BELIEVE RECORD SET IN VOTING AT PLEBISCITE

"Let Us Act Now" Is Suggestion by Hanson

PREMIER AWAITS FINAL RETURNS

By The Canadian Press

Canadian citizens are believed to have set a new high record for voting at Monday's manpower plebiscite which recorded close to a two to one majority for releasing the Government from anti-conscription pledges.

Jules Castonguay, chief plebiscite officer, said the total vote is likely to exceed the previous high record of 4,606,423 at the 1940 general election.

At 9 p.m. P.D.T. the Canadian Press compilation showed a total yes vote of 2,640,308 and a total no vote of 1,510,281. With the total vote then cast of 4,150,589, there were still 1,549 polls not reported, most of them believed small.

FINAL MAY 5

The final count will not be known until May 5 when Mr. Castonguay will announce the result of the "service vote" taken among the men and women serving with Canada's naval, military and air forces at home and overseas. That vote is expected to be heavy as voting in the service establishments was carried on over a period of several days and practically every one of the more than 450,000 in the armed forces had a chance to mark a ballot.

The day after the plebiscite brought no immediate statement of the Government's intentions relating to a widening of the compulsory military service system.

"There are no fetters on the Prime Minister or his Government. Let us act now," said Conservative Leader Hanson in the House of Commons.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King suggested discussion on the plebiscite be postponed until official returns are complete.

Tabulation of late returns which trickled in yesterday brought no change in the general trend of the voting which was "yes" by a substantial margin in eight provinces and "no" by a smaller margin in Quebec. No single constituency changed its majority from "yes" to "know" or from "no" to "yes".

ONTARIO'S "YES" BEST

Ontario was the best "yes" province with 84 per cent of the votes cast on the affirmative side but Prince Edward Island was not far behind with 83 per cent. Manitoba voters were 81 per cent in favor of releasing the Government from its pledges against conscription for overseas service, British Columbia, 81 per cent; Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, 80 per cent; Saskatchewan 73 per cent; Alberta, 72 per cent and Quebec voters only 28 per cent.

The negative votes in Quebec were 72 per cent of the total cast in that Province. Thus the "no" vote in the one dissenting province was small in proportion to the total than was the "yes" vote in seven other provinces.

AMERICAN SUPPLIES FLOW INTO AFRICA

The long arm of American production reaches out to East Africa, to what once was a part of Italy's East African empire, and dumps cargo after cargo of vital supplies for the United Nations at the great supply base established there. Trucks are uncrated as soon as unloaded and after assembly by American mechanics are rushed to where the need for them is greatest.

RALSTON BACKS MEN WHO BUILT UP DEPARTMENT

Objects to Reports "Brass Hats" Are Highly Paid

ASK HIGHER PAY FOR DEPENDENTS

OTTAWA, April 28 (CP)—Defence Minister Ralston in the House of Commons tonight defended professional soldiers and former members of the Militia who made possible development of his department since the war started.

He spoke after J. Francis Poulliot (Lib. Temiscouata) had said he objected to the idea that men under the National Defence Minister should be considered "perfect" and that "brass hats" were being paid large salaries.

Col. Ralston said it ill-became any member to stand in the House and make such statements concerning men who had given Canada loyal service.

May of the men in the department were not professional soldiers but had given up other pursuits to assist in the war effort. He said some were professional soldiers—"and thank heaven they are."

Col. Ralston declared that professional soldiers had not been treated very well by Canada and for years the National Defence Department had been "pretty nearly starved."

But the men in the defence services had carried on and they had laid foundations for the expansion of the Department from 10,000 men in 1939 to about 300,000 today and had handled total enlistments of about 425,000.

He said the highest salary was that of Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canadian Army Commander Overseas, at $14,000 without allowances.

Col. Ralston said no men would be taken out of the armed forces for munition work "if I can help it," because the Army had use for all the skilled workers who enlisted.

The House was in Committee on the War Appropriation Bill.

Earlier, Opposition members, mostly Conservative and C. C. F. urged that there be upward revision of payments to dependents of men in the armed forces, with cost-of-living bonuses to bring their income more into line with that of civilian workers.

Col. Ralston replied that pay and allowances of Canadian soldiers now are at least as high as, and probably higher than, those in other armies, with the possible exception of the Australian.

Col. Ralston was asked how many had left the forces to go into munition work.

Some 35 per cent of those in the Army had to be skilled tradesmen the Minister said, and all of that type in the Army were needed.

Tests of Canadian-made tanks had been gratifying, Col. Ralston said at another stage of the Committee discussion. He said he had heard of no substantial numbers having failed to pass proving ground tests.

T. L. Church (Con. Toronto-Broadview) said the country was "much alarmed" over the state of Canada's defences and wondered what there was to meet an enemy. He said the third German Spring offensive would be launched soon and "it may come in Canada—no one can tell.

John Diefenbaker (Con. Lake Centre) said the Plebiscite brought to the forefront the mobilization of manpower and, in view of the overwhelming vote, the House should be informed of Army mobilization facts.

Several Hundred Thousand U.S. Troops Abroad

WASHINGTON April 28 (AP)—In an interpolation in his prepared speech tonight, President Roosevelt disclosed that "several hundred thousand" of American army and navy men have moved to bases and battlefronts abroad.

Since the Pearl Harbor attack nearly five months ago, the President sid, "we have dispatched strong forces of our army and navy — several hundred thousands of them—to bases and battlefronts thousands of miles from home."

Japs Claim All Important Bases Fall, New Guinea

TOKYO, April 28 (AP)—Imperial headquarters claimed today that Japanese naval forces had occupied all strategical bases in the Molucca islands and along the Northern shore of the Western, or Netherlands part of New Guinea.

This campaign, a communique said was begun March 31 and completed April 19. The Moluccas are due North of Australia and West of New Guinea. Bases in this area might be used for attacks on Australia's North coast.

Newspapers claimed the following places had been seized:

The airdrome in the island of Ceram, the airdrome at Serui on Japan Island, an airdrome on the large island of Halmahera, and the nearby small island of Ternate Manokwari, Sarmi and Hollandia, in the Northern New Guinea coast.

Rostock Fires Seen by Planes 250 Miles Away

LONDON, April 29 (Wednesday) (CP)—Passengers on a plane which flew from England to Sweden said on their arrival in Stockholm that the red glow from the burning Nazi port of Rostock was "plainly visible while skirting the Kattegat 250 miles away," the News Chronicle reported today.

The Kattegat is the body of water between Denmark and Sweden.

"The sky was lighted with a flickering red glow, perfectly distinguishable from our altitude above sea level," the Stockholm correspondent quoted one passenger. "It reminded me of the burning of the London docks in 1940 which I saw from a South Coast hilltop and which the Germans claimed was visible in Cherbourg."

The Stockholm correspondent of the ally Express reported that firefighters were still at work in Rostock Tuesday and that "flames were still leaping hundreds of feet from the Heinkel and Neptune works and looters were being hunted in the ruins of the almost deserted city."

Old Age, Mothers' Pensions to Get Increase Friday

VICTORIA, April 28 (CP)—April checks for Old-Age and Mothers' pensioners, each with $5 and $2.50 increases respectively, are ready for mailing and will reach the pensioners Friday of this week.

"Every recipient of a Mothers' pension will receive the $2.50 increase and starting May 1 we will review all cases with a view to giving $5 a month, where it is needed," an official of the Provincial Secretary's Department said today.

Four Nazi Planes Shot Down

LONDON, April 29 (Wednesday) (AP.)—Four German planes were shot down over Britain during the night, it was authoritatively stated today.

BERLINERS WORRIED

BERNE, April 28 (AP)—Berlin street cars and subway trains were buzzing with talk about the nightly R.A.F. attacks on German cities and the "man in the street is fully awake to the serious effec's of these bombs," the Berlin correspondent of the Basel National Zeitung reported tonight.

Warns Vichy Not To Let Axis Use French Territory

Australia, New Zealand to Be Bases for Offensive; to Continue Arming China; U.S. Fliers Soon to Fight in Europe

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 28 (CP)—Declaring that the price of retaining civilization "must be paid in hard work and sorrow and blood," President Roosevelt said tonight the Japanese Southward drive apparently has been checked. Australia, New Zealand and adjacent islands now are to become "bases for offensive action."

In a fireside address to the country, delivered from the White House, Mr. Roosevelt also warned the Vichy Government that the United Nations would take any action necessary to prevent the use of French territory by Axis forces. He guaranteed a continuation of the delivery of arms to China, regardless of Japanese successes in Burma.

Bluntly, he informed the civilian population of the United States that its every member would feel the effect of his newly announced program for stabilizing the cost of living, and called upon it for self-denial and sacrifice in the interest of victory.

"Never in the memory of man," he said, "has there been a war in which the courage endurance and the loyalty of civilians played so vital a part."

ATTACKS TRAITORS

He vigorously attacked all those who might be "impeding" the war effort: the "faint of heart," those "who put their own selfish interests first," those "who pervert honest criticism into falsification of fact"; the "self styled experts . . . who know neither the true figures nor geography;" a few "bogus patriots", who, invoking freedom of the press "echo the sentiments" of "Axis propagandists" and "above all," the "handful of noisy traitors . . . would be dictators" who "in their hearts and souls would yield to Hitlerism.

Urging the American people to tighten their belts and to accept gladly the social and economic burdens of total war, the President hinted that air detachments of the United States Army soon will b efighting in Europe.

"Our planes," he said, "are helping in the defence of French colonies today and soon American flying fortresses will be fighting for the liberation of the darkened continent of Europe."

SEES AXIS FEAR

In a speech devoted chiefly to the domestic scene and particularly to Price Control regulations announced yesterday and today, the President said there is a growing conviction among the German and Italian people "that the cause of Nazism and Fascism is hopeless—that their political and military leaders have led them along the bitter goad which leads not to world conquest but to final defeat.

"They cannot fail to contrast the present frantic speeches of these leaders with their arrogant boastings of a year ago and two years ago."

The President said "We are now concerned lest those who have recently come to power (in Vichy) may seek to force the brave French people to submission to Nazi despotism.

"The United Nations will take measures, if necessary, to prevent the use of French territory in any part of the world for military purposes by the Axis powers.

"The good people of France will readily understand that such action is essential for the United Nations to prevent the assistance to the armies or navies or air forces of Germany, Italy and Japan.

"The overwhelming majority of the French people understand that the fight of the United Nations is fundamentally their fight, that our victory means the restoraion of a free and independent France and the saving of France from the slavery which would be imposed upon her by her external enemies and her internal traitors.

"We know how the French people really feel. We know that a deep-seated determination to obstruct every step in the Axis plan extends from Occupied France through Vichy France to the people of their colonies in every ocean and on every continent.

The President made only a passing reference to the Russian front but it was a reminder that the Russian forces "have destroyed and are destroying more armed power of our enemies—troops, planes, tanks and guns—than all the other United Nations put together."

Despite Japanese successes, he reported that Japanese losses had been heavy, in warships, transports, planes and men, and they "are feeling the affects of those losses."

"It is even reported," he said, "that somebody has dropped bombs on Tokyo and on other principal centres of Japanese war industries. If this be true, it is the first time in history that

LAST DESPERATE FIGHT WAGED BY BURMA TROOPS

Towns Burn, Roads Torn Up; Some Chinese Cut Off

BURMESE SPREAD TRAIL OF TERROR

By SPENCER MOOSA
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHUNGKING, China, April 28 (AP.)—The battle of Burma became tonight a desperate melee of demolition ,evacuation, last-stand defence and reckless counter-attack by trapped or menaced Chinese and British defenders, fighting in the first gales and showers of the approaching Monsoon to hold open the door to free China.

The British and Chinese armies shortened their twin line of tired infantrymen and shell-scarred tanks defending Mandalay while the Japanese armored spearheads from the Shan States advanced on Hsipaw and Lashio on the all-important Mandalay-Lashio Railway, 150-mile steel artery in the supply system to Chiang from the United Nations.

Maymyo, 40 miles East of Mandalay on the railroad, was evacuated by the Burma civil government, the Chinese were moving essential supplies from bombed, blazing Lashio, terminus of the true mountainous Burma Road to Kunming, China.

TEAR UP ROADS

While the roads ahead of the Japanese drive through the Shan States toward the railroad, were being torn up by the Chinese, three groups of Chinese troops on this Eastern front, cut off from the main armies under Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwel on the Mandalaya plains to the West struck out valiantly to annihilate a Japanese battalion at Taunggyi.

Stilwell, himself with range of Japanese guns for nearly a week, hurried to the rear in the middle of a Japanese air raid to confer with Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, the British commander.

Fires from Buddhist temples and rice warehouses dotted the Mandalay plains, as dihe Burmese "bad hats" were spreading their work of terror in advance of the invader. An English chaplain was hacked nearly to death while changing an auto tire near Shwebo and an English captain was attacked in a bazaar.

The Chinese and British had limited air support available from the Royal Air Force and the American Volunteer Group in an attack by 47 Japanese raiders on the North Burma A.V.G. base, the Tigers destroyed 11 Japanese fighters and lost not a plane.

The Japanese maintained general air superiority for the protection of the 7000 mechanized troops who are making the all-out assault on the East and for the rest of the 100,000 invaders in Burma. The invader's planes swarmed over Mandalay and all the Allied supply routes.

Bomber Destroyed, Five Damaged Over Malta

VALETTA, Malta, April 28 (CP)—One Axis bomber was destroyed and five bombers and one fighter were damaged over Malta today by R.A.F. fighters and British ground batteries.

A communique said a chapel housing evacuees was destroyed that a church whose dome was visible at a great distance has been damaged severely, a small chapel in Valetta hit and a hospital previously damaged bombed again.

RUSS RECAPTURE RAILWAY TOWN; OUTFLANK NAZIS

Break Through Nazi Lines Admitted by Berlin

BOTH SIDES PUSH WAR IN THE AIR

LONDON, April 28 (CP)—The Russians reported today they had recaptured Borok, railway town on the West side of Lake Ilmen, outflanking German positions both to the North and South of that section of the Northwestern front.

The entire Lake Ilmen region apparently now is in Russian hands except for Staraya Russa, directly to the South, where a dwindling German army has been reported trapped for months past, and Novgorod on the North.

The Berlin radio admitted tonight that a heavy Russian attack, supported by armored trains and tanks, had broken the German lines at one point Northeast of Orel, some 200 miles South of Moscow. The announcer claimed the "situation later was restored."

A roundabout report from Bucharest, which Reuters heard the Vichy News Agency broadcasting, said violent fighting was in progress for Kursk, 280 miles South of Moscow.

Kursk is being outflanked to the North, the Vichy report said. The Russians also were said to be attacking near Byelgorod in an attempt to bypass Kursk from the South. Other fighting was reported around Izyam, 80 miles South-east of Kharkov in the Ukraine.

PUSH OIL DEFENCES

Russian troop concentrations were reported in the Taganrog area on the Sea of Azov and the Red Army was said to be building strong defences against an expected German offensive aimed at the oil riches of the Caucasus.

All roads between the Sea of Azov and the Donets Basin have hardened sufficiently for use, it was said, and the German air force has stepped up its bombings of Soviet communication and rear positions in that section.

New squadrons of Russian fighters were reported moved to that front and anti-aircraft defences have been strengthened.

On the Northern front, the Finns acknowledged the Russians were exerting extremel heavy pressure in the Louhi sectbr of the Karelian Isthmus above Leningrad. The Finns have German support in that area.

At the same time, the Finnish trade unions published a May-Day manifesto expressing hope for an early peace.

Tea and Coffee to Require Export Permit After 29th

OTTAWA, April 28 (CP)—The Department of Trade and Commerce announced today that on and after April 29 tea and coffee will require an export permit before being exported to any country.

Tea was previously under export control, but was exempted from requiring an export permit when it was shipped to any part of the British empire or to the U. S. This exemption now is cancelled and tea requires an export permit to any destination.

Business Section in Ontario Town Wiped Out by Fire

KINMOUNT, Ont., April 28 (CP)—Fire fanned by a Southwest wind late today wiped out the entire business section of this Victoria county village and caused damaged tentatively estimated at $100,000.

The fire which started when a truck in the Austin Sawmill Co. caught fire, burned thousands of feet of lumber in the millyard besides destroying 17 buildings in the village.

Disclosure U.S. Men, Ships in Middle East Attracts London

LONDON, April 29 (Wednesday) (CP)—President Roosevelt's disclosure that United States warships and troops now are in the Middle East area attracted the attention of Britons today, but there was no immediate Official comment.

London newspapers, making over their late morning editions for his speech, emphasized the President's declaration that "American warships are in combat in . . . the Mediterranean."

U. S. Fixes Prices for Almost Everything Eaten, Worn or Used

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—With one broad, inclusive order, the United States Office of Price Administration tonight fixed wartime maximum prices for "virtually everything Americans eat, wear and use" at the levels prevalent during the month of March.

After May 18, under "the general maximum price regulation," no retailer may charge more for an article than the highest price at which he sold it in March. The same restrictions will apply, after May 11, to manufacturers' and wholesalers' prices and, after July 11, to a long list of service establishments such as laundries, tailors, auto repair shops, radio repair men, etc.

Simultaneously, the price agency in effect froze rents in 302 centres of war effort or war production. Mostly, they were fixed at the rents paid on March 1, of this year. In 64 of the areas the stabilization was as of the rent paid on Jan. 1, April 1, or July 1, 1941.

TO HELP CANADA

WASHINGTON, April 28 (CP)—The United States launched a comprehensive price control system today which Donald Gordon, Chairman of the Canadian Wartime Prices and Trade Board, said definitely would help to curb inflation and reduce the cost of living in Canada.

He said the determined drive to halt swiftly mounting living costs in the United States should ease the economic pressure on Canada, and, in particular, should reduce the amount of subsidies paid to Canadian producers as a result of the increased cost of imported materials.

Price Control Is Gallantyne Theme at Kinsmen Club

How the regulations of the War-time Prices and Trade Board were being gaggled, and how they affected the life of every merchant and consumer, formed the theme of an address Tuesday night by J. A. Gallantyne, Nelson representative of the Board, to the Kinsmen Club. He answered many questions asked by his listeners. Dr. T. H. Bourque, president, was in the chair.

Following the meeting members sang into a rehearsal of songs, directed by C. C. Halleran, for their coming show.

About 8000 Rebel Burmese Aid Japs

By DANIEL DELUCE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE BRITISH-CHINESE FORCES IN BURMA, April 14 (delayed)— Possibly 8000 rebellious Burmese are fighting openly in the Japanese ranks in Burma, helping an invader who already holds a big edge in manpower over the Allied defenders, and untold others are fighting surreptitiously in the defender's midst.

The Burmese soldiers fighting for Japan and the hidden spies and saboteurs behind the lines are the products of some Burmese anti-British sentiment and the Japanese willy use of propaganda.

Since the retreat began from Rangoon, British forces have found Japanese-officered Burmese among their foe. These natives sometimes have fought recklessly, egged on by belief that tattoo charms, amulets and magic oath water assured them immunity from bullets.

HUNS TO KILL FIVE FRENCH FOR DEATH OF SOLDIER

VICHY, April 28 (AP)—German authorities have ordered the execution by a firing squad of five hostages and additional reprisals against the city of Rouen after the shooting of a German soldier last Friday, it was disclosed today.

Another 15 will be executed and 500 deported to Eastern Europe if two cyclists responsible for the shooting are not delivered by May 5, the German army officials threatened.

In addition, the use of bicycles in Rouen was prohibited because the attack was made by cyclists. Bicycles are the chief means of transportation.

The Germans also imposed a curfew from 9 p. m. to 6 a. m.

Mrs. Kennedy, Murray Are Winners at C.C.F. Club Whist

Mrs. T. Kennedy won ladies' first and John Murray men's first at a C. C. F. Club whist drive at the Eagle Hall Tuesday night. Their scores were 51 and 47 respectively.

Consolations were awarded to Mrs. T. Dodman and Pte. D. Laurie.

John Riddock, master of ceremonies, was assisted by P. S. Beatt and A. D. Papazian. Ladies in charge of refreshments were Mrs. T. Crosbie, Mrs. P. S. Beatt, Mrs. E. Casemore and Mrs. John Riddock.

West Kootenay Boards Meet in Nelson Tonight

Proposal to form a Province-wide association of Boards of Trade, and the benefits it is hoped to achieve, will be placed before West Kootenay Boards at a joint dinner meeting in Nelson tonight.

Preliminary organization of the Provincial body is already under way. C. E. Anstie of Vancouver, President, and W. E. Payne, Executive Secretary of the Vancouver Board of Trade, will attend the dinner to discuss what has been done so far and to obtain the views of West Kootenay Boards. W. A. Curran of Trail is a member of the Provincial executive.

A similar meeting will be held at Cranbrook to consult East Kootenay Boards.

Postpone U. S. Labor Legislation

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—Consideration of labor legislation was postponed indefinitely in the United States Senate today after Senator Tom Connally (Dem.-Tex.) withdrew a motion to bring up a war plant seizure bill, saying that he did not desire to press the matter and be in "apparent controversy with the President of the United States."

Asserting that Conpally's action "means the death of the Connally Bill and perhaps any other labor legislation," Senator Byrd (Dem.-Va.) sought unsuccessfully to obtain an agreement to delay consideration for a single day or for, at most, a week.

Ferry Bomber Is Missing

MONTREAL, April 28 (CP) — The Royal Air Force ferry command announced today that a Liberator bomber on delivery to the United Kingdom is missing with a crew of five.

Group Capt. Herbert Reginald Carefoot of the Royal Canadian Air Force was in charge of the big four-motored craft. He was listed as from Ottawa.

Portland Japs to Be Moved Out of City by Tuesday

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28 (AP)—Japanese today were ordered removed from the entire city of Portland by next Tuesday in the first order evacuating enemy aliens and American-Japanese from Oregon.

Portland will be the first major Pacific Cast city to be entirely cleared of persons of Japanese descent.

The two orders issued today by Lieut. General J. L. Dewitt, Commanding General of the Western Defence Command and the Fourth Army, provide for evacuating nearly 2000 Japanese from all of Multnomah County lying West of a line drawn through 122nd Avenue and extended from the Washington State border to the Clackamas County line. This includes all of Portland.

ROOSEVELT SPEECH

Japan has suffered such indignities."

He outlined his program for combatting inflation—heavy taxes, stabilization of wages and prices, billions invested in war bonds, rationing, a lessening of credit purchases and an increase of debt payments—and said the points of the program were inseparable.

TO AFFECT ALL

"The blunt fact is," he said, "that every single person in the United States is going to be affected by this program. Some of you will be affected more directly by one or two of these restrictive measures, but all of you will be indirectly affected by all of them."

Apparently cognizant of criticism which arose in numerous quarters against portions of his anti-inflation plan, Mr. Roosevelt declared firmly he would use all of the executive power at his command to carry out the policy he laid down.

"I know the American farmer, the American workman, the American businessman," he said. "I know that they will gladly embrace this economy of sacrifice—satisfied that it is necessary for the most vital and compelling motive in all their lives—winning through to victory."

Not all Americans can fight the enemy in distant segments of the world, he said. Not all can work in munitions factories or in shipyards or in other war industries.

"But there is one front and one battle," he went on, "where everyone in the United States—every man, every woman and child is in action, and will be privileged to remain in action throughout this war.

"That front is right here at home, . . . Here at home everyone will have the privilege of making whatever self denial is necessary, not only to supply our fighting men, but to keep the economic structure of our country ofrtified and secure during the war and after the war."

Ask the workers of France and Norway, whipped to their tasks by the lash, whether wage stabilization is too great a sacrifice in a struggle to save our free way of life, Mr. Roosevelt suggested.

Ask the women an children whom Hitler is starving, the President continued, whether the rationing of tire and gasoline and sugar is too much of a sacrifice.

Ask the farmers of Poland, Denmark, Czecho-Slovakia and France, starving while their crops are stolen, whether "parity" prices are too great a sacrifice, he demanded. Ask Europe's businessmen, whose enterprises have been stolen, whether limits on profits and incomes are too heavy.

"We do not have to ask them," he stated. "They have already given us their agonized answers.

Sunshine Valley Elects May Queen

GRAND FORKS, B. C., April 28—Shirley Johnson has been elected as May queen of Sunshine Valley for 1942, and will be crowned with due eclat with May Day festivities on Saturday, May 16. She is the 17th May Queen of Sunshine Valley and succeeds Gloria Clapp in this much-feted children's honor.

Her maids of honor, also chosen by the school, are Mary Allen, and Muriel Moore, with Douglas Little chief courtier and John Schwarz and Bruce Murray as pages.

The coronation is associated with the annual program of athletic sports when a number of silver trophies are offered for competition among the school students.

NEWS OF THE DAY

Associated Boards of Trade dinner, 6:15 tonight, Hume Hotel. All Board members urgently requested to be present.

One Armed Pilot Shoots Down First Enemy Plane

LONDON, April 28 (CP Cable)—Squdn.-Ldr. J. A. F. MacLachlan, the R. A. F.'s one-armed D.F.C.-and-bar fighter pilot, shot down his first enemy plane today since he was equipped with artificial arm specially devised for handling Hurricane controls.

MacLachlan's left arm was amputated above the elbow after he was wounded by a Messerschmitt cannon shell over Malta in March, 1941.

Prior to the amputation he had a mixed bag of 22 German and Italian aircraft.

Albert Albo of Pinchi Lake Dies; A Rossland Boy

ROSSLAND, B. C., April 28.—Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. J. Albo of the death of their son, Albert Albo, of Pinchi Lake.

Mr. Albo was well known in Rossland, having lived here practically all his life. He was about 38 years old. Joseph Albo of the High School staff is a brother.

Two other brothers, Jack Albo of Seattle, and Alfred Albo, owner of the Columbia Garage here, also survive him. Burial will be at Rossland.

Wynndel Flower Shipments Heavy

WYNNDEL, B.C.—More than 1000 dozen daffodils have been shipped during April from the W. J. Cooper ranch and tulips will be moving heavily next week. Three hundred and fifty dozen tulips have already been shipped and 100 dozen hyacintha all from the Cooper ranch.

Shipments of flowers from the Wynndel area will this year be about 15,000 dozen, about half of these from the Cooper ranch.

Other growers of flowers are the Joy, Ogilvie, Payne and Davis ranches.

This year Mr. Cooper will also ship approximately 10,000 peony blooms. He is also growing lilies, mostly Regale and Madonna varieties.

300,000 Attend 20 Stanley Cup Hockey Playoffs

MONTREAL, April 28 (CP) — Around 300,000 fans attended the 20 Stanley Cup playoff games that ended with Toronto Maple Leafs winning the coveted National Hockey League trophy.

During the N.H.L.'s regular 168-game schedule, total paid admissions amounted to 1,550,436 for an increase of 36,160 over the 1940-41 season. This made an average attendance during the regular season of 9276.

Five of the seven clubs in the league showed increases over the previous season. They were Montreal Canadiens, Brooklyn Americans, New York Rangers, Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks. Only Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs had smaller totals in the past season than in 1940-41. The Hawks, with their seating capacity of 16,321, the largest in the circuit, had the largest paid attendance of the seven clubs.

Tornado Death Toll May Be Well Over 100

PRYOR, Okla., April 28 (AP) — This Northeastern Oklahoma boom town, recovering tonight from the first shock of a devasting tornado, still dug bodies from the debris and turned to plans for rebuilding.

With 70 known dead and state safety commissioner Walter Johnson estimating the toll may reach 125 to 150, Mayor Thomas J. Harrison said plans were under way to rebuild the estimated $2,000,000 in damaged buildings.

W. N. Graham, 90, the state's oldest active banker, pledged his assistance in the city's rehabilitation. Graham's wife died just an hour before the tornado flattened most of the town's business district late yesterday.

From Washington came word that the Works Projects Administration had authorized $0,000 for relief in the stricken area.

Beet Molasses Will Be Available for Silage Purposes

VANCOUVER, April 28 (CP)—R. M. Ryan, director of the Feeds Administration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, announced today that a supply of beet molasses will be made available to British Columbia farmers for silage purposes.

Use of molasses for general livestock feeding purposes has been discontinued because of its scarcity. But a supply sufficient to meet requirements in the production of green grass and green legume silage is being arranged, Mr. Ryan said.

Rossland P.T.A.'s Fine Arts Display Is Great Success

ROSSLAND, B. C., April 28 — Highly successful was the display of fine arts held Friday and Saturday by the Parent Teacher Association in the Catholic Parish Hall here.

The display was divided into three main sections: school art work, local art and the arts, crafts and curios from foreign lands.

School are included paintings, drawings, leathercraft, pottery work, sewing, fancy work, and a variety of novelties. This display did credit to both the teachers and pupils.

Local art was composed of paintings, charcoal drawings, wood carving, cabinet work, inlaid work, crochetting, hooked rugs, afghans and prize winning photography. The talent displayed was outstanding.

The third section contained curios and works of art from practically all over the world.

One of the favorite displays was the Oriental—decorative Cloisonne, urns, cinnabar art, hand-carved and hand-chased solid brasswork, teak wood furniture, embroidered gold braid, vividly colored embroideries, on wall hangings, fans, and Chinese wedding dresses, Chinese K'ossu work, CAdesLadies,edxus-kwor work, a modern wedding gown, fashioned from material, several original paintings and hand carved genuine ivory ornaments. These were but a few of the exquisite exhibits in this section. An interesting table was that displaying Indian and Mexican work. The intricate hand-made tapestries, linens, and embroideries of the Scandinavian countries, were admired by everyone. Lovely hand-painted china and pottery were from England, Denmark, Germany, Italy France, China and Japan.

CURIOS INTRIGUE

Another popular corner was that devoted to curios. A Venetian boat hook used and made by a Gondolier in Venice, an ostrich egg laid nearly 50 years ago and a huge fishing float carried by the Japan current to the Queen Charlotte Islands.—hand carved brass from Persia, and beaten bark work Belgium and Irish handicrafts were included.

There was a marvellous collection of ancient, historical and unique jewelry. The wonderful collection of antiques, including an Egyptian relic inscribed with heiroglyphics showing it to be 4000 years old, a jeweled tea caddy, a variety of snuff boxes, hand made silver jugs, candlesticks, dating back to medievel times, period furniture, spinning wheel, paisley shawl, tulip design hand quilted bedspread, beadwork and embroid-

Friday was observed xx

Friday was reserved for the school children, who were admitted free.

Saturday afternoon a tea was held in connection with the display. Saturday evening the exhibit was again opened to the public by special request.

Mrs. arvey Fleury, the Associations Fine Arts Convener, was in charge of the exhibit, assisted by Mesdames R. Haggen, H. Hayne, E. McGauley, E. Jamieson, L. Reid, J. A. Thompson, B. Lees, R. Morin, R. Irwin and J. H. Beley, the Misses L. Johnson, E. McRae, and P. Stringer and H. Smith, E. Perkins and D. Roberts.

A whist drive was held Friday evening by the Sewing Circle.

Rossland Gold Lessees Must Cease Mining

VANCOU VER, April 28 (CP)—The Vancouver Sun said today the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company has notified all lessees of their many Rossland claims that they must cease mining ore from the properties within 30 days.

Leases were granted about 10 years ago to old employees of the Company, the paper said, primarily as a relief measure, but since that time it is estimated approximately $2,000,000 in gold has been recovered from surface workings and some of the old underground workings. Several hundred miners found work through the project.

The Sun said notices received by lessees from the Company's Trail offices said the action was being taken because of war conditions. Treatment of ores from the old Rossland camp was said to be hindering to a great extent production of more vital war materials.

Trail Rotarians Hear of Hashish

TRAIL, B. C., April 28—Fred H. Steele gave an enlightening address on the Marihuana drug to the Rotary Club Tuesday, stressing its dangerous effect.

Continued use of the drug caused mental deterioration, distortion of time, place, size and shape of objects, extreme stimulation of the sensations and imaginations, and often resulted in violent crimes being committed, he stated. The peculiar part of the action of the drug was that it does not affect coordination but speeds telegraphic communication between brain, eye-sight, and muscular reaction to almost abnormal extremes. It was particularly dangerous to drivers of cars because the illusion of time and space distorts the judgment of speed and distance.

One thing particularly interesting about the drug was that users of it constituted a new class of narcotic users, as they were usually in their teens, whereas the users of the white drugs as a rule were over 30 years of age. Mr. Steele pointed out that users of marihuana did not live very long.

The drug has several names by which it is known, the commonest being marihuana, Indian hemp, Hashish, Mary Jane, Laughing Tobacco Loco Weed, and Bheng. The word "assassin" is derived from Hashish which is the French word for Cannavis Satiba.

A COMMON WEED

The plant is a noxious weed, and is common in practically all parts of the world. For use, it is ground up and taken in the form of cigarets, confections, and a liquid, by being combined with other ingredients. The plant has been cultivated in police stations in some centres to familiarize the authorities with it and to enable them to recognize it when they found it growing wild.

Sergeant Air Gunner E. G. Lees, of Mossbank, Sask., was a guest of the club.

Bombers Hit Nazi Targets at Cologne, Dunkerque Base and Trondheim Naval Base

By RUSSEL LANDSTROM
(Associated Press Staff Writer).

LONDON, April 28 (AP). — Squadrons of heavy British bombers, maintaining destructive attacks on German targets for the fifth day running, last night raided the Norwegian port of Trondheim where the Germans are building an Atlantic battle fleet base, the Air Ministry announced today.

Other squadrons simultaneously attacked Rhineland objectives, including Cologne, bombed the docks at Dunkerque, laid mines in waters off France and Belgium and machine-gunned German airdromes. Eighteen British planes were lost.

A new bomber and fighter attacking force covering a square mile of sky and described as "the largest single unit ever to attack Occupied France" swept out towards Calais today. Smaller flights had already returned from earlier raids which began at dawn.

Instead of concentrating on four German warships anchored in Trondheim harbor, British bombaimers loosed their explosives at land installations which, an Air Ministry source said, "We are trying to knock down as fast as they are put up."

Two of the German ships at Trondheim are the 35,000-ton battleship Tirpitz, which took shelter there after a brush with British torpedo planes at sea March 13, and the 10,000-ton cruiser Prinz Eugen, which fled from Brest with the 26,000-ton battleships Gneisenau and Scharnhorst on Feb. 13. The others were reported to be the 10,000-ton cruiser Hipper and the 10,000-ton pocket battleship Admiral Scheer.

Informed sources in London said it is known that the Germans, using conscripted Norwegian labor, are attempting to complete quickly a large naval base there.

"There is no reason to think our forces are going especially after units of the German fleet," one authority said. "It is vitally important to destroy the usefulness of Trondheim as a naval base."

In the Rhineland raids, Cologne was the principal target and large fires were started there during clear weather attacks.

Reconnaissance flights over much-bombed Rostock, in Germany, have established that the main assembly sheds of the big Heinkel aircraft factory there had been damaged as well as many of the auxiliary buildings.

Fires at Rostock were still burning at noon Monday, after the city had been bombed four successive nights.

Almost before stragglers from the R.A.F.'s fifth successive night foray into Germany had reached home, great British squadrons were roaring back at dawn toward the French Coast.

Above the howl of a gale-like wind came heavy explosions, some even jarring the English side of Dover Strait. White ehaust trails of the high-flying planes streaked the sky for miles from Kent almost as far as Calais.

The sounds indicated the R.A.F. was dropping explosives as heavy as one ton on German objectives in Northern France. Anti-aircraft guns thundered at an aerial armada which went out from the coast between Folkestone and Hythe.

Switching from Rostock after pounding that German Baltic port and airplane-manufacturing city for four nights running, the R.A.F. attacked Cologne.

The Germans, too, changed targets after bombing the English Southwest resort town of Bath for two nights in a row.

"A good many casualties," fires and widespread damage resulted in a Nazi night attack on Norwich, 100 miles Northeast of London, where incendiary and high-explosive bombs blasted streets of small houses.

Workers in Norwich still were digging in wreckage for trapped victims at daylight. Nine elderly persons were missing in the debris of one of two bomb-hit hospitals.

Striking also by day, the Germans sent seven Mesaerschmitts on a bombing atid machine-gunning raid against a Southeast coast town this morning.

If the R.A.F. had not blasted Rostock into actual destruction with hundreds of tons of bombs, they apparently had succeeded in erasing it as a base for any useful purpose to the Nazis.

The Air Ministry said last night it had pictures to prove a mass exodus from the stricken city and reports from Stockholm said the four raids had left 10,000 families homeless there.

The Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter said that R. A. F. raiders swooped low over Rostock's roofs in machine-gun and cannon attacks. He said the raiders had dropped leaflets warning the populace of Stralsund, 45 miles Northeast of Rostock, to expect similar attacks there.

Four Enemy Ships Attacked, Three Sunk, One Fired

LONDON, April 28 (CP)—British submarines have sunk two heavily laden enemy supply ships and a minesweeper and left a German gasoline carrier burning fiercely in the Mediterranean, the Admiralty announced tonight.

One large supply ship, heavily laden with material for the Libyan army of Marshal Erwin Rommel, was torpedoed and sunk. The explosions indicated a cargo of munitions.

An armed gasoline carrier, flying a German flag, was attacked by gunfire and left burning fiercely, and a large, loaded schooner and an enemy minesweeper were sunk.

The announcement followed one of Sunday in which the Admiralty said four heavily loaded merchant ships had been sunk by two British submarines.

Seven More Enemy Planes Shot Down in Raid on Darwin

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, Australia, April 28 (CP).—Allied bombers spreading the United Nations' aerial counter attack on an ever-widening front and Allied fighters which shot down seven more enemy raiders over Darwin yesterday shared honors in a United Nations Headquarters communique today.

It said the Japanese sent 17 bombers and nine fighters over Darwin and the North Australian port's air defenders shot down three bombers and four fighters.

With eight bombers and three fighters bagged Saturday, this raised the toll in two raids to 18 enemy planes against light Allied losses.

An enemy transport was destroyed in an Allied air smash on shipping at Kavieng, on the Northwestern tip of New Ireland in the Bismarck Archipelago, about 700 miles North of Cape York, the Northeasternmost point of Australia.

In another attack on the string of islands screening the island continent, Allied planes "successfully attacked enemy port installations" at Faisi, a tiny island in the Solomon group off the Southern tip of Bougainville.

Bougainville was the target for air attack the day before. Thus, apparently, Allied bombing squadrons are widening their range of attack to seek out and smash the Japanese wherever they may be marshalling their strength to threaten Australia or her vital shipping lanes.

In the Philippines there was only slight air activity and intermittent shelling at Corregidor while on the island of Luzon there was enemy movement toward the Southern end of the Cagayan Valley.

Nazis Revert to Old Style Methods of Warfare Along Russian Front

BY THOMAS F. HAWKINS
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERNE, April 28 (AP)—Germany is overhauling her war methods, with strong indications Hitler's hopes for another blitzkrieg this Spring and Summer are being supplanted by a strategy of conservation and pre- vention which will emphasize old-style artillery and infantry fighting on the Russian front.

Hitler himself referred to this when he spoke to the Reichstag Sunday of fighting next Winter, but did not once use the words "Spring offensive."

It is still too early to say there will be no Spring offensive. But nothing has developed so far to change appreciably the situation as it was Dec. 21, 1941, when Hitler frankly put his armies on the defensive.

Foreign military observers believe that Hitler's all-important effort to drive to the oil of the Caucasus in the South depends on the extent to which the Northern Russian armies can be held back. Berlin dispatches now speak of September as a possible month for the Caucasus push, because until then all available energy will be required on the now-existing lines.

Some Nazi correspondents speak of a strategy of "continous fighting based on defensive principles" while working for the greater manoeuvrability of troops.

The main German idea, then appears to be accomplishing more with comparatively few men and especially to conserve armored strength.

Canadians Realize War Events Must Bring Change Says Mackenzie King

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Imposition of conscription for overseas service today became a military decision, free from the political implications attached to it for more than a score of years and in two wars.

By their majority "yes" vote in yesterday's manpower plebiscite Canada's civilian voters wiped the slate clean of all political promises, pledges and commitments restricting the free exercise of the judgment of the Government and Parliament on methods of raising men for the Canadian armed forces anywhere in the world.

Last night when the general result became known Mr. King saw in it an indication the people realized the war had taken an unexpected course and that it was necessary to remove restrictions.

In his earlier speech he said the lack of overseas conscription had not made the Canadian Army any smaller than it would have been had such action been taken.

"The lack of power to impose such (overseas) conscription," he said, "has placed our war effort in a wholly false light before our own citizens and, what is worse, before our allies."

While Quebec voters went counter to the general national trend they did not present a solid front against this approach to overseas conscription, as was anticipated in certain quarters.

Nine of Quebec's 65 constituencies, all in Montreal area, gave "yes" majorities. They were Outremont, Jacques Cartier, Laurier, St. Lawrence-St. George, Verdun, Mount Royal, St. Antoine-Westmount, Cartier and St. Ann.

The three Quebec ministers who campaigned vigorously for a "yes" vote failed to sell the idea to their constituents. Quebec East, which elected Justice Minister St. Laurent to the House of Commons in February voted "no" by 22,846 to 3277.

Air Minister Power had better luck with his Quebec South constituents but the verdict also was "no" there by the smaller margin of 12,258 to 8484.

Incomplete returns from Richelieu-Verchères, Works Minister Cardin's constituency indicated a three-to-one "no" verdict.

Fisheries Minister Michaud was the only non-Quebec Minister to fail to carry his constituency into the "yes" column. His riding of Restigouche-Madawaska was one of three New Brunswick constituencies voting "no."

The only legislative action expected to result from the plebiscite is an amendment to the National Resources Mobilization Act to strike out a clause prohibiting the sending of conscripted men outside Canada and Canadian territorial waters.

Removal of that restriction will give the Government a free hand to make whatever use of Canada's human and material resources it considers essential to the national safety and the victory of the United Nations over the Axis powers.

Canadian Pilot Bags Two Nazi Planes Over Malta

LONDON, April 28 (CP Cable)—Po. R. W. McNair of Battleford, Sask., shot down two Nazi aircraft and damaged a third over Malta last week, it was announced today.

Flying a Spitfire, McNair, who had two Nazis to his credit when he was transferred to Malta, destroyed a Messerschmitt 109 and a Junkers 88 and heavily damaged a Junkers 87 during a brief engagement April 24.

Maitland Sees Plebiscite Result as Call From People for National Gov't

VICTORIA, April 28 (CP)—Premier John Hart, commenting today on the "Yes" vote in yesterday's manpower plebiscite, said today that "there no longer exists any obstacle to prevent the marshalling of all our manpower and resources to the common cause."

VANCOUVER, April 28 (CP)—Attorney-General R. L. Maitland, K. C., leader of the British Columbia Conservative Party today interpreted the result of the plebiscite vote as a call from the Canadian people for a National Government while other Federal, provincial and civic leaders here saw it as an incentive to stepping up Canada's war effort.

Mr. Maitland, in a statement said: "When the Canadian people voted 'Yes' two to one, they followed the lead given by all three political parties. The natural result of yesterday's vote—from the standpoint of government—is that there should be a National Government.

"It is working out well in British Columbia and in Manitoba; to say nothing of England and it would work out well in Canada . . . the vote is a signal from the people to the Government to 'go ahead' without any breaks, without pausing to consider the political effect it means an all out war effort."

Harold Winch, leader of the C.C.F. opposition in the British Columbia Legislature, declared "the plebiscite is a demand that the Dominion Government clean house. They will do well to heed the order."

Senator J. W. deB Farris, K. C., said:

"The national "Yes" vote was very satisfactory. The "No" vote in Quebec not surprising, although somewhat disappointing."

PORT ALBERNI, B. C., April 28 (CP)—A resolution registering opposition to the British Columbia Natural Products Marketing Act was adopted unanimously by City Council last night after the Mayor and Aldermen had expressed opposition to the marketing setup.

YOUR SCRAP RUBBER

is now a vital war material

Enemy action in the Far East has caused such an acute shortage of rubber that our whole war effort is in serious danger. Canada and her Allies must have rubber, quickly, for the armed forces, for factories, for ships. The Japanese control our source of crude rubber imports—the only other quickly available supply is old scrap rubber, which can be reclaimed. Every citizen in Canada must do his part in collecting all the scrap rubber in the country and turning it over to the Government for war purposes. Here is how to do it.

THIS IS AN URGENT APPEAL FOR YOUR HELP

Question: Is the rubber situation really serious?
Answer: The shortage of rubber is so grave that any citizen hoarding rubber or using it unnecessarily is committing an act of disloyalty. It is now illegal to destroy any rubber article.

Question: Of what use is reclaimed rubber?
Answer: Old rubber is processed so that the rubber content is reclaimed. This reclaimed rubber is used in the manufacture of essential articles for our war effort, thus replacing crude rubber.

Question: How much scrap rubber is needed?
Answer: Fifty Million Pounds. This is a large quantity, but it MUST be found. Every old piece of rubber in Canada, no matter how small, is needed, QUICKLY.

Question: Should I turn in any usable rubber articles as well as worn out ones?
Answer: Absolutely not! By no means discard anything that is still useful and that might have to be replaced. On the other hand, rubber tires used as boat bumpers, swings, etc., should be turned in for war uses.

Question: What kind of scrap rubber is needed?
Answer: Every all-rubber or part-rubber article must be salvaged. Here are a few of the articles you must turn in:

Old Tires of every kind — Rubbers
Old Inner Tubes — Overshoes
Rubber Boots, Hats, Coats, Aprons, Pants
Gloves, Tubing, Matting, Toys
Sport Shoes (crepe soles are especially good)
Garden Hose — Hot Water Bottles — Stair Treads
Bathing Caps and many other articles

Question: What happens to the scrap rubber collected?
Answer: The scrap is sorted, baled and assembled into carload lots and is then purchased by the Government at fixed prices throughout Canada. The Government pays forwarding transportation charges on these carload lots, and is responsible for their allocation. You may be sure that every pound will be used directly or indirectly in the war effort.

Question: How do I go about saving scrap rubber?
Answer: Start hunting for it TODAY. Clean out your cellars, attics, garages and sheds right away. You will find more rubber articles than you expect. Start them all on their way to the battlefront.

HOW DO I TURN IN MY SCRAP RUBBER?

The school boys and girls of Canada are being organized, through the school authorities, to act as Official Collectors of Scrap Rubber. The school nearest you is, therefore, your best Collection Depot. You may dispose of your scrap rubber in any one of the following four ways:

1. Give it to the children for their school collection.
2. Give it to your local National Salvage Committee.

Glasses Correct Rare Eye Disease

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Aniseikonia is a very rare and peculiar disease of the eyes in which the patient apparently loses his ability to maintain normal binocular vision.

It is probable that a baby looking at a certain object sees two objects and sees them upside down. Somehow or other in the course of the first six months of life we are able to train our eyes so that we reverse the image so that it is right side up, we fuse the two images so that we see only one and we also see perspective.

When these functions get disturbed they are often difficult, but sometimes easy to correct. This can be corrected by glasses, but the trouble in aniseikonia is that the individual sees two images of unequal size.

The fact that the lenses are a good deal of trouble and require considerable care and are quite expensive is of no consequence to the patient with aniseikonia because the disability is such as practically to disable him from performing any of the functions of life.

Girls and Boys About Equal In Staying Loyal

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Two weeks ago a young soldier, whose letter was signed "Private J.", told how his girl went back on him and married someone else almost as soon as he had put on his uniform.

Naturally, he felt pretty bitter about it and handed out some plain truths about girls who go "gaga" over a uniform and say a lot of things they don't mean. Private J. continued: "Back to camp the boy goes, hating the Army for what it has done to him. He slouches in his work, gets into trouble with his superiors and finally winds up doing kitchen police. Or, indeed, he may get so disgusted he goes A.W.O.L. Then comes court-martial and he's lost his chance for promotion.

Many letters have come to this column in reply to "Private J.'s" experiences. Unfortunately, there isn't room to give more than a scrap of each.

FROM A BUCK PRIVATE

"In reading your column the other day, I see where another girl fooled a soldier, just as I've been fooled. After staying on an Army camp all day, being scolded by a bunch of stripe-happy non-coms, the feminine voice sounds pretty nice to any soldier. If I run across a girl here, I might make love to her, just to have somebody to run around with. My advice to all girls is to be careful and investigate the soldier before becoming engaged. As to loyalty, it seems a case of fifty-fifty between soldiers and girls."

FROM A GIRL ENGAGED TO A SOLDIER

"I, like hundreds of other girls, have been left behind by a boy who has gone to serve his country. He's lonely, far away from home, and none too happy. The little joy you give him by making him feel there's someone waiting for him at home can mean all the world to him. May God be with 'Private J.' and my soldier boy and everyone else in our glorious Army."

FROM AN AIR CORPS PRIVATE

"Concerning Private J's recent letter, please let me say that I think he's all wrong. Naturally, a lot of fellows have girls back home who get married. But, by golly, I think it's a very poor case of love if the girl doesn't wait for the soldier. If that's the case, he's better off to be rid of her. Most of the boys have sense enough to take it with a grain of salt when a girl goes ga-ga over a uniform."

As soon as the weather is settled, early cabbage, broccoli, lettuce and cauliflower plants may be set out.

Wynndel Red Cross Names Delegates

WYNNDEL, B.C.—At the Red Cross meeting held in the High School last Tuesday, Mrs. Merriam and Mrs. Grieg were chosen to represent Wynndel branch during the National Campaign.

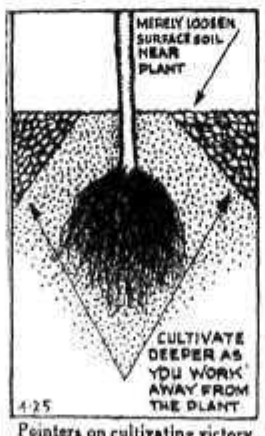
In the absence of Mrs. Argyle, the minutes and financial statement was read by Mrs. Greig. A letter was read regarding wool.

A vote of thanks was extended Mrs. Martello, Mrs. Benedetti, Miss F. Wood, Mrs. M. Hagen, Mrs. Butterfield and Mrs. Burch for prizes and articles donated. Also Mr. and Mrs. Wall were thanked for their work in connection with the hall. Mrs. Abbott was the winner of the salt and pepper shakers which were raffled.

Cultivating Aims at Ending Weeds

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Destruction of weed seedlings is the principal object of cultivating. Do not cultivate when the soil is wet. As soon as it is dry enough, break the upper crust to prevent the surface soil from baking.



Pointers on cultivating victory garden

As illustrated in the Garden-Graph, early in the season one can cultivate deep and fairly close to the plant. Later, as the roots grow, cultivation should be shallow and further back.

Cultivate between the plants as well as along the rows. If the weeds are very small, it will not be necessary to remove them as they will quickly wilt after being uprooted.

Cultivating should not be done when the plants and weeds are wet, either from rain or dew, as the cultivator might spread fungus disease spores from diseased weeds and plants. This precaution is especially advisable when weeding beans.

Figure . . .

Waistline a Must for Spring Suits

By IDA JEAN KAIN

There is nothing that brings out the dumpiness in a woman's figure like a waist and skirt.

Since, by all the signs, it will be a suit Spring, you had better take your waistline measure and start trimming now. According to the surveys the average woman's waist measures two and one-half inches too much. Losing weight on your diet will take care of some of that bulge, the rest takes exercise.

Let start with my old favorite:

POSITION

Lying on the back on floor, knees flexed and feet on floor close to hips, arms stretched up on floor overhead. Pull slim through the middle and press small of back down against floor.

MOVEMENT

Keeping shoulders and back on floor, twist at the waist and touch thighs to floor first on one side, then the other. Move thighs as a unit and point the knees down hard. Done correctly, this exercise not only gets at the waistline muscles but tones the abdominal girdle.

Here is another waistline twister:

POSITION

MOVEMENT

POSITION

MOVEMENT

Holding the body perfectly in line—abdominal muscles in front pulled up, hips in back pulled down and under, waist slim, arms out at sides—bend sideward until you touch the fingers to the floor. You give yourself quite a stretch. But if you let your hips jut out, you might as well be playing bridge for all the good it does your waist. Back to position and bend to the other side.

POSITION

Same as above.

MOVEMENT

Try to keep a straight line from knees up as you swing left hand around in back to touch right heel. You will have to sway slightly backward with the trunk to do this correctly. But make the knees give. Don't bent backward at the waist. Reverse the movement and continue for 10 counts.

Michaele Fallon, well known model, illustrated an exercise mentioned in today's column by Ida Jean Kain. The trick here it to keep the hips in line as you swing arms around to touch heels.

Students Honor Graduates

CRANBROOK, B. C.—The Cranbrook Armouries was the scene of one of the loviest dances of the year on Monday night when the student nurses of St. Eugene Hospital entertained in honor of the graduating class. This is the first Graduation dance to be given for graduates by the student nurses and was indeed a very successful one.

The hall was hung with blue and white streamers from which hung large balloons, blue and white being the class colors of the graduating class. Refreshments were served by members of the Canadian Daughters. Conveners of the decorating were Miss R. D'Agnolo and Miss Anne Del Puppo.

The Grand March at midnight was led by Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Green with Dr. Green presenting gifts to the Graduates from the top steps.

SIRDAR

SIRDAR, B. C.—Mrs. James Mannarino was a motor visitor to Wynndel on Monday.

Ernest Andestad of Wynndel was here on Wednesday.

Mrs. Joe Kollman and family are spending a vacation with the former's mother at Canyon.

Mr. and Mrs. Squwoorak were visitors to Creston on Saturday.

J. S. Wilson left on Sunday for Cranbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. George Rohac were motor visitors to Creston on Saturday evening.

Frank Pelle was a business visitor to Wynndel on Monday later proceeding to Creston.

Mr. Rahman was a business visitor to Creston on Saturday.

Show Country Lads Nature's Beauties

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

If I were a country school teacher again, I should try to help interpret to my pupils the many beauties all around them and to make them want to carve their fortunes and careers right in the country.

I should make more intimate acquaintance with the plants and trees and birds and flowers of the open country. When I was a country lad, and when I later taught in a district school, I felt little need to know the names of many of the lovely growing things all around me. I took them for granted.

Our first step in the enjoyment of another's company is ability to speak that person's name. The very name makes the relation personal; the absence of the name, impersonal. So with the birds and trees and flowers in relation to the country boys and girls.

If more children learned to enjoy the beauties of the country fewer of them would long to leave it for the city, where true beauty is so rare.

Q. Why is it that so many young children who are spanked or paddled for running into the street are not cured of this dangerous practice?

A.—They are not punished consistently. They are punished now and then while they run into the street 20 times without getting punished. To be effective punishment of the tot must be immediate and there must be no exceptions. Unless this principle is observed it usually is better not to punish at all.

Substitutes Step Up Styles in Footwear

Written for The Canadian Press
By ALISON SETTLE

LONDON (CP) — Fashion still lives in women's shoes despite wartime regulations against using more than a minimum of leather for shoes other than those of the forces.

Mainly the variety of fashion angles are due to ingenious use of substitutes. Gussets, unusal fastenings, laying-on and piecing-in, side lacings with color contrasts all contribute to make shoes for 1942 sprightly.

So well have the experts worked with substitutes that the shopping woman does not realize she is forbidden perforations, leather overlapping leather, wooden heels or leather covered heels.

"In fact," said one expert, "plastic leather is doing such a fine job that, though it has been on the market for some time, women have been unaware that their 'leather' heel coverings were sprayed on."

PLASTIC HEELS

Before the war solid plastic heels used to give sparkle, transparency and fine color to fashion shoes for late afternoon and evening. Now plastic heels are so like leather, when sprayed with leather colored variations of plastic that they are indistinguishable except to the expert.

It is only when heels begin to wear that trouble sets in. The small shoe repairing outfit is unable to handle substitute leathers so shoes have to be sent back to the factories for repair and there are not as many factories making shoes as there used to be.

Latest thing in shoes is the new "bouncer" model especially designed for the large section of the nation's women who, because of war jobs, are on their feet most of the day. It is aimed at preventing tiredness and flat feet. It has a concealed wedge, giving lightness and support to the arch of the foot.

SERIAL STORY . . . . . By JERRY BROWNFIELD

No Refuge From Love

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE

Tay Whitworth sat up, a surprised smile on his face. "Molla, I didn't know you were coming out today."

Molla leaned down and kissed him. "I hadn't expected to, really," she told him. "I received orders from your father."

"Orders?" he asked blankly.

"Yes. He thinks Neil is getting a little worn from too much work and needs some relaxation. He suggested horseback riding to begin with, and decided I should accompany him when Neil refused to go. So—here I am."

"Oh, so that's it," Tay grumbled, sinking back into his pillow. "That isn't very flattering to me, Mrs. Taylor. Whitworth-to-be. Weren't you interested in seeing me?"

"Of course, Tay. Don't pout like a little boy." She went over to the window and closed it a trifle. "You are getting too much draft in here. Do you want to get pneumonia?"

He looked at her intently. "You're not forcing yourself to be solicitous, are you?"

"Tay!" Molla stopped short. "Why did you say that?"

He shrugged slightly. "Just a feeling that's all. I'm sorry, though. I'm probably all wet. A guy can't think quite up to par when he's stretched out like this."

"Perhaps that is it," she said, closing the door behind her.

She walked downstairs, thinking of Tay's statement. Were her actions and words reflected by her thoughts? Was there some outward indication which Tay could hardly help noticing?

There had been a light snowfall during the night and their feet crunched musically as Molla and Neil headed for the stables.

"You don't look as though you're dressed warm enough," Molla observed.

"This is plenty," he assured her. "Besides, I have equal amounts of blood and ice water in my veins."

"I can almost believe that," Molla said, and he gave her a side-long look.

They climbed aboard their horses and headed out over the countryside down the road toward a small stand of timber in the distance.

The clippity-clop of the horses' hooves sounded good, and the snap of the Winter air was like a tonic. Molla noted that Neil road easily and without effort.

"How long have you been riding?" she asked.

"Since I was seven. I like it," he admitted, but I don't get enough of it."

They reached the timber and dismounted. Neil brushed some snow off a log and they sat down. Everything was clothed in heavy, white silence. Occasionally a bird or small animal would brush through the trees and Tay would see a small flurry of snow in its wake.

"Who was that Dr. Jordan who went in to talk to Mr. Whitworth?" Molla asked.

"Jordan? He's head of our experimental laboratories."

"Oh, then he's the man you're going to be working with for the next couple of weeks."

He looked at her curiously. "How did you know?"

"It isn't a secret, I hope, because Miss Crump said I would have to work on some estimates for you and a gentleman from the laboratory."

"No-o-o," he said. "It isn't a secret that I'll be working with him. But much of what well be doing will be strictly off the record."

"Does that mean you will be leaving New York?"

"I guess so. This is a field job, finally."

"And then you will come back, of course."

"Not if I can help it," he exclaimed.

"Oh."

"Don't tell me you'll miss me," he joked, but she noticed the flickering expression in his eyes as he said it.

"Of course. All of us will miss you."

"Oh."

It started to snow again. "Let's take off again," Neil said.

Sunlight's "EXTRA-SOAPINESS" is exactly suited for applying straight on to the real dirt

● Any good washing preparation will remove the average "all over" dirt from clothes, but where dirt is stubborn, concentrated, you need the help of Sunlight. Because of its "extra-soapiness" Sunlight is exactly right for treating the very grubby parts of clothes.

Sunlight enables you to get straight on to the real dirt at once—to give an extra soaping just where it is most needed.

It is only necessary to apply Sunlight lightly to the grubby part. That is sufficient to leave a film of pure, rich soap in contact with the dirt. Then you'll find every speck of grime comes away readily. No hard rubbing or scrubbing is required at all. Use Sunlight for everything you wash—for household cleaning as well as laundry. It is absolutely safe and gentle to fabrics and to your hands.

"News to Us" Says Council on Pledge of Hospital Grant

"It's news to us."

This was the reaction of City Council member Monday night to the suggestion that the Council had committed itself to making a further $1000 gran to Kootenay Lake Hospital Board toward the financing the modernization of the Isolation Hospital.

Ald. George Turner raised the suggestion when he relayed the query of H. M. Whimster, Hospital Board President, as to when the $1000 would be available. From Mr. Whimster, Ald Turner said he had gathered that the Council had promised an addition to the initial grant toward the cost of the work. An additional $1000 had been added to the Department of Health's first grant, he had learned.

"This is the first suggestion that we had committed ourselves in any way," stated Ald. E. A. Mann, explaining the Council had received a request for an additional grant from the Board, when it was learned the remodelling of the Isolation building, originally estimated at $10,000, would be about $12,000. The City originally granted $5000 toward the cost of the work, matching the Department's grant.

"It is news to me," Mayor N. C. Stibbs added when the suggestion was raised.

The matter will be dealt with by the Council in committee next Tuesday. The City Clerk was directed to have correspondence between the Board and Council on hand.

The Nelson Isolation Hospital was reopened early last Fall after being remodelled and modernized.

Was Canadian Army Train Worth the Cost?

The Canadian army train did not make much of a hit in the Kootenay.

It did not live up to the expectations of the thousands of people who visited it.

The purpose of the enterprise was excellent. It was to give the public an idea of the armament for Canadian soldiers which is being produced in Canada, the equipment with which Canadian soldiers are supplied, their diet, their uniforms and the medical, dental and other services which are provided for them.

No doubt it did all of this. The cars of tanks and weapons and the high-powered searchlight seemed to arouse considerable interest but the general feeling was one of disappointment and that the cost of the enterprise was out of all proportion to the results. People felt that they had gained a better idea of the Canadian army and Canadian armaments from the moving pictures and from illustrations in the newspapers. The train seemed to be rather a let-down after the more vivid methods of presentation of the same story.

Joint Air Training Coming

Predictions that something of vital importance would come out of the conversations between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Mackenzie King have been substantiated. Announcement of the calling of a conference of all the United Nations at Ottawa to lay the groundwork for a great joint scheme of air training holds immense potentialities.

Canada is the logical locale for this meeting. This country has been the heart of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, admittedly the greatest single contribution that has been made toward the winning of this war. The Dominion already has the organization, the facilities and the experience on which can be founded the much broader program that is to be evolved. The training system to be put into operation undoubtedly will centre here, for it would be manifestly inefficient and wasteful to undertake the setting up of a scheme on such a scale from "scratch" in any other country.

The active participation of the United States in the war is the factor that has made possible this extension of the program. While there was a large measure of cooperation and collaboration before, the nominal neutrality of our neighbor nation obviously placed limitations on joint action. With the situation as it is today, there remains no reason to hesitate or to consider international boundaries on this continent. Whether in the United States or Canada, any fliers that may be trained will be trained for one great object and one great cause.

That the plan will be concentrated on this continent goes without saying. It is the only part of the world where it could be carried out reasonably safe from enemy action. What has already been done, under the auspices of the British Empire alone, has demonstrated that we can achieve air superiority over our enemies. With all the United Nations working together in a broadened program, we shall become an awesome force.

W. C. Motley of Bonnington has been good enough to suggest that readers interested, write to First Aid Attendants Association, 303a West Pender Street, Vancouver, B. C.

Defeat

For every apathetic American, Hans Habe writes in the American Mercury, there is a European or Asiatic in the hell of defeat as a warning. For every American woman who believes that "life goes on as usual," there is a European mother, sister or lover who has no more tears to weep.

Americans have no excuse for not knowing. The palgue of defeat is spread under their eyes. They have no excuse for the delusion that defeat is a national catastrophe. It is a personal catastrophe.

When it strikes, you canont speak as before, nor listen to what you would like to hear. You can neither write nor read except what the slaveholder commands. You cannot manufacture or trade as was your lifelong wont. You dare not choose the profession or the place of residence or the ideas which suit you best. You must educate your children according to alien precepts. Your most cherished traditions, your heroes and stirring childhood songs are revised and humiliated. You may no longer eat, drink or breathe like a free human being.

And this is defeat!

Today's Horoscope

The fortunes and pleasures of those who have birthdays today increase during the next year, but they should guard against unwise expenditures and the advice of young friends who may be actuated by ulterior motives. Also they should avoid speculation. Love troubles threaten them. They have logical, intuitive minds, but their natures are over-cautious, retarding constructive effort. Their affections run deep. Outstanding artistic, musical and literary abilities will be evinced by the child who is born on this date. However, his or her friends will need to be chosen wisely to avoid disappointment. Sound investments are advised.

If you are dining in a first-class restaurant, don't season your food before tasting it. Such restaurants engage excellent chefs who pride themselves on seasoning their dishes just right.

After All, Gold Can Be Eaten

"What good is gold? You can't eat it! You just take it out of one hole in the ground and put it in another."

Many an American had used some such words to describe his feelings as he watched the climbing figures of his country's gold hoard.

Americans are due to discover soon that you can eat gold, and that their $22 billion store is not remaining in Fort Knox and other depositories. The American gold stock is shrinking, and shrinking fast. It may drop a billion dollars this year, so The Northern Miner estimates.

Exports by sea, except of war goods, have been cut off. They have been cut off not by Washingtonian decree. They have been embargoed by the United States railroads because their lines to coastal ports are choked with war traffic and the harbor piers and sheds are jammed with goods.

So, hereafter, and possibly for the duration of the war, the United States won't be able to exchange its own products for the products of other countries. It will have to pay in gold, and is already doing so on a growing scale. Every time an American drinks his morning coffee he can reflect he is drinking gold. When he eats any imported food he will be eating gold. Gold can be eaten, after all.

In the last twelve reopted months the net addition to the United States gold stock was only $473 millions. That figure is about one-tenth of the amount of gold taken in during the year of greatest gain, 1940. Recently the month by month treasury gold figures have shown few gains, chiefly losses. These losses are growing in size. This year the aggregate may be quite large. The current domestic gold output of the United States is also shrinking under the disabilities of war; the production of the Philippines, usually twenty per cent of the American total, has been wiped out. Canada has less gold to send the United States; its marginal mines are finding, one by one, that they cannot stand against high wages, wartime bonuses, shortage of skilled labor, and stiff taxes. None has fallen, though, by reason of lack of supplies. Around the world, in gold-producing areas, the traditional difficulties of wartime are being encountered in more disabling fashion as the war lengthens out.

As production falls, gold becomes more precious, and rarer. With the shrinkage of their stock our American friends will cherish the remainder all the more.

On the other side of the picture we see nations newly accumulating gold, and gladly. They are receiving the metal in payment for their goods. They are acquiring a bigger stake in gold. They will be deeply interested in maintaining gold as a monetary medium. Many will certainly be interested in a higher price for the metal after the war. No longer is gold a subject chiefly for the attention of Americans and Britishers. The golden circle widens every time an American buys a foreign article. And Canadians, too, are exchanging gold for foreign goods; if this country had no gold mines it would have to give up more than grapefruit.—Northern Miner.

Press Comment

JUSTICE—CANADIAN AND JAPANESE

Quite unwittingly a correspondent, writing to The Sun, has set down the truth about the case of the four Vancouver youths who have been sentenced to hang for the murder of a Japanese. If, says this writer, four Japanese boys had murdered a Canadian in Japan, the Emperor would have pinned medals on their breasts.

This is probably true. Also, it is the very reason why Canada must carry out the letter of its laws. We are not seeking to imitate Japan's methods of life. We are seeking to defeat them. We are fighting this war to scourge such methods from the earth.

We are fighting, in fact, for the principle that the law framed by a majority of the people shall be enforced without fear or favor. The law applies to all men in Canada, regardless of race, creed or color. If it is to be applied with special exceptions, if bandits are allowed to kill a man because he is a Japanese, then there is nothing to prevent them going out next day and killing a white man. There is every probability, indeed, that they will do so.

A great principle is at stake in this case and the jury rightly saw it, rightly refused to be diverted from the process of law by the race of the murderers' victim. But the law also provides that if the extenuating circumstances are strong enough a capital sentence may be modified by the government of Canada. The government of Canada will consider the case of the four youths. If it sees fit, it can commute the sentence of one or all. But it certainly will not be influenced by the fact that a Japanese was murdered. It certainly will not reduce the justice of Canada to the level of the justice of Japan.—Vancouver Sun.

HUMANITARIANISM SURVIVES

The humanitarian instinct which survives war and finds its way even onto the battlefield is being exercised now by Britain and Italy. Wounded prisoners held by both nations are being repatriated in hospital ships using Smyrna, the Western Turkish port, as a neutral transfer point. Soon, seriously wounded men of both countries will be in their own homes or hospitals where the hurts of war heal more rapidly.

There is a marked contrast to be observed between this friendly agreement and the earlier abortive agreement made with the Nazis. Under the Geneva Convention relating to prisoners of war—to which Germany as well as Britain is a signatory—wounded prisoners are exchanged, not on a numerical but on an absolute basis. That is, in the words of the Convention, "the obligation to repatriate is absolute and takes no account of the relative numbers on either side."—Montreal Star.

UNITED STATES MARINES HAVE THEIR OWN BANDS OF COMMANDOS

The United States marines have their own bands of commandos, now brushing up on their technique in preparation for a grand offensive against the Axis forces. Marines are shown, upper left, going over the side of a destroyer into rubber boats. A group of these boats is pictured, upper right, heading for short from the mother ship. The marines have landed, lower right, and charge inland, lower left.

AS COMMANDO RAIDERS LEFT FOR BOULOGNE

PROTECTING MERCHANTMEN

A PRINCE OF ARABIA SEES A "CHICAGO PIANO"

Looking singularly out of place in his picturesque robes and turban aboard a man-o'-war, Emir Mansur, son of King Ibn Saud of Arabia, is shown aboard the H.M.S. Queen Elizabeth, flagship of the British Mediterranean fleet, in Alexandria harbor during his Egyptian visit. He is deeply interested in an anti-aircraft pom-pom, popularly known in the navy as a "Chicago piano."

JOINS CAVALRY

Ronald Reagan, movie star, is shown with his wife, the actress, Jane Wyman, and their year-old daughter, Maureen Elizabeth, leaving their new Beverley Hills home. Reagan has just been called to active duty in the armed forces of Uncle Sam as a lieutenant in the cavalry.

Browns Take Yanks 3-1 to Knock Them From Top Tie; Auker Shines; Indians in Lead; Dodgers Beat Reds

By The Canadian Press

St. Louis Browns bounced off the floor of a nine-game losing streak yesterday to trip the world champion New York Yankees and knock them out of their tie for first place in the American League. Elden Auker, submarine ball expert, held the Yanks to six hits, one of which was a home run by Tom Henrich in the fourth inning.

Cleveland Indians scored their ninth consecutive victory and gained undisputed possession of first place in the American League with a 6-4 victory over the Athletics.

FOXX HOMERS

Hal White, rookies Detroit right hander who registered shutout victories in his first two starts, was knocked out of the box as Boston Red Sox beat the Tigers, 6-1. Jimmy Foxx hit his second home run of the season.

Washington dealt Chicago White Sox their fifth straight defeat, 4-3, as Buck Newsom registered his second victory.

Brooklyn Dodgers routed Elmer Riddle in less than two innings to beat Cincinnati Reds 7-3. All of Cincinnati's runs came off Whitlow Wyatt in the first inning on Frank McCormick's double with the bases loaded and they convinced both Wyatt and Manager Leo Durocher that the Dodger ace is not yet in shape.

Big Hugs Casey pitched five-hit shutout ball for the remaining eight innings.

Earl Naylor, a madeover outfielder, was assigned the thankless task of pitching for Philadelphia Phils but poor play by his teammates helped to make his first mound start a wry one as Pittsburgh Pirates romped to a 7-1 National League victory.

Boston Braves ganged up on Big Bill Lee for four runs in the fourth inning to defeat Chicago Cubs 6-3.

CARDS BEAT GIANTS

Johnny Hopp, who had been held hitless in four earlier chances, banged a stinging double through second baseman Mickey Witek in the tenth inning to score Terry Moore from second and give the St. Louis Cardinals a 5-4 victory over the New York Giants.

British Athletes Are Missing In Far East Battle

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 28 (CP)—Sport shorts from Britain:

George Willis, former Toronto Argonaut and University of Western Ontario rugby star, doesn't get any time for sport these days. As a member of the fleet air arm he's kept might busy but he's hoping to "get out on a field and boot a ball around pretty soon."

Maj. G. A. Moxon of the Royal Artillery, missing since the fall of Singapore, in 1934 played one of the fastest golf games on record. Running between each shot over a Brookwood, Surrey, course, he scored a 71 in completing the 18 holes in 64 minutes. He is a former British army golf champion.

Fuel shortage in Erie—as Britain—has brought about the slashing in half of the number of racehorse meets. The Department of Industry and Commerce has forbidden the conveyance of horses and persons by motor transport to such meetings.

Rail transport also has been cut.

Pronounced the greatest centre three-quarter of the last decade, Wilfred Wooller, Welsh rugby international and Cambridge Double Blue, has not been heard of since arriving in Java as Royal Artillery Lieutenant. Wooller was "capped" for Wales as a 19-year-old schoolboy in 1933 and it was suggested that his drop-kick "obsession" would ruin his natural rugby talents. However, his well-placed kicks and flashy runs brought him international recognition.

Pastor and Bobo to Fight June 24

NEW YORK, April 28 (AP) — Bill Doomer, matchmaker for the 20th Century Spirting Club of Pittsburgh, announced today that Bob Pastor, New York, and Harry Bobo, heavyweight championship contender, had been matched for a 10-round fight at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, June 24. Pittsburgh is Bob's home town.

In another 10-rounder on the same card, Fritzie Zivic, Pittsbrgh, will meet Freddie Cochrane, Elizabeth, N. J. welterweight champion who won his title from Zivic last July, in an overweight bodi.

Dominoes Lose Second Game to Montreal Oilers

MONTREAL, April 28 (CP) — Montreal Oilers defeated Victoria Dominoes 42-32 here tonight to tie the best of five Dominion senior basketball final series at 1-1.

Three disqualifying fouls were given out in the rough battle, two of them to the Dominoes and after the game Manager Dave Nichol of the Victoria squad announced he would lay a complaint against the referees. The officials were Frank Ulley and Chuck Malls of Montreal.

The Oiler scame from behind in the late stages of th srough battle. Coach Johnny Ferraro shot them into the lead after about 16 minutes in the final half when Dominoes were ahead 30-29 and from then on the Montreal quintet dominated the scoring.

Norm Baker was given the first disqualifying foul shortly before the Oilers took the advantage after charging Dudey Bloomfield. A few minutes later Ferraro and Ritchie Nichol were chased when they started a brief fist-fight near the Victoria basket. Baker and Nichol had already committed a technical foul each.

As in Monday's opening game, which Dominoes won 26-24, caution was the keynote at the start of the game and it took nearly three minutes of play before Jack Mottishaw sent Dominoes nito a 2-0 lead.

Johnny Ferraro started the scoring for Oilers with two straight free throws but the Dominoes jumped into the lead before Joe Richman scored a field goal and Ferraro got a field goal and made good a free pass to cut the coast team's advantage to 9-8.

The Dominoes kept up their offensive and three baskets by Art Chapman and one by Baker gave them a 14-8 lead near the 16-minute mark. But the Oilers began to shoot more accurately and by half-time they had cut the Victoria lead to 17-16.

The teams split about evenly in the first 10 minutes of the final half but when Ferraro gave the Oilers the lead the Western team seemed to be stopped cold.

Ferraro and Bloomfield were the leadnig scorers on the floor with 12 points each. Pacing the Dominoes was Art Chapman with nine points, while Norm Baker tallied eight and Ritchie Nichol scored seven.

Third game of the series will be played here Thursday with extra games tentatively scheduled for Saturday and Monday.

Cripps Sees Future Benefits as Result of India Conference

LONDON, April 28 (CP). — Sir Stafford Cripps, opening a House of Commons debate on India, predicted today that "nothing but good will result" from the War Cabinet's proposals for Indian self-government which he took to New Delhi but which were rejected.

"Owing to events in the Far Eastern theatre of war (where British forces have been suffering reverses) accompanied by highly-skilled though grossly-misleading propaganda from Axis sources, an atmosphere of defeatism and anti-British sentiment was showing itself in certain sections of Indian opinion," said Sir Stafford, Lord Privy Seal and Leader of the House of Commons.

That a War Cabinet member was chosen to submit the proposals, he said, "demonstrated the sincerity of our purpose."

Sir Stafford said he asked leading Indian groups to designate representatives to meet him because "I was most anxious there should be no suspicion whatever that his Majesty's Government was hand-picking those whom I saw."

Referring to his talks in India with Louis Johnson, a representative of President Roosevelt, Sir Stafford said "there was no question of any American intervention, but only the personal help of a very able American citizen."

"I do not believe it possible to find in the existing circumstances a fairer solution of the problem than the Government's declaration," he said.

He said there was no disagreement upon the fundamental and vital points of self-determination and self-government, but instead differences arose on temporary government and the method by which self-determination was to be exercised.

Sir Stafford said there was a practically unanimous opinion among Indians that control of the armed forces in India should remain under a British Commander in Chief, a post now held by Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell.

He contended that Britain could not, with safety, have gone further than she did in offering to entrust non-military defence functions to an Indian minister.

"I feel no regrets at the decision taken by the Government," he continued. "We've done all we could in an admittedly difficult situation . . . for the time being there is nothing further we can do.

"We must be patient and open-minded, willing to consider any proposals upon which Indian leaders can agree, but we must concentrate upon our duty and do our utmost for the defence of India."

When Sir Stafford finished, Gordon McDonal, Labor Member, assailed Viscount Halifax, Ambassador to the United States, for a speech he made in New York during the New Delhi negotiotions.

He quoted Lord Halifax as saying the all-India Congress Party failed to cooperate with Britain, and making favorable references to the Indian Princes.

Mr. McDonald asked whether Lord Halifax spoke on his own responsibility and "if so, has the War Cabinet reprimanded him?"

No reply was given.

Sir Stafford shook his head negatively when Mr. McDonald inquired if "differences in the War Cabinet were as wide as the differences in India."

LONDON, April 28 (CP)—The Viceroy of India will welcome "practical suggestions" from Indian leaders to implement the War Cabinet's proposals for independence, the Secretary of State for India, L. S. Amery, told the House of Commons today.

Mr. Amery said he welcomed the resolution of the Madras section of the Dominant India Congress Party as "hopeful evidence that Indian leaders might still accept the British offer. The resolution pfoposed that the Congress recognize the minority Moslem claim to independence for predominantly Moslem states which had been a big stumbling block to Moslem-Hindu agreement.

"The door is open now and remains open" to an agreement, Mr. Amery said.

First Ladies' Intercity Five-Pin Tourney Gets Under Way Here Today

Kootenay's first ladies' intercity five-pin tournament gets under way here today.

Ten teams, five of Nelson, three of Trail and two of South Slocan, are entered in the race for the silverware. Play begins at 10 a.m. and games are scheduled at two hour intervals until 6 p.m. Total points decide the issue.

Some fine trophies have been posted for the event. The Savoy Cup goes to the champion team, while the Bradley Cup and West Transfer Cup go to the high singles and high aggregate scorers, respectively. Runnrs-up prizes have been posted for the second team, for the second singles and second aggregate scorers.

The schedule follows:

10:00 a.m.—Nelson No. 1 vs South Slocan No. 1.

12 noon—Trail No. 3 vs South Slocan No. 2.

2 p.m.—Hudson's Bay vs Nelson No. 3.

4 p.m.—Nelson No. 2 vs Trail No. 1.

6 p.m.—Rookies vs Trail No. 2.

Teams have been requested to be ready to bowl 10 minutes before the hours scheduled so as to avoid delay.

Woodward Horse Wins Derby Trial

By BID FEDER
Associated Press Sport Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 28 (AP.)—A long-legged galloper out of Texas won the Derby trial mile today, but a little matter of seven pounds left everyone up in the air about what the race proved for Saturday's Kentucky Derby.

The winner was Valdina Orphan, bred on Emerson F. Woodwarth's Valdina Farm at Uvalde, and he led almost the whole way around to knock off Warren Wright's Sun Again by a neck in a smash drive and Al Sabath's Alsab by 3½ lengths. But he had all the best of the weights—111 to 118 for the "big horses."

A result was that Trainer Ben Jones and Owner Warren Wright, after previously expressing doubt as to whether they would start Sun Again in the Derby, announced they are inclined toward letting the son of Sun Teddy take a crack at the $65,000 jackpot.

Race Tracks to Give First $100,000 to U.S. War Effort

NEW YORK, April 28 (AP)—New York's five major race tracks announced today that each track would contribute "the first $100,000 earned as profit" this season to the war effort. A formal statement, released through the office of Joseph L. Cohn, Director of Public Relations for Jamaica, Aqueduct, Empire City, Belmont Park and Saratoga race tracks said the contribution to the war effort would be made "before any payment of a dividend."

CONTRACT . . . By Shepard Barclay

SOME KNOW IT ALL

THIS WORLD is full of people who can tell you exactly what you should do in most situations which trouble you. But if they are talking about the best way to bid a really freakish bridge hand, the chances are that they are talking through that thing which they place on top of a certain lump of flesh rather than from the inside of the lump. They are trying to impress you with the contents thereof, whereas they may not be any such thing. Seriously, with many hands, your guess is as good as the greatest super-duper expert the world will ever see.

North: ♠ Q J 6 4 2 ♥ 9 8 ♦ 10 9 ♣ Q 9 8 6
West: ♠ 10 7 5 ♥ 4 2 ♦ K J 8 4 3 ♣ J 10 2
East: ♠ None ♥ A K Q J 10 7 5 3 ♦ Q 8 7 ♣ A 4
South: ♠ A K 9 8 3 ♥ 6 ♦ A 5 2 ♣ K 7 5 3

(Dealer South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	4 ♥
4 ♠
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Dbl
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	5 ♥
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	3 ♥
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	5 ♥

There you have the bidding at three duplicate tables on this deal. Nobody will ever figure out the sure-fire way whereby East can know that he cannot help making either 5-Hearts or 6-Hearts. If anything but a club is led, and South does not hold up his diamond A until the third round, the losing club can be discarded, and all but one trick taken.

It happens that South can make 4-Spades, like rolling off a log, with the loss of just one trick in each side suit if he plays the clubs to good advantage, as every spade declarer did. The one guess of the hand concerns the problem of whether East should bid 5-Hearts or whether West can chance taking him to that spot.

If you get in a serious argument on that kind of point, the winner will probably be the one who ate the most eggs for breakfast.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ 8 6 3 ♥ Q J 10 3 2 ♦ 7 4 ♣ K 8 7
West: ♠ A K Q 4 2 ♥ K 9 6 ♦ A K 7 ♣ Q 2
East: ♠ J 10 ♥ 8 5 4 ♦ 10 6 3 ♣ A J 10 6 5
South: ♠ 9 7 5 ♥ A 7 ♦ Q J 9 8 5 ♣ 9 4 3

(Dealer West. East-West vulnerable.)

South having bid diamonds, and north leaping the 7 of that suit, how should West play this deal at 3-No Trumps in rubber bridge, and how in match point duplicate?

Cement production in Canada in 1941 amounted to 8,368,711 barrels valued at $13,063,588 compared with 7,589,448 barrels worth $11,775,345 in 1940.

Motion Picture Business Pays Five and a Half Millions In Taxes

Famous Players and its subsidiaries and affiliated companies during the year have paid to the Dominion Provincial and City governments in Canada a total of more than $5,500,000 in taxes of all kinds, including amusement taxes. This is equivalent to more than three and one half times the net earnings which were available for distribution to the shareholders of these companies, states President F. F. Fitzgibbons in his annual report.

Rapid changes in the social life of the public have been reflected in the greater demand for comedy, action and melodrama pictures. Keener interest has been evidenced in topical subjects, particularly in the newsreels and documentary films.

"The theatre business is intimately bound up with the fabric of community life throughout Canada and contributes largely of its total revenue in expenditures spent in the communities which the company serves from Halifax to Vancouver. This is indicated by the following figures

"The company and its affiliates spent last year in direct wages to employees in excess of 4,400,000 and it purchased supplies, fuel, power and so forth in excess of $1,700,000 which figure in turn was distributed amongst wage earners, merchants or others supplying materials. Added to this is in excess of $625,000 paid in newspaper advertising, and nearly $600,000 in other forms of advertising, much of which is in the form of labour to artists and in the purchase of materials; as well as over one million dollars paid to repairmen and construction people and equipment manufacturers of various kinds. These last items find their way back into the hands of the public as salaries, wages, commissions and so on.

"The company paid over $30,000 in communications in the way of telephone, telegraph and express charges.

"I have already mentioned the five and ½ million paid in taxes.

"All these monies went back into the pockets of Canadians.

"In every country the motion picture is recognized by the government as a powerful and essential voice in reaching the people; but in dictator countries the screen has been corrupted by being turned into a slave of the dictators to issue their propaganda. In countries like our own the screen is the free but willing ally of the people's government in spreading the truth about our institutions, while, at the same time, it is at liberty to play its primary role of entertaining and inspiring its audiences."

Calgary Livestock

CALGARY, April 27 (CP).—Monday's receipts: 400 cattle, 10 calves, 701 hogs, 1 sheep. Tuesday's receipts: 190 cattle, no calves, 1046 hogs, 186 sheep.

Cattle market was active at steady prices. The bulk of early hog and sheep receipts were through billed. Hogs sold Monday at 13.75 for B1's at yards and plants; Sows up to 8.50; feeder hogs 10.25 to 10.35. Common lambs 10; heavyweight sheep 5.50 to 6.50.

Tuesday's market: Good to choice butcher steers 9.75 to 10.50; common to medium 8.50 to 9.50. Good to choice heifers 8.75 to 9.50; common to medium 6 to 8.50. Good fed calves 9.75 to 10; medium 8.75 to 9.25. Good cows 7 to 7.75; common to medium 5.75 to 6.75; canners and cutters 4.25 to 5. Good veal calves 10; common to medium 8 to 9. Common bulls 6.25 to 7.25. Good stocker steers 8 to 8.75.

China to Use Tung Oil for Gas

CHUNGKING, April 28 (AP)—The Government announced today it had started construction of 25 refineries to produce gasoline from Tung oil, formerly one of China's major exports to the United States.

Gas Situation More Favorable in Western Canada

TORONTO, April 28 (CP.)—Western Canada has reasonable assurance of an adequate supply of gasoline and lubricants because of the output from Turner Valley but Eastern Canada is facing a more uncertain situation, A. L. Ellsworth, President of the British American Oil Company, Ltd., told shareholders of the Company at their annual meeting today.

The President added that the Company's United States subsidiaries would produce all requirements but the crude had to be transported through waters infested by submarines and losses could be expected. The battle of the Atlantic sea routes therefore would determine the extent to which petroleum products could be made available for the needs of direct war effort as well as for the civilian population. Needless to say war needs would come first.

Mr. Ellsworth said sales in 1941 totalled 265,569,422 gallons compared with 227,223,248 in the previous year.

Plan for successive crops. There is no good reason why corn should not be provided for until frost and peas grown in September.

Market Trends . . .

LONDON, April 28 (AP)—The stock market closed steady after a quiet session. British funds steadied at lower levels established earlier.

NEW YORK—The search for buying arguments was unsuccessful in most departments and general trends were downward.

While a few rails and specialties managed to post modest advances at the start, further softness of American Telephone, which fell to a new bottom since 1936, was an unsettling influence elsewhere.

TORONTO — The stock market was characterized by drabness and prices slipped back for small index declines in industrials and gold groups while base metals and Western oils held unchanged to slightly higher.

MONTREAL—Issues moved in a narrow channel with price changes small and irregular.

VANCOUVER—Trading picked up considerably with sales on the forenoon session totalling 7125 shares, a big improvement over yesterday's low of 475.

WINNIPEG—Fair export business bolstered by minor local and routine transactions came into trading. Wheat futures closed unchanged with May at 79¼A cents a bushel and July at 80⅝.

It was estimated the export business might reach a total of 3,000,000 bushels of wheat, presumably shipped to the United Kingdom.

CHICAGO: Wheat futures trading showed the effects of further nervousness over developments in Washington. Opening slightly higher than the previous close, most grain figures tone steadily during the forenoon, only to surrender most of the early gains around noon.

2 British Airmen Visiting Nelson

Two Old Country airmen from the staff of No. 34 Service Flying Training School, R.A.F., at Medicine Hat, are visiting in Nelson on sick leave. They are Lac. S. G. Kent of Derby, Derbyshire, who is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Padjon; and Lac. F. W. Yates of Manchester, who is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nicholls.

Both are making their first visit here.

Women's Orders at Funeral of Mrs. F. Rutherford

ROSSLAND, B. C., April 28.—The funeral of Mrs. Jesse Rutherford, aged 80 years, was held Saturday, afternoon from St. George's Church. Rev. L. A. Smith officiated.

"Rock of Ages" and "The Old Rugged Cross" were hymns sung. "No, Never Alone" was a beautifully rendered solo by Mrs. Morris. The L. O. B. A. attended in a body, as did the W.B.A.

There were many beautiful floral tributes.

Interment was in Mountain View Cemetery.

United Nations Will Hurl Japs Back Says Curtin

CANBERRA, April 29 (Wednesday) (AP)—Prime Minister John Curtin declared today that the United Nations would hurl the Japanese back to their islands and turn Hitler's dream of world conquest into "a nightmare of retribution."

Speaking on a broadcast to Great Britain, Mr. Curtin said the Nazi defeat would "release the Italian peoples fro mtheir would-be Caesar.

"The people of Australia have no illusions about this struggle," he declared. "They know this is a fight for the world itself."

From a securely held Australia, he continued, an offensive to liberate Japanese-held lands, "can go forward."

"This purpose abides with us. It keeps the Axis powers busy in the West and separated from their Eastern partner. It is a blow that will prove the turning point in the total conflict."

Interpreting The War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Ominous new Japanese moves against both the right and left flanks of the British-Chinese front in Burma indicate a crisis there before the Monsoon rains come by mid-May to stall major operations and relieve pressure on the Allies.

London reports Japanese shipping in the Bay of Bengal, indicating a sea-borne attack on the British-held right flank. But the situation on the Chinese-held Eastern front is more critical.

Several factors should be weighed in estimating probabilities on that East front. Not the least significant is the indicated decision of General Stilwell, commander of the Chinese troops, to hold his ground in the Taunggyi-Hopong sector, nearly 100 miles South-Southwest of the Nipponese spearhead.

Stilwell probably has fairly accurate estimates of the strength and composition of the Japanese forces which have by-passed the direct roads to Mandalay, which his troops guard, to strike at the Mandalay-Lashio railroad. The spearhead of that mechanized force apparently advanced 100 miles or so Northward from Loikaw in two days, meeting little resistance.

Two conclusions can be drawn from that. One is that the impending rainy season in Burma is now so close Japanese hopes of breaking through to Mandalay by the Irrawaddy or Sittang River routes had been frustrated. The other is that the thrust at Lashio or any other point on the vital railroad East of Manadalay is not in great strength.

A desperate Japanese gamble with the weather is indicated. The winds have already shifted from the "dry" Monsoon period in Burma to the "wet" currents blowing in from the Indian Ocean. That shift occurs in April, and before mid-May the torrential rains of the long wet season are due.

Presumably Stilwell's troops in the Taunggyi-Hopong section are in a position to strike Eastward in an effort to cut off the Japanese spearhead from the rear. His reported decision to retain that front even against the threat of wide encirclement from the East and North points to such an effort.

David Powell's Car on Wrong Side of Road, States Bus Driver at Inquest

David Powell's car was on the wrong side of the road when it and the Greyhound bus collided head on early Sunday morning on High Street, stated W. Earl Reid, driver of the bus, at the coroner's inquest which on Tuesday opened an investigation of Mr. Powell's death. He died shortly after the collision.

The coroner's jury heard 11 witnesses, and then with autopsy evidence still to be given to establish the cause of death, and with Mrs. Powell's story to be told, the inquest was adjourned. It will reconvene at the call of the Coroner, Dr. F. M. Auld, when Mrs. Powell is able to testify. She is now in hospital under treatment for injuries.

The jury consists of C. F. McHardy, foreman; Walter H. Smedley, Ole Olson, Frank Webber, Joseph Crosby and William H. Oliver.

E. P. Dawson attended on behalf of the Powell family; and C. B. Garland on behalf of the Greyhound Lines Ltd.

IMPOSSIBLE AVOID IT

Mr. Reid stated he saw the approaching car only when it was 30 or 40 feet away, jammed on his brakes, and tried to avoid it, but this was impossible. Immediately after the impact the bus, its brakes gone as a result of the breaking of an oil line and its steeling mechanism useless as the wheel spun in his hand, rolled over the sidewalk and into the front of a garage, stopping partially over a wall.

The impact came almost as soon as he saw the car, Mr. Reid added. He pointed out that due to a curve and the grade leading up to the level stretch on which the collision occurred, there was a "blind spot" at which approaching cars could not be seen.

TRAVELLING 23 MILES AN HOUR

B. B. Clark, who crossed the West Arm on the same ferry as the bus, and preceded it toward the city, stated the Powell car "flashed past," close to his own car, and that he heard a crash behind him almost immediately. Stopping and returning he saw the bus and car had collided. He assisted in removing Mrs. Powell, and while he was engaged in this with Mr. Stewart, someone else removed Mr. Powell. Mr. Clark stated his speed from the ferry to the scene of the accident was about 23 miles an hour. The bus was probably 50 feet behind him.

Detailing the positions of the car and bus, Constable J. C. Carpenter of the City Police showed on a sketch how he found them, and described the scene. He traced a skid mark made by the bus for 10 feet up to the point where it angled off the pavement; and a skid mark made by the right front wheel of the car "as if the wheel had been dragged around."

The bus skid mark, made by the left rear tires, was 10 feet from the curb on the North side of the pavement. The right front wheel of the car was eight feet, 11 inches from the same curb, and the left front wheel was eight feet, four inches from it, Constable Carpenter stated.

DEATH IN SHORT TIME

James Milne described how Mr. Powell was removed from the car and placed on the floor of a taxi for removal to hospital. A. H. Smith and William Gold corroborated him.

Mr. Powell died within three minutes of the time, Dr. N. E. Morrison saw him at the hospital. The doctor stated there was no external evidence to show the cause of death and he concluded severe internal injuries caused it.

While it did not apply in this case, Dr. Morrison pointed out that where a person was apparently badly injured in an accident, others assisting should be extremely careful in handling the patient. It would ordinarily be much better to place the individual on the road and await the arrival of a doctor than to place him in a car and rush him to hospital. The injury might be a broken back and handling might in such a case cause death, he pointed out.

IN GOOD HEALTH

Mr. Powell was in good health and normal in every respect when he last saw him Sunday morning a few minutes before the accident, said Arthur G. Bush, bartender at the Royal Hotel. Mr. Bush had a late snack with Mr. and Mrs. Powell at a cafe, and Mr. Powell then drove him to his home on Mill Street. The accident occurred while Mr. Powell was en route to his own home.

Walter Hendricks describing his inspection of the bus after the accident, said the brake line was severed and a section of the steeting gear was shorn off. It was almost impossible to describe specific damage on the Powell car without stripping it down, he added.

William Ramsay, photographer, identified five photos of the car and bus at the scene.

Robert Harshaw, Acting Chief of Police, gave the formal identification of the body.

Patrols Active in Libya Area

CAIRO, April 28 (AP)—There was "considerable patrol activity yesterday on both sides" in Libya and Axis columns in the South withdrew from contact with British light forces.

British torpedo planes scored a "probable hit" on a medium sized vessel in the Mediterranean Sunday and the Axis supply harbor of Bengasi and the airport at Martuba were bombed again.

ROME, April 28 (AP)—The High Command claimed Axis artillery had repelled attacks by British armored cars on the Eastern Libya battlefront.

Italian torpedo planes hit a medium-sized ship in an attack on a British convoy in the Eastern Mediterranean, the High Command also claimed, without stating extent of any damage.

No Statement to Be Made on Vichy Relations Until Dupuy Returns

OTTAWA, April 28 (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons today he will make no statement on Canadian relations with Vichy until he has conferred with Pierre Dupuy, Charge D'Affaires of Canada's French Legation who has his headquarters in London.

Mr. King said he had told the House last Thursday that he might make a statement on relations with Vichy today.

He said Mr. Dupuy has been asked to return to Canada for consultation and no statement on Vichy relations is planned until this discussion has taken place.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. House Leader, asked when this consultation could be expected.

Mr. King said Mr. Dupuy's arrival is likely "very soon."

Although Mr. Dupuy has maintained contact with the Vichy Government he has not been actually stationed at Vichy but made several visits to the Petain Government's headquarters in the past two years.

Public Received Vote Results in Record Time

TORONTO, April 28 (CP)—Canada's newspapers and two national telegraph systems cooperated—through The Canadian Press—in giving the country the results of the dominion manpower plebiscite in record time.

Two hours after the close of polls in the key provinces of Ontario and Quebec, The Canadian Press at 10 p. m. E.D.T. flashed a definite all-Canada 'Yes' vote—as balloting ended in Saskatchewan and Alberta and an hour before polls closed in British Columbia.

The early report outdid the showing in the 1940 general election when the return of the Liberal Government was flashed at 8:47 p. m. E.S.T.—13 minutes before the close of polls in British Columbia.

As a national service The Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Telegraphs contributed thousands of miles of leased wires to carry the results over a special network to the Canadian Press' 89 member newspapers—without toll charges. Progressive returns were telegraphed from 343 returning officers to a score or more of compiling centres.

The Dominion Government for the first time shared in the cost of transmission of returns. By a decision of State Secretary McLarty, thousands of deputy returning officers at rural polls were authorized to telegraph or telephone the total vote at their polls to constituency returning officers at government expense.

The CP's compilation task—divided between Toronto and Montreal bureaux—was vastly more complicated that in a general election. Instead of half-hourly standings by parties it was necessary to compile a progressive total of "Yes" and "No" votes by constituencies and provinces. Before the close of the night votes early today more than 4,000,000 votes from every constituency in Canada had been tabulated.

Back of the CP organization for compilation and transmissions of returns and stands was the Canada-wide effort of the individual newspapers which organized sub-divisions of the country, gathered returns from every constituency and handed them to The Canadian Press to be transmitted by teleprinter over the cross-country leased wire for analysis and tabulation.

The Canadian Press made its entire plebiscite service available to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and, through the CP's subsidiary, Press News, Ltd., to private broadcasting stations in Canada.

PEOPLE EXPECT ALL OUT EFFORT SAYS ABERHART

EDMONTON, April 28 (CP)—Premier Aberhart in a statement issued tday in connection with the Manpower Plebiscite vote yesterday said that now that the people have given the answer the Dominion Government sought, the people will expect nothing to be left undone to bring about an early victory in the war.

Nothing to Stop Gov't Now, Total War Need-Hanson

OTTAWA, April 28 (CP)—Conservative Leader Hanson today urged in the House of Commons that the Government "respond to the people's will for total war" in view of the results of yesterday's Plebiscite in which the majority voted to relieve the Administration from any obligations arising out of any past commitments restricting the methods of raising men for military service.

He made a brief statement when the House resumed sitting thi afternoon, and said that as a result of the Plebiscite there were now "no stumbling blocks, real or imaginary," in the way of total war.

"There are no fetters on the Prime Minister or his Government," he said. "Let us act now."

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said it would be better to postpone discussion on the Plebiscite until official returns are complete.

Any steps that might be taken as a result of the Plebiscite would be of great importance, and they would be announced in due course by the Government.

"Fortunately all members are free to speak their minds without feeling they are influenced by any past commitments," the Prime Minister said.
