French and British Stand May Start Something Today

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GENEVA, May 29 (CP cable)—In an atmosphere of outwardly calm deliberation, but evident underlying tensity, the critical session of the world disarmament conference opened today.

The United States called for resumption of discussions on the basis of the British draft plan, the only plan actually before the conference, and Russia called again for the complete abolition of armaments.

These were the only national viewpoints submitted at the opening session, as the great powers began their say. Tomorrow the French and British viewpoints will be submitted, and on the tone of the French statement by the veteran Louis Barthou largely hinges the question whether any progress is possible.

The underlying issue is the fate of Movement Contrary to Normal Trend Indicating Dicker on Debts

LONDON, May 29 (AP).—British hopes for settlement of the war debt to the United States on the new basis were revealed authoritatively today as strong enough to cause the government to ship gold to New York for eventual settlement.

CHILLIWACK, B.C., May 29 (CP)—Lawrence Freeman Beattie, 29, one of two relief camp workers killed near here yesterday when a motor truck plunged backward 80 feet down an embankment, was a former Winnipeg all-around athlete.

In the Manitoba capital, he specialized as a track man in the 220-yard, 400-yard and half mile. He was a member of the Winnipeg Canoe club and the Winnipeg Speed Skating association and played with the Argo Lacrosse club.

After leaving school, Mr. Beattie was employed by the Union bank and later by the Canadian Pacific in the engineering department. In this capacity, he was stationed for three years at Nelson, B.C.

The accident occurred when men from two relief camps were being taken to Hope, B.C. The truck was climbing a grade when the driver was reported to have attempted to shift gears. The engine stalled and the brakes were believed to have failed to hold.

Before the men could jump to safety, the truck plunged down the embankment but was stopped 80 feet down by a tree. The embankment drops 400 feet to the Coquihalla river.

Beattie was killed instantly and James Drysdale, middle-aged, died later in hospital here from a crushed skull. Seven others suffered broken ribs and cuts and bruises.

The driver of the truck was arrested on a technical charge of manslaughter but was released on $5000 bail.

GIRL BURNED SELF DEATH

Feared She Was on Road to Insanity Says Sister

SACRAMENTO, Calif., May 29 (AP) —Fear she was losing her mind caused Virginia Johnson, attractive 22-year-old daughter of State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson, to take her life by making a human torch of her body and burning herself to death, District Attorney Neil McAllister said today.

McAllister's statement followed his announcement that Mrs. Claire Fitzgerald, Virginia's sister, had expressed herself as being convinced the girl had committed suicide.

Mrs. Fitzgerald told McAllister of seizing a half-written suicide note from her sister's hand shortly before Virginia disappeared from her home yesterday, and throwing it away, "so members of the family would not see it."

The district attorney also quoted Mrs. Fitzgerald as saying, "Virginia told me yesterday she heard sounds of angels clapping in her head."

The scorched body of the pretty college girl was found last night in a garage near her home.

CHICAGO WHEAT JUMPS 3 CENTS

Season Top Prices Are Outdone; Excitement in the Pit

CHICAGO, May 29 (AP)—Aroused by reports that Russia was purchasing southern hemisphere breadstuffs, the Chicago wheat market jumped nearly 3 cents late today, outdoing season top price records. For a brief period, excitement in the wheat pit surpassed anything witnessed for months.

Rapid upturns of wheat values just preceding the close were accelerated by assertions of some trade leaders that drought in this country, if much longer unreceived, might assume proportions of a national calamity.

C.C.F. Aim Is Socialism Achieved by Means of Constitution Declares the Leader in B.C.

Use of Force Banned and Is Hurting Party; Tour Shows Party Gaining Strength

VICTORIA, May 29 (CP)—The aim of the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation had been presented today by its leader in British Columbia as Socialism achieved by constitutional means.

Agitation, strikes and advocacy of the overthrow of the state by force were no part of the machinery, thought or aims of the C.C.F., Rev. Robert Connell, leader of the party in the provincial legislature, told a meeting of Victoria clubs of the organization at a meeting last night.

*Neither, he continued, were dic*tatorships, Fascism, nor other forms of militarized states. Talk of violence, from the moderate forms of direct action to the extremes of street fighting, was not only folly but was doing active damage to the C.C.F. movement.

The parliamentary group of the party in the British Columbia legislature was convinced that a change in the economic system could be brought about only by constitutional means after winning the support of a majority of the people.

Mr. Connell reviewed a trip he had made through northern points of the province and expressed the belief that the C.C.F. was making great strides.

Admiral Togo, the "Nelson of Japan," Who Annihilated the Russian Fleet, Passes On

Swept Russian Fleet From Pacific in 1905; Studied in British Navy

TOKYO, May 30 (Wednesday)—(AP)— Admiral Heihachiro Togo, 86-year-old hero of the Russo-Japanese war, died at 6:35 a.m. today.

Admiral Count Heihachiro Togo, last of the army and navy commanders who led Japan's forces to victory in the Russo-Japanese war of 1904-5, was known as "the Nelson of Japan."

By outmaneuvering, surrounding and annihilating the Russian grand fleet on May 27, 1905, he virtually clinched the victory of his country over the czar, swept imperial Russia's flag from the Pacific and definitely ended the Russian dream of dominating Manchuria and thus becoming a determining factor in the affairs of the orient.

Togo's admirers claimed this as the most decisive naval engagement since Nelson's victory at Trafalgar. They said it settled the fate of two empires whereas Jutland, in the world war, was indecisive.

It made the Japanese commander the first citizen of the empire with a place nearer his sovereign than any except princes of royal blood. The

Note Found in the Bow River Near Ogden; May Be But a Hoax

CALGARY, May 29 (CP)—A note, found in a bottle on the banks of the Bow river near Ogden, a Calgary suburb, may solve the murder of Inspector Joseph Carruthers, shot to death on June 13, 1933, while investigating a house robbery.

The note was signed "Bill Crezunkals," and was a confession of the murder and contained a declaration: "I will commit suicide."

The note, poorly written, declared the writer had lost his money at the races and had turned to robbery after days of hunger. Caught in the act of robbery, it said, he shot the police officer. The note was yellow with age, and partly water-soaked, and the writing was barely decipherable.

Search of police records failed to reveal the name Crezunkals, but police, under the direction of Chief David Ritchie, were making every effort to find record of the man.

Police admitted possibility of the note being a hoax, but certain points about it were believed worthy of investigation. Races were held here a week prior to the murder, and after the shooting, footprints were traced from the murder scene in the direction of the Bow river.

34 APPEAR IN TRAIL COURT

Dismiss the Cases of Drivers Passing Stop Owl

TRAIL, B.C., May 29.—Thirty-four persons were dismissed with a caution by Police Magistrate Noble Binns Tuesday morning, when they appeared in police court for neglecting to stop at stop owls. The majority of the cases were the result of passing the stop owl at the Columbia avenue end of the East Trail bridge and five at the Riverside avenue end. There was one case arising out of a car passing a stop sign at Pine avenue and Victoria street, and one at Spokane street and Cedar avenue.

Every person arraigned in court pleaded guilty to the charge and before giving sentence Magistrate Binns asked if anyone had anything to say. Henry M. Vasey, who had passed the stop owl at Spokane street and Cedar avenue stated that he usually stopped at the owl but when he saw no traffic in sight just slowed down and went on.

Then others spoke up that that was their practice and it appeared that such was the practice of all those charged.

R. J. Clegg, city solicitor, asked that the penalty be of the minimum as they had all pleaded guilty. Magistrate Binns asked the solicitor if a man threw his car out of gear and went into second then proceeded, would that be considered as a stop. Mr. Clegg said the bylaw calls for a full stop.

Magistrate Binns said that he did not look on this matter seriously and the fact that all these citizens were brought before the court for failing to stop at practically the same place, snowed to him that this stop owl, (referring to the one at the Columbia avenue end of the bridge), was a nuisance. The citizens do not respect it or they would stop, he said. He contended it was a nuisance and that there is something wrong and that it was up to the powers that be to right it. By the evidence before him, the Magistrate stated that the majority had hesitated at the signs. This showed that a slow sign should be there and not a stop sign.

"You cannot give respect to anything that causes irritation," he told the charged.

He suggested that the city council get the provincial government to put slow signs at both ends of the bridge. A slow sign would not cause irritation, and criticism that the stop signs are at the present time.

The magistrate stated that there has not been any serious accident at the end of the bridge, out of which most of the cases arose. "Therefore, out of due respect to the city council," he stated, "they should change the bylaw and change the stop sign to a slow sign."

"This is the first time that this has happened since I have been police magistrate in 30 years,' the magistrate stated.

In letting the charged off with a caution he warned them that if they appeared again on the same charge they would receive a double fine, as this sign would still have to be adhered to until a change to a slow sign had been made.

"I am sure the city is not trying to raise money by this. The taxes are due next month. One fellow came to me and said he was getting married. I sympathized with him for we all did that. Good afternoon," the magistrate concluded.

On May 23, the following did not stop at the stop owl at the Columbia avenue end of the bridge: F. A. Andrews, R. J. Barber, John Laurie, sr., Johanna Thoriakson, Douglas W. Burte, Mrs. R. Bingham; Fred T. Potter, M. J. Reardon, Mrs. Hilda Coupland, S. Henry Newton, Jack Bradley, J. C. McLin, Harry A. Beckett, and A. A. Bowden.

On May 26—Walter Duncan, T. N. Repp, Eric Olsen, James Stewart, Ernest J. Thompson, Alexander G. Mackinnon, Joseph Nucich, Robert Simpson, C. A. Broderick, Hugh Marshall, John L DeBruyn.

On May 26 at Riverside end of bridge—C. F. Kelly, Jack Halifax, Leonard Negus and Jung Kwong.

On May 24, John W. Finlay passed the stop owl at corner of Pine avenue and Victoria street.

August Bouma passed the stop owl at Columbia avenue bridge end on May 28.

John W. Finlay went through the stop sign at Pine avenue and Victoria street.

F. A. Andrews was dismissed as he told the magistrate he had sold the car and was not driving it at the time it went through the stop sign, it being in the hands of the purchaser.

TOOK PILLS FOR YEARS, THEN CEREAL BROUGHT RELIEF

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Corrected His Constipation

If you are troubled by common constipation, read this letter:

"Just a word in appreciation of what your ALL-BRAN has done for my health. For years, I had been doping myself with pills and other dopes for constipation.

"I decided to try Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Now I am in good health, and haven't taken a drop of medicine for six months."—Thos. F. Little (address furnished upon request).

Headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness—any one of these may be caused by common constipation. Yet this condition can be corrected, usually, by eating a delicious cereal.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to help promote regularity. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much safer than patent medicines! Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal.

If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a "cure-all."

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Get ALL-BRAN, and not a part-bran product. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Saskatchewan Hit by Scorching Sun

SASKATOON, May 29 (CP).—Grain fields of central Saskatchewan, now showing green with sprouts of young wheat, today wilted under one of the hottest May suns of recent years. Reports from districts east of this city indicate that there is ample moisture for the growing crop for some time but in the areas immediately south and west of Saskatoon rain is urgently needed to prevent bad burning. REV. HARKNESS TRAIL SPEAKER

Addresses Rotarians on Russia and Bible

TRAIL, B.C., May 29.—Trail Rotarians enjoyed an address that varied considerably from the general trend of talks heard at their luncheon-meetings when Rev. L. A. Harkness of Vancouver, spoke on "Britain and Her Bible," vs. "Moscow and Her Money," Tuesday at noon.

Mr. Harkness is a past president of the Kiwanis club of Vancouver and also a past president of the Service Clubs council, in which eight service clubs are represented.

"A few months ago," began the speaker, "a story was given to the world, which caught the public by storm. It was the story of how Britain bought a Bible from Moscow for $500,000."

Mr. Harkness went on to explain the various reactions that this story had on the people. In days of depression many wondered why England should spend $500,000 for an old book when it was finding it a great difficulty to raise sufficient money to feed its people. He pointed out that the British people were a strange mixture and often things they did were unaccountable, and also the things they could do. In the British there was a lot of sentiment and idealism that was also hard to account for. Mr. Harkness pictured Britain as a small lake into which the turbulent waters of hundreds of streams have poured.

To arrive at the reason for Britain purchasing this book (shortly before Christmas last year) Mr. Harkness went back in the annals of history to an old monastery at Mount Sinai. Dr. Tiethendorf, the speaker related, in 1844 came across 43 leaves of an old bible in the monastery written in Hebrew, and asked the monks if he could have them. He discovered that they were of a Bible that he had been searching for for years. His purpose in searching for an old copy of the bible was that he would be able to get as near as possible to the original doctrines. The doctor was so excited that he revealed to the monks that they had something that was of value and refused to give him the leaves. However he was able to make a copy of two of the pages and fifteen years later in 1859, returned to the same monastery and while talking with an old monk in the garden discovered that this old man had in his cell the old book for which he was searching. It was the oldest Bible in the world. He finally obtained the book and made copies of it that were kept at St. Petersburg, under the protection of the Czar of Russia. Later the soviets carried it to Moscow, and it was one of these copies that Britain purchased.

But Britain's government did not pay outright for this book, for $250,000 of it was paid for by subscription. Britain holding this book, Mr. Harkness believed held the key to the future.

Besides the speaker there were four guests at the luncheon Tuesday. Frank Scott, Vancouver Rotarian; H. Jure, of the C.M. & S., Howard Hargrave, Trail, and M. O'Brien, Vancouver.

Announcement was made at the meeting of Rotary International world convention at Detroit June 25—29, and of an International meeting of District No. 1 at Kelowna on June 9 and 10.

President S. S. McDiarmid urged as many as possible attend the Kelowna meet as these meetings had contributed a great deal toward international relationship.

Girl in the Family

By BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER X

Years ago, long before Susan's time, Uncle Arthur had owned another grocery store, a smaller one; and it was there that Susan's father had met her mother. Her uncle had told her about it a great many times. It had happened on a June day in 1906 when Janet Cullen had been going over the books of the store, and Morris Broderick had stepped in to buy some tobacco.

"Janet used to come down to the store once a month to make out bills for me, and straighten out my bookkeeping," Uncle Arthur had told her. "She was quick as lightning at figures, and I never was any good at them. Well, along the street came a little electric runabout, your father sitting in it with a little black mustache on his lip and a colored band around his hat—"

It never seemed quite real to Susan, somehow. She could not imagine her father wearing a mustache or being in love with anyone except Mrs. Ada Hopper. The whole thing was like a story to her.

Howard was in front of the store, lifting baskets of groceries into his father's delivery truck when Susan came around the corner of Mills road on Saturday afternoon. The Cullens all worked, and he helped at the store every afternoon after school and all day Saturday. A white butcher's apron was tied ove his clothes and his face was red with cold.

"See you at supper, Susan!" he called to her, getting up into the seat of the truck. "The girls are at home."

The Cullen girls were usually at home on Saturday, after their workaday week, and Susan had fallen into the habit of coming there every Saturday afternoon and staying for the evening meal which the Cullens all called "supper."

They were the kind of people who always asked their friends to take pot luck with them, and if pot luck happened to be hash or stew, they did not apologize for it and they were not embarrassed in the least. Aunt Nell's food was always well-cooked, and the Cullen jokes always came bubbling up in the table conversation, and the girls kept popping into the kitchen to bring more hot biscuits or another helping of chicken pilau all round. It was almost impossible for anyone to be stiff or ill-at-ease with the Cullens, for they were so simple and friendly and full of fun themselves.

Susan opened the front door and walked into the house without knocking. No one who knew the Cullens ever rang and then waited to be admitted. If you were a friend of theirs you simply walked in, looked around and, if no one was in sight, called out, "Hello! Anybody at home?"

This was what Susan did now as she took off her wraps in the white paneled hallway. She could hear voices upstairs and she started up. "All right for me to come up?" she called.

Footsteps came along the upper hall and Mary Cullen appeared at the head of the stairs. "It's Susie Broderick!" she sang out to someone in the room she had just left, turning to look back over her shoulder. "Susie in person! Good show!"

Mary was the beauty of the Cullen family. Even now in a pongee smock, with her red hair in water wave combs and her face quite bare of make-up, she was more than pretty. There was a tiny upward tilt to the outer corners of her eyes and a clever humorous slant to her red mouth that made her face interesting as well as lovely.

"We're having beauty shop," she said, showing Susan her nails, which had been covered with coral polish. "Look at those! Don't they look just like red jelly bean candy!—Susie, what's all the gossip we've been hearing about you? Connie says that John called her up this morning and told her that you're engaged to Wallace Steffen."

The sitting room was called the Catch-All by the Cullens. It was a large bright room filled with a cheerful litter. There was a tennis racket on the wall above the open book shelves, and the top of the shelves was a sort of picture gallery—snapshots, for the most part, of the Cullens at home and abroad. Aunt Nell working in her little garden, Uncle Arthur standing beside his first automobile away back in 1914, the girls in their bathing suits, Howard at ten. The chairs were covered with cretonne, and on a large table in the middle of the room was an odd assortment of objects—a copy of Jennison's Radio Manual, a jew's harp, a basket of colored wools, a stamp album, a bowl of Tangerines, and a volume of Osborne's "Men of the Old Stone Age."

On the floor, in front of a fire of gas logs, sat Sara Cullen and Connie Sayre, who had lived with the family for several years. She and Mary worked together at the North side branch of the public library, and, although she paid her board at the Cullens', Susan had never thought of her as their roomer or even as their "paying guest." She was like a member of the family, and every summer when she went home to her own family to spend her vacation with them, Mary went with her and John often spent a week-end with them.

"John did tell me that," she said when Susan came into the room. "Now, don't hold out on us, darling. It's true, isn't it?"

"It's perfectly true," said Susan, and held up her left hand to show them the ring.

Sara let out a little gasp of admiration. "Oh, Susie! How gorgeous!"

"Did you pick it out, yourself?" Connie pulled the folds of her red flannel kimono around her and got up to examine the ring.

"No, I didn't." It occurred to Susan that she did not know who had picked out the ring. She could not be sure that Wallace had. She could not be sure of anything except the fact that he had brought it to her in a Ludlow and Ludlow box.

"Well, all I have to say is that you're a bright girl, Susie," Mary said drily. "It takes real brains to land a husband these days. Especially a husband worth a diamond and two enormous sapphires!" The light from the gas logs woke a flame in her green eyes and turned her hair to copper as she glanced up at Susan.

THE TRUTH ABOUT SCOTLAND

A writer in Scottish Country Life has undertaken to dispel some of the illusions which prevail in other countries respecting Scotland and the Scottish people.

Take the climate, for instance. Because of its northerly position it is generally supposed that the climate of Scotland must be harsher, more Arctic, than that of England. The truth is, says the writer, that due to the Gulf Stream the further north one goes the warmer it seems to become. They grow palm trees in the open air on the shores of the Firth of Clyde. At Christmans time roses are still blooming in Dumbartonshire gardens. At Nairn on the Moray Firth they have to cut the grass on the golf courses all through the winter, and rhododendrons bloom in the central Highlands in February.

The fact that August is the grouse-shooting month has given many visitors the false impression that it always rains in Scotland. August, according to the article, happens also to be the wettest of the summer months.. September, the month of blooming heather, is far better. And June is better still.

The Scots, it appears, are not a mean people. "We are careful," states the article, "because Scotland, while rich in many ways is poor in money, but when it comes to large-hearted giving, Scotland has no equal." It is claimed that Glasgow's one million inhabitants give more to the Lifeboat fund than do London's seven millions, and that Scotland's hospitals, maintained by voluntary contributions, are second to none in the world.

Can Scotsmen see a joke? Yes, apparently they can. But, it is explained, they have such a superior sense of humor that they simply cannot be bothered with some of the puerile things that pass as jokes in England and America. No one, pleads the writer, himself a Scotsman, should expect an intelligent man, even out of politeness, to laugh at what is simply not funny. So that's that.

The main purpose of the article is to show that Scotland is a good country to visit. As a matter of fact few will dispute it. It is a country of enchanting scenery, over which is cast the glamor of history and romance, a country different enough from any other, even England, to be a refreshing change. The people are proud of their lovely country and proud to welcome the stranger to it.

Between You and Me

By J. B. C.

Main topic in the Kootenays and I'll wager anywhere on the N.A. continent — The Ross-McLarnin fight. The win for Ross should start a lot of arguments in the U. S. A. police forces for the Irish hate to be licked any time. But it is twice as bad when they bow to a Jew. But Jews are not so bad at that. They can't be, for look at Barney Ross. However, it was a battle royal all the way and while a lot of people who lost money will be sore—they won't be as sore as the boys who were pasting each other around the ring Monday night.

Well what about it—Emmett Kirby before Ross licked McLarnin stated that McLarnin would win—and there would be a second fight pretty soon—but he was wrong—Tom Thomson wanted to bet $5 on McLarnin and could not get a taker—he tried to drag Alex Stewart in—But Alex wasn't taking anything—and then when the fight was all over and Alex won—he went out and quietly collected a $10 bet he had made on Ross—and is alleged to have paid off the family laundry bill with the money—Gomer Casdy got too hungry to wait until the fight was over—and went home to dinner—There may have been fights until well into the night in several Nelson households—On account of late arrivals for the evening meal—Tim Player was all interested—and so talkative at time he interfered with the broadcast—Doctor D. W. McKay, a personal friend of Jimmy McLarnin listened to the report round by round—Dr. McKay is a great believer in the prowess of the Vancouver lad—a clean liver—and I still believe a heavy hitter—Joe Meagher's face beamed every now and then as his favorite made a gain—the crowd was not at all one-sided—Some fellow didn't like McLarnin anyway—Because he was out of the game too long—and didn't seem to care when he defended his title—However, with the title in Ross' hands—we will see how long he lays off—Jimmie made a cool $30,000 or more—but next time Ross has that privilege—and it seems to me like it would be worth a few thousand to stand up—and take it—and not lay down—and continue fighting—for fifteen rounds—and then when it is all over to—prop up against the other fellow—and call for help from your manager—to get you to your corner—I wonder who it was said that they were willing to bet McLarnin would not turn a handspring after Ros got through with him—

Well, here's an Irish story:

Michael, the shipyard apprentice, was given by the foreman a two-foot rule and told to measure a large steel plate. He returned in 20 minutes.

"Well, Mike," said the boss, "what is the size of the plate?"

A satisfied grin stole over Mike's face.

"It's just the length of this rule," he replied, "and two thumbs over, with this brick, and the breadth of my hand, and my arm from here to there, bar my finger!"

"Yes, said Mr. Rounder, as he sneaked in at 3 a. m. "it's a great life if she don't waken."

MacWhirter's wee wife was ill. The doctor informed the anxious man that her tonsils should have been taken out when she was a little girl.

"That will be a' riht," said the husband, and the doctor bill was sent to MacWhirter's father-in-law.

Young Wife: "If this is an all-wool rug, why is it labelled 'cotton'?"

Shop Assistant (confidentially): "That, madam, is to deceive the moths!"

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Longbeach Ranch People Not Sorry Camps Closed

To the Editor,

Sir,—I wish to support F. H. W. Chanter in stating that the residents of Longbeach were pleased when the two camps here were closed for the summer. We shall be glad to see the camps re-open in the fall and the work on the road continued.

Longbeach residents object to strangers not living in the settlement airing their views under the heading of "Longbeach Notes" when you have a regular correspondent here. With the camps closed for the summer we can leave our boats on the beach knowing that they will not be "borrowed" by the men. Last year the police had to come out to put a stop to the robbing of the cherry orchards.

Reading Mr. Chapman's letter again I feel he has missed the whole point of Mr. Chanter's letter.

Mr. Chanter spoke for Longbeach from the viewpoint of the camps being closed for the summer only when the majority of the men had left and it was uneconomic to keep large camps open to house 30 or 40 men who could be accommodated elsewhere.

There is no mention of produce from Harrop in Mr. Chanter's letter. As one of the chief supplies of eggs to the camps I can say I have suffered no loss from the closing of the camps.

Yours,
H. DONALD.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

INFLAMMATION OF FIBROUS -TISSUE—FIBROSITIS

You may have a "pain in the neck" extending from the back of the head right down the neck to the shoulder blades. Sometimes the pain is at the hide of the neck.

Or, you may have a pain in the "small of the back," lumbago as it is often called.

Perhaps you are attacked with a pain in the chest which hurts you to breathe, to cough, to turn over in bed; a pain that becomes more severe when you touch or press it.

You will notice that these pains are not in the joints, and so cannot be due to arthritis or rheumatism.

Now while the pain in the neck, chest and lower back may be due to various causes, nevertheless, in a great many cases, it is due to an inflammation of the fibrous tissue of the body, particularly the tissue—tendons—that attach the muscles to the bones. As you know, muscle is an elastic tissue which draws one bone close to another to give us movement. However the muscle is usually attached to the bone by means of hard fibrous nonelastic tissue. The covering of the muscles and ligaments are also made up of fibrous tissue.

It is an inflammation of this fibrous tissue—fibrositis—that often causes pain in the neck, the chest, the lower back, wrists, and other parts of the body.

Just as rheumatism or arthritis is due to some infection in the body, which may be aggravated by weather conditions, so fibrositis is thought to be due to infection from teeth, tonsils, gall bladder and intestine.

The first throught then in the treatment is to look for the cause of the trouble and remove it.

The intestine should be well cleansed by small doses of epsom salts—a level teaspoonful—every morning for a couple of weeks.

The use of any of the pain relieving ointments without much massage at first, is comforting to the patient. Ointments containing wintergreen are particular effective.

As it is often a run-down condition of the body that allows the infection to overcome the body's defences, all around care of the body is necessary to prevent future attacks.

All around care includes proper food habits, outdoor exercises, enough sleep, regular intestinal habits and proper clothing.

THE WIND

The wind is my love,
The wind is my friend;
It comes to me
Through the night from world's end
It hastes to me
From strange, dim place
It blows the breath
Of the sea on my face!

A hint of incense
From dancer or priest;
Tell me, O wind,
What of the east?
A pink rose petal
Has brushed my mouth;
Tell me, O wind,
What of the south?

O, whisper, wind,
Of north and west
Of forest deeps
And snow-crowned crest!
The wind is my love,
From strange seas out there
It blows the spray
And the mist through my hair!

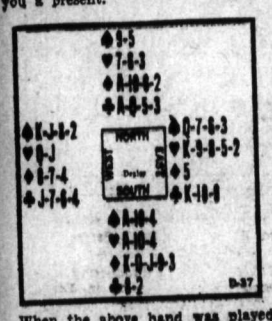
Auction and Contract Bridge

By the World's Leading Authority, MILTON C. WORK

TIMEO DANAOS ET DONA FERENTES

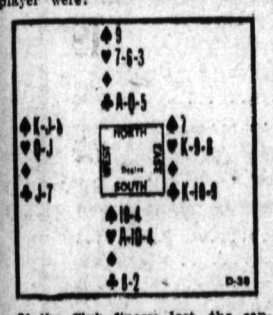
The above well known quotation from Virgil's Aeneid, which, freely translated, reads: "I fear the Greeks even when they bring gifts," at times may be applied at the Bridge table. It is wise to be suspicious of an able adversary who seems to be handing you a present.



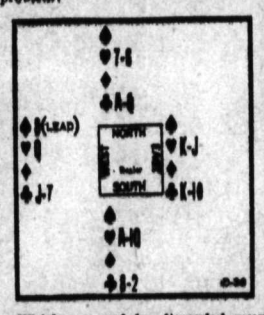
When the above hand was played at the Eastern Championships in New York, the contract most frequently reached was three No Trumps, played by South.

At many of the tables, the Queen of Hearts was led and the contract was defeated. At several tables, however, West led the Deuce of Spades, and all but on Declarer eventually took the Club finesse, which also resulted in defeat.

The one Declarer who fulfilled his contract, Mr. Louis Watson, decided that there might be some play other than the Club finesse. Certainly, there could be no harm in running five Diamonds first. When West dropped two Clubs and East parted with two Hearts and two Spades, Mr. Watson decided that the Club finesse was apt to fail. At the end of trick 6, the cards in the hand of each player were:

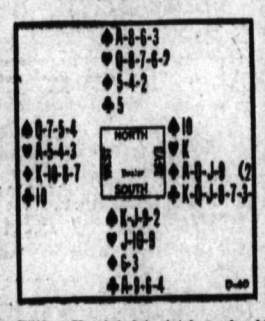


If the Club finesse lost, the capture of nine tricks seemed hopeless, but there was a doubleton in Hearts and could be induced to lead his high Spade. Accordingly, to trick 7, Mr. Watson led the Four of Hearts, West won with the Jack and (tricks 8-10) cashed his three Spades, oblivious of the auto squeeze he was perpetrating. At trick 10 on West's last Spade, East was faced with the following problem:



Whichever card he discarded must be fatal as Declarer would take the last three tricks. West should have suspected Mr. Watson's "gift," and set the contract by leading the Jack of Clubs before running his Spades.

TOMORROW'S HAND



With a Heart led to trick 1, should West take nine tricks at No Trumps?

SPORTS GALORE AT EMPIRE DAY FUN HELD AT THE SOLTH SLOCAN GROUNDS

Children Enjoy Races and 300 Ice Cream Cones; Men in Tug War

CRESCENT VALLEY, May 29—The Empire Day celebration held at South Slocan was a successful one from every point of view, G. F. Chapman, general superintendent of construction at South Slocan, officially opened the day when he addressed the assembled pupils of the four schools: Shoreacres, Bonnington, South Slocan and Crescent Valley. His address was supplemented by one by Col. John Murray who also thanked Mr. Chapman for officiating. Then the youngsters led by Mr. Edwards, teacher at South Slocan, sang "O Canada."

There was a very large turnout though the intense heat sent many scurrying for cover. An added attraction for the kiddies was the issuing of over 300 free ice cream cones. The races were keenly contested and there being so many in some of them that it was necessary to run them off in heats.

Perhaps the two outstanding attractions were the tug-of-war and the boy's pillow fight. In the former event South Slocan valiantly scored a victory over the Shoreacres Camp No. 2 team. FOLK DANCE AT SUNSHINE BAY

Children Delight Crowd With Lawn Performance; Marjorie Serres Is Queen

SUNSHINE BAY, May 29—An exhibit of folk dancing was given Saturday afternoon on the lawn of Osgathorp ranch by children trained by the members of the S.S. circle. Since early spring the children have spent many pleasant afternoons learning the old folk and Scottish country dances.

Promptly at 3 p.m. the herald gave his bugle call and to a lively march played on the mandolin by Mrs. J. E. Fitchett the procession began led by three small flower girls strewing flowers in the path of the May queen as she was led to her throne. These were followed by a crown bearer, Clifford Howard, the May queen, little Marjorie Serres, two pages carrying her train, and girl and boy dancers.

Each pair of dancers paid homage at the throne by bowing and courtesying and placing flowers at her feet. The haymakers was danced. The crown bearers then advanced with stately bows to set the crown of flowers on the head of little Marjorie Serres, thereby crowning her "queen of the May."

Immediately the queen was escorted with due ceremony to a seat at the Maypole while the old age dance of the Maypole progressed around her. (It was noticed that the little crown bearer with innocent charm occupied the empty throne for the time being.) The pages escorted the queen back to the throne and continued with the dancing of "Blue Bonnets," eightsome Reel, Jenny and Jock, and Strip the Willow, and an encore of the Maypole.

Tea was handed around to the many visitors by the children and helpers. This is the first time any folk dancing has been taught in this district, the result was considered worth while by the keen and eager way the children practised. The teachers were Mrs. W. W. Britton and Mrs. E. D. Serres. Excellent music was supplied by Mrs. J. E. Fitchett and F. Gainey violin. The children taking part were Susie Berry, Winnie Howard, Edna Johnston, Loli, Barbara and Marjorie Serres, Clarence Johnstone, Wilfrid Howard, Dick Holmes, Walter Fitchett, Clifford Howard and Alan Serres.

FUTURE PRICES GAIN SUPPORT

Million Bushels Are Bought to Steady Profit-Taking

WINNIPEG, May 29 (CP)—By purchasing 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, importers today gave futures prices the necessary support to weather a storm of profit-taking and stop-loss selling on the Winnipeg grain exchange. After sustaining losses, quotations executed an about-face and finished on the upside with gains of ½ to ¾ cent.

Slightly below peak levels, May option wound up at 78½, July at 79¾ and October at 81⅝ to 81¾ cents.

Another bullish factor was reports of Russian crop damage and that the Soviet was interested in Australian and Argentine wheat.

Apparently confirming the fact that Europe as well as North America is faced with a smaller crop outturn this year, Liverpool wheat showed strength and finished ½ to ⅞ up.

Chicago wheat prices also showed upturns.

Demand for cash grains continued indifferent.

Barley led the parade to higher ground in coarse grains commodities; all of which finished well in advance of the previous close.

Golds Active on Toronto List

TORONTO, May 29 (CP)—Uniformity was lacking in the price movements in the mining section of the Toronto stock exchange today and interest centered mainly in some of the medium-priced gold shares.

Little Long Lac provided the fireworks, rising 65 cents to 5.65. More than 22,000 shares changed hands. Gunnar Gold added 10 cents, closing at 1.75. Sylvanite advanced 7 cents to 2.86, San Antonio 1 to 4.03, Cariboo Gold Quartz 10 to 1.90, Howey, Kirkland Lake and St. Anthony lost 2 cents each. Siscoe lost 3 and God's Lake 5.

Noranda closed $1 down at 42.50 Mining corporation lost 3 cents.

840 Crates of B.C. Straws at Toronto

Fruit in Good Shape; Bring 10 Cents Box; Protected After June 1

TORONTO, May 29 (CP)—The first consignment of British Columbia strawberries, consisting of one car of 840 crates, arrived here today.

The shipment was consigned to Frank Gibson, who states the fruit, after a four-day trip, was found to be in good condition. The price asked was 10 cents a pint box, or approximately the same as for Kentucky strawberries, which are coming into Toronto at the rate of two or three cars a day. Toronto uses at this time of the year between 20,000 and 30,000 boxes of strawberries every day.

On June 1, two cents a pound will be added to the cost of imported strawberries from the United States as a dump duty and this will give the British Columbia fruit that much preference. Ontario strawberries are not expected before the middle of June, at the earliest. Growers say the season is two weeks backward.

HALL SPECIAL GOES THROUGH

Vice-President of the C. P. R. Visits Tadanac

RECORD MADE FOR DULLNESS

Sales Recorded Are Smallest Since June in 1924

By FREDERICK GARDNER
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—Settling deeper into inertia before the Memorial day recess, the stock market distinguished itself today only by establishing a new record for dullness for the past decade. Price movements were mixed and narrow generally, sales on the stock exchange dropped to 379,000 shares, the smallest recorded since June 2, 1924.

The average of 90 stocks dipped three-tenths of a point to 77.8.

The holiday in leading markets tomorrow hastened profit-taking by traders after the creeping advance of the past few days. Losses of small fractions were chalked up against such shares as U.S. Steel common, General Motors, Consolidated Gas, New York Central, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, National Distillers and Westinghouse Electric.

LOST CABIN VEIN STRUCK

Walls Encountered by 25-Foot Crosscut

Cross-cutting when the estimated point of intersection had been passed, the Lost Cabin vein was struck at the Euphrates mine last week. Three and four shifts have been advancing work on the Ell Tee vein to the Lost Cabin with a view of opening up the ore body for shipping purposes. A short distance from where the vein was expected to be tapped in swung off slightly and paralleled the tunnel.

Twenty-five feet in on the crosscut the hanging wall of the vein was encountered, showing full stringers of quartz. As expected this was little mineralized. Values are not expected until work advances over the foot wall to the main ore body which will be accomplished in the next month or two.

Shipping will commence as soon as this ore body is developed and arrangements are now under way to have a spur built in by the Great Northern Railway company.

Last week a drill machine and other equipment was installed at the property.

POUND DROPS OVER A CENT

The pound lost 1⅛ cents, falling at $5.07⅞ cents. The Canadian dollar eased to ¼ premium.

French francs declined almost to the gold export point again, falling to 6.59¼ cents, a loss of .01¼.

Advertising for the Merchant of Today

Conducted by HAROLD S. EDGAR

This series of weekly articles appears every Wednesday, on advertising and merchandising prepared for the merchants of Nelson and District with the co-operation of the Nelson Daily News.

MORE ABOUT COPY

In our further discussion on copy, let us consider in more detail, the separate parts of an advertisement. The heading must compel interest, immediately attracting the reader's attention, and making him desirous of reading the balance of your advertisement.

A headline of a few words properly selected is more efficient than a long one. The head is usually set in a larger type than the text.

Type sizes used vary with the number of columns, the depth of advertisement, amount of text, and the length of the message. Type faces express certain characteristics, and if you study these faces you can pick a type which will suit your own particular business. Use this type for all your advertisements so that your advertisements will have a continuity of style.

To show samples of all the sizes would take too much room, but you can obtain proofs of the sizes from the advertising department of the Nelson Daily News.

In writing heading, consider that:

A short headline delivers a fast message. Lines of the head pressed closely together make the message hard to read; like condensed type.

Use white space above, below and at the sides of the head. Do not separate the lines of the head with white space out of proportion to the space between the headline and the text.

Keep the thought of the headline in itself. A better head is obtained by using capitals and lower case rather than all capitals. Pick your type to fit your business.

Do not confuse the reader by tricky and fancy display in heads.

The headline must stand out on the page. This does not mean that large type can be used. The proper balance and use of plenty of white space is more effective in attracting attention.

Four styles of setting are as follows:

The step head:

Herringbone Weave
Features These New
Dressing Robes

This style is difficult to handle in single column width because of the narrowness of the space.

The pyramid and inverted pyramid heads:

HEALTHY CHICKS
MEAN BETTER FOWLS
and
Will Your Easter Clothes
Be Only Half Cleaned?

These heads are effective on one or more columns and in two or three lines.

The square head:

Many Interesting Dining
Suites Specially Priced

Each line is flush at left and right. Two lines are sufficient. This head can be accomodated in one column.

A heading breaking into the border or illustration:

Real Good Values
in the Men's Department
for Dad and the Boys

A long head reading through.

Some samples of headings picked at random:

Youth Upholds "Old Man's" Game

By AL DEMAREE

Although golf is often facetiously referred to as an "old man's" game, the youngsters play it the best. Many youngsters have turned in astounding cards and performances on the links.

Curly-headed Joe Lynch, 15-year-old caddie, won a state caddie tournament with a medal score of 150 in the 36 hole test at Albemarle, near Boston. Then there was Sonny Fraser, aged 12, who shot the Seaview course in 75; Walter Swope, aged 15, played nine holes in 36 at Pinehurst, N.C.; Mildred Hackl, 11 years, drove 200 yards, over three times her own weight in pounds.

Bobby Clark, 11 years old, made a hole in one in the caddie's tournament at Watertown, Conn.

UPHOLD SAVOY BALL PROTEST

Juniors Ask to Play Intermediate Game

The executive of the local intermediate baseball league met following Monday evening's game, to settle the matter of the Savoy Hotel team's protest of last Friday's game in which the Maulers defeated the Savoy nine 11-8. The Savoy club claimed that neither Scotty Notman or Anthony Scanlan were registered players with the league previous to starting time of the game. As the league's list of registered players did not include these players' names the executive decided to throw out the game, and order it replayed at the end of the regular schedule if the result has any bearing on the standing.

An application was received from the New Grand juniors for entry to the intermediate league. Some of the members present favored a four-team circuit, but doubted whether the junteam could hold their own against the other three teams in the league. They favored the three clubs now in the league taking over a number of the juniors to give them an opportunity to gain experience. After considerable discussion it was decided to give the New Grand club a chance to prove their ability to play in the intermediate ranks in a trial game with the Savoy Hotel following the senior game Sunday afternoon.

PICK LADIES REP SOFTBALL TEAM

Playoff Series Are Arranged at Meeting

The executive members of the local ladies' softball league met at the home of Arla Saare, league president, on Monday evening to discuss plans for the proposed playoff series and also to choose a representative team to play a series with the Trail reps, as well as any other club that is considered too strong for individual teams to play against.

It was decided to stage a playoff series between the leading three teams at the end of the regular schedule. The Red Sox and Aces are assured of playoff berths, but should the Bluebirds lose their last two games and the Greyhounds win two straight, these two clubs will be in a tie for third place. In the event of two teams tieing for first place a sudden death game will decide which team will draw the bye into the playoffs. Both the semi-finals and finals will be best two out of three game series. Only players who were registered with the league up to the close of the meeting will be eligible to take part in the playoffs, and any player transferring from another club must take part in one regular league game for her new club to be eligible for the finals. The Bluebirds have registered Martha Drapaka, former star first baseman and heavy hitter of the Trail Jimmies, who is now a resident of the city. She will be out with her new club against the Greyhounds on Friday evening.

Considerable discussion arose over the picking of the representative team, but all agreed that the team finally was a strong one.

Of the 12 players picked, four Bluebird players were chosen, three from each of the Red Sox and Aces and one from each of the Greyhounds and Racketeers. Helen Ling, Almeda Graves and Rosa Stewart were the choice for pitchers, and Arla Saare and Jean Patterson as catchers.

Eva Smith was picked to hold down first base, and in the event of her being unable to turn out for games, Jeannette LePage was picked as alternate. The rest of the team was picked as follows: Elaine Beeston, second base; Hazel Spiers, short stop and Dorothy Titsworth, third base; the outfield will be composed of Alice Dunn, Jean Spiers and Pauline Stangherlin.

Cliff Ratcliffe and Jack Whitfield were picked to coach the club and Gilbert Rowling, manager. Dorothy Titsworth will act with the manager as secretary-treasurer.

The team will hold its first practise on Tuesday, June 5. It is the intention of the manager of the senior rep team to pick a team from the balance of the players to play teams of lesser calibre than the Trail club.

ROSS HAS EYES ON DUNDEE'S MIDDLE TITLE—M'LARNIN MUM

"Big League" BASEBALL

By AL DEMAREE

Many a young pitcher has an idea that some sort of freak delivery, or other type of pitching hocus pocus, is necessary for success in professional baseball. A good, fast ball, a fair curve or a change of pace is all any of the great and near great stars ever used in a ball game. Some of the old timers who could not develop a fair curve used the "spit ball" in place of the hook. The good old, fast one plus an occasional slow one and ordinary control is all any pitcher needs, either in the majors, minors or semi-professional field.

Kunckle balls, fork balls and other types of trick deliveries are seldom practical in a real game, and the average successful pitcher leaves them on the bench when the bell rings.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Who throws the "heavies" ball in the major leagues today? What two players on the Brooklyn Dodgers look so much alike they call them "twins"? Answer tomorrow.

Answer to yesterday's question: Ping Bodie, Fred Haney, Jack Adams, Walter Rheg and Liz Smith are connected with the Paramount studios in Hollywood.

Al Demaree has prepared an illustrated leaflet called "Base Running" which he will gladly send to any reader requesting it. Address Al Demaree in care of this paper and be sure to enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Baseball's Big Six

(By the Associated Press)

One hit by Sam Leslie broke the tie for the National league batting lead and fourth place in the Big Six yesterday.

Sam got the blow by making three official trips to the plate and his average slid off to .379. Harvey Hendrick, meanwhile, had only one time at bat and no hits, going down five points to .375.

Joe Vosmik replaced his Cleveland teammate, Billy Knickerbocker in third place, hitting once in two tries for a two-point gain while Knickerbocker hit once in four times and lost four points. The leader, Rollie Hemsley, hit twice in four attempts, sending his mark up four points to .406.

The standings:

Barney Believes Vinc Dundee Easier Than Jim McLarnin

OFFERS JIMMY RETURN BATTLE

But Will J. McLarnin Retire; Receipts $194,329

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP).—Barney Ross, first man ever to hold the lightweight and welterweight titles at the same time, looked brightly out of his one good eye today toward new horizons—and his half-powered gaze lighted on the middleweight realm of Vince Dundee.

The ambitions of this amazing young man from Chicago who walloped the welter crown from the head of Jimmy McLarnin last night would embarrass a Caesar, but it's all as normal and natural to Barney as was his pre-fight statement which few of the experts would believe—"McLarnin simply can't beat me."

EASIER THAN McLARNIN

"Sure," said Ross today as he loafed around an hotel room with only a purple, half-closed left eye to show that he was just returned from the fistic wars. "I'll fight anyone, and I think Dundee would be easier than McLarnin was. If the fans would like to see me fight him, I'm ready. Wouldn't that be something, lightweight, welterweight, middleweight champion?"

While McLarnin, his face marked, his heart near broken, shied clear of the crowd, Ross had a field day. Congratulations, vaudeville offers, even a suspension from the National Boxing association for failure to go through with a fight in Fort Worth, Texas, poured in on him.

He's going back to his training camp at Ferndale, N.Y., to rest a few days before returning to Chicago for the graduation from high school early next month of his youngest brother, George.

McLARNIN MADE $58,936

Despite the fact the bowl was nearly filled, with only a few of its 65,000 seats unoccupied, the official paid attendance today was put at 39,968 and the receipts at $194,329.67. McLarnin's share was $58,936.60 and Ross collected $36,835.38.

"I'll give McLarnin another chance as soon as he wants it," Ross said. "He's a great fighter and a terrific puncher. When he shook hands after the decision I told him all that. I told him I'd fight him again any time. All he said was 'Thanks'."

Negotiations were started today for a return match but McLarnin was in no mood to talk fight. There was some feeling he might never pull on gloves again. He has called off a trip he planned to Ireland.

Ross intends to return here to see the Baer-Carnera heavyweight title fight in June. As one smart fellow suggested:

"He'll probably be in the ring challenging the winner."

GAS PROPOSAL OPENS MERRY COUNCIL WAR

Some Alderman Wish to Shut Down Plant Altogether

OTHERS WISH TO SERVE FAIRVIEW

Mayor's Proposal for Survey Goes to Committee

That the gas service was one of the facilities that made Nelson attractive residentially, that citizens who preferred its quick action to that of electricity for cooking were entitled to their preference, that hundreds of citizens had made investments in gas appliances which they were entitled to use, and that in fairness to the gas department it should have a chance at the business that Fairview had to offer, was earnestly contended by one group of city fathers at Monday night's council session.

Opposing this group was another that contended that the gas department was a loss, that gas consumption was at the expense of the electrical department, 40 per cent of whose annual takings was sheer profit, that Fairview could only be served by making a capital investment in an extension of the distributing system, and that it would pay the city to buy up the gas stoves in use, close the plant and ship the machinery to Vancouver for what it would bring.

MAYOR PLLS STRING

The sudden violent cleavage appeared in the otherwise peaceful city council when Mayor S. H. Smythe, after the current gas department report was received, asserted the time was opportune to have a survey made of Fairview as to residents who would be willing to instal gas if the service was extended there, and that Superintendent Frank Stringer was not very busy just now, and could devote a small part of his time to securing these data.

This was the signal for Alderman T. J. Scanlan to express himself firmly and forcibly in opposition to any move to increase the city's investment in gas, and the battle was soon joined. Alderman Scanlan spoke oftenest, but Alderman Ross Fleming, who sided with him, was a good second, while Alderman J. E. McKenzie and W. B. Bamford were earnest partisans of gas being allowed its place in the Nelson sun. Alderman T. W. Slader was one of thos ewho thought gas extension bad business. What Alderman H. B. Lindsay thought behind his glasses—he wore a wide grin—nobody knows, but, apart from him, the council is evenly divided.

SCANLAN POWER PARTISAN

Boiled down to a paragraph, Alderman Scanlan's position was that gas competed with electricity in Nelson, that the gas plant was a loss, and would still be a loss even if the coal cost nothing, that extension to Fairview would mean more capital investment and therefore more loss, and that it would pay the city to reimburse gas users for their investment and go out of the gas business. Nelson was too small a town for both services to pay, he claimed, and the paying investment was the one that should have the right-of-way. Every added electrical account was clear profit. If the city were a private institution, the gas department would not be kept open 24 hours.

McKENZIE FOR FAIR PLAY

Alderman McKenzie's view was that if the gas service was extended to Fairview it would get a lot of business, and, operating with the same staff, would change a loss into a profit. He said the gas service was popular with the citizens, and no by-law to close the gas plant could ever carry. The department should be given its chance to make a profit.

"It looks to me that the bigger your gas sales, the more you lose," was the view of Alderman Slader, who was against any further commitments in gas. He said, like the street railway, the gas deficit was one of the things Nelson had to suffer.

MAYOR FOR GAS CAMPAIGN

Mayor Smythe said the survey would cost nothing, and the facts as to whether many Fairview citizens wanted gas should be ascertained. As one familiar with both gas and electricity, he said, "Give me gas every time." The debentures, as City Clerk W. E. Wasson had informed them, had 30 years to run, and as the city would be meeting them, and had the plant, it should make the best of the utility. A gas campaign would have results.

FLEMING BOOSTS JUICE

"Why not a campaign to boost electricity?" asked Alderman Fleming. He was strongly against competing with electricity, which provided a large part of the city's revenue, to spend on other services. It was Alderman Fleming who held it would pay to close the plant and ship the machinery away. Asked by Alderman Bamford if the city would pay for the citizens' equipment that would be scrapped, the Fairview alderman said he couldn't say without studying the facts, but he believed it would pay the city to do it.

BAMFORD WOULD KEEP ALL

"I don't agree with any of you," summed up Alderman Bamford. "You have a gas plant. Gas gives a quicker service than electricity. The people want it. We are paying for the bonds. The town is growing all the time, especially Fairview; we're not going back. We've got gas, electricity, street cars, and water. I say, hang on to all of them."

Other members of the council began to look toward Alderman Lindsay, who merely grinned.

With a showdown looming, it occurred to someone to propose referring the mayor's request for authorization of a gas survey of Fairview, to the gas committee for study and recommendation, and this carried unanimously.

LIGHTNING HITS MOUNTAIN, TRAIL

TRAIL, B. C., May 29—At about 7 p.m. what on the prairies is called a "million dollar rain," fell in Trail preceeded by a few flashes of lightning and terrific thunder bolts. Several citizens reported seeing the lightning strike the mountains behind Columbia Heights, causing a huge cloud of dust to rise from the hill. It rained heavily for about 15 minutes and then cleared.

tax revisions, practically all the tariff changes and most of the excise taxation amendments. All this was done in less than three hours which old-timers says is a modern record. It left the new gold tax as practically the one remaining contentious item but it may be the cause of a protracted debate.

WAS DOUBLE BEER TAX

The highlights of the night was the finance minister's announcement on beer taxes. For many years Canada has collected a double beer tax, a gallonage on the beer itself of 12½ cents and an excise tax of three cents a pound on malt.

This system was changed under this year's budget to a single malt tax which was intended to have been slightly lower than the total of the two former imposts. When the budget was introduced, the new tax was place at 7½ cents a pound, but tonight it was reduced to six cents.

The new taxes will be:

On malt, made in Canada, used for brewing beer, six cents a pound reduced from 7½ cents.

Imported malt (warehoused) six cents a pound, reduced from 7½ cents.

Imported malt, crushed or ground, six cents a pound, reduced from 9½ cents.

OTHER THAN MALT BEER

Duties on beer brewed from any other substance than malt will be 22 cents a gallon, a reduction of three cents from the original budget proposal but an increase from the existing 15-cent level.

Customs duty on imported beer reduced from 12½ cents a gallon to seven cents.

Excise duty on beer brewed from duty-paid malt in storage July 1, seven cents a gallon, reduced from 10 cents.

Excise duty on unfermented wort, sold on July 1, seven cents a gallon, reduced from 10 cents.

Excise duties on malt syrup, when manufactured in Canada prior to July 1, 13 cents a pound, reduced from 20 cents; when manufactured in Canada after July 1, 10 cents, reduced from 17 cents and when imported into Canada after July 1, 16 cents, a reduction from 20 cents.

Translated into beer taxes, the new malt tax will run about 14 cents a gallon, compared to 17.75 cents under the former dual impost.

CHEAPER BEER

"I am told," said the finance minister, this will mean a five-cent glass of beer."

To leave the tax at seven and a half cents, as proposed under the budget, would mean an increase over the impost, said Mr. Rhodes, because of the wastage of beer on which no taxes are paid. The six-cent rate will be slightly lower than the dual tax.

At the same time the finance minister said he did not believe the federal treasury would lose much revenue through the change.

Lowered taxes would mean lowered prices, leading to increased consumption and hence, higher revenues for the Dominion.

A protest against reducing the British preference rate on salt cake was registered by C. E. Bothwell (Lib., Swift Current) on behalf of a manufacturing firm in Moose Jaw, Sask. The reduction was from ½ cent per pound to 1-5 of a cent.

The minister explained this was an imperial conference item, and that the case had been heard by the tariff board. The concern referred to had been represented. Evidence established that under the ½-cent rate the protection enjoyed by the Saskatchewan company amounted to 135 per cent.

A few changes were made in the tariff rates on rovings and yarns of vegetable fibre by amendment. Among them was one placing jute yarns in a separate item from the other vegetable figure yarns and granting them free entry under the British preference was a rate of 17½ per cent intermediate and 25 per cent general.

The drawback item on glass announced in the budget was stricken out. The item read: "Plate glass enumerated in tariff item 322, on which duty was paid at the rate of duty set opposite said item—when used in the manufacture of safety of nonshatterable glass—99 per cent."

Widening this item so as to enable glass of any dimension to be imported, the following item in substitution was approved: "Plate glass, polished, of a class or kind not made in Canada—when used in the manufacture of safety or nonshatterable glass, laminated or otherwise—99 per cent."

The item is designed to cover shatter-proof glass used in the automobile industry.

Last year's activities were also reviewed and a tentative program drawn up for this year. Plans were made to meet at the various members' summer homes on the north shore during the summer.

FREIGHT CARS DERAILED YAHK

A freight derailment on the Canadian Pacific line on the Crow, near McConnell, which resulted in some freight cars near the head-end leaving the track, including some ore cars for the Consolidated smelter at Trail, occurred in the course of Monday night. No one was hurt.

The line was repaired in the course of the forenoon, and the westbound train reached Nelson early in the afternoon, about three hours late.

Before it got through, the special of Vice-president Grant Hall arrived from the prairie, and followed it at an interval of 20 minutes.

MORE ABOUT ARMAMENTS

the two-year-old disarmament conference itself, for on the course of the speeches the steering committee will base its recommendations as to future plans.

Statesmen who spoke today—following Arthur Henderson's opening presidential address—did not conceal the difficulties. "The situation is critical," "Uncle Arthur" Henderson warned the delegates as he opened the proceedings.

"We meet again, but with hopes dimmed," said Norman Davis, the American ambassador at large, in a tone of disappointment. And Maxim Litvinoff, the Urbane Soviet commissar of foreign affairs, echoed, "A blind alley . . ."

READY CUT NAVY

Mr. Davis told the conference the United States was ready to join in further reduction of naval armaments. Soviet Russia stood by her old proposal of total universal disarmament.

"The United States," said Mr. Davis, "is prepared to cooperate in every practicable way in efforts to secure a general disarmament agreement and thus help to promote peace and progress.

"We are furthermore willing in connection with a general disarmament convention to negotiate a universal pact of non-aggression, and join other nations in conferring on international problems growing out of any treaties to which we are a party.

NO EUROPEAN ACTION

"The United States will not, however, participate in European political negotiations and settlements, and will not make any commitment whatever to use its armed forces for the settlement of any dispute anywhere."

The United States was willing to work out by international agreement an effective system for the regulation of the manufacture of and traffic in arms and munitions of war, he declared. He laid considerable stress on this point.

He urged the conference to return to the position in June of last year, when all nations, including Germany, accepted the British draft disarmament conventions—the only plan carrying concrete figures—as the basis of discussion.

PERMANENT PEACE

Litvinoff would transform the whole conference into a permanent conference of peace. It should, he declared, be transformed into a permanent conference for peace, regularly assembling. Such a conference would sit for the prevention of war.

The Russian spokesman, after repeating the Russian demand for complete disarmament, hinted at proposals for sanctions of various kinds against an agressor within the meaning of the Kellogg pact. A graduated scale of sanctions, he suggested, might be established without pursuing it to the point of military measures that would not be acceptable to all states (notably the United States).

With reference to Germany, which bolted the conference last October, Davis said: "If Germany desires a permanent disarmament convention, which surely must be the case, then I cannot easily believe that she is not willing to resume negotiations on the basis on which she previously agreed."

Litvinoff, amplifying his speech tonight, said his proposal that the conference set itself up as a permanent peace organization was not connected with any plans Russia might have to join the league of Nations. "It neither hastens nor retards league membership," he said.

The proposed security pacts he spoke of would be open to all nations, he declared.

SEES DR. STEEVES IN HONOLULU

Mr. Bloomer Has Stories as Films Shown at Castlegar

CASTLEGAR, May 29— Castlegar's celebration of Empire day consisted of an afternoon of tennis, local teams competing one against the other in sets of American tennis, with an evening devoted to softball, played with teams drawn from Robson and Castlegar, the latter winning 11 to 10. Both teams were scratch teams as no real practice had been held in either place.

The C. C. C. Stunt night had some unusual features this month. J. H. Argyle of Nelson came out to put on a movie show. He showed five reels of films, including two of Hawaii. At the conclusion he was given a hearty vote of thanks by Carl Dahl, president of the club. During the showing of the Hawaiian films T. L. Bloomer made references to the various parts of the Islands that he and Mrs. Bloomer had visited during the past winter, and after the show, exhibited a collection of shells and articles of native manufacture, making explanation of the various exhibits and detailing some interesting facts regarding the Hawaiians. He also showed a piece of palm matting with its natural weave, as taken from a cocoanut tree growing in the garden of Dr. B. P. Steeves in Honolulu. He stated that all the three Kootenaians he had met in Oahu has responsible positions, one lady being supervisor in a large dry cleaning establishment, one young man being manager of a drup store and Dr. Steeves in charge of an educational establishment. The Hawaiian flag with the Union Jack as part of its makeup was also shown, with the remark that it was the only place in the United States that the Union Jack had a right to be flown, as the Hawaiians retained their own flag when accepting jurisdiction by the U. S.

Dancing concluded the evening with M. Peterson in charge of the floor. Ted Pratt, M. Somers and the Killough family all giving their services free for the occasion.

Water Carries Off Match Block Pile

In the neighborhood of 40 truck loads of cull match blocks, piled against the W. W. Powell company's factory on the water front, tumbled into the pond formed by the overflow from the lake on Monday night, when the water continued to rise rapidly. In the afternoon they drifted to the far end of the yard where they are likely to remain.

As the company only sold the odd small lot for fuel, the loss will be slight.

STUDIED IN BRITAIN

Togo was born to a samurai family of the Satsuma clan near Kagoshima December 22, 1847. He was only 12 years old when he began train for a career as a fighting man and four years later he went into his country's infant navy. At the age of 21 he was sent to England, remaining there eight years and studying under experts of the British navy.

By 1894 he had risen to the rank of captain in command of the cruiser Naniwa. With this vessel, on July 25, he sank a Chinese troopship en route to Korea. The action precipitated the war which drove China out of Korea and eventuated later in annexation of the hermit kingdom to Japan.

He was a full fledged admiral in command of the fleet when the war with Russia started 10 years later.

In 1911 he represented his sovereign at the coronation of King George V in England, returning by way of America.

Togo's last official service was as tutor to the then crown prince, the present Emperior Hirohito. He instilled in the future ruler the code of the samurai, but saw to it also that there was plenty of education in modern science, still a hobby with Hirohito.

Togo married on his return from his studies in England. His wife also lived to a great age. She was a niece of Roenin of Mito, a patriot who became famous by assassinating in 1860 Ii Kamon no Kami, prime minister of the last of the shoguns. Their son, Takeshi Togo, is chief horticulturist of the department of the imperial household and a specialist in growing chrysanthemums.

Electrical Storm Strikes District

Huge Hailstones Fall at Nelson in Afternoon

Twenty-four hours of unusual sultry weather culminated in a heavy electrical storm Tuesday evening. As early as 2 o'clock Tuesday morning, warm gusts of wind sent the mercury up to 70 degrees and in the afternoon the weather warmed up to 83 degrees although the sky was cloudy most of the time. The low of 59 degrees was a record minimum for this season.

In the middle of the afternoon the rain started and for a few minutes it hailed, some of the stones being well over five-eights of an inch thick. In the evening the rain was exceptionally heavy with several spells of thunder and lightning.

It is reported that 808 airports and landing fields are being established or improved under the program launched by the U.S. Department of Commerce and the CWA.

arrival there late Wednesday night. Investigators believe Constable Gisborne was killed early in the fight near the Indian houses and Constable Carr fell later.

DIED FIGHTING

"Constable Gisborne died fighting, with his face to his foe," stated Dr. J. J. Gillis, who performed the autopsy after the body was recovered Saturday from the Nicola river. "There was no fracture at the base of the skull; all blows came from the front. Bruises and contusions on shoulders and hands showed evidences of the officer's fierce fight against odds."

Present evidence in the hands of police indicates the car was removed, probably by the slayers, from where it was stopped on the reserve by the two constables. The driver evidently had trouble controlling it and it finally crashed into a tree about 150 yards beyond the entrance to the reserve.

TREE CUT DOWN

Here, it is believed to have rested for at least an hour, which would account for the blood found on the ground. It had probably dripped through the car. In the meantime, a tree was chopped down, presumably to extricate the car, after which it was driven down the road to the point where it was pushed over the bank of the Nicola river.

Police believe the bodies were dragged from the car and thrown into the river.

Alex. 20, the youngest of the four brothers, was taken to the provincial jail at Kamloops tonight.

VALUED WITNESS FOUND

Inspector John Shirras of the British Columbia police in charge of the investigation tonight stated that new evidence had been obtained on the crime. The two officers had been killed near the gate of the reservation and when their slayers attempted to send the car with the two bodies careening down the highway and over the edge into the Nicola river the engine stalled and the car stopped against a tree a short distance from the highway. According to the new evidence, Inspector Shirras said, the slayers then used horses to drag the car back to the road. A young Indian, whose name is withheld and who is being held as a material witness, was then forced to drive the car from that point to the place on the river bank where the bodies of the two constables were thrown into the water.

"I give great credit to Detective-Sergeant W. A. MacBrayne of Victoria and Staff-Sergeant W. J. Service of Kamloops for uncovering the most valuable evidence of the entire investigation," Inspector Shirras concluded.

FED BY EYE-DROPPER

The great worry at the Dionne home is to satisfy the girls' hunger. Dr. Dafoe searched callander today without finding a feeding bottle that would lighten the work of Miss Yvonne Leroux, the graduate nurse, who finds all her time taken up in dropping a mixture of milk, corn syrup and water into the tiny mouths from an eye-dropper.

She no sooner appeases the last of the five than the first is ready for another helping and her work starts all again.

Friends of the family and curious persons were kept away from the home today to enable the mother to rest. The 31-year-old French-Canadian father went about his farm tasks as usual, while five husky older children, ranging in age from 7 years to 11 months, played in the yard.

The children were privately baptized yesterday by Rev. D. D. Routhier, parish priest of Corbeil.
