FINLAND INTENSIFIES MILITARY MEASURES

U. S. Ship Iroquois Safe New York; Bomb Story Created Fear on Board

Passengers Told of Warning Liner Would Be Sunk as Escorting Ships Appear; All Cheered Says Captain

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—With colored lights gleaming cheerfully on her little after-deck, the American liner Iroquois—which the German admiralty had said would be sunk near the American coast—pulled safely into her dock tonight, bringing 577 Americans from warring Europe.

She was convoyed to the entrance of New York Harbor by two United States navy destroyers, attached to her as a "purely precautionary measure" by the White House after the receipt of an assertion from Grand Admiral Raeder of the German fleet that she would be sunk under circumstances similar to the destruction of the British liner Athenia.

The Iroquois passengers had been told last Monday by the liner's Master, Capt. E. A. Chelton, that a threat against her had been made, although they received none of the details until landing here.

They were called together by the Captain and given a partial explanation after the destroyers had come alongside. In the resultant search for explosives aboard the Iroquois — a search ordered by the American Government — some aboard heard a rumor that a bomb had been planted and for a time, some passengers said, there was wide-spread fear.

2000 WELCOMERS

As the Iroquois pulled into her pier some 2000 stood there to welcome her, shouting hoarsely across the wharf, and some sang the Star Spangled Banner.

Captain Chelton said the information the Iroquois might be sunk had seemed incredible, but "I was told I had to believe it until it was proved otherwise." He said he received a warning from Washington at 8 a.m. last Thursday.

"The first thing I did," he went on, "was to call the heads of the (ship) departments together and tell them about it, instructing them at the same time not to speak to the passengers about it.

"Then I had the ship searched for radios. We took off radio antennas and removed tubes from several short wave sets which the crew had. The passengers did not have radios.

"Of course the crew knew and the passengers too that there was something up, but they didn't know what.

TELLS OF WARNING

"On Sunday morning when the cutter came up, I told the passengers part of what had happened. I said I had information there would be other ships sunk as was the Athenia, but I didn't mention the Iroquois. The next day, two U. S. destroyers came up, and then I gathered the passengers in the lounge and announced specifically what my information was.

"They all cheered."

Chelton said the destroyers came within 300 to 500 yards of the Iroquois and stayed approximately within that range until the ship reached Ambrose Light, outside the harbor, where the convoy dropped away.

SENATOR BURKE MAKES FORCEFUL REPEAL ADDRESS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (CP).—Senator Edward Burke, Nebraska Democrat, today delivered one of the most outspoken pleas yet made in the Senate in behalf of President Roosevelt's proposal for repeal of the arms embargo and suggested the United States do everything "short of supplying men and money" to aid the Allies against Germany.

Burke, in the past a bitter critic of Administration labor policies and foe of the President's Court Reorganization Bill in 1937, told the Senate:

"Our own national defence, our continued security, requires that Great Britain retain its position of leadership.

"If no other reason existed I would favor repeal of the arms embargo in order to make doubly sure that the British navy will continue to stand between us and forces in Europe that I do not trust and respect."

The Nebraska Senator held the embargo on sales of arms to belligerents operated "entirely to the benefit of Germany."

Burke declared Hitlerism was no less a danger to the United States than to Europe and that the embargo on sales of arms to belligerents did not mean such supplies could not reach belligerents through friendly neutrals.

A.L.N. to Block Any Conscription Gouin Declares

MONTREAL, Oct. 11 (CP)— A cheering crowd of 2000 greeted a warning by Paul Gouin tonight that an Action Liberale Nationale Government at Quebec "will put an end to the Confederation Pact" if any Dominion administration imposes conscription.

The young A.L.N. leader said his party "will block the road" to "unlimited participation" in the war.

"I would like to state the attitude we shall take on conscription, if we are elected," Gouin said. "We do not intend to resign as Mr. Lapointe (Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe) said he would if the Liberals are defeated.

"But, once elected, if Ottawa wants to engage Canada in an unlimited participation, we shall block the road. And, I'll go even further —and I am not a Separatist. But if conscription is imposed upon us, by whatever government is in power at Ottawa, our vital interests will compel us to put an end to the Confederation Pact."

MACKENZIE KING MAY AIR TALKS

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King is expected soon to make one or more radio addresses dealing with Canada's war effort. This would be in addition to the series of weekly addresses over the air planned by the Defence Department.

The Prime Minister has been urged that as Prime Minister Chamberlain gives an account weekly of the progress of Britain's war activities to the House of Commons, Mr. Mackenzie King, since the Canadian Parliament is not in session, should tell the Canadian people in frequent public addresses what this country is accomplishing.

Health Services to Aid In War

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (CP)—Many facilities of public health services in the various provinces will be offered to the National Defence Department for duration of the war, it was decided today at the first day's session of the Dominion Council of Health.

Dr. R. E. Wodehouse, Deputy Minister of Pensions and National Health and chairman of the council, named Dr. B. T. McGhie, Ontario's Deputy Health Minister, Dr. M. R. Bow, Alberta deputy, and Dr. R. D. Defries, Toronto scientific adviser to the council, as a committee to decide what services should be placed at the department's disposal.

It was announced all provinces except Quebec, which failed to send its chief health officers, are represented at the council.

Recommendation of the special committee will be submitted to the council, and, through the Minister of Pensions and National Health, is expected to be passed on to the defence department.

Heads Auxiliary Service

Brigadier W. W. Foster, president of the Canadian Legion, has been appointed director of a newly formed auxiliary service which will incorporate veterans of the last war who are unable to enlist for active service. The new auxiliary will co-operate closely with the army, navy and air force, according to an announcement by Defence Minister Rogers.

LEGION FORMS WAR SERVICES

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (CP).—Formation of the Canadian Legion War Services as a special branch of the Dominion command was announced here today by J. R. Bowler, Legion General Secretary.

Lieut.-Col. Ralph Webb of Winnipeg, member of the Manitoba Legislature and former mayor of Winnipeg, has been appointed General Manager and Captain Ben W. Allen of Ottawa Assistant General Manager of the new department.

The principal objects of the Canadian Legion War Services will be the establishment of personal service bureaux in Canada and overseas, Mr. Bowler said.

At these bureaux members of Canada's new army may receive advice and guidance from their older comrades who served in first Great War on such intricate problems as pensions procedure, hospitalization and dependents' allowance.

Other services to be rendered the troops include entertainment, sports, education and religious facilities and general assistance in an auxiliary manner.

Directors include Lieut.-General Sir Percy Lake, Victoria.

BETTY DIVORCES JACKIE COOGAN

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 11 (AP). — Betty Grable finally divorced Jack Coogan today.

It took just a few minutes to conclude this Hollywood love story, which has been a public affair for three years. They were married two years ago in a Catholic ceremony.

Miss Grable, detailing her budding then blighted romance, said young Coogan was quarrelsome, caused her mental anguish and hampered her movie career.

Coogan did not contest the action, nor did he appear in court. Her attorney said a property settlement had been effected in which neither gets any of whatever the other's got.

Leaflets Urge Britain to Make Peace; Yard Detectives Called in LONDON, Oct. 11 (CP).—Detectives tried to track down sources of "defeatist propaganda" on the Home Front today while press comment indicated a growing desire to 'get on with the war."

Scotland Yard submitted to the Home Office a report on pamphlets, attributed to pacifist, Fascist and Communist elements, urging Britain to "make peace with Hitler." Legal experts who have received complaints that such literature has been distributed from door to door and through the mails, studied means of combatting this form of propaganda.

No Conscription Quebec Assured

QUEBEC, Oct. 11 (CP).—Quebec Province can place complete confidence in the assurance by Prime Minister Mackenzie King that there will be no conscription under the present Federal regime, Hon. Adelard Godbout told a Provincial election meeting audience in a factory district tonight.

"Mackenzie King," said Godbout, Provincial Liberal leader, "was one of those who stood with Sir Wilfred Laurier so firmly against conscription in the first Great War," and the Prime Minister had given his assurance that the present Dominion Government opposed conscription.

Speaking in behalf of Oscar Drouin, former Liberal, Union Nationale, National, and now Liberal again, Mr. Godbout said Premier Maurice Duplessis had raised the question of conscription in an effort to screen the fact he had "brought the Province to the verge of bankruptcy and was unable to borrow further money."

PORK AND WOOL CHIEF WARTIME NEEDS FROM B. C.

VICTORIA, Oct. 11 (CP).—Pork and wool were listed as two chief wartime needs from British Columbia's agricultural industry today as the Provincial Government pursued its plans to help farmers produce most needed goods.

Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture, announced the first two objectives drafted by his special Departmental Committee on Agricultural Production, as follows:

1. An increase of 300 per cent in swine production.

2. Retention of ewes for breeding purposes rather than slaughter, to increase sheep flocks and the wool production.

Pork is needed for British Columbia's own consumption, and wool is required for both civilians and soldiers, the Minister said.

Appointed Secretary

S. R. Norris Hodgins as been appointed as secretary of the Agricultural Supplies Committee recently set up under the War Measures Act, according to reports from Ottawa.

Victims Double Drowning Laid to Rest at Robson

Double Funeral for Mrs. MacKinnon and Daughter

Drowned at the Castlegar ferry Saturday night when their car was knocked off the end of the ferry, Mrs. MacKinnon and her daughter, Miss Josephine MacKinnon, both of Castlegar, were buried in the Robson cemetery Wednesday, a double funeral service being held. There was a profusion of flowers.

L. Van Steinberg of China Creek conducted the services in the Robson Community Hall, and F. Smith of Trail conducted the graveside services.

The hall services opened with an anthem, "God Will Take Care of You", sung by Mrs. MacKinnon's Sunday School class and several friends. Hymns were "The Lord Is My Shepherd" and "What a Wonderful Savior Is Jesus, My Lord."

Pallbearers for Mrs. MacKinnon were E. Wallner, H. Forbes, R. West, W. Houston, J. Waldie and J. Lawson, all of Castlegar.

Pallbearers for Miss MacKinnon were J. C. McFarland of Rossland; G. LeBreton of China Creek; R. Smith of Castlegar; J. Bowman of Trail; H. Wright of Trail, and Alex MacKinnon of Procter.

The car in which Mrs. MacKinnon and her daughter were waiting to cross on the ferry was struck in the rear and knocked into the Columbia River by a car allegedly driven by Montie J. Ross of Vancouver, who has been charged with manslaughter.

CHINESE REPORT ATTACK SUCCESS

SHANGHAI, Oct. 11 (AP). — Initial success for a Chinese counter-offensive against Japanese forces in Hunan Province was reported today by Chinese dispatches which said the attack was being carried into territory held by Japan for almost a year.

Chinese said they were attacking Japanese forces on the outskirts of Yochow, gateway to Hunan Province from the Yangtse River. Yochow is 88 miles North of Changhsa, Hunan capital, from which Japan's columns were thrown back last week.

A Chinese army spokesman said the Hunan campaign had cost the Japanese more than 30,000 dead and the Chinese more than 20,000.

Japanese asserted, however, that 400,000 Chinese troops in the Hunan region had been dealt a "fatal blow."

GOLF MINUS EXERCISE

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Oct. 11 (AP) —Golfers who want to improve their game and cut down on exercise can take a tip from Lyman Beecher. Beecher travels from green to green on a two-caddy-drawn rubber tire "rickshaw" which has a rumble seat for clubs. His scores are lower and he finishes 18 holes as fresh as a daisy.

ENEMY ACTIVITY INCREASES SAYS FRENCH REPORT

French Machine-Guns Break Up Larger Attacks

REPORT SEIZURE OF CONTRABAND

By H. TAYLOR HENRY

PARIS, Oct. 11 (AP).—Pressure of the German army and air force was reported increasing tonight along the whole line between the Rhine and Moselle Rivers, the Northwestern section of the Western Front.

The High Command's evening communique said "activity by the enemy patrols continues and is increasing between the Moselle and Saar" Rivers and added that artillery was active on both sides in the same region.

In the Saarbruecken and Pirmasens area the French have driven closest to the advance positions of the Siegfried Line.

French reports said the larger Nazi patrol attacks were broken by machine-gun fire which swept the entire line of zig-zag barbed wire defences in front of the French positions.

French advices said that the German infantry first sent out advance parties of 10 or 12 men, armed with hand grenades, who stole forward until met by machine-gun fire.

RAIDERS FOLLOW

While these took cover and engaged attention of the French, main Nazi raiding parties of 100 to 150 men would be brought up.

German machine-guns in the rear then started firing and, with automatic rifles in the advance skirmish line, chattered away at the French post picked for the raid.

French sources announced officially that up to yesterday the French blockading fleet had intercepted 150,000 tons of contraband consigned to Germany.

Among the contraband, they said, were 40,000 tons of minerals, including rare metals such as tungsten, antimony, nickel and mercury, which are essential to munitions making.

In addition, 40,000 tons of food and 30,000 tons of gasoline and oil were seized.

SPOKANE FLIERS FOUND IN B. C.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 11 (CP). — Two United States airmen whose Washington National Guard plane crashed in rugged British Columbia territory were unhurt tonight after parachuting from the craft as its fuel supply ran low Monday afternoon.

Second Lieutenant Edward Saxon of the Spokane, Wash., National Guard detachment, reached here by train today with the story of his trek over 15 miles of wilderness. (See page three for story of trek).

Tonight his passenger on a flight from Spokane to Fort Lewis, Wash., Private W. E. Shane of the U. S. army air corps, went to bed for the first time in 48 hours in a trapper's shack a few miles from where his pilot parachuted to safety but unable, because of the wild country, to meet Saxon at a meeting place they decided on before the pair bailed out.

The son of a shingle mill caretaker brought word from Shane to Provincial Police at Keefers.

"I am at Mike Struzleil's place," said the message. "I'm okay and don't send an expeditionary force to look for me. Notify army air service control."

"I'm going to sleep," said Shane as he tumbled into a bunk in Struzleil's cabin which broaches the bank of the Douglas and Salmon Rivers junction seven miles from Keefers.

A native of England, Malin formerly was a department supervisor for the United Farmers of Alberta Provincial Government for six years prior to 1930.

Richard Malin, Salmo, B.C., is a son.

Ross Charged With Manslaughter Castlegar; Bail $7500 Till Hearing

A charge of manslaughter was laid Wednesday morning against Montie J. Ross of Vancouver, whose car Saturday night knocked the car of Mrs. John MacKinnon and her daughter, Miss Josephine MacKinnon, from the Castlegar Ferry and caused their drowning. The charge was laid by Constable George MacAndrew of the Provincial Police, Castlegar.

Appearing before Stipendiary Magistrate Joseph Speakman, Ross was remanded for eight days on the charge. On application of E. Victor Fabri of Trail, who is acting for Ross, the accused was liberated on bail of $7500—made up of two sureties of $2500 each, and $2500 of Ross' own recognizance.

The accused was taken to the Provincial jail at Nelson to await hearing.

Tuesday Ross was remanded for eight days on a charge of driving in a manner dangerous to the public, the first charge laid against him.

The Gibson Creek School, at which the late Miss MacKinnon was a teacher, has been closed for this week.

Nazis' Oxford Accent?

Pictured at the time he was court-martialed as a spy is Norman Baillie-Stewart, who, according to reports from London, is believed to be the mysterious announcer who gives news reports from a German radio station in a very decided Oxford accent. Baillie-Stewart, an Edinburgh-born lieutenant in the Seaforth Highlanders, was known as the Tower of London's "mysterious prisoner," prior to his trial and conviction, in 1933, for betraying military secrets to Germany. He was released after four years for good and was reported to have left Britain.

Farmer Sought for Policeman's Death Kills Self

ESTERHAZY, Sask., Oct. 11 (CP)—Ernest Flook, 24, Esterhazy farmer, died from a self-inflicted bullet wound late today shortly after being captured by police who sought him in connection with the murder of Royal Canadian Police Constable Norman Gleadow earlier in the day.

Flook died while being taken to Yorkton Hospital. Police said Flook fled from Esterhazy in Constable Gleadow's car after hitting the policeman on the head with a hammer.

Police reported Flook had been arrested Tuesday for theft of a tire, battery and anti-freeze liquid from a filling station at nearby Brendenbury. Police said they were told the constable and Flook went to an outhouse apparently to look for stolen goods before starting a trip to Regina.

A sister, Miss Patricia Flook, told police Flook left the outhouse alone a minute later and sped away in Gleadow's car. Miss Flook went to the shack and found Gleadow, who was dying by the time a doctor reached the scene.

Flook was surrounded in a bluff 13 miles Northwest of Langenburg and when told to surrender, evidently shot himself in the head with a revolver he had taken from Constable Gleadow.

Estonian Cabinet Is to Reorganize

TALLINN, Oct. 11 (AP).—Premier Kaarel Eenpalu's cabinet has resigned, it was formally announced today, to permit reorganization of the Government on a broader basis.

At the same time a joint Estonian-Soviet Russian Commission announced it had reached an agreement implementing the pact recently executed by the two countries represented.

The agreement, the announcement said, permits Soviet troops to enter Estonia October 13 to take stations at previously designated points where Russia has been granted the right to establish air and naval bases.

Drouin Welcomed Back to Liberals

QUEBEC, Oct. 11 (CP)—Hon. Adelard Godbout, Provincial Liberal leader, tonight welcomed Oscar Drouin as a "Prodigal Son" on his return to the Liberal party as official candidate in Quebec East in the Provincial elections of Oct. 25.

One-time Liberal, Mr. Drouin joined Paul Gouin's Action Nationale Liberale in 1935 and then changed his allegiance to Maurice Duplessis upon formation of Union Nationale. Upon election of the Duplessis government in 1936, Mr. Drouin became Minister of Lands and Forest but resigned to join the dissident group of "Nationalists" headed by Dr. Philippe Hamel.

Russian "Request" for Concessions to Get Rejection

Teen-Aged Boys Recruited In Voluntary Civic Guard; Women Prepare to Assist Behind Lines; Civilians Fleeing

HELSINGFORS, Oct. 11 (AP)—Finland took important military precautions today as its representatives arrived in Moscow for talks with Soviet leaders at Russia's suggestion.

Civilians were in a mass exodus from Helsingfors, the capital, and Viipuri, largest city of Eastern Finland.

Responsible Finnish sources left no doubt Finland would reject any Russian "request" for military and economic concessions similar to those which have reduced Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania to the status of "wards" of Moscow and would resist if necessary.

Boys 14 and 15 were recruited in a voluntary civic guard throughout Finland to augment the regular army reserves in carrying out emergency preparations.

The navy was said to have been getting in readiness for a possible crisis since Spring. It consists of two 3600-ton coast defence vessels, five submarines, six gunboats, 21 mine-sweepers, six mine-layers and 19 patrol boats.

Uniformed women members of the Lotta Svard, an auxiliary corps, prepared to assist the army behind the lines if they should be needed.

The regular army, whose strength was placed at about 300,000 already had advanced its preparations for active duty. Official estimates were lacking but observers said that with her reserves, Finland could put 600,000 men in the field.

Work has been in progress on border defences since Spring and anti-aircraft units have been conducting exercises.

PREDICTS CHANGE

Foreign Minister Eljas Erkko in a newspaper article suggested possibility of a radical change in development of the war within the next few days.

Erkko emphasized solidarity of the Scandinavian nations, to which Finland is closely bound, and saw signs of unrest in Western Nations aroused by the "menace" from the East.

With the exodus of civilians in full swing, approximately 120,000 persons reported themselves ready to depart from this city alone. Helsingfors has a population of about 293,000 and Viipuri about 73,000.

The flight of the population was in response to a radio appeal by Interior Minister Uhro Kekkonen, who told the nation: "At the moment there is no reason to believe Finland is in immediate danger but we are duty bound to contemplate what is happening in the world and we must be ready to meet any emergency."

All schools were closed. The Bourse was ordered closed indefinitely. The government, to facilitate the exodus, lifted the ban against private automobiles and gasoline was placed on sale.

The Danish radio reported in Copenhagen tonight that three Soviet Russian warships had arrived at Tallinn, Estonia, across the Baltic South of Helsingfors, for what was described as a "friendly visit." A fourth Soviet ship was on the way there.

Grave Hour Has Come, Duplessis

ST. JOHNS, Que., Oct. 11 (CP)—Premier Maurice Duplessis declared at a political campaign rally tonight that a "grave hour has come for the Province of Quebec; all we hold most dear is in danger."

Speaking in this Richelieu Valley centre, the Premier pictured the Province in danger of losing its autonomy through what he called the Dominion Government's attempt at "centralization."

The Premier turned to the criticism of his political opponents who had charged him with placing the Province of near-bankruptcy through heavy expenditures. He defended the expenditures by declaring the money had been spent "for old age pensions, pensions for needy mothers, for unemployment relief and farm loans, which saved Quebec's farming class, guardians of the Province's traditions and the base of its security and stability."

Miriam Hopkins Gets Reno Divorce

RENO, Nev., Oct. 11 (AP). — Blonde Miriam Hopkins of motion picture fame, was en route to Hollywood today after six weeks stay in Nevada and an early-morning Reno divorce from Anatole Litvak, Russian film director.

The actress won the divorce in a brief, private hearing before District Judge William McKnight. Details of her extreme cruelty charges were not made public.

Her Attorney, Lloyd V. Smith, said Judge McKnight had permitted her to drop the name Litvak and had restored the name Miriam Hopkins.

50,000 CAR MEN IDLE

DETROIT, Oct. 11 (AP).—More than 50,000 auto factory workers were idle tonight because of the Chrysler Corporation production dispute and complete paralysis of operations in all plants was threatened.

MORE ACTION IN NORTH SEA NAZI ORDER TO FLIERS

BERLIN, Oct. 11 (AP)—German warplanes at North Sea bases received orders today to operate more actively against blockading British warships. The order was issued as disappointment set in because the Allies and neutral powers had not responded favorably to Adolf Hitler's peace proposals.

Germans launched a program of fuller aerial cooperation with sea forces in fighting the British North Sea fleet Oct. 7 and official quarters said the first three days brought such success that the new order was decided upon.

"Air force units in the course of these operations succeeded in locating the British naval forces and damaged them as previously reported," the announcement said.

With the exception of the submarine sinking of the aircraft carrier Courageous Sept. 18, the Admiralty at London has announced its warships in the North Sea have escaped damage.

The view was expressed in official quarters, meanwhile, that Premier Daladier's broadcast Tuesday "through its lack of positive material changed nothing and neither bettered the situation nor worsened it."

Nazi newspapers gave more space to Cordell Hull's speech in New York last night than to Daladier's. The Secretary of State told the National Foreign Trade convention "the sanest and safest course for America is true neutrality."

BRITAIN - RUSSIA IN BARTER DEAL

LONDON, Oct. 11 (CP)—The British MMinistry of Supply and British Ministry of Supply and London concluded an agreement tonight for an exchange of Russian timber for rubber and tin.

Although the barter agreement was described as commercial, the press association said it was expected to "have important political as well as trade impacts."

The amount of timber, rubber and tin involved were not disclosed but were said to be about the same as in normal trade. The agreement would facilitate exchange before the freezing up of White seaports prevents the export of timber.

The agreement is not expected to cut into Canadian exports of lumber to Britain because it covers only the normal trade between Britain and the Soviet Union. Its significance was considered to lie in the fact that it was signed at a time when Germany was making every effort to draw Russia into closer economic collaboration.

Trade circles said there would not be an increase in Russia's normal imports of tin and rubber. It was pointed out that if Russia reexported these commodities to Germany she would merely be depriving herself of her normal requirements.

Principal War Chaplains Named

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (CP).— Appointment of Rt. Rev. G. A. Wells, Anglican Bishop of Cariboo (British Columbia) diocese, as Principal Protestant Chaplain, and Rt. Rev. L. Nelligan, Bishop of Pembroke, Ont., as Principal Roman Catholic Chaplain, among troops on active service, was announced today by Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of National Defence.

They will be granted the rank of honorary Lieutenant-Colonel in the Canadian militia and will take up their duties shortly. The appointments were made with concurrence of heads of all churches concerned.

Mr. Rogers said the chaplain service for the army, controlled and administered by the Adjutant-General, will be functioning in a practical manner at the end of the month.

American Sympathies Entirely With Canada and Empire Says President American Engineers at Trail Dinner

Gilles of Republic Steel Guest of Honor

BLAYLOCK TALKS OF WILL TO FIGHT

TRAIL, B. C., Oct. 11 — Donald Gilles, Vice-President of the Republic Steel Corporation of Cleveland, Ohio, and President of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, at a dinner tendered him by the staff of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company of Canada, Ltd., in the Cominco Community Hall Wednesday night, spoke of the rapid growth of the organization, which now counted 13,000 members, and the increased attention being given young men. Of the total membership, 3000 were students.

He spoke of improvements in steel processing and the advantages gained through installation of a continuous strip mill. Throughout the United States, in the last five years, 16 of these enormous mills had replaced 1000 hand mills.

Stimulation of the steel business in recent months was noted, steel taking a more prominent part in home construction.

At the present time many companies were finding it necessary to replace their steel products in docks, such as railway companies and other major industries.

SYMPATHY WITH EMPIRE

While the people of the United States, he said, would endeavor to follow President Roosevelt's call for neutrality in the new World War, the sympathies of the American people were completely with Canada and the British Empire.

S. G. Blaylock, President and Managing Director of the Consolidated, gave a picture of the reaction of Eastern Canada and of Governmental leaders to the war. He found a grim determination to proceed with a recognized difficult task, and a staunch spirit to stem Hitlerism. He heard not one word of grumbling over increased taxation.

Other speakers were Dean F. A. Thomson of Butte, Mont., President of the Montana School of Mines; A. B. Parsons of New York, Secretary of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgy; L. K. Armstrong of Spokane, Secretary of the Columbia Section; James Buchanan, General Manager of the C. M. & S. Co., and L. A. Campbell; President and General Manager of the West Kootenay Power & Light Company.

Russia Added to A.F.L. Boycott List

CINCINNATI, Oct. 11 (AP)—The American Federation of Labor, reinforcing its opposition to totalitarian powers, added Russia to its German-Japanese boycott list today.

The federation's 59th convention adopted resolutions urging use of armed forces only to repel invaders and warning that United States mediation in Europe might be embarrassing if premature.

Nelson Builders Hear Coast Man on Organization

Aim Is Licensing of Contractors Obtain Control Industry

A committee of representatives from all branches of the building industry in Nelson was formed at a meeting in the City Hall Wednesday night, as a first step in organizing the building industry in Nelson.

Robert J. Lecky, of Vancouver, Secretary of the Building and Construction Industries Exchange, addressed the meeting, telling of the Exchange's aim to put through the Provincial Legislature at the next session, an act to licence contractors and sub-contractors, in an attempt to obtain some control over the industry and to cut out the "small" man who was taking jobs away from established contractors. Those who were licensed would be properly equipped so that builders would be sure of competent equipment and work.

The committee set up consisted of G. M. Williscroft and Ald. T. H. Waters, general contractors; Stanley Jemson, plumbers; F. H. Smith, electricians; and J. R. Bailey, painters;

A meeting will be called next week to form a builders' organization in Nelson.

Not since 1912 has there been an organization of allied trades in the city. The meeting was well attended by representatives giving a cross-section of the building industry. Mr. Lecky answered a large number of questions.

Mr. Lecky is making a Provincial tour in an effort to acquaint builders with the proposed act which the Builders Exchange will submit to the legislature.

Caves of Paris Rivalling Cafes for Rendezvous

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, (AP)—The cafes close at 11 p. m., here now—but the abris stay open all night. They are rapidly beginning to rival the cafes as a meeting place for old friends and a contact ground for new.

"Abri" is French for air raid shelter. You see the sign on every few doors now—indicating a deep wine cave, or a reinforced basement, or perhaps a metro (subway) station.

Going walking these days is much like climbing a mountain. The abri signs are the rocks to which you throw an imaginary lifeline then gingerly pull yourself along.

Like the mountaineers, you never set out without another essential piece of equipment which provides a certain amount of security it caught between havens. The mountaineer carries an axe, Parisians, like Londoners, a gasmask.

The long corrugated metal cans—gray, brown or green—in which they are carried have become a standard costume accessory here as in England, now, along with milady's purse, milord's stick. Cloak room attendants no longer smile when the bon vivantes check their gasmasks along with their chapeaux. People overnight have developed a new manner of living.

They have started napping in the daytime whenever possible so as to be awake at night for raids.

TWO GOOD REASONS

When a newcomer takes a hotel room, the first thing he asks to see is not the fire escape, as of old, but the abri. Then he enters his room, and if it's dark, draws the curtains tight before he dares turn on the light. Heavy penalty if he doesn't, under violation of "communication with enemy" regulation.

He naturally wants the windows open before turning in. Not only for the old reason of sleeping in fresh air, but for the new one of being more certain to hear the alarm. Before opening up, however, he must turn off the lights again.

Then he stumbles over to bed—beside which he has carefully parked his gas mask, a flashlight, and, fireman style, a pair of pants—and he drops into fitful slumber.

My experience is that I usually awake with a start an hour or so later from a nightmare which has been full of realistic sounding of planes and booming anti-aircraft guns. After cursing myself for being such a fool, I sink back to sleep—only to be awakened this time by the real thing.

It's not so bad since they quit sounding the alarm the moment an enemy plane had crossed the frontier, even though it might be bound only for the Maginot line. Now the system is to sound only on "imminent danger of attack."

But the mental hazard of that is bad enough. Who said the war of nerves ended when the war of guns began?

ADANACS WIN CANADIAN BOXLA TITLE AS BEAT ATHLETICS 15-11

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., Oct. 11 (CP). — New Westminster Adanacs, a strictly "home-brew" team, defeated St. Catharines Athletics 15-11 here tonight to capture the Mann Cup and the Dominion lacrosse championship in a straight reversal of the 1938 series.

Bringing back to British Columbia the "World Series" boxla title their intra-city rival, Saimonbellies, won in 1937, and which they failed to retain last year against the St. Catharines club, Adanacs fought up from a 1-3 deficit in the first quarter to win with a last quarter attack that had the Easterners completely baffled.

Still down, 4-8 at the end of half-time the Adanacs battled on to even terms with the heavier Athletics by the end of the third period, and in the final 15 minutes literally ran St. Catharines into their own goal crease as they popped in five straight goals in the first four minutes without a reply.

Adanacs victory drive was the climax to the best of five series, one of the closest ever seen at the Coast, and in which Adanacs took the lead when they nosed out 12-10 and 9-8 triumphs in the first two games.

It was sweet revenge for Adanacs to take the series in three straight, the same score they lost to St. Catharines at Toronto in the final last year.

If there were any individual stars in the game they were Bill Whittaker and Ed Johnson in the Athletics and Adanacs goals respectively.

Whittaker, particularly, was brilliant, handling a total of 52 shots and stopping 37 of the whipping drives Adanacs poured at him. An indication of what the overworked goalie performed was seen in the third quarter when Whittaker handled 14 shots to Johnson's five and let only three pass him.

Gordon Saunders topped the night scorers with three goals for Adanacs with Jimmy Douglas, George Steele, and Gernie Carter collecting two apiece. Punk Kennedy, Dutch Haddon, Rann Matthison, Bob Phelan, Ken Matheson, and Ted Bradbury scored the others.

St. Catharines scoring was distributed evenly with Frank Madsen, Roy Barnard, Morton, Gus Madsen and Billy Fitzgerald collecting a pair each. George Urquhart sniped the other goal.

Tommy Forshaw, Greenwood, Highest Scorer of 13 Boundary Poultry Clubs

78 Prizewinners Are Named by the Judges

Results of the judging of 13 Boundary District Poultry Clubs, with 78 prizewinners, done by G. L. Landon, District Agriculturist at Grand Forks, and J. A. Smith, of the Department of Agriculture, Penticton, show Thomas Forshaw of Greenwood the highest scorer, with 173 points, Paul Forshaw of Greenwood and Vera Koftinoff of Grand Forks tied for second place with 172 points, and James McDougall of Grand Forks landing fourth place with 170 points. All four leaders were members of White Leghorn clubs. The club with highest average was the Rock Creek White Leghorn Club, in which only six points separated the first and sixth place winners.

There were 13 clubs in the District, with a total of 114 members, R. F. Hine organizing the nine at Grand Forks, Miss Pearl Lindsay the three at Rock Creek, and Mrs. E. Hawkes the one at Midway. The Rhode Island Reds were represented by four clubs, the New Hampshires by one, the White Leghorns by four, and the Barred Rocks by four.

Each club member received 25 baby chicks, and was scored on condition and appearance of the chicks, system of feeding and general care, cleanliness of brooder equipment, etc., absence of lice and mites, shelter and shade provided, and number of chicks raised to maturity. The prizes amounted to $13.50 for each club, ranging from $3.50 for first down to $1 for sixth, the Dominion and Provincial Departments of Agriculture contributing the funds.

Henry Miller Is "Exonerated From All Blame" In Death Thrums Child

Driver Swung Right as Child Ran Out Into Road

TRAIL, B. C., Oct. 11—Henry G. Miller, of Rossland, driver of the car which fatally injured Annie Swetleshoff, four-year-old daughter of Joseph Swetleshoff, near Thrums Sunday morning, was "exonerated from all blame" by a coroner's jury at an inquest into the youngster's death, held in the Trail City Hall late Wednesday afternoon. Dr. J. H. Daly, Acting Coroner, presided.

The verdict follows:

"We the jury find that Annie Swetleshoff came to her death as the result of injuries when struck by a car driven by Henry Miller. We the jury find that Henry Miller, the driver of the car mentioned in the death of Annie Swetleshoff, is exonerated from all blame and find that death was purely accidental."

The jury consisted of Alex W. Smith, Foreman; Frank Goodman, Allan Patmore, J. R. Brucker, C. J. Currier and W. J. Wagstaff.

Mr. Miller, driver of the car, testified that just before the accident he had to swing out to the left to pass a cyclist. When he passed the bicycle he saw a group of people on the left hand side of the road. When the little girl came out on the road from them he applied his brakes and turned to the right. He was carrying a stove and some scrap iron in a trailer. He thought the child possibly had been struck by the left rear fender of the car. Speed of the car was estimated at 30 miles per hour.

Mrs. David Shaw, his sister, who was with him, corroborated his evidence.

Constable George MacAndrew, Provincial Police, Castlegar, told of his findings on arriving at the scene. The blacktop of the highway was 18 feet in width. The car was against the wire fence marking the boundary of the C. P. R. right-of-way. There were no marks on the car to indicate where the child was struck. There was a skid mark on the road 56 feet long. The skid mark made a turn to the right. It was about 24 feet down the centre of the road from where the skid-mark started to where human hair adhered to the surface, and 32 feet from there to the point at which the child was picked up. He found the brakes of the car in good order.

Mrs. Dora Perrehoodoff, who was standing near the child talking with the others, did not see her rush out on to the road.

Neither Florence, 12, sister of Annie, nor Elsie Strelioff, 14, who also were with Annie before she ran out on the road, saw the accident.

George Malove was interpreter.

Dr. F. L. Wilson, who attended the youngster when she was admitted to Trail-Tadanac Hospital, said she had an extensive fracture of the skull on the left side, brain tissue was protruding, and there was considerable hemorrhage. The pulse was rapid and weak. The child died about an hour after being admitted to hospital. He estimated the time in which the child was rushed to hospital from Castlegar by Constable John Henry of the B. C. Police Highway Patrol to be about 18 or 20 minutes. The distance was 19 miles. The hospital had received a call from Castlegar to prepare for an emergency case.

Death was caused by extensive lacerations of the brain tissue.

Trail Maintains Lead in District With 2088 Phones

Nelson Has Increase of 16 to 1959; East Kootenay Down

Despite a decrease of 36 since January 1, Trail, the District's largest centre, maintained its lead in number of telephones in use, according to the B.C. Telephone Company's statement of development of September. Nelson phones increased by 16.

The statement shows that Trail now has 2088 phones, 45 less than January 1, while Nelson, the second highest in number, has 1959, and an increase of 16.

Kootenay Telephone Co. Ltd., operating in the East Kootenay, showed a decrease of seven phones in five centres and toll stations since the first of 1939.

Cranbrook with 494, down eight, and Fernie with 199, down four, made a total decrease of 12. Five new installations at Kimberley, bringing the total to 154, and two at Michel, bringing the total to 58, cut the total decrease to seven, however.

Estonia of Old Was Section of Czarist Russia

NEW YORK (CP)— Peter the Great picked an unattractive site for the capital (St. Petersburgh) of Russia two centuries ago—but the site was on the Baltic and the Baltic led to Western Europe.

Now Russia's looking West again so her present ruler, Joseph Stalin, has moved in on Estonia. His deal with that country, making it almost a Soviet protectorate, places Russian military forces 350 miles farther West, and gives Russia command over the entire North Baltic area. Besides, Estonia's ports are ice-free, while Peter the Great's city (once St. Petersburgh, then Petrograd, now Leningrad) is not.

In case of war between Russia and the allies the British blockade in the North Sea would prevent Russian ships from going out from the Baltic into the Atlantic, but Russia has another way out — through the far Northern ports. Archangel, on the White Sea, is closed by ice half the year, but Murmansk is open, and connected with Leningrad by railroad.

Estonia's chief prize is its ice-free port of Tallinn. With an area of 18,905 square miles, and a population of 1,125,000, Estonia is one of the smallest of the states that were created after the war of 1914-18.

For nearly 200 years—until 1918—Estonia was a part of Imperial Russia. Bolshevik forces tried to make it a part of Russia again in 1919, but were driven out with the help of Finland and the British Navy.

It is a land of forests, farms and small villages, and is so flat that no part of it is more than 450 feet above sea level.

The Estonians are probably of Asiastic origin, like their Northern neighbors, the Finns, and their language is one of Europe's most musical, related to the Finnish and Hungarian.

Founded as a republic, Estonia adopted a fascist-like form of government in 1934, but returned to a democratic system by popular vote in 1937. Education is free. Konstantin Pats, a lifelong campaigner for constitutional reform, was elected president in 1936.

Pats as a young man took part in the Russian revolution against the Czar in 1905. Sentenced to be executed, he got out of the country. He first became premier after the Russian revolution of 1917 had succeeded.

The National Geographic Society lists butter, foodstuffs and timber products as Estonia's exports. Germany and Great Britain are her best customers.

Tallinn, with 146,500 persons, is the capital. Called the "nightcap town" because of the pointed towers on its remnants of medieval wall, it is a busy modern seaport with grain elevators and refrigerating plants.

Estonia keeps a standing army of around 12,000 officers and men. She can augment this with a reserve force of 80,000. Her air force consists of 70 planes. Her navy consists of one torpedo boat, two submarines, four gunboats and a dozen smaller craft.

Theatres Need Hearty Laughs Britain Finds

By GUY E. RHOADES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer).

LONDON (CP)—Wartime emergency, shut-down of the movie houses, only partly relaxed, has thrown critics and others into a lather about what will or may happen to the British film industry during the war.

Those who recall some of the poor stuff that flowed out on celluloid during the First Great War have made up their minds it will flow this time over their dead bodies, if at all.

Chief need in wartime, most authorities concede, is an adequate supply of comedies packing good, deep belly laughs. Second need is something to make the viewer proud to be an Englishman or Canadian or whatever he happens to be. Good newsreels are appreciated, probably even more than they were in the last war, because they are better.

It was the newsreel that gave Thorold Dickinson, co-director of the melodrama "The Arsenal Stadium Mystery," an idea for turning the boys behind the cameras into historians. News shots are short, about six seconds a sequence, but the men who shoot them grind out more film than that. Most of it goes in the ash can after the editors are through cutting.

FOR FUTURE USE

It was Dickinson's idea that a print should be made from the full-length negative and a duplicate made from the positive before the editor starts cutting. The duplicated negative would go to the morgue for future use by producers needing war sequences for story films or for cinematographic historians.

Dickinson's idea, the critics said, would take care of the documentary end of the business, but not the amusement trade nor propaganda.

Propaganda worries them more than anything. The authorities don't want to raise the ire of ordinarily friendly people by jolting their prejudices and they realize that what is good propaganda in one part of the world would be poison in another.

Roosevelt Peace Plea Read at C. I. O. Convention

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11 (AP)—A message from President Roosevelt pleading for peace in the labor movement was read at the Congress of Industrial Organization convention here today.

"If we desire peace and goodwill in the world we must learn to practise these in the small and large things of our own life," the message said.

"The continued conflict and separation in the labor movement can hardly be overlooked, in these days, when discord in any group is so harmful to world peace.

"The joint committee which was appointed by your body and by the American Federation of Labor has, I know, done faithful and effective service to promote reunion and to negotiate a practical and sound peace in the labor movement.

"I have already asked the American Federation of Labor at its convention to continue wholeheartedly and generously the search for an accord. I now ask your body to do the same. The men and women working daily in the mills, mines, factories and stores and in the transports, want this accord.

"The American people want it and will hold in honor those whose insight, courage and unselfishness can effect it."

John L. Lewis, president of the C.I.O., had indicated previously a reply to President Roosevelt's expected message would be left in the hands of the convention itself.

U.S. Army to Get Deadly New Rifle

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP).—Soldiers of the regular United States Army and National Guard soon will be supplied with the "world's best shoulder rifle," the new semi-automatic M-1, at the rate of 400 a day.

An $8,710,000 order for 65,000 weapons was given a commercial arms plant by the U. S. War Department yesterday to supplement the expanding output of the Springfield, Mass., arsenal. Twenty months hence under present schedules, some 168,000 infantrymen will be armed with the rifle.

No other army has a rifle comparing in deadliness with this weapon, American ordnance experts said. The War Department adopted it some two years ago but has been turning them out in comparative driblets.

With the M-1, a soldier fires a clip of eight bullets one or more a second before reloading, and keeps his eyes on the target meanwhile.

At the same time, President Roosevelt disclosed Administration plans for building the army up to a force of about 600,000, including the regular troops, the National Guard and reserve officers.

Ask for Protection at Fatal Crossing

TORONTO, Oct. 11 (CP).—Members of the Town Council of suburban New Toronto were on record today with a declaration that the level crossing accident at Brown's Line in which seven children and two women were killed might have been prevented if proper protection had been provided.

The Council, at last night's meeting, passed a resolution "to draw this terrible calamity to the attention of the proper authorities and respectfully request that existing conditions be eliminated immediately by watchman, gates, bells or subway."

Although the crossing is at the intersection of a main highway and the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway there are no automatic safety devices and no guard is stationed there.

Embargo Repeal Actually Process of 'Taking Sides'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP) — Senator Bennett Clark (Dem., Missouri) asserted today it was an "open secret" many supporters of the administration bill to repeal the United States arms embargo believed the United States should take sides in the European war.

Opening the seventh day of the U. S. senate's neutrality debate, Clark criticized the pending legislation as "a sieve instead of a fortress for our peace and neutrality."

Few people appeared to realize he said, repeal of the embargo "is actually a quiet process of taking sides" because it would open American arms markets to Great Britain and France. Trade with Germany has been halted by the British naval blockade.

"It is an open secret in the senate that there are many in and out of the senate who believe that we should choose sides in the war." Clark said. 'It is no extraordinary coincidence that these men will be voting for repeal of the embargo.

'They think it means a safe choosing of sides, without perhaps, too much danger to our peace. As one senator said over the radio the other night, they want to blow Hitler off the earth without getting into the war."

The Missouri senator said administration spokesmen had sponsored "a gigantic piece of public foolery" in contending the United States could not have both the arms embargo and a "cash and carry" plan for other products.

The administration bill would require belligerents to obtain title here to purchases made in the United States and would prohibit American ships from carrying any materials to belligerents.

Arms embargo advocates, overwhelmed in the initial vote of the senate neutrality battle carried their fight today toward a direct test on eliminating the embargo repeal clause.

Senator Clark, who held the floor for a three-hour speech against the administration measure, said he would propose deletion of the repeal section before a final vote is reached in the next week or two.

"That would be a clear test, and we would get substantially more votes on it than we did on the Tobey motion," he said.

Clark referred to yesterday's 65 to 26 ballot against the proposal of Senator Charles Tobey (Rep., New Hampshire) to lay aside the embargo issue until other sections of the bill embracing restrictions on American shipping were approved.

DALADIER SPEECH IS PROPAGANDA ANSWER

LONDON, Oct. 11 (CP)—A Reuters diplomatic correspondent reported today that Premier Daladier's speech in Paris yesterday "is regarded in (British) official quarters as altogether admirable and most helpful."

"In general M. Daladier's observations are regarded as supplying a complete answer to the absurd German propaganda that attempts to belittle Britain's contribution to the war and to drive a wedge between the two democracies," the correspondent said.

Rossland Triplet Boys Are Fast Leaving Their Babyhood Behind

Individualism Mark of Erie, Einar and Frans

By KAY LOWDEN

ROSSLAND, B. C.— Rossland's triplet boys, Eric, Frans, and Einar, are fast leaving babyhood behind. Even Frans, the delicate one, has improved so much that it is almost impossible to recognise him as the frail little baby of six months ago.

Rossland welcomed these three little sons of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Knudsgaard a year ago last February 12, when they made their debut at the Mater Misericordiae Hospital.

From the first time I gazed at the three impossible little bundles lying on three little beds in a dainty blue and white nursery, with a feeling that was too deep for words, the fascination of that happy little home has drawn me again and again, to watch the varying stages, each more captivating than the last, that mark the growth of these wee tots into charming childhood.

All have fair hair and large blue eyes, but Eric is the big man of the trio, leading both in weight and curls. His two present hobbies, apparently, are climbing furniture and throwing blocks. He spent most of his time during my last visit trying to snatch a friendly puppy from a picture on the wall above the chesterfield. A serious gentleman this, with an inquiring gaze.

DISH WASHING SOON

Einar is the flirt. You can tell that from just one "I dare you" look levelled under those long black eyelashes of his. When I called he was in the kitchen suggesting that he help his Dad dry the dishes. "Pretty soon they will be able to wash dishes and we won't have to do them anymore," sighed Mr. Knudsgaard hopefully. Einar, holding onto a chair, seemed to have a more practical idea of how to dispose of the dishes, but it was very promptly vetoed.

It was Einar, too, who represented the acme of hospitality that day, generously bringing me his pyjamas to wear.

And then you have Frans. Frans, who has always been more backward than his two brothers, has a smile that you read about in poems. Lying quietly, watching his two brothers play, when you speak to him, his slow sweet smile is a lovely thing to see.

He can sit up straight now and a summer spent in the sunshine, has made a wonderful improvement in him. Although he cannot yet walk, he can stand up with assistance and is beginning to talk.

DANISH AND ENGLISH

Mr. and Mrs. Knudsgaard are teaching the children Danish, their own tongue, as well as English. It seemed strange to hear Mrs. Knudsgaard translate an order, originally spoken in English into Danish, explaining that "perhaps he will understand better."

It is refreshing to see the sensible, "no nonsense" type of training being given these triplets. I remember once commenting on how unspoiled they were. "Spoiled? I should say not, there are three of them!" their mother laughingly replied.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Knudsgaard, tremendously proud of their three sons, share the responsibility and work entailed in their upbringing and it is no longer a novel sight to see Mr. Knudsgaard pushing his family up town in their large buggy.

One day I encountered him with Eric and Einar and a large gap between which spoke eloquently of the absent Frans. "I am farming these two out to give my wife a rest," he answered with a smile.

Yes, Rossland's triplet boys are fast leaving babyhood behind, and with sturdy little bodies and happy smiles they are truly the Golden City's greatest treasure.

Pilot Survivor Arrives Vancouver

VANCOUVER, Oct. 11 (CP). — Second-Lieut. Edward B. Saxon, object of a widespread aerial search in Washington State after he and Private W. E. Shane disappeared on a flight from Spokane to Fort St. Lewis, Wash., arrived here today, safe after he and his companion jumped from their crashing plane.

But Saxon did not know what happened to Shane after the two parachuted to earth Monday afternoon near Keefers, B. C., 85 miles Northeast of Vancouver and 70 miles North of the Canada-United States border.

Stiff, sore and unshaven after 26 hours in the British Columbia wilderness, Saxon picked slivers from his hands as he related how he told Shane to jump when the plane's gasoline ran low. A moment later he himself bailed out from 1000 feet and landed in an evergreen tree which broke his fall.

He saw the ship crash in a mass of tangled wreckage but did not go to it after he jumped.

"I did not see Shane again after he jumped," said Saxon, member of the Washington National Guard at Spokane.

"I was flying South when we jumped and I told him to follow a river, which turned out to be the Douglas River, and we were to meet. But he never showed up and I thought the best thing to do would be to get out to civilization and organize a search party."

The 22-year-old flyer then told how he stumbled along the river bank, following it downstream. Sometimes the foliage and trees were so thick he was forced to wade in the stream so he would not lose it.

The flying suit he donned to ferry Shane, Private at Hamilton Field, Calif., from Spokane to Fort Lewis, was torn and his feet became sore. He stumbled on and Monday night made a fire with one of three matches he had when he jumped from his ship.

After spending a shivering night beside his fire, Saxon said he continued his hike early Tuesday and that morning reached a trapper's cabin in the woods. Inside he found some beans and matches which he took with him.

Yesterday he arrived at Frances Lake, about nine miles from Keefers, but there was no means of transportation so Saxon walked to Keefers to wire headquarters of the 41st Aviation Division of the National Guard at Spokane, announcing his safety.

Early this morning he boarded a train and came to Vancouver.

Communism Hatred Will Finish Hitler, Says Col. Drew

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 11 (CP) — The hatred of communism which raised Hitler to power will, in turn, destroy him, Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative leader, predicted in a speech before the Canadian Club today.

He said that hope of an early peace with Germany may depend upon the extent to which the Allies can convince the senior officers of the German army that they (the Allies) will have nothing to do with communism. There was no doubt, he added, that officers of the old imperial army fear the revival of communism in Germany today.

Hitler himself rose to power on promises he would destroy communism, but he now has been responsible for bringing the Red doctrine into central Europe, right to the German frontier and "if the German people still believe that communism is a vile and treacherous doctrine, then they now must get rid of Hitler to protect themselves from communism."

Col. Drew characterized Hitler's peace overtures as those of "a lying gangster offering his word of honor." Hitler must go or there could be no peace and any armistice with him "would only be an armistice during which Germany could prepare for some new outrage."

I wish there were no assigned homework in the lower elementary grades, and very little in the upper elementary grades, with more reasonable assignments than those that prevail in senior high school. For some children the homework is intolerable. This usually happens because of one or two inconsiderate teachers. They need to be curbed by the principal. I wish principals would take the responsibility they should in protecting children from excessive homework assignments.

There are some good books to aid parents and teachers in helping the child and youth study effectively, and for helping the pupil to help himself. You may have, without cost, a list of such books by writing me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope.

A Few Hints . . .

Train Husband Early In Married Life for Results

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

OPEN LETTER TO BRIDES:

Girls, it's true that puppies, kittens, pets of all sorts, including husbands, must be housebroken when young, or they form bad habits which will embarrass you as long as you keep them. So take time by the forelock; begin the very day you return from the honeymoon to teach your pets how to behave in the hours of matrimony.

It's not a bad idea to start with a budget, putting down every item you can think of, allowing a liberal sum for what you can't think of. And don't forget that the trousseau guaranteed for a year or better, may be reconditioned but will eventually become threadbare and have to be replaced. If husband goes a year without putting up for clothes and accessories, he'll howl when the anniversary rolls around and you mention new togs. So snip off a few dollars each week and apply it to the wardrobe fund.

You should never transgress the code of ordinary politeness, even before breakfast. Speak to a husband as though he were a dog, he'll bark back at you; once he's been discourteous in private, it's only a matter of time until the habit is formed and then he'll embarrass you to tears by being discourteous to you in public.

By all means encourage him to talk it over with you. To get best results, you will have to convince him that you are sympathetic and discreet, uncritical and approving. Show too much curiosity for detail, offer too many suggestions as to how he could manage better, ridicule him for being a baby and he will dry up like a brook in a summer drought.

At any cost to yourself teach him to regard you as a playmate. This is done by expressing interest and enthusiasm for the games of his choice, whether cards, golf, hunting, fishing, or gardening. As you have entered whole-heartedly into his scheme of pleasures, he won't be dependent on nights off with the boys.

Initiate him into the secret society of housekeeping so he won't labor under the misapprehension that a house runs automatically on greased wheels. Let him understand that you consider your job as important as his job outside and that it requires head, hand and footwork.

A husband well trained in the first twelve months of matrimony is a thing of beauty and a joy forever. He treats his wife to common politeness, fancy courtesy, generosity, consideration, admiration and devotion. For which he is happier, as well as she. Left to go his own unfettered way, he quickly reverts to the primitive, uses a club instead of a velvet mit, becomes rough, and rude and hard to live with.

SERIAL STORY . . .

PHANTOM RANCH

By OREN ARNOLD

CHAPTER 42

Shot's foolish hope of having a chance to kill Luis Escobar with an axe fortunately did not materialize.

For one thing, Escobar did not stoop to address the prisoner again directly. He was a commander of an army, however disreputable the army might be, and as such he not only was very busy, but he had a definite dignity to maintain. He contrived to be rather pompous when he walked across the camp grounds with orderlies at his heels. He could not waste time seeing one hapless prisoner.

Escobar's camp cooks saw to it that Shot kept busy, and neglected to mention when, where and what he himself was to eat when meal time came. He had had no breakfast. He slaved all morning preparing food for other people. When it was cooked, its savor was more powerful than the urge in him to kill Luis Escobar.

"I'm too weak to do any fighting anyhow, now," he reasoned, truthfully. "I got to scrape up some grub."

He almost literally had to scrape it up, too. He dared not try to eat any of the beef that had been prepared for the three or four hundred men he saw about the place, nor any of the hard flat tortilla bread that had been cooked, nor any of the steaming peppery stew. His principal aim was to give satisfaction in his present status so that he would not be tied hand and foot and locked up again. Free of bonds this way, he just might be able to grab a chance to run or fight or accomplish something. So he ignored the food he helped prepare until the main cooks themselves sat down to eat. Then he picked up the smelly cowhide he had skinned off that morning. Flies swarmed away, but he saw that strips of lean meat clung to it, and numerous bits of tallow. Unobtrusively he pulled off a handful of the leaner pieces and laid them on a rock near his fire. In ten minutes they had cooked to an edible state, and he devoured them with as much relish as he had ever shown for any meal in all his life.

He felt much better, stronger, after that, and so rather boldly gave thought to coffee that had been prepared in great tubs. When they had been emptied, he saw a quart or so of loose grounds in one tub. Under the guise of washing it, he managed to heat a small bit of water in those old grounds and boil out some of the stimulant for himself. He could not maneuver any bread, nor stew, but he didn't need it. The beef and the stolen coffee made a new man of him. He began studying the camp with minute care, looking for any possibility of escaping, however remote.

All day horsemen had been going and coming. Overhearing conversation and crisp military orders, he knew that most of the soldiers were

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Mothers have instilled in their minds the idea that there is a so-called teething age for babies. This goes with a belief that the erupting of teeth is the cause of many baby ailments.

Fifty years or more ago the doctors turned over the care of the baby from the time it was born to the grandmother or some female in the neighborhood who had a reputation for being good with babies. These excellent ladies were efficacious but not very scientific, and the teething age idea was one of their most cherished beliefs.

The interest in children from the medical standpoint is of quite recent development. The first book on diseases of children which had any scientific standing was published during the present century. Interest in children and all their problems has grown rapidly ever since.

KNOW MORE NOW

We know, in consequence of this knowledge, far more about the teething age than we used to. We know that it is not dangerous, and that it causes the child little discomfort. The important thing is to see that the child's nutrition is cared for during the eruption of teeth.

A digestive upset, such as vomiting or diarrhea, and other things, such as fever and convulsions, when they happen to occur during the teething age, are ascribed to this phenomenon of the erupting of teeth.

Do not then sooth yourself with the idea that during the teething age everything that the baby may have the matter with it is due to teething entirely. The baby that has a fever during the period of the erupting of teeth may be having measles or diphtheria. So have a careful and thorough examination made of the baby who is sick during the teething age, just the same as at any other time.

The teeth begin to erupt between the fifth and seventh months; at the age of two-and-a-half the first set should have all appeared. The corresponding teeth of the two sides of the jaw erupt at the same time. The two center teeth in the lower jaw appear at the age of six or seven months; the two upper teeth at about the fifth to eighth month, and the lateral teeth from the seventh to the tenth month.

This order, however, is not invariably followed, for teeth may prematurely erupt so that they are even seen at birth. But cases of retarded eruption are much more common than those of premature eruption due to weakness, debility or disease.

During the eruption of the teeth the entire face and head change. There is a gradual elongation and prolongation of the teeth, and a consequent adjustment of the bony structures which hold them.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

R. E. P.: "Please tell me the best treatment for nasal catarrh. As I do quite a bit of singing, this condition becomes quite annoying at times and prevents me from getting the proper resonance for my voice."

Answer—Nasal catarrh is an old-fashioned term and has no real meaning. Catarrh is the desquamation of the superficial cells of a mucous membrane. In the case of the nose this would mean a secretion and a discharge. It has been found by wide and long-continued clinical observation that such conditions are due not to chronic catarrhal inflammation of the inside of the nose, but to sinus infection or turbinate infection, or to a number of factors. Excessive smoking undoubtedly aggravates nasal infections once they are established. Occupation that involves very dusty or dry or hot surroundings is another. In discussing the treatment in his work on "Disease of the Nose, Throat and Ear" Dr. Wallace Morrison says: "The underlying causes must be discovered and remedied if possible. This may require a complete study of the body. The local treatment, which can be carried out by the patient, consists in washing out the secretion by snuffing warm saline solution into the nose." Polyps must be removed, the deviated septum must be straightened and sinuses drained.

Use Sachet and Spray Perfume for Best Effect

By DONNA GRACE

It is a natural instinct for every girl to adore things feminine, and the perfume cabinet is often a treasured possession. When subtly applied, perfume, more than any other beauty requisite, expresses one's temperament, emotion and personality. But there are a few things to bear in mind in the use of all scents. Select the best you can afford. Choose your perfume for the occasion. Remember that an overdose will only defeat the purpose for which it is used.

Never use a heavy scent in the morning. The toilet water rub after the morning bath, followed with a perfumed bath powder, is quite correct and will be sufficient fragrance.

Your smart luncheon costume will call for any of the delicate floral perfumes or bouquet scents. A silk cashet pad tucked in the lining of your hat will impart a nice fragrance. Then, if there are flowers on the hat, they may be sprayed with a floral perfume.

Heavy exotic pungents are in bad taste except for evening wear and even then will call for the more sophisticated formal gown.

The drawer for lingerie should be lined with a silk sachet pad and the stockings as well as handkerchiefs should be kept in perfumed cases or boxes.

The last rinse for delicate lingerie and neckwear can be made fragrant with the addition of a few drops of toilet water. Spray the perfume over the hair and on the skin before dressing and touch the perfume to the wristbands.

There are perfumes for all occasions and you will want several to harmonize with different costumes.

Help Fight FIRE

THE NATION'S WORST ENEMY

WHO WILL BE THE NEXT VICTIM?

Last year the Fire Demon numbered among his victims in Canada 263 men, women and children. In 1937, 105 children lost their lives by fire, while in 1938, 118 children's lives were claimed. This is a staggering admission and the responsibility for such tragedies can in many cases be laid directly to the negligence of parents who far too often leave their helpless little ones alone in the house while they visit neighbors or go to a show. These holocausts frequently occur in rural districts where neighbors are long distances away and the parents are unable to reach their burning home in time to save their children from a horrible death.

Every parent should realize that it is his duty to teach his children the principles of fire prevention. They should not be allowed to play with fire, matches should be kept out of their reach and the playing with celluloid toys should be discouraged. By a strict adherence to the use of common sense, parents can thus save themselves the bitter anguish and life-long regret which must be ever present when a child perishes by their neglect.

Do Your Part to Prevent Fires!
Be Careful and You'll Be Safe!

Millions IN SMOKE

DO YOU DO THIS?

A careful study of fire records shows that at least 80 per cent of fires are preventable. The following examples are given from among the thousands of known causes to show how easy fires can start and the fatal results that may follow.

A man dropped a cigarette in a rubbish pile in a rooming house and burned to death eleven people.

A man dropped his cigarette in a couch in the lobby of a hotel. Fire resulted at 3 a.m. and resulted in the death of four people.

A mother in one of our leading college cities, for the five hundredth time perhaps, started a fire with coal oil. The fire she started burned to death three children besides herself.

A man dropped a match on a garage floor, walked on and left it. A six-year-old child found it and ignited her clothing which resulted in burns that caused her death a few hours later.

A man attempted to sleep and smoke at the same time—result, he set bed afire, was overcome with smoke, and removed in an unconscious state. Only the timely arrival of the fire department saved him from being cremated alive.

Some grown-ups placed Strike-Anywhere matches on a kitchen table. Two small children acted upon the implied suggestion and carried some to their playhouse, innocently started a fire. Result, little boy burned fatally.

Do you always think about the safety and welfare of those about you when you discard your match and cigarette stub? Are you mindful of the safety of children in your home to the extent of providing safety matches, and keeping them out of their reach? Do you have proper respect for the dangerous properties of gasoline and always handle it with care?

Plans of Proposed Railway Crossing Rossland Required

ROSSLAND, B.C., Oct. 11—Negotiations for a railway crossing on Kootenay Avenue between Georgia and Park Streets under way since Spring, brought to the Rossland Council meeting Tuesday a letter from the Board of Transport Commissioners at Ottawa, requesting an official plan of the vicinity before permission for the crossing could be considered.

J. A. MacLeod, City Clerk, estimated the cost of securing the plans at about $75, and at his suggestion the matter was left with the Chairman of the Works Committee to consider means to eliminate this expense, deemed unnecessary by the council.

Men Hauling Wood, Rossland Relief Men Must Work at Once

ROSSLAND, B.C., Oct. 11—John Newman, City Foreman, was instructed by the Rossland City Council Tuesday, to notify the two men who had contracted to haul wood into the city for relief families at $2 per cord that the wood had to be brought in immediately or other arrangements would be made.

About 29 cords had been brought in, reported Mr. Newman, but the men had then ceased hauling in order to bring in other wood, cut for commercial purposes, before Winter set in. According to Mr. Newman's estimate, another 20 cords have been cut by the relief men, and are ready for haulage.

Mulching Means Larger Berries

By DEAN HALLIDAY

The home strawberry bed should be mulched for several reasons other than the fact that mulching prevents alternate freezing thawing and heaving; among them is the fact that it keeps the berries clean and free from grit and sand. It also results in larger berries.

Mulching of a strawberry patch presents a summer and a winter problem. In today's Garden-Graph

Mulching strawberries—summer and winter

the method of winter mulching is shown. It calls for a four to six-inch mulch to be placed over the plants themselves. In the spring pull the mulch to one side, weed the bed, then spread the mulch between the rows of plants, and under them as shown in the illustration marked "summer."

To be satisfactory, the mulching material should be light and straw-like in texture. Salt hay, when it can be obtained, is one of the best mulching materials for it does not sow weed seeds and does not easily blow away.

Prepare a trench, while the weather is still good, in which to sow sweet peas next month or in the early spring. Only the hard and smooth-seeded sorts of sweet peas may be sown thus.

Three Prisoners to Serve Total of 12 Months Arrive Here

Three prisoners, starting to serve sentence totalling 12 months, were escorted to the Provincial Jail at Nelson Wednesday by Constable T. W. Glaholm of Wardner.

Donald Alex McDonald started a sentence of four months imposed on him at Cranbrook October 4 for supplying liquor to an Indian.

Johnny Mike, an Indian, convicted on two charges under the Indian Act, will serve six months hard labor on one charge and one month hard labor on the other, the second sentence to run consecutive with the first. The first charge is one of "an Indian being in possession of an intoxicant"; and the second is for being intoxicated.

William Verigin will serve 30 days hard labor for trespassing on a C.P.R. train at Natal.

PHANTOM RANCH

either drilling or having target practice a mile away. He thanked his lucky stars that he spoke Spanish fluently, even though he had tried to pretend ignorance of the language.

Immediately after noon his duty again was to butcher steers, for it would take a crew of men six hard hours to prepare the night meal. Shot worked at it industriously, saying nothing when the cooks insulted him and barked orders at him. Since he also had to keep the outdoor fire going — it was used mainly for heating water with which dishes were washed—he was able to cook himself still more bits of food. Some of these he ate. Others he quietly stuffed in his pockets for possible emergency use, and a handful or two he hid in the wood pile.

He had made up his mind by four or five that evening to work obediently until nightfall, then make his try for freedom. Doubtless they would plan to tie him or lock him up for the night. Just before they did so, he'd make his break, win or lose. He had managed to conceal a butcher knife under his shirt. At the last moment he would snatch a gun if possible, or rely on his wood axe. Or better—just dash to a saddled horse, lay low on the saddle, and trust to the Mexicans' poor aim. Twilight would be the best hour for such an effort, because then marksmanship would be poor, yet a horse could still see to run.

Late in the afternoon he was squatting by the fire, poking at it to increase its heat fr the supper hour, and perfecting his plans in his mind, when he again studied the surrounding landscape carefully to determine a direction for flight. He would have a head for rough country with plenty of rocks and brush, hoping to out-run his pursuers and then lose them. He wanted, if possible, to head back North toward Lorena, the more gloom settled upon him. Whatever had happened to her he wondered. He had promised to come back to her before dawn, and here was another sunset at hand!

All at once, squatting there poking the fire, Shot's alert eyes caught something on the horizon. At first he thought it an illusion caused by his own fire smoke, but he moved aside and saw that it was at a distance.

From a ridge not too far away, perhaps two or three miles, smoke was moving upward in short broken puffs, as if somebody had blotted out sections of a stead column.

"Signals, by lordy!" Shot murmured. "Smoke signals!"

He wondered what the Mexicans could be doing with signals like the Indians used in the warfare days of 60 years ago. He glanced around. Nobody was noticing. Apparently everyone of the soldiers, including Escobar, had come back into camp, he observed. If the signals were meant for this camp he could see no recognition of them, nobody answering.

"Sa-a-a-ay!" Shot murmured then, working there alone. Suddenly his heart went pounding. He remembered another day when he and Lorena had been keeping company and talking about all manners of things. "My, lordy, I wonder if she—if she—!"

He hardly dared phrase it even to himself, but he immediately looked around to see some means of answering. He would need a blanket, an old sack, some green brush or—there, the wet cowhides! Bloody and pliable, they could serve as a blanket to muffle the fire.

He controlled himself so as not to act suspiciously, but got one of the green, hairy hides he had skinned of fthat afternoon and with it pretended to fan a contrary blaze. He put on some fore twigs and fuel to mislead anyone who might be watching. He glanced hastily around.

Nobody seemed to be paying any attention. This was the busiest hour in the long cook tent. Others were preparing for the meal elsewhere.

Shot flopped the wet hide over his fire. His smoke column stopped, cut off abruptly.

Quickly he jerked the hide off. A black puff floated up.

He flopped the hide on—off and on—off and on—off and on—and off.

Perfect "dots" went upward, drifting just a little in the gentle evening air. He waited two or three minutes and repeated the maneuver, his heart pounding lest he be detected at it. While waiting he tried to appear as busy as possible, swinging his axe at kindling wood.

Whoever made the other signals caught his answer immediately, he soon knew. For that horizon fire showed further puffs or "dots," too, a sure recognition. Then it faded out entirely.

"She's put out her fire to keep from being seen!" Shot guessed. "That's Lorena! Bound to be. She saw me. She must have the field glasses. She's up there sending me encouragement—by lordy, what a girl!"

He wished to goodness he and Lorena had practiced their Indian smoke signals still more that day a week or two ago, so that they might have exchanged definite messages. But no matter. A grand elation had swelled within him. Lorena—what a girl! Maybe she had help lurking in the hills, or maybe she didn't. No matter. He felt that all the bandit soldiers in Christendom couldn't keep him from her now. He didn't know how he could escape, but he would certainly show Senor Escobar some kind of excitement before this night was over.

CHEESE FOR OUR SOLDIER BOYS FROM COUNTRY IF NOT FROM COW

Canadian farmers have been advised by Ottawa, as an item in the war production program, not to yield to the allure of high butter prices, but to stay with good old cheese.

While the reason for the advice was not given, very likely it was because of the superior ability of cheese to stand the racket, an ability clearly demonstrated at the front in the last war, when cheese was a staple in the army ration. Canadian boys going overseas, if not cheese addicts when they leave Canada's shores, will be fully acclimated to it before they come back.

Little butter found its way to the front in the last war, its place being taken by margarine, which, like cheese, stands up well under tough conditions. After the war, Canada's parliament outlawed both manufacture and importation of margarine, so far as Canada was concerned, and that prohibition, originally enacted as a concession to the strong farm bloc of that day, persists to the present.

But where butter cannot go with satisfactory results, margarine can go, one of those places being to the front, and if it should be that Canada's soldiers are destined to have margarine issued to them as a food lubricant, it would seem the part of wisdom to have the necessary margarine manufactured in Canada.

Nor need this be in any sense at the expense of the farmers, for a current release by the Bureau of Statistics, just received by The Daily News, dwells on the increased production of the soya bean, which is a source of the oil from which margarine is made. A couple of decades ago the agricultural papers were publishing the pledges a progressive farmer was supposed to take, prominent among them being the pledge to "grow soy beans," which both improved the soil, and were becoming of industrial importance. oday the soya bean cult is widespread in Canada; so the production of margarine would in fact be an aid to Canadian farms.

Whether soya beans are produced to any extent in the Kootenay, deponent is not in a position to state, but they could be, seeing the degree to which the adjoining state of Washington goes in for them.

According to the Ottawa release mentioned, the vegetable oils produced by the farms of Canada, in the form of flaxseed and soya bean, had a factory value last year of $3,681,000, a slight gain over the previous year. The products in question were mainly raw linseed oil, boiled linseed oil, special linseed oil, linseed oil cake, linseed oil cake meal, linseed meal, soya bean products, and soap.

It is within the last decade that the soya bean has been cultivated in Canada, and our imports are still considerably in excess of what we grow ourselves. Last year we imported 1,831,000 pounds of soya beans, exclusive of cake, flour and meal, oil for soap, and other soya bean products. We have about 10,000 acres under soya bean cultivation, practically all of it in Ontario. There is no real reason, however, for Ontario farms having a monopoly of our domestic soya bean production, and probably statistics will show a change later.

There is a special romance in the soya bean; the discoveries of new uses is a remarkable chemical and metallurgical feat. From the humble soya bean of tropical Asia have been manufactured window frames, gear shift knobs, horn buttons and electrical parts for automobiles. It also goes into automobile enamel. People were thrilled when we began to make vegetable ivory from nuts got in Brazil, to take the place of the rapidly diminishing supply of natural ivory, but the interest in the soya bean discoveries is even greater. How far it will go in taking the place of steel is a question.

It is said that the cost of soya bean plastics is greater than steel per pound, but the finishing of steel brings the final cost of many steel parts in excess of that for the finished product manufactured from the soya bean material.

The soya bean has a great variety of uses. It is a source of oil for margarine and soap. In Japan they make from it concentrated milk, flour and piquant sauce; in China, flour, milk, bread and cheese; in Cochin-China milk, cheese and casein.

So we may yet have soya bean cheese in Canada, whether we go in for soya bean steel substitutes or not.

Shepard Barclay Tells How to Bid and Play

BEWARE OF COMPLIMENTS

IT IS ALL well and good to be complimented by your partner, who leaps up to a game or slam in your suit when he really should get into a game at his own. But it is not so good to let that go to your head and make you play fast in a show-off kind of way. You are really under more than usual obligation to exercise extreme care in such a spot.

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

Here North bid 1-Diamond, East 1-Heart, South 1-Spade, North 2-Clubs and then South leaped to 6-Clubs because he considered his partner such a star. He should have bid 3-Spades, which would have resulted in his playing the hand at 6-Spades.

North proved false to his trust on the first trick. East led the heart 10 and North, feeling sure from East's bid of the suit that the K was there, played the J. He therefore lost one trick each in the two red suits and was defeated.

Had North studied just a few moments he would have come up with the heart A, dropped the clubs, ran the spades, discarding the heart from his own hand and ruffed South's heart loser.

Senior broad jump, Mary Frizzell, 16 feet, 8 inches; intermediate broad jump, Ann Wilson, 16 feet, 9 inches; junior broad jump, Margaret Cowan, 16 feet, 5½ inches. All of Vancouver.

Inquirer, Nelson—Is there another matchbox factory in Canada?

No, W. W. Powell Company Ltd., of Nelson, is the only matchbox factory in Canada.

B. L., Nelson—Can you give me a recipe for apple butter?

Wash and cut apples into quarters without paring or coring. Place in preserving kettle with just enough water to cover. Cook slowly until tender. Press through a coarse sieve. Measure the strained pulp and to each cup of pulp add one half cup of sugar and the grated rind of half a lemon. Cook very slowly until thick and of spreading consistency. If spiced apple butter is preferred, add ground cloves and cinnamon to taste just before the desired consistency is reached.

Britain Has Sent to France 158,000 Men and 25,000 Vehicles in First War Weeks, Hore-Belisha Reports

By J. F. SANDERSON

LONDON, Oct. 11 (CP Cable)—Britain has transported to France 158,000 men and 25,000 vehicles in the first five weeks of the war, Leslie Hore-Belisha, Secretary of State for war, reported to the House of Commons today.

During the same period "We have created our base and lines of communication organization so as to assure a regular flow of supplies and ammunitions of every kind and to receive further contingents as, if and when we may decide to send them," Mr. Hore-Belisha said.

Included among the 25,000 vehicles are many tanks, "some of them of enormous dimensions" and weighing 15 tons apiece or more.

To instance the speed with which Britains' expeditionary force has been sent to France, Mr. Hore-Belisha said it took six weeks in 1914 to move the first 148,000 men.

The War Minister said the British troops in France "at this minute are busily engaged in fortifying their positions in the line."

In addition to sending troops to France, British garrisons in the middle East have been "strongly reinforced" as well as garrisons elsewhere, "both in material and in men."

The war minister declared the troops now in France will not be the last Britain will send.

NEW RECRUIT SYSTEM

He announced a new system of recruiting for the home defence forces. Home defence battalions will be formed of older men and men unfit for service overseas. An auxiliary military pioneer corps will be organized in battalions to take over military pioneer work, both overseas and here.

Mr. Hore-Belisha drew a word picture of troop transports, averaging three nightly, departing silently from English ports while the navy and the Royal Air Force stood guard against marauding U-boats and drifting mines.

The expeditionary force was transported "without a casualty to any of its personnel."

The task was complicated by the necessity of erecting heavy derricks to lift some of the 50 types of vehicles sent to France. Some idea of the degree of mechanization may be judged by the fact that only 20 per cent of the British fighting troops in France are infantry and they are equipped with 60 Bren machine-guns and 16 anti-tank rifles to the battalion. That also demonstrates the big increase in fire power.

The war minister reported the troops were in fine spirit, grumbling only at the inadequacy of the cigarettes and the slow delivery of their mail.

Before the war minister spoke, Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, announced the Royal Navy during the last 16 days had taken 13,615 more tons of shipping from the enemy than German U-boats had sunk in British tonnage.

Making his report, Mr. Hore-Belisha said:

"I am able to inform the house we have fulfilled, and more than fulfilled, our undertaking recently given to France to dispatch to that country in the event of a war a British expeditionary force of a specified dimension within a specified time. . . .

"There is no need for further silence and a body of war correspondents has just arrived in France with the object of keeping us all informed of the day to day impressions and happenings."

Comparing Britain's task today with that of 1914, Mr. Hore-Belisha said:

"In those days there were only 800 mechanized vehicles in all and it was a rare load to exceed a couple of tons.

"We have already on this occasion transported to France more than 25,000 vehicles, including tanks, some of them of enormous dimensions and weighing 15 tons apiece or more."

The war secretary said a "small body of specially selected" officers, with seven confidential typists and clerks, secretly worked out every detail of the plan for moving the army and the Royal Air Force to France.

"Their ingenuity, precision and patience would have baffled "Bradshaw," said Mr. Hore-Belisha, referring to a complicated British railway timetable.

He said that as a precaution against air attack more devious internal routes to embarcation points were taken than in 1914. Vehicles and men were dispersed in small groups, halted in concealed areas by day, and moved onwards by night.

More remote landing places had to be selected in France, he said.

The mechanized army which Britain transported had at its disposal 50 different types of vehicles, he asserted, most of them requiring different grades of fuel and lubricants.

"Great reserves have had to be conveyed and stores," he said.

"There is, however, one respect in which our army has not altered—its relations with our Allies who have welcomed the men so generously are as good-humored," he said.

"While the world was reading of the German advances into Poland British soldiers, resolved to rectify this wrong, were passing silently and in an increasing sequence across the channel into France."

In April, he said, the original plan for sending 19 divisions to France in time of war had become a plan for an expeditionary force of 32 divisions.

"This will not be the limit of our effort," he declared.

In addition to 500,000 men being trained or already on call in the conscription plan, he said, some 50,000 volunteers entered the army since the war started.

DAY OF PRAYER AND HARVEST SERVICES ARE COMBINED AT CRESTON

CRESTON, B. C. — The World's Day of Prayer and the annual Harvest Thanksgiving were combined at Trinity United Church, Sunday evening, with an attendance that filled the edifice to capacity.

The service was in charge of the pastor, Rev. H. J. Armitage, whose address was particularly appropriate for such an occasion, taking for his text the story of the centurion of Capernaum, of whom it said "He hath shown favor to the people, and has built us a synagogue."

There was a printed form of service with prayers befitting the occasion. The hymns were "Come, Ye Thankful People, Come", "O Spirit of the Living God", and "From Ocean Unto Ocean." The choir also rendered two special numbers, including "Sowing the Seed."

Former President of Danzig Arrested

LONDON, Oct. 11 (CP)— The Daily Mail's Amsterdam correspondent reported today that Albert Forster, Danzig Nazi leader, has arrested Arthur Greiser, former President of the Danzig senate. Greiser was said to be under house arrest in his Danzig apartment.

Conflict between Forster and Greiser had been reported unofficially as far back as four years ago. When Danzig was a "free city" Greiser was nominally head of the Government, although it was Forster who was proclaimed 'chief of state' just before the territory joined Germany. A title which he gave up when union with the Reich was officially proclaimed.

REGISTRATION 20,000 CANADIAN ENGINEERS

EDMONTON, Oct. 11 (CP)—Registrations carried on since last spring have resulted in 20,000 engineers, metallurgists and chemists being ready to aid in Canada's war effort, Dean H. W. McKiel of Nova Scotia's Mount Allison University and President of the Engineering Institute of Canada, said here today.

None of these technical men has been called up yet, but Dean McKiel expects they will have a large part to play.

Soviet Press Bitter in Attacks on Catholic and Orthodox Priests

MOSCOW, Oct. 11 (AP). — The Moscow newspaper Bezbozhnik (The Godless), organ of the anti-religious movement, indicated today a large number of Roman Catholic and Greek Orthodox priests were "liquidated" when Soviet Russian troops marched into White Russia and the Western Ukraine in partitioned Poland.

The newspaper asserted many priests barricaded themselves "with capitalists and Polish officers in Catholic Churches and met the Red army with machine gun fire."

Bitter articles, assailing both Catholic and Orthodox priests in the region, accused them of espionage and being in the pay of the Polish Government.

The paper praised the Red army soldiers who, it said, threw several hand grenades into a group of priests and Polish officers who refused to surrender, killing all of them.

The paper said church and monastery lands had been divided and turned over to workers and peasants.

"When the priests saw the power of the Polish landowners coming to an end they banded together with the landowners and gendarmes and took weapons into their hands," the paper declared.

"Everything that happened in Russia during the revolution was repeated. They fought against the power of the toilers. The priests forgot their preachings of brotherly love and fought.  Many Catholic priests with arms in hand tried to protect the capitalists' domination of the workers.

"Now, thanks to the help of the Soviet Union, priests are no longer landowners, Peasants and workers are sharing monastery and church lands. Everybody is entitled to believe or not in God—no compulsion exists."

The paper said "priests gave anti-tank prayers hoping to prevent Russian tanks from crossing the Dneister River where the Poles blew up the bridge. But the tanks crossed despite the prayers and encircled obstacles which the priests had blessed and behind which the Poles had hidden. When the tanks approached the priests fled into the forests."

Death Ray Inventor Won't Tell Secret

CLEVELAND, Oct. 11 (AP)—Dr. Antonio Longoria, who in 1924 confirmed report he had perfected a "death ray" machine, said today it was possible such rays would be used in the present war, but that he would never reveal his secret to help recreate such an apparatus.

The inventor, who built a machine in 1923 that he said killed pigeons on the wing at four miles, destroyed it because of its danger.

"It's quite possible that someone may stumble across the particular electric wave I used," he said. "The machine killed small animals, and it could kill human beings just as easily.

"The ray lies in one of the unexplored frequency bands in the vicinity of the X-ray. It kills painlessly, without burning, by changing the blood to a useless substance—as light changes silver salts in photography."

Camp Lister Land Settlement Areas to be Revalued

VICTORIA, Oct. 11 (CP)—Lands held by the Land Settlement Board in the Camp Lister area, British Columbia's post-war soldier settlement in the Kootenays, are to be revalued, it was announced at the Provincial Legislative Buildings today.

The government named a special board to assess the property, consisting of Frank V. Staples as chairman, Charles B. Twigg and James W. Smith, with William Blane as consultant on water matters.

This is part of the government's program to liquidate and clean up Land Settlement Board holdings which began with a readjustment last year of outstanding agreements between settlers and the Board.

Under this plan, settlers who showed an honest desire to improve their holdings were given concessions that would enable them to eventually gain title to their property.

Ancient Ice and Pacific

The B. L. M. mining camp, 27 miles in from Alice Arm, has ice cream, made with Pacific Milk every Saturday night. The ice used is estimated by geologists to be a million years old. Mr. Deacon, the ice cream maker, could make a commercial success with his lovely Pacific Ice cream. It is that good.

The Detroit manager thinks Dillon, veteran New York Rangers' wingman, who was sold to the Wings this year, is just the player to make a star out of Deacon.

"Dillon is a fine passer and can set up plenty of goals for Don, besides being able to score a few himself," he said.

"Deacon isn't a back-checker, and that's another spot where Dillon can help out. He is one of the best back-checkers in the game."

Keating, a hard-working Kitchener boy, is expected to round out the line nicely at left wing. He played in England during the 1937-38 season and was with Pittsburgh Hornets last year.

Gehrig Named to Parole Position

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP). — Mayor Fiorello Laguardia today appointed Lou Gehrig, former New York Yankee star first baseman, incapacitated by a form of paralysis, a City Parole Commissioner.

The appointment, for a term of slightly more than 10 years, carries a salary of $6000, less a current five per cent pay cut.

The Commission is a five-man board headed by the Police and Correction Commissioners, ex officio, with three members appointed by the Mayor.

"The matter has been under advisement for over four months," the Mayor said in making the announcement.

"In the meantime, Mr. Gehrig has read about all the reports on parole that have been published and several works on the subject. I have had several conferences with him, and the final decision was made a few days ago.

"I believe he will not only be an able, intelligent Commissioner, but that he himself will be an inspiration and a hope to many of the younger boys who have gotten into trouble."

SCODELLARO TO TRY OUT WITH BRUINS-PATRICK

VANCOUVER, Oct. 11 (CP)—Trail Smoke Eaters' smart goaltender, Duke Scodellaro his signed up for a tryout with the National Hockey league Boston Bruins this season, Guy Patrick, owner of the Vancouver Lions told reporters here today.

Patrick revealed that he attempted to pick up Scodellaro for his Pacific Coast Hockey league team, but was a little too late as the goalie on the Kootenay team which won the World's Amateur title in 1938 had already signed with Boston.

Proposed expansion of the Coast loop to include several Southern California teams in addition to the regular clubs, Spokane, Seattle, Portland and Vancouver was given by Patrick as one of his reasons for wanting Scodellaro.

Guy said that because of the expansion his veteran Lion goal, Percy Jackson, might go to Portland to replace Andy Aitkenhead. Scodellaro, he thought, would have filled Jackson's place.

3 Hockey Players Headed to Nelson

Three new hockey players are expected to arrive in Nelson over the weekend, A. S. (Pat) Aitken, Coach of the Nelson Maple Leafs, reported Wednesday. He refused to disclose the identity of the puck-chasers, saying that he wouldn't count the players as his until they actually arrived in town.

One of the three is a goal tender.

TRADE WINDS WHISPER OF DEALS APLENTY IN WORLD OF BASEBALL

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP). — The trade winds that are bound to follow the World Series drifted across the baseball world today and, all the way from New York Yankees down to Philadelphia Phillies, every club was shopping, ready to trade or sell, buy or barter.

First baseman, particularly, were being placed on the counters. Babe Dahlgren of the Yankees, big Hankus-Pankus Greenberg of Detroit Tigers and Zeke Bonura of New York Giants received prominent mention.

Receiving special attention is Frankie Frisch, who returns to the game as Manager of Pittsburgh Pirates. Brooklyn, the Giants, and one or two others are interested in some of the stock at Pittsburgh, notably the Waner brothers, Shortstop Arky Vaughan, Rookie Outfielder Morrie van Robays and Pitcher Truett Sewell.

Most clubs seems set to let the rumor foundry operate three shifts daily between now and the Winter meetings in Cincinnati in December. Part of the situation seems to shape up this way:

Yankees—The Yankees front office watched Lou Gehrig on first base so long, anyone with less ability is unsatisfactory. So they're going to try to pass Babe Dahlgren, who did better than an average job this year, over to St. Louis Browns for the heavier-hitting George McQuinn.

CLEANUP IN ORDER

Cincinnati Reds—No 1940 player contracts have been offered yet and a house-cleaning, particularly in the outfield, seems in order.

Detroit Tigers—Seem set on getting rid of Greenberg. One report is that Hank will wind up in Washington in exchange for Cecil Travis, Southpaw pitcher Ken Chase and a bundle of cash. Another whisper says Travis will go to the Tigers in exchange for Rudy York.

Brooklyn Dodgers—The Dodgers have made bids for Joe Medwick, and Lary MacPhail will offer Second-Sacker Pete Coscarart for Paul Waner; would like Shortstop Arky Vaughn from Pittsburgh, too.

New York Giants—Billy Terry likes Hurler Truett Sewell from Pittsburgh or Hugh Casey from Brooklyn; would be willing to give up Pitchers Hy Vandenberg or Manuel Salvo.

St. Louis Cardinals—Need pitcher, but, although there's been lots of talk about Medwick, it now appears they'll keep him.

Cleveland Indians—Need right-hand hitting outfielder.

Washington Senators—All except Dutch Leonard and Buddy Lewis are tradeable.

Chicago Cubs—Several holes to be filled.

ST. CATHARINES PROTEST TURNED DOWN; BOXLA RULES, CONSTITUTION IN FOR CHANGES, COAST MEETING

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., Oct. 11 (CP).—The playing rules of Canadian lacrosse came in for change today and amendments were made to the constitution as the Canadian Lacrosse Association met in a day-long session of its 14th annual meeting and waded through a maze of business.

Ten changes were made to the C. L. A.'s constitution and the report of the Rules Committee under the Chairmanship of R. T. Kelley of Hamilton, which made three changes in the rule book, was adopted.

Most important of the constitutional changes was one which will change from two years to six months the period of suspension to be meted out to any player, referee or official taking part in games outside Canada without the sanction of the C. L. A.

Both the constitutional and rule book changes came in for debate in a heated morning session but the meeting adjourned to allow the Executive to deal with the protest of St. Catharines in the present Mann Cup finals.

Meeting in closed session the Executive, under the Chairmanship of President Jim McConaghh of Vancouver, found that there was "no evidence to warrant upholding the protest" of St. Catharines against the victory of New Westminster Adanacs in the second game of the series last Monday.

Main change in the rule book dealt with misconduct of players. A new rule will state that when a player has been guilty of continuous misconduct that instead of being given a five-minute misconduct penalty and allowed to return to the floor at the end of that time as at present, he be given a two-minute misconduct penalty, and banished from the game. At the end of his two-minute penalty the team could replace him with a substitute.

Other rule revisions will change the phrase "light penalty" to that of "minor penalty," and in the rule stipulating that a player cannot charge the goal-tender will be added that neither can any player "charge" the goal-tender.

Other constitution amendments included:

That in future each protest must be accompanied by a marked check, money order or cash to the amount of $50.

That in all Inter-Provincial and Dominion finals, the President shall appoint referees from within the jurisdiction of the member association in the territory in which the games are played, and the minimum fees for such referees shall be $10 each.

There Are Big Opportunities Here—and Some of Them Are Just What You Need

917 Students Are Enrolled Creston District Schools

CRESTON, B.C.—Some 917 pupils are attending Creston Valley United School Districts' High School at Creston and the seven elementary schools within its boundaries—at Huscroft, Camp Lister, Canyon, Erickson, West Creston, Wyndel and Creston. Of this total 537 are in the elementary schools. Principal Graham is confident the 380 enrolled at the Junior and Senior High Schools will be increased within the net month.

Reports of the Elementary and High School heads, along with the supervising janitor and garage superintendent featured the October meeting of the board Monday night, under Chairman S. A. Speers. Trustees E. E. Cartwright, H. S. McCreath and Hilton Young were in attendance. Illness detained Trustee Frank H. Jackson.

Amongst the general business was the decision to pay Os. Arrowsmith $50 for the two-acre school site at Arrow Creek. He had previously let the board have it on a long lease at a nominal sum. Mr. Arrowsmith stipulates sale is on the understanding the schoolhouse will not be let for dances.

The sum of $25 will be spent in completing the erection of a fence around the school at Camp Lister At present it is about 50 per cent complete. The East Kootenay Teachers' Association was granted use of the auditorium for their annual banquet on the understanding tarpaulins or other durable covering would be put down to protect the floor.

There was a letter from Mrs. E. Martin, secretary of the Sirdar School District, asking for a reduction in the fee charged High School students from outside the Consolidated District. She pointed out Sirdar had four of these and the charge of $50 apiece was a little more than the district could afford, along with paying the students' travel cost to Wyndnel, where they took the school bus. All were agreed no reduction could be made.

Supervising Principal Earl Marriott's report advised that of the 537 enrollment, Creeston students number 264; Wynndel 53; Erickson, 73; Canyon, 53; Camp Lister, 56; West Creston, 18; Huscroft, 20. The largest enrolment was 113 in Grade I. There were 96 in Grade IV.

Mr. Marriott reported Miss Helen Moore, Music Supervisor, had already visited all the schools. It was agreed to have the electric light turned on and a plug put in at Canyon School so that Principal G. York could operate the school radio. Mr. York provides the radio gratis.

For the High School Principal Graham reported of his enrolment of 380, there had been an average daily attendance of 90.06 per cent. The staff numbered 17 teachers and he plans to submit the board semi-annual reports on their work —November and May. He stated the additional 60 lockers had been installed by Supervising Janitor R. R. Roebuck and an exceptionally workmanlike job had been made. Mr. Graham was successful in having $16 voted to purchase slides and charts for the work in agriculture taken by L. S. Smith.

Mr. Graham, however, did not fare so well with a request for $60, wherewith to purchase gramophone records for the 200 who take music. The Trustees scanned the list of musical numbers desired but after due deliberation cut the grant to $25. The records are required for what is termed "music appreciation."

Mr. Graham discussed with the trustees the forthcoming convention which is being financed by the local School District Teachers. The presence of the Board is particularly desired at the public meeting October 19, and at the dinner the following evening. An attendance of not less than 150 teachers is assured.

Supervising Janitor R. R. Roebuck reported tenders had been called for the wood supply at Huscroft and Camp Lister and it was hoped to be able to place the contracts with residents who were indebted to the school for books. Tenders are to be called for 100 yards of sand to be placed in front of the High School where the old-time gravel roadway has been ploughed up.

Mr. Roebuck will attempt to reduce the electric light bill by trying out 300 watt globes in the auditorium, in place of the present 500 watt globes. Swings have been erected at Canyon and Huscroft. First Air Classes have begun. They are held one night a week and will be continued for six weeks, Mr. Roebuck's report stated.

Transportation Superintendent W. Upton reported costs for September as follows: Cost per mile, 21.7 cents. Cost per pupil, 1.93 cents. Cost per pupil per mile, .02 cents. He pointed out that all expenses in connection with buses being used to transport basketball teams and players were being paid by the Student Council. The only expense to the ratepayer was depreciation.

This feature of Mr. Upton's report provoked considerable discussion as to whether the basketball teams were making the round trip the same evening for out of town games. It was pointed out that would be feasible in the case of Cranbrook and Kimberley, but the Fernie trip would necessitate an over-night stop.

The Chairman and Trustees Cartwright and McCreath favored staying over night at Fernie, but not at the other towns. Trustee Young was emphatically opposed to over night stops, and objected to the buses being used for the Sunday transport of pupils for any purpose.

There was mention of salary readjustment to a couple of the bus drivers in Mr. Upton's report. This had to do with the drivers on the longest routes. To avoid any increase it was suggested the drivers alternate on the five runs, or possibly, pay might be arranged on a mileage basis and hold the annual outlay at the present level. After a thorough discussion it was agreed to have Trustee Cartwright, Chairman of the Transportation Committee, and the Board Chairman, S. A. Speers, thresh the matter out and endeavor to reach a settlement with Mr. Upton and Mr. Roebuck, prior to the payday at the end of the month.

Expect Mackenzie Succeed McNaughton University Faculty

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (CP)—Appointment of Dean C. J. MacKenzie of the engineering faculty of the University of Saskatchewan as acting-head of the National Research Council, succeeding Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, is likely to be announced within a few days.

Major-General McNaughton, whose term as President of the Research Council expires in 1942, has been loaned to the Defence Department to command the first division of the Canadian active service force.

Dean MacKenzie is at present chairman of the council's committee on assisted researches, which is expected to be considerably expanded as the war progresses. The War Supply Board's requests for tests of various kinds to be made will be handled through this existing machinery.

The council will decide which laboratory in Canada is best equipped to a specific series of tests, from information gathered in a current questionnaire, and will then assign that piece of work to a laboratory. Financial assistance will be given in the same way it is now given to university laboratories to finance certain definite studies through Dean MacKenzie's committee.

Snow Threatens Alaska Farmers

PALMER, Alaska, Oct. 11 (AP)—Cold and snow threatened ruin today for former middle-Western United States drought farmers who colonized a new land to escape dust and heat.

Dog teams and snowshoes were utilized by colonists on the U. S. government-sponsored Matanuska Valley farm project to fight a sudden and unexpected early snowfall that buried crops.

Nearly every farmer lost something in the 12 to 18-inch snowfall. The temperature hovered around the 10 above zero mark. The crop situation was the most serious since the colony was formed more than four years ago.

Only a small portion of grain had been harvested; the rest, about 80 per cent, was in shock in the field or uncut, the latter being flattened by the first snowfall Sunday.

Acres of market garden produce were caught unharvested. . . .

Colonists said it was impossible to estimate the "untold damage." A sharp drop in temperature froze some snow that melted and a thin layer of ice began forming on the ground.

URGES U.S. ARMAMENT WORKS BUILT INLAND

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—Senator George W. Norris, (Ind., Nebraska), suggested today that the United States government build munition plants in protected inland areas having adequate power supplies.

Norris told reporters that a number of armament factories might be constructed in the Tennessee Valley authority territory because of the cheap power available there.

Plans Voluntary Registration of Women Progress

Inquiries are being received daily at the Nelson office for the Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women for National Service, and the "corners are being smoothed off" the plans for registration week starting Monday.

Mrs. Reginald H. Dill, in charge of the office, stated the committee did not expect any woman to register unless she wished to do so. There was to be no compulsion or duress about obtaining registration. If there were, it would be contrary to the basic idea underlying the whole project, which was that the offer should be a "free-will offering from the women of Canada to their country, an offer to share equally with men the responsibility and risks involved in maintaining Canada and the British Empire as democratic states."

Some 28 questions, each sub-divided, on the questionnaire are to give intelligent information as to how women of Canada could render most efficient service in time of national emergency.

Some of the sample questions are: Question No. 10—Could you take children or adults into your home temporarily? Now or in an emergency? How many? Free or for payment?

No. 14—Have you been occupied in business? (b) In organizations? Give particulars.

No. 16—What experience or training have you had—in catering, buying or preparing food in large quantities?

No. 17—What qualifications or technical training have you? Air mechanic, air pilot, bookkeeper, chemist, dietician, filing clerk, first aid worker, motor mechanic, physician, nurse, dentist, telephone, telegraph or radio, typist, secretary, shorthand, intelligence work, practical nurse, laundress, architect, teacher. (Give particulars).

No. 18—What language other than English can you (a) speak, (b) read, (c) write?

No. 20—Have you registered with any other organization for service in the event of an emergency?

Bomb Berlin or Peace Says Shaw

LONDON, Oct. 11 (CP)—George Bernard Shaw says it's up to Prime Minister Chamberlain to declare whether he is willing to pursue war by bombing Berlin and if not the sooner a peace conference is held the better.

"Our pledge . . . to Poland was explicit," Shaw wrote in a letter to the Manchester Guardian. "We were to come to her aid with all our resources, which meant that when the first German soldier crossed the Polish frontier, the R. A. F. would bomb Berlin; for in no other way could we help Poland, being unable to put a British soldier into Poland or a British ship into the Baltic before Poland was conquered.

"On the strength of that pledge, Poland put up desperate resistance . . . Now bombing Berlin meant the beginning of a series of relations in which our cities and German cities would be changed into rubbish heaps. And when it came to this point Mr. Chamberlain found simply that he could not bring himself to do it. Now this was only one instance of what was happening all around.

"The Berlin-Rome axis was to have annihilated us, but when Signor Mussolini realized what he was letting Italy in for at the hands of the French and British (air) aces and the Mediterranean fleet, he backed out. The anti-comintern pact was to have rallied all capitalist Europe against the U.S.S.R., with the Fuehrer and Il Duce as saviours of the world from Communism; but what actually happened was that when all capitalist Europe, with Japan in the bargain, realized that the red army held the military balance they all sought an alliance with Russia.

"Stalin just pushed them out of the way and took what he wanted of Poland. . . . Herr Hitler seeing that the anti-comintern pact had gone 'phut' quickly decided to claim Stalin as an ally and share the spoils with him.

"When we and the French attacked Hitler on his Western front . . . and it was his business to raid London with his famous air force, he too recoiled from starting that ruinous game.

"What Mr. Chamberlain has to declare now is whether he is going to bomb Berlin or not. If he does the consequences will go far beyond our maddest intentions and be different from anything either we or Herr Hitler contemplate. If not, the sooner we stop the war and arrange for tabling of our respective grievances and those of the little states we have destroyed, the better. . . ."

War on Shipping in Britain's Favor

LONDON, Oct. 11 (CP)—Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, today declared the balance was now in Britain's favor in the war on merchant shipping.

"From Sept. 24 to Oct. 9 we have lost by U-boat action 5809 tons and we have taken from the enemy 13,615 tons. Leaving a balance in our favor of 7806 tons," Mr. Churchill said.

There have been no British losses since Oct. 9, Mr. Churchill said, so the figures actually cover 16 days. During this period 50,000 tons of new merchant ships prepared before the war for such an emergency have entered trade so "we are 58,000 tons better off."

rthwest Pacific Pulp Industry right as Netherland Supply Cut Off

TTLE, Oct. 11 (AP).—Along the generally brighter hues in umber picture through the d States Pacific Northwest, the outlook appeared particularly today as the European war cut nportant sources of supplies e Eastern United States.

e trade circles saw indications r may also result in improved ss for Canadian pulp mills.

eady rushed to capacity in re- months—on mill has been run- 24 hours a day since mid-Sep- r a year ago—two more North mills have reopened in the 30 days at Empire, Ore., and rtes, Wash., and work reno- a Tacoma, Wash., mill has under way.

andful of "nibbling" purchases apan also adds a rosy color e scene, although leaders are to point out Japan probably ot the capital now to reenter market on the large scale of al years ago.

ders are hesitant to call the gs a "war boom." Despite the mber San Francisco stock mar- urge, which sent quoted values lp and paper stocks in this up an estimated $40,000,000; ay the upturn has been under ome time.

other words, buyers foresaw le-up of shipments from Sweden, Finland and Norway (in that order of importance) if war should break out and began turning to Pacific Northwest outlets. The three countries in 1938 provided 18.86 per cent of United States pulp needs.

The Pacific Pulp and Paper Industry, leading trade publication, says:

"If the dangers of mine and submarine-infested waters keep the Scandinavian countries almost entirely out of the United States pulp market, the converting mills will be wholly dependent upon domestic and Canadian sources of wood pulp."

H. E. Waterbury, District Manager of the Department of Commerce at Portland, said Sweden's recent suspension of shipments of wood pulp, timber and cellulose, if effective over an extended period, might also send foreign countries to the Pacific Northwest market.

He mentioned specifically Great Britain, France, Japan and Italy as possible new newsprint buyers and said Denmark, Holland, South Africa, and Belgium might also supplant their Swedish lumber sources with purchases in the Northwest.

The U. S. paper and newsprint business, however, other leaders point out appears now to be not so directly affected by the war, as Canada still remains as a little-affected source of supply.

This is the third boost in permissible output quotas since the start of the war. The previous jump, announced Sept. 16, placed the third quarter allowable at 100 per cent Earlier in that month it had been lifted to 80 per cent from 60 per cent of standard tonnages.

Supreme Court Holds Judgment B. C. Oil Appeal

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada today reserved judgment on the appeal by British Columbia oil companies which seek to have the Province's Coal and Petroleum Act, 1937, under which the Province has taken power to fix gasoline prices, declared ultra vires.

The appeal is from a decision of the British Columbia Court of Appeal which upheld the legislation, and declaring enforceable the order of a Board set up under it to reduce the price of gasoline several cents a gallon.

The appellants contended the act should be declared ultra vires as being an infringement of the Dominion Government's power under a section of the British North America Act dealing with trade and commerce.

The oil companies also attacked the act on the ground the Province seeks to regulate an inter-provincial and international trade. During the hearing in the Supreme Court, the Dominion Government intervened to support the companies' application for a declaration of the act's unconstitutionality.

The Supreme Court reserved its judgment after Attorney-General Gordon Wismer of British Columbia concluded his argument in support of the act. Senator J. W. deB. Farris represented the oil companies.

Toronto Firm

TORONTO, Oct. 11 (CP)— The stock market displayed a sold out appearance in today's operations, with prices firming on light offerings.

Wright-Hargreaves gold gained 25 to 7.70.

Western oils, including Anglo-Canadian, Home, Okalta, Calgary-Edmonton, Extension and Highwood Sarcee closed 1 to 3 cents higher.

No Fixed Prices for Certain Commodities

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (CP). — The Wartime Prices and Trade Board has not considered fixing the prices of particular commodities, it was said today at the board's office.

The board, under the chairmanship of Hector B. McKinnon, is in almost constant daily session, on general problems. Complaints of profiteering are being dealt with individually under powers given the Board under the War Emergency Measures Act. There have been several prosecutions for food hoarding.

A reliable source today said the Government probably will appoint a fuel administrator to be an officer of the Trade Board.

The Dominion Fuel Board, which has been operating here for many years, would work in close co-operation with the fuel administrator.

U. S. Steel Prices Remain Fairly Steady in War

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP).—Consideration of the steel industry's position in the United States in event of an armistice abroad has led to the belief no drastic decline in operations will occur, "Iron Age" said today in its weekly survey.

"There would undoubtedly be cancellations or suspensions of some tonnage now on the books," the magazine said, but "had there been no war, operations this Fall would probably have risen to at least 70 to 75 per cent. Moreover, there has been no strictly war business, though some of the current business has been inspired by fear of shortages or higher prices caused by war."

"Opinion in the trade is that (price) advances will be moderate, possibly not more than $2 or $3 a ton."

The "Iron Age" scrap composite price flattened out a little at $22.08 off 42 cents a ton.

Aviation Stocks Up at Montreal

Among issues to firm slightly were Hudson Bay, B. C. Power, Shawinigan and Bathurst.

Stocks under water included Algoma Steel, Canada Cement, Smelters and International Pete.

Heavy Corn Crop Surplus in U.S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP). — Confronted by one of the largest supplies of corn in many years, United States farm officials said today that farmers may be asked to make a substantial reduction in planting operations next year.

On the basis of the Agriculture Department's October crop report, the supply of corn for this season totals about 3,078,000,000 bushels. Included is a record carryover of 546,052,000 bushels of old corn and 2,532,000,000 bushels of this year's grain.

This supply is about 48,000,000 bushels above the marketing quota level established a month ago by Agriculture Secretary Henry Wallace.

U.A.W. Give Notice of Chrysler Strike

DETROIT, Oct. 11 (AP) — The United Auto Workers, Congress of Industrial Organizations affiliate, announced today it had filed notice of intent to strike at all plants of the Chrysler Corporation in Michigan as a result of a dispute over production speed.

Under Michigan law five days notice of intent to strike must be given. The effect of the announced action is to make a strike legal if the union should decide to stage one after the expiration of five days.

When the union made its announcement at noon today approximately 24,000 Chrysler employes already were idle either directly or indirectly because of the dispute over production speed. By nightfall it appeared likely that 35,000 would be affected.

EXPECT 300,000 FARMERS TO TAKE LOSS INSURANCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP).—The United States crop insurance corporation forecast today that more than 300,000 wheat farmers would take out policies protecting them against losses on next year's crop. Those protected this year totalled about 170,000.

Officials reported that on Oct. 5 more than 272,000 farmers had paid premiums on 1940 policies. These premium payments, made in wheat or its cash equivalent, amounted to 9,902,000 bushels of grain.

These farmers, officials said, were assured a production of 70,640,694 bushels. In the event of losses due to weather, insect or other causes than neglect, these producers would receive indemnities from the insurance corporation.

THANKSGIVING DEMAND BRINGS ACTIVITY TO WHOLESALE MARKET

World Exchanges

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP).—Dealings in world currencies were kept to a minimum today. Sterling lost ¼ cent to $4.03⅛ and the French franc .00⅛ to 2.28⅛. The belga and guilder were also down slightly, but the Swiss franc held unchanged. The Canadian dollar held at a discount of 10⅛ per cent.

Slow Session On Wall St. Exchange

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—With Aircrafts in the lead, some selected shares worked higher in today's stock market, in which prices changes were generally narrow.

The opening was quiet and business was never very active. With a turnover approximating 550,000 shares it was the slowest session since the "war boom" started more than a month ago.

Imminence of tomorrow's holiday and Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech in the British House of Commons in which he is expected to lay down Britain's peace demands, checked any tendency for traders to get out on a limb.

Stocks higher most of the time included Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, General Electric, Du Pont, Union Carbide, American Telephone, Western Union, Phelps Dodge, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Texas Corp., and Lee Rubber.

Unchanged or narrow were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Kennecott, American Smelting, Santa Fe, Sears Roebuck and Goodyear.

Motor Products slipped more than 2 points at one time.

New reports of rail equipment buying continued to pile in. The Northern Pacific, it was reported, booked 35,000 tons of steel rail, and called for bids on 1800 new freight cars.

U. S. treasury loans led a comeback in the bond market, where issue of some of the Baltic countries, however, took falls. Commodities were mixed.

Chicago Wheat Slightly Higher

CHICAGO, Oct. 11 (AP).—Buying credited to milling interests in the Canadian and domestic grain markets helped to bolster wheat prices today. Wheat here erased early losses of about a cent and closed slightly higher than yesterday.

Wheat closed ¼—⅜ cent higher than yesterday, December 83⅝—⅞, May 83—83⅛; corn ⅛—⅜ lower, December 50⅝—¼, May 52⅝—¾; oats ⅛—⅛ higher.

Flour Situation Eased; Egg Scarcity Relieved

Thanksgiving weekend with its demand for the festive board, brought a slight burst of activity to Nelson wholesalers in the past week, but otherwise conditions were about normal—prices steady, demand fair, and conditions little varied.

FLOUR CONDITION EASY

Flour situation was considerably eased with the complete stocking of one wholesale house. Difficulty was still being experienced, however, in getting flour from Calgary millers, not because of shortage or price change, but because of the heavy demand for shipments. Flour prices were unchanged. Milling products as a whole were steady and meeting a normal demand.

PRICES STEADY

While an egg scarcity still prevailed, the condition was considerably relieved by a mounting supply. The supply however was still not enough to meet demand, but still no price changes resulted.

Commodity prices were unchanged, except for a slight decline in the hog market that reflected itself in the price of pork.

Fresh lettuce and radishes were included in imports from United States by vegetable wholesalers. Prices on these were described as "good."

Four carlot imports only were reported. These included a car of corn, a car of groceries, a car of mixed fruit and vegetables and a car of tins.

Half of Furs Sold Hudson's Bay Sale

LONDON, Oct. 11 (CP)— More than half of the pelts on offer at the Hudson's Bay Company's fur auction sale now in progress here have been sold, company officials announced today. The sale has still three days to run.

Musquash pelts have all been taken at a price increase of 30 per cent to head the active list. About 47 per cent of the Beaver have been sold at an advance of 10 per cent.

Only 40 per cent of the cross fox furs are left, with those now sold reporting an increase of 7½ per cent 69 per cent of the red fox offered have found buyers at a price advance of 10 per cent, and all but five per cent of the white fox pelts have been bought at prices 25 per cent over the previous sale's level.

Prices are not available until the sale is concluded.

Alberta Sugar Price Remains Unchanged

EDMONTON, Oct. 11 (CP). — Sugar prices remained unchanged in Alberta retail stores today and the Alberta price spreads board, meeting in Calgary, is expected to hear protests against an order of the board that sugar prices revert to the Sept. 1 basis.

The order of the board was slated to become effective today. On Sept. 1. the retail sugar price was $6.70 per 100 pounds. Since then the price has advanced 50 cents per 100 pounds.

Calgary Listless

CALGARY, Oct. 11 (CP)—Trading was listless on Calgary stock exchange today. Only 13,515 shares traded.

Home up 5 to 2.80 and share royalties up ¼ at 4 were the only bright spots.

Most other stocks remained unchanged or showed fractional declines.

U.S. Govts. Gain

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP). — United States Government bonds showed gains ranging to 20-32nds of a point.

Small gains and losses were intermingled in industrial, rail and utility lists.

Canada 4s tilted a shade higher. Argentine 4s were lower in the foreign dollar sector.

CANBERRA (CP) — Summer fruit for Australians in the dead of the antipodean winter is being provided by shipments of oranges, lemons and other citrous fruit from California.

Up and ... Over!

But not over the top yet. This fine action picture was taken at the Trail Motorcycle Club's annual hill climb in East Trail, and pictures Palmer Rutledge almost over the top. He won his class in the annual climb. Rutledge is a veteran rider. Note how the photographer has almost "stopped" the spinning back wheel, as Rutledge fights to reach the top.

Pupils Challenge Teachers Soccer This Afternoon

The teachers may be able to exhibit their authority to good advantage in the class rooms, but today it's going to end right there as far as Junior High and Senior High students are concerned.

The pupils have challenged the teachers of all the City to a soccer game to be played on the Junior High grounds this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The "hickory sticks" will be left at school, but nevertheless the teachers will be out to win the game for they can't help but think about what would happen to their prestige if the students should humble them. So they will trot out Robert (Pop) Smillie, dean of teachers, with instructions to "call them as you see them, but, — ahem — there can be limitations."

LINEUPS:

The teachers' lineup will be chosen from D. G. Chamberlain, Jack Fleury, Derek Tye, J. A. Quayle, A. E. Cobus, Floyd Irwin, P. C. Richards, E. Evans, R. Temple, Gerald Lee, Monte Morley, W. H. Elmes and M. J. Latornell.

The students' eleven will be comprised of Ted Elliott, Ritchie Smith, Bob Noakes, John Barwis, Bruce Fraser, Bill Armstrong, Ernest Wilson, Jim Carr, Walter Uchaacz, Bob Morrow and Alcid Desireau.

Hiring of Bulldozer to L'Ecluse Approved by Rossland Council

ROSSLAND, BC., Oct. 11—Robert L'Ecluse was given permission by the Rossland City Council Tuesday to hire the City bulldozer to cut a roadway from the Columbia-Kootenay Road up to his barn. A rental of $5 per hour was set.

Mr. L'Ecluse's request caused considerable controversy, as a motion recently had been passed by the council prohibiting the hiring of this equipment, but Ald. P. J. Gallie, Chairman of the Works Committee, pointed out that this would be road work within the city limits, and could therefore be listed under the Works department.

Inside & Out!

OF NELSON HIGH SCHOOL

By JOHN HOLLAND

By JOHN HOLLAND

Since students of this respected and beloved institution of relatively higher education have had over a month to get used the routine of more or less genuine studying, it is about time a few of the curious "outsiders" were informed as to the nature of the various activities to which we lend our support. As you probably have already realized, the same person is again showing off the alleged literary ability that was responsible for last year's weekly outbursts.

We really have something to talk about this time too, as there have been several changes made during the Summer, the most publicized of which is the new addition on the "South end" of the school. This consists of two "ultra-modern" classrooms, a medical room, and two shower rooms. The many features of this addition are too numerous to be described here, but they form a very definite contrast to the old building. Needless to say, the two best classes in the school were granted the privilege of using these rooms, and just as naturally this reporter is in one of them!

In previous columns I have gone to great lengths and borrowed much of Gordon Smith's green ink to describe our Student Government. However, for the benefit of those Grade 10's who were unable to read this column because of their extreme infancy last year, I will once more outline this unique system.

THE CABINET

To begin with, we have a Prime Minister, one Alan Emmott. He is at the head of five Cabinet Ministers—Peggy Dunnett, Helen Alexander, Stuart MacIntosh, Robert Fraser and John Holland. These students, with the exception of the last, are responsible and deserve most of the credit for all student activities in the school. There are also 14 other student parliament members, presided over by a speaker, Gordon Allan. All school business is handled by this body and each cabinet minister is responsible for several of the student activities.

In order that you may become better acquainted with the "upper class" of the school I will explain the activities of the various cabinet ministers.

Stuart MacIntosh is one of the most active of these. He is the Minister of Athletics, and together with Miss Campbell, Mr. Tye and Mr. Temple, has been instrumental in organizing interhouse sports. As a result of the work of this committee the athletic program is far more extensive than ever before. These three are also the excutive body of the school athletic committee.

Bob Fraser comes in for a lot of credit too; he has the much envied position of Minister of Finance. In other words, he handles the cash. In spite of the fact that Bob is usually out hunting gophers or elephants or something, he can tell us at any time just how much our bank account is overdrawn, or whether we have enough money to allow the cabinet to have a banquet.

Then there is me, Minister of Clubs and Internal Affairs. I specialize in making myself a nuisance wherever there is a chance to get a little more glory. My official job is to receive all complaints or requests for money, and tell the cabinet about them. I also attend an occasional Publications Committee meeting.

RECORDS AND ENTERTAINMENT

Helen Alexander is our Secretary. Actually she is Minister of Records, but her chief duties are to keep the cabinets' backs straight and attend to the job of organising the school history into book form.

Peggy Dunnett is responsible for most of the lighter side of school entertainment. She is Minister of Social Affairs and will prove her ability by supervising the dance to be held in honor of the Grade 10's this Friday.

You know, there is something vastly different in the old school this year. First of all, several of the "Big Noises" have graduated, and secondly we have omitted the customary initiation of new students. This fact should make them appreciate the evident kind heartedness of their superiors and instill in them an even stronger love of their new source of enlightenment. Speaking of newcomers, I must not forget to welcome our new teachers. They are Mr. Temple, boys' P.T.; Mr. Fleury, Guidance Teacher; and Miss Carrie, Girls' P. T.

Before I close, I must add my usual touch of commercial announcing and remind you that it is about time you boys gave the girl friend a school pin. There are only forty of these pins left, honestly, so don't delay, and remember the Grade 10 dance.

HOUSE "A" SWEEPS SCHOOL SPORTS

It was a day of great rejoicing in House A Wednesday after the boys had trimmed House D 1-0 in soccer and the girls had taken another free-hitting decision 19-15 from House C in a softball game.

The games, played at the Junior High Ground, count in the High School inter-house sports series.
