DEPUTATION FROM GROUP IS RECEIVED

Lennie, Cruickshank, Sheffield Act For the Government

NO TAXES, NO SCHOOLS ARE RALLYING CRIES

Reported "Peace Move" Is Failure; Will Recognize No Laws

VICTORIA, Sept. 9—Doukhobors of the interior of British Columbia made a peace move today when they forwarded a request to the government for a conference at Nelson at which the education of their children and other outstanding causes of friction would be discussed. The attorney-generals department announced that the government would be represented by R. S. Lennie, who has been acting as its special counsel in handling the Doukhobor problem, and by Inspector Forbes Cruickshank of the provincial police and Inspector P. H. Sheffield of Nelson.

Hon. R. H. Pooley, attorney-general, announced that eight children who have been taken from their parents will be brought to the coast immediately and placed in children's aid homes. The attorney-general said that this was simply to ensure them of a proper education, which they cannot secure in their homes when their parents refuse to let them go to school. They will be treated with every attention and properly educated, he said.

The peace conference between the government representatives and the Doukhobors will be held immediately, Mr. Pooley believed. As a result it may be possible to restore the children to their parents.

That the Sons of Freedom would recognize neither tax laws nor school laws and would be their own judges as to whether they should indulge in nude parades, was declared by a delegation from the band encamped at Nelson, that waited on R. S. Lennie, K. C., yesterday morning.

SONS SEEK INTERVIEW

Over the weekend Mr. Lennie, special prosecutor of the Doukhobor cases tried here last week arising out of the nude demonstration at South Slocan August 29, was asked if in his capacity as representing the attorney general he would receive a deputation from this visiting band, which came here to lend moral support to the nude paraders on trial, 104 of whom were convicted and sentenced to Oakalla, He agreed to hear what the deputation had to say, and yesterday morning was the date fixed for the interview.

It took place in the office of Inspector Forbes Cruickshank, head of B division, provincial police, there being present with Mr. Lennie, E. G. Matthew, who was his assistant in prosecuting the Doukhobor cases, P. H. Sheffied, inspector of schools, Inspector Cruickshank, and Corpl. E. H. Paterson, stenographer. Mr. Sheffield and Inspector Cruickshank being deputized with Mr. Lennie to represent the government.

Fred W. Pepin, of the Grand Forks colony, was spokesman and interpreter for the deputation, the other members being William Chernenkoff, Larry Chernenkoff and George Wlosoff, of Grand Forks; Nick Samorodin of Slocan Park and Mike Hadakin of Brilliant.

OPPOSE TAXES, SCHOOLS

In opening the conversation Mr. Pepin explained that following a visit ot their camp Sunday by Mr. Sheffield, they wished to put forward their views. First he mentioned the Doukhobor principle of opposition to military service, from which arose their opposition to all taxes, was revenue, and all that went toward war, as well as toward support of the government.

Then in Canada they were forced to send their children to school, to be taught the Canadian way—something they could not consent to. They claimed freedom to live up to these two principles.

He explained that the band moved up from the camp to the courthouse to protest against the trial and to explain its views, whic hwere that the government should not sue peace-makers or lovers of Christ.

"We have come to the conclusion,"

EARLY CROP OF TOBACCO BEST

Experimental Farm Man Tells of Advantages; Has Better Quality

The importance of producing an early crop of tobacco appears so obvious that it would scarcely seem necessary to enumerate the advantages, states T. G. Major, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Nevertheless, year after year, favorable or unfavorable spring, there are growers who delay their transplanting until the end of June or even the beginning of July. Then when the early frost comes, in the fall, and finds their crops still standing in the field, they blame everybody and everything but themselves.

The advantages of an early crop begin as soon as the tobacco is put in the field. Transplanting early in June gives the grower plenty of time to replace plants injured by cutworms and wireworms. The plants have a good growth before the hot dry weather comes in July, and are able to take full advantage of the warmth. As a result, they are ready for topping before the end of July.

The three weeks following topping are most important in developing the leaf. In the case of late topped plants, this maturing period is delayed into the shorter days and cool nights of September. Under such conditions, the quality unquestionably suffers. Furthermore, the yield is adversely affected by late topping, since the growth and filling out of the remaining leaves is slowed up by the colder weather.

GREATEST DANGER

The greatest danger with late crops is undoubtedly due to the frost hazard. In Canada frost may be expected after the first week in September, and every effort should be made to have the tobacco in the barns by then. Even if the crop escapes frost, it generally encounters poor curing weather, if cutting is delayed until the end of September Pole sweat and other curing barn troubles are likely to develop. The color of late crops is poor, much green immature leaf occurring. In addition the burn is not as good.

Considered from every angle, therefore, an early crop of tobacco is distincly advantageous. It has better quality, and the yield is higher. The grower with an early crop has everything to gain and nothing to lose.

Annual Gathering Of Oldtimers At Invermere Success

INVERMERE, B.C., Sept. 9.—The second annual gathering of the Pioneers Association of East Kootenay which was held here was a pronounced success in every way. The rain of early morning deterred many from attending from outside points who had long looked forward to the event but even then the atendance of some 600-odd persons showed that the vigor of the old timers was not in any way impaired and that the strength which had enabled them to face exigencies of years gone by was still theirs.

The final act in the celebration centered at the David Thompson Memorial Post when as the afternoon closed in, all asembled under the spacious roof of this wonderful building and partook of a beautiful supper which was followed by many short speeches and ended up with an impromptu dance with old time figure features, which gradually merged into the more modern dances to the joy and pleasure of the young.

J. P. Fink, the president from Cranbrook, presided throughout. Amongst the more distinguished of those present were, His Honor Dr R. Randolph Bruce, the lieutenant-governor of the province and suite; Hon. Dr. J. H. King, federal member for East Kootenay and a member of the government, Hon J. H. Buckham, M.P.P. Others were present who had come from Kimberley, Wasa, Fort Steele, Cranbrook, Golden, Brisco and Spillimacheen.

The lieutenant governor and his aides, Captains Ian MacKenzie and Lambert, were resplendent in full Highland costume, having come straight away from the Scotch gathering which was held the same day at Banff. The distinguished visitors and many of the old timers were privileged to address their fellow associates in five minute speeches from the dias.

Among the old timers whose presence on the grounds was noted was Baptiste Morigeau, born in East Kootenay in 1840; Robert Jackson, who bears the honored Indian name of Tonnace Bob; Rufus A. Kimpton, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pitts; Douglas Grainger Harry G. Parson; E. M. Sandlands; Noel A. Wallinger; Charles A. Warren; and Mrs. Joseph La Montaigne; James Lambert; James L. McKay; William W. Taynton; S. Hope Brewer; Ed. Watkins.

His Honor Dr Randolph Bruce led the grand march with Mrs. Joseph Lake on his arm.

S. Hope Brewer enjoys the distinction of being the first known white child to have been born in East Kootenay, first seeing the light on Perrier Creek, near Fort Steele. Robert Jockson is the only known white person alive who has lived continuously within the boundaries of East Kootenay since his advent in 1883. Baptiste Morigeau of the age of 90 years, now a resident in Alberta, was the centre of congratulations from his many friends. He was born at the headwaters of the Elk River.

FOREST FIRES MINIMIZED BY COOL WEATHER

Fire Total for Season Mounting Less Rapidly; Costs $330-000

Continued cool weather throughout the Nelson forest district has decreased the fire hazard so materially that latest reports from the forest branch find that no critical situations exist.

Extraordinary smoke that rolled into the valley over the weekend appeared to have come over the international boundry in the face of a strong south wind that blew from that direction all through the day.

Forestry officials state that the country included in the boundary district is still in great need of rain to totally dispel the hazard that is becoming prevalent again. Even more so since the hunting season naturally attracts careless campers into the hills during the month of September and early in October. These months, in certain years gone by, have, according to records, resulted in the most costly fire season of the whole year.

Last week there were reported 73 new fires making a grand total for the season of 991 fires. At the end of the week there were 96 fires burning throughout the district. Total costs for mated at $330,000.

Remnants of the spot fires on Toad mountain, though they present no immediate danger, are being patrolled in order that all possibility of their breakthe season to date have been approxiing away in the face of a stiff wind may be minimized.

Forestry branch intimated last night that at present there were comparatively few men employed on fire lines throughout the district.

the spokesman told Mr. Lennie, "that we cannot fulfill any man-made law." He said the Sons of Freedom were striving for freedom universally, and believed the present civilization was said, was persecuted for explaining this headed toward destruction. Christ, he truth. "We do not want to break the peace, but seek the truth with deeds and not only words," he summed up.

LIMITATIONS OF AGREEMENT

Mr. Lennie ascertained by questioning that the Doukhobors understood that the agreement with the Dominion government under which they came to Canada guaranteed them freedom of religion and exemption from military service, provided that they need not become British subjects, and set their expenses at $10 for surveying each tract of land and $2 for road fund. Asked if they claimed any special privileges not claimed by the Doukhobors under Peter Verigin, and if they were under his authority, they stated they were under Christ alone.

It was then set forth to the deputation by Mr. Lennie that while the Dominion government, acting for the whole of Canada, had control of immigration and could grant exemption from military service, and while it could set the terms on which lands it held could be acquired, it had nothing whatever to do with provincial taxation, to which all lands within a province passing to private ownership were subject.

SUBJECT TO SCHOOL LAWS

Further, Mr. Lennie explained, all persons residing in a province were subject to its school laws, in regard to which the Doukhobors, as well as in regard to taxation, were in exactly the same position as any British Columbia citizen. No agreement could be made by Ottawa which could exempt them from compliance with local laws.

As to taxes being for military purposes, he pointed out that no monies raised by provincial authorities were so used, whether derived from land or income, while the school taxes were specifically for the maintenance of the schools and educating the children of the province.

In regard to schools, Mr. Lennie pointed out that the laws of British Columbia provided that every child over seven years must attend public school during the regular school hours every day, this applying both to their children and to his; and that every parent or guardian who failed to comply was guilty of an offence and liable to a fine not exceeding $10, each day's continuance of such failure or neglect constituting a separate offence.

WON'T RECOGNIZE DECREES

Setting forth their views further, the Sons of Freedom spokesman said:

"When we first came to Saskatchewan under the agreement and this thing did not come out right, we had to leave. We were breaking the laws in the first place. Our land and all the work we put in were then worth nearly $10,000,000.

"We also wish to state that we are not in the same stage that we were in before, but are growing, and also we do not recognize these laws any more than are in opposition to our religion."

NO TOLERATION OF INDECENCY

Mr. Lennie replied that while the Doukhobors were entitled to their religion, if it infringed British Columbia's laws it could not be tolerated. He said he was particularly referring to their undressing as a protest against any actions the authorities might take against them "We have many religions in British Columbia," he said, "and the government does not interfere with them so long as they carry out the provisions of our laws, but the moment there is infringement of the laws, we propose to see that they are enforced."

This drew the retort from the Son of Freedom leader that "We say we are against nude parading except where we are forced to it."

"We will not tolerate it, whether you consider you are forced to do it or not," was Mr. Lennie's rejoinder.

NOT GOING BACK

A question from Mr. Sheffield as to as to when the Grand Forks band was going back drew the answer that they were not going back as they had no home or land.

Argument ensued as to whether British Columbia laws were Christ's law, or otherwise.

Asked by Mr. Sheffield as to their future plans, the reply of the deputation, through its head, was, "We do not know just what we will do tomorrow or the next day, but are toying to wait on you for freedom.'

"The time has come to see that the laws are observed by both your people and our people, and we are going to do it," concluded Mr. Lennie.

To that, Mr. Pepin replied that while not wishing to stop the government doing this, the Doukhobors must observe God's law.

Mr. Lennie then declared the interview at an end.

FORCE NO AVAIL WHEN DEALING WITH FANATICS

Rev. F. R. G. Dredge Delivers an Interesting Sermon on Doukhobors

"The Sons of Freedom are a religious sect and to use force on them will only stiffen their opposition as has been proved hundreds of times in the religious persecutions of history," stated the Rev. F. R. G. Dredge in a timely and extremely interesting sermon at St. Paul's church on Sunday night. Mr. Dredge stated that the Sons of Freedom would die rather than give in to attempts to force them to obey. They believed in a fanatic way that they were martyrs and it seemed that they gloried in being persecuted. Prison and even torture would do no good, he thought.

As far as Mr. Dredge could see, the only possibility of bringing about a final solution of the Doukhobor question would be to offer them choice of either obeying the laws or leaving the country. In the event of their refusing both to leave the country and obey the laws, the government should, according to Mr. Dredge, deport the leaders. The leaders, he declared, were evidently the fire-brands with the main body of the fanatics following like a flock of sheep.

Mr. Dredge then went on to give a short history of the Doukhobors. They originated about the middle of the 18th century in Russia. The formation of the sect of Doukhobors was the result of a rebellion against the materialism and meanness of the Greek Orthodox church which was at a low ebb at that time. It was more or less of a counterpart of the earlier western Protestant reformation, on a smaller scale.

Doukhobor movement was in all probability the result of a visit to Russia of a number of a number of English Quakers.

It took the form of a violent reaction to the traditions of the orthodox church. Unlike the western reaction however, the Doukhobors instead of becoming materialistic became more deeply religious.

REJECTED ALL AUTHORITY

They commenced by rejecting entirely all authority whether of church or state. Even the Bible was not recognized as an authority.They placed all authority for their actions on their own consciences. The "voice within" or spirit was to be their only guide. It was here that the name "Doukhobor" (Spirit wrestler) originated.

In rejecting the authority of the state, the Doukhobors refused to swear an oath, and more important, refused to take up arms for their country in any emergency.

Substantially, the Doukhobors in Canada remain true to these traditions, and the Sons of Freedom have exaggerated them.

It is not known how their leaders are chosen, whether it is by election or inheritance. They render to their leader the most implicit obedience and he is given arbitrary powers over the person and property of his people.

One of the outstanding features of the Doukhobors, according to Mr. Dredge, was their secretiveness. They will tell nothing of their motives for their actions and it was one of the greatest difficulties of the government of Canada in finding out the meaning of their various pilgrimages.

While they give as their reason for their parade a religious motive, in many cases they are putting up a political agitation. Mr. Dredge suggested that the recent pilgrimages of the Sons of Freedom were not so much religious as a protest against the regime of the young Peter Verigin.

FOUR STIPULATIONS

When the Doukhobors first came to Canada they were given extraordinary liberties and only four stipulations were made by the government. They were that the Doukhobors must make entry for homesteads, thus creating them Canadian citizens automatically, they must supply all vital statistics concerning their birth and death rates and so forth, They agreed to conform to the laws of the country in all respects including the compulsory education of their children, and payment of taxes. They were given exemption from military duty.

In concluding, Mr. Dredge declared that it was a fine thing to declare that there would be no more lawlessness where the Doukhobors were concerned, but it might be well if these same authorities looked closer into the glaring lawlessness allowed among Canadians today.

"There is every bit as much lawlessness in the liquor selling industry as ever the Doukhobors showed, and yet the authorities allow it to go on where they check the fanatics with a firm hand."

COMMISSION BANS CROWN AND ANCHOR GAME AT FERNIE

Cannot Operate at Carnival; Decide Games for Prizes May Be Run

GRANT PERMISSION TO HOLD A RAFFLE

Old Problem Comes Up; One Policy for All on Gambling Advocated

FERNIE, B. C., Sept. 9—"To close or to not close," gambling concessions that is the question which occupied the meeting police commission this afternoon as it has occupied it almost continuously since a now famous resolution went on its books some months ago with avowed purpose to stop all gambling in the city. R. J. Nolan representing the Elk's appeared before today's meeting to ascertain the feeling of the commission toward the Elks who had got the privilege from Conklin and Garret of running two or three concessions ot the carnical now playing here.

The Elks, explained Mr. Nolan needed the money to meet the large obligation they had undertaken toward the swimming pool. All Elk funds were used for charitable purposes, and there was no other way quite so good for raising money. In view of the fact that these games had been running on July 1 and September 2, as well as at the fall fair the Elks hoped for the same treatment at the hands of the commission.

ONE POLICY

Commissioner Douglas declared that there should be one policy for all, preferably to be formulated at the beginning of the year and adhered to, but at all vents the same treatment should be accorded to all.

Mayor Gates said he was not in favor of certain gambling games which take the people's money.

"Why were these games allowed to run on July 1, Labor Day and at the fall fair?" was a question asked.

It was shown that fall fairs had special privileges in this regard and that Chief Anderson had stopped the only concession which was over stepping its rights at the fall fair. As to the two days on which the sports were held, Dominion and Labor days, the same committee had taken charge of the sports on both days and pooled all the proceeds. This was a committte representing the hospital board, the swimming pool and the Canadian Legion. It functioned in this way every year.

COMMISSION RESPONSIBLE

It was brouht out at today's meeting that the police commission had given this sports committee to understand immediately prior to the Dominion Day arrangements that these carnival games would not be interfered with by the city. All members of the police commission today agreed that the responsibility was theirs for these concessions operating on the main street of Fernie on Dominion Day. The provincial police had, however, stopped them operating in the park which is outside the city limits.

This same sport committee then went ahead putting on the same sort of carnivals on Labor Day on the main street of Fernie having got the permission of the city council previously in both cases, to close off one block of the main street for this purpose. One of the games played on these occasions was the crown and anchor, which was illustrative of the kind to which particular objection was sometimes taken.

Commissioner Perry now brought up the question as to who was responsible for these games being played on Labor Day stating that it sould not have been himself as he was cut of town that day. Had he been in town he would have stopped them said Mr. Perry.

TREAT ALL ALIKE

Mayor Gates stated that although he was not alone, he had no knowledge of their being in operation and no complaint relative to them had been lodged with him. The mayor said that the crown and anchor games had taken in large sums of money on Labor Day. Commissioner Douglas said, "This commission passed a resolution at the first of the year and immediately backed up on it on several occasions. It should treat all alike."

Commissioner Perry said, "I haven't seen any backing up."

The Mayor, "There was some gambling the first of July and some more on September 2. There were a few poker games reported from time to time in the city but we are doing the best we can." The mayor further stated that he was unequivocally opposed to the running of these games at the carnival's concessions.

Chief Anderson, when questioned, said that he had had some instances to stop card games with a rake off after the Labor Day celebration, because the proprietors of them felt that they should be allowed to operate if the carnival games could. All such had been stopped where a rake off could be proved. That condition in the city on the whole showed a remarkable freedom from gambling was the opinion of the chief.

FORBID CROWN AND ANCHOR

The chief then asked for specific instructions as to what was to be allowed and what not allowed in the carnival now running. The mayor answered that straight money games were to be barred. That, is where the patron laid down a coin and took a chance on getting back a coin. If he took a chance on a blanket or other article that was to be permitted. Crown and anchor was to be forbidden but for the most part the chief was to use his judgement.

The chief then brought up an application from the Church of England to hold a raffle. This was granted.

Utica Expects New Developments in Low Level Tunnel

According to recent information, the Utica mine, which has long been one of the most popular in the Slocan country, has been reconditioned from top to bottom and put in excellent running order.

Work on extending the low level tunnel to its intersection with the first of the well known Utica veins was commenced during August and to date has been driven approximately 225 feet. It is estimated that the veins lay within 200 feet of the face of the tunnel.

In spite of the important production which the Utica enjoyed in the past the vein areas covered by the property have been developed only to a superficial extent. This low level adit that is now being driven will intersect the vein 350 feet deeper than the lowest of the older workings. Also there remains more than 2,000 feet in virgin vein area which was not opened up on the upper levels by the former operators.

Cranbrook Notes

A GOOD POLICY TO CARRY OUT

A Victoria dispatch states that the provincial government is giving serious consideration to increasing the gasoline tax to 5 cents.

The government will show wisdom if it follows this course. A number of boards of trade and other public bodies have already advised it.

Increased taxation usually is not popular, but people of British Columbia will not complain if the gas tax is raised and the money applied to road construction.

If results are shown, no one will worry much about 2 cents a gallon on gasoline.

The greatest benefit from good roads is general, but the car owner on a good road will save more than 2 cents a gallon in wear and tear of his car, as compared with traveling on a bad road.

CAN INVEST CAPITAL HERE PROFITABLY

The Spokane Chamber of Commerce excursion to Trail and Nelson is no joyriding affair, but a serious journey for the purpose of learning more about this country and its opportunities for the investment of capital.

Spokane has always supplied much capital for the development of mining in this territory and there are plenty of opportunities for investment of capital profitably in other forms of development.

The district needs capital and Spokane capitalists need profits on their investments. Both Kootenay and Spokane can benefit from the investment of Spokane money here.

Some of the leading capitalists of Spokane are among those who have signed up for the trip this week-end. Some of them have been here before; some have not. All will see plenty of signs of progress to justify complete confidence in the future of Kootenay.

That Body of Yours

SEVERE BURNS NOT NECESSARILY FATAL NOW

I have spoken before about accompanying a railroad surgeon in his rounds after an accident in which 27 victims were removed to the hospital. Noting one of the victims chatting with his relatives I was of the opinion that his case was not serious and that he would likely recover, and questioned the surgeon as to his chances.

The surgeon shook his head and said, "That poor fellow hasn't a chance, there is too much of his body surface burned". Such proved to be the case.

How differntly surgeons, physicians and nurses feel about these serious burns, now that the tannic acid treatment has been shown to save these formerly fatal cases. In previous days, the doctor carried tubes of carron oil (linseed oil and lime water) which was applied to simple burns. For more severe burns the continuous bath treatment was used which meant constant care with poor results very often.

The tannic acid treatment is very simple.

Tannic acid in powdered form is carried in the doctor's bag, and is now on the shelves in the first aid department of many factories or other industrial institutions.

Any oil or grease on the burned surface must be removed before the tannic acid is applied. Sterile gauze or gauze bandage is laid over the burned spot or spots and this is soaked with 2½ per cent solution of the tannic acid.

Roughly, four teaspoonfuls of dry tannic acid to one glass of water makes a 2½ per cent solution. The solution must be made fresh each time.

Until such time as this tannic acid becomes a part of every factory and household equipment, it is well to remember that strongly brewed tea may take the place of tannic acid.

This can be poured gently or sprayed on the burned surface. After the first application a film or coagulum begins to form and the severe pain disappears.

So don't wait to go any distance to secure tannic acid if you have tea available. Remember that it should be real strong.

The treatment prevents shock, prevents poisoning, and lessens greatly the amount of scar tissue. It was the shock and poisoning that proved fatal in badly burned patients.

Truly this has been a great discovery for mankind, preventing suffering and saving many lives.

An Editorial in the Current Issue of Grand Forks Gazette

With the arrest of some 128 Doukhobors near Nelson last week by Inspector Cruickshank of the Provincial Police and the intimation from Hon. Mr. Pooley, Attorney-General, that the Russians are to be dealt with in a firm manner, it begins to look as if the Doukhobor menace in British Columbia is going to be faced in a busines-like way for the first time.

For many years these unwelcome foreigners, or a large section of them, have made themselves very much a nuisance. For years they have been defying the law and getting away with it. Although Grand Forks and Canadian citizens in other parts of the province have sent repeated protests to the powers that be, they have received scant consideration, and the foxy Doukhobors had the conviction fostered that they could do as they liked. And that is about what they have been doing for many years. Canadians did not ask to have the Doukhobors persecuted, but they did ask that the Russians should not be allowed special privileges. Red-blooded Canucks have not relished the idea that in their own country these Doukhobors could run "high, wide and handsome," that they were virtually encouraged to do things for which Canadians would be sent to prison for doing. And as has been pointed out many times by the Gazette the nuisance has been steadily increasing.

As has been indicated in these columns before, it would seem that the best method of dealing with the Doukhobors arrested and others who might be taken would be take the children and send them to some school away ents in some internent camp, where from their parents, and place the parents could be given sufficient land to grow provisions for themselves. Some of the able-bodied men could be given work elswhere under supervision and perhaps useful work might thus be accomplished. But if the opportunity to make a hullabaloo among other people was stopped, and children of these Russians taken away from them and given proper schooling, it would not only have a salutory and wholesome effect on the Doukhobor group but would at least make citizens of the children who are now growing up to make a further nuisance.

People of this district are particularly gratified with the strong manner in which Hon. Mr. Pooley is facing the Doukhobor problem and we would at the same time congratulatate Inspector Cruickshank who has brought the matter to a head. It is about time we found out whether it was Canadians or Russians who were running this part of the province.

If you have an electric refrigerator, the next time you plan a party serving lemonade or any cooling drink, insert in each compartment of the ice cube holder a maraschino cherry and a few drops of the juice and then freeze the cubes. It will make a most attractive addition to your cooling drinks.

Creston Truck Goes Through Bridge; No One Injured in Drop

CRANBROOK, B.C., Sept. 9.—An accident occurred on Saturday evening on the Cranbrook-Wardner road when one of the big red trucks of the Nelson Fruit company running between Creston and points on the Crow line failed to make the turn at the bridge on the hillside at the Kootenay river just east of the C.P.R. farms. The heavy truck chashed through the railing of the bridge, dropped 50 feet and landed on all four wheels, the driver sustaining no other injuries than the inevitable jolt.

Fresh planks and lumber for the broken bridge was taken out by Engineer Swan and a road gang early Sunday morning to repair the damage sustained by the bridge.

A Recipe For Dessert

Mrs. Mawdsley, a noted dietitian, kindly sends in the following recipe for a dessert made with Pacific Milk which we are glad to print. By substituting orange and pineapple for strawberry you have three choices.

STRAWBERRY CREAM

1 pkg. strawberry jelly powder; 2 teaspoons lemon juice; 1 small can Pacific Milk; 1 teaspoon sugar; ½-pint boiling water.

Make jelly in the ordinary way, using only ½-pint of water; add sugar when cold; beat in the milk with lemon juice; beat well for 5 minutes; put into a mold to set. This is a beautiful nourishing dish.

BUSINESS MAN'S GRATITUDE

Says Kruschen has kept him fit for sixteen years

RHEUMATISM BANISHED

Here is a business man who, having read letters in the papers from other people regarding Kruschen Salts, wants to know if anyone can beat his own experience. It is worth telling, so we give it here—just as he wrote it down. "In 1912 I had a severe attack of Rheumatic Fever. After six weeks my doctor and a specialist gave up hope of my recovery. A friend suggested Kruschen if I wanted to keep Rheumatism away in future. I bought my first bottle, and kept up the 'little daily dose' until the second year of the War, when I thought my system was thoroughly rid of the acid. I stopped taking it. Within a fortnight I was almost double with Rheumatic pains again (showing that I needed to counteract the acid in my system). Back I flew to Kruschen, and from that day to this I never missed a dose first thing every morning. The result? Never the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain. Being a traveller I am out in all weathers, and I can claim to work hard and fast, and to retain my constant buoyant spirits, thanks to my old friend Kruschen, who has, in very truth, 'kept me going' for 16 years." If you wonder how Kruschen can achieve all that this enthusiastic user claims for it, you should first of all realise that Kruschen is a perfect blend of 6 natural mineral salts which we all need every day (1) to help keep liver and kidneys to perform their natural duties in a natural way; (2) to clear away gently but completely all the poisonous waste matter that has been clogging the system; (3) to purify the blood. The analysis is on the bottle. There are Sodium and Magnesium to stimulate the organs of elimination. To feed your tissues, there's the tonic Potassium. Each "little daily dose" is a full day's supply of these six vital salts; just the right amount to keep your body and mind tuned up to a pitch of real constant fitness.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 4/6, and 7/6, per bottle, and is manufactured by E. Griffiths Hughes, Ltd., Manchester, Eng. (Established 1760). Importers: McGillivray Bros., Ltd., Toronto.

New Anglican Church Opens Here Sunday

Opening of the just completed Anglican church here on the corner of Ward and Silica streets will take place with next Sunday's services, according to Ven. Archdeacon Graham, rector of St. Saviour's church here. The Bishop of Kootenay will take the services which will follow the regular morning and evening forms. Many members of the district clergy, will also be in attendance. It is expected that several of the prominent men of the district and province will be present at the morning service.

The new church was built to replace the old St. Saviour's church on the same site, which church was destroyed two years ago in a disastrous early morning fire.

Only a few minor details remain to completely finish the church.

About 50 Cubic Yards Concrete Poured for Railway Street Bridge

In the neighborhood of 50 cubuc yards of concrete was mixed and poured by the city cement mixer to make the fill for the new concrete bridge across Cottonwood creek on Railway street Saturday. This constitutes a record for a day's work for the mixer.

Yesterday, the concrete parts of the new bridge were completely filled in when the paved connections between the already existing city pavement approaching the bridge were finished off.

A three foot parapet will prevent cars or persons going over the side into the creek. The sidewalk on the east side will have an iron railing.

The bridge will be ready for use in about three weeks, this being the regulation time for allowing the concrete to set.

NEW ORE BODY IS DISCOVERED IN LUCKY JIM

Large Body of Lead-Zinc Ore Discovered States Director At Spokane

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 9.—"A large body of lead-zinc ore has been encountered at great depth in the Luck Jim, located at Zincton, British Columbia," stated J. V. Pohlman, a director, upon his return from a trip into the Slocan district a few days ago.

"This new ore body was first encountered in the raise connecting the No. 6, or lower level, with the No. 5 level, next above, which was completed a short time ago, the slope distance separating these levels being nearly 700 feet.

Higher Zinc Sampling

"An intermediate level has since been opened, where exploration by long hole drilling in testing out the adjacent lime areas has been successful in locating the downward extension of the main ore body developed above. The intermediate level had been extended in ore for over 240 feet in length at the time of my visit, showing a width in places of over 30 feet, and sampling much higher in zinc than the ore bodies at the higher horizons.

"This ore expansion at depth is naturally most gratifying. According to a statement by Colonel H. H. Yuill, president and manager, the late work has brought the property to the stage where good operating profits can be made. In fact, he says Lucky Jim is looking considerably better today than it did when milling operations were commenced in March, 1928. A material reduction in operating costs has also been made possible by late physical improvements. It is expected that the management will shortly announce resumption of milling operations.

WELLINGTON CREW DRIFTS

"At the Wellington, near Retallack, which I also visited, a large crew is engaged on development work. The principal ore showing so far developed has been on what is known as the No. 1 vein, and at present a systematic program of cross-cutting and rifting on this property is proceeding, which gives much promise.

"The Slocan district as a whole is experiencing unusual activity from a development standpoint," said Mr. Pohlman. "And many properties now under intensive development, and substantially financed, give promise of soon entering the profitable stage. An increase in metal prices shortly is also confidentially predicted, which, if realized, should assure a material increase in operating profits.

New Strike Is Made, Home Guard Property

ALICE ARM, B.C., Sept. 9.—Samples of ore, taken from across five feet of new strike on the Homeguard property, and said to be similar to the Dolly Varden quartz, carrying considerable copper values, have been sent to the Dalhousie Mining company's office for assaying. The Dalhousie company is operating the property.

The new discovery was made above where the tremendous boulders of copper ore are located and is considered of great importance. The width of the ore vein has not yet been determined.

This is the second new discovery that has been made on the Homeguard this year. The tunnel that was commenced a short time ago on the previous discovery, to strike the ore at depth is being pushed ahead.

AJAX AND AMULET LEAD ACTIVITY ON TORONTO MARKET

Oils Off Color With Gains in A. P. Consolidated and Baltic Only

TORONTO, Sept. 9.—(By H. W. Robertson, leased wire.) An air of expectancy overshadowed the Standard Stock & Mining Exchange today with no great changes showing over the week end. Many traders are looking for a better market, holding back meanwhile. Ajax and Amulet continued to lead activity with oils coming under heavy pounding which drove the price below the $2 mark to close at $1.90. The stock traded strong during forenoon but heavy selling made its effect later. Amulet came under heavy demand rising to close at $2.80.

Rights following the lead of Amulet, closed firm at 26 cents. Big Missouri was active with a rising tide carrying the price to $1.22.

Falconbridge, Teck Hughes, Sudbury Basin and Ventures traded strongly early, meting fair gains with demand, but liquidation appeared later with a consequent weakening. Falconbridge was off 20 at the close, Teck 25, Sudbury 50, and Ventures 40. International Nickel was off 85.

Oils were off color, A. P. Consolidated and Baltic registered the only gains, the former up 5 at $4.25 and the latter up 6 at $1.86. Good news from Sterling Pacific that the well had struck home sands failed to push the price up, falling to $2.05, but any stock offered was quickly snapped up.

PRICES FORCED DOWN, MONTREAL

Nickel Off Half Point; National Breweries Exception to the General Trend

MONTREAL, Sept. 9—Renewed selling pressure in several of the leading issues forced prices downward on the Montreal stock exchange today. International Nickel finished half point lower at $53½, while Brazilian was off ⅜ at $68¾. Canadian Car closed fractionally lower at $35. Canada Power broke 1½ points to $36, while Southern Canada Power at $52 and Wayagamack at $95 were both three points lower.

An exception to the general trend, climbing up nearly six points to a new high of $125 was National Breweries. The Quebec utilities all recorded further recessions.

FEEBLE SESSION ON WALL STREET

Market Skids Dizzily Until Last Hour; Call Money Eight Per Cent

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The stock market began the new week rather feebly today, apparently weakened by the vigorous recovery from last Thursday's sharp break. The market skidded about dizzily until the last hour, when it regained some of its poise as bull forces rallied and drove shorts to cover by a sharp run up in a few issues.

Call money renewed at 8 per cent and held there all day. Bankers do not look for any marked tightening of credit as a result of the midmonth income tax payments and treasury refinancing until next week.

A drop in the rail shares was rather disappointing. Atchison tumbled more than 5 points and New York Central, Chesapeake and Ohio, Deleware and Hudson, Norfolk and Western and Union Pacific closed from two to six points lower.

Sterling Pacific Strikes Home Sand At Shallow Depth

CALGARY, Sept. 9.—(By Hugh W Robertson Ltd., leased wire.) Sterling Pacific in the south end of Turner Valley struck home sands at 3,560 feet Thursday, according to information. This is the most definite marker reached and strengthens belief it will have shallower drilling than wells further north. It is believed the lime should be gotten at 4000 feet.

Model in the north end of the field a half mile south of the Turner Basin was down 5280 feet Saturday. Casing was down 5283 feet. Hole will be underreamed and casing carried deeper.

Eastcrest No. 1 resumed drilling over the week end after allowing cement to set at 4234 feet, according to a report. No. 2 was drilling at 1800 feet Saturday.

McLeod No. 4 was placed on production on an official test and produced 106 barrels of naptha, according to a official. The well was at 5220 feet and 1490 fet in the lime. Drilling resumed today. No. 1 was to be left on production. It was reported it was found the gas pressure too strong to permit shooting of the hole as a means of loosening tools. No. 5 was drilling at 135 feet.

Hargal, east of Home, was drilling at 1681 feet Saturday.

Brilliant oils will drill three wells in the north end of Turner Valley, south of Freehold No. 1 and east of Calmont. Locations are being selected to start the first well soon. The Weymar well on the new Black Diamond structure was drilling at 2,500 feet Saturday.

AJAX OIL BEARS BIG TRADE BRUNT

TORONTO, Sept. 9—Ajax oil, Amulet and Amulet accounted for more than half of the 716,926 share trade on today's mining market.

Ajax touched a high of $2.60, dropped to a low of $1.92 and closed at $1.95.

FATE OF AJAX TO BE KNOWN TODAY IF SHOT IS MADE

Some Rumors Have it That Gas Has Been Struck Already

TORONTO, Sept. 9.—(By H. W. Robertson Ltd., leased wire.) The story of Ajax No. 5, Kent County, Ontario, will be told today. Saturday came reports that a gas flow had been struck. How much, was not stated. Whatever may be the result, it should be remembered that no gas field can be proved or disproved by one well. Now, the situation thoroughly warrants the drilling of dozens of wells. In the Ohio gas field on the Anticlinal structure, 40,000 wells have been drilled and eighty percent completions, shooting of wells are necessary. The Ajax management says everything is most satisfactory with good prospects for an important producer. Of course, nothing definite can be known until the well has been shot. It looks as if the adverse rumors of last week were partly due to a malicious desire to bear the market and partly through ignorance of conditions. The recovery upon official advices was almost as sensational as the drop.

The situation at Ajax is difficult to obtain as they will not allow any one on the property. From resources believed reliable, it is understood they got gas early Saturday which increased during the day. But have stopped drilling now preparatory to putting in the shot of 800 quarts of nitro. No time has been set for shooting the well but it may take place tonight or tomorrow.

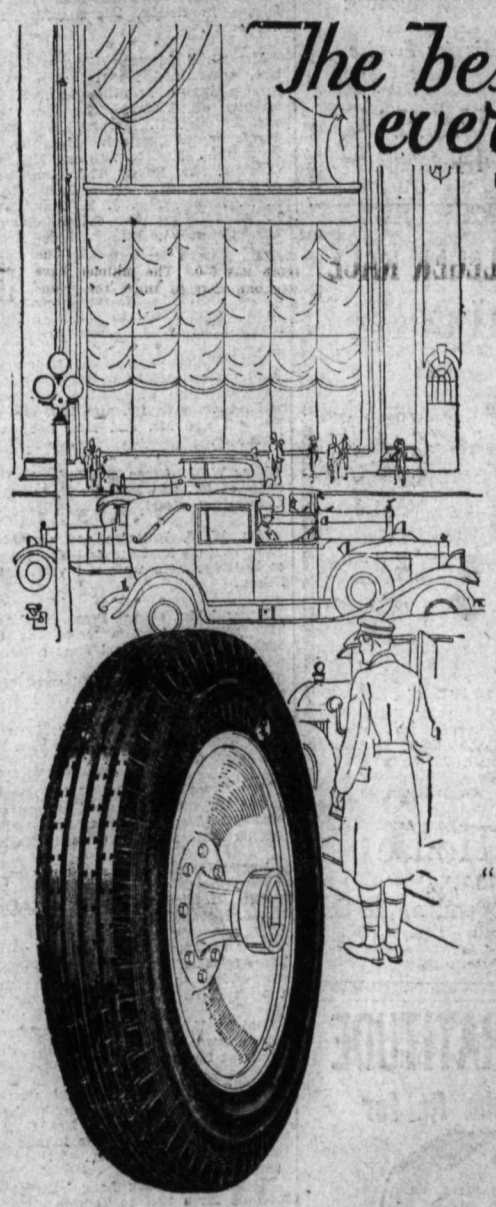
The ROYAL MASTER
The best Tire ever made—


THE ROYAL MASTER is the best tire that has ever been made, and it should be, because it has been built with deliberate disregard for its costs.
The only aim in planning the Royal Master was to make a tire which would match the rest of the modern car—permit high speed with safety — remove the hazards of blow-outs — do away with the nuisance of flats.
The Royal Master is no tire for the man who buys a car to drive for only one year. It costs too much and lasts too long. But if continued safety at any speed and through any conditions are what you want, the Royal Master is an insurance and an economy.
"THEY'VE run over 26,000 miles already—and good for at least 40,000" said a Montreal taxi driver when questioned about his Royal Masters.
We looked closely at these big rugged tires that had covered this mileage in modern "big city" traffic conditions—that had withstood hard braking, fast pick-up and the severe usage which taxi tires must stand.
These tires looked like new. Their tread blocks were still sharp and clean-cut—good for thousands more miles of non-skid service.
That is the way with Royal Masters. Because of their extra deep tread, they will still give anti-skid service long after the ordinary tire would be worn smooth.
Not one in a thousand will ever puncture.
Not one in five thousand will blow out under two years of service.
This crest appears in gold on every Royal Master Tire

George Harlow, Nelson heavyweight, will meet Fred Lenhart of Spokane, in main event of a card to open the Dishman club, six miles out of Spokane, during the week of September 22, it was annouced last night by R. E. Kirby, who has managed Harlow's career here. Harlow will leave immediately for Spokane to go into training under the direction of Eddie Quinn, who is well known throughout the west as a great handler of boxers.

Harlow's proposed battle with Sparkplug Boyd of Seattle, postponed toll the coming Saturday, has been further postponed and will probably take place during the first week of October.

QUINN IN NELSON

Eddie Quinn arrived in Nelson Saturday to start negotiations personally for the bout and left yesterday with arrangements completed. Harlow's acceptance of the bout came after nearly a year of unsuccessful attempts on the part of Lenhart's backers to match him with the Nelson heavyweight.

Lenhart has climbed rapidly in the boxing game and it is expected that following his bouth with Harlow he will go to New York. He has beaten the best that has been brought up against him in the past year or so and is well known in Nelson by boxing fans through sport columns.

KEPT IN TRAINING

Harlow, after his bout with Augie Sauer of Calgary last December, more or less retired from the ring for a time, keeping up active training with a view to getting a few more battles under his belt prior to accepting offers from the coast and elsewhere. Decision to open this campaign was reached some time ago and negotiations for opponents started.

His bout with Lenhart will be the greatest of his career, for Lenhart has had many more battle and has much more experience than the Nelson man.

Sheep Ranching Extending, B.C.

The sheep industry from a ranching point of view shows signs of development in Western Canada, particularly in British Columbia, states the Department of Agriculture. Last fall upwards of 10,000 head of ewe stock were bought in Alberta and shipped to the interior points of British Columbia. In 1928 the demand for range ewes exceeded the supply and the demand promises to be equally as good this year.

At Churchill on Hudson bay, the degrees west of north in 1700, one magnetic compass needle pointed 24 degree west in 18000 and 10 degrees east in 1900. In other words, during two centuries the needle changed its direction by 34 degrees.

3 Boys Carry Suit Through Pass Gate

By AL DEMAREE

(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

"Crashing the Gate" seems to be on the way toward becoming one of the great American nuisances. One notorius tramp has become internationally known for his gate crashing, and now we have airplane stowaways, girl stowaways on yatch races, women who crash their way into dinners of the royalty and all kinds of similar pests.

It's an old game to try to crash the gates at the ball parks, and some of the stunts the gate crashers try are pretty good. Al Campion and Jimmy Crandell, who guard the pass gate at Cubs' park in Chicago, tell me that a favorite gag there is for the gate crashers to come up to them with empty box and claim that Andy Lotshaw, the Cubs' trainer, sent them out for some liniment or pills or adhesive tape.

When a boy is sent out by one of the players to have his suit pressed, it is not unusual for him to come back with a couple of pals, each of them carring a piece of the suit.

Ball players usually are admitted without indentification, and it is not uncommon for a man to show up claiming that he "used to pitch for Fayetteville down in the Blue Grass League" and expect to be admitted free.

Ingenika, Finlay Rivers Reported Have Ore Values

Parties of Prospectors Being Organized to Explore That Section

VANCOUVER, B.C., Sept. 9.—(By Hugh W. Robertson Ltd., leased wire.) H. L. Batten, Mining Engineer here was in Smithers and Prince George last weak arranging to send prospecting parties to Ingenika and Finlay River sections for Aero-mineral Locators, Ltd., of which he is managing director. It is anticipated that six or seven weeks

Several rumored "mountains of co,- weather still can be obtained. per" and "huge gold deposits" reported at various times in the last 30 years in this section, will be investigated to find if there is truth in the reports. Stuart F. Campbell and Grover L. Loveless are working on the Glacier Gulch Group. Two miles from Lake Kathlyn, shipment of the high grade ore showstation, with local capital getting out a ing there values up to $1,290 having ben obtained in the assays. Most of it is silver as the ore carries much gray copper. Several parties are doing preliminary work in the Peacock Creek section on the many claims recently located there.

A recent new strike on the rainbow group in the Babine bids fair to be of importance. The property is owned by Smithers Syndicate headed by James Wright of Smithers, and is closed to the main Driftwood creek road and only 14 miles from town. In a vein lying downhill from the old main workings recent work has been done by C. G. Harvey, 80-year old prospector who is known all over western Canada. In this work he was successful in uncovering a vein upwards of six feet wide in which two feet is high grade silver and copper ore. Grey copper is all through and runs the silver values up very high. Consideration is given to getting a shipment out which seems feasible because of the location. B. F. Messner and a crew have resumed work on the low level crosscut tunnel of the Victoria group of the Lorraine Copper-Silver Mines, Ltd., in the Babine range. Last week, H. L. Batten recently appointed consultant Engineer for the company, examined showings and it greatly impressed him.

Extend Quarantined Area in Efforts to Control Corn Borer

In continuing its efforts towards the control and eradication of the corn border in Canada, the Dominion Department of Agriculture has extended the quarantined area to include the whole of the province of Quebec, and all of Ontario with the exception of the districts of Thunder Bay, Patricia, Kenora, and Rainy River.

Experiments are being conducted at the Indian Head nursey station of the Department of the Interior to determine the life of fence-posts treated with preservatives by the use of equipment such as could be used on the average farm. In 1916 several posts of Russian poplar (a very perishable species) were specially treated with creosote and were set in the ground in the spring of 1917. Ten years afterwards these posts were apparently as good as ever; on the other hand, untreated posts of the same species of similiar size rotted out in the second and third years.

TILDEN SEES RIVALS FACE HARD MATCHES

Mercur, Austin, Jones Win; Tilden Drew a Bye at Forest Hills

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept 9 — While Big Bill Tilden casually looked on from a seat in the official stand, two of his leading rivals for the National Tennis singles crown were extended to the limit in second round matches today.

Having drawn a bye in the first round and reached the third with an easy victory on Saturday, Bill was among the 10,000 spectators who saw Fritz Mercur finally nose out Harris Coggleshell of Des Moines, Ia., number 14 in the national ranking list, in five hard sets 7—5, 7—5, 2—6, 5—7, 7—5. He then watched J. Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N.J., give George Lott stroke for stroke and ace for ace.

Lot eventually captured the first set from Hall 10—8. The two were even at one all in the second set, when drenching rain terminated play.

Henry "Bunny Austin subdued Herbert Bowman of New York, 6—2, 6—3, 6—0, and Ted Avery, Cambridge, eliminated Ed Burns, New York, 7—5, 6—2, 6—4.

David Jones of Columbia university overcame Phil Neer, San Francisco at 15—13, 6—1, 8—6. Wilmer Allison and Berkley Bell, the Texans and Julius Seligson, of Lehigh university, were among the second round winners.

RAY FLAHERTY JOINS GIANTS

Former Nelson Baseball Player to Play Rugby for New York Team

Ray Flaherty, who became well known to Nelson baseball fans when he played on the infield of the local team in 1927, has left Spokane for New York to join the Giants, professional rugby football team, according to an article in the Spokesman Review, giving a glowing acount of Flaherty's football career

Flaherty became a hero in Nelson, when after he had gone hitless to bat three times against Rossland and with Nelson trailing, he slammed out a homer to deep center field in the final inning to score two men and win the game for Nelson. The game was not a final one of the league but the win over the Miners, twice provincial champions, meant a lot to Nelson fans.

Following is the account in the Spokesman:

"One of the most famous forward passing combinations ever to play on the Pacific coast and probably as brilliant a duo in aerial fireworks the American gridiron has ever known, will be drawn together again this fall on the New York Giants' profesional football team when Houston Stockton, halfback and Ray Flaherty, end co-stars on the Gonzaga university football teams of 1923 and 1924, begin playing.

"Flaherty and Stockton will join the Giants in New York this week to start training for the fall campaign. Flaherty left for New York Thursday morning and Stockton left Sunday.

While Flaherty and Stockton have ben playing professional fotball in the east since they completed their college careers, this year will be their first together, Stockton having ben a member of the Philadelphia Yellowjackets, while Flaherty was a teammate of Red Grange on the New York Yankees.

"This fall the New York Yankees have pased out of existence, their franchise in the pro gridiron league being transferred to Buffalo, leaving the Giants the only pro fcotball team in New York. The Giants are making extensive plans for a strong team and have been gathering many stars. Stockton was obtained by trade from Philadelphia and Flaherty from the Buffalo interests.

"Another star the Giants have acquired is Benny Friedman, great quarterback from the University of Michigan, who played with the Detroit pro team last fall."

BEARS RAID ON HOME OIL

Prices Go Skidding on Vancouver List; Pend Oreille and Reeves Firmer

VANCOUVER, Sept. 9.—A bear raid on Home oil sent prices skidding on the stock exchange today. The general list of oil shares closing from a few cents to as much as $10 a share lower. The mines were quiet and generally steady.

Heavy offerings of A. P. Consolidated which lost 21 cents to $4.14 and Calmont down 45 cents to $4.25 featured the day's activities.

Home oil starting at $21.75 was forced down to a close at $20 for a net loss of $1.50; Royalite lost $10 at $125.00 and C. E. Corporation on a large turnover weakened 35 cents to $6.15.

In the mines Pend Oreille and Reeves McDonald were firmer closing 10 cents stronger at $5.10 and $1.65 respectively.

U. S. to Exchange Radio Programs With Germany

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—Germany has been added to the countries with which the United States plans an exchange of radio programmes. Experiments are to be started immediately as a result of the visit to this country of German radio officials. Tests have been under way for some time with the hope that a plan of international programme exchange would be in effect this fall. Last spring these experiments reached the stage where a chain broadcast or two was attempted with more or less success.

Holland also has been included as one of the countries with which it is expected to arrange an exchange. Experimental work on this side of the Atlantic has been conducted at Riverhead, L. I., where a special R. C. A. short wave receiving station has been in operation some time, and in the National Broadcasting laboratories.

ERNIE ARTHUR IS BEATEN, PRINCETON

Title Not at Stake; Nelson Jepson of Spokane Proves Too Strong

PRINCETON, Sept. 9—Strength told when Nelson Jepson, rugged grappler from Spokane, and claimant to the Canadian light-heavyweight title, met Ernie Arthur of Trail, middleweight champion, Friday, and after losing the first fall to a sprightly opponent, came back to take the next two falls and the match. Arthur's title was not at stake.

Up to the first fall, there was nothing to it. Arthur was at the height of his form, and uncorked so many clever defensive tricks that he had Jepson puzzled. He took the first fall in seventeen minutes with a Japanese arm scissors and arm lock. Jepson gained the second in eleven minutes with a double wrist lock and arm scissor and the deciding fall in nine minutes with a flying mare.

After the match, Arthur expressed a desire to meet Dick Stubbs of Copper Mountain on even terms and the match may be arranged. Stubbs has a victory over Jepson, and won the B. C. amateur championship a few years back. Arthur claims the Canadian title.

'The Foolish Virgin'

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

"Oh, Chester, I'm sorry! I've liked it all as much as you, since day before yesterday—the dancing, the talks—but it isn't real to me any more! It's pretending, now, and I can't—my dear, I can't go on with it. Go back to Sue Rose—"

Chester's face was white; his eyes Third street, Fairview, and son Freddie flashed.

"What are you talking about?" he asked angrily. Pamela's heart quailed.

"It's just come to me—I didn't sleep all night worrying about it—but it's clear now! It's just—"she took her hands from his shoulders and made her favorite little spreading gesture of freedom—"it's just over," she said simply.

The man's mouth was firmly closed: the flanges of his nostrils moved on his stormy breath.

"That's Charteris,' he said briefly, when he and Pamela had stood regarding each other for a long space of silence.

"Colonel Charteris! He must be almost forty!" the girl said with a cool, scornful laugh.

"He's thirty-seven, that's all. I asked Chard last summer. And believe me," Chester said fiercely, "he's in love with you—any fool can see that!"

"You must be a fool to imagine it!" Pamela said warmly. She stood, struck with the utter novelty of the thought, considering it for a minute. "He just—likes me," she said uncertainly.

"I'll say he just likes you!" Chester agreed satirically.

But Pamela's confused thoughts were too absorbed to leave her free to notice him. She caught her lower lip in her teeth and stared absent-mindedly into space, thinking, pondering.

"That's nonsense!" she said presently, as if she were relieved. "He's hopelessly crippled—nenever thought of such a thing. And I simply don't want to marry anyone—that's all. That's all it is, Chester, and I'm sorry."

"Then yesterday down at the station, when we talked in the car, and last night at the Arms—that was just flirting?" he asked, with an air of cornering her.

The scarlet color dyed her cheeks again, but she looked bravely into his eyes.

"I guess so."

Chester was silent for a few minutes, staring out of the window into the thickening dusk and fog .

"You've made it nice for me," he said bitterly when Pamela, unable to bear the silence any longer, had gone back to her chair and sighed so deeply, so profoundly, that the sound of it reached him at the window.

"Oh, I know it!" she said wearily.

"You mean—" he was back on the hassock, he had her hands again in his—"you mean that you don't love me, dear?" he said, his mood changing to gentleness and entreaty.

"Not—not that way," she answered slowly.

"And don't you know that that only makes me love you more, Pam? Don't you know that I can make you love me again, as you did in those first days of the rodeo, when we were so happy together?"

"Chester, it may be all the trouble I went through last spring—I dont know what it is. But—I just don't feel that way any more!"

He meditated this in silence, his eyes upon her face.

"You did feel that way, day before yesterday, when you came into town for Maisie's weding and we all went to Sue Rose's for supper?" he said.

"I think I only thought I did!" Pamela answered, after thought, and with a conscious feeling for words.

"My dear, aren't you tired now, aren't you just overexcited, and perhaps worried about Sue Rose? Isn't that all it is?" Chester asked anxiously, indulgently, as he might have spoken to a child. "Pam, you needn't have that on your mind. Sue Rose is the best little sport in the world; she'll understand. Talking to her this morning, I said, 'You'd rather have me say this now than afterward, wouldn't you?' and she was absolutely game—What's the matter?" Chester interrupted himself to ask suspiciously. For Pamela, whose face had been close to his own, leaned forward suddenly, and laid her cheek against his, and she was laughing.

"Laughing because you're so—so delicious!" she said, not attempting to check herself

The man was hurt. He drew back, staring at her in displeasure.

"Delicious in what way?"

"Oh, because it's all so funny, Chester!" Pamela said. "Sue Rose and I both wanting you, and the scale going up and down, and all of us so solemn and important about it! It suddenly—" Pamela wiped her eyes, grew sober, and pulled herself together—"it suddenly struck me as funny, that was all," she repeated, her voice fainting into unwilling laughter again as she stopped. She got up. "Jenny and Al Scarlett are taking me back to the ranch at five," she said, "and it's four now." She stood close beside him, still somewhat shaken by her recent laughter, infinitely dear, infinitely inacesible. "I didn't mean to hurt your feelings, Chester," she said, "but I agree with you and Sue Rose. It's much wiser to have these conversations before marriage than after. I like you very much, we've had some wonderful times together, and what you did for me last winter—well, saved me! But I'll never marry you or anyone, my dear. Marriage doesn't interest me. I want to work, and read books, and learn French. I sound mean, Chester," Pamela interrupted herself to add in a more feeling voice, "but I don't mean it. I'm only trying to say what you told Sue Rose this morning, that I've made a mistake in my feelings. That will happen now and again, won't it?"

FOREST FIRE FIGHTING METHODS

Forest fires in Canada are, to an increasing extent, being fought by specially designed apparatus. Light gasoline fire-pumps have been put into use which will deliver a forceful stream of water through half a mile of hose. Fighting the fires at night is also greatly expedited by the use of lamps similar to those used by miners, which can be attached to the worker's cap and so enable him to keep on working during the hours o fdarkness, at the very time when his work will have the greatest effect.

Highberger's Last Sermon Is Heard Here

J. K. Highberger, Presbyterian Pastor During Summer, Leaves Today

In his farewell sermon in Nelson, J. K. Highberger, who has for the past four months held the position of pastor at the First Presbyterian church here, took as his theme the conquest of obstacles. He encouraged his congregation to overcome the different obstacles which he beset them with a good heart for he stated that difficulties were all that made life interesting and that to overcome one difficulty was to increase one's power to meet and overcome the next.

Difficulties add spice to life, Mr. Highberger said but one must not take this in the sense that one is to be grasping, trampling down human beings as added difficulties obstructing the path toward one's success. "Overcome difficulties with a strong heart," Mr. Highberger continued, "but do not overcome them at the expense of others."

In illustrating his meaning when he stated that difficulties were a means of developing power in an individual the speaker took the example of a river which when running along in its course unobstructed is doing nothing constructive, but when an obstruction in the shape of a dam is placed in its path its latent power is given an outlet and in coming up against a difficulty it produces power and progress.

In conclusion Mr. Highberger bade his congregation farewell and wished them well.

He returns to resume his studies at Princeton university where he has been a student for the past four years, on tomorrow morning's boat.

Presbyterian Church, Trail To Have Pastor

TRAIL, B. C., Sept. 9.—Rev. Dr. R. L. Douglas of Vancouver, superintendent of missions for British Columbia spoke at the first Presbyterian church here last night and announced that the Trail church would shortly have an ordained minister of its own.

His sermon was based on the power of preaching. The cross was the center of St. Paul's message, he said, it should be the basis of all preaching. The greatest power manifested was the power of changing a bad man into a good one, he declared, stating that this power was found in the cross.

Kaslo's Mayor To Leave For Vancouver Soon

KASLO, B.C., Sept. 9.—It has finally been decided that the office of the Victoria Syndicate, Ltd. will be moved to Vancouver, and James Anderson will be associated with Colonel Yuill in connection with the different properties under Col. Yuill' management

J. F. Weir and Miss Margaret Allen, of the olcal staff, expect to leave for Vancouver tomorrow and Mr. Anderson and Miss Jo Whitehouse will leave about the first of October.

Mayor Anderson, who has been in charge of the office since its opening here, and a resident of the city for many years, will be much missed in Kaslo. He has been one of Kaslo's best boosters.

However, there is every probability that there will be a local staff office of the mines under Co. Yuill's management in Kaslo, and while not so important as the one Kaslo is losing, will kep this city in active touch with the mining progress of the Slocan.

Vaseline will stop the squeaks of doors, chairs, beds and hinges.

Grizzly and Cubs Pay Ymir Camper Unwelcome Visit

Grizzly bear and two cubs were the cause of a decidedly uncomfortable night spent by J. Harbuckle, Ymir prospector early on the week-end at his camp about three miles west of Ymir.

It appears that Mr. Harbuckle had gone to bed early on Friday night and was awakened by a snarling outside his window. Being an old timer in the hills the prospector thought nothing of these manifestations of anger until his window came crashing in from the blow of a huge paw.

Getting up and taking a cautious peep out of the window Mr. Harbuckle could dimly descern the huge form of the bear and the two cubs.

After lighting a light and barricading the window in the most effective manner at his disposal he hammered a pan in hopes that it would drive the hungry grizzly away.

Directly it was daylight Mr. Harbuckle locked up his cabin and came down to Ymir without seeing the nocturnal visitor.

His story interested a pair of hunters who went directly to the camp and found that the bear had forced an entrance to the cabin and had among other things dragged a large trunk toward the window, mutilated a bag of flour and other provisions leaving the cabin in a general disaray.

Though they heard the bear crashing through the brush near the camp the hunters did not catch a glimpse of the marauder.

MacDonald Visit Is Still a "Hope"

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The impression that Premier Ramsay MacDonald will arrive in Washington during the first week in October is only an impresssion. It is hinted in well-informed quarters it is by no means certain Mr. MacDonald will be able to fulfill the general expectation.

This intimation falling in with skeptical advices from Geneva, makes for uncertainty when put together with the recollection taht the visit has always been a "hope."

When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

J. B. GRAY IS SPEAKER ON BOARD TRADE

Delivers Interesting Address to Rotarians on Work of the Board Here

J. B. Gray, president of the Nelson board of trade gave an interesting talk of the board of trade here at the regular weekly luncheon yesterday. His address was full of sparkling witticism but at the same time he put before his hearers in a convincing and earnest manner the principal aims and ideals of the board of trade and something of what it has already accomplished. It seemed to him that the board was the real connection between a progressive city like Nelson and the rest of the world. An organization of this kind, he said, was incalculable benefit to the city.

"If we had all the people in Nelson who should be members of the board of trade working on it for the good of the community we would have a better city to live in," Mr. Gray declared.

In commencing his address, the speaker praised the Rotary club for the splendid work it was doing for the city. It was a good thing in the first place that a body of citizens such as the Rotarians should be able to get together and discuss the problems that all have in the effort to better Nelson and the Nelson district.

Mr. Gray then went on to emphasize the value of the social side of the work of an organization such as the Rotary club and the board of trade. Luncheons and social gatherings of all kinds brought an immense variety of valuable opinion and suggestion from the members taking part deed, Mr. Gray thought, added spice in them. Differences of opinion into the healthy work of bettering the community in which one lives.

"After all," he continued, "we have our opinions on pressing public questions. I think for instance in the case of the board of trade there are as many solutions for the Doukhobor problem here as there are members of the board. I presume that this is the case also with the Rotary club.

"But while there may be difference of opinion, the main end of all, whether pro- or anti-Doukhobor and whether a member of the board of trade or a Rotarian, is the same.

MAY CITY BETTER

"This objective," Mr. Gray declared, "is to make the place we live in just a little better by being in it."

The speaker then went on to describe the activities of the board of trade here. The work of the board in Nelson was of particular importance because of Nelson's position as the key city to a large and comparatively undeveloped district. The board of trade would tackle any problem concerning the district where there was a chance of benefiting the district.

"I might expect the question of the Sons of Freedom, however," Mr. Gray declared amid laughter.

Activities of the board might go under two main heads, the speaker continued. The first is naturally the problem of good road communications great moment to this district and the in the district. This problem was of board has already accomplished a great deal in bringing the district's needs before the government.

Under this head also was the question of special taxes, freight rates and transportation. An organization such as the board could exercise a great influence in helping the district end of these problems.

The second function of the board was really to advertise the district and city. This was done mainly by means of entertaining visiting bodies and important individuals and also by bringing the city and the district into the minds of neighboring places in various ways such as the recent good will trip sponsored by the board to Spokane.

Mr. Gray then went on to speak of the monthly luncheons of the board. He considered them splendid things for bringing the people of the city into contact with each other. Meeting friends around a common table gave the people of Nelson and also of other places a feeling of fellowship and good will.

Among the board's work lately was the assistance rendered by it in sending the prize-winning mining exhibit from the district of the Vancouver exhibition, Mr. Gray mentioned in passing.

Of course there was a class which continually knocked the work of the board. Their continual chant was "why don't you?"

"But we're used to this kind of person and we have enough fine wholehearted people in the board to make us indifferent to this class. If the board of trade here ever accomplished anything, it is entirely due to the splendid cooperation of the members of the board.

"I have never worked with a finer bunch, stated Mr. Gray.

In conclusion Mr. Gray declared that, "We are the citizens of no mean city and we have a place here that any man should be proud to claim as his own town and surely if it is worth while living in it, it is worth while working for its best advancement."

MUST INSPECT EVERY BOILER IN DISTRICT

S. H. Excell Tells of Work, Inspects Machines for Workmen's Compensation

With the duties of inspecting every piece of machinery in the district and testing every boiler and compression tank in the district, S. H. Excell, provincial boiler inspector and inspector for the workmen's compensation board of British Columbia, is using Nelson at present as a base from which to attack this job. He has he states, to inspect in the Kootenays over 400 boilers and close to 600 factories during his stay here. He has already gone over 120 boilers in the past few weeks in the Nelson district and has less than half of his work here completed.

Upon completing the inspection of 160 more boilers in the vicinity of Nelson and as many more machines about which men are engaged in work, Mr. Excell will move his headquarters to Trail where he has a five week's job inspecting the smelter compression tanks and hundreds of machines there. There are, he declares, 219 pressure tanks, including steam boilers, air tanks acetylene and other vessels containing gas under pressure in the smelter. Naturally, with the enormous number of men working about the machinery at the smelter Mr. Excell's work is exceptionally responsible and it is his duty to see to it that the danger of injury to the workers be reduced to a minimum.

Last Thursday, Mr. Excell inspected the plants of the West Kootenay Power and Light Company. It took him the better part of two days to complete his work there. The electrical department of the plant was not included in Mr. Excell's inspection. His work was to inspect the oil pumps and pressure vessels.

Testing boilers is the big part of Mr. Excell's work. He is, he states, required to test thoroughly every single boiler in the southern interior of British Columbia.

The method of testing is to fill the boiler with water by means of a small hand pump. When the boiler is completely full, all openings are closed to prevent the escape of any of it and two guages one for measure pressure and the other for measuring the stresses set up in the metal, are attached to the boiler. The water is then forced in under pressure until the pressure guage registers water pressure amounting to once and a half times the normal working pressure under steam.

Strain guage is an arrangement with two straddling legs which are placed one on either side of the seam of the boiler. As the compression of water within the boiler increases, the strain set up in the metal registers on the micrimeter attached to the strain guage.

In cases where the boiler is unable to withstand the test, breakages occur usually in the steel stays supporting the boiler inside or at the seams. All boilers must be edclared in good condition by Mr. Excell before they may operate again.
