Slovaks Get Autonomy With Their Own Prime Minister and Four Cabinet Men

Will Have Charge of Everything in the Area Except Foreign Affairs, National Defence, National Debt and Loan Contraction

BOHEMIA ISOLATED, DEFENCELESS, LOSES MINES BY NAZI OCCUPATION

PRAGUE, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Czechoslovak government launched a determined program today to build a more unified republic by binding together Czechs and Slovaks remaining within its narrowed borders.

The first step came with appointment of Dr. Joseph Tisot, vice-president of the Slovak People's party, as "prime minister of Slovakia" in the new Prague government.

His appointment, granting the Slovaks autonomy within the framework of the Czechoslovak government, was requested by the Slovak People's party which formed a coalition with two other Slovak political groups—the Nationalists and Agrarians.

The Slovaks, holding their congress at Zilina, reaffirmed their independence but promised cooperation with the Czechs in an effort to maintain the republic.

FOUR MINISTERS

The new autonomous Slovakia will have four ministers in the Prague government, in addition to Dr. Tisot.

The Slovak minister, acting quickly to obtain the equal representation in Prague as promised by Premier Jan Syrovy, nominated Martin Sokol and Karol Sidor for ministerial posts.

He will propose nomination of the two additional Slovak ministers from among his followers.

Slovakia will be in charge of everything in its territory except foreign affairs, national defence, administration of the national state debt and contraction of loans.

These four items will be under the Prague government.

Dr. Tisot and his four ministers also will sit in the Czechoslovak parliament.

The seat of the Slovak government undoubtedly will be Bratislava.

Ontario Tories to Name Leader at Dec. 8 Meeting

TORONTO, Oct. 6 (CP)—Ontario Conservatives today set December 8 and December 9 as dates for a province-wide convention to choose a party leader succeeding Hon. Earl Rowe, leader since 1936. Mr. Rowe announced his resignation at the Ontario Conservative association annual meeting July 21.

By a vote of 200 to 83, delegates selected the date and beat down a proposal to defer the convention until spring.

Stove in Trailer Explodes, Hunting Trip Is Interrupted

WILLIAMS LAKE, B. C., Oct. 6 (CP)—The hunting trip of four Vancouver men was interrupted here tonight when a kerosene oil stove exploded in their trailer and completely destroyed the interior of the "rolling home."

Neither of the four—A. G. Meekison, Sidney Anderson, R. M. McLuckie and G. C. Dixon—en route north by automobile for a week's hunting in the Cariboo district, were injured. Most of their equipment and personal effects were destroyed.

Insurgent Drive Not Successful

HENDAYE, France (At Spanish Frontier) Oct. 6 (AP)—Spanish insurgent forces were reported today to have hammered unavailingly at government positions on a Sierra of the Ebro river front.

This, however, was only one of the local engagements into which today's advices said the war had lapsed on all fronts.

The combat on the Ebro front of South Catalonia nevertheless was reported fierce. Preceded by an aerial bombardment, insurgent troops stormed hills 35; and 241 on the Coll Del Coso range. But advices reaching Hendaye said they were thrown back to where they had started.

Insurgent planes continued propaganda "bombardment" of government cities with bread and tobacco. Quantities of bread were dropped on Alicante, but the governor of that city said the people feared the loaves were poisoned and police gathered them all up.

CHINESE ADMIT KITCHUN IS TAKEN BY JAPANESE IN DRIVE, HANKOW

Only 80 Miles Down Yangtse From Capital

"BORDER GOV'T." CAPITAL TAKEN

SHANGHAI, Oct. 7 (Friday) (AP)—Japanese military authorities reported today their forces cut the Peiping-Hankow railway late yesterday 92 miles north of Hankow.

Severance of the vital rail artery, connecting the nation's military capital with Chinese armies along western sections of the Yellow river, was said to have been accomplished by a concentrated Japanese thrust.

Point at which the railway was cut was announced as eight miles south of Sinyang, about 100 miles north of Hankow.

HANKOW, Oct. 6 (AP)—Chinese military headquarters acknowledged tonight that Japanese forces had occupied Kichun, on the north bank of the Yangtze river, 80 miles downstream from Hankow.

Simultaneously Chinese military authorities admitted that a Japanese column pressing westward through the southern tip of Honan province had reached a position within 14 miles of the Peiping-Hankow railway.

The Chinese said their "reprimed" air force bombed and machine-gunned the Japanese in the river valley above Kiukiang while Japanese airmen bombed Manchang, south of Kiukiang, and Chengchow, junction of the Lunghai and Peiping-Hankow railways in northern Honan province.

"I THROWED MYSELF OUT," SAYS BEATEN DEAN; HARTNETT PRAISES

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Oct. 6 (AP)—"I throwed myself out."

With these four words Dizzy Dean told the story of his gallant pitching in the chill of Wrigley Field today with the Yankees lambasting him for two home runs after he had them in check until the eighth inning.

Dean appeared to be crushed over the disaster. He was drawn and tired. He complained his right arm pained him severely from the sixth inning and said it felt as if a piece of bone was sticking out of his shoulder.

Larry French, Cub lefthander, came to the clubhouse, walked silently across the room to where Dean was standing and threw his arms around him. No word was spoken; none was needed.

"Throwed myself out," Dean moaned. "I had them beat 3-2 until Crosetti hit his homer. Those things just happen and you can't help it. Those first two runs should never have been scored. The Yankees were the luckiest ball club in the last days that I ever saw."

The Cubs, with Manager Gabby Hartnett among them, were silent, downcast when they entered the clubhouse.

HARTNETT AGREES

"Dean pitched his heart out," Hartnett said finally. "Even with a bad arm, he still gave me the best he had. What he couldn't do with a good arm! I'm praying that his arm comes back next season. What a guy, what a guy."

Hartnett said Crosetti's homer in the eighth inning came on a fast ball, or what was supposed to be Dean's fast ball. The count was three and two on Frank.

"The one that DiMaggio hit," Gabby added, "really was a lulu. He really teed off on that one."

CRIES OF VICTORY

The Yankees' dressing room rang with whoops and cries of victory.

"The Dagoes did it," shouted big Bill Dickey.

DiMaggio and Crosetti, home run heroes of the day, grinned their appreciation.

"East Side, West Side," chanted the venerable Coach Art Fletcher and the entire team joined in the thundering 'Sidewalks of New York' refrain.

Manager Joe McCarthy, obviously elated, paid frank tribute to Dean.

"He's got one of those things," he said, patting his heart. "He's a good pitcher. No question about that. The boys were not used to his motion, but they really hit that ball when they got started.

"He pitched a good game. So did Gomez."

NEW RECORD

Lefty Gomez, who established a new world series pitching record of six victories in a row, although he was taken out of today's game to make way for a pinch-hitter, commented:

"I shouldn't take that one, the way I pitched. They ought to give that one to Crosetti and DiMaggio and to McCarthy, too, for letting me stay in as long as I did."

George Selkirk pulled a back muscle in jerking away from one of Larry French's pitches in the ninth inning. But McCarthy figured the strain would not be severe enough to keep him out of the line-up Saturday.

No Inquest Into Death, Coast, of Smelting Engineer

VANCOUVER, Oct. 6 (CP)—Coroner J. D. Whitbread said today no inquest will be held into the death of Preston Locke, consulting engineer of the American Mining & Smelting company, whose body was found in Vancouver harbor.

It was believed Mr. Locke stumbled on the wharf where his diesel cruiser Syrene was docked while returning late last night from visiting friends ashore. His body was found in two feet of water under the dock early this morning.

Dr. Whitbread, who knew Locke years ago when both were connected with the Northern Peru Mining company, said death was accidental.

DE VALERA SEEKS PLEBISCITE IN THE NORTH

DUBLIN, Oct. 6 (CP Cable)—Prime Minister de Valera has indicated to Great Britain that he considers the time now is opportune for a plebiscite in certain areas of the six counties of Northern Ireland, it was learned here tonight.

Seizing the opportunity afforded by settlement of the Sudeten German and other minority problems of Czechoslovakia, the prime minister of Eire raised the question of the partition of Ireland with the British government.

On his way home from Geneva, where he acted as president of the League of Nations assembly, Mr. de Valera met Prime Minister Chamberlain at No. 10 Downing street, in response to a letter written in Mr. Chamberlain's own hand.

If a plebiscite were held, government circles here predicted, four of the six counties—Down, Armagh, Fermanagh, Tyrone, Antrim and Londonderry—would come under Dublin's administration.

Chamberlain Goes Salmon Fishing as House Approves Peace Policy, 366-144

20 Gov't. Supporters, Four Independent and Six Pacifist Labor Members Do Not Vote; House Adjourns Until End of Month

PREMIER SAYS HE FEELS SURE HE WAS RIGHT IN CZECH PROPOSITION

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 6 (CP Cable)—Parliament adjourned tonight until November 1 after voting confidence in the peace policy of the Chamberlain government.

A few minutes after Prime Minister Chamberlain told the hushed house of commons his conscience was clear on his peace deal with Chancellor Hitler, the government's foreign policy was approved, 366 to 144.

In a previous division, a Labor amendment, which would have committed the government to calling a world peace conference, discarding its own policy, was defeated, 369 to 150.

The 69-year-old government leader, tested sorely by many weeks of intense activity, left later for 10 days or two weeks of salmon fishing. He will be a guest of the Earl of Howe in Scotland.

DO NOT VOTE

It was understood after the division that 20 government supporters abstained from voting. They included Winston Churchill, Anthony Eden, Alfred Duff Cooper, and L. C. M. S. Amery. The pacifist Labor group under George Lansbury, numbering six, also sat in their seats during the vote. The four Independent Labor members also declined to vote for or against the government.

The Labor and Opposition Liberal parties voted against Mr. Chamberlain's policies.

Here are the points hammered out by Mr. Chamberlain:

1. He is opposed to compulsory conscription in peacetime but is ready to harness the "spiritual revival" manifest among the people during the crisis. He invited suggestions as to how to accomplish this.

NO ELECTION

2. There will be no immediate general election. There was a great feeling of relief and thankfulness when war was averted and "I should not want to capitalize on a feeling of that kind for the sake of obtaining some temporary party advantage.

3. This is not the time to call a world peace conference. It would be better to hold none than one bound to fail. A successful peace conference must wait until there is an indication the totalitarian states will be represented and willing to subscribe to its objective.

Bar Italians From Wedding Outsider

ROME, Oct. 7 (Friday) (AP)—The Fascist grand council ended a night session early today by issuing a sweeping series of regulations limiting participation of Jews in Italy's national life.

After a 4½ hour session devoted largely to racial questions, Fascism's supreme policy-making body banned all marriages between Italians and "African, Semitic and other races."

Civilian and military employees of the state were forbidden to marry "foreign women of whatever race," and other Italians were required to have the interior ministry's permission before contracting any foreign marriage.

The council declared "world Hebrewism, especially after the abolition of freemasonry, has been the inspiter of anti-Fascism in all fields.

"Hebrewism abroad or among Italian exiles has been in some periods like 1924 and 1926 and during the Ethiopian war unanimously hostile to Fascism."

10-TON GAG

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 6 (AP)—A gag, that betters any ever whipped up in Hollywood—by weight, at least—resulted in the arrival at the harbor today of 10 tons of stone.

This stone is no ordinary stone—it is the same unadulterated limestone from the quarry, where in 1446, they broke off the chunks that went into the building of Ireland's Blarney castle.

Manfred Meyberg of Los Angeles cabled his friend, John Bodger, who was visiting Ireland: "Buy me the Blarney Stone." Bodger replied: "I've bought the whole quarry." Then Meyberg—still kidding—again cabled: "Ship me 10 tons of it."

"I'll be doggoned," said Meyberg when offers—ranging from jewelry firms, which want bits of the stone, to the folks in San Francisco, who'd like to make a new Blarney castle out of the 10 tons on Treasure Island—started coming in.

"Maybe this won't be such a lot of blarney, after all," he guessed.

Cave-in Halts Work in Nanaimo Mine; to Be Shut Down Soon

NANAIMO, B. C., Oct. 6 (CP)—A gang of workmen toiled today to clear the debris of a huge cave-in at the Western Fuel corporation of Canada's number one mine, which soon may shut down permanently after 55 years of production.

John Hunt, general manager of the corporation, intimated the mine would be abandoned within a fortnight, although he could not set the date definitely. He said it was common knowledge a shut-down was inevitable because of the high cost of producing the remaining coal in the workings.

The cave-in will close the mine until Saturday at least. When shut down permanently it is anticipated the 300 miners employed underground will be absorbed by other properties in the Nanaimo district.

"Gee, Is THAT Guy Weissmuller?" Asks Bartender When Told Stranger Is "Guy" Who Writes Tarzan Stuff

SEATTLE, Oct. 6 (AP)—Edgar Rice Burroughs, creator of Tarzan of the Apes, sat in his hotel room today and told interviewers the following joke on himself.

He went into a New York city bar not long ago with a friend. The friend asked the bartender:

"Did you ever hear of Tarzan?"

"No," the bartender said.

"Do you mean to tell me you never heard of Tarzan of the Apes?" the friend demanded with astonishment.

"Oh, him!" said the bartender. "Sure."

"You see this guy?" the friend said, indicating Burroughs. "He writes the stuff."

"Gee," said the bartender, "is THAT guy Johnny Weissmuller?"

"Such," concluded Burroughs, "is fame."

ROOSEVELT MAY SPEAK IN NEW YORK ONLY

HYDE PARK, N.Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—President Roosevelt was represented today by an authoritative source as having decided to make no campaign speeches in any state with the possible exception of New York, where a test of extraordinary importance is in prospect.

This disclosure was made after a democratic delegation from Pennsylvania called on the president here at the summer white house.

HITLER HAILED IN SECOND ZONE

RUMBURG, Sudetenland, Oct. 6 (AP)—Adolf Hitler came into the second Sudetenland zone today to a reception which rivalled his previous two grand entries into his newly acquired territory.

Tolling bells and roars of "hail our liberator" greeted the feuhrer who proceeded to a grandstand in the market square for a brief speech.

"Our vow," he said, "in this hour is that every foot of German soil on which the flag of the German reich has once been planted would remain German forever."

He reached here at mid-day, having crossed into the second zone between Opach and Tugau. Military occupation of this area was completed yesterday.

Approximately 24,000 troops advanced, meanwhile, into the Silesian fourth zone, southeast of here. They were commanded by Colonel-General von Rundstedt, who took over one-third of the fourth zone by the end of the first day of occupation.

Reserves Decision on Assault Charge

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C., Oct. 6 (CP)—Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson in assize court here today reserved judgment in the trial of Thomas L. Jamieson, charged with asault, pending submission of written argument by counsel for plaintiff W. J. Kyle.

Kyle, McBride, B.C. telegraph operator, alleged he was assaulted by Jamieson in an altercation at the interior centre May 22. He claims $5000 damages.

Defence Counsel J. O. Wilson declared Kyle had laid an information before Magistrate David Hay at McBride and on that ground any further trial was contrary to law.

Woman and Her Grandson Die in Que. Flames

BRISTOL'S CORNERS, Que., Oct. 6 (CP)—An aged woman and her grandson were burned to death today while her son was burned severely in attempting to rescue them when fire destroyed a two-storey frame home near this Pontiac county village 20 miles north of Campbell's Bay.

Two Missing as Tanker Burned

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 6 (AP)—Two men were reported missing and another injured late today after the 435-foot tanker E. J. Bullock burned and sank near the Dry Tortugas.

The steamer O. M. Bernuth radioed to coast guard headquarters here she had picked up two boatloads of survivors and was proceeding to Key West with them.

Sighting the burning vessel, the Bernuth sped to the scene. The tanker had sunk before the Bernuth, 10 miles away when the flames were seen, could approach.

MRS. KENNY IS CAUGHT AFTER A POLICE CHASE IN A TORONTO LANE

Arrest Follows Fourth Fire in Her Home in Four Months

WAS FIREWORKS IN STORK DERBY

TORONTO, Oct. 6 (CP)—Mrs. Matthew Kenny, short, plump and volatile French-Canadian matron who supplied most of the fireworks but not enough eligible babies for the Millar will stork derby, sprinted 75 yards with an agility that belied her figure before being arrested on a charge of arson tonight.

The arrest was made in a lane at the rear of her Bathurst street home where the fourth fire in as many months in houses inhabited by the much publicized Kennys wrecked a kitchen, a staircase and upper floor rooms last Tuesday night. She was taken to a police station and held in bail of $5000.

The proceedings were too much for Pa Kenny. He went about the fire-wrecked house muttering:

"It's more than I can make out. It's more than I can make out."

WENT ON LONG TAXI-RIDE

Mrs. Kenny was taken into custody shortly after returning from a long taxi-cab ride. She was accompanied on the pleasure trip by as many of her children as could climb into the cab.

Five police officers were waiting for her. They said that as soon as she entered the house and saw the officers she broke into strong language, ran through the kitchen and past three detectives guarding the rear door and sped down the lane. She was caught at the corner of the lane and a street.

The arrest was made on a warrant sworn out by Deputy Marshal Walter McConnel who accompanied the police squad to the Kenny home.

Mrs. Kenny began to grab headlines when Charles Vance Millar, Toronto lawyer, died in 1926, leaving a will which bequeathed an estimated $500,000 to the Toronto mother bearing the most children in the 10 years after his death. Four mothers who gave birth to nine children during the 10-year period divided the money after three of Mrs. Kenny's children were ruled ineligible.

Benes Visits Masaryk Tomb

PRAGUE, Oct. 6 (CP-Havas)—Eduard Benes, who resigned the Czechoslovak presidency yesterday, today made a pilgrimage to Lany to strew flowers before the tomb of Thomas Carrigue Masaryk, founder and first president of the Post-War Republic. Dr. Benes, accompanied by his wife, knelt in prayer before the tomb.

JAMES SHERAN, JOSIE LOCATOR, DIES ON STREET AT AGE OF 86

Hurrying for Street Car When Heart Gives Out

James Sheran, 68-year-old pioneer of the Kootenays, collapsed and died near his home in Fairview Thursday morning, while hurrying to catch a street car to go up-town. He had gone to work earlier in the morning, looking after the Vernon street bandstand, but had forgotten some keys. He had gone home to get them, and it was after he secured them and was going back to work that he died.

With his brothers, P. J. Sheran, now in Nelson, and the late Harry Sheran, and Philip Aspenwall, and the late Robert E. Lemon, he was a locator of the well known Columbia, Kootenay and Josie mining claims at Rossland, in the early days when Rossland was just a camp.

IN KOOTENAYS IN 1892

Born in Picton, Ont., in 1870, he came to the Kootenays in 1892, settling first at New Denver where he and his brother, "Paddy" operated the old Central hotel until 1897. They then moved to Nelson and have been here since.

ALASKA AND NEVADA

Mr. Sheran was a plumber by trade, but for years had followed mining, working on many district properties. He had been in almost every mining boom in the northwest since coming here from Ontario. He was in Alaska, Gold Fields, Nevada, and many other places where sudden rich strikes were made. He did his last mining work in the Lardeau country, for his brother, P. J. Sheran. He was heavily interested in the Molly Hughes property at New Denver.

Some years ago he was manager of the Strathcona hotel in Nelson, when the hotel was owned by Mr. Webb. Years ago he also managed hotels at Kamloops and Prince Rupert.

Before leaving Ontario, he followed the grocery business, and had been engaged in that trade in San Antonio, Texas, and other places.

Surviving him are his brother, P. J. Sheran, in Nelson; and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Brown of Batavia, N. Y., and Mrs. William Jones, Picton, Ont.

MAY SETTLE MIXED AREAS IN THE SUDETENLAND WITHOUT PLEBISCITE

BERLIN, Oct. 6 (AP) — Both German and Czechoslovak sources indicated tonight their countries might settle the issue of Sudetenland areas with mixed populations without resorting to a plebiscite.

The question of the mixed areas is the next to be solved in the progressive realization of the terms of the four-power Munich accord.

The next step for the international commission under that accord would be to determine territories which would vote in a plebiscite for union with Germany or for staying with Czechoslovakia.

But so favorably have negotiations progressed since yesterday's resignation of Eduard Benes as president of Czechoslovakia that prospects brightened every hour for settling the question of the mixed areas without necessity of a pebiscite.

ADANACS TAKE ON ATHLETICS FIRST TONIGHT

TORONTO, Oct. 6 (CP)—Sixteen strong, New Westminster Adanacs arrived here today to defend the dominion lacrosse championship, held by their fellow-townsmen, the famous Salmonbellies. Adanacs meet St. Catharines Athletics, eastern champions, in the first of a best-of-five game series in Maple Leaf Gardens tomorrow night.

A young, fast team under the leadership of Manager Cam MacKenzie and Coach Jim Gifford, the Adanacs held a brief workout on the Garden floor today but were handicapped, having to dodge about a wrestling ring constructed in the centre of the arena.

MORE ABOUT SINO-JAPANESE

A railway station at Chengchow was said to have been destroyed.

Japanese occupation of Wutai, a city of northeastern Shansi province, stronghold of the Chinese eighth army, was reported semi-officially. Wutai, about 200 miles southwest of Peiping, is famous as a religious centre.

Since the Chinese-Japanese war started Wutai has been known as capital of the "Chinese border government" from which the eighth army, a Communist force, directed anti-Japanese political and military activity throughout North China.

A Japanese spokesman said Generalissimo Chiang had changed his tactics in the defence of Hankow and was employing the central government's best troops, rather than provincial soldiers, in the front lines.

slava, principal city of Slovakia.

The Czech half of the republic—the old kingdom of Bohemia—meanwhile was almost in a state of siege from slowly encircling German domination.

The prospects faced tonight by Bohemia, as a result of a decision of the International Sudetenland commission at Berlin last night were

1. Occupation of a fifth zone which gave to the Germans a major portion of the famed Moravian gateway fortifications once pronounced by a French military commission as "stronger than the Maginot line."

2. Virtual isolation, since rail communications and highways would be barred by German control under the commission plan.

3. Loss of many coal mines and industries under the fifth zone agreement which the Czechs characterized as "summarily approved without asking us."

4. Loss of telephone connections with the outside world. Telegraph and radio would be the only communications left.

UNITED CHURCH PRESBYTERY FOR $4,000,000 MISSIONARY APPEAL

TRAIL, B. C., Oct. 6—Rev. J. L. Clerihue of Windermere was elected secretary, Rev. J. R. Burt of Ymir treasurer, and Rev. D. M. Burns of Michel, statistical secretary of the Kootenay Presbytery of the United Church of Canada today, at conclusion of the three-day fall sessions in Knox United church here.

MOBILIZING QUARTER-MILLIONS

Purpose and details of the quarter million fellowship crusade being launched October 23 was explained by Dr. G. A. Wilson of Vancouver, president of the B. C. conference. This explanation was in connection with the home missions committee report by Rev. T. W. Reed, Rossland.

Pledging of a quarter million people to attend church during the closing ten weeks of 1938 would be attempted in this campaign, it was explained.

The same number would be enrolled to pray for the different branches of the church, and another quarter million to make contributions of any size to stop the continual deficit of the church and aid in balancing the church budget.

Need of personal evangelism in all walks of life was stressed by Dr. Hugh Robson, department of evangelism and social service associate secretary, in his report.

Missionary and maintenance funds and pension funds were badly in need of stabilization, Dr. Wilson said in a report. Despite this fact, the church was really in a sound financial position, he said.

AUTHORIZE $4,000,000 APPEAL

The finance committee of the B. C. Presbytery conference was given authority to appeal for $4,000,000 in 1939 to be apportioned as follows: Missionary funds $1,750,000; pension funds $1,500,000; home mission property $250,000; foreign mission property $250,000; and stabilization of missionary and maintenance fund $250,000.

Special attention to the religious education of Canadian youth was shown as a requirement, through reports presented at the general conference of the United church in Toronto recently, Dr. Wilson said in an address on that conference.

Statistics showed that only 600,000 children attended Sabbath schools, a considerable decrease, while some 200,000 met during week days in church groups.

A devotional period conducted by Rev. S. T. Galbraith, Kimberley, a devotional service led by Rev. T. W. Reed, Rossland, an interesting address, "The Problem of the Unanswered Prayer," by Rev. L. W. Hardy, Fernie, and the Lord's supper marked the opening of the presbytery session Tuesday. A banquet tendered by the Knox United Church board followed the afternoon program.

Mayor E. L. Groutage extended official greeting from the city to 16 ministers and nine lay delegates at the opening session.

EDMONTON, Oct. 6 (CP) —Coach Bill Broadfoot sent his husky young University of Alberta Polar Bears through a tough scrimmage here tonight in preparation for their third gridiron clash Saturday with University of British Columbia Thunderbirds.

Polar Bears, who received a 35-0 drubbing from Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Canada Football conference, have only nine holdovers from last year's team. Only two players, Halfback Blades and Lineman Wilson, have been with the team more than one year. The remainder of Broadfoot's charges are either freshmen or recruits from last year's inter-faculty teams.

THREE R.A.F. FLIERS KILLED; FIVE MISSING

LONDON, Oct. 6 (CP-Havas)—Three Royal Air Force fliers were killed tonight in a crash in Wales and five others were feared dead aboard a bomber which had not been heard from since last midnight.

A third R.A.F. plane was destroyed when struck by lightning during maneuvers in Yorkshire today, but its five occupants landed safely by parachute.

U.B.C. Lecture Institute, Trail Postpones Meet

TRAIL, B.C., Oct. 6—Meeting of the Trail institute which sponsors University of British Columbia extension lectures, planned for tonight, was postponed indefinitely when members failed to turn out in sufficient numbers. The meeting was to have been held in Memorial hall.

Alternate Courses for Schooner Race

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 6 (AP)—A compromise tonight ended a dispute which had threatened to prevent resumption Sunday of an ancient rivalry for the international fishermen's trophy between Captain Angus Walters' Canadian champion, Bluenose, and Captain Ben Pine's United States challenger, the Gloucester schooner Gertrude L. Thebaud.

Captain Walters had steadfastly refused to sail courses, plotted by the United States race authorities, which would have sent the two vessels twice around an 18-mile triange, which he described as a "merry-go-round". He demanded a once-around single 36-mile triangle.

The race committee announced alternate courses would be used during the first four races.

SEATTLE, Oct. 6 (AP)—E. L. Campbell, realty company sales manager, today announced sale of "Rosario", San Juan Islands estate of Robert Moran, 81, retired Seattle shipbuilder, to Donald L. Rheem, Richmond, Cal., capitalist. It was described as the largest private estate in this territory.

Adjourn Jorgenson Case, Trail, After an All-Day Sitting

TRAIL, B.C., Oct. 6—After an all-day session, the hearing of Joseph Jorgenson, C. M. & S. company truck driver, charged with driving to the common danger, was adjourned until Wednesday by Donald MacDonald, magistrate, in police court today.

A. L. Johannson, C. M. & S. company counsel, represented the defendant, while Chief of Police John Laurie acted for the crown.

The charge arose out of a collision between a C. M. & S. company truck, driven by Jorgenson, and a Moynes Transfer truck, driven by Jack Caruk, on Lower Riverside street, September 13.

MORE ABOUT CHAMBERLAIN

4. He qualified the famous phrase, "Peace in our time," which he used on his return to London from Munich. He asked the phrase not be read literally because it was spoken at a moment of great emotion after an exhausting day. But he went on: "I do believe we may yet secure peace for our time but I never meant to suggest we could do it by disarming until we could induce other nations to disarm too."

PROBE DEFENCES

5. There will be an immediate and exhaustive investigation of Britain's defences, which revealed their weakness and deficiencies, as well as their strength, during the crisis.

6. The Paris-London axis will not be deserted. The crisis solidified the cooperation between the two nations.

The early part of the prime minister's speech showed him nearer to open emotion than any speech he has made in the house. His voice was often so low and hoarse he was almost inaudible. Gestures, which he seldom uses, were frequent.

Then having sketched his personal position in the crisis the responsibility that rested on him, he dropped into his customary delivery. Emotion disappeared. His argument became incisive. His challenges to his political opponents were direct.

TORIES CHEER LABOR

Indicative of the way in which crisis issues cut through party lines, the house witnessed the unusual spectacle of Conservatives cheering John McGovern, independent Labor, because he praised Mr. Chamberlain.

Defending his policy in the weeks of crisis which ended with the four-power Munich accord, Mr. Chamberlain told the house:

"I have been charged with cowardice, weakness, presumption and stupidity. I have been accused of bringing the country to the edge of war and have been denied the merit of snatching it back to safety . . .

"When a man gets to my age and fills my position, I think he tends to feel that criticism and even abuse matter little to him. It is his conscience that matters."

AVERTED WAR

He said he felt convinced his action had averted war and added:

"I claim no credit for my action for it was only what anyone in my position would feel it his duty to do. I am equally sure I was right in doing it."

He said that today was a different thing from what it used to be and in the very first hour it would strike the man in the street and his wife and children at home.

Then he declared:

"You cannot ask people to accept such a prospect unless you feel yourself, and can make them feel, that the cause for which they are going to fight is a vital cause—a cause that transcends all ordinary human values and a cause to which you can point, if some day you win a victory, and say that cause is safe."

Mr. Chamberlain said he, and not Chancellor Hitler, drew up the Anglo-German "no more war" declaration at Munich and explained it was not a pact but his and Hitler's "opinion of the desire of their respective peoples" never to go to war with each other.

Union Organizer at Trail Seeks to Carry Gun; Landlady Told to "Get Rid of Evans," He Asserts

TRAIL, B.C., Oct. 6—Assurance that he would be given required protection by British Columbia police was given Arthur Evans, International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers organization secretary, by Inspector John A. Macdonald, Nelson, in a telephone interview, when Mr. Evans today made application for permission to carry firearms as a "protective measure".

Following a mysterious telephone warning Tuesday night to "get out of town", after which his car was allegedly towed from the city and burned near Stoney Creek, Mr. Evans made the application, fearing for his personal safety.

A telephoned warning to Mr. Evans' landlady at 115 Bay avenue, "to get rid of Evans" came about 3 p.m. Wednesday, the union organizer asserted today. "To save her further worry," Mr. Evans stated he would secure other lodgings.

Trail city and Tadanac police today continued investigations of the truck burning, several persons being questioned. Just what progress in investigations had been made was not said. Assurance that all the resources of the provincial police department would be placed at disposal of city police if requested, was given by Inspector Macdonald.

Mr. Evans, in making application to carry arms, first approached R. R. Burns, M.P.P., who contacted Inspector Macdonald for him. This permission could be granted only by the commissioner of police, Victoria, the organization secretary was informed, reference being made to the British Columbia act governing firearms.

Mr. Evans' legal status as a union organizer in Trail was confirmed by reference to the B.C. Conciliation and Arbitration act, which stated "the rights of employers and employees to organize for any lawful purpose is hereby recognized."

19-YEAR-OLD GETS HIS CHANCE IN BIG TIME SATURDAY WITH EVERTON

LONDON, Oct. 6 (CP Cable) — One of soccer's romances lies behind the announcement A. W. Barber, 19-year-old outside right, will play for Everton, English league leader against Wolverhampton Wanderers Saturday.

Pacemakers by virtue of a superior goal average and the advantage of a game in hand over Derby County, the Toffeemakers are likely to capture maximum points. The County goes to Brentford where a tight contest is in prospect.

Two months ago Barber was playing as an amateur at Weston-Super-Mare when Everton agreed to test him in a trial match. The Lancashire club's officials, impressed with his showing extended his trial for a month and then signed him as a professional.

Saturday he will take the place of T. Gillick, chosen to play for Scotland against Ireland at Belfast.

APPEAL FOR VOLUNTEERS

Appeals will be made at week-end matches for air raid precaution volunteers. Sir Geoffrey Lloyd in charge of the drive to enlist 1,000,000 volunteers will appeal to the crowd at Highbury where Arsenal is at home to Grimsby Town.

The Gunners showed up weakly in opening matches this season but critics believed they have turned the corner and predict a victory over the northern eleven.

Brentford's attempts to bolster its defences have been without success. This week Stoke City turned down an offer of £5000 ($24,200) for either Frank Soo or Jock Kirton, the Midland team's wing halves.

Aston Villa, Bolton Wanderers and Liverpool, bracketed in third place, four points behind the leading pair, all play away from home. The Villans oppose Huddersfield, Liverpools go to Leicester and the Wanderers appear to have the easiest task at Birmingham.

SECOND DIVISION

Second division fixtures are featured by a tussle between Fulham and Millwall, two London clubs. While Fulham leads the table with 14 points, the Lions, up from third division, are strong challengers only two points in arrears.

Battle-lines are closely drawn in the third division's southern section, Crystal Palace, Newport County and Aldershot being joint holders of the top berth with 12 points each. Newport is at home to the Palace and may pull into the lead. Aldershot will be required to play in top form at Nottingham.

Crewe Alexandra and Barnsley share the honors in the northern circuit with 14 points each. The former visits Doncaster at the week-end while Hull entertains Barnsley.

JUNIOR BOARD WORKING ON PLANS FOR FRISCO FUND AND IRON LUNG

A promotion scheme to raise funds to send Miss Edythe Thomson, secretary of the Chamber of Mines of Eastern British Columbia to the San Francisco exhibition to advertise mining in the Kootenays with the Kootenay exhibit will be submitted to the next general meeting of the Nelson junior board of trade, Fred Leno, chairman of a special committee appointed to deal with the matter, informed a business meeting of the board last night.

Miss Eva Hendrickson, was adopted by the junior board to be its candidate for queen of the projected hockey carnival.

While it is unconstitutional for the board to donate funds, Bob Foxall, who had attended a recent meeting of the Kootenay Infantile Paralysis committee, notified the club that he would pass around the hat at the next general meeting for a contribution toward the fund being raised by the committee for an "iron lung".

A letter from the Nelson city council, thanking the board for its efforts to have householders register on the voter's list and pointing out that the increase of 139 names was no doubt attributed to its work, was read. Maurice Hercov, chairman of the civic affairs committee, gave a report on the drive, stating that 1500 pamphlets urging householders to register, were distributed.

President J. G. McKay was in the chair.

EARLY EXAMINATION CHIEF HOPE CURE CANCER, NELSONITES TOLD

Vancouver Medical Envoys Urge Need for Community Cooperation in This War; Nelson Unit Growing

Coordination of community and medical effort to educate the public (1) to the necessity and value of periodic health examinations, (2) to an understanding of the grave potentialities of certain definite signs and symptoms and the necessity of immediately consulting a doctor and insisting on a complete examination, (3) to the danger of delay in acting upon the advice of the medical men, and (4), to the fact that cancer was curable when diagnosed early and treated adequately, comprised the chief weapon in the warfare against cancer, Dr. Roy Huggard, chairman of the cancer control department of the B.C. Medical association told representatives of practically every community body, at Thursday's "Cancer Prevention" luncheon at the Hume.

Dr. Huggard insisted that while the cause of cancer had escaped scientific detection, that was no reason to be discouraged, for there were many diseases, whose causes were not known, that could be cured. On the other hand, there were diseases, the causes of which were known, that could not be cured."

MOSTLY ACCESSIBLE

"Approximately 60 per cent of cancer is found in accessible places of the human body, and therefore there is no sound and good reason why it should not be removed early", the speaker pointed out.

"In British Columbia the mortality figure would indicate that cancer is on the increase" Dr. Huggard said. "Those who succumb to it are usually at an age when they are of economic use to their community, and it is increasingly being found in the young."

"We must get it over to the people that cancer is a problem that vitally affects them, and that may strike them or their family at any time. The public must be made "cancer conscious. Early diagnosis is the word for us to abide by."

Dr. Maurice Thomas, executive secretary of the British Columbia Medical association, outlined the constitution of the Canadian society for the Control of Cancer. From units in any community capable of supporting a doctor a district executive could be formed, a district executive having representatives on a provincial council, while two from each province formed the Dominion council. Both provincial and Dominion councils were made up of equal numbers of lay and medical members.

The key word of the society was "Servide".

Introducing himself as a private practitioner, Dr. Murray Baird, also of Vancouver, said that since the provincial government had taken a lead in tuberculosis control, he was proud that the medical profession was taking an interest in an endeavor to educate the public in regard to cancer. The society was a sound one, the doctor carrying on the professional work, and the lay people looking after the business end.

LOCAL ORGANIZATION

A vote of thanks to the medical profession for taking up promotion of the Cancer Control organization was tendered by Ven. Archdeacon F. H. Graham, representative of the board of trade, who extended particular appreciation to Dr. F. M. Auld, who, he said, was keeping the community alive to the work being carried on by the society.

Dr. Auld described the Nelson unit was as "just an infant in arms" but one that was fast becoming active.

Oxygen . . .

Respiration Types And Processes Are Defined by Doctor

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The body obtains its all essential oxygen from the oxygen of the air. A load of air is pumped in and out of the lungs about eighteen times a minute, day and night, from birth to death. When this air reaches the final thin walled termini of the lungs — the alveoli—it is separated from a great layer of massed blood only by the thinnest membranes. The oxygen diffuses through this membrane by the selective action of the blood and from thence is carried to the tissues.

Physiologists make a distinction between internal respiration and external respiration. Internal respiration is the gaseous exchange that occurs in the internal tissues, such as the muscles. External respiration is the movements of the chest and the exchange in the alveoli of the lungs.

In internal respiration, the red blood corpuscles are the storehouse of oxygen, but the oxygen that is diffused to the tissues is carried in the plasma or liquid medium of the blood in which the corpuscles float. When the plasma supply gets low, the corpuscles, as warehouses, give up their extra supply. Then by processes too complicated to attempt to detail here, the blood takes up the waste product, carbon dioxide, from the tissues.

When the blood goes out from the lungs, it has an oxygen tension of 90 mm. and a carbon dioxide tension of 40 mm. When it returns by way of the veins, it has an oxygen tension of 40 mm. and a carbon dioxide tension of 46 mm.

The act of external respiration is accomplished by the movements of the ribs and diaphragm. The ribs are raised by a large number of muscles in the chest and neck. At the same time that the ribs go up, the diaphragm goes down, which creates an extra space amounting to about four quarts of air, if strained to its maximum capacity, and one to two quarts at ordinary breathing.

These muscles are under the control of our wills. It is true we breathe regularly without thinking about it, but we can slow or increase the rate as we wish (within limits). But breathing should be described as automatic rather than involuntary. To accomplish this adjustment, there is a complicated set of nerve centers and nerve fibers going to the centers of these muscle innervations in the spinal cord or lower nerve centers. It is easy to see that the control is largely chemical. When carbon dioxide accumulates in the blood, it stimulates the respiratory center, which increases the breathing rate, washing carbon dioxide out and raising the content of oxygen.

In conditions where, for some reason, oxygen is lacking in the tissues—as carbon monoxide poisoning, bronchitis, heart failure and pneumonia—it is well known that oxygen can be administered directly into the lungs in an increased amount. The oxygen content of the air is only about 20. When for mechanical reasons, as in pneumonia, the absorbing surface of the lung is reduced, we can raise this to 40 or 60.

Adopted Child Should Be Told By His Parents

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph., D.

In this column I have, on several occasions, urged parents of adopted children to tell the adopted child as early as he could understand, that he was adopted. I receive letters from many parents who have not. The average adopted child grows up deceived about his parenthood until some playmate or busybody of the family acquaintance "spills the beans" or until, perchance, the child, proving a grave disappointment to the foster-parents, is told, 'You are not our child, anyway."

Martha Vansant, herself an adopted child, once wrote a very illuminating article on "The Life of the Adopted Child." She told about nine other adopted children who, with her, 'were all children together."

Alice was adopted at five, "to brighten the life of a childless couple who wanted her around to keep them from being bored and lonely." She fitted into their expectations. "Nothing but charm and gentleness was asked of her, and she was born with these. She went to a fashionable school, made a brilliant debut, and is now a popular young woman. They have never found need to tell her she is adopted and she is now unlikely to find it out. ."

Jane was also adopted at five, by a childless couple whose life was dull, and who wanted a daughter to inherit their property, be devoted to them, and make life interesting for them. Jane had brains, good looks, vivacity; soon won her way over governess, tutors, foster-parents, and came to adolescence very early. At fifteen she became, as they considered, very wild, was warned, scolded and beaten for what other girls were allowed to do. One day when they lost patience they told her she was not behaving like a child of theirs, "and indeed was none, but the true daughter of her mother, who had never been married. . . Finally Jane left for good. Her career as an outcast had begun, and the family cast her off."

Harold's foster-parents planned to tell him of his adoption when he should be twenty-four. But they became so disgusted with his low grades at college at the end of his junior year that they solemnly told him he was adopted. He grew morbid and finally failed. "Today he is an idle, hopeless loafer. . . . unwilling to try anything with enthusiasm."

Hermoine, adopted at birth, "turned out not pretty but brilliant intellectually. Parents were brutal to her. She hoped to win them through achievement. She began writing for a local paper. When she took home her first check the surprised parents made a scene—telling her she was not their child at all, that she was just like her father who was a well known writer

Girl in Love With A Husband Won't Heed Her Seniors

CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Dear Miss Chatfield:

This summer my grandchild fell in love with a man she met on her vacation and she's literally in the clouds. He is very considerate, writes to her every day, and she believes that Fate sent him into her life. Alas he's a married man but has convinced her that he will get a divorce immediately and marry her. I don't want the girl to make a mistake which she will spend the rest of her life regretting; yet when I question her right to this love affair she gets very angry and reminds me that I am just another old-fashioned grandmother. What can I do with a twenty-two-year-old in love?

Answer:

Recently an old gentleman told me a story about his granddaughter who was involved in a similar love affair. Perhaps a leaf from his experience may be helpful to you. The girl's parents were dead and she made her home with her grandfather. Last year she went away to take a position in a nearby town and returned home engaged to a of cheap 'sellers.' Long ago he had seduced her supposed father's sister, who at the time was a promising young singer, and who died giving birth to the illegitimate child" . . . In a small boarding house room which was the only place Hermione could afford at her low-paid job she turned on the gas one day and died twice divorced man. The old gentleman knew the fiance was at fault in both divorces but he also knew that while the child was under the spell of a new romance his words of wisdom wouldn't be heeded. So he held his tongue and laid his plans.

Foster parents whose adopted child turns out to fit their dreams won't tell; but if deeply disappointed they will tell at the most tragic moment of the child's life.

He offered no criticism of the man, made no objections to his frequent visits, which gave the girl the impression that he was in sympathy with her. But every time he got a chance he urged her to go slowly reminding her that many married women would tell her that engagement days were the sweetest in life and that girl enjoyed freedom before marriage which she could never know after marriage.

Hints for Housewives

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

Even the most conscientious homemaker, the most devoted mother, experiences an occasional day when she wants to play hookey from her responsibilities.

Meals for "mother's day out" offer no particular problem, especially if they are planned as festive occasions for dad and junior. The chances are that dad will enjoy his role as chief cook.

Barbecued ham, creamed potatoes with cheese, a green salad bowl, hot biscuits and fruit in season with cream or some ice cream offer a nice menu that is pleasing to the masculine palate. The potatoes can be boiled in the morning, and a white sauce made to be reheated when required. Salad greens, cleaned and ready to serve in their garlic-flavored bowl, keep fresh and crisp in the refrigerator. The fruit can be cleaned and sugared.

Even the inexperienced masculine cook can tur nout barbecued ham to please his guests if he has a jar of barbecue sauce on hand for frequent basting of the inch-thick slice of ham while it bakes.

Barbecue Sauce

Barbecue sauce has a thousand uses and it comes in mighty handy for picnics, too. Ingredients call for half pound butter, two and one-half cups water, one-quarter cup vinegar, teaspoon mustard, tablespoon sugar, two and one-half teaspoons salt, two teaspoons chili powder, one-quarter teaspoon red pepper, half tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, half teaspoon tobasco sauce, two and one-half teaspoons black pepper, two teaspoons finely-minced onion and one-quarter clove garlic, finely chopped. Place the ingredients together in a saucepan, mixing thoroughly. Simmer for 30 minutes. Allow to cool, then store uncovered in refrigerator.

Clever Girls do "Up" Hairstyle Says Miss Grace

By DONNA GRACE

When the "Up" hair styles were first introduced, there was a lot said about the beauty business coming back to salons. We heard them deplore the fact that girls were learning to do a kind of amateur wave at home—not only shocking to behold, but a thing that lessened the beauty shop revenue. We'll change all that and introduce something that no one but a professional can do, they said, and behold! the intricately puffed and curled "Up."

It was not altogether due to their decision. Fashion, too, offered the gowns and hats that called for the more sedate coiffure; but we believe more than any other factor in this change was the boredom of doing the unconventional long bob effects. Well, anyway, hair is up, and you would be surprised to see how quickly the smart little home and business girls learned how to do it. No trick at all, when you get on to it, they say.

They comb it out well, then dip the comb in a wave lotion so it barely dampens it next to the scalp. After that they separate the front from the back, then there are various designs for the top, sides and back. When the hair is long, the amateur will separate the back in many sections, then comb them up and fasten together at the crown. After it has all been secured, the ends are curled in ringlets so they may be combed out when dry and placed in puffs.

The sides are set in ringlets as well as the top. When doing the top centre, they comb it back first and set a wave to bring it back from the forehead and give it a more professional look; then there are several rows of ringlet curls set evenly so they can be arranged in any design when combed out. Two or three rows or even one large puff is favored. The sides are combed and set in soft, loose waves.

Always make even rows of the ringlets, and make them all the same size so the waves will be uniform. We need the little ringlets on the sides to give the hair more body, even if it is finally set in a smooth sweep from the temples to the top clusters of puffs. It is not so easy to get that professional look as it seems but when the hair has been trained by an expert it will be less difficult.

There are some good wave lotions ready for use and the following is one you may like to have on hand:

8 ounces of water.
1 ounce of alcohol.
½ ounce of glycerine.
½ ounce of powdered tragacanth.
½ dram of borax.

Heat, but do not boil, water; mix tragacanth and alcohol, then all ingredients together, and add three drops of oil of lavender.

CONCERT SENDS HER TO UNIVERSITY

HANEY, B.C., Oct. 6 (CP)—Grace Cuthbert, who was unable to go to University of British Columbia after she won a scholarship for high standing in her high school, will be able to go after all. Reeve Solomon Mussallen today handed her $101, proceeds of a concert held by Haney residents.

MORE ABOUT

GIRL IN LOVE

Meantime he continued counselling her to study her man and with wily wisdom he led her to observe several characteristics in his nature that were distinctly unadmirable. Of course, she didn't suspect that grandpa had seen them first. But gradually she began to wonder if wives Numbers One and Two hadn't seen a hard time.

Had the old gentleman expressed the violent opposition he felt, he would have driven that girl straight into the arms of her fiance. She would have got married at once had she suspected that her family was out of sympathy with her. This, you know, is the way of a maid, heady with love.

The case of a girl expected to marry a man who has a wife is somewhat different. The odds are greatly in favor of her being left as she is—expectant—for not many of these married men masquerading as lovers have what it takes to ditch their wives, unless the wives want to be ditched. Their sense of guilt at tricking their partners makes cowards of them and the most they are capable of is a clandestine love affair which doesn't cost them much beyond a few dollars in gifts and few sleepless nights.

Parents and grandparents know this, but the poor duped girls don't and while it's anguishing for the oldsters to see their young rushing headlong to the edge of the precipice, they can't stop them by screaming at them. The most oldsters can do is to warn and counsel the youngsters to go slowly, offer loving sympathy and lay the result on the laps of the gods.

INFORMING THE PUBLIC

Comparatively new in advertising is what is known as institutional advertising. Sometimes this takes the form of a series of advertisements devoted to explaining the inner workings and purposes of a single business. At other times it takes the form of advertisements informing the public in a similar way concerning a whole industry.

An example of this first type of advertising is that which has been most successfully carried out by General Motors. Of the second type, an outstanding example is that of the life insurance companies which, as a group, have in Canada for some years been telling the public through the daily newspapers about the functions, for the benefit of the individual and the family and the country, which are performed by life insurance service.

Institutional advertising can always be depended upon to produce the desired result of correctly informing public opinion providing that the copy is well written, which has been the case in practically every institutional campaign which has been carried out in Canada since business men in this country realized the benefit of this type of advertising.

Institutional advertising seems to be called for particularly strongly when an industry or service is suffering from attacks which those who know it best are convinced are ill founded.

A case in point is that of the Canadian banks. For years, and particularly during the last two years in the Province of Alberta, Canadian banks have been unjustly attacked. Banks, like other institutions, are operated by human beings and not by any means are they immune from error, but many of the criticisms directed against Canadian banking seemed so utterly ridiculous that no reply would have been called for if it were not that it had become evident that the constant reiteration of queer economic fallacies and in some cases, downright unrtuths, was resulting in substantial numbers of people giving them credence.

Canadian banks sometime ago, therefore, embarked upon an institutional advertising campaign devoted to clearing the air of some of the sound and fury regarding banking, which was not only injuring the banking business, but also, indirectly, the industries and businesses of Canada generally.

Oil companies in British Columbia have felt that they also have been unfairly under attack. Like the banks, the Oil Companies make mistakes. They sometimes embark upon policies that are not to the public interest, but those who are most closely associated with the industry believe that generally it is as well and honestly conducted as any other. Oil Companies have felt that the Macdonald report, in which it was stated that gasoline should be sold in this province at prices tremendously lower than prevailing figures, was, on the face of it, so unfair that it could only have been founded upon a misconception of basic facts. Even to the outsider it seemed that if oil companies could cut their prices to the extent suggested in the report they would have been making profits so colossal that stock market values would have been sky high instead of on a level which for some years has been a cause for uneasiness by investors.

This was, peculiarly, a case for institutional advertising and the oil companies of British Columbia are to be congratulated upon having decided to carry on a campaign which will inform the public of their side of the case, of the importance of the industry in the commercial and everyday life of the province, and of the gravest dangers that lie in the proposal in the Macdonald report of drastic restriction in the number of outlets. It will be for the public to judge, as the matter is further discussed, as to whether the price of gasoline is unduly increased by the fact that so many people are selling it, but we know that usually competition of this sort, even though the number of refineries or distributors is confined to about a dozen, results in lower, rather than higher prices to the consumer.

The oil business may be an exceptional case but government interference with means of distribution, with prices, or particularly with the number of people who are permitted to be engaged in any particular business usually results in heavy increased ultimate costs to the public.

Individuality is everywhere to be guarded and honored as the root of all good.—Jean Paul Richter.

Serial Story. . . .

AFRAID TO MARRY

By HELEN WELSHIMER

READ THIS FIRST

Judy Rogers, New York heiress, obtains a job as a model shortly after her father loses his fortune in a financial crash. The same day she learns that Craig Denby, the man she loves, has married another girl. Afraid of marriage, Judy had put him off once too often. Her father goes west with her stepmother. Her own mother, remarried, is abroad and Judy moves to a small hotel. She finds solace in the company of Ronald Birrell, brilliant young attorney from Tennessee who has just joined the firm of her father's lawyers. When Judy calls her best friend, Marjorie Barton, Craig answers the phone. Judy submits some dress designs to the wholesale house where she is modeling. When another employee steals them, she has a dispute, gives up her job and appeals to Ronald for advice. Judy wonders if she is becoming interested in Ronald.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 11

During the next few days Judy Rogers searched again for a job. It rained. It grew colder, and there was a snow flurry. She scanned want ad columns. She relaxed and read the society pages, because the names and the faces were so familiar. It was strange to be living in this world which was so near one that had been her home, and yet so far removed.

She had arranged for her mail to be held for her at the postoffice. An occasional letter from her mother came. She was sympathetic, not too worried. In her own luxury she did not grasp the economic upheaval which had taken place in her former husband's household.

If her father wrote to her, Judy did not know it. His mail would go to France, and her mother's secretary would forward it on to Judy, so it would be late in coming. True, there was a chance that her mother might see a letter and wonder. Not likely, though. She never troubled herself with details.

It seemed to Judy on a particularly cold evening that all the girls in Manhattan walked with her — young, slim, eager-eyed, tired, discouraged. She felt them pressing her, hurrying, trying to make the agencies first, that they might ask for any available jobs. Judy wanted to laugh. She wanted to tell them that they might as well go home, if they had homes. There were no jobs.

In one employment agency she had met a girl who had been attracted to New York by the coming world's fair.

"I thought there would be thousands of jobs," she moaned. "The City of Tomorrow, they call the fair. It held promise. But every position is gone. Swallowed up."

"Yes, I know. I've been there." Judy had waded through debris and machinery and mud in Flushing park meadow, which was a long ride on the subway, to present an application.

"I think I'll go home. My father is a high school teacher. I can get a grade to teach if I want it," Judy's informant went on.

Judy brightened.

"Where do you live?"

The girl named a town in Iowa.

"Do you think I could teach a grade, too?"

"Have you a normal certificate, or your major in education?" the girl asked. "You must have! You have your background written all over you. Where did you go to school?"

Thoughtlessly Judy named her school. It was one of the ultra-fashionable, ultra-expensive institutions in the east.

The school teacher's daughter changed her frank approach.

"Oh! Then you wouldn't want to teach. You belong to a different environment. I should have known."

"But I don't! I mean, that's all ended. I want to teach school — in Iowa."

The girl spoke slowly. "I think you do. But boarding schools don't prepare people for teaching. I'm afraid you couldn't do it without a year or two of normal training."

"I suppose so." Judy could speak French fluently. She could play the piano well. She could sing. Not much, but with a sweet, alto voice. She could row, ride, swim, golf, play tennis, drive a car. She had been leading lady in her class play, and starred a time or two in a Junior league play.

But she did not know the things that were necessary to obtain a job. She smiled, remembering that she had forgotten one qualification. She could wear clothes, and design them.

All this had happened an hour before. Now Judy was on her way home. She saw tall shoulders in the crowd before her, and caught her breath so swiftly that it hurt. There was only one person in all the world who walked with that easy, nonchalant grace. Only one head that faced the world so fearlessly. She should have known that some day she would meet Craig on the street. Paths always crossed. Maybe not for a long time. Maybe quite fleetingly. But always, always there came a moment when two people who had laughed and played together looked at each other and remembered.

She wondered if her nose was shiny. One sole was thin. The damp pavement made her foot ache. She was glad people couldn't see soles.

She had avoided Ronald, at first, the day she saw him in a crowd, but she had no sense of evading Craig. He was here. She thought no further.

Then the tall man turned his head. The profile was strange Craig had not come. The unfamiliar face restored the clarity of her vision. No, she must not watch for him. She must not see a tall man in a crowd and follow hopefully, just to know that he was near. Craig's way and her way had parted. He belonged to somebody name Mary who did bits over the radio.

Her face was white and tired and disappointed when she entered the hotel lobby. A man in a green leatherette chair that was too small for his long legs looked serious when he saw her. He came to her quickly.

"Mr. Birrell!" Judy made her voice cool. "How nice of you to disregard my desires and locate me. I suppose you want me to say I'm glad to see you? I'm not, you know."

"Never mind. I'll do the rejoicing for both of us. I don't think much of this place."

"Since you sought it out, I think you should accept it or leave it."

"No doubt you're right."

Curiosity got the better of her aloofness. "How did you locate me?"

"You aren't a very astute young lady for all your charm. I went to see the goof who makes dresses. He had it."

"Of course. I'm stupid. I can't teach school or work on the fair or anything." Her voice trembled.

"Here, take this, and cry it out." Ronald pushed a big white linen handkerchief into her hands.

"I cry alone — except I don't cry," Judy told him spiritedly.

"Good! I thought I could stop you."

"Have you told anyone about my address?" Judy asked.

"Certainly not! Give me credit for the rudiments of manners, my sweet child. But we are holding up traffic. How about calling a truce and going some place to play tonight?"

The young lawyer's face was eager and kind and the banter was gone from his voice now.

"An eight-hour truce," he said solemnly, but his eyes twinkled. "Then you may cuss me out for the next 80 years. You need some fun and so do I."

Judy knew he had been working hard. She had read about some cases in the newspapers. He had been heralded as a coming genius in the legal world. Society was discovering him, too, but he had no time for it, one columnist explained. The names of a girl or two who found him attractive had accompanied that comment.

"We'll go places where no one knows us," Ronald was saying.

Judy was ready to accept. Now she hesitated. He had said: "Where no one knows US." Not: "Where no one knows YOU." Was there someone whom he wanted to avoid tonight? Maybe the girl with the honey-colored hair and wide purple eyes!

"It's important that I talk to you tonight," he was insisting. "If I go home and get into a tux, will you promise not to vanish until I get back?"

Why not enjoy one evening? Maybe some place—oh, just maybe—she would catch a glimpse of Craig!

"I promise," she answered.

Pro Golf a Sucker's Game

The 130 professionals who competed at Denver spent an approximate aggregate of $50,000 to travel to the tournament. Even during the actual play they paid their own caddies, they paid their own hotel bills and meal bills. I finished tenth in the Open and felt pretty good about it. My prize was $150. My expenses were about $600.

"What I am trying to say is that any man is crazy to take up golf as a profession just as he's crazy not to take it up as a pastime. Here's a little constructive criticism.

"We should have a golfing czar just as baseball does. Some man whom both players and club officials respect and whose fairness, judgment and honesty would be above question. He should fight the battles for the golfer that the golfer can't fight himself. Such a man as Walter Hagen would be superb for the job.

"Prize money in an important tournament should be made to conform with the importance of the event. Our National Open is actually the world's championship of golf. Why isn't the first prize $20,000 instead of $1000? Why isn't there a substantial prize offered for the Western Open, the Metropolitan Open and the P. G. A.? It takes a great champion to win any of these. Where would the money come from? Suppose each of the country's four million golfers were taxed ten cents a year and that money put into a fund for tournament purses. That would amount to $400,000 a year."

Contract Bridge

RIDE YOUR TIME

RUSHING AHEAD to try a dangerous finesse, which beats your contract if it fails, is not astute bridge. Much sounder considerations impel making other moves first, if possible, and watching the fall of the cards. It may develop that the finesse is marked to lose, but that a squeeze or lead-throwing play will spell success. If not, you may still finesse.

South bid 1-Heart on this deal, North 3-Hearts, South 4-Hearts, North 5-Clubs, South 5-Hearts and North 6-Hearts.

The spade 9 was led by West, the 5 played from dummy, and, reading South for the Q, East decided to duck the first round and allow the Q to win, so that the K would not set up. He felt, as he could stop the club suit, that there was no danger involved.

Declarer won the first trick with the Q and played the diamond Q to the A. The heart J was led and when the K was played by East, South was relieved, as that left no guess regarding the trump suit. The remaining outstanding heart was drawn and was followed by the play of the club K, the heart 10, heart 9, heart 7, heart 5 and diamond K. East's discards, as well as the discard of the spade 2 by West, informed South that East was down to his spade A. He therefore gave that trick to East, who was forced to return a club.

HOLIDAY NOTES

By G. S. REES

(PART 6)

And now, without critical intent, let me in conclusion survey the American scene en masse. It does not present an exhilarating picture, but Uncle Sam, though unexpressed fears crowd him towards an impasse of economic despair, keeps a stiff upper lip. There is no pot of gold at the foot of the rainbow, and one does not often hear—"Happy days are here again"! The people cry—"What next?" Chieftain Roosevelt asks them to hand him the battle-axe of a supreme authority that he may slay the Big Bad Wolf of economic insecurity, but they are chary of a potential dictatorship, jealous of their democratic rights, and halt the president in his crusade from the White House. Many think there has been too much experiment without experience, and wishful instead of wise thinking, though much of the New Deal legislation is of permanent benefit; its purposed pep-up has passed out, and the Blue Eagle banner droops disconsolately, unhonored and unsung. Canada can well be circumstantially sympathetic with Uncle Sam's distressing problems at the present time, for she has many similar.

A THIRD TERM?

The president was at the zenith of his popularity when re-elected for his second term in the White House, and undoubtedly his popularity remains, though somewhat diminished. Many of his subsequent policies, however, cause doleful head-waggings though there does not appear to be any reasonable alternative in view to what he is now undertaking to put America back on its feet. Many hold he is gambling on his last throw; the balanced budget suggestion has given way to a further spending orgy, and a "planned economy" has gone by the board. F.D.R. has radiorated that "we have just got to prime the primer that primes the pump" and all will be well. Many think the Roosevelt administration has chosen to pour water down the well instead of mending the pump, and that much of the verbose material used in his "fireside" chats should be thrown into the fire!

Politics aside, one thinks we all have a sneaking admiration for the man, Franklin Delano Roosevelt; one senses his utter sincerity of purpose, and his wishful purpose to improve the status of "the forgotten man".

Though everything in alternative ameliorative schemes has been tried out, the national debt mounts and mounts, now near the forty billion dollar mark—with more idle and destitute than ever before recorded in U.S.A. history. Some consider continued monkeying around with basic well established principles of economics and sound finance has brought the only results that could be expected. Will more spending and yet more spending rescue the U.S.A. from her recessionary depression? One can only reply with the Asquithian enigma—"Wait and see"!

LINE OF PEACE

With an old world steeped in nationalistic hatreds clinging to one of its barbarous relics, the belief that no two nations can long endure in close proximity without hostilities, there is on this continent a magnificent contradiction of this out-moded philosophy. Merely a hairline on the map, the 49th parallel of longitude, but for more than a century it has been the intangible boundary line between two great nations which have kept the pact of good neighborliness in an anarchistic world. It is a line that represents one of the few remaining symbols of sanity in a rather insane old world. In North America, it is not a line of steel, fashioned into cannon, bayonets, tanks—the steel that says "Keep Out"—but a line of peace that says, "Come on over and play in our yard. You're welcome"! This line in its travel around the globe becomes the blood drenched line of international strife.

Here is a lesson that he who runs may read—the lesson of the 49th parallel in terms of Anglo-Saxon unity that could make a peace a realizable ideal instead of a conference table catch-phrase.

ISOLATIONIST IDEAS

America and Canada should stand shoulder to shoulder in routing the fear, greed and hate which disintegrate this western hemisphere; we have not delved deep enough to uncover the basic trouble, and merely material appeasements cannot prove of lasting benefit. It may be that this continent may turn out to be the last refuge of civilization, a strong citadel in the western hemisphere, and it should put its house in order while there is yet time. America currently thinks it can best aid the cause of peace by resisting the temptation to leave the grandstand seat from which it uneasily watches an awesome and thoroughly unedifying spectacle in the old world.

She is chary of any entangling alliances, being currently obsessed with domestic difficulties. Eventually, one thinks she must modify her isolationist theories. Factually America has always participated in world affairs from the days of the Barbary pirates and clipper ships that one time slipped in and out of this same harbor of San Francisco, to the sinking of the Panay, which proved such a financial and other embarrassment to the Nipponese war lords. Participation in world affairs is a phrase which covers about everything from the export of a cargo of potatoes to the dispatch of a naval fleet.

Latter day domination over time and space has reduced Mother Earth to such a tiny place that it is increasingly difficult for any one country to remain remote from the affairs of any other.

Boston tea-parties and war-debts to the contrary, America still owes a debt of culture and moral values to the countries that cradled her antecedents; it is "up to her" to help in establishing order in the old family homestead and among its noisy garrulous occupants.

This continent is now rather a No-Man's Land between the warring forces of the old world, which would impose an autocracy of dictatorships, and of similar forces across the Pacific that reach out to make millions of orientals a unified body of the yellow races in the struggle for world supremacy. And the end is not yet!

TEMPUS FUGIT—ADIEU!

Though in the beginning, dawn, noon and sunset were good enough timepieces for mankind, one is now obliged to measure the flying moments with more exactitude, and time and tide wait for no man. Hence my little story is told, and I give America another "Auf Wiedersehen", as I hie for my hillside hacienda away up west of the Great Divide and north of Forty-Nine.

Cheerio, and all that sort of thing, Uncle Sam! See you again perhaps at your Pageant of the Pacific when summer rolls around again! In the meantime, as your Tin-Pan Alley puts it—"Thanks for the memor-ee." Thanks a million for a hundred pleasant memories of your colorful Poppy State by the sunset sea."

STAMP CORNER

By JAMES MONTAGNES

Hitler is featured on the new Nazi Party Congress stamp shown at top left, alongside three values of the Holland semi-postal set for cultural and social services. Below are France's stamp to Pierre and Marie Curie, radium discoverers, at left, and Haiti's commemorative to the 150th anniversary of the United States constitution.

The first two 1939 stamp catalogues to appear from England, the Gibbons and the Whitfield King's catalogues. Both are for the first time allowed into the United States, as the ban on illustrations of United States stamps has been lifted. The catalogues are well-known in Canada, but are causing interest among collectors south of the international boundary.

Both catalogues show price increases in the British Empire, and some foreign countries. Gibbons specifically mentions in its introduction price increases in the early and middle stamps of Great Britain, in the stamps of Canada, Newfoundland, Australia, South Africa, New Zealand, Egypt, Rhodesia and other parts of the empire. Outside the empire, stamps of the United States show the greatest price increases, along with those of Austria, all German and German colonial issues, Belgium, France and Switzerland.

TOO MANY NEW ISSUES

Gibbons goes on to say that there has been no slump in the stamp business for the first four months of the year, when that section of the catalogue was written. But it does mention that the firm, Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., warned postal authorities of the British colonies that the George VI. stamps should have been issued over a period of years instead of all in a few months, as happened. And the introduction goes on to warn colonial postal authorities "that the flood of new issues has outrun the normal buying capacity of the stamp-collecting public (after buying Silver Jubilee and Coronation stamps), and if the sharp reduction in trade orders for these stamps proves to the colonial authorities that there is a limit to what the public can buy, much good may have been done. We are convinced that another general issue of colonial stamps in the near future would go near to dealing a death-blow to the collecting of empire new issues."

The firm points out that older empire issues are now in greater demand because the new issues are not being bought in as great quantities as expected by the postal authorities. It applies a similar reason, too many new issues, for a failure of price increases in Central and South American stamps.

The Whitfield King catalogue preface states that 2703 new stamps have been added to the 1939 catalogue, with Europe supplying 1048; Africa 480; Americas 496; Asia 382; these stamps proves to the colonial. The catalogue now lists and prices a total of 66,630 stamps, issued since 1840. The catalogue is the 38th issued by the firm, and that of Gibbons is the 45th.

HERE AND THERE

St. Lucia, British West Indian colony, issued its George VI. set on Sept. 22, with values from ½ penny to 10 shillings. Great Britain has issued a 1 penny carmine postage due stamp with paper watermarked GVIR. Three new pictorial stamps have been added to Chile's current set. Spain has issued another value to its industry and workmen set. Switzerland is to issue soon three new stamps of entirely new design. Greece will issue next month a stamp to mark the unveiling of a monument to the late King Constantine, and later a set to commemorate the annexation of Corfu and the Ionian Islands. Russia will issue next month a tourist set showing views of the country. The Canal Zone is to issue next year a series of pictorial stamps marking the 25th anniversary of the opening of the Panama Canal. Hungary will issue a set to commemorate the 400th anniversary of the founding of the College of Debrecen. Japan will soon issue fourteen more values of its new pictorial stamps held up because printing plants were busy printing bonds and paper currency. France has issued a stamp to Pierre and Marie Curie, discoverers of radium.

The United States issues this stamp on September 29.

?? Questions ?? ANSWERS

This column of questions and answers is open to any reader of the Nelson Daily News. In no case will the name of the person asking the question be published

Query, Nelson — What Jewish festivals take place about this time of year?

Jewish New Year, September 26 this year; Fast of Guedaliah, September 28; Day of Atonement, October 5; first day of Tabernacles, October 10; eight day of Tabernacles, October 17; Rejoicing of the Law, October 18; Channukah, December 18.

J. A., Trail — Please tell me what is meant by syndicalism.

Syndicalism is a form of revolutionary labor unionism. The term is derived from the French word syndicat, meaning a labor union. Syndicalism is opposed to the old time trade-unionism on the one hand, and to political socialism on the other. It aims at direct control over all industries by organized bodies of workers.

X. Y. Z Procter—When was the English Labor party formed?

The Independent Labor party was organized in England in 1893. There have been members of parliament, however, continuously since 1874, when Thomas Burt, the Northumberland miner, was elected.

W. R. S., Nelson—Can you explain why the word debt is spelled with a "b"?

The word debt is derived from Middle English det, dette, and from Old French dette. In an effort to make the English spelling suggest more directly the original Latin "debita", the "b" was inserted. The "s" was inserted in "island" for the same reason, and the "l" in "fault", although in the latter case it came in time to be sounded.

F. G., Nelson—What is the population of the city of Dublin?

In 1936 Greater Dublin had a population of 467,691.

Bachelor, Nelson—Can you give me a list of famous men who were never married?

Petrarch, Michelangelo, Sir Isaac Newton, Rafael, Chopin, Liszt, Nicholo Paganini, Schopenhauer, Charles Lamb, John Greenleaf, Whittier, Swinburne, Lord Kitchener, Cecil Rhodes, Phillips Brooks, Alfred de Musset, Voltaire, Lord Leighton, Walt Whitman, Lewis Carroll, Henry James and Charles Lutwidge Dodgson.

With that nightmare over the world will be glad to turn over and snatch a little rest.

EARLY KOOTENAY MINE RUSHES ARE DESCRIBED IN GLOBE OF 1893

Capital and Machinery Pouring in and Towns Rising Portrayed in Old Newspaper in Archdeacon Graham's Archives

"Kootenay Gold and Silver", "Description of a Magnificent Region", "A Mountain of Mineral", "Dr. Dawson on the Richness of the Fields" are the front page titles in a Toronto Saturday Globe of April 1, 1893 date, found by Ven. Archdeacon Fred H. Graham recently when looking through some of his old documents. He was a young man, of course, when it was published, and apparently brought it west with him when he came to the then newly fledged city.

FIRST TRAIN FOR NELSON

The four-page paper devoted the whole front page, and a column on the second page, to the then new Kootenay mining field. Six large pictures embellish the front page, the most interesting showing a railway coach and flat-car crowded with men, who overflowed on to the adjacent station platform, the flat-car also bearing canoes and dunnage, the descriptive title being "Going In to the Mines—The First Train for Nelson, B.C." Other picture titles are, "Looking Up Kootenay River"; "Looking Up Kootenay Lake From Nelson, B.C.; "Railway Crossing of the Kootenay Near Nelson, B.C."; this obviously being a picture of the original Granite bridge; "Steamers on Arrow Lakes, B.C."; and "The Silver King Mine, Recently Sold for $1,800,000".

The writer of the page article compared the Kootenay to Leadville, Colo., for many years past a ghost town, but at that time one of the richest and most famous mining camps in the United States.

SWIFT DEVELOPMENT

Excerpts from the account say:

"Two years only have elapsed since the visit of Dr. Dawson to this region, and yet it has changed from a mere 'prospecting' ground known only to a few adventurous miners, mostly Americans, to an actual mining field, beginning to attract so much attention that a recent telegram to a United States newspaper referred to it as the 'New Eldorado', with a prediction that the 'coming spring would see one of the greatest stampedes since early Leadville days.'

"Since the writing of these reports, mining men, by discovery and purchase, have acquired mining properties which as 'prospects' are worth hundreds of thousands of dollars, and which as developed mines undoubtedly will yield many millions within a few years. In this short time railroads have pushed in, steamboats been built, sawmills erected, live towns have sprung up, many 'prospects' developed into mines, and within a month of present writing the building of a large smelter and refining works (for the treatment of ores on the spot) has been begun; in a word, the theoretical and prospecting stage has given place to the realization of actualities."

TRAIL CREEK LATEST

"In 1899 there were two mining 'camps' only—known as Nelson and Hot Springs. Last year was discovered 'Trail Creek'; and the excitement due to the late discovery of two new promising camps has hardly subsided yet.

"The best known and most developed camps are those of Nelson and Hot Springs. Nelson is distinguished by having the already famous 'Silver King' mine, a mine characterized by the immense size of its ore deposits and the ore high grade withal. Hot Springs is noted, not for any big showing, but for the extraordinary character of its surface showings as a whole, and for its well defined leads or veins of ore, much of it high grade—often in fact running into the thousands. A Colorado mining man who recently visited the field, stated to a reported of a United States paper that 'the surface showings were the most marvellous he ever set eyes on'."

"Mr. Thomas E. Chandler (M.E.) from England gives the following account: 'British Columbia has wonderful possibilities in the future as regards mining, in fact possibilities so large (I wish to speak in a conservative light) that it would seem incredible if I gave you my impressions.'

SLOCAN PROPERTIES BONDED

"Mr. Ward, manager of the Bank of British Columbia, at Victoria, says: 'It has been computed that during the months of October and November bonds representing $2,000,000 have been negotiated in the Slocan (Kootenay district, B.C., and, although I cannot vouch for these figures from my own knowledge, I do not think they can be very far from the mark. This Slocan district seems to have been especially taken in hand by Americans. Only a few months in age, they have built up the town of Kaslo in such a manner as to astonish British Columbia residents."

"Nelson is a busy, enterprising town of at present some 1600 inhabitants. It has one of the best hotels in the province, lately opened, and such is the importance attached to the mining country around it that the Bank of Montreal and Bank of British Columbia have opened agencies there."

EXTENSION OF COEUR d'ALENE

"The same mineral belt which runs through the mountain ranges of Montana, and which yielded $25,000,000 of silver last year, runs through the Kootenay district in British Columbia, but the Kootenay district is richer. . . . The sudden appearance of steamboats, railroads, mills, mining machinery, electric wires, banks, smelters, refineries, churches, schools, hospitals, etc., that have spring up in two years so that the rocky wilderness is turning into a busy hive of industry, indicates the wealth that is there. . . . The amount of machinery on the way to Kootenay for the purpose of getting out the wealth there is astonishing, and before another winter sets in millions of silver and other minerals will be on the move. . . . Carloads of goods and machinery have already gone in. An eastern bridge company has a large contract now in hand from San Francisco contractors to build a bridge over the Pend d'Orielle river near Fort Shepard. Engines, boilers, and pumps are going from Toronto already, while the trade has scarcely yet commenced."

MISSIONARY'S GRUBSTAKE

"A story is given as authentic of a missionary in Kaslo who 'grubstaked' a licensed miner to go out, who arranged to give him half of what he might find. The miner made a 'find' which, upon investigation, was a rich claim, for which the minister was offered $100,000 for his half."

"A hen laid a golden egg out there last fall, or rather a chicken was killed and dressed for the table and in its gizzard was found a fair sized nugget of gold, which was worth a dollar."

Modern Dancing Club is Formed At High School

To teach beginners to dance, and to improve the style of more experienced dancers, was the purpose in mind Wednesday night when 56 high school students met in the school auditorium and formed the Modern Dancing club. More were expected to enroll.

Peggy Dunnett was chosen president, with Frank Swerydo secretary-treasurer. The clubs is sponsored by Robert Smillie, and Miss Alma Smillie is instructress. A number of the older students, who have already learned to dance, will assist Miss Smillie. The modern waltz will be the first step taught, and folk dancing will follow. Other modern steps will come later.

A committee of four, one from each grade, was picked to "look after loose ends of the club." They were Audrey Emery, senior matriculation; Howard Campbell, junior matriculation; Deanie Wallace, grade XI.; and Jeanne Courtney, grade X.

The group will meet in the auditorium each Wednesday night from 6:30 to 8 o'clock.

The three groups will therefore handle them in a round-robin arrangement.

The literary group had charge of the meeting, taking as their subject Edgar Allan Poe, "Singing of Taps" closed the meeting, after a short social period.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP). — Evidence which a defence lawyer described as "too hot" to send through diplomatic channels was brought back from Germany by a United States federal commission today for the trial of four alleged members of an international espionage ring.

George C. Dix, who returned with three federal investigators aboard the German liner Europa, said testimony taken in Berlin would "completely exonerate" his client, Johanna Hofmann, 26, former beauty salon operator on the liner Bremen, who is awaiting trial on charges of being the "pay off" agent for the spy ring.

States Doukhobors on Prairies Discarding the Old Mode of Life

WINNIPEG, Oct. 6 (CP) —Most of the Doukhobor farming districts in Saskatchewan and Alberta are gradually discarding their sectarian and old village mode of living, Walter Kozakoff of Kamsack, Sask., declared last night when reporting on the progress made by the Doukhobors at the biennial convention of the Russian Workers'-Farmers' organization.

The fact that P. Veregin, spiritual leader of the Christian Community of the Universal Brotherhood, has transferred his headquarters to Brilliant, B. C., was a good indication that his influence has considerably weakened, said Mr. Kozakoff.

HEPBURN REPLIES TO IMRIE'S APPEAL FOR UNITY OF PROVINCES

TORONTO, Oct. 6 (CP). — National unity can be obtained "only when Ontario is no longer being made the milch cow for the rest of the country," Premier Mitchell Hepburn said in an address last night. He was replying to a speech here Monday by John Imrie, managing director of the Edmonton Journal, who said there are misgivings in other provinces about Ontario's attitude toward unity.

He said Canadians should strive to attain an economic entity with the United States as a protection from perplexed European problems. He said: "the friendship of the United States means a lot to us."

Garbage Collection Proceeding, Rossland

ROSSLAND, B. C., Oct. 6—Collection of garbage from Rossland homes and business houses, introduced through the instrumentality of the junior board of trade, is progressing favorably. Semi-monthly calls are made in each of the two districts, north and south of Columbia avenue. John Newman, city foreman, said it may be impossible to continue this service during the winter months because of the big snowfall here.

It takes the city truck about five days a month to make the rounds. This could easily be lessened by the citizens themselves depositing the garbage in proper refuse receptacles for the convenience of collectors believes Alderman William Cunningham.

Exhibition of 200 Canadian Paintings to Open in London

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (CP). — Because the leaders of Europe's four great powers decided against war over the Czechoslovak question, an exhibition of 200 Canadian paintings will go on at the state gallery in London Oct. 15.

Arthur Lismer, distinguished Canadian painter who recently left a post as educational director of the art gallery of Toronto to become professor of fine arts at Teachers' College, Columbia university, said an official of the national gallery at Ottawa told the story of the reluctance of the Duke of Kent to open the Canadian art show, if by doing so he might mark the exhibit for destruction by enemy bombing planes. After the Munich accord, however, fear passed away.

Hitler's Message To Flandin Causes Committee Uproar

PARIS, Oct. 6 (AP)—The chamber of deputies foreign affairs committee was thrown into uproar today by reading of a telegram addressed to Foreign Minister Pierre Etienne Flandin and signed with Chancellor Hitler's name, thanking Flandin for his efforts to avert war over the Sudeten issue.

Flandin, a leader of the Right in the chamber, admitted the authenticity of the telegram, saying, "Permit me to ignore this incident."

The telegram, dated Oct. 2, was read by the Socialist deputy Solomon Grumbach.

Flandin said stiffly:

"I am not here to answer Grumbach's questions."

After reading the telegram Grumbach asked Foreign Minister George Bonnet, who had been telling the committee of his recent diplomatic moves, "What do you think of a former premier and foreign minister who sends telegrams to a foreign chief of state without asking the permission of the French government?"

Flandin, who was premier in 1934-35 and foreign minister in 1936, was chief leader of the campaign against helping Czechoslovakia or resisting Hitler's demands of France's ally.

Nelson Cleric Author of Book

"This Universal Insanity" which has just been published by Fortuny's of New York, is by Rev. W. J. Silverwood of Nelson.

The book is devoted to exposing the means by which war is brought about. The publisher describes it as "sparing no class nor mincing words" in pointing out that even a victorious nation, under present conditions, needs must lose in modern warfare, showing that the only gainers are those who foster war for their own purposes.

Chapters on "Making War to Order" and "The Munition Makers" are described as stupendous in their implications.

Mr. Silverwood, who is vicar of the Church of the Redeemer in Fairview, served during the world war with the Royal Engineers. Since the establishment of the league of nations he has been intensely interested in the maintenance of world peace and in international affairs generally. He is affiliated with the League of Nations, the Carnegie Institute and the World Fellowship among the churches.

"IT'S THE TOBACCO THAT COUNTS"

Celtic, Short-Handed, May Fall In Bid to Break up Tie in Scottish

GLASGOW, Oct. 6 (CP Cable)—Celtics' bid to break the three-team leadership of the Scottish Football league Saturday may suffer a setback. Four of the Glasgow squad's star players were called to play for Scotland against Ireland at Belfast in the opening international match of the season. The Celts were hardest hit of any club.

Deadlocked with Queen of South and Rangers at the top, Celtic is at home to the former. Rangers play at Falkirk. J. Dawson, Ranger goalkeeper, will guard the nets for Scotland in the international tilt and it is likely George Jenkins, formerly of Montreal, will take his position. Jenkins has been with the Light Blues nearly four years.

Queen of South will be at full strength for this all-important game and the Dumfries club has a great chance to take both points. The club held the Celts to a 2-2 draw at Parkhead last year and duplicated the performance at home. Falkirk, up with the leaders last season, has failed to hit its stride this year and is six points behind the leaders.

CLYDE AT MOTHERWELL

Erstwhile pace-setter of the circuit, Clyde goes to Motherwell. The home club has 10 points for an equal number of matches and along with Celtic is the only team to have defeated Queen of South this year. The side trounced the Dumfries squad 8-5 in the league's opener.

Aberdeen, tied with Clyde one point behind the leaders, is favored to defeat St. Mirren on the latter's ground while Hamilton Academicals, in sixth position, go to Glasgow for their scheduled game with Partick Thistle.

Albion and Raith Rovers, up to the major division this year, have "away" matches. Albion, loser to Celtic by the lopsided score of 8-1 last Saturday, meets Third Lanark and Raith, in 20th position, plays at Arbroath.

Ayr United-Kilmarnock, Hibernians-Queen's Park and St. Johnstone-Hearts contests complete the card.

Cowdenbeath is likely to retain the No. 1 spot in the second division. The team entertains Brechin City, situated far down the championship ladder.

Marg Esson Is Finally Beaten

ROYAL OTTAWA GOLF CLUB

Ottawa, Oct. 6 (CP)—The young prairie marvel of the Canadian women's open golf championship finally bowed from the tournament in quarter-finals today as three British women and a Toronto star qualified for semi-finals.

Laughing Marg Esson, known to the folks back home in Rosetown, Sask., as "Puddin", was defeated by Mrs. A. B. Walker of the British Curtis cup team but the 17-year-old wonder golfer carried the match to the 16th green before losing 4 and 2.

A gallery of more than 400, with nearly everyone pulling for the slim little westerner, followed the match and appeared to unnerve the girl who ousted two topflight golfers by wide margins in first and second rounds. She played mediocre golf and cracked badly on the first nine to be five down at the turn. She won back three holes on the home nine but the match finished on the 16th after Miss Esson struck a trap.

The best match of the day saw Clarrie Tiernan of Dublin, another member of the British team, battle Mrs. W. G. Fraser of Ottawa to the 18th green and emerge the winner two up. The Ottawa woman is a former United States and Canadian open champion.

Third Briton to enter semi-finals was Jessie Anderson of Perth, Scotland, who eliminated Evelyn Mills of Ottawa 4 and 3. The present Scottish women's champion and 1937 winner of the British women's open rattled off a string of pars and birdies for the victory.

The final match between Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen and Mrs. E. H. Gooderham, both of Toronto, went to the 17th hole where Mrs. Mulqueen ousted her partner from the championship 2 and 1.

Shaughnessy Is Laid Last Rest

MONTREAL, Oct. 6 (CP)—Lord William Shaughnessy was buried today in the family vault in Cote des Neiges cemetery beside the body of his father, the first Baron Shaughnessy and former chairman of the Canadian Pacific railway. The second baron died Tuesday in his 56th year following a brief illness.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

OCT. 5 to OCT. 11

KEEP YOUR HOME SAFE FROM FIRE

FIRE

FIGHT fires before they start. Make Fire Prevention Week the beginning of a fire safe year in your home. Resolve to watch stoves, heaters, fireplaces and bonfires and every day remove material likely to cause fires.

INSPECT your home for common fire hazards or have the fire department make an inspection. Most fatal dwelling fires are due to well known and readily preventable hazards which may exist in your home.

REMOVE rubbish and all unnecessary combustible materials from the cellar and attic. Do not store combustibles under stairways. Rubbish may ignite spontaneously or may contribute to the spread of fires from other causes.

ENLIST the entire household in a fire prevention program. Teach all the family how fire causes may be eliminated. Be certain that each occupant has a way of escape should a fire occur at night.

SAFETY

SMOKING materials carelessly used are among the most frequent causes of fires. Be careful in disposing of used matches and cigarette butts. Keep matches out of the reach of small children. Never smoke in bed.

ALARMS should be given promptly when fire is discovered. Do not attempt to fight a fire unaided as it is likely to spread beyond control. Know the location of the nearest fire alarm box and understand how to sound an alarm.

FLAMMABLE liquids cause the greatest number of fatal fires in the home. Never use kerosene or gasoline to start or quicken a fire. Gasoline used in cleaning clothes may ignite from friction or static electricity.

ELECTRICITY is safe when properly used but causes many fires when improperly handled. Avoid amateur wiring as dangerous. Do not overload wiring. Fuses are the safety valves of the system; use standard fuses of proper size.

TAKE no chances in leaving children alone in the house. They might be trapped should a fire occur. Fires often spread very rapidly. Save life first. Let the fire department save your property.

YOUR family's safety may depend upon repairing a defective flue or stove pipe before starting the fire for the winter. Have the chimney cleaned. Wooden shingle roofs are readily ignited; replace them with fire retardant roofing.

HINTS

HOT ashes should never be placed in wooden barrels or near wooden partitions. Use metal barrels for ashes and for rubbish. Covers on the barrels add to cleanliness and fire safety.

INQUIRE of your fire chief, when buying a fire extinguisher, to be certain of getting the right type. Know what to do should a fire start. Never run with your clothing ignited; smother the fire with a blanket or rug.

NOTIFY the gas company immediately in cases of a gas leak or improper operation of gas appliances. Never hunt for a gas leak with a match. Open the windows and vacate the house until the trouble is corrected.

THAWING frozen water pipes with blow torches or open flames is dangerous. Sparks may lodge out of sight and cause fire to spread through concealed spaces. Use hot water for thawing, or call a plumber.

START now to save life and property from needless destruction by fire. Support local fire prevention programs. Demand adequate public fire protection facilities including fire department equipment, water supplies and fire alarm.

Crosetti's Homer With One on Turns Dizzy Dean's Glorious Day Into Gloom

"Harmless" Yank, Who Hit Only Nine Homers All Season, Turns the Tide; DiMaggio Follows With Same in the Ninth

CUBS SEE 3-2 MARGIN WIPED OUT IN EIGHTH AND LOSE SECOND GAME, 6-3

By PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

WRIGLEY FIELD, Chicago, Oct. 6 (AP)—Dizzy Dean, pitching his heart and arm out with every curve ball he threw, had one foot in the hall of world series immortality today when the most murderous home run bats in baseball history wiped him and his gallant effort from glory to defeat.

Only four outs away from scoring as superb and glamorous a comeback as the game ever produced, the gallant Dizzy man was denied his triumph when the bats of Frank Crosetti and Joe DiMaggio arched balls out of the lot.

The two blows dropped Dizzy and his Cub mates to the brink of series elimination, giving New York Yankees their second straight game, 6-3.

PICTURE THEY'LL NEVER FORGET

This was the story book picture that 42,108 shivering fans, their hearts in their throats, never will forget:

So complete a master was Diz and his "nothing" ball that he reached the start of the eighth inning with only two singles and a cheap double caused by a Cub infield mixup against him. He stood out there like he used to when he was at his zenith. The Cubs had given him a 3-2 lead over Lefty Gomez, the Yankee southpaw who never had lost a world series game.

Every fan in the park stirred uneasily as the first man up, George Selkirk, looped a single to right field for the fourth Yankee hit but they sat back in their seats again as Joe Gordon forced him at second, and in turn, was forced by Myril Hoag, pinch hitting for the apparently beaten Gomez. It looked like Diz was in.

Then, up stepped the man who had robbed the Cubs in yesterday's opener with his miracle plays around second—Frank Crosetti. Not much cause for alarm in Crosetti. He had hit only nine home runs all year with the Yankees, who don't call a man a home run knocker until he gets at least 20.

HIT FIVE FOULS

As Hoag bothered Diz with gestures as if to steal, Crosetti picked and pecked away, hitting five fouls and running the count to 3 and 2. Diz, though his arm ached, put everything he had on that last pitch. It came in fast and chest high and then—B A N G! The ball arched high like a harmless fly to Leftfielder Carl Reynolds but on it went to barely clear the red brick wall for a home run.

That was the big story of this thrilling world series battle, but there was still another home run blow—by DiMaggio — to seal the doom of Dizzy and his mates. In the ninth, Tommy Henrich opened with a single to right.

Then DiMaggio, hitless yesterday and held to a mere single in three times at bat, stalked up to the plate and smashed Dean's first pitch over the left field wall. It was a tremendous blow, clearing the 353-foot barrier by 15 feet and bouncing against a yellow house across the street.

CURTAIN HAD FALLEN

As the Yankee bench went wild and tossed their bats out onto the field, Manager Gabby Hartnett and Dean knew the curtain to a great drama had fallen. Dean was taken out and he trudged off the field, head down.

In the Yanks' clubhouse back of the stands was another picture — an almost delirious skinny pitcher—Senor Gomez. Although relieved by Johnny Murphy at the start of the eighth inning, the happy Senor's name went into the record books as the game winner and the first pitcher in all history to win six world series games without a defeat.

His victory today, scored as it was over a trail of heartaches, broke the tie Gomez had with old Jack Coombs of Philadelphia Athletic fame and Herb Pennock, Yankee star of another golden era, who had won five without defeat.

The day started out as it ended for Dizzy, who missed his chance to pay back owner P. K. Wrigley the $185,000 he paid St. Louis Cardinals for his contract last spring.

EARLY LEAD

His Cub mates, led by Joe Marty, who marched arm and arm with Dizzy as a hero until the home run deluge, gave him a one-run lead in the first inning on singles by Stanley Hack and Frank Demaree, the first of two errors by Red Rolfe and a long drive to centrefield by Marty. But in the second inning they threw it away.

DiMaggio opened the inning with a line drive single to left and took second as Lou Gehrig worked Dean for the only walk Diz gave. Here Diz tightened, forcing the dangerous Bill Dickey to pop to Bill Jurges and Selkirk to loft to centrefield.

Joe Gordon, next up, got just a piece of the ball and it hopped over the grass toward shortstop, apparently a simple out. But Hack and Jurges rushed in, scrambled for the ball and collided as the pellet rolled out to short left field, leaving the doors wide open for DiMaggio and Gehrig to score. Gordon was given a double.

But Cub groans almost immediately turned to cheers as the team again led by Marty, drove two runs over the platter to take the lead. Hack opened by beating out a single to deep short and took second as Billy Herman beat out another on a perfectly executed hit and run play to short. Frank Demaree laid down a perfect sacrifice and Marty slammed a low, hard liner between DiMaggio and Henrich for a double to send them home.

GOMEZ IN TROUBLE

Gomez was in constant trouble thereafter as Dean set the Yankees down in order over four of the next five innings. Not once did the Senor go a single inning without a man getting on base. Once Rolfe's second error of the game put a runner on the paths.

Murphy also failed to set the Cubs down in order the two innings he worked and even was threatened with a final, desperate Cub rally in the ninth when Jurges walked and Phil Cavaretta, pinch hitting for Larry French, Dean's successor in that final nightmarish inning, singled. But Hack ended the hopeless rally by popping to Crosetti, the man who had struck the deciding, thrilling blow of the game.

HEAD FOR NEW YORK

The hilarious Yankees hustled off for their train back to New York where the series resumes Saturday at Yankee Stadium. Manager Joe McCarthy, still left a bit breathless after the victory, said he planned to start Monte Pearson, the club's no-hit pitcher, in the New York opener. Manager Gabby Hartnett had only one choice. It was Clay Bryant.

World Series Game, Play-by-Play

FIRST INNING—YANKEES

Dean's first pitch to Crosetti was a called strike. Crosetti then sent a long fly to Reynolds who took the ball with his back almost against the left field wall.

Dean made a nice stop of Rolfe's bunt and threw to Collins to retire him in a close play.

Jurges went back on the grass to take Henrich's fly.

No runs, no hits, no errors. None left.

FIRST INNING—CUBS

The crowd cheered as Hack, first man up, came to bat for the Cubs. Hack dropped a single in left and another loud cheer went up.

Herman struck out swinging at a sharp-breaking curve.

Demaree singled between first and second base into right field sending Hack to third. When Rolfe fumbled Henrich's throw in Demaree went to second but Hack held third. It was an error for Rolfe.

DiMaggio backed against the wall in left centre to take Marty's fly. Hack scoring after the catch. Demaree went to third on the throw-in.

One run, two hits, one error, one left.

SECOND INNING—YANKEES

Dean was throwing nothing but slow stuff to the Yankees. Manager Joe McCarthy came out of the Yankee dugout as the team came to bat and had Umpire Sears tell the fans in the box seats along the right field line to take their coats off the wall.

DiMaggio lined over Jurges head into left centre. It was his first hit of the series. The Cub bullpen became busy as Gehrig went to bat. Two pitchers, Left-hander Larry French and the veteran righthander, Jack Russell started to warm up.

Gehrig walked on five pitches, Hartnett and Dean conferred near the mound.

Dickey filed to Jurges who again went back on the grass to make the catch. Marty came all the way over to short right field and took Selkirk's fly and the crowd went wild as Dizzy appeared to be pitching his way out of a tight spot. Marty called time as the sun came out wanly and went in to get a pair of sun glasses on the Cub bench. Hack and Jurges collided in going after Gordon's roller, and it rolled all the way into left field for a two-base hit. DiMaggio and Gehrig both scored on the play. Gomez filed to Reynolds in short left.

Two runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

SECOND INNING—CUBS

Hartnett sent a long fly to Henrich in right.

With a southpaw pitching Collins switched to a right hand batter. Collins bounced a single off Rolfe's glove. Jurges forced Collins at second. Rolfe to Gordon but Jurges was safe at first on the fielders choice.

Crosetti threw out Dean on a nice play.

THIRD INNING—YANKEES

Reynolds ran all the way to the left field corner to take Crosetti's fly.

Herman tok Rolfe's bounder and threw him out.

Herman also threw out Henrich and the crowd roared as Dizzy's "nuthin" ball was definitely handcuffing the Yankee hitters. His curve was breaking more than a foot as it crossed the plate.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

THIRD INNING—CUBS

Hack beat out an infield hit. The ball went by Rolfe but Crosetti, backing up the play, stopped it. His throw, however, was too late to catch the runner.

Herman's bouncer went to Crosetti near second base and the Cub second baseman beat it out for a single. Hack stopped at second.

Demaree bunted and Dickey threw him out.

Dickey fell fielding the ball and threw to Gehrig while lying on his side. Hack and Herman advanced on the play. It was a sacrifice for Demaree.

Marty doubled to deep centre scoring Hack and Herman to put the Cubs in front. Dickey and Gomez went into a huddle.

As Gomez's first three pitches to Reynolds were balls, Bump Hadley started to warm up in the Yankee bullpen.

Reynolds walked on five pitches and again Dickey and Gomez conferred.

DiMaggio raced in and took Hartnett's flying in short centre. The runners holding their bases.

Gomez then proceeded to pull himself together and fanned Collins on three fast pitches.

Two runs, three hits, no errors, two left.

FOURTH INNING—YANKEES

Gehrig stepped out of the batter's box several times as something got in his eye. Collins fell chasing Gehrig's grounder and it rolled into right field for a single.

Dickey bounded into a fast double play, Herman to Jurges, to Collins. The Cub infield was clicking at a much better rate that yesterday's game.

Nn runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

FOURTH INNING—CUBS

Jurges grounded to Rolfe and was out at first by a shade. Dean received a fine ovation as he came to the plate. He drove the first ball pitched between Rolfe and Crosetti into left field for a single.

Joe McCarthy signalled the Yankee bullpen to get busy again.

Hack worked the count to three and two and then bounded into a double play, Crosetti, to Gordon, to Gehrig.

No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

FIFTH INNING—YANKEES

Selkirk sent a high foul fly to Collins off first base.

The sun had burned most of the clouds away by this time and the day grew warmer.

Gordon grounded to Hack and was thrown out easily.

Gomez was thrown out by Herman on a slow roller.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FIFTH INNING—CUBS

Herman flied to Gordon on the edge of the outfield grass. Gordon lost the ball in the sun momentarily but recovered in time to take it.

DiMaggio ran in to short centre to take Demaree's fly.

Marty's second straight hit was a line single to left.

Marty was out stealing, Dickey fect just to the right of second base and Crosetti merely had to take the ball and drop his hands onto the sliding runner.

No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

SIXTH INNING—YANKEES

Reynolds went back to the left field wall to take Crosetti's long fly.

Henrich's bounder almost hit Dean in the face, the pitcher barely knocked it down and then threw Henrich out at first. As he passed the sixth inning hurdle and still was complete master of "murderers row" Dean drew a tremendous roar of cheers from the crowd.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SIXTH INNING—CUBS

Crosetti took Reynolds pop fly in front of second base.

Hartnett sent a long fly which DiMaggio took near the 400 foot mark in centrefield.

Rolfe took Collins' grounder but threw wide to first for an error and Collins' was safe.

Jurges forced Collins, Crosetti taking his grounder and stepping on second to complete the play unassisted.

SEVENTH INNING—YANKEES

Dean's control appeared shaky as he threw three straight balls to DiMaggio, DiMaggio then grounded out to hack who threw the ball from five yards back of third base.

Gehrig was booed as he came to bat.

Marty took Dickey's 400-foot fly in right centre and for the third straight inning Dean had retired the Yankees in order.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SEVENTH INNING—CUBS

As Dean came to bat the crowd cheered for a full minute.

Dean's second straight hit was a single to right.

Hack tried to bunt but fouled two straight pitches. Hack then was called out on strikes. He protested to Umpire Kolls but it did no good as usual.

Herman struck out, swinging at a sharp curve which he missed by six inches.

Dean was caught napping off first base and was put out, Gomez to Gordon, Gomez ran over to trap him between first and second and Gordon who had been covering the base took Gomez's throw and chased Dizzy putting the ball on him ten yards off first.

No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

EIGHTH INNING—YANKEES

Selkirk lined a single to right.

Gordon forced Selkirk, Hack to Herman but Gordon was safe at first on the fielder's choice, just beating Herman's attempt at a double play.

Myril Hoag, a right hand hitter, batted for Gomez.

Herman took Hoag's grounder and threw to Jurges, forcing Gordon. The batter was safe on the fielder's choice.

Dean made several vain attempts to catch Hoag off first.

After fouling off eight pitches and with the count three and two Crosetti smashed a home run into the bleachers in left scoring Hoag in front of him and putting the Yankees ahead. The ball travelled some 350 feet.

Crosetti had hit only nine homers during the regular 1938 season.

Rolfe was called out on strikes.

EIGHTH INNING—CUBS

Johnny Murphy, square jawed right hand relief pitching ace of the Yankees, was the New York pitcher.

The sun was bothering the infielders.

Demaree fanned, on a wide curve. He swung so hard at the ball he sat down on the plate.

Marty's third hit of the game was a single to right and the Cub cheering section, plunged in gloom by Crosetti's homer, came to life again.

Reynolds rolled into a double play, Gordon to Crosetti to Gehrig.

No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

NINTH INNING YANKEES

Henrich slashed a single to right.

DiMaggio smashed a home run over the left field wall and into the street beyond scoring Henrich in front of him. The ball went out of the park about 10 feet above the wall and some 25 feet inside the left field foul line.

That was enough for Dizzy Dean and Larry French, a southpaw replaced him after a prolonged huddle of the entire Cub infield. It was apparent that the famous Yankee power held in check by Dean's "nuthin" ball for seven innings and by Bill Lee for nine yesterday was finally breaking loose.

Gehrig fanned, swinging at a wide curve.

Dickey rolled out to Collins, unassisted.

The fourth ball to Selkirk hit him on the left hip and he went to first base. It was scored as a hit batsman, not a walk.

Gordon struck out on three pitches.

Two runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

NINTH INNING—CUBS

It was announced in the press box that the scoring on Selkirk in the Yankees' half of the ninth should have been a base on balls not a hit batsman. Word came up from the Yankee dugout that he was not hit by a pitch, but had wrenched his back in pulling away from an inside ball.

Hartnett filed out to Henrich in deep right.

Gordon dropped Collins' grounder but recovered in time to throw him out.

Jurges walked on five pitches.

Jake Powell had taken Selkirk's place in left field for the Yankees at the start of the inning.

Phil Cavarretta, a left hand hitter, batted for French. Cavarretta rolled a single through Gordon's legs, Jurges going to second.

Hack lined to Crosetti, the shortstop taking the ball off his shoetops.

No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

Mainland Soccer Won't Agree to Jones Park Fees

VANCOUVER, Oct. 6 (CP)—Jock Hendry of the Mainland Soccer league said today the scheduled opening league game next Saturday had been cancelled because of a disagreement with owners of Con Jones park here.

Hendry said Noel Jones, park owner, had notified the Soccer commission and the Mainland league he would require 30 per cent of future gate receipts with a $50 guarantee for each game.

Comparing this with the 25 per cent given the park last year without a guarantee, Hendry said the league was unwilling to accept the terms. If necessary, it would play its schedule on open parks.

Lafleche Tells of Events Leading To Awarding of Bren Gun Contract

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 (CP)—Hope of obtaining Bren guns from the existing factory in England was practically abandoned by the department of national defence early in November, 1936, Major General L. A. LaFleche, deputy minister of national defence, said at the inquiry today.

The deputy minister was continuing his account of events leading up to the award of a contract of 7000 Bren light machine guns to the John Inglis company of Toronto before Mr. Justice H. H. Davis, royal commissioner.

"On receipt of that message," (a cable from England) said General LaFleche, "I became aware of the necessity of creating a second source of supply for the Bren gun. At the same time I saw the possibility of having that second source in Canada."

Hesitancy on the part of Mr. Forsythe to read a cable of November 3, containing answers to Canadian enquiries regarding possibilities of buying Bren guns in England, brought Lieut.-Col. George Drew to his feet. It was a magazine article by Col. Drew which led to the inquiry.

WOULD ASK GREATER POWERS

"The time has come," Col. Drew suggested, "when we must decide how far we are to be restrained from getting facts." He urged that if the war office continues its ban on production here of documents passed between the British war office and the Canadian government, the commissioner ask Prime Minister Mackenzie King for additional powers.

"The problem Col. Drew raised has been heavily upon my mind for the last two days," Mr. Justice Davis said. If there was not a decision one way or another in a day or two he would have to make a ruling as to production of these documents.

"I am entirely satisfied that the Canadian government has made every effort to obtain permission to produce these documents," he added. Judge Davis thought there was no necessity at this stage of seeking further powers from the government.

PLAXTON IN ENGLAND

Hugh Plaxton, Liberal member of parliament for Toronto-Trinity, was in England with Major Hahn when the Toronto manufacturers sought information looking to the manufacture of the Bren gun in Canada, General LaFleche said.

J. C. McRuer, K. C., counsel for Major Hahn, suggested the possibility of Major Hahn being prosecuted for disclosing information. Even if he could not be prosecuted for disclosing it in Canada he might be prosecuted if he ever returned to England.

Mr. Justice Davis reserved his ruling, hoping advice would be received shortly from the war office covering the use of this and other documents.

Rose Fields Did Not Watch Fight In Vibert's Room

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6 (CP) —Rose Fields, young secretary of the federal housing authority office here, was called as a witness today in the preliminary hearing of two men on manslaughter charges for the hotel room death of Walter C. Vibert, 46, executive of the F. H. A., but testified 'I turned my head" when blows were struck.

Miss Fields said she and Vibert met three men upon entering the hotel lobby. She identified them as Thomas White, 34, and Archie Andrews, 25, charged with manslaughter, and Thomas Smith, a bookkeeper.

They went to Vibert's hotel room, she said, and then the men got into an argument over "who's drinking whose liquor."

She said she saw White hit Vibert on the jaw with his open hand, and then Andrews struck him on the chest and stomach. Then she said she turned her head.

A free-for-all fight followed in which Smith also was floored, the witness added, and when it was over Vibert lay dead on the floor.

Special Session of Trustees at Creston

CRESTON, B. C. —Trustees of Creston Consolidated school district were in special session Monday night to take care of business facilitating construction of the new junior and senior high school. S. A. Speers presided, and Trustees J. E. Van-Ackeren, E. E. Cartwright and Guy Constable were in attendance.

The month-end teachers' reports show the high school with an enrolment of 239 and attendance uniformly good throughout the month. Senior matriculation work in charge of W. A. Marchbank, is being taken by 13 pupils.

In the nine public schools in the consolidation the total enrolment is 598. About 225 are in the six divisions at Creston; 42 of these are in Grade 6 and 41 in Grade 4.

At the outlying points the enrolment is as follows: Alice Siding 26, Huscroft 19, West Creston 14, Arrow Creek 26, Erickson 51, Canyon 52, Camp Lister 61 and Wynndel 63.

The contractors have construction work well up to expectation. The shingling of the roof is about completed and plastering is well in hand. The ditch for the sewer system is about completed and the vitrified sewer pipe is distributed along the ditch.

At the meeting Monday night it was decided to call for tenders for the painting of the new roof on the old central school as well as the building itself. The board has a prospective buyer for the school bell, but as the price offered was low it was decided to call for tenders.

At Wynndel, Fred Martello was given permission to place the school ground garage at a more convenient location, and the board approved of a request from the bus drivers that they be permitted to secure headwear and wearing apparel of uniform design and color.

Early Gains Reduced or Cancelled By Profit-Taking on Wall Street

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP).—Profit-taking stemmed another fast rally in today's stock market and early gains running to more than three points were reduced or cancelled at the close. Transfers approximated 2,400,000 shares.

The Associated Press averages stepped into new high territory since last October at the height of the day's upsurge and were still around the best in about 12 months when the final gong sounded.

The market was further buoyed, brokers said, by rising business optimism and indications of more extensive cooperation between industry and government.

Prominent on the forenoon climb were United States Rubber, International Harvester, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, Kennecott, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Great Northern, Union Pacific and Loew's.

Commodities pushed up in the forenoon, but the majority backed away eventually. Wheat at Chicago was off ⅛ to ⅜ of a cent a bushel and corn down ⅜ to ⅝. Cotton near the close was about unchanged to up a shade.

Bonds were higher, for the most part, but nickel plate loans suffered a relapse. Foreign securities markets exhibited strength. Sterling and the French franc turned slightly lower in terms of the dollar after getting up in the morning.
