Mystery Planes Baffle the Powers

Greek Freighter Piles Up on the Rocks on B. C. Coast; 28 Sailors Are Taken Off

BADLY HOLED AS STRIKES IN FOG; ENGINE ROOM IS QUICKLY FILLED

From Kobe, Japan, to Load Lumber at Port Alberni

ENDS UP AT FOOT OF A LIGHTHOUSE

BAMFIELD, B.C., Aug. 8 (CP)—Twenty-eight shipwrecked sailors sat on the wharf here this evening and peered dismally through soupy fog which hid their ship, the stranded Greek freighter Nereus.

Six men, the captain and deck and egine-room officers, remained aboard.

The Nereus, from Kobe, Japan, struck at 7:20 a.m. well in among the rocks and reefs at the foot of Cape Beale Lighthouse, five miles from here on the west coast of Vancouver island, which she was attempting to approach the pilotage station to pick up a pilot for Port Alberni, where she would have loaded lumber.

She was badly holed as she struck and the engineroom filled almost immediately.

Pilcher, keeper of the Cape Beale lighthouse, west coast of Vancouver island, where the Greek freighter Nereus went ashore today, said over long-distance telephone at 4:50 p.m. the weather was so foggy he couldn't see the stranded vessel only a few hundred yards distant.

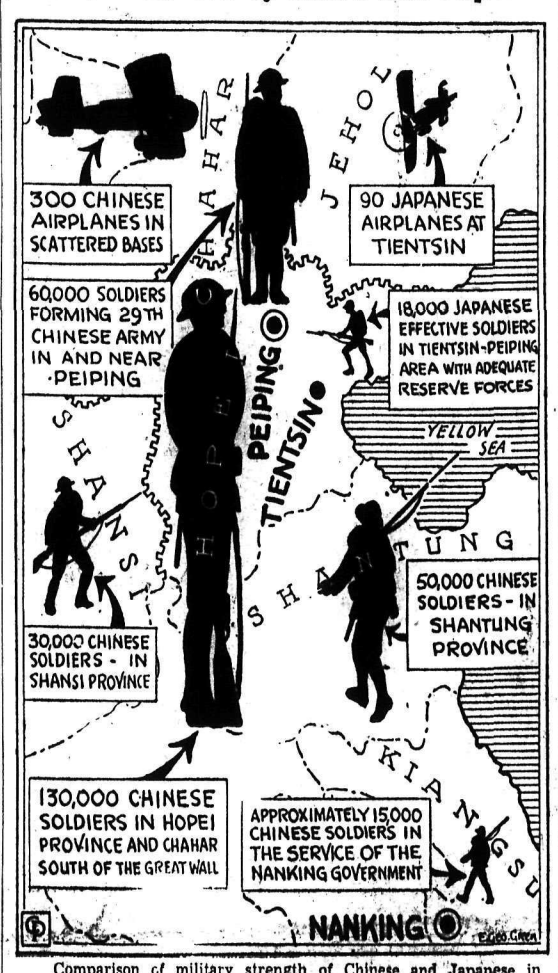
Armed Forces of China and Japan



Comparison of military strength of Chinese and Japanese in the Peiping-Tientsin area gives the edge to China, although observers say the Chinese forces are far inferior to Japan's in matter of discipline, organization and equipment. The comparative sizes of the Sino-Japanese armies in China at the start of hostilities are shown on this map.

JAPANESE PRESS BELIEVES WAR IN CHINA TO BE A BIG CONFLICT

By the Canadian Press

Japan formally took possession of ancient Peiping Sunday as despatches from Tokyo and Shanghai indicated war fever was mounting.

The week-end was quiet throughout China while Japan tightened her grip on the North China area where observers believe she intends to set up a puppet state.

TOKYO, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Japanese press, almost without exception, today took the attitude there is little hope of preventing the month-old North China conflict from developing into a war of national proportions.

Some hinted powerful influences in Tokyo—presumably the army—were working to block any diplomatic settlement of the crisis.

There was no news of actual combat in China today, but the press emphasized what began as a local clash at Marco Polo bridge on July 7 had grown into a conflict which may greatly alter the destinies of Japan, China and much of Asia.

Japanese correspondents in China described preparations for nation-wide resistance to Japan's advance. The Tokyo high command was described as determined to meet any Chinese challenge with all the might of the Japanese empire.

WAR FEARS SPREAD

SHANGHAI, Aug. 8 (AP)—Japanese and Chinese diplomats tonight expressed hope formal, declared war between their countries can be averted, but war fears still gripped central China and in the north formidable armies moved toward fresh collisions.

Hasty withdrawals of thousands of Japanese from widely separated parts of China reached a climax when the Japanese navy, under instructions from Tokyo, ordered abandonment of the Japanese concessions at Hankow, great port and industrial centre of the middle Yangtze valley.

TOWN CRIER TELLS OF BIRTHS OF QUADRUPLETS; ONLY TWO SURVIVE

THETFORD, Norfolk, Aug. 8 (CP-Havas)—After 24 hours of celebration over the birth here of male quadruplets to Mrs. Oliver Lingwood of nearby Brandon, two of the infants died tonight.

Hundreds of visitors poured into Thetford to gather before the nursing home where the children were born Saturday.

The father, a Brandon furrier and pride of the local rugby team, opened telegrams congratulating the Lingwoods on the birth of the quadruplets—named Adrian, Bernard, Conrad and Divid.

This afternoon the Thetford town crier mounted the steps of the town square to read the following proclamation:

Oyez! Oyez! Oyez! Whereas in this ancient and honorable town, one-time Saxon capital, the good wife of Olive Lingwood of Brandon has been happily delivered of four goodly children, I, John Clark, call upon this town to rejoice at these fourfold blessings. God save the King."

But a few hours later two of the tots died, David and Adrien. The mother was reported recovering.

R. B. Bennett to Continue as Conservative Chieftain

Health Improved, Tory Caucus Learns at Ottawa

PREPARING FOR NEXT ELECTION

OTTAWA, Aug. 8 (CP)— Improved in health, Conservative Leader R. B. Bennett is willing to continue to devote his efforts to public service. He remains leader of the party and the immediate question of leadership is thus settled.

Such was the information released at the conclusion of an all-day caucus of Conservative members of the house of commons here yesterday. The members had been called together by Mr. Bennett to learn of his views and feelings regarding continuance at the head of the party.

The only official statement from the meeting was the text of a resolution adopted unanimously which made no direct mention of the leadership or of party organization.

The resolution was:

"This meeting of Conservative members of the house of commons, assembled to greet our chieftain, Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, on his return from Europe, records its profound pleasure to learn of his improved state of health and of his willingness to devote his remarkable ability, great experience and unequalled knowledge of public problems to the service of the Canadian pepole."

TO ORGANIZE FOR CAMPAIGN

Organization matters were also discussed at length, according to R. S. White, veteran member for St. Antione-Westmount, Montreal, who served as spokesman. Matters of policy were not touched upon, nor was the possible provincial election in Ontario mentioned. The meeting was harmonious and enthusiastic throughout."

The meeting appointed committees to get a nationwide organization under way and start the work of preparing for the next general election. Committees will function in every province and eventually the organization will be centralized under a national office in Ottawa, although details of the latter phase of the matter were not settled.

Only two of the 39 Conservative members were absent, Mrs. George Black of Yukon and Dr. S. F. Tolmie of Victoria. Dr. Tolmie has been ill for some time and Mrs. Black found the distance from her far northern constituency too great for a midsummer trip.

The meeting was held on the seventh anniversary of Mr. Bennett's entry into office as prime minister following his victory at the 1930 general election. He has been leader for 10 years and is 67 years old. For five of his 10 years at the head of the party he was prime minister.

MERCHANT SHIPS OF FOUR NATIONS TARGETS FOR AIR BOMBS, BULLETS

British, Italian, French and Greek Vessels Attacked

BRITAIN THINKS INSURGENT ERROR

LONDON, Aug. 8 (AP)—European powers divided today in placing blame for attacks on four merchant ships in the Mediterranean by three "mystery" planes.

The four ships were the tanker British Corporal, the Italian ship Mongoloia, whose captain died of wounds, the French cargo boat Djebel Amour and the Greek steamer K. Ktistakis.

Great Britain blamed the Spanish insurgents and awaited an answer to its note to protest to Palma, Mallorca. Italian officials blamed "red planes" and France made no commitment pending completion of its investigation.

Spanish insrgent officials at Salmanaca were reported by Reuters news agency as blaming the Valencia government airforce.

"One of the bombed ships was Italian which should convince all not the work of nationalist airmen," the insurgents said.

The Valencia government disclaimed responsibility.

British foreign officials said they believed it was a case of blundering by inexperience insurgent airmen as indicated by the indiscriminate attacks.

A Dutch observer for the non-intervention committee, wounded in the bombing aboard the Mongioia was quoted by Reuters from Algiers as blaming the insurgents. G. Y. Bruin, the observer, said he was aboard another vessel several months ago which was stopped by an insurgent warship and seaplane with the markings he saw on the attacking planes.

Virginio Gayda, authoritative Italian writer, called the attack upon the Mongioia the "first evidence of Soviet reaction" to what he called its defeat in the non-intervention committee.

TORPEDO ATTACK "FAKED"?

VALENCIA, Aug. 8 (CP-Havas)—The Spanish government today charged the alleged torpedo attack on the German cruiser Leipzig was faked to give a reason for further intervention against the government, the "attack" led Germany and Italy to withdraw from the non-intervention naval patrol of Spain.

To refute German charges the cruiser was the target of Spanish government submarines off Oran, Algeria, last June 15 and 17, the defence ministry published 'testimony' obtained 'secretly' from a former member of the cruiser's crew as proof the incident was engineered by German, Italian and Spanish insurgent authorities.

HAPPY DAYS AT KOOLAREE

Trail Girls Make Up Song Tell About Camp; Newcomers Initiated

Treasure Hunt Brings Greetings From 1936 Camp

(By Dawn Sharp, Nelson, and Agnes Dans, Trail)

Once again a happy group of girls meet at Koolaree camp under the direction of Mrs. Dalton McArthur of Rossland, Miss Amelia Hanna of Nelson, and Miss Frances Moran of Trail. Girls are gathered here from Trail, Nelson, Rossland, Ymir, Kaslo and Grand Forks.

On the second evening of camp we had our "Initiation Ceremony". Mrs. J. Ritchie and Miss Moran and the new campers were brought into the camp fellowship by Mrs. McArthur, Miss Hanna and the old Koolaree campers. We had a treasure hunt, the treasure being greetings from the 1936 campers. The diggers of the treasure were Merle Weir of Trail, and Doreen Lind of Kaslo.

After a sing-song we gathered into our friendship circle for the singing of "Taps."

Even if it did rain we girls didn't care, for we were able to hold our trible meetings and bonfire in our lovely lodge, the very pride of Camp Koolaree.

Eileen Crowe of Trail, was chosen as Great Brave for 1936-37.

hTe tribes under the capable and helpful assistance of Miss Hanna and Miss Moran, nick-named Taddy and Satinka respectively. They are really getting places with their camp craft bible study and nature lore.

The favorites of camp are Rev. Mr. and Mrs. James Ritchie, who have been business managers of all the camps.

Coming over the Trail girls made up a song about Koolaree, Eileen Crowe, Agnes Deans, Verna Webster and Merle Weir being the authors. The song is to the tune of "Cod iFsh Ball":

"Come along and follow me
To the Camp at Koolaree.
We'll join in the jamboree at the Camp at Koolaree.

'There's a very merry crowd
Of whom we are very proud;
And they sing and shout aloud
At the Camp at Koolaree.

'They go camping once a year,
And they make it very clear,
That your always welcome here
At the Camp at Koolaree.

"Hiking, boating, swimming too,
They make sure you're never blue;
And you'll always find them true
At the Camp at Koolaree."

30 Years in Nelson and Still Thinks "There's No Place Like it"

Mr. and Mrs. William Heasell, 504 Gore street. Their grandson, Don, of Kimberley is hiding behind behind Granny.

Thirty years ago Saturday Mr. and Mrs. William Heasell landed at Nelson from England. They've been here ever since "and we still think there's no place like Nelson." They came from Tilsbury, Wiltshire county.

Mr. Heasell, when he first came to Nelson, worked at the Yale-Columbia lumber mill, his first "boss" being Jack Lemon, then with different employers until he became a city employee 22 years ago. It is his duty now to roll out of bed about the time the nighthawks are getting home, and wash down city streets before traffic begins. In fact, he has his lunch at the time most Nelsonites are nodding over their breakfast coffee.

Mr. and Mrs. Heasell both joined the Ancient Order of Foresters when these lodges were organized in Nelson in 1912, and both have been through all the chairs in each. Mrs. Heasell has held office since joining the lodge. Each now holds the office of treasurer, chairs they have occupied for years.

France and Germany Sign Trade Pact After 18 Years

Negotiations begun in 1919 were brought to a close at Paris, France, with the signing of a trade pact between France and Germany. Two agreements, one dealing with commercial relations and the other providing for payments were signed by French Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos (left) and Count Johannes von Welczeck, German ambassador.

Donkey Baseball

A large crowd greeted the antics of Nelson Junior Board of Trade members and the Nelson Senior Lacrosse club endeavoring to get the upper hand of the donkeys on Saturday evening as the local lacrosse team scored a double win over the hard-working junior board of trade members, winning a laugh-provoking donkey polo game and then defeating their opponents in a wild and wooly donkey softball game. While no one was ready to say just what the score was there seemed no dispute that Murray Clark's array of imported talent that included painters, plumbers and various other talents had copped the spoils, if any.

Murray Clark claimed there was a conspiracy by officials against him, as even when the donkeys were changed in the polo game, the wildest one of the lot was given to Murray to attempt to ride.

While the donkey polo game, which was new to local fans, provided the greatest laughs of the evening, Fred Gill, on the mound for the junior board of trade, proved another Carl Hubbell, at least in style, but found difficulty in getting down to the ground in fielding grounders. As several of the players were unable to hit the ball with the regular bat, they were given a large snow shovel. In fact this weapon proved even too small for Johnny Thom, the hero of the feminine fans to hit the elusive apple with, and he demanded a large ball. Frank Wells was the strikeout star of the game and Murray Clark was so sorry for Frank's attempts that he put himself in the game as a pinch hitter and nearly beat his own team.

Mrs. Bessner Is Laid at Rest

Funeral serivec for Elizabeth, wife of Emil Bessner, 709 Vernon street, was held Saturday in the parlors of the Davis Funeral Service, Rev. E. E. Lindgren conducting at parlors and graveside. Miss Alice May Eccles presided at the organ. The hymn "Abide With Me" was sung by the congregation. Rev Lindgren also sang two solos. They were "Shadows" and "In the Garden". The hymn "In the Sweet Bye and Bye" was sung at the graveside. The service was largely attended and there were many floral tributes. Pallbearers were E. J. Gess, J. Rueckert, R. Priebe, H. Eliuk, George Nadiuk and Steve Kosinec.

Billiards Win Ball Game at Rossland

ROSSLAND, Aug. 8—Poor support in the field despite the steady pitching of "Pills" Purcello, lost Rossland their baseball game with Trail Billiards here Friday night, 10-7.

Leading up to the seventh inning, Jackie Hanson made three costly bobbles which, with timely hits enabled Trail to tie the score at 7-all and a passed ball gave them a one-run lead, in the first of the seventh.

From there on, Rossland could do nothing with the offerings of Ross, who took over for Trail in the third inning from Holman, with the result that despite a three bagger by Gelling, nothing else happened.

Rossland runs came in the first with two markers, two in the third and three in the fifth. Ezart pasted the first triple of the game in the first inning to start it off.

Trail scored on a home run by Fairburn in the third, three in the sixth on hits by Fairbairn, Ross and Bailey.

TIE COUNT IN SEVENTH

Trail tied the game up in the first of the seventh on an error by Hanson and further hits by Fairbairn, Fisher and Ross. They wound up scoring in the ninth with two more runs when Bailey and Cameron came through with timely singles.

Trail stays in second place while Rossland drops to third by the defeat, but have a chance again make it a tie for second slot on Sunday.

For years the latter has been secretary of the lodge, while Mr. Giegerich has been treasurer for as long.

During the past winter both were missed from their usual places, Mr. Giegerich absent through illness and Mr. Green spending several months at coast points. The prolonged absenses of these two prominent members impressed their value to their brothers Masons and plans were discussed relative to, in some manner, show recognition and appreciation for their services, this culminating in the meeting of Tuesday evening when, taken completely by surprise, each was presented with silver-mounted walking sticks.

Rt. Worthy Brother S. A. Hunter proposed a toast to the Grand Lodge which was responded to by D.D.G.M. Fred L. Irwin.

A toast to the visitors was given by Senior Warden R. A. Chester to which Rt. Worshipful Bro. C. F. Nelson of New Denver responded.

A short address was given by W. P. Rudkin.

Past Master Neil Tattrie, representing the Sandon Masons, expressing his pleasure in being present, extended an invitation to the members of the Kaslo Lodge and the visitors to attend a meeting of the Sandon Lodge August 11 when the D.D.G.M. would pay their lodge an official visit.

Walter Wright gave several fine bass solos, his daughter, Miss Phyllis Wright, being accompanists.

LOVE OF FLOWERS IS NOT CONFINED TO ADULTS ONLY

Try 100 Strokes Daily . . .

Loveliness of a Wave Brought Out By Systematic Brushing of Tresses

By GLADYS GLAD

Any girl who wishes to possess glossy, luxuriant hair must recognize the benefits that can be derived from proper brushing. Yet oddly enough, few women today seem to realize the excellent results that systematic brushings give. Back in granny's day every lass was taught to give her hair 100 strokes of the brush daily. But nowadays the practice of brushing the hair daily has gone pretty well into the discard.

And the reason for that is, if you ask me, because so many women thing that brushing will ruin their waves. Which, by the way, is a very foolish idea, for brushing really helps to bring out the full loveliness of a wave.

Personally I believe that every girl should give her hair a brisk brushing each and every day, wave or no wave, for the brush can prove one of the greatest of hair beautifiers. It removes all dirt, foreign particles and bits of dried cuticle from the hair and scalp. It stimulates the circulation in the scalp, thus bringing nourishment to the hair follicles.

In addition, it distributes the natural oil evenly over the head, helping to keep the oil glands functioning normally. And it polishes the hair, making it glossy and lustrous.

When administering brushing treatments, never brush the hair flat over the scalp. This method is incorrect and does not greatly benefit the hair. To be properly brushed, the hair should first be brushed upward and outward all along the hairline, as it is here that most dust and grime tend to accumulate.

STRANDS BRUSHED INDIVIDUALLY

Then the hair should be separated into small strands and each strand brushed individually. And after this, the hair over the entire head should be brushed briskly with an upward and outward stroke. Only a brush that is clean, with flexible, blunt-tipped bristles, should be used for this purpose.

It is a good plan, when administering brushing treatments to the hair, to keep a clean, lintless towel on hand. And after every few strokes the brush should be wiped upon the towel in order to cleanse the bristles. The brush, you know, picks up a great deal of grime and oil from hair. And this wiping process eliminates the possibility that the dirt and oil removed from the hair by the brush will be placed in the hair again during subsequent brush strokes.

The sort of a brush that is used for brushing treatments is also an important factor, for none but the right sort should ever be employed. The bristles should not be too sharp or stiff, for if they are, they may scratch and irritate the scalp. Again however, the bristles should not be too soft, else they will prove totally ineffective and fail to benefit the hair and scalp.

WIVES CAN LEARN MUCH FROM MODERN 'SERVERS'

"The wife who lets her husband start off the day in a bad temper could learn tact and diplomacy from my servers," says Katherine Crumbaugh, supervisor of hostesses and waitresses for one of the largest restaurant chains in the world. For the waitress of today is no longer a waitress. In the best modern vernacular, according to Miss Crumbaugh, she has become a server. And her training is no longer a matter of learning where to put the silver or the teapot, but includes an encyclopediac knowledge of food terms, food origins and recipe ingredients the development of personality and the art of soothing ruffled tempers.

"This last is especially important," explains Miss Crumbaugh. "Suppose a man—let's call him Mr. Jones—gets up on the wrong side of bed, cuts while shaving, and slams out of the house never to return again when Mrs. Jones chooses that morning to ask him for extra housekeeping money. He storms into a restaurant, looking very, very unhappy, but the efficient server is ready for him. She doesn't wait to write down his order, but gets food in front of him as quickly and smoothly as possible. It might be fatal if the sugar bowl wasn't right at hand or if she uttered an unnecessary word. Then she gives him the morning paper and stands where he can call her if he wants to. Under this calming treatment the worst morning grouch usually disappears and Mr. Jones will depart for his office in a genial mood."

Most men, Miss Crumbaugh observed, want the same table, the same waitress and the same breakfast every morning. They are disgruntled if someone else has taken their regular table or their particular waitress has a day off. The server repays him by remembering just what he wants for breakfast. She knows whether he wants his toast buttered or his rolls heated, how his bacon is to be cooked, and if his eggs are cooked a second too long, she doesn't take any chances, but starts another set.

"And," concludes Miss Crumbaugh, "eighty-five per cent of our waitresses are married."

Children Love Them . . .

White Porcelain Kitten Vase of Flowers Would Delight Any Child

White porcelain kitten holds birthday flowers for child.

Every child loves flowers. This love that children have for flowers should be nurtured and encouraged, for flowers have a subtle power—they are symbols of all that is beautiful and good.

Tiny babies always remind me of rosebuds—they're so pink and delicate—and a gift of delicate flowers in the most fitting tribute anyone can send to a happy mother.

Nowadays florists are using all their artistry and skill in combining utilitarian gifts for the baby with delicate flowers. A pair of booties filled with miniature flowers is quite different from the ordinary gift and will delight the mother. A baby rattle or some other tiny gift combined with flowers is another way of expressing your friendship in an original way.

When there's a christening party for a baby girl, nothing could be more appropriate than to send a corsage to the mother, together with a boutonniere for the baby to wear. After the ceremony, suggest that the mother press the tiny posy in the baby's memory book. When the little girl is grown up, think how proudly she will display her "first bouquet" to her friends.

FLOWERS FOR PARTY

When you plan a party for the children, be sure to have flowers on the table. An authority on child behavior advocates the use of flowers on the table for every meal as a stimulant to correct table manners. A child, she says, is very sensitive to beauty and formality, and she believes every family should have at least one "party" meal a week, even though no guests are present. The best china, glassware and linens—and most important—fresh flowers and lighted tapers, should provide the setting. At these festive family meals the children's table manners should be strictly supervised—then when guests are present, there need be no worry about their decorum.

Every child also loves to wear flowers—and there's probably no better way to teach them pride in their personal appearance. When Mary goes to a party, pin a fresh flower in her hair or a boutonniere on her dress. She will feel grown up, or like a fairy princess, and you can be sure as long as she wears the flowers she'll remain in that role. Boys, too, react to wearing flowers. When Johnny goes to Sunday school, put a flower in his lapel and notice the different it makes in his conduct.

This bouquet of flowers arranged in a white porcelain kitten vase, holds flowers for the birthday child, accompanied by a pretty birthday card or other gifts. It would also immensely please a sick child.

Young People Are 'Nae So Biddable'

GUELPH, Ont. (CP).—The young people of today are "nae so biddable," declare Mrs. P. Drummond, Mrs. W. A. Buntin and Mrs. Jane Mitchell, three Guelph residents who came from Scotland some 30 years ago and whose total age today is 250 years.

And thumbs down on smoking for girls, they all agreed. In fact, they were unanimous in their viewpoint on the younger generation. There were good and bad ofcourse "but they are rude, some of them."

Mrs. Mitchell thinks they haven't the same modesty and Mrs. Buntin declared "ye had to be up years in Scotland before ye dared tae talk back tae yer faither and yer mauther the way the young folks dae here."

All three think Canada is a grand country but one should be young to make the adjustments necessary to taking up life in a new country. None wishes to return to Scotland, as their families and homes are settled here. But bringing up of children in Scotland, they were emphatic, is stricter than it is here and the children are all the better for it.

Mrs. Buntin, 88, Mrs. Drummond, 82, and Mrs. Mitchell, 80, were born in Scotland and became friends in this country.

Thinks Man Who Worked Miracles Is Fine Picture

By VIRGINIA LEE

I apologized a short time ago for recommending a motion picture, and now I'm going to praise another. It is an English film, and I suppose a number of my readers won't agree with me that it is fine. I can see that some of you will not care for it at all. But it certainly appealed to me.

It is titled "The Man Who Could Work Miracles", and the story is by H. G. Wells, English author. It is about a little dry goods store clerk who was given the power to work miracles. It shows him when he finds he has this power. It shows the various people who gave him advice on how best to use it—the sweet girl who yearned to have him do good with it, to heal the sick and make the world happier. The employer who wanted to hire the young man to make money for him and to help him outstrip his competitors. The fellow workers who wanted him to give them things or to use it for his own advancement and not for any great good. And the minister who wanted to reform the world and bring on the golden age.

And it shows how the thought gradually grew in him that he had the power to run the world as he saw fit, and how he gathered together all the leaders of the whole world and told them they were to plan a new order NOW, without a moment's thought. They must do as he said. And how he wrecked everything because he went mad with his great power and tried to make the earth stop revolving.

It made me think that none of us—no matter who we are—is wise enough to have the power to work a miracle. We wouldn't know where to begin to make things over. We wouldn't dare use it.

Maybe good old Mother Nature knows what she is about, as she slowly, slowly evolves and develops us through millions of years, improving us—or is she?—through eons of time. Maybe we have to go through all the struggle and suffering and hates and fights and heartbreaks, instead of showing sense and putting an end to most of them. It is just too much for me. But see the picture anyway. It is worth an evening of your time.

Clever and Beautiful

Gertrude Dreher

By LILIAN CAMPBELL

Echoes of the past school year come in the form of news that Miss Gertrude Dreher of Terre Haute, Ind., proved that a co-ed need not be dumb if she is beautiful.

Miss Dreher was among the top-notch scholars of the graduating class of Indiana State Teachers college. She was chosen "Queen of Queens".

A survey of grades of 24 candidates for all beauty honors on campus during the school year revealed that together they averaged nearly a B above the general average. Miss Dreher's record helped boost the beauties' average.

LOVE IN DREAMS

Love hath his poppy-wreath,
Not Night alone.
I laid my head beneath
Love's lilied throne:
Then to my sleep he brought
This anodyne—
The flower of many a thought
And fancy fine:
A form, a face, no more;
Fairer than truth;
A dream from death's pale shore;
The soul of youth:
A dream so dear, so deep,
All dreams above,
That still I pray to sleep—
Bring Love back, Love!

Love is for Tomorrow

CHAPTER 47

Marcia couldn't believe her own eyes, as she saw the rapid turn of events at the Trocadero. Full of concern over Gary, she likewise was worried about Sandy. He seemed in a sort of stupor as the officer took him roughly in hand. Compassionately she went to Sandy's side.

"You mustn't worry, Sandy," she said to him, then turned to the policeman. "Let him alone! Can't you see it was an accident? He thought he was proctecting—"

"Keep quiet, Marcia!" Sandy brushed aside her sympathetic efforts to help. "No use getting involved any further in this. It looks like it's going to be a nasty mess before we're through. Better keep your pretty skirts clear of it."

Disregarding the bitterness in his voice, she turned again to the officer, "Do something. You can't arrest this man. I won't have it!" Her voice rose to a high pitch in the stress of the emergency.

"Too bad, lady. I'd like to oblige you, but as far as I can see this man is guilty of assault and battery with intention of doing bodily harm. I've got to hold him. You'd better get to your friend over there, he might need you."

Marcia looked longingly at Sandy, but the man refused to meet her gaze. "Yes, get to your friend. He needs you," he said "You can't do anthing—more—for me." With a nod to the policeman he indicated he was willing to go with him quietly. Anything to get away from this mob of semi-hysterical women, bustling waiters, and the still form of the man on the couch.

How different this evening was from the one Sandy had planned so hopefully that afternoon! Then, filled with his new determination to rush Marcia off her feet, he had been confident that he could win her promise of marriage before another day dawned. In the hectic confusion that had followed his headstrong actions, since he found her with Gary he had no opportunity—nor any great desire—to tell the girl of his changed ideas. As Marcia saw him rushed out the door, she did not know how unselfish and undemanding his love for her had grown. Instead, she thought of him as being still in- . . . and now the new disgrace!

volved with the grasping Paula

She heard the scream of the police car as they hurried him away, and turned desperately to Gary.

"Gary, you can't let go, you can't! Open your eyes and talk to me; can't you see what's happened?" She was leaning over him, looking for some sign of life in the placid face. Suddenly she put her hands on his shoulders, shook him gently. "Don't you hear me, Gary—!"

Sympathetic hands drew her away from the couch as a doctor said suddenly. "I think we can move him now. Better rush him to the Emergency hospital."

The cafe manager had tried desperately to cover up the unfortunate affair, and the orchestra was blaring loudly to keep the guests' minds from the incident being enacted under their very noses. He breathed a deep sigh of relief when the ambulance drew to the curb, and the inert figure of Gary was put within it. He shuddered to think of what the papers would print as they smacked their lips over another "Hollywood brawl".

Marcia climbed into the ambulance, too, dumbly watching the man on the stretcher. "He can't die!" she said over and over to herself, not realizing that she was concerned primarily with the effect on Sandy. She shuddered when she heard one of the attendants say something about "manslaughter for that poor cuss if the fellow here doesn't pull through". She was on her knees in a second, again pleading with the unconscious Gary.

"Won't do you any good, ma'am," the doctor told her. "We'll have to wait till we get to the hospital and operate. You'd better keep hold of yourself. Is there anyone you can call?"

The girl shook her head. Gary lived at the University club, and she didn't know of any relatives except Marie.

"Do you think it's that serious?" she begged, hoping they would reassure her. "He has a cousin in Santa Cruz."

Her world crashed about her as the doctor said seriously, "Yes, I think you'd better call her."

At the hospital, white-clad attendants rushed Gary away from her, and aMrcia walked blindly to the telephone booth. A hurried call brought Marie to the other end of the wire, and brokenly she Thin People . . .

Eating Between Meals May Help to Gain Weight

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Most dietetic advice is given for the purpose of reducing overweight, but for every ten overweight people there are at least three or four who suffer from the opposite trouble and would give anything to become buxom. These people frequently write in for advise, and the best advice that can be given them may be summarized more or less as follows:

Before undertaking the treatment of the sub-standard person, particularly the undernourished, a complete study is necessary. We must determine the presence or absence of actual disease, and we must ascertain what we have to work with and to build on to get results. In any considerable number of people of this type, there will be a large proportion of those who are suffering from such diseases as tuberculosis or diabetes.

Overindulgence in tobacco, alcohol and coffee—especially the last—frequently is found. Tobacco may impair appetite, digestion, sleep and nervous stability in some people.

Habits, such as fast eating, irregular meals, taking too little or too much liquids, insufficient sleep and little or no healthful recreation, are factors to be considered.

PROVERTY CHIEF CAUSE

Unquestionably the most common cause of malnutrition is poverty. Among the frankly poor the condition is expected, but in better social classes there are countless thousands who, in their efforts to maintain respectability and present a brave appearance, actually starve.

This means that the keynote of the treatment of underweight and undernutrition is food. Just as food is the keynote of the treatment of overweight. Underweight people who are perfectly frank, tell me that they know they do not enjoy the table as much as other people, and probably eat a third or a fourth as much as the average person of the same age and height.

For diet to be of value, the food must be properly prepared, eaten slowly, thoroughly masticated, in a pleasant environment. The sensitive child who is habitually corrected at the table by the parent often is a victim of hidden malnutrition.

All that is necessary in many cases is the addition of certain items of food to the diet the patient is already taking. In addition to regular meals,meals 3 pints milk or 2 pints of milk and a half pint of cream, two hours before each meal, may be sufficient to turn the scales and send the patient's weight on the up grade.

Foods which are filling and not very nutritious, such as pickles, bouillon, soups, broths and sauerkraut, should be particularly forbidden and, in the case of children, the use of sweets, especially before meals.

Other factors in treatment are exercise with counter balancing rest, and if there are any digestive disturbances, such as increased acidity of the stomach or constipation, these should be treated by appropriate drugs.

Formal With Divided Skirt

By Central Press

Harriet Hilliard

Dress designers have on occasion designed pajama costumes for formal wear. The fashion has been adopted by a few folk who can afford to have many clothes, and who like something different and possibly a bit bazarre.

The idea has not "caught on" generally, however, Harriet Hilliard, screen and radio star, is wearing something novel along that line in a new picture. It was designed for her by Edward Stevenson, who makes costumes for the cinema stars. Harriet was called upon to do a rather strenuous dance in this picture, so Mr. Stevenson made her this pyjama formal gown with trousers so full that they can hardly be distingulshed from a regular evening skirt.

The dress is made of turquoise blue chiffon, the high waistline, V neck and short, puffed sleeves outlined with rows of tiny rhinestones.

BEACH PAJAMAS

One-piece pajamas are being worn at the beach increasingly as the season advances. They are usually in prints, very full as to trouser, and the printed pattern used in an interesting manner.

As to pajamas for sleeping and lounging, for the former they are pretty evenly liked by women—some having gone back to the comfortable nightgown in modern form, and other preferring the pajama.

For lounging, just now the pajama type of negligee is having fierce competition in the house coat, and the latter seems to have the edge. Pajamas, however, will always be the choice for numerous occasions by many smartly dressed women.

A slightly lowered waistline is suggested in some of the new dresses, by the use of inset girdles, draped manipulations and embroideries.

Don't Worry . . .

Overcome Faults By Praising Son for Good Deeds

DR GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

After describing many splendid items in the family relationships, and play oportunities for the children, a mother writes of her worries about her boy, aged 15. She says he began taking music lessons on the piano at nine. She is worried that he wants to give it up, though he had been faithful and successful. He has "gone crazy' 'over airplanes and wants to study aviation. "He can sit down and measure, figure and make his own plans, then compute the cost to make it, and produce the thing just as planned. He excels in scouting and has many friends, earns a dolloar a week removing ashes and saves money from this and his paper carrying. He makes A's and B's in every subject at school but mathematics, in which he almost fails. He "raises cain" in this class, with a subsitute teacher. The lad gets grumpy with his mother and argues with her, and he doesn't hang up his pajamas. She feels she has not been a good mother, worries over his dropping piano, over his untidiness. She wishes he would be as serene as his older brother and as smiling and co-operative as his sister who is younger.

My reply was about like this: Thousands of other mothers would be happy to be able to be as good a mother as you have been, and to have a boy with as many fine qualities as you describe in the boy you are worrying about.

In the first place, since the older and younger children are so good-natured and co-operative, they naturally get more approval; and you probably tell Bob sometimes how fine they are. Jealousy is his biggest problem. Anything you can do to make him feel he is loved and as worthy, as the rest should help. Failure to hang up his pajamas is not so serious. We have a boy who doesn't always hang up his pajamas, but nobody gets excited about it. When we can manage ourselves better and evolve a good program, he will hang them up. Home happiness consists of bigger things than just hanging up pajamas. As for the music, I think he did very well to stick faithfully at it for six years.

The chief reason for his deviltry in the mathematics class is that he gets on so poorly in it. By acting up he can make himself forget his pain from failure. Anything you can do to help him succeed in mathematics should correct this.

Do praise Bob more for all the good things he does and all the fine qualities he has. And keep on working with yourself to be more calm. You get too tired. You must let a lot of things go and take care of yourself.

Calm yourself about the sex problem. Many children practice this ugly habit at some time in their lives. Don't question him or spy on him. Help him feel he is loved and worthwhile, and wants to grow up and get away from this childish habit. Urge dad to keep on paling with him.

hints for housewives

MENU HINT

Veal Cutlets	Vegetables
Mint Ice Cream
Uncooked Brownies	Coffee

Vegetables in this case might be carrots, green peas or beans and potatoes, which may be cooked with the meat. Or the peas might be cooked separately, if desired, and served with the others.

TODAY'S RECIPES

VEAL CUTLETS—Melt one tablespoon butter or bacon fat in roaster or casserole. Slice three green onions. Brown slightly in fat. Wipe four veal cutlets with a dampened cloth. Rub with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Brown on either side in fat. Add sour cream or milk (sweet) to cover the bottom of the pan. Cover and cook in oven until tender, about one hour.

MINT ICE CREAM—Two tablespoons cornstarch, one tablespoon flour, one-fourth cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, two and one-half cups milk, one egg, one cup after dinner mints, one and one-half cups cream. Measure cornstarch and flour and put them into the top part of a double boiler. Add sugar and salt and mix well. Stir in milk slowly to prevent lumping. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly until mixture is thickened and smooth. Continue cooking, stirring occasionally until starch is well cooked, about 18 minutes. Remove from stove, beat egg, add a portion of the hot mixture to the egg, beating it in. Then add this to the hot mixture. Cool. Stir in mints which have been cut or broken into small bits. Chill. Whip cream and fold it in. Turn into freezing trays and freeze.

UNBAKED BROWNIES — Two squares unsweetened chocolate, one and one-third cups (one can) sweetened condensed milk, two cups (one-third pound) vanilla wafer crumbs, one cup finely chopped walnut meats. Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Add sweetened condensed milk and stir over boiling water five minutes until mixture thickens. Add vanilla wafer crumbs and one-half cup finely chopped nut meats. Butter shallow pan and sprinkle with one-fourth cup nut meats. Place chocolate mixture in pan and spread evenly, using a knife dipped in hot water. Sprinkle top with remaining one-fourth cup chopped nuts. Chill in refrigerator six hours or overnight. Cut in squares. This makes 18.

CHERRY HONEY

Select large cherries and remove pits carefully to preserve shape of fruit. Take the weight of the cherries in strained honey. Heat honey to scalding, taking care to avoid scorching, and add cherries. Simmer three minutes, then put into clean, hot glasses and seal. They retain their natural shape and flavor and are a beautiful color.

FACTS AND FANCIES

Solving Room Problems

A problem that puzzles many, especially apartment dwellers with uninteresting oblong rooms and "institution" glass windows forming one end, says Mrs. Edna H. Kern, interior decorator, is changing the room shape and dressing up the bleak emptiness of the window expanse.

A beaver board or wooden partition with a high centre doorway arch, and, if the width is sufficient, two smaller arches on either side, placed about 20 inches from the window, gives a delightful balcony effect. Plants placed between the actual window and the partition make the balcony appearance even more realistic, and the arches canbe draped just as they would be if they actually did lead out into a balcony. The expense entailed for a beaver board partition of this kind is very small and the transformation of an uninterestingly shaped room is little short of miraculous. The partition, of course, can be painted or papered to blend with the other walls.

Curdling Tomato Soup

How many times we have all had our cream of tomato soup curdle. The trouble lies in adding the tomatoes slowly to the heated milk. Not in adding just the first portion slowly, but in adding all slowly and stirring it carefully. However, if there are too many tomatoes, no matter how slowly they are stirred into the milk, curdling will result.

Apple Sauce De Luxe

One dozen apples, one and one-half cups apple cider, granulated sugar to taste, one teaspoon lemon juice, one tablespoon butter, pinch salt. Wash, core and cut up apples. Put them in a saucepan with the cider and cook until tender enough to rub through a sieve. Mixture should be thick. Stir in the remaining ingredients. Pour into a bowl. Garnish with a light drizzling of cinnamon. Serve hot or cold as desired.

Keeping 'Em Down

Try putting a heavy button or coat weight in the front seam of lightweight raincoat or cape to keep it down in the wind. Or snaps may be sewn on if preferred.

told her the news. She felt a flood of relief when Marie said calmly, "I'll come right down. What hospital is it? And keep your head, my dear. It takes an awful lot to get a good man like Gary down."

Marcia sat in the waiting room, and watched the minutes tick off slowly. She had been there for almost two hours, when the head nurse came to her side. "Come on, young lady. I'm going to put you to bed. They've operated on Mr. Warren now; but we won't know for several hours how he will rally."

The girl was grateful for the placid tones of the woman. How could she get so immune to suffering, she wondered as she allowed herself to be led to a narrow bed in an empty room? They gave her a sedative that sent her into a troubled sleep, her dreams peopled by a thousand Sandys being pursued and persecuted by burly police.

Sandy himself was experiencing in fact what was merely a hazy nightmare to Marcia. Taken to headquarters he was hastily booked for assault and battery, and possible manslaughter, and held without bond. Mike Borst had rushed down to the station and reached it almost as soon as his friend. Furiously, he addressed the captain, "Cap, you can't do a thing like this. Knight here thought he was defending a lady; it was just an unfortunate accident, that's all. You can always find him at—"

"We'll keep him right here where we won't have to bother to look for him," the captain replied cautiously. "If this Warren dies, he'll face a pretty serious charge. The public has had just about enough of these society brawls; somebody is due to take the rap for them."

Furiously, Mike began to plead his friend's cause but the officer shook his head steadily. Finally he lost patience, "You're wasting your breath. We've got a duty to do, and we're going to do it regardless of you or anything you can say. Now get out!"

Sandy was being ushered out between two guards, and Mike watched him futilely. Loyally, he shouted, "Keep your chin up, Sandy. We'll see you through this. I'll get a lawyer and have you out of here in a jigger."

Mike took a taxi to the hospital first, to ascertain the seriousness of Warren's injury. What did not ease his anxiety, and he he learned at the reception desk went solemnly to the phone. He routed Lawrence Crocker, an attorney, out of bed and told him the predicament in which Sandy was inevolved. Crocker advised him to wait until morning, when Warren might have regained consciousness sufficiently to exonerate Sandy.

"But if he doesn't? If he should die?"

"Then you couldn't get him out anyway, so you might as well go home and get a good night's sleep," the attorney said laconically. "We'll do all we can in the morning; your friend will be well taken care of where he is."

"Yeah, hot and cold running sweat," Mike said in exasperation, "and a choice room overlooking the city dump. Swell prospect!"

Disgustedly, he hung up the phone and walked out of the booth. As an afterthought he stopped at the desk to inquire about Marcia, leaving his phone number and a message to the effect that she could depend on him to be of any service. With about the work on his new job that was due to start tomorrow; he felt his sincerest efforts would be demanded to see Sandy through a difficult situation.

ENGLISH PAPER LAUDS SPEECH BY NELSON BOY

Sydney Horswill of Nelson, Kootenay representative among the Canadian boys at the coronation, was chosen as one of the group leaders and spoke at an entertainment at Folkestone. He "made a very charming speech" says the Folkestone, England, Herald.

At Shorncliffe, wreaths were laid on the graves of Canadian soldiers. Horswill was chosen to represent the west, another boy to represent the east and another central Canada.

When Speedboats Rule the Waves.....

Under any other circumstances this might be called a modernistic picture. Actually it's a "candid" shot of L. F. Gilbert, commodore of the Kootenay Launch club, as seen from the front seat of his mile-eating speedboat, the Ladybird. Those are exhaust pipes hiding the commodore.

R. A. Chester, mate—and hence secretary—of the Kaslo Boat club, takes time out from his recording of events to watch a speedboat being tuned up and to appreciate the difficulty of one "engineer" in getting started.

Checking things over and waiting for the signal to go is Walter Tozer of Kaslo, in F. S. Rouleau's hydro, the Me Too. Those are pads on his knees, to absorb some of the shock as the boat skips from wave to wave, and he's wearing a life jacket, just in case.

Taking movies of the things he sees is the hobby of Alex Nisbet of Trail, pictured here as he enjoyed a bit of byplay at Kaslo between "shots".

Masonic Funeral for Mr. Titsworth

Funeral services for E. A. Titsworth, who passed away August 4 at Medicine Hat, were held Saturday from the Somers Funeral Home, Rev. A. D. Pringle officiating. Many friends gathered at the last rites and floral tributes were numerous. The hymns sung were "Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me" and "The Sands of Time Are Sinking". Masonic lodge took over the service at the graveside, with T. D. Desbrisay conducting.

Pallbearers were M. Roberge, J. B. Gray, R. Davis, Fred Irvine, W. Buchanan and W. Wood.

DOG STOWAWAY SHOWS UP ON EVERY TRIP

"Rasputin", wily eyes agleam and whiskers bristling with mischief, contineus to play the role of stowaway aboard the Canadian Pacific Railway's Vancouver to Nanaimo ferry, Princess Elaine.

Despite the vigilance of Capt. Nils J. Sterner, purser Harold McDonald and other ships officers whom he seems to have adopted "Rasputin" somehow manages to creep aboard the ship at Vancouver, rides the 30-odd miles across the gulf to Nanaimo and contrives to stay aboard for the return journey. Shooed from the ship at Nanaimo, he refuses to remain in the Vancouver Island port but sneaks back aboard and returns to Vancouver.

A nondescript wird-haired terrier with a love for the sea "Rasputin" has earned that name by his wily cunning and extreme daring in outwitting the vigilance of gangplank officers.

And he knows he's smart, too. Hiding himself safely away until the ship is well out past the First Narrows, he emerges with his eyes twinkling and tongue lolling waggishly and actually struts around the decks!

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon, was the following from the Bible: "God is a spirit: and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth" (John 4:24).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Material sense never helps mortals to understand Spirit, God. Through spiritual sense only, man comprehends and loves Deity."

URGE B.C. FOLK TO SEE PROVINCE FIRST

Countless Points of Beauty to Please Vacationists

Last year British Columbia closed its tourist season on the disquieting note of an unfavorable balance of automobile visitors.

Customs inspectors reported 226,420 Canadian automobiles southbound out of the province, while only 148,585 foreign automobiles entered during the same period. In other words, the automobile tourist season showed an adverse balance represented by more than 77,000 cars. A direct loss of several hundred thousands of dollars to the province.

In an endeavor to remedy this situation the Good Roads League of B. C., under the direction of Charles H. Webster, business manager, has instituted an advertising campaign within the province. This campaign is designed to inspire our own citizens to "discover British Columbia" by telling them of the countless points of beauty and vacation interest that lie within easy reach of our cities.

It is believed that stimulation of travel within the province will result in keeping thousands and thousands of vacation dollars at home.

The relatively small amount of travel by British Columbians in "our matchless province", Mr. Webster believes is due to a lack of knowledge of the many holiday resorts—beauty spots—fishing areas and diversified resources of British Columbia.

In the whole of North America, he says, no other place can offer the variety of interests that lie at B. C. people's own doors; intriguing boat trips in sheltered waters; mountain climbing and hiking; lake, stream and sea fishing; unsurpassed hunting; motor trips through country of ever-changing beauty and unequalled grandeur. From the silver sands of Pacific beaches to the majestic peaks of the Rockies, from the international border to the far north, British Columbia is a wonderland to the vacationist.

BACK TO OLD TIME FOR SCHOOL OPENING—LET'S STAY THERE

For many years, schools in British Columbia opened on the Tuesday after Labor Day, which is always on the first Monday in September. This meant that schools could open as early as Sept. 2 or as late as Sept. 8.

The plan worked well. Everyone knew when schools would open without bothering to figure it out from government announcements from year to year. While the date varied, the circumstances surrounding the date were always the same; that is, the school holidays ended with the Labor Day holidays.

For some reason a change was made in recent years. Schools were opened before Labor Day. They opened for a day or two and then closed for the statutory holiday. It was all rather futile as the pupils and teachers hardly got down to work before the Labor Day holiday intervened.

Victoria this week announces that the old practice has been reestablished. Let's leave it that way. Let schools reopen the Tuesday after Labor day each year and we will all know exactly where we stand—parents, pupils, teachers, businessmen upon whose affairs school opening has an influence, transportation companies, and everyone else who may be affected.

MORE LUNACY IN ALBERTA

When Aberhart of Alberta carried on his early campaigns through the Prophetic Bible institute it might have seemed to some that he sought the Holy Grail.

He developed a little, and it looked more like a tilting of Don Quixote against the windmills.

Since he became prime minister he has been more in the role of Peg-Leg John in search of buried treasure, which, of course, Mr. Aberhart envisioned as a Pirate's Hoard.

He still seems to be after what he thinks is the Pirate's Hoard. He sees it in the banks and wants to grab it so that he may hand the people of Alberta that $25 a month so long overdue. It does not seem to have occurred to him that it isn't any Pirate's Hoard that fills the vaults of the banks but the money of the people of Canada, for whom the banks are trustees.

It is the money and credit of the Canadian people, including the people of Alberta, and not the money of the bankers that Premier Aberhart would so blithely play lucks and drakes with. He wants to use the peiple's money from the savings accounts, the current accounts and the reserve accounts so that he may implement his silly promise to pay Albertans $25 a month apiece.

It's a comic situation with tragic aspects. The immediate damaging consequence of Alberta's fool Aberhartisms is that all western Canadian credit and western Canadian business suffers. "Let's keep out of western Canada" say the investors, the business men, the prospective builders of new labor-employing industries. Unfortunately they include British Columbia when they think of western Canada, though some of our sufferings in this province have been from our own foolishness. Some Pattullo declarations on provincial financial plans in his early days in office did us no good, the moratorium affecting mortgages hurt our credit and drove money away, Gerry McGeer's antics in Vancouver blackened our financial name in every money market of the world. Fortunately in this province we now hear no more of this sort of thing.

The moral effect of Aberhart's attempts toward the attainment of the impossible feat of giving Albertans a lot of money for nothing has been very bad. His proposed legislation of last week, under which he would become dictator over all Alberta branches of Canadian banks will do still more harm. It won't get Aberhart anywhere; it will not result in the banks handing over the money of their depositors to Mr. Aberhart to enable him to be a $25 a month Christmas tree to every Albertan; but it will feed the idea in financial centres all over the world that politically and financially we are a lot of lunatics in western Canada.

There's the further danger of the development of a nasty constitutional imbroglio between the province of Alberta and the Dominion.

Lawyers should profit immensely out of it.

PROGRESSIVE MOVE BY LETHBRIDGE

Lethbridge has decided to go ahead with the construction of a $35,000 artificial ice rink, with seating capacity for 3500 people.

For some time the southern Alberta city has felt the need for artificial ice in order to insure accommodation for hockey, skating, curling and similar winter sports. When Nelson astonished the country with its civic centre, Lethbridge was stirred to renewed effort and, while it does not feel it advisable to go as far as Nelson—local conditions differ considerably—it has decided on an artificial ice rink.

Lethbridge is one of the livest and best managed cities in the prairies, and has done much to enhance its attractions as a residential centre. Its park, right in the middle of the city, would be a credit to many cities of ten times its size. It is a place of beauty and is always nicely kept. If Nelson's successful experience is anything to go by, then Lethbridge will find its new skating rink a good investment. It will provide healthful recreation for its people and attract many visitors to hockey games, skating carnivals, bonspiels and similar events.

One possible consequence of Lethbridge's establishment of artificial ice may be the extension of Kootenay hockey into a Kootenay-Crows Nest circuit.

..Between You and Me

By J. B. C.

HUMOR FOR JOBHOLDERS

Atherton, I'm seriously thinking of taking you on as my assistant here in the sales department.

Say, J.T., that's simply great!

However, I must confess I am not entirely convinced your comprehend the duties and conventions of the office.

Just try me, J.T.!

Very well. Atherton, I've got an idea. What do you think of it?

I think it's great, J.T.!

Is that all?

I think you've got something there, J.T.!

That's better. Do you really like my idea?

Do I really like it! Why, J.T., it's nothing short of tremendous. It's an absolute wow! A stroke of genius, J.T.

That's very good, Atherton. Now let's hear you say "yes."

Yes.

Can't you make it a little more enthusiastic?

Of course, J.T. YES!

Splendid. Now, do you always call me "J.T."?

No. I address you as J.T. in our private conversations, but among the men I refer to you as "the chief" or "the boss," and among your superiors I am very careful to address you as "Mr. Thomas."

Good. Now I'll give you a practical problem. You come into my office Saturday afternoon. I am working. What do you say?

I say: "Why don't you chuck the work the rest of the afternoon, J.T., and get yourself a little golf! You really owe it to yourself. You've been working like a dog all week."

I think we might get along at that Atherton. Now, assume that Mr. Jones, the president, comes to you and says: "Atherton, what do you think about the situation?" What do you say?

qmotoed(umand.a,so

I say: "Mr. Jones, I am flattered that you ask me for my opinion, but I suggest that Mr. Thomas is much better qualified to give you the picture than I am. He's been studying it for some time."

Have I been studying it for some time?

Probably not. But that makes no difference. The answer is the same.

Correct. But suppose Mr. Jones insists on getting your opinion?

I say: "Mr. Jones, I feel exactly the same way about this that Mr. Thomas said he felt when we were talking this matter over yesterday."

Were we talking the matter over yesterday?

No. But I give him what I think is your opinion.

Very good, indeed. Now suppose we are all in conference in the president's office and in a moment of incaution you make a rattling good suggestion. The president compliments you. What do you say?

I say: "Well, gentlemen, I must confess the idea is not entirely mine. As a matter of fact, Mr. Thomas put it into my head and I think he ought to get what credit is due." I say that or else.

Or else what?

Or else I am no longer assistant sales manager.

Atherton, you have an excellent grasp of the fundamentals. Now there is just one more test, but it is a crucial one. Atherton, did you ever hear the story about —

Ha, ha, ha, ha! Ho, ho, ho, ho! Stop it J.T.; You're killing me!

Atherton, the job is yours.

Sweden's Unemployed Decreased by 22,000 in Five Months, 1937

To The Editor:

Sir—According to government statistics the unemployed in Sweden were from January to May this year as follows:

January, 33,509; February,a decrease of 2,229; March a decrease of 3,530; April a recrease of 5,503; May a decrease of 6,407; June a decrease of about 4,000.

This means a decrease during 5 months of 22,000.

At present there are only about 11,500 unemployed in Sweden.

Among youths 16-20 years old there are only 800.

This shows what a socialist government does for its people.

Over there youths do not need to travel in boxcars from place to place or rattle tincans on the streets to make a living.

WHAT THE PRESS IS SAYING

TOLERANCE AND EXAMPLE

Where dominions of the Empire differ in their mode of ordering their own affairs there can be no compulsion and there should be no bitterness of criticism in England. Still more is this true where foreign nations are concerned . . . Where British institutions have been copied in the past, it has been solely on the evidence of their fruits in national wellbeing in the British lands. If their spirit is to be propagated again after the present check, it can be on no other recomendation. Influence in their favor cannot be either effectively or safely exercised by intervention, whether in act or word, in the quarrels of rival philosophies in foreign lands. Just as religious intolerance devastated Europe in the seventeenth century, so in the twentieth century political intolerance is capable of devatating the world. In the advance of Europe to the idea of religious toleration the main leadership belonged to England. For teaching by example the idea of political toleration the main hope of the modern world rests upon the British Empire.—London Times.

SAFER DRIVING NEEDED

During the summer months each week-end brings a new casualty list of road crash victims. Last week-end six persons were killed and 30 injured in Western Ontario alone. Thirteen were killed in the province. Last week saw several additional fatal crashes, some of which brought death to residents of this city.

What is to be done to end this slaughter? Government campaigns have been tried. All sorts of official warnings have been given and recently Premier Hepburn announced a new campaign intended to frightten careless drivers by showing the results of bad driving. Certainly injuries inflicted in these crashes ought to be the most powerful deterrent to careless driving, but still the carnage continues.

The Ontario Police association, at its meeting here, advised drastic tests of prospective drivers, and constant check-ups. The Ontario government might give this suggestion serious consideration. It might also study carefully the results of the change in speed limit from 35 to 50 miles per hour in the country and from 20 to 30 miles per hour in thickly populated areas.

In the last analysis the responsibility for safe driving rests squarely on the individual driver. When he deplores the numerous accidents, he should ask himself if the highways would be safer or more dangerous if all drivers exercised the same degree of caution as he customarily does. The mechanical factor does not seem to enter into many mishaps. In most cases the only things defective about the cars are the drivers. Perhaps stricter regulations could weed out many dangerous drivers, but the drivers themselves should do their part, and keep off the road when their mental or physical powers are in any way deficient.—Free Press.

HOW TO KILL YOUR TOWN

Always cultivate the idea that you can do better in some other town.

Denounce your merchants because they are trying to make a living here.

Glory in the downfal of any man who has done much to improve your own town.

Get all you can out of the town and the merchants, but spend your money somewhere else.

Tell the merchants that you can buy elsewhere cheaper, you probably can't but charge them with being extortionists anyway.

Always believe everything that peddlers and specialty agents tell you and buy from them. You could no doubt, do better at your own stores but don't ever, ever do that.

If a stranger stops in town tell him to go on to the next place.

Call your merchants and the place where you live, as the meanest on earth.

Always have your mind firmly made up before you go into any of your home stores, that you simply can't get anything to suit you there.

And now after having religiously done all of the above, you ought to have the satisfaction of very shortly seeing your town reduced to a small burg with possibly a general store, a service station or two, and a postoffice.

All this may not have enhanced the value of your property any or improved your own living conditions, but you don't care.—The Canadian Statesman.

STILL UNCHALLENGED

Bookish people are so amazed by the tremendous sales of "Gone With the Wind" that learned articles have been written discussing its appeal. It has remained at the top of best-seller lists month after month, with sales of more than a million in a little more than a year.

The publishing world is practically agog with it. And yet this modern book will have a long way to go to beat the record of another book, a million copies of which have just been bought by the Georgia state board of education at one crack. The board is going to see that every Georgia school-child has a copy.

"Gone with the Wind" will have to sell many more millions of copies and keep up the pace for 500 years before it will approach the mark set by the Bible.—Calgary Albertan.

An absent-minded person always should tell the truth.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

As Written by SHEPARD BARCLAY

LEARN THE COMBINATIONS

Confronted by the certainty of losing one trump trick, a declarer should try to play the suit in such a way that he cannot possibly lose two. his sometimes entails the necessity of taking the loser at once rather than later on. Study of the various suit combinations and distributions to catalogue these plays clearly will pay big dividends to anyone with the patience to undertake it.

North: ♠ 10 4 3 ♥ A Q 4 ♦ 9 6 4 2 ♣ K 8 2

West: ♠ Q ♥ 9 8 5 2 ♦ Q 8 7 3 ♣ J 10 9 4

East: ♠ J 9 7 6 ♥ J 10 3 ♦ K J 10 ♣ Q 6 3

South: ♠ A K 8 5 2 ♥ K 7 6 ♦ A 5 ♣ A 7 5

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable).

After reaching a contract of 4-Spades here, South realized, after the lead of the Club J, that the hand contained one Club loser and one Diamond, so he could afford only one trump loser.

The Club K won the first trick and the Spade 3 was led to the Spade A, on which West dropped the Spade Q. Declarer's problem now is to decide whether West had false-carded in the hope of getting a trick with the J, or wether the Q was a singleton and the remainder of the trumps were held by East.

South realized that if he now cashed the Spade K and West did not hold the J, the contract could not be made, as East would then win two trump tricks. He therefore decided that the safest way to play for a sure game was to allow West to win the second trump trick with the J, if he held it, or to allow East to win it if the outstanding trumps were bunched in that hand.

He was rewarded for his consideration of the matter, for it developed that East held four to the J-9 and was able to win only one trump trick with his J. South being able to come through the 9-7 holding.

TOMORROW'S PROBLEM

North: ♠ K 3 ♥ A Q 10 8 ♦ 9 3 2 ♣ A 9 7 6

East: ♠ 8 6 4 2 ♥ 9 7 2 ♦ A 10 5 ♣ Q 5 3

South: ♠ A Q J 5 ♥ 8 6 4 ♦ K Q 8 ♣ K 10 4

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable).

With the Diamond 4 led against South's 6-No Trump contract, how should he play to make the contract?

NELSON GIRL SOFTBALLERS BEAT TRAIL TO WIN THE PROVINCE CUP

Take Deciding Game by 7-4 Score on Trail Diamond

With Hazel Spiers on the mound and Jean Spiers behind the plate, starring in the battery roles, and their re-arranged line-up playing heads-up ball all the way, the Nelson reps defeated the Trail reps 7-4 in Trail on Sunday afternoon in the seventh and final game of the West Kootenay girls' softball title series for the Vancouver Daily Province trophy. The Nelson girls have copped the title and large trophy in three of the four years it has been up for competition. The game was witnessed by the largest crowd ever to watch a softball game in Trail, and a large number of Nelson fans made themselves heard.

Hazel Spiers had her fast ball working to perfection and was given great support by her sister behind the plate. The Nelson pitcher fanned 11 batters and did not issue a free transportation to first base, while holding the Trail club to five scattered hits. Hazel Spiers' strikeout record for the 1937 season stands at 198.

In the last inning with Trail officials and fans, still hoping for their favorites to come through, the Nelson pitcher fanned Eliza Edwards and Hazel Mawdsley in succession, and then Elvera Matheson made a great shoe-string catch of Cora Miller's live drive.

The winners scored two runs in the opening inning, Jean Spiers hitting a long triple to right field. In the third the Nelson players added four runs to take a 6-0 lead, on four clean hits and an error. Trail was blanked until the sixth inning when they scored three runs on one hit and a costly error in the outfield. In the eighth, Sadie Jones of Trail, poled out the only homer of the game, but the Nelson girls came right back with another run in their half of the inning when Elvera Matheson and Rosa Stewart hit safely.

Lillian Hickey, who was subbing for Isabel Donovan at the hot corner, played a great game although she has only had one practice in a month, and although charged with three errors, handled seven other hard-hit balls cleanly.

Cora Miller, on the mound for the Trail club, also pitched a fine game, allowing 10 hits, fanning six and duplicating Hazel Spiers' record of no walks. Following the game the smart Trail pitcher was the first to congratulate her mound opponent and the Nelson players. Isabel Wright third base, Anne Gavrilik, second, and Lillian Ostwald, left field, played smart ball in the field for the losers, the last named player making two of the greatest catches of the series.

TENNIS COURTS SUFFER DAMAGE IN CLOUDBURST

In the Friday afternoon cloudburst which dug small gulleys in Nelson's more sloping streets and littered Baker street with mud, sticks and stones, a drain pipe in the court house tennis courts could not withstand the terrific force of the water and burst, digging a hole about two feet deep in the centre of the courts. The water then proceeded to the provincial jail buildings where, it is reported, several feet of water was found in the garage.

The rain did extensive damage in gardens in and about town, beating down plants and digging ditches in the gardens.

Nelson to Travel to Rossland for Lacrosse Tonight

Nelson boxla team travels to Rossland tonight, and with the end of the current round in sight, will be all out to maintain the supremacy over the Redmen they established in a sparkling victory on their home floor Friday night.

Playoff time is "just around the corner" and the lads will be all out to hit the stride that carried them last year from the league cellar to the league title. Rossland has been driving for a title for a long time, though, and missed it only by inches last season in the finals. They want to write a different picture this year.

CUBS TAKE TWO

CHICAGO, Aug. 8 (AP)—One-hit pitching by Tex Carleton in the opener and timely hitting by young Phil Cavarretta in both games enabled the league-leading Chicago Cubs to sweep a doubleheader from Boston Bees 3-0 and 3-2 today.

The twin triumphs gave them the series, four games to one, and increased their margin over the second place Giants to six games.

A double by Elburt Fletcher, Boston first baseman, was the only safety off Carleton as the slim Texan turned in his 10th victory against three defeats.

With the bases loaded in the eighth inning in the nightcap, Cavarretta singled home the tieing and winning runs that defeated Lou Fette.

First game:

Boston	0	1	1
Chicago	3	7	1

Turner, Lanning and Mueller; Carleton and Hartnett.

Second game:

Boston	2	11	0
Chicago	3	8	0

Fette and Mueller; Root, Parmelee, Shoun and O'Dea.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 8 (AP)—Jim Weaver, Pittsburgh's big righthander, muffled New York Giants with three hits for a 3-0 triumph today, to divide a doubleheader. The visitors walked away with a 10-2 victory in the opener.

Cliff Melton limited the Pirates to six safetles in the first game while his mates were pounding three hurlers for 13 hits. It was his 12th win.

Mel Ott smacked his 23rd home run of the season in the fourth inning of the first tussle.

First game:

New York	10	13	0
Pittsburgh	2	6	1

Melton and Danning; Brown, Bowman, Swift and Todd.

Second game:

Joe Medwick added three more homers to his season's total, getting two in the opener and his 26th in the second inning of the final.

Batting Leaders

By the Associated Press

The three National league members of baseball's hitting "big six" all lost ground, Ducky Medwick, the leader, falling below .400 by getting only three hits in 10 times at bat.

TOP + TOSSERS In the Majors

Lefty Lee Thomas Grissom, rising young left-handed pitching star of the Cincinnati Reds, may or may not be the fastest pitcher in baseball, but such is the claim of many National leaguers. In fact, some ball observers say he is the fastest southpaw of all time, even surpassing Lefty Grove.

Lee has been priming for the majors for several seasons. The Reds purchased him from Beckley, W.Va., of the Middle Atlantic league, as far back as 1934, and he did pitch a couple of games with the Reds that season. However, he was as wild as a goose, and was sent to Fort Worth of the Texas league.

Lee showed plenty of stuff this year in the training camp and he was given plenty of rookie ballyhoo. It looks now as if he's arrived, for he boasts of an impressive record.

Born in Sherman, Tex., in 1912, Lefty Lee is six feet two inches tall and weighs 200 pounds. He bats right-handed. He lives in California. Once he pitched two shut-outs in one day. He was one of the National league pitchers in the recent all-star game.

Singles Events for the Men's and Ladies' Open Labor Day

Golfers from all over the East and West Kootenays will be flocking to Nelson for the annual Leith cup and Kootenay Breweries trophy tournaments opening here Labor day.

These tourneys annually draw 30 or 40 golfers from many points of the district, Kaslo, Willow Point, Trail, Rossland, Tadanac, Creston and other East Kootenay points. It is the fall parallel to the annual Kootenay Golf association tournaments staged in the early part of the season. A large entry is expected this year.

Both tourneys are no handicap events. Qualifying rounds for either tourney commence August 25 and close September 1. Tourney play opens September 4 and closes the following Monday.

Leith cup is a men's open singles event and the Kootenay Breweries a ladies' open singles.

Ladies auxiliary of the golf club will arange entertainment for the visitors, it is expected.

Regular members of the match committee, Roy Pollard, Robert Watson, Vic Owen and Blan Marley, will be in charge of the tournaments.

EIGHTH STRAIGHT FOR YANKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)— For the first time in 11 games, the homer-hitting bats of the Yankees were spiked today, but despite this handicap, they squeezed through with a 6-5 decision over Cleveland Indians to stretch their winning streak to eight straight.

MURRAY CLARK IS WINNER SATURDAY IN DONKEY RACE

Murray "Buck" Clark, riding "Jack Benny" won the two-block donkey classic on Vernon street Saturday afternoon, defeating a field of Victor Folz on "Jimmy Foxx", Frank Wells on "Pepper Martin" and E. J. Goos on "Eddie Cantor".

The race started in front of the post office, went two blocks down Vernon street and returned to the post office. A crowd of about 100 people, gathered to watch the contest of speed and "stickonability" and cameras were clicking everywhere getting a lensful of Nelson's prize jockeys.

Hockey in England Suffering From "Growing Pains"; Money for "Amateurs" Causes Grief

By I. NORMAN SMITH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 8 (CP)—Hockey, which has gone ahead in England with long strides in the last few years, is suffering from growing pains. The game over here is tied up pretty tightly with commercialism, since the public doesn't play and the promoters aren't in it for the fun of the thing.

Canadian players—"amateurs" receiving broad-minded expense accounts—have shown the country that the game combines all the maneouvres and team play of English football plus the added speed of ice. And the public has been quick to get the bug.

But the bug is causing some trouble. There were 11 teams in the National league of last year, but next season, it is announced, the circuit will carry on with seven—Harringay Rovers, Harringay Greyhounds, Wembley Lions, Wembley Monarchs, Earls Court Rangers, Brighton Tigers, and Streatham.

Briefly and frankly it seems the trouble is that two of the big-time promoters have been making money and boosting "expense accounts" to the boys who deliver the goods. This is fine business for those concerned, but for the rest of the managers unable to offer such dividends owing to curtailed receipts it looks like a tough year.

NOT SO GOOD

The British Ice Hockey association admits the coming winter isn't shaping up as it might. It is uncertain whether as many Canadian players will be procurable this year. Moreover it is doubtful if positions can be found for them, allowing them to retain their amateur status. The players might turn professional—but if they plan to return to Canada as professionals it would be tough going to make the grade of big time professional hockey.

The ice hockey (you must call it "ice" hockey or they'll think you're talking about the field hockey game played at girls' schools) expert of the London Star stays the smaller rinks are trying to get an agreement with big stadiums of Wembley and Harringay to keep "expense accounts" at a reasonable level.

"The sport has overgrown itself," he was told. "Within three years we are providing people with first-class hockey when 90 per cent of the spectators have not had time to develop a real appreciation of even 10th rate hockey.

"It has meant importing crack players from other countries at increasing fees, and—more important—it has meant disregarding our own players.

NONE BEING TRAINED

"No young people have been trained, and we now find ourselves completely dependent on the Canadians. Ice hockey has attained a popularity here in three years that it has taken America 50 to achieve. Whether London rinks will be able to reach a compromise before the season starts in October, nobody knows. Indications are none too hopeful. Unless the large rinks, where there are bigger audiences and other attractions, agree to climb down, many of us will be facing a financial crisis."

It is said, in fact, that the Canadian players are talking of boycotting English rinks this coming winter if the "right expenses" are not paid.

Outsiders Win in Coast Games

VANCOUVER, Aug. 7 (CP)—Outside competitors, led by athletes from Vancouver Island and California, today captured places in 12 out of 19 senior men's track and field at the Caledonian games here.

Performances by Stan Anderson of San Francisco, Bill Dale of Victoria, Chuck Cunningham of Victoria and Martin Naylor of Powell River, were outstanding amongst the visitors.

Anderson placed first in the 16 pound shot put event with a heave of 44 feet, 3 inches and first in the discus throw. In the latter event he threw the disc 131 feet 5½ inches.

Dale, Victoria "Y" man, took first place honors. In the hop, step and leap event he won with a distance of 41 feet, six inches, and in the half mile he was first to breast the tape in a time of two minutes, 3-10 seconds.

Cunningham placed in two events, running second to Dale in the half mile and third in the mile.

Naylor, the Powell River contestant showed speed to place first in the 220 yard event with a time of 23 seconds flat and second in the 100 yard sprint.

D. R. A. MEET TO OPEN TODAY

CONNAUGHT RIFLE RANGES, South March, Ont., August 8 (CP)—Canada's crack sharpshooters, gathered from coast to coast, cleaned and greased rifles here today in preparation for the opening tomorrow of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association annual meeting.

REMEMBER WHEN?

(By The Canadian Press)

Lou Brouillard, French-Canadian won the world's middleweight boxing title at New York four years ago tonight. He sprawled Ben Jeby to the canvas in seven rounds and held the crown only a few months, losing to Vince Dundee, October 30, the same year.

Matthews' Eleven Takes Touring British Cricketers by 10 Wickets

TORONTO, Aug. 8 (CP)—The touring Marylebone Cricket club team left for Winnipeg tonight after being defeated by the big margin of 10 wickets in the concluding match of its visit to central Ontario. Hon. R. C. Matthews' Canadian eleven lowered the English team's colors Saturday, the defeat being the first recorded against the visitors since a tour opened last Monday.

Apart from clever performances by K. A. Sellar and C. H. Taylor, the touring eleven could do little against the strong Canadian team. In the two-day contest the home players made 288 and seven runs for no wickets, M.C.C. responding with 147 and 137.

Five matches were played during the week, the visitors being successful against a western Ontario eleven and drawing against two representative Toronto teams and united colleges at Ridley college, St. Catharines.

Tired after their strenuous week, the players welcomed the two days' respite before they oppose the St. George Cricket club of Winnipeg in a two-day game starting Tuesday.

The fielding and bowling strength of the Matthews team came as something of a revelation to the English cricketers. The Canadians kept the Englishmen in the field most of Friday, scoring 208 runs.

Sellar, the Navy and Sussex player who is even better known as an English rugby international, hit 46 and 111 in his turns at the wicket, Taylor playing a fine, defensive first innings that netted 44 runs.

Looks Creston Over for Alberta Cannery

CRESTON, B. C.—C. Johnston, a representative of the Broder cannery at Taber, Alta., visited Creston Thursday and during his stay canvassed the cannery situation in conferences with Frank Putnam, M.P.P., C. B. Twigg, district agriculturist, and H. A. Powell, secretary of Creston board of trade.

It would appear that at Taber the firm have an excellent supply of peas, beans and corn for canning purposes, but that locality does not produce a satisfactory tomato.

Tomatoes are the big seller with the canners and Broder's look on the dyked lands at Creston as likely to give them the desired tonnage, both in quality and quantity.

Judging from conversations with Mr. Johnson about 500 acres, or enough to give them a month's run, is what is wanted, and if the desired quantity can be secured the firm will be willing to put in a plant to handle everything, commencing with strawberries.

Mr. Twigg was able to give the visitor the acreage planted in tomatoes on the bench lands, and also the output for the past several years but the crops of past years would hardly keep a plant running a single day.

Mr. Johnston was inquisitive as to dates of frosts, both in the spring and fall, in order to guage the growing season. He also was provided with approximate dates of the start of volume shipping in tomatoes and the probable date of the first start of volume shipping in tomatoes and the probable date of the first killing frost. On the flats it is hardly likely a month's run could be looked for as frosts are encountered there earlier than on the bench lands, which might provide a 30-day harvest before a 4-degree freeze.

Rails made a better showing despite indications wage boosts will cut sharply into net income. At the same time, there were thoughts the United States Interstate Commerce Commission may grant higher freight rates.

56-6 Score Ladies Softball at Natal

NATAL, B.C.—Natal Co-eds, ladies' softball team of Natal-Michel, established somewhat of a record when they trounced Natal Married Ladies in a challenge game recently to the tune of 56-6. A large crowd enjoyed the game regardless of the one-sided score.

After scoring four runs in the first inning the Co-eds were never headed and finished the game in great style by a 27-run rally in the ninth inning. Home runs were plentiful, every player getting at least one during the game. The challenge game came about after the Co-eds nosed out the Married Ladies in the softball tournament held at Natal Dominion day by a 13-11 score. The game was umpired by D. Diana of Natal. Batteries were M. Lazarul and H. Katrichak for the Co-eds and Mrs. F. Holub and Mrs. F. Brandies for the Married Ladies.

The lineups:

Natal Co-eds—M. Lazaruk, H. Katrichak, E. Mihalynuk, M. Gergel, M. Oley, A. Chala, A. Serefini, R. Dagnola, M. Feranec.

Natal Married Ladies—Mrs. F. Holub, Mrs. F. Brandies, Mrs. G. Sofko, Mrs. W. Mihalynuk, Mrs. J. Halko, Mrs. J. Perchinsky, Mrs. J. Shangala, Mrs. M. Anselmo, Mrs. H. Eberts.

FIRE NEAR NATAL

NATAL, B. C.—The first forest fire of the season was reported last week at Brewery Creek about 15 miles west of Natal, up the Elk Valley. Fire warden Laddick of Fernie had it under control before damage was done. Lightning is believed to have caused the blaze.

Metal Markets

LONDON EXCHANGE CLOSED

LONDON, August 8, (AP)— The stock exchange was closed Saturday.

NEW YORK, August 8, (AP)—Copper steady: electrolytic spot and future 14.00; export 14.70-80.

WINNIPEG GAINS

WINNIPEG, Aug. 8 (CP)—Firmness in United States markets and forecasts of showers over the Canadian prairies which probably would hamper harvest operations brought light support to a dull session on the Winnipeg grain exchange Saturday.

At close wheat was unchanged to 1.4 cent higher, October at $1.25, December $1.22⅛-¼, May $1.23⅞.

Export business in Canadian wheat was confined to small lots. Strength of Chicago corn appeared to be the principal market cue Saturday and little nervousness was caused by declines at Liverpool, where wheat closed 1⅛-1½d lower. Buenos Aires closed ⅜ cents higher.

Tunnel at Depth Under Way Eureka

Fifteen miles west of Kaslo Commodore mines are driving a lower tunnel at the Eureka, designed to cut the vein at a depth of 1350 feet, reports Roy Wallace, manager of the Commodore, the Spokesman-Review states.

"Ore has been shipped from the 350 foot level," he said.

'A good showing has been encountered in the lower tunnel and indications are that a larger and richer ore body will be opened at the lower level as the vein disclosed is becoming wider as the drift proceeds.

"A larger crew has been employed and living quarters have been enlarged. The stockholders are largely residents of Walla Walla."

Dividends

Sylvanite Gold Mines Ltd., five cents, payable September 30 to shareholders of record August 16.

Corn Price Jumps

CHICAGO, August 7, (AP)—Three cents a bushel jump of corn prices today resulted from the first serious trade concern shown for the safety of the 1937 corn crop.

Prolonged hot, dry weather led to complaints that the leaves of corn are firing throughout widespread areas. A majority of traders, however, leaned to belief that despite lack of moisture the general corn crop outlook remains favorable.

At the close, corn was 1⅝-2⅜ cents above yesterdays finish, Sept. $1.01⅞-.02, Dec. 68⅞-69, May 70-70⅛, wheat unchanged to 1¼ up, Sept. $1.12⅞-1.13⅛, Dec. $1.13⅝-¾, May $1.15⅜-½, oats ⅛-½ advanced, Dec. 30¾-⅞, and rye showing ⅜-⅝ bulge, Dec. 81⅝. Provisions results varied from 5 cents setback to 15 cents gain.

MARINE INSURANCE RATE INTO HUDSON BAY CUT

OTTAWA, August 8, (CP)—A substantial reduction in marine insurance rates for ships, equipped with gyro compass, sailing into Hudson Bay is announced in the 8th report of the Imperial Shipping Committee. This cut is from 17 shillings and sixpence to 15 shillings on the insured value of vessels, or in the neighborhood of 14 per cent. The reduction works out as a saving of more than $5000 on a ship of 5000 tons gross valued at $250,000 for three voyages.

RIDGETOWN, Ont (CP)—Dreams can be dangerous, Katherine Clark has discovered. While dreaming she was riding a bicycle, she fell out of bed and suffered a broken leg.

KITCHENER, Ont., (CP)—Smoky Joe is tough. He is the Kitchener fire department's new mascot. The first day Smoky took the job he curled up on the rear axle of the chief's car and was catapulted out when the chief left in a hurry. The next day Smoky went to sleep under the exhaust of the fire truck, and was he burned up?

Over 200 baseball fans saw Gordon Richardson meet disaster when nailed in a squeeze play between first and second in the final canto of a West Kootenay-International fixture Sunday that brought to a close a hard-fought battle shoving Salmo into a third-place league tie under the impetus of a 6-5 score. The Nelson nine, vanquished, sunk into fifth place after at one time looking a cinch for second place honors.

Pitcher Humble, backed by splendid fielding support, held the Nelson boys scoreless until the seventh when he weakened slightly. During this time the Salmo team run up a 5-0 score, Gibbons, McDougall, McLennan and Moore crossing the home plate.

The Lake city aggregation eager to take advantage of Humble's weakening scored heavily in the seventh and Robinson, McInnis and Stewart made the trip around the sacks. In the eighth, Ross, and in the ninth, Steve Smith countered for the home squad. The boys were running wild and looked good to tie the game, but their hopes were tumbled when Richardson was caught in a hot box with two down.

Anderson, Salmo, banged the apple for a triple, Gibbons, Salmo and Stewart, Nelson, garnered doubles.

Winnipeg Six Wins Grand Aggregate in Canoe Tests

CARTIERVILLE, Que., Aug. 8 — (CP)—Six bronzed youths from Winnipeg Canoe club made paddling history Saturday on the old back river course of the Cartierville Boating club, winning for the west its first grand aggregate at the Canadian Canoe association national championships.

The six swept four firsts and three seconds for 26 points and a smashing upset triumph over the east's greatest blade wielders. Toronto Balmy Beach placed second with 16 points, and Gananoque Canoe and Motor Boat club third with 15.

So outstanding were the Winnipeg paddlers, led by the Doug Groff-Lundy Lyall Tanden team, that regatta officials acclaimed them among the best to show in the national championships.

Two Canadian records fell before the day-long assault by some 400 paddlers from 20 clubs. Balmy Beach's war canoe boatload retained their championship in the mile specialty and smashed one of the records in doing so. Paul Porter stroked his men over the straightaway—this was one of the two events in which the turn was abolished—in five minutes, 48 3-5 seconds, 6 2-5 seconds below the old mark.

The outstanding four in the field, Gananoque's Gord and Stan Potter, smashed the other mark in the Fred Dillon and Gord Douglass, double blade half-mile, handing the Winnipeggers one of their four defeats by threshing the course in three minutes and 12 seconds compaired to the 3.33 record time.

Hot Weather Doesn't Bother These Five Little Girls

Hot weather—and it does get hot at Callendar, Ont.—doesn't worry the famed Dionne quintuplets. At the least sign of the mercury rising the five little sisters take to the water, and in their own private pool, too. From the expressions on their faces as they splashed in the wading pool it seems they think it a good idea. The sand shovels that Annette, Marie, Yvonne, Cecile and Emilie have are perhaps just the thing to make a big splash.
