dived in exercises off Portland Bill and carried all the crew to their graves.

Britain Undecided Yet on Hoover Plan for Armament Cut

LONDON, June 27 (C P cable)—Great Britain is not ready for some time to make an absolute decision on President Herbert Hoover's sweeping proposal for a one-third cut in the armaments of the world.

The cabinet discussed the proposal today without reaching any decision, and later Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, pointed out the dominions would necessarily have to be consulted before any decision was formulated.

SCOTTISH VISITORS WILL CAMP IN N. S.

Thirty Scottish visitors, expected to arrive at Halifax on July 29, will camp in Nova Scotia during August, according to J. B. Barret, secretary of the Wolfville branch of the Overseas league. They will be housed under canvas at Nine Mile lake, Lunenburg county, and the federal government will supply the tents. The visit was planned by Miss Winnifred Wrench, a travelling official of the Overseas league, who has been assured of the cooperation of the Halifax and Wolfville branches. Nine Mile lake is a popular resort for hunters and anglers. The visitors will be guests as a picnic under the auspices of the Halifax and Wolfville branches and will be welcomed at Lake William, not far from their camp.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Sufferers From Indigestion

CUT THIS OUT

"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic acid stomach," says a well-known authority.

Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis or stomach ulcers. Don't dose an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestants that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.

Instead neutralize or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little Bisurated Magnesia, and not only will the pain vanish but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bisurated Magnesia to sweeten to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. Your stomach acts and feels fine in just a few minutes. Bisurated Magnesia can be obtained from any reliable druggist in either powder or tablet form. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive.

SAVE TAX-PAYER ON SCHOOL COSTS SAYS HINCHLIFFE

Minister Goes Into Session With Municipalities Committee

EXPLAINS RECENT TAXATION RELIEF

Says Must Cut Costs Until Within Ability of Tax-Payers

One of the features of the convention of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities was in the address of Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, minister of education, at the morning sessions.

Stating he would omit the usual platitudes, the minister said he would plunge right into his subject, wishing it understood, however, that in every reference he made to taxation he was speaking of the taxation connected with his own department, that of education, and no other. Before going on he said he wanted to be sure of the ground he was on, and accordingly he asked if he could take it as a fact that school taxation rested on the land alone, and that it had reached a point where the land could not bear it any longer.

Receiving ejaculations of assent from all parts of the hall, the speaker said in that case he was right, and that he had been of that belief for several years, and had been working steadily in the direction of relief of that burden.

WHERE FRICTION POSSIBLE

"The first thing I am going to speak about is the relationship between the municipalities and the school boards in regard to financial matters," the minister said. "Although there are municipalities which have worked exceedingly amicably with their school boards yet in certain places strained relations have arisen between the two bodies, and by reason of what are looked upon by some people as the unfair financial arrangements. Just at this time difficulties are being specially brought to the attention of people generally, and it seems to me that if it is at all possible these difficulties should be removed at the earliest opportunity.

"There is, first, a provision which has existed in the British Columbia schools for many, many years. However small the collection on the school assessment may be, the municipal council is still required to pay over to the school board 100 per cent of that assessment. For a great many year, objections have been raised here and there to this provision of the law. At this time those objections are being voiced more strenuously than ever, and sooner or later some very definite arrangement will have to be arrived at, which will be, to say the least, not altogether objectionable to either councils or school boards.

Another difficulty and a more serious one, he pointed, arose from the fact that while there were ordinary expenditures which must be met by the school board, and which must be provide for in the school assessment, and while there were extraordinary expenditures which the school board might not enter into without the consent of the people or the council, between these two classes of expenditure there was a third class. The third class was made up of expenditures which the school board was not required by law to make, but which in its discretion it might make, and if it decided to make them, they were by law included amongst the ordinary expenditures which the council was required to provide without definite reference either to itself or the people.

DISCRETIONARY EXPENDITURES

Metioning one or two of such expenditures by way of illustration, Hon. Mr. Hinchliffe pointed out that section 138 of the Schools act gave the school boards power to establish courses in technical education, domestic economy, manual training, etc., but nowhere did the Schools act require the establishment of such courses except in Junior high schools. The reason these courses were made obligatory there, the minister explained, was that there were at present only a few of these schools, and the whole idea behind them was to see how mechanical means might assist in the development of the pupils, these schools affording a testing ground. But though with the exception of the junior high schools, these courses were not required, yet they were very commonly given.

Again the school act required the school board to provide schooling for every child in the district up to the age of 16 if the child wished to attend school, but the act also gave the school boadr power in its discretion to provide schooling for children over 16. Nearly every school board in the province, the minister said, had been giving this extended school privilege. Although the board was not required by the act to establish the courses named, nor to provide schooling for children over the age of 16, yet if it decided to do these things, the expenditure incurred was by the act looked upon as ordinary expenditure, and neither the councils nor the people had any say in regard to it.

It might be that there were other difficulties in the relationships between these two bodies, he said, but what he had cited would show them that there was an urgent neccessity for readjustment.

TO BE CLEARED UP

During the latest session of the legislature is was suggested that the Union of British Columbia Municipalities and the British Columbia School Trustees association should jointly take these various matters into consideration, that they should if possible come to some agreement satisfactory to both parties, and that upon the lines of that agreement legislation, if necessary might be introduced at the next session. Unless they did get together, the minister said, the government would have to decide the matter and its decision might please neither body.

Next he referred to the legislation of the recent session conferring extended powers of school taxation upon municipal councils. "Ever since I took office," said the minister, "school districts generally, including municipalities, have complained most bitterly of the unfair system of taxation for school purposes that was in existence. Municipalities, for example, could collect taxes only upon land and the complaint was made that a very great number of the children who were being taught in the schools were children of people who owned no property, and therefore children of non-taxpayers. The big demand was for such a redistribution of taxation as would require payment by certain people, who, under the system in vogue, were to a large extent, even if not entirely, escaping taxation. An income was first suggested, and while this method would relieve and equalize to a certain extent, it could not be made to go far enough, and if, as some suggested, all that was required for educational purposes was raised by means of income tax entirely unworkable. Some other method had to be found. There were at lest three classes of people who were escaping either wholly or partially the payment of taxes for school purposes.

THOSE WHO WENT FREE

"1—Owners of property, whether sending children to school or not, whose taxes for school purposes were exceedingly small.

"2—Persons who were sending children to school and who owned no property and therefore were paying no direct taxes for school purposes to the municipality.

"3—Persons living in the municipality who were neither sending children to school nor were owners of property.

"The alterations of the schools act," explained the speaker, "give to the municipalities the power to collect school taxes from these classes of persons. The amendments made up at the last session are largely based upon the Schools act that is in force in Saskatchewan, where ever since the province was established, very similar legislation has existed. It is quite possible that the amendments made at the last session of the legislature will need clarifying and strengthening as their weaknesses become apparent during their actual application, but even at the present time they offer to those municipalities who care to take advantage of them a means of securing money for school purposes from other sources than taxation on land."

CUT TILL POSSIBLE REACHED

"It was told in Nelson last night that those without land cannot pay, and you have told me this morning that those with land cannot pay," remarked the minister. "In that case, many who are included in the three classes above named have not money wherewith to pay any taxes. Then neither the municipal authorities nor the provincial authorities can possibly collect from them, and if the authorities cannot collect money for school purposes from the people, there is only one course to be followed, and that is to reduce the cost of services given till that cost is within the power of the people to pay.

He stated he would not in this short address go into the details of this new taxation, but he was prepared to meet a committee during the day and go into the whole subject. "I have a suggestion to give you if you dare accept it," he challenged.

Turning to the educational policy for the future Hon. Mr. Hinchliffe said a suggestion had been made to him, which he felt merited careful and full enquiry.

SHOULD STOP AT 15?

"In British Columbia at the present day," he said, "children are required to attend school until they reach the age of 15 years. This is generally spoken of as a compulsory age. The requirements affect all parents of children in the province, regardles of what may be their condition or station in life. The cost of the schooling which children are compelled to take is provided by means of taxation, to which theoretically everybody is compelled to contribute. Thus we have on one hand compulsory attendance to the age of 15 of all children in the province, and on the other hand the people of the province are compelled to pay the cost of such schooling. The suggestion is that the school law should be so amended as to prohibit the expenditure of the money thus compulsory contributed, on schooling beyond that point to which every child is compelled to accept it. In other words, that as 15 is the compulsory age limit, no taxation, whether provincial or local, should be spent upon the schooling of children after they have reached the age limit."

Illustrating the present position, the minister instanced the supposed case of two neighbors with boys just over 15. One father was poor, and needed the services of his son to work, but the other could let his son go to school a couple of years more. Under the present system, the poor man was not only unable to keep his boy at school, but had to pay for the schooling of the son of his more fortunate neighbor.

There were outstanding things in favor of the plan to prohibit the spending of funds from compulsory levies on the education of those over 15, but there might be equally outstanding disadvantages to make it undesirable. It was to have the subject examined that he brought it to the attention of the union and invited comments.

A parallel to the case of the two school boys was the case of those of university age. At every university there were rich men's sons who had no business being there, and in every community there are those with the ability and ambition to benefit by university training who could not have it.

BURSARY SCHEME

The suggestion included the proposition that there might very well be established out of the public funds a system of bursaries, which would enable young people who were qualified, and who showed promise of becoming provincial assets, to have the advantage of training at the public expense beyond the compulsory age limit.

A vote of thanks was extended to Hon. Mr. Hinchliffe, and he retired to confer with a special committee named by President W. A. Pritchard and confirmed by the convention, regarding the matters he had dealt with. The committee consisted of Mayor E. H. Bridgman of North Vancouver, Solicitor H. S. Pringle of Victoria, Reeve R. C. McDonald of Coquitlam, Comptroller A. J. Pilkington of Vancouver, Mayor W. J. Moffat of Kamloops, and Councillor L. Lambert of Burnaby.

Alberta Wheat Pool to Continue Under Its Present System

CALGARY, Alta., June 27 (CP)—Alberta wheat pool will continue operating this year under its present marketing system, it was announced today.

Pool officials decided not to hold a plebiscite this year among its membership "on alternate methods of marketing," the announcement said.

In a resolution passed at the annual meeting of the pool last fall it was suggested such a plebiscite be held. Directors, however, decided it was inadvisable to hold the vote at present.

TYLER REPORTS ON HUGE ROTARY MEETING, SEATTLE

President-Elect of Nelson Club Speaker; Visitors Attend

C. W. Tyler, who will shortly assume the presidency of the Nelson Rotary club, and who was official delegate to the 23rd International Rotary convention recently held in Seattle, gave an interesting and extensive report of the gathering when speaking before the Nelson Rotary club and a host of visitors at Monday's meeting.

The convention was attended by about 6000 delegates from all parts of the world. He told of the welcome of the shipload of delegates from Hawaii and the far east, of the wonderful enactment in the monster convention hall of "the break of dawn," of the welcome by Roland R. Hartley, the governor of Washington, of the speech of travel by Sydney W. Pascall, London, England, International president, and of numerous other events in connection with the sessions.

He dealt upon the message from Paul P. Harris, founder of Rotary. "In days of adversity prepare for prosperity," said Mr. Harris' message. It was the supreme test of mankind. What the world needed today was another renaissance and he declared Rotary should play a leading part in such renaissance.

Mr. Tyler told of Louis E. Steinmann's address on vocational service in which he urged Rotary to take an interest in old age pensions, sickness insurance minimum wages and all social improvements. Glyndon H. Crooker, chairman of the community service committee, delivered an inspiring address on "stamping out illiteracy," urging as its cure "compulsory education."

DISTRICT BANQUET

About 1900 attended district No. 1 banquet which was presided over by Morgan Eastman. District No. 1 had increased its membership by 136 in spite of hard times. There were 71 clubs and average attendance had been 85.1, Mr. Eastman declared that the "choicest fruit in the Garden of God was friendship." Other speakers included James Beattie, appointed to the board of directors representing Canada and Newfoundland and William McGilchrist, new district governor.

Mr. Tyler told the club that it was at the meeting which considered boys' work that he found what Rotary really meant. The subjects dealt with were: "The normal boy—the hope of society; the handicapped boy—the liability for society and the delinquent boy—the threat to society."

The industrial school was denounced strongly, said the speaker. Benefit had accrued by a system of paroling delinquents in the private homes of members of clubs.

One of the outstanding addresses of the convention, stated Mr. Tyler, was given by Justice M. A. Macdonald of the appeal court of British Columbia, who spoke on "the Pacific bowl." At the club service luncheon several idea had been given and Mr. Tyler thought the Nelson club could rightly adopt one or two of these. For instance he favored the observation of February 23 as Rotary's birthday and he heartily approved of a plan whereby local clubs should have an annual reception for teachers in the community.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN'S WORK

The crippled children's assembly was an outstanding event at which 1000 including many ladies attended. From it grew an organization known as "the International Society of the Northwest." Mr. Tyler was named a co-member for British Columbia along with the president-elect of the Vancouver club. The objects of the society embrace care, relief, education and replacement in the cases of all crippled children in the district.

Mr. Tyler's report was interesting and he received hearty congratulations for his excellent effort.

Among the many visitors at the luncheon which was presided over by Howard Bush were: Mayor Leeming of Victoria; Mayor Bruno Lerose of Trail; Reeve Hayward of Oak Bay; Mayor Harry Douglas of Fernie, Alderman Groutage of Trail; James Adams of Victoria, and A. Peden of Victoria.

Soong Gip Remanded on Attempted Murder Charge at Vancouver

VANCOUVER, June 27 (CP) — Soong Gip, alias Ng Shong Dip, charged with the attempted murder of his wife and 15-year-old son in their home here on Saturday, appeared in police court today and was remanded until July 4.

The woman and boy, who were terribly slashed by some sharp weapon, are recovering from their wounds but will be unable to appear in court as witnesses for some time.

Gained 1-2 lb. a Week

Kruschen Stopped it—Now 11 lbs. Down

"I started to take Kruschen Salts a month ago, to reduce my weight—after trying several other ways. I am pleased with the results, as from 224 lbs., I have lost 11 lbs., which I think is a move in the right direction. I feel better all round, and am hoping to get down to 168 lbs. I am 52 years of age, and 5 feet 8 inches, and was putting on weight consistently at the rate of half-a-pound a week, so you see I have cause to be thankful for Kruschen Salts."—H.W.

An over-stout person is an auto-intoxicated (or self-poisoned) person whose internal organs are failing to expel from the body the waste products of digestion. Allowed to accumulate, this waste matter is turned into layer after layer of hideous fat.

The six salts in Kruschen assist the internal organs to perform their functions properly — to throw off each day the wastage and poisons that encumber the system. Then, little by little, that ugly fat goes—slowly, yes—but surely, and you feel so wonderfully healthy, youthful, and energetic—more so than ever before in your life!

POSTPONED UNTIL WEDNESDAY

MONTREAL, June 27 (CP).—An attempted non-stop flight across Canada by two Vancouver aviators, tentatively scheduled to start early tomorrow morning, has been postponed, at least until Wednesday. Unfavorable weather conditions were blamed by the pilots, Bruce R. Ronald and H. Storer, for their decision.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON

NOSE AND THROAT INFECTIONS CAUSE OF RHEUMATISM

A bright young business man, very active physically was confined to his bed with sciatica—that very painful affection of the largest nerve in the body situated near the hip joint.

When asked by a friend if the cause of the sciatica had been found he said "Oh I know what is causing it all right but I hated to lose those three front teeth, all of which are abscessed. I was warned that something might happen—rheumatism, heart disease and other troubles. However those three teeth are coming out tomorrow.'

No infected teeth do not cause all the rheumatism, but Dr. C. H. Thomsas, London, England believes, and his opinion is shared by most medical men, that throat and nose infections bear a difinite relationship to rheumatism; the trouble can usually be found in the nose and throat and its removal cures the rheumatism.

Sometimes infected tonsils are removed and yet the rheumatism does not clear up. Sometimes infected teeth are removed with no improvement in the rheumatic condition. Dr. Thomas points out that in many cases of rehumatism there is more than one part of the body infected and this explains why the removal of the teeth, or the tonsils, the draining of a sinus, or the draining of the gall bladder may all have to be done before a cure can be affected.

However the first rule in medical practice iis to think of the commonest cause of an ailment first, and in the case of rheumatism you start with the teeth, then the tonsils, then gall bladder, then large intestine, and finally the sinuses adjoining the nose.

It is a good rule therefore, even if the tonsils look suspicious to have an X-ray examination of the teeth. If they are free from infection there is nothing to be gained by postponing the removal of the tonsils.

On the other hand if the teeth show infection they should be removed at one, and the tonsils need not be disturbed until the effect of the removal of the teeth is learned.

If the rheumatism disappears, the tonsils may become healthy in appearance. Even if the rheumatism disappears but the tonsils give trouble such as frequent sore throat they should be removed, as rheumatism and heart disease may follow later.

Why Miss Lillian Loughton's

is famous

"I use Magic Baking Powder," says Miss Lillian Loughton, Dietitian and Cookery Expert of the Canadian Magazine. "My successful baking results are due in large part to its freshness, uniformity, and consistent high quality.

"My own recipes are planned for Magic, and I recommend it for all recipes calling for baking powder."

Miss Loughton's high praise confirms the judgment of other Canadian dietitians and cookery experts. The majority of them use Magic exclusively, because it gives consistently better baking results.

Magic is first choice of Canadian housewives, too. It outsells all other baking powders combined!

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

2 cups pastry flour
(or 1¾ cups bread flour)
4 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder
½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons shortening
2 tablespoons sugar
1 egg — ⅔ cup milk

Sift together the dry ingredients; rub in shortening till very fine; add sugar. Beat egg and pour with the chilled milk to make soft dough (but not too soft to hold its shape when baked). Turn the dough onto a floured board, roll lightly to one-third inch thickness. Cut out with a round cutter. Brush one round with melted butter; place another round on it; bake in hot oven. Split, fill with fresh berries slightly sweetened. Put top round on and pile whipped cream over it, decorating with whole berries.

"CONTAINS NO ALUM." This statement on every tin is your guarantee that Magic Baking Powder is free from alum or any harmful ingredient.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES

Miss Q—"I know you have published Rose Jar directions before, but will you please repeat them?"

Answer—To make a Rose Jar—Gather rose petals before the sun is high and spread them on a table in the shade till dew has evaporated. Then arrange them in half-inch layers in a dish, sprinkling each layer with salt. Add petals day by day, till they measure two quarts when pressed down solidly. Stir well every morning and cover the dish lightly. Ten days after the last addition has been made, mix together in a separate dish one-fourth ounce each of ground mace, cloves and allspice, one-half ounce of ground cinnamon, two ounces powdered orris root and one-fourth pound of dried lavender flowers. Fill rose jar with alternate layers of rose petals and the above mixture, and sprinkle on each layer of petals a few drops each of any preferred essential oils such as oil of rose, geranium, bitter almond and orange flower. Pour over the whole one ounce of Cologne or any good toilet water. From time to time, now that you are putting the mixture into a permanent jar or covered fancy dish, you may add fragrant leaves or herbs such as lemon verbena, heliotrope, mignonette, lavender flowers, etc.

Mrs. I. I.—"How can I take peach stains out of wash goods?"

Answer—This is the most difficult of all fruit stains to remove. Peach stains do not yield to the pouring the boiling water through the fabric, as do other fruit spots. Peach stains must be wet, covered thickly with cream of tartar, placed in the sun and rewet in this manner until gone. Another method is to soak peach stains in sour milk, sprinkle with salt and lay in the sun. But obstinate peach stains must be taken out with Javelle water, which you can buy at a drug store, and follow directions which come with it.

Tomorrow—Iced dainties.

SKYSCRAPER

By FAITH BALDWIN

SYNOPSIS

Lynn Harding, young and pretty, is ambitious for a career in the Seacoast Bank and Trust company. She loves Tom Shepard, secretary to one of the vice-presidents, but will not marry him, feeling they both must make their careers first. Then Lynn meets David Dwight, a prominent lawyer, through Sarah Dennet, her chief at the bank. Twenty years ago he had been Sarah's fiance. When he married a woman of wealth and position, Sarah was broken-hearted, but she finally found contentment in her work. Dwight is attracted to Lynn and invites her and Sarah to his apartment for dinner. Lynn's roommate, Jennie Le Grande, a model, warns her that Dwight is dangerous.

CHAPTER XIII

"Mr. Dwight asked me to bring you to one of his parties," remarked Lynn, subsiding.

"He did? Well," said Jennie, slinging the bone with accuracy into the scrap basket, "that's the best news I've heard since the stock market crashed and show girls lost their sables. How about catching a little sleep?" But it was a long time before Lynn slept. Jennie's idiocies were barbed. Absurd, impossible to think that Dwight was personally interested in her, Lynn Harding. Why should he be, with all the world from which to choose? She liked him, frankly enough. But she hadn't a significant thought for anyone but Tom.

Perhaps she'd been foolish to think this evening so important. It had gone to her head a little. It had been so different from anything she had ever experienced. If Dwight had made pretty speeches to her it was because his profession was partly speech-making, and because he said just such things to every woman he met. Tomorrow night she would see Tom again and tell him about the party, and for a little while she would remember it with pleasure and then she'd forget it; and that was that.

She smiled, and suddenly fell fathoms deep into sleep.

Blocks away, David Dwight was walking about his library. He had never felt less like sleep in his life.

A pretty girl.

But he had known girls and women far prettier.

An intelligent girl.

That didn't mean much either; he had known women of signal brilliance. And after a while they, too, had bored him.

But little Lynn—there was something tremendously appealing about her; something fresh and radiant and untouched; something quaintly serious. But she laughed with spontaneity, and her eyelids crinkled and there was an unexpected dimple in her left cheek.

He hadn't been so interested in a girl in—months. Or was it years?

What about this sex business, anyway, he thought vaguely. Stupid or ugly or beautiful or mysterious, depending upon how you viewed it and when you viewed it. Before and after, like the advertisements. Indefinable, no matter how much print was wasted on it. You met someone—and that was that.

Unreasonable, unreasoning.

He must see her again.

He would see her again.

He must walk as delicately as Agag. There was no immediacy thirties behind him he knew the value of making haste slowly, of savoring the moments. This girl, in her dusky pink frock, was like spring. And a man learned to value spring, to cherish it, to extract from it the last drop of heartbreaking fragrance, the last atom of star dust.

He though briefly of Sarah. Frowned. Sarah might make trouble. But perhaps not. Still, he thought easily, he could handle Sarah.

He made no plans, uttered no definitions. He was not a seducer of innocence. Seduction was abhorrent to him. He called it by other names. Every love affair into which he entered had its special glamour, its exceptional romance; he loved, like a boy, like a mature man, and for the first time; and loved the more ardently because it would not last, because, in the careless twenties and the casual nature of things, it could not endure. Knowing this, he said each about it. When a man had left the time: This is the last time; this will not perish.

Therefore, he did not say to himself in words, "This girl attracts me. I shall possess her."

Any love affair was, with him, upon the knees of the gods. No one, he least of all, knew what tomorrow might bring. Sometimes, the quarry run down, the capture effected, he would wake to find a woman in his arms; would wake, grateful, astonished and superbly moved. Later, when it was over, he would ask himself how it had happened, "I did not will it. It was not my fault."

The anchoret is not more mentally chaste than the true Casanova. For to the true Casanova every woman is the first, every woman is the last, love is as sentimental as an old-fashioned valentine; every love is the goal and the end of the road; each victory brings amazement. These are the men who are forever seeking the impossible, forever demanding the static and the stable of something as variable as the seasons and the winds.

Of such men was Dwight, one of that charming, tragic and misinterpreted company whose opprobrium is so much more than they deserve because they mean no harm; and so much less, also because they mean no harm. And whose day of reckoning is blacker than any rumor, because the other days have dawned so bright with promise. This is the company who, having grasped the shadow for the substance, cry out upon life as a cheater, and believe themselves cheated, never knowing that it was, always, the other way about.

And so David Dwight drew no mental pencil marks through Lynn Harding's name and his own, murmuring, "Friendship, hate, indifference, love, kiss, court, marry." Merely he went to be thinking that he had spent a delightful evening; thinking that if his extravagances had been notable during the past year or so he was bound to win the Carson case when it came up on the calendar in the fall and thus retrieve his slightly dejected fortunes; thinking, too, that he had never felt better in his life and that tomorrow was another day.

Girls should always have gray eyes, inquiring, mischievous, tremendously trusting and eager and shining; they should always wear a sleek blackbird's cap of hair, with a dark arrow pointing the way upon a smooth white forehead. They should have a fugitive, elusive dimple, always in the left cheek, and a black beauty mark to tempt the beholder at the corner of a young, red mouth. They should be small and slenderly rounded, and they should always wear dusky pink, the color of afterglow in summer.

Such girls were always kind, of course; gentle but not docile; spirited but not shrewdish. Such girls should be protected and befriended.

He believed it.

What One Girl Learned From "Picking Them Up"

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

An Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

From a 17-year-old girl, daughter of strict and highly respected parents, comes a letter which makes me sit up like an exclamation point. It's pitiful in its ignorance of the world and the dangers its writer has courted and, one devoutly hopes, escaped.

Her parents, she writes me, are "very strict." Even innocents amusements, such as visits and dances with the high school girls and boys, her class mates, are taboo. An older married sister, who, to escape her dose of this too strict home medicine, had married an old man she didn't care about, helps this girl to deceive their parents. What this older sister can be thinking about, heaven only knows!

When the younger sister could stand domestic discipline no longer, she would tell her mother and father she was spending the night at her sister's. Here she would be turned loose to find her own amusement. This usually consisted of standing on the street corner and smiling at some man who had an attractive looking motor.

In this way she became asquainted with a young man who took her to ride once or twice a week, and "she learned to care a great deal for him."

To make the girl's rather long story short, the young man is now quitting her for the alleged reason that she's "too good for him." One only hopes this may be true. Anyway, the young man with the shiny new car has had enough of the little 17-year-old girl, who didn't like to drink at speakeasies, and sometimes objected to his rude petting. When he said good-bye that last evening he evidently meant it.

It seems that one night when they were out motoring, he drew up in front of a very imposing residence and told her he lived there. Some day, he said, she would walk down its stone-balustrated steps to her own waiting limousine.

After the young man failed to appear on the accustomed street corner, and the girl realized that in spite of some of his objectionable ways "she really loved him dearly," she plucked up her courage and went to the beautiful house to inquire for him.

After much ringing at the bell, the door was opened by a grouchy caretaker. He told her the family, which consisted of three elderly ladies, were all in Europe.

"No, there is no young man connected with this house in any capacity, and never has been," said the caretaker, and closed the door on what seemed life itself to the little 17-year-old.

The Beauty Box

By Helen Follett

Some years ago a cosmetic surgeon cooked up the idea of the permanent blush. It was to be achieved by means of the tattoo needle and red ink. The gals didn't fall into a frenzy about it. They're cautious these days. They figure that the beauty ill you know is better than the one you don't know. Beauty charlatans are losing out. Beautifying is based on hygienic principles. The jolly old bunkum stuff doesn't go any more.

Layers of fat on the back of the neck can be pounded out of existence. Massage operators do it all the time; it is one of the simplest tricks of the trade. The flesh is picked up between finger and thumb and rolled firmly, the process, breaking down adipose cells. Then the hammering starts. Ice rubs and applications of astringents finish the treatment.

When long skirts chased kilts off the fashion premises, it was predicted that the fussy, fluffy coiffure would return, make the vimmin look girly-girly once again. It did not materialize. The correct hair dress is sleek, formal, simple, its only ornamentation being those tight little button curls that have suddenly become all the rage.

Look scrubby, feel scrubby. Every housewife knows that's a fact. A soiled frock, shabby finger nails, run-over heels slap the spirits down, the world gets grey and nasty, everything out of kilter, tears on tap. The mistress is of more importance than the house in which she lives; she should be its loveliest ornament. Yet many demon housekeepers scrub and polish and beauty everything except themselves. They get old and grouchy, forget how to laugh and—first thing they know—the papa has a sweetie ,one who lets the dishes wait while she curls her hair.

Vitality is the great motive power that produces bright eyes, clear complexions, graceful figures. You get it by eating what you should eat rather than what you like to wolf down, by skipping out of doors for a pick-up constitutional, by having regular sleeping hours, by holding emotions in check, not letting the bad one get away with you. Without sound health—mental as well as physical—beauty cannot be.

Violet eye shadows are nifty. Give you that come-hither glance. Purple shadows are something one must beware of. A new green-blue shade is the final grand beauty flourish for blondes, and a blue-mauve looks good on the dark-eyed girl with fair skin and light hair. Very tricky, these eyelid calcimines. All right when right, but most horribly wrong when out of harmony with their surroundings.

RECORD IS 60 YEARS OLD

The oldest record on the books at the Lexington, Ky., track is that of Frogtown, a horse that ran three miles in 5 minutes 29¾ seconds in 1872.

FASHION FLASHES

BY Alice Alden

BEAUTY IS ESSENTIAL when it comes to the summer evening frock. Magnificence is best left to winter gala frocks. A lovely frock for a glamorous summer evening is made of white sheer crepe and has short sleeves made of enormous roses of pink coral velvet. There is a matching girdle.

BE BRIGHT and let even a dark costume have its light accents. A lovely frock of brown chiffon has a jacket made of bands of brown velvet ribbon of graduated widths, mounted in tangerine chiffon. A huge hankerchief of the tangerine chiffon is a smart accessory.

ALL WRAPPED UP in wrap-around frocks will be the rule for autumn. For that season, Paris is showing a frock of rich rose red wool, with three-quarter sleeves bordered in black fox. Loose pieces give a high waist to the bodice. These come from the body of the frock in back. The dress unfastens at the left shoulder, unwinds to the waist at back and then unbuttons down the side back. The skirt is also wrap-around.

A NICE FRIENDSHIP in the cartorial world is that of the two colors, brown and pink. A charming frock in pink chalky crepe, has a large brown chiffon bow that is laced through the base of the V neckline. There is a tiny jacket with brief cape sleeves.

SCOTLAND SCORES with the continued use of plaids as a summer design in prints. A charming frock of beige crepe has a jacket of plaid taffeta done in beige, black and blue. The frock has a sash and a bow also of the plaided taffeta.

COOL AND COMFORTABLE are those swagger coats with wide, raglan shoulders that have become so popular. A most attractive model done in yellow hopsacking in loose casual lines. It has wide, square reverse bordered with fine kolinsky and would be good for sport or dress wear during the day, when worn with semi-sports things.

CITY BANQUETS VISITORS HERE FOR MEETINGS

Municipalities and Roads League Delegates Have Gay Couple of Hours

PRAISES HEAPED UPON NELSON CITY

157 Sit Down to Repast; Numerous Speeches Are Heard

The Corporation of the City of Nelson was host Monday night to the delegates of the Good Roads league and the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, their wives, families and friends, at a banquet staged in the Silver room of the Hume hotel. Heads of various city departments, as well as the mayor and city council, attended. Mayor J. P. Morgan presided. In all 157 sat down to the happy gathering, which was kept lively by music by a special orchestra and vocal selections by Mrs. C. W. Tyler and Arthur Stringer.

Following a sumptuous repast, Alderman John Bennett of Vancouver proposed the toast to "The Province." He spoke briefly along the lines of the tourist business, declaring that Vancouver had appropriated $20,000 for tourist business this year. Nelson, he declared, was one of the most beautiful of British Columbia cities, and the city might do worse than spending a few thousand dollars in letting not only outsiders, but the people of British Columbia, know the glories of the beautiful Kootenay district. He offered a toast to continued prosperity to Nelson.

Capt. James Fitzsimmons, M.P.P., Kaslo-Slocan, in replying, declared that British Columbia was the finest province in the Dominion, and although there was a mixed community, he urged all to get together and to cooperate to make the province a better place in which to live. He congratulated the municipalities upon their fairness and willingness to cooperate with the government.

BAIRD SPEAKS

Robert Baird, inspector of municipalities for British Columbia, proposed the toast to the "Union of B. C. Municipalities." He praised Nelson's attractiveness and declared delegates would willingly stay "a week if necessary." He told of the concerted effort being made by the municipalities to aid those in trouble. It was a great work that was going on in Nelson. He declared that many unfair remarks had been cast at municipalities in British Columbia, and that these were not justified. It was true the municipalities had made mistakes, but the policy of the municipalities had been sound.

Mr. Moffatt, first vice-president of the Union, and former mayor of Kamloops, replied. He declared Mayor J. P. Morgan of Nelson certainly had the goods to advertise when he asked to get the convention in the Kootenays. He expressed a compliment to the delegates who in his nine years' connection with the municipalities body had always taken their business seriously.

Reeve William Pritchard of Burnaby, president of the Union, also speaking to the toast, declared that the problems confronting the municipalities today differed from the problems of the past. It was necessary to discard the old ideas and to answer the call for new methods. Though conditions looked black there was no need for alarm. He urged all to buckle down and do the best that could be done under the circumstances.

TO GOOD ROADS BODY

The toast to "The Good Roads League" was proposed by Mayor Bridgeman of North Vancouver. He recalled a visit to Nelson 12 years ago. The town was a better town now, and the hospitality, though excellent in those days, had improved. The league had, he declared, worked hard and earnestly to better travel conditions in British Columbia. He referred to the terrible condition of the highway between the boundary and Nelson. He believed the city should make concerted effort to have the government improve this highway so that tourists would come in from the south in greater numbers.

Alderman Fenton of New Westminster answered to the toast in the absence of J. J. Johnston, president of the league, who had been called to the coast through business reasons. He praised Nelson's hospitality, declaring he had enjoyed every minute of his visit. Alderman Fenton spoke in light vein, and drew many a laugh.

Mayor D. Leeming of Victoria proposed the toast, "To the City of Nelson." The beauty of the city of Nelson had put the convention over, he believed. Over 120 delegates testified that the Kootenays had some attractions to offer. He recalled rowing in Nelson 30 years ago, and of Victoria capturing some silverware. The lake, he believed, was a great asset, of which any city would be proud. In the past 30 years, he believed, Nelson had grown more and more beautiful. No city in all his travels had shown more prosperity than did Nelson. He urged the city to do all it could to preserve the natural beauty of the city. The road from the boundary was nothing to boast about, averred the Victoria mayor, in urging the city to press for its improvement and beautification. In closing, he referred to meeting such old friends as John Cartmel and T. D. DesBrisay in Nelson.

Mayor J. P. Morgan of Nelson expressed thanks to the delegates for their attendance. He believed Nelson must depend to a large extent upon tourist trade. Much thanks was due from Nelson to Trail, stated his worship, as Nelson depended greatly upon the prosperity of the adjoining city.

Alderman J. B. Gray of Nelson, in happy vein, proposed the toast to "The Ladies," which was replied to by A. J. Bowell, comptroller, New Westminster.

Reeve Couch of Saanich proposed the toast to "The Press," which was answered by Mayor T. A. Love of Grand Forks. Mayor Love in his reply spoke of Nelson as "the biggest little city in Canada, and praised as an outstanding feature the press, The Nelson Daily News, which "was not equalled anywhere in the Dominion." He spoke of the fair treatment afforded, and passed respects to F. F. Payne, publisher.

Social Events of Trail City

TRAIL, B. C., June 27.—A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Rev. Frederic St. Denis, Bay avenue, Friday evening, when Mary, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bingham, Nelson avenue, was united in marriage to George Cruickshank of Trail, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Cruickshank of Rutherland, Glasgow, Scotland.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bingham, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, performed the duties of best man and matron of honor. After the ceremony a reception for immediate friends and relatives was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Cruickshank are taking up residence in Trail.

TRAIL HOUSES AND LOTS — INsurance. Notary. J. D. Anderson

Mrs. Best, Pastor's Wife, Honored, Kaslo

KASLO, B. C., June 27.—The home of Mrs. J. M. Allen was the scene of a delightful party Tuesday afternoon when the ladies of the United Women's auxiliary met for their regular monthly session, after which delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Allen, Mrs. James Spotts, Mrs. Thornberg and Mrs. Coulter. After tea Mrs. Jack Paterson, on behalf of the ladies, presented Mrs. E. L. Best with a pair of silver candle sticks, in recognition of her faithful services during her stay here, expressing the regret of all that Mrs. Best was leaving and wishing her every good thing for the future. Mrs. Best in responding thanked the ladies for their gift and expressions of good will. Rev. and Mrs. Best are leaving Monday for the coast.

Movie Bridge Is Novel Event Held at New Denver Home

NEW DENVER, B. C., June 27.—Mrs. H. S. Nelson was a recent tea hostess when she entertained in honor of Mrs. R. Kelsall, prior to her departure for her home in Vancouver. The guests were Mrs. H. Clever, Mrs. R. J. Thompson, Missss Dora and Adeline Clever, Mrs. G. Williamson, Mrs. J. J. Irwin, Mrs. George, Mrs. J. B. Smith, Mrs. S. Brown, Mrs. G. Burkill, Mrs. H. S. Nelson, Misses Helen Williamson and Kitty Tingle and the guest of honor, Mrs. D. Kelsall and daughter, Colleen.

A novel and interesting evening was spent at the home of Mrs. H. Clever when a number of "movie stars" were entertained. In honor of the guests, Hollywood bridge was the feature of the evening, four studios being in play. Mary Astor (Mrs. J. Draper) who was a brilliant player, captured ladies' first prize. Phyllis Haver (Mrs. O. Enockson) accepted with grace the ladies' consolation. William Haines (L. W. Sells) richly deserved men's first prize and Monte Blue (Laurence Tattries) was blue about his consolation. Having received several "shocks" during the evening, the "stars" were very pleased to sing for the most delicious supper. The hostesses were—movie magnate (Mrs. H. Clever), directors (Misses Dora and Adeline Clever and R. Kelsall), Camera man (Herman Clever). The guests were Richard Dix and Mary Astor (Mr. and Mrs. J. Draper), William Haines and Esther Ralston (Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Sells) Ramon Novarro and Phyllis Haver (Mr. and Mrs. O. Enockson), Charlie Chaplin and Dorothy MacKail (Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Hill) Harold Lloyd and Marceline Day (Mr. and Mrs. F. Broughton), Laura La Plante (Miss B. Fosberg), Clara Bow (Miss Nellie Aylwin), Joan Crawford (Mrs. H. L. Butchart), John Gilbert, Miss Dora Clever), Monte Blue (Laurence Tattrie), Milton Sills (H. Clever).

Mrs. Walter Tattrie, Mrs. C. B. Hufty and Mrs. Bostock of Nelson were Wednesday visitors in town.

R. MacPherson and daughter Gladys and Mrs. R. McLeod and sons Harold and Archie are visitors in Trail.

Misses Dora and Adeline Clever and Herman, have left for a motor trip to Vancouver. They were accompanied by their sister, Mrs. R. Kelsall and baby daughter, Colleen.

Appetites just can't resist!

WHEN you have Kellogg's Rice Krispies for breakfast, the day gets a flying start. These toasted rice bubbles are delicious — so crisp they actually crackle in milk or cream!

Nourishing too. Rice Krispies are rich in energy that is quickly released. Enjoy them with fruits or sweetened with honey. Delightful for lunch.

And of course, Rice Krispies are splendid for the children's evening meal—as countless mothers know. So easy to digest they encourage restful sleep. How much better than hot, heavy foods.

Always oven-fresh in the red-and-green package with the sealed WAXTITE inside bag. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario. Quality guaranteed.

OVERWAITEA LIMITED

We heartily welcome the British Empire trade conference to Ottawa, and we sincerely hope that the outcome will be beneficial to all parts of the Empire.

A Few Facts of Our Own Organization

The Overwaitea Ltd was founded in the year 1915, by our late President Mr. R. C. Kidd, in a small store in the City of New Westminster, B. C. From this small unit, the business has grown into a mutual organization now operating 25 stores within this Province.

Mr. Kidd's greatest ambition in life was to see all members of his staff prosper with him, and with this thought constantly in mind, offered inducements to junior members of the staff to become members of the organization, to such an extent that at the present time over 90 per cent of the employees are shareholders in the company.

The shareholders consist of employees and Mr. Kidd's family, with Mrs. Kidd as our president, every shareholder is a resident of this province, so we are an entirely B. C. company of a mutual nature.

We are taxpayers in every city in which we operate with one exception, and by this gesture claim ourselves as desirable citizens, by showing our faith in your community.

In our purchases we at all times give preference to merchandise of British origin, with first thought to our own Province providing quality is equal.

We aim to satisfy our patrons by fair dealing, and an honest endeavor to supply quality merchandise at the lowest possible price, our volume of business warrants us buying in the lowest market, therefore we sell for less as we sell for cash.

During the present depression we have not reduced the buying power of any member of our staff, as we have not cut wages one cent.

We take this opportunity of thanking our many patrons and friends for past support, and solicit a continuance of your patronage in the future.

J. Ivan MacKay Leaving

Kootenay will regret the neparture of J. Ivan MacKay, superintendent of the Kootenay division of the C. P. R., who has been promoted to be superintendent at Regina. It is recognised that through this difficult period in railway operation Mr. MacKay has handled C. P. R. affairs in a most satisfactory way in this territory, and that while reductions in service have been put into effect, they have been forced upon the company by stern financial necessity.

Promotion to the superintendency of the Regina division is reward for hard and successful work. The Kootenay division is not an easy one to operate and upon the shoulders of the superintendent have to be borne not only the work of what formerly were two divisions, those of Nelson and Cranbrook, which are now combined into one, but also the superintendency of the lake and river service. On account of the mountainous nature of the Kootenay division, operating difficulties, especially in some seasons of the year, are exceptionally great as compared with railway divisions in the Prairies and other parts of Canada.

Long hours of hard work and the closest attention to every detail of C. P. R. operations in Kootenay, together with an unusual capacity for leadership, which has resulted in the closest co-operation between executives and other employees of the company, have been repsonsible for the outstanding success in his work which Mr. MacKay has made since he came to Nelson.

Helping Crippled Children

Several public-spirited organizations such as the Shriners, the Daughters of the Empire and the Rotary Club are doing immensely valuable work in providing funds for the care of crippled children.

In recent years many hundreds of children who were apparently helplessly crippled have been provided with the facilities for bringing about a cure of their incapacity, and thus been given an opportunity of making their way in life.

In this connection, the International Society for Crippled Children, which is a branch of the Rotary organization, has prepared what it calls the Crippled Child's "Bill of Rights", which is as follows:

(1) Every child has the right to be well born; that is to say, the right to a sound body, complete in its members, physically whole. In the securing of this right, we pledge ourselves to use our influence that proper pre-natal, intra-natal and post-natal care be provided to the end that congenital deformity, insofar as it is humanly and scientifically possible, be prevented.

(2) Every child has the right to develop under clean, wholesome, healthy conditions. In declaring this right, this Society undertakes to use its influence to the end that children everywhere, through proper legislation, both local and general, and through proper supervision and protection, may grow to manhood and womanhood free from crippling conditions caused by insufficient nourishment, improper food, or unsanitary environment, and free, so far as possible, from danger of accident, wounding or maiming.

(3) Notwithstanding the rights of children to be well born and to be protected throughout childhood, it is recognized that in spite of all human precaution there will be, unfortunately, some crippled children. These we declare to have the right to the earliest possible examination, diagnosis and treatment, recognizing, as we do, the fact that many thousand cases of permanent crippling may be eliminated by early and effective care.

(4) Every crippled child has a right, not only to the earliest possible treatment, but to the most effective continuing care, treatment and nursing, including the use of such appliances as are best calculated to assist in remedying or ameliorating its condition.

(5) Every crippled child has the right to an education. Without this, all other provisions, unless for the relief of actual suffering, are vain.

(6) Every crippled child has the right not only to care, treatment and education, but to such treatments as will fit him or her for self-support, either wholly or partially, as the conditions may dictate. Without such practical application education is likewise purposeless.

(7) Every crippled child has the right to vocational placement, for unless the child—boy or girl—after having been given physical care and treatment, and after being educated and trained, is actually placed in a proper position in the life of the World, all that has gone before is of no avail.

(8) Every crippled child has the right to spiritual, as well as body development, and, without regard to particular religious or denominational belief, is entitled to have nourishment for soul-growth.

(10) In brief, not only for its own sake, but for the benefit of Society as a whole, every crippled child has the right to the best body which modern science can help it to secure; the best mind which modern education can provide; the best training which modern vocational guidance can give; the best position in life which his physical condition, perfected as best it may be, will permit, and the best opportunity for spiritual development which its environment affords.

A court in New York recently ruled that a postage stamp 78 years old was worth more than $7000. But that doesn't mean that we won't hate to pay three cents for a new one!

A man has been found out in Nebraska who has no stomach. Just nature's way of providing for the depression, we suppose.

Cleveland parking fines have been reduced to 50 cents. You can get bargains in anything these days, even for being arrested.

"Between You and Me"

By "J.B.C."

This little piece was handed to me Monday by W. B. Bamford at the Rotary luncheon. It talks for itself:

A FISH STORY WITH A BUSINESS MORAL

A naturalist divided an aquarium with a clear glass partition. He put a lusty bass in one section and minnows in the other. The bass would strike every time a minnow approached the glass partition. After three days of fruitless lunging, which netted him only bruises, he ceased his efforts and subsisted on the food that was dropped in.

Then the naturalist removed the glass partition. The minnows swam all around the bass, but he did not strike at a single one. He was thoroughly sold on the idea that business was bad.

The moral: Take another shot at the glass partition. Maybe it isn't there any more.

The boys must have their fun. A few days ago Jack Mulhall and Walter Byron, Hollywood playboys, walked into the Hollywood Athletic club barber shop to become "beautified." While being shaved Walter dozed off.

Suddenly he became aware of very hot towels being put on his face. The heat was almost unbearable but he stood it until the barber went a step too far and began to knead his cheeks as though they were dough.

With several rather uncomplimentary remarks on the tip of his tongue, Walter looked up to discover Jack, wearing the barber's apron, enjoying himself immensely.

• • •

One of cinemaland's odd moments—William Haines likes to drink ice-cold pop while taking a hot bath.

• • •

Sweet thing: "My boy friend has cold feet."

Grandmother: "Shame on you, young lady. In my day we didn't find these things out until after we were married."

• • •

Who should have been a bass drummer—W. E. Wasson, Nelson's city clerk, he beat out perfectly the time to "God Save the King" on George Horstead's back at Rotary Monday.

• • •

Then there's the story about the Scotchman that spanked his children and then put them out in the flower beds to cry.

• • •

Alderman Ross Fleming of Nelson has great faith in the delegates to the Union of British Columbia Municipalities convention. He believes all and every one are heavy timber who put business before pleasure. I second the motion.

• • •

Noticed last night Alderman J. B. Gray getting a lot of credit for a toast to the ladies that W. K. Esling, M. P. Kootenay West, introduced after his return from Ottawa.

• • •

"In the next five years," says the president of an electric refrigerator company, "I look for great strides to be made in the field of home cooling," so the Toronto Telegram goes like this.

• • •

The people who founded the nation
And builded a country to last,
Knew little of refrigeration
In glorious days of the past;
The housewife on holiday mornings,
Oppressed by unbearable heat,
For quite a large price got a small piece of ice,
Which the family hailed as a treat.

The fortunate folk of tomorrow,
When scientists give men a break,
Will never steal money or borrow
To keep summer homes by the lake;
When winter departs, and the weather
Sends tropical waves without cease,
With gadgets of gold, they will turn on the cold,
And remain in the city at peace.

• • •

It is warm in Nelson today, said Mayor D. Leeming of Victoria yesterday. But it is not an oppressive heat. No Mr. Mayor the weather here is just a little example for the stock market. Who cares if it does rise a little?

• • •

The tremors of microphone fright go uncured after years of broadcasting. My own solo attempt drew one letter I shall not soon forget. It was from a fellow who said I might have radio possibilities if I ever got over stuttering.

However, it's pleasant to hear that the mightiest continue to fall for similar reasons. H. G. Wells, for instance, grew so nervous over the presence of station attachés that, after a minor blow-up, he started off in a voice that reached a new high for all time . . .

Forbes-Robertson, with years of stage experience behind him, mopped a damp forehead at the conclusion of his appearance and shouted a throaty, "Thank God—that's over!"

When President Hoover was being groomed for radio appearances, his nervous habit of rapping fingers against a nearby piano went over like the Apocalyptic horsemen on the home stretch. Ford Madox, veteran of lecture platforms, appeared on the verge of apoplexy at the close of his short talk.

Ladies Aid Pays an Honor to the Rev. Mr. Herdman, New Denver

NEW DENVER, B. C., June 27.—Rev. and Mrs. J. Herdman were guests of honor at a charmingly arranged tea given by the ladies of the United aid, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Francis. During the tea hour Mrs. O. V. White in a few well chosen words presented Mrs. Herdman with a suitable gift from the United Aid. Mrs. "Bud" Rose in her charming manner rendered several vocal selections. It being such a lovely day, tea was served on the lawn. Invited guests were Mrs. Black, Mrs. J. Tattrie, Mrs. Lane, Mrs. Sutherland, all from Sandon, Mrs. Hamby and Miss R. Hancock from Silverton, Mrs. Dowden of Alamo mill, Mrs. O. V. White, Mrs. Ward, Mrs. R. Kirkwood, Mrs. Angrignon, Mrs. R.J. Thompson, Mrs. J. Depretto, Mrs. "Bud" Rose, Mrs. W. Cropp, Mrs. E. Cook, Mrs. Francis, Misses Fosberg, Groom and A. Smillie, Rev. and Mrs. S. Brown and the guests of honor, Rev. and Mrs. J. Herdman.

"Okay, lady; if you insist, I'll let you have size 32 . . . but, remember, I WON'T BE RESPONSIBLE, IF ANYTHING HAPPENS!"

LAKESIDE

(By G. S. REES)

A re-discovery this time: the original discovery was made long ago. A re-discovery of Lakeside park, which has succumbed to the urge for standardization. At the risk of being denounced as an ingrate, let me record that some of its natural beauty has been entombed beneath the slab of stone, engraved 1932, and sunk into the eastern portal of the sea-wall. I am over-awed by the new fortifications, but each re-curring visit reconciles me to the fact that, generally speaking, a great improvement has been effected, and as Time softens the present bold outlines and harmonizes the coloring of the concrete, we shall become fully reconciled to the many advantages gained by a clear line of demarcation between the foreshore and the recreational area.

A flash-back to school days recalls the Latin tag—"Balbus built a wall." A wall of historic record, even as the sea-wall of Lakeside park, which now becomes a land mark of achievement in the annals of our civic history under the leadership of the Grand Vizar of the Village.

A wall to withstand any power of wind and wave, a wall to stand up to any equinoctal gale or a south monsoon. What truly magnificent iron bars to prevent the onlooker topsy-turvying among the picnic baskets on the beach, when there is any beach. I could not bend any one of them.

The temptation to build a wall was irresistible; sand and water in abundance on the site, and other ingredients, including labor at reasonable cost. The builders have wisely preserved the fine natural curve of the foreshore, and the new grass sward, presently protected behind a zareba of brushwork, promises well, even though Junior's brother will persist in walking on it.

THE MUSEUM ANNEX

Junior himself enquired what criterion of beauty is manifested in the massive up-ended flywheel embedded in cement at the park gates. On the spur of the moment, and lacking a more critical reply, I answer "My boy, the Psalmist offers assurance that we are fearfully and wonderfully made, and this, of course includes all civic councillors; because of this, at times they do some fearful and wonderful things even as you and I do, and this is one of them."

PUTTING IT OVER

In a futuristic mood of suggestion, let me recommend that some time the parks committee import a flock of sheep from Scotland under the charge of an authentic shepherd in kilts, thus emulating the example of Hyde park in the green and gracious heart of London, where the woollies crop the grass and keep it well trimmed; at the same time, we would bring in a squadron of bushy tailed squirrels, as every real park worthy of the name has its quota of these furry playmates. Such forward movements could be sponsored by the Rotary club, provided the Gyros did not absorb the idea ahead of them. Let us also have some green-painted folding chairs. In Hyde Park, they have thousands. The aged chairman circulates his territory—ting-ting, the tiny bell in his ticket machine rings, and a penny or "tuppence" swells the revenue of the Crown. Meanwhile, one does not enthuse over the present backless seating accomodation; it is not conductive to reflection. A row of garden seats along the grass border facing the sea-wall would be very popular. A regulation forbidding canines the freedom of the park, unless on leash, would not be unpopular, methinks. As I pen these lines, the lake lies before me, softly luminous, far ringed with its chain of tree-clad hills; exquisite tintings appear as the sun nears its setting—a symphony of blue and crimson and gold, for this is flaming June with its "rose moon", the month of beauty and largess. The earth is clothed with such beauty and fullness and abundance as to rebuke the fear that in human affairs, hope, rightly directed, can fail of fruition. The air is delightfully cool, and one lingers, watching the last rays of the sun filtering obliquely through the trees.

"THE TUMULT AND THE SHOUTING DIES"

During the afternoon, many visitors from near and far, with brass bands, and accompanying speeches have attended the official park opening; they have strolled along the promenade and watched the sunshine playing on the sparkling waters. Boys and girls in the carefree lissomness of youth have, in this Elysium of ours, cavorted merrily in leap-frogging and sun-bathing; the water is too frigid except for the most hardy to brave. It is still high tide, and the water laps the concrete steps; at this season of the year, our far famed waterway resembles more a river (which it is) than a lake (which it is not). Chug-chug goes the ferry—"so long, good bye," to one shore; chug-chug, "here we are again," to the other. Day in, day out, winter and summer, spring and autumn, for there is no bridge in the budget of our Victorian parliament, nor will be for many moons to come.

But I close my eyes hurriedly—there passes across my disturbed vision a pair of perambulating beach pyjamas more or less filled with an immature femininity; the color scheme, of Bolshevistic tendencies, resembles a chameleon sliding down a rainbow; no half tones, no compromise in this marching bundle of variegated color; the ensemble is exhausting. Flippety-flop, the bifurcated garment of the indoors has again invaded the great out-of-doors. We must grin and bear it.

A HOT SPOT TALKIE

Later, as our city assumes a metropolitan aspect, we can encourage the establishment of a verbial cockpit in some corner of the park, dedicated to free speech. The open air forums of old Hyde Park in England, and new Hyde Park in Australia, to mention only two, are a constant attraction to the milling herd. And it would be in Nelson.

The lakeside visitor would come under the barrage of multitudinous words that might mean something—or less than nothing; his heart would be assailed by such shoutings as "Be sure your sins will find you out." "To 'ell with capital." "'Oo's this man Bennett," and so forth. He may even learn what it was Gladstone really said in 1876! A rare and free amusement with the unpaid gentry, the soap-boxers and the tub-thumpers, booming happily on about tariffs and the impending doom before dusk of the British Empire; discussing God, Immortality and the Bible freely, inaccurately, and too familiarly. But it is time to return home once again, and so ends this little journey of an aquatic re-discovery.

Auction and Contract Bridge

DIAGNOSING A FALSE CARD

NORTH (Dealer): ♠ J-9-7-4-3 ♥ 5 ♦ 10-7-6 ♣ A-6-5-2

WEST: ♠ Q-10-5 ♥ K-5-4-3 ♦ Q-4 ♣ Q-J-10-4

EAST: ♠ None ♥ A-8-7-2 ♦ K-J-8-3-2 ♣ K-8-7-3

SOUTH: ♠ A-K-8-6-2 ♥ Q-J-10-9 ♦ A-9-5 ♣ 9

C-24

When the above hand was played at Contract, South called one Spade, West passed, and it might depend upon the system North was using whether he bid two or three Spades. Under one system he would be a trifle short of the strength required for a double jump; under another system he would have just enough. But regardless of whether North bid two or three Spades, South would call four.

West led the Queen of Clubs which was won by dummy's Ace, East dropping the Eight as a card of encouragement. Declarer led two rounds of trumps, leaving West with the Queen; and then false-carded by leading the Nine of Hearts. Seeing a singleton in dummy, West knew that East held the Ace since South would have led it if he had held it. West ducked hoping that East might hold Ten or Jack also and be able to win the trick cheaply. Besides, West was anxious to have East lead a Diamond through South. East won with the Ace and sensing the Heart situation led a Diamond instead of a Club. South won with the Ace and led the Queen of Hearts. West again refused to cover. Declarer knew that East might have false-carded with the Heart Ace-King, but he refused to ruff and discarded a Diamond from dummy, it being his only chance for game. The third round of Hearts drew East's King, and a trump from dummy. South then ruffed a Club, and led a fourth Heart on which a second Diamond was discarded from dummy. Since dummy now held no Diamonds, Declarer was able to ruff South's two Diamond losers and allow the adversaries only one Spade and one Heart. Could West have *saved game despite his natural un*willingness to lead from Queen-x of Diamonds at trick 1?

THE CORRECT PLAY

West should have played the lead of South's Heart Nine at trick 4 as the lowest of a sequence and have foreseen the probable result of his failure to take that trick. Had he played his King and led the Queen of Diamonds, South would have won, led the Jack of Hearts and dummy would have discarded a Diamond. East's Heart Ace would have won, he would have led the King of Diamonds, and East-West would have set the contract by winning a Diamond.

Firmer Russian Grip Planned, Siberia

BY Milared C. Davis, Science Service Staff Writer

The second Five Five Year Plan set for Soviet Russia calls for the highest speed and the most ambitious progress in that strategic area to the north of Manchuria—the Siberian Far East.

"In the Far Eastern region the tempo of industrial activity is to be higher than in all other regions of the Union of Soviet Socialists Republics," says a report by the chairman of the State Planning Commission, V. V. Kuibyshev.

Far Eastern Siberia has been an ugly duckling country for a long time. It has universally had predicted for it a swan-like future. But the predictions were vague as to date. Now, it appears, Russia is ready to turn predictions into realities with magic speed.

The Russian Far East borders the Pacific in a thick irregular pattern on the map. This region, farther from Moscow than San Francisco is from New York, is to be transformed into a self-sufficient locality, according to the new Five Year Plan It will depend less and less upon products from other parts of the Soviet Union.

COLONIZING ON EXTENSIVE SCALE

To achieve this transformation, other parts of the Soviet Union are to send colonists. There will be an extensive, organized migration of population, says M. Kuibyshev. With man power transported into the sparsely peopled region, industrial projects will go forward rapidly, according to the plans. A metallurgical plant will rise at Suchan to handle the iron ore and coal from nearby deposits. Fields of grain and flax and sugarbeets are to be extended. Livestock herds are to be increased. Many workers are to be kept busy at fur trapping and fishing.

Coal production is to reach ten or even twelve million tons by the dead line, 1937. Production of oil in Sakhalin and coal in Kamchatka is to be pushed. Timber crews will work in the forests. And because the region is not to stop at producing raw materials, but is to be self-sufficient, there will be mills and factories to turn the flax into cloth and the sugarbeets into sugar and the wood into paper.

Poison ivy or poison bark is more virulent during its flowering season.

Always Good; Now Better

One of the features mentioned in the letters by patrons of Pacific Milk was its finer flavor. Now this is improved. For years vacuum packing has been a great aid to dry foods. But the dry methods could not be applied to liquids. However, Pacific Milk persisted, and today this good milk is packed in vacuum cans, with marked gain to the flavor!

THREE BRITISH WOMEN LOSE IN QUARTER FINALS

Mary Heeley Lone Woman Player Left in Tennis Tourney

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 27 (CP) —Mary Heeley, dashing British girl, Madame Rene Mathieu, the French champion, and two stars from the United States will fight it out for the classic women's singles title in the Wimbledon tennis championships. One of the United States semi-finalists is Helen Jacobs, the other is the peerless Helen Wills Moody, who won the title in 1929 and 1930 and did not compete last year.

The quarter-finals today saw elimination of three British hopes, and of Hilda Krahwinkel of Germany, who was beaten by her countrywomen, Cilli Aussem, in the final a year ago.

BETTY FALLS

Betty Nuthall, who had given great promise of a return to top form, fell before the steady play of Madame Mathieu, who scored a straight set victory with the loss of only three games 6-0, 6-3.

Mrs. Moody has yet to lose a set in the competition. She easily eliminated Dorothy Round of Great Britain, today, 6-0, 6-1, on her march toward her fifth Wimbledon title.

Mary Heeley dropped the first set against Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall, ranking N 1 British woman star, 3-6, but took the remaining two, 6-4, and 6-0.

HELEN JACOBS HAS REVENGE

Completing the semi-final bracket Helen Jacobs, second ranking United States player to Mrs. Moody, had her revenge on Miss Krahwinkel who had eliminated her in the semi-final last year. Miss Jacobs won 6-2, 6-4.

In the semi-final Mrs. Moody encounters Madame Mathieu.

meets Miss Heeley and Miss Jacobs

There was no play in the men's singles, which has been brought down to the quarter-final. The battle in that division resumes tomorrow with Fred Perry, British Davis cup star, playing Jack Crawford of Australia; H. W. "Bunny" Austin meets Frank Shields of United States; Sidney B. Wood of United States meeting Jiro Satoh of Japan, and Ellsworth Vines, United States champion, paired against Enrique Maier, champion of Spain and the fastest server on the continent.

WOOD AND MANGIN WIN

In the men's doubles today Sidney Wood and Gregory Mangin of United States entered the fourth round by defeating C. A. Magraine and J. R. Reddal, England, 6-2, 7-5, 6-4; Jack Crawford and Harry Hopman of Australia, were surprisingly defeated by R. Miki and Satoh of Japan, 6-4, 10-12, 6-2, 3-6, 9-7; Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn of the United States defeated Ian Collins and J. C. Gregory of Great Britain, 6-4, 6-1, 6-4; Borotra and Brugnon of France defeated Garden-Dower and Wilde of Britain, 6-3, 6-1, 8-6; Menzel of Czechoslovakia and Oliff of Britain defeated the Fletcher brothers 12-10, 7-5, 2-6 and 6-1; Christian Boussus and Merlin of France defeated Avery and Ritchie, 6-4, 7-5, 6-1; and Perry and Hughes of Britain defeated Lyttleton Rogers and Aoki 6-3, 6-8, 7-5.

In the women's doubles, third round, Miss Jacobs and Elizabeth Ryan of London defeated Mrs. J. Lycett and Mrs. Peacock of England, 6-2, 7-5; Mlle. Payot, Swiss champion, and Miss Thomas defeated Miss Hewitt and Kathleen Stammers of Britain 6-4, 9-7; Mrs. Beamith and Mrs. Mellows of Britain defeated Senora Pons and Miss Goldschmidt 6-3, 6-2, and Mrs. Holcroft Watson and Miss Harvey defeated Mrs. Whittingstall and Miss Nuthall 12-10, 6-1.

WINS IN HALF AN HOUR

Mrs. Mathieu took only half an hour to defeat Miss Nuthall in her singles semi-final. The English girl was most erratic, over-hitting the baseline and sending easy shots into the net, besides serving some double faults. Mrs. Matieu, however, hit clean and hard and served many aces. The Frenchwoman caused some amusement in the fifth game of the second set when she served underhand and double-faulted. Miss Nuthall was completely in eclipse.

Mary Heeley, fleet-footed star from Birmingham, was the victor in the most interesting match of the day, her win over the No. 1 ranking player created some surprise. Mrs. Whittingstall started out fine with superb serving and great returns but she began to crack up. In the second set she demanded silence and began to serve double faults. Miss Heeley was brilliant in the third set, making no errors, lobbing, with genius, retrieving everything and generally running away with the match.

ENGLAND TAKES A FIRST INNING MARGIN, CRICKET

LONDON, June 27 (C P cable)—Ten thousand spectators at Lord's today saw England dismiss All-India for 189 runs in their first innings of the only test match of the season, giving England a first-innings margin of 70 runs.

Then they watched with amazement as the Indians, duplicating their Saturday's performance, crumbled the early English wickets with excellent bowling and first class fielding. The world-record holding first wicket partnership of Holmes and Sutcliffe, as in the first innings, held no terrors for the agile visitors. Herbert Sutcliffe was caught by Captain Nayudu off Amar Singh's bowling at 19; Holmes was clean bowled by J. Hangir Khan when he had scored 11. Khan, who was just as troublesome as Nissar Singh had been on Saturday, bowled Hammond, and Woolly was caught off Khan's bowling. Four English wickets were lost for 67 runs.

Douglas Jardine, English captain who is prominently mentioned as leader of the English team which will go to Australia next winter in an attempt to recover the ashes, again stepped into the breach. He joined Paynter at the wickets and stemmed the tide of falling balls, carrying the English total to 141 for four wickets when stumps were drawn.

The match concludes tomorrow.

CASE FOR SECOND BASE

It sounded like a pretty fair case, at that. Then the third baseball writer voiced his opinion—

"You can have Simmons and Gehrig. I'll take Gerhinger of the Tigers. He's the best workman in the big leagues, bar nobody. He hasn't played as long as Frisch, and hasn't had the spotlight on him in world series like Frisch has, but he's a better second baseman than Frisch or I'll eat all the upholstery in this cab.

"Look at the Tigers. Last year Gehringer was out quite a bit and was handicapped with a lame arm. This year he's in good shape. Speaking of psychological advantages, Gehringer is the guy who gives your ball club just that. He lifts the whole club because the boys who play on the team know they're working with a whale of a ball player. He's good company.

"You lose lots of ball gas through second base. Plenty of runs are cut off there, and tight games are won or lost by bum throws or poor fielding. Gehringer is a great infielder. I might stretch a point and say he's the greatest infielder in the majors. Name somebody better. And he might not hit as high as Gehrig and Simmons, but he hits plenty when it counts. And he hits better than any other second baseman in his league."

• • •

IT GOES TO SIMMONS

There was one more county to be heard from, one more vote to be cast. The writer who had brought up the subject in the first place thought for a minute and the only sound was the clicking meter in the cab. Then he spoke—

"Well, after all is said and done, considering age, ability, fitness and your psychological advantages, I guess I'll have to take Simmons. If I had to pitch to somebody in the major leagues, I'd rather pitch to anybody else. And he's a smart outfielder too. He plays nearly as often as Gehrig, though I think Gehrig has played in a lot of consecutive games.

"I like that argument about Simmons winning ball games all by himself. That's what he has done, won them all by himself. Ask Clark Griffith."

After it was all over and the boys perched in the press box to put down the story of another ball game, this baseball writer began wondering how it happened that Babe Ruth wasn't even mentioned. He's a pretty good ball player, too.

• • •

Discussion of that interview Wesley Ferrell, Indian pitcher, gave in which he named Joe McCarthy to the baseball writers in New York, as the greatest manager in baseball, has set the boys in the press box all a-flutter.

A day or so after Ferrell made this amazing statement, one of the Cleveland writers asked him on what grounds he based his estimate.

"Because of the way he handles pitchers," was the young Carolinian's reply.

Finlander Betters World Javelin Throw

ABO, Finland, June 27 (AP).—Matti Jarvinen of Finland bettered the world's record for the javelin throw today with a toss of 74.02 metres, or 242 feet, 10 29-128 inches.

The listed world's record for the javelin throw is 71.01 metres (232 feet, 11¾ inches), set by E. H. Lundquist of Sweden at Stockholm in 1928.

Curlew Creamery Hands 9-7 Defeat to the Shamrocks

In a recent softball game the Curlew Creamery team defeated the Shamrocks to the tune of 9-7. The team of Creamery players was lagging on the short end of a 2-1 score until the fifth inning when they sneaked in five runs. They led 7-6 at the end of the seventh and in the eighth the Shamrocks tied up the score. The Curlew players got two runs in the final inning to win the game.

The teams and scorers were:

Curlew—DeVoin 1, E. Murraro 1, H. Jenne 1, Richardson 1, W. Murraro 1, T. Harrison 2, I. Kraft 1, Moore 1, and Stenson.

Shamrocks— C. Nemrava 3, W. Nemrava, J. Nemrava 1, Nick Hucal 1, B. Kitto, B. Swift, H. Sweeney and J. Brown 2.

Big League BASEBALL Care of Arm

By AL DEMAREE

The average young ball player, even if he has no ambition to become a professional, may be still interested to know how to avoid injuring his arm, and keep it in fair condition as the years roll by.

The first point young pitchers should bear in mind, is that it is not necessary to throw a curve ball on every pitch. This tires and eventually wrecks a good arm. Yet the average young pitcher, and a majority of spectators, think that more curves than fast balls are thrown. Many young players imagine they should have four or five varieties of curve balls. All you need is a good fast ball, a fair curve and possibly a fair change of pace. Use four or five fast balls to every curve.

Many young pitchers also have the idea that they should work out a sore arm. Nothing could be more erroneous. A sore arm needs rest and nothing else. There is a great deal of difference between a stiff arm and a sore arm. The stiff arm can be worked off but throwing only makes a sore arm more painful and dangerous.

Al Demaree has prepared an illustrated leaflet on "Base Running" which he will gladly send to any reader requesting it. Address Al Demaree in care of this paper and be sure to enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.

BALL TOURNEY IS SCHEDULED; CRESTON, JULY 1

Childrens Sports Planned in Exhibition Park; Pole Climb Planned

CRESTON, B. C., June 27.—All that is now required to make the revival of Creston's old-time Dominion Day celebration a complete success is the right kind of weather. Committees and sub-committees of about 20 members of Wild Rose Lodge, Knights of Pythias are handling the affair, which will include a baseball tournament with teams from Wynndel, Canyon, Erickson and Creston. The children's sports will offer a complete line of events for children from 7 to 14 years. Climbing the greasy pole will be reintroduced with a ham as the prize for the man who can mount high enough to pick it off the top. A feature for the ladies is a nail driving contest. The big day will be staged at Exhibition park and in the evening the Pythia Sisters are combining with the knights for a dance in the park pavilion.

Miss M. Stenberg Birthday Hostess Johnson's Landing

JOHNSON'S LANDING, B. C., June 27.—Miss Margaret Stenberg was hostess at a small party on Tuesday afternoon, the occasion being her ninth birthday. Games were played until four o'clock when tea was served, a lovely birthday cake being in the center of the table. After tea games were resumed by the small children until five o'clock. The invited guests were Mrs. O. Stenberg, Miss G. Nelson, Miss Dorothy Raper, Misses Margaret, Nellie and Lillian Stenberg, Miss Florence McNicol, John Stenberg, Alvin Lake and Bruce McNicol.

While out riding on Monday afternoon, Ken McPherson had the misfortune to fall off his horse and break a bone in his wrist. He was taken to Kaslo to receive medical treatment.

Mrs. E. Jones is spending a few days in Kaslo.

CARDINALS TIE WITH CLEANERS IN FERNIE PLAY

FERNIE, B. C., June 27.—The two leading teams in the City league softball met Friday night, when Cleaners were defeated for the first time this season by the Holy Name Cardinals who have only one loss on their record, defeated them by the small score of 6-4. This ties the Cardinals with the Cleaners for first place and decides a battle which has been looked forward to for some time. A novel game was witnessed, Cleaners obtaining four runs in the first inning, after which the Cardinals settled down and they scored no more for the rest of the game while the Cardinals piled up six. Those crossing the home plate for the Cleaners were C. Lasalle, J. Timchuck, Ihas and Gus Peters. Stars for the Cardinals were Pete Rigits, Jack Turner, Slyvia Maiso, Charley Misisco, and Henry Hughes who obtained two runs.

Cleaners batteries were J. Timchuck, catcher; Bruno Megale, pitcher; other on the team were M. Timchuck, Swidurski, F. Bosio, H. Glover, J. Pareschs, and Charley Perri.

New York Bankers See in Flotation of Provincial Bond Issues in London a New Resort for Canadian Borrowers

Herald-Tribune Sees Tribute to London Market in Recovery

NEW YORK, June 24 (CP).—Successful flotation of two provincial bond issues in the London market is accepted by New York bankers as a fore-runner of increased resort by Canadian borrowers to the London new issues market "during the current period of financial strain and unsettled exchanges," says the Herald Tribune today.

The paper refers to the placing of British Columbia's £1,500,000 of 5 per cent issue in London in May, which was quickly over-subscribed at 99, and of 1,000,000 Alberta 5 per cent last Thursday at 98½.

"The new trend," says the paper, is something of a tribute to the London new issues market, which recovered its poise last December.

"It remains the opinion of almost all competent authorities that the Canadian dollar will eventually be established on a parity with that of the United States, notwithstanding the present discount of nearly 8 per cent on Montreal funds in New York. The close inter-relations of United States and Canadian business interests, and the large aggregate of Canadian gold bonds held in this country, are considered ample insurance of eventual exchange parity. Nor is it thought that such parity will be difficult to achieve or maintain in a normal world.

CAS APPROVAL

"It is accepted here the Canadian borrowing in London has the tacit approval of the highest banking authorities in England. This assumption is justified, since the effect on the exchanges accords with impressions prevalent here in regard to London financial policy.

"All exchange transactioons between Montreal and London are mediate by New York. Canadian borrowing in London means, therefore, that additional pressure will be exerted to depress the British currency unit in terms of the United States dollar, while a favorable effect will be exerted on the Canadian unit in terms of the dollar.

"That London is averse to any substantial rise in sterling has been shown by the establishment of the stabilizatioon fund. The effect of Canadian borrowing in London coincides with the operation of that fund, and it is therefore assumed that encouragement will be given the flotation of Canadian bond issues in London."

VANCOUVER ACTIVE ISSUES CONTINUE DOWNWARD TREND

Trading Is Mixed; Five Show Losses, Remainder Are Unchanged

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 27 (CP). Active issues continued their downward trend of the past week in mixed trading on the Vancouver stock exchange today. Five of the 15 issues traded during the day showed losses at the close ranging as high as 5 and 6 points. The remainder of the list closed unchanged in quiet trading.

Pioneer, the most active of the listed stocks, opened firmer at 3.40, but softened in late trading to 3.35, down 5c. Pend Oreille, a light trader at 40c, dipped 6c from its previous close. Premier Gold lost 1 to 42. Golconda turned an early 1-point gain into a loss of the same amount, closing at 10c.

Coast Breweries, in fair activity, declined from a firm opening to 5½, off ¼. Lorne at 8 and Noble Five at 2 were both unchanged.

WINNIPEG WHEAT MARKET IS OFF FRACTIONALLY

Stock Issue Uneasiness Given As Chief Reason for the Sag

WINNIPEG, June 27.—Traders in wheat futures shunned a variety of encouraging news today and heeded scattered reports of darker hue, pressing down prices on the Winnipeg market fractionally after a mid-session rise that for a time erased earlier losses.

Unsteadiness of stock issues was given as the chief reason for wheat's sag and lack of week-end exports from North America accentuated the bear mood. At the close wheat values were down ¼c to ½c a bushel.

July closed at 53⅞c, off ½c; October at 56½, off ¼ to ⅜; and December at 57⅞, down ¼.

Reports that heavy rains were delaying harvest operations in winter wheat areas of the United States had no reaction here.

EXPECT REALIZE ESTIMATE 25,000 CRATES BERRIES

Carloads Leaving Creston District Daily; Rain Hampers Haymakers

CRESTON, B. C., June 27.—The valley's strawberry crop is commencing to move in quantity, Wyndel Cooperative Fruit Growers rolling four cars in the past week, two of which went east on Saturday destined for Winnipeg. In addition to carload lots, l. c. l. shipments are now going strong from Erickson, Creston and the Reed and Mather siding, as well as Wynndel. So far the demand has been about equal to the supply but prices on the l. c. l. exports will not be as good as a year ago. The peak of the season will be reached before the week is over and with favorable weather Wynndel will be sending out three cars every two days for the rest of the week. The district was favored with a general rainfall on Wednesday which will lengthen out the berry growing season, and there is every reason to expect the early season estimate of 25,000 crates of strawberries being realized. These rains, however, have not been exactly to the liking of the hay makers some of whom have suffered some loss on their alfalfa which was just cut when the rains came.

STOCK PRICES AT TORONTO, WEAK

Trading at Low Ebb; Dividend Fears Cause Retrograde Movement

TORONTO, June 27.—Conspicuously weak prices, with trading at a low ebb, marked today's session on the Toronto stock exchange. General declines in New York dictated the market trend, with dividends fears the cause assigned in Wall street for the retrograde movement.

Trading locally was slack, with turnover of only 5563 shares. Of 39 issues traded, four closed higher, against 16 lower and 19 unchanged.

Abitibi preferred sold ½ higher at 2⅝, closing unchanged. Bell lost a point, Brazilian was down ⅛, and Consumers' Gas was up ⅞.

In the oil section B. A. was off ⅜, Imperial was off ¼. International Pete and McColl were unchanged. International Nickel lost ⅛ to 4⅝.

Canada Wire "A" lost 8¾ to a new low of 30¼, and Standard Paving preferred was off 4 to a new low of 25.

SALMO MAKES PROGRESS FOR JULY 1 EVENTS

Big Day Planned; Committee Putting Grounds Into Shape

SALMO, B. C., June 27.—A meeting of the Salmo Athletic club was held on Friday evening at the residence of Henry Payant. Much progress was made toward making the July 1 celebration a huge success.

At the opening of the meeting a report was read by Mrs. K. Sapples of the plans of the dance committee, of which she is chairman. No definite decision was made on the music, because orchestras which she had written to for prices had not made their price known. Decorating of the hall for the dance and refreshments were decided upon. This committee consists of Misses K. Sapples, Muriel Lindow, Peggy Donaldson, and C. Leahy, H. Lindow, and C. Dorey.

After a report the members of the club were informed by J. F. Donaldson, Alfred Cowley and Henry Payant of the successful day they had they had in asking merchants of Nelson to assist the club with donations of prizes. Also C. Leahy informed the members of his success in effecting of the lumber camp of A. B. Campbell.

It was decided that two traffic directors should be appointed. W. Donaldson and Clifford Hearn were the ones appointed.

The baseball boys decided it would be impossible to go to Silverton to play baseball this Sunday as there was too much work to be done on the park before the celebration. Silverton was anxious to have Salmo play home and home games with them.

The girls softball team elected as captain of their team Peggy Donaldson.

It is vital in democracy that the public opinion upon which it rests shall be an informed and educated opinion.—President Herbert Clark Hoover.

BERRIES MAKE HIT ON ARRIVAL PRAIRIE MARKET

Iced Reefers Idea Works Well; Japanese Onions on Coast Market

VANCOUVER, June 27— Local strawberries show a big range in price due to the changeable weather conditions. The price is expected to advance within the next few days as heavy exports are anticipated to prairie points and this is expected to shorten up supplies on the local market. New features on the market are Japanese onions quoted at $3.75 per crate and California peaches at $1.65 to $2 per box. Celery is scarce at $2 per dozen. Local asparagus is bringing 10 to 12 cents per pound. Local head lettuce is plentiful. Tomatoes and new potatoes are somewhat lower in price. No. 1 wheat is down $1 per ton, while scratch feed and lay mash are down $2 per ton.

Fruit and vegetable imports into Victoria and Vancouver during week ending June 23. California: Apricots, 197 boxes, plums 884 lugs, peaches 174 boxes, canteloupes 436 crates, celery 37 crates, onions 933 sacks. Washington: Apples 3542 boxes, cherries 416 lubs

Calgary—Weather warm and cloudy and rain would be welcomed. Another car of strawberries, by freight arrived yesterday morning. This car was shipped by the Central Fruit Distributors, Mission. The berries were in fine condition which is a further testimony of the possibility of shipping strawberries by freight in iced reefers. This car contained possibly the best lot of berries arriving in Calgary so far this season. Armstrong cabbage on the market is of excellent quality. The first cherries from the Okanagan arrived yesterday. These are Centennials which are not favored on the local market.

Saskatoon—Weather is again warm and clear following a beneficial rain. All British Columbia apples are cleaned up here and Washington Winesaps have the market to themselves. British Columbia strawberry arrivals are exceeding the demand and the wholesale price dropped about 25 cents during the past few days, which is a sudden reversal of conditions prevailing last weekend when jobbers were unable to satisfy the demand. Mainland berries are arriving in very good condition. British Sovereign is establishing a good reputation and is greatly favored. Hothouse tomato supplies are liberal and selling fairly freely at 25 cents per pound retail. Armstrong head lettuce is showing excellent quality and same applies to cauliflower.

Seattle— The cherry market is weak with demand slow and supply liberal; Bings are selling at 5 cents to 10 cents per pound, and Anns from 3 to 5 cents. Receipts of apricots are increasing with market steady at 75 cents per crate. It is expected that the first car of apricots will be shipped from White Bluffs on Monday. Eastern Washington Transparent apple supply is liberal; lugs are quoted from $1.25 to $1.50 and peach boxes at 75 cents. The lettuce market is steady. Shippers are quoting today from $2.50 to $2.75 f.o.b. on track with good demand. Strawberry receipts liberal, demand light and market weaker at 50 to 75 cents per crate. Raspberry receipts are increasing but market weak at $2 per crate.

NEW YORK LIST SAGS TO THE OLD AVERAGE LOWS

Liquidation Seeps Into the Market Weighing Down All Groups

NEW YORK, June 27 (By John L. Cooley, Associated Press financial writer). — Light liquidation seeped through the stock market today, disturbing principally the half dozen or so issues whose dividends soon come on the carpet, but nevertheless weighing down all groups sufficiently to approximate the old average low established early this month.

Prices rallied after the opening. This narrow advance above Saturday's close found a fair accumulation of selling orders awaiting execution and under the leadership of such issues as U. S. Steel, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse, American Telephone, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Coca Cola, Corn Products, National Biscuit and Public Service of New Jersey, the market bogged down to a weak close. Transactions totalled 767,090 shares.

For the stocks mentioned net losses ranged from 1 to more than 4 points. U. S. Steel preferred was off 5 at the worst, while Norfolk & Western, presumably in anticipation of a dividend change, broke 9. International Business Machines lost 5. American Can, one of last week's softest leaders, fought off the trend, being virtually unchanged.

While United States government issues firmed moderately in today's drowsy bond market, corporate categories showed but feeble resistance to scattered liquidation.

It was the dullest session in the past two weeks, sales totalling only $7,248,000, par value.

Losses in the industrials and rails ranged from fractions to 2 or 3 points, but the utilities showed more resistance.

FERNIE CITY MAKES PLEA FOR AID IN PRESENT SITUATION; COUNCIL SENDS LETTER TO THE GOVERNMENT

City Has Arrived at Point Where It Is Impossible to Finance

FERNIE, B. C., June 27.—A letter setting forth unemployment conditions in the city of Fernie was drawn up at a special meeting of the city council. It will be sent to Premier Tolmie, Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Mon. J. W. Jones, and Thomas Uphill, M. P. P., and copies of the letter will be forwarded to several public bodies including the board of trade so that they may take action if they think it advisable.

The letter ran as follows: "At a special meeting of the city council I was instructed to place before the Dominion and provincial governments the unemployment situation in Fernie at the present time. Although Fernie has been affected by the depression more than any other community, every effort has been made to carry on with the hope of some turn in conditions, but we have arrived at a point where it is impossible to finance even a third proportion of the relief necessary. The city bankers do not wish to give further credit and frankly tell us that we have gone as far as can be expected. We owe the bank at the present time $80,064.16, against which we have up to May 31 the sum of $18,633.49 due from the provincial and Dominion governments on the Unemployment and Farm Relief act, 1931, and the 1932 tax levy of $60,271.60, but of which it is estimated not more than 60 per cent will be paid—due to a large proportion of those from whom taxes are payable being on city relief lists—and there is no question we will wind up the year owing quite a balance, which due to the condition of the coal industry is not acceptable to the bank.

"In 1931 we took advantage of the Unemployment and Farm Relief act and floated a bond for purpose of taking care of the city's share and since August 19 to May 31, 1932, we have finished unemployment relief as follows: Total number of men given work, 326; number of dependents on foregoing, 954; average amount given, $26.30 per month; total relief, $81,451.00. During this period there was furnished direct relief as follows: direct relief to heads of families, 77 and two individuals; number of dependents on foregoing, 217 amount, $1,704.23. The relief furnished based on last federal census of 2700 shows that we have assisted 48 per cent of the residents of the city. In addition to the foregoing there was over $2000 raised as a Christmas Cheer fund that had, and is being expended for those not able to follow employment. There are also 70 youths registered for work between the ages of 17 and 27 years for whom it has been impossible to provide any employment.

"This city is as you know a single industry town. The Crows Nest Pass Coal Company, Ltd., with mines at Coal Creek is the only industry at Coal Creek, the only industry supporting Fernie, has through present conditions and loss of export trade, through duties placed against Canadian export coal, have been reduced to the point where they can only furnish the average mine laborer one day's work a week. The Crows Nest Pass Coal Co., Ltd., are operating, I understand, at a loss in an effort to give employment, but the amount they are able to furnish is away short of what is required for these men to exist.

"We have applications coming in daily from parties who did not register for relief work, and last year had some funds with which to carry on, but are now being forced into the position where they are compelled to ask for assistance. The city has been able to give a very limited amount of relief since June 1 and the situation is getting serious, many are going without the necessities of life and we are at a loss to know what the result might be if this condition continues.

"We must seek assistance in some way, and for the purpose of getting the matter before the governments, whom we must of necessity look to, the council asks that the government send someone to Fernie to check up the situation here. We will give every assistance in furnishing information as to conditions, but would ask that immediate action be taken."

It was also moved that Hon. R. W. Bruhn and Hon. J. Hinchliffe, who are in Nelson attending the convention of B. C. Municipalities, be asked to visit Fernie in order that the unemployment conditions be represented to them.

A motion was passed that a sanitary sewer relief extension be proceeded with at once if arrangements could be made with the banks or merchants of the city. Satisfactory arrangements were completed and the work will be carried on.

TORONTO MINING MARKET REFLECTS SAG AT NEW YORK

Leaders in Gold Section Remain in Most Favored Position

TORONTO, June 27.—Reactionary movement today on the Standard stock and mining exchange reflected the downward trend on the New York market. Leaders in the gold section remained in the most favored position. Sales totalled 153,000 shares. Of 52 issues traded, 22 declined, 17 advanced and 13 closed unchanged.

Noranda fell 50c to $13.50 with 728 shares out.

Chemical Research was the most active issue in the oil section. It broke sharply early, then recovered to close up 5 points to $1.25.

Teck Hughes and Granada Gold were the firm spots in the gold section, each moving up 5 points. Other leaders were soft, with McIntyre down 40c to $17.10. Lake Shore fell 15c to $26.50. Hollinger at $4.80 and B. C. Pioneer at $3.50 each lost 10 points.

GRAIN VALUES AT CHICAGO TUMBLE

Weak Action at New York and Likelihood of Big Corn Yield Cause Slide

CHICAGO, June 27 (By John P. Boughan, Associated Press market editor).—Weak-kneed action of the New York stock market, simultaneous with increasing likelihood of a bumper yield of corn, tumbled grain values downhill today.

Wheat and corn both fell almost even with the season's bottom price record.

Wheat closed nervous, ¾ to ⅞ under Saturday's finish, corn ⅝ to 1⅜ down, oats ¼ to ½ off, and provisions unchanged to 17c up.

At first, wheat and other grains showed an upward trend, owing largely to a spurt of buying because of cloudbursts in the wheat harvest region southwest. Talk of a wet harvest not only damaging the quality of the winter crop, but reducing its size because of difficulty in using combines, had a transient bullish effect. The market was also stimulated for a time by almost 6,500,000 bushels decrease of the amount of wheat afloat and by 1,000,000 bushels curtailment of supplies at Liverpool.

DOLLAR ADVANCES HALF A CENT

NEW YORK, June 27.—The Canadian dollar advanced ½c to 87⅝c on local foreign exchanges today, while the pound sterling eased ¼c to $3.61¾ for cable transfers.

The dollar opened unchanged at 87⅛c this morning, rose to 87¼c at noon, sold for 87⅜c in mid-afternoon, and ended the day at 87⅜c.

HECLA MINING COMPANY BONDS THE HOMESTAKE

Immediate Exploration by Diamond Drill to Be Made; $50,000 Bond

GRAND FORKS, B. C., June 27.—Bonding of the Homestake mineral claim for $50,000 by the Hecla Mining company of Wallace, Idaho, has been consummated with A. J. Fee, Patrick Byrne, P. A. Z. Pare and Byron Wilson, and calls for immediate exploration by diamond drill.

The Homestake is in Franklin camp, 3000 feet from the Union mine, from which the Hecla company recently shipped a car of ore that runs about $50,000 in gold values. Development work on the Homestake has exposed a vein four feet in width, from which gold values up to $560 have been obtained. Should exploratory work prove satisfactory ore from the Homestake will be mined through the workings of the Union where the Hecla has a concentrating plant, which has been operating consistently on Union ore.

The Homestake was uncovered by A. J. Fee, who cleaned out a shaft and put in a chance shot last summer. The Hecla officials have been in close touch with it for some months, and acquisition by bond reflects belief that it has an extension of the high-grade formation developed in the Union.

MONTREAL STOCK MARKET DEVELOPS DOWNWARD TREND

11 Small Losses Are Scored Against Five Gains

MONTREAL, June 27.—While the interlisted issues held almost motionless, a downward trend developed generally today on the Montreal stock exchange, 11 small losses being scored, against five gains.

Brazilian Traction and International Nickel held unchanged, while Canadian Pacific receded ¼.

Gains ranging from a point to a small fraction were scored by Steel of Canada preferred, Bank of Montreal, National Breweries, Abitibi and Atlantic Sugar.

A sharp drop of 10⅝ points in Canada Wire and Cable "A" stood out. In its first sale since May 2, the issue opened at a new low of 30 and recovered to close at 31½. Consolidated Smelters lost 1¼ points.

Total sales were 5009 shares and $72,350 bonds.

Expense Cut More Than Makes Up the Operating Loss on C. N. R. for May

MONTREAL, June 27.—A decrease in gross revenues of $3,918,273 in May, 1932, compared with May of last year, was more than offset by reduced operating expenses of the Canadian National railways for the month, according to the monthly statement of revenues and expenses issued today showing gross revenues in May of $11,686,354.

Operating expenses of the Canadian National in May, 1932, were $10,954,559, a reduction of $4,209,378 from the operating expenses figure of May, 1931. Net revenue for May, 1932, therefore, showed an increase over May, 1931, of $291,103 to reach a total of $731,794.

PHILADELPHIA 15-9
BOSTON 8-4

PHILADELPHIA, June 27—Athletics levelled their big guns on five Boston pitchers today and battered the Red Sox into submission in both games of a doubleheader, 15 to 8, and 9 to 4.

Three Sox twirlers were pounded for 19 hits in the first game, while George Earnshaw coasted along comfortably to mark up his fourth straight victory and his 12th of the season. Mule Haas' seventh inning home run with the bases loaded featured the nightcap, in which Tony Freitas outpitched a pair of visiting curvers.

Although he was playing on the losing side, Roy Johnson, recently obtained by Boston from Detroit, gave the day's greatest hitting exhibition. The former Tiger belted Earnshaw for two home runs and a double in the opener, knocking in seven of his team's eight runs, and nicked Freitas for another homer in the second tilt.

SPLENDID MUSICAL PROGRAM GIVEN BY I. O. D. E. OF NELSON

Proceeds Go to Welfare Work; Directed by Mrs. Gladys Webb Foster

Held under the auspices of the Kokanee chapter of the I.O.D.E., a splendid variety of musical selections was given by well-known Nelson artists at a concert in the Capitol theater Sunday evening. The entire program was under the capable direction of Mrs. Gladys Webb Foster. Mrs. J. T. Andrews, as chairman, expressed thanks to J. P. Pitner for granting the chapter use of the theater. Proceeds of the affair will go toward welfare work of the chapter.

The program was as follows:

Violin ensemble class, Haydn's melody, Starry night, Pleyels Sonata; Mrs. F. Paddon, recitation, The Torch of Life; Leonard Truscott, violin solos, Canzonetta and The Old Refrain; Sydney Thomas, pianoforte solos, Balad in G minor, No. 1, Chopin and Etude in E major, No. 3, Chopin; Mrs. J. T. Andrews, vocal solos, For You Alone and The Waters of Minnetonka; Mrs. F. Paddon, Lavender; Mrs. Gladys Webb Foster, Mrs. Anne Ashby and Miss M. McLeod, string trios, Mosqkowski and Estrelleta.

The national anthem, accompanied by the violin ensemble class, concluded the program.

C. S. Hester, Kimberley Watches the Strawberry Harvest, Held Creston

CRESTON, B. C., June 27—Miss Lottie Bowthron of Victoria, who acts in the capacity of advisor to rural teachers under the authority of the department of education, was here on an official visit during the past week, making a visit to the schools at West Creston and Camp Lister, which are in charge of lady principals and staff.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Crellin and family of Nanton Alta., who were here for the funeral of Ardrey Wilson, left for home at the end of the week. Mrs. Wilson of Olds, Alta., who was here for the burial of her son, Ardrey, will remain a few days longer, a guest of her daughter, Mrs. George Mawson.

Mrs. J. S. Irvine and daughter, Miss Margaret Irvine, of Fernie, have been spending a few days here, guests of Col. and Mrs. Maliandaine.

Arthur Speers, who has been a student at Mount Royal college, Calgary, has arrived to spend the summer vacation at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Speers.

C. S. Hester is here from Kimberley and will remain for about a month, looking after the harvest of the strawberry crop on his place north of town.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Thomson left on Friday for New Westminster, where they will reside at least for the present.

Miss Nancy Dawnes is back on duty at Creston Valley Public hospital after a short visit at Nelson where she attended the nurses' graduating exercises last week. Miss Downes is a 1931 graduate of the Nelson hospital.

Miss Beth Pitman left on Saturday for Vancouver, where she will visit with friends for the next couple of weeks.

Newton Fraser, who last year resided here, spent a couple of days here last week, renewing acquaintances. He was on his way from Calgary to Penticton.

Steps to Be Taken Against Assaulters, Catholic Pilgrims

Premier of Northern Ireland Condemns Those Responsible

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, June 27 (CP cable).—Disturbances between groups in Northern Ireland and parties of pilgrims to the Eucharistic congress in Dublin brought tonight an official statement in which Viscount Craigavon, premier of Northern Ireland, condemned those responsible and declared active steps would be taken to bring them to justice.

A number of persons were seriously injured in the melees which occurred at several railway stations as bands of Catholic pilgrims on their way to the closing ceremonies of the great congress yesterday were attacked. Stones were thrown and in some instances pilgrims gathering at railway stations were attacked by groups of Orangemen. At Belfast, Larne, Donnemanagh and Ballyment pilgrims were attacked and stoned.

Armed police today guarded the railway line along which the trains of children from the congress returned to Ballymena, and at various stations disbanding pilgrims were escorted to their homes without incident. Tomorrow a special guard will accompany Cardinal Lauri, the papal legate, on his visit from Dublin to Ulster.

Jones Returned in Royal Constituency

Has a Majority for Seat in Commons of 588 Over Liberal Opponent

SUSSEX, N. B., June 27 (CP)—Hon. George B. Jones, Conservative, was returned to the house of commons by a majority of 588 votes as a result of today's by-election in the constituency of Royal. The complete count reported by all polling stations gave Mr. Jones a total of 7739 votes as compared with 7151 for his Liberal opponent, Donald V. White.

The by-election was necessitated by the resignation of Mr. Jones from the house of commons last April.

In the general election of 1930 Mr. Jones was victorious in a straight party fight with the same opponent. At that time the Conservative candidate received 8698 votes against 5774 for Mr. White.

MISS GODDERIS OF CRANBROOK, BRIDE

Is Wedded to Frank Ralph Smith in Pretty Ceremony; Honeymoon at Coast

CRANBROOK, B C., June 27—A pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Mary's church on Saturday morning, June 25, when Margaret Josephine, only daughter of Mrs. Godderis and the late F. Godderis, was united in marriage to Frank Ralph Smith, Rev. Father Murphy performing the ceremony.

The altar of the church was banked with masses of peonies, making an attractive setting for the wedding party. The bride chose for her marriage a costume of coral pink georgette with wide picture hat of matching shade and carried yellow roses. She was attended by Miss Simone Bourgeois, whose costume was of flowered yellow and green chiffon, with picture hat of yellow. Henry Godderis, brother of the bride, attended the groom.

The wedding march was played by Miss Helen Van Haverkke of Spokane, cousin of the bride. Miss Jean Glendenning sang Ave Maria and a marriage hymn was sung by Mrs. J. Kennedy.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride when congratulations were tendered by about 40 guests. The rooms were decorated with pink and white streamers and quantities of roses. In the dining room a three-tiered wedding cake centered the table, pink tapers and pink sweet peas completing a very dainty decoration. Tea was poured by Mrs. A. Andrews and coffee by Mrs. J. Jackson. Miss Bessie Robertson cut the ices. The serviteurs were Miss Lyllian Jackson, Miss Gertrude Patmore, Miss Mabel Stender and Miss Vivian Kummer. The wedding cake was cut by the bride and the toast proposed by the groomsman.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Smith left for Spokane, Portland and Vancouver being motored as far as Yahk by a number of the wedding guests. The bride travelled in a flat crepe ensemble of light brown with matching hat and shoes. The coat of the costume being collared with dark brown fur.

The groom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls, to the bridesmaid a handsome pendent and to the groomsman a fountain pen. The array of wedding gifts was large and comprehensive, attesting to the popularity of the couple. The bride is a native daughter of Cranbrook and has been for some years on the staff of the Central school. She has been a member of St. Mary's church choir, the Pontiac ladies hockey team and other organizations. A great deal of entertaining has been done in her honor. The groom is a telegraph operator at Trail, where their future home will be.

CRESTON AIDS IN THE REGATTA SET FOR BOSWELL

CRESTON, B. C., June 27—Reeve L. C. McFarland was a visitor at Boswell on Friday, and while there was in conference with the committee that is in charge of the 1932 Boswell regatta, which this year will be operated partly for the benefit of Creston Valley Public hospital, of which K. Wallace is the Boswell representative on the board of directors. The regatta is set for Wednesday, July 23, and it is likely that day will be declared civic holiday at Creston and the board of trade's regatta committee will make a special effort to arrange for transportation at a popular price so that a big crowd can attend from here. Reeve McFarland impressed on the Boswell committee the desirability of having as many swimming events as possible as it is in this department Creston will be specially interested. In the evening Creston is sure to send a large delegation for the dance which will wind up proceedings.
