Chamberlain Warns Japan Fleet Is Ready

arliament Adjourns for Summer as Warning Given

EOPENS OCTOBER 3

LONDON, Aug. 4 (CP).—Parliament adjourned for the Summer today with Prime Minister Chamberlain bluntly warning Japan that Great Britain might find it necessary "in certain circumstances" to send a fleet to the Far East.

He did not indicate what these circumstances were, but said he hoped no one would think it was "absolutely out of the question for such circumstances to arise."

"I do not say that as a threat," he declared, "but only as a warning."

With this pointed speech he closed the stormy session of Parliament, which began Nov. 8, 1938, and which saw him discard his so-called 'appeasement' policy for building up the British-French alliance and a peace front in Europe.

Daughter Born to Juliana of The Netherlands

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 5 (Saturday) (AP).—Crown Princess Juliana of The Netherlands presented the House of Orange with another daughter early today.

The child was born at 1:00 a.m., (4:00 p.m. PST, Friday) at Soestdyk Palace.

There had been high hopes among Netherlanders that the baby would be the first male heir to the throne of the little kingdom in almost a century.

Princess Beatrix, the first child of the 30-year-old Juliana and 28-year-old German Prince Bernhard, was a year old last January 31.

The hour was such that the general public, long anticipating the event, was not aware of the birth of the baby.

The announcement was made briefly by ticker services to newspapers. At 7 a.m. the news was broken to the public by a salute of 51 guns—signifying the birth of a girl. A 101-gun salute would have been fired for a boy.

Disappointment, because of the absence of a male heir for the throne now held by Queen Wilhemina, was expected to be offset by loyal Netherlanders' joy over a Royal birth when the event became generally known.

PRESS CONVENTION SENDS WIRE TO QUEEN

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 4 (CP).—The convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association today sent a cablegram of birthday greetings to Queen Elizabeth.

S. J. Doran of Alameda, Sask., told delegates attending the sessions that the history-making visit of Their Majesties to the United States accomplished more in three days than treaties, Ambassadors or commissions could achieve in the same number of years.

Highway Patrol's Safety Campaign Launched Nelson

Cars Are Tested for Faulty Brakes and Headlights

Safety campaign of the Provincial Police—testing cars and trucks for brakes and safe headlights—opened in Nelson Friday, with four officers of the Highway Patrol participating in the brake testing, and additional officers assisting in light tests.

Percentage of bad brakes discovered in Friday's tests was unexpectedly high, officers stated.

The tests will continue today. Patrol officers stated the work would be facilitated greatly, and individuals would be delayed much less, if they had their driver's licence and motor vehicle registration slip handy when flagged down.

Purpose of the campaign is to test as many cars as possible for two of the major causes of accidents—Faulty brakes and improperly adjusted headlights.

At the same time the officers conducting the safety campaign are checking windshields, windshield wipers, horns, mufflers, registration slips, driver's licences, chauffeur's licences, tail lights, plates and so on.

Members of the Highway Patrol, B. Division, taking part in the campaign are Constables J. A. Henry, Castlegar; W. F. Armson, Grand Forks; F. Slater, Cranbrook; and R. A. Lees, Nelson.

Assisting in the light tests were Constables C. W. House and G. S. Blaney of the Nelson District detachment; and Acting Chief Robert Harshaw of the Nelson City Police.

Brake tests were carried out on Government Road, at the west entrance to the city, in the 200 Block, Baker Street, and on Nelson Avenue. Light tests were made in the 200 Block, Baker Street.

VANCOUVER MAN IS LEGION HEAD

KAMLOOPS, B. C., Aug. 4 (CP) —William McKinstry of Collingwood Branch No. 16, Vancouver, was reelected president of the British Columbia Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion, British Empire Service League today.

His reelection mirrored the conventions' demand that recommendations of the Veterans' Assistance Commission should be implemented, for Mr. McKinstry has been a vigorous advocate of this policy.

Although there had been some suggestion that there should be no provincial convention in 1940 because of the scheduled Dominion meeting, the delegates accepted the invitation of New Westminster.

Elected first vice-president was Capt. R. B. Longridge of Duncan, formerly of Kamloops, who had been absent from office for a year, second vice-president is R. J. Laurie of Cranbrook, and third vice-president is A. Baddely of Seattle, Wash., Branch.

NEW BOAT IDEAL FOR DEFENCE OF CANADA'S COAST

By FRED N. BACKHOUSE

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Aug. 4 (CP)—A new British-built motor torpedo boat has been developed which Flight-Commander Claude Graham-White, the manufacturer, thinks should be of the greatest interest to the Canadian government in considering the defence of the Dominion's extensive coastlines.

The torpedo boat can carry two 21-inch torpedoes, one 37 mm. automatic cannon, one .50 calibre machine-gun and six depth bombs. Yet when it was put through its paces here it looked no more deadly than a river Thames pleasure launch.

At a performance demonstration before the Admiralty experts and newspapermen the vessel attained a speed of 46 knots, or more than 53 m.p.h.

Carrying a crew of six the craft can be used for convoying mercantile ships in coastal waters, chasing and destroying enemy submarines and ships and laying smoke screens rapidly and efficiently.

Japanese-Backed Chinese Attack British Offices

TIENTSIN, Aug. 4 (AP). — A mob of Chinese, said by Britons to have been Japanese-instigated, today attacked the Tientsin offices of the British International Export Corporation, smashed all moveable equipment and tossed it into the Hai River.

British and Chinese employees of the concern took refuge in adjoining property of the Texas Oil Company.

Unconfirmed reports said anti-American demonstrations occurred in Kaifeng, Honan Province. It was understood the United States Consul-General, Clarence J. Spiker, in Hankow, protested to the Japanese Consulate-General against anti-Americanism in Kaifeng.

U. S. AND RUSSIA CONTINUE TRADE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—The United States and Soviet Russia agreed today to continue in effect an agreement whereby Russia will buy a minimum of $40,000,000 in American goods in the next 12 months and the United States will accord Russia the same tariff reductions as countries with which it has trade agreements.

With respect to Soviet coal shipments to the United States, Russia agreed to restrict its exports in the next 12 months to 400,000 tons. This was considered necessary because of the coal-tax provisions of the Revenue Act of 1932. During the 1937-38 agreement year, imports of Soviet coal into the United States were 198,384 tons and in the first nine months of the 1938-39 agreement year, 134,154 tons.

Although the pact sets $40,000,000 as the minimum Soviet purchases here, officials forecast Soviet orders in excess of this sum.

Anti-British Feeling Runs High in China

"Down with Britain; rebuild China," read some of the posters carried by Chinese residents of Tsingtao during the Japanese-inspired anti-British parade recently. This feeling ran so high that many paraders ran amok, doing considerable damage to the British property in the city. This high feeling among some of the Chinese is adding to the Far East problems of Britain, faced with blockades in other cities. Note the similarity of the caps worn by the Chinese members of the "New People's Society," at right, and the military caps of Japanese troops.

Dogs Trail Men Thought to Have Started B. C. Fires

By The Canadian Press

British Columbia Police used trained dogs yesterday (Friday) as they sought persons believed responsible for setting a series of forest fires in the Southern interior.

Meantime men employed by the National Parks Branch and the British Columbia Forest Service fought a blaze covering a large area in Mount Revelstoke National Park area, also believed to be of incendiary origin.

No relief was in sight from the dangerous fire situation which has developed in the interior this week as temperatures remained high and humidity low.

The largest fires in Kamloops District are near Tappen, seven miles West of Salmon Arm, and are being fought by a crew of 165 men.

Police said five of the series of blazes were set Sunday on the East side of White Creek and 14 lit Tuesday on the Skimikin Creek in Turtle Valley.

Provincial Police from Salmon Arm, Chase and Sicamous are working together, employing several trained police dogs in the search.

The fire in Mount Revelstoke area is about four miles North of Revelstoke along the Big Bend Highway. Another fire is being combatted by a large crew about 12 miles North of the Kootenay city.

LEGION SUPPORTS "WAR" PRINCIPLE

KAMLOOPS, B. C., Aug. 4 (CP). —The British Columbia command of the Canadian Legion today went on record as supporting the principle that when the British Empire or any part of it is at war, Canada is automatically at war.

Earlier the convention voted its appreciation to the Vancouver branch of the Amputation Association for "their loyal support in the Legion's endeavor to obtain the provisional allowance for unemployed ex-service men of Canada."

JAPANESE END PARLEY, ITALY

ROME, Aug. 4 (AP). — The Japanese ambassador to Rome and Berlin today ended a two-day conference at Lake Como in which they were stated to have considered Japanese adherence to the Italian-German military alliance.

A Japanese informant said they cabled a detailed report to Tokyo and would return to their posts tomorrow to await instructions from their home government.

The possibility of increased Japanese collaboration with the Rome-Berlin axis is to be explored with Fascist and Nazi leaders by a delegation from Japan due Aug. 26 in Naples.

The conference of the envoys from Rome and Berlin, Toshio Shiratori and Lieut.-General Hiroshi Oshima, was seen as laying the groundwork for extensive military, political and economic discussions on the delegation's arrival.

Mail Destroyed, Postman Hurt in New Explosions

LONDON, Aug. 4 (CP)—Explosions officially attributed to Irish Republican Army terrorists occurred tonight in four Yorkshire towns—Bradford, Blackburn, Preston and Halifax—injuring a postman and destroying a quantity of mail.

In Blackburn, Frank Verity, a postal employee, was slightly burned on the wrists while smothering a fire in a mailbag. At the same moment, on the same street, an explosion was heard and flames burst from a letter box. Fragments of a rubber balloon which apparently contained incendiary substances were found in the debris.

As a mail train was leaving Preston railway station, thick white smoke issued from one car. The conductor, who said he first heard an explosion, jerked the stop signal and the station employees put out the fire.

PONTOON BRIDGE FOR DANZIG FREE CITY AND GERMAN EAST PRUSSIA

DANZIG, Aug. 4 (AP).—A new pontoon bridge floated at a Danzig dock tonight ready to be thrown across the Vistula River and fill the most serious gap in land communications between the Free City of Danzig and German East Prussia.

The bridge, about 25 feet wide and supported by 24 pontoons, will connect the two Free State communities of Kaesmark and Rotebude, the latter some 12 miles from the East Prussian frontier.

Lightning Storm, Nakusp Area, Starts Four Fires; Five Others in District

A lightning storm that swept over an eight-mile front from Nakusp to New Denver and then North-Eastward, played havoc with the forest fire situation in those districts early Friday morning, starting four new fires that were accounted for, and possibly others that may spring up at any time. About 384 distinct flashes of lightning were counted at Nakusp and little rain accompanied the storm. One of the fires was in the Nakusp area and three near New Denver.

Besides the new fires in those areas, one new one was reported on Marsh Creek in the Nelson district and four in the Invermere country. Grand Forks and Cranbrook districts were free from fires, and it was thought all fires throughout the Nelson forest district were under control.

The one new blaze near Nakusp was about 7000 feet up near the Okanagan divide at the head of Ledge Creek, North of Margie Lake. It is on the West side of the Arrow Lakes opposite Halcyon, and a little to the South. No men were sent to it, as it was so high up, but it was being kept under observation.

The three new fires in the New Denver district were all in the Mill Creek area, opposite New Denver on Slocan Lake. One small fire was soon brought under control by three men, while a crew of 41 had a second fire surrounded at the top and were working down both sides.

On the West fork of Wilson Creek, which flows into Slocan Lake at Rosebery, a small patrol had gone in to a fire far back in the hills. A lookout reported the fire appeared to be under control.

LARDEAU FIRE SPREADS

A high wind early Friday morning spread the Cascade Creek fire in the Lardeau across the creek to a spot half a mile from the main fire. Part of the crew of 20 sent out from Nelson Thursday morning was assigned to the new spot and it was expected it would be under control by Friday night.

The new fire on Marsh Creek, which flows into Beaver Creek from the North near Fruitvale covered about one acre and was brought under control by 24 men about 11 o'clock Friday morning. The fire was seven miles up the creek near the headwaters.

Three men were still patrolling the Thrums fire.

BURNING IN PEAT

Kitchener's fire, one mile North of the airport, was beginning to burn into a peat bog, and reports stated if it was not out by Friday night, with the use of two pumps, an irrigation ditch would be turned into it.

New fires in the Invermere district were on Blaeberry Creek, Bush River, No. 2 Creek of Horse Thief Creek and Little Vermillion Creek.

The Blaeberry Creek blaze was only small, according to meager reports. The Bush River fire, opposite Surprise Rapids on the West side of the Columbia in the Big Bend country, was thought to be under control.

On Horse Thief Creek, which flows into the Columbia from the West, North of Invermere, 12 men were believed to have brought the fire under control.

Seventeen men were sent far in to battle the Little Vermillion Creek fire, and were believed to have it under control.

Still fighting the old Marion Creek blaze, 50 men had the bottom and both sides blocked off, and were allowing the fire to burn itself out among the rocks high on the mountainside. It was well controlled. No report was received from the Palliser River fire, indicating it was also apparently controlled.

Wismer Denies Report He Would Arrange Compromise, Doukhobors

VICTORIA, Aug. 4 — Attorney General Gordon Wismer denied today a report attributed him that that British Columbia Government would eventually arrange some compromise enabling Doukhobors in the Kootenay area to remain in their homes and that the Government might put up cash to satisfy the Sun Life Assurance Company that was seeking to foreclose a mortgage on Doukhobor lands.

The Attorney General said he had given no such intimation.

"I feel that it is of importance that both the Doukhobors and the company should not get a false impression of the attitude of the Government. The Government is naturally anxious to cooperate in the settlement between the parties but has given no assurance of financial assistance.

VANCOUVER, Aug. 4 (CP).—"I have heard nothing of it" A. C. Des Brisay, solicitor for the Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada said today when told that Doukhobors have asked the company's loan inspector, R. N. Wilson, to stay al proceedings until Aug. 15 to give him an opportunity to arrange for the repurchase of the foreclosed lands.

Mr. Wilson was out of town today.

Mrs. DesBrisay said that Mr. Wilson's affidavit, which will be read to the court on Monday, when the Sun Life applies to Mr. Justice Murphy for committal of Sheriff M. E. Harper, of Nelson, for alleged failure to evict the Doukhobor occupants, indicated that large majority of the Doukhobors were prepared to enter into arrangements with the Sun Life for the repurchase of their holdings.

The Sun Life's solicitor doubted whether the latest Doukhobor proposal would affect the application pending against the Sheriff.

Won't Sell Gallon of Gas in B. C. if Reduction Ordered

Farris Says Instructed Was "Not to Say This Previously Because It Would Have Sounded Like a Threat"

VICTORIA, Aug. 4 (CP). — Senator J. W. deB Farris told Chief Justice Archer Martin today British Columbia Oil Companies have been "compelled to the serious consideration of whether they can continue to sell a single gallon of gas in this province."

His remark was made in Supreme Court during argument on an application by a group of oil companies for continuation of an injunction restraining the British Columbia Government from enforcing an ordered gasoline price reduction.

DECISION TODAY AT NOON

The Chief Justice said he will hand down his decision in the injunction application at noon Saturday.

Senator Farris said the chief factors preventing the companies from asking such a step was their $30,000,000 investment in British Columbia and the advice of their counsel that they have a good chance of winning an appeal now pending before the Supreme Court of Canada on the validity of the Provincial Coal and Petroleum Products Control Board Act under which the price reduction was ordered.

Senator Farris said he had been instructed "not to say this previously because it would have sounded like a threat." The Chief Justice raised the point, however, when he asked Senator Farris if the oil companies were under any compulsion to continue selling gasoline in the Province.

"I have no doubt that if orders such as have been issued by the Fuel Board are persisted in, not a gallon of gasoline will be sold in British Columbia," he said.

Then he added:

"The public are not worrying over the price of gas. They are worrying over newspaper reports that the gas tax will be increased to create additional road funds."

PEOPLE CONCERNED

Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer, presenting the Crown's case against the injunction proceedings, interrupted: "You have no justification for such a statement. A lot of poor people are deeply concerned over the price of gasoline."

The Chief Justice instructed Senator Farris to confine his arguments to the application.

After Attorney-General Wismer had conducted his arguments, the Chief Justice asked if there were any way in which the three-cent gasoline decrease could be "put into a fund" until the case was considered by higher courts.

Mr. Wisemr said this would be impossible, because the money could not be refunded to individual gasoline purchasers, many thousands of them tourists.

Senator Farris argued in reply that while Mr. Wismer claimed it is too late to issue an order restraining the Fuel Board from enforcing its reduction, the situation was the same as when Mr. Justice A. M. Manson granted an injunction against the board's first price-reducing order some months ago.

The loss to the oil companies would be $1,500,000 per year, he said, while the public, composed

Woman Pensioner Status Topic of Kamloops Women

KAMLOOPS, B. C., Aug. 4 (CP) —The status of the woman pensioner was the chief topic of discussion at sessions of the British Columbia Women's Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion, in annual convention at the Orange Hall here.

Four resolutions were adopted and forwarded to the men's convention. The women urged:

1—Continuation of the veteran's allowance to the widow.

2—Free medical assistance to veterans of small incomes. (One resolution urged such assistance to veterans and their families but the convention thought this was asking too much).

3—Amendment of the war veteran's allowance legislation to provide a widow's pension of not less than $20 per month for such time as she should remain a widow;

4—The same assistance to Imperial veterans in Canada as is given to Canadian veterans resident in Great Britain.

Conveying an assurance that the Women's Auxiliary to the British Columbia Command has the same implicit confidence in Brigadier W. W. Foster's ability and integrity as the legion itself, a telegram was dispatched to Mrs. Foster at Vancouver today.

Canadian Legion Urges Tightening of Naturalization Laws of Canada

KAMLOOPS, B. C., Aug. 4 (CP).—A resolution urging that the Dominion's Naturalization Laws be tightened was adopted here today by the British Columbia command of the Canadian Legion, British Empire Service League.

The resolution — Presented by Captain M. F. Macintosh, Conservative Member of the British Columbia Legislature for The Islands asked that each applicant should be "carefully and personally" questioned by Royal Canadian Mounted Police to "ascertain the degree of loyalty that can be expected of such applicant, such reported to be given careful consideration in the acceptance or rejection of the applicant."

Preamble to the resolution said it is considered that the methods, form and procedure under which resident aliens are permitted to acquire Canadian citizenship are inadequate.

The resolution asked that the convention petition Parliament to enact legislation embodying six principles designed to correct deficiencies in the naturalization procedure.

The six were:

That every applicant for naturalization produce evidence of character covering his adult life, such evidence to be examined and subject to approval of an officer of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police;

Every applicant for naturalization must be carefully and personally questioned by an officer of the R. C. M. P. in order to ascertain as nearly as possible the degree of loyalty that could be expected of such an applicant;

ABLE READ, WRITE IN ENGLISH

That the applicant have minimum educational qualifications—able to read and write in English—and that a hand book containing a simple history of the political and social usages of Canada be provided applicants;

That a date be set, within a reasonable length of time, and that all aliens now residing in Canada, (excepting those who by reason of race are ineligible for citizenship), and who have resided in Canada for five years or more, be instructed to make application for naturalization before that date, all those neglecting to comply and those failing to qualify for citizenship under the conditions set up to be deported forthwith;

Citizenship be conferred upon successful applicants in groups as far as practicable;

All aliens now resident in Canada or who shall at any future date enter Canada, be not employed in any capacity in any public way, whether Dominion or Provincial, or in work on any project to, or controlled by, the Dominion or any Provincial Government.

Dave Gibbons Sets New Goaltending Record as Leafs Trounce Rossland Redmen 22-7 In Box Lacrosse Here

Shuts Out the Visitors for 3½ Periods; George Bishop Becomes League-Leading Scorer

Establishment of new records is becoming a common occurrence on the Nelson lacrosse floor and Dave Gibbons, sparkling Leafs' netminder, Friday night set a mark at least for the West Kootenay League when he shut out the Rossland Redmen for two periods and nearly seven minutes of the third. Nelson finally won a weird game by a 22-7 score.

Last week with the Redmen again as opponents, Nelson set a couple of scoring records and seemed well on the way to some more last night, after piling up an 18-0 lead, fell back into the playing ways of the Redmen and the game wound up with good lacrosse almost a minus quantity.

Gibbons was easily the shining light as he performed spectacularly between the Nelson pipes to hold the visitors scoreless for 36 2-3 minutes, to be exact. He didn't have an exceptionally hard time of it but what he had he handled faultlessly. Most of the few shots Rossland pelted at him were difficult, however. What conceivably might have been the turning point in his brilliant play was a painful nose injury suffered in the early minutes of the third. A blazing Rossland drive banged him hard on the mask and bruised his schnozzle, dazing him for a few minutes.

Shortly after, George Anderson, who single-handed made a game out of it the last time here, banged in a goal that made the score 18-1 on a play on which Gibbons' view was partially blocked. Only half a minute later Rossland scored their second counter on a lucky shot from Dugan that Laface deflected into the net, Laface getting credit for the goal. The crowd, again decidedly for the underdogs, gave the Redmen a tremendous hand for breaking the goose egg.

In the last period although good playing was nearly always absent, various comedy acts kept the fans interested, and Ace Bailey was mixed up in nearly all of it. The great Ace, who nearly lost his pants in this session, finally took off his feathers, wearing them in real Indian style on his head for the first three periods, for the last canto and tried to rally his faltering forces. He himself, though, didn't do much in the way of attack but Rossland found the hemp to score four goals to Nelson's one in the final.

BISHOP THREE POINTS

George Bishop stepped into the scoring leadership of the League with three points, breaking away from a first-place tie with Booney Sammartino of Trail. George now has 62 points.

But the night's scoring honors were carried off by Albert Maxwell. The lightweight forward star, missing several setup chances as it was, pelted in seven goals past the bewildered Dickie Burgess in the Rossland net. Albert must find the Civic Arena especially to his liking for that made 18 goals for him in the last three home games, an average of six a game.

Not far behind in point-getting was Pat Egan who drilled home four goals, adding three assists for seven points.

Nelson took far the worst of it on the penalty sheet with 35 minutes, against Rossland's 14, 10 of which went to Bailey. The Leafs suffered 19 minutes in the hectic third session when the most exciting action of the contest took place. At one time when Rossland was at full strength and with Gibbon still in possession of his shut out, Nelson had four men in the hoosegow, but still the greenshirts staved off the visitors.

HECTIC ACTION

Shots were flying around Gibbons' sanctum in rapid fire order but half of them were way wide as the over-anxious Redmen seldom took aim. At one time Gibbons weaved nearly the whole length of the floor when he couldn't find anyone to pass it to. Finally after several minutes of successful ragging in which the play became wild and woolly, Maxwell broke away to score the 18 goal while his team was two men short.

GOALIE GOOD

Although one of the big differences in the two teams was the goal tending, don't think that Dickie Burgess didn't play a grand game. Having no defence whatever for most of the game, he kept out 31 shots, many of which were ticketed for goals. Several of his stops bordered on the phenomenal.

Max DesBrisay and Ian Dingwall, both making their first appearance in Nelson of the season, didn't take long in putting their names on the scoresheets. On the first play after they first came on the floor, they combined for Nelson's second goal, with Dingwall on the scoring end. Ian played well on the attack and got a total of five points. DesBrisay was effective on defence.

Both teams were short several of their stars. Rossland was minus such stalwarts as Ross Saundry, Al Simm and Ernie Carkner, and their replacements, recruited from junior ranks, failed to fill the bill. Freddy Graves, Jock Walmsley, Pete Bonneville and Albert Hooker watched the game from the sidelines for Nelson.

Trail-Rider Sees Grizzlies Above Him in Crossing Canada Horseback

Hopes He Will Enjoy Christmas in England

On two occasions, both on the old Dewdney Trail out of Hope, E. A. K. Sheppard, who is now "riding trail" across Canada, saw a grizzly a few hundred feet above him, pursuing its concerns. Another time he and his mount came into view of two black bears in the trail ahead, the denizens of the wild immediately making off. Except that his bay mare, a reputed former racehorse, plunged a bit and made riding difficult on these occasions, these encounters with wild animals caused him no trouble, Mr. Sheppard explained Friday evening when he rode into Nelson from the West and tied up his horse in front of The Daily News building.

Mr. Sheppard, who is 61 years of age, is gratifying an ambition of long standing to "see Canada from a saddle." Finding a saddlehorse to his liking, the bachelor farmer disposed of his farm at White Rock, on the Coast, and started with due fanfare from the Vancouver Province building on June 1, for Halifax, in a heavy rain.

HAS TO ABANDON SHORT CUT

His trip up the Fraser Valley was prevailingly rainy, and when he took the old Dewdney Trail up from Hope on June 6, hoping to make a short cut across to the Princeton district, the rain was still with him. Some of the bridges on this route were under two feet of water from the melting snow, and at other times the water was knee-deep on the road, while the rains brought down many rock slides that he and his horse had to cross. It was in that section that he encountered the bears mentioned, and also deer and other game. Thirty miles up from Hope he spent the night with two trappers who had a cabin on Cougar Flats, but the following morning, after making an additional three miles, he was forced to abandon the route when the mare started to plunge in attempting to cross the flooded Skagit River while he maintained his precarious balance with a pole.

MONTH'S REST FOR MARE

Altogether, his attempted short cut set him back over a month, for after a second night at Cougar Flats, the mare went lame as a consequence of the tough going across the rock slides, and he had to turn her loose, going on for another two miles to reach the Fourteen-Mile ranch owned by A. B. Trites. For two days he carried her hay rations up to her, as there was no herbage, and then he brought her down to the ranch, where they were made at home until July 13, on which date they made a new start from Hope, this time by the conventional highways.

Coming into the Similkameen by Spences Bridge, the horseman passed a night at the S. X. ranch near Merritt, and then made a day-and-night trip through the Similkameen, reaching Princeton after daybreak. He skirted South of the Okanagan, by Osoyoos and Keremeos, and found hospitable Indians at various points. In the Kettle Valley he had a three-day rest at the Andresen ranch at Bridesville, finding he was distressed by the various ascents. Other stops were at the Miller ranch at Kettle Valley and the Collins ranch this side of Grand Forks.

Monday he crossed the Gold Range by the Cascade Highway, and saw the West Kootenay Power & Light Company's truck go over the bank not far from the Velvet mine, outside Rossland. After beng entertained at the mine, he made Rossland about 12:30 Tuesday. He ran into an old friend at the C. M. & S. Company's dairy farm at Warfield, Foreman Smith being an old White Rock acquaintance. Tuesday and Wednesday he was made at home in Trail by persons he met, and Thursday night he was at Shoreacres.

"Those who have not been over these ranges would not realize the magnificent scenery on the summits," commented Mr. Sheppard, as he left Nelson Friday evening at dusk, for the West Arm.

TO RETURN NEXT YEAR

Mr. Sheppard hopes to make Halifax by the end of October, and to be in England for Christmas, as he hails from Albion. When he returns next year, he will probably make it by the Panama Canal.

It was in 1909 that Mr. Sheppard came to Canada, as a young man, landing at Quebec, and working West by stages. He farmed in Manitoba and at other prairie points, and in 1912 treated himself to a saddle trip from Edmonton to Athabasca Landing and back. Six years ago he located at White Rock.

This will be his second visit to England since he came to Canada, the earlier one having been in 1924.

Team Batting Leadership Is at Stake Sunday

An interesting bit of by-action which will take place in Sunday's baseball game in Nelson between Nelson and Trail is the duel for the team batting leadership. Coach Jake Alles is heading the list at present with a mark of .428 and Jesse Seaby, who has just been displaced as leader, follows with .417, only 11 points to the rear.

Third in the standings is Vic Howard with an average of .361 and Ernie Beland has risen way up and is now hitting at a .355 clip.

Carpenters Urge Work Be Given Registered Men

75 Cents an Hour as Minimum Wage Is Set

Carpenters of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, Local 1843, Nelson, recommended Friday night that people having carpentry work done should give the preference to registered contractors who were paying licenses, whose employees were all covered by compensation, and who had large investments in equipment and plants. A resolution to that effect was passed. It was stated small carpenters were stepping in and taking work away from the larger, registered contractors.

The resolution was passed after receipt of word that a minimum wage of 75 cents per hour for carpenters had been passed. The rate is set by the Board of Industrial Relations, under the Male Minimum Wage Act. Adam Bell, of Victoria, Chairman of the Board, discussed wage problems with the Trail-Rossland and Nelson locals early in June.

PRIVATE SCHOOLS OFFER MANY ADVANTAGES

All-round development educational, physical, and moral, with just that added emphasis on cultural training so desirous for the student from the better class home, is what you can expect your boy or your girl to obtain from a semester or more in any one of B. C.'s modern modern private schools.

With the Summer holiday season already on the wane, many parents, conscious of the great forward movement and stress being laid on scientific child training, are considering the more advantageous methods of training their children for adult life. And the modern methods of B. C.'s private, business and vocational schools supply the answer.

Academic education is usually the prime requirement sought in choosing a school, but highest standards are maintained at public institutions, so more often health promoting facilities, physical and cultural training, individually supervised, are the attractions of the modern private school, and rightly so. For those No. 1 requisites of a top citizen, sportsmanship, healthy habits, social graces, deportment and a co-operative spirit are the results of development through the superior facilities and training, physical, moral, cultural and religious, of the private schools.

Sport, physical and health education go hand in hand at private schools, where because of smaller classes more attention can be given to the individual and his special requirements. The handicapped student can be brought along gradually, the robust one set in planes of competition suited to himself. But through the year the same spirit of competition, sportsmanship and clean habits are instilled in both. Private schools usually are located in the most healthful of surroundings as well, therefore any student will benefit materially from a year spent in private school study and development.

Private school social and cultural activities will also develop children for later life, lending them an ease of manner and graciousness of valuable aid for adult careers.

But what are all these without proper moral and religious training? Psychologists and educational authorities will tell you "very little". Home and school education supplemented by religious and spiritual training, experts will say, are the requirements in developing of future parents of merit. All these are supplied by the private school. It does its best to supply advantages to home life, it is a school, and religion is given daily stress.

All in all, private schools are the answer to the most important of parental problems—"how shall we train our child for a useful later life?"

100 TRAILER LICENCES OUT BEFORE SUSPENSION

EDMONTON, Aug. 4 (CP). — About 100 trailer licences had been issued throughout the province under the amendment to the Highways Traffic Act passed at the last session of the Legislature before the regulations were suspended July 29, Hon. W. A. Fallow, Minister of Public Works, said today. The licences applied to all trailers, whether for transport truck or farm truck.

The regulations were suspended in view of negotiations pending between railways, oil companies and the Dominion Board of Transport Commissioners, "owing to the serious effect the negotiations may have on the whole trucking industry," the minister said. The licence fees will be refunded if it is decided not to put the regulations in effect.

BRITAIN'S EXPANDING MIGHT, UNITY, AND FRENCH SOLIDARITY MAY AVERT WAR—J. F. SANDERSON

By J. F. SANDERSON

LONDON, Aug. 4 (CP)—Twenty five years after the "war to end all wars" plunged the world into conflict which cost millions of lives, Europe today is an armed camp.

Every factor necessary for war is present and very few of the real essentials for peace.

On the anniversary of that day, Aug. 4, 1914, when "the lights went out across Europe," the situation perhaps may be described best in these words: war in Europe is inevitable unless Germany—and that means Hitler—exhibits some moderating change in policy. It is almost inconceivable things can go along as they are without producing war.

NEXT FEW MONTHS WILL TELL

It is impossible to support the view peace, real peace, exists today. The next few months, perhaps weeks, will tell the story and the decision, as far as it rests on one man, will be made by Adolph Hitler, who 25 years ago was unknown even in his native Austria.

There are several factors which* monthly grow more important in swinging Europe away from war and their cumulative effect may be decisive. One is Britain's expanding might in the air, on the land and on the sea. Another is the determination of European nations to club together. A third is the internal solidarity of France.

Finally, there is evidence Hitler is beginning to realize he cannot repeat his Austrian, Czech and Memel bloodless conquests without precipitating a general war in which Germany would be forced to fight on two frontiers—tactics which some military leaders of the Reich tell him would be fatal.

NEEDS UNIVERSAL PLAN

Europe has been operating for months on a purely negative policy, just drifting along. What Europe needs in the view of most observers is a long-range, comprehensive plan, positive in its nature and explicit in its terms, to bring about a reversal of today's condition—disarmament, economic and financial collaboration, a division of raw materials and markets and a solution of boundary and racial problems.

That is impossible in today's atmosphere of mutual suspicion, hatred, mendacity and constant agitation of racial passions.

Most newspapers in England noted the anniversary of Britain's declaration of war on Germany in 1914 following German refusal to comply with a 24-hour ultimatum to respect Belgium's neutrality.

They also emphasized Britain's present state of armament. During the year before the war Britain spent £77,000,000 (currently ($382,000,000) on military and naval preparations. Now she is spending that much every six weeks, or £730,000,000 ($3,516,400,000) this year.

In the Summer of 1914 she had 247,000 regulars in the army and around 500,000 reserves. Now, with a regular army of 208,000 plus reserves currently engaging in huge training exercise and new conscripts, Britain has around 1,000,000 men. The navy is about the same now as then.

The biggest difference is in the air force. In 1914 Britain had 822 men and 100 serviceable planes. Now she has 120,000 officers and men in the Royal Air Force plus 75,000 reserves. Although exact figures are not made public, the best estimates are that she has 2330 first-line planes out of a total of 5000 and is adding to these at the rate of 600 monthly.

Another big difference is the tremendous civil preparedness program now in effect with 2,000,000 men and women enrolled and under constant training for police, fire and air raid precautions duty in the event of war.

Britain now has a full reserve fleet manned for maneuvers. The R.A.F. with more than 1300 planes taking part, will stage practices next week and London will be included in a huge black-out test.

Typical of the British attitude today was the comment by the Daily Mail that comparison of the 1914 with the 1939 state of preparedness "gives us reason for pride and for confidence that this time war may be averted."

F.D.R. POSTPONES WORLD FAIR VISIT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP). — President Roosevelt intends to defer his trip to the San Francisco fair until about October 1.

He told a press conference today he would be shuttling back and forth between Washington and Hyde Park, N. Y., after Congress adjourns, with a cruise in northwestern waters of a week or 10 days mixed in between.

NO JOINT ACTION BY U.S., BRITAIN IN EAST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (EP)—Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, said today the United States would map its own course in the far east.

A few hours after Prime Minister Chamberlain indicated Great Britain might find it necessary to send a fleet to the far east, Welles declared there was no understanding between the United States and Great Britain for joint action in the Orient.

He added, however, that very frequent information was being exchanged with other governments on the far east situation.

50 CASUALTIES IN EXPLOSION NEAR ST. PAUL'S

Another Explosion, Fire Attributed Sabotage

LONDON, Aug. 4 (CP)—Scores were injured today, 12 seriously enough to be kept in hospitals, when a gas explosion attributed to a short-circuited fire-alarm box tore through the roof of a building near St. Paul's Cathedral.

A number of plain windows on the south side of the famous cathedral were broken, but stained glass windows escaped damage.

The explosion occurred in a building being demolished. One explanation was that a water main burst, crushing a gas main and undermining the building. The structure collapsed, a fire alarm was shortnited.

Workmen were flung 20 feet from girders of the building and police combed the ruins for any possibly trapped.

Passersby cut by flying glass and other fragments were among the injured. Some 50 casualties were admitted to hospitals and 12 remained.

Shortly afterward an explosion occurred in a box of letters being unloaded from a mail truck at Preston Railway station and a few minutes later a fire broke out in a letter box at Blankburn, idicating a renewal of sabotage attributed to the Irish Republican Army.

The terrorist campaign has been dormant since one man was killed July 25 in an explosion at King's Cross station. Both Preston and Blackburn are in Northwestern England.

VICTORIA MILL BURNED

VICTORIA, Aug. 4 (CP).—A spectacular fire early today in the ground wood mill of the Sidney Roofing & Paper Company Limited, burned the structure to the ground. The large building situated on the water's edge, is several hundred feet from the main plant, near the gasoline tanks of the Union Oil Company.

While no estimate of the loss could be obtained, it mounted into thousands of dollars.

NEW TRANS-ATLANTIC AIRMAIL SERVICE INAUGURATED TODAY

Giant Airboat, Caribou, to Leave Southampton on First Flight Linking United Kingdom, Eire, Newfoundland, Canada and U.S.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Aug. 4 (CP).—A new weekly airmail service linking the United Kingdom, Eire, Newfoundland, Canada and the United States will be launched tomorrow when Captain J. C. Kelly Rogers lifts the giant flying boat Caribou from Southampton water and heads her westward.

Captain Rogers and his crew of four will have charge of 25,00 letters, half a ton of mail, on their 34-hour aerial voyage across the seas which John Cabot sailed 461 years ago when he discovered Newfoundland and Nova Scotia.

Inauguration of the new service which will be operated for two months will give citizens of five countries two weekly flights between the old and new worlds. Imperial Airways flying boats will leave here Saturdays and Pan American Airways clippers will depart Wednesdays during the North Atlantic season.

The Caribou will take of at 2 p.m. E.S.T. (6 a.m. M.S.T.) and reach Foynes near the mouth of the River Shannon, three hours later. At noon M.S.T. Sunday she will settle at Botwood, Nfld. She will reach Montreal at noon M.S.T. and New York at 4 p.m.

REFUEL IN AIR

Caribou will be almost four tons heavier when she leaves Foynes than when she arrives, as she will take abroad almost 1000 gallons of gasoline in the air.

The refueling will be accomplished through hose contact with a converted Harrow bomber. There are "tanker" planes at Shannon airport and Botwood to enable the trans-ocean flying boats to take off with higher payloads and fuel in the sky where the additional loads does not handicap them.

Flight refuelling will be carried out at both Foynes and Botwood, but not at Montreal or New York, because the distance between those two points is not great enough to necessitate it. Nor will flight refuelling be practiced at Foynes on the homeward flight.

Senate Tangles on Farm Section Bill

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP). — United States Congressional leaders swept aside everything except the $54,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill today, but an end-of-the-session tangle was developing over a controversial farm section in that measure.

Adjournment tomorrow appeared to depend on whether the Senate should insert in the bill an Administration request for $119,000,000 to continue commodity credit loans.

A powerful farm bloc was working feverishly on behalf of this fund.

Small Income of Young Couple Has to Be Budgetted

CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Dear Miss Chatfield:

I hear so much on both sides of the question of working wives I've decided to put my individual case to you and ask your advice. My husband earns $30.00 a week on which four of us live two children. I manage the best I can but in spite of all my pains we have less than all our friends and both my husband and I are discouraged since there is no prospect of his getting a raise in the near future. I find that I can get a position at $10.00 a week which I would be glad to take if it's wise. Of course out of this I would have to pay a maid to stay with the children and do the cooking which would take at least half of my earnings. Now what's the answer?

On the Fence.

Answer: My dear young wife, $10 a week would net you exactly nothing when you consider the maid's wages, the waste that goes on in a house where things are left to hired help, and the cost of feeding another mouth. Then why leave little children who need you and go off on a wild goose chase to earn money which will be spent before earned?

What you need is expert help in making a budget and you may have it if you will write to your State Welfare Department. Only the other day I noted that a recent survey had revealed the fact that a family of five could live well on $125 a month. Then you should be able to stretch your income to cover your necessities.

Now why not make a game of budgeting your income? You'll be surprised how much fun you can have trying to outwit a dollar bill which has the most diabolical way of disappearing before your very eyes. The harder you play at the game, the more skill you will acquire until finally you will have reached the point that a farmer friend of mine has reached: Says he: "I used to let my money tell me where to go. Now I tell my money where to go."

It's perfectly natural for a young pair to wish to keep up with their friends, have automobiles, radios, electrical conveniences and whatnots. But this is the trouble with us in America today. We aren't willing to undergo privation and hardship when the folks next door are having it easy. We aren't willing to buckle down to the business (business it is too) of living on a small income when we can get credit and put off the payday. We aren't satisfied with primitive and inexpensive ways of doing things when our friends are doing them in the modern and expensive way.

So my advice to a discouraged young pair, is, make a budget and pare it until the spending pattern will fit well inside the income cloth.

RESCUERS LABOR FREE FLOOD-BOUND KIDDIES

REDLANDS, Calif., Aug. 4 (AP)—Prison camp crews and civilian conservation corps workers labored today to liberate 500 Southern California children marooned in the San Bernardino Mountain camps by a torrential downpour.

Cut off from contact with anxious parents, the children were reported safe by the United States forest service in various camping grounds above the upper end of Santa Ana River, which overflowed its banks yesterday after rainfall that measured 1.39 inches in two and one half hours.

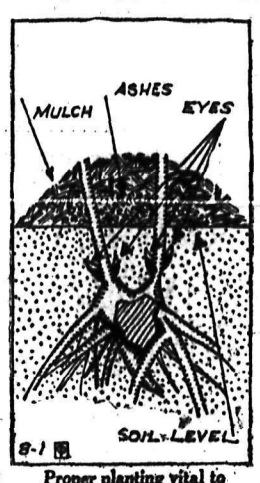
Peonies Must Be Carefully Planted

Written by DEAN HALLIDAY
For Central Press Canadian

Don't Plant Peonies Either Too Deep or Too Near the Surface.

Peonies usually are planted for many years to come. They should be planted, therefore, in good soil. The two chief reasons why peonies often fail to bloom is because they are planted too deeply, or from lack of food in the soil.

When planting peonies set them



Proper planting vital to peonies

in the soil so the eyes, as shown in today's Garden-Graph, are two inches below the soil level. If peonies are planted too deep in the earth they will not bloom, and if not planted deep enough they are subject to Winter injury.

Peonies, when properly planted, do not require Winter protection except during the first Winter after planting. The chief purpose of protection during the first Winter is to keep the roots from heaving up out of the ground. A mulch should be placed about the peonies after the ground has frozen and then removed the following April.

During hot dry weather hoeing not only reduces the weeds, but prevents the ground from baking and cracking and aids in holding the moisture.

Path of First Woman Doctor Was Not Rosy

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Among all the doctor books and medical reminiscences, such as the Horse and Buggy Doctor, by Dr. Arthur Hertzler, and Consultation Room, by Dr. Loomis, one recent uniqueness of the writer's experiaddition stands out because of the

The title is Elizabeth Garrett Anderson, by L. G. Anderson. It is the fine story of a brave fight against prejudice and malice and hypocrisy.

Elizabeth Garrett was an Englishwoman who decided 50 years ago to be a practicing physician.

Today such a resolution would not be noticed. Then it was considered not only a peculiarity, but a breach of good taste and good morals. I have had in my classes in medical school at least two women a year for the past 15 years. Nobody in the classes considers whether they are women or men. We never think of their sex. Questions and problems that are common to all human beings are discussed as all such problems should be discussed, frankly and factually.

CRUEL OPPOSITIONS

But it was not so in the days that Elizabeth Anderson matriculated at the University of Edinburgh Medical School. She suffered snubs, rudeness, silliness, bitter opposition and downright insults. It does not seem possible, reading her record, that human beings could be as thinks of the pogroms and horrors that have gone on in our time, one cruel as they were. But when one can realize that we have a long road to go to rise completely above the ape.

Elizabeth Garrett had a strong supporter in her father. And she had an inspirational meeting with Emily, another rebel against man, who was the first mistress of Girton, the first girls' school in England. They were both against the tyranny that ordained that a gentlewoman could get no paid job except that of a governess; needlework and Magnull's Questions did not satisfy their souls.

When Elizabeth Garrett applied for matriculation at the University of Edinburgh, the senate voted to withdraw her request. When she was up for her finals, the Society of Apothecaries tried to refuse her the right of examination. When they were forced to give way, by the threat of legal action, they at once passed resolutions to attempt to prevent any other woman to be qualified.

This was, of course, only the beginning. After her entrance into the medical profession she found prejudice against her on all sides. Sick people did not want to go to a woman doctor. She slipped into the British Medical Association at the meeting of 1875, and those so-called liberal men were so appalled that they proposed and passed a resolution to keep women out of their assemblies and their debates.

But Elizabeth Garrett, resolution or no resolution, went to every assembly and spoke at every meeting, year after year, until the rule was at last expunged in 1892.

She was an indomitable woman and this record, told largely from her letters, is good reading and a most pointed reminder against such unsubstantial things as the hates and prejudices that are rife today.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mrs. G. W. W.: "I have been giving my daughter orange juice and beaten raw egg every morning. Se has refused them now, declaring so many raw eggs are injurious. Also, she is a great eater of fresh tomatoes. Some tell her they cause cancer. I want her to continue on these eatables, because she is a working girl and eats very sparingly most of the time."

Answer: First, as to the beaten raw eggs. When the idea that a raw egg—plain or beaten—is more nutritious or digestible than a cooked egg started, I don't know. But I know it isn't true, any more than cooked meat, or nearly any cooked food, is less nutritious. Researches have shown that raw egg white is very indigestible and no more nutritious than a cooked egg. And of course, it becomes monotonous and, as in the case of your daughter, you turn against it. Certainly give her eggs and orange juice, but cook the eggs, and in a different style every day of the week. As to raw tomatoes and the comments made by those who tell her that they cause cancer: This type of advice is enough to make any dietitian angry. Fresh tomatoes have a most splendid nutritional value. They replace orange juice as a source of vitamin C. As to the cancer theory, people had cancer by the droves when everybody thought tomatoes were too poisonous to eat.

A. C.: "I would appreciate it if you would advise me whether or not to take x-ray treatments for superfluous hair. I have heard that it might be dangerous as it sometimes leaves a white scar."

Answer: X-ray removes only certain kinds of hairs, and is liable to leave a scar. The best permanent treatment of superfluous hair is electrolysis.

Creston Daughter Weds Nanton Man

CRESTON, B. C. — The first of Creston's August weddings was that at high noon Wednesday, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Bale, when their daughter, Miss Anne, was united in marriage with Arthur Herbert Shier of Nanton, Alta. Rev. H. J. Armitage, pastor of Trinity United Church officiated.

The vows were taken under an arch decorated with streamers and bells and tall vases of gladiolius and snapdragon. The bride, given in marriage by her father, fore a floor length gown of white silk net and carried a bouquet of roses and fern.

A buffet luncheon was served, and later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Shier left on a motor trip to Spokane and other points before going on to Nanton to take up residence.

The bride was well known in dramatic and musical circles, and a popular member of the younger set.

Day Skirts Are Modelled Short

PARIS, Aug. 4 (CU).—Paris fashions narrowed down today. New trends sheared yards off yesterday's models.

Even reborn 1880 styles are pruned and clipped to the point where "bustle" dwindle to mere bows and hips are tightened.

Panier draperies hugged the hips in Patou's winter collection and finished in flat, falling sashes at the side-front or in knotted bustle details behind. Day dresses and coats featured tightly swathed hips, accentuating a lowered waistline.

The silhouette narrowed down to the minimum for fitted coats and tailored frocks while day skirts remained short, averaging 16 inches from the ground. Many evening dresses were hobbled at the knee and slit up the side.

Use of Makeup by 'Teen-Age Girls Awakens Interest

By DONNA GRACE

While mothers and beauty advisers may stress the importance of simple and regular beauty aids, we know it is usually the result of the first powder and lipstick that awakens the interest of the 'teen age. This young miss takes as a matter of course the daily bathing, hair brushing and general care of teeth and hands, but it is the little sophisticated touch of makeup that makes her conscious of her own beauty. We are not urging the early use of makeup for all young girls in their 'teens, but feel in most cases it will help to stimulate pride and teach them to understand the correct use of such things.

The girl who has been permitted to have her own cosmetics is pretty sure to learn just what her needs may be and through practice will know more about the subtle use of suggestion than the crude methods of the amateur.

One should know how to use makeup so as to look like the natural coloring, and this takes practice. The actress knows this method well and there is no mystery about her sparkling beauty when you know just what she does. For instance, if the lipstick or lip outline is smeared and unbecoming it should be thoroughly removed, even though it means doing the whole makeup base over from the beginning. It must be perfect.

Let the lipstick and powder be definite and even generously applied, but don't become so delighted with the artificial picture that you fail to remove the too definite effects.

The powder brush must be used to give the surface a smooth, natural finish and excess lipstick should be toned down by placing a tissue between the lips until there is only a pink impression. (It's used as a blotter, you know).

The eye makeup takes practice, as it is usually the heavy mascara and crudely pencilled brows that accent the artificial effect. Take your pencil, then, in a good light and before a magnifying glass, practice the strokes just as the hairs grow. Let them be delicate and never use the long continuous line as the amateur does.

Finish the brows and lashes by brushing to remove all powder and separate the individual hairs. They must be a clean frame for the eyes. Remember it is the natural effect rather than the cosmetic effect that aids your beauty.

Daughter's "First Dates" Should Be Guided by Parent

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

It does not often occur to the average parent that puberty dawns in the daughter from one to two years earlier than in the son, and that because of her earlier physiological development she, as a rule, should be expected to be "boy crazy" a year or two earlier than her brother is "girl crazy."

The girl's earlier interest in the opposite sex, together with the traditional protectiveness toward the daughter by the parents, has caused them, it seems, to neglect guidance of their son. They forever warn their daughter against the barbarism of boys, but are little concerned about taming their own young "barbarian" properly to respect the girl. If we parents did as much to make our sons fit to be with girls as we do our daughters to be safe with boys, adolescent relationships would become more wholesome.

None the less, we know our daughters do need protection, and need it most right after sex-maturing. Since a great many parents don't protect their daughters adequately in the early teens, your daughter or mine may think we are very old-fashioned, even unreasonable, when we don't let her, at 12, 13, or 14, go places all alone with a boy friend.

"All the other girls have this privilege," is the almost universal complaint. But let us not be frightened by this cry.

NOT ALL SAFE

Not all daughters at so early age are entirely safe with such privilege. I wish parents, years before the daughter approaches puberty, even in the child's infancy, would prepare to meet the problems of this critical period. There are two major essentials: one, that parental authority be well established years before; another, that the mother earn the confidence and companionship of her daughter.

Whether the daughter shall properly be allowed to have "dates" at 14, 15 or later will depend upon how well this mother-daughter comradeship has been cultivated, and upon the degree of responsibility and dependability the daughter has acquired.

The wise mother, carefully studying her daughter, will have an understanding with her as to when she may expect to have "dates" In the meanwhile, this mother will provide many opportunities for her daughter to have, under adequate protection, social contacts with many boys. Accordingly, ways will be devised for attracting numerous boys as well as girls to the home.

$10 IS DONATED TO ARROW LAKES HOSPITAL BY NAKUSP INSTITUTE

NAKUSP, B. C.—At the August meeting of the Nakusp Women's Institute at the beautiful lakeshore home of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Horsley, two outstanding papers were given. Mrs. W. Maxwell gave a well informed review of the subject, "Peace and International Relations' while Mrs. Ralph Islip gave a talk on the early history of Nakusp, relating many amusing stories of bygone days.

During the business meeting presided over by Mrs. F. Rushton, the sum of $10 was donated to Arrow Lakes Hospital, and the hospital committee reported new sheets and pillow slips had been purchased for the Institute ward.

A resolution for the Hospital Board on the Government grant was endorsed by the meeting. The Secretary was instructed to send a letter to the Nakusp Hot Springs commissioners asking them to cooperate with District Health Officer Dr. H. F. Tyreman in preventing possible infection.

A vote of thanks was extended to the Nelson Institute for kindness in helping with the Nakusp children who were sent to Nelson for eye examination.

In place of a suggested dance as a means of raising funds, it was decided that each member should make an effort to earn the sum of $1 talent money to turn in at the next meeting.

An invitation to a lawn tea to be held at New Denver by the Institute was accepted.

Afternoon tea was served with Mrs. Horsley, Mrs. P. Young and Mrs. R. Islip as hostesses.

COUNCIL IS SEEKING QUALIFIED PERSON TO ORGANIZE THE SCHEME

By DILYS THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, (CP).—A nation-wide campaign is being launched by the Child Guidance Council to encourage provision of skilled treatments for children showing behaviour disturbances and early symptoms of nervous disorder.

The Council is seeking a qualified psychiatrist, social worker or psychologist to tour the Provinces and organize the scheme. The post is open to persons of either sex, but it is expected the successful applicant will be a woman.

Miss I. G. Goddard, Secretary of the Council, thinks the organizer will be a woman because 99.9 per cent psychiatric social workers and 85 per cent of psychologists are women."

Duties of the organizer will be to visit homes for homeless children and schools. She will lecture at Parents' and Women's Institutes meetings and deal with problems of evacuation of children in wartime.

There are 100,000 homes for children in England. The organizer will discuss with the staffs any problems arising out of unusual behavior of any children who might be in difficulty because of the circumstances of their lives.

For the first two or three months the organizer's work will be principally concerned with the problem of evacuation in war-time.

In this connection one of the duties will be to interest local authorities in areas where children could be placed in psychiatric needs of children in a war emergency. A proportion of them might be upset by being removed from their homes.

MAY ARGUE NO BODILY HARM IN CALGARY CASE

CALGARY, Aug. 4 (CP). — The argument that no bodily harm was occasioned Nurse Alice Knowles in the assault allegedly committed upon her on the evening of July 18 by Mrs. Ethel Allen and Miss Betty Allen may be advanced by J. McKinley Cameron, K.C., counsel for the defence, when hearing of the charge reopens on August 10.

The case was remanded until that date after the court heard two witnesses this morning. The first was Mel Smith, driver of the dry cleaning firm's car, who picked up several dresses and other garments from the home of Mrs. Allen on the day after the offence allegedly took place.

The second was James Young, assistant city chemist, who presented an analysis of the material found in stains on the clothing and compared it with the can of roofing paint submitted to him by police for examination.

Persecutions Drove Mother Leap From Hotel With Kiddies

CHICAGO, Aug. 4 (AP).—"Persecution" by the new German Government of Czechoslovakia was blamed by a coroner's jury today for the plunge of a 43-year-old refugee mother and her two sons to their deaths from the 13th floor of the Congress Hotel.

The jury which heard the tragic testimony of the once wealthy husband and father, Karel Langer, 51, decided his wife, Adelian, 43, "committed suicide while temporarily insane due to worry over being forced to leave her home in Czechoslovakia due to persecution."

Jan Misha, 4½, and Karel Tommy, 6, the sons, were victims of "murder committed while (the mother was) temporarily insane," the verdict read.

Mrs. Langer hurled the children and herself from a window of her hotel room to the sidewalk of busy Michigan Boulevard last night.

QUEEN SENDS MESSAGE ON WORLD FRIENDSHIP ON 39TH BIRTHDAY

BALLATER, Scotland, Aug. 4 — (CP).—Queen Elizabeth paused in opening her many birthday greetings today to send a message to the Lord Mayor of London on world friendship.

Replying to a telegram from the Lord Mayor, Sir Frank Bowater, on behalf of the citizens of London, the Queen said:

"Their expressions of good will will be a constant inspiration to both the King and myself in our efforts to promote the true spirit of friendship throughout the world."

It was the Queen's 39th birthday. Government buildings broke out flags and bunting throughout the United Kingdom but she restricted her own celebration to a quiet family party at Balmoral Castle.

Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose presented gifts to their mother.

Iced Tea

HAM YUM-YUM

One thick slice of ham; milk to cover it. Bake in oven until milk is absorbed, which will take from one-half to two hours, according to thickness of ham.

BRAN BUTTERSCOTCH REFRIGERATOR COOKIES

One cup butter, two cups brown sugar, one egg, one cup bran, three cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder. Cream butter, add the sugar gradually and beat until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Stir in bran. Sift flour with baking powder and work into first mixture a small amount at a time. Knead and shape into rolls about one and one-half inches in diameter; wrap in waxed paper, covering ends so that dough will not dry out. Store in refrigerator until firm. Cut into thin slices and bake on ungreased cookie sheet in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) for about ten minutes.

FRIED CARROTS

Melt some butter in hot frying pan, cut cold cooked carrots in long thin strips, and when butter bubbles put carrots in, sprinkle with salt, pepper and sugar. Fry until edges of carrots are brown and crisp. A little finely chopped parsley may be added if liked.

Saturday lunch in the Summer has to be a meal that can be expanded at short notice. The man of the family is likely to be home and to have invited an office pal; the same goes for the children. Weekend guests may be arriving, and holiday appetites in full swing. Everyone being in the holiday spirit the menu needs a touch of "something special."

Salad is the best answer to the problem presented. It's tempting in Winter or Summer, but it is during the dogdays that it gets in its best work. It can be as light or as flimsy as you please and it can easily be "stretched" for the unexpected guest.

To please varied tastes serve a big bowl of crisp lettuce, a platter of sliced cucumbers and tomatoes, radishes and celery, another platter of deviled eggs or cold cuts, a bottle of French dressing and a bowl of mayonnaise. Then everyone can assemble a salad that suits his own taste. Bread and butter, hot biscuits, rolls or muffins, a bowl of fruit and cheese and crackers complete menu that is in itself essentially simple yet which has something of a gala quality.

BISCUIT RECIPE

Fifteen biscuits can be made with two cups flour, two teaspoons double-action baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, two tablespoons butter or other shortening and three-fourths cup milk. Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt. Sift again. Cut in shortening, add milk gradually. Drop from teaspoon on greased pan. Bake in 350 degree F. oven 12 to 15 minutes.

CHOCOLATE DRINK

A delicious drink can be made with three cups hot chocolate with one cup double-strength coffee and mix well. Pour over cracked ice in tall glasses. Top with sweetened whipped cream, using one tablespoon for each serving. Serves four.

PINK PRINCESS DRESSING

For fruit salads: Requires two tablespoons whipped cream, two tablespoons pineapple juice, one-half cup stiff mayonnaise dressing and a teaspoon paprika. Fold whipped cream and then pineapple juice and the paprika into mayonnaise.

SERIAL STORY . . .

WINGS OF YOUTH

By HELEN WELSHIMER

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO

The newspapers told the story in its entirety. There were pictures of Corrine, and one of Sarah Anne. The church and its minister, Lynn and his car and the lodge were included.

One tabloid showed a sketch of Sarah Anne escaping down the chute into dark water, and the accompanying story suggested that she might have been jealous of her sister.

Walking down the street in the early evening, she saw the papers on the newsstands and her heart turned over slowly. Miss Anne came up to her.

"Sarah Anne, I bought every paper on this stand awhile ago—one hundred and fifty-seven of them—but I guess they've laid in a new supply. I can't stop them—"

"Don't even try. People will get the news somewhere."

Such a few weeks ago she had opened the newspaper to the whirring of shining wings and had seen Jack's face smiling at her. Then she had wanted the press to fling a banner across the land. But now she wanted to creep away and hide.

She found Bob Ransom on the veranda when she returned. "Corrinne won't see me," he said simply. "I've been trying to get to her ever since I left. She thinks I ran out on her. I didn't, though."

"Sit down and I'll call her again." The boy was suffering. She would insist that Corrine break that frozen exterior.

But Bob delayed her. "You must think I'm an awful heel. I went out to raise the bail—but I couldn't get it. I'm glad Kennedy came through. I think I'd have found a way, if he hadn't."

Corrinne was sitting on a sofa in her room, staring into space. Her lounging pajamas were pink-sprigged muslin, old and faded, but comfortable. She was seeing no one.

When she heard that Bob Ransom was waiting, she shook her head, but Sarah Anne detected a sparkle of interest in her wide blue eyes.

"Tell him to go find another playgirl," she instructed. "I've grown up."

"He has, too."

"He's being kind to me because I'm in trouble and he won't walk out just now. But he doesn't care. How could he? That black-haired vixen . . . ?"

"So that's worrying you?" Sarah Anne asked quietly.

"No, only if she had stayed in St. Louis I never would have married Lynn. But it's done—" She crossed to the window, parted the ruffled dimity curtains. "Is that a detective stationed out there? And why doesn't he ever go away to eat or something?"

"You want him to?" Sarah Anne asked. "Why, Corrinne?"

"Because—" The sobs that she had choked down for the past two days came in a mighty avalanche, shaking her slender shoulders, tearing at her face, and Sarah Anne patted her shoulder and let her cry. At last Corrinne raised a tear-stained face. "Well, that's over! Doesn't the wronged heroine always have one good cry? But I have to get out—just for an hour or two. I must!"

At the moment Corrinne spoke so vehemently that Sarah Anne didn't answer. Corrinne would have an outburst and calm down.

But instead she suddenly made a request.

That is why, four hours later, just as the midsummer moon was yellow and lop-heavy, Sarah Anne started down the road to a place which she had seen once and loathed forever.

She was bound for Lynn Rhodes' lodge. The plan was simple enough. Gorrinne had written three letters to Lynn. They were concealed in a wall safe. The safe was fitted into a panel in the alcove of the lodge, and its combination was engraved in minute letters on a small metal plaque, under the green felt pad on which the telephone rested.

"Not that they're important, but think of having them splashed everywhere!" she wailed. "I couldn't face it! I didn't even mean them very much when I wrote them."

Now Sarah Anne went down the road that spanned the river. Far to the east she could see the smokestacks of the mills, silhouetted against the hills, and now and then there was a fan of red flame among the grime which the chimnies belched into the night.

Even now she smiled because it was incongruous for Sarah Anne Melton, who didn't do such things, to make this journey. She reflected to the lows birds skirting the water than she never before had had a chance to do such things, and she hoped adventure never would come in this guise again.

Two things she hoped—that no one would be at the lodge and that Corrinne had been right about the directions.

But she was not afraid.

All summer long she had been disturbed, and now suddenly there had been a great crash of thunder, the storm had come, and she had no fear as she rode its billows. Long ago, as a little girl who believed that God was a nice old man with whiskers who sat on a golden chair in the sky, she had learned about the pillars. There was one of clouds which led the Children of Israel by day, and another one, slender, bright, triumphant, which was a beacon for their nights.

It was that one which went with her. It would lead her to that alcove again, and this time she would come down the stairway and drive home calmly.

Once she heard a motor behind her, but when she turned around the road was empty. She thought of the police, but they did not frighten her tonight. She wondered why she was not fearful of some henchmen of Lynn's who might pick up her trail. Then she reminded herself that it was because the men would stay far away from the huge log cabin.

On, on, on. She was almost to the road which swung through the gate. Fireflies danced ahead of her and a cricket chirped in the distance.

She flashed her spotlight over the side of the road. Here was the gate. Now—

The plan was so easy to carry out that she was nearly down the stairs, letters in her hand, when a man's voice stopped her.

"Ah, so you're more deeply involved than I thought, my pretty maiden!"

She didn't answer. She waited, while the crickets became louder and louder, and the wind stirred leaves that grew on tall trees too near the window. But the new peace was with her. Life might not be easy. It might take much, but somewhere, somehow, it would cease its demands, and the harness of these last days would fade away.

A lamp was light by the man who shared her retreat. Even before she saw his face, for he was stooping, Sarah Anne saw that the curtains were drawn at the windows.

The man looked up. "Why, Bing Wells, what are you doing here?" she asked in amazement.

He laughed easily. "That's the question I was about to ask you, but I see what you have in your hand. I mean, you have papers. Better let me decide if they're yours by law."

He started toward her and she saw that his usual flacid manner had vanished. He was hard tonight, and he looked like someone. Someone . . . she could not have mentioned that name. But at the moment she had no control over her tongue or her movements. So she said: "Why didn't I guess that you and Lynn Rhodes are brothers?"

Bing took a step toward her. "Because we aren't! I'm here for the same purpose you are—hunting for something! Maybe the thing you have there. Better let me see, Sarah Anne."

He reached her and held out a hand for the papers. She could not struggle with him, but she might beat him. If she took the lamp and set fire to the missives . . .

But he was too strong. He began to bend her wrist, painfully, torturingly, but she did not cry out.

She was clenching her fingers into a fist, welcoming the tearing of the paper, when she became aware of another presence in that room.

CHINESE MASS FOR ATTACKS

SHANGHAI, Aug. 4 (AP).—Large forces of Chinese regulars were reported today to be filtering into the Shanghai-Nanking area in preparation for major fighting on ground which Japanese wrested from them in first months of the war.

Chinese sources said the troops were getting ready for attacks on railroads, arsenals and other important Japanese holdings.

The troops were said to be massing in the Shanghai-Nanking-Hangchow triangle, an area about the size of the state of New Jersey, which Japanese theoretically had occupied by the beginning of 1938. Sizeable guerilla forces have been operating in the area.

Anderson Admits Shooting at Cherry Pickers but Had "No Intent to Harm"

Seven Witnesses Are Heard in All-Day Hearing

Case for the prosecution in the summary trial of Henry Lars Anderson, Taghum rancher charged with unlawfully wounding Ernest Defeo of Nelson, July 8, was concluded after an all day hearing before John Cartmel, Stipendiary Magistrate, in Provincial Police Court Friday.

The case was adjourned till next Wednesday at the request of E. P. Dawson, counsel for Anderson, as he wished to call some defence witnesses.

Anderson is charged with wounding Defeo with a shotgun while the youth and three companions picked cherries from a tree hanging above a fence on Anderson's property on the Taghum hill.

Seven witnesses were heard during the day. They were the four youths, Arthur Larson, Leo McKinnon, Elmer Gelinas, and Defeo; Dr. B. T. Dunham, who treated Defeo; Constable C. W. House, who investigated the case; and Inspector John Macdonald, who arrested Anderson. Constable House prosecuted.

During Constable House's testimony, Mr. Dawson objected to conversation between the officer and Anderson during the investigation being entered as evidence. When Inspector Macdonald took the stand and began to refer to verbal statements made to him by Anderson before his arrest, Mr. Dawson again objected, stating that Anderson had not been given a chance to make a signed written statement, and that the verbal statement was not acceptable as evidence. Even though the Inspector had warned Anderson that what he said might be used as evidence, and Anderson made his statement on those terms, Mr. Dawson contended it should not be entered as evidence. His Worship overruled the objection, stating that as far as he was concerned, the verbal statement was "good enough."

HEARD NO WARNING

Young Larson told how the lads were out driving and went first to the Ymir Road, then the North Shore, and finally to Taghum Hill, where one of them had said there were some "nice" cherries. They stopped the car, turned out the lights and walked down the road toward the tree. They were laughing and joking and waited until several cars passed before they started to pick the cherries. One of them lit a match to see the cherries. They were standing on the bottom rail of the fence and had each picked a few cherries when there was a shot fired from somewhere in the field below them with "no warning whatsoever." Larson heard Defeo moan and utter some exclamation, and they all turned and ran for the car.

Arriving at Defeo's residence in Nelson, the others helped Defeo out of the car as he was suffering intense pain. They helped him to undress and get into a hot bath, when they saw a series of abrasions, some of them bleeding freely, from his knees to his chest.

Larson said he and Gelinas were both hit by the charge, Larson receiving 12 pellets in the left arm and six or seven in the head. He was wearing a suede leather jacket over his shirt. Gelinas received three pellets, two in his legs and one in the abdomen. Larson took Gelinas and McKinnon up town and let them out, later going to a hotel where he summoned Dr. B. T. Dunham. On arriving at the Defeo residence, Dr. Dunham had ordered young Defeo to Kootenay Lake General Hospital.

Cross-examined by Mr. Dawson, Larson said he knew it to be an offense to take the cherries, but "not a serious one."

The day after the occurrence, Larson, Gelinas and Defeo's two brothers had reported to the Provincial Police, and Constable House had accompanied them to Taghum.

Young McKinnon corroborated Larson's evidence, and stated that when he heard the shot, he thought one of the boys had "dropped a giant firecracker for a joke."

Elmer Gelinas testified he thought the shot came from behind a stump or "some black object." He could not see a flash. Cross-examined, he said he knew he was "doing a wrongful act, but it was a very minor offense."

Ernest Defeo stated he had picked about four cherries when he heard and "felt" a shot. He thought he saw a flash, "but something sort of dazed me." The youth said it was he who told his companions about the tree being a "nice one," as he had seen it that afternoon when returning from a fishing trip at Taghum with Gelinas.

60 ABRASIONS

Dr. Dunham estimated there were about 60 abrasions on Defeo's body, with 30 of the pellets embedded in the flesh, some of them about an inch below the skin surface. He had to cut around them to remove them. A number were left in, as "I thought I would be doing more harm than good to remove them." The youth suffered a great deal of pain, but appeared to be in comparatively good condition. There was little sign of shock.

Constable House testified to investigating and questioning Anderson on the Sunday afternoon. He said Anderson at first claimed no knowledge of the occurrence, and said he had been out searching for his cow Saturday night. He said he had a shotgun but had used it the last time in the Spring. The officer said the gun smelled as though it had been fired recently. He took Anderson to Nelson for further questioning.

Returning to Taghum, he obtained statements from Mrs. Pearl Anderson, and her daughter, Mrs. Mamie Slattery, both residents in Anderson's house. Daniel Chickering, Mrs. Anderson's father, also resided there but no statement was obtained from him. Going back to Nelson, Constable House later returned with Inspector Macdonald and Constable G. S. Blaney. With Anderson, they made another search of the property, and from a spot where Anderson stopped, to the cherry tree in question, the distance measured 145 feet. Anderson picked up a .12 guage shotgun shell in the bush near where he stopped.

Constable House exhibited two pellets he said he had extracted from a telephone pole beside the tree. They were buried about a quarter of an inch deep.

INSPECTOR REPEATS ADMISSION

Inspector Macdonald testified Anderson had made the statement that "I have had lots of annoyance by boys stealing my cherries. I have chased them away two or three times today. It's not what they take but the damage they do to the trees. Today my cow had strayed away and I was searching for her about three hours before I found her. When I came back I was tired and angry and I noticed boys stealing cherries from the tree. I got my gun and fired a shot in their direction. I had no intention of doing them any injury; only to scare them. I was quite a distance away when I fired the shot. If you care to come down, I will show you the exact spot."

The Inspector then said he had accompanied Anderson to the ranch where he was shown the spot from which Anderson fired the shot. On the way to the ranch, Anderson had told the Inspector of the hard time he had trying to make a living from his fruit, and the trouble he had in protecting his property.

The wedding march was played by Miss Geraldine Haddad. Following the ceremony a wedding buffet supper was served. Mrs. Stender, receiving the guests, chose an afternoon frock of navy georgette reddingote worn over figured taffeta, white hat and shoes and a corsage of pink and white roses. The buffet table was centred with a tiered wedding cake with white streamers radiating from the cake. Mr. and Mrs. Bonner left for a wedding trip to Spokane. Mrs. Bonner wore an afternoon dress of dusty pink crepe with a jacket in pastel purple, and pink felt hat, shoes and gloves.

Mrs. Bonner was born in Cranbrook and attended the schools here. After graduating from Garbutt Business College she was with the General Construction Company here, and with the Finney Tractor Company at Vancouver recently. Mr. Bonner was born in Cranbrook and has lived at Moyie and Kimberley. He is with the Canadian Immigration at Kingsgate, where they will reside on their return from Spokane.

Dunning Embarks on Health Trip

MONTREAL, Aug. 4 (CP).—Finance Minister Dunning sailed for England today aboard the liner Montclare seeking to recover from ill health which has forced him out of active politics.

His wife, daughter, Kay, and son, Avery, stood on the dock as the liner pulled out. The Finance Minister is travelling alone.

He walked slowly up the gangplank shortly before the ship sailed, without his usual black pipe and carrying a cane.

Once aboard ship he went directly to his cabin.

A large number of family friends and Montreal citizens saw the Finance Minister off. Hon. J. L. Ralston came aboard and talked for several minutes with Mr. Dunning. Col. Ralston is mentioned in some quarters as a possible successor to Mr. Dunning if the latter drops his portfolio.

Avery Dunning, a junior at Queen's University, said his father has no particular plans. "He is going to wander around England and try to get well just loafing about," he said.

LLOYD GEORGE TALKING

Lloyd George has been at it again. At a recent bye-election meeting he told his bearers that Hitler and Mussolini were waiting for the result, which would "make an impression on his (Hitler's) hard heart."

He said he had met Hitler, "who had only one conscience, embodied in the phrase 'Deutschland uber Alles'." He had not met Mussolini, but the Duce, too, "was a remarkable man." He said he was bound to tell his audience that there was not in the British Government anyone "who could stand for ten minutes against these tremendous men."

He didn't say that having met Hitler in 1936, he reported in Britain that the dictator was sincerely anxious for peace. Would he, had he been Prime Minister then, have embarked the country on a great rearmament campaign at that time? Or when did he see the light with regard to this "tremendous" man? And are these tremendous men going to have their way? If not, who is preventing them?

He said the "ablest and most experienced men in the Conservative party were outside the Government and criticizing it." By that he can mean only Churchill for Eden is not among the most experienced. He said the "best of the Liberal party" were outside the Government. By that he can only mean Lloyd George, for nobody could consider Sir Archibald Sinclair the best in any party.

He wants Churchill and Lloyd George included in the Government, which he blames because "the international situation has not been so bad since 1914." Churchill and Lloyd George were of the Government involved in the situation of 1914 and it could find no way out but war. The former has been accused by two Prime Ministers of intriguing behind their backs, and the latter has been disowned by his party. Are they fit choices for office.

He told his hearers also about German and Italian guns threatening Gibraltar, and said it was for the North Cornwall electors to "stop this and save civilization." He said a lot of other things, all of which recall the suggestion made by Ramsay MacDonald in an interview in Canada, that there should be an amusement tax on Lloyd George's meetings.

Looking Backward . . .

TEN YEARS AGO

From Daily News of August 5, 1929

Robert Cunningham, merchant of Crescent Valley, spent yesterday shopping in Nelson.—George Walsh, star high school miler of the Kootenays, left yesterday for Vancouver where he will, with four teammates, compete in the Vancouver Exhibition Track Meet on Thursday and Friday. Others to go, with their trainer, A. Walsh, are Desmond Hewitt, Sandy Martin, Hanna and Haddon:—Receipts of ore and concentrates at the C. M. & S. Co.'s reduction works from the Company mines amounted to 14,642 tons in the last 10 days, sending the total for the year to date to 304,737 tons.

25 YEARS AGO

From Daily News of August 5, 1914

Great Britain declared war yesterday when the German Kaiser refused Belgium neturality. England now will take immediate action to uphold her obligations to Belgium. Italy has refused to fight for the Allies.—The annual St. Paul's congregational and Sunday School basket picnic will be held at Procter today, the steamer Kuskanook having been chartered to make two round trips.—Sixty-eight names were last night registered on the recruiting list at the armory for enlistment in the service to aid the Mother Country. —J. M. Smith of Ainsworth is visiting in the City.—G. A. Carlson of Spokane who is interested in the Payne Mine at Silverton passed through Nelson yesterday.

40 YEARS AGO

From Daily Miner of August 5, 1899

Following officers were elected at the first general meeting of the Nelson Electric Tramway Company yesterday: F. W. Peters, President; Captain T. J. Duncan, Vice-President; T. C. Duncan, Secretary.—Lieut. Col. MacDonald of Guelph, Ont., a brother of W. A. MacDonald, K.C., is staying in Nelson. Archie Johnston intends to introduce the Colonel to some Kootenay trout on the Main Lake tomorrow. —A meeting of the Board of Kootenay Lake General Hospital was held yesterday. Those present included Mrs. Roderick Robertson, Mrs. Stocks, A. Shaw, Secretary F. W. Swannell, Mr. McArthur and Mr. Crease.

TOMB TURNING

That rugged old rebel, General Washington, might have turned a somersault in his tomb when His Britannic Majesty King George VI stepped thereon to deposit a wreath to his memory. Far away in England the mortal remains of the King's great - great - great - grandfather, George III, doubtless rattled in helpless wrath. But, more happily, and more intelligently, 650,000,000 souls living under the monarchy and republic they once ruled accepted the gesture in the spirit that inspired it, a feeling of eternal friendship, mutual understanding and common ideals.—Ottawa Journal.

Contract Bridge

Shepard Barclay Tells How to Bid and Play

TIMING DECIDES IT

GETTING AN early lead of the suit you are trying to set up is usually the most important factor in a difficult No Trump hand. It will sometimes pay you to play your combination of cards in that suit entirely counter to what ordinarily is considered the correct way, especially if by so doing you are able to get an extra lead of the suit before the side entries for it are disturbed.

North: ♠ J 7 3 ♥ A K 9 4 ♦ K 10 6 ♣ A 10 9
West: ♠ 10 8 6 ♥ J 10 7 5 ♦ 4 ♣ K J 7 5 2
East: ♠ K 9 4 2 ♥ Q 3 2 ♦ A Q 9 8 ♣ 4 3
South: ♠ A Q 5 ♥ 8 6 ♦ J 7 5 3 2 ♣ Q 8 6

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

Here North bid 1-Heart, South 1-No Trump, North 2-No Trumps and South 3-No Trumps. West led the club 5 to the 9. Had this declarer immediately led for his spade finesse in order to be in position to lead a diamond toward the K, he would have been defeated through a shortage of entries. Instead, he led the diamond 6 toward his long holding, realizing that on a later round he could lead toward the guarded K if he desired.

East crashed in with the Q and then attacked the declarer's entries by leading the spade K, but it was too late. The A won that trick, then the diamond K lost to the A and the second spade lead from East went to the J. Now the diamond suit was set up, with the spade Q for an entry, so that the declarer got three tricks in diamonds, plus two in each other suit.

L. S., Grand Forks — —Is a galvanized iron roof considered lightning proof?

B. R., Nelson — Where should a thermometer be hung to record the most accurate outdoor temperature?

It should be hung on the North side of the house, in a sheltered place, such as a porch. The hook should be long enough to keep the thermometer an inch or two from the wall.

NOT SO BAD

Comparison of the British and Canadian budgets, presented the same day in London and Ottawa, should afford small solace for the Canadian taxpayers. Canada has a long way to go before her citizens will pay an income tax rate of 27½ per cent, or $150 a year for a car permit.—Sydney Post-Record.

SMALL CAR

A new small car priced at $300, is on the way. After parking the larger job, it should be ideal for driving the rest of the way to the office.—Chicago Daily News.

ONE-MINUTE TEST

1. What is the lowest hereditary title in Great Britain?
2. At which end of the canal is the city of Panama?
3. Name the only two words in the English language in which the vowels appear in order.

WORDS OF WISDOM

The race of mankind would perish did they cease to aid each other.—We cannot exist without mutual help. All therefore that need aid have a right to ask it from their fellowmen, and no one who has the power of granting can refuse it without guilt.—Walter Scott.

TODAY'S HOROSCOPE

An active and industrious year is ahead for those who celebrate their birthday today. They will win promotion and gain accordingly. They should, however, exercise care as to documents and correspondence. Born on this date a child will be energetic and possessed of many valuable all-around qualities and abilities which should ensure a good measure of success.

HINTS ON ETIQUETTE

Tact has been described as "a combination of intellectual quickness with lively sympathy." The way to overcome tactless blundering is to think first, and so refrain from saying things that embarrass people or make them feel uncomfortable.

HOROSCOPE FOR SUNDAY

If your birthday is on this date, beware of foolish or impetuous conduct. Also guard against deception. Prefer the counsel of your elders to that of strangers. The child born today will be active, industrious and ambitious, but inclined to be too overbearing, and critical. There will be great goodness of heart, however, and much success is promised.

ONE-MINUTE TEST ANSWERS

2. The Pacific end.
3. Facetious and abstemious.

PHOENIX RISES

Several odd-looking seeds discovered recently in a more than 12-century-old tomb at Jujo, Higashi-Kodama Village, Kodama, have begun to sprout into phoenix trees, which are found only in the western part of Madagascar Island. They are growing at the Koishikawa Botanical Garden in Tokyo—Japan Times Weekly, Tokyo.

STEPPING UP

With airplane and motor bus business cutting into train traffic, the trains in Great Britain have been trying to step up their punctuality. Last year an improvement of 4 per cent, was made in running express trains on time, and 2 per cent, for local trains. During the year 91 trains out of every 100 ran on schedule. —Windsor Daily Star.

ADVANCE WEATHER BULLETIN

For Western and Central Canada, embracing British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario.

Monday, Aug. 7, 1939 — In Southern parts of Central Provinces some indications of a few light, showery rains, but most of country is clear; warm.

Tuesday, Aug. 8 — The cloudy and somewhat disturbed condition on Southern borders drifts off to the Southeast leaving most of country clear; warmer.

Wednesday, Aug. 9 — Nearly clear in most of the West and on Pacific slope, but somewhat unsettled about the Manitoba regions and slightly warmer.

Thursday, Aug. 10 — In the Great Lakes regions of Manitoba probably cloudy, with light raining, but most of the West and Pacific coast regions clear.

Friday, Aug. 11 — Unusually clear, quiet weather on Pacific slope and nearly all the Central Provinces with temperatures slightly lower in most sections.

Saturday, Aug. 12 — Nearly everywhere clear and cool weather, though about Manitoba and the Southeast some indications of light, showery, rains.

Sunday, Aug. 13 — Continues clear and rather cool in most sections, but light rains seem probable in East Saskatchewan districts and the Manitoba country.

Week of August 7 to 13, 1939, in Central Provinces begins with rather warm, clear weather, or with only a few showery rains, mainly about the Southern sections. In general there should be much clear, warm weather, though later in week turning considerably cooler. Near same time a few scattering showers are expected in Eastern parts of the Central Provinces, but on Pacific slope not so much indication of rain, except a few local showers on the coast lines. For the country in general probably less than normal moisture this week.

Near middle of this month in these regions the rains rather suddenly decrease both in volume and frequency. Yet a few rains continue, at quite widely separated places, but the moisture in general is very much less than in July. In Winnipeg vicinity the normal for July is close to three and a half inches of rain, while for September it is less than two inches, for as soon as the cool autumnal weather sets in rains become much less frequent. This change is likely to be particularly noticeable in the last few days of August this year, when a spell of cool weather is indicated. In general we expect considerable clear, rather dry weather after the middle of the month.

GIRL IN HIDING

By W. BOYCE MORGAN

"There they are!" Louise cried in terror. "They're after me again!"

INSTALLMENT IV

Ken and Harry stared at the girl who called herself Louise Jones.

"Oh, you've got to believe me!" she cried desperately. "My name isn't really Louise Jones, but I can't tell anybody who I really am—not for a few days. And I can't possibly go to the police. That's why I asked you to meet me. You're my only hope."

"But what can we do?" Ken asked in bewilderment.

"You can stay at the lodge again tonight and tomorrow night!" Louise said earnestly. "I'm sure I can fix it up with Miss Brooks, because she said you seemed like nice boys. That way, you'll be sleeping right under my window, and if those men come back you can give the alarm."

Ken stared at Louise, then looked at Harry. He saw his friend swallow with difficulty. What was this girl asking them to do? Who knew what might happen to them if they got in the way of a couple of men who were trying to kidnap her? Certainly it would be dangerous.

Ken looked back at Louise. He saw the fear in her eyes, and the desperate, pleading expression on her face. He reached a decision.

"We're game," he said grimly. "If you can fix it up with Miss Brooks, we'll sleep on the lodge porch as long as you want us. Won't we, Harry?"

Harry nodded. "I'm willing," he agreed.

"Oh, thank you, thank you!" the girl cried in relief. "I'll go right up to the lodge now and speak to Miss Brooks."

"Maybe we'd better go part way with you," Ken suggested. "It's pretty lonely down here by the lake shore."

"Would you?" Louise said eagerly. "I'll admit I'm frightened."

"Sure,' said Ken heartily. "Let's go."

They turned and started back along the beach. But they had taken only a half-dozen steps when Harry suddenly halted in his tracks, staring into the woods beside them. Louise followed his eyes with hers, and screamed.

Coming through the undergrowth toward them on the run were two men.

"There they are!" Louise cried in terror. "They're after me again!"

"Run for the lodge!" Ken cried. "We'll be right behind you, and we'll slow them up as much as we can. Hurry!"

Louise broke into a run, flying through the sand with fear lending wings to her feet. Ken and Harry, their faces grim, ran after her, going more slowly, and glancing back at the two men who had just broken through the undergrowth and were gaining fast.

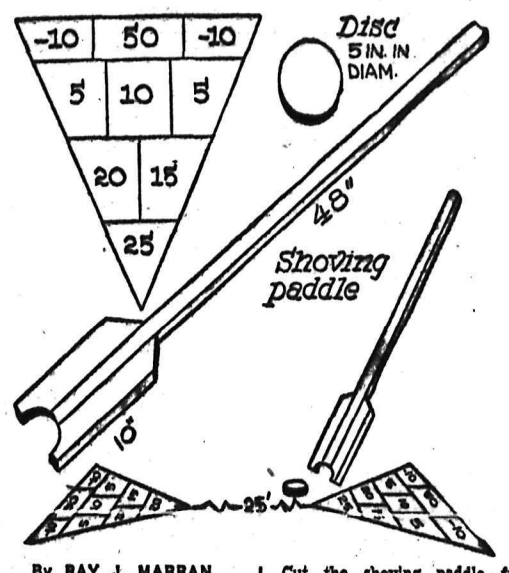
Make Sidewalk Shuffleboard Game



By RAY J. MARRAN

Shuffleboard is a popular game on board ocean steamships, and it also may be played at home for real fun. Of course, a long narrow space is required for this game, but an adaptation may be played in any space about 25 feet long. A sidewalk or concrete driveway may be just the thing.

Draw the court diagrams on the sidewalk with chalk. The wooden disks used for the game are cut from soft wood with a keyhole saw. Make twelve of the disks, and paint six of them red and six white.

Cut the shoving paddle from soft pine. Whittle the handle from a 1 by 2, and nail short sections of 1 by 2 on the head to form the paddle blade. Cut the end of the blade concave to fit the shape of the disks. Each player should be furnished with a stick and six disks.

Two or four persons may play this type of shuffleboard. Players take turns shoving their disks at the target diagrams. The disks must stop inside the section lines to score a count. The player shoving his disks into court sections which total the highest score at the end of five turns wins the game.

Apple Pie Order

"All in apple pie order," is an expression that we hear often, but do we know how it originated?

The saying harks back to Hepibah Merton, a Puritan dame who made a practice of baking, each Saturday, two or three dozen apples pies which were to last her large family through the coming week. She placed them on the shelves of her pantry, labeling each according to the day of the week on which it was to be eaten. When her pantry was thus arranged it was said to be in "apple pie order."

This would not be a bad plan for us to follow today—not with apple pies perhaps, but with our own everyday problems. If Johnnie would make a weekly program and carry it out and if Mary would have a definite time set for her odd jobs, how much easier it would be for them and for Mother than the helter-skelter methods now used in the average home.

Pointers on Pets

By Horace Mitchell

FEED 'EM AS YOU DO

Carl Watson and Harold "Stub" Grant are two fellows who always have "good luck" with their pets. And they usually have quite a variety of pets on hand, too. The other day I asked them how it was that they so seldom lost a pet from disease, or so seldom had one sick.

Each of them told me the same thing, and I'll pass it along to you, taking a little from the opinions of each.

Stub said, "Always give them water! And plenty of it. Don't wait until you are thirsty yourself to set a pan of water out for the dog. Keep a pan of water where the dog and cat can reach it all the time.

"And good fresh water, too—clean water in a clean pan. Change it at least once every day. A great many people do not think this is important. Dogs and cats can't tell you they are thirsty. Sometimes they try, but when you're busy you don't notice their 'signals' and they just go along getting thirstier and thirstier. Then, perhaps, you suddenly remember them and give them water.

"Now if they have not had any all day, or perhaps a day and a night, they'll drink too much at once. If it's cold water their entire system gets chilled, and that's where disease germs get an opening."

Yes, water is a simple thing. We have it so conveniently located in our homes now that sometimes we do not stop to think that most pets can't turn on a faucet.

Carl is a great believer in food. "I give my dogs and my cat just the same sort of food I eat myself. They all get plenty of exercise, and all the good clean food they want keeps them healthy. I don't approve at all of getting scraps of 'dog meat' at the butcher's. Most of it is tainted, and when it is that way it isn't fit for a human being; so, according to my reasoning, it isn't fit for a dog or cat.

"So many people will fill their pets—their cats and dogs, and sometimes their canaries and goldfish, too—full of inferior food, that it is no wonder the creatures don't live as long as they should, nor act as happy as they might."

"Plenty of clean, fresh water," says Stub. And Carl says "Lots of good, clean food." Those are the "secrets".

He: Oh, she's not as old as all that!

Ha: Old! Why, that woman remembers the Big Dipper when it was just a drinking cup!

"Here, waiter! This steak is positively burned black."

"Yes, sir. Mark of respect, sir. Our head cook died yesterday."

WEEDS AND WILD FLOWERS

Bernadette's father runs a roadside vegetable and fruit stand in the country. One day Bernadette, age twelve, picked a bouquet in the fields. True, she had found nothing but wild flowers and weeds. But knowing what weeds to pick and what combination of colors is pleasing in wild flowers, she had made a bouquet of startling beauty. The flowers with their weed trimmings sold for ten cents to a woman who came driving to the stand in a big sedan.

Next day Bernadette picked three more bouquets and sold them all.

Dark brown seedstalks — milkweed pods — full-blown thistles — these take on a new loveliness under Bernadette's skillful fingers. And she knows just how to arrange them in a bowl or in a graceful vase.

Today Bernadette supplies two drawing teachers with specimens for their classes. She takes orders for Christmas bouquets. And for a girl just turning thirteen she is doing nicely.

Weeds and wild flowers may be a humble beginning but humble beginnings lead to better things.

TWELVE-YEAR-OLD BOY EARNS PRIZE WITH COIN TRICK

By Frazier Thomas

From Robin Richards comes our Trick o' the Week. Robin is twelve years old, and describes his trick so well that I can quote almost word for word from his letter.

Congratulations, Robin! My autographed picture and book of Oriental Magic have already been mailed to you. It is my sincere hope that you are enjoying the clever Magic contained in that book this very minute.

EFFECT: A dime that has previously been examined by the audience is caused to vanish before their very eyes.

EXPLANATION: This is a simple, mystifying coin trick. A dime is a very good coin to use because of its size. The entertainer is preferably seated at a table. He picks up the examined coin with his left hand. The right fingers then take the coin. The left hand now goes behind the head near the collar.

The performer rubs the elbow of the left forearm with the right fingertips faster and faster. Finally he removes his hand and the coin falls to the table. Evidently the trick has failed.

The performer repeats the procedure, but this time he seems again to pass the coin from the left to the right hand, but actually retains it in the left hand, and carries it to the back of the neck. This part of the trick has to be done quickly and cleverly. The performer again rubs the back of the left forearm as a bit of misdirection, while he deposits the coin under his shirt collar. When he removes his right hand from his left elbow, lo-and-behold! ! ! The coin has disappeared!

There's the trick, boys and girls. And once again, thanks to you, Robin Richard.

Vancouver Forces Fourth Battle in Dominion Soccer

Montreal Blanked 2-0 in Third of Best of Three

WINNIPEG, Aug. 4 (CP)—Vancouver Radials forced a fourth game in the best of three Dominion Football Association soccer final tonight when they blanked Montreal Carsteel eleven 2-0 in the third game. The first game Monday ended in a 2-2 tie with Montreal taking the third Wednesday 3-2.

Vancouver, as in the other games, outplayed the Montreal team almost throughout but over-anxiousness in front of the net and the brilliant goal-tending by Tim Gordon, kept the score at 2-0. Seldom were Carsteel in a scoring position and what shots they had were handled easily by Bill Watson.

The championship will be decided tomorrow afternoon when the teams clash again. Overtime will be played if necessary to decide the winner in the points basis, two for a win and one for a draw.

The second half was only four minutes old when Radials got a long-awaited counter. Don Cowan raced down the left side and shot one across the goal mouth. Jackie Johnson, right winger, took the ball on the run and beat Gordon with a well-placed shot to the corner.

Reg Liptrott completed the scoring at the 34-minute mark when he gathered the ball on the left wing, wheeled around two Montrealers and fired a low shot into the corner that gave Gordon no chance. Liptrott was injured after he fired the goal when he collided with Mam Epstein and was replaced by Norm Kerfoot.

5-Horse Dream Race Is Talked Pimlico Track

BALTIMORE, Aug. 4 (AP).—Talk was in the wind tonight of a Pimlico special "dream race" that might settle not only the Johnstown-Challedon feud but also the issue between the East's and the West's favorite horses.

The Maryland Jockey Club, which staged the famous Seabiscuit-War Admiral duel at Pimlico last year, has not yet arranged a special for this Fall's meeting, but turfmen hereabouts are discussing possibilities of a five-horse, invitation race.

Interest was whetted today when the Club announced it had received word from Charles S. Howard, California sportsman whose 'Biscuit whipped the Admiral, that his speedy Argentine importation, Kayak II, would be available if another special develops.

Others mentioned as likely to be invited to compete in the Pimlico Special are William Woodward's Kentucky Derby winner, Johnstown; W. L. Brann's Preakness winner, Challedon; Millsdale Stable's Sun Lover, which ran second to Challedon and ahead of Johnstown in the Arlington classic; and T. B. Martin's Cravat, which ran next to Kayak II in the Hollywood Gold Cup.

3 CLEVELAND HOMERS NOT ENOUGH TO STOP YANKEES; MEDWICK SHINES

By The Canadian Press

It takes more than home runs to beat the World Champion Yankees. Three Cleveland batters hit round-trippers at New York yesterday but their blows were no match for the assortment of 12 hits New York put together in a 5-4 triumph over the Tribe.

Oral Hildebrand and Marius Russo limited the Indians to five hits, other by Odell Hale in the second and one by Jeff Heath in the seventh which included a home run by Hal Trosky with one on in the first, ano to account for all Cleveland's runs.

Lefty Al Milnar, who had beaten the champions once, started well and held them to one run and three hits for four innings only to weaken in the fifth and sixth, finally giving way to a pinchhitter.

Umpire Joe Rue chased Johnny Allen off the Cleveland bench in the seventh inning for heckling after Manager Oscar Vitt and the Indians protested a call ball on Keller.

Washington at home, won its fifth straight game, beating the White Sox 6-5 in 10 innings on a fly ball that Chicago's outfielders lost in the sun.

At Philadelphia, Bill Trotter outpitched Bob Joyce as the St. Louis Browns came from behind to beat the Athletics 3-1.

MEDWICK IN GOOD GRACES

Everyone in St. Louis takes back everything they've ever said about Joe Medwick.

The fighting gentleman from Carteret, N. J., back in good graces after a temperamental run-in with Manager Ray Blades, batted the St. Louis Cardinals of the National League to a thrilling 9-8 at home victory over Philadelphia in 13 innings.

Medwick got four hits in the drawn-out battle, including three doubles, one of them tying the score in the ninth and another driving in Stuart Martin with the winning run. Martin had singled and gone to second on Enos Slaughter's sacrifice.

The Cardinals looked futile, instead of the Phils, in the early part of the game. They spotted Doc Prothro's last-place outfit to a 7-0 lead and as late as the eighth inning were trailing, 8-4. Tom Sunkel's wildness and three of the Cardinals' five errors were factors in building up the Phils' early margin. Sunkel wild-pitched two runs across.

Spasms of wildness by two New York Giants pitchers at Pittsburgh enabled the Pirates to capture their series opened, 3-2, in 11 innings.

Mel Ott gave the Giants a two-run lead in the first innings by hitting his 20th homer of the season behind Harry Danning's double.

At Chicago, Claude Passeau shaded Lou Fette in a pitchers' battle, giving the Cubs a 1-0 victory over the Boston Bees in their series opener.

Passeau yielded only four hits and gave no walks in chalking up his ninth mound decision.

In Cincinnati, Ducky Walters broke the Reds' two-game losing streak in a night game by subduing the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5-3, for his 19th victory of the season. Dolt Camilli hit his 17th home run for the Dodgers.

Esling Park at Rossland Is Now Being Brought Back to Former Garden Beauty

PARKS BOARD IS SEEING RESULTS OF RESTORATION

Wealth Hidden Charm Being Brought Out Again

By MISS KAY LOWDON

ROSSLAND, B. C.—Nestled in the heart of the Golden City is a quiet rest haven, gradually being restored to its former beauty through the earnest effort of a small group of Rossland men who have labored during the past three years to re-create what once was one of the most beautiful parks in this district.

For many years past, Esling Park has been given but casual thought, and has been regarded by more recent Rossland as a relic of days long past. Day by day these Rosslanders have walked by a tangled corner that has held a wealth of hidden charm, both in the history of its construction, and in the possibilities of its future.

The early history of the construction of this recreation ground is best told in the actual words of its founder, W. K. Esling, M.P. for Kootenay West, in whose honor the park was named.—

"It was about 1916 when I suggested that a park be constructed on the site of an old brewery which had been built in the early early days," began Mr. Esling. "At that time I undertook to build it, and borrowed money from the bank for its construction.

BLOOMER FIRST CONTRIBUTOR

"Fifteen hundred dollars was owing before a single dollar was contributed, the first voluntary contribution coming from T. L. Bloomer, a retired engineer, now living at Castlegar, B. C.

"The creek was lying against the West side of the bank, and we turned it into the East side. We built a place for the children to paddle, a rock garden with a fountain in the centre and a swimming pool with a flood-gate and waterfall.

"Of course the water, which came from the old mines, was too cold to swim in," Mr. Esling recalled, "but it was a beautiful sight!"

"All the cottonwood trees lining the creek and leading up the steps were planted, and we sodded half an acre of turf in the park as well.

"We also built five rustic shelters containing a range each, and tables and benches. We even placed flower urns in the shelters, but they were soon destroyed.

OLD BASEMENT FILLED

"There was a willow grove at the South end of the park, between First Avenue and the lane behind Columbia Avenue which had grown over the basement of an old building. We cleared that out, and all the cartage concerns in the city dumped ashes and refuse into the old basement until it was filled. We covered it over, built a bandstand, and put in six children's swings at a cost of $25 each.

"The two buildings at the entrance were piped for shower baths.

"It was on the largest flower terrace, between the first and fifth shelters, that I delivered the speech of welcome to Lord and Lady Byng on the occasion of their visit to Rossland. Mrs. Grant Fraser Mitchell, who now resides at Winnipeg, was hostess to the Governor general and Lady Byng.

"Shortly after Lord Byng's visit to Rossland a carnival was staged to cover the expense of constructing the park, and so enthusiastic were the people that every cent of the debt was wiped out within a year of its construction!" its founder said triumphantly.

PERFECT GARDEN

"The park was a perfect garden," said Mr. Esling, leaning back in his chair, and letting his thoughts drift back to the years when the loveliness of Esling Parw attracted people from the surrounding district into its shaded depths. "Why, at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon the men from the mines used to come into the park and sit on the lawn to drink their bottle of beer. It was the coolest spot in town."

"It was not until about 1926 that vandalism began," Mr. Esling spoke regretfully. "I don't know whether the people just didn't care, or what it was, but the park was ruined. Everything was torn down, the swings were broken, and the place became so neglected that about three years ago I ordered my name taken off the entrance of the park . . . it was a disgrace!"

The task of giving this pretty plot back to Rossland, as lovely as in the days gone by, has not been easy. Unlike the days of its early history, there was no large group of enthusiastic citizens who, spurred on by the idealism of its founder, found joy in giving practical expression to their artistry.

PARKS BOARD WORKS QUIETLY

Instead, backed by the City Council, a parks boards of three men originally instituted in 1936 during the last term of Mayor William Arrowsmith, and organized again in 1937 by Major John Gordon, has quietly and persistently given time and labor to gradually transform a tangle of overgrown and neglected bush into order; clearing and cleaning out a sluggish stream, which had been hushed by the corrosion of the mineral waters from the mine.

The junior section of the Rossland Board of Trade took an active part in the reconstruction of Esling Park during 1938, collecting plants and making itself responsible for improvements at the East side of the park from the upper bridge to the site of the old swimming pool.

Dainty rock gardens have been set out along the walled in sides of the stream running through the cottonwood grove. Two bridges have been built over the stream at the North end of the park, and new benches have been set in among the trees, inviting rest.

SHADED PLAYGROUND

Children are again finding in Esling Park a shady playground. Two large swings are constantly swaying back and forth to the impetus of their active bodies, and two see-saws in the centre of the park bob up and down while the youngsters carry on the ever-tempting game of trying to keep the other aloft. A box merry-go-round located at the west side provides a thrill for the wee tots.

The shelters have been reconstructed into open-air dining places for picnickers.

This Summer the Parks Board plans to extend the park back up the ravine underneath the Second Avenue bridge, building a walk up one side and down the other, walling in the stream, and planting a rockery in among the trees. Six new benches with concrete sides will be placed in the grounds.

BOARD PERSONNEL

Alderman William Cunningham, one of the prime movers in the restoration of the park, has been a member of the Parks Board since its inception. The present board also includes A. L. Johnson, chairman, Fred Fletcher, and Thomas Sommerville.

John Forster, caretaker, has been in charge of the park for the past two years, by appointment of the board.

And thus ends and begins the story of Esling Park, a dainty corner of Rossland which, with the interest and cooperation of garden-lovers can be again made into "a thing of beauty, and a joy forever".

Martell Ontario Golf Champion

BURLINGTON, Ont., Aug. 4 — (CP).—Henry Martell of Edmonton, unknown to a good many in the East before the Canadian Amateur Golf championship last week, won the Ontario open golf crown from a high-classed field of professionals today by putting a three-under-par 69 to his first-round 72.

Martell shared the spotlight of the final round with Howard Jones, who fired a hole-in-one on the 16th hole of the Burlington Golf and Country Club layout, his home course.

Martell's total of 141 brought him the title over Herb Samways of London, Ont., and Reg Sansom of Toronto, both professionals, who tied for second place with 143 each.

MORE ABOUT CHAMBERLAIN

Parliament will not reassemble until Oct. 3, unless an emergency arises.

Mr. Chamberlain said that some of the things that were happening to British subjects in North China made his "blood boil" but that he would try to show "patience and to exercise reasonable moderation."

CONSERVE FORCES

"Let us not forget," the Prime Minister told the House of Commons, "that we have graver and nearer problems to consider in the course of the next few months and we must conserve our forces to meet any emergency that may arise."

He said Britain was in a "difficult" situation both because of European tension and because any use of force against Japan would endanger British subjects in China.

"At the present moment we have not got in the Far East a fleet superior to that of the Japanese," he said. "We have such a fleet here. In certain circumstances we might find it necessary to send a fleet out there."

Britain, ranked as the leading naval power of the world while Jajan is third in strength, normally maintains only her China squadron in the Far Eastern waters. That squadron is without battleships, but includes three 10,000-ton cruisers, one 9100-ton cruiser, one aircraft carrier, eight destroyers, 15 submarines, and gunboats and other vessels.

Some 20,000 British subjects live in China, nearly all in Japanese-occupied territory, and there are about the same number in Hong Kong, British crown colony off the South China coast.

WAS CHAMPION JUMPER

ST. HELEN'S, England (CP). — Almost forgotten, 63-year-old Thomas Colquitt died here in poor circumstances. A world's champion jumper, his feats in the late eighties and early this century earned him world fame.

Nelson and Trail Clash Here Sunday in West Kootenay Baseball Contest

Following the spectacular last inning victory over the Broadway Colored Clowns Wednesday evening Coach Jake Alles and President T. Con Cummins are predicting great things for the Nelson Seniors for the remainder of the West Kootenay Baseball League schedule.

A win on Sunday over the Trail Cardinals at the Recreation Grounds Sunday afternoon will step Nelson up to second place in the league standings and commence a rise, the officials say, that will carry them to the top of the league. The game will start at 2:30.

It was the combination of brilliant fielding and heavy hitting that won the game for Nelson on Wednesday over the tourists. Led by Beland, Alles, Seaby, Richardson and other big guns, the hits came when they were needed, 17 safeties in all rolling off the Nelson bats. On top of that errorless ball was reeled off by the winners to pull their pitchers out of numerous tough spots.

Vic Howard will not return to Nelson in time to pitch, as hoped by Nelson officials.

The Nelson lineup will be Beatty Guthrie p, Gordon Richardson c, Doc Chodorcoff 1b, Tom McInnes 2b, Walt Gelling 3b, Ernie Beland ss, Jesse Seaby lf, Jake Alles cf, Don Grice, rf. Others asked to turn out are Dick Harris, Jack Brown, Steve Smith, Art Scribner and Lefty Mydanski.

Legion Didn't Know What Was Talking About Says Telford

VANCOUVER, Aug. 4 (CP). — Mayor Lyle Telford said today delegates to the convention of the British Columbia command of the Canadian Legion at Kamloops "didn't know what they were talking about" when they passed a resolution expressing "intense resentment" at the action of the Mayor in connection with charges he has made against Brigadier W. W. Foster, Chief of the Vancouver Police Department.

The resolution, passed yesterday by the convention, expressed support for Brigadier Foster, Dominion President of the Legion.

Commenting on the action, Mayor Telford said:

"I think it would have been highly advisable for the Legion to withhold its resolution until the investigation is over. The Legion is talking through its hat—they don't know anything about this. They are sticking their necks out and will end up by becoming thoroughly embroiled."

Victoria to Strive Accident Free Week

VICTORIA, Aug. 4 (CP).—"100 Deathless Days" traffic campaign is "too easy" for Victoria so the City has decided to launch an "accident free" week.

The objective of the drive, sponsored by the City Police Department, is to have a week free of accidents in which persons are sent to hospital. It will begin Monday.

Chief J. A. McLellan, who claims the 100 deathless days campaign would be a "comparatively easy objective" said the department did not intend to make it an intensive campaign to prosecute pedestrians and motorists.

French, German Consulates Blown

CHUNGKING, Aug. 4 (AP) — The French and German consulates were damaged early today as Japanese warplanes raided the city.

Demolition bombs exploded in the compounds of the two consulates shattering windows and splattering ceilings with fragments.

Ten Chinese were killed in the foreign area. They had left the strictly Chinese quarter of the city for supposed safetly under the swastika and tricolor.

The residence of F. Tillman Durdin, of Fort Worth, Texas, a correspondent of the New York Times, was ruined by bomb concussion.

Other residential buildings in the area were destroyed by fires started by the bombs. The flames were brought under control after daybreak.

Casualties throughout the city were not heavy, probably under 30, as the raiders concentrated their attention upon the suburbs. One Japanese bomber was shot down.

DANZIG-PRUSSIA BRIDGE IS READY FOR INSTALLATION

DANZIG, Aug. 4 (AP)—Danzig authorities announced today a pontoon bridge which would provide the only bridge connection over the Vistula River between the Free City of Danzig and German East Prussia was completed and ready for installation. Announcement of the new bridge follows a threat on Tuesday by Danzig Nazi leaders to ignore the established frontiers after a revival of the "herring and margarine war" between Poland and Danzig.

(The Polish press today discussed the possibility that Danzig Nazis were preparing forcibly to open the frontier between the Free City and East Prussia—a step in the direction of incorporation of Danzig in the Reich.)

The bridge has not yet been put in place and authorities said they were not certain when it would be anchored. It will be entirely on Free State territory.

Retirement Thoughts Draw Large Crowds to Poultry Congress

CLEVELAND, Aug. 4 (AP).—In the back of most men's minds is that hankering to retire some day to an acre or two of land, stick up a fence and raise poultry.

That's how the men who direct the seventh world's poultry congress explain the chicken show's unexpected crowds. In the first six days of the 11-day congress, nearly 500,000 persons toured the 22-acre exhibition grounds to see what the poultry industry is up to. Paid admission on the best day totalled 117,000.

That was on Canada day, when the presence of a detachment of Royal Canadian Mounted Police to perform a musical ride proved a big drawing card.

A janitor employed in the city took his whole family to the exposition—because "my mother used to raise chickens." Another man attended because he once spent a Summer on a frm.

The poultry breeders seriously attend lectures on new developments in poultry raising.

Dr. Arthur Hor, secretary of the National Agricultural Society of Hungary, has an explanation for the attendance of breeders from all parts of the world in such large numbers.

"The poultryman is something of an idealist," said Dr. Horn. "He'll travel almost anywhere to see poultry."

J. S. Sarsait of Victoria won the special award for the best Polish fowl shown in the live bird exhibition.

Sales of birds for breeding purposes have been made by British Columbia breeders to Denmark, New Zealand and several states.

80 Cars of Grain Doors to Be Made Cranbrook Mills

Prairie Crop Speeds Demand; 35,000 for Creston

CRANBROOK, B. C., Aug. 4—Already reaction from strong probabilities of a good crop in the Prairie Provinces is having its effect on this district, with a decided pick-up in lumbering, largely accounted for by C. P. R. orders for grain doors. The doors, made of tongue and groove lumber, mostly dry spruce, larch and fir, are used in box-cars for shipping grain, as an inner door to act as an extra support for the outer door.

The Cranbrook Sash & Door Company Ltd. and the B. C. Spruce Company Ltd. are supplying between them around 80 carloads of these doors with approximately 720 doors to a car, making 60,000 doors in all. These will require 2,860,000 feet of dry lumber.

The demand this year is about the same as for 1938, with both years well above average. This year's supply from East Kootenay will be a little in excess of last year, with an order for 35,000 doors for Creston to ship their wheat crop. The Creston order was not in last year because of the dyke breakage which flooded out their crop in June.

The Sash & Door have already shipped six carloads and the B. C. Spruce, shipping at about a car a day, have sent off around 20 carloads. All this work must be completed and shipped by early September. There is a possibility of more orders in the meantime.

This seasonal work is requiring around 24 men at full-time work for the two firms.

When the doors are completed they measure 5 feet by 2¼ inches by 4 feet.

Golds Up Slightly, Oils and Base Metals Down at Vancouver

VANCOUVER, Aug. 4 (CP) — Prices wavered narrowly both ways in all sections on a quiet session of the Vancouver Stock Market today. Golds were up a fraction while oils and base metals eased down slightly. Transactions totalled 32,910 shares.

In the gold stocks Premier skipped 3 to 1.87 while Kootenay Belle struck an irregular course in the morning session closing at 80, up 4. Hedley Mascot was down 1 to .75 and Sheep Creek slipped 2 to 1.22. Cariboo at 2.20 was unchanged.

The oils were extremely quiet. Royal Canadian at .18½, and Calmont at .32 were both up a cent while Madison firmed ¾ to 3. Home tumbled .5 to 2.15. Anglo-Canadian was up 3 to .95.

Noble Five traded 7000 shares at 1⅛ in the base metals while Waverly Tangier firmed ¼ to ½.

U.S. DOLLAR UNCHANGED

LONDON, Aug. 4 (CP). — The United States dollar again ended unchanged at $4.68⅛ to the pound in the foreign exchange market today, corresponding to a similar rate for sterling in New York late yesterday.

French francs also were unaltered at 176.82 to the pound.

Minor Irritants Cause N.Y. Losses

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP). — It wasn't the heat nor the humidity, but leading stocks wilted one to around three points in today's market.

The list was off minor fractions at the start, with volume about one-half that of yesterday. A flurry of offerings hit the ticker tape after noon. There were subsequent slowdowns and slight recoveries. With the pace lagging in the final dealings, modest recoveries were in evidence here and there at the close. Transfers for the five hours approximated 900,000 shares.

Steels, motors, rubbers, mail orders and specialties were in front of the fade-away. Rails, utilities and coppers held declines to relatively small amounts.

Brokers, as usual, had a number of explanations for the retreat. For one thing, those who follow the charts exhibited a smattering of pessimism because the industrial average has been unable on a number of occasions to penetrate convincingly the July peak. It got through once or twice, but almost immediately fell back.

Foreign affairs again bobbed up as a minor irritant. European markets, though, were quiet and trendless. The fact the London securities exchange will be closed tomorrow through Monday for the bank holiday also was believed to have caused some traders to stand aside.

Principal share losers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Westinghouse, Johns-Manville, Du Pont, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, American Smelting and Philip Morris.

Lake Shore slanted lower in the Canadian group while Dome inched ahead. Others, including Dominion 4s in the bond market, were neglected.

Markets to Close on Civic Holidays

TORONTO, Aug. 4 (CP). — A civic holiday will be observed throughout Ontario Monday. All markets in Toronto, including the stock exchange and livestock markets, will be closed for the day.

Civic holiday also will be observed in Winnipeg and Edmonton. In Winnipeg, the grain exchange will not operate, nor will the Winnipeg stock exchange and livestock market.

Business as usual will prevail in other important market centres such as Montreal and Vancouver where civic holidays are not observed.

Industrials Ahead on Sliding Bond Market

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP).—Selected industrials inched ahead in an otherwise slightly slipping bond market today.

United States Governments, in scattered trades, were 10-32nds of a point lower to 3-32nds higher.

Among foreigns, Italian loans were down a shade.

FARM LOAN BILL GETS SENATE O. K.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—A $1,599,180 appropriation to continue government loans for bolstering farm prices was approved quickly by the United States Senate today as it sped consideration of the session's last major piece of legislation in hopes of a week-end adjournment.

This sum was the principal item in approximately $135,000,000 of increases recommended by the Senate Appropriations committee for inclusion in the $54,000,000 third deficiency bill passed by the House of Representatives yesterday. The vote approving the appropriation was 60 to 7.

Pamour was one of the weakest of the golds. It sold back to 2.10, a new low for more than a year, and the close around 2.15 was off 10 cents net.

The list was spotted with losses of 3 to 5 cents at the finish. McIntyre held to the up side. Other senior golds were a bit lower.

Losses of ⅜ to ⅝ chalked up for the senior base metals, including Nickel, Smelters and Noranda while Hudson Bay held to a small gain. Silvers were dull and steady.

Action was slow in the western oils with minor losses showing finally for Home Oil, Davies and Okalta.

Chicago Wheat Slips

CHICAGO, Aug. 4 (AP).—Wheat prices eased in late trading here today, dipping about ⅛ cent below yesterday's close after having advanced about a cent a bushel.

Trade was light and easily affected by moderate buying or selling. Also affecting the market was uncertainty concerning the Government's crop loan program.

Kaslo's Cherry Crop Is Record

KASLO, B. C., Aug. 4—Kaslo's 1939 cherry crop is breaking all records as to tonnage and perhaps quality. There are practically no culls, shippers say, all splendid fruit, the finest cherries in the world.

Monday night the Kaslo-Nelson Motor freight service had to send out three trucks and when they landed at Nelson had on board 1190 crates, within 13 crates of the entire crop shipment of 1203 crates sent out by independent shippers in 1937.

The total shipments last year by independent growers was 2322 crates for the season. This year, up to last July 31, shipments by independent growers had already totalled 2809 crates. The Associated packing house was so busy they had not time to total what number they had sent out, but the tonnage was impressive.

Some concern was felt that the big crop might glut the market on the Prairies, where most of the Kaslo cherries go.

First of Creston Wheat Harvested

CRESTON, B. C. — The first of the 1939 wheat crop reached the elevator during the week. It is from the Dr. Bruner tract on Nick's Island, and graded No. 2 Northern. It is Thatcher, a Spring variety. Fall sown and is an excellent sample fom the Island. Others who tried it as a "Winter" wheat, in some cases, plowed it in this Spring, and replanted.

The district is enjoying grand ripening weather and combining should be general on all Fall wheat not later than the middle of the week. On the three projects there is about 1300 acres of it to be harvested.

Along with about 30 combines, the occasional self binder is making its appearance, and some part of the 1939 crop will be cut old style and separator threshed.

British Markets on Bank Holiday

LONDON, Aug. 4 (AP).—Financial and commodity markets in England began the August Bank Holiday at the close of business today. Until Tuesday morning trading will be suspended in the Stock Exchange, metal and rubber markets in London, and futures markets for wheat and cotton in Liverpool.

Narrow Movement at London, Rails Weak

LONDON, Aug. 4 (AP).—Prices swerved narrowly both ways in stock market dealings today. Trans-Atlantics moved listlessly and mostly a shade lower. Japanese bonds were under moderate pressure. Domestic rails weakened. Industrials moved narrowly both ways.

World Exchanges

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (AP)—News that the first step had been taken toward forming a new Netherlands cabinet advanced the guilder 1-10 of a cent in foreign exchange dealings today.

The French franc dropped 1-16 to 2.64 15-16. The Canadian dollar remained at par, and the pound sterling was unchanged at $4.68.

Closing rates, Great Britain in dollars, others in cents:

Great Britain 4.68⅛; 60-day bills 4.67¼; Canada, Montreal in New York 100.00; Canada, New York in Montreal 100.00; Belgium 16.99; Denmark 20.90; Finland 2.07; France 2.64 15-16; Germany 40.13, benevolent 19.25, travel 22.75; Greece 85⅞; Hungary 19.70; Italy 5.26¼; Netherlands 53.31; Norway 23.52; Poland 18.85; Portugal 4.22; Rumania .72; Sweden 24.12; Switzerland 22.58; Argentina (official) 31.20; Argentina (free) 23.15; Brazil (official) 6.05; Brazil (free) 5.10; Mexico 17.00, nominal; Japan 27.31; Hong Kong 28.69; Shanghai 8.65; Yugoslavia 2.32.

Economic Index Off

OTTAWA, Aug. 4 (CP)—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today its economic index, indicating business conditions in Canada, dropped to 108 in the week ended July 29 from 108.3 the previous week. It was higher than the corresponding week last year, however, when the standing was 106.8.

Reaction Erases Wheat Gains, 'Peg

WINNIPEG, Aug. 4 (CP).—Late weakness in Chicago and a let-up in support caused wheat futures prices to slip back in the late trading on Winnipeg grain exchange today. Values at one time were nearly a cent higher but the last-half reaction erased most of these gains and the close was ⅜—¼ cent higher, with October at 53⅝, November 55¼, December 55⅛ and May 58 cents.

A strong display at Liverpool and reports of further high temperature damage to western Canada's spring wheat crop induced good buying in the first half of the session. Export sales of Canadian wheat were estimated at 300,000 bushels for the day.

Liverpool jumped ¾—⅞d under the influence of stronger Canadian offers.

Yesterday's country marketings reached 298,000 bushels against 83,000 bushels for the same day a year ago.

Shippers and exporters again gave good support to nearly all grades of cash wheat. Apart from minor barley purchases by export interests. Coarse grains operations were uninteresting.

PLACER GROUND IN DEMAND FORT STEELE DISTRICT

CRANBROOK, B. C., Aug. 4—The demand for placer ground in the Fort Steele mining division is the heaviest in years, with applications filed for some 18½ miles of ground. The applications are for ground on Sawmill Creek, Moyie River, Perry Creek, Valley Creek, Fish Lake Creek and Paris Creek.

The mining committee of the Cranbrook Board of Trade have a number of inquiries on hand for more acreage which is being checked locally before the arrival of at least five other outfits, mostly American, who are anxious to come into the district.

In addition to the interest in placer, lode is in demand with some 23 mineral claims recorded, mostly by Eastern interests, who have an eye on the mineral resources of East Kootenay.

CARLOADINGS OFF

OTTAWA, Aug. 4 (CP) — Carloadings in Canada for the week ended July 29 totalled 45,588 cars against 47,657 the previous week and 43,741 in the corresponding week last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Loadings in the western division totalled 15,560 against 16,020 the previous week and 14,359 the same week last year.

Wheat Crops Kootenay Dyked Lands Valued at $9,000,000 in 15 Yrs.

Twigg Expresses Probability of Establishing Tomato Cannery if Variety Adapted to Valley Found, at Creston Field Day

CRESTON, B.C. — Nine million dollars was the value of the wheat crops harvested on the dyked lands in the Kootenay valley in Idaho and British Columbia, 1923 to 1938, according to Guy Constable, authority on reclamation affairs generally, and one of the speakers at the field day Wednesday afternoon at the 10-acre federal experimental station in Creston Dyking District. The day attracted a representative attendance of wheat farmers, among whom were speakers R. G. Newton, in charge of the experimental farm at Windermere; A. A. McMeans of Cranbrook, in charge of potato bug control work in Kootenay East; C. B. Twigg, district agriculturist, and G. R. Thorpe, who is in charge of Creston experimental station.

The addresses were given in a shaded spot on the experimental tract, with Mr. Thorpe introducing the speakers and in his opening remarks outlining the effort which had primarily to do with assembling practical information on grain, feed, roots and vegetables grown in the valley, for the guidance of those on the land and to get desired information, not obtainable at Creston.

The talks were brief. Mr. Newton welcomed the visitors and sketched the purposes of field days. He believed the establishment of the work on the dyked lands was most essential. It was quite evident the world should grow less wheat; these dyked lands lent themselves admirably to providing feed for milch cows for the proposed creamery; grain for poultry, and feeds for a beef cattle industry, which the speaker believed had a great future in view of Creston's nearness to the U.S. market and the favorable trade treaty on livestock. Experimental work here would determine the feeds the overflowed lands would grow to the best advantage.

NEED FLOOD SECURITY

Following his opening remarks as to the total value of the wheat harvested to date off the valley dyked acreage, Mr. Constable concurred in the remarks of the previous speakers as to the help the experimental work would render, and urged everyone to give Supt. Thorpe wholehearted support. Mr. Constable gave figures on the anticipated wheat carryover and the effort of other countries to become more self supporting. Special crops would have to be substituted for wheat and this experimental tract was the place to demonstrate what likely crops could be grown to best advantage, both as to quantity and market demand. If the dyked acreage was to be developed, more particularly for livestock, there was need for security against floods—both locally as well as by progressive action by the U.S. and Canadian federal authorities.

Mr. McMeans made a plea for united effort in supressing the potato bug. This was his third year in charge of the work in Kootenay East, and the pest was never so bad as in 1939. It was now a menace between Hosmer and Kootenay Lake and from the Montana boundary North to Premier Lake. Poison dust to eliminate the bugs was to be had free and he asked that it be used wherever necessary.

Mr. Twigg emphasized the need of the experimental work in various directions, but particularly in connection with tomatoes. If a variety adapted to this valley could be found, and landowners would produce it, a cannery would probably be established here without delay.

Mr. Thorpe outlined the experimental effort on the two-acre bench tract which was largely given over to fruit trees, especially apples, with a view to establishing the pick of the wanted varieties hardy enough to stand the extreme winter conditions occasionally encountered in the valley. Tests were being made with irrigation of the ditch variety. Root rot, that had gained a foothold in Wyndel strawberries, was being studied. Sixteen different kinds of fertilizer on 54 small tracts was tried out to find a remedy for the blank heads found in some tracts on the dyked lands.

VISIT EXPERIMENTAL PLOTS

After the talks the visitors were shown over the experimental plots which were heavy to vegetables. It was explained the land was being used this year in the [illegible] had had no fertilizer and the minimum of cultivation.

The grain crops all looked well, particularly the new variety Regent, which was outstanding. Oats and barley were good, and success had been achieved with alfalfa, and a mixture of timothy and clover. In fact all these varieties of feed seem to be adapted to the overflowed area.

Vegetables were not in the same class. Tomatoes had not done well and the showing of fruit appeared light. Potatoes looked the best of the lot. Vine products, such as cucumbers, melons, etc., were disappointing. Cabbages had thrived but the heads were small. Sugar beets and soya beans had not made the growth that might be expected.

MORE ABOUT OIL COMPANIES

of many thousands of individuals, would only suffer an immaterial loss.

"CONFISCATION"

The concentrated loss on the oil companies would resemble "confiscation," Senator Farris argued.

Mr. Wismer: "What do you mean by confiscation?"

Senator Farris: "The oil companies already are operating at a loss. Add $1,500,000 and it would be confiscation."

Then Mr. Wismer referred to the report of Hon. M. A. Macdonald, Commissioner appointed in 1934 by the Provincial Government to investigate the coal and petroleum industries in the Province. The last section of this three-volume report was tabled in the Legislature last year.

"The Macdonald report says there are extravagant operating costs in the marketing of gasoline," he said.

Senator Farris: There's your opinion, in spite of the best authorities that the companies are losing money. Are these companies refusing to save money out of spite? If the learned commissioner was right he shouldn't be on the bench. He could command a salary of $200,000 a year. Why despoil the companies of $1,500,000 a year until final determination of the question?

"The companies' constitutional rights are being despoiled. Granting of the injunction until final decision would mean only a few months' delay. Oil companies can not show a dollar of profit in British Columbia. On the other hand, they are losing. Any additional loss must be made up by other sections of the country."

Chief Justice Martin then said: "There is nothing to compel you to sell gasoline at a loss."

Senator Farris: Oil companies in British Columbia have millions of dollars overhead expenses.

Chief Justice Martin: But suppose the companies would not sell any more gasoline at a loss?

It was at this point that the oil companies' counsel made his comment, suggesting that gasoline companies might withdraw from British Columbia.

"I know no way whereby you can literally preserve equities of both sides pending final decision of higher courts. I ask protection for the oil companies for two months until the Supreme Court of Canada gives its decision. My grounds are the same as when Mr. Justice Manson granted the first injunction, staying the execution of the order for five months. The same situation exists.

"I take the position that this second order is an absolute nullity, inasmuch as the companies were not bound. Before this order goes into effect the companies must be granted another hearing. If Your Lordship refuses the injunction the Court of Appeal could not do a thing."

LONDON (CP)—The September crisis induced an architectural crisis, Architect Sergius Chermayeff claimed when filing a bankruptcy plea here. Large contracts were postponed in September, producing his financial embarrassment.

Esling Honorary Head Rossland's New Junior Band

ROSSLAND, B. C., Aug. 4—W. K. Esling, M. P. for Kootenay West, was named Honorary President of the Rossland Junior Band at an organization meeting in the Rossland Transportation Society garage Friday night.

Arthur Jones was elected President, and the executive was completed as follows: George Hoyte, Vice-President; Fred Mason, Librarian; William Polonikoff, Secretary-Treasurer; Winston Churchill, Nelaine Lesergent and Harold Lins, committee.

Raising funds for the band was left to the executive.

Edward Gibney, the Bandmaster, spoke of the need for more members, and announced that he was planning a membership drive in September.
