Eden Regrets Action of Hitler Regarding Navigation

MOSCOW, Nov. 16 (AP)—Soviet Russia declined tonight to accept a sharply-worded German protest against the jailing of 23 German citizens, held incommunicado on charges of espionage and of being involved in a Fascist plot against Russia.

N. N. Kirestinsky, Soviet vice commissar for foreign affairs, advised the German charge d'affaires, Werner von Tippleskirch, that he was "unable" to receive the complaint.

The protest, declaring the arrests were "extremely aggravating" and certain to strain relations between the two countries, demanded immediate proof of the charges against the imprisoned Germans.

Rebels Mass Tanks, Troops for Big Push Into Madrid

Legionnaires Sweep Into University Part of the Capital; 50 Madrid Homes Afire

AT LEAST 60 KILLED IN REBEL AIR RAIDS

Night Attack Directed at Station; Crowds Flee Into Subways; Buildings Wrecked

WITH INSURGENTS OUTSIDE MADRID, Nov. 16 (AP)—Attacking Fascist insurgents tonight massed tanks and infantry to make Madrid's streets and plazas the next battlefields of the Spanish civil war.

The hard-driving advance units of General Francisco Franco's Moorish legionnaires were announced officially to have swept into small sections of the university city district in the northwest part of the capital.

Behind them the insurgent high command packed serried ranks of regulars and swift baby tanks, ready to surge forward as soon as the front line leaders flashed word the way into the city proper had been blasted open.

MADRID AGLARE

MADRID, Nov. 17 (Tuesday) — (AP)—Madrid was aglare early today with bright flames and red smoke after an insurgent artillery and air bombardment had killed at least 60 persons and set fire to about 50 houses.

Incessant rifle and machine gun fire was heard from University City, in the northwestern corner of Madrid, as defending militiamen tried ot fight back insurgents attempting to push into that section from the Cuatro Caminos district.

The insurgents, in a surprise attack, occupied the former British American hospital in the Cuatro Caminos district, and government forces opened an intensive attack in an effort to dislodge them.

Many houses in Madrid caught fire from artillery shells, while incendiary bombs set others ablaze.

150 WOUNDED

More than 150 persons were wounded or injured in the shelling and the three air raids of yesterday (Monday) which occurred at 2:30 p.m., 7 p.m. and 8 p.m.

During the third air attack—after nightfall—the insurgent planes loosed bombs on the Atocha station near the parliament buildings.

The insurgent attempt to push into University City last night came after the government had declared a small body of insurgents, after penetrating that district within the confines of Madrid proper, had been driven out after 12 hours' fighting.

The defence Junta declared five

Three Shot, Two Are Beaten to Death in Alberta

LETTER EXPLAINS, BUT IS WITHHELD

Killer's Attempt to Hide Own Body Is a Failure

TIELAND, Alta., Nov. 16 (CP)—A coroner's jury here tonight returned verdict that Karl Schvests, 40, former Northern Alberta Railways section foreman, killed five persons by shooting or bludgeoning them, then ended his own life with a rifle bullet in his temple.

TIELAND, Alta., Nov. 16 (CP)—A cat "with blood all over its paws" led to the discovery of the death of six persons in a wholesale shooting that wiped out the entire population of this little railway stop over the week-end, Joseph Garry said today.

After telling of being shot at and of how another man was threatened by a gunman at the settlement 100 miles north of Edmonton, Garry stated he saw the cat and "got an inkling something was wrong." Five persons were slain and the alleged killer's body was found later, a rifle in one hand and a bullet in his brain.

Carl Nelson, northern Alberta railways section foreman, was shot in the third quintuplet slaying in Alberta in recent years, his 23-year-old wife and three-year-old son were beaten to death. John Marciniuk, 35, section hand, and George Ruel, 55, settler, were shot.

Montana Pilot Drops Food and First Aid Kit to Men

One of Trio Injured; Sighted in a Narrow Ravine; Will Take Three Days to Reach Them Overland, It Is Believed

WARNS GIRLS NOT TO "CHISEL"

VANCOUVER, Nov. 16 (CP). — Four hundred delegates to the third annual conference of Vancouver Girls' Hi-Y association are wondering today whether Dean M. L. Bollert of the University of British Columbia was right when she told them girls did "too much chiseling nowadays."

In her address on "Boy and girl dates" Miss Bollert gave two rules for the girl who wants to be socially successful.

"First, friendship should be the basis of all association," she said. "Second, a girl should observe the requirements of chivalry as much as a boy. There's too much chiseling nowadays."

PLANE IS FLAGGED BY WAVING SHIRT

G. Urbannin, J. Stevens and B. Grave Missing Since Oct. 29

CORBIN, B.C., Nov. 16 (CP)—Lost 18 days in the rugged Canadian and American Rockies, three Corbin hunters, one of them injured, were sighted by a Montana pilot and his observer today, south of here near the international boundary.

The trio—George Urbannin, 19, John Stevens, 27, and Billy Grave, 36—were discovered in a narrow ravine so remote that rescue parties will be unable to reach them overland for at least three days. The terrain is too rough to allow an airplane to land.

On October 29 the men left Corbin in search of game. Neighbors expressed fears for their safety when they failed to return, and search parties were organized. The men had not been seen until sighted from the air today although traces of a camp-site had been found.

SUCCEED FIRST DAY

Early today Pilot George Smith, and Ewart Jackson, his observer, took up the search. They were about to return to their Montana base, unsuccessful, when a shirt waved by one of the party attracted their attention.

As the plane circled the ravine both pilot and observer noticed

MAN ON ROAD MILE FROM PLANT IS KILLED BY FLYING STONE; FIRE FOLLOWED BY A SERIES OF BLASTS

TWO MINERS ARE ENTOMBED

SUPERIOR, Mont., Nov. 16 (AP) — Occasional sounds emerging from the crumbling, water-soaked mine tunnel where two gold miners, A. Gustafson and B. Gevart were entombed by a cave-in 48 hours ago, caused rescue workers to double their efforts tonight.

They scarcely dared hope the trapped men were alive, and said they were unable to determine whether the noises were made by the men or came from more falling gravel inside the tunnel.

Doukhobor Dies, Slashed Throat

Allegedly Suicide; On Way Visit Son at Grand Forks

En route from Kamsack, Sask., to Grand Forks, a Doukhobor got off the Canadian Pacific train at Fernie Sunday morning apparently believing someone was intending to take away his money. Found later with his throat cut, he died Monday afternoon. The wound was allegedly self-inflicted.

Details received at provincial police divisional headquarters at Nelson were meagre, and an investigation was under way to locate relatives. It was understood he was on his way to visit a son at Grand Forks.

Chimneys Topple and Windows Shatter All Around

FIRE DISCOVERED IN A STOREHOUSE

Explosions Heard for 10 Miles; Roar Is Deafening

SAINT CHAMAS, France, Nov. 16 (AP).—One of France's biggest powder factories blew up today, killing 35 persons and injuring more than 200.

Army officers directing the rescue work said there were 35 known dead, including a man walking along the Estres-Saint Chamus road more than a mile from the scene who was killed by a stone hurled through the air by the explosion.

Many of those injured were in serious condition, the officers said, some so badly mangled and scarred identification was impossible.

The entire town was shaken by the series of explosions which could be heard for 10 miles throughout the countryside.

The first thunderous blast in one of the storehouses sent a column of smoke and flames roaring into the sky.

Before trapped workers in the factory had time to run for their lives, the gendarmes said, a shower of flaming timbers struck the roofs of other storehouses and the factory itself, causing quick successive explosions.

Chimneys were knocked down and windows shattered all over the town, whose terrified inhabitants to a man rushed to the scene.

Rescuers dug into the wreckage dragging out body after body as the little town in a few hours was turned into one large hospital.

Victims included Pierre la Rocque, manager of the factory, and among the injured was the mayor of Saint Chamas, struck down by hurtling debris 200 yards from the scene.

The mayor said a watchman first discovered fire in one of the storehouses in which explosives were stored.

The siren was sounded immediately. Manager La Rocque and a number of workers rushed from the factory to the storehouse, which blew up with a deafening roar when they were but a few yards from its door.

Appledale Man Is Alleged to Have Thrown Pepper In Eyes of Sheriff and Officer Carrying Out Eviction

John Fink Jailed on Charge Assaulting "Public Officer"

Alleged to have thrown pepper in the eyes of Sheriff M. E. Harper and Provincial Police Constable R. H. MacIntosh when they attempted to carry out an eviction order, John Fink of Appledale is lodged in the provincial jail at Nelson on a charge of assaulting Sheriff Harper, "a public officer then and there engaged in the execution of his duties." Placed under arrest Saturday, Fink was brought to jail and Monday morning appeared before Stipendiary Magistrate John Cartmel. The hearing was remanded to Wednesday morning.

It is alleged that Fink refused to move off the Highfield property, which lies between Appledale and Perry's Siding, as directed in an eviction order.

Notice that he must move out within a specified time was served by Corporal C. W. A. Barwis of the provincial police. When the sheriff and police party went to the property Saturday Fink still occupied it and it is said, threatened the party with a pitchfork.

It is alleged that the pepper-throwing incident occurred when Sheriff Harper and Constable MacIntosh followed Fink into the house. Fink was then arrested and the sheriff's men carried out the eviction.

Rogers Points Out Building Mining Roads to Help Mining Development

"To Create Collateral Employment" Is the Objective of Relief Projects, He Says

VICTORIA, Nov. 16 (CP) — Low cost housing including home rehabilitation, construction of tourist highways and mining roads, encouragement of forestry and farm employment and development of the country's external trade, are policies framed by the federal government to take up the unemployment slack in Canada, Labor Minister Rogers said here today.

N. L. ROGERS

"We are confident that as a result of the policies formulated and being put into effect by the government substantial progress will be made in the relief of unemployment," said Mr. Rogers, in an interview.

"We have built up an organization which can meet the problem successfully," said the minister. "We fully realize, however, the magnitude of the problem."

Mr. Rogers is making his first trip to the Pacific coast since he took over the portfolio of labor. He is making a survey of unemployment situation and personally acquainting himself with the problems peculiar to every section of the country.

Mr. Rogers stressed the point that in considering public works programs it was first of all necessary to seek the type of project which could be economically justified, from its immediate utility as a relief project. In other words they must be works of value.

"It is our objective to create collateral employment," he said in support of such projects as construction of mining roads, which would bring about mining development and in turn create employment.

NEWLYWEDS ARE PAID HONOR BY CASTLEGARITES

CASTLEGAR, B.C.—Wednesday evening was an extremely joyous one at the Castlegar Community hall when close to 200 persons were present at a miscellaneous shower, given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. L. Watson, who were married recently in Trail. The hall was artistically decorated in colors of white, pink and blue. One corner, set with small tables, was given the appearance of a little room, delightfully set off with pink and white streamers and blinking lights. The many gifts were arranged there.

During the early part of the evening the following items, interspersed with dancing provided much entertainment for the guests. The program included a song by Alex (Smokey) Miller; a song "When I Grow Too Old to Dream," by Ruth Foss; a relay game in which practically everyone participated; the action song, "No, No, a Thousand Times No," by Ruth Foss, Eleanor and Marian Pratt; a piano solo by Marjorie Houston; a duet by Helen Magee and Margaret Miller. Piano accompaniments were rendered by Mrs. D. Magee and T. Pratt.

After this portion of the program Mrs. Magee, with very fitting words, introduced and extended a cordial greeting to the bride and groom. At this time Dorothy Dams and Donna Wallner dressed as bride and groom, respectively, entered the hall drawing a miniature caravan decorated with pink, blue and white fringes, and ladened with many beautiful gifts. Donna Wallner, in a very impressive address, presented the gifts on behalf of those present at the hall. After the opening of the gifts Louis Watson expressed his deepest thanks for the kindness shown to him and Mrs. Watson.

While the tables were being set for supper music was provided by Charlie Williams and his aids. The tables were pleasingly decorated with chrysanthemums of various colors, and place-cards, in the shape of flags set off the different places. In front of the bride and groom stood a beautifully decorated three-tier wedding cake with a miniature bride and groom on the side of it. At the end of the supper T. L. Bloomer gave an interesting address using a few humorous illustrations. L. Watson responded once again expressing his sincerest gratification and thanks to those friends present. With everyone standing at their places a few old-time soldiers' songs were sung with Johnnie Wilson of Trail at the piano. Helen Magee entertained further with a song and tap dance, the accompaniment being given by Mrs. D. Magee. The final item was a few cowboy songs rendered by Alex Finch who has at previous times, been sponsored over Vancouver station CJOR. The remainder of the evening was taken up with dancing to the music of the orchestra. Guests invited were from Castlegar, Robson, Nelson, Thrums, Trail and Procter.

Railroad Men Urge Rehabilitation Fund as a Part of Compensation

Also Ask Rate of Compensation Be Raised to 75 Per Cent and More Diseases Included; Well Received by Cabinet Says Sutherland

Returning from Victoria, where the representatives of the railroad brotherhoods and orders placed before the Pattullo cabinet their recommendations for new legislation, and received "a fair and attentive hearing," with the promise that their proposals would be taken under consideration. Alex. Sutherland, chairman of the provincial legislative board of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, reports other social legislation overshadowed by the government's big health insurance job.

Health insurance, he states, is under consideration by several other provincial governments, and the angle he brought back from meeting at Ottawa recently representatives from different provinces was that "it will not be long until it will be adopted by other provinces."

Establishment of a rehabilitation fund, with expenditure in any one year limited to $50,000, was one of a large number of additions proposed to the workmen's compensation scheme. It was also urged that compensation for injured workmen be raised to 75 per cent of the wage earned at time of injury. Seven new kinds of disabilities on which compensation should be paid were also proposed.

MOTHERS PENSIONS ACTED ON

Recommendation "that the entire cost of mothers' pensions be taken over by the government and made a government responsibility" was the chief specific social proposal of the railroad brotherhoods and orders outside the workmen's compensation field, though they also made some observations on relief, aiming in part to protect wages from depreciation.

Action of the government on mothers' pensions has been along the line recommended, as the government is relieving the municipalities of the share of mothers' pensions put upon them a few years ago.

Following is the complete presentation made on the subject of the Workmen's Compensation act:

"Workmen's Compensation act—If it is the intention of the government at present session to open this act, we respectfully request that the following provisions be included:

COMPENSATION ALLOWANCES

"A. That funeral benefits be $150.

"B. Allowance for widows be $40 per month.

"C. That allowance for dependent children where there is a widow or invalid widower be $10 per month.

"D. That allowance for dependent parents, or other dependents not specified above, be $40 per month.

"E. That provision be made for payment of a lump sum of $100 to the widow, or to the person acting as foster mother, in addition to other allowances provided for in this act.

REHABILITATION FUND

"F. That a rehabilitation fund be established:

"(1). To aid in getting injured workmen back to work and to assist in lessening or removing any handicap result from their injuries; the board may take such measures and make such expenditures as it may deem necessary or expedient, and the expense thereof shall be borne out of the accident fund and may be collected in the same manner as compensation or expenses of administration; provided that the total expenditure under the provisions of this section shall not exceed $50,000 in any one calendar year.

"(2) In the event of the death of an unmarried workman or widower without dependents, a sum of $1000 in addition to funeral expenses will be collected from the employers, to be credited to this fund.

"G. That the age limit be raised from 16 to 18 years where in the opinion of the board the furnishing of further or better education to a child approaching the age of 16 years appears advisable. The board at its discretion may extend the period to which compensation shall be paid in respect to such child for such additional period as is spent by the child in the furthering of his or her education.

"H. That the compensation for injured workmen be 75 per cent.

"I. That compensation be not less than $12.50 per week unless the workmen's average earnings are less than that amount.

UNEMPLOYMENT BE INCAPACITY

"J. If a workman has so far recovered from his injury as to be fit for employment of a certain kind and has failed to obtain such employment, he shall be deemed not to be able to earn wages, and for the purpose of the act be treated as total incapacity resulting from the injury for such period as he may be unemployed.

"K. In cases where an injured worker has been furnished employment, remuneration which is less than formerly earned, his compensation, plus wages paid by his employer, shall not be less than total disability compensation.

"L. That the words '14 days' in subsection 2 of section 7 shall be changed to read 'six days.'

"M. That all diseases such as rheumatism, neuritis, lung ailments, smoke poison, hernia, diseases of the kidneys, deafness or defective eyesight, which are directly traceable to or have arisen out of or in the course of employment of the workmen be considered as disabilities under the act and compensation therefore paid accordingly.

"N. We respectfully recommend that the present chairman, whose term of office we understand has expired, be reappointed, owing to his knowledge of the act, his fairness in adminstering it, and the general and wholesale confidence those coming under the act have in him.

"We wish to reiterate our declaration of former years expressing our unalterable opposition to the establishment of a board of appeal against the final decision of the board."

BASIS OF RELIEF

"Unemployment Relief Measures—We are in accord with a policy by which provincial authorities shall assume responsibility for the initial action necessary to relieve existing human needs within their jurisdiction to the full extent of their financial ability. If unable to cope with current demands for direct relief, we trust that the federal government will continue the policy of assisting those municipal and provincial authorities by every practical means, including that of furnishing the necessary financial assistance. We feel that those citizens who because of varied circumstances have been forced away from the path of self reliance must be fed, clothed and sheltered. To ensure that no citizen shall want for these necessities is a matter of national and provincial concern.

"As a suggested measure of relief, it would seem that the promotion of a program of necessary public works would create an opportunity for many thousands of willing workers to obtain the wherewithall to reestablish some measure of their former economic independence. Any such program should be carried on under supervision which would make impossible the exploitation of those unfortuante victims who are obliged to accept public aid as a mere human existence.

AGAINST FARM DEAL

"We are opposed to the recent agreement entered into by the provincial government with federal authorities whereby unemployed men are placed on farms, the remuneration which tends to reduce earnings of those already employed in that capacity, and generally tends to reduce the whole wage structure.'

BALTIMORE, Nov. 16 (AP). — Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company, said today lower passenger fares on B. & O. trains had proved a financial success.

In his report at the company's annual meeting Willard said he believed the reduced fares responsible for the increased travel which, with "very little additional train mileage, has resulted in increased earnings per train mile of about 10.5 per cent."

Cranbrook School Debators in Win

Uphold Negative in a Democracy Versus Dictator Theme

CRANBROOK, B.C.—A debate of outstanding interest between teams of the Fernie high school and the Cranbrook high school took place in Cranbrook high school auditorium Friday night. The subject for debate was "Resolved that a Dictatorship offers more to the people of a country than a Democracy." The members of the Fernie team upheld the affirmative and the Cranbrook team the negative. Speakers from Fernie were Don McLean, Miss Rose Bicker, and Bob Clemens, and the Cranbrook members were Bill Haynes, Melvin Roberts and Miss Lucille Hamilton. Cranbrook won the debate.

G. C. Barclay acted as chairman, welcoming the members from Fernie. He stated Fernie and Cranbrook schools had met before for hockey, baseball, tennis and several other sports, but that this was the first time they had ever met on the debating platform.

Don McLean, leader for the affirmative, defined the terms of dictatorship and democracy, stating that under a dictatorship the government was supreme and under a democracy the people were supreme. He explained the greater simplicity and unity under a dictatorship such as the complications of passing a bill under democracy are done away with in dictatorship, and the idle time during the change of government in democracy that does not occur in dictatorship.

McLean told of the chances for graft in democracy. He mentioned that the jobs of officials do not change with the government in dictatorship and that politics does not enter when men are being chosen for their positions, they are chosen for their ability and trained for their position at the expense of the government. He mentioned the millions of dollars spent in elections and sessions. He explained the difference in the great unity of a country like Germany or Italy and that of the two great leaders of Canada who oppose each other, but could accomplish much if they would cooperate.

Bill Haynes, Cranbrook, said that the only government working entirely for the people is a democracy. He outlined the democracy of the Scandinavian countries—which are considered the most successful countries in the world. The people of those countries are aided financially by the government to build permanent homes, their living standards and educational standards are high, which are some of the factors that make successful and peaceful nations. He explained that under a dictator the living standards are low, learning has suffered much, and since Nazi power the admittance to schools and universities has been reduced 15 per cent.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH

Haynes told of the freedom of speech and religion under democracy, where German youths must believe as Hitler believes, they are put under arrest if they speak against the government and many of the modern books and modern art has been banned from the country. He stated that dictators, not God, lead the churches in Germany. He gave examples of dictators, both of old and present times, which shown that dictatorship means war, not war for peace, but destructive war for which the youths of those countries are trained.

Miss Rose Bicker of Fernie, for the affirmative, stated that a dictator can view the wants of a whole country and need not please only a few in power. She referred to election promises which are not taken very seriously and only give the opposite party a chance to prove they are better, at the next election. A dictator, she said, could change his policies if necessary without a change of government and without losing the confidence of the people; this gives the country stability, one that is not ruled by the whims of the people. Miss Bicker mentioned that a democracy usually collapsed at the end of a term and gave way to an equally weak form of government, and a dictator could only be dislodged by armed force.

Melvin Roberts, Cranbrook, for the negative, stated that countries with a dictator are lower financially than they were before dictatorship. He said the unemployment had increased 272,000 for one year under Hitler, and though their unemployed were building roads, they were roads for war, roads to invade Russia. The difference in employment was explained by Roberts—under a democracy a man works for wages which are his own. Under dictatorship there are no liberties in connection with the work and wages of a man. He mentioned that humans could learn to live under any government but they were much happier and peaceful under a democracy.

Roberts touched on the attitude of these dictatorships to the League of Nations, stating that they have a policy against world peace and there could be no hope, in the face of their attitude, for world peace.

Bob Clemens of Fernie, for the affirmative, stated that a dictatorship with its economy and efficiency can meet requirements at the opportune time and can accomplish much more when it did not have to wait for legislature. He said a dictator could see a need and issue orders, but in a democracy the head would see a need, refer it to the minister who refers it to the deputy minister who in turn confers with his staff, a policy is made and passed at the next cabinet meeting and much time has been wasted. In reference to economy, Clemens stated that twenty-five millions was speht on the last election in the United States, and will be spent again in four years, but in a dictatorship this is not needed.

Clemens pointed out, in summing up the arguments used by the affirmative, the simplicity, unity, adaptability, stability, economy and efficiency would all be bound in a dictatorship.

Miss Lucille Hamilton, Cranbrook, speaking for the negative stated that a dictatorship was only a temporary measure compared with a democracy, that they were only a stage behind and all dictatorships would eventually obtain a democracy. Miss Hamilton pointed out that there had never been a succession of dictators in any one country, and at the government died with the dictator the people were untrained in government affairs, could not carry on and the result was a period of corruption. She touched on the subject of freedom of religion stating that under a dictator the people had no freedom in this respect as civilized people should, when the dictator compelled them to follow a given worship.

Rev. J. F. Bell, Rev. R. W. Hardy and Rev. E. E. King acted as judges. Mr. Bell, as spokesman for the judges, complimented all the speakers, stating that the debate was better than they expected. In his criticisms he pointed out that their examples were too restricted, they had referred mainly to Germany and Italy, and Canada and United States, leaving out many important countries. He explained that too many headings were confusing and they should pick out the main ones and enlarged on them.

The decision was awarded to the negative side.

Following the debate a one act play entitled "Keeping Kitty's Dates", was presented by members of the high school literary society directed by Miss Myrtle Gummer.

The roll of Kitty was played by Miss Thelma Erickson and that of Nina was played by Miss Catherine Fergie. Miss Marcella Nedelec played the part of Flo and Miss Joyce Maidment acted the part of Evelyn. Jack Cadwell played the part of Mr. Rollins, a life insurance salesman, and the roll of Mr. Fleming, a love story salesman was taken by Bob Murray. Douglas McKay took the part of Stanley DuPois and Miss Joan Bowley the part of the maid.

The High School Glee club, which was formed about a month ago by Mr. E. Davies, sang several selections, accompanied by Miss Mae Voisey at the piano.

HOPE FOR MORE HOCKEY TITLES

Nelson Boxla Squad Also Honored by Rotarians

Entertaining the Kimberley Dynamiters, Canadian hockey champions, and the Nelson senior lacrosse team, Kootenay box lacrosse champions, the Rotary club at is Monday luncheon had an all-sport set-up. Tendering congratulations to both teams, the Rotary spokesmen expressed Nelson's best wishes to the Dynamiters for further honors on their coming European tour. The luncheon was one of the largest of the year, with 62 members and guests. President R. E. Potter was in the chair, and W. K. Clark was in charge of the program.

Prior to the business agenda, Miss Rose Hartwig sang two beautiful solos, "Homing", and "When You Come Home", accompanied by Pianist P. G. Morey.

In greeting the visitors, President Potter said the Rotarians were delighted to be seated next to many champions. He reminded the Dynamiters that the English teams they would meet trained on Yorkshire pudding and roast beef.

On taking charge of the program, Mr. Clark welcomed the two teams heartily, and then called first on Harold Whitmore, secretary and manager of the Kimberley team.

TELLS KIMBERLEY HOPES

Bringing greetings to Nelson from the executive of the Kimberley Hockey club, Mr. Whitmore stated the executive had quite a job on its hands, as it had to finance the team until it got to London, after which point all its expenses would be paid. Starting in a few days, the team would play Calgary Monday, and then proceed east, playing in succession Edmonton, Saskatoon, Prince Albert, Regina, Sudbury, Ottawa, Montreal and Saint John, sailing for the Old Country on the Duchess of Bedford December 12.

He expressed appreciation for Nelson giving the team these games, as it had no artificial ice at home, the games meaning a lot financially, beside putting the players in shape to go on tour. He knew Nelson would follow the Dynamiters with its best wishes, and then take a crack at them when they got home again.

On the European tour the Dynamiters would play All-England, and then play in Belgium, Holland, Germany, Czecho-Slovakia, Austria and Hungary. There was also possibility of games in Switzerland, Italy, Poland, and Sweden. On returning to London they would play for the world's championship, and were hopeful of returning to Canada with all the laurels of the world.

Coach Johnny Achtzener, "the man who wielded the axe", as Mr. Clark described him, also thanked the Nelson Rotarians for making this meeting possible. The Dynamiters, he declared, always enjoyed playing in Nelson. As they wouldn't be in Canada to defend the Allan cup, they hoped Nelson would start in where they left off, and he thought the Maple Leafs had a good chance of doing it.

Murray Clark, coach of the Nelson box lacrosse team, was then called on by his dad, who declared he had a fine lot of boys, who had the stuff to put it over. Thanking the Rotarians for their hospitality, Murray Clark said he knew the local boys appreciated it deeply.

As for the honors won by Nelson, he said it was done by the boys themselves. They had more fighting spirit, and Nelson gave them wonderful support.

Referring to the future, he expressed the belief that great things were ahead for Kootenay lacrosse, and expressed the hope that the East Kootenay would come in. Several lacrosse players were on the Maple Leafs. Some new boys turned out fine players. If Kimberley would come in too, it would help to make a great league.

BISHOP GIVEN CUP

Calling Jack Bishop of the Nelson team to the front, he presented him with the Jack Boyce cup for the cleanest player of the league.

On a speech being demanded from Jack, he declared it was "sure great to win it", and he hoped he could keep on winning it for a couple of years.

President Potter, in winding up the program, congratulated both teams. It had been tough getting to the top, but it would be tougher staying there. He hoped Kimberley could come in for lacrosse, which was one of the fastest games. When the season started the games here were drawing 250 patrons, but at the end they were drawing over 2000. He declared lacrosse was a good thing for the town.

Drugstore Lunch Counters May Be Taboo at Coast

New By-Law Draft Is Prepared; Bans Use of Houses

VANCOUVER (CP).—Drugstore lunch counters faced possible extinction after Inspector J. F. C. B. Vance, Vancouver, city analyst, submitted the draft of a new "eating house" bylaw for consideration of Vancouver restaurant proprietors.

The draft bylaw, which will be laid before the civic health committee shortly, calls for compulsory medical examination of all restaurant employees, and bans the use of temporary stands, tents or vehicles and houses used as private residences for eating-house purposes.

One clause provides that poisons must not be stored, sold or dispensed in any eating place.

Strict sanitary measures are demanded. One orders that the only animals kept on the premises shall be "a reasonable number of cats for the control of rats and other vermin."

FIRE PREVENTION TAX INCREASED

VICTORIA, Nov. 16 (CP)—Hon. John Hart, minister of finance introduced a $5,000,000 loan bill in the British Columbia legislature this afternoon, taking authority for the government to borrow up to that sum net for public works, on securities repayable up to 1965 but not exceeding interest rates of five per cent. Construction of highways, ferries, bridges and public buildings and other public works were included in the range of the measure.

Attorney General Sloan introduced a bill to extend the present B.C. Moratorium law by an undetermined period, "thirty days after the first session of 1937." The terms of the present Moratorium law remain unchanged.

Mayors, reeves, aldermen and councillors throughout British Columbia who have been incorrectly sworn in after their election are reassured in their respective offices by a bill introduced by Hon. A. W. Gray. Many municipal bodies had been sworn in by city clerks, while statute law requires the ceremony to be performed by a county court judge or justices of the peace. The amending measure validates oaths incorrectly administered; and validates the actions of the respective municipal boards. Assessors and collectors are included.

Amendments to the Forest act, under which the fire prevention tax is stepped up from 2.5 to 3.3 cents per acre; right of entry on private lands provided; and a new definition of responsibility for fighting fires inserted, as part of a general program to tighten up fire prevention in the woods and assist natural regeneration proceeded with unanimous consent of the house, piloted by Hon. A. W. Gray.

A bill of importance to municipalities, as it redefines residents and transients for purposes of provincial-muncipal relations in health, welfare and relief services, was advanced unopposed, after explanation by Hon. Dr. G. M. Weir. An arbitration board will be set up of provincial and municipal officials to settle cases in dispute, where necessary.

GRIMES TELLS GYROS COMING RISE IN GOLD

National Debts and Bad Currencies to Boost It

GIVES RULES FOR JUDGING STOCKS

Demand Will Be for Base Metals to Next Turn

Expressing the belief that in the next depression gold would go to $55 or $60 an ounce, and perhaps to $75, R. A. Grimes gave the Nelson Gyro club Monday evening his view in compact form of mining investments and outlined his own method of appraising mining risks. He was speaking on a program arranged by R. E. Horton.

JUDGING A PROSPECT

He divided mining risks into three classes, the first embracing prospects. In appraising a company based on a prospect, he said the first thing to look to was who was behind the company, and what was their experience and record. The human element was most important. If there was the slightest question as to their probity, the investment should be out of bounds at once. But if they were experienced men, who had previously been successful in that field, a large part of the risk was eliminated. In sizing up the picture of a flotation based on a prospect, it was also important to note how much stock was issued for consideration other than cash — covering promoters' fees and payment for the property. In no case should these two together exceed 40 per cent of the stock. Mr. Grimes said he did not look favorably on any venture of this kind where the proportion exceeded 25 per cent, but if there could be cases where with a very favorable showing the larger figure would be justified.

JUNOR PRODUCERS

His second class of risks embraced the junior producers, companies that had been financed and had reached production, or apparently reached it. With this class the average man was not competent to judge of the investment, and if one were thinking of investing in such a stock he should do so only on competent advice, as it was entirely a matter of ore reserves and of the profit that could be realized from the ore. The only yardstick of value that could be applied was, what could the ore be made to yield?

The third class, consisting of old established producers, was the safest for investment by the uninitiated as the stock of such companies was usually on the basis of any other industrial stock. In buying such established stocks, however, it was advisable to buy those of companies that were balanced in that they were not producing only one metal or a group of metals. In a time of depression a company that produced base metals only was often forced to shut down, irrespective of ore reserves. Such stocks were subject to great fluctuations. A very good type of risk would be the stock of a base metal company that also had one or two good gold mines.

GOLD SITUATION

Discussing gold, Mr. Grimes referred to the rise in gold shares owing to the appreciation of the yellow metal till there had been literally thousands of promotions. Now that prosperity was returning there would be little new gold activity, but the demand for the base metals would automatically rise, and there would be base metal promotions. Not until the next depression could new gold promotions be looked for in any numbers, and then a new rise in the price of gold to high levels was inevitable because of the increase of indebtedness by governments and further depreciation of currencies. It was in connection with this that the speaker foresaw gold rise as commodities got cheaper, until it should perhaps reach $75 an ounce.

Asked about the Pend d'Oreille stock, Mr. Grimes said all the base metal stocks were due for a rise, as no new base metal mines had been brought in since 1929. When the demand swung to the base metals, it was inevitable that the public would buy many "cats and dogs" as well as sound stocks.

SILVER GOING UP

Answering a question about silver, the speaker said it would be carried along with the base metals, for anything that was made scarce would appreciate in price. Silver was associated with the base metals for on this continent there were only about three straight silver mines, all the rest of the production coming from association with other metals.

Several speakers expressed the utmost appreciation of Mr. Grimes' compact address, and P. E. Poulin added the prediction that gold would reach $41 a year from now.

Mr. Horton rounded out the program with some new jokes from a labor magazine.

President Charles Morris was in the chair.

Trail City Council Spends Over Budget, but Finds the Needed Cash

Council Has Done a Lot Permanent Work, LeRose

TRAIL, B. C., Nov. 16—"This has been an exceptional year," proudly stated Mayor Bruno Lerose at the city council meeting here Monday night when he reviewed work done by the council during 1936.

"At the beginning of the year we were like 'a cat in a sack,'" was the way he described their outlook.

"We made a budget on paper, but didn't known whether we would make it or not. But we have done a lot of permanent work, a lot of road work, built a stone wall in east Trail and done a lot of cribbing. We figured on 50 feet of wall on Glover road, but we did 100 feet."

"Yes, and if we don't finish that wall, we will lose the whole street," interposed Ald. Anderson.

"I hope that will be done next year," replied the mayor.

"The comfort station cost far more than we figured," he went on. "It cost $3250. We received $1000 from the Rotary club and budgetted $1000 for it, but we spent an additional $1500.

"We didn't figure on work in the Halliwell subdivision nor on Lookout street. We put on an extra policeman, his wages not being figured in the budget.

"A total of $15,000 more than what was budgetted for was spent. Now I suppose you want to know how we did it. It was done due to the cooperation of the city staff and the police too."

"We collected road and poll tax this year from all whom it was possible in the city. Increase in water rates and a checkup on water services also contributed to this sum. In the water service checkup there were found many services that were never declared.

"Also we were able to spend $2000 for pipe. We did it and I hope the new council will continue to do it not for themselves but on behalf of the ratepayers of the city."

The mayor then spoke on the council's policy of avoiding the word relief.

"It is impossible for us to give work to every man who comes to town, but we have provided work for all our city old timers and we are going to try to continue to provide them with work and wages."

The mayor commended City Engineer S. S. McDiarmid and D. H. Bayley, assistant city engineer. He said that little was ever heard of Mr. Bayley whose many jobs involved a great deal of work.

"It's no use to tell him after he dies," said Mayor Lerose.

MILLER ENTERS COAST RACE FOR THE MAYORALTY

VANCOUVER, Nov. 16 (CP). — Senior member of Vancouver city council for several years as chairman of the finance committee, Ald. G. C. Miller announced today he will contest the mayoralty in civic elections Dec. 9.

Two other candidates are already in the field—Charles E. Thompson, former campaign manager for Mayor G. G. McGeer, and ex-Mayor L. D. Taylor.

Ald. L. D. McDonald and Dr. A. D. Buchanan are considering filing nomination papers. W. C. Shelly, former minister of finance in the Tolmie government, also may run.

Tweedsmuir Lauds Canada Technical, Scientific Depts.

OTTAWA, Nov. 16 (CP)—Scientific and technical departments of the Canadian government have no superiors in any country, Lord Tweedsmuir, governor-general, said here tonight, speaking at a function commemorating the work of officers of the department of mines and the national research council in developing the deposits at Great Bear lake.

The development arose out of geological observations made by officers of the mines department and was made possible by research on metallurgical problems in government laboratories. The result had been achieved by a combination of the prospector, the mining engineer, the metallurgist and the chemist.

Refuse to Greet King Edward

LONDON, Nov. 16 (AP)—Two labor members of parliament from Wales refused tonight to be on hand to greet King Edward when he visits South Wales Wednesday to inspect conditions among the unemployed.

One of the parliamentarians, Aneurin Bevan, declined the invitations of Labor Minister Ernest Brown to be present when the King visits his constituency on the ground there are pressing problems and suffering in South Wales for which the King's ministers are responsible.

W. H. Mainwaring, another Welsh member of the house, wrote Brown he could not join "a tour of this character". He advanced reasons similar to those of Bevan for his absence.

Board Asks MacPherson for Three Monday Trips of Main Lake Ferry

Early Run Will Enable Commercial Travellers to Get Into Territory Without Lost Day; Advise No Action on Arrowhead

At a joint meeting of the roads and bridges and freight and transportation committees of the board of trade Monday afternoon, with H. M. Whimster, chairman of the first named committee in the chair, the question of adapting the winter schedule of the Kootenay lake ferry to the needs of the commercial travellers working out of Nelson without injuring the through bus service which is served by the noon run was taken up, and it was decided to ask the department of public works to put on a morning run Mondays.

WIRE AT ONCE

In order to take advantage of the presence in Victoria of the house members, who will be dispersing this week, Secretary W. G. C. Lanskail was instructed to wire the request at once to Hon. F. M. MacPherson, minister of public works, Frank Putnam, M.P.P. for Nelson-Creston, and R. R. Burns, M.P.P. for Rossland-Trail.

The matter was referred to these committees from the board on receipt of a letter from the Associated Canadian Travellers, pointing out that the omission of the morning run, instead of the noon run as in previous winters, was working a hardship on commercial travellers.

John Learmonth, manager of the Central Canadian Greyhound Lines, explained that the retention of the noon run enabled his company to convert a bus run that had been poor paying into one that was carrying itself, and also was of advantage to Nelson business as it offered inducements to the Crawford Bay people to come to town. It was also popular with the department of public works as it saved 25 per cent on fuel on account of not having to keep banked fires between morning and afternoon runs.

F. R. Pritchard explained the position of the travellers, who on account of the late start from Nelson were not able to work Creston and Wynndel and get back the same day. It worked out as the loss of a day on every trip to the Crow territory. As there were 50 travellers residing in Nelson, he figured it was important to facilitate their free movement.

ADDED TRIP SOLUTION

A suggestion by Mr. Learmonth that an additional trip Monday morning leaving the rest of the week with just the noon and afternoon trips, would help the travellers without disturbing the bus schedule, was carefully debated, and it was the concensus of opinion it would solve the problem, as it would enable the travellers to have their week-end at home and still get into their selling territory expeditiously.

It was also pointed out by R. D. Barnes and others that the government could give that extra trip, and still be ahead of the game as compared with previous winters, as it would still be saving coal six days.

On motion of F. R. Pritchard and Adolph Browne, it was decided the government should be asked to grant an extra ferry run for Monday mornings, on the old time schedule.

Sitting as a roads and bridges committee, the committeemen also took up the proposal from the Revelstoke board of trade that the board should press for a road connection between Nakusp and Arrowhead.

FINISH EXISTING ROADS

Apart from the merits of such a road, and the matter of construction costs, ferry operation at Arrowhead and other points involved, the committee took the view expounded by R. D. Barnes, that the board should adhere to the stand it has taken for years that it wanted existing highways completely finished and standardized before any new construction was undertaken.

On motion of R. D. Barnes and Adolph Browne, the committee recommended to the board that it should adhere to that stand, and so advise the Revelstoke board.

Those present were Vice-president E. A. Mann, H. M. Whimster, F. L. McBride, J. A. McDonald, R. D. Barnes, Adolph Browne, J. M. Gordon, John Learmonth, J. R. Hunter, F. R. Pritchard and Secretary W. G. C. Lanskail.

Free Trial of Vick Products For Better Control of Colds Offered by Local Druggists

Free Packages Contain Trial Size Vicks Va-tro-nol and Vicks VapoRub, with Details of Plan that Cut Sickness from Colds in Half in Clinic Tests

In your own home this winter, wouldn't you like to see sickness from colds cut more than half? That was just one of the results averaged by thousands of people in clinic tests of Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds—a pratical home guide to greater freedom from colds.

The free trial packages now offered by your druggist introduce you to Vicks Plan and the products that make it possible: Vicks Va-tro-nol and Vicks VapoRub.

To Help Prevent Many Colds

Vicks Va-tro-nol is the scientific aid in preventing colds. Vick Chemists spent more than nine years and $250,000 in research, experiments, and tests before perfecting this exclusive Vicks formula.

Va-tro-nol is specially designed for the nose and upper throat, where 3 out of 4 colds start. The moment you apply it—a few drops up each nostril—Va-tro-nol spreads swiftly through this trouble zone, aiding and gently stimulating Nature's defences.

Used at that first sneeze, sniffle or any sign of nasal irritation—Nature's usual warning that a cold threatens—Va-tro-nol helps to prevent many colds, and to throw off head colds in the early stages.

And when neglected irritation has led to a stuffed-up nose or a miserable head-cold, Va-tro-nol brings comforting relief. It reduces swollen membranes, clears clogging mucus makes every breath clear and cool again.

To Help End a Cold Quicker

When a cold strikes without warning or gets by even the best precautions—as some colds always will—Vicks VapoRub helps end it quicker.

You simply massage VapoRub on the throat, chest, and back for three minutes Almost before you finish rubbing, VapoRub starts to bring relief two ways at once: (1) It acts direct through the skin like a poultice or plaster; (2) Its medicated vapors, released by body heat, are breathed in for hours—about 16 times a minute—direct to the irritated air-passages.

Cough Drops Free, Too

For the throat that is dry and harsh, or irritated by coughing, Vicks Medical Cough Drops—throat-soothing ingredients of Vicks VapoRub in pleasant candy form—provide quick, convenient relief.

REMEMBRANCE SERVICE HELD AT CRANBROOK

Rev. J. F. Bell Speaks; Band and Buglers Play Their Part

CRANBROOK, B. C.—The Armistice Day service of Remembrance for the fallen took place at the Cenotaph beginning with a parade at 10:45 when members of the Royal Canadian Mounted police, the Kootenay Regiment, ex-servicemen and the City band marched from the Canadian Legion via the hospital to the cenotaph. Rev. J. F. Bell, Legion chaplain, conducted the service.

The customary two minutes silence was observed and buglers of the Kootenay Regiment rendered the military commands: Cease Fire, The Last Post and Reveille.

In his address Mr. Bell recalled the number of times the memory of the fallen had been commemorated since the signing of the Armistice. The men had given their lives in the belief that a new world would emerge from the struggle. The new world they had fought for had not materialized. No one knows from what qaurter the challenge of a new war will come. The destinies of millions, he stated is at present in the hands of a few mortal men. Peace, under the Nazi idea, means peace by fear, which was not the peace symbolized by the cenotaph. The men who had given their lives had thought to make other safe. Their memory would be remembered always.

Hymns sung were 'Oh, God Our Help in Ages Past' and 'Abide With Me.' Sir John Elgar's 'Land of Hope and Glory' was played by the Cranbrook City band.

Following this wreaths were placed on the cenotaph by various organizations and individuals.

In the evening the annual Armistice ball was held in the auditorium with members of the Canadian Legion and the Kootenay Regiment as hosts. Prior to the dance the Kootenay Regiment entertained about 50 guests at the armouries.

MADRID DOOMED TO BE CITY OF RUINS?

According to week-end news dispatches Spanish rebels will start a campaign to blast or starve the capital city of Madrid into submission. The government forces are putting up a wonderful defence of the city and the rebels hope to stop contacts with the city or blow it to bits by means of artillery and bombs from the air. The insurgents must act fast because it will be impossible for General Francisco Franco to play a waiting game because of the approach of winter. If the insurgents decide upon a concentrated aerial bombardment there is every prospect of Madrid going up in flames. Only last week 40 city blocks were destroyed by fire in a brief bombardment. Any concentrated attack upon the city from the air will easily mean the entire destruction of the city.

When a city the size of Madrid is destroyed by natural forces it is regarded as a great catastrophe. The nearest equivalents on this continent have been the Chicago fire and the San Francisco earthquake. That such a tragedy could result from dissension within a country is almost inconceivable, and demonstrates the depths to which human folly ean descend.

Madrid, in addition to being the capital of Spain, is the largest city. In 1923 it had a population of 813,991, and as it has been growing rapidly, is probably now well over the million mark. A number of modern buildings have recently been erected, and much slum clearance work carried out. Its subway system, the first in Spain, was opened in 1924.

The origin of Madrid is veiled in antiquity. It was a Moorish stronghold in the 10th century, and was chosen by Philip II, the same monarch who sent the Armada against England, as his capital in 1560. It has a number of magnificent churches, and a picture gallery considered by many to be the finest in the world. The National Library and the library of the University of Madrid contain internationally recognized collections of books. No doubt the great modern buildings which adorn Madrid can be rebuilt, although such a task will be a heavy one for a poverty-stricken nation, but the architectural monuments of the past, and the priceless paintings of Velasquez and his colleagues cannot be replaced, and their destruction will be a loss not only to Spain but to the world.

The price is a heavy one to pay for a decision which in most countries could be reached through the medium of the ballot. It is a warning to other nations to avoid violence and extreme measures in political disputes.

Hon. F. M. MacPherson, minister of public works for B.C., has announced a plan of highway standardization and surfacing from the coast to Alberta's boundary. His idea is a good one provided the portions not being standardized are kept up to scratch by government crews working under the general maintainence fund. It is just such sections of highway that are not standardized and not graded that cause all the uproar from not only B.C. motorists but from the tourists from other parts of the world.

Nearly 20 carloads of vegetables, including onions, potatoes, turnips and carrots have rolled from the Grand Forks district through the marketing board according to figures just released. It is interesting to note that all of this produce was distributed between Trail, Rossland and Nelson markets. Grand Forks, once a thriving smelter town, has no doubt successfully turned into an agricultural community, which should grow as years go by.

Registration has opened for the course of lectures to be given this season at the Chamber of Mines in Nelson by the department of mines. While no classes were held last season there was a good response the year before. Here is an oportunity for the younger men interested in mining and prospecting to gain some valuable information and advise regarding mines, mining and prospecting.

A Doukhobor, member of the fanatical element, has gone to jail for one month for refusing to send his children to school. This action by the authorities should be an example to others of this sect who defy the laws and deprive their children of a Canadian education which is so necessary for them.

Nearly every community in the Kootenay district reports a bigger and more enthusiastic Remembrance day turnout. War clouds in Europe and Asia, no doubt, had a lot to do with the response of the returned men and the public for observance of the day hailing and commemorating world peace.

B.C. parliament will likely end its fall session this week. There can be little more to do as practically every member has had his little say. The session developed, perhaps mildly, into a battle between Vancouver and Victoria and members from the balance of the province.

Remembrance day observation in Nelson made history this year. But it was noticeable that there were not many flags flown in the city that day. In the main section of the city but one or two flag poles that graced the tops of buildings displayed the flag.

PLEASANT ERROR

Says the Financial Post: A Winnipeg man sent in the following reference to Noranda mines, clipped from a local paper, with the comment: "What, no Tea?"

Still a Copper Mine

Noranda, however, has not lost its identity as a copper producer, but, on the contrary, has a big output of this metal and has developed a market to absorb its entire current output.

In recent months is has reached a production stage of about 30,000 tons of coffee and about $8,000,000 in gold annually, the latter figure being exclusive of exchange. The concentrator capacity has been doubled recently, and is now 2000 tons daily.

"In contrast, if you want to return to liberty that is real, a return to those tenets of self-initiative that have made this country great, if you want to return to that existence we once knew as the American form of government, then vote for ——" he faltered ——"vote for——"

Goodcell gulped and mopped his brow.

"I guess I've forgotten the man's name," he explained.

"Landon?" shouted a voice from the audience.

"Yes, Landon," the speaker finished.

DOUG AND HIS WATCH

Doug Keiver, former Nelson hockey star, now of the Kimberley Dynamiters, dropped into our sanctum the other night to say hello. Doug went well in the Allan cup games last winter and is working hard to retain a place on the Kimberley squad for the European trip. Doug is quite proud of the gold watch and the medal, chain and charm he received along with the balance of the Kimberley boys after they won the cup. He is guarding the trophy faithfully and says he was not so big hearted as Jack Forsey, also a former Nelson player, who is now in England performing with Harry Brown. Jack, it appears, in a moment of enthusiasm, gave his watch away. Doug seems the same old boy and is perhaps a little heavier than usual.

VERSE

THE UNKNOWN SOLDIER

His body lies in Flanders.
But you've carved his figure in stone
And set up on a pedestal
To watch through the night—Alone
As the signal lights of heaven
Flare up in the northern sky,
I pause at the foot of the statue
For I know that his spirit is nigh.
His rifle, he swings to his shoulder
With a smile so hearty and true
And steps down here beside me
And we swing up the road—we two
We sing the old songs together,
The songs that we loved so well
For he is The Unknown Soldier!
And I—his unknown pal.

We growl at the sergeant major
We curse the mud and the rain
We vow if we get to 'Blighty'
We'll never come back again.
We lie side by side in our blankets
As often before we have done
We smoke and we joke together
And we think of the folks at home
I show him a cherished picture
He speaks of the girl he loved well
For he is The Unknown Soldier
And I—his unknown pal.

To you—he's a graven image
Standing up there on a stone
To me—he's a living comrade
As I sit with my pipe—alone
His eyes to me are asparkle
With friendship and mischief and health
To you they're but marks upon granite
As you scratch and scramble for wealth
The estaminet rings with his laughter
Tears of joy fill the eyes of mam'selle
May God bless The Unknown Soldier
God help—his unknown pal.

"I SAW 4-ODD MADE"

James Brainerd, Minneapolis, Minn., writes: "I saw 4-odd made by East at no trumps. The opening lead was the 7 of hearts, as partner had opened bidding with 1-Heart. It seemed remarkable that such a feat could be accomplished."

North: ♠ A 10 6 3 ♥ Q J 9 6 5 ♦ A Q 6 ♣ J

West: ♠ J 7 5 ♥ K 10 8 4 ♦ 10 5 ♣ A 10 7 5

East: ♠ K 9 4 ♥ A 3 2 ♦ K J 9 ♣ Q 8 3

South: ♠ Q 8 2 ♥ 7 ♦ 8 7 4 3 2 ♣ K 9 6 4

Bidding went: North, 1-Heart; East, 1-No Trump, as a nuisance bid; West, 3-No Trumps, on account of his heart strength and side Ace; North, double. As the declaring side's probable tricks were short of game probabilities, it required both excellent play and much good luck to go game, let alone making an overtrick.

As stated, the opening lead was the 7 of hearts. Dummy's 8 covered. North's 9 lost to declarer's Ace. Declarer led the Q of clubs, perhaps to put North in lead, perhaps it was a lucky hit. Anyway it worked out like a charm. South covered with the K. Dummy's Ace won, dropping North's lone J.

It seemed evident that North must hold the A-Q of diamonds, as well as the Ace of spades, to have opened the bidding, then doubled. The 10 of diamonds was led through North. He played low. Declarer's J won the trick. The 8 of clubs was led through South, who covered with the 9. Dummy's 10 won. North let go a low spade. The 5 of diamonds was led from dummy. Up went North's Ace, for the first defensive trick.

North led his Q of hearts. Dummy's K won. The 5 of spades was returned. North played low. Declarer's K won. The K of diamonds picked up North's Q. A low spade was discarded from dummy. The 3 of clubs was led by declarer. South played the 4. Dummy's 5 won. Players were down to four cards each, holding as shown.

North: ♠ A [illegible] ♥ J 6

West: ♠ J ♥ 10 4 ♣ 7

East: [illegible] ♥ 3 ♣ 2

South: ♠ Q 8 ♥ 8 ♣ 6

Dummy's good 7 of clubs was led for declarer's ninth trick and game. It was North's turn to play. Probably he thought that dummy's hearts would be led up to his tenace, for he made the error of discarding his 10 of spades. North was put in lead with his lone Ace of spades. Then he took his J of hearts, but after that dummy had to be given the last trick with its 10 of hearts. To win the last thre defensive tricks North should have let go his lower heart and kept only his Ace and 10 of spades, hoping that South held the Q of spades.

WESTERN AIRWAY STATIONS NOT FAIRLY PLACED

To the Editor,

Sir: I was interested in an article in the Daily News of November 14, relative to the proposed change in the wave length of radio station CJAT of Trail, B. C. and also in an article appearing in the coast papers upon the proposed change in the wave length of CRCV of Vancouver.

Some years ago we had quite an active radio club in Nelson and it was my privilege to be president for several years. During that time we took up things similar to that proposed at the present time of looking into the change of the stations and I understand there is a possibility of resurrecting the club again, it would seem to me that one of the first things that should be done, is to consider the situation of the different Canadian stations in the west, with a view to bringing the matter before the new Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

In looking through the position of our stations and the wave lengths that are open to Canadian stations, and those which we share with stations in the United States, it does not seem as of our western stations are at all fairly placed.

I believe that we have wave length 580 Kc. as a Canadian station and which at present is held by a small station in Edmonton for the west, this adjourns a powerful station KHQ, Spokane, and it would not seem at all advisable to move either of the stations mentioned to that wave length.

We have length 600 on the other side of KHQ and is shared by CJOR, Vancouver and a San Diego, California station. The next wave length used by Canada is 630 which is a present held by Kelowna, but as this is right between powerful stations in Portland and Los Angeles no good object could be accomplished in making a change.

Wave length 690 is held by a small Calgary station, CJCJ and adjoins two very powerful stations, KPO San Francisco and WLW Cincinnati, but these two stations are quite sharply defined in their wave length, and it is a position that might be used for either of the proposed changes. 730 Kc. is used by CJCA, Edmonton and is probably the best position for any western station. It is quite close to a new Seattle station but apart from that it can be obtained as readily as any of our radio stations.

780 Kc. is held by Chilliwack but this is shared with two or three other stations in the west. 840 Kc. which adjoins Denver, Colorado, is held by Saskatoon and as a very powerful station in Mexico uses the same wave length it would not help us to make a change there.

880 Kc. at present used by Kamloops CFJC, is shared I think with Oakland, California and adjoins KFPY Spokane, on the other side of which station is Kc. 910 which is held by Trail, then follows KOMO Seattle and sandwiched in between that and Portland KOIN, is a well known Calgary station CFAC.

950 Kc. and 960 Kc. between Portland and KJR Seattle, are held by Lethbridge and Winnipeg, and the former might possibly stand an exchange. 1010 Kc. is shared by two Vancouver stations and San Jose, California, the latter station being a lot more powerful than the Vancouver ones, so that they can rarely be obtained in this district.

1030 Kc. is held by CFCN, Calgary an is the most powerful Canadian station in the west but this adjoins KNX and two powerful eastern stations which spoil the program.

We then come to 1100 Kc. which is the present CRCV wave length, Vancouver, which it is proposed to move, as it conflicts with KSL Salt Lake City. From this wave length down to 1320 there are numerous small stations, but 1301 I believe is open in the west and it does not seem as of there is anything of a troublesmoe nature there to any Canadian stations.

1410 is a small station in Vancouver and 1450 is CFCT at Victoria, also a very small station. These two wave lengths are surrounded by numerous little stations but it would seem about the best position to make a move to from either CJAT or CRCV.

I have carefully analyzed the situation and I think the figures given are all correct, though I have not the American list or recent alterations but I would like others to analyze the situation somewhat along these lines to see of a meeting could not be got together in the Kootenays to bring the matter before the new commission, because the present situation here is such that we cannot get a decent program from any Canadian station.

I understand that the new station at Vancouver, CRCV, will be open for operation in the very near future and I think that before it goes on the air that we should make every effort to get a wave length by which we can obtain the programs in the upper country.

GIRLS WARNED NOT TO GO TO NEW YORK WITHOUT A YEAR'S FINANCES

One hundred and twenty-two social agencies in New York City join in warning out-of-town girls that unless they are provided with the means to support themselves for a year they should not come here in search of employment.

When it comes to the cost of living, they are reminded that in New York a girl must provide not only for her lodging and food, but also for the many odds and ends which come in the course of the simplest existence, and which are so automatically provided at home that they are only missed when a girl is here alone.

The out-of town girl is told, also that she is at a disadvantage in the race for the job. It is the New York girl, who knows her way about the great city, who is likely to be first on the scene in answer to an advertisement. More than that she has local references.

Having a home in the city, and being wise to its way, the chances are that she will not become a victim of unscrupulous employment agencies exacting fees for placing girls in sub-standard jobs. The out-of-town girl is warned that if she accepts such employment, and tries to make a "go" of New York, she will be exposed to poor housing conditions and inadequate food.

WHAT THE PRESS IS SAYING

HON. R. B. BENNETT'S GOOD WORK

We are sorry Viscount Elibank takes this rather gloomy view of the trade arrangements worked out at the Ottawa Conference under Mr. Bennett's direction, but glad to note his acknowledgment that a foundation has been laid soundly. We assume he believes steps may be taken to iron out the wrinkles and place the agreements on a more mutually satisfactory basis. All the complaints heard from time to time serve to prove that the former Prime Minister was the right man in the right place so far as looking after Canada's interests was concerned.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

TO SURVIVE BODY MUST HAVE WATER

We referred yesterday to the amount of water in common foodstuffs. This, although a matter of great importance in the physiology of the body, is something that need not concern the practical dietitian under ordinary circumstances.

Water plays a very important part in the physiology of the body, but it is of such great importance that if there is any lack of the requisite amount, the body immediately responds with such suffering that the deficiency has to be made up. In plain terms, that means that thirst is one of the most agonizing of all human emotions and must be satisfied.

It is said that an Italian political prisoner lived 18 days without either food or water, but it would be very difficult to convince anyone who had gone even 24 hours without water that that was possible. It is generally accepted that a man cannot live more than 72 hours without water.

Of course, the body forms water from the oxidation of foodstuff. A hibernating animal takes no fluid during its sleep period of several months, but forms 107 grams of water by the oxidation of 100 grams of fat. Perhaps the Italian political prisoner was fat when they cooped him up.

HOW MUCH WATER?

An adult of average weight in a temperate climate takes in from one and one-half to three quarts of water daily. Temperature, weather, activity and other things may change this. In the tropics the average is said to be 13 quarts a day.

Does water at meals do any harm? This question is considerably debated, but few competent physiologists seem to thing that it does. Nor is it probable that water drinking with meals is likely to lead to overweight. The water that is drunk in that way probably runs down a sort of trough in the stomach and goes out into the intestines without being mixed with the food at all.

Europeans drink water at the table hardly at all, getting what they need for their use from the wine or beer which they use as a beverage.

The best information we have comes from the painstaking researches of Rehfuss and Hawke on digestion, who concluded that water-drinking does not influence the rate or thoroughness of digestion at all.

Water between meals is calculated to help mildly constipated people, and a large amount of water-drinking results in washing out of the body three grams of nitrogen into the urine, a day.

RARE CATS

There are now seven tortoise-shell tomcats in all England. The latest is one of a family of four which arrived at Balham Hill. The mother is a Persian. During the last 36 years only 21 tortoise-shell tom kittens have been born in Britain, and of these 11 were the property of Sir Claud Alexander, the cat breeder, of Horsham, Sussex, who has made a special study of them. Plenty of tortoise-shell female kittens are born, but, for some strange reason, the male variety is particularly rare. Nobody can tell why.

CURLERS BOAST FINEST LAYOUT YET IN NELSON

Ice Is in Splendid Condition, Says Jack Long

"We've got the finest layout and the finest ice we've had for curling in Nelson," chorused President A. Browne and Secretary Jack Long of the Nelson Curling club as they issued an appeal to "anyone and everyone, ladies and men, to come and look over our rink, whether they're curlers or not."

Briefly, these club executives were anxious that everyone interested should call at the rink and "see what we've got." They felt that citizens generally would indorse the curlers' pride in the accommodations provided, the fine ice, and the generally "spruced up" appearance of this section of the civic centre.

Secretary Jack was concerned mostly with the splendid ice, declaring Nelson had never had better sheets for play.

Club membership is around the 200 mark and is expected to be increased in the next two days. The list will be closed shortly to permit rinks to be drawn and scheduled competitions to be started.

FAY COLEMAN LEADS IN GOLF

Steals Show as Pro Title Play Gets Under Way

PINEHURST, N.C., Nov. 16 (AP).—Fay Coleman, 31-year-old former Culver City, Calif., amateur star, licked the wiles of wind, cold and course, which combined to whip the favorites, and stole the shotmaking honors today in the first half of the 36-hole qualifying round of the 19th professional golfers championship of the United States.

The tall Coleman, who wore a towel around his neck as protection against the blasts, shot the No. 2 Pinehurst Country club layout in 68, four under par, equalling the course record hung up a year ago by Horton Smith of Chicago and Ray Mangrum of Pittsburgh in the north and south open. Smith, playing with Coleman, could do no better than 75 and Mangrum took 74.

Alex Gerlak, 28, who is a combination pro and greenskeeper at Catskill, N.Y., took second place with a 71. Coleman and Gerlak were the only players to better par 72.

SURPRISES MARK ALL-STAR TEAM

Morris, Welch, Pigeon and Eliowitz Again Selected

By ELMER DULMAGE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 16 (CP)—Shuffled by the steady upswing of fortune for Ottawa Roughriders, the fourth annual Canadian Press All-star Interprovincial Union football team was announced tonight with one or two surprising features. Coaches and sports writers named the team.

Headed again by such perennial stars as Abe Eliowitz, Ted Morris, Huck Welch and George Pigeon, the selection recognized the brilliance of four players who had never made the Big Four All-stars before. Two of them were fresh from college.

Following is the team:

Flying wing, Abe Eliowitz, Montreal; half, Huck Welch, Hamilton; half, Andy Tommy, Ottawa; half, (secondary defence), Ted Morris, Argos; quarter, Bobby Coulter, Argos; snap, Fred Wigle, Montreal; inside, Tiny Herman, Ottawa; inside, George Pigeon, Montreal; middle, Dave Sprague, Ottawa; middle, Pete Jotkus, Argos; outside, Wes Cutler, Argos; outside, Seymour Wilson, Hamilton.

Choice of the diminutive Tommy, who finally came into his own this season with a series of ball-carrying feats that pulled the rallying Roughriders out of some tough spots, was one of the biggest surprises.

Fernie Hoopers Beat Kimberley

FERNIE, B.C., — Kimberley high school boys' and girls' basketball teams played Fernie high school at the community hall on Saturday. Fernie girls won by a score of 16-11 and Fernie boys by 37-12.

Players and points for Fernie girls were—Hamer 1, Boese 7, Asslestine 3, Bricker, Gates 1, MacLaren 4. Personal fouls—Hamer 2, Asslestine 1, Bricker 2, MacLaren 3. For Kimberley — Thomson 7, Chambers 4, Muir, Johnstone, Nesbitt, Osterloh. Personals Thomson 3, Chambers 2, Muir 1, Johnstone 1, Nesbitt 1. Referees Verkerk and F. Moore.

The girls played a fast game, four of Fernie's points coming from two goals in the last minute of play.

The Kimberley boys were handicapped by the non-arrival of one car with three of their regular players, Turner, Owen and Sortome.

The home team piled up such a heavy lead that the first line players were gradually withdrawn and replaced by substitutes so that the game ended with an entirely different line-up. Points made by the Fernie starter were—B. Moore 14, F. Moore 2, Corrigan 11, Verkerk 4, and Shaw 1. Players on the floor at the finish were Osborne, Sirianni 1, Rigets 4, Barrett and Minifie. Art Miscisco also played part time as a sub.

Personals—Moore 1, Corrigan 2, Shaw 3, Sirianni 1, Rigets 1.

The visitors only had one substitute.

Their line-up consisted of—Blezard 2, L. Johnstone 1, Gill 6, Howey 1, W. Johnstone 2, Williams.

Personals — Blezard 1, Gill 1, Howey 2, W. Johnstone 2, L. Johnstone 2. Referees Foubister and Cobus.

OVER HALF A TON OF SALMON HAULED FROM MAIN LAKE AND WEIGHED, PROCTER, IN SEASON

PROCTER, B. C.—Salmon fishing has at last come to a close, both as far as the fish and the law are concerned. The 20-pounder caught Thursday by J. Foss, the 11-pounder caught by Alphonse Pauline and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hall's 18, 10 and 12-pounders Friday brought the number on record between Oct. 1 and Nov. 15, to 41. The total weight of these fish comes to seven hundred pounds.

During the season over half a ton of salmon was hauled out of the main lake.

Conacher Is Injured

Non-Resident Fee for Fishing Is $1 Day, $5 for Year

Amend Game Act to Put Licence on Former Basis

Non-resident anglers fishing in British Columbia lakes and streams will not henceforth be required to pay a flat licence fee of $5, but may pay a fee of $1 a day up to five days in any year, or $5 for the calender year under an amendment to the Game act passed by the provincial House.

During this year the Game act has demanded a licence fee of $5 from non-residents, whether they were doing a day's fishing or a month's Many visitors objected to it, declaring they were perfectly willing to pay $1 for a licence for a day, but that $5 for one day was too much.

Under the amendment the fee is to be on the same basis as previously —$1 a day up to five days, or $5 for the year.

CHAPTER 28

Alix Carey return to Bairdsvale? The idea was ridiculous. Alix wouldn't have used the word "ridiculous" however. She would have said it was most improbable that she would ever want to go back. When she had left it eight years before it wasn't because she didn't like it, or because she thought it too "small town".

She had had to go after there was no one left to her in the little cottage that was haunted with the ghosts of Dora's music and the gay color that Felix brought into it. She was only a slip of a girl then, hardly more than a child, but she had felt the need to go out into the world, to see for herself where its byways would lead her.

She supposed, remembering that, that in one short year she had skyrocketed to the top of her profession. At 25 to be an executive in the New York office of a recognized manufacturing concern rated in these days of hard-earned positions, as success.

Odd that a girl with all she had would want to leave it. She had an apartment that she maintained easily. She had an office with a thick carpet on the floor and her name in neat gold letters on the door. She had an ample salary and an expense account. She was one of that exalted little group of career women with a future that she had envied in her stenographic days.

But it was a future that was colorless, dry and empty to her now.

It was August when Bill Boyd had said, "If you ever want a job in Bairdsvale, let me know."

That was the last thing in her mind then. And probably in Bill's.

But now it was October. An October that was an anniversary; a season dying gloriously with brave, bright colors accenting the tragedy of another year gone by. A year that had given her everything she had wanted and taken it away.

Everything was gone, everything that had been her world. Kathleen, Kim and John.

All she had left were memories and she wanted to get away from them. The mute reminders of inanimate things. The clothes that hung in her closet said, "Remember the time you wore me?" She gave them away. She crowded little hats and fragile frocks into the arms of Mrs. Anderson, the Irish wife of the Swedish superintendent who lived in the basement apartment.

"God bless you, my dear! I niver thought I'd be havin' sech beeyoutiful things. I'll be doin' you a favor for all this!" that grateful lady promised.

"Take them, she said tonelessly while she wished that she might give her the apartment in which she spent too many hours.

The very streets she walked upon turned up as many reminders as the leaves that littered them.

She went to an exhibit with Max Kleermann. There was tea and conversation. There was a Viennese psychiatrist with whom she found herself sitting in an alcove.

"What is the matter with you?" he asked, blinking his eyes kindly behind their thick glasses.

Alix looked into his eyes and knew how direct his question was.

She didn't know his name; he didn't know hers. It was unlikely that they would ever meet again.

"Everything inside me," she answered. "I'm caught in a net of my own weaving and I can't find my way out. I'm unhappy, lost and I don't know what to do."

Alix knew he meant to ask her if she had nothing in the future she wanted. She said:

"Yes. Once I had work but the work is part of the whole thing. It doesn't even fill my time."

"And you have lost him? Are you sure?" How wise he was!

"Yes. That wasn't of my doing. I made the mistake of thinking I had him. No, I am bereft, I have nothing more."

It wasn't what she said but the absolute conclusiveness in her sensitive, intelligent face that convinced him that she was correct in thinking whatever she did.

"Why don't you go away from here? Away from all that tugs at you with countless strings of remembrance?"

"Away from New York?" She stared at him surprised. "I thought psychiatrists were the apostles of the tenent that you can't run away from yourself."

"You are almost right. Not quite. You can remake yourself into a person you might not want to run away from."

"How?" she asked tensely.

"I can't tell you that. You will know yourself. You are not happy as you are but you can make yourself a different person as though you were an actress. Play a new role, with different stage sets, with new lines—a new audience."

There was something that he was trying to tell her but Alix didn't quite understand. "How can you expect me to pretend that life is a play and I am only an actress?"

"But what are you now, child? You are nothing and yet you live. You cannot always be nothing and yet you will live until your time comes. You cannot—it is against the law of Nature—always be nothing, wrapping yourself in a cloak of pain."

"What can I do?" she was asking herself rather than him.

"Must you stay in New York? Or do you have a papa who will send you around the world? Do you work? If you do, find other work ; if you do not, find work. There is always charity."

"Yes, I have work. I must work." She smiled at him and said, "Thank you and forgive me for making you listen to my troubles."

"That is my work," he said, "but I've never listened to trouble from such a beautiful young lady before."

Alix gazed pensively at his kind face after he had said she was beautiful. She had forgotten how she looked.

"Perhaps I won't have my troubles when we meet again."

"You should never have them."

That night, for the first time, Alix began to think of Bairdsvale. A nostalgia for its peace and quiet came upon her. She got out the three letters that Bill had written her since his return.

There was one paragraph she wanted to reread.

"I dropped in to see Mae Alexander who runs the Antiques and Interior Decorating shop," Bill wrote, "the day after I got back, and told her about you. She was mighty interested in what you had done with these new fangled fabrics. She asked me a lot of questions I couldn't answer. You'd better come out sometime and pay us a visit."

Alix opened her desk, got out her notepaper and pen and began to write hurriedly. She wrote, read what she had written and tore up sheet after sheet. What she had to write was more difficult than any piece of advertising copy she had ever worked over, smoothing and rewriting.

This letter had to ask for something with precisely the right note of interest and conviction without telling her true reason for wanting it. Not an easy thing to do and make convincing. Would anyone believe that a girl with a successful career would be willing to give it up and go back to a small place and start all over? Would any man who had seen the glamorous side of New York, which she knew, believe that she wanted to give it up without a reason?

At last she blotted the finished pages and read what she had written:

"You were right," her neat backhand writing read, "New York is all right for a little while. I've been thinking of Bairdsvale ever since you were here and I want to see it again. I was happier there than I am in New York"—she worded it truthfully as to tense—"and I hope you meant it when you said that if I wanted a job you might be able to arrange it for me. It doesn't cost much to live there, I know, and I'd be willing to work for very little. I wonder if you'd like to talk to your Miss Alexander and ask her if she'd consider taking me in?"

There was more to the letter but that was all she said about a job.

Before she had time to change her mind, she put on her coat and ran to the street to post it.

Perhaps a girl could make a new life for herself and come alive again.

Veterans Take Part in a Program at the Cenotaph

GRAND FORKS, B.C.—In observance of Armistice, a large number of Great War veterans, citizens and school children attended a program held at the local cenotaph at the post office on Wednesday morning. The veterans marched to the cenotaph from the Canadian Legion hall. The program consisted of the singing of "O Canada" after which an Armistice prayer was given by Rev. D. M. Perley. Wreaths were placed on the cenotaph by the different orginizations. "Abide With Me" was sung directly after the observance of the two minutes silence. The program ended by the singing of "God Save the King". Bugler William Eureby sounded "The Last Post" and the veterans then marched to the Canadian Legion hall.

A very successful smoker was held in the Legion hall on Armistice night with about one hundred people present.

A. B. Fenwick gave the toast to His Majesty the King in a fitting manner and the toast to "Our City" was ably responded to by Alderman Jahn Graham and Ex-Mayor C. C. Henninger.

Vocal numbers were contributed by Sam Powell of Trail, Fred Cleeton of Cascade, Earnest Harrison, Alderman John Graham, Juan Puddy, Don McKinnon, Pat Dohyl of Laurier, Wash., and others.

Tap dancing, refreshments and musical numbers also had their place on the lengthy program.

James Grysdale presided very efficiently at the piano during the evening and R. Campbell filled the chair as toast master. Auld Lang Syne chorous was joined in heartily just before midnight.

Farmers' Board Urges That Health Insurance Include Workers on Land

Ask Dental Clinics Be Continued and Nurse Give Advice in Outlying Districts

VICTORIA, Nov. 16 (CP)—The advisory board of the British Columbia Farmers' institutes went on record as being strongly in favor of health insurance and all forms of medical aid at the first meeting of its two day session at the parliament buildings here today.

After hearing E. W. Neel, representative of the Farmers' institutes in the Vancouver Island and Gulf Islands district, and president of the British Columbia Hospitals' association, sketch briefly the health insurance act especially in its relationship to agriculture, the 10 members of the board voted unanimously in favor of a resolution asking that the scheme be extended to include agricultural workers.

As Mr. Neel pointed out that the health insurance act in its present form had eliminated all dental and optical services, a rider was added to the resolution asking that the provincial secretary continue the traevlling dental clinics in outlying districts which were said to be most beneficial.

The advisory board also passed a resolution "proposing some provision for inspection and advisory visits to parents and children in outlying districts by a qualified nurse in order that tendency to disease or physical defects may be treated in an early stage and advice and attention given at once."

OKANAGAN APPLE SALES ARE BEST SINCE 1930 MARK

PENTICTON, Nov. 16 (CP).—Final returns from the sales of this year's Okanagan apple crop will be considerably better than any experienced since 1930, according to shippers and growers here.

Already more than half the 4,000,000-box crop has been sold, and it is believed net returns of export consignment and f.o.b. sales will be better than last year. Domestic prices will also be higher.

STEELS TO FORE

Over 100,000 Shares at Toronto

TORONTO, Nov. 16 (CP)—Interest in the steels raised the price level on the Toronto industrial exchange today to 160.56, up a point from Saturday. Volume was in excess of 100,000 shares.

Renewed reports concerning munition contracts stimulated the pace. Canadian Car and Foundry stocks pushed up ¾, National Steel Car, Page Hersey and United Steel Corporation hit new highs.

Liquors were active with fractional gains. Banks ruled higher, while the utilities were mostly unchanged.

WINNIPEG DULL

Five-Minute Flurry Only Sign of Life

WINNIPEG, Nov. 16 (CP)—A five-minute buying flurry that gave wheat prices a fractional flip was the only sign of life in a moribund grain market today. Values fluctuated within a one-cent range.

The close was ⅜-⅞ cent higher, November at $1.09, December $1.06⅜ May $1.07⅞-$1.08 and July $1.03⅜-½.

Trade news indicative of a definite price trend was lacking. Liverpool and Buenos Aires were weak. A late spurt at Chicago, were two-cent gains were scored, prompted Winnipeg's belated upswing.

Cash and coarse grains prices were firm. Rye headlined the upturn in the latter market.

Gold and Base Metals Shares Index Higher

OTTAWA, Nov. 16 (CP)—Gold and base metals moved upward during the past week, causing a rise in the Dominion bureau of statistics index for 23 mining stocks from 161.8 the previous week to 167.6 in the week ending November 12. CORBIN HUNTERS one man's arm was heavily bandaged. Previously a land search party had found thick splints and torn strips of cloth wh'ch led them to believe one of the hunters had suffered a broken limb.

The flyers dropped 50 pounds of food and a first aid kit. The men had no game with them, Smith said, and were apparently out of ammunition or shots would have been fired to attract attention.

Signals have been flashed from Corbin mountain to Fred Whitney head of the third search party sent out to look for the hunters. He will return here to take the new trail.

WEEK BEFORE RESCUE

It is expected the rescued men will be brought back to Corbin within six or eight days.

Whitney's party, investigating a cloud of smoke behind Corbin mountain, followed a trail that led two miles south of the international boundary.

Two bloodhounds have been used in the search since the splints and bandages were found at the abandoned camp.

According to neighbors the lost men were inexperienced hunters. They have been homesteading a small tract of land near here.

Corbin is near the Alberta-British Columbia boundary and about 40 miles north of the international line.

ABILITY TO CAPITALIZE ON THE BREAKS GIVES KIMBERLEY 5-3 WIN AS NELSON TURNS ON HEAT

Maple Leafs Battle All the Way But Lose at Goal Mouth

KOZAK, CARR TRY TO MIX

Carr Seeks Revenge as His Head Cut But Is He'd Off

Kimberley Dynamiters beat Nelson 5-3 at the civic centre arena Monday night and retained without a blot their Allan cup escutcheon; but they got an awful scare. Nelson went out to put on the heat from the start and for the greater part of the game commanded the play. Lack of finish at the goal-end of attacks, and over-eagerness that gave Kimberley breaks with most of the home team up the ice, accounted mainly for the 5-3 count.

Kimberley's lone goal in the first period, and two more in the second with Nelson scoreless until almost the bell, and another Nelson counter early in the third to make the tally 3-2 had the crowd on edge.

There wasn't any suggestion about it being an easy-going exhibition game, for Kimberley found its vaunted supremacy challenged. Taking advantage of breaks as the Maple Leafs played all up trying to get the equalizing goal, the Dynamiters stretched the lead to 5-2 in the latter half of the final canta, and found Nelson still wasn't ready to admit defeat. Even with a man short the Maple Leafs carried the play to the visitors' net, and Smith scored Nelson's third counter in the melee.

Kimberley's speed and finish, plus a defence that handed out plenty of stiff body checks, won the game. It took a mighty good team to beat Nelson and Kimberley was that team.

SET TEMPO

Nelson set the tempo of the game with a fast break by Car on a shot out from the blue, Red passing to Culley at the goal mouth and Hornquist sliding out to smother, a dandy save. The whole Nelson team was up on the play. Keiver shot across the Nelson goal mouth on the return. Kimberley's defence men were holding their positions and taking long shots. Keiver robbed Bicknell in the Kimberley area and led an attack that Bill McKay broke up by falling on the rubber to block Kemp. The change of lines brought Mackie, Redding and Moore out against Euerby, Duckworth and Paterson and Moore was close on a pass in the Nelson area that he carried in.

Bicknell went through, splitting the Kimberley defence and was in on the goal when Hornquist's sweep took the puck off his stick. Both teams were breaking fast from their defence areas, and producing all kinds of speed. Nelson's pass game was better than on Saturday, with Carr making some fine plays to the goal mouth that failed by the narrowest margins. Kimberley failed to get in close until with the change of lines Mackie and Redding got away fast and had the Nelson defence out of place. McKay slid out to clear. Kimberley's defence had to produce all they had as the locals thrust in again and again.

FIRST COUNTER

Wilson took the puck from Culley in centre ice to launch Kimberley's first scoring attack, passing to Keiver when he was blocked. Keiver, coming up fast, got through unchecked and scored behind McKay as the latter went down.

Nelson replied with a return attack that was close, and almost had another goal chalked up against them as Almack broke away and went in. Paterson lost a fine opening doing it alone with Euerby unchecked beside him. The Kimberley men began to hand out heavy checks as the going got hotter. Atwell was chased for clipping Kemp's stick in front of the Nelson net, and Botterill was sent out to lead the power play. Pucks were flying hot around the Nelson net when Burnett drew a session in the cooler for using the body on attack. They were playing four apiece when Smith, slashing at Reddings' stick, upset the Kimberley man. Atwell got back at that moment and the teams were still even. Smith and Burnett were still off at the bell.

Burnett's penalty was up at the start of the second, and with a man to spare the Dynamiters moved up in another power rush. Smith's return sent play to the other end. Burnett, losing the puck to Duckworth, tripped the Nelson man and was sent to the box again. With the locals all up Wilson broke, backed by Kozak, and Atwell made a fast return to break it up. Hornquist was in difficulties in a pileup in front of the net and Mackie "golfed" the puck out.

SHOOT UP ICE

At full strength again, Kimberley added to McKay's troubles with a rush, and Nelson came back on Pat Egan's attack. Redding broke behind Nelson and passed to Goble, whose knee-high shot was cleared. Forced back into their own area Kimberley battled tooth and nail for the puck and finally shot up the ice in a chorus of boos.

Moving in on Nelson, Mackie, Redding and Goble hammered at the net until Goble put the puck in as McKay went down.

The Dynamiters, taking no chances, shot up the ice to keep out Nelson's four and five-man attacks. Atwell was chased for bouncing Wilson against the boards at the Nelson end, and Kimberley again applied the heat treatment. The power play was clicking in fine style, except for the fact that McKay was hot and his team mates travelled at top speed trying to break it up until Atwell got back.

Nelson moved in then, and play was held well in the Kimberley area. Kemp and Botterill were close on their break. Goble resented Atwell's check and tried to tangle, and despite their loving up and grinning Ref Desireau chased them both.

Redding broke from the faceoff and shot to the side of the net and Goal Ump Joe Ogenski said no goal. Kimberley's argument won the day, however, and the counter was chalked up. McKay saved from Mackie when the latter got away unchecked.

EGAN SCORES

Egan broke the ice for Nelson when, apparently having lost Culley's pass, he shot from behind to Hornquist's stick and Hornquist helped him score it. Kozak was chased on the next play for elbowing Nick Smith, and Kimberley scrambled to shoot up. Pat Egan took a baseball swing at Kimberley's high shot up the ice and was close to making a fair return. Mackie was in on McKay at the bell.

Egan was in the box at the start of the third for tripping Mackie as the second ended, and Kozak was back in the game. Mackie rode Paterson off the puck on Bicknell's pass. Nelson started shooting up the ice and the power played failed. Nelson played three defencemen, unable to get a whistle, when Egan returned. Kimberley shot up with the first pressure, and they had to with Nelson burning them in.

Kozak drew two for tripping Euerby as the Nelson lad drove in. Burnett made a fine save when he blocked Smith as the latter went up with Carr and only Burnett to beat.

Pressing in, Nelson got the break at last when Culley battled though from a faceoff. He lost it, but the rubber went over to Smith on the wing and Carr got the rebound of his shot to make it good. It was just in time, for Kozak came back on the next play.

Burnett stumbled over Euerby's stick and the latter was chased for a penalty. Nelson turned the tables by playing up instead of back and kept Kimberley on the defensive despite being short a man. Kimberley's occasional breaks gave the Dynamiters' defencemen their only rest.

NO-GOAL AND GOAL

Kimberley's fast break with Redding leading produced another argu*ment as Mackie batted in his sec*ond rebound, but Nelson claimed he was in the creche and made it stick.

But the Dynamiters made good without arguing seconds later when Goble came up behind the play to take Kozak's pass and beat McKay cleanly.

There were indications of fisticuffs as Nelson forced a pileup in the Kimberley net, with Carr and Smith in the thick of it. Nelson was playing all up with Kimberley still shooting up. Goble was close when the Dynamiters' broke and Mackie passed to him in front of the net.

Carr had his head cut open in the melee and tried to go after Kozak but both teams united in holding them apart. Carr was off the ice to get treatment when he elected to go back again but the boys still held them and it was no go.

Announce Plans to Wed in Spring

BUDDY ROGERS

MARY PICKFORD

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 16 (AP)—The persistently rumored and frequently denied romance between Mary Pickford and Charles "Buddy" Rogers crystallized tonight in the informal announcement of plans for a wedding in the spring.

Available records give 43 years as the age of Miss Pickford, Toronto-born "America's Sweetheart" of the silent screen. Rogers, orchestra leader and screen player, is 32.

Miss Pickford has been married twice; Rogers not at all. Her first husband was Owen Moore, motion picture actor. She divorced him at Miden, Nevada, in 1920. Three weeks later she married Fairbanks.

For more than a decade they were the "royal couple" of the movie colony.

In 1933 they separated. Two years later Miss Pickford appeared before a Los Angeles judge and testified that Fairbanks was guilty of indifference and neglect, "which defeated the deepest aims of marriage." She was granted a divorce.

Motor License Penalizes "Little Man for Being Little", Cranbrook Head of Farmers' Board Declares

Gas Tax Is Fair, A. B. Smith States, for It Is Paid as Car Used; Farmers' Institutes Now Have Membership of 6000

VICTORIA, Nov. 16 (CP).—The burden of the motor licence on the "small man" who did not buy as much gasoline in a year as his licence cost was stressed by A. B. Smith of the East Kootenay district, president of the advisory board of the British Columbia Farmers' institute, in presenting the chairman's report at the meeting of the board in the parliament buildings today.

The gas tax was fair enough, Mr. Smith said, because that was paid as the car was used, but the motor licence "penalized the little man for being little."

The chairman also said there was an increasing dissatisfaction among farmers with returns from relief work. He felt some useful endeavor such as providing a storage basis for the flood waters should be undertaken instead of grading and regrading roads.

6000 MEMBERS IN B.C.

Two new farmers' institutes had been formed last year, W. J. Bonavia, secretary to the advisory board, said in presenting his report. This brought the number of institutes throughout the province to 211. The membership had shown an increase of 400 to approximately 6000.

Mr. Bonavia also reviewed legislation effecting farmers which had been passed last year.

R. C. Biss, member of the board from Surrey Center, suggested the advisory board should meet once a year and not at the call of the minister.

Committee Favors Cut in Granby's Capitalization

VICTORIA, Nov. 16 (CP).—The private bills committee of the legislature today reported favorably upon a bill to empower a reduction in the capitalization of Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting & Power Company, Ltd., from $50,000,000 to $2,500,000.

A. S. Lane, who appeared for the company, said the purpose of *the measure was to permit the re*opening of Allenby and Copper Mountain properties which would employ several hundred men.

McConchies Are Just About the Whole Cheese!

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 16 (CP).—When the McConchie family goes to church in a body, it not only attends the service but conducts it as well.

The family—172 members of it—recently attended South Richmond Methodist church in a body. The service was conducted by Mr McConchie, assisted by another McConchie. The choir of 30 and the orchestra of three were all McConchies, and McConchies took up an unusually large collection from more than 100 other McConchies.

Mr. and Mrs. David McConchie came to Austrlia 64 years ago from Langham, Scotland, and founded the family of which their eldest surviving son, aged 77, is now "head man." The family has its own very successful cricket team.

Decision in a Week on Stork Derby

TORONTO, Nov. 16 (CP).—Validity of the "stork derby" clause of Charles Vance Millar's will, bombarded today in open court by attorneys representing relatives who received no part of the eccentric lawyer's $500,000 estate, will be determined at least temporarily next week by Mr. Justice W. E. Middleton.

In a courtroom crowded with lawyers, the Ontario supreme court justice said he would hand down a decision in a week, "if at all possible," not only on the validity question but whether the clause could be construed to include births of illegitimate children. One mother claimant to the fortune, Mrs. Pauline Clarke, registered fire births after separating from her husband.

ALBERTA KILLING

The body of Karl Schvests, 40, former section foreman at Tieland and alleged to be the slayer, was found lying in a slough partly submerged in water. Schvests clutched a rifle in one hand another was lying nearby. Condition of the rifles, police said, indicated they had been used as clubs on the woman and child.

LEFT A LETTER

Police reported Schvests had chopped a hole in the ice covering the slough. While standing over the hole, he shot himself through the temple and fell into the hole but the body did not go completely under water

Police said they had been informed Schvests had been "acting queerly" lately and according to other section men he was "sore" and holding a grudge against Nelson. Railway officials stated Schvests resigned in the fall of 1935 because of ill health.

In June, 1918, five persons were shot to death with a revolver at Grande Prairie, Alta. The crime has not been solved. Again in October, 1930, a shotgun mass murder near Smokey Lake took the lives of five persons. George Dwernychuck was hanged for the latter shootings.

SHOOTING STARTS

Garry said he met Jack Towns of Flatbush soon after he arrived at Tieland, adding Towns reported finding the Nelson home locked and a fire at Schvests' house where a call went unanswered.

"Towns left us and when he got about 300 feet away, shooting started," Garry went on. "There were four shots fired. Erna (Ristock) said: 'Somebody seems to be shooting at us.'

"I thought that was impossible but it was very foggy and we could not see any distance. The last shot convinced me, however, that she was right, because the bullet came pretty close to us. We proceeded to Nelson's house and Doris Sands came out of a little bunkhouse. ***

"While we were standing there, Towns came back and said he could not go ahead in the face of gun fire. He said: 'that man must be crazy—he told me to go back or he'd shoot me.'

"We were standing beside the (Nelson) house when a cat jumped up on the windowsill," said Garry. "It had blood all over its paws. I got an inkling then that something was wrong, but wanted to keep it from Erna, so I told her to wait and I'd go and take a look."

HEADS BATTERED

"I went to the door and looked through a small pane and saw the mother and child lying on the floor, their heads all battered."

Miss Ristock, sister of Mrs. Nelson, and Garry had been invited to visit the Nelson home. Both live at Flatbush, seven miles south of Tieland.

Garry said the gunman was sighted soon after he discovered the bodies. Garry fled on a speeder with Towns, Miss Ristock, and Doris Sands who spent the previous night alone in a bunkhouse after she had failed to receive a reply at the Nelson home. Mrs. Nelson, had hired her as a domestic.

After the night alone in the shack, Miss Sands went to Schvests' house and had a cup of tea with him, Garry stated.

"She inquired about the Nelsons and he told her they would be back pretty soon," the Flatbush man added.

insurgent planes had been brought down during the air attacks. Twenty-three government machines flew over Madrid pursuing the 15 raiders.

One bomb fell on a house at number seven Villalar street, close to the French embassy.

The air ministry reported government planes bombed the railroad station at Fascist-held Salamanca, burning war materials stored there, and an arsenal at Cadiz.

CROWDS SEEK SHELTER

When the insurgent planes bombed the Atocha station, homegoing crowds of the Gran Via, an important business street, scattered for safety into subway entrances as anti-aircraft guns were fired at the planes. The defenders' tracer bullets flashed the dark sky.

It was the first night raid in several weeks. One insurgent plane crashed in flames when a government gunner scored a direct hit earlier today.

Before the insurgents lost their foothold in Madrid, several beautiful and expensive new buildings of the university were wrecked in artillery and machine-gun exchange, the government said.

A small group of the enemy filtered across the shallow Manzanares river and seized one building on the campus, the official statement declared, but heavy fire by the Madrid militiamen kept back reinforcements who sought to join them.

All Madrid's newspapers except those operated by the government will suspend publication because of a newsprint shortage, the Defence Junta said, but some will move to Valencia.

If Paris today officials said Belgium and Czechoslovakia would join France in protesting Germany's denuciation of the navigation clauses of the Versailles treaty.

Eden expressed "regrets" Germany has "again abandoned procedure by negotiation in favor of unitaleral action despite the assurance given last year."
