BRITAIN MOVES TO TAKE OVER FRENCH NAVY

Engineer Dies as Nazis Hit Train; British Toll Up to 20

In Day of Raids Seven Die, 77 Wounded; Six Bombers Downed, Four Damaged; Women, Children on Train Narrowly Escape

LONDON, July 4 (Thursday) (CP)—The first German bombing of a moving train in Great Britain killed the engineer with bomb fragments in the climax of prolonged raids unleashed by the Nazi Air Force yesterday and last night against the British Isles.

Seven persons were reported killed and 77 wounded in the day's aerial attacks, putting the 24-hour total of air raid casualties at 20 dead and 197 wounded.

Anti-aircraft guns and fighter planes brought down six and damaged four of the German bombers that roared solo and in waves in the day-long raids yesterday and last night.

The only passengers on the bombed train were two women and two children.

"It was a miracle that we escaped and I put it down to our presence of mind in crouching near the floor" said one of the women, Mrs. P. Steward.

The toe of her right shoe was blown off. The train was filled with fragments of flying glass.

Mrs. Steward said she heard two explosions, then saw a plane swoop down. A number of bombs were dropped along the tracks.

Ten persons were reported injured in a Southeast coast town when a raider, caught in a terrific anti-aircraft fire in the glare of searchlights, jettisoned 12 bombs over working class houses.

The heaviest attacks were in the Southeast where 12 bombs were dropped on one town and nine in and near another. Other raids were in Northeast England and Scotland and Southwest England, most of them of the hit-and-run variety.

The Air Ministry in various bulletins related how airmen took to the skies and fought off the Nazi fliers.

Three Spitfire pilots attacked two Dorniers off the East coast and saw one burst into flames, turn on its back and crash into the sea. The other fled badly damaged.

Off the Aberdeenshire coast Spitfires tackled a bomber believed to be a Heinkel III which was forced down into the sea and then abandoned by its crew after offering stiff resistance. A Junkers 88 also was engaged and downed in the sea off Scotland.

A Dornier "flying pencil" was intercepted and downed by a patrolling Spitfire off the Southeast coast of England. Another enemy bomber was brought down in flames after a brief fight over the sea.

Hurricanes damaged a Heinkel over the English Channel and a Dornier off the East coast in engagements while another Dornier was hit by a hail of machine-gun fire from a fighter off the Northern coast and fled into a cloud.

A heavy bomb fell two yards from the air raid shelter of Sir John Anderson, Minister for Home Security, without damaging it.

Britain in turn struck last night at the Nazi island air base of Texel, The Netherlands, and at Ijmuiden in Northern Holland, it was announced. Other R. A. F. planes ranged the German Ruhr, Westphalia, flew as far North as Denmark and strafed the German-held port of Zeebrugge.

Flown by the Coastal Command, Hudson-Lockheed bombers attacked in The Netherlands last night. One Briton brought down a German Messerschmitt fighter with his rear gun, near Amsterdam. The R. A. F. lost one plane.

At home a baby and her grandmother were killed today in a town in Suffolk by a bomb which struck a house. Six persons were hurt. Workmen were among the 16 injured in the Northeast industrial areas of England and Scotland.

Early tonight one flight of Spitfire fighters got on the tail of a raider on the Southeast coast and sent it spinning toward the sea with a machine-gun burst. One member of the crew bailed out into the water. Two heavy bombs plumped between two Channel steamships without hitting either.

Two Big Fires on Island; 200 Fight Lumberton Blaze

VANCOUVER, July 3 (CP). — British Columbia's forest fire situation remained practically unchanged tonight, with the main fire-fighting forces being concentrated on Vancouver Island where two big fires are burning.

Forestry officials here said that the biggest blaze is whipping through 2000 acres of scrub timber in the Big Horne Valley between Port Alberni and the small East coast settlement of Bowser.

Several fire crews totalling more than 100 men were battling the stubborn blaze on all sides. Forestry officials believe that the fire has been controlled along its East side.

The second big Vancouver Island fire is in the Robertson River area of Vancouver Island, South of Cowichan Lake. The fire has been burning through logged-off lands on Lens Creek for several days. However, it is expected that fire-fighting crews will bring it under control shortly.

Two hundred fire fighters are battling a blaze extending over seven miles in length at Lumberton, B. C.

Packard Likely to Build Engines

DETROIT, July 3 (AP).—A $30,000,000 expansion program for the Packard Motor Car Company, contingent upon its acceptance of an order for airplane engine motors for the United States and Great Britain was reported probable tonight by President Max M. Gilman.

Gilman, returning from Washington conferences at which Packard tentatively agreed today to furnish 6000 Rolls-Royce engines for Britain and 3000 for United States, said the Board of Directors would meet Monday or Tuesday to consider a contract.

Gilman said he believed the Packard Board would approve the order if the contract would "protect" the company. Production of the motors would begin 10 months from the day the contract is signed.

$5 Billion War Plan Sought U.S.

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP) — Another $5,000,000,000 defence program — to finance the first great stride toward a 50,000-plane air force and to buy tanks and guns in mass production quantities—is to be laid before the United States congress next week.

The plan was approved today by President Roosevelt and his immediate lieutenants of the defence organization. If approved by congress, it will run the session's total defence authorizations and appropriations above $10,000,000,000.

Mr. Roosevelt talked the program over with his advisors, while the Senate Naval Committee was voting 9 to 5 to approve the nomination of Col. Frank Knox as his Secretary of the Navy, the second of two Republican Cabinet appointees to receive committee endorsement in as many days.

The committee considered and approved a house of representatives bill authorizing the expenditure, eventually, of $4,000,000,000 with which 200 fighting ships would be added to the navy. The legislation also would remove the present limit on the number of planes the navy could acquire.

FIRES RAGING IN NORTHWEST

PORTLAND, Ore., July 3 (AP)—Forest and farm fires roaring uncontrolled over the Pacific Northwest from Washington to mid-Oregon killed three children and destroyed a tiny Oregon lumber town.

Two boys and a girl, children of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Chase, died in a farmhouse blaze at Jasper, 10 miles Southeast of Eugene, Ore.

Washington feared a resurgence of its worst fire, near Camp McDonald in Lewis County. The State Forest Fire Association said the situation apparently was worse, with the blaze eating toward Long-Bell Lumber Company holdings. The association refused to estimate the acreage covered.

A 2000-acre fire in King County, Wash., near Seattle, and another of 7000 acres near Vail, were reported under control. On Vashon Island, in Puget Sound, a dozen homes were saved from a fire threat.

Oregon fire-fighters labored to halt a 1500-acre conflagration in old burns and slashing along the Wolf Creek highway, part of the Wolf Creek and Tillamook burns of previous years where 200,000 acres of timber was ravaged.

Flames struck at Portland, too, destroying a 1500-foot Southern Pacific Railroad lumber loading wharf and 11 railroad cars piled with lumber.

Worried Rumania Frees Prisoners to Strengthen Army

Hungarian Reservists Still Rushing to Border

BUDAPEST, July 4 (Thursday) —(AP). — Hungary ordered all military airports cleared of planes today in order to prevent their destruction in event of surprise attack.

The Government-controlled news agency in dispatches from Transylvania contended, meanwhile, the German minority in this Rumanian Province which Hungary claims is endangered by threatened disorder.

The agency, which previously had reported alleged mistreatment of the Hungarian minority in Transylvania, said the commander of the National Guard in the German areas had demanded reinforcements. The dispatch added that Saxon and Swabian residents are being kept under close watch.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, July 3 (AP). — A stream of Hungarian military reservists poured into concentration points along the Rumanian frontier today for the third successive day.

Passenger traffic on the Danube in Hungary will be brought almost to a standstill tomorrow, it was announced. Cancellation of public events scheduled for July and August was ordered.

Hundreds of the capital's taxicab drivers were called up to drive commandeered trucks for the military.

From Belgrade, Yugoslav economists reported that harvests in Southern European states probably would be 25 to 30 per cent less than normal.

Germany Reported to Have Refused to Help

BUCHAREST July 3 (AP). — Rumania, almost despairing of the help she had expected from Germany, opened her prison doors tonight in a desperate search for every available man to meet threats from within and without her borders.

It was indicated prisoners whose sentences would have been finished between now and Nov. 15 and those serving sentences of not more than six months for minor offences, would be turned loose.

On guard against violent anti-Jewish demonstrations which already had weakened the country internally in her hour of grave outer peril, police in armored cars followed by truck-loads of gendarmes paraded the main boulevards of Bucharest.

The news from Berlin that Germany had backed away from the idea of giving formal assurances of help against any further attacks on Rumanian frontiers fell heavily upon officials who had hoped for a close tie-up with the Reich.

It came just as King Carol was giving audience to three pro-German politicians who are Transylvanians — natives of the area which Hungary wants to regain from Rumania.

To Carol's palace went General Ion Antonescu, former War Minister in the Goga (pro-Nazi) Cabinet; George Bratiano, a dissident Liberal leader, and Dr. Alexander Vaid-Voevod, a former Premier who in 1934 prophesied that the Nazi Iron Guard would some day lead Rumania.

The country observed a day of mourning over the loss to Soviet Russia, under Moscow's ultimatum, of one sixth of its territory—Bessarabia and Northern Bucovina. Flags were at half mast.

BUCHAREST, July 4 (Thursday)—(AP).—Posters put up in Rumania today called upon the public to report all foreign planes seen and to hold by force any parachutist who might land.

Warships Clash as French Admiral in Africa Balks Move

"Operation Is Continuing" Says Ministry; Misunderstanding Causes 2 Casualties as Ships in British Ports Taken

LONDON, July 4 (Thursday)—(CP).—French and British warships have clashed off the North coast of Africa, the Minister of Information announed today, as a result of Great Britain's efforts to keep the navy of her conquered ally, by force or agreement, from falling into the hands of Germany and Italy.

The statement said that a sudden move to place all French warships in British ports under control of the Royal Navy was completed successfully with only two casualties.

Elsewhere, however, there were difficulties. The statement said that in the locality of Oran, Algeria, the French Admiral in command would not accept British conditions and action had to be taken.

The Ministry statement follows:

"It will be recalled that the French Government, relying upon the promises of Germany and Italy not to use her fleet against France's former ally, undertook by the terms of the armistice to allow their fleet to pass into the hands of the enemy.

"His Majesty's Government, having lost all faith in promises made by the Governments of Germany and Italy, felt that they were compelled, not only in their own interests, but also in the hope of restoring the independence of France and the integrity of the French Empire, to take steps before it was too late to ensure that the fleet should not be used against them by the common enemy.

"With this object in view steps were taken in the early morning of July 3 to place all French men of war in British ports under British control.

"This operation was successfully carried out with only two casualties, which occurred owing to a misunderstanding. At the same time French vessels in ports of North Africa were offered certain conditions designed solely for the purpose of keeping them out of German hands.

"It was explained to the officer in command that if none of these conditions were accepted Great Britain was prepared to take every step in order to ensure that none of these vessels should be used against her for the future prosecution of the war.

"His Majesty's Government deeply regret that the French Admiral in command at Oran refused to accept any of the conditions proposed, with the inevitable result that action had to be taken against the French vessels in that locality. These operations are still proceeding.

"A statement will be made to Parliament later today by the Prime Minister."

MINERS RETURN TO WORK

GLACE BAY, N. S., July 3—(CP)—A one-day tie-up of five Dominion Coal Company collieries in Cape Breton, affecting about 3750 men, ended today as miners on the day shifts went down into the pits.

The tie-up was caused bl refusal of native-born Canadians in Nos. 1-B, 2, 4, 10 and 20 collieries to work with foreign-born miners. Majority of the latter did not show up at the mines this morning, and those who did made no attempt to go underground.

1000 Believed Drowned in Torpedoing of Ship Carrying Nazis, Italians

By SAM ROBERTSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, July 3 (CP Cable)—One-thousand persons were estimated tonight to have drowned in the torpedoing off Ireland by a German submarine of the Canada-bound big British liner Arandora Star, jammed with German and Italian internees.

The liner was taking the interned Germans and Italians to the Dominion, where a group of war prisoners arrived last week.

Many survivors said a "hysterical scramble" and "cattle-like behavoir" of the internees in their efforts to push into lifeboats were responsible for the heavy casualties.

"Germans and Italians fought and kicked each other in efforts to save their own necks," said a Welsh soldier who was aboard as a guard. "The Huns were the worst offenders. Scores of them had to be forcibly restrained."

It was not known for certain whether a German or an Italian submarine destroyed the 15,501-ton liner. But the fact the sinking was reported in the Berlin communique indicated a German craft was responsible.

The Arandora Star was relatively small but one of the world's finest and most luxurious cruising vessels before the war.

She was used for round-the-world cruises annually and also made a Spring trip to the West Indies, a Christmas trip to the Mediterranean and an Autumn Baltic cruise.

At the peak of her glory she had a garden deck, magnificent period rooms and a swimming pool.

The Blue Star Line, owners of the liner, said that "a fair proportion" of the crew was saved.

The water was strewn with wreckage and bodies after the torpedo exploded, survivors stated.

A Canadian ship was the first boat to answer the SOS that crackled out when the torpedo struck.

"This Canadian ship raced up with every ounce of her speed," said a rescued guard. "The ship loaded herself to the hilt with men plucked from the water."

Big Rush for Visas on Cory at Trail but Great Majority Lack Passports

Special Procedure Enemy Origin, Scribes

Of 61 applicants for visas who called on Thomas J. Cory, United States Vice-Consul at Trail up to 4 p.m. yesterday, 51 of them thought that they could obtain passports through that office.

The fact in the situation is that Vice-Consul Cory does not issue passports. That is done only by the Canadian Government. Then, when the passport has been obtained, it must be personally taken by the holder to Mr. Cory, and a visa for admission to the United States obtained before it is valid for crossing the border.

PASSPORTS FROM OTTAWA

Canadians who wish to visit the United States must first obtain a passport from Ottawa. The procedure for that is simple. Forms can be obtained from transportation companies or from the Passport Officer, Department of External Affairs, at Ottawa.

The form is completed, two photographs attached, and sent with the necessary fee to the Passport Officer at Ottawa. So far, any applications from this district seem to have gone through promptly, but there may be congestion later. The fee for a five-year passport is $5, renewable for another five years for $2. A passport good for one year only is issued for $1.

After the passport has been obtained, the holder must appear personally before an American consular representative. The nearest is Mr. Cory, who has this week opened an American vice-consular office in Trail, or the passport holder may go to Vancouver or Calgary.

The United States government is placing no unnecessary barriers in the way of the issuance of visas. In fact, it is taking such steps as the opening of the office in Trail in order to facilitate visa work. Reputable permanent citizens of Canada who have obtained passports will have no difficulty in obtaining visas. Once a visa has been obtained, immigration formalities at the border will be as hitherto.

MORE STEPS FOR SOME

Naturalized Canadians who came from countries with which Canada is now at war will have to go through some additional steps in order to obtain a visa. They will have to be able to assure the United States consular service that they will be readmitted to Canada at the conclusion of their visits to the United States. This can be done through cooperation with the police on this side of the line and the Canadian immigration officials who will be responsible for their readmittance from the United States.

Newspapermen also have to go through more formalities than Canadians engaged in other occupations. In the case of all who might write for newspapers or other publications, visas are only issued after reference to Washington of the facts in the case, by the American consul-general in British Columbia. The reason for this has not been announced, but it is believed to be to protect the United States against the admission of possible unfriendly propagandists.

Larson Pays $50 Fine on Charges Under Wages Act

Carl A. Larson, Manager of the Kootenay Steam Laundry, pleaded guilty to two charges of failing to pay wages semi-monthly, and was fined $25 on each count by Magistrate William Brown, in Police Court Wednesday morning.

The charges were laid by Bliss W. Dysart, Provincial Wage Inspector, on information from R. Geddes and R. J. McCandlish, laundry employees. Mr. Larson informed the court that because of poor business conditions he had been unable to pay his employees fully as required by the Act, but he had paid them what he was able and under agreements with them had promised to pay in full when business improved. Only that morning, he said, he gave the two men demand notes in full payment of their wages. The notes were produced in court.

Mr. Larson was charged under Section 3 of the Act, for unlawfully failing to pay $256.96 in wages to McCandlish for nine weeks' work up to June 3 and $207.48 in wages to Geddes for seven weeks' work up to June 3. Payment of these sums, however, was covered by the demand notes, accepted by the employees Wednesday morning.

Baptists' Meet Great Success Says Mr. Ward

"A particularly successful convention" was the description of the Baptist Union of Western Canada convention at Edmonton by Rev. Gerald M. Ward, who with Mrs. Ward and E. H. Evans, Deacon, attended the meet as Nelson First Baptist Church delegates, after their return here Wednesday. Two distinguished speakers, Dr. J. H. Rushbrooke of London, President of the Baptist World Alliance, and Prof. McCracken of McMaster University, Hamilton, were heard at the convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward, along with four Church young people plan to leave by car this morning for Trepanier Camp near Peachland in the Okanagan for a week-long Interior Baptists Young Peoples Assembly. Travelling with Mr. and Mrs. Ward will be Miss Ellen McCandlish, Miss Florence Jeffries, Miss Doris Wesley and Miss Geraldine Dodman.

With the Pastor absent, Sunday's service here will be conducted by laymen, Mr. Evans giving a report on the convention at the morning service, while Frank Stuart will conduct the evening worship.

Londoners Have Chins Up Their Epistles Show

Private mail recently received by Nelson residents from relatives in London, England, indicate that Londoners, at least, are in brave heart, and have their chins well up, though they realize that the air-raids so far are only dress-rehearsals for the "big-show" to come all too soon.

That the imminent danger is fully realized by the individual, civilian though he or she be, is indicated by the significant remark: "Now, everything I do, I feel it may be for the last time!"

Letters tell of the marvellously fine Spring with which England has been favored this year, and of the general loveliness of both town and country. Londoners, if one letter in question can be taken as example, have no intention of running away from their jobs or their homes, even if well within the danger zones, though they are anxious for the children and hope they will be got away in good time. They are willing, however, to run to the air-raid shelters, of which many have been provided within the big city, of suitable depth and protection for all who can get to them in time.

German Finances Good Example for Canada Says M.P.

By CARL REINKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 3 (CP.)—Canada's fight against Germany might well be made more effective if Canada took a leaf from Germany's book of financial policy and expanded its credit until maximum production was attained, Victor Quelch (N. D., Acadia), urged in the House of Commons.

Instead of burdening the people with heavy taxation and huge borrowings to finance the war, the Dominion Government, he said, during the budget debate last night, should expand credit up to the point where full employment is reached—just as Germany, destitute and without capital in 1932, had done to build its huge war machine.

Consistently, Mr Quelch submitted a sub-amendment to the budget motion asserting that "there should have been no increased tax burden placed upon the consumer until Canada attained maximum production of desired commodities or full employment by issuing through the Bank of Canada currency and credit in terms of actual public need."

Following Germany's example in finance, he hastened to add, did not mean he was advocating Nazi-ism, any more than did the use of tanks or dive bombers just because Germany used them.

Work on U. S. Air Bases in Alaska Gets Under Way

By DEVON FRANCIS
Associated Press Aviation Editor

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, July 3 (AP)—On 500 acres of a flat, sun-seared piece of interior Alaska the United States Army has completed preliminary work for the runways of an airport which will serve both as an air defence base and as a tactical training centre at the "top of the world."

Five air bases are under construction in Alaska by the army and the navy. At a cost of perhaps $25,000,000 the services propose to set up at least the embryo of an air defense system.

Since last Fall the survey and actual work at Sitka, Anchorage, Fairbanks, Unalaska (Dutch Harbor) and Kodiak has progressed more rapidly than military men care to admit. Unalaska will be a submarine, as well as an air base.

At Sitka the plane hangars already are up. The first contingent of infantrymen was landed last week at Anchorage for the protection of the army air base. At Fairbanks a Winter-long experiment on the "staying qualities" of concrete for runways in temperatures of 50 and 60 below zero is complete.

Territorial Governor Ernest Gruening says Alaska needs more than 10 first-class airports for defence. It has no airport of that calibre yet.

The five bases and two or three others projected, including one at Metlakatla, an island just South of Ketchikan in the Alaskan panhandle, protect Alaska's "Back Door but the front door, draining off the Bering shore, the Northwest Arctic slope and the seaward peninsula, is wide open.

Apart from ordinary air defence outposts in Alaska for the protection of the North continent from the West is the importance of the areas back of the front door as a source of raw materials.

New Bill Orders Strict Control Over Hungarian Jews

BUDAPEST, July 3 (AP)—Segregation of Jews in special railway cars is one of the provisions of a new anti-Jewish bill introduced in Parliament today by the Hungarian Nazi Party. The bill forbids Jews to drive automobiles; hoist the Hungarian flag; become midwives; buy anything from a peasant; sign any legal document.

In order to "restrict the propogation of Jews" in Hungary, the bill also provided that only the eldest sons and eldest daughters of Jewish families may marry.

The bill fuurther provides that non-Jewish men who marry Jewish women would henceforth be classed as Jews. Jews with "Hungarian family names" would be required to change them to "Hebrew" names. Jews would be permitted to buy, sell or read only books written in Hebrew or Yiddish.

No foreign Jews would be given visas to enter Hungary. Jews would not be permitted to employ Gentile women under the age of 40. All business establishments employing one or more Jews would be classed as Jewish enterprises.

Creston School Board Clears Up Business

CRESTON, B. C.—Chairman S. A. Speers and Trustees Donald K. Archibald, E. E. Cartwright, H. S. McCreath and Hilton Young of Creston Valley United School district were in session to clear up some arrears of business and expedite the work of the auditor in connection with the rate-payers annual meeting about the middle of July.

William Upton, grange and transportation superintendent who has enlisted was given leave of absence for the duration of the war. No move was made to fill the temporary vacancy, which will probably be left for the new Trustee Board.

As yet there are but two resignations from the 36-teacher staff employed. These are Miss Mary Baldwin, teacher of Home Economics and Miss Williams, who has been in charge of the one-room elementary school at West Creston since the first of the year.

The trustees are meeting Monday evening next at which the estimates for 1940-41 will be finally considered. Supervising Janitor R. R. Roebuck has completed a two-week holiday and he and his assistants on Tuesday commence the midsummer renovation of all the schools in the consolidation. Some painting and repairs will be undertaken at the rural schools.

French Fought Five Days After Armistice

LONDON, July 3 (CP)—A Reuters News Agency dispatch today from Vichy, France, said General Maxine Weygand in an order of the day disclosed that 22,000 French troops in the Maginot Line, unaware of the armistice with Germany, fought for five days after the "cease fire" order.

Weygand said the troops were "surrounded in fortifications they had been ordered to defend to the end," and the order to end resistance did not reach them.

"Refusing all communications of the enemy," he said, "they continued the battle until the French command was able to communicate with them.

"This page of valor and faithfulness to military duty adds to those already written."

U. S. Army Orders Over a Billion Defence Contracts

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP).—The United States army and navy have put their pens to more than $1,000,000,000 worth of defence contracts during the last month, a recapitulation showed today.

The contracts — covering items from beans to bombers, solder to submarines — represent, for the most part, the first big block of expenditure commitments in the $4,500,000,000 cash program voted by Congress for the fiscal year which began July 1.

Reports of this progress came as a senate Naval Committee scheduled consideration of the unprecedented $4,800,000,000 navy expansion bill which would authorize a 70 per cent jump in fleet strength. The House already has approved the measure.

In compiling the billion dollar record the navy led the way with orders for 87 vessels at a cost of $910,279,000. The sum represents hull construction and machinery only. At least $250,000,000 more will be required to complete equipment of the ships.

The awarding of the navy contracts put under way all the 11 per cent fleet expansion voted earlier this month, with the exception of two cruisers and three aircraft carriers.

Although a large part of the contracts represent funds contained in the $4,500,000,000 appropriations for the new fiscal year, some—notably those for final equipment of warships—were made under authorization for which money will be voted during the next several years.

'Hong Kong Not to Be Blockaded'

HONG KONG, July 3 (CP)—Japan's Consul General here, Gen. K. Okazaki issued a statement today saying Japan had no intention of blockading this British colony by military measures taken along the colony's mainland border.

The Japanese actions, Okazaki explained, in no way blockaded the inflow of Hong Kong's food supplies, since, he said, all coastal and foreign shipping continues unmolested.

Japanese military measures taken along the mainland border are solely to plug this 20-mile gap in Japan's tightened and extended supply blockade against the areas of China controlled by General Chiang Kai-Shek, the Consul General explained.

The Japanese, he said, will arrange to permit foods to pass into these mainland lines to Hong Kong.

Creston Couple Wed at Pretty Ceremony

CRESTON, B. C.—An attractive June wedding took place at Christ Church, Creston, at which the Rector, Rev. A. S. Partington, united in marriage Miss Doris Amy, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crosby, with George Arthur, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. J. Collis.

The bride was gowned in a white suit with blue accessories, and was attended by the groom's sister, Miss Dorothy Collis, who wore a rose suit with white accessories. The best man was T. Christianson of Cranbrook, brother-in-law of the bride.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, which was effectively decorated with a great profusion of flowers, with a three-tier wedding cake centring the bride's table.

In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Collis left for Nelson and points West, and after the wedding trip will take up residence at South Slocan. For travelling the bride donned a navy tailored suit.

The bride, who is a graduate of Creston High School, and prominent in the younger set, was guest of honor at a number of social affairs during the past couple of weeks.

Fear Iran Will Strike for Rich Iraq Oil Fields

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

ISTANBUL, July 3 (AP)—Well informed Turkish quarters asserted today that they expect a German-inspired drive against the oil-rich State of Iraq, which has an alliance with Great Britain.

Iraq, it was said already has asked Turkey what help could be expected in the event of possible aggression by Iran (Persia) which now, according to informed opinion here, is pro-Nazi.

The Shah of Iran, Reza Khan Pahlavi, is feared here to have plans for carving a mid-Eastern Empire for himself, collaborating with the Germans in their long-range program for a "march to the East."

Iraq was reported fearing that the Persians will firs claim the Province of Kerbila, which they consider theirs since it is the centre of Shiite (Persian) Mohammedism, and then go after Mosul in an attempt to cut off British oil supplies in the East.

Iraq, freed from the Turks in the First Great War and under mandate to Great Britain until 1927, lies just South of Eastern Turkey, with Iran to the East of her.

Turks also feel that the war will soon spread to Syria, in view of France's apparent determination to hold it, and failing that, Britain's plans to take it over to protect, in turn, Palestine and Egypt.

Switzerland Views German Criticism With Grave Concern

BERNE, Switzerland, July 3 (AP)—Switzerland, acutely aware of her position as an island of democracy in the midst of totalitarian lands, heard with concern today the first echoes of criticism from Germany.

Only last night German troops occupied the last of the former French outposts along Switzerland's Western border.

The Swiss cocked an attentive ear to these two statements from Berlin:

1. In comment on expulsion from Germany of Reto Caratsch, chief Berlin correspondent of the leading Swiss newspaper, Nue Zuricher Zeitung, an authorized Nazi spokesman said that "if such reporting had continued, it would have endangered the existence of the Swiss State." The spokesman said the action resulted from comment on Soviet-German relations.

2. The German radio said British bombers which reached German cities on Lake Constance Sunday and then flew South to drop some bombs in Swiss peat bogs and forests had flown over Swiss territory to get at Germany.

Although the Swiss Government has made no comment on these two incidents, President Marcel Pilet-Golaz has warned his countrymen in effect that their life henceforth will be no bed of roses.

WEYGAND IN SYRIA

ISTANBUL, Turkey, July 3 (AP). — Reports that Gen. Maxine Weygand, former Commander in Chief in France, had arrived in Syria were received here today. Rene Massigli, French Ambassador to Turkey, left Ankara for Syria and it was reported he was to confer there with Weygand.

England Appeals for United Ireland

LONDON, July 3 (CP) — Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard declared today that "Ireland is in peril and her peril is ours."

The newspaper, urging unity of Northern Ireland and Eire for defence purposes, said that added military preparedness in the island "is more than halved by political differences."

"The people of England implore the people of Ireland that they should search for compromise," the Standard said. "United Ireland for defence purposes is a paramount necessity for the safety of millions of lives."

Guysboro County Ready Against Enemy Attack

SHERBROOKE, N. S., July 3 (CP)—Guysboro County stands ready to fend off enemy attacks on its rugged Atlantic coastline today under a plan devised by the Sherbrooke branch of the Canadian Legion.

The scheme, approved by both military and Legion authorities, aims principally at making Guysboro's population "defence conscious". Fishermen, lighthousekeepers miners, even Boy Scouts, have their places.

Each man is detailed to guard a mile of the shore. If he should sight suspicious-looking craft it is his duty to phone a central headquarters and prearranged action will be launched.

A test of the system found it clicking the other day when the Pacific-bound schooner Thunderbird foundered on the coast. Within half an hour, its identity was established and "headquarters" was in possession of full details.

Detailed maps cover the region; every telephone is charted; guides for regular armed forces have received instructions; and equipment for "actual preliminary defence" has been given the men. Fire fighting units have been organized. Lighthouse keepers keep a vigilant eye cast on the Atlantic as the first line of defence.

Boy Scouts, who will act as guides or messengers, are also being instructed in signalling.

The plan, complementary to military arrangements, is similar to one already in operation around Halifax

Japan Ready to Fight Britain and U. S. Says Red Radio

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP) — The Moscow radio, in a broadcast here last night by the National Broadcasting Company, quoted the Tokyo newspaper Nichi Nichi as saying of the transfer of the United States fleet to the Hawaiian Islands:

"No matter what measures the U. S. A. adopts in order to restrain Japan, they will prove ineffective in view of the present international situation. We intend calmly to observe the steps taken by the Americans."

The Moscow broadcast, in English, added that the Tokyo newspaper said:

"The Japanese fleet is ready for decisive action should friction arise between Japan and the U. S. A. and Great Britain on the question of establishing a new order in Eastern Asia."

NEW STOCKING FABRIC-NYLON HAS SNAG AND RUN TROUBLE

Twelve of 37 Pairs Nylon Not Usable After Five Days Against 15 for Silk

(PM, News for Living, New York)

On May 15, before PM was born, nylon hose made its debut. We wanted to be the first to tell whether nylon is worth the money. So we bought some, went to Consumers Union, asked them to tell us what they found out as soon as their own tests were far enough along.

In the test, 45 girls wore nylon, silk and cotton hose in daily rotation, followed identical washing instructions, reported daily on the amount of walking done, the kind of shoes worn and the failures that occurred.

The nylon stockings were listed as 45 gauge, 30 denier, cost $1.15 a pair. The silk hose were 51 gauge, three thread, appeared to be about the same sheerness as the nylon.

The cotton hose were 42 gauge lightweight mesh, made of two-ply cotton lisle. The cotton hose were made by the Gotham Hosiery Co., from a style developed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture in an effort to increase cotton consumption. The silk and cotton hose cost $1 a pair.

RESULTS

Up to the time of the latest tabulation 37 of the 45 girls had worn the different types of hose five days each (five days is generally considered to be the life of silk hose), and here is what happened.

Fifteen out of 37 pairs of silk stockings were no longer usable.

Twelve out of 37 pairs of nylon stockings were no longer usable.

Five of 37 pairs of cotton stockings were no longer usable.

The girls generally objected to wearing cotton hose—said they bagged at the knees and didn't look well. So the wearing tests on cotton hose will be dropped.

At first they said the nylon hose felt strange, clammy, cold and stiff. The strangeness wore off, and they no longer seemed conscious of the difference. Some of the girls bought nylon since wearing them in the test.

Failures in the nylon hose resulted in all cases to date from snagging and running. Nylon was found to be smoother than silk, and when snagged the thread slips through the weave more easily than does silk thread without breaking. But when it is broken, runs develop longer and faster than in silk.

Most of the failures in silk hose came from holes that worked through in heels or toes. U. S. Testing Bureau reports showed that nylon has seven or eight times greater resistance to abrasion than does silk, which explains why the silk hose rubbed through more quickly.

As soon as we can get new facts on the tests, we will pass them along.—H. C.

SERIAL STORY . . . By Oren Arnold

HAPPINESS, C. O. D.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

Because she liked the way he said things as much as what he said, Gayle had slipped into the habit of reading Cholly Farrington's gossipy column every morning in The Chronicle-Post. Several mornings recently he had chatted about The Oaks and the goings-on there. Most of what he said had been complimentary.

This morning she was downstairs at 7 o'clock, and Graham brought her the paper on a tray with a tall glass of pineapple juice. The juice, slightly chilled, had a sprig of mint in it, mint from the Merrifield garden on the East side. The yellow juice and the green mint were beautiful, and Gayle lolled back in a deep porch chair to enjoy the luxury here. She sipped the juice, and nibbled at the mint to enhance its aroma, and she gazed out at the glory of the early morning. She had come to like these breakfast hours more and more. Sometimes she ate and visited here with old Mr. Merrifield, sometimes she was alone.

"I'm not entitled to all this," she told herself today, as she had often done before. "Why should I be suddenly snatched from a cottage struggling all the time for a living, and be placed in a mansion? I was not destined for this. It's grand, but it doesn't belong to me."

Still, she knew better than to walk out deliberately on such a "break" in life. She had come here to get a job and certainly it was no fault of hers if the job turned out to be a strange, whimsical one in surroundings of dignity and wealth. In these modern times one takes whatever good job one can find, so long as it is respectable.

"It may not last long," she admitted to her mother on visits home. "But it certainly is in my favor while I'm there. Mr. Merrifield is ever so generous. The 'expense money' he gives amounts to a salary, really. I'm ahead even if I never get the—the $10,000."

"Oh, dear!" Her mother had been distressed about that, and was still so every time Gayle mentioned it. "I don't like your having to court a rich young man, or make him—whatever it is, I don't like having your heart tampered with, Gayle, honey. Not for any pay."

Gayle had laughed that off.

"Oh, gee, that's just all in fun, really, mother. I'm nothing but a sort of hostess there, and a big sister to Jeremy. I'm quietly coaching him along. If he should happen to imagine himself in love with me some time and propose to me, that would be grand. I would simply be sweet to him and maybe direct his interest. You see, Jeremy's emotions are back in the high school stage. He may fall in love two or three times before he really wants to get married, mother."

Mrs. Dixon had sighed. "You talk like a mature woman, child."

"Goodness, mother, I am almost 23!"

Alone on the broad porch at The Oaks this morning, though, Gayle realized that her own heart was not immune to emotional stimuli, after all. She had, somehow, done a lot of mixed-up thinking in bed, illogical but insistent imaginings. She had gone to bed at 10, and gotten up at 11 to hunt a bite to eat and then wander around the house aimlessly in her silk dressing robe and dainty mules—the blue set she had gotten for Christmas.

Bill had come in at midnight, and after they had talked a bit she went back to bed. Bill had said that he saw Lola Montesa but he hadn't explained anything about why. This morning she was still vaguely disturbed by it. Her pineapple juice was almost done when she opened The Chronicle-Post to read it.

Cholly Farrington's column was on page two. Short punch sentences and paragraphs, always entertaining. She hoped he might cheer her up this morning. The second topic caught her attention at once.

"Lolled last evening in La Casa Mexicana, the new chili-pot-and pepper emporium on Fiftieth Street. Seems you have to wear a mantilla or a serape, or at least know what these items are, in order to get in there, but yours truly slipped in concealed in a tamale shuck. Typical tipica music was tintibulating; a gay thing in swirls and castanets and little else held the diners' interest—except for me. In a corner I discovered that Montesa person from Merrifield's Oaks.

"She's the dark beauty who, among others, is being dangled under grandson's eyes. But grandson wasn't with her. Bailey, the boy actor, floated in her wake. Bailey knows a good thing when he sees it. They said in college that he was a smart lad. He's proving it now. We can't yet report what the next play at the Merrifield Little Theatre is to be, if any, but we'll bet it's some sort of fiesta where an olive-skinned beauty can take the lead.

"Which reminds us to worry about the Dixon lass — remember her in "Maid to Measure," or couldn't you get seats? Now, there's a blonde dream! She doesn't know it yet herself, but she's due for a tryout in the movies. Sid Obermann, who loves nothing better than to star a brand new girl in a feature-length rather than build her up by degrees, liked the photographs of the beauteous Dixon immensely. He's due in town this month. He'll want Bailey of the irresistible smile to perform with her, but if there's a lump of Mexico involved now—"

The gossipy column disturbed Gayle anew.

She put down her glass and reread the passage, and was suddenly furious at the possibilities it suggested. A movie tryout? That should have been exciting news; but, no, she was not even remotely interested in the movies. Anyway, that wasn't the part of Farrington's column which interested her now.

Bill hadn't said anything about taking Lola to a night club! Bill had even hinted strongly that Lola was the person who stole the Tways' watch — and yet Bill had taken Lola out to dance and have a good time.

"He's never taken — he's never even asked me for a date!" Gayle whispered to herself. Her lips were drawn tight so that they lost much of their natural color. But all at once she relaxed, slumped back in her chair and smiled. "I'm being very silly," she mused. "What if he did take Lola out. Why shouldn't he? I don't have any—we both just work here, and everything."

It was a way to restore her good humor, but it did not settle the vague little rankling deep in her heart. In a person of uglier temperament the rankling might have swelled out of all proportion; in Gayle it was firmly bottled down, and she smiled and chatted amiably with the butler when he served her waffles and honey and coffee on a little table beside her chair. The waffles had chopped pecans cooked in them, and so were irresistibly good. Ashamed of her appetite, she allowed Graham to bring her two more, and then she went back especially to compliment the cook, Wallace. Wallace, who already idolized Gayle, now was enslaved even more.

She found Jeremy Tucker in the big reception room next, and she chatted briefly with him. Mr. Weems came along, and they chatted. Three of the six "Merrifield girls" (the town had started calling them that) arrived by bus and were walking up the long driveway arm in arm, so Gayle went out to greet them and they talked a while. Then about 8 o'clock she happened on to Bill.

"Morning," she said heartily.

"Hello. Gee, but you look fine today, Gayle. After being up late."

"So do you—after dancing all evening."

"How'd you know I was dancing?"

"I'm psychic. Now, hold still a moment"—she pretended to go into a trance, holding her forehead, eyes closed, looking very tense — "you spoke of theft, but you acted in terms of romance. . . . I see much dancing. Music. String music. Spicy food. Peppery. Colorful decorations and costumes—is it Mexican?—it is. I see you and her at a small table. I see—"

"Sa-a-ay!" Bill interrupted. "Were you — you said you stayed here all evening, alone."

"Oh, I did."

"But look—you—look, Gayle, I had to do that. I mean, I wanted to take Lola out and—and sort of—uh—"

"Sure, I know how it is. Sort of dance and talk and eat and have a good time. Everybody likes to do that. Why are you trying to apologize, Bill?"

She spoke ever so cheerfully, but factually, and with just that right little touch of impersonal coldness which a clever girl can show. Bill was instantly miserable. He set in to improve his condition at once.

Gayle, on the other hand, was instantly ashamed of herself. Quite without reasoning about it, she had tacitly reprimanded him. She could not say why. There was no earthly reason why Bill should not take Lola Montesa dancing. She, Gayle, had no strings on either of them, surely.

And yet—there had been a sort of growing, if unspoken, understanding between her and Bill. They had been thrown together happily from the first morning Mr. Merrifield hired them, and they had held joint responsibilities since. Hence it just sort of seemed that he and she—

"Look, Gayle, I want to talk to you. I'll go get the car and we'll take a little spin somewhere right now. Okay?"

She wanted to say yes. But she had already set her course and intuition told her not to change it.

"Thanks, Bill. Sweet of you. But Jeremy asked me this morning if I would go horseback riding with him. I've got to hurry up and dress for it right now."

Fungus . . .

Salt Water Itch Affects Novice Ocean Bathers

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

In the region of Southern ocean waters, bathers sometimes get a dermatitis which the natives call "salt water itch." It appears most often in the armpits, coming on at the same time on both sides. It is very unlikely that it is due to salt water alone. More probable is the explanation that it is due to some minute animal or tropical plant. The old timers and regular bathers are not so subject to it as the visitors who acquire it in about two to four weeks; this would make it look as if the regular bathers acquired an immunity.

The armpits are natural places for fungus infections to grow; the hair provides a good resting place for them; the situation is warm and moist, an ideal culture medium.

As to prevention, soap and fresh water after the swim is the most natural and easiest effective remedy. Applications of 50 per cent alcohol and boric acid solution is a good routine for after bathing. The use of an oily application before bathing—olive oil, cocoanut oil or petrolatum—is a good protective device.

Treatment of "salt water itch" after it has occurred, with calamine lotion, salicylic acid ointment or ammoniated mercury ointment if secondary infection has occurred, is reported to be successful.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

C. L.—"Please answer if you can have whooping cough and not whoop. My little granddaughter has had a bad cough for about seven weeks, vomits, and it really seems like whooping cough but there is no whoop."

Answer—The whoop of whooping cough is due to a spasm of the larynx after a prolonged spell of coughing, so that the child sucks in the breath, making the characteristic noise. If this spasm is not present, there will be no whoop, but there may be whooping cough just the same. A child who has been coughing for seven weeks and vomits probably has whooping cough.

Modern Marriage . . .

Old-Fashioned Advice Offered

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Said an old gentleman the other day: "I think you should give these modern young folks some old-fashioned advice. If they'd take it, it would save them a lot of trouble and despair."

"For instance?" I asked.

"Well, my wife didn't know anything about psychology as they teach it today. She hadn't taken any course in love and marriage. She had never heard about adjusting and rationalizing, sublimating, escaping, and the rest of that tommyrot; but she knew how to make a man happy, give him a comfortable home, be a good mother to his children, as well as his best friend.

She could sew, cook, mend, darn and press a suit if that was necessary. Fortunately, I was able to give her a servant and she didn't have to do all these things. But the fact that she knew how to do them insured her having them done well. She always got her money's worth in service and, when the cook didn't come we'd have better meals than when she did.

"Nowadays the young people hear so much about sex that they have lost sight of the practical, homely aspects of marriage, which are more important in the long run. Why put in time making a home when there's so little time spent there? Why learn to cook when grocery store and delicatessne are around the corner? Why sit at home and read when the movie offers entertainment requiring no effort?

"I'm not one to say there are no days like the old days, but I do say our young people are throwing out some things they need to steady them in these wild days. Husbands and wives grow together more securely in the privacy of a home than in a movie house or on a dance floor.

"And the children? What's to become of the children of these young parents who rush about from one party to another? Why, the children don't know their parents, and the parents regard their children as nuisances to be got rid of in any manner possible.

"They may find the gaiety but they won't find happiness, and they are bringing up a generation of youngsters who don't know the meaning of the word home. I'm sorry to say it, but the blame lies at the door of the women who are not satisfied to rule the world by rocking the cradle in the privacy of their homes, but prefer to rule it with glamor and gaiety in public."

Accidents . . .

Safety First in Your Own Home

By GARRY C. MYERS, M.D.

Are you or Grandma, the children, or others of your household going to number among the 40,000 persons now alive who will be killed by accident? Will you or yours be one of the 170,000 permanently disabled, or one of the 8,500,000 temporarily crippled in this same span of time, by accident?

FLOOR, STAIRS, BATH

Most home accidents occur from falls and burns. Polished floors are slippedy unless when waxed they are rubbed down to a hard, dry finish. And those scatter rugs! Why put these perils at the head or foot of the stairs?

To make life safer on your stairs have good strong railings one can grasp; also on porch and cellar stairs. Have railings, too, that you can grasp to help you enter and leave the bathtub securely; and to stand without slipping at the shower. Nonskid mats might also help.

BEWARE BURNS

Fat on the fire is not to be fooled with. Use a deep kettle and let the contents cool before straining it. And you know what happens when some drops of water get into the frying fat.

And don't try to fight fat or oil fire with water. Sprinkle on a handful of salt, use a fire extinguisher, or call the fire department.

Keep the matches beyond the young child's reach. Train him not to touch matches. Spank him every time he does, and make it hurt. Also train yourself not to leave hot liquid on the floor or in containers with handles extending beyond the edge of the stove or table.

OUTSIDE WITH CLEANING

Don't dry-clean in the house. Not wishing to electrocute yourself in the bathroom, don't use a curling iron and the like there. Be sure the button for turning on and off the light is solid against the wall—no chains or cords.

Keep all poisons such as iodine, rat exterminators, insect powder and cleaning fluids out of the young child's reach; preferably out of the bathroom. All poisons should be in containers different from all things else, or with pins in corks or strings about tops.

Water Massage . . .

Special Facial to Cleanse the Skin

By DONNA GRACE

Among the various facial treatments that interest most women is the water massage. This is recommended for coarse or clogged pores.

The principle is suction, along with the continuous cleansing spray of water against the face. A special attachment, called the deperator, is necessary. This is used on a rubber hose attached to a small tank or irrigator placed high enough to give some force to the stream.

The operator prepares the solution to be used. This could be plain water, a solution of boric acid, soap, and water, or any other cleansing liquid.

The first step is the thorough cleansing of the face and neck. This can be done with soap and water or cream. The cream is preferred, and after the light rubbing, tissues are used to remove all the cream.

The oily type of skin is then sponged with a freshener. When this is removed, another light film of cream is applied. The cup or suction end is then placed against the cheek and, while held there, is moved about in a rotary motion. The movement is similar to the massage with the upward strokes done in little circles all over the face and neck.

The water spray against the cheek has a definite cleansing effect. As the suction cup fills, the water solution passes through the depressed tube into a receptacle placed lower down.

After the water treatment, dry with a towel and proceed with the regular massage cream.

The same application can be done as a quick, refreshing application before makeup. For this we suggest a solution of cold water and witch hazel. A tablespoon of the witch hazel to a pint of cold water.

This would be a fine treatment for the oily skin when done with a solution of bicarbonate of soda and plain water. It is more suitable for this type of skin as there is a thorough cleansing of the pores, leaving a fresh softness of skin texture. The results will surprise those who may have ignored the good soap and water method for face cleansing. The complexion usually is left several shades lighter and looks lovely for the smart makeup.

That's why more and more wives start their menfolk off with Kellogg's Corn Flakes, the breakfast that does these three important things. First, Kellogg's, proven tops in flavour*, tempt your appetite. Second, crammed with energizing "carbohydrates," they start you quick. Third, steadily releasing energy, they help keep you going through a long morning's work.

Five times as many answered Kellogg's Corn Flakes as gave any other brand of corn flakes. And M. Maurice Aquarone, Chef of the Royal Connaught Hotel in Hamilton, agrees! After tasting four leading brands of corn flakes under strict test conditions, M. Aquarone came to the same conclusion as so many other flavour experts. "This taste test definitely proved to me that Kellogg's win on flavour!"

And really economical! For just a few pennies you provide the whole family's breakfast or supper—ask your grocer about delicious Kellogg's Corn Flakes in the new family-size package.

Suggests Canadian Troops on Land and Australians in Air to Fight the Enemy If He Lands in Britain

LONDON July 3 (CP.-Cable)—Lord Mottistone, who as "Jack" Seely commanded the Canadian cavalry in the First Great War, suggested in the House of Lords today that Canadian troops should be chosen to engage the enemy if he lands in Britain because of their "more novel conception of warfare."

He recommended the Canuck soldiers not because he served with them in the last war for 3½ years "and so know their value, but because amongst these Canadian divisions — and that also applies to other divisions Overseas where there are wider space — there are people with more novel conceptions of warfare."

Lord Mottistone said he had made the suggestion to a Canadian officer with a distinguished record, who had replied "that just suits me."

He was introducing a motion in the Upper House asking the Government to take prompt action to increase the offensive power and equipment of the citizens of Britain. Equipment had been greatly increased, he declared, but the method of meeting an invasion needed more consideration.

"I've seen ridiculous tank traps, barbed wire and so on along the beaches which would prevent our people from going down to engage the enemy," he said. "What's the good of that?"

Lord Mottistone suggested that an Australian division be given the job of dealing with enemy troops attempting to land from the air.

Lord Croft, Under-Secretary for War, warned that the enemy seeks the "destruction of our people" and declared he hoped for the "defeat of the invasion at sea, or even before the enemy embarks on his ships, but, if not, then in the process of landing."

He declared that he believed that no German would pass the defence works "except over the dead bodies of the garrisons."

Lord Croft promised that "any idea that we can get in consultation with the High Commanders of the Canadians and the Australians will be gladly received." He was unable to disclose the technical methods of resisting a landing but declared that "all the forces of the Crown are on their toes."

Lord Mottistone asked assurance that there would be no abandonment of fortified positions in His Majesty's Dominions without informing Parliament.

Viscount Caldecote, Secretary for the Dominions and Government Leader in the House of Lords, said he would prefer to give assurance that the "Government have no intention of abandoning any fortified positions in any part of His Majesty's Dominions."

"All our aircraft returned safely."

Asks Canadian Children Should Be Considered

OTTAWA, July 3 (CP). — If there are food, clothing and shelter available in Canada for British children, similar provisions should be made for thousands of starving Canadian children, F. D. Shaw (ND, Red Deer) asserted today as he resumed the budget debate in the House of Commons.

Mr. Shaw hoped if 1,000,000 British children wanted to come to Canada they would be brought but similar care should have been given poor Canadian children during the last 10 years.

During the last war, Mr. Shaw said, welfare agencies had difficulty financing their work because public contributions were largely diverted to Overseas services. Both had to be maintained.

HOLIDAY TOLLS

There are certain things that can be foretold.

Today, for instance, there will be many deaths in the United States directly due to the celebration of Independence Day. At one period of American history gunpowder used in celebrating could confidently look forward to its scores of killings and maimings. The firecracker hazard has been pretty well counted out, however, and today's deaths will mainly occur on the highways, where happy and carefree people—and also careless ones—will steer vehicles capable of dealing death, in and out of congested traffic.

Friday's papers will give the American statistics.

And next Monday readers of The Daily News will have before them The Canadian Press compilation of Canada's weekend holiday deaths, from motor accidents, from boating accidents, and from bathing accidents.

The driver who takes chances on rounding a corner at excessive speed or at a blind railway crossing, the man or boy who rocks the boat to make someone scream, the speedboat driver who tears along through boat traffic or through swimmers, and the inexperienced man or boy who takes out a canoe without knowing something of the principles of handling it, are all holiday menaces.

In this age, and in such an outdoor country as Canada, every boy and girl should grow up knowing how to swim. But the non-swimmers do not need to shun the water. The essential for them is to go in with companions, and keep within their depth.

Common sense is the best safety guide.

WE WANT THE UTMOST ATTAINABLE

We may reasonably assume that the Empire Air Training Scheme, which now is all Canada's to carry out, so far as providing facilities, machines, and school personnel, is concerned, is proceeding, not "according to plan," which contemplated an orderly but steady increase of momentum as new units were set up, but at high speed.

All notions that Britain has a superabundance of pilots sufficient for all purposes for some time to come, and that Canada should concentrate on production of planes only—even if these notions came not so long ago from the British Government itself—must have "gone by the board" with the defection of France, and the availability for Britain of the American planes built in the United States for France, together with American Army planes released for British acquisition. Plenty of experts have been dead wrong in this war, and "full speed ahead" in every form of war production, including production of Canadian pilots, is the only working rule that can be accepted.

The Empire Training Scheme is a terrific one, when it gets into full production, and let's hope that the facilities of all sorts, and the schools of all sorts, that it implies, are being developed at a rate of action not originally thought possible. By this time there should be sufficient able executives in harness to bring large sections of the Scheme into existence simultaneously instead of one at a time.

The one thing that Canadians will not forgive, now that the war is being carried to British soil, with the British Empire the sole and final object of attack by the Axis Powers, is failure to accomplish the utmost attainable.

A TERRIFIC SCHEME

On paper, the Empire Air Training Scheme is terrific. There is provision for ultimately approximately 110 formations and units, which will be in existence throughout the Dominion, from Nova Scotia to British Columbia, and when the plan is in full operation over 40,000 officers, airmen and civilians will be required to man the various schools, equipment depots, repair depots and other units.

What is a "school" in this Scheme? Well, take a Service Flying Training School for example. It comprises:

Three airdromes, five to 25 miles apart, with landing strips 3000 feet long and 750 feet wide; building area aggregating 45 acres; no fewer than 38 buildings, of which five are hangars; and a practice bombing range of a 660-yard radius. Some of the principal units in the Dominion-wide organization will be:

4 Training Commands, situated respectively at Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Regina;

2 Manning Depots;

20 R.C.A.F. Recruiting Centres;

3 Initial Training Schools;

26 Elementary Flying Training Schools;

16 Service Flying Training Schools;

10 Observers' Schools;

10 Bombing and Gunnery Schools;

2 Air Navigation Schools;

4 Wireless Schools;

4 Repair Depots;

2 Equipment Depots.

In addition, there will be such units as a Technical Training School, an Air Armament School, a Central Flying School, and other schools relating to administration, accounting, inspecting, and so forth.

Readers will note the specialization embodied in this comprehensive Scheme. For instance, pilots apparently pass through a series of Schools—Initial Training, Elementary Flying, Service Flying, and Navigation. Observers, bombers, gunners, are specialists.

The first Royal Canadian Air Force squadrons are at the front, and it is the hope of all Canadians that the stream of reenforcements of trained airmen will soon become a tide.

VIRTUE NOT REWARDED

IF YOU become a very fine player, you will come in for a lot of unjust kidding. Many a beautifully sound and scientific play of yours will prove disastrous in situations which would have worked splendidly with ordinary unskillful technique. You will be particularly harassed if you play duplicate. Once in a while a hand will come along which nobody plays correctly but yourself, but on which you get the worst possible score because the cards are so distributed that the wrong play works better than the right one.

West led his club 2 to the 9 and 10, and the talented declarer studied. He saw that, if the spade finesse would not go, he might have trouble. Cashing the heart K, he would need an entry to dummy to lead another heart and knock out the Q, then a second entry to bring in the suit. But he had a safety play. He led the heart K to the second trick and overtook with the A, then led a second heart to knock out the Q and still have the spade A as a sure entry.

When East won the second heart, he returned a club so West could cash the A and K. South won the fouth club, next the spade finesse, but West's 9 blocked the heart suit, so he could make no more than a bare game.

The run-of-the-mine players who won the first heart trick with the K, won the spade finesse, then laid down the heart A, made two overtricks, getting six tricks in hearts, two in spades, two in diamonds and one in clubs. So they all kidded the unfortunate expert until he gave them a lesson on the hand, "free charge for nothing."

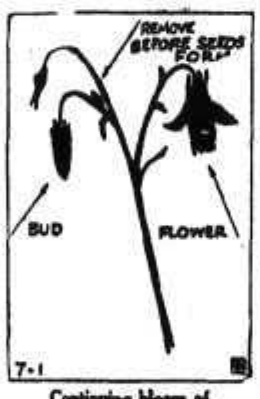
Don't Wait for Seeds to Form



Continuing bloom of perennials

Certain perennials can be encouraged to give a longer period of bloom if the forming seed pods are snipped off as soon as the petals fall from the dying blooms.

Columbine, for example, will bloom for a long time if the individual blossoms are snipped off as soon as the petals fall, instead of waiting for the entire spray of the blooms to die back. The accompanying Garden-Graph shows a spray with a bud, a flower in full bloom and a seed-pod which is just beginning to form, following the fall of the flower petals. It is such seed-pods which should be snipped off each day. The flowers which will of course be smaller than the first ones put forth by the plant.

Delphinium and anchusa can be induced to bloom two and even three times by cutting them back immediately after each flowering. When this is done it will prove helpful if the plant is given a feeding of a liquid manure.

Associated Growers President Tells Kootenay Fruit Men Better Domestic Demand for Apples Likely This Year

Foxall Describes Big Cherry; Crop; Urges Larger Pears

Expectation that war conditions would bring increased domestic demand for apples and that this would offset, to some extent at least, the restriction of export markets due to war conditions was voiced by E. J. Chambers of Vernon, President and General Manager of the Associated Growers of British Columbia Ltd., at the annual meeting of Kootenay and Arrow Lakes Locals at the City Hall Wednesday. Mr. Chambers reviewed operations of the Associated as a whole during the 1940-41 season; and Robert Foxall, Manager of the Nelson Subcentral, reviewed Kootenay and Arrow Lakes operations. J. J. Campbell of Willow Point presided.

Mr. Chambers outlined the difficulties brought by the war to the handling of export apples during the Fall and Winter, but showed that in spite of these difficulties shipments were slightly in excess of the previous season's.

WIDE FLUCTUATIONS

Higher freight and insurance rates were encountered. Wide fluctuations in returns resulted from the fact that the convoy system led to periods in which heavy supplies arrived on the British market, followed by periods in which supplies were scarce.

Mr. Chambers also gave an outline of the work by various organizations in placing the case for fruit growers before the Dominion Government. It was extremely difficult, he pointed out, to forecast the possibilities for the coming season as everything depended upon the development of the war.

Further meetings would be held with the Government during August and he hoped that it would be possible at that time to lay out a definite program which would be of material assistance to growers in planning their operations during harvesting of the apple crop.

He expected increased domestic demand would develop.

BIG CHERRY CROP

The 1939 cherry crop in the Kootenay and Arrow Lakes districts amounted to 24,653 crates and 22,500 pound for processing, stated Mr. Foxall in his report. Comparative figures for the past four years, weighted as crates, were:

1936	21,418
1937	11,000
1938	17,768
1939	25,781

Cherry processing, initiated at Harrop last year, was reasonably successful, Mr. Foxall said.

LARGER PEARS NEEDED

The pear crop totalled 3248 tons compared with 2787 in 1938. Mr. Foxall urged growers to aim at larger sizes, which would mean greater returns. The Bartlett crop was handled without a single claim on account of condition, but growers were not securing the highest possible returns because they were not producing sufficient of the favored larger sizes. Pear production was increasing.

Apple tonnage was down from 91,000 in 1938 to 53,000 in 1939 part of it being due to loss of 7000 boxes in the Robson packing shed fire last Fall.

Quality and pack were generally maintained, Mr. Foxall stated. Comments from agents and dealers handling Kootenay and Arrow Lakes apples commended the quality highly, he said.

McIntosh made up 22.2 per cent of the district apple crop, Jonathan 20.16 per cent, and Spy 14.46 per cent.

Locals Elect Campbell and Claridge Directorate of Associated Growers

Board and Agency Officials Talk to Growers

Kootenay and Arrow Lakes Locals of the Associated Growers of British Columbia Ltd., held at the Nelson City Hall Wednesday elected Directors and alternates for 1940-41 as follows:

Kootenay Lake—J. J. Campbell, Willow Point, Director; J. D. Macdonell, Willow Point, alternate.

Arrow Lakes—W. J. Claridge, Arrow Park, Director; H. W. Herridge, Nakusp, alternate.

These men will serve on the Board of Directors of the Associated. Mr. Campbell presided.

The meeting was attended by E. J. Chambers of Vernon, President and General Manager of the Associated Growers; A. K. Loyd, President and General Manager of B. C. Tree Fruits Ltd., central selling agency; and George A. Barratt, Chairman; W. E. Haskins and P. F. French of the B. C. Fruit Board.

DISCUSS PROBLEMS

A general discussion of growers' problems, particularly of district marketing problems, between delegates and visiting officials followed the annual meeting of the Locals.

Following the meeting Mr. Loyd and Mr. Barratt left for Grand Forks. Mr. Haskins and Mr. French will start their homeward journey today.

Among highlights of the meeting were annual reports by Mr. Chambers and by Robert Foxall, Manager of the Nelson Subcentral of the Associated.

Delegates, in addition to those mentioned, included Joseph Gray, Renata; Basil Robertson, Burton; W. P. Dickson and D. L. Doyle, Willow Point; George Porteous, Queen's Bay; O. B. Appleton, Sunshine Bay; and C. S. Squires and Stanley Humphries, Robson. J. W. Robb, Nelson, was Secretary.

Use of Trail High School for Tourist Exhibit Impractical

TRAIL, B.C., June 3—Due to work being carried out in the High School during the Summer months, the School Board at a meeting Wednesday night considered impracticable the request of the Junior Chamber of Commerce to use a portion of an entranceway for exhibits to tourists.

A letter from C. L. Knowles, Chairman of the Chamber's Tourist Traffic Committee, stated that the Chamber hoped to induce the C. M. & S. Company to provide an exhibit of varied operations and products for the interest and education of tourists during the period of restriction of visits to actual plants.

LONDON, July 3 (CP). — In the greatest sale of jewels since the dispersal of the Russian Crown Gems 13 years ago, a single casket of jewellery offered by an unidentified mother and daughter brought £80,003 (about $359,573) at Christie's today. A pair of diamond shoulder-straps went in two minutes for £11,200.

A Woman's Privilege

By PRUNELLA WOOD

The designer of women's gowns today sticks season after season to her theme of dressing the individual, rather than swallowing Fashion book, line and sinker. The styles sketched here follow this Summer's silhouettes and are becoming, rather than bizarre. But neither dress shouts that it's the very latest thing on this or the other side of the ocean. Their owners can wear them for several Summers with no fear of looking out-moded.

Left, a slim, useful white crepe is embroidered with mother-of-pearl sequins on the bodice in front and over the shoulders. It is shielded with a sequinned jacket. The gown itself has a low V back and no sleeves, and might very well use a shawl instead of a bolero.

Right, a gown for any figure is a combination of pale pink Chantilly lace and black chiffon. Two pink roses are tacked to the decolletage in back, over separate panel scarfs of the chiffon edged in the lace. Two more roses on a velvet band are suggested as a bracelet.

Poor Yugoslav Roads May Be an Aid in War

By GLADYS M. ARNOLD
(Canadian Press Correspondent).

PARIS (CP).—Should Yugoslavia be drawn into the Second Great War her roads might play an important part, a Yugoslav officer here remarked when there were rumors about a plot for the removal of the regent, Prince Paul, and the kidnapping of the popular 16-year-old King Peter.

The officer went on: "Sometimes a misfortune in times of peace turns out to be very fortunate in wartime. In modern warfare motorized units would be very unhappy in our country for our roads are impossible. We have never built motor highways, we are a young country just finding our feet—perhaps we may consider our bad roads a benediction one day."

A military writer discusses Yugoslavia's position in the Paris newspapers. He writes:

"Neighbor to Italy, with which her relations have become more friendly within the last few years; neighbor of Germany since the Anschluss, Yugoslavia is essentially a Balkan state, worried about its independence and the great waterway which flows through it—the Danube.

"On the other hand Italy, whose interest in the Balkans increases daily, has never lost sight of the Dalmatian coast which united Fiume and her recent conquest, Albania. Its possession would permit her to turn the Adriatic into an Italian lake.

"Feeling inferior to her powerful neighbors, Yugoslavia has no other choice but to keep her army ready and look to her Balkan neighbors for support in order to conserve her independence — thus the recent strengthening of the Danubian Pact.

"What is this army? Twenty-five years ago it was composed of excellent soldiers, and there is no reason to believe it has changed—the race and the soil are the same; but within the last 20 years material, so necessary in modern warfare, has not been modernized as it should have been."

JASPER HIGHWAY CLOSED BY FIRE

BANFF, Alta., July 3 (CP) — Driven by a high wind, a forest fire in Banff National Park jumped the Banff-Jasper Highway at Mile 52, North of Lake Louise, early this evening, forcing park officials to call a 24-hour halt to all traffic along the newly-opened road.

A second serious blaze is raging through dense timber West of Turner Valley, Southwest of Calgary, while a third fire is being battled by a force of men in the Ricinus district 40 miles Southwest of Rocky Mountain House.

U.S. Army Notes Fifth Column Is Valuable Weapon

WASHINGTON, (CP). — Over in the block-long munitions building, whose architecture is early 20th century whitewashed barracks the United States army boys have torn from their books that venerable saying: "You can't beat the Dutch."

On the nice clean page they have inserted, there is a "Warning to Future Generals: The way those Fifth Columns work beats the Dutch."

Sifting down the reports of the Nazis' five-day blitzkrieg of Holland, the army experts have concluded that the Fifth Column again has proved itself the most valuable weapon developed in modern warfare.

The secret magic with which the Nazi hordes over-ran Holland, although the Dutch had been preparing for such an emergency for years, can be summed up in two words: internal combustion.

For example, from the very outset of the German invasion, snipers took a toll of Dutch soldiers from the roofs and windows of buildings even in the well-policed cities of the Hague, Amsterdam and Rotterdam.

When the Sixth Column, or parachute troops, arrived at one of the main airports near Rotterdam, only two civil policemen were on duty—the nly lgical conclusion being that someone in the army had ordered all troops away from the airport at the zero hour.

WAVE OF SABOTAGE

In several of the principal cities the air raid alarm system went completely haywire. Sirens screamed day and night, throwing the cities into utter confusion. In Amsterdam the water supply system —that vital artery which is the first objective of saboteurs — was washed out completely.

Hour after hour, parachute troops were reported landing in localities, where, strangely, Dutch troops weren't.

There's one thing more, though this occurred in Belgium. U. S. Army officers who fought in the First Great War looked over the collapse of Namur, and the apparently ineffective resistance of the outer forts of Liege and ran back through the pages of memory.

There, they found the stories of the fall of these two great fortresses in 1914, and reports current then that a "Fifth Column" had been working for months with the German High Command to bring about their capitulation. A former intelligence officer recalls that German imperialists, months before August, 1914, bought large estates near these fortresses, and showed a great predilection for building cement tennis courts.

It wasn't discovered until Belgium was a shambles that the "tennis courts" were cement slabs 30 feet deep, and really hidden emplacements for big guns that battered the forts into heaps of crushed rock.

The conclusion here is that that "secret weapon" of Hitler's is no more than this same Fifth Column. The report that the men in Fortress Eben Emael suddenly discovered their machine guns and small cannon would not work was the clue. Somewhere among those 1000 men who threw up their hands in surrender must have been dozens or even scores who walked the Nazi glory road instead of the trail to prison camps.

Smoke Haze Over the West Arm Believed Be From Fires to South

Smoke haze over the West Arm Wednesday was believed due to fires South of the International Boundary. There were no fires near Nelson sufficiently large to cause such a haze, Forest Branch officials said.

Two fires at Nakusp, along the Wilson Lake road were being fought successfully. Largest fire in the district, in Lumberton district, was being fought in slash by a large crew. Conditions were understood to be little changed at this fire Wednesday.

British Seek to Boost Stamina of Pilots for Speed

LONDON (CP)—British medical experts are experimenting with diets to raise the stamina of fighter pilots at the dizzy heights they fly their stream-lined planes in this war.

Eight months' experience of wartime conditions in France has taught the Air Ministry that fighters normally operate at heights of 25 and 30 thousand feet, an altitude far above the ceiling of planes in the First Great War. Up there in the rarified atmosphere oxygen must be inhaled, and even with this stimulant, a man's energy is sapped quickly because the slightest exertion produces exaggerated physical and mental fatigue.

The war has produced many new problems for the air force, and one of them is the necessity of building up the physical and mental stamina of a pilot due to centrifugal force pulling the blood from his head in a steep, vertical turn. The coma may be only momentary and some pilots may stand a higher pull than others but the problem of overcoming it is there just the same.

"Black out" is the direct result of th espeed of a modern fighter. With a machine hurtling through space at 350 or 400 miles an hour it doesn't take much of a turn to drain the blood from the pilots' head, particularly if he is up 25,000 or 30,000 feet sucking oxygen through a tube.

SOME INCIDENTS

Two or three incidents related by the officer commanding a fighter squadron illustrate the sort of man chosen to pilot these machines. At 27,000 feet a German shot away the glass roof of a British fighter's cockpit and set the engine on fire. The pilot leaned over to turn off the gasoline and another spray of machine gun bullets wounded him in the leg and hand. In some way his oxygen tube was disconnected and he went into a black out. He came to in a cloud, bailed out and landed in No Man's Land, eventually getting back to the station.

Another fighter pilot followed a Messerschmidt 109 right down to ground level where they did some other up and down hills, through valleys and among trees at 350 miles an hour. The German passed right under some high tension wires, a few feet above the ground but the British pilot followed him and sent him crashing into a hill with a burst of machine gun fire.

Two more stories: A British pilot was caught 20 or 30 miles from his station without ammunition, so he "barrel-rolled" all the way home to avoid being an easy target. Another pilot, in the middle of a general dogfight involving a number of planes, had his machine set on fire. It isn't the easiest thing to bail out at 300 miles an hour so he pulled his machine over on its back and dropped out, leaving his rip cord alone for 5000 feet so as to clear the combat zone. French soldiers released him from the top branches of a tree and he ended up by inspecting French troops with a general.

Registration Not to Delay Call Up

OTTAWA, July 3 (CP)—Calling of men for service with the Canadian Defence Forces will not await general registration of citizens, Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons today.

In reply to a question from G. S. White (Con. Hastings-Peterborough) concerning registration and the time when the first call might be made for defence forces under the Mobilization Act, the Prime Minister said:

"Until the Department of National Defence has made the regulations which it deems essential with respect to the calling up of men, it would be premature on my part to attempt to say just when that calling up will take place."

Reports by the committee on registration presenting a suggested questionnaire and a method of registration are now before the Government for decision, Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Pensions Minister, said in an interview.

Castlegar-Trail, Nelson-Salmo in Softball Semis

Starting Dates W. K. Playoffs Are Not Settled Yet

Although it is not known when the playoffs for the West Kootenay men's softball championship will start, Trail has been drawn to meet Castlegar, and Nelson against Salmo in the two semi-final series of three games, according to Jimmy Allan, who is in charge of arrangements for Gilbert Rowling Memorial Cup play.

Last year Nelson and Castlegar were paired and Salmo and Trail, with Trail Warfield Aces beating Nelson in the final series.

The playoffs cannot start until the champions of the Trail City League have been decided for it will be up to them to carry the Smelter City's banner in district play, according to a decision of the Trail League at the beginning of the season. Castlegar is also entered in the league, and if the league final series develops into a series involving Castlegar, it may also be regarded as a West Kootenay semi-final bracket with the winner advancing against either Salmo or Nelson.

Louis Aurelio is coaching the Nelson team, but playoffs will not start in earnest until next Wednesday.

The workouts for the Nelson ladies' rep team will also start next week under the direction of Bob Paterson. The Trail team has been practising steadily for some time now in preparation for an attempt to wrest the district title from the Lakesiders.

Jacobs Rushing Baer to Slaughter

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP).—The only cloud on Max Baer's bright horizon today was that Promoter Mike Jacobs has started the wheels going to have him fight Joe Louis in Chicago in September.

Even before Maxie stopped in this morning to pick up his pay envelope containing $19,821.46 for his eight-round technical knockout win over Tony Galento in Jersey City last night, Jacobs discussed the Windy City proposition with Joe Triner, Chairman of the Illinois State Boxing Commission.

Triner left immediately afterward to discuss the set-up with his fellow-commissioners. It was learned that one stipulation Jacobs insisted on was that he must be the sole promoter if he takes the bout to Chicago.

Baer walked into Jacobs' office with his 2½-year-old son, Max III, and shouted that he was more than anxious to tangle with Louis once more. The last time he met the Bomber, he finished taking the 10-count on one knee in the fourth round.

Galento, meantime, spent most of the day getting patched up. Some 10 stitches were taken in his mouth. An X-ray showed the knuckle of the middle finger of his left hand was fractured.

At Camp Koolaree

Koolaree Hoop Game Bars Climbing; Tillicums Tag Two Tribes Softball

Happy Day No. 4 for the Senior Boys Camp at Koolaree is well on its way, and has been the usual ideal one for the sun-tan enthusiasts which includes just about everyone. Morning devotions in the Chapel were led by Rev. Bill Selder, giving everyone a good start for the day.

As camp progresses, so the camp spirit rises within the boys, and their entry into the activities is keen. The bows of the archery group are already taking shape, and a couple more days should find them being strung. Photography is popular, and some camp pictures have already been developed.

In the morning volleyball fixtures the Apaches won from the Cherokees two games out of three.

The softball game proved an upset for the league-leading Pontiacs, when they allowed seven runs in the last frame, by the Tillicums, to beat them.

Tillicums — Hilliard 3, MacDonald 2, Wilby 3, Currie 1, D. Worsfold 2, E. Jones 1, Powell 1, Wutke, Craig 1.

Pontiacs — Newton, G. McIntyre, MacIntosh 2, MacAulay 2, Underwood 2, Jerrum, Smith, Dunnett, Johnson.

SPECIAL BASKETBALL RULES

Basketball was played in a cloud of dust, certain ground rules have been instituted for the campus courts. Climbing trees to shoot, hiding behind bushes, throwing sand in the other fellow's face, are among the things not permitted. If a player is in a sandtrap then he may toss it out and call one point, if he can get away with it. Tonight's game was played between the Pontiacs and the Senecas, the former led to victory by Al MacAulay, the score being 12 to 8.

The second softball game of the day saw Tillicums take the Cherokees, Winlaw and Aubrey Smith with four runs apiece, and the energy of the camp midget, Jack Gray, saved the losers from a more severe defeat than the 20 to 18 score at the finale.

Cherokees — L. Jones 2, Winlaw 4, McDonald 2, Gray 1, Maidment 1, Smith 4, Douglas 2, Griffiths, Bell.

Tillicums — Hilliard 3, McDonald 2, Wilby 3, Currie 1, E. Jones 3, Wutke 1, McKenzie 3, Powell 2, Craig 2.

Tillicums	5 1 5 3 1 x—20

Today has been one for a clean-up, and the clearing of underbrush in the woods to the rear of the lodge. This project goes on annually, and by degrees the camp site is assuming a more parklike nature.

"BUCK BENNY" EPISODE

The campfire program followed the usual procedure of a singsong led by Big Chief Fred Robins, who again introduced one or two new ones. The peppery tribe reporters keep up the interest by their complete news of the day completely uncensored. Tonight's dramatization was original in its script, prepared by the Apache Little Chief, Martin McLennan, and produced by his tribe, a "Buck Benny" episode with all the sound effects. Just before taps, cocoa and cookies were served by the cabin leaders.

Thursday will see the camp in its aquatic meet, and Saturday its track and field events.

By The Canadian Press

Chicago White Sox pushed Detroit Tigers back into second place in the American League with a 12-7 victory featured by Taft Wright's pinch-homer in the ninth inning with the bases full. Coupled with Cleveland's victory over St. Louis, the defeat left Detroit eight percentage points behind the Indians.

The Red Sox spotted Philadelphia Athletics the first eight runs and then set off enough fireworks to gain a 12-11 victory decided by Captain Jimmy Foxx' ninth-inning homer, his 19th of the season.

Foxx' blow featured the six-run last-inning rally the sockers made against Herman Besse, Chubby Dean and Nelson Potter, and was the last of the slugfest's seven homers, two of which were blasted by the A's Sam Chapman.

Cleveland Indians called upon young Bob Feller to stop St. Louis Browns from kicking them around. Feller responded with a seven-hit, 5-2 triumph which returned the Indians to the lead they lost to Detroit yesterday.

It was the 13th triumph of the season for the kingpin of Cleveland's pitching corps who whipped 11 batters.

Cleveland and Detroit tangle in a crucial bargain bill at Detroit tomorrow to determine the July 4 leader, which according to baseball tradition usually ends the year in first place.

Last League Game of Salmo Softball Won by Reliefers

FINAL STANDING

SALMO, B.C., July 3—Driving the offerings of Ted Hallbauer and G. Anderson to all directions in the Salmo Ball Park this evening, Second Relief Rams climbed into a three-way tie for first place in the Salmo Valley Softball League this evening when they hammered out a 19-7 overwhelming victory over Queen Mine in the last league game.

Second Relief is now tied with Kootenay Belle and Salmo, and Gold Belt is a full game to the rear. Queen is in the cellar with but one victory in eight tries. The dates for the playoffs have not yet been set.

Earl Rickard was on the mound for the winners and was seldom in difficulty except the fourth inning when he was tabbed for four runs. A ninth inning rally produced a brace of runs, but it was quickly squelched. He struck out nine and walked seven, and granted 10 hits, compared to the 16 safeties the Rams collected off Hallbauer and one off Anderson who took over with one out in the eighth.

Bohan and Reid hit doubles for Second Relief, Hambly and Reid, triples and Waloshyn a home run, but the only extra-base hit for the Queen players was a two-ply swat by Norman Bugg.

THREE DOUBLE PLAYS

Thompson to Henderson to Anderson produced a double play for the losers in the first, and Bugg to Henderson to Anderson was the order for another in the fourth. Singer to Fairhurst combined for a twin killing for Second Relief in the eighth.

Score by innings:

Queen	100 400 002— 7
Second Relief	153 010 25x—19

Ray Humble and Jimmy Allan umpired and Sadie Hamberg kept score.

No Senior Lacrosse in Nelson Tonight for the Red Cross

Arrangements for a Rossland-Nelson Senior Box Lacrosse exhibition game in Nelson tonight for the Red Cross have fallen through. The Leafs and Redmen played a benefit game for patriotic purposes Dominion day at Rossland, and it was proposed to play a return game here, but arrangements were never finally completed.

The second half of the West Kootenay League schedule is expected to get under way early next week at Trail.

Savoy-Salmo Softball Game Brings $17 for Red Cross War Funds

A sum of $17 was realized for the Red Cross from last Sunday's exhibition men's softball game between Savoy Hotel and Salmo at the Recreation Grounds. This sum included the gate and donations from the Savoy players.

Canadian Seniors' Golf Is Cancelled

TORONTO, July 3 (CP).—H. P. Baker, Secretary of the Canadian Seniors' Golf Association, announced today that because of the war the Board of Governors has decided to cancel the Association's 1940 annual tournament. The matches were to be played here the first week of September.

REMEMBER WHEN?

Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis star, died in Paris of pernicious anemia two years ago today, at the age of 39. Her playing career reached its climax in 1920, when she carried off all the gold medals at the Antwerp Olympic Games. She faded rapidly from the sports spotlight when she turned professional in 1926.

Al Smith, Cleveland southpaw whose comeback is one of the year's big surprises, was going to quit baseball after the Phillies sold him to Buffalo in May, 1939. Steve O'Neill talked Smith into joining the Buffalo Club, but after he was there a few wees he became despondent over a sore arm and again O'Neill persuaded him to stay on. Shortly after that Smith's arm came around and he had a sensational year which landed him back in the majors.

Softball League Has 2 Games Left on Its Schedule

LEAGUE STANDING

	W	L	Pct.
C. Y. O.	6	1	.857
Savoy	5	1	.833
Hume	5	2	.714
Bombers	1	7	.125
Cycles	1	7	.125

The Nelson Men's Softball League has two games, both involving Savoy Hotel, on its regular schedule, Hume Hotel supplying the opposition Friday evening and C. Y. O. the following Friday.

Tony Scanlan will pilot Savoy for the game with Hume in place of the honeymooning Bob Paterson, regular Coach. The C. Y. O.-Savoy game was originally scheduled for Sunday, but it was postponed at the request of the Hotelmen.

Each of the three teams, the leader of which will watch the other two teams battle it out in a best of three semi-final series, has a chance, a finish in a tie for first place. A Hume victory Friday and a win for Savoy next week will leave the teams in a three-way tie for the lead. A pair of Savoy triumphs will put them in first place all alone. A victory in their only game will clinch first place for the Catholics. The best Hume can do is win their game, and hope for a Savoy victory a week later.

Bombers and Cycles, last-place teams, have completed their league schedule, and are through for the season.

The semi-finals will likely start either July 14 or 15. The final series will be a best of five games, and it is hoped to have them completed before the West Kootenay championships begin.

The last game of the girls' league schedule is slated for next Monday between Rookies and C. Y. O.

Nelson Ball Old Timers Play at Slocan on 14th

Aching to get back into harness and again experience the thrills that go with rifling a sharp liner deep into the outfield or coming up with a dazzling shoe-string catch, an enthusiastic bunch of Nelson ball players of war-time days and the '20's have arranged for a game at Slocan City Sunday after next, against Frank Hufty's senior gang.

The Nelson lineup will include such former stars who blazed across the Kootenay baseball horizon in other days as Tony Arcure, "Slim" Kraft, Tony Scanlan, Bill Freno and a host of others. Although Hufty is no chicken himself, having caught a good game according to some "experts" for as long as the past 25 years, he says he's just going to be a "kid" in comparison to some of the graybeards Nelson will trot out on the diamond.

Interest is running high among veteran ball fans for this game, and it is conceivable that another game will be played in Nelson later in the season after the players recover from stiff legs and sore soupbones.

Nazis Claim Documents Found in France Reveal Plans to Bomb Oil Fields

BERLIN, July 3 (AP)— The German News Agency, Nazi propaganda outlet, published copies today of alleged Allied documents "found in France" which it said revealed "intrigue such as the world never yet has seen" for creating new battlefronts in the war.

These alleged documents, the Agency declared, showed Allied plans for bombing important oil fields in the Russian caucasus and the ports of Baku and Batum as well as creating fronts in Scandinavia and the Balkans.

The first "document" was an alleged telegram from Gen. Weygand, then commander of the Allies Near East army, to Gen. Gamelin, then commander in chief in France.

Dated March 7, 1940, the alleged telegram said Air Marshal Sir William Mitchell, Commander of the Royal Air Force for the Middle East arrived at Beirut, Lebanon, that day and informed him he had "received word from London, "in regard to preparations for possible bombardment of Baku and Batum."

Another document was a telegram of March 14, purportedly from the French Ambassador Gene Massigli in Ankara, Turkey, to the French Foreign Office and labelled "strictly secret", regarding a conversation with the Turkish foreign minister. The alleged telegram said:

"In the course of a visit which I made yesterday, the Foreign Minister laid before me on his own initiative a telegram which arrived during the night in which the Turkish representative in Moscow reported a conversaiton with the Ambassador of the United States.

"According to the view of the latter, the Russians are so anxious of the danger of fire and bombardment in the oil region of Baku that the Soviet Russian management has asked American engineers whether and how fire caused by bombardment could be fought with success.

The engineers are supposed to have answered that, as a result of the manner in which the oil fields have been exploited, the earth is so saturated with oil that fire would spread immediately to the entire neighboring region; it would be months before it could be extinguished and years before work could be resumed again."

Another "document" was entitled "a plan by Gamelin for participation by a French-British force in operations in Finland." As outlined there was to be disembarkation of Allied troops at Petsamo, in Arctic Finland.

"At the same time," it alleged, "harbors and airports on the Norwegian West coast were to be brought as a precaution into Allied hands," with operations "possibly extending" into Sweden with the occupation of the ore mines of Gallivare.

Two Soldiers Injured When West Bound Train Derailed

VANCOUVER, July 3 (CP). — Two recruits of the Canadian Active Service Force were injured, one seriously, today when five cars of the Canadian National Railways' Vancouver bound "Continental Limited" left the rails in the Fraser Valley near Matsquie, B. C. One car overturned and caught fire.

Four sleeping cars and the diner left the tracks 43 miles East of Vancouver, when the train struck what officials described as a "defective rail". The diner, carrying 22 army recruits from Okanagan points, fell over on its side and hot coals from the cooking stoves set the car on fire.

The injured were Sid Cunliffe of Penticton, B. C., and Edward Logie of Summerland, B. C. Cunliffe was taken off the train at New Westminster, and hospital authorities said his condition was serious. Logie walked off the train when it reached Vancouver, 2½ hours later. His arm was in a sling.

Occupants of the sleeping cars were shaken up but escaped uninjured. Some passengers slept through the derailment.

Work crews went to the scene from Vancouver and fire fighting equipment aboard the train was brought into play against the flaming dining car. It was reported still burning several hours after the wreck.

The passengers of the trans-continental train were placed aboard other cars at the scene and brought to Vancouver. Doctors came aboard as the train passed through New Westminster to check for any further injuries.

Explaining the de-railment, officials of the company said that the rail may have contained an air pocket and snapped after constant use.

60 Italian Planes Brought Down in Near East, June

CAIRO, July 3 (CP). —The Royal Air Force shot down 60 Italian planes in the Near East in June and probably 25 others, an authoritative source declared today. British losses were not disclosed, but they were said to be "exceedingly small."

Rhodesian fliers from the South are attacking Ethiopian bases frequently, causing "considerable damage," this source said. Scores of gasoline and bomb dumps have been fired.

The mis-named British Camel Corps (actually composed of motorized units of Somali desert tribesmen) is causing heavy damage to Italian military concentrations in Ethiopia.

British activity on the Western Libyan frontier has been confined principally to bombing military bases. The British air raiders apparently are testing out Italian strength as a possible prelude to land offensives.

Operating from Sudan, R. A. F. bombers attacked an Italian military concentration at Metemma, Libya, starting fires in the quarters of native troops and damaging machine-gun and artillery posts.

Hong Kong Evacuees Arrive in Manila

MANILA, July 3 (AP).—More than 1600 British women and children leaving Hong Kong in a precautionary evacuation because of unsettled conditions in the Orient, reached a haven of safety here today.

The 1640 evacuees arrived this morning aboard a liner. Less than 100 other evacuees of various nationalities, including Americans, arrived later on the American liner President Coolidge.

The High Commissioner's office announced that British authorities had granted a permit to the inter-island liner Basilan to leave Hong Kong for Manila tomorrow with American and Filipino evacuees. The Basilan could carry more than 500.

Import Tax and War Conditions Boost Wholesale Prices; Get 'Cots Early Is Dealers Advice

Effect of the new import tax of the recent war budget and of current war conditions were reflected in price changes, reported by Nelson wholesalers for the past week.

While there was no increase in the sales tax in the new budget the 10 per cent tax on imports, other than those from British possessions, proved more drastic than wholesalers recently anticipated, it was said. Italy's entry into the war and "some kind of embargo" on the exportation of standard quality pineapple from Singapore were other conditions reported to be showing an increased effect on prices.

U. S. IMPORTS HIT

Items principally affected by the new import tax are shelled and whole nuts, corn beef, pineapple, dried fruits, chiefly dried peaches, apricots, prunes and raisins, and some fresh fruits such as oranges, cantaloupe, watermelons, plums and peaches, currently imported from the United States. Price advances on corn flakes were also anticipated as corn is imported from the States. Corn syrup and corn starch prices have already gone up.

Italy's entry into the war has resulted in a decided shortage of pure Italian olive oil. What was likely to transpire in the importation of standard quality pineapple from Singapore, because of the embargo, was not quite clear to local wholesalers, but the general effect was a tendency to raise prices.

FRUIT SEASONS EARLY

The extremely advanced season on fruits resulting from the early hot weather was bringing fruits far in advance of their seasons onto the markets, and wholesalers emphasized the advisability of housewives obtaining their fruit for preserving early. British Columbia apricots were already on the markets, and because of the hot weather the season was expected to be extremely short — possibly ending within a week. Prices had already advanced five cents a box and housewives were urged to obtain their preserving 'cots immediately to avoid disappointment. The same conditions will likely apply for peaches and all other preserving fruits, the dealers said.

Another condition arising from the early hot season was a sharp increase in the sales of pop. Record sales were reported, one dealer reporting his sales to average 500 cases per day.

Fine field tomatoes, cucumbers and green apples arrived on the markets, along with new potatoes from Grand Forks, local head lettuce, carrots, beets, green onions, cauliflower, cabbage and cherries.

Meats, butter and eggs, and milling wholesalers reported little change either in prices or market conditions. Shorts and middlings advanced $1 a ton during the week, but bran, flour and feed prices were unchanged.

Carlot imports included two cars of mixed flour and feed, one of cans, one of sugar, one of California fruits, one of canned milk, one of groceries and one of oranges.

Oiling of Erickson Highway Completed

CRESTON, B. C. — A prompt response has been had to the Board of Trade's June resolution to the Minister of Public Works asking that something be done to abate the dust on the Erickson-Kitchener highway.

Engineer O. S. Gallaher has completed the putting down of a carload of tar oil which covers the road in a satisfactory fashion from Erickson to within half a mile of the bridge crossing Goat River. This is likely to be all that will be done this year the board is advised.

Along with this effort the engineer showed appreciated consideration for Creston hospital by thoroughly oiling Creston avenue from Canyon Street to a point 100 yards beyond the hospital grounds.

As yet nothing has been done to implement the department's assurance given Reeve Col. Mallandaine that oil would be put on Barton Avenue from Canyon Street to the Town Hall, and on Victoria Avenue from Canyon to a point beyond the post office, and possibly extending on through to Vancouver Street in order to serve the new Provincial Government building.

Ostriches, being pursued over the rocky ground, throw stones with great force at the pursuer; the great birds are not aware of this fact however.

Gracie Fields Entertains Refugee Children in Canada

Decked out in the uniform of a ship's officer, Gracie Fields, famed British comedienne, is shown among some of the British refugee children brought to Canada. This photograph was made at Halifax. Miss Fields has been entertaining Tommies at the front. With invasion of the British Isles seen as certain in the near future, steps are being taken to evacuate as many as possible of Britain's children to the safety of Canada. The United States, too, may offer a haven.

B.C. Revenue From Registrations of Motor Vehicles, Gas Taxes Increases $518,949 to Total in Year of $6,708,439

British Columbia's revenue from automobile registrations and gasoline taxes in 1939 totalled $6,708,439, an increase of $518,949 over 1938, a report by the Bureau of Statistics reveals.

The figures follow:	1938	1939
Registrations	$2,905,000	$3,253,587
Gasoline taxes	3,284,490	3,454,852
Totals	$6,189,490	$6,708,439

In both cases British Columbia ranked third in the Dominion, being exceeded only by Ontario and Quebec in revenue from these sources. Quebec in 1939 received $7,012,927 in registrations and $9,969,226 in gasoline taxes; while Ontario received $9,022,106 in registrations and $25,105,350 in gasoline taxes.

Rains Needed for B. C. Crops, Wet Weather Retards Growth in the East

OTTAWA, July 3 (CP) — Cool, wet weather across Eastern Canada during the past two weeks has retarded crop progress, but rainfall during the past week has been satisfactory over the most of Manitoba, and in Northern Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today in the third of a series of telegraphic crop reports.

During the past week, only light showers were received in Southern and central sections of Saskatchewan and in Southern Alberta. On the whole, crop prospects have been fairly well maintained, although a considerable variability is evident in South-central and central Saskatchewan districts which are suffering from lack of sufficient moisture to carry the crop as it reaches the heading stage.

Grasshopper damage has been minimized by active control campaigns, and losses during the week were comparatively light.

British Columbia conditions continue favorable, although soil moisture reserves have been depleted, and rains are now needed to maintain prospects.

Cool weather over the Prairies during the past week favored crop development, but precipitation varied considerably. Manitoba received well distributed local showers, while parts of central and Northern Saskatchewan reported good rains. Only light scattered showers occurred in Southern Alberta, but in Northern and Eastern Alberta moderate to heavy rains improved crop conditions.

In British Columbia, high winds and lack of current rainfall have drawn heavily on soil and moisture supplies, although immediate rains would ensure a heavy yield of the cereal crops. Harvesting of a good hay crop is nearing completion. Vegetable crops are very good.

Australia's Wheat Carry Over Estimated 57 Million Bushels

SYDNEY, July 4 (CP Cable—Australia's wheat carryover at the end of the present season was officially estimated today at 57,000,000 bushels, which will strain storage facilities.

As a consequence of the shopping shortage the Government is contemplating buying neutral ships as it has abandoned the project of building merchantmen in order to give preference to the more urgent need for smaller types of naval vessels for the British navy. Four war prize ships are already in use.

Farmers are still without guidance in the matter of sowings. A majority have not heavily reduced their wheat sowings.

Winnipeg Wheat Fails to Rise

WINNIPEG, July 3 (CP)—Despite strong displays on outside markets, wheat futures prices failed to rise from their minimum levels on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. No deals were completed in July wheat as operations were confined to minor spreading at October's pegged price of 75⅝ and July's bottom level of 74⅝ cents a bushel.

With mills and exporters remaining aloof for the eighth consecutive session, no overseas sales of Canadian wheat could be confirmed.

Cash wheat operations had little feature, although mills made moderate purchases of the lower grades

Toronto Firms

TORONTO, July 3 (CP)—Trading increased in volume and prices firmed moderately in the final stage of today's Toronto Exchange session.

Senior Oils, Consolidated Paper, Brazilian and Bell Telephone showed more gains than losses. International Pete touched 13⅝ and Imperial 9⅛. Steels were off. Gains were posted by Distillers-Seagrams, C. P. R., Ford "A" and Imperial Tobacco.

Smelters and Nickel added small fractions and Steep Rock gained a few. Falconbridge and Sherritt weakened narrowly.

Creston Fruits to Be Handled on Same Basis as 1939

CRESTON, B.C.—Sale of Creston's 1940 tree fruit crop will be on the same basis as last year, according to an agreement reached at the weekend by W. R. Long, manager of Long, Allan & Long, Ltd.; W. McL. Cooper, manager Creston Cooperative Fruit Exchange, and Elias Uri, manager of the Cooperative Fruit Growers' Association, Wynndel, who were in town on Saturday for a sales arrangement conference with A. K. Loyd, the 1940 head of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., the central selling agency handling the marketing of the crop.

O. W. Hembling, who had charge of Creston sub-central in 1939 accompanied Mr. Loyd, and it is expected the former will again be local selling agent, with the assistance of Mr. Temple, who was on the staff in 1939.

The sub central will be opened early in August, which will mean the cherry crop and some of the early apples, as well as cookers, will be uncontrolled, but Mr. Hembling will be here in time for the Duchess and later varieties.

Mr. Loyd advised that the Okanagan cherry and stone fruit crops, as well as apples, will be lighter than a year ago, and that if ships are available the outlook for export is not discouraging.

If the new impost of 10 per cent by the Ralston budget is effective against U. S. fruit imports the outlook on the domestic market is also considerably improved.

U. S. Wheat Rallies to Take 3 Cent Gains

CHICAGO, July 3 (AP)—A sudden revival of buying inspired largely by crop complaints from the Spring wheat belt lifted domestic wheat prices 3 to almost 5 cents a bushel today.

With most of the grain recorded in the final hour, wheat here rallied sharply in sympathy with leadership of the Minneapolis market. Need of rain in the Northwest and on the Pacific Coast was stressed by crop reports, and rust was reported in fields as far North as the Canadian border, although crop experts asserted resistant varieties apparently have not been attacked.

Chicago wheat closed 2¾-3¼ cents higher than yesterday, July 78¾-⅞, September 78⅝-½; corn ¾-1¼ higher, July 61, September 58⅝-½; oats ½-¾ up.

Minneapolis wheat closed 4-4⅝ cents higher after showing maximum gains of 4¾-5⅛ at one stage.

"Fifth Column" Precautions in Uruguay

Police are shown searching civilians in Uruguay in the burst of official activity designed to stamp out operations of Nazi agents in the South American republic. Discovery of caches of arms, including machine guns of a new design, caused intensification of the government's anti-fifth column fight and brought about arrest of at least 12 German citizens, including two men said to be agents of the Nazi Gestapo. Two United States cruisers, sent on a "goodwill cruise" in South American waters last week have been ordered into Montevideo.
