The Throne Speech May Indicate Tax Redistribution in Dominion

NO LIKELIHOOD OF TAXES BEING CUT THIS YEAR

Dunning Not Able to Balance Budget This Term

DEPARTMENTS TO BE CONSOLIDATED

Unemployment Body Appointment First on the Agenda

OTTAWA, Feb. 5 (CP)—Finance, constitutional reform, social legislation and measures to deal with unemployment problems are expected to feature the government's sessional program to be presented in the speech from the throne which Lord Tweedsmuir will read at tomorrow's opening of parliament.

Reform of the election laws has also been under consideration but since there is unlikely to be an occasion for using this machinery for several years there will be no pressing need of action at the forthcoming session.

With a gross current year deficit on all accounts of probably more than $125,000,000, Finance Minister Dunning will not hope to be in a position to attempt a balanced budget in the first year but it is known his intention is to bring about this condition in as short a time as possible and all departments have been so advised. No tax reductions are anticipated

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Feb. 5 (CP)—Thurlow township farmers played with death during a terrific windstorm yesterday. When a falling tree smashed down a high-tension wire on the fourth concession of Thurlow, near here, a group of farmers neatly rolled up two bare live wires that carried 4000 volts each.

He bagged two cougars. One was a full-grown female, eight feet long and 150 pounds in weight, and a seven-months-old cub, four feet long and 40 pounds in weight.

Both animals, he said, were shot and killed with one arrow each.

"It was easy, once the cougars were treed," he said.

DOCK MOVED BY HUGE ICE JAM

Cottages Crumbled on U. S. Shore of the Niagara

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Feb. 5 (CP)—A seething ice jam in the lower Niagara river today crumbled a warehouse ticket office and crunched cottages on the United States shore to matchwood, arousing fears of rivermen that the worst jam since 1860, might occur.

The great cakes of ice, jostling and grinding against one another, kept up a continuous roar. Last night the field moved its position 100 feet and the Queenston, Ont., dock of the Canada Steamship line shifted from its foundation.

Little likelihood of the jam soon breaking up appeared. Colder weather is forecast and heavy floes of ice, moving down from the upper river added to the tremendous pressure.

LETTER RECEIVED TWO YEARS AFTER JULIAN COMMITTED SUICIDE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 5 (CP)—A letter offering to give himself up was received today from the late C. C. Julian, Oklahoma and California oil promoter—two years after he committed suicide in Shanghai, China.

The letter, mailed to an Oklahoma City newspaper from Vancouver, B.C., was written in February, 1933. Julian, then bankrupt, had fled to Canada while under $25,000 bond on mail fraud charges. He was a native of Morris, Man.

BUSINESS LEADERS OF CANADA MUST FACE THE FACTS—Beatty

SIR EDWARD BEATTY

Hits at the Jealousies Among Groups of Business Men

TORONTO, Feb. 5 (CP). — Sir Edward Beatty, chairman of the Canadian Pacific railway, told a luncheon meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce today that experience would prove governmental planning of business had not been generally successful.

"I might mention certain railway conditions in this country," said Sir Edward. "I might mention certain important experiments now coming to their end in the country to the south of us."

While he admitted Canada's problems had to a minor extent been created by the errors of private enterprise, he had no hesitation whatever in asserting that "the agitation raised in this country from time to time against transportation monopolies in private hands had been a powerful fact in providing this country with thousands of miles of unnecessary railways."

Sir Edward charged that Canadian business men had failed to express their honest and conscientious objections to "acts and condi-

LEAD AND ZINC PRICES TO RISE

Such Is Belief in the Mining Channels in Province

VICTORIA, Feb. 5 (CP). — Strength in base metal markets of the world, with encouraging price tendencies in London were being noted by British Columbia mining concerns this week, Dr. J. F. Walker, provincial mineralogist, commented on a recent advance in lead, which if perpetuated, will mean a substantial benefit to base metal operations in the province.

From extreme low prices in 1932 base metals have all recovered materially. Lead is being quoted currently at about 3.6 cents per pound in Canadian terms, with prospects of continuing its present advance of half a cent per pound.

Zinc, Dr. Walker said, is following lead to firmer prices, affecting another large portion of the B.C. mining industry. Last year lead production in the province came second in value, exceeded only by gold; the aggregate value of lead being $10,000,000 and gold $14,000,000. An advance of even half a cent per pound on the large output handled in this province will materially benefit the industry.

42 Below Zero Is Felt in Winnipeg

Cold Wave Will Continue Says Weatherman; Brandon Man Drops Dead

WINNIPEG, Feb. 5 (CP)—It was cold on Canada's prairies tonight, bitterly cold. And as the west counted one dead as the result of the extreme subzero weather, the weatherman said it was going to stay cold, at leeast for another 24 hours.

James Skeoch, 55, dropped dead on a Brandon street today, and Dr. A. T. Condell, coroner of the wheat city 140 miles west of Winnipeg, said increased tension on the heart caused by the 46-below-zero weather was probably the immediate cause of death.

Clear and decidedly cold was the forecast for the west. The official temperature dropped to a minimum of 42 below zero here today.

Germany Asks the Swiss to Probe Gustloff Murder

BERLIN, Feb. 5 (AP).—The German government acted to forestall anti-semitic riots tonight after demanding that the Swiss government "discover and prosecute those behind the murder" of Wilhelm Gustloff, Nazi leader in Switzerland.

MERCURY NEAR THE ZERO MARK

A steady snow fall Wednesday afternoon took some of the sting out of the past week's extreme cold weather at Nelson, but not before a new low for the winter was reached. Early Wednesday morning during a cold raw blow, the mercury slipped to one degree above zero, and failed to climb higher than 16 degrees above during the day. Two inches of snow fell up to 5 p.m.

STRIKERS SHUT A WHOLE CITY

Only Drug Stores Are Left Open in Pekin, Illinois

PEKIN, Ill. Feb. 5 (AP)—Union labor, united in a general strike, took complete command tonight of this paralyzed city of 17,000 persons.

Authority bowed as strike chiefs completed seige on all business activity by enforcing a general shutdown of all stores and shops save the prescription counters of pharmacies.

What few enterprises continued, operated under "permits" issued by the trades and labor assembly—the body which called 31 affiliated crafts embracing 1500 members out in the "workers' holiday" yesterday. Among the "permitted" necessities were delivery of milk and restricted delivery of fuel.

Streets were deserted. But few pickets were abroad in the biting cold and these outnumbered officers more than ten to one.

Tension tightened hourly after the ultimatum of the strikers—for shop owners to close or get their windows smashed—found 100 per cent compliance.

Sheriff Ralph Goar issued a request for national guard aid.

Three Vessels Lost on Pacific

TOKYO, Feb. 5 (AP)—Three vessels were missing in storm-tossed waters off Japan tonight and the interior suffered from effects of the worst blizzard in 20 years.

A considerable earthquake shock was felt this afternoon in the city of Koyoto, but no loss of life had been reported.

The Unnan Maru, a freighter of 200 tons, sent out an SOS this morning saying she was waterlogged and sinking. Her crew of 45 was feared lost as two steamers who fought their way to the Unnan's position found no trace of her.

The small whaler Fukushima Maru reported she was in distress off the east coast and no word had been received since yesterday of the fishing boat Deshina Maru, reported in distress then.

The American steamer Eglantine, bound from Galveston to Yokohama, was standing by hoping to aid the Deshina Maru.

The trapper, tightly gripping the rail of the dock, swayed as Judge H. V. Bigelow pronounced the death verdict after the judy had returned its verdict of guilty.

ROME, Feb. 5 (AP).—Pope Pius has already spoken and acted in the "great threat" confronting Europe, the Vatican City newspaper Osservatore Romano said tonight.

The editorial, issued on the eve of the pontiff's celebration tomorrow of the fourteenth anniversary of his election, was interpreted as answering any possible reproach that his holiness has not stopped the Italo-Ethiopian war.

At the same time a war communique by the Italian government said the southern army had begun another advance along the Webbe Gestro and routed an Ethiopian garrison.

Temperature Reaches 48 Below at Warroad in Minnesota

By the Canadian Press

As frost crackled across the country from Alberta's foothills to the lower St. Lawrence yesterday, Canada was advised officially that today will be "very cold" in some sectors and "decidedly cold" in others. The season's bitterest weather seemed due for a longer stay.

Ontario, piled high with snow, dug itself from isolation in rural territories only to have fresh blizzards make the drifts higher than ever. Scores of rural schools were closed yesterday and a big percentage of the country population was unable to get to town.

ROADS BLOCKED

While it was merely cold on the prairies—so cold it hurt all across Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba—in Ontario it was blustery. Roads were filled in with snow.

STATEMENTS OF ACCUSED GO INTO EVIDENCE IN RAVINE SLAYING CASE

TORONTO, Feb. 5 (CP).—Crown forces in the murder trial of Harry O'Donnell gained a victory today in securing the admission of statements the slim filling station attendant made to police after his detention for the ravine killing of 20-year-old Ruth Taylor last November.

After hearing testimony and argument for five hours, with the jury locked out of the courtroom, Mr. Justice Nicol Jeffery ruled finally that the statements might go before the jurors. They were brought into the evidence soon after. As recited from typewritten transcripts, the statements quoted O'Donnell as saying he was not guilty of the ravishing and killing of the brunette stenographer the night of last November 4. After having a few beers, he said, he had walked directly home from a beverage room and had then gone to bed.

His route home took him past the dark east end ravine where the girl's body was found with its skull crushed in next day. But he was represented as saying to the police that, though he had passed the gully at almost the same time the girl had disembarked from a tramcar near it, he had gone by on the other side of the street.

The clothing O'Donnell wore that night was taken out of protective wrappings in court. Detective Sergeant James McIlrath, on the stand most of the day, pointed out what he said were "reddish stains" on the trousers and hat.

Three Threatened Strikes Disposed of in the U. S.; Dressmakers Are Still Holdouts

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—With three strikes or threatened strikes disposed of, New York's garment district centred its attention tonight on the stalemate between 105,000 dressmakers and their employers.

The situation promised to reach a crisis Friday afternoon, after three months of wrangling, when a strike vote will be taken in Madison Square garden.

The dressmakers already have authorized union leaders to call the strike, which would affect 3800 shops in New York, New Jersey Connecticut and Pennsylvania.

A two-year truce was arranged also in the fur workers industry, which had been threatened with a walkout of 12,000 employees. union leaders said they won a 10 per cent wage increase and other benefits.

At the same time, 15,000 striking millinery workers conducted a final demonstration and prepared to start returning to their jobs tomorrow, following settlement of differences that had tied up 800 shops since yesterday.

A blanket wage increase of $2 a week was partly responsible for staving off the building service strike.

Beatty's Speech

tions which they knew would inevitably bring evil economic consequences." He urged observance of the old adage: "If each before his own door sweeps, the village will be clean."

Men attracted from farms to cities by high wages offered them by business institutions, and then abandoned to unemployment through no fault of their own, and a legitimate criticism to make of the skill with which private business had conducted its affairs.

"Let me say, for the sake of clarity," said Sir Edward, "that I include among those who have made mistakes, myself and all my closest associates."

He declared his faith in the fact that the people of Canada "are not in favor as yet of alteration in our social and economic system." An attempt to refute the logical fallacies of Socialism was not the product of fear. No alternative system of economic relationships has as yet been tried on a large enough scale, or over a long enough period.

Following are some pointed paragraphs from Sir Edward's speech:

He charged that Canadian business men had failed to express their honest and conscientious objections to acts and conditions which they knew would inevitably bring evil economic consequences, and urged upon them the force of the old adage, "If each before his own door sweeps, the village will be clean."

"The business leaders of this country must face facts."

For a business man, living in comfort ,even if his dividends and profits had shrunk to nothing, to tell men who do not know where to obtain their next meal, except from public or private charity, that this is all inevitable, was wrong.

It was the duty of business men to examine their own record and to try to improve the skill with which they conduct their affairs.

Sir Edward, while admitting that the present economic system seemed to distribute wealth clumsily, discounted charges by Socialists that the individual possession of great wealth was harmful to the people at large, and expressed the opinion that the greater the number of people possessing great wealth, the greater the amount of wealth available for other people to use.

Critics of capitalism when speaking of money power were really referring to the economic power which great corporations were supposed to acquire. "All that I can say is," he said, "that I believe it better for a nation that this power should be exercised by men intelligently endeavoring to add to the world's wealth, than by men seeking to take advantage of passing waves of public passion, or by doctrinairies who believe that the reading of books will show how men can be made wealthier and happier."

Attacking the socialistic theory that affairs in this country could be better conducted by an enlarged government civil service, Sir Edward declared that experience would prove that governmental planning of business had not been generally successful.

Many of the unwise measures adopted by governments in connection with business have been the product of demagogues appealing to ignorant voters. Is it not a fact that almost every grave error of the government in this direction has been produced by pressure on governments of individuals and organizations of citizens who are, in their own affairs, competent business men

To the speaker's mind, Canadian business men had failed as citizens rather than as capitalistic exploiters of the people.

Has not the growing attempt to make the government all-powerful in its control and direction of our daily life been largely stimulated by the jealousies of groups of businessmen, one against the other?

The spending of $10,000 on unnecessary public works today is a burden of $10,000 on the productive capacity of this country in the future.

Sir Edward brought further charges against Canadian business men. How often had they failed to protest because they were afraid of being charged with reaction and had they tried to tell Canadian workmen the truth that artificially high wages would bring serious damage to the economic structure of society. Was it not the fault of the capitalistic structure that men willing to work were unemployed?

Business men, too, had failed by not impressing on the people at large that Canada is primarily an agricultural community and that industrial capital and labor in Canada could never, for long, earn profits and wages greatly out of proportion to the profits or wages of agricultural capital and labor.

If Canadian business men had erred, they had erred in good company. He said, "We have made no greater mistakes than those of governmental planning in many places, if even we have made any mistakes as great. Many of those who are the keenest critics of business enterprise in Canada today were only too ready to criticize us a few years ago for failure to throw ourselves even more wholeheartedly into the great boom."

"We should have enough intelligence to know," he said, "that in an agricultural community when butter is 40 cents a pound, most people will have 40 cents to buy a pound of butter. That is, to my mind, a more satisfactory condition than one in which butter is 20 cents and no one has 20 cents to buy a pound."

"If we encouraged workers to accept high wages, we did so in good faith for the sake of better relations between class and class, and for both the human desire to see all prosper and for the purpose of spreading purchasing power more widely as a part of economic wisdom."

"If we have failed to stress the importance of agriculture in our national life, it was because we were eager to round out that life by development of all forms of economic activity."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

S. A. SPEERS SELLS OUT GENERAL STORE, CRESTON, TO WINTER CO.

Operated for Nearly 30 Years; New Manager Is F. Winter, Formerly of Fernie, Natal and Corbin

CRESTON, B.C.—The most important change in Creston's business section in a quarter century became effective Saturday, when the general store business carried on by S. A. Speers for almost 30 years became the property of Winter & Company, under the management of F. Winter.

The new manager is no stranger in Crows Nest Pass. Twenty-five years ago he commenced his retail store experience with the Trites-Wood company at Fernie with whom he remained for about 10 years. He was a department manager. After that he was with the Natal Trading Company at Natal, followed by a year on the road with Scott Fruit company, and six years ago he became manager of the Flathead Trading company at Corbin, which position he vacted with the closing of the mines at that point about a year ago. There is to be no change in the sales staff under the new management. It is also stated Mr. Speers has no intention of leaving Creston. He still has the Imperial Groceteria, which he established in 1932, as well as other business interests, including his farm on the dyked lands of Creston Reclamation Company, Limited. His decision to sell is due to the fact that he feels his commercial activities have become just a little too extensive and he plans to take things easier in future.

I almost had a COLD!

"I went home sneezing and sniffling—all the makings of a first rate cold. My wife saw me and said, 'This won't do! We'll stop that cold before it gets a firm hold. A hot mustard bath and then you had better get to bed and keep good and warm'.

THRONE SPEECH

although there may be a redistribution of taxes.

RECIPROCITY

Reference will be made in the speech to the reciprocal trade agreement reached with United States last November and notice will be served that parliament will be asked to approve and ratify that treaty, as well as another statute supplementary to it, dealing with the exemption up to $100 on goods brought back by Canadians travelling in United States.

Amendments to the British North America act will be forecast, probably on two grounds, Mr. Dunning proposes to ask parliament to approve an amendment to the constitution to enable him to proceed with his proposed loan councils to govern future borrowings by the provinces wth a federal treasury guarantee.

A wider reference will probably be made dealing with the efforts now underway in conferences between provinces and Dominion looking toward securing for the Dominion the right to amend its own constitution without recourse to the imperial parliament.

UNEMPLOYMENT COMMISSION

One of the first measures to come up will be the necessary statute empowering the government to create a national commission on unemployment and relief. It had been intended to set up this commission at the first of the year but Prime Minister Mackenzie King decided to await the approval of the necessary legislation and appropriations. He has stated that no time will be lost in proceeding with this measure and that the house will be given a full opportunity to discuss the entire relief and employment problem.

Other legislative forecasts in the speech will deal with merging of government departments. Marine, railway and telegraph will be merged and become the department of transportation, possibly to include civil aviation now under national defence. Interior, immigration, mines and colonization will be merged probably under the name of natural resources.

BANK OF CANADA

The Liberal platform calls for nationalization of the Bank of Canada but there has been no indication as to whether this would be proceeded with at once. It would involve calling in of the $5 000,000 capital stock of the bank now held by the public.

Mr. Mackenzie King has advised labor delegations, which presented legislative proposals, that his government had many of their suggestions under consideration. These include a wide list of social reforms dealing with hours and conditions of work and rates of pay, safety measures, peace efforts, and repeal of section 98 of the criminal code, the latter a plank in the Liberal platform.

It is anticipated that reference will be made to the participation by Canada in the League of Nations economic and financial sanctions against Italy arising from the war in Ethiopia.

CRESTON, B.C. — Creston Badminton club has been advised that the East Kootenay tournament will be held at Cranbrook Feb. 21 and 22. Creston is expected to make a considerable entry in all classes and at the annual meeting will make a bid for the 1937 tournament. In Park pavilion Creston has the biggest indoor arena in the East Kootenay and feels it can handle the tournament to splendid advantage.

Lansbury's Move

fairs, said preliminary examination of the problem of an international conference has already been started "but we cannot fix a date until circumstances favor further negotiations."

WORLD WAS NOT READY

The last world economic conference, he said, was a failure because the world was not prepared for it. If another were called "it would be not only unfortunate but disastrous," he declared.

Lord Cranborne asserted the government had no intention of "banging on the door" on the declaration of Sir Samuel Hoare, former foreign minister, at Geneva regarding collective examination of economic problems. The general aim was "international agreement which will remove from nations the incentive to pile up armaments and establish the peace of the world on a sure foundation," he said.

The government would adopt no policy which would impair the British Empire or injure its prosperity.

SITUATION A "NIGHTMARE"

Lansbury said he had never known "when armaments have been of such a devilish description as now" when he rose from his back Labor bench seat to offer his motion.

He called the European situation a "nightmare" and asked the meaning of recent meetings of monarchs and statesmen in Paris.

"Does it mean exactly the same thing as occurred before 1914?" he queried. "Some match, perhaps accidentally, will be put to the powder magazine and we will be called on to send the young and middle-aged to fight."

Lansbury's resolution drew the support of Dr. Alfred Salter, Labor, who named Japan, Italy and Germany as nations "whose present actions appear to threaten the future peace of the world.

GERMANY-RUSSIA PREPARED

David Lloyd George, supporting the idea of the conference, said he had not agreed with predictions of war during the last two or three years but now Germany and Russia are prepared.

"I do not think there is much time to throw away," the former premier told the members. "I do not believe you'll have peace in the world until you reconsider mandates.

"I earnestly plead with the government to consider the problem of whether the time has not come to summon all nations of the earth together to put their cards on the table."

Robert Bernays, a Simonite Liberal, suggested that Mr. Lansbury's only way of securing peace was to give everything away.

Lansbury hotly dissented.

Bernays then asked what he would resist.

Lansbury replied there was nothing for which he would take a human life. There were other methods of fighting than killing somebody. He added that he wished he had never taken office because he believed he betrayed his pacific principles.

FORECAST NEW PEACE TREATY. MORE FAVORABLE TO ITALY

Cannot Envision Mussolini Accepting Less Than Hoare and Laval Offered

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN
Central Press Canadian Writer

GENEVA, Feb. 4—Now that the Laval-Hoare peace proposals are out of the way, is Mussolini to be offered still more favorable terms? I think so. I see no reason to change my view that the Baldwin government will not let the duce down in the end. It is Britain which will ultimately save Mussolini from the humiliation of a defeat in Africa and from an overthrow of the Fascist regime in Italy. For, in spite of all, Mussolini's Italy remain too vital a factor in the British scheme of European affairs that the duce could be missed.

With the disappearance of Sir Samuel Hoare, the pro-Mussolini current in the British cabinet has by no means vanished. Stanley Baldwin specifically approved the Laval-Hoare proposals in the house of commons. More than that, Mr. Baldwin added that if he could reveal the real motifs which led to the formulation of the proposals, he had no doubt that the house would not hesitate a moment to back Sir Samuel Hoare. Those "real motives" have not changed. They are Mussolini's definite warning to M. Pierre Laval, former prime minister of France, that Italy will consider any sharpening of the sanctions as a cause for war and M. Laval's secret announcement to the British government that France would not stand by Britain in the event of a conflict with Italy.

Mussolini has not withdrawn his threats. Pierre Laval is no longer prime minister of France. There may be a change in French foreign policy now that M. Laval is overthrown, but for the time being France will not be a partner to an accentuation of the sanctions against Italy.

GOLD RESERVE DWINDLING

The situation would have reached a stalemate and Mussolini's only course would be to double his military efforts in Africa, but of this he is not capable, in the estimation of neutral military observers. Not because he lacks troops or because the Italian soldiers are inferior to the Ethiopian forces, but because the Italian exchequer cannot stand the additional strain. So far the war has cost Italy more than eight billion lire and the daily upkeep of the expeditionary force in Africa comes to 24 millions. Italian foreign trade is at a standstill. The gold reserve is dwindling rapidly.

The choice of the great powers, France and England, therefore narrows down to the following: Let Mussolini drift into a debacle and endanger the existence of the Fascist regime in Italy, or save Mussolini by securing him an "honorable peace". The Ethiopian cause has become a matter of secondary consideration.

What will the new proposals be, since it is clear that neither France nor England desires an Italian military fiasco in Africa nor a collapse of the Fascist regime?

OLD TREATY STANDS

The new proposals have been made. They are old, that is they have been made long ago. But Mr. Baldwin has recently restated them in the house of commons.

Mr. Baldwin declared in parliament Wednesday, December 11, that the agreement entered into between Britain and Italy on the subject of Ethiopia 10 years ago remains standing today.

The agreement gives Britain a mortgage on the waters of Tana lake and of the Blue Nile in Ethiopia. Under the terms of the same agreement Great Britain undertakes to support Italy in obtaining "territorial and economic advantages in the Ethiopian empire". These territorial and economic advantages surpass by far what was contained in the Laval-Hoare peace proposals.

In other words Britain is pledged to help Italy to dismember the empire of the negus. The pledge was made 10 years ago. Mr. Baldwin said December 11 last that it holds good today.

MORE FAVORABLE TO ITALY

The annexation of important parts of the Ethiopian empire by Italy is therefore a fore-ordained conclusion, not only in Rome, but in London. And in Paris as well, for M. Pierre Laval gave Mussolini his assurance February 4, 1935, that France would not hinder an Italian expedition of conquest.

It will be extraordinarily difficult to offer Mussolini anything less in the future than was included in the Laval-Hoare proposals. To accept less would smack too much of defeat. It may be that the military situation in Africa, or the economic situation in Italy, or the diplomatic situation in Europe, will force the duce in a less favorable position than he is today. But that is just exactly what Britain and France seek to prevent. They do not want Mussolini's position to get worse. Therefore the next peace proposals will not differ a great deal from the Laval-Hoare plan. Most likely they will be still more favorable to Italy.

But they will not be published prematurely in the world's press. That is where the mistake lay with the Laval-Hoare plan. It got too much publicity. The diplomats will be more cautious next time.

HERE ARE THE REAL FACTS ABOUT BRAN

Brought Out by Tests with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Some years ago, there was considerable difference of opinion regarding the use of bran. So to discover the actual facts of the case, the Kellogg Company asked for a series of laboratory tests at leading universities.

Experimental studies on a group of healthy women showed that the continued use of bran was thoroughly satisfactory. Unlike cathartics, it did not lose its effect.

Other independent tests on men indicated that, with certain people, the "bulk" in bran was more effective than that found in fruits and vegetables.

Laboratory analysis proved that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplied vitamin B and iron as well as plenty of bulk. This "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is gentle in action. It absorbs a great deal of moisture, and cleanses the intestinal tract.

ALL-BRAN corrects constipation due to insufficient "bulk." It is the natural way—far better than using pills and tablets. Serve as a cereal—or use in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

SOUTH SLOCAN FAVORS UNION LIBRARY PLAN

SOUTH SLOCAN, B.C.—A meeting of the ratepayers of the Bonnington and South Slocan school districts was held in the South Slocan hall to vote on the proposed Union library scheme. F. A. Jewett, inspector of schools, was chairman in his capacity of trustee of the South Slocan school district.

Explanation of the proposal was given by C. B. Smith representing the West Kootenay Power & Light Co. Ltd., and by members of the committee appointed to investigate Library plans. Appreciation was expressed for the assistance given by Mr. Smith, Mr. Jewett and the local Women's institute in cooperation with the committee.

The meeting was unanimously in favor of the scheme, 35 votes being cast.

INSPECTS DYKES AT CRESTON

CRESTON, B.C.—G. P. Salter of Vancouver, trustee in bankruptcy for the old Kootenay Valley Power & Development company, who is in charge of rehabilitating the dykes on the old Reclamation farm, was here, and made a close inspection of operations at the south end by Dale brothers. The north end of the farm was redyked a year ago and cropped in 1935, and the work of repairing the dyke at the south end is well along and will be completed within the next two months.

Dale brothers are making a fine job on the new levees paying particular attention to strengthening the stretch of dyke along Boundary creek which broke and caused the flooding of the entire area in 1932.

The dragline used on the work is engaged three eight-hour shifts, six days a week.

WESTWARD TREK FOR ALLAN CUP SEEMS CERTAIN

Scouts Rate Kimberley and Prince Albert Best in West

By ELMER DULMAGE
(Candian Press Staff Writer)

A couple of dozen amateur hockey teams across the land are getting ready this month to take the Allan cup out of the maritimes, a sector it never visited until the spring of 1933. There will be no resistance. The great days of maritime hockey are over for the time being.

The Allan cup will move westward to Montreal or Ontario or the west after spending three full years by the sea, two in Moncton and one in Halifax. There may be a defence by a new maritime champion, but it will be a futile thing because the powerful Martime Hockey association has disbanded and star players have departed.

Real Allan cup strength has been spotted, meanwhile, in the west and east without a single top-heavy favorite appearing. The east, for instance, has a half-dozen teams that are unlikely to elect a favorite until play-off time. Winnipegs are getting the call in the west.

Quebec's representative may be Montreal Royals, Montreal Verdun or Ottawa Senators who play in the Montreal senior league. Or it may be none of these teams, because Quebec has not produced an outstanding brigade so far. When the Canadian Amateur Hockey association went gathering material for its Olympic team it didn't help Montreal teams.

Ralph St. Germain and Dave Neville were taken from Royals and Hugh Farquharson and Ken Farmer from Victorias. Likewise, the C. A. H. A. reduced the strength of another Allan cup contender, the Toronto Dukes. They took Pud Kitchen, defence ace, from Toronto's only senior squad.

Kitchen's departure has brought the Dukes down to rock-bottom. They are not at all certain of winning the senior Ontario Hockey association championship. Hamilton Tigers, with a superior group of marksmen, may knock over the Dukes in the playoffs, and Oakville Villans and Port Colborne Sailors are not being under-rated.

Winnipegs, who last won the Allan cup in 1931 when it last was in the west, seem to hold most of the aces on the prairies. Members of the Olympic team from Port Arthur said before going overseas in January that Winnipegs would be the hardest team to stop in the country.

Other formidable outfits in the west include Yorkton Terriers, Prince Albert Mintos, North Battleford Beavers and two Saskatoon teams in Saskatchewan; Edmonton Superiors in Alberta and Kimberley Dynamiters in British Columbia. Some scouts call Prince Albert and Kimberley the best of this group.

But it's such a toss-up at the February stage that there is no betting. The winner might be from northern Ontario which will send an all-star team from the Nickel Belt league into the competition.

SCHEIBLER CUTS SCHOFIELD LEAD

Only 4.1 Points in Place of 35.1 as Fortnight Ago

Coming along like the proverbial house afire, the W. J. Scheibler pen of White Leghorns, which gained second place in the eleventh week of the British Columbia egg laying contest at the Dominion experimental farm at Agassiz, reduced the lead of the A. W. Schofield pen from 35.1 points to 4.1 points during the twelfth and thirteenth weeks, and seems headed for the top, as the Schofield birds are in a laying slump, while at the moment the Scheiblers are the high point getters of the Leghorn section of 29 pens.

The week's point leaders are the University of British Columbia pen of Barred Plymouth Rocks, which laid 51 valid eggs, worth 55.2 points, the Scheibler fowls coming second, with 45 eggs, valued at 50.5 points.

Of the seven pens after the Schofield pen, six improved their position by reason of its laying slump, the big gain, next to Scheibler's, being that of the Appleby Poultry Farm pen, in eighth place, which rang up 47.4 points. The Robert Sangster pen jumped from seventh to fourth place. The eight leaders stand as follows on the 13 weeks record: Schofield, 611; Scheibler, 608.9; M. H. Rutledge, 589; Robert B. Sangster, 549.4; W. Whiting, 548.4; B. C. Lands Operating company (previously T. A. Robinson), 542.5; W. M. Fairweather, 541.6; Appleby Poultry, 526.9.

Production for the thirteenth week was down to 43.88 per cent, the 46 pens producing 1321 eggs, good for 1293.4 points, the egg total for the 13 weeks being 17,927, and the point total, 17,846.2.

Following is the record for the thirteenth week, omitting the day-by-day figures and the week's eggs:

CRANBROOK MAN TO BUILD NEW CRESTON HOTEL

Contract Let to A. E. Jones by J. Shean

CRESTON, B.C.—It is now definitely announced that the contract for the construction, plumbing, lighting, etc., of the new Creston hotel at Canyon street and Creston avenue has been let to A. E. Jones, well known builder of Cranbrook.

Instead of brick, as originally planned, the building will be of stucco, two storeys and basement, and will have about 22 rooms, most of them with either shower or bath.

The owner of the hotel is John Shean of Lumberton.

Excavation for the basement is well along toward completion, and Mr. Jones assures that all the other features of construction will be pushed so as to have the house opened at the earliest possible date.

Charles Huscroft has left for Kitchener to take on the work of blacksmith at the development on the former Sullivan claims by Creston Hill Mining company.

An adequate diet for a family of five is figured to cost about $600 a year.

KIMBERLEY HIGH STUDENTS HAVE LEAP YEAR DANCE

No Wall-Flowers at Novelty Event

KIMBERLEY, B. C.—The students' council of Kimberley high school gave a "leap-year" party Friday at McDougall hall.

The program consisted of games, then short scenes from the high school play to be put on in the near future. After partners were chosen by means of a mystery auction sale and dancing held sway until 11 o'clock when refreshments included sandwiches, coffee cake and candy, after which dancing continued until 1:30 a.m.

Several young people from Cranbrook were present and many ex-high pupils from town and Chapman Camp.

Being a leap-year party, the girls taking the lead through the evening, there were no "wall flowers."

Monday a number of Theresa Marzocco's friends gave her a surprise party, the occasion being her birthday. Cards were played, prizes going to Mrs. Harry Booth and Mrs. Joe Rollheiser. After supper a gift was presented to Miss Marzocco from her friends, who all wished her "a happy birthday."

J. Streberg of Meeting Creek, Alta., who was visiting his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. Nordlund, left Saturday to visit points west.

SHOWER GUEST

Friday Mrs. Arnold Abbott gave a miscellaneous shower at her home in honor of Miss Florence Watson. The room was decorated in mauve and white and the gifts, brought in, in a mauve and white ship, were varied and beautiful. Miss Watson is leaving Chapman Camp soon for South Africa. The guests played whist and later a supper was served.

Kaslo "Hasbeens" Hockey Victims

News of a mighty hockey battle that took the entire provincial force of that area to quell, was wafted in on fleeting zephyrs from Kaslo Monday. It was a feud between two old rivals, the "Hasbeens" and the "Wouldbes." Kasloites who "hadbeen," let well enough alone and rested on laurels won in the good "old days," and when the force of the Procter gale had subsided they were in arrears 6-12.

A provincial police officer acted as a search party of one and had a hard time keeping his men out of the crevices and hillocks on the sheet. He believed that if it was not for the roughness of the ice his team would have gone places—home. Cassey McPherson rubbed out a few kinks left by the passing years and showed the opposition the noble art of stick-handling, the force's roving reporter said.

School Board Asks $86,509

Trail Board Refuses Educational Week Assistance

TRAIL, B.C., Feb. 6.—That the city of Trail and municipality of Tadanac be asked for $86,509 for the year 1936, was a motion passed at the Trail-Tadanac district school board in regular session here Wednesday night. Last year the board's estimate was $83,372.60, a difference of $3136.40.

Resignation of Dorothy T. Potter, Central school staff teacher, effective March 1, was accepted. In the opinion of Principal W. A. Cameron, the school was losing one of its best teachers.

Request of A. B. Thompson of the high school staff that the board approve or qualify a proposed program for Trail during the week of February 23-29, in conjunction with a Canadian-wide program sponsored by the Canadian Teachers' federation, was rejected by the board.

Trustee W. C. McKenzie cast the only affirmative vote.

Mr. Thompson stated that the Canadian federation had sponsored a week known as education week on previous occasions, but that Trail had only taken a small part in it. The program proposed asking the ministers to give an educational address from the pulpit and to bring in a lecture and to possibly arrange a gathering of teachers, parents and trustees. It also proposed running a series of educational articles in the press. Mr. Thompson stated that the teachers were asking the board for their endorsation of the program and to assist in trying to waken the public of Trail to educational benefits.

FOR THE SCHOOLS

H. J. Palmer, board chairman, contended the board was for the benefit of the schools and not the glory of the teachers. He said that it had been the board's policy to keep free from such matters and believed that by doing so they had been getting results. He saw in it no benefit to the pupils. There had been no demand from the public for such a week and it was just a request of the teachers he said. He believed the public is satisfied with the schools and what is being taught and asked that the teachers keep it that way and continue teaching. He referred to the schools' records to substantiate his statements.

An offer of the Memorial Hall society for use of its gymnasium every week day except Saturday for $25 per month was accepted.

TO URGE EXCURSION BOAT FROM NELSON FOR KASLO'S MAY 24th

KASLO, B.C.—Kaslo city council met Monday with Mayor W. V. Papworth presiding and Aldermen John Paterson, A. L. Grayling, L. Sandilands and C. F. Archer present.

City Clerk H. T. Hartin presented bills amounting to $480.85 and was instructed to pay them. Mr. Hartin also reported that Mrs. F. S. Chandler had taken the oath of office as school trustee before him.

Mayor Papworth stated that he had received verbal appreciation from Rev. E. Pitt Griffiths of the city council and other city officials attending the memorial services held in St. Mark's church January 28 in memory of the late King George V.

Former tenders for a lot on A avenue, which had reverted to the city, had been recalled and new tenders were to be asked for, it was reported.

Alderman Sandilands presented a request from the Kaslo and District institute, that the mayor call an early public meeting to discuss plans for the May 24 celebration and to take steps to secure an excursion boat from Nelson on that date, if possible.

F.A.C. Defeats Wolves 5 to 3

Takes Lead of Nelson Commercial Puck Loop

Making four goals in the first period, and then adding another in the final, Fairview Intermediates held off the Wolves to win a Nelson Commercial league hockey game 5-3 at the rink Wednesday night and thereby took the lead of the loop. It was a loose game with neither side putting up much in the way of good hockey. Fairview got off to a good start or otherwise they would have had an uphill battle.

Forty seconds after the game started the green and yellow sweater boys took the lead. Cal Ramsden slipped the puck to Lauritz who went down past the defence and then passed it in front of the goal to Ramsden, who tallied. Balcom added two more within the next 10 minutes and then Chapman added another before the period ended. Both Chapman and Sutherland figured in Balcom's goal, and Balcom was credited with an assist on Chapman's. The Romano brothers scored one for the Wolves on a pretty play.

Duke Waiman raised the hopes of the Wolves with two goals in the second period. Bishop stopped both shots on goal but his defencemen and he were slow in clearing and Duke banged in the rebound. Kirby and Gillett were playing well with the Iron Duke.

PRETTIEST GOAL

Lauritz got the prettiest goal of the night when he took Ramsden's pass and waded around the defence, drew Carlson out, and parked the rubber where a red light was needed before it could be extracted.

Chapman, Sutherland and Balcom starred for the winners and kept the opposition well hopped up while on the ice. Bishop was steady in the Fairview net and he kept the Wolves down on several occasions when they were right in on his goal. Ramsden and Lauritz showed flashes of good hockey.

There was little difference between the Wolves' two strings, Gillett, Waiman and Kirby, and Teddy Romano, Aurellio and Tanny Romano, playing well. Richardson and Jerry Whitfield gave Carlson plenty of support. Carlson steadied down after the first period.

Leo Atwell refereed.

Teams were:

Fairview Intermediates: Bishop, Farenholtz, Laird, Cal Ramsden, Wilson, Lauritz, Chapman, Balcom and Sutherland.

Savoy Routs Falcons 8 to 1

First Win in the Local Puck Loop Play

Setting up a blistering third period attack the husky Savoy Hotel Commercial hockey team handed the Fairview Falcons an 8-1 defeat Wednesday night in a game that was closer than the score would indicate. It was Savoy's first win of the league play. The Falcons, much lighter in every respect, fought hard all the way and although the Savoy did enjoy an edge, it was not pronounced until the third period.

After a shaky start Kitto, in goal for Savoy, blocked everything that went his way. Russell and Reg. Taylor, husky defencemen, handed out heavy body checks all the way but found the elusive Falcons always coming for more. Stan and Sid Horswill, who went on defence in the last period together, both played well. The Bird, DeVoin, McLean, and Lyden, Jack Taylor and Dewdney lines showed up well and there was little difference in their effectiveness.

For the Falcons Jack Bishop was a standout, especially in the last period when at one stage he stopped six close-in shots in rapid succession. Roy Anderson, Cooper and Leeming were the pick of the forwards, with Bill Stern playing a sound defensive game.

STERN GETS LONE GOAL

Stern scored the first goal of the game on a nice shot from the left wing but by the end of the period the score stood at 3-1 for Savoy.

The Falcons are now in second place in the legaue with Savoy and the Wolves tied for third place.

42 Below Zero Doesn't Worry Him, He Romps in Snow in Leopard Skin

52-Year-Old Fred Ripley of Winnipeg Says the Secret Is Proper Blood Circulation, No Breakfast and Little Meat

WINNIPEG, Feb. 5 (CP)—It was one of the coldest days of the winter here today, 42 below zero, but that meant nothing to 52-year-old Fred Ripley as he stepped briskly down the street without hat or overcoat, the jacket of his lightweight two-piece suit flapping in the stiff breeze.

Nippy weather means little to Fred at any time. He's used to cavorting about his little farm near Stonewall, 24 miles north of here, every week-end, a leopard-skin loin cloth his only protection against piercing winds that blow across the prairies.

Photographs of Ripley, who calls himself a "naturopath," back up his assertion he never feels cold weather which, he says, acts only as a stimulant to him. One picture portrays him "taking it easy" on the snow, spread-eagled, with nary a shiver. The secret, he says, is proper blood circulation.

"I never eat more than two meals a day, going without breakfast," said Ripley, "and the meals I have are not too heavy. You might call me a vegetarian, although once in a while I may eat a little meat." But, he added, "I'm no faddist."

Married, he has five children who have never taken medicine of any kind. Their health is as good as his.

Doctors Check Kidneys First

Because they know that healthy Kidneys remove from the blood the waste matter formed by the ever-changing human body as it decays and rebuilds itself. But if the Kidneys fail—the system is poisoned and illness surely follows. FACTS AND FANCIES

Plan to Care for Raw Foods

If it can be done, a section of the kitchen should be arranged for the convenient preparation of raw foods. This part of the culinary task is usually performed at the sink or work table. Appropriate cabinets, racks and shelves should be installed convenient to the sink and work table where brushes, knives, colanders, strainers and similar untensils may be kept handy.

It is also convenient to build cupboards or bins under one of the drain boards of the sink where small stores of the less perishable fruits and vegetables may be kept.

Fudge Creole

Two cups dark brown sugar, one cup granulated sugar, one cup milk, one-fourth cup water, two tablespoons butter, one teaspoon vanilla, one teaspoon cinnamon, one cup raisins, one-fourth cup candied fruit peel. Boil sugars, milk, water and butter until soft ball forms in cup of cold water. Stir frequently during cooking. Remove candy from fire and do not stir for 30 minutes. Add rest of ingredients and pour onto buttered pan. When firm, cut into squares.

THE WEATHER

Usually the first subject that invades our sleepy heads in the morning, the first topic of conversation when we meet a friend, the last interest as we adjust the bedroom windows at night—is the weather.

The farmer's interest in the weather is understandable. But in the case of city dwellers, much of this interest is probably little more than a mental hang-over from the time when our ancestors lived in caves and had no telephones. Within certain limits it no longer makes much difference what the weather may be except as a subject of conversation or amateur meteorological speculation.

City dwellers often have an extremely narrow idea of what constitutes good and bad weather. They judge from their own personal standpoint. They are like Mark Twain's passengers on the good ship Quaker City. "There they are every night," said the disgusted second mate, "praying for fair winds when this is the only ship going east this time of the year, while there's a thousands going west. The Almighty's blowing a fair wind for a thousand vessels, and this tribe wants Him to turn it clear around so as to accommodate one—and she a steamship at that! It ain't good sense, it ain't good Christianity, it ain't common human charity. Avast with such nonsense!"

Rightly regarded, weather, even when it is bad, is a tonic and a disciplinarian. Variety in it breeds versatility in man. People do not like to be dominated by bad weather if they can help it. The best way to accommodate oneself to bad weather is to defy it. Few heat waves or winter blizzards are so bad that anyone in good physical condition and properly clad must run away from them.

Are people who live in countries where the weather varies little the whole year round any happier than their brothers in more severe climates? For one thing they are deprived of one of the greatest conversational standbys of a garrulous civilization.

WHAT THE PRESS IS SAYING

THE NAVAL CONFERENCE

Of course, the point really at issue behind the screen of talk about "prestige" and "security" is whether Britain and America are going to permit Japan to control, beyond any peradventure of future power politics, the Far East, as she will certainly do if she has a fleet equal to this country's and England's. That may be, depending upon one's point of view, a question of international ethics or of imperialist economy. But the chances are that, logic or no logic, the two Anglo-Saxon powers will continue to answer it emphatically in the negative.—Baltimore Sun.

KIPLING'S DRAWING

Kipling's ability in picture, as well as in word, is recalled by F. C. Whitehouse of Vancouver, formerly of Nelson, in a discussion of the writer's dual ability with the pen in the current issue of the Journal of the Canadian Bankers' association.

Mr. Whitehouse says:

"Prior to the appearance of Just So Stories, the world had known Kipling as a novelist, a short story writer and a poet; an artistic magician of parts. But, without warning, to produce an entirely different art was magic indeed. Some might submit that this was not so surprising from the son of John Lockwood Kipling, the creator of the beautiful illustrations in The Second Jungle Book and Kim. But such argument can only be accepted to the extent of expecting some slight knowledge and interest on the part of the child in the parent's particular form of art. A wilful lady is Art, appearing where she listeth and not where she might be expected. The names of sons and daughters of great authors who have not produced a paragraph worth printing, and of great painters, who could not draw a line, would be a voluminous roll. We had no right to expect illustrating ability from Rudyard Kipling. Yet, is not that precisely how the matter stands? Has it not been taken for granted and unremarked?

"Opening the pages of Just So St s, the first picture is that of 'the Whale swallowing the Mariner'. This, a most difficult composition, appears to have presented no obstacles. As an imaginative piece of work it is above criticism. Everything flows into the rapacious throat: the water, raft, Mariner and jack-knife—not forgetting the suspenders, so delicately traced. The technique is not a whit less excellent; the portrayal of perspective and form by means of shading."

It is when five Fridays appear in a month that I am happier—for you see Friday is payday.

YES, IT'S LEAP YEAR

But talking of February—it is leap year. It is the year when young men must beware—for the fair dame may pop the question any time. Of course many fair ladies do not await a leap year to pop the question.

Of the custom for women to woo during the leap year, no satisfactory explanation has ever been offered. In 1928 a law was enacted in Scotland that "it is a statut and ordaint that during the rein of her maist blissit Megeste, for ilk years knowne as a lepe yeare, ilk mayden ladye of bothe highe and lowe estait shall hae liberte to bespeke ye man she likes, albeit he refuses to taik hir to be his lawful wyfe, he shall be mulcted in ye sum ane pundis or less as his estait may be; except and awis gif he can make it appeare he is betrothit ane ither woman he then shall be free."

A similar law was enacted in France and the custom was still later legalized in Genoa and Florence.

This February is unusual in that the shortest month, it contains five of the year's 52 Saturdays, which will have 53 Tuesdays and 53 Wednesdays, but only two Fridays the 13th (in March and November).

THE CODFISH

The former lord mayor of London, Sir Stephen Killik, recently recited a ditty to prove that advertising pays. Here it is:

The codfish lays ten thousand eggs,
The homely hen lays one;
The codfish never cackles,
To tell you what she's done;
And so we scorn the codfish,
And the homely hen we prize;
Which demonstrates to you and me,
That it pays to advertise.

ALTERNATIVE TO MR. BEALBY'S THEORY

The Editor, Nelson Daily News:

Sir—May I offer the following viewpoint as an alternative to Mr. Bealby's theory of social progress, which he states, "depends absolutely upon variation in individuals"?

The science dealing with the development of society is called sociology and concerns itself primarily with social and economic forces. In dealing with the question under review, namely the dark ages, it is necessary to ascertain why society organized itself as it did, and what effect this had on the intellectual life of the period, etc.

When the Roman empire went down in ruin before th barbaric invasion of the fifth century, and the strong central administrative hand was removed, society became completely disorganized. From one end of the state to the other there was confusion, hunger and a great deal of brigandage. Life was insecure, especially for the weak and poor and the strong hand prevailed. The empire was rent asunder geographically and its parts became dominated by anyone who was strong enough to hold them. These roughly were the conditions upon which society had again to be organized.

Let us note two important points. First, it is an economic law that the freer the association in which society is organized, the greater the production. Under the wasteful and inefficient methods of slave agriculture the lands of southern Europe had become impoverished. Before the fall of Rome steps had already been taken to counteract this in Italy and some of the land was being worked by 'coloni', composed partly of freemen, who desired bread and security, and partly by barbarian captives. These 'coloni' were attached to the soil and had somewhat the status of a feudal serf. Secondly, the lack of personal security which prevailed made every freeman a soldier.

There was hunger and insecurity and the problem facing society was how to organize production on a military basis and the feudal system was the solution to the problem. This was not solved at once. The framework was the work of a long period and the system did not become really crystallized for several centuries. The system was well adapted to northern Europe, where the infertile lands were brought under production.

The feudal serf was not much better off than a chattel-slave. He had though, a certain amount of protection and permanent tenure of land often fixed by law. Feudalism was, however, a higher because freer form of association, and thus opened the way to further progress.

What about the intellectual life of the dark ages? Two things are vital to the development of intellectual life in society—leisure, and personal and economic security. These were secured in Rome and Greece and scholars had ample opportunity for study and writing. During the centuries following the collapse of Rome when economic and personal security were uncertain, intellectual activities naturally decayed. It was not lack of proper education which produced the dark ages, but the material conditions of the time made intellectual life impossible.

It may not be out of place to note here the great intellectual activity of the Renaissance which followed the great discoveries and consequent expansion of trade and commerce, and the brilliant and buoyant literature of the Victorian era coinciding with the expansion and consolidation of the British Empire. Compare the decay in general literature today. Where the decay of capitalism is deepest, in Fascist Germany, the classics of all humanity are publicly burned, and the veriest trash—and worse—of a Hitler or Rosenberg circulates by the million.

A word about the church of the dark ages. During the second and third centuries, the church, in spite of oppression played a revolutionary role in history. The early church was intensely pacific, and considered on that account to be unpatriotic. After the reign of Constantine (313 A.D.) when Christianity became the state religion, the revolutionary role was abandoned and the church set about the task of accumulating wealth. It succeeded to an unbelievable degree, and eventually became the largest land owner in Europe, owning about one-third of the land. As the largest feudatory it was primarily interested in perpetuating the system from which its wealth was obtained. Its economic interests dominated all others. It frowned severely upon scientific speculation and persecuted those who, as Sidney Smith puts it, "were rude to the Equator". Hence, during this period it was not a progressive force and contributed little of intellectual worth to mankind. The growth of the towns, of industry, trade and commerce gradually shifted the basis of wealth. These factors gradually broke the power of the church—with feudalism in general—over a large part of Europe.

Social systems are born, rise to maturity and having made their contribution to human progress, fall into decay, not because they are unrighteous but because they no longer work. The Ancient System or Chattel Slavery (among other contributions) reduced wandering tribes to ordered and territorial states and thus prepared the way for further progress. We have already noted one of the main causes of its downfall.

On the ruins of Rome grew the Feudal State, a higher form of association. The growth of towns paved the way for another social system based on industry and commerce. But before expansion of industry and commerce could take place, the restrictions of Feudalism, which were incompatible with freedom of trade, had to be removed. They were.

Capitalism, with its genesis in the chartered towns of the Middle Ages, has solved the problem of production. It can solve no others. It is already in decay, prey to its internal contradictions. It has, like its forerunners performed its historic function and must pass on.

The problem of production having been now solved, the solution of the whole economic problem is now possible. Capitalism has prepared the way. It has developed to the full, social production. The next step is social ownership.

In this exceedingly brief and somewhat sketchy outline I have merely endeavored to indicate some of the forces at work in the development of society. I shall no doubt be told that I have omitted "this," taken no account of "that," and completely ignored "t-other." Which is all very true.

I should however anticipate one objection which may be raised by those who adhere to the "Great Men" theory of history, familiar to all school children, past and present. Whatever merits and wisdom some of the prominent men and women in history may have possessed, none of them had any hand in creating the conditions of society in which they found themselves. None is a cosmic disturbance. I was rereading Butler's "The Way of All Flesh" yesterday and came upon this pertinent passage: "Perhaps some men are independent of antecedents and surroundings and have an initial force within themselves which is in no way due to causation; but this is supposed to be a difficult question and it may be as well to avoid it."

It is often said: "Man makes his own history." This is true if we do but realize that he must work with the material on hand.

A TICKLISH SITUATION

During the second session, Parson's Memorial trophy for teams of four, Hand 28 was one of the oddest encountered. My partner, C. E. Norwood, sat South. The other members of our team, Oswald Jacoby and Julian Goldman, handled the East and West side of this hand perfectly. But the North and South holdings gave our pair considerable to consider. Both sides were vulnerable East and West had all the high cards in three suits, and the luck to find the two finesses, necessary to take, lay right for them. Their only problem was to choose between a small slam and a grand slam.

North: ♠ 8 5 ♥ None ♦ K Q J 10 9 7 6 5 2 ♣ J 3

West: ♠ A Q J 6 ♥ A Q 10 8 7 2 ♦ None ♣ A K 6

East: ♠ 10 9 7 4 2 ♥ J 9 6 5 ♦ A 8 4 3 ♣ None

South: ♠ K 3 ♥ K 4 3 ♦ None ♣ Q 10 9 8 7 5 4 2

After Lochridge had shown both major suits, nothing short of an adverse grand slam could interfere with the smooth run of our opponents' bidding up to a small slam. Of course Norwood and I bid and rebid our respective minor suits. Clubs would have been a very difficult call to play, but it was obvious that a grand slam at diamonds would go down more than five tricks, supposing it impossible to find a trick in dummy. Five tricks down, vulnerable and doubled would cost 1400 points, less 100 points for honors held, or 1300 points net. It should be noted that abolition of all honors in duplicate games holds only where match point scoring is employed. We were playing cumulative scores, and since the Vanderbilt Trophy match, honors held are scored in that kind of game.

Thinking over possible scores, going down 130 points sounds pretty bad, but look at the other side of the matter. Our opponents are not the kind of bidder to deliberately and needlessly sail up to 6 Spades, over my poor little call of 5 Diamonds, unless they were reasonably sure of scoring a small slam, particularly when they are vulnerable. The minimum score for a small slam when vulnerable and playing a major suit, is 1430. I purposely stopped bidding diamonds at five-odd. I did not want to push them into a small slam with the trickless defensive holdings I had.

While I tried to stop bidding at five-odd, once opponents had bid six-odd, the question arose whether or not it would pay me to bid 7 Diamonds, to save a minimum of 130 points. If that had been the only question suggesting itself I would have jumped into 7 Diamonds without hesitation. I dared not bid the grand slam, that might have induced opponents to bid a grand slam at spades, and had they done so it would have been made. It was a ticklish situation.

TRAIN CHILD TO KEEP SELF SAFE
By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Department Parent Education Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

For safety in the toddler don't begin at the top. Might as well try to reason with the moon as to reason with the average young child to keep him out of the street. Train him to stay out of the street first, and let him learn later that doing so is reasonable.

Be on hand when he is tempted the first time to run unaided into the street. The moment he steps down off the curb give him instantly a good, sound spanking with your bare, flat hand, on his bare bottom. Make it hurt. Do likewise thereafter without exception. Never leave the little child alone near the street until you are sure he will safely keep himself out of it. It may take no longer than a week and no more than a few spanks to make him permanently safe thereafter, whether you are with him or not. But let everything else go until you are sure the learning is complete. Permit absolutely no exception. Cease to be sentimental. Isn't your child's life very precious?

The age at which most children are slaughtered in the street is 3 (an established fact). Why are children at this age allowed to run into the street? A few of them are neglected; but most of them have parents who really have tried hard to protect them. Yet these failing parents have put their trust in reason and persuasion, having been deluded by that diabolical doctrine that a child never must be spanked.

At the door of those writers and teachers who for years have spread this doctrine lies the blame for the tragic death of a great many little children.

TEACH MEANING OF "NO"

When, on the other hand, we train the little child in the meaning of "No" we establish inhibitions in him in respect to safety useful to him all his life. Having learned at 3 to keep himself out of t e street, he is to that degree prepared to be cautious of the street at 7, even at 70. Most of our safety education comes too late. No matter how much the school child or adult knows of safety, what will this knowledge profit him if in his nervous system have not been established basic inhibitions?

Let us who believe in saving little children's lives do all we can to persuade the many writers and teachers who are telling parents never to spank their children, to cease their spread of this destructive doctrine; also let us encourage parents to resist this doctrine if they wish to keep their children alive.

Furthermore, the child who early learns the meaning of "No", rarely heard, has acquired the alphabet of citizenship in regard to the rights of others. Begin at the bottom to teach safety and build up barriers to crime.

WHAT MAKES NATURAL HUMAN DIET?
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

The human body of an average adult, viewed in a cool and calculating chemical way, consists of about 97 pounds of water, about 22 pounds of albumin, 20 pounds of fat, 2½ pounds of sugar and 7½ pounds of salts. The 2½ pounds of sugar is a form of reserve energy, just like the gasoline in the tank of your automobile. Gasoline contributes to the weight of the automobile, but is no essential part of the mechanism. So is sugar in the body, most of it in the liver and in the muscles.

So far as salts are concerned, there is enough iron in the body to make a ten-penny nail, enough calcium to whitewash a chickencoop, enough phosphorus to make several boxes of matches, enough sulphur to fumigate a room, enough common salt—sodium chloride—to fill a good-sized salt shaker, and some potassium and carbonate salts.

FOOD FUNCTION TWOFOLD

The function of food is twofold: First to replace these chemical compounds when they break down; and, second, to keep the mechanism moving— tissue replacement and energy. The interaction of these chemical elements not only makes man move around and perform certain actions that are called "work", but accounts also for such intangible things as the operation of his mind and soul, adding up a column of figures, falling in love, and warding off disease.

Plainly, then, a natural diet must contain basically the chemical compounds we have mentioned, or at least chemical elements which the body can build into these compounds. As a matter of practice, we take in the compounds and not the elements. In this, animals differ from plants because it is characteristic of plants that they build up their living structure out of simple elements through the action of sunlight. The body builds up and breaks down its building materials, but the rate of breaking down is so slow that we need only a very small part of these chemicals in our food per day for tissue replacement. This is what we call "tissue replacement".

Most of our food goes to furnish energy to run the machine.

No system of diet which can lay claim to be called natural leaves out the consideration of these two fundamental factors, or leaves out the chemicals which satisfy the requirements of tissue replacement and energy renewal.

We will consider these two functions in detail in the articles this week.

Answer—In most instances it is due to the habit of swallowing air more or less unconsciously. If due to indigestion, it is relieved by the use of lean meats, vegetables and fruit, rather than starchy foods.

LIFE OF KING EDWARD VIII — No. 2 — His Boyhood

Sketched by C. H. CRITTENDEN

Young Edward was educated by private tutors until he entered Osborne, in 1907, to prepare for the royal naval college at Dartmouth.

He left Dartmouth in 1911 and was invested with the Order of the Garter. Then his father became King and he was created Prince of Wales.

Following in the footsteps of his father, who was trained in the British navy, Wales served as midshipman on board the Hindustan.

When King Edward VIII became Prince of Wales at the age of 16.

In 1912 he entered Magdalen college, Oxford, and mixed freely with his fellow students. During vacations he travelled widely on the continent.

The charms of Oxford's life appealed to the prince, but it was not long until his mother decided new surroundings at Cambridge to be advisable.

Wales' college life ended abruptly seven days after the world war began when he joined the first battalion of the Grenadier Guards in 1914.

NINE MEMBERS OF ROUGH-RIDERS' EXECUTIVE SUSPENDED AS RESULT OF "ROY BERRY" IMPERSONATION

President Fry of A.A.A. Says Is Not Satisfied They Did Not Know; One Member Is Mayor of Ottawa

By ELMER DULMAGE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

TORONTO, Feb. 5 (CP).—President W. A. Fry of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada announced tonight the expulsion from amateur sport of nine members of the Ottawa Roughriders Football club executive as an aftermath of the "great impersonation" of Roy Berry by Bohn Hilliard last fall.

Hilliard, former University of Texas halfback, assumed the name of Roy Berry and played with Roughriders in the interprovincial union last season. Mr. Fry said he was satisfied the impersonation actually took place and he was not satisfied that the club executive was unaware of it.

Those expelled are George F. Perley, P. Lorne Young, Stewart Christie, James P. McCaffery, James Wright, Robert Thompson, J. E. Stanley Lewis, T. P. Ebbs and S. C. Hooper. Mr. Lewis is mayor of Ottawa.

"It is almost incredible to believe that such prominent sportsmen could have acquiesced in this shocking breach of the ethics of British fair play and sportsmanship, and it will be a pleasure, indeed, to lift this ban if and when any or all of those mentioned present to the eastern Ontario branch of the union at Ottawa satisfactory evidence that the impersonation was without their knowledge," Mr. Fry asserted.

An official investigation of the Hilliard-Berry impersonation, conducted by the A. A. U. of C. through Daniel J. Ferris of New York, secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, revealed that Roy Berry could not have been in Ottawa last fall.

The Hilliard-Berry scandal was "broken" last fall, late in the Big Four football season, by Edwin Allan, sports editor of the Toronto Mail and Empire, who said he had evidence that Ottawa's Roy Berry was really Bohn Hilliard. Ottawa officials quickly denied the charge and the Big Four executive took no action.

Ottawa Roughriders were already out of the running for the league championship but they finished the schedule by defeating Toronto Argonauts twice on successive Saturdays' depriving Argos of the title which went to Hamilton Tigers. Berry, or Hilliard, was a star in both games.

Ken Doraty of Regina, now playing with Cleveland, was tied with Hudson for goal-getting honors, with 18 markers but he had only seven assists, for a total of 25 points. Other westerners among the leaders were Eric Pettinger of London Tecs and Don Deacon of Detroit Olympics, with 24 and 23 points respectively. Both players are from Regina.

Who was the sniping star of the N.H.L. Stanley cup playoff games last year? Well, no matter who is on top, according to the figures that are said not to lie, Toronto fans will admit that handsome Earl Robinson of the pestiferous Maroons was one of the leaders.

This Montreal-born puck-chaser, who cavorts along the Maroon's right boards, capped all his previous efforts by the display he turned in when the Stanley cup hung in the balance last season. He showed that he knows how to check, along with the rest of Gorman's crew and in front of the nets there isn't a much more polished performer than Robinson.

Until 1933 Earl alternated between Montreal and Windsor, the Bulldogs of the border town having vivid recollections of his fine work in the International league. He turned pro. with Philadelphia first after proving a high school sensation in his home city. After leading the Canadian-American league in scoring, he stepped up to the International and duplicated the performance. Montreal decided it was time she took her son to her bosom again.

In addition to hockey, Robinson is a smart golfer and a rifle shot of note. He stands six feet high and weighs about 160 pounds. This year he was slow to start, but around the Notre Dame de Grace area of Montreal they still do their hockey swearing by the popular Robbie.

Edward "Teddy" Drake, brilliant center player of the famous Arsenal club. Skilful, fast, and with wonderfull control, Teddy can make holes in the opponents' defence with apparent ease. His size stands him in good stead when the going gets tough. His feat of scoring seven goals in one game just recently marks him as an opportunist supreme.

VICTORIA AND QUEENSLAND IN CRICKET DRAW

BRISBANE, Australia, Feb. 5 (CP Cable)—Victoria and Queensland drew their Sheffield shield fixture here today, time being called with the visiting team only 48 runs short of victory.

Tallon, who in some quarters is regarded as the logical successor to W. A. Oldfield Australia's veteran stumper, hit one six and 28 fours.

FUN

AND ONLY THE SURVIVORS LIVED TO TELL IT

Tim McGrath, old-time San Francisco fight manager (he handled Tom Sharkey) is quite a story-teller. And, according to several second fiddles in the racket, this is one of Tim's favorites. It reputedly was told to him by Spider Kelly, once a top-notch fighter.

According to McGrath, here's the tale of Kelly:

"Back in the old Indian-fighting days, a band of 16 of us were out travelling the plains. All of a sudden, a horde of Indians swooped down on us. We dashed away to the hills.

"When we finally got our wits together we found ourselves hemm. in in a pocket. The walls on three sides of us were sheer precipices, an formed a box-like trap.

"There we were, me, my brothers, my brother-in-laws, yes, even their brother-in-laws, all trapped. The arrows were whizzing over our heads and the Indians coming closer.

"Well," McGrath asked Kelly, "how did you escape?"

"Hell," snorted Kelly, "we didn't escape. They killed ever damn one of us!"

WALES BEATS ENGLAND 2-1 IN INTERNATIONAL SOCCER MATCH

WOLVERHAMPTON, Eng., Feb. 5 (CP cable).—Wales today duplicated its 2-1 score over England of two years ago when the two countries met in their annual international soccer match. England, however, is still far ahead in the series which started in 1879, winning 37 to Wales' eight. Ten games have been drawn. Last year England won 4-0.

Substituted for Tom Griffiths, Aston Villa's great Welsh international who was unable to play, B. Jones of Wolverhampton, proved the star of the game, scoring the game-winning goal.

Thirty thousand spectators turned out despite a steady rain and saw the Welshmen engineer a second-half two-goal drive to clinch victory over the powerful home team, including six players from the Arsenal lineup. Play was poor due to waterlogged grounds.

The teams:

England—Goal, Hibbs (Birmingham); backs, Male, Hapgood (Arsenal); halfbacks, Crayston (Arsenal), Barker (Derby County), Bray (Manchester City); forwards, Crooks (Derby County), Bowden, Drake, Bastin (Arsenal), Brook (Manchester City).

Wales — Goal, John (Sheffield United); backs, Ellis (Motherwell), Jones (Leicester City); halfbacks, Murphy (West Bromwich Albion); Hanford (Swansea), Richards (Brentford); forwards, Hopkins (Brentford), Phillips, Astley (Aston Villa), Jones (Wolverhampton), Evans (Tottenham Hotspurs).

HOCKEY CHATTER

Three more games remain to be played in the West Kootenay Commercial Hockey league. Rossland plays Trail Friday night, Trail at Nelson Monday night and Nelson at Trail Friday night, February 14. Then the playoffs come to the fore.

At present there is a lull, as usually precedes a storm. Nelson is still hoping to receive word permitting Bicknell, Goble and Smith playing in the finals. It is proof that "Hope springs eternal in the mortal breast," or fans wouldn't have the face to expect such a concession from His Majesty A. E. Gilroy.

A good time was had by all at the Crutchfield benefit game at Montreal last Friday in which there was a little of everything icy dished up to the 11,500 customers who paid about $8000 to be allowed to hang around. It was a magnificent testimonial to a popular player. The game between the old timers ended in a 2-2 tie. Players on these teams ranged between Billy Boucher, 35, to Mike Grant, 67. Boucher got both goals for The Rest and Newsy Lalonde got one for Canadiens, one of his old time favorites for it was scored from behind the goal.

With two minutes left to go all the old timers there were turned on the ice and the puck found itself doing 33 varieities of movements.

Bob Gracie, greyhound of the Montreal Maroons defeated the amateur and pro skaters in the speed race that was held.

Art Ross staged a phoney fight with Pete Payan for which event the officials, after collaborating with all people in hearing distance, said, something like this: "Mr. Ross, please to pay $25." Ross was impressed both with the privilege and the opportunity, and handed over the 25 dew drops.

When the famous Cook-Boucher-Cook line of the New York Rangers was broken up recently as part of the policy of Manager Lester Patrick for reconstructing this famous National Hockey league team, the dissection came about almost a year to the day from the time the noted trio had achieved the goal of 1000 points in major league competition.

It was on January 29, 1935, that this line acquired no less than nine scoring points as Rangers defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 7 to 5 in a game at New York. It was in recent mid-January that Lester Patrick effected a sharp rearrangement of lines by which this famed combination whose bewildering style of swinging passes had baffled many a defence and goaler, was broken up into separate units. Incidentally, the rearranged Rangers won their first start, for after a shaky beginning they came from behind to whip Montreal Maroons 2-1 in Montreal.

After nine and a half years together, the longest a forward line ever has remained intact in the National league, Bill goes back on defence, a post for which he had been pointed during the last two seasons, and Bun and Frank draw other partners. Frank is doing well with his new mates, but it will be some time before Bun gets back in the game, due to illness.

Frank Boucher

Boucher, who has been the fastest of the Ranger's famous front line in the last few seasons, will put his great playmaking skill in with Butch Keeling and Howie Morenz.

Bill Cook, although placed back on defence, will be used on the forward line as occasions arise. He has many excellent qualities for a post on defence when needed there. He possesses hockey knowledge and experience second to none, weight, a good check, and ability to break fast. He may follow the trail of such noted stars as King Clany, Happy Day, Ebbie Goodfellow, Babe Seibert and others who starred after being moved from the forward line to a defensive berth.

In reaching the 1000-point mark, Boucher was the leader. He had 127 league goals and 206 assists for 333 points, 14 goals and the same number of assists in playoffs for 28 more points, a total of 361. Bill scored 224 goals, Bun 160 goals.

All three joined Rangers when that team first came into existence beginning its remarkable career at the start of the 1926-27 season. Boucher is, however, an earlier veteran of National league play as he first performed in the major group, for one year, in 1921-22, then went to the Western league for several seasons.

TWO CANADIANS ON THE ENGLISH OLYMPIC PUCK TEAM ARE BARRED

Transferred Without Permission of the C.A.H.A. Body

OLYMPIC WINTER FUN STARTS TODAY

Canada's Pucksters to Meet Poland; Bob Sleds Have Runs

GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Feb. 5 (CP)—The international hockey federation ruled two Canadian-trained members of the English hockey team ineligible for competition tonight on the eve of the opening of the fourth Olympic winter games.

The players, James Foster, formerly of Winnipeg and Moncton, and Alexander Archer, ex-Winnipegger, were ruled out for having transferred to English teams without the permission of the Canadian Amateur Hockey association.

E. A. Gilroy of Portage La Prairie, Man., president of the C. A. H. A. explained to the meeting the association rule that players desiring to leave the Dominion must apply for a transfer to keep in good standing. Archer and Foster he charged had broken this rule.

With three members abstaining the international federation voted unanimously to uphold the Canadian position and the two players were stamped ineligible for the Olympics.

THREE CANADIANS LEFT

The vote reduced to three the number of Canadian-trained players on the English ice team. This trio, along with Foster and Archer, were born in the British Isles.

The vote cleared the air, and with weather conditions ideal, the winter Olympics tonight awaited only a few words from Chancellor Hitler to make them official.

At 11 a.m. Thursday (three a.m. P.S.T.), Germany's fuehrer, following the historic colorful parade of the nations, will proclaim the games open.

Three and a half hours later, Canada's hockey array, confident of keeping the Dominion's supremacy in that sport intact, will square off against Poland in the first competition of the international athletic carnival. That game will be at nearby Reisser' Lake. Simultaneously, in the stadium here the United States pucksters will be facing Germany.

HUNGARY vs. BELGIUM

At 4:30, the Hungarian hockey team will clash with Belgium and at nine p.m., the Swedish team will take on Japan. That will complete the opening program.

As the bob run was opened for a series of practice spins, several sleds came croppers with resultant minor injuries to contestants. The American sleds, with their sharp runners, didn't dent the course as rival teams had charged they would.

The Americans agreed the course was not so hazardous as the Mt. Von Hovenburg run at Lake Placid, N.Y., where the 1932 championships were decided.

Many of the skiers and skaters, after attending a rehearsal for tomorrow's opening ceremonies, completed another day's training without additional casualties.

HAS INJURED ANKLE

Dick Durrance, American downhill and slalom star known well to Canadians, worked out with a damaged ankle heavily bandgaged but he still was confident he would be in shape for competition.

Paul Ottar Satre and Richard Parsons of Salisbury, Conn., Birger Torissen of Norfolk Conn., and Warren Chivers of Dartmouth were chosen as the United States team in the 40-kilometre ski relay, each man running 10 kilometres.

One of the nine bob-sledders who suffered minor injuries in spills, Henri Hoch of Luxembourg, was most seriously hurt. He was cut about the legs and mouth when his sled cracked up on Bavarian curve, a sharp, hair-pin turn. Most of the spills occurred at this spot, largely due to the roughness of its construction.

SCANDINAVIANS FAVORED

Experts regarded it as certain that the three Scandinavian countries once more would walk off with most of the winter championships. Norway, Sweden and Finland, they figure, will likely make a clean sweep of the skiing event unless the able Dick Durrance can pull a surprise in the downhill and slalom events.

Mlle. Henie and Karl Schaefer of Austria were heavily favored to retain the individual figure skating crowns with Maxie Herbert and Ernest Baier of Germany, rated as the leading contenders for the pairs title.

Ruling co-favorites for the two man and four man bobsledding titles are the Americans, Swiss and Germans.

Birger Ruud of Norway in the ski jump, and Mlle. Henie and Schaefer in the figure skating, are the only individual defending champions seeking to repeat their triumphs of four years ago at Lake Placid.

U.S. Stars After New Swim Marks

Will Shoot at World Records in Victoria Meet

SEATTLE, Feb. 5 (AP). — Ray Daughters, coach of the nationally famous Washington Athletic club swimming team, said world records will be attempted by his charges at the "midwinter gala" in the Victoria pool Saturday night.

Jack Medica, Olive McKean, Doris Buckley, Mary Lou Petty, Betty Lea and Janet Hughes will compete against Victoria and Vancouver swim stars and Elinor Becker, will represent W. A. C. in the diving events.

Medica will swim against Johnny Weismuller's 3:41 1-5 record for 300 yards as the featured event, Daughters said. The W. A. C. girls will try for the 400-yard long course relay record, the only relay record they do not hold. It was set by the Women's Swimming association of New York.

Mary Lou Petty will be sent against the 9:51 3-5 American record held by Dorothea Dickinson, New York, in the 700-yard event.

Betty Lea and Olive McKean will meet Marion Moffat of Vancouver in a 100-yard match backstroke event. Miss Moffat defeated Miss McKean in the event at Vancouver's provincial indoor championships last week.

MURDER UPSTAIRS

by ADAM BLISS

CHAPTER 52

Everyone was at dinner except Mrs. Starmont and Mr. Hemingway. She had sent down word that she didn't care for even a tray, and Mr. Hemingway said he wasn't hungry when I knocked at his door after he had disregarded the gong.

After dinner I cleared the dishes and helped Grace with the kitchen work. She asked when she was finished whether she could go up to Mrs. Starmont's room safely. I suggested a small tray, so she fixed that, and went away.

I was still in the kitchen at 9 o'clock when Kirk Larrabee came from headquarters via the back door. He looked over my shoulder as I sat at the table writing my grocery list.

"Worried?" he asked, kindly.

"Yes." I was worried. I was frantic with worry, with bewilderment, with that miserable conclusion I had made in the phone booth this afternoon coming back and back at me like a buzzing fly.

"You know something." His agile brain again. "Dr. Rudemar told you something when you called him on the phone!"

He was wrong there. Dr. Rudemar hadn't told me anything I didn't know. The conclusion I had made in the booth was an old one, too, days old now.

"I'll know soon, Mrs. Penny." He was his old self again. All the coldness he had displayed in the sitting room was gone. Apparently I was forgiven for having secretly phoned Dr. Rudemar. "I have a warrant for the arrest of Hemingway in my pocket."

"For his arrest?"

"Yes. He finally told me some things this afternoon."

"Confessed?" My voice was only a whisper.

"No confession yet, but the information he gave me is strong enough to warrant his arrest for murder."

"You think he did it?"

"Do you?"

Throwing it in my lap again. I was silent. He could take that silence any way he chose. If Larrabee wanted to suspect Martin Hemingway, wanted to arrest him, I had my own suspicions, too.

Larrabee was in a confidential mood.

"Let me tell you about Hemingway. I've been worried about the voice that answered Cor.ad Withers Tuesday morning from Darien's bedroom. The voice that told him to enter. It was obvious to me, from the first, that it must belong to someone in this house. Perhaps Hemingway. Surely Hemingway. It was a man's voice unless Withers was lying. He wasn't lying. It was a man's voice, and it was Hemingway. He told me this afternoon after I had questioned him for an hour.

"He was in the habit of going into Darien's room early in the morning.

"Sometimes they had their business conferences there before the household was awake. He entered by the closet door, which was usually left open on Darien's side. Often, Hemingway awakened Darien. They worked together, as you probably know by this time, on Darien's blackmail schemes, consulted with each other constantly. Tuesday morning—it really started Monday night—Hemingway was angry. There had been no consultation about Janet Bell, and Hemingway had overheard a bit of conversation—not much—during Janet's visit to Darien's room.

"He wanted to know more about it, of course, Knowing his employer, for that's who Darien really was to him, was never in a good mood at night, he waited until morning, came in about 5, which was earlier than usual, but he couldn't wait any longer after a sleepless night. He found Darien dead.

"For a moment he was panic stricken, so he says, then his head cleared. There might be some papers in the room. He looked for them, found them, and was still going through the desk when Withers knocked. In a moment he was in the closet, calling 'Come in'. A mistake, but he had to do something. He heard the door open and someone enter slowly. He told me he recognized Withers from the closet door which was not quite closed, saw his hesitancy, saw Withers leave softly without raising an alarm.

"Then Hemingway slipped Darien's closet panel bolt, went out into the hall and to his own room, and bolted the closet door from his side. So, Tuesday morning two men in the house knew Darien was murdered, and neither of them gave an alarm. Hemingway swears he didn't dare to because he was afraid he might be thought the murderer. Withers probably thought the same thing, that is, if he's innocent."

His voice was very low. I had to bend forward to hear him.

"Hemingway also swears that he didn't murder Darien, that when he went into the room at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning, Darien already was dead.

Strange, isn't it, that two men should enter Darien's room, discover he had been murdered, and not give an alarm?"

"The papers Mr. Hemingway found?" I inquired.

"He didn't find much, a few letters and a few documents, he says. He took them and burned them before breakfast. He must have taken everything in the room because when we looked there was nothing in Darien's desk, except unimportant correspondence that had no possible bearing on his murder."

"And Delia?"

"He claims he had no idea he was Delia's secret love. Claims, in fact, that he never went up to the fourth floor since he put his trunk away in the storeroom. He told me all this very convincingly. Never changed his story once, but that doesn't erase the fact that all night long the latch on Darien's closet door remained open between the two rooms, and that he had the opportunity to kill Darien."

"Did he hear anything during the night?"

"He did change his statement there. At first he said that he slept soundly all night long. Today he tells me he didn't sleep at all, that he spent most of the night sitting in a chair, smoking, and wondering why Janet Bell was important to Darien. It seems he's fond of Janet, more so than he has been of any other girl he's known. He's been wanting to marry her ever since she came to the house. I judge that the other afternoon when he went to her room, he proposed again, and when she refused him, he accused her of threatening to kill Darien. In his anger over her refusal he came to me, and told me about her threat. There are men like that, you know."

"You haven't told me what he heard Monday night——" I interjected.

"He heard nothing until Withers threw some gravel at your window. Nothing. And he sticks by that story, too. The house was very quiet, he says.

"His room was in darkness but he couldn't see who was on the lawn. His windows face east and Withers was in front, under you windows. At first, he contemplated going down and opening the door, then decided against it. He heard you on the stairs. You were puffing a little and sighing, he says. Then later, half an hour later, he heard you come up again, sighing. He was listening for you, he admits, standing near his door. I asked him if he heard Miss Cambridge with you, and he said no, he thought you were alone."

"After that?"

"The next thing he heard, aside from the little noises about the house, was when he was in Darien's room—Withers' knock. Now Hemingway was awake all night. He was on the second floor, and says he heard nothing except what I've told you. Withers was awake on the third floor, and said he heard nothing. All night long. Another snag."

World Has Never Had Enough Food to Satisfy the Demand, Declares Sir Edward Beatty, Head of C.P.R.

No Agriculture Over-Production But Many Have Not Means to Buy; More Difficult Now for Man to Find New Home

TORONTO, Feb. 5 — Stating his belief that prices of agricultural products could move only in accordance with the normal operation of economic laws, rather than as a result of government action involving tariffs or other artificial agencies, and voicing his considered opinion that there was no such thing as world agriculture overproduction, Sir Edward Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific railway, addressed the Holstein-Fresian association at their annual dinner here tonight.

As far as Sir Edward knew, the world had never had enough food to satisfy all the demand and the situation in that respect was by no means improving. World agricultural production for 1934 was lower than for any year since 1927, while world population had increased in that time from 8 to 10 per cent.

But there did exist a widespread condition under which people who wanted food might not be able to buy it because they had no means of paying. This had resulted from disturbances following the great war and the post war boom and depression. Contributing factors were development of extreme nationalism under which almost every country had sought to make itself self-contained, and the bringing under cultivation in recent years of previously unused land, now no longer available.

Referring to the passing into cultivation of remaining areas of free or cheap land, Sir Edward pointed out that occupation by modern nations had spread, with few exceptions over all ownerless and unoccupied portions of the earth, so that for two centuries, the world's area of the fertile soil had been steadily added to. The process was slowing down. No great areas remained in to which there could be a rush of population.

It was definitely more difficult today for a man to find for himself a new home made by his own labor from cheap or free land, than it was when "Uncle Sam had a farm for everyone," or later on, when men were swarming into western Canada.

The Canadian Pacific, said Sir Edward, had experience in settling a new country. The railway was built as a colonization road at the request of the government, and it was not only because the government lacked cash and had plenty of land that the consideration given the builders was in substantial part in the form of land. The government having failed to build a railroad had made a contract with a private company to build it and part of the payment given was 25 million acres of land. No one could say precisely what that land was worth, but five years later the company sold 6,793,014 acres back to the government for $1.50 per acre. The company sold land at a flat price of $2.50 per acre, with a rebate of $1.25 for every acre broken and cultivated. The speaker said that there could be no doubt that the company's land receipts under the original contract was somewhere between $25,000,000 and $35,000,000 worth of property.

The total amount received to date from sales of land from this original grant had amounted to $95,000,000. As against that, Sir Edward set the company's expenditures on immigration, colonization, land settlement irrigation and other aids to settling the west, amounting to $111,000,000 and, he suggested, it would be agreed that the company had not got rich out of its land grant. The company had undertaken to encourage land settlement because that was the only way to make a country.

RESUME LAND SETTLEMENT

While in no sense making a speech on immigration, Sir Edward solemnly assured his hearers that one of the things checking world progress was the suspension of the steady process of land settlement and that this process should and would be resumed.

Sir Edward referred to the farmers enormous political power. Their business was the foundation of the country's economic life and thus they bore a large part of the cost of running the nation. While their direct taxes were very largely for local purposes, they also paid a large proportion of all the country's taxes.

The main part of the country's business was the exchange of goods and services between farmers and other people, and the cost of running the country largely came out of the difference between the price the farmer received for what he sold and the price the consumer paid for it. "When you consider," he said, "what the housewife in the city pays for a steak compared with what the farmer receives for beef on the hoof, remember that no small part of that price is represented by the cost of government."

Market and Mining News

BACON UP CENT, NELSON MARKET

No. 2 bacon was up a cent on the wholesale market at Nelson during the past week, the second advance in a month's time. The wholesale market on the whole was quiet and price changes negligible. The local egg supply is gradually picking up but an advance is to be expected as the coast market has reached rock bottom.

Tea and coffee is stronger and advances have been made in prices but not at Nelson.

WINNIPEG FIRM

WINNIPEG, Feb. 5 (CP)—Wheat prices were firm in a lack-lustre session of the Winnipeg grain exchange today, and closed near the best prices of the day, ¼-½ cent higher. The May future was at 86¼, July 87 and October 86⅛ cents.

Moderate export sales of Canadian wheat and strength at Chicago combined to hold local prices at levels above the previous close. Comparative steadiness at Liverpool also aided local market sentiment.

Foreign sales were estimated at 300,000 bushels.

$15,000,000 C. P. R. Bond Issue Is Oversubscribed

TORONTO, Feb. 5 (CP)—The Canadian Pacific railway $15,000,000 bond issue, floated today, was heavily oversubscribed, the selling syndicate reported. The $5,000,000 serial issue was sold to yield 4 per cent.

The money will be used to retire $12,000,000 of notes guaranteed by the Dominion government and the balance for extensions.

Over $12 Million in Gold Shipped From U. S. Shores

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—Gold shipments left these shores today for the first time since Oct., 1934.

Departing gold totalled $12,177,000 and was consigned principally to France. Of this sum $10,477,000 was shipped on the S. S. President Harding, while $1,700,000 was loaded aboard the S. S. Majestic, sailing at midnight.

Meanwhile banks received word that U. S. treasury officials had announced that up to three p.m. no applications had been received for licenses to export gold.

SILVERS DROP

MONTREAL, Feb. 5 (CP)—Silver futures dipped 35 to 70 points on Canadian commodity exchange today, influenced by declines in silver prices on London bullion markets.

Trading was at a minimum, nine contracts changing hands. Transfers were six March and three May.

March and May were traded at 44.00 at the close after touching highs of 44.10 and 44.05 respectively.

NEW TOPS HIT AT NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 AP)—In a swift last-minute turnabout, traders sold stocks today, taking the forward drive out of a stout market in which many new tops for five years or more had been scored earlier.

The closing tone was highly irregular. The switch to selling psychology came so late it failed to spread to all sections, but recessions of a point or more in the last ten minutes were fairly common.

In some cases this left individual issues still ahead on the day although many shaded early gains of 1 to 3 points or so.

Farm equipments, business machine stocks and a variety of industrial issues were the market leaders during most of the session, and some of them survived the late selling in good shape. J. I. Case, however, was one which ended a little lower after a gain of around 3 points for a time.

MINES LOWER

Coalhurst Mine Air Explosive

Samples Show Mixture of Methane Gas Says Inspector

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Feb. 5 (CP).—Samples of air taken from the Coalhurst mine of Lethbridge Collieries, Ltd., while the mine fan was running showed a highly explosive mixture of methane gas, District Mines Inspector J. B. de Hart of Lethbridge testified today before the judicial inquiry into the disaster of December 9.

Sixteen miners were killed in a mysterious explosion at the Coalhurst mine which officials and miners considered gasless.

Inspector de Hart told the inquiry under Mr. Justice H. W. Lunney that he had taken four samples of air from the mine Dec. 27 and sent them to Ottawa for analysis. The analysis report showed the quantity of methane gas in one sample was negligible, in another was highly explosive and in the other two was so rich it was above the explosive limit.

Captains of rescue crews who entered the mine following the explosion were heard during the afternoon but little new evidence was obtained.

Hill, a constable at that time, identified a uniformed man in a Leader-Post photograph of the riot as himself. In the picture he is standing over the fallen Millar, while several rioters armed with clubs and missiles, run up to attack him.

Hill testified he received a blow on the side of the head as he was dragging Millar away. He remembered nothing more about it until he came to his senses in the police station garage, still on his feet.

Alberta Mayor Found Not Guilty False Pretences

EDMONTON, Feb. 5 (CP). — Mayor Henry Graves Curlett of Westlock, Alta., was acquitted here today of false pretences charges by a supreme court jury. The trial of the hotel proprietor charged with obtaining $19,254 in fire insurance claims after his home was destroyed November 18, 1933, lasted seven days.

Following addresses to the jury by defence and crown counsel lasting three and a half hours, Mr. Justice W. C. Ives charged the jury in 10 minutes.

MORE ABOUT THE WEATHER

The farmer on the back concession didn't get his mail for the second straight day and he ate home-baked bread. Bread wagons were not working on the back concessions.

Temperatures held to a few degrees above or below zero in eastern Canada, excepting the maritimes where forecasts indicated a downturn of mercury today. But near-record low levels prevailed in the west.

Brandon, Man., stayed at home because it was 46 below zero. At Winnipeg it was 42 below and at Kenora, Ont., 36 below. Alberta and Saskatchewan failed to appreciate temperatures only a few degrees higher.

50 DIE IN COLD

CHICAGO, Feb. 5 (AP)—Subzero cold stabbed wide reaches of the northern United States again today—causing approximately 50 fatalities from the Rockies to the Atlantic coast.

It scored a 48-below mark at Warroad, Minn., near the Canadian border, crippled highway and rail transportation in a half dozen midwestern states, knocked 40 degrees from thermometer readings generally and swept into the east in full force tonight.

A 37-year-old record was tied at Minneapolis, where the mercury snuggled down to 22 below at 6 a.m. to register under zero for the 19th consecutive day.

Schools were closed in many communities. Fears for dwindling coal piles increased as weathermen indicated that the Mackenzie basin born frigidity would probably continue through Friday — perhaps longer. Southern floods were congealed in the cold which blanketed the country except for parts of the extreme northwest, west, and southern portions. Suffering of flood victims, however, mounted.

TRAINS CANCELLED

Many trains were cancelled, halted or delayed in the snow buried hearts of the cold empire—the Dakotas, Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin.

Only slightly better than the Warroad's minimum was that of Eveleth, Minn. There the mercury dropped to 47 below.

Other extreme readings, all minus zero, included Hallock, Minn., 44; Grand Forks, N.D., 41; Watertown, S.D., 30; Milwaukee 16; Iron Mountain, Mich., 33; Marshalltown, Iowa, 32, and Chicago 13. Mundelein, Ill., reported 25 below.

Municipal court authorities at Chicago announced no evictions of families for non-payment of rent would be tolerated until the weather moderates. Their dictum was issued to prevent additional suffering.

In Iowa, Governor Clyde Herring appealed to the miners for aid in relieving an acute coal shortage by working extra hours daily until the emergency was passed.

Special trains were carrying coal to the Chicago board of education which found its bins held only 8000 tons last night.

MEAT STRIKE IS NOT YET BROKEN

LONDON, Feb. 5 (AP).—An unofficial report spread here tonight that the meat strike at the Smithfield central market would end late Saturday with men returning to work between 11 p.m. and midnight.

Strikers, however, showed no signs of relenting and claimed all of the capital's dock, wharf, and cold storage workers will join with them unless Smithfield employers give in to their demands for increased wages.

The employers declared in a statement they "cannot and will not yield" to the demands.

Convoys of trucks continued to carry meat supplies from cold storage depots set up secretly and hotels, restaurants, and housewives were still unaffected by the walkout.

The trucks carried their cargoes to retailers at prearranged points in London's suburbs as heavy police guards stood ready to halt any attempt at interference with the deliveries.

FARLEY ATTACKS LIBERTY LEAGUE

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 5 (AP)—In a direct and sharply worded attack on the American Liberty league, chairman James A. Farley, of the Democratic national committee tonight termed that group "the centre and soul of the predatory powers."

Making not a single reference in his prepared text to Alfred E. Smith, who recently denounced the new deal before a league dinner and threatened to "take a walk" out of the Democratic convention, Farley did, however, label the league an "ally" of the Republican national committee.

The Democratic committee chief, who has been vacationing in Florida, spoke before a Roosevelt dinner here.

CANADA'S TEAM IN GOOD SHAPE

Pudas Certain Team Will Win the First Olympic Game

GARMISCH - PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Feb. 5 (CP)—Canada's hockey players were tucked in bed early tonight, anxious for the whistle tomorrow that will send them against Poland in one of the games inaugurating competition in the fourth Olympic winter games.

At 2 p.m. (6 a.m. P.S.T.) the confident Canadians, at top strength according to Coach Pudas, will face a Polish team reputed to be strong, on nearby Ressier lake. At the same hour, the United States team will face Germany in the stadium here.

Fifteen teams are competing for the hockey title, which Canada has held since the winter games were inaugurated. Teams sporting the Maple Leaf have not, in fact, lost a game in Olympic competition, but this year the United States and England in particular are considered to have stronger squads than those of other Olympic years.

For the first round draw, the teams have been split into four groups. The groups were formed in such a manner that the four European teams considered the strongest would not meet in elimination contests, and that Canada and the United States would not be paired.

The groups follow:

No. 1—Canada, Poland, Austria, Latvia.

No. 2—United States, Germany, Switzerland, Italy.

No. 3—Hungary, France, Belgium, Czechoslovakia.

No. 4—England, Sweden, Japan.

In the first round, each team will play the other teams of the group, with the two leaders, determined on the point basis, advancing to the second round. The eight survivors will then be split into two groups of four teams for a similar series that will reduce the field to four teams and ultimately to two finalists.
