HUEY LONG LEADS TROOPS INTO CITY

English Stock Broker Sees Another Wall Street Boom

Major L. L. B. Angas Has Predicted 4 Out of 5 Market Rises

MAJOR L. L. B. ANGAS

By LEONARD ARNOLD
(Central Press Canadian Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—When a man has been right four times out of five guesses, people are bound to give heed to him, even if he is a stock broker. And when he predicts a boom in the stock market at a time when every other guesser is so muddled and despondent that he can't even articulate, his appeal is enormous.

Major Lawrence Lee Bagley Angas, an English stock broker, has been credited—rightly or wrongly—with causing a good-sized flurry in Wall street, sending prices up and causing a buying wave with his $1.50 pamphlet, "The Coming American Boom." Wall street, and to a milder degree, the Canadian exchanges, are a bit excited over his predictions and his tip to buy stocks now, buy common stocks, and buy "rubbish" preferably.

DIRECT IMPETUS

A conservative economist on Wall street, who has an international reputation but whose name must be undisclosed here, told this correspondend that there is no doubt that Angas' boom booklet was directly responsible for the market buying and upward run during the last few days. This economist had a great deal more to say concerning Major Angas' prognostications with regard to American recovery. He pointed out, and here he lines up with most of the financial reviewers, that Angas may be right about a market boom —indeed, might even cause one— but that he is hardly correct regarding a recovery. And there is, obviously, a wide difference between boom and recovery.

Another observer, however, sees it the other way around, and none of them, of course, can be refuted for some time to come.

CHEAPER MONEY

Boiling down all that Angas says amounts to this: Confronted by the stonewall resistance of the banks and big money men, the United States set out to make money so cheap that there would be perforce a loosening up of credit which would start the business wheels turning and rattling out the good times medley once again.

Angas says: "Business confidence is largely engendered by causing lack of confidence in money." He explains that if money is cheap, people will lend and buy and trade their money for goods.

Angas is concerned primarily with the stock market. He says so. His booklet is a market wise proposition pure and simple. It is a tip sheet. He backs up his tip with economic reasons, as summed up in predicting the release of credit through the cheap money process, and he seems quite convincing—especially to the psychologically parched and despondent speculator.

FOUR-YEAR RISE

He even says that the boom will not last—that like all booms, it will come down as fast as it goes up. He says the rise, with minor fluctuations, will last about four years.

Well—he has been right four times out of five so far: He predicted in previous pamphlets, the English bdom (which came about); the collapse of rubber (which came about); the rise in gold shares (and they did); the upswing in Wall street in 1933 (right again) and the collapse in gold (which did not come, due to Roosevelt's devaluing the dollar).

Right or wrong, Wall street loves it. It's brought some business. One house distributed 2500 copies and the orders to buy stocks poured in.

Beatty Expresses Hope for an Early Amalgamation of Lines

No Plans Yet Made for Main Line Changes

But Few Men Would Be Put Out by the Amalgamation

NO DECISION ON VANCOUVER HOTEL

Business Improvement Noted; Cheap Fares Will Continue

VANCOUVER, Aug. 31 (CP).—"I am very hopeful that unification for the purpose of administration of the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific railways will be brought about," President E. W. Beatty of the Canadian Pacific said in a statement here tonight.

The statement was in the form of replies to questions which had been telegraphed to him as he approached Vancouver, prior to his arrival here this evening.

"The extent of the burden on the country of the present situation and realization of its unnecessary character is gradually extending, as well as realization of the danger of drifting," the written reply added.

"I have advocated private operation for the combined system as offering the best opportunity for efficiency and economy in administration and freedom from political interference.

COOPERATION

"Measures of co-operation between the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific are proceeding in accordance with the terms of the statute, and so far as I have observed they have been prosecuted with utmost good faith.

JONES MEETS HIS ASSISTANT

District Engineer Sees Stevens on Way Through

E. S. Jones, district public works engineer for the Kootenay, had his first conference with his new assistant engineer for Nelson-Creston riding, H. W. Stevens, Friday, when passing through from Penticton to establish his family at Cranbrook.

Arriving by motor with some of the children, Mr. Jones intended to catch the last main lake ferry and make Cranbrook the same night, but he spent so much time in his conference with Mr. Stevens that he had to remain over. Mrs. Jones and the other children were due to pass through by Saturday's early train.

RETURNS TUESDAY

In the short interval since his transfer here from the Okanagan, where for three months he was assistant engineer under the reorganization, following his lengthy service as district engineer at Kamloops, Mr. Jones has made a general inspection of much of the East Kootenay, including the Windermere valley section, and will be here Tuesday to start his first inspection of the West Kootenay ridings.

Mr. Stevens, who succeeds G. C. Mackay, who recently resigned as assistant engineer for the Nelson-Creston riding, arrived earlier in the week from Lillooet, where he was assistant engineer for the past three months. Previously he was stationed at Courtenay, on Vancouver Island, for four years, as assistant engineer. Several years ago he was asssitant engineer at Fernie for a short time, under the district engineer for East Kootenay.

Bennett Leaves Ottawa on Way to League Meet

OTTAWA, Aug. 31 (CP).—Off for a six weeks respite from the routine demands of office, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett left Ottawa tonight wearied from the excessive activities of the past week preparatory to his long absence. He will head the Canadian delegation at the League of Nations assembly opening in Geneva September 10, after which he will transact some affairs for the Dominion in Paris and London. He will sail from Quebec on the Duchess of Bedford in the morning.

Truce Looms in Chaco War

By PAUL SAUNDERS
(Associated Press Staff Writer).

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 31 (AP).—A truce in the Chaco Lar seemed near tonight, after four years of bitter, bloody jungle fighting.

Paraguay had accepted and Bolivia was considering the proposal made by three big friendly nations, Argentina, Brazil and the United States, to cease hostilities while terms for peace are discussed at Buenos Aires.

Cougar Bounty Okayed in B·C.

Deer Tag Law Comes Into Effect; Killed Animals Must Bear a Tag

VICTORIA, Aug. 31 (CP).—Announcement that bounties of ten dollars on cougars and five dollars on wolves will be paid in British Columbia to any person licenced to carry firearms or any Indian, on proof of the kill being presented to the game department is made today in an order over the signature of Hon. Gordon M. Sloan, attorney-general.

The order specifies the bounty will not be paid for any animals less than one week old when killed. The pelt of the animal must be produced with an application for the bounty within six months after the date on which it was killed.

Details of the game tag regulations regarding deer under which hunters are required to affix a seal to animals killed, with the object of a tally being kept on the number killed during the season, were announced in an order issued by Attorney-General Sloan.

DOOR-TO-DOOR SALESMEN GET MINIMUM WAGE

Firms Employing Men in East Must Pay B. C. Standards

WORTH HIRING WORTH PAYING

Will End Lot of Poor Pay Commision Posts in the Province

VICTORIA, Aug. 31 (CP).—Full consideration was given to representations by eastern Canadian firms whose products are handled in British Columbia before a definite ruling was given that the order calling for a $15 minimum wage for door-to-door salesmen should stand, Hon. G. S. Pearson, minister of labor, anounced today.

Mr. Pearson declared all canvassers representing firms which send salesmen on the road must pay the men a minimum of $15 per week regardless of any commission arrangement under the mercantile wage orders of the provincial board of industrial relations.

BRITAIN OPPOSES ANY ALLIANCES

Action With Russia and the League Not Intended as Thrust at Japanese

LONDON, Aug. 31 (CP)—Great Britain does not fear her new advocacy of Russian membership in the league of nations will endanger her traditional friendship with Japan.

A well qualified interpreter of the government's policies said tonight the tri-power drive for the Soviets' admission to the league launched by Great Britain, France and Italy "has nothing to do with the far eastern situation."

Britain's determination ever since the great war to oppose alliances on the European continent dictated her action in taking an aggressive stand for Russia's membership, he explained.

DUNCAN, FORMER MARKETS HEAD, IS DEAD

VICTORIA, Aug. 31 (CP)—William Wallace Duncan, former British Columbia markets commissioner, died here suddenly today.

Born in Seaforth, Ontar, Mr. Duncan joined the staff of the Canadian Pacific railway company as a civil engineer, being stationed at Guelph, Ont.

Later he resigned and moved to Calgary where he entered the contracting business. He came here in 1914.

86 FIGHT THE MOYIE FLAMES

Irishman's Creek Fire Troublesome; Others Are in Hand

The Little Moyie fire, which has spread to Irishman's creek, is the only blaze in the east Kootenay that is causing much trouble at present. A crew of 86 men is attempting to cut it off the slope now as it is starting to come down the mountain.

A report fom Moyie Friday stated tha the fire was in the white pine timber owned by the C. P. R. along Englishman creek and that the Wilkinson homestead had burned.

Elsewhere in the forestry district fire fighters had another successful day.

Despite winds that reached the proportion of a gale Thursday night and early Friday morning, the Invermere fire was held and a new outbreak on Midas creek was put out. A half an hour's rain near Fernie helped fighters in that vicinity and fire conditions there are excellent.

From Grand Forks comes the report that the Poenix fire is out, the Doukhobor fire west of the city, quiet, and the Fourth of July creek fire controlled again where it jumped the fire guard. The crew is now reduced to a patrol. The Rock creek fire is also quiet.

A new outbreak occurred near McCulloch station and the C. P. R. men are fighting it where it is bordering on the track. The forestry men are at the north of the fire trying to keep it out of the Kelowna water shed. It is burning briskly.

In the immediate vicinity of Nelson fires are quiet.

CANADIAN BORN JAPS ARE WORRY

Go to Japan, Unable Speak Japanese, and Have a Difficult Time

VICTORIA, Aug. 31 (CP).—Problems of Japanese born in Canada and the United States who, after their education on this continent has been completed, go to Japan to find employment, were discussed here today by Miss Mary L. Bollert, dean of women at the University of British Columbia, on her return from Tokio and Honolulu.

Miss Bollert left here in June, with other deans of women from North America, at the invitation of the Japanese foreign office, to attend a conference in Tokio for the promotion of cultural relations between Japan and North America. She was the only Canadian delegate.

"It seems the Japanese born on this continent speak very bad Japanese and are counted illiterate when they return to their own country," Miss Bollert said. "As a result they are not wanted. They return to find a foreign country. They are unaccustomed to conditions there and are a great source of anxiety to the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A.

"They are also inclined to antagonize, unconsciously perhaps, their fellow Japanese by "airing" their English in the street cars and other public places.

"We were invited over there to see these problems and were asked to study them. It was thought that we, who have so much to do with the education of Japanese in this country, would perhaps have some solution."

Miss Bollert also attended the international meeting of the Pan-Pacific Women's association at Honolulu.

WOOL WORKERS TO JOIN IN HUGE U.S.A. WALKOUT

General Strike Order Involves 100,000 Additional Folk

JOIN COTTON TEXTILE STRIKE

Silk and Rayon Crews Under Orders Stand by for Calls

By DONALD CAMERON
(Associated Press Staff Writer).

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP).—The general strike order for the huge United States cotton textile industry spread tonight to encompass 100,000 woollen and worsted workers, further deflating federal efforts for an 11th hour peace pact.

The possibility mounted tonight that the entire textile industry might be included in the walkout plan by the time the cotton workers zero hour arrives at 11:30 tomorrow night.

E. Y. BRAKE IS LAID AT REST

Many Friends, Fellow Workers and Lodge Brothers Attend

A large number of friends, fellow workers and lodge brothers attended the funeral services of Edward Young Brake at St. Saviour's church Friday afternoon when the Nelson railroader was carried to his last rest. The funeral services were conducted by Ven. Archdeacon Fred H. Graham, both at the church and the graveside.

Members of the I.O.O.F. attended under the guidance of J. Draper, noble grand.

There were many beautiful floral offerings.

Pallbearers were F. Ewing, E. Armshaw, P. T. Andrews, A. Wigg, J. Armstrong, G. A. Meers, J. P. Morgan, F. Hartwig, and honorary pallbearers were F. C. Sharpe and C. E. Mansfield.

GOLFING PAIR TO VISIT AUSTRALIA

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (AP)—Gene Sarazen and Joe Kirkwood the professional golfing tourists, have completed plans to visit Australia and New Zealand this autumn and winter. They leave New York Monday for Chicago, then play a short series of exhibition matches in Canada, from Winnipeg to Vancouver, before sailing Sept. 12 for the Antipodes by way of Honolulu.

A month later they will be reinforced by a half dozen professional associates in seeking Australian open championship honors. Craig Wood, Paul Runyan, Densmore Shute, Johnny Revolta, Harry Cooper and Ky Laffoon are booked to leave the west coast Oct. 12 for Sydney.

GO INTO MATTER OF DROUGHT UPON PRAIRIE SECTION

OTTAWA, Aug. 31 (CP). — The pressing problem of drought relief in the prairie provinces, particularly in Saskatchewan, will be taken up at a conference tomorrow between Hon. Robert Weir, minister of agriculture, and the ministers of agriculture for Saskatchewan and Manitoba, it was learned today.

Starts Drive Into Orleans Oust Mayor

Reporters Charged by Troops and Camera Is Broken

SIRENS TELL OF TROOPS' ARRIVAL

"Kingfish" Put Whole City Into a State of Excitement

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 31 (AP)—Sweeping into the city with armed troops who used violence to clear a path, Senator Huey P. Long set out tonight under a proclamation of martial law to investigate his political enemies—the heads of the municipal government.

An automobile cavalcade with shrieking sirens brought the senator from Baton Rouge, where Governor O. K. Allen had issued an order calling the militia into active service to protect the legislative investigating committee.

Through the streets the cars sped. They roared along Audubon boulevard, where Long—the state's political dictator—has a palatial residence.

In front of the house the soldiers saw Frank Allen, night city editor of the New Orleans Times-Picayune, and E. E. Agnelly, a photographer for the paper.

With drawn guns the troops charged the two men. They grabbed Agnelly's camera, tore away some of his clothes, and threw him into a truck.

"KEEP CLEAR"

Other troops seized Allen. In 18 minutes they freed him with a warning for all newspapermen to "keep clear."

Agnelly was held for a half hour and then ordered to leave the neighborhood.

Long rushed into his home. Quickly a line of soldiers, armed with machine guns and rifles, was spread around it. Two boxes of ammunition and additional guns were carried into the house.

PROBE AT ONCE

Members of the inquiry committee, approved by the legislature early this month, met at a downtown hotel to await instructions from the "Kingfish". Long said the investigation would start at once.

Crowds of citizens gathered on street corners. The entire city was in a state of excitment. More national guardsmen, some reports said, were to be brought here from other communities.

Troops have been quartered in the barracks since the governor's original proclamation ordering them to hold the city registration office, centre of the fight between the Long forces and Mayor T. Semmes Walsmley.

Senator Long declared he would have Mayor Walmsley out of office in 30 days. There were enough witnesses, he said, to convict the whole city administration of misconduct in office because of alleged associations with the underworld.

Davis Winner of Air Race

CLEVELAND, Aug. 31 (AP). — Flying part of the time at a speed of 270 miles an hour, Douglas Davis of Atlanta, Ga., today won the transcontinental race from Burbank, Calif., to Cleveland, feature event of the opening program of the 1934 national air races.

But despite his speed Davis fell short of the Los Angeles to Cleveland record set by Jimmy Haizlip in 1932. Davis took nine hours, 26 minutes and 41 seconds for the trip from Burbank. Haizlip made the flight from Los Angeles in eight hours ,19 minutes and 46 seconds.

Nelson Net Players Take Tourney Path

Nelson's tennis contingent leaves this morning for Trail to take part in the annual West Kootenay tennis tournament which takes place in Trail for the first time. Play begins today and the finals will be completed Monday.

Trail has reconditioned the Tadanac courts and has made extensive plans to make the annual tournament a success.

It is expected about 30 will go from here.

Towns Go Dark When Beaver Fells Tree Across Lines

MACLEOD, Alta., Aug. 31 (CP). —Disruption of electric power to half a dozen towns in southern Alberta Tuesday night today was blamed on a beaver family. A tree one of the family gnawed down fell across a transmission line at Willow Creek, and broke it. The town's lights lighted again at 6:30 Wednesday morning.

Bear Sniffs at Dynamite, Turns Somersault, and Then Disappears

But Prospectors Save Their Lives by an Engenuous Method

LILLOOET, B.C., Aug. 31 (CP).—Somewhere in the bush country surrounding this mining community a mother bear is nursing a sore muzzle and a determination to give all prospectors a wide berth, particularly ones with dynamite.

Charlie Scott and his son, Tommy, prospectors, were walking along a ridge when they met the mother bear and two cubs. They made for the two nearest trees, while cubs scrambled up a third.

Snarling annoyance the old bear started to climb the tree Tommy was perched in but he kept up a steady shaking which tumbled the animal down a half dozen times.

Meantime, Charlie had no gun but he did have some dynamite. breaking off a two-inch piece he made a charge and threw it. The fuse went out.

The bear couldn't get up and the men couldn't get down and Charlie tried another charge. The bear, having seen the first one go out, sniffed it curiously.

As she nosed it the second time—bang—and mother bear turned a backward somersault and went down the ridge in a cloud of gravel and dust.

The men waited until they heard the bear's growls of rage and pain recede far down the canyon, then descended and hurried off in the opposite direction.

They don't know what happened to the cubs.

PIONEER MINISTER DIES

C.N.R. Officials Praise Grant Hall

VICTORIA, Aug. 31 (CP)—High tribute to the late Grant Hall, senior vice-president of the Canadian Pacific railway, was paid here today by S. J. Hungerford, president of the Canadian National railways, and Hon. C. P. Pullerton, chairman of the board of trustees, who spoke at a luncheon tendered them by the Victoria chamber of commerce.

Mr. Hungerford said he had known Mr. Hall since 1887 and had worked with him as a colleague and later in competition with him. He had always found him one with whom it was a pleasure to cooperate. He was an able railroad man, of sterling character, and had many friends. There were not many Grant Halls today, he said.

Mr. Fullerton associated himself with the tribute expressed by Mr. Hungerford. He said he had known Grant Hall for more than 40 years and his death was a great loss, not only to the Canadian Pacific railway but also to Canada.

FROST HITS OAT CROP ON PRAIRIE

Threshing General in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Part of Alberta

WINNIPEG, Aug. 31—Perfect harvesting weather over the week just past has completed wheat cutting for the province of Manitoba and left Saskatchewan with 85 per cent of its wheat and 80 per cent of grains cut with Alberta reporting 6 per cent wheat and 65 per cent coarse grains ready for threshing. The Canadian Pacific railway's agricultural department also reports threshing operations general in Manitoba and Saskatchewan and all but the northern portions of Alberta.

Unusually cool weather throughout western Canada during the latter part of last week has been followed by fair warm days during the last week of August which have advanced field operations considerably, says the report issued today. Early frosts last week damaged late oats in northern Saskatchewan and uncut wheat and late grains in north central Alberta, some points reporting yield reduced 2 to 5 bushels per acre and from one to three grades in quality.

As in former dry years, there is great variation in yields although up to present quality has been satisfactory. Pasturage and fodder supplies have suffered and in southern Saskatchewan and parts of Alberta heavy rainfall is needed to improve the winter outlook and for fall cultivation.

British Columbia's apple crop still gives great promise and heavy movement of stone fruits, pears and prunes continues. Vegetable crops are doing well and the third crop of alfalfa is being cut. Rain is needed for crops not under irrigation.

Myers' Car Stolen and Wrecked

W. M. Myers' car was stolen from in front of his residence at 923 Silica street some time Wednesday night or early Thursday morning, and it was later found wrecked about half a mile from Nelson on the Ymir road. The car went over the bank and suffered damages from the rocks it contacted.

Foundry-Re-opens at Coast

VANCOUVER, Aug. 31 (CP).—The Wallace Foundry Co., Ltd., plant on Granville Island, here producing steel, iron, brass and bronze castings, has been reopened. At present it is employing 16 men but, as conditions improve, officials expect employment will be provided for between 30 and 50 men.

Naptha Ends the Roosevelt Painting

TARRYTOWN, N.Y., Aug. 31 (AP). —The lampoon of the "new deal" under President Roosevelt, drawn by the mysterious "Jeremiah I" was ruined today by an unnaturalized Russian who tossed naptha, which burst into flames, on the painting.

"I did not like the idea of holding up the Roosevelt family to ridicule," said John Thompson, sentenced to six months in Westchester penitentiary after his arrest for ruining the picture which hung in the Westchester institute of fine arts.

C.C.F. Party in B.C. Votes to Join Forces With the Socialist's Party

VANCOUVER, Aug. 31 (CP).—Delegates to the second annual conference of the Associated Cooperative Commonwelath clubs of British Columbia, today approved proposals to merge the C.C.F. and the Socialist party of Canada.

The proposed amalgamation will be considered at the opening session of the affiliated C.C.F. clubs tomorrow.

"It will be the soundest move the C.C.F. party has yet made," President W. A. Pritchard of the British Columbia association declared in stressing the importance of merging.

Secretary A. D. Gordon stated the associated clubs in the province now have a membership of 6700.

Beaver Stops C. P. Telegraph Service

SUDBURY, Ont., Aug. 31 (CP).—A beaver put Canadian Pacific railway telegraph lines out of commission today when a 70 foot pine tree it had felled at mileage 71, destroyed the wires. Three hours work by the wire crew was required to restore 25 broken circuits.

HALL TELLS OF ROBSON CLIMB

At Night Heard the Great Ice Field Groaning

VANCOUVER, Aug. 31 (CP).—First to ascend mighty Mount Robson, 12,972 feet, since 1930, Henry S. Hall of Boston and his Swiss guide, Hans Fuhrer, returned here today from the scene of their conquest.

In climbing the highest mountain in the Canadian Rockies, the pair proved a theory long held by Fuhrer that the dangerous second ice-fall can be circumnavigated rather than assaulted Direct. Both said that seasonal conditions and momentary favorable weather gave them a "break."

On the glacier approach to the summit ridge there are two ice falls, each of which have given trouble to climbers since Col. W. W. Foster and Conrad Kain first ascended the peak in 1913 after a "prodigious" task of cutting ice steps.

By working to the extreme west end of the second ice fall, Hall and Fuhrer were able to go under a series of snow bulges, grottos made beautiful by weird icicle effects, and attack the main summit ridge. At one place the snow ridge was so narrow they were forced down some distance and had to struggle up farther along. In one spot, Hall said, he was not sure he would be able to follow his guide.

They made camp at the timberline and began the actual ascent at 2 a.m., Wednesday. They reached the summit at 3 p.m. after 15 hours climbing.

They began to descend at 4 p.m. and reached the bottom of the second ice fall at dark. On dangerous rock and ice they sat there until daylight. It was bitterly cold, they said, and a pair of socks put on a rock to dry, froze stiff as boards.

Robson ice is "noisy" and during the night they could hear the great ice field groaning and grinding. Ice falls and small avalanches roared down and stray rocks crashed into unsounded depths. Daylight was a welcome arrival, the mountaineers said.

READ AND Use the WANT-ADS

MORE ABOUT U.S. STRIKE

Former orders for the woollen and worsted strike were dispatched late today after Arthur Besse, chairman of the wool code authority, curtly rejected labor's request for conference with representatives of the industry.

REFUSE MEET UNION

Peter Van Horn, chairman of the silk code authority, generally was expected to follow the lead of cotton and wool manufacturers in refusing to meet the union.

Silk and rayon workers still were under instructions to stand by. Should they join up more than 700,000 workers would be under strike orders.

Chairman Lloyd Garrison and his associates on the national labor relations board tonight continued hoping against hope that some basis of settlement or compromise might be found. All conceded, however, that efforts thus far have been fruitless.

Confronted by a flat refusal by manufacturers to discuss the issues with the board and the union's committee, Garrison kept in close touch with George A. Sloan, head of the Cotton Textile institute, and labor representatives. There appeared no present prospect of altering industry's stand.

MORE ABOUT BEATTY

Some economies have already been effected; some are under consideration and still others will follow the conclusion of work now in hand. Obviously there is a limit to the economies which such measures can accomplish so long as each railway has to maintain its competitive independence.

DISCUSS ABANDONMENT

"Possible abandonment of lines in certain territories is being explored by committees established for that purpose. No decision has been reached as to pooling arrangements between Kamloops and Vancouver nor in the matter of dealing with the future of the Vancouver hotel. Both are under consideration by the two companies."

The reference to the Vancouver hotel referred to the possibility of the companies co-operating to use the present unfinished Canadian National hotel and finding some other use for the Vancouver.

"Efficiency in public services can certainly be maintained even in the absence of competition, as has been proved in many services in Canada where railways are not in direct competition," the president's statement said. "In addition some measure of competition from water carriers, trucks and buses will always be present."

He was asked in what directions could $50,000,000 be saved through amalgamation as intimated by him in previous utterances.

"Savings from unification are in three principal items," he replied: "Abandonment of unnecessary mileage; consolidation of traffic due to elimination of duplicate train service and use of most favorable routes for the combined operations; and reduction in unit costs below that possible if railways are separately operated.

NO SERIOUS INCREASE

"The number of men thrown out of work, if any, would depend on the working out of the details of operation, but in my judgment unemployment would not be seriously increased under unification if, as would be the case, the work were proceeded with gradually and considerately. Employees should not be penalized and need have no fear of being unfairly treated."

"Our experience in the past amply justifies continuance of the policy of cent-a-mile excursions," Mr. Beatty said.

The Canadian Pacific was carefully watching development of streamline air-conditioned trains in the United States, but did not contemplate their introduction until investigations in the United States had given accurate data upon which to proceed.

BUSINESS BETTER

"Business throughout Canada is generally better than a year ago," he said, "and with a fair crop movement railways should finish the year with better net earnings. It is not to be expected that the percentage of improvement will be continued, as we are reaching the period when the first upturn in business took place in 1933.

"The crop situation, I think, will improve, and while no accurate estimate can be made until the outturns are known, it is, in my judgment, more than likely that estimates recently made will be slightly increased.

TOURIST TRADE BETTER

"There has been a distinct improvement in tourist traffic in British Columbia this year and I see no reason why it should not recur. All that is necessary is increased confidence among the citizens of Canada and the United States and, in spite of uncertainties which exist in many quarters I am disposed to think that this confidence will strengthen as months pass."

He was asked if in his statement of August 8 he said there was need to build more railways, he had any paticular territory in mind.

"I did not have any particular territory in mind," he replied, "save the undeveloped north and the possibility of new areas requiring railway transportation because of mineral or other discoveries. Construction of the Peace River outlet will no doubt receive consideration as soon as financing is possible, but at the moment both the government and the Canadian Pacific are carefully scrutinizing both present-day expenditures as well as future commitments.

WANT SAFE PASSAGE

"With our present burden of railway investment, plans for extensions will, I thing, depend upon general improvement in railway revenues, in the light of necessities which arise. What I thing is necessary is that we should by economies put our finances in such a position that necessary extensions may be made without unduly burdening the country. We should not be deprived of future necessary extensions or modernization of our railway facilities because we can not afford them.

Mr. Beatty was also asked, "What objections, if any, has the C.P.R. to present plans for the Lion's Gate bridge?"

He replied: "The company has nothing to add to representations it made at the hearing in Ottawa when the application for approval of the plans of the First Narrows bridge was made. Its only interest is the safe navigation of British Columbia's greatest port—the port of Vancouver."

Travelling in the president's party are D. C. Coleman, Winnipeg, vice-president in charge of western lines; W. N. Tilley, K.C., director, Toronto; R. S. McLaughlin, director, Oshawa, Ont.; R. H. McMaster, director; C. H. Carlisle, Toronto businessman; H. J. Main, general superintendent, Winnipeg; and C. A. Cotterell, general superintendent, Vancouver, who is accompanying the party through British Columbia.

MAGISTRATE POTTS REFUSES DISMISS PLANTA CASE AND BINDS HIM OVER

Senator Released on Surety of $500; Must Answer Any Charge Preferred

NANAIMO, B.C., Aug. 31 (CP).—Refusing to take the responsibility upon himself to dismiss the case, Stipendiary Magistrate C. H. B. Potts today bound over Senator A. E. Planta to answer any charge preferred against him. The hearing was a sequel to a charge of unlawful conversion of $200 received from Mrs. M. Cottle on terms requiring him to pay the same to W. H. Jones, executor of the estate of the late Henry Crewe. He was released on one surety of $500. The senator was represented by Charles Locke, K.C., of Vancouver. A. Leighton appeared for the crown.

"It is rather evident," said counsel, "what has happened in this case, criminal proceedings are being used to collect a debt after the company has gone into bankruptcy after a claim has been filed with the trustee of the company in bankruptcy, and after the president of the company says that he will do, personally, all in his power to meet the company's obligations. There is no evidence to suggest that the accused got five cents of that money. Documents show it was received by the company and that interest was paid by the company."

Mrs. M. Cottle told of her dealings with accused some years ago, re the sale of some property at Departure Bay to pay a mortgage on her present home. She admitted her home was sold by a salesman from A. E. Planta, Ltd., and that all business was done in the company's office with accused. "I have not brought any charges against Mr. Planta, I've nothing to bring against him. I got my title, money and receipts and am satisfied," declared the witness.

KIMBERLEY GIRLS HOME FROM HIKE

Braved Wilderness; They Highly Praise Treatment in Nelson

KIMBERLEY, Aug. 31—Doris Dakin, Marguerite Dakin and Mabel McKay arrived home hale and hearty from their long ride. Marguerite stayed over the week-end with her brother in Moyie.

They traveled early and in the evenings, resting during the heat of the day. The horses were somewhat fagged when they reached home but the girls were still going strong.

They had a wonderful time in Nelson. Everyone was very good to them. Mrs. Jarret supplied them with a sleeping porch and fruit in plenty. After the hardships of the trail, Nelson seemed like the promised land, flowing with milk and honey. Everywhere they were received with kindness and one of the finest things about the trip was the lovely people they met and the good times they had with them.

Going back, they got supplies and started back to meet the shepherd. A truck took them within eight miles so they decided to walk.

It was a hot day and Marguerite carried a sack of flour that sifted down and made dough between her shoulders, under the pack.

They met the shepherd out of supplies, except for a sheep that had committed suicide by jumping a sharp snag. This was the only sheep lost. Don Dakin and Roy McLeish, who had gone through on foot as far as Crawford Bay in search of the girls had taken back sugar and butter for him.

Mr. Eppard, the shepherd, was cheerful, through the worst, over the summit and two miles down the other side. He had gotten along so well that he told the girls, "I believe if I fell in the river I would float upstream." Mrs. Eppard too was happy and hopeful as she had been all through.

When the girls reached the lower end of Moyie lake they met Mr. Eppard with the team and covered wagon on his way around by Creston. His sheep were through and in good pasture near Crawford Bay with his wife and boy and dogs on guard. Mr. Eppard spoke of the office cabin his family and the girls had had to "rob" when all their food was gone. A trapper complained about this and Mr. Eppard went back to Cranbrook and the government office gave him the money to pay the trapper. "All's well that ends well."

LANCASHIRE IS CRICKET CHAMP

Have Good Lead as County Schedule Comes to and End

LONDON, Aug. 31 (CP cable).—The first-class county cricket season came to an end in England today, with Lancashire the champion county. Yorkshire, champions for three years, were considerably behind at the end of the 30-match schedule.

Although they were idle in the last series, Lancashire had an insurmountable lead, winding up with 257 points for an average of 57.11. Sussex had 243 points for an average of 54.00. Yorkshire and Kent each wound up with 225 points.

Results of closing matches:

Hampshire and Worcestershire drew at Portsmouth, Hampshire 269 for nine declared; Worcestershire 137 for seven (Boyes four for 37).

Sussex defeated Yorkshire on the first innings at Hove. Yorkshire 263 and 225 for eight, declared (Barber 75); Sussex 289 and 15 for one (Tate 77, Smailes five for 57).

Derbyshire won over Leicestershire by 42 runs at Chesterfield. Derby 181 and 229 (Marlow four for 50); Leicestershire 189 and 179.

Middlesex defeated Nottinghamshire on the first innings at Lord's. Notts 219 and 252 for five, declared (Hardstaffe 60 and 84, Voce 55, Sims five for 67, Walker 111); Middlesex 238 and 64 for three (Voce four for 33, Hearne 50, Sims 50).

Surrey defeated Glamorgan on the first innings at Cardiff. Glamorgan 173 and 148 for four; Surrey 220 (Gregory 56, Clay seven for

BILLY ARMSTRONG

One of the outstanding competitors at the Highland dancing and piping competition which is being held here on Monday in conjunction with the big track and field meet is Billy Armstrong of Vancouver, above. The Vancouver lad who is only 15 years of age, has won a reputation as the foremost of Canada's youngest generation of pipers, and whom the picture reproduced above shows with the handsome set of bagpipes, valued at $100, and awarded to him as winner of the grand aggregate prize for the playing of Highland marches, strathspeys and reels at a piping contest sponsored recently by the Vancouver Gaelic society. Fifteen years of age last August, Billy has won during his brief piping career 97 prizes, 64 firsts, 19 seconds, 13 thirds and one fourth, frequently competing against pipers of all ages at points as far distant as Edmonton, Alberta and Seattle, Wash. Winning the championship of Canada for boys under 16 at Banff four years ago, he has held this title ever since.

DOG DISTURBS THIS BURGLAR

A burglar entered the home of F. F. Payne, Hoover street, Thursday, but left when apparently frightened by a dog without taking anything. Police are investigating.

Mrs. Edward Emilson has as her guests, her daughter, Mrs. McMann and children from Kellogg, Idaho.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Le Roy were Nelson visitors.

Mrs. Joe Kubiski has returned to her home in Ymir after visiting her mother for several months in Manitoba.

Miss Elizabeth Clark had as her guest, Mrs. Haggarty of Nelson.

Mrs. H. Stevens and children were Salmo visitors.

MORE ABOUT B. C. WAGES

"The board recognizes some units in the mercantile industry may have to readjust methods applying to commission salesmen but cannot see any good reason to change the order," he commented.

SOME COMPLAINTS

"There have been complaints from the east in which they claim this class of employee is exempt from minimum wage relations in the United States. We take the position, however, that a man worth employing is worth paying. The board cannot hope to satisfy everybody but it is acting in what it believes to be a spirit of justice and fairness."

The minister said that, while there have been protests from some firms, others using door-to-door salesman in marketing household commodities have expressed willingness to conform with the order.

STOP COMMISSION WORK

In some quarters it is welcomed as a step which will put a stop to the alleged practice of placing any man that applies on the road on a commission basis.

The new order, Mr. Pearson said, is expected to give a living wage for those salesmen employed by firms under the new plan although it may eliminate those who put in days of canvassing with little or no benefit to themselves.

One large corporation has advised the minister that, in future, it will give prospective salesmen a short course in salesmanship to select capable men and will then place them on the road at the specified minimum wage.

SOFTBALL GIRLS READY FOR TODAY

Nelson Girls Returning to the City; Creston Plays Them Twice Today

Softball players have been flocking back to Nelson during the last 48 hours in preparation for the best two out of three game series between the Creston ladies' team and the local rep team this afternoon and Sunday. Saturday's games are called for 2 p.m. and 5 p.m., while the Sunday morning game, which will be played irrespective of the results of Saturday's games, will be played at 10:30 in the morning.

Yesterday afternoon Helen Ling and Rosa Stewart, who will bear the brunt of the mound duty for the locals, returned to Nelson after spending the holidays at Balfour. Both have been getting in considerable practice along with Agnes Stewart, who was also at Balfour and members of the Balfour Bronx, and are in good shape for the Kootenay title series.

Agnes Stewart and Jean Paterson returned to the city Wednesday afternoon. Arla Saare and Hazel Spiers will be in late tonight and others who are missing reported to be on their way to Nelson.

Present plans call for Helen Ling to pitch part of all three games and she will start the first game on Saturday afternoon but will be given plenty of relief by Rosa Stewart and probably Jean Spiers. Arla Saare will be in her usual position behind the plate in the first game but Jean Paterson and Pauline Stangherlin, may be called in to relieve her in part of the other games.

Barring last minute changes the locals will line up as follows: Jeanette LePage, first base, Dorothy Titsworth second base, Hazel Spiers or June King shortstop, Clara Talberg or Pauline Stangherlin third base, Alice Dunn, Jean Spiers, Edna McKenzie, Agnes Stewart and Pauline Stangherlin, outfielders. Lena LePage, Peggy Gibbon and Lillian McDonald will be used part time.

Clara Talberg will probably play first base one of the games and Jean Paterson third. Should Eva Smith and Elaine Beeston return as expected they will be used if their condition warrants it.

PARKER, LOTT IN THE FINAL

Lott Upsets Shields in Grass Court Tennis Play at Rye, N.Y.

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 31 (AP)—George Lott, Jr., of Chicago, veteran United States Davis cup doubles player, and Frank C. Parker, youthful sensation from Spring Lake, N.J., will meet for the 15th time in two years Sunday when they clash in the final round for the eastern United States grass courts tennis championship.

Lott upset Frank Shields, the first ranking player of the country and Davis cup singles representative, 4-6, 6-3, 8-6 to enter the title round today. Parker humbled the intercollegiate titleholder, Gene Mako of Los Angeles, in straight sets, 6-1, 6-4.

The two perennial rivals are all-square, each having won seven of the 14 matches.

The women's singles final, which will be played tomorrow, became an all-English affair when Katherine Stammers turned back Baroness Maud Levi of Minden, Nev., while Freda James was whipping her teammate, Betty Nuthall. Miss Stammers won 6-1, 0-6, 7-5 and Miss James 3-6, 7-5, 6-1.

"RACKET" FAILS

But Vancouver Youth Had Ingenious Method of Making Money

VANCOUVER, Aug. 31 (CP)—An unidentified youth was at large today after his attempt to start a new and novel crime "racket" in Vancouver had failed.

The youth appeared at a downtown clothing store yesterday and obtained a box of the type used for carrying suits. Later he turned it over at the front of the same store to a messenger boy, whom he instructed to deliver the box to A. Nelson at the Hotel Georgia and collect $22.50 before leaving it.

On reaching the hotel, the messenger found Nelson was out and the hotel management refused to pay the money demanded. The messenger returned to the store, and being unable to locate the youth who gave him the box, turned it over to the manager. When opened, the box was found to contain an old coat and newspapers.

Police believed the youth obtained Nelson's name from the hotel register and, knowing the guest was not in at the time, sent the box to the hotel in the hope the management would make payment for the guest.

FAIL FIND TRACE OF COLUMBUS MAN

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 31 (AP)—F. E. Lumley, father of Dr. F. H. Lumley, 27-year-old missing Ohio state university faculty member, expressed increasing concern for the safety of his son today as another day went by without result in the search.

Dr. Lumley has not been seen since August 13 when he left Glacier national park, Mont., for unknown destination.

"Do you suppose the Royal Canadian Mounted police are helping? Have you heard anything from the border towns in Canada? I wonder how extensive a search is being made. It certainly is peculiar."

Those were the elder Lumley's comments.

"The park superintendent told me in a telegram yesterday that 25 men were out," he added.

The last word received, the father said, was a note written from Goathaunt Camp, where the younger Lumley separated from his companion on a tour, R. B. Owen of Cambridge, Mass. He was unable to find the note now, the father said, but "it must have arrived about the 13th or 14th of August. It said he would be home the 27th and we didn't become concerned for he was at a point where it was difficult to get mail out. Besides he's been all around the world and we presumed he knew how to take care of himself."

The postal card invitation from Mrs. F. E. Lumley asking her son to come to Banff, Alta., the father dismissed as of no value in the search. "That was written early in July and Mrs. Lumley didn't expect to stay," he said. "She is home now; has been since August 1. She went with our son to Many Glacier, then she went on to Canada. She enjoyed the country there so much that she merely wrote our son and said, 'You ought not to miss this.'"

Empress Brings Congress Women

VICTORIA, Aug. 31 (CP)—Three members of the Canadian delegation of the international conference of the Pan-Pacific Women's association at Honolulu returned to Canada today aboard the liner Empress of Asia. They are the Canadian chairman, Miss Mary L. Bollert of Vancouver, dean of women at the University of British Columbia; Miss Florence Dodd, Edmonton, dean of women at the University of Alberta; and Mrs. E. B. Price, Vancouver, president of the Canadian Women's Press club.

Dr. Anne Seesholtz of New York, executive secretary of the council for the Home Mission of America, member of the United States delegation to the conference, was also a passenger.

LEADERS URGE LABOR TO GO FORWARD NOW

Deliver Labor Day Messages at Ottawa

TOM MOORE SPEAKS OF STEVENS PROBE

A. R. Mosher and P. M. Draper Also Speakers

OTTAWA, Aug. 31 (CP).—Directing attention to the continued unemployment of thousands of would-be workers, Canadian labor leaders in their Labor Day messages emphasize their demand for reconstruction of the country's economic system.

Revelations of the Stevens committee investigation are brought out as indicating the necessity for strong corrective measures for the protection of the worker and consumer. Need for further organization of workers' associations and better direction of their activities is stressed. Shortening of hours of labor to spread available work and increase of wages to give purchasing power are again advocated as essential to the improvement of conditions.

MOORE'S MESSAGE

The message of Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor council of Canada follows:

"Another year of trial and sacrifice has failed to weaken the spirit of our movement. This Labor Day, as in the past, will find the organized workers, with unconquerable will and undiminished vigor, proclaiming anew their principles and demonstrating a determinaton to carry forward the struggle for economc freedom and social justice.

"The exposures of the parliamentary probe respecting price spreads, etc., has shocked the public conscience and served to make plain that Labor's protests against profiteering and exploitation were only too well founded. It has also emphasized to all workers that trade union organization is their best protection against such abuses.

"The stubborn opposition of governments and employers to reduce hours of labor and the continuance of policities of retrenchment and economy, almost solely at the expense of the pay envelope, is retarding progress toward recovery as is demonstrated by the deplorable fact that over one million of our population are still dependent upon public funds for the bare necessities of life. With such conditions existing it is asinine to ignore that unemployment still remains the greatest problem with which this country has to deal.

NO LIGHT TASK

"The rebuilding of our economic life on a sounder basis is no light task but is one that brooks of no delay. The extent to which this will restore a measure of happiness and contentment in the homes of the victims of unemployment will depend largely upon the influence that labor can exercise in the shaping of the country's future policies. On every hand there are clear indications that wage earners realize this responsibility and that the sure road to success is by organization.

"Labor Day, 1934, finds organized labor once more on the forward march, determined to abolish the prevailing system of destruction and waste and to use every constitutional means at command to secure the right to participate in the enjoyment of those things, which, by their labor and with the aid of modern machinery are today produced in such abundance."

MOSHER'S TALK

A. R. Mosher, president of the All-Canadian Congress of Labor says:

"During the past five years of depression, privation and mass misery, the workers of Canada have been amazingly patient and hopeful. Their attitude has gone far to establish the truth of the poet's observation that 'hope springs eternal in the human breast,' and their patience has almost, if not quite, reached the point where it ceases to be a virtue.

"They have hoped that the controllers of industry and finance, the chief beneficiaries of the present economic system, would find some way of stimulating business and making it possible for the great army of the unemployed to obtain a livelihood. They have hoped that, implementing their election program, those entrusted with the government of the country could and would do something to lead the people out of the wilderness of depression.

"These hopes have not been realized. Unemployment is still sapping the morale of hundreds of thousands of would-be workers, and the fear of economic insecurity haunts the homes of those who are still fortunate enough to have a job. The shocking revelations of the Stevens committee have thrown a strong light into the dark places of competitive business, indicating that both workers and consumers are ground between the millstones of profit and greed.

"Obnoxiously the hours of labor must be shortened to spread the available work, and wages must be increased to make purchasing power available and provide a market for the goods produced, but not a single step in that direction has been taken except under pressure exerted by the organized workers themselves.

"I have no destire to destroy the hope of better days to come, but rather to point out the only method, in my opinion, by which that hope may be realized. The present economic system, operated by its most capable and intelligent defenders, has failed to make available to the people the plenty which it is capable of producing. Some way must be found by which, without reducing the production of material requirements, to bring about an equitable distribution to all the people. No economic system is sacrosanct; no economic system has any right to survive after its usefulness is ended. Capitalism is on trial.

"The workers of Canada are becoming more and more conscious of the absurdity of privation in the midst of plenty. Through their unions they are endeavoring not only to protect their right to a decent living, but also to attain some method by which work, product, and leisure may be equitably shared, and the curse of poverty be lifted forever from the masses of mankind."

DRAPER SPEAKS

P. M. Draper, secretary-treasurer of the Trades and Labor Congress said the parliamentary enquiry disclosed that lack of workers' organization and dire working conditions go hand in hand. Mr. Draper continued:

"The lesson to be learned is that governmental regulation of industrial conditions, brought about through a public opinion which the workers themselves help to shape, is sound in its proper sphere, but it is not a substitute in any sense for the properly directed activites of workers' organizations.

"Herein lies the duty of all workers in Canada, to organize the unorganized. The proper maintenance of living standards, a more truly social economic organization, depends largely upon further organization of the workers and that gospel must be preached by labor in season and out of season. No truth has been more amply demonstrated in recent years. Unity, liberty and freedom of speech are fundamental factors to cultural development, social progress and the pursuit of happiness. Labor has always stood for liberty and unity, consequently irrevocably hostile to all dictatorships, whether they be of the proletariat, the oligarch, the nazi or the fascist types.

"Labor accepts the doctrine that no matter how great the errors of democracy, the errors of the dictators, political, military and administrative, have involved the world in farm more grave and dire consequences, culminating in making of most of the European nations a vast armed camp now engaged in a race in the manufacture of the most deadly and destructive air and land implements of war, aimed at the annihilation of humanity.

"Once again Great Britain with her virile free institutions, notably her great labor movement, shows greater progress towards a return to nomal conditions than all other countries across the Atlantic."

Rumors state that Mr. Wenige has named a police officer as mixed up in the kidnap plot.

IRRIGATION IS BIG WORRY IN CRESTON AREA

Growers Affected to Move to Secure Water

MEETING IS HELD TO DISCUSS PLAN

To Interview Putnam and Water Rights Official

CRESTON, Aug. 31— Practically every grower in the area from the Schade corner through to the Marshall place, near Alice Siding school, was out for a meeting at the Compton packing shed to devise ways and means of getting a supply of irrigation water for that particular district.

The chair was occupied by James Compton, with E. W. Payne acting as secretary. Mr. Compton briefly outlined the purpose for which the meeting was called, and observed that in view of the dry season at present prevailing, and of previous years when water could have been used to advantage, there was little need to dwell on the necessity of the move to secure a water supply.

Various plans to secure relief were submitted. Reference was made to the overflow from the Goat Mountain Waterworks company supply near the C.P.R. reservoir on the mountain, and there was also the present surplus from the East Creston system from Arrow creek, both of which would combine domestic with irrigation supplies.

GOAT RIVER

The most likely source of supply, however, was the old Goat river channel. With the putting in of less than 500 feet of pipe it would be possible to pump from this stream into a reservoir on the F. W. Ash ranch, which enjoyed the highest convenient elevation in the whole district, and would provide a gravity flow to all places in the proposed district, with possibly two exceptions.

Possible sources of supply featured the evening's discussion. Financing such a project was not seriously put forward the feeling being that until an estimate had been secured it was useless to talk cost. In the area to be served it was estimated there was between 400 and 500 acres. The meeting was informed that if a pumping system were put in the water rights now held by James Compton and W. A. Pease would be turned over to the district for a domestic system if such could also be installed.

The outcome of the meeting was the adoption of a resolution that F. Simister, N. Schade, George Nickel and E. W. Payne be named a committee to interview F. Putnam, M.P.P., and also to arrange, if possible, for Mr. Blaine, the provincial water rights branch engineer at Nelson, to make a preliminary survey and submit a report as to probable cost, and so on. When this is done another meeting will be called to further discuss the project.

Controversy Rages Over Painting of the "Annunciation"

"Annunciation," an oil painting on display at the art gallery of the Canadian National exhibition at Toronto, has evoked a heated controversy between artists and clergy. There has already been one storm of protests aroused over the painting when it was displayed in England. The work of Walter Evans, the picture depicts the Virgin Mary clad in blue pyjamas and an aviator in bright yellow. Critics claim the picture is in bad taste since it portrays the Annunciation, one of the most sacred mysteries of Christianity wherein the Virgin Mary was told of the coming of Christ by a messenger angel. The artist denies his work is in bad taste.

B. C. PAYROLL DROPS AGAIN DURING 1933

More People Working But Wages Are Smaller

NEW LEGISLATION FOR THE WORKERS

Minimum Wage Act and Orders Printed

The total pay-roll for British Columbia during 1933 amounted to $99,126,653.28, a reduction of $3,930,420.72 from 1932, according to the report issued by Adam Bell, the deputy minister of labor. The year 1933 was a particularly arduous one for the department the report continues, conditions tending to multiply its problems.

Since 1929 the industrial pay-roll has shown a gradual decline which was further accentuated in 1933. The decline in the industrial payroll is consequently reflected in reduced earnings of wage earners, while, at the same time, the average working hours of employees in industry show a decrease. The decrease in the payroll for 1933 is due entirely to wage reductions as there were more people employed in 1933 than in the previous year.

WAGES AND PURCHASING-POWER

"With each succeeding year of the slump it has become abundantly clear," the report continues, "that reduced earnings of those in employment have not had the effect of causing even a slight improvement in business conditions, but, on the other hand, has resulted in further restriction of output.

"Comparing 1929 with 1933, the average number employed per month decreased 41 per cent, and in the same period the amounts paid to wage-earners decreased 57 per cent.

"A study of the statistical section of this report reveals in many ways the seriousness of the times through which we are passing.

"During the year 1929, $145,120,325.98 was paid in salaries and wages by the firms reporting to this department, and for the year 1933 the amount decreased to $68,028,424.61.

"The 106,012 adult male employees reported during the week of employment of the greatest number in 1929 earned an average of $29.20, while in 1933 the number of adult males reported for the same period numbered 61,891 at an average of $22.30; thus each of the 61,891 employed were in receipt of $6.90 less than the average weekly wage paid during 1929, and the remaining 41,121 adult males were out of employment and, in all probability, forced to apply for relief.

"The average weekly wage shown above is for the week of employment of the greatest number, the department having no means of ascertaining the annual earnings of any employee.

"Recent developments have made it clear that, of the many measures proposed to bring back better business conditions, the process of wage reduction as a means of reducing production costs is being gradually discarded.

"It would be a quicker route to ultimate recovery to consider the question of overhead charges, which have become so large a part of the total cost of production.

"The opinion of those who are responsible for the payment of wages is undergoing a change, and the belief that high wages was one of the principal causes of our present condition is rapidly disappearing. The tendency of many employers in recent months to increase wages would appear as though it was now being realized that increased purchasing-power is the very center of any industrial recovery.

STRIKES

"Recognized by all as a waste of energy, the strike method of settling a dispute should only be used when all other means of conciliation fail.

"Unfortunately, we have a section of our workers who believe that, in order to be successful the men should walk off the job the moment new demands are presented. We have instances, during the last few months, when men have walked off the job and did not have enough wages due them to pay transportation to their homes.

"Trade unions of long standing realize the futility of a strike until all other avenues of mediation have failed.

APPRENTICES

"The continued decrease in the number of apprentices, as reported in our statistical section, is a matter which should engage attention of employers' organizations and those having the interest of the youth of our province at heart.

"During 1927 there were 1554 apprentices recorded; in 1929 they numbered 1676, and this number had decreased to 621 in 1933, a drop of approximately 63 per cent from the peak year.

NEW LEGISLATION

"At no previous session of the legislature has so much legislation benefiting the workers been passed as was done at the session held in 1934.

"'Interpretation act.'—Section 24, clause 18, was amended by including the day immediately following Christmas day (Boxing day) as a legal holiday.

"'Male Minimum Wage act.' — Since the above act came into force the board of industrial relations—composed of the following members: Adam Bell, deputy minister of labor, chairman, Helen Gregory MacGill, William Alexander Carrothers, James Thomson, and Christopher John McDowell—have been appointed; several sessions have taken place, and four orders made: Order No. 1, covering the logging industry, and order No. 2, covering the sawmill industry, effective April 27, 1934; order No. 2a, affecting tie-cutting operations, and order No. 6, relating to the occupation of taxicab drivers.

"Since the formation of the above board, Mrs. Helen Gregory MacGill has been made a judge of the juvenile court and tendered her resignation. Mrs. Fraudena Eaton has been named to fill the vacancy thereby created.

"The act and orders are printed below:—

"MALE MINIMUM WAGE ACT."
24 George V.
CHAP. 47.

An Act to amend and consolidate the "Male Minimum Wage Act."

(Assented to 29th March, 1934.)

His Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Assembly of the Province of British Columbia, enacts as follows:—

1. This Act may be cited as the "Male Minimum Wage Act."

2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires:—

"Board" means any adult male person who is in receipt of or entitled to any compensation for labour or services performed for another:

"Employer" includes every person, firm, corporation, agent, manager, representative, contractor, sub-contractor, or other person having control or direction of, or responsible, directly or indirectly, for the wages of, any employee:

"Minimum wage" means the amount of wages fixed by the Board under this Act:

"Wage" or "wages" includes any compensation for labour or services, measured by time, piece, or otherwise.
1929, c. 43, s. 1.

3. (1) Subject to subsection (2), this act shall apply to all employees in any industry, business, trade, or occupation, and to their employers.

(2.) This Act shall not apply in respect of farm-labourers or domestic servants. (New.)

4. (1.) For the purpose of the administration of this Act, there shall be a Board known as the "Board of Industrial Relations," which shall consist of five members, of whom the Deputy Minister of Labour shall be one, and shall be Chairman of the Board, the Chairman of the Economic Council constituted under the "Economic Council Act," being an Act of the present session, shall be one, and the other members, of whom one shall be a woman, shall be appointed by and hold office during the pleasure of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council.

(2.) The presence of three members of the Board shall constitute a quorum.

(3.) The existing or continuing members of the Board shall have and may exercise all the powers, duties, and functions of the Board, notwithstanding any vacancy in the membership thereof.

(4.) The three appointive members of the board shall be paid such allowance as remuneration for their services and for the expenses necessarily incurred in the performance of their duties as may be fixed by the regulations."

New Legislation Is Effective Today Gives Three Provinces Some Protection

OTTAWA, Aug. 31 (CP)—Insolvent farmers in Alberta Saskatchewan and Manitoba will tomorrow be in a position to take advantage of the Dominion government's new legislation under which they will be privileged to compose their debts along the lines of ordinary assignment procedure without the odium of bankruptcy itself and without loss of their means of obtaining a livelihood.

Proclamation of the act with respect to the three prairie provinces becomes effective tomorrow and it is anticipated the measure will be proclaimed effective in Ontario and Quebec for Oct. 1.

U. S. NOT NEGOTIATING OR REDUCTION DUTY ON CANADIAN LIQUOR

France Sees the Need of Faster Defence Planes

PARIS, Aug. 31 (AP).—An invading air fleet will wipe Paris completely off the map unless France gets faster fighting planes, the French air staff believed tonight.

Officials said the four day's aerial maneouvres, ending today, showed conclusively that the capital cannot, with present effectives, be defended against air raiders, and emphasized sharply the urgent need for speedier aircraft.

A force of rebuilt pursuit planes failed to match the speed of heavily loaded bombers, comprising the "attacking fleet," the average speed of which was 140 miles an hour

14 TAKE TESTS IN LIFE SAVING

Miss Gansner Puts Big Class Through the Rescue Work

Fourteen candidate for awards in life saving work, who had received their training in the life saving classes conducted by Miss Olivia Dickson, swimming instructress at Lakeside park, where given their examinations and individual water tests friday afternoon by Miss Elsa Gansner, an examiner for the Royal Life Saving society of London, England. Twelve of the candidates were from Nelson, and two were from Willow Point. The general showing of the class was very creditable, Miss Gansner said afterward.

The older candidates were seeking the bronze medals and intermediate or proficiency certificates, and the younger the elementary certificates, to which their age limited them.

RESCUE STUNTS

After answering the examiner's quizzing on theory, doing resuscitation work and then being put through their land drills, the candidates did their breast stroke and backward leg stroke qualifying swims, and then went through their rescue stunts, some of them compulsory, and others offering options. The duck diving from the surface, to bring up objects from the bottom, was the last stunt required.

In the case of those in the elementary class, less theory was required, and the qualifying swims were shorter.

The report of Miss Gansner will be forwarded through the British Columbia branch, and the medals and certificates conferred on those who have been successful will presumably be publicly presented by the mayor at some council session late in the year.

Alderman Ross Fleming, of the parks committee, was present at the trials.

Low Water Is Fish Barrier

Redfish Collection Limited to Branches of Kokanee Creek

Owing to the unprecedented low water, the mouths of Six-Mile creek and Redfish creek are dry, and inaccessible to spawning redfish, and consequently the collection of redfish eggs for the Dominion fish hatchery at Nelson will be confined this season to the three branches of Kokanee creek, H. C. Crawford, superintendent of Kootenay hatcheries, stated Friday.

Preparatory work on the fish traps was begun last week, and now the three traps are in place, and Saturday Ralph Hale will be placed in charge of them, and establish camp.

Normally the run starts the last week in August, though it takes little time to get really under way, and closes toward the end of September.

MALES COME FIRST

So far only a few fish are showing up, this advance guard, as usual, consisting of males. The first of the females should be coming up early in the week, though the males will predominate for some time. Toward the end of the run the females will predominate.

A collection of about 1,250,000 eggs will be aimed at, about the normal collection.

The redfish, or silver trout, or Kennerly's salmon, or fresh-water sockeye, as it is variously called, is the principal food of the large Kamloops trout, and is propagated in the fish hatcheries in order to replenish the food supply for this kind of game in British Columbia. It wears its red livery only during the spawning reason, which completes its life cycle, the fish dying after spawning.

Its capture on the bars at the mouths of creeks is prohibited, for it is there only in the spawning period. As the silver trout, it is taken in deep water by the ordinary trout lures.

Rossland Has Welcome for Young Solons

Boy Legislators Are Heard on World Problems

BURNS, ESLING GIVE GREETING

'Liquor Traffic, War Among the Topics Discussed

ROSSLAND, Aug. 31—A good-sized crowd gathered in St. Andrews United church Friday evening to listen to ex-premier "Jim" Ferris and his colleagues of the Older Boys Parliament, who are touring the province.

R. R. Burns, M.P.P., of Trail, acted as chairman, saying that as the youth of today would be the government of tomorrow, so the only hope of keeping Canada the brightest gem in the crown of the British Empire was for her young men to get acquainted with her problems and learn how to solve them.

ESLING POINTS TO WINNERS

Mr. Burns then called on W. K. Esling, M.P., who said he considered it a privilege to join in the welcome to the members of the Boys Parliament. The topic of discussion was "The Problem of Youth in the Light of Today." The youth of today had many problems, but he also had many opportunities, even in the smaller towns. In thinking over the boys who had gone out from Rossland, Mr. Esling recalled Dr. Arthur DeMuth and Dr. Edward Funk, who had achieved such honors in their profession, and Dr. Russell Bisson, who was following in their steps. The girls similarly could think of Mrs. Phyllis Gregory Turner, who had graduated from the Rossland public schools, won scholarships at the University of British Columbia and Bryn Mawr, studied abroad, and was now an economist in the employ of the tariff board at Ottawa, working out some of the hardest problems of the nation. All these had the same advantages which the rest of the Rossland boys and girls had, but by means of application and hard work they had forged ahead.

Gilbert Kay, member from West Kootenay, told of the object of the assembly, in helping the boys to live a four-square life, and introduced the visitors.

BOYS SPEAK

Bert Fidder, leader of boys work in Chalmers United church of Vancouver, expressed appreciation of the wonderful welcome given to the party by the people of Rossland. He outlined the life work which each of these boys had chosen, and introduced Art Anderson, minister of devotional affairs.

The latter stated that one of the biggest problems which the youth of today were facing was temperance. "We hear much talk of personal liberty," said the speaker, "but Socrates said no man was truly free who was the slave of a habit." In this day of keeping competition, not only between man and man, but between man and machine, a worker must be in possession of all his faculties. He believe that when the youth of today acquired the franchise, they would hit the liquor traffic a blow from which it would never recover.

Lyle Turvey of Chilliwack took for his topic "Friendship", and quoted Pythagoras as saying that friendship was one soul in two bodies. The gathering war clouds, this speaker said, could only be scattered by the right thinking people of the world promoting ideals of friendship between the nations as well as individuals. Christ, the great example, was friend to saint and sinner alike, and the youth of the world must follow Him.

"PRIEMER" ON BROTHERHOOD

Hearty applause greeted Premier Jim Ferris, who rose to speak along similar lines. He said the brotherhood of man was the great lesson the Christian church was trying to teach. Quoting from Paul, the great internationalist, "We are all one body," he said as each part of the body contributed to the general well being, so each individual had his contribution to make the state. Plato was the great philosopher of antiquity, but his was a world where the gulf between the hewer of wood and the aristocrat could not be bridged. Paul, himself a member of the ruling class, taught the brotherhood of man. The British commonwealth of nations was the greatest step forward in cooperative effort. Was it too much to hope, he asked, that one day there would be the United States of the world? For 116 years the 3000 miles of unguarded borderline between the United States and Canada had been setting an example to the world.

"Whom will you choose—Christ or Mars?" concluded the speaker. "We have outlawed war on paper, let us outlaw it in reality. Give Christ an opportunity in our lives, and out of caos He will bring peace, order and prosperity to our stricken world."

Selection were given by a men's choir, and a piano and organ recital by Mrs S. Simcock and Louis Freeman.

DUBLIN PRINTERS' STRIKE WEAKENS

DUBLIN, Aug. 31 (CP cable)—The outlook for settlement of the five weeks' printers strike which has prevented publication of newspapers in Dublin appeared more favorable tonight, following agreement of the printers to accept and set all copy unreservedly.

Hitherto the newspaper managers have refused to enter into negotiations pending the abandonment by the printers of the "censorship" rights they had claimed in regard to certain matters.

The way appears open now, however, to direct negotiations on wages and conditions of work, and it is expected that discussions, already opened, will result in a settlement next week of a basic agreement which may be submitted to the conciliation tribunal for formal settlement of the dispute.

Trail's Water Supply Sinks

City Will Need to Look for Further Source

TRAIL, Aug. 31.—Continued extreme dry weather is turning the eyes of Kootenay municipalities to their respective water systems, and in a number of cases councils see a necessity for planned development of their systems for the future.

Trail is in the happiest position of any city in the district, due to the foresight of precious councils. Extensive storage facilities built up in years past have enabled the city to carry on throughout an extremely dry summer without restricting sprinkling or otherwise endeavoring to conserve the water supply. But even at that, the city has in storage at this time only three months' water, whereas ordinarily it has six months'. If the dry weather should continue for another month or month and a half, Trail would face a serious situation, it is said.

Rossland and Nelson have sprinkling regulations in effect at this time. Tadanac is taxing its pumping system to capacity. So far Trail has had only to warn against careless wasting of water.

While Trail can count itself fortunate at this time, the situation also offers a warning of which the council might well take notice. Continued extension of gardening activities, both by the parks board and by individuals, will bring a heavier drain on the water supply. The growth of the city and the repeated addition of new services will further tax the supply.

Trail's waterworks system is capable of taking care of a population of 8000. The present population of the city is 7573. This means the city is rapidly nearing the limit capacity of the present system and new sources of supply must be investigated.

The present system consists of two reservoirs at the west boundary of the city, Violin lake, and a large storage dam between. There is also a small storage tank on Gorge creek, and an emergency connection with Tadanac.

From the intake on Cambridge creek an eight-inch steel main supplies a reservoir of 740,000 imperial gallons. This was installed in 1917 and is situated on the west boundary of the city. In 1931 a new reservoir, adjoining the old one, was constructed with a capacity of 960,000 imperial gallons. This was part of a relief program and brought the total storage in these two reservoirs to about 1,700,000 gallons, or sufficient to take care of the average summer consumption of the present population for slightly more than two days.

SUPPLY FAILS

Cambridge creek fails during the months of July to October and in the extreme cold of January. The natural flow is augmented by a storage reservoir of 22 million gallons about half way between the intake and Violin lake, popularly known as the Cambridge creek storage dam. This reservoir will hold roughly one month's requirements.

Violin lake is the chief storage body. This lake drains southerly into Washington state. There is a dam five feet high at the outlet which holds back much of the runoff and on June 12 of this year there was 51 inches of water over the floor of the old pumphouse.

A 12-inch wood main has been installed five feet below the pumphouse floor, and it runs 2700 feet into Cambridge creek. This provides a reserve of approximately 90 million gallons, and during the present dry season the supply has been exhausted by roughly 50 million gallons.

GOLF DRAWS ARE LISTED

Ladies Start at 9:30 This Morning; Men at 12:30

The West Kootenay golf championship play gets away at 9:30 this morning when Mrs. B. Townshend and Mrs. J. O'Shea tee off in the ladies' play. The championship flight of the men's play starts at 12:30 p.m., when T. R. Wilson and C. H. Stark tee off.

The entry list gives promise for a fine tournament and there are enough outside players to add color to it. Several are here from Kimberley, one from Cranbrook, one from Kaslo, one from Saskatoon and one from Victoria. Both the Leith cup and the Gosnell cups are at stake, the former for the men and the latter for the women.

Officials last night urged that all players be on time for their matches as they pointed out that the smoke was cutting the playing time very short these days and that if any holdups occurred it might seriously affect the completion of the tournament.

The men's second flight commences at 1:30 p.m. and the fourth flight at 1:50 p.m.

The following are the draws and the times:

SATURDAY MORNING

Ladies:

9:30 a.m.—Mrs. B. Townshend vs. Mrs. J. O'Shea.

Oxford Group Has a Successful Meeting

Evidence that the work of the Oxford Group in Nelson is gathering momentum was seen Friday night in the interest shown at a meeting of this movement in Redeemer parish hall, Fairview.

The meeting was led by Frank Stuart, and the note sounded was that of a "Christ-Centered World" through the medium of changed lives.

Testimony was given by various Nelson witnesses, as to changes in their own lives since meeting the group.

Trail Customs $7691 for July

TRAIL, B.C., Aug. 31.—Customs and excise receipts recorded at the Trail offices for the month of August were $7,691.15, almost double total receipts for the same month of 1933 when they amounted to $4,031.11.

Totals for the eight month periods of 1934 and 1933 are $34,642.22 and $17,523.11, an increase for this year to date of $17,119.11.

B.C. MAY GET WOMEN'S MEET

VANCOUVER, Aug. 31 (CP).—Canada may be the meeting place of the next triennial conference of the Pan-Pacific Women's association, members of the Canadian delegation reported on their arrival here today aboard the liner Empress of Asia from Honolulu, where the association concluded its third conference last week.

In spite of the fact the new president is Mrs. Tsune Gauntlett of Japan and there was a warm invitation from her country, Canada's invitation was received enthusiastically. Vancouver and Victoria are favored cities but Banff or a bungalow camp in the Canadian Rockies were mentioned as suitable places.

Definite decision will be made by a vote of the 14 member countries, 18 months prior to the date of the next meeting.

The last conference was attended by 50 overseas delegates from 10 countries bordering on the Pacific ocean.

MINIMUM FOR THURSDAY 45

Thursday night was the coolest in some time as the minimum went down to 45 degrees. The maximum was lower also than it has been for some time, being at 65. A considerable portion of the day was cloudy and the heavy smoke combined to make it quite dark.

PRINCE GEORGE'S ENGAGEMENT

The single state of three of King George's sons has been a matter of wonderment ever since they reached the marrying age. For quite a long time there have been rumors every now and then regarding their matrimonial intentions. But so often did these prove to be unfounded that they came to be regarded largely as so much idle talk. At last, however, a definite announcement in regard to one of them, the youngest members of the family, has been forthcoming. Prince George is engaged to Princess Marina of Greece. He has been a popular figure at home and throughout the empire, having traveled extensively in the dominions and in the crown colonies. From Alberta, to which he paid a visit with the Prince of Wales seven years ago this coming month, many good wishes will go out to him and his bride-to-be.

AMERICA'S CUP AMENITIES

The prevailing amity between the challenger and the would-be defenders for the America's cup races beginning on September 15 is plain to be seen, The Endeavour's wheel-horse for try-outs, the Vanitie, is also used for the trials of defenders, the Yankee, the Weetamoe and the Rainbow.

There is no censorship on Vanitie's various showings in comparison with the four headliners. It is common property, an open basis of comparison, for what it is worth. What of merit or demerit is open to all of the contestants.

The tuning-up of Rainbow, the new American yacht, is developing her capacity. The Yankee's initial successes are being wiped out by the newest defender, whose choice will probably be finally announced a week before the cup races start. Mr. Vanderbilt will not be disappointed in pitting his captaincy prowess of high order against the same qualities which have made Mr. Sopwith famous among British yacht skippers. This combination gives an assurance of high interest in the fifteenth race for America's cup, when added to competing craft, the last word in what is known as the sturdy "J" models as put together by English and American designers.

And while the Vanitie is in a different class, this wheel-horse herself was built as a cup contestant in 1914, when the outbreak of the war made cup competitions a minor affair.

There is no diminution of healthy interest in this year's fate of the America's cup, because of a sporting desire to see the next race sailed in British waters. It is a healthy sign of the times in the wider field of improved Anglo-American relations.

AN ATHLETE'S EXPERIENCE

Jack Lovelock, Oxford's famous runner, has rather upset a theory to the effect that swimming affects runners and reduces their speed. Lovelock has been taking swimming lessons. He now has written to W. J. Howcroft, a noted coach, to the following effect:

"A very brief and long overdue note, chiefly to thank you for the trouble you took in teaching me the crawl. I can scarcely tell you how grateful I am for not only has the crawl given me great fun and made my swimming a pleasure instead of an effort, but I am convinced that it has done a great deal to improve my running. It was you who first gave me the idea of relaxation and rhythmic breath control. The crawl has helped like the devil to make me relax in running, so much so that I try to get in a short swim each day as part of my regular training."

Most coaches believe that swimming does not mix with any other form of sport. There is the conception that it develops muscles that do not need development in that particular way for running, etc. There is, however, the instance of Karl Schaefer, the world's champion figure skater, who is also a noted swimmer, and also other athletes who have profited in their chosen sports by taking swimming exercise. The fact is that swimming, one of the most healthful of exercises, demands a greater conscious appreciation of relaxation and breath control than any other exercise. Jack Lovelock has hit upon the proper combination of the exercises of swimming and running.

Freight rate reductions, as provided in the decision of the board of railway commissioners, go into effect today. An example of the benefit to this district in the reduction in the rate on coal which is to be seen in the new charge from Fernie to Nelson. The new rate is $1.70 compared to $2.40. Similar reductions go into force throughout the entire west.

INTRODUCING BOUCHETTE

Down in Vancouver they have a couple of newspaper columnists who have a public in all sections of the province. I mention Jimmie Butterfield of the Province and Bob Bouchette of the Sun. James is high-hatting it with the Lords and Ladies across the ocean just now and Bob is carrying on in his usual manner. I have known this latter chap for some time but not as intimately as I do now. You see I played bridge with the Sun's star reporter and columnist and you learn a lot about a fellow over the bridge table, or any other table. Bob is an expert at the game, that is, he will pass in a crowd of average bridge players, but he's not so hot on scoring. However, I have one thing on him. When it came to the prizes I had to cut cards with Bob. He cut a king. I called an ace and cut it.

• • •

VERSATILE AND TALKATIVE

This Bouchette fellow is versatile to a great degree. He is an excellent conversationalist and likes to talk. Naturally he has a French-Canadian touch to his speech and his black moustache and wavey hair brand him of the old Canada stock. I would like to get Bob Bouchette and Gene Poulin together. There would be hands a-flying and tongues a-wagging. Conversant with any subject one wishes to choose Bob also has that ready wit which is so necessary in getting his stuff across in the newspapers.

• • •

BOUCHETTE A PLAYBOY

He is a lover of good sport and a bicyclist of no mean ability. Seeing him perched atop a bicycle seat on a trip around Stanley park's famed and beautiful drive one would never dream that such a diminutive and mischievious chap had such an accumulation of adjectives, synonyms and antonyms, together with a wonderful smattering of world affairs and historical events, tucked under his hatless head. Bouchette is a playboy. He admits that his publisher, Mr. Cromie, has said that "Bouchette will never grow up." Bob says he does not care to grow up.

• • •

LET BOB MAKE A SPEECH

If I were calling upon this somewhat sarcastic paragrapher for a speech, I would name the subject, "Canada and Its Sectionalism." He'd talk for hours upon it. As a second subject I would select that of "Music, Emotions and Interpretations." I don't know definitely if he is a musician. He may not be able to play a mouth organ, but he would lead one to believe he knows something about it. As a third subject I could call upon Bob to speak upon "Margaret's and Bob's Babies." He'll talk for hours upon that. But heck, I can do the same about my family.

• • •

THE PUBLIC AIMS TO AID HIM

Sitting with Bouchette down town where he is known, if not personally, but by sight by thousands of Vancouverites, I got a huge "kick" in the way people, his readers, greet him. They walked out of their way to say, "Hello Bob." They stopped him to give him ideas for his column. They offered to buy him a beer. They told stories about him which I did not believe. Bob was polite with one and all but bored to death at times. I sat back and listened and chuckled, for you see dear readers, while not as famous or as well known as Bouchette, this little column conducted by J. B. C. has got me into numerous similar situations in the Kootenays. I have come to the conclusions that all colmunists, or would-be column scribblers, go through the same tortures heaped upon their unsuspecting personages by ardent, and may I say, enthusiastic readers who are always willing to help a fellow out in some literary way. God bless their kindly gestures.

• • •

DO COLUMN WRITERS DIFFER?

At that I was happy to have an outing with Bouchette. I learned some new stories that are not printable. I found out that he believed in Vancouver only as a place to earn a living and hang his hat. He would just as soon be elsewhere under similar circumstances. But he writes thousands of words boosting Vancouver. Well that's no crime. There are only one or two differences between this man and myself. He writes real columns. I do not profess to do so. He gets his picture in his column. This leads to his identity being detected wherever he may be and under whatever circumstance or condition he may be in at the time. I don't have to go through all that. I haven't had my face in the papers yet. I can get by almost anywhere in a strange part of the country. He sometimes misses meals and arrives home in the wee small hours. Well there is something mutual in that. He has creditors. So have I. He telephones home that he is detained at the office and calls for "Mrs. B." I do that at times and call for "Mrs. J. B. C." He's temperamental. Well, so am I and I'm not a musician either. But after all he is not such a bad type to know. You can take what Bouchette says with a grain of salt. That's more than a lot of the readers of this column do at times.

• • •

A "CECRET CERVICE CYCLIST"

Bouchette belongs to "Cecret Cycling Corps Circumnavigating Coast Crossroads." So do I but I think Bob is a better Pedlar. You can spell it otherwise if you so desire. And dear readers Bouchette prefers to be called "Bou-chette" which rhymes with "freshet." He just can't take "Boushay."

THE HIRING

By "ETTRICK"

To those of us in the West accustomed to the more or less haphazard, happy go lucky methods of hiring farm labor, where one tumbles out of a side door pullman, in a small prairie town, and if lucky drives away with a farmer at $1.50 or $2.00 per day and board until the harvest is over, and then turned adrift again regardless, the cannie Scotch way of hiring would seem tedious and slow, but there is a dignity and tradition in the useage that makes the procedure a rite of solemnity and beauty.

Of course farm laborers or hinds as they are named in the Lowlands are hired from year to year. From November to November, permitting removals in the time of the year when there is least to do on the farm.

Mostly married men, this time of moving gives them a chance to get the produce of their gardens gathered and lets them get the new gardens set for the following year. It also lets the children start school near the beginning of the term.

So many things enter into the contract there. It is not just a question of so much per day or week, but the house must be considered, the size of the garden, how many pigs, chickens and cows may be kept, and the prospect of employment for the family. On many farms part of the wages are paid in kind. So many rigs of potatoes and turnips. So many bolls of meal and corn.

There are almost as many grades and castes as there are in India. The ploughman, the horseman, the cattleman and the shepherd are all specialists in their own branch and are paid accordingly, and on many farms in the hill district the shepherd is the highest paid and most valuable servant even ranking ahead of the steward or foreman.

The size of the workers' family is also a consideration from the farmer's point of view, as a ploughman with a well grown family can be depended on to provide the extra labor for the potato digging and the harvest and so the farmer does not need to provide for accommodation and board for outside help at these periods.

These hirings are supposed to take place at the big hiring fairs that are held during the summer in the various country towns. The most famous in the south being that of St. Boswells fair held at St. Boswells, and St. James fair held at Kelso. There the farmers and the help from all over the district meet to discuss wages, and conditions, and there the contracts for the year are made, but in most cases the bargains have been made a month before. The families having made up their minds to 'Bide or Gang,' and generally knowing where.

Of course there are always a number who wait until the fair in hope of getting better wages or a bigger house, or the few, and fortunately they are very few, who because of incompetence or general cussedness, find it hard to get and keep a place and so drag from fair to fair until at last they have to take work with some cross grained old farmer no one else will work for, or else not hired, have to depend on odd jobs until the next year comes round.

But such is not the case on a farm famed for good treatment and conditions. There the families stay on from year to year happy and satisfied.

Such a one we have in mind at this hiring time. The farmers father and grandfather, and their faither and grandfather before them have ploughed and sowed and reaped those broad acres.

The shepherds great grandfathers wandered through those green hills after generations of black faced sheep. Even the dog Jed, a silent shadow at the heels of the herd, is the descendent of a long line of famous sheep dogs.

Good times, bad times, war and famine have only knit closer together the relations between the 'Fairm Hoose' and the 'Fairm Hooses.'

A ploughman who has only been there five or six years is still a newcomer and a stranger.

Picture it on a sunny July day. The farm house, a big comfortable square stone building with slate roof lies sheltered among widespreading oaks and chestnut trees. Behind lies the kitchen garden and a small orchard. In front sweeping down to a hawthorn hedge that separates it from the main highway is a lawn, that has been rolled and watered and shorn for a hundred years. From the main road runs a shy little hill road past a deep pond where generations of the farm children have sailed their boats, learned to swim and fish for 'menants' and where when the frost holds sway the woods echo with the roar of stones and the cries of the curlers.

Then comes the steading, with its square clean buildings, the byre, the stable, the closes for the cattle, the cart shed, and the big barn, and then the stack yard, empty at present, but swept and clean ready for the treasures of the field to be stored. Then comes a field that has never known the kiss of a plough. Knee deep in lush clover laden grass the workers' cows graze there, and there at evenings in the summer come the lads and lassies, on their age old quest, to the milking.

Then comes a row of perhaps a dozen or so houses low built of native grey stone, with their slated roofs. Each with its little fenced in flower garden in front to the road and the long strip of vegetable garden with the pig hens at the foot behind, and always everywhere pigeons, white fan tails, blue and red homers and strutting Jacocins. On the other side of the road in splendid isolation stands the herds house, its back to the hill country and the wide straw cover sheep folds that are such scenes of activity in February and March at the lambing.

On every side lie the fields rapidly turning to a golden glow where the oats, barley and wheat are ripening in the sun. The haying is past and the great stacks stand like fragrant castles in the fields. It is the slack time just before the 'hairst' when the odd jobs are being done. The carts are being painted with the crudest of blue and red, yet it blends in the mellow sunshine. Binders are being overhauled and the harness looked to, while the big Clydes go lazy in the partures. There is no idleness, yet there is an air of leisurely breathing before the big labor of the harvest begins.

In the afternoon the 'Maister' has spoken to the steward, and the word has gone round that this evening the workers will be spoken to for the coming year.

It is an old farm, where the traditions, and customs have always been kept up, and so tonight the suppers and the milking are got over more expediously than usual.

Although everything has been settled long ago there is an unusual air of expectency everywhere, for it is rumored that the herd is going to move. Tonight there is no meeting at the spring, everyone is at their own house. The guidman tending the yaird, the guidwife sitting knitting at the door, while the children play around the place a little more decorously than is their wont. Only at the herds house is the door shut and the yard empty.

The sun was beginning to send its long shadows across the fields when the maister came through the wicket gate opposite the pond, and stepped into the road. He stood a minute gazing over the beauty of his land. Those fertile fields and then green hill pastures stretching up to where the heather was already beginning to glow in all its royal purple on the higher knolls, and away to where the blue line of the cheviots cut the gold sky. He could hear the singing of the teviot in the glen as it hurried to Tweed and the gurgle of the burn in the cow field. He looked down the dusty road to the row of houses and it seemed as if he had suddenly grown tired. He knew them all so well. Tam, a good man but hasty with horses. Alex a wizard with horses and cattle but thrawn and ill to get on with, and so on down the row till he came to the herd. Sandy, Sandy the best herd on Teviot water, Sandy, whose father and grandfather had been herds here before him. Sandy whom he remembered as a laddie, going to school and starting to herd with his father, all his life he had known him, and now Sandy was going to leave. The old farmer's step lagged, he had done this so many years, and was growing weary. Jimmie should have been doing this, Jimmy that two headed, bright eyed laddie should have been going down the row with a tow headed laddie of his own at his side, but Jimmie was sleeping with so many more border lads on the bloody slopes of Gallipoli.

He felt more tired. He could see again the boy on the bicycle coming up the road. The orange colored envelope in his hand. That orange colored envelope that held news that blotted out the sun and moon stars and made this fair land no more than a desert. Jimmie, his Jimmie would have meen a middle aged man now with—Well, he must go on and the maister steadied himself and lighted his pipe.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

A GOOD SHIFT

A three no trumps response to an opening bid justifies showing a suit which no other response would make legitimate, knowing that game must be possible, either at one of the two suits shown or at no trumps. The shift affords partner the opportunity to choose between the three possible calls, as is nicely illustrated by the hand today.

North: ♠ A 5 4 2 ♥ 10 2 ♦ Q 10 8 ♣ K J 8 3

West: ♠ Q 10 8 ♥ K Q 9 8 ♦ A 6 5 ♣ 10 5 4

East: ♠ 7 6 ♥ 7 6 ♦ K J 9 8 7 2 ♣ 9 7 6

South: ♠ K J 9 3 ♥ A J 5 4 3 ♦ 4 ♣ A Q 2

Bidding went: South, one Heart; North, two no trumps, showing one of two things, something like three Hearts to a Queen and better than average honors held in the hand, of poorer hearts and at least average honors; South, three Spades, which he knows partner will not support upon fewer than four, including an honor; North four Spades, ending the auction.

The hand was admirably played by South, obtaining maximum results. The opening lead was the 10 of Clubs, which went to declarer's Ace. The three of trumps was led. West covered with the eight. Dummy's Ace won. The six fell at declarer's right. Dummy's 10 of hearts was led, finessed, and lost to West's Queen.

The return lead was the natural one of the five of Clubs, as it seemed as if East held the missing Queen of Clubs. The declarer won with that card. To guard against accidents, and counting upon the probability that the missing trumps were held 2-1, South led the King of Spades, dropping all except the Queen without knowing which opponent held that top trump.

The Ace of Hearts was led, Dummy ruffed a low Heart. Dummy's King and Jack of Clubs were led. Upon the last of those honors the declarer discarded his only Diamond. Of course the holder of the top trump could have ruffed, but it would have made the same number of tricks which he did anyway.

As West did not ruff, the declarer led a low Diamond and ruffed with his nine. Dummy's last trump was employed to ruff next to last of declarer's Hearts, dropping West's King of Hearts. South ruffed another of dummy's Diamonds, using his last trump for that purpose. That was the twelfth trick. South led his last Heart, and West won the second defensive trick, by ruffing with his top trump.

As may readily be seen, neither Hearts nor no trumps would have been good calls. That three Spades, which few would dare bid on South's hand, worked wonders.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

MEN OF BRAINS?

The Editor, Nelson Daily News,

Sir—I hope you will be kind enough to find room in your paper for this letter some time in the near future. As I am dealing with some of the things that the Hon. H. H. Stevens spoke on when he was in Nelson last, and also with some items that I saw in the Daily News last week, I would like this letter to get before the public before they forget what I am writing about. The memory of the general public is very short, as the provincial elections of the last few months show very strikingly.

I would like to have been at that meeting when Mr. Stevens spoke. I could, I feel sure, have asked him some questions that he would have been hard put to answer. That is, if he answered them straight out, without any long winded evasions. You don't think that an ordinary working stiff could trip up a man of brains like Mr. Stevens? Is he a man of brains? Would the mess that this country is in tend anyone to suppose that any of the members of the present Dominion cabinet were men of brains? I think not.

I would like to ask Mr. Stevens just what his Marketing Act is going to do. Is it going to put money into the pockets of the consumer? If not where is it going to help the producer?

What these wise men of ours don't seem to be able to get through their heads is that as long as the consumer, the buying public, the average working stiff, be he day-wage worker, salary worker or farmer, as long as these people are short of cash—that is buying power—just so long will the producer be short of a market.

All the Marketing Acts and boards in the world won't help the farmers of this country for one minute if they do not raise the price of farm produce.

If they raise the price of farm produce the consumer will be able to buy still less and the farmer will be in the same hole as he is now.

If Mr. Stvens had spoken of cutting out the middleman—the big produce-handling companys—I might think that he was saying something, but he did not, and I wouldn't believe him if he had, that would be interfering with Big Business and that just can't be done, not under this social system.

As for the great excess-profits probe that the Dominion government pulled off—and that hon. gentleman spoke of so highly—that's just so much addital expence for the taxpayers of this country, and that's all.

Just keep your eye on it, Mr. Editor, and Mr. General Public, and see if they do anything to cut down the profits of these big companies. Mr. Stevens said that they were handing the whole thing over to a royal commission I very much doubt that we'll hear anything more about it.

I have yet to hear of a royal commission either publishing their findings or acting on them.

Its for the patch-work Socialism that the "Hon. H. H." and his particular branch of the lapotalistic form of government are going to bring in during the course of the next five hundred years, why even Mr. Stevens should know that it would not work. There are real economic reasons for the failure of the old capitalistic machine, and all the petty reforms that Mr. Stevens and Mr. Bennett and our own "Doubty Duff"—and all the rest of the well-payed servants of Sir Herbert Holt and the rest of the Big Fifty—would dare to bring in won't help us one step out of the slough of ruin that we're sinking deeper and deeper into all the time.

And here in British Columbia we are to bring on prosperity by putting 5000 families on the land. Five thousand city families on British Columbia stump farms. When the real farmers that are on farms already can't find a market for what they grow!

Could anybody outside a home for the blind, deaf, dumb and mentally missing conceive of such an act of cross stupidity? Could anybody? They could—in the legislative halls of the province of British Columbia.

We are going to bring on lasting prosperity by developing our natural resources! Ho. And where are we going to sell 'em? To a busted world that's in the same fix that we're in? Starving in the midst of plenty because they cannot pay a profit on that plenty.

Producing for profit instead of for use—the road to degradation and war!

THE FEAR OF AILMENTS

BY JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

Travellers whose word we can believe tell us that in various countries such as Africa and the South Sea Islands when a man learns that he has been "wished" to death by some one, he actually sickens and dies.

A true story by Louis Becke, mentioned by Dr. Merrick Singleton, speaks of the "soul catchers" of Manakiki Island in the South Pacific. A "soul snarer" was a small circle of cane about two inches across, with a fine network of fibre constructed from the sides towards the centre so as to leave a hole in the middle large enough for a bee to crawl through. A man wishing to be revenged on an enemy would hang the snare from a tree in some place where it could be constantly watched, scatter fragments of food beneath it to attract insects and await developments. If a single fly crawled through the hole the enemy's soul was "snared" and he was fated to die of a "wasting" sickness. Naturally when the news was brought to the victim that he was doomed he began to imagine himself ill and in all probability he would die of a wasting illness because fright would upset all the body processes.

It is said that this soul snaring custom is dying out with more enlightment of the natives, but it must be admitted that there are many in this civilized and enlightened age who allow the fear of certain ailments to actually cause a wasting disease that unless corrected in time may actually cause death.

The fear of cancer, and of heart disease has become a part of the very life of some individuals and they worry and waste away because of this fear. They are afraid to see a physician because he may tell them that they have the ailment of which they are afraid.

Now it is possible that this "fear" has been handed down in the family, and so the individual is not altogether to blame for it. On the other hand the fear may be due to some low infection in the system—teeth, tonsils, constipation—which has taken the "fight" out of the individual and left him a prey to fear.

Naturally there is only one form of treatment for these fears, psychoses as they are called, and that is a thorough examination by the family physician.

If the feared condition — heart, lungs, kidney, stomach, bloodvessels —doesn't exist, the fear can be banished. If any organic condition does exist, early treatment and proper care, will prolong life.

SEEK FREE PUBLICITY

A lot of good folks think that a newspaper is printed solely to offer a billboard on which they may publish their individual or collective ideas on this and the other thing. Now this theory is all right up to the point where it conflicts with the idea of who pays the cost of printing a newspaper. The advertisers and subscribers carry the load. But seekers for free advertising and free publicity don't care a hoot if they can catch an occasional newspaper asleep and get some free space. A newspaper receives enough propaganda to fill ever issue published. These publicity seekers don't contribute a dime to the expense of printing a newspaper.—Kingsville Reporter.

PROBLEM FOR JEEVES

P. G. Wodehouse, well known British author, has had a tax lien filed against him in the United States for $250,703—$123,826 original levy and penalties and interest of $126,877. This is effective against the many royalties he receives for the stories he sells across the line and his film right. It looks as if Jeeves would have to put on his thinking cap in dead earnest to get the popular writer out of this attack on his bank account.—Brantford Expositor.

MARVIN NELSON IS AGAIN THE WINNER OF BIG TORONTO SWIM

Only One of Favorites to Finish Cold Plunge

IS THIRD TIME HE HAS WON IT

Young, Gambi, and Blagden Fail to Finish

By A. E. BULFORD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LAKE FRONT, Toronto, Aug. 31 (CP)—Marvin Nelson won the Canadian National exhibition marathon for the third time tonight, notwithstanding an original field of 90 long distance natators who plunged into icy Lake Ontario in search of $5000 first money and the world championship.

The giant Ford Dodge, Iowa, swimmer crawled to wins in 1930 and 1933 and is the only one to have finished on top more than once.

Nelson swam the 15 miles in seven hours and 46 minutes, almost 46 minutes more than he took in winning last year in 7 hours and 37 seconds.

"Singing Bill" Goll of New York finished in second place, more than three-quarters of a mile behind Nelson. His time was eight hours and 13 minutes, 27 seconds.

Johnny Cairo, young Italian of Toronto, unknown in big time swimming circles, battled cold and exhaustion to finish in third place, one of the most startling upsets of the marathon record.

Dan Lembicki, East Windsor, Ont., athlete, came in fourth followed by Bill Sadlo of Corona, N.Y., who crawled from the water after 10 o'clock, more than 10 hours after the start.

The big Fort Dodge natator has earned himself $20,000 in his three victories, $10,000 in 1930, $5000 last year and $5000 for his triumph today. No other swimmer has ever captured the crown even twice and Nelson's three-time win marked him as without a peer in this field of athletics.

Nelson finished just as strongly as he had swum all day. He kept up his steady stroke of 62 to the minute and when he pulled himself onto the finish float showed no signs of distress. He said the water was "just right," although it was cold all day, fluctuating between 56 and 60 degrees.

Nelson, wore a broad smile as photographers went to work on him. He told the news reel men he was "a real Tarzan."

Nelson was the only one of the half dozen swim favorites to finish. George Young of Toronto and Philadelphia, heavily backed to win because of the cold water, was pulled out in the sixth mile.

GAMBI PULLED OUT

Gianni Gambi of Italy, who had led until Young took command was pulled out before the 1931 winner, George Blagden of Memphis, Tenn., also well thought of, went the way of the rest of them who found Lake Ontario's water too tough.

Nelson was coached by Johnny Walker, who has piloted more champions than anyone else.

He held back among the pack until the eighth mile when he moved up ahead of Johnny Cairo of Toronto, in command at the time.

The champion was 15th at the first mile, 11th at the second, eighth at the third, fifth at the fourth and fifth, and third at the sixth. He then moved up into second place and after taking the lead stayed on top.

NELSON'S TIME GOOD

His time was considered good in view of the cold water. For a time today indefinite postponement of the swim was considered when the water registered four degrees short of the 62 stipulated in the entry forms.

Elwood Hughes, exhibition general manager, however, hit on the scheme of calling off the swim and then substituting another with identical conditions, but with no hampering water temperature condition. The swimmers agreed and the race was started an hour late at noon. It had been postponed Wednesday and Thursday.

It was estimated 75,000 persons saw the swim but there was never more than 40,000 lining the mile-long course at one time. All they could see were swimmers' heads bobbing about in the water but thousands of them stayed for the whole eight-hour show.

Al Swaps a Couple of Golf Yarns

Gabby Harnett of the Cubs tells a good golf yarn on Lon Warneke. They were playing at the Tam O' Shanter Golf club near Chicago and Warneke spent most of his time in the rough. After the game Gabby asked Lon's caddy how he played "Well", said the boy, "the rough just naturally seems to be Mister Warneke's home address!"

Gene Conley, Babe Ruth's close friend and golfing partner, recently had a chance to break "eighty" for the first time at the North Shore Country club near Chicago with two fives needed on the 17th and 18th for a 79. Gene blew up and took a 9 and 10 and then his partner added insult to injury by accusing him of padding his score in order to keep from lowering his club handicap.

ROSS THINKS OUT LOUD SAYS JIM M'LARNIN

Vancouver Boy Says Is Stronger, Faster Than Last Time

CONFIDENT WILL DEFEAT MR. ROSS

Says He Deserved Tie at Least in Last Battle

By BOB CAVAGNARO
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

ORANGEBURG, N.Y., Aug. 31 — (AP). — Jimmy McLarnin took a busman's holiday today and talked about the assault he will make on Barney Ross's welterweight championship dynasty next Thursday.

The 26-year-old Vancouver belter was given the day off after going through a strenuous program Thursday. It wasn't exactly a day of rest because he arose at his customary hour—seven a.m.—and galloped over three miles of country roads with Trainer Charley Schoeneman.

Later McLarnin and Schoeneman set out on a 10-mile walk.

NEVER SO YOUNG

"I never felt so young in all my life," said the young veteran of 10 years of ring warfare, as he relaxed in his cottage a half mile from Gus Wilson's training camp.

Jimmy was reminded that Ross not only expects to retain the title he lifted from Jimmy but anticipates doing it by a knockout.

"If Barney wants to think out loud, it's okay with me," he smiled. "Barney's a great fighter but I'm going to prove I won the last fight. The worst break I should have gotten was a draw."

AT DISADVANTAGE

Jimmy said he was at a great disadvantage when he met Ross last May. The two fighters had a private agreement that McLarnin was not to weigh more than 145 pounds. The resonsibility of complying with the weight requirement preyed heavily on his mind and he weighed 2½ pounds under the limit.

"I wasn't over-condent in my last fight," he declare. "The trouble was having to make 145 pounds. We have no such agreement this time and I'll be at least 145 pounds when we meet next Thursday night.

"I'll be stronger. I'll be a much faster fighter, too, with a lot more endurance. I've changed my road work. In the past I'd merely trot for three or five miles. But for the past couple of weeks I've been alternating trotting with sprinting every half mile."

EVERYTHING READY FOR THE REGATTA

Launch Club Float Fixed Up; Also Judges Stand and Loud Speakers

Everything is in readiness for the Nelson Launch club regatta to be staged on Labor day here. Boat owners are working late at nights to get their boats in shape for the races and they stated that when the races begin they will have their engines in tip-top shape.

Launch club officials have been busy fixing up the Launch club float which they estimate will seat 300 people. All races will start and stop in front of this float. They have also rigged up a judges' stand and there will be loud speakers installed to assist the fans in following each more closely.

FIVE NELSON GIRLS READY FOR SPORTS

Undergoing Extensive Training for Labor Day Meet

Five Nelson girls are undergoing extensive training for the big Labor day track and field meet here Monday, and judging from their showing in practice sessions, Nelson is going to make a much better showing in the feminine section of the races and jumping events than in recent years.

Lettie Fleet, Jean Ramsay, Bertha Moir and Alice Dunn are all entered in the 100 yards dash and will compose the Nelson relay team against the fast aggregation lineup by Trail. Arla Saare is the fifth entry and will compete in the high and broad jumps. Lettie Fleet and Alice Dunn are also entered in the high and broad jumping events.

One of the most promising of the local girl athletes is Bertha Moir, 13-year-old youngster who many are predicting, as the future British Columbia champion in the 100-yard dash.

Slams Homer to Move Yankees Up in Standing

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (AP).—Tony Lazzeri swung his wooden axe today and chopped a half game right off the lead Detroit Tigers hold over New York Yankees in the American league pennant race.

The one swing, a home run wallop in the second inning, decided a mound duel between Charley (Red) Ruffings, and Jack Russel, sending the Yanks off to their second straight victory over Washington, 3-1.

The Yankee victory, coupled with Detroit's idleness, reduced the Tiger lead to 4½ games.

VANCOUVER, Aug. 31 (CP). — Lancelot, with the veteran Eddie Taplin up, came from behind with a terrific burst of speed to nip Medallion and Parisienne at the wire and win the handicap on today's program at Hastings park.

Medallion finished second and Parisienne third.

Apprentice Stucki added three more winners to his string today besides piloting two seconds and a third. He brought Nosegay home in front in the sixth to set a new track record of 1.53 2-5 for the mile

Baseball's Big Six

Heinie Manush and Bill Terry exchanged places in the Big Six standing yesterday, Manush going into third place, while Al Simmons dropped out of the sextet after a day in a fourth-place tie.

Manush collected two hits in four times up, sending his average up a point to .358 while Terry's one blow in four attempts lowered his mark by one point. Simmons also hit one out of four, dropping a point behind Charley Gehringer, the third American league entry. Lou Gehrig and Mel Ott each went to the plate without getting a blow, dropping two points a piece.

GOLF FACTS

NOT THEORIES!

BY ALEX MORRISON

No matter how often I call for questions following my lecture-demonstrations, there's always some individual who grabs me as I'm hurrying back to the theatre or my next appointment, and he usually expects a lengthy answer.

The other day I was asked what leg opsition I considered best for balance, a slanting position or a vertical one. Having time only for a short answer I simply pointed to a pillar supporting a beam in the ceiling and explained that the builders found the vertical positions, not the slanting one, best to support weight and therefore the most desirable for balance.

I added that, like the pillar, the leg supporting most of the body weight should be as near a vertical position as you can keep it.

PERRY PICKED RETAIN TITLE

Wood to Be Strongest Threat in Ranks of U.S.A. Players

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 31 (AP)—Frederick J. Perry, British Davis cup hero and world's ranking No. one tennis player, was made an outstanding favorite today to defend successfully the United States men's singles championship, starting tomorrow, despite some evidence of marked improvement in the homebread ranks.

Perry's chief opposition may come from the giant Czechoslovakian, Roderick Menzel, second "seeded" invading contender. Menzel is in the opposite half of the draw. Last year Perry beat Jack Crawford of Australia to lift the title.

Sidney B. Wood, Jr., of New York, although "seeded" only third among the American players, behind Frank X. Shields and Wilmer Allison, is generally picked by the "railbirds" to make the strongest title bid of the home guard.

FACES ENDEAVOUR ON SEPTEMBER 15

Millionaires Finance the Rainbow With Modern Devices

NEWPORT, R.I., Aug. 31 (CP)—Harold Vanderbilt's Rainbow was chosen tonight as the defender of the America's cup against the British challenger, T.O.M. Sopwith's Endeavor.

The international classic gets underway Sept. 15.

Rainbow's selections, announced by the New York Yacht club, came after she had scored her third successive victory over Yankee of Boston, sailed by Charles Francis Adams, former U. S. navy secretary, in the final selection trials.

Rainbow's third victory today was by the slim margin of one second, the closest finish in the history of racing so far as America's cup trial, final or cup competition is concerned.

Yankee had entered the final trials a prime favorite for the nomination, due to her top heavy string of victories over Rainbow in the earlier series.

However, bad luck took up its abode over the Boston boat after the final series begun. Earlier in the week she was forced to drop out while leading Rainbow by a mishap to her rigging.

Rainbow was financed by a group of millionaires, 17, it has been reported, and is equipped with a metal mast, bending boom and all sorts of mechanical devices. Four years ago Vanderbilt sailed Enterprise to victory over Shamrock V, the late Sir Thomas Lipton's last green challenger.

HAMILTON WINS

GLASGOW, Aug. 31 (CP cable)—Hamilton Academicals defeated Airdrieonians 5-0 in a twilight fixture of the Scottish Soccer league, first division tonight.

Hogs graded in Canada during the 32 weeks of 1934, up to August 9, totalled 1,882,717, as against 1,968,651 in the corresponding period of 1933.

KING COBRA

By MARK CHANNING

Who has lived for twenty-one years in the country that he so graphically describes.

All Gray's efforts to get into communication with the blind prisoner had failed. After his jailer and the escort had gone, he tried shouting to him but there was no answer. There was no response when he called "Galbraith!" with all the force of his lungs.

Some hours later he thought he heard the blind man crying out; but the sound became merged with the laughter of the hyenas and the noises of other wild beasts.

On the heap of filthy straw which served him as a bed Colin Gray sat staring into the inky darkness, wondering how it would all end.

Suddenly he lifted his head—listening.

Down the stone-flagged passage were coming nailed sandals. Three men, he judged. This time he was going to know where they were taking him before he'd consent to move a step. If he were shot for it—well, he'd be spared what poor Galbraith had endured.

Groping for a metal dish he had found in a corner of the cell, and the edge of which he had started to rub to sharpness on the stone floor, he took up his stand near the door.

As it was flung open, the light of the torch dazzled dhdim, and it was some moments before he could see that the two guards who accompanied the assistant-keeper of The Cobra's beasts were leaning against the opposite wall of the corridor, their rifle butts resting upon the flags. Evidently, something to his advantage must have happened in the world outside, for their attitude betokened a peaceful mission.

Gray found his attention drawn to the crippled, twisted torchbearer. Slowly the man's eloquent gaze dropped to an orange he was holding.

"You are to be freed," he said. "I give you congratulations—and this. It will refresh you."

As he handed him the orange, the juice of it wet the Englishman's fingers, and he knew it had been cut.

"Eat it— slowly!" said the gaoler, stressing the last word. "It is not good for the health to eat some fruits quickly!"

Gray stretched himself. Wise in the ways of the east, he knew better than to show too soon that he had understood. Nor did he ask any questions. Maybe the orange contained a key or a phial of poison. It certainly held some secret.

"I would like to return your kindness. Although I know not where I go," he went on, glancing at the orange as he spoke the words, "if you will come to me, wherever I be, I will give you—payment!"

The cripple nodded. He had understood.

"Give the reward to my mother!" he said meaningly. "I will tell her. It will mean more to her; for I eat not fruit!"

And turning, he started to lead the way to the upper air.

Accompanied only by the escort, Gray was conducted to the great door of the palace, where in the center of the many-pillared hall, stood a mountainously fat man dressed in a long gown of flowered white material. He was apparently awaiting Gray's arrival, his pudgy hands were folded across his paunch.

Respectfully Obesity saluted the ex-prisoner, scrutinizing him with small, quick eyes set in cushions of pale fat.

"Of your kindness be pleased to follow this worthless slave!" he said obsequiously, and started to lead the way.

Before a door, in front of which was a gigantic Nubian sentry holding a naked scimitar, Jaffir halted.

"Be pleased to enter." Jaffir was still obsequious.

They were now in a set of apartments the gorgeousness of which Gray had never imagined in this ancient walled pile of domes and minarets. Evidently the palace had been built in the time of the crusades—and under the influence of Moorish art.

"My lord will be pleased to unrobe! The Khan sahib has ordered that everything you wish shall be given to you!" And, bowing profoundly, the eunuch left him.

Immediately he found himself alone Gray tore open the orange and took out the folded, juice-sodden paper, with difficulty deciphering the writing.

"This is from Diana Lindsay, daughter of the English Resident in Labak. I am in grave danger. Is a rescue force in its way? Who are you?

D.L."

For a moment the thought of Diana's nearness held him spellbound. Then came reaction. The thought of the host of formidable difficulties that stood between his getting to her made him clench his hands until their sinews cracked. Somehow he must get an answer to her . . . Somehow he must help her!

The sound of Jaffir's slippers on the marble pavent as he came to lead him ceremoniously to the bath caused him hastily to swallow the paper.

The eunuch's satellites worked swiftly and well. Even Jaffir the obese was moved to give his admiration to the transformation effected in Gray's appearance.

"Bring food for this prince among sahibs!" he called. Then addressing Gray, he continued: "Let the Presence seat himself and eat."

But a new thing happened. The eunuch struck his hands together again. Gray raised his eyes. Towards him was coming one of the most beautiful girls he had ever seen.

The profusion of richly spiced dishes of quails boiled in goats' milk and stuffed with raisins, savory morsels of lambs' flesh cooked on skewers, and fragrant mangoes, the flesh of which melted like butter in his mouth, soon appeased Gray's ravenous hunger. . . .

"My lord finds his slave pleasing!" The girl's voice was extraordinarily like Diana's!

The Greek had sunk on her knees before Colin as he reclined on a large divan littered with silken cushions. The attendants had taken away the table and its many gold and silver dishes, and she and Gray were alone.

"You are indeed beautiful!" he answered. "What is your name?"

"Call me only 'She Who Loves'!" answered the girl softly. "For I do love thee!"

She passed a caressing hand over Gray's arm, her eyes wide with astonishment as she felt the swelling muscles beneath the silken sleeve.

"You do not know me!" he answered, laughing. "How can you love one you have never seen before?"

He was thinking hard. How could he answer Diana Lindsay's letter? . . .

"To see you is to love you my lord!" went on the Greek. "You are as the crescent moon when it cuts the night: all the world looks at you whenever you come. Will you not love me, O Moon of my Soul?"

Reaching out, Gray caressed her glossy black hair.

"Dance for me," he said kindly. "But, first, give me to drink, for the dishes I have eaten have made me thirsty."

With a supple movement the girl rose, and taking a flagon of sherbet from out of its bed of snow, she filled a cup almost to the brim and brought it to him.

Sweet low music filled the incense-laden air.

Raising her arms above her head, the girl moved slowly away from him like a flower swayed by the wind. Gradually the music quickened. A far-away soft throbbing of drums was beating . . . or was it his pulses? Gray neither knew nor cared. He only wanted to see this beautiful woman dance!

Longing—the joy of loving— the seduction of it—the ecstacy of love returned—this girl danced them all, her eyes lit with the desire that made her lithe beauty burn before him like the veritable flame of passion that it was.

Somewhere a gong sounded softly.

The dance ended, and with an indescribable gracefulness she subsided on to the cushions beside him with little nestling movements, like a bird settling itself for rest.

"Love me," she murmured, slipping a cool arm round his neck and stroking his face gently with her other hand.

For a moment he abandoned himself to the sensuousness of it all—the smooth warmth of the dancing girl thrilling him to forgetfulness . . . Was it not a dream—everything that had happened?

The beautiful Greek stretched her long slimness beside him, the little golden bells on her wrists and ankles tinkling musically, and laid a flushed cheek to his . . . In vain he tried to lift himself, that he might push her from him . . . But his limbs were powerless. His mind seemed to inhabit a dead body. He could think clearly, but that was all.

Again and again she kissed him, his arms lying passive about her neck just as she had placed them.

Yet through it all he knew, with a strangely vivid certainty, two things: that the sadhu was fighting some evil power on his behalf; and that Diana Lindsay was looking down at him.

Both these things were, in fact, at that moment happening.

APPLE EXPORT PLACED UNDER CONTROL BODY

Pears Also Will Be Regulated by Board

WEIR ANNOUNCES BOARD'S LINE-UP

Licences Obtainable at Kelowna for Export

OTTAWA, Aug. 31 (CP)—Export of fresh apples and pears has been placed under a control board of growers, it was announced today by Minister of Agriculture Robert Weir. The board will regulate the flow and quality of fruits to foreign markets under authority of the new marketing act.

The following were appointed to the board: L. F. Burrows, Ottawa, who will be chairman; Manning Ells, Port Williams, N.S.; V. B. Leonard, Clarance, N.S.; P. W. Hodgetts, Toronto, and O. W. Hembling, Oyama, B.C. Its head office will be in Ottawa.

The powers of the export board will include regulation of the movement of apples and pears to any country and it may prohibit shipment of any quantity, size or quality of fruit. All fruit growers may be registered by the board and all exporters will be required to obtain a licence.

Export licences may be obtained from the board at its agencies at Kentville, N.S.; Toronto and Kelowna, B.C.

Under the plan, as approved by the federal cabinet, the board may cover its expenses by assessments against fruit exports. Under the Dominion Marketing act, penalties were provided for contravention of an order of a local board, such as the fruit export board.

BRIDGE RIVER UP AT COAST

Leads Strong Rally to CClose With an Advance of 13

VANCOUVER, Aug. 31 (CP)—Bridge River Exploration led a strong rally on the Vancouver stock exchange today with a gain of 13 at 1.03. Trading was strong. Sales totalled 378,942 shares.

Bar Gold Makes Another Advance

MONTREAL, Aug. 31 (CP) — Bar gold in London up nine cents to $34.49 an ounce in Canadian funds; 140s 11½d in British funds. The fixed $35 Washington price amounted to $34.30 in Canadian.

EARLY GAINS AT WINNIPEG LOST

Wheat Closes With But a Little Advance After Hedging Sales

WINNIPEG, Aug. 31 (CP)—Renewed bursts of hedging sales in late dealings swept away earlier hard-won advances on the Winnipeg grain exchange today. Wheat futures prices closed ¼ to ⅛ cent higher, October at 81⅝, December 82⅝ and May 8½ ⅝ to 86¾ cents.

Aided by unfavorable weather reports from all parts of the west and higher prices at Liverpool, values had shown strength for most of the session. Generally, however, the market today was featureless.

Demand for durums in cash grains continued good, but interest in other grades of wheat was indifferent. Coarse grains futures were dull, following the action of wheat.

Suggest That B.C. Board Be an Agent

Would Eliminate Any of the Constitutional Trouble in Marketing Act

VANCOUVER, Aug. 31 (CP)—Appointment of the British Columbia marketing board as agent of the Dominion marketing board to eliminate constitutional difficulties affecting the administration of the Marketing act has been suggested to Ottawa by Hon. K. C. MacDonald, minister of agriculture.

Mr. MacDonald declared here that the provincial board could then act on its own authority in provincial matters and as agent of the Dominion board in interprovincial and export matters.

Legal authorities contended that, since the Dominion did not constitute the provinces but was itself constituted by them, it cannot delegate authority to the province to control products marketed within its boundaries. They claimed the Dominion should retain direct control over licencing and regulation of all products.

STERLING LESS THAN $5 MARK

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (CP)—Sterling today carried its decline in the last nine days to 10⅝ cents.

Closing at $4.99¼ in the foreign exch nge markets here today, the pound showed a loss of 2¼ cents. It marked the first time the sterling rate had fallen below $5 since January.

The Canadian dollar yielded the smallest fraction, closing at 2 1-16 per cent premium against 2¼ yesterday. The French franc remained steady and unchanged at 6.69½ cents.

APPLES AND PEARS MOVING

Kootenay Gems to Start Next Week

The apple movement from the Associated Growers at Nelson has started for the year, stated W. M. Vance Friday, three cars having rolled already this year.

The three cars have been Gravensteins and Wealthies from the Arrow Lakes district. A car of fancy Gravensteins will roll from Queens Bay next Tuesday for eastern Canada.

This coming week will see great activity in apple shipments and Kootenay Gems, especially from the Arrow Lakes will be moving.

Bartlett and Flemish Beauties are moving in the pear class, in fair quantities.

WALL STREET IN DULLEST OF DAYS

Pre-Holiday Spirit and Big Strike in Offing Is Cause

By FREDERICK GARDNER
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (AP).—The stock market flattened out into a lifeless drift today as pre-holiday stagnation settled over financial quarters.

With the Labor day recess in the offing and a big textile strike looming, traders withdrew to the sidelines. One of the dullest months in the memory of the present generation in Wall street came to an end appropriately in an almost motionless stock market.

Rallying power in stocks was feeble despite four sessions of slow decline.

McDONALD HEADS LUMBER DELEGATES

VANCOUVER, Aug. 31 (CP)—J. H. McDonald of New Westminster will head the British Columbia lumber interests' trade extension committee to South Africa, lumbermen having selected him at a meeting here.

Other members of the committee are A. T. Robson of the Timberland Lumber company, New Westminster, and R. C. Cherry of the Sterling Lumber company, Vancouver, P. Z. Caverhill, chief forester for British Columbia, will accompany the delegation as secretary.

The committee will leave for South Africa September 15, travelling by way of England.

HOLLINGER GAINS ON TORONTO LIST

TORONTO, Aug. 31 (AP).—Central Patricia's 4-point jump to 1.20 to set a new 1934 high level ushered out the summer session on the mining section of the Toronto exchange today as traders left the floor until resumption of activities Tuesday morning.

Hollinger scored a 5-point gain at 19.50. Lake Shore fell to 56.00, down 1.00. Dome pulled up to close at 43.80. Teck Hughes fell back 10 points to 6.50. McIntyre shot to 47.25, up 50.

GROWERS OF KOOTENAY SEEK PLACE ON BOARD ADMINISTERING MARKETING

Squires Named to Act Temporarily; Executive Sessions in Nelson

Growers of the Kootenays are attempting to secure representation on the advisory committee which will administer the Marketing act in British Columbia, and yesterday J. J. Campbell of Willow Point, G. S. Squires of Robson, and H. Fairbank of Harrop, the Kootenay committee named to deal with marketing representation, discussed pros and cons of the situation. Numerous other growers who were in Nelson sat in on the meeting.

Kootenay growers, it was pointed out, had asked and were promised representation on the committee by the Okanagan people. The purpose of Friday's meeting was to remind the parent body of the Kootenay request. It was pointed out by growers that numerous things vital to Kootenay growers would have to be dealt with under the marketing scheme, and it was imperative that the district should have representation so that first hand knowledge of conditions could be imparted.

C. S. Squires was named by the committee to act in an advisory capacity until such time as the Kootenay growers have been invited to name a permanent representative. When this occurs, it is planned to call a general gathering of Kootenay growers to name the representative.

Among the eight bills affecting agriculture which became law during 1934 session of the Dominion Parliament was an act to amend the Canada Grain act. The changes in this act place the statutory grades of No. 2 Manitoba Northern wheat on the same basis as No. 1 Manitoba hard and No. 1 Manitoba Northern in so far as milling quality is concerned, and also empowers the Western Standard committee to deal with the different varieties of grain which may be developed from time to time, so that they may be graded to the best marketing advantage without interfering with the quality of the main Canadian standard grades.

There has been more tomato puree, tomato sauce and ketchup, and tomato soup imported into the British Isles from Canada than from any other country during the first six months of 1934.

The Irish Free State has decided that in addition to the present bonus of five dollars per cwt. (112 pounds) to exporters of bacon, an additional 96 cents per cwt. be given as an "encouragement bounty" to each exporter who has exported two-fifths of his sub-quota, and to the exporters who have completely filled their sub-quotas a bounty of $1.44 per cwt. as well as the bounty of 48 cents per cwt. on the first two-fifths. With regard to live pigs, an increase of $2.40 per pig is to be made on the present 25 per cent bounty.

Coast Exchange to Close Till Tuesday

VANCOUVER, Aug. 31 (CP)—The Vancouver stock exchange will be closed Saturday, September 1, and Monday, September 3, on account of the holiday week-end.

CHICAGO WHEAT REMAINS STEADY

Forecasts of Huge Crop Failure Fail to Boost the Prices

By FRANK MULLIN
Associated Press Market Writer

CHICAGO Aug. 31 (AP)—Forecasts of private experts that the crop failure in the United States this year will be without parallel in history failed to stir the grain market out of its lethargy today, largely because these predictions, though sensational, were expected.

Instead, traders generally disregarded except to satisfy themselves that wided the grain production estimates spread drought has seriously depleted the United States' crop yield even since August 1.

Wheat closed unchanged to 1 cent lower than yesterday's finish, September options showing the greatest loss. New September ended at $1.02 to $1.02⅛, off ¾ to 1 cent. December new finished at $1.03½ to $1.03⅝ and May at $1.04⅞ to $1.05.

CAR LOADINGS IN BIG JUMP

47,495 for Week Is Largest This Year

OTTAWA, Aug. 31 (CP)—Car loadings during 1934 have been well above 1933 loadings each week and, for the majority of the time, above 1932 loadings, but the total of 48,220 cars for the week ended August 25 was the first to exceed the 1931 total which, for this week, was 47,495 cars, the Dominion bureau of statistics states. This was the heaviest loading so far in 1934 and the index number also reached a peak at 78.65 as against the previous high of 77.45 in April. For the week ended August 18 last, car loadings amounted to 43,828 cars and for the week ended August 25 last year the total was 41,887 cars.

Heavy loading of grain in the western division was an important factor; the increase being 3939 cars over the previous week. Coal also increased by 252 cars in the western division, ore by 148 cars, merchandise by 104 cars and miscellaneous by 188 cars and the total of 19,103 cars was up 4555 cars.
