TREASURE HAS LURE FOR B. C. PARTY OF MEN

Col. Leckie of Vancouver, Will Head Cocos Expedition

TREASURE VALUED AT 60 MILLIONS

Three Other B. C. Expeditions Have Searched Southern Isle

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 3—Lured by legendary tales of fabulous treasure buried by Pirates of olden days, a party of Vancouver men headed by Col. J. E. Leckie will sail early next month for Cocos Island, 500 miles off the coast of Costa Rica.

It is popularly supposed that more than 300 tons of treasure valued at 60 million dollars are hidden on Cocos Island, buried there by Thompson, Davis and other famous pirates of the early days. Wealthy citizens of Peru are also said to have hidden their gold and jewels there during the revolution of 1883.

Three other British Columbia expeditions have searched for treasure on Cocos island, one in 1892 on the Eliza Edwards under command of Capt. F. S. MacKenzie of Vancouver; another in 1905 from Victoria, and a third in 1924 in the Gunner.

CAMPBELL PREPARES

Sir Malcolm Campbell, world's auto speed record holder, announced recently that he will make another visit to Cocos island this summer and he is reported to be outfitting an expedition in England now.

Col. Leckie's partly will sail direct to Costa Rica where eight Costa Rican soldiers and an officer who will guard the interests of the state, will join the expedition. Cocos island is owned by Costa Rica and the state will claim one-third of whatever treasure is found.

Many parties have made fruitless search of the little island but Col. Leckie and his companions hope for better luck because they will take with them the metalophone, an electrical device for indicating the presence of metal under ground or water.

AMENDMENTS TO TAKE PLACE OF PROPOSED BILL

OTTAWA, Ont., July 3. (CP)—On the suggestion of Hon. Hugh Guthrie, minister of justice, the bill of A. W. Neill (Independent, Comox-Alberni, dealing with checks issued without funds, was dropped by its sponsor in the house of commons tonight. In brief, the proposed amendment provided that if checks issued with no funds or insufficient funds in the bank were not honored within a reasonable time the issuer would be liable for the first to a fine not exceeding $100 or three months' imprisonment, and to $200 or six months' imprisonment for a subsequent offence.

Certain amendments would be introduced this session to the criminal code, Mr. Guthrie stated, and consideration would be given to the evil that Mr. Neill really had in mind. "The view I take," the minister of justice stated in speaking of the measure presented, "is that the proposed emendment would open the door to issuers of worthless checks." Under the bill, the issuer would not be liable unless he failed within a reasonable time to pay the amount.

SASKATCHEWAN WHEAT POOL IS NOT IN DEFAULT

REGINA, Sask., July 3.—(CP)—Saskatchewan's wheat pool is not in default to the government of the province due to guarantee advances to the banks for pool loans—and cannot be in default for at least another year—according to G. W. Robertson, secretary of the pool. He issued tonight a statement in connection with the published report that the prairie pools have decided to wind up their affairs.

Mr. Robertson states that under the March, 1931, agreement, the pool is called to pay back to the government, one year after payment by the government to the banks of any sums under the guarantee, one-twentieth of those sums, and the same proportion annually thereafter until the full amount is repaid. He added that up to the present the government had made no payment, and therefore the pool cannot be liable for at least a year.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Larr of Meridian, Miss.

POPE DENIES FASCIST CHARGES OF CLUBS TAKING PART IN POLITICS

Disorders an Attempt to Tear Young Aaway From the Catholic Church

VATICAN CITY, July 4. (Saturday)—(AP)—In a vigorously worded encyclical letter, Pope Pius XI. today presents his first detailed defence of the disbanded Catholic Action organization since the controversy between the Holy See and the Italian government arose several weeks ago.

It is an unqualified denial of Fascist charges that the Catholic Action participated in political activities, and without mentioning the Fascist party by name, the encyclical refers to "irreverences and violences which took place in the presence of and with the participation of members of a political party."

NOTHING BUT A PRETEXT

"It is clear," the letter says, "that all these accusations (against Catholic Action) are nothing but a pretext * * * we dare to say even the Catholic Action itself is a pretext.

"That which was desired and that which was attempted was to tear away from the Catholic Action society and through this process to tear away from the church the young, and all the young.

"This confirmation is made all the more explicit and categorical, we were almost to say solemn and silent, by the one who not only represents all, but who can do all and who confirms it in official or quasi-official publications dedicated to the young * * *"

This latter, as well as similar statements, was interpreted as a reference to Premier Mussolini.

GRATEFUL TO ONE

"We cannot be grateful to one," the pontiff writes in another section, "who, after putting out of existence Socialism and anti-religious organizations * * * has permitted them to be so generally readmitted * * * and has made them even stronger and more dangerous, inasmuch as they are now hidden and also protected by their new uniform."

"You ask us," the encyclical reads, "* * * what is to be thought about the formula of an oath which even little boys and girls are obliged to take about executing orders without discussion, from an authority which * * * can give orders against all truth and justice * * * The answer from the Catholic point of view, and also from a human point of view, is inevitably only one: Such an oath, as it stands, is illicit."

This encyclical letter, entitled, "Concerning Catholic Action," is addressed to the dignitaries of the church.

SEES FRIEND IN JAWS OF SHARK

Is Carried Away by Man-Eater After Small Boat Is Wrecked

SHERBROOKE, Que., July 3. (CP)—The story of how his companion, attempting to reach shore in rough water after their small boat capsized, was seized by what the narrator believed to be a huge shark, and carried under water to his death, was told in halting speech, through an interpreter, by Mpaic Julku today.

Julku was found on the beach, unconscious, by residents of the little fishing community of Marie Joseph. They had seen him making his way toward the shore, half swimming, half supporting himself on wreckage. There Julku told his story that a great shark had sprung from the sea, smashed the home-made boat of Julku and Mapio Rappo, and carried Rappo off.

They had gone out to shoot seals, Julku said, in weather so rough that about two miles offshore their craft, built by their own hands to pursue the seal hunt when other work failed, was capsized. They scrambled on to the boat, but were washed off.

They started to swim for shore, and Rappo dropped behind. Suddenly, Julku said, he heard Rappo scream, and looking backward saw the body of his friend crosswise between the jaws of an enormous shark, which disappeared downward, while three or four others swarmed behind it.

NEW PENSIONS LAW TO COST SIX MILLIONS

OTTAWA, Ont., July 3.—(CP)—The new pensions legislation introduced last year is expected to increase the cost of war veterans' pensions by $6,500,000, Hon. Murray MacLaren, minister of pensions and national health, told the house of commons tonight when the vote of $50,500,000 for war pensions came before the committee of supply.

This large appropriation was still under consideration when the house adjourned.

BANKRUPTCY ACT AMENDMENT LOST

OTTAWA, Ont., July 3. — The house of commons tonight defeated the private bill to amend the Bankruptcy act requiring bankruptcy proceedings to be brought in the district in which the debtor resides. There was no discussion on second reading. The bill was sponsored by Maurice Brasset (Liberal, Gaspe), but originated in the senate.

On Mr. Bennett's desk was a basket of roses. When he entered the house he was greeted with an ovation in which members of all parties joined.

ORIENT FLIGHT IS POSTPONED

Refueling Plane Unable to Go to Alaska on Schedule; Sunday Named

SEATTLE, Jply 3. (AP) — With their monoplane, Fort Worth, checked and double checked today for its proposed non-stop flight from Seattle to Tokio, Reg. L. Robbins and H. S. Jones, Texas aviators, were impatiently waiting here for their refueling plane to reach Fairbanks, Alaska, to permit them to get under way.

Word from J. J. Mattern and Nick Greener, who are in Edmonton, Alta., with the tri-motored refueling machine, that they could not start for Fairbanks until tomorrow morning, forced Robbins and Jones to postpone the start of their perilous journey until at least Sunday morning.

Mattern and Greener, who are to refuel the Fort Worth over Fairbanks and again over the coast of Siberia, had planned to leave today for Alaska but they were unable to get away as early as they wanted to, and they decided to wait until tomorrow.

This threw Robbins and Jones off schedule, and they will not be able to leave tomorrow morning as they had hoped.

Reports from various points in Alaska and Bering strait indicate that excellent flying conditions prevail at least to the coast of Siberia, and the aviators are anxious to get started.

SEATTLE MINING MAN IS AWARDED $10,000 DAMAGES

VICTORIA, B. C., July 3.—Baron Harry Quickstad, Seattle mining man, was awarded $10,000 general and special damages in a judgment handed down here today by Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald, in the supreme court of British Columbia, against John McNeill and James J. Connors, owners of a group of mineral claims in the Cassiar mining district.

MINING CLAUSE IS EXTENDED

OTTAWA, Ont., July 3. (CP)—An extension of one year from July 1 has been made in the application of section 52 of the quartz mining regulations as far as they concern the Northwest Territories. The regulations stipulate that "Any licencee, having duly located and recorded a mineral claim, shall perform or cause to be performed at least 40 days' work on such claim within one year immediately following the recording of the claim, and not less than 40 days' work in each succeeding year."

DR. TELFORD IS REFUSED RIGHT TO BROADCAST

Socialistic Speeches Are Tabooed by the Government

IS SURPRISED AT THE ACTION

At a Loss to Explain the Curbing of "Free Speech"

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 3.—Dr. Lyle Telford was notified Friday that the marine department has forbidden his radio broadcasts. Dr. Telford has been on the air Wednesday nights for a considerable period.

"I have been notified from station CKWX that the marine department at Victoria has ordered them to discontinue my talks on the air," said Dr. Telford. "No reason has been given to me for this act, and this is the first intimation that I have had from the department, either directly or indirectly, that they objected to the broadcasting of Socialist opinions.

"I am at a loss to imagine any possible reason for this suppression of free speech. I cannot even think of a plausible excuse which the government can make which will not raise the indignation of thoughtful men and women everywhere. The Socialist opinions which I have expressed are the opinions which are held by the premier of Great Britain and other members of the Imperial government.

TABOO SUPPOSEDLY GONE

"There was a time, 30 or 40 years ago, when the expression of Socialist opinions was taboo, but the gradual spread of Socialism throughout Europe, overthrowing dynasties and permeating even capitalist governments, has made it at least respectable to thoughful people. It has remained, however, for cities like Toronto and Vancouver to attempt to block the march of progress in the field of politics and economics by the suppression of the British citizen's right of free speech.

"This action of the government is a most childish one. If the opinions expressed are not based on truth, they will the sooner die by being exposed to the broad light of day. If, however, they are unassailable opinion, the government's action will merely strengthen my position.

"No good government has ever been hurt by the broadcasting of opinions, but many governments have been overthrown by the attempt to suppress them," he said.

DIRECT RELIEF MARKS TIME IN CITY VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 3. — The civic relief department is marking time on the question of transient relief until definite instructions are received from the provincial government as to the procedure to be adopted, Alderman W. C. Atherton, chairman of the relief committee, said tonight.

Until the city hears from Ottawa, the alderman said, no direct relief will be given out to transients. No effort has even been made as et to solve the problem of who are transients and who are not.

The provincial government, through Premier S. F. Tolmie, announced some time ago that it was prepared to go 50-50 with the Dominion government in taking care of transients applying for relief in the city.

MEXICANS ARE TOLD TO STUDY IN DOMINION

MEXICO CITY, July 3. (AP)—The newspapers here were informed tonight that President Ortiz Rubio had instructed his two sons, Guillermo, who are now in New York, to leave the United States and go to Canada to study. No reason for his instructions was given.

BUSINESS SENSE OF WOMEN PRAISED

MONTREAL, Que., July 3. (CP)—Tribute to the abilities of business and professional women was made here today by Alderman W. S. Weldon in welcoming to the city delegates to the second annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women. "For good business methods, I would take the ladies every time," he declared during his luncheon address.

The delegates spent a busy day, starting with a drive around Mount Royal before breakfast. Mrs. Pierre F. Casgrain and Miss Idola Saint Jean, of Quebec, spoke briefly at breakfast.

After breakfast the federation women were conducted on a motor trip around the island of Montreal, stopping at Ste. Anne de Bellevue for tea at MacDonald college.

SNOWDEN'S LAND ISSUE GOES TO HOUSE OF LORDS

Snowden Hints That the Bill Is Only Just Beginning; Libs Cheer

LONDON, July 3.—(By George Hambleton, Canadian Press staff correspondent)—The bill for taxing land values, principal feature of Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden's recent budget, now goes to the house of lords.

By a vote of 274 to 222, a government majority of 52, the house of commons this afternoon gave third reading to the finance bill in which the proposal is incorporated.

As they passed through the division lobbies the Labor members were heard singing "God save the land to the people."

Closing the debate Mr. Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, broadly hinted the bill was only a beginning. "This is the first real attack on the land monopoly," he said. "I trust more courageous parliaments will deal with this problem more drastically than we have done.

GREAT BURDEN

"The land monopoly is the greatest burden there is on industry—the object of this bill is to assert the right of the community to ownership of land."

Labor members and Lloyd George Liberals cheered loudly as the result of the division was announced.

"It means 100 seats to us," a Conservative shouted.

The course of the bill in the house of lords will largely be dependent on whether the speaker of the house of commons certifies it is a money bill. If the bill is so certified, the lords cannot amend it despite the overwhelming Conservative majority in the upper chamber.

CIVIC SALARIES AT VANCOUVER TO REMAIN THE SAME

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 3. — Tossing out both majority and minority reports of a special committee appointed to look into the question of civic salary adjustments, members of the city council this afternoon left the salary situation in its status quo.

The majority report of the special committee recommended that no change be made in salaries at the present time, but it contained a number of recommendations that were viewed with disfavor by several aldermen. The minority report, submitted by Alderman W. Lost, chairman of the special committee, urged a 5 per cent reduction in all salaries over $125 per month, an additional 1 per cent on each $500 up to $4000, and 10 per cent on all salaries over that amount.

REINDEER HERD MUST BE DRIVEN 300 MILES MORE

OTTAWA, Ont., July 3.—Excellent progress is being made in driving the herd of Alaska reindeer to its new quarters in the Mackenzie river district, Hon. T. G. Murphy, minister of the interior, told the house of commons today. The herd is now about 300 miles from its destination.

CRANBROOK LAD CRUSHED BEHIND ROLLING TRUCK

CRANBROOK, B. C., July 3.—An accident occurred on Wednesday when little Ralton Staples, four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Staples, was crushed beneath a truck and killed.

The little lad was playing with other children around a truck on the MacNeill ranch, two miles from the city when one of them accidentally released the brake and the machine backed down a decline. The child, who was behind, clung to the back of the truck until it struck a stump, when he was crushed.

CANADIAN NORTH SETTING FOR A STARK TRAGEDY

Man Drowns in Icy Water Trying to Recover Drifting Canoe

THE PAS, Man., July 3.—(CP)—One more life is allotted to Canada's grim northland in a tale of starvation, heroism and death unfolded today by a rugged trapper of the barrens. Del Simmons arrived from the north with the story of the death of Benjamin Hendren, formerly of Kelvington, Sask., and the battle for life by his brother and a companion.

Simmons brought the tale of heroism down from Rabbit River, a small trading post, where the body of Benjamin was interred with simple north country dignity. Hendren, with his brother Charles and C. McArthur, was travelling through the many lakes and streams in an outboard motor canoe for The Pas, 500 miles to the south. They were a short distance from Lac du Brochet when they lost their craft.

CANOE FLOATS

The men had landed on a little rocky island when their canoe, left on the shore, began drifting to mid-stream. Benjamin Hendren dove into the water, still partly covered by water ice, and attempted to reach it. He was stricken with cramps and his brother went to his rescue but was made helpless in a similar manner. McArthur bravely swam to the men and succeeded in saving Charles but the icy waters sapped his strength and Benjamin was drowned, his body being recovered later.

Five days the two survivors spent without food or matches, struggling to build a raft of thin willows. During their effort the canoe floated about half a mile away. Their work completed, they floated the raft to the canoe and carried the body of Benjamin to burial at Rabbit River.

DISTANCES ARE SHORTENED BY FAMOUS FLIER

Capt. F. M. Hawks, U. S. Speed Pilot Demonstrates Between Cities

MONTREAL, Que., July 3. (CP)—Quebec, Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa were drawn closer together today by a series of sensational flying performances of Captain Frank M. Hawks, famous United States speed pilot.

Montreal is no more than 32 minutes from Ottawa, 48 minutes from Quebec and 108 minutes from Toronto, while the capital and Toronto are only 70 minutes apart. These were the times taken by Hawks and his monoplane today in a flight from Quebec to Montreal, then on to Toronto, and back to Montreal via Ottawa. Several of these times were hailed as new records.

Hawks flew from Quebec to Montreal, where he enjoyed breakfast, had luncheon in Toronto, tea in Ottawa as guest of Hon. Hanford MacNider, United States minister, and was back in Montreal to be guest of the Montreal Light Airplane club at dinner.

Altogether, Captain Hawks was in the air four hours, 18 minutes, and during that time covered an air averaging 197.6 miles per hour. The distance of approximately 850 miles, achievement rivals in some measure the notable recent flight of Captain Hawks from Paris to London, on to Berlin and back to Paris in a single day, also the flight that took him from London to Rome and back in a single day.

FORESTRY POSTS ON PRAIRIES TO DO SAME DUTIES

OTTAWA, Ont., July 3.—(CP)—Forestry stations at Indian Head and Sutherland, Sask., which have been transferred from the interior department to the department of agricultue, will contiue this year to perform as much work as in former years. This statement was made in the house of commons today by Hon. T. G. Murphy, minister of the interior.

The minister at the time was putting through a vote for $400,000 for advancement of forest conservation, stock taking of forest resources, field research stations and the like. The item carried.

MAJOR POINTS SMOOTHED OUT IN CONFERENCE

Germany Must Pay Unconditional Annuity of Young Plan

LESSER POINTS TO BE SETTLED

French Cabinet to Meet Concerning Remaining Clauses

PARIS, July 4.—(Saturday)—(AP)—Agreement on all the important points at issue in connection with President Hoover's war debt plan has been reached between France and the United States, an official statement issued early this morning said.

Each divergencies of views as remain—and they are of lesser importance—will be submitted to a meeting of the French cabinet to be held today. No complete accord was reached, it was indicated by an official statement.

The statement said:

"Mr. Mellon and Ambassador Edge met last night with the M. Briand, Flandin and Francois-Poncet. Premier Laval, who was called to the chamber of deputies by parliamentary work, was unable to be present at the beginning of the meeting.

EXAMINE PROPOSALS

"Delegates of the two governments continued examination of the proposal of President Hoover and of the French note.

"Mr. Mellon confirmed that the American government had decided to accept maintenance of payment by Germany of the unconditional annuity provided for in the Young plan.

"Other divergencies of views have been removed.

"Those which subsist, and which are less important, will be submitted to a meeting of the cabinet which will be held today, Saturday.

"The accord on the technical and financial part of the negotiations it seems, under reserve that there will come an adhesion from the other interested powers, should be acquired very soon."

MUST RECEIVE APPROVAL

This section of the statement is regarded as expressing a frank realization that any part of the Franco-American accord which affects the Young plan must later receive the approval of the signatories of that instrument.

This refers particularly to the question of the guarantee fund.

It was made clear tonight that France feels it should not be necessary for her to deposit 500,000,000 gold marks (about $125,000,000) with the bank for international settlements in the event that Germany requests a moratorium after 1932.

France has pointed out that the Young plan gives the world bank the option as to whether the guarantee fund should be deposited.

It was learned that considerable difficulty was experienced in drawing up the official statement and that the American delegates were inclined to prefer the word "secondary" instead of the "points of less importance" which was used to describe the points still unsettled.

Walkathon Termed a Health Danger

VICTORIA, B. C., July 3. — A strongly worded warning against walkathons as a danger to health and sanity has been issued by Dr. Henry Essen Young, provincial health officer. At the same time Dr. Young wrote to the Vancouver city authorities, warning them that he was entirely in support of the city health department in strong opposition to these exhibitions.

While not wishing to interfere with law enforcement in municipalities, Attorney-General Pooley declared that walkathons were an "outrage," and "the most nonsensical thing I have ever heard of." But he added that the handling of this situation was a matter that the municipalities must undertake themselves.

NEW PROGRAM IS MADE FOR HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS

Four Year Course May Be Made in Two; 81 Pass June Exams

Out of 75 pupils writing the June exms in grade X, high school, 62 passed and 13 failed. In the grade IX examinations 21 passed and four failed.

The new high school program of studies for the coming term outlines a four-year course but provisions have been made for pupils who wish to attempt to make it in three years. All pupils enrolled in grade X this year should spend two or more years at high school, the department of education advises. But for the benefit of those who might be able to complete in one more year, a class has been selected from those who have ranked high throughout the past year, and also at the final examinations. This class includes some who have spent more than two years at the senior high school or who undertook a partial grade XII course this year. As the pupils in this grade XII class next year will be attempting virtually two years' work in one, their continuance in its is contingent on the progress they make next term.

PEARCE FAVORED TO WIN DIAMOND SCULLING TROPHY

Meets Sternest Today on the Thames; Canadian Expected to Repeat

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, Eng., June 3.—(C. P. cable)—"Big Bob" Pearce, Canadian Australian sculling marvel, meets his sternest test tomorrow. But tonight he is favored to win the coveted Diamond Sculls, emblematic of the world's amateur singles title.

Bob, who moved from Australia to Hamilton, Ont., last year, meets F. Bradley of Cambridge in the final of the four-day event, and from all pre-race "dope" Pearce seems to have a more than even chance of taking the Diamonds back to Canada. If he does so, he will be the fourth Canadian in history to have won the event. Away back in 1904, Lou Scholes of Toronto defeated H. A. Clouette of London in the final. Twenty-four years later another Torontonian, Joe Wright Jr., defeated Lee of Oxford, and then last year still a third Toronto boy, Jack Guest, defeated G. Boetzelen of Germany.

A SECOND STOVE USED TO CATER FOR TRANSIENTS

Chef Morgan Feeds More on Second Day But Top Figure Down

PATRONS FEWER IN THE MORNING

Numerous Transients Seize Opportunity to Sleep on Floor

With a second cookstove in operation, like the main one just an ordinary range, Chef William Morgan handled the demands for meals for transient unemployed at the armory with greater ease Friday than on the opening day.

While he served more meals in the aggregate than on Dominion Day, and while the morning meal was patronized by 94 men, as against 52 on Wednesday, the number of men turning up for the evening repast at the armory was lower, the tally being 142 prepared to over 150 Wednesday.

Whether the men who sleep in the "jungle" on the water-front are late sleepers and do not get out in time for the morning meal, or whether the morning reduction represents men who have gone on to resume their travels, with the day's new influx not yet arived, is not yet clear.

FLOP ON FLOOR

Already many of the transients are taking advantage of the armory for purpose of sleeping accommodation. Wednesday night, it is stated, 8 men turned up and slept on the floor or on the benches, and at 9 o'clock Thursday night there were men obviously intending to spend the night there.

While the scheme for feeding the unemployed transients has been worked out and is being administered by the city, the cost of operation will be defrayed by the Dominion and provincial governments.

TRAIL CUTS ITS TEACHING STAFF; DEPARTMENT WISH

Miss S. D. McCallum and Mrs. K M. Berry to Go; Let Contract for Repair

Trail, B. C., July 3.—The board of school trustees tonight decided to reduce the teaching staff by two in keeping with the notice received from the department of education to do so. The teachers who will go as a result of this decision are Mrs. K. M. Berry of the high school staff and Miss S. D. McCallum of the Tadanac school. It was at first thought that a third would have to go, but Miss Edith Woodacre, who is engaged to be married, resigned and Miss Smith, whom the board had previously decided to let go, was appointed in her place.

A letter was read from Mrs. Berry in which she announced she was going to appeal the decision of the board to the provincial council of public instruction.

Miss Hazel McKenzie of New Westminster was appointed instructor of domestic science at the Central school instead of Miss Thelma Weir, who resigned.

Fred W. Martello wrote applying for the position of vice-principal of Central school. He will be notified that no such position exists at the present, but if the board decides to create one, his application will be given consideration.

Following representation made by a representative of an oil company, the board decided to have a demonstration of floor oiling.

CONTRACT LET

The contract for painting, varnishing and kalsomining the interior of the Central school was let to Walter Barber. The board decided to visit the school on a tour of inspection. On the occasion it will be decided as to the extent of the fence to be built on the grounds of Central school, as suggested by the city council.

BEATTY BROTHERS ALL CANADIAN

Employs Canadian Labor—Uses Canadian Raw Materials—Has Over 60 Branches

Sixty-four years ago the confederation of the provinces of this vast country took place. In those days, many of our forefathers were still pioneering, and railroads had not yet crossed the continent to the Pacific Coast. Business was then carried on along easy lines, with little energetic competition, and in a market limited to a great extent by a small and sparsely scattered population.

Canada though she is today still in her youth, was at that time trying out her legs for the first time. So were many of her staple industries of today. One of the most important of these was the firm of Beatty Bros. Limited of Fergus, Ontario then making farm implements, and at present manufacturing washing machines, vacuum cleaners, floor polishers, barn equipment, pressure systems, hay tools, and many other lines of hardware.

As Canada grew and broadened industrially under the progressive and competent leadership of wise and energetic men, so did the Beatty Company. Today we find that Beatty Bros. Limited is by far the largest and strongest company of its kind in the Dominion.

In their employ are to be found many hundereds of Canadian workmen who manufacture and distribute their products to all parts of the British Empire. The company is of Canadian origin, employs Canadian labor, uses Canadian raw materials, and caters principally to the Canadian public.

Companies of this type aid in keeping Canada prosperous. They give permanent employment to hundreds of workers in both their own plants and factories, and those from whom they secure their raw materials.

In consequence, it is natural that we Canadians should insist that the merchandise we buy should be Made-in-Canada. By so-doing, we shall better our own standing, increase Canadian prosperity generally, and shall be buying from firms who are established close by, who can make good their guarantee of perfect satisfaction.

The products of Beatty Bros. Limited are Canadian Made, and are the best value obtainable anywhere. Their material and workmanship are of the highest quality. For the convenience of customers and the buying public, over 60 branches are maintained in the principal centres of Canada. When you need any of the above mentioned lines, call on the Beatty Representative, and you will get the very best that money can buy. Made-IN-Canada Products are cheapest and best. Buy carefully and help keep Canada prosperous. * * *

Marriage a la Mode

By VIDA HURST

CHAPTER FORTY-FOUR

It was Gomez. How could she refuse to spend the evening with him? What excuse could she give? Fortunately she was spared the necessity of finding one. His silky voice informed her that he would be unable to break the business engagement he had already made. He was sorry. He had hoped until the last moment. . . .Corliss did not realize until then how much she had been counting on seeing him.

"Please say you're sorry, too," he begged.

"I am, of course."

"And you'll see me tomorrow?"

Torn between desire and discretion she faltered, "I'd like to, but. . . ."

"Don't say you have another engagement."

"Yes, I have."

"But I must see you dear. I'm going on location the first of next week."

"For very long?"

"A week, anyway."

If she could see him once more . . . .

"Break the engagement for tomorrow, won't you?"

"I'm afraid I can't."

* * *

Her reluctance increased his eagerness just as the disappointment of not seeing him as she had planned was increasing hers.

He said, "I'll call you tomorrow."

"I won't be home."

"What's the matter, Corliss? Has anything happened?"

"No."

"Then will you call me as soon as you reach home?"

"It may be late."

"Whatever time it is. No matter how late, I shall be waiting."

Corliss replaced the receiver with tears of irritation in her eyes. For the first time since her divorce she had met a man who really fascinated her and he was "tabu." It wasn't fair. Bill Dunlap had no right to dictate to her. Her conduct was her own affair. She WOULD see him.

* * *

She could imagine the director and Dr. Dutton at lunch discussing her. The weary little shrug, Bill Dunlap would give. It was nothing to him whether she did or did not have an affair with Gomez. ONLY if she did, after all that had been said, he would lose interest. She would not get a chance at the part in Harry Creston's "talkie." And she would be permitted to sink back into the futile routine of being just an "extra"again.

She decided not to call Gomez and spent a lonely, bored evening. At 10 o'clock, having had no dinner, she started to the drugstore for a malted milk. And as she left the apartment house entrance a car parked across the street, started and followed her slowly. It was too dark to be sure, but she thought it was Jerry. When she came out from the drugstore, she knew she had been right. He followed her home and shot past just before she had reached the door. Corliss locked the door of her room fully expecting him to come. Spying on her, was he? Stalking every move she made. She was so furiously angry she paced the floor like a tiger, lashing at the bars. Freedom? There was no such thing.

SEASONABLE PRESERVING RECIPES

Pineapple-cherry marmalade: Stone any kind of cherries, sweet or sour, and to one pound of them (measured after stoning) add one-half pound of finely-diced pineapple. Chop these fruits by hand separately. After mixing them together in your preserving kettle, add one pound of granulated sugar and bring to the boiling point. Let simmer til thick, stirring constantly. It is best to use the "jelly test," to ascertain when the mixture is thick enough; raise a little of the hot juice high in the air, in a spoon, and drip it back into the kittle; if two drops form at once at the edge of the spoon, the mixture will "jell" when turned into hot, sterilized jelly glasses. Cover down when cold with melted paraffin wax.

Pineapple - strawberry conserve: Into your preserving kettle put two cups of shredded pineapple and water barely to cover, and let cook gently till soft. Then add two cups of ripe strawberries and continue to cook till the strawberries also are soft. No measure the hot fruit mixture and add three-fourths as much sugar as fruit. Return mixture to the preserving kettle and simmer till it falls in heavy drops from the tip of a spoon. Then turn into hot sterilized glasses (that is, glasses which have previously been boiled, empty, in water to cover, for 15 minutes) and when cold and firm, cover with melted paraffine wax.

To make pectin at home: Helpful manufacturers have put on the market bottled pectin which the housewife may buy and add to her jellies which do not happen to "jell" firmly. The element which causes a jelly to become firm is a glue-like substance called "pectin," very pronounced in some fruits (apples, currants, quinces, oranges and lemons, especially) and almost lacking in some berries and in peaches. Yet peach jelly can be made by stirring a little pectin into peach juice and boiling together, with sugar, till the jelly-like stage is reached. (Directions for use come on the manufactured-pectin bottles). This is how pectin can be made at home: Buy thick-skinned oranges and pare off the yellow outside of the rind. The pectin is contained in the white underpart of the rind, so get every bit of this white under-rind and weigh it. To one-half pound of it add three quarts of cold water and let stand overnight. Next morning boil it for two hours slowly, then drain through cheesecloth and use. A very little experimenting will teach the housekeeper how much to use with various fruits (testing with small amounts before going ahead on large "batches" of jelly).

The Beauty Box

BY Helen Follett

There are complexions that belong to the touch-me-not variety, are as temperamental as prima donnas. Some have tantrums when they come in contact with soap and water. Some kick up a row over cold cream. Others are just stubbornly rough and disorderly. These maddening skins will usually accept oatmeal as a cleanser. They grow mild and amiable when petted with tragacanth lotions that are sold in all drug stores as solacements for chapped hands. Complexions can be as finicky as delicate digestive organs. They demand the right kind of cosmetic diet.

Considering that Mr. Sun vitalizes us with his ultra violet rays, and is a popular boy those days, it is scarcely fair to cast any reflections upon him. Yet it is just as well to protect the complexion, hands and hair from his ardent kisses. Light brown hair, especially, won't stand too much sunlight; it burns and bleaches into an unbecoming drab, and blonde hair takes on a dullness that is no beauty asset.

Black is the best color for the red-headed gal. Brown is not for her, though many of the red-heads seem to think so. Green is a stunning color for a tall Titian-haired beauty, though it is not a good choice for the pint-sized babies. Navy is another safe bet, so is beige.

It is doubtful if cold creams and other oily cosmetics are responsible for incipient moustaches and beards that suddenly appear upon women's faces. Superfluous hair comes to those whose parents have heavy growths of hair. There are various means of destroying these unsightly growths; no woman need endure them.

Nine hours sleep are necessary if a girl is to awaken rested and refreshed, ready to tackle the day's activities. It is during sleep that the body makes repairs, builds up cells, sends away waste products, gets set for the new day's work. No sense trying to get along without plenty of rest. The toll includes dull eyes, dull spirits, lassitude and a complexion that is grey and toneless.

We love flattery, even when we see through it, and are not deceived by it, for it shows that we are of importance enough to be courted.—Emerson.

Can't Understand Them

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Within the last month I have received two proposals of marriage. Both came from well-to-do boys with good jobs. I have known them all my life and they are real nice, over 21 and able to support a wife. But it surprised me very much. I am not quite 18 and not a bit good-looking. I wear glasses and am very hard to get along with.

In refusing the two offers, I told the young men that I was going to be a cross old maid school teacher an I took the proposals as a joke. I wouldn't let them say another word about it, although both tried. I didn't take them seriously, because I don't think anyone would ever want to marry me. I have always been teased about my looks and temper and never got along with the boys. I have my fun with books and girls. What do you think, Miss Fairfax?

ANNE

I think that you are probably altogether too modest about your looks, Anne, which probably are marred only by a few freckles. And as to the glasses, haven't you seen the letters I have published from girls who say that their popularity has never been affected in the least by the fact that they wear glasses? Next, as to your temper—even that could be very interesting to boys, who often admire a girl with plenty of spirit and independence. At your age, I think you were right not to take the proposals seriously, but keep the friendship of these boys.

AIR CIRCUS IS POPULAR EVENT AT FERNIE FIELD

Stunt Flying Pleases Crowd; Parachute Jumper Gives a Thrill

FERNIE, B. C., July 3.—On the afternoon of July 1, the Fernie airport was opened with an air circus. ### FOOLING JACK FROST

The farmer doesn't very often get a chance to fool Jack Frost, especially on a soft crop like tomatoes, but experimental work at Morden, Man., by the Dominion department of agriculture shows conclusively that this can be done. With the advance of the season tomatoes ripen more slowly and the use of ethylene gas speeds up the process from late August on. Fruit in danger of frost damage can be picked and quickly ripened by the use of this gas.

SATURDAY, JULY 4, 1931

Welcome Friends from the South

Today is July 4. This day, to citizens of the United States, is what Wednesday, July 1, was to Canadian citizens. Today is the great national holiday across the line. From one end of the United States to the other the country bursts forth into one huge patriotic celebration.

Of course many American citizens will be out of the United States for the celebration. They will be somewhere in Canada. But because they are away from home does not mean their celebration will be hampered any. Canada welcomes the visitors from across the line on July 4. Canada hopes they will enjoy themselves and have just as much fun as they would have had they stayed at home.

Today, Sunday and Monday hundreds of American visitors will visit various portions of the east and west Kootenay and the boundary districts. They will find plenty to do. There will be plenty to see, as district scenery is outrivalled by none. They will have lots of places to go. Today the district welcomes any visitors. May their stay be happy and pleasant. May they so enjoy themselves that they will come again and bring more friends with them.

Electrical Development in Canada

When the statement is made that the world is now in the age of electricity and that mankind is increasing his store of knowledge concerning the behavior of this mysterious force, the words have varied meaning in accordance with the background of those that listen. To older men who lived in the pre-electric era, the words call to mind the telephone, the electric light and the tram; to younger people they mean the radio, the toaster, the washing machine, the vacuum cleaner and the multitude of other household devices. To the physician there comes a mental picture of the progress of electro-therapy; to the chemist and physicist, a realization of the added knowledge concerning the make-up of the atom. To industry, cheap electrical energy is the factor which has made possible most of the modern methods of manufacture, and this is particularly true in Canada.

All of the power utilized in the production of automobiles, clay products and rubber goods is electrical. Sugar refining, printing and publishing, and plants manufacturing hardware and tools, brass and copper products, coke and gas products, and electric apparatus and supplies have 90 per cent electric power installations. In the long list of industries mentioned in the table of power equipment published by the Dominion bureau of statistics, the manufacture of feed and grist is the only one which utilizes less than 50 per cent of electric energy. Seventy per cent of all the energy used throughout the mining industry of the country, including coal, metals and petroleum, is electrical. Manufacturing and mining have come into the electrical age. The total installation in lumber, pulp and paper mills, 1,250,000 horse power, far exceeds that in any other industry. The rate of expansion of non-ferrous metals and in miscellaneous uses has been most rapid. It is somewhat difficult to account for the fact that the chemical industry alone is making use of less equipment of this type at the end of the period than at its beginning. While these statistics do not give the energy consumption of these industries, they do indicate the rate at which electrical equipment has been introduced in recent years and portray something of the expansion in each group of industries.

Wedding Marches Banned

The two most famous wedding marches in the modern world have been banned from the churches of the town of Linz, Austria, by the bishop of the place, Johannes Gfoelner.

The wedding marches are those of Felix Mendelssohn and of Richard Wagner, and the reason given is not that Mendelssohn was Jewish and that Wagner was a Protestant, but that these two well known pieces of music are too worldly for the church and the bishop says he does not want to permit the penetaration of worldly music in the Catholic organization there of which he is the head.

Although Austria is a strongly Catholic country, the opinion of the Bishop of Linz is not shared by all the other Austrian bishops.

On the eve of the Stribling-Schmeling battle at Cleveland, the British house of commons had its own little fray. Fists flew, tears flowed, clothing was torn. A free-for-all ensued on the floor of the house. And after the hubub was over and the left wing laborites suffered a crushing, or bruishing defeat, the government hung on to its throne by a mere majoirty of five. Stribling and Schmeling drew thousands of dollars for their demonstration. The Laborites in Britain drew criticism.

---

Mary who led her class at promotion last week, and little Johnny who did not pass, have likely got back to normal. Mary may be sporting a new bicycle and Johnny may have received a real bawling out from Ma and Pa, but now with the holidays getting along towards a week in age, bygones will be bygones. Each will be able to enjoy the holiday now.

---

Over in Cleveland they only expected the meagre sum of $400,000 at the Schmeling-Stribling gate. Depression has hit the fight game. Well, that's a lot of money. It would keep the unemployed in British Columbia busy for a lot of weeks.

---

Now that Bill Stribling and Max Schmeling have settled their little argument, the sport world can get back to the less ballyhooed sport of baseball.

Seen and Heard in NELSON

(By J. B. C.)

Well it won't be long now. We kicked about the rain. We will soon be kicking about the washboards on the highways. Now after a couple of days of sunshine we are kicking about the dust on the highways. Well we have to get a kick out of life someway.

* * *

But how can we keep down this dust nuisance? The government is too poor to oil the Kootenay district roads, although they are doing oiling in other parts of the province. We must find some way out. I would suggest that someone invent a portable sprinkling can. A fairly large affair that can be attached to all makes of cars. Then we should have some kind of an attachment so that it could be placed onto the rear end of the automobiles. Equipped with an automatic throttle each and every automobile driver could be his own dust layer. The fellow coming behind would not have to eat dust and he would also be laying his own dust. This is a real chance for someone to get their mind at work. Of course the government would have to provide filling stations at various points and I guess that would be the sticker. The government is too poor to build stations for water sprinkling cans.

* * *

Another serious point, were this system tried out, would be fear of washouts. If too many motorists used some sections of our highways and applied too much water from the sprinkling cans the road would likely be washed into the Columbia or Kootenay rivers. Someone aught to do something. Perhaps the Conservative executive will take this important idea up with the minister. Personally I will not demand a royalty on any invention of this kind that might keep the dust of the highways.

The above is supposed to be a verbal report of a Chinese fisherman, who fishing for whitefish or suckers, suddenly sees a large trout playing about his line but not even noticing a hookful of bread dough. With more exclamations of surprise and alarm, I believe that's what it was, the Chinese hauls out his line. His partner, fishing from the city wharf, not to be outdone, likewise pulls out his line.

* * *

Chinese No. 2 pulls a finnesse. Before you could say Jack Robinson, he pulls almost from nowhere a dainty little minnow. Onto the hook it goes and down drops the line to lure, and if possible catch, the beautiful trout that sports about. Chinese No. 1 is not so lucky. His best bet is a tail from a whitefish he had landed. Slash, and off comes the tail. A few words to Confuscius and the line with fish's tail attached is in the water. Then they start angling. The trout buzzed about. Now he was above the line, now below. Then he slides away but returns. The Chinese mutter under their breaths. They curse in English and then talk in Chinese. The trout is not worried. This went on for about five minutes and then I pulled out. I do not know whether they caught the trout or not . . .

Do you feel you are slipping from Dr. Jekyl into Mr. Hyde? You lack oxygen in your system. Are you going crazy? You haven't enough sulphur. At least that is what a learned doctor told the American Medical association sitting in solemn conclave in Philadelphia. And there is a bare possibility, that if you have a great desire to steal, it comes from not having enough gold. And maybe if you are accused of being yellow, it comes from lack of iron in the blood. Or if you patronize a bootlegger, it is through a shortage of calcium in the backbone.—Los Angeles Times.

APPLES AND ORANGES

Professor T. G. Bunting, of Macdonald, Colo., says people prefer oranges to apples, because applegrowers do not empoly enough propaganda to win a proper appreciation of the Canadian apple. But before entering on a publicity campaign to increase consumption, producers, says Professor Bunting, should first of all concentrate their energies on putting on the market fruits whose attractions and qualities will gain the permanent preference of the consumer. If we want the apple to keep its reputation as the queen of fruits, it should really be the queen, and this will not be until it fulfills all the conditions which usure to it the sovereignty over its rivals—the fruits of the tropics.—The Montreal Press.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By JAMES W. BARTON

THE WORLD IS TIRED

Someone has been asking the question why the people of the world seem to be more tired than at other times in history and yet the world is full of labor saving devices —the telephone, the telegraph, wireless, automobile, easy transportation, labor saving machinery, ventilated schools, and so forth.

Why are people so tired?

Because in these days of speed and an endeavor to make money or at least a living, brain and body are kept tense all the time. If you are in an office there is the usual whirl of business, the typewriters, the telephone, the going and coming of office companions, business callers, the competition of other offices doing the same kind of work.

If you work in the factory, there is the machinery which exacts close attention aside from noise and bustle

If your work is about your home there are all the daily routine duties which keep you tensed most of the day.

And now has come this past year or two of general feeling that times may not be as good again for some time, and the tenseness is increased because of anxiety.

Now it may be, as a magazine writer told us some time ago, that when people have worked hard, have been in fierce business competition, and perhaps played hard to enjoy what hard work has brought them, that real benefit comes to them when business becomes quiet and they take time to think about the things of life that really count.

And I believe that just as men and women were finding that to keep up to the times and be mentally alert, the biggest need was to have a healthy body, so now as they get thinking things over they will have this truth more forcibly brought home to them.

And the big truth will be that as work means tensing of body and mind, which tires and exhauste them, time must be taken to relax body and mind.

Thus getting the mind away from work and worry for part of the day, wil give this relaxation, and there will thus be time to give more thought to their health and to the care of the body.

Good health is life's greatest asset.

Foster's Weekly Weather Bulletin

WASHINGTON, July 4.—Storm wave of mild intensity of force, expected to cross continent in northern transcontinental storm path during first week centering on July 4, will cause a comparatively cool period during first week of month. Precipitation is expected to decrease generally over North America during July; most precipitation will occur during severe storm periods and be heavy, local rains and not of the general type that will be so badly needed at this time. As storm wave of moderate force crosses continent during week centering on 8, temperatures are expected to reach the highest of season to date and remain considerably above normal until moderately severe storm wave crosses continent during week centering on 5. Period July 8 to 6 is expected to average hot and dry, probably doing considerable damage to crops that are now short of subsoil mixture. July, 1931, is expected to be an unusual month as to temperature range, but not so severe as July, 1930, as to heat and drought. During the average July, daily average temperatures do not fluctuate more than half as much as during winter months, but I expect July, 1931, to have a temperature range much greater than usual, changing from hot period 8 to 6 to cool period near 20.

Area of greatest precipitation is expected to move westward during July, causing heaviest rains to occur in western half of North America; this moisture will probably be too late to greatly benefit early maturing crops of northwest and western plateau. Fall feeds and pastures will receive the greatest benefit later in season in western half of North America east of the Rockies.

PLANETS AND RAINFALL

Halbert P. Gillette, civil engineer of San Marino, Cal., and former Columbia university professor, says look to the planets for the key to rainfall. Prof. Gillette says the magnetic cycles of the planets line up in perfect agreement with the clay deposits, or varves, in geological formations. The thickness of the varves indicates the amounts of clay deposited year by year in a given formation, and that, in turn, testifies to the relative amount of rainfall running over the drainage surface. The thickness of these varves corresponds to the relative thickness of the rings shown in cross sections of sequoia trees. The rings and varves, Prof. Gillette says, form a chart of wet seasons extending back 18,000 years. His theory is that it is not the sun spots that make the wet weather cycles on earth, but that both the sun spots and heavy rainfall on earth are caused by the planetary conditions, evidestly meaning the relative positions and movements of planets relative to sun. Prof. Gillette's theory is another proof of the value of the Foster theory of weatherology.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Suggests Better Conditions at the School in Slocan

To the Editor of the Nelson Daily News:

Sir: I often read many interesting letters in your valuable paper and would like to see some answers to this one in your paper.

Why is it that our City of Slocan is in such darkness? We are few and willing to work but no work is to be had. Plenty could be done to improve our little town which was once the best mining town in British Columbia with its valuable ore, and now it is on a standstill. And still we have such high taxes for nothing—yes nothing.

Our public schools which should have been renewed years ago is still condemned by doctors and school inspectors and no money is to be had to get a new one. How many bridges here in B. C. that have been condemned are in full swing today? Not many, if any. And still we have to force our children to such a school every day to sit and freeze their hands and feet while other children have real comfort and can get on in this world. Children are children and they will run and jump about—suppose some of our dear ones trip in those wonderful stairs and break their necks or legs—what would be said—it was an accident, and everything would go on as before. Our school is cold as everyone knows, and we live here in sunny British Columbia, our children sitting with their winter coats and hot bricks under their feet to study. Our government is kind enough to keep roads open, but as soon as the children leave the highway they have to walk knee deep in snow and sit in wet clothing the rest of the day.

Now, dear mothers, I wish you all to club together and keep your dear ones from going to a condemned school and see the result. I remain. ONE WHO KNOWS

"Interested" Likes Attitude of Lady on Unempoyment Stand

To th Editor of the Nelson Daily News:

Sir: Hats off to, "One of Many." I think if I were an employer I would be willing to make a place in my store or office, just for her even if it were to cost me a little more. "One of Many's" letter alone shows a fearlessness and determination that any employer should be glad to find in an employee.

Then too, I agree with "One of Many" also "One for Justice" on their attitude on the employment of married women who have husbands working. "One for Justice" remarks that some employers like to retain their help after they are married because they have proven themselves to be so capable or because they do not like to break someone else in. They forget that they had to be broken in once and perhaps they have daughters and some who had to be broken in. They forget that if their first employers had turned a deaf ear to the unbroken-in they might not hold the positions they now command.

So now you employers who want someone to relieve during the holidays or to take steady positions in your offices and stores, "One of Many" mentions that she is a stenographer also that she has had experience in three different lines of business. One of these I know to be that of a clerk. The others I don't know. Perhaps if you were to drop her a line she might be able to find all the help you need with herself heading the list. Why not give these girls a fair trial anyhow.

Let's hear more about this question. INTERESTED

Auction and Contract Bridge

By the World's Leading Authority, MILTON C. WORK

AN EASY GAME THAT MOST DECLARERS MISSED

North: ♠ 8-5-2 ♥ A-J-3-2 ♦ 7-5 ♣ J-9-4-3

West: ♠ K-J-6 ♥ 8-6-5 ♦ 8-4-2 ♣ K-10-7-2

East: ♠ 9-7-4-3 ♥ 10-9-7-4 ♦ K-Q-J-10 ♣ 5

South (Dealer): ♠ A-Q-10 ♥ K-Q ♦ A-9-6-3 ♣ A-Q-8-6

H-15

The above hand was played in a dulplicate contract game at the Recreation club in Detroit. At every table south bid three no trumps and obtained the contract.

In auction bridge south would have called one no trump and three passes would have followed.

At all the tables except one, the play to the first trick was: West the deuce of clubs, dummy the trey, and east the five, giving south the opportunity to win an extremely cheap trick with the six. South then led the king, followed by the queen of hearts, and next the eight of clubs, but west won with the king and knowing that it would not put north in the lead, continued the suit. Declarer was able to make only three clubs, one diamond, two hearts and one spade, and at these tables the defeated declarers were disposed to blame the system which called for a bid of three no trumps with a count of 21.

It happened that Mr. R. R. Richards held the south hand at the remaining table and he showed how easy it was to go game by winning the first trick with the queen of clubs, not the six, thus making a club entry in the north hand. After that he led south's two hearts and then a small club. West won and made the best possible lead for his side—a diamond; but south cashed his ace and then won two clubs (the second in dummy) and after that ran dummy's two established hearts.

The south hand now was left with the ace-queen-ten of spades and one diamond, and declarer had taken four hearts, one diamond and three clubs. He then led a spade from dummy and resisting the lure of the ace-queen finesse, played the ace and cashed his game, having the high score in the entire room and the laugh on all the other tables at which an easy play had been overlooked.

Schmeling Wins Technical Knockout in the 15th Round to Retain Title; Young Stribling Game to Last Round

Georgian Pushes Hard During First Third of the Fight But Falls Prey to Endurance of the German Heavyweight; Fight Called

STRIBLING BARELY ABLE TO GET TO HIS FEET IN THE LAST ROUND

Gate of $325,000 Is the Smallest in Recent Heavyweight Fight History; Advance Dope Thrown to Wind as German Administers Defeat

MUNICIPAL STADIUM, Cleveland, July 3—(By Alan Gould, A. P.,)—With only 14 seconds to go before the final bell, Young Bill Stribling his title hopes battered and crushed, went tumbling down to defeat tonight before the sensational closing charge of the black-browed fighter from Germany, Max Schmeling.

The 23-year-old teuton slugger, in a smashing fight finished his surprising rout of the gallant Georgian's last defense, won on a technical knockout in the 15th round, and clinched beyond the slightest dispute his right to the heavyweight championship of the world.

Stribling, bleeding, badly punished and thoroughly whipped throughout the last half of the fight, went down for the first time, from a crushing right hand to the chin, in his own corner, as the final few seconds fast were ticking off.

The Georgian was barely able to get to his feet at the count of nine, and as Schmeling rushed toward him, the crowd yelled wildly to "stop it" and Referee George Blake of Los Angeles stepped between the two, lifting the German's hand immediately in token of triumph.

DRAMATIC CLIMAX

It was a sudden and dramatic climax to the championship battle, fought in Cleveland's magnificent new stadium on the shore of Lake Erie, before a crowd estimated at 35,000 spectators, who contributed to an approximate "gate" of $325,000, one of the smallest in heavyweight title history, since the post-war boom days began.

Despite the failure of the spectacle to meet expectations, the crowd that occupied barely a third of the big, double-decked structure saw Schmeling toss most of the advance dope into the lake and hand Stribling the worst defeat of his career. It was the first knockout the young American had ever experienced in a brilliant career that made him a veteran of the ring experience far beyond his 26 years. Stribling fought tenaciously against steadily ebbing strength and the persistent attack of the German, in his courageous attempt to avoid being knocked out. He weathered every storm but the last, just when it seemed he had frustrated the German's most determined efforts to land the decisive wallop.

STILL ON FEET

Stribling was still on his feet, groggy, and reeling, when Referee Blake stopped the fight after two minutes 46 seconds of the final round, but the rangy southerner was a sorry sight, bleeding from cuts around both eyes, his nose and mouth.

ROUND ONE

Stribling danced in his corner and he raced out, sniping a left to the face as he shot over the first punch, Schmeling grinned and backed the challenger to the ropes and hooked his left and right to the chin. Schmeling lunged in with a left hook that missed and he laughed. Stribling came in close, clinched and rapped three short rights on the champion's head. He drove both fists to the head again but Schmeling chased him to the ropes. Stribling cracked a right uppercut to the chin but Schmeling nailed him on the ropes with a short left and right to the head but Billy came back stabbing with a left to the mouth. The challenger whipped a fine right to the jaw and Max backed away as the bell sounded.

ROUND TWO

The champion rushed but Stribling straightened him up with a left hook to the head and they fell into a clinch. In close the tall challenger beat the champion about the body and flicked a short right to Schmeling's face as they came away. Schmeling whipped a hard left hook to the head but Bill poked the champion on the nose with two straight lefts.

The champion crowded the challenger and grazed his eye with a hard right. He hooked a hard left to the chin. Stribling drove the champion into the ropes with two sizzling left hooks to the head and whipped both hands to the body. They wrestled their way clear and Schmeling landed a left hook to the chin before they fell in close to tug and haul in a clinch. Stribling clipped the champion on the chin with a hard uppercut as the bell sounded.

ROUND THREE

Stribling, a tall, lean greyhound compared to the dogged crowding champion, boxed carefully. He stabbed Max's head with a straight left and then found an opening for a whistling right square to the chin. Schmeling smiled but he was stung and he backed away. Stribling stepped into him with a smashing right uppercut to the chin and dropped another hard right as they wrestled in a clinch. The challenger drove his right to the champion's mouth, but Max beat a tatoo on the challenger's body at close range. With his back to the ropes Schmeling bounded at Bill's body and the challenger held him. Schmeling took another hard right to the head just before the bell but he was still grining and slugged to the body as the referee waved them to their corners.

ROUND FOUR

Stribling's nose bled a little in his corner as Pa Stribling forced collodium up his nostrils. The challenger tore into Schmeling with two left hooks and a crackling right to the head and Schmeling seemed confused. Max's left eye began to swell, as the challenger nailed him again with a left and right to the face. As Stribling held the champion away from his body with both hand but Max was no match for the Georgian as they went at it at long range again. Stribling easily twisted the champion around and nailed him with a left and right to the jaw.

Max slugged to the body, forcing Stribling to the ropes and beat him about the head with both hands. They were in close fighting viciously to the head at the gong.

ROUND FIVE

Schmeling jabbed a short left into Stribling's bleeding nose. They swapped long lefts and the champion hooked his left short to the head. the challenger smiled again as he missed with both hands, and Schmeling drove a hard right into his side. They punched around and Schmeling nearly pushed the challenger over the middle rope. They boxed cautiously, sticking almost entirely to a duel of long left jabs. Stribling stepped in with a right upper cut to the jaw but the champion plowed across the ring after him, pumping both hands to the body. Stribling retreated carefully and they seemed to be talking casually to each other as the bell sounded. Both punching to the body in a clinch.

ROUND SIX

They started clinching but Schmeling stepped back when Stribling asked him to and came right back in with a short left hook to the jaw. Stribling missed a right uppercut and seemed to be getting careless and tired. The champion nailed him with a hard right to the jaw, but the southerner hooked a nice left to the head. Stribling jabbed the champion on the face, hooked him once with a left and then crossed his right full to the jaw. The champion grunted but never faltered. He tore right back at Stribling, smashed over two rights to the southerner's head and though Stribling laughed, he held on desperately and seemed hurt. Schmeling tore after the challenger, but Bill crossed a hard right to the head, as the bell rang.

ROUND SEVEN

Apparently growing stronger as the fight went on. Schmeling ripped from his corner and was on top of the Georgian almost before Stribling was on his feet. He did some damage and they wrestled in Stribling's corner. Stribling shot two straight lefts to Max's face, made Max miss a left hook and dropped a short left to the chin. Max drove his right to Stribling's head but the Georgian rallied fiercely and smashed his left and right to the champion's head on the ropes. As the champion drove forward, dogged and punched continually, Stribling missed with both hands and clinched desperately. He did his best to pin Schmeling's arms to his side but the champion hammered both hands into the body. Stribling came out of a mix-up on the ropes bleeding from a cut over his right eye, while blood trickled from his nostrils.

ROUND EIGHT

Stribling jumped to close quarters with a left hook to the ear and tied the champion up. Stribling jabbed and held as the blood trickled faster from his nose and mouth. Stribling whipped a left and right to the chin and made the champion miss as they fell to close quarters. Schmeling charged forward and the challenger retreated all the way across the ring before he brought Max up sharply with a right uppercut to the head.

He whipped a left hook to the champion's head and glanced another right uppercut off Max's face. As they came out of a clinch Schmeling's back was red with blood from Stribling's face. Stribling whipped a left hook to the champion's head, crossed his right straight to the jaw and was belting the champion about the body when the bell clanged.

ROUND NINE

The champion marched into a clinch and they backed away fencing carefully. Stribling drove both hands to the champion's head forcing him into a corner but Max crossed a right to the head and cuffed the challenger about the body. Stribling's knees sagged as Max caught him a hard right to the chin. Stribling backed away and the champion drove after him, whaling both hands into the Georgian's sides. Stribling apparently tiring fast, rallied fiercely, nailing the champion with a right uppercut to the head, but Max was upon him again, taking his right uppercut without a quiver to get in close to the southerner's body. They were punching solidly in close at the bell.

ROUND 10

The champion charged all the way across the ring and to meet Stribling with two straight lefts to the head. The challenger clinched and as they wrestled along the ropes, Max shot Stribling's head back with a fierce right uppercut. Schmeling never stopped punching driving both hands to the body, left to the chin. Stribling's face was bleeding badly again and he shook his head desperately as Schmeling laid both hands to his head. Stribling held desperately and the champion nailed him with a right to the head. Stribling reeled weakly at the champion's attack and as he staggered to his corner at the bell, badly tired, bleeding from the ye, nose and mouth, about at the end of his rope.

ROUND 11

Schmeling charged out coolly and confidently, mercilessly smashing at Stribling's body. In a clinch Schmeling whipped both hands to the head but Stribling cut loose in a desperate rally. He bounced both hands weakly off Schmeling's head, but the champion battered his body. A right caught Stribling on the chin and he wobbled. He staggered under another right to the chin as Schmeling followed him carefullq measuring each blow. Stribling's face was a mass of blood as the stolid German worked on him carefully, shooting punches to the head and body. Two right uppercuts smashed Stribling's head back but he had enough left to drive an uppercut to the champion's head. The challenger shook his head to clear his dazed brain, as Schmeling wrapped him about the head in close. Stribling was weaving and dodging to escape punishment at the bell.

DOUND 12

Again Schmeling was on his feet almost before Stribling could get out of his corner. He blasted the challenger's head with a short left and Stribling held on. Max drove the southerner across the ring cracking both hands to the head, Stribling gamely took everything he had. They clinched and Stribling drove a right to the body but Schmeling buried both hands to the challenger's ribs. Stribling walked backward dodging, blocking, using every bit of the boxer's art to continue in the fight but he was taking a merciless pounding. Stribling was so weak that Schmeling could easily break his holds in a clinch and he hammered Stribling's head. A left and right banged on Stribling's jaw, and he wavered. The bell stopped Max's next charge.

FOUND 13

Stribling jabbed at the champion's face but he had no defense for Schmeling's solid body jolts as they fell into a clinch. The Georgian threw a long right into Schmeling's side and tried to keep the champion away by poking long left hands as he retreated around the ring. Stribling stepped in with a left hook to the chin but missed another and stumbled across the ring Max countered with both hands to the head and again the callenger's face was a mass of blood, bruises and bumps, while the champion's features were unmarked but for a slight swelling over his eye. Stribling weakened again as the champion bore steadily in cutting at him with short left and rights and punches to the head and body. All Stribling could do was to shoot occasional punches, take his beating like a man when he couldn't land.

ROUND 14

Stribling slung his left in a wide arc to the champion's head and stepped into a clinch. Stribling wavered under a right to the chin. He held weakly, his knees sagging as Schmeling battered him at close range. Schmeling chased the challenger around the ring, coolly watching for an opening for the finishing punch, but Stribling held desperately. Stribling's knees bent again, a left hook to the head and another to the body and he hung on to the champion. He tried firing long frantic right hand punches to the body, but Max stepped inside and slashed at his body with short, jolting punches. Stribling held on desperately as Schmeling hammered his sides, but he was still intent, bravely taking his beating as the bell sounded. His face a caricature of the handsome of the youngster who stepped into challenge for the title less than three-quarters of an hour ago.

ROUND 15

Stribling came up weakly for the final round, retreating from the hands of Max as the champion pounded after him.

Stribling got in a glancing right uppercut to the German's head but Schmeling beat him about the head with short punches. As Stribling held Schmeling tried to throw him off and measure him for a finishing punch. Stribling was too clever and despite his desperate plight, and he draped himself all over the champion, Stribling went down in his corner from a right to the head. He got up at nine and held desperately. Stribling reeled before Shmeling's attack The referee stepped in and awarded Shmeling the fight on a technical knockout to minutes and 46 seconds after the start of the round.

RETAINS WORLD HEAVY TITLE

Maxie Schmeling, German heavyweight, who last night made certain his right to the world heavyweight boxing title by winning a technical knockout in the 15th round over Bill Stribling at Cleveland.

Schmeling, who ascended the heavyweight throne last year, in a fight with Jack Sharkey, was the first man ever to do so by virtue of a foul. Schmeling is the first European to hold the heavyweight championship of the world since Bob Fitzsimmons knocked out Jim Corbett.

LOSES TO MAXIE

Bill (Young) Stribling, pride of Georgia, who last night lost on a technical knockout to Max Schmeling in his quest for the world heavyweight championship. Stribling, who slightly outweighed the world champion, carried a game fight through to the 15th round, when the adverse decision was given.

JOHNNY RISKO WINS DECISION IN PRELIMS TO CLEVELAND BIG BOUT

Was Once a Knockout Victim of Max Schmeling, Present Heavy

BROWN LOSES A FIVE-ROUND GO

Fighter Known in Nelson, Is Tied Up by Stribling's "Clown"

MUNICIPAL STADIUM, Cleveland, July 3.—(AP)—Johnny Risko, the veteran Cleveland heavyweight and one time knockout victim of Max Schmeling, won an eight-round decision from Tony Galento of Orange, N. J., in the semi-final waged after the main bout. Risko weighed 185 and Galento 229.

Frank Cawley, chief sparring partner for Young Stribling, drew first blood for the southerner's camp tonight by whipping George Panka of Cleveland, one of Max Schmeling's sparring mates. Cawley won the decision after staggering Panka with rights to the chin in the final round of the five-round bout. The Pittston, Penn., heavyweight, weighed 185 pounds, Panka 195.

George Pavlik, lanky Cleveland light heavyweight, gave Frank Morris, New York heavyweight, a thorough beating to win the decision in the second five-rounder. Pavlik knocked the New Yorker down for a nine-count with a right to the chin in the first round and nailed him repeatedly with rights in every session thereafter.

Morris was badly cut about the face but managed to keep going. He weighed 181½. Pavlik 173½.

NATIE BROWN LOSES

"Pa" Stribling's clown light heavyweight, Battling Bozo, from Birmingham, walloped through five rounds to win the decision over Natie Brown, one of Schmeling's sparring partner, in the third preliminary that entertained the slim crowd mightily but brought out little fighting.

Bozo cuffed Natie with both hands and tied him up tightly in the clinches, leaving him rather helpless most of the time.

There wasn't a hard blow in the five rounds. Bozo weighed 182, Brown 187.

Frankie Simms, clouting heavyweight, knocked out Joe Vincha of Boston in 2:04 of the first round, in the next preliminary. A couple of lefts and a pair of rights to the chin ended the affair abruptly.

Pros Get Credit for New Champions

(By AL DEMAREE)

Regardless of who may step into Bobby Jones' shoes as the national open champion at the end of today's feverish rounds at Inverness, Toledo, Ohio, the pros as a body can say, with due modesty, "We did it."

It may be that another amateur may succeed Bobby; even so, you will find him quick to attribute no small degree of his proficiency to the patient instruction of some pro who saw in him promise of a rare mastery of the game we all love.

Pro golf in this country isn't old when you consider that this year's event is only the thirty-fifth national open.

They talk of the "old school" in golf as though the veterans were patriarchs. I look for MacDonald Smith, Al Espinosa, Walter Hagen, George Duncan and Abe Mitchell to be very much in evidence. There are many, many great golfers among the younger pros, but there's also a lot of life in the old guard yet. Golf is still an "old man's game."

COAST SOCCER PLAYER WANTED BY ASTON VILLA

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 3. (CP)—Tommy McKibbon, 19-year-old left fullback of the St. Andrews Football club who played a stellar game against the touring English eleven here last Saturday has received an offer from Aston Villa, famous English soccer club, to sign for them for the coming season.

According to advices here a scout of the Birmingham club who witnessed McGibbon's fine performance last Week-end, promptly cabled to them suggesting that they secure McGibbon. He received a reply yesterday instructing him to obtain the Vancouver youngster's services for them.

McGibbon is considering the matter and is being given three days in which to make his decision.

An excuse is good if it holds good.

HALF MILLION BABY SEALS BORN IN MID-ATLANTIC EACH YEAR; GAIN COAT THREE INCHES IN THICKNESS

Sealing Divided Into Fur Seal and Hair Seal an Old Industry

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., (CP) For 166 years the hunting of seals off the coast of Newfoundland and Labrador has been carried on as an industry. Outside of this "oldest colony" and other sealing district, little is generally known concerning the fishery. Inland newspaper readers who scanned accounts of the Viking disaster last March were probably puzzled by references to "harps," "White coats" and "hoods." Writing in the St. John's Evening Telegram, George W. Barrett, a native of Newfoundland and now residing in Sydney, N. S., explains these technicalities of the industry and gives other interesting information concerning its prosecution.

The seal fisheries are divided into two classes, the fur seal fishery and the hair seal fishery. The latter is the one conducted off the northeast coast of Newfoundland and in Cabot strait.

Most numerous of the several species of hair seal are the "harp" or "saddleback" and the "hood" or "bladder nose." The "harp" is so named from a broad lunate series of dark spots on its back, resembling an ancient Irish harp. Its length when full grown is about five feet and weight from 250 to 400 pounds. The male "hood" seal has a sack formation in the head that may be extended at will to cover the face and afford protection in battle. A mature "hood" weighs from 400 to 700 pounds.

Approximately half a million white baby seals are born in mid-Atlantic every year. During the first six weeks of life they accumulate a coat from two to three inches thick, a weight of 75 pounds or more, and are known as "whitecoats."

The annual itinerary of North Atlantic seals finds them feeding on the eastern edge of Green Bank and southern St. Pierre bank during the month of January. About February 20 the breeding seals start moving northwest for the whelping ice, leaving behind the one or two year old seals, termed "bedlamers," which wait until the first part of April before joining the breeders, which then have left their young. All proceed north to the summer quarters and feeding grounds, mounting the ice usualy east of Battle barbor and 100 to 150 miles from land.

AT MERCY OF WINDS

Once on the ice, the seals are at the mercy of winds and currents. If easterly winds prevail later in February, they will be found in the vicinity of Quirpon, or in White bay. Frequently the main body of seals is split, a portion going through the Strait of Belle Isle into the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Whelping time is generally March 1. Two weeks later the seals are usually from 30 to 75 miles northeast of the Funk Islands, located 35 miles east of Cape Fogo. By the end of March they may be seen from 100 to 150 miles southeast of Cape Bonavista. During April they continue south, join the "bedlamers" and continue northwest. Reaching Cape Charles on southern Labrador by the first of May, they abandon the ice floe and proceed into Baffin bay. During June, July and August, they are in the vicinity of Cumberland sound, leaving about the middle of September when driven out to the southeast by ice forming in Baffin bay. Passing Cape Walsingham in October, they invariably precede the ice flowing down the Labrador coast. About the end of October they are in the vicinity of Cape Mugford, northern Labrador. The mammals come south in November and sometimes stay off Battle harbor until the middle of December. During December they pass Belle Isle strait and Cape Freels, Nfld., en route to the feeding grounds on Green bank.

An interesting feature of the seal fishery is the system of profit-sharing in the proceeds of the voyage. The owner of a steamer takes two-thirds and the crew one-third of the value of the catch. A good season means from $50 to $150 for each man.

Seal hunters find the industry a change from the monotony of home life. An old saying in Newfoundland is that "a man will go for seals where gold won't draw him," and the hardy fisher-folk look upon the annual seal hunt as a holiday.

The earliest record of the Newfoundland seal fishery date from 1763. During the year 1805 a fleet of 30 sailing vessels secured a catch of 82,000. In 1810 the catch was 118,100 and four years later it jumped to 156,000.

GREATEST DEVELOPMENT

The industry reached its maximum development from 1825 to 1860. In this period the sealing fleet numbered up to 400 sailing vessels employing nearly 14,000 men. In 1825 the catch was 295,400 and in 1830 it increased to 558,100. Just 100 years ago the largest catch in the history of the fishery was secured by a fleet of 375 vessels that brought in 685,900 seals. The last time for the catch to exceed the half million mark was in 1858, the figure for that season being 507,024. The lowest catch on record, 37,000, was obtained in 1817.

Steam was introduced to the industry in 1863, when the steamer Wolf, Captain William Kean, secured 1340 seals, and the steamer Greyhound, Captain Alex Graham, landed 3000 pelts. Few sailing vessels have been included in the fleets of recent years. This year nine steamships carrying 1470 men fitted out from St. John's. Three auxiliary schooners also were employed. For the first in the history of the industry a foreign vessel, the Belgian steamer Lestris, engaged in the hunt.

The day designated for the sailing of the fleet is always a gala one in St. John's, from which port the greatest number of the steamers sail. Each carries a crew of from 135 to 200 men who, when the ice fields are reached, land on the ice in parties with a master watch in charge, and armed with staves about seven feet long known as "bats" somewhat similar to an ordinary boathook.

Firearms are not used in killing the seals on the ice, only when they are in the water. A slight blow on the side of the head with the "bat" or a kick from a heavy boot will kill a "whitecoat" or young seal.

The hides of the seals are cut down the middle, at the front, and the fat adhering to the skin is removed from the carcass (which is left on the ice) the pelts are piled on the ice in heaps with the ship's house flag attached, and when a favorable opportunity offers, or when a large number have been "panned" this way, they are hoisted aboard ship.

It sometimes happens that a whole cargo of 30,000 or 40,000 or more seals is panned and most of it later lost owing to stormy weather.

The seal oil is of great commercial value, being used in some coal mines as one of the safest illuminants. It also has edible, and medical value. The process of separating the fat from the skin, and also rendering oil from the fat is carried out immediately on the arrival of the cargoes in St. John's.

UNEMPLOYMENT AIDS SHOULD BE DISCUSSED

Continued Study of Problem Together With Matters of Insurance and Pensions

VICTORIA, June (CP)—Continued careful study of the unemployment problem generally was today urged on members of the Canadian Manufacturers' association, at the annual meeting here, by the industrial relations committee of that body. The committee submitted a report on its findings following the circulars sent out to the members of the instructions of the last meeting to make a special investigation into unemployment conditions

"The replies, which were unusally numerous," said the committee in its report, "went to show that conditions were worst in the prairie provinces, next worst in British Columbia and Ontario, Quebec being somewhat better than the two latter provinces and employment in the maritime provinces being almost up to normal. The replies also showed that the great majority of employers were doing their utmost by regularizing employment, by manufacturing for stock and by carrying out repairs, etc., to keep a maximum of workers in at least part time work."

The committee noted that in consequence of the unusual unemployment conditions in Canada requests were being made in certain quarters for a state system of unemployment insurance. It referred particularly to Premier Bennett's statement on the subject on April 29 and declared that "it is apparent to all who give consideration to the question of federal insurance against unemployment, sickness and invalidity that it is a most important and far-reaching problem, including as it does such subsidiary questions as to whether or not agriculture and such seasonal industries as fishing, lumbering, shipping and construction are to be included; and, if they are not included, what shall be done with their unemployed; and as to how the cost of a national system is to be fairly distributed over all sections of the population. In view of the complexity of the whole problem, the committee strongly urged members of the association to study it carefully during the coming year, particularly in its application to their various industries and also to the localities in which they live."

Referring to the intimation that the Dominion government proposed in the near future to assume a substantially larger proportion of the cost of old age pensions, the committee felt it to be an appropriate time to reiterate the view which the association took when this legislation was first introduced—that the sound type of legislation was not the non-contributory deserving-poor type, which had been adopted in Canada, but the contributory "all-in" type, under which no distinction was drawn between the poor and the non-poor but both alike were pensioned, provided they contributed.

SALE OF BIBLES STILL INCREASES

LONDON, —(CP)—Nearly 12,000,000 volumes were issued last year by the British and Foreign Bible society—a figure surpassed only in 1929, which was the "peak" year of the society's history.

Lord Hailsham, in producing these figures at the annual meeting, made reference also to the belief—rather, perhaps, a guess based on the narrowest of experience—that the Bible is less read today in this country than it once was. A few years ago an English writer, himself a foremost "best seller," pronounced that "the sale of Bibles is steadily and seriously declining." The records of the Bible society told then, and tell now, a very different story. "Since the war," said Lord Hailsham, "the distribution of the English version of the Bible has been more than doubled."

Considering that the Bible is the least ephemeral literary work in the world the figures quoted by Lord Hailsham provoke the question: What becomes of the old Bibles? No ordinary person would think of throwing a Bible on a refuse heap. Do these millions of Bibles disappear through sheer wear and tear, and is the annual output of the Bibles society mostly by way of replacement?

STOCKINGLESS STUDENTS

KIMBERLEY, South Africa, (CP)—The fact that a 14-year-old girl of Warrenton, Cape of Good Hope, has been sent home from school because she was stockingless caused a good deal of discussion in the Kimberley school board recently. One member declared that there was nothing "immoral" in a girl not wearing stockings, whether she was "14 or 40." The chairman of the board, Rev. W. Pescod, said that many children in Kimberley went to school without stockings; in fact, many parents could not afford to buy stockings for their children, and the school board certainly did not hold the view that such children should be turned out of school. It was agreed that the Warrenton school committee should be asked to submit a report to the board.

Grant British Bridge Will Span Two Miles of the River Forth

EDINBURGH, Scotland, — Plans have been completed and construction will probably be started next year of the longest road bridge in Britain. It is to be built over the River Forth, about 2½ miles up river from the famous railway bridge and will be known as the Rosyth bridge. The north approach passes the north side of Rosyth dockyard and the south is to connect with a new road a half a mile west of Hopetoun House. It will span two miles of water.

When the bridge is completed it will fill a long-felt gap in the great north road from Edinburgh to the Highlands, through Perth, saving a detour of 20 miles through Stirling. The bridge will cost about $13,750,000, and with its 23 spans, the center one of 800 feet between cantilever supports, it will be the longest in the British Isles. It will provide work for five or six years for about 500 men directly, and another 5000 indirectly.

Authority is by nothing so much strengthened and confirmed as by custom; for one man easily distrusts the thing which he and all men have been bred up to.

SCIENCE GIVES FACTORY SHIP TO SEA TRADE

British Scientists Benefit Many Trades Involving New Scientific Instruments

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., —The British "factory ship" is the latest contribution to the advancement of deep-sea fishing industry, another reality on the list of marvels that have come out of British laboratories in the last few years. In the fishing industry the "factory ship" has caused something like amazement There are now three of these monsters working from British ports, the largest—the Arctic Queen—carrying a crew of 490 men. She carries 54 small motorboats, and is away from port for five or six months at a time. On the fishing grounds these smaller boats are released to fish for halibut and cod, working with 100,000 hooks on a line several miles long.

When the huge quantities of fish thus obtained are returned to the mother-ship they are promptly frozen in brine, treated exactly as though they were in a factory on dry land, and there are inspectors on board to pass the fish at every stage of the process.

On returning to port, the factory ship does not unload the catch. She merely turns herself into a floating store and releases a proportion of her catch daily for the market.

Research stations have been established in Scotland and Newfoundland and are going to supplement the factory ships by a thorough study of why fish appear in shoals at certain times, by analysis of the medicinal properties of the livers of various fish and a hundred-and-one other things.

The fishing industry is only one of the industries that the magic of British science is pushing to success. Take the "steeloscope." It is an uncanny instrument which splits up light from an electric arc into a number of colored lines, and enables the substances present in any sample of steel to be determined at a glance. The delicate "Blancometer" matches and measures colored objects much more accurately than the keenest human eye could possibly do.

Another British invention, the "strain viewer" tells with complete precision and certainty the quality of any particular sample of glass and has been adopted all over the world as an indespensable factor in precision glass-making. The modern quartz spectroscope, supplied from the national physical laboratory at Teddington to industrial and research laboratories, is even more widely used.

In these days the chief end of woman is a career.

THE LOAN AND THE NEWSPAPERS

A Story of Intelligent Advertising

ON MAY 11th Premier Bennett announced the Dominion Conversion Loan with an objective of $250,000,000. On June 1st the Prime Minister announced that the Loan had been subscribed to the sum of $639,816,500 — an over-subscription of two and one-half times.

Canadian business men are familiar with the loan. They knew that the Government had sufficient assurance of large blocks of bonds to guarantee the objective. They knew that the real success of the loan depended on an over-subscription from the free flow of bonds in private hands all over Canada, which would come forth at the call of the Nation.

But even the most optimistic were hardly prepared for such a successful flotation as the figure which the Prime Minister revealed to the country in his budget speech.

The Conversion Loan was not merely a success, it was a success in the largest and widest measure.

The degree of response with which the loan was met may be attributed to scores of factors, but one of the very definite reasons for the smoothness and rapidity of the transaction, the readiness of the public, the lack of question, and the ease with which tens of thousands of small transfers were put through, lies in the application of the force of advertising in the daily newspapers of Canada.

The Government carried a series of clear-cut announcements in every daily newspaper throughout the Dominion. These in turn were supplemented by the individual advertisements of banks, bond dealers, and financial houses. The use of other media was inconsequential. Nearly all of the expenditure went into the form of advertising in Canadian daily newspapers.

What newspaper advertising accomplished in this particular instance it is accomplishing day by day for the whole fabric of commerce and industry in Canada.

In this Dominion there is no substitute for newspaper advertising.

The geographic extent of Canada, its span of provinces extending over the vast breadth of a continent, its scattered population, its trading areas with widely differing business conditions, all tend to make the Canadian daily newspaper the one universal medium of information and advertising in this country.

This is why the newspapers of Canada occupy an outstanding position as the messengers of the Dominion's welfare and progress. This is why the successful national advertiser in Canada, without exception, looks upon the Dominion's skein of daily newspapers as his primary and indispensable medium.

Ask any recognized advertising agency.

The Dominion Government advertisement reproduced in miniature above, and those which followed it, were published in every daily newspaper in Canada, coincident with the announcement of the Dominion Conversion Loan, which had an objective of $250,000,000, and secured $639,816,500 within two weeks.

PET PARADE AND NUMEROUS FANCY COSTUMES FEATURE FIRST DAY OF MONSTER CELEBRATION AT FERNIE

Children's Sports Are Keenly Contested; Water Sports Are Popular

FERNIE, B. C., July 3.—The first of a two-day celebration on July 1 and 2 was very successful, the main features being the grand air circus, live parachute jumping, baseball and football tournaments, carnival attractions, swimming sports and pet parade. The day was fine after a week of rain, though cool and cloudy in the afternoon.

Crowds were present from up the Pass, Rooseville country, Montana and as far west as Trail.

The pet parade in which there were over a hundred entries, featuring children of every age in costume, with every kind of animal from cats to cows, started off the day at 9:30 in the morning. There were many rabbits, dogs and chickens. During their progress up the street a goose escaped from its cage and caused a little commotion in the line of spectators before it was caught and brought back. A small pig enclosed in a cage was one boy's entry which he called "Piggly Wiggly." A goat pulled another's cart . Two little girls had great difficulty in getting their stubborn Jersey calf to follow the procession, though they pulled it from the front and pushed it from behind.

One very distinctive entry was that of a bicycle decorated like a covered wagon of pioneer days. Another represented hard times with a couple dressed in rags wheeling their cat and dog babies in a rickety carriage. "Sparkplug" was the name of one child's horse, ridden by himself dressed as a nigger jockey boy.

The prize for the best bicycle was won by Mary Kelman with her entry called "Sweet Lavender," in two shades of mauve. Mary Minchuk came second with her bicycle decorated in green and rose. Sandy Sanborn took third place.

CLOWN COMPETITION

Ian Dufour got first place for the clowns, going as a large fat one with orange and black perriot suit. James Riley came second and Bert Jones third wearing white flour sacks and floured face.

The best fancy costume, boy or girl, was little Helen Thomas as "Follies" with a dainty white ballet dress. Dorothy Cummings as "Chinky Chinaman" in black pyjamas trimmed with red, came third.

The prize for the best fancy costume, boy or girl, with pet, was taken by Janet Walker as a bride with Donald Walker as a daffodil bearing her train.

CHARACTERS ORIGINAL

There were many original characters with pets but Fancy Sanborn took first prize under this division. She went as Red Riding Hood, wearing a red cloak and drove her little electric car with her large police dog as the wolf sitting on the seat beside her. John and Alf Hawkins got second prize with their shetland pony and prospector's cart and equipment, one of the boys going a little ahead as the "B. C. guide," with "Cariboo or bust" as their motto. Charles Maderseofer's small covered wagon drawn by his pet won third.

First prize for the best national character with pet went to Nellie Ademski, dressed in a long white Polish costume. Mona Asselstine won second prize in an Irish girl's green and red with white apron. Gwen McNeil came third as "Miss Canada."

The parade proceeded from the Central school up the length of Victoria avenue and on to Baker for two blocks, then doubling back on Main street. It finished at the gates of the Government building, wher the judging was done. Mrs. William Currie, Mrs. Irvine and Rev. D. Gray were the judges. Thomas Prentice and Dr. Kelman were in charge of the parade.

From there the crowd priceeded to the swimming pool where the water sports took place. Water clowns entertained the spectators and swimming and diving competitions were held.

RACE EVENTS

The results were as follows:

Boys' race, 10 years and under, one length—Henry Hunter, first; Thomas Alexander, second.

Girls' race, 10 and under, one length—Irene Hamer, first; Brownie Shupe, second; Louise Gates, third.

Boy's race, 12 and under, one length—Charles Hunter, first; Ben More, second; Donald McLean, third.

Balloon race, boys and girls 12 and under—George Owen, first; Frank Baccelloni, John Verkirk.

Boys' race, 15 and under—Mitchell Hanna, first; George Owen, second; John Verkirk, third.

TOTAL 1654 CARS COUNTED HIGHWAY

Steady Stream of Traffic Between Trail and Rossland Checkup Shows

TRAIL, B. C., July 3.—Some idea of the traffic on the highways leading to and from Trail may be gained by official figures of traffic on Trail-Rossland highway yesterday, Dominion day.

The count showed that in 2 hours ending at 7 o'clock this morning 1654 vehicles had used the highway. This included all manner of vehicles, but of the total only six were horse-drawn.

The report indicates that there were no particular rush hours, but the traffic was steady throughout the day.

Life should be a route, not a routine.

EDITORIAL HAS FINE WORDS FOR NELSON, DISTRICT

Comments On Fine Spirit Between Two Centers; Urges Travel in West

In connection with the recent goodwill visit of members of the Nelson board of trade to Spokane and Moscow, Idaho, chambers of commerce the Spokesman-Review, Spokane, carried the following editorial headed "Nelson and Sokane"—

"Very pleasant and commendable are the friendly relations of Nelson, B. C., and Spokane, a further testimonial being the visit yesterday of a delegation of civic leaders of the regional capital of southeastern British Columbia.

"It is agreeable to know that every year more people of the Inland Empire are enjoying the charms of a marvellous playground that has Nelson for its center, and sweeping into the Canadian national parks. Their numbers will be magnified when still better highways link eastern Washington and northern Idaho with British Columbia and Alberta.

"That will be well, for the merchandise balance of trade is against Canada, and tourist travel is against United States goes far toward settlement of balances.

"The American vice consul at Regina, Sask., reports in the United States Daily that while agriculture is Canada's greatest primary industry and forestry is rated second, "there is another source of revenue that yearly runs the output of the forests a close race for second place, and that is likely to exceed it in a few years—and that is the tourist industry.'

"In two years Canada has reaped a harvest of $580,000,000 from tourist travel, and it came mostly from the United States. As the vice consul reminds us, that is new money brought into Canada and left there, 'without any strings attached, and not paying an annual tribute to some one abroad.'

"When choosing your itinerary for this summer's vacation, consider Canada, particularly western Canada. In no other tour can you find so remarkable a blending trip abroad and a tour at home. For while our Canadian neighbors are under another flag, and properly have the empire point of view, they are one with us in language, religion, literature and ideals."

A bag for carrying bathing suits has been invented that can be inflated to serve as a pillow or float to support a person's heat in water.

To stimulate aviation in China the government will admit all imported airplane parts and accessories free of duty for the next five years.

PERCY OAKLEY LAID AT REST

FERNIE, B. C., July 3.—The funeral of Percy Oakley was held on Tuesday at 3 p. m., proceeding from the home of his parents, on Victoria avenue, to Christ church, here service was held, Rev. Mr. Holmes officiating. The deceased was well known and liked in Fernie and the church was packed to the doors. At the grave-side the Ancient Order of Foresters also held a short service.

FLOAT ARRIVES FOR SWIMMERS

Government Wharf Structure to Be Equipped for Swiming Season

A float, the old government Crescent Bay wharf, has been purchased by the city and anchored at Lakeside park. It will be fitted with high dive, spring board, and chat house, to accommodate the bathers during the coming season. The structure replaces the old float which practically went to pieces in the spring storms. It is somewhat larger than the old one and will make a splendid float for the bathers.

The city had the float towed down from Crescent Bay on Thursday, June 25.

NEWPORT-NELSON VETERANS PLAN A JOINT PICNIC

Will Likely Be Held Salmo; Veterans Going to Perry Siding

In all likelihood the Nelson branch of the Canadian legion will this year cooperate with the Newport, Wash., post of the American legion in a monster joint picnic to be held at Salmo late in the summer. Various district branches on this side of the line and other posts across the line will likely take part. The matter has not yet been passed upon by the local branch but will be taken up at the next meeting.

Last fall the two branches cooperated in a successful affair at the south fork at which close to 500 United States and Canadian veterans participated.

The local branch will on Wednesday next send about 35 members to a strawberry social being arranged at Perry's Siding by the Slocan Valley branch.

Arrangements are underway for the local legion to visit with the Crawford Bay branch on Labor day next. The arangements for this latter event are in the hands of W. Gow.

The crying baby sounds the calf to arms.

CHICAGO GRAIN DROPS DOWNWARD

Record Breaking Shipments of New Southwest Wheat Brings Decline

CHICAGO, Ills., July 3. (By John P. Boughan, Associated Press market editor)—Record breaking shipments of new wheat southwest, with harvest operations extending rapidly into more central territory pulled grain prices downward today.

The bearish influence of lower rates due July 15 and expected to divert much wheat from southwestern markets to Chicago was also apparent. Unlooked-for downturns in Liverpool quotations to within a fraction of the lowest point this season were ascribed to heavy offerings of Russian wheat at prices equivalent to 56¼ cents a bushel for United States, Gulf of Mexica delivery.

Wheat closed unsettled ½ to 1½ cents lower, corn ¼ to ⅞ cents down, oats ⅛ to ½ cent off, and provisions 2 cents to 7 cents setback.

NEW YORK LIST IS CONSISTENT

Stocks Are Buoyed Up by Expectations of Successful Debt Termination

NEW YORK, July 3.—(AP)—The New York security markets did their best to make the Fourth glorious.

Buoyed by expectations of a successful termination to the debt discussions, stocks rallied consistently. The advance was attended by no such enthusiastic demonstrations as marked the first stages of the Hoover plan, but traders evidently thought the list was entitled to a further rally on the basis of the Paris and Washington dispatches.

The debt meetings have been uppermost in Wall street's mind all week. Nervousness over the outcome was momentary. While the prevalent feeling was that too much was at stake to permit failure, the reassuring advices today prompted considerable jubilation, partly at the expense of the shorts. Sales were 2,100,000 shares.

U. S. STEEL STRONG

U. S. Steel provided strong leadership, rising to 105¾, just a point over its previous recovery top. The final quotation was 105, making the net gain 2¾ points. Westinghouse, American Telephone, American Tobacco "B", Union Pacific, Rock Island and Eastman Kodak rose 3 to 4½ points and a large number of shares gained one to two and more. The most conspicuous exception was National Biscuit, off as much as three points at the lowest and down 1½ on the day.

Foreign exchanges were dull and firm. Far easterns rose with silver and sterling cables advanced slightly.

The bond market moved ahead in lively fashion today and trading was the most active since June 2. Sales totalled $13,389,000 compared with $14,103,000 on the earlier day. The advance was general throughout the list with railroad loans making the largest gains among domestic obligations.

WINS APPEAL ON CHARGE DRIVING COMMON DANGER

FERNIE, B. C., July 3.—The appeal of Ross Costanza from the conviction of driving to the common danger came up before Judge Thompson's court on Tuesday morning. After hearing the evidence Judge Thompson upheld the appeal without costs.

The judge stated that from the evidence the driver had been careful, had failed to produce this proof, and that the accident seemed to be unavoidable. The onus of proof that the driver had been careless lay with the crown, and the crown

The charge was the result of an accident which happened in front of the Central school about two weeks ago, when a seven-year-old child was run over by a city truck, just as the children were crossing the road after the school bell had rung.

The child recovered without serious injury after a short period in the hospital.

MONTREAL CURB PRICES LOWER

MONTREAL, Que., July 3.—Price movements were narrow and issues were slightly lower though mainly unchanged in today's extremely dull session of the Montreal curb market. The total volume of sales dropped off substantially and there were only two price changes in the miscellaneous section, both of which were of a fractional nature.

Dominion Stores made the only advance, closing at 2½, up ½. Associated Breweries, Beauharnois Power British American Oil, Imperial Oil, International Petroleum and Hiram Walkers all remained unchanged from their previous closing prices. The oils were generally dull and firm as were the beverages while the public utility section was mixed.

Noranda was stronger in the mining division, closing at $20.40, up $1.05. Abana and Moss both lost a fraction, while Siscoe and Stadacona remained unchanged. Sullivan lost one cent to close at nine cents, a new low.
