Control of Foreign Competition Better Than 20 Per Cent Preference

FISHING AND MINING AIDED

B.C. Copper Concentrates Will Probably All Go to Great Britain

VANCOUVER, Aug. 21 (CP)—Bringing benefits to British Columbia's lumber, fishing and mining industries, as well as to hundreds of mixed farming ventures throughout the province, Canada's agreements with the United Kingdom and other dominions announced from Ottawa imperial conference were acclaimed in Vancouver tonight.

Outstanding to lumber men of the province was the section which brought control of dumping of millions of feet of lumber by Soviet Russia. To Robert M. Eassie, a veteran of lumbering, it was a point

WOMEN FLYERS GOING STRONG

CURTISS FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 21. Two young women who had been flying for a week were still not satisfied with heir endurance record today. They took on a tankful of gasoline, a fresh supply of hairpins, and kept right on flying. Mrs. Frances Marsalis and Mrs. Louise Thaden completed their seventh day in the air at 1 p. m.

The flyers surpassed the previous women's record of 123 hours late Friday.

CANADA FARMER GAINS GREATLY

Gets Important Concessions for What He Sells and Hopes to Sell

By R. K. CARNEGIE
Canadain Press Staff Writer

OTTAYA, Aug. 21—The sorely pressed Canadian farmers get the benefits coming and going in the trade agreement signed yesterday between this Dominion and the United Kingdom. They get important concessions for what they sell and hope to sell in the United Kingdom markets and may well expect to get lower prices in some of the goods they buy because of the lower Canadian tariffs against Great Britain.

In expressing satisfaction tonight over the result of the negotiations, United Kingdom marks the success-

APPLE GROWER HAS CHANCE OF PREFERENCE

Fresh, Canned and Dried Apples Are Quoted for Preference

FRUIT EXPERTS SEE REVIVAL, INDUSTRY

Highly Favored Class of B.C. Fruit Due for a Larger Market

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Aug. 21—Canadian apple orchards will blossom with a sweeter fragrance for their owners next spring if the recommendations contained in the agreement between the United Kingdom and Canada at the close of the imperial conference yesterday, are ratified by parliament.

What the United Kingdom will ask parliament to do for Canada in the way of preferences on apples is briefly as follows: Raw, fresh apples, four shillings and six pence per hundredweight. Canned apples, three shillings and sixpence per hundredweight. Dried apples (and other fruit) 10 shillings and sixpence. Fruit experts are looking for a great revival in the industry.

The famed Annapolis valley in Nova Scotia, scarcely more than half a hundred miles through the historic "land of Evangeline," produces an average of around 1,500,000 barrels per year, of which about 75 per cent is exported abroad. Plans are already under way in Nova Scotia to increase the production to 5,000,000 barrels by 1942.

LARGER MARKET

The stretch of farm land along Lake Ontario from Brighton to Toronto furnishes the bulk of Ontario's huge output of apples.

Centered about the Okanagan valley in British Columbia is Canada's third great apple growing area, where the more balmy season enables the orchardists to produce a highly favored class of fruit which will undoubtedly find a larger place on the United Kingdom market.

The United Kingdom imported some 6,500,000 barrels of apples last year, of which about 2,700,000 barrels came from empire sources, the remainder coming from many quarters with the United States sharing largest of any one foreign country.

BALDWIN AND BENNETT GIVEN TOKENS AS TREATIES SIGNED BETWEEN BRITAIN, DOMINIONS

Twelve Trade Treaties Signed to Bring Imperial Conference to Head at Ottawa; High Praise Bestowed Upon Canadian Prime Minister

GUNS BOOM, CARILLON PEALS AS HISTORY-MAKING EVENT COMES END

Actual Signing of Treaties Occupied But Few Minutes; Salvers Presented to Baldwin and Bennett; Various Delegates Pass Opinions

By J. F. SANDERSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—One quarter of the world's population was united in closer economic contact yesterday when the Imperial conference was climaxed with the signing of 12 trade treaties.

"What we have done at this conference," said Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, leader of the United Kingdom delegation, "is to build a foundation on which we and future generations may erect as fair and stable an edifice as lies in their capacity to accomplish. It only remains for us to try and work in practice what we have achieved on paper, and with that sanity and forbearance which I hope will always characterize members of the British Commonwealth of nations. Then it may be that generations that come after, in speaking of us, may say indeed: 'They builded better than they knew.'"

The all-road treaties were signed at the final plenary session in house of commons chamber. Delegates occupied the members' seats. Grouped at a long table in the wide central aisle were the leaders of the delegations, with Premier R. B. Bennett, as chairman, at the head. Galleries were filled with distinguished people. Arc lights illuminated the scene. Cameras flickered. Guns boomed on the hill. The carillon pealed in joyous tone.

RT HON. STANLEY BALDWIN

The following were the treaties signed:

United Kingdom-Australia.
United Kingdom-South Africa.
United Kingdom-New Zealand.
United Kingdom-India.
United Kingdom-Newfoundland.
United Kingdom-Southern Rhodesia.
United Kingdom-Canada.
Canada-Irish Free State.
Canada-South Africa.
Canada-Southern Rhodesia.
South Africa—Irish Free State.
New Zealand-South Africa.

The plenary session opened with the passing of a resolution of "respectful duty" to the King. A message of thanks was received later.

The actual signing of the treaties occupied only a few minutes. When

England Must Prove Her Right to Money Declares de Valera

DROGHED, Irish Free State, Aug. 21 (C P cable)—"I pledge myself England will not get her money until she proves her right to it." In these words President de Valera of the Irish Free State today summed up his policy regarding the payment of land annuities under the financial agreement of 1925 and 1926 with the United Kingdom.

"We have put our money into a suspense account and it is there for all the world to see," declared the president. The money would stay there until fair negotiations for settlement were initiated, he said, and it was safe, for the country's credit was behind it.

"There is not in our minds any animosity against the British as such," said Mr. de Valera. "If any other people in the world attempted to dominate us as the British crown did in the past, we would have fought them, too."

MINISTERS LEAVE FOR TORONTO CONFERENCE

VICTORIA, Aug. 21 (CP).—Hon. William Atkinson, British Columbia minister of agriculture, and J. B. Munro, deputy minister, left here tonight for Toronto to attend a conference called by Hon. Robert Weir, federal minister of agriculture. The gathering will discuss livestock, dairy produce and other phases of agriculture with a view of co-ordination of Dominion and provincial services.

COLLEAGUES OF LATE JUDGE TO FINISH WORK ON HYDRO COMMISSION

TORONTO, Aug. 21.—The inquiry into certain affairs of the Ontario Hydro commission, left uncompleted by the death of Mr. Justice Orde, will be taken up by two colleagues of the late judge on the Ontario supreme court bench. Hon. William Renwick Riddell and Hon. George Herbert Sedgewick will make findings on the testimony.

TRAIL BOY IS HIT BY AUTO

Life of Dante Pescente Despaired of; Doukhohobor Held

TRAIL, B.C., Aug. 21.—Knocked to the pavement by an automobile on Rossland avenue Saturday evening, Dante Pescente, 8, Trail lad, is in a serious condition in the Trail-Tadanac hospital. His head is fractured and he is suffering from other injuries which it is believed will prove fatal. Peter Evvotiloff, Robson Doukhobor, driver of the automobile is held by Trail police awaiting further developments in the accident case.

Young Pescente, according to police, ran from behind a vegetable wagon that was going in the direction of Rossland. In doing so he got directly in the path of Evvotiloff's automobile which contained four passengers and a driver. The front bumper threw the boy to the pavement and the Doukhobor driver immediately picked him up and rushed him to the hospital.

TWO DROWN, 15 HURT, MANITOBA

WINNIPEG, Aug. 21—(CP)—Drownings ended the lives of two Winnipeg residents holidaying at Kenora, Ont., over the week-end and highway accidents resulted in injuries to 15. Eight-year-old Billy McCallum, son of Findlay McCallum was drowned while swimming in Lake of the Woods and William J. Wilding was drowned while attempting to swim ashore after his canoe capsized.

Eight of the injured were hurled from the back of a motor truck while on the way to Winnipeg beach for a picnic. The truck swerved while going around a corner throwing the 14 passengers in the back to the ground.

LIGHTNING HIT PLAYS PRANKS, BAKER STREET

TOM LAWSON SEES A FIRE BALL ON ROOF

J.B.C. Knocked Down in News Office; C.P.R. Telegraph Is Upset

Rending the heavens just over Nelson with a resounding crack of thunder, a triply forked flash of lightning struck the giant cottonwood tree that stands in a vacant lot on Vernon street just west of Kootenay at 1:45 o'clock Sunday afternoon, spiralled down the trunk till it reached the radio aerial of H. L. Genest, next door, and then flashed along the aerial and grounded by the Genesta' verandah, without injuring either Mrs. Genest, her little son Ferdie, or little Betty and Kathleen Curran, neighbors, all of whom were on the verandah watching the rain start. The aerial of course was burned out.

Thomas Lawson, who was in his greenhouse, on the roof of his Baker street block, a few yards from the tree, got the shock of his life, seeing a large heliotrope ball of fire roll along the edge of his flat roof, while several panes of glass in the northern end of his greenhouse were shattered. Mrs. Lawson rushed up to the roof, thinking the building had been struck, to find Mr. Lawson offering thanks that he was alive.

DAILY NEWS STRUCK

From the lane near the tree, by way of the roof of the A. G. Lambert company's lumber warehouse, Canadian Pacific Telegraph wires run to The Nelson Daily News building, providing the leased telegraph wire for the Creed printer that renders the Canadian Press dispatches into typed copy. These wires conducted an offshoot of the flash into the telegraph room, for J. B. Curran, news editor, who was editing some telegraphic copy, first saw the corner of the room glow with apparent fire, and next second was picking himself up off the floor with the

Ten Fatalities Mar Week-End in Ontario

TORONTO, Aug. 21 (CP)—Ontario's weekend fatality list stands at 10 tonight with eight of the deaths resulting from drowning and motor car accidents. One person died from gun shot wounds while the body of a man was found on the railway tracks.

The dear are: Herbert S. Lennox and James A. Forrest, Toronto, fatally injured when their automobile turned turtle; Theresa Lucciont of Toronto killed in an automobile collision near Collingwood; Harvey Brown struck down by an automobile near Humberstone; Earl Adams, Belleville, drowned; Lorne Bagshaw, Cambray; Worden Knox, drowned in Prince Edward county; William Hamilton of Detroit died from broken neck after plunge into the water at Leaming, Ont.; Mrs. Freeman Wright of Toronto was found shot at her summer home at Gananoque, Ont.; the body of Joseph Hackney was found on the railway tracks near St. Mary's Junction.

What Canada Gets by Trade Agreement

WHAT CANADA GETS BY UNITED KINGDOM-CANADA AGREEMENT

Preferences in the United Kingdom market, as follows:

Wheat in grain—Two shillings per quarter, or about six cents a bushel at par.

Butter—15 shillings per cwt. (112 lbs.), or about $3.75 at par.
Cheese—15 per cent ad valorem.
Raw apples—Four shillings sixpence per cwt., or $1.08 par.
Raw pears—Four shillings sixpence per cwt., or $1.08 par.
Canned apples—Three shillings sixpence per cwt., or 87 cents.
Dried fruits—10 shillings sixpence per cwt., or $2.52 par.

Eggs in shell—From one shilling (24 cents) to one shilling ninepence (43 cents) per great hundred (10 dozen). (According to grade.)

Condensed milk, whole, sweetened—Five shillings per cwt., or $1.20 par.

Copper, unwrought, whether refined or not, in ingots, bars, blocks, slabs, cakes and rods—Two pence per lb. (4 cents).

Free entry for Canadian eggs, poultry, butter, cheese and other milk products for three years certain, with possible revision after that period.

Continued free entry to the British market under the Import Duties act.

This act imposed the United Kingdom general tariff on a number of commodities. These duties would have become applicable to those commodities from Canada after November 15, but for the agreement.

Continuation of the present 10 per cent duty on foreign lumber, fish, both fresh and sea, canned salmon, other canned fish, asbestos, zinc and lead, with Canadian products free.

Modification of restrictions against Canadian live cattle on agreed lines. This, it is estimated, will mean at least $3 more per head to the Canadian shipper.

Bacon and ham quota up to a maximum of 1,500,000 cwt. per annum.

Existing margin of preference on Canadian tobacco to continue for 10 years.

While potatoes are not specifically mentioned, Great Britain will consider lifting the embargo against the Canadian product.

In studying the United Kingdom-Canada agreement, it should be kept in mind that a "hundredweight" is 112 pounds, and that a "great hundred" is 10 dozen, or 120. A quarter is eight bushels.

LIGHTNING HITS GOLF CLUB HELD BY PRAIRIE LAD

MOOSE JAW, Sask., Aug. 21 (CP).—Attracted by a steel-shafted putter the lad held in his hand a bolt of lightning knocked E. Blunt unconscious as he stood on the 13th green of the Moose Jaw golf course today. The lad was caddying and the lightning hit the club near the end of the grip and ran down the shaft to the ground.

Blunt was burned on the hand and stomach and golfers turned a hose on him. He was rushed to hospital where he is reported improved.

CROWDS HAIL MOLLISON AS HITS NEW YORK

Tired Aviator Surprised at Tumultuous Reception Given

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (CP). — Tired and a little surprised at the tumultuous reception he received, Captain James A. Mollison, daring Scottish-Australian flyer set his small moth monoplane down on Roosevelt field late this afternoon completing the last lap of his Ireland to New York flight.

The youthful aviator who has added a transatlantic crossing to his Australia-England and England-South Africa record breaking flights announced quietly he would takeoff "very soon" for the return flight to Great Britain where his bride of three weeks, Amy Johnson, herself a flyer of note, awaits him.

Mollison took five hours and 13 minutes for the 600-mile flight from Pennfield Ridge and Saint John, New Brunswick, where he had exhaustedly landed his light ship after a surprisingly speedy flight that was the first westward solo crossing over the north Atlantic ocean. He left Port Harnock, Ireland, Thursday morning, and his total flying time for the Ireland-New York journey was 36 hours and one minute.

5000 AWAIT HIM

Racing in from the northeast, Mollison circled Roosevelt field for five minutes while four other planes droned out a welcome. His powerful little plane fluttered down, taxied past a grandstand in which 5000 persons waited his arrival, and slowly halted while cheers and the blare of motorcar horns and sirens roared a welcome.

Mollison made it clear he was determined to return by air, incidentally becoming the first man in history to make the round-trip journey, in a heavier-than-air machine. He expected to make a start on the return flight, on which he has promised to fly over Saint John, within three or four days.

ALBERTA BENEFITS BY CONFERENCE BUT DUMPING FEARED

CALGARY, Aug. 21 (CP).—Modification of regulations surrounding entry of Canadian livestock into the United Kingdom will increase shipments from western Canada, according to prominent livestock men h tonight. Fear of dumping by foreign countries, however, was expressed by A. H. Mayland, president of the Union Packing company.

He thought it probable foreign countries would dump their bacon and hams into the United Kingdom in an effort to compete with the Canadian product. This might result, Mr. Mayland continued, in a drastic cut in prices.

200 ARMED MEN SEIZE CASTLE

ROSCOMMON, Irish Free States, Aug. 21—(CP)—Two hundred armed men walked into the unoccupied Donamon castle near here today, and quietly took possession.

The seizure aroused excitement in the surrounding country, but there is no disturbance. The castle has been without a tenant for some time, and the reason for its occupation tday is not known.

CHINESE ARE DRIVEN BACK

TOKYO, Aug. 22 (AP).—A Japanese detachment stationed east of the Manchurian city of Peipiao clashed with several hundred Chinese regulars from the province of Jehol and drove them off after three hours of fighting, Japanese newspapers reported today in dispatches from Chinchow.

INTER-EMPIRE TRADE PACTS JUST BEGINNING SAYS PRIME MINISTER IN FINAL MESSAGE

Premier Bennett Urges "Further Action" if Success to Be Achieved; Twelve Agreements Are Signed at Ottawa; Canada Signs Inter-Dominion Pacts

RETURN CONCESSIONS BY CANADA MAKE INCREASED MARGINS BRITISH PREFERENCE

United Kingdom Not Only Widens Field of Preference But Brings Within Its Scope Foodstuffs Which for Years Have Been Free of Duty

By GEORGE HAMBLETON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—"These agreements . . . constitute a definite advance toward closer Empire economic association . . . We are therefore encouraged to proceed along the course that we have chosen; but this propitious beginning must not blind us to the fact that it is but the beginning—we have laid only the foundation—and that if this scheme of closer Empire association is to endure and bring to each one of us the benefits we hope for, further action must be taken at a not too distant date."

RT HON. R. B. BENNETT

And in these words, Premier Bennett brought the Imperial economic conference to a close.

Twelve agreements, accomplishments of the conference, were signed. Seven were between the United Kingdom on the one hand and Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India, Newfoundland, Southern Rhodesia on the other. The Irish Free State had two agreements, one with Canada, the other with Africa. Canada had further agreements with South Africa and Southern Rhodesia. South Africa had one with New Zealand.

For Canada, the most important is the Anglo-Canadian agreement. The agreement marks a new departure. Under it, the United Kingdom not only widens the existing field of preference. She brings within its scope foodstuffs which for nearly 100 years have been free of duty.

Return concessions by Canada not only establish new or increased margins of British preference; they contemplate tariffs on a new basis. Henceforth the United Kingdom producer will be given in Canada full opportunity of reasonable competition "on the basis of the relative cost of economical and efficient production."

Embodied in the agreement is the following clause, designed to prevent Russian dumping:

"This agreement is made on the express condition that, if either government is satisfied that any preferences hereby granted in respect of any particular class of commodities are likely to be frustrated in whole or in part by reason of the creation or maintenance directly or indirectly of prices for such class of commodities through state action on

"THINGS COULD NOT HAVE BEEN BETTER," DECLARES BENNETT

LONDON, Aug. 21 (CP cable).—"Things could not be better," declared Prime Minister R. B. Bennett of Canada in a transatlantic telephone talk with the London Evning Standard, just before the plenary session concluding the Imperial economic conference.

"It is a happy day for me," the Canadian prime minister is reported as saying. "The conference has shown that the nations of the Commonwealth are a solid entity. We have provided the solidarity of the Empire in trade as well as sentiment."

PASADENA, Cal., Aug. 21.—Dr. Alexander Alekhine of Paris was still leading with a score of 4-0 today at the conclusion of the fifth round of the international chess masters' tournament.

Men on Relief Work Are Doing Good Job Road Improvement

Camps Visited in This Vicinity Show Men Are Working With Splendid Spirit Despite Conditions; Value Permanent

In a trip taken at the end of the week over the Nelson-Balfour road, the Gray Creek-Kuskanook road, and the Balfour-Kaslo road as far as Woodberry creek, in company with District Engineer William Ramsay, a member of the staff of The Nelson Daily News had an opportunity to see five out of six relief work crews belonging to the section in question when at their work, and to be impressed both with the splendid spirit of the men, who have been working on a basis to provide them subsistence, and with the substantial road improvements that their cheerful labor is effecting.

RECOGNITION DUE

After the day was over, the onlooker felt that the suggestion of President C. B. Garland of the Nelson board of trade, that the district owed thanks to the unemployed men in the relief camps of this district, for their loyal acceptance of conditions imposed by the country's necessities, was only in keeping with the facts.

The trip was a quick one, its object being to cover ground and see extent of work done rather than to come in contact with the crews, and 146 miles was checked on the speedometer for the round trip.

Under these circumstances, at most of the working points there was time only for slowing down, or perhaps for a few words with the foreman, and the wave of the hand and the spoken word all down the line, as the men paused at their multitude of individual tasks for a friendly grin.

On the outward trip, the crews were working at all work areas passed, but on the homeward trip all except the Boswell crew, which was visited right after the noon hour, had finished the day's allotment, this including also the crew at Woodberry. A stop was made at the Boswell camp for a meal, after returning from Kuskanok.

In spite of the intermittent work-

TOBACCO AND COFFEE GIVEN PREFERENCES

Southern Rhodesian Pact Stipulates 10-Year Period, Tobacco Clause

UNITED KINGDOM WILL AID MARKET

Duty on Copper Conditional; to Deal With Colony Matters

OTTAWA, Aug. 21 (CP)—The first article in the Southern Rhodesia-United Kingdom trade agreement is similar to that in the Canada-United Kingdom pact. Continuance of free entry of Southern Rhodesia goods, now on the free list, after Nov. 15, 1932, is provided, subject to reservations in schedule A.

Article 2 stipulates that Southern Rhodesia tobacco, for 10 years, will continue under the existing margin of preference. The 10 year period continues so long as the existing margin of preference shall b equivalent into the full duty. An ndavor will also be made by the United Kingdom to take such steps as may be practicable to assist the marketing of Southern Rhodesia tobacco.

Article 3 provides that legislation will be enacted by the United Kingdom bringing duties against foreign countries into effect at the rates set out in schedule B.

FOREIGN COFFEE

The feature of article 4 is an undertake by the United Kingdom to enact legislation for a margin of preference of nine shillings and four pence per hundredweight over foreign coffee.

Articles set out that the United Kingdom undertakes "that the general ad valorem duty of 10 per cent imposed by section 1 of the Import Duties act, 1932, on the foreign goods specified in schedule C shall not be reduced except witht the consent of the government of Southern Rhodesia."

Under article 6, the duty on copper provided on the agreement is condition on the empire producers of copper continuing to offer his commodity on first sale in the United Kingdom at a price not exceeding the world price.

Article 7 sets out that the United Kingdom "will invite the governments of the non-self-governing colonies and protectorates to accord to Southern Rhodesia any preference which may for the time being be accorded to any other part of the British Empire, and further will invite the governments of all colonies and protectorates which are free to grant preference so to adjust their customs duties chargeable upon cigarettes and manufactured tobacco that a lesser duty shall be chargeable upon such articles when manufactured within the empire from tobacco grown within the empire than upon such articles when manufactured from foreign tomacco."

FURTHER PREFERENCE

Southern Rhodesia undertakes, in articles 8, to pass legislation to secure to the United Kingdom goods mentioned in schedule D, the margins of preference shown in that schedule. Southern Rhodesia further undertakes to amend existing duties upon foreign goods of the kind specified in schedule E so as to provide for alternative specific duties mentioned in that schedule. Southern Rhodesia will favor when economic and bugetary consideration permit, the further extension of preferences accorded to United Kingdom goods."

Article 10 provides that Southern Rhodesia will accord "to the non-self-governing colonies and protectorates and the mandated territories of Tanganyika and Cameroons under British mandate and Togoland under British mandate, preferences on the commodities and at the rates shown in the schedule F. And also any preferences for the time being accorded to the United Kingdom, if his majesty's government in the United Kingdom so request."

As regards eggs, poultry, butter, cheese and other milk products, free entry for produce of Southern Rhodesia will be continued for three years certain.

PREFERENCE ON BUTTER GRANTED

New Zealand Dairy Products Will Enter United Kingdom Free

By RAY BROWN
Canadian Press Staff Writer)

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—New Zealand butter is given a preference of 15 shillings a hundredweight by the terms of the agreement concluded between the United Kingdom and New Zealand at the Imperial conference. Preferential treatment is also given in respect to New Zealand cheese, apples, pears, eggs, condensed milk and milk powder, and honey.

For three years at least, New Zealand dairy products will enter the United Kingdom free.

The preferences which New Zealand grants to the United Kingdom are not included in the copies of the agreement issued to the press. They will be made known later.

Over Bank on Balfour Road as Crib Gives; Car Burns Up

A. Hurov of Calgary, former operator of the Plaza cafe here, and two Calgary ladies who were motoring with him, en route to Vancouver came to grief on their way to Nelson Saturday afternoon, Mr. Hurov's brand new car, purchased only last Wednesday, going over the bank three miles this side of Fraser's Landing.

The road, according to both Mr. Hurov, and also a driver who was just behind him, gave way under the car, when a log in an old piece of cribbing failed to hold, the result being that the new car turned over on its top, below the road.

It took only a minute or two for the three inmates to extricate themselves from the overturned car, when it burst into flames, and was destroyed. It carried no insurance.

At Nelson the members of the party were treated for their cuts and bruises, Mr. Hurov going to the hospital, his being the most severe.

All are stopping at the Savoy hotel.

HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS EXPORTS OF U. S. INVOLVED

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (CP)—"The real gain at Ottawa was to focus fresh attention on the fact that international trade is the product of tariffs, commercial policy and capital investment, not in any one nation or group of nations, but all of them combined," says the New York Times today editorially commenting on the results of the imperial economic conference. The Times also applauds the conference for passing up matters which it declares may be better dealt with at the coming world economic conference.

The New York Herald Tribune believes the conference has left behind its "pretty complicated history which will cost some time and trouble finally to evaluate." "Where the whole question of the ultimate effect of tariffs is so obscure," the Herald-Tribune proceeds, "it is obviously impossible to say that will be the final result of the specified agreements upon trade in general.

"It is estimated that the new preferences will place about $50,000,000 worth of American iron and steel exports at a disadvantage in Dominion markets as against United Kingdom competition, and perhaps another $50,000,800 of American agricultural exports at a disadvantage in United Kingdom markets as against Dominion competition.

Conference to Settle Farm Strike Is Urge of Sioux City Mayor

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, Aug. 21.—As the farm strike entered its second week blockading highways leading into Sioux City, Mayor W. O. Hayes in a statement today urged a conference of governors to consider the situation.

"For the past week," said the statement, "Sioux City has been the center of a movement that threatens to sweep the middlewestern states like a prairie fire. Here have occurred the first demonstrations in the so-called farmers' holiday or strike against buying and selling.

"It is no exaggeration to say that thousands of farmers and owners of property throughout the farming regions will be unable to pay taxes this year due to diminishing income.

"In my opinion, an emergency of first magnitude exists, one in which I detect a potential threat of serious consequences to the nation."

thought that the building had been struck and was falling. He glanced toward the window in time to see fragments of bark from the tree sailing through the air, some of them later being found on his own lawn on Vernon street. Mr. Eperson's lawn was also covered.

The twin printers were found to have been put out of order, and it was eventually found that the flash had also made its way into the Canadian Pacific Telegraph office burning out fuses, and so disconnecting the Daily News machines. The trouble was rectified in about an hour.

Plenty of other freaks were perpetrated by this flash, which curiously did not set anything on fire. It put out of action the radio aerial of J. T. Lawrie, residing at the corner of Kootenay and Victoria streets.

Probably hundreds of persons were looking at the flash when it suddenly forked vividly into view, appearing to many as over the waterfront or over the lake.

This was the only flash of many seen in the ensuing thunder-storm, that struck actually in Nelson, the thunder accompanying succeeding flashes becoming more distinct with each.

This shower was one of several that fell during the later afternoon and the evening, the precipitation for the 4 hours ending Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock being .13 inch.

During the same period the temperature extremes were 77 and 49 degrees, and during the corresponding period for Saturday, 74 and 54 degrees, Saturday having been chiefly overcast, and ending with rain at night.

BO CO GOVERNMENT REFRAINS FROM MAKING COMMENT

VICTORIA, Aug. 21 (CP).—Members of the British Columbia government today welcomed advantages gained by Canada in the United Kingdom and dominion markets through agreements reached at the Ottawa Imperial conference, but withheld official comment until time had been gained to study the agreements in detail.

With the special anti-dumping clause inserted in the Canada-United Kingdom agreement in respect to lumber, and the 10 per cent preference continued, great benefits to the coast lumber business, employing 20,000 persons, was forecast. Making effective means of controlling dumping of lumber was British Columbia's greatest wish so far as the conference was concerned, although preference for fishing industry products was a close second.

Agreements between Canada and the other dominions make more effective advantages already provided in present trade agreements, and British Columbia's benefits will be great in this regard, although not so great as between Canada and the United Kingdom, it was stated.

RAILWAY LINES AGAIN IN ORDER

VANCOUVER, Aug.21—(CP)—Difficulties encountered by Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways due to slides following torrential rains in the Rocky mountains tonight has been overcome and train service was normal.

A cloudburst caused a severe slide at Ashcroft, B. C. late Friday night, covering railway tracks with three and our feet of sand and rock in some places. Canadian National No. 1, due to arrive here at 7.25 a. m. Saturday, pulled in 16 hours late. No. 3 of the Canadian Pacific Railway due at 9 a. m., Saturday, arrived at 10.30 p. m. Saturday, while No. 1 tracks 20 minutes later. Gangs were put to work clearing the tracks shortly after the slides occurred.

N'WFOUNDLAND PACT SIMILAR TO DOMINION'S

General Revision of Customs Tariff Is Undertaken

COLONIES GRANTED PREFERENCE, TOO

First Four Articles of Treaty Identical With Canada's

OTTAWA, Aug. 20 (CP)—The trade agreement entered into today by the United Kingdom and Newfoundland follows the lines of the United Kingdom-Canada pact. The first four articles are identical.

The agreement then states.

His majesty's government in the United Kingdom will invite the governments of the non-self-governing colonies and protectorates to accord to Newfoundland any preference which may for the time being be accorded to any other part of the British Empire, provided that this clause shall not extend to any preferences accorded by Northern Rhodesia to the Union of South Africa, Southern Rhodesia, and the territories of the South African high commission by virtue of the customs agreement of 1930.

His majesty's government in Newfoundland will invite parliament to pass the legislation necessary to secure to United Kingdom goods of the kind specified in schedule D the margins of preference over similar foreign goods shown in that schedule, with effect from July 1, 1933.

His majesty's government in Newfoundland will undertake a general revision of the customs tariff to come into force as from July 1, when, and, if and insofar as budgetary considerations permit, will incorporate in the legislation which parliament will be invited to pass giving effect to such a revision, provision for new and more favorable conditions in regard to the valuation of the pound sterling for customs purposes.

His majesty's government in Newfoundland will invite parliament to pass the legislation necessary to accord to the non-self-governing colonies and protectorates and the mandated territories of Tanganyika, the Cameroons, under British mandate, and Togoland, under British mandate, preferences on the commodities and at the rates shown in schedule E and also any preferences for the time being accorded to the United Kingdom if his majesty's government in the United Kingdom so request. Provided that his majesty's government in Newfoundland shall not be bound to accord any preferences to any colony or protectorate which, not being precluded by international obligations from according preferences, either (1) accords to Newfoundland no preferences or (2) accords to some other part of the Empire (in the case of Northern Rhodesia, excepting the Union of South Africa, Southern Rhodesia, and the territories of the Southern African high commission), preferences not accorded to Newfoundland.

SCHEDULE A.

As regards eggs, poultry, butter, cheese and other milk products, free entry for produce of Newfoundland will be continued for three years certain.

SCHEDULE B

Cod liver oil—1s 4d per gallon.

Chilled or frozen salmon — 1½d per lb.

SCHEDULE C.

Cod fish.

Marine shell.

SCHEDULE D.

This schedule is a list of 61 items of the Newfoundland tariff upon which a preference will be given normally of 10 per cent ad valorem. The schedule covers a wide range of items.

SCHEDULE E.

This schedule consists of five items of the Newfoundland tariff upon which preference will be given of special important to British colonies.

Highway Completion Cuts 100 Miles off Distance to Coast

VICTORIA, Aug. 21 (CP)—No action will be taken on any suggested change from government to private control of the Kelowna-Westbank ferry operated on Okanagan lake, according to Hon. R. W. Bruhn, minister of public works.

Th statement was issued today as the result of a letter from the Penticton board of trade prompted by reports that the Kidd committee which recently investigated provincial government affairs in British Columbia had recommended change from all government operated ferries to private tender.

Completion of the southern transprovincial highway and the improvement of existing main roads was also urged in the letter. The Hope-Princeton cutoff will lessen the distance between Nelson and Vancouver by approximately 100 miles and will permit delivery of southern Okanagan fruit in Vancouver the day it is picked.

The ministry stated that work on this road has been maintained through unemployment program and will be continued only as finances permit.

ful termination of a battle that had been going on for 25 years. During the past two years in spite of the restrictions Canada shipped 25,000 to 29,000 head annually.

The present restrictions on cattle include a three-day quarantine in Canada, a 28-day quarantine for near-Hon. Robert Weir, minister of agriculture, explained from one of the agreement to the other Canadian agriculture has yielded nothing. The advantages they will receive will be far-reaching.

ENDS 25-YEAR BATTLE

The lifting of the restrictions on Canadian live cattle going into the fats in the United Kingdom ports, a six-day quarantine for store cattle, and females not allowed in at all. All the restrictions are to be lifted with the exception of a one-day quarantine in Canada which is no great hindrance and the provision that females for breeding purposes must be of a certain standard before they can leave United Kingdom ports for the interior.

Cattle men here tonight declared the lifting of the restrictions would mean at least $3 a head more shippers would receive and in many cases much in access of that figure. It would eliminate one of the great uncertainties which make the shipping of cattle hazardous for Canadian exporter from a financial standpoint.

END OF AGITATION

Canada will receive a preference of two shillings per eight bushels on wheat entering the British market. Australia gets the same. This works out at six cents a bushel at par, or about five cents, under present rates of exchange. Here again it marks the culmination of a long agitation, although a considerable body of western Canada have expressed the opinion that it will not help much because the two dominions affected produce much more than the United Kingdom can absorb. They argue that accordingly the tariff will not help them any more than the tariff on wheat in the United States, a wheat exporting country, helped the farmers there.

In government circles here it is contended the agreement will help very much. The greatest benefit of the treaty will be action to prevent Russia from breaking the wheat market. Australia and Canada no not sell the same type of wheat, so they are not in competition. With the market regulated against Russian dumping and Argentina having to meet a tariff of six cents which will more than counteract any advantage they had in exchange on wheat, it will give Canadian wheat growers a little the better of the competition. The combination of the curb on Russian dumping and preference should work excellently, officials here declare.

STUDY HOG RAISING

A commission in Great Britain is studying the hog raising industry, and accordingly the agreement on bacon and ham is not so definite as it otherwise would have been. It was learned from those still here after the conference that the plan of the British government is to so restrict importation of hams and bacons from Denmark and other countries that the price in the United Kingdom will be increased from the present 68 shillings per 112 pounds to 80 shillings in order to make it possible for United Kingdom farmers to raise hogs at a profit.

CANADA-INDIA TRADE TREATY SEEMS PROBABLE

OTTAWA, Aug. 21 (CP).—Conversations have been opened for a trade agreement between Canada and India. A statement issuedby the Dominion government follows:

"Advantage has been taken of the presence of the Indian delegation at Ottawa to initiate conversations with respect to the desirability of a trade agreement between the two countries. There have been found to be a considerable number of openings for mutual trade and it is hoped that these conversations will shortly lead to direct negotiations between the two governments, for a trade agreement which will be of substantial benefit to the devleopment of trade between Canada and India."

PHANTOM STEAMER IS SIGHTED AGAIN

DUTCH HARBOR, Alaska, Aug. 21—A message from Point Barrow today said the steamer Baychimo, abandoned nearly a year ago in the Arctic and sighted several times since in the ice pack, was lying about seven miles off shore, in the solid ice.

The Baychimo, a fur trading vessel, was caught in the ice near Wainwright last fall when it failed to sail soon enough for the south.

The winter storms and shifting ice, carried it many miles, after an airplane expedition two months ago failed to find it, the ship was believed sunk.

It has been reported and denied that the vessel carries a valuable fur cargo.

Mackerel have been so plentiful off the southeast coast of Kent that at Folkestone fish market they have been selling for as little as 8d. per 100.

EAST KOOTENAY FIRES LARGELY OUT BY RAINS

Corbin Fire Now in Past; a Fire High Up Near Kimberley

KOOTENAY RIVER FIRE CONTROLLED

Enlarge Crew Successfully Backfires; Rain Aids Fire Fighters

While forest fires in this vicinity were "blowing up again" under the impetus of high winds Friday, East Kootenay fires were going out of action to a large extent, heavy fires occurred Thursday and Friday in the Creston area, and at various other points on the Crow.

The Corbin fire, which officers of the Forest branch went to inspect Thursday on representations that assistance was needed, was found to be expiring, rains having brought about its demise.

If there has been any movement of the fire in the Upper Elk valley, on which no reports have been received, it is presumed that it has been upward toward the headwaters, as the Crows Nest Coal company has an effective fire line below.

A fire is burning on Angus creek, high up of the peaks, southeast of Kimberley, but is not endangering anything.

MCPHEE FIRE HELD

In this district the big crew put on the Kootenay river fire opposite Thrums Saturday morning is understood to have done effective work, and Sunday was favorable for the back-firing contemplated.

Rains fell over this district Sunday in various areas, including Nelson, parts of the West Arm, and various areas of Kootenay lake, including Kaslo. The storms were electrical in their nature, but no fires have yet been reported from there.

New outbreaks during the week ending Thursday night were 26, of which 13 were in East Kootenay, and 13 were in West Kootenay and Boundary. The eastern section of the territory had 17 fires still alive when the reports were sent in, and the western section had six.

These figures bring the total fires for 1932 to date in this territory to 258, each of the two districts having had just 129.

PREFERENCE GIVES WESTERN CANADA BRIGHT OUTLOOK

VANCOUVER, Aug. 21 (CP).—British Columbia's lumber and wheat from western Canada's 25,000,000-acre farm plot became very close relatives in the family of prosperity today, all because of agreements signed at the Ottawa Imperial conference.

The agreement provides British Columbia a preference for lumber in the United Kingdom, and an anti-dumping clause to protect the market. The agreement also gives western Canada's wheat a preference of six cents a bushel.

To take full advantage of the United Kingdom market lumber trade, British Columbia would have to produce a billion feet of lumber to sell 400 million feet to the United Kingdom because of perculiar requirements. That leaves British Columbia holding 60 million feet of perfectly good lumber.

Benefit in the United Kingdom market for British Columbia lumber paves the way for increased sales of wheat, and increased revenue for rural folk of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta results.

Increase in revenue of the prairie farmer paves the way for a bright barket for British Columbia lumbermen to sell their excess lumber, and lumbermen agree, prairie farmers must have lumber to build houses, barns, pig sties and corrals.

Government Members Absent From Rites

DUBLIN, Aug. 21 (CP cable).—President Eamon De Valera and every member of his government were absent today when a great circular wreath of flowers, forming the colors of the Irish Free State, was laid at the foot of the cenotaph commemorating three founders of the Free State—Arthur Griffith, Michael Collins and Kevin O'Higgins.

Former President William T. Cosgrave stood before the cenotaph with bowed head as the Last Post was sounded. Around him were gathered relatives and friends of the three men who joined his first ministry after helping to negotiate the treaty of 1921 with the United Kingdom, whereby southern Ireland attained dominion status.

CHAPTER XLII

"We'll get married, but not tomorrow! I have to wire home and see if they'll come on for it. I think they will. Father and mother, I mean. I couldn't be married without them," she told him.

"Then we'll wait," he agreed, "but not long. Mother and father, that sounds pretty darned good to me. They must be swell, Lynn, or they'd never have had you. And Sarah—she's family, too. And Hank and Slim. We'll have a regular wedding party." He grinned at her. "Going to ask Dwight?"

She shook her head. "He wouldn't come," she said soberly, "even if I did; as if I'd ask him, after everything."

"I suppose he wouldn't. 'Wedding bells are ringing for Lynn-ie but not for Lynnie and me,'" sang Tom, off key. "See here, you didn't fall for him just a little bit, did you?"

She said, "No," definitely. She added, "Although I did go out with him, Tom, after we quarreled. I was lonely."

"Sure, I understand. But he was crazy about you. You needn't deny it!"

She did not. She said nothing. She was to make no comment on the subject of Dwight as long as she lived. Not even when a year or more had passed, and Tom, picking up a newspaper, chortled, "Well, here's a devil of a note—your old boy friend Dwight gets himself married to an English show girl, aged nineteen. Feeling sort of low, Lynn?"

But that was still a year away.

"Tom, you must go," she said, now. "It's terribly late. What will people think?"

He rose, dumping her unceremoniously, picking her up again to kiss her.

"I don't want to go, but I will. Now that I know I'm coming back pretty soon—to stay."

She said wistfully, "I wish Jennie could be with us when we get married."

"Jennie?" He frowned. "Don't worry your head about her. Slim, poor devil, he's sunk; drinks too much, smokes too much. He told me you'd seen him."

"He didn't understand," she said, low. "She didn't want him to. I'll tell you some day. No," reconsidering, "I can't tell even you. But try to believe, Tom, that it wasn't all Jennie's fault."

"I'll believe anything you say," he told her, "but we'll have old Slim over a lot, won't we, and try to cheer him up." He kissed her again.

"Tom, you've got to go," she said, and then, "I'm terribly happy. Sure sure I'm forgiven?"

He was sure; he made her sure. Presently he was gone. Suddenly almost sick with fatigue, Lynn undressed and went to bed. Lying there in the darkness, she tried to think. But her thoughts were kaleidoscopic. Dwight, asking her to marry him in the spring, in England. She thought in utter astonishment, is it possible that I was tempted even then? She thought wonderingly of Sarah—remembering how she had seen her waiting, her face a mask of tragedy. She turned her tired mind from the scene which had followed. Then Tom—the bruise on his cheek; his collar torn . . .

Tom's arms, Tom's kiss, Tom's proven innocence; her own unconscious guilt, meaning, she discovered, so much less than his embrace.

"Sarah, if I can make it up to you, show you how grateful I am for what you did for me," she whispered.

The next morning Tom called for her, his hours, as it happened, more or less coinciding with hers. They drove uptown in the "new car."

"It runs," said Lynn, "like a dream."

"We'll go honeymooning in it."

"Tom, I can't get away."

"Neither can I," he admitted cheerfully, "but there'll be next summer—and vacations."

He parked in a garage not far from the Seacoast building. They walked to breakfast and to work, together. Perched on the high stools. "Do you remember?" they asked each other simultaneously and their coffee cooled while the White Jacket attending their needs asked, "What, so early in the morning?" but grinned in sympathy, nevertheless.

The great building hummed all around them.

"Jennie's gone," said Lynn, sitting there on the stool, "and Mara."

"They made a mess of things," Tom said bluntly. "We won't."

"Not as long as we love each other," agreed Lynn. "And that will be always."

The cafeteria was filled with clatter and bustle; people tramped in and out.

"Golly," said Lynn, gasping, "I'm late!"

She fled to work. Miss Marple asked sourly, "Why the bright morning face? Someone left you a million?"

"Two," Lynn told her solemnly.

Sarah. It would be hard to face Sarah, she thought. Yet somehow it was not. Later, she was forced to go to Sarah's desk on business. Sarah looked up. Lynn stared at her. Sarah, in black, white collar, white cuffs, her face serene.

"About this report of Mr. Johnson's?" Sarah asked, and picked up a blue card with a typewritten sheet attached to it.

Listening, Lynn's eyes were pulled against her will to the open door of Norton's office. Norton's small, dark typist sat there, busy. She saw no one else.

Sarah smiled faintly. "I understand Mr. Rawlson is—ill," she said, low.

Lynn laughed. "And how!" she agreed.

"I've been talking to Mr. Norton," said Sarah. "You needn't look so worried, Lynn. He understands everything. And Rawlson will send in his resignation."

"MIND" IS SUBJECT LESSON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Nelson, on Sunday was "Mind."

One of the Bible texts was, "Jesus saith unto him, Go thy way; thy son liveth. And the man believed the word that Jesus had spoken unto him, and he went his way." (John 4: 50).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Science can heal the sick, who are absent from their healers, as well as those present, since space is no obstacle to Mind" (page 179).

She Burst Into Tears at Parting

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have known a certain boy for five years and have really and truly loved him. He had told me over and over again that he loved me, but he never took me out, and when we were invited to a party he would always be with the other girls. But when we would come home he'd tell me he loved me more than anything in the world.

Coming home one evening he told me he wasn't going to see me any more. Well, I just burst into tears I suppose I looked foolish but I couldn't help it, as I really loved him, and I still do in spite of all he has done to me He only says "Hello," sometimes when he sees me, and sometimes he doesn't even say that. Please advise me.

EVELYN

When a young man treats a girl the way this one has treated you, the recourse for her is to fall back on her Pride. You made a mistake in the first place, to accept such indifferent treatment as ignoring you in favor of other girls at parties, and not taking you there and bringing you home properly. You'll do well, my dear, to charge this episode up to experience, and be more independent in your relations with boys in the future. Take an interest in someone else. That's the best way to take your heart out of pound. Don't waste an hour greiving over such a boy. He's not worth it.

QUEER WAY TO TEST HIS LOVE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am twenty and for three years I've been going with a certain young man with whom I've had an understanding that we were to be married However, once in a while he takes out a girl who at one time was employed in the same place with me.

I get awfully upset about this, particularly when he says his reason for taking her out is to discover whether he loves me or not. When a man professes to love a girl, and is going to marry her, I can't understand why he should go with someone else. He says in future he will not tell me about his dates if I'm going to get so worked up over them.

It seems to me that I'm being treated as a doormat. Would it be better to ask him to make a choice between the other girl and me, or just let matters drift?

DESPERATE

For an engaged man to take another girl out to test his affection for his fiance strikes me as pretty indifferent love-making. You're only human to feel as you do about it, and I'm so sorry it had to happen; at the same time, I'd try not to show how deeply it hurts.

If your fiance is drifting toward this other girl, there really is nothing to be done about it. But be a good sport and save your face—take an interest in someone else. Men sometimes have these vague impulses, then come back, as birds do when you leave the cage door open.

SHALL SHE GO OUT WITH A PETTER?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I've been asked to go for a ride by a boy I've known for a long time, who has a reputation of being a great petter, and if there's anything I dislike thoroughly it's that sort of promiscuous mauling. I must say he's always shown me a great deal of respect, and when he takes me home from a party and asks for a good night kiss he just doesn't get it.

If a boy takes me out and wants to know where "he gets off," he never in doubt after I tell him. Some people laugh at me and say I'm destined to be an old maid. No indeed, Miss Fairfax; but I want my life to be sweet and clean, so some day I can give my real love to the man of my choice. Meantime, shall I go out with the petter.

B. T.

As the "petter" has always treated you with respect and hasn't even been rewarded with that goodnight kiss, and knows how you feel about promiscuous love-making, it might be safe to go with him on what might be called a trial trip. Usually boys do not attempt to pet unless they feel reasonably confident that there will be little or no objection. As for your "platform" of discouraging promiscuous love making till the right one come along—it's fine.

THEY'VE BEEN SNEAKING OUT

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 21 and have been keeping company with a girl of 16. Every time I make a date with her she has to sneak out. I don't know if her mother and father know about it, but the girl is afraid to tell her mother, fearing her mother may think she is too young to have dates. Do you think it would be wise for us to tell her parents about our going out, or would it be wise to wait longer?

The reason I would like to tell her people is so I can take her out without her sneaking.

WORRIED

Sneaking is never a good thing, no matter how innocent the fun. Sneaking has a questionable effect on the sneakers, for it encourages cowardice and stealth. Better for both of you to 'fess up, and say you've been seeing each other occasionally, and that you'd like to continue to do so with the family's consent. If they're sensible they'll agree. But for your own sakes, my dears, don't think of anything as serious as getting married. That would be too bad at your time of life.

Her Wedding to "Lord" a Hoax

Elaine Manzi, dancer, held the spotlight in Philadelphia for a whole forenoon when she announced she had married Lord North. But the congratulations of the morning turned sour in the afternoon when the publicity bubble was burst and it was discovered that a penniless Englishman, posing as Lord North, had re-married his own wife, who signed Elaine's name in the register. Here we see Elaine in her working clothes.

Patient Griseldas Found in Real Life

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
An Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

The day's news contains nothing stranger than the case of a young and lovely woman who deliberately destroyed her own beauty because it's effect on other men made her husband bitter and angry.

It seems, according to a Los Angeles dispatch, that Mrs. Virginia Rae smeared a strong, caustic acid on her face, because her husband couldn't stand the admiring glances other men gave her when she went out.

"You are too beautiful," he told her, and the young wife applied the acid. The doctor in attendance has said she will be permanently disfigured.

It will be interesting to observe the effect on her husband of this strange sacrifice of beauty. Will he love and cherish still more the woman who deliberately marred her face to spare his jealous pangs?

Alongside of this, the legend of "patient Griselda" becomes almost the chronicle of a wild woman. Griselda—perhaps you don't remember the story—only gave up her real convictions, her pleasures and her children to suit an arbitrary husband who, it seems was only trying her out. And after he had reduced her to the consistency of a blotting pad readily mopping up his views, whims, cruelties and tantrums, he rewarded the long-suffering lady by saying his domestic third degree stuff was only to see how she would react.

I have forgotten whether poor Griselda "lived happily ever after" in the manner of legendary folk, or whether they took her to the home for the feeble-minded. A great many wives would think she belonged there.

As to the moral of the Griseldas in every day life who submit to blustering, brow-beating and tyrannizing husbands, the effect on these men is often that of a boomerang. It returns inevitably in the direction from whence it came. The smiter is smitten, if he is not skilful at dodging that rough justice that we sometimes call fate.

GIFTS FOR SICK-ABED FRIENDS

Flowers are an appropriate gift for sick people, but if they have to remain in bed for quite a long period of time there are other gifts which often are even more appreciated.

Books, of course, are always in order but often the invalid is too weak to hold a book. The answer to that is one of the new book and magazine racks made especially for reading in bed.

There are charming bed jackets and night gowns trimmed with lace which delight any woman patient, and warm, soft robes for a man when he is ready to sit up. Bedroom slippers and mules are always appreciated.

Hospital pillows are not always comfortable, nor are the slips particularly attractive, so why not give the invalid a pair of fine, hand-embroidered pillow slips, or else a soft pillow and one slip?

NEW DISHES THIS WEEK

Scalloped Carrots: Cook three cups of sliced carrots in salted boiling water till tender. Also cook three cups of sliced onions. Prepare two cups of white sauce as follows: Heat two cups of sweet milk, then stir in four tablespoons of flour mixed to a paste with a little cold water; add one tablespoon of butter and stir till thick and smooth. Season to suit taste with pepper and salt. Place a carrot layer in the bottom of a baking dish; add a sauce layer, then an onion layer, then a sauce layer, a carrot layer, etcetera—continuing till the ingredients are used. Over the top spread buttered crumbs.

Peach Shortcake—Mix and sift two cups of pastry flour with four teaspoons of baking powder, two teaspoons of salt. Rub into this dry mixture one-fourth cup of butter, and gradually add three-fourths of a cup of cold sweet milk. Turn the mass out onto a floured board and pat down (do not roll) to circular shape. Put into two buttered layer cake pans. Bake 12 minutes in a hot oven. Split with a fork and butter while hot. Then spread sweetened sliced ripe peaches between and on top layers (or any fruit) and serve with sweetened whipped cream heaped on top, having a few peach slices on the cream for decoration.

Macaroon Bisque: Beat one cup of heavy cream till stiff, with enough powdered sugar to sweeten and a drop or two of vanilla. Fold in 12 macaroons broken in small bits. Pile into sherbet glasses, decorate with marachino cherries well drained from their juice.

SELECT UNUSUAL BRIDGE AWARDS

Do bridge favors baffle you? Here are a few ideas, and in them I hope you will find some new suggestions: Jars of candied fruit, candied ginger and various fruit peels. Cookie jars, dor stops, playing cards, score pads, bridge table covers and the little polished shells that can be used as nut cups or for individual servings of mayonnaise.

ARTICHOKE CANAPE DELICIOUS

Prepare artichokes as for salad. Remove hearts. Serve on sliced tomato. Fill cup with caviar, top with seasoned sour cream or cottage cheese, garnish with chopped lettuce. Add minced chives to cheese or cream if desired.

MRS. HENDRICKS RETURNS, KASLO

KASLO, B. C., Aug. 21—Mrs. Robert Hendricks with her daughter, Mrs. E. E. Zwickey, and the latter's children, have returned from a visit to Trail where they were the guests of Mrs. Hendricks' son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hendricks, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Steel of Nelson were Kaslo visitors Wednesday.

Mrs. R. Paget and children have left for their home in Assinniboia, Sask., after having been the guests of Mrs. Paget's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Kane.

Major and Mrs. J. H. Stubbs are camping at Fry creek.

COMBINATION IN FOODS CHANGED

1½ cups of spaghetti broken in small pieces.
1 pint of canned or cooked asparagus with the liquid.
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 cup thin cream
5 drops tabasco sauce
¾ cup buttered bread crumbs

Cook the spaghetti in salted boiling water for 20 minutes, then drain and blanch in cold water. Drain the liquid from the asparagus and cut the stalks in small pieces. Prepare a sauce of the flour, fat, cream and asparagus water and add the tobasco sauce and salt. In a greased baking dish put a layer of asparagus and then one of spaghetti, cover with the sauce and bread crumbs, and continue until all the ingredients are used. Reserve sufficient crumbs for the top of the mixture. Bake in a 352 degree oven for 20 minutes, or until golden brown. Serve with lemon slices garnished with paprika.

SLOW COOKING OF BACON IS ADVOCATED

Bacon may be successfully cooked in a frying pan, if it is cooked very slowly, turned often and the grease drained off during the cooking time as it accumulates. This produces a crisp, greaseless finished product and there is no difficult washing of the broiler.

FRINGE RETURNS TO OUR TABLECLOTHS

Fringed tablecloths both in white and colors, are often seen nowadays. Some of them look like heirloom linen, but they are really of the fashionable eggshell tint.

The Beauty Box
By Helen Follett

What has become of the rosebud mouth and the baby stare? Time was when the juvenilian type prevailed. Now we have sophisticated ladies, tall, long creatures, or if not tall then trying to look that way in their sweeping draperies. Eye shadows put on the mysterious element. Eyebrows assume strange outlines, every girl of them seeming to display an individual pattern of her own. The boyish figure, short skirts and the scalp-snug shingle are like far-away memories. Pictorially there is an entirely new type of woman every few years. Yet, individually, she's the same old girl.

When a woman does reducing penance her mind must be on her face as well as her figure. Cutting out fats, sweets and starches is a practice that takes nourishment away from tissues and facial sags are sure to result. Every night the supplicant for slenderness should get out the massage cream, mould and tap it into her complexion, not forgetting to give the neck its share. While the emollient remains on the skin surface, the ice cubes must contribute toward beauty insurance.

Certain perfumes carry a suggestion of coolness and they are best for warm weather use. Lavender is sweet and so are all those odors that are woodsy. Rose, gardenia and the lily scents are heavy, suitable for furs, snowstorms and winter activities. Eau de cologne—volatile inexpensive, refreshing—is not as popular as it should be.

The housewife whose hands cannot always be protected from the grime of heavy work will find that soap suds and cornmeal, used together, will grind out those dark lines that settle in the finger joints. Apply a cut lemon, rubbing in the pulp and juice, then get busy with soap and cornmeal. A single treatment will make old hands new again.

Skin scaling on the under side of the toes and on the flesh between them is evidence of athlete's foot, a common trouble, accredited to bacteria that causes ringworm. Medical treatment is necessary. The infection sometimes extends to the hands, and that's pretty trying.

COOK SPINACH ARMENIAN WAY

The Armenian method of cooking spinach is not so well known, but the following tested recipe will be greatly enjoyed by your family:

One-quarter peck spinach.
Four eggs.
One teaspoon salt
Four tablespoons fat.

Wash spinach and cook without water until tender. Then melt half the fat, add spinach and brown in heavy skillet for five minutes. Remove spinach to hot platter. Put the balance of the fat into the frying pan, add the slightly beaten eggs and salt and cook slowly for five minutes. Spread the hot spinach carefully over the eggs, cover the frying pan with a plate its same size and turn the two over carefully so that the spinach will be on the bottom. Serve in wedge shape slices. Swiss chard or kale may be substituted for the spinach if you desire.

WHEREVER YOU LIVE

in the NELSON DISTRICT

IT WILL PAY YOU IN CONVENIENCE, ECONOMY and LASTING SATISFACTION TO

Come to NELSON to Shop

There is a certain satisfaction in dealing with a person who knows you and is willing to cater to your particular wants and fancies. This person is found in the Nelson grocer, and not him alone, but in the butcher, the druggist, the furniture dealer, the garage owner and all others who live here, have their interests here and depend upon your friendship, patronage and cooperation.

Nelson is the natural place for you to do your shopping, no matter at what point you may live throughout the district. The marked progress that Nelson has made during the past few years; the large number of businesses that has grown; the new building and stores that have sprung up; and the new machinery and equipment that has been installed; coupled with the countless services offered by Nelson merchants that could not be obtained elsewhere, have made Nelson the chief shopping center in the Kootenay, and, therefore the logical place for you to do your buying.

When you buy goods from out-of-town your money is gone forever, and Nelson's prosperity, and your progress is retarded to that extent. We have a city of which we can well be proud, but it takes cooperation to make it expand. Let's all pull together and patronize our Nelson merchants.

DON'T SEND YOUR MONEY OUT OF TOWN BUY AT HOME AND WATCH NELSON GROW

Whether by phone, wire, letter or personal visits, Nelson District people are invited to do their buying in Nelson, where large, modern, well-kept and completely stocked stores, fine garages, hotels, cafes, and other businesses take better care of their every need with a high standard of service and quality merchandise, a popular prices.

COPPER, FRUIT PREFERENCE GO TO SO. AFRICA

Britain Adds South African Sugar and Wine; Many Unannounced

OTTAWA, Aug. 21 (CP)—South Africa and the United Kingdom signed a trade agreement today that was designed to increase the flow of goods between the two countries. In its general lines, it imitates the Anglo-Canadian treaty. South Africa undertakes to grant preferences to British manufactured goods of a wide range and Great Britain furnishes a preferred market for copper, fruits, maize, dairy products, asbestos, wine and other products. Articles 1, 2 and 3 are practically identical with the Anglo-Canadian pact and in article 4, Great Britain undertakes to add South African sugar and wine to the list. The 10 per cent ad valorem duty will not be reduced except by consent.

Article 5, dealing with copper reads:

"The duty on copper provided in this agreement is conditional on the empire producers of copper continuing to offer this commodity on first sale in the United Kingdom at a price not exceeding the world price."

In article 6, South Africa will secure the same preferential treatment as Canada for tobacco products.

Article 7 reads: "His majesty's government in United Kingdom in applying any powers which they may obtain from parliament for the quantitative regulation of imports of mutton and lamb into the United Kingdom will make provision for the importation of South African mutton and lamb."

The United Kingdom, in clause 8, undertakes to secure for South Africa the same preferential treatment from non-self-governing colonies as Canada and the other dominions.

South Africa, in article 9 undertakes to grant tariff preferences to a list of United Kingdom goods which are not announced. In article 11, South Africa undertakes not to lower existing preference margins on British goods.

Article 12 reads: "His majesty's government in the Union of South Africa undertakes to accord to the non-self-governing colonies and protectorates and the mandated territories of Tanganyika, the Cameroons under the British mandate and Togoland under British mandate, preferences on the commodities and at the rates shown in schedule H and also any preferences for the time being accorded to the United Kingdom if his majesty's government in the United Kingdom so requests.

Provided that his majesty's government in the Union of South Africa shall not be bound to accord any preferences to any colony or protectorate which, not being precluded by international obligations from according preferences, either (1) accords to the Union of South Africa on preferences, or (II) accords to some other part of the empire preferences not accorded to the Union of South Africa.

BESSBOROUGHS SPEED TOWARD SASKATOON

WINNIPEG, Aug. 21.—Just a little tired after a strenuous three-day round of receptions and entertainment, but greatly impressed by their first official glimpse of western Canada, the Governor-general and Countess Bessborough sped into the west late today.

The next stop in their excellencies' nine weeks' visit in the west will be Saskatoon. The long-planned tour will take the vice-regal party to widely scattered points of interest between Winnipeg and the Pacific coast, and to some of the north country.

BANANA DUTY WILL BE SPECIFIC, EXTEND DUTY, GRAPEFRUIT

OTTAWA, Aug. 22—(CP)—One of the undertakings of the United Kingdom signed Saturday was that the British government will invite parliament to convert the present duty on bananas into a specific duty of two shillings six pence per hundred weight and to extend the duty on grape fruit to cover the whole year.

Society

This column is conducted by Mrs. M. J. Vigneux. All news of a social nature, including receptions, private entertainments, personal items, marriages, etc., will appear in this column. Telephone Mrs. Vigneux at her home, 519 Silica street.

On Saturday last a successful community party was held at "Glenkendie," the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Leith, Willow Point, to say farewell to Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McLeod previous to their departure to Kamloops, where Mr. McLeod has lately been transferred to that branch of the Royal bank. In the afternoon bathing and beach sports were indulged in, after which a buffet supper was served, and in the evening a jolly time was spent around a glorious beach bonfire. At supper time a presentation of silver was made to the guests of the day, all those present expressing regrets at the removal of Mr. and Mrs. McLeod to another city, and wishing them health, happiness and prosperity in their new home. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Appleyard, Mr. and Mrs. William Cunliffe, Mrs. John Cameron, Miss Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. John Cartmel, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. L. Dewdney, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. IRISH FREE STATE ACCORDED EQUAL DUTY PRIVILEGE

OTTAWA, Aug. 20 (CP).—The following is the official summary of the agreement entered into Saturday between the Irish Free State and Canada:

Agreement between His Majesty's government in Canada and his Majesty's government in the Irish Free State.

The trade agreement signed on behalf of the government of the Dominion of Canada and of the Irish State is designed to facilitate and extend still further their mutual relations of trade and commerce.

The agreement secures for all goods the produce or manufacture of Canada imported into the Irish Free State the benefits of the lowest rates of duty accorded to similar goods the produce of any country. In return, goods the produce of the Irish Free State when imported into Canada will be accorded the same tariff treatment as similar goods imported from the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland.

It is subject to the approval of the parliaments of the respective dominions and is concluded for a period of five years, after which period it may be denounced by either government on six months' notice.

DOUG. BIRKBECK DIES SUDDENLY

Former Gray Creek Boy and War Veteran Visits Winnipeg

James Douglas Birkbeck, returned man, formerly of Gray Creek, and for several years an assistant ranger with the forest branch in this district, but now a resident of Portland, Ore., died Sunday morning in Winnipeg, where he had joined his father only a week or so ago, G. A. Fletcher of Nelson, his father-in-law, was advised by wire Sunday.

Coming to this district from Winnipeg with his parents when he was only a boy, settling at Gray Creek about 1910, young Birkbeck went overseas with the 54th Kootenay battalion in 1915, joining it when only 18, and served throughout the war. On returning to Gray Creek he became a well known hunter and guide, qualified for field work with the forest branch, and served as an assistant ranger for two or three years in the Kaslo-Slocan district, and later was stationed at Salmo.

IN BUSINESS IN PORTLAND

In June, 1927, he married Miss Kitty Fletcher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Fletcher, of Gore street, Nelson. The young couple soon moved to Vancouver, and then across the line to Portland, where Douglas and his elder brother, Harold, formerly of Nelson, have been partnership in a motor-truck agency.

On taking ill with a throat affection a week or two ago, Mr. Birkbeck, accompanied by his wife, left for Winnipeg, passing through here en route.

He is survived by his wife, by his little daughter, Patricia Anne, and by his father in Winnipeg and his brother Harold in Portland.

Copper Preference Is Good News, Manitoba

WINNIPEG, Aug. 21 (CP)—Announcement of the preference on empire produced copper in the United Kingdom market contained in the Canada-United Kingdom trade treaty at the close of the imperial economic conference is regarded as good news for Manitoba copper producers. Mining authorities look for distinct benefits in the future.

"It should be of real value to our copper mines," said John S. McDiarmid, minister of mines and natural resources for Manitoba. He also regarded preferences on wheat, butter and eggs as of value to the farmers of western Canada.

21 DEATHS ATTRIBUTED TO HEAT IN ENGLAND

LONDON, Aug. 21.—England's heat wave subsided yesterday as the temperature dropped to 90 degrees and the northern part of the country received rain and cold breezes off the North sea. At that, it was hot enough.

The deaths of 21 persons, including three suicides, were attributed to the heat Friday, when the temperature reached a high point of 99 degrees, nearly an all-time record.

Florence Ada Keynes, mother of J. M. Keynes, the economist, and the first woman councillor and alderman of Cambridge, will be nominated as mayor of the borough for next year.

AUSTRALIAN CHEESE, BUTTER AND WHEAT GETS PREFERENCE IN UNITED KINGDOM TRADING

Oranges, and Grapefruit Included in Agreement Signed at Ottawa; United Kingdom Agrees to Arrange for Regulation of Imports

By RAY BROWN, Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—Preferences in the United Kingdom market for Australian wheat, butter and cheese, fruits (including oranges and grape fruit), eggs, condensed milk, honey and copper are included in the Imperial conference agreement signed Saturday by Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, leader of the United Kingdom delegation, and Rt. Hon. Stanley Bruce, head of the Australian group.

Appended to the agreement is a lengthy "declaration by the United Kingdom," dealing with frozen meats, one of the great export items from Autsralia. The present depressed wholesale prices for frozen meats are referred to, and the serious results to producer and consumer if these are not raised. Consequently, the two delegations have agreed to a policy of regulation.

*OTTAWA, Aug. 20 (CP).—The fol*lowing is a condensation of the official summary of the trade agreement between Australia and the United Kingdom.

While the agreement between the United Kingdom and Australia follows generally along the lines of the United Kingdom-Canada agreement in general drafting, there are differences in a number of the articles. Article one, which provides for continuance after November 15 of free entry into the United Kingdom of Australian goods, corresponds with the first article of the Canadian agreement. The second article is identical.

Article three of the Australian agreement reads as follows:

"His Majesty's government in the United Kingdom will invite parliament to pass the legislation necessary to secure to Australian goods of the kinds specified in schedule C appended hereto which comply with the law and statutory regulations for the time being in force affecting the grant of Imperial preference, the margins of prefernce sepcified therein over similar foreign goods."

The fourth article of the Australian agreement corresponds to article three of the United Kingdom-Canada agreement excepting that it applies to "schedule D" of the United Kingdom-Australian agreement.

Article five the United Kingdom-Australian agreement reads as follows:

"The duties provided in this agreement on Norwegian wheat in grain, copper, lead and zinc on importation in the United Kingdom are con*ditional in each case on Empire pro*ducers of wheat in grain, copper, lead and zinc respectively continuing to offer those commodities on first sale in the United Kingdom at prices not exceeding the world price."

Imports of frozen meat from Australia into the United Kingdom markets are dealt with in article six of the United Kingdom-Australian agreement. It reads as follows:

"His Majesty's government in the United Kingdom and His Majesty's government in the Commonwealth of Australia agree that arrangements shall be made for the regulation of imports of frozen mutton and lamb and frozen and chilled beef into the United Kingdom in accordance with the declaration by His Majesty's government in the United Kingdom which is appended as schedule H."

Article seven of the U. K.-Australia agreement is practically identical with article eight of the agreement between the United Kingdom and Canada. The United Kingdom-Australian agreement like the United Kingdom-Canada contain a clause declaring that protection by tariffs shall be afforded only to those industries which are "reasonably assured of sound opportunities for success." Article 10 of the United Kingdom-Australian agreement is identical with article 11 of the United Kingdom-Canada agreement, with the substitution of Australia for Canada. In article 12 of the United Kingdom-Australian agreement, the Australian government undertake that no new protective duty shall be imposed and no existing duty shall be increased on United Kingdom goods to an amount in excess of the recommendation of the tariff tribunal. It is declared that United Kingdom producers shall be entitled to full rights of audience before the Australian tariff board.

TEXT OF AGREEMENT

The text of article 14 of the United Kingdom-Australian agreement is as follows:

"His majesty's government in the commonwealth of Australia undertake in so far as concerns goods the produce or manufacture of the United Kingdom:

(a) To repeal as soon as practicable the proclamation published in Commonwealth Gazette No. 46 of 19th May, 1932, prohibiting the importation of certain goods; and (b) to reduce or remove primage duty as soon as the finances of Australia will allow."

Article 15 of the United Kingdom-Australian agreement reads as follows:

"His majesty's government in the commonwealth of Australia undertake to accord to the non-self-governing colonies and the protectorates and the mandated territories of Tanganyika, the Cameroons under British mandate and Togoland under British mandate, preferences on the commodities and at the rate shown in schedule G and also any preferences for the time being accorded to the United Kingdom if his majesty's government in the United Kingdom so request.

"Provided that his majesty's government in the commonwealth of Australia shall not be bound to accord any preferences to any colony or protectorate which, not being precluded by international obligations from according preferences, either (1) accords to Australia no preferences or (11) accords to some other part of the empire (in the case of Northern Rhodesia, excepting the Union of South Africa, Southern Rhodesia, and the territories of the South African high commission) preferences not accorded to Australia."

FIVE YEARS IN FORCE

The agreement is to remain in force for five years, and, after that time, may be terminated on six months' notice.

Then follow the various schedules mentioned in the agreement as follows:

Schedule A—His majesty's government in the United Kingdom reserve to themselves the right after the expiration of three years, if they consider it necessary to do so, to review the basis of preferences, so far as relates to the articles enumerated, and, after notifying his majesty's government in the commonwealth of Australia either to impose a preferential duty on produce of Australia while maintaining existing preferential margins, or in consultation with the commonwealth government to bring such produce within any system which may be put into operation for the quantitative regulation of supplies from all sources in the United Kingdom market.

Schedule B—Wheat in grain 2s per quarter, butter 15s per cwt, cheese 15 per cent ad valorem, apples raw 4s 6d per cwt, pears raw 4s 6d per cwt, apples canned 3s 6d per cwt. in addition to the duty in respect of sugar contents.

Other canned fruit, 15 per cent ad valorem. In addition to the duty in respect of sugar contents.

Dried fruits, now dutiable at 770s 716 per cwt.

Eggs in shell:

(A) Not exceeding 14 lbs. in weight per great hundred, 1s per great hundred.

(B) Over 14 lbs. but not exceeding 17 lbs.—1s 6d per great hundred.

(C) Over 17 lbs.—1s 9d per great hundred.

Condensed milk, whole, sweetened —5s per cwt. in addition to the duty in respect of sugar content.

Condensed milk, whole, not sweetened—6s per cwt.

Milk powder and other preserved milk not sweetened—5 s per cwt.

Honey—7s per cwt.

Copper, unwrought, whether refined or not, in ingot, bars, blacks, slabs, cakes and rods—2d per lb.

Oranges—Raw, 3s 6d per cwt. from April 1 to November 30.

Grape fruit, raw at 5s per cwt. from April 1 to November 30.

Grapes (other than hothouse) — 1½d per lb. from February 1 to June 30.

SCHEDULE C

Margin of preference.

Wine not exceeding 27 degrees of proof spirit—2s per gallon.

SCHEDULE D

Leather, tallow, canned meat, zinc, lead, barley, wheat flour, macaroni, dried peas, dressed poultry, casein, eucalyptus oil, meat extracts and essences, copra, sugar of milk, sausage casings, wattle bark, other than currants, not specified in schedule B.

SCHEDULE E

Details to be published later.

SCHEDULE F

This schedule contains a formula, which will be published later, under which increased preferences will be granted to the United Kingdom over a wide range of commodities.

SCHEDULE G

Commonwealth of Australia, details to be published later.

SCHEDULE H

Declaration by United Kingdom government.

1. The present wholesale prices of frozen meat are at a level which has resulted in grave depression in the livestock industries of the United Kingdom and the dominions. This depression is likely, if not continued, to bring about a serious decline in production and consequent ultimate injury to the consumer.

2. Such a position is so serious that it is essential to take whatever steps may appear feasible to raise the whole sale prices of frozen meat in the United Kingdom market to such a level as will maintain efficient production.

REGULATE IMPORTATIONS

3. With a view to the earliest possible improvement of the position, His Majesty's government in the United Kingdom will, during the currency of the Ottawa agreement, arrange for the regulation of importations of meat into the United Kingdom, the regulation, in view of the close interrelationship of all kinds of meat in determining the price level, to be applied to all the meats referred to in section 5.

4. The policy of His Majesty's government in the United Kingdom in relation to meat production is, first, to secure development of home production, and secondly, to give to the dominions an expending share of imports into the United Kingdom.

LIMIT MUTTON EXPORTS

5. In order to cooperate with His Majesty's government in the United Kingdom in the carrying out of this policy, His Majesty's government in the Commonwealth of Australia agrees to limit the export of frozen mutton and lamb to the United Kingdom for the year 1933 to an amount equivalent to the total imports from Australia during the year ended June 30, 1932, in consideration of the United Kingdom government—

(A) Arranging for the regulation of the importation of foreign meat in accordance with the program (hereinafter referred to as the "agreed program") agreed between His Majesty's government in the Commonwealth of Australia and including within its scope frozen mutton and lamb, frozen beef and chilled beef.

(B) Arranging, as soon as possible after receiving the report of the commission now sitting on the reorganization of the pig industry in the United Kingdom, for the quantitative regulation of the supplies of bacon and hams coming on to the United Kingdom market.

(C) Undertaking that no restriction will be placed upon the importation of any meat from Australia during the period named in the agreed program referred to in section 5 (A) of this declaration.

ORDERLY MARKETING

6. During the year 1933 and in the light of the experience gained, His Majesty's government in the Commonwealth of Australia, the best means of ensuring an improved price situation and the more orderly marketing of supplies.

7. Should no permanent policy be agreed upon as the result of the consultation referred to above, His Majesty's government in the United Kingdom undertakes, after the expiry of the period named in the agreed program referred to in section 5 of this declaration and during the remainder of the period of the agreement concluded at Ottawa—

(A) To arrange for the continuance, unless otherwise agreed between *the government concerned of the reg*ulation of the imports of foreign meat at the rates in force at the end of the period named in the agreed program.

(B) In any action affecting the imports of meat into the United Kingdom which the United Kingdom government may take on behalf of United Kingdom agriculture, to have regard to the policy set out in section 4 hereof.

8. Should it appear to His Majesty's government in the United Kingdom after enquiry, that, at any time in consequence of a restriction upon foreign imports, the supplies of meat of any kind are inadequate to meet, the requirements of consumers in the United Kingdom, then His Majesty's government may remove any such restriction until supplies are again adequate.

The agreed program referred to in section 5 (A) of the declaration by United Kingdom government.

The Eclipse and Wireless

Scientists are taking considerable interest in the eclipse of the sun which is to occur August 31, and which is to be visible in the province of Quebec. It is hoped by scientists that as a result of observations to be made during the eclipse, further knowledge will be gained as to wireless, which still contains many mysteries even to those who know most about it. What is well known, says the London Times, is that the two ionized layers in the upper atmosphere, which reflect wireless waves, "have their electrification replenished every day by means of solar influence, but the exact nature of the solar stream which is effective is by no means so certain." The upper, or Appleton layer, is supposed to be caused by ultra-violet light. As regards the lower, or Kennelly-Heaviside layer, it is not known whether it is caused by ultra-violet light or switly moving atoms.

What it is hoped to settle by means of observations during the sun's eclipse is the controversy of ultra-violet light versus moving atoms. The Times says that during the eclipse "the effect of the cutting off of the ultra-violet light would be immediate, whereas, the eclipse of the hypothetical particle, because of their lower velocity, would not be so closely correlated to optical totality." Professor S. Chapman believes that in consequence of the motions of the moon and earth, "the stream of supposed particle will be interrupted by the moon more than an hour before the ultra-violet light is stopped, so that what may be termed the 'particle eclipse' may, in fact, be over before the "optical eclipse' begins." An interesting feature is that the "particle eclipse" region is expected to lie to the east of the band of "optical totality.' In other words, the "particle eclipse" effects will be observed from Greenland.

Professor Eve and Dr. J. T. Henderson, according to The London Times, believe that if they experience a partial return to night-time conditions round about totality "it will show that ultra-violet light is the principle ionizing agency; but if, on the other hand, the same kind of effect is observed in Europe about two hours before the totality occurs in Canada the experiments will decide in favor the moving particle theory.' The observations on the reflection of waves by the Kennelly-Heaviside layer are to be made by special apparatus at Angmangsalik (in Greenland), Tromso (Norway), London and Slough.

The Fall of Kreuger

The downfall of Ivar Kreuger has had a long train of consequences. The latest is the enforced resignation of Premier Ekman of Sweden. It shows what a powerful reversion of feeling there has been in that country with regard to the man who, up until the time of his suicide last spring in Paris, was admired by his fellow-citizens as few others have been. The premier last September accepted a contribution towards his party's election expenses from Kreuger. After it was found that at that time the capitalist was a bankrupt, though few could have suspected it, the money was turned over to his creditors but in spite of this and the general recognition that the premier had acted in good faith his prestige became so impaired that he felt it advisable to go back to private life.

There is no case in modern times at least where a national idol has been so suddenly upset. The Edmonton Journal recalls that at the celebration of Kreuger's fiftieth birthday in March, 1931, the most eminent Swedish economist, Professor Gustav Cassel, declared that he had "opened the doors of the world and given his country joy and confidence." Another described him as "the boldest pioneer in economic history" but one who wisely calculated risks and built upon solid foundations. The spell that Kreuger exercised and the painful awakening that has followed must surely lead to a closer examination in the future of the claims of supposed "supermen" upon the public confidence.

Prior to his death there were a few outside Sweden who knew much about the man, though they were aware of his sudden rise to power and of the mysterious influence which he exerted in so many different fields. A strong light has, however, been thrown on his astonishing career since it ended. He appears to have been a man of quiet and attractive personality whose foresight and business-like methods won for him in the early stages the confidence of all with whom he had dealings. There is no indication of any dishonesty on his part while he was making his way to the top in the commercial and financial life of his country.

But Kreuger's success turned his head. He became so obsessed with the desire for more power, which was his aim rather than the mere accumulation of money, that he lost all scruples in the mad pursuit of this. As Harold Callender put it in a recent article, "it was all so easy that Kreuger was lured by the game." He gradually "lost his once sharp sense of realities and built upon visions."

A great deal has been written about the fact that the ancient Greeks didn't use the word Olympiad in referring to the Olympic games. The whole thing could have been avoided by the simple statement that none of our sports writers are ancient Greeks.

The Hamilton Spectator is not surprised the authorities at Moncton, N.B., raised a fuss when they thought they had three $20 bills of the Lindbergh ransom money. The Spectator says anyone with $20 is open to suspicion.

Happily there is no color line in the great democracy of sport.

Another one of those optical illusions: the closer money is, the harder it is to get.

Many husbands favor changing the name of a popular card game to toll bridge.

"Between You and Me"

By "J.B.C."

Owing to the imperial conference I almost forgot to write the column today. In fact I would have forgotten all about it had not the foreman of the composing room, the linotype operators and the makeup man reminded me that I was holding up page six because that "olankety-blank" column is not set up. So taken by surprise I am somewhat at a loss to know just what to write.

I will admit that I had all the pep scared out of me Sunday afternoon at about 2 o'clock. For some unknown reason a lightning bolt had to light in a tree next to our house. It scared Perkins, our pet cat, out of a year's growth. It rattled the pictures on the wall, but I am not sure but I think my wife hid under the bed.

• • •

As for myself I was sitting in the office editing some imperial conference dope when I suddenly felt myself groping over the floor. A ball of fire, it appeared, had come over the telegraph wires. It landed in the corner and I landed off my stool. See what chanoes an editor takes just to give the public the latest news.

However I might have been far worse off. Jimmie Lawrie is, I believe, looking for a new radio after the lightning investigated his set.

Well that was one time lightning was treed.

Well, he got further distance than some sets have done.

An invitation to a nudist literary luncheon comes to us on the stationery of Holboon House, publishers of the Jan Gay's "On Going Naked," The luncheon is to be given at the camp of a nudist colony about two hours from New York, and the guests will be expected to disrobe before entering the camp. No, we're not going. We haven't the moral (or is it immoral?) courage. Neither have we the figure. But there is one point on which we should like to be enlightened: What dressing, if any, is served with the salad at a nudist luncheon?

Force of habit is a wonderful thing. "Good morning," said the flapper to the milkman who made an evening call to collect his money.

"Yes," said the commercial traveller, "we have had letters of appreciation from England, Wales and Ireland—and a postcard from Scotland."

"I can't bite it," his daughter Ruth said.

"Wait until it melts," counselled her dad.

But the lollypop remained hard and firm, and close inspection disclosed it was a block of wood painted brown. Sherman is looking for the salesman.

The platinum blonde may soon be a redhead.

Max Hoefer, president of the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers' association, at a style show preview predicted this.

He made it plain, however, that the moderately blonde woman may remain a moderate blonde and still be in fashion, but that those with the extremely light shades probably will come out with brand new titian locks. It would be either that, he said, or a coppery bronze.

Sidelights on Canadian Census

The Canada Year Book for 1932, issued by the Dominion bureau of statistics, has reached the desk of The Free Press. This valuable publication has grown year by year till it is a perfect encyclopaedia of Canadian information. There is hardly anything in regard to Canada, and particularly Canadian progress, which is not contained in this official publication. This year's volume has 1100 pages, and is a credit to the editors and to the department.

Perhaps the most interesting feature of this year's book is the careful analysis of the results of the census of 1931. One section deals with the growth of the rural and urban population. The figures show that the movement from country to city continued unchecked during the past decade. Urban communities absorbed somewhat over three-quarters the total increase in population, with the result that the urban population in Canada in 1931 exceeded the rural by 769,920. Out of every 1000 persons in the country 463 were resident on June 1, 1931, in rural and 537 in urban communities, as compared with 505 in rural and 495 in urban communities on June 1, 1921; 545 in rural and 455 in urban communities in 1901; and 682 in rural and 318 in urban communities in 1891. It might be explained that villages with a population of 750 are included as belonging to the rural district.

CITIES OF CANADA

Showing the distribution of urban population in Canada by size of cities and towns it is seen that Canada possesses two cities with more than one-half a million population. These are Montreal and Toronto, with 818,577 and 641,207 inhabitants respectively, the former having in its neighborhood several satelite cities. Verdun, Westmount, Lachine, Outremont, which, with other towns in its vicinity, brings the population of greater montreal almost to the million mark. The population of greater Toronto must be fully 800,000. Two other cities, Vancouver and Winnipeg, have attained the 200,000 mark and Hamilton, Quebec and Otttawa each have a population of over 100,000. The two western cities of Calgary and Edmonton are now over 75,000. London in 1921 was greater than Edmonton, but now is behind the Alberta capital. Even at that London is the 10th city in Canada in population, and no city has had such a substantial and steady growth as London. In 1871 its population was 18,000. By 1881 it had grown to 26,266. The population of 1891 was placed at 31,977 and that of 1901, 37,976. By 1911 the city had grown to 46,300. The period between 1911 and 1921 showed the greatest growth as the census of 10 years ago showed a population of 60,959. The 1931 figures were 71,448, and according to unofficial estimate London is now near the 75,000 mark.

SEX DISTRIBUTION

There is an interesting section in regard to sex distribution in Canada. This chapter points out that in Canada there has been excessive male population from the commencement of its history. This is quite natural as men have always predominated immigration. The Great War, however, both checked immigration and took some 60,000 young Canadian male lives as its toll with the result that at the census of 1931 the ratio of population was now nearly normal between males and females than any other period. There were at that time 515 males to 485 females per 1000 of population. However, in the last 10 years the males have again grown in proportion. The last census figures showed 518 males to 482 females in Canada as a whole. It is interesting to note that the masculinity of the population has increased in the eastern provinces and decreased in the western provinces, where it was formerly greatest.

The same causes which have in the past rendered the sex distribution in population in Canada somewhat unusual have also affected its age distribution. In the first stages of the settlement of a new colony, men in the prime of life constitute the bulk of the population and women and children are conspicuous by their absence, so that there will be a disproportionately male population between the ages of 20 and 50, together with the low birth rate. Later on in the settlement of a new country where there is land and food for all and where the early distribution of the sexes have been overcome there is a very high rate of natural increase and extraordinary large proportion of children. Thus in 1871 no fewer than 287 out of 1000 of the population of Canada were children under 10 years of age and over half the population were under 20 years of age. With the growth of the cities the average of marriage increased and the birth rate was lower. Thus in 1911 out of every 1000 of the population only 231.53 were under 10 years of age and 423.42 under 20 years of age. In 1921, however, 239.68 per 1000 of the population were under 10 years of age and 434.82 per 1000 under 20 years. In 1931, according to the preliminary census figure, the number of children under 10 years had dropped to 212.69 per 1000 of the population and of persons under 20 to 416.36 per 1000.

QUEBEC WOMEN IN NORTHWEST

The census figures demonstrates the interesting fact that in the Northwest Territories, that huge domain of the Canadian northland, there are more females native of Quebec than men. For the most part they are French-Canadians.

There are 881 people in that country who were born in Quebec and 448, more than half, are females.

The outstanding feature is that this is the only example in Canada where, as regards racial or Canadian provincial origin, more females than males of that racial genesis have gone into any province or territory.

More than that. There are 9723 people in the Northwest Territories and 7880 are natives. Most of these are Indians and Eskimos. Of the total population 4509 are females and native males number 3858. Exclude the natives and the rest of the females total 651. Thus it will be seen that the 448 from the province of Quebec greatly outnumber all the others.

There are 118 females from other Canadian provinces, 37 from the United States, 12 from England, eight from France, six from Scotland, five from Newfoundland, two each from the West Indies and Denmark, one each from Wales, New Zealand, Syria and a number of other countries.

If numbers are to be the basis of judgment in demonstrating the pioneer spirit in the women of a race, the women of the United Kingdom are the bravest pioneers we have in the Northwest Territories who have come from outside of Canada. The 37 women from the United States cannot be considered because of their mixed racial origin, so the 20 from Great Britain stand far in the lead. Twelve of these are from England and six from Scotland. Pro rata to the population of these countries the Scotswomen lead the United Kingdom in making firesides in the great lone land of the north.—London Free Press.

THE OLD MILL

There's an old water mill on a quiet country road,
And the days of its labor have long since gone by.
For there's rust and a thick growth of moss that corrode,
Its wheel that is broken, the stream has run dry.
Where once were its windows are now but large holes,
Through which you can see the trees growing inside.
And when the dusk gathers at eve from it rolls
The sound of the voices of all who there bide.

There are mournful old owls who each minute say "Whoo."
As they hear the dull buzz of the wings of the bats,
And the crickets keep up an incessant tattoo,
With the feet and squeals of the mice and the rats.
And down in the village inn, not far away,
If you should chance to enquire of host,
The sign of the cross he will make, and then say
That the old mill is haunted by somebody's ghost.

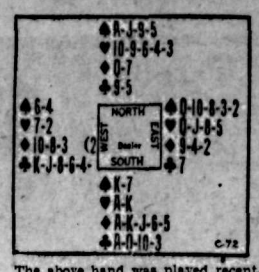
A CLEVER END-PLAY



The above hand was played recently at one of the leading Cleveland clubs; the celebrated Cleveland pair, Messrs. Edward C. Wolfe and Henry P. Jaeger, occupying the South and North seats respectively.

By the aid of the Two-Club Game-Demand bid this pair reached a small slam bid in No Trump with South the Declarer, a contract which was not ventured at any other table, although the "official" Culbertson bidding is South two Diamonds, North two Spades, South three Clubs, North three Hearts, South four No Trumps, North five No Trumps, South six No Trumps.

At the table playing for the small slam West's first lead was his fourth best Club (at that table South's only Club bid had been artificial). North played the Nine, East the Seven and South the Trey. Declarer knew that West had led from six Clubs, because East would have played the Four or the Deuce on the first trick had he held either. The entire play of the hand was based upon this inference.

Tricks 2-6 Declarer ran his five Diamonds, discarding two Hearts and one Spade from dummy. Next South led his Ace and King of Hearts, and after that the King and a small Spade; on the latter North refused the finesse. By this process Declarer denuded West of every suit except Clubs; to trick 11 dummy, who won trick 10 with the Spade Ace, led a Club. Declarer, backed by the knowledge that West had no cards in his hand except Clubs, played the Ten and West was obliged to lead a Club to trick 12 (it did not matter which Club he selected. Mr. Wolfe sat with the Ace and Queen much as the cat sits contentedly before the mousehole, and, of course, his score sheet was credited with the bonus for a small slam contract.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

Many people with no heart, blood vessel or kidney disease, worry needlessly because they have been told that they have high blood pressure.

Just as it is natural for some individuals to inherit red hair, blue eyes or a long body, so also can they inherit this tendency to high blood pressure.

Now high blood pressure is not really helpful to the system unless it is needed for a time to overcome some passing ailment; therefore any little thought or care one is willing to give to this condition will be very much worth while.

These individuals are usually nervous, somewhat irritable, inclined to work hard, and take life very seriously.

Some months ago Dr. David Riesman suggested that "first of all it is absolutely essential to quiet the fears of the patient with high blood pressure, who is free from any real organic ailment. He must be convinced that high blood pressure is not a sword of Damocles threatening his life every moment."

Rest, complete rest, or resting part of the day, is the most useful measure. A week's rest in bed will usually produce all the effect that can be hoped for from this measure, except in severe cases.

It is not usually necessary to take a man away from his business, but shorter hours at business should be the rule.

Only light exercise should be taken; no competitive games, not even golf if golf is taken seriously.

Meat once a day is permissable, but the main point in the diet is not to eat too much.

Dr. Riesman tells us that the real cause of so many cases of this type of high blood pressure is that we have lost the art of living wisely, have hurried after wealth, an deprived ourselves of peace and leisure.

Statistics show that the span of life after the age of 45 has not been lengthened; it is probable that it has been shortened.

He suggests that it would be well for us to adopt the placidity, the tranquility of other nations, if we wish to avoid high blood pressure.

SAYS COUNCIL USED GOOD JUDGMENT IN AIDING BUGLE BAND

To the editor of The Nelson Daily News:

Sir—In your issue of August 13, I regret to say that I read a letter in your What Do You Think column which I honestly think was unsound judgment on your part to publish. However, as the harm is done, I am compelled to grasp my humble pen and spill some long unused ink.

The letter in question, was written by the master of the Nelson City band, voicing indignation of the city council, when it decided to assist the Canadian Legion Bugle band by a donation of $150 to aid them in taking part in national convention of the American legion which is to be held in the city of Portland next month.

With all due respect to the Nelson band, a band which we are all willing to agree is an exceptionally good one considering the small population from which to draw its material and also the poor support that it receives, yet it ill-becomes the members of the said band to foster a grievance against the city council for assisting a sister City band. A band whose members have always played the game, being courteous and loyal on all occasions with a spirit of honest-to-God sportsmanship.

In the second paragraph of the bandmaster's letter, he refers to the donation as being given for publicity purposes and wishes to know what publicity Nelson requires. In truth, his letter implies that the only attraction for the tourist is the Nelson City band. Frankly, it does not say much for the larger cities of the North American continent if its citizens are compelled to travel thousands of miles to a small town like Nelson in order to hear a real band. The question of publicity for the city of Nelson has been a problem for several organizations during the past 35 years, during that time considerable money has been spent abroad advertising the potentialities of the Kootenays, foremost the magnificient scenery surrounding its beautiful lakes, the timber, mineral and other natural resources.

There is no question of doubt as to the Bugle band's trip to the city of Portland being a good advertising stunt. Thousands of people from all over the United States will be gathered to participate in the convention, there is no branch of the American legion that can boast of a bugle band. Therefore, the fact that the city of Nelson, a Canadian city being represented by a bugle band among so prominent a gathering will instill the name of Nelson in the hearts of thousands that will be long remembered.

The Canadian Legion Bugle band, for several years have given its service faithfully with a spirit of comradeship and it has been self supporting, though at times the boys have been compelled to dig down deep in their pockets to meet their expenses. If the Bugle band had nothing to its credit but the First of July celebration for the children this day in itself would justify any financial assistance given by the city council. It is the candid opinion of many citizens that the city council for once used sane judgment in making it possible for the Bugle band to take an active part in the national convention of the American legion.

ALEXANDER'S SOLDIERS AND CANDY

The fact that it was the soldiers of Alexander the Great who put the word "candy" into general circulation is probably not a discovery that will cause history books to be rewritten. But it is one of those little sidelights on history that mean a great deal to those who like to get a really human picture of the men of long ago.

This business about candy, as you probably remember, was disclosed before a recent convention of chemists at John Hopkins university.

Alexander's soldiers, it seems, got into India during Alexander's great expedition to the east, and found the populace addicted to nibbling at bits of sweet root—something, evidently, very like sugar cane. The people of India called this confection "kand"; Alexander's soldiers, adopting both the confection and the word, soon made "candy" part of the language, and the word has stuck ever since.

But it is not so much the origin of the word that is interesting as it is the light that the little story throws on the fighting men of Macedonia. Soldiers, apparently, were soldiers, in the 40th century, B.C., as they are in the 20th A.D. Modern soldiers have as insatiable fondness for candy; so, apparently, had the soldiers of Alexander's army.

And this, after all, is the sort of information we are always looking for in our history books and seldom finding. We are told in great detail about what the famous old armies did, but we do not often get much detail about the soldiers themselves, and it is details of that kind that would make history really fascinating.

The Macedonians' fondness for candy is only a starter. What more can we learn about them? Did that army have its hard-boiled top sergeants? Did the buck privates grouse continually over their food? Were there "dog robbers" for the officers?

Questions like these are utterly unimportant; but they are the sort of thing that a lot of people would like very much to know. Alexander's men, for instance will always seem a little more human to us because of this little anecdote about the candy.

DODGERS LOSE TO THE GIANTS

Rixey Wins Fourth Game in Row From Pittsburgh Pirates

NEW YORK 9;
BROOKLYN 3

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 21.—The pennant-hungry Dodgers ran into trouble today as they returned home for a one-day stand against New York Giants. The Giants hit just about everything three Brooklyn hurlers offered, and pounded out a 9-3 victory. The Dodgers were set back a full game in their chase after the Chicago Cubs.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 21.—After Boston Braves had won the first game of a double-header today from St. Louis Cardinals, 7-5, in a tussle that went 14 innings, the second contest had to be called after the sixth inning because of darkness, with the score tied, 2-2.

Brandt, going the entire round for Boston in the first game, was touched for 17 hits, while Hallahan and Dean held the Braves to 12 safeties. Dean, relieving Hallahan in the ninth inning, struck out 10 Braves in sixth innings, only to lose in the 14th frame, when Maranville walked. Urbanski tripled to right field, bringing in Maranville, and then Jordan singled to score Urbanski.

WATSON BEATS WALTER GYLES

Wins Western Hard Court Championship; Women's Title Changes

WINNIPEG, Aug. 21 (CP).—Grant Watson, smooth-stroking Winnipegger who advanced to the finals yesterday by walking through Alf Bence, Saskatoon, today wrested the western hard courts singles tennis championship from Walter Gyles, veteran Winnipegger, in a pace-killing dingdong battle staged under a broiling sun toward the close of a week of tournament play on the courts of the Winnipeg Canoe club here. The match score was 6-2, 2-6, 7-5, 2-6, 6-3.

In the four hours the struggle consumed there was scarcely a thing to choose between champion and challenger, but toward the close of the last set, when the match stood at two sets all, Watson broke through the older man's service, and began to drive into the farthest corners what Gyles had intended to be aces. The champion cracked under the impetus of the younger man's sprint attack, and the match was really never in doubt from that time on.

The women's singles title also changed hands when Mrs. J. F. Devlin gave in to Mrs. G. Pirt in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3. The men's doubles finals will be played Monday. Watson is paired with Leadley McMaster against Gyles and Jerry Adams for the title.

A new edition will shortly be published of Richard Steele's devotional manual, "The Christian Hero." The book has been edited by Miss R. Blanchard.

TADANAC TENNIS STARS VICTORS

Take One More Final Than Rossland in Tennis Tournament

TRAIL, B. C., Aug. 21.—Tadanac tennis players won the majority of the final matches in the Trail-Tadanac-Rossland tennis tournament, played over the week-end.

The men's singles was carried off by J. McDonald of Rossland, who defeated T. H. Weldon, 6-4, 6-3.

Tadanac won the ladies' singles when Mrs. D. H. Bayley beat Mrs. G. Colls, 7-5, 6-2.

Rossland copped the mixed doubles when J. McDonald and R. Anderson beat G. Matthewson and H. J. Foster, 1-6, 6-0, 6-2.

Tadanac also carried off the mixed doubles when Mr. and Mrs. G. Hamson defeated H. R. McAllister and Miss B. Wright, 6-4, 6-4.

WILSON, EDWARDS SHOW SUPERIORITY

CLEVELAND, Aug. 21.—Alex Wilson, Montreal, and Phil Edwards, Hamilton, again proved their superiority today in their track specialties over athletic stars of this continent.

Before 50,000 spectators gathered at a track and field exhibition, Wilson raced to a sparkling victory in the half-mile event in 2:04.4. Dr. Otto Peltzer, captain of the German Olympic delegation, finished second.

Edwards was equally impressive in the mile, which he won in 4:32.5.

HOOKS and SLIDES

by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

WORD FROM CHICK HAFEY

Maybe you've wondered, I know I have, what became of Chick Hafey, the 1931 national league batting champion that St. Louis traded to Cincinnati. After he was taken seriously ill and withdrawn from the Reds' lineup, Hafey put on a disappearing act. I don't doubt that a lot of people thought he had died.

But he isn't dead, althought he was a very sick man. He's up in Canada eating, sleeping and awaiting the return of good health. And he's in a great hurry to get back to Cincinnati to rejoin his team-mates.

If it hadn't been for Mr. Frank Rostock of Cincinnnati, I might never have learned of Hafey's whereabouts.

Mr. Rostock, who is editor of the Cincinnati Post, ordered and okayed himself a brief vacation, and he hied himself off to Canada. In his wanderings he happened into Port McNicoll, Ontario, a tiny town on Georgian Bay, about 75 miles north of Toronto. And there he discovered Chick Hafey, the Reds' invalid.

Mr. Rostock immediately recognized his duty. He sat down and started writing to the boys back at the Post:

ENJOYING SIMPLE LIVING

"Up here (Port McNicoll) where zippy breezes carry the snap and zest of the northland, I came across Chick Hafey, the walloping left fielder of the Reds. Chick is making a game effort to win back speedily the strength that quitted him after a recent siege of influenza.

"No baseball, no heavy road work —for the present, just the simplest of living, eating home-made meals and breathing the pure balm-laden air for which this region is famous.

"Port McNicoll has no metropolitan aspect. It has a main street with a dozen store buildings, a large grain elevator, a hotel and docks. It's just that exciting, not a bit more. A place where there are no distractions, just fresh air, good food, cool nights—a place for a man to breathe his best and his hardest.

"How long Chick is going to endure all this solitude is another question. Whether he is going to be able to play regularly to any extent the rest of the season is another subject for quite a bit of thought.

"However, Chick is making an earnest effort to regain his strength and, if admiration for Owner Sid Weil, friendship for Manager Dan Howley and a will to help his teammates finish higher in the race count for anything, he'll be swinging the old war club before many weeks have passed.

THOUGHTS ARE OF REDS

"There's one more thing Chick is doing—rooting hard for the Reds. Ball scores are slow in reaching here, and they haven't been of an encouraging nature, but Chick's pulling for all he's worth for a winning stride, better breaks and an end to so many Red accidents.

"I hope the fans don't lose heart,' commented Chick after hearing about some of the new hard luck that came to plague the Reds. 'I know there has been little to cheer about lately, but the Reds have been up against a persistent spree of hard luck and the tables are bound to turn. I look and hope for a good record during the rest of the season.'

"So far as his condition is concerned, Chick has little of an encouraging nature to offer. He is still weak, about 14 pounds under weight, and unable to do any of the hustling which baseball demands. He probably played three weeks longer than he should before giving up. He felt alternately good and bad. He was puzzled by his own symptoms. Then came the breakdown and the long stage of flu."

KILLEFER TO BE RETAINED

Phil DeC. Ball, president of the St. Louis Browns, will re-appoint Bill Killefer to manage his club in 1933. The information comes straight from Sid Keener in St. Louis and Mr. Keener, I have come to learn, is a man who gives nothing but good tips.

According to Keener, the signing may take place tomorrow—or perhaps not until the close of the season. The Browns' president will suit his own fancy about that. But it will take place, so Keener insists, and Killefer will be around in 1933, perhaps in 1934 and 1935.

Right from the start, Killefer sold himself to the Browns' executives. They wanted a man to improve their team. Most of all, they wanted a manager to "yes" their proposals. Killefer has done both.

NELSON SENIOR CLUB TAKES WIN FROM SPOKANE

Defeat Visitors 13-9 Before Large Crowd, Ball Park Sunday

BALL FANS HAVE NO FEAR OF RAIN

Richardson and Banyon Get Only Circuit Drives, Horswill Off

Nelson Seniors dished out a 13-9 beating to the Spokane Valley Independents before one of the best crowds of the baseball season in their exhibition game at Nelson ball park Sunday afternoon. Despite the storm which threatened Sunday morning, hundreds of fans turned out and stayed right through the game. The visitors nearly overhauled the Nelson team in the seventh, when they scored four runs to pull up one behind Nelson. While errors and fumbles were general on both sides during the last four innings, the errors only increased the excitement.

RICHARDSON GETS HOMER

Richardson, Nelson's hard-slugging catcher, along with A. Banyon, Spokane first baseman, made the only two circuit drives in Sunday's game.

Again this Sunday, "Slim" Kraft baffled opposing batters, getting nine strikeouts and only handing out two walks. Richardson combined with Kraft and the whole infield nicely, holding the visitors on their bases.

Bey's fumbles at short stop were costly for Nelson in the sixth and seventh innings, as were the errors of the Spokane infield and outfielders in the eighth.

FIELDERS GOOD

Gordon Roynon, relieving Hughie Horswill in the right field, played a good game at bat. Several times he was robbed of what seemed to be sure hits by the ever alert Spokane infield. "Lefty' Schumaker in center field turned in a good game, although on the sick list. It looks as if Tony Arcure has found his batting eye again. He started his comeback Sunday with a double.

Nelson's infield played snappy ball and except for fumbles in the sixth and seventh, looked as if they had ditched their jinx. Harrison and Richardson formed the frame-work of Sunday's base play. Gillett, who has suffered a batting slump, came back with two good hits, one of which he was deprived of in a misunderstanding with the referee.

TIGERS, BOSTON SPLIT A DOUBLE

Yankees Defeat St. Louis Browns 3-1; Cleveland Wins

DETROIT 1-4;
BOSTON 3-2

BOSTON, Aug. 21. — Detroit and Boston split a double-header today, the Sox taking the opener 3 to 1 and the Tigers the second, 4 to 2.

The pitching of Welland was responsible in large measure for his team's victory, the Tigers making only four hits off his delivery. Vic Sorrell limited the Sox to seven singles while Gehringer and Webb gave him worth while assistance at bat and in the field.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. — Young Johnny Allen had the better of George Blaeholder in an old fashioned pitchers' battle today to record his 12th victory against two defeats as the Yankees defeated the St. Louis Browns, 3 to 1.

Each team was held to three hits, with all the blows off Blaeholder coming in the third inning to produce two tallies. Lou Gehrig turned the trick, hitting a single with the bases full to bring home Combs and Sewell.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—With the best of cooperation from Washington's pitchers, Cleveland Indians easily trimmed the Senators today, 11-5, as Wes Ferrell won his 20th victory of the season.

Generosity on the part of two Washington hurlers, Lloyd Brown and Eddie Edelen, a recruit from Mount St. Mary's college, Maryland, helped Indians to the game by giving nine free passes to first between them.

HIT BALL FROM WATER WITH COURAGE

By AL DEMAREE

Ran into Gene Sarazen the other day at the Ridgemoor, Ill., C. C. where he played in an exhibition match with Armour against Hagen and Juardo. In the locker room it was damp and I naturally asked him about playing a ball out of water.

"If you are trapped in a water hazard it is often possible to save the penalty stroke by playing the ball," said Gene, "but judgment must be exercised in each particular case, as whether to lift or play.

"It is not very difficult to hit a ball in water, if one can get a fairly good stance. The chief requisite is courage. It takes some strength of mind to lay oneself open to the possibility of getting splashed all over with dirty water, but if the player will hit boldly, keeping his eye firmly fixed on the ball and endeavoring to get well under it, he will generally find that he can get the ball away quite well. Water does not offer nearly the same resistance as sand.

"I have seen Walter Hagen use a spoon in water, but this is not for the ordinary golfer, an iron, mashie or niblick being a much safer club to use."

VINES WINS HIS SECOND TITLE

Joins With Gledhill to Win Men's Doubles Handily

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 21.—A deadly baseline barrage gave Ellsworth Vines, United States tennis champion, his second leg on the historic Newport Casino trophy Saturday. He caused his name to be engraved twice on that bowl, under that of Big Bill Tilden, by overwhelming his Davis cup team-mate, Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas, in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3.

Then he added to the Texan's discomfort by joining with a fellow-Californian, Keith Gledhill, and trouncing Allison and Van Ryn for the Casino double trophies.

Allison and Van Ryn, who hold the United States title, were outpayed by the widest margins as they bowed in four sets ,6-8, -3-11, 8-6, 6-2.

SPOKANE GOLFERS LOSE TO TRAIL

TRAIL, B. C., Aug. 21.—Trail-Rossland golf course was over the week-end the scene of an interprovincial tournament when 14 Spokane golfers matched up with Trail players. Trail won out by 14 wins to the Spokane 12. Saturday evening the visitors were guests at a dinner.

HELEN JACOBS WINS TENNIS

Turns Back Carolyn Babcock for Women's National Crown

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Aug. 21.—For seven or eight years Helen Jacobs has coveted the women's national tennis crown, and she won it easily today. She is probably pinching herself to make sure it's true. She required only half an hour to squelch Carolyn Brook of Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-2, in the final and to gain the title which Mrs. Helen Wills Moody did not defend.

Carolyn, sensation of earlier rounds when she turned back such stars as Mrs. L. A. Harper of Oakland, Calif., and Joan Ridley of England, could not make it a contest against the sure-stroking girl from Berkeley, who completed her victorious way through the tournament with the loss of only one set.

The new champion paired with Sarah Palfrey of Sharon, Mass., and added the women's double title to her collection. Playing with superb teamwork, the girls from opposite coasts defeated Alice Marble of San Francisco and Mrs. Marjorie Painter of Dedham, Mass., by scores of 8-6 and 6-1.

TRAIL ACCEPTS NELSON'S DEFY IN BOX LACROSSE

Rep Team to Be Picked Next Week; Old Timers Play the Juniors Monday

TRAIL, B. C., Aug. 21.—Old Timers will take on the junior hockey team in a lacrosse league match to be played Monday night at the club grounds, Cedar avenue. The teams will face off at 5:45, and from then on it is expected to be a fast affair, with the Old Timers stacking head work and experience against the youth and speed.

The personnel of the Od Timers team has not yet been announced, but the old boys will out on time. The juniors will play their regular team.

A letter received from Nelson asked for a game with Trail Labor day on an especially marked out field at the Recreation grounds in Nelson. The local club had a meeting last night and decided to accept. Plans are being made to pick a representative team next week, probably Monday. Charles Dodimead was chosen manager, H. Murdoch assistant manager, and Gordon Redgrave captain.

RHODESIA GIVEN FRUIT PREFERENCE

Pact Is for Five-Year Period Between Canada and Sister Dominion

OTTAWA, Aug. 20 (CP).—The following is the official summary of the agreement entered into today between Southern Rhodesia and Canada:

Agreement between his majesty's government in Canada and his majesty's government in the colony of Southern Rhodesia.

The trade agreement signed on behalf of the governments of the Dominion of Canada and of the colony of Southern Rhodesia is designed to increase the opportunities for commercial relations between the signatory countries. In its main lines it incorporates an exchange of preferential treatment on selected lists of commodities. Imports into Canada of the principal products of Southern Rhodesia are granted preferential treatment. In return, Southern Rhodesia will accord particularly favorable treatment to a selected list of Canadian products, while assuring on the great bulk of enumerated articles rates not less favorable than are accorded to similar goods the produce of the United Kingdom.

The agreement is subject to the approval of the appropriate legislative authorities in the contracting countries. It is concluded for a period of five years, and may be denounced after the expiration of that period by six months' notice.

PREFERENCE UPON AUTOS EXTENDED BY SOUTH AFRICA

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—Following is a summary of the agreement entered into Saturday between South Africa and Canada:

Agreement between His Majesty's government in the Dominion of Canada and His Majesty's government in the Union of South Africa.

The trade agreement signed on behalf of the government of the Dominion of Canada and the Union of South Africa, for the first time in the history of these two dominions, places their commerce upon a treaty basis. It is especially designed to facilitate trade in those commodities in which each dominion is best fitted, by its natural resources and its industrial development, to supply the needs on the other. It has secured a considerable extension of the list of commodities on which preferences have hitherto been extened to Canada. Special consideration has been given by administrative regulation to the position of indian corn or maize from South Africa and to motor cars from Canada.

It is subject to the approval of the parliaments of the respective dominions and is concluded for a period of five years and may be denounced, after the expiration of that period, by six months' notice.

STOCK MARKET RECOVERS SOME

New York List Able to Throw Off Reactionary Tendencies

By JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—The stock market was overshadowed yesterday by the still briskly advancing bonds, but shares were at least able to throw off the reactionary tendencies of the previous session.

Shares sagged a point or two here and there in the first hour, but came back in the last hour to finish with a number of gains of fractions to more than a point in prominent issues. The turnover of 661,350 shares was the smallest for a Saturday session in four weeks.

Among rails gaining about a point were Chicago and Northeastern, Rock Island, Baltimore and Ohio, and Illinois Central.

New York Central was up a fraction, but Union Pacific, after sagging 1¾, failed fully to recover closing off ¾ net. United Fruit was a strong specialty, closing nearly 3 points higher at 30¼, or 20 points above the year's low, the company is said to have effected substantial operating economies.

Standard of Kansas and Chrysler each gained about a point in a fair turnover. American Telephone, American Can, Eastman, General Electric, North American and U. S. Steel, closed about unchanged.

OCTOBER WHEAT HITS LOW POINT

Other Futures Sink to Low Season Mark at Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Aug. 21 (CP)—October wheat touched its lowest point in the life of the option and other futures sank to new lows for the season, as prices on the grain exchange tipped sharply during the short weekend session here Saturday. Late rallies were insufficient to keep wheat from suffering net losses of ½ cents on each future.

October dropped to 54⅞, December finished at 56⅛ and May at 60⅞.

Although export figures were placed at considerably in excess of 1,000,000 bushels, very heavy selling operations which included hedging against new wheat receipts but which appeared chiefly to be liquidation by large southern interests, sent prices reeling. Canadian offerings were said to be pressing in the English market while Germany also was a good seller of soft wheat, with the result that Liverpool declined in the face of a much improved demand for Canadian wheat.

Considerable improvement was noted in the demand for cash wheat during the morning and spreads on the top grades were fractionally better. Offerings were more liberal than they have been for some time and a fairly good business was done with exporters and shippers the best buyers.

With the exception of a small quantity of high grade oats sold for September shipments, cash interest in all coarse grain commodities was light and no business of any account was reported done.

NUGGET VALUED $51 FOUND CRANBROOK

CRANBROOK, B. C., Aug. 21—Gold activities in the district received stimulation this week with the discovery of a nugget worth $51.30 at the Wild Horse claims. Many smaller nuggets have been found in this part of the river, ranging from $3 to $8. Operations on Fish creek are also proving profitable, with many nuggets coming to light. The rock formation in that part makes placer mining difficult, with very little gold dust coming to the surface. What gold is found, is in the form of nuggets.

METAL MARKETS

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—Metals nominally unchanged. Foreign bar silver 27⅞.

At LONDON—Metals nominally unchanged.

TORONTO BOARD TRIFLE FIRMER

Mining Leaders Are Listless and Majority Close With Losses

TORONTO, Aug. 21—While several penny stocks received special trading attention on the Standard Mining exchange during the short Saturday session, market leaders were listless and the majority closed with fractional losses. The board as a whole, however, showed an edge of firmness.

The base metal group moved within a narrow trading circle and at the close showed mixed price action. Noranda closed unchanged at $19.10, while International Nickel rose 10 cents to $8.50, and Hudson Bay lost 15 cents to $2.75.

Leaders in the gold section dipped under light trading. Eldorado and B. C. Pioneer were the firm spots, the former gaining 4 points to $1.54 and the latter 5 points to close at a high of $4. Nipissing lost 9 points to $1.25; Wright-Hargreaves declined 4 points to $2.86 and Teck-Hughes fell a point closing at $3.90.

Proposal to Forego Aid to Miners Meets With Little Favor

VICTORIA, Aug. 21 (CP)—Proposals of the Kidd commission that all assistance to miners in the way of roads, trails and bridges be discontinued and government agencies closed except in large centers meets with little favor in official circles here.

It is pointed out that government agents have several duties, among them that of mining recorder. Prospectors, were the recommendation adopted, would be forced to travel many miles to record their claims. No assistance is granted in the way of roads, trails or bridges unless recommended by the government mining engineer located in the district affected. This recommendation is made only after a thorough examination of the property which must warrant such expenditure.

Discontinuance of this assistance would very materially retard mining development, it is said by prospectors who propose calling a meeting of protest against the proposal of the committee.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES TUMBLE

Oats Outdo All Bottom Records Since 1896; Wheat Nervous

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor

CHICAGO, Aug. 21—Bolstered by reported action of the British Empire economic conference at Ottawa, regarded here as likely to drastically affect trade relations with the United States, grain prices tumbled yesterday.

Wheat fell to about 7 cents a bushel under last week's high point, and oats outdid all bottom records since 1896. General selling, and the downward plunge of values, followed trade advices that Great Britain had agreed to establish 6 cents preference on wheat from British Empire sources.

Wheat closed nervous ⅝ to 1 cent lower than yesterday's finish, corn ½ to ⅞ down, oats ⅛ to ⅝ off, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents up.

On the breaks in prices, wheat went to below 50 cents a bushel for September contracts, the first time of late. At no stage did the market show much power to rally. A further disturbing influence was talk that 500,000 bushels of Canadian wheat had been bought for overseas, but that export trade in United States wheat appeared extinct. Increasing receipts of wheat in Canada also added to market weakness.

PIONEER MAKES 15 POINT RISE

Trading Volume Drops Off at Vancouver; Reno Active

VANCOUVER, Aug. 21 (CP)—With the exception of fair activity in Pioneer and Lorne Golds in the mines, and Crow's Nest in the oils, trading volume dropped off sharply during the short session on the Vancouver stock exchange yesterday.

Reno, the most active issue of the half day with a turnover of 18,000 shares, opened strong at 49, sold up to 50 and closed at its opening quotation, up one. Pioneer continued its rise of yesterday, climbing 15 points to close at 4.10.

Crow's Nest declined a half from a firm opening at 1¾ to end the day unchanged.

BONDS FEATURE IN BURST OF SPEED

Approval of Loan Adds Impetus to Railway Group

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—The bond market ended the week in another burst of speed Saturday with the railway group still leading the field. Transportation issues were given additional impetus by the announcement that the Interstate commerce commission had approved a loan of $31,625,000 from the reconstruction finance corporation to the Baltimore & Ohio. The loan is to be used to finance in part the refunding of a maturity due next March.

Baltimore & Ohio issues advanced from 1 to more than 3 points and substantial gains were recorded by other loans.

The industrials were in greater demand than usual.

Metropolitan Edison and Detroit Edison loans were up from 1 to 4 points and issues of Columbia Gas.

The day's sales totalled $8,087,000.

Sterling commenced at $3.47½, a fraction higher than Friday's close. It eased ⅛ at the close.

WHEAT, COPPER, ZINC, LEAD AND LUMBER ON PREFERENCE LIST EXTENDED BY UNITED KINGDOM

But Duty Agreement on Wheat, Copper, Zinc and Lead May Be Removed if Dominion Unable Offer United Kingdom First Sale

TOBACCO PREFERENCE IS ALSO GRANTED CANADA; LUMBER WILL BENEFIT AS WELL

Canada Undertakes Institute Tariff Board; Canada Will Abolish All Existing Surcharges on Imports From the United Kingdom

OTTAWA, Aug. 21 (CP)—The following is a summary of the agreement entered into today between United Kingdom and Canada:

Agreement between his majesty's government in the United Kingdom and his majesty's government in Canada:

Article 1—His majesty's government in the United Kingdom undertake that orders shall be made in accordance with the provisions of section four of the Import Duties act, 1932, which will ensure the continuance after the 15th November, 1932, of entry free of duty into the United Kingdom of goods consigned from any port of the British Emire and grown, produced or manufactured in Canada which by virtue of that act are now free of duty subject, however, to the reservations set forth in schedule appended hereto.

Article 2—His majesty's government in the United Kingdom will invite parliament to pass the legislation necessary to impose on the foreign goods specified in schedule B appended hereto, the duties of customs shown in that schedule in place of the duties (if any) now leviable.

Article 3—His majesty's government in the United Kingdom undertake that the general ad valorem duty of 10 per cent imposed by section one of the Import Duties act, 1932, on the foreign goods specified in schedule C shall not be reduced except with the consent of his majesty's government in Canada.

LEAD, ZINC, COPPER

Article 4—It is agreed that the duty on either wheat in grain, copper, zinc or lead as provided in this agreement may be removed if at any time empire producers of wheat in grain, copper, zinc and lead respectively are unable or unwilling to offer these commodities on first sale in the United Kingdom at prices not exceeding the world prices and in quantities sufficient to supply the requirements of the United Kingdom consumers.

Article 5—His majesty's government in the United Kingdom will invite parliament to pass the legislation necessary to modify the conditions at present governing the importation into the United Kingdom of live cattle from Canada on the lines already agreed upon in principle between themselves and his majesty's government in Canada.

Article 6—His majesty's government in the United Kingdom declare that it is their intention to arrange as soon as possible after receiving the report of the commission now sitting on the reorganization of the pig industry in the United Kingdom, for the quantitative regulation of the supplies of bacon and hams coming on to the United Kingdom market and undertake that in any legislation which they may submit to parliament for regulating the supplies of bacon and hams from all sources into the United Kingdom, provision will be made for free entry of Canadian bacon and hams of good quality up to a maximum of 2,500,000 cwt. per annum.

Article 7—His majesty's government in the United Kingdom will invite parliament to pass legislation which will secure for a period of 10 years from the date hereof to tobacco, consigned from any part of the British Empire and grown, produced or manufactured in Canada, the existing margin of preference over foreign tobacco, so long, however, as the duty on foreign unmanufactured tobacco does not fall below 2s ½d per pound, in which event the margin of preference shall be equal to the full duty.

Article 8—His majesty's government in the United Kingdom will invite the governments of the non-self-governing colonies and protectorates to accord to Canada any preference which may for the time being be accorded to any other part of the British Empire, provided that this clause shall not extend to any preferences accorded by Northern Rhodesia to the Union of South Africa, southern Rhodesia and the territories of the South African high commissioner by virtue of the customs agreement of 1930; and further will also invite the governments of the colonies and protectorates shown in scheduled to accord to Canada new or additional preferences on the commodities and at the rates shown therein.

Article 9—His majesty's government in Canada will invite parliament to pass the legislation necessary to substitute for the duties of customs now leviable on the goods specified in schedule the duties shown in that schedule. Provided that nothing in this article shall preclude his majesty's government in Canada from reducing the duties specified in the said schedule so long as the margin of British preferences shown in that schedule is preserved or from increasing the rates under the intermediate or general tariff set out in the said schedule.

Article 10—His majesty's government in Canada undertake that protection by tariffs shall be afforded against United Kingdom products only to those industries which are reasonably assured of sound opportunities for success.

Article 11—His majesty's government in Canada undertake that during the currency of this agreement the tariff shall be based on the principle that protective duties shall not exceed such a level as will give United Kingdom producers full opportunity of reasonable competition on the basis of the relative cost of economical and efficient production, provided that in the application of such principle special consideration shall be given to the case of industries not fully established.

TARIFF BOARD

Article 12—His majesty's government in Canada undertake forthwith to constitute the tariff board for which provision is made in the Tariff Board act 1931.

Article 13—His majesty's government in Canada undertake that on the request of his majesty's government in the United Kingdom they will cause a review to be made by the tariff board as soon as practicable of the duties charged on any commodities specified in such request in accordance with the principles laid down in article 11 hereof and that after the receipt of the report of the tariff board thereon such report shall be laid before parliament and parliament shall be invited to vary wherever necessary the tariff on such commodities of United Kingdom origin in such manner as to give effect to such principles.

Article 14—His majesty's government in Canada undertake that no existing duty shall be increased on United Kingdom goods except after an inquiry and the receipt of a report from the tariff board, and in accordance with the facts as found by that body.

Article 15—His majesty's government in Canada undertake that United Kingdom producers shall be entitled to full rights of audience before the tariff board when it has under consideration matters arising under articles 13 and 14 hereof.

Article 16—His majesty's government in Canada undertake that customs administration in Canada shall be governed by such general principles as will insure (a) the avoidance, so far as reasonably possible, of uncertainty as to the amount of customs duties and other fiscal imports payable on the arrival of goods in Canada, (b) the reduction of delay and friction to a minimum; and (c) the provision of machinery for the prompt and impartial settlement of disputes in matters appertaining to the application of tariffs.

SURCHARGES ABOLISHED

Article 17—His majesty's government in Canada undertake that all existing surcharges on imports from the United Kingdom shall be completely abolished as soon as the finances of Canada will allow. They further undertake to give sympathetic consideration to the possibility of reducing and ultimately abolishing the exchange dumping duty in so far as it applies to imports from the United Kingdom.

Article 18—His majesty's government in Canada undertake to modify the existing regulations governing the importation of pedigree stock from the United Kingdom into Canada in a manner already agreed upon in principle between themselves and his majesty's government in the United Kingdom.

Article 19—His majesty's government in Canada undertake to accord to those non-self-governing colonies, protectorates and the mandated territories to which the benefits of the British preferential rates are at present accorded and also to Zanzibar the preferences on the commodities and at the rates shown in schedule of and also any preferences for the time being accorded to the United Kingdom. Provided that his majesty's government in Canada shall not be bound to continue to accord any preferences to any colony or protectorate which, not being precluded by international obligations from according preferences, either (1) accords to Canada no preferences or (II) accords to some other part of the empire (in the case of Northern Rhodesia, excepting the Union of South Africa, Southern Rhodesia and the territories of the South African high commission) preferences not accorded to Canada.

Article 20—Nothing in this agreement shall prejudice or diminish any of the benefits enjoyed by both the parties threto under the Canada West Indies trade agreement dated the sixth of July, 1925.

FIVE YEAR PERIOD

Article 22—This agreement between his majesty's government in the United Kingdom and his majesty's government in Canada is to be regarded as coming into effect as from the date hereof (subject to the necessary legislative or other action being taken as soon as may be practicable hereafter). It shall remain in force for a period of five years, and if not denounced six months before the end of that period shall continue in force thereafter until a date six months after notice of denunciation has been given by either party.

Article 23—In the event of circumstances arising which, in the judgment of his majesty's government in the United Kingdom or of his majesty's government in Canada, as the case may be, necessitate a variation in the terms of the agreement, the proposal to vary those terms shall form the subject of consultation between the two governments.

SCHEDULE A, CANADA

As regards eggs, poultry, butter, cheese and other milk products, free entry for Canadian produce will be continued for three years certain. His majesty's government in the United Kingdom, however, reserve to themselves the right, after the expiration of the three years, if they consider it necessary in the interests of the United Kingdom producer to do so, to review the basis of preference so far as relates to the articles above enumerated, and, after notifying his majesty's government in Canada either to impose a preferential duty on Canadian produce whilst maintaining preferential margins, or on consultation with the Canadian government to bring such produce within any system which may be put into operation for the quantitative regulation of supplies from all sources in the United Kingdom market.

Wheat in grain—2s per quarter.
Butter—15s per cwt.
Cheese—15 per cent ad valorem.
Apples, raw—4s 6d per cwt.
Pears, raw—4s 6d per cwt.
Apples, canned—3 s 6d per cwt., in addition to the duty in respect of sugar content.

SCHEDULE C, CANADA

Timber of all kinds imported into the United Kingdom in substantial quantities from Canada, insofar as now dutiable.
Fish, fresh, sea.
Salmon, canned.
Other fish, canned.
Asbestos.
Zinc.
Lead.

SCHEDULE D

This schedule, which refers to preferences which certain non-self-governing colonies and protectorates will be invited to extend to Canada, is not being published or summarized at present.

SCHEDULE E

This schedule, of which details will be published later, sets forth 220 items of the Canadian tariff, in respect of which new or increased margins of preferences will be granted by Canada to the United Kingdom. The schedule covers a very wide range of commodities, and includes, inter alia, a large number of items previously dutiable at the British preferential rate which are now transferred to the free list. In all other cases the present margin of preference has been increased either by lowering the British preferential rate or by raising the intermediate and general rates.

Unofficial understandings between the iron and steel interests of the two countries are used as the basis of tariff adjustment on many items of the steel schedule, including not only the primary forms but such processed and fabricated steels as cutlery, machinery, and wire products. Revisions in the textile items relate chiefly to linens and to the major classifications of cotton and woollen fabrics. Other commodities embraced in the schedule include a very wide and important range of chemicals, flat grass, toilet accessories, gums, tableware and leather.

SCHEDULE F

This schedule, which refers to preferences which Canada will accord to certain non-self-governing colonies, is not being published or summarized at present.

IRISH TRADE WILL PICK UP

Free State Through Trade Pact Opens Doors to Canadian Wheat

By J. F. SANDERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—The Irish Free State will open its doors to Canadian wheat as a result of a trade treaty signed yesterday between the two countries. Canadian goods will enter the Free State at the lowest tariff rates. Irish products will receive from Canada the tariff preferences granted under the Anglo-Canadian treaty.

Under the terms of the treaty, Canada agrees to grant to the Free State the same tariff preferences which the United Kingdom will receive under its agreement with Canada. In return, the Free State undertakes to tax Canadian goods no more heavily than any other country.

Canada has a heavy favorable trade balance with the Free State. In the last fiscal year, Canadian exports totalled $2,661,400, and imports from the Free State, $45,000.

WEALTHIES ARE MAKING MARKET

WINNIPEG, Aug. 21—Threshing in Manitoba and to smaller extent in the southern parts of Saskatchewan and Alberta is reported today by the Canadian Pacific railways department of agriculture. Combines are at work on some areas and the general yield of wheat is grading well despite the hot dry weather during the ripening period.

Barley, where already threshed, has shown some good yields, but has also suffered to some extent by midsummer heat. Last week's rainfall in western Manitoba, eastern Saskatchewan and northern and southeastern Alberta has benefited fodder and pasturage, but more moisture is still needed throughout the west.

Rust development in Saskatchewan, states the report, depends largely on future weather conditions.

INDIAN GOODS ENTER UNITED KINGDOM FREE

Duties on Certain Foreign Goods Will Be Raised; Seek Cotton Trade

OTTAWA, Aug. 21 (CP)—The following is a condensation of the agreement between the United Kingdom and India:

Apart from a few revenue duties, the policy of the United Kingdom in the past has been one of free trade, but by the Import Duties act 1932 a general duty of 10 per cent ad valorem was imposed on all imports with the exception of certain essential foodstuffs and raw materials. The operation of this duty was suspended as regards Indian and Dominion products pending the result of the Ottawa conference.

As a part of the agreement reached at Ottawa the United Kingdom will continue to give free entry to all Indian goods within the scope of the general 10 per cent duty. These goods will thus receive a preference of 10 per cent over all competing foreign goods to which this general duty applies. In addition the duties on certain foreign goods have been, or will be, raised to higher levels and the preferences enjoyed by Indian goods correspondingly enhanced.

PRINCIPAL COMMODITIES

The principal commodities affected are: Indian cotton manufactures, tanned hides and tanned skins, non-essential vegetable oils, sandalwood oil, oilseed cake and meal, rice, groundnuts, coffee, tobacco, tea spices, castor-seed brand and pollards, rice meal and dust, teak and other hardwoods, pig lead, magnesite, Indian granite and magnesium chloride.

Further discussions will take place in London regarding the terms on which Indian pig iron and semi-finished steel may be admitted free of duty into the United Kingdom.

The Indian delegation has discussed with his majesty's government in the United Kingdom and representatives of the United Kingdom cotton trade means by which the greater use of Indian cotton in the United Kingdom might be stimulated and these discussions are still proceeding.

India will give 7½ per cent tariff preference on certain classes of motor vehicles. On other articles covered by agreement rate of preference will be 10 per cent. These preferences may be given either by increase of the duties on foreign goods or by reduction of the duties on United Kingdom goods or by a combination of both methods. The 10 per cent preference extends to the following classes of manufactured goods:

Building and engineering materials, chemicals, drugs and medicines, earthernware and porcelain, furniture and cabinet ware, hardware, instruments, apparatus and appliances (electrical, musical, photographic, scientific, surgical, wireless and miscellaneous), leather manufactures.

METALS INCLUDED

The following metals: Aluminum, copper, lead, German silver, zinc, brass and similar alloys and manufactures thereof, paint and painters' material, paper and stationary, rubber tires and other manufactures of rubber, vehicles not mechanically propelled and cycles. In these classes of goods the preference is subject to certain specified exceptions which will be announced later, and also to the general reservation that it does not extend to commodities to which protective duties are applicable, to those which are free of duty at present, or to those on which on grounds of national policy a specially low rate of duty has been imposed.

The 10 per cent preference is also applicable to the following miscellaneous manufactures.

Asbestos manufactures, boots and shoes of leather, cutlery, firearms, cartridges and cartridge cases.

Articles of food and drink: Ale and beer, cocoa and chocolate, confectionary. Tin or canned fish, canned or bottled fruit.

ROOSEVELT SAYS COURTS UNABLE TO STOP HIM

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 21—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt has formally notified the courts of New York state they have no power to stop him from hearing and acting on the demand for removal from office of Mayor James J. Walker of New York.

A brief filed with the supreme court by the attorney-general's office, representing Mr. Roosevelt the double attempt of Walker and a Bronx county man to halt the proceedings, definitely challenged the right of Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Staley to stop the governor from acting on the charges.

Hull watch committee has made a rule that all members of the police force must at their own expense have their teeth attended to every six months.

the last treaty was signed, Premier Bennett, on behalf of all delegates, presented Mr. Baldwin with a salver made of Canadian silver. It bore the signature of every delegate. The former British prime minister was born in the year of Confederation, and celebrated the last anniversary in Ottawa. The presentation was made, said Mr. Bennett, in "appreciation of his presence here, and of the great service he has rendered, not only to his own island country but to the world at large—his public service and his activities in literature and in many other fields."

"What can I say on this occasion," asked Mr. Baldwin, except that I will endeavor to keep every birthday in the future in this hospitable country."

The leader of the British delegation then moved a resolution expressing appreciation of the work of the chairmen, members of committees, and the secretariat. The closing addresses followed.

It was fitting, continued Mr. Baldwin, that Premier Bennett should preside over the conference. "And it is fortunate that we have in Canada's prime minister a man so admirably qualified for that difficult task. He possesses a driving power given to few, which is an essential element in the conduct of business of this kind. He has a grasp of detail which is astonishing; and yet withal, when one realizes what a grasp of detail involves, I have been struck all the time by his accessibility, that he always has been ready to discuss points as they arise with any delegation at any hour and in any place."

BENNETT HONORED

This was the first Imperial conference held outside the United Kingdom, noted Mr. Baldwin, and it seemed fitting "there should be some permanent mark of esteem given to the chairman which might be for his life a record of an occasion truly historic." Premier Bennett then was presented with a silver salver.

The Canadian premier's "genial and forceful personality has been the mainspring of this conference," said Rt. Hon. Stanley Bruce of Australia.

"I do not consider the greatest importance of this conference lies in the agreements signed this morning," said Mr. Bruce. "I attach the greatest importance to the spirit that lies behind them, and I would remind the conference that we have here carried through our negotiations on a basis of trying to promote mutual trade among ourselves, not by the exclusion of other nations, but by trying to place barriers around ourselves as against free competition; but we have endeavored inside the British Empire to effect our agreements and arrangements by the lowering of barriers and by the promotion of freer interchange of goods among ourselves. I trust that by the example which we have given here, we have demonstrated that peoples of varied interests, when they come together in a spirit of determination to succeed, can reconcile all differences, overcome all obstacles, by a spirit of mutual good-will and by a determination to aid each other rather than to try to gain advantage. That, to my mind, is the great thing that has emerged from this conference."

THE TURNING POINT

"I have confidence," said Rt. Hon. J. G. Coates of New Zealand, "this conference will be the turning point of what today appears to be a somewhat sad and troubled world."

The results of the conference should not be measured in dollars and cents, said Hon. N. C. Havenga of South Africa. "I do not know whether the results manifest vision on our part, or whether they augur well for the people. For ourselves it would be futile to pretend that we return rejoicing, bring in the sheaves.

"Nothing can ever make us forget our debt to Canada," said S. T. O'Kelly of the Irish Free State, "and whatever changes the future may bring for us, one very certain result of the conference, as far as the delegation of the Irish Free State is concerned, is a determination to do everything in our power to create closer bonds of friendship between the Irish and Canadian people."

JUST A BEGINNING

The signing of the trade treaties, said Premier F. C. Alderdice of Newfoundand, was not the end of the conference. "It is no more than the beginning, and I hope that in due season we shall be having another conference, and that it will bring the British Commonwealth of nations still closer together."

Historians in the future will find it necessary to open a new chapter with Ottawa, said Sid Atul Chatterjee of India.

"What will be the ultimate effect of this policy is impossible to forecast today," said Premier H. U. Moffat of Southern Rhodesia, "but there can be no doubt that we have laid the foundation of a policy that will have far-reaching results."

MANY APPLAUD ROOSEVELT IN CAMPAIGN TALK

Expounds His Nine Fundamentals for Economic Remedies

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 21—Cheering his criticisms of Republican party policies and its leaders, a crowd of some 25,000 persons heard Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt expound his nine "fundamental" economic remedies, which he said were for the protection of the "great mass of average American men and women."

In the first road address of his campaign for the presidency, Mr. Roosevelt last night said President Hoover's acceptance speech and the Republican platform were "empty of hope."

The Democratic nominee drew intermittent laughter and applause as he referred to "Alice in Wonderland" to illustrate what he termed the methods of "big business."

DECEIVE FURTHER

His speech was interrupted time and again by applause, cheers and laughter. The longest interruption came when he asked "Has the Republican elephant spotted with mire . . . suddenly by miracle overnight became a sacred white elephant of spotless purity, . . . or has it merely been scrubbed and white washed by cunning showmen in the hope they can deceive a credulous electorate for four more years."

Another roar of approval went up as he said, "Th administration was not frank, not honest with the people and by blundering statements and actions postponed necessary readjustments."

The governor, in referring to former President Coolidge, said "perhaps foreseeing what would happen in the economic world a shrewd man from New England . . . had typed on a narrow strip of paper the historic words 'I do not choose to run'."

BETTER THAN 20 PER CENT

Control of foreign state competition, said Mr. Eassie, would prove of more benefit to British Columbia's lumber industry than a 20 per cent preference if it had been granted. With the 10 per cent preference being continued, he added, the outlook for improvement in the industry is bright. He desired a more detailed study of the agreement before forecasting what exact increase in trade could be anticipaed.

"The agreements between Canada and the United Kingdom, and Canada and the other dominions, looks to be a great achievement in every way," said J. H. Hamilton, secretary of the Vancouver Merchants' exchange. "Even if benefits are not immediately evident, British Columbia's primary industries will gain in activity as the months roll by."

MORE ACTIVITY ANTICIPATED

Preferences on lumber and fish were valuable to the industry, he said, but especially was the dumping control in regard to lumber welcomed. Zinc, lead and copper industries would benefit, and more activity could be anticipated.

"So far as copper was concerned, the agreement will probably mean that British Columbia's copper concentrates practically will all go to Great Britain," said Mr. Hamilton in recalling the duty against Canadian recently.

copper imposed by the United States

Benefits to the fruit growers and mixed farmers of the British Columbia interior and Vancouver Island were seen.

Increased exports of dairy produce was forecast as well as a wider market for sale of apples and various other fruit grown on hundreds of orchards. Free entry of eggs, poultry, butter cheese and other milk products indicated more attention to these phases of the province's agriculture life, with increased production resulting.

BLAIRMORE COAL STRIKE IS ENDED

Settlement at Blairmore and Bellevue Follows Premier Brownlee Conference

BLAIRMORE, Alta., Aug. 21—(CP)—The six-month coal miners' strike in the Crow's Nest fields came to an end today, it has been revealed. About 600 men at the Blairmore-Bellevue mines of Western Canada collieries had been on strike since March, protesting against wage reductions and working conditions.

Settlement followed conference between Premier John Brownlee of Alberta and officials of the mine Workers' Union of Canada and company officials. The strikers were members of the Mine Workers' Union.

No announcement regarding the new agreement was made.

the part of any foreign country, that government hereby declares that it will exercise the powers which it now has or will hereafter take to prohibit the entry from such foreign country directly or indirectly of such commodities into its country for such time as may be necessary to make effective and to maintain the preference hereby granted."

CANADA AWARDED:

Under the agreement, Canada gets:

(1) Continued free entry to the British market under the Import Duties act, 1932. This act imposed the British general tariff. Present duties on foreign goods levied under it range from 10 to 33 1-3 per cent.

In regard to eggs, poultry, butter, cheese and other milk products, free entry is continued for three years certain. But the United Kingdom reserves the right, at the end of three years, to review the basis of preference.

(2) The United Kingdom undertakes to impose the following duties on foreign goods: Wheat in grain, 2s per quarter (about 6c a bushel, at par).

Butter, 15s per cwt. ($3.75 at par); cheese, 15 per cent ad valorem; apples and pear, raw, 4s 6d per cwt. ($1.10 at par); apples, canned, 3s 6d per cwt. (85c at par) in addition to the duty in respect of sugar content; dried fruits (now dutiable at 7s), 10s 6d ($2.55 at par) per cwt.; eggs, in shall, from 1s (25c) to 1s 9d (43c) per great hundred, according to weight; condensed milk, 5s ($1.25) per cwt., in addition to the duty in respect of sugar content; copper, 2d (4c) per lb.

DUTY REMAINS ON LEAD, ZINC

(3) Present 10 per cent duty remains on foreign lumber; fish, both fresh and sea; canned salmon and other canned fish; asbestos, zinc, lead. The United Kingdom undertakes not to lower this duty except with the consent of the Canadian government.

(4) It is agreed that the duty on wheat, copper, zinc or lead may be removed if at any time Empire producers are "unable or unwilling to offer these commodities on first sale in the United Kingdom at prices not exceeding the world prices and in quantities sufficient to supply the requirements of the Canadian consumer."

(5) Restrictions on the entry of Canadian live cattle to be modified along agreed lines.

(6) Bacon and ham—Quota up to a maximum of 2,500,000 cwt. per annum.

(7) Existing margin of preference on Canadian tobacco to continue for 10 years.

CANADA GIVES

In return, Canada grants:

(1) New or increased margins of preference on 20 items in the Canadian tariff. A large number of items previously dutiable at the British preferential rate are transferred to the free list. In other cases, the margin of preference is increased either by lowering the British preferential rate or by increasing the intermediate and general rates.

Details will not be announced till later. But unofficial understanding between the iron and steel interests of Canada and the United Kingdom are used as the basis of tariff adjustment on many items of the steel schedule, including not only the primary forms but such fabricated steels as cutlery, machinery and wire products. Revision of the textile items relates chiefly to linens and the major classifications of cotton and woollen fabrics. Other commodities include a wide range of chemicals, flat glass, toilet accessories, gums, tableware and leather.

CONSTITUTE TARIFF BOARD

(2) Protection against United Kingdom products to be afforded only to those industries "which are reasonably assured of sound opportunities for success."

(3) Canada undertakes that protective duties shall not exceed such a level "as will give United Kingdom producers full opportunity of reasonable competition on the basis of the relative cost of economical and efficient production, provided that in the application of such principle special consideration shall be given to the case of industries not fully established."

(4) Tariff board to be constituted forthwith. Canada undertakes, on the request of the United Kingdom, to have the tariff board review the duties charged on any specified commodities in accordance with the principles laid down in the previous paragraph.

(5) No existing duty on United Kingdom goods to be increased except on report of the tariff board.

(6) United Kingdom producers to have full right of audience before the tariff board.

(7) Customs act to be so administered as to avoid uncertainty, reduce delay, provide prompt settlement of disputes.

(8) Existing surcharges on United Kingdom imports to be abolished as soon as finances of Canada allow. "Sympathetic consideration" to reducing and ultimately abolishing exchanging dump duty.

(9) Regulations on import of pedigree stock from United Kingdom to be modified.

The agreement is for five years.

MORE ABOUT RELIEF CAMPS

ing periods, and the short hours when work is being done, the various areas show a remarkable volume of sound road improvement, a degree of progress that impresses every Nelson motorist.

BEACH GRADE AT BOSWELL

An example of the work method was seen in detail at Boswell, where 42 men, practically all from points on the main lake highway, are in the camp, under the charge of Foreman Norman McLeod. Everyone who has been at Boswell knows the Boswell hill, which the present work proposes to cut out. A 3000-foot diversion, of standard width and water grade, also perfectly straight, is being built from the wharf northward, along the beach above the highwater mark to connect at its northern end with the highway beyond the hill. Much of this involves a fill, which in places is 16 feet in depth, protected on the outer side by a heavy rock retaining wall. A short section of the diversion, where it is below a sliding bank, is also being protected on the upper side by a retaining wall, which it is thought will hold it permanently.

On this job, men are scattered all along the working ground, some barring down rocks to fall into the fill others rolling rocks into position into the big retaining wall on the beach, others moving rocks into favorable position for the wall with a tractor, another group taking the top off a knoll and adding to the fill, and others working with pick and shovel, filling dump-trucks, or doing miscellaneous necessary jobs. This is one of the jobs that has a gasoline shovel, owing to the character of the work. A portable compressor provides compressed air for the drilling.

While this diversion is quite a job, it is proceeding steadily, and if there is no interruption to the relief program, it will provide a first-class link in the Kootenay lake highway in the early future.

FOUR CREWS BALFOUR ROAD

Four different relief crews are working on the Nelson-Balfour road.

The one furthest up the West Arm, under Foreman Jack McKay, consists of 34 men, accommodated at the Laird creek camp. This crew is reconstructing and standardizing 1½ miles of highway between Laird creek on the east, and the easterly end of the proposed Longbeach diversion. Ultimately this diversion will bring the road nearer the lake and on a nearly level gradient, though the existing program doesn't touch it.

At the camp at Kokanee are 57 men—a month ago 65—under Foreman Charles McDougall. This crew is standardizing from the western end of the recent Kokanee diversion, on toward the road leading down to Crescent Bay.

The latter point is where the Sitkum creek crew of 57 men—previously 48—under Foreman Thomas Dronsfield, comes on the scene, to carry on the good work, westward to within a quarter of a mile of McDonald's Landing.

These three crews specified and also those at Boswell and Woodberry, are all accommodated in camps, composed of plain buildings and tents.

NELSON MEN NEARBY

At Willow Point, however, is a crew composed of Nelson men, who are living at their own homes, but are receiving work in lieu of direct relief, and are taken out to and returned from the working area by trucks, 12 to 15 going out every morning, to work under the direction of Foreman Oscar Palmer. Altogether 108 men, on the rule of three to four days a month for single and six to eight for married men, were employed on the Willow Point work in July. The work done has been standardizing from McDonald's Landing to Shannon's, including the recent work at Crystal hill which was referred to in favorable comment at the recent session of the board of trade council.

WALLS AT WOODBERRY

One of the most interesting points visited was the work area at Woodberry creek, on the Balfour-Kaslo section, where 29 or 30 men are employed who are local at Ainsworth and Kaslo, have been working under Foreman Jack Strachan, on the ticklish work of standardizing portions of highway, from Woodberry north, where frequently the drop to the lake edge is precipitous. While the work was over for the day, its character spoke for itself. On this section the work has consisted of moving large quantities of solid rock, some of it being built into walls with cement motor, to support the straightening of the road at certain points.

Each camp has the choice of whether it will have five-hour or a six-hour day. So far the crews at Boswell and on the Nelson-Balfour road have been working the longer day, with Saturday off, while the Woodberry crew has preferred the shorter day, which gives no Saturday off but enables each day's work to be wound up at noon.

Under the operating program, each camp works 120 hours a month.

MEN ARE KEEN

That splendid work is being done by the men of this district in the relief camps, the men working with interest, keenness and efficiency in spite of the small allotment of employment each receives and at the relief scale, is the universal testimony, both in the locality covered in the trip just described, and in the whole Kootenay-Boundary territory, and it is widely hoped that the government will not be forced to restrict this relief work, which is both aiding many residents over, and is producing excellent results in highway improvement.

ANGLO-IRISH AGREEMENT IS BELIEVED NEAR

Premier Bennett Hopes Conference Paved the Way for Accord

By THOMAS GREEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Aug. 21.—Lifting the Imperial conference into a sweeping wave of Empire economic unity, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett closed the parley on Saturday. Speeches had come from every Empire nation—the first through Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin—in warmest terms of appreciation of the work of Canada's prime minister as chairman of the conference.

"We have commonly acknowledged that Empire association can be based advantageously upon the principle of reciprocal preferences," the prime minister stated, "and by our several agreements have evidenced our belief that these preferences ensure the greatest benefits when they are predicated upon a general Empire plan."

The agreement between the United Kingdom and Canada, he continued, had affirmed in principle the proposals made by the government of this country upon the opening day of the conference. Canada maintained existing preferences in the Dominion and secured extended preferences to the Dominion's natural products.

These advantages were balanced by Canada granting such tariff concess- Kingdom manufacturers on a basis "of fair competition with domestic industries, having regard, of course, to such factors as the relative costs of production."

A GUARANTEE TO CANADA

With an evident allusion to Soviet Russia, the prime minister declared the United Kingdom had guaranteed Canada against unfair competition from foreign countries.

His gesture for friendship among commonwealth nations brought from the lips of Mr. Bennett a profound hope for the early solution of the Anglo-Irish difficulties.

"Listening to the observations you have made," the prime minister exclaimed," I thing I might be permitted to say one thing. I have only one regret, and it is a deep regret to me personally, that one of our dominions represented at the conference may have at times experienced slight—very slight—feeling of difference. But though the Irish Free State delegation may have experience such feelings such feelings — they were never expressed—they were purely official, for they have established as a result of the conference the most cordial relations between themselves and, without exception, everyone of the delegations here assembled.

"I should like to express the hope that these cordial relations so firmly established here may pave the way for solution of their difficulties."

Applause broke forth from every delegate in the house of commons chamber in approval of this sentiment. Sean O'Kelly, head of the Irish Free State delegation, was seen to give several decided nods of his head in agreement. So did Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, secretary of state for the dominions. Mr. Baldwin applauded. Lord Hailsham smiled his approval. And thus the conference as a body imparted its ardent hope that an accord will be reached between the two commonwealth nations who had so willingly poined in making the conference a success.

Capitol THEATRE TONIGHT and TUESDAY

Don't miss Erle's greatest dramatic star in her best since "Madame X."

Her first for First National

Must she pay with honor for an honorable love?

Years of yearning and then — one glorious night — alone—together!

The one night when she could be TRAPPED—by a woman too evil to understand a Love too Sacred to be Shameful!

You'll see the soul of society stripped naked—a daring woman's heart laid bare—by
