MICHEL MAN IS TO HANG FOR MURDER

Dirigible Again Beats Record

LAKEHURST TO GERMANY IN 48 HOURS, 7 MINS.

Beats Graf's Record by Just Under Six Hours

CUT 20 MINUTES OFF OWN MARK

FRANKFORT ON THE MAIN, Germany, May 23 (Saturday)—(AP)—The Zeppelin Hindenburg landed today at 4:12 a.m. (10:12 p.m., EST) completing its second round trip between Germany and the United States.

The dirigible had appeared over the airport at 3:10 a.m. and hovered over the landing field where officials and a crew were awaiting it, until daylight made it easier to land.

The Hindenburg left Lakehurst, N.J., on its return trip to Germany at 10:05 p.m., EST Tuesday, and took 48 hours, 7 minutes to complete the flight.

It cut 20½ minutes from the time of the first eastward journey, and thus established another new mark for the crossing. The previous record from the United States to Germany was made by the Graf Zeppelin in August, 1929, when it travelled from Lakehurst to Friedrichshafen in 54 hours.

KILLER SEARCH EXPANDS

LANGLEY PRAIRIE, B.C., May 22 (CP)—Robert Macklin, grey-haired rural police chief, today sought the "phantom killer" of 16-year-old Jack Lepard outside the bounds of this little municipality.

Convinced none of the 600 inhabitants of Langley Prairie held the gun that projected the fatal shot through Lepard's spine one week ago today, Chief Macklin made a sudden thrust into neighboring New Westminster city in search of the slayer.

Working alone, the veteran constable swiftly acted upon a report that a Vancouver boy, suspected of owning a revolver, was in Langley Prairie the day young Lepard was mortally wounded as he walked through the gate to his schoolyard. The report emanated from unidentified sources in New Westminster.

Italian Women in Vancouver Aid Mussolini

At a ceremony held aboard the Italian Ms. Rialto the women dropped their gold rings into a pot, placed on a pedestal, and received in return steel rings engraved with "November 18, 1935" and "Anno 14," meaning the 14th year of the Fascist regime.

The Rialto will proceed to Seattle and a similar ceremony will be held there on May 24.

CALGARY DARK IN AFTERNOON

Severe Hail Storm; Half-inch Layer on Streets

CALGARY, May 22 (CP)—Hail clouds blotted out the sun and almost midnight darkness prevailed in Calgary for 20 minutes this afternoon.

Hail stones, with some of the pellets as large as marbles, pounded down on city streets, leaving a snowlike covering half an inch deep. The storm, which broke at 1.15 p.m., M.S.T., was accompanied by a barrage of lightning and thunder. Rain followed.

Business was brought to a standstill when power lines failed. In downtown buildings, lights went out and elevators stopped. Street cars were halted and telegraphic communication was disrupted.

The storm was believed only local in extent.

It was feared newly planted gardens suffered heavy damage.

POULIOT "TAKES IT ALL BACK"

OTTAWA, May 22 (CP)—Jean Francois Pouliot, Liberal member for Temiscouta and regarded as the bad boy of Parliament hill, is back in the graces of Speaker Casgrain and the house of commons.

He marched into the house today and withdrew eight words to which Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, took exception six weeks ago and which the speaker ruled he must withdraw.

The tempestuous French Canadian almost landed in more trouble today with the Conservative leader but the incident passed over quietly.

The offending words spoken six weeks ago, were that Mr. Bennett guaranteed a $60,000,000 loan to the Canadian Pacific Railway company by letter without consulting his cabinet colleagues. Today he withdrew the eight words "before the matter was submitted to his colleagues."

To Place Wreath at Vimy

VANCOUVER, May 22 (CP)—Col. W. W. Foster, vice-president of the Canadian Legion, and Robert Macnicol, secretary of the British Columbia branch, will place a wreath on the Canadian memorial at Vimy ridge for Australian ex-service men when they attend the unveiling in June. The wreath was presented to them yesterday by Col. L. M. Cosgrave, Canadian trade commissioner at Victoria, Australia, in behalf of the Victoria branch of the Returned Soldiers' and Sailors' League of Australia.

Alberta Strikers Are Quiet

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., May 22 (CP)—Quiet reigned along the beet workers' strike front in southern Alberta today as strikers' maintained picket lines and royal Canadian mounted police patrolled highways and fields.

Strikers had picket lines at Taber, Barnwell, Picture Butte and Iron Springs but no trouble was reported. Rain brought a halt to all field work and it will be several days before operations can be resumed in the beet plots.

THREE TRAILITES HURT WHEN CAR UPSETS UP LAKE

Frank Strachan "Out" for Hours; Two Girls Injured

WERE GOING TO FERNIE MEET

Margaret Best, Jean Downie Are Cut About Face

Two Trail girl athletes, Margaret Best, and Jean Downie, and Frank Strachan of Trail were injured in an automobile accident, just east of Crescent Bay at about 8:30 Friday morning. The party consisted of Misses Mollie Sutherland, Faith Honchar, and Dorothy Laarz besides those hurt.

Strachan suffered a fracture of a bone in the knee and lacerations of the scalp. He was treated by Dr. Dunham.

Miss Best was severely cut about the face and forehead, and Miss Downie suffered minor cuts on the forehead.

Strachan and Miss Best are being treated at the Kootenay Lake General hospital.

The party, motoring to Fernie for the high school track meet to be held there today, was attempting to catch the early Friday morning ferry which leaves Fraser's Landing at 9:00 a.m., when the car is reported to have struck a rock, turning over on its side. The injured were brought in to the hospital at Nelson, while those who were not hurt continued on to Fernie.

The party had intended to reach Fernie Friday, in time to register for the meet Saturday.

Frank Strachan was unconscious for some hours. He is well known throughout the Kootenay district because of his curling activities. An ardent booster of sports of all kinds he was giving his time in driving the Trail athletes to the Fernie meeting.

HOUSE ADJOURNS TILL TUESDAY

OTTAWA, May 22 (CP)— The house of commons adjourned tonight until Tuesday after making fast progress with the budget resolutions dealing with tariff changes contained in the budget brought down by Hon. Charles Dunning, minister of finance. Members have a holiday Monday due to observance of Victoria Day.

It took 20 minutes to pass the changes respecting automobiles and another sitting of the house will suffice to clean up the resolutions.

BENNETT TELLS OF DUTY CHANGES

OTTAWA, May 22 (CP)—Background of changes in the duties on gasoline was given the house of commons today by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader.

He said the former Conservative government had referred gasoline tariffs to the tariff board following the arrival of two cargoes of oil, one from Roumania and one from Russia. They were billed as crude oil in a natural state but in fact consisted of crude oil mixed with high grade refined gasoline.

The gasoline items in the tariff changes passed quickly.

VINCENT MACCHIONE IS FOUND GUILTY BY JURY IN LESS THAN 2 HOURS

Mr. Justice Robertson Sentences Him to Hang Aug. 12 for Killing of Michael Hudock Near Fernie Last February 9

SEVEN-YEAR-OLD SON OF WIDOW IS ONE OF THE PRINCIPAL WITNESSES

(By Canadian Press).

CRANBROOK, B. C., May 22 (CP).—Vincent Macchione of Michel, B. C., was convicted of the murder of Michael Hudock by an assize court jury here tonight after less than two hours deliberation. He was sentenced to hang Aug. 12 by Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson.

Hudock's frozen body with a face wound caused by a shotgun charge, was found on the highway near Elk river, four miles east of Fernie, B. C., last Feb. 9.

Principal witnesses in the two-day trial were Mrs. Hudock, widow of the slain man, and Billy Evans, her seven-year-old son by a previous marriage.

Mrs. Hudock testified she, her son, Hudock and Macchione drove from Michel to Fernie on Feb. 9. The two men left the car. Macchione returned alone and drove her and her son home, Mrs. Hudock swore. On the way she said she heard Macchione mutter "I killed him."

Billy testified his stepfather disappeared with Macchione while the party was in Fernie. He said he saw two shotgun shells in the pockets of Macchione's overcoat.

Holiday Honors Historic Reign of Loved Queen

Activities Throughout Canada Monday to Recall Progress of Empire During Victoria's 63 Years on Throne

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

For 63 years Queen and especially in her later life the object of the British Empire's constantly increasing loyalty and love, the name and memory of Victoria is perpetuated 100 times in great states and cities, mighty rivers or towering mountains in all corners of the world.

*But it remains for Canada to re*call the good Queen's birthday 117 years ago in a national public holiday still bearing her name. In the United Kingdom and other dominions and colonies the anniversary of her birthday, May 24, has been merged with the observance of Empire day.

Thirty-five years after Victoria's death, and with her great-grandson Edward VIII on the throne, Canada still keeps Victoria day. Empire day ceremonies with patriotic exercises are held in Canadian schools, generally a day or two previously. The "Queen's Birthday" is a day of festivity and detonating joy, set this year for Monday, May 25, the actual anniversary coming on Sunday.

FIRST IN CANADA

Incidentally, the idea of an Empire day is ascribed to a Canadian.

J.H. Thomas Quits the British Cabinet

HE QUITS GOV'T AS A RESULT OF BUDGET "LEAKS"

Complete Shake-up of Cabinet Is Now Expected

DOES NOT WAIT FOR THE REPORT

Sir Samuel Hoare Is Mooted as His Successor

LONDON, May 22 (CP cable)—J. H. Thomas, whose legendary career carried him from engine wiper to a place in the cabinet, resigned tonight as secretary of state for the colonies.

His resignation came exactly one month after rumors of the alleged "budget leak" first became current. It was accepted by Prime Minister Baldwin, who wrote his colleague in the national government that he had "acted as I should have done in your place."

The minister's resignation was handed in May 20, the day the judicial tribunal headed by Mr. Justice Porter concluded its hearings on the circumstances surrounding the last-minute rush for insurance against the tax increases which were subsequently announced by the chancellor of the exchequer in his budget speech on April 21.

The announcement of the resignation, made from No. 10 Downing street, said:

"The Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, P.C., M.P., secretary of state for the colonies, having tendered his resignation, his majesty, the King, has been graciously pleased to accept it."

Few Fires So Far

VICTORIA, May 22 (CP)—While forest branch reports today indicated that British Columbia's forest fire season had been unusually slow in starting, protection officials said today they were keeping their fingers crossed in the hope that this condition will continue.

Records so far show only 57 outbreaks of fire all over the province, as compared with 118 at this time last year and 96 the previous year. Both of the last two years have been considered as fairly light from the fire standpoint.

Cool and showery weather generally throughout the province has kept the fire toll down, it was explained; but an epidemic of blazes might follow a sudden hot spell.

Greenwood Man Gets Important Post

VANCOUVER, May 22 (CP)—Robert Forshaw of Greenwood, B.C., a member of this year's graduating class in the faculty of agriculture at the University of British Columbia, has been granted a two-year assistantship in animal nutrition at Macdonald college, Que., it was learned here today.

MONTREAL, May 22 (CP). — Mrs. D. Mackay, mother of Alexander Mackay who died on the gallows at San Quentin prison, Calif., today, collapsed when informed her son had been executed.

Nudist Dancer Gets Suspended Sentence

MONTREAL, May 22 (CP). — Queenie Rosenberg, who pleaded guilty of dancing nude before a party of men, was given suspended sentence today by Judge Jules Desmarais.

ASSOCIATED BOARDS MEN SEE SULLIVAN

Penetrate Over Two Miles Into Mountain; Mayor Morgan Invites Kimberley Folk to Hold Picnic in Nelson

By H. H. CURRIE, Staff Writer.

KIMBERLEY, B.C., May 22.—Delegates to the Associated Boards of Trade of Eastern British Columbia, which concluded its annual session at Cranbrook Thursday, spent today as guests of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company of Canada, Ltd., for the purpose of inspecting the Sullivan mine and Kimberley concentrator.

Leaving Cranbrook in a caravan of Kimberley and Cranbrook cars at 10:45 a.m., the visitors on arrival here first assembled at the company's offices, and were fitted out with overalls, rubbers, mine caps and carbide lamps for the trip underground.

An electric trolley train took them over two miles into the heart of the mountain as the crow flies, and then, chaperoned by Vice-president and General Manager S. G. Blaylock, W. M. Archibald, vice-president in charge of mines, General Superintendent A. B. Ritchie, and Mine Superintendent William Lindsay, and other guides, they went up in small groups to the 4250-level, and viewed a couple of operating stopes, with the aid of searchlights playing on the walls of the great chambers, whose floors were a level below and ceilings a level above.

In that particular zone there was a width of 250 feet of ore. The big electrically operated blacksmith shop and other subterranean facilities encountered were noted with interest.

EDEN FAILS SAVE MACKAY'S LIFE

Briton Pays With Pal for Kidnapping in California

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., May 22 (AP)—California exacted the death penalty from two prisoners today for the crime of kidnapping.

Alexander MacKay, 29, a British subject, and Joseph Kristy, 27, dropped through the gallows traps at San Quentin prison together.

The British government failed in its efforts to save the life of MacKay, Gov. Frank F. Merriam refusing to heed a last minute appeal from Anthony Eden, British foreign minister.

The governor previously had granted two reprives after Great Britain interceded in the case.

The gallows' trap dropped its double burden at 4½ minutes after 10 a.m. (10:04:30 PST) and both were pronounced dead nine minutes later.

The prisoners paid the death penalty for kidnapping prison officials and guards in a futile attempt to escape from the penitentiary a year ago. Warden James B. Holohan, since resigned, was beaten and critically injured.

MacKay had relatives in Montreal.

SEVEN CHARGED WITH MURDER

DETROIT, May 22 (AP)—Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea said tonight he would formally charge seven men, members of the "Black Legion," a secret vigilante society, with the "ritual slaying" of Charles A. Poole, 32-year-old WPA worker.

Sixteen men, all of whom Police Inspector John I. Navarre said were members of the black-robed organization were held for investigation. Four of them have confessed, he said, that they took part in the abduction and slaying of Poole, whose body was found May 13 in a roadside ditch near here.

Vancouver Man Gets New Medal

VANCOUVER, May 22 (CP)—J. W. Banks today received a new Queen's South African medal, 22 years after he had applied to the London war office for replacement of the original medal which he lost here in 1913.

Seven clasps go with the medal: South Africa 1901, Belfast, Diamond Hill, Johannesburg, Driefontein, Paardeberg and Relief of Kimberley.

Banks joined the 1st Yorkshire regiment and took part in every battle it fought under Lord Roberts.

Canada Host at London Luncheon

LONDON, May 22 (CP cable)—Malcolm MacDonald, dominions secretary, was the principal guest today at an Empire day luncheon at the Canadian chamber of commerce. Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner to London, proposed the toast to the empire.

All the British dominions and Rhodesia were represented.

Massey lauded the stability of British institutions which was in striking contrast with the "political and economic quicksands" with which the British Empire was confronted on so many sides today.

Referring to the dominions secretary, Massey said he brought to the post "an especially sympathetic understanding of the problems of Canada, which he had gained by meeting Canadians on their own soil."

JAPANESE ASK FOR FRANCHISE

OTTAWA, May 22 (CP)—The Japanese Citizens' league made a plea to the house of commons election committee to change elections and franchise laws so that Canadian citizens of Japanese origin shall have the right to vote in British Columbia.

Submitting a voluminous brief, four Canadians of Japanese origin, one a woman, spoke at a meeting of the committee called for the purpose of hearing them. They claimed conditions in British Columbia were discriminatory, that they did not prevail in other parts of Canada, nor in the United States, and that naturalized foreigners were permitted to vote in Japan.

The delegation was led by Professor S. Ichie Hayakawa, a Canadian citizen now teaching at the University of Wisconsin.

Native Son of B.C. Is Now Judge of General Sessions at New York

NEW YORK, May 22 (CP)—Jonah J. Goldstein, who journeyed here in his early youth from Rocks Corner, B. C., to become a city magistrate, today holds a General Sessions judgeship.

Herbert H. Lehman, governor of New York state, elevated Mr. Goldstein yesterday. He succeeds the late Judge Rosalasky and will receive $24,000 a year.

Mr. Goldstein is a slight, wiry man with graying hair, just turned 50 who passed his boyhood on New York's lower East Side. A city magistracy, he said, is "a full-time job, but I've liked it because I like people."

"I like trying to put back together again like a crossword puzzle those who have taken a false step," Mr. Goldstein said.

Mr. Goldstein was born at Rocks Corner. His father was a peddler. With his parents and his two brothers and five sisters he came to New York when he was six years old to live in a $9-a-month, three-room flat in a tenement house. He attended public schools and a high school and was graduated from New York university in 1907 with a degree in law.

"KEEP THE FLAG FLYING" URGES VEN. ARCHDEACON GRAHAM IN HIS EMPIRE DAY HIGH SCHOOL TALK

I. O. D. E. Debating Shield and Other Awards Made

Empire day was commemorated at the Nelson high school on Friday afternoon when Archdeacon F. H. Graham addressed the assembled teachers and students. The program was sponsored by Kokanee Chapter Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire.

He took as his text the last line of a sonnet written some years ago by a writer who is now practically unknown, which reads "Tall oaks from little acorns grow."

In his first "acorn," Mr. Graham traced briefly the development of the British Empire through the reigns of Queen Victoria, Edward VII—one of the greatest diplomatists Britain has ever known; George V—who has been described as "the best, the gentlest, and the most beloved"; to that of our present King Edward VIII, who has travelled farther, seen more and made more friends than practically any member of his Empire, and certainly more than any other sovereign ruler before him.

THE LOYALISTS

Mr. Graham's second "acorn" took him back as far as 1783-84 when the United Empire Loyalists left their homes in the eastern states and moved to Canada because they were too loyal to the Empire to live severed from it. In this connection he mentioned a little church in Adolphus Town which has set around the top of the walls stones bearing the names of the United Empire Loyalist families who settled in Ontario. It was with a desire to perpetuate the memory of Queen Victoria that Clementine Fessondon, one of the descendants of the United Empire Loyalists began a movement which later resulted in the celebration of Victoria day in the schools.

THE I.O.D.E.

The third "acorn" dealt with the origination of the I.O.D.E. in the year 1899 or 1900. Mrs. Clark Murray, wife of a professor of moral philosophy in McGill university, was instrumental in organizing a patriotic association of women which was the forerunner of the I.O.D.E. Archdeacon Graham addressed this first gathering of these women.

Mr. Graham explained to the students that where Victoria day (May 24) is not a public holiday, it is also known as Empire day; but where it is a public holiday Empire day is the last day of school preceding it. He also explained that through the influence of the late King George V, the idea of world goodwill was associated with Empire day, so it has come to be known also as Goodwill day.

KEEP THE FLAG FLYING

Mr. Graham closed his address with an impassioned appeal to his audience to "keep the flag flying, and loyalty to the Empire burning." He pointed out the glory and responsibility of belonging to an Empire which embraced one-quarter of the population of the world and one-fifth of its habitable area. "We citizens of such an Empire must be fine because we have something to be worthy of—one of the greatest, if not the greatest, empire the world has ever seen." The British Empire has stood through the turbulence of war and the welter of politics because of its inherent loyalty to the whole Empire and through the Empire, to the world, and it will continue to stand as long as it serves any function that looks to the welfare of the whole of humanity.

AWARDS PRESENTED

The occasion was also marked by the presentation of the debating shield donated by the I.O.D.E. to the winning team in the series of inter-house debates held earlier in the school year. Mrs. W. S. King presented the shield to Gordon Bowell, president of House D, who received it on behalf of the team.

Presentation of the yearly history awards, given by the I.O.D.E., was also made by Mrs. King. Peter Dewdney won the senior matriculation award, and Norman Emmott that for junior matriculation students.

Members of the I.O.D.E. present included Mrs. W. S. King, Mrs. H. E. Dill, Mrs. G. E. Sparkes and Mrs. C. F. Hunter.

Who Cares About the Rain Says This Nelson Kiddie in Puddle

—Staff Photo.

Rain just means a change of fun for kiddies these days. Here is a Nelson boy, well bundled, and apparently well shod enjoying the comforts of a fine, large puddle of water on the Central school grounds. The school board has plans to drain Central school grounds and do away with puddles of this kind. For in a rainy spell they cause endless trouble to children, to parents, and to the teachers.

MORE ABOUT J. H. THOMAS

THOMAS' LETTER

Thomas' letter to Mr. Baldwin, dated May 20, read:

"My Dear Prime Minister:

"I understand the tribunal today finished its public sittings and will therefore proceed at once to consider its report. Before, however, the report is known and without any regard to what it may contain I feel it is my duty for reasons which I will state to send you my resignation from the government."

The letter described how the colonial secretary had offered to give evidence to the tribunal as soon as its appointment was announced, and added:

"I have come to my decision because the way my name and private affairs have been bandied about renders my continuation as a member of the government impossible."

Thomas said he had no differences with his colleagues on matters of policy but after the recent events he considered that "instead of being a source of strength to your cabinet I shall merely be a drag on it, not in a position to pull my full weight. . . .

"I ought, in fairness to all parties and the house of commons, to emphasize I feel no resentment at this demand for full and impartial investigation, insomuch as the absolute integrity of public life in this country is involved."

"It is well known that I had no political differences with my colleagues or with the policy of the National government. I am fully conscious of the grave and difficult problems—changing almost hourly—which have to be faced by the cabinet and in coming to this decision which means so much to me I can only wish you and all of my late colleagues God-speed in leading the nation out of its present difficulty.

"Yours very sincerely,

"J. H. Thomas."

PREMIER'S REPLY

The prime minister replied:

"My Dear Jim:

"You have acted as I should have done in your place.

"I accept your resignation with deep regret, which I know will be shared by all my colleagues.

"The loyal support you have given through five strenuous years to the National government will always be remembered by those who worked with you.

"With all good wishes, I am,

"Sincerely yours,

"Stanley Baldwin."

Thomas was the third minister to resign since Mr. Baldwin reorganized the government after the general election last year. Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, resigned as a result of the Hoare-Laval proposals for the settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute, and Lord Eustace Percy, minister without portfolio, the so-called "minister of thought," resigned because he had too little to do.

The oft-reported cabinet shakeup was believed to have been hastened by Thomas' departure. A second vacancy in the ministry is expected shortly through the retirement of Viscount Monsell, first lord of the admiralty.

HOARE SUCCESSOR?

It had been assumed that Sir Samuel Hoare would then reenter the cabinet as first lord, but it is now being suggested that Sir Samuel may become secretary for the dominions, with Malcolm MacDonald going to the colonial office. In this case, William Ormsby-Gore, first commissioner of works, would likely be chosen for the admiralty, although in some quarters Ormsby-Gore was regarded as a likely choice for the colonial office, where he was formerly under-secretary.

Political observers, speculating upon Sir Samuel Hoare's possible return to the cabinet, assert Italy's success in the Ethiopian adventure has proved the former foreign secretary "a far-seeing prophet."

Prime Minister Baldwin went to Chequers, his official country residence, before the resignation was announced. He is expected to lay plans to bolster the cabinet in order to continue in office at least until after the coronation next year, when it has been frequently predicted, he will retire.

The downfall of Thomas, in a sense, is due to the fact that Lloyds, the great insurance concern, accepts risks against anything. That, according to testimony before the tribunal, enabled two friends of Thomas to make $96,500 by gambling that the government would raise the income and tea taxes.

The report of the tribunal, to be submitted to the speaker of the house of commons probably early next week, perhaps will throw more light on the question as to whether this money was made as a result of shrewd deductions or on the strength of a tip emanating from someone close to the government.

Testimony was given that Thomas won money by "insuring" against the calling of a general election in 1935. It also came out that Alfred Bates, a friend of Thomas, had promised to pay the minister $100,000 for his autobiography, to be written after his retirement. Most of this sum was paid in advance, going for the purchase of a house at Ferring-on-Sea which Mrs. Thomas was "very keen on."

GIRL GUIDES ARE GROWING

EDMONTON, May 22 (CP)—Inspiration and achievement had been the keynotes of the Girl Guide association movement during the last year, Miss Elsa Riepert of Toronto, general secretary, told delegates here today at the opening session of the 25th annual meeting of the Canadian council.

It was an appropriate close to the first quarter-century of guiding in Canada, the general secretary said in her annual report. The association was growing fast throughout Canada. It now had 2062 companies and packs with a total membership of 48,895.

In addition to general companies, there were 723 companies and packs working in churches, 61 in schools and institutions and 156 in six kindred societies affiliated with the association.

MORE ABOUT ASSOC. BOARDS

On the return to the sunlight, the big party of visitors "acted" a scene in the role of home-bound miners, before Mr. Blaylock's movie camera and most of them later did a "strip act" in the $18,000 company solarium, where they acquired a days sun-tan in 45 seconds under the glare of the quartz lamps.

SPLENDID DINNER

Next followed a splendid dinner in the big dining hall, the visitors being joined by apparently the whole local staff and under superior orders Mr. Ritchie occupied the chair, and presided over a brief program.

H. Giegeich of Kalso, probably the pioneer mining man of those present, described himself as too full of food and wonderment at what he had seen, to talk.

Mayor J. P. Morgan of Nelson, on behalf of that city, invited the company's Kimberley employees to hold a picnic at Nelson, placing Nelson's facilities, both at Lakeside park, and at the Civic Centre in the event of rain, at the disposal of the workmen's committee.

W. G. Ternan, newly made president of the Associated Boards, thanked the Consolidated officials for their current and past kidnesses, and paid a tribute to the company's efficiency.

Mr. Blaylock declined to make a speech, saying it was Bruce Ritchie's mine, and he could do all the talking.

Mr. Ritchie made a hit with his speech, which was the shortest of its kind on record, "Well, fellows, we'll be on our way." "On our way" meant a trip to "the hill," the original Sullivan mine, where the visitors walked over the surface directly above the workings 800 feet down, which they had been in earlier, and inspected with interest a shaft down which the Consolidated has dumped in the past year the greater part of a large gravel hill, diluted with cement and water, to provide a "pillar,' which will take the weight so surrounding ore pillars can be mined out.

On the way down the hill again the party had a fine view of the Kootenay-Columbia valley to north of Wasa. The final visit was to the 6000-ton concentrator at Chapman Camp, where over 400,000 tons of silver-lead-zinc ore from a mine that produces from 8 to 12½ per cent of the world's lead and zinc, is treated annually. Here C. W. Oughtred, superintendent of concentration, and H. R. Banks, concentrator superintendent, had charge of the sight seeing arrangements.

Finally the visitors took leave of their hosts at the concentrator offices and were driven back to Cranbrook, the East Kootenay men to disperse to their home at once, and the West Kootenay men to leave in the morning.

MORE ABOUT MICHEL MURDER

By RUTH McKOWAN

CRANBROOK, B.C., May 22. — After 1½ hours deliberation the jury brought in a verdict of guilty in the case of Vincent Macchione charged with murder if Michael Hudock near Fernie, on Feb. 9. Sentence was passed by Mr. Justice Robertson in assize court today that Macchione hang August 12.

The frozen body of Hudock was found four miles west of Fernie with a bullet hole in the lower jaw Feb. 10.

Seven-year-old Benny Evans gave testimony today without being sworn. He stated he last saw Hudock when he got out of the car in Fernie the afternoon of Feb. 9. He identified bullet shells and overcoat of the accused he had seen in the car that day. He and his brother had brought "suckers" that day and had thrown the wrapping papers on the floor of Macchione's car. He identified the papers, one found by the body of the deceased and one in car of accused. He further testified to stops made on the drive back to Michel.

Joseph Perri, proprietor of Central hotel, Fernie, testified he saw accused in the beer parlor of the Central on Feb. 8 and again that night about 1 o'clock. He saw him again Sunday about four in afternoon in the beer parlor with a man unknown to him. He also testified he saw accused later when accused was looking for two children and Hudock.

SAW MAN DRIVE AWAY

George Hall testified he saw Macchione in the Central hotel Sunday afternoon and Hudock. He saw them drive off in a coupe and about an hour later Macchione came back without Hudock.

Joe Kreiver testified he saw the accused and a man unknown to him in Central. He saw them drive off toward the west highway in a coupe with a parcel and saw Macchione later at the hotel alone

Ralph Borelli testified he saw Macchione and Hudock in the Central and saw Macchione get a parcel from Perri and saw them leave together.

William Parsons and Harold Neldig testified they had been working at Elko and left Elko and saw a dark coupe parked on the road about four miles west of Fernie about 4:30 Feb. 9.

Constable Washburn testified he was present when the post mortem was performed and identified metal taken from the neck of deceased. He went to Galloway to examine the coupe of the accused and found two shot gun shells in the pocket of car, a beer bottle label and a wrapping from candy sucker. He found shells in the house of the accused but no gun.

Leon Simonds testified he gave a 16 gauge shot gun to the accused in 1931.

Fred Kalt, working with accused since 1931, stated the accused got a 16 gauge shot gun in 1931. He saw the same gun in the house of the accused two months before the murder.

Archie Perri testified that Macchione had wanted to buy a gun, so he took him to a store in Fernie and ordered one.

BROTHER TESTIFIES

Steven Hudock, brother of the deceased testified he had worked at Galloway with Macchione last October and he saw a 16-gauge shot gun and shells in the house of the accused. He told of a quarrel between Hudock and Macchione in April, 1935.

Nick Lawrusik testified he was living with the accused on Feb. 9 and when he and the accused went to work Feb. 10, the accused was nervous and would not eat. He had not seen him like that before.

Summing up the case Sherwood Herchmer pointed out that the evidence was largely circumstantial, the only evidence that the wound was not self-inflicted was the woman's statement that the accused said "I killed him," which the children in the car had not heard. There was no proof that murder was committed while the accused was absent from friends, and it was most unlikely that a man would commit murder on a highway in broad daylight. Also the deceased's wife had admitted the men were on the best of terms. It was unlikely she would have gone to bed and slept, knowing her husband was missing after the accused had admitted having killed him.

In summing up for the crown, G. J. Spruell referred to conversations between the accused and Mrs. Hudock, as a possible motive. Had the wound been self-inflicted, there would have been a gun near the body. He referred to the accussed's words "I killed him." He stated there was no reason the wife should try to "frame" the accused, as defence hinted. He referred to candy paper the boy admitted having thrown on the floor of car, having been found near body.

After summary by Mr. Justice Robertson jury retired.

KING'S PLATE TO BE RUN TODAY

Epicurus Is Favorite for Canadian Classic

TORONTO, May 22 (CP)—When the bugle blows tomorrow for the King's plate field, 15 Ontario-foaled thoroughbreds will prance onto Woodbine race track for the galloping struggle over a mile and a furlong.

The classic of Canadian turfdom, worth 50 guineas, donated by the King, and a $6000 added purse will be staged over the picturesque track nestled on Lake Ontario shores in Toronto's east end.

More than 18,000 persons are expected to jam the stands for the historic race, first in 1860 when Don Juan was the victor. Clear, sunny skies and a lightning fast track were forecast.

Top weight of 132 pounds will be carried by Epicurus, a sturdy son of Epinard, the great French horse. The four-year-old colt, R. S. McLaughlin's 1935 plate failure when Sally Fuller romped to victory carrying the famed yellow and black colors of E. F. Seagram of Waterloo, Ont., is noted for his endurance and stretch running ability. He is a favorite.

AMATEURS PUT ON FINE SHOW

Rotary Club Night at Cranbrook Finds Lots of Talent

CRANBROOK, B.C.—Many Fernie, Kimberley and Cranbrook amateurs performed before a packed house in the Cranbrook auditorium on Monday night at a Major Bowes amateur night conducted by the Cranbrook Rotary club.

W. F. Attridge, as Cranbrook's Major Bowes, questioned his performers in an entertaining manner and kept the program running smoothly.

The first prize of the evening went to six-year-old Jerry Kenney, who went through the intricacies of a military tap dance with the ease and assurance of a professional.

Gordon Finlay, Cranbrook boy violinist, came second with a highly creditable performance on the violin.

The third award went to Miss Margot Van Braam, whose gracefully executed and difficult acrobatic dance won rounds of applause. The performances of the other competitors rivaled these so closely that the task of judging was very difficult.

Comedy skits staged by the Rotarians and others were interspersed among the performances of the other competitors. In the opening number A. Graham, in his highland kilts played bagpipes, resulting in the breaking of the gong. As the up country comedian, J. S. Mason sang "When I Was Shy." E. S. Jones, as a Shakespearean bard provoked much merriment and Mr. and Mrs. Gibbons, were one of the hits of the show with their burlesque operatic scene.

A trio, J. Winkler, M. McPhee and J. Sims, garbed as parsons sang "The Three Ministers." Mrs. P. W. Willis of Kimberley sang comic military ballads dressed in a highland uniform.

A very highly amusing feature was the Italian comedy quartette, E. Coffin, C. Andrews, J. S. Manson and G. MacDonald, and another of the humorous hits of the evening was a comedy musical sketch by Mrs. Peckenpaugh, E. Wickens and E. Gallo.

Other features on the program were Miss Myrtle Jones, who danced a soft shoe dance, dressed in a costume of yellow shorts and top. Miss Katherine Martin and Miss Helen Caldwell, dressed in white shirts and blue slacks, danced the waltz clog. Another little girl who received much applause was the two-year-old Bobby Murray of Kimberley.

LOTS OF VARIETY

Miss Isobel Dunlop played a Miss Shirley Fisher danced a buck piano selection "Butterfly Dance." and wing costumed in shorts and top of yellow and green. Mrs. Bennison rendered a vocal selection "L'Amour Tiujours L'Amour." A vocal selection was given by Harold George, "One Alone."

Miss Helen Pavey, dressed in a costume of black shorts and top trimmed with white braid and white stars, danced the waltz clog. Mis Dorothy Hayden sang "Trees" T. Mott played a musical selection on the saw and Miss Florence Curle, in a red costume, danced a tap number.

Miss Pearl Kennedy did a toe dance wearing a short dress of peach colored silk. A reading was given by Mrs. Williams. Miss Pauline and Miss Patricia McDonald sang "Sugar Plumb," and danced a buck and wing tap dance.

Miss Lois Dickenson and Miss Una Ukraintz danced a military number wearing white trousers and shirts, covered with red caps, and small red hats.

Miss Laura Bowcott and Miss Dora Kolisnik sang "Let Yourself Go."

Mr. E. McNicholas rendered a vocal selection "The Open Road." E. Gallo played a number on the steel guitar, and Miss Nan McLeery sang and danced to the music of "Let Yourself Go," dressed in black silk shorts with a green silk smocked top.

Mr. Duffy, who brought several amateurs from Fernie to entertain the audience but not to compete in the program, spoke a few words club for the kind invitation in inviting them to join the show. The Fernie Cowboy trio, who sang "Hand Me Down My Walking Cane," and 'The Little Girl Dressed in Blue," brought great rounds of applause, and the little Fernie tap dancer, dressed as a negro, told and acted by dancing about "Going to See His Girl."

Accompanist during the evening were Mrs. Selwyn, C. V. Edwards, Mrs. Finlayson, Mrs. Van Braam, Colin Andrews, Miss Betty McLeary. Miss Joyce Brondon and Mrs. Davies.

In his closing remarks W. F. Attridge, on behalf of the city Rotary club, thanked the people of Fernie, Kimberley and Cranbrook for their attendance and all those who took part, the entertainers, the accompanists and those who assisted in other ways.

Miss Ann McCantey of Yahk returned to her home Tuesday after visiting in the city.

To meet the unemployment problem from May to October, the mayor of a small city in the Rhon Mountains, Germany, organized the unemployed to collect and work medical herbs and leaves.

It is shown in linen, pique, silk linen and washable fabrics. Pleats grouped across the front of one divided skirt are very new.

Rev. Mr. Silverwood at the Hume; Schools Have Speakers

In addition to Empire day services held in Nelson high school Friday afternoon under auspices of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire programs were held at St. Joseph's academy, the junior high school, Central school and at Hume school. Speakers were present at each school and the events were witnessed by members and officials of the Daughters of the Empire. All programs opened with "O Canada" and closed with "God Save the King."

At Hume school Rev. W. J. Silverwood was speaker on the subject "Empire Day and Good Will." Miss Constance Smith's grade five presented an excellent pageant on "The British Empire." Girls in costume, representing each country in the Empire, gave an account in prose of the situation, and products each country contributes to the Empire and the world. Then the scientist, David Webster, bound the countries all together by a cord showing the union of the different countries in an empire under the Union Jack.

Rev. Mr. Silverwood declared as citizens there should be a general desire to promote peace among all nations. Most of the misery in the world, most of the wars in the world were based on misunderstanding and ignorance of facts, delusion or prejudice. The task today was to clear the minds of "cant and delusion." In four years the world had spent $250 million billions and had suffered 60,000,000 casualties in an effort to bring lasting peace. This was a failure and a new way had to be found. People should think of the rights of others. The world today much resembled an incident in the speaker's life when as a boy a stranger tossed a coin and a crowd of boys rushed for it, tearing and fighting to get it. They did not think of the rights of others and were showing only greed, a cause of many world ills today.

Good will, love of country were excellent suggestions for Empire day—if "we know just what we mean by these things."

"To work and labor for good government—real honesty in business and politics—to work for sound health and education—development of the arts of music—literature—these are things that should help to foster that high and nobler form of patriotism stretching out to the higher life and purer will and nobler heights of living," he said.

"All around the world is hatred, suspicion, poverty, unemployment and surely the kind of patriotism and good will that we need is the kind that will give itself to remove these evils which are real hindrances to good will."

My country right, to keep it right. My country wrong, to make it right, he concluded.

At Central school Rev. James M. Ritchie spoke on "Good Will." A letter of good will from Wales was read by Jimmie Ritchie. Visitors from the I.O.D.E. were Mrs. William Waldie, second vice-regent; Mrs. A. N. Winlaw, Mrs. N. Murphy, Mrs. H. H. MacKenzie, Mrs. W. E. Wasson.

AT ST. JOSEPH'S

Rev. Father Cheevers of Slocan City was speaker at St. Joseph's academy and he chose as his subject, "Citizenship." Visitors were Mrs. M. J. Vigneux and Mrs. L. H. Choquette.

"Citizenship" was also the title of the address delivered by Leslie Craufurd at the junior high school, Norman Boss and John Harding who competed in the recent musical festival, gave a piano duet. Visiting members of the I.O.D.E. were Mrs. C. F. McHardy, regent; Mrs. M. Haggarty, Mrs. A. Dolphin, Mrs. M. V. Allen and Mrs. Charles Kelman.

Trail Bantam Ball Rules Laid Down

To Use Rules of the National Baseball Association

TRAIL, B.C., May 22—Every organization requires a book of rules by which to settle arguments that constantly arise and so in the case of the Trail Bantam Baseball league, teams of which will be seen in action at Butler park Sunday and Saturday, the bantam baseball committee, affiliated with the Trail senior baseball club, has drawn up governing rules for the year 1936.

In order that these young lads may engage in the sport in a manner that will be expected of them when they branch into faster and older company it has been decided and announced that all games will be played under rules as laid down by the National Baseball association.

Other rules follow:

COOL WEATHER IS PERSISTING

ACTIVE GRANDMOTHER

Mrs. Kitty O'Sullivan, 54 and a grandmother, who lives in New Zealand, recently established a walking record for women of 18 days from Melbourne to Sydney, Australia. She also has made a 2400-mile bicycle tour through Australia, and plans to lower the record of three days and six hours from Sydney to Melbourne set up by Miss "Billy" Samuel.

Finland has about 60,000 lakes.

As a variation from the metallic and velvet dressed for "bar" wear, very dull, smooth-looking pastel crepes are being seen here and there. Light red, delicate yellow-green, pale aquamarine and light golden yellow are prominent in the color list.

GOOD CROWD AT DANCE RECITAL

Delightful and refreshing entertainment was provided a crowd that nearly filled the new Civic Centre auditorium Friday evening for Madame Attree's dancing recital.

The evening was opened by Ven. Archdeacon Fred H. Graham.

Bright colors, beautiful costumes, and clever dancing pleased the large audience. Every sound was distinctly audible although the crowd almost filled the new auditorium.

The small children were given much credit for their performance. The program lasted over three hours.

Floral and other presentations were made to the artists at the close of the performance.

Soroptimists Hear Reports of Delegates

Mrs. Haggarty, Miss DeWolfe Speak to Nelson Club

The Soroptimist club of Nelson held its May dinner at Hume hotel Wednesday. "Fairings" and "Jock the Fiddler" sung delightfully by Mrs. C. W. Tyler, accompanied by Mrs. Gladys Webb-Foster, terminated an enjoyable after-dinner singsong.

An interesting address was given by Mrs. Haggarty on the banquet of the Northwest Regional Soroptimist convention held in Spokane April 18, at which the installation of the Spokane Venture club took place. Describing the "round-up-room" in the Dessert hotel, where the banquet was held, Mrs. Haggarty said, "It wasn't a bit as I had pictured a "round-up-room" for it was all mirrors, at least on three sides, and quite ornate. The lighting was very effective and the flowers beautiful. At the opposite end as we went in was the head table, down the center the Venture club table, and small tables all around." Speaking of the program, Mrs. Haggarty continued: "The address by Reba Hurn, a clever lawyer, was very fine, the subject 'Women and the Changing World' speaks for itself. She mentioned some of the cleverest women the world had ever known and lauded our two queens, Queen Elizabeth and especially Queen Victoria. She also spoke of the large percentage of girl babies born, 65 per cent I think she said, which goes to show that women are compelled to go into business or professional life whether they want to or not. We then had the introduction of the Venture club members and the Spokane Soroptimist sponsors. The girls who are working girls, are each one sponsored by a member of the Spokane Soroptimist club, and looked very pretty in their evening dresses. The installation of officers of the Venture club was quite impressive as they carried tapers and stood in front of the head table."

LAVISH HOSPITALITY

"There was lavish hospitality, warm heartedness, friendships with dignity, a sense of the fitness of things in flowers, favors, etc., many distinguished representatives from the northwestern states and British Columbia and many interesting addresses. Dr. Francis Rose, president of the Spokane Soroptimist club spoke on health. 'Live it, think it', she advised, 'stimulate public opinion by education in hygiene science, appeal to legislature for better health laws. It costs $10,000 to educate a child and a child is worth $29,000 to the state. Make it a healthy child.' Helen Clark, first vice-president of Wenatchee club, dean of girls' high school and teacher of English, spoke of the need of breath in education. Education should not end with school or college. Women were less likely to continue education after graduation than men, although a woman of 45 can learn almost as readily as at 25. Every piece of knowledge gained makes the world more interesting, we find new places to apply it. Each one should study one's own business intelligently. There are many ways in which one may educate one's self. Chart a course and stay with it. Benefits derived will make life more worth while. Miss Marylyn Lewis, teacher of dramatics and physical culture, Spokane junior high, spoke on the need of poise and control from the cradle up. Learn to sit quietly, speak quietly, in public speaking learn to control shaky knees. Grownups should try to see schools are not overcrowded. Administration seems to have urge to have every moment of a child's life filled up with something to do. Children should have more time to relax and do nothing."

At the conclusion of Miss DeWolfe's address the Nelson Soroptimist club brought a pleasant evening to a close by the reading of the pledge and singing God Save the King.

TRAIL, B.C., May 22—Although the manly art of boxing is not prevalent in this city at the present time and little of it is seen except at the occasional Boy Scout display, there is a group of young men in Trail who send their fists flying three nights a week at Memorial hall, and are sadly in need of some new competition. Of those participating there are none that have a fair match so are extending a challenge for fights with amateur pugilists of district towns. The eldest of the group, who is the only one adept at wrestling and has hardly sufficient opposition to keep his interest in that branch, is Joker Tonelli, who holds the lightweight amateur title of British Columbia. The pugilists are below Joker's age which is about 23.

Breaking into the store of C. A. Cawley, Salmo, Thursday thieves stole a quantity of cigars, cigarettes, pens, pencils and about $4. The cash register which they had carried away was later found in the bush outside the town.

TRINITY WINS AT SOFTBALL

Taking a 6-1 lead in the second inning the Trinity Young People's Softball club steadily increased it over Safeways on Friday evening to take a first league victory by a 15-3 score. Play was at the junior high school grounds. Jimmie Allan poled out the only home run with a runner on in the fourth. The winners also scored two runs in each of the fourth and sixth innings, one in the fifth and four in the final inning. The Safeways scored a lone counter in the third and added two more in the fifth.

The Safeways played an improved game over their first appearance, but several errors at the critical moments gave the winners their commanding edge. Leo Atwell, on the mound for the Safeways, allowed 11 hits against six for Sparkes on the mound for the winners. Jack Clements came through with three clean hits for the Trinity club, while Cotterell and Parker each obtained two singles.

Sparkes fanned two batters and walked the same number. Leo Atwell, struck out six and walked five. Clements, Cotterell and Allan played well in the field for the winners, with L. Selinger and Steve Scott starring in the field for the Safeways.

H. Elliott called the balls and strikes, with Tommy Bishop officiating on the bases.

Asparagus Has Flooded Prairie

Edmonton—The apple market is quiet with demand slow and buying interest declining. The first small shipment of Victoria hothouse tomatoes arrived showing good quality and pack. These are offered wholesale at $4.40 to $4.50 crate. There is quite an active demand for potatoes with a heavy volume moving by carlots into the city from nearby sections. Truck hauling has been banned for nearly six weeks and stocks that have been held back in the country are now moving by both rail and trucks. There appears to be a considerable tonnage yet in the hands of growers. The conditions of these potatoes is excellent.

Calgary—Rhubarb supplies have kept pace with the demand. Seven cars have arrived since the first of the month. Some chain stores are retailing as low as 3½ cents a pound. This is practically the wholesale quotation. Some cars have shown heavy decay, mostly at leaf end of stalk, and reconditioning has been necessary. Asparagus supplies continue to pile on jobbers' floors. Retailers claim the demand has practically dried up with consumers contending 15c pound too high. Some stores advertised week-end selling at 2 pounds for 25 cents. Local hothouse tomatoes are on the market at $5 to $5.50 crate wholesale. A heavier than usual production is expected in a week to ten days. Weather continues clear and warm.

MENUS RECIPES and HINTS

MENU HINT

Chowder	Toast
Vegetable Salad	Fresh Pineapple
Carrot Cookies	Tea or Coffee

Chowder and carrot cookies, with vegetable salad and fresh pineapple, comprise a good family meal, in my estimation. The carrot cookie recipe interests me particularly.

Today's Recipes

Chowder—Four tablespoons butter, one cup chopped onions, one cup chopped celery, one can tuna fish, flaked; one quart milk, one teaspoon salt. Saute onions and celery in butter over low flame for 15 minutes. Add milk, salt and can of tuna fish drained of oil. Bring to the boiling point and serve. Parsley, pimento, green peppers, potatoes, and even carrots, may be added if you like. This quantity serves four.

Carrot Cookies—One cup grated carrots, one cup honey, two eggs, one-half cup shortening, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon soda, two teaspoons baking powder, one cup raisins, one cup nut meats, chopped; two teaspoons cinnamon, one-half teaspoon cloves, two cups flour. Cream shortening, add honey (in which soda has been mixed), carrots and beaten eggs. Add flour, baking powder, salt and spices sifted together. Last add oatmeal, raisins and nuts. Mix well, drop by spoonfuls on greased tins and bake 15 minutes in 375-degree oven.

KOKANEE SHOULD BE A NATIONAL PARK

Kokanee glacier park is one of the chief scenic attractions of this district but unfortunately it is not easily accessible. With the completion of a road which would link together the present road from the West Arm highway to that from Kaslo a delightful automobile round trip could be provided for visitors.

But development of the attractions of the park and of roads to make it easily accessible is unlikely to take place for many years unless the Dominion government can be persuaded to take over the area and turn it into a national park.

Such a change of control would be logical. The Dominion is very definitely and on a large scale in the parks business. It possesses a highly organized and efficient national parks department. Its tourist advertising department activities center to quite an extent upon attracting visitors to our national parks—they are among Canada's attractions which the advertising department features. And the Dominion possesses the necessary funds for construction and maintenance of roads in national parks.

Efforts should therefore be concentrated upon persuading the federal government to take over, with, of course, the consent of the British Columbia government, the Kokanee park.

Then we might confidently look forward to the construction of the necessary highways to enable automobilists to make the round trip by way of Kokanee glacier park between Nelson and Kaslo. It would prove an attraction not only to visitors from distant points but also to many residents of East and West Kootenay.

"PRESENT—UMBRELLAS"

An odd news item reaches us to the effect that 150,000 umbrella-makers are out of work in Germany. It gives rise to philosophic reverie.

The umbrella-makers are the innocent victims of a national policy. If three-quarters of a population is militarized, and the rest taught to worship physical force and valor, disuse of luxuries must inevitably follow. The newly enlightened Aryan spirit cannot choose but treat the users—or wearers—of umbrellas as the London mob treated Joseph Hanway when he first appeared under his new invention. They called him, in various terms, an effeminate ninny. But Mr. Hanway was not wearing military uniform and he doggedly persisted in his display of moral courage.

It is difficult to wear military uniform and carry an umbrella. In England, it is true, one soldier did it, and that soldier was no less a person than the Duke of Wellington, commander-in-chief of the British army. But he was considered to have been privileged and the practice never caught on.

Hitler, who is both military and civilian leader, and who is above such things as custom and precedent, might do a kindly act for the advantage of those of his subjects who are makers of umbrellas. He could appear just once carrying an umbrella. Or he could make it known that a certain salute would not be any less impressive if it were made with the right arm elongated and ennobled by an umbrella. Instantly, or at least as soon as the factories could be got going again, forty million umbrellas would come leaping from their silken coverings.

GARRY C. MYERS, PH.D.

Head of the Department of Parent Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

TEACHING WORK HABIT ADVOCATED

A forgotten word in current educational philosophy is work. New character is not cultivated on flowery beds of ease. The student who has always done mental work "just for the love of it", is rare. Most have to learn habits of mental application which often involves exercising effort, going at the job and sticking to it when they would rather do something else. You and I have to do such things almost daily.

That child is happiest in the home and lives most agreeably in his family who is disciplined to do some things he does not like to do, promptly.

We gain in character not by doing easy things, but by doing hard things—provided we do them. It is the hard subject in high school or college from which the student gets most discipline—in case he succeeds. Assigning the child to learn only what he wants to learn is a dangerous doctrine. Aren't the children in the so-called ultra-progressive school, as a rule, the very ones who need the discipline of the more formal school program? (I'll get jumped on for that remark.) And wouldn't many of the children not in the more formal schools profit most from the ultra-progressive programs?

In this connection I would invite you to read an article by Prof. William Bagley in the September issue of Education Administration and Supervision, on "Is Subject Matter Obsolete?" You may not agree with his point of view, but you will find him stimulating, anyway.

To quote: "For more than 30 years I have maintained that both our profession and public should look with suspicion upon any educational theory or proposal that condones or justifies the learner in following the lines of least resistance. The prevalence of such proposals in American education has been a contributing cause, I am sure, of the shocking inefficiency of American schools as compared with the schools of several other countries."

And my Canadian readers will like the following: "Canadian children in general are so much better prepared in the elementary school subjects that American achievement tests are far too easy for them and have to be restandardized before they can be used with justice in Canadian schools." He gives similar data on the Scottish schools.

"But subject matter doesn't count," say many of our educational philosophers. "Only attitudes and ideals are worth striving for."

I wonder what edge we have on these virtues in the United States. Canada gets along with aproximately 70 divorces to the million population; the United States must have about 1600 to the million. The United States can "boast" of approximately 20 times as many murders, in proportion to its population, as can Scotland.

What do you think about the matter?

BEST OF THE BUNCH

(It is claimed by a Nazi newspaper that the German egg trade, where "a majority of the dealers were once Jewish," has now been "finally Aryanised.")

Eggs often excite some suspicion,
Their characters vary a lot;
An outwardly blameless condition
May hide an interior rot.
Some eggs can stand up to inspection
With fearless and virtuous hearts;
With some 'tis a case of perfection
But only "in parts."

For eggs are a somewhat assorted
And even mysterious trade;
There are eggs that are "chilled" and "imported."
And eggs that are "fresh" or "new laid."
And some of the last come to table
But presently leave it disgraced;
There are eggs where that virtuous label
Was frankly misplaced.

But here there has just been presented
The perfectest egg of them all,
With a label, as newly invented,
Which makes all the others look small.
Please note for your future instruction
This paragon's title, I beg—
Hats off to that super-production,
The Aryan Egg!

PEEK INTO FUTURE

Kingston Whig-Standard views with alarm. It fears all this sweepstake money may build up Irish hospital facilities to such an extent that the country will be unable to supply enough patients to meet the demand.

Assuredly, the construction of Irish hospitals on sweepstake profits is taking a long time, even as a government job. Some people are ready to believe the Dublin slogan is "a hospital for every Irishman."

Yet the battle for more and bigger hospitals proceeds. The drums roll on. Every sweepstake contains a few new features. Latest suggestion is that something should be done to compensate sweepstake losers. A nice idea would be to give each holder of a blank ticket a job helping to build the hospitals.

NO NEED TAKE VERITAS SERIOUSLY

To The Editor:

Sir—I have read with great interest the correspondence between the Rev. Silverwood and one "Veritas"—regarding war.

Mr. Silverwood has made out his case clearly, logically and convincingly, and without appeal to a concept patriotism under the guise of a non-de-plume— the use of which lays "Veritas" open to grave suspicion and want of conviction. I am most heartened to know that there are men in the church of Mr. Silverwood's calibre and such being the case there is no need to take Veritas seriously whose kind of patriotism may be dear to himself, but to others reveals the most superficial thinking.

Yours,

"GRATEFUL"

THE DOCTOR SAYS

LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

MURMUR OF HEART NOT FATAL

"Considering all we read about the increasing toll of heart disease, what should a young person who has a heart murmur do?"

It is unfortunate that a physician ever has to tell anyone that a murmur can be heard over the heart. Sometimes it is inevitable, as when an applicant for life insurance is refused on those grounds. He naturally wants to know why he is not accepted and in that way learns of the murmur. It would be about the only way he would learn of it, because a murmur does not produce any symptoms or make itself known in any way.

In a considerable number of instances, the murmur is of a functional nature, anyway—caused by a temporary change in the viscosity of the blood, or in the relations between the lungs and heart. These functional murmurs are likely to disappear and reappear, and so far as anyone knows, either the appearance or disappearance is without significance.

DUE TO CHANGE IN VALVES

Actual murmers in the heart in young people are due to a mechanical change in the heart valves. Like any mechanical derangement in the presence of a flexible muscle like the heart muscle, it is easy for the muscle to compensate for the difficulty and simply do a little more work every day. This compensation may last for many years without the presence of any discomfort whatever, and these patients have been known to live to quite advanced years, well beyond the scriptural limits of three score and ten. In cardiac clinics one can see whole rooms full of patients who have murmurs, with students and physicians listening to them, while the patients sit placidly there, many of them white haired, having lived with their murmurs this long time they are quite indifferent to them.

Indeed, it probably is not such a tragedy as may be intimated even when they do learn about their murmurs. Some of them have a few black days, and then brace up and discover that they are not so badly off after all. But, of course, in a few cases the knowledge leads to brooding and unhappiness.

NOT EASY TO DO

Theoretically, a person with a heart murmur should attempt to reduce his bodily activities, and select employment that is not too strenuous. Practically, this is not easy to carry out and the patients themselves usually ignore it. In the circular sent out by the war department, the instructions about accepting men for army services, and this under the strenuous conditions of war, so far as murmurs were concerned, were as follows:

"Murmurs . . . may occur in perfectly healthy hearts, especially under the influence of excitement or exertion." And murmurs of this kind were not considered disqualifying for active service.

Much more important, apparently, than exertion is protection of the patients against infection — tonsilitis, etc., and even the common cold. This is especially true in children, whether these infections can be prevented or not, at least bed rest and extra care should be maintained when they do occur.

The kind of heart disease that causes the warnings about the increasing toll is of a different sort, associated with changes in the arteries and heart muscle. But even that kind is not as bad as it is painted. It may also run along for a number of years. With care and medical attention the disability may be kept at bay for a long time. As witness the age at which the peak of the mortality from heart diseases comes nowadays—70-75—which isn't exactly being cut off in one's prime.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

"Teacher of Teachers"

DUTY TO PARTNER

The hand today well illustrates an important duty to partner, showing the dire effects of neglecting that duty and what was missed thereby.

North: ♠ 7 3 ♥ A J 7 5 2 ♦ K 10 2 ♣ J 9 8

West: ♠ 9 2 ♥ 6 ♦ 5 4 ♣ K Q 10 8 7 6 5 4

East: ♠ A 5 4 ♥ K 10 8 4 3 ♦ A J 6 ♣ A 2

South: ♠ K Q J 10 8 6 ♥ Q 9 ♦ Q 9 8 7 3 ♣ None

Bidding went: East 1-Heart, fourth hand; South, 2-Spades, to impress upon partner the strength he had passed as dealer; West, 4-Clubs, to insure bidding being kept open; North, 4-Spades; East, doubled; all passed; West thereby neglecting his duty to show a defenseless hand.

West led his lone heart, but dummy's Ace won. A spade lead was taken with East's Ace. The K of hearts was garnered. West discarded his lowest diamond, hoping that partner would lead off his Ace of that suit, then allow West to ruff for the setting trick, but East confidently led off his Ace of clubs, only to have that card ruffed by declarer. The defenders later won on a single diamond trick allowing South to fulfill his doubled contract.

Of course the call could have been defeated by leading two rounds of diamonds, when East gained entry with his high trump. It also could have been defeated by an opening lead of diamonds, an immediate return lead of that suit, then a third lead of diamonds for West to ruff, when East made his high spade trick, but that does not excuse West's passing the double of 4-Spades. He must have known that he could hardly expect to win a club trick, with the Ace missing from the 8, leaving only 5 clubs to be divided among three players, insuring not more than a single club in one hand. With two opponents and one partner it was probable that declarer or dummy held either a singleton club or was void of that suit.

Only North and South were vulnerable. Suppose that West had bid 5-Clubs. Going down a trick or two would have been far less serious than doubling opponents into game and rubber. As a matter of fact, West would have gone game had he been allowed to play the hand at 5-Clubs, which would have been much more profitable than defeating the 4-Spades a trick.

At 5-Clubs the defenders could have taken only two tricks total, no matter what North led. An opening lead of spades would be the normal one against a club contract. Dummy's Ace would win. Three rounds of trumps would follow. Then declarer would lead his lone heart. The Ace of hearts and a spade trick would go to defenders, giving them their two tricks. The K of hearts and the Ace of diamonds would care for declarer's two diamonds.

LIFE-SAVING TEST FOR NASTURTIUM SEEDS

Before planting nasturtium seeds give them a "life' test. Soak the seeds in a glass of warm water. Plant the seeds that swell and float to the surface. Discard the seeds that remain on the bottom of the glass, for they are dead or practically so.

For best results with nasturtiums plant in a poor soil in a northern exposure.

Nasturtium Dwarf Golden Globe, a sport of Golden Gleam, was selected by the All-American Seed committee for 1936. This is a true Tom Thumb type and grows about nine inches high and very compact.

Some people use nasturtium seeds as a substitute for capers, others use the leaves to "dress-up" salads.

STAMP CORNER

By JAMES MONTAGNES

The new Bermuda issue described in the Stamp Corner this week.

The Bermudas, winter resort islands off the eastern Atlantic coast of the United States, have the honor of being the last British colony to issue stamps bearing the picture of the late King George, with a new pictorial issue which has just been put on sale, and which will remain on sale till about the end of the year when issues with the portrait of Edward VIII will be printed.

This marks the first pictorial issue of this colony discovered by the Spanish navigator Juan de Bermudez in 1515. Previous issues have featured the ship of discovery which is part of the seal of the colony, but scenes from these islands, favorite with many during the winter months when the Gulf Stream gives them summer while the rest of the continent shivers, have not been philatelically shown before. Now the capital of the colony, Hamilton, is shown on the ½d. and the 1s.6d; a beach scene is on the 1d. and 1½d.; while the 2d. shows one of the famous six-metre racing yachts in full sail. The 2½d. and 1s. stamps show another beach scene, with a Bermuda cottage on the 3d. value. Another cottage is shown on the 6d. stamp. There are nine values to this set, and contrary to the usual British colonial system, there are no high values, the 1s.6d. being the highest.

Bermuda's stamps are among the few British stamps which do not show an issue for King Edward VII. The stamps issued during his reign carried the picture of a sailing vessel in drydock. Queen Victoria is shown on a variety of issues, as is King George. In keeping with the general run of British colonial issues, these stamps are worth more than those of other colonial empires.

RUNYAN BREAKS COURSE RECORD

MAMARONECK, N.Y., May 22 (AP)—Paul Runyan broke the Quaker Ridge golf course record with a 67, three under par, here today and caught Gene Sarazen at the half-way mark in the metropolitan open golf championship.

It seemed Runyan would go into the final day of the championship with at least a two-stroke advantage, but Sarazen came back in 52 for his second 69 of the tournament.

The only other subpar round of the day was posted by Byron Nelson, 24-year-old professional from Ridgewood, N.J., who now has 140, two shots behind the leaders.

The defending champion, Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., had a 72 for a total of 142, and one shot back of him was the veteran Willie MacFarlane, who fired a 71 and failed to tie Picard by missing a four-foot putt on the final green.

The final 36 holes will be played tomorrow.

MORE ABOUT Holiday Honors

Mrs. Clementina Fressenden, a member of the Wentworth Historical association of Hamilton suggested school patriotic ceremonies, exemplifying British history. Her effort had the approval of Queen Victoria. The first celebration of Empire day in Canada was in 1899. Through the effort of the late Earl of Meath, observance of Empire day spread rapidly. It was adopted in the United Kingdom in 1902.

Born at Kensington Palace, London, May 24, 1819, daughter of Edward, Duke of Kent, son of George III of Great Britain, and his wife, the daughter of William II of Prussia, Alexandrina Victoria was eminently of royal blood, though her prospects at birth of becoming Queen were not very great. Her uncle, afterwards George VI, was Regent.

He died in 1830 and was succeeded by his brother, William IV. In the fate of kings when William died in 1837 his 18-year-old neice Victoria was the sole surviving child of the four elder sons of George III. Thus the crown devolved on her.

LONGEST REIGN

Queen Victoria's reign—the longest in British history — saw wide development and colonization of the Empire and great extension of power on land and sea. The Queen became Empress of India. From a group of scattered colonies, sparsely settled and restless, there grew the Dominion of Canada, a strong confederation under the British flag. The far-flung provinces were knit in nationhood and the distant coasts bound by ribbons of steel.

The Queen died Jan. 22, 1901. Her son reigned in her stead. Edward VII was the first to bear the additional and more imperial title ". . . of the British Dominions Beyond the Seas, King . . ."

GOLF

by ALEX MORRISON

Lew Lehr of the news reel fame, recently made a wonderful discovery, one that it would pay many golfers to repeat. He learned that he could swing much the same for both iron and wood shots.

The similarity was brought out in the starting position he used for both shots. In playing an iron club he stood with ball opposite his left heel, and the shaft of the club leaning forward slightly so that his hands were a bit ahead of the ball. In this way he hit a good ball.

When he attempted to use the wood club he took an entirely different starting position. He stood with the ball nearer to his right foot and had his hands behind the ball. This position prevented him from making his best swing. I told him to use the same position he had been using for his iron shots. He did and hit many drives that carried well over 200 yards.

He seemed quite surprised to find that the same starting position could be used for both clubs. Like many players he had handicapped himself by trying to make different swings.

With 82 horses left in the second acceptance for the derby, 182 prizes will be drawn out in each £100,000 unit as against 152 prizes in the grand national draw, held here late in March.

THE CAMDEN-RUBY MURDER

by ADAM BLISS

CHAPTER 34

"October 15. Reporters were here today—about the ruby, I guess. I went to church this morning and when I came home I found them here. Mr. Van Every seemed greatly annoyed, but was polite to them. Miss Joyce seemed to know one of them, at least she spoke as she went by the library. She told me later she had met one of them at a dance. Miss Joyce was out all afternoon with Allan Foster, so I was alone, and put in my time to advantage reading. I have been neglecting my reading lately with the ruby in the house. As yet I haven't seen it, and I am more anxious than ever. After the reporters left Mr. Van Every invited me to have dinner with him, as he was to be alone, Miss Joyce being out. The ruby was not mentioned. We talked over Miss Joyce's affairs, and Mr. Van Every was most kind in his praise of me. I feel that he highly approves of me, although he sees the difficulty I have doing anything for Miss Joyce. He said he had spoken of a trip around the world to Miss Joyce, with me as her companion. Before her marriage. A long trip. Miss Joyce refused to go and leave Allan Foster, he said. He admits he cannot understand his niece. Neither can I. At times she is a lovable, darling girl. At other times, she tries me sorely. She was in a rage when she came home—something Allan had said. I couldn't fathom what. She cried herself to sleep, and would let me do nothing for her."

"October 16. Miss Joyce is more set than ever on finding a job. She left at 9 this morning, and I have been alone all day. She didn't even come home to dinner. The day has passed very slowly. Mr. Van Every has been out most of the time, and Soon is in the library. I tried to talk to him because I was so lonely, but of course a Chinaman can't talk decently. What shall I do if Miss Joyce really finds a job?

"Later. There have been strange happenings in the house. Murder. I don't know what to think of it. Miss Joyce knows something of it, I'm sure. She came upstairs tonight, before we knew about anything and started to cry. I tried to comfort her, but she sent me to bed.

"It is very hard to write this, but I must. The police are downstairs, they have questioned everyone. Miss Joyce and me, too. I was afraid to tell them Miss Joyce had been at the library door with Allan Foster for a few minutes. It was after she came upstairs that she began to cry, and sent me to bed.

"I saw them come in, Mr. Van Every, Miss Younger—I know it was Miss Younger because I admire her work on the stage very much, and have seen her often—and another man. A man I have never seen before. Mr. Van Every was telling them of the ruby, showing it to them, it turned out later, but even from the stairs of the third floor I could hear what he was saying. More horrible, this ruby is, than I thought. I was shivering as I sat there listening. I thought I would slip downstairs and see the ruby. It would do no harm, but just as I was starting I heard a creak on the stairs, so I hurried back to Miss Joyce's bedroom. I stayed there perhaps five minutes, then came out, but no one was there. The hall was clear. I settled down at the top of the steps on the third floor and listened. I could hear Mr. Van Every's voice, and catch snatches of what he was saying. I must have made a mistake about the creak on the stairs, yet I know I heard it. My ears are very sensitive.

"Miss Joyce and Allan came up the stairs later. I could not believe it when I saw Miss Joyce coming up with him, at that hour. After all I have said . . . I saw them look into the door of the library for some minutes, then kiss each other, after which Miss Joyce came upstairs. Allan was still at the door of the library when I went into Miss Joyce's bedroom. Then it was she started to cry and sent me to bed. I went to my room, worried sick. I could not scold her when she was crying, yet she needed to be scolded. I'm positive I heard her open the door of the bedroom, and go out again into the hall. She did it quietly, but I heard it all the same. I'm sure. One is sure of things sometimes." From here Miss Randall's diary took up the questioning that followed, full descriptions of Captain Keyes and myself, the annoyance caused by detectives. The next day, she detailed her trip to Keyes' office.

An interesting item came the evening of the seventeeth. "Soon knows more of this than Captain Keyes thinks. I tried to tell him this afternoon. How Mr. Van Every can trust this Chinaman is more than I can see. It easily might have been Soon I heard on the stairs, although I will admit that he is very quiet, always walking around as if he had double padding on his feet. Yet it might easily might have been Soon."

The morning of the eighteenth—it was the evening of the eighteenth when Keyes and I read the dairy, the day of Miss Randall's murder—there was only one entry. "I have found the hiding place of the ruby, and this afternoon will prove to myself whether or not the stone is what they say, a murder stone."

Then it ended, the remainder of the book was clean. Miss Randall had had no further opportunity to write in her diary. Her 42 volumes were complete, one a little shorter than the others, as it was not finished.

Keyes closed the book and went back to Joyce's bedroom to call her. As she did not answer his knock, he went in, coming back to me presently with the news that she was not in her room.

"Queer, isn't it?" he said at last as he took a fresh cigar from his pocket, and seated himself in one of Joyce's metal chairs.

"What is queer?"

"All this." His hand gestured to the diary which was lying on the table.

"Miss Randall had an abnormal curiosity, that's all," I offered, taking one of my own cigarets. "Miss Randall said expensive cigarets, did she not? The stubs she found in the library, stained with lipstick."

"Yes, Mrs. Bryce must have lied to us."

N.Y. REVIVES

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP)—The stock market bounced back on the rally route today and regained some of the ground lost in recent sessions.

Despite late profit taking which cut down extreme gains substantially in a number of instances, net advances at the close ranged from fractions to 2 or more points.

While there was no exceptional change in the satisfactory business picture, brokers noted that a little more attention apparently was being paid to the industrial scene.

At the same time, public buying of equities was said to be at a minimum, with so-called professional forces accounting for much of the demand.

Winnipeg Higher

WINNIPEG, May 22 (CP)—An upward whirl in export wheat buying attributed to increased miller demand was coupled with continued lack of moisture in the United States winter wheat section to give wheat fixtures a much-needed hoist on the Winnipeg grain exchange today.

Good support developed with posting of export acceptances estimated at 500,000 bushels and prices jumped from lower levels to close higher for the first time in a week.

At the finish prices were ¼ to ⅜ cent a bushel higher. The May futures finished at 75⅞, July at 76⅛ and October at 77⅜ to 77½.
