VANCOUVER IS ANXIOUS ABOUT RELIEF DELAY

Victoria Denies Report About Relief for 4000

VANCOUVER TO SEND PROTEST

Delegation Will Follow if Protest Not Acted Upon

VANCOUVER, B C, Dec. 16—A protest against the inactivity of the provincial government in placing single men and transients in relief camps will be forwarded to Victoria tomorrow by the city council. Should this protest not be acted upon the council will dispatch a delegation to interview ministers at the capital.

This was decided upon at a meeting of the council this afternoon when the seriousness of the present situation was drawn to the attention of aldermen by Ald. W. C. Atherton, chairman, relief and employment committee.

Last week-end press reports from Victoria announced that the government was preparing to send 4000 single men to the camps, Ald. Atherton said. He stated he got in communication with the authorities and they claimed that the report did not emanate from them.

McFADDEN STANDS BY CRITICISM OF HOOVER POLICIES

Maintains Before Fury of His Colleagues, That Hoover "Sold Out"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—Unbowed by the repudiation of his colleagues and the bitter censure of others, Representative McFadden, stocky Pennsylvania Republican, calmly but defiantly opposed the Hoover moratorium late today before the house ways and means committee.

His appearance brought to a close a day of parliamentary dramatics which saw the president's debt holiday proposal move slowly toward a vote which its sponsors predicted would give it house approval by Saturday.

McFadden's severe criticism of President Hoover and his charge that the chief executive had "sold out" to Germany made him the target of denunciatory speeches as soon as the congressional day began.

Beeby of Maine, angular Yankee Republican, accused him of uttering falsehoods and members of both parties arose to applaud as he vigorously defended the president.

SLEEPS NIGHT BESIDE BEAR

Indian Trapper Wakes Up in Morning to Find Bear in Next Bed

ORILLIA, Ont., Dec. 16 (CP)—Once upon a time—last night to be exact—Peter John, an Indian from the Rama band, was walking through the woods. Here and there he inspected his traps. It was getting dusk and the reserve was a long way from Peter John. So he decided to spend the night in an old cabin. In the cabin were two beds, a little bed and a big bed.

So Peter John climbed into the big bed and went to sleep. In the morning Peter John was awakened by a stentorious and wheezing snore and a couple of yawns. So he looked into the little bed and there saw what he thought was a man in a fur coat. Peter John said "hello," but there was no answer. He reached out and shook the fur coat. And the fur coat uncurled itself, uttered a loud "woof" and a couple of grunts and went away very quickly.

And Peter John said it was the first time as far as he knew, he had ever slept quite so close to a bear.

Marriages Decrease in B.C. During 1930

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 16.—Marriages showed a decrease in British Columbia during 1930, figures released today at the parliament buildings show.

Last year 4,697 couples marched to the altar, against 5,155 the previous year. Last year's marriage rate was 7.9 per thousand.

While the marriage rate of whites shows a decrease the rate amongst the Indians shows an increase last year. In 1929 there were 125 marriages, compared with 158 in 1930.

C. E. NEILL DIES DURING A BRIEF ILLNESS IN EAST

Vice-President and Managing Director of the Royal Bank Was 58

MONTREAL, Dec. 16 (CP)—The financial and sporting life of Canada today mourned the passing of a great banker and a great sportsman, Charles Ernest Neill, whose death, at the age of 58 years occurred in the Royal Victoria hospital here.

Mr. Neill devoted his life to the Royal Bank of Canada, rising steadily in the service of that institution until he became its vice-president and managing director and a leading figure in Canadian financial life.

He apparently had been in good health until shortly before entering hospital in October last. It was only at that time the serious nature of his illness was discovered.

A funeral service will be held here tomorrow afternoon at the Knox Crescent church. The body then will be taken to Fredericton, N. B., Mr. Neill's birthplace, where a service will be held Friday at the home of John Neill, a half-brother. Interment will be beside his wife who died in 1927.

A list of those who today hastened to pay tribute to the noted financier include leaders of many walks in life. A provincial premier, Hon. C. D. Richards, of New Brunswick, a former Dominion minister of finance, Hon. C. A. Dunning, presidents of the banks, the Canadian Banks association, and many others.

CHURCHILL WILL ASSURE ENGLAND HE IS IMPROVING

Transatlantic Telephone Is Installed in Hospital Room

NEW YORK, Dec. 16. (AP)—A transatlantic telephone was installed tonight in the hospital room of Winston Churchill, British statesman, over which he will speak tomorrow to his friends in London.

At the hospital it was said tonight Churchill's words would be broadcast in England as a reassurance that he is recuperating rapidly from injuries received Sunday in a taxicab accident. He has been suffering from an uncomplicated pleurisy of the right chest.

The idea was sponsored, it was announced, by a London newspaper (the Daily Telegraph), and the exact time of the transatlantic conversation will depend on arrangements in London. It probably will be about 9 a.m., eastern standard time.

CURRENCY AT BOTTOM OF DEPRESSION IS STEVEN'S BELIEF

VANCOUVER, Dec. 16 —"This is no ordinary depression to be dismissed as an occurrence in the ordinary cycle of time, and, unless we learn the lesson it teaches, there will be no permanent return to prosperous times," declared Hon. H. H. Stevens, minister of trade and commerce, who reached the city Tuesday night from Ottawa. "I am firmly of the opinion that the question of currency is at the bottom of the present world situation and there will be no relief until we use silver as well as gold as legal tender for both internal and international financing."

Bruening Sustained

BERLIN, Dec. 16 (AP) (By Louis B. Lochner, Associated Press staff correspondent)—Chancellor Hendrich Bruening's government weathered another storm today when the council of elders refused to convene the reichstag.

The council turned down by a vote of 321 to 256 a join motion calling for convocation which was submitted by the National Socialist, Nationalist, Communist and Peoples' parties. This action meant that Dr. Bruening will continue unhampered in his virtually dictatorial rule.

HORNED OWL PLAYS SANTA CLAUS

TORONTO, Dec. 16—A horned owl, evidently playing Santa Claus, made his way down the chimney of a local residence and his presence was upsetting to say the least. He knocked pictures down, broke dishes and had a great time until the family captured him and sent him to the zoo.

GERMANY TO PAY FINDS PROBING BODY

Plea for Reduction in Reparations Gets Setback

TRADE BALANCE COVERS PAYMENT

Findings Will Be Incorporated in Final Report

BASEL, Switzerland, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Germany's plea for reduction in reparations received several setbacks today.

A sub-committee of the Young Plan Advisory commission discovered, it was understood that Germany's foreign trade balance should be more than sufficient to pay unconditional reparations annuities of about $150,000,000.

Teh sub-committee which tried for a week to establish the net indebtedness of the Reich, turned in a report which was withheld from the public but will be incorporated in the final findings of the investigators.

WEDELL FORCED TO ABANDON HIS RECORD ATTEMPT

Head Winds Encountered by Aviator Slows Speed to 90 Miles an Hour

PUEBLO, Colo., Dec. 16 (AP)—Baffled by head winds encountered in an attempt to set a new transcontinental speed record, J. R. Wedell, New Orleans aviator, gave up his flight after reaching here today at 11:03 a.m. M. S. T.

He started from Los Angeles at 5:09 a.m., P. S. T., in an effort to lower the record of 11 hours and 16 minutes held by Major James H. Doolittle.

Wedell was forced to altitudes ranging from 14,000 to 14,500 feet to clear peaks of the Rocky mountains, and was held back by the winds which reduced his speed at times to 90 miles an hour.

Sitting on top of his ship after landing here, Wedell was plainly disheartened, but said he would try again and would follow the same route.

"The route is O.K.," he said. "I'll follow it next spring when I try it again. It is the shortest across the nation."

W. W. Wedell of Los Angeles, a brother of the aviator, was waiting here to re-fuel the plane.

The brothers planned to start tomorrow for New Orleans.

GAS PRICES SOON TO BE CONTROLLED BY OIL COMPANIES

VANCOUVER, Dec. 16. — Retail gasoline prices will soon be controlled absolutely by the various oil companies, and not by individual dealers, declares an announcement by George R. Matthews, secretary of British Columbia board of Retail Merchants Association of Canada. Commencing January 1, 1932, each firm will assume absolute control of retail gas prices, he states.

A detailed survey of the situation was made recently by the gasoline committee of Retail Merchants' Association of Canada. After considerable investigation it reported it would be to the mutual interest of both companies and dealers if agreements between them contained a clause giving the former entire control of retail charges.

Marriage Plans Go Awry

DUKE DENIED WEDDING LICENCE—PLANS HAVANA TRIP

The Duke of Manchester was denied a licence by the New York marriage licence bureau to marry Miss Kathleen Dawes, English actress. The action came as a surprise to the wedding party and Mayor Walker, who was waiting to officiate. The duke plans an early trip to Havana for the ceremony. Here is the Duke of Manchester as he appeared not long ago on his estate, Kimbolton castle, St. Neots, England. Miss Dawes, the bride-to-be, is at the right. The licence, according to officials, was not granted because the law regarding certain classes of divorces had not been complied with.

Mrs. Culbertson Withdraws From Game to Insure Her Kiddies a Happy Christmas

She Will Be Replaced by Theodore A. Lightner in Bridge Battle

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—A merry Christmas for the kiddies means more to Mrs. Ely Culbertson than victory with her husband in the great test of rival systems of contract bridge, and so, beginning tomorrow night, until the holidays are over, she will cease to be Mr. Culbertson's partner in his 150-rubber match with Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby, who represent the "official" system.

Theodore A. Lightner, one of the stars playing the Culbertson system, will replace her. She intends to devote most of her time this week to making sure that "Jump-Bid"—whose real name is Bruce—and Joyce Culbertson, her son and daughter respectively, have at least as delightful a holiday as the children of any mother who is not in the public eye as an exponent of an intellectual game which has swept the country.

SIDE IN LEAD

Mrs. Culbertson is withdrawing with her side in the lead for the first time except spasmodically, and by a meagre margin. Largely through her play she and her husband converted a deficit of 15 points into a plus of 410 points at the last session of the match Tuesday night.

The agreement for the match stipulates that Lenz and Culbertson shall play with selected partners and that Mrs. Culbertson shall take part in at least 75 rubbers, teaming up with her husband.

With all due regard to the great ability of Lightner and any other prospective partner, Culbertson prefers his wife to any partner. To her he has given the major portion of the credit for the system which bears his name.

STORM, FLOOD COLD WEATHER SWEEP EUROPE

First Cold Wave Settles Down Paris and London

NORTHERN ALGERIA IS HARDEST HIT

Blizzard on Baltic Sea Brings Danger to Shipping

LONDON, Dec. 16 (AP)—Storms and floods were reported from widely scattered parts of Europe today and a cold wave gave many areas their first taste of winter.

A blizzard tearing down the Baltic sea imperilled shipping and caused minor damage to coastal districts. A sailing ship was torn from its anchorage and was wrecked in the roads at Libau, Latvia, the crew of seven being drowned.

A fishing vessel was sunk in the Stockholf archipelago with the loss of one life. The Soviet ship Illitch from Odessa foundered near Smyrna following a violent storm which has raved over the Aegean sea for several days. Six other vessels were driven ashore and salvage operations were started.

ALGERIA SUFFERING

Northern Algeria was suffering from floods and damaged communications as the result of a gale. Telegraph lines were down for many miles around Tunis and rail service to Algeria was out of operation. The inhabitants of some districts were cut off by floods and awaited rescue on housetops.

Two more survivors of the wrecked French submarine chaser No. 96 were found alive in an Arab hut in the forests of Algeria, but floods prevented natives from bringing them to civilization.

London shivered from a sudden drop in temperatures and Paris was reported very cold. A number of villages in south Bulgaria were severely damaged by inundations, but details were lacking because communications were severed.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 16— Hundreds of Memphians and residents of north Mississippi reported to the commercial appeal that an earthquake had rocked their homes tonight. They set the time of the tremor at 9:38 o'clock.

Professor W. L. Kennon, professor of physics and astronomy at the University of Mississippi, said by telephone from Oxford, Miss., "It was a mild shock with considerably rumbling and lasted about 30 seconds."

Be Hard on the "Gun Toter" Is the Advice Offered by Judge J. A. Forin, at Vancouver

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 16.—A strong plea for the disarming of Vancouver's lawbreakers was voiced by Judge J. A. Forin, veteran of the Kootenay bench, in an address in Hotel Vancouver at a joint meeting of mining associations of the city.

"I cannot understand why any suspected person should not be searched by the police. There are surely enough police. I hope Col. Edgett, our new chief, will do something about it and I propose talking to him about it. If you have a community without guns then nobody wants a gun. As it is, even the peaceable citizen is tempted to want to have a gun on his person or in his car," Judge Forin said.

In an entertaining talk on reminiscences of the early days of Rossland, Judge Forin said that the Blake law against weapons was in force as it is today and it was rigidly enforced. Any "gun toter" was given three months hard labor without appeal and all were served alike.

"The result was that there was not a loose gun in Rossland. Newcomers dumped them outside town. And in the whole early history of the camp we never had a shooting murder. I don't see why it can't be done here in Vancouver today," he declared.

World's Largest Vessel to Be Completed

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 16. (CP and AP cable)—The board of directors of the Cunard line today announced the company would complete its new liner, now lying partly built in a Clydebank, Scotland, shipyard, with or without assistance from the British government. Above is a photograph of the designer's model of what will be the world's largest liner.

Suspension of construction on the giant ship last Saturday threw 3000 workers out of employment and was the immediate cause of representations in the parliament and elsewhere that building be resumed as soon as possible. In its previous announcement the company said it was forced to suspend work owing to a drop in the depreciation fund from which money for new vessels is drawn.

The directors reached no decision as to how and when the ship will be completed, but one official said construction will be resumed even if the company is unable to secure assistance from the government.

Bankers See a Chance to Break Control of the New York Market

Discuss the Matter Fully With Premier Bennett

THINK PRICE OF DOLLAR TOO LOW

Banks of Canada Would Provide All the Machinery

OTTAWA, Dec. 16 (CP)—Sir Charles Gordon, president of the Bank of Montreal, and other leading bankers met the prime minister of Canada in his office today and discussed the establishment of a Canadian money market which would relieve the depreciation of the Canadian dollar in the New York market.

The inauguration of a Canadian money exchange in Montreal, a project for which the banks of Canada alone could provide the machinery, it is reported, was urged on the bankers.

It was stated that the establishment of an exchange market in Canada would help the Dominion to declare its monetary independence of New York bankers who are now the controlling factors in setting the price of the Canadian dollar.

An eminent authority has advised that if Canadian drafts and cables on London were handled directly from Canada and not through New York, as is now the only procedure, the Canadian dollar would be selling in New York today at 90 cents, instead of 81 cents.

ARREST TWO MEN FOR THE MURDER OF PRAIRIE MAN

Farmer Found Buried After Being Brutally Murdered With Axe

CONSORT, Alta., Dec. 16—Two men were arrested here today for questioning by the Alberta provincial police in the brutal murder of H. C. Larson, 48, farmer, residing on his homestead six miles south and east of Loyalist, Alberta. The men taken into custody by Detective S. C. Coggles, were Walter and Alex Kartateew, brothers, who are neighbors of the slain man.

The mutilated body of Larson was found in a pit on his farm. In a shallow grave, that had apparently been dug three or four days ago, the body was unearthed and an axe, apparently the instrument used by the slayers, was also buried with the body. The surface of the ground was carefully levelled and only an irregularity in the thawing of the ground by the warmth of Tuesday afternoon, led to the discovery of the body.

Detectives rushed from Edmonton to the scene of the murder were still without any clues tonight.

The inquest will be held in Consort on Thursday afternoon and Dr. Harold Vango, professor of medical jurisprudence at the University of Alberta and expert in scientific crime detection, will conduct and autopsy at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

FOUR EXPERTS IN BRIDGE BATTLE ARE EXCELLENT SHOWMEN; DISPLAY OF WORDS MAY BE ASSUMED ROLE

Are Sincere, However, in Arguments of Use of Systems

NEW YORK, Dec. 16. (By Tom O'Neil, Associated Press staff writer)—The marathon battle of cards and words will be resumed tomorrow night by excellent showmen.

It will be the 285th deal and the first hand of rubber 49 of the 150-rubber test of rival systems of contract bridge in which Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson are playing Sidney U. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby.

Assume that Jacoby bids only two hearts but makes four. Almost as soon as the referee can send out the result of the hands from behind the screen shielding the players, Ely and Oasie have dictated terse comments to stenographers. They may run like this:

"No game bid. Four made by finesse. O. J."

"Culbertson's system requires game contract. E. C."

The communiques are posted quickly so that "he who runs may read".

SERIOUS ARGUMENTS

The rivals are serious and sincere in frequent arguments that one or the other team is not following the tenets of its system, but at times when there have been reproaches or incipient fist fights about somebody being late there has has been noted a flicker which might have been interpreted as a wink.

If the match should end in a verbal no-decision dispute it seems as if it will be on the question of adherence to system. Culbertson started it by saying that representatives of the "official" system were bidding suit originally, instead of no trump on balanced hands. His rivals came back with the charge that he was bidding four-card suits and five-card suits and minors before majors. No formal protest has been lodged with the referee in any case, and Lenz, who believes firmly that the player, not the system, is the thing, says he doesn't care what methods of bidding Culbertson uses.

IN THE LEAD

For the first time at the start of a session the Culbertsons will be in the lead tomorrow night, having netted a gain of 410 points in the seventh session, which ended at 1:45 a.m. this morning. They have won only 23 of the 48 rubbers, and their lead is explained by heavier penalties suffered by Lenz and Jacoby. Here is one such penalty with communiques:

Hand 250, neither side vulnerable, east and west part score 70.

LENZ (North)
S—9 6 5 4
H—A J 9 8 4 2
D—8 6
C—6

CULBERTSON (West—Dealer)	MRS. CULBERTSON (East)
S—Q 10 8 7 3	S—K
H—7 5	H—K 10 3
D—A 4	D—10 7 3 2
C—A K Q 4	C—10 8 7 3 2

JACOBY (South)
S—A J 2
H—Q 6
D—K Q J 9 5
C—J 9 5

The bidding:

West, one spade; north, two hearts; east, pass; south, three no trump; west, pass; north, pass; east, pass.

Final contract, three no trump by Jacoby.

Set two.

After the hand was played Lenz said to Jacoby at the table: "So lor as you're not doubled, I'm not going back to hearts and get cracked. That's a cinch."

Here were the broadcast communiques:

"Cannot double for fear of four hearts. E. C."

"Can set me at least one more. O. J."

This final win brought the total score for the competition to 157-106 a margin of 41 points for the winners.

Immigration Figures for Canada Are Down

OTTAWA, Dec. 16 (CP)—According to a statement issued today by the Hon. W. A. Gordon, minister of immigration and colonization, immigration for the months of April to October, inclusive was as follows: April 3201, May 3818, June 3169, July 2541, August 2250, September 2375, October 2056, a total of 19,390 persons compared with 77,544 arrivals during the corresponding period of 1930. This represents a decrease of 75 per cent of the arrivals for the seven months 14,496 were women and children, mostly the dependents of settlers already established in Canada.

During the same period 13,641 Canadians who had gone to United States returned to make their homes in Canada. These, however, were not counted as immigrants.

PRESENT SYSTEM REDUCES INFANT MORTALITY, B. C.

Increasing Use of Pre-Natal and Post-Natal Correspondence Is Reason

OTTAWA, Dec. 16 (CP)—Increasing use of the pre-natal and post-natal correspondence service operated by the provincial department of health in cooperation with the Canadian council on child and family welfare, was a contributing factor to the record low infantile death rate in British Columbia, Dr. H. E. Young, health officer for that province, said here in an address. Dr. Young was a delegate to the meeting of the child hygiene section of the council.

British Columbia had reduced its infantile mortality from 54 out of 1000 in 1921 to 43 in 1930, the lowest in the Dominion and among the lowest in the world, it was stated. Reports from other provinces disclosed an increasing spread in public education on infantile health matters

The correspondence system provides for all who apply for it a series of letters extending over a period of nine months prior to the birth of the child to 12 months after. The system was organized in 1926 and 1100 mothers took advantage of it the first year. Last year the number had increased to 60,457.

DOCTOR CLAIMS LAWYER LIES

Comes Up in Hearing Before Mr. Justice Murphy on Drugless Healing

VANCOUVER, Dec. 16—The charge that he was not speaking the truth was directed by Dr. F. E. Dorchester against H. B. Robertson, K. C., this morning at a session of the investigation of drugless healers being held by Mr. Justice D. Murphy as commissioner under the Provincial Public Enquiries act.

The otherwise academic and technical tone of the enquiry was electrified at the outset of the morning hearing when Dr. Dorchester, chief witness heard at the preceding session, resumed the stand armed with a number of heavy framed diplomas. At one time during Tuesday's evidence Dr. Dorchester said that he would not produce his diplomas.

SHOULD HAVE RIGHT OF CHOICE

Dr. Bryant pleaded that these 4000 people should have the right of choosing their own means of treatment. Judge Murphy told him and other witnesses that he would not listen to generalized pleas from them. Their counsel, Mr. Cosgrove, would make their plea. He reminded them that all evidence would go before the house, with his recommendations. To some extent he was "simply a conduit between the public and the house."

When he heard that drugless healers were scattered so widely throughout the province, Judge Murphy said that if representations were made to him he would consider holding hearings in other centers. He originally planned to sit only in Vancouver.

PROVINCIAL WORKSHOP AT VERNON BURNED

VERNON, B. C., Dec. 16.—A fire which broke out shortly after midnight did damage estimated to be $4000 and $5000 to the provincial government workshops and sheds here. The roofs were burned off or have fallen in. Trucks stored in the buildings overnight were moved to safety, though suffering some slight damage.

The blaze originated in a room where oil and gas was stored.

Alex Green, fire chief, who has claimed that several fires over the past few months in public and semi-public buildings have been of incendiary origin as yet has made no statement as to his opinion of the cause.

The Bulldogs, playing with only 11 men due to the absence of Al Huggins and Andy Bellener, gathered in a 1-0 win. It elevated them to second place in the standing, one point behind Detroit Olympics.

SCHAAF WINS

BOSTON, Dec. 16. (AP)—Ernie Schaaf, the seafaring Boston heavyweight, disposed of Giacomos Bergomas, latest Italian importation, in the second round tonight. The Italian went down from a blow to the middle about half way through the round, and although he writhed on the floor, displaying indications of a foul, the referee counted him out. Bergomas weighed 226 and Schaaf 206.

Today forgets yesterday but remembers tomorrow.

Eggs are steadily increasing to meet the need, and are almost at the equilibrium point. No changes in their price is noted. Pork prices are down slightly.

A stately pile on the River Wear, the castle was built in 1797 from the plans of an Italian architect. The ruins of an old castle stand on the opposite bank of the river.

The High Speed Girl

Laurel motors to a bungalow where Imogene Gay is taking sun baths.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

The "speakeasy" in the East Fifties to which Freddie Defarge had brought Laurel and Imogen did seem rather an odd place.

A hush was over everything. It was only when they got out to the bar that the silence was broken by the tinkle of ice against glass.

"Whoops, but I'm thirsty, Cleopatra!" exclaimed Feddie, genially. "Pour me a stiff one."

The proprietress laughed good naturedly at the cognomen.

"I wish I WERE a Cleopatra," she said frankly, "so that I could wring millions once more out of you men!"

And with that she gave their order to the bar-man.

"No—not a cocktail for me—a long ginger-ale, please," requested Laurel.

"But with a splash of Scotch in it of course?" ingratiatingly said the woman.

"Well, a slight touch of gin might make me feel peppier.'

Laurel got her drink. She sipped it appreciatively. They all drank together.

"This one is on me," suggested the hostess.

"Not on your life! We'll purchase one of the blasted little booklets and pay our merry way along, as usual," quoth Freddie.

And with that he handed a 10 dollar bill over the counter.

Laurel felt curious.

There was no sign of a cash-register anywhere.

"Because of the police, dear heart," whispered Freddie airily. "They've popped in once or twice, in a pseudo-friendly sort of way ,on track of money transactions. They couldn't find anything tangible, because of the smart idea of these little perforated tickets. . . one dollar per drink. . . . which I—bright lad that I be—originated. After a little 'palm-oil,' which they froze onto instantly, and a couple of Scotches, which they downed like savages, they departed."

"The police took the drinks, you mean?"

"Of course they did. The understanding was that—minus the cash-register—this was a private house. Of course, just the same, they were wise to it."

They all had a second round. Freddie tore out eight coupons from the little book.

"Quid pro quo. I'll say you have the real stuff."

The door-bell rang. "The crowd are beginning to trickle in now," said the hostess.

She returned with three young men. By their jovial appearance they had already "looked upon the wine when it was red."

One of them bought fifty-dollars' worth of coupons.

They put one foot on the rail, in correct style.

The hostess introduced them to Laurel, Imogen and Freddie. She whispered to Laurel, with a nudge to impress the fact that the one who bought the $50 book was "awfully rich."

"It's hot in here, Let's go somewhere else," murmured Laurel to Freddie.

"Cleo'll be frightfully disappointed if you leave. She's taken a great shine to you," he announced.

The proprietress—as though she had a sixth sense which told her Laurel was uneasy—approached them affably.

"You haven't been upstairs. It's rather unique. One of the most orginal decorators—a dear friend of mine who lives in Paris—designed it."

They tripped up narrow stairs in the wake of Cleo. Went down a short corridor, and into a "moonlight" room.

Instead of chairs or sofas, there were silver matresses laid upon the floor against the walls . . .the floor itself had been treated by some sort of silver substance . . . and the one tall lamp (the shades being drawn, although it was full daylight) cast a sickly blue beam, to represent the moon.

"What's the idea?" whispered Imogen.

"Romance—and drinks, dear heart," Freddie informed her. "And—speaking of the later—isn't that a victim?"

In a corner behind the door, with his head dropping until it almost touched the silvered parquet, was the recumbent figure of young man.

"S-sh! He's asleep," whispered Cleo, "He's a naval officer—a charming chap who's been bumming for a couple of days around the town."

And with that, they selected one of the silver mattresses—furthest from the sleeper, and Laurel and Imogen and Freddie all sat down.

Come another sharp ting-ting to the front door bell. Cleo "vamoosed."

"Well, I don't know what all the shooting's for," said Imogen disagreeably, "it isn't what I'd call so hectic . . . ."

"You wait," said Freddie, feeling that his prestige as a man-about-town was being challenged, "in the next half hour the most interesting kind of people'll blow in."

"Hum. Depends on what you'd call 'interesting'."

"Well, dramatic critics and the like. Big writers. Follies girls. Theatrical producers. And, of course—" he slowed his words down, to add emphasis—"always a sprinkling of millionaires."

"Ho? The last 'listens good.' But you've got to convince me. Meantime, since I'm wasting my sweetness and light on nothing," said Imogen, "what about another little drink?"

"You're bored with Laurel and me? Thanks for the compliment."

"Oh, be yourself."

The bar-man appearing at this psychological moment, Freddie tore out the two remaining coupons.

"Nothing for me, thanks. My head feels darned light already," announced Laurel.

Said Freddie cheerily—"Then that's all the better for me and Imogen."

Cleo appeared with half a dozen people at her heels. They, too seated themselves on the silver mattress. The bar-man took their orders.

Then a dreamy-looking, long-haired youth appeared. He esconsed himself at the piano.

"Everyone does exactly as they please here," said Cleo, all affability. With a comprehensive wave of the hand, and a murmur of names, she introduced the company to each other. "Make yourselves at home."

The young man at the piano struck up: "WHY?" appropriately.

"Let's have a little more light on the scene," suggested one of the new arrivals.

He switched on a lamp.

And then Laurel noticed the extraordinary decorations of the walls. There were weird drawings splashed all across them, "telling a history," as in the style of ancient China or Egypt. . . .

The story of a woman of the Ninties. In the first scene that sprawled across the wall near the door, the lady wore her hair drawn high over puffed-out pads and topped by an enormous "picture" hat . . . her figure was excessively curved, both fore and aft. . . . and she appeared to be dodging the advances of an amorous, much-mustachio-ed Frenchman!

"Scene number one in the life of our hostess. . . " said Freddie with great unction.

Pimples on Face Itched and Burned. Healed by Cuticura.

"I was troubled with pimples and blackheads on my face. The pimples were large and red and some of them festered and scaled over. They itched and burned, causing me to scratch, and prevented me from sleeping. The trouble lasted four or five weeks and caused disfigurement.

"I tried many different remedies but without success. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and was completely healed after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Frank H. Hadley, R. R. 1, Milton, Ont.

The Beauty Box

by Helen Follett

Youth must have its fling—and youth does—but youth isn't made of fire and fiddle strings as it fondly imagines. And that's why the dear girls should, if possible, catch nine hours of restful sleep. Even Sweet Sixteen can't have many merry evenings and bob up every morning with complexion fresh and colorful, eyes full of star-shine, spirits on their toes. Late hours take the ginger out of a girl, even the strongest, and it's no use stocking up on cosmetics or trailing to the beauty works for facials if the body does not have the rest it needs.

Desk workers need a daily walk to give the muscles of the feet sufficient exercise to keep them strong, to wash out lungs with fresh air, to ward off hipp-spread, and to let backbones have a good stretch. One night a week in a gym will quiet sizzling nerves, and improve circulation. Muscles must have a certain amount of activity if the female form is to stay divine and not get lumpy or bumpy.

A whitening and soothing paste for the hands can be made by mixing any good oily liquid with oatmeal. Spread on at night and slip on large white cotton gloves. The paste need not be thick; use just enough of the liquid to hold the meal together. For chapped hands, this treatment is effective. Makes 'em like little white butterflies. Ain't that sumpin?

Once a week, sprinkle your two toothbrushes with table salt which keeps bristles firm, and acts as a cleaning agent. When brushing the teeth, manage to work the bristles between them; that's where the mean little destructive germs hide away, close to the gums. A mouth lotion, swished about after the brushing removes foreign substance which may have escaped the scrubbing.

Speedy reducing is a menace to the health and is bound to make facial tissues take a sag, fall into wrinkles. Of what comfort the young looking figure if the face has gone ploppy?

New Interests in Life Best Treatment for Nagging Wives

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

An Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

The other day a man whose name is well known in official circles in Washington applied for a divorce, saying his wife was a perpetual nagger, that often she nagged him till four or five o'clock in the morning.

The questions were again raised, "Is the constant nagger really accountable? Isn't nagging the result of some deep-seated cause—nerves, maladjustment, an inferiority complex, something that requires treatment by a physician, rather than the more drastic remedy of being haled into a divorce court?"

When the writer was a young reporter on the New York World, the idea that a nagging woman was a sick woman was comparatively new. The managing editor of the Sunday edition sent her round to interview various mental specialists in New York to get their views on the subject.

Psycho-analysis, like flying, was comparatively new in those days, but, curiously enough, physicians specializing in mental ailments seemed to anticipate that cult, just waiting 'round the corner, and summed up the question of the nagging woman something like this.

"Women nag because they are not adjusted to their surroundings. Nagging is their vent—chimney—escape. To cure nagging, you've got to cure the cause."

The great trouble with nagging women is that they nag without realizing it. There is a lack of harmony in their inner consciousness, that like the trickle from a pent-up stream issues in almost unconscious fault-finding.

The pitiful thing about nagging is that women often nag from interest and affection. They fret if their husbands sit in draughts, neglect to put on overshoes, eat wrong food, drink too much coffee, and other things. They nag the children because they won't eat their spinach, wash their hands or pick up their pajamas, or if they stealthily eat too much candy.

The trouble with this type of nagger is that her whole world is concentrated in her husband, children and home. Nagging through a passionate interest in those she loves has become such a habit that she's no longer conscious of it, she nags as naturally as she breathes.

It's up to this type of woman whether she cures hersef or drives her family from home. The first step in a recovery of balance would seem to be to cultivate a few outside interests.

Join a community center and hear a little of what the outside world is doing.

Read a newspaper daily and know the things that are happening in the world, apart from Bobby's refusal to eat spinach and friend husband's forgetting to put on galoshes.

Go to a movie sometimes, even if the family has to do without dessert once a week to make the budget balance.

Learn to let the family cares drift a little. They are going their own gait whether you worry and nag, or not.

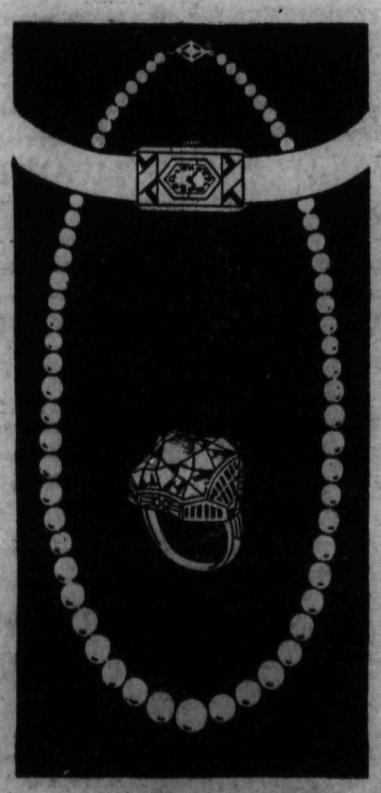
JEWELRY

The GIFT Supreme Through the Ages

The King of France Marvels at My Work, 1538 A.D.

"The third day after his return to Paris the King visited my house with a great number of the nobility of the Court and they all marvelled greatly at the vast number of works that I had in hand and had brought to such excellent result. Among these works were the great silver statue of JOVE with its richly fashioned bronze base overlaid with decorations; the huge gold salt-cellar which I adorned with all the intricately gold worked beauties that I possibly knew, together with countless rich ornaments including the most beautiful animals that the earth produces; a large highly decorated silver vase with handles; a head of Julius Caesar in bronze, with bust, in armour, much larger than life; two bronze heads; and many other works."



Women of Today Choose Jewels With Greater Taste

Today, women, more beautiful than in Cellini's time, choose their jewels with greater taste. They use them to emphasize their chic—not to dazzle all beholders. The collection of fine jewels here is typical of modern preference.

ROSSLAND STARTS COMMUNITY CHEST FOR THE NEEDY

ROSSLAND, B. C., Dec. 16.—Fearing that in spite of the fact that there is a reasonable amount of employment in Rossland there might still be some families in Rossland without food, warmth or Christmas cheer, a number of citizens have organized a "community chest committee", with the following officers: P. A. Tucker, chairman; J. C. Cran, manager Bank of Montreal, treasurer; and Mayor W. A. Turner, secretary.

Membership tickets are being sold at 50 cents each, and every church and fraternal organization in the city has been asked to become responsible for the sale of at least 50 apiece. The committee is requesting that the names of any families or children known to be lacking in comforts at this season be sent in to any member of the committee and the cases will be promptly investigated and aided.

CENTRAL SCHOOL GIVES CONCERT OF HIGH ORDER

Over 300 Pupils Take Part; Auditorium Is Crowded to Limit

Presenting a concert that showed much care and training on the part of the teachers, and which lacked nothing of the finish expected of older students, the pupils of the Central school played before an appreciative audience of more than 600 adults in their auditorium Wednesday afternoon. Nearly 300 pupils took part in the concert, and despite the fact that numbers of performing groups contained 40 pupils, they were moved about with ease that spoke of perfect discipline.

The program included dances, drills, choirs, violin class numbers, rhythm bands and plays, and the 19 items were run off in a minimum of time. The whole program was genuine entertainment, and with the added touch of unique pleasure that comes from children acting, the whole concert was applauded as a commendable success.

Besides the touch of Christmas that was prevalent in the concert, there were also numbers that proclaimed originality, and with costumes suitable in each case, the most pleasing effect was produced.

Ejaculations of surprise and astonishment were many at the masterly fashion in which Hugh Wallace's pupils danced. Six dances were given by his pupils, and each one received unstinted praise. It was finished dancing.

MORE THAN ENTERTAINMENT

Two numbers which portrayed more than mere entertainment were the violin and rhythm numbers. The violin numbers, classed as beginners, intermediates and advanced students, and having from 10 to 20 coming artists in each group, foretold a wealth of musical talent in years to come, as well as a foundation upon which musical appreciation might be built. There was marked approval at the advance noted in the pupils. The rhythm numbers, in which each pupil had some kind of instrument or device by which beat could be kept, were plainly to give the pupil a sense of time, so essential in music.

The two little plays, one by the primary grade and the other by grade 5, were hits of the first order. In the former, "The Kings' Breakfast", with Donnie Brown taking the role of king and little Jessie May Hudson as his queen, the theme is woven around the lack of butter for the king's breakfast. The queen asks the maid to procure some and the maid tries. The cow, however, refuses, and the king leaves for his room highly dissatisfied with life in general. The cow, however, takes a change of mind, and the queen hastens away to tell the king. They reappear immediately, the kind descending by sliding down the balustrade, and all is well again.

In "Santa Takes a Rest", the second play, the Christmas idol is very tired, and his place is taken by youthful aspirants who wish to allow him to rest. It "ain't" the same, though, as the boys soon weary. Santa is forced to return. The toys in Santa's shop play a part as they participate in the conversation with what mechanical vocabularies they possess.

The drills were also entertaining. The box drill, a number in which animated Christmas boxes performed at the will and word of Santa Claus, the toy drill and the wand drill all proved novel and interesting.

CHOIRS ARE PLEASING

Perhaps one of the most pleasing parts of the concert was contributed by the choirs. Grades 5 and 6 made two appearances and the primary choir one. Each song was well sung, and the children paid strict attention to their choir leader. The numbers were chosen to give the children the best chance to full justice to their voices.

Delbert Foster acted as chairman for the afternoon.

Principal G. E. Sparkes thanked all those who had attended and aided in any way. He also extended an invitation to the audience to visit the schoolrooms and examine the work the children had done. A collection was taken to help defray expenses.

The program was as follows:

"O Canada," grades 5 and 5 choir; "Good Christian Men," and "Good King Wenceslas," conducted by Miss W. Borthwick, accompanied by Miss M. Irvine; Ruby Gibbon, sailor's hornpipe; beginners' violin class, "Etude No. 1" and "Etude No. 2," accompanied by Mrs. Gladys Webb Foster; grade 4 division 8 box drill, directed by J. M. Morley; grade 3 division 10 rhythm band, "The Blacksmith," accompanied by Miss M. McLeod; Marguerite Spiers and Bessie Richards, Highland fling, accompanied by Hugh Wallace; Marguerite Spiers and Bessie Richards, sword dance, accompanied by Hugh Wallace; primary play, "The King's Breakfast," accompanied by Miss Margaret Arthur; grade 4 division 7 toy drill, accompanied by Miss M. Irvine; intermediate violin class, "A Melody," "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star," accompanied by Mrs. Gladys Webb Foster; Ruby Gibbon, Irish jig, accompanied by High Wallace; grades 3 and 4 choir, "I Love Sixpence," "My Father Bought at Great Expense," directed by Miss W. Borthwick, accompanied by Miss M. Irvine; grade 3 division 9, "The Arrival of the Brownies," accompanied by Miss M. McLeod; Johnnie Wade and Tommie Wallace, step dance-waltz clog, accompanied by Hugh Wallace; primary choir, "Jolly Old Saint Nicholas," "The Chickadee," "The Little Dustman," directed by Miss E. Mackenzie, accompanied by Miss B. Beatty; grade 6 wand drill, directed by F. B. Pearce; Hughie Wallace, junior hornpipe, accompanied by Hugh Wallace; grade 5 play, "Santa Takes a Rest;" advanced violin class, "Pixies' Carnival," and "O Come, All Ye Faithful."

Restrictions Are Placed on Cabarets

VANCOUVER, Dec. 16—Dancing in cabarets and restaurants, which sometimes continues until 6 o'clock in the morning, must end at 1 a.m., on week days and at midnight on Sunday, the city council decided this morning.

The question was brought to the attention of the city fathers by a petition, signed by seven dance hall owners, in which it was contended that cabarets and restaurants were creating unfair competition by remaining open all night.

ST. JUDES' CONCERT PROVES SUCCESS AT GRAND FORKS

GRAND FORKS, B. C., Dec. 16.—The annual Christmas concert put on by the Junior Women's Auxiliary of St. Jude's church, was a splendid success.

Nursery rhymes, sung by a chorus of girls and impersonated by wee tots made an effective opening. They were all there, Little Boy Blue, Baby Bunting, Jack and Jill and many other characters dear to childhood hearts. The "Bridge of Athlone" was a dainty dance presented by a dozen girls in quaint Irish costumes. An appealing number was the duet sung by Miss Roma Donaldson as a French doll and master Sandy Grey as a wooden soldier. Recitations, tableaux and children's choruses and drills were all effective and well presented. A popular number of the evening was a duet, "Sun Bonnet Sally an' Overall Jim" sung by Miss Ella Phillips and Miss Isobel Burnett. "The Vicar of Bray" sung by Rev. Silverwood brought rounds of applause, while "Gigglin Lizzie," a monologue by Miss Ella Phillips, kept the audience in fits of laughter. Mrs. W. Pearson acted as pianist and much credit is due Mrs. A. Benson and Miss Phillips who were responsible for the excellent program.

VICTORIA, Dec. 16—Provision is made for the holding of a beer plebiscite in the Revelstoke polling division of the Revelstoke electoral district by order-in-council. Richard C. Attenborough is named returning officer for the poll, which will be on Jan. 6, 1932.

DEER SHOT NEAR VALLICAN HAS RIB IN HEART

VALLICAN, B. C., Dec. 16.—William Beaton bagged a lage buck. Strange as it may seem on cutting the heart, a piece of bone resembling the rib, about three inches in length was found embedded in it. Apparently the animal had been shot some years ago and a piece of the rib lodged in the heart, it healing over afterwards and completely covering the bone.

He who laughs last is merely being polite to the fellow who has just told the story.

British Columbia Budget Problems

British Columbians in all probability have to face new forms of taxation after the session of the legislature early in 1932, in addition to witnessing reductions in expenditures in many directions.

The financial condition in British Columbia has to be faced ,and faced squarely. We must not only put up with the reduction of any and every unnecessary and unproductive expenditure, but we must also be prepared to pay our share of the cost of administration of the affairs of the province.

We therefore have the right to insist that before there is any increase in taxation, there be the greatest possible decrease in expenditures.

A Vancouver despatch refers to a proposal to tax tenants who are renting property, a tax presumably along the lines of the tax on tenants which has been in effect in Great Britain almost, it might be said, from the days of feuage.

It is a big question whether such tax would work out at all satisfactory in British Columbia, but it is to be expected that between now and the opening of the session of the legislature, the government at Victoria will send out many trial balloons of this sort.

This, that and the other kind of taxation will be suggested and the government will watch the public reaction.

To send out such trial balloons and to get public opinion as clearly as possible before introducing new forms of taxation, if such have to be introduced, is sound business, and may save us from a form of impost which would not work to the best advantage.

How They Increased Business

The royal commission on railways and transportation, at its meeting at Calgary, heard the demand, which probably has more public opinion behind it than as yet has become articulate, for the operation of the Canadian Pacific Railway and Canadian National system under one management.

Everyone can readily realize the enormous savings which might be effected if the two systems were combined, always providing that the management was C. P. R. management, and not the kind of management that we could not hope to avoid under government ownership, and the inevitable weakness of political control.

Opposition to the union of the two systems insofar as the public is concerned will be based chiefly on the ground that a railroad monopoly in Canada might contain serious dangers to the public interest.

The answer to this objection is that there need not be any serious fear of a gouging of the public by a railroad monopoly controlled by the C. P. R. as long as we retain with its full powers the Board of Railway Commissioners. In fact, the ultimate effect of the economies which could be effected by single control would be to make it possible to bring about reductions in rates for which there is no hope under the present conditions of competing systems, one of which is so wastefully operated that it forces the privately operated company in some cases to meet extravagance with extravagance in efforts to get traffic.

No railroad, whether privately operated, or government controlled, can for very long carry goods or carry passengers for less than the cost of operation, interest on investment, and a reasonable profit, the profit in the case of the privately operated Canadian Pacific Railway being definitely limited, not only by a Board of Railway Commission control of rates, but by statutory limitations of dividends.

If therefore the two systems continue along present lines, instead of a reduction in transportation costs we have rather to fear an increase, which would certainly not be in the best interests of Canada, because of the effects an increase in rates would have in retarding the movement of traffic.

Flouting Economic Laws

Another example of the failures which are so frequently being recorded in government-aided institutions is that of the Saskatchewan Cooperative Creameries. The Saskatchewan Creameries, like those of Alberta, were established with the assurance of government backing in the form of bond guarantees and in other similar respects, to go into competition with the privately operated creameries.

A despatch from Regina states that a total loss of $1,671,342 from the operation of the Saskatchewan Cooperative Creameries is set forth in a circular letter to the shareholders which has been sent out from the head office. Shareholders are advised that not only is the entire capital stock of $392,378 wiped out, but in addition there is a deficit of $278,964. The circular suggests a reorganization, involving the creation of a new company, and makes a strong protest on the ground that the government which has helped the organization to carry on, by means of guarantees to the banks, up to now, is unable to give assistance in this way.

This is simply another case in which a government-aided cooperative institution has attempted to make a profit for its members by violating established economic laws.

In the case of a purely private corporation, under the circumstances in Saskatchewan, it would either have operated more efficiently and at less costs, or it would have gone broke long ago. But when there stands behind a concern of this kind a government, with taxpayers to draw upon, the unavoidable day of disaster is usually postponed, with the net result, of course, that the total losses to the public are infinitely greater than they would have been with a private corporation, even if the private corporation had been equally badly managed.

"Between You and Me"

By "J.B.C."

Yesterday afternoon someone asked me how I got this space filled up each day. He said it must be a terrible job. But it isn't so bad. A fellow has to keep his eyes open. But writing a bunch of gossip in the Kootenays is somewhat more difficult than writing a "column" in New York. For instance, every time O. O. McIntyre gets stuck, he goes to a local theatrical, a speakeasy or to a dinner at the Ritz. There he attempts to keep a sober mind and then he spills the beans. In Nelson we have no high class operatic stars to write about. We have no Flo Zeigfields to fall back upon. And speaking of speakeasies. Well, we don't have them here. We just have bootleggers.

So in figuring this out from a local aspect we have only the bootleggers to call upon for copy. But, folks, I'm telling the truth, that is a dangerous practise. One never knows when the police force will walk in, and even a fellow who tries to write a column stands the chance of handing $50 over to Magistrate William Brown who, in turn, hands it over to W. E. Wasson who in turn hands it to the city, which in turn must show Mayor J. P. Morgan just where it is spent. And then, there is on top of that, the prospect of spending a day or so in jail.

* * *

This same chap, yesterday, asked me if I had ever spent a day in jail. I said I had not had that privilege but that I had come near getting there many a time. I informed him that although it seemed a fine thing to spend a night in the hoosegow it did not appeal particularly to me. I have been in jails and other jails. I have been in jails where you had the best of treatment and in others where one hated the sight of the place. But these have been only visits. But, said my friend, were you to go to jail you could get oodles for that space you fill up in The Nelson Daily News every morning. He didn't really say that. He used the word "column." I do not refer to this space as a column. Were I a Walter Wenchel or an "Odd" McIntyre or a Green or some of those other big shots I would freely name this a column. I am not of the calibre they attempt to infer I am. That isn't a good sentence, but like Jimmie Butterfield of the Vancouver Province, I never change a sentence once it is written. But folks, have hope. I received a letter from New York the other day on the art of writing a column. It offered several lessons on how it should be done. The course covered everything from a town of 5000 inhabitants to a city of 150,000 inhabitants. They guaranteed absolutely that they could put me over. Many thanks, old New Yorkers. But tell me, who in heck ever sent my smatterings so far east that you should be condemning my wanderings for the past year?

And now to get down to business. I have already expended much time and effort in trying to tell you nothing but it has filled up innumerable lines. And, folks, lines make this space fill up fastly. So without further adieu, although we are in Nelson, I am going to say, as did Walter Wenchel when he called up London, England, on the radio Tuesday night. "Here we are in London. We have been waiting for you a long time. O-K-A-Y London." And so I add, Okay with me folks. And that isn't "right ho."

* * *

But did anyone other than myself hear Claud Bartlett ask the stenographer if she would get him a box of thumb tacks—That's terrible—Just imagine an automobile salesman asking someone for thumb tacks—Say auto drivers, if you pick up a few tacks in the next couple days—You know who to blame—Mind you, I'm putting you wise—And I was wondering if Ray Jones, Kimberley hockey bug, who puts in his spare moments at the manly art of keeping time at hockey games—Really thought he was Jewed out of a couple seconds Tuesday night—I don't believe it Ray—I heard after you left town that you had been kicking my shins all night—That's okay with me, Ray—But lay off my upper extremities, please—And speaking of shins—I saw Percy Jeffrey going down the street with a lot of material that would do for shins, especially in my case, he was carting a few strips of cedar or fir—And another thing, I cannot understand just why a sheriff should be bumming cigarettes—But believe me, folks, I overheard Sheriff Harper stinging Johnny Ferguson for the odd butt yesterday—And Charlie Deferro came to the rescue—Charlie knows just what to do in a pinch—And a sheriff is good company at any time, at that—Bill Morrison was driving about town losing a lot of gasoline—But no wonder—He didn't have a top on the gasoline tank—That was a terrible mistake—For folks, with this high test gasoline that Harry Ferguson sells these days—It is liable to jump out of any tank even with a cap to hold it in—That's where they get that expression, "20 miles to the gallon"—And then in order to have a line to help fill up space I drew Jake Rothery's attention to a passing airplane at about 3:15 yesterday afternoon—And I got a kick out of Jake watching the plane dodge the clouds as he and his team dodged automobiles—But Jake, don't worry, I watched that same plane until it got out of ken—That, as the Scotch say, is as far as fellow can see without glasses—And I didn't get that tip from Jack Laughton or J. O. Patenaude either—And I heard Jimmie Lundie making a touch—These express people are good at that—He just said $3.65 please—Two rear axles and a carton—And he got it—Say, readers, just try that sometime and I'll bet you get an axle around the neck—Jack Talbot, although he stayed in town, just itched to get to Trail last night to see the hockey match—And he had company in Con Cummins and Ed Nelf—These two hockey bosses figured they would learn something in Trail—I only hope they made the trip—And of course before closing this 12 ems per line I must mention Ralph Forester—Ralph is a former goal minder in Fernie—He was a going round there—He knows how to tend goal—I know, I used to fuss around in hockey with him—He liked "Bill" MacLean Tuesday night—But, folks, that isn't news—Every Nelson fan liked Bill Tuesday night.

* * *

And so we come to a close. You haven't learned much, but it has been a great day for me. With nothing to start on we have filled so much space and we didn't get any help from New York either. Okay, New York.

* * *

So between you and me—Will you kindly pay your laundry bill.

Picture Stirred Local Man to Become "Telephone" Man

(From Telephone Talk)

"It must have been the picture," said Ervin J. Davis, the B. C. Telephone company's district manager, Kamloops.

Telephone Talk has asked him how he happened to select the telephone business as his life work. He thought for a moment, and then answered as above.

On the walls of the Davis home in Nelson hangs a picture of a Bell Telephone construction camp in Ontario. One of the men in the scene is the father of the present Kamloops telephone head. A little boy, Ervin James Davis, used to gave admiringly at this picture, and somehow the desire to become a telephone man took root in his mind.

Although my father was a telephone man, I don't recall that he ever urged me to follow his footsteps—so it must have been the picture," Manager Davis reiterated.

His first job, however, was not with a telephone company. He put in an application for a telephone position at Nelson, but as none was available at the time, he went to work for the Canadian General Electric company. On May 15, 1916, however, an opportunity opened for him to enter the B. C. Telephone company's service as a utility helper, and (perhaps after another look at that picture) he made the change.

Now a utility helper, he learned, was a sort of baggage man for a lineman. So he set out on his initial telephone trek—the lineman marching to the front, monarch of all he surveyed, and young Davis staggering behind, almost hidden beneath the load of equipment he had to carry. The blocks they walked seemed miles to Davis, but his trudged gallantly onward. Anyway, this was what he had wanted—this was telephone work.

The following year he became an apprentice switchboard installer, and in 1920 he became a lineman. He was appointed head gangman on May 9,1921. During the next few years he held a number of different positions, familiarizing himself with the various phases of telephone work. He was transferred to Kamloops on May 6, 1926, as plant representative, and was appointed to his present position, that of district manager, on August 1, 1927.

His territory forms a 500-mile circle of telephone lines, reaching from Kamloops down to Merritt, Princeton, Keremeos, Oliver, Okanagan Falls, and Penticton, and thence up the Okanagan Valley to Kelowna, Vernon and Westwold, and back again to Kamloops. Only toll offices are maintained by the telephone company in Penticton and Vernon.

In addition to the 500-mile circle, Reyelstoke, where the company maintains a toll office, is also under his supervision.

His responsibilities are three-fold, as, in his capacity as district manager, he is the company's plant, traffic and commercial head in the territory over which he has jurisdiction.

The Kamloops district manager makes his home in Kamloops. He is married. The wedding was the culmination of a company' romance, his wife being the former Miss Lilian Elsie Gregg, at one time district traffic supervisor for Vancouver Island and later district traffic supervisor in the Kootenay territory. They have one daughter, Juanita.

The Busy Job of a Stevedore

Loading or discharging cargo at the world's large ports is a jog requiring all the patience, perseverance and brawn that the average stevedore can muster. The spacious hold of the great liner or tramp steamer from some distant port may contain almost anything from "peacocks, ivory and sweet white wine," once the export of ancient Ophir, to the tankage of dried blood from the abatoirs of the Argentine. The greatest difficulties are presented sometimes by the most commonplace cargoes. For example, sugar has a tendency during a long sea voyage to congeal into a fairly solid mass in which state it is not easy to unload. A quantity of treacle—as the juice from this class of sugar is known—and some loose dark brown sugar remains to be cleared up after the bulk has been removed. Sugar is often shipped to parts of the world from Pernambuco in calico containers or pockets which are generally pressed and welded together by the end of a long voyage. Under these conditions sugar sometimes gives off a poisonous gas extremely trying to the men that descend into the hold in the work of discharging. Even the familiar orange can give the stevedore a very uncomfortable time. If the temperature has not been kept at the proper level during the voyage the oranges give off an astringent gas as soon as the hatches are removed and the warmer air enters. When this occurs it is necessary to stop work until the hold has been ventilated.

AN UNWELCOME CARGO

Another cargo not appreciated by the stevedore, especially in warm weather, is one of wet hides, commonly called "stinkers" in the argot of the docks. Amongst the most difficult cargoes to unload is chrome ore in bulk, which requires the heavy labor of lifting most of the lumps by hand and heaving them into the waiting skips. A cargo of scrap iron also presents many difficulties as the pieces are generally of every conceivable shape and size, ranging all the way from girders weighing several tons to small nuts and bolts. Wattle bark extract used in the tanning trade is usually shipped in bags weighing about 100 pounds each. As these are stowed in the hold of the ship they are insulated with layers of sawdust. By the time a long voyage is completed, however, the weight of the cargo in addition to the changing temperatures and humidities often results in congealing the extract into a solid mass which can be removed only by pickaxes and shovels. The bags often have to be torn apart and huge lumps of the tough mass broken off. Discharging a cargo of ivory requires great care. The gunny-covered tusks are sometimes carried ashore by the gang to avoid risking them to the nets where a brittle tip of a tusk may be snapped off. Loading or unloading a twenty-mile cable gives the stevedore plenty to think about. Its long length has to be uncoiled in one place and recoiled in another in exactly the same way. This is done by means of a derrick and winch drum. Live animals have to be unloaded according to their shape, size and temperament. Enticements, threats and trickery are called into play. Race-horses are particularly touchy and often refuse to enter the padded box waiting to convey them to the boat or shore. The case then settles into a battle of wits in which horse sense invariably gets the worst of it. A sling is thrown around the horses hindquarters and with a man on each side the animal is pushed unceremoniously into th box. However in a stevedore's busy life these problems and a lot more are all in the day's work.—National Revenue Review.

Canada's Railway Menace

Elsewhere in this issue there is published a dispatch from the Bulletin's correspondent at Ottawa, setting forth in detail the positions in which Canada's two trans-continental railway systems find themselves. The statement does not make cheerful reading. No statement which set forth the facts as they stand could be pleasant. But these are facts which must be faced and dealth with by the government and parliament of the Dominion without loss of time.

Their publication is timely in view of the investigation that is to be made by a commission into the whole transportation question in Canada. Those who want to understand why this commission has been appointed, the nature of the problem upon which it is expected to throw light, and how important it is to the public that a solution of the railways' difficulties be found, should read this dispatch with attention and keep in mind the major facts there presented.

The adverse circumstances with which the railways have come into collision are fairly well understood, and it is no secret that these carriers have been losing business and money at an alarming rate. What may not have been so generally recognized is that the public, not less than the railway managements, are due to share the alarm and suffer the consequences unless means are found to stop those losses and put the enterprises upon a slovent footing.

The substance of the matter is that as the railway long ago displaced the highway as an artery of commerce, the highway in turn is now displacing the railway. While the Dominion—and to some extent the province—has been directly and indirectly creating a network of railways all over the country, the provinces have been building highways and licensing trucks and busses to take business away from the railways.

The net result is that the railways are unable and apparently without a prospect of being able to meet the $100,000,000 per year fixed charges on the $2,00,000,000 of invested capital they represent. The credit of the Dominion at home and abroad is linked up with the credit of its railways. If these cannot be made solvent, the whole financial structure of the country is in peril. How to avert that very real and by no means remote menace is the problem the commission has been asked to examine and illuminate.

EAST: ♠Q-10-4-2 ♥9-8-3 ♦J-8 ♣K-J-8-2

SOUTH (Dealer): ♠None ♥K-Q-J-10-6-5-2 ♦A-Q-5 ♣A-9-4

A-81

The above hand was played at Duplicate Contract and there were all sorts of bids. At one table South started with the Game-Demand Two-Club bid, North answered with two Spades and then South bid four Hearts. Some Souths called four Hearts originally and obtained the contract. Some started with two Hearts followed by two Spades from North and four Hearts by South. Other Souths bid three Hearts, over which North bid three Spades and South four Hearts; so while there was little agreement in the size and shape of the original bids, there was complete accord in the final declaration.

At Auction Bridge the bidding would be: South one Heart, West two Diamonds, North two Spades, East pass, South three Hearts; or if South should fear the danger of an adverse Spade bid he might start with an original bid of four Hearts which North would not disturb.

The play varied materially. At all the tables West led the Four of Diamonds. East played the Jack and at most tables South won with the Queen. South then led a Heart, won by West; and West, appreciating that North had the Ten of Diamonds and South the Ace, did not continue that suit but led the Queen of Clubs. South, winning the trick, exhausted the adverse trumps, but eventually was obliged to lose one Diamond and two Clubs, in addition to the Ace of trumps, and consequently failed to go game.

At the tables at which South went game, he did so by a false card, at once admirable and deceptive. It seemed sure to work if West had the Ace of Hearts, but if East had the Ace of Hearts, it would prove expensive However, as game could not be made (without aid from the adversaries) unless the play was tried, it was thoroughly justified.

The play in question was to win the first trick with the Ace of Diamonds instead of the Queen, and then to lead trumps. West, winning with the Ace and naturally marking his partner with the Queen of Diamonds, would lead a small Diamond which North would win with the Ten and lead his two high Spades, giving South two discards. After that, South would lose one trick, but still make five-odd.

Told in Rime

I SAW A SWAN

MARIE GRIMES

I saw a swan serenely make
The circuit of a little lake;
Through rush and reed it seemed to slip
As softly as a fairy ship.

Its neck arched high and clean and proud,
And like a dense, white summer cloud
Drifted the passive, perfect wing
Of that superbly lovely thing.

At last it slowly wheeled about,
Approached the bank—and scrambled out.
And oh, that beauty so complete
Should claim those waddling legs and feet.

That writhing neck, that seemed to me
Grotesque past all necessity!
A comic sight—if there were fun
In faultless beauty so undone!

Perhaps the swan but served to show
(As every sage must surely know)
The wisdom, dignity, and grace
Of staying in your proper place!

And it was during the young sailor's first watch in the crow's nest that this happened:

"A red and a green light on the starboard bow, sir."

"What is it?"

"A drug store, I guess, sir."

—o—

"Humph! Brown absent again today? I'll bet he's got some sort of a lame excuse."

"Yes, sir. Broke his leg, sir."

—o—

"I woke up last night with the feeling that my new gold watch was gone. The impression was so strong that I got up to look."

"Well, was it gone?"

"No. But it was going."

—o—

Sick millionaire—"Nurse, I'm leaving you a month's salary in my will."

Nurse—"A month of yours, sir, or a month of mine?"

—o—

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON

WHY YOU BEHAVE AS YOU DO

While I am a great believer in the truth that hereditary is a great factor in the way we behave and also our environment, or surroundings and circumstances, have likewise a large place in our everyday actions, nevertheless I am an even stronger believer in the fact that our behavior is dependent upon the condition of our body at any time.

I have used Lord Chesterfield's quotation before, "An attack of indigestion, a sleepless night, and a rainy morning can make a coward out of a man who might otherwise have been a hero."

In other words when you are tired because of lack of sleep, from mental or physical overwork, it simply means that your blood has not had a chance to get rid of the wastes in the body as quickly as you have been able to manufacture them, and these wastes (poisons) that take the fight, the energy, the ambition, out of you, so that your ordinary work looks like a hard job, and you have no inclination to tackle anything else.

Very often an individual will continue to work hard day and night in an effort to accomplish some special work, with the result that the work itself is poorly done, and he actually begins to lose interest in it.

He becomes irritable, forgetful, afraid of illness in himself and family, doesn't want to go anywhere or do anything, or, as he will admit afterward, he becomes a 'quitter'.

Now we can't expect to do with our lives any more than can be obtained from the equipment our parents gave us, and the direction of our activities of life are of course dependent to a great extent upon our circumstances and surroundings, nevertheless to do its work, to meet its daily duties, the condition of that mind or body can be helped or hindered by the degree of common sense we use in our daily lives, because the knowledge of how to live properly is now more widely known than ever before.

So don't let fatigue products accumulate within you because you work too hard, do not get enough rest, or eat too much and do not use up wastes by exercise.

You can only do your best with the mental and physical equipment you possess, but why not keep yourself in condition to do your best?

KIMBERLEY DYNAMITERS BLANK THE B. C. HOCKEY CHAMPIONS TO TIE THE NELSON TEAM AT TOP OF THE LEAGUE

McQuade's Goal in First Period Defeats Trailites; Hutton Stars

TRAIL, B. C., Dec. 16—Challenging Trail's supremacy in British Columbia hockey Kimberley Dynamiters swept down on Trail tonight to blast their way to a one-goal victory. It was a great game with Kimberley's fighting team giving the Smokeaters plenty of trouble with their smashing attacks. Three former Trailites, Art Mackie, Dub Mackie and Botterill, won approbation of their supporters of two years ago with their fast attacks.

Trail fans pinned faith on the Wheatley-Brown-Hanson line for team play and on Samec and Brennan for flash. They were not disappointed. These men gave demonstrations of attacking and back checking that were not at all to the liking of the visitors. The defence systems of both teams were put to an acid test and both showed creditably.

The weight of experience was with Trail, however. Goalies Dupuis and Hutton had their hands full.

The first period was fast but for almost half of it the boys failed to get going properly. But when they did the speed was enough for anybody.

McQuade scored at 3:25 when he robbed Hanson, fought free of Reddick and flicked a fast one at Dupuis.

Twice Trail forced pileups in the visitors' net, with Hutton saving by inches. He kicked the puck clear on McIlskey's shot from Brennan's pass when it seemed impossible for any goalie to catch it. Toward the end of the period the game resolved itself into an effort to break away at center with both teams checking everything in sight.

There was plenty of action in the second period. Referee Wilson started to call them close and put Trail on edge. The boys burned up the ice from then on but Kimberley's close checking system broke up every attack. There were a number of brilliant solo efforts but they came to nothing.

In the third Trail threw four and five men into the attack and kept the Kimberley goal like a wasp's nest as they swarmed about the net. The visitors in desperation slammed the puck to the other end of the rink.

Kozak was hurt early in the period and had to quit for the remainder of the game. Two minutes from the end McQuade received a second injury of the evening and was taken to the dressing room.

The strength of Kimberley lay in the center ice checking. The Dynamiters blew up Trail attacks consistently, Art and Dub Mackie and McQuade showing particular prowess in this department. Hutton's keen eye in goal and ability to clear saved Kimberley from disaster, for he stopped twice as many as Dupuis in the Trail net.

Selfishness ruined Trail as a team. Hanson, Wheatley and Brown were on the job and kept things humping but when Samec, Brennan and Mollisky or Murdoch went on individualism was rampant and came to grief every time against Kimberley's stone wall defence.

Joe Vannatter's work with the bell was commentiable but Emmett Wilson failed to show his judgment of last season.

BLACKHAWKS BEAT THE FALCONS, 4-1

Hawks Put Punch in Overtime Period and Run in Three Goals

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—Loading their punch in the 10-minute overtime period tonight, the Chicago Blackhawks scored three goals and trounced the Detroit Falcons, 4 to 1, in a National league hockey match at the Chicago stadium.

The Blackhawks dominated the play almost all the way, but their old trouble—wild shooting—kept them from scoring on open opportunities. Hec Kilrea converted a pass from McInenly for Detroit in the first period, but the Hawks tied it up two minutes later, Mush March beating Alex Connell on a pass from Adams.

They struggled through two more periods and went into the overtime before Cy Wentworth took a pass from Adams for the winning goal. The Falcons resorted to a five-man offence which gave Romnes a chance to take a short pass from Gottselig for another goal, and enabled Lowrey to convert a pass from Thompson for the final score.

A crowd of about 6500, the smallest of the season, watched the match.

"On the Spot" in Sport

(By "O.J.W.S.")

Another Substitute Makes His Mark, Bill MacLean —"Dunc" Chisholm Has Good Word for Nelson Officials—Tilden and Richards Rally to Woods' Support—Trail 5, Kimberley 2?

Apparently the dope wasn't so far out concerning the game with Kimberley the other night, for the Nelson boys came within one goal of running up the 4-1 score that was prophesied. Much credit is coming to Bill MacLean who guarded the Nelson net while Notman was out of the game. This young fellow took all comers with veteran-like calm even though it was his first senior game and maintained the great reputation of Nelson goal tenders of the past. Such is the way "finds" are made. Some unknown substitute warms the bench game after game until a break comes. In he steps, carries his position like a veteran, and is at once acclaimed. And so it goes in every sport.

* * *

Another interesting point in connection with the big game the other night was the fact that after it was all over "Dunc" Chisholm, manager of the Kimberley Dynamiters stated the game was handled in a thoroughly impartial manner by the two Nelson officials, Leo Desireau and Johnny O'Genski. It is a fine gesture of sportsmanship for any manager to make a statement like that in defeat and is also a boquet for the officials.

Young Sidney B. Wood Jr, Davis cup youngster of the United States is having his own troubles. His former Davis cup team captain, Samuel Hardy, says the kid is no good and never will be any good as a tennis player. He has told the world his beliefs in no uncertain terms. Wood has come back and done some telling of his own which, if true, gives Hardy a black eye. If Hardy raked Woods over the coals during a competition, as Woods states, then Hardy should be barred from ever having anything to do with Davis cup competition again. Any man who has a team of youngsters under him should realize that he has to handle them with kid gloves so to speak. Richards' and Tilden's defence of Woods should be about enough testimonial for most people.

* * *

And for the game between Trail and Kimberley the hope has been given out as a 5-2 win for the Smokeaters. That may be about right or it may be wrong. If it works out that way then, mathematically, the Smokeaters will beat Nelson when they meet again. But mathematics don't count for much in sports, I've noticed.

NAKUSP, B. C., Dec. 16.—In a second series game of the local league, the Nakusp high school basketball team won over the K. P. team 37-22.

BROOKLYN MIGHT TAKE WILSON IF TRADE IS RIGHT

Trouble Is in Making Suitable Deal With the Cardinals for "Bad Boy"

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (AP)—If the proper arrangements can be made, the Brooklyn club will be glad to take Lewis (Hack) Wilson, bad boy of the National league, off the hands of the St. Louis Cardinals, and give him a chance to stage a comeback in the big town.

The big "if" in the idea, President Frank B. York of the Brooklyn club said today is in reaching a definite basis for any deal with the world champions. Wilson was offered to Brooklyn in exchange for Outfielder Floyd (Babe) Herman, before the Chicago Cubs traded Hack for Burleigh Grimes, but the Dodgers declined this proposal.

Brooklyn, President York indicated, might be willing to make a cash gamble in a deal for Wilson. The Cards are understood to have made home overtures already, with a view to sounding out the "Wilson market." The champions also have put their big right hand pitcher, Charles Flint Ehem on sale at a reduced figure.

Brooklyn, with three regular outfielders who bat left handed, needs a starboard swinger and Wilson might fill the bill, in the opinion of Max Carey, the new Dodger manager as well as President York.

CHOCOLATE MARRIED BY PROXY

HAVANA, Dec. 16. —(AP)— Kid Chocolate, junior lightweight boxing champion, was married by proxy today to Rosario Mora, and it was believed that his legal troubles were over.

While the ceremony was being carried out the fighter was sailing for Havana about the Morro Castle after 18 days in jail in the United States awaiting a hearing on a request for extradition. The girl's father, Pablo Mora, had accused him of seducing Miss Mora under the promise of marriage.

The ceremony was performed in the offices of Diaz Silveira, an attorney.

The bride. Her father and his mother were present.

Robert Moses Grove, who returned in a record -breaking pitching year for the Philadelphia Athletics, has been selected as the American league's most valuable baseball player for 1931. He wound up his greatest season with 31 victories and only four defeats for a record winning percentage of .886.

"Rabbit" Kept Crowd On the Hop

(By AL DEMAREE)

"Rabbit" Maranville, the "Peter Pan" of baseball, is the most colorful ball player outside of Babe Ruth in modern baseball. "Rabbit" is just now touring Japan with a team of big leaguers, including Grove, Cochrane and Gehrig, and is the hit of the party to the Orientals. An irrepressible spirit like Maranville is a better ambassador of good will, than a dozen average conventional diplomats.

Maranville will never grow up. He has caused many a former manager's hair to turn gray prematurely, but they all love him. In the old days his favorite pranks were eating live gold-fish; setting small fires in his room, and shooting cap pistols out of windows and shouting for the police. When they arrived Maranville would be found quietly reading his paper and wondering what it was all about. They need more of Rabbit's kind these days. The game is getting too mechanical.

Eastern Counties Beat Middlesex

ILLINOIS BOXING LAW MAY CHANGE TO PERMIT BOUT

Bill Is Introduced to Allow Fight Between Schmeling and Walker

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Hope that an amendment to the Illinois boxing law to provide for 15 round championship bouts, would make possible a title match between Max Schmeling and Mickey Walker in Chicago early next year, was revived tonight when a bill was introduced in the Illinois house of representatives, despite an adverse opinion by Attorney Oscar Carlstrom today.

Carlstrom previously had told George Getz, millionaire Chicago sportsman who sought introduction of the amendment bill, that it could not be presented as it was not on call for the legislature's special session.

However, representative Frank Ryan, Chicago, introduced the bill in the house as an emergency measure, and it was advanced to second reading without reference to a committee. Ryan introduced the bill as coming under Gov. Emmerson's call for special legislation to increase the state's revenue. The bout, which would be held in the Chicago stadium in February or March, figures to draw a gate of more than $300,000 at prices scaled from $5 to $25 of which the state would take ten per cent in taxes.

Matchmaker Nate Lewis of the stadium said Joe Jacobs, manager of the champion, had promised the boy to Chicago, provided a 15-round bout became possible. Schmeling has refused to defend his title in bouts of less than 15 rounds.

The stunt of tossing an opponent from the ring or rolling out himself will not be permitted in wrestling matches in Illinois. The State Athletic commission plans to suspend any wrestler guilty of such practices in the future and in flagrant cases will hold up their purses.

GROWER SOURCE OF MARKET FOR B. C.'S LUMBER

Canada Does Not Advertise Timber Enough to Australian People

VICTORIA, Australia, Dec. 16.—The Canadian lumber interests do not study Australia's markets nearly enough.

In the first place the timber is sent to the wrong people, namely the professional importing firms who try to make as much out of the timber as possible, which makes the cost of Canadian pine fantastic, ridiculous and prohibitive.

The greatest users of pine are the fruit growers.

The fruit growers are yearly producing their crops.

They have formed into associations to control the market for them as best as they possibly can and to buy the raw materials for them.

If the Canadian interests approached these associations they would find that the demand would be doubled in a few months. At present it costs about 30 to 35 cents to make an ordinary bushel case. Of this nearly 15 goes to the importing agent.

The fruit exporting season commences in February and ends in June, although dried fruit is exported throughout the whole year.

Secondly the timber is not advertised. Canadians seem to forget that the United States is also in the field and this every Australian knows because in almost every program at the picture theaters one is shown some of the "great lumbering camps of America," etc.

BRITISH VOTE SHELVES LABOR PARTY, AUSTRALIA

VICTORIA, Australia, Dec. 16.—Australians generally welcome the British electors' decision to oust Socialism from office. Australia now anxiously awaits for the Imperial Economic conference as it firmly believes much can be gained and nothing can be lost at such a conference.

The Nationalist victory in Britain has shaken the foundation of the Australian Labor party to such an extent that the party has had to revise its foreign policy. It realizes that a wave of Imperialism, such as took place in 1914, is about to occur. The party can see that the small navy and disarmament adherents must make a place for the Imperial pioneers who have, unfortunately been keeping in the rear since the war.

However, every citizen of the Empire should say, "Hats off to the past and coats off to the future"—and not only say but adhere to this principle.

Canadian Apples Have Free Entry to Brazilian Market

VERNON, B. C., Dec. 16.—The director of markets, Victoria, has advised the fruit bureau of the trade treaty arranged between the Dominion government and the government of Brazil, under which Canadian apples will have free entry into Brazil. The dimension of this market may be estimated when we state that Brazil has been importing 140,000 boxes and 130,000 barrels of American apples; but up to the present we have been excluded from that market on account of an 85 cents per box duty.

It seems to be largely a question of whether or not we shall have sufficient apples of export varieties in the Okanagan to cater to this, in addition to the other markets now opening to the products of our orchards.

Shippers who may have apples available for export to Brazil should immediately communicate with the director of markets, who will take the matter up with interested parties on their behalf.

GREAT BEAR LAKE SHOWING FINE PROMISE

TORONTO, Dec. 16 (By W. T. Webb)—More than ordinary interest, it is felt here, will be taken in the west in the remarks by Hugh S. Spence, of the mines branch, department of mines, Ottawa, regarding the high grade radium-silver values in the discoveries during the past summer in the region of Great Bear lake.

Speaking at the annual dinner of the Ottawa branch of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, Mr. Spence, in the talk illustrated by slides, showed the pitchblende-silver veins at LaBine Point and the development work conducted there.

Supplementing information given in his published report, Mr. Spence announced preliminary assay results on samples from No. 1 and No. 2 veins of the Eldorado company at LaBine Point, these showing uranium oxide content ranging from 30 to 62 per cent, equivalent to one gram of radium in from 13 to six and a half tons of ore. A gram of radium is worth $50,000 so that the radium content of the samples ran from $4000 to $8000 a ton.

Assays of the samples of the silver ore associated with the pitchblende, he also stated, ran from 1634 to 8965 ounces to the ton. Mr. Spence's talk left little doubt in the minds of his audience that the results of development work in the region are most encouraging and hold out high promise for further important discoveries.

More Boxed Apples in Storage in B. C. Than One Year Ago

VERNON, B. C., Dec. 16.—The markets bureau has received the Dominion figures on apple holdings in Canada, both in common and cold storage. In British Columbia there are 106 cars of boxed apples in cold storage more than at this time last year, and in common storage there are 343 cars less than last year, or 237 cars less of boxed apples in storage than in 1930.

Barrelled apples, on the other hand, show an increase in both common and cold storage. Cold storage has 308 cars more, with 692 more in common storage, which makes 1000 cars more of barrelled apples in storage in 1931 than at the same date in 1930.

The situation, east and west, shows that there are 763 cars of apples in storage more than at this time last year.

CHICAGO WHEAT PRICES GO UP THEN COLLAPSE

Rise Accelerated by Reports of Heat Wave Menacing Argentine Crop

CHICAGO, Dec. 16 (By John P. Boughan, Associated Press market editor)—Somersaulting backward in the last 15 minutes today, wheat played ducks and drakes with an earlier advance to the highest prices reached since November 24. The rise had been accelerated by reports of a heat wave menacing crops in Argentina. Late weakness of wheat values at Winnipeg, together with a sudden rush of selling here in preparation for the United States government crop report due after the close, accounted largely for the subsequent down swing here.

Wheat closed nervous, ¾ to ⅞ lower than yesterday's finish. Corn ¾ to ⅞ down, oats ⅜ to ½ off, and provisions unchanged to 10 higher.

Some reason for late precautions taken regarding likelihood of surprises in the United States government crop report became apparent when the official figures were received. A new all time record for domestic winter wheat production was shown to have been established, the final estimate being 12,000,000 bushels in excess of previous figures.

DEPTH MINING IS CARRIED ON READILY, ONT.

Abundance of Trees for Timber; Mines Are Relatively Dry

TORONTO, Dec. 15 (By W. T. Webb)—It is a remarkable fact that while mining for gold in Ontario is being carried on at depths of from three to four thousand feet and plans are being made to continue down to nearly two miles below the surface, no serious difficulties, such as have beset mines in other parts of the world, are being met and no insurmountable ones are expected.

Ontario gold mines are relatively dry, no heavy water flow having been encountered. Solidity of the rocks makes underground workings largely self-supporting, requiring a minimum of timber. Timber, when needed, is to be found in abundance close at hand while in other parts of the world, particularly the Rand, the planting of trees had been resorted to.

Canada sells more to Great Britain

The ease with which mining is carried on in Ontario has been an outstanding factor in the extraordinary increase in output, Ontario gold mines, in the past two decades, having enlarged their annual yield at least a thousand times, this year's output having expanded to $42,000,000 from $42,000 in 1911.

Featuring recent news and significant of the continued interest and activity in mining is the announcement that Beattie Gold Mines, controlled by Ventures, limited, and in which Nipissing directors plan to by 40 per cent interest, will establish a 1000 ton mill, starting as soon as possible next spring. It is proposed to erect the mill during the summer and place the property on a production basis as quickly as possible. A temporary plant will be constructed this winter and development will begin on the big tonnage of gold ore indicated by diamond drilling.

WINNIPEG WHEAT MARKET SLIDES

Last Minute Profit-Taking Sends Market Into a Bad Skid

WINNIPEG, Dec. 16 (CP)—A last-minute deluge of profit-taking sales today flooded the grain market and at the close wheat prices showed a drop of 1⅜ to 1½ cents. The market had held up well until near the close, when the sudden influx of selling orders found buyers lacking and yesterday's gains were almost wiped out.

December and May each were 1⅜ cents lower at 60½ and 63⅞ to 64, respectively. July, at 64¾ to 65, showed a loss of 1¼ to 1½ cents.

Good support was evident early in the session by eastern interests, although elevator companies and Chicago traders contributed liberal offerings. Only a moderate export business was confirmed.

Cash wheat and coarse grains trading continued slow.

TRADING IS DULL ON COAST BOARD

Noble Five Gains Fractionally; Pioneer Gold Has But One Sale

VANCOUVER, Dec. 16— Trading turned dull on the Vancouver stock exchange today with the majority of the issues closing irregularly.

Pioneer Gold had but one sale of 100 shares at 3.15. The market closed at 3.10 bid.

Lorne Gold weakened in sympathy, closing down a half point at 11½ bid.

Noble Five gained fractionally, with sales recorded at 7½. National Silver at 3¼ and Georgia River at 3½ were also slightly higher. Premier Gold sold at 62 and 63 cents. Independence was higher for odd lots at 1¼.

In the oils Fabyan regained the fraction to close at 2½ bid. Twenty-two thousand shares crossed the board. Flathead Valley oils continued weak, with Crow's Nest Glacier selling at two cents. Amalgamated was 4 bid.

Canada's Unfavorable Trade Balance, Down

OTTAWA, Dec. 16 (CP)—Canada exported domestic produce to the value of $57,486,950 in the month of November. Imports for consumption for the same month was $46,914,406. This whittles down the unfavorable trade balance for the fiscal year until exports and imports are almost equal. Total exports of Canadian products for the eight months are $408,541,765 and total imports for consumption $411,068,345. These figures were released today by the department of national revenue.

NEW YORK LIST HITS NEW LOW

Tax Selling and Liquidation Take Their Toll; Loew's Hit Hard

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (AP)—Stocks and bonds were shaken down to new average lows today.

Both markets seemed to be under the same influences that have prompted their declines this month, namely tax selling and liquidation of collateral loans but selling pressure was lighter than it has been on several recent sessions.

A number of preferred stocks had severe losses, notably Loew's off 14⅞, Standard Gas and Electric 7 per cent off 12¾, Jones and Laughlin, off 8¾, and Radio "A" off 6½.

A break by American Telephone in the late trading proved unsettling to common shares and accelerated selling elsewhere, so that the last hour was the most active period of the day. Telephone finally was forced under 120, reaching a new low at 119¼ and closing at 119½, down 3¾ net. U. S. Steel lost a point and Bethlehem and American Can more than a point.

Rails had a heavy tone at the close. Transfers totalled 1,567,400 shares.

Wheat and corn closed with fractional losses. Cotton was quiet, ending the day virtually unchanged.

Foreign exchanges mostly strengthened in dollar terms.

Although spasmodic efforts were made by some bonds to recover a portion of their recent losses, and a number of the rails displayed resistance, the loans market as a whole retreated to lower ground today.

DR. D. M. BLACK TELLS OF WAR IN THE ORIENT

Tells St. Paul's Young People of Incidents Leading Up to Trouble

Dr. D. M. Black captivated his audience with his address on the political difficulties existing between Japan and China at present, when he spoke before the St. Paul's Young People's society in the church parlors Wednesday night.

Dr. Black reviewed a few past events before beginning his topic, and used a map throughout to illustrate geographical points of interest. The Koreans, he said, had ruling consulates, and courts and jails were scattered all over the country in contact with the Chinese, whose districts were badly disrupted by communism and a "reign of terror" by this party.

Early in the century the whole ordeal started when a dispute arose between a Korean peddler and a Chinesese merchant. Complications set in and Japan stationed troops of police at strategic points but these were withdrawn on the order from the Japanese war office. At this time Russia was building the trans-siberian railway.

During peace negotiation in 1905, Japan took part of Russia's territory in Manchuria and this movement, although it drew criticism from many sources was justified. Japan demanded rights for military guards on a line to Dairen, which today, is one of the most modern ports in the world. Then commenced one of the greatest "immigrations" the world has ever known, when a million Chinese moved into Manchuria.

NATURAL CONSCIOUSNESS

China was beginning to develop a "national consciousness". A query arose over the presence of innumerable foreigners in China. Public opinion was vociferous and gradually China came awakened to this feeling. But Japan was not on her trail and put up a policy of obstruction and interference and impeded China's plans for her new expansion. But China was not to be outdone and immediately set up the port of Hulu-tao in direct opposition to Japan. This move was the signal among Japanese for banditry, and murder in some cases. A series of constant irritations led to Japan taking military action to protect her "nationals".

Dr. Black expressed the following opinions. "Of recent years Japan has had no ideas of territorial acquisitions but did want Manchuria to be dependant on her for certain trade. Manchuria really owes her upkeep to Japanese economic penetration. In regard to the military action, it was taken without the full consent of the war-offices and skirmishes took place because the Japanese army officers were eager to display their prowess as soldiers. China has offered no official resistence for she knows that she is no match for Japan where military actions are concerned. And there is the boycott. China takes almost 50 per cent of Japanese foreign trade. At the first sign of blood the league of nations ordered Japan to withdraw her troops from the railway zone by November 16. But this order it seemed, had received ill consideration and the matter was dropped."

MAKES PROPHECY

He continued with a prophecy which was, "Japan, by taking military action will do naught but hurt her own cause in Manchuria. The power of the boycott is far too great and surely Japan will have to come to some agreement should this take place in China. Should Japan take the attitude of combining her army, navy and air force to hold her interest in Manchuria, the leading nations would be bound by the cause of "1914" to step in and act diplomatically and persuasively." The resignation of the Wakatsuki ministry has proven a great step toward peace. This ministry refused to have any connection with the army or war offices and will not be subject to any blame. The present government, the Seiyukai ministry, shall likely prove aggressive and reactionary according to reports.

The Chinese, knowing their weakness, firmly believe in a non-resistance policy and thus great controversy has arisen among the masses of people. This controversy is chiefly to the effect that the government are taking a "weak-kneed" attitude toward the affair and exists among the younger people and especially among the students.

A hearty vote of thanks for his instructive talk, was moved by the young people at the conclusion of the talk.

RADIO TEST SHOWS AN INTERFERENCE ZONE NEAR LINES

Interference Seems to Radiate Up to Two Blocks From Car-Lines

SOME CLOSER AREAS ARE NOT AFFECTED

Large Number of Radio Owners Take Observations at Test Period

Nelson's first concerted community-wide test on radio interference, held Wednesday night by the Amateur Radio society and the city electrical department in cooperation, when the street railway system was shut down for 10 minutes just at 8 o'clock, was highly successful, in that a large number of radio owners made detailed observations during the period of the test, and in that some definite information was obtained.

Final results of the test will not be known definitely until complete returns are filed by R. G. German, local radio inspector. Many broadcast listeners reported to the zone leaders, but a number of reports have yet to be drawn up more completely.

DEFINITE ZONE

Street car interference seemed to radiate up to two blocks from the lines, but in some localities that were closer to the power lines no appreciable difference was noted. One car was at the Gordon road terminal at the time of the shutdown and the other was on Hall Mines road adjacent to Stanley street.

Several listeners gave lengthy written reports which will aid greatly in summing up all returns. The Dominion government radio inspector G. Irvine, from Vancouver, is expected to arrive in Nelson shortly, and action is pending until his coming.

It is requested that all reports be in by Friday at the latest, for complete summarization. No official statement was made by the city's electrical department regarding the test Wednesday night.

TAKES JAIL TERM WHEN CONVICTED SELLING LIQUOR

A. Gallicano to Serve Six Months Hard Labor in Nelson

Three hundred dollars fine or six month hard labor in the Nelson jail was the sentence given out by Magistrate William Brown in city police court Wednesday morning, when he found Antonio Gallicano guilty of selling liquor. The option of jail was taken.

Three men, who were drinking rum in Gallicano's basement room on Vernon street when Sergt. Alex. Stewart and Constable R. Harshaw raided the premises on the night of December 12, were present as witnesses. Alford and John Carlson both testified to buying rum from Gallicano, which they confessed had been consumed, and, that they were partaking of a treat from Gallicano, when the police raided. To save repetition, the witness, Thomas Halverston was not called upon.

Sergt. Alex. Stewart and Constable R. Harshaw identified considerable liquor which they had found on the Gallicano premises and appropriated, previous to the evidence given by Alford and John Carlson.

Beyond asking Sergt. Alex. Stewart about certain furnishing in the premises, such as would be necessary for one's living quarters, and denying that he had made statements demanding silence from the men in the room, Gallicano made no active defence.

Chief of Police Thomas H. Long prosecuted.

Rev. Hector W. McTavish, a minister in the former Methodist church in the London and Toronto conferences, died at North Bay.
