SKELETON FOUND IN "HORROR HOUSE"

WATER SHORTAGE CAUSES NEW TORTURE AMONG VICTIMS OF THE FORMOSA 'QUAKE

Thousands Seek Water in Blazing Sun; Many Cases of Insanity Among Bereaved; 250,000 Are Homeless

Copyright 1935 by the Associated Press

TAIHOKU, Formosa, April 23—The plight of Formosa's earthquake-stricken population grew graver today as a serious water shortage inflicted new torture on the survivors.

Thousands of inhabitants, their tongues parched and swollen, stumbled about the ruins of their village seeking water. A blazing tropical sun added to their suffering.

Numerous cases of insanity among bereaved parents and children were reported by relief workers, who said the cases were becoming more frequent.

The number of dead from the shocks which rocked the island at dawn Sunday reached 3068, officials announced. There were 7889 seriously injured and 1490 hurt less seriously. Nearly 12,000 houses were demolished and 16,359 partly destroyed, making 250,000 homeless.

Virtually all pipelines and water reservoirs in the stricken zone were ruined by the quake, which laid waste 2000 square miles.

PASSES BEFORE DOCTOR ARRIVES

Creates Thirteenth Vacancy in the Senate

KINSTON, Ont., April 22 (CP)—Veteran of nearly two score years in Canadian politics and cabinet minister in two administrations, Senator Henri Severin Beland died today in a farmhouse at Eastview, five miles from this city.

Survivor of three years in a German war-time prison camp, the doctor-senator was 65 years old. The war experience was an interlude in a political career which began with his election to the Quebec legislative assembly in 1897, and continued through 23 years in the house of commons and 10 in the upper chamber.

Senator Beland was stricken with a heart attack as he drove toward Ottawa with his wife, the former Henrietta Van Lesthem of Brussels. Mrs. Beland was driving the car. He was taken to a nearby farm and Dr. J. F. Sparks

HULL STILL NOT FOUND

SEATTLE, April 22 (AP).—Declaring that Allan P. Hull, missing executive vice-president of the Tower savings bank charged with the theft of $8500, may have decided to "go off the deep end," Chief Criminal Deputy Sheriff O. K. Bodin widened the search today.

He dispatched circulars calling for the banker's arrest to South and Central America and Canadian cities, as well as to Pacific coast cities with which he had previously communicated. Hull, if still in this area, has declined to "give himself up" as sought in a public appeal by Miss Antoinette Cell, a close friend.

Mrs. Hull and their two children still remained in seclusion at Spokane today. The theft occurred 10 days ago, after a "triangle affair" in which Mrs. Hull declined to divorce her husband so that he and Miss Cell might be married.

DOES HISTORY REPEAT?

Does history repeat itself?

Take a look at the 20-year-ago column on the editorial page today and see.

The paragraphs there, summarizing two pieces of major news at this time in 1915, could be used today to describe the worries of 1935.

TWO KILLED IN FALL OFF CLIFF

LONDON, April 22 (CP)—Major Robert Hemphill, commandant of the Royal Military Academy hospital at Woolwich, and his wife were killed in Cornwall while on holiday today, in a 70-foot fall from a cliff.

Major Hemphill slipped and fell to his death while his wife, attempting to go to his rescue, fell and suffered fatal injuries.

Major Hemphill, noted amateur rugger player of some years ago, was attempting to photograph a buzzard's nest at the time. His 15-year-old son Peter was with him when he fell and ran for his mother. When she disappeared, the lad clambered down the cliff but was unable to do anything.

LADY WHO CAME "BACK TO LIFE" DIES FOR-KEEPS

ROMSEY, England, April 22 (AP)—The coffin had almost reached the cemetery when the bearers heard knocking inside. They dropped it. The coffin broke in pieces, and out of the wreckage stepped—the "corpse."

It was Martha Southwell, an inmate of Romsey workhouse, and they were burying her in 1885. To the alarm of the funeral cortege, she walked back to the workhouse very indignant, and resumed her work in the garden.

Thereafter, she used her coffin lid as an ironing board, and lived long enough to iron out the rest of the 19th century and 35 years of the 20th.

She died recently in the workhouse, where she was born, at the age of 88.

FATHER OF GRAND FORKS LADY LAID TO REST, QUEBEC

QUEBEC, April 22 (CP)—Funeral services of William Watson, former local manager of Bradstreets, who died Saturday in his 70th year following a long illness, were held here today. Born in Scotland, Mr. Watson came to Quebec more than 60 years ago.

Mrs. J. W. Evans, Grand Forks, B. C., is a daughter.

WHAT? NO MORE HANGOVER?

NEW YORK, April 22 (AP)—A machine which can take the "hangover" out of whisky was announced to the American Chemical society today.

The apparatus is something new in machine age principles. It operates like a spiral sea shell set to spinning. It extracts from liquids substances ordinarily inseparable.

Dr. Walter J. Podbielniak of Chicago, the inventor, said "One thing the new device can do is to take the 'hangover' out of whisky. The hangover is caused by the presence of certain impurities that are always found in new whisky.

"They are partly removed by aging from four to eight years in charred oak barrels. These impurities can be removed completely in a few minutes in this new separator."

Two Escape as Truck Crashes Over Cliff

BRIDGE RIVER, B.C., April 22 (CP)—Allan Dolman and Jack MacDonald escaped from death when the diesel-powered truck Dolman was driving got out of control and left the road on a turn on the upper Bridge River highway near Ogden.

The truck, loaded with ore concentrates from the Bralorne mine, rolled over three times down a steep incline and was crushed against a tree 30 feet below the road. This prevented the truck from falling thousands of feet into Cadwallader creek.

The two men were pinned in the vehicle. Dolman suffered fractured ribs and head injuries and MacDonald severe head injuries.

HITLER PREPARING NEW BLAST AT POWERS ON ACTION OF THE LEAGUE

Spokesman States a Further Reply Coming

By JOHN A. BOUMAN
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

BERLIN, April 22 (AP).—A new blast from Adolf Hitler at the powers which condemned Germany for rearming was promised soon by a foreign office spokesman today as the reichsfuehrer deliberated over it at his romantically-situated mountain home at Hauswachenfeld, near Berchtesgaden.

There was a growing impression here that further action following Saturday's brief note to member nations of the league cannot be delayed much longer although there was no prediction as to precisely when or how it would be taken. It was assumed there would be a detailed rebuttal of the Geneva condemnation in any case.

A holiday aspect still prevailed in the wilhelmstrasse, where most officials are still absent on Easter vacations. No newspapers were published on Easter Monday, but copious telegrams reached the official

BRITISH LABOR TO HELP "REDS"

DERBY, England, April 22 (CP cable)—A resolution reaffirming its previous decision to cooperate with the Communist Internationale but not to affiliate with it, was adopted today by the Independent Labor party in convention here.

This followed adoption of another motion opposing affiliation. "There is not a cat in hell's chance for a united revolutionary worker's movement through action with the Communist party," said John Govern, radical member of parliament.

The left-wing Labor group decided to place as many candidates as possible in the field at the next general elections. It also approved a proposal by Miss Jennie Lee, former M.P., urging a general strike against the government of Britain should become involved in war with the Soviet.

ICKES UPHOLDS PRESS FREEDOM

NEW YORK, April 22 (AP)—The constitutional guarantees of freedom of press and speech and the right of free assemblage were characterized as "the three musketeers of our constitutional forces" by Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes today at the annual luncheon of the Associated Press.

"We might give up all the rest of our constitution," he said, "if occasion required it, and yet have sure anchorage for the mooring of our good ship America, if these rights remained to us unimpaired."

Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press and publisher of the Washington Star, outlining after his annual custom the principles of the Associated Press, paid tribute to 27 surviving charter members of the organization who aided in its creation 35 years ago.

"Thirty five years under one standard and with one spirit of loyalty is something in these changing times," Mr. Noyes said.

"Toy Gun" Rider Is in Jail

CALGARY, April 22 (CP).—Dazed and silent, William Winse was a prisoner at the Royal Canadian Mounted police barracks here today while police investigated his brief career of "toy gun" play on a Canadian National railway passenger train Sunday.

An unemployed section man, Winse will be arraigned in R.C.M.P. court tomorrow, charged with stealing a ride on the train. Other charges may be laid.

For 20 miles, after he had been discovered in a mail car, he was in control of the train, according to the police reports, holding the engineer and conductor at "gun" point. Near Calgary, he had the train slowed down, and jumped from the engine. Later, he was captured by R.C.M.P. The "gun" was found to be a nickle-plated cigarette case, patterned in pistol style.

Nothing was touched in the mail car and passengers were unaware of the engine-cab drama as the train sped toward Calgary.

CANNES, France, April 22 (AP)—A London society woman was arrested tonight on a charge of stealing a $2000 vanity case belonging to a New York woman at a party attended by the Prince of Asturias, an Indian rajah and members of the fashionable winter colony here.

Mrs. John Circuitt, 39, was held in jail after detectives in a raid on her apartment, had found the articles, belonging to Mrs. Harold Laurence of New York City.

After a party given by Charles Edward Gudwill of Montreal and his wife, the former Mary McClure of New York, in a fashionable night club at a gambling casino, Mrs. Laurence missed her case and reported it to police.

HUEY LONG THREATENS LOUISIANA MAY SECEDE FROM UNITED STATES

Likens Action of Ickes to "Boston Tea Party"

By RICHARD L. TURNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)—Senator Huey Long of Louisiana today dug a bristling array of adjectives from the depths of an explosive vocabulary, hurled them broadside at his critics and added a threat that Louisiana will secede from the taxpaying union—"if they don't watch out."

Casting aside such restraints as have characterized his recent speeches, he laid down the principle, with appropriate rhetrical embellishments, that state authorities, not Washington officials, must have the final say on expenditures increasing the debts of Louisiana's municipalities.

He delighted a huge throng of Easter visitors, who crammed every inch of spectator room, with a return to his characteristically emphatic manner of oratory—eyes and head rolling, twisty forelock askew, arms larruping the surrounding atmosphere.

Harold Ickes, secretary of the interior, who last week referred to him as one afflicted with "halitosis of the intellect," was lambasted by Long today as "the chinch bug from Chicago" and the "lord high chamberlain" of the administration.

He attributed "royal prerogatives" to "Prime Minister" James Aloysius Farley—emphasis upon the middle name—and "Henry Almighty Wallace," whom he called the "ignoramus from Iowa."

Long's row with Ickes had its origin in a law enacted by the Louisiana legislature forbidding any municipality to increase its debt without the consent of the state advisory commission. This, Ickes held, prevented public works administration loans to the municipalities of the state.

"The president has set up a Boston tea party of his own," Long thundered, "by which he will reach into the sovereign states of this union, 48 in number, and he will draw out the tax resources of these 48 states and then he will withhold from these 48 states their proportion of these funds if they insist upon exercising the right of a state.

"There might be a new kind of Boston tea party which Mr. Roosevelt is creating, but that Boston tea party can work two ways. Don't you forget yourselves; that Boston tea party can work two days. . . . You strip them of the sovereignty in another way. You have got to go into those states to collect your taxes the same as you have got to go there to spend it."

"If we have to surrender the sovereignty of the state," he shouted after a blast at Ickes and Relief Minister Hopkins, "we won't surrender it to hands that are reeking with graft and corruption."

POLICE MAKE A DISCOVERY IN FARMHOUSE

Believe Are Bones of Woman Who Is Missing

DOCTOR SAID SHE HAD LEFT

Teeth and Hair Are Found; Flesh in Acid Pail

LANCASTER, Pa., April 22 (AP)—Grim new discoveries were turned up today in Dr. H. E. Zimmerley's "house of horror" as authorities announced they had found in the eerie farmhouse the broken skeleton of a woman believed to be Gladys Lawson.

Still more bones, teeth, blond hairs twisted about a bit of wire and a rusty pail containing an acid-burned substance resembling flesh came from the cottage in quiet Mechanics Grove.

Today's finds were made a few hours after District Attorney Paul A. Mueller announced that fragments of bone found in the little red farmhouse formed a virtually complete skeleton and "solved the whereabouts of the body of Gladys Lawson."

Mrs. Lawson, 26 years old and the mother of two children, disappeared March 16 following an operation at the farmhouse.

CLIPPER ON RETURN TRIP

Huge Flying Boat Is Off on Trip to California

HONOLULU, April 22 (AP).—Flying through a rainbow, the Pan American clipper hopped from Pearl Harbor here today at 3:20 p.m. (3:50 p.m. Pacific standard time) on its return flight to California.

The 19-ton flying boat got into the air with ease and Pan-American Airways officials announced that its destination was Alameda.

It flew here last Wednesday from the California city in 17 hours and 45 minutes on an experimental flight to establish passenger and transport service to the orient.

Water boiled from the hill as sunshine gleamed on the clipper's giant wing as the plane lifted from the choppy harbor waters after a 36-hour run.

Climbing slowly, the plane banked over Luke field, army air base on Ford island, then climbed gradually until it completed a full circle.

As the clipper swept along the ocean front she flew directly through a low rainbow arching between the cane fields adjacent to Pearl Harbor and the city.

A siren shrieked in the Aloha tower on the waterfront as the clipper passed over Honolulu. Residents rushed out to watch the start of the 2400-mile flight to California.

Mr. Godfrey came to Nelson from Vancouver and after many years in the city, acting as manager of the B. C. Telephone company's branch office here, left for Vernon about 15 years ago. There he became manager of the Okanagan Telephone company. While in Nelson Mr. Godfrey was an enthusiastic sportsman, and for a time was on the old Y.M.C.A. board. He was also a member of Methodist church. He leaves besides his wife two young daughters.

VERNON, B. C., April 22 (CP)—Arthur Benson Godfrey, 54, former manager of the Okanagan Telephone Co., died here yesterday. He had been in ill health for three years. He suffered a sudden seizure Saturday morning.

OLIVA DIONNE ASKS PERMISSION TO CALL ANOTHER DOCTOR TO "QUINTS"

Claims Babies Seriously Ill; Dafoe Says They're O.K.

CALLANDER, Ont., April 22 (CP)—Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, physician to the Dionne quintuplets since their birth May 28, stated tonight that if it was requested by the babes' guardians, he would gladly call in another physician to examine the ailing babies.

Today Oliva Dionne, the father, wired Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn and Hon. David A. Croll, Ontario minister of welfare, asking that he and his wife be allowed to name a doctor to inspect the children. He said the condition of the babes was more serious than he had been allowed to learn.

"If I had ever thought it necessary," said Dr. Dafoe, "I would have called in another doctor without waiting for the government to tell me to do it." He said four of the babies were progressing nicely and were well on the way to recovery from the head cold which swept through the hospital last week. Marie, he said, as a "little bit under the weather."

Mr. Hepburn or Mr. Croll could not be reached but Joseph Sedgewick, deputy attorney general, when questioned in Toronto, said it had been the practice of the ministers to leave all health matters concerning the quintuplets in the hands of Dr. Dafoe. "He is certainly competent," said Mr. Sedgewick, "and no doubt will care for the health of the babies."

Dr. Dafoe denied the condition of the children was more serious than told to Dionne.

GYROS HEAR MALAY TALK

W. Kennedy Tells of Strange Pranks of Nature

"Malay—the land where the fish climb trees," was the subject of a novel and interesting jungle talk given at a meeting of the Nelson Gyro club in the Hume silver ball room Monday night by W. N. Kennedy, until recently with the Livingstone Mining company at Tagaung. Mr. Kennedy was a former rowing champion and was brought to Nelson to row during the Chako Elks celebration.

The many interesting tales that Mr. Kennedy told were actual experiences he had while in the Malay jungles where he built a large sawmill and logging railway for the British government.

The program was in charge of R. A. Barnes and among guests present were G. Eaton, Vancouver; Dan Gillis, Vancouver; R. Morrow, Vancouver, and Dr. L. E. Borden, Nelson.

Mr. Kennedy, in his address opened with a description of the geography of the country, its history, and the characteristics of its people.

"In this strange land," the speaker revealed, "the natives eat bees, the birds lay eggs as large as themselves, trees change their sex, plants lie down, deer fit into an overcoat pocket, tiger's whiskers are used for rheumatism and fireflies are swallowed to cure madness."

Malaya, with its vast jungles, said Mr. Kennedy, might well be called "topsy turvey land." It was an interesting country as nature's laws seemed to be completely ignored and strange phenomena occurred.

The whole Malay Peninsula presented a land of no seasons—no winter or summer, no wet or dry seasons. The sun rose and set at practically the same time the year round, and the mean shade temperature at sea level—about 80 degrees—had not varied more than about three degrees for a hundred years. In the sun, the temperature went up to 154 or 160 on "a warm day," and, despite the fact that rain fell about 300 days of the year, there was scarcely a wet day due to the fact that the ground dried so quickly.

The Malays varied in color from nearly white to a chocolate hue. Both the men and women wore "sarongs," or envelopes, which contained no buttons, hooks or strings.

Malaya was the home of the tiger, black panther, crocodile, snakes 30 feet long, insects over a foot long, butterflies and moths a food wide, five different kinds of flying animals and 40 different kinds of monkeys. In the jungle, the insects and even the snakes were so similar in color to the leaves that they were not noticeable until they moved. Over the jungle, during the long hot hours of the day, hung a silence as of the grave, though it teemed with life.

CROCODILE HUNTING

"If a Malay wishes to hook a crocodile," said the speaker, "he must first remember to gulp down a small quantity of rice to help the passage of the bait down the beast's gullet, and he must remove no bones from his food for fear the hook may not bite. If he would make a wild male elephant stay with a herd of decoy females, he must rub the females with the juice of three or four limes that have grown on a single stem and the seeds of clinging love grass.

"Nature's laws of the country have been completely upset by the absence of any marked season. You will find birds nesting on one tree, and the same kind of bird moulting in another. You will see two trees of the same species growing side by side, one blossoming and the other shedding leaves."

After stating that a tree in his own jungle garden changed its sex within a year and bore fruit, the speaker remarked that, in America tapioca was an innocuous pudding. The Malayan root from which it was extracted, however was highly poisonous. It had to be washed and fried to rid it of the prussic acid it contained.

PITCHER PLANT

"Imagine the amazement of one coming across a pitcher plant for the first time," Mr. Kennedy continued. "It is shaped like a pitcher, with a lip closed down to trap the flies and other insects on which it feeds. Imagine my surprise, also, when on another occasion, I picked a flower from a small bush about a foot high, covered with red flowers, and at my touch the leaves closed up, the branches folded, and the whole bush lay down. I waited quietly and watched it as it slowly came back to life again. This was the mimosa, or sensitive plant."

Following a description of the wonderful flowers of Malaya, which bloom at midnight, and of the "plandok," or mouse-deer, which was not more than eight inches long, the speaker said: "It was the Malayan fish, however, which made me gape widest the first time I ever saw him—a little more vividly colored and with much large fins than any other fish I had ever seen—come out of the water and creep along the beach from pool to pool, giving himself a shower bath by scooping up the water with his fins and throwing it over himself. At last, going to one of the trees close to the water's edge, he climbed the tree and looked down upon me. Naturally, I gasped for I had never seen or heard of the periophthalmus schlosserri and its peculiar ways.

"About the fighting fish of Malaya, the puyu-puyu, there is no mystery. They can be seen in any settlement, for the Malays enjoy watching them fight until death overtakes one of the small, brightly-colored combatants. Each man backs his favorite, and bets are exchanged. Two bottles, each containing a fish, are placed side by side, and as the bottles touch the little fish begin biting at each other through the glass. The referee then pours the water from one bottle into the other, the scales fly and they fight to a finish."

The speaker went on to describe the hornbill, a bird which plasters up its female mate in a hollow tree for months, visiting her every three days to feed her, and he told of the sea eagle which swoops down into waters infested with poisonous snakes, seizes a reptile and tears his wriggling prey to pieces.

"On the first day I went into the jungles," said Mr. Kennedy, "I saw the astonishing 'zic zic' bird. I was watching things that looked like logs of wood on the river bank but, as a matter of fact, they were crocodiles. One of them was sleeping with mouth wide open, and inside that cruel mouth a bird no larger than a sparrow was picking the crocodile's teeth. That bird was a zic zic.

"Then there is the interesting lizard very much in evidence. You will see the ceilings of the houses alive with these little creatures, which, if chased, have the happy faculty of discarding their tails. Within three weeks they have sprouted new ones."

Referring to the python, which was not accounted harmful to man, the speaker, on occasions, saw one 22 feet long which contained the remains of a large deer and another which had swallowed a large wild pig.

Mentioning the strange diseases and the queer cures of the Malays, he defined one as "the sickness which follows the news of a man's death, and only so." This disease was attended with pain in the joints and bones, but should the affected one unexpectedly see the corpse the pain increased and affected the whole body. The cure was to chew sireh leaf and expectorate on the ground, and the ground so treated was applied to the painful parts. On a parallel with this was the recommendation of eating fire-flies for madness.

Cholera outbreaks were combatted by launching down streams models of boats stocked with food, and smallpox was believed to be caused by a host of demons. Burnt tiger's whiskers in cocoanut oil were used as an internal remedy for chronic rheumatism. Ashes of cat's whiskers in liquid opium were an antidote to poison, and hairs from an elephant's tail were used as toothpicks to relieve toothache in children. Taboo was an important factor in quarantine against infectious diseases, the witch doctor hanging a string of vegetable fronds across a path or door as a notice of prohibition against certain foods for certain diseases.

Concluding, Mr. Kennedy said that many other oddities occurred in this topsy turvey land of Malaya such as flying lemurs, flying squirrels and flying lizards.

Canadian Policyholders or Their Beneficiaries have Received

$800,000,000 IN THE PAST FIVE YEARS

Through their Life Insurance Savings

MORE than $160,000,000 a year — that is the sum which Canadian policyholders or their beneficiaries have received on the average, during the past five years, from Life Insurance companies in Canada. In the next five years these policyholders will receive an even larger amount.

The large payments of Life Insurance benefits, made year by year, are the result of self-sacrifice on the part of 3,500,000 Canadians—thrifty citizens who have brought their savings together in Life Insurance funds, so that they and their families would have necessary financial security for the future.

Through the distribution of Life Insurance funds, the burdens of the widows and fatherless are eased—children are educated—independence is secured for old age—families are assisted in times of financial stress.

From the national standpoint, those citizens who have joined together to provide for their own financial future through Life Insurance, have performed a public duty. Their Life Insurance savings have lessened the number of people on public relief. And the investment of their savings in Life Insurance has provided working capital for Dominion and Provincial Governments, Canadian cities and municipalities, utilities and industries, farms and homes.

In the future as in the past, Life Insurance will continue to be the "Guardian of Canadian Homes".

BIG BALL YEAR LOOMS IN TRAIL

Number of New Men to Bolster the Ranks

TRAIL, B.C., April 22.—It's going to be one sweet baseball season if enthusiasm displayed by players themselves is any criterion of the excellence of their performances during the coming summer. That much was certain after watching the senior club work out in its preliminary practices.

Four new faces have appeared on the field this year, and as the caliber of the newcomers is distinctly promising, everything is looking hunky-dory, according to H. R. (Hank) Lauriente, newly appointed manager.

Cliff Bogstie, star twirler of last year's nine, is away on a month's leave of absence but Hank intimated he might be back in Trail very shortly. In Vancouver the Trail pitcher has been trying out with a couple of teams and Bob Brown, coast baseball magnate, wanted to sign him right away.

Bogstie however, held out for a better proposition, according to a letter he wrote Lauriente, and Hank said he felt pretty sure Bogstie would be back in Trail once more before the diamond season is much further advanced.

FIVE NEWCOMERS

Among the newcomers are "Tick" Hall, Hughie Horswill, Tommy Jenkins, Tommy Harrison and George Onafrychuck.

Hall plays short stop by preferance but can handle the third corner almost as well. He has played in the Washington-Idaho league for three seasons but learnt his baseball in Trail. In 1933 he performed for the lake city and last year was picking them out of the air in Kimberley. He's a good player, has a nice arm and hits well, says Hank.

Hughie Horswill needs no introduction to Trail followers of the diamond game for he played in the Nelson outfield the year before last. An injured toe is preventing him from putting in an appearance, but he's a heavy hitter and one of the really good outfielders in the part of the baseball firmament.

Tommy Jenkins, former Calgary player, out with Nelson last year, is a smart player with lots of pep, lots of fire in addition to being a dangerous hitter, confided the Trail manager. He can don the catcher's mask or cover the infield with equal ease.

Tommy Harrison will probably be used in the outfield, says Hank, but is just as effective in the infield. He has lost little of his pep and speed and is a fair hitter. Quite a valuable player in fact, amended Hank.

FIVE YEARS IN LETHBRIDGE

George Onafrychuck has only been out once so far, but is shaping up well. He has played ball in Lethbridge for five years, but one day's workout is not enough to make a sound judgment so the Trail manager wouldn't say much more about him.

The old guards from last year are rounding into shape nicely and can be expected to dish out a smart, heads-up brand of the diamond game when the first game rolls round. Gordie McTeer, Jimmy Morris, "Slivers" Decembrini, "Wish" Milburn, Harry Rothery, Louis Demore, "Lefty" Fairburn, Rico Martin, Hank himself, and W. Ross are the last year players that are out again this year.

It does look like a good season, doesn't it?

Social Events of Trail City

TRAIL, B. C., April 22—St. Andrew's Anglican church, beautifully decorated with Easter flowers, was the setting yesterday afternoon at five o'clock for the marriage of Mary Constance, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Taylor, Topping street, to Earl Richard Bennett of Trail, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Bennett of Prince George. Rev. Leonard A. Morrant officiated. Miss Gwen Davies attended the bride, the best man being Albert Bennett, brother of the groom. Miss Betty Spain was a dainty flower girl, Vernon Taylor and Leonard Bennett were ushers. Brynmor E. Smith, at the organ, provided the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was delightfully charming in her gown of white silk net which was worn over a slip of white taffeta. Of tailored design, the skirt was of floor length, snug fitting at the hipline but flaring in soft folds toward the hem. Puff sleeves and touches of orange blossom provided effective trimming. The long veil of white silk lace was softly draped to the head, the folds gathered gently into a small cap of silk net, and held in place with clusters of orange blossoms. Long white gloves, white shoes and hosiery completed the attire. The bridal bouquet was a sheath of Easter lilies and white heather.

Shell pink painted organdy fashioned the exquisite dress of Miss Davies which was worn over a taffeta slip of blending tone. A smart cape of graceful style reached to the top of the long shell pink gloves which harmonized with the picture hat. The ensemble was completed by white sandals and matching hosiery. Miss Davies carried an arm bouquet of deep pink carnations and white heather.

Attired in powder blue taffeta, Betty Spain was a winsome flower girl. Her dress, trimmed with white silk net, was complemented by a cap of corresponding net. Tulips, narcissi, and other spring blossoms filled her flower basket.

Easter lillies, daffodils, narcissi and Calla lillies, decorated the altar and church. Guest pews were marked with rosettes of white satin ribbon.

At a reception which followed at the home of the bride's parents, the bride's mother, wearing a gown of black and white satin with cape and accessories to match and a corsage of violets, assisted in receiving the guests. White streamers and wedding bells were employed in decorating the reception room. The bride's table was centered by a three-tiered cake which was embedded in tulle, the top layer being decorated with tiny bells. Yellow tapers and daffodils, and Easter favors, were table appointments.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett left early in the evening, travelling by car, for Nelson. From there they will go to Spokane on their wedding trip and on their return will take up residence in Trail.

For travelling the bride wore a tailored costume suit of blue gabardine with small knitted toque and accessories to match.

Invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Taylor of Fruitvale, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Tudor O. Davies, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. St. George's church was beautifully decorated with colorful spring flowers this afternoon for the wedding of Gladys Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson, and Ian Alistair Shaw, son of the late Magistrate and Mrs. H. C. Shaw. Rev. M. H. Jackson officiated at the ceremony in the presence of relatives and close friends of the bride and groom.

A French blue imported model suit was worn by the bride for the occasion. The white crepe blouse featured the new high neckline and dainty puffed sleeves, while the suit, cut on severely tailored lines, was trimmed with cuffs of blue fox. Navy onion straw formed the small hat, trimmed with narrow ribbon, and her accessories were in the same smart snare.

Attending her as bridesmaid was Miss Beatrice McMeans, who chose an afternoon frock of beige rough crepe. The full bodice was shirred at the neckline and finished with a peplum and a neat belt fastening at the back. Small self-covered buttons were added features and the yoke was finished with a gold "dog collar." Wool lace formed the picture hat, and accessories were in brown. Both bride and attendants wore corsage bouquets. T. Doucet was best man.

During the ceremony selections were played by the organist and later a reception for immediate friends was held at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. Anderson and Miss Amy Laird, aunt of the groom, assisted the bridal party to receive. Presiding at the urns were Miss Edna Laird, aunt of the groom, and Mrs. J. J. Healy, while Mrs. D. D. Lapsley cut the lees.

Mr. and Mrs. Shaw left by motor for the south, and, on returning from their honeymoon, will take up residence in this city.—The Vancouver Province of Thursday, April 18.

The bride until a few weeks ago was a member of the teaching staff of Trail High school.

One of the most interesting spring wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jenkin, at 11 o'clock, Saturday, April 20, when Vera Agnes, elder daughter of Mrs. Ernest S. Johnston and the late James Kempston of Bridesville, B.C., was united in marriage to Dr. Neil Edward Morrison, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Morrison of Nova Scotia.

Roses, tulips and snap dragon in varying shades of rose formed a colorful setting for the ceremony which was performed by Rev. Dr. M. W. Lees before the flower and fern banked fireplace.

The radiant bride, given in marriage by her stepfather, Ernest Johnston, entered as Mrs. Jenkin played the weding march. She was attired in a silk house suit of a coral shade smartly trimmed on the shoulder with a crystal buckle through which the collar was softly draped. White straw and pleated grosgrained ribbon formed her imported French Breton sailor. A corsage bouquet of gardenias, and white accessories completed the ensemble.

Attending the bride was Miss Mary Barker who wore a turquoise blue silk house suit trimmed with gold. Her matching felt hat was finished with a bow of gold cord and her corsage was of pink rose buds. W. E. Jackson supported the groom.

A three tiered wedding cake topped with freesias centered the table from which a buffet lunch was served. Mrs. H. Clark and Mrs. W. O. Kennedy presided at the urns. Assisting in serving were the Misses Theresa and Agnes Rossman and Isabel Keir.

The bride's mother who assisted in receiving the guests was dressed in black and white with a corsage of violets and scillas.

Dr. and Mrs. Morrison left by motor for Spokane. For travelling the bride chose a navy ensemble with corresponding accessories. On returning from their wedding trip they will reside at Salmo, B.C., where Dr. Morrison is associated with Drs. McKay, Borden and Shaw of Nelson.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a number of social events. She was a member of the Trail Central School teaching staff. After an absence of four years she returned in September from Japan, where she taught at the Canadian Academy in Kobe.

Colors Dominate Apparel in New Styles for Males

By Central Press Canadian

NEW YORK—Just as there is expected to be a revolution in women's fashions this year, so also is there an upheaval in the garb to be worn by the mere male.

Male attire is now in process of being radically changed—and almost any change in fashions for men is a revolution. And the changes are to be made all down the line, from sporting costumes to that male holy of holies, the formal.

Changes are anticipated that will make last year's styles as out of date as button boots and celluloid collars.

Fore example, take the new evening suit. If you're like most men it will be difficult to imagine a formal in any color but black. What, then, would you thing of wearing a formal in midnight blue? Well, that's what is coming.

And how about a nice tuxedo in powder blue? Or, if you don't care for powder blue, how about one in light green or canary, or brown? All these are coming in the fashions, too.

THE NEW WARDROBE

How much the tailors and manufacturers believe in the colors for men's styles might be gained from a study of the following list of suggestion adopted for the fashions of the future.

Formal Wear—Evening clothes in midnight blue with silk opera hat to match. A new "streanlined" tailcoat with a silk facing of colored pinhead dots.

TUX INFORMAL

Tuxedos—now regarded as informal, styled in powder blue, light green, canary or brown, the tuxedo is prescribed particularly for cruise and resort wear. The trousers in lightweight fabric remain black, but a sash has been added around the waist.

Sports Suits—These models are in fancy tailoring with shirred backs, yokes, full belts and other changes aimed at comfort. All contain broad checks.

Business Suits — Brightened up considerably, they contain cluster stripes and modernistic plaids. The more daring plaids are five inches square. Fabrics are in shetlands and cheviots. Shoulders contain less padding and coats fit more snugly around the waist and hips. The trousers are somewhat narrower at the cuffs.

Among the other items of wearing apparel involved in changes include the derby, which is coming in a variety of colors, and the straw hat, also in colors. The color line even has extended to the shoes, such as the midnight blue pump.

Martime Workers Still Argue

SEATTLE, April 22 (AP).—To the surprise of its leaders, the new Maritime Federation of the Pacific, representing eight unions, battled until nightfall today in secret session over proportionate representation in strike votes, thereby prolonging the convention until Wednesday or Thursday.

The disputed article nine of the constitution which is being adopted by representatives of 35,000 maritime workers will determine the voting strength of the unions involved in any general strike, but the convention did not suggest a general strike, either now or later.

"This is a problem of having all unions represented equally," the press committee of the convention said.

B. C. Takes Over the Agassiz School

AGASSIZ, B.C., April 22 (CP)—Dissatisfaction regarding school affairs here had led to a number of ratepayers making complaint with the result the British Columbia department of education has appointed Inspector Lord as official trustee to supersede the board of school trustees.

Lake Rises Half Foot Three Days

With a gain of half a foot since Friday, the lake stood at 2.25 feet above the low water mark Monday afternoon, the rise for the 24 hours since Sunday afternoon being a quarter of a foot. The rise is far behind normal for the time of year.

Crawford Bay W.I. Honors President

Mrs. Watson Presented With Easter Basket at the Meeting

CRAWFORD BAY, B.C., April 22.—A meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the public hall Saturday. Mrs. Watson, president, presided and gave the motto for the month: "A hundred men may make an encampment, but it takes a woman to make a home."

Mrs. E. H. King presented Mrs. Watson with an Easter basket, from the members with good wishes. A letter was read from Mrs. Heywood thanking the institute for the gift of perfume and letters sent to her daughter, Miss Annie Heywood, who is in Kootenay Lake General hospital recovering from injuries received when she was knocked down by a truck March 20. A letter received from the Salvation Army, Vancouver, asked for a donation, but it was decided to assist the Nelson branch.

The 15 cents per capita fee is being sent to the Federated Women's Institute convention in Prince Edward Island, as it is impossible for any members to go so far to attend the convention. It was agreed that it would be better to hold provincial conventions. Mrs. Watson read an amusing article about a lady from Canada visiting in the north of Scotland. She attended a Women's Institute meeting there.

A silver cake basket was presented to Miss C. Freeman, who is to be married early in May. A wedding present was also sent to Mrs. Stirzaker, nee Miss Evelyn Jacobson, of Trail, formerly a member of Crawford Bay institute.

Easter hymns were sung at the beginning and close of the meeting, with Miss Laura Lytle as pianist. Tea hostesses were Mrs. Hogarth, Mrs. H. Richardson, Miss Workman and Miss Freeman.

Mrs. Dee of Gray Creek visited Mr. and Mrs. Roy McGregor.

Mrs. Fox and her two daughters, Betty and Phyllis of Kaslo, are spending the Easter holidays here, guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Manwill.

Mr. and Mrs. Storey and Mrs. Truscott and young son, of Creston, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Woolgar.

Young Miss Daphne Leggit of Longbeach is a guest of Capt. and Mrs. Hincks.

Miss Burgess of Kaslo is visiting her sister here.

Mrs. Trail of Mirror Lake is a guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. Hincks.

Rev. Clyde Harvey conducted two services here Easter Sunday, holy communion in the morning and children's service in the afternoon. Both were well attended. The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manwill was christened.

DENIES FASCISM

Children Take Part in Easter Service

Easter Hope and Power of Resurrection Themes

Easter morning services at the First Baptist church was featured by special Sunday school exercises and music.

Those contributing to the school exercises were Verna Blackwell, recitation, "Nature's Message"; Evelyn Perdue, recitation, "The Light of Easter"; Elsie Bergman, "The Easter Lily"; Everard Cooper, "Easter Stories"; Daphne Rhode, "Mary Anne's Mistake"; Francis Boyes, "Christ Gave Easter:" In addition to elocution numbers an Easter son, "God Is Love," was sung by the junior department. The junior choir sang an anthem "Ring the Joy Bells Christ Is Risen."

Rev. H. W. Guscott, speaking on the subject of "Easter Hope" took for his text "Their eyes were opened and they knew Him." These were the words spoken in reference to two disciples who had decided to go home after the strange happenings at Jerusalem.

While walking along wearily toward Emmans, Jesus appeared to them although, "their eyes were holden that they should not know Him." But presently, in the course of conversation, He revealed Himself to them. "Their eyes were opened and they knew Him."

Is it not possible that Jesus thus appeared to them because they yearned for Him. He never fails to be present where He is wanted. The important fact is that He became known to them. Another thought in the story is that of the ready witness those disciples gave to the experience through which they had passed.

At the evening service the senior choir sang "He Lives Again" and "I Am He That Liveth," solo parts in the latter being taken by Mrs. George Boyes and Mrs. H. W. Guscott.

The subject of the evening sermon was "Resurrection Power," the text being taken from Philippians 3-10, "That I may know the power of His resurrection." Miss Florence Jeffrey presided at the organ for the morning service and Gordon Calbick for the evening. Arthur Guscott accompanied the latter with the slide trombone.

The housewives of Vera Cruz city, Mexico, are the victims of a new racket which is worked by domestic servants who are taking advantage of a state law which allows each person dismissed from employment three months' wages as compensation for loss of time. A servant obtains a job, then immediately becomes so troublesome that it is necessary for the poor mistress to dismiss her, and she directly goes to the labor board and files suit for three months' compensation. The board, however, is getting wise to the racket, and housewives are doing their own work.

Our King and Queen on their Silver Jubilee

King George and His Favorite Pastime.

King George's favorite sport is shooting and his indulgence in this pastime from early youth has made him one of the four best shots in England.

Be it grouse shooting at Balmoral, tiger hunting in India or deer hunting in Scotland, the King is regarded as a man of rare proficiency with firearms. He is particularly fast on the "draw," and possesses an iron nerve that never fails him.

Once in India, when a wounded tiger charged an elephant on which the King was mounted, he coolly waited until the ferocious beast made a lunge for the mount and then fired, one shot doing the trick. It was a splendid illustration of coolness.

Our pictures today show the King at his favorite sport.

Second only to shooting in the King's favor is yachting; after that he prefers soccer, a game he used to play with some vigor and skill as a midshipman in the navy.

King George has two indoor hobbies, one of which has earned him fame the world over. That is stamp-collecting. His other collection is of antique watches and clocks. Made up entirely of British Empire issues, the King's stamp collection is said to be worth over £100,000.

One sport that the king has played but in which he never became interested was golf. Only one or two occasions are recorded in which His Majesty chased the elusive pill.

THEY'VE TRAVELLED A BILLION MILES

MILEAGE OF NEW G3 EQUAL TO 40,000 TIMES AROUND THE WORLD

G3 is new—but so many have been sold that based on a conservative annual mileage we can safely say—"G3 tires already have travelled more than a billion miles on Canadian cars." This takes G3 definitely out of the experimental stage. It is proven!

Goodyear engineers produced G3 to meet the strains and jars of modern traffic conditions. It maintained its tread pattern after the severest driving tests ever given a tire. Its performance resulted in the greatest sale in Goodyear's history.

GOODYEAR MEANS GOOD WEAR

Car makers—always careful in the selection of materials and parts—prefer G3 to any other tire as equipment on their latest models. It is a worthy running mate for the modern car—a tread that withstands the fierce grinding wear of today's faster starts, higher speeds, quicker stops.

G3 has extra-deep grooves—close-set diamonds—wider riding ribs. Go to a Goodyear dealer and compare G3 with the tires you are now using. . . . You'll understand at once why it far outsells any other tire.

G3 is made in both 4 ply & heavy duty 6 ply types

IMMORTALITY SERMON THEME

St. Paul's Has Bright Easter Services Sunday

Easter lilies in all their beauty, symbolic of spring and new life, struck a triumphant note that was further portrayed in the Easter services at St. Paul's church Sunday.

Special music added a background for the service and the anthems were "Christ Is Risen" and "Son of Righteousness." "Open the Gates of the Temple" was sung as a solo by Miss Alma Smillie at the morning service and in the evening Miss Margaret Arthur was soloist, singing "Hosannah."

Rev. T. J. S. Ferguson, pastor, chose as his morning theme "The Life That No Tomb Can Hold." The life of Jesus, he pointed out, was a life that consisted of doing God's will. His life was God's purpose, God's attitude toward mankind. Thus Jesus could be called the Christ and His life was that of God's own.

Mary Magdala, who had been redeemed from a life of sin, found herself utterly forlorne even when His body was gone from the tomb. She thought that she had lost her master and saviour.

"Behold what an experience when in the deeps of her soul she heard that voice call her by name and again found herself united forever with Him and with God the Father.

"God is not the God of the dead but God of the living, so spake the Master, and revealed the joyous fact that no grave could entomb the children of the Eternal Father."

In the evening the minister reviewed the experience of Paul. His own inner experience was his surety of the living Christ. "I am crucified with Christ yet I live—but it is not I but Christ liveth in me," the speaker quoted.

"I too," said Paul, "have seen Christ."

"What one had really seen Jesus while still in the flesh? What Englishmen had seen Milton in the days when he wrote Paradise Lost? Not until 100 years after his so-called death had men begun to see in reality the great soul of Bach. Men's eyes are holden that for some reason they do not really see. Oftimes only death opens children's eyes to the real greatness and the spirit of father and mother.

"At last the eyes of noble souls here and there were gradually beginning to see the living Christ of God, the only true leader and saviour of the world, the speaker said.

ROTARY HEARS BOYS PROGRAM

Nelson Lads Capable; Alfred Parker Speaks

The youth of Nelson was well to the fore in the Rotary program at the Hume hotel Monday when four boys entertained with music and an address, Alfred Parker, Walter Thompson, Billy MacEwan and Horace Lapointe were the artists, and they quite won a place for themselves with their able acquittal.

A. B. Gilker reported that the bridge drive had been brought to a successful conclusion, $182.50 being realized. Mrs. L. V. Rogers, and Dr. Laishley won the ladies' and gentlemen's contract prizes. Mrs Gielbert Arneson and Russell R. MacEwan taking the auction prizes. In all 30 bridges were held.

Rev. W. C. Mawhinney deputized for F. C. Sharpe as chairman of the Boys work program, Mr. Sharpe being unable to attend. He assured the artists the club was exceedingly pleased to have them, and hoped they would continue in their various activities.

Billy MacEwan sang Horace Lapointe played two pleasing piano duets, "March Militaire" by Schubert and "Norwegian Dance" by Greig.

Walter Thompson, soloist of St. Paul's boys choir, excelled in his two vocal solos, "When I Played My Fiddle in Dooney," and "Home Sweet Home." Miss Daphne Sandercock accompanied him on the piano.

WIDE IN CONCEPTION

In introducing Alfred Parker, Mr. Mawhinney stated that the Tuxis of Trail Ranger organization, the subject on which he would speak, was not a parochial organization. It was as broad and big in its conception as the spirit of Rotary. Every district in British Columbia was represented at the Boys Parliament during the three days' session which they held and at which they considered measures that would build boys. The movement was connected with all churches and should have the cooperation of all churches. Alfred Parker was the representative for Kootenay west. Mr. Mawhinney stated he had known him for nine years and had watched his growth and progress during that time. He would commend Claude Emory, under whom guidance Alfred and a number of other boys had been for some years, in the fine work he had done for them.

Alfred Parker opened his address with the story of the father who had his son drive a nail in the woodshed wall for every sin committed and permitted him to pull one out for every good deed he did. This was the method used by him to keep his son on the right path, and not the well-known method which is generally resorted to in the woodshed. The father pointed out to the son that although he might eventually extract all the nails, where each nail had been there would remain a scar.

SPREADING RAPIDLY

Now were the members of Rotary teaching their sons, questioned Alfred. Were they teaching their boys to correct their own faults.

The Tuxis movement was rapidly spreading, observed Alfred, groups having been organized in Trinidad and United States recently, and it would soon reach the proportions and status of the Boy Scout organization. Both movements concerned the building of youth, and Lord Robert Baden-Powell, the founder of Scouting, had given great help in founding Tuxis.

In Tuxis the devotional side was stressed more than in Scouting. The Word Tuxis could not be found in the dictionary. It was a coined word, the X in it standing for Christ, the T and S for training and service, with the U and I on either side signifying "there is no one but Christ between you and I."

Tuxis sought to give balanced lives, laying the proper stress on the intellectual, physical, devotional and social sides. At the Boys' parliament, he explained, acts were passed pertaining to many questions, and only recently a magazine had been started called "The Quest." The representatives of youth at the parliament felt that youth was drifting too far away from their elders, and they were missing much that they could obtain from their experienced elders. While having their own opinions and ideas, it was not their wish to drift away and with the help of the adults they would strive to make the world better through Christ.

It was not a mock parliament they held. They met in the legislative chambers and they used the same procedure as the provincial government. They acted as the representatives of youth and discussed the problems of youth. The movement had made its greatest advance during the past few years, the membership increasing impressively.

DISTRICT CONFERENCE IN NELSON

District conferences were to be held in the future and Nelson would probably be the meeting point for this district. The conference would be held about October and was for boys from 12 to 16 years. He quoted figures to show how great a number of boys were receiving benefits from the Tuxis work, and at an exceedingly slight cost. He stated that the group he had started since returning from the parliament had been awarded the shield for contributing the largest amount per member of any group in the province.

Tuxis had a great and exacting task, he declared, and they wanted the sympathy, substance and will to understand of the adults to assist them in their work, so that the freshness and optimism of youth could be diffused through adult life, concluded Alfred.

Mr. Mawhinney thanked the artists and stated that great credit was due to Mr. Sharpe for obtaining their services, also to A. Browne, the other member of the boys committee, who at present was in Calgary with the Boy Scouts.

Visitors at the luncheon were B. T. Chappell of Vancouver; Thomas Abriel, of Nakusp and A. E. Delgas.

AN ANOMALY

Russia says she has repudiated kings and all the ways of kings and kingdoms, and yet, she has reverted to a practice that was used generations and generations ago by some of the most autocratic and absolute monarchs of the East. This practice is brought to public notice in "The Observer" as follows:

"Moscow may sneer at royalty, but not since the days of the Pharaohs has there been anything so gruesome as the efforts of the authorities to preserve the corpse of Lenin. Professors Vosobief and Zbarski have just been awarded decorations for their services in the matter, to which they "have devoted themselves entirely" for the past two years. The cult of the mummy is a strange result of the abnegation of the future life."

Consistency evidently does not enter into the orders and practices of the authorities at Moscow. Hedging and shifting today are more marked than ever in a land that avowedly has abandoned entirely all the customs and practices that border on the conduct of kings and kingdoms past and present.

SCIENCE CATCHING UP

A psychologist at Teachers College announces that "a drooping shoulder strap, tight fashionable coat shoulders, ill-fitting, uncomfortable shoes are harmful" to a child's welfare and that "the wrong kind of clothes can make children objects of derision, even scorn." Herein is evidence that psychology is catching up with experience.

Forty years ago Francis Hodgson Burnett published a book entitled "Little Lord Fauntleroy," the hero of which wore curls and a jacket and knickerbockers. The book had an enormous vogue, and some silly parents dressed their male offspring in Little Lord Fauntleroy suits, let their hair grow long, and in other ways maltreated them. From their contemporaries those unfortunate infants learned far more about scorn and derision than a squad of psychologists could teach them. How many sincere hair pullings, stone throwings and fist fights those dainty getups incited nobody will ever know. To the credit of American parenthood of the late nineteenth century it should be recorded that the devotees of the fad were a small proportion of the whole; no larger, say, than the number of parents of the pre-psychology period who thought uncomfortable shoes were good for children.

Psychology has also discovered that "a long frock, possessing all the charm and chic of Parisian models, can be made of a flour sack which is soft in texture and dyed a light green." Undoubtedly; and by whom?

NATIONAL SCHOLARSHIPS

A proposal has been advanced by A. E. Corrigan, of Ottawa, that the Dominion government grant 1000 scholarships to students who would be financially unable to complete a university course.

Mr. Corrigan suggests that the scholarships be awarded in the provinces in proportion to population. They would be granted "on the principles of vocational guidance, and consideration would be given not only to the results of written examination, but also to natural ability, temperament, personality, and all other qualities requisite to leadership."

Coming at a time when not a few young men and women who would otherwise make splendid students find themselves financially handicapped, the proposal is an excellent one. It is in line with policy followed by governments in many countries throughout the world.

Great Britain, for instance, trains 73,000 of her brilliant youth annually with state funds awarded in national scholarships. Australia has had a system of national scholarships in operation for 25 years. New Zealand, with a population of 1,250,000, grants national scholarships, giving free education to 2,000 of her youth every year. Japan is educating by similar scholarships all her outstanding students. Russia is spending $500,000,000 a year in this work. Italy, Germany and other countries are doing the same.

Pointing out that Canada's unemployment problem can be alleviated by greater scientific research into methods of developing our natural resources, Mr. Corrigan says: "This training would not only be of incalculable value to the nation; it would also preserve the nation from potential danger. The youths who would qualify for these scholarships would otherwise drift into the ranks of the unemployed, and their gifts of leadership might easily be diverted to the support of dangerous and pernicious doctrines. Instead of being trained to build up the country, they might be actively engaged in the destructive efforts of the ignorant and discontented."

With the proposal to use them instead for the benefit of the nation, most people will agree. Establishment of national scholarships is something to which the government should give earnest consideration.

THE HEADLINE HUNT

Recently a London newspaper poll won G. B. Shaw the title of the country's greatest bore. If G.B.S. felt any humiliation, he failed to show it. He drifted off for a visit to South Africa as if nothing had happened. Mr. Shaw does not lack sympathizers. His friends know that, even if he is a bore, he has to put up with considerable boredom himself, being a vegetarian.

New York City's favorite bore, according to a newspaper poll, is Ely Culbertson. The decision will probably annoy Mr. Culbertson as much as it discountenanced Mr. Shaw, and no more. Ely is a confessed publicity hound. He is no fonder of the pasteboards than he is of the billboards. And, after all, it is something of an achievement to acquire such wide influence as to qualify as the greatest bore.

When it comes to bores, the United States can boast a considerable list. A country with Huey Long, General Johnson, Father Coughlin and Aimee McPherson, to say nothing of bridge experts and members of the brain trust, need take second place to none. In fact, the current occupants of the White House at Washington is not only president; he might be known, as well, as "chairman of the bored."

HEDGES

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Hedges may be planted as boundaries to a lawn, even though your neighbor's property is attractive, for they make desirable backgrounds to flower borders, and they may serve a double purpose by stopping the passage of children and animals.

On small places a general purpose hedge is usually desirable, but for larger properties hedges may be planted for special features, such as for their attractive or conspicuous foliage or bark. They maybe kept untrimmed, as flowering hedges or tall hedges may be desired to break the force of the wind, and the evergreens specially will give a greater feeling of snugness in winter.

Hedges may be planted to make live fences to prevent the passage of animals, and to make the fields and garden more attractive. Hedges should help to give a house a pleasing setting, and this should be kept in mind this spring when deciding where to plant one.

THE CHERRY POLLINATION PROBLEM

By J. E. BRITTON,
(Assistant Superintendent, Dominion Experiment Farm, Summerland, B.C.)

Sweet cherries blossom early in the season when the unsettled weather is often cold and rainy. It is a precarious time for the mass of white blossoms to become pollinated in order that fruit may be set, and often colonies of bees are placed in the orchard as a means to help ensure a crop of fruit. The bees take advantage of every sunny hour to carry and distribute pollen among the blooms, but if the pollen is of a kind inefficient for the job, that effort is useless.

As fewer varieties are grown, because of superior qualities, the pollenizing problem becomes more acute. In the Pacific northwest, sweet cherry varieties have been reduced to three leaders: Bing, Lambert and Royal Anne, (the Royal Anne being better known in some parts by its original name, Napoleon). These are the major commercial varieties, but all three are known from any other variety, they blossom profusely but set fruit most sparingly. When properly pollinated with a suitable variety they bear heavy crops. Varieties efficient in pollenizing, and often recommended in the past, are Black Tartarian and Black Republican. The first produces fruit too soft, and the other too small.

Several years ago the Dominion Experimental Station at Summerland set out to find a cherry which combined high dessert and shipping qualities with the power to efficiently pollenize the Bing, Lambert, and Royal Anne. Extensive experiments proved a number of varieties were suitable as pollenizers, but unsuitable for market. Then pollen was taken from a cherry tree of the Deacon variety, growing in a nearby orchard. The blossoms on several branches of Bing, Lambert and Royal Anne were pollenized with Deacon pollen. On every branch so pollenized, the cherries grew, setting from 24 per cent to over 80 per cent. The experiment was repeated for several years and every time Deacon pollen gave a very satisfactory set.

The Deacon tree usually sets a heavy crop itself and partly for that reason the fruit is smaller than Bing. It resembles Lambert in shape. Deacon is a black cherry when ripe, juicy and sprightly in taste, does not crack easily, is harvested just after Bing, and is entirely satisfactory for shipping to market. It is said to have been sold at one time under the name "Black Tartarian Improved".

Plantings of one or more of the standard three varieties of sweet cherries would include a pollenizer variety. In some places Windsor has been found satisfactory, but Deacon is now recommended in all western cherry districts. Every third tree in every third row a Deacon will provide satisfactory pollination of Bing, Lambert and Royal Anne.

WILLIAM AND GEORGE

By G. S. REES

In keeping with the modern trend of celebrating anniversaries, let us claim today as entitled to honorable mention. A long time ago, at the season of the year when "The daffodils come before the swallows dare, and take the winds of spring with beauty," and red-headed Queen Bess—of ever blessed memory—sat on the throne of England, an infant, "mewling and puking in his nurse's arms" greeted the rising sun with a lusty cry under the old oaken rafters of a cottage in the middle of England. A great day for Stratford-on-Avon in the heart of Warwickshire where the very pastures and woodlands, singing streams and wide skirt'd meads present the appearance of having been gloated over by human beings for centuries, and to this day retain their rural beauties, despite the adventitious aids provided for a motor-scurrying generation. A great day too for the world at large, for where'er poetry is read and plays are staged, even in this last best West, the name of William Shakespeare is reverenced as the greatest in English literature for all time, and his works, a fount of wit and wisdom portraying in golden words of sound and sense the many shifting emotions of mankind, have proved a blessing and a pleasure for all the ages. Today also commemorates the patron saint of Shakespeare's homeland, Saint George, but unlike the Bard of Avon, George's ancestral record is "wropt in mystery," dependent in part on the improvisations of the harp-twanging minstrels of feudal days who may have had their moments of oblivion through too much imbibing of heady brews from pewter pots!

We know who William was, and what he accomplished before middle life, and how, with fertile imagination, he created characters so delightfully human. (What a clean-up he could have made in Hollywood as a scenario-writer; he could have sported the swankiest swimming pool in Beverley Hills, but perhaps the Hollywood style and the Shakespearian spirit are an impossible combination). As it was, he made a respectable fortune, and kept it too, which is worth a passing mention.

LET GEORGE DO IT!

But who was George? "I'm telling you?" No! I seek authentic data. For no two records in my limited research read alike. He was a saint, but by George, if he was the Cappadocian profiteer who, as an army contractor, sold bad bacon to the licentious soldiery of his day (Decidedly not "the stuff to give the troops," to resurrect a wartime catchphrase) then he should have been content with a peerage, and some one more worthy nominated for beatification, free from "tainted" money, on whom the halo would have hovered at a less rakish angle.

However, if Richard Coeur-de-Lion and Edward III, the sporting kings of England, fancied the ex-tax collector (if this was the George in question) as the patron saint of their country's destiny, who are we to question his sanctity, or the Order of St. George, commonly known as the Most Noble Order of the Garter, the principal emblem of which is worn on the leg below and not above the knee!

If you cross my hand with a golden guinea, I will relate some of our George's early adventures, as recorded on page 372 in volume 8 of Junior's "Our Wonder World," but it would be cheaper to borrow the book.

LIVE AND LEARN

I thought George slew the dragon somewhere in the suburbs, but apparently, he had to take his magic sword Ascalon to the land of the Ptolmies for the slaughter. We have our dragons now. The principal difference between ours and the never-seen dragon of people in a state of primitive superstition thousands of years ago is that theirs was supposed to be a physical monster, whereas ours are raging abstractions that seemingly threaten our happiness by day and by night!

George will surely remain enthroned as a tutelary saint as long as their remains a local branch of the honorable society of the Sons of England to uphold his seniority.

PEN MIGHTIER THAN THE SWORD

Let us now give Shakespeare an innings. The youthful William around the time when Drake was despoiling the Spaniards about Puerto Bello and Panama, carried a quill behind his ear, and held horses' heads outside London playhouses for what there was in it. The reason he travelled Londonwards from his Warwickshire village was because he saw countless killed pedestrians from north of the Tweed—who had found the only good road in Scotland — hiking southward down the highway en route to the Eldorado of their dreams. What was good enough for Jock was good enough for William.

MY KINGDOM FOR A HORSE!

In distinct contrast, the holy Cappadocian, the friend of all the tycoons of his time, in near nudist garb handled his horse from the saddle, and made much play with a sword instead of a pen.

"A NEVER ENDING PANORAMA"

William Shakespeare was indeed a myriad minded man, a reputable citizen and the idol of the people, even if not elevated to sainthood. He was an authority on events and circumstances, and they are true words that bear him tribute—"His life was gentle, and the elements so mix'd in him that Nature might stand up and say to all the world—'This is a man'." None has a better right to be enshrined in the Abbey of Westminster. He is in noble company with his fellow Englishmen, the makers of English history in "this pleasant land, this isle set in silver sea, this England" down through the centuries of kingly and princely splendor.

This commentator has never been a dyed-in-the-wool Shakespeare fan, finding it difficult to hurdle the high fences of the rich Elizabethan vocabulary in his ordinary rapid rate of reading; the rather ancient volumes of Shakespeare's works in the family possession do not bear earmarks of much usage. In his salad days, the times of jingling hansom cabs, puffed sleeves and penny-farthing bicycles — and no telephones, under a spasmodic cultural urge, he would join the pitites in the London theaters when Shakespearean revivals were staged by such great players as Henry Irving and his incomparable teammate, Ellen Terry. Let it be confessed, however, that he then found greater appeal in the more effervescent and tuneful type of entertainment offered at the old and the new Gaiety, also at Daly's and the Savoy theaters. Where the bones of George the Saint remain, history does not record, perhaps in a legendary realm from whence they never emerged clothed in flesh! Nowadays, the only evidence that there ever was—if there ever was—a Cappadocian yclept George is a dilapidated Union Jack on or around today hanging wet and limp—perhaps upside down—from the village school flagstaff in England's countryside. But the Englishman abroad remembers him. It is just one of those other things! Like the lap of the waves on the shore, the blossoming fruity fields, or the strong beat of the pulse that lies at the very heart of his Homeland.

FARE-YE-WELL, GENTLEMEN

We have granted William and George, George and William an equal accord in these minor observations. Those who worship at William's shrine on this anniversary will gladly exchange greetings with all who pay special homage to George, and mutually agree that an intense and passionate love of country was never distilled into fewer and more moving syllables than in those enduring words which Shakespeare has put in the mouth of the dying John of Gaunt in Richard II:

"This royal throne of Kings, this sceptred isle . . .
"This other Eden, demi-paradise,
"This fortress built by nature for herself
"This happy breed of men, this little world,
"This precious stone set in the silver sea . . .
"This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England.

"This blessed plot, this earth . . ." abides as does any other land, not merely in its solid soil, its history, the noble words its poets have woven around it and the achievements on land and sea of its far-wandering sons and daughter, but in each one of its children, however distant from the land of their inheritance and birth. Thus in our vivid conservation of our individual impressions and memories, there survives some differing fragment of that "which is for ever England," something which we, individually, carry with us in consciousness, cherish and preserve by memory from oblivion.

PLAYING HIS LUCK

Some players make most astonishing scores by "playing their luck" when the cards are running well for them. Among the boldest of such players is Kurt Wandel. I may add that he is also one of the most delightful partners, but a very dangerous opponent when his luck is running right for him. In the last two duplicate games where both of us were playing he was the only player to bid two slams on questionable holdings. It happened that both of these bids were made at my table, costing me two bottom scores, as he fulfilled both of his dangerous contracts. Below is given a sample of his infernal luck, although I happened to be his partner in this case.

North: ♠ A 4 ♥ 6 4 2 ♦ 8 8 ♣ A K J 9 7 2

West: ♠ 9 6 2 ♥ Q 10 9 5 ♦ 6 2 ♣ Q 10 8 5

East: ♠ K Q J 10 ♥ 5 3 ♦ 8 7 3 ♦ Q 10 9 7 ♣ None

South: ♠ 8 7 ♥ A K J ♦ A K J 5 4 ♣ 6 4 3

Bidding went: South, 1 diamond, North (Wandel) 3 clubs, scenting a slam; East 3 spades; South 4 diamonds, my partner needed no urging; North 6 clubs, with the A-K-J of hearts plus 3 clubs I felt obliged to bid 7 clubs, even if we were vulnerable, but nobody doubled.

The opening lead was the K of spades. Partner's ace won. He led his K of trumps. East showed out, by discarding his lowest spade. North led a diamond. East covered the 8 with his 9. Dummy's K won the trick.

A trump was led through West. The 9 picked up the 8. Declarer's last diamond was led. East covered with the 7. A finesse of dummy's J held the trick. Dummy's last trump was led through West's Q-10, up to declarer's A-J, and the last two opposing trumps were picked up, leaving North with 2 long trumps. I noted how well my partner was playing the hands, thus far he had not touched a wrong card.

Partner led a heart. Dummy's K was played, winning our eighth trick. On dummy's good ace of diamonds North discarded his last spade. Dummy's 4 of diamonds was led and ruffed, pulling down East's last diamond, and leaving one long card of that suit in dummy. North led another heart. Dummy's ace won the trick. On a lead of dummy's last diamond my partner discarded his last heart, giving our side its 13th straight trick. Dummy's J of hearts was led. West's Q covered (a finesse of the J would have defeated us, but my partner had smelt that when he refused to take a heart finesse). North ruffed West's Q of hearts, fulfilling his grand slam contract without difficulty, but Wandel's luck had to pull us through.

FINAL STEP IN DIAGNOSIS

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

The final step in summing up the diagnosis of a particular individual is to try to decide what his functional capacity is. Most diagnosis is anatomical. We say that the heart is enlarged, the valves are damaged, or that the thyroid gland is diseased, or that there is a stone in the kidney, etc., but the greatest refinement comes in deciding how much work this damaged organ can do. We know that a badly damaged heart may serve its owner for many years. Everyone knows of such cases. We find hearts at an autopsy so diseased that it is a matter of marvel that the man could have lived at all, and yet he did, doing a fair amount of work.

The decision as to this functional capacity or, in other words, this physiological diagnosis, has depended in the past largely upon the clinical judgment and experience of the physician, but we are finding methods of exact measurement which bid fair to be increasingly important. Measurement is the final test of science, and no science made much growth until it began to have standards of measurement.

Thus, I received the other day the report of the young army surgeon who took care of Napoleon at St. Helena during his last illness. He records that the emperor's body heat was high or low, but he gave no exact measurements because the clinical thermometer had not yet been perfected.

Clinical medicine has been borrowing instruments from the physiological laboratory for the purpose of making these more exact measurements of functional capacity. One of the first that we borrowed was the blood pressure apparatus. Another recent one was the apparatus for measuring basal metabolism. Basal metabolism is the total energy exchange of the body, and is measured by the amount of oxygen which it consumes per square area of body surface. We have found, especially in activity of the thyroid gland, that the basal metabolism is high, and that when it degenerates the basal metabolism is low. This is true because the thyroid is the regulator of energy exchange.

Another method of physologic examination is that of the irregularities of the pulse and the integrity of the conduction system of the heart muscle. This is done by a very delicate indicator of the galvanic electricity called the "electrocardiograph". A tracing of the heart's action can be made upon a roll of photographic film so that an extremely good idea of what is taking place inside the heart can be obtained.

By still other methods, more or less chemical in nature, we are able to judge the functional capacity of the kidneys, and of the liver.

A Thought for Today

WHAT THE PRESS IS SAYING

TOO DEEP FOR DAFOE

Dr. Dafoe has been back in Canada for some time now, but we feel it is not too late to tell a little incident of his last day here, a happening in his room at the Ritz-Carlton.

The doctor was having breakfast —or trying to; quite a few people were in the room, and more kept knocking on the door or ringing on the telephone. The doctor had to get up to accept two chamois penguins designed by Walt Disney, a gift from Lord and Taylor.

No sooner had he sat down than he was on his feet again to receive two large volumes brought by a messenger. These, it came out, were a learned treatise on obstetrics, and they were accompanied by a polite and respectful little note from the author himself — a physician unknown to the Canadian, apparently.

Dr. Dafoe glanced through the pages of first one volume and then the other, pausing every now and then to go back over a paragraph. Finally he put the volumes down on a table. "Too deep for me," he said.—New Yorker.

INDIAN WOMEN IN POLITICS

The representatives of Indian women at the Round Table Conferences were, perhaps unfortunately, not typical; they were chosen precisely because they had become prominent in connection with what might loosely be called femininist activities. Their enlightenment is entirely to their credit, but in so far as they implied its generality, they misled. The extension of the franchise to women in different parts of the world has proved that on the whole their political leanings may be described as erratically Conservative; and there is no reason to suppose India an exception to this rule. Indeed, as far as Communalism is concerned, they unquestionably cling more stubbornly than most men to those customs and superstitions and prejudices which are its nutriment.—Calcutta Statesman.

FIGHT STORY IN 5 ROUNDS

Boxing So on the Up, Writer Does It by Cantos

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

NEW YORK, April 22 (AP). — Round one: Mike Jacobs, ticket broker turned fight promoter and already boasting two outdoor plums, the Louis-Carnera and Ross-McLarnfights, promises an "important announcement" this week that has everyone, including Madison Square Garden, guessing. One hot top is that Mike, whose money backed Tex Rickard before the garden ever was built, has arranged a deal whereby he will take over the boxing concession at the garden next winter on a flat-rental, percentage-plus basis. The garden is known to be listening to offers. Other surmises were that Jacobs had found some other indoor arena for indoor fights, and that he had come to an agreement with Max Baer for a heavyweight title defence in September against the winner of the Joe Louis-Prima Carnera match.

Round two—Jimmy Braddock, who gets his heavyweight title chance against Baer here in June, slipped off to a secret rendezvous in the Catskill mountains today to chop wood and rough it outdoors for three weeks.

MAX ON THE AIR

Round three: Max Baer, after two western tuneups this week, heads east but not, as might be expected, to settle down to preparations for the Braddock match. He will start a 26-week radio broadcast which will go on through the entire training period for the Braddock duel, and after.

Round four: first unofficial odds on Baer and Braddock were worked out by a squad of experts. The experts figure Baer should be a 5 to 1 favorite, but no bookmaker has offered that as yet. The third Ross-McLarnin battle is rated an even-money affair.

Round five: It was voted unanimously that Louis and Carnera will attract at least double the gate for the Baer-Braddock match, the concensus on the latter bringing forth an average estimate of $200,000.

WINDSOR, Ont., April 22 (CP)—Percy Page's Edmonton Grads, unleashing the full power of their offensive in the first and final quarters, coasted through to a 58-31 victory tonight over Gordie Fuller's Windsor-Walkerville Alumnae girls. Victory gave them an almost unbreakable hold on the Canadian women's senior basketball title.

It was the second successive victory for the westerners and another win Wednesday night will permit them to retain the title which has been theirs for nearly two decades.

For two quarters—the second and third—Alumnae held their own and at times outplayed their famous rivals, but the superior stamina of the well-conditioned westerners asserted itself in the final 10 minutes.

"Babe" Belanger, bespectacled forward partner of Capt. Marg MacBurney, led a rousing Edmonton offensive in the first quarter to give her team a 2-6 margin at the rest interval.

Urged on by a crowd of 1500 Alumnae reversed matters in the second quarter to outscore their rivals, 15-11 and at half time the Fullerites trailed 31-21.

The teams matched point for point in the speedy, hard checking third quarter when the session ended the score stood 41-31 for the visitors.

Dempsey Is "On the Bike" Now

Sports writers covering the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Chicago made much of the fact that Tunney saved himself from a knockout by "riding his bicycle." Now the party of the first part, Jack Dempsey, has taken to the bike, but it's a different one, in Artie McGovern's New York gym, where Jack is taking regular workouts.

ARSENAL PULLS HAT-TRICK IN ENGLISH CHAMPIONSHIP

Gunners Win Title for the Third Successive Year by Beating Middlesborough 1-0, Two Weeks From End

LONDON, April 22 (CP cable).—Arsenal, London's popular football club, today won the championship of the English league for the third year in succession, a feat accomplished only once before. Huddersfield Town created the record in 1928, the Gunners equalling the performance today although the season has nearly two weeks to run.

When the Gunners defeated Middlesbrough 1-0 they earned their fourth championship in five years. The Highbury club's rise to the top in the English soccer world started in 1930-31 and the following year it was runner-up to Everton. Since then the Gunners have held undisputed sway.

The two points Arsenal took from Middlesbrough may cost the northern side its place in the first division as it is now in twenty-first position in the league table, one point behind Leicester City. Both teams have two games to play but while Middlesbrough has disappointed in recent games the City has put up some remarkably fine games against formidable opponents. Tottenham Hotspurs cannot escape relegation.

Great interest was shown in the cup final rehearsal between West Bromwich Albion and Sheffield Wednesday at the Hawthorne. The match, fought at a surprisingly fast pace, resulted in a stalemate, each side scoring once. Both goals were obtained in the first 45 minutes Robinson netting for the Wednesday and Boyes getting the equalizer.

Drake scored the only goal of the Arsenal-Middlesbrough tussle six minutes after the start. The Gunners were somewhat lucky to come away with two points as Middlesbrough played a fine game.

Leicester City and Grimsby Town drew 2-2.

In the second division Brentford made sure of promotion by defeating Bradford 3-2. The same can be said of Charlton Athletic in the southern section of the third division. The Valley Parade side overcame Aldershot 4-0 in a one-sided affair.

Doncaster Rovers again went into a clear lead in the northern section, winning from Rotherham United 3-1. Chester lost ground by sharing the points with Crew Alexandra, each side scoring one goal.

With two games in hand the Rovers have a one-point edge over Chester and four points over Tranmere Rovers who now hold third place in the table.

Wins B. C. Amateur Golf Title

VICTORIA, April 22 (CP)—Stan Leonard of Vancouver defeated his fellow townsman, Ted Charlton, 2 and 1 after a game uphill battle in the 36-hole final for the British Columbia amateur golf championship. Leonard, who held the provincial crown in 1932, trailed Charlton by as much as five holes during the first 18. He took the lead for the first time at the 32nd.

The games were played on neutral ice at Galt, Ont. Feminine puckchasers in the party from the west, shown in the above layout are: Top, left to right, Kay Ablett, Flo. Musgrove, Helen Ranson, Kay Bowser, Ann Livingstone. Lower left to right, Olive Torrenos, May Manson, Margaret Lumsden, Verna Musgrove and Yvette Lambert.

PHILADELPHIA, April 22 (AP).—With Carl Hubbell hurling four-hit ball for his second victory of the season, the New York Giants let loose a 15-hit attack today to defeat the Phillies 8-1 and get an even break in the four-game series.

Dolph Camilli, the Phil's young first baseman, cheated the Giants' screw-ball ace out of a shut-out when he hammered the ball over the right field wall in the fourth for his fifth home run of the season. He also connected with a single. "Blondy" Ryan, a former giant, and John Moore, hit the other two safeties.

"BIG LEAGUE" BOWLING

THE AVERAGE WOMAN ROLLS THE THREE FINGERED BALL WITH GREATER EASE AND LESS EFFORT THAN THE TWO FINGERED BALL—THE THREE FINGERED BALL IS BORN TO THE SAME PERFECT BALANCE AS THE TWO FINGERED BALL IS—

By AL DEMAREE
Former Pitcher, N.Y. Giants

I think the average woman rolls the three-fingered ball with greater ease and less effort than she does a two-fingered ball. Your three-fingered ball of today is bored to the same perfect balance that the two-fingered ball is.

To determine the correct span of your ball (the distance between the thumb and finger holes) grip your ball and swing it in your hand. Bring it up, and leaving your thumb in the hole, spread your hand over the top of the ball. If the ball fits your hand as regards span, the knuckles of your finger or fingers should be over the center of the hole, or holes. If you roll a two-finger ball you need to be even more careful than if you have a three-fingered ball, to have the right width. The narrow span ball throws as unnecessary strain on the hand, as it must be gripped very tightly to be held, while the correct span will allow the ball to be held easily and naturally.

The Old Scout says—The late President Harding was once treasurer and a stock holder in the Marion, Ohio, baseball club.

The Old Scout asks—In what year did Frank Navin become president of the Detroit club? Answer tomorrow.

APPLE PEEL WINS HANDICAP

KEMPTON PARK, Eng., April 22 (CP cable).—H. Martineau's Apple Peel, carrying 106 pounds, won the Queen's prize handicap this afternoon by two lengths over H. T. Rich's Polly Stephens, 121 pounds, with Sir Frederick Eley's Solar Boy, carrying 112 pounds, third in the field of 12.

The race was over the two-mile course. Apple Peel started at 10 to 1, Polly Stephens 11 to 4 and Solar Boy 10 to 1. The winner is a five-year-old gelding by Apelle out of White Coral.

To Organize Girls' Hockey in Regina

REGINA, April 22 (CP).—Hockey games in the Regina Parks Hockey league last season cost less than three cents per player per day, it was announced today. The league is credited with being the largest organized with a membership of 1300 boys, and 94 teams.

"It is our intention to organize a girls hockey league in connection with the present Parks league for next season," stated J. M. Craig, superintendent of city parks, and head of the movement.

GLASGOW, April 22 (CP cable)—Queen's Park defeated Partick Thistle 3-1 in a first division, Scottish Soccer league game played here today.

Beat Stella Walsh

Above is shown Miss Helen Stephens, a high school lass from Fulton, Miss., who recently astounded track experts of the United States by taking the measure of teh redoubtable Stella Walsh. She whipped the great Olympic runner in the final of the United States National A.A.U. 50-metre sprint, stepping the distance in 6.8 seconds to equal the world mark. Miss Stephens also won the eight-pound shot put event, with a heave of 39 feet 7¼ inches.

Golf Facts NOT THEORIES!

BY ALEX J. MORRISON

Trying to practice on the course is dangerous, impolite and a waste of time. These are the best reasons I can give for my tip to do your practicing away from the course.

Some players have a habit of swinging a club where they are in danger of striking another player or one of the caddies. Others swing while you're trying to make a shot or they'll go back to try a putt they've missed while other players are waiting to shoot for the green.

All attempts to practice on the course are hurried, with one eye on passing players and the other on where the ball might go. It's best to practice when you want to fix up your game, and to play when you want to play. Each must be done in its proper place. A driving range makes a good practice ground.

DETROIT, April 22 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers' inability to strike a hitting stride carried on into the final game of the series with Cleveland today as the Indians turned back the American league champions 5-0.

Willis Hudlin was in fine form, holding the Tigers to three hits, two of which came in the seventh inning when Mickey Cochrane's men made their only serious threat only to have a double play bring the budding rally to an abrupt halt.

RED SOX WIN AGAIN

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox won their third straight victory over Washington today, 4-2, giving Wesley Ferrell his second victory of the year.

Ferrell weakened in the ninth and the Senators filled the bases, but Rube Walberg stepped in as a relief pitcher and they were unable to score. Ferrell had a perfect at bat with two singles, a double and triple out of four times at the plate, scoring two runs. He crossed the plate in the fifth on Bishop's single after he had doubled. Again in the ninth he scored from third on an error by Jack Russell who had relieved Earl Whitehill, Washington's starting pitcher.

BROWNS TAKE ODD GAME

ST. LOUIS, April 22 (AP).—Zeke Bonura, Chicago first baseman, drove across two home runs today, but the St. Louis Browns bunched their hits to take the odd game of their series with the White Sox, 6-3, before a slim crowd of 1000.

Bonura's circuit drives in the first and third innings brought in all the Chicago runs and sent Dick Coffman, St. Louis hurler, to the showers early. Jim Walkup, his relief, squelched the White Sox batting spree and held the visitors to a single hit in the remaining six and two-third innings.

GYPSY GIRL

THE STORY OF AN IMPASSIONED ROMANCE

"PEASE"

CHAPTER 36

For an hour Consuelo and Doug drove in silence.

"Gypsy, don't you want to tell me what's the matter?" He was serious now.

She shook her head.

Tell him about this white man who is his friend? Ah, no! Tell him this white dog has another woman and have him say, well what of it, you might have known. The dog! That is why a gypsy was not good enough until she put away her gypsy clothes. That is why he is so busy and can't see me often. Little fool I am, little fool! She is his woman and she is star of the Follies. I am his woman and I am—pooh, one scene, once on, not a dozen times! Ah, how I have been fooling myself. This a marble palace? This the high hill? It is a swamp, a swamp of lies!

I have been fascinated by this white man and by the gold that flows through his fingers like water. When I saw him that day beside the train he looked good to me. When I wanted to come to New York to get revenge on Marcu I thought it would be part of that revenge to give my body to him. I did not reckon that I might be only making a fool of myself.

But Marcu could laugh now! You sold yourself to me for a diamond and it was a piece of glass, he would say. You sold yourself to the white man for the palace on top of the hill and it was a hovel! Fool! You thought you could play this game of revenge and win. You should have stayed with the van and been my woman and danced at the country fairs and given me your purse of silver when you had finished. I would love you and I would beat you but I would not take another woman as this white dog has done.

Bitter thoughts! The girl bent her head in her hands and the tears flowed down her cheeks.

Doug's arms were about her.

"Don't cry, my darling, don't cry! Oh, gee, but I love you, Consuelo. I love you. I could kill the person who has hurt you like this!"

She did not hear him.

She is his gal and she is star of the show. I am his girl and I am nothing!

Now is my heart crying out within me that I have been such a bad one. Now is my heart crying out for Girtza and the tenderness of his arms. Now is my heart crying out for the comfort of the forest and the brooks and the good cool earth beneath me. The rumble of the van—music. The sound of Romany—oh Lord! How lonesome I am. Marcu, this revenge I took upon you is bitter—bitter! I can't endure it longer! I go back to my people tomorrow.

The hope that rose within her died.

Back to the van—trailing home in shame? Marcu to kill you—or worse, to spit upon you and in spite turn his eyes upon another woman. Anica to laugh, Papa to hide his head with pain. And you, the Gypsy Consuelo, to admit defeat! No! No! No!

You came to New York to dance. Have you forgotten that? What does this pettiness of love concern you, then? What business of yours is it that this white man has another girl? Perhaps all white men have. That is quite all right—except the fact that she stands first. How do you like that insult? You come from a line of gypsies where their women have been famed for beauty; where the highest prices have been paid for brides and the hottest quarrels have been fought over the sight of a gypsy girl's smile. Are you less than these? This is a challenge flung in you face. Do not let it blind your eyes that you cannot see to fight.

This man holds for you the marble palace and no man was ever won by quarreling—no white man. Now if he was a gypsy, you could spit on him and he would slap your lips and beat you, but then when he had finished he would take you to his tent and there would be no other woman there. But this is a white dog.

The high hill still beckons? Yes. The call to dance on top of the world? Yes. You know her dances and her songs. You are ready to step into her place. Gypsies get what they want? Have your gorgio clothes made you into a gorgio so soon that you hesitate to take this thing?

This is a game. You have played games before. She said, you know, that this Stewart Blackmire was the big one behind the show—that he had the say so. Well, if he loved you well enough he could say so, couldn't he? He could say so, couldn't he?

"Consuelo, my darling, you're shivering. There's a roadhouse further on a bit. We'll stop and have something hot to eat, eh what!"

No answer.

He could say so, couldn't he?

"Consuelo, will you look at me? I don't know who's hurt you so, but listen, my darling, I'm wild about you and I stand as much chance as a—well anyway, my dearest, I love you." He sighed. "Well, Doug, be yourself. You can't make love to a deaf wall all night. Snap out of it and remember who's paying you and her!"

Yes, he could.

The girl turned to Doug.

"Ah, my friend, you are a good one to endure this mad, crazy gypsy. I have been dreaming bad dreams, but now I am awake. I wonder if there is nothing in life that is as you think it is?"

"Little, my pet, very little. Here I'm wild about you and I thought you might kiss me and it is not as it is—"

"There you are wrong." She put her arms around him and pressed her lips to his tenderly, without passion, and it was much the same as she had kissed the Dummy that day so long ago—so long—eternities—yet the way man counts, only a short time.

But a tender kiss to a man in love is less than no kiss at all and tells him more than he wants to know. And Doug settled back in the seat and let his arm rest idly around her shoulders.

The next morning Stweart called Douglas over the his club to have breakfast with him. They remarked upon the market; had an eye-opener, and it was not until breakfast was served that Stewart brought up the subject that was on his mind.

"How are you getting along with Consuelo?"

"That's a personal question."

"I've asked you."

"Very well, if you feel that way about it. 'Fine' is the answer."

"Where did you go last night?"

"Say, is this a third degree?" He received no answer. He dropped the kidding. "She was sore about something and we drove into the country and didn't get back until sun-up. After all, you had a date with Lou."

"Know what Consuelo was sore about?"

"No."

"She didn't say anything?"

"No."

"That doesn't sound like a hot-headed gypsy!" Stewart shook his head. "Doug, I'm in a mess. She and Louise got together last night and found out about me—"

Doug whistled through his teeth.

GOLD STRIKE IN EDMONTON!

(By Central Press Canadian)

Not the hope of a "big gold strike" keeps this man working in the icy water of the North Saskatchewan river within Edmonton city limits. Along with a companion, he works only for the tiny bits of yellow metal they glean daily to keep them equipped with a good "grub stake."

Undaunted by more than two feet of ice and an equal amount of snow that has covered the river during the winter months, two gold seekers, Jack Thistle and Elvy Mickleson, have operated their home-made "grizzly" without a break except for a few days during the bitter cold spell which gripped Edmonton and district during February.

Thistle was formerly a section foreman for the Canadian National Railways between Edmonton and Jasper. He worked for the railway for 12 years, then three years ago he was laid off. So instead of going on relief he went to work searching the river gravel for the gold dust and he has been at it ever since.

Mickleson, the partner, came to Edmonton in September, 1934, from his home at Swift Current, Sask. With a flair for mechanics, Mickleson designed and constructed an elaborate "grizzly" equipped with a massive scoop shovel made out of an old stove pipe which reaches down below the ice surface and grabs sections of the river gravel.

The "grizzly" has an intricate system of control wires and hoist cables which adds to the speed of operation. It has been placed on skis and can be moved at the wish of the owners to new locations. Later, when the spring arrives, the partners plan to equip the machine with a motor to improve its efficiency and also to pump water from the river which is now ladled by hand.

The gold seekers are now working not far from the parliament buildings, seat of Alberta's government and with, Toby, their faithful fox terrier, may be seen hard at work almost any day of the week.

Just a couple of enterprising Canadians who refused to be made idle by present economic conditions. As Thistle told one onlooker, "We may be down, but we're not out."

Boundary Markers Only Barrier Between Canadian and U.S. Soil

Boundary markers of many different designs designate the international line between Canadian and American soil. Whenever a dispute occurs as to the exact location of the line an international commission which represents both countries decides the point. Above are shown some of the boundary markings: Top left, the range mark which designates the international line in Passamaquoddy bay in the Bay of Fundy. Lower left, a hollow cast-iron monument which has marked the boundary on the St. Croix river in New Brunswick since 1844. Right, a bronze marker being set at the exact spot on the 141st meridian on the Alaska-Yukon boundary.

By JAMES MONTAGNES
Central Press Canadian Writer

OTTAWA — New highways and bridges joining the United States and Canada have been opened during the past year. The international boundary crossing these new arteries of traffic, is marked with only an ornamental boundary post, small immigration and customs offices. No fences, barbed wire entanglements, modern fortresses, mark the boundary between Canada and the United States for its entire length from Atlantic to Pacific, or between Alaska and the Yukon in the north. The only forts along the boundary are historic ones, kept in use for historical reasons.

The international boundary is an open area unrecognized as a boundary between two nations except for the various types of boundary markers placed at varying intervals by the international boundary commission, consisting of one American and one Canadian member. The boundary markers are not set up until the engineers and surveyors have located the exact spot on the boundary to the satisfaction of the commission. The markers are as a rule bronze or other metal posts stamped with the names of the two countries. On highways, bridges and tunnels the markers are more ornamental, consisting of stone posts and bronze tablets. There are 5452 land boundary markers and 2530 markers to show where the boundary crosses on the water areas between the United States and Canada.

WINNIPEG DULL

WINNIPEG, April 22 (CP)—The holiday spirit prevailed on the Winnipeg grain exchange today and trading operations dwindled to small proportions. After a dull session, wheat prices closed unchanged to ¼ cent higher.

Futures fluctuated somewhat irregularly, but quietly, May closing at 89⅝ and July 90⅝ cents.

No improvement in the United States southwest weather was reported and wheat at Chicago gained a half cent. Buenos Aires reopened after a three-day vacation and was up fractionally. Liverpool will reopen tomorrow.

For the first time in many weeks North America exported more wheat last week than Argentina, clearing 2,938,000 bushels of total world shipments of 10,756,000 bushels. Argentina shipped 2,889,000 bushels, her exports curtailed by the Easter holiday.

Cash and coarse grains trading continued dull.

CHICAGO DROPS

CHICAGO, April 22 (AP)—Tumbling back from new peak prices, the corn market suffered a sudden drop today, and practically wiped out gains that had been scored for wheat.

Extensive selling to realize profits dragged all deliveries of corn down to below 90 cents a bushel after May corn contracts had risen to 92 cents, and the topmost point reached on the current upward movement. Wheat meanwhile established a new high price record for the season, but reacted when corn headed downhill.

Corn closed nervous, unchanged to ⅛ lower, May 90⅝-91, wheat unchanged to ⅛ up, May 101⅝-102. Oats at ⅛ decline to ⅛ advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 7 cents.

BONDS REVIVE

NEW YORK, April 22 (AP)—A good reception for the $73,000,000 refunding issue of the Southern California Edison Co. stimulated interest anew in utility loans on the bond market today and advances were general over a broad front.

Leaders among utility obligations which gained 1 to 2 points included American Water Works 6s at 80, Laclede Gas Light 5½s at 89, Tennessee Electric Power 6s at 97½ and Montana Power 5s at 80½.

Best showing among rail loans were Erie Convertible 4s, up 4½ at 71½.

The foreign department was slightly irregular.

N.Y. HIGHER

NEW YORK, April 22 (AP)—Utilities and some specialties today held the spotlight in the most active stock trading in more than two months.

Shares of a number of the leading power and light and communications concerns advanced to new highs for 1935, including American Telephone, Public Service of New Jersey and Consolidated Gas. Other divisions of the list were generally moderately higher during most of the session, until profit-taking set in toward the close.

Turnover was 1,370,230 shares.

The day's news was lacking in specific tidings calculated to direct buying attention toward the utilities. Well-informed Wall Street quarters inclined to attribute the better feeling toward the group to the growing conviction that holding company legislation in Washington was pretty well stymied behind more important bills.

GRAIN EXPORTS OFF SLIGHTLY

VANCOUVER, April 22 (CP) — Grain exports from the port of Vancouver to date this season total 38,004,290 bushels, compared with 38,175,492 bushels at the same date last year. Grain exports from New Westminster total 1,843,402 bushels this year compared with 1,897,670 in 1934.

The Soviet government is spending large sums on prospecting, and reports finding may reserves of oil, coal and metals.

The vigorous man's way to get things done

Vigorous men know the shortcuts. The long-distance telephone is their friend. They use it to sweep aside obstacles and get things done.

Writing is too slow for vigorous men. They don't want to wait for letters to go back and forth. They are too busy. And also they find they get better results if they talk instead of write. So they pick up the telephone receiver, say a few words to "Long Distance"; and —presto!— the other fellow is on the line, ready to talk.

VANCOUVER, April 22 (CP). — Three mine workers from Corbin, accompanied by Tom Uphill, M.L.A., were here today enroute to Victoria to interview the British Columbia government in connection with the strike of Corbin Collieries, Ltd., employees and recent disturbances at the interior mining town.

The men plan to make three requests to the government:

1. That a commission with at least one labor representative be appointed to investigate the riot.
2. That the provincial police be withdrawn from the town.
3. That Corbin be open to travellers. "At present," they said, "the highways leading to the town are guarded by provincial police."

Sidney Sharkey Is Welcomed From Montreal

ASSUMES DUTY OF PASTORATE

Easter Sermons on Immortality and Living Hope

Easter Sunday saw the introduction of Sidney J. Sharkey, B.A., pastor-designate of the First Presbyterian Church of Nelson for the ensuing year, to his congregation, when the newly arrived pastor, who graduated in arts last May from McGill, and has just completed his second year of a three-year course at the Presbyterian college, Montreal, preached two sermons suggested by the Easter anniversary. Mr. Sharkey, who is a Montrealer, arrived in Nelson from Calgary Saturday morning, to take up his duties.

Preaching in the morning from Saint Paul's remark to Timothy respecting Christ having abolished death and having brought light and immortality to light through the gospel, the new pastor asserted that death was one of the few certainties that could be prophesied regarding the uncertain state known as life. There was scarcely an individual into whose field of affection the grim reaper had not entered. Was it then true, he questioned, as Shakespeare said of life: "It is a tale told by an idiot, full of sound and fury, signifying nothing?"

IMMORTAL LIFE

Against this view he brought Paul's declaration, and stated that immortality was like a seed buried in the earth, causing it to blossom gloriously. A belief in immortality was instinctive, the early American Indian, for instance, preparing his dead chief for the Happy Hunting Grounds. Similarly immortality existed in men's conscience. No great man believed that his work was finished here on earth. Further, men's affections were not content to accept death as the end of being.

The primary fact in the resurrection was not the rolling away of the stone, nor the empty tomb, said the preacher, but the empowering spirit of Christ, which filled His disciples and close followers. He drew the lesson that Christ's followers today should trust themselves to Him by striving to lead His life, in which case they would have immortality, not as an argument but as a life; not as a theory, but as Christ's personal presence.

HOPE TRIUMPHANT

Taking for his evening subject the living hope, or "lively hope", to which God, according to Peter, had begotten men again by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, lead hope, he said, was one that brought no particular inspiration to life, whereas a living hope influenced life and character. Through Christ's resurrection men had a living hope in their lives, a hope that their sins were forgiven. If there had been no resurrection, the whole theory of Christianity would fall to the ground.

Again, Christ's followers had a living hope of comfort in time of sorrow, for Jesus was a living, personal friend, who never forsook. If any had not felt this, it was because they had not placed themselves in the proper relation to Christ.

In a moment of great exaltation Saint Paul declared he could do all things through Christ, Who strengthened him, and Christ's resurrection gave men the living hope that they might have strength in their hour of weakness.

Finally, said the preacher, the resurrection of Christ gave men a living hope of immortality, for His resurrection was a pledge of theirs also. Without the living hope, life would be only a dark problem without a ray of light. For those having this hope, life, on the other hand took on a new meaning and was filled with love.

DAUGHTERS AND SONS BANQUET

Mrs. Walton Honored; Toasts and Program

About 100 people attended the Sons and Daughters of England banquet in the Memorial hall Monday night when the silver jubilee of the lodges in Canada was celebrated. Toasts were given at the conclusion of the banquet and then a program of music was heard. Dancing completed the evening.

One of the features of the evening was the presentation of a bouquet of flowers to Mrs. L. Walton, Mrs. J. J. Bailess doing the honor. Mrs. Bailess stated that the Daughters, in remembering Mrs. Walton, were honoring one who never missed a lodge meeting unless she was sick, and that her faithfulness during her years in Nelson was most commendable, remarkably so in view that she was now in her seventieth year. Mrs. Bailess hoped she would be spared many years with them yet.

Mrs. Walton thanked the members for their kind thoughts. She enjoyed many happy times with them, and hoped she would enjoy many more.

Jack Wood, who acted as banquet chairman, proposed the toast to the King, and later read a verse commemorating St. George's day.

MANY JUBILEES

The toast to the silver jubilee of the Sons of England in Canada was given by President J. Weston. He extended a hearty welcome on behalf of the club to their guests and hoped they would enjoy themselves to the fullest. This was a year of many jubilees, he observed. Not only was it the jubilee of the Sons of England, it was also the jubilee of King George V., and of various church organizations. He expressed the wish that the prosperity that the Sons of England had enjoyed in the past year, and also the Daughters of England, would continue in the future.

Mrs. F. Bradshaw welcomed the guests on behalf of the Daughters of England.

In the musical program, D. Dyck entertained with instrumental solos and gave several yodelling numbers. Mrs. S. Couch favored with vocal solos and Jack Worthington rendered violin solos. Miss Margaret Graham accompanied Mrs. Couch and Mr. Worthington. Community singing was then enjoyed.

Those in charge of the function were: Mrs. J. J. Bailess, convener for the Daughters; Mrs. A. Woods, Mrs. G. B. Stephenson, Mrs. H. Stirzaker, and Mrs. F. Bradshaw; Jack Woods was convener for the Sons and assisting him were A. Wood, J. E. Hamson and F. Walton.

MORE ABOUT HITLER

German news agency from European capitals describing the various reactions to Hitler's brief note of Saturday rejecting the league council's arguments concerning violation of the Versailles treaty.

French comment was described by the agency reports as "comparatively calm."

The belief that Hitler will act soon to emphasize his curt protest was voiced by a spokesman of the foreign office.

"GERMANY FORCED WAR"

VIENNA, April 22 (CP-Havas).—Count Leopold von Berchtold, foreign minister of Austria-Hungary in 1914, today told an Austrian interviewer that Germany was 'chiefly responsible' for Austria-Hungary's declaration of war against Serbia which precipitated the Great War.

Denying he had urged the declaration of war, the former foreign minister said he was opposed to war and might even be considered a pacifist.

Germany, he said, played a preponderant role in Austria-Hungary's decision to declare war. He recalled the "hard words" of Kaiser Wilhelm II. to von Tschirschky, German ambassador in Vienna. When the latter advised the kaiser against attempting to force matters, the answer was, von Berchtold said, to ask him who had authorized him to take such an attitude. The kaiser he said, added, "They will say later that Germany did not wisht it."

"Ruthless" Yankees Still Drawing

NEW YORK, April 22 (AP).—The "Ruthless" New York Yankees are outdrawing the "Ruthful" Boston Braves from a spectator standpoint.

In six games since the 1935 major league baseball season opened last Tuesday, the Yankees have played to 107,611 fans—good for an average of approximately 18,000 fans per game.

The Braves, on the other hand, in five games, have drawn 80,000 spectators, putting them 2000 per game under the Yank's present rate.

rushed from Kingston, but the stricken man was dead when the doctor arrived. The body was taken to Kingston to be sent to Ottawa tonight.

Dr. Beland's death creates the 13th vacancy in the senate.

FIRST CANADIAN AT FRONT

Dr. Beland was in Switzerland on his honeymoon when the German invasion of Belgium began in 1914. He and his second wife, Adolphine Cogels of Antwerp, hurried back to her home, and he went through the opening weeks of the war with the Belgian army as a sergeant. He is said to have been the first Canadian to come under German fire, and was wounded three times during the defence of Antwerp.

When British marines arrived at Antwerp Dr. Beland was temporarily attached to them as surgeon, and later was commissioned a surgeon in the Canadian army medical corps. He enjoyed immunity for some time after the invaders reached Antwerp, but finally was arrested and hurried into internment. His wife died during his imprisonment.

Released in May, 1918, he returned to Canada and in 1921 became minister of soldier's civil re-establishment in the King government. Ten years before he had held briefly the postmaster-generalship under Sir Wilfred Laurier. He represented Beauce from the time of his success in a by-election in 1902 until his election to the senate in 1925.

Senator Beland was born at Louiseville, Que., October 11, 1869, son of Henri and Sophie Lesage Beland. He graduated in arts from Three Rivers college and in medicine from Laval university, in 1893. His first wife, whom he married in 1895, was Flore Gerin Lajoie of New Bedford, Mass. She died in 1908.

He was a Roman Catholic and maintained homes in St. Joseph de Beauce, Que., and Ottawa.

PROF. E. S. MEANY DIES AT SEATTLE

SEATTLE, April 22 (AP).—Led by the state's governor, thousands of University of Washington men and women over the Pacific northwest, were united in sorrow tonight for the death of Prof. Edmon S. Meany, 72, the university's "grand old man," who died in a campus building today.

Stricken with a heart attack in a corridor of Denny hall, as he was on his way to a 10 o'clock class, he expired within a few minutes. He was found by Russell Harkema, a student, and Tom Bolles, history instructor and freshman crew coach.

He had walked as usual, eight blocks to the campus from his home to begin a new week's work, work first begun in 1897.

At Olympia, later, Gov. Clarence D. Martin paused to say:

"Professor Meany contributed much to the development of Washington, in state spirit, loyalty, pride and tradition. I shall not forget his kindly, helpful teaching and friendship. He was truly a grand old man.

VANCOUVER, April 22 (CP). — Professor E. S. Meany of the University of Washington, who died today, was an authority on the voyages of Captain Vancouver and was the author of "Vancouver's Discovery of Puget Sound."

government. They planned a coup.

Boris got wind of it and, showing extraordinary courage and initiative, forestalled a rebellion by summoning a score of ringleaders of the Military league to the palace, where he read them the riot act. Military leaders were defiant and made it clear they would not tolerate a purely civil cabinet.

Boris quickly decided to make the intractable officers prisoners. Hesitating to trust the regular army, he called to the palace 200 loyal military students and with drawn bayonets kept the league officers under guard in the throne room.

At the same time he ordered all important state buildings, including the war office, elegraph bureau and police headquarters, placed under a strong guard.

While all Sofia was quietly celebrating Easter Sunday and all dominant officers were held prisoners, Boris quietly set up his own government, choosing only those whom he trusted implicitly.

At the king's elbow encouraging him and spurring him on was his spinster sister, Princess Eudaxia, his most trusted and sagacious counsellor. During yesterday's crisis she is said to have run to Boris' side and urged him "not to waver," assuring him "the people are on our side and Bulgaria and the world will applaud you."

She flew last May from England to Australia in 4 days, 23 hours, 25 minutes.

DUST STORM STILL RAGES

REGINA, April 22 (CP)—Possibilities of serious soil drifting caused considerable anxiety of official circles here tonight as the first dust storm of the season, which started Sunday when a 42-mile-an-hour wind whipped the fields, continued with only slight abatement. The sky was still clouded with dust. Light rains fell in this district today and the sky was overcast.

Hon. J. G. Taggart, minister of agriculture, saw crop danger in the future rather than immediately as the most important danger. He anticipated potential damage would be greater than any damage the storm could do at present. Mr. Taggart believed the most serious results would occur south of Regina and Moose Jaw.

The findings of these groups were delivered later to the entire assembly by Alfred Parker, Nelson, Gilbert Kay and Edward Daly, Rossland, and Catherine Laurie and Lloyd Gillett, Trail.

ter, Elinor, were brought to Guelph in 1865 by their widowed mother, shortly after their father's death in England.

As a young girl, while she and her sister, Elinor, played on the banks of the Speed river at Guelph, Lucy, later to become Lady Duff Gordon, wife of the late Cosmos Gordon, showed a flair for dress designing.

STARTED AT NINE YEARS

At the age of nine years she was making her own dresses and those of her sister. When necessity compelled her to earn money a friend commissioned her to make a dress. It was so beautiful, orders from others began to roll in and the enterprising young lady opened a shop and began making dresses as a livelihood.

In England she made dresses for the Criterion theater and became an authority on fashions.

At the time of the Titanic disaster in 1912, Lady Gordon and her husband were on board. They were in the first lifeboat to leave the ship and were saved.

Lady Duff Gordon's grandfather, Col. Thomas Saunders, was prominent in Wellington county. He was a clerk of the peace. He was owner of a farm, "The Woodlands," on the Waterloo road near Guelph, known now as "Vimy Ridge farm." He also lived in a fine old home called "Summerhill," the property of Professor Harrison of the Ontario agricultural college.

County detectives broke into the place April 3, finding Mrs. Lawson's clothes and also another patient, 17-year-old Elsie Miller, upon whom Zimmerly had performed three operations in surroundings deeply squalid and insanitary.

BOYISH GIRLS

TORONTO (CP). — Expressing "distinct dislike" of masculine-looking women athletes, Prof. Robert Nohr Jr., associate professor of physical education at University of Wisconsin, told members of the Ontario Education association, physical education section, he "had great difficulty distinguishing girls from men on the campus of the University of Wisconsin. We don't want to make star athletes of girls for Olympic games," said Prof. Nohr, "nor do we want boys to take up feminine sport. There should be a careful adaptation of physical education."

showed fears of heavy casualties among head hunting tribes of the inland region were groundless. Not only did the flimsy villages of savages in the mountains escape disaster but it was established that Formosa's principal industry sugar growing, was virtually unscathed. Official reports said a majority of sugar mills and the principal canefields were outside the districts visited by the earthquake.

A Japanese destroyer with doctors and supplies was en route here from Moko naval base.

The Japanese government sent 50 relief parties with doctors, water and food to the stricken districts in the northwestern section of the island where the quake damage was worst.

Carrier pigeons brought the news that relief was on the way, bolstering survivors with new hope. Military carrier pigeons were the only means of quick communication available. The Japanese army battalion station at Taichu cooperated in the relief work.

RELIEF OFFERED

Offers of relief from many foreign sources poured in on Japanese and Formosan officials. The Japanese declined with thanks, saying the situation was in hand.

British naval officials in Hong Kong extended the offer of British warships if needed.

An airplane survey disclosed that 2000 square miles of this "island beautiful" were affected by the quake, the epicenter of which was so close to the surface of the earth (about 6 miles) that the shocks were more terrible than any in the memory of the oldest inhabitants.

Taihoku, the capital and Tainan, a former capital, where most of the foreign residents live, were not seriously damaged, the survey disclosed. From the airplane the ravages of fire could be seen in many tumbled villages where oil lamps and primitive lighting devices had been upset by the shocks, causing flames to spread.

It had not been reported that any foreign residents of Formosa suffered injury.

SLIDE ON K.V. LINE DELAYS SUNDAY TRAINS

Coast Newspaperman on the Eastbound Train

EERIE SIGHT CROSSING SLIDE

Formidable Task Taking Baggage Over Tie-Up

TRAIL, B.C., April 22—Everett A. Leslie, financial editor of the Vancouver News-Herald, en route to Trail on business was one of the passengers held up by the slide on the Kettle Valley line which delayed the eastbound train approximately four hours.

Relating his experience, Mr. Leslie said in part:

"Melting snows on the mountains about 12 miles east of Grand Forks Sunday created the worst tieup on the Kettle Valley railway this year when a slide took most of the cliff with it blocking the tracks with a pile of mud, trees and rocks for a distance of 200 feet with a depth in places of as much as 12 feet.

TRANSFER MADE

"As a result of the slide, passengers on the east and westbound trains were forced to transfer late Sunday night and were hours behind schedule. The westbound train from Nelson reached the slide at Lafferty early in the afternoon after being held up at Farron for five hours, while the eastbound train from Vancouver did not reach the slide till 10:30 p.m., having been delayed several hours by slides back up the line.

"The slide was one of the worst experienced in a long time, according to railway crews. It was necessary to back both trains up to within a few feet of the slide and after transferring passengers, mail and baggage over and around the slide, the trains were sent back to their respective starting places.

"While the slide came down the steep mountain side just around noon Sunday, wrecking crews were pushed to the scene but up to the time of the arrival of the trains, had been unable to make much headway. The weary passengers on both trains were guided over and around the slide by workmen armed with lanterns to prevent passengers slipping on the mud and plunging down the steep cliffs. The task of transferring baggage, including a number of trunks, was a formidable one.

"The westbound train due in Vancouver at 2 p.m. Monday did not arrive till late at night while the eastbound train pulled into Nelson just as dawn broke Monday morning.

OTHER SLIDES

"Passengers on the westbound train reported two other slides during the trip from Penticton. Just out of the Okanagan city the train was held up for nearly an hour when track crews had to shoot two blasts to dislodge boulders on the track. After leaving the big slide and coming about one of the sharp curves on the Lower Arrow lake near West Robson, the engine was stopped just a scant hundred feet from three big rocks, each weighing about 1000 pounds."

DRAMA FESTIVAL AT OTTAWA OPENS

OTTAWA, April 22 (CP).—The third Dominion drama festival finals opened tonight at this capital's Little Theater before a capacity audience that included the Earl of Bessborough, festival patron, and a large party from Government House.

The audience received with enthusiasm performance of three plays including " . . . and Sendeth Rain," an original Canadian one-act drama by P. N. Jacobson of Montreal.

Jacobson's play, presented by the Royal Bank Players of Montreal, was given as the opener, the hardest spot in the series because it finds the audience cold.

The second play of the evening, "Saturday Night," by Philip Johnson, was presented by a group from the London Little Theater. The play, in one act, needs a cast of only four.

WEIR PLEASED WITH RESPONSE

OTTAWA, April 22 (CP)—Satisfaction was expressed tonight by Hon. Robert Weir, minister of agriculture, at the readiness on all sides to cooperate with the Dominion in fighting the drought menace in the prairie provinces.

While it is a federal undertaking, the several interests affected were invited to name representatives on the advisory commission built up to guide the department of agriculture in the far reaching projects about to be initiated.
