OVER 60 NAZI PLANES DOWNED IN NEW RAID

Shakeup of Government in France Is Expected

Laval Expected to Go; Telephone Calls Between Switzerland and Vichy Barred; No Reason Given

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

ST. GINGOLPH (On the French-Swiss Border), Aug. 12 (Monday) (AP)—The French Government forbade telephone communication between Switzerland and Vichy and other central points in unoccupied France today following reports here that Vice-Premier Pierre Laval was among those likely to be dropped in an impending shakeup of the Petain Government.

Only official calls from the Berne Legation and from French diplomats abroad were accepted by French telephone operators, working under army orders.

No official reason was given, but some French sources suggested the order might mean a political crisis is brewing in France, while others expressed belief it was in connection with German preparations for an offensive against Britain.

Reports from influential sources in the unoccupied zone and Frenchmen outside the zone said Laval recently has been bombarded with criticism from many quarters. These sources said the politician who already has fulfilled his political function in obtaining the old parliament's approval of the new form of government is one of those whose usefulness now is ended.

Attacks on Laval, who at first appeared to be the "strong man" of the Petain cabinet and whom the aged Chief-of-State named as his political heir, were based on three counts:

1. Many leaders, both left and right, accused him of protecting certain leading figures of past cabinets, such as Georges Bonnet, former Finance Minister, from the Riom "war-blame" trial, and of attacking others, such as former Premier Paul Reynaud, whose following still is strong.

2. The old Fascist Croix de Feu (which Laval as Premier several years ago forced into dissolution) is increasing in strength with addition of many of this war's veterans, and is a bitter enemy of Laval.

3. The Germans are reported unwilling to support Laval, whom they consider just another pre-war French politician.

Petain and Gen. Maxime Weygand both are reported determined to protect the army high command from any "disgrace, in the Riom trial. Informed quarters said Laval first began to slide from grace with the present army command when he asked that the former Allied Commander-in-Chief, Gen. Marie-Gustave Gamelin be brought from his estate in Dordogne, where he is now in retirement, to defend himself at the trial with his chief political supporter, former Premier Edouard Daladier.

Daladier, with the former Minister of Interior, Georges Mandel and other accused former cabinet members and deputies, is reported to have obtained the promise of many leading deputies and senators—including Edouard Herriot, who defended them before the assembly which recently ratified the new constitution—that they might testify in their defence at Riom.

Organized Labor Heads for Scrap Heap in France

By JOHN LLOYD
Associated Press Staff Writer

VICHY, France, Aug. 11 (AP)—Organized labor appeared headed for the scrap heap in France today. Preparations were shaping up rapidly for a corporative style structure in which workers and employers are organized in units and their differences settled by the Government.

Although France's great labor organization, the C.G.T. (Confederation General de Travail) abandoned its old "class struggle" principles and proclaimed its aims of protecting the "interests of the nation," a violent campaign with all the earmarks of a death thrust has broken out against it.

The Press unanimously is demanding a complete new organization of the nation's industrial life in corporative and professional groups.

Leon Jouhaux, who as Secretary-General of C.G.T., was France's labor chief, and other leaders have been attacked simultaneously in newspapers for alleged pro-Soviet leanings prior to the war.

Accounts of a recent C.G.T. meeting at Toulouse said Jouhaux had announced his intention to retire in favor of four of his former assistants.

One of the first moves in the corporative program was taken by the National Confederation of Hotel, Restaurant and Cafe Proprietors who called a meeting in Paris shortly to discuss organization of corporation units. A similar meeting was held at Lyon for unoccupied areas.

The Petain Government said today 300 trains are operating weekly between occupied and unoccupied zones with 300,000 refugees returning home in occupied areas each week.

British Play Waiting Game as Italians Push Into Somaliland

Militia Plans Move Steadily

OTTAWA, Aug. 11 (CP).—With the deadline for voluntary enlistment in the Non-Permanent Active Militia of Canada only four days away arrangements for handling the men who will be called into the militia at the rate of 30,000 a month are progressing steadily, Defence Minister J. L. Ralston said at a Press conference over the weekend.

Strength of the Canadian Active Service Force, the full-time soldiery in Canada stood at 106,183 on August 8, and on the same date that of the Non-Permanent Active Militia was 68,349, Col. Ralston stated. These indicate an increase of approximately 4000 in the strength of the C.A.S.F. in Canada and 21,000 in that of the N. P. A. M. since July 21 when Col. Ralston gave figures in the House of Commons.

All militia units are authorized to recruit up to war strength and have until August 15 to do it on a voluntary basis. As the total war strength of all units is about 88,000 men there is still room for some 20,000 more.

There is also room for between 2000 and 3000 in the Active Service units in Canada. These are the units of the 3rd and 4th Divisions and nine infantry battalions outside the divisions which have been moblized.

Precious Supplies Are Used Up; Dogged by Bombers

R.A.F. WATCHING FOR EGYPT MOVE

By LARRY ALLEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 11 (AP)—With Italian troops advancing in Somaliland through blistering heat, British authorities explained tonight that Britain's strategy is to encourage Premier Mussolini's men to use up their "precious supplies . . . in what is a strategically wasteful enterprise."

The Italians have not met the British defence force but the Fascist columns driving toward Berbera are being bombed systematically by the Royal Air Force.

The moving columns throw up huge clouds of dust, making good targets for the R.A.F. Squadrons.

A British General Headquarters statement said "it is not our object to defend every inch of soil in Somaliland but rather to make the enemy use up his precious supplies of food, petrol and ammunition which he cannot replenish in what is a strategically wasteful enterprise.

"The more the Italians dissipate their forces and their means, the more they lengthen their communications . . . the better it is for us."

The R.A.F. also kept a wary eye on the Western desert for signs of an Italian thrust against Egypt—far more dangerous, if it should materialize, than other Italian thrusts at the Suez Canal-Red Sea lifeline.

Troops from various parts of the Empire are being assembled to reinforce the Somaliland Camel Corps and meet the Italians when and if they reach the environs of Berbera.

Berbera, chief port of British Somaliland directly across the gulf from the British stronghold of Aden, is a vital objective in the Italian attempt to throttle British communications South of the Red Sea.

The Camel Corps guarding this area in reality is a highly-mobile motorized force headed by Brig. A. R. Chater, who has had 20 years experience under Middle East African conditions.

British ground forces in Somaliland are waiting at their main positions for the Italian troops who have reached the Karin Pass in their advance on Berbera.

Troop concentrations and anti-aircraft positions in the Pass, East of the Italian-occupied city of Hargeisa, where raked by British bombers, which also attacked Italians in Libya, opposite the Egyptian border, and in Eritrea.

British commanders, whose forces hold undisputed command of the Suez Canal, gateway from the Mediterranean on the North, and the Red Sea and the Gulf of Aden on the South, laughed at Italian claims that success in British Somaliland "closes the back door to Suez, severs the route to India and bottles up the British Mediterranean fleet."

Italians Clash With Albanians

LONDON, Aug. 11 (CP)—Exchange Telegraph News Agency reported today a serious clash between Italian troops and Albanians near the Yugoslav border, in which the Italians suffered 100 casualties.

The dispatch, dated from Belgrade, Yugoslavia, said the Italians, attempting to mobilize certain classes of Albanians, burned the villages of Mamsat, Skorma and Orrof.

ROME, Aug. 11 (CP)—Italy, silent since her entry into the war on her attitude toward Greece, today shot a sudden bolt at the Athens Government through the Fascist news and propaganda agency, Sefani, which charged the Greeks with decapitation of an Albanian nationalist.

The agency warned such "evil crimes" will not go unanswered. Albania was united with Italy under the Italian crown during a swift conquest of its territory April 9, 1939.

Stefani claimed the decapitation had occurred near the border in Albania.

Great Air Battle Followed by New Attacks at Dawn

Over 400 Nazi Planes Cover 300 Miles of England's Coasts; Dawn Attack Is Repulsed; 26 R.A.F. Planes Lost

LONDON, Aug. 12 (Monday) — (CP). — Successive waves of German warplanes attempted to break through defence lines on the Northeast coast early today several hours after more than 400 Swastika-marked planes swept over 300 miles of England's coasts in a gigantic air fight.

The Air Ministry said the fresh German attack was repulsed by heavy fire from ground batteries.

After the firing in the great air battle had died down along England's coasts last night, the Air Ministry in a bulletin listed at least 60 planes shot down.

An amplification of the Air Ministry's various bulletins by the Ministry's news service, however, gave details of 69 planes shot down, and it was believed the official total would be well over 60 when further details of the battle are obtained.

The R. A. F. lost 26 planes.

As the raids continued today, a loud explosion was heard over a large area of Northern Ireland. The cause was not known but aircraft were known to have been in the vicinity.

Other early-morning raiders over England reconnoitred widely and dropped a large number of bombs on an unidentified West coast town.

Planes were reported over Southwest and Southeast England, the Midlands and Wales. Several fires were started by incendiary bombs on one country hamlet in the Northeast, but they were extinguished quickly.

Five of Sunday's raiders were downed in thunderous anti-aircraft barrages.

Portland, mighty island naval base just off the South coast from Weymouth, bore the brunt of the attack.

Other large flights of raiders—sometimes 200 at a time—smashed at shipping along miles of the Channel and pierced inland bombing towns with an undisclosed toll.

The raids seemed to indicate the Nazi were diverting their main attacks from supply ships to coast settlements, possibly in an attempt to crack the public morale.

Raiders aimed several blows at barrage balloons in a Southeast port in an attempt to make the attack on land targets easier, but succeeded in shooting down only a couple of the protective bags. Ground crews quickly sent up new "silver elephants."

The most intense attacks were delivered against Portland and Weymouth. A horde of 150 bombers and fighters swooped over one of these neighboring towns. Royal Air Force fighters quickly broke up the formations.

About 30 dive bombers "laid" 150 bombs over a town, demolishing a dozen houses and damaging 14 others.

Observers said the casualties were "amazingly low" among the scores left homeless.

An outdoor Thanksgiving service was held in Weymouth where bombs badly damaged two churches and one Sunday School. Forty children in the school were sprayed with glass but there were no casualties. Superintendent G. McKelvey said the youngsters sang hymns throughout the raid.

At Portland 30 to 40 bombs were dropped while other aircraft dive-bombed the harbor. Two naval vessels were damaged by splinters but no other ships were damaged, an Air Ministry bulletin said. Fires which broke out at an oil depot were quickly subdued.

People on the seafront in an East coast town saw a score of dive bombers attack a convoy. Spitfires roared overhead to engage the enemy.

From the inland airports Royal Air Force reinforcements turned the fight into a wholesale battle for mastery in the air over the bomb-battered coast.

Weymouth and Portland were attacked inland as well as along the waterfront.

One Southeastern coast town had at least four separate raids starting at dawn. There, alone, observers counted at least 10 German planes downed in almost ceaseless dogfights.

The raiders' cannon-carrying Messerschmitts blasted down at least three barrage balloons guarding the vital harbors, tons of bombs shook at least two coastal towns, dive-bombers attacked shipping, and streets were splattered with machine gun fire.

Britain beat the raiders with the full strength of her coast defence system—showering attacking squadrons with anti-aircraft fire and hurling power-diving counterattacks down on the bombers.

Casualties in the bombwrecked districts of towns were not estimated. Official announcements indicated only that there were some deaths.

An Air Ministry bulletin credited the Royal Air Force with daylight and dark attacks into Germany Saturday and last night.

Nazi-used airdromes in Holland and France and on the Nazi-held British island of Guernsey were targets of the daylight bombings. At night the airmen attacked the docks at Hamburg, the Wilhelmshaven naval base, wharves at Duesberg, and airdromes and supply and industrial targets through the Low Countries and Northeastern Germany.

Three British planes were missing after these raids.

Prime Minister Churchill sent the War Cabinet's congratulations to Britain's fighter squadrons for beating back mass German air attacks last Thursday.

Yacht Reported Exploded; 12 Dead

DETROIT, Aug. 11 (AP)—Mysterious reports that a cruiser yacht had exploded in Lake Erie today with the loss of possibly 12 lives failed of confirmation after two hours of investigation, but the Coast Guard continued an inquiry.

The reports, first received from a yacht club here, said a yacht named "Lovely Lady", carrying passengers from Cincinnati and Louisville, and sailing out of New York, had exploded near the Put-in-Bay, Ohio, port.

The Coast Guard headquarters at Cleveland however, said it had received no such report. Sources in Toledo and in Detroit also failed to confirm the report, and lake men here said it might have been a hoax.

New York reported there was no "Lovely Lady" on the yacht register there.

120 Soldiers and Sailors Are Missing as Egyptian Transport Is Torpedoed

LONDON, Aug. 11 (CP)—The 7,000-ton Egyptian liner Mohamed Ali El-Kebir, converted for use as a transport, was torpedoed at night in the Atlantic, and sank with 120 soldiers and sailors missing, the Admiralty said tonight.

The announcement said 740 survivors were taken aboard a ship that reached the liner in the two hours she remained afloat. They were landed at a Scottish port.

Most of the 120 listed as missing were soldiers sleeping below deck at the time of the explosion.

The Admiralty did not say when the Mohamed Ali-El-Kebir was attacked.

William Olley, the liner's canteen manager, helped to get away the wounded aboard.

Olley said that before he left with the injured in the last boat Capt. Thomson handed him the ship's papers. The Captain was among those missing, as well as the ship's doctor and a military doctor.

King Farouk of Egypt spent part of his honeymoon aboard the liner, Olley said.

The Admiralty announced today a total of 66 casualties in the sinking of the destroyer Delight, which was disclosed July 31. Of this number six died of wounds and 60 were wounded.

'Rumor Mongers Don't Win Wars'

MELBOURNE, (CP)—Those folks they call fifth column gossipers in Canada and chatterbugs in Britain are just plain "wankles" in Australia.

Don't be a wankle, urges The Argus, which charges that wankles constitute the "main bulk of the fifth column" in this British dominion.

Capt. George Sutton, an officer of the Australian Imperial Force, in addressing the people of Australia on behalf of the army said: "Don't qualify for the club which that gifted Australian artist Armstrong created—the Wankles Club. Armstrong shows us that a Wankle is a gloomy soul with weak knees and a tendency to take the knock-out every time his opponent scores a light tap. Wankles won't win wars.

"It lies in the power of the people to quench quickly the activities of the filthy 'fifth column'. Do not repeat reports of doubtful accuracy, and don't be a Wankle."

Capt. Sutton warned: "The active 'fifth columnist'—the real enemy agent who is working hard in our midst today—issues the false statement, the half-truth, the lie, or the vivid distortion of fact."

"Don't belittle the efforts of your own people and praise the acts of your enemies, as so many foolish people do whenever they have the opportunity. A second's thought will save a lifetime of despair. Rumors can sink battleships or destroy a nation's morale.

"Another way in which to help is to be cheerful. When bad news comes, as sometimes it must, treat it seriously, but smile and carry on stronger than ever. We'll win the last round. Don't go around with gloomy faces."

Savoy and C.Y.O. Start Softball Finals Tonight

Hume Hotel's protest of C.Y.O.'s 7-6 victory Friday in the deciding game of the Nelson men's softball semi-finals has been thrown out by league officials, who have ordered the final series to open tonight at the Recreation Grounds at 8:45 between Savoy Hotel and C.Y.O.

Hume protested the game on the grounds that Peter Warren, C.Y.O. recruited outfielder and pitcher, was ineligible, but officials ruled that the Catholics complied with the 24-hour registration regulation.

This evening's game will be the first of a best of five series for the Nelson title, taken last year by the Pucksters. The second game will likely be played Wednesday, and third on Friday.

Les Trainor will take the mound for the Catholics and Jack Fisher will be assigned hurling duties for the Hotelmen.

Canada Entices U. S. Travellers in Fair Exhibit

NEW YORK (CP)— Canada in seeking a new method of presenting her charms to a travel-hungry United States, hit this year upon a new process and is presenting three-dimensional pictures in her miniature theatre at the New York World Fair.

These pictures, in which characters and scenes stand out in full relief just as did the crinolined and stiff-collared people in grandmother's stereoscope, are in all the full color of the Canadian Summer—color accentuated by the fact that a new system eliminates all glare.

They are still pictures—slides — rather than movies. But ordinary motion pictures are used to vary the program. The slides show typical scenes from East to Western Canada, the half-dozen views of the towering Rockies being particularly effective, and are climaxed by four or five shots of the Dionne Quintuplets, grouped about Dr. Dafoe.

The three-dimensional pictures are projected upon the screen by two lenses, each with its slide, on the same principle as the old-fashioned stereoscope. The man in the audience adjusts on his nose cardboard-rimmed glasses with special lenses.

Upon the screen there are actually two pictures, and when looked on by the naked eyes they represent a blur. But with the special glasses each eye sees one picture only and the blending of the two gives a perfect illusion of depth and proportion.

Other small theatres in the fair are showing three-dimensional movies, but the Canadians have not gone that far yet. Many showmen believe it is only a question of time before many movies are made in the medium.

THEATRE AN ATTRACTION

A. T. Seaman, Commissioner General of the Canadian pavilion, estimates that between 8000 and 10,000 persons a week view the pictures in the theatre that seats 205 persons for each showing. The management stages shows each half hour from 2 P. M., to 8 P. M. on week days and from noon to 8 P. M. on weekends. They estimate that one person out of eight who visit the pavilion enters the cinema next door, but will not hazard a guess as to whether the pictures have boosted the pavilion attendance.

The theatre was an art gallery last year and was converted into a little gem of a theatre by Robert L. Greene, chief designer of the decorating committee of the Canadian Government's exhibits since 1910.

The pictures used, both movies and the three-dimensional stills, were taken in Canada by the Government's motion picture bureau. The pictures are, frankly, of a type that will influence Americans to go to Canada for their vacations. As such they dwell upon the national parks, fishing, golf, riding and other sports available the excellence of hotels and highways air service and railways, from one end of the Dominion to the other.

New Zealand's Air Contribution Speedy

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Aug 11 (CP).—Defence Minister F. Jones said Saturday New Zealand will reach its peak contribution under the British Empire Air Training Scheme sooner than any of the other Dominions.

Announcing rapid progress in putting the scheme in operation, he said that in 1938 the New Zealand Government promised Great Britain that in time of war it would provide nearly 1000 trained pilots a year. The figure later was increased to 1300 and now, largely due to pre-war groundwork, the Government has been able to provide nearly three times that number of pilots, observers and air gunners.

Hess Claims Moment Now at Hand for Smashing England

BERLIN, Aug. 11 (AP).— Two days after the popularly-publicized deadline of Germany's blitzkrieg on England, Rudolf Hess, Adolf Hitler's deputy for Nazi party affairs, claimed last night that the German nation is convinced "the moment now is at hand to break England's power even to the ruination of the entire Empire."

Speaking in Vienna concert hall at a ceremony marking the succession of a new Nazi district leader, Hess claimed Germany will "fight for the peace which the ruling English plutocratic clique derisively rejected when the Fuehrer once more offered it to England after England's aides and accomplices were defeated."

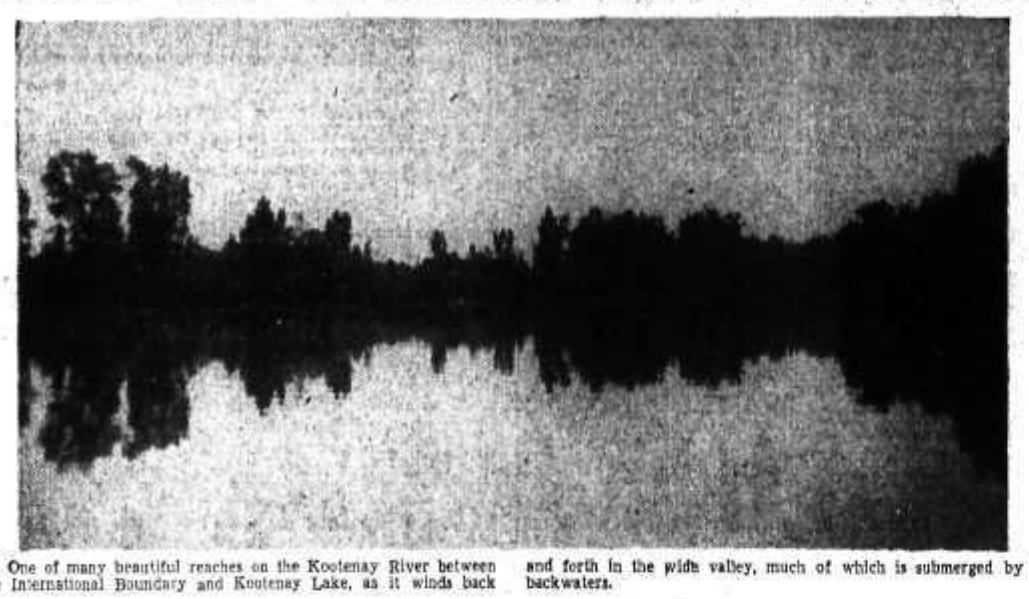
WHERE THE KOOTENAY RIVER MEANDERS



One of many beautiful reaches on the Kootenay River between the International Boundary and Kootenay Lake, as it winds back and forth in the wide valley, much of which is submerged by its backwaters.

In Their Luxuriant Winter Wheat

Dr. and Mrs. P. C. Bruner of Calgary pose in this 350 acre stand of Winter wheat on the Nick's Island portion of the Bruner Reclamation Project. This picture was snapped July 20, when the combine was already harvesting Winter wheat two miles down-river on another portion of the Bruner Project.

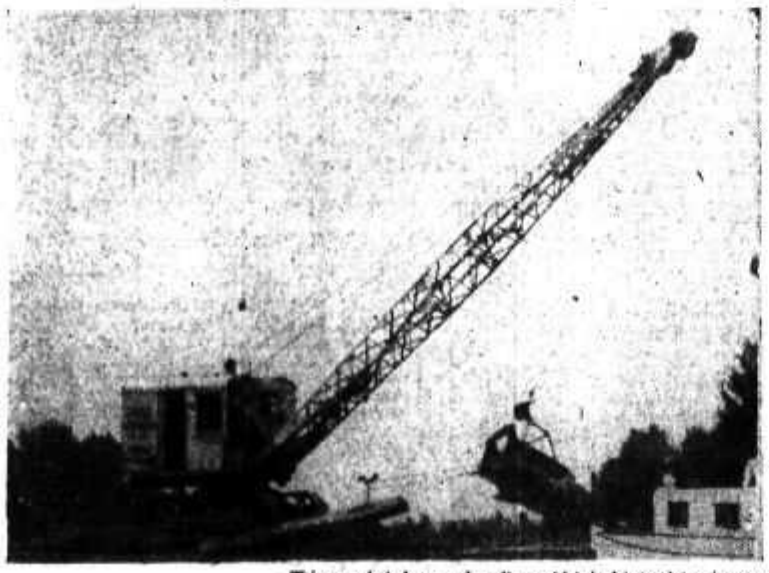
Spring Wheat Where Backwaters Once Stood

This snapshot, taken on the Bruner Project, shows many hundreds of acres of Spring wheat, beyond the road, while at the left is some of the ripe Winter wheat waiting for the combine. The road is practically the dividing line between Nick's Island, on the left, and the reclaimed land, on the right. The wonderful stand of Winter wheat had the advantage of the Winter and Spring moisture and Summer sunshine, but the Spring wheat, while in good condition, had to weather the long dry spell. The Spring wheat is now probably being harvested. Dr. Bruner is the figure to the right, on the road.

Baby Teal Poses

This duckling, not over two days old, was industriously snapping flies from the surface and from water plants, and paying no attention to the outboard alongside it till a landing net was brought into play. It rested placidly on the palm of Ian Currie of Nelson while having its picture taken, later doing a neat four-foot dive when held out over the water. Feathers in young Currie's hat were shed by a mother Blue-Wing Teal earlier in the day while flopping around as if wounded, while her brood scooted for shelter.

Drag-Line Works Its Passage



This snapshot shows a drag-line, which had been doing improvement work on the Bruner Reclamation Project, crossing the Kootenay River at the Nick's Island Ferry, in order to proceed to Shilo, Man., for work on a contract there. The big power scoop, which is the property of the Poole Construction Company, is seen in the act of laying a log mat for itself to proceed over. At the bank nearest Creston, a cabin cruiser helps to hold the long barge in line, while at the Nick's Island side the Nick's Island Ferry—not in the picture—holds the further end of the barge steady in mid-stream.

Eastern Canadian Cities Organize Air Raid Precautions as Safeguard

By E. L. WILLIAMS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

HALIFAX, Aug. 11 (CP) — Air Raid Precautions were born in Canada's Maritime Provinces simultaneously with the outbreak of war, not because Nazi air raids were expected but simply as a safeguard against possibility.

"If the Heinies could they would—but they can't," is how officials sum up the likelihood of enemy bombers swooping down on points along the Eastern seaboard. In case they ever should, however, the ARP is organized.

Then too, war usually means sabotage, explosions, civil disasters that wouldn't happen in peacetime. The Halifax explosion of Dec. 6, 1917, was not attributed directly to enemy action but if there had been no war there would have been no munitions shipping to blow up in the harbor, killing 2,000, injuring 10,000 and laying waste property valued at millions of dollars.

Whether it be as a result of an enemy bomber or "act of God," the ARP is organized to take care of the injured, clear up debris, allay panic and restore conditions to normal as quickly as possible, working all the time in close cooperation with police and fire departments.

Take one East coast city as an example. When war was declared, the premier of the province formed an Air Raid Precautions committee, headed by the general manager of the province's largest public utilities company.

The committee formed its organization and then, working necessarily by a trial-and-error method, got down to work. An immense amount of detail was involved.

By Sept. 12, just nine days after war was declared, Boy Scouts were delivering to every housewife in the city a printed card of instructions on what to do in event of a raid.

Experiments were made with warning systems and finally 42 sirens were placed on telegraph and telephone poles throughout the city. They are operated by a single button.

Lighting control was devised and the officer commanding the military district issued orders applying to the city and district. Under them, the use of lighted outdoor electric signs of every kind is prohibited between sunset and sunrise. No lights source shall be so operated that it is directly visible from the sky at any time between sunset and sunrise.

No lights show from unattended premises at any time between sunset and sunrise. When an air raid warning is given all lights of every kind except those behind adequate shades must be extinguished until the "all clear" signal is given.

Warning of a practice blackout is given not only by the wailing sirens but by the sirens and whistles of every ship in port as well. The blackouts themselves are designed to be even more severe than those in England. All traffic, street car, automobile and any other type stops or pulls into the curb and awaits the all clear signal. But they last only a few minutes and are held when they least inconvenience the public.

The blackouts extend even to incoming or outgoing trains, and to shipping as far as possible. Blinds on inbound trains are drawn down when the train still is miles from the city.

(In Quebec Province, 4,200 forest rangers, linked by wide-spread radio and telephone communications, are the "eyes and ears" of the civilian protection committee. The government-sponsored committee has organized a close check on all travellers in the forest areas, and all forest rangers have been instructed to report unscheduled airplane movements in their areas.

(The committee has worked on the assumption that Northeastern Quebec would be the most likely object of enemy attack by air. Steps are being taken to rally employees of all pulp and paper and lumber companies, Hudson's Bay posts and medical and public works services.

OFFERS ALTERNATIVE TO U.S. CONSCRIPTION

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11 (AP) —John L. Lewis offered an alternative to conscription yesterday.

"Shorten the period of enlistment to one year and increase the pay of the army, at least until it equals that of the boys in the CCC camps," the president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations suggested.

Lewis, here on a tour of the Pacific coast, said in an interview the Congress of Industrial Organization was "definitely opposed to conscription."

Life Insurance Plan for Married Aussie Soldiers Suggested

OTTAWA—The putting into option of the unemployment insurance scheme is occupying government insurance officials and as yet there has been no official suggestion of anything similar to the plan broached in Australia by Prime Minister Mair of New South Wales for life insurance for married members of the Australian forces.

When the unemployment insurance legislation was being considered in the House of Commons T. L. Church (Cor Toronto Broadview) suggested something should be done to aid soldiers in obtaining life insurance. There was no reply to his suggestions.

Under the scheme proposed in New South Wales citizens would voluntarily pay premiums of £20 for £200 life insurance policies for 100,000 soldiers. Insured soldiers would have to be married with at least two children and a public trustee would administer the insurance fund.

Dealing With a Young Mother's Problem Child

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

Suppose you were only 24 and had four children from 14 months to five and one-half years of age, do you suppose you would be half as poised and successful as the mother who wrote the following letter?

"Dear Dr. Myers—I really feel as if I am writing to an old friend in writing you as I have been benefited by the advice in your column so often. . .

"I am only 24, but am the mother of four children, 5½, 3½, 2½ and 14 months. In the big things like going into the street, coming out when put to bed, etc., I seem to have them under control but I am at a loss what to do about those annoying little things that drive one to distraction yet hardly seem to merit a spanking or other real punishment. The problem child seems to shift from one to the other. Right now the oldest boy is the one who seems to make the most trouble. He is continually picking up things he is not supposed to touch, sticking his fingers in food, etc., always seeming to know just how far he can go without any real punishment but I know that the continual scoldings are not helping him, and certainly not me. I have felt that perhaps these things have arisen from jealousy and I try to spend time reading to them, etc., but I have so little time and since their father works at night he does not have much chance to be with them.

"I certainly will appreciate any help you can give me. This continual uproar is beginning to make me feel I am a complete failure as a mother.

"A self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed."

My reply:

"Bless your soul, young mother, you should be proud of your success in handling these four little children. If any of us fathers had your job we would be 'nuts'. What I marvel at is that you reveal as much poise as you do. You have controlled these little children well in large matters. But as you indicate, there are hundreds of little items that try your patience.

"Yet me suggest that you put a few more of these 'little things' in the group of 'big things'. For example, after you have warned the youngster once or twice about a forbidden act, speak no more; act. Assign the offender to sit in a chair where you can see him doing nothing for exactly 20 minutes by the clock. If he moves one inch from the chair without permission spank him soundly and without warning. Fine you read to them. Let other things go.

"A little dust or disorder is unimportant in comparison to such companionship with them. Let the eldest choose the story, as a rule, since he is 'so big'.

"You are right in suspecting jealousy in him. Don't make him give up his things to the younger; certainly not often. See that the younger ones respect his rights. When he does something fine praise him; also when he cooperates with you. When he seems most out of sorts pick him up, hold him on your lap and cuddle him. This will give him the reassurance he so much needs, that he is loved.

"If at all possible, hire some help so you can get more rest and recreation. You even might afford to borrow money for this purpose till these children grow old enough to care for themselves and help you. Train them then to share in the home duties.

"Please, Mrs. ——, never condemn yourself again. I just know you are a wonderful mother to those lovely little children and may God bless you. Be proud of your success with them."

Service Greeted by Old Time Friend at Coast

TORONTO, Aug. 11 (CP).—Robert W. Service, recorded in verse of the Yukon gold rush saga, was greeted here yesterday by a close friend of the gold rush days. Harold Tyler, a travelling representative of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, came here from Erie, Pa., to meet his one-time ledger keeper.

Tyler was teller in the Canadian Bank of Commerce at White Horse, Y. T., during the gold rush days and Service worked under him.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP). — Shouting a warning to pedestrians below, Harlan C. McIntosh, 32-year-old writer, plunged to his death Friday night from the roof of a five-story apartment in Greenwich Village.

Refrigeration Is Boon in Summer

By LOGAN CLENDENING M. D.

It seems astonishing that our grandfathers endured existence in our Summers without refrigeration. But they went without screens, electric fans, soft shirts, Summer clothing of any kind to say nothing of automobiles and air conditioning units.

The automatic refrigerator makes for a drier atmosphere, because as the air circulates inside it absorbs moisture and deposits it in the coils. Liquids should be covered in the electric type refrigerator and cheese, boiled ham and other foods which dry out easily should be wrapped in wax paper. Berries keep better if placed unwashed on a flat tray without covering. Meats should not be washed before being refrigerated. A good refrigerator not only keeps food preserved with a low bacterial count but also removes odors.

First aid test for vacationists:

Suppose you enter a filling station or restaurant and find a man lying on the floor, too weak to move, with white clammy skin and feeble pulse and breathing. Will you give him a stimulant? Cover him with a blanket? Use artificial respiration? Put ice on his head? or what?

If you are the first person to arrive at the scene of an automobile wreck, and find the driver thrown from the war and unable to move on account of pain in the back what injury will you suspect? What will you do for the patient?

If a child comes to you rubbing his eye and says the wind blew something in it, will you tell him to rub towards the nose or away from it? Rub the other eye?

If you get a cut or bruise what treatment will you give? Where are the two places on the body where boils are most dangerous?

Answers will appear in a later issue.

VACATION DIET FOR UNDERWEIGHTS

With a balanced, full diet, adequate in respect to vitamins, protein and minerals, studies on a group of underweights over a period of eleven weeks showed an average weight gain of 2 pounds per week. The underweight who is trying to gain should slow up on all tiring exercises and learn to relax, sleep more at night, ride rather than walk and eat more food. The groups of foods to emphasize are (1) meats, milk and some uncooked, (3) fats, cream, butter, salad dressings, gravies, (4) sweets, desserts, candies cakes.

"All Refugees Have Trailers"– Duchess

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Aug. 11 (AP).—The Duchess of Windsor, who will be the first lady of the Bahamas when the Duke goes there to assume his duties as Governor, already has proved of considerable aid to her husband in the Islands.

Last night Major-General Denis Kirwan Bernard, Governor of Bermuda, gave a dinner for the Windsors attended by 14 guests, including members of the Governor's household, the Duke's entourage, Admiralty officials and the Colonial Secretary.

The Duke, asked what he would do in the Bahamas with the trailer they brought from Europe, said:

"I don't think we will have much use for it. But we are very sold on that trailer."

To which the Duchess added:

"Why, all refugees have trailers nowadays."

Bed Time Snacks Add the Calories

By DONNA GRACE

We all like smart service, but for the real thrill in satisfying hunger and curiosity there is nothing like a stealthy raid on the refrigerator. It's always an adventure for anyone, so far be it from us to say a word agin' it—except to warn that it's in these little picnics one is likely to undo all the benefits of dieting.

Those who have done well for the Winter and Spring months, slimming the figure down to streamline contours, may feel they can be lax for the rest of the year. Summer heat is the excuse we all have for our inactivity, and with the slowing up comes the desire to eat at odd times.

We can forget our discomfort while we enjoy a dish of the left-over pudding topped with plenty of cream. Then there is the cake we couldn't finish at dinner and many other tempting bits of this and that, until we have consumed a lot more than at a regular meal. This, you may be sure, the dieter will not count. "That's just a little snack and amounts to nothing."

If these night raiders would just make a note of everything, including the nuts and candy and possibly the cold glass of beer that went so well with all that cheese and crackers, they would be amazed at the calorie content in that inconsequential snack. The pecans, for instance, amount to approximately 10 calories for each full nut, peanuts more; that nice fresh butter will add about 50 calories. We tell ourselves that dish of beans is hardly enough to keep for another day, so that with some cold meat is dispatched, thereby an added few hundred calories; then a glass of milk, another 160; and if one sees fit to finish that swell piece of blackberry pie, another count of from 300 to 600 calories must be added. So there we have as much more than the whole dinner amounted to.

We know it's mean to offer these reminders and take the fun out of the escapade, but "figgers is figgers" and your smart little figure will always need discipline if it's going to retain the size 14 or 16 of which you are so proud.

It's so easy to form the habit of wanting this substantial before-bedtime meal and the pounds will accumulate before you realize it. We know you won't like the up-and-at-'em exercises when it's warm, so we're just warning you.

Country Worth Living In Is Worth Fighting For, Woman's Answer

CHICAGO, Aug. 11—The personals column in a Chicago newspaper carried this notice:

"Gladys — conscription passes — you lose me for a yr., prot. to your senator now. Fred."

Saturday morning's column carries this answer:

"Fred—Are you man or mouse? A country worth living in is worth fighting for. Don't be a panty waist. Gladys."

Selfishness . . .

Takes Courage to Overcome Grief

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Dear Miss Chatfield:

Six months ago I lost my little seven-year-old daughter and while I have tried to put up a good front I know I shall never get over this grief. Nothing has any interest for me. My husband is very impatient with me and thinks it is wrong for me to let our five-year-old daughter see me cry and grieve for her sister. Perhaps he is right but when life isn't worth living it isn't possible to pretend it is. Please help me to get a new slant.

MRS. D. H. C.

Answer:

Nothing less than a good spanking helps us to get a new slant on life when the slant we have is purely selfish. And that's the case with you, my dear woman. You are selfishly permitting your grief to absorb you and you are permitting your husband and child to suffer. You haven't planned to pull out of the gloom, you are planning to stay in. You are getting a false satisfaction in sidestepping your obligations while you whisper to yourself "Others overcome their grief. But I'm different. Nobody has ever been bereaved as I'm bereaved and those that criticize don't comprehend."

Oh yes, they do. But the difference those that carry on after losing their dear ones and those who sit down and cry, is a matter of courage—that grand virtue which we all must cultivate if we are to meet the vicissitudes of life. Courage to swallow our tears, forget our griefs and do our duty by those who are left. Courage and selfishness don't go together.

Nobody would minimize the anguish a mother feels at giving up her little girl any more than we would minimize the anguish of thousands of mothers all over the world today who are giving up their sons in bloody battles. But if every one of these bereaved parents quit the struggle and said "Nothing interests me any more," the younger sons and daughters left in the homes would grow up to be dour, sour, emotionally crippled men and women.

It frequently happens that a good fright will make us brave. Here's the fright for a woman who greets her husband with tear-stained eyes, wearing a long face, forcing him to think of things he's trying to forget. Men are far more sensible about mourning than women. They deliberately try to put something in their minds to push out sorrowful thoughts. They make a business of diverting themselves from grieving. If their wives won't cooperate with them they lose patience and presently they wander off looking for laughter. They will not have tears for their meat, day and night.

Life is sweet and worthwhile for us only so long as we have a care for those who are dependent upon us. We dishonor our dear dead and rob our grief of dignity when we neglect the living who love us, those whom we profess to love.

Edith Rogers Dahl Plans Stay Canada; Husband Instructor

MONTREAL Aug. 11 (CP). — Edith Rogers Dahl, who saved her pilot husband from a firing squad by sending her photograph to General Franco during the Spanish Civil War, was in Montreal and said in an interview she plans to stay in Canada until the war is over.

Her husbnd, Harry Dahl, is at present an instructor with the Royal Cnadian Air Force at Camp Borden, Ont., but Mrs. Dahl said that was only one reason why she came to the Dominion.

Threats by Nazi and Fascist sympathizers in the United States, where she had been living for some time, was another, she said. "The G-men provided me with a bodyguard because of threats made by letter and in person."

Harry Dahl was captured by Franco's men while serving with the Loyalist army in the Spanish War. His wife wrote Franco personally, enclosing a snap of herself. The Generalissimo granted her plea and allowed Dahl to return to the United States last March.

Description of Cocktail Hat Leads to Belief Season Will Be 'Interesting'

NEW YORK (CP)—With the Paris fashion market disrupted by the war, United States experts continue to pour out new creations from their workrooms in an attempt to capture what Paris has been forced to give up.

Not the least of the endeavors by the American stylists is being made by the milliners who have the new Fall season in view with collections of distinctive quirks expected to appeal to Milady.

There is one line in turbans by Mme. Pauline which she has draped out of thin felt, satin, velvet, Alix Jersey, velveteen, untarnishable gold lame and an interesting striped knit fabric in fine black wool and gold thread. Most of these turbans are high, off-the-face and covering the ear.

There is one company using a lot of Alix jersey, shirred, tucked and draped as backs for all sorts of hats. It is most attractive as the back and crown of a high-coiled, forward-pitching mink toque, and, in a puffed little brown visor hat.

And with fur, there is a pert little beaver fedora, held on by a hidden elastic and with a narrow band of pink velveteen nestling in the fur. A hat created for young faces and pompadours is in taupe felt with a big, off-the-face, heart shaped brim edged with black Persian lamb.

It should be an interesting season what with a special cocktail hat, described by one of the experts, thusly: "Made of velvet tubing with open-work edge, pink feather flowers high over one temple and the whole covered romantically with a gossamer veil appliqued by organdy circles, and all held on with two velvet hat pins."

"Home Fields Are Our Battlefields" Is Battle Cry of Women's Land Army

By GLADYS ARNOLD
Canadian Press Correspondent

LONDON, — "Our home fields are our battlefields" is the slogan and battle cry of members of Britain's women's land army whose numbers have risen to 8000.

Greater acreage under cultivation, flourishing farms where men have been called away to military service, a distinct improvement in the health of these young women are the first results of this campaign inspired by Lady Denman, Honorary Director of the Land Army.

Scattered throughout Britain in small groups or individually on farms, robust girls and women between the ages of 18 and 40 are diligently hay-making, harvesting, aiding to push up the total of Britain's food production.

Mrs. Walter Elliot, Chairman of the London Committee, showed me lists of the different professions from which the women have been drawn. Manicurists, physical training instructors, teachers, secretaries, mannequins, dancers, domestics, shop girls, milliners—all are represented.

"And yet we've had to turn down thousands more because we have no places for them," said Mrs. Elliot. "Some girls working in factories write that they would like to go into the land army and do national service, not realizing that making button-holes for soldiers' uniforms is already doing their part.

The untrained women are first sent to a model farm at one of the agricultural colleges where they receive board, lodging, free instruction and 10 shillings ($2.50) a week pocket money from the Government for a month. Dairying, stock and poultry raising, milking and tractor driving is studied. Each local committee inspects the farms where the girls are sent. They receive 28 shillings a week for a 48-hour week. All overtime is paid for. They sign up for the "duration."

Some girls who have had secondary schooling are trained in horticulture, others in the forestry schools. The forestry measuring corps groups girls who trim logs, measure and saw them up in lumber camps, as well as plant young saplings in a re-forestation plan. The only thing they don't do is actually fell the trees.

The land girls themselves are a brown, healthy looking lot. It's difficult to recognize them after a few weeks in the open air.

Their strong cotton shirts, warm pullovers, overall coats and "dungarees" are smart, washable and serviceable. A group of these girls with their hoes over their shoulders, marching along a country road singing, is a picture to revise all ideas of farm life.

"Indeed," said Mrs. Elliot with a twinkle in her eye "the land army may solve another problem. One of the reasons that women never liked to go out to the farms was because they felt helpless and lonely. We sent these girls out usually in groups of two or three. They are trained and capable. They take a certain 'chk' from the city. It shouldn't be surprised to see many of them marry and remain on the land."

LOVE WITHOUT MUSIC

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

Not even to Robert and Caroline, though, did Linda mention Sarah's name as a possible enemy. It would have been a natural admission, but she relized that she had no reason to believe that Sarah would try to murder her or frighten her. Anyway, there was no possible way for the theatrical magnate's daughter to gain entrance into the apartment.

Robert, thinking the matter over, finally insisted that the police be notified. Together the three of them reported the matter at the nearest station and walked back to the aparment. Dawn was breaking as they retraced their path. Men were emptying the refuse cans along the curb and milkmen were hurrying back and forth with their white bottles. The rain was blowing away in a cold mist.

Linda shivered. The world was an eerie place this morning, and she didn't want to enter her apartment. But when Robert had examined it carefully, announced that it was safe, and offered his own hospitality if the girls were frightened, she decided to rest on her own bed.

Her head ached the next day. The telephone rang constantly at the agency, and people dropped in to question appointments, to express satisfaction or dissatisfaction. When he heard Ronnie's voice at two, she answered gratefully.

"It's been a terrible day. I'm just now going out for lunch." Then, remembering that Sarah had come for him last night, "Was the party fun?"

"Not bad. I'm due at a rehearsal or I'd take you out for luncheon. Will you have dinner with me tomorrow night, Linda?"

He had not said, "I'll see you tonight. Let's have dinner tonight. What are you doing at tea time?" He had placed her thirty hours ahead on his schedule. Nor had he mentioned Sarah. But why should he?

Linda knew her voice was low and tight as she answered, "Sorry, Ronnie. I'm hooked up."

He laughed and she could see the teasing light in his blue eyes. It had been there before, long ago, when she had refused a class party date or a picnic because he had carried somebody else's books home from school. Oh, it was torture to let one man upset your life. Women were so silly, and yet so helpless.

Now Ronald said, "How about the next night?"

"It's open."

"Good. I'll call you."

Two o'clock. The telephone began to ring again, but she didn't answer. She called to Hortense Mitchell, who did secretarial work and substituted for her at lunch time, and asked her to take over. Then, without powdering her nose or deepening the red on her lips, she put on her coat and hat and went out.

She ordered a malted milk and a chicken sandwich at a nearby drug store counter, drank the beverage and left the sandwich, and walked down the street. Spring had arrived since the cool, grey dawn. Sunlight laid gay rugs across the streets, flower vendors begged the laughing people to choose violets or gardenias, and the stores had decked their windows in brighter colors.

Because the odor of chloroform was still drifting somewhere near, she decided to be reckless and buy a small vial of her favorite perfume. It was a crushed lilac fragrance and she had not had any for a long time. Once Ronnie had sent her some for Christmas. Ronnie—

She went to the perfume counter and asked for her purchase.

"We have some other delightful new fragrances," the salesgirl explained. "This, for instance. Isn't it exotic and seductive?"

She put the bottle under Linda's tilted nose and the strange scent that she caught when Mina Nevins drew near, the victorious odor that had stayed in spite of the chloroform, suddenly was all around.

"It's our special creation, made abroad for us," the informative attendant went on talking. "Several well-known people are using it. Sarah Markley, the glamor girl, is one of them."

"Sarah Markley!" Linda forgot that she was just a casual shopper and added, "But she wasn't using it a week or so ago."

"Oh, you know her?" The salesgirl's eyes viewed Linda's slim gray suit and green beret doubtfully. "She just bought it day before yesterday."

"Mina Nevins, the actress, likes it, too, doesn't she?"

"Does she? I wouldn't know. Maybe she gets it in Paris. But you want some, don't you?"

Linda ordered her first choice and slipped the small vial in her pocket. All the way back to the office she reflected on her new information. Sarah and Mina both used this weird, exciting scent. Either one could have left it, and yet both of them had been busy elsewhere last night. And how could anyone have gained access to her room? The door was locked and the night lock was set, too. On a sudden impulse she crossed to a hardware store and bought a steel chain and bolt. She would take no further risks.

It was after six that evening when she went to the custodian's rooms to ask him to have the chain and bolt put on her door. Briefly she told him what had happened.

He was a man around sixty, gray-haired, blue-eyed, rotund, mild and merry.

"Miss Linda, you had a bad dream," he said. "Now, who would want to be knocking you off? And besides, those locks hold. Tut, tut, child, forget it. But I'll put on this contraption if you wish it."

"Caroline is another witness that the room was saturated with chloroform," Linda went on. "Listen, MacCrae, did anyone come in or go out late? Didn't you hear any noises?"

He drew himself up to his round, short stature and spowe impressively. "These houses in this block belong to the Markley agency and there's never one bit of wrong doing."

"Markley—the theatrical man?"

"Yes, madam, himself."

So Sarah's father might have the right to pass keys—that was foolish—a busy man wouldn't be annoyed with such trivialities. MacCrae was speaking again.

"—and nobody has had a pass key, ever, except Miss Mina Nevins, the actress, who wanted to get in to a friend's rooms the other night. Miss Nevins is our most glorious actress—I used to see her twenty years ago—and she is a friend of mine. She comes and sits and drinks a spot of tea with me. Miss Nevins would not open your door!"

Linda listened quietly. "Has Miss Nevins returned the key?" she asked.

Port Koolaree Log . . .

Koolaree Fleet Weighs Anchor With Friendship Ceremony; Indians Arrive

For 10 happy days the fleet had lain at anchor in Koolaree Bay while the crews have frolicked on the shores and hillsides of Koolaree. Thursday night the fleet weighed anchors and set its course to the every-day world, laden with a cargo of pleasant memories, new resolves, and high hopes. The departure ceremony began at the campfire where, for the first time, the new Chief Mate Jean Erskine, led the girls in their fire lighting ceremony. Each crew presented Admiral Taddy, Miss Amelia Hanna, with greetings for next year's camp.

Along with a splendid message from the Chief First Mate these were placed in a box to be buried as treasure for the 1941 camp. Following the reading of the Log the crews filed out along the trail to the secret hiding place of the treasure. At the finish of this ritual, the fleet gathered on the shores of Koolaree Bay. Here the Chief First Mate brought the light of friendship from the campfire, carrying the ceremonial candle. When the skippers had lit their candles from this candle, they in turn lit the candles of their crews. Each candle was set in a tiny bark boat. With Admiral Taddy leading in the singing of "I Feel the Winds of God Day, To-day My Sail I Life" the boats bearing the lights of friendship were set sail on the waters of Koolaree—and another Koolaree camp all too soon has drawn to its close.

SENIOR GIRLS AT CAMP

Friday marked the beginning of Senior Girls' Camp and Koolaree hills will again echo to the songs and whoops of the Indians. Greta Chief of Camp is "Soangetaha", Miss Gertrude Patmore of Cranbrook. Other chiefs will be Mrs. Walter Kettlewell and Miss Amelia Hanna of Nelson, Miss Nora Ellis of Chilliwack, Miss Helen Staples of Creston, and Miss Peggy Spreull and Miss Dorothy Barber of Cranbrook.

WATER SPORTS WON BY BLACK PIRATES

Thursday was the annual water sport day in the Koolaree Fleet. Bosun Bingo, Miss Helen Staples, directed the races. The little Black Pirates, skippered by Chips, Miss Peggy Spreull, came out on top with a wide margin over all other crews. Skipper Lindy's Sun Loy crew came second with the others following in close order.

Winners in the diving were Hanna Busk and Peggy Galdwell for the older divers and Olive ohnson and can Hagggerty for the ones who had learned to dive while at Camp. Joan Macintosh, who learned to swim during her 10 day's at camp, earned several points for her crew, the little Black Pirates. Enthusiasm reached its height in the pie pan paddling race when the crews competed in a boat race where the paddles were pie plates.

Council Ring met yesterday morning to choose the year's best camper for next year's Chief First Mate. The girl to receive this high honor was Jean Erskine of Nelson. As an all-round good camper, Jean has endeared herself to every member of the Koolaree fleet, and it was felt that the girls had chosen wisely and well. When the result of the ballot was announced at the dinner hour, Jean accepted her responsibilities in a few well-chosen words.

Campfire program Wednesday night featured "Winnie-the-Pooh" stories. Skipper Chips, Miss Peggy Spreull, played several of the "Pooh" records on the phonograph first. Later the Black Pirates presented "Pooh Goes Visiting" as a dramatic selection. Ruth Olsen took the part of Pooh, Joan Macintosh took Rabbit's part, while Olive Johnson was Christopher Robin.

Registration to Show Number Single Men in Different Groups

OTTAWA, Aug. 11 (CP)—Progressive announcements on the number of single men in various age groups in the different constituencies will be made as soon as possible after national registration is completed on Aug. 21, it was learned today.

The Department of National War Services is anxious to get a complete picture of the number of single men in the lower age groups to which the first call will go out for militia service in Canada.

Under the arrangements made for registration duplicate cards will be filled out for young single men and these will be handled more expeditiously and separately from the bulk of the registration cards. It is possible the number of men in such groups may be announced locally by constituency registrars as it is compiled.

Registration in industrial and commercial establishments will be in full swing on Monday, Mr. Justice T. C. Davis, Associated Deputy Minister of National War Services, said today.

These establishments are to conduct registration of their own employees in advance of the general registration which starts Aug. 19 and continues through to Aug. 21.

Marines Go to Cuba

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP).—Amid far-reaching plans to strengthen United States defences in the Caribbean, the navy is ordering 2900 marines to Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, for intensive training manoeuvres.

The contingent—the First Brigade of Quantico, Va.—would be in a position to reach Central or South America quickly, should any trouble requiring their presence arise.

The navy already had undertaken conversion of four fast American ships into "destroyer transports" so that the brigade could be moved swiftly.

German Legation in Lithuania Refuse to Surrender to Soviet

BERLIN, Aug. 11 (AP) — Tiny Lithuania's Berlin legation maintained opposition yesterday to Soviet Russian demands to surrender and appeared likely to raise a ticklish problem for Germany.

The German Foreign Office, unofficially at least, was confronted with the task of deciding whether or not Russia, through incorporation of Lithuania in the Soviet Union, has the right to take over the legation.

It was learned at the legation that so far there have been no official exchanges with the German Foreign Office respecting the Lithuanian position.

Officials of the Russian embassy, who already had occupied the Latvian and Estonian legations, called at the Lithuanian embassy and demanded the property be surrendered. Lithuanian officials told them to "go peddle their papers".

Candle Procession Marks End Novena at Montreal Shrine

MONTREAL, Aug. 11 (CP)—A candlelight procession wound tonight along the slopes of Mount Royal at St. Joseph's Oratory as an estimated 20,000 Roman Catholics ended a nine-day novena for peace in the world and beatification of the late Brother Andre, founder of the $2,000,000 shrine.

The closing ceremonies fell on the 95th anniversary of the birth of the once humble doorman and porter who was to become known as "the miracle man of the mountain."

SPECULATION ON HOUDE STATUS

MONTREAL, Aug. 11 (CP)— Is the Mayor of Montreal an employee of the City?

This question has arisen with speculation as to whether Mayor Camillien Houde, interned for denunciation of the National Registration, will retain office in view of regulations governing the registration scheme.

In his published statement opposing registration, Houde also expressed his intention of ignoring the plan.

From Ottawa comes word of an Order-in-Council which decrees a $200 fine for any employer who, after Aug. 21, employs or continues to employ any person who is required to register and who has failed to do so.

Thus, political circles reason, Houde—if he refused to register might lose his mayoralty office.

Also at stake would be his seat in the Quebec Legislature as Independent member for Montreal, St. Mary.

Speculation over Houde's status as Mayor and Legislator cropped up after his arrest Monday but legal authorities said there apparently was no legislation depriving him of either office.

Flying Boat Beats Schedule on Return

By SAM ROBERTSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Somewhere in England, Aug. 11 (CP Cable)—The British Overseas Airways flying boat Clare landed at her home seabase yesterday ahead of schedule on her return flight from North America.

The big ship carried six passengers, two Britons and four young Americans who have one-year contracts with the British Overseas Airways and are directly under orders of Lord Beaverbrook, Minister of Aircraft Production.

In addition to passengers, the Clare carried a large consignment of mail and some freight. Nature of the freight was not revealed but it was known to be associated with the war effort.

The quartet of Americans have volunteered to ferry airplanes off the production lines to their allotted stations. While it was said they work from the production lines in Britain, it was believed in reliable quarters that after a period of instruction the quartet may fly aircraft across the Atlantic from North American assembly lines.

All four have had more than 2000 hours' flying experience. Curaine and O'Hanlan recently were instructors in the United States civil aviation program under which university students received flying training.

It is understood the British Government is seeking at least 100 United States fliers for the task which brought the Californians here.

MOORED AT BOUCHERVILLE OVERNIGHT

BOUCHERVILLE, Que., Aug. 11 (CP)—The big flying boat Clare, which arrived yesterday in England, was moored overnight at this base near Montreal before hopping off with six passengers on the second leg of its return flight from New York to the United Kingdom.

Captain Learns, Too Late, "Degaussing" Equipment's Value

LONDON—This story tells how effective the "Degaussing" equipment is in insulating ships from the magnetic mines Germany strews around Britain's coasts.

A neutral ship several weeks ago was heading for Sunderland and had to anchor outside the port. Thinking it a waste of electricity to keep the "Degaussing" gear in operation while the ship was as anchor the captain ordered it switched off.

As soon as the engineer turned the switch, the ship blew up. It had been anchored over a magnetic mine.

Smoke Over Valley From Lynch Creek Fire; No New Outbreaks Are Reported

While the setting sun turning smoke haze into fiery red clouds and smoke hanging over the valley the weekend-long, wrote a vivid "be careful with fires" sign across the skies for Nelsonites, no new blazes were reported to B. C. Forest Branch officials and fire fighters were making progress or holding known outbreaks.

The smoke was blowing from the Lynch Creek fire burning up old snags and windfalls left from a large fire many years ago. Lynch Creek falls into the North Fork of the Kettle River in the Grand Forks area.

Fire fighters were holding on the South and West, the spread of the fire on the upper Arrow Creek, which flows into Goat River, East of Creston. This blaze is a holdover from the lightning-set fires that blazed up in number in July.

LEACH CREEK BLAZE BEING HELD

Largest of three outbreaks reported Thursday a blaze at the headwaters of Leach Creek in the Flathead country was being held by fire fighters as far as was known here Sunday night. A hundred men, 50 Forest Branch men and 50 sent out by the Crow's Nest Coal Company, were battling the fire. No report was received on the Trout Lake fire in the Lardeau while the Grohman Creek outbreak was being held on the lower side and being allowed to travel up the ridge between the West fork of Grohman and the head of Cedar Creek into an old burn.

AMERICANS ON BORDER FIRE

ROSSLAND, B. C., Aug. 11 — A forest fire outbreak, at Maidie Creek, near Rotter's former lumber camp at the border near Paterson, which was reported in to the Rossland Forest Ranger's office on Friday, is reported to be well under control and it is expected that it will be out before Monday. Twenty-seven men, including nine men "South of the border," were rushed out Friday, and a patrol of seven have been stationed there since Saturday. The fire was attributed to lightning.

A fire was reported in the vicinity of Bear Creek, Saturday evening, but the Rangers were not able to locate it. They are maintaining a close watch in that area in case it breaks out again.

Interned Troops Will Be Transferred to East Switzerland

BERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Swiss Army Command announced yesterday that French and Polish troops interned in the Bernese Oberland, South of Berne, will be transferred to Eastern Switzerland.

About 60,000 troops in all are interned in Switzerland.

The shift of the French and Polish soldiers was due to recent attempts by small groups of Poles to escape to the French frontier and to French-speaking Switzerland.

Meanwhile Gen. Henri Guisa, the Swiss Commander-in-Chief, with approval of the Government, called up three brigades of light troops from service beginning August 19, and five groups of exploration troops and five squadrons of Dragoons for service beginning August 26.

The new units are to relieve other units released for harvest work.

WRATH VENTED ON JEWS

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Aug. 11 (AP) — The Rumanian Government, forced by Axis desires to negotiate forthcoming territorial cessions to Bulgaria and Hungary, vented its wrath yesterday on the Jews.

In placing new anti-Jewish laws into full effect, the Government apparently was influenced by the fact that the most nationalistic Rumanian elements, which are opposing any territorial cession, also are the most anti-Semitic.

Political circles expressed belief the concession to the nationalist elements on the Jewish question would lessen their opposition to the territorial negotiations, and permit the Government to yield some land without serious internal difficulties.

Police arrested scores of persons on charges of spreading false news and hustled them off to concentration camps. All the prisoners were identified with the Liberal and Democratic factions, and most of them were Jews.

W. G. Weston, Donor $445,000 for Planes, Proud Being Canadian

TORONTO,—W. Garfield Weston, Toronto-born biscuit manufacturer who donated approximately $445,000 to replace 16 Royal Air Force fighter planes shot down over the English Channel, visited this city last April.

At that time he said that Britain's only mistake so far was failure to reveal her trumps. Inadequate information about her successes had allowed a flood of German propaganda to splash gloom over the whole of North America, he said.

Mr. Weston, at 42 one of England's wealthiest men, is extremely proud of being a Canadian. He is a member of Parliament for Macclesfield and attributes much of his success in English politics to the fact that he is Canadian.

When elected, he said, "They couldn't get anyone to run against me because of that fact. They felt if they did, it might be looked on as an insult to Canada."

SYLVIA AND THE NEGROES

At first blush the announced scheme of Sylvia Pankhurst, of suffragette fame, to enlist the support of American Negroes for the Abyssian war of liberation against Italy, and particularly to secure a Negro Flying Corps for service with Emperor Haile Selassie, sounds like another of the crack-pot proposals to be expected from her and her sister.

Actually, the doubt in the matter would be the ability of the famous Sylvia to impress the Negro leaders with this particular cause.

Whether the idea of Abyssinian freedom would mean more to them than the idea of freedom in general, or than the idea of fighting the aggressors before they got close to the United States, is doubtful.

It is not at all impracticable, however, as far as Negro wealth and ability are concerned.

It is not at all impracticable, however, as far as Negro wealth and ability are concerned.

There is lots of wealth in Negro hands in the United States.

There are thousands of big Negro landlords, thousands of big Negro business men, thousands of big Negro industrialists.

Some very large cities are predominantly Negro in population. Don't think that the Negro is negligible.

In Canada we do not give much thought to the Negroes of the United States. The reason of course is that we receive the white man's news. We read the white man's newspapers and magazines.

We know of course that there are some great Negro boxers, and in the colleges some great Negro runners. We know about Father Devine and his "Heaven." Occasionally some Negro racketeer of great wealth is placed behind the bars.

But, generally speaking, it does not occur to us that the many millions of Negroes in the United States have a life of their own and a business of their own. They have their chains of picture houses, where Negro heroes and heroines are shown on the screen, the films made of course by a Negro film industry. They have their Negro newspapers and their Negro magazines. Great industries have their being to satisfy the material wants of the Negro population. They have their universities, their college and professional football, their professional baseball of every caliber up to the standard of the major leagues. Only last week the Saturday Evening Post had an article on Negro baseball that suggested that the greatest living pitcher is a Negro, known as Sachelfoot.

Harlem, the Negro section of New York, is one of the large Negro cities of the world. Birmingham, in Alabama, is a rich and great Negro capital in the South.

And the Negroes have their heroes, it can easily be supposed.

And among those heroes, who stand higher than the intrepid Negro aviators?

Today, when almost anyone may own a plane, thousands of Negroes fly for pastime, just as Negroes of wealth formerly had the flashiest cars procurable. A Negro idol was in the white man's news only a short time ago.

Whether Sylvia Pankhurst is the one to successfully crusade among the Negroes to help free Ethiopia is a question.

But there will be no question about the Negroes doing their part if the United States should enter the war.

And there is no question of the financial and physical help they could give to the cause of freedom, as represented by the British Empire and its Allies, if their sentimental interest were captured.

NAZI CLAIM REFUTED

According to Kirke L. Simpson of Washington, D. C., Associated Press staff writer, the Battle of the Channel refutes the German propaganda that has been telling the world that the British shipping has been driven off that water.

In a dispatch of Friday from Washington he said in part:

"Britain has met and endured the shock of the greatest massed air attack in history—an attack directed against her sea lifelines. Moreover, she has promptly hit back at her Nazi foe.

"It is difficult to guage the military significance of the furious air fighting over the English Channel, but there are several factors about the fight that are wortliy of note. Its locale in the Channel, and presumably in the narrower waters of that Channel that offer Germany the best bridgehead for an invasion, refutes one recent and repeated German boast.

"The British are still using those waters for sea-supply purpose. It was a Channel convoy of cargo ships at which the Nazi attack was aimed.

"Only a few days before the fight took place Berlin had contended that the British virtuallly had abandoned the Channel, due to Nazi air raids on convoyed shipping there. German propagandists devised a flight of neutral Pressmen along the continental shores of the Channel in German warplanes in an attempt to support that statement. They challenged their guests to detect any British shipping acivities, merchant or naval.

"The important fact for Britain is that she still is using the Channel for her own supply and distribution purposes, however gravely her sea mastery may be challenged there. The way for Nazi invasion of England by Channel brideheads is far from cleared, and a favorable high tide period for such an invasion is passing."

E. B., Rossland—Could you please give me the correct definition of an enemy alien? My grandfather was born in Germany and came to the United States as a boy. My father and I were both born in the United States. My father came to Canada and took out Canadian citizenship papers when I was two years old. Would that make me a Canadian citizen and would my "nationality" be German?

You are not an enemy alien. You became automatically naturalized from an American citizen to a Canadian citizen if your father's naturalization was before January 1, 1918. If it were after that date, you were naturalized as a Canadian if your name were included in your father's certificate. Before your father's naturalization as a Canadian you were an American citizen. Your racial origin, of course, is German.

E. T. G., Nelson—Can you tell me what year Lord and Lady Dufferin visited Ann Street School in Montreal?

There is no record of Lord and Lady Dufferin's visit to Ann Street School. The school was in existence from 1850 to August, 1907, when it was burned down. It was rebuilt in 1908 and renamed the William Lunn School, and this school is still in existence on Ann Street. Lord Dufferin was in office from 1872 to 1878.

A. B. C., Trail—If there an academy of dramatic art in San Francisco, and if so, would you please give me the address?

Kincaid Dramatic School, 420 Sutter Street, San Francisco.

Gibraltar Stronger Day by Day; Ready for Enemy Thrusts

GIBRALTAR, Aug. 11 (CP.-Reuters)—This fortress dominating the Western gateway of the Mediterranean daily is becoming stronger and more ready for any enemy thrusts from land, sea or air.

Italian raiders—the troops dubbed them "Ities"—already have had a taste of Gibraltar's mettle. So far they've been able to cross the Rock three times, dropping bombs which caused negligible damage — none to military objects.

With evacuation of thousands of civilians the Rock daily is assuming more and more the appearance of a purely military stronghold.

Kingston Sends Its Fifth Donation to Buy Bombing Plane

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Aug. 11—Raised through a public subscription, £5,000 was cabled Lord Beaverbrook today from Kingston to buy the fifth bombing plane donated by this British West Indies colony to the mother country. Present plans call for an additional £35,000 to buy seven more bombers for Royal Air Force squadrons.

CONTRACT . . . By Shepard Barclay

USE OF "THE DUCK"

ON MANY a No Trump hand, the declarer has no way to make his contract except by the play universally known among veterans as "the duck." This consists of letting the defenders take an early trick or tricks in a particular suit so that the declarer may use the later high cards of the suit as entries to bring in the remainders of it. Frequently the opponents would end the run of the suit if this play were not employed.

Let us take the following examples, the numbered hands in each case being the dummy and the opening lead being the club 4, together with the presumption that the defenders repeat that suit when in the lead:

1. ♠ 8 4 2 ♥ A K Q 3 2 ♦ K 7 3 ♣ 7 5
2. ♠ 8 4 2 ♥ A K Q 3 2 ♦ 8 7 3 ♣ 7 5
3. ♠ 8 4 3 ♥ A K 8 3 2 ♦ 8 7 3 ♣ 7 5
4. ♠ 8 4 2 ♥ A K 8 3 2 ♦ K 7 3 ♣ 7 5

With No. 1 as the dummy, the declarer can count nine immediate tricks, so can run them at once, hoping for two extra tricks if the hearts are split no worse than three with one opponent and two with the other.

With No. 2 as the dummy, the declarer positively must set up one small heart to total nine tricks. His contract is beaten if he finds one defender with as many as four hearts. But the contract may be made iron-clad against a 4-1 division of hearts by letting the defenders take the first heart trick. With that distribution, if he himself takes the first two heart tricks and one defender fails to follow suit on the second, his contract will be doomed.

With No. 3 as dummy, contract can be made only with a favorable 3-2 split. But even that will beat his contract if he takes the first two tricks and loses the third. He must give the opponents one of the first two tricks to win.

With No. 4 an early duck is prescribed, letting the defenders have one of the first two tricks in hearts. Otherwise four hearts in one hand can defeat the contract if diamonds are returned.

Life at Uncle's Store In Toronto Is Very Sweet to Polish Soldier

TORONTO, (CP) — Raymond Losak, 24-year-old Polish soldier, considers himself most fortunate that eating, sleeping and living are commonplace events once again.

Through his cousin, Micky Michalczyk, a native of Toronto, Losak, in an interview tonight told stories of "stabs in the back" as a member of defeated armies in Poland and France. After 11 months of dodging death, he finds life at his uncle's store here very sweet.

In Canada, illegally, after quitting his ship at Montreal on which he crossed the Atlantic from England as a seaman-guard over German prisoners, he surrendered to immigration officials today. He was released on his honor following an inquiry.

The treachery began with Russia's invasion of Poland, he said. If that hadn't happened he believed Poland might have beaten off the German armies. Anyway, his anti-tank battery was destroyed and he and many comrades decided to escape into Hungary. They were interned in a sugar-beet factory at Sopron.

Two weeks later Losak was included in a band of Poles who escaped and finally reached Yugoslavia. From there they took a Greek steamer to France and joined the Polish Legion in late April of this year. They fought in the Paris region until France capitulated.

The French soldiers, he said, showed no "spirit". When France capitulated, he and his fellow Poles were told "it's every man for himself." Losak said he made his way to near Bordeaux and was taken on an English steamship, Royal Scotsman, to Liverpool.

During the early part of the German occupation of Poland, Losak said, the Polish people occasionally attacked and sometimes killed a Nazi spy or guard. As punishment the Germans killed all occupants of 10 houses on either side of where each German had been attacked, the youth continued.

Weston Approves Canadian Squadron

LONDON, Aug. 11 (CP Cable)—Well-to-do Canadians in London plan to establish a fund to maintain at full strength the fighter squadron to be formed of aircraft bought by Garfield Weston's $445,000 gift to the Ministry of Aircraft Production Friday.

It was estimated that the Toronto-born biscuit manufacturer's gift will buy at least 10 fully-equipped Spitfires or some 20 craft without equipment.

One suggestion heard yesterday was that an all-Canadian fighter squadron be formed with the new planes, the squadron to be made up of Canadian pilots and mechanics. The maintenance fund would ensure replacement of machines lost in combat.

Mr. Weston said the proposal to form an all-Canadian squadron had not occurred to him when he gave the money but, he added, "I think it's a great idea, I should warmly support it."

$50 MILLION IS OBJECTIVE IN WAR SAVINGS PLAN

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 11 (CP)—The Canadian Government hopes to raise $50,000,000 this year through participation of the public in the war savings program, Hon. Colin C. W. G. Gibson, Minister of National Revenue, said in an interview here yesterday.

39 Training Centres to Be Established

OTTAWA, Aug. 11 (CP) — Defence Minister Ralston Saturday announced camps are being established at Sussex, N.B., and Debert, N.S., to house troops assigned to the new Atlantic area command under Major-General William H. P. Elkins.

The minister also said 39 training centres are being established throughout Canada for Non-Permanent Active Militia men called up for training starting in October.

This is an increase of nine centres over the original plan. The last announcement said 30 such centres would be established. The cost of buildings and equipment for the 39 centres will run to some $9,000,000.

Recruiting for the Non-Permanent Active Militia which stops, so far as volunteers are concerned, on Aug. 15, has been good, Col. Ralston stated.

On Aug. 8 there were 68,849 men in the militia and 106,183 in the Canadian Active Service Force in Canada.

Some 2,000 or 3,000 men are still required to complete the establishments of the 3rd and 4th divisions and nine additional infantry battalions of the C.A.S.F. in Canada.

Appointment of commanding officers for the 3rd and 4th divisions is under consideration, said Col. Ralston.

Demore-Cummins Feud Reaches New High as Cards Win Playoff Opener 8-5 From Nelson in Strife-Torn Game

Nelson Leaves Field in Sixth, Then Plays Under Protest

DEMORE IMPORTS STAR IN VICTORY

TRAIL, B. C., Aug. 12—While the ever-raging feud between Con Cummins and Louis Demore became more intense than ever before, if possible, Trail Cardinals unleashed a terrific long distance hitting attack in the eighth inning to drive in four runs and draw first blood by winning 8-5 in the first of a best of three West Kootenay Baseball League semi-final series with Nelson Seniors.

The second game will be played in Nelson, but the date is not certain.

The teams played today as if truly the world's title was at stake. Neither gave any quarter, and umpire's decisions came in for plenty of protest from both sides. And whenever Con Cummins, fiery Nelson manager, would venture out to the plate to have his say, he received a hearty round of Bronx cheers from a big crowd.

The game was a thriller, packed with brilliant baseball and hard-hitting, punctuated by smart mound work. Things reached a climax in the sixth inning when the Cardinals scored three runs to precipitate a wild argument which all but broke up the game. In fact Nelson finished the game under protest. Their play was resumed after over 5 minutes' delay.

DOUBLE STEAL STARTS IT

Before things really started popping the score was tied 2-2 by virtue of a run the home club earlier in the sixth. Anselmo had opened the inning by singling to centre, and went around to third on a double by Ken Lawn, Cardinal recruit from Vancouver. Then Steve Smith and "Lefty" Mydansky crashed into each other chasing Stanton's towering fly into right field, the ball dropping safely, and Anselmo scoring.

Lawn was on third and Stanton held first, and this set the stage for a successfully executed double steal. Richardson threw down to second to Beland but Stanton beat the throw, so Beland pegged back to the plate. Lawn slid in, but Umpire Tulloch called him out, then called him safe when Richardson lost the ball. The Nelson catcher vociferously charged that he had held the ball long enough for the putout, and the whole upshot of a futile argument seemed to be that there could be no more game. However, Nelson finally went back on the field to play under protest, and Jack Carpenter took over the hurling duties from Ray Humble, who until that inning had done a brilliant job.

After Carpenter struck out Lowe and J. Bilesky in succession, Scheppert doubled over the right field fence to score another run to stretch the Cardinals' lead to 4-2. Aided by a base on balls, a hit batsman, two hits and a balk, Nelson scored twice in the seventh to square the contest against.

BILESKY BREAKS UP GAME

It took Julie Bilesky, sparkling hard shortstop on whom the Spokane Indians have their scouting eyes, to break up the game in the eighth. Lowe had doubled and Bilesky scored him with the tie-breaking run with a sharp single over second. Scheppert belted out a long homer and Wolfe did the same to build up the Cards' lead to 8-4.

Nelson's Coach, Humble, injured his knee in the ninth when he stole home. He fell after reaching home plate but it proved to be nothing more than a severe but painful wrench. The rather slow-footed Coach surprised the fans by stealing third just previously, and then he caught the Trail battery napping to pilfer home.

The Cardinals were outhit 12-9 by the visitors, but their home run barrage, which included a homer by Andy Bilesky in the third, matched by Ernie Beland in the fifth, both with none on, decided the issue. They turned up with three new players, Ken Lawn from Vancouver, Ian Lowe from Brandon and Roy Scheppert from Broadview, Sask. The three of them were big cogs in the Trail victory, both at the bat and in the field.

Mioland Splashes to Derby Victory

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP). — Splashing through a sloppy track in a driving rain, Mioland galloped to a three-length victory in the $62,000 American Derby at Washington Park Saturday to throw the three-year-old championship into a perplexing puzzle.

Mioland, owned by Charles S. Howard of San Francisco, led from start to finish. Sirocco, winner of the Arlington classic, finished second, and Weigh Anchor third, four lengths back of Sirocco. Gallahadion, winner of the Kentucky Derby, finished fourth after running last most of the way, with Super Chief fifth in the five-horse field.

The race lost much of its appeal by the last-minute scratching of Slimelech, Col. Edward R. Bradley's potential three-year-old champion of 1940, because of the sloppy track. An hour before the race, a terrific thunderstorm drenched the racing strip and the 35,000 spectators. Mioland splashed over the 1¼-mile route in 2:05 4-5.

The winner returned $14.20 to win, $5.00 to place and $3.40 to show. The place price on Sirocco was $3.00 and $2.60 to show.

Kootenay Lake Open Championship After All—Labor Day, at Nelson

Lenzi of Spokane Wants to Defend His Title; Ladybird at Least Is Ready to Meet Him

The race for the Kootenay Lake men championship — an event keenly anticipated by the entire district since last year's Nelson Kinsmen Regatta — will definitely be held on the Nelson waterfront Labor Day, L. F. Gilbert, owner of the Ladybird, said Saturday.

Hopes to stage the race appeared doomed when it was disclosed there would be no regatta this year, sponsored as it was last year by the Kinsmen Club in conjunction with the Kootenay Launch Club.

However Mr. Gilbert has learned that Fred Lenzi of Spokane, whose boat carried off the Lake championship last year when the Ladybird broke down in the early stages of the race, is anxious to compete again, this time with a new 16-foot hydroplane, with which the Spokane racer is highly pleased. He calls it the Century Thunderbolt, and he has raced it on Coeur d'Alene Lake this Summer. It has been officially clocked at as high as 70 miles per hour.

MAY BE SEATTLE BOAT

There is also a possibility of a Seattle boat coming up, and there may be others in the race. Last year there were four, including boats from Kelowna and Missoula, Mont.

Meanwhile the Ladybird is gradually breaking in new bearings in her engine, and has been performing "very well." Mr. Gilbert says it won't be long before he will be able to open the throttle wide, but in trial spins thus far the beautiful boat has gone little more than three-quarter speed in sports. She made a trip up the Main Lake on Sunday.

Sports Roundup

By BILL WHITE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP) — Be prepared for a lot of red hot political broadcasts in this culyum beginning Tuesday. Last report we had of Col. Brietz he was in the midst of a Republican caucus in Charlotte, N. C. There'll be 44 huskies on hand when Jim Yeager of Iowa State calls the grid roll on what looks like one of his best teams. . . . Monday is Red Letter Day down in Gren-Witch Village. "Mayor" Jimmy Kelly is tossing his annual party for Joe DiMag, with every kid in town hoping to get an autographed ball or a handshake. . . .

IT CAN HAPPEN TO THE INJUNS

Every unassisted triple play made in the American League has been made by, or against, Cleveland. In 1909, Nearl Ball, Injun shortstop, turned the trick against Boston; in 1923 George Burns, Cleveland first sacker, made one against Boston; and in 1927 Johnny Neun, Detroit first baseman made a tripler against Cleveland. And the only unassisted triple play ever made in a World Series was turned in by Bill Wambsganss, Cleveland second baseman against the Dodgers, in 1920.

There are positively no prizes offered for quips about Mike Jacobs feeling right at home with the Dodgers, the fighting-est team in baseball. . . .

Larry Davis, whose daddy was Captain of the 1919 Penn cage team, will don the Red and Blue this year. . . . Lynn C. Doyle, in the Philly Evening Bulletin says the way the Phils and A's are hitting you'd think they are playing the numbers instead of baseball. . . .

Kimberley Sport Lovers Hail New Premier Park

Premier Lake Provincial Park, long sought as a pleasure and recreation grounds for the public of Kimberley District by the Kimberley Rod and Gun Club, was established by an order in council passed July 30.

Kimberley Rod and Gun Club, M. Hellisson, Chairman of the Fish Committee, and Arnold McGrath, M.L.A., of Cranbrook have worked untiringly to have this Park established. It is hailed as a blessing to fishermen, for the lake is a noted fishing ground, and to picnickers, for lovely picnic spots abound in its 165 acres, according to a letter from A. K. Bond, Kimberley Rod and Gun Club members.

Half of Dodger Stock Refuse to Consider Sale

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (AP). — The proposed sale of the Brooklyn Baseball Dodgers to Fight Promoter Mike Jacobs looks like the fellow who wanted to trade a suit of clothes although he only owned the pants.

Half of the Dodger stock — the 50 per cent controlled by the Brooklyn Trust Company — was ready to talk business. The other half — that owned by the heirs of the late Judge Stephen McKeever—wanted to hold on, it was reported.

Out of the statements and denials, this much seemed certian:

1. The Brooklyn Trust Company did go to Mike Jacobs some weeks ago with a proposition to buy the club.

2. Mike, who went so far in the thing as to get all the financial figures on the most valuable franchise in the big leagues, thinks he can still buy the club, and doesn't see why he shouldn't do it before the end of the current season.

The Trust Company, trustee of that portion of the stock left by the late Charley Ebbets, one-time Dodger owner, said there has been "no progress in the negotiations since a conference with Mike in mid-July. George Barnewall, an officer of the bank, insisted there was no meeting of stockholders today to talk the thing over, as reported previously, and added, "furthermore, none is contemplated."

"We saw Mr. Jacobs about July 18," Barnewall explained, "and talked over the proposed sale then. We have not seen him since."

That there was any "hitch" came as a surprise to Jacobs. He said he understood the stockholders were agreed on selling the club, and that it was just a question of getting together on the price.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11 (AP). — Tommy Martin, 176½, of Great Britain, was awarded a technical knockout over Johnny Hanschen, 197, of Minneapolis, Friday night, Referee Jack Kennedy halting the bout in the sixth round and proclaiming the Midwesterner unable to continue because of a slight cut under his left eye.

Nelson Girls Split Doubleheader at Trail to Take Strong Hold on Title

Lakesiders Need but One Win to Take Softball Crown

TRAIL, B. C., Aug. 11—Nelson women's rep softball team took a stranglehold on the Daily Province Trophy, emblematic of the West Kootenay title, by coming out of the second doubleheader of the best of seven series with an even break against Trail Reps at Butler Park Sunday.

Trail won the first game 17-13 after taking the lead in the third inning, and then Nelson went two games up again in the series with a 21-12 win in the nightcap. The Nelson girls, who swept two games at home last week, resume the series in the Lakeside City Sunday after next, and can take the title with one more victory.

HORRIGAN WINS

Millie Horrigan pitched the Nelsonites to victory after doing half a game relief in the opening contest. Nelson spotted Trail four runs in the first of the second, but scored seven of their own in their half and followed up with half a dozen in the following inning to all but sew things up. Trail threatened only once more, in the seventh, when five runs came across the plate.

The first game started out as a nip-and-tuck affair the two teams matching run for run in the first two innings. Trail pulled out two in front in the third on the strength of a 7-5 lead and held it the rest of the route behind Margaret (Mandy) Smith's steady hurling. Nelson started out with Rosa Stewart, but Miss Horrigan came to her rescue with one gone in the fifth. Mrs. Smith was called into action again in the fourth inning of the second game, after Nelson teed off with a terrific attack in the second and third innings.

Lillian Hickey, cleanup hitter for the defending champions and left fielder, continued her amazing fielding by making 11 putouts in two games, and for the fourth time in as many games threw runners out at the plate. One of the high-lights of the day was a sensational one-handed catch by Hazel Benoit, Trail third baseman, next to the screen in foul territory of Deanie Wallace's fly in the first installment of the first game.

Another dazzling play was realized in the fourth frame of the opening contest when Vera Matheson stabbed Pat Bush's hot grounder far to her right in deep short with one hand, and pegged to Isabel Donovan, who smartly completed the play, to force Frances Zuk.

Browns Are Doing Better This Year

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 10 (AP)—One possible reason for the closeness of the American League pennant race is that St. Louis Browns already have won more games than they did all of last season.

The victory over Cleveland in the nightcap of Friday's twin ball was the Browns' 44th of the year, putting them one ahead of their total for 1939, when they won 43 and lost 111.

Nelson Juniors Pull Ball Game Out of the Fire

Rossland Beaten 13-12 in Free-Hitting Contest

The Nelson Juniors came from behind in the last of the ninth to pull ahead 13-12 and win a free-hitting baseball game from Rossland Juniors here Sunday afternoon which failed to liven up till the last three innings.

Nelson gained a big lead in the early innings as they hammered a youthful southpaw, Tom Jones, for 15 hits. Johnny Pavolich who replaced Jones held the locals in check till the ninth and was touched for five hits. Mickey Prestley allowed seven hits and Ernie Coleman, who chucked the last two innings, was touched for two.

Jones struck out seven and Pavolich whiffed five batters. For the home team Mickey Prestley struck out seven and Colman eased two of the visitors away. Errors were numerous by Nelson players, Scott on first making four fumbles and Sid Desireau in the right field one. The Rosslanders were credited with but a single error, by centre field Tom Lloyd. A neat double play, Doug Winlaw to Scott was pulled off by Nelson.

Bettors made James J. Jeffries 2-1 favorite to defend his heavyweight title against Jim Corbett 37 years ago today. Corbett entered the ring for the last time against Jeffries and took a beating in a 10-round battle.

Dr. W. Ernest Collins, pastor at Topeka, Kansas, decided the golfers in his congregation are entitled to a special Sunday service at 7:45 a.m.; over at 8:30, in time for a morning round.

Dodger Fans Figure Sam Breadon Is Quite Some Guy in a Trading Role

Medwick Breaks the Hearts of the Flatbushers

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

New York, Aug. 10 (AP).—Sam Breadon may not be the man who sold the Brooklyn Bridge, but Dodger fans are beginning to think he's the guy who could do it. He sold Brooklyn Ducky Medwick, and after that deal selling anything else would be just built-pen exercise. . . . . .

The Cardinals received a miscellaneous assortment of ball players and cash estimated as high as $200,000 (your guess is just as good) in return for Medwick and Curtis Davis, with Davis just tossed into the deal like the sack that comes along with the candy.

Medwick was going to bring the Dodgers the pennant. He was going to be "the difference" and Dodger fans were speechless with joy, and when a Dodger fan is speechless that's news.

DUCKY BENCHED

The Dodgers still might win the pennant, but right now it doesn't appear that Ducky Medwick will be reason No. 1. He's hitting less than .290, feeble for him, and only recently was picking up bench splinters at the request of his pal, Leo Durocher.

Several reasons have been advanced for Medwick's failure to live up to expectations in a Dodger uniform. Among them are:

1. The beaning by Bob Bowman, Cardinal hurler, shortly after joining the Brooklyn Club, took a lot out of him.

2. He had loafed so long with St. Louis in the hope that he would be sent to another club that it became a habit he can't break.

3. Sam Breadon's X-ray eyes looked through Medwick and saw he was about through as an outstanding ball player.

IS HE THROUGH?

Each of these guesses may be a factor, but looking back on some of the other deals Breadon has made we are inclined to string along with reason No. 3. The Card boss has an uncanny knack of disposing of players for fat prices just at the time they are beginning to crack, although still apparently at their peak.

He and his fellow David Harum, Branch Rickey, wheedled the Cubs out of $185,000 for Dizzy Dean apparently sound in wind and limb. Dizzy is trying to come back via the Texas League after giving the Cubs only a small return on their investment.

Breadon traded Rogers Hornsby for Frankie Frisch back in 1933. Frisch continued a successful career as player and manager and today is the blow torch under the hitherto dormant Pirates. Hornsby switched about from club to club, always a storm centre, and today is yearning for a chance to get back in the big show.

The list of players the Cardinals have disposed of for healthy money is long — Chick Hafey, Rip Collins, Taylor Douthit, to name a few.

Seldom have their deals backfired, although they did send Gus Mancuso to the Giants in 1933 and passed on Burgess Whitehead to the same club in 1936, the Giants winning the pennant both those years and the ex-Cards playing no small parts.

Bristol Channel Open for Ships From Seven Seas

A PORT OF WESTERN ENGLAND— Despite magnetic mines strewn by low-flying German planes and the harassment of aerial bombardment, Bristol Channel, England's great maritime gateway to the West, still is open to ships off the Seven Seas and their cargoes for embattled Britain.

The aim of the mine-laying planes is not always good. One mine fell on land, damaging a farm and then blowing a window of a 17th century village church.

Sometimes this port is closed while minesweepers clean up after the aerial visitors but interruptions are slight and life goes on pretty much as usual.

Here they count the nights when there are no air raid alarms—and there have been just four since June 24.

Many bombs have dropped in the open country. One farmer threw open his home to sightseers—and charged them a small fee which he gave to the Red Cross.

Some people sleep all night in public shelters. Others sleep downstairs in their homes. And there are some who wait up, playing cards or chatting until about three or four in the morning, and then, "if Jerry is not coming tonight", they go to bed reasonably sure of unbroken sleep. Afternoon naps are popular.

Hotels serve a "late air raid breakfast" for nervous guests who have spent the night in the cellars.

Children make a game of the air raids. Many may be seen wearing "tin hats" made of cardboard, bearing the words "junior warden."

"It is hard to keep the children out of the shelters," said one mother. "They play wardens all day. Then they are not frightened when they have to go to the shelters at night."

1500 Enemy Planes Is German Count

BERLIN, Aug. 11 (AP).—Saturday's German High Command communique:

'A submarine reported the sinking of an armed merchant ship of 8700 tons.

(There was no comment from British sources on this claim).

"Armed reconnaissance against England continued on schedule, especially along the English East and South coasts, as well as the sea region North of Shetland.

"Our fighting planes attacked British armament plants, port and shipyard facilities as well as airports and anti-aircraft positions.

"In the course of this action we succeeded among other things in effectively bombing airplane works of Fobjov Airmotors and Aircraft Ltd., at Rochester and an explosive factory at Faversham which caused big fires and explosions.

"A great number of bombs of all calibres hit docks at Newcastle and Government shipyards at Sheerness and Chatham

"The runway of an airport North of Bristol was destroyed by bombs.

(The Air Ministry in London announced German air raids throughout the night had caused some deaths and casualties but damage was confined to houses at a number of places).

"Single enemy planes entered Northern France, Belgium and Holland and at night Western Germany.

"Military targets on Reich's territory were not attacked. However, several civilians were injured and a number of buildings damaged. Two of our planes are missing. Two enemy planes were downed by anti-aircraft fire. With the destruction of these enemy planes German anti-aircraft fire has downed a total of 1500 enemy planes.

To Establish U.S. Listening Posts on Canada Coast

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP).—The U. S. State Department disclosed yesterday that it was establishing diplomatic listening posts at Dakar French West Africa, nearest point in Africa to South America, and at St. Pierre-Miquelon, French insular possession off the coast of Canada.

An announcement of changes ordered recently in the American Foreign Service revealed that the American Consulate at Dakar closed in 1931 as part of an economy drive, would be reopened shortly.

Dakar is the hopping off place for France's transatlantic air service to South America when that service, now dormant, is operating.

The State Department disclosed also that the Consulate at St. Pierre-Miquelon, which is South of Newfoundland, would also be reopened

Airmen Guard Own Stations

OTTAWA, Aug. 11 (CP).— The Royal Canadian Air Force is now guarding its own stations and men in blue have replaced men in khaki in keeping watch night and day against intruders at flying fields and hangars across the country.

Details from nearby militia regiments were assigned to guard duty at air force properties on the outbreak of war. Armed with rifles and bayonets they lived on the air stations and released airmen who would otherwise have been required do guard duty for the more urgent tasks of the air force.

Recently, however, it was decided to call up several thousand men who had applied for admission to the air force in advance of their being required in the particular trades for which they were skilled or accommodated in the training schools.

Air Minister Power said it was better to put such men on strength and in uniform than to leave them in civilian life, growing more and more impatient and perhaps losing interest. He said the men so called would probably receive a standard infantry training and be required to do guard and other duties.

In carrying out this policy the militia details mounting guard at air stations have been gradually replaced by airmen.

Highlanders of Vancouver Stationed in Castle Guard Rural Countryside

By EDWIN JOHNSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Aug. 11 (CP)—In the very shadows of an ivy-shrouded castle a battalion of husky Highlanders from Vancouver is keeping watchful guard against a surprise move by the enemy.

The zone in which these far-Westerners are operating is somewhat different to the battle front they expected to find when they embarked for overseas. Most of them had resigned themselves to a life of rugged hardship amid mud, shell holes, and devastation in the regions of France and Flanders where their fathers fought 25 years ago.

Although every farm within the limits of the Canadian defensive area has been converted into a miniature fortress or a pivotal point for a counter-stroke if the need arises, life in rural England has suffered a minimum of disturbance. On the surface there is little evidence of the prodigious efforts to make the country invasion-proof.

Only the closest examination will disclose improvised defences, sturdy barricades, gun-emplacements and well-protected outposts cleverly concealed along tree-studded hills, in green meadows, tilled fields, and even amid the flower gardens of small and large estates alike.

Cattle and sheep still graze contentedly despite this strange intrusion, ducks and chickens strut over farmyards searching for grub under gun limbers and carriers. The farmer goes about his work as of yore, except he also regards himself as part of the defensive machine. Usually he spends his evenings patrolling the roads or on other duties assigned to the district home guard.

That was the scene newspapermen encountered on a visit to the Pacific Coast Scotties. The commanding officer welcomed us into the 16th century farmhouse, serving as his temporary headquarters.

"You have just arrived in time to accompany my pipers on a short route march," he said. "Come along, and see some of this grand country."

There was a brief halt at a large field where a group of Highlanders lined up for lunch. Pte. Pat O'Dale of Vancouver, was in the act of slicing up a huge side of roast while Lt.-Col. W. Hosler, another Vancouver lad, ladled out scoops of steaming soup. Wearing an unconventional straw "boater" he provided the perfect shot for the amused photographers.

The news-photo group, including Lieut. Laurie Audrain, of Winnipeg, collected a rare harvest of human interest stuff. They snapped Pte. Don McLean, former heavyweight boxer from Vancouver with his shirt tail hanging loosely below his knees and Pte H. A. Dinkie, who accompanied Admiral Byrd on an Antarctic expedition some years ago, and several group shots showing the Scots at work and play.

Capt. W. S. Murdock, who rose from the ranks as member of the Vancouver Cadets, joined the party as it resumed its march. On through sunken roads, past a huge wrought-iron gate, along a winding trail flanked by hedges and there stood an ancient, story-book castle.

Building Permits of $4210 Include a House for $3500

Paced by a $3500 permit to build house, eight building permits were applied for at the City Engineer's office during the week ending Saturday. The permits totalled $4210.

The house, to be build by S. A. Lazareff & Co., of Trail, for Mr. Bardington on Robson Street, is to be 22 feet by 36 feet 9 inches, of two story construction. It will have a kitchen, living room, bedroom and bathroom on the first floor, and two bedrooms and bathroom on the second floor.

Other permits were applied for as follows:

T. Hulls, to remove shingles and roll on manufactured roofing, 515 Hall Street, $25.

N. Nelson, to repair back porch, Aberdeen Block, Baker Street, $10.

T. H. Waters & Co. Ltd., to put new posts in basement and build concrete walk, Maple Street, $100.

J. Ahrens, to stucco and repair verandah, 402 Observatory Street, $400.

G. L. Andrews, to construct garage, frame wall and shingles, using former materials, 817 Mill Street, $30.

Laurence Simpson, to enlarge warehouse on C. P. R. right of way, $30.

A. B. Gilker, to repair skylight roof over elevator shaft, replacing some of glass by fire proof shingles, Baker Street, $15.

Building Permits at Creston During Half-Year, $10,000

CRESTON, B. C.—To the end of July Creston village is having the quietest half year in building in the last 10 years. Permits issued to the first of August were about $10,000.

The 40,000-bushel crib addition to the Wheat Pool elevator and Creston Valley Creamery Association creamery are the only two new structures of note. The balance of the expenditure is made up of alterations and reconstruction.

The day is saved for the carpenters, to some extent, with erection of new homes on adjacent orchard properties along with additions. Since the first of the month, too, there has been a demand for building labor in the erection of grain bins and small storage elevators on some of the farms on the dyked lands, to house a portion of the 1940 crop. The most notable of these is one of 25,000 bushel capacity under construction on the farm of Frank Putnam, M.L.A.

Base Metals Pick Up, Toronto Mkt.

TORONTO, Aug. 11 (CP). — The Toronto stock market closed the week with a moderately soft tone. Base metal shares were inclined to firm up after an opening sag and the Western oils were unchanged to slightly higher. Volume was around 50,000 shares.

Naybob came out in volume at a slightly stronger price and Wright-Hargreaves and Kerr-Addison traded in considerable volume at steady prices. San Antonio advanced 10 cents to 1.75 and minor recessions came through for Central Patricia, Sylvanite, Preston and Moneta.

International Nickel closed higher by a half point, Hudson Bay added a full point, selling at 24, and gains of a few cents were netted by Pend Oreille and Ventures.

The tone was a bit soft for the utilities and senior oils. Steels, banks and papers showed practically no change.

The Western oil share market was dull with bids firm. Home Oil sold at 1.60, up 3 cents.

Pole Lines Are Renewed, Creston

CRESTON, B. C. — Workmen of West Kootenay Power & Light Company Ltd., and Kootenay Telephone Company Ltd., have been busy the past week with pole line renewal in the village, more particularly at points where the former's overhead equipment is heavy.

Within the village the two companies operate on the same pole line, considerable of which was put in by the Howard S. Aman interests when the "juice" first came to Creston about 1930. The new poles are creosoted and are expected to given much longer life.

Despite a reported quieting down in general business circles connections at the telephone switchboard are on a par with midsummer of 1939. Taking June as likely to provide the lightest month for light consumption it looks as if electricity users in Creston and district will have contributed between $1800 and $1800 on the Federal levy of 8 per cent on domestic electricity when the year ends next month.

No More Gasoline Stations Allowed

TORONTO, Aug. 11 (CP)—An order prohibiting the establishment in Canada of any further outlets for the retail sale of gasoline and other petroleum products was announced here yesterday from the office of R. R. Cotirell, oil controller of Canada.

The regulations, dated Aug. 8, are made under powers given the oil controller by a Federal order-in-council of last June 28.

No more service stations will be permitted except those on which construction was started before Aug. 8, and even then special approval of the oil controller must be obtained before the buildings can be completed.

The installation of pumps and other equipment for use in the retail sale of gasoline and other petroleum products also is prohibited, although equipment required for the reasonable and necessary repairs to existing installations will be allowed.

'DESIGNED TO INSURE ORDERLY CONDUCT OF BUSINESS'

OTTAWA, Aug. 11 (CP)—Prohibition against further establishment of retail sales outlets for gasoline and petroleum products, announced yesterday in Toronto, is designed to ensure the "orderly conduct of the business in Canada," said Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply.

Mr. Howe said "this is a matter entirely for the oil controller (G. R. Cotirelle of Toronto) and I am not familiar with the causes underlying his order."

The Minister said he did not believe the prohibition order, announced this morning from Mr. Cotirelle's Toronto office, was a forerunner of general curtailment of the use of gasoline for private purposes in Canada.

From time to time there have been rumors that importation of gasoline would be restricted or prohibited but so far nothing has indicated any immediate likelihood that gasoline for private use would be rationed.

It is believed, however, that the oil controller, foreseeing the possibility of such restrictions being necessary at some future time, is moving to prevent wide expansion of the retail industry in view of the greater hardship which would result from a sharp reduction in the fuel available for non-essential purposes.

Early in the war, Mr. Howe told the House of Commons recently, he was assured the Turner Valley (Alberta) oil production could be maintained at 35,000 barrels a day.

Later the oil controller called upon the Alberta Government for a production of 30,000 a day but was advised that the output could not exceed 27,500 barrels. Since the demand had been built on the larger figure this meant some rationing of the domestic product to retailers.

Wholesalers are affected by the new order in that they are prohibited from supplying products or equipment to any retailers except those in business before August 8.

The order does not apply to the installation of equipment for private use by individuals and companies.

Gold Imports to U.S. in July $519,974,000

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP) — The United States Commerce Department reported yesterday that gold imports during July amounted to $519,974,000, nearly half of which was in foreign coin.

The July imports were $844,241,000 below those of June. The total for the first seven months of 1940 was $3,265,773,000, an increase of $966,295,000 over the corresponding period last year.

The United Kingdom, as usual, was the largest shipper of gold to the United States with $301,737,000.

Mining Stocks Off

OTTAWA, Aug. 11 (CP) — The price index for 25 mining stocks was 100.8 the week ended Aug. 8 compared with 101.1 the previous week and 157.5 the corresponding week last year. Index for 22 gold stocks was 74.8 compared with 78.6 and 117.4, and for three base metals 208.5 compared with 211.7 and 324.0.

LONDON, England (CP) — Because he "talked not only without knowledge of facts but foolishly and in a know-it-all spirit to impress his hearers," an arsenal worker here was fined £10 ($44.50).

METAL MARKETS

MONTREAL, Aug. 11 (CP)—Bar gold in London was unchanged at $37.34 an ounce in Canadian funds; 160s in British representing the Bank of England's buying price. The fixed $35 Washington price amounted to $38.50 in Canadian.

Spot: Copper, electrolytic 63.50; tin 12.75; lead 5.50; zinc 5.65; antimony 15.25.

Silver futures closed unchanged. Bid: Aug. 37.75.

NEW YORK — Copper steady; electrolytic spot, Conn. Valley 10.75-11.00; export, f.a.s. N. Y. 9.50.

Tin steady; spot and nearby 51.75; lead steady; spot, New York 4.75-.80; zinc steady; East St. Louis spot and forward 6.25.

Pig iron, aluminum, antimony, quicksilver, platinum and Chinese wolframite and domestic scheelite unchanged.

Wall St. Favorites Gain Fractions

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP). — Quiet strength of selected industrials gave stock a mild rallying hue in Saturday's market.

While many leaders loafed throughout the brief session, favorites managed to tack on further recoveries of fractions to a point or so.

Buying flurries occasionally lifted volume and transfers for the two hours were around 175,000 shares.

Brokers said the carry-over of bidding from Friday's improved performance was inspired largely by the belief of market students that the recent drying up of selling was a sign the list was due for a turnabout even if only temporarily.

International Nickel and Lake Shore Mines, among Canadian issues improved slightly. Dome Mines and McIntyre dipped fractions as Canadian Pacific and Distillers rested unchanged.

Boardrooms expressed interest in the summary of the New York Stock Exchange revealing the short position as of July 31 advanced to 479,243 shares from 446,957 on June 28.

The big war department order for tanks granted Baldwin Locomotive again proved an aid to this concern's stock.

Motors were bolstered by predictions production of new 1941 models would soon get under way at a rapid rate.

N. S. Defence. Auto Needs to Carry Steel Into Fall

CLEVELAND, Aug. 11 (AP) — United States Defence and Automotive requirements promise to carry the steel industry into the Fall with near-capacity production even if British and Canadian demands diminish.

This was the appraisal today of Magazine "Steel", which noted that production was holding around 99¼ per cent of capacity even though some plants have had to curtail to make repairs.

"Scrap prices have advanced for the second successive week, moving the composite up 21 cents to $18.50," said Steel. "Several large orders for line pipe have swelled recent business in tubular products. Railroad equipment orders continue fairly active. Tin plate production was unchanged at 71 per cent, but with consumers' stocks being reduced an increase in specifications is looked for in the near future."

Bonds Spotted in Late New York Trade

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP) — Buyers licked over a small assortment of rail and industrial bonds at fractionally higher prices Saturday.

While the market as a whole leaned to the topside, enough minus signs cropped out by the start of the last hour to give a spotty appearance.

Pioneer Gains 5

VANCOUVER, Aug. 11 (CP). — Prices were up slightly during light trading on the abbreviated session of Vancouver Stock Exchange on Saturday. Transactions totalled 12,460 shares.

Tourists Fewer Than 1939, Creston Camp; Many Stop, Can Fruit

CRESTON, B. C.—The auto tourist season that late in June and early July gave promise of a record year, has flattened out and the register at the Lone Pine camp, operated by W. J. Avery, shows a July patronage not quite on a par with the same month in 1939.

The records show however, that the visitors were making longer stays in town than usual, and the average auto was carrying not less than four passengers. Some of those putting in two or more days were Albertans, on their return from further West points, who employed the additional time at canning strawberries, cherries, raspberries, and currants at the camp community kitchen.

For July 70 auto parties booked in. Of these 48 were from Alberta, 10 from British Columbia, seven from Saskatchewan, one from Manitoba and one from Oregon.

Bus travel continues heavy. Most days of the week two buses are required on the East run and occasionally two are required for the West trip.

Interest in Flour Export at Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Aug. 11 (CP) — A little export interest in flour was practically the only feature of a quiet session of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday that left wheat prices at fixed minimum levels of 73⅝ cents for the October future and 74⅝ cents for December. The December future did not open.

The export business was presumably for the United Kingdom.

Cash wheat trade was on an odd-car basis with mills showing mild interest in No. 3 Northern. Shippers were also picking up small amounts of durum.

In the coarse grain pit, oats received a little support in resting orders early in the morning but declined later. Barley trade was thin and prices dipped slightly on scattered hedging. Some inter-market spreading was noted in rye, and flax was practically neglected.

Foreign crop reports said Greece would harvest 34,000,000 bushels of wheat this year, or 4,000,000 bushels less than last year. More favorable weather was reported for the Argentine crop.

Arrow Active

CALGARY, Aug. 11 (CP)—Arrow seemed to attract most interest on Calgary Stock Exchange yesterday. It was bid up two cents to 22 but no sellers were found. Transfers 1600 shares.

New Valley gained ¼ to 1¾. Home, Sundance and Calmont remained unchanged. In odd-lot trading Firestone dropped ½.

The schedule is based on a price of $50 a ton for delivery at New York and Chicago and at other Atlantic and Gulf ports.

Grain Laden Ship Found Floating in Bay

GIJON, Spain, Aug. 11 (AP)—A crewless ship, heavily laden with grain was towed yesterday into port at Aviles by fishing vessels which found her drifting 40 miles from shore in the Bay of Biscay.

Advices from Aviles said the the ship had been identified as the 5000-ton Greek freighter Basilio Deustonia. (Lloyds Register does not list a ship by that name).

Creston Protests Wheat Ruling

CRESTON, B. C. — Telegraph business out of Creston was brisk at the weekend when the Board of Trade and other organizations, as well as interested farmers, conveyed to the Canadian Wheat Board vigorous protests against the fixing of five bushels as the maximum of wheat each could take for line elevator storage, at least for the present.

The ruling, effective Saturday works a particular hardship in that both Fall and Spring wheat harvest is under way and there is no time in which to put up the type of building that is needed to safely house against the kind of weather usually encountered here in the Fall and early Winter months.

After a careful sizing up of farm storage and elevator accommodation, and having in mind the quantity of grain that has already moved President Joyce of the Board of Trade wired stating it was imperative that Creston's quota be raised to 20 bushels per seeded acre.

Up to the end of the week 60,000 bushels had moved, mostly to Vancouver, and by the first of the week cutting will be pretty general in all three dyked areas.

To cope with the situation Mr. Lowe of Calgary, on the inspection staff of Midland & Pacific Grain Corporation, was here Friday and Saturday. The wheat outgo and the early season on fruit has also obliged the C.P.R. to employ an extra agent. Mr. Binney of Vancouver arrived Thursday to take the second shift at the depot.

Stoppage of Fodder Imports Threatens Denmark Food Export

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Aug. 11 (AP. Via Berlin)—Curtailment of Denmark's exports of foodstuffs due to war stoppage of her fodder imports was foreshadowed yesterday in a report of the Agricultural Council.

The Council estimated that butter exports would drop by 100,000 tons, slaughtered pigs from 180,000 to 40,000 tons, eggs from 100,000,000 to 21,000,000.

Exports of live pigs will decline from 4,000,000 to 2,000,000, cattle from 3,300,000 to 2,800,000 and chickens from 12,000,000 to 7,000,000.

The report said Denmark must depend exclusively upon her own harvests to feed her livestock.

Early Grain Losses Recovered, Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP). — The official Government crop report was optimistic as to the size of the 1940 grain crops and prices on the Board of Trade Saturday dropped sharply at the start.

Later however, most of the losses were recovered when orders to purchase at stated levels were uncovered by the declining markets. Net changes for the day were not great. Trade was slow, as has been the custom lately.

C.P.R. TRAFFIC EARNINGS INCREASE $814,000

Windsor Chats to Canadian About Alberta Ranch

By FORD BAXTER
Canadian Press Correspondent

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Aug. 11 (CP.-Cable)—The Duke of Windsor yesterday paid an informal visit to Canadian troops on special wartime duty in this colony and received a salute from a unit which had given him the same honor when he toured Canada 21 years ago as Prince of Wales.

The Duke was accompanied by Sir Denis Bernard, Governor of Bermuda, and a group of aides.

He was met by the Officer Commanding the Canadians — his name cannot be given because of censorship regulations — and for a few moments they exchanged reminiscences of the Duke's previous meetings with the unit, not only in Canada but in France where it had served in the First Great War.

Behind the Duke as he took the salute in the march past, stood two senior Canadian officers. Overhead fluttered the Union Jack and in front were two posts bearing the regiment's colors. The men wore Summer dress of khaki drill and shorts.

During the inspection the Duke chatted with several bemedalled veterans of the First Great War.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Aug. 10 (CP.-Cable)—During his inspection of Canadian troops here the Duke of Windsor told a Canadian officer who had visited the Duke's ranch at High River, Alta., that he hoped to again spend some time at the ranch.

The two chatted about Alberta's oil fields and Western Canada generally.

EDMONTON, Aug. 11 (CP). — When the Duke of Windsor talked to a Canadian soldier at Hamilton, Bermuda, about the Duke's EP ranch in Alberta, he was discussing a tract of land which some oil men think lies over one of the greatest oil pools in Canada.

The Duke's ranch is near Pekisko, about 45 miles South of Calgary. The nearest part of the Turner Valley oil field lies within 10 miles of it. Some years ago a "duster", a well that merely turned out to be a hole in the ground, was drilled just North of the ranch. Other drilling has been in progress South of the ranch, near Lundbreck, and one well there was reported today to be bearing a prospective production horizon.

The Duke was granted a 99-year mineral and petroleum lease on his ranch several years ago by the Alberta Government. There has been no drilling for oil on it.

French Govt. Controls All Foreign Trade

VICHY, France, Aug. 11 (AP)—The French Government will maintain strict control over all foreign trade and refuse entry permits for goods not judged absolutely essential, it was announced yesterday.

Control will be in the hands of the newly-created foreign commerce office.

Supplies of foreign currency now in France will be tabulated carefully and every step in granting import licences will be taken with the object of husbanding these funds.

An extraordinary five per cent tax on wages is an aftermath of the war. The tax, originally 15 per cent, was levied during the war on wages of all unmobilized men of military service age. It now hits demobilized men as well.

Demands Japan Control British Shanghai Sector

SHANGHAI, Aug. 11 (AP). — A demand that the British defence sector in Shanghai be transferred to Japanese control to meet "the actual situation" created by British troop withdrawals was voiced Saturday by the newspaper Tairuku Shimpo, regarded as the mouthpiece of the Japanese army.

Declaring that Britain had been forced to make "sweeping changes in her Far Eastern policy," the paper said:

"No matter on what grounds the British withdrawal is based, there is no doubt that the British have accepted Japan's demands for withdrawal of armed forces of European belligerents from Japanese-occupied areas in China."

Japanese naval authorities, meanwhile, proclaimed extension of their blockade of the China coast by specifying a number of areas on the Fukien coast which would be closed to navigation August 15.

Strained British-Japanese relations appeared eased by the British withdrawal, but Chinese quarters found fresh cause for anxiety in reports of threatening Japanese troop concentrations along the French Indo-China border.

At Chungking, the Central Daily News, official organ of the Chinese Government, warned that China would take 'adequate steps to back French Indo-China with force" if that colony's territorial or political integrity should be menaced.

Unofficial sources said that China's General Chiang Kai-Shek already had moved some of his best divisions toward the Indo-China border.

Reports from Hong Kong said that Japanese warships and transports were arriving daily at Waichow, Hainan and other bases near Indo-China.

Despite these threatening indications, foreign military circles acquainted with climatic conditions said it was unlikely Japan would make any serious move in the direction of Indo-China before late September.

New France Dedicated to Reforms Parallel to Axis Powers

(Editor's Note: The author of the following analysis of the French "war guilt" trials and the events which caused them is John H. Martin, Associated Press Staff Writer, who recently returned to the United States after a year of service in Paris. Before that he worked in London.)

By JOHN H. MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP). — France's revolutionary trial of political and military leaders charged with her defeat by Germany promises to be the most fantastic "second-guessing" affair in that country's stormy history.

As the Supreme Court began its sessions at Riom these former political leaders appeared headed for the dock: Ex-Premiers Edouard Daladier, Paul Reynaud, Leon Blum and Camille Chautemps; ex-Colonial Minister Georges Mandel, ex-Foreign and Education Minister Yvon Delbos and former Air Minister Pierre Cot.

On the military side was the former Allied Commander-in-Chief, Marie-Gustave Gamelin, dismissed after the German break-through at Sedan and the beginning of France's collapse.

Those judged guilty will be sentenced to life imprisonment. Some sections of the French press have been demanding the death sentence.

Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of the "free Frenchmen" still fighting the war beside Britain, already has been sentenced to death "in absentia" by a military tribunal. His followers are liable to the same penalty.

The Riom list of accused probably will lengthen. There still are many unhealed vendettas from the past decade of knock-down brawls, riots, strikes and poverty under a complicated Parliamentary regime which Marshal Philippe Petain's authoritarian Government is trying to kill.

Many believe those found guilty will be "scapegoats" offered for sacrifice at the unmistakable demands of a furious, defeated people.

Accusations against Daladier have been that he had no right to launch France into war, that he knew she was unprepared.

Daladier, a blunt, plain man was given decree powers — not as great, however, as Petain now holds — in 1938. On Sept. 2, 1939, the day before France entered the war, the Chamber of Deputies voted a $1,500,000,000 war budget, the bill implying the Premier's right to declare war.

Only five negative votes out of 618 were cast against Daladier when he first obtained his decree powers and sought to fuse a united nation. He thereafter became a strike-buster and was hailed as France's much-needed "strong man."

Reynaud succeeded him in March this year when Daladier resigned amid criticism of his failure to prosecute a "more vigorous war."

It was the dapper little financial expert, Reynaud, who wanted to continue the war from Africa or even America in June when he made those moving appeals to President Roosevelt for aid. He was forced out, and Petain sued for an armistice.

Both Daladier and Reynaud were well-liked by British leaders. That won't help their status any among the extreme Rightists now ruling France who long have contended Britain exerted great pressure on France's foreign policy.

Much blame for France's present plight has been heaped upon Leon Blum, Socialist leader whose "new deal" Government for France in 1936 ended in failure. Blum introduced the 40-hour work week—prodded by a vast series of stay-in strikes. He also obtained wage increases and paid vacations for workers, and nationalized the armament industries.

Then hailed as protector of the working man for his reforms, Blum now is branded by a Rightist-ruled people as largely responsible for France's failure to speed up her gun output. The Chamber of Deputies, however, refused him the plenary powers it later gave Daladier.

Throughout France's bitter pre-war political turmoil, Marshal Petain, the aged hero of Verdun, remained mostly aloof. Now and then he cried for "national reconciliation" but the few who heard him dismissed him as politically insignificant.

He recently boiled down the reason's for France's defeat thus: "Too few children, too few arms, too few Allies . . . Since victory the spirit of pleasure has prevailed over that of sacrifice."

Petain has designated Pierre Laval as his successor in building new France — a France dedicated to increased birth rates, partial prohibition, youth camps, aloofness from Britain, and perhaps one-party rule. All the "reforms" thus far announced parallel those of the axis powers.

"Spirit" Subject of Christian Scientists

Christian Science Churches all over the world had for the subject of their Lesson-Sermon on Sunday, "SPIRIT".

The Golden Text was: "Teach me to do thy will; for thou are my God; thy spirit is good; lead me into the land of uprightness." (Psalms 143:10)

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the Heavens. For in this we groan, earnestly desiring to be clothed upon with our house which is from Heaven." (II Cor., 5:1-2).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "As God is substance and man is the divine image and likeness, man should wish for, and in reality has, only the substance of good, the substance of Spirit, not matter."
