alone, on Mound for Cubs, Passes Foxx Intentionally Only to Have Miller Break Up Game With the $50,000 Blow of the Series

SHIBE PARK, PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14—The dreams of e old master, Connie Mack, came true this afternoon when s youthful Athletics won the baseball championship of the orld with a finish that packed all the thrills of a story book max, all the nerve tingling excitement of the final act of a elodrama.

The ninth inning of fantasy became the ninth of reality hen men of Mack, American League champions, surged from hind to score three runs and beat the Chicago Cubs, champns of the National League, 3 to 2 in the fifth and deciding me of the world's series.

With the President of the United States and the first lady the land to applaud them, joining the applause of more than ,000 fans, the A's for the second straight game demonstrated eir unconquerable spirit by rallying to win after the game emed hopelessly lost.

MACK'S BIG MOMENT

Th finishing rally was the big moment for the old master. mest defense of the Cubs to clinch the series by a margin of ack, as he saw his fighting young club slash through the ur games to one and give him his fourth world's championip. Fate and a number of hard hit balls, it seemed, were comed to make safe what is now a world's record for the 67 year d leader of the Athletics. No other manager in baseball has er won four world's series. This was Mack's fourth in six tries nce 1905 adding 1929 to the other victorious years of 1910, 11 and 1913. John McGraw is the only other living man who s won as many as three world's series titles, the mark which e late Miller Huggins also attained with the Yankees.

There did not seem more than the notest chance for the Athletics to n today after they had been held two hits for eight innings, with n out in the ninth. Bing Miller, teran right fielder of the Mackmen, ove the decisive blow to the scoreard a two bagger that brought Al mmons across with the winning run er George Haas, big, raw boned centfielder, had tied the count with a ashing home run over the right d wall, as Max Bishon rested on t. Millers drive with the count 2 d 2 spoiled the last desperate strategy of the Cubs and their big right nder, Pat Malone, in passing Jimmy ve intentionally. It goes down as the ,000 blow of the series, deciding the ference between the winners and rk share of the spoils.

One man out, Pat Malone, bearing wn with a world of stuff, the Cubs n the alert to protect their someat slender lead knowing that their maining hopes rested entirely on the tcome, determined to let no loose our such as blew Saturday's game. ench, another pinch hitting "bust" the series, fanned, but Max Bishon ought the crowd on its feet. He hit slanting drive that flirted with the rd base line all the way down. It was held to a single only by fast rk by Riggs Stephenson.

George Haas was swinging his bat, rhaps the same one with which he ited his trick homer to center in turday's seventh, the drive that Hack lson lost in the sun. The first pitch me in, a "high hard" one, a trifle side. The crack was drowned out a bedlam of shouting. The ball ched high, Kiki Cuyler backed to e wall but it was over the fence, er by a good margin, as it dropped to Twentieth street and bounced on e porch of a house in the row which d 2000 more hellering fans on top.

In a few minutes, all of Malone's at pitching, all the fine deefnse work the Cubs, had been offset. No sun uld take away any of the lustre of at wallop. It was a man-sized homer d pandemonium was loose as Bishoop d Haas trotted around the bases.

Mickey oCchrane grounded out to rnsby for the second out but Al mmons, who led the big barrage Satday again proved himself a great tter in the pinch. He smashed ne to the score board for two bases d the winning run was only a few ides from the plate, Cub strategy tated on intentional pass to Jimmy xx despite the fact that Jimmy d not done a thing all afternoon. g Miller garnered one of the two s made off Malone up to the ninth t the Chicago master minds figured was easier to get than the slugging xx. Bing, as if he felt no resentent over his implied reflection on hisility, stood nonchalantly at the plate he let four go by, two balls and o strikes. Malone was pitching utiously, working the corners, but ller was now ready for business. e veteran outfielder swung on the xt ball, a fast one, waist high, and ent it on a line between Cuyler and Wilson.

BIG BRITISH AIRSHIP HAS TRIAL FLIGHT

The R-101, Largest Dirigible in the World, Has a Five Hour Cruise

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Whatever the experts may say, London today voted the R.-101 a fine lunch hour spectacle. Her appearance over the metropolis gave rise to scenes reminiscent somewhat of what happened when London experienced her first daylight air raids in the war—before Londoners had learned there was never anything to see on such occasions, and the best place was in doors, best of all down cellar.

On the ground there was not a breath of wind and low lying clouds wer heavy. But the great airship, making her first flight, was flying so low that her huge bulk could readily be appreciated, the more so as she was escorted by a group of airplanes buzzing around her like gnats.

The R.-101 came over from Cardington by way of "Bleak Hampstead's swarthy moor," though Hampstead is scarce deserving nowadays of Macaulay's description. She made her way towards St Pauls but needless to say kept the great dome and cross at a respectable distance.

CROWDS SEE SHIP

The roofs of London's densely packed warehouses and office buildings were thick with sightseers. Crowds, on business bent, stopped in throngs in the streets gazing upward at this giant fish of the air as she slowly swung around London city. At times she rose a little and again dropped. Had the sun been shining her great bulk would have presented the appearance of burnished silver. As it was, she presented the sober brilliance of old Sheffield plate.

The crowds were obviously disappointed when no sign of life was discernible on the vessel. They forgot that except for her control car all the accommodation of the R.-101—lounge, smoking room, cabins, dining room and other spaces—are enclosed within the envelope itself.

And the roar of London's traffic, despite the crowded streets, was sufficient almost to drown the airship's powerful engines, except when she passed over the suburbs. It was a silent visit almost throughout. She carried a crew of 38 and 14 passengers, who enjoyed a hot luncheon during the trip.

Six Vessels Fail to Pull the Empress of Canada Off Rocks

WILL BLAST AWAY ROCKS UNDER LINER

Pump Oil From Fuel Tanks in Forward Holds to Lighten Vessel

SEVERAL HOLES ARE PATCHED UP SOME

Rests on Reefs From Bow to Midships; Try to Pull Again at Noon

VICTORIA, Oct. 14.—Six salvage vessels pulling on the Empress of Canada, queen of Pacific ocean steamships, moved the liner a few inches this afternoon, but she stopped there and could not be started again from the jagged rocks near Albert Head where she went ashore in a thick fog Sunday. Her long white nose this evening still thrust itself almost into a hayfield which rises tranquilly from the treacherous rocks of the shore. The steamer had practically completed a voyage from Southampton to Victoria and Vancouver and was to have re-entered the trans-Pacific service of the Canadian Pacific Steamships, from which she had been withdrawn for re-conditioning. The grounding caused practically no inconvenience to the 97 passengers.

VICTORIA, Oct. 14—Although it had bee nplanned to make another attempt at flood tide shortly before midnight to pull the stranded steamer Empress of Canada off the rocks near Albert Head, it was decided late tonight, to start work at daybreak tomorrow on cutting and blasting away the pinnacle of rock which holds the giant liner fast. Salvors hope to remove the obstruction by noon tomorrow, and will then attempt to haul the steamer off into deep water.

All life boats from the Empress have been towed to Esquimalt and refrigerated cargo shipped to Vancouver. Oil late tonight was still being pumped out of the ship's tanks to lighten her bow for the attempt to release her tomorrow.

The big Canadian Pacific seeamships trans-Pacific liner is resting on the reefs from her bow almost amid-ships at McIllwaine's point, just south of Albert Head.

The stern of the liner is well clear of reefs in about 42 feet of water, giving a wide play with the rise and fall of the tides.

More than 1000 gallons of fuel oil was pumped from the ship today and compressed air was pumped into the forward holds.

The ship, valued at $8,000,000, was built on the Clyde in Scotland in 1922 by the Fairfield company. She is of 21,517 net tonnage, 627 feet long, with a breadth of 77.9 feet and a depth of 42.2 feet. She is a steel, twin-screw vessel and considered the largest passenger vessel plying the Pacific ocean. Damage caused by the crash was estimated at more than $200,000 after a casual examination.

Less Money is Spend on Race Tracks, Canada

OTTAWA, Oct. 14—Race track betting statistics which have been compiled by the department of agriculture indicates a slight falling off in the total amounts wagered on Canadian race tracks during the season which has just closed, as compared with 1928. The total amount wagered on all Canadian race tracks in 1929 was $45,580,845, which is a decrease of $380,083 below the figures for the previous year. It might be pointed out however, that there were 15 days less racing this year as compared with last.

Of the six provinces in which legal betting takes place, Ontario easily takes the lead in this regard, the total amount wagered on the eight Ontario tracks being $27,028,076, and of this amount $15,636,347 was bet on the four Toronto tracks.

Of the three prairie provinces, Saskatchewan is the only one where an increase is shown, decreases being registered in both Manitoba and Alberta.

The grand jury, selected at the fall assizes here yesterday, was composed of: J. B. Gray, Nelson, foreman; W. R. Campion, Nelson; John R. Craig, Trail; H. Giegerich, Kaslo; A. G. Gelinas, S. J. U S A IS BID ADIEU BY THE BRITISH PAIR

Premier MacDonald And His Daughter Stop at Niagara Falls

"REAL REGRET" IN LEAVING STATES

He Is Guest at Banquet in His Honor; Receives a Loving Cup

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 14—The mighty Niagara was cited this evening by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald as symbolizing the work which he and other peace makers are trying to accomplish. Speaking at a dinner given in his honor by the New York state reservation commission, the British Labor premier told of a visit to the great cataract 20 years ago. Then he told his listeners, it seemed as if the water fall was going to defy humanity, was going to refuse the efforts of mere man to harness it. But today it has pielded in a measure, to the needs and the efforts of man.

"I find that the mind of man, the arts of man and the dreams of man have been more potent than Niagara," said the prime minister, and he added, the peace makers of the world were working in similar fashion on the rough, untamed, unbridled natures of mankind.

Mr. MacDonald, his daughter Ishbel, and members of their party, paused here tonight, on the threshold of Canada. The prime minister had accepted an invitation of the state commission to come to Niagara and be their guest for the time he was here. The party arrived in Niagara Falls shortly after six o'clock in the evening, and after going to their rooms for a short time they attended the dinner in the Niagara hotel. Judge Alphonso T. Clearwater, president of the commission, presided at the banquet and following the speech of Premier MacDonald, the British Labor leader was presented with a large silver loving cup, given by Frank Spitzmiller, a member of the commission. The cup bore an inscription indicative of the desire for peace which animates Mr. MacDonald.

Mr. MacDonald's speech, the last which he will deliver in the United States, was brief.

"I am leaving the United States with real regret in my heart," the prime minister said.

"I would have liked to stay longer. I can't. I would have liked to see more of you. I can't.'

He must go on and he could say only a most sincere "thank you," for the welcome which had been given him. He would say no more.

Joe Harpshaw, Sandon Miner Not Guilty of Killing Seg Myklebos

Murder Trial at Fall Assizes Ends in Day's Session; Jury Returns "Not Guilty" Verdict After Deliberating Just 22 Minutes

ACCUSED ON STAND DECLARES HE HAS NO KNOWLEDGE OF KILLER

Myklebos Fell Dead as Accused Was Putting Bottle on Floor; Case Arose Out of Sandon Killing on September 20th Last

Joseph Harpshaw, 42, miner of Sandon, was in the local court house, at 10:20 o'clock, found not guilty of the murder in Sandon on September 20 last, of Segvbolt Myklebos. The jury of which R. Brereton of this city was foreman, was out for just 22 minutes. Harpshaw was discharged without comment from Mr. Chief Justice Morrison who presided over the court.

Myklebos was murdered in the home of J. T. Brady in Sandon while in the presence of Harpshaw. There was nothing shown in the evidence as to who was responsible for the shooting. Harpshaw, taking the stand in his own defence denied the killing and denied ever owning a gun. He was given a good character by Slocan district residents. According to the testimony of the accused Myklebos had been shot down by a bullet from an unknown quarter while he (Harpshaw) was stooping over to place a boottle on the floor in the front room of the Brady home. He had, himself, informed the police of the killing.

E. C. Wragge of Hamilton, Wragge and Hamilton, appearing for the crown, called five witnesses. E. G. Matthew, conducting Harpshaw's defence, called six witnesses and the accused to testify.

Harpshaw appeared in county court in Nelson on October 1 before Stipendiary Magistrate John Cartmel where he pleaded not guilty to the charge laid against him and reserved his defense for his hearing in the assize court yesterday.

E. G. Matthew appeared in both hearings as counsel for the defense while E. C. Wragge appeared as counsel for the crown yesterday.

E. C. Wragge counsel for the crown in synopsizing the case for the jury stated that on the evening of September 27, Harpshaw and a friend had visited the Brady house. Mrs. Brady, he informed the jury did washing and sewing for the miners at Sandon. Harpshaw and his friend, who was very drunk, asked Mrs. Brady for a drink. She refused the request. The friend left the house and Myklebos came to the door and asked for some food, saying that he had not eaten that day. This man was known to Mrs. Brady and she invited him in to have some oyster stew with her and her husband. While the stew was being prepared Mykelbos and Harpshaw were in the sitting room together where they had been left talking. Mrs. Brady had taken her little dog to the bedroom to put it to bed and Brady was in the kitchen from which place he heard the two men in the sitting room talking about nationalities. He stepped to the door in time to see Harpshaw shoot Myklebos. Mrs. Brady rushed for help and was followed by her husband directly Harpshaw had left the house.

MRS. BRADY CALLED

Mrs. J. T. Brady was called to the witness box as the first witness for the crown and testified that at present she was living in Kaslo, though she had been in Sandon for two months, during which period she had taken in washing and sewing. She had come to Sandon from Lethbridge, Alta.

Her story was identical with that sketched by the crown counsel earlier in the session. She testified that when the shot sounded she was in the bedroom putting her dog to bed. She rushed back into the sitting room where she saw Myklebos lying on the floor with the blood rushing from his nose. She started to run for help and Harpshaw said, "Don't do that."

Regardless she ran to a neighbor's house where her husband joined her later.

E. G. MATTHEW CROSS-EXAMINED

In the cross examination by E. G. Matthew, counsel, for the defense, he inquired of Mrs. Brady whether or not this was the third time that she had told the story in court. It was. She admitted that she had been told by Sergeant Gammon that if she admitted the selling of liquor to the court that it would not be used against her.

When questioned as to whether or not she had proceeded directly from Lethbridge to Sandon Mrs. Brady finally admitted that she had come to Sandon from Vancouver and that she had stopped in Nelson on the way. She did not however, occupy rooms in the Annable block nor did she go by the name of O'Brien while in Nelson. Also she had not sold liquor while in Nelson.

Mr. Matthews asked the witness whether or not she had bought her house in Sandon from Molly Brown. She had not and told her cross-examiner if he wished to find that out he would have to go to the city hall at Kaslo and look up the records. When asked who the agent was she admitted that it had been Molly Brown, and that at present she lived near Molly Brown in Kaslo.

SEES GUNPLAY BEFORE

Mr. Matthew turned his examination to that period when Mrs. Brady and her husband lived in Lethbridge and inquired of the witness whether or not she knew Chief Harris of the Lethbridge police department. She did

"Did any man ever pull a gun on uoy there?"

"Not on me but in my presence on my husband," she admitted.

She went on to explain this particular man named Dick Nash owed her room rent and that when she had demanded the money that he had flourished a gun and threatened to kill her husband, who ran into the room at that moment and took the gun away from the man.

On being questioned Mrs. Brady emphatically stated that Dick Nash and Myklebos were not the same man.

Mrs. Brady on being questioned as to why she had come to Sandon stated that she had been forced to go to such a climate as found at Sandon for her health. She did not know who she had done washing for.

HAD BOUGHT LIQUOR

Mrs. Brady admitted that she had a liquor permit and that at various times had bought liquor at the store at New Denver. When confronted by a statement from that store in the hands of Mr. Matthew she said that each entry was correct. She had not purchased the liquor through earnings from doing washing.

She firmly disclaimed Mr. Matthew's question as to whether or not she had sold liquor to certain Sandon miners and further that on the night of the shooting none of the four people in the house at the time had been drinking.

BRADY SECOND WITNESS

J. T. Brady the second witness for the crown reiterated the statements of his wife and in connection with the actual shooting stated he had heard Harpshaw and Myklebos arguing in the next room.

"One Norwegian can whip six Finns with his fists," Mykleboe was heard to say.

"You fight with your fists, I fight with a gun," replied Harpshaw.

Mr. Brady stepped to the kitchen door in time to see Harpshaw rise from the couch where the two men were sitting together, draw a gun from the hip pocket and fire point blank at Myklebos who fell to the floor.

Mrs. Brady ran out from the bedroom and Mr. Brady told his wife to run for help, which she did. Harpshaw took his time about leaving the

Reduced Motor Licenses and Highest Tax on Gasoline is Good Roads, President's Stand; Tourist Would Then Pay Share Maintainance

HARRISON HO TSPRINGS, B. C., Oct. 14.—"If the provincial government intends to increase the gasoline tax in British Columbia it should first reduce motor licenses to the very minimum and thus transfer to visiting tourists a larger portion of the cost of constructing and maintaining roads."

This is the attitude of President J. J. Johnston of the Good Roads League of British Columbia, as enunciated in his address at the opening session of the league's thirteenth annual convention, which started here this morning. Nearly 250 delegates to this convention and to the twenty-sixth annual conference of the Union of B. C. municipalities—which will open Tuesday—were present when President Johnston opened the meeting.

The Good Roads League conference was opened by addresses of welcome from Dr. J. J. Gillis, M.L.A. of Merritt, and Reeve John McRae of Kent. It will close Tuesday

In discussing the proposed increase in the gasoline tax from three to five cents a gallon, President Johnston reminded delegates that the first suggestion of a tax on gasoline came from the Good Roads League

"In agreeing on this tax," he continued, "Our league made it very plain that it did so on the distinct understanding that every dollar had to be used for road maintenance and construction throughout the province.

"Speaking for myself," he went on, "And I know I vouch the sentiments of many others, I wish to say that in my opinion, before any increase is made in the gasoline tax, we should know whether the government has any idea of reducing the motor licenses. It is only reasonable, as I see it, that the motor licenses should be materially reduced before we can agree to a gasoline tax increase. It argued in support of an increased tax, said the president, that tourists use the roads but contribute very little towards the cost and a higher gas tax will derive from visiters more funds for road work."

Gyros Told of Work for the Crippled Tots

Mrs. J. Sheasgreen of Vancouver gave the members of the Gyhos an interesting talk on the Crippled Children's society and its work amongst the crippled children of this province, at their weekly meeting yesterday.

Songs were sung then president J. Cartmel introduced Mrs. Sheasgreen as speaker.

Mrs. Sheasgreen outlined the work of the society which she represented. Her main topic was on the hospital which the society will build at Vancouver to accommodate some of the 1600 crippled children of the province. The government have donated a piece of land on whic hto build, and the society have $9000 towards the building. This was only a small fraction of what is needed. Mrs. Sheasgreen outlined the various ways by which they obtain funds. The school children of the province had, she said, contributed $5100 by their dime boxes.

Mrs. Sheasgreen also told of the work the society for the children.

In the conclusion of her talk Mrs. Sheasgreen said that she would like to to take something home from Nelson and asked the Gyros if they would contribute something towards the worthy cause. It was decided to send a letter to the executive to decide the matter.

A JAM FACTORY FOR INSTITUTES IS SUGGESTED

Start Crystallizing Fruit For Christmas, Committee's Suggestion

OPPOSE RURAL SCHOOL TAX FOR HIGH PUPILS

Institutes Urged to Conserve Funds During Year For a Dental Unit

A Women's institute jam factory for the Kootenay, producing jam, crystalizing fruits, evaporating pome fruits, and perhaps in time dehydrating vegetables, was the consummation held out to the conference of Kootenay Women's institutes Saturday, by Mrs. R. W. Chalmers, of Thrums, as the conception of the special committee appointed Thursday to investigate the possibilities of making the production of crystallized fruit in the home a commercial industry.

The committee decided, she reported, to send out a questionnairre to all the institutes in the district, so as to ascertain what production of crystallized fruit could be guaranteed. It was stated at Thursday's conference sessions that a Canadian house with a chain of department stores across Canada had stated it was ready to do business if guaranteed ton-lots. A start this Christmas was the committee's idea, she said.

APPEAL TO ASSOCIATION

Mrs. William Rutherford of Nelson urged an appeal to the Associated Growers of British Columbia to give consideration to utilizing of the cull apples of the Kootenay for some commercial product. One possibility was vinegar, for which there was a waiting market in the Old Country.

A resolution addressed to the Associated Growers on these lines, moved by Mrs. Rutherford, and seconded by Mrs. S. J. Cummings of Boswell, was adopted unanimously.

That the Kootenay institutes should make the early establishment of a travelling dental clinic for the rural territory a major object and with that in view should conserve their funds throughout the year, was urged by Mrs. Rutherford, who stated she was present at a conference on the subject Friday between Dr. H. E. Young, deputy minister of health, and Secretary Fred L. Irwin of the Nelson school board. She stated Dr. Young thought the estimate made up from figures furnished by an automobile house, of $5900-odd as the cost of motor-van and dental equipment, was double what a unit could be outfitted for.

Mrs H. H. Pitts urged the same objective, pointing out that there was a nucleus of $800 for establishing this work, in the treasury of the I. O. D. E., while the department of education had promised financial assistance.

NEW BURDEN RURAL SCHOOLS

A general objection among the rural delegates to the amendment to the Education act at the last session, which assesses rural school districts $50 per year for each high school pupil under the age of 16, was brought to light when a resolution on the subject, from the Rock Creek institute, was introduced.

After an animated discussion, in which opinion was almost unanimously against the amendment, the Rock Creek version was withdrawn, and a new resolution, drafted jointly by Mrs. Chalmers, Mrs. Rutherford, and Mrs. E. Kayes of Rock Creek, was substituted. This resolution, moved by Mesdames Kayes and Chalmers, was unanimously adopted, as follows:

"Whereas the department of education are supplying a free correspondence course for first to third year high school, be it resolved that this conference urges that the rural school districts be not assessed the $50 per child as recently enacted but that parents or guardians pay themselves the $50 or the children take the free correspondence course."

An offer from Manager F. F. Payne, of The Daily News for space for a department to be devoted to the interests of the Kootenay institutes was cordially accepted and arrangements to be made respecting the publicity conveners to see to its full use were left to the district executive.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN

Mrs. V. S. MacLachlan, superintendent of Women's institutes, was obliged to leave Friday night to attend a district conference at the coast, and in her absence Mrs. Rutherford read the financial statement of the Othea Scott endowment fund, which received during the year $892.72, its present balance being $892.72.

The objective of this fund is a $10,000 endowment for beds at the Solarium at Victoria, for children from the country.

Mrs. Pitts pointed out that a number of institutes are still sending their contributions to the Solarium, undesignated, in which case they go into general receipts, for which there are other resources, a number of wealthy men assuming the burden of deficits.

While these endowments are sought, and while families sending crippled children for treatment are expected to pay if able, it was made clear that no child will be refused because of inability of its parents to meet the bills.

Mrs. Joseph Sheasgreen of Vancouver, gave a brief talk on the Women's Hospital Association for Crippled Children, and explained the scheme to get "a mile of dimes," by having school children and others contribute dimes to be pasted on belts of adhesive tape, of which she left a number to be taken charge of by the delegates.

With reference to the devotion of the Women's institutes to the Solar which they largely founded, Mrs. Sheasgreen declared that two or three institution were not too many, seeing there were today 1600 crippled children of school age in British Columbia. She told of the five-acre site near the University of British Columbia, donated by the government, where a great institution for this work would be built up.

NO INVITATION

No institute having extended an invitation for next year's conference, the matter was referred, on motion of Mrs. Chalmers, and Mrs. Ronald Greyson of Bonnington, to the district executive, with the proviso that if no invitation came to hand in the course of the year, the conference should be held in Nelson, there to be no billeting, and the expenses being mt by a levy on the institutes.

An interesting number was "Candy Mystery," conducted by Mrs. Chalmers, which realized $2, this being donated to the rest room fund of the Nelson institute.

Mrs. Ernest Marsden rendered two pleasing vocal solos, accompanied on the piano by Miss Ina Steed.

VOTES OF THANKS

There were many votes of thanks, headed by one to Manager J. P. Pitner, of the Capitol theatre, for entertaining the visiting delegates.

Others expressed thanks to Mrs. Pitts for her work as president of the district board and chairman of the conference; to Dr. H. E. Young, Dr. L. E. Borden, M.P.P., and W. K. Esling, M.P., for their splendid addresses; to the hostesses, caterers, flower donors, artists, and others contributing to the success and pleasure of the conference; to The Daily News; to the retiring members of the district board; and to Mrs J. H. Howe, honorary vice-president, who in recent years has missed only one conference, that at Creston last year.

Between the morning and afternoon sessions tea was served in the conference room.

EXHIBITS

An interesting feature of the three-day conference, the first three-day one ever held in the Kootenay, was the health exhibit by the Cranbrook institute, which included some splendid cartoons made by pupils of the Cranbrook schools.

On view were the beautiful silver cup won by Dorothy Keeler of Nelson in the girls judging contest at the Vancouver fair, and the medals won by Dorothy Keeler and Frances Wheeler, also of Nelson, the remaining two Kootenay girls sent to the finals at Vancouver, from New Denver, also having won medals. They were trained by institutes, the elimination examinations for the Kootenay having been held at Nelson.

CONTROL OF THE CORN BORER

The European corn borer is being brought under control in Ontario, and the grain corn industry is being re-established in the provnce. The corn borer was first discovered in Canada in 1920. During 1924, 1925 and 1926 it had spread to such an extent that some corn fields had 400,000 borers to the acre. Today, systematic control campaigns, under the Department of Agreculture, have resulted in the re-establishment of the crop.

Mrs. Joseph Sheasgreen Speaks at Rotary Club on Crippled Children

A brief review of the work being done in British Columbia for crippled children was given to members of the Rotary club at their luncheon yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Joseph Sheasgreen, second vice president and chairman of the ways and means committee of the Women's Institute Hospital Association for Crippled Children, at Vancouver. She told of the great support given the hospital by lodges, women's institutes and other organizations and said that she would like to be able to go back to the directors of the hospital and tell them that the Rotary club of Nelson was behind them.

FIRST CLASS DOCTORS

Many people were sending crippled children outside the province for treatment. Mrs. Sheasgreen declared simply because they did not know that they could be treated in British Columbia. The Crippled Children's hospital had first class doctors, nurses and directors and had been doing wonderful work.

Children were brought from all parts of the province and many had been cured while others were harder cases but were improving. She cited one case where a boy, crippled from birth, had been operated upon four times and now was completely cured. He was but seven year old and had the intelligence of a 12-year-old boy. The hospital was keeping him, for he had no relatives.

PAY IF CAN

The cost per patient was $1 a day she said, provided it could be paid. Whether it was paid or not, the child received the same treatment.

There were 25 beds now but expansion was necessary, she stated.

She displayed a strip of cloth with a few coins sewed in it, to illustrate how school children helped the hospital with the "mile of dimes" campaign.

It was indicated that the matter of support would be brought up at a later meeting of the club.

While in the hospital, Mrs. Sheasgreen stated, the children received the same education as other children going to school.

TRAIL PRESIDENT GUEST

Donald MacDonald, president of the Trail Rotary club, was a guest at the meeting. He expressed his pleasure at being present, declaring it to be the first time he had ever attended a meeting of the Nelson club. He referred to the Trail club as an offspring of the local club.

Norman E. Pearson Tells How Cuticura Healed Pimples

"The trouble first started with a few blotches on my face. A little later pimples formed and spread all over it. They were quite large and some of them festered. The pimples itched and burned and bothered me a lot. Many nights I could not sleep on account of the irritation, and when I scratched it caused disfigurement.

"I tried different remedies without success. I had the trouble about four months when I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After using a few days I was greatly relieved so purchased more and in about two months I was healed." (Signed) Norman E. Pearson, 5387 Fabre St., Montreal, Que.

Is Constipation Coming Back?

It's only natural that your liver slows up these days. Soups replace salads; canned things are served instead of fresh vegetables. You are eating more meats and hearty dishes, but taking less exercise. And you feel it. Your liver is getting lazy, bowels are irregular. Perhaps the head feels heavy and you don't get up in the morning with the pep you had in July.

ABBEY'S will help your system adjust itself to heavier foods, heavier clothes and lack of exercise. ABBEY'S will quickly arouse the sluggish liver—sweeten the stomach—regulate the bowels and kidneys.

A sparkling glass of ABBEY'S in the morning will make you feel as bright and snappy as October sunshine.

AGE LIMIT 50, CALL FIREMEN, AT CRANBROOK

City Council Makes Decison; Fire Hall Debentures Left Till 1930

CRANBROOK, B. C., Oct. 14—The regular meeting of the city council was held in the council chambers with Mayor T. M. Roberts and Aldermen MacPherson, Balment, Flowers, Jackson, Attridge and Collier present.

Letters were read from the municipal Officer's association of British Columbia regarding the convention to be held at Harrison Hot Spoings on October 15-17; from H. L. Swan, assistant district engineer, regarding work on government portions of Van Horne street, and from the Royal Financial corporation and W. S. McKinnon & Co. regarding fire hall debentures. It was decided that the correspondence be filed and that the action of the finance committee in deciding to hold the fire hall debentures until after the new year be confirmed.

Accounts presented by the finance committee amounting to $24,405.81 were ordered paid.

Alderman Jackson reported on inquiries made into the matter of a new fire alarm. This matter was then left over for another month until the final approximate cost of the new fire hall building would be known.

LIMIT AT 50 YEARS

The matter of the re-organization of the call firemen was discussed. On motion of Aldermen Jackson and Flowers it was decided that 50 years be set as an age limit for call men in the fire department.

The city superintendant reported on local improvement plans for 1930 to consist of pavement on Norbury avenue between Edwards and Louis streets, and cement side walks on several streets and made the suggestion that these be advertised immediately under the local improvement act on the initiative, so as to be ready for commencement at the opening of spring. On motion of Aldermen Balment and Collier the proposed local improvement works were referred to the 1930 council for consideration.

Alderman Flowers submitted various proposals and estimated costs in connection with the request for lighting in the playgrounds. It was decided that the erection of one good lighting standard in the playground, at a cost approximately $134 be proceeded with.

SUBMIT RESOLUTIONS

A printed list of resolutions, to be presented at the convention of the Union of British Columbia municipalities, was referred to. The mayor and city clerk were authorized to make arrangement with someone attending the convention to support, on behalf of the council such resolitions as may be considered for the benefit of Cranbrook.

Regarding the proposed improvements and alterations in the city tourist camp in Baker Park, the mayor reported that, persuant to resolution No. 4088, passed Septmber 12, he had appointed Aldermen Attridge, Collier and Jackson as a committee to go into the matter with the superinendant.

Bylaw No. 436, cited "the disposal of real estate bylaw No. 2, 1929," received its first, second and third readings and passed.

ROTARIANS HEAR OF HISTORY OF PAPER MAKING

James Brody Reviews Industry From as Early as Second Century

Origin, introduction into the various countries, and the method used in production of paper, was explained in an able manner by James Brodie, speaker at the Rotary club luncheon at the Hume yesterday. Starting in the second century, to which he said many writers had traced the manufacture of paper in China, and working over the centuries, and the subsequent introduction into other countries of the world, explaining as he went along the material used, Mr. Brodie held the additioon of his audience throughout.

"Down to 60 years ago rags—cotton and linen—and mill wastes formed the staple material of paper making but the largely increased demand for paper has led manufacturers to look to ather sources for the bulk of their raw materials,'" he said.

MATERIAL USED

"Chief among there in Great Britain are Esparto and woodpulp which may now, rather than rags, be considered the staple paper making materials. Of the former upwards of 180,000 tons and of the latter some 250,0000 tons are being imported annually. Straw has also been used for many years, but generally this material is mixed with rags or Esparto, as it produces a very brittle paper when used alone," he said.

He told of the methods used, the sorting and picking of the raw material and the treatment of the raw material in the boiler, the washing following this and then the making of pulp by breaking the moistureless fiber.

PAPER FOR INK

Explaining the process of making paper for writing upon with ink Mr. Brody stated that this could be done in two ways, either by adding to the pulp in the beater, a mixture of resin with soda and starch in which case the paper is termed engine sized; or after the paper is made it may be passed through a vessel containing a selection of gelatine and afterward dried by passing over a large number of light sparred rollers. In this case it is termed tubsized. Blotting and filter papers which are unsized, are made with the additioon of starch only which binds the fibers together to some extent, while not preventing the paper from being absorbent.

Mr. Brody also told how the workman made a piece ofcloth by hand, which method was used up until a recent as a century ago.

DOES APPETITE SIGNAL YOUR BODILY NEEDS?

"It is sometimes asked," says Dr. Henry C. Sherman in his book, "The Chemistry of Food and Nutrition", "whether a normal appetite does not indicate, as well as can any dietary standard, the amount of food which is desirable for an individual in any given circumstances.

"In considering such a question, we shall hardly expect the phrase 'amount of food' to indicate equally the energy value, the protein content, the content of each of the necessary mineral elements, and each of the vitamins.

"Inasmuch as the most prominent of the nutritive requirements is the need for energy and the yielding of energy is the one function in which practically all articles of food take part, it is logical to expect that 'amount of food' will correspond more nearly to the energy requirement than to any other one factor of food value or nutritive requirement. Observation confirms this impression and shows that men and other animals when eating varied foods under the unrestricted guidance of hunger and appetite tend to take such quantities as are proportioned to the energy requirement whether or not this amount meets also the requirements as to each of the substances known to be necessary in nutrition."

In one case, however, appetite does lead the individual to a balanced diet—in the food Grape-Nuts. Grape-Nuts is so delicious that its appetizing, nut-like flavour has made it the breakfast favourite of millions of people every day. And concealed under the guise of this wonderful flavour is a wealth of balanced body nourishment. Grape-Nuts supplies dextrins, maltose and other carbohydrates for energy; iron for the blood; phosphorus for teeth and bone; protein for muscle and body-building; and the valuable vitamin-B.

Grape-Nuts is specially prepared so that it is exceptionally easy to digest. And it has an added health benefit in its crispness—tempts you to give healthful exercise to your teeth and gums through chewing.

DELICIOUS
---but that's only HALF the story!

HOW wonderful it is that in the delicious serving of Grape-Nuts you enjoy so much, there's more than flavour. There are five vital elements of nutrition! And a crispness so tempting that you just must chew—and thereby foster healthy, beautiful teeth.

And with all this, Grape-Nuts costs less than one cent a serving—for four teaspoonfuls is enough. Buy it in the wax-wrapped package. No cooking required.

NOW IS THE TIME TO GET BUSY

This is the time of year for boards of trades and other bodies interested in better roads to prepare briefs for presentation to the government at Victoria.

Too often the most powerful and appealing representations concerning roads and other public works are made in the early spring or late winter. At that season we are beginning to think of the road work necessary for the coming season and therefore become active in urging the government to carry out important undertakings.

But that is too late. By then the various spending departments have their estimates pretty well prepared, and once a government department has prepared an estimate it is difficult to get it changed, especially as estimates of one department very often have to dovetail with estimates from another.

The best results should therefore be obtained by making representations between now and the end of November.

We have to consider roads in various parts of the district—new highways such as the Kootenay lake road, new undertakings such as the Nelson bridge, and rebuilding and other improvements to portions of existing roads.

It would not be difficult at this time to prepare a statement covering all the various new construction and improvements which might properly be urged for next year.

THE ELECTION IN AUSTRALIA

Labor has triumphed in the Australian elections, and the fourth Labor government in the history of that Dominion will soon take office.

In Australia the Labor party for long has from a practical viewpoint taken the place of a Liberal party as we know it in Great Britain, and Saturday's change probably represents the normal turn-over from one party to another.

Australia has been suffering under the experience of a coalition government, no party in the last legislature possessing a majority, and probably voters of all shades breathed a sigh of relief when they learned that the new elections had given one party a clear majority over all others.

This will make for stronger and better government.

War has been declared in South Africa and Great Britain is confident of easy victory. Britain has set going a machine more powerful than that which crushed Napoleon, and twice as strong as that which gabe her Egypt and the Sudan.

The Duke of Devonshire, governor-general of Canada, was welcomed to Nelson yesterday. Among those present at the luncheon in honor of his excellency were Mayor J. A. McDonald, Dr. W. O. Bose, M. P. P., Dr. A. H. Wallace, J. P. Hunter, Fred A Starkey, and Rev. A. J. Doull, bishop of the Kootenay. Miss Minnie E. Fletcher, who executed the civic address presented tothe Prince of Wales, also executed that presented to the governor-general. The address to the Duke was beautifully illuminated in scarlet, blue and gold, with maple leaves and Nelsons seal.

USE MORE BANANAS

The wise housekeeper uses bananas often on the home table. When this fruit is used, no potatoes are necessary in the menu. For bananas, being starchy, are a substitute for potatoes, rice, macaroni, corn (and all the by-products of corn), and cornstarch desserts. Try the following recipes:

"Lamb Chops with Bananas' Broil lamb chops in the usual way, and when three-quarters done, put two slices of banana on each chop and finish broiling, turning the banana-slices once during this cooking. Contributed by H. L. B."

"Ensemble Salad: Follow a recipe for lemon gelatine (that is, the directions which come on the envelope of granulated gelatine), and turn, before congealed, into molds lined with grapefruit sections. Unmold on a ring of ripe banana slices, sprinkled with chopped nuts and arranged on lettuce leaves. Top with a dab of Mayonnaise. Contributed by H. L. B."

"Baked Bananas: Remove the skins from the bananas and scrape the long fibers from the outside. Cut in halves, lengthwise, and put in a baking pan. Over the fruit slices pour two tablespoons of melted butter previously mixed with one-third cup of granulated sugar and the juice of one-half lemon. Turn the fruit once during baking. Baste frequently with the butter-sugar mixture, which forms a thick sirup and browns slightly when the bananas are done. Have oven temperature moderate—about 375 degrees Fahrenheit. Contributed by G."

Fruit Cockktails: Now that grapefruit juice is sold in cans, it is simple indeed for the housekeeper to make a delicious fruit cocktail by adding one sliced banana, one-half orange diced and one Maraschino cherry to one-half cup of grapefruit juice (this makes one individual portion).

Told in Rime

ANY NEW SETTLER

Living the life of a settler,
Settled in deep despair;
Once in a while, chucking a smile,--
(Bloody awful rare.)

HIS DOG

Living alone with the Master,
On watch both night and day;
Getting a curse for his blunders.
And a pat on the head for pay.

ANY OLD SETTLER

Living the life of a Settler,
Waiting for crops to come;
Once in a while, chucking a smile,
After the day's work' done.

HIS DOG

Living alone with the Master,
The old Ranch running smooth;
Too lazy and fat to scrap with the cat
For the warmest spot at the stove.

ANY RANCH HORSE

Living the life of a ranch horse,
Counting each whisp of hay;
Hoping that soon, will come along June
And he's out on the road all day.

That Body of Yours

By JAS. W. BARTON, M. D.

PREVENTION OF NERVOUS DISORDERS

One word that happily is passing out of use is 'asylum'. In former days asylum meant to most of us an institution where 'crazy' people were imprisoned so that they could not harm themselves or anybody else.

Once anyone was committed to such an institution it was understood that they would not likely ever return to their home again.

How different everything is now in cases of nervous trouble.

Just as ailments of the heart, stomach, lungs, or other part of the body are investigated, their causes sought, and treatment given, so also is this the case now with disturbance of the nervous system.

A striking instance of this change in name and work of these institutions was recently recorded in Edinburgh. What was formerly 'Morningside Asylum' is now known as Royal Edinburgh Hospital for Mental and Nervous Disorders.'

The managers of this institution have started a vigorous campaign for the treatment of nervous cases, and are opening a special building equipped with fifty beds and an outdoor department where patients are invited to come and receive advice and treatment just as they would for any other ailment.

The very fact that nervous cases are placed on the same footing as any other ailment is naturally a great help to the patient and to his family. It takes away the old sting which always accompanies the word 'crazy' or insane.

The idea of this new hospital building and outpatient department is to study early mental and nervous conditions, an dit is hoped that by early ditions, and it is hoped that by early will rapidly recover, who under less favorable circumstances would require to be sent to hospitals for the insane.

There is no question but that this common sense method of handling these cases in these days of excitement and haste, will save many individuals from becoming wards of the state instead of useful citizens.

Don't hesitate to consult a nerve specialist if you or any of yours are having mental or nervous disturbances.

What the Press Is Saying

GET TOGETHER

South Eastern British Columbia is in danger of losing a vast amount of tourist trade when the Golden-Revelstoke highway is completed, unless an active campaign is conducted by Fernie Cranbrook, Creston and Nelson for an improved highway through the Crows Nest Pass. Kamloops and other towns are pressing for the early completion of the Golden-Revelstoke highway. The Associated boards of Cariboo include Kamloops, Salmon Arm, Merritt, Chase, Ashcroft, Blue River and Chu Chua. These bodies are all united and are pressing for the early completion of the Revelstoke-Golden and Kamloops-Jasper connection.

Unless East Kootenay bestirs itself the entire South Eastern portion of the province will be sidetracked by tourists over the blue and red trails. A meeting of all boards of trade and public bodies in this section of the province should be called immediately and unite on a plan for presentation to the government at the earliest possible date. Before any attempt is made on the highway to Alaska this section should be provided with at least gravelled and oiled highways. —Cranbrook Courrier.

REAL STATESMANSHIP

"Lots of water," is the feature given chief emphasis in an advertisement regarding an orchard property for sale, appearing in several Okanagan Valley newspapers. Other desirable features are enumerated, but th greatest prominence is given to the water supply.

The person who desires to make this sale has a high appreciation of the pulling power of this point. But it is neither the attractiveness of this property, nor the desire of the individual to make a sale, which calls special attention to this advertisement. It is the boast which it conains, "Lots of water." Apparently this is the outstanding feature of the property and the most is made of it. That there is this feature to stress is due not wholly to the far-seeing action of the individual, but to the creditable action of the Oliver Government which had the courage and the resources to provide—lots of water.

Once again it is opportune to call attention to the man-made inequalities which exist in this Valley. There are other inequalities which are wholly to the credit of individuals. These may be good and suitable varieties of fruit trees, the advantage which comes from building up the soil by the use of fertilizers, proper spraying, pruning, etc. These reflect creditable or otherwise on the individual, and to the man who makes the most of his opportunities all credit is due, but when a government creates inequalities it sets up unfair advantages which should be levelled as speedily as possible.

The Okanagan Valley will never attain the productivity that is easily possible until what is now held out as the greatest advantage a property possesses—lots of water—no longer contains the implication that other, and possibly more desirable properties, may have to go short.

If, as a result of the W. Sanford Evans and other reports, the Tolmie government sets up and carries through a policy providing "lots of water" for the fertile and irrigable lands of the Okanagan Valley, it will win and deserve the highest opinion of the people of our time and of generations yet unborn.—Vernon News.

IT'S THE BULLDOG SPIRIT THE BRITISH ADMIRE

It is only incidental, of course, but it is impossible to overlook the fact that more enthusiasm has been raised throughout the Empire by Chancellor Snowden's bulldog stand on reparations than by Premier MacDonald's disarmament overtures.

It begins to look in fact as if British self-respect which had been thoroughly re-established by the Chancellor was in danger of suffering a bit through the Premier's actions. The latter is not now sure that he will pay his delayed visit to President Hoover and there is suspicion in certain quarters that the President has not extended an invitation to the Premier. Anyway, there is a "Tell It to Dawes" attitude about the entire affair that breeds an uneasy feeling that neither Mr. MacDonald nor his pacifism are wanted in the U.S. and that through its Premier the British nation has laid itself open to a bit of a snub.—Toronto Telegram.

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take one teaspoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

WHEAT PRICES IN DECIDED DROP

CHICAGO, Oct. 14—Strained by evidence of a new unusual degree of opposition between European importers and North American owners, wheat prices suffered a decided drop here today.

Ajax Activity is Feature on Toronto List

Session Otherwise Comparatively Dull; Noranda Closes Unchanged

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 14.— (By Hugh W. Robertson, Ltd., leased wire). — Activity and strength in Ajax shares was the outstanding feature today in a comparatively dull session of the Toronto Standard Stock & Mining Exchange. Practically all mining issues opened above or near Saturday's close figures and traded with little variation. Call money was 6 per cent.

International Nickel opened with a week-end gain of 70 cents and closed at $54.75. A large block of some of the richest ore from the Frood Mine will be put through the International Nickel Company's Smelters in the near future for test purposes. The gross value of this ore, it is stated, will be in excess of $75 a ton. Noranda opened $49.75 and closed unchanged at this price.

GOLD CONTENT INCREASING

One of the most interesting and significant features of Noranda's production, which during September, approximately 5,000,000 pounds of copper and nearly $200,000 in gold, is that the gold content is increasing. Lake Shore, under the stimulating news that drifting has opened the vein for 400 feet at the 2000 foot level, opened firm and rose to close at $22.65. Teck Hughes opened at $6.10 reaching a high of $6.40 at which point slight profit taking occurred and closed at $6.10. Directors of Teck Hughes have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 15 cents a share payable Nov. 1 to record of Oct. 17.

Sherritt Gordon opened and closed at $6.45. Sudbury Basin closed with a net five point gain at $7.15. Falconbridge closed strong at $9.10. Ventures opened at $5.35 and closed at $5.30. Amulet, still attracting attention, closed up five. Base Metals closed up ten at $5.20. This company is meeting considerable success at their Monarch and Kicking Horse Properties. Other Mining issues traded narrowly.

Ajax opened under demand at $1.45 and appreciated to a high of $1.63 but profit taking forced the stock to recede and close at $1.49, up five points. Ajax practically monopolized all trading attention in the oils, slightly softer tone was had by other oils with Home setting the pace.

At the opening Home recovered from an opening of $15.25, 75 down to close at $15.60, net 35 points up. Slight losses were returned in other issues.

PRICE CHANGES LOCAL MARKET

Still Good Supply Beef and Pork; Eggs Absent; Apples Are Up

There was a slight change in the sales at the weekly Nelson market held on Vernon street on Saturday. The price of endives and leeks dropped five cents and apples sold for five cents more. There were no eggs available.

There was still a good supply of beef and pork. The prices of many vegetables have changed from sale by the much to sale by the pound. Egg plants, apricots and corn were off the market.

WHEAT MARKET LOOKS BULLISH

Europe in Position Virtually to Pay or Go Without Grain From America

CHICAGO, Oct. 14—For the first time on record, trade reports assert, Canada and the United States are holding wheat for a sellers price. It is added that other countries are being virtually told to pay up or go without, latest unofficial and semi-official reports indicating that the world's wheat crop is 500,000,000 bushels less than last year. At least temporarily, however, absence of customary demand from importing countries has pointed to something of a general deadlock to enforce a buyers' price.

Compared with a week ago, wheat values today show 1⅜c to 2¼c a bushel advance, whereas corn is 1⅝c to 2⅜c lower, oats 1⅛c to 1½c off, and provisions 2 cents to 55 cents down.

Part of the huge shortage in world wheat production this season is offset by an abnormally big carry-over of wheat from last season. On the other hand, this carry-over is largely in North America, and the aggregate to be disposed of, although at present taxing domestic and Canadian storage facilities to an unusual degree, is some what less than was the case a year ago.

Meanwhile, Argentina and Australia are the two countries which still have to harvest their crops.

All reports now point to a shorter wheat crop in Argentina than was estimated a while ago. Using the most conservative figures as to abandoned acreage in that country, a yield of not more than 200,000,000 bushels is regarded as probable, compared with 307,000,000 bushels harvested last year. Australia reports 60,000,000 bushels less wheat produced than last year.

Corn prices owe their decline to surprise over the government crop report showing a probable yield of 2,528,000,000 bushels against 2,456,000,000 bushels forecast a month ago. Oats have been affected by larger receipts and by the action of corn.

Packers' hedging sales are more or less responsible for price downward turns in the provision market.

KOOTENAY PRODUCE MARKET UNCHANGED

Storage Eggs Appear in Absence of Fresh Ones; Satisfaction Is General

According to S. R. Bowell, Dominion egg inspector the Kootenay egg market for the past week remained unchanged. A firm situation in regards fresh eggs existed with supplies short at all points. Storage stock is now appearing on the market and is generally giving satisfaction.

Small pullet eggs appeared in limited quantities and in some instances have reached the size of pullet extras

At the Nelson egg grading station the prices to producers were: Extra, 50 cents; firsts, 45 cents; pullet extras, 40 cents; seconds, 25 cents. Retail extras, 60 cents; firsts, 55 cents; pullet extras, 45 cents; seconds 30 cents. Practically no fresh eggs were being sold by wholesalers.

Storage prices were: Extras, 43 cents; firsts 41 cents to retailers. Retail extras, 50 cents; firsts, 50 cents. Few extras were in evidence and the dealers handling them appeard to prefer taking the smaller profit and selling at the same price level as the firsts.

Few fresh eggs were marketed at Trail, Kimberley or Cranbrook where the prices were the same as at Nelson.

According to the report there is some difficulty being experienced in this territory where wholesalers book dealers storage supplies on a contract basis without making it clear who is to accept the responsibility for candling the eggs out of storage. The result is that in some instances storage eggs have been discovered going into consumption without being candled out of storage. In such instances prompt action has been taken by the inspector in charge.

The poultry market remained unchanged.

Kimberley To Build Junior Hockey Squad

TRAIL, B.C., Oct. 14—Kimberley hockey club will continue its efforts the coming winter to the fostering of junior hockey, according to Alex Ewing of Trail, who returned Saturday evening from Kimberley, where he had the privilege of attending a meeting of the executive of the Kimberley Hockey club.

Kimberley is looking forward to a berth in the West Kootenay senior hockey league but it is the feeling that such a step is not feasible until the all-rail connection is available though the completion of the link from Procter to Kootenay Landing.

In the meantime it is felt in Kimberley that by fostering junior hockey ample material will be ready so that the strong bid may be made for championship honors when affiliation with the West Kootenay league is feasible.

AJAX IN UPWARD TREND, TORONTO

Diamond Drilling at Kirkland Lake Uncovers Some Rich Oil

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 14 (By Hugh W. Robertson, Ltd., leased wire)—From the market action it looks as if Ajax was in an upward move now.

Diamond drilling results at depth at the Kirkland Lake Gold Mines are improving the possibility. Some rich ore has been found in drilling from the 3,60 foot level is encouraging with the face in good milling ore running about $10 a ton.

Latest work on the Abana is showing ore considerably richer and larger in tonnage, a depth is reached. Considerable attention is being focused on the property, which is approaching the most important stage in its career in exploring and development.

As a result of prospecting expeditions, the search for ore deposit in the Chibougamau district is spreading to all sections of that area and has resulted in important discoveries. Results obtained on the property of Chibougamau Prospectors, Ltd., together with work on the Oblaski-Chibougamau, have been leading factors in attracting prospectors and a discovery of some weeks ago on the Cedar Bay property of Chibougamau Prospectors was particularly important.

Among big corporations heavily interested and inactive are Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. and Ventures Ltd. The district is destined to play an important part in the metalliferous production of Quebec.

CUBS, ATHLETICS MET IN SERIES 19 YEARS AGO

Athletics Won the Titles Then Four Games to One; Mack Was There

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 14.—Nineteen years ago the Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia Athletics met in the world series, the American league entry winning four games to one.

Two of the actors in that diamond drama, Eddie Collins and Connie Mack, still are under the "big top." Several of them, including Frank Chance, Cub manager, are now dead.

As the Cubs and Athletics clash again now, Collins is an incidental figure, coaching Athletic runners, and perhaps pinch-hitting ocasionally.

Once since 1910 the Chicago Nationals have won the league pennant, the war year 1918. Mack, however, won the American league flag three times after 1910, breaking up his great outfit in 1914. He knew the cellar seven years before his present machine began to take form.

A procession of managers have passed through Chicago since Chance cut the Cubs in 1912. Johnny Evers, Hank O'Day, Roger Bresnahan, Joe Tinker, Fred Mitchell, Bill Killifer, Rabbit Maranville and George Gibson.

Jack Coombs, Athletics star pitcher, won three games from the Cubs in the 1910 series, Chief Bender accounting for the other. The Chief was charged with the one loss.

The series was the last for the great Cub machine which had won four league pennants and two world's series titles.

At this point the Dubs team was ahead five games to three so it was up to the Duffers to pay the checks at the lunch served at the clubhouse late in the afternoon.

After the luncheon and the various impromptu after dinner speeches the golfers spent the remainder of the evening in a social manner.

Home No. 4 May Have Entered Lime, Report

CALGARY, Alta., Oct. 14 (By H. W. Robertson, Ltd., leased wire) Home No. 4 was drilling at 5,423 feet Sunday. Drillers believe the bit entered lime but will not be definitely nown until examination of sampls has been made.

Southwest Pete was reported drilling at 5,403 feet Sunday and had completed drilling out cement with which casing was set in the lime. It was earlier believed a new casing would be set in the lime but the casing already set is in good shape and conditions are excellent for continuing drilling into production. A crew is rigging a separation of a gas strike and a pipe for waste gas has been laid. Mayland No. 1 was drilling at 5,704 feet and 259 feet in the lime. The formation is said to be very hard with the bit making a few inches an hour. It is believed this formation may be the cap rock that seals in production.

Homestead lost about 50 feet of casing in the hole and Sunday drillers made ten feet of hole past the top of the casing, trying to sidetrack with litle difficulty expected. When completed, casing will be run and new hole made from 3,480 feet, the old depth.

Merland, the most southerly well in Turner valley is reported to have encountered the Home sands on top of the Fernies at 3,980 feet. Comparatively shallow drilling is expected. The well is being watched with interest as production would prove up a large area.

Practically No Demand for Wheat From Dominion

LONDON, Oct. 14.—"There is practically no demand for Canadian wheat," the Canadian Press was informed at the office of the Associated London flour millers today.

"There is still plenty of Argentine wheat available and so long as the present difference between the price of Canadian and other wheat remains, there is not likely to be heavy buying of Canadian what."

"Then you don't consider the better quality of the Canadian wheat compensates for the difference in price?" he was asked. "Not a bit of it," was the reply.

SPEED BALL IS BACK IN WORLD SERIES AGAIN

Two Artists Are Steamed Up; First Time Since 1924 and 1925

NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 14.—Speed ball pitching comes back into the world series spotlight for the first time since Walter Johnson burned 'em over in 1924 and 1925. Two artists of this fast ball business—Pat Malone of the Cubs and Lefty Grove of the Athletics—are all steamed up and ready to begin shooting streaks of lightning.

What they have to offer in the line of speed may be on display little later than the first game. Both Malone and Bush lead their leagues in strikeouts And it takes super-speed to rate this ranking with such stars as Vance former major league strikeout king competing abainst the big Bruin hurler, and George Earnshaw and George Pipgras bidding for American league strikeout honars. The two kings of speed have more than their 1929 performances to recommend them as strikeout aces.

GROVE LEAD AMERICAN

When it comes to setting the boys back on strikes, Grove stands alone in the American league. He has led the league in this department for four straight seasons. He whiffed 194 in 1926, 174 in 1927, 182 in 1928 and on September 18, had 161 to his credit for 1929. Malone has been a big leaguer only two seasons but he has shown the boys some smoke in that brief period. He fanned 155 last year, finishing second to Vance.

This year the Chicago giant has a clear field to the Chicago strikeout title. Pat had 156 in the bag on September 23. If these big boys get started on the same day, speed ball pitching may become one of the series' greatest attractions. Give either, or both, one of those dark, cloudy October afternoons and there may be a day off for the remainder of the team.

WORLD'S GREATEST TRAVEL SYSTEM

Angel Child

By Grace Perkins

COPYRIGHT BY RUE B. HENKLE CO., INC.

SYNOPSIS

Lola Carpenter,nee Finnegan, is the Angel Child who tells this story. She is 13 years old an a member of a road show troupe that includes her mother, Tom Daring, manager and Enid Eden, the leading lady. Lola's father, home in Flatbush, doesn't care for the stage. Tom Daring and Miss Eden have quareled because Daring has sold out the company to one Ruggles in order to accept a job with Sigmund Dean, the big produer. Mrs. Finnegan sees a chance to put her daughter in a Broadway show and notifies Kenneth Wolfe, her New York agent. Meanwhile Lola plays up to Daring. Mr. Halton, the character man, dies and leaves Lola an old overcoat.

INSTALMENT NINE

So then Mr. Daring explained that one of the first plays Dean was going to do this season was called "The Tie That Binds" and he was working hard to get me the title role.

Of course, that just finished us. And after Uncle Tom and Aunt Enid had said good-night and left, mama and I talked until we couldn't keep our eyes open. Because we had no feeling of kindred souls for Mr. Daring, but still and all, if I got a good part in New York it was worth while keeping his marriage a secret for him. And mama said that she thought Miss Eden was a little mad to think of marrying Tom Daring, even if he did borrow her two thousand dollars, as marrying that tryout tyrunt was an orful price to pay for nothing. Still and all, he was to be connected with Dean and maybe Miss Eden knew her oats. Mama wasn't going to try to appreciates it anyway. And if we leanded in New York in a Dean play, what odds, little buttercup! Maybe we could get a salary of two hundred and fifty, and when I opened on Broadway, mama could invite a lot of movie men to come and see me, as movie was our ulterior aim.

Well, the next day, mama and I just high-hatted the company for all we were worth, because how could we be intimate and keep the secret about the wedding? We couldn't. We kept to ourselves and paid for our own meals.

Besides, we had to buy a really fine wedding present, because it wasn't like we didn't expect to see the couple again, as we hoped to be working for the groom. So we went to the shops, and we decided upon a beautiful thermos bottle that was in a traveling case with folding glasses, which mama thought most preportioned as it really could be used as a cocktail shaker too. It cost forty five dollars, at a sale, and though it was an absorbidant price, it was an investment in friendship after all.

What made mama mad was when Aunt Enid came and borrowed a hundred dollars of mama's hard-earned money to buy a trousseau with, and what could mama do but lend it to her and take an I. O. U. Until Miss Eden let drop that maybe she might be in one of Dean's plays in the fall! Then mama knew her money was okeh, because while Aunt Enid isn't any great shakes as an actress, she is very, very blonde, and with a husband in the office there is no telling what may happen.

Well, Aunt Enid was very busy right then, and we noticed she didn't have much time to come and gab with us at all like an expectant bride should. And mama said it was plain that the girl didn't want to talk about it, and wasn't it written all over her that Aunt Enid was just marrying Mr. Daring to get her two thousand back and perhaps get a stab at broadway. She had such a determined expression all the time, and was quite snappy when ever anyone spoke to her sudden or slapped her on the back. And mama said she did feel kinda sorry and her heart went out to the poor girl who after all was only a kid and didn't have much experience with men. And then mama sighed and said who would she be to give counsel even if she was asked. And that after all, maybe Miss Enid was smart as there is always the divorce court and alimony. Mama said she didn't blame the girl for anything these days—not even for marrying a man.

Well, that night, which was Tuesday, and the wedding eve, there was not a sight or sound of the bride or groom but all through the play Miss Eden looked as if she had been crying all day long. And I did so want to tell her not to give a damn and call the wedding off, but mama told me not to and reminded me that we didn't have any brother in prison and possibly it made a difference in a lady's life.

We were just about to go to bed that night, though, when Mr. Wolf called on the long distance to say that it looked as if I would get the child part in "The Tie that Binds", the play that Dean would do first thing in the season. So I guess he was pretty mad when mama already knew about it. Anyway he said to wait for a telegram from him, and be ready to give two weeks' notice the minute we received it.

So after that mama and I sat and talked a long while, because the thought of a Broadway show was too exciting and fatal a matter to go right to sleep on.

Well, the next day, sure as thunder, Uncle Tom and Aunt Enid went and got married just like they said.

It happened in the City Hall and I was most disappointed. For I had been to weddings where there was loads of prominent people and the bride had picture taken. But this was only an office and Aunt Enid wore gray instead of white, and a hat instead of a veil, and Uuncle Tom wore the same suit he uses in the box office and mama and I were the only ones who were togged befitting. And there wasn't even a tear shed and the magistrate who did the work didn't kiss the bride at all. In face he seemed quite sleepy, as he was no swan, what with the mole on his chin and the way he kept his finger nails in mourning. All in all, the wedding was very unexpressive. It really had no prestige, and didn't make you feel sanctified, but mama said later, that was true, but that it was as hard to get out of as a church kind, take it from her.

Well, we drove around the city after leaving the magistrate's office, and that was almost as dumb as the wedding because there wasn't any society in the theater district much, and the city was preoccupeid. During the ride, Mr. Daring offered to take us through the Ford factory, but mama said she didn't like Fords, as she had come all the way down from Quebec in one, fifteen years ago and that had cured her of Fords. And Aunt Enid, who was trying very hard to be bright and talkative, said she didn't want to be educated on her wedding day.

So then we found a little restaurant where we could eat lobster and bear, and it was virtually bear because Mr. Daring has a pull like all theatrical people. And as he said, "Besides wasn't Canada right across the Lake?" And mama said, "What lake?" And Mr. Daring said, "Why Lake Ontario, of course."

So mama said, oh, yes, she had forgotten, because how can any one ever comprehend all that is west of the Hudson, it being so preposterous, and we only flit from place to place like we was butterflies. Which led into a very good talk about New York and where good beer could be had there.

After lunch, mama said, real tactful, "Now, I think Lola and me had better run along and leave you two love-birds to each other for the afternoon."

Aunt Enid blushed scarlet, and Uncle Tom said:

"All right, Gertrude. But let's stop by at the theater and I'll leave word with the box office."

So we all took a taxi to the theater and Mr. Daring jumped out to leave word and in a couple of minutes he was back again with a telegram in his hands, and his face was all uncontrollable.

Smith advisory board member (10815)

During the two days a great many matters of interest to farmers of the district were discussed, ending with a comprehensive set of resolutions which will be presented to the advisory board at the coast. Chief of these resolutions was that asking for a return of the coyote bounty, in which the sheep herders are particularly interested.

The high light of the convention was a banquet held in the K. P. hall on evening of the first day. Following the banquet a program of speeches and music was presented. The speakers were A. L. Hay, chairman; W. Lumsden, Moberley; Mr. DeLisle, district agriculturist; R. G. Newton, Inveremere Agricultural farm; S. Morrow, Baynes Lake; W. Dicken, Fernie; Dr. Rutledge, Cranbrook; Mrs. B. G. Hamilton, Invermere; B. Crowe, Jaffray; J. Sanderson, Cranbrook; W. Weaver, Natal; G. L. Landon, Nelson; F. M. McPherson, M.P.P.; John Lawson, Wardner; Herbert Chester, Windermere Experimental farm; A B. Smith, Cranbrook; A. Munro and W. Laird. Mrs. F. M. MacPherson and Mrs Norgrove delighted the assembly with coval solos and Mr Dicken of Fernie conducted community singing. A humorous selection was read by Miss Perkins of Marysville.

GETS A HIT

Rogers Hornsby, second baseman for the Chicago Cubs who got his first hit of the world series thus far Saturday when the Cubs won 3-1.

At the present time the compass needle points about 23 degrees west of north of Halifax and 25 degrees east of north at Vancouver.

Canadian Fruit and Vegetable Market Report

Dry, cool weather prevails at all prairie points. Threshing almost completed.

The repeat orders on Mac. apples have slackened, and Jonathans have not made their appearance in quantity. Cold storage prunes, from Washington, are in demand, and Solway peaches, also from Washington, are on this market. Flemish Beauty pears are scarce.

Vegetables of all kinds, excepting onions, are scarce. Firm prices for local turnips, beets and carrots of $50 per ton is asked. Onions are draggy on sale. Field cucumbers and tomatoes are over in the interior of B. C. The only field tomatoes are coming from the coast. some of these are badly marked.

The continued dry weather on the prairies aggravates the feed situation and shortage will be experienced before the winter is over. Whether the shortage will be great or small will depend on the severity and length of the winter.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

Apples:

McIntosh, box, fancy, $2.60; McIntosh box, Cee, $2.35; McIntosh, household, $2.05 to $2.10. Jonathans, box, Cee, $2.50, Jonathan, household, $1.85; Grime Golden, box, Cee, $2; Grimes Golden, household, $1.60; Wealthy, box, fancy, $2.25 to $2.35; Wealthy, box, Cee, ... 2.05 to $2.10; Wealthy, box, household, $1.75. Crabapples, fancy, Hyslop, $1.85.

POTATOES AND APPLES

Reports from different prairie points indicate a heavy buying of maritime potatoes for storage. Calgary has six cars in so far. The tubers are clean and attractive looking. The quality is reported as good. B. C. interior quotations for Gems are $55 per ton more than the price named by the committee of direction. The above price will retard shipping from B. C. at present, but shippers should have little trouble in selling at even higher prices, in spring, as from the indications the supply surplus in the east will be needed nearer home.

A car of Nova Scotia Gravenstein apples in barrels arrived here this week. The price laid down runs about $2.35 a box, with the dealer finding his own container, while Kootenay Gravensteins are selling at $1.50 per box laid down. Wrapped Gravensteins from B. C. are cheaper than the Nova Scotia barrel stuff. The apples are running very large in size and are showing spots of scab and rather badly burised. To make matters clear the barrels run about 148 lbs., gross, and this is barely equal in weight to three boxes of B. C. apples. It would seem that novelty, more than necessity, or some jobber's choice more than consumers' preference was behind bringing them in. Several cars of the same variety from Nova Scotia have been distributed at other prairie points. We do not think eastern apples will be a factor in marketing on the prairies this year, but from indications more will be rolled westward than usual. We will report later whether the move has been profitable.

EDMONTON

Business, with the exception of potatoes, is normal, and is settling down ot fall and winter trade, as the various summer and early fall fruits and vegetables are gradually dropping off the list. Field cukes, tomatoes also crabapples are just about finished. We have received furing the week two more cars of Washington prunes, also some in mixed cars. These are out of storage, but while ripe, are in very good condition. Some B. C. hothouse tomatoes are arriving, but are being sold in competition withe the drag-over of the field stock, which is in poor condition, and selling for what it will bring. Pears are in limited supply. Arrivals are mostly of Flemish, but some Clairgeau d'Anjou, etc., are also coming, but are going into storage, not being offered at the present time.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

Apples, McIntosh, box, fancy, $2.50 to $2.60; box, C, $2.25 to $2.35; box household, $2.10 to $2.15; assorted, box, household, $1.50 to $2. Cukes, field, box, $1 to $1.25. Crabapples, Hyslop, box, fancy, $1.90 to $2.10. Pears, Flemish, box, fancy, $3.10 to $3.25. Pears, Flemish, C, $2.75 to $3. Tomatoes, field ripe, 4-bskt. crate, no. 2, $1.40 to $1.50. Tomatoes, green, box, $1.10 to $1.20. Tomatoes, hothouse, 4-bskt. crate, no. 1, $2.25 to $2.50. Onions, cwt., no. 1, $2 to $2.10.

WINNIPEG

Business on this market for the past week has been fair, the weather fair and cool

Box apples are moving slowly on account of heavy shipments of bulk having been received and which are of very good color and quality, and meeting with ready sale.

Peaches and prunes re now practically cleaned up and the stock of pears is light. Crabapples are now almost all cleaned up.

The stock of tomatoes is very light. Acar from California arrived during the last week, which are mostly on the green side. The demand for onions is slow and the stocks fairly heavvy.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

Apples, Wealthy, box, fancy, $2.50; box, C grade, $2.25; box, household, $1.75; Snow, Jonathan, W. Banana, McIntosh, McIntish Red, box, fancy, $2.85 to $3; C grade, $2.65; various, bulk, cwt., $3.50 to $4. Canteloupes, Hale's Best, 27-36s, no 1, $4. Pears, Clairgeau, Flemish Beauty, Baussock, box, fancy, $3.50. Pears, D'Anjou, bcx, fancy, $4.50. Pjrunes, Italian, box, no. 1, 95c. Tomatoes, lug, no. 2, $2.25. Tomatoes hothouse, 4-bskt. crate, no. 1, $3.50. Onions, yellow, cwt., no. 1, $2.75, Potatoes, Netted Gems, cwt., no. 1, $3.50.

VANCOUVER

Heavy rains have fallen during the past week.

No change can be reported to the local apple deal other than the arrival of Winter Bananas and Jonathans on the market. Prices are not changed.

The pear deal also remains steady, prices being the same as those of a week ago. These are at a very satisfactory lead.

The supply of local tomatoes has fallen off, and the price has gone up somewhat. The first severe frost will brink this deal to a close.

The potato market remains unchanged with every prospect of a stronger market if the country-wide crop reports are to be relied on. Imports from Yakima are continued.

The most interesting topic of the street is the entrance into the B. C. field of a powerful Seattle wholesale house. This entails the closing down of several of the smaller wholesale houses in Vancouver, and the control of some of the larger houses. There has been a great deal of cut-throat competition on the street during the last four years and it is hoped that the coming change will bring a remedy for that state of affairs.

Fernie to Advertise for New Police Chief

FERNIE, B. C., Oct. 14—At a special meeting of the police commission Friday the resignation of Charles Anderson as chief of city police was received and accepted.

Considerable discussion arose out of the vacancy created on the city staff by the chief's resignation. Commissioner Perry particularly had a good deal to say about the policy of having Fernie under the jurisdictiion of the provincial police, and seemed to favor this arrangement.

The commission decided to advertise in two newspapers, for a new chief, applications to be in by October 26. There was a discussion about the salary, Commissioner Perry contending that the city should not offer a salary higher than $175. Commissioner Douglas was firm in his contention that $200 a month should be offered. This was decided upon.

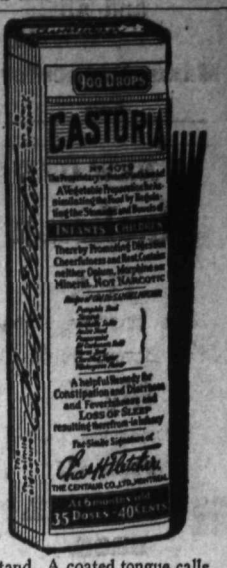
Restless Children



Children will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always one sure way to comfort a restless, fretful child. Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than some powerful medicine that is meant for the stronger systems of adults.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is any need. In cases of colic, diarrhea, or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. But it has everyday uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed to set everything to rights. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

HARPSHAW NOT GUILTY MURDER SAYS THE JURY

house and was followed in a few minutes by Brady who went to look for his wife and phone the police.

In the cross-examination by Mr. Matthew, Brady admitted that he did not have much money while in Lethbridge, and that he didn't pay the $50, the first installment on the house at Sandon. His wife had paid it from money she had saved and the remainder with money that he had given her.

HAD MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE EXMINED

He admitted that the Sandon police had probed the validity of their marriage licenses and that this was not the first time that this had happened.

He would not admit that the deceased was the man best known to his wife in Sandon and that to his knowledge Myklebos had been in his house only twice. Mr. Matthew pointed out that in the preliminary hearing Mrs. Brady had stated that this was the fourth occasion that Myklebos had been to the house.

He saw the shooting and the weapon used had been an automatic pistol. He did not see anyone pick up the empty shell that must have been discharged from the breech of that type of gun.

Mr. Matthew enquired who had taken the two bottles of beer from beside the couch in the death room. Brady replied that he had seen no bottles.

Brady stated that his small knowledge of guns had been gained in the old days in North Dakota where all miners including himself had caried side-arms.

PHYSICIAN TESTIFIES

Dr. W. Graham, the physician who was called to the scene of the shooting, was called to the witness stand and fcr the benefit of the jury described the positiono in which he had the bullet had entered the head at a tthe bullet had entered the head at a point about a half an inch above the tip of the nose and from this point the bullet had travelled through the vital parts of the brain where it lodged. Powder burns on the face pointed to the fact that the gun had been fired less than two feet from the body, he explained.

HARPSHAW GIVES GUN

Lena Paul of Sandon the next witness for the crown stated that last December Harpshaw had come to her house looking fcr a friend who was not there. Some days later he returned and asked if he could lie down and sleep for a while. She admitted him and before he lay down he bave her a gun to put away for him while he was sleeping. She gave him the gun in the morning.

In the cross-examination conduct by Mr. Matthews the witness was emphatic in the statement that she raised chickens and scld eggs. To the question of whether or not she had been convicted some 30 times for running a house of ill repute she replied that that was a thing of the past.

The gun that Harpshaw gave her to keep according to the not too definite admissions of the witness, was evidently a pistcl of about a .38 calibre.

Constable W. H. Laird, the last witness in the case of the crown testified that on the night of the shooting he had been phoned by Harpshaw who told him that there had been a shooting at the Brady house and that the people there were trying to hang the blame cn him.

About five minutes later Brady phoned and told him of the shooting.

POLICEMAN ON STAND

Constable Laird went first to the hotel where Harpshaw was staying and found him there in his room. Making no effort to detain Harpshaw, the cfficer went to the Brady house where he found the Bradys and Dr. Graham. After an examination of the body ne returned to the hotel and arrested Harpshaw who had made no effort to escape.

In a later cnversation the prisoner said that it was a mystery to him who shot Myklebos for suddenly while they were talking a shot rang out and Myklebos dropped dead beside him.

In the cross-examination Constable Laird informed the court that while Harpshaw had a good reputatioon in Sandon, Myklebos was known as a drunkard and a most offensive person while in that condition.

Aftetr a thorough examination of the effects of Harpshaw the constable stated that he had found no weapon of any kind.

This evidence concluded the case of the crown.

A. H. Hughes, first defense witness called by Mr. Matthew, stating he had been employed recently as a provincial constable, recognized Mrs. Brady. He first saw her at the Annable block here.

Mr. Matthew—Under what circumstances did you see her?

Witness—I had a drink there

Witness declared it was the eleventh time in a week.

Mr. Wragge in cross examination pointed out that he was breaking the law when he went there.

Neil Tattrie, Sandon, second witness called by the defence, knew the accused. He testifield that Harpshaw was a member of the Odd Fellows lodge, Sandon, and that on the night of the killing, when the accused left the lodge meeting, he was not intoxicated.

"A NICE FELLOW"

Mrs. I. Trulca, whose husband ran the Palace hotel at Sandon, knew the accused, who lived there. Harpshaw seemed to be "a nice fellow," she said.

Mr. Matthew—Do you remember accused coming to the hotel the night that this man was shot?

Witness—Yes.

Matthew—Was he sober?

Witness—Yes.

Under cross evamination by Mr. Wragge, witness reiterated her statemnt that the accused was sober on the night in question.

Isador Trulca testified that Harpshaw was a man of good character and that he was of a friendly nature. He testifield that he had had access to Harpshaw's room and that he had never seen a gun or shells around the room.

Cross-examined by Mr. Wragge, he stated that a man who was with Harpshaw after the lodge meeting was feeling "jolly" but would not state that he wa sdrunk. The other man was referred to as Joe.

George Dricket, storekeeper cf New Denver, testified that he knew the "green house," occupied by the Bradys. Mr. Trickett, as the undertaker who handled Myklebos' body, described the condition of the body when he received it. There were no powder marks on the face. He examined it closely.

NO POWDER MARKS

Under cross-examination Mr. Trickett stated that the hole caused by the bullet was blackened but there were no powder marks. He dia the actual work but Dr. Walter Graham was present.

The next witness, Joe Stelina, did not understand the oath, and did not know what book he had in his hands. Efforts were made to have him tell what his religion was but they were unsuccessful. In broken English he replied that he had never seen such a scene as a court room or heard of an oath. Mr. Matthew, asked by chief Justice Morrison if he had questioned the witness before, declared he had asked the witness one question and had gotten and answer. He had not thought the witness would turn out this way. Mr. Matthew offered to withdraw the witness.

When the witness indicated that he could speak Polish, an interpreter was called. He was instructed by the chief justice to ask him what religion he was.

The answer given was that he was a Roman Catholic.

After some 10 minutes explaining and making sure the witness understood what taking an oath meant, he was sworn in through the interpreter. Constable Ralph McIntyre acted as interpreter.

He testified that he had known Myklebos and had seen him twice on the day of the killing. Once he was at the Hamilton house.

Mr. Wrage declined to cross-examine.

ACCUSED ON STAND

Joseph Harpshaw taking the stand in his own defense, staied he was 42 years old and had come to Canada when he was not quite 14 years old. He had been here ever since. He reviewed his activities since coming to Canada, which indicatd he had spent the past several years in the interior of British Columbia.

He came to Sandon in 1927 and had resided there ever since.

Mr. Matthew—Did you ever have a revolver?

Accused—No.

Referring to a previous witness' statement that he had seen Harpshaw with a revolver, Mr. Matthew asked if it was true and Harpshaw replied no.

After getting off shift at 4:30 on the day of the killing, he went to his room, changed his clothes and went to supper, he said.

Harpshaw and his friend went to the "green house"' Mrs. Brady let them in. Mrs. Brady asked if he wanted a Scotch and he had replied yes and his friend also replied yes. A glass was also poured for each Mr. and Mrs. Brady. His friend went outside later and Harpshaw went out to see how he was "getting along."

More drinks were served all around when he came back later when Myklebos was there.

When a plan of the house was shown to accused he could not understand it.

HEARD A BANG

Mr. and Mrs. Brady were in the room when they ordered the drinks, he stated. Mr. Brady later went to the kitchen and Mrs. Brady to the bedroom. Myklebos and himself were each drinking a bottle of beer and he was stooping to place the bottle on the floor when he heard a "bang" and Myklebos fell on the floor.

Mr. Matthew.—Did you see anybody in the bedroom?

Harpshaw.—If there was anybody I didn't see them.

Mr. Matthew.—You heard what Mr. and Mrs. Brady said—that you stood up and shot him in the face and that they never sold you liquor?

Harpshaw.—That is not the truth.

Mr. Matthew.—What about the statements that you were talking about nationalities and that you said: 'You fight with your fists and I fight with a gun?'

He had had no trouble with Myklebos, Mrs. Brady, the police or anybody.

He did not see the witness who testified just before him on the night of the killing, he stated under cross-examination. Mr. Brady got the liquor, he said.

Mr. Wragge.—When you were sitting on the couch Myklebos was on your left. You were stooping to put a bottle down when you heard a "bang." What did you do?

Harpshaw.—I was so surprised I jumped for the door. No, I did not see anyone about.

He remembered telling Constable W. A. Laird he didn't know where the shot came from.

Argument ensued when Mr. Wragge attempted to introduce some of Mr. Laird's evidence given at the preliminary hearing to which Mr. Matthew objected.

Harpshaw told of his conversation with Constable Laird over the phone when Harpshaw called him to tell about the shooting. He told of the constable's arrival, this coroborrating Constable Laird's evidence.

Mr. Wragge.—You heard the evidence of Mr. and Mrs. Brady about making stew. Did you see any stew?

Harpshaw.—No.

Mr. Wragge called Constable Laird, who stated he did not search the house.

Mr. Wragge.—The accused said there was no oyster stew in the house. Did you see any?

Chief Justice Morrison ruled out the question. He cautioned Mr. Wragge not to lead his witness on, but to let him tell his story. Mr. Wragge must not patch his witness' story up. Mr. Wragge was there to help him, the Chief Justice said. He called an officer of the law who should know how to give evidence.

Mr. Matthew, first to charge the jury, pointed out that when thtre was a murder the first thing thought of was a motive. No motive had been proven in this case. Way? Because the man who shot Myklebos was never found by the police. He escaped, Mr. Matthew declared, raising his voice for the last two statements. Mr. Matthew thought it seemed strange that Myklebos should go into the Brady house to have stew.

There might have been a possibility of jealousy on the part of Mrs. Brady knowing that Myklebos hal been to another womans house, Mr. Matthew declarel.

"Where and what was Mr. Brady doing during the shooting?" Mr. Matthew asked.

" You heard Mrs. Brady, Mr. Brady, and the constable,' Mr. Matthew said. "It is reasonable that an ordinary married woman would act as she had done?" he asked.

"Mrs. Brady swore she had only spent one night of her life in Nelson, yet it was stated by a Nelson man, whom you all know, that he visited her here every night for a week," he declared.

"Take Mr. Bradys evidence. Nothing is proven. First Mr. Brady said he didnt know anything about guns. Later he said he was in the United States and that he carried a gun. He said the gun used in this killing was an automatic. He must have known guns. And an automatic would have discharged a shell," Mr. Matthew continued in an emphatic tone.

"No search was made by police for a shell or for the beer bottles that had been in the room. No investigation was made of the accuseds clothes to see if there was any smell of powder in the hip pocket, as there would have been if he had shot this man and put the gun in his pocket.

"Look at these people. One witness admits on the witness stand that she had been convicted 30 times for running a common bawdy house. Look at the defense witnesses. The accused himself spoke, not as a man who was guilty of murder, but as a man whose conscience was clear. Looking at the way he told his story," concluded Mr. Matthew.

Summing up the case for the crown, Mr. Wragge stated that the doctor swore that the shot was fired from about a foot away at the outside.

"The prisoner said that Mr. Brady was in the kitchen at the time of the shooting. It had been proven that that was a distance of five feet or more. He said Mrs. Brady was in the bedroom. It has been proven that from the sofa to the bedroom was a good deal more than five feet. The prisoner said there was no one else in the room," Mr. Wragge said.

"Mr. and Mrs. Brady's stories fit in to the medical evidence. Possibly their manner of living may not have been all it should be at times, but the only evidence of liquor in this case was from the accused. Lena Paul stated he had been at her place before.

"There is no weak place in the prosecution's case. Everything fits perfectly. The only thing we can't explain is why it was done. Every witness' testimony meshes with each other but the defense evidence does not.

"Harpshaw swor he was not excited when he phoned Constable Laird but the officer says he repeated his name several times and seemed excitd. The accused did not run away but that is no sign of innocence. Where could he have gone? You all know Sandon," he concluded.

The jury consisted of Rondle Brereton, foreman · Peter Hardy, Tim Player, Fred Curtis, F. C. Roley, G. W. Dill, J. A. Spencer, E. T. Hunt, A. M. Major, J. W. Kearn, A. E. Stephenson and J. W. Fitzimmons.
