xygen Cylinder at Consolidated Plant Is Cause of Deaths

ygen Cylinder Goes Through Roof of Boiler Shop Killing Nick Verzuh and Lysle Baldock

AUSE OF ACCIDENT SEEMS MYSTERY; JURY GIVES VERDICT

en Killed Were Filling Tanks When Explosion Occurred; Driving Pressure of Explosion 15 Tons

"Nick Verzuh and Lysle Baldock came to their death between 9 and 9:30 a. m. on Wednesday, July 31, 1929, caused by the accidental explosion of an oxygen cylinder in the boiler shop of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company at Tadanac.

"We, the jury, recmomend that these containers be inspected at regular intervals."

This was the verdict rendered by a jury this afternoon investigating the accident in which Nick Verzuh, 25, Trail, and Lysle Baldock, 22, formerly of Penticton, were fatally injured this morning.

A third man, Hugh Palmer, received cuts on the back and head but was not hurt seriously enough to go to hospital. Verzuh died in the Trail-Tadanac hospital soon after he was admitted, and Baldock died before 11 o'clock.

TANK SMASHES ROOF

The terrific force of the explosion can be judged by the distance from the scene the gas container landed. It must have attained a height of from 200 to 300 feet for in its descent it pierced the roof of the wash house and landed on the floor of the top story of the building, demlishing two toilets. The roof of the wash house, through which the container crashed, is constructed of two-by-fours laid on edge.

LEAVE FAMILIES

Nick Verzuh, a Trail youth, leaves his mother, three sisters and two brothers. His sisters are Mrs. Henry Svoboda of Spokane, and Ann and Helen of Trail. The brothers are Frank and Mike, both of Trail.

Verzuh was a baseball and hockey player and was well known and popular.

Baldock was the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Baldock of Penticton. He leaves also a brother, who has been ill for some time following a severe attack of pneumonia, and two or three sisters. It is not known whether his father is living.

BOTH APPRENTICES

In a boiler shop at the Consolidated reduction works in June, 1922. He had recently been acting as subforeman in the acetylene burners department during the absence of the regular foreman.

Baldock was apprenticed in the boiler shop September 13, 1926. Both were well known and popular in the city and in the Consolidated plant.

SMOKING

Alexander T. Smith who was standing within four or five feet of the dead men at the time of the explosion, did give no theory to the coroner's jury as to the cause of the accident, nor of the men had been smoking. He saw no flash of fire or anything of this nature. With Verzuh and Baldock he was filling the tanks for the day. He did not remember Verzuh opening the valve to fill the tank. When the tank was connected to the supply tank a slight crack like a bubble bursting was heard. It seemed to come from the connecting hose. The men looked at the tank and it blew up. H. Palmer, boiler shop foreman, testified it was part of Verzuh's work to fill the gas tanks and of the men Baldock had been helping him.

WORK ON TANK

When Mr. Palmer passed through the room a minute or two before the explosion Verzuh was standing over the tank, either connecting or dis-connect-

Nelson is Not Likely to Hold Annual Fair; Will be Dealt With by Board

"It looks as if it is all off with our fair this year," so stated J. A. Irving, last night as he watched the smouldering embers of the fair building emit clouds of smoke. Mr. Irving is a pioneer director of the Nelson Agricultural Association.

"It will be a great blow," he added, "we have not the facilities to show this year with the building gone."

Mr. Irving stated that the association had just completed arrangements for the fair attractions. Conklin & Garrett's shows had been lined up. Free acts were arranged and a balloonist had been signed up. These of course can all be cancelled he stated. Any action however must come before the fair association.

"It seems odd that we are in the same fix as New Westminster," stated Mr. Irving.

JAKE FAY SUFFERS SERIOUS FRACTURE OF HIS RIGHT LEG

Was Caught in Loop of Fire Hose on Vernon Street; Is Now at Hospital

When his right leg became entangled in the loop of a large hose being connected with a hydrant on Vernon street, last night Jake Fay, an employee of the Nelson Iron Works, received a compound fracture between his ankle and knee.

Fay was endeavoring to assist in dragging the hose along when his leg was caught at the ankle and wrenched with such terrific force that the bone snapped.

The injured man fell to the street where he lay writhing in pain until he was picked up by willing hands and rushed to the hospital where he was attended by Dr. H. H. McKenzie.

PREPARE FOR RED ROITING

European Cities Armed Camps as Soviet Birthday Approaches

Police of European cities and in some instances large bodies of troops, were massing last night in preparation for the August 1, communist celebration of the birth of the Soviet republic. A owrld wide call to communists to make a show of strength today in honor of the date and also as a protest against the Chinese attitude towards Russia was sent out sometime ago from Moscow.

Paris was turned into an armed camp and Berlin, Brussels, Stockholm, London and other northern European capitals erew prepared for possible rioting.

At Buda Pest, Bela Kun, communist leader, was arrested together with a number of other leaders of the party the arrests being part of the precautions taken by the authorities. Southern Europe, especially the Balkans, showed the most threatening situation.

GRAF ZEPPELIN STARTS FLIGHT FOR THE STATES

Takes Air and Disappears from German Air Field; Stowaway On Board

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, GERMANY, Aug. 1.—The Dirigible Graf Zeppelin took off on her flight to the United States at 3.29 a. m. today.

The big ship got away one minute ahead of her schedule which had been for 3:30 a. m. (9:30 p. m. Wednesday E. S. time). She described one circle over Friedrichshafen, then rapidly disappeared into the west, her new motors taking the place of those which had failed on the last previous attempt to reach America, making a steady hum.

As the ship was dragged from the hanger a stowaway was seen to jump a beam to the top of the Zeppelin and to disappear through a ventilator into the interior of the ship. A shout was raised and the crew quickly found him, but the Zeppelin was not halted to eject him and it sailed with the interloper aboard.

Dr. Hugo Eckner, before entering the gondola, told the Associated Press that the first part of the journey promised to be difficult because of weather conditions. Gas was pumped into the balloons of the Zeppelin until the last few minutes before the getaway.

More Manchester Cotton Mills Close

MANCHESTER, Eng., July 31.—The third day of idleness in the cotton industry pased without any move toward reconciliation but with more mills closing, thus strengthening the position of the employers in their determination to enforce a agwe cut of 12½ per cent. The Cooperative Spinners Almalgamated Union held a meeting today, but instead of deciding to reopen negotiations ithw the employers, as had been hoped, it resolved to submit the whole question for reconsideration by the districts.

All Buildings With Grandstand Go Up in Smoke, Early Hour

DRUNK CAME FROM FLAMES DISAPPEARED

Was "Canned Heat" Addict Cause of Conflagration Is Question

MAN STUMBLED OUT WITH CLOTHES AFIRE

Seen By Syd Desireau Who Turned In Alarm; Has Disappeared

What caused last night's spectacular fire?

This was the question being asked on all sides last night.

Sergeant Alex Stewart and Syd Desireau have a possible clue that the police are working on.

At about the time the fire broke out Sergeant Stewart was on the trail of an alleged "canned heat" addict. He was on the tracks of the C. P. R. fronting the waterfront. He saw the fire and rushed to the fair building as the fire was breaking through the roof.

There he ran into Syd Desireau who a minute before had turned in the alarm and warned the Iron Works empolyees to look after their building.

MAN IN FLAMES

It was Mr .Desireau's story to Sergeant Stewart that when he arrived at the scene of the fire a man rushed from the blazing building and disappeared. His clothing was afire and his hair appeared scorched. He was apparently drunk. He disappeared from the scene before the police officer arrived.

Policemen and railwaymen got together. From Mr. Desireau's description of the man it appears that he was the "canned heat" addict sought by the police. At a late hour last night he had not been apprehended. This may solve the cause of last night's fire.

PEOPLE DRAG BEDS OUT OF DOORS TO ESCAPE THE HEAT

East Washington and Northern Idaho Swelter; 111 Degrees Experienced

SPOKANE, Wash., July 31—A suffering populace tonight was dragging its bedding out of doors to find relief from ovens into which their bed rooms had been turned by 110 degree temperatures in eastern Washington and northern Idaho.

At Orofino, Idaho, in the mountainous Clearwater river country, the mercury stood at 111 degrees for several hours this afternoon while 110 degree temperatures were reported throughout the region.

All over eastern Washington thermometers registered more than 100 degrees for the second consecutive day.

Few prostrations have been reported however, because of the extreme dryness of the air. A thick pall of smoke from the forest fires which dot the timberland of this region added to the discomfort.

Attempt Smuggle $10,000 Worth of Diamonds Thwarted

NEW YORK, July 31.—A mouthful of diamonds landed Louis Jannessen, 40, at Antwerp, assistant pantry steward on the liner Arabic, in the hands of customs officials who today arrested him on a charge of smuggling.

Failing to find any diamonds in Jannessen's clothing when they accosted him as he left the ship, officials noted the movement of his hand to his lips a nd upon investigation found $10,000 worth of small cut stones in his mouth.

Department Uses Many Hose Connections to Confine Flames to Fair Buildings; Willing Hands Save Others

WHOLE CITY LIGHTED BY FIRE WHEN ELECTRIC LIGHTS GO OFF

Cause Not Definitely Known; Started Between Stand and Main Building; Loss Partly Covered by Insurance

BURNED

Main fair building, owned by Nelson Pavilions Ltd. built 28 years ago at cost of about $4,000. Annex to fair building, owned by Nelson Agricultural Association, built about 12 years ago at cost of about $1500, Grand stand, owned jointly by fair association and the City of Nelson, built at a cost of about $4000.

Something like 60,000 feet of piled lumber owned by John Burns & Son, valued at about $2000.

DAMAGED

A. D. Emory's home badly scorched, windows damaged. Total damage estimated between $150 and $300.

Stirling Hotel, owned by P. H. Bush, damaged by water and flames estimated close to $1000.

Transformer of City of Nelson electrical department, blown out on pole

In one of the most spectacular outbreaks ever witnessed in the City of Nelson, the fair buildings, poultry house annex and the grandstand were completely destroyed by fire starting at about 9 o'clock last night. The Stirling hotel adjoining was badly damaged by fire and water and was in flames several times before the main fire was controlled. The beautiful home of A. D. Emory on the eastern side of the fair buildings was also damaged considerably but willing hands looked after the building all through the fire. John Burns & Sons lost several piles of rough lumber valued at about $2000. Cause of the fire is not known.

Braking out between the fair building and the grand stand at about 9 o'clock the flames had a firm hold before they were first noticed from the C. P. R. wharf. An alarm was immediately turned in and despite a record run by the fire department the building was a seething mass of flames before water could be trained onto the building. Flames leaped between 300 and 400 feet into the air and the whole city was lit up like daylight. Residents throughout the district phoned to Nelson inquiring about the fire. so great was the reflection thrown onto the sky.

All lights in the city were out for about half an hour during the fire when a transformer on the corner of Vernon and Josephine streets blew out. City elctricians were called and had repairs made immediately.

HAS LEG BROKEN

So large was the fire that four hydrants were brought into use with five or six lines of hose in play. When the first line of hose was being laid,Jake Fay, employee of the Nelson Iron Works, on his way to warn residents of the blaze. became entangled in the hose and sustained a broken leg. First aid was rendered and he was removed to Kootenay Lake General hospital by the Standard Undertakers ambulance. "I guess I put my foot in it," he stated as he was placed on a cot at the hospital for treatment shortly after.

Showers of burning material were hurled over the lower portions of the city. The wind, luckily, was blowing straight across the ball grounds from the building at the time and carried most of these burning embers to barren ground or the lake. Precautions were being taken on all sides. At the Nelson Iron Works, a hose was in play dampening down the building. At the Veneer Works a similar method was being used and wholesale house employees were on guard. At the Nelson Mattress works a hose was in play and at the Kootenay Lake General hospital George Lester,

Nelson Continues Lead Districts In Number of Phones

Largest Gain is Shown Here; Good Per Cent; Nearly all Cities Gain

Nelson continues to lead the Kootenays and the Boundary districts in the number of phones gained since January 1 and except for two small towns, where a few phones gained represents a large per cent, also leads these districts in the per cent gain, according to figures issued by the British Columbia Telephone company covering their lines and connecting lines as at July 1.

Nelson's gain since January 1 is 132 phones—from 1,395 to 1,527— a per cent gain of 9.5. Trail has gained the second largest number of phones, having added 47 to a former total of 1,079 to make its present total 1,126, a per cent gain of 4.4.

NEARLY ALL GAIN

Except for Cranbrook, Fernie, Rossland and Grenwood, gains are shown in all centers in East and West Kootenays and the Boundary. The largest per cent gains is shown in Balfour where six instruments have been added since the first of the year to a former total of nine. The per cent gain is 55.6.

A reduction of 16 phones or 6.1 per cent from a former total of 263 sets at Rosland is accounted for by the half million dollar fire that wiped out several business houses there on March 1.

Kimberley Firemen Control Two Fires Near City Limits

KIMBERLEY, B. C., July 31.—The citizens fire brigade was called out twice on Monday afternoon to bush fires whichstarted, and for a time looked threatening on the outskirts of the town about a half a mile apart. The C. M. & S. Co's., big fire truck was put into action and proved its worth. Both fires spread rapidly but did not get beyond the rech of fire hose and were brought under control before any considerable damage was done.

Calling Tenders For Painting of School at Lister

CRESTON, B. C., July 31.—Where the securing of new teachers is a matter to be dealt with, rural school boards have already had their inaugural meetings and the board constituted for the ensuing year.

At Erickson, E. E. Cartwright is again named chairman, with R. M. Telford chosen secretary-treasurer. Miss Reid, of division 2, has sent in her resignation, as she is taking a school near Nanaimo.

At Camp Lister, John Bird is reappointed chairman, and Mrs. Fred Powers, secretary-treasurer. They are calling for tenders for painting and repairing the school, as well as for fuel and janitor for the ensuing term. Miss Curtis of Slocan City, former principal, is expected to return.

At Huscroft district, John Huscroft is once more chairman, with Harry Helme, secretary-treasurer. This district is fortunate in having again engaged Miss Hobden as principal. Ever since she has been in charge the school has enjoyed 100 per cent success at the midsummer Gradc VIII examinations. She is this year rewarded with $100 increase in salary.

WIGEN CHAIRMAN, WYNNDEL

At Wynndel, Carl Wigen is again chairman, with T. Sixsmith, secretary-treasurer. Wynndel is again faced with securing new teachers for both rooms. Misses Ewing and Randall; of Trail, were in charge last term but have both resigned. Miss Ewing graduated both the scholars sent up for the Grade VIII examinations.

At West Creston, George Seymour is chairman of the board with R. Sinclair Smith, secretary-treasurer, and Miss Joyce Moore of Creston will again be incharge of the one-room school.

Kitchener has Mr. Blar for chairman, and Geo. A. Hunt, who is the district's first and only secretary-treasurer, is reappointed to that position. Kitchener is unfortuate in losing Miss Ford as principal as she was another to score 100 per cent. in passes at the recent midsummer Grade VIII examinations.

Women's Auxiliary At South Slocan To Hold Bake Sale

SOUTH SLOCAN, B.C., July 30.—A special meeting of the woman's auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. J. Norris. The President, Mrs. John Murray was in the chair.

The financial statement showed a balance on hand of $75.00.

Arrangements were made for a tea sale of needlework, home cooking and ice cream in August. Mrs. J. Norris was appointed general convenor; Mrs. H. H. James, needlework stall; Mrs. P. O. Bird, home cooking. Mrs. W. J. Tindale, ice cream; Mrs. E. Anderson, charge of the tea arra ngements.

The objective of the auxiliary is to pay for closing in the basement of the church.

A piece of fancy needlework was given out to be worked by the members during the summer in readiness for the sale.

Next Parliaments to Deal With B C Railway Belt Land

VICTORIA, July 37.—Concurrent legislation designed to arrange and ratify the transfer of railway belt crown lands from the Dominion to British Columbia will come before the next sessions of the federal and provincial parliaments, it was stated Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of the interior, on his arrival here today.

"As far as I can see, there is nothing to hinder a satisfactory agreement," declared Mr. Stewart, in explaining that the whole matter of the transfer of railway lands had been gone into with the governmeent here by W. W. Cory, deputy minister of the inteerior. He had not seen Mr. Cory since he left for thee east, bt he understood that the deputy minister had got along very well with the negotiations.

The transfer of crown lands to live question at the present time Manitoba, Mr. Stewart said, was a Dominion government on the same and was being considered by the basis as British Columbia. A similar agreement was expected to be reached with the government of Albrta and Saskatchewan. Mr. Stewart said he expecteed to meet Premier Brownlee of Alberta on his way ast.

In touching upon government plans with respcet to British Columbia national parks, Mr. Stewart stated that it was planned to extend the boundaries of the Mount Robson and Assiniboine parks to take in important Glaciers.

When his car turned on its side on the road George Wilson farmer, living near Dundalk, had his hand so severly cushed that it prevented him working for some time.

NERVES GONE CAN'T SLEEP

"Fruit-a-tives" restores good health

Are you tired? Downcast most of the time? Worried at trifles? Can't sleep? J. O. Ringheim, Wydnadel, B.C., writes: "My nerves were completely gone. I owe my present good health to 'Fruit-a-tives'."

"Fruit-a-tives" is a combination of the tenified fresh fruit juices and the most scientific medicinal ingredients. In a natural, gentle way it stirs lazy liver, bowels and kidneys, into normal, healthy action, soothes the digestive tract, and calms the troubled nerves. 25c and 50c boxes at all druggists.

Kimberley Girls Return From Camp Near Invermere

KIMBERLEY, B. C., July 31.—The group of over 20 girls with their leaders who had been in camp at Invermere during the past two weeks returned to their homes on Sunday evening. They report an enjoyable vacation.

The people of Invermere were kind above measure. Not only were they given liberty to pick all the fruit they required, but were taken to Windermere and Fairmont by autos and accorded the fredom of the swimming pool. The leaders, Mrs. Graham, Mrs. Doull and Mrs. Dawson and all the girls expressed appreciation of the many expressions of neighborly thoughtfulness which contributed so much to the success of their outing.

Crowded backward from a load of hay, Fred Doolittle of Mount Sale was badly shaken up and bruised and four ribs were broken.

OXYGEN TANK EXPLODES; TWO KILLED TRAIL

ing the hose. There was a chance that the guage on the storage tank was not operating as it should, and that the oxygen tank was overfilled. The tank had been in use at least 14 years. With all other tanks in use it had been tested to 600 pounds pre\ure. The guage on the storage tank had been known to oevrmeasure pressure, but not to under measure it.

NO THEORY

Kurt Raht, Consolidated chemist testified the oxygen storage tank tested 99.2 per cent pure shortly after the explosion he examined the tank but could find no evidence of fire having caused it to explode. He would not expect hydrogen and oxygen to explode without some evidence of fire. He had no theory to offer.

Charles Wright another Consolidated chemist declared a clean fracture was shown in the tank. An explosion of hydrogen and oxygen would completely shatter the container, which had not happened in this case. The inside walls of the cylinder were corroded to some extent.

This would be caused by oxygen explosion.

OIL OR GREASE

C. H. Mariatt, Consolidated Engineer, suggested the possibility that there migh have been oil or grease in the cylinder. In this case it would not matter if the oxygen tank had been tested to 1000 pounds, hi spontaneous combustion would cause the explosion. There was no reason to suspect this

Mr. Wright, recalled, estimated the driving pressure of the explosion would be 15 to 20 tons. He had made no calculation on this, however.

Herbert Clark, chief machinist for the company, had no theory to offer A number of oxygen tanks were tested in the first half of last year but he had no knowledge whether the tank in question had then been tested.

Dr. R. M. Bastead, stated Verzuh was dying when brought to the hospital. Baldock was in a very serious condition. Verzuh's death was probably due to brain injuries, and Baldock's to general shock rather than any particular injury.

The jury consisted of Lloyd Jackson, Dr. Thom, M. Fowle, S. R. Walley, A. Young, C. J. Martin and A. E. Wing.

FIFTY THOUSAND SCOUTS ACCLAIM DUKE CONNAUGHT

Monster Jamboree Under Cover In England; Canada Has 150 There

BIRKENHEAD, Eng., July 31—Fifty thousand boy scouts with one heart and voice, but 50 different tongues, acclaimed the Duke of Connaugh when he opened the great scout jamboree here today. From early morning the rain kept falling in the gentle fashion approved by Portia, but which might, nevertheless, have been deemed rather trying on such an occosion as this.

It certainly failed to infuse any dampness into the opening proceedings for there was not a scout from Sir Robert Baden-Powell to the youngest youngster who looked from his tent this morning, cared a rap for a little wet, or even much of it. Rain nideed seems to follow Sir Robert, who is chief and founder of the movement, for it rained heavily when he opened the jamborees at Copenhagen and Budapest.

The first sounds in camp this morning were the bagpipes played by the scouts from the north who arrived during the night. Tired and unkempt as they were, they at once turned to playing the reels they will give before the Prince of Wales when he arrives tomorrow to visit the camp.

The scouts from Palestine are guarding an enormous watermelon which they intend to cut in front of the prince, giving half to him and half to Sir Robert.

The jamboree is in celebration of the 21st anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scout movement. Forty-two nations are represented, including all parts of the British empire. From Canada there is a delegation of some 150 scouts, representing every province.

BENNETT TALKS SALMON TREATY

Speaks at Bowker's Beach; Discusses Empire Trade Issue

BOWKER'S BEACH, B. C., July 31.—In the initial speech on Vancouver island of his summer speaking tour Hon. R. R. Bennett here etoday clearly enunciated his policies on the proposed Canada-United States sockeye salmon teaty and on empire trade In dealing with empire trade, thee Conservative leader vigourslyr replied to an attack on the attitude of the apposition on this question.

"For many years" he declared, in referring to the suggested sockeye salmon treaty between the ewo countries, "we have been endeavoring to negotiate a sockeye salmon treaty because our Fraser river and coast fisheries have been depleted of their salmon. It is a matter of transcendant importance, though, that the bargin we make should be fair and just because it binds not only the men and women of today, but of tomorrow as well. You cannot afford to make a bargin unless you are sure and certain it is a good bargin for Canadians and no doubt should exist as to the proper construction to be placed on its provisions."

Mr. Bennett went on: "I, as a Canadian, am not prepared without a full understanding of its provisions to give my approval to a treaty that may take away the birth right of the people of your country. We want a treaty. We will do anything reasonable to suppr t a treaty, but what it means must be certain beyond peradventure."

EMPIRE TRADE

Turning to the question of empire trade, the opposition chieftain said that he had observed that the editor of a certain paper had made the statement that the Conservative party did not stand for the development of trade within the empire. That was not true.

"We do not care though," Mr. Bennett continued, " whether it is British, France, United States or Italy, we are not going to give away our markets without getting something in return. We are not for any trade that may seem the destruction of Canadian industry. What we are for is the interests of Canada."

Take Precautions Against Infantile Paralysis Cases in B. C. This Coming Fall

Governments.. Cooperating.. to Combat any Spread of Disease

OTTAWA, July 31.—Telegrams went forward today from Dr. J. A. Amicon, deputy minister of health in the Dominion government to all the deputy ministers of health in t he provinces advising them that returns showed an inchease in infantile paralysis and warning them as to the best methods to be adopted should the situation become acute. A "blue book" is also being rushed through the government printing bureau and will be widely distributed explaining the disease a nd how to combat it in the light of recent developments. The book has been written by Dr. Helen MacMurchy, chief of the division of child welfare. It will be issued under instructions of Hon. Dr. KIKng, minister of pensions and national health.

oSme three years ago infantile paralysis was prevalent in California and other Pacific coast states. British Columbia was not seriously affected. In 1927 it spread to Alberta where there were 354 cases. Last y ear it reached Manitoba where there were at least 435 cases. The increase noted is in Ontario. The department does not wish to frighten the public but it does wish to advise them of a danger which may develop quickly because of the contagious nature of the disease.

INVESTING WAVE

These have been particularly prosperous times for Canadian corporations and the earnings tsatements of the past two or three years reflect a level of prfoits that will not be maintained through periods of less activity. With this consideration in view, investors, in buying newly offered securities, should insist upon having before them earning records going back more than three years. Records of five and even ten years are not too much to ask. The test of a company is not what it can do in good times, but what it has done in thin times.

Investors should inquire too as to the methods of accounting that have been utilized to arrive at the figures shown in the prospectus of a new issue. Very often the figures presented to the investor are not the figures that have been presented to th company's own directors or shareholders or to the income tax department. It is a very simple matter to make an earnings statement look much better than it actually would be if presented according to the traditional policy of the company in question. It is easy to charge to the capital over a term of two or three years many items that would ordinarily be charged to running expenses. It is possible for a company for a two or three year period to pay small salaries to the chief owners or executive officers in order that the value of the business for purposes of sale or recapitalization may be raised.

The line "after deducting non-recurring charges" is often seen in a prospectus. This line is quite proper but may also be regarded as a warning signal. "Non-recurring charges" are often replaced by additional new charges such as larger depreciation due to values being written up, write-offs for reorganization and financial expense, etc. The investor should seek to determine if the new estimate of earnings takes account of new expenses.

Most investment houses sense their responsibility to the investor and have regard for all of these points before issuing prospectuses. But this habit is not universal and for that reason investors must themselves inquire into the figures given to them.

What the Press Is Saying

The feat of making two blades of grass grow where one grew before has been exceled by researches conducted at the smelter at Trail, B. C. Hitherto the suphuric dioxide fumes, highly destructive of vegetation, have made the districts about such works a wilderness. Law suits were the only productive crops on the farms roundabout, and the company had to pay large sums in damages to the farmers. Similar trouble was experienced in the neighborhood of the nickel smelters in the Sudbury district.

Chemists were put to work to find a remedy. They have not only done this, but have discovered an unexpected value in the baleful fumes. A process has been evolved wherby what was once a destructive agent can be utilized in the manufacture of a fertilizer for which there is said to be an unlimited market on the prairies.

The announcement of the discovery includes a statement that a plant, to cost seven or eight million dollars, will be built at Trail for the manufacture of this chemical fertilizer. It will call for large additional electrical development, so that business generally will be stimulated.

The incident illustrates the far-reaching value of chemical research. It vindicates the expenditures which Ontario and the Dominion have undertaken in this direction.

Not long ago I went through a newly built small house and on the third floor I found an ample closet lined with red cedar, for the storage of furs, woolens and winter draperies which the housewife wished to protect from moths in the warmer months.

How splendid it would be if we all had such a closet in our home! Surely people who contemplate building a house, should include this convenience in their plans, for the cost of lining closets with cedar compares very favorably with ordinary lath and plaster, I am told, if installed at a time the home is built. No finish of any kind is necessary on cedar lined closets.

Some years ago the U. S. Department of Agriculture experts conducted an interesting experiment by placing ten adult moths and a good supply of flannel in a cedar chest of ten cubic feet capacity. Ten more moths were added each week until a total of 70 had been reached. Two months after the last moths had been put into the chest examination proved that all had been killed and that no eggs or larvae were present! Yet in a trunk (unlined with cedar) in which a number of moths were put, more than 50 live larvae were counted. This gave conclusive evidence that moths could not live or reproduce in the odor of cedar oil. The oil is contained in the heartwood only (that is, the red wood near the center of the tree) of the aromatic red cedar, and manufacturers of material for chests and closet linings exert great care to preserve the odor-producing oils by using special methods of seasoning the wood.

But if we cannot all have cedar lined closets in our homes, at least we can buy ourselves a cedar chest. The young girl who purchases such an article as a "hope chest" is wise; for, even though she may never marry, she will find excellent use for it, in the years to come, for the storage of furs and woolens in her war against the moth.

That Body of Yours

By JAS. W. BARTON, M. D.

DROWNING ACCIDENTS

One summer day some years ago I was rushed out in a boat to help resucitate a young woman who had fallen from a boat and had been in the water some minutes before she was brought to the surface.

Arriving at the boat I found the patient lying on her back, a pulmotor being used.

I turned the victim on abdomen and water immediately rushed out of her mouth.

Now a pulmotor is a splendid thing and inducing artificial respiration is essential, but the first thought in these cases is to have the victim lying with face down, even slightly lower than the feet, so that any water in the nose, throat, lungs, or stomach may get a chance to come out.

And it is while the victim is lying in the position, that artificial respiration should be induced.

You will remember that the old method was rolling him on a barrel, or raising arms upward and downward while the patient is lying on his back (Silvester method). But all these methods have now been superseded by the Schafer method.

I write about this every year because the number of drowning accidents does not seem to grow less.

Lay the patient on the ground face downward, one arm extended directly overhead, the other arm bent at elbow, and with face turned outward and resting on hand or forearm., so that nose and throat are free for breathing. Kneel straddling the patient's thighs. Place the palm of your hands on the small of the back with the fingers resting on the ribs, the little finger just touching the lowest rib, with arms held straight, swing forward so that the weight of your body is gradually brought to bear on the patient. Don't bend your elbows. This takes about two seconds.

Now immediately swing backward so as to remove the pressure completely.

After two seconds swing forward again.

Do this twelve to fourteen times to the minute, thus compressing and releasing every four or five seconds.

Keep this up as long as you and others about you, taking turns, can keep it up; hours if necessary.

I talk about this every year but this is really the best known way to revive a person after drowning, inhalation of gas, or electric shock.

The right foods to help you gain weight

by Mary Blake

If you are actually too slim to be fashionable—and I can scarcely believe that such a degree of slenderness exists—you are luckier than most of us, for you can eat in sublime unconcern about the number of calories that are totalling themselves up into prodigious figures in the meal before you.

But this superb nonchalance isn't enough to put those desired pounds on you. Errors in diet may be the very thing responsible for your underweight.

While poor appetite may be caused by lack of exercise, worry, too much excitement, fatigue, it is often due to eating between meals, especially sweets; poor choice of foods, too many salads and sweets and not enough nourishing food; irregular meals. Eating between meals may not be a disadvantage, if you choose such things as fruit, cocoa and milk, and if your eating them does not destroy your appetite for the next meal.

Some Suggestions for your diet

Concentrated foods will help you put on weight. Sugar, fats, cream are all good weight builders. Cheese is also a highly concentrated food. Plenty of butter in the cooking will help you emerge from over-thinness; candy and cake are fattening, if you eat them at the end of the meal, instead of between meals. Cream soups are good for you, because they supply a generous quantity of milk and milk is one of the things you must build on.

Every individual needs a quart of milk a day, you particularly requiring the body-building elements which it supplies. Milk, you must remember, is the most nearly perfect food we have, containing everything needed for bodily health, growth and activity. If you don't want to drink all this milk, use it in cooked dishes—cream soups, creamed vegetables, milk puddings.

In increasing your milk allowance, I would suggest that you use Carnation Milk in your cooking. It has definite advantages that ordinary bottled milk does not offer. For example, it is of uniformly high quality, always dependable, always pure and sweet and wholesome. Evaporated to double creaminess, it enriches everything in which it is used. Not only that, but Carnation-made dishes are a real lure to appetite. They are richer, smoother, creamier, with a fine, velvety texture due to the "homogenization" of Carnation, by which the cream globules are broken up into minutest particles.

Because of its richness, Carnation saves on butter and cream. It also avoids the waste of spoilage. Not only is it economical, but you will find it extremely convenient.

Send for the free Carnation Cook Book, with its many recipes helpful in building your weight. Address Carnation Milk Products Co., Limited, 134 Abbott Street, Vancouver, B.C.

Revelstoke Mayor Dies From Burns When Barn Razed

REVELSTOKE, B. C. July 31.—Mayor H. F. McKinnon died here today from burns which he suffered yesterday when a barn in which ne was stacking hay caught fire. He was serving his tenth term as mayor of Revelstoke.

Mayor McKinnon was born in Nova Scotia in 1878, but came to Vancouver island at an early age. He had been in Revelstoke for 30 years as locomotive fireman, merchant, road superintendent and dairyman. His wife and four children survives.

NERVE AND FORESIGHT

When the price of wheat was around the dollar mark, the officials of the Wheat Pool had their nerve to advise the holding on of stocks in storage. Now they are shown to have bee fully justified and it will mean a large increase in the co-operative membership. To hold 110 million bushels of wheat on a rising market means a lot of money.—St. Catherines Standard.

Sex Appeal Has Place in Game

By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

Ladies' Day at the ball park makes a good deal of difference to some players. Fellows who won't hardly shave all week turn up spic-and-span for that day. Fellows who never warm up except when they'rs due to pitch are out there bearing down on Ladies' Day. Fellows who never go near the coaching lines any other day are out there bright and early for Ladies' Day.

Jess Petty, the Pirates' veteran southpaw, always warms up long and heartily on Ladies' Day. Guy Bush of the Cubs and "Lefty" Sherdell of the Cards are the same way.

Ball players often refer to the hosiery on display on Ladies' Day in baseball parlance.

"How do you like that Babe Ruth model?" they'll say of a woman with large underpinnings.

"I like that Ty Cobb model better," another player will reply, referring to a girl with slim ankles.

"Pie" Traynor, the Pirates' great third-sacker, tells me that down at St. Louis where the ladies ask the players to autograph their scorecards, every time a player asks one of them for their telephone number, she'll put it down.

The United States Government's Farmers' Bulletin, Number 1438, on "Making Fermented Pickles" is free to all who write to the U. S. Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C. and ask for a copy, and it is indeed worth having. The following directions are copied from it:

"Dill Pickles—Place in the bottom of the jar a layer of dill and one-half ounce of mixed spices. Then fill the jar to within two or three inches of the top, with washed cucumbers. Add another half ounce of spice and layer of dill. It is a good plan to place over the top a layer of grape leaves (they have a greening effect on the pickles). Pour over the pickles a brine made as follows: Salt, one pound; vinegar, one pint; water, two gallons. Never use a hot brine at the beginning of a fermentation. The chances are it would kill the organisms present, thus preventing fermentation. Cover with a board-cover or plate with sufficient weight on top to hold the cucumbers well below the brine. If the cucumbers are packed at a temperature around 86 degrees F., an active fermentation will at once set in. This should be completed in ten days to two weeks, if a temperature of about 86 degrees F. is maintained. The scum which soon forms on the surface and which consists usually of wild yeasts, but often contains molds and bacteria, should be skimmed off.

"After active fermentation has stoped, it is necessary to protect the pickles against spoilage. This may be done in two ways: 1. Cover with a layer of paraffine. This should be poured while hot over the surface of the brine or as much of it as is exposed around the edges of the board cover. 2. Seal the pickles in glass jars as soon as they are sufficiently cured—which may be determined by their agreeable flavor and dark-green color—filling the jars either with their own brine or a fresh brine (made as directed above). Add a small quantity of dill and spice to brine, brings to a boil, and, after cooling to about 160 degrees F., pour it over the

GOOD INVESTMENTS

The value of boys' clubs, public playgrounds, and similar institutions cannot be over-estimated. That such organizations have proved a very definite factor in the lessing of crime among juveniles is an accepted fact. And the town or city that boasts properly supervised clubs tnd centres of recreation has to a large extent solvedone of the most important problems of civic betterment.—Kitchenor Record.

FIRST PAYMENT MADE PRODUCERS BY ASSOCIATED

Advance on Cherries Shipped Up to July 20; Quality is Fair

The first payment on account of this season's fruit wah made to the proucers by the Associated Growers of B. C. Ltd. Tuesday. This is an advance on shipments of cherries delivered up to July 20. Cherries are pooled weekly by the Associated, and further payment in settlement of cherries included in the pools referred to, will be made as soon as these pools are closed. Also further advances will be made on later pools from time to time. It should be a matter of considerable satisfaqtion to the grower's to receive some payment on shipments at this early date it is thought.

QUALITY WILL IMPROVE

While there haev been a few complaints regarding shipments of Kootenay cherries, owing to light weight pack and small cherries, on the whole shipments have been arriving at destination in a fairly satisfactory condition, and with favorable weather, it is hoped that thee quality will improve throughout the season. Considering the importance of thisa variety of fruit in the Kootneays, it certainly behooves the growers to see that everything possible is done to get out the cherries in the very best condition, it is held.

ANOTHER WEEK YET

The movement of cherries from the earlier districts is declining somewhat, but thee later districts have only commenced to ship in volume, so that it is expected that the peak of the movement will be on for another week.

The cheif concern of the British Columbia shippers to date, in so far as the fruit deal is concerned is the unfavorable reports from the Prairie provinces, reparding crop and weather conditions.

WAS A FUGITIVE FROM MEXICANS

Archdeacon Francisco Oroscoy Jimenez of Guadalajara, who underwent many thrilling adventures as a fugitive rfo mthe Mexican anti-clericals before Mexico and the Papal authorities reached an agreement recently.

NEW STORE DIRECTORS

Announcement of the new board of directors for the Rober Simpson Company of Canada contained the names of Sir Herbert Holt, right, well-known Montreal financier and Alfred J. Mitchell of Toronto, left. Both are new comers to the Simpson organization.

Mining Chatter From the East

Hollinger's geological study by the Harvard specialist and his assistants is still taking place. Holly stopped underground exploration pending that report, though ore is being drawn from around the 2,750 to feed the mill. The story that plans are already laid to open new levels down to 4,000 feet on the strength of the new find, doesn't agree with the official remark that everything would depend on the doctor's recommendations. The study is being made to save undue expenditure.

Noah Timmins, president of Hollinger, was in Toronto. It is understaood that at a directors' meeting more than ordinary dicussion transpired about the Porcupine mine, the $12,000,000 investment trust schemes and the Kamiskotia property.

There is promised an official statement by Hon. Charles McCrae, Minister of Mines, within 10 days, on the Kamistokotia Railway situation. Timmins forecasts a most favoraole turn for the camp, and that may be the primary strengthening market factor benind Holly, owing to its $18,000,000 copper ore reserves there, down to the 150 foot level, based on 15 cent copper.

Noranda enthusiasts are telling of a new strike made in development work to the south and east of the main "H" ore body workings. On the north diamond drilling has cut low values at 1,300 foot depth, and it is predicted deeper drilling to at least 1,500 feet will get commercial grade..

On the Brownlee, adjoining Noranda on the north, acrew of 14 men is at work, with a diamond drill being set up on the west central part of the property. It is but one of the many important efforts being pushed ahead in Rouyn, spurred on by Noranda's new finds.

Amulet's annual report is nearly prepared, the new ore-find however likely acting as a deterring feature in its issuance. Directors would be anxious to have shareholders given some advice of the new possibilities created, particularly as sharehclders are likely to be offered new stock at $1 per share on the basis of one for every five.

Montreal has been extremely bullish on Siscoe gold, Quebec's first all-gold producer. In little over a week a complete progress report is understood as being issued, bringing everything up to date, including new ore strikes, and plans for the future. Siscoe has produced something like $150,000 gold bullion since turning its 100 ton mill over.

Thompson Cadillac shareholders are receiving a progress report covering the change in control which recently took place. At the annual meeting held in Toronto, officials were unable to say just what plans were likely in issuing new stock.

Canadian Barren lands has been voiced by Joseph Errington, president of Sudbury Basin, and managing director of Treadwell Yukon, while visiting Vancouver. He states that within a year it will be known whether mining operations on the barren lands are practicably economical.

As also vice-president of Dominion Evplorations, Ltd., the Lindsley enterprise which together with N. A. M. E., Nipissing, and other interests, are spending great effort in the Artic circles, such an opinion will cause observance.

Dominion Explorers object of search is claimed the source of the native copper nuggets in the unexplored territory between Hudson's Bay and the Mackenzie River, from which the Copper Mine River derived its name early in Canadian history.

Best informed circles assure there will be an Electrolytic Zinc Plant erected in Eastern Canada in the not distant future, and that Rouyn camp, where many properties have zinc mixed with copper, will be among the first to benefit. The president of Abana the other day stated they had been approached in the construction of such a zinc refinery, and adds confirmation to the flying flames of "rumor in the air."

At the Kirkland Lake Gold annual meeting, both President D. B. Hanna and Manager Wm. Sixt stated that upper levels at the minc had been little toched, but that it was planned to give them attention in coming months, hoping to find ore west of the shaft. They expressed confidence it would bring result, independent of the new grade being opened up from 2,975 to 3,600 feet.

There is now word at hand that in drifting west of the shaft at the 2,000-foot level, a good grade of mill ore has been struck by Kirkland Lake.

THE OILS

Eleven wells are drilling on section No. 20 on which Home Oil is located, and this group undoubtedly largely influences the market trend of the western oil stocks.

Approximately thirty others wells are operating or about ready to start in Turner Valley, south-end with twenty-five of them having mapped out campaigns since the first of the year, including fully the big drive being made in Canada's oil fields. southern end wells include those drilled by Advance,Mayland, East Crest, Commonweath, Scuthwest Pete, Mercury, Sunlight, Miracle, Hylo, Spray, Sterling Pacific and Lowery Petroleum.

HEALTHIER TONE ON TORONTO LIST

Numerous Shares in Higher Ground; Crop-Sensitive Group Fares Well

TORONTO, July 31.—A healthier tone infused the market in Toronto exchange today and moved numerous issues into higher ground. Volume soared to 35, 835 shares as compared with the average of 20,000.

The crop-sensitive group fared particularly well, with C. P. R. gaining 3; cockshutt Plow rising 1¼ to $34 on comparatively few sales, and Alberta Pacific Grain gaining fractionally. The only weak spot was Canada Steamships, which lost 3-4 to touch a new low at $93¼.

Utilities were irregular, eBll Phone slumping 2½ at $169, Power Corporation gaining one; Brazilian holding firm with an unchanged close, and Dominion Power losing 1. The steels put up an unusually good front as a group, Lake Superior enjoying an advance of 1½ points; Hamilton Bridge shooting up 5 points at $93, very near its high for the year and National Steel Car closing for a net gain of half.

Canada Gypsum recovered and went up 1*; Deforest was up one and F. N. Burt rose 3.

HOME OIL PLANS TO SPLIT STOCK

Move Wil Be Made So That Present Shareholders May Retain Control

VANCOUVER, Jly 31.—A stock split up by the Home Oil company designed so that the present shareholders will retain control of the board of directors, contemplated, according to J. C. Ralston, solicitor for the company, in an interview today. The proposal will be placed before the shareholders at an early date.

Mr Ralston said tha it was planned to form a new company with a capitilization of 10,880,000 shares of no par value, of which 880,000 would be founder's shares, and in these shares would be invested the power eo elect the majority of the board of directors. It is proposed to split up the shares for every share now held.

The only distinction between the founder's shares and the ordinary shares will be in the voting power, continued Mr. Ralston. All shares will participate equally in the company's profits.

MINING ISSUES MUCH STRONGER

Several Issues at Coast Register Substantial Gains; Big Missouri Leads

VANCOUVER, July 31.—Mining issues came in stronger play on the Vancouver stock exchange today several issues registering substantial gains. Led by Big Missouri, George Copper, Pend Oreille, Reeves McDonald and Premier, the market with steady buying support started an upward movement which was well maintained. Big Missouri touched $1.63 a nd closed at $1.60 touched $1.63 and closed at $1.60 at $7.70 while Pend Oreille closed at $6.45 up 75 over yesterday's close. Premier was steady at $1.75. In the oils A P Consolidated went to $4.00 and closed at $2.94 up 11 and Home was up five at $22.25. Calmont was a steady trader closing at $4.70.

In the far North end of Turner Valley at least seven wells started this year, to help pile up the growing picture. These included Calmont No. 5, Foothills No. 4; Dome, Vimy, Dalphin, Invaders and Vanalta. Five of these seven are new companies, and equipment and skilled drillers are reporting becoming very scarce, despite importation of Oklahoma crews.

Associated drillers have been jarring and pulling on the stuck bit, deep in the producing limesone, but there are reported no signs yet of success in removing the obstacle.

WHERE MacDONALD AND DAVIS TALKED DISARMAMENT

The problems of naval disarmament were informally discussed by Premier Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain and General Dawes, new United States ambassador to Britain, when the American envoy visited the premier at his holiday retreat in Scotland. Layout shows, left, a view of the little highland village of Forres, where the premier met General Dawes. Right, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and his daughteer Isabel, the new hosteess of Downing Street., snapped at their home at Lossiemouth, near Forres. The natives gave the new premier and his daughter a great welcome when they arrived there for a short holiday before taking over the reins of government.

Max and Otto May Swap Heavy Socks

BY AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

Max Schmeling, Jack Sharkey and Otto Von Porat now comprise the big "3" of the heavyweight division with the possibility of old Jack Dempsey, if he ever makes up his mind to fight again.

Most of the critics think the German heavyweight is a cinch to stop Sharkey if they ever meet. Sharkey can smack as hard as Paulino Uzcudin, but he doesn't have nearly the wallop Von Porat has now, and that Dempsey may still possess.

For plain hitting, a match between Schmeling and Von Porat would be a "natural."

But "Herr Max" will go probably for the "big shots" and his next fight will be either with Sharkey or Dempsey if the latter can be lured out of retirement by the call of "heavy money"!

LIVE WIRES AND SENATORS WILL BATTLE TONIGHT

Most Important Game in the League is On Tap; Wires' Last Chance

Senators, last year champions, will make a desperate effort tonight to go into a tie with the league leading Married Men by defeating the benedicts in the last game but one of the Trafalgar baseball league schedule at the junior high school grounds. If the Senators win t onight it will depend upon their game with the Live Wires tomorrow night whether they meet the Married Men in the play-offs for the Tip Top cup trophy or whether all three teams mentioned go i nto a tie for league leadership, which would have to be played off before the cup play-offs are entered into.

CADETS DEFAULT

That was the position the league standing was thrown into last night when the Cadets, with no thing to gain by winning, decided to take the easy way out and defaulted their scheduled game to the Live Wires, third place holders, thereby strengthening that team's position in the league standing.

The Senators will line up tonight as follows: D. Hings, c; R. Horswill, and Art Langill, p; Pasacreta, 1b; W. Gillett, 2b; A. Langill, 3b; W. Kitto, ss; R. Bendy, cf; C. Arcure, rf; T. Deferro, lf; T. Romano, reserve.

'The Foolish Virgin'

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

"M'ma, dearest," the girl said sensibly and seriously, when they had been almost two weeks at Mrs. Pettys's, "we'll have to go away. I can at least wait on tbles or wash hospital floors—but I can't do it here. Nothing but a miracle could save us, here—I mean that I can't think of the combination of circumstances that could pull us out I think and think until I'm almost crazy thinking, and it comes out the same—I'm not trained for anything, and I can't afford to waste the time training. Either we'll have to borrow more money, or we'll have to go away And wouldn't you rather go away?"

"I'd rather have stayed in my own home, that my father built, an' have things go on they were goin'," Mrs Raleigh persisted stubbornly.

Pamela did not go to see Mrs. Broome, but Maisie's mother kept her word and, dainty and bewildered, duly found her way to the unsavoury neighbourhood of Broome Street. She took some pleasure in identifying at the corner of Mrs. Pettys's actual block the old Broome mansion, now cramped in between shops, and filled with quacks and dressmakers and palmists and dubious agencies of all sorts.

They sat in Mrs. Raleigh's room; there was no central parlour in the Pettys home. Pamela put forward the best chair for the visitor, seating herself on the foot of the bed on which her mother lay. The girl made no excuses; she was quite as conscious as was Mrs. Broome of the odours of cabbage and warm soapsuds and carbolic acid that permeated the halls and tickled in under the cheap wooden doors; she ignored them.

"And you're looking for something to do, Pemela?"

"I don't want her to work," Mrs. Raleigh interposed lovingly and fretfully. "I want her to stay right at home with me!"

Pemela stroked the hand she held gently; she did not raise her eyes. She would not give Mrs. Broome the satisfaction of an exchanged significant look that found M'ma absurd.

"Unfortunately, we can't all be choosers, can we, Pamela?" the caller said pleasantly.

The beautiful gray eyes—Mrs. Broome said to herself that she had really forgotten how beautiful the girl was!—were raised now, and Pamela looked the older woman fairly in the eye.

"We all know the proverb abount—not being choosers," she said mildly. And then briskly, "Yes. I've been looking for something to do. Our affairs had been in a bad way for a long time; when they once smashed, everything smashed. M'ma and I may go to San Francisco, and I'll see what can be done there."

"Oh, I don't believe that's necessary, Pamela," Mrs. Broome said gently and thoughtfully. "Can't we find something for you to do right here?

"I've tried—" Pamela would not be pathetic or pitiable if she could help it—"I've tried a good many places," she said dispassionately, "and there doesn't seem to be anything."

"The girl in Doctor's office is a graduate nurse—Miss Ramsay only uses the graduated kindergartners," Mrs. Broome mused aloud "No, that wouldn't do—no, that wouldn't do. You play the piano, don't you, Pamela?

"Pretty well."

"And speak French?"

"A little. Maisie and Sue Rose and I were all together with Madame Ruyelles, you know."

"Maisie and I have worked on verbs together all winter," said Maisie's mother. "She's doing very nicely, now. I don't think she learned anything from Madame. They're all going to have such a trip together this spring!" Mrs. Broome diverged to say, with fond enthusiasm, to Mrs. Raleigh.

"Up to the lake," Pamela supplied rather than asked.

"Up to the lake. Eleven of them. The Billingses, and Sue Rose, and Maisie, and Jessy, and Jack All on horseback. They'll stay for a few days at the Catherwood cabin—such a lark. The girls are getting themselves up like regular cowboys, I tell them. Yes, said Mrs. Broome, "it's going to be a great trip. I tell Doctor that I only hope they'll get home alive! But now let's return to your problem, Pam," she added practicaly, bringing herself back from a vision of spring woods, creeks, horses moving along corduroy roadbeds, and the laughter of youngsters set free in the big mountains. "You say you may go away. I'm not sure but what that might be a good idea. I had in mind a position with dear Mrs. Parker; she's not strong, you know, and she has those three sweet babies—"

"You mean as nurse?" Pamela said steadily, levelly. Two spots of hot color came into her cheeks.

"No, my dear, I don't" Mrs. Broome explained, a little nettled. "Ada says she doesn't want a nurse, she simply wants a general helper. She keeps no cook, you know, and she said—she was very funny about it!—she said that with a regular nurse she found herself cooking to please the nurse. She wants just a friendly helper, to do a little of everything—a companion, really. The children are little ducks—such independent creatures, all boys, They were having their spinach and beef juice and whatever it was yesterday—Ada was fixing prunes for them, and you never saw such little monkeys! Ada says she wonnders that they don't ache all over when they go to bed at night."

"And what does she pay, Mrs. Broome?"

"Well, not very much, dear, I'm afraid. You see, Roger Parker has just gone into that motor-supply business for himself, and they're living very simply. I think—I'm not sure, but I think Ada said twenty-five dollars."

Pamela looked surprised.

"That's not much," she said dubiously. She was not in the least interested in the position; she remembered too clearly Ada Brookes of long-ago little girl schooldays Ada superior and affected and playing the harp. No, she was merely being polite to Mrs. Broome. But even politeness had its limits.

"But, my dear," Mrs. Broome said defensively, "it isn't a question of what dear little Ada would like to do, it's really a question of what she can do! She's the most generous-hearted creature. And of course, you—or whoever took the position—would be absolutely a member of the family. I mean lunch with her, at the table, and that. I believe she did say that Roger likes to have his dinner alone with his wife, but that's just because there were always a lot of things to talk over that wouldn't interest any outsider.

"It was only an idea," said the visitor, annoyed, as Pamela made no comment. "I wanted to help you to make a start—that's all it would be, a start—and help Ada, too, for truly, if something isn't done about that girl, she'll go into a decline."

The conversation veered, became general, Pamela was asked to go with Mrs. Broome to the door.

They were hardly outside her mother's door when the older woman said:

"Pamela, I must ask you this, dear; there's aa reson for it that I can't explain. But was there ever an understanding—or an engagement—between you and Chester Hillirio?"

Pamela looked at her squarely, her chin high.

"Mrs. Broome, there's a rude old saying, 'Ask me no questions, and I'll tell you no lies,'" she said, steadily. "I ssuppose the rest of it is, 'Ask me questions you have no right to ask and I will tell you lies'—if I must!"

The one balm contained in the memory of the wretched hour was the thought of Mrs.Broome's outraged face as she left the odorous Pettys hallways without another word.

Pamela told Chester about it afterward and was chilled by the realization that he had had Mrs. Broome's version first. She had tried to make it funny, but his gentleness and sympathy almost unnerved her.

"Yes, I know, my dear, but it must not make you biter," he said.

MICHEL MAN IS MARRIED, FERNIE

Miss Elizabeth Mensky Becomes Bride of Michael Ormazi, Michel

MICHEL, B. C., July 31—The Catholic church at Fernie was the scene of a pretty wedding Sunday morning when Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mensky, became the bride of Michael Ormazi of Michel, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ormazi, residing abroad. Father Barney officiated and the church was decorated with a profusion of summer flowers.

The bride, who was given in marriage white chiffon fashioned with long by her father, wore a bridal gown of bodice, the skirt being of lace and silk dipping to the ankles in the back. Her silk net veil was worn cap style with a bandeau of orange blossoms at the back and fell in graceful cascades to the hem of the dress. Her shower boquet was of butterfly roses and forget-me-nots.

The bridesmaid was Miss Annie Galla of Michel, the groom being attended by Jonathan Galla.

A reception followed the ceremony at the new home of the couple which was prettily decorated for the occasion by friends of the bride. The bride and groom were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Ormazi and Mrs. Mensky. Mrs. Ormazi wore a crepe de chine gown with a blue coat and large hat to match. Mrs. Mensky chose a French gown of rosewood shade with a small hat to match.

The newly married couple will reside in their new home at Natal.

LIGHTNING IS CAUSE STATIC

Single Flash May Release 1,000,000 Kilowatts to Bother Radio

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 31.—With the lightning flash comes the static crash. The tremendous electrical power of a bolt of lighting indicates the violence of the atmospheric disturbance that accompanies a thunder storm and spoils clear radio reception.

A single flash during a severe storm may release 1,000,000 kilowatts of power, engineers at the bureau of standards have ascertained. While the duration of a flash is onlythree one hundred thousandths of a second, flashes coming every few seconds keep the atmosphere in a constant turmoil.

The transmission power used by the largest programme broadcasting stations is only 50 kilowatts, a tiny fraction of the energy released by hundreds of lightning flashes in a violent storm.

Scientific observations made in France over a period of one year led to the deduction that "heavy crackles of static in a radio receiver indicate a thunder storm, approaching if the crackles become more and more frequent, receding if they become less frequent or less strong. A slight 'siffilement' was produced by a heavy hailstorm approaching near the receiver."

CHANGE OF WIND FOLLOWS

On the north Atlantic coast of the United Staes an outburst of static was found to follow a sudden change of wind, particularly a change from south ta north. Static also accompanied a rise of temperature there.

Observations made at Mt. St. Aubert in Belgium showed that the absence of static characterized the approach of fine weather, little precipitate cracklings accompany hail or heavy rain, distant cracklings, fine weather and numerous and prolonged cracklings, stormy weather.

A prolonged sound like water from a gutter accompanied a sudden change of weather and a prolonged and singing sound, seeming distant at first and approaching little by little until strong, characterized a violent thunder storm or tempest.

Fish With Rubber Collar Is Caught, Fish Pier, Boston

BOSTON, July 31.—It requires no imagination to stretch this story. It is both fishy and rubbery.

The Boston fish trade was confronted with a mystery when a mackerel was brought in at the Fish Pier with a rubber band encircling its body, just below the head.

There were many theories concerning how the band got around the fish. One solution, as reasonable as any other advanced, had it that the band was thrown or dropped overboard from some vessel, floated along on th esurface until the mackerel, swimming along pushed its head through the elastic until it was firmly fastened around the broadest part of the fish.

KIMBERLY, B. C., July 30.—The electricians from the Tunnel with theeir familiees enjiyeed a picnic at Waso lake recently.

WHEN VANCOUVER FLYING INSTRUCTOR LOST LIFE IN CRASH

Wreckage of the Moth plane flown by Percy Hainstock, flying instructor at the Vancouver airport shortly after the machine carrying Hainstock and Pat Conlin, a student flier went into a nose-dive near the airport, flattened out; then nose-dived again and fell into a plowed field.

Hainstock was instantly killed but Conlin escaped with minor injuries.

The nose of the plane buried itself several feet in the ground.

Sun Restoring Nearly Hundred Kiddies' Health

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., July 31. — Nearly 166 children, from two to 10 years of age, are being restored to health by sun treatment at the Childrens Sanitarium, located on Lowell island, at the entrance to Marblehead harbor. The children are afflicted with various ailments and were sent to the island from the social service departments connected with Boston hospitals and the school for crippled children.

Miss Elsie Wulkop, formerly in charge of the House Social Service at the Massacrusetts General Hospital, is superintendent of the island. Gladys Beardwood, R. N., is one of the nurses. In addition to the regular staff stationed on the island there is a group of volunteers come from Junior League branches throughout the country, exclusive private schools and prominent women's colleges.

SEASIDE

By GERALD S. REES

"HOME IS THE SAILOR, HOME FROM THE SEA."

For the islanders of Britain, the idel holiday is at the seaside usually for a fortnight in the summer their is usally some summer weather there during July, but I cannot say in which year!—anyway it is around the time when the channel swimmers are at cross purposes and either coming or going, and being picked up from the sea so near and yet so far from their heart's desire.

London and all other large centers of perspiring humanity, and the curious country of suburbias therein contained, annually pack portmanteaux, and other "luggage," and with a fervent prayer to the official meteorologist, in charge of all "depressions" and "anticyclones" trek forth by devious routes toward the earth's edge where, with all regularity, thee tides break on sand or shingle—for ever—along the coastal beaches.

REMEMBER THE NEWSPAPER.

The city men in busy office on the eve of his vacation blissfully contemplates his ideal holiday—mornings for bathing, beach lounging or band listening in deckchair with his pipe and his NEWSPAPER; afternoons for boating, fishing or motoring, and the evenings for the movies, a dance, or the Pierrots on the pier. Not terribly exciting, as things go but eminently satisfying to the tired business man and his tireless family probably effective too much bodily and mental refreshment.

The stay at home Briton on holiday is very conscientious about sightseeing and the picturesque; if staying in a place that offers a glen and a cliff walk, a lighthouse, a fishing fleet for ever going out or coming in, he feels it his bounden duty to be always looking at these things!

The homeland beaches, in my opinion, are ahead of their foreign rivals. The beauty of the coast-line—"the superb stretches af firm golden sand, rocks and seaweed at low tide, the white walled cliffs of Albion"—with keen tonic air, all are unsurpassed the wide world round.

The Homelanders manage to get along without the Casinos of continental Europe, whose watering places appear artifical in comparison, though they are more lively, and their program of amusements more ambitious.

The stay at home Briton has rather old fashioned ideas—or did have—regarding the bathing pleausures in thee old ocean. A visitor to the continental Plagues may spend the whole day in a bath—wrap and so attired may if he wish, stroll take his aperitif or even lunch upon the Casino trrace, but try this in Bournemouth, or jolly old Brighton; the profound majesty of the law in form of the civic policeman will decend upon you, and you will be outlawed.

n more aggressive countries and newer ones, the seaside is only one item on the program; it is a case of Seattle today, Frisco tomorrow, San Diego or New Orleans a week later, with side trips to the Grand Canyon and the Naional Parks. Out West, we seem to enjoy our annuals in direct ratio to the mileage covered by train or car—we never walk nowadays. Oh, dear no, The kodakeed results of our hurried jaunts enable us to gather up the memories later on. "You press the button", but the results are not always up to sample are they?

Beside the sea, one can get away from the roar and rush of the industrial marts, and can resume a normality apt to be disturbed when enmeshed in the toils. The breadwinner, the housekeeper, each with his or heer trials find a renecewal of strength for the daily round. Many a haunting fear, petty irritation, or narrowing prejudice fade into their native nothingness within the sight and sound of the healing waters.

Holiday time passes all too quickly; one is imbibed with the seaside spirit; one adorns one's person with jazzy sweateers, flannels anti the last word in seaside shoewear and "boaters"; one watches with approval joyous youth, wearing the Brigade of Guards' tie by right of purchase. Your own mellow conservatism of raiment is outshone.

GOOD OLD SEASIDE

The sea gold and silver at sunrise, blue and white by day, purple and black after set of sun.

A house by the sea is to be preferred. methinks, to one hemmed in by bricks and mortar in a smoke-grimed city. Some day, maybe,

"I will hold my house in a high wood
Within easy walk of the sea
And the men who were boys when I was a boy
Shall come and talk with me"

It is never lonely by the sea; one never tires of its interminable song. I have always loved the sea,

Where the plaintive gulls cry
Out of a steel blue sky"

A quarter of a century in the hinterland cannot quench my desire to sleep within hearing of its restless waters; I would even welcome hearing the fog horn boom all night, or the buoy bells clang persistently out of the mist their hollaw mournful sounds, as the seas toss their manes to the grey sky, roaring like thunder, and breaking white among the breakwaters.

A recent dinner given in the magnificent Egyptian Hall off London's Mansion House on behalf of Brompton Hospital at which Lord Derby presided, over a dozen young girls of note acted as "sidesman," and handed round plates on which they managed to collect nearly $90,000.

ROSS SEA WALE CATCHES LARGE

SYDNEY Australia, July 31 — It is estimated that 6,600 wwhales have been killed in the last six years in the Ross Sea by three whale factory ships and their attendant chasers.

According to reports received from New Zealand, the Norwegian factory ship, C. A. Larsen, made 75,000 barrels of whale oil, representing a catch of 786 whales, and valude at approximately $3500,000 in the United States. The Sir James Clark Ross, when she left New Zealand for Europe, had on board 49,000 barrels of oil, representing a catch of 543 whales. This made a total of 1,329 whales for the two ships in four months.

The M. T. Nielsen Alonso, which returned to Hobatt from the Ross Sea recently, was reported to have treated 732 whales, which yielded 63,500 barrels of oil. Thus the three whalers, representing only two concerns, have accounted for 2,061 whales this season.

Addihg this season's reported catches to the official figures for previous years published by the New Zealand Marine Department, the three factory ships have accounted for more than 6,600 whales in six years.

Would Erect High School at Creston For Whole Valley

CRESTON, B. C., July 30—The local school board has issued invitations to all trustees in the whole valley area for a conference on Friday next at which the erection of a consolidated high school at Creston will be broached.

Last term the two-room high school was filled almost to capacity. For the next the term there are 26 prospective new high school students, and not more than 10 graduating, so that the matter of accomodation is already critical.

It is learned that at the recent session of the legislature the School act was amended to make it compulsory for outside districts to pay the tuition fees of their students in place of the individual parents, and this altered situation makes things look better for the establishment of a consolidated high school.

Up till today there had been no resignations from the local high school staff, and it is now taken that the principal and assistant, Mr. Levers and Miss Bumtick, will again be in charge, although with no salary increase forthcoming for the former, his return is not looked for.

Kimberley Notes

KIMBERLEY, JULY 30,—Mrs. M. Anderson and her little son have returned from a visit to Slocan and New Denver.

Mrs. Mills arrived on Thursday last from England to meet her husband, who preceded her a few weeks ago.

Leslie Halpin of Portland, Oregon, is visiting his father, H. P. Halpin.

Mrs. W. Anderson, with her daughters Dora and Catherine, are on a holiday trip to Banff and Calgary. They will return during the first week in August.

Rev. and Mrs. E. A. Weight of the Presbyterian church, with their son Lloyd, are spending a short vacation at Victoria. Mr. Wright on his return to Kimberley will occupy the pulpit for four weeks before leaving about the middle of September for his new field in the Peace River country.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Milleer of Dumfrees Shire, Scotland, also a daughter and Miss Nettie Miller of New York, are thee guests of their sons and daughters in law, Mr. and Mrs. David and Mr. and Mrs.W. B. Miller. The couple will begin their return journey next Sunday. Miss Miller will tccompany her parents as far as Montreal.

Should Dynamite Old Apple Trees Economist Says

DURHAM, N. H., July 31—A stick of dynamite may be the best treatment for old apple trees, says H. G. Woodworth, agricultural economist of the University of New Hampshire experiment station.

Old trees in poor condition, he say, require several years of skilful work to bring into bearing. Even then they are still old, soon will decline in production and be of doubtful commercial value.

He believes it may be better to remove old trees and replace them with new and vigorous growth. In time, he obseves, it may be found that old trees will have to be discarded to a greater extent than ever before.

Kitchner Fire Ruining Hunting, Fishing Prospetcs

CRESTON, B. C., July 31.—In addition to the loss of timber and the expense entailed in fighting the forest fire east of Kitchener, the blaze is regretted by local sportsmen due to the fact that in burning through the timber along Kid and Hazel creeks, as well as devastating the watershed timber of these streams, the fire has spoiled the very best deer hunting local nimrods have had the past three seasons, which was in the Hazel creek section.

In the past few years, too, many thousands of young trout have been placed in id creek, with the result that fishing in that stream has been excellent the past two years. With the timber gone, it is not likely angling will amount to much for several years at least.

The very hot weather of July has kept the fishermen off local streams and the July catch of bass was about the lightest in many years, although in June excellent catches of these fish were reported on numerous occasions. Trout fishing has been light all season, and the excsive heat militated against the usual July rush on Summit creek, which is never thrown open until Dominion day.

Moyie Notes

MOYIE, B. C., July 31—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fitch had as their house guests during the past week, Mrs. Rutledge and Miss Gertrude Rutledge of Trail Mr. and Mrs. Schwärz of Calgary; Mrs. Ellen Cutt of Goderich, Ont. They also had the latter's son, Thomas M. Cutt, B. A., who recently graduated with honors in Latin, French and Greek from Toronto University. Mr. Cutt will resume his post-graduate studies in the fall with a view to preparing for educational work.

Mrs. J. B. Yuill and Miss Harriet Cameron spent a few days with the Misses Ward of Cranbrook at their camp at Green Bay.

Harrop Notes

HARROP, B. C., July 31.—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas and daughter, Miss Mary Thomas, and Mr. Thomas, Sr., have left for their home in Medicine Hat.

Mrs. J. Kitchen and son, Jackie, Mrs. J. Clarke and baby son, Reggie and Mrs. Harvey and daughters, Gladys and Joan, who have been the house guests of Mrs. C. D. Ogilvie for some weeks, have left for their homes in Trail.

T. E. Porteous of Michel, was a recent visitor here with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. H. Fairbank.

C. D. Ogilvie spent the week-end at the ranch, returning to Trail Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McConnell have as their guests their neices, the Misses Ressa and Carrie McLaren of Calgary.

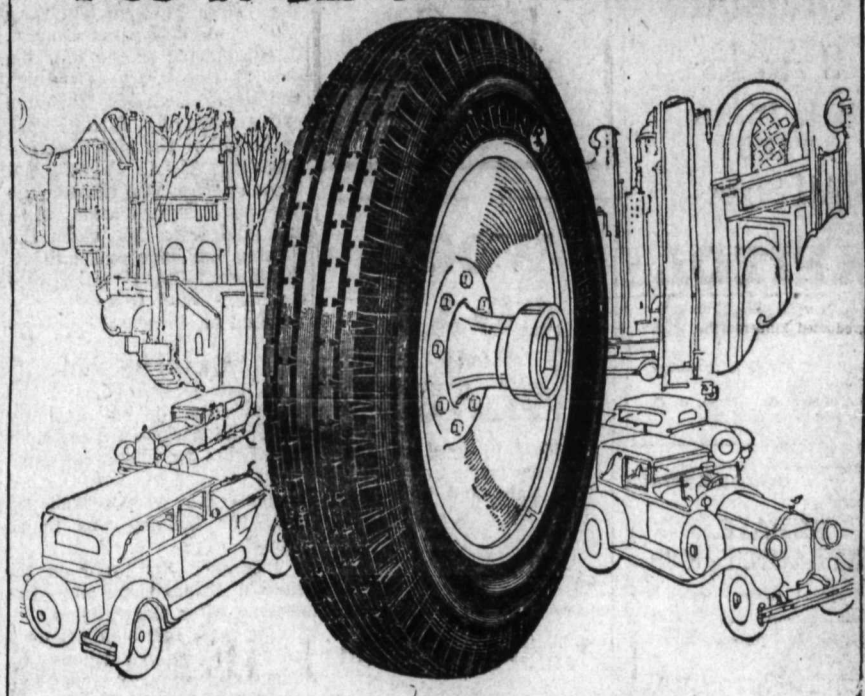
The ROYAL MASTER



"THE GREATEST TIRE THE WORLD HAS EVER KNOWN"

FOR many months ROYAL MASTERS have been quietly going out to motorists all over the country. Without publicity of any kind, except word of mouth recommendation by actual users, the demand for Royal Masters has steadily increased.

It is the greatest tire the world has ever known, say motorists. It will outwear any other tire.

It is trouble-free — we have never heard of one blowing out. It tracks true, steers easy. And it wears—nobody yet knows how long.

In planning this tire, Dominion Tire builders have built the Royal Master as well as it is possible to make a tire.

Not one Royal Master in a thousand will ever puncture

The massive tread of the Royal Master is double-thick — compounded without regard to cost. It is cured by a new slow process that toughens it not only against punctures but against the grinding abrasion of the road.

The carcass is built with extra plies of Web Cord, an exclusive Dominion Rubber fabric made without cross-threads; it is held together by pure rubber (latex).

The Royal Master is oversize. Or, rather, it is the right size for real tire economy. Modern high-speed cars need this added margin of safety.

Sidewalls are guarded against scuffing. Traction is made even more sure in the deeply-cut pattern of the tread.

This crest appears in gold on every Royal Master Tire

Not one in five thousand will blow out under two years of service

NELSON FAIR BUILDINGS ARE RAZED BY FIRE

engineer, had hose laid out all ready for any etmergency.

HUNDREDS ON SCENE

Hundreds gathered from nowhere and crowded around the firemen at work who were assisted by scores of willing volunteers. Willing hands immediately took possession of the Emory home and kept the flames from the roof which was seriously scorched on one end.

Others as willing lent a hand in the Stirling hotel where all furniture was removed from every floor.

It was a hopeless proposition for the fire department as far as the fair buildings were concerned. It was a case of keeping the flames confined to the one building.

According to Syd Desireau, who discovered the fire, he turned in the alarm, warned the Nelson Iron Works and rushed to the scene of the flames. It apparently started in between the grandstand and the main building and had, he estimated, been burning for some time. The interior was a roaring mass of fire. When this reached the roof of dried shingles the flames with a roar soared skyward, scattering burning embers everywhere.

LIGHTS GO OUT

At about 9:30 o'clock a big transformer on the city lines went out and blue flashes ran up and down the wires for three blocks. The crowd under the wires immediately gave way in case live wires dropped. A fire started on the top of a pole at the corner of Vernon and Hendryx streets. This was extinguished by daring work on behalf of the city electrical workers, A. A. Pagdin and George Boyes, who climbed the pole amid high tension wires and guided by light from the flaming buildings extinguished the blazes. Several wires were cut an dseveral telephone connections on Vernon street severed.

NURSES ON JOB

At the general hospital the nurses carried on gallantly amid the darkness. They used flashlights as they went from ward to ward assuring the bed patients that all was well and that the building was in no danger.

Insurance men were on the ground throughout the fire looking after their clients.

The main fair building, owned by the Nelson Pavilions Ltd. was built some 28 years ago at a cost of about $3500 when lumber was cheap, stated J. E. Annable, president, last night. Insurance on the building amounted to about $2000.

The annex, housing the poultry building was built about 12 years ago at a cost of about $1500. This is owned by the Nelson Agricultural Association and with the contents of the fair building was partly insured, the amount not being readily known last night. The grand stand built at a cost of about $4000 was owned partly by the fair association and partly by the city. It was maintained by the city and according to information available last night was not insured. It was some years ago that the fair association having a surplus of about $1200 from a July 1 celebration, started the grandstand. The city built an addition to it later. The stand is a total loss.

BURNED RAPIDLY

An odd feature of the fire was the rapidity with which it took hold of the building without being noticed. Motorists were passing to and from town and did not notice the fire. Harry Ferguson had been across the lake and had driven past the building on the way to his home. Everything was as usual. He drove four or five blocks to his house and on getting out of his car noticed the whole city alight from the blaze.

Before the firemen arrived warning whistles for fire were made by the steamer Moyie at the docks. It was only a matter of from 20 minutes to 30 minutes from the start of the fire until the whole building had tumbled in and was reduced to embers.

The Stirling hotel which was badly damaged by the flames is valued at $35,000 and insurance amounting to $16,000 is carried on the building owned by P. H. Bush. It is just two years ago that Mr. Bush had added a clause to his insurance insuring it for at least 80 per cent of its value.

At one time the flames got down inside the walls facing the fair building. A hose was used to quench this. The whole east side will require new facing and paint. The verandas on the back end were seriously damaged and water damaged every floor of the building. Practically all windows on the side fronting the fair building were broken.

TAFT IN WHEEL-CHAIR

Chief Justice William Howard Taft recently left Washington for a vacation in a wheel chair. The chief justice has just come out of Garfield hospital, where he has ben ill for a week.

MERCURY HITS CENTURY MARK

New High Temperature of 100 Set Here; Humidity Readings are Low

Beating not only this year's previous high mark but also la tsyear's record high, the temperature here yesterday soared to an even 100 degrees in the shade as the sun shone down unmercifully from a smoke enshrouded sky. This mark passed the previous high of the season set on Monday by three degrees, Tuesday's temperature of 96 falling by one degree to equal the high mark.

Last year's high temperature was 98 set on July 23 and equalled for two days following. The mercury only reached 78 on July 31 last year, while the highest temperature recorded on July 13 in the preceeding six years was 94 in 1922.

COOL NIGHTS

The minimum temperature of 51 recorded during the 24 hours ending at 5 p. m. yesterday, compared favorably with the minimum temperatures recorded on the same date during the previous seven years, except for 1923 when the mercury did not go below 61 for the 24 hours.

Maximum and minimum temperatures during the past eight years here on July 31 were:

Year	Min	Max
1929	51	100
1928	51	78
1927	52	80
1926	52	83
1925	58	93
1924	48	92
1923	61	70

HUMIDITY LOW

The humidity readings yesterday showed that the fire hazard was at the most dangerous point of the season, the morning reading even being low at 48 at 8 o'clock. By 2 p. m. the humidity had dropped to 15, approximately 17 points below the mark where the hazard becomes dangerous. The reading at 5 p. m. showed that the humidity was up a trifle to 19 but that there was still little moisture in the air.

KIDDIES HAVE TIME OF LIVES WATER SPORTS

Hundreds of Children as Well as Adults Given Good Time by Rowing Club

DAY OF HILARIOUS FUN IN WATER, PARK

Hot Dogs Given to Kiddies at End of Wonderful Day; Peanut Chase

Hundreds of tired but enthusiastic children went on record last night to vote Nelson the Rowing club's kid's day water sports as the most fun they ever had. Under the supervision of five overworked but smiling rowing club officials, the kiddies went through a whole afternoon of swimming and diving and eating. For those experts enough or lucky enough there were wonderful prizes distributed at the end of the day.

But while everybody worked hard to come into the prize-winning class, the prizes were after all a secondary consideration in comparison to the huge enjoyment to be had in just being in the swim. Boys and girls from six to 25 all entered everything possible whether there was any chance of a win or not.

It was observed that most of the events classed as 16 years and under were well patronized by youngsters down in the six or seven year-old classes. Young and old just had a splendid swim in the cooling waters of the lake and had the added joy of competition.

One young nine-year old carried away the diving for girls 16 and under against a field of agressive young ladies who were much nearer the 16 year old mark than she was. None of the aggressive young ladies grudged the youngster the win however.

GREASY POLE

Perhaps the big event of the day, the greasy pole. It was certainly the most enjoyable to the several hunderd spectators who roared with laughter at the intent antics of boy after boy a seach attempted in some new way to reach the tantalizing flag drooping from the end of the slipper pole. Success finally crowned the efforts of the lad who had the bright idea of covering his wet feet with sand from the beach. This move turned the trick and he was able to grasp the elusive flag in the act of toppling over into the water.

Another feature from the point of view of the spectators at least was the men's fancy diving. While there was a great deal of legitimate diving two or three of the entrants undertook to add the humorous element by executing a few ultra-fancy dives. These were the cause of much merriment both to the performers and the watchers.

Wash tub racing was exceptionally popular and drew a large number of entries. They were difficult to navigate but after considerable trouble they were finally piloted the length of the course.

CANOE RACES

Some splendidly made home-made cances were entered in the home-made canoe races. Some of the winners made very good speed in their light little craft. The single race was particularly exciting.

Two teams were entered in the men's relay race which was an exciting affair and aroused much interest. The course was fairly long, about 80 yeards for each member of the teams and involved a turn. Each competitor swam to the, float, anchored at a distance from the main bathing float, and back. E. Swanson's team finally beat H. Horswill's men.

After the long afternoon in the water, the kiddies repaired to the beach where a reception committee was waiting at the cook-house with loads of hot dogs. When the children scented what was in the air the reception committee were forced to give up all attempts at decorum and use brute force. Several 1st. courage altogether fled for their lives before the yelling mob of happy boys and girls. All were finally munching with guest on the warm dogs.

A peanut chase was also much enjoyed by the kiddies. Those who were too little to find any were them at the cooking house by members of the stricken reception committee, who were by this time finding their only consolation in the evident delight of the hunderds of children milling around them with outstretched hands.

PICNICS IN PARK

As dusk fell the prizes were given out to the winners of the different events and the satisfied children left for their homes or had their supper in the park with the numerous picnic parties at the park tables. A large crowed of them were guests at the annual picnic of the Rose city chapter order of the Eastern Star, which was held during the afternoon at the park. About 75 members of the order with their friends were present.

HEAT STIRS UP FIRES THROUGH THE DISTRICT

Excessive Smoke Comes From Direction Octupus Creek; No New Ones Reported

With a 100 degree breeze blowing in from a westerly direction all day yesterday fires throughout the district were whipped into a fresh vigor.

All day smoke was pouring over the mountains into the valley of the West Arm spreading in the direction of Nelson with such rapidity and density that by nightfall it was practically impossible to see more than a mile through the haze.

Reports from the vicinity of Kokanee Park stated that the smoke appeared to be pouring over the mountains from the directiono of Octupus creek where a good sized blaze was reported yesterday high up on the course of the creek.

With the intensity of the heat and the low humidity which was at its lowest point of 15 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon it was expected that some new fires would be reported, however the last information from the forest branch last night reported no new blazes.

Early yesterday afternoon a crew of about 30 men left Nelson for the ten fires that are burning in the Lardo district. Though nothing new had been reported in that section those in the charge of the fighters already there thought it would be advisable to have reinforcements in close proximity in case the increased hazard resulted in any fresh conflagration.

One year ago today there were nine fires reported in the district, five of which were in the Lardo district and were caused by lightning.

According to information received from the Lake Windermere district a pall of smoke has been settling over the country apparently being blown in from north west Kootenays.

At midnight last night fires were reported south of Sascade and at Crescent Valley.
