Stately Burial of the League Seems a Certainty

Italy May Quit the League; the Air Is Uncertain

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

GENEVA, May 28 (CP cable). — Some pretty plain speaking may be expected when the world disarmament conference resumes tomorrow. So far as could be ascertained tonight, no nation is prepared to take the lead with a new disarmament plan. Few could be found to predict anything armament, for a considerable time to arament, for a considerable time to come at least.

Arthur Henderson, the conference chairman, will open with a general statement, Norman Davies, the United States ambassador-at-large, and pudgy Maxim Litvinoff, the Soviet foreign commissar, will follow. Other spokes-

SOVIET BOOSTS PRICE OF BREAD

Indicates Drought Damage; Raise in Pay Ordered to Meet Price Advance

MOSCOW, May 28 (AP)—In its first public admission of drought damage to the wheat crop, the Soviet government today ordered the price of rationed bread be increased on June 1.

At the same time a general raise in salaries and wages of all persons receiving minimum pay was decreed in order to offset the higher cost of living.

Blackbread now sell for 20 kopecks (nominally 10 cents) for a kilo (about 2.2 pounds), and white at 70 kopecks a kilo.

The decree was the first official indication that the prolonged dry spells in the main grain-growing regions in the Ukraine and North Caucasus had damaged the crop seriously.

SWALLOWS SWORD TO PROVE STUNT BUT HE DIES

BUCHAREST, May 28 (CP)—Mihail Gherlasch, once famous vaudeville artist, offered to prove that his sword swallowing was not a swindle—and died in the proving.

When a charge of faking was brought by a gendarme as Gherlasch performed before a peasant crowd, he took the gendarme's bayonet and slid it easily down his throat.

Applause broke out and coins showered at his feet. But when he pulled out the bayonet blood spurted. He die a few hours later.

PRAIRIES HIT BY HEAT WAVE

Temperatures Over 90 and Over 100 in Several Centers

WINNIPEG, May 28 (CP)—Old sol shone in all his glory over western Canada today, shooting temperatures far above the 90-mark and putting severe wringles on the brows of farmers.

Across the prairie farm-belt, through Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the week-end hot spell continued with all its vigor. Scattered rains in the north barely laid the dust.

The forecast brought no hope of relief from the heat.

Two belated week-end reports said temperatures moved over the 100 mark yesterday. Emerson, on the international boundary of Manitoba, reported 102 and Davidson, in central Saskatchewan, reported a reading of 101. Temperatures of 90 to 96 ruled generally.

Davidson also reported a brief hail storm. Three Hills, in central Alberta, reported a severe hail storm which was believed to have killed numerous grasshoppers.

Wheat prices in Winnipeg finished the day with gains close to the 5-cent mark while in Chicago the full permitted gain of the same amount was registered. The heat wave over the Canadian and United States grain belts was the chief factor in the advance.

Robbers Fail to Bust Hotel Safe

VANCOUVER, May 28 (CP)—Safe-crackers made a vain attempt to enter the Cobalt Hotel safe early today after they had locked L. A. Proctor, night clerk, in the furnace room. Proctor managed to free himself more than an hour later and called police.

The clerk told police he had gone to attend the furnace and, when he attempted to return to the office, he found he was locked in. After he had succeeded in battering down the door of the fuel chute and escaped, he found that the combination dial had been battered off the safe but the door was still closed.

Investigation disclosed that an adjoining confectionary store had been entered, apparently by the same men, and three slot machines carried to the alley and their contents taken.

Police of Brighton and all Sussex joined in the search and flying squads from Scotland Yard began operating on the outskirts of London. All cars on the London and Worthing road were examined.

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP).—Two audacious French flyers, Captain Maurice Rossi and Lieutenant Paul Codos, brought their huge silver monoplane, the Joseph Lebrix, down at Floyd Bennett field at 1:38 p.m. today—the second westward non-stop crossing of the Atlantic from Paris to New York.

Their first word was of regret—disappointment at their failure to excell their own long-distance non-stop record.

"I am very, very sorry," said Codos, as he climbed from the cockpit of the plane, amid cheers of 1000 persons who had gathered for the unexpected landing of the California-bound plane.

"We had enough gasoline to go on. We had 1000 letres left. And we wanted very much to go on to San

Four Are Quelled; 400 Acres Burning; Relief Men Fight It

WINNIPEG, May 28 (CP)—Manitoba's forestry service tonight was battling a new bush fire in the eastern part of the province after quelling four others during the week-end. Several other minor fires occurred and some were still burning late today.

About 400 acres was covered by the eastern Manitoba blaze near Rennie, in the Whiteshell forest reserve. NEW THEORIES ARE ADVANCED ON SLAYINGS

Both Police Officers Killed at Once; Indians Held

GRISBORNE FIRST ONE TO SUCCUMB

No Trace of the Body of Constable Carr;

MERRITT, B. C., May 28 (CP)—British Columbia police followed a new theory tonight as they sought to piece together evidence left by the slayers of Indian Department Constable Frank Gisborne and Provincial Constable Percy Carr.

Staff Sergt. W. J. Service stated today it is now believed that both men were killed Wednesday night on the Canford Indian reserve where they had gone to investigate the stabbing of Mrs. Enos George, wife of one of the Indians now charged with the murder.

GISBORNE DIED FIRST

The sergeant said it was believed Gisborne was killed first. This theory confounded the previous belief that Carr had been attacked and slain as he attempted to open or close the gate at the entrance to the reserve and that Gisborne had been attacked and killed farther down the road as he attempted to drive off in his automobile.

Police now believe the death car, containing the bodies of the two

"HE NEVER HURT ME—HE'S A CLEAN FIGHTER," DECLARES NEW CHAMPION

Barney All Pepped Up While Jimmy Shows His Heart Broken

By FOSTER HAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN BOWL New York, May 28 (AP)—Escorted by a ring of Irish policemen, the Jewish boy who fought his way from the east side to ring immortality tonight found it almost as hard a job to reach his dressing room as he did to fight Jimmy McLarnin for 15 rounds.

It was a triumphal if trying procession for Barney Ross but these were his people who sought to shake his hands and clap him on the back in congratulation and, frequently, as his guard tried to push a way through the crowd, he stopped to shake the hands which were outstretched to him from every side.

"Phew," he sighed with relief as he finally found sanctuary in his quarters and sank down on a bench, and then as quickly added: "But wasn't it great."

One of his first thoughts was of the man he just defeated. "He's a grand fighter," he said, unsmiling, "and I'm proud to have won.

"HE NEVER HURT ME"

"I think I did all right," he added quickly. "He never hurt me and I took everything he had and was stronger at the finish."

Still in the blood spattered trunks he wore in the ring he sat on his table and answered a running fire of questions from reporters, his managers, friends.

"No—he never hurt me; yes—we both slipped in that ninth round. He didn't knock me down I know, and I didn't think I tagged him hard enough to hurt. Yes, a couple of the low punches hurt, but not much. I don't think he meant to hit low. He's a clean fighter."

There were tears in McLarnin's dressing room, too, but not of happiness. The baby-faced Canadian Celt who had knocked out so many Jewish fighters was heartbroken that at last he came to the turn in the road.

McLARNIN GRIM

Grim-faced he hurried through his dressing, with hardly a glance at those who came to tell him he was still a fine little fighting man and that other nights when he would be the winner still lay ahead.

He was not to be consoled, however, and soon was out of his quarters and away in his car to a destination he nor none of his aides would reveal.

Charles (Pop) Foster, his venerable manager, who had seen him as a youngster, acted as his faithful bodyguard.

"Jimmy is all right, Jimmy is all right," he told all inquirers, "but leave him alone. He doesn't want to talk."

FOREST FIRES IN EAST KEEP 2000 ACTIVE

$200,000 Damage Is Done at Aldermac Mine Quarters

SCHOOLS BURNED, HOMES GIVEN UP

Both Ontario and Quebec Sections Are Hard Hit

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Grim scourge of spring-time, forest fires Monday raged throughout scores of outlying districts in the provinces of Quebec and Ontario, destroying property at a few points and defying efforts of an army of more than 2000 men.

From Rieviere Du Loup in the east to the Sudbury district in the west came reports of blazes damaging the forests and threatening to engulf mining plants and settlers' homes. Property valued at $200,000 was razed at Aldermac mines, 10 miles north of Rouyn, while a school and a settler's home were destroyed in Desnadrouins township and another school in Arntfield village, Temiskaming township, all in northern Quebec.

At least 20 fires were seen by the Canadian Press correspondent at Amos, Que., who flew in wide circles between Cadillac township and

Two Outrun Bear and Then Shoot It

McCREARY, Man., May 28 (CP)—Thomas Doucette, farmer, and P. Kabel, his hired man rested on their laurels today as men who can just about run a big bad bear into the ground.

The men were clearing brush on Doucette's farm near Riding Mountain National park when an angry bear came up to them. They paid no attention to it until it rose on its hind legs.

Then Kabel started across the field and the bear was in hot pursuit. Doucette saw the animal gaining on his hired man and drew bruin from his quarry.

Then Doucette began to get winded and Kabel attracted the animal's attention. This unique relay race carried the bear into the farmer's yard where Doucette got a rifle and wrote finish to the zig-zagging manoeuvers of his hired man by downing his pursuer.

FIVE CHILDREN ARE BORN AT ONCE

CHICAGO, May 28 (AP). — Birth of five children at once, such as occurred today near Corbell, Ont., is so rare, medical historians said today, that only 30 cases have been recorded in the last 500 years.

Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical association, added that in none of the cases on record have all the children lived more than 50 minutes.

"If the five girls born to Mrs. Oliva Dionne lived longer than an hour or so," said Dr. Fishbein, "then it is truly a rare and noteworthy event."

Medical history, he added, goes back about 500 years and covers all civilized countries.

George Murray Talks of Trail Plant and Cariboo Mines

RURAL PRESS IS PRAISED FOR WORK

Grand Forks, Trail and Rossland Are Singled Out

VANCOUVER, May 28 (CP). — "Despite political battles at Victoria and Ottawa over bookkeeping items, British Columbia stands out today as a province of vast wealth," stated George M. Murray, M.L.A., Lillooet, in an address to the advertising and sales bureau of the board of trade at its weekly luncheon today.

"When one industry can pay cash for a $10,000,000 addition to its plant, as was done not so long ago at Trail, the public knows that this province goes forward steadily, not backward," he said.

"Whatever may be said of the credit of the province in a political sense, the credit of many industries in the hinterland stands very high. There is $51,000,000 invested in the pulp and paper business here. And the mills are operating at full time.

"I am informed that one mine in the Lillooet country can have a million dollar credit at the bank any time it is asked for," stated Mr. Murray. "A few years ago that mine was not rated even as a fair prospect, yet today employs hundreds."

DEVELOPMENT IN FUTURE

"Look about this province and you will see well established industries which have weathered the depression successfully. But our future depends on the way we develop the hinterland and focus trade and commerce at our Pacific ports."

"We need rail transportation in the Pacific-Peace River corridor," he said. "We need a highway over the Hope-Princeton mountains. The first will ultimately give you a domestic source of petroleum and will create a vast mining area.

"The Hope-Princeton route will throw open a great new mineral-bearing field and will make the gardens of Okanagan a night's run by motor truck from the markets of the seaboard."

PRAISE FOR LOVE

Men prominent in the newspaper and advertising field in Vancouver were present at the luncheon. The speaker took advantage of this fact to urge Vancouver citizens to be more generous in their treatment of the rural newspaper, which often blazes the way for progress in the smaller communities.

"Some of the men at the head of the rural press in this province are accomplishing a great deal for British Columbia," he said. "T. A. Love of Grand Forks is one of the progressive ones. This enterprising editor was a leading figure in the Victoria day celebration there, when 30 of his guests dropped in by airplane. He is mayor of the town and never ceases in working for the extension of the industries in the B.C. hinterland."

"Valuable work has always been done by the great daily papers; but, fitting in with the work of the metropolitan sheet is the service rendered by the provincial press. The Trail Times and the Rossland Miner will always be remembered as partners in the upbuilding of that flourishing industrial region."

CITY COUNCIL BRIEFS

On receipt of a detailed report on the proposed transmission line from City Electrical Engineer W. D. Fleet, accompanied by blueprints, the city council Monday night referred it to the committee of the whole, and at 10 oclock, other business being cleaned up, went into committee for a thorough analysis of the report.

A recommendation from the public works committee was adopted, "That the work of extending the Recreation grounds eastward be proceeded with as materials are available." As this will involve closing the strip of Cedar street to be added, a bylaw for the purpose will have to be submitted to the property-owners for approval. Alderman T. W. Slader, chairman of the parks committee, gave notice of the introduction of such a bylaw.

A request by Mayor S. H. Smythe, for authorization of a survey of Fairview potention customers for extension of gas service to that section, was vigorously opposed by Alderman T. J. Scanlan, Ross Fleming, and T. W. Slader, and as vigorously supported by Aldermen J. E. McKenzie and W. R. Bamford. Alderman H. B. Lindsay did not disclose his leanings. Eventually the mayor's request was referred to the gas committee for examination.

Opposed by Aldermen T. J. Scanlan and Ross Fleming, a suggestion from City Engineer Boyd C. Affleck for repairing of the pedestrian lane lines on the pavement crossings was turned down, as not an urgent matter under present conditions.

A recommendation from the police commission for an allowance to Chief of Police Alex Stewart, of $15 per month, toward operation of his car on police duty, from April 1, was adopted in principle for a four months trial, June—September inclusive. Mayor Smythe said the chief showed the commission how within a couple of days the city would have saved $3 in taxi hire if he had been in a position to use his own car. Alderman Fleming, though consenting to the trial, preferred the idea of a motorcycle, which would quickly pay for itself in speeders' fines.

An offer of $35 for each of two lots on Delbruck street, by Meyer M. Solbappen, to be paid $10 down and instalments of $3 per month, was refused, and Mayor Smythe, who was familiar with the values, was authorized to offer them at $40 each.

Use of 92 gallons of chemicals to extinguish a house fire in the hill section above the city limits Sunday by the fire department, led to a lengthy discussion on how the city should be remunerated in such cases. It was decided to send the owner of the house saved, Victor Doletti, a bill for $35.

Speculating on the weather, it was decided to postpone for two weeks the matter of laying in a supply of oil, or of calcium chloride, for treatment of the streets. If the season takes a wet turn, some members of the council feel the treatment will not be needed, or at any rate, will not be so urgent a matter.

Suggestions from Herb L. Jackson, chairman of the Trail grounds committee for the three picnics of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting company employees held here, respecting facilities, were referred to the parks committee, with authority to carry them out.

A request from Mrs. Paula Gansner of Taghum, whose transformer was burned out by lightning Saturday, for a reconnection with a new transformer, was referred to the fire, water and light committee.

Horace Provis wrote criticising the elevation of the new sidewalk on the north side of Water street, saying that two houses owned by him were detrimentally affected, and that the tenants of one house were moving out in consequence.

On the recommendation of the police commission, insertion of an advertisement in The Nelson Daily News, "warning children who coast on sidewalks and play ball on the streets, that in future this will not be allowed," was authorized, though Alderman Scanlan remarked the council might as well whistle as warn the children. Mayor Smythe said the point was that children coasting in wagons and on kiddie-cars might run into traffic.

Henry Zubick, E. H. Arit, and Mr. Arit's son are to appear before the city council at the next fortnightly meeting, in consequence of the discovery that Mr. Arit had connected on Mr. Zubick's city water line in Rosemont, Mr. Zubick being allegedly remunerated for allowing the water to be taken. After the situation had been discovered by John Brown, water superintendent, the men appeared at the city offices Monday morning to straighten the matter out, but the water was ordered cut off. Mr. Arit made an explanation to the council, but a full investigation was decided on, with police court possibilities for the men looming.

Accounts aggregating $895.94 were ordered paid.

GAME HUNT IS GYRO SUBJECT

H. B. Horton Tells of Trip Into the Windermere

An interesting account of a big game hunt in the Windermere, backed up with a fine collection of snap shots, was given by Harry B. Horton at a meeting of the Gyro club in the Hume silver ball room Monday evening. J. Johnstone was a guest of the club.

Mr. Horton stated that there were few places with the variety of game as the Windermere. In giving a rambling account of a hunting trip taken two years ago. Big game hunting was confined to pack rat hunting the first day and the party seasoned the "grub" by potting one from the rafters and dropping it into the supply box.

Out on the trail the next day Mr. Horton saw a dark object up in front of him and with the aid of glasses was able to pick out the form of a moose. It was the first one he had ever seen and he immediately commenced to pump lead at it. The first shot raised bark on a nearby tree. The second shot hit the moose but did not bring it down. A third, however, broke its back. Weighing six or seven hundred pounds, getting the carcass back to camp was a real job. Members of the party brought it in on pack racks and that night feasted on steaks.

After the first moose kill Mr. Horton found little sport in the big horned game. They were too much like cows and trotted away unafraid except when the party ran one down on the road in front of their automobile at a 30-mile-an-hour clip.

Next day the hunters went out after sheep. They were up on a ridge and spotted a flock across the divide and were just about to cross over when they heard a clatter behind them and saw three rams. When the big fellow's horns curl up in front of their heads the tips often obscure their vision and they have to break them off. This was what the rams were doing when their clatter was heard by Mr. Horton. He managed to drop one and again the party had a hard time getting the meat out. On the way down to camp a big elk ran out in front of Mr. Horton. It was the largest one he had ever seen and he dropped to his knees and started shooting. Weak from his heavy pack his gun started to move in circles. "I must have missed it by 16 feet," Mr. Horton remarked.

JUMPED 34 FEET

To see the elk dashing away proved a great sight. On the down hill run it took one jump that measured in the neighborhood of 34 feet. The season closed for elk the next day and when he was out after goat he came upon a bunch of elk on the edge of a small lake and they were so tame he was able to walk through them.

That day they climbed a high ridge and toward dusk spotted three rams on the edge of a small lake. They slept on the ridge during the night, building a small camp fire on a razor-edged trail. To keep from rolling down the side the hunters slept up against a tree, the man laying against the tree supporting the others. "We had no trouble in waking up with the birds, in fact we woke up before the birds," he said in describing their uncomfortable perch.

When he awakened in the morning there were seven instead of three rams in sight. Crawling over the ridge with nothing to hide behind they managed to get within shooting distance and were able to drop two with fine sets of horns. Mr. Horton stated that he was surprised that the goats did not spot them sooner, they displayed nothing of the sharp sightedness with which they are credited. Bringing down the heads they encountered a blizzard and had a difficult time in negotiating the cliffs. Packing two heads which weighed in the aggregate of 100 pounds proved a big job.

Other incidents of the trip were described. Mr. Horton declared that a recent article published to the effect that sheep and goats did not range on the same hillside was incorrect. They often ranged almost together, he stated.

KOOTENAY STRAWBERRIES ARE COMING ALONG IN GOOD SHAPE

Cherry Crop Will Be Greater; Apples in Fine Shape

The weather during the past two weeks in Kootenay and Arrow Lakes sections has been cool and considerable rain has fallen in most all parts of the district. However, no frost has occured, and, with warmer days, growth will come on fast again as the soil moisture conditions are very good at this time, says the Horticultural news letter issued from the Vernon office.

Strawberries are at the peak of bloom and with a few days of bright sunny weather the crop will advance very rapidly, and the first week of June should see a fair amount of local berries on the market. The plants are very healthy and a heavy bloom is showing up in most of the fields. At the present time the market outlook is not very bright, but it is hoped that some improvement may come about by picking time. The raspberry patches have a very healthy appearance, with excellent growth at this time and a very heavy crop is in sight. The canes are just coming into bloom.

CHERRY CROP UP

The cherry crop appears at this time to have set fair to good, the young orchards showing quite a heavy set in most sections. However, "the drop" has not taken place yet, and although this may be quite in some orchards, indications are that the crop will be larger than last year under favorable weather conditions. The crop should be ripe a week to ten days earlier than in 1933, as the fruit has made excellent growth up to this time.

APPLE BLOOM FAIR TO GOOD

The apple bloom, which was only fair to good when all sections were taken in, is off, and most of the growers have completed the calyx spray at this date. The trees are making good growth and most of the orchards that are being looked after have a good color. There has been little need for irrigation so far and soil moisture conditions are very good. Apple scab appears well under control in the sprayed orchards. Oyster-shell scale is very bad in some sections of the district and the young scales are now hatched out. This is about two weeks earlier than last year.

The growth in the vegetable crops has been quite good, but a few warm days are needed for most crops. The acreage to most crops will hold that of last year, and there should be ample to supply all local markets in their season.

GRAND FORKS:

Growing conditions continue good and all crops are coming along exceptionally well. The apple and pear crop will be considerably lighter than last year, probably 30 per cent less, as last year was the heavy crop year in the district. First cover sprays have been applied although the weather conditions have been unfavorable for spraying this season.

ONION ACREAGE DOWN

There was some frost damage to early potatoes and beans, etc. on May 22, but the damage was not general. Field and garden crops are making good growth and yields of alfalfa, potatoes, onions, etc. will likely be good this year. There has been some drying out of the alfalfa crop where water was not applied for the first crop. Indications point to a greatly reduced acreage of onions and an increased acreage of late potatoes.

Small fruits have come through the winter in fine shape and so far there has been practically no frost damage. Estimated yields of small fruits are the same as for 1933, in most cases.

CRESTON:

The weather during the last two weeks has been more moderate, cloudy and cool with light winds and showers. This delayed the early melting of snow and retarded the ripening of small fruits. Very slight frosts occured in low areas the beginning of the week, affecting the advanced growth of early tender vegetables chiefly, such as potatoes and beans.

BERRIES PICK UP

At Wynndel growers have been busy spraying and weeding the strawberry rows. The beds have been in full bloom for some time. On warm early side hill situations the odd ripe berry has been found, indicating that in another week a few crates may be expected. Growing conditions have been ideal. Raspberries are still in bloom. The young growth is well advanced and crop prospects are excellent.

Cherries are sizing well and the drop will soon be over. Growers are taking precautions against aphids by spraying regularly. Some complaints have been heard about the set, but this season it is not the fault of the winter or the inclemency of the spring weather, but due entirely to the tree adjusting itself, according to its vigor, to the load it can carry as derived from the fertility of the soil. Tree fruits are progressing favorably. Growers are following the spray schedule very closely and cultivation and reseeding are still in progress. Wooly aphis has made its appearance early this year and is attracting much attention as it is spreading rapidly throughout the district.

STONE FRUITS GAIN

All stone fruits show a heavy increase over last year's crop, also bush fruits. Gooseberries are about ready to pick.

Asparagus is still coming in regularly, as also such early vegetables as radishes and spinach, etc. Some early transplants of head lettuce will be ready in about two weeks. Now that the danger of frosts is over, tomatoes and peppers are being planted freely.

Alfalfa meadows are growing rapidly. The first cutting will commence in some instances early in June.

Among the names listed is Charlie Lagomarsini, who on January 8, 1932 had the sum of 1556.-70 in the Bank of Montreal, Kimberley.

Miss Florence Morrison returned Thursday from a visit in Calgary.

Mrs. Benninati and her 15-months-old daughter Gloria, of Cranbrook have taken a cottage in Happy Valley near the Townsite, and will live here. She has moved in and Miss Faith Ryan from Cranbrook is visiting her.

Girl in the Family

By BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER IX

Wallace was not cooling his heels at the front door. He had gone into the reception room, and when Susan came in he was standing before the framed picture of the Taj Mahal, running his forefinger along the top of the frame.

"What on earth are you doing, Wallace?"

At the sound of Susan's voice he wheeled around, "Gosh, you startled me!—Why, I was straightening this picture," he began and then gave a short embarrassed laugh. "No you've caught me red-handed. I was looking for dust—but I was doing it only to amuse myself. It was a sort of game——"

He laughed again. "Let me explin, Susan. My father's always told me that when he was a young man, calling on a girl, he always looked around to try to find out what kind of a house she'd been brought up in, what sort of training she'd had. If there was any dust in the parlor he knew she hadn't been trained to be a good housewife." He dusted off his hands, still laughing a little.

Susan looked at him thoughtfully. She saw Wallace's father every Sunday morning in church. A short stout handsome man with thinning dark hair carefully brushed over a head shaped like Wallace's head. In his younger days he must have looked just like Wallace. She could imagine him going around people's houses hunting stealthily, solemnly for dust. Trying to find a good housekeeper to marry.

"I'm ashamed of you, Wallace," she said at last. "And it seems to me that you ought to have started looking for dust around here a long time, before you asked me to marry you. It's a bit late to check up on me now, isn't it, Dust Hunter?"

"I'd take you even if you were a bit dusty," he answered, and put his arms around her. They sat down side by side on the ancient green sofa where the Broadericks had taken their ease for three generations. "Look here, I've brought you something."

He opened a little white box that he took from his vest pocket and held it out to her. In it was a band of platinum set with a diamond and two sapphires so darkly blue that they looked black in the lamplight.

"Let me put it on, sweetheart." Wallace leaned close, pressing his face against Susan's cheek, as he slipped it over her finger.

"It's perfect," Susan said, holding it up for him to see. "It's beautiful!"

She wondered how he had been able to produce an engagement ring so soon after he asked her to marry him. Probably he had been carrying it around with him for a long time, she decided. In all probability he had had his doubts about his feeling for her just as she had sometimes doubted that she cared very much for him.

The evening passed as so many other Wallace nights had passed. Aunt Edna and Lutie came in to tell Wallace how delighted they were to welcome him into the family, and the four of them settled down to a rubber or two of contract bridge as soon as Susan's ring had been admired and exclaimed over. At half past ten Susan brought in a pot of hot chocolate and a plate of Anna's sand tarts for refreshment. At eleven Wallace got up to go, and Lutie and Aunt Edna said good-night and left the lovers alone.

"About that house, Wallace," Susan began as soon as they were gone. "That house in the Country Club allotment—Let's not make up our minds about buying it until we've looked at some others. We might find some other house that we'd like better—"

"We'll never find one that is a bargain like that one," Wallace interrupted. "I can tell that you're not going to like it, Susan, no matter how pretty it is. You've made up your mind not to, in advance, just because of the paople who are moving out of it—but you'll never even think of them, Susan, once you and I are living in it."

She could see that he intended to buy the house, no matter how she felt about it.

"Well, my name had better be Walker." He got up from his chair. "I have a day of work ahead of me."

As she stood in the hall watching him fold his silk muffler around his neck and pull on his gloves, it struck her for the first time that he was just a little too sleek, too well-dressed, too careful about the angle of his hat, the smoothness of his coat collar.

Some floor walkers were like that, and actors. Too much of the dandy, and not quite enough of the rough-and-ready male. The thought of Mr. Sholes came into her mind as she watched Wallace set his feet into his stick-on rubbers.

The stranger's hands had been clean but not manicured, as Wallace's were. His dark hair had not been "slicked down" into a patent-leather smoothness. There had been no suggestion of hair oil or talcum powder. The way he looked, in his shabby clothes, had suited her down to the ground. He was, she told herself as she gazed at Wallace, much better looking than her fiance. Much better looking than even John. Much better looking than any man she had ever seen in her life.

When Wallace had kissed her goodnight and gone, Susan turned back into the reception room to turn out the lights. On the floor under the sofa was something small and white that caught her eye as she entered. She picked it up. It was the little white jeweler's box from which Wallace had taken her ring. She held it under the shade of the piano lamp and read the name of the jeweler printed on it in tiny letters . . . "Ludlow and Ludlow." Below the name was the address . . . "Geary street at West Market."

Ludlow and Ludlow. Susan remembered the store, with its plate glass show windows filled with silver and diamonds and semi-precious stones. It had gone out of business four or five years ago, soon after her junior class at high school had bought their class pins there.

If the ring had been bought at Ludlow's it must have been bought long before she met Wallace a year and a half ago—

But the box was perfectly clean and shiny as if it were brand new. The little white velvet cushion within was spotless, and the ring itself was bright and new looking without any kind of scratch on it. If it had come from Ludlow's store before it closed it must have been carefully laid away somewhere. That much was certain, at least.

Susan's cousins, the Cullens, lived in Mills Road, six blocks nearer the downtown district than Center street. Their house was a good deal like the family itself—cheerful and friendly and comfortably large. It was square and white with a red roof and dark green shutters, and it stood next door to North high school, in which Howard, the youngest Cullen, was still a pupil, and Sara, the eldest, was a teacher.

The Cullens were "great on education," as Aunt Nell Cullen expressed it, and when the children were small she and Susan's Uncle Arthur had bought the house because it was next door to the high school and only three blocks from the nearest grammar school.

Uncle Arthur's grocery store stood at the corner of the street, the cleanest and neatest place of its kind that Susan had ever seen. It had always been a place of great interest to her with its shelves filled with chutney and anchovies and mushroom catsup in jars, with the tiny fountain of water that played over the green vegetables in the front window, with its delicatessen department that specialized in potato salads and baked beans and cold rice pudding made fresh every day by Aunt Nell.

Trail From Day To Day

BY A. R. J.

In the midst of a comparatively dry oration, Frank Pennoyer, sprung a good one on City Engineer S. S. McDiarmid at the Rotary luncheon last week. It appears that Mr. Pennoyer and Mr. McDiarmid motored to Tacoma to the recent conference in Mr. Pennoyer's car. Mr. McDiarmid was telling Mr. Pennoyer to watch out for the traffic signals, and advised him when they were, green, white or red. Then Mr. McDiarmid took the wheel and, not being used to its idyosincracies, stalled the motor just as the light changed to green. He fussed around, according to Mr. Pennoyer, until the lights went red, then green again and red again. Then a big grey-haired constable came up, stuck his head in the car window and hollered: "What's the matter here, haven't we got the colors you like?"

But the city engineer is known for his witicism and dry humor so Frank can be on his guard for something real clever in the future.

"Klondike Nights" at the rink opened on the night of May 24, and all the Gyros appeared in the various booths in costume of the Trail of '98 color.

Elliott Crows had on some old clothes with patches on knees and rear (that didn't match). Before coming to the fest he delivered some goods to a store in east Trail and must have looked rather comical. When Elliott got out of his car he overheard a few kids who were standing nearby remark: "That's rather a nice car Mr. Crowe has, but it's a wonder he wouldn't get some decent clothes.

DURBAN, (CP)—George May, the South African champion for 150 yards backstroke swimming, recently established a new time of one minute, 46 2-5 seconds.

STUDENTS ELECT FERNIE COUNCIL

FERNIE, May 28—Elections for next year's student council were held at the Fernie high school on Friday. Officer elected were Tom MacDonald, president; Fred Chivers, vice-president; Janet Walker, secretary-treasurer.

Class-mates of Tony Anselmo gave a farewell dance in his honor at the Napanee Friday night prior to his departure for the coast on Monday. About sixty were present including some ex-high friends and representatives of the teaching staff. During the evening Tony was presented with a gift as a token of his popularity. A variation in the program was provided by a series of mouth organ and jews harp numbers by Henry Verkerk and Mike Amantea.

LEGION SPONSOR DANCE ROSSLAND

ROSSLAND, May 28—The annual Victoria day dance was held at the Rossland armory under the auspices of the Rossland branch, Canadian legion. The hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion.

It is estimated that people of France have upward of 40,000,000,000 francs hoarded away.

INTER-CITY SCHOOL TRACK MEETS

Trail school athletes carried off honors in the sixth annual meeting of the Kootenay-Boundary Schools track meet held in Cranbrook on Saturday. All Kootenay centers were represented but Nelson. Grand Forks sent a contingent of stars and they made a great showing. There may have been good reasons why Nelson was not represented, but it would have been much nicer to have seen a few from Nelson named among the competitors.

After all Nelson has some fine athletes who, no doubt, would have come high in the aggregate. School track meets between Kootenay cities is a decidedly good thing for the district. Good clean inter-city sport among our school children builds up a good inter-city spirit that cannot but improve as the students grow older and become men and women. It is hoped Nelson will be represented at such athletic gatherings in the future.

A WARNING FROM THE EAST

Reports from eastern Canada indicate a serious forest fire situation in both Quebec and in Ontario. Monday morning reports were that the whole Siscoe mining district was in the path of raging forest fires and that one Quebec village had been gutted and another saved only through shifting of the wind. In Ontario a similar situation exists in the Meteor lake district where hundreds of men armed with latest equipment are battling flames.

Ontario and Quebec are a long way from British Columbia and the southern interior district. Forest fires there cause no alarm in this section. But the Quebec and Ontario fires should be taken as a warning in this part of the world. It is a well known fact that the southern interior, with its wide range of bush land and standing timber, is a nest for forest fires when the season is right. With an early spring and earlier warm weather, the temperatures creeping around the 90 degree mark, anything can happen in our forests. So let's be careful with matches, cigarettes and fire in the woods and on the shores of our many lakes and streams. A little care will save thousands of dollars and prevent such occurrences as whole villages being wiped out by the demon forest fire.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

A MOTHER

How can a mother ever find
Through toil-filled days, through hours of stress,
So many ways of being kind,
So many moods of tenderness?

Life, sometimes, is a lonely thing,
Bare of beauty and drained of dreams;
How can a mother always bring
Shining hope back and faith's white gleams?

Wild regrets like grim ghosts will rise,
Threatening all of the years ahead;
Who but a mother can check vain sighs
And show how futile are tears we shed?

Failure and folly may trouble each breast;
How can a mother's clear eyes see
All of the virtues once possessed
Bloom in the heart, as it used to be?

What the Press Is Saying

PROPER ATTITUDE

When Mayor Stewart of Toronto reprimanded an unemployed deputation the other day because they attempted to present a list of "demands", he took a stand that will earn the approval of all thoughtful citizens. There is a certain type among those on relief who need just such a sharp rebuke as Toronto's chief magistrate administered when he remarked, "You come in here next week with a 'demand' and I'll have you taken out by a police officer."—Peterborough Examiner.

A WAY TO OBLIVION

Surely a better way to oblivion even than being vice-president of the United States is for a man to marry a woman who is famous. Who, for instance, is Helen Wills Moody's husband? All we know is that his name is Moody, and were it not that Helen was old-fashioned enough to take it, too, we would not even know that.—Winnipeg Tribune.

Discussing crime and law enforcement, a United States editor makes this observation: "Scotland Yard would function no better than the Chicago police if Scotland Yard were subjected to the same kind of political pulling and hauling that confronts the Chicago force." And that is just about the best tribute that could be paid to law enforcement in the United Kingdom.—Halifax Herald.

Between You and Me

By J. B. C.

A judge in a Kansas town had failed to be reappointed. He became cashier in a local bank. A man presented a check to be cashed. "I don't know you," he said to the man.

The man produced a business card and a lot of letters addressed to himself. "Not sufficient proof of identity," said the cashier. "Why, judge," protested the man, "I've known you to hang a man on less evidence than this." "That may be," replied the ex-judge, "but when I'm paying out money, I have to be careful."

Here's some inside dope for cigarette smokers:

When an Argentine sheep-herder lights his after-dinner cigarette he may be smoking part of a hawser of the Empress of Britain, some of Hitler's old tablecloth and the left sleeve of Stalin's second-best night-gown.

That was the statement of Fred T. Ronday, general inspector of the big cigarette-paper firm of Miguel y Costas y Miguel, of Barcelona, Spain.

"That isn't far-fetched at all," Mr. Ronday said. "Right here in Canada you may be smoking your neighbor's old linen in the paper of your cigarette—because there is no rice in rice-paper cigarettes."

"Of course, the materials are sterilized," he added, "but most cigarette papers are made of old flax and hemp—rope and linen. There is one firm in Java that's starting to use rice-straw, but most papers have none—they are better without it."

"Another thing," Mr. Ronday added, "is that you can't make anything but a rotten cigarette out of even the best tobacco with a poor paper—but you can make a good cigarette out of poor tobacco if you have good paper. English cigarette papers are probably the worst in the world—here's an English cigarette . . . look . . ." And he slit the paper from the cigarette, touched it with the top of his own, and held the smouldering paper under the reporter's nose. The smell was terrific.

"There are several hundred kinds of cigarette papers," he said, and continued to build little bonfires under the reporter's nose to show the difference in smell.

"The South Americans," he said, "like colored cigarettes. So we dye the paper brown with licorice extract. Europeans like more fancy dyes, and we flavor some of their papers with liqueurs. You can't just put any paper on any tobacco. You have to get a paper that'll burn at just the same speed as the particular blend—we have five speeds of papers."

He stated that China was almost equal to the United States as a cigarette market, and that business had kept steadily increasing despite depression. The five factories of Mr. Bonday's firm turn out daily enough cigarette paper to reach several times around the world.

"Depression means nothing—to the cigar men, yes—but the cigar's loss is the cigarette's gain," he added.

The scene of this littl eyarn was an Indian up-country railway station

The scene of this little yarn was an dians, an English official saw, to his regret, upon the platform a corporal and a private of a certain regiment somewhat the worse for liquor and inclined to be noisy. Close by on a bench, taking no notice whatever, sat two more men of the same regiment looking as quiet and respectable as it was possible for men to be.

"Can't you get hold of those noisy comrades of yours, and keep them quiet?" asked the official; and the reply was: "Very sorry, sir, but we can't do anything."

"But it will bring discredit on the regiment," he persisted, "why can't you do anything?"

Then came the amazing answer: "Beg pardon, sir, but yer see, it's like this. We're two loonatics, and them's the escorts!"

Auction and Contract Bridge

By the World's Leading Authority, MILTON C. WORK

GUARDING AGAINST BAD BREAKS

The Contract Bridge player considers that he has a bad break when an abnormal distribution of the adverse cards prevents him from taking the number of tricks that he has the right to expect. For example, when holding eight trumps in the two hands, the chances are two to one that the adverse division will be 3-2 and consequently, there is only one chance in three that it will be 4-1 or 5-0. When the unexpected division occurs and, as a result, the contract is defeated, the Declarer is apt to feel that he has suffered at the hands of the fickle goddess. There are cases, however, in which it is possible to combat the bad breaks successfully as the following hand shows:

NORTH: ♠K-4-2 ♥8-5 ♦Q-J-3 ♣A-9-7-6-2
WEST: ♠6 ♥A-K-9-6-3 ♦10-7-5-4 ♣Q-J-10
EAST: ♠Q-J-9-7 ♥Q-J-7-2 ♦8-6 ♣8-4-3
SOUTH (Dealer): ♠A-10-8-5-3 ♥10-4 ♦A-K-9-2 ♣K-5
D-39

The bidding did not cause the players much concern. South started with one Spade, West called two Hearts, North three Clubs, and East either passed or bid three Hearts. If East passed, South bid three Diamonds, North three Spades, and South four Spades. If East bid three Hearts, South bid four Diamonds and North four Spades.

With South the Declarer playing a ten trick contract, West led the King and Ace of Hearts, and then shifted to a Club. Most of the Declarers won with the King of Clubs, led a small Spade, winning with dummy's King and returned a Spade, taking East's Nine with South's Ace. When West refused, East was left with the two good Spades and, consequently, the contract was defeated.

The clever Declarers, however, guarded against this unfortunate division of the Spade suit. On the second Spade trick, they were able to make an insurance play. East had soundly played the Nine from Queen-Jack-Nine. If East had played the Jack, it would have been easy for the Declarer to win, enter dummy and lead a third Spade, but on the Nine, Declarer should play the Ten which, regardless of the division of the adverse Spades, must limit the adversaries to one Spade trick which they must take. Playing in this way, the bad break of the trumps would be offset by Declarer's skill.

Should South fulfil a three No Trumps contract?

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

THOUSANDS OF CANCER PATIENTS ALIVE TODAY BECAUSE OF PRESENT METHODS OF TREATMENT

Cancer is the greatest health problem which faces the world today, and this despite all the information that is being given by medical men, by magazine and newspaper articles and by broadcast by radio.

And the public is not entirely to blame because the idea that many have of cancer is that it causes severe illness, great pain accompanied by a nasty sore or abscess formation.

As a matter of fact "it is not unusual to find a patient suffering from cancer weighing about 200 pounds and looking blooming." The pain is often so slight that the patient doesn't believe it to be of importance. And there are often no other smyptoms to warn the patient.

Now the medical profession has no desire to scare people into thinking every sore or pain is cancer but there are certain points that must be remembered if cancer is to be prevented or cured.

Thus Dr. P. Bull, Oslo, says that the public must constantly be reminded that, (1) cancer can be completely removed when treated early; (2) for the time being we know only two methods for removing cancer: operation and x-rays or radium, separately or combined; (3) cancer often begins without or with very slight pain; (4) cancer at first causes no other symptoms than those from any other disturbance of the same organ—skin, stomach, intestine, liver or other organ; (5) indigestion is not a disease, but a painful "symptom" produced by many possible diseases, both in and outside abdomen, that is ulcer of stomach, gall stones, appendicitis, and diseases of the intestine; it may also be due to cancer of stomach, intestine, liver and kidneys; (6) cancer is so common after 40 to 50 years of age that everyone must consider the possibility of getting it, even if his previous health has been of the best; (7) the worst thing that can be done by one who imagines himself to be suffering with early cancer is to hide the disease instead of seeing a doctor.

Thus instead of thinking of cancer as a disease that is incurable, because no one has as yet learned its cause, and that it is therefore useless to try to fight it, the thought should be that early discovered cancer is curable, and that thousands of men and women are alive today thanks to the present known methods of cure—surgery, x-ray and radium.

LILAC TIME IN NELSON

(By Gretchen Gibson)

Gnomes of night, tugging the dark draperies from the sky, steal into the west. On rose and amethyst and saffron sunbeams the fairies of dawn ride forth from the east. (Flowery language is excusable in a flowery article!) Over the gardens of the sleeping city of Nelson, here, there, everywhere they alight. They waken the birds and bees. They arouse the butterflies. They wave their wands and our May morning glistens and hums. Activity becomes intense. The great business of another day begins. The fairies are thrilled. They coax the perfume from the grasses. They give color and personality to the flowers, to tulip and daffodil, to hyacinth and narcissus, to violet and pansy, to rockplant and garden shrub, and to the lovely lilac.

And that brings us to the subject of this article, lilac time in Nelson. How abundant our lilacs are, how beautiful and pravalent! They fling their perfume through the air and display their purple and white perfection from almost every corner. From Fairview to Granite road, from beyond the Great Northern track to the lake's edge and north shore they decorate our habitations. Each year they become more luxuriant, and boast a greater variety of sizes and purples. Some present pictures worthy an artist's brush

Scarlet-vested thrush
Over sward of green
Humming bird against
Honeysuckle seen—
Beautiful though these
Loveliest to me
Yellow butterflies
On our lilac tree.

To the passerby the scent and sight of a lilac bush invariably stirs memories of home, for the dawn fairies endow the lilac with a home-loving heart and a strange power to arouse our homing instincts. The lilacs seem to signify as strongly today, with the automobile purring past it, as it did in our grandmother's time, the sweetness and preciousness of home.

How fine a thing that nearly every Nelson child will have the memory in the later years of some beloved lilac bush in the garden!

Since Nelson is a city noted for its homes, it is too bad we could not next year at this glorious season, hold a carnival of lilacs, similar to the carnivals of roses held in other parts of the world. This carnival would be not only in honor of our decorative and plentiful lilacs, but in significance of that which they ever seem to personify, and which characterizes also our city—the strength and dearness of home.

KASLO HAS A VARIED 24TH

Crown May Queen; Hold Trap Shoot and Ball Game

KASLO, May 28—Kaslo's 24th of May celebration went off according to plans and weather conditions could not have been better for a full day's outing for the many visitors in town. A heavy north wind did hold up the trap shooting events for a short time, but this was eventually pulled off in time for the baseball game to start on schedule. The early morning saw large numbers of children wending their way to Vimy park where the children's sports were held. This was followed by the trapshooting which was won by the Kaslo team competing against a Trail team. Kaslo won by two points with O. E. Desmond, C. J. White, F. S. Rouleau and H. R. Abey composing the Kaslo and Ralph Garland, R. Williamson, A. McDonald and Bill Carrie the Trail team. This wound up the morning program.

At 1 o'clock the crowning of the 1934 May queen was in order. Sponsored by the Kaslo and District institute, this colorful and beautiful spectacle has been a special 24th of May feature for several years. Many who have witnessed these successive ceremonies stated that this year's crowning ceremonies surpassed in beauty many similar events of former years. Headed by the Kaslo City band the procession formed at the drill hall and marched to the government building and the coronation took place.

DAINTY QUEEN

Ilene Lind, the queen-elect, appropriately and beautifully gowned, was sweet and dainty. She was attended by Clara Horner, Phyllis Fox, Myrtle Leet and Eleanor Horner as maids of honor. Mabel Beck, the retiring queen was attended by Dorene Lind and June Gilker as maids of honor. Caroline Merrill was train bearer for the new queen and Patsy Abey acted in a like capacity for the retiring queen. The flag bearers were Paul Jo Merrill and Gilbert Hartin. The scene was further beautified by the bevy of flower girls, Jean Hendricks, Rita Robson, Billie Smith, Winnie Palmer, Louise Dykstra, Iris Mayzes, Mary Jo McHardy and Helga Augustine.

The actual crowning of the queen was most impressive, the crown made by Mrs. Bennett of Nashton was very beautiful and worthy of adorning the brow of any queen. For the entertainment of the royal party Joyce Austin and Edna Robson, attired in quaint costumes, danced the stately minuet to the music of the saxophone played by Dalton Murphy and to the music of the City band Sophie Surina danced a hornpipe.

The participants in this lovely pageant were trained by Miss Margaret Smith of the Kaslo public school teaching staff, and Miss Mary Barnett, teacher of the Shutty Bench school.

At 2 o'clock a baseball game was called at the ball grounds in Vimy park, the competing teams being from Slocan City and Kaslo. In the last two the Slocan boys piled up 14 runs to win 18-10. Owing to a misunderstanding the football game did not materialize, but a softball match between the Nelson Millionaires and a picked Kaslo team resulted in a win for the latter.

In the evening a dance was held in the drill hall sponsored by the local branch of the Canadian Legion and was largely attended by visitors from outside points as well as Kaslo'ites.

Many visitors took advantage of the fine day to enjoy picnic lunches at Vimy park and there were the usual large number of visitors in to aid Kaslo'ites in making the day a happy and successful one.

LONDON, (CP) —After a violent scene when she attempted to interfere with the guard changing ceremony at St. James Palace an elderly woman was arrested and detained for observation.

WHEAT PRICES ARE RUN UP 5 CENTS IN 'PEG

Old-Fashioned Bull Market as Result of Weather

TEMPERATURES UP OVER 90 DEGREES

European Conditions Also Bullish; Cash Grains Ease

WINNIPEG, May 28 (CP)—The old fashioned bull market returned to the Winnipeg grain exchange today. Wheat prices were run up more than five cents for the largest advance in 10 months, as a scorching sun blazed over the wilting crops of North American. Net gains were 4⅝ to 6⅞ cents.

At the close May wheat sold for 78 cents, July at 79 to 79¼ and October at 80⅝ to 81 cents.

Temperatures over western Canada rose over the 90 mark and practically no rain fell at any point. Winter wheat conditions in United States went back further while the weather outlook spelled disaster for spring wheat crops in the south. European crop conditions were also bullish.

Export sales amounted to 500,000 bushels of wheat, and Canadian mills were credited with taking an additional 400,00 bushels. It was believed foreign houses also added to their accumulation of wheat futures.

Liverpool wheat took little notice of the trend at Winnipeg and finished ¼d lower to ¼d higher. Chicago prices advanced their full limit of five cents, the highest gain permitted in a single day.

Cash grains spreads eased due to the sharp advance in futures prices, but coarse grains showed sharp gains with flax bounding nearly 10 cents.

MANY B.C. BERRIES GO TO ALBERTA

VICTORIA, May 28—The fruit and vegetable business in Victoria is good, the volume being greater. There is an abundant supply of local strawberries and the quality has improved. Some very fine specimens are coming in from Gordon Head, selling at $2.25 to $2.50 per crate. Local new potatoes are selling at 4 cents to 4½ cents per pound., Mainland new potatoes, 3 cents per pound. Old potatoes are easy, selling at $1.15 per hundredweight for local and $1.25 per hundredweight for interior. Hothouse tomatoes are selling at $3.40 per crate for dessert. Some Chinese are reported Bootlegging tomatoes at $2.10 per crate. Cucumbers are quoted at 40 cents per dozen; beets and turnips, 45 cents per doz.; green onions, 30 cents per doz. Okanagan onions are poor.

Vancouver—The wholesale fruit and vegetable trade has been affected slightly by the longshoremen's strike in Seattle in that it has some effect on price of any product that comes from there but fortunately the local produce is coming in pretty well so that the strike does not affect B. C. so badly as it might have done. Gooseberries are quoted at 6 cents per pound; cherries, 16 cents per pound; local strawberries are now taking the place of imported ones and are selling at $1.75 to $2 per crate. Canteloupes are quoted at $4 per crate; local cauliflower, $1 to $1.25 per crate; local head lettuce $1.25 per crate; local new potatoes, 4 cents per pound. Prices for poultry, live and dressed, remain unchanged; demand and supply good. There is no change in pork and veal prices. Wholesale prices for hay, grain and feed remain unchanged. No change in egg prices though production has fallen off to a great extent. This comes at a time when buyers of eggs for storage are just about supplied, which would account for the steadiness of the market.

Calgary—Daily volume strawberry receipts showing increase, 1,830 crates having arrived by express first three days of last week. Price has dropped to $2.60 per crate wholesale, but apparently this agreed price is not holding as numerous retailers are quoting 10 cents per hallock.

The great army, numbering nearly 1,000,000,men, that France had when the World War came in 1914, has shrunk to half that strength.

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP)—The bond market displayed a steady to firm tone today, although trading was extremely dull and most of the gains notably small.

There was a fair demand in the railway department as current freight car loadings and earnings indicated improvement. Union Pacific first 4s edged up to a new high for the past several years and Burlington General 4s passed their old record top.

Italian Kingdom 7s lost 2⅞ points following reports the Rome government would tighten exchange restrictions.

Exchange Rates

NEW YORK, May 28 (CP)—Sterling exchange easy at $5.08 for 60-day bills and at $5.09½ for demand.

Canadian dollars 51-6 per cent premium.

Francs 6.60¼ cents.

Lire 8.51 cents.

Uruguay 80.95 cents.

Canadian Dollar Extends Premium

NEW YORK, May 28 (CP)—Fluctuations were confined to fractional range in the foreign exchange markets today. The Canadian dollar extended its premium over the United States dollar from 3-16 to a closing rate of 5-16 per cent.

The pound closed at $5.09 for a net loss of ⅛ of a cent. The French franc wound up .00¼ of a cent higher at 6.60½.

Stock Exchange Workers Laid Off

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP)—Several hundred employees of New York stock exchange firms have been laid off during recent weeks, as a result of the extremely dull trading in the stock market, a canvass of leading commission houses indicated today. No accurate estimates as to the number laid off were available, however.

STOCKS LAG ON NEW YORK LIST

Trade at Low Ebb in All Sections But the Grains

By FREDERICK GARDNER
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP)—Stocks lagged behind the soaring grain market today but crept ahead quietly in continuation of the previous slow advance.

While speculators shifted into grains for real action, trading remained at low ebb on the stock exchange. Sales totalled 611,870 shares.

J. I. Cas got up more than 2 points at one time. Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck and International Harvester added fractions to their gain of last week.

The average price of 90 stocks closed six-tenths of a point higher at 78.1.

Strong spots, with net gains of 1 to 3 points, included Du Pont, Cudahy Packing, American Snuff preferred, Columbia Pictures, Minneapolis Honeywell Register, Union Gas & Paper and Auburn Auto.

Small buying was sufficient to lift prices in face of the thinness of the market. American Can. Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, General Electric and others p ked up fractional gains in line with the market generally.

WHEAT NEARS $1 PER BUSHEL

CHICAGO, May 28 (AP)— In whirlwind buying rushes today, wheat, corn, barley and oats each overtopped season high-price records, wheat jumping five cents and almost hitting $1 a bushel.

Temperatures that soared to 106 in the Dakotas and 100 in western Canada, with nearly complete absence of moisture throughout domestic spring wheat territory, came as a surprise to most traders, indications over the week-end having pointed to possible general break-up of drought this week.

Wheat closed excited at the maximum five-cents above allowed for a single day, with oats and barley both also at the maximum permitted. The close in wheat was 4⅞ to 5 cents up, compared with Saturday's finish, corn 3⅛ to 3¾ advanced, oats at 2⅞ to 3¼ gain, and provisions showing a rise of seven to 17 cents

PRICES BUOYANT ON TORONTO LIST

TORONTO, May 28 (CP)—Volume picked up and prices were definitely more buoyant today on the industrial section of the Toronto stock exchange.

Walkers common closed at 35¾ where it had a net gain of ¾ for the day. Brewers & Distillers gained 5 cents to 1.45 and Distillers Seagrams and Industrial Alcohol finished the day unchanged.

Narrow advances were recorded for Imperial, British American and McColl-Frontenac and International Petroleum added a full point. Pete touched 28¼, a new high for the year.

The interlisted leaders improved narrowly with the New York market with exception of Brazilian which held at 9⅜. C.P.R., Ford A and International had small gains.

ROSS TAKES JIMMY McLARNIN'S TITLE

Awarded Decision in Hair-Raising 15-Round Bout

Ross' Early Lead and Firm Finish Beats B.C. Battler's Rugged Display at New York

Tears Stream From McLarnin's Face as the Referee Lifts Ross' Hand After Two Judges Fail Agree on Winner

ROSS SLUGS WITH McLARNIN—TAKES PLENTY AND GIVES LOT

Both Dumped to Resin in Ninth But for No Count; Ross Barely Weathers the McLarnin Fury, 9th to 12th

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN BOWL, NEW YORK, May 28 (AP).—A blackened whirlwind from Chicago, glittery-eyed Barney Ross, wrote a brand new chapter in ringdom's fantastic history tonight as he added Jimmy McLarnin's welterweight crown to his own lightweight championship and ended a belting domination the Vancouver Irishman has held over ringmen for the past dozen years.

ROSS SLUGGED WITH McLARNIN

He carved his new record into the books in the boldest, most daring manner, the way no one said it could be done, by slugging with McLarnin, the dynamiter, through 15 savage rounds to win the decision of Referee Ed Forbes after two judges had failed to agree on the winner.

A mammoth crowd, estimated at 65,000, paying $225,000 to see a match that sounded the knell for the depression in boxing, stood for several minutes as Forbes raised Barney's hand and roared their approval of the boy from Chicago's Ghetto who succeeded where his illustrious predecessor, Benny Leonard, failed against Jack Britton in 1922.

From the second round through the ninth round, the dynamic little Ross, adding to ring immortality such as the feats of Gans, or Nelson, never knew, piled into the slightly heavier McLarnin and punched him, welcoming every exchange as few men over the Irishman's 12-year career ever have cared to do.

NINTH DUMPED

He started blood seeping from Jimmy's nose in the fourth round with hooks that crackled into the champion's head with the snap of a whip snake whip.

In the ninth he got off the floor after a left hook belted him from his feet, to thunder back into McLarnin with a retaliating southpaw smash that dumped Jimmy unceremoniously on his haunches in the resin.

Neither took a count in the round that turned the tide momentarily for the Irishman who in his thumping time smashed out Kid Kaplin, Sid Terris, Al Singer, Joey Sangor, Ruby Goldstein, and even the great Benny Leonard himself, before colliding this night with a different type of righter—a boy with a jaw of steel and the courage of a crusader.

TOUGH FOR ROSS

The little daredevil from Chicago faded all his bravery from the end of the ninth through the 13th, where he took command of the situation. In those five rounds, counting the 9th as well as the 13th, which was won from McLarnin by Referee Ed Forbes because of a low blow, Jimmy was the cherub from hell he has been aptly called.

With great courage Jimmy fought a fight in those rounds, all of it, where it had prevailed in the past against weaker foemen, it merely hurled this amazing little ring thoroughbred onto new heights. Barney took McLarnin's crunching left hooks and right smashes and though he lost ground, was weary at times, sick and hurt, he always had something in reserve.

BARNEY BLEEDS EARLY

In these rounds, it was always Ross who came back from the edge of darkness to drive McLarnin to cover with his crackling punches.

Blood dripped from Barney's lips as early as the fourth round, but it was the only visible damage, aside from the blotches on the side, that McLarnin could inflict even at the height of the storm. And in the 14th it was Jimmy, the devastating Irishman, who did keep the pace no longer.

Tears came back then, and fresh blood spurted from McLarnin's nose and from slight cuts under the eyes. The left eye was closing. In Jimmy's corner rang the hoarse call of old "Pop" Foster, the grizzled manager who found him selling newspapers, a 60-pound kid of 12, on a street corner in Vancouver.

"Keep fighting, Jimmy, keep fighting."

But like Ross, Jimmy was too tired. The Vancouver Celt was so heart broken at the decision he hurried from the ring, tears streaming down his face, and away before anyone could reach him.

THE PRELIMS

The preliminary program to the Barney Ross-Jimmy McLarnin welterweight championship battle got under way with a four-round victory for Teddy Loder, New York welterweight, over Frankie Cinque, also of New York, as the faithful jammed the huge Garden bowl close to its 70,000 capacity.

Loder weighed 144 pounds, Cinque 141¼.

Weather conditions were perfect with the night clear and a cool breeze driving off the heat of the day.

In the second preliminary, Peter Mike of Southampton, L.I., fought a four-round draw with Tony Scarpati, from Brooklyn.

Scarpati weighed 145½ pounds, Mike 146.

Johnny Consiglio, Brooklyn welterweight, won the decision over Carman Knapp of New Haven, Conn. Consiglio weighed 146¼, Knapp 145½.

Tommy Romano, a fine right hand puncher from Albany, N.Y., scored a technical knockout over Jimmy Phillips, Bernardsville, N.J., welterweight, in the first round of another four rounder.

Romano weighed 147, Phillips 148.

Davey Day, stablemate of Ross, defeated Frankie Marchese, New York lightweight, in a six-round preliminary that preceded the main bout. Day weighed 136, Marchese 134½.

THE ROSS-McLARNIN BOUT ROUND BY ROUND

ROSS FLICKS McLARNIN

McLARNIN LOOSENS UP

ROUND TWO—Ross stabbed at Jimmy's head with his left and the Irishman bobbed underneath with a left hook to the body and a right cross to the chin that made the lightweight blink his eyes. McLarnin crowded the little fellow, roughing him with both hands, driving lefts and rights to the body. He drove Ross into a corner with a swift barrage of body blows but Barney wheeled swiftly, pulled out, and stabbed Jimmy's head with lefts.

BARNEY HAS A ROUND

McLARNIN BLEEDS

McLARNIN HOLDING

ROUND FIVE—Fighting more cautiously, McLarnin stood in mid ring and tried to match right hands with Ross. But Barney had the swifter jab, and Jimmy was forced to block and duck away. Jimmy came back fast with a right that made Barney blink again, but Ross shook off the blow and flashed two rights into Jimmy's head. McLarnin threw a long right into Ross' side and Barney flashed back with both hands to the head, drawing fresh blood from McLarnin's nose.

Ross chased McLarnin across the ring and rocked him with a crushing volley of rights and lefts to the head. Jimmy wobbled and the crowd roared. Jimmy got his guard up and was holding Ross off with a left at the bell.

LUMP ON JIMMY'S FACE

ROUND SIX—Blood was still seeping from McLarnin's nostrils as he He packed his left into Ross' head, came out jabbing carefully at the bell, dropped two left hooks on the challengers' chin and promptly was tied in a clinch. As they sparred in midring, Ross hooked his left fiercely to McLarnin's head, drove him into the ropes, and then stepped back as McLarnin's head was caught under the upper strand. The crowd cheered as McLarnin freed himself and Ross came right back with a straight right that started a lump under McLarnin's left eye. Floundering uncertainly, his face blood-smeared, McLarnin managed to throw two long rights into Ross' body. Barney danced around him, flicking with his left, hooking it to the head, until the bell rang.

McLARNIN GETS A ROUND

ROUND SEVEN—McLarnin fought desperately to make an opening for his right hand as it became more and more evident that he now had to put Ross down in order to win. He thumped two lefts on the challenger's chin and drove a hard right into Barney's head but Ross bounced back. Jimmy smashed a right into Barney's side and a spot on the side of his glove glowed red as McLarnin's glove came away. Jimmy drove the challenger across the ring with three lefts to the head but missed again with a left and left himself open for another of Ross' cutting, lighting-fast left hooks. A right drove into Barney's body. Ross ripped into McLarnin with both hands, flayed him all the way across the ring, and drew fresh smears of blood from Jimmy's battered face. They slugged toe to toe on the ropes and were fighting furiously as the bell sounded, so furiously they did not hear the gong and Referee Forbes had to pull them apart.

ROUND IS DRAW

ROUND EIGHT—Jimmy poured at Ross' body with a long left, striving to get Ross' guard down. He succeeded, but the left hook he flashed to Ross' head landed high on the challenger's temple. Much steadier now, McLarnin pumped two left hooks into Barney's chin and they belted each other about the body in a clinch. Ross poured a stream of left jabs into McLarnin's head but Jimmy pulled back and drove a hard right to the jaw.

Ross hammered right back at McLarnin with two left hooks to the chin and both missed rights and lefts to the head as they started swinging from their sides. Ross hit McLarnin five times on the chin while McLarnin retorted twice. Jimmy's face spouted blood again and he fell into a clinch as the gong rang.

LOOKS LIKE A DRAW

ROUND NINE — Fresh apparently as though he were just starting out, Ross danced out behind his biting left hand and flicked McLarnin's soggy features. Jimmy tied him up and they pummelled each other's body in close. McLarnin drove in with a long right to the head but again the once stunning wallop in the Irishman's glove merely incited Barney to fury. Ross stormed back with both hands, into Jimmy's face, as the crowd howled as blood spattered all over his face. As they matched left hooks in mid-ring, McLarnin smashed a short belt to the jaw and Barney was bowled off his feet. He came up without a count and as McLarnin tore in, swinging with both hands, Ross lifted a left hook to the Irishman's jaw and Jimmy flopped over on his haunches. He came right up grinning and they shook hands. They were belting each other furiously again as the gong rang.

THEY ARE BOTH ALL IN

ROUND 10—They came right out into a clinch, both quite weary, and with Ross freshened for the first time with the aid of smelling salts in his corner. McLarnin pushed Ross across the ring, driving one good right to the body. Barney came off the ropes with two thudding left hooks to the chin. A long right and a high on the temple shook Ross, but he put down his head and tore into McLarnin savagely with both hands flinging a stream of leather to the Irishman's jaw. McLarnin almost fell from weariness as he missed a left hook and a right cross to the head, and Ross ripped furiously with both hands to the Irishman's body. Jimmy danced in an effort to get the spring back in his legs, and they bounced into each other, swinging long rights to the head that shook them both. They were both wavering slightly at the bell.

THEY TEETER AND PUNCH

ROUND 11—They seemed tired as they matched left jabs and Ross retreated all the way to the ropes into McLarnin's glancing right to the body. Jimmy drove three rights to the body as they came off the ropes but Barney started blood streaming again from McLarnin's nose with a short, stabbing right. There wasn't much on their punches now as they loafed a moment in mid-ring, but it was just a lull before the storm. Each loosed both hands simultaneously in two-fisted volleys to the head. They stood and swapped punches, full smashes, both teetering a bit in the blast. The crowd roared gleefully but the storm blew itself out and they leaned on each other, swapping lefts and rights in half hearted fashion, both very tired as the gong rang.

McLARNIN COMES BACK

ROUND 12—McLarnin stabbed the challenger's face with a long left jab and Barney answered in kind, neither landing effectively. McLarnin glanced a right off Ross' chin and pounded him into the ropes with both hands digging deep in the body. They wrestled clear, fell back into another clinch, and Ross held as Jimmy sunk his heavy fists again into the challenger's ribs. Barney started to fight back but McLarnin caught him with another left hook and right cross to the head, and once more Ross held. Blood was seeping now from Ross' lips. Still concentrating on the body as Barney tired under the fusillade, McLarnin drove Ross into the ropes and kept up a drumming fire. Ross staggered from weariness as he missed a left hook to the head just as the gong clanged.

ROSS REPLIES STRONGLY

ROUND 13—Ross boxed slowly and McLarnin pumped his head with left jabs before he switched to the body with a hard left hook and short right. Ross tried to speed up, but McLarnin caught him with a left hook and right cross to the chin. Back came Ross courageously, shooting both hands in staccato fashion to McLarnin's head, then to the body, as Jimmy missed with both hands. McLarnin drove Barney into a corner with a left and right to the head, but Ross savagely pounded his way out of there with a short two-fisted attack inside to McLarnin's head. McLarnin was warned for hitting Ross low with a left hook but Barney took matters into his own hands, and flailed Jimmy with a short two-fisted rally. Ross hooked his left into McLarnin's battered face at the bell.

A SLUGGING MATCH

ROUND 14—Referee Forbes signalled to the judges that McLarnin had lost the last round because of a low blow. Ross danced out smartly, poking lefts into Jimmy's face and they quickly fell into a slugging match in the center of the ring. Ross beat McLarnin to the punch with three left hooks to the head but Jimmy landed one solid left smash on the challenger's chin. They leaned on each other in a clinch, banging each other on the back of the head with both hands. McLarnin speeded up and whipped two crunching left hooks into Barney's chin and Ross held on. He pulled loose quickly, buried both hands in McLarnin's body in a furious exchange, wobbled for a second under a full right smash to the head, and then came back with amazing stamina to pummel McLarnin along the ropes. He beat Jimmy consistently to the punch with both hands from then until the bell rang.

THEY ARE ALL IN

ROUND 15—McLarnin tore into Ross, chugging both hands to the body, but Barney met him with a counter fire. They slipped into a clinch and Ross held tightly while McLarnin sought to cave him in with body smashes. Jimmy shifted suddenly to the head and three short jabbing left hooks but Barney stood toe to toe and slugged it out with him. Finally Barney had to hold, the challenger wavered under a crashing right to the side. It was just for a second though, the challenger flew back furiously with both hands, belting madly at McLarnin's head and sides. McLarnin staggered slightly as he missed a right, and they stood head to head, with a huge crowd yelling deliriously, wobbling and punching up to the final bell.

They were so tired they had to hang onto each other for support until help came from the corner.

Tough Luck!

Jimmy McLarnin of Vancouver, who lost his welter title to Barney Ross in New York, Monday. It was one of the best fights staged in many a year with both boys all-in at the end of 15 rounds.

HIGHFIELD IS GIVEN JUDGMENT FOR ENFORCING OF CONTRACT

Mr. Justice Fisher Finds That He Didn't Misrepresent Appledale Ranch; He Dismisses Fink Counter-Claim

Nelson assizes, spread over several weeks, finally wound up Monday afternoon, when Mr. Justice Fisher, who arrived from the Crow on the morning train, and at a forenoon session heard the balance of the witnesses in the suit of Joseph and Mary Jane Highfield vs. John Fink, gave judgment in favor of the plaintiff, who had asked enforcement of his agreement of sale with Fink, whereby the latter was purchasing the Highfield ranch at Appledale.

His lordship said that six months was the period usually allowed the defendant in these cases to satisfy the plaintiff, but in view of all the circumstances he gave the defendant one year to comply with the judgment.

Fink's counter-claim, for damages for fraud, and for rescission of contract, or alternately for abatement of the purchase price, was dismissed.

The plaintiff was given costs.

Purchase price of the property was $2200, on which Fink had made the down payment of $300, and only $150 in the interval since, or nearly four years.

FINK EXPERIENCED FARMER

In arriving at judgment, Mr. Justice Fisher said, he had to consider whether any misrepresentations had been made or facts withheld by Highfield at the time the men were making their agreement, and whether Fink had been misled thereby. Fink had been a farmer in Alberta for nearly 20 years, and admitted Highfield told him he on his part was an amateur farmer. He also admitted he could see the land as he went down, and that it had no crop or garden, but only grass.

It was about August 20, 1930, that the agreement was signed, his lordship said, and in a letter of August 12 Highfield had written to Fink in part: "If you bring along some good laying pullets, egg money will keep you going all winter . . . We started with a few fowls and made a living, and kept on until we were easy, and I knew nothing at all about working land to obtain a revenue." Of the two men, Fink was the farmer, commented his lordship. Fink admitted Highfield told him he was employed in a bank and knew nothing of farming. From these sources of evidence, his lordship found that Fink knew Highfield had been keeping chickens and had made his money out of them for the most part.

In another letter in evidence, Highfield wrote Fink: "I'll advise a friend up there that you are in the poultry line."

MARKETS AND WATER

From another letter of August 26, written by Highfield after Fink had signed but before Highfield had, his lordship quoted for the purpose of showing the line of discussion between the two men, and what was in their minds at that time: "If you can raise layers, the poultry proposition will be excellent. At any rate, that is what we made our living from. I will give you the exact formula." Another excerpt was: "I don't think you need to worry about canning vegetables. I think you will be able to market them in the lumber camps without difficulty." A further remark was: "If you want to irrigate the top land, I think you can get the Douks to let you use water from their pipe-line."

Quite frequently, remarked his lordship, a plaintiff on the stand was reluctant to make admissions, but in this case Highfield seemed to be very frank as to what he had told Fink about the water and the markets.

FINDS NO FRAUD

"And I say here," stated his lordship, "there was no fraud, and I accept the evidence of the plaintiff Highfield as to what he told Fink, and I believe he sincerely believed what he was saying to Fink to be true." In actual face, the statements were substantially true.

Respecting the water, the statements were substantially true at the time the deal was being discussed, the evidence showed. Mrs. Munch's evidence was that the water in the creek had been low in one season, that of 1922 or 1923, she thought, when they had to find where the springs issued. And in 1931, the year after the agreement was signed, and a very trying season, they got water. Mrs. Munch had lived on the place 14 years—from 1911 to 1925—and did mixed farming and raising chickens and found a market, and had all the water needed, the creek running all the time, though low in one season. She also stated they were able to get water from the wells they dug.

ACCEPTS HIGHFIELD EVIDENCE

"I accept the evidence of Highfield that during the five years he was there, there was always water in the creek," stated his lordship. "I don't think I have any evidence called by Fink, as to there ever having been a time before the agreement when there was no water; but we have evidence from Highfield's witness of one low season, Highfield says he put a dam in to conserve the water when it should get low. That dam was there for Fink to see. I don't think what Highfield said to Fink could be interpreted as a statement that the creek didn't get low. There is no evidence—or none that I accept—that there ever was a year when there was no water."

There was also, his lordship pointed out, the suggestion to Fink that if he wanted to irrigate, he could get water "from the Douks."

Fink went on the ground on July 8, and saw the property. It was to be taken into consideration that he was a farmer, and was there for the purpose of seeing that creek.

FINK NOT MISLED

"In all the evidence, I find there was no misrepresentation," said Mr. Justice Fisher. "Nothing was said that misled Fink in regard to the water." His visit was made in July, in the period of hot weather, though the season was not a dry one as compared with 1931, or later years, respecting which Fink spoke.

Coming next to the representations made by Highfield respecting markets, his lordship noted that in this matter also Highfield was frank on the stand, and admitted he told Fink there was a local market in the camps. Highfield said he told Fink, not that he could sell anything he produced, in that market, but that he could sell all his vegetables.

The evidence was that there were camps in the district at that time. There might not be now, but at the time Highfield made the statement it was true.

FINK STILL CONFIDENT

His lordship obtained light on Fink's view of conditions from a letter written on July 19, 1932, two years after the agreement, and after he had passed through a dry season, Fink telling Highfield: "I don't want any present from you. I'll pay the price for the land, but farming is a long process, not a 30-day business." The inference from that was that even then Fink believed he would pull through.

"I find," said Mr. Justice Fisher, "that there was a further agreement between these parties after the first interest had been paid, about November 11, 1931, that there should be no more interest.

"My conclusion is that the counter-claim should be dismissed, and the claim of the plantiff for accounting should be allowed, but only up to that date." His lordship allowed Highfield costs on both claim and counter-claim.

MORNING SESSION

At the forenoon session Mrs. Katie Munch and Mrs. Cora B. Flynn, both of Appledale, gave evidence in regard to markets for ranch produce, and in regard to the water conditions.

H. E. Dill was called to give evidence respecting a former deal on the property, which had been cancelled, and the money returned. The object of this evidence, which was called at his lordship's desire, was to clear up the matter of title.

E. P. Dawson, counsel for Highfield, made his address to the court before the 1 o'clock adjournment.

After resumption, Fink, who conducted his own case, made a short address, chiefly stressing the water aspect.

MIDDLESEX IS ON SHORT END

Australians Win by 10 Wickets; Don Bradman Stars

LONDON, May 28 (CP Cable).—The touring Australian cricketers defeated the Middlesex county eleven by 10 wickets this afternoon, ending the match a day ahead of time.

Making up for continued weakness under fast bowling, the Australians were cheered by the return to form of the formidable Don Bradman. Bradman, who in recent innings has twice been bowled for a duck and on another occasion for five, compiled 160 runs, including a six, a five and 27 fours.

258 RUNS SATURDAY

Middlesex were dismissed for 258 runs Saturday while the Australians closed their first innings with 345 runs. Middlesex were all out for 114 runs in their second innings and the Aussies got the needed 29 runs for victory without losing a wicket.

With the exception of Bradman, who had one of his best free-hitting innings, the Aussies were uncomfortable before the county bowling. The first two wickets went disastrously, Captain W. M. Woodfull and W. H. Ponsford both being bowled for ducks, by J. Smith, young fast bowler.

PULLS HAT TRICK

Then after lunch today Henry Enthoven, in his first over, pulled the hat-trick; dismissing Hans Ebeling, Clarry Grimmett and T. W. Wall, Enthoven wound up with four wickets at a cost of 59 runs, while Smith altogether took four for 99.

The Aussies had their revenge when the county players batted the second time. Grimmett took five wickets for 27 runs, just over five runs apiece, and he took two wickets in a row on two occasions.

It was the fifth victory for the Australians in eight matches since their tour began. The other three were all draws.

Bourlamaque, a space of about 30 miles. He reported a bad blaze close to the Pandora mine in Cadillac township and expressed fears the plant might be destroyed unless the wind changed.

1800 OUT IN QUEBEC

More than 1800 men, comprised of forest rangers, villagers, miners and others were fighting flames in Quebec province. The bush was aflame in Wyemantecheyne, St. Maurice county; in the townships of Escourt and Botsford, in Riviere Du Loup; in Abitibi, Temiscamingue, Lake St. John and Gaspe counties and along the north shore of the St. Lawrence river.

Worst spot in Ontario was in the Sudbury district where some 300 men battled two large blazes, meanwhile hoping that heavy clouds mean rain.

A severe fire burned in Moffitt township, sweeping along an eight-mile front while another was out of control in Falconbridge township.

Lack of rain gave the fires ample opportunity to spread. Most of the timber burned, it was reported, was not of merchantable calibre.

The Aldermac mine loss was the heaviest reported. The plant compressor and hoist houses over the shaft were attacked while the steel house was levelled. Arntfield village nearby was being gradually evacuated for fear the homes might be destroyed.

The Frank Bais supply depot in Cadillac township fell prey to fires, a fully equipped blacksmith shop and another building being destroyed.

"It is better to be here alive than a hero dead," chimed in Rossi, at the controls when the big ship descended, 38 hours and 28 minutes out of Le Bourget field.

Both looked tired from the 3700-mile oceanic crossing. But they would not admit it.

CALL FOR CHAMPAGNE

With a police escort, the flyers sped by motor car to a Park avenue hotel before a reception by Mayor Fiorello H. Laguardia at the city hall. Once in their hotel suite, their first request was for a quart of champagne.

Then, Codos amplified the remarks at the field about the plane's trouble: "The increased vibration, spreading from the wings, would probably have knocked the ship to pieces. The rudder also started to vibrate and we were afraid we might lose it.

LEAKING OIL

"Also the engine was leaking oil."

While their own objective was not attained, the Frenchmen achieved the honor of being the first to fly the Atlantic in both directions. Last year, they spanned the ocean eastward in setting a long-distance nonstop record from New York to Syria.

Rossi and Codos indicated they intended to journey to San Diego by stages.

The aviators left Le Bourget field (Paris) at 11:10 p.m., E.S.T., Saturday night and made the flight to New York in 38 hours and 18 minutes.

will regulate inter-provincial and export trade. Each scheme or marketing code will be enforced by the producers themselves, subject to the approval of the federal cabinet.

WIDEN THE SCOPE

Under a separate part of the bill, investigations might be held into price spreads. Prompted by opposition members, the government changed this to investigations into natural or regulated products, it first being the intention of the government to limit to regulated products. The effect on the amendment was to widen the scope of the investigation.

Another government amendment might have a far-reaching effect on court action following investigations into such matters as excessive spreads or unfair trade practices. If a person or corporation were found to be outside the law. The evidence of the investigators would be turned over to the attorney-general of the province in which he lived. If, within three months, no action in the courts was started, the Dominion could open it. This amendment placed the marketing bill on a parity with the Combines Investigation act in this respect.

RIDE INTO TRAP

Early in the day, the Liberals were led into a parliamentary trap when they demanded a vote on the most contentious clause in the bill, which gave the cabinet power to restrict exports and imports and licence shippers. It passed 39-2 with a score of Liberal members not voting because they were paired.

Five Liberal front-benchers, including their leader, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, announced they were paired or they would have voted against the clause.

"This is quite irregular," interjected Chairman A. U. G. Bury, Cons., Edmonton East. "We take no notice of pairs."

TEACH STAFFS ROTARY'S CODE

McLeod of Vancouver Urges Plan Upon Local Club

Making a strong plea for the introduction of Rotary ethics into each member's business, in such a way that the member's employees would be enthusiastically seconding them, and that the public would know, from the high principles practised, that this was a Rotarian business, Stanley McLeod of Vancouver, a visitor in Nelson, Monday advocated definite education of employees in the Rotary code.

Mr. McLeod, who was speaking under the auspices of the local club's committee on education, of which R. Andrew was acting chairman, is a charter member of the Vancouver Rotary club, and has often addressed the Nelson Rotarians.

He said for 15 years he had been advocating definite training of employees in the Rotary code of business ethics.

Of course a Rotarian could initiate policies that were based on the Rotary code, but if he didn't take his employees into his confidence, the work would be less Rotarian than it could be. If a member's employees understood merely that he belonged to a glorified luncheon club, they would not connect his policies with the Rotary code.

MUST PERMEATE

It seemed to Mr. McLeod a peculiar idea that a man's business could reflect his ideals if his employees did not work with him.

Where the whole force understood that its house was a Rotary house, and that the highest rules of business conduct were to prevail in all its dealings with the public, there would be that straight dealing, that extra service beyond what the public would ordinarily expect, that would soon mark it.

And the influence of that example would spread in the business community.

Although the Rotary movement had many high objectives, even world ones, Mr. McLeod said he was of the opinion that Rotary was best expressed, not through its spectacular achievements, but through the business lives of its members. Where the Rotary code was exemplified in a business, the public would soon sense a diference. Ultimately there would also be a material reward, and the institution would profit literally from its high standard.

WORLD INFLUENCE

The more employees were instructed in the Rotary code, the better, for with Rotary now practically girdling the world, soon a new deal would be entered upon that would make a concerted force of Rotary. Out of this a greater Rotary would arise, that would have something to do with moulding governments.

Mr. McLeod was thanked for his address and asked to convey to his home club the greeting of Nelson Rotarians.

John Smith reported on the trip to Coeur d'Alene, made on the 24th by a party of 30 Rotarians and Rotary Annes, to the hilarity of the members.

C. B. Garland is organizing the next trip, which is to Kelowna June 9 and 10.

constables, was driven from the reserve by one of the slayers to the point several hundred yards beyond the gate where it was found backed against a tree on the bank of the Nicola river below the highway.

INQUEST ADJOURNED

Meanwhile, the inquest into Gisborne's death has been adjourned until June 5 and the body has been released for burial Wednesday. Enos George and his brother Richardson are held on murder charges under remand until June 5.

A desperate fight was being waged in the Indian hospital, to save the life of a third brother, Joseph, suffering from a fractured skull and pierced eardrums. A murder charge was ready to be laid against him but his condition would not permit its presentation.

The search for Carr's body continued and a patrol of the river bank was being maintained for 30 miles between the reserve and the confluence of the Nicola and the North Thompson.

MAULERS' WIN IS PROTESTED

Take Savoys Into Camp 11-8; Gillett, Duffy Hitters

The Maulers won their second straight victory in the local intermediate baseball league by taking a free-hitting game from the Savoy Hotel nine 11-8 on Friday evening. The Savoy club protested the game on the grounds that Anthony Scanlan and Scotty Notman were unregistered players.

After retiring the Maulers with one run in their half of the first inning, the Savoy team scored four runs, but in the second and third innings the Savoy club was blanked while the Maulers scored four runs in the second and three in the third. Tom Crack relieved Joe Hunden on the mound for the Savoy Hotel team in the fourth inning and showed good form, retiring five batters by the strikeout route in the fourth and fifth, although touched for three runs. The Savoy team scored two more runs in each of the fourth and fifth innings to bring the final score to 11-8.

Scott, Kraft and Gillett shared the mound duties for the Maulers. Duffy and Gillett were the batting stars with three hits each, including a two-bagger. Fred Hamman, who seems to star at any game he takes up, poled out a home run over the left field fence for the Savoy team in the first inning.

The teams were as follows:

Maulers—Pat Duffy, Frank Kraft, Walter Gillett, Johnny Wallace, Scotty Notman, George Stewart, Steve Scott, DeWitt McQuaig, and Anthony Scanlan.

Savoy Hotel—W. Arit, D. Ball, S. Brinley, C. Smith, R. Culley, F. Hamman, P. Kuntz, R. Gibbon and J. Hunden.

PARK SAFEGUARDS MAY START EARLY

May Have Life Guard for Holidays in June; the Appointments Made

Possibility of safeguards for bathing at Lakeside park before the usual Dominion day date loomed at the city council session Monday night, when at the suggestion of Alderman Ross Fleming, the parks committee, of which Alderman T. W. Slader is chairman, was empowered to arrange for life guard duty on Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays of June if it deemed it advisable.

On the recommendation of the parks committee, the council decided to offer the Lakeside park refreshment concession to A. A. Perrier at $100, with Mrs. C. Hookings next choice, and Mrs. Burnett next.

Lakeside park attendants were appointed for the July-August session —Gilbert Goucher life guard at $65 per month, Miss Helen Ferguson sports instructress and swimming instructress at $5 a month, and Miss Vera Holiday, check-room attendant at $1 per day.

It was also decided to equalize the remuneration of P. Pallend, Vernon street bandstand caretaker, $30 per month the year round, instead of $20 for six months and $40 for the other six.

men—the delegates include 15 foreign ministers—and the subsequent discussion, with intervals, will run into next week.

URGES ENCOURAGEMENT

After the speeches, the conference steering committee meets again in the light of the statements by the various delegations will decide the future of the conference.

At this afternoon's brief private sitting of the steering committee Mr. Henderson urged delegates not to be discouraged. The gravity of the situation "commands more than ever the unflagging determination to secure a convention," he said.

Comment among the delegates and observers centered on the steadily increasing armaments of the world since the conference began in 1932.

Sir John Simon, the British foreign secretary, who has come in the hope of possibly bringing the powers to some sort of compromise, privately emphasized that Britain has done all that can be expected in the way of actual disarmament, and is not inclined to lead the way any further.

WOULD ENTER LEAGUE

Litvinoff is expected to push his plan for mutual assistance pacts. Russia is generally understood to be desirous of entering the league, which would facilitate her efforts at strengthening her western frontiers and leaving her free to concentrate on the Asiatic frontiers.

The Russian delegate is confidently expected to bring forward the policy of political security as the surest—the only—foundation for disarmament.

British and American spokesmen had a long conference today, ending with expressions to the effect the situation is grave and that collapse of the 27-months-old conference is certain unless some heroic measure is taken.

Adding to the general tensity and confusion, which has probably not been duplicated at any big conference of late years, was a rumor that Italy might follow Germany and Japan and bolt from the conference.

And on Wednesday the league council faces the problem of the actual warfare in the Gran Chaco — the "Green Hell" in which Paraguay and Bolivia have been struggling for months and years.

The Rockets started to slam the ball all over the lot in the early innings, to take a lead that the Fairview batters could never overcome.

Graeme Steed and Cyril Blaney pitched for the Rockets, with Hawkins, Gallicano and Wallace doing mound duty for the Fairview nine.

Brennan, Lutkwich, Ball and Pasacreta shared the mound duties for the New Grand club. Brennan struck out four and walked none, Lutkwich fanned two and walked two, Ball struck out one, Pasacreta walked one and fanned one. McIver and Mathews pitched for the Athletics.
