QUEEN HELEN LEAVES ON HER WAY TO EXILE

Rumored that Disappointment Is Cause of Present Journey

NOT INVITED TO ROYAL WEDDING

King Carol Gives Ileana and Anton Airplane as Present

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 17 (AP)—Queen Helen took a tearful departure from the capital tonight on what may become a permanent exile.

At the station when she boarded the Oriental Express for London where the dowager Marie, former queen of Greece, and Princess Ileana, all of whom frankly wept. Helen herself appeared particularly depressed, and was still in tears when the train pulled out of the station.

When the express passed Sinaia, where King Carol had taken Prince Mihai for the summer, the queen looked out her window in vain for a view of her child.

It has been rumored that her present journey was prompted by disappointment at not being allowed to spend the summer with her son and not being invited to the wedding of Princess Ileana, the king's sister. Prince Anton, Ileana's husband-to-be was on the platform with his fiance tonight.

NOT BACK UNTIL OCTOBER

In a letter to the marshal of the court Helen explained that she was going abroad to visit relatives and would not be back until October. It was learned at the departure tonight that Helen will visit her mother in England, and thence go to Italy with her brother, the former King George of Greece, before returning here in the fall to see Mihai. It was also rumored she would settle permanently in exile in Switzerland.

King Carol has given Princess Ileana and Archduke Anton an airplane as a wedding present.

Former Queen Marie's gift was a beautiful silver service and the president of parliament has presented the young couple with a sevres porcelain service.

BRITISH PRESS SENDS GREETING

LONDON, July 17. (C. P. cable)—"Hail British Columbia," is the heading of the Morning Post Leader today, referring to British Columbia's diamond jubilee as a province of Canada. The Post says the home land sends affectionate and sincere good wishes to the province. It pays a tribute to the loyalty of British Columbia and recalls the courage and far-sighted vision of the pioneers of British commercial enterprise west of the Rockies, and dwells on the development of the province into "one of the most progressive and prosperous communities in the Empire."

Rains Bring Improved Prairie Crop Growth

WINNIPEG, July 17 (CP)—Rains over the Canadian west improved crop conditions last week, according to the weekly report issued today by the Canadian Bank of Commerce. Wheat and coarse grains in Manitoba benefitted greatly and northern and central Alberta report conditions good with prospects of one of the best crops in history. An average crop is expected in Saskatchewan's north but the southern yield will be poor.

Prospects for Manitoba, the report adds, is 50 to 70 per cent of normal. Alberta's prospects appear 70 to 75 per cent of normal but for Saskatchewan a crop 46 to 48 per cent. of normal is forecast. Further moisture is needed in central and southern Saskatchewan. In the south a large portion of the yield will only be seed, the report states. Improvement has resulted from the rains in the feed situation, it concludes.

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP)—The Herald-Tribune says it was reported today that Clarence H. MacKay, chairman of the board of Postal Telegraph and Cable corporation and Ana Case, former soprano of the Metropolitan Opera house, will be married tomorrow morning at MacKay's Long Island estate.

ROUMANIAN PRINCESS TO MARRY

PRINCESS ILEANA SHOWS OFF FIANCE

When Princess Ileana of Roumania went to review girl scouts at a recent rally, she took along her Austrian fiancee, Archduke Anton von Hapsburg, whom she is to marry on July 25, despite the reported opposition of her brother, King Carol. The princess appears to be waving a nonchalant greeting to the cameraman, but in reality is returning the salute of the guard of honor.

FIND MAN WHO MARRIED MOTHER OF AIMEE SEMPLE McPHERSON IS STILL MARRIED TO "FORMER" WIFE

Latest Mrs. Hudson Will Gladly Relinquish Groom of Three Weeks

LOS ANGELES, July 17 (AP)—Mrs. Minnie Kennedy-Hudson 52-year-old bride of three weeks, is ready to relinquish her husband to the woman claiming him as her spouse.

Close on the heels of the suit by Mrs. L. Margaret Newton-Hudson to obtain a divorce from Rev. Mr. G. Edward Hudson—given the title "what a man", by Mrs. Kennedy—the second wife of the minister announced: "If the other lady considers herself his wife, I will gladly relinquish him to her. And I'll perform a new marriage ceremony for them myself, and give them our rings and my blessing." she said, resignedly: "I'm all through—washed up— my life's my own from now on."

RUDE AWAKENING

LOS ANGELES, July 17 (AP)—The kaleidoscopic romance of Minnie (Ma) Kennedy and the Rev. G. Edward Hudson changed a few more scenes today.

In place of two lovers tripping along the altar-to-honeymoon path, there was a rude awakening brought about by the ogre of bigamy. In the shuffle, one of the newlyweds, Mrs. Hudson, went into seclusion while Mrs. Kennedy continued to entertain reporters and talk about "gold diggers" after "my man."

The disclosures that Mr. Hudson, when he married Mrs. Kennedy at midnight last June 28 at Longview, Wash., was still a much-married man, followed by a voluntary move by the couple to annul the ceremony, were enlivened today by a threat of prosecution on charges of bigamy.

Cecil C. Hallin, county prosecutor in Longview, said he was investigating the wedding of the mother of the evangelist, Aimee Semple McPherson, and Mr. Hudson and was preparing to ask Governor Roland H. Hartley to extradite the bridegroom for alleged bigamy. In the affidavit signed by Hudson at Longview, the statement was made that he was divorced.

"I will not abdicate my rights to the Infante Don Juan because that would admit an uncommitted crime," the marquis quoted Alfonso as saying.

"I am willing to give my palace in Santander to the city on condition that it serve a social purpose.

FRANCE LIABLE TO SPOIL ALL PARLEY PLANS

Want German Custom Receipts as Guarantee on Loan

BRITAIN WATCHES APPREHENSIVELY

France Unwilling to Attend Conference on Other Terms

LONDON, July 17 (AP) — Great Britain views with some apprehension the French proproposal that a $500,000,000 loan to Germany be guaranteed by German customs receipts and in some authoritative quarters, it is said that the French terms in their present form may not be acceptable here.

Arrangements for Monday's meetings of the principal debtor and creditor nations are proceeding, but a serious hitch threatens the plans for that conference.

Reports from Paris indicate that the French are unwilling to come before Germany agrees in principle to terms which are to be presented when Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius get there tomorrow. The absence of French representatives would seriously impede the work of such a conference although all the other nations invited including the United States, Germany, Italy, Beligum, and Japan have accepted.

NOT, "SECOND VERSAILLES"

It is emphasized that there is no intention of staging the Monday meeting so that what the Berlin Nationalist Press has called a "second Versailles" would be imposed upon Germany.

No definite program has been drawn up and the conferees merely hope to come to an agreement on some form of aid for Germany so the economic crisis in that country may not spread to others.

BERLIN July 17 (AP)—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius left Berlin tonight for Paris followed by the fervent hopes of millions of their countrymen that in their meeting tomorrow with the statesmen of France they will lay the foundation for cooperation between France and Germany and will help the Reich out of her economic crisis.

The lst word of Herr Bruening as he boarded the Nord express shortly before 10 p.m., were an expression of hope that the outcome of the journey would be trustful collaboration and visible proof of international solidarity.

Although he placed much emphasis on such generalities of the present situation, the chancellor did not disguise the brutal reality that Germany badly needs the international loan his journey was designed to facilitate.

Premier Mussolini waved the starting flag at the Rome airport.

SWEEZEY AND HIS BEAUHARNOIS COMPANY CONTRIBUTED $950,000 TO POLITICAL CAMPAIGN FUNDS

Senator McDougald Summonsed, Probe

Had Declined, Through His Counsel, to Testify Before Parliamentary Committee in Beauharnois Investigation

OTTAWA, Ont., July 17. (CP)—Senator W. L. McDougald, Montreal, was served late today with a summons to appear on Monday before the special committee of the house of commons inquiring into the Beauharnois project. Senator McDougald has been prominently mentioned during the probe.

Service on Senator McDougald was made through the sergeant-at-arms of the house of commons. The senator and his counsel, J. R. L. Starr, K. C., left Ottawa tonight, presumably for Montreal.

The intention of the committee is to treat Senator McDougald as an ordinary witness for the purpose of compelling his presence for examination on phases of the project. Under authority of the house of commons, powers were conferred on the committee at the time of its establishment to compel attendance of witness for examination.

Senator McDougald was asked several days ago by the committee to attend and give evidence on phases of the inquiry. Through his counsel, he declined to appear.

STATEMENT IS BOMBSHELL

Sweezey Tells of Personal Contribution of Nearly $700,000 to Funds of Both Liberals and Conservatives; Evidence Conflicts

OTTAWA, Ont., July 17—(By the Canadian Press)—Contributions to various political campaign funds by R. O. Sweezey and his Beauharnois Power Company totalled about $950,000. Like a bolt from the blue, evidence to this effect was given today before the special parliamentary committee investigating the Beauharnois project.

NONCHALANT ADMISSION

As nonchalantly as a man revealing his golf score, Mr. Sweezey told of a personal contribution totalling between $600,000 and $700,000 to the Liberal party. This was given to Senator Andrew Haydon and Senator Donat Raymond upon the understanding an indefinite percentage was to be delivered to the Quebec Liberal party. In addition to this sum, the Beauharnois company made a contribution of $100,000 to the federal Liberal party. The Liberal party in Ontario had received "trifling sums", perhaps $3000, through W. P. R. Parker, of Toronto, said Mr. Sweezey.

As a personal contribution, Mr. Sweezey donated $6000 toward the campaign expenses of Leslie Bell, Conservative member for St. Antoine-Montreal, and to other whom he had been in the habit of aiding in the past. General Eric McCuaig received $1000 for the Conservative party in Montreal, said Mr. Sweezey, while Jacques Cartier, treasurer of the Conservative party in Quebec, was given $20,000.

CONFLICTING EVIDENCE

Conflicting evidence was given concerning $125,000 to John Aird jr. of Toronto on the understanding it was a contribution to the Ontario Conservative party. Mr. Aird contended it was in settlement of a personal account of his with Mr. Sweezey. When pressed for a full explanation, Mr. Aird said he had advised Mr. Sweezey on the best way of securing a contract with the hydro-electric commission of Ontario but he could not remember what his advice had been, or give any details.

A proposal had been made to him, said, Mr. Sweezey, to contribute $200,000 to the federal Conservative party, but nothing was done about it. Peter White, K.C., counsel for the commission, suggested this transaction was not completed because Premier R. B. Bennett refused to accept the money. Mr. Sweezey did not know why it fell through.

Both Mr. Sweezey and Mr. Aird denied making any personal contribution to Hon. G. H. Ferguson, Canadian high commissioner in Great Britain and formerly premier of Ontario. No contribution had been made to the Conservative party of Manitoba, said Mr. Sweezey.

All fiction magazines, that carry little or no advertising, will come under the original 15 cents per pound rate.

The duties become effective on September 1. The duty as originally anounced in the budget was 15 cents per pound.

Investigation devealed that the girl had come down town earlier with her mother. She left her mother, saying she would meet her later. Entering the waiting room of Dr. West's office, she requested to remain there to meet a friend. Nobody else was in the room at the time she fell through the open window.

In this corporation are embraced the theater owners and managers, all actors and actresses, all orchestras, all stage hands and other theater employees.

Under government control, with the hand of Il Duce at the wheel, actors, orchestra members and stage hands may not strike, and on the other hand, theater owners may not throw them out of work.

Jay Gould Would Not Lend Either France or Germany Money Because He Is Certain He Would Not Be Repaid

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 17.—European troubles may not lead to a war, but war or no war, Jay Gould, member of the New York banking family and the head of important financial interests, does not want to lend money in either Germany or France.

Mr. Gould, stout, happy and smiling, is enthusiastic about this first visit to western Canada, and, best of all, he went fishing and caught some fish.

So emphatic was Mr. Gould in his praise of Banff and Lake Louise, of Canadian trains, Canadian food, Canadian hotels and Canadian fishing, that interviewers had a hard time to bring him back to the subject of international finance.

"You ask about France," he said finally. "Well, I don't know what is going to happen over there, but I will say this: I don't want to lend any money to Germany—or to France either."

"Why?" he was asked.

"Because I wouldn't get it back!"

"Do you expect war?"

"No; there may not be a war, but they would spend it on something and then go broke."

Mr. Gould, who was in Europe two months ago, believes that France has some financial jolts coming within the next 12 months.

"How did you find the general attitude in France?"

"To get all they can—out of the tourists."

"Is there much unemployment there?"

"No; they still have money, but they are going to suffer in the next year."

"Russia is the biggest menace to the world today, in my opinion," he declared. "I was in Russia just at Armistice time when the Soviet came into being. I don't like them. I think their whole policy is to stir up discontent in the world. They are selling their products at a loss with this in view. I can't understand why Great Britain allows them to dump their wheat in that market. It seems to me that she should protect her colonies."

Mr. Gould, accompanied by his wife and daughters, Anne and Eleanor, arrived today by Canadian Pacific and will sail for Honolulu tomorrow on R.M.S. Empress of Canada. His wife's home is in Honolulu.

PLAN RENEWAL OF WATER MAIN, FERNIE INTAKE

Fernie Council Plans Submit Bylaw to Raise Sum of $40,000

FERNIE, B. C., July 17.—It is the intention of the Fernie city council at their next meeting to ask the ratepayers to sanction the raising of $40,000, by debentures for public works construction in the city. The council plans to renew the waterworks pipe-line from the Fairy creek intake dam to the Elk river bridge. The old pipe-line to be replaced is wire wound wood stave pipe, and has been in use some 23 years.

The works department is considering installing light steel pipe covered with a shell of concrete. The water pressure over this section of the system is not great.

The intake dam at Fairy creek will also have to be renewed. Of late years moisture has entered the concrete, and the winter frosts have badly disintegrated the dam walls.

Mayor Douglas states that the renewal of this pipe will be absolutely necessary in the near future. If the work could be carried out this year, he says, it would help absorb some of the unemployment in the city.

For the last few days the temperature has been extremely warm and Friday proved to be one of the hottest days of the month, the thermometer reaching the maximum of 90 degrees in the shade.

The minimum temperature for the 24 hours was 47 degrees.

SCHOOL BOARD SETTLES FEES FOR THE YEAR

Outside Pupils Junior High School Pay $3, $4 or $5 Per Month

REPEATER STATUS IN HIGH SCHOOL

Music Fees to Be Collected by Instructor Rest of Year

Fees to be charged in connection with the Nelson schools have been worked out by the school board.

In the case of pupils from outside the Nelson school district, who wish to take advantage of the junior high school, the fees to be paid will be $3 per month for grade VII., $4 per month for grade VIII., and $5 per month for grade IX.

The situation concerning Nelson high school pupils who have to take some of the years over again was clarified at the meeting of the board Friday night, when a legal opinion was James O'Shea, K. C., city solicitor, upheld the view of the board as to charging fee for the additional years. A high school student belonging in Nelson is entitled to one repeat year free in his high school course, but for any subsequent repeated years will be required to pay $10 per month.

MUSIC FEES

In connection with the classes in instrumental music in the Nelson schools, the plan adopted in the spring, of having the monthly fee of $1 from each instrumental pupil collected by the principal, is showing defects, besides being cumbersome.

The board decided to suspend this plan of payment for the balance of the year, and to try out the plan of having the instructor collect the fees directly from the pupils. This is feasible, as under the temporary arrangement for this year, Mrs. Gladys Webb Foster, the violin instructor, ultimately receives all the fees which are now paid by the principals into the city's funds and transmitted to her by check after passing through the city's books.

VACANCY FILLED

A vacancy was created on the teaching staff of the high school by the resignation of W. M. Brown, teacher of mathematics and physics, who has accepted a position at the coast. Mr. Brown's resignation was accepted, and the vacancy was filled by the appointment of D. W. McDonald of Vancouver, who will teach the same subjects.

There were present at the meeting Chairman John Notman, Trustees David Rees, E. P. Dawson, G. A. Brown, W. E. Coles, and J. R. Ramsden, and Secretary F. L. Irwin.

TALK ORGANIZING SIDE TRIPS FOR THE TRAIL PICNIC

Board of Trade May Mobilize Nelson Motorists for Big Affair

Everything that the board of trade can do to assist in making the visit of the employees of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company of Canada to Nelson for their annual picnic, a complete success, will be done, the board of trade council agreed at its semi-monthly meeting Thursday.

While the city council is working hard on the project, in cooperation with the Trail committee, and will arrange for various facilities, it was suggested that the board could organize the Nelson motorists for side trips around the city, which could supplement the official program.

GRO PARK TRIP

In particular, it was suggested that probably hundreds of Trailites would be glad to be run up to Gyro park, to see the view, and perhaps to have their kiddies make use of the Gyro wading pool.

A committee will probably be appointed in plenty of time to organize the feature.

The board of trade will stand ready to perform any needed service that will contribute to the success of the big affair, when it is expected 3500 men, women and children will picnic here.

FOREST FIRES IN SOUTH INTERIOR 42 DURING WEEK

None of Any Size; Hazard Is Increasing; Chiefly in Okanagan

With hot weather for the great part of the week, following the cold and wet weather of the last weekend, the southern interior has had 42 forest fires during the seven days ending Thursday night, eight of which were active at the time the weekly reports were wired in to the forest branch headquarters here.

The fire hazard is increasing with the succession of hot days, particularly in the Okanagan, which has had little rainfall.

In the Kootenay most of the fires of the week are attributed to campers, who on account of rains were careless with their camp fires, figuring, erroneously, that they would not spread.

Of the week's 42 fires, none of which were of any size, 20 were in the Okanagan, 13 in West Kootenay, and Nine in the East Kootenay.

The number of fires in the southern interior to date this year has been 408.

"Eczema broke out on my neck. It started with an itchy feeling under the skin and then broke out in a rash. It formed tiny water blisters which were very itchy and sore. After a while the blisters would break and a watery substance would come from them. The itching grew worse at night when my body got warm, and sometimes I was awake half the night with it.

"My mother advised Cuticura Soap and Ointment and purchased some. In about three months I was completely healed after using two cakes of Soap and one box of Ointment." (Signed) Miss Betty Fraser, Chancellor, Alta.

CRERAR RETURNS FROM HAMILTON, EASTERN CITIES

Attended Gyro International Convention and Heavyweight Battle

R. E. Crerar, local business man and governor for the Gyro district which embraces the local club, returned to Nelson last night from the east. He came direct from Hamilton, Ont., where he attended the convention of Gyro international.

On his way to Hamilton he attended the Stribling-Schmeling heavyweight battle. Mr. Crerar stated last night that in his opinion there was not enough credit given Stribling for his excellent battle against the champion. From his own point of view he believed "Strib" had the advantage in the first 10 rounds, and had Schmeling in great difficulty in the fourth round.

He also attended several big league ball games while in the east.

Conditions in the east were naturally slack, said Mr. Crerar, but everywhere there seemed to be sign of a turn for the better.

For the hospital committee, Mrs. James Cook reported donations of various kinds and asked that members and all others interested have in mind the usual shower of jams, jellies, etc., when doing the season's supply of canning and preserves.

On institute work and methods, Mrs. D. O'Neill asked that consideration be given operating of a baby clinic. She also asked that the executive do their best to have more demonstrations at institute meetings, particularly in methods of cooking and canning.

For the cemetery committee, Mrs. A. E. French reported that Creston Cemetery company directors had advised that they were prepared to spend up to $25 on betterments at the burial ground, and Mrs. French's proposal that the money be spent in extending the water pipe to a more central location was concurred in by the meeting.

The sum of $5 was voted to the solarium on Vancouver Island to be applied on the pledge of the Wynndel institute which is helping defray the cost of a Wynndel child taking treatment there. The annual grandmothers' tea will be held at a later date.

Votes of thanks were accorded W. G. Littlejohn and James Cook, who officiated as judges at the recent flower show. Mrs. J. M. Craigie, Mrs. Edmondson and Mrs. Cook were similarly remembered in appreciation of flowers donated for display and sale at the show.

Plans for raising funds were discussed and Mrs. Hayes offered the use of her home and grounds for such a purpose. The matter was left with the directors. It was also agreed that, following the usual custom, there would be no meeting in August.

The tea hour hostesses were Mrs. W. Hendy, Mrs. M. Ross and Mrs. A. Lovestrom, and the free will offering, which goes to the crippled children's work, was $3.25.

WILL ENTERTAIN TEACHERS FROM BRITISH ISLES

Nelson Will Show Them Power Plants; On-to-Edgewood Program

When 49 teachers from England arrive in Nelson on August 20, in the course of a Canadian tour, L. H. Choquette, chairman of the reception committee of the board of trade, expects to have a flock of Nelson carst ready to drive them to points of interest, it was reported at Thursday's session of the board of trade council.

It is proposed to take the visitors down the river, but whether the objective will be the West Kootenay Power & Light company's No. 3 plant at South Slocan, or the city's plant at Upper Bonnington, has not yet been determined.

One of the fraternal visits the Nelson board has on its program for this year is to Edgewood, at the time of the annual fair of Edgewood and Inoncaklin valley, September 14 and 15. As that event is still two months away, it was decided to leave the appointment of an On-to-Edgewood committee till later.

SOUND OF BOMB STARTLES THEM

BUT POLICE DORR SLAMS AND GLASS CRASHES FROM THE WIND

Thoughts of Doukhobor bombs and the possibility that vengeance was being taken on the provincial police, were evoked by a resounding detonation in the court house Friday afternoon, the crash reverberating from the upper story, which houses the headquarters of the Nelson detachment of the provincial police. The sound of crashing glass accompanied the "explosion."

The explanation of the "bombing" was that a sudden puff of wind from the west, entering through a wide open window, slammed the door of the police office shut with such violence that the big panel of opaque glass was shattered into a hundred pieces, which strewed the corridor.

Impressive Ceremonies Mark Close of Leaders Camp Oustide of City

R. SMILLIE IS NAMED PRESIDENT; DEDICATION OF CHAPEL, CANDLE LIGHTS SERVICES IMPRESSIVE

Following the annual meeting of the Interdenominational Religious Council of Kootenay, at Camp Kokanee on the West Arm of Kootenay lake, near Nelson, where leaders have been camping, on Wednesday a rustic chapel was dedicated. The dedication services were led by Miss Doris Rerman of Grand Forks and marked the close of the camp. Fred Robins of Victoria on the pulpit, explained the lectern, and other features of the chapel. Rev. Francis Stevens closed with the dedicatory prayer. Rev. E. R. McLean was in charge.

The last camp fire was also featured by an impressive candle light service.

In the election of officers which preceeded the ceremonies, R. Smillie of Nelson was appointed president of the council for this year.

During the closing days of the camp Rev. Bryce Wallace of Trail gave two very challenging addresses on the young people's tasks of today. Another feature of the program was the demonstration of an actual council meeting of the League of Nations, which was put on under the direction of Rev. A. C. Pound of Nakusp. Dr. S. S. Osterhout of Vancouver, one of the speakers, addressed the camp on the need of leadership amidst the present world problems.

Officers for the new term are F. St. Denis of Trail, vice-president; E. H. Evans, Nelson, secretary-tressurer; R. Hawkes, boy's work; Mrs. A. C. Pound of Nakusp, children's work; Miss Ruth Slater of Trail, young people's work.

INSTALMENT FOUR

"You've not had breakfast yet?" "No; I was waiting for it when—when I heard Josie the maid scream."

"Well, my prescription for you is that you go in now and eat a good breakfast. That will help you more than anything I could give you. And as for the things to be attended to in such cases as this, you may leave them to me. What is your name?" he asked Simon Judd, and Judd told him. "Mr. Judd, I'm sure will act for you as far as necessary. There can be no funeral," he added, to Simon Judd, "until the law has gone through its formalities. However, if I might just speak to you a moment or two."

Amy, as she had been advised, entered the house to try to eat a breakfast, and Dr. Blessington led Simon Judd to the far end of the veranda.

"The funeral arrangements can all be attended to later," he said; "it was not that I wanted to speak about. As soon as possible I will get a proper death certificate, and I suppose William Dart is the man Miss Drane will want to have. He is an old friend of Drane—of the dead person; one of the few close friends the dead man—woman—had, I think."

"Hold on, now!" Simon Judd said. "Wait a minute now! Is that the little feller with the beard that was here yesterday?"

"I don't know that he was here—"

"Dart—William Dart—that's the name. Old feller about 70 years old or so, ain't he? All dressed in black. That the man?"

"You have described him."

"Well, black my cats!" Simon Judd exclaimed. "I was tryin' to think what that feller looked like, and all I could think of was undertaker. And he is one, is he? Well, now, maybe we won't want him after all. I don't know but what maybe he's mixed up in this some way, doc. I don't want to keep trade away from any friend of John's—or whoever it is up there—but you might give me the name of another funeral man while you're about it."

"Later, if necessary," the doctor said. "There will be ample time. What I wanted to urge was that you keep your eye on this girl. I don't want to alarm you needlessly but until we know more about this affair it is best to try to be safe. What I mean is that we don't know yet that this murder is not the work of a maniac; perhaps a maniac here in this house. If one murder has been done another may be attempted, you see? Probably there is nothing in the idea, but keep an eye on Miss Drane. Don't let her be another victim, Judd."

"I'll look out for her the best I can, doc," Simon Judd said, "and you can bet on that. She's a nice kid, this Amy is. But how about it being a murder all so sure? You talk like you knew it wasn't a suicide."

(To be continued)

ROBSON, B. C., July 17—Mr. and Mrs. Robertson and son of Spring Valley, Sask., have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Tutt here, and were so enthusiastic about the place that they have bought two lots and hope to make their home here shortly.

The Beauty Box
BY Helen Follett

Praise be to the brain that thought up cleansing tissues. Before they came along, a woman was afraid to die lest her relatives should find the horrible looking old cold cream towel that she used for the purpose of removing make-up. Nearly every woman had a sad looking rag of this character kicking round her dresser drawer or stuffed into her beauty kit. What could she do about it? Something had to be used to remove the sorry mixture of cleansing agent, atmospheric dust, powder and factory blushes. Now the neat little tissues do the work.

Don't let up on the daily use of a hand lotion. It will keep the mitts fit; when autumn comes they won't be faded and rusted. If freckles appear on the hands, dip cotton in peroxide and apply, or resort to lemon juice, that good old stand-by that serves so well. Don't overlook the knuckles when treating hands. A five-minute massage will keep them from looking worn and weather beaten.

Before applying soap to the hair when shampooing, give the old mop a first-class rinsing with the bath spray. This preliminary rite will remove much of the surface dust, so that when the melted soap is applied it will get down to brass tacks. There should be three rousing sudsings, each one followed by a prolonged rinsing.

There's no economy in wearing old shoes that have fallen out of shape. What one saves on footwear, one gives to the chiropodist. Shoes too large are as harmful to foot health as shoes that are too small. They give no support to the waist of the foot that is necessary if the bony formation is to remain strong and the muscles resilient.

Tubby ladies who have given up al hope of acquiring the string bean shape will do wel lto avoid narrow belts at the normal waistline. The lower the belt, the less is revealed the fact that the anatomy is not of the type that wins beauty prizes.

READERS' CONTRIBUTIONS

Readers have contributed the following recipes and hints for other readers to use and enjoy:

A reader: "My molasses raisin pie—In the top of a double boiler, over direct flame, put one cup of molasses, one cup of raisins (put through grinder, if large), one cup of water, one cup of granulated sugar and the juice and grated rind of one lemon; cook till warm, then stir in additional stir in one additional cup of water previously combined with three teaspoons of cornstarch powder. Also add a tablespoon of butter and then place the boiler-top over the lower part, to cook, over simmering water, till the mixture thickens. Stir often. When slightly cooled, put between two unbaked crusts. Slip the pie into a hot oven to bake about 30 minutes (no eggs needed in this pie filling). Another reader recently asked for this recipe."

Young reader: "Here is a small fancywork article, easy to make while sitting out on the porch in summer time, talking to friends—Button bag: Bind in any contrasting color the edges of an 18-inch square of pretty cretonne goods. At each corner sew a ring—I use white bone. Simply run a ribbon or cord thrbugh the rings, draw together, and the bag may be hung in any place where you are likely to go if you want to drop a button or snap into it. When you want to take out a button, lay the bag flat on a table, and sort over the various buttons, to select the one you want. Your friends will appreciate these bags as Christmas gifts next December—mine did, anyway; I made six of them last summer and gave them all away!"

Trouble dodger: "For years I fussed over padded kitchen potholders, trying to wash them out frequently, remove stains, etc. Then I thought up the scheme of making unbleached musin covers for them, to snap on over the original holders—and of course I can slip these covers off (as one side is open, save for the snaps) and wash the cover instead of the padded holder."

FERNIE, B. C., July 17—W. R. Wilson, president of the Crows Pass Coal company, suffered a heart attack and is at present seriously ill at his home in Vancouver.

Mr. NABOB'S ANNOUNCEMENT EXTRAORDINARY
Dollars Given Away!

Mr. Nabob has arrived in town with a suitcase full of crisp, new one dollar bills.

He says he has the most delightful job in Canada. All he has to do is call around various homes and give money away. He has nothing to sell. He does not take any orders. He just goes from door to door handing out those nice, new, one dollar crinkly bills. Yes, they are genuine . . . printed in the Canadian mint.

Of course Mr. Nabob does not give these bills at every home. If he happens to call at your home, he will ask you if you have a pound of Nabob Tea or Coffee in the house. If you can show him that you have a pound of either, he will present you with one of those snappy new bills, and if you happen to have a package of both Nabob Tea and Nabob Coffee, he will give you another one dollar bill to keep the first one company.

You should certainly have a pound of Nabob Tea and Coffee in your home next week. You'll enjoy them both, and then if Mr. Nabob should happen to call, he will be doubly welcome.

Mr. Nabob starts to work on Monday. He will continue giving his dollar bills away every day from Monday morning until Friday night. The names of those to whom he presents his dollar bills on Monday will appear in this paper on Tuesday. Watch the paper every day for the lucky ones.

Work to Make Trail Picnic a Success

Between 3500 and 4000 Trailites will invade Nelson on their first annual picnic conducted by the employees of the Trail smelter. They are coming by special train and auto on August 8.

Nelson has been done a great honor. This city is to act as host to thousands who are hodilay bent, and on the day after pay day in Trail.

In addition, the committee handling the big program has stipulated that everything used at the big affair must be purchased in Nelson. Nelson firms will supply food, ice cream, milk, candy, soda water and numerous other things. This will run into thousands and thousands of pounds of foodstuffs and dainties, and into many hundreds of dollars.

Nelsonites should be on their toes for the big day.

Now is the time to start planning, and for action to assure Trailites of a great day in Nelson. Already local men are busy formulating plans of welcome and greeting. There are many problems to be worked out, such as decorations, transportation, safety factors, etc. While the Trail men who are organizing this big event are doubly busy, Nelson must get to work at once. Let this be the first of many celebrations of this kind, one-day holiday for hundreds of other district people. Besides to Trailites, the day will prove an attractive For Nelson it will be a busy day, both for the visitors and for local business men.

Extinct Arts

The question how many arts there are was raised at a recent gathering of writers. Curiously, the debate was between two soldiers and a physician, literature being thus honored by the absence of its lights.

However, the right of literature to be considered an art was stoutly defended. The only doubt was where it stood in the scale of the arts, and how many arts there really are.

The physician who spoke fell back on an opinion of a Parisian. She held that it was perfectly easy to name the three arts which lead all the rest. They are, first, good cooking; second, good-talking; third, good love-making.

One of the literary folk present immediately lamented, audibly, that good cooking had passed from the picture when Puritanism came in. Whether it came back when Puritanism passed out, he did not venture to say. Perhaps he is one who believes Puritanism is still with us in some form or another.

As for good conversation, whatever there was left of it is being rapidly destroyed by bridge, golf, moving pictures and the radio. And even love-making is being displaced by the new science of eugenics, which undertakes to settle all affairs of the heart by formula and scientific law.

Atlantic Hops Too Routine Now

The airplane "Justice of Hungary" soared out over the Atlantic the other day on its way to Europe. Two French flyers attempting a Paris-Tokyo non-stop flight made a record trip before bailing out of their plane when something went wrong. Post and Gatty circled the globe in four flying days. Two Danish flyers landed in Denmark a week or so ago from New York. All are startling air achievements.

Post and Gatty's flight was a great achievement. They received a vociferous welcome at New York on their return. They received lots of front page space in the newspapers. But their flight was more or less taken as a matter of fact. Their escapade did not create near the excitement that Col. Charles Lindbergh, the Lone Eagle, made when he flew alone from this side to Paris.

The Lone Eagle retains his place in the imagination of his countrymen, and is not dethroned by newcomers who achieve a passing fame.

The fact is that the bloom is off the peach. People have been hopping about in planes so much and over such vast distances that a few thousand miles more or less makes little difference in the popular mind. Short of making contact with another planet, there is little left for the airmen if they wish to acquire a permanent place in the hall of fame. Much remains to be done in the perfection and development of air travel. But that is routine stuff with which romance is no more concerned than are the passengers in a train with the life story of the engineer at the throttle.

There will be a lot of necking in Grand Forks on Monday. It will be stiff necking, as the trans-Canada air pageant will perform there on that date. Nelsonites who rise early and keep their necks twisted skyward can at least get a glimpse of the planes passing on their way to Grand Forks. It is too bad planes need a landing field. How thrilling an air pageant would be for Nelsonites.

When a faulty electrical signboard went haywire on the London stock exchange the bank rate went up to 4 per cent and a near panic ensued. Case of stock exchange becoming short circuited as well as the board. Shocking occurrence.

New York is tendering a reception to the Danish flyers who recently crossed the Atlantic. Will Gotham ever get tired of feting these airmen? It's good business for paper companies and ticker tape manufacturers at that.

Chinese bandits capture an American teacher and threaten to hold him until he teaches them the English language. World speech is going English with a bang!

A Ney York court has ruled that the word "lousy" is not libelous. But it is troublesome and aggravating at times.

Trail police officer went off the road in his automobile recently. To whom will he report his accident?

Seen and Heard in NELSON

(By J. B. C.)

Seen on Nelson avenue—A fellow carrying a fish net. "Gee, Daddy, look at that man he's carrying a hook to catch butterflies," said my young hopeful.

* * *

Heard in the park—Jim Foulds declaring he had left his bathing suit at the coast but was going to buy another and wear it at Lakeside park even if he did not go in the water.

* * *

Noticed E. C. Wragge pull into the park float in his launch about the dinner hour. His daughter boarded it and they hit off up the lake.

* * *

Trouts before going into the lake for the first dip of the season—Wonder how cold water really is. Wade in up to knees and decide it is too cold. Get back onto hot sand and sit down. Contemplate braving water although it is cold. Try again, get in up to waist. Too darned cold. Retreat once more to sands and watch youngsters playing and young ladies diving and swimming about. Decide it were better to dive in head first and get wet all at once. Try water with toe and go out on float. Gaze at waves caused by wind. Get splashed by someone just pulling himself from water. Talk to swimming instructor. Learn that park boats were recently overhauled. Also learn that instructor quite busy and not had a swim himself all day.

* * *

Discuss water temperature for some time. Declare Ainsworth hot springs best water after all. Man from Trail claims Memorial hall pool more comfortable. Trail man after many starts gets into water. I approach edge of float. Decide have had enough swimming and start to leave float. Think that would be cowardly. Am threatened with a ducking by a young lady and saying "hang it all." I plunge in head first.

* * *

Woof! Half frozen and suffering from shortage of breath I swim back to the float and climb out. Nearly frozen to death I join the rest of the liars about the beach and tell someone just coming down for a dip that the water is "grand. Never warmer." Decide one dip is enough. Hit for clothing and a dry towel.

A campaign to elect a mayor who will be in duty bound to officiate wholly unclad at all functions will soon be in full swing on the island of Levant, just off the French Reviera between Toulon and Hyeres.

* * *

This isle is inhabited only by nudists, who have just obtained municipal autonomy for their community. Previously Levant was a municipal district of Hyeres, but henceforth it will govern itself and elect its own municipal officials.

* * *

Many candidates already are entered for the mayoralty race and pre-election promises are flying thick and fast in competition for the honor of being the first official in modern times to emulate the legendary emperor in the fairy tale who paraded among his subjects dressed in nothing but a broad smile.

* * *

Although many foreigners belong to this colony candidates for mayor must be Frenchmen.

There is little activity on the island outside farming as the inhabitants are mostly wealthy retired eccentrics in quest of health.

* * *

The above outlines a great chance for members of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect. Here is a place these people should feel right at home.

* * *

Depression and unemployment may be world-wide but has missed the town of Leland, Ill., completely. M. K. Madison, section foreman of the Burlington railroad, received an order instructing him to add two hands to his force. Madison spent the day and last night in a futile search for men seeking work. He wired his chief at Aurora: "Everybody in town employed. Kindly hire men elsewhere and send to me at once."

* * *

If you visit Chicago some time in the future, don't be surprised if the redcap at the railway terminal seizes your baggage and says:

"It is a pleasure and a distinction to welcome you to this wonderful city."

And don't wonder if the taxicab driver, whose vehicle you engage, turns to you and remarks:

"This is a great treat. Chicago is proud to have you in our midst."

Nor if a traffic policeman shouts, "Welcome, welcome to Chicago," as he gets the signal from the cabman that he is hauling a visitor to Chicago.

* * *

All of this and more, too, will be possible when George Gaw, Chicago's newly appointed official greeter, gets his plans into shape. He is going to put them in a textbook on politeness for use by cab drivers, bell boys, policemen and others.

* * *

Gaw outlined the major points of the textbook yesterday. Under them, the hotel doorman will say something like this when you approach: "Sir, in behalf of myself and constituents, I express the hope that your stay in Chicago will be most felicitous."

A jest's prosperity lies in the ear

Foster's Weekly Weather Bulletin

WASHINGTON, July 18— Storm waves of moderately severe force, expected to cross continent in central transcontinental storm path during weeks centering on 15 and 20, are both expected to be producers of a little below normal temperatures and increasing precipitation. This is expected to cause condition during period 17 to 24 to average a little below normal temperatures and precipitation for continent as a whole. While storms of this period are expected to be most severe of month and rainfall the heaviest of month, both storms and rainfall of this period are expected to be of the severe, local type. As before stated in these bulletins, severe, local storms cannot be forecasted to an area small enough to make it advisable to try to forecast their exact location far in advance. However, those who are out in the weather during this period, whether on a pleasure trip or daily business, should watch for danger signs and try to be near shelter; especially so if they are in what is sometimes called the cyclone belt, an area that extends from the Ozark mountains to the Great Lakes, the southern half of the Great Central valleys. In northern fields, this period will be one of the hail hazard periods of season. Severe, local storms, such as tornado, cyclone, electric storms such as the common thunder shower, hail storms, etc., are caused by conditions existing over a very small area; so far, long range forecasts can only say when such conditions are likely to occur with any degree of accuracy.

After cool wave centering on 23 has passed, temperatures are expected to work to higher levels and precipitation decrease generally over the continent; storm wave of moderate force, expected to center on 26, and mild storm wave, expected to center on 31, are both expected to be heat producers; while no material drop in average temperatures will be expected to follow storm center of 26, a decided cool wave will be expected to follow storm center of 31.

Cropweather features expected to occur during month of August will appear in next weekly bulletin. Moon phases that occur during the near future are as follows, given to nearest hour of Greenwich civil time; to change Greenwich civil time to your local standard time, count one hour earlier for each 15 degrees of longitude you are located west from Greenwich: First quarter July 22 at 5 hours; full moon 29 at 13 hours; last quarter August 6 at 16 hours; new moon 13 at 20 hours; first quarter 20 at 12 hours; full moon 28 at 3 hours; last yuarter Sept. 5 at 7 hours.

There is certainly some error in the Japanese report of a newly discovered planet. Such a large planet, with an orbit between those of Jupiter and Mars, could not be there long without discovery unless it had the same year as the earth. This would be almost among the impossible. Future investigation will straighten out the facts.

NUDE CULT IN GERMANY

"Nacktkultur" is in England an unfamiliar word; on the continent it is an accomplished fact. In Germany especially, the nude cult has reached extravagant dimensions. A writer in the Kansas City Star says that every large German city has its private park or colony to which tired typists, weary business men, school teachers of both sexes, as well as workers in factories, go in their leisure hours, throw off all their clothes and strive to find health in a frank return to nature.

Every street corner in Berlin has a stall for the sale of newspapers and magazines, and these magazines are nearly all devoted to the cult of the nude; but—and this the important distinction—not of the aphrodisiac nude in the Parisian sense.

The goddess of the Germans would seem to be not Venus but Hygeia, their ideal not love, but health.

That the German nacktkultur camps are run without impropriety seems certain, unless nudity itself be considered indecent. Even hostile observers have been driven to admit that they are not scenes of orgy; on the contrary the camps are filled by most earnest-minded young men and women who mingle together without any self-consciousness, but with a freedom and camaraderies unknown among those who wear clothes.

AN OLD CUSTOM FOR SCANDINAVIA

The impulse came no doubt from Scandinavia, where men and women have bathed together naked for many generations without shocking anyone but an occasional visitor. But the Germans with their passion for thoroughness have converted a personal preference or a national idiosyncrasy into an official campaign. If the government does not actually enjoin nudity on its subjects, it certainly does nothing to prevent it; it even encourages the devotees by granting them every facility.

In France the movement has been less successful and complete nudity is still forbidden; but little islands in the Seine have been given over to the practice of the cult in spite of the protests of the local inhabitants, and there is no doubt that it is spreading.

In England the nudist advance has been a timid affair. The few pioneers who have tried it have been persecuted and, worse still, laughed at.

After all there is nothing uncivilized about wearing no clothes. Nudity indeed is in the great tradition of European culture. The Greeks practiced it with enthusiasm. Their young athletes ran and wrestled naked, and women of all ages exercised their bodies with far less clothing than would be permited now by the most enlightened council of a seaside borough.

The opponents of nudism will reply, of course, that that is the whole point at issue. Have the young men and women who run naked through the German forests healthy minds? The apostles of the movement say that they have, much more healthy in fact than those of adolescents brought up on traditional lines.

ALCOCK-BROWNE RECORD UNBROKEN

With all the marvelling over the record flight of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty around the world in eight days and 15 hours, and despite the fact that 10 planes in all have crossed the Atlantic in non-stop flights, the record for the fastest crossing is still held by Sir John Alcock and Arthur W. Browne, the two English fliers who made the crossing in 1919.

Alcock and Browne made the flight in 16 hours, 12 minutes. The next nearest in point of time was the recent flight of Post and Gatty, who landed at Chester, near Liverpool, after being 17 hours and 17 minutes in the air.

Wilmer Stultz, Louis Gordon and Amelia Earhart, who landed in South Wales in a flight from Newfoundland in June, 1928, took 20 hours and 40 minutes.

All of the other fliers to make the crossing, Lindbergh, Chamberlain and Levine, Byrd, Fitchen, Acosta and Neville, Schlee and Brock, Assolant, Lefevre, Lotti and a stowaway, Williams and Yancy, Boyd and Connor, all took the longer jump from or to New York and Maine instead of from Newfoundland, making comparisons difficult.—Regina Star.

Auction and Contract Bridge

By the World's Leading Authority, MILTON C. WORK

A FINESSE THAT SHOULD BE POSTPONED

	♠ 8-2 ♥ J-8-5-2 ♦ A-Q-8-6-5 ♣ K-8
♠ K-10-6-5-3 ♥ A-6-3 ♦ 4-2 ♣ Q-10-3	NORTH WEST EAST Dealer SOUTH	♠ J-9-4 ♥ 10-9-4 ♦ K-9 ♣ J-9-7-5-2
	♠ A-Q-7 ♥ K-Q-7 ♦ J-10-7-3 ♣ A-6-4	H-27

The above hand was played at auction bridge and south's one no trump obtained the contract.

At contract south would have bid one no trump and north three no trumps; or possibly three diamonds and south three no trumps.

The bidding would be easy, but the play developed a situation which often arises and frequently is missed by good players. West led a small spade which south won with the queen. Diamonds being Declarer's longest suit, and the lead being in the right hand to finesse south led the jack, north played low, east won with the king and returned a spade. South held up until the next round and then ran four diamonds which gave him six tricks. He had in addition two sure club tricks and the king, queen and jack of hearts; so after winning one club he led a heart. West won, cashed two long spades, and saved game.

What obvious play did the declarer miss?

THE CORRECT PLAY

The Declarer should have seen that, playing as he did, game would be lost if the King of Diamonds was held by east, the ace of hearts by west, and west had led from a five-card Spade suit. These were three large "ifs" and it was not probable that all would work out to the Declarer's disadvantage; but why take a chance? By leading a heart to trick two. Declarer must make game even with the most unfavorable distribution of the adverse cards.

The hand should be played as follows: Trick two, king of hearts from closed hand to assure at least two heart tricks if overtaken. With the ace of hearts played, south can hold up the ace of spades until the third round and then finesse diamonds; if east has a king, he will have no spade to lead unless originally there were four spades in each adverse hand.

Should west refuse to win trick two with the ace of hearts, declarer then can finesse diamonds; at the worst he must win two spades, one heart, four diamonds and two clubs.

WANTED: MORE PRINCES

The Prince of Wales has been described as Great Britain's best commercial traveler. He has returned from South America rightly confident that he has travelled enough, experienced enough, and observed enough to be entitled to speak frankly to the British business man. He was not ashamed of hustling during this business trip among the South American republics. Most of his overland journeys were made by airplane. Wherever he went he made personal contacts, and talked to captains of industry as man to man. He had learned the language and he studied sympathetically the ways of the people.

Having advertised Great Britain in Latin America, he has now returned to advertise better business methods to his fellow business men at home. In his speech to a large business audience at Manchester the Prince did not talk futilities; he did not say what governments should do to stimulate trade. He was content to talk about what industrialists and commercial men could do for themselves. In effect, his plea was for more imagination in business, more study of human nature, more consideration of what appeals to customers and makes them willing buyers.

He assumed that there is just as much thoroughness and skill in production in British industry as there has ever been and that there is still the same capacity to produce the highest quality of goods. But he reminded his audience that in these days of competition cheaper goods are wanted—goods that are deliberately made to last a short time, so that they can be replaced by toher goods. He spoke of the modern desire for variety, of the taste, especially in Latin countries, for color and brightness. He urged on his audience the necessity of more personal contacts—heads of businesses talking to heads of businesses—of knowing the languages, of spreading the news, of advertising—advertising as Americans advertise on Broadway and wherever ese they see a chance of a market.

The Prince approaches the rather conservative British business men in the best advertising manner. The British trader may be rather slow in learning a new lesson, but when he does learn a lesson, he learns it thoroughly. He is in the mood to remark today that 10,000 energetic men built in the pattern of the Prince of Wales ought to be sent out forthwith on British errands round the world.—Christian Science Monitor.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By JAMES W. BARTON

INJURY TO INNER SIDE OF KNEE

You read from time to time about athletes who have what is called a "trick knee." This consists in the majority of cases of a little tearing of the cartilage or cushion that is situated between the two bones that form the knee joint.

Owing to the fact that the upper bone runs inward from the thigh to the knee and the lower bone runs a little outward from the knee to ankle, the inner ligament at the knee holding the two bones together gets a tremendous strain upon it, and so in over 80 per cent of the cases of knee injury this ligament gets torn and stretched; sometimes the cartilage comes out of place and it gets a slight tear or tears in it.

Usually the cartilage slips back into place and the ligament heals up, but often the slightest blow on the inner side of the foot will stretch the ligament holding the bones together and the cartilage between the bones will slip out of place. Fortunately in the majority of cases it slips right back again, but the inner side of the knee keeps sore and weak for some time.

When the cartilage slips out of place and stays out it is usually wise to have an anaesthetic given which loosens up muscles and the cartilage can be put back into place.

However, in most cases of this injury to the knee, if immediate rest and support is given, relief is soon attained.

The first treatment is to apply about six one-inch strips of adhesive tape from the knee cap in front around the sore spot on the knee to the back of the knee. Have the knee straight as this is done. This taping should be removed in four or five days, and a fresh one applied. When the second one is removed, the knee should be supported by a factory cotton bandage or a firm elastic bandage for at least one month.

If the injury occurs again it would be wise to have a palster cast put on and worn for five weeks. This allows the individual to get around all right but of course the knee is prevented from bending.

Sometimes this fails to effect a complete cure, and an operation is necessary. This operation formerly gave very unsatisfactory results in a number of cases, but fortunately now a complete cure is obtained in 80 per cent, and an improvement in another 10 per cent of the cases.

The universe is said to be running down. It may be, but I believe at the same time there is something which keeps constantly winding it up.—Sir Oliver Lodge.

KING'S CUP IS STRENUOUS TEST

Thousand Miles of Zig-Zagging Back and Forth Called for in Classic

LONDON, July 17. Written for the Canadian Press by L. H. Cade)—On Saturday, July 25, the 1000 miles air race for the Wing's Cup takes place around England. We are fast becoming airminded; the miracle of yesteryear has come to be commonplace. Our children, gazing into the skies, proclaim the make and type of flying machine which by their very appearince would have frightened our grandfathers. And so the King's Cup air race has become to be an anual sporting event and we are inclined to forget the romance, the magic of it all.

A hundred years ago when railways were in their infancy such a journey as that to be taken by the King's cup competitor would have been popular by stage coach only and it would have taken weeks. Next Saturday it will be done in hours.

For the first time a Canadian is entered in the British air classic, which is limited to the King's subjects and to pilots and crafts of the British Empire. He is John C. Webster, sportsman and aviator of Montreal, with a Rambler plane equipped with a Gipsy III engine. Royal Air Force pilots are eligible and they will compete against private owners airmen and women. Miss Winnifred Brown, who last year was the first woman to win the race, is again competing along with Mrs. Victor Bruce and the Schneider Cup pilot, Flight-Lieutenant R. L. R. Atcherley. Miss Brown is also an international ice hockey player and keep goal for Lancashire at field hockey. She flies to her hockey matches and thinks no more of it than other spartswomen who motor to their playing fields.

OUTSKIRTS OF LONDON

The start and finish of the race takes place at Heston aerodome on the outskirts of London, aerial acrobats and flying exhibitions filling in the the interim for the spectators at the home aerodome until the winning plane races home.

The start is made at seven o'clock in the morning from Heston aerodrome. Within half an hour the flight is over the white cliffs of the South coast, turning at Shoreham for a coastwise trip to Bristol. Then a bee line is made back to London, where the route turns to the northwest for Leicester, in the very center of England. Eastward with Norwich as the objective and here, after a flight of nearly 400 miles, the fliers come down at the first control.

After a compulsory stop of 40 minutes, competitors go back to Nottingham, turning again to the northeast for Brough and Sherburn, near Leeds, here another landing is made after a relatively short hop of about 180 miles. Now the flight turns south to Birmingham, north again over Lancashire, taking a dog-leg course to Hooton, hard by Historic Chester and the sea. This completes over 800 miles and is the last control. There remains only the 200 miles swoop right across the country, down from the manufacturing Midlands to the Lovely Childrens, and so back to Heston. Journey's End after a thousand miles of flying over infinitely varied scenery.

GALLOPS HOME WITH BALL UNDER ARM

BY AL DEMAREE

The late "Germany" Schaefer, Nick Altrock's old sidekick was the only man I ever knew to steal first base in a major league game.

Schaefer pulled this play in a game between the Senators and the White Sox. Germany was trying to draw a throw to second with Clyde Milan on third base, but the catcher refused to throw and Schaefer found himself on second and Milan still on third. So he promptly stole first on the next pitched ball. A rule was passed later making the play illegal.

Hans Wagner, the "Flying Dutchman" and the greatest short stop who ever lived, pulled a fast one in Pittsburgh one day. Going from first to third on a single from right field, the ball was relayed in, and during the play at third base became lodged under his arm. Hans said nothing, but after stalling and making several false starts to the plate, finally galloped in and walked to the bench. Bill Byron was umpiring and to this day does not know where the ball disappeared.

He finally ended up by looking under the third base for it.

HONORS EVEN IN TENNIS PLAYOFF

Austin Beats Wood; Shields Beats Perry in Davis Cup Zone Play

PARIS, July 17 (AP)—Honors were even today at the end of the first pair of singles matches in the ennis battle between England and the United States for the right to challenge France for the Davis cup.

Henry (Bunny) Austin, England's blonde young stylist, defeated Sydney Wood, his American counterpart, 2-6, 6-0, 8-6, 7-5. Strapping Frank Shields beat England's big fellow Fred Perry, in the second battle of the youngsters, 10-8, 6-4, 6-2.

Thus the final result of the American and European interzone play will not be known until Sunday when today's oppenents will be reversed for the final pair of singles. Victory either way in the doubles match tomorrow, however, may all but clinch the right to meet the injury-handicapped French for the historic trophy next week.

The crowd was distinctly partisan toward the English.

Wood and Austin were like a couple of lightweight boxers, each a supreme stylist, each a deft and graceful shot maker. Austin's steady flow of perfectly-produced ground strokes and accuracy carried him to victory with one great sweep after Wood had grabbed the first set.

HEAVYWEIGHTS TAKE OVER

Then, the heavyweights took over the arena. The delicate thrust and counter of Wood and Austin, gave way to the pounding blows of Perry and Shields. The feature of the match was in the great way the American boy recovered from the disadvantage in the games in the first set to make it 10-8.

Dashing Perry with his merry grin had raced into a big lead, but he could not maintain the pace, while Shields was making errors. His reserve power and fine strokes, particularly his backhand, saved him in the first set.

The other two sets were not particularly interesting. Something of Perry's boyish exuberance disappeared after the first set and the contest dragged along toward a result that seemed inevitable after the American's fine comeback.

Wood and Austin started on a damp court and slipped and slid through the first few games, Wood being the better acrobat. He captured the first set without a lapse, then it was the Englishman's turn to take the offensive and he took it with a vengeance.

TRAIL NOT TO USE ALL SPOKANE STARS; PLAN TO PLAY AS MANY OF LOCAL PLAYERS AS IS POSSIBLE

McKain, Snyder and Christenson to Play Sunday Game

Olson Declares Nelson Never Planned Outside Aid; Usual Lineup

TRAIL, B. C., July 17—Trail will not take a "packed" team to Nelson Sunday for its scheduled International league game with the league leaders.

This announcement was made today by Trail Baseball club officials after publication of interviews with Nelson officials in which they stated they expected Trail would drop its home players and use imported ones Sunday.

It was explained today that Trail was prepared to meet challenge for challenge when it went to Nelson and that when Trail officials learned that Nelson was "packing" its team in preparation for Sunday's game, they took steps to present a stronger lineup.

Trail was informed that Nelson had registered Gosselman, rated the best pitcher in the Idaho-Washington league, Ray Flaherty, whore-acted the major leagues via Boston Braves last year, and Paul Teeters, a star in his own firmament.

Local officials immediately registered several Spokane stars and prepared to meet Nelson on equal terms.

But when it was learned that Nelson had not registered Gosselman, Flaherty and Teeters, Trail immediately released its unneeded players and prepared to take a team of regulars to Nelson Sunday.

Trail is forced, however, to depend on outside talent in part, as it has been in the two last league games. "Mystery" DiPasquale has withdrawn from the team, leaving Trail without a first baseman. Leo Fletcher, who with Louis Demore comprised the pitching staff at the opening of the league, has been unable to play because of an injury sustained when Trail played at home. This left the team with only Louis for pitcher, and he was unable to cross the boundary line for games with Washington league teams. Christeson and Snyder were recruited to give Trail a bolanced pitching staff, and McKain to fill the hole on first base.

ACT FOR FANS

This action was taken solely to strengthen the Trail team so that fans, who have given wonderful support this year, should not be disappointed. Trail has directed no attack against Nelson or any other particular league team, but has sought to play good ball to justify the support that has been given.

The Trail team has made a point this year of bringing local youngsters into the game, and has made greater progress along this line than any local organization in a good many years. The young players have worked out with the team every day have gone on all trips, and have been put on the field at every opportunity.

In addition to these places which had to be filled, Trail has had two regulars on holiday—Morris and Decembrini. Local boys stepped into these vacancies and filled them creditably.

Trail has, in fact, used local men on every possible opportunity — Christeson and Snyder served only as auxiliary pitchers and the remainder of the team consisted wholly of local talent. Christeson pitcher one league game in Trail to relieve Demore, and half of last Sunday's game at Chewelah, Snyder completing the game. Demore was unable to go with the team.

Olson said last night that Nelson would not take a "packed" team to Trail Sunday. Olson said Nelson officials had been informed that Trail would use its home players and use imported ones Sunday.

When questioned regarding a Trail report that Nelson was packing its team by the use of Gosselman, Feeters and Flaherty of Spokane, Mr. Olson, Nelson manager, laughed.

"We will play our own team and always have intended to do so. At no time have we tried to get additional support by using Spokane men or attempting to get them to bolster up our team. Trail says they secured Spokane men because Nelson was using Gosselman, Flaherty and Teeters. Why did not Trail get in touch with L. G. Keller, president of the league at Colville? He could have told Trail if Nelson had Spokane or any other men registered. Sunday we will play the identical team that has won in recent games and we intend to win, too.

"Trail has misconstrued the meaning of my statement Thursday night. I refer to the statement that Nelson intend to win no matter if Trail presented a packed team. Trail has interpreted this statement that we would win through our umpire. That is a lot of rot. We will try to win by playing bangup baseball, no matter who umpires.

"I would like to state," said Mr. Olson last night, "that Nelson does not want to enter into any baseball controversy. We wish to play ball for baseball's sake in a sporting manner and we are out to win Sunday's game if at all possible. We mean to win by outgeneralling and outplaying Trail. If we are beaten we will not squawk.

Nelson will in all likelihood line up as follows tomorrow: Richardson, catcher; Kraft, pitcher; Gillette, first; Wallace, second; Keiver, short; Jeffs, third; Schumaker, Harrison Horswill and Arcure, field. Vance and Olson utility.

SIX CANADIAN MARKSMEN REACH THE FINAL STAGE OF KING'S CUP SHOOT

Sergt.-Maj. G.M. Emsley Is Leader, Canadians With 243 Points

BISLEY CAMP, Surrey, July 17 (By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press staff correspondent)—Canada's hopes for another victory in the King's prize depend on six marksmen who have succeeded in reaching tomorrow's final stage.

"The King's Hundred", survivors of the gruelling test that began on Wednesday when nearly 1000 experts, including four women, entered the first stage are called upon for the stiffest ordeal of the series tomorrow. Fifteen shots at 900 yards and another 15 at 1000 yards comprise the final stage. Scores are added to those in today's second stage to determine the results.

One of England's best marksmen, Sergt. A. G. Fulton, won the silver medal in the second stage today with a score of 145 out of a possible 150. Sergt. Fulton won the King's prize in 1912 and 1926.

The two other gold medallists in the final tomorrow are Miss Marjorie E. Foster, of Bisley, who last year was the first woman ever to win the King's prize, and Lieut. Desmond Burke, of Ottawa, winner of the 1924, runner-up in 1927 and 1929. His 37 was just enough to qualify.

Canada is well represented, although she has not had so few as six finalists in the past, three years. Company-Sergeant-Major G. M. Emsley, of Toronto, leads the Canadians with 143, only two points below the British score. Reg. Quartermaster-Sergt. C. Moore, of Saint John, with 141, a brilliant young marksman, achieved the final on his first visit to Bisley. Captain J. T. Steele, of Guleph, Ont., with 140, is a veteran who was shooting at Bisley before the war and reached the final once before, in 1921. Sergt. C. W. Foam, of Montreal, a young man who was born in England, goes into the final with 140. He has been there twice before.

Major F. Richardson, of Victoria, British Columbia, 138, found his way into the "King's Hundred" 26 years ago and has been among the finalists three times since.

BURKE IN FINALS

Last, but not least, is Lieut. Desmond Burke, of Ottawa, the youthful rifleman who won the acclaim of the whole empire when he won the King's prize in 1924 at the age of 19. Lieut. Burke, who scored 137 today and therefore has a handicap of eight points, has been prominent at Bisley ever since. Burke is in the final for the sixth time.

Only four men were better than Emsley today—Fulton, with his 145, and Sgt.-Major Kerr, Hythe Musketry school, Lieut. R. N. Barber, Notts and Derby regiment, and Captain Anderson, of the Indian army, each with 144. Emsley's 143 was equalled by Warrant Officer Russell, of Portsmouth.

Sgt. J. H. Regan, of Victoria, British Columbia winner of the bronze medal for highest score in the first stage, was one of the six Canadians losing out when scores of 137 were necessary to qualify, although marksmen with 136 had a chance to fight for a few remaining places.

Besides Regan, the Canadians failing to progress to the final were Corp. E. K. Bird, of Regina, with 135! Lt. A. Fincham, of Toronto, with 135; Sgt. J. H. Gray, of Toronto, with 135; Major T. Spittal, of Montreal, with 135; Sgt. J. Ward, of Sunnybrae, N. B., with 132. Regan had 131.

YOUNGSTERS GO TO FINALS OF WESTERN GOLF

Moe Takes Measure of Defending Champion, Lehman; MacNaughton Wins

PORTLAND GOLF CLUB, Portlant, July 17 (By Frank Gorrie, Associated Press sports writer)—Tripping up the defending champion, and nosing out a veteran of international fame, two Portland youngsters, Don Moe and Malcolm MacNaughton, today entered the finals of the western amateur golf tournament.

Moe gained revenge for his defeat in the semifinals of the western last year when he took the measure of Johnny Lehman, Chicago, defending titlist, 4 and 3, and MacNaughton conquered Dr. O. F. Willing, runner-up in the national amateur in 1929 and a former member of the American Walker cup team, 2 and 1.

In the last two tournaments the champion has emerged from the matches between Moe and Lehman. Last year the Chicagoan defeated the Portlander in the quarter-finals and went on to win the title, and two years ago Moe downed Lehman in the semifinals and marched on to victory. The match last year went an extra hole.

Twenty Grand to Go After Arlington Race

ARLINGTON PARK, Ill., July 17—(AP)—Twenty Grand will go after 73 "grand" tomorrow, with the prospect that he will run away from his small, yet highly selected field.

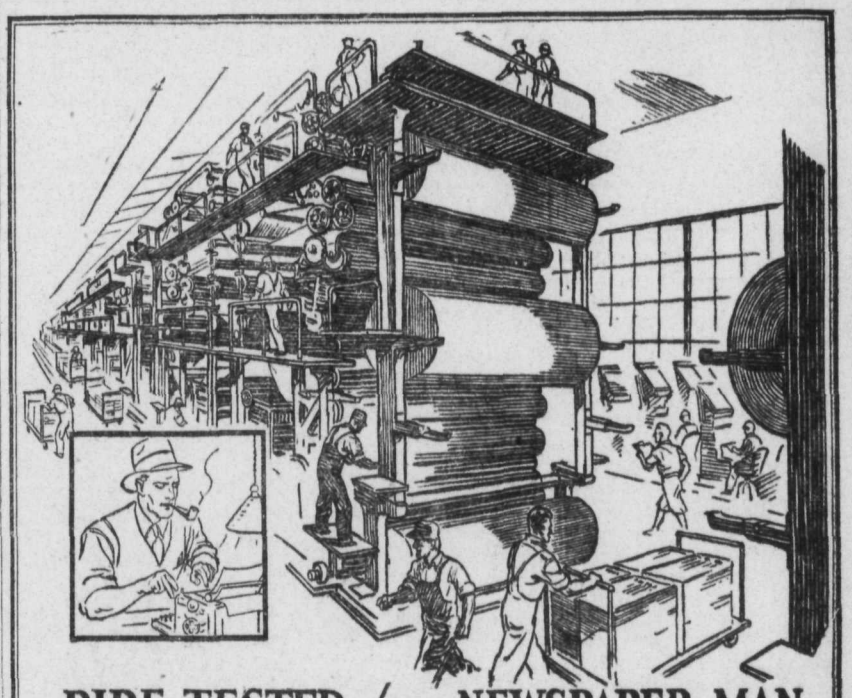
The horse that in succession won the Wood Memorial stake, the Kentucky derby, the Belmont and Dwyer stakes, earning $134,195 to rank him as the leading money winner of the season, will go to the post in the $70,000 added Arlington classic an overwhelming favorite to defeat six others that will be sent against him.

The race, at a mile and a quarter, is the richest three-year-old stake in the world and promises to attract a crowd upward of 60,000.

The gross value of the race, with seven starters, will be $86,200. If Twenty Grand is triumphant, he will earn $73,650 for Mrs. Payne Whitney, owner of the Greentree stable, and crinch the three-year-old championship of America.

ROBSON, B. C., July 17.—The annual meeting of the Robson school district was held Saturday. W. T. Webster was in the chair. Owing to the school now being an assisted school, the assessment for the coming year was placed at $600.

Mrs. T. J. Norman was elected trustee for the coming three years, in place of the retiring trustee, Mrs. Foxlee.



PIPE TESTED by a NEWSPAPER MAN

"I am a newspaper man and, like the majority of the boys, I smoke Turret pipe tobacco. Why shouldn't I? With a story to catch the street editions, barely a few minutes to go till 'deadline', there's no time to fuss with a pipe . . . and with Turret pipe tobacco one match is enough for the pipeful. It gives a cool inspiring smoke, that helps a speeding brain put punch in a story, and steady pipe enjoyment down to the last tiny golden thread . . . I like that about Turret pipe tobacco; also, it is as economical as it is popular.

15c. and 20c. packages —also in ½-pound screw-top tins.

DAVID THOMPSON TO BE HONORED, GREAT EXPLORER

Made First Accurate Map of the West; Cairns Erected

JASPER PARK, Alberta, July 17. (CP)—Arrangements are being made to have the memorials erected last year in Jasper National Park, to commemorate the public services of David Thompson and to mark the site of Henry House, unveiled with suitable ceremonies July 29. Judge F. W. Howay of New Westminster, B. C., Western Canada representative on the historic sites and monuments board, will deliver an address on this occasion.

ERECT CAIRN

The cairn erected in memory of David Thompson, stands on Old Fort Point which is situated at the east end of the Athabasca bridge on the road leading from the town of Jasper to Jasper Park Lodge and Maligne Canyon. The tablet placed on the cairn bears the following inscription:

The Discoverer of Athabasca Pass.

"In mid-winter 1810-11 David Thompson of the North West Company, with ten companions discovered and travelled through this pass to the Columbia river. It immediately became the regular route across the mountains and so continued until the advent of railway communication.

PREPARE MAP

"To David Thompson Canada owes the first accurately prepared map of the great west, embodying the results of his surveys and explorations from 1789 to 1812."

The other cairn, which marks the site of Henry House, established by the North West company in 1811, is located along the same road about 400 or 500 yards from the east end of the Athabasca bridge. This cairn also carries a tablet bearing the following inscriptioon:

"Henry House.

"Founded in 1811 by the North West company, after the discovery of the Athabasca Pass and its adoption in 1812, as the regular trade route to and from the Columbia, this post became and remained for about 20 years, an important point in the transportation system of the North West company and later of the Hudson's Bay company.

"Here began the difficult land passage across the Rocky mountains."

CHICAGO CORN PRICES DOWN

Promise of Rain Relief and Cooler Temperatures Batter Prices

CHICAGO, Ill., July 17.—bBy John P. Boughan, Associated Press market editor)—Promise of rain relief and of cooler temperatures knocked down corn prices today. Wheat was weakened by reports of increased offerings from Russia and by hedging in connection with enlarged shipments to Chicago, as well as by a halt in North American export demand. A statement from the United States department of agriculture said world wheat conditions pointed to another year of very low prices. Corn closed unsteady, 1¼ to 1½ cents lower; wheat unchanged to ½ off; oats ¼ to ½ decline, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents advance.

Among the oils Crow's Nest showed some activity in the afternoon when there was a turnover of 3000 at six cents. Model and United were also active. The former lost half a point in a 1700-share turnover to close at 13. United gained ¾ to close at 13.

CANADIAN TRADE REPORTS HAVE A STRONGER TONE

OTTAWA, July 17 (CP)—Favorable indications of Canadian trade are listed in a department of trade and commerce statement today as follows:

Decrease in the number of commercial failures during May.

Increased production of butter and cheese revealed in larger cold storage holdings.

On the other side of the picture, government statistics issued during the past week disclosed a considerable reduction in the value of building permits taken out in urban centers and lower production of steel ingots and castings.

FOUR CARS OF B. C. POTATOES ROLL, WINNIPEG

Yakima Transparents Barred at Coast Owing Presence of Codling Moth

VICTORIA, B. C., July 17—Fine weather has replaced clouds and rain of the past few days. Some local transparent apples are on the market at $1.50 per crate. A shipment of Yakima Transparent apples was returned owing to codling moth infection, says the market news letter, department of agriculture, Victoria. Raspberries are rather soft and range in price from $2 to $2.50 per crate wholesale. Loganberries are plentiful and sell from 90c to $1.25 per crate. Okanagan is supplying the market with cherries and apricots will arrive from there about Monday next. A mixed car of peaches, pears and plums arrived yesterday from California. Local cabbage, cauliflower and peas are scare. Beans are just coming in and Olivett cherries are expected next week.

Advice from prairie points suggests that Ontario Montmorency cherries are filling the need of Manitoba and selling at 85c per six-quart basket. This works out at $1.70 per crate. Vancouver Island has five or six cars of Olivett and Morello cherries to move and it may be necessary to meet this price to move them.

Winnipeg: Weather is warm and unsettled. Four cars of mixed loganberries and raspberries arrived in good condition and selling at $2.50. Two cars of Ontario Montmorency cherries arrived in good condition and selling at 85c to 90c per six-quarts. A car of head lettuce from the coast arrived here and is poor leafy stock, practically unsaleable, in competition with the high quality of local product. Importations include two cars of California Bartlett pears, C. grade, which sell at $3.50 to $4; two cars, 50-pound hampers, of Illinois Transparent apples at $2.50 and one car of California Crawford peaches selling at $1.85. Manitoba grown bunch vegetables and head lettuce are taking care of the demand now with cabbage coming in larger quantities every day.

POTATO CONDITIONS SOUTH OF THE LINE

Yakima valley reports a free movement of new potatoes to eastern markets. Some of the potatoes moved on a consignment basis. The market tone has improved during the last few days and sales have been made f.o.b. at $15 to $17 per ton. Dealers in Seattle are quoting $1.25 to $1.50 per 100 pounds to the retail trade.

SECURITIES AT NEW YORK ARE IN RELAXATION

Stocks Go Much Higher; But One Soft Spot in Bonds, Chilean

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP)—The security markets relaxed today, awaiting the results of the diplomatic conferences at Paris and London.

Stocks were higher much of the day, while the only important soft spot in bonds was provided by the Chileans.

With German affairs calling for less immediate concern, share traders took things easy and the turnover dropped to just under 1,300,000. There was a rally in the morning and another in the afternoon, but the market lost its zest each time. The second advance encountered some profit taking, which resulted in net losses in a few prominent stocks, although others maintained enough of their advances to effect a rise of a point in the composite. Rails were strong and held up well.

Revival of the Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck rumor, which has been appearing intermittently, found both stocks responsive.

RAIL ISSUES RISE

Several rail issues rose a couple of points or more, including New York Central, Atchison, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Rock Island and Norfolk and Western. Industrials were mostly firm, although U. S. Steel closed half a point lower after making an extreme gain of 1¾. There were fractional net advances in numerous other favorites.

Foreign exchanges were comparatively quiet. Sterling dipped well under the theoretical gold point and France francs again gave ground, but the Dutch guilder rallied to a new 1931 high. Swiss, Swedish and Italian currencies were also strong.

Trading on the bond market was unusually restricted today sales aggregating $8,011,000, the smallest turnover for a full session since May 4, when the total was $6,891,000.

Closing prices were higher although at times the movements of some groups were not definite. The average price of 30 representative issues consisting of 10 bonds each of railroad public utility and industrial obligations was 95.5 compared with 95.2 yesterday.

German loans made further gains during the forenoon but lost most of them in the early afternoon before a late rally pushed them higher than yesterday's finals. The 5½ per cent issue of National government made a net fractional gain and the 7s of 1942 jumped 2 points.

Other German loans closed irregularly higher. Other foreign issues were also generally higher.

Moss, its sales amounting to 21,425 shares, advanced a fraction to .37. Noranda closed higher at $19, up .25 net, while Abana and Mining Corporation remained unchanged.

On a wider list sales were expanded approximately 3500 shares.

MONTREAL SALES DROP A LITTLE

B. C. Power and Smelters Among Issue Making Slight Gains in Session

MONTREAL, July 17—Sales volume showed a further small reduction on the stock exchange today, and stocks moved very irregularly. Such stocks as Nickel, Power, Brazilian and Shawinigan showed small losses, but counter-balancing these were gains by Bridge, Power Corporation, Steel of Canada, British Columbia Power and Smelters which last closed at 99; up four points on the day.

Final prices included: British Columbia Power, ¾ higher at 36¾; Canadian Pacific, off ¼ at 26½; Brazilian was off ¾ net at 20½.

Total sales were 10,991 shares.

TREAT CHERRIES WITH OZONE THEN SHIP TO PRAIRIE

Refrigerator Expert Making Tests on Vancouver Island

VICTORIA, July 17—Victoria district cherry growers will pick Morello cherries and Olivetts to load a car for Saskatchewan, G. Clingan, the Dominion refrigeration expert, will supervise the loading and application of ozone, says the market news letter, department of agriculture, Victoria. This treatment has been found successful in preventing mould in transit on cherries shipped from Idaho orchards and the experiment here will be watched with interest.

Poultry breeders are marketing cull fowls, both young and mature, steadily in the evident benefit of the market and themselves.

VANCOUVER—Dull weather has prevailed over the week end. Local green apples are coming in sufficient quantity to make further imports from Washington unnecessary. A straight carlot of Yellow Transparent and Duchess apples arrived from that source at the week end. The berry market in all lines is unchanged. The heavy end of this business does not show in the regular channels, the bulk of the movement being through Chinese dealers to the consumer. The new potato deal is badly disorganized, as low as $12 per ton being accepted by the grower, sacked and delivered Vancouver. There are simply too many potatoes offered for the market to consume.

What Shall I Give Them to Eat?

THREE meals a day—365 days in a year—what a lot of meals to plan—to cook—to serve!

And that isn't all of it. You have to buy food for those meals. Meat. Groceries. Vegetables. Fruits.

A big job! Not only does it take careful buying to keep within your food budget, but ingenuity to vary your means so that they are nourishing, yet free from monotony.

However, you can simplify this feeding job by reading the advertisemtns that feature food products. In these times, food advertisements are most complete in information regarding the price of the product, its quality, its health value and its uses. Often the reading of the one advertisement can furnish you with ideas—not only for dinner tonight, but for your breakfast tomorrow, and luncheon the day after.

How often you say: "What shall I give them to eat?"

Read the advertisements and you'll find the answer.
