U.S. Navy Squadron on Long Hop to Hawaii

With the naval base at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, as its goal, the VP. Squadron Ten of the United States naval air force left San Diego Tuesday, and after a brief halt at San Francisco, headed over the Pacific ocean on the long 2150-mile non-stop flight in mass formation. The six seaplanes used in the flight are the same that flew from Norfolk, Va., to the Canal Zone last September, and later flew from Panama to San Diego. Lieut. Commander Knefler McGinnis is commanding the squadron on the flight. He is shown at the left, in the group with his five plane commanders, Lieuts. McRoberts, Davis, Guinn, Perry and Averill. The purpose of the flight is to transfer the squadron from San Diego to Hawaii.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10 (AP)—The United States navy seaplane squadron flying nonstop to Honolulu passed over the destroyer Schenck, approximately 600 nautical miles from San Francisco, at 9:15 p.m., navy headquarters here reported. The planes, which had been flying in two sections because of fog, were together again.

HARD STRUGGLE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10 (AP)—Along the perilous 2400-mile air trail between San Francisco and Honolulu, six big United States navy seaplanes sped in formation tonight after spending two hours in a mighty struggle to get aloft with their heavy loads in a light breeze.

AUSTRALIA, LIKE CANADA, IS NOT EMBARKING UPON A NAVAL PROGRAM

Has One Sloop Building But No Appropriations for More

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 10 (CP cable)—Australia, like Canada, has no intention of embarking on a program of new naval construction.

Rounding out a review of Empire naval policy, authoritative Australian sources in London, in response to enquiry tonight by the Canadian Press, stated Australia had no intention of new naval building. They pointed out that at present she has only one sloop building, with no orders and no appropriations for any other vessels.

Previously authoritative quarters here have characterized the United Kingdom's own naval program as one of normal replacement which

Dominion Is Not Affected by U. S. Importation Order

VANCOUVER, Jan. 10 (CP).—Canadian Distillers have had "an open door into the United States" since prohibition was repealed there and will not be affected by the Washington announcement that importers of American-type whiskey could make importations in any quantity for 30 days, distillery officials stated tonight.

United Distillers Ltd., reported they hold permits to ship 250,000 gallons into the United States and that they can obtain permits "to enable us to ship in any quantity."

Of approximately 40 million gallons of liquor stored in Canada when prohibition was repealed in United States, it is estimated here that 10 million gallons have been shipped to American importers.

CRIPPS DRINKS ROYAL TOAST

Laborites Loyal to the Constitutional Monarchy

LONDON, Jan. 10 (CP cable).—Sir Stafford Cripps drank the royal toast at the auctioneers' luncheon today, where he was guest of honor, and added fervently "God bless Him."

The incident was keenly interesting in view of the storm of criticism the Labor party front-bencher has drawn upon himself for stating in a speech Saturday that among the obstacles Labor would have to overcome, if it returned to power, would be "Buckingham palace." He later explained he did not refer to His Majesty but to the latter's advisers.

Sir Stafford prefaced his speech today with the words, "It is very nice of you to ask me here today and not to have cancelled your invitation." The gathering laughed when he added, "I was quite prepared for you to have asked me to withdraw."

Sir Stafford declared the Labor party fully believed in the constitutional monarchy. There was nothing in the party program to the effect that the crown would be permitted to remain only on sufferance, he added.

ROOS WITHDRAWS

JOHANNESBURG, Jan. 10 (CP Cable).—Tielman Roos, formerly justice of the supreme court and Nationalist minister, has decided not to stand for the Krugersdorp division after all, it was announced today. A vacancy was created in Krugersdorp when Rev. B. H. Hattingh was murdered last week.

As Mr. Roos had subscribed to a proposed new party combining Nationalist and South African parties, it had been proposed he accept the nomination as champion of a fusion party.

PROTEST AGAINST ACTION SOUTH AFRICAN BANKS

Prince Alexis Says Charges Against Mdivani Brothers "Utter Nonsense"

VANCOUVER, Jan. 10 (CP).—Prince Alexis Mdivani tonight faced 16 days of further separation from his heiress-bride, the former Barbara Hutton. He will sail from here tomorrow on the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Hikawa Maru for Yokohama, where he and his wife will be reunited. The princess will sail tomorrow from San Francisco aboard the Tatsuta Maru.

Prince Mdivani skirted the borders of California to avoid being detained there as a witness in the trial of his two brothers, Serge and David, on charges of theft. He arrived here today from Seattle.

"The charges against my two brothers are the most utter nonsense, and there isn't a vestige of evidence against them," Prince Alexis said. "If I thought there were and if I thought there was anything in the charges, I would break any arrangements to speak in their behalf."

SECURITY NEED BEHIND MONEY

Essence of Paper Money Confidence He Declares

VANCOUVER, Jan. 10 (CP).—The need of security behind the paper currency of a country, a material backing which human beings demand, was emphasized today by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett in a luncheon address to the Vancouver junior chamber of commerce and other young men's organizations.

Immediately after his address, Mr. Bennett left over Canadian National railways for the return journey to Ottawa. It is understood he will make no stop-overs en route.

REMONETIZE IS STEVENS' URGE

Silver and Gold Most Secure Backing He Declares

OTTAWA, Jan. 10 (CP).—Readjustment of international debt was an essential prelude to world economic stability, Hon. H. H. Stevens, minister of trade and commerce, told the University club here today.

"But," the minister continued, "equally important is that the weight of internal debts be lightened by the lowering of interest rates and by extending the term of payment. In some cases, actual 'forgiving of debt' is necessary."

Canda's chief concern was how to secure for the farmer producer a fair return for his efforts. "We know he cannot pay his debts at present prices."

Mr. Stevens favored the remonetization of silver. "I hold the view that an international exchange based on a currency with a metallic backing is the most secure: that is, a currency based on silver and gold. Such has been known and understood by all peoples of the world from time immemorial."

ROOSEVELT MAKES FIRM PLEA IN FAVOR WHILE DEMOCRATIC SENATOR WAGNER OPPOSES IT

SOME FACTS ON THE WATERWAYS

OTTAWA, Jan. 10 (CP).—If the United States congress followed President Roosevelt's suggestion and ratified the St. Lawrence waterways scheme, the treaty would come before the Canadian parliament this session for similar action. The understanding has been Canadian ratification would be withheld until Washington had dealt with the treaty.

WATERWAYS PACT

History: 1905, international joint waterways commission created; 1924, international joint board of engineers appointed to report to joint waterways commission; 1927, report completed on which treaty was finally drafted; 1932, July 18, treaty signed at Washington providing for joint construction by Canada and United States.

What it will do:

Provide a 27-foot channel from lakehead to Montreal, 1350 miles; and eventually, a 35-foot channel from Montreal to the sea, another 1000 miles.

Make possible 5,000,000 horsepower in electrical energy, some of which has been developed already, Canada to take 1,000,000 of the 2,000,000 horsepower developed in the international section between Prescott and Cornwall, and the entire 3,000,000 envisioned for the Soulanges and Lachine sections.

Estimated cost:

The United States, $243,000,000, some of which already has been expended in the upper lakes region; Canada, $233,274,000, of which $128,000,000 has been spent on the Welland canal.

Time to complete:

For the waterway, possibly seven years.

It has been estimated power going to Ontario in the international section will be available in 1937.

Fate of Treaty for Transport, Power Is in Balance

Urges the President; Before Senate in Near Future

By KEN CLARK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (CP)—The fate of the St. Lawrence Waterway treaty lay in the hands of the United States senate tonight.

President Roosevelt today sent a strong message to the senate, saying "broad national reasons lead me without hesitation to advocate the treaty."

At the same time Senator Robert Wagner, Democrat, New York, presented a minority report vigorously opposing ratification.

A canvass of leading senators indicated the president's message was of such strength as to make it six of one and half a dozen of the other whether the opposition would

VERIGIN HAS TAX TROUBLE

Doukhobor Leader Protests at the Sask. Levy

REGINA, Jan. 10 (CP).—Peter Verigin, uncrowned king of the Doukhobors of westen Canada, was in Regina, Wednesday.

He is at odds with those entrusted with the collection of provincial income tax, and Mr. Verigin has an income. But his ideas as to the size of it and notions entertained by the tax collectors do not jibe. He wants to pay less and the collectors want more.

For a good part of the morning Mr. Verigin, accompanied by his legal adviser, P. G. Makaroff, was closeted with Hon. M. A. MacPherson, provincial-treasurer, while officials of the income tax department sat around with sundry notes and documents.

Not only was there the amount the Doukhobor leader should pay on account of his personal income, there was the little matter of what the "brotherhood" of which he is head should contribute to the treasury. Just what the outcome of the various arguments was, Mr. Verigin refused to divulge.

BERLIN, Jan. 10 (AP)—A good old-fashioned scolding is Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller was reported today to be President Paul von Hindenburg's attempt to settle a controversy that for more than three months has rent the German Evangelical church.

The devout and aged president expressed grave concern over Bishop Mueller's dictatorial actions, especially in attempting to dissolve protestant youth groups and subordinating them to the nonsectarian Hitler youth organization.

The dissolution of the protestant youth also means the disbanding of German Y.W.C.A.s and Y.M.C.A.s, the Associated Press learned.

NATIONALISTS WILL NOT HIT UPON FOOCHOW

Hope Is Rebels Will Surrender, Avoid Great Damage

HONG KONG, China, Jan. 10 (AP).—Some reassurance regarding the safety of six American missionaries stationed in the Fukien province fighting zone was contained in a report tonight that Nationalist forces will not attack Foochow, provincial capital and centre of an anti-Nationalist revolt.

The Nanking dispatch did not specifically mention the Americans, workers of the Methodist Episcopal church, but observers believed a change in the Nationalist's drive toward Foochow would enable them to leave the danger zone.

The missionaries were isolated when the Nanking regulars and rebel forces engaged in fierce fighting near Kutien, about 50 miles from Foochow, and disrupted communication facilities made contact with them impossible during the last 11 days.

After a relentless offensive that reportedly brought them to within 25 miles of Foochow, the Nationalists were said in today's dispatch to have abandoned the idea of bombing Foochow, hoping the 19th route army in the capital would capitulate to avoid great property damage.

Messages received in Peiping from Foochow today indicated the Fukien rebel junta might soon collapse in the face of the Nationalist offensive. Members of the rebel regime were told to be ready for imminent flight with the 19th route army, the dispatches said.

Naval officers at Shanghai were advised Chinese sailors had occupied Amoy, a port city not far from Foochow, after rebels had suddenly evacuated today.

TRAIL HOOP TEAMS WIN

Sheiks, Comets and Jimmies Beat the Nelson Reps

TRAIL, B. C., Jan. 10—Three representative Nelson basketball teams took defeat at the hands of three Trail teams here Wednesday night. The Trail Sheiks defeated the Nelson senior rep team 49-36, the Trail Jimmies defeated the Nelson girls 28-18, and the Comets, a Trail intermediate team beat the Nelson juniors 39-19.

In the first game, Nelson played without their two star players, Lucas and Vance. Harry Rothery of the Sheiks, was Trail's most serious scoring threat, chalking up 20 points, during whirlwind dashes. Trail had the edge on a greater part of the game but with 15 minutes to go, Nelson, with Baker, Kirby and Greenwood shining, put on a scoring splurge to bring the tally from 17-21 to 28-31. Rothery, however, again put Trail ahead with three baskets, Grippich and Burroughs also scoring. Greenwood was Nelson's outstanding man. He made three personal shots in quick succession bringing his total to four.

PUT UP GOOD FIGHT

The Nelson girls put up a good fight but their combination was not clicking and ill luck dogged their shots, the ball rolling around the basket and falling outside time after time.

Doreen Dunnett, who was on the receiving end of most of the passes, chalked up six points with two baskets and two personal shots. Aria Saare put in three baskets and also scored a personal shot. Mary Grippich threw five baskets for 10 points for the Trail team.

The Trail intermediates built up the big lead in the first half of 19-5. Nelson stepped out in the second half and made the count more even. P. Smith, diminutive Trail forward, seemed to find the basket on every shot, chalking up a total of 14 points, and Ralph Temple was an efficient assistant in combination plays, throwing three baskets himself.

F. Clark gathered eight points for the Nelson team. Kirby was off his usual form.

NELSON BEATS ROSSLAND 5-3 ON ROUGH ICE

Rossland Down 4 to 0 in Third Period Before Start

BANNISTER GETS 2 AND AN ASSIST

Team Play Is Almost Impossible on Rough Ice

Disorganized by the rough, soft ice, the Rossland Miners went down to defeat 5-3 before the aggressive onslaught of the Nelson Red Wings here Wednesday night in a West Kootenay hockey fixture, and were never a distinct threat until the final period when they scored their trio of counters. The condition of the ice prevented finished team work and at times the play was of the slam-bang variety.

What the game lacked in class it made up in pep, and with Rossland entering the scoring column in the third period, the Nelson fans saw plenty of action.

Bannister opened the scoring in the second period by banging in one of his own rebounds and duplicated the feat a few moments later. Hicks scored the third on a nice pass from Bannister to the goal mouth. Wolfe was given no chance on any of them.

JANOWSKY TALLIES

Culley lifted one over the prone Wolfe in the third period for the fourth before Rossland found the twine. Then Morris followed a loose puck into the corner and placed it in front of the goal to Janowsky, who put it past McKay, giving him no chance to save.

Dame coolly lifted the disc over a pileup in front of the Nelson goal for the second.

Thompson, making a nice check at his own blue line, tore down the left boards and, just inside the Rossland blue line, let drive a neat shot that Wolfe failed to stop. Hanson completed the scoring on a pass from Shannon and Lopochuck.

DAME IS DANGEROUS

For the visitors Davidson put up a fine game and worked hard. He got by the defence several times but the rough ice played havoc with his effectiveness. Dame was dangerous and on a smooth sheet would bear watching. Morris suffered a cut over the eye and was out of the game for part of a period. Wolfe was also hurt, though he continued to play.

Forsey, Thompson and Wade, with Bannister shining on the counting end, were the best for Nelson, Fairburn, playing his first game for the locals, looked good and will no doubt give a good account of himself under more favorable conditions.

Referee Desireau checked closely on the play and prevented any start of roughness. Bannister took several trips to the cooler.

FIRST PERIOD

Right from the faceoff Wolfe made a fast save when Bannister passed to Culley close in, and the latter sent in a sizzler that nearly knocked the Rossland goalie off his feet. Breaking up a Rossland rush in centre ice, Forsey and Thompson tore down on the Rossland goal, but again Wolfe made a good save. Dame went down fast and shot from centre ice, Paul knocking it down. Shannon tried a long shot and then Wade and Fairburn went right in on the Rossland net, the latter missing by inches. Wolfe saved a fast one from Culley from close in. Morris received the first penalty of the game for bodying Wade into the boards. Bannister followed him a moment later for slashing Frane. Frane and Forsey tried long shots, and Janowsky joined Morris and Bannister in the box for slashing Culley. Forsey went in on the Rossland net but Dame came up fast to stop him in the goal mouth. Frane broke away fast with Dame, but the latter over-skated the puck. Thompson received a two-minute rest for tripping Lopochuck. Wolfe made a fast save when Paul tore in on top of him. Janowsky received his second penalty of the period for cross checking Paul. Lopochuck skated away fast but was stopped by Hicks, who passed over to O'Genski, the latter's shot going wide. Dame went through on the Nelson defence, but was stopped by Paul. Paul passed over to Forsey, and the latter skated away with Bannister, who was dumped by Janowsky near the goal mouth. A moment later Wolfe made a sensational save on Bannister's shot from close in. McKay was called upon to make his first stop of the period when Davidson shot from close in. Janowsky went down fast but was checked by Forsey, who was in turn stopped by Lopochuck. Bannister received a two-minute rest for tripping Dame. McKay made a fast save when Dame shot from close in. Lopochuck got a two-minute penalty for slashing Thompson. Bannister and Forsey went in on top of Wolfe as the period ended, but Wolfe made a great save.

SECOND PERIOD

Forsey sent in a long shot right from the faceoff which Wolfe easily cleared. Frane broke away fast and passed to Davidson, who sent in a hard shot on McKay. Lopochuck and Dame broke away together but were stopped by Bannister, who tore through the Rossland defence, but over-skated the puck. Two minutes and 18 seconds after the period started, Bannister scored on Forsey's rebound. Fifty seconds later Bannister put the Red Wings two goals up when he scored on Culley's pass from close in. McKay stopped Hansons' long shot and then came out to rob Morris. Thompson and Fairburn went down together and the rush was broken up by Frane, who passed over to Hanson, the latter skating away fast with Shannon, but they were stopped at the Nelson defence. Wade made two fast solo dashes into Rossland territory, but Wolfe made two great saves. Morris was hurt when he bumped into Desireau. Thompson stopped Davidson at the Nelson blue line and tore in on the Rossland defence with Forsey, the latter's shot being wide. Dame and Lopochuck sent in two fast ones on McKay, but the Nelson goalie was right on. Lopochuck, Dame and Davidson went down together but were stopped by the local defence. A moment later Davidson passed to Lopochuck near the Nelson net, but Thompson came in to clear. Bannister was right through on two occasions but lost the puck in the slushy ice. Dame, Davidson and Thompson received two-minute penalties in succession. Twenty-two seconds before the period ended, Hicks scored the Red Wings' third goal on a pass from Bannister from close in.

THIRD PERIOD

Wade and Fairburn got in two hard shots at the opening of the period, and then Rossland took the play to the other end, on occasion having five men inside the Nelson blue line, McKay being called on to make saves from Dame and Lopochuck. Davidson went down on the wing and let go a long shot. Tearing in for the rebound Davidson circled the Nelson net and passed out to Dame, McKay coming out to clear. Fairburn broke away fast but was sandwiched at the Rossland defence. Hanson sent in two long shots that just missed the net. Culley put the Red Wings four goals up when he tore in to score on Forsey's rebound. Three minutes later Janowsky scored Rossland's first goal on a pass from Morris. Two minutes later Dame again put Rossland in the scoring column on a pass from Lopochuck. After McKay had made two nice saves from Dame and Davidson, Thompson rushed down on the wing and scored the Red Wings' fifth goal with a shot from the blue line. Rossland kept up a steady pressure on the Nelson net and were finally rewarded with another goal when Hanson scored on a double assist from Shannon and Lopochuck.

Telegraphers Vote on Wage Slash

MONTREAL, Jan. 10 (CP)—From Halifax to Victoria, telegraphers of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National commercial telegraph system today forwarded ballots to their respective headquarters at Toronto and Winnipeg which, officials of the Commercial Telegraphers' union of America anticipated, would voice a protest of a strong majority against accepting of a 5 per cent wage cut.

The companies had planned to put the wage cut into effect on January 1 last but did not do so pending negotiations with the men. Should the men refuse to accept the reduction, which would be in addition to a 10 per cent reduction in 1932, it is expected a board of conciliation will be appointed to hear the case.

It was expected the results of the Dominion-wide vote would be made known tomorrow.

CENTRAL EXPORT MARKETING BOARD NEEDED FOR CANADIAN APPLES SAYS QUEBEC GROWER

Curb Uncontrolled Shipments and Better Grades

MONTREAL, Jan. 10 (CP)—Expressing the hope the Dominion government, following the forthcoming national marketing conference, held in Toronto in November, would take steps to curb uncontrolled shipping of Canada apples, J. F. Desmarais, president of the pomological and fruit growing society of the province of Quebec, opened here today the 40th annual convention of the association.

"The British preference," the president asserted, "has created a splendid market for Canadian apples, but unfortunately we lack a central export marketing board, and the British market this past fall has been glutted. In fact, the British grower is up in arms over the ruination of his market and we may suffer, as we now find stocks are not sufficient to supply the balance of the market season and returns to Canadian growers are unsatisfactory.

"Economic factors the world over have been forcing adjustments in the apple industry for the past 20 years, and the present depression starting in 1929 found the industry better equipped to meet the blow than ever before.

The industry was better equipped for efficient production, and with about only half the former number of trees the production of apples has been greater."

After emphasising the urgent need for the Dominion government to take steps to curb uncontrolled shipping of Canadian apples, Mr. Desmarais reminded members of the association that European growers were now adopting modern methods and loomed as decided competitors, hence the need for the Canadian growers to bring their crops up to a high standard of quality.

LETTER FROM A MAN OF 90

About His Rheumatism

He asks us to excuse his writing. We do more than that—we congratulate him on being able to write at all at his age, especially as he has been suffering from rheumatism. This is what he says in his letter:—

"Three years ago I was in bed for six weeks with inflammatory rheumatism. Since that time I have been taking Kruschen Salts, and have not had another attack. But my hands are still somewhat stiff. I take Kruschen every morning before breakfast, and shall continue to do so, because I am sure it has kept me in good shape for three years. Excuse this writing, as I am ninety years old, and use both hands to write."—J. R. G.

Kruschen dissolves away those needle-point crystals of uric acid which are the cause of all rheumatic troubles. It will also flush these dissolved crystals clean out of the system. Then if you keep up "the little daily dose," excess uric acid will never form again. ***

Permanence and Desirability Keywords for Public Works

Ald. Ross Fleming Makes Report; Urges a Crossing for Cottonwood and Equipment to Provide for Snow-Plowing

Despite handicaps through having work at unseasonable times of the year, lack of material, changing crews and restricted mechanical aid, progress has been made throughout the city by works of a desirable and permanent nature, states Ald. Ross Fleming, chairman of the public works committee in making a report to the city council. Work on providing a suitable crossing over Cottonwood creek and equipment which can conveniently be converted for speedy snow-plowing in the winter are urged in the report.

The detailed observations are as follows:

"As the report of City Engineer Boyd C. Affleck will deal with details respecting the operation of public works may I as chairman of that committee make a few observations?

"The amount spent on public works has been governed largely by the amount of unemployment relief required. The provincial and Dominion governments assist the city in relief works by contributing one-third each of the labor costs. Administration and material costs are borne solely by the city. Therefore it has been the aim of your public works committee to so plan the class and conduct of work that the maximum of labor is used with a minimum of material. Though handicapped through having to work at unseasonable times of the year, with ever changing crews, lack of material, and restricted use of mechanical aid, we feel that real progress has been made throughout the city by works of a desirable and permanent nature.

"Among the principal improvements may be mentioned: The widening of Edgewood avenue and the highway around the Kootenay Lake General hospital and High street. These together with the finishing of Cedar street required considerable rock work. The grade on the east end of Vernon street was reduced and the Hospital Bluff road widened. The construction of Douglas street with its connections with Fifth street and intersecting streets has provided considerable employment opening up an unused section of the city and producing an outlet for the upper sections. This development, together with improvements on Selwyn street and the road through Gyro park, has provided the city with a very desirable scenic drive. The development of Water street well under way with a roadway on each side of the street railway will provide a necessary arterial highway making for safe travel. A cut and fill on Second street has bridged an unpassable ravine. Work in the uphill portion of the city has consisted mostly of dressing and grading a number of streets. Considerable rock work was done in the alleys of blocks 13, 26, 28 and 38, lot 95. A start has been made in opening up Hall street between Victoria and Silica by taking out rock to build a retaining wall on Falls street.

"Some progress has been made with a proposal to provide a safe and convenient crossing over Cottonwood creek in the vicinity of the west end of Hoover street. This project will carry with it considerable grading developments in the upper portion of the city and is in the opinion of your public works committee a very desirable piece of work. In fact your council has gone on record favoring the project provided suitable arrangements can be made and it is hoped that during the coming year this may become a major project for unemployment relief, as it lends itself very nicely to the employment of a large body of men. Such projects are difficult to find.

SNOW PLOWING FACILITIES

"Your committee believes that it would be in the interest of citizens generally to provide equipment that could be conveniently converted for speedy snow-plowing in winter. Weather conditions often demand that this work should be done in the quickest manner possible.

"The provincial government has received very kindly a suggestion that municipalities be reimbursed by at least 50 per cent of material costs. If such a proposal is adopted it will greatly facilitate permanent work requiring cement such as street paving and cement sidewalks, which is desirable.

"In closing we wish to thank those of our citizens working on unemployment relief who through these trying times are honorably giving value for money received. To Boyd C. Affleck, our city engineer, we appreciate his assistance and efforts to render efficient service in his department. To you, Mr. Mayor, and fellow councillors, we thank you for your cooperation."

Foresees Era of Great Efficiency

FERNIE, B.C., Jan. 10—C. V. Stainsby of the eFrnie high school staff addressed Rotary on Monday. His subject was the mental adjustments that would be necessary in the face of changing conditions which are now developing. After sketching the breakdown of what appeared to be a solidly built industrial system based on the principle of the eight hour day, the speaker called attention to the seeming impossibility of ever restoring the same system. Philip Snowden was quoted as saying that if pre-depression conditions could be restored, within three months factories would be closing again because of the increase of mechanical efficiency. In the face of such statements as this from reliable sources leisure time appears to be a permanent factor in human affairs. Leisure as a universal possession implies changes in social conditions requiring some drastic changes in mental attitudes.

The first mental adjustment discussed was the necessity of abandoning the idea of the eight-hour day or of substituting for it any fixed period of work except as a temporary measure. All indications are that the world is on the verge of an era in which mechanical efficiency will sweep forward as never before. No one can even suggest a limit for such progress, consequently no one can say how many hours a day or how many days a week will be required to supply the world's needs. The working time can be just enough to satisfy the demand for manufactured goods. With production speeded up the time left should be at the disposal of the worker whose wages should be based not on the number of hours spent at work but on the amount of work accomplished. Leisure then would have no horrors as an adequate income would be assured.

The second mental adjustment dealt with the value of leisure. Leisure is quite distinct from idleness. It is not a wasting of time but an opportunity to enjoy life thoroughly by using the available time in activities of one's choice.

The third change in mental attitudes emphasized the necessity for clearer thinking in regard to the relative values of the producer and the consumer. Production is based on and is dependent on consumption. The man who has time at his disposal will buy more goods than the same man if tied down to working hours that permit him no leisure. Demand will be increased to that extent while, through improvements in the machinery of production, working hours will be lessened. Changed conditions are being forced on the world. Drastic mental changes must accompany them. Otherwise the greater freedom and increased enjoyment offered under these new conditions will be lost.

CHAPTER THIRTY SIX

Driving in silence, Slug chauffered him through a succession of sunny and commonplace Hollywood streets until they arrived at the minor business thoroughfare of Western Avenue. Finding a convenient space, Slug parked the car.

Across the street was a three-story building, the lower floors occupied by small stores. Midway of the building was an entrance and stairs leading to the cheap apartments on the upper floors.

"It's straight down the hall on the second floor," said Slug. "The last door on the right."

Cavanaugh discarded the sombrero and bandanna. Chances of capture, now, were negligible. He put on his panama and coat. He was in excellent spirits—elastic and athletic-looking in his grey suit with the dark blue tie.

Two young girls in passing glanced at him with interested eyes, but he ignored them.

"Well, so long, Slug. Thanks a lot for everything."

Neither bothered to shake hands.

"Better take me along with you—"

"Two's a party and three's a crowd," grinned Cavanaugh.

"Shall I wait with the car?"

"Absolutely not. I'll be okay—take care of yourself, Slug."

"How about a rod—want to borrow mine?"

"I've got my own," lied Cavanaugh to save argument.

He was not armed because he had never, at any time, felt the need of a weapon. A rod, actually, was not necessary to an agile man with a cool brain. As a means of defense it was uncertain and its powers of accomplishment were nil.

"In case you don't come out," said Slug, "how about Miss Luneska? Want me to send her some kind of message—"

"If I don't come out—just forget everything. But don't worry."

Slug stepped on the starter.

"Well, I'll be seein' you."

"Sure you will."

Cavanaugh carried an atmosphere of extreme well-being with him across the street and several passers-by noticed him with approval. He had the air of a happy young man.

In the entrance he paused and looked negligently at the names of the letter boxes. This was mere idle curiosity. Poletzki's name was not visible—it wouldn't be.

Cavanaugh's mission was not in the least light-hearted, yet he was beginning to feel a physical thrill.

It was like driving a high-powered car over a dangerous mountain road, or staking his last twenty dollars on the wheel, or diving from a high sprig board into a pool.

Cavanaugh opened the glass door and started to go up the thinly-carpeted stairs. His throat was just a little dry. He was climbing on the balls of his feet. The place smelled a trifle stale. The tenants, quite obviously, cooked at home. An inconspicuous and commonplace hide-away for a man in Poletzki's position. Cavanaugh was whistling softly.

Whenever he was gambling for high stakes he always whistled and kept a level head.

A middle-aged woman with a market basket on her arm passed him on the stairs. He stepped aside, smiled, took off his hat. The woman thought him the nicest young man she had seen in a long time and her day brightened.

Thereafter, Cavanaugh did not smile.

He did not know exactly how he would get into Poletzki's apartment. Perhaps the man would not be at home. In that case he would have to commit burglary. To knock on the door and find out would be a simple method. Simple, but superlatively dangerous.

No one could fathom what reaction might be expected from abruptly disturbing a murderous, drug-drenched, abnormal mind . . .

At the same moment that Lucky Cavanaugh, with every sense alert, was approaching Poletzki's door, Leni Luneska, in her own elaborate home, was conscious of a tightened sensation around her heart.

As soon as one worry was over another took its place. One wave of anxiety after another. Her life had become a mighty storm of these waves.

It was beyond her comprehension.

For a brief truce with fate she and Cavanaugh had glimpsed a golden peace. It had been so beautifully short—that last brief half hour together in her bedroom.

The reaction was setting in. It was no good blinking the facts. He might come back to her sound and free, or the next time she saw him he might be . . . dead!

Somebody had shot and killed a woman in his apartment. He had told Mulrooney, in her presence that the fatal shot had been meant for him. . . .

The startling truth was that she knew little or nothing about Lucky Cavanaugh. Knew even less about the death-dodging complications of his dangerous existence.

She had gone back to her bedroom in a futile effort to recapture something of the happiness that Cavanaugh had taken with him when he left. The print of his head was still upon one of the pillows...

"Forgive me, madame."

It was Celeste bearing a small wicker tray crowded with more than a hundred letters. All of them had been opened and read at the studio. These were a few of the most interesting ones out of the daily thousands.

The maid put the fan mail upon a low table beside an easy chair. All of these letters had been answered already by Leni's secretary at the studio. They came from all parts of the world. In times past they had stimulated Leni's ambition. Now they were meaningless bits of paper.

"You take them away, Celeste."

Celeste's face saddened. Her mistress was constantly disappointing her. This slim French girl in her chaste black dress anguished over Leni like a mother hen.

"What has happened, madame?" she begged in a worried voice. "Something it is wrong? Is it sickness?"

Leni turned her face away from the girl. Those intent brown eyes, distressed and smypathetic, were like question marks, eternally demanding answers.

"Please go away," Leni whispered wearily. "I am perfectly well. I don't care what you do, Celeste—only leave me alone."

Celeste took the letters out, her shoulders drooping slightly as she left.

Still in her lounging pajamas with the cloth of gold jacket, Leni flung herself upon the bed. She tried to think, but her problems could not be reached by thought.

More than anything else on earth she wanted to hear Lucky Cavanaugh's voice.

Sitting up in bed she reached the telephone book for his number and failed to find it. Then she did a foolish thing.

She laid her face into the hollow that his head had left upon the silken pillow. It was a silly effort and it brought her no satisfaction at all.

It's an odd thing about the way the human mind operates under heavy pressure of feeling. It swings like a pendulum from one extreme to another.

In her heart, Lucky Cavanaugh and Herman Gerstenfield were as far apart as east and west.

Leni picked up the telephone and called the studio.

There was a subtle change in the voice of the operator. "I don't think Mr. Gerstenfield will answer his phone, Miss Luneska," said the voice. "He gave orders not to be disturbed."

"Is a conference going on?"

"No, he's alone."

"Then there's no reason why you shouldn't ring him."

But there was a very good reason and the operator knew it. Gerstenfield had ordered everybody out of his office in a burst of temper that shook the studio walls. The gossip was flying from office to office that he had literally kicked Ned Wingate out of the luxurious private office. Those stories get around rapidly on the lot. Gerstenfield seldom blew up but the rumor, this time, was that he had become a regular volcano.

"Please ring him," said Leni. I'll take the responsibility."

Leni waited a long time. The operator at the other end left the switch open so she could hear the buzzing in Gerstenfield's office. Then suddenly, his voice leaped like crackling fire through the wires.

"What in blazes do you want!"

The instrument in Leni's hand shook a little.

"I want to talk to you—if you can be a little polite," she said half-humorously. "This is Leni!" . .

JAPAN FINDS NICKEL

Tokio reports, with evident elation, that a large deposit of nickel ore has been found in Korea. The ore is said to be rich enough to pay for the working, and contains other minerals which will help to bear the cost.

That will consolidate Japan's position as the industrial country of the East. Nickel is being used in a constantly increasing variety of ways for manufacturing purposes, chiefly for hardening steel. Until recent years Japan had to import both iron and nickel, or nickel-steel. Now that it can draw iron and coal from Manchuria and nickel from Korea, it will be independent of foreign sources of supply, and its competitors will know what to expect in the way of increased competion.

The greatest advantage, from Japan's point of view, will be the possession of home supplies of hardened steel from which to manufacture guns, battleships and other war equipment. With an aggressive policy of territorial expansion under way, the new discovery does not auger well for peace in the Orient.

Canada has hitherto supplied about ninety per cent of the world's requirements of nickel. The Korean discovery probably closes the Oriental market against our product, while it strengthens an industrial rival in the Pacific area and introduces a new and important calculation into the international situation here. Canada should re-double its efforts to make mutually profitable trade arrangements with Japan and China.

CANADIAN WHEAT QUALITY

Other nations may produce wheat in as large quantities as Canada, but no other country sends to the markets of the world wheat of such fine quality. In 1933 Canada retained the world wheat crown by winning the first prize for hard red spring wheat at the International Hay and Grain Show at Chicago. Nineteen times in 23 years Canada has been awarded this honor, the champion in 1933 being Frank Isackson, of Elfros, Saskatchewan. This village is 168 miles from Saskatoon, on the Winnipeg-Saskatoon-Edmonton line of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

In 1933 a new ruling barred from competition at Chicago those who had won the wheat crown for three successive years. Thus, Herman Trelle, of Wembley, Alberta, internationally-known grower of fine wheat, and champion in 1930, 1931, and 1932, as well as in 1926, was ineligible.

The list of champions from 1911 to 1933 demonstrates the superior quality of Canadian wheat. It is as follows:

1911—Seager Wheeler, Saskatchewan, Canada.
1912—Henry Holmes, Alberta, Canada.
1913—Paul Gerlack, Saskatchewan, Canada.
1914—Seager Wheeler, Saskatchewan, Canada.
1915—Seager Wheeler, Saskatchewan, Canada.
1916—Seager Wheeler, Saskatchewan, Canada.
1917—Sam Larcombe, Manitoba, Canada.
1918—Seager, Wheeler, Saskatchewan, Canada.
1919—J. C. Mitchell, Saskatchewan, Canada.
1920—J. C. Mitchell, Saskatchewan, Canada.
1921—G. W. Kraft, Montana, U.S.A.
1922—R. O. Wyler, Saskatchewan, Canada.
1923—Major H. G. L. Strange, Alberta, Canada.
1924—J. C. Mitchell, Saskatchewan, Canada.
1925—L. P. Yates, Montana, U.S.A.
1926—Herman Trelle, Alberta, Canada.
1927—C. Edson Smith, Montana, U.S.A.
1928—C. Edson Smith, Montana, U.S.A.
1929—Joseph H. B. Smith, Alberta, Canada.
1930—Herman Trelle, Alberta, Canada.
1931—Herman Trelle, Alberta, Canada.
1932—Herman Trelle, Alberta, Canada.
1933—Frank Isackson, Saskatchewan, Canada.

Unfortunately the price of wheat at the prsent time is too low to encourage the production of quality wheat in large quantities, but when the price is stabilized at a figure which will yield the farmer a reasonable profit, the West will again be on its feet. British Columbia will benefit, too, through the increased purchasing power which a good price for wheat will give the prairie agriculturists.

Britain and the United States are carrying on a little affair all of their own. It is a case of Scotch versus pigs. The United States says to Britain: "You buy our pigs or we will quit buying Scotch and start drinking gin." In other words the United States wants to send a lot of hams to the old country for a drink of Scotch. Britain is buying her pork from Denmark and they are juggling things about hastily. Ah, just another yarn about the three little pigs. Who's afraid of the big bad wolf?

Less than half marks were scored by the 90,000 bairns who tackled the "mental survey test" set by the Scottish council for research in education. Average marks were 42, while never in the history of the examinations has any child scored 100 per cent. Small wonder! Here are three of the questions which puzzled children of 11 years:

1. If there are more I's in DIMINISHING than in TRINITARIAN write P, unless there are more N's in the second than in the first, in which case write R.

2. If the letter A occurs most often in the word CANADA, write the middle letter of the word SLEEP unless P and R come next each other in the alphabet, in which case write Y instead.

The man at the helm of Germany was a "nutty duck"—the NRA blue eagle had "only one wing"—the now dead United States prohibition amendment was "the greatest piece of legislation ever enacted"—and his favorite expression was "gee whiz."

Bad times, in the opinion of Rev. Sunday were due to dissipation, low religious ideals and extravagance.

The blue eagle which President Roosevelt hopes will again lift prosperity aloft in the United States was "alright. It's got a material wing; it ought to have a spiritual wing as well."

Roosevelt, he said, is working hard and "I'm not going to criticize him. He's doing better than I could do, gee whiz."

Hitler, he believed, might as well realize the Jews cannot be torn from their religion.

"God," he chanted, "was on the throne long before Hitler was."

One half the world doesn't know how the other half lives. Many will learn with surprise that, at an auction sale of household goods held by Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick at Chicago, a pair of sheets were knocked down for $85. That should be a record price for sheets, especially in an old-fashioned winter when the demand is much heavier for blankets. Nothing is said as to whether the sheets were bought for their intrinsic value or to complete the collection of a souvenir hunter. For all we know, indeed, they may have been purchased by a wealthy admirer as a little birthday gift for Mahatma Gandhi.

TRUMP MANAGEMENT

One of the greatest weeknesses of the average player when he has complete command of the trump suit is his desire to exhaust the adverse trumps before noting whether any of dummy's can be more advantageously utilized. The following hand illustrates this:

NORTH (Dealer): ♠5 ♥K-J-8-4 ♦A-Q-J ♣A-K-8-6-3
WEST: ♠K-Q-J-3 ♥7-5 ♦9-7-5-2 ♣J-9-4

SOUTH: ♠A-8-6-4 ♥A-Q-10-9-2 ♦10-8-3 ♣7
Game: North-South

When it was played, with West-East vulnerable, it was bid quite boldly. South started with one Heart (West East did not bid.) North overcalled with three Clubs, a forcing bid, and then South thought he had better call three Spades so as to show North his other Ace suit. North responded with four Diamonds, emphasizing his preference for his first suit. This was followed by seven Hearts from North.

In spite of South's Spade bid, West could see nothing better to do than lead the King of Spades. South won with the Ace, exhausted the adverse trumps in two rounds and then led a Diamond for the finesse. When it lost, South's Grand Slam hopes went with it, and he commented upon his hard luck in finding the King of Diamonds in the East hand and also upon the folly of giving up a sure small slam for the gamble of the Grand Slam bonus. No one at the table mentioned, and the Declarer never realized that with his cards he could have made one of the easiest Grand Slams imaginable by using three of dummy's trumps for ruffing Spades.

With the first trick won by the Ace of Spades, the second should have been a Spade ruffed by North, trick 3 should have been the Ace of Clubs from North, followed by a small Club ruffed by South. After that a second Spade ruff by North, a second Club ruff by South, and a third Spade ruff by North should lead his last trump, and South, overtaking, should exhaust the adverse trumps. North then would be put in with the Ace of Diamonds and South would discard two Diamonds on North's established Clubs.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

A GRAY LIFE

She is poor and lonely
(So the neighbors say)
All her days are toil-filled,
All her life is gray.

So the world must pity
This unlucky one,
With her hours so dreary,
Life of dark threats spun.

Yet (how great a blessing!)
She has never known
Just how dull her days are,
Just how bleak and lone.

Where the rest see grayness,
She can glimpse the gleams
Radiant with glories,
Of her rainbow dreams!

She dwells rapt in beauty,
Spite of loneliness,
Visited by angels
That they never guess.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

DIFFERENT TYPES OF CONSTIPATION

If a patient walks into a physician's office and tells the physician that he knows he is suffering with heart disease, the physician will likely smile indulgently and carefully make an examination of the heart.

Yet when a patient consults a physician and tells him he wants to be treated for constipation, the physician is apt to take him at his word and prescribe regular diet habits, regular intestinal habits, the use of rough foods such as bran, coarse breads, or raw cabbage, the use of drastic drugs such as epsom salts, castor oil, or simple drugs such as senna or cascara.

Now the patient may not be really constipated or may have one of a number of forms of constipation and should receive the same careful examination and questioning as if he were consulting the physician about his heart.

Dr. C. J. Tidmarsh makes use of the above illustration to point out to patients, and physicians also, that constipation may be present in the large bowel due to a delay in the passage of food wastes simply because the bowel itself is slow or sluggish in action.

On the other hand there may be constipation in the large intestine because it is really too active or "irritable" and because it is easily irritated (especially by rough food). Parts of the bowel may thus be so contracted or narrow that the wastes cannot pass through these narrow parts.

You can thus see that while rough foods would be helpful to the sluggish or slow bowel, they are actually harmful to the spastic or irritable bowel.

Another form of constipation is when the wastes get down to the end of the bowel but the patient lacks the power to expel these wastes from the body. This is commonly caused by the patient not attending to the call when the desire to expel the wastes comes to him.

Dr. Tadmarsh tells us that the physician can often tell the type of constipation present by the fact that in the sluggish type there is a feeling of discomfort at lower part of abdomen and in the left side, whereas the spastic or contracted bowel type often has pain on lower right side in region of the appendix.

The thought then regarding constipation is not to work out your own diet and drug treatment but to consult your doctor and give him a complete history of your symptoms just as you would if you thought you had heart disease.

Uncle Sam Warned That Trade With Russia May Not Be So Rosy

What is recognition of Soviet Russia likely to mean to American export trade? That, intimates Dr. Julius Klein, former Assistant Secretary of Commerce of the United States, hinges upon a maze of circumstances ranging from the Soviet temperament to the granting of American credits.

"In one of those bleak Moscow offices" writes Dr. Klein in the New York Herald-Tribune, "sits Mr. A. P. Rosengoltz, the Soviet Commissar for Foreign Trade. He is a shrewd, zealous 'proletarian,' hewing strictly to 'the party line.' Back of him in Stalin, the protentour, sloe-eyed Georgian, the successor to the Czars. Back of Stalin is the shadow of the implacable theorist Marx. And back of all this is the strange temperament of the Slav, the Tartar, the huge agglomeration of semi-Asiatic peoples that make up the U.S.S.R. Before we begin to throw our hats into the air too fervently in enthusiasm over the prospects for greater machinery exports, we shall do well to contemplate carefully that none-too-inviting picture of a retarded buying power and to realize that the ultimate commercial issue is problematical."

WOULD HELP GERMANY

Having delivered this utterance, Dr. Klein introduces "an American engineer" acquaintance with distinguished experience in rehabilitating the new Russia. He allows the engineer to size up the situation and give an opinion on trade possibilities. Follows a summary.

The prospect for American machinery exports to Russia have been vastly overrated, declares the engineer. Russia needs lots of machinery but her people are not equipped temperamentally or intellectually to man a vast mechanized industrial system. Heads of departments can be brought from abroad, but the rank and file of Russians to man the machines are not available. It will take generations of technical schooling and fundamental changes in national psychology to produce such workers.

Undoubtedly, says the engineer, one of the chief beneficiaries of any arrangements between the United States and Russia would be Germany. At present one-half at least and probably more of Russia's internal financing comes from German source. If the U.S. government makes loans to Russia there will be an indirect strengthening in equal measure of Russia's commitments to Germany.

MISTAKEN IDEA

The American "man on the street" we are told, has a quite erroneous idea as to the previous status of American-Russian trade and the commercial significance of formal recognition. For the past dozen years, without any semblance of governmental recognition, Americans have sold great quantities of goods to Russia and purchased considerable amounts of Russian products in return. From 1929 to 1930, U. S. sales to the "unrecognized" Soviet mounted from $85,000,000 to $114,000,000. In 1931 they totalled $103,000,000. In 1932 American sales to Russia dropped to $13,000,000, and for the first six months of 1933 they came to only $3,000,000. One cause of the drop was the development of Russia's self-sufficiency. But it is also hinted that the Soviet Government purposely cut down the trade to compel American diplomatic recognition.

PEOPLE WERE STARVED

In this connection it would be well for Americans to bear in mind that Russian trade is not bound by the law of supply and demand that governs commerce with other nations. Soviet trade is a government monopoly. The masters of the Kremlin make foreign trade decisions on the basis of their conception of national needs and benefits and advatageous international strategy. And these trade decrees are undeviatingly carried out so far as conditions permit. Under the Soviet, international trade is a potential tool, sometimes a mighty weapon. In trade matters the commissars have sometimes been utterly ruthless, reminds the engineer who has lived in Russia. He recalls the time (not so very long ago) "when Russia was exporting large quantities of grain as well as eggs, butter, sugar and similar foodstuffs, while at the very same time great numbers of wretched peasants and gaunt city workers were precariously hovering on the border of starvation and were clamoring piteously for a decent ration."

These food exports were to finance the Five-Year Plan. It is well to remember that Russia does not have to consider cost of production and that the Kremlin can break a market by dumping, or on the other hand show evidences of Communist favor by giving large orders.

CAN RUSSIA FINALLY REPAY?

Americans are warned, too, not to forget that Russia's aim is to be self-sustaining industrially. Russia may consider it expedient now to buy certain quantities of American machinery, chemicals, etc., in her dogged attempt to speed up her industries. But every principle every official pronouncement of Soviet theory points to eventual reliance on domestic equipment.

Dr. Klein's engineer friend says that if large and long term credits are extended to Russia American sales to that country will substantially increase—that is self-evident. He envisions a large addition in machinery exports and some in cotton. But if no credits are granted he cannot see that the new pact will appreciably help trade. The erstwhile engineer in Russia points out that the present regime in Moscow, strongly supported by a fanatical army, looks safe for at least another 15 years. Furthermore, the Soviet has to date a good record in meeting what trade commitments come due with foreign countries. It remains to be seen, however, if Russia will be able eventually to repay all the loans, no matter how anxious she may be to do so. Repayment must largely be made in the raw materials which Russia will export and which have in the past been subject to severe fluctuations in the world market, fluctuations which threatened to wreck the five-year plan.

The American commentator might have added that the Soviet was itself responsible for the severe "fluctuation" in the price of wheat several years ago which almost ruined Canadian and American farmers, and that its cheap labor timber has done great harm to the North American product in the markets of Europe.

Saturday, from the letter, we quoted that they take in to their "Yukon home six cases of Pacific Milk at a time." Thanks again, Mrs. S. Thanks.

NELSON CITY POLICE HANDLE 94 CASES DURING THE YEAR

Receipt of Fines and Costs for the Year $1007 States Chief of Police Alex Stewart in Making Annual Report

A total of 94 cases were disposed of during the past year and the receipts of costs and fines imposed reached $1007, according to the second annual statement submitted by Chief of Police Alex Stewart to the city council and police commissioners.

Carelessness on the part of business men is shown again in that 251 doors of business premises were found open or insecurely fastened during the year.

The report includes the following:

Summary of cases:

Intoxication	26
Liquor act, infractions of other than intoxication	7
Assault	9
Driving to the common danger	11
Causing a disturbance	9
Theft	14
Theft of car	1
Passing street car	4
Infants act	1
Gross indecency	1
Insanity	5
Vagrancy	3
Stores by-law	4
Murder	1
Total	94

Twenty-three persons were committed to the provincial gaol, for terms of imprisonment ranging from 10 days to three months.

"Three persons were committed to the Oakalla prison farm, for a term of 15 months. A summary of such terms is as follows: Three persons for 15 months (Oakalla prison farm); five persons for one month; eight persons for 21 days; two persons for two months; 2 persons for 14 days; two persons for three months; two persons for seven days; three charges were dismissed; five persons received suspended sentences.

"Receipts of fines and costs for the year just ended were $992.50, with a balance left over to collect of $15, making a total of $1,007.50.

MEALS

"One hundred and nine meals were furnished to prisoners and destitutes in the city lockup during the year.

DESTITUTE TRANSIENTS

"A large number of destitute transients arrived in the city during the year, a number of whom made themselves obnoxious by asking for meals and money at the homes of the citizens, and begging for money on the streets; but since the unemployed camps were started, that kind of annoyance has almost ceased.

"We experienced serious trouble which started in the latter end of 1932, regarding the Communist party and continued on until January 17, 1933, when their leaders, Alexander Kinloch and James Campbell Corbett, were arrested and locked up. On January 19, Kinloch was committed for trial, and Corbett was sent to the county gaol at Nelson for the term of 14 days. Kinloch was tried later in the county court and was sentenced to 15 months, and I am very pleased to say, from that time on, we have had no trouble of that nature.

"During the year there was a large number of complaints of a minor character made to the department, each complaint was investigated and nearly all were settled to the satisfaction of the complainants without having to resort to police court proceedings.

DOORS FOUND OPEN

"Two hundred and fifty-one doors of business premises were found open or insecurely fastened during the year, in all cases the premises were made secure and the owner notified.

"Fifty-one reports of motor-vehicle accidents were received during the year, in which a number of persons received minor injuries.

"One motor car was stolen during the year, the three young men who stole the car were arrested while driving the car towards Trail, at Tadanac, by Corporal Johnson and the Tadanac police, the night the theft was committed. They were tried in the Nelson city police court, found guilty and sentenced to 15 months at Oakalla prison farm, and were conveyed there at the expense of the city.

HALLOWE'EN

"I am very pleased to say that Hallowe'en night passed off with very little damage to property. The damage was almost nil, and I can assure you that the people and the police of the city of Nelson appreciate the good behavior of the younger generation, although there was no entertainment. Compared with other years they behaved themselves wonderfully.

"One crime of a very serious nature was committed during the year. On July 17 Merton Coleman shot to death in the Plaza cafe Henraetta Ball, and then fired a bullet through his own head. Coleman was arrested and removed to the hospital, where he recovered sufficiently to be brought into the police court on August 16, 1933, committed for trial and taken over to the provincial gaol at Nelson. From there the said Coleman was escorted to Oakalla, where he died a short time after from the wound inflicted by himself.

"The thanks of the department is hereby tendered to Inspector MacDonald, Sergeant Barber of the provincial police and all other members of their department, Constable Brown of the C.P.R. police force, for their cooperation and assistance during the year just ended, and to the Daily News for publicity given in all matters pertaining to the department, which greatly assisted in many ways.

"We also wish to extend to the officers and members of the Canadian Legion our thanks and appreciation of the splendid support rendered to us on the occasion of the unemployed demonstration in this city on January 17, and this department feels that any time we are doing our best to enforce the laws of our country we shall always have that worthy body's assistance.

"In conclusion, we desire to thank his worship, Mayor Smythe, Commissioners Massey and Ritchie for their support and encouragement during the year."

THREE MILE RIDE TO MARYSVILLE

But Ashes Now Cover Streets in the Town

KIMBERLEY, Jan. 10—Coasting was a prime sport for the young people last week when the roads were icy. Every hill had its groups of enthusiastic coasters. Lower Blarchmont hill was the best, heavy bobs making the trip to Marysville without a break, a three mile ride. On Friday evening a big crowd was out.

Jackie Colvin went home with a broken wrist. His parents treated it for sprain but in the morning sent for the doctor who sent Jack to the hospital. An X-ray showed a clean break just above the wrist. He is home again and doing well.

Saturday morning the town sent men to put ashes on all the hills about town.

CITY RAILWAY HAS GOOD YEAR SAYS LINDSAY

Gives Annual Report of Street Railway to Council

URGES REPLACING OF TROLLEY WIRE

Debenture Is Payable Next Month He States

The past year of the street railway has been a satisfactory one, states Ald. J. B. Lindsay, chairman of the railway committee, in making his annual report to the city council, but declares that the trolley line should be replaced. The cars are in good shape and ties replaced where necessary, he adds.

The report reads:

"The operating record of the street railway department for 1933 is a satisfactory one. Very few breakdowns have occurred and when they did, they were promptly remedied. About the same number of passengers were carried as in 1932 and we have had no personal injuries. Financially the department has lived within its estimates.

"The street cars are in good shape, ties have been renewed where necessary and the only fly in our ointment is the trdley wire which is in bad shape and needs replacing. While some people are critical about this public utility, it has proved itself a boon to the outlying districts especially in the very bad weather we had in December.

"With the last debenture payable next month, the future of the street railway will have to be considered and no doubt the ratepayers will be called upon to decide.

"Further information is given in the electrical engineer's report.

"I have enjoyed the work in connection with the street railway department over which I have presided for the last three years and it affords me great pleasure to thank my committee and all the men in the department for the loyal and unswerving support they have given me during all this time."

Would Close the Government House

REGINA, Jan. 10 (CP).—For the duration of the period of economic difficulty for Saskatchewan, members of the Saskatchewan Women's Liberal association would have government house closed and services of a lieutenant-governor dispensed with.

A motion to this effect was passed at the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan Liberal association here.

Such duties as were essential to the office of lieutenant-governor might be performed by the chief justice of the appeal court of Saskatchewan, it was stated in the resolution. It was made clear the recommendation covered just the present period of financial depression, and was proposed because of the burden of debt the province is carrying; ruinously small prices secured from sale of agricultural products; and the series of crop failures in some areas that have made the matter of paying taxes a problem.

An application for a license to establish a commercial radio broadcasting station in Nelson, has been submitted to the Canadian Radio Commission at Ottawa by F. F. Becker, W. M. Brown and R. J. Meek, who are fostering the establishment of a station here.

The advantages of a station here is put forward under four subheadings as follows:

Cultural advantage—"It would be a great incentive to encourage musical talent, and other artistic endeavours, such as now lie dormant through the want of a channel of expression."

Better day-time reception— "Entirely surrounded by mountains it is practically impossible to receive any Canadian station during the day time."

Service to surrounding community and isolated mines and farms, etc.—"We think we could perform a great service in the disseminating of mining quotations and news for the benefit of mining camps, and a most invaluable service to the ranchers of the West Arm in the broadcasting of fruit and farm produce quotations.

Future possibilities—"There is always the possibility of new devices and improvements which would, in the future, allow the Canadian Broadcast chains to be promulgated by the Nelson radio station.

India, with a population of about 355,000,000, has only 87,000 telephones in use, or one to 6,300 of its people. About 250,000,000 persons have an annual income too small to pay for the rental of a telephone.

CHEMIST LOSES SUIT CONNECTED WITH SALE OF MINERAL PROPERTY

VANCOUVER, Jan. 10 (CP)—Expressing the opinion that the action "reeks with fraud," Mr. Justice Denis Murphy in supreme court at suit of Waverly Tangier Mines, limited, Vancouver, awarded judgment against William Hassard, chemist, New Westminster.

The plaintiff, said his lordship, was entitled to rescission of a contract, entered into on March 17, 1933, for the purchase of eight mineral claims in Quesnel district. Hassard was ordered to return $1700 paid by plaintiff and also a $300 promissory note, or its value. The judgment includes expenses, incurred by plaintiff, in having the property examined by an engineer. Defendant's counter-claim for rescission on the ground of failure of consideration was dismissed. Hassard was ordered to pay the costs of suit.

The mineral claims, known as the Gold Bond group, were recorded at Williams Lake.

His lordship stated he found that Hassard had made several untrue representations to plaintiff. One was that the mine was within 3500 feet of Cariboo Yankee Belle; another, that Hassard had examined the property and the ore ran $16 a ton; and a third, that defendant had done considerable work on the property and several large veins of ore were exposed. The statement had been made for the purpose of deceiving plaintiff, said the judge, and were either false to the knowledge of Hassard or were made by him recklessly.

Plaintiff alleged that it discovered on August 25 through its engineer that Hassard's representations were false.

WILLIAM RUTHERFORD IN DRUG BUSINESS OVER FIFTY YEARS

Ontario Graduate Was Athletic in His Younger Days

One of the grand old men of active pharmacy in this province is William Rutherford of Mann-Rutherford Drug company of Nelson, B.C.

(Mr. Rutherford's family agree that "grand" and "man" are correct but say "old" should be eliminated.)

However, Mr. Rutherford considers himself one of the boys, and is willing to take on a younger man at many of his hobbies. Mr. Rutherford states it is just 50 years last December since he graduated from the Ontario College of Pharmacy, and 55 years since he entered the drug business. He was never a specially husky built lad, but he always took prominent part in athletics. He rowed with the Peterboro Boat club, canoed, played football, and joined in other field sports.

After he came to Nelson Mr. Rutherford's home was about two miles up the lake from the city, and during the first few years he did considerable rowing, in addition to the drug business he also found time for considerable work in his orchard, and more recently has taken up golf, all of which, he claims, accounts for the feeling of fitness he enjoys today.

When Mr. Rutherford's first grandchild was born 14 years ago, he determined to keep young for her, and started morning setting up exercises, and while not wishing to "brag," he feels as good a man as he was when he graduated.

It was on August 5, 1878, that William Rutherford was apprenticed to the drug business in Peterboro, Ont., and not only is he still actively engaged in it, but he retains his early enthusiasm for his chosen profession.

Mr. Rutherford is proud of the apprentices who have passed through his store, and likes to boast that of the scores of boys he has moulded in both Ontario and British Columbia, not one has ever failed to pass his examinations with flying colors. One of his early errand boys is now a grandfather, and another has just closed a career as a bishop in China. Of the many radical changes which he has noted in all these years in the drug business, Mr. Rutherford states the most outstanding one is the ever-mounting costs of overhead with the necessary accompanying increase in business volume.

The photograph reproduced on this page was taken this summer and shows Mr. Rutherford to be as young looking a man as he feels. from the Western Pharmaceutical Review.

FINANCIAL LIST HAS STRENGTH

Gains From One to Five on Wall Street Market List

By JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—With the exception of U.S. government loans, which still dragged, financial markets moved higher today accompanied in some instances by greater activity.

Stocks and corporate bonds reacted favorably to encouraging business statistics and to word from Washington the administration favored establishment of sinking funds by railroads and utilities. Shares closed with many net gains of 1 to 5 points. Motor, utility, rail and farm belt equities found particular favor. One of Wall street's deductions from the sinking fund views attributed to the president was that regulatory agencies would be encouraged to adopt a rather liberal attitude toward rates, at least to the extent that sufficient returns to allow coverage of interest be assured.

STEELS BETTER

The business picture was brightened by mid-week statistics on steel output which is being sustained by inventory replenishment; and on freight loadings running well above a year ago.

Leading gainers in stocks included American Telephone, up more than 4 net; Case, up 5; U.S. Steel preferred, Chrysler, Johns-Manville, Harvester, Western Union, Procter & Gamble, and Continental Can, which ranged about 2 to 3 higher at the close. Case jumped 5. U.S. Steel common, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Ingersoll Rand, New York Central, Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, North American, Westinghouse and American Can improved 1 to nearly 2. Sales totalled 1,431,370 shares.

SENIOR GOLDS OFF EGGS DECLINE

WALKER HEADS CHICAGO CUBS

Strengthened Team Out to Secure the Title

CHICAGO, Jan. 10 (AP)—William Murphy Walker, one of the fire hands in the old Federal league baseball war, ascended the Cub baseball throne as William the Third today.

The third in an unbroken line of Williams to take over the official reins of the team—William Wrigley Jr. and William L. Veeck, proceed him—Walker was elevated to the presidency of the club today by unanimous vote of the principal stockholders. His election officially filled the office he has conducted since the sudden death of President Veeck last October.

Walker, a heavy set, genial person, who made money in the fish and oyster business and who brought a Federal league team to Chicago's Northside in the big baseball war back in 1914, immediately brandished a warning to the baseball world that the Cubs, reinforced with new strength, were out to wage a relentless campaign to bring the championship to Chicago.

INDIAN BOWLER FOOLS BRITISH

BANARES, India, Jan. 10 (CP cable)—A crack Indian bowler at the peak of his game played havoc with English wickets today when a touring M.C.C. eleven opened a three-day cricket match with the Vizianagram's eleven.

Mohamed Nissar took five wickets for only 38 runs when England came to bat. He was mainly responsible for keeping the English score to 79 runs for six wickets at the close of play.

The Vizianagram's eleven had scored 124 runs.

FIELD TO USE DON'S RACER

Will Make Trial Speed Runs in Lancashire

LONDON, Jan. 10 (AP)—Kaye Don, automobile and motorboat speed driver, today said his racing car, the Silver Bullet, in which he set world speed records at Daytona Beach, Fla., had been loaned to Jack Field for trial runs at Southport, Lancashire.

Don said he had no intention at this time of taking the car to Daytona Beach for an attempt on the world speed mark for 272.108 miles an hour set at Daytona last February by Sir Malcolm Campbell.

"BUCKY" HARRIS SAYS SENATORS TEAM "TO BEAT"

BOSTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—Stanley (Bucky) Harris, new manager of the rebuilt Boston Red Sox, hastened here from his Washington home today to spread the alarm that his charges must beat the Senators to gain the American league pennant.

"Washington is still the club to beat," he reported to General Manager Eddie Collins before they went into their huddle over spring training.

Skate Titles at Stake Feb. 12-13

MONTREAL, Jan. 10 (AP)—Official sanction for holding the Canadian invitation indoor speed skating championships at Saint John, N.B., on February 12 and 13 was given by officials of the Amateur Skating association to the New Brunswick Skating association today.

ART SOMERS ABOUT AGAIN

Ranger Forward Is Convalescing; Jaw Broken

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (CP)—Art Somers, peppery, black-thatched forward of New York Rangers of the National Hockey league, is now able to leave the hospital for short walks, following many weeks confinement.

Somers, who suffered a fractured jaw in a collision with a Toronto player early in the season, left the Polyclinic hospital for the first time last night. Surgeons have removed the drain and wire from his jaw.

Somers saw part of last night's game between Detroit and Rangers and thoroughly enjoyed a verbal tiff with the Wing players on the bench.

Many Enjoy Hoop Games at Nakusp

NAKUSP, B. C., Jan. 10.—The spacious Legion hall which has opened the way for many forms of sport and has proved a boon to the people of this community was once again the rendezvous of about 200 people to witness three basketball games on Friday night. The junior girls played the first game and resulted in a score for the Reds of 1 and the Blues 3.

The second game was very close all through, between the Legionnaires and the K. P's. At half-time the score was 4-4, at full time 14-14. An extra 10 minutes was played to decide the winners, the K. P's. being the victors with a score of 20-16.

The third game was Brouse vs. Trojans, whose score at half-time was 9-17 and finished with 19-35 in favor of the Trojans.

TENNIS STAR LIKES HOCKEY

"What a Game" Is Comment of Sid Wood Jr.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—"Wait until I tell the folks back home about this. What a game! Yes tennis can't even compare with it."

These were a few of the exclamations of Sidney B. Wood, Jr., amateur tennis star, after he had seen his first hockey match.

Wood Jr. went to Madison Square Garden last night to see New York Rangers and Detroit Redwings battle for the points in a National Hockey league match. Besides being pop-eyed, Mister Wood was speechless until noon.

"Yes," he said, "it sure is a fast and exciting game. Where have you been keeping it all these years? Of course tennis might be better than it is if they let the boys pick their own Davis cup captain and trainer, but as it is now I'll take hockey for mine. Why there's no comparison."

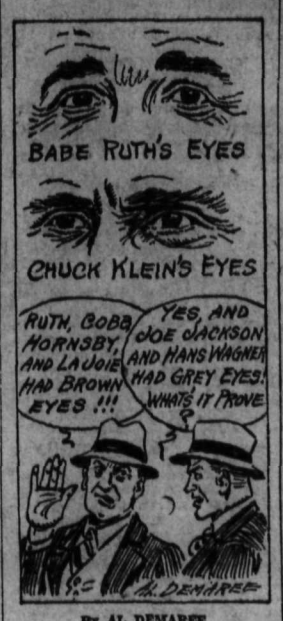
Which Eyes Better Brown or Blue?



By AL DEMAREE

Whether brown or blue or grey eyes are the superior batting eyes has often brought up arguments in hotel lobbies and pullman cars among ball players. The bowneyed adherents usually had the better of the debate by pointing out Babe Ruth, Larry LaJoie, Ty Cobb and Chuck Klein as proof enough. The fellow who championed the grey and blue eyes had Hans Wagner, Joe Jackson and Ed Delehanty, however to back up their opinion.

The late George (Miracle Sam) Stallings never wanted a brown-eyed player on his club, however, although he himself had brown eyes. Whenever a scout recommended a player, Stallings' first inquiry would be about the color of his eyes.

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

Jan. 11, 1924—Judge Landis' stand on drafts stirred the minor leagues. Agreement termed "scrap of paper."

Eddie Roush, the perennial "hold-out" is expecting to hold out again before he signs with Reds.

MEATS ADVANCE WHOLESALE MART

Smoked Meats and Pork Are Up a Cent

All smoked meats and pork cuts advanced a cent on the local wholesale market during the past week. Meat sales, now that the holiday season is at an end, are showing a tendency to ease off.

A car of sugar and one of mixed groceries arrived this week for the wholesale grocers. The grocery business is fair, the sales being on a par with last year. Flour and feed prices are unchanged and car arrivals included one flour and feed.

CHICAGO FIRMS

CHICAGO, Jan. 10 (AP)—Belief official figures on domestic farm reserve holding would show a big decrease sent wheat prices into higher ground today.

A government report said the decrease compared with a year ago amounted to 8,486,000 bushels. Popular guesses in advance were that the falling-off would be around 100,000,000.

Wheat closed firm, slightly under the day's top, 1⅛-1¼ above yesterday's finish, corn ⅝-¾ up, oats ⅛-¼ advanced, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to a rise of 7 cents.

Broadened speculative buying was a conspicuous feature of wheat trading, coupled with fears a second cold wave in Europe would catch crops with a minimum of snow protection.

UTILITIES UP

MONTREAL, Jan. 10 (CP)—Heavy gains of yesterday were accentuated as the advance was continued on the Montreal stock exchange today. The recovery from the late doldrums was attributed to encouraging indications from trade and industry.

Utilities led the movement. Building products gained 1¼ to 17¾, B.C. Power 1½ at 25¾, Cockshutt Plow 1 at 9¾ and Hamilton Bridge 2½ at 8.

Among former market leaders International Nickel gained 20 cents at 21.80, Montreal Power 1¾ to 36 and National Breweries 1 at 25. Canada Cement preferred jumped 4 points to 39.

Sales 87,114, bonds $17,600.

ORE RECEIPTS OF 1933 SHOW UPWARD TURN

Smelter Accepts a Tonnage Total of 348,045

ABOUT 20,000 OVER YEAR AGO

83 Custom Mines Boost Custom Tonnage

With less than 2,000 tons more, the receipts of ore and concentrates at the smelter of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company of Canada at Trail for 1933 would have reached the 350,000-ton mark, compilation arrived at from the 48 statements issued during the years, including that just received for the last 10 days of the year, shows. The actual figure, 348,045 tons, exceeded that for 1932, which was 328,206 tons, by 19,739 tons. The final 10 days' receipts amounted to 7,458 tons, of which 845 was of custom origin, and 6,613 was produced by the Consolidated's own operations at Kimberley. All figures here given are a straight compilation, without any correction for moisture.

Custom tonnage, with the aid of that of the final 10 days from nine shippers made the remarkable total of 28,561 for the year, compared with 22,031 for 1932, and around 7,000 for 1931.

Ore and concentrates from the company's own operations came to 320,484 tons, a substantial gain over the 306,175 tons derived in 1932, and marking the upward turn.

In the case of the custom ore, one new shipper appeared in the year's final statement, the Molly Gibson at Paulsen, which was credited with 34 tons of ore. It brought the year's list of custom shippers to 83, and the list from the Boundary to 15. In 1932 the custom shippers numbered 67.

By districts, origin of the 28,561 tons of custom ore or equivalent concentrates was as follows:

CHICAGO MILK WAR SUDDENLY COMES TO END

Truce Signed When Government Gets Hand in Pie

STATE OF CIVIL WAR PREVAILED

Trucks and Dairies Wrecked and Nine Trains Stopped

CHICAGO, Jan. 10 (AP).—The Chicago milk strike was ended today as the United States government moved toward stern intervention against interference with interstate shipments and with the United States mails.

Settlement of the strike was in the form of a truce signed by representatives of the farmers, the big Chicago dairies, and even the independent dairies which in the past have refused to guarantee any minimum price to producers.

Under terms of the truce, a mediation board of three members, one from the distributors, one from the farmers, and a third to be selected by the first two, will be named to agree on a fair price to be paid farmers.

The settlement came as violence and sabotage in Chicago and the territory for 100 miles around reached the point of virtual civil war. Thousands of gallons of milk had been spilled on highways, trucks and dairies wrecked and nine trains stopped and searched for milk. Dairymen were slugged.

When the embargo ended there was not a drop of milk for sale in Chicago stores, even families with small children could obtain none, and deliveries to hospitals and institutions were threatened.

Wheat Advances

WINNIPEG, Jan. 10 (CP)—Led to higher ground by strength at Chicago and a moderate export trade out of Vancouver, wheat prices scored a net advance of ¾ cents on the Winnipeg grain exchange today.

Light pit offerings were also a contributing factor to the strength. May wheat closed at 66⅝ and July at 67⅝ cents.

Export sales were placed at close to 500,000 bushels. Most of the movement being worked from the Pacific coast. Upturn at Chicago was attributed to strength in stocks, but there was evidence also of growing bullish sentiment in the southern pit according to market observers.

Cables from England confirmed sales of Canadian wheat. Liverpool quotations had a narrow range and closed steady unchanged to ⅛d lower.

Spread on top grades of cash grains were fractionally better. Coarse grain prices were steady in sympathy with wheat and closed with small gains.

even so will leave her a cruiser short at the expiration of the London naval treaty in 1936, in addition to 14 of her cruisers being overage. Similarly official circles in Ottawa have stated the four destroyers and three minesweepers constituting the Canadian navy will not be added to.

ITS POLICY

Australia's naval policy has for its object a squadron of four effective cruisers in full commission with requisite aircraft (tonnage and armament of the cruisers not finally determined); one destroyer flotilla leader and four destroyers; sloops and surveying vessels for essential peace-time services and for use as minesweepers in time of war; necessary bases, equipment, fuel and trained personnel to maintain the efficiency and mobility of the squadron.

At present, however, Australia's naval strength consists of two 10,000-ton cruisers armed with eight-inch guns, one destroyer leader and two destroyers, and one surveying sloop, these in commission, laid up in reserve two 5000-ton cruisers (one overage), one seaplane carrier, one destroyer leader and seven destroyers.

Australia's naval building program could only be one of replacement.

LEAFS SEEKING PUCK INQUIRY

Is Shore Guilty or Not Guilty? Who Stands Losses?

TORONTO, Jan. 10 (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs Hockey club of the National Hockey league tonight forwarded a letter to the N.H.L. board of governors containing the club's reasons for requesting a special meeting of the board of governors to probe further into the Bailey-Shore episode during a Maple Leaf-Boston Bruins game in the United States city. "Ace" Bailey at present is in a Boston hospital recovering from injuries which resulted in the suspension of Eddie Shore, Bruins defence star.

In a letter to the board of governors asking for the special meeting of the Maple Leaf club officials say "that a principle is involved and that a precedent is about to be established—shall a hockey club victimized because of an 'illegal action' of a member of an opposing club, be compelled to bear the full burden of the financial loss involved?"

"From our point of view," the letter states, "Shore was either 'guilty' or 'not guilty' of the illegal action.

If he was guilty then we consider his suspension entirely inadequate and that this corporation suffers a greater penalty, though entirely blameless, than Boston Professional Hockey association whose servant Shore is and who, in our opinion, should be held jointly responsible for the effects of any 'illegal action' with their employee."

BRIDGE PARTIES AT KIMBERLEY

KIMBERLEY, Jan. 10—Mrs. D. Morrison gave an enjoyable supper bridge Wednesday. Guests were Mrs. Cockburn, Mrs. D. Smith, Mrs. McKinnon, Mrs. C. Morrison, Mrs. Livingstone, Mrs. J. Morrison, Mrs. H. The first whist drive of the new year was held Saturday by the Moose Order. The strong counter attraction of the Kimberley-Nelson hockey game, pulled the attendance down sharply. Six tables were in play and the winners were Mrs. J. Pearson, ladies' first; Mrs. C. Hagen, consolation; F. Wooley, men's first; A. Trinder, men's consolation.

Mrs. Larbalaster, who has been visiting her daughter Miss Beatrice Labalaster for the holidays, has returned to the coast.

Mrs. A. Mackie, with her daughter Shirley, returned home from Trail where they had been visiting Mrs. Mackie's parents, on Saturday. Miss Doris Holfer came with them to visit here.

High Tides Offer Further Threats Up the Fraser

VANCOUVER, Jan. 10 (CP) — Warning has been given by City Engineer Charles Brakenridge that there is danger of a repetition of Fraser river tidal floods which last month topped dykes in low lands in two outlying parts of Vancouver.

Mr. Brakenridge declared high tides are predicted for the week starting January 14 and that if stormy weather occurs at that time, there is a danger of further inundation.

"It is impossible to do anything before then to prevent a flood," he added.

Brisker Trade Last Christmas

TORONTO, Jan. 10 (CP)—Brisker Christmas trade, confirmed in reports from bank branches throughout Canada, is the latest item in the list of the country's business bright spots. Ontario points generally recorded improvement over the Yuletide trade of a year ago and most other points were sympathetic, though some western centers were not so enthusiastic.

Western Canada was not fully in agreement. Calgary merchants said last month's business "compared favorably with that of a year ago" but Edmonton expressed some disappointment, blaming cold weather and poor roads for lack of Christmas demand.

a teaspoon of water to get a poison effect."

Dr. White said he had ordered bichloride of mercury tablets for the Turner avenue shelter to be used for disinfecting diapers when children had rash. He was not sure what strength tablets were delivered, but he said he used one-eighth grain tablets in his own private cases. A tablet was dissolved in a half gallon of water for disinfecting purposes.

It was "perfectly justifiable," he declared, to use a bichloride bath "because the solution is so weak and there is no danger." He said it was quite possible he had ordered such baths for impetigo cases at Turner road shelter.

Dr. White's testimony came late in the day after numerous witnesses had declared they believed Misses Magdalene and Catherine Strang had always treated shelter children kindly, were considerate matrons and kept the ward happy.

The matrons were charged by former employees with being cruel to children and with mistreating them.

"I thought discipline very good at the shelter," he said. "I did not think it more severe than army discipline or school discipline or any other discipline."

muster the necessary 33 votes to defeat the treaty.

Points in Mr. Roosevelt's message were:

"I call your attention to the simple fact that Canada alone can, if desired, build locks at the Lachine rapids and at the international sector and thus provide a seaway wholly within Canadian control."

SHOULD COOPERATE

"I want to make it very clear that this great international highway for shipping is without question going to be completed in the near future and that this completion should be carried out by both nations instead of one."

The president further said commerce and transportation will be greatly benefited and that local fears of economic harm to special localities or to special interests are grosaly exaggerated.

He was convinced the building of the seaway would not injure the railroads, nor interfere with the proper use of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers for navigation. He was satisfied the treaty contained adequate provision for the needs of the Chicago drainage district.

GREAT POWER CHANCE

With respect to power, he had already advocated three great power areas in the United States—the Tenessee valley plants in the southeast, the Boulder dam in the southwest, the Columbia river project in the northwest.

Senator Joseph Robinson, leader of the Democratic forces for ratification, told the Associated Press the question would be brought before the senate as soon as the administration was ready, which will be when certain propositions Mr. Roosevelt has to make have been printed and distributed.

It may also be said the administration is satisfied to the point of emphasis that the treaty makes ample provision for the needs of the Chicago drainage canal, even going so far as to hold the water of the Great lake watershed in the mutual property of Canada and the United States and abstraction cannot be made in justice without a treaty.

This attitude is directly at variance with opponents of the treaty who, seeking to unite the opposition of Chicago with that of the New England states and the south, adopt Senator Wagner's view that "Canada has received another concession in the permanent internationalization of Lake Michigan which lies entirely within American territory."

BILL TILDEN TRIMS VINES

The scores were 8-6, 8-3, 6-2.

Several hundred young men heard the prime minister sketch man's development of money as a medium of exchange. He pointed out that Canada's young men are the trustees of posterity and, as their minds are directed so will be the nation of tomorrow.

CONFIDENCE

"Remember that the essence of paper money is confidence, otherwise the transactions become barter," Mr. Bennett said. "When money is at a discount it means confidence in that money has been lowered.

"As Sir Josiah Stamp said, 'Confidence is a flower of tender growth.' Man demands something material behind that confidence and that something is done by law, which provides a backing of gold, silver, or copper."

Mr. Bennett explained how Canada holds security in gold for a percentage of the notes issue. It has been suggested, he said, that the present percentage of security might be lowered and there is reason to believe this might be safe. Issue of such currency in Canada will be the duty of the central bank when it is established.

Referring to "those who say why not keep the printing presses turning out money," Mr. Bennett declared there is plenty of warning against this in the experience of mankind. The export trade is a prime consideration as a country must have stable money in order to deal with foreign nations.

National Prayer Week at Cranbrook

CRANBROOK, B. C., Jan. 10—The national week of prayer is being observed this week in Cranbrook churches, the service on Tuesday evening being in the Presbyterian church, on Wednesday evening in the United church, on Thursday evening in the Baptist church and Friday evening concluding in the Anglican church. The pastors of the various churches will conduct services with the exception of Thursday evening when the speaker will be Rev. John Coburn, D.D., of Toronto, one of the social secretaries of the United church, who will speak on the liquor question.

Misses Helen and Peggy Spruell were hostesses to their friends on Friday at a jolly house dance when 45 of Cranbrook's younger dancers enjoyed excellent music provided by Roy Linnel, with Mrs. Peckenpaugh at the piano. Novelty dances added to the general gayety.

Miss Wanda Fink entertained at luncheon and bridge Friday when prizes were won by Miss Jean Flett and Miss Marion Miles. The guests were Miss Marion Flett, Miss Jean Flett, Miss Dorothy McKowan, Miss Aubrey McKowan, Miss Marion Miles, Miss Ivy Dezall, Miss Kathleen Dezall, Miss Doris Edwards, Miss Woodland, Miss Muriel Baxter, Miss Alma MacKey, Mrs. W. W. Bride and Mrs. J. M. Argue.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. McKowan and Eleanor McKowan were Creston visitors over the week-end.

Miss Beulah Hill, who was a visitor in Trail for a few days over the New Year, has returned home.

strict of Vienna was darkened by the wrecking of an electric transformer.

POLITICAL FEELING

The spread of German Nazi-ism to Austria, rigidly opposed by Chancellor Dollfuss and his chief military backing, the Austrian heimwehr, was at the bottom of the trouble. But tonight's distrubances involved also bitter political feeling over the heimwehr's determination to oust socialists as well as Nazis from the country.

The two fatalities were the result of a Nazi raid on a Klagenfurt newspaper. Thirty members of a voluntary labor corps, recently denounced as having Nazi sympathies, invaded the office of the pro-government publication.

A home guardsman attempted to interfere and was tossed over a nearby fence, while the attackers threw a noise bomb into the print shop. The guard opened first, killing one Nazi, fatally injuring another and slightly injured a third.

At one labor camp in Burgenland 144 Nazis broke out and escaped into Hungary, presumably, authorities said, with intentions of going to Germany later. They were being held by authorities in Hungary.

About the same time in Villach, near Klagenfurt, a similar crowd paraded with a Nazi banner and defied police, who finally sourrounded them and arrested 30.

French Increase Russian Exports

Commercial Agreement Ready for Signature in Paris

PARIS, Jan. 10 (AP). — Soviet Russia agreed to buy $17,000,000 worth of French products within the next year in a commercial agreement which was prepared for signature today.

In exchange France is to grant Russia credit and a minimum tariff on Russian products not competing with the French. In case competition threatens, the French will be free to impose quotas on such products.

France's exports to Russia are increased five-fold by the agreement as she exported less than $3,300,000 worth of products to Russia in 1933.

The two countries also agreed under the terms of the pact to exchange commercial attaches.

Debts contracted under czarist regime were not mentioned in the agreement.

MORE ABOUT FLIERS

first plane rose from the water of San Francisco bay. At 2:29 p.m. they passed Point Lobos, westernmost point of land here, and roared seaward. At 5 p.m. they were 194 miles from the Golden Gate.

Although they were officially performing routine duty, the six officers and 24 men aboard the big ship actually were starting the longest overseas mass flight ever attempted — an undertaking described by aviators as something more difficult than the mass flight of General Italo Balbo's Italian planes across the north Atlantic.

The goal of the flyers is but a pin point on the map of the Pacific and any slight miscalculation would send them wide of their mark. However, a half dozen navy ships, stationed 300 miles apart along the course, stood by ready to speed to the aid of any plane in distress.

An inventor in France has designed equipment to enable man to swim like a fish.
