KING GEORGE'S SISTER PASSES AT AGE OF 67

Death Comes to the Princess Victoria Early Tuesday

WAS FAVORITE OF QUEEN VICTORIA

Last Illness Had Its Beginning Three Weeks Ago

LONDON, Dec. 3 (Tuesday) (AP)—Princess Victoria, sister of the King, died early today.

The princess, who was 67 years old, never married. She was the favorite grandchild of Queen Victoria, and was known as a favorite sister of King George.

She was the fourth child and second daughter of King Edward VII and Queen Alexandra.

She died at her home in Buckinghamshire at 3:35 a.m. (9:35 p.m. Monday, E.S.T.)

The official bulletin said:

"Her Royal Highness has had a peaceful death."

The princess' death followed swiftly a critical ailment that developed Sunday night, when she was reported seriously ill from a stomach hemmorrhage.

Murder-Suicide Inquest Is Set for Wednesday

Funerals of Palmer and David on 4th and 5th

An inquest into Saturday's double tragedy at Balfour when Gordon Wesley Palmer was murdered and his assailant, John David, committed suicide, by shooting and hanging, is scheduled to take place in Nelson Wednesday at the convenience of Coroner Dr. H. H. MacKenzie. The provincial police will be represented by Corp. David Halcrow who spent Monday selecting a coroner's jury.

The bodies of the two men were brought to Nelson Sunday and are in a local morgue.

Gordon Palmer is to be buried Wednesday following the inquest, and John David will probably be buried Thursday.

In a checkup of hardware stores Monday police found that the .22 calibre rifle with which David shot Palmer and then used to shoot himself, was purchased at the Hipperson Hardware store Friday afternoon or Saturday morning. David had a .22 repeater rifle but it was not in perfect working condition and evidently he was taking no chances of having his plans go astray. No further developments in the case were revealed by a check-up Monday and final preparations have been made for the inquest Wednesday. Palmer was shot while pitching hay in the Noakes barn at Balfour. He was to wed a Balfour miss on Thursday next. David's body was found hanging by a rope from a highway bridge near Balfour. He had shot himself through the forehead before dropping over the bridge.

WEDDING RINGS MAY SOLVE THE ITALIAN PROBLEM

ROME, Dec. 2 (AP).—Wedding rings may build a figurative barricade in Italy's fight against the international boycott launched against her as a result of her armed invasion of Ethiopia.

The women of Italy promised Premier Mussolini they would contribute their golden marital bands to bolster the nation's credit to an amount which may total close to a hundred million dollars.

Italy has about 8,000,000 families, and in many cases both men and women have wedding rings. Jewelers estimated that if ten million rings were given—each ring averaging 7½ grams—they would weigh 82½ tons and be worth 1,158,750,000 lire (about $92,700,000).

MOTHER AT AGE 14 PLEADS FOR HUBBY AGED 39

He Faces Kidnapping Charge; Wife as Tot Taken 8 Years Ago

LEWISBURG, W. Va., Dec. 2 (AP)—Little Dorothy Evelyn Roman, a mother at the age of 14, today pleaded with a jury to free her husband of a kidnapping charge brought against him for taking her away from home eight years ago.

The strange drama revolving around the state's charge that the defendant—William Mavin Roman, 39—abducted the girl, then married her and became the father of her child, was unfolded in the Greenbrier county court house. The jury was dismissed after reporting a disagreement.

The child-wife fondled her 15-month-old son on her lap before she was summoned to the witness stand. She was only 8 years old at the time she disappeared from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bradley of nearby Rupert.

The girl told the jury she went voluntarily with Roman because her parents were unfair to her. Speaking in a calm voice, she said: "I went away with him because I wanted to get away from there."

Roman told how he had employed nurses for the girl and sent her to school. They were married in November, 1933.

Transcanada Is Up to Dominion

Such Is Stand of the Saskatchewan Pair at Ottawa Confab

REGINA, Dec. 2 (CP)—Premier W. J. Patterson and Hon. T. C. Davis, attorney-general, Saskatchewan representatives to the Ottawa inter-provincial conference starting December 9, will urge completion and upkeep of the trans-Canada highway by the Dominion government.

The nature of the trans-Canada has "lifted" it out of the ordinary road building and it rightly was the responsibility of the federal government, Premier Patterson said today.

The premier also confirmed the announcement that Saskatchewan would ask for removal of the income tax from the provinces entirely, the provinces to get additional subsidy in lieu of the dropped tax. This was to eliminate duplication of taxation. His government would also advocate placing a sales tax with the federal government only, as there were decided objections to such tax when imposed by the provinces.

"A readjustment or rearrangement of financial responsibility in respect to relief" would also be urged, he stated.

AIR MAIL TEST FLIGHTS TO BE MADE NEXT YEAR

Route Will Be Chosen Across the Dominion in Short Time

SURVEY FLIGHTS ARE AUTHORIZED

Trans-Atlantic Hops Also Planned for the Future

OTTAWA, Dec. 2 (CP)—The Imperial Transcanadian airways conference ended tonight after approving unanimously a start of survey flights next year and an experimental air mail service soon afterward.

The "subimperial conference" as it is called, decided also, after holding meetings for 11 days between representatives of four Empire countries, that experimental flights should lead to establishment of a regular transatlantic air mail and passenger service calling for a minimum schedule of two flights each way every week.

Delegates of Canada, United Kingdom and the Irish Free State will go to Washington tomorrow to discuss transatlantic aviation with representatives of the United States. The Newfoundland delegate will return home without going to Washington.

An official communique authorized by V. L. Smart, deputy minister of railways and canals for Canada, made no mention of any route that fight be adopted for survey or experimental flights. It emphasized that recommendations of the conference were subject to agreement by all governments concerned.

Enough Coal for Next 100 Years

Resources of Alberta "Over-Estimated" in Expert's Opinion

OTTAWA, Dec. 2 (CP)—Sir Montague Barlow, British coal expert and one-time labor minister of the United Kingdom, came here today from Alberta and said the western province's coal resources had been overestimated, although "it isn't a problem that's going to affect anyone for the next 100 years."

Sir Montague made a survey of the whole coal industry in Alberta. He said the province contains "billions of tons of coal" but previous experts "had placed the estimate a bit too high."

Because he will make a report to Premier Aberhart's government he declined to enlarge his remarks beyond saying he found the industry in efficient condition and that transportation "is the greatest difficulty."

5000 MAJORITY FOR MINISTER

REGINA, Dec. 2 (CP)—Saskatchewan's Liberal government won its third by-election in two weeks today when Hon. William Franklin Kerr, new minister of natural resources, was returned today by a majority of more than 5000.

Following his elevation to the cabinet Mr. Kerr was opposed in the Regina by-election by Dr. Denis Sweeney, former alderman running as an Independent.

Complete unofficial returns for the 135 polls gave Kerr 11,762, with 6149 for Sweeney, representing about 60 per cent of the eligible vote.

Woman Gains an Interview With Condemned Woman

TORONTO, Dec. 2 (CP).—Provincial Secretary H. C. Nixon today ordered an inquiry into the circumstances of an interview a Detroit newspaperwoman had in Woodstock jail with Mrs. Elizabeth Tilford, condemned to hang Dec. 17 for the poison murder of her husband, Tyrrell Tilford. It was understood the newspaper woman was Dorothy Williams.

Mr. Nixon said it "is certainly against our policy to allow interviews with condemned persons."

CAVERHILL RETURNS FROM TRIP TO SOUTH AFRICA

VICTORIA, B.C., Dec. 2 (CP).—P. Z. Caverhill, chief forester of the province, returned to the city today from his second trip to South Africa, where he attended the Empire Forestry conference last summer. He will report tomorrow to the government on the results of his mission.

ITALY HOPES FOR SANCTIONS LETUP

London Naval Conference May Bring Matter to a Head, It Is Believed

ROME, Dec. 2 (CP-Havas).—Italy tonight looked forward to the forthcoming London naval conference which, it was hoped, will put an end to the economic campaign imposed by members of the League of Nations against this country.

As the days pass sanctions are taking a secondary place. The Italian attitude has become steadfast. The general hope is that by reaching an agreement on the Mediterranean situation during the naval conference, it will be possible to reassure Great Britain and thereby speed a solution to the Ethiopian problem.

NORTH CHINA GETS AUTONOMY

Will Forestall Any Japanese Move to Seize Territory

SHANGHAI, Dec. 3 (Tuesday) (AP)—Reports reaching here today said Yin Ju-Keng, who set up an autonomous state in east Hopeh province nine days ago, had been forced to flee his home in disguise when it was surrounded by clamoring citizens, demanding tax relief.

North China tension eased with northern leaders conferring at Paoting to seek a satisfactory formula for political readjustment. An authoritative source said the central Chinese government had decided to give north China virtual autonomy to forestall Japanese encroachment.

Autonomy agitation, however, continued in the area. Chinese press reports said Japanese outposts were travelling over the countryside inciting the populace, which authorities had sentenced them rigidly.

SIR SAMUEL HOARE IS GOING SKATING

LONDON, Dec. 2 (CP-Havas).—Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, will be seeking fresh laurels on his holiday in Switzerland next week—but not diplomatic ones.

He hopes to do some ice-skating at St. Moritz, well-known Swiss winter sports center. He already holds one figure-skating record and is understood to be planning to try for a new one.

If he succeeds he will be the oldest St. Moritz titleholder. Sir Samuel is 55 and one of Britain's best figure-skaters.

Britain Tests Her New Troopship of the Air

A fine picture of what may soon be Great Britain's troopship of the air, as it was put through tests before being accepted by the British government. The plane is intended for the transport of a complete detachment of troops, together with their equipment, or alternatively for use as a long-range bomber. The plane is driven by two motors developing 850 h.p. each, and is armed with two machine-guns on revolving turrets, one in the nose and one in the rear of the plane's fuselage. The wheels are retractable.

TRAPPER, WANTED FOR MURDER IN NORTH, IS IN CUSTODY OF POLICE

Waves White Flag as Plane Flies Over Cabin

EDMONTON, Dec. 2 (CP).—The end of a manhunt that promised to best the nearest parallel since 1932 of the famed chase for Albert Johnson, "mad trapper" of Rat river, came today with the surrender of John Harms, 65-year-old Goldfield trapper.

And tonight a Royal Canadian Mounted police patrol was reported camped at Fort Chipewyan base. With them was Harms, a prisoner charged with murder.

Harms is charged with killing his trapping partner, Johnny Anthony, 35. In addition police are probing reports that he terrorized the wife of a nearby trapper after killing Anthony and held her barricaded in her home for four days.

Harms' surrender came before Sgt. F. V. Vernon of the R.C.M.P. had reached the trapper's cabin near Goldfields, Sask. As Pilot Lewis Leigh yesterday circled above Harms' cabin the trapper came out and waved a white flag over his head in token of surrender.

Italians Fear Surprise Attack

MAKALE, Ethiopia, Dec. 2 (AP).—Italian troops redoubled precautions tonight against a surprise attack by Ethiopians, scouts reported detachments of the enemy were in the immediate vicinity of the Italian outposts.

One of Il Duce's native troop columns reported today it had come through a sharp battle in the Tembien mountains, and Italian authorities place significance in the fact that the enemy was apparently showing activity on the eve of the feast day of St. George, battle saint of the Ethiopians.

When the column entered a valley, the advance guard was suddenly stopped by a fusillade of bullets from a mountain ridge just ahead. The whole column halted and deployed in battle formation, the men concealing themselves behind rocks and trees.

The engagement continued for several hours, with the Italians gradually working up the valley toward the crest of the mountain. A final charge dislodged the Ethiopians, forcing them to flee.

FORMER CHIEF IS SENTENCED

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Dec. 2 (CP)—Joseph Fitzpatrick, former Blairmore chief of police, today was sentenced to two years less one day in the Lethbridge provincial jail when he was found guilty of extortion.

Mr. Justice W. C. Ives, who heard the case without jury, pronounced sentence.

Fitzpatrick, 50 years old, was charged with obtaining $1000 from Sam Cbliski, a Blairmore miner, in a case which involved Leona Cudmore. The girl codefendant was killed in an automobile accident near Coleman, Alta., November 9.

Credit Problems Felt by Italy

Small Firms Facing the Crisis; Find Work for Unemployed

ROME, Dec. 2 (AP)—Italy has begun to feel the pressure of League of Nations' economic sanctions, business leaders said tonight, and is faced with solving unemployment and credit problems.

If Italy's imports and exports—which normally are about 1,000,000,000 lire (about $80,000,000) monthly—were cut in two, these sources said, the reduction would be equivalent to the wages of nearly 1,000,000 men.

Part of this slack in employment, it was stated, will be taken up by an extension of the 30-hour week, and part by producing war supplies.

Small firms which manufacture for export or are dependent on foreign material may face a crisis soon unless they can turn to other work, said business experts.

WINS DAMAGES

VANCOUVER, Dec. 2 (CP)—On the basis of a 40-60 per cent finding of negligence, Hylton A. Tilley, 34, Prince George, B.C., is awarded $12,816 damages against John O. Wilson, Prince George, under a written judgment handed down in supreme court today by Mr. Justice H. E. Robertson.

Tilley was run over by Wilson's car on the Vanderhoof-Prince George highway June 11, suffering injuries which the judge describes in his decision as of a "terrible nature," including a broken back.

ARCHEOLOGIST DIES

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP).—Dr. James H. Breasted, noted archeologist and head of the Oriental institute of the University of Chicago, died early today at the Presbyterian medical center.

"I Will Not Eat My Waffles Brown, Alongside One Who Gulps Beer Down"

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 2 (AP). — The nation's drys today launched a campaign of song against "Demon Rum."

"Buy Dry," "Repeal Has Failed," "I'm Still for Prohibition," "Vote the Booze Away," "Save Our Youth," "Have You Counted the Cost," and "Save Our Land" were among the titles of songs sung and distributed at the national convention of the Anti-Saloon league in session here.

To the tune of "Maryland, My Maryland," the delegates chanted their version, "Buy Dry."

"I will not eat my waffles brown,
Alongside one who gulps beer down;
I'll take my patronage away
And hunt me up a new cafe.
The grocery where I used to buy,
Sells beer on tap while I stand by;
"I'll not go back though I go far,
I'll buy no groceries o'er a bar."

A second verse contained the words: "The strongest thing, don't guess, you'll lose, my filling station's selling booze."

Homer Rodeheaver, evangelist and former song leader for the late Billy Sunday, sang his "Repeal Has Failed," while Bishop W. N. Ainsworth of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, stood by, clapped his hands and shouted approval.

"Repeal has failed," Rodeheaver sang. "It was all in vain. The old Saloon is back again. Tho' its called another name, It's a hell hole just the same, For it damns men in their shame."

T. D. GREEN, B.Sc., FULL-BLOODED MOHAWK, DIES IN ALBERTA AT 77

Born in Ontario; Was Friend of Sir John A. MacDonald; Came to N.W.T. in 80's as Dominion Land Surveyor

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Alta., Dec. 2 (CP)—Thomas Daniel Green, full blooded Mohawk Indian, surveyor, traveller, bachelor of science and friend of Sir John A. Macdonald, died here Saturday.

Born 77 years ago in Brant county, Ont., Green attended Brantford high school and graduated from McGill university with the degree of B. Sc. During the Macdonald regime and while the Marquis of Lansdowne was governor-general, he was employed in the department of interior.

In the early '80s he came to that part of the Northwest Territories which is now Alberta and practiced his profession as a Dominion land surveyor. He was one of the earliest surveyors in the west.

Judges Are Sympathetic With the Working Class Arthur Evans Told

No Prejudice in the Case of Ottawa Trekkers

REGINA, Dec. 2 (CP)—Discussion of the fairness of courts in dealing with working class political cases at the Regina Dominion day riot inquiry today brought from Chief Justice J. T. Brown, chairman of the inquiry, assurance that any evidence brought against the On-to-Ottawa trek leaders would not be permitted to prejudice the case of the trekkers.

"I assure you," Chief Justice Brown said to Arthur Evans, trek leader, "the case of the 2000 young men will not be prejudiced."

The chairman warmly defended the courts of Canada as he argued with Mr. Evans that judges could be and were "sympathetic" to working class defendants.

"You're all astray," said the chair-

Sisters Meet After 43 Years

CALGARY, Dec. 2 (CP).—After 45 years separation, incidents of frontier life are being recalled by twin sisters, Mrs. John Motion of Chicago and Mrs. I. J. Hicks of High River, Alta. Separated in 1892 when, as a bride, Mrs. Motion went to Chicago, the sisters were recently reunited.

Daughters of the late James Harkley, of Walkerton, Ont., they came with him to Calgary in 1887.

COAST RACKET ENDED BY RUSE

Police, Pushing Baby Carriage, Nab the Extortionist

VANCOUVER, Dec. 2 (CP) — Morrison Forbes, 22, was held today on a charge of attempted extortion after being trapped by a police ruse.

A citizen whose name is withheld had been receiving letters and demands for money and, ignoring a warning, he reported to police.

In the last letter received by the citizen the writer instructed him to drive his automobile slowly along Fifteenth avenue and drop a parcel containing a stipulated sum of money into the road.

As the car rolled along the designated block, a man and woman, pushing a baby buggy, kept abreast of it on the sidewalk. When the parcel was dropped and a man dashed out and picked it up, the couple abandoned the baby buggy and pounced on the men. They were Detective A. M. Stewart and Policewoman Mrs. G. L. Purdy.

Other officers were hidden in a house nearby while policemen in a squad car were waiting a short distance away to endeavor to capture the would-be extortionist should the ruse fail. The baby buggy contained a dummy baby.

FRANCE SOLVES A KIDNAP CASE

Thousands March and Scream "Death to Kidnappers"

MARSEILLE, France, Dec. 2 — (AP).—Thousands marched through the streets tonight screaming "death to kidnappers" after a child whom police called France's first kidnap victim was returned to his parents.

Claude Malmejac, 18-months-old son of a physician, kidnapped last Thursday, was found alive today in a suburban cottage.

Mme. Marie Joly Rolland, 67, and her jobless son, Gilbert Rolland, 24, were arrested at the cottage. They told police they had abducted the child after studying the Lindbergh and other American kidnappings.

Police said the pair confessed a previous unsuccessful attempt to kidnap another child.

Selassie Has Abandoned City

Harar Evacuation Is Diplomatic Move to Save People

GENEVA, Dec. 2 (CP-Havas)—In a tactical move which carried his defence strategy from the military to the diplomatic front, Emperor Haile Selassie tonight told the League of Nations he would withdraw all troops from Harar, in order to protect the civilian population from the danger of Italian bombing.

Secretary-General Joseph Avenol of the league said the order would become effective at once. Hereafter Harar will serve exclusively as a hospital station for the care of soldiers wounded on the Ogaden front.

Woodsworth Doubts That Riddell Exceeded His Authority at Geneva

BREAKS NECK ON HUNTING TRIP

VICTORIA, Dec. 2 (CP)—Victor Marconi, 24, of Victoria, was in a critical condition in the hospital today with a broken neck and fractured skull suffered yesterday afternoon when he fell more than 30 feet down a rocky cliff while hunting on Big Saanich mountain. Owing to the rocky nature of the country it was several hours before medical aid reached him.

HE STILL LIKES U.B.C. CO-EDS

TORONTO, Dec. 2 (CP)—Sydney Herman, who represented the University of Toronto in debates in western Canada and who told the British Columbia co-eds they were the prettiest he had ever seen, was even more definite in his opinions on return here.

"University of Toronto co-eds are like hot-house flowers they wilt quickly—very beautiful but not very substantial," he said. "The University of British Columbia co-eds are more handsome, healthy, efficient and self-radiant in appearance than those at the University of Toronto, mainly because of a lesser indulgence in synthetic pleasure."

Believes Pressure Was Brought to Bear Upon Ottawa

WINNIPEG, Dec. 2 (CP)—Doubt that Canada's permanent representative at Geneva would have exceeded his authority when he suggested that sanctions against Italy should be extended was expressed today by J. S. Woodsworth, leader of the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation.

Comment on the announcement by Acting Prime Minister Ernest Lapointe that Dr. Walter A. Riddell expressed only his own views when he advocated an embargo on oil, coal, iron and steel, Mr. Woodsworth said it was "very strange" that Dr. Riddell's statements should be disavowed by the Dominion government.

It looked as though strong pressure must have been brought to bear on Ottawa, Mr. Woodsworth said. He could hardly conceive that Dr. Riddell would make such important utterances before the League of Nations' committee of 18 without previous communication with Ottawa.

Mr. Woodsworth's own view was that if sanctions were to be applied at all, they should be as complete as possible.

Newsy Jottings From the Nelson High School

Auditorium Reopened; Form Four Houses to Stimulate Interest in the School Activities; Play in Offing

HOUSE PROGRAMS

Friday afternoon was once again the scene of activities in the high school auditorium. This time House C had its chance to vie with the two previous House contests for supremacy in the inter-House competition. Despite the fact that the chairman, Paul Brook, appeared rather "pocketconscious", the program provided lots of entertainment.

Bobby Morris appeared first on the program with a comic recitation, "The Family Tangle". In his story of a mother capturing her daughter's sweetheart, while the sweetheart's father was busy wooing the daughter, Bobby won the most enthusiastic applause of the whole program.

A piano solo by Norman Bass, entitled "Country Gardens", was followed by a clever interpretation and character sketch of "Will Rogers", by Jean Browne. In her speech, Jean emphasized particularly the "Great Will's" deep but humorous philosophy of life, and his unbounded faith in America, termed by the speaker as "fierce nationalism". In closing Jean made the apt remark that Will Rogers "will live in the hearts of the American people rather than in their minds."

The musical note was taken up again by the House C chorus which gave two numbers, a sea chantey, "Blow the Man Down", and a song, "Sweet and Low". Both songs suffered a little from lack of volume and vigor, but the material for good chorus work is undoubtedly there, and needs only an experienced hand to mold it into better form. The final item was an amusing skit, "The Hangman's Holiday", presented by three members of House C, Mayme MacMillan, Harold Baskin and Aubrey Custance.

SPORTS

The High School Badminton club is beginning to settle down to the routine winter tactics. The fight for supremacy between Bowell, Gray, Dewdney, and the inimitable Bradley brings forth such exhibitions of playing that the more average players among us have nothing to do but sit and sigh and dream of the days when we shall be able to "drop-shot", "slam", and "return" with half the precision and speed that this quartet does.

Edna MacKenzie is still the leading player in the girls' ranks. Edna often skips off the court, after a 21-point game, with an eye cocked for some other victim. These victims are not always girls either!

Stan Horswill, although failing to find time for boys' basketball, is busy rounding his team of girls into shape for the championship. That is, Stan is quite certain that with a few years' practice the girls will be able to win a championship that is at stake, say, between Junior and Senior high schools. Kay Gallaher, sharp-shooter de luxe, and Isobel Donavan, diminutive speed-artist, are the foundation about which the team will no doubt be built.

Boys' basketball, although not as popular this week, is becoming more interesting than ever at high school. Quite a number of "hopefuls" have turned out to give the older players a break and at the same time a lesson. Levon Papazian and his ever-ready stooge, Wright MacIntosh have resolved to learn the game, and Mr. Maclean agrees with them that some day they will. Stick to it, fellows! That's how I got my start! But, all joking aside, any visitor to the gymnasium Monday or Wednesday night will come perhaps to jeer but remain to gaze and speculate on how far such players as Fred Graves, Stan Horswill, Gary Bowell, and some others would go under the supervision of a coach. These, as well as many others, are becoming very good players. Of course, there are better, but if some player, determined to score, has Stan Horswill to beat to do so, that player might just as well make up his mind to try at least, and that only. Fred Graves, a braw Scot, is the bane of most guards' existence. Fred can be in two places at once so quickly that a basket is made before the guard is able to acclimatize himself to the draft made by "Fritz" Graves. But to pair Graves and Bowell would be the final disaster for any poor guards who were justy trying "to get along"!

GENERAL NEWS

Owing to the commencement of the junior hockey practices after school, a few of the school's "bad boys" have been particularly well behaved. We, of course, know the reason. It is to escape detention that might keep them from playing the game they are so enthusiastic about.

Grade X pupils have been deep in the study of Shakespeare's great tragedy, "Romeo and Juliet": This 'up and coming' body of students doesn't seem to take this play as a tragedy, but sees it more in the light of a comedy. I think that if it were played by a cast from Grade X, it would indeed justify their expectations of humor.

If we were to turn back and look over the past history of the high school in 1927, we would find a very lively bunch of pupils roaming the halls. They evidently had a number of contests, for there were certain pupils who were known as the "School Champions". Here we have four well-known "champs" of that day:

Champion Cigarette Roller—
Robert Hall.
Champion Cork Puller—
S. (Boosie) Genest.
Champion Heart Smasher—
G. Wallach.
Champion Snooker Players—
L. Mansfield.

Can you feature a school possessing all of the five senses? Cast your eye over these:

Someone Who Feels Well—
J. (Bones) Horswill.
Someone Who Looks Well—
Mildred Lutes.
Someone Who Talks Well—
Phyllis Shefield.
Someone Who Smells Well—
Frank Becker.
Someone Who Hears Well—
G. Anderson.

SCHOOL JOKES OF 1927

Bob Hall was late again.

Miss Robson: "Hall why are you late?"

Bob: "Oh, I got up late, and I only had ten minutes to dress."

Miss Robson: "I can dress comfortably in ten minutes."

Bob: "Yes, but I wash."

Miss Peck. "Give me a sentence using the works 'bitter end'."

Minnie: "Our dog chased our cat and bitter end."

The topic of conversation at the school Monday was the opening of the new artificial ice skating rink. High school students are certainly grateful to those who have made such a thing possible. Now they will reserve the energy they so carelessly toss about the classrooms for the more strenuous games to be played in the auditorium.

To Be Completed In About a Year at Copper Cliff

TORONTO, Dec. 3 (CP).—Construction of a $6,000,000 addition to the smelter of the International Nickel Company of Canada at Copper Cliff in Northern Ontario was announced today through the company's head office by President Robert C. Staley. The addition will be completed in about a year. The company announced the expansion program as a move to increase reserve capacity.

The president's statement said:

"Consumption of nickel throughout the world has increased steadily since 1932 and, as a result of established industrial activities, should continue to do so. The nickel business as now constituted has been built on and is maintained on the basis of an assured source of supply and prompt deliveries of nickel products. This policy necessitates at all times stand-by plant facilities and adequate stocks of refined metal.

"With these facts in mind the International Nickel Co., of Canada, Ltd., has decided to increase its reserve capacity. From the standpoint of labor and materials it is believed that this work can be done most efficiently at this time.

"The program contemplated comprises the construction of an addition to the Copper Cliff smelter served by a new high stack and the installation of two reverbatory furnaces and eight converters, with the necessary auxiliaries such as blowers, airolines and electrical equipment. The cost of the work will amount to approximately $6,000,000 and the time for completion will be about one year."

ALBERTAN WINS A WHEAT CROWN

CHICAGO, Dec. 2 (CP)—The mythical crown of the "world wheat king" sat jauntily tonight on the head of W. Frelan Wilford, mixed farmer from the foothills country of southern Alberta.

Wilford won the prized award today at the 17th annual grain and hay show of the international livestock exposition here with a sample of Reward wheat from his Stavely farm.

In maintaining Canada's record as the land of the world wheat kings, Wilford brought to the Dominion its 21st crown won at Chicago since 1911. United States growers have taken the award four times.

To Wilford's victory meant the ninth time Alberta has snapped up the title. Saskatchewan has taken it 11 times and Manitoba once.

It was Wilford who won the grand championship at the Regina world grain show in 1933, beating out Herman Trelle, of Wembley, Alta., four times winner of the Chicago title.

Prince of Wales Shorthorn Bull Is Ribbon Winner

CHICAGO, Dec. 2 (CP) — The grand championship for Shorthorn cattle at the International Livestock exposition appeared almost within Canada's grasp tonight.

Today H.R.H. the Prince of Wales was awarded a blue ribbon on his two-year-old Shorthorn bull "Bapton Orator", bred on his famous "E.P." ranch near High River, Alta. This gave "Bapton Orator" a good chance to win the grand championship, a purple ribbon to be awarded tomorrow.

Canadian sheep won many ribbons as the judges watched hundreds of animals parade past them. Charles J. Shore of Glenworth, Ont., won the blue ribbon for the best pen of lambs of the grade or cross bred, long wool types. The second prize went to H. M. Lee, Highgate, Ont.

Thanks to public health services, "an English child born today can look forward to 19 more years of life than a child born 60 years ago," claims Sir Kingsley Wood, Minister of Health.

Senator McRae Denies Report He Would Organize Army Fight War

Press Report Termed Absurd; Senator Is Back In Toronto

TORONTO, Dec. 2 (CP).—Senator A. D. McRae of Vancouver today issued a statement denying the statement attributed to him in a Dallas, Texas, dispatch Nov. 8 which reported the senator as saying: "I am willing to organize my own private army to fight against Canadian participation in a war."

The statement follows:

The dispatch from Dallas, Texas, of an interview in which it was reported I had said: "I would raise a private army to keep Canada out of war," is too absurd to merit even a denial. However, I do deny it absolutely.

Never before have I found it necessary to contradict what appeared in the press and in this instance I am very fortunate in there being present at the interview not only two well known Canadian officers who were my travelling companions, but also two prominent residents of the state of Texas, all of whom will vouch for what I am about to say.

The interview in question lasted about half an hour and took more the line of a general discussion in which all present joined more or less. There were three reporters present and it is worth mentioning that only one of them got the unfortunate slant on the interview which appeared in the Canadian press.

A general discussion on the European situation ensued and ended in the direct question as to our personal attitude in event of a general European war. My two Canadian companions promptly said they would again enlist. When it came my turn I said that my age answered their question, but had no hesitation in saying that I was opposed to Canada engaging in any more foreign wars and that as a matter of course such influence as I have would naturally be used to keep Canada out of war.

This statement is entirely in agreement with the views I expressed at length in the senate two years ago. Subsequent developments in Europe which have given effect in part to the predictions I made at that time, give me no reason to change my views on this matter, and as it stands today I am opposed to our participation in any European conflict. Of course, if the majority of our people decided that we are to go to war, then we are all at war—this is my position.

COMEDY IS A HIT AT GRAND FORKS

Y.P.S. of Holy Trinity Church Scores a Success

GRAND FORKS, B.C.—"O Clarrissa!", a three-act comedy presented by the Young People's society of the Holy Trinity church Wednesday evening, was voted by all who attended a real success and one of the best amateur performances given in the city for some time.

The play kept the audience in good humor from start to finish and contained a well defined plot.

The story was that of a wealthy matron whose latest craze was a "love cult." She brings from Paris one Swami B. Hami, who is to start a new religion in America, with "Love is All" for its motto. She wins over her husband, Quigley Weatherby, a wealthy book collector, her daughter, Verona, and her fashionable friends, the Cabot Lodges. Even the cook and the butler fall under her spell and become "love fairies".

Her son, Norris, however, sees in the great Swami just another faker. In his endeavour to expose him as such to his family, Norris takes a priceless book on Hindu lore and places it among the Swami's belongings and later accuses him of theft. Clarissa's admiration and respect for the great Swami changes to hatred.

The plot is uncovered however, and Norris admits his trickery and the great Swami turns out to be none other than Buzz Carlton, renowned tenor star, who found in the role of Hindu leader and Clarrissa's weakness an opportunity to follow his sweetheart, her daughter, to America.

All ends well and Clarissa is cured of her fads. Verona and Buzz are reunited. Norris and his sweetheart set the date for their wedding.

Mrs. H. L. McKenzie, who directed the play is being congratulated for its excellent presentation. The characters and actors were well chosen and the entire performance was free of any awkward pauses.

Miss Ella Phillips gave an excellent interpretation of Clarissa, while Reg Heaven gave a splendid portrayal of the harassed husband. Winifred Savage gave a good account of herself in the role of Verona.

Eric White, who is well known to Grand Forks' audiences, did some clever acting as the Swami B. Hami, Ted Leil, a newcomer, who played the part of the irate Norris, tennis champion, proved himself an actor of no mean ability.

Between the second and third act with Miss Phillips, president of the Y. P. S., officiating, Mrs. R. R. Gilpin won first prize and Miss Elsie Liddicoat second prize.

The cast was: Norris Weatherbee, T. Leite; Quigley Weatherbee, R. Heaven; Clarrissa Weatherbee, E. Phillips; Verona Weatherbee, W. Savage; Windsor, the butler, G. Roper; O'Reilley, the policeman, T. Mudie; The Swami B'Hami, E. White; Eleanora Cabot Lodge, B. Henderson; The Cook, M. Plant; Mrs. Cabot Lodge, M. Brown; Miss Cabot Lodge, J. Henslowe.

Accompanist, Mrs. Ommanney.

SENATOR FACES NANAIMO COURT

Conversion Charge Involves $700 of Mortgage Money

NANAIMO, B.C., Dec. 2 (CP).—Senator A. E. Planta went on trial in assize court today on a charge of fraudulently converting to his own use $700 belonging to a client. The charge is one of four of similar nature.

Principal evidence was given by Henry Aho who said he paid over the money on the senator's request for a mortgage for Mrs. Irma Bernard in 1931.

The interest payments were met until 1934, Aho said, when he was given only part of the amount due. When the total interest sum was not paid the following month Aho said he went to Mrs. Bernard and learned that she had never received any of the money paid by Aho for the mortgage.

Aho said he spoke to Senator Planta, who told him he was sorry and promised to pay back every dollar after the senate session was over. The mortgage had been paid in full and the senator had asked him to withdraw the charge, he said.

Aho replied he was satisfied but that the matter was then out of his hands.

Mrs. Bernard said Senator Planta had looked after her business affairs for 45 years.

The case is continuing.

Suggests Further Equipment Trail Fire Department

No Mention Made of Reduction Rates From Dowling

TRAIL, B.C., Dec. 2—The suggested installation of another piece of fire-fighting apparatus brought an unexpected jolt to the city fathers in regular session Monday night when a letter from F. F. Dowling, chief engineer, fire branch of B.C. Insurance Underwriters' association was read.

Mr. Dowling's letter proposed that owing to the growth of the city, a 750-gallon-per-minute pumper, carrying from 1000 to 1200 feet of 2½-inch hose, equipped with booster water tank of 80 gallons capacity, and 200 feet of small hose with accessories, be purchased.

Additional equipment for the proposed apparatus truck was listed. The suggestion was made primarily, the letter stated, for East Trail. Employment of two additional fully paid men to be on service during day time, and five or six paid on call men, was also suggested.

Immediately the letter was read Mayor E. L. Groutage remarked that no mention had been made of reducing fire rates. It had been the feeling of the council that owing to Trail's extremely low fire losses during the past few years, a reduction in rates should be forthcoming. Trail ratepayers association had supported the council in this view.

Such an addition to the fire fighting apparatus would mean an expenditure of $15,000, an increase in the mill rate of approximately five, the mayor said.

Water connections to homes of Thomas M. Black, John A. McInnis and J. E. Bryan, were approved.

102 MEASLES CASES

Dr. F. S. Eaton, city medical health officer, reported 102 cases of measles, one of mumps and five of chicken pox, since the last council meeting two weeks previous.

Aldermen J. R. Anderson and C. Lauriente were appointed by Mayor E. L. Groutage to sit with him on the court of revision December 10 to revise the municipal voters list for 1936.

The Mable K. Sanborn land sale bylaw was given final adoption. The additional anticipation, revenue loan bylaw received final adoption. Two bylaws to authorize the sale of lots 16 and 17 of Block 11, district map 463, City of Trail, received three readings.

McCORKINDALE'S LAST FIGHT

LONDON, (CP)—Don McCorkindale has hung up his gloves. But the South African heavyweight made a gallant fight of his last battle against Obie Walker, colored United States boxer. "Mac" put Walker on his back with a terrific punch at the start and followed it up with one to the jaw that had his opponent reeling. But Walker turned the tables and at the end of the 10 rounds the South African was battered and disfigured.

The net was equal to $15.84 on the 26,000 shares of preferred stock outstanding and, after dividends totalling $182,000 or 7 per cent had been paid, there remained a balance of $230,244 or $5.41 per share, on the common against $5.19 a year ago.

500 SKATERS CHRISTEN ICE

Paid Admissions 416; Hockey Teams Get Tickets

Approximately 500 skaters were on deck to further christen Nelson's artificial ice rink Monday night, the first night of commercial skating, apart from that incidental to the opening of the civic centre Friday and Saturday.

Paid admissions numbered 416, Manager D. StDenis, of the civic centre, afterward stated, while members of hockey teams to whom season tickets had been issued easily brought up the skaters on the ice to the 500 mark.

Many of the younger element quit at 9 o'clock, evidently obeying a parental time limit set.

Hot dogs were completely cleared out at the refreshment stand before 9 o'clock, owing to the huge turnout.

13 TEAMS DEALT WITH

Manager StDenis put the season tickets for registered members of hockey teams on sale at his temporary office uptown at 4 in the afternoon, and in the next two hours had dealings with 13 teams. One of the largest transactions was sale of a block of 23 tickets for the registered players of the two teams entered by the M.R.K. club in the bantam league, the Reds and the Blues.

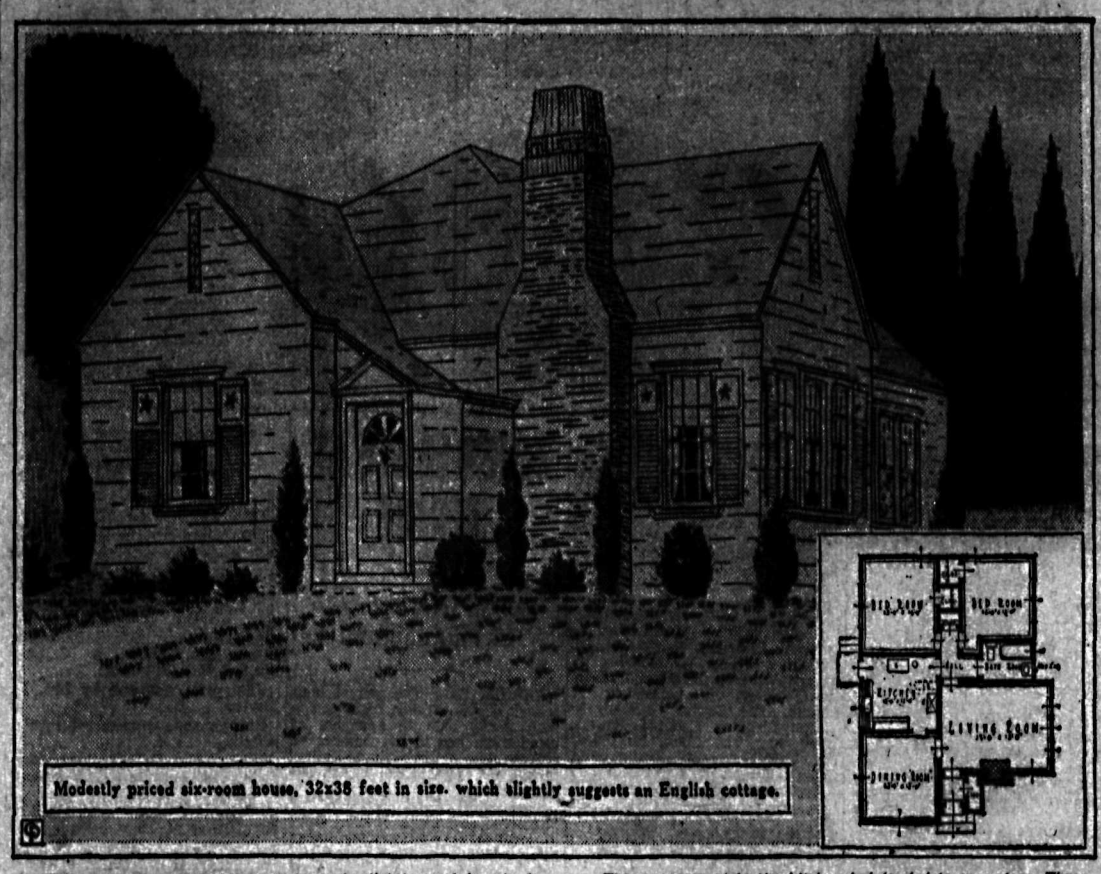
HOUSE IS SMALL AND COMPACT



Modestly priced six-room house, 32x38 feet in size, which slightly suggests an English cottage.

This compact, comfortable small home is slightly reminiscent of the English cottage. It is attractive and the cost of building it is modest. Your lumber dealer could give you an estimate of its probable cost.

The living rooms are all on one floor and consist of a large living room, fair sized dining room, kitchen, two bedrooms and bath. There is also a small entrance hall with a closet for wraps. The living room has a cozy fireplace and ample light.

The arrangement in the kitchen is intended to save steps. There is space for each of the modern necessities—cabinets, refrigerator, stove, ironing board and broom closet.

For the sake of compactness the linen closet is in the hall outside the bathroom. The bathroom is not too small, and no space in it is wasted.

The size of the house is 32x38 feet.

Biner Rink Wins Secondary Event

Defeats Watson Rink to Wind Up the Bonspiel

Nelson curlers wound up the week-end carnival bonspiel Monday night when W. Biner's rink defeated H. S. Watson's 12-7 to take the secondary competition honors, the Nil Desperandum event. H. S. Watson presented members of the Biner rink, Mr. Biner, W. Marr, J. Dingwall and R. Phillips, with razors and his team mates, W. Kline, George Dill and Jim Madden received bon bon dishes.

The game got under way shortly after 8 o'clock and Mr. Biner took the lead with a three-end on the first.

Ends were as follows:

Queen Victoria's Silk Stockings

NEW YORK, (CP)—An American company 100 years ago made a pair of silk stockings for Queen Victoria. They are on exhibition in the "Pioneer" shop of Arnold Constable on Fifth Avenue, with proceeds going to the Fresh Air fund.

The shop is a reproduction of the store opened by Mr. Arnold on Canal street in 1827 and is furnished with counters, desks, a safe and a stove, some of which were used in the last century. Merchandise of 100 years ago is displayed.

Interested visitors were attracted to the embroidered silk wedding hose worn by a bride in 1847 and a pearl and goldleaf handbag made of fabric from a priest's robe in the 16th century.

Flashes From the Wires

NEW TRIAL ORDERED

LEWISBURG, W. Va.—The 14-year-old wife of William Marvin Roman took her baby to the home of her husband's parents and Roman returned to jail to await a new trial on a charge of kidnapping her.

The first trial got under way Monday but Judge Summers Sharp dismissed the jury after it deliberated for three and a half hours and reported a hopeless deadlock.

Insisting that she voluntarily followed Roman away from home eight years ago, Dorothy Evelyn Bradley Roman, mother of a 15-month-old boy, declared she never will forgive her father and mother for pressing the charge against her husband.

ST. HYACINTHE, Que.—Natalie Carr, who forsook wealthy society and a reputed fortune in Connecticut for the seclusion of a French convent, has gone back to the outside world in search of lost health.

It was a pale and haggard girl that left the huge grey stone institution; little resembling the attractive 19-year-old heiress who fled suddenly from her home in Clinton, Conn., two years ago and sought the familiar shelter of the convent she attended as a little Protestant girl.

She is reported to be an heiress. Divorce from their present mates is pending for both.

Used Wallpaper in Printing Civil War Newspapers

EDMONTON, (CP).—The last issue of the Daily Citizen of Vicksburg, Miss., printed on wallpaper, is possessed by V. Bentley of Czar, Alta.

The historic paper, printed during the Civil War, is dated July 2, 1862, and was issued just after the city fell to the Federal forces after a desperate resistance. When the supply of newsprint became exhausted and printers resorted to wallpaper.

It was given Bentley by his grandfather, who entered the city with the victorious Northern troops, and although part torn and yellowed with age still is readable. Most of it comprises war news and casualty lists.

Scathing editorial attack on General U. S. S. Grant, northern commander, is featured, the paper referring to him as "The Great Ulysses—the Yankee Generalissimo named Grant."

However, before the paper finally went off the press the Federals had entered the city. A brief note added to the edition by the conquerors, who found the paper in the deserted printing office, says, "This is the last wallpaper edition, and is, excepting this note, from the types as we found them. It will be valuable hereafter as a curiosity." The note adds—no longer will the Citizen eulogize the luxury of mulemeat and fricasseed chicken."

Wives' Shortage Worries Eskimo

NEW YORK, (CP)—Major-General Sir James MacBrien, commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, was a judge at the National Horse Show in this city. In an interview he touched on law enforcement and the Eskimos.

"They are a peaceful, law-abiding people," he said. "About the only time we have to go up there is when there is a murder over a woman. The Eskimos are cursed, or should I say blessed, with an astounding shortage of wives."

Sir James viewed the Hollywood conception of the "Mountie" with indulgence. "It helps to inspire the rookies," he said. One thing he did object to was the stage show, "Rose Marie," of some years ago. "I'll never forget those dancing chorus boys dressed up as the Royal Canadian Mounted Police," he said. "It was dreadful."

Sir James said that the phrase that the mounted police "always get their man" was not true, but he liked it as an American tribute to the "Mounties."

"On occasion we have missed and do miss our man," he admitted. "But it is true that we never stop trying. There is no such thing as a 'dead case' in our files. We have men right now working on crimes that were committed 40 years ago."

Regarding the "American tribute" angle he said that annually he received more letters from Americans asking about the history, training and organization of the Royal Canadian Mounted than he did from the rest of the world.

SUNDAY WRESTLING COURT CASE

LONDON, (CP)—Summoned under the 155-year-old Sunday Observance act in connection with wrestling match at Lane's club, Queen street, Hammersmith, Harold Lane, sports promoter, was committed for trial. E.N.D. Bell, solicitor's clerk, who laid the information said he felt that form of Sunday entertainment should be stopped. He was defraying the prosecution costs out of his own pocket, he said.

Broadcasting as Vote-Getter Not so Hot, Survey Reveals

A veteran political campaigner who visited Winnipeg a few days ago ventured the opinion that radio broadcasting had netted none of the political parties substantial results.

"For one thing," he said, "the public got tired of the air fusillade and many people dialled away from it. Behind that lies the fact that votes are not made one day and unmade the next. Radio broadcasting has its uses, but it has indifferent value to political parties in the heat of an election campaign."

These observations are borne out by a check made by the Toronto Star (Lib.) when political broadcasting was at its height. The Star sets forth its conclusions as follows:

"Striking evidence that Canadians are reached better by printed page than by the spoken word is found in the radio experience of the recent political campaign. During that campaign, with public interest whetted sharply and with the business of the nation actively before the public, it might be concluded that the expositions of policy made by the nation's political leaders would serve as a criterion of the popular reactions to radio appeals generally.

When Premier Bennett and Premier-elect King spoke here and their words were broadcast over nation-wide hook-ups, Star reporters took careful surveys of how Toronto responded to the radio. The method was to call up approximately fifty people at random and ask them: "Did you enjoy Premier Bennett (or Mr. King) over the radio last night?"

In the case of Mr. King, 49 persons were reached—12 said they listened and 37 said they didn't. And in the case of Mr. Bennett, of 57 persons called, 8 listened to the broadcasts and 49 did not. The results of the calls were recorded with care. Typical examples follow.

After the Bennett broadcast from Maple Leaf Gardens:

Lawyer: Spent part of the evening at home but did not listen; doesn't like radio appeals or speeches.

Printing salesman: I did not listen; there's too much talk on the air anyway.

Farm Paper salesman: Home all evening, but preferred reading the newspapers.

Auto accessory salesman: I wasn't listening. I'm not interested.

Printer: I couldn't be bothered.

Insurance salesman: I didn't listen.

Movie executive: I wasn't listening.

Retail hardware clerk: I was painting the kitchen.

Housewife: I was entertaining company and did not listen.

Milk company manager: I was at the opera.

Lawyer: I didn't listen in. There's too much radio broadcasting.

Dentist: I was out for the evening.

Electrotype salesman: I had company for the evening and did not bother with the broadcast.

A retired business man said that he listened, thought it a good idea and was impressed. The other seven who listened expressed much the same view.

In the case of the Mackenzie King broadcast a furniture dealer stated with emphasis that he did not bother listening. Other typical examples of the non-listeners were:

Shoe merchant: I didn't listen at all.

Housewife: I didn't listen. I was out.

Dentist: We were entertaining and I had the radio off all evening.

Laundry owner: I wasn't listening.

Tailor: I didn't hear it.

Retired business manager: I listened to part of it, but turned it off.

WELL CHRISTENED THE CLUBS CLAIM

Effort Over the Civic Centre Opening Worth It

That the activities of the service clubs in connection with the opening of the ice rinks of the civic centre were a grand success, was the consensus of opinion expressed by Rotarians and Gyros at the weekly luncheons of their respective clubs Monday, though no reports were available of a final character, respecting the financial results of the concessions operated during the two-day initiation.

It was agreed that the civic centre was "well christened", and no one was heard to begrudge the time and effort expended.

The general belief, from fragmentary reports available, is that the concessions will add a nice sum to the profits made by the civic centre commission from the paid admissions to the three programs and other sources of revenue.

Police Recover Property Stolen From McDonalds

James Brown Charged With Cigarette Theft

With the finding of two cases of cigarettes, valued at $165.40, in a shack on the waterfront just off the C.P.R. slip Friday, city police believe they have solved the robbery of the McDonald Jam company's tobacco room November 25. The same evening as the cigarettes were found James Brown was arrested as he entered the shack. Brown's partner, whom it is alleged is implicated, escaped in the dark.

The stolen property was found by a young boat-owner in the white shack that stands alone to the west of the C.P.R. slip near the water's edge. He noticed the cases when he peered into a window on his way up from the lake, and notified the police.

Chief of Police Alex Stewart, accompanied by two employees of the McDonald Jam company, went down to the waterfront about 3:30 Friday afternoon and removed the cigarettes.

Roy Knowles, acting special, and former Winnipeg detective, was placed on guard at the shack and when two men approached about 6 o'clock in the evening he pulled a gun on them and commanded them to put up their hands. Brown was arrested but his partner, who police believe is implicated, bolted and was soon lost in the darkness. It is possible that a warrant may be issued today for the arrest of a man believed to have been Brown's partner.

The loot was greater than at first anticipated. Police and proprietor J. A. McDonald have still to discover how entry was made to the main building.

Brown, a tattoo artist, drifted into Nelson about two or three weks ago.

Urges Amendment to Marriage Act

CALGARY, (CP)—A marriage is legal, valid and binding in all its essentials when it has been performed by any duly ordained minister, irrespective of the beliefs of the parties to the marriage. This is the studied opinion of Rev. Robert Paton, Calgary Scarboro United church.

It was an intolerable situation that any church whatever should interfere with the civil liberties of British citizens, he charged, urging an amendment to the Canadian Marriage act similar to one recently enacted in New Zealand.

Dr. Paton declared the New Zealand amendment set forth that every person "who alleges expressly, or by implication, that any persons lawfully married are not truly and sufficiently married or alleges the issue of any lawful marriage is illegitimate" is liable to a fine or imprisonment."

Treaties which guaranteed religious toleration to the Roman Catholic church, he continued, granted this toleration only insofar as the laws of Great Britain permit. This meant, the minister added, that the Roman Catholic church, like any other religious organization, was free to regulate its own internal economy but was not given the privilege of setting its ecclesiastical laws above the laws of the land.

ARRANGE CHEER FUND CANVASS

Canvassers Are Being Appointed; on This Week

At a meeting of the selection committee of the Nelson Christmas Cheer and Welfare association, held at the city hall Monday night, progress was made with the selection of canvassers to assist in the Christmas Cheer canvass, and undertakings were given on behalf of the various service clubs that they would appoint members to assist this work.

The canvass, it was announced, would be made in the ensuing week or 10 days.

Hope was expressed by the committee that the citizens would make their usual generous response for this deserving cause.

HOW THE BLIND SEE BANK NOTES

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — A simple answer to the common question of how blind people differentiate in the denomination of their bank notes was given by F. H. Flinn, Halifax, assistant superintendent of the maritime division, Canadian National Institute for the Blind, during a visit here.

"Blind people generally have so little money that they know exactly how much they have and where it is," he said. "If a blind man has a $1 bill and a $2 bill and a $5 bill he knows which pocket each one is in. If he carries them all together he knows which bill is on top of the roll and which is on the bottom.

"There is a traditional belief," he continued, "that blind men, unable to see the smoke from their pipes, are unable to enjoy the use of tobacco and do not smoke. The theory does not work out in fact. Many blind men enjoy their quiet pipefuls very much—it is one of the pleasures which their affliction has not denied them. Probably the percentage of non-smokers among the blind is no greater than that among the sighted population."

Most blind people know when they are approaching a wall or similar barrier, said Mr. Flinn. Sensitive facial nerves of the average person, whether blind or not, indicated the proximity of a solid object.

"If a person has less than 10 per cent vision in his best eye he is considered eligible for registration with the institute as blind. He may have sufficient vision to enable him to move about with a fair amount of freedom, but his sight is of no practical use to him in the conduct of his work. Persons with a greater percentage of sight, but in danger of losing it, are eligible for the prevention services of the institute even though they are not, of course, registered as blind.

Fluctuations of the lake level the last three days have left it practically unchanged at one foot above the low water mark, that being the reading at 8 p.m. Monday.

CALCUTTA, India (CP)—A 14-year-old boy, Madan Singh, showed his heels to competitors in the All-India Olympic 1500 metres (free style) swimming race when he flashed to the barrier 22 minutes, 21 4-5 seconds. He did the same distance last September in the record time of 21 minutes, 59 seconds.

A Batterses man of 80 when taken to hospital said, "Don't put me in a bath, I have never had a bath. It would kill me." They put him in and it did.

CHINA'S CURRENCY POLICY

Since the United States began its silver-buying programme the currency system of China has been in a state resembling chaos. It has not been decided to attempt reforms which are of a revolutionary character, but whether it will be possible to do this owing to the uncertain tenor of government in China is another matter. What is proposed, however, is an up-to-date system of banking in the country, a balanced budget and a stabilized currency. The old silver standard is to be abandoned and replaced by an inconvertible paper currency. The latter will be so managed as to keep its present value in terms of sterling at the existing level. Here are the reforms proposed:

(1) A new paper currency shall take the place of the ancient silver dollar.

(2) The existing bank note issue shall be withdrawn and replaced by one single note issue.

(3) The Government-owned Central Bank will be reconstructed and converted into a modern Central Bank, which will be charged with maintaining the stability of the currency.

(4) The note issue will be the monopoly of the Central Bank.

(5 The new paper currency will be inconvertible.

(6) The formal monopoly of the note issue will come into force in two years.

(7) The budget is to be balanced within eighteen months.

(8) All silver will be nationalized on much the same lines as gold has been nationalized in the United States.

The object of this programme is to put the finances of China on a solid basis. It is, moreover, designed to avoid inflation of any kind. It includes a plan to give the commercial banking system increased liquidity and and to include the creation of a special institution to deal exclusively with mortgage business. Moreover, what is proposed is expected to suppress speculation and prevent unwarranted increases in prices.

A NEW RUSSIAN POLICY

Within the last six months, Russia has made a decided change in her land owning policy. The new departure is said to be due to a widespread indifference on the part of the peasants regarding the amount of grains and other food stuffs they produced for the market, above the quota demanded by the Government.

All the farm lands were nationalized by the Bolsheviks in 1918 and, little by little, the half-hearted attitude has been recognized by the authorities and now they are seeking to correct it by issuance of deeds of perpetual ownership by the "Council of Commissars."

The Moscow correspondent to The Manchester Guardian Weekly wrote recently of the new ruling:

"The right of a title to land is to be granted to collective farms only. The intention is to give collective farmers a feeling that they are property-owners and to stimulate a sense of loyalty towards the farms and the farm property.

"The deeds, which will be uniform for the whole of the Soviet Union, will indicate exactly the size and the boundaries of farm lands. One type of sign will be used throughout the country to mark the dividing-line between farms, and there will be heavy penalties for changing the position of signs or for fraudulently altering deeds."

This is another step away from the harsh and undemocratic attitude of the Soviet Government and again demonstrates the fact that cohersive measures, in the long run, inevitably brings about unsatisfactory and menacing results.

WHY BRITISH MINERS ARE STRIKING

Basic changes in the extent and structure of Great Britain's coal mining industry have long been anticipated. The South Wales strike last month in which 35,000 colliery workers walked out in sympathy with the "stay down" miners in the Monmouthshire Nine-Mile Point Mine and which culminated in an attempt to wreck a coal train is considered only a manifestation of general unrest in an industry whose whole foundations have shifted in the past two decades.

Clear-cut evidence of what has occurred to smash one of the strongest pillars of the coal industry is contained in the annual report of Lloyd's Register of Shipping. Covering the Society's operations during the year 1934-35, which ended June 30, it gives the type of engines fitted in vessels built to class in recent years.

In 1918-19 the total steam reciprocating tonnage classed was 2, 633,570 tons gross, steam turbine, 1,051,302 and internal combustion 75,934. In 1930-31 the steam reciprocating tonnage was 420,505, steam turbine 101,059, and internal combustion 1,212,555. Last year's new tonnage comprised, steam reciprocating 157,760, steam turbine 42,380, internal combustion 552,060.

The gross tonnage of the vessels built to class in 1918-19 and using coal as fuel was 2,491,213 or 66.2 per cent, and using oil was 1,269,593 or 33.8 per cent. In 1930-31 coal was 318,107 or 18.3 per cent, and oil 1,415,982 or 81.7 per cent. Last year, coal was 150,445 or 20 per cent, and oil 601,755 or 80 per cent. In 1931-32 only six per cent of the tonnage built to class used coal as fuel.

This rapid swing to oil-burning vessels has brought disaster to the mining industry. Whether coal will ever regain its former importance is questionable. In the meantime the miners are suffering.

"JUDGE" JARS THE RINK

Well, the civic centre is opened and functioning normally.

It was a grand time for one and all, old and young.

There were many visitors and many of the men took advantage of a slack period in the curling bonspiel to enjoy a game. I overheard "Judge" Crowe of Trail and someone else from that section, may have been Pete McIntyre, making a bet over a game. It was a representative Trail crew on that ice including W. M. Archibald, R. McKay, Link Tyson, E. Jandrell, and others. "Judge" Crowe may have won, I don't know, but I do know he had the hardest fall of anyone at the spiel. He tripped on a sandpipe while talking with Dr. D. W. McKay and jarred the rink foundations.

Acting Premier A. Wells Gray had a great time at the opening. He says, if invited, he'll be back when the new auditorium section is opened late in January. Tom Uphill, M.P.P., Fernie, as usual pulled a fast one and wound up his speech with, "Well, that is all I have to say, and anyway I'm going up town to get a beer." Frank Putnam, M.P.P. for Nelson-Creston, throws a mean curling stone and had a game in one of the competitions. He stood a lot of joshing from Creston visitors. S. Herchmer of Fernie went into the finals in the first event. He addressed me "boy" one time when I walked over the ice. I thanked him for the compliment.

A few curling sidelights:

Noisiest curler—P. E. Poulin.

Most-bawled-out curler in spiel—A. T. Stephenson.

Happiest curler—A. Jeffs, president of Nelson club.

One of friendliest curlers—Jimmie Martin of Cranbrook.

Longest curler—L. James of Chapman Camp.

Tiredest curler—All of us.

One of most pleased—Jimmie Madden.

Toughest curler—W. M. Myers with his "leads keep out of the house."

Most helpful curler—Elmer Horton. Willing to skip anyone's rink from the sidelines.

Remarks made:

Charles Edgar of Fernie—Our rocks don't travel like yours do.

Bob Moffatt—Cranbrook curlers will be down to Nelson to have a few practice games in a couple of weeks.

W. E. Leaman, Kimberley—Say, boy, you have some institution here.

Ah, I could go on forever but what's the use.

JUST ON CREDIT

Mose became heir to a few hundred dollars and immediately went downtown to pay a grocery account of long standing, after which he strolled down the street about two blocks into the Jones grocery store and purchased a large supply of groceries, for which he paid cash.

The groceryman with whom he had the large account saw him, and a few days later, stopped him and inquired: "Mose, why did you buy a large bill of groceries from Mr. Jones after I have carried your account so long?"

Mose looked surprised and replied: "Lawdy, Mr. Smith, I didn't know you sold groceries for cash."

ALL SHE CAN

The bargaining for a cow had been going on leisurely for an hour. finally the prospective purchaser came flatly to the point.

"How much milk does she give?"

"I don't rightly know," answered the farmer who owned her, "but she's a good natured critter, and she'll give all she can."

"MOTHER, HOME, HEAVEN"

Three words fall sweetly on my soul,
As music from an angel's lyre.
That bids my spirit spurn control,
And upward to its source aspire:
The sweetest sounds to mortals given
Are heard in Mother, Home and Heaven.

Dear Mother!—ne'er shall I forget
Thy brow, thine eye, thy pleasant smile;
Though in the sea of death hath set
Thy star of life, my guide awhile,
Oh, never shall thy form depart
From the bright pictures in my heart.

And like a bird that from the flowers,
Wing-weary seeks her wonted nest,
My spirit, e'en in manhood's hours,
Turns back to childhood's Home to rest;
The cottage, garden, hill, and stream,
Still linger like a pleasant dream.

And while to one engulfing grave
By Time's swift tide we're driven
How sweet the thought that every wave
But bears us nearer Heaven!
There we shall meet, when life is o'er,
In that blest Home, to part no more.

GREEK FOLK SONG

Under dusky laurel leaf,
Scarlet leaf of rose,
I lie prone, who have known
All a woman knows.

Love and grief and motherhood,
Fame and mirth and scorn—
These all shall befall
Any woman born.

Jewel-laden are my hands,
Tall my stone above—
Do not weep that I sleep,
Who was wise in love.

Where I walk, a shadow gray
Through gray asphodel,
I am glad, who have had
All that life can tell.

—Margaret Widdemer.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. V. SHEPARD
"Teacher of Teachers"

THE LAST DEFENCE

The problem hand of yesterday is repeated below. Spades are trumps. The opening lead is the Q of hearts, that North wins with the K, then lead the Ace of the same suit. South discards a club on the first heart trick. Yesterday we found that a grand slam cannot be prevented if East ruffs the second lead of hearts, or if he discards a club thereon. The only other defense which East can offer is to discard a diamond. Try that play, to see whether or not South still can make his grand slam.

North: ♠8 5 ♥A K 8 6 5 3 2 ♦6 ♣A K 7
West: ♠9 ♥Q J 10 9 7 ♦K 10 7 ♣Q 10 8 3
East: ♠Q 7 6 2 ♥4 ♦8 5 4 3 2 ♣J 6 5
South: ♠A K J 10 4 3 ♥None ♦A Q J 9 ♣9 4 2

In case East discards a diamond on dummy's good Ace of hearts, declarer must trump. Have him lead the Ace and Q of diamonds. When West plays his K of diamonds, have dummy trump. Lead dummy's last trump. Unless East covers with the Q, win with declarer's 10. If East foolishly plays his Q of spades play is finished, as South can spread his hand for a grand slam.

Lead declarer's two good diamonds. West better discard a club on the second trick. Dummy may discard a heart. East's two best diamonds are played. There have been played seven tricks. A 6-card problem has been developed. South is in and he must win all remaining tricks, with holdings about the table as shown.

North: ♥8 6 5 ♣A K 7
West: ♥J 10 9 ♣Q 10 8
East: ♠Q 7 6 ♣J 6 5
South: ♠A K J ♣9 5

Lead a club. Win with dummy's K. Lead a heart. East should discard a club. South must trump, to shorten his spades to the same length as East's. Lead declarer's last club. Win with dummy's Ace. This reduces East's holdings to three trumps, while south holds the same number of trumps. Lead either a heart or club from dummy. East must ruff before South does and South cannot now fail to pick up all East's spades.

spadesEaslexNr?, ETA ET ETETE

If proposing to show this puzzling hand to friends, remember how its solution goes. Dummy's K of hearts wins the opening lead. Declarer discards a club. The Ace of hearts must next be led. East should not ruff, or there will be nothing to the problem. In case East discards a club on the second lead of hearts, declarer must discard his lowest diamond. Lead a trump from dummy. Lead a club for dummy's K to win. Lead four rounds of winning spades, thus squeezing West.

SCREEN FLICKERS

By G. S. REES

The Preacher's words—"The eye is not satisfied with seeing, nor the ear filled with hearing" are applicable to some current offerings in the cinema cathedrals of the western nemisphere. Many are a vanity and vexation of spirit to the patient yet hopeful movie fan; it would be an act of charity to call some of them even "One-star" pictures.

One is given to understand that better than average pictures are limited in number through paucity of the right screen material, and in order to keep the thousands of movie-projectors fed at the rate of 90 feet a minute, no more, no less—with the miles of film required, producers have to be content with the "run of the mine".

Too often, alas, the theater patron gladly arrives at the point where he can exclaim "Here's where we came in!" Grope under the seat for hat and stick, and totter exitwards! As a comparatively irregular attendant at the local cinema, it slightly distresses me that there is a plethora of double features ('hits' or 'misses'—label them yourself) instead of a miscellany-travelogs and cartoons, the 'March of Time' and comedy shorts, even of a slapstick variety. My simple tastes incline towards the rugged individualism of the spinach-chewer Pop-Eye, raw and raucous, the Captain Kidd of the Kelluloids, or the gentle altruism of Mickey Mouse, the Sir Galahad of the Gelatines.

HIGH, WIDE AND HANDSOME

I would not cross the street to see and hear the red-blooded galloping Westerns with their git-along little dogies, git-along, making six-shooter whoopee in five-gallon hats. So far as I am concerned, they could have all headed for the last round-up years ago. This puts me in Dutch with Junior, and because I am definitely not an avid admirer of child actors on the screen, I am adversely chided by my daughter, who is a juvenile worshipper at the Temple shrine. Her life's ambition, a 'design for living' so to speak, is to become an usherette with a flashlight in some cinemansion specializing exclusively in Temple, Mickey (and Minnie) and Pop-Eye offerings. In this event, should you come under her guidance, you must be prepared to find your seat in the dark!

AN OLD FOGEY

I come of an old-fashioned school that believes the appearance of these child stars almost constitutes cruelty to adults, and that their presence in the make-believe world of unbuttoned emotions, with its shams and fantasies takes from them something of childhood's ineffable charm, for which their fantastic remuneration proves inadequate compensation.

How feeble is my wail of protest—a voice crying in the wilderness—of old Ontario, for I read that the Dionne Quintuplets are to be starred in a film. This Dionne business is really a newspaper racket; if you want some inside 'dope' on this type of racket, read J. B. Priestley's "Wonder Hero". It is in the Municipal Library.

Incidentally this critic is free to admit that Shirley Temple is an infant prodigy. A former impish rapscallion who played tricks in Our Gang Comedies, she is now in her seventh year, a consummate little artist in a class by herself, with an inherent ability presently valued at $2500 a week, with luscious trimmings) as yet unmarried by a precocious assurance. There is an element of tragedy in the maturing of these juveniles. Their parents or guardians endeavor to stave off the 'March of Time' in order to keep their gilded offspring in the money, emoting and prattling beneath the "Kleigs", so that their delectable but sugary confections may still prove a potent box-office attraction for the sweet-toothed masses. I am still of the opinion, daughter of mine, that the nicest thing about these child stars is that they grow up.

MEN AND MACHINES

Allow, me on your behalf, to pay tribute in this writing to the skilled mechanics in the projection booth with its delicate and complicated machinery, black giants fitted with smokestacks to carry off the fumes of burning carbon. These men are on their toes for the entire 'run' must know their volts and optics, and the 'innards' of radio. Seldom do they commit the greatest crime of a projectionist—that of allowing the patrons to see a white screen during the "show".

Check up on this some time, movie fans.

It is interesting to remember that a single picture or "frame" on the screen is there only 1-16th of a second; the eye can take it in in that time, but before the image is lost to visual awareness, another 'frame' takes its place, thereby creating the illusion of continuous movement, and thus we have the 'Movies'.

Nineteen frames lower down in the machine, but really nineteen ahead of the action, the film flows smoothly past a slit one-1000th of an inch high, and eighteen times a lesser width for the sound reproduction (this is as near as I could measure it with a yardstick!) Here the electric 'eye' is located, giving us the "Talkies". This combined traffic of the film results in the Movietones, or, in the inelegant parlance of parlor and street, the "Show"!

AN AGE OF DISCOVERY

Never before in the world's history have men penetrated so deeply into the secrets of the so-called material universe, and put their discoveries to practical use. While we realize that true progress is not dependent upon either new gadgets or new eras, and will not bring us into the Millenium, yet it is pleasant to record that the technicians of Filmania still aim at the target of mechanical perfection. They aim, for one thing, at discarding the revolving shutter before the projector, thus cancelling out the last final suspicion of a flicker. Each frame in some magic manner will dissolve in and out so imperceptibly that there will be no visual awareness. All film projections now seem flat to the eye, though the latest three-component Technicolor process, as evidenced in the story of "Becky Sharp" (the designing minx!) partially creates the illusion of depth. Perhaps you noticed the realism of this illusion in the sequence where the captains in Wellington's Army flaunt their rich scarlet cavalry cloaks before their fair ladies.

LOOKING AHEAD

Color has come to stay in the Movietones, and the black and white shadowy figures of Screenland are on their way 'out'. It will take time. It took a long time for the 'Silents' (how creepy they now seem) to become articulate, and it will take time for the Technicolor process generally to add color and artistic stature to this form of entertainment. The pictures of tomorrow will make those of today look like a back number, and will be projected on to "Easy-on-the-eyes" screen, another new gadget on the way in. This reflecting agency consists of a vast number of tiny glass globules that throw back the light at many angles and in all directions.

THE STEREOSCOPIC VIEWPOINT

We are eventually promised talkies without a screen, as though watching real actors on a stage. The experts have not yet surmounted the physical obstacles of trying to make the screen images anything but flat two dimensional, lacking the symmetry of the third, but obviously the three-dimensional picture, length and breadth, plus depth, is the next forward step. We shall also have a closer approximation of natural twin-ear audition, through the use of double mikes and double sounds tracks.

AROUND WHAT CORNER?

Television is the movie nabob's bogey man; it is an established technological fact, but in the U.S.A. it still lingers in the laboratories. It has several sharp corners to turn in America, but it is only just around one corner in Britain, for the first complete television broadcast on a full sized screen is due to be shown at a West end cinema before the New Year. Britain has muddled through as usual! In time, we shall be able to see the running of the Derby classic, the historic Trooping of the Colors, the Cup final at Wembley, or any other national event simultaneously with actual eye-witnesses. The scenes will be televised to the cinema screen without a single moving part in any of the mechanism. Marvellous!

The day is not far distant, maybe, when the cinemas will be deserted, and we shall switch on our "set" in the parlor, and see the first night of a stage play in New York or London, or the last night of a Fascist national gathering on the Palazzo Venezia.

British television sets will initially cost $250.00, with an eventual reduction to $150.00 Remarkably reasonable considering the possibilities. The electric eye will scan the picture to be transmitted, and it will be reproduced by radio transmission on the cathode ray receiver. The picture will measure 9 inches by 12 inches, which is rather small, rather like looking at a full sized screen through the wrong end of a telescope. This might be an improvement for some types of current offerings, unless you like your Clark Gables to show their life-size toughness by outshooting—in double life-size tones—their decorative Jean Harlows. But "Here's where we came in" and so we will pass out.

VOCAL CORD ALWAYS IS IN MOTION

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Hoarseness is a symptom that means something.

At a recent medical convention I saw a moving picture of the human vocal cords. This picture had been prepared by a clever physician of New Orleans. It must have taken him a long time and a great deal of care to do it.

He showed us how he placed the patient, who had been anaesthetized, so that a metal retractor kept the tongue and other tissues from interfering with the vision of the vocal cords, and how he arranged the light so that these could be photographed in action. It was one of the most remarkable demonstrations I have ever seen.

The vocal cords are never quiet. Nor is any other part of the human voice box. After the breath has been lot out, the vocal cords come together in the center, approximating and sticking together, as the breath is taken in they begin to open at the upper end as if you were pulling apart two wet pieces of paper. While this is going on, every part of the larynx is in a sort of quivering state of tension or else actively moving.

EFFECT OF EXPRESSION

When the patient was going to expectorate, you could see the frothy globe of sputum down in the windpipe slowly being moved up toward the vocal cords. When it reached there, the cords took it as if they were a pair of hands, moulded it into shape, and proceeded to eject it. Everyone in the audience coughed simultaneously.

Every singer and actor and orator should have an opportunity of seeing this remarkable film. It is unfortunate that the patient has to be anaesthetized, because it would be interesting to see the vocal cords making various sounds used in speaking or singing.

Hoarseness is so easy to understand after seeing the film, because the slightest irregularity or swelling along the vocal cords will cause it. It may be due to a simple acute laryngitis or inflammation of the vocal cords which is usually called a cold in the throat. When hoarseness persists it is, in most cases, due to a small wart or polyp somewhere on the cords or in the larynx generally.

GOOD CARE NECESSARY FOR MOTHER

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Department Parent Education
Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

Perhaps I do not write often enough in this column to the expectant mother. First of all you will see a good doctor as soon as you suspect that you are pregnant, and at regular intervals thereafter until the child's birth. For this service you and your husband can afford, if necessary, to make almost any self-denial; moreover, there are in many communities provisions for free medical service to those wholly unable to pay for it. Every community that is awake to the welfare of mothers and children will see that no expectant mother has to be neglected.

Have your husband go with you to see the doctor. The doctor can tell him many things he should know for yours and the expected infant's well-being. Besides you especially need his sympathetic companionship. On this I wrote at length in my "The Modern Family."

Send a post card immediately to the children's bureau, Washington, D. C., and ask for the pamphlet, "Prenatal Care". Among the books you and your husband should read now are: "The Expectant Mother's Handbook," by F. C. Irwin, M.D.; "Maternity Handbook", by The Maternity Center association, New York City; "The Expectant Mother", by S. W. Bandler, and "A Doctor's Letters to Expectant Mothers", by Frank H. Richardson.

GIVES DAILY DIET

Harold Stuart, M.D., in his book, "Healthy Children", based on the White House conference reports, also gives a good chapter on the subject. Below I quote from his daily diet requirements for the average normal pregnant woman:

"Cooked cereals made from whole grain, or bread from whole wheat. At least one raw fruit, preferably an orange. Other fruits raw or cooked.

"Liberal amounts of two green vegetables, steamed or cooked in a minimum of water. In addition one raw vegetable.

"One egg a day.

"One moderate helping of meat or fish. Liver and kidney are desirable occasionally.

"At least one pint of milk during the first three months, three glasses during the second three months, and a quart thereafter. This includes the amount used in cooking.

"At least eight glasses of water.

"It is an added precaution to include during the winter months one tablespoon of cod liver oil . . ."

A few of my readers, who make it a habit to be forward-looking, might choose to clip this and lay it away for possible future use.

WHAT THE PRESS IS SAYING

INTERVIEWING IL DUCE

—The Duce's desk is very tidy—unlike that of Primo de Rivera, for instance, which was always littered with papers, among which he never seemed to be able to find what he wanted.

Its most prominent feature is a large glass of milk, from which the Duce sips from time to time.

The normal interview lasts about half an hour. If Signor Mussolini is very interested he will extend it by another fifteen minutes. To English visitors he talks English, his command of which is steadily improving.

For the first quarter of an hour he invites questions. For the second he asks questions in return—about the visitor's country or his special interests.

Very rarely he accompanies his visitor to the door, though an old friend gets the additional honor of a dictatorial arm round his shoulders.—London Daily Telegraph.

HEADQUARTERS OF NEWS

—The face of Fleet Street is to suffer another big change. At the end of the war it was mainly an 18th century street with a few large Victorian buildings, such as Anderton's hotel, the "Daily Telegraph" office, and a few newer blocks, including the "Yorkshire Post," the Glasgow Herald," the "Scotsman," and the "Manchester Guardian" London offices.

In the last few years, however, the whole aspect has changed with the "Daily Express" black glass structure and the "Daily Telegraph's" and Benn Brothers' big Portland stone houses. Now we are to have large new quarters of Reuter's and the Press Association, with a facade in Portland stone by Sir Edwin Lutyens.

The building will occupy the whole site between Fleet Street, St. Bride's avenue, Salisbury square and Salisbury court. Its erection will mean the destruction of the Press Association's present quarters, Byron House, and a number of elderly small buildings to the west, including the inn built on the site of Samuel Pepys' house.

It is appropriate that these indefatigable and accurate recorders of the day's events should function over the spot where our greatest diarist was born. Reuter's is at present on the Embankment near Blackfriars, and the combination of the two great new agencies, home and foreign, with their allies and connections in the one building, symbolizes their business unity.—Manchester Guardian.

NOT IN THE NEWS

By WORTH CHENEY

A reader passes on the following anecdote for reproduction in the Appropriate Subject department.

A student in a midwestern college was taking a course in public speaking. The class had reached the point in the course where the professor was assigning the students subjects for extemporaneous speeches without advanced notice. When the class met each day he would pick out a student and give him any subject the instructor had in mind. The student then would stand before the class and talk, whether or not he knew anything about it.

One night one of the students attended a rather riotous, and wet party, and failed to obtain but a few hours sleep before he went to class. Suffering the usual results of hang-overities — jitters, befogged brain and disrupted stomach—as luck would have it, he was called upon to give the first extemporaneous speech . . .

He was assigned: "Emotional Stability".

After reading this column's account of the word-jangling in the popular songs, Dale H. reports an actual experience in which the title of one of the new tunes was used very adeptly to describe a laughable but none to enviable position.

A young blade and his best girl were members of a hiking party which was trekking through the countryside on a morning after a hard rain the night previously. As they walked they sang, and one of the renditions was "I'm in the Mood for Love."

Suddenly the girl's hat blew from her head and the wind carried it down a soggy ravine. Gallantly, her escort went after it, and as he was about to retrieve it he slipped and fell into the soft mud.

Picking himself up, covered from head to foot with gooey mire, he sang out good naturedly:

"I'm in the MUD for love!"

We believe the move for streamlined objects finally has reached its peak. Like an epidemic it involved automobiles, locomotives, furniture and even household appliances. Now comes, of all things, a streamlined paper clip!

It's a small, circular bit of flattened wire, and really is attractive. It could, we imagine, be used as an earring, in a pinch. And it probably would pinch!

Someone who read here about the girl who couldn't even bear to think of anyone eating rattlesnake meat, but enjoyed eating frog legs, turtle soup and other such delicacies, knows an old man who eats live frogs for his health.

Do we hear any mutterings of nausea?

MARIE BLIZARD

Chapter 57

The rest of that evening was passed on a false note. Owen fell to silence and Carol paced the rapid tempo with her small talk but, when he had gone, she threw herself on her bed and cried as though her heart were breaking as indeed it was. Owen's proposal was a cruel mockery of all that she ever dreamed. For that one blind instant she had thought he was confessing his love for her, but a glance at his set face, his unhappy eyes and the stilted phrases of his proposal told her the whole story. He felt that he had compromised her by appearing that night and he was doing the "honorable" thing.

She might have had a chance to win him if this had not happened, but now that chance was gone forever and she must put him out of her life and her thoughts.

Meanwhile, Owen Craig, alone with his thoughts, found Carol's golden head rising between him and the midnight sky. Little lovable inflections in her voice echoed in his ears. The tender, thoughtful gestures she made as naturally as she breathed came out in the parade of his memories and he cursed himself for a blundering fool. Of course, a girl as fine and intelligent as Carol would have seen through his stupid action. She was fine and intelligent and he must treat her so. His thoughts brightened and he found himself swinging along toward his own apartment with a jaunty step.

Carol went to see Manfred Morris. If she was to fill her life with substitute excitements, she could think of no better way than in the theater.

"You're thinner," Morris said to her, "and you look as though you needed a rest."

"I don't want a rest. I want excitement. I want something to do from the time I wake up until I fall in bed exhausted at night."

"Hollywood is the place for you," he told her.

"The movies? But do you think I would have a chance in the movies?"

Morris pulled on the inevitable cigar. "Why not? You're a beautiful girl and you've had stage experience. If I had anything to offer you myself I would, but I'm not producing any more shows this season and my casts are filled up. Like to have a screen test?"

"Yes," she said with animation. "I think it sounds like a good idea."

Morris picked up the telephone and called Morrie Liefman. Liefman would be glad to give this Kennedy girl a screen test. Next morning at ten. He'd read about her.

Who hadn't? Carol thought ruefully when she heard that. Morris was the only person who hadn't referred to the disastrous trip abroad, and she was grateful to him.

Carol had her screen test and learned that she screened perfectly. Morris sent for her and showed her the contract he had procured for her. She looked at it apathetically.

"Do I have to sign now?" she asked.

"No hurry," he answered, "but why not?"

Carol put the contract in her pocket. She would have a lawyer look it over and sign in a few days. She was anxious to get it over with, anxious to get out of New York, away from the memories it would always hold for her.

Her uncle told her that Humbolt had taken Miranda's case over and concurred with their opinion that Dr. Harding's advice must be called upon. He told Carol to hold herself in readiness to be called upon as a witness. He was optimistic. Miranda was in good hands, Humbolt had told her. Carol breathed a sigh of relief when she heard that. She wished that Owen might know, but she didn't want to call him again ever.

She was out much during those days. She dined before coming home and then seldom returned before eleven at night. If Owen had telephoned her, she did not know it—mostly she did not want to know that he hadn't.

She dined in splendor with Uncle Howard, wearing the pearls he had given her, sipping his fine old wines and enjoying the flavor of his anecdotes of people long since gone.

She dined with Mary and heard all the gossip that had accumulated since her departure. Owen's and Kathy's broken engagement was no news. It had long been expected, and did Carol know that Kathy was going to marry some Frenchman? Carol didn't, but she thought for one passing moment of Dickie and what she might be facing. Isobel and John were having a baby and Isobel was simply dotty over the idea.

"How swell," Carol said. "I'm going down to that French shop and buy scads of things and drive up and see her."

"I thought you were going to Hollywood?" Mary said.

"Hollywood can wait. I've got to see Isobel."

"I wish you'd tell me what the mystery is about you, Carol. Somehow it's all mixed up with Isobel. One day you come into the office looking like Mrs. Schoolmarm herself and the next day you blossom out into a beauty. What had Isobel to do with it?"

"Nothing," said Carol. "It was all Gary's doing. By the way, where is Gary? I sort of expected to hear from him. If he doesn't know I'm back in New York, he's the only person I know of lacking that information."

"He's not in New York," Mary answered. "Gary seems to have fallen in love. He's been in Florida since the middle of February. Helen Lynch seems to be the inspiration. I don't think you know her."

No, Carol didn't know her, but she felt a trifle let down.

"Gary was frightfully devoted to you, wasn't he?"

"No. We were only good friends. We amused each other," Carol stabbed the olive in her glass. "Say 'hello' and 'goodby' to him if you see him for me."

"Any exciting love affairs in Europe?" Mary wanted to know.

A swift picture of Dickie's laughing face rose in Carol's mind.

"Not one," she said, looking at Mary with one of those could-you-believe-it? glances.

"I don't understand you. You must be made of ice. It will be just your luck to go completely gaga over a movie actor when you get to Hollywood."

"I'll tell you, Mary, I cherish a secret passion for Clark Gable."

"He's not your type at all, Carol. I always thought Kathy's stern young medico was the type of man for you."

"Why?" Carol asked cooly.

"I don't know, just one of those instinctive things I guess, and probably the association of ideas. Somebody told me they'd seen you with him a couple of times." Carol wondered if Kathy had heard about those dinners they had had.

Morris telephoned; would Carol sign the contract? She was wanted on the coast. She told him she couldn't leave for a few days, she was waiting to be called in Miranda's case.

The call came that same night but it came from a surprising source.

"Good evening, Miss Kennedy," a courteous voice said to her over the wire, "this is Horton Van Cleve."

"Yes, Mr. Van Cleve," Carol could feel her teeth chattering.

"Miss Kennedy, I have something I should like to talk over with you privately. I know that it is your wish to help my aunt. I should like to come to your home at nine o'clock tonight."

"A . . . all right," she said at last. "I'll expect you at nine."

"Will you please arrange it so that we shall be alone?"

Alone? Carol did not want to be alone with Horton Van Cleve!

REGINA (CP)—Five homeless dogs were impounded, sentenced to electrocution. Photographs of the wistful-looking canines were published in newspapers and started a pet craze. The condemned animals found new homes and letters have been pouring in offering homes to more dogs. Demand is far greater than supply.

CONACHER AT TOP AS CANUCKS SCORE TWO TO AMERICANS' ONE

Has Six Goals and Five Assists, Leading Paul Paul Thompson by a Single Point

MONTREAL, Dec. 2 (CP).—While the fight for individual honors in the National Hockey league scoring race centered around the first lines of Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks, the second weekly statistics issued tonight by President Frank Calder showed the Canadian division of the league was out-scoring the United States section by almost two to one.

Big Charlie Conacher, leading scorer of the last two seasons, was back on top of the whole league with six goals, five assists, 11 points. The Toronto right winger had one more point than Paul Thompson, Chicago left winger, who has 6—4—10. A rookie, Red Metz of the Leafs, has the most goals, with eight.

The Canadian division sharpshooters have scored 75 goals in their games to date against 39 by the United States division marksmen. High scoring by Toronto, with 20 goals in three games, accounted largely for the margin.

The crack Thompson-McFadyen-Romnes line of Chicago led the United States division with 10—9—8 points respectively, Harvey Jackson, left wing star, followed Conacher at top of the Canadian division, with five goals, four assists. Metz and Bill Thoms were next to give Leafs the top four places.

Red Horner's 40 minutes with the timekeepers easily headed the penalty parade, Marty Burke, Chicago, and Roger Jenkins, Boston, each had 20 for second place.

WINNIPEG PLAYS IN THE DOMINION RUGGER FINALS

TORONTO, Dec. 2 (CP)—Secretary R. W. Hewitson of the Canadian Rugby union announced late today that Winnipeg, western champions, had accepted the decision of the union to play the Dominion final with Hamilton Tigers in Hamilton Saturday.

Winnipeg preferred the game be played at Varsity stadium, in Toronto, but the C.R.U. adhered to the constitution, which says the game must be played on the eastern champions' field provided an eastern team won the title the previous year.

SANATA ANITA PURSE RECORD

71 Thoroughbreds Are in Line With the Possibility of 80

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2 (AP).—The $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, to be run here February 22, may be worth more to the winner than last year's record $108,400 purse, it appeared today as nominations of thoroughbreds reached 71.

The number of horses was one more than the total of the inaugural event last year when Azucar took the top money. Nominations postmarked at midnight will be accepted and may swell the list to 80

While the list of nominees was not announced pending possible further arrivals, it was definite the field would be topped by Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Discovery; Azucar, the defending champion; Cavalcade, Ladysman, Top Row and Time Supply.

WINNIPEGS TAKE EASY WIN

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 2 (CP).—Winnipeg's western football champions, regarded as the most dangerous threat in history to the east's gridiron dictatorship, enjoyed a brisk workout today with Assumption college, winning 17-0 without producing any of the quality that will be required in the Canadian title engagement at Hamilton next Saturday against the Tigers.

It was the first serious scrimmage in a month for Bob Fritz's western brigade and the team appeared so disorganized at times that the rest of this week is expected to be used to bring the big, fast team from Manitoba up to fighting pitch for the season's football climax.

N. Y. STARTS WAR ON RACE TRACK TIPPING RACKET

BALLSTON SPA, N.Y., Dec. 2 (AP).—New York state's war on fake horse race tipping rackets broke into the open today with the arrest of two men on conspiracy charges and the announcement that a Saratoga county grand jury had returned 25 sealed indictments against 86 defendants.

The two men arrested were identified by District Attorney John Smith as Joseph Rifici and Samuel Rosenthal, president and treasurer of the True Sport Publishing company, publishers of the New York Daily Racing Post. They were arraigned and pleaded innocent to indictments charging them with conspiracy to commit petit larceny and conspiracy to cheat and defraud.

Dandurand Tells How Boucher, Morenz and Joliat Came Out

Joliat Temperamental Youngster When Turned Pro

MONTREAL, Dec. 2 (CP)—The story of how the great forward line of Howie Morenz, Aurel Joliat and Billy Boucher came to be formed has at last been told.

Numerous are the tales of this great trio who shone with Montreal Canadiens for many years but at last Leo Dandurand, who owned the National Hockey league club that signed the players, has come forth with the official story.

In an address here, Dandurand, who sold Canadiens, which he owned with Joe Catterinich, to a Montreal syndicate this year, told his listeners that Buch Boucher, manager of St. Louis Eagles last year, recommended both his brother Billy and little Aurel Joliat, stick-handling wizard of more than a decade. Ernie Sauve, old-time hockey player, recommended Morenz.

"Billy Boucher was a lightly-regarded amateur player in Ottawa when we got him," Dandurand said. "The Ottawa N.H.L. club was unwilling to give him a chance as they didn't really need reinforcements. So brother Buck telephoned me to say he thought Billy a prospect. I considered Buck smart and hockey-wise so we took on brother Billy and he made good first season.

MORENZ RECOMMENDED

"The next spring Ernie Sauve recommended Morenz. We signed him and kept him despite his protests and pleadings to be released to go back to the machine shop in Stratford, Ont.

"Then Boucher telephoned again. He said: 'There's another kid around here who's a great stickhandler but a temperamental, shy sort of youngster that the Ottawa club hasn't been able to do anything with. He's gone out west somewhere but if you can locate him he'll make a good man for you. His name is Aurel Joliat.'"

All three members of the line, one of the greatest in the history of professional hockey, are still identified with hockey.

Howie, who has lost a bit of his old-time speed but little of spirit, covers the center-ice zone for Chicago Black Hawks and Joliat is still one of the stars with Canadiens.

Boucher is coaching the amateur Canadiens in the Montreal senior group.

STANFORD COACH TO WATCH S.M.U.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Dec. 2 (AP)—Stanford's bulky football coach, Claude E. "Tiny" Thornhill, will personally scout Southern Methodist university in hopes of making his team's third Rose Bowl venture a winning one.

Thornhill will be in the stands when Southern Methodist meets Texas A. & M. next Saturday.

"Gotta look those mustangs over myself," the 238-pound Stanford mentor drawled today. "The way they throw the ball around may mean a change in our defensive play. There isn't a doubt in my mind about S.M.U. having a fine ball club.

BRITISH KEEN ON HOCKEY, SO ROTARY HEARS

Coach Aitken Tells of Lihe-Up Over the Water

MANY LANDS IN BRITISH LEAGUE

All Draw on Canada to Get Hockey Talent

How ice hockey has "caught on" in sport loving Europe, both in the British Isles, and also on the Continent, to the extent even that widely separated teams cover many of their dates by airplane travel, was vividly pictured to the Nelson Rotary club Monday by Pat Aitken, Nelson's new hockey coach, and magnate of the concessions at the civic centre.

Mr. Aitken, who has played professional hockey for both Vancouver and Buffalo, spent last winter in Scotland as a hockey coach, and his talk to the Rotarians was mainly of "ice hockey," now rushing into prominence as a major European sport, particularly in the British Isles.

TEAMS RUSH BY AIR

The British league is the big noise in European hockey, and embraces six teams in London, two in Paris, one in Berlin, one in Milan, and one in Prague or Praha, capital of Czechoslovakia. In covering these *great distances, the commercial air*lines are resorted to, and most of the long jumps are made by plane, Mr. Aitken said.

Three of the London teams in the British league, which as described is really European in scope, are operated by the great Wembley rink, an amusement resort that in summer is turned into an indoor swimming pool with a glass roof admitting the sun's rays, the ice pipes put aside to await the next winter.

Scotland, Mr. Aitken said, was not prepared to go ahead in a big way with league hockey yet, but had fine rinks in Glasgow and Edinburgh, while it was understood Perth was building or about to build one.

Altogether, the British Isles have some 18 artificial ice rinks at pre*sent, with hockey commanding in*terest on every hand.

All hockey across the water is amateur hockey, Mr. Aitken explained, but the personnel of the game is very heavily Canadian. This applies to all the teams in the British league, the result being a great drain on Canadian hockey talent.

NELSON'S POSITION

Before Mr. Aitken concluded, he gave his views frankly regarding senior hockey in Nelson, asserting that for financial success to be assured, Nelson must have first class hockey players. Good hockey players must be guaranteed jobs; this being a form of investment for the benefit of Nelson as a whole.

Coach Aitken was warmly applauded, and assured Nelson was with him.

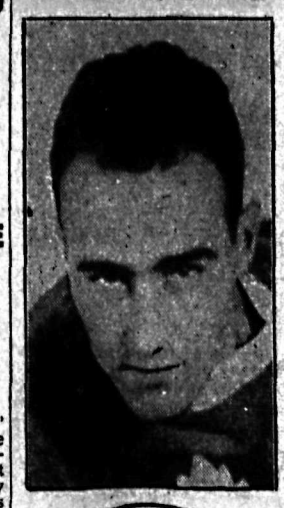
HOCKEY SIDELIGHTS



By RAY COLLETT

He's Kelly and he's Irish and he's hot-headed and when he drops over the boards the bored-looking fans in the front row sit up and take notice. For when Regis "Pep" Kelly is playing hockey there is generally something doing. For a youngster just out of amateur ranks, Toronto's Pep Kelly can probably take top honors as the game's best squabble promotor. It's just as natural for Kelly to cross swords with his opponents first time they meet, as it is to eat. Perhaps it's just that he is Irish; opposing players can't help getting irked at the lad who skates like a whirlwind, and despite his immature weight, won't halt for the biggest or toughest defenceman in the league. Before Toronto Maple Leafs snapped him up, along with Metz and Art Jackson in an effort to duplicate the original kid line, Kelly had the distinction of playing on two Dominion championship teams. He starred with Newmarket juniors when they copped the crown and then stepped out with St. Michael's college who also went through to top honors. Kelly plays right wing, checks hard and often, skates unusually fast and his powerful pair of legs can stand the heavy going longer than average.

GRAHAM HEADS CRANBROOK ROD AND GUN CLUB

A. R. Webster Is the Vice-President

CRANBROOK, B.C.—The Cranbrook Rod and Gun club held its annual meeting in the hatchery building Wednesday night, with 13 persons present, including four members of the Kimberley Rod and Gun club. O. N. Jacobson, president, was in the chair, and H. S. McLoughlin was secretary.

Officers elected were: honorary president, F. L. Parks; honorary vice-president, Hon. F. M. MacPherson and Hon. H. H. Stevens; president, Alan Graham; vice-president, A. R. Webster; executive, Dr. G. E. L. MacKinnon, J. Taylor, W. Whiting, P. Graham, R. W. Edmondson, A. C. Hayden, O. N. Jacobson, C. Ryde and F. Passmore; auditor, E. H. McPhee.

Vice-presidents for the outlying districts:

Canal Flat—C. Edwards.
Yahk—Constable Jupp.
Fort Steele—A. H. Moore.
Wardner—L. Flesberg.
Moyie—J. Kershaw.
Skookumchuck—D. Hopkins and E. L. Staples.
Kingsgate—Constable Jupp.
Wycliffe—H. G. White.
Wasa—F. Aikens.
Lumberton—P. Klienstiver and N. Moore.
Bull River—T. Allen.
Green Bay—H. Bridges.

President Bryant of Kimberley thanked the Cranbrook members for their interest in the Kimberley club, when they exhibited at the flower show and assisted in club work.

The fish in the Cranbrook district were examined by departmental heads and the disease of trunculosis was discovered in but few fish.

It was decided that, to cover the expenses incurred, $20, be given to Ben Rauch, game warden, who has assisted the club in its activities.

The club recommended that in view of the excellent work done by Dave Ferguson, fishery guardian, he be employed for another year.

The game department will be asked for specifications and necessary data regarding the question of an improved tank for the use of handling fingerlings.

The club is still working on the matter of having the slough west of the city set aside as a wild fowl sanctuary, Secretary McLoughlin having correspondence on the matter with various governmental departments at Victoria. To date but little has been accomplished, although the matter is being aggressively pushed.

The matter of blocking the sale of a section of land in the Elk Valley, an important part of the big game reserve, was drawn to the attention of Hon. H. Wells Gray, minister of lands, but the application was refused and the applicant's money refunded. The application, if approved, would have closed the only feeding and camping ground in the valley to big game hunters and sportsmen.

Princeton Stars Honor Winners

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP). — Princeton, as the only unbeaten and untied contender of the eastern United States for championship football honors this year, monopolizes the Associated Press all-east*ern selections, compiled today.*

One Tiger senior, John Weller at guard, and two juniors, Ken Sandbach at quarterback and Steve Cullinan at center, win places on the team. Three other members of Old Nassau's great team, Gil Lea at end, Charley Toll, sophomore tackle, and Jack White, sophomore halfback, gain positions on an alternate all-star team.

The first team:

Ends: William Shuler (Army), Walter Winika (Rutgers); tackles: Charles Wasiceck (Colgate), Ed Michaels (Villanova); guards: John Weller, (Princeton), Phil Flanagan Holy Cross); center: Stephen Cullinan (Princeton); quarterback: Ken Sandbach (Princeton); halfbacks: Charles Meyer (Army), J. Snead Schmidt (Navy); fullback: Vannie Albanese (Syracuse).

A certain kind of yucca tree of the American Southwestern desert popularity goes by the name of Joshua tree, one explanation being that Mormon pioneers compared the pointed branches to Joshua pointing them toward the promised land.

Sales Tax Claim Is Dismissed

OTTAWA, Dec. 2 (CP).—Justice MacLean, president of the exchequer court of Canada, today handed down judgment dismissing claim of the crown against B.C. Brick & Tile Co., Ltd., of Sullivan, B.C., near Vancouver, for an alleged balance of sales tax amounting to $1443. The period covered was from Aug. 1, 1927, to Dec. 31, 1933, when the entire production of building brick by the defendant company was sold to Victoria Tile & Brick Supply Co., Ltd.

WIFE SHARES IN HONORS

CALGARY, Dec. 2 (CP)—The honor of being awarded the title of "wheat king" of the world, won today at Chicago by W. Frelan Wilford, of Stavely, Alta., was shared with Mrs. Wilford who could aptly be termed "wheat queen."

In all his experiments, started five years ago with reward wheat, the 38-year-old southern Alberta farmer, had the assistance of his wife. In the careful handling and selection of the prize samples, the farm-wife had a great part. Today, when the citizens of Stavely tendered congratulations, including a message from Mayor A. H. Allen, they went to "Mr. and Mrs. Wilford" and not to the husband alone.

SMELTERS AT 210

TORONTO, Dec. 2 (AP)—The Toronto industrial share market turned heavily on the final stage today, influenced by New York.

Distillers Corporation - Seagrams advanced 1¼ to 37. Other liquors lagged.

Consolidated Smelters closed a point up at 210. Oils held steady. Other interlisted leaders, including Ford A, C.P.R. and Brazilian finished lower by ⅛ to ⅜ each.

Bank stocks recorded more narrow losses than gains.

Canadian Bakeries preferred gained 2.

ASSETS OF BANK MONTREAL UP

MONTREAL, Dec. 2 (CP)—Total assets of the Bank of Montreal amount of $792,800,000 compared with $759,100,000 a year ago, Jackson Dodds, joint general manager, announced today in presenting the bank's 118th annual balance sheet. W. A. Bog is associate general manager.

Quick assets, including cash, total $533,900,000 representing 74.48 per cent of all liabilities to the public. Mr. Dodds said the percentage was higher than necessary for normal requirements and was the result of the reduced demand for loans for commercial purposes.

Cash holdings and balance in the Bank of Canada at $82,000,000 represent 11.50 per cent of all liabilities to the public.

Deposits by the public amount to $641,300,000, an increase of $65,800,000.

Profits after deducting Dominion and provincial government taxes, amount to $3,005,212, compared with $2,204,869 in 1934, a decrease of $199,000, over half of which is due to the increase in Dominion and provincial taxes, Mr. Dodds said.

He recalls for about 30 years the rate of interest paid by the banks on savings deposits stood at 3 per cent. In May 1933 it was reduced to 2½ per cent, and in November 1934, it was further reduced to 2 per cent. Last June the rate paid on commercial funds deposited in the savings department was reduced to 1 per cent.

WINNIPEG LOSES

WINNIPEG Dec. 2 (CP)—Uncertainty regarding the future of the Canadian wheat board had much to do with lower prices on the Winnipeg grain exchange today.

Wheat futures closed a dull session ¼ to ⅜ cent lower than the previous finish, December at 84⅝, May 88⅛ and July 89 cents, the decline merely stated by sale of export of 400,000 bushels of Canadian wheat during the week-end.

Recessions in outside markets heightened local bearishness. Liverpool closed ⅛ to ¼d lower and Chicago was off 1 cent.

Cash grains spreads held quietly firmer. Coarse grains prices dipped sharply, flax and barley being liquidated. Oats and rye eased fractionally.

WALL STREET IN A SLUMP

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP).—After shuffling aimlessly most of the session the stock market backed down in the late trading today to close with losses of fractions to 2 or more points.

Volume was the smallest since October 18, at 1,565,380 shares. This compared with 2,190,560 shares on Friday.

Brokers said they found little in the news to account for the late decline. In many quarters, however, selling was attributed to the desire of traders to retire pending the final league decision on sanctions against Italy on Dec. 14.

In spite of the general sag, a few groups were in demand. On Wall Street estimates of the best retail business since 1929, buying came into the store shares. A few rails were likewise resistant with the aid of recently reported gains in October net operating income.

Measured by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks the market was down .5 of a point to 54.

MINES LOWER

TORONTO, Dec. 2 (CP)—The Toronto mining market slipped a cog today as considerable selling appeared in the base metal groups. High priced golds were unsettled.

Ventures eased a cent to 146, Sherritt-Gordon 4 at 1.07 and Sudbury Basin 5 at 2.95. Base Metals corporation dropped ⅛, Noranda ⅛ and Falconbridge 5.

In the big golds, McIntyre was outstanding with a loss of 1¼ to 39. Dome eased ⅝, Bralorne, however, added 10 cents. Several penny shares claimed attention at a price advance.

GOLD UNCHANGED

MONTREAL, Dec. 2 (CP)—Bar gold in London unchanged at $35.10 an ounce in Canadian funds; 141s in British funds. The fixed $35 Washington price amounted to $35.38 in Canadian.

EXPLORATIONS AND INDUSTRY

THE TRAIL OF '98

THE TRAIL OF '98. Chilkoot Pass has always been closely associated with the Klondyke rush and the Trail of '98.

The valley is like a basin surrounded by high rocky mountains, impossible to climb, with a sharp notch cut in the rim. This notch is the notorious Chilkoot Pass. From Sheep Camp to the foot of the Pass was five miles of steep grade.

Besides the bad travelling and hard work getting over Chilkoot Pass, terrible storms often raged for days, making it impossible to move from camp. When men were caught half-way up, pack and load had to be abandoned and a stampede made for camp. Quantities of goods were lost during the winters.

In one three-year period commencing just previous to the Rush of '98 and ending with the turn of the century, this great Klondyke field turned out more gold than had been dreamt of on this continent before. But it was done with the sacrifice of lives and a gigantic cost in strain to bodies and minds.

The gold production in Canada during 1934 amounted to 2,964,395 fine ounces. This represents a value of $102,242,000 which was some $17,891,763 over the figure of the previous year. The increase in price of gold in 1934 resulted in some of the larger mines feeding ore of lower grade to their mills.

Prospecting for gold deposits was most active throughout the year. In the vicinity of the older and well-established camps, prospects which lay dormant for years were revived, and promising new areas were investigated in different parts of Canada.

Today, mining areas are easily accessible by aeroplane and companies with modern mining machinery, tractors, etc. are working profitably old mines that had petered out according to old mining methods.

There is a particular C-I-L explosive available for every type of mining operation. C-I-L magazines are maintained across the Dominion to render the fastest possible service in the delivery of C-I-L Explosives.

consider the oil embargo proposal and is generally expected to adopt it. Economic observers in Geneva, however, predicted Italy could continue to obtain most of the oil she required.

ALREADY APPROVED

Both in Geneva and London, the statement from Ottawa that the Canadian government was not officially sponsoring the proposal for an oil-embargo was regarded as less important than the fact the embargo already was approved in principle by the committee of 18.

Dr. Walter A. R. Riddell, Canada's representative at Geneva, had no comment to make on the announcement of Acting Prime Minister Ernest Lapointe that Dr. Riddell was acting on his own initiative when he proposed the oil embargo.

Italy already is feeling the pinch of existing sanctions, business circles in Rome disclosed. Unemployment and credit problems face the country. The special food commission however, announced Italy had enough to feed herself, regardless of sanctions.

COUNTER ATTACK

A major Ethiopian counter-attack upon the Italians, Addis Ababa heard, may be launched shortly in the north—possibly today. Reports said that it was proposed 400,000 troops take the offensive against Fascists entrenched around Makale and that Emperor Haile Selassie might participate.

Evacuation of troops from Harar, was reported to the league by the Addis Ababa government. The note explained that Ethiopia hoped thus to avoid an air bombardment of the city for the sake of the civilian population.

EVOLUTION OF WEDDING RING

TORONTO, Dec. 2 (CP).—Women here today pondered historical data indicating the wedding ring in the survival of a "pretense" key, once given as a marriage token to show that the newly acquired husband did not intend his wife to know all about the worldly goods with which he was endowing her.

Professor C. T. Currelly told the Protestant Women's federation that it is quite permissible in England, even at the present time, for the bridegroom to hand the bride-elect a huge iron key. The key once symbolized the handing over of the man's worldly goods—along with the key to his treasure chest.

If, however, the treasure chest contained more than the man wishes to surrender, he gave his bride-elect a "pretense" key, which had a ring at the end. In course of time only the ring was used, and so, according to Professor Currelly, the custom of using wedding rings came about.

Motherhood Job for the Fittest

Alderman Admits He Lacks "Personal Experience"

NEW YORK, (CP)—Owing to a "slight embarrassment and a lack of personal experience" Bernard S. Deutsch, president of the board of aldermen, spoke at a meeting of the Institute for Motherhood, on the subject "Preparation for Motherhood."

He asserted that motherhood in itself was unentitled to the halo that customarily enshrouded it and denied that every female was qualified by divine and natural right to have children.

"There has developed," Mr. Deutsch said, "a sizeable group of women who, because they have managed to have offspring, merely rest on their laurels and expect to be supported, revered and loved for that natural accomplishment alone. With all due deference to the physical discomfort attendant upon childbirth, I say to you that in itself it is insufficient to warrant any such reaction. In order to invoke these responses, as in any other walk of life the job has to be done—and well done.

"In view of the staggering number of defective and ignorant people on this earth, it is not so urgent to help over-populate this world, as to study carefully the possibility of producing an intelligent, alert sturdy new generation, equipped to cope constructively with modern complexities of life.

"The prospective mother who gives no thought to these problems, who does not carefully and conscientiously plan and prepare for the welfare of her offspring, has no business to propagate—any more than any untrained person has business to undertake a specialized job.

"You would look aghast at an interne attempting to perform a surgical operation, or a laborer contracting to construct a bridge. Yet it arouses no horrified comment when the greatest job of all, that of motherhood, is engaged in by women totally unprepared to tackle it. On the contrary, the tendency is to cloak the incident with a high degree of sentimentality, deem every female qualified by divine and natural right, and leave the rest to womanly intuition."

PRINCESS DIES

sister was Princess Louis Victoria Alexandra Dahmar, who married the Duke of Fife.

King George is the only surviving brother. The Duke of Clarence, who was the first child of the union of King Edward and Queen Alexandra, died in 1892 at the age of 28, and an infant boy, Prince Alexander, born in 1871, lived only a day.

Princess Victoria, whose title was H.R.H. Princess Victoria Alexandra Olga Mary, spent most of her life in the company of her mother, who died November 20, 1925.

The last illness of the princess had its beginning about three weeks ago. She did not attend the marriage of the Duke of Gloucester to Lady Alice Montagu-Douglas-Scott at Buckingham palace November 11, nor the christening of Prince Edward of Kent, November 20.

SPECIAL VISIT

The King and Queen paid a special visit to her home at Iver, in Buckinghamshire, November 24, but it was not until Sunday night that the public was informed that her illness was critical.

The princess, who was affectionately known to the royal family as "Toria", underwent a blood transfusion Sunday night, which was reported then to have given "temporary benefit."

It was announced at that time the scheduled state opening of parliament would be cancelled.

Their majesties also announced Sunday night they were cancelling an intended visit to Sandringham Lodge.

Princess Victoria was known as the "best beloved" of the sisters of King George. Tall and fair, she rode a horse with easy grace, and when it was the fashion, some 30 years ago, she was considered an excellent cyclist.

She was never strong, however, and in her girlhood and early womanhod, she suffered severely from repeated attacks of influenza. A short while before her birth, her mother, the late Queen Alexandra, had fallen desperately ill, walking for many years afterwards with a lameness that was immediately affected by the women of every social class and came to be known as the "Alexandra limp".

The weakness was inherited, and the princess fell victim in her lifetime to innumerable illnesses.

For this reason Victoria's life was passed in quiet seclusion. Deep and dark appeared the mystery enshrouding the seemingly unnatural retirement of King Edward's daughter.

But the mystery was not real. Victoria had neither the strength nor the endurance to play the strenuous part in public life marked out for a member of the royal family. That she never married also is explained by her delicate health.

LOVED CHILDREN

Victoria was ever a lover of children, and celebrated her birthdays by entertaining as many of her nephews and nieces, and as many of her neighbors' children as she could gather together. Her sense of fun and her wit made her popular with them and the present Prince of Wales is said to have discovered early in life that he had a "deucedly funny aunt".

Nor was her life devoid of the company of the great. She drew Mark Twain's laughter by speaking in the same sentence of his coming to see her and of losing her gold watch. She played the piano for Paderewski and won that great musician's praise. She often was seen at the opera and her water colors were hung from time to time in the exhibition.

Since the death of her father, the princess had been especially interested in the London hospital, though she often visited many others with her mother. From time to time she took on herself such simple duties as opening afairs or exhibitions, held for the benfit of one or another of these institutions.

In all her life, Victoria was the constant companion of the late Queen Alexandra. Born July 6, 1868 she was the second daughter, and the fourth child of the late Queen. Her elder sister is the Princess Royal, Princess Louise, and the second younger than herself is Queen Maud of Norway.

Concentration of Ducks at the Park

Approximately 90 wild ducks of various species showed up at Lakeside park a few days ago, sunning themselves on the beach near the point, Caretaker Thomas Bishop disclosed Monday.

Ordinarily two or three small flocks are to be seen in the vicinity of the park, with pairs or individual birds at intervals all along the foreshore westward, right through to the C. P. R. Flat, though the numers are much diminished from what they were in the fall.

Mallards are particularly numerous this year, taking the lead from the lesser scaups, which usually are most in evidence.

Turner Lee's Nag Is Banquet Theme

Coast Version Heard at 54th Reunion at Vancouver

In Nelson Monday on business, Major H. Turner Lee of Bonnington revealed that he had been at the annual banquet at the Hotel Georgia, Vancouver, of the Coast 54th Battalion association, held the night of November 23, Frank Talbot of Salmo being another attendant from this district, in the company of 90.

The major recalled with gusto the story told there of him, when in an advance under machine-gun fire he was said to have demanded of his horse. "Won't you lie down?" The old story of his alleged assertion to the sentry who challenged him, "if you don't know me, you should at least know my horse," did not crop up. The major, who took "D" company of the 54th Kootenay battalion to France, and returned as second in command of the 44th battalion, found himself among the speakers.

Conviviality was strictly under control until the dinner was completed, the major confided, but recalled with a chuckle that later on one of the boys had bade him goodbye nine times.

man, "if you say a judge is not sympathetic."

"I would say to you," the witness replied, "you or any judge cannot possibly put yourself in the position of the working class that is fighting for a living. You are out of touch with the situation."

"THAT'S THE LAW"

Chief Justice Brown: "You are putting us in touch with the situation, my dear man."

A judge, Mr. Evans contended, did not take into consideration in judging a man's actions that his wife might be starving.

If a starving man stole a loaf of bread, said Chief Justice Brown, a judge has to find him guilty. "That's the law," but that did not mean the judge was not sympathetic. He said every man got the utmost opportunity to defend himself in the courts, and in many cases was entitled to judgment from a jury of his peers.

Mr. Evans then charged that counsel in cross-examining him at the inquiry "are trying to discredit 2000 young men through me. I say it is not right." The chairman assured him the case of the trekkers would not be prejudiced.

The question of the fairness of the courts was raised when G. H. Kule, commission counsel, sought to draw out Mr. Evans' opinion about the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. What did the witness mean by the word "frame"? Mr. Yule asked. "Do you believe the R.C.M.P. would manufacture false evidence?"

"STOOL PIGEONS"

"Yes," said Mr. Evans. He added that R.C.M.P. "stool pigeons" took false reports to their officers and this evidence was used in sending working men to the penitentiaries. He said R.C.M.P. "stool pigeons" were known to have deliberately lied to send men to jail.

"Because they were of the working class," asked Mr. Yule.

"Yes, in the main," said the witness.

Chief Justice Brown observed that he had 25 years' experience with R.C.M.P. witnesses and thought them very fair.

The Mounted Police, said Mr. Evans, was a different organization from the force that created a fine tradition of service in the past. The old force was never sent, he said, to interfere between workers and employers. He believed the authorities used the R.C.M.P. "to smash the working class movement."

To explain fully his phrase "the capitalistic courts," said the witness, he would have to review the development of the capitalistic system. He saw no reason not to respect the courts except where working class cases were involved.

TOKYO, Dec. 2 (CP)—The Japanese government is favorably considering Canadian proposals to end trade differences between the two countries and an agreement has been resented in principle according to authoritative sources at the foreign office here.

NORTH MURDER

companied by Irwin Vilborough, native interpreter, arrived at the scene and took Harms into custody.

Pilot Leigh was en route from Great Bear Lake to Fort McMurray with four passengers when he picked up a message for Sgt. Vernon, warning the officer that Harms was believed to be armed and "dangerous."

He overtook the sergeant near the Alberta boundary, then took off and circled over Harms' cabin where he saw the latter waving the white flag.

The sergeant and his companion broke trail in the face of a sudden blizzard as they forged ahead to take the trapper into custody.

Harms is alleged to have gone to the cabin of Ira Allen nine days ago and told Mrs. Allen that "the kid (Anthony) is hurt badly." Mrs. Allen carried her three-year-old son over to Harms' cabin where she found Anthony dead, then hurried back to her own home with Harms in pursuit. She said she remained barricaded in her home for four days while Harms tried to break in. Harms left just before her husband returned from his trap line.

Allen took his wife and child to the cabin of another trapper, Bob Duffy, then struck out for a cannery where he informed Stanley Wylie, Hudson's Bay company trader, of the death of Anthony.

Wylie went to Goldfields where he wired the news to Sgt. Vernon at Fort Chipewyan.
