VICTORIA, April 3 (CP)—Men on relief in national defence camps in this province who voluntarily leave the camps in a walk-out scheduled for tomorrow may not look to the province for help, Premier Pattullo warned today on return from Vancouver where he said the same thing to a committee of men.

The premier pointed out that federal arrangements have been made for an independent committee of inquiry to investigate relief condi-

ALBERTA WILL LIMIT PRESS

Would Prohibit the Publication of the Statement Claim

EDMONTON, April 3 (CP)—Designed to limit press rights in reporting of judical proceedings and to amend Alberta's libel and slander act, two measures have been introduced in the Alberta legislature by Attorney-General J. F. Lymburn.

After the measures had been given first reading, Premier R. G. Reid announced contents of the measures would be disclosed when they come up for second reading. Press representatives, he said, would be given opportunity to discuss the terms with the government.

One section of the new measures is said to prohibit publication of statements of claim or affidavits in civil suits while another would prevent publication of other than the judge's remarks in disposing of such actions. No independent comment would be permitted.

Publication of blasphemous or obscene matter would be prohibited and provision of a $5000 fine for violators of the act is made.

Amendment of the Libel and Slander act would make it insufficient for a newspaper to apologize after a libel had been committed, but would ensure that the courts take such apology into consideration in deciding any suit which ensued.

ACQUITTED ON DRUG CHARGE

VANCOUVER, April 3 (CP)—Daniel Dodd of Seattle, 51-year-old Great Northern railway brakeman, was acquitted in assize court today on a charge of having narcotics in his possession.

ETHIOPIANS PUT TROOPS ON BORDER

ADDIS ABABA, April 3 (AP)—Authoritative sources revealed today that Ethiopia is moving military forces close to the frontiers of Eritrea and Italian Somaliland to prepare for what the government regards as an Italian threat.

Government sources contended that the troop movements were solely for defensive purposes. The Ethiopian fighting units were described as being on a more efficient basis than ever before.

PART OF TOKYO SINKS RAPIDLY

BY PERCY WHITEING
Canadian Press Correspondent

TOKYO, April 3 (CP)—A large area of the city of Tokyo is sinking at the rate of eight inches to four feet per year, according to a monograph submitted at a recent conference of Japanese seismologists by Naomi Miyabe of the Imperial university's seismological research institute.

The affected area is a populous district of factories and poor quarters at the mouth of the Sumida river.

In his observations Mr. Miyabe said the area sank at an average monthly rate of 4.409 inches during 1932 and .706 inches during 1933. He suggested that the sinking may be due to settling of the soil which is loosely packed in the area.

At the time of the 1923 earthquake the area, known as the Fukagawa ward, and the adjoining Honjuward, were reported to have sunk a foot.

PARIS, April 3 (AP).—It is old Louis Barthou's mantle, they will tell you in Paris today, that Pierre Laval wears to Stresa next week.

Barthou it was who brought France back from the idealism of the 20s to the school of real politics, and that school, they say here, indubitably will furnish the French thesis at the moment's Italo-Anglo-French conference April 11.

Barthou, the French will tell you triumphantly, knew Germany and Germans.

BENNETT TO BE UP TODAY

OTTAWA, April 3 (CP). — After four weeks confined to his bed in a hotel apartment Prime Minister R. B. Bennett will be permitted to get up tomorrow. If his improvement is sustained he will be allowed to leave his room early next week.

In addition to the bail posted today Celona previously was forced to raise $30,000 for bond on a charge of living off the avails of prostitution on which he will face trial later during the present assizes, and $10,000 on a conspiracy charge pending against him, ex-Chief of Police John Cameron and several others.

137-0 IS VOTE ON DIVISION IN LONDON

LONDON, April 3 (CP Cable).—A division in the house of commons tonight in connection with expenses for the forthcoming jubilee celebrations resulted in a vote to 137-0 although two members opposed the motion in question.

William Ormsby-Gore, first commissioner of works, proposed an estimate of $50,000 (approximately $243,000) in respect to expenses connected with the royal jubilee.

James Maxton, Independent Laborite from Glasgow, opposed the motion, contending the celebration was merely propaganda in favor of monarchy. George Buchanan supported Maxton and they challenged a division.

But the vote, officially recorded was 137-0. The two Laborites acted as tellers.

Austria to Increase Army; Germany Equals Britain in

Austria Breaks Treaty of St. Germain by Decision; Lithuania to Protest to Berlin on Threats

ROME, April 3 (AP).—Government circles said tonight Italy would frown on any unilateral action taken by Austria toward rearmament despite the fact Italy favors rearmament of Austria, Hungary and Bulgaria on a scale proportionate to that announced by Germany.

It was said that Italy intended to place a suggestion that it favored such armament before the three-power conference at Stresa.

VIENNA, April 3 (AP).—The Austrian government tonight decided to follow Germany's example in increasing its armed forces.

A 60-word communique issued shortly after the cabinet met with Premier Kurt Schuschnigg presiding, disclosed that steps to achieve that end already have been started.

Under the Treaty of St. Germain, Austria's army was limited to 30,000 men, this figure including officers and "depot troops."

The communique asserted Austria's right to arms equality, saying:

SCRIBE SEIZED BY GERMAN AGENTS IN SWEDEN, "SATISFACTION" SOUGHT

BERNE, Switzerland, April 3 (AP).—Switzerland today decided to hold Hans Weserman, Nazi journalist, hostage for the safe return of Bethold Jacob, anti-Nazi newspaperman kidnapped from Switzerland.

Police said Weserman told them he seized Jacob, who fled from Germany after his articles dealing with German rearmament aroused the Nazis' ire, and turned him over to Nazi secret agents who rushed him across the border.

While the Berne government awaited the reich's reply to its formal protest against Jacob's abduction, police authorities continued an intensive investigation of possible links between German Nazis and Swiss groups.

The Swiss government's expressed determination to demand exemplary satisfaction from Germany for "violation of its soverign rights" received almost unanimous approval in the press and other public comment.

Claims $50,279 in Damages for Being Hit by Locomotive

CALGARY, April 3 (CP)—Damages of $50,279 are sought by Albert Hovring, miner and steam engineer, from the Canadian National railways in his action to be heard in the supreme court sittings which begin here April 8. The plaintiff alleges he was knocked down by a train at Drumheller, Alta., and claims that under the Railway act a locomotive approaching a railway crossing must sound its whistle and ring its bell within 80 rods of the crossing.

Growers Vote 96 Per Cent Favor of Continuation

A message received Wednesday night from the British Columbia tree fruit board, dated Kelowna, said a count of the ballots in the recent growers plebiscite on continuation of the marketing scheme showing 96 per cent favoring continuation. This result is subject to a recheck of the 1549 ballots cast.

The ballot was taken in March, and was a secret one, the growers in the Okanagan being addressed by the board members over the radio from time to time, while in the case of the Kootenay-Arrow lakes, W. E. Haskins and G. A. Barret, of the board, addressed meetings at Nelson and Creston, on the first year's operation.

RELIEF BILL STILL IN DEADLOCK

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP)—Despite another failure by congressional conferees to reach an agreement on the $4,880,000,000 work relief bill, Democratic leaders tonight predicted the deadlock would be broken definitely tomorrow and the measure sent on its way to enactment.

BUDGET IS RATIFIED IN HOUSE BY 98-74 AFTER STRANGEST OF DEBATES

Conservatives Block Own Budget by Putting Uo 21 of 30 Speakers; Social Credit, Election Motions Beaten

OTTAWA, April 3 (CP).—Winners in three straight divisions, the Bennett government today had its budget ratified by the house of commons as the climax to the strangest debate in years.

With majorities ranging from 189 to 24, Conservatives beat back two amendments from the opposition and passed the main motion. Then they trooped from the green-walled chamber, shouting and cheering Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes.

Conservatives and Liberals combined to snow under, 165-12, the social credit amendment moved by the Progressives. It was the first of the three votes.

ELECTION MOTION BEATEN

Then the government beat back the Liberal amendment, calling for an immediate election. The vote was 184-73 with five U.F.A. members and the Progressive voting with the government (Spencer, Gardiner, Speakman, Irvine, (Carmichael) and six U.F.A.-Labor-Progressives with the Liberals (Coote, Mitchell, MacInnis, Woodsworth, Heaps and Miss MacPhail).

Then came the main motion, the actual ratification of the budget, which passed 98-74. Eleven Progressives lined up with the Liberals but A. M. Carmichael (Prog.-Kindersley) swung along with the government.

MOSTLY TORIES

Although it was a short budget debate, it had one unusual feature. Of the 30 speakers, 21 were Conservatives, six were Progressives and three Liberals. Liberals retired to the sidelines after the first day or two although usually opposition speakers hammer away at a government in a constant stream in the budget debate. The Conservatives blocked their own budget yesterday by putting up nine speakers.

Consideration of the budget proposals in committee form probably will not begin until next week.

Members who spoke today were Frank Boyes (Cons.-East Middlesex); George Spotton (Cons.-North Hurron); Robert Gardiner (U.F.A.-Acadia) and Agnes Macphail (Prog.-Southeast Grey).

CALGARY, April 3 (CP)—Alberta tonight faced the prospect of having a fourth political party in the field at the next provincial election, in mid-June.

ALL PARTIES CLAIM WINS

U. S. Politicians See Elections as Barometer

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP). — Democrats, Republicans and Progressives each hailed today the winds that blew from scattered state and city elections this week as having tilted the political straws in their direction.

Although the voting was so scattered as to give no full evaluation of national political trends, party members saw some significance in the returns from various sectors.

The Republicans, hard hit by major defeats in 1932 and 1934, were perhaps the loudest in their claims, using Michigan as a spring board for their predictions.

The Democrats countered with Chicago.

Followers of the new Progressive party in Wisconsin also were heartened by results of special elections to the state legislature which were interpreted as endorsement of Gov. Philip F. La Follette.

With results in dispute, advocates of Upton Sinclair's "end poverty in California" platform, nevertheless, claimed victories in a Los Angeles city council election.

Major Howard Jackson of Baltimore was renominated by the Democrats in yesterday's primary. Senator Radcliffe (D.-Md.) predicted Jackson would win and forecast Baltimore would go Democratic in 1936.

Outstanding in Democratic victories was that of Mayor Edward J. Kelly, in Chicago, who succeeded the late Mayor Anton Cermak, assassinated at Miami, Fla., while leaning on President Roosevelt's automobile. He defeated a Republican and a Progressive.

798 VOTES CAST IN FAVOR TO 141 VOTES AGAINST—TO SPEND $150,000 ON CIVIC PROJECT

Ratepayers Make History When 942 Go to Polls on Money By-Law; Campaign One of Greatest Ever Carried Out in City

Citizens Declare Result a Vote of Confidence in Nelson City Council; Praises Heaped Upon Workers in Campaign Rooms

Total votes cast	942
Three-fifths majority needed to pass by-law	565

History was made in the city of Nelson Wednesday when 942 ratepayers went to the polls to vote on a money by-law. By an overwhelming ballot the property holders voted in favor of a by-law to raise the sum of $150,000 for the election of a civic center in Nelson.

Of the number, 798 persons cast ballots in favor of the by-law, 141 voted against the expenditure, and three ballots were rejected as spoiled. A money by-law of this nature required a three-fifths majority to pass.

"Not to my recollection have we had so many ratepayers vote on a money by-law in Nelson before", declared W. E. Wasson, returning officer, who added that the total vote cast was more than in many a civic election campaign when householders were entitled to vote. Mr. Wasson's "recollection" covers about 30 years as city clerk.

STRONG CAMPAIGN ORGANIZATION

Possibly one of the strongest campaign organizations ever brought together in the interior of British Columbia, worked on the project for a period of about two weeks and, aided by a bright, sunny spring day, and the help of numerous car owners, a record poll was hauled to the voting chamber.

On all sides Wednesday night there were bright smiles. Hands were shaken and backs patted. The campaign committee and the city council members came in for praises of all sorts. In fact it was freely stated throughout the city that Nelson took more interest in the audiorium bylaw vote Wednesday than it has taken in many civic elections, or for that matter, Dominion or provincial battles.

The vote, it was stated on all sides, was undoubtedly a wonderful expression by the ratepayers, of their utmost con-

While working about midnight recently in his bakery, McBryde heard music. He stepped outside and all was quiet. He stepped inside and switched off the cake mixer. The music stopped. He switched it on and it started again. Wandering sound waves were believed responsible.

MRS. HAUPTMANN FIRES REILLY

NEW YORK, April 3 (AP)—Mrs. Bruno Hauptmann today said she had dismissed Edward J. Reilly as head of the counsel which has unsuccessfully defended her husband in his trial for the kidnapping and murder of the son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

She dismissed Reilly, she said, because he had presented a bill for $25,000 which she regarded as "exorbitant and prematurely presented."

AMENDMENT IS VOTED DOWN

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP)—Although the measure was called a "farce and a joke," the house today quickly rushed an attempt to attach the drastic tax provisions approved by the senate munitions committee to the McSwain bill for the elimination of huge war profits.

By a 258 to 71 vote, the house stood by a rule to prevent amendments to the bill, thus virtually assuring passage in its present form.

Britain Will Not Join "Eastern Locarno" or Similar Pact But Will Lend Support

LONDON, April 3 (CP-Havas).—The British cabinet today was authoritatively said to have outlined a three-point program at a meeting preparatory to Friday's session at which Capt. Anthony Eden will report his findings in Moscow, Warsaw and Prahs.

The tentative decisions were said to be as follows:

1. Britain will not join the "eastern Locarno" or similar agreement, but will lend moral support.

2. At the Stresa conference among British, French and Italian representatives, Britain will act as intermediary for Germany and keep the reich informed.

3. Britain hopes France and Italy will agree with her in drafting, for the league council session of April 15, a document on Germany's violation of the Treaty of Versailles that will be acceptable immediately to the league and also leave the door open for further negotiation with Berlin.

European Situation at a Glance

Announcement from Vienna that Austria had decided to increase her army complicated the European picture as Anthony Eden, concluded his Warsaw talks and proceeded to Praha.

The Austrian announcement did not indicate the size of the new army or whether conscription was planned. Surprise was expressed in London and Paris and it was believed the new development would be considered at the three-power Stresa conference.

In Kaunas it was authoratively learned the Lithuanian government had decided to protest to Germany over anti-Lithuanian demonstrations in connection with the death sentences imposed on Nazis for treason.

Britain's goal at Stresa, it was learned, will be some "pan-European" security scheme with adequate provision against aggression. Premier Mussolini announced 20 experts would accompany him to Stresa.

Capt. Eden, British lord privy seal, left for Praha with Poland's reported assurance that she is eager for peace and approves the collective security system.

In London Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, told the house of commons that Chancellor Adolf Hitler informed him at the recent Berlin conversations that Germany had an air force equal to that of Britain.

In Paris Felix Maurin, war minister, and Victor Denain, air minister, outlined to a chamber of deputies committee defensive plans, including an accelerated air program and additional troops in the eastern frontier zone.

Sentenced to Five Years for His Attempt Drown Fiancee in England

LEEDS, England, April 3 (CP cable)—Five years penal servitude was the sentence passed at the assizes today by John Russell, 28, son of Ramer Russell, M.P., convicted of the attempted murder of his fiancee, Carol Leadbeater, by throwing her into the River Trent.

The prosecution alleged the couple had been secretly engaged for two years when last July, the girl being an expectant mother, thy drove to the riverside. The accused, it was charged, led the girl down the bank and next moment she found herself in the river. She shrieked for help but none was forthcoming, fortunately she escaped drowning.

Russell said the girl had suggested committing suicide and threw herself into the river. "I followed but got entangled in a branch and lost sight of her," he said. "I drove back to Sheffield."

The girl herself denied that Russell had attempted to murder her and said she still loved him and wanted to marry him.

Russell pleaded not guilty to the attempted murder charge, but pleaded guilty to two others, of aiding and abetting the performance of an illegal operation, for which he was sentenced to 12 and nine months, to run concurrent with the five-year term.

The prisoner's father, a prominent industrialist and Conservative M.P. for four years, fainted in court when the verdict was pronounced.

B.C. to Receive Loan of $1,250,000 From Dominion to Assist in Relief

OTTAWA, April 3 (CP)—Loans amounting to $1,250,000 and $1,000,000 for British Columbia and Saskatchewan respectively have been approved by the government to assist these provinces in taking care of direct relief, according to several orders-in-council tabled in the house of commons today.

Saskatchewan's $1,000,000 is to pay outstanding accounts for relief in the drought areas. In addition, Saskatchewan is given some further relief from immediate payment of loans made by the Dominion which matured last month. These totalled $1,020,615. They were extended for another year.

MORE ABOUT

AUSTRIA TO BUILD ARMY

"The cabinet expressed the unanimous conception that the granting to Austria of full equality was a self-evident supposition."

Whether military conscription such as that reinstituted in Germany in mid-March was contemplated was not revealed.

Military circles, however, lent attention to reports that an immediate effort would be made to increase the present army from 30,000 to 60,000 and that such effort would be "accompanied by the gradual elimination of private armies such as the heimwehr and the Catholic storm troops."

By HAROLD P. BRAMAN
(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press)

BRITISH OFFICIALS SURPRISED

LONDON, April 3—Austria's sudden decision to increase her army apparently added one more problem to those confronting the Stresa conference at which, high sources said, Great Britain will do all in her power to weld Europe's nations into one far-reaching security system.

While British officials, surprised by the report from Vienna, declined to comment pending receipt of further information, first impressions were that the Austrian move would tend to create further difficulties at the Stresa conference.

Observers received with interest, the reported decision of the Lithuanian government to protest to Germany against asserted anti-Lithuanian demonstrations and threatened reprisals for the recent sentencing of 91 Nazis convicted of plotting to retrieve Memel for Germany.

The British goal at Stresa, it was authoritatively stated, will be some "pan-European" security scheme with adequate, enforceable provisions against aggression, and Britain is ready to play the decisive role at the Italo-French-British discussion which she expects will be required of her.

HOUSE UPSET

LONDON, April 3, (CP)—Germany, her rebuilt air force admitted officially only last month, already claims to be as strong in the air as Great Britain.

Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, made this disclosure before the house of commons today, saying Adolf Hitler told him in Berlin in general terms that the reich already had parity in the air with Britain.

In view of recent British government statements denying assertions that the German air fleet was equal or superior to the British, the house ban to bombard the government with questions. Both Winston Churchill, die-hard Conservative, and George Lansbury, Labor opposition leader, requested that a day be set aside for debate on the international situation.

Churchill, who told the commons a month ago that the reich's aviation was superior to Britain's asserted Sir John's statement today was in direct contradiction to previous government statements on the subject.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, however, refused to set a day for debate.

Great Britain's five-year military aviation building program launched last July and now speeded to three years, will add 41½ squadrons to the royal air force, increasing its strength from about 840 planes, the total at the end of 1934, to 1310 planes. The present number is around 1020.

The amount Britain has budgeted for new war equipment is more than £10,000,000, the largest in her history.

LITHUANIA TO PROTEST

KAUNAS, Lithuania, April 3—(AP)—It was said on good authority tonight that a protest to Berlin against anti-Lithuanian demonstrations and threatened reprisals against the country for the sentencing of 91 Memel Nazis for plotting to seize the territory has been decided upon by the Lithuanian government.

The decision of Governor Navakas of the Memel territory to resign also was revealed on high authority.

These reported developments followed the promulgation of the sentences passed on March 28. The stony silence of the military court which greeted the promulgation indicated no intention to lighten judicial procedure in view of the outburst of protests in Germany which followed the verdicts, including the storming of the Lithuanian legation in Berlin.

EDEN LEAVES WARSAW

WARSAW, April 3 (AP)—The government of Marshal Joseph Pilsudski was said today to have told Anthony Eden, Britain's envoy in search of a European peace formula, that Poland's minority problems make her eager for peace with all nations.

Poland, it was said, regards Lithuania, Memel, foreign armaments and the Baltic questions as problems only if any action on the part of another power should bring them close to the Warsaw government.

Before Captain Eden left Warsaw tonight he denied earlier reports that Polish diplomats had suggested the mutual assistance clause of the proposed eastern European security pact be changed to mean Poland would allow foreign planes to fly over her territory on their way to assist another power.

Tonight Captain Eden, concluding his conferences on peace with three of Europe's most powerful dictators, was speeding for Czechoslovakia, one of the remaining democracies in Europe.

Significance was seen in Eden's brief conference, just before he left, with the diplomatic representatives of France, Italy, the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia, who were summoned by him for a brief discussion, the purport of which was not revealed.

RESENTMENT INCREASES IN GERMANY

BERLIN, April 3 (AP)—With the Lithuanian legation still protected by police guards, popular resentment against the Kaunas verdicts was heightened tonight by the news of promulgation and of a contemplated protest to Berlin.

"It shows," said the newspaper Tageblatt, "how far the verdicts have departed from justice and how dangerous has become the estrangement of two neighboring states. It is high time a halt was called."

ALL FOOD MADE HER ILL

Caused by Acidity—Corrected by Kruschen

"It is only fair to pass these facts on," writes a nurse. "I was suffering from over-acidity and flatulence to such an extent that I was completely ill. I couldn't take food. When I actually forced myself to take something, I would be wretchedly ill. I have now taken Kruschen for 12 months, and I have no doubt that it has righted my digestive system. I am now quite fit and able to work with vigor again."—Nurse E. S.

Indigestion is caused by a failure in the flow of the gastric or digestive juices. As a result, your food, instead of being assimilated by your system simply collects and ferments inside you, producing harmful acid poisons. The immediate effect of the six mineral salts in Kruschen is to promote the healthy flow of the vital juices of the body. As you continue with the "little daily dose," it ensures the regular and complete elimination of all waste matter every day. And that means a complete end to indigestion. ***

Auditorium Passes

fidence in the present city council headed by Mayor J. P. Morgan Elected last January, the council immediately got down to work on the auditorium proposition and only that their efforts were fully appreciated can be borne out in the one-sided result.

CONGRATULATIONS FLOW

Polls opened at 8 a.m. and closed at 8 p.m. Within 25 minutes of closing, Returning Officer W. E. Wasson and a bevy of aides had the vote counted, tabulated and the result "declared" by the official. The mayor and most of the aldermen were present at the count and a cheer went up as the final count was announced. This was followed by congratulations being heaped upon the councillors.

At the corner of Baker and Josephine streets, campaign headquarters, hundreds of citizens gathered to hear the final result. Here, too, a roar of approval went up. Campaign Committee Chairman A. T. Horswill and his lieutenants, men and women, who had worked day and night over the voters' lists received a great ovation.

It was not long before Mr. Horswill was hoisted to a prominent [illegible] and called upon for a state[illegible]. He thanked one and all for [illegible] wonderful work that had resulted in such an overwhelming victory. Then he called upon Mayor J. P. Morgan who had arrived.

"PROUDEST MAN IN NELSON"

"I am the proudest man in Nelson," declared Mayor Morgan, amid loud applause. "We certainly put the bylaw over this time. I would like to thank the people for the excellent vote and appreciate their foresight. They knew that a community building was urgently needed in Nelson. It is a splendid thing to see so large a majority rolled up with the large sum of $150,000 involved at a time when other municipalities are having such a hard time to get by. The support was splendid and the organization perfect." He thanked all those who had worked for the project, especially the women.

A. T. Horswill, committee head, offered every thanks to the members of the committee who had worked so hard.

NOW UP TO CITY

"It is wonderful," he exclaimed, "in fact it is a bigger vote than we ever expected. I am grateful for the help accorded in this campaign. Now that we have done our part I hope the city will do their stuff to the best advantage for Nelson."

He again thanked the workers, the donors of autos for getting the voters to the polls, and all others.

Particularly enthused was Alderman Roy Sharp, chairman of the civic finance committee, who was one of the prime movers for the auditorium and who was elected on an auditorium platform.

HAPPIEST MOMENT

"This is one of the happiest moments of my life," he declared. "The people have manifested that they still have faith in the city of Nelson. The vote result is a good indication of the confidence the ratepayers have in Mayor Morgan and his council. I would like to express appreciation of the excellent work done by the committee and its helpers. Particularly I would like to express appreciation of the council and campaign committee for the excellent work and the wholehearted support and cooperation extended by The Nelson Daily News."

Alderman T. H. Waters, father of the auditorium project, who drafted rough plans, who journeyed to the coast to interview architects, and who spent numerous hours on the project, was all smiles when the result was announced. He could hardly talk.

DREAM COMES TRUE

"My dream of several years has been realized," he finally said. "It is surprising what can be done with a vision. In fact," he added, "it is the best day's work we have done since we built our power plant."

Alderman J. E. McKenzie in jubilant mood said: "I am indeed pleased with the result. The vote shows definitely that the whole city is behind us in this auditorium move. It has been a great victory for Nelson and for the campaign workers who have made a fine job."

LINDSAY EXPECTED IT

Alderman H. B. Lindsay spent the evening at home and was not with the council in its general rejoicing. However, by telephone he expressed "great pleasure" at the result. "I expected it," he emphasized. "In fact, no money bylaw has ever been submitted to a vote in Nelson that was accorded so enormous a majority by the ratepayers. In connection with the amount involved, I might say that I believe it will not be more than the debenture calls for."

Alderman Alick Ritchie, an auditorium booster in the civic campaign, who is more or less the silent member of the Nelson council, in broad Scottish accent acclaimed, "we will be curling next winter sure. It has been a wonderful vote and I am glad the ratepayers are behind our efforts to make Nelson one of the leading centers in the interior. The workers deserve every praise."

ALL WILL BENEFIT

Alderman T. D. Slader was not present at the count but met his coworkers on Baker street on their way to the committee rooms. "I feel that this is one of the finest things the citizens have ever done, the passing of the auditorium bylaw. It doesn't matter what line of business a man is in he will reap the benefit that will accrue from the building. It will be an incentive to bring outsiders in. Now our next thing will be a paved highway from Trail." Workers came in for praise from Alderman Slader.

PICKED THE VOTE

There were many sidelights in connection with the balloting day. One interesting thing was the forecast of F. A. Whitfield, who was in charge of the voters' list at the committee rooms. On Thursday night he tabulated figures and stated that at the outside the most votes the committee could expect would be 796. He hit it on the dot as the result shows.

Another feature, pointed out by Mayor J. P. Morgan, was the generous gift to campaign funds by Major R. K. Waite, who recently arrived from overseas and also contributed his car and driver for a day for carrying ratepayers to the polls.

Other comments:

Ross Fleming—Now we lead the world.

George Horstead—Isn't that great.

C. D. Blackwood—We tackled the question at the opportune time.

H. V. Irving—I wonder who opposed it.

Herbert Pitts—Well we put it over.

William Coles—Well, that is a boost for our council.

J. B. Gray—I am indeed glad I got home from the coast in time to vote for the project.

A. T. Stephenson—What was the result?—Hurrah.

Carl Larson—Did that go over big!

A. A. Perrier—I had a hunch.

LARGER AUDIENCE SEES PRODUCTION

A much larger audience saw the Nelson Little Theater association's cast in its second performance at the Opera house Tuesday night than attended the opening performance on Monday night, and the effort was again greeted with keen approval. The play "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh," a comedy-farce, featured the attempt of an ambitious woman to break into society.

As in the past the casting was admirable and the presentation added another success to the association's record.

FOURTH PARTY

in the province, backed by a platform to "banish poverty from Alberta."

Social Credit today engages the attention of all political groups in Alberta, the United Farmers of Alberta, which under the administrative direction of Hon. R. G. Reid, premier, now is in power; the Conservatives and the Liberals. The Reid government has announced it will support any "feasible social credit" plan, while members of the other older parties have favored the principle of such a scheme, though there is a divergence of opinion on the operation of such plans.

Opening tomorrow, the southern convention of the Abbehart-Douglas plan will be in session for two days.

A draft platform of 10 major planks was drawn up at a Calgary district convention last week, and this will be submitted to the delegates for approval.

One of its major planks call for the establishment of a "basic dividend" in which every citizen would participate, payment to be made on a monthly basis, which the adherents of Social Credit hope to start at $25 a month. When the scheme is in complete operation, the dividend, it has been declared, could be raised to $75 per person each month.

The Calgary platform also stresses creation of credit within the province; establishment of a "just price" for all goods sold or transferred within Alberta; industrial planning and aids to agriculture.

LETOURNEUR IS THE GREATEST

So Declares Reggie McNamara of the Track

BUFFALO, N.Y., April 3 (AP)—Reggie McNamara, 51-year-old "Frenchman" of six-day bicycle riders, today selected Alfred Letourneuer of France as the greatest professional rider he has seen or competed against in his 35 years of racing.

"Letourneur, without question, is the greatest of all time," McNamara said as he selected the 10 best in the sport. "The Frenchman has more heart than any rider I've ever ridden against or seen, has speed to burn, is smart, has perfect timing, and knows when to apply the pressure."

McNamara, native Australian and now a resident of Newark, N.J., is competing in the current grind in Buffalo, his 11th race as a six-day rider.

McNamara's list of the best riders includes in order Letourneur, Franko Georgetti of Italy, Frank L. Kraner of Newark, N.J., Torchy Peden of Victoria, B.C., Walter Rutt of Germany, Gerard Debaets of Belgium, Pete Van Kempen of Holland, Alfred Goulet of Australia, Oscar Egg of Switzerland, Fred Spencer of Nutley, N.J.

Georgetti, Peden, Debaets, Spencer and Letourneur are the only ones among the 10 who are riding now.

"SPRING FEVER"

The need of a spring medicine seems to be universal.

This is due to the fact that during the winter months the blood becomes clogged up with impurities owing to the amount of heavy food eaten to supply bodily warmth, and to the lack of sufficient exercise.

Is it any wonder then, when the warm days of spring approach, that the sluggish blood protests and causes that tired, listless, all-gone, don't-care-to-work feeling which is so prevalent at this time of year?

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Plan of Health Insurance for B. C. Summarized

A draft bill, setting forth a detailed plan of state health insurance which will cover 500,000 persons and cost more than $7,000,000 annually when fully in operation, was presented to the members of the British Columbia legislature by the Hon. G. M. Weir, provincial secretary.

The draft bill, 41 foolscap pages in length, was accompanied by an explanatory memorandum of 23 pages. In a foreword the minister explains that the draft bill is intended for general public discussion. "In the light of the discussion which will take place during the next six or eight months", the foreword continues, "it is expected that all phases of the proposed plan will be fully canvassed, with a view to formulating finally a health insurance measure for adoption at the next session of the legislature."

The plan makes health insurance compulsory for all wage-earners or salaried employees earning less than $200 a month and their dependents, to an estimated number of 400,000. All indigent persons and their dependents, about 100,000, are also covered by the plan.

Voluntary insurance is provided for farmers and their dependents who may come under the scheme by arrangements made through their municipalities. Other persons earning less than $200 per month, such as merchants operating their own stores, and other self-employed persons may join as voluntary contributors. There is provision also for schemes of voluntary hospital insurance to be worked out under the proposed act which any person, irrespective of income, may join.

The plan provides for cash benefits to employees who lose their work on account of sickness and for medical benefits to all insured persons. Cash benefits amounting to one-half of ordinary wages are to be paid, but not to exceed $10 per week.

Fairly complete medical service is authorized for all insured persons. These medical benefits are to include the services of the general medical practitioners, including maternity service; the services of medical specialists; fairly complete hospital service (free public ward care for 21 days and 75 per cent of the cost of care for ten weeks longer); limited dental services, mainly preventive; limited nursing service; and provision of at least 75 per cent of the cost of drugs, medical, surgical and optical supplies and the services of opticians and optometrists.

The medical services authorized would not cover treatment of tuberculosis and mental disease, which is already provided for by the province. It is provided further that all of these medical services need not be granted at once, but that the list may be extended or curtailed at the discretion of the administrative authority in accordance with available finances.

The plan is to be financed by employees, employers, the provincial government and such farmers and voluntary contributors as join the scheme. Employees would contribute not more than three per cent of their ordinary wages and employers not more than two per cent of payrolls. The provincial government would pay the cost of medical care for indigent insured persons and their dependents and half the cost of administration, but not to exceed $1,200,000 per year. Voluntary contributors would make contributions large enough to cover the costs of the medical services granted them.

Insured persons would have the right to choose medical practitioners by whom they would be treated and every medical practitioner in good standing would have the right to practice under the plan. Thus persons who are to be insured may carry on with their present family doctors.

It is provided in the draft bill that the administration of the plan shall be under a commission of five persons, the director of social welfare, who is to be the chairman, the provincial health officer and the chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board, all of whom are to serve without salary; along with the administrator of health insurance and the director of medical services, executive officers of the commission who are to be appointed by the lieutenant-governor in council.

The commission is to be assisted by central advisory committees representing doctors, employers, employees and other interested persons. The commission would work out much of the details of the plan through regulations to be drawn up and issued subject to government approval.

The explanatory memorandum states that:

"The constitution of the commission is designed to be such that it will have genuine freedom from undue interference by the Government of the day on matters of administration; while it will be sufficiently subject to governmental control so that it cannot take action of which the government of the day would disapprove on matters of policy which no government can turn over to an independent commission."

Flexibility of administration and financial safety would be gained by provisions to permit extension or contraction of medical benefits and services to insured persons in accordance with availability of funds and circumstances in general. It is contended in the explanatory memorandum that these provisions provide "automatic protection against bankruptcy."

The health insurance fund, into which all payments are to be made, is to be held by the minister of finance as custodian. But the finances of the insurance scheme are to be operated completely apart from the general finances of the province.

A large section of the explanatory memorandum deals with the finances of the proposed plan. It is contended "not only that the plan is financially feasible and financially sound, but also that it would help to relieve certain pressing problems of public finance."

With the full plan in operation it is estimated that the annual costs of medical services per insured person (other than indigents) would be as follows.

Costs of Medical Services Per Insured Person
General Practitioner service	$ 3.40
Maternity service	.20
Specialist medical service	1.00
Dental Service	.50
Nursing service—(other than hospital)	.50
Hospital service	3.50
Drugs, medical, sugical and optical supplies	1.50
Laboratory	.80
Reserve and contingencies	1.00
	$12.50

However, it is proposed that only half the normal scale of fees be paid for medical services given to indigent insured persons. Therefore, the cost of medical services for each indigent is set at $6.25 per year.

It is estimated further that the annual costs of cash benefits for employees would not exceed $1,000,000.

The total costs of operation of the scheme for a year for 400,000 employees and dependents and 100,000 indigents and dependents (excluding an unknown number of farmers and voluntary contributors, who may join voluntarily) would be as follows.

Employees and dependents
Medical care	$5,000,000
Cash benefits	1,000,000
Indigent persons
Medical care	625,000
Sub-total	$6,625,000
Administration	662,500
Total	$7,287,500

It is pointed out in the memorandum that these figures represent maximum costs with all medical benefits being granted. If only a part of the authorized medical benefits were granted the cost per year would be lower.

The estimated expenditures upon medical care for a full year of operation would be divided approximately as follows:

Physicians	$2,070,000
Dentists	225,000
Hospitals	1,575,000
Nurses, private duty,	225,000
Drugs, medicines, etc.,	720,000
Laboratory services	360,000
Reserves and contingencies	450,000
	$5,625,000

These payments to doctors, dentists, hospitals, etc., would be made largely in behalf of people who are not paying them at present. The doctors, dentists and hospitals would still be able to make collections from the non-insured population.

As for the hospitals it is pointed out that they would receive from the health insurance plan about $1,575,000 per annum which is about the same as they received in 1933 from the province and municipalities together.

The insurance system would provide a substantial part of the total bill for medical care in the province. In 1933 total expenditures by the people of British Columbia on all types of medical care were from $13,000,000 to $15,000,000.

It is estimated that the five percent tax on payrolls to be paid jointly by employers and workers would have yielded, even in 1933, a very bad year, $6,400,000. Government contributions for 100,000 indigents and for half the cost of administration are estimated at $960,000. Thus it is estimated that total contributions would be more than sufficient to cover the annual maximum charges of $7,200,000.

It is pointed out particularly that these estimates are based upon wage, employment and other statistics for 1933 and 1934, years of serious depression; and the financial problems of the insurance scheme should be distinctly easier in more prosperous years which may be expected to follow.

Each regular wage-earner would pay under the scheme about $23 per year or 45 cents per week; and each employer would be required to pay about $15 per year for each worker in his employ. If the insurance plan were in operation it is contended that the province could curtail or reduce hospital grants, aid to rsidnt physicians and relief medical service, which cost the province about $1,043,000 during the current fiscal year. Through saving from this source it is contended that the province could easily afford to contribute $690,000 per year to the insurance plan—without increasing its total expenditures on health at all. The memorandum argues further that the insurance plan would relieve municipalities of health and hospital charges to the extent of several hundred thousand dollars annually.

The first part of the explanatory memorandum points out the need for health insurance in British Columbia. Detailed figures are given to show the inadequate medical care now being received by the people of British Columbia. In spite of this there are many physicians and other medical practitioners idle or unpaid for the work they do.

It is pointed out that 49 per cent of all medical practitioners in private practice in British Columbia received less than $2000 net income in 1933, according to income tax returns; and that 69 per cent of all dentists received less than $2000 net.

The province and the municipalities are now paying a very large share of the total costs of medical care in British Columbia, which are estimated to be from $13,000,000 to $15,000,000 annually. For the fiscal year ending March 31 next the provincial government is paying for health services approximately $1,917,500. Figures for the preceding fiscal year show total municipal expenditures of $1,681,122. The province and the municipalities together, it is stated, are now paying for health services at the rate of $3,500,000 per year.

The memorandum states further that the total costs of illness for the people of British Columbia each year may be estimated as follows:

Cost of medical care	$13,000,000
Cost of preventable mortality	18,000,000
Wages lost on account of illness	3,000,000
Total	$34,000,000

It is contended that a most important effect of the health insurance plan will be to provide treatment for insured persons in the early stages of illness so that much illness and preventable death can be checked. Thus the whole scheme will do a great deal to stimulate the practice of preventive medicine and to improve and conserve the health of the people of British Columbia.

From this point of view it is stated that the plan will be a measure not only of great humanitarian value but also of great economic value to the whole population.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk, and the world looks punk, don't think that a large cleaning out of the bowels will make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

It can't do it! You know it can't give you any lasting relief. For a mere cleaning out does not get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas blows up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pints of bile flowing freely. Then you feel "up and up." Carter's Little Liver Pills contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Northwest Revolt Recreated Unity

Action That Quelled Riel Uprising Centered Eastern Eyes on West

This is the second of a series dealing with Northwest Rebellion.

By HERBERT HONEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG, April 3. (CP)—National unity, nurtured in revolt against treaty-revision, was re-created in insurrection that rumbled across Western Canada 50 years ago. The spirit of Confederation that was cradled on the banks of the Red river received its baptism in the Riel rebellion of 1885 that ended with the capture of Louis Riel, Metis leader.

In 1870 the rolling prairies of the west lay untilled and unsurveyed. Indians sought the white man to trade wares for arms. A new commonwealth was about to be formed. The west was to be ceded to Canada by purchase. Indians and Metis, fearing for their rights and led by Riel, set up a provisional government at Fort Garry and developments of the Red River revolt followed rapidly.

The uprising was short-lived. Apart from the murder of Thomas Scott, who was particularly active against the provisional government, it was a comparatively small affair but it fixed the eyes of the East upon the West. The ready response of the Red River expedition under Colonel Wolseley disclosed the spirit of national unity. Riel and the remnants of his government fled.

The Northwest rebellion had its inception in grievances similar to those that flared at Fort Garry. Under the Treaty of Qu'Appelle, Indian reserves were established. Later, treaties were also made at Fort Pitt and Fort Carlton. Meanwhile, government surveyors drove stakes through the narrow river lots of Metis who had found sanctuary along the banks of the south Saskatchewan.

In the summer of 1884, Riel, then a teacher in a Montana Jesuit college, returned to Canada to aid his brothers in a petition for rights they claimed as inheritors of the country. A bill of rights was prepared and a provisional government set up. Riel's impetuous appeal reached the ears of Poundmaker, Cree Indian chief, near Battleford, Big Bear and his band of Woody Crees, at Edmonton, and renegades from the Custer massacre in Wyoming.

On March 18 the rebels seized Loyalist settlements in northern Saskatchewan. The first shots were fired near Duck lake and Fort Carlton was occupied on March 31. General Sir Frederick Middleton, with a strong force of troops at Troy, (now (Qu'Appelle) directed one column, commanded by Colonel Otter, on Battleford to deal with Poundmaker, and a second, under Major Strange, against Big Bear. A third marched on Batoche.

Middleton engaged the rebels at Fish creek, on April 24. Batoche was next and Riel's final gamble for self-government was lost.

The net estate amounts to $734.94.

PRIMARY MOVEMENT OF WHEAT

Marketing of wheat in the Prairie Provinces for the week ending March 8 amounted to 1,667,000 bushels, a decrease of 716,000 bushels from the previous week. In the same week last year 2,227,000 bushels of wheat were marketed. Marketings by provinces were as follows, with last year's figures in brackets: Manitoba 131,000 (194,000), Saskatchewan 599,000 (979,000), Alberta 937,000 (1,063,000). Thirty-two weeks: Manitoba 27,633,000 (24,136,000), Saskatchewan 82,964,000 (90,051,000), Alberta 78,175,000 (68,264,000), Total 188,771,000 (182,450,000).

DECEMBER ZINC PRODUCTION

Production of zinc in December was reported at 27,684,930 pounds; in November 27,222,359 were produced and in December 1933, the output was 22,238,145. On the London market zinc quotations averaged 2.5589 cents per pound, in Canadian funds, as compared with the November average of 2.6102 cents. Based on these prices the Canadian production in December was worth $703,430 and in November, $710,558.

KING WILL GREET LONDON CITIZENS

LONDON (CP)—King George's four jubilee drives with the Queen through the streets of London, as part of the public rejoicings, have been fixed for Saturday afternoons in May and June.

Main outlines of the routes have been drafted, but the actual details of the drives are still under consideration. The drives will take place in the following order: North London, May 11; South London, May 18; East London, May 25; and West London, June 8.

Each route will be kept within a six-mile radius of Buckingham palace. In East and South London the King and Queen will use cars for the first part of the journey and then continue by carriage; but in North and West London the whole of the journey will be by carriage.

The reason is that part of the East and South London drives will come within the route of the great procession on May 6.

TRAIL POLICE COMMISSIONERS HEAR COMPLAINTS REGARDING INFRACTION OF ITS SHOP ACT

Many Complaints but None Willing to Act

TRAIL, B.C., April 3.—A letter from Adam Bell, deputy minister of the department of labor and chairman of the board of industrial relations, received by the city council and referred to the police commission, brought out considerable discussion at the latter body's annual meeting Wednesday afternoon.

The letter stated that complaints had been received that certain stores in Trail were not complying with the half-holiday act and the Shop Regulations act, and that it was a matter for civic authorities to attend to.

R. J. Clegg, city solicitor, outlined the city's position regarding the Hours of Closing bylaw, and the Hours of Work act.

He advised the council that it would be best to put through an early closing bylaw and then attend to a new trade license bylaw. The city solicitor explained that the powers of the police department were limted as it could only enforce the closing hour bylaw as set down by the council in which the closing hour is 6 o'clock. If the stores got together and set an earlier closing hour anyone else could remain open until the hour the bylaw states. Mayor Groutage contended that it was up to the tradesmen to get together to present a petition before a new bylaw was brought in.

Commissioner Jack Balfour asked if complaints had been laid.

"A manager of a local departmental store," stated Chief Laurie, "came to me and said that he had spotted an employee working in the Safeway store after 6 o'clock Saturday night. The store was closed and no business was being transacted, so the only thing that is concerned is the Hours of Work act," stated the chief. Chief Laurie was of the opinion that this was a matter for government inspectors. The chief stated he consulted the manager of the Safeway store who promised to see to it that his employees would be out of the store at closing time.

"One Wednesday afternoon," the chief continued, "I investigated employees working after 12 o'clock in the same store and the manager arranged to open the store a half hour later in the morning so that the employees could work up to half an hour after the store closed at 5:30 which is time all stores close at present. This manager informed me that he is subject to dismissal if he does comply with rules which his head office forwards to him and which contain the Hours of Work act." The chief said he believed that this store manager, against whom the complaint was laid, was conducting his store in proper adherence to bylaws and acts.

"Another complaint," continued Chief Laurie, "came to me from a manager of a local electrical store that Claus Scheer on Bay avenue, who sells radios, and other household appliances, is making sales of goods in competition to the informant. But I have no proof from the complainant," added Chief Laurie, "that there were any sales taking place after closing hours. I saw Mr. Scheer and still the complainant was not satisfied. He believed that the store should be made to close up and that it was unfair competition," the chief said. "This man also said that Scheer should not be able to have a radio going after hours." The chief then said that he asked why, and the complainant replied that it was advertising.

City Clerk W. E. B. Monypenny stated that one can pass many drug stores and hear radios going after regular closing hours.

"As far as we can gather," stated Commissioner Balfour, "there is no evasion of the Hours of Work act or Hours of Closing bylaw.

Mr. Clegg told the commission of a letter he and the chief had drafted in answer to Mr. Bell at Victoria.

Chief Laurie stated he had received a letter from Mr. Bell as had the council re the same matter and he was duly obliged to reply to it.

The context of the letter was that the chief had not noticed infractions to the act in his observations and could obtain no proof from the complainants or from his own observations.

Chief Laurie added that the people who had complained would lay no information so there was nothing he could do about it.

"Yes," said Commissioner Brady, "they kick but never lay any information with the right source, which is the police department."

$18 per Capita to Pay Trail Policing

Raise in Salaries and Car to Raise Costs This Year

TRAIL, B. C., April 3—Trail's policing costs for 1935 Chief John Laurie has estimated, will be about $2600 greater than last year or $1.18 per capita, as compared with $1.04 last year.

The cost of policing has varied considerably in the last 10 years, a table submitted to the police commissioners shows. The low level was in 1924 when policing of Trail cost $.98 per capita. The peak year was 1931 when cost was $1.89. This year with a population of 9000, costs will be $1.18 per capita.

Chief Laurie points out that the increase over last year is due to an increase in salaries amounting to $626.20 and to an addition in the estimate of a patrol car. The price of the car is placed at $1000 and operating expenses at $250.

Owen, Bishop of Toronto and primate of the church. Accompanying His Grace was C. L. Foster who addressed the congregation regarding the replacement of endowments for the province of Prince Rupert's land that were lost some two years ago. The church was filled to capacity.

Present at the services besides Ven. Archdeacon Fred R. Graham were, the Right Rev. Walter Adams, Bishop of Kootenay; Rev. V. Harrison, of Cranbrook; Rev. M.C.T. Percivall, of Creston; Rev. Clyde Harvey, of Kokanee; Rev. W. J. Silverwood, of Fairview; and Judge G. H. Thompson of Cranbrook.

Called to speak first, Mr. Foster stated that the visit in Nelson which he was making with his Grace, Bishop Owens, was the last point in their tour and that they had spoken at some 22 places throughout Canada. Wherever they had gone they had been met with great hospitality and Nelson had proven no exception.

Wednesday morning he had had the pleasure of visiting Rossland for the first time since his short stay there 35 years ago, and that, coupled with concluding their tour with services in a church, provided a very happy ending, he stated.

LOSS OF ENDOWMENTS

Two and a half years ago, observed Mr. Foster a severe blow had been struck in the loss of endowments arising out of an extraordinary sequence of events. It had come at an unfortunate time and at a moment when it was thought such a situation could least be met. Moneys amounting to $671,000 belonging to the missionary funds of the province of Prince Rupert's Land were lost, leaving the church at a crisis.

There was no money to continue the missionary work in that province and funds had to be provided. Canon Gould had taken his stand in the breach and had worked hardest. Under his effort organization was started to raise funds to carry on the work until the endowments could be replaced.

A contribution was made by a levy on the missionaries and voluntary subscriptions by the clergy had followed.

DIVIDE THE ALLOTMENT

The total aimed at was just over $1,000,000 and to raise this amount each diocese was asked to be responsible for a certain sum, in proportion to the conditions and circumstances prevailing in the diocese. Many of the diocese divided the allotment among the congregations, and in those cases the results were best. Results had also been best where organization was complete. The women had taken an active part and had raised much more than they had set out to. But those contributing did not include only members of the church, many outside the church gave to the cause.

About $855,000 had been subscribed, $821,000 of it being in cash. There still remained about one-quarter of the objective to be reached, and about one third of the time remained.

Had the church been in a position to start the drive two years ago, and could have taken advantage of the psychological moment, there would be no question about the endowments, being completely replaced today. The objective would be reached, however, and he urged each congregation and diocese to do its part. Even though a parish might produce its requirement, he asked that they would not be content to stoo there, for other parishes might not reach their goal. Continue the work, he concluded, and spread the information as widely as possible to get the fullest sympathy for the cause.

WONDERFUL STORY

His grace, the bishop of Toronto, said he could add little to Mr. Foster's address on the endowments, other than to point out the area which the province of Prince Rupert included. It took in the territory, roughly, from Hudson Bay to the Alberta-British Columbia boundary. It was a tremendous area and wonderful work had been done throughout its length and breadth by the missionaries. Indians, Eskimos and even isolated white people had known the presence and had felt the touch of these heroic workers. The work of the missionaries in that area provided a story that should fill all churchmen with pleasure.

When the blow fell upon the church, moneys that were available for missionary work were swept away and the work would have ceased over that vast area, had replacement not been made. It was work that had been carried on for more than a century and that had cost the lives of men and women. The loss of those capital funds was tremendous. The members of the church realized that many people were with them, and it had helped to draw the members closer together until now they felt a oneness. The rebuilding of those funds had drawn the Church of England in Canada together in a way that it had not known before. It had cemented the bonds between them and made the ties real.

His Grace complimented the congregation on its beautiful church. He stated that the diocese would be blessed, strengthened and drawn together by ministry of Bishop Adams, whom he knew as a friend. He welcomed the brethren of the clergy and the congregation and stated the service was a demonstration of what was needed in the church when it was being pressed.

NO EASY WAY OUT

There was no easy way out of trouble, he continued, and countries as well as churches had to learn that. One had to accept one's burden and one's responsibilities, and be prepared to make sacrifices. The unconquerable spirit of the pioneer was needed, the same kind of spirit that would remain high in spite of failures and disasters and would eventually find success. Suffering there would be, but one had to be prepared to accept that too.

There were only two pivots upon which things might hinge, concluded his grace, in quoting from the archbishop of York, self and God. Self and pride could raise a city like Babylon, but it would not last. Only a city which one built through God could last.

This is the second visit of his grace to Nelson, his first visit having been about six years ago.

Following the services there was a short reception in the Memorial hall.

"Too Grouchy to Live With"

Irritable, nervous, impossible

What do they really think of you
When you blow in after the day's work.
Are you greeted with a pleasant welcome
Or is there a deadly silence to meet your entry.
True there are burdens to bear these days
Which sap the vitality of mind and body.
Never was the nervous system so severely tried.
But why take it out of your family?
When your nerves are upset,
There is always effective relief obtainable
In the form of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.
Your wife knows about this treatment
Or if not she is an exception
For everywhere women are talking about it.
It is just as effective for men
For it actually forms rich, red blood
And restores nerve force to the tired body.

WILL PROBE AUTO PRICES

Esling Puts the Facts Forward; Hearing in Vancouver

OTTAWA, April 3—The government has ordered a complete inquiry, from coast to coast, on the price of motor cars including parts and draw-backs. The purpose is to give to the public full and complete information as to the cost of cars, and to this end all hearings will be open, and full publicity given so that anybody having anything to place before the commission may do so. This undertaking has been assigned to the tariff board of which Hon. George H. Sedgewick, K.C., is chairman.

The board will hold its British Columbia sittings in Vancouver. Manufacturing costs, prices, duties, assembling, and every other phase which enters into the construction of cars will be given to the public.

The board is now hearing complaints against the price of gasoline in Saskatchewan, and when its duties in that direction are completed, it will proceed to British Columbia. The opening session will be about the middle of May. The board already has before it representations by W. K. Esling, member for West Kootenay, with complaints as to comparative prices, and the minister of finance in referring to the matter of the tariff board states that it is in the public interest that there be an inquiry into and report upon the operation in Canada of the automotive industry particularly as regards to the hearing thereupon of customs and excise duties or taxes. The minister makes it clear that such an investigation should not be restricted merely to specific items of customs and excise but should be general in scope and character.

The inquiry, according to the reference, will embrace relationship of the production of parts to the general industry and of both to the general consuming public. Content and cost of distribution will be gone into thoroughly and the board will weigh the various factors which determine the price of automobiles in Canada.

It is felt that sittings in each province rather than in Ottawa will give every portion of the country an opportunity to present its case and all phases of the manufacture and sale of cars. It is designed that any individual or organization may have the fullest opportunity to appear or be represented in the presentation of all matters with a bearing on the automotive industry.

NELSON MAN IS DEAD, CRANBROOK

William S. Heffernan Will Be Buried Here

CRANBROOK, B.C., April 3—The death of William S. Heffernan, which occurred at St. Eugene hospital Wednesday morning following an attack of acute bronchitis and pneumonia, came as a shock to his family and friends in the district. He was gassed three times while serving as a lieutenant in the 66th battalion in the great war and is another of the Canadian casualties of that struggle, never having regained health and vigor since his return.

Though extensively known in the Cranbrook district where he had resided for the past two years looking after his mining interests here, Mr. Heffernan's home was in Nelson. His wife and eldest son were with him at the end. Two sons and a daughter compete the family, who are receiving widespread condolences.

The body will be shipped to Nelson Thursday for burial. Services will be held in the Catholic church.

Mr. Heffernan was born in Guelph, Ont. June 1915 he enlisted with the 66th battalion at Edmonton and while overseas was wounded twice and gassed once. His war injuries left him with weak lungs and each winter he suffered considerably. In England he was made a lieutenant. His discharge came in March 1918.

Following the war he lived for some time on his ranch at Mirror Lake, and for a time was interested in mining.

Friday he is to be buried in the soldiers' plot at Nelson and the pallbearers will be T. D. Rosling, Percy Coates, F. J. Harbour, Dr. Keeley of Trail, P. E. Poulin and R. W. Dawson.

Our King and Queen on their Silver Jubilee

"In Flanders Fields"

War came! The nations of Europe tore wolfishly at each other each for the spoils that victory would bring.

In June, 1914, there was the Sarajevo incident, when Archduke Franz Ferdinand was assassinated. This led to the Austrian declaration of war on Serbia on July 28; on August first, Germany and Russia declared war on each other; on the third, Germany declared war on France and proceeded to march through Belgium; on the fourth, with scarcely a voice dissenting, Great Britain declared war on Germany.

All that could possibly be done to avert the war was done by King George. He was in constant communication with Nicholas of Russia and Wilhelm of Germany, both of whom were of the same family as the King. But every effort he made failed.

Immediately on declaration of war, the King and Queen "cleared the decks" for action. Though the King was commander-in-chief of the British forces, he never interfered with his ministers and military naval leaders. He kept always in close touch with affairs and not long after the war started, he visited France to see for himself how matters were progressing. Both the King and Queen gave up every luxury and lived with the utmost simplicity during the war years. He offered everything in his power to help in the work; no man worked harder, without actually being in the front line trenches, during those four hectic years.

He made several journeys to the trenches in France and Belgium; he allowed the Prince of Wales to take an even more active part in the warfare. Our picture today shows the King wearing a "tin hat", inspecting conditions in which his armies fought and died. No one wanted war less than King George; but no one was more willing and eager to fight and work than this same monarch.

MICHEL MINERS VOTE TO SIGN

Only Three at Meeting Are Against Agreement for New Year

FERNIE, B. C., April 3—Michel miners have voted to sign the agreement with the Crows Nest Pass Coal Co., for the coming year.

At a meeting of the workers Saturday the agreement came under discussion and, according to the reports, when the chairman called for a definite showing as to how many favored repudiation of the agreement only about three stood up. Although the agreement, which is essentially the same as the one in force during the past year, has not yet been actually signed, the mines were active Monday although the old agreement had expired.

Real estate has been active in Fernie recently. During the last few days several pieces of property have canged hands. In every case the transaction has involved the purchase of a home by a settled resident of Fernie taking advantage of the prevailing low prices of property to become a home owner instead of merely a householder.

This spring has brought out the usual crop of rumors of better times for Fernie through increased activity at Coal Creek. The people of Fernie are constitutionally optimistic and at each fresh rumor hope that there may be something in it. Unfortunately their only way to get definite information as to the reliability of these reports is to wait and see if anything happens. So far it hasn't happened but Fernie is still hoping.

April arrived with more snow on the ground than a week ago and with the thermometer registering around eight degrees below zero Monday morning. A comment becoming common-place is that spring like prosperity is somewhere around the corner.

SPAWN OF RUMOR

No more striking example of the potentialities for evil that lie within one little false rumor could be given than the recent riot in New York's negro district.

Here, in chronological order, is the sequence of events that preceded the actual riot:

A 15-year-old negro boy stole a five-cent chocolate bar in a Harlem five-and-ten-cent store.

Two clerks caught him and took the candy from him.

They started to haul him toward the door, threatening to punish him.

The boy fought, scratched and bit.

The clerks, finding him a handful, let go of him and he ran out of the store.

The scene excited the customers in the store, so much so, indeed, that a woman fainted.

Some one called out that the boy had been beaten.

Some one else said the boy had been horribly beaten.

Some one else said that he had been beaten into unconsciousness.

Some one else said that he had been beaten to death.

The story spread on to the street, to other streets, into houses, and each time it was repeated it gathered fresh horrors and sensations.

A negro labor picket, hearing one of the most violent versions, took it as a text for an impromptu speech.

Crowds gathered. More speakers added to the uproar. The crowds became enraged.

Just then a hearse went along the street and one of the speakers shouted that it had come to get the boy's body.

Then the riot started. Two men received fatal wounds. Several scores were injured. Dozens were arrested. Hundreds of thousands of dollars' damage was done.

And through all the actual rioting, the boy was at home in bed, peacefully sleeping.

RUSSIA PUZZLES CARTOONISTS

Cartoonists are threatened with a serious handicap.

For decades friendly agreement has existed between themselves and the public that John Bull, a well padded gentleman in top hat, riding breeches and high boots, represents England, while Uncle Sam, a cadaverously tall figure with goatee and star-spangled hat personifies the United States.

Russia, if not a clumsy bear, has always been recognized as an untidy Muscovite with straight, spiky whiskers spreading out fanlike from his chin.

Times change, however, and in the land devoted to wholesale social experiment it has been decided that Nature, as tonsorial artist, is not neat enough. Word comes from Moscow that, in line with the campaign to encourage Soviet farmers to improve their personal appearance, 7,000 traveling barbers with boxes full of perfumes and lotions have been sent to the collective farms to dress up ragged beards.

It may be argued that few British or United States citizens resemble either John Bull or Uncle Sam, that therefore to retain an established portrait now universally recognized is logical and just.

But in an age that has largely renounced whiskers, Russia might well consider it a national affront to be symbolized by facial herbage.

CRIME AND PUNISHMENT

Present penal methods are much discussed today, the general test applied being the remedial value of the sentence imposed. Doubtless, we have learned much in recent years about the causes of crime and we recognize as never before that there may be factors quite apart from environment and economic opportunity. The psychologists have thrown light on areas of the human mind in a way distinctly valuable to all interested in crime and its punishment and doubtless we shall go much farther in that direction.

One cannot doubt that in the matter of humanity we have progressed. An extract from Alexander Innis Shaw's "Half A Century of Changes in Men and Manners," published in 1888, reads as follows with regard to the year 1836:

> "The shipwreck of a vessel bound for Botany Bay or some other penal settlement at the Antipodes elicited curious disclosures and among other cases there was a girl of twelve transported for stealing a mother-of-pearl card-counter; a girl of thirteen had been condemned for picking up a pocket handkerchief in the street. They had been locked up of nights and even forced to mingle with hardened desperadoes."

We have gone a long way since transportation and hanging were the punishments inflicted even upon mere children for a varied list of crimes, some of which we would classify as of minor order. However, smug contemplation of our advance is of little value. There are further advances to be made in the direction of reform and science and sociology are the great aids in this effort.

DID THE BYLAW PASS

At the time of writing the result of the auditorium vote was not known. It was known that the recorded vote was about the biggest yet on a money bylaw in the city of Nelson. But there was optimism in the air. I can't say more until the votes are counted. However, if it passed Nelson is starting on a new era of expansion. If the bylaw was beaten, well we might as well fold up our tents like the Arabs and steal silently away—Because we will be sort of out-of-date and lacking in initiative.

"THE MAN WHO WON THE WAR"

The sultan of Zanzibar, while on a visit to London, was being conducted around Madame Tussaud's, the world-famous waxworks, and was enchanted with the exhibits. He came at last to the Hall of Kings, where the Kings of England, from William the Conqueror to Edward VII, were standing in martial array. He admired their wonderful clothes, he touched the gleaming gold armour of Henry V, and pointed to the gold chain of precious stones which the warrior king wore around his neck. The little child Prince of Wales, the son of Edward I, claimed his attention for some minutes. He seemed lost in thought. Maybe the pageantry and pomp of English history were passing before his mind. It was an impressive moment.

The sultan then passed into the other hall where the group of the present royal family and many other people of our own time confronted him. He knew all their names. He knew their history. He was in his element. Around them all he went, recalling a bit of history here, a gallant deed there.

"There," he was told, "is the boy Cornwall, the naval V.C."

A tender smile passed across his face.

"M'toto sana," he said. "So young."

Suddenly he stopped. His suite stopped, looked and wondered.

The sultan was gazing with wide, bright eyes at the immortal Old Bill, in his dirty khaki, and tin hat, his walrus moustache. He had no eyes for the brilliant generals, the gleaming admirals or the kingly company any more.

Around he turned and caught his son by the arm. Never had he appeared more dignified, more impressive.

"The man who won the war," he explained.

QUAFF THIS ONE

Temperance workers and Canadian distillers, at least, have found a common purpose. Both are protesting at Ottawa against the reduction in the excise tax on liquor as announced by Hon. E. N. Rhodes in his recent budget address. True, their grounds for protest are radically different. The temperance workers fear increased consumption, and the Canadian distillers fear more serious competition. While the consumer is pleased to see them working toward the same end, he wishes neither success if his hopes for lower liquor prices are to be jeopardized.

THE BEST 3-BID

Back in 1926 for a while I played and taught an opening 3-bid which showed so strong a trump suit and so powerful a hand that partner could support without considering his length in trumps. If partner held no Ace he responded with three No Trumps, allowing the original 3-bidder to bid game (or as high as he wished), or to show a second long suit, to enable partner to choose between the two long suits. It was a wonderful method of discovering how high bidding could go with safety. It had just one flaw, but that was a serious one. The opening bidder held such a hand, with game assured, only once in about 53,000 times. As a result, bidders would utilize the call on lighter holdings, and often go down. I soon abandoned the call, and for several years I never made use of it. In 1932 P. H. Sims revived the call, but it still had the old objection of holding such a hand only once in a blue moon.

Lately I have been playing a more popular opening 3-bid, with various top liners. We all prefer the new bid to the older and safer call. What difference does it make if once in a while a hand goes down a trick, or even two.

Everyone pre-empts with a game bid, on a hand worth two tricks short of game, trusting partner for the two missing tricks, provided the hand is worthless at other calls and lacks defensive strength against opposing makes. The new opening 3-bid has to be at least as strong as the pre-emptive opening bid, and it asks no trump strength of partner, but it does have great defensive power and seeks a slam, provided partner holds a few high missing honors. The hand shown below I ran across within the week. It well illustrates the subject.

North: ♠A ♥A 6 5 3 ♦Q 6 5 2 ♣A J 8 4

West: ♠7 8 ♥J 9 8 7 ♦10 9 8 4 3 ♣K 9 6

East: ♠8 5 4 3 ♥10 ♦J 9 7 ♣Q 10 7 5 2

South: ♠K Q J 10 9 6 ♥K Q 4 3 ♦A K ♣3

South made an opening bid of three Spades, demanding feature showing, unless partner held none of the three missing Aces. Bidding continued: North, four Clubs, showing that no Club trick could be lost; South, four Diamonds, to show that Ace; North, four Hearts, meaning that not more than a single Heart trick could be lost by the declaring side; South, five Diamonds, to show his second top honor in that suit; North, six Diamonds, to show the Queen, partner having shown both Ace and King; South, six Spades; North, seven Spades, as he held the missing Ace of trumps. Of course the hand is a spread for the grand slam, but the bidding is interesting.

MORE ABOUT EDUCATION

To the Editor, Nelson Daily News,
Sir:—Educo, educere, eduxi, eductum—to lead out—is the information I get from my latin dictionary when I seek the original root word from which our modern word "education" is derived.

Educo—I lead out—gives not only the root word but also the root idea that underlies all good educational practise, ancient, modern or even Canadian—a term now appearing in the vocabulary of ultra-progressive professor of the art.

To give a common place illustration. As a jockey leads out a racehorse to the race track; puts him through his paces, and finally wins the race, so the skilful eacher by similar methods prepares the child for the great race of life.

But the work of the teacher is far more complex than that of the jockey. The jockey neglects everything connected with the race horse except his speed on the race track, as it is to be feared that the modern teacher might neglect everything connected with his pupils except their possibilities of figuring on the race track of examination results.

But education in the Greek and Roman mind, if not in the modern Canadian mind, had a broader application. To these people of the ancient world a child had a body and his physical nature required some attention. The Greeks even thought of beauty of form and grace of movement in their schemes of education. The child also had a mind. He was to be taught to think and his thought was to be directed into right channels. He had emotions and he was to be taught to love his parents, his home, and his fatherland. He moreover had aesthetic tastes. He was to be taught to recognize and love the beautiful. Above all the child had a soul that survived death and pagan education and did not neglect spiritual culture.

In a word education, in all ages, has meant the development of the physical, moral, mental, aesthetic, emotional and spiritual possibilities of the child. Education, ancient and modern, or Canadian, is to be judged by the faithfulness with which it has kept this end in view.

Have our teachers in the schools around us an abiding consciousness of the true goal of education? I fear there are many distracting influences. Order and discipline must be maintained at al lcosts.

Teachers soon discover that pupils are quiet and orderly when kept busy, and work, much of it senseless, stupid and soul-destroying, is heaped upon the unfortunate pupils. Addition and multiplication tables are copied over hundreds and hundreds of times. Reading lessons are transcribed over and over again into neat scribblers. Spelling lessons are written 10 times and each mistake from 10 to 100 times. A type question in arithmetic may be repeated in a hundred variations.

Teachers, over-anxious about maintaining order and discipline, soon acquire the habit of covering every available blackboard with notes on history, geography, grammar, etc., or questions in arithmetic, where each question is simply a variation of the first. Copying notes and working questions of this kind produce pin-drop and perfect order, but the educational value is nil.

The foregoing does not purport to picture our schools as they are. We have many good schools free from such evils and many good teachers who rely on their powers to arouse childish interest and let order and discipline go hang. We have, also, a few wide-awake inspectors who look beneath the faultless order and discipline to ask how it is maintained.

My purpose is merely to point out some of the pitfalls that may beset educational practise when too much emphasis is placed on procuring a good report on order and discipline.

WHY NOT PLANT LILIES? THEY'RE EASY TO GROW

Water seeds and cover with layer of sand.

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Central Press Garden Expert

Why do so few people plant lily seeds? Raising lilies from seeds is simple and there is no reason why one should hesitate to grow them. Most lilies will bloom the second summer. Of course, certain varieties are difficult to grow unless one has the facilities and has had some experience in growing them, but many are easy to grow and can have so many for very little expense.

The seeds may be planted from March to May in seed flats, in the cold frame; they should be sown thinly about half an inch deep and in rows six inches apart. Water the seeds and cover with a layer of sand. The best soil mixture is two parts leaf mould to one of sharp sand and one of loam. Pull out the weeds as soon as they appear. When the second and third leaves of your plants appear it is time to transplant them into a bed in a somewhat shady location, with plenty of sand and leaf mould worked fairly deep into the soil. The flowers will winter over in the bed and the next summer may be transplanted into their permanent position.

Regale lily is perhaps the easiest to grow from seed, and one of the best garden lilies. It grows three to five feet tall and is white, with yellow at the base.

Elegans is another fairly easy to grow. It is one to two feet high and the flowers are orange red, spotted with black purple.

Longiflorium grows to three feet high, with fragrant white blooms. Wilmottiae is most glorious—having large numbers of blooms. It often grows as high as eight feet. Umbellatum is another lily grown from seed, being two feet high, with red or orange spotted flowers.

INTESTINAL PARASITES AND HOW THEY DEVELOP

By LOGAN GLENDENING, M.D.

Disgusting as the idea of having a worm inside the body is, the life history of these parasites is extremely interesting. All of the tapeworms are bisexual (hermophoditic) and the one animal can produce a fertilized egg which is capable of developing into a new individual. Each segment of a tapeworm, indeed, is mostly reproductive organs; it contains no digestive system, because the worm absorbs all its nutriment from the food of its host, predigested.

A human being infected with a tapeworm cannot infect another human being. The eggs must undergo development in another animal. There are pork and beef tapeworms (the latter by far the more common in the United States) and the cycle of development is about the same in each. The mature segments or mature eggs are thrust out from the human intestine and lying on the grass or in the drinking water, are taken in by the pig or cow. In the alimentary canal of the animal, the eggs develop into little embryo worms which get out into the blood vessels around the intestines and are carried to the animal's muscles. Here they form little cysts and develop into larval worms. Such meat is said to be "measly". When it is eaten in an incomplete state of cooking—that is, when the larvae are not killed—the larvae develop into mature worms in the new host's intestine.

The beef tapeworm may develop to a prodigious length—30 feet or over. The head is buried in the mucous membrane of the intestine and stays there by means of sucking discs or hooks. The pork tapeworm is called "taenia solium" because only one worm at a time develops in one person.

The symptoms of the presence of a tapeworm are very vague. The voracious appetite commonly ascribed to the association was not present in a large series of patients examined. But nervous indigestion and neurotic symptoms were common and cleared up on treatment. The diagnosis usually is made only when the patient notices that he has passed segments of a tapeworm.

Treatment is simple and effectual if carried out properly. There are many drugs that will kill a tapeworm without doing any harm to the body, in proper dosage. One of the best is pelleterine sulphate, the active principle of pomegranate.

A French physician, Professor le Dantec, had a tapeworm of his own and studied the living segments that were passed, by putting them in bouillon cultures. When he added very dilute solutions of pelleterine sulphate, he killed the segment.

The important thing is to expose the head of the worm, give the lethal drug, and then wash the worm, head and all, out of the intestine while it is still groggy. The head may be groggy, but not dead, and come to life and dig itself in again.

A liquid diet and a preliminary dose of salts will expose the worm. The pelleterine is given in two doses and then 30 or 40 minutes later (the time Professor le Dantec found to be the period in which the drug would act) a stiff dose of Glauber's salts is given three or four times, at intervals of 15 minutes.

Other drugs may be used. A new one, hexylresocinol, is effective and not poisonous to the host. In children, pumpkin seeds is an old and well-tried remedy.

Recipients of public assistance in Manchester consume 50 per cent more medicine per person than in any other city in Britain.

The Case for Health Insurance

Editorial Comments From Leading Newspapers and Other Periodicals

(Article No. 4)

THE NATION AND PUBLIC HEALTH

In the house of commons the other day Mr. H. E. Spencer of Battle River presented a resolution which called for a definite health policy on the part of the federal government which could be carried on in cooperation with the provincial governments. In the discussion which ensued, the minister of health, Hon. D. M. Sutherland, not only declared himself "quite in sympathy" with the resolution, but made the following significant announcement.

"It is my purpose to invite, at some mutually convenient time within the next two or three months, the ministers of health of the various provinces to come to Ottawa and discuss with me their problems, with the idea, just as the hon member for Battle River suggests, of furthering cooperation between the federal and provincial bodies, because I am firmly convinced that any advances that are to be made will be made only along the lines of that cooperation. In extending that invitation to the provincial ministers of health, I am in hopes that much good may come of our meeting."

There is indeed much to be done by cooperation, and, to that end, a conference between the provincial and federal authorities has been repeatedly suggsted in these columns and has been advocated by social service and health organizations. Such a conference should result in the definite commitment of the Dominion to a much larger contribution to public health than it at the present makes; to a resumption of some of the health activities which it has abandoned, and to the assumption of new activities which the importance of the issue justifies.—Toronto Star.

BOWLERS SKIPPED BY HAMSON AND FOWLES ENTER FINALS OF COLLINSON CUP COMPETITION

Golf Facts

NOT THEORIES!

BY ALEX J. MORRISON

Many golfers are content to conjure up new theories through reading about the game. There's nothing the average player likes better than an opportunity to theorize.

The only way I can account for that is that it fits in with his hope that some day he'll run across the secret of the game, a short cut to success. This is just human nature asserting itself in another field, another example of the tendency to follow the line of least resistance.

Lasting success in anything is to be had only through application and a certain amount of hard work. In other words, it's all right to read about the game, but it's better to do a little work in the form of exercise which will improve your swing.

DEMPSEY WILL GO TRAINING

Waist-Line Getting Too Large Says the Former Champ

NEW YORK, April 3 (AP)—On the theory that when all men reach the age of 75 they still should be kids both in spirit and flesh, Jack Dempsey went back into training today.

"I'm just fortifying my body against the time when I'll be 75 so that I'll feel spry as a youngster," said Dempsey after a brisk 45-minute workout in a gymnasium.

Doing the "glad hand" act in his mid-town restaurant for more than 12 hours a day for a couple of months has softened up the former heavyweight boxing champion. When he was in fighting form his waistline was 33 inches. Now it has swelled to 38.

His personal appraisal of Champion Max Baer and some of his contenders was:

"It looks like James J. Braddock will get a crack at the crown. It ought to be a good fight.

"Personally I think Braddock, Joe Louis and Max Schmeling have a good chance of beating Baer."

BABE'S SUCCESSOR HAS BEST AVERAGE

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 3 (CP) — George Selkirk, Canadian successor to Babe Ruth in New York Yankees' rightfield, shadowed the old Bambino in willow work during the nine-game training series between Boston Braves and the New Yorkers.

Figures compiled today showed each player in eight of the games, but the younger Selkirk, a native of Huntsville, Ont., had the edge in service as the Babe did not play more than five innings in any one game for the Braves. Selkirk had an advantage in the field, as well as at bat.

In 32 times at bat Selkirk scored nine runs, made 10 hits, two of them homers, and batted in five runs for a batting average of .313. Against this, in 19 turns at bat Ruth collected five hits, none of them homers, and batted in no runs. His average was .263.

Wives Drive Managers Nertz

By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher N.Y. Giants).

The late John J. McGraw used to say that often the only difference between a pennant winner and a second division ball club was whether the players' wives formed into cliques or not. Two or three gossiping wives can start and foster more bad feeling between players on a club than any other factor. Many of the ball player husbands write home to their wives and tell them certain little escapades that happen on the road and the wife tells the other wives. The pitcher's wife falls out with the infielders spouse after a ball game where a costly error costs the game. The husbands in turn take up the battle and become enemies. One player's wife thinks another's husband is too highly paid and that her better half is under-paid. A crowd of tactful wives on a ball club is as great an asset as a star pitcher or a great hitter.

15,000 to See Leafs and Maroons in Clash Tonight

Standing Room Only Left; Leafs Are the Favorites by About 5 to 4

By ELMER DULMAGE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, April 3 (CP)—Between 14,200 and 15,000 will watch the opening game of the Stanley cup hockey finals here tomorrow night between Montreal Maroons and Toronto Maple Leafs, who have never before met in a series of such importance. The crowd for the first game may reach record proportions.

The last dozen or so seat tickets in Maple Leafs Gardens lasted approximately five minutes when the box-office opened today. Then it became a matter of how many standing-room tickets would be sold. When the big red team from Montreal slipped into town tonight the word was out that there would be a sell-out.

Maroons were alone on the scene. The Leafs, who went to Preston Springs after completing the conquest of Boston Bruins in the National league finals last Saturday night, will motor here some time tomorrow, probably late in the afternoon.

Having emerged from the gruelling Boston struggles without a single major injury, the Leafs will start as favorites over Maroons, probably at odds of about 5 to 4. In a short series the conquerors of Chicago Black Hawks and New York Rangers are given virtually an even chance of beating Toronto.

They are conceded to be as strong defensively as the Leafs with Alex Connell in goal and Lionel Conacher, Allan Shields, Cy Wentworth and Stew Evans on defence. There may, however, be more scoring punch in the Leaf rear division, particularly if the series develops any kind of wide-open hockey.

King Clancy, Hap Day, Bill Hollett and Red Horner have been more consistent scorers than the Maroon quartet, in addition to being superior play-makers. George Hainsworth, whose playoff form so far has at least equalled that of Connell, has been given fine protection.

Many observers expect the forward lines to decide matters and the Leafs may have a slender edge both ways up front. They have the game's greatest front division in Charlie Conacher, Harvey Jackson and Joe Primeau, and one of the best defensive lines in hockey in Frank Finnigan, Bill Thoms and Hec Kilrea.

Maroons, however, have a better distributed scoring punch. Russ Blinco, Earl Robinson and Dave Trottier accounted for more than 40 goals this season, only a few more than Herbie Cain, Bob Gracie and Gus Marker bagged for another line. Cain, former Hamilton Tiger senior star, is Montreal's heaviest scorer.

HALIFAX WOLVES ARE FACED WITH JOB OF GUARDING THE ALLAN CUP

Are Eastern Finals After Winning Maritime Championship

By A. MALCOLM MCGOWAN
Central Press Canadian Correspondent

HALIFAX, N.S., April 3.—Hockey fans of the Maritime provinces are pinning their faith on the Halifax Wolverines to keep the battle-scarred Allan cup and senior amateur supremacy in these sea-girt provinces. The Wolves, led by Alderman Jack Conn of Halifax, are all that remain of that once great Maritime hockey league—The Big Four.

With practically the same lineup that placed second to the famous Moncton Hawks last year and the previous winter in Big Four competition, the Wolverines are highly rated for the approaching Allan cup playdowns. They lost two stars in Bill Cowley and Paul Gagnon, but picked up a crack right winger in Ron Hudson. Cowley turned professional with the St. Louis Eagles in the N.H.L., while Gagnon was one of the 1934-35 migration of Canadian puckmen to Europe, donning a Paris Canadien uniform.

When Hudson quit the Charlottetown Abegweits of the Big Four for the Conn lineup an exchange took place that has appeared to strengthen the Wolves defensively. Gagnon and Cowley were spirited on attack but not so talented when backchecking. Wolves had a stout-hearted though rather light defence and a good goalkeeper in Leo Sargent. The last named went to the Abbies when Hudson came to Nova Scotia so Boss Conn went on the hunt for a goalie. He got one—a dandy—when he signed "Daddy" Bubar, last year substitute netminder for Jimmy Foster of the Hawks. Bubar has played a spectacular and steady game all season for the Halifax sextet and is considered a better goalie than the departed Sargent.

Some followers of the game feel that the last few week's comparative inactivity on the part of the Wolves will cramp their style in the coming playoffs. The collapse of their mercantile loop was followed by reorganization of the Maritime Big Three with eligible puckmen of the Hawks, Abbies and Wolves lining up. The Wolves were easily the best team and won this league. They were pushed a bit by the N.E.I. six but the Moncton team fell far behind.

With termination of the Big Three schedule the Wolves and runner-up Abegweits played off and the local club won the right to represent Class "A" senior hockey in the Maritimes. The Abbies made it a series by winning once and tieing twice to extend the round to six matches instead of the five planned.

Owen Lennon, sturdy left winger, has taken the place of Cowley as scoring ace for the Wolves and will be a dangerous man in the playdowns.

Having played together with an almost intact lineup two or three years, in a row, is expected to stand the Wolves in good stead. It will be recalled sickness and injuries weakened the club for the finals a year ago when Moncton won in three straight.

HAVE FAST FORWARDS

Frankie Lavinge was taken down with pleurisy and missed the wind-up of the 1934 season but the little rear guardsman is right on the job this time. He is as rugged and as speedy as ever and receives the customary support from Frankie Graham.

Lennon, who did a trick of a couple of seasons with Truro when the Bearcats were in their championship toggery, has been the portside mainstay for the past three seasons. He shoots equally well from either side.

On the same line with Lennon at center is Mickey McGlashen who has rejoined the Wolves. He has been prominent in senior hockey for some years and in 1934 played part of the season with the Abbies, leaving the local squad the previous winter. McGlashen, like Lennon, is very fast. Hudson plays the right fence on this line and has made a big hit with Halifax fans.

Captain Ernie Mosher, who first won Maritime titular renown as a member of the Kentville Wildcats of 1927 is one of the outstanding veterans of the senior game in Nova Scotia and pivots the second line for the Hallgonian six.

HOME ICE HELPS

Reg. Shields, an Ottawa product, who migrated east to Truro six years ago, is holding down right wing on the Mosher line. Like Mosher he has the knack of making it tough for the other fellow, then being smart enough to have the referee put the opponent off.

The Wolves will have the advantage of playing their Allan cup matches on home ice. William (Red) Stuart coaches the team and hopes to win his first Allan cup here in April if the Wolves can get that far.

This will be the first instance of the Allan cup finals being held in the Maritimes. Already advance ticket sales indicate the Halifax forum will be jamed to overflowing each night of the blue ribbon series. The rink will hold close to 9000.

THE ALLAN CUP

Now held in the maritime, with Halifax Wolverines facing the task of defending it.

McDonald to Attend C.A.H.A. Puck Annual

Will Ask for Shorter Term for Players Wishing to Change Residence

A. W. "Gus" McDonald of Trail, president of the British Columbia Amateur Hockey association, passed through Nelson on his way to Halifax to attend the annual meeting of the C. A. H. A., and he will also take in the Allan and Stanley playoffs while in the east.

At the annual meeting he will urge for a short time limit in players moving from one club to another. Mr. McDonald would like to see the date made as October. As it is at present a player must make the switch by the first of January, which means that he must lose a winter so far as playoffs are concerned. Of course this may serve as a great check on hockey tourists, but it also penalizes too heavily the bona fide cases.

Who May be Who in 1935

By BILL BRAUCHER
© CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION, INC.

BILLY WERBER

After giving him a trial here and there, the Yankees decided William M. Werber could not hit. So in 1933 they sent Bill to the Boston Red Sox in a deal.

Bill undid the wisdom of that decision by becoming one of the most dangerous hitters in the American league and a third baseman second to none in the business. This year he is counted on, with Joe Cronin, to form the strongest combination in the game working on the left side of the infield.

The Yankees, bringing him up in 1930, tried him at Albany, Toledo, Newark, Buffalo and the Yankee bench. Though a fast man, he was solemnly judged a flop at short, "not quite good enough." At Boston Bucky Harris put Bill on third and he became a .321 hitter last year, led his league in base running with 40 stolen bases, and accepted more chances at third and had more assists than ay other third baseman in the league.

It may be just the Yankees' tough luck that in 1935 Werber proves to be the key man in the Boston ensemble, the spark to lead the Red Sox past the Yanks to a pennant.

STAR IN FOOTBALL, TOO

Bill is one of the few ball players in the majors with an A.B. degree. He was born in Berwyn, Md., June 20, 1908, and grew up in Langdon, District of Columbia. At Duke university he distinguished himself in athletics, especially baseball, under the tutelage of Jack Coombs and George Wilted, and was a fine student as well. He was All-Southern football guard in 1929 and 1930, though only five feet eleven height, weighing 165.

After his graduation in 1930, the Yankees sent him to Albany, where he hit .339, was named the most valuable player on the Albany team and received a gift of $500 worth of furniture.

The following year saw him at Toledo and Newark, where his hitting was only fair. In 1932 he was sent to Buffalo, where he hit .289. Meanwhile the Yankees were sold on Frank Crosetti, using the young Pacific Coast leaguer at short and third. There seemed no spot for Werber in the Yankee lineup especially as he seemed an uncertain hitter.

SPEED AND FINESSE

Werber is a different type of base runner from Jo-Jo White of the Tigers, who was runner-up to Bill last season. White is the Cobb type, crashing into an infielder, causing him to drop the ball. Werber depends on speed and finesse in evading the baseman with the ball.

Besides, Bill is brainy, always ready to take advantage of any lassitude on the part of his opponents. He delights in doing the unexpected thing.

This year, with Cronin at his side, there is not ellling what heights he may attain.

DIZZY DEAN NICKED $100

Is Fined With Three Others, Breaking Training

DOTHAN, Ala., April 3 (AP)—Dizzy Dean had something new to talk about tonight—$100 fine handed down by Manager Frankie Frisch—but the oratorical pitching ace of the St. Louis Cardinals was strangely silent.

Dean, Charley Gelbert, an infielder, and outfielder Red Worthington, missed the club train at Dublin, Ga., last night. By making a fast automobile trip the erring trio caught up with the baseball party at Macon, Ga., today, just in time to be greeted by Frisch in his managerial wrath.

Dizzy was fined $100, Gelbert $50 and Worthington was sent home to St. Louis for the remainder of the spring training, now in its last week. In addition, the Fordham Flash sent Charlie Wilson, an infielder, home to St. Louis for breaking training for the second time.

ST. LOUIS, April 3 (AP)—Vice-president Branch Rickey of the St. Louis Cardinals said today he was "100 per cent behind Frankie Frisch" in punishing four St. Louis Cardinals, including Dizzy Dean, for breaking training.

Sidelights on O. C. Soccer

By Central Press Canadian

LONDON, March 20.—Over forty years of age and still able to play a good game at right wing—that is George Kelly, one of the real veterans of English football and one of the best. Kelly started his football career before the outbreak of the great war, lining up with Burnley, and since then has been around a bit among different clubs. Sunderland had his services for a time, and Huddersfield also saw the veteran, until now he lines up with Preston North End. The years have taken little from the great forward and have added materially to his stock of knowledge of the science of football. He is working wonders at Preston in coaching the younger players in the fine points of the game. He is one of the greatest strategists in football and has the ability to impart his knowledge to up-and-coming players. At either inside-right or outside-right, Kelly has been a star, and he seems to go on, season after season, untouched by time, even through the strenuous campaigns of league play

MONTREAL IN SEMI-FINALS OF ALLAN CUP

Beat Toronto by 4 to 1 in the Odd Game

MEET HALIFAX ON SATURDAY

Will Be Best Out of a Three-Game Series

By HAROLD McNAMARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

FORUM, MONTREAL, April 3 (CP).—Montreal Royals, Quebec amateur hockey champions, emerged as a real threat for Allan cup honors when they flashed to a 4-1 victory here tonight over Toronto All-Stars, Ontario titlists, before about 9000 fans.

The win gave Royals the margin in the two-of-three gave eastern Canadian semi-final series. They won the first game here last Friday, 9-2, and lost at Toronto Monday, 5-2.

The Quebec champions will move on to Halifax where they meet Wolverines on Saturday in the first of a two-of-three series for the right to enter the Allan cup final against Port Arthur.

Brilliant play by Dave Neville, veteran right winger, gave Royals the victory. Neville slammed in two of his team's four goals and was credited with another when a Toronto defenceman accidentally cleared the rubber into his own goal. Lanky Hugh Farquharson, center, scored the other. Toronto's lone counter was tallied by George Grivel early in the third period.

All-Stars were without two of their best men, Teddy Oliver, out with a broken wrist, and Don Hodges, who has water on the knee.

Toronto: Goldie, goal; Fowler, Kitchen, defence; Robinson, centre; Large, Grivel, wings.

Royals: Seguin, goal; H. Murray, Taugher, defence; Farquharson, center; St. Germain, Neville, wings.

Toronto subs: Parsons, Acheson, Lamport, Bowman, Royal subs: MacQuisten, Watson, K. Murray, Mundey.

Officials: Billy Bell and E. Daignault.

Summary.

First period—No score.

Penalties: Watson, Bowman.

Second period: 1—Royals, Neville (Farquharson) 1:36; 2—Royals, Neville, (St. Germain) 7:27.

Penalties: Farquharson, Mundey, Robinson.

Third period: 3—Toronto, Grivel (Fowler) 5:21; 4—Royals, Neville (Farquharson) 14:11; 5—Royals, Farquharson, 15:15.

Penalty: Bowman.

AN AMICABLE BREAK-UP

HAMILTON (CP)—The Campbell brothers, three-quarters of the rink that won the Canadian curling championship this year, don't expect to do much playing together in future. Gordon will take his rink west for the Winnipeg bonspiel next February, but that may be the last time the brothers will team for competitive purposes.

THE PARI-MUTUEL TAKE

LOS ANGELES (CP)—In 65 days of racing this winter at Santa Anita track betting reached a new high. Track officials announced that $18,896,365 went through the pari-mutuel machines—$250,000 a day. The club paid off its investments and was still several hundred thousand dollars to the good.

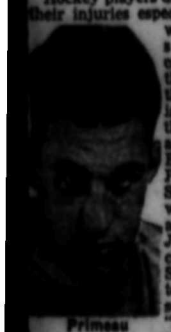
SOME FAST SCORING

TORONTO (CP)—When Toronto seniors scored three goals in 27 seconds recently against Hamilton Tigers in an O.H.A. playoff game here, it wasn't quite a record. In 1932 Jack Shill, now with Boston Bruins, scored three goals in 46 seconds for the Toronto Marlboros against Sudbury Wolves and Marlboros lost.

HOCKEY CHATTER

Just in passing it might be noted that so far in the playoffs it has been Pep Kelly, Bill Cook, Frank Finnigan, Hurry Cain, Baldy Northcott, Red Beattie, Peggy O'Neill and Tiny Thompson who have starred and none of them was mentioned in the press all-star team. These players ought to have this pointed out to them so that they can fade back to where they belong. The upstarts!

Hockey players don't like to admit their injuries especially to the one who does it, as it suggests they can't take care of themselves or else the other fellow is too smart for them. In the game against Boston Bruins in which Primeau and Shore collided and went smashing against the boards Joseph suffered a chest injury as Shore landed on top. "Gosh! I'm sorry," said Eddy. "I thought it was some! My else. Joe climbed to his feet. "Sorry nothing, you couldn't hurt me, I carry cement blocks all summer."



Primeau

This forward pass business has greater ramifications than the casual observer might see, and it certainly is effective in one category that the introducers had not anticipated. Always an effective weapon since it was first used, it has now become steadily with the perfecting of the power play, and it will do more to ensure clean play than any other factor. Given a one-man advantage where the odd player can slip into a favorable position for a pass, it greatly increases the offensive power of the pressing team. Time and again during the present season we have seen where power plays have been made, when the advantage occurred, resulting in wins. And during the present amateur and professional playoffs the power plays have been one of the great deciding features.

Boston Bruins took a lead against the Maple Leafs in the last game when Hollett was serving time, and the Leafs evened it up and then won the game while Bruins were short. Players never have been of use to their team when they were in the penalty box, but the forward pass makes it imperative now that they remain on the ice or the team suffers. An even more sparkling show of power plays was demonstrated by the fast-skating Port Arthur Bearcats against North Battleford Beavers in the second game of their Allan cup playoffs. Ports scored all their goals while the Beavers were short a man. Press accounts state that the Bearcats gave one of the most scintillating exhibitions of precise power plays ever seen in amateur hockey to win 4-3. The forward pass is only in its primary stages in amateur hockey and it is destined to play an important part from now on.

There are only two teams left in the Stanley cup playoffs, but don't ever think there is only one reason apiece for winning out. Take a look over the following list of people and see why they have chosen the team they have:

Tony Arcure—The Maroons. They have a good team and it is time they won the Stanley cup. The law of averages has been suspended long enough and should be about due to operate again.

C. D. Blackwood—The Leafs. They have the "Kid Line" and besides they are a stronger all-round team.

Jimmy McCandlish—The Maroons. He would give no reason but stated he has a yen for the color maroon that approached being a passion.

Bill Jeffs—The Maroons. Tommy Gorman is too smart for Dick Irvin.

R. E. Crerar—The Leafs. He reserves all rights on his reasons.

Joe Bradshaw—The Maroons. And he places his faith on Gorman.

Cliff McKinnon—The Leafs. They have the better team. And so on. We pick the Leafs and know it can't be the Bruins.

GYPSY GIRL

THE STORY OF AN IMPASSIONED ROMANCE

"PERSIS"

READ THIS FIRST:

Consuelo, a beautiful gypsy girl who longs to dance, is loved by the Dummy, a deaf mute, and Marcu. She despises her mother, Anica, but is fond of her father, Girtza. Marcu tempts Consuelo with a huge diamond and she agrees to marry him. But on her wedding day she boards a train for New York on which are riding Stewart Blackmire, theatrical producer, Doug, his secretary, and Bill, a friend. Consuelo had danced for them 10 days previously when their private car had been waiting on a railroad siding in town. Doug takes the gypsy into Stewart's car.

... (Now Go On With the Story) ...

CHAPTER 20

That day when Marcu and the Dummy had wrestled, hadn't she pitted herself against them and gambled all? Had tossed into the ring her dancing against the love of the two who fought for her and hadn't dancing won? Hadn't the gypsies turned and left the fight for her?

"Frightened. First time on a train. She'll be all right in a minute. Leave her alone."

Hadn't their clapping drowned out the noise of the men as they wrestled? Wasn't that alone proof that she was the greatest dancer who ever lived? It was. There are people who are already coming to the high hill because they have learned that you will be in the palace of marble. Is not the need to dance there greater than this thing that is crying out in your soul? It is. It is. Dance to the music that echoes out of soundless space; that falls from the stars and exudes from the earth—dance! Marcu's empty arms? Ha, ha, now you can laugh! Now you can sing! Now you can dance!

She threw back her head and laughed. Then she saw the three men staring at her.

"My friends, if anyone ever tells you that love is greater than dancing—do not believe him. He is a liar." She laughed drunkenly. "This is my wedding night. Who will drink to a bride?" She laughed until the tears rolled down her cheeks.

"Here is your supper, gypsy girl, eat it."

"I do not want food!" But the savory odor assailed her nostrils. What were these many dishes? Silver. Steaming coffee. A little pan upside down with a hole in the top of it. "Now, whatever is this?" She put her finger down the hole.

"Pick it up and see."

She drank the coffee. She ate the food. She licked her fingers when she had finished. It was good. She looked up at the gray-haired man.

"I am not angry with you any more. Tell me, white man, do you like me just a little bit?" made his decision. He called Doug

The next morning Stewart had to him.

"Take down these wires and send them right away. First to Dalstrom—" He dictated the telegram that instructed Dalstrom, head of the publicity department of Goldberg's Follies, to meet the train, find the gypsy girl and get her in the headlines any way he could work it. The next was to Goldberg to the effect that he had made a find in a real gypsy dancer, details and arrangements later. The third telegram was short. It was sent to Louise L'Ville, star of Goldberg's Follies. "Do not meet the train. I will hop a cab to the theater and see you there. Love."

"When Louise finds out about this there'll be war," Doug remarked.

"That's what she'll not find out. After the gypsy has been in New York for a while I will be officially introduced to her." He was grinning.

"And how!"

"When you've sent those wires go up and get the girl. Tell her to eat in the dining car first. After all if I'm going to put her in the show I might as well let a few people see her and start their tongues to wagging. If she eats as she did here last night, they'll wag all right."

Consuelo was curled up in the seat asleep when Doug found her. He sat down beside her and delivered the message. She eyed him sleepily, her face flushed and rosy like a child's. She smiled when he said that Stewart said to tell her this. "He likes me, doesn't he?"

"Who wouldn't! Listen, girlie, you be a good kid and do just what he tells you to do. He can give you that chance to dance that you want and you'd be pretty much lost in New York without someone to look after you. I'm tipping you off and don't you forget—do the thing he wants and don't question why."

"No gypsy woman questions her man," she answered. "If this white man wants I should obey him I will."

"You've got a lot of things to learn, gypsy girl, and one is that men don't want anything they can have too easily. Now don't get mad and snap your eyes at me, baby, I'm only telling you. Now you run along and have breakfast and then follow the train back to our car. The porter'll let you in. Run along, like a good little girl."

When the gypsy went into the dining car with her bangles tingling, her black hair flying, her white teeth flashing, her bare feet moving in rhythmic grace, people turned and stared at her. She smiled at this one and that. After she had been seated, she played with the forks and spoons on the table and picked the ice out of the glass and sucked it. She tossed the offered menu aside. "Eggs I want, bacon, potatoes, bread in slices and coffee—" She picked the bacon up in her fingers and ate it down as if it were asparagus and drank the coffee with little hissing sounds.

When she had finished, she argued that the bill was too big, but then, after all she had money in her pocket, so she flung three silver dollars on the floor at the waiter's feet and marched out. When she got to the end of the car she turned and shouted. "I could steal a dozen eggs and it would not cost me that price!"

She swaggered through the cars. She was delayed. She promised to come back and tell fortunes for this one and that. "Wait till you see me dance," she boasted. "I am going to New York to become the greatest dancer they have there." Where? "New York." What theater? What did it matter? New York, that was all. New York!

The marble palace. The white man had promised. What of Marcu now? Nothing. Nothing. Less than nothing. Going to New York. Going to dance. The high hill at last.

When she entered the private car she went to the gray-haired man and flung her arms around him.

"Now you are my darling one." She held up her red lips for him to kiss, but he did not. "Now you are the king I have dreamed of. Now will my name be in lights on that place you call Broadway. I told you that I would dance in a marble palace on top of a high hill. It is true, isn't it, that New York is that high hill?" She whirled on her toes and flirted with him like a mischievous child. "In my marble palace I have always stood alone but now I will let this man, a theater king, stand beside me and all the world will see us and say, there is a king and his woman and his woman is the best dancer in the world and she is a gypsy with hot blood in her veins and fire in her heart!"

He fell into her mood.

"The king is generous. He prefers to let the gypsy stand in the marble palace alone. He would be too conspicuous and after all he is a staid old man and cannot dance."

"Old!" she mocked. She caught his hands and whirled him around. And suddenly he was holding her in his arms and kissing her red lips.

Why World Trade Falters

Babson Says Trade Troubles Real Cause of European Situation

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Florida, April 3.—European politics have once more aimed into danger signals set against world peace. In order to understand the real significance of the startling and conflicting headlines from every capital in Europe, we must turn to the less sensational, but more important, evidence offered by the trade reports of the world's leading nations. Hence, to equip you to understand what lies behind these sensational political events, I want to give you in this article brief snap-shot reviews of trade and business conditions throughout the entire world.

GREAT BRITAIN has made great strides toward recovery since mid-1932. Basically a trading nation, further progress now depends upon a revival in world trade. Japanese competition is ruining the textile industry at Lancashire. Uncertainty over stability of the "gold bloc" currencies has currently interrupted England's revival.

IRISH FREE STATE has adopted a strong protectionist policy, particularly against British goods. New industries, both sound and unsound, are mushrooming up everywhere. However, foreign trade is falling; unemployment is rising; and farm buying power is dropping. Ireland's future is cloudy as long as she tries to be self-sufficient.

AUSTRALIA has a tremendous recovery from the depression low of 1932. Her budget is approaching balance and unemployment has dropped considerably. However, taxes are still heavy and the drop in wool prices in the last year has given her a sharp set-back. Future recovery depends upon the price trend of this world commodity.

NEW ZEALAND'S domestic recovery is a fine example of the result of conservative readjustments in public finance. Industry is reviving and her budget is nearing a balance. From here on, future recovery of the island depends on world dairy and wood prices.

SOUTH AFRICA has made the greatest progress toward recovery of any nation due to the boom in gold prices and mining. Two hundred new mining companies have been formed; trade with England is on the increase; all industry is picking up. The budget shows a surplus; taxes are being reduced; and the public debt is being paid off.

WEST INDIES: Progress has been made in all West Indian colonies in recent months. Prices of cocoanuts and bananas are higher but quotations on most other products are still low.

INDIA: Economic conditions in India are more hopeful now than at any time in the last five years. With the exception of jute manufacture and coal, most industries are in a healthier condition than last spring. Both external and internal trade are increasing.

FRANCE: Of the major nations, France has shown the least recovery to date. France's troubles like those of most of Europe arise from the almost complete shut-down of German trade. Prosperity in Europe is tied up very closely with improvement in the Reich. Right now gold uncertainties are provoking an economic crisis.

SPAIN: In spite of strikes and revolutions in 1934, business is slightly better than last year. While most of the world suffered from drought in 1934, Spain had bumper crops of wheat, barley, and beets but poor yields of olive oil. Increasing relief rolls and rising living costs are Spain's big issues at present.

PORTUGAL: Under the regime of a very competent finance minister, Portugal, for six years in succession, has paid her bills and had a surplus at the end of the year. Portugal has her problems, but her trade is increasing and her recovery seems real and sound.

ITALY is fighting desperately to balance her budget and stay on gold. Mussolini says taxation has reached its limit and the public deficit must be met by economies. Business is slightly better than last spring and employment has increased moderately.

SWITZERLAND is facing a domestic crisis. Unemployment is rising while business is at the depression low. By staying on gold, she has hurt one of her biggest industries—the tourist trade. Hotel-keepers are forced to offer big concessions to tourists.

HOLLAND'S guilder seems strongest of the "gold bloc" currencies and the Dutch have held their own for about two years. Dutch efforts to bring back recovery by dropping expenses and costs, rather than thru juggling the currency, are typical of that conservative people.

BELGIUM—another of the "gold bloc" countries— is in the depths of depression. The number on dole is rising, prices are sinking, trade is declining. It is doubtful if public clamour to go off gold can be resisted.

GERMANY'S great problem is her poor credit abroad. Her exports are declining consistently, making it more and more difficult for the Fatherland to buy and import those raw materials vital to her economic life. Nazi economic experimentation has missed the core of Germany's problem,—to reestablish her foreign trade.

HUNGARY: Sentiment in Budapest is better than in most European capitals today. Hungary has made modest progress toward recovery. Her problem is to narrow the tremendous spread between the price the Magyar farmer pays and the price he receives.

AUSTRIA: The past year in Austria has filled with political agitation and change. But, as in Hungary, the trend at present appears to be upward. The budget deficit and public credit in Austria, as in most countries, is the biggest issue today.

CZECHOSLAVAKIA, like her Central European neighbors, made noticeable progress late in 1934. Her improvement is due principally to devaluation of the crown about a year ago. Her exports have increased sharply but unemployment is still a major problem.

RUSSIA is making steady progress toward recovery. Her industrial production increased substantially despite a poor farm year in 1934. Growth of her gold mining industry and her excess of exports over imports are the features of her progress.

SWEDEN, along with Canada and South Africa, probably has shown the greatest recovery in industry and trade of all nations. Her big problem is reducing relief and balancing the budget.

NORWAY made modest progress during 1934, as shown by stock prices on the Oslo Bourse. Higher freight rates have pressed two-thirds of her laid-up tonnage back into use. Norway's troubles are tied up with the poor credit of Germany—her biggest whale oil customer.

DENMARK'S industrial recovery, due to protective tariffs, has come along much faster than Norway's, not so fast as Sweden's. Improvement in world butter and egg prices has helped Danish farmers.

JAPAN: The big factor in her tremendous expansion in industrial activity in recent years has been the depreciation of the yen. Restrictions placed on her products by competing nations have recently slowed down her exports and she is now suffering over-production. Her budget, unbalanced for years, is a very serious problem.

CHINA is suffering from deflation due to high silver prices just as the gold bloc is suffering from high gold prices. Her foreign commerce is declining steadily and domestic prices are falling as a result of our silver purchase policy.

EGYPT: Nearly every barometer indicates an improvement in business conditions along the Nile. Egypt is fast becoming a leading cotton producer, thanks to our cotton curtailment.

ARGENTINA'S export recovery is due to two factors (1) depreciation of the peso; and (2) our short crops of last year. Public finances are improving and Argentina's bonds have made a strong comeback.

BRAZIL'S business depends upon the coffee industry whose statistical position has been vastly improved by the burning of millions of bags. Coffee prices continue low, however, and unsatisfactory foreign exchange is still handicapping recovery on the Amazon.

CHILE has enjoyed considerable recovery in the past year and both her export and import trade has increased sharply. Further progress depends almost entirely on revival of world trade and restoration of world markets for her chief products—nitrate of soda and copper.

In studying conditions in these nations I was struck by four factors which were apparent in nearly every nation, namely; (1) cheap money rates; (2) havoc wrought by higher tariff barriers and depreciated currencies; (3) unbalanced budgets; and (4) flooding of the world with cheap Japanese products. Because business is below normal here (nineteen per cent this week) we are too apt to over-emphasize our own troubles and to forget that the depression is world-wide. Remember our own prosperity depends upon the prosperity of every nation.

Market and Mining News

MAY WHEAT IS AT NEW HIGH

Hits 87 Cents, the Highest in Bull Movement

WINNIPEG, April 3 (CP)—The upward trend of wheat prices was accelerated on the Winnipeg grain exchange today, as traders, encouraged by the steady advance of Liverpool futures, purchased heavily.

Values closed with net gains of 1¼ to 1¾ cents, May at 86½ and July 86¼ cents. The May future touched a new high mark for the current bull movement, 87 cents, before slipping a half-cent in last-minute profit-taking.

Contributing to the support were sales for export of 500,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, for shipments from Atlantic and Pacific coasts. Trading was active throughout.

Liverpool closed ¾-⅞ higher. Chicago also was strong, closing ⅝ cents advanced, as crop conditions in the United States south-west remained unfavorable. Buenos Aires, too, was higher, 1¼ cents up at noon.

While cash grains continued feature-less, coarse grains moved sharply higher in sympathy with wheat.

RENO IS DOWN ONE AT COAST

VANCOUVER, April 3 (CP)—Congress was practically the only active issue in a quiet market on the Vancouver stock exchange today and finished with a net gain of 2½ at 38½. The tone was weak in the rest of the list. Sales totalled 124,315 shares.

Bralorne dropped 15 to 8.05, Bradian was off 10 at 1.80 and Premier Gold lost 4 at 1.62. Cariboo Reno and Dentonia each eased a point and Wayside and Minto were each down ½ cents. United Empire lost 1¼ at 3. Fawn Mining gained 2 at 43 and Fairview Amalgamated and Grange were each ¼ cent higher.

B. C. Nickel dropped 2 to 41. Big Missouri was off a cent and Noble Five at 8 was ¼ lower.

Royalite was stronger and closed at 19.00, up 1.00. Calgary and Edmonton was up a cent at 63. Ranchmen's lost a cent and Crow's Nest was off ½.

LONDON WORRIED ON HYDRO BILL

Power Stocks Marked Down as Result of Ontario Action

LONDON, April 3 (CP Cable)—Continued nervousness was apparent on the London stock exchange today regarding the Ontario government's bill purporting to invalidate contracts between the Ontario Hydro and Quebec Power companies, especially over the provisions of the bill prohibiting an appeal to the Ontario courts.

Brokers decided to mark down bonds of corporations similar to those concerned, as a safety measure in view of the precedent, and Hydro Electric securities corporation fell from 3 pounds to 2¾ pounds, while International Holdings dropped from 15-16 of a pound to 11-16.

Railroad Loans Show Fatigue

NEW YORK, April 3 (AP)—The bond market fell back on the tried and trusted high-priced issues for leadership today as railroad loans displayed further signs of fatigue.

With the large amount of new offerings recently brought out, safely tucked away, pressure of investment funds for suitable securities made its reappearance and some of the blue chip issues were picked up at higher figures. Rails eased fractionally.

A 3-point advance in French 7½s to 183 was offset by a general lower trend in other sections of the foreign department.

Exchange Rates

NEW YORK, April 3 (CP)—Sterling exchange firm at $4.81 for 60-day bills, and at $4.81¾ for demand; Canadian dollars: Today ⅝ per cent discount, year ago ⅛ per cent discount, week ago 9-16 per cent discount; franc 6.60¾ cents; lire 8.30 cents.

INDUSTRIALS CLOSE LOWER

38 Stocks on Toronto Market Record Losses

TORONTO, April 3 (CP)—Industrial stocks closed lower again today reflecting weakness in the bond market. Interlisted leaders were off at the close. Thirty-eight stocks recorded losses and only 13 chalked up gains.

Strength in Bell Telephone was a feature. It closed at 120½ for a gain of 1¾, trailed by Consumers Gas which added a full point. Power stocks lost ground. Montreal Power and B.C. Power A weakened a full point each and Shawinigan lost ⅞.

In the distillery group closing prices were down ¾ for Walkers common, ⅝ for Industrial Alcohol A and ⅛ for Distillers Seagrams. The brewing group weakened fractionally.

Volume dwindled in the bank shares with prices mainly steady, steels were irregular, constructions heavy and food stocks shaded. Weston common dropped 2 points and Canada Packers ¾.

CORN BOOSTS OTHER GRAINS

CHICAGO, April 3 (CP)—In a sudden burst of strength, the corn market ran upward 2½ cents maximum today, and stimulated gains in the value of all other cereals.

Suggestions a marketing squeeze might develop as a result of difficulties relative to fulfillment of May delivery corn contracts led to aggressive speculative buying. Only about 1,000,000 bushels of the contract grades of corn are on hand at present in Chicago and the open interest here amounts to nearly 37,000,000 bushels, more than half of which is in the May delivery.

With settlement time for May contracts fast approaching, the corn market today closed buoyant, 1⅝ to 2½ cents higher, May 83¼ to 83¾, wheat ⅝ to ¾ up, May 95⅝ to 95¾, oats ⅝ to ⅞ advanced.

SILVER FUTURES CLOSE HIGHER

MONTREAL, April 3 (CP)—Trading on the Canadian commodity exchange today was the heaviest it has been for several weeks, 109 contracts of silver futures changing hands during the day. Prices were strong, 40 to 70 points higher.

May closed at 62.30 and July brought 62.90 at the close. September closed at 63.60, November 64 bid, and December closed 64.20 bid.

C. P. R. EARNINGS DOWN

MONTREAL, April 3 (CP)—Traffic earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway company for the week ended March 31 were reported today at $2,935,000, a decrease of $334,000 compared with $3,269,000 for the corresponding week of last year.

CHEAPER GOLD ISSUES BUSY

Heavy Trading in San Antonio Is the Feature

TORONTO, April 3 (CP)—Considerable afternoon buying in cheaper golds gave the mining section of the Toronto exchange a fairly firm close today. Base metal and silver shares were steady.

Heavy trading in San Antonio featured. The stock recovered 10 cents to close at 3.50. Chibougamau advanced 2 cents up at 24½, while Little Long Lac slipped back 30 cents to 5.55.

God's Lake was also offered in volume for a loss of 6 cents to 1.25. Beattie lost 10 cents. Gains of 2 to 4 cents were boarded for Macassa, McKenzie Red Lake, Pickle Crow, Sheep Creek and McWatters.

Dome, Wright Hargreaves and Pioneer dropped 15 to 25 cents each and Teck Hughes lost 5. Recessions in the base metals were 5 to 15 cents for Noranda, Hudson Bay and Sherritt.

Few cheap oils showed any action.

BAHR WELCOMED TO SEATTLE

SEATTLE, April 3 (AP)—Andy Bahr—the bashful Arctic reindeer herder hero—was "unable to attend" a luncheon held in his honor today by the Knights of the Round Table, a luncheon club, as the city hailed his five-year trek across the Arctic wastes.

In his place, Ralph Lomen, Nome reindeer magnate, told of the thoroughness with which the expedition was worked out to transport some 2000 reindeer a distance of 2000 miles for the Canadian government.

Bahr, 31-year-old Laplander, rejoined his family only last night after his long absence in the north and he was excused.

TORONTO MAYOR RAPS McGEER

TORONTO, April 3 (CP).—Two of Canada's mayors, G. G. McGeer of Vancouver and James Simpson of Toronto, have a difference of opinion, brought to the surface through a reference of the Vancouver mayor to Toronto finances.

Speaking here last night Mr. McGeer said: "I want to tell my friend Jimmie Simpson that when you increase your mill rate you are not going forward but backward. People who say Toronto's finances are in a sound position are just fooling themselves."

Today Mr. Simpson countered: "My friend Gerry McGeer did not know anything about the budget of the city at all. This statement follows his description of the terrible mess the city of Vancouver is in where they took the sinking fund and applied it to current expenditures."

"In the light of that I think it comes with bad grace for a visiting chief magistrate to refer to the increase of the tax rate in a city where the permanent cost of direct relief and serious reduction in assessment so vitally affected our finances."

The Toronto mayor added that keeping the mill rate down to 34.15, an increase of 1.15, was a "fine piece of work," and the only alternative was "to cripple the civic services."

$37,480,404 in Gold Taken by Bank

OTTAWA, April 3 (CP).—The value of gold taken over by the Bank of Canada from the chartered banks at $20.67 a fine ounce was $37,480,404.46, Finance Minister Edgar N. Rhodes today told Hon. Ian Mackenzie (Lib.-Vancouver Center) in the house of commons. The Canadian Bank of Commerce sold the largest amount.

"EPIC" MEN IN LIVELY BATTLE

LOS ANGELES, April 3 (AP)—A lively, possibly embittered, campaign to determine whether the nation's fifth city, Los Angeles, is to be controlled politically by the "epic" followers of Upton Sinclair, or by the so-called "Conservative" forces, was presaged today by returns from yesterday's primary election.

Complete unofficial returns on races for 29 city and school district offices showed four "epic"-endorsed candidates elected outright. Seventeen others won places on the May 7 general election ballot, to oppose "Conservative" candidates.

Conservative forces elected eight candidates, all incumbents—five municipal judges and three city councilmen, and, like the epic, or "end poverty in California" organization, nominated 17 candidates for the general election.

PRISONER ASKS MORE LASHES

Coast Man Prefers Them to Long Term in Jail

VANCOUVER, B.C., April 3 (CP)—James McKenzie, 20, who pleaded guilty in police court today before Magistrate H. S. Wood to two different charges of robbery with violence and another count of attempting to escape from lawful custody, asked an odd favor of the magistrate.

"How are the chances of getting more lashes and less time?" McKenzie asked. Sentence was deferred until Friday.

The judge said he admired the convicted man's spunk but City Prosecutor Oscar Orr advised McKenzie to "talk over with some other prisoner just what lashing means and then he might reconsider his request."

McKenzie attempted to escape from the city jail on March 31 by sawing out the bars of his cell. Discovery of the attempt by the jailer, however, prevented his escape.

Two hack saw blades were found in his shoes, these apparently being concealed there before his arrest.

MORE ABOUT RELIEF CAMPS

night, on the eve of the day publicly announced for a general Dominion relief camp demonstration throughout British Columbia and for a general march on Vancouver.

HEAD FOR NELSON

Apparently Nelson has been fixed as the concentration point for whatever groups may walk out in the Kootenay territory, either East or West, and Princeton as the rendezvous for the territory further west.

The only movement of any proportions in the southern Interior Wednesday was reported from the Boundary-Similkameen, which has eight camps, some 300 or 400 men being reported early in the day to be marching toward Princeton, with the announced intention of later going on toward Vancouver. They were reported to be depending on travel by freight to reach the coast metropolis.

MOVE INTO YAHK

Wednesday forenoon the Nelson police headquarters learned by radio from Cranbrook that small detachments of men from the two Goatfell camps and from the Kitchener camp, all included in the East Kootenay administrative zone under the national defence department, were heading eastward to Yahk. Late in the day more particulars came by telephone from Creston, and it was learned that 30 men from the Kitchener camp, 17 from Goatfell West, and 27 from Goatfell East, had arrived at Yahk, and were counting on making their way to Nelson by freight, presumably Thursday, the day announced for demonstrating. While the camp strength for the East Kootenay camps is not known here, it is thought the three mentioned had about 65 men each. The movement reported is credited by the police to be the work of two agitators.

No word was received at division headquarters respecting the rest of the East Kootenay camps, and apparently there has been nothing to report. Notification given the British Columbia Camp Workers union from the Alberta organization, that it could not be responsible for feeding men returning to Alberta after the demonstration, may be a factor in the matter.

FOUR CAMPS MAY GO OUT

Of the nine West Kootenay camps under the group headquarters in Nelson, only four are mentioned by the police as being possible starting points of parades. Elements in the camps at Shoreacres, Tagham, Longbeach West, and Longbeach East are reported to be planning to march on Nelson. Whether these elements will carry out their announced walkouts, or will be able to influence many of their fellows, remains to be seen.

840 IN WEST KOOTENAY

The total strength of the nine West Kootenay camps is now approximately 840 men. The winter's peak was 1230, but large numbers of men have been sent to jobs, and others have left voluntarily to look for work. Recently many Alberta men have been returned to Calgary, week by week, to designated jobs in the line of farm help.

It is understood that the provincial police and city police intend to allow no defiance of the law here, if any is offered.

Woodsworth to Run in Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, April 3 (CP)—J. S. Woodsworth, Cooperative Commonwealth Federation leader, will seek reelection as a Labor candidate for Winnipeg North Center in the coming Dominion elections.

Mr. Woodsworth was nominated here last night at a convention of the Independent Labor party. Labor's leader in the house, Mr. Woodsworth has represented Winnipeg North Center since first elected to parliament, in 1920.

tions at camps in B. C., and that no useful purpose could be filled by a "strike" by single men on relief.

Disregarding the advice, a committee of the men replied that the walkout will take place, notwithstanding.

Provincial advices this evening showed that between 500 and 600 of the 8300 men in federal camps had left and were making for Vancouver. Of this number 300 men were reported at Princeton, 100 passing through Kamloops, 125 at Chilliwack and 125 additional men between Boston Bar and Spence's Bridge. The men were quiet and orderly, but definitely headed for Vancouver, it was reported.

60 MEN ARRIVE

VANCOUVER, April 3 (CP)—Sixty men from the department of national defence relief camp at Squamish, B. C., have arrived here by steamship. Police stated the men left the camp in connection with the general walkout of relief workers called for tomorrow by the relief camp workers union.

START INQUIRING

VANCOUVER, April 3 (CP)—The Royal commission investigating conditions in relief camps will hold its first public meeting here tomorrow—the day on which a walkout has been called by officials of the relief camp workers' union.

Major-General E. C. Ashton, officer commanding military district No. 11, will be the first witness, Hon. W. A. MacDonald, chairman of the commission, announced today. He will instruct the commission regarding the present system of camp administration.

Mr. MacDonald stated the commissioners will probably wait until they visit the camps before dealing with specific complaints.

Families on Relief Less in U. S.

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP)—In support of oft-repeated assertions that business is getting better, the administration today pointed to reports of increased employment and a drop in the swollen relief rolls.

Secretary Roper's new weekly business summary said data from various parts of the country for the week ending March 30 was that a rise in employment, as compared to the previous week, had been general among industrial workers and those in seasonal occupations.

He said the number of families on relief in February were 4,485,076 as compared to 4,544,933 in January.

Committee Approves Health Confab

OTTAWA, April 3 (AP)—Approval of the proposed convention of a Dominion-wide conference of ministers of health whose main object will be to ascertain general conditions of health in Canada today was given by the senate public health and inspection of foods committee.

Meeting under the chairmanship of Senator H. S. Béland (Lib., Montreal) the committee adopted a resolution to this effect moved by Hon. J. H. King (Lib., Victoria).

Coal Hearing at Nanaimo Near End

NANAIMO, B.C., April 3 (CP)—In the closing stages of this afternoon's hearing of the coal commission in Nanaimo: Much evidence was put before the commission, of which Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald is sole member. It dealt mostly with depreciation assessments against the various company properties and brought forth another mass of figures.

WANT COMPRISE IN HYDRO ISSUE

TORONTO, April 3 (CP).—The executive committee of the bondholders of Quebec Power companies, meeting here today, decided to send a deputation both to the Ontario government and to the companies, involved, with a suggestion that a compromise be effected in the matter of 12 contracts made by the former hydro commission with four Quebec firms.

The committee proposes to lay before the government and the companies a plan for acceptance by the bondholders of a reduced rate of interest and that the saving thereby effected be passed on to the Ontario hydro commission to defray payments called for under the contracts.

The group, which formerly functioned under the name of the power securities protective committee, with I. E. Weldon, K.C., as secretary, decided to present the plan immediately to the government and the four companies concerned.

BEEF UP CENT ON WHOLESALE MART

A drastic decline in the price of well known Canadian baking powders, following a price revision, was reported by one wholesale house at Nelson Wednesday. This and a cent advance in the price of beef and a 10-cent advance in the price of flour featured the local market during the past week. Grocery lines on the whole were steady to an upward trend. The egg sale is slack with a big supply available.

Car arrivals during the week included four of groceries, two of sugar and one of milk.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

VANCOUVER, April 3 (CP)—Frederick Biggins, former accountant at the Vancouver General hospital, charged jointly with George Haddon, former hospital secretary and manager, with theft of approximately $15,000 of hospital funds, was committed for trial today by Police Magistrate H. S. Wood.

Evidence against Biggins was taken at a preliminary hearing March 29 and on that date Haddon pleaded guilty and was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary.

Search for Seller of Acid

REGINA, April 3 (CP)—City police tonight were conducting a thorough check-up of all Regina drug stores for possible sales of hydrocyanic acid recently.

It was the latest development in the investigation into the death of 21-year-old Frederick Morley Morris, who died suddenly in hospital here Sunday, 20 minutes after being rushed from his home where his mother found him in terrible pain.

An autopsy showed death was due to acid poisoning.

LONDON LAUGHS AT HEPBURN

LONDON, April 4 (Thursday)—(CP cable)—The Financial Times said today the "excuse" of Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn of Ontario for not replying to questions addressed to him by responsible people in London was treated with derision in London financial circles.

(The questions concerned the Ontario government's policy in connection with contracts entered into by the Ontario hydro-electric power commission with Quebec power companies. Legislation has been introduced by Mr. Hepburn to invalidate such contracts with four companies).

The Financial Times prominently displayed the statement of the Ontario premier, that he did not wish to give out advance information which might influence the stock market.

HOIST GIVEN BILL ON COMBINES

OTTAWA, April 3 (CP).—The six months hoist was given today in the senate to the measure of Senator J. P. B. Casgrain (Lib.-Montreal) to amend the Combines Investigation act and the Criminal code so as to modify provisions on what constitutes a combine.

A sudden and painless death was administered to the bill. It came immediately following the sponsor's speech when his leader, Senator Raoul Dandurand, criticized the proposal and moved second reading be proceeded with "six months hence." The Dandurand motion carried without a recorded vote.

Anglo-Irish Peace Treaty "Easy"

DUBLIN, April 3 (CP Cable via Reiters)—An Anglo-Irish peace treaty could easily be signed provided Britain would cease to "interfere" in Ireland, said Eamon de Valera, president of the Irish Free State, in the Dail today.

Third reading was given to the government's citizenship bill. De Valera said the bill rejected the title of British subjects for Irishmen.

MORE ABOUT FRANCE-GERMANY

decades at the international council tables—he is dead now of an assassin's bullet fired at Marseille last October—made no pretense of hiding his distrust of Germany's pacts pledges.

"The solemn promise of Germany," he once remarked drily, "is not enough for me."

So the swift-marching events in Europe these last weeks—the practical abrogation of parts of the Versailles treaty, Adolf Hitler's rapid-fire moves to rearm the reich, the hurry-scurry hither and yon of diplomatic fence-menders — would not have surprised Barthou. He could have foretold them.

He did, in fact, foretell them, by deeds, if not by words.

The French thesis, as Sir John and Benito Mussolini will hear it, will be short and to the point. It may not be in this language, but forecasts here say it almost certainly will follow this argument:

1. Germany has given proof that her word is worthless.

2. Ergo, it is useless to keep trying to get Hitler into idealistic security schemes involving disarmament, for he is as potentially dangerous in as out.

3. Ergo, the only thing our three nations, and our friends, can do is to join forces against Germany and Germany's friends, and hope our superior force will avert war.

It is an argument Louis Barthou used many times—and probably would have used, with great gusto, could he be at Stresa.

Bessborough Likes Choice of Buchan

VICTORIA, April 3 (CP).—Lord Bessborough is delighted to know he will be succeeded as governor-general of Canada by "such a distinguished gentleman as John Buchan," he said today in addressing members of the Canadian club here.

His excellency pointed out it will be the first time in more than [illegible] years a Scotsman has held the office of governor-general and he declared he knew Mr. Buchan would receive a hearty welcome.

He and his family will be extremely sorry to leave Canada. Closing a definite chapter in a person's life is an experience that comes to all, he said. It was a solemn moment and in this case a sad one. It would be no easy matter to sever in one moment many intimate ties.

57 Couples Wed in Huge Ceremony at Shanghai in Effort to Cut the Cost

By MORRIS J. HARRIS
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

SHANGHAI, April 3 (AP).—China moved today to cut the cost of marriage to depression levels.

A "mass marriage plan" designed to aid Dan Cupid in his battle against hard times was officially launched as General Wu Teh-Chen, mayor of Greater Shanghai, married 57 couples at once.

Without the frills and extravagance characterizing the usual Chinese marriage—which may cost hundreds or thousands of dollars—the 114 Chinese men and women, some young, some old, marched by eights to the altar, bowed three times before the statue of Sun Yat-Sen, twice before each other, once before the mayor, and were quickly pronounced men and wives.

Each couple paid the equivalent of about $7, the price including brilliantly decorated wedding certificates, silver medals inscribed with the names of man and wife and gifts for the bride.

The ceremony, which lasted about two minutes, took place in the palatial new city hall of the Shanghai Chinese government. The hall was big enough for today's throng but all the outdoors will be used, the chief of the marriage registration bureau said, "if we find the hall in the administration building too small."

Indications were that things might come to that pass. Already on file are 31 applications for participation in the next mass ceremony, to be held in May.

Qualifications for marriage under the new plan are strict. Authorities carefully examine all applicants' physical, financial and moral capacities, and require all prospective bridegrooms to have jobs.

Those married today included school teachers, minor city officials, shop keepers, small business men and others of similar status. Their ages ranged from the minimum, 18 for boys and 16 for girls, to 50 or more.
