SMITH READY FOR FLIGHT TO OAKLAND

TEMPERATURES TAKE BIG DIP IN SOUTHWEST

Thermometer Under Seasonal Average in Some States

OVERCOATS MAKE AN EARLY DEBUT

Frost Over Georgia and Carolines; No Change Expected

(By the Associated Press)

A hint of approaching winter brought topcoats out of the moth balls over a large part of the United States Monday.

The southeast felt its chilliest weather of the season while the weather bureau reported temperaturs over all the country were blow the seasonal average. Little change was expected for several days.

In New England temperatures down around freezing were felt. New York had a minimum Monday of 36, the same experienced by Chicago and much of the middle west. Some of the northerly cities of the mid-west, however, saw the mercury slip down as low as 30 degrees.

At Asheville, N.C., the minimum was 26. On the west coast San Francisco reported a minimum of 54 while Seattle had a low of 46 degrees.

Shreveport, La., felt 40-degree weather along with many southwestern cities. There was frost over much of Georgia and sections of North and S uth Caroline, extending west to Kentucky.

WARM IN ALASKA

KETCHIKAN, Alaska., Oct. 29 (AP).—Residents of southeastern Alaska sympathize with the New England and eastern states, as cold weather lays over them. I was 62 above here today. No snow has fallen yet.

QUAKE SHAKES HER FROM BED

Buildings Sway and Dishes Fall But No Serious Damage

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 29 (AP)—Downtown and residential Erie was shaken from end to end today by an earth disturbance.

Buildings swayed, housewives reported dishes fell from cupboard shelves and there was intense excitement but no serious damage occurred. One woman said she was thrown from her bed while asleep.

The shock occurred after 3 p.m., and was felt only for an instance. The seismograph observer at the University of Pittsburgh reported a slight shock had been registered within close proximity at 3:08 p.m.

WATER SPOUTS HIT BUFFALO

BUFFALO, N.Y., Oct. 29 (AP)—Tossing sea gulls into the air like feathers and crashing against the sea wall and docks, five huge waterspouts roared into Buffalo harbor from Lake Erie today amidst snow and a near gale wind.

At least 100 to 500 feet high, the spouts travelled in Indian file as they swirled into the harbor from a black spot on the lake about a mile southwest of the city.

Pushing everything upward in their wake, the blasts of water spent themselves against the break wall and docks along the harbor shore without causing any damage.

Kick From Cow Fatal for Farmer

WINNIPEG, Oct. 29 (CP).—A kick from a cow is usually not serious, but it appeared tonight it would be fatal for George Dougthy, 55. Riding in a truck with a load of cows, he was kicked out of the vehicle. His skull was fractured. Little hope for his recovery is held.

Delegates Match Wits in London

Representatives from three nations, Great Britain, United States and Japan, are in London to haggle over terms for a new naval treaty to replace the old London Naval Treaty which divided the ratio of navies on a 5-5-3 basis, with Japan on the short end. Now Japan is demanding equality. The representatives are shown above. Top, M. Matsudara (left), Japanese ambassador at London, and Rear Admiral Yamamoto. Center, Norman H. Davis, United States envoy-at-large. Below, Sir John Simon (left) and Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell, first lord of admiralty.

JAPAN'S NAVAL PLAN IS NOT ACCEPTABLE

Little Possibility of a Compromise; May End Limitation Pact

By HAROLD P. BRAMAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 29 (AP)—Japanese proposals for a new naval treaty to supplant the London and Washington pacts are not acceptable to the British and United States delegates, it was learned today.

The Japanese, it was understood, have been informed that the two powers are unable to accept Japan's flat declaration of the principle of equality and their proposal for a maximum or global tonnage basis of limiting armaments.

The next move in the vital discussions was therefore up to the Japanese. It was understood that unless

33 GET DOSE OF CASTOR OIL AND DIE

DAR-ES-SALEM, Tanganyika, Oct. 29 (CP-Havas).—Thirty-three native girl pupils of a school here complained as usual that the castor oil tasted "nasty" and then they died.

The government decreed a ban on castor oil throughout the country pending investigation.

Large Scale Production Is Ymir-Goodenough Aim

CREW RECONDITIONING WORKINGS OF YMIR FOR EARLY PRODUCTION

Goodenough Switches From Shipping to Development While Waiting; Will Find 30 Per Cent of Feed

By H. H. CURRIE

Once the largest independent gold producer the Kootenay has known, with 80 stamps dancing upon mill feed from 10 levels of its great ore zone, and a huge cyanide plant supplementing this process, the great Ymir mine, after a shutdown of 26 years, within a few days will have 70 picked miners and timbermen in its tunnels, raises and stopes preparing it for an operation that is designed to reach, by successive stages, the largest scale of its past history.

Simultaneously, from the stock issue of the new public company, Ymir Consolidated Gold Mines, Limited—part of the subscription being a dividend on Goodenough earnings from the late private company, Ymir Gold Mines, Limited—a 100-ton modern mill unit will be installed in a part of the strongly-built cyanide plant structure of the early days, a first unit that will start the program on its way toward an eventual 400 or 500-ton basis. A contract for this 100-ton

"I'm a Ring-Tailed Roaring Son of a Gun," Shouts Negro Sweep Winner

Holders of Horses In United States Have Various Plans for Spending Coin; Girl Quits School; Another Dolls Up for Photographer

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (AP).—A colored janitor just off Park avenue strutted into his basement today, shouting:

"Burn down the house: I'm a ring-tailed roaring son of a gun."

He had just been informed that his wife, Gertrude, had drawn a lucky ticket in the Irish hospital sweepstakes.

"Good luck has come my way," yelled the janitor, Everett Godfery, formerly of the West Indies. He roused his wife, who was ill, and who had signed herself "Unlucky Sue."

"I feel weak," said "Unlucky Sue," and collapsed in a chair.

As cables began sending in the names of 515 residents of the United States, who were sure of dividing $1,030,000 in prizes, "lucky" New Yorkers began their celebrations.

A 13-year-old schoolgirl in Queens, a red ribbon in her hair, decided to "stay home from school."

A music teacher in public school planned an European tour.

A mechanic yelled, "What," and dropped the telephone.

A Brooklyn stenographer excused herself and went home to "doll up" for photographers.

The race will be run next Wednesday at Newmarket, England. Every person who drew a horse will receive $2000. If his horse wins, the lucky holder of the winning ticket will get $150,000. Second place pays $75,000 and third place $50,000.

MANION MAY GET THE TRADE POST

More Fitted for Job Through His Long Experience

OTTAWA, Oct. 29—Just what will happen in cabinet affairs following resignation of Hon. H. H. Stevens, minister of trade and commerce is the question being asked on all sides at present.

The name of Hon. R. J. Manion is mentioned in connection with the vacant trade and commerce portfolio. The department of railways and canals, over which Dr. Manion presides, was at one time one of the most important in the government. For years, however, its work has been gradually shrinking.

WAVES CRASH OVER STEAMER

Part of Bridge on the Letitia Carried Off on the Atlantic

MONTREAL, Oct. 29 (CP) — Showing the effects of a severe battering by high seas in what mem*bers of the crew described as one of* the worst storms they have ever seen, the liner Letitia limped into port here tonight.

Part of the liner's bridge had been smashed in by the heavy seas and one of her lifeboats carried away in mid-Atlantic. Water was sent crashing over the ship's decks from stem to stern as huge waves swept over her bow, smashing in the bridge on the port side. Terrific seas and the wild weather forced the ship to fall considerably behind schedule.

After shoving her way through the Atlantic storm, the liner encountered more rough weather while steaming up the St. Lawrence Sunday. She was caught in the grip of the same gale that forced abandonment of the foundering schooner, Marie Lydia, which lost three of her crew in the stormy waters.

KENNEDY APPOINTED CHAIRMAN FOR MASS BUYING PROBE OPENING TODAY

Succeeds Stevens; Sessions to Get Under Way in Ottawa Today

OTTAWA, Oct. 29 (CP)—William W. Kennedy, Conservative member fo Winnipeg south-centre, succeeded Hon. Harry Stevens, former minister of trade and commerce, as chairman of the mass buying royal commission today as it prepared to continue under a new pilot but with the same objective—detecting flaws and abuses in the Canadian industial picture.

The commission held an executive session this afternoon, preparing for the public hearings which will open at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning and continue until sometime in December. The former chairman did not attend the meeting but it was announced that this was due to private business, arising from his resignation as a cabinet minister.

Fishermen from Nova Scotia will be the first witnesses heard by the commission but before a report for the opening of parliament, the following industries will be investigated, either striking new ground or following up evidence already heard: Chain stores, agricultural implements, flour mills and bakeries, canners, textiles and possibly gasoline. It is hoped to conclude the inquiry in December so that a report can be ready for the opening of parliament.

Announcement of the new chairman was made by Premier R. B. Bennett after a cabinet meeting. When the commission sat as a committee of the house of commons, it elected its own chairman but the government had the elective power when it became a commission. Mr. Stevens, although resigning the chairmanship, will continue as a member of the commission.

The commission will sit each day except Saturday and Sunday from 11-1 and 2.30 to 5 o'clock.

Hanson, New Brunswick Member, May Get Cabinet Post; Confers With the Premier

OTTAWA, Oct. 29 (CP)—The con*ference here today between* R. P. Hanson and Premier R. B. Bennett gave rise to rumors that Mr. Hanson was to be taken into the cabinet. He is the Conservative member for York-Sunbury, N.B., and as the New Brunswick representative would replace Hon. Murray MacLaren.

For some years the appointment of Col. MacLaren to be lieutenant-governor of New Brunswick has been forecast but never proved true. It is being again revived.

Should Mr. Hanson succeed Col. MacLaren in the cabinet it would be necessary to rearrange the portfolios. The latter is minister of pensions and national health and it is hardly probable a lawyer who is not a returned man would be placed at the head of this department. Mr. Hanson therefore doubtless would be given some other post if he came into the ministry.

After seeing the prime minister for a short time today Mr. Hanson said his entry into the cabinet had not been discussed. He is remaining in Ottawa until tomorrow and may see Mr. Bennett again.

A general rearrangement of the portfolios has been under consideration for some time it was learned and Mr. Bennett may take this occasion with the retirement of Hon. H. H. Stevens to put changes into effect.

YMIR-GOODENOUGH

mill unit will be awarded to the McCloskey Mining & Milling Service corporation of Vancouver, which designed it to meet requirements laid down by Manager O. D. Frith, following 64 mill tests of combined Ymir and Goodenough ore. It is likely this company will sub-let the construction portion of its contract, on which work must start quickly.

During the 2 1-2 months required for installation of the mill unit, and for provision of necessary operating buildings and plant, the Goodenough, the Ymir's junior partner on the big ore zone, halted production, as of October 15, after shipping 76 cars to Trail since February, and its crew of 28 men will be concentrated on development work until the two properties resume production concurrently.

LESSER CAMP AT FIRST

For temporary camp accommodation, a lease has been taken on camp buildings of the former Yankee Girl Consolidated — the Stobie-Forlong promotion—three-quarters of a mile further down the Wild Horse valley, which will serve until the spring. The bunkhouse can accommodate 100 men, and the messhouse is in proportion — both being large enough to take care of the temporary installation and construction crews, in addition to the big crew that first will be rehabilitating the Ymir workings, and later will be extracting ore from them.

The permanent camp will be located in association with the mill, and will embrace bunkhouse and messhouse for 100 men, transformer-station, compressor-house, machine-shop, assay office, and the general office. The housing accommodation will be provided in the spring, to complete the camp.

ELECTRIC HAULAGE

While mill installation and building construction are under way, and the Ymir mine is being reconditioned underground, Manager Frith will be rushing surface plant, which will include an electric haulage system from the No. 10 or main working level, through which all the Ymir ore will issue, to the ore bins at the mill, a distance of about a quarter of a mile. Mine supplies will go in by the same line. A six-ton electric locomotive will haul the trains of ore cars, which will receive their loads from the chutes in No. 10, all ore from the levels above being mined on the shrinkage plan, that is, allowed to slide down by gravity as the ore piles are diminished at the bottom. He will also install at once a 1000-cubic foot air compressor, with capacity for about eight drills besides the necessary hoists in the mine for taking up steel and other operating supplies. A twin to this compressor will come at a later date when the enlarged operation demands.

Heavy machinery, such as the six-ton locomotive, will be beyond the capacity of the small trestle bridges on the main Wild Horse road to carry, and the public works department is replacing them with fills. Three small bridges are to be thus replaced, and a crew has started work on the first of them.

It goes without saying that the Ymir Consolidated Gold Mines will be a customer of the West Kootenay Power & Light company for commercial power. That company's transmission line, previously built for the Wild Horse tunnel operation of the Yankee Girl Consolidated, will be available with but a short extension to deliver any volume required. The ultimate program laid out by Manager Frith and adopted by the directorate as a policy would not be feasible with any less stable and ample power supply.

WAITING ORE WORTH MILLION

Substantial factors in the decision to develop a large scale operation are a calculated 66,000 tons of ore left blocked out in the old Ymir workings, running $11 plus, with an estimated total value of $745,000; 27,000 tons of $21 ore blocked out in the Goodenough, on the opposite side of the hill, evaluated at $567,000; and 1500 feet of virgin ore zone between their closest underground workings. Apart from presumptive ore and possible ore, the positive ore actually blocked out in the Ymir alone would run a 50-ton mill five years. On past performance this great ore zone has produced more gold than any other in the Kootenay outside of Red mountain, on which Rossland was founded, for the Ymir yielded between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 in gold bullion—from which it paid $1,750,000 dividends—and the Goodenough, which has stoped only from two levels, has produced gold to the amount of $300,000.

A FAMOUS OPERATION

Located in 1896, equipped with its first battery of 40 stamps in 1898, and its second 40 in 1900, and adding the cyanide plant to increase recoveries in 1902, the Ymir in its heyday had one of the largest gold operations in the British Empire. The old operators first developed the three upper levels. Then they sank to No. 7, and ran intermediates. Finally they went in on No. 10, raised to No. 7, and opened more intermediates. Apparently the poor values on No. 10 led the operators to believe the property was playing out; at all events, they closed down an operation that had paid handsomely, leaving great blocks of ore unstoped and other blocks of vein matter that today, with better processes and the gold premium, classes as low grade milling ore.

A large scale operation, with mining and milling costs consequently at a minimum, can handle this low grade ore at a fair profit, and materially swell the total profits, Manager Frith figures. Hence the adoption of a large scale program.

LOWEST MINING COSTS

Mining costs, he figures, will be remarkably low, for several reasons. The ore is extremely friable, and requires few holes and little powder to break it down. There are good clean graphitic walls—the so-called "slickensides" — from which the ore comes away cleanly, without dilution of country rock. The width of vein or ore zone, from six to 28 feet, also cheapens the operation. Gravity handling of the ore from the upper workings, to which such big tonnage is adapted, tends in the same direction. While the early operators timbered thoroughly, the mine has stood for 30 years more or less, without the slightest movement of the ground being apparent, the stopes outlasting the timbers. The new operation accordingly will dispense with timber in the stopes, a further economy.

The low milling cost of course will be attained principally by putting through a large volume, though there will be an important saving in relative capital cost.

USE OLD BUILDING

While the early day 80-stamp mill, located directly before the portal of No. 10 tunnel, is a wreck, chiefly from blasting done by leasers who sought to salvage spillage, and will have to be cleared away, the sturdy cyanide structure, with strongly built foundations and many of them, and framed with the heaviest timbers, still challenges the seasons after 30 years. It embraces a tank floor, containing six cylindrical steel tanks each 32 feet in diameter, and at right angles to it a lower floor the width of two tanks.

Its central section of two floors will be converted to mill purposes, little more alteration being needed than removal of the central tanks, and putting in of concrete bases for the new machinery. One of the jutting wings will be taken down, and its timber used in building ore bins and crusher house above the mill. Much of the ore will arrive in larger sizes, and there will be both mechanical and hand sorting in the crusher house. Process water will be from Huckleberry creek, which in early days had power dams.

HIGH RECOVERIES

As designed the mill will embrace ball mill for fine grinding, classifier to separate the material requiring further reduction, flotation cells to capture finely divided material, and amalgamation. By the mill tests this process should recover 61 per cent of the gold as bullion.

The plant will be designed to make both a lead and a zinc concentrate if desired, though probably, at existing smelter values for zinc, only the lead concentrate will be made, as the gold lost would offset the zinc saved. No settling tanks will be employed, but the concentrates will be raked by a mechanical scraper in steam-heated concrete bins till dry, when they will fall through a grizzly into the dry bin, ready for shipment. Total recoveries will amount to 97 per cent of the gold, 99.7 per cent of the silver, 97 per cent of the lead, and 87 per cent of the zinc, if a zinc recovery is made.

A short three-mile haul to the company's loading platform at Ymir will put the concentrates on the rails for Trail smelter.

If mill installing, surface equipping, and mine conditioning keep up with the schedule laid down for them, production of bullion and concentrates will start with the first of the year, with the Ymir called on to provide 70 per cent of the feed for the mill, and the Goodenough 30 per cent.

WORK UP BY STAGES

The initial operation of mines and mill will be at the rate of 50 tons of ore a day, to get all parts of the operation in efficient and balanced working order, but in two or three months it will be worked up to the capacity of the mill, or 100 tons per day.

This, however, will be only a primary stage in the program, and it is expected that within two years 200 tons of ore will be going through in 24 hours, additional machinery in the remaining wing of the cyanide building providing the added capacity. This, as Manager Frith sees it, may be provided from earnings, without special financing; hence the interval allowed.

From this halfway mark a further expansion to at least 400 tons capacity, and likely considerably more, is contemplated, to bring the operation to the full scale that will reduce all operating costs to the minimum and permit the profitable utilization of the lowest grade ore. This last expansion will require addition to the building. A 400-ton mill, however, will not require four times the machinery of the original unit, nor will the first enlargement require a duplication of it. In both cases, the additions will be only for certain parts of the process, and the main channels will serve without extensive change.

Every part of the program now being put in motion contemplates this ultimate large scale operation, and everything that will be done will be designed for permanent use in this scheme. In this connection it can be borne in mind that the famous Ymir has operated on a 400-ton scale in the past, and without any Goodenough to swell its ore streams.

While the Ymir mine will be awakened from a quarter-century of slumber to renewed production and development, the Goodenough is a present performer of record.

IN WILD HORSE VALLEY

To picture the Ymir-Goodenough layout, one must mentally cross the Salmon or "Salmo" river at Ymir, take the road to the left, and ascend the Wild Horse valley to the point, three miles or a little more from Ymir, where Wild Horse creek, at the neck of the valley, receives from the left the water of Huckleberry creek, otherwise its north fork. Most of the broad valley is on the left bank of Wild Horse creek, as one goes up, and the Stobie-Forlong camp, and the Ymir mine cyanide plant and its power-house, are successively passed, before the stamp mill's ruins, facing the tenth or deepest Ymir tunnel, are reached in a bend of Huckleberry creek a few rods above its mouth. No. 10 is the lowest adit the Ymir mine can ever have, as it comes out at the valley's edge, and the mine structure, consisting entirely of drifts and stopes, strikes back into a mountain spur on the left hand, around which Huckleberry creek curves.

ORE ZONE SLICES SPUR

Through this spur slices the famous ore zone, to the further side, where the drifts of the Goodenough come in on it to open up its upper ore. This remarkably strong and persistent ore occurence—unique in fact for this character — probably was longer still in an earlier age, before the mountains were eroded to their present contours. The horizontal distance between the closest workings of the Ymir and the Goodenough is 1500 feet. On the one side of this virgin section is the Ymir development, 1100 feet in depth, with 10 numbered levels and a sub-level; on the other is the Goodenough development, of three levels, from which to date ore valued at $300 has been marketed.

The Goodenough road takes off from the Wild Horse road at the Stobie-Forlong camp, and following a little higher course, starts to circle the spur as it overlooks Huckleberry creek, turns back from it by switchback, and swings around across the shoulder to the further face, ending at the camp, which is at No. 2 level, a branch road dropping down to No. 3, which will shortly become the working level, and where the compressor plant is located.

GOODENOUGH FAST WORKER

Notwithstanding its fine performance to date, the Goodenough operation is one of the youngest of the Kootenay territory, its origin going back only six years or so. From the prospect stage it had a seven months development by the Goodenough Mines, Limited, a Kootenay financed company, with Mr. Frith in charge. Stobie-Forlong then took it under option with the Ymir, but after about four months it was shut down along with other Kootenay options under the aegis of that house. After a considerable interval H. Jackson and A. MacDonald, to whom it had reverted, reopened it and realized on 407 tons of ore. Then the Ymir Gold Mines, Limited, took it over, with the Ymir, financing the recent operation, which opened in 1933 with J. F. Coats as engineer in charge, Mr. Frith resuming the helm last February.

NEW DEEP WORK

This year's work has consisted in stoping ore from the two upper levels, while extending them, and in driving No. 3 tunnel, and starting a raise from it, over 4000 tons of ore being shipped to Trail. Recent shipments have been from three stopes on No. 1 level and two on No. 2—the latter being "L" stope, which has 170 feet of ore nine feet wide averaging close to an ounce in gold, and "K" stope, opened only in September, which goes over an ounce.

No. 3 level so far has opened 80 feet of ore, which diamond drill cores, as well as crosscuts on No. 2 suggest will ultimately be about 650 feet in length. The distance between No. 3 and No. 2—208 feet—is sufficient to justify a sub-level on this wide ore zone, and in the raise from No. 3 a station for this sub-level has been cut at 113 feet. The raise, a three-compartment one, for ore chute, timber chute, and manway, is now being continued, and when it is completed the sub-level will go ahead, No. 3 becoming automatically the main haulage level.

A No. 4 level is projected, 150 feet below No. 3 on the dip of the vein, for future development.

AIM UNDER OUTCROP

Meantime No. 1 tunnel, the furthest into the flat-topped mountain, is being continued toward the rich surface outcrop, the original discovery, on the Goodenough end of the 1500 feet of virgin ore zone between the two mines, an outcrop developed by two deep open cuts some distance apart, which show the ore zone to be 70 feet wide there, and to be carrying richer ore than any found elsewhere on either group. To get under this rich outcrop has been a primary objective of the Goodenough development, whose other ore has been picked up on the way.

While the 27,000 tons of ore still blocked out in the Goodenough after the year's shipping runs about $21, to $11 plus for the 66,000 tons blocked out in the Ymir, the latter is residue left in the workings, after abandonment of an operation in mid-career, with presumably the higher grade ore largely mined.

MOVE ORE THROUGH YMIR

But everything suggests that between the Ymir, and the Goodenough there should be productive ground, and that the Goodenough ore should also go down. Faces of various of the Ymir drifts show ore, including the face of No. 10 level, the lowest and poorest one.

When the Ymir workings are reconditioned, with new trackage from bottom to top, with two air-driven tugger-hoists installed for raising supplies to the upper levels, and with electric traction on No. 10 and on the surface, a development program will be launched simultaneously with commencement of production. This development program will include pushing No. 10 level through the 1500 feet of virgin area, and under the Goodenough workings, with which it will in due course be connected by raise, and for which it will eventually serve as the ore route, giving 600 feet depth under No. 3.

TRUCK TEMPORARILY

Manager Frith, figuring that in two years there will be the underground connection between the two mines to make them one operating unit, has decided that truck haulage of ore from the Goodenough to the mill will be cheaper, for the limited time it will continue in use, than an aerial tram, with its heavy first cost. A more direct road, with easier grades, will be built, from the Goodenough's No. 3 portal, to connect lower down with the existing road, to facilitate this ore hauling, as well as the taking up of supplies. Camp, now accommodating 28 men, and plant, now embracing compressor plant for three machines, and blacksmith shop with sharpener, are both being added to, as they will have work to do as long as the Goodenough maintains a separate existence.

By the time the mill is ready to turn over, and the Ymir mine is equipped to provide ore, new stopes will be ready in the Goodenough so that this end of the property will be in a position to supply its 30 per cent quota of the mill feed. This quota is proposed to be maintained also for the later and larger production.

A. M. Manson, K.C., was treasurer of the private company, and fills the same position in the public company that recently took over.

MOVE FINANCED

Authorized capital of the company is 3,000,000 no-par shares; 500,000 shares now being offered have been underwritten, and are already largely subscribed. This will provide funds for complete mill and mine plant up to a capacity of 100 tons of ore per day, and leave 1,250,000 shares in the treasury for the future.

Judging by the way the Goodenough operation has paid its way, producing a substantial dividend after meeting all mining and development costs and overhead, Manager Frith inclines to the belief that future extension of the Ymir-Goodenough operation will probably be effected from reserve of earnings.

BONDHOLDERS OF BANKRUPT CITIES FACE LOSS OF INTEREST FOR YEARS

Gray Urges Municipalities to Attempt Pay One Per Cent of Interest

VANCOUVER, Oct. 29 (CP)—If bondholders of financially embarrassed British Columbia municipalities were not willing to take the rate of interest offered them they might expect no interest for five and possibly 10 years, Hon. A. Wells Gray, minister of municipal affairs, declared today in an address to the financial bureau of Vancouver board of trade.

"The government, or the municipalities, have no better offer to make," Mr. Gray declared. "If the bondholders are not willing to accept the 1 per cent now offered them before the legislature meets, there will be no legislation passed on the matter. I'll forecast that they won't collect any interest for five, yes, maybe 10 years."

50 OR 60 DEFAULT

Mr. Gray stated the British Columbia bondholders are not the only ones to complain. He said that in Ontario, 50 or 60 municipalities have defaulted.

"If these municipalities defaulted," he said, "the people who should be dealing with the matter are bonddealers. Many of these municipalities can get by with a little help. Bond dealers are the proper link between the municipalities and the bondholders."

The minister said his department has been gathering data which may help the government decide by what means British Columbia municipalities can be aided through legislation at the next session. What that legislation will be, he could not predict.

MAKE SOME ARRANGEMENT

He said the government has simply advised defaulting municipalities to do their best to pay some interest—to make some amicable arrangement with their creditors.

The government's commissioners in North Vancouver and Burnaby had given their opinion to the effect that their municipalities could not pay any interest, he said, and he had urged them to try to pay 1 per cent with a revision every three years and no interest more than 4 per cent for 25 years.

URGES COMPROMISE

Mr. Gray urged the bondholders to accept a compromise in order to protect their equity and he declared the government itself has "taken the biggest beating." They hold $900,000 of Burnaby bonds, $400,000 of North Vancouver bonds and $163,000 of North Vancouver district bonds.

Incidental to municipal problems he cited the case of North Vancouver municipalities and the restored Second Narrows bridge. Restoration of the bridge meant a loss of $50,000 a year to North Vancouver in ferry receipts, he said, yet the municipality has no chance of participating in bridge revenue for 20 years.

Mr. Gray said he thought it would have been better for the federal government to treat the repair of the bridge as a relief job and present it to the municipalities.

RASPBERRIES ARE PICKED AT CRESTON

Believe Indicates a Late and Mild Winter

300 REGISTERED ON VOTERS LIST

Women's Institute Has a Bridge Party

CRESTON, B.C., Oct. 29.—Thoroughly ripe raspberries have been gathered in village gardens throughout the week. This is taken to indicate a late and mild winter. Everbearing strawberries are still coming from vines in sheltered locations.

For the week October 19 to 26, the valley has had a rainfall of almost two inches, .89 of it coming on Wednesday. The moisture is most welcome on unirrigated lands and all fruit trees will go into winter in fine shape. The rains have also seeded up fall ploughing.

Mr. McMahon has arrived from Toronto and is a guest of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. Speers.

A. Biccum has moved his second-hand store stock into his new building on Wilson avenue, and the premises he has just vacated is being fitted up as a butcher shop.

The Putnam-Cartwright packing shed is the first to finish the season's pack of apples and is now closed. The firm, however, has still a quantity of apples to move.

Word is to hand from Esquimalt of the death of Mrs. J. P. Compton, a former well-known resident of Creston, who moved to the coast about 10 years ago. She is survived by her husband, Capt. Crompton, and son, Frank. She was in her forty-fifth year.

Joe Miller was a visitor at Yahk, finding up business in connection with the ranging of cattle in that area while the flats at Creston were under water the past season.

300 REGISTERED

Over 800 names are shown on the new federal voters list for the village of Creston and territory immediately adjoining, according to the lists posted by R. Sinclair Smith and H. H. Taylor, who had charge of the work in north and south Creston. As compared with the lists compiled in 1930 there is a gain of 300 voters. At Erickson there is also a considerable gain. On the list used in the provincial election a year ago there were 141 names. The 1934 federal list shows 208 names. The gain at the latter point is due to a considerable influx from the fairle to Arrow creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Celli are back from a two weeks' motor trip to points on the Pacific coast. Returning, they made an inspection of the Grand Coulee dam.

G. Timmons and W. Barner have left for Sanca, where the former has assumed development work on the Lakeview mine.

Harry Helme has been busy with his truck bringing in the apple crop from most of the ranches at Camp Lister, where there is not sufficient storage.

Charles Moore has been busy surveying the lands on Kootenay Flats which are being dyked by Creston Reclamation Co., Ltd. Some breaking has already been done.

The planer at the John Huscroft sawmill plant at Huscroft has been operating all week, dressing the balance of the season's cut of lumber.

Reports from Kitchener state that the relief camp at the airport is filling up fast. Some 110 men are now in camp and there are new arrivals almost every day from the prairies.

Frank Putnam, M.P.P., has returned from a business visit to Beaverdell.

INSTITUTE HAS BRIDGE

Creston and District Women's in*stitute had 10 tables of players for* the bridge drive at the parish hall at which the high score prizes were captured by Mrs. Colin Sinclair of Flagstone and R. M. Telford of Erickson. Consolation honors were taken by Mrs. J. E. Johnston and W. H. Kemp of Erickson. Lunch was served after cards.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Paul and family, along with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul of Turner Valley, were visitors here, guests of Mrs. Marshall. The Pauls were residents here till about 10 years ago, and were struck with the growth in evidence at all points in the valley.

Frank Pratt, a recent arrival from Calgary, has leased the Mrs. J. T. Vance orchard property east of town, and will get immediate possession.

George Willis is the last of the local men who went to the prairie for harvest and threshing, to return.

Mrs. Frank Ebbutt and daughter, Shirley, of Britannia mine, who have been visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Webster, have left for home.

R. H. Speaker has returned from a trip to eastern Canada, which took him as far as Toronto.

Mrs. W. Currie is spending a few days with old friends at Fernie and other Crow points.

Dan Alton, who has been employed here during the fruit harvest, has returned to his home at Fernie.

Syd. Scott has returned from Cranbrook, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis at St. Eugene hospital, earlier in the month, and is making a nice recovery.

W. G. Littlejohn, Creston valley representative of the B.C. tree fruit board, spent a few days at Cranbrook and points in the Crows Nest pass.

Mrs. R. Dodds is a visitor at Canyon, a guest of Mrs. Jock McRobb.

*Robert Willis, who has been em*ployed at Eholt for some months, is on a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Willis at Lakeview.

Miss Margaret Stapleton has left for several weeks' holiday with relatives in Vancouver.

TO BUILD HALL

A series of dances has been ar*ranged to raise funds for the erec*tion of a community hall at Alice Siding, just north of town. The first, at the Guy Constable packing shed, was well attended. The music was entirely by local talent, including A. B. Ness, Bob Marshall, Ron. Smith, George Willis and E. Constable.

Miss Clara Morrow has arrived from Trail on a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morrow.

Miss Minnie Downes has left for Tadanac, where she has secured a position.

Tom Barrett of Cranbrook was a guest at the home of Mrs. E. Garfield here.

Mrs. H. Dykstra of Lethbridge is on a month's visit with her father, M. P. Wiltse, at the Arrow Creek Fox farm.

Miss Jarjorie Bell has left for Cranbrook, where she has secured employment.

B. Rouch of Cranbrook, was a visitor with Mr. and Mrs. H. Cartmel. Mr. Rouch is in charge of game conservation work in the Cranbrook district.

*Mr. and Mrs. Williams of Van*couver, who had been on a visit with the former's sister, Mrs. Stapleton, have returned home.

Mrs. E. S. Dawson of Kimberley is here on a visit with her daughter, Mrs. G. R. John.

Mrs. S. A. Speers and Miss Betty Speers are back from a month's holiday with friends in Toronto and other points in Ontario.

The Junior W. A. of Christ church had a successful bean supper in the Parish hall when, despite most disagreeable weather, the cash intake was about $25.

Miss Irene Johnson of Calgary, has arrived to spend a vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Johnson.

H. Smith of Kimberley has assumed the position of assistant C.P.R. agent at Creston, replacing E. Leveque, who has been transferred to Nelson.

Reports from most points in the valley indicate that deer are scarce this year and, so far, very little venison has been brought in. Geese, however, are reported more plentiful.

M'GEER FEELS HARRY STEVENS WAS SLIGHTED

Treatment Indicates Risk Run When Aim Protect Public

TERMS TREATMENT "OUTRAGEOUS"

Issue Now Is Whether Monopolies Will Rule in Land

VANCOUVER, Oct. 29 (CP)—The resignation of Hon. H. H. Stevens as chairman of the committee in charge of the price spread investigation at Ottawa indicates the risk that every public man must run who dares to make any attempt to protect the public from the avariciousness and greed of predatory monopoly, G. G. McGeer, M.L.A., stated today.

"Granted that Mr. Stevens may have erred by overlooking the rules of parliamentary procedure," Mr. McGeer said. "Possibly he should have consulted the cabinet before informing the public of the facts, but the minister's methods are not now the real issue. Something infinitely more important has arisen out of the controversy.

PUBLIC ENTITLED TO KNOW

"That Mr. Stevens is quite correct when he says that the investigation dealt with a fundamental feature of the economic structure, namely that of the merchandising system, cannot be overlooked. Undoubtedly, in connection with such an investigation, the public was entitled to the fullest measure of information and no government has the right to censure a minister for disclosing wrong doing.

"The outrageous treatment according to him by Mr. Bennett and his colleagues constitutes a flagrant example of the kind of wilful indifference to and deliberate repudiation of the public's interest of which the public should be aware.

GREED PREVAILS

"The open repudiation of Mr. Stevens is merely an evidence of the real attitude of the government that is, more than any other factor, the cause of poverty and destitution in the midst of abundance. Greed prevails in high places when social justice should rule.

"The resignation of Mr. Stevens raises the one great issue of immediate significance—shall government serve and protect the public on the basis of the greatest good to the greatest number or shall government ignore the welfare of honest business and the people by maintaining and protecting monopolies and the people by maintaining and protecting monopolies and privileges that are resigned to permit the few to exploit the mass.

"Frankly, my sympathies in this particular instance are with Mr. Stevens and I have sent him the following wire: 'Sorry your splendid work has been interrupted but wish to pay tribute to your courage and to congratulate you upon your stand.'"

WARM YEAR FOR NELSON

High Tmperatures Are Much Higher Than Average

Besides being drier and sunnier than average, 1934 to date has been unusually warm. Going back to the first month of the year, January, the highest maximum temperature for the month was 44 degrees as compared with a 31-day average of 25 degrees. The same comparison holds right down to the present month.

April's high was 82 degrees as compared with an average of 46 degrees. During July the high point for the year was reached, 102. The average for July is 66 degrees. October's high so far is 70 degrees as compared with 47 degrees for the average.

Last year the highest point the government thermometer registered was 99 degrees and the lowest was 16 degrees below. The total rainfall is well below last year's total of 23.13 inches and Nelson will have to have a much greater snowfall than average to equal last year's total of 158 inches. The average is 100.8 degrees.

Maximum temperatures for the 10 months of the present year, together with the average maximum temperatures for corresponding months taken over a period of 31 years:

	1934	Aver.
January	44	25
February	47	28
March	58	36
April	82	46
May	87	53
June	90	60
July	102	66
August	95	64
September	80	55
October	70	47

Few Beggars in Soviet Capital's Streets Despite Warnings of "Hell"

A TRIP TO RUSSIA

Wife of Pierre van Paassen, noted European newspaper correspondent, and an experienced journalist in her own right, Coralie van Paassen, Nelson Daily News European correspondent, is visiting Russia. One of her series of articles describing vividly what she sees there, follow. The articles are written in an informal way from material gathered from personal contact with the people of the country. Don't miss a single one.

MOSCOW, Oct. 29.—The last thing I saw in Paris on the evening I took the train for Moscow was an announcement on a huge bill-poster on the wall in the north station that the "grand journaliste," Henri de Kerillis, had just returned after a month's trip in Russia and was going to address a mass meeting where he would tell the world all about the "enfer Sovietique," the Soviet hell. It was too late to cancel my ticket, and the whistle was flowing so I resigned myself to the inevitable. In Berlin the next morning I bought the Berliner Tageblatt at the Friedrichstrasse station and in that paper on the front page I read a graphic account by Herr Paul Scheffer about "Die Hoelle von Raeterussland", the hell of Soviet Russia. It was a most discouraging description and I sat mentally debating whether I would get off the train, until I saw some Nazis on the platform hail some other Nazi and I thought about the days when Herr Scheffer was still a free man and could write what he wanted, and the whistle blew again and off we went.

PASSENGER'S WARNING

A little beyond Warsaw a lady came in my compartment, who told me in the course of a conversation she opened, that she was the daughter of a former Russian diplomat. She not only advised me strongly to go back whence I came, but she flew into a fit of hysterics when I said I had no intention of going back until I had at least seen Moscow.

"You'll see nothing but cemeteries," she called out. "You have been led astray by propaganda from the red murderers. There is nothing in Moscow, nothing but corpses and hunger and misery."

"But," I said, "madame, there were 15,00 American tourists visiting Russia this summer alone and I know several of them who came to tell me in Paris how much they were impressed. . . ."

"Lies, lies, lies," she screamed again. She was bringing the other passengers out into the corridor with her yells. "The buildings they show foreign visitors," she went on, "are just walls, false fronts like the movie people put up in Hollywood, there is nothing behind them but cemeteries and corpses. You are going to a hell on earth."

Hell again, I thought. But I said nothing, for the woman was obviously out of her mind.

FIND FEW BEGGARS

And now I am nearly 10 days in this Soviet "hell" and I must say that it isn't such a bad place after all. The streets are full of people and busy. On the faces I can't read any signs of melancholia. Maybe I am a victim of illusion, or maybe the Soviet power has called out those tens of thousands of pedestrians just to impress the foreign visitors. It is true I have seen a few beggars and I have seen a street fight between two men, but I am so used to the sight of the beggars who sleep in the doorway across the street from where I live on the Rue St. Romain in Paris, that I did not pay enough attention maybe to their Russian colleagues.

All joking apart, I declare, that all that vast host marching up and down the streets of Moscow (a few, but very few excepted), looked well-fed and healthy. I heard a good deal of laughing. And on the whole they were well-dressed and well-shod. Emile VanderVelde, the Socialist leader, and Belgian minister of state, who visited Russia a couple of years ago, told us at our home in Paris that he thought a lot of people in Moscow were abominably shod. Things have improved a lot since M. VanderVelde was here, For with the exception of some peasants in the market, who wore a kind of straw shoes—of the kind their fathers have worn for centuries, home-made things—all the people were rather heavily booted. As in Poland and in all Slavic countries the men seem to go in for knee boots, even those working in offices. Stalin is always photographed in high boots. It must be the mud of centuries that accustomed them to those heavy things.

WEAR OLD-FASHIONED GARB

You don't see any extravagantly dressed in Moscow. The professors at the Polytechnic Institute which I visited this afternoon do not differ in dress from the workmen. A shirt with a belt and high boots, just as you see in old photographs of Count Tolstov on his estate. The czar also used to dress that way when he was in private, I am told.

Few men wear collars. Only the younger element go in for this fash*ion. But 10' are astonishingly clean.* Especially after nightfall when everybody puts on a white roubashka it seems, to go promenading along the boulevards or in the parks. A whole city of people dressed in white. But they keep their boots on. No. I must confess my first impressions of this great big new world are not so bad. No hell at any rate. I would not dare make comparisons with such streets as the Etuves St. Martin in Paris or the Nalewski in Warsaw, Moscow certainly is not *one big slum as some have describ*ed it. It swarms with old palaces, 40 times 40 church and masses of imposing new buildings.

But the housing question in spite of the extensive rows of new apartment houses and the nationalization of hundreds of palaces remains acute. The population stands now at three millions seven hundred thousand. They can't build fast enough to accommodate the influx. Moreover, the death rate is constantly sinking and the birth rate is going up as nowhere else in the world. statistics show. These are strange things for a country which some call a hell. There is still a shortage of certain articles, soap, for instance. I had heard of this before I left so I had taken a whole box of soap with me, for my own use and to do some people a favor with.

WON'T RISK SPECULATION

I have one cake left. The customs officers at the border looked at the box in amazement. "You don't need al that soap in a month," said one of them. "What do you intend to do with all that soap? Do you intend to sell this soap?" "No," I said. "What do you think?"

"I think," he said, "I will let you keep one cake and hold the rest here, where you can claim it when you pass through here on your way out." And he added: "We don't take chances on speculators in this country!"

"Bureaucrat!" I hissed at him.

"Bourgeois!" he hissed back.

A listener is as bad as the gossip. If it were not for hope all hearts would break.

E. W. BACKUS DEAD AT N.Y.

Rich Manufacturer and Lumberman Dies at Hotel

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (AP).—Edward W. Backus, 74, wealthy manufacturer and lumberman here on a business trip from Minneapolis died early today at the Vanderbilt hotel, where he had been stopping since Friday.

Backus notified the hotel desk at 6:30 a.m. that he had been stricken with heart pains and Dr. Francis J. Murray, hotel physician, hurried to the man's room. Backus soon lapsed into unconsciousness and died shortly afterward.

A policeman was summoned and he removed the dead man's effects to the East 35th street police station. Among them was discovered 200,000 paper mill stock certificates, $132 in cash and a will.

Seymour W. Backus, a son, was notified in Minneapolis by telephone. He made arrangements for the care of the body which, meantime, remained at the hotel.

POLICE CHIEF GYRO MEMBER

Welcomed at Weekly Luncheon; Plan for Season Activities

Chief of Police Alex Stewart was received into the Nelson Gyro club Monday night at the club luncheon in the Hume silver ball room, A. E. Mann, past president, conducted the installation and a welcome was given on behalf of the club by President P. H. Sheffield. It was the first meeting of the club since the restrictions on public gatherings and the first part of the evening was spent in preparations for future entertainments to be sponsored by the club, and in the presentation of reports of several committees. John Cartmel wound up the evening with an account of his recent holiday trip in the south.

Douglas Cummins reported on the progress of the hoedown which the club is sponsoring this week and announced committee members. Mr. Cummins has been busy during the past week on plans for the club's annual dance and entertainment de luxe.

Committees for the hoedown are V. Owens, Chief of Police Alex Stewart, decorations; J .D. Notman, music and floor arrangements; R. E. Horton, P. E. Poulin, Harry Ferguson, and Jack Morris, games; D. D. Townsend and Austin Carter, refreshments; R. D. Barnes, tickets. The possibilities of sponsoring the Scottish players again on their trip through, and of staging of another play, were dealt with, J. D. Notman reported on the former and R. D. Barnes on the latter.

LITTLE THEATRE ASSOCIATION

President P. H. Sheffield, speaking of the activities of the Nelson Little Theatre association, stressed the importance of the movement. All over the Dominion associations were springing up to bear evidence that the legitimate stage still held its charm. People still liked to see the actors "in the flesh." The play that the Nelson association was soon to produce, "And So To Bed," was a happy farcical drama as well as a fine character study, Mr. Sheffield stated.

Guests of the club were William McLean of Toronto, Earl Duke of Vancouver and Cecil Lambert of Nelson. Mr. Duke brought greetings from the coast club and said the "boys" were going strong. He had attended a Kelowna luncheon and said Kelowna members were going to give other clubs a run for the attendance contest prize. H. S. Watson reported sending flowers to Dr. H. H. MacKenzie, now in the hospital. The doctor was doing fine and would soon be out again, he said.

John Cartmel reported having had a pleasant trip in the United States, the weather and travelling conditions combining to make it an ideal holiday. Mr. and Mrs. Cartmel made the trip which took them south to Agua Caliente and altogether they travelled 5397 miles. On the return trip they travelled over the new Pacific Red Wood highway. Mr. Cartmel visited a sister in San Francisco and a brother in Los Angeles. One day the Nelsonite ate at a restaurant frequented by Hollywood stars and saw a number of actors and actresses in their stage garb, Roman gladiators in armor, and bathing beauties in their "war paint."

The trip along the Oregon highway and a visit to a famous cave were also described.

Gordon Bennett was called upon to report on Kootenay flats and gave an account of his duck hunting expedition.

COUNCIL MUST SANCTION BAN

Medical Officer of Health Has Consulted Council Both Times It Was Stated

Alderman W. B. Bamford raised the question at the Nelson council meeting Monday night as to what the council's attitute would be for future bans. He stated that he thought the council should be communicated with before any bans were place on the city.

It was pointed out that the city council had been interviewed and the ban sanctioned both times it was placed on the city, and that only through the council could the ban be placed on the city. On the second occasion the decision of the mayor and four of the councillors was obtained even though a meeting was not called.

There was a difference of opinion expressed as to whether the medical officer of health should consult the medical association of the city before urging that a ban should be placed on the city. Some urged that fithe medical officer of health decided a ban was necessary that was sufficient, whereas others held that if the medical officer of health desulted it would provide the aldermen, as laymen in health, with a broad opinion on the matter.

ONE APPLICATION FOR RAIL BOARD

One application has been made for consideration when the board of railway commissioners meet in Nelson Nov. 9. The Arrow Lakes Lumber Company, Limited, at Nakusp has applied for a reduction in rates on lumber from Nakusp to the prairie provinces and Ontario; and export rates to Quebec and the eastern seaboard and to New Westminster and Vancouver.

The board has requested that where practicable the parties should file copies of the documents submitted, to be used at the hearing.

Scouts and Cubs Active This Week

Scouting in Nelson will get into full swing this week, stated District Scout Commissioner J. M. Dronsfield. Tuesday is set for the first meeting of No. 1 pack and No. 3 troop; No. 2 troop will meet Thursday night; No. 1 troop will meet Friday. Straight Scout and Cub work will be taken with a view to the different boys passing tests in the near future.

B. C. Roads League Again Asks for a Highway Commission

VANCOUVER, Oct. 29 (CP)—Reiterated demand for a highway commission in British Columbia is expressed in a resolution adopted here by the executive of the Good Roads league and forwarded to the provincial government.

The resolution was passed "in view of press reports to the effect that the provincial government did not intend to introduce legislation for the establishment of a highway commission at the coming session of parliament and whereas this commission was promised at the time of the last provincial election and the necessary machinery for setting it up should not prove an expensive undertaking."

The executive decided to launch a membership campaign and to have an estimate prepared of the cost of paving the highway from Osoyoos to the coast. The estimate will be submitted to the provincial government before its delegation leaves for Ottawa to attend the conference of premiers.

Chabot on Way to Join Hawks

TORONTO, Oct. 29 (CP).—Lorne Chabot, former Rangers, Toronto and Canadiens goalkeeper, left his home here tonight to report to the Chicago Blackhawks, Stanley cup champions of the National Hockey league. Chabot said he will sign a contract on his arrival at Chicago, his terms having been met by the Hawks.

The difference between borrowing money and borrowing trouble is that one can still borrow more of the latter.

The Inside Nerves

Control the Vital Organs

Every beat of the heart,
Every breath of the lungs
Is the result of expended nerve force.
These inside, or sympathetic nerves
Direct and control the machinery of the body.
When you are worried and nervous and sleepless
These bodily organs become weak and slow in action,
Their motive power—nerve force, is running low.
You may not consider yourself sick,
But what is worse than a nervous breakdown.
Unfortunately nerve troubles do not correct themselves.
It is necessary to build up new nerve force.
This can be done by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food,
The time-proven restorative of blood and nerves.

Judge Bucks the Sending of Money Out of Canada

MONTREAL, Oct. 29 (CP)—There are too many cases, Mr. Justice J. Bumbray intimated today, of naturalized citizens sending money to foreign countries to support their families there. Hereafter, he declared, no naturalization papers will be issued to an applicant unless he can show that his wife and children, if any, reside in Canada.

Flashes From the Wires

CHICAGO — The United States government with unexpected abruptness rested its mail fraud case against Samuel Insull and followed with a vigorous resistance to an attempt by Stanley Field, one of the 16 co-defendants, to obtain a verdict of not guilty.

EDMONTON—Third man to join the old Royal Northwest Mounted police when it was formed in Ottawa in the early 70s, James McKernan, 83, is dead here.

NEW YORK—X-ray motion pictures which for the first time will show the living human heart in animated cartoon style were described to the Society of Motion Picture Engineers.

These cartoons are pulsating shadows on a movie film, made definite by careful outline tracings. The heart thus revealed was said to be so graphic as to offer medicine a new method of diagnosis of heart diseases which are the foremost cause of deaths in the United States.

MILWAUKEE — Teddy Yarosz, claimant to the world middleweight championship wins a 10-round decision from Johnny Phagan, Chicago negro.

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt's policy-making aviation commission seriously considered a proposal for United States participation in a net-work of airship lines providing speedy transportation across the Atlantic and Pacific.

Two world recognized lighter-than-air leaders urged such a step before the commission—Dr. Hugo Eckner, who has flown 600,000 miles in his Graf zeppelin, and Paul W. Litchfield, whose firm built the navy's Akron and Macon.

HAVANA—Eight persons were killed in a political clash in Pinar Del Rio and the Cuban government suspended constitutional guarantees in Havana and Oriente provinces for another 30 days.

VICTORIA — Sustained objection to pooling being included in any scheme for the marketing of fluid milk countenanced by the provincial marketing board was made by J. W. deB. Farris, K.C., today before the B.C. board, as the highlight in a day-long argument of marketing plans. This, said Mr. Farris was the rock on which the Dairy Products Sales Adjustment act had foundered when given a practical trial a year or two ago.

SEVILLE, Spain—Plans to make Seville the key port in transatlantic zeppelin service were announced here by Emilio Moreno, sub-secretary to th presidency.

MONTREAL—A letter from President E. A. Gilroy of the Canadian Amateur Hockey association stated that transfers of players to the maritime provinces after January 1 last will not be countenanced.

Alberta Liberals Seek Extension of North Border

EDMONTON, Oct. 29 (CP)—Holding that development of the north had suffered because the northwest territories had been administered at Ottawa, W. R. Howson, M.L.A., Alberta Liberal, tonight had announced that the provincial party platform would seek the extension of Alberta's north boundary to the Arctic ocean. The extension would double the size of the province.

Explaining his proposal, Mr. Howson said "Alberta must seek new sources of revenue and our present population cannot be asked to carry even the present burden. Our people are now taxed beyond the limit of their ability to pay.

VETS BOUNCE KID PLAYERS

GALT, Ont., Oct. 29 (CP).—Toronto Leafs of the National Hockey league bid farewell to Galt, training center, by staging an exhibition game when Eddie Powers' Whites defeated Dick Irwin's Blues 5-4. The Whites are Leafs' regulars of the N.H.L. season.

Herbie Lewis and Laurie Aurie of Detroit Red Wings and Normie Himes of New York Americans took the ice to strengthen the ranks of the Yannigans, and Bill Courtney of Toronto, former goaler of the old Ontario professional league, was in the nets for the Blues.

Newcomers to the Leafs impressed fans with their speed. Harvey Jackson, however, showed most speed.

The Thomas-Boll-Kilrea line and the new kid line of Kelly, Metz and Art Jackson displayed some real aggressiveness and a battling spirit. "Flash" Hollett and Happy Day tumbled the boys about when they hit the defence and King Clancy and Red Horner replied by showing no leniency with the kids.

TRAIL SKI CLUB TAKES NEW NAME

TRAIL, B.C., Oct. 29—The Trail-Rossland Ski club will hereafter be known as the Trail Ski club, it was decided at a meeting in the Memorial hall Monday night. Last year the club was formed in Rossland and it asked the local body to drop that name from the title. As members of the Trail club who are from Rossland will be joining the Rossland club, the Trail body decided to omit the word Rossland as its activities would have little or no relation to that city.

A number of volunteers will work on the hill at the Nels Nelson site Saturday and Sunday. Bert Bothum and Bob Linburn, who have been working at the hill site for some time asked for additional aid.

City Council Briefs

Instructions were given by the Nelson city council Monday night for the city clerk to effect collection of road and poll tax from several employees of the Dominion government who had so far escaped the taxes, although subject to them.

The offer of Alf Erickson for three lots just off Houston and Fall streets was rejected by the council but he will be offered them for $40 a lot. Mr. Erickson proposed to pay $25 a lot.

Keep Up Pay for Women Workers or Form Own Party

OTTAWA, Oct. 29 (CP)—Dismissal of women workers would not in any way relieve or solve the unemployment problem, Ida Smith, president, asserted tonight to an executive meeting of the Ottawa Business Women's Liberal club.

"And may I add that in the event of such a plan, or policy, being adopted by our country and being put into practice, the women of Canada would doubtless unite in a common effort to sponsor a party of their own," she declared. She urged the members of the club to cooperate with a view to improving the wage scale of women workers in Canada. Men and women should recieve the same rate of wages for similar work.

...Helps to AVOID MANY COLDS altogether

...New Formula BY MAKERS OF VICKS VAPORUB Remarkably Successful

VICKS VA-TRO-NOL for Nose & Throat

Quick!—At that first nasal irritation, sniffle or sneeze—just a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol. It stimulates the functions provided by Nature—in the nose—to prevent colds, and to throw off colds in their early stages. Used in time, Va-tro-nol helps to avoid many colds entirely.

Where irritation has led to a clogged-up nose (a stuffy head cold or nasal catarrh) Va-tro-nol penetrates deep into the nasal passages, reduces swollen membranes, clears away clogging mucus—brings comforting relief.

Better CONTROL of Colds

This new aid in preventing colds, together with Vicks VapoRub, the modern external treatment for colds, forms the basis of Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds—to help reduce their number and duration. The Plan is explained in each Vicks package.

CRANBROOK WINS HONORS AT BLAIRMORE MUSIC FESTIVAL

Choral Society and Symphony Group Are Seconds

W. BLINSTON IS FIRST IN A SOLO

Shower for Cranbrook Hospital Proves a Big Success

CRANBROOK, B.C., Oct. 29—On Saturday a special train containing Cranbrook's entrants in the musical festival held at Blairmore at the last of the week, left the city at 7 a.m. and returned somewhere around dawn Sunday, morning, the competitors having enjoyed the various competitions entered and bringing home a fair share of the honors in their classes. The groups attending were the Cranbrook Symphony orchestra, the Cranbrook Choral society, and the Anglican church choir, with several entrants in vocal and instrumental solo classes. These, together with a few well wishers, made the number of those who attended the festival about 100.

The Cranbrook Choral society, with David Morgan as leader, received a marking of 164 for their two numbers, this being one mark below the winning mark of 165 accorded the Crows Nest Pass Choral society under T. S. Benyon. The latter was a much larger choir than the Cranbrook society. Mr. Morgan received the highest praise as a leader, the adjudicator stating that at times the choir did not quite carry out his excellent ideas.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA SECOND

The Cranbrook Symphony orchestra under William Raven was also marked second to a Crows Nest rival, this being the Crows Nest Pass Amateur Symphony orchestra, with W. H. Moser conducting. This turns the tables as Mr. Raven's musicians have been marked ahead of groups from the Pass at former festivals both at Blairmore and Cranbrook. The Crows Nest Pass orchestra played with excellent effect the "Valse Trieste" which was one of the numbers played by the Cranbrook orchestra in winning the shield last spring. This year's numbers played by Cranbrook were the "Magic Flute" overture and "Pomp and Circumstance," a number that has been a favorite with the orchestra's audience here and elsewhere.

The Cranbrook Anglican church choir, an aggregation of excellent voices well blended under the baton of A. E. Turner, received a good marking for their numbers and were the only competitors in their class. They have shields hung from former festivals.

CRANBROOK MAN WINS

William Blinston of Cranbrook won the highest marks in the wind instrument solo class. In the vocal solo class open to winners of previous competitions Mrs. George MacDonald, contralto, of Cranbrook, received the highest praise for her voice and her artistic handling of her song. Marks were withheld in this competition, rather to the disappointment of the competitors.

Other Cranbrook competitors winning complimentary remarks though not first or second standing in their class were Miss Sybil Norgrove, in the vocal solo under 20 class; Miss Barbara Fink in the open violin solo class and Dorothy Hayden in the vocal solo under 12.

It was noticed that all markings given by R. W. Gibson, adjudicator, were lower than those received by the competitors for similar efforts at the hands of previous adjudicators. Those accustomed to a marking of 90, here found that it was probably in the neighborhood of 80.

Accompanying the competitors were President E. W. Sjodin and Secretary H. J. Collier of the Cranbrook festival committee, Mrs. Sjodin, Mrs. Collier, Miss Audrey Collier, Miss Irene McInnis, J. F. Smythe and the Courier staff and others.

JAM AND PICKLE SHOWER

The annual jam and pickle shower held by the members of the Hospital aid for the St. Eugene hospital here proved to be one of the most successful since the inauguration of the idea. All of the city was thoroughly canvassed with the result that 600 jars of jam, preserves and pickles were collected for the shelves of the hospital, not the smallest feature of the venture being the whole-hearted willingness with which the canvassers were met by Cranbrook housewives.

Mrs. Green, president of the aid and her executives were in charge of the collection, those assisting with cars or collecting being Mrs. Parks, Mrs. Beale, Mrs. Bridges, Mrs. Madeline Woodman, Mrs. Miles, Mrs. McKowan, Mrs. Little, Miss Irene McInnis, Mrs. Argue, Mrs. Gill, Mrs. Caldwell, Mrs. G. H. Thompson, Mrs. Large, Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Green, Mrs. Gladys DeWolf, Mrs. MacKinnon and Mrs. Fergie.

MISS CARLSON HONORED

Honoring Miss Iris Carlson of Kimberley, whose marriage is to take place early next month, Mrs. H. Stiffe entertained at a delightful pantry shower at her home here. The many lovely gifts were wheeled in in a decorated wagon by little Tommy Stiffe. The evening was spent in playing bridge, the prize winners being Mrs. C. Gill and Mrs. Osborne. The invited guests were Miss Iris Carlson, Miss A. Suran, Miss W. Fink, Mrs. C. Gill, Mrs. Osborne, Mrs. Lengrin, Mrs. Leigh, Mrs. Donald, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Jostad, Mrs. Benson, Mrs. Nelson, Miss Elsie Wood, Mrs. Beck, Miss R. Johannessen, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Gougeon, Mrs. T. Caldwell, Mrs. F. Carlson, Mrs. Nevin, Mrs. Pearson, Miss Irene MacInnis.

Gordon Dezell has left for Trail where he will spend a week before going to Vancouver.

Miss Margaret Farrell of Nelson is spending the week-end with her parents here.

H. A. McKowan left today for Greenwood, where he will visit Mr. and Mrs. D. M. MacDonald.

Mrs. A. G. Hill has left for the coast where she will visit. She will be accompanied home by Miss Beulah Hill, who has been visiting in Victoria.

HALLOWE'EN DANCE HELD

The Cranbrook high school held their annual Hallowe'en dance Friday in the high school auditorium. The hall was decorated with orange and black streamers, and delightful refreshments were served. Miss Muriel Little was convener of the invitation committee and Vincent Downey headed the entertainment committee. The decorations were managed by Lloyd Burgess and the refreshments by Miss Phyllis Ward.

Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald of Fernie spent the week-end in Cranbrook visiting their daughter, Miss Elizabeth MacDonald.

Jack Scott, young son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Scott who has been ill at his home for three weeks, is on the road to recovery.

Concluding games of the annual handicap tournament of the Cranbrook Tennis club are being played, all but the men's doubles now being completed. Prizes will be presented at the club's annual dance which will probably take place shortly.

Menus, Recipes and Hints

MENU HINT
(For a Luncheon)

Fruit Cup, Tomato Juice or Clear Hot Soup
Pressed Chicken
Creamed or Scalloped Potatoes
Orange and Grapefruit Salad
Hot Rolls Jelly Pickles
Sponge Cake With Whipped Cream
Coffee

This is intended for a luncheon or supper menu when you are entertaining your club. It is dainty without being fussy. Of course a less expensive salad may be substituted for the fruit one. You can use some of your canned peaches and pears, with shredded cabbage for making nests in which to serves the fruit.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Pressed Chicken—Four or five-pound fowl cleaned and cut up, one large onion, one stalk celery cut in pieces, sprig of parsley, two teaspoons salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, granulated gelatin, stock. Cover fowl with boiling water. Add onion, celery, parsley, salt and pepper. Cover tightly and simmer three to four hours or until tender. Let chicken stand in stock until cool. Separate chicken from bones and season with additional salt and pepper. Measure stock and allow one tablespoon of granulated gelatin for each pint of stock. For each tablespoon of gelatin, allow two tablespoons of water. Soften the gelatin in the water and disolve in boiling stock, stirring all the while. Arrange chicken in layers in a loaf pan, adding enough stock to moisten each layer well. Cover and place weight on top. Set in cool place until firm enough to slice well.

DRIES 'EM PERFECTLY

Casting about for a way to dry baby's rubber panties without sticking or tearing, an ingenious housewife hit on this idea: Take a small aluminum pot lid and insert it in the panties, then tie a string to the ring in the center of the lid. The panties can then be hung outside on a line or inside on a nail or hook. They dry perfectly without wrinkle or tear.

WASHINGTON GETS RESULTS IN COMBAT WITH LAWLESS

The shooting down of "Pretty Boy" Floyd in Ohio by a posse directed by Federal officers adds a bad name to the list of American gang leaders now put out of action. Floyd in many respects was worse than Dillinger. His record was a bloody one, including numerous murders. Furthermore, the Governor of Oklahoma, Floyd's home state, declared in a public speech that the gangster was hard to catch because he was befriended by county sheriffs throughout that state.

Washington is making material progress in its policy of blotting out the country's criminal leaders. For long it has been apparent that the only way to do this was to act with the Federal power, rising superior to local authority which in other cases besides that of Floyd, brazenly took sides with the lawless. Recent events must have thrown a scare into outlaw elements which, as all police experience proves, are not hard to scare.

OPINIONS ON NOISE

The campaign in England for the night abatement of motor horns is finding ready response, an indication that the Londoner, the Britisher in general ever is willing to co-operate for the general good.

According to the German philosopher Schopenhauer, sensitivity to noise is an evidence of intellectual superiority—"intellectual persons and all in general who have much 'esprit' cannot endure noise—the quantity of noise which any one can endure without annoyance is really related inversely to his mental endowments."

Carlyle in his sojourn in India inveighed against the noise of the great city. He wrote:

"That which the world torments me in most is the awful confusion of noise. It is the devil's own infernal din all the blessed day long, confounding God's works and His creatures—a truly awful hell-like combination, and worst of all is a railway whistle, like the screech of 10,000 cats, and every cat of them as big as a cathedral."

Yet Carlyle lived for the last 47 years of his life in London, without any compulsion to dwell there.

Had Schopenhauer and Carlyle been living in these days they would have learned, as thousands of other intellectuals have done, to adjust themselves, as a means of self-protection, to the present day rush and roar by putting it into subconsciousness, an act which shows a will and mentality not to be disregarded.

Both these philosophers no doubt would have held the British minister of transportation in high regard and have co-operated in his anti-noise campaign even as the "general" of London and Great Britain are doing today.

TWENTY YEARS AFTER

Shrapnel which entered his brain nearly twenty years ago has caused the death of one, James Fisher, auxiliary postman of Haylane, Ombersley, Worcestershire, England.

Fisher died in Worcester Infirmary and at the inquest it was announced that he enlisted in August, 1914, and was wounded soon afterwards. A pathologist said pieces of shrapnel had produced epileptic fits and the verdict went in accordance with the medical evidence.

The man was forty years of age. He was destined to die of an injury he suffered half his life-time ago. This is to suggest that if there shall be another war, those who are scarred by it will not last twenty years; they will be scarred one minute and dead the next.

Yet, in spite of what the agonizing years between 1914 and 1918 should have taught the people of the world, there are those who scoff at disarmament as if it, and not devastating war, were the curse of the world.

When will an international public tell those who govern it that it will not permit policies which provoke international strife?

INJECTION OF VARICOSE VEINS

BY JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

Notwithstanding all that has been published about the injection treatment of varicose veins there are still many individuals who are unwilling to undergo this simple treatment.

Formerly, when operation was the only known method, it meant going into hospital, undergoing the usual anaesthetic and a stay of three weeks in hospital. This consumed time and money, aside from the natural fear of operation. There was therefore some excuse for not having the varicose veins removed.

Today, however, there is really no reason why the great majority of people with varicose veins should be annoyed or disabled by them. The injection method is painless, means no loss of time from work, and the cost is not much more than the usual amounts paid for visits to the physician's office. A half dozen visits is usually sufficient to get rid of any varicose veins whether they are on the legs, or in the rectum where they are known as piles or hemorrhoids.

All that the injection method does is to put some substance into the veins which irritates and inflames the lining—sodium salicylate, quinine and urethane, and others. The injections are made two or more at a time, about twice a week. The inner lining of the vein first becomes inflamed from the caustic or irritating liquid that is injected, which causes congestion, the slowing up of any blood passing through it as some of the fibrin of the blood becoming deposited on the walls of the vein, and finally the vessel instead of being a tube becomes solid like a piece of cord or string.

The natural question to ask is what happens to the blood which should pass through these veins when these veins are destroyed and are just hard, solid, fibrous cords. Nature is so good to us that here as in so many other places in the body, the blood passes through other little vessels in the region, and the circulation of the part is thus maintained.

There are some cases where the injection treatment is not advisable—old persons in poor health; in cases where there is extensive swelling of the lower limbs; those who have recently suffered with inflammation of the veins—phlebitis

THE SCOTS WIN A POINT

It's a fast one George Smith, Winnipeg Scottish chief of police, has pulled on the hold-up fraternity.

On suspicion that some enterprising bandits have equipped themselves with a short wave radio to listen in on orders to police prowler cars, use of Gaelic for all squad cars is being adopted. There are enough Highlanders on the force to make the plan practical.

With each squad car now goes an officer who reads Gaelic as easily as English. Local newspapers equipped with short wave radio sets have now put Scot reporters in charge of that service. ..e racketeers are helpless, for they do not number Celtic scholars among their gangs.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. V. SHEPARD

"Teacher of Teachers"

A FIFTH BEST LEAD

The unexpected and letting Declarer pick his own leads, instead of the expected and helping Declarer play the hand, defeated a sure game contract, by giving South an entirely incorrect picture of opposing holdings.

North: ♠ A 7 6 4 ♥ A Q 10 6 5 ♦ 8 6 ♣ 8 6

West: ♠ 5 3 2 ♥ K 9 8 7 ♦ 2 ♦ J ♣ Q 10 7 4

East: ♠ Q J 10 8 ♥ J ♦ K 9 7 5 ♣ 9 3 2

South: ♠ K 9 ♥ 4 3 ♦ A Q 10 4 ♣ A K J 5 2

Bidding went: South, one Club; North, one Heart; East, two Diamonds; South, two No Trumps, expecting to stop opponent's suit three times; North, three Hearts; South, three No Trumps.

The best general rule for opening leads against No Trumps is: Open partner's suit, unless your own suit is good enough to have bid had you sat in partner's place. Had West led his Jack of Diamonds the Declarer could not have failed to win three tricks in that suit; taking the single finesse in Hearts he would have won two tricks, giving him five tricks. The remaining four tricks required for game South could have won without taking a finesse. That would all have been quite within the Declarer's limited ability as a player.

Instead of leading partner's suit West decided ot lead Hearts, as South must be short of that suit, to have twice declined to play at partner's call. South might even have gone game had West led his fourth-best Heart but he led the Deuce, as if he held only four cards of that suit. South took the double finesse, and the Ten lost to East's lone Jack. The Queen of Spades was returned, losing to South's King.

Expecting to establish dummy's Hearts, by giving West one trick in the suit, the Declarer led his last Heart. Dummy's Queen won. East showed out, by discarding his lowest Diamond. Dummy's Six of Diamonds was led. East played the Seven. Declarer's double finesse of the Ten lost to West's lone Jack.

The King of Hearts forced dummy's Ace. The Eight of Clubs was led. East covered with the Nine. Declarer's Jack lost to West's Queen. West took his two good Hearts, defeating the contract a trick, against cards which should have gone game, just by rattling the Declarer through an unexpected opening lead, losing to lone Jacks in two instances, and finding West with five Hearts instead of the four Hearts which the Deuce of Hearts' lead indicated.

Of course South might have gone game even with the Heart lead lost in to the lone Jack, had he played the hand with more vision, and suspected West of having the lone Jack of Diamonds.

TREE 2000 YEARS OLD IS DOWN

Mighty even in its overthrow, one of Yosemite's big trees, estimated to be nearly 2000 years old, lies stretched along the ground in Mariposa Grove.

The old sequoia, widely known as the Stable tree because of a great burned-out place in its base in which horses were stabled in stage coach days, was 269 feet high and 29½ feet in diameter at its base. The fall is attributed by park authorities to the great fire scar which had burned out its centre more than two hundred years ago, greatly weakening its hold in the ground. A recent windstorm loosened the giant's already weakened foothold and two days later, during a period of absolute calm, it toppled over and measured its length on the ground.

Although it struck with tremendous force, the huge trunk remains unshattered for three-quarters of its length, breaking off only at the top. Every branch, some of them three feet thick, snapped off close to the trunk. A great crater was left where the roots had been.

Canyons Under the Sea

If some force could remove the waters of the ocean to a depth of two miles, residents of Monterey peninsula, on the California coast and the countless visitors, many of them Canadians, could look out on to one of the scenic marvels of the world, asserts Prof. Francis P. Shepard, of the University of Illinois.

Directly off Pacific Grove they could look down a canyon wall to a floor 7,000 feet beneath their level and they could see a 5,000 foot wall rising on the farther side. If they were standing at the end of the peninsula, they could see another impressive canyon coming out of the present Carmel Bay, receiving many tributaries along its course, to which it joined the main Monterey Bay cayon.

The residents of La Jolla, near San Diego, would be given a surprise through the appearance of a deep chasm with almost vertical walls, which would be seen extending out from the present day sea cliffs north of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography. Gorges such as this would become the show places of the new California coast.

There is no evidence that would allow the belief that these great rock canyons could have been cut out of the sea bottom by the feeble currents of the deeps. Neither do they contain the basin depressions cut by unusual marine currents in such places as the Golden Gate where the tide is accentuated by the narrowness of the entrance and the vast size of the bay. These canyons were more likely produced by some process now observable on land.

THREE VALLEY TYPES; RIVERS CAUSED CANYONS

There are three main types of deep land valleys; those excavated by the ice, of which the Yosemite Valley is a classic example; those cut by rivers, of which the Yellowstone Canyon is typical; and finally those due to faulting of blocks of the earth's crust, of which Death Valley and Owen's Valley in California are splendid illustrations. The new surveys seem to leave little doubt but that the great canyons of the sea floor were excavated by ancient rivers at a time when the land margins were greatly elevated.

The submarine canyons are of some practical importance to man. They allow navigators to determine definite positions at sea during a fog. They constitute good fishing grounds because of the rocky ledges on their sides. Where the heads of the canyons come in close to the coast the deep water has made a favorable situation for the building of piers. However, this location may be fraught with difficulties, since the canyon represent a funnel down which the bottom deposits may slide or be swept by storm waves. Such a process has caused a deepening of over twenty feet at the Redondo pier and just stopped short of wrecking the pier.

Some spider monkeys have tails twice their body length.

The Nelson Bridge

Let's build the Nelson bridge again,
As we have done before my friend;
We'll put the ferry up on shore,
For no one will need her any more.

We got new government last year,
And they have some money to spare.
We'll need some cable and some screws,
But no men are wanted for the crews.
We'll build this bridge of real hot air
The first of its kind around here,
We have bought a golden nail each year
So now we have dozens to spare.

When this wonderful bridge we build
Our hearts with joy will be filled,
And lovers go for a stroll each night
On this new bridge in the blue moonlight.

Youths don't walk round Baker street
For the bridge is the place to meet.
When the moon is sending, softly, beams,
Did you wish for romance in your dreams?

Let's build the Nelson bridge again,
While the "balony" is cheap, my friend,
Alberta is full of bulls to me
And the hot air around here is free.

Daring Riders Made Pony Express

To maintain the speed of nearly 250 miles a day, attained by the Pony Express riders who carried mail in the '60s between St. Joseph Mo., and San Francisco, says the National Geographic Society, there could be no excess weight carried. Preference was given to riders light as jockeys whose endurance and bravery were unquestioned.

Their pouches were small, a bundle containing hundreds of communications often no larger than an ordinary writing pad. Each letter was written on the thinnest tissue paper—and for its transportations across the continent $5 was paid in advance. The large newspapers of the country furnished most of the business.

DANGEROUS RIDE TAKEN BY CODY

A rider's safety rested largely with his wits. To keep down weight, he carried generally only a revolver and a knife. He frequently relied on his fleet-footed pony to outdistance his pursuers. Usually this could be done, unless, as happened sometimes, both rider and horse were pressed into double duty when the rider of the next stretch had been killed or injured.

"Buffalo Bill" Cody made the longest ride recorded by the Pony Express. He had ridden 76 miles over his own run, only to find that the man who should have relieved him had been killed the night before. The station master urged Cody to ride the vacant route. It was an 85-mile stretch, across dangerous territory, but he did it, making every station on time. With but a moment's rest on reaching the final post, he took the return pouch and started back to his initial station. He made the round trip of 322 miles on scheduled time.

A week later Indians killed one of the station masters on Cody's route and stole all the horses. When "Buffalo Bill" arrived there was no change of mount, and, pursued by redskins most of the way, he had to ride his panting horse at top speed 12 miles to the next station.

Over this route history was both carried and made for nearly a year and a half, until the telegraph was finally stretched from coast to coast on Oct. 24, 1861. The Pony Express required nearly 500 horses, 190 stations and 80 daring riders.

INDEPENDENT COURT EXPERT IS SUGGESTED INSTEAD OF WITNESS

"All considerations are regarded as subservient to the paramount one of having one independent court expert whose impartiality should in time remove the very general prejudice against the expert witness as evolved under the system which has now been modified."

So is introduced a proposal of court reform in England by a Legal Correspondent of the London Sunday Times. A so-called Court Expert is the central figure in the proposed change.

As an experiment, it is explained, the Lord Chancellor's department, on the recommendation of the Rule Committee of the Supreme Court, has made it possible in civil cases without a jury—though if successful the innovation may well be extended to jury cases and to county courts—for the judge to appoint what is known as a court expert.

This expert will report to the judge on all the technical matters involved, and, if his report is accepted by both sides, much time, trouble, temper, and expense will be saved.

Either party may still call its own expert witnesses, but unless the witness called gives evidence which materially assists the court his fee will not be allowed in costs, and presumably there will be nothing to prevent the judges from disregarding the parties' witnesses and relying on the court experts.

It is generally agreed that the calling of expert witnesses by both sides to an action, which has been the practice for at least two centuries, gives rise to partisanship. Judges have remarked on this for the last three generations—the late Mr. Justice McCardie said bluntly: "An expert witness's evidence depends on the side by which he is called." In other countries, as well, where English procedure rules, this is openly recognized by the reminder which the judge gives in his summing-up that the expert witnesses are "briefed" by the contending parties.

To reduce the number of fees to be paid by litigants is one of the avowed objects of the Lord Chancellor's department in selecting the expert witness aspect.

It will be mostly those expert witnesses whose authority to speak is regarded as somewhat dubious who will suffer. The more reputable will be in demand as court experts, and it may be expedient later to form a panel of them, such as exists in France.

Among lawyers there is a good deal of uneasiness about this proposal. Many believe it will be impossible for a court expert to draw up a reliable report until he has heard what other experts have to say, and that he must tend to usurp an authority which belongs to the court alone.

The view of the Supreme Court Rules Committee, who include eight judges, is, however, that the calling of several expert witnesses does not help the judge to come to a right decision, as the opinions in the majority of cases cancel themselves out.

There is concern, too, by a considerable body of professional men—it is said that there are a thousand who earn a regular income by giving expert evidence — on the ground that there will be fewer fees to be earned. Not only doctors, but engineers, architects, valuers, surveyors, actuaries, and others are affected, and, although the change is confined at present to non-jury cases, these cases tend to be more numerous.

Feel Vancouver Entry in Kootenay Not Practical

KIMBERLEY, B.C., Oct. 29. — Nearly 200 fans attended the annual meeting of the Kimberley Hockey club here. It was a most enthusiastic gathering and the keen, yet friendly rivalry that existed during the election of the different officers would seem to indicate that hockey is in for a good season.

Lloyd Crowe will again head the club this being his fifth season as president. A good supporting executive was elected.

The financial statement showed that the club is clear of debt which, as he pointed out, was made possible by the strong and able work of the Hockey Booster club. The largest loss item appeared to be that suffered during the British Columbia playoff games held at Trail, which netted $125 for Kimberley's share while the club was obligated to pay the extra expense of $131.60 for the cost of sending the Vancouver Quakers to Kimberley and return to Trail on account of a sudden thaw in East Kootenay.

The president in making his report made special reference to the wonderful record made by the Dynamiters in winning the far western championship and of their good sportsmanship which was attested by the press reports and wires of congratulations received. All those local persons and associations who had helped to boost the boys came in for their share of thanks.

The following officers were elected:

Patrons—S. G. Blaylock, W. M. Archibald, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Hon. F. M. McPherson.

Honorary president—E. G. Montgomery.

Honorary vice-president—William Lindsay.

President—Lloyd Crowe.

Vice-president—James Douglas.

Secretary—Art Southwell.

Treasurer—Harold Whitmore.

Executive members—C. T. Oughtred, Nick McKenzie, George Scott, A. Clausen, P. McLeish, J. McGowan, J. J. O'Neill, R. Murray.

It was decided to ask the intermediate club to allow themselves to come under the wing of the senior club, players being registered as Dynamiters and those not making a place on the club to play exhibition games in a district or city league. Two members of the executive will be delegated to handle these matters.

The appointment of a manager will be left in the hands of the executive and the delegates to the West Kootenay league meeting will be chosen by that body.

Every help will be given the Junior Hockey association boys to make this as successful a season as was the last one.

Regarding press reports of a Vancouver team or teams entering the West Kootenay league it was felt that this scheme would not be very feasible on account of the big expense and loss of time by the players.

"Big League" BOWLING

By AL DEMAREE

Even this early in the season I have recived hundreds of letters from bowlers asking how to overcome a "back-up" ball.

When the ball loses speed as it begins to near the pins, it naturally turns to either the right or left, depending on what sort of a turn was given to it by the bowler delivering it. Very few bowlers throw a perfectly straight ball. If the ball spins from left to right it is what is commonly known as a "back-up" ball. If the "English" on it is from right to left, it is a "hook" ball. The "hook" ball is thrown by turning the wrist and hand to the left just as the ball is released. A downward pull of the thumb at the same instant will accentuate this rotation. It is a beautiful ball when under control and is the ideal pin getter and does not have to be rolled with more than medium speed.

Answer to yesterday's question: John Walton to Richard Jorjensen (Denver) made the longest scoring complete pass in 1933 of 58 yards.

Today' question: What player in 1933 made the longest run back of a kick-off? Answer tomorrow.

Al Demaree has prepared an illustrated leaflet called "Bowling Delivery" which he will gladly send to any reader requesting it. Address Al Demaree in care of this paper and be sure to enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.

NICK'S GOLDEN GATE CAFE

Puerto Rican Not in Bantam Series

MONTREAL, Oct. 29 (CP)—Sixto Escobar, Puerto Rican bantamweight, today wired from his home that his father is dying in Puerto Rico and he cannot come here to meet Joe Tei Ken on November 8, the first card of the world's bantamweight eliminations. Chairman Frank Hogan of the Montreal athletic commission, confirmed the illness through the Puerto Rican commission.

Promotor Armand Vincent stated he would go ahead with plans for the card, matching either Lou Salica of San Francisco or Carlos Quenintana of Panama against Tei Ken.

Carnera Flies to Rio Janeiro

RIO JANEIRO, Oct. 29 (AP)—Primo Carnera, former world heavyweight champions, arrived today by plane en route to Buenos Aires and a scheduled South American boxing tour.

He said he hoped to have another chance to fight Max Baer, the man who took his title from him.

INTERNATIONAL PUCK TEAMS MUST HAVE TWO ROOKIES AT EVERY GAME

May Not Have More Than Nine Veterans on Lineup, Is New Ruling

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 29 (CP)—Each club in the International Hockey league will be permitted to carry only nine veterans on its roster, according to a ruling made at a special meeting today of the league held here. The clubs must dress for every game two men who have not had experience, while if they carry a complete roster of 14 players the remaining three must be players who have not had more than three years' professional experience.

Conny Smythe, manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey league, whose club uses Syracuse as a farm, attended the meeting and protested against modifications of the three-year rule adopted at Cleveland last week when the governors decided to wipe out the original ruling.

After a three-hour conference the governors decided to modify the rule and limit each team to nine veterans. They also made it compulsory for each team to dress the rookies for every game.

Manager (Toots) Holway of the London Tecumsehs announced he had obtained Gordon Ward, brother of Jimmy Ward of the Montreal Maroons, in a trade for Leo Quinneville. Gordon Ward played with Quebec Bull Dogs in the Canadian-American league for the past two seasons, and was credited with 28 scoring points in 1933.

Mickey Roach, manager of the Buffalo Bisons, announced that the Bisons would carry only 13 players. They have 11 in training camp now and will add two more rookies.

SHIELDS OF TENNIS FAME MAY GO INTO MOVING PICTURES

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (AP)—Francis X. Shields, top-ranking American singles tennis player, announced tonight that he is giving serious thought to signing a movie contract proffered by one of the large Hollywood film producing companies.

"I haven't signed up yet," Shields said, "but I am in the process of going over the contracts. If I decide to go in the movies," he said, "I'll not lose my amateur standing. I'm not going to play tennis in pictures, so that takes care of that."

CONACHER IS IN FINE TRIM FOR PUCK WAR

Ward Shines With the New Penalty Shot; Seibert on Deck

WINNIPEG, Oct. 29 (CP)—Montreal Maroons and New York Rangers worked skillfully at their training camps here today and after practice Tommy Gorman of Maroons was elated over the fine showing versatile Lionel Conacher made in his first strenuous play.

Conacher, nationally known athlete and former rearguard for the world's champion Chicago Black Hawks, entered the Maroon camp after a hard gridiron season in eastern Canada to become the key-man of the Maroon defence and led many offensive plays.

Rangers devoted their day's training to one workout while Maroons held ice scrimmage in the morning then played ball and completed their training with track exercises.

WARD GOOD ON SHOT

Tommy Gorman tried each player at the penalty shot. Jimmie Ward, Maroon first stringer, and amateur Sammy McManus were good at the most recent National Hockey league innovation.

Maroons indulged in a fast skating practice and in scrimmage concentrated on back-checking and defensive work. It was still doubtful whether Sammy McManus and Aubrey Webster, last season's Moncton Hawk wingmen, would turn professional for Tuesday night's encounter with Rangers in the second exhibition of a three-game series. However, Gorman stated the two players may be signed tonight.

SEIBERT ON DECK

Big Earl Seibert, previously a Ranger holdout and now signed for the N.H.L. salary limit of $7000, entered camp after the others had a week's play behind them. He matched speed and skill with his mates in a brisk workout. Lester Patrick chuckled as he spoke of Rangers only remaining holdout, Ching Johnson, who has given both him and New York officials the slip. Johnson's whereabouts were unknown as the training season entered its second week.

KID LINE FOR RANGERS

A kid-line appeared for the Rangers in practice when Lynn Patrick, amateur center, teamed with Bert Connolly and Charlie Mason. This trio showed up well against Bun Cook, Frank Boucher and Cecil Dillon.

If Patrick decides that Lynn should play amateur hockey this season he will likely appear in a New York circuit. The three Vancouver Lions of Northwestern Pro league, Charlie Mason, Bryant Hextall and Clint Smith do not know if they will return to the coast league or be given a tryout with Rangers, although each is doing impressive work.

Fish Bite Well on the Main Lake

The main lake was the rendezvous Sunday for a big gathering of Nelson nimrods and all seemed to have hit a lucky day. Bill Desjardin, "Scotty" Marr, Nelson Jackson, Alex Fleming and "Herb" Pitts had a fine outing and returned with 12 good sized trout for their trouble. "Bob" Wallace and Donald McDonald landed a 12-pound salmon. "Les" Pickard brought home almost 80 pounds of fish. The day was ideal for fishing and the smoothness of the lake made it pleasant.

AMERKS START TO CUT TEAM

Worters Sure for the Goal Job; Some Go to Minors

OSHAWA, Ont., Oct. 29 (CP)—Manager Joe Simpson, Selkirk, Man., contribution to the New York Americans of the National Hockey league, has started the weeding-out process with his squad of prospects in training here.

Following the first week of practice, Simpson announced today that Red Doran has been transferred to the Boston Bruins and three other players have been sent to international league teams. Hal Picketts of last year's Americans has gone to Syracuse of the International league and Red Jackson, another of last year's squad, has been sent down to New Haven of the Canadian-American league. Rolan Reeves, who has been trying out with the Amerks, lacks experience and has been sent to the Buffalo Bisons of the International league.

Simpson has Roy Worters as a sure starter in goal, and figures on using Alex Smith, last year with the Bruins, Al Murray, Red Dutton and Bill Bridges for defence work. He probably will keep Dave Schriner, last season with Syracuse.

There are plenty of forwards to choose from, with Bob Gracie, formerly with the Toronto Maple Leafs, as the outstanding newcomer.

Others sure to be retained are Normie Himes, Rabbit McVeigh from Kenora, Red Klein, Eddie Burke, Art Chapman, Winnipeg, and Red Conn.

PAUL THOMPSON SIGNS COTRACT

CHICAGO, Oct. 29 (AP) — Paul Thompson, of Calgary, the star left-winger who led Chicago Black Hawks in scoring last season, signed a contract today, reducing hockey's Stanley cup holders list of holdouts to two.

Nothing has been heard from Elwyn ("Doc") Romnes, centre, or Clarence ("Taffy") Abel, veteran defenceman, since they returned their contracts unsigned.

Equipoise Will Race Once More

PAWTUCKET, R.I., Oct. 29 (CP)—Equipoise, great six-year-old handicap star of the C. V. Whitney stable, will return to the racing wars by starting in a special $5000 added six furlongs sprint here on Wednesday, the Narraganset park management announced today.

"Ekky" has been out of training for weeks due to a foot injury.

BRUINS BEAT CANADIENS IN PUCK BATTLE

Fists Fly at Saint John; Pusie Has His Hand in the Fights

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Oct. 29 (CP)—Boston Bruins nosed out Montreal Canadiens 2-1 here tonight in the first of a four-game exhibition series—the first to be conducted in the maritimes by two teams of the National Hockey league.

Nels Stewart, slamming Gagnon's rebound past Wilf Cude in Canadiens' cage, put Boston one up early in the first session. The second was scoreless. Both teams divided a brace in the hectic third frame, Peggy O'Neil of Saskatoon and Joliat counting unassisted.

Canadiens were trying hard to break into the scoring column when trouble arose. Nelson Crutchfield, fresh from amateur ranks and now third line center with the Flying Frenchmen, was rushing the puck down the boards when checked by Johnny Gagnon, playing right wing on Bruins' second line tonight. Both fell and came to blows as they arose.

The temporary pugilists had cooled off when Jean Pusie, Bruins' colorful sub defenceman from the Pacific coast, revived the flames of war by tangling with Crutchfield.

Both Crutchfield and Gagnon drew penalties. While they were in the box "Peggy" O'Neill made it 2-0 for Bruins but a minute later Aurel Joliat, Canadiens right winger, saved his squad from a shutout. "Tiny" Thompson, Calgary, between the Boston goal posts, fended off shot after shot as Canadiens kept most of the play in Bruins' territory during the last period.

The lineups:

Canadiens	Position	Bruins
	Goal
Cude		Thompson
	Defence
Carson		Wilcox
Jenkins		Shore
	Center
Lepine		Barry
	Wing
Joliat		Seibert
Larochelle		Clapper

Referees—J. H. Drummie and Jack Keating, Saint John.

Canadiens subs—Riley, G. Mantha, Lamb, Crutchfield, McGill, Raymond, Mondou, Lafrance, S. Mantha, Portland, Savage.

Bruins subs— Stewart, Beattie, Gagnon, Sands, Shill, Giroux, G. Jerwa, O'Neill, J. Jerwa, Pusie.

Summary:

First period—1 Bruins, Stewart (Gagnon) 3:15.

Penalties—Lamb, Stewart.

Second period—No score.

Penalties—McGill, J. Jerwa.

Third period—2 Bruins, O'Neill 14:05; 3 Canadiens, Joliat 15:10.

Penalties—Crutchfield, Gagnon, Lamb, Siebert.

Still Silent About New Senator Boss

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (AP).—As President Clark Griffith continues his enigmatic silence as to his choice for the Senator's baseball manager, Washington fans are fairly certain of three facts:

Stanley (Bucky) Harris now has the inside track for the job; the new manager will not be a playing boss; and a shakeup in the Senator lineup is assured.

It is known that Griffith highly regards Harris and that they are close personal friends. Harris has applied for the job and his candidacy has been supported by baseball critics on capital newspapers.

A Good Idea But Chief Can't See It in That Way

DUBLIN, Oct. 29 (CP cable). — Strange communications are received from all parts of the world by the officials in charge of the Irish hospital sweepstakes.

It is announced today one letter received by the chief commissioner of Free State police, who superintends the actual drawing of tickets from the drum by the hospital nurses, was from a group of people in British Columbia.

It told the story of a woman there who had been seriously ill since 1929 and had been rendered penniless by the cost of treatment. Her 14-year-old son who has bought her a sweepstake ticket apparently intended to give the police commissioner $3000 if his mother's ticket was drawn.

The official declined to comment on the letter.

MARY TUDOR FAVORITE FOR CAMBIDGESHIRE TOMORROW

Is 10 to 1 Shot; Aga Khan Feels His Colt Should Win

NEWMARKET, Eng., Oct. 29 (CP cable).—One of the largest and most baffling fields in the near-century of its existence will run for the Cambridgeshire stakes, great autumn handicap over the mile and an eighth distance, at turf headquarters Wednesday.

France, with six French-breds including the favorite Mary Tudor II, confidentally expects to win the big fall feature. Rentenmark is another dangerous contender from across the channel.

The Aga Khan, owner of Badruddin, expressed the opinion tonight that his colt would run well and "with luck" should win. The American-bred Mate, which has campaigned all season with little success, should get in the money, according to Ivor Anthony, handling the rangy horse for A. C. (Brother) Bostwick.

All the owners and trainers in fact were hopeful and the field really seems very open.

Tonight's call-over showed the following odds:

Mary Tudor 10 to 1, Wychwood Abbott 100 to 9, Caymanas 100 to 7, Spend a Penny 18 to 1, Bondsman, Uolfatara and Flamenco 20 to 1, Badruddin 22 to 1, Highlander 25 to 1, Rate, Commander Third, Spirituelle, Poker, Light Sussex and Rentenmark 33 to 1, Misitor 35 to 1, Celestial City, The Blue Boy, Grand Rounds and Almond Hill 40 to 1; Lilium Second 50 to 1; Tobasco and Galapas 66 to 1, others 100 to 1.

Steve Donoghue will ride the favorite. The withdrawal of Solitude reduces the field to 37.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES

By ALEX. MORRISON

The other morning I had to dig out at 6 o'clock to play with a couple of newspaper men. The grass was heavy with dew and several holes were laid out on marsh land. It was decidedly wet under foot.

One of the men has played golf for 20 years, long enough to know that he shouldn't drag his clubheads along in wet grass. His wood club hapened to be made with ivory inserts in the faces. When these club-heads dry out he'll wonder what causes the inserts to loosen.

Wood and ivory have different reactions to moisture. One expands and contracts more than the other, hence the loosening of screws, inserts, etc. To preserve your clubs, keep them dry at all times.

WELTER TITLE IS AT STAKE

Wallace-Townsend Go at Vancouver on November 7th

VANCOUVER, Oct. 29 (CP)—The Vancouver boxing and wrestling commission today put its "okay" on the Gordon Wallace-Billy Townsend 15-round bout for the Canadian welterweight boxing title to be here here November 7.

Both fighters have gone into rigorous training. George Dent, rugged Nanaimo welter, worked three fast rounds with Townsend today. Harry Miller, speedy Nanaimo lightweight, will be added to Townsend's training camp this week.

Two California battlers are being brought up as sparring mates for the sensational young Wallace who starts the heaviest part of his training grind tomorrow.

Newsboy Millich, middleweight, and Mickey Dodge, lightweight, from Sacramento, are expected here tomorrow.

Some people are as important over every little thing as a hen is over laying an egg.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (AP)—Everett Marshall, 218, of La Junta, Colo., threw Dick Shikat, Germany, 222, before a crowd of 7000 in Madison Square Garden tonight after 43 minutes and 47 seconds of wrestling. He used a flying tackle and body slam.

"Kid" Berg Wins British Title

LONDON, Oct. 29 (AP)—Jackie ("Kid") Berg, the White Chapel whirlwind, tonight won the lightweight boxing championship of Great Britain, when Harry Mizler's second threw in the towel at the end of the 10th round of a scheduled 15-round bout. Berg weighed 135 pounds and Mizler, 134⅞.

INSTALMENT TWENTY-SIX

June dressed hurriedly so she could get out of her apartment and into the Harts', for the reporters would be at her door if she refused to answer the jangling phone.

Lucy was not about when Hartley admitted her. Hickory sat by the window, papers scattered about.

"I've seen them," she said in answer to their questioning glances. "And I think it's rotten. How did it happen?"

"Sheridan must have notified the police. After all, the jewels were probably stolen in his house, and he couldn't do anything else," Hartley pointed out.

Then Mrs. Hart entered the room and Hickory handed her the papers. She scanned the headlines as a waiter came with their breakfast.

The phone rang. Hartley answered it, and they heard him all but snarl, "No, Miss Varick is not here—she is out of town—we don't know when she'll be back."

"That's telling 'em!" Hartley laughed. "Now, suppose we can the jitters and have an Easter egg. Did anybody remember, by any chance, that this is Easter?"

"And I missed the parade," wailed Lucy. "That's why I came to New York! Why did you have to lose your jewels and make everybody cross?"

"I suppose I don't count!" said June. "I guess I'm the one to be cross!"

"Well, aren't you?" Hickory demanded.

"Not about losing the necklace. I'm sore because I have to have my name dragged all around town when I've never done anything to deserve it."

"That's what we are mad about, too. But you aren't entirely blameless. You accepted the sapphires from Bishop, and remember even Phil Sheridan, who I imagine isn't easily shocked, thought that was a pretty big dose."

"What a lot of conventional bunk!" Lucy offered. "Why wouldn't a man give June jewels if he could afford to, especially when he's in love with her as Bruce is, and expects to marry her?"

"There was nothing wrong about it," Hartley agreed. "But it's pretty annoying to have to tell the world. None of us were clever last night, or rather this morning. If we had been, we would have kept the whole thing quiet."

There was a knock on the door, and Hartley admitted Bruce. "Have you had breakfast?" Hart asked.

"No, I'd like some coffee if I may". Turning to the little group about the breakfast table, he said, "Good morning," stiffly.

"Hello, Bruce," June greeted him. "You're mad about the papers, aren't you?"

"I'm pretty sorry, dear. How did it happen? I'd like to hear the whole story."

Hartley told him.

"I am going to make a statement," he said. "I'll say that my sister injured Miss Varick, and when she wouldn't accept any damages, we gave her the sapphires as a Christmas gift."

"That might help a little," Hartley admitted, "if June weren't so doggoned pretty, and if you hadn't been going about together for months."

"The newspapers will only laugh at you—just watch what they'll do to a story like that," Hickory said. "I think June ought to go home with me tonight."

"I think so, too," Bruce agreed. "You are flying, aren't you?"

"Bruce! You don't mean it!" June couldn't believe she had heard aright.

"Yes, I do mean it. Temporarily, of course. You have been in the limelight so much over Kay, and now this. . ."

"You and Hickory are both crazy!" she stormed. "You think it is bad for me to have a thing like this happen in New York? Don't you know it will seem ten times as bad to the folks at home? You know how small towns are, Hickory, even if Bruce doesn't."

"If it were anyone but you, June, I'd say you were right. But the folks at home all love you, and know how fine you are."

"Well, if I've got any fineness in me I'll put it to the test by staying right here and going on with my job. If you think I am going to throw away three hundred dollars a week just because one man gave me a string of sapphires and another stole them, you're wrong!"

"June is right," Lucy said. "She'd be foolish to go home, especially with Hickory."

Hartley sided with his wife.

Bruce said, "I am going to make Phil answer to me for this publicity. I think he is responsible for the story that I gave June the necklace. Otherwise, how would the papers have gotten hold of that?"

They were all a little stunned.

"It was my fault, probably," June said. "I told Phil when we went back last night, or this morning, and someone could easily have overheard."

Bruce got up. "I'm going to see Phil, anyway. He'll admit it, if he is responsible."

Hartley said, "I'll go too," and Hickory went to bring his own hat and coat. Bishop must not be allowed to complicate matters by having a row with Phil.

* * *

Linder sent for June the following day. He was displeased over the publicity.

"It's a bad thing for you—for the hotel," he told her. "And what's this about Sheridan's getting a license to marry you?"

"Is that in the papers, too!"

"Yes—didn't you know it?"

"No—it was a joke—his getting the license—he wanted me to marry him Saturday night at the party—and of course I wouldn't."

"It wouldn't be a bad match, would it? If you were married your position wouldn't be open to question—you could keep on here with you singing. . ."

"Do you suppose if I were married to Phil Sheridan I'd sing in this hotel!"

"You realize of course, that you are in an unfortunate position so far as the Between Six and Seven Club is concerned. Down there you are the kindhearted little country girl consoling lonesome folks. You've drawn a pretty conventional crowd, you know."

"I know it. But I can't help what has happened. I'll go on doing my best, and if it isn't satisfactory, you can terminate the arrangement whenever you like."

"Come now, don't get on your high horse. I guess things will work out all right. You have made yourself valuable to us—you know that. Run along now and be happy. After all, there are worse things than having young millionaires give you jewels."

June went away altogether miserable. Upstairs, she flung herself on the couch, unhappy beyond words. Then the phone rang. It was Phil.

"I'm downstairs, June—I have the car. Put on your bonnet and rush to my side. I've got to talk with you."

Phil met her in the lobby, debonair, smiling, nonchalant. Troubles fell away, as he tucked her in the open roadster and headed towards the park.

"Smile, Darlin'—life's not so bad, when you have me."

"It isn't, really," she said, and meant it.

"That's the girl. Now listen, sweetness, I'm darned sorry about everything. Bruce came over to the house yesterday, along with your cavalier from Missouri, and your friend from California, and I thought they were going to toss me over the terrace. But somehow I managed to convey an impression of sincerity when I swore I told no one about Bruce's giving you the sapphires. And that's the truth, absolutely on a gentleman's honor!"

"I believe you, Phil. Newspaper people find out everything."

"Fine. If you exonerate me, that's all I care about. Now, don't you think it would be a grand idea if we got married? You needn't be afraid to trust me," he continued, slowing the speed of the car, and turning to catch her eyes. He had dropped his whimsy humor for once, and his words were pregnant with sincerity. "We'd be happy, June—I swear it. And I think it would be a smart thing if we got married this afternoon."

"I'm too confused to make a decision, Phil. Don't rush me into anything. If you give me time, I might change my mind—I can't tell. . ."

This was more hope than she had ever given him before. "Well, I hope you make it soon—any hour of the day or night—remember, I've got the license. . ."

"I couldn't very well forget it. I can't think what ever made you such an idiot as to get a license."

"Do you really want to know? I was a little liquored. But drunk or sober, it was a good idea. I think, probably, I formulated the plan in my rational moments, and it sprang to the surface and induced me to action when I was not entirely myself. And if you had married me Saturday night, I'll wager my canary you would be happy now, instead of in a mess and all confused, as you say. The papers gave me a pretty bad rap for getting turned down after I've got the license, didn't they?"

"Yes. I'm sorry."

That night the dinner club crowd had not diminished. It was larger than usual, in fact. But its character had subtly changed. The school teacher from Mississippi was not there, nor the engineer from Dakota. She missed a dozen faces among the conservatives.

But June resolutely determined not to succumb to the natural sensitiveness she felt. She smiled buoyantly, and moved among the guests in her kindly, friendly manner. Those whose curiosity had been whetted by newspaper stories and had come to club solely from curiosity were disappointed. June was a lovely young girl in a simple blue dress, sweet voiced, gentle mannered.

Hartley, watching her from his table, said to Lucy: "She is certainly a thoroughbred. Imagine her taking it like this!"

Bruce came to the club the next night. "As I am about the lonesomest man in town, I thought this would be a good place for me," he said morosely.

"I'm glad you came," June said. "Get a table of four, and I'll send Lucy and Hartley over when they come in. And I may be able to snatch a bite with you later. Try to eat a good dinner, Bruce—you are getting terribly thin, do you know it?"

He smiled into her earnest eyes. "I'll do my best," he promised.

June fought down the emotion he aroused in her. But as she looked across the room at him now, his haggard face struck her with terror. He was going to have a breakdown, be terribly ill. He couldn't go on like this, nor could she for that matter!

Her mind tore at the problem for the twenty minutes that elapsed before Lucy and Hartley came in. Then she remembered a promise Hartley had made her.

Trading Smallest in Nearly a Month; Steels Sag

By FREDERICK GARDNER
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (AP)—Stocks treated a little further today in face of scattered liquidation but trading was the smallest in nearly a month.

After the market had displayed firming tendencies, traders shied away from the share list in late dealings as wheat tumbled sharply.

Steel shares sagged a little with other groups. The American Iron & Steel institute estimated production this week at 25 per cent of capacity, up 1.1 points from a week ago.

Turnover decreased to 428,470 shares.

Movements of stocks reflected little more than inertia in speculative quarters. Safeway Stores, Standard Oil of California and other so-called California stocks picked up additional gains as financial interests took heart from latest reports on political trends in the state. Safeway gained a point.

Advertising for the Merchant of To-Day

Conducted by HAROLD S. EDGAR

This article on advertising and merchandising is prepared for the merchants of Nelson District with the cooperation of The Nelson Daily News.

DRESSING WINDOWS

The first essential in the dressing of a window or an advertisement is an eye-catcher to command attention. An advertisement is of little value unless people read it—so a window is ineffective if people do not look into it.

Attention for your window can be obtained in many ways—by background—by lighting—by a single product—by a grouping of related products—or through what is called a catalogue window, that is a window crowded full with many products which command attention by their varied appeal.

It is my purpose here to mention a few of the window ideas that the writer has noticed recently.

The X-ray window, that is illustrating the unseen but most important parts of the product. For example, a recent window showed a man's coat hung up against a background of a contrasting color with white tapes pinned on the garment leading to placards in different parts of the window One referred to the cloth as "all pure wool", another "pure wool tweed pre-shrunk", another as hand-tailored three button sack," still another with a tape from the collar "hair cloth foundation," another regarding the lining and so on.

A furniture dealer used the same idea on a chesterfield suite, referring to the frame, the springs, canvas and the covering. Many, many products can be handled in this way, making the window not only a display but an active producer of sales.

Some of the clothing specialists are using most effectively a display of related lines, when displaying a suit of clothes. They make up their window with a background, a rug on the floor, a dressing table or a man's chiffonier and a couple of chairs with a suit thrown across one chair, and carefully placed an overcoat, shoes, tie, gloves, hat and a cane, etc. The furniture items can be borrowed from your neighbor. Similar windows of feminine character are equally effective.

An effective accessory is made from a sheet of beaver board or wall board approximately four by six feet and suitably framed with heavy molding. One side is painted or covered with a black background framed in brown, and on this is pinned or fastened small lines such as in the case of a store handling men's furnishings, collars, half a dozen ties, gloves, handkerchiefs; and for ladies' wear, gloves, handkerchiefs, scarfs, etc. In a display of this kind use comparatively few articles so that the eye is not distracted and the full effect of the background is secured.

Double display. I recently noticed a very ingenious treatment of a window in order to give two types of articles prominence without one distracting from the other. This was the window of a merchant who handled both men's clothing and shoes. The window had glass on the front and on the entrance side. Along the bottom of these two sides were placed boards about 12 inches wide and meeting at the corner with a mitred joint. They were raised at the back, so that they showed a slight slope on the face.

The boards were covered with cloth and on these were placed pairs of shoes with ample space between the different pairs, the toes toward the window with a price ticket or the name of the shoe used to advantage. The main clothing display was in the portion of the window behind these boards. Many variations can be used on this schems and as the boards are removable the window can be used with or without them at any time.

The essential part of window dressing is to have frequent changes so that not only the products in the window but the method of dressing never becomes stale. You keep them guessing as to what you are going to do next.

Next Week: "From the Medicine Standpoint"

MINE ISSUES BUYING DULL

Toronto Price Level Continues Down; Silvers Sell

TORONTO, Oct. 29 (CP)—The mining division of the Toronto stock exchange had to be satisfied with a few consolation crumbs today as the general price level continued toward lower levels. Buying was in evidence only in spots.

In the silver group the feature was the substantial selling of Eldorado for a 7-cent decline to 1.85. Bear Exploration declined 3½ to 20½ and White Eagle closed ½ down at 15 while Nipissing advanced 14 to 2.74 and Castle 1 to 66.

Bralorne, Pioneer and Hollinger gained 15 to 25 cents each and Tech Hughes lost 13, Lake Shore 50 and McIntyre, 75. San Antonio, Reno and Central Pat closed up a few cents, recessions of 4 to 7 cents included God's Lake, Gunnar Gold, Bobjo and Manitoba Eastern.

Volume exceeded 500,000 shares.

INDUSTRIALS AT TORONTO SLUMP

Oils, Distillery Stocks, Nickel and Ford Close Lower

TORONTO, Oct. 29 (CP).—A soft industrial share market developed a definite sag in the tail end of today's session, closing with only 13 gains against 37 recessions on the Toronto exchange board.

Oils and distillery stocks along with Nickel, Ford A and Brazilian closed on the down side. Distillers-Corporation-Seagrams fell back 12¼, Walkers common lost a point at 23. Nickel held its ground at 22⅞ while Ford A slipped back ¾ to 21, and Brazilian dropped ⅛ to 11. Smelters lost a point. In the oils, B.A., International Pete, McColl-Frontenac and Supertest ordinary all finished moderately lower. Supertest pfd. added a point.

SILVER REACTS AT MONTREAL

Prices Pay for Too Much Initial Enthusiasm

MONTREAL, Oct. 29 (CP). — What experts described as a salutary levelling off process took place today in silver futures trading on the Canadian commodity exchange. Opening bids were off from 30 to 35 points and at the close bids were down 70 to 90 points.

Rather too much enthusiasm on the part of traders entering upon a new field was blamed for Montreal prices getting out of line with world markets.

Two May contracts, representing 20,000 ounces, at 54 cents per ounce, off 25 points, represented the entire day's business. Saturday 12 contracts were sold.

MONTREAL, Oct. 29 (CP) — R. Stavert has been appointed assistant to the president of Consolidated Mining and Smelting company of Canada, effective Nov. 1 it was announced here today.

Mr. Stavert, who is the son of Sir William and Lady Stavert of Montreal, will continue to live here. McFarland Statement Has Effect; 'Peg Pit Lower

CHICAGO, Oct. 29 (AP)—Wheat collapsed 2⅜ cents a bushel maximum here today largely owing to news from Canada on the statement of John I. McFarland relative to speculation on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Announcement of Mr. McFarland's stand was accompanied by a general wave of liquidating sales on the part of holders of wheat future delivery contracts.

Wheat closed 1 cent to 1⅞ cents above yesterday's finish, May 94¼-⅜, corn ⅜-¾ off, May 75⅞-76 and oats ⅝-⅞ down.

WINNIPEG LOWER

WINNIPEG, Oct. 29 (CP)—Statement of John I. McFarland, general manager of the Wheat Pools' Central Selling agency, urging government control of Winnipeg grain exchange operations had no effect on price trends as wheat futures prices closed ⅞ to ½ cent lower today.

Local futures declined in sympathy with lower prices at Chicago. The text of Mr. McFarland's statement was not available here until after the close. October finished at 74⅝, December 75½-⅝ and May 80⅜-½ cents.

Some export was worked over the week-end, estimates ranged from 250,000 to 500,000 bushels. Outside news, however, contained little of a bullish nature. Offerings were scarce in the cash-grain division and spreads closed unchanged. Coarse grains eased in sympathy with wheat.

WOULD SELL HOME OIL'S TURNER VALLEY PROPERTY TO ROYALITE

Sale Recommended by Directors; Would Receive 20,000 Royalite Shares

VANCOUVER, Oct. 29 (CP).—Sale of Home Oil company's Turner valley holdings to the Royalite company for 20,000 shares of Royalite stock is recommended by the Home Oil directors in a notice sent to shareholders today, calling a meeting to be held here November 7.

The proposed deal would not affect the Home Oil company's 25 per cent interest in Home Oil Distributors.

In the proposal made by the directors, all the Home Oil interests in Turner valley except the drilling equipment would be exchanged for the 20,000 shares of Royalite and, out of these shares, the Home Oil company would pay back 1667 shares to meet liabilities in respect to its contracts on Royalite and production participation so the 20,000 shares would participate the 75 cents a share dividend payable to Royalite shareholders on record November 8.

The 20,000 shares have a market value of approximately $290,000.

MORE ABOUT THE CABINET

It is suggested that a minister with a long parliamentary experience and administrative ability of Dr. Manion, should be utilized in a larger field. His transfer to the trade and commerce portfolio would be in line with these suggestions.

If there are to be further changes in the allotment of portfolios, no indication of their nature has been given. The resignation of Mr. Stevens leaves British Columbia without cabinet representation. If Mr. Bennett makes an appointment in the near future, the names of Grote Stirling, Yale, J. A. Fraser, Cariboo, and C. H. Dickie, Nanaimo, are mentioned as possibilities.

STEVENS' REPLY OUT TUESDAY

OTTAWA, Oct. 29 (CP)— The statement of Hon. H. H. Stevens in reply to the letter of Premier R. B. Bennett accepting the resignation of Mr. Stevens from the portfolio of minister of trade and commerce and the chairmanship of the price spreads and mass buying commission will be issued tomorrow.

In that statement, Mr. Stevens said he would give his full reply "based upon the evidence, completely answering the allegations of inaccuracies in the pamphlet on my speech before the study club of Conservative members."

NATIONAL CALAMITY

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 29 (CP)— Rowland Hill Jr., president of the National Shoe Retailers association, in a telegram to Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, describes the retirement of Hon. H. H. Stevens as chairman of the price spreads and mass buying commission as "nothing short of a national calamity."

Before this association in Toronto last January Mr. Stevens made the speech which led to the institution of the mass buying probe.

STOP SALE OF STOCK IN DISTILLERY FIRM

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (AP)— The United States securities and exchange commission, as an offshoot of its campaign against stock swindling, today cracked down upon the allegedly false appraisal of property in connection with the issuing of stock.

An order was issued by the commission stopping the sale of the stock of the Haddam Distillers company, Moodus, Conn., on the ground that its appraisal, made by Standard Appraisal company of New York, was "inexcusably careless."

The distilling company sought to register $250,000 in stock. Registration requires that a company describe a proposed issue fully before the commission.

AIR ACTIVITY

WIFE IS PLEASED

MELBOURNE, Oct. 30 (AP)—Lady Kingsford-Smith, after a 24 hour vigil at the telephone, was extremely happy when she finally received word that her husband, Sir Charles, had landed at Honolulu on his trans-Pacific flight. Shortly afterward she went to bed.

NEAR DISASTER

By WILLIAM H. EWING
Associated Press Staff Writer

HONOLULU, Oct. 29 (AP) — Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, daring Australian flyer, sped through seeming certain disaster today to reach Honolulu and complete the second leg of a projected perilous flight from Brisbane, Australia, to California.

Sir Charles and his navigator, Captain P. G. Taylor, disclosed they had fought torrential equatorial rain into which they flew at midnight on their hop from Suva, Fiji islands.

The rain clogged the air speed indicator on the leading edge of the plane wing, making it impossible to tell whethere the ship was maintaining sufficient speed to give it headway. This instrument's failure nearly spelled disaster, Sir Charles said. He was fumbling in the cockpit, trying to get the indicator into action, when he accidentally released the retractable landing gear.

GOES INTO SPIN

Since the usual compensation for the lowering of the gear had not been made, the shock threw their blue and white monoplane into a spin from which the pilot pulled it only with difficulty.

Sir Charles gave high praise to Navigator Taylor, who, he said, was right on top of his course when they sighted the island of Molokai.

PRAISES NAVIGATOR

"Bill actually piloted the plane as much as I did," he said. "I want the public to know this. I seem to get all the praise. Actually the man who should get it is Bill. He is the most painstaking and thorough man I've ever flown with."

Kingsford-Smith said he was in no hurry to leave Hawaii.

The first to fly in both directions between Hawaii and Australia, Sir Charles brought his monoplane Lady Southern Cross to earth today at Wheeler field, near here, after a flight of 3197 miles in 25 hours five minutes from Naselai Beach, Fiji.

UP TO THE WEATHER

He said he probably would take off as soon as he got a 'fine weather' forecast probably within three days—for Oakland or Los Angeles on the last lap of the flight he started from Brisbane Saturday afternoon, Oct. 20. Bad weather held him at Suva a week.

"If we hadn't done it, some one else would," Sir Charles grinned as he shook hands with a reception committee at the field. He added, smilingly, "It takes the Australians to do it."

Sir Charles also had a few words on his favorite subject of a Transpacific service.

"I did the pioneering work along that line when I made my flight from the American mainland to Australia," he said.

5000 GREET HIM

"The flight we are now making convinces me that the realization of Transpacific airplane service will come in the not-too-distant future."

He said he believed Honolulu and Suva would be among the stopping points for such a service.

About 5000 persons greeted the airmen at the field. The ceremonies there were brief.

Kingsford-Smith's aeroplane still had gasoline for 2½ hours at the time the motor was stopped at Wheeler field, although some doubt had been expressed before the flight that it could be made with only one fueling.

STODARTS COMPLETE RACE

MELBOURNE, Oct. 30 (Tuesday) (CP-Havas).—D. E. and K. G. Stodart, London-to-Melbourne air derbyists, landed their trim aeroplane here today at 12:55 a.m. G.M.T. (7:55 p.m., E.S.T., Monday).

As the English cousins completed the long course in nine days a great crowd at the finish-field gave them a spontaneous welcome. Interest in the race is far from lagging.

When Squadron-Leader Malcolm MacGregor of New Zealand roared across the finish line at 7:59 a.m. G.M.T. Sunday, the fifth flyer to finish, a roaring cannon helped swell the noisy greeting the crowd gave him.

FITZ HAS TROUBLE

CROYDON AIR FIELD, England, Oct. 29 (AP).—Col. James Fitzmaurice's sleek monoplane which took off from Lympne aerodrome this morning on a postponed speed flight to Australia, returning three hours later, was in the hands of mechanics here tonight.

They were tackling the engine cowling of the huge machine, from which a bolt had been sheared off in flight.

Not until the repairs have undergone strenuous tests, Fitzmaurice said, will the Australian record flight be attempted again.

Fitzmaurice and his co-pilot, Eric Bonar, were over Belgium in their "Irish Swoop", in which they had hoped to reach Australia in not more than 55 hours, when their troubles began.

LOSE IN RECORD EFFORT

LONDON, Oct. 30 (Tuesday) (AP).—Cathcart Jones and Ken Waller, Australian air-derby flyers, were delayed by motor trouble today as they attempted to continue from Allahabad, India, in their race against time back to England. They took off shortly after midnight, hopeful of maintaining an average speed of more than 200 miles an hour.

But in 10 minutes they were back at the Allahabad airport, their motors sputtering.

Mechanics swarmed about the plane, but it was believed repairs would require several hours.

On the back-track speed-hop to England, they boosted their average speed to 208.8 miles an hour on the 2210 miles flight from Singapore to Allahabad.

MADE 201 MILES PER

On the hop from Darwin to Singapore the flyers made a speed of 201.7 miles an hour. The two aviators are bringing home photographs of the air race. They planned on the remainder of the flight to take to the air by day and sleep at night.

A delay at Port Darwin was believed to have spoiled their chance of beating the time of 70 hours, 59 minutes and 50 seconds made by Scott and Black, winners of the derby, on their England to Melbourne flight.

VANCOUVER FEARS SCHOOL CLOSING

Alderman Miller Says B. C. Must Advance Funds; Others Deny Story

VANCOUVER, Oct. 29 (CP). — Vancouver schools will have to be closed in December unless the British Columbia government is prepared to advance additional funds to the city, Ald. G. C. Miller, chairman of the civic finance committee, told the city council today.

Ald. Miller explained that the city is unable to provide the $200,000 required to keep schools open for the last month of the year. He said full responsibility for the action must rest with the provincial government because of reductions in its school grants.

The 1931 grant was $732,720, which is $33,361 higher than that estimated for this year.

WILL KEEP OPEN

VANCOUVER, Oct. 29 (CP).—The schools of Vancouver will be kept open despite the fact the civic finance committee has decided they cannot be financed during December without additional grants from the provincial government, H. N. MacCorkindale, superintendent of schools, stated today. George Cunningham, chairman of the finance committee of the school board, agreed with Mr. MacCorkindale.

MORE ABOUT
MR. SINCLAIR

"I am a Democrat, but my patriotism is stronger than the stubborn blindness of party regularity," Neblett declared, adding, "Sinclair's program is nothing more than contest of the unemployed against the employed."

GLORIFIED DOLE

Sinclair meanwhile launched an attack on Governor Merriam's stand on social credit, branding it a "glorified dole," and charged that "the Hollywood reporter openly boasted that the moving picture industry, dominated by Will Hays, Louis B. Mayer, C. C. Pettijohn and Irving Thalberg, has started a war against me and raised funds for my defeat."

A statement that forcible ejection of ineligible voters at the polls November 6 may be resorted to by Los Angeles authorities was made by Walter K. Tuller, appearing as a "friend of the court," as the state supreme court began a hearing on a writ sought to prevent disfranchisement of 24,000 Los Angeles registrants.

ONLY TWO WAYS OUT

"If the court would not purge the rolls peacefully," Tuller declared in defense of Judge Frank C. Collier's order to the 24,000 to appear before him to show cause why they should not be declared ineligible to vote, "only two alternatives remain—supine surrender to corruption or use of force at the polls."

Ineligible citizens, he declared, may be kept out of the polls legally by force of arms.

Chief Justice William H. Waste said he would telegraph Judge Collier requesting him not to make any order in the voters case prior to the supreme court decision in the matter, promised by tomorrow.

SINCLAIR LAUGHS

Sinclair supporters have charged that the attempts to remove the voters from the rolls were directed toward Democratic registrants.

In asking Sinclair, sponsor of the epic (end poverty in California) plan, to withdraw, Milen Dempster, Socialist party candidate said, "your support would not elect me governor, but it would be a seven league step in building a powerful workers' party."

Sinclair laughd at Dempster's appeal and said he also had received reports of new rumors that he would withdraw.

"I have a million votes and Mr. Dempster has about five thousand," he said with a laugh. "If I withdrew in favor of him that would make a Herculean task of switching a million votes. I'm afraid it couldn't be done. I think it would be easier for Mr. Dempster to throw his votes to me."

B. C. Urges Stevens Be Kept as Member of Royal Commission

VANCOUVER, Oct. 29 (CP).—President J. M. Watson of the British Columbia branch of the Retail Merchants' association announced today he had wired Premier R. B. Bennett on behalf of the B.C. organization, urging that Hon. H. H. Stevens be retained on the price spreads and mass buying commission to finish the work which he voluntarily undertook.

SASKATCHEWAN IS AFTER DROUGHT RELIEF

REGINA, Oct. 29 (CP)—Premier James G. Gardiner will seek cooperation of the federal government in financing drought area relief. As an alternative the federal government will be asked to submit a plan whereby the administration of relief will become a federal responsibility. This was intimated on the eve of his departure for Ottawa to discuss relief financing with Premier R. B. Bennett.

SHAKEUP WILL SMASH GIANTS

Terry Says at Least a Dozen of Team on Auction Block

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 29 (AP).—The New York Giants are in for some kind of shakeup, Bill Terry, their manager, let it be known in an interview here today.

Excepting Mel Ott, outfielder, and Carl Hubbell, ace hurler, Terry said that at least a dozen Giants are on the auction block, that he had $125,000 to spend for new material, and as far as managing the club goes, he'll be solely responsible.

"I'm ready to spend lots of dough for a shortstop," he said. "Not because Travis Jackson needs any help at short, but because we need strength at third, and 'Toney' can play a great third base. Besides, he'll last longer there than at short."

He said Hughey Critz had "a wonderful year at second and we're counting on him again."

"As for first base," he said, "I'm looking for my successor. I'm getting old—36 right now—and I feel 45 after every ball game. But until I find somebody I can't beat, I'll be there."

DETROIT NEEDS FOUR FORWARDS

Two Right Wings and Two Center Positions Are Vacant

DETROIT, Oct. 29 (CP).—There are two right wing and two center positions open on the Detroit Red Wings lineup, according to Jack Adams, rotund manager of the motor city National Hockey league entry. While expressing satisfaction with his team's display as a unit in last night's city championship series game with Olympics, Adams said it was unlikely the team would contain the same personnel at the start of the regular schedule two weeks hence.

It was evident that Adams' biggest problem is replacing Wilf Cude, the young Winnipegger who guarded Detroit's nets last season. He is now with Montreal Canadiens. John Ross Roach, the Port Perry poultryman who guarded Olympic nets after leaving the Red Wings last year, is one aspirant for the job.

Hunters Back From Successful Outing

Bennett, Horton and Notman Bag Ducks; Bull Holds Up Horton

Gordon Bennett, Harry Horton, and "Scotty" Notman returned Sunday from two week's duck hunting on the Kootenay flats. The Nelson party had a fine outing and managed to shoot their share, although the ducks were wild. They went up in Gordon Bennett's launch. Except for an encounter with one of the farmer's prize bulls the outing was without excitement. Harry Horton was set adrift on the land to hunt up the ducks while the other two members of the party were finding the "grub," and was ambushed by a bull which kept him from the beach On returning Mr. Notman and Mr. Bennett cruised up and down the lake for almost two hours before finding the marooned third party.

Can't Decide on a Date for the B.N.A. Amendments Meet

OTTAWA, Oct. 29 (CP).—Difficulties are being encountered by the Dominion government in fixing the date for the Dominion-provincial conference to deal with suggested amendments to the British North America act owing to the fact the provincial governments have widely different ideas as to the most suitable time.

The Saskatchewan legislature, for instance, meets in November and a November conference, while favored by other provinces, would not be convenient for Saskatchewan.

No change has been made in the plans so far as the actual holding of the conference is concerned.

Alleged Picket Is Facing a Charge

BURNABY, B. C., Oct. 29 (CP)—Charles Smith, alleged to have been a "ticket" called out by the Burnaby Workers' association in a strike against "work for relief scrip or taxes," has been arrested and will appear in police court Wednesday charged with intimidation.

Joseph Kafer, relief worker, identified Smith as a man who, with a companion, allegedly stopped him from working by taking away his tools.

The price was said to be the largest ever paid from Australia.

they modify their attitude, there is practically no possibility of a compromise.

A United States spokesman indicated the belief that tearing up the Washington treaty of 1922 may mean the end of collateral pacts which now guarantee the open door in China and non-aggression in the far east. The delegation understands that the Japanese would seek to change these pacts or end them entirely should naval limitation be thrown overboard.

The seriousness of the situation was further emphasized in American quarters where the belief was expressed that unless the Japanese recede from their position naval limitation will be a thing of the past within two years from next December, the earliest date at which the Washington treaty could be destroyed.

W. E. MARSHALL GUEST SPEAKER

Tells Nelson Rotary Club of Detroit Convention

FINE DONATION TO CRIPPLED FUND

Refund From Trip to Ainsworth Brings Sum of $42

An account of the Rotary International convention held last summer in Detroit, was given to the Nelson Rotary club Monday by W. E. Marshall, delegate of the Trail Rotary club to the convention. The program was in charge of J. T. Andrews. The address was similar to one which Mr. Marshall gave to the Trail club recently.

FINE DONATIONS

The luncheon was marked a fine donations to the Crippled Children's fund. There was a refund of $1.58 to each of the Rotarians who made the recent trip to Ainsworth with the Coeur d'Alene visitors, and the members benefiting by the refund decided to give the money, amounting to about $42, to the Crippled Children's fund. It was gratefully received.

The Rotarians were impressed by the improvement in one of their little charges who was brought to the meeting by Dr. J. Gansner.

The Detroit convention was one of the greatest and most successful in the history of Rotary, declared Mr. Marshall, and the knowledge he derived from it was most beneficial.

On reaching Detroit, he stated, the delegates found themselves in the center of a maelstrom of people and activity, but the delegates encountered no difficulty as there was a reception committee present and it was evident, from the string of courtesy cars present to serve the Rotarians in every way possible, that the business interests were seeking to make the convention a success. Seven hundred courtesy cars were at the service of the Rotarians the entire time they were there.

The extensive decorations of the main streets and store windows with Rotary emblems signified the unanimous desire to make the Rotarians feel at home and make their stay in Detroit a pleasant and memorable one.

The theme of the entire convention, declared Mr. Marshall, centered around "the new economic and social problems of today and their meaning to the business men of the world."

She Gets Bobbing and Robbing Mixed

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Oct. 29 (CP). —Police were excited today when Mrs. Albert Hammond, white-haired matron of nearby Stirling, reported that an unidentified dark man with a foreign accent had robbed her of $1.70, and being so enraged at the diminutive loot that he had cut off her hair. She said she had fainted when the man pressed a pistol against her back and revived to find her hair gone.

Officers recovered from their excitement later, however, when Inspector Hamar Gardner of the Ontario police said: "She wanted to get her hair bobbed and her ingenuity caused us a lot of unnecessary trouble. We suspected there was something wrong with her story but we had to be cautious at first."

Mrs. Hammond told officers the hair-cutting took place during the absence of her husband.
