Russia Pours Troops Into Baltic Countries

Russia Announces Estonia, Latvia Agreed to Free Passage of Troops as Men, Tanks and Planes Pour Into Lithuania

STOCKHOLM, June 17 (Monday) (AP)—Russian troop concentrations in the Baltic were extended to Latvia and Estonia today, the Dagens Nyheter correspondent from Berlin reported today when Red army contingents entered Latvia.

Estonia also was reported to have accepted Russia demands permitting Red army troops to occupy certain Estonian centres.

Meanwhile, Russia troops and large air forces were reported by Reuters News Agency to be still arriving in Lithuania tonight.

This dispatch said negotiations for formation of a new government were meeting with difficulties. The Minister of the Interior, General Sukcas, and the Kaunas chief of police had been arrested and sent to prison, it was reported, and War Minister General Musteikis was said to have resigned.

The Russian move into Lithuania was interpreted in Kaunas as the first step toward Soviet participation in war, according to reports published here tonight.

Lithuania was said by the newspaper Aftonbladet's correspondent to have become since yesterday a "giant Russian military camp with enormous troop formations, tanks and armored cars steadily streaming over the border."

"The border is open," he added, "and Russia can send as many soldiers as it wants. It seems to be at least 500,000 men."

Prime Minister Antanas Merkys, fulfilling the duties of President at least temporarily, said in a broadcast he was "convinced" the "arrival of fresh Soviet troops in Lithuania occurred solely for the purpose of guaranteeing both for Russia and Lithuania greater security."

MOSCOW, June 16 (AP)—Soviet Russia tonight announced that Estonia and Latvia had greed to free passage of Soviet troops and to formation of new governments which would "ensure honest implementation" of the Soviet's mutual assistance pacts with those two countries.

The announcement was made by Tass, Soviet news agency, as the Red army and tanks and planes were reported in dispatches from abroad to be pouring into Lithuania, a third Baltic country.

Lithuania agreed to permit the Soviet to send unlimited numbers of troops into her territory. According to reports, they were sent to garrison the German border.

At the same time Russia announced she had been informed by the German embassy that "ex-President" Antanas Smetona of Lithuania and several other Lithuanian Government officials had been interned in Germany when they stepped across the border.

Stockholm dispatches earlier had reported Smetona had fled by plane as Lithuania set about forming a new government.

Russia announced she had demanded free passage into Latvian and Estonian territory for Soviet troops to be stationed at the most important centres and in sufficient strength to assure carrying out of mutual assistance pacts which were negotiated last Fall.

She also announced she had demanded that new governments be formed to carry out the spirit of the mutual assistance pacts.

In notes handed to the Latvian and Estonian ministers, Russia accused Latvia not only of failing to cancel a military alliance with Estonia, but also of attempting to extend it by including Lithuania and Finland. She chared the alliance was a "rude violation" of the terms of the Soviet mutual assistance pacts.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, issued a denial of British reports that Moscow is supervising a strengthening of anti-aggression pacts among Rumania, Yugoslavia and Turkey for the purpose of offering "resistance to German and Italian expansion Eastward."

"Tass is authorized to state that this report . . . constitutes a fabrication from beginning to end," said the announcement.

TRAIL RECRUITS WILL LEAVE FOR COAST TUESDAY

First Nelson Group Expected Leave Wednesday

First detachment of West Kootenay recruits to leave for training depot at the Coast will be entrained Tuesday morning at Trail; and a second detachment will be entrained at Nelson Wednesday, Major A. C. Sutton, D.S.O., M.C., Recruiting Officer for West Kootenay and the Boundary, stated Sunday night at Rossland.

Major Sutton will be in Trail today, and in Nelson Tuesday. Nelson district applicants who have passed the Medical Board will be attested—up to the number at present required—Tuesday morning.

The Recruiting Officer had planned to go to Grand Forks Monday to receive officers of service for the Rocky Mountain Rangers, Kamloops but had to change his plans.

U.S. MAY BUILD ATLANTIC FLEET

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP)—Congressional sources well informed on United States naval affairs predicted today the Roosevelt administration soon will propose construction of a powerful Atlantic fleet built around a new-type warship.

The main fleet now is based in the Pacific and naval strategists feel that it should be kept there.

Other sources said the navy's general board, studying problems created by developments in the war, has rejected the idea of abandoning or postponing construction of battleships and large aircraft carriers in favor of smaller vessels. As a result, the navy will proceed with work on a second pair of 45,000-ton battleships.

There was no authoritative information concerning the new-type warship reported planned for the Atlantic, but Representative Melvin Maas (Rep-Minnesota) forecast that it would be something in the nature of a fast powerful cruiser of about 20,000 to 28,000 tons heavily armored and carrying 11-inch guns.

Reynaud Escapes German Bombing

BORDEAUX, France, June 16 (AP). — Premier Reynaud escaped a German bombing today when German planes raided a town he had just left and inflicted casualties on the civil population and on military members of his personal suite.

General De Gaulle, head of the Military Cabinet, organized relief work and expressed Reynaud's sympathy to the wounded.

The bombing came as Reynaud was travelling to interview Prime Minister Winston Churchill between a series of French Cabinet meetings today.

GESTAPO AFTER DUTCH ROYALTY

MONTEBELLO, Que., June 16 (CP).—Princess Juliana of The Netherlands and her daughters have come to Canada because their names are on the "blacklist of the Gestapo", it was learned today from a source close to the Royal family.

Decision to send the Princess and her children, Beatrix, 2½, and Irene, nine months, to the Dominion was taken suddenly and they came here after persuasion by the Princess' mother, Queen Wilhelmina, and Their Majesties, King George and Queen Elizabeth.

Knowledge that the Royal family of The Netherlands was in danger from the Gestapo, the Nazi secret police, was obtained by the Dutch Intelligence Service.

Queen Wilhelmina's first thought was for the safety of her daughter and grandchildren. It was revealed that while Princess Juliana might have wished to remain in England with her husband, Prince Bernhard, and the Queen, she had to abide by her mother's decision.

Woman Reported to Have Internment Camp Map Goes Trial

VANCOUVER, June 16 (CP).—Mrs. Elizabeth Bronny was committed for trial Saturday when she appeared in Richmond Police Court for preliminary hearing on a charge of violating Defence of Canada Regulations.

Detective-Sergeant John K. Barnes of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police testified officers found a map of the alien internment camp at Kananaskis, Alta., when they raided her home May 25.

Also entered as exhibits were a booklet purporting to show Mrs. Bronny's membership in the Nazi Party of Germany.

CRANBROOK, B. C., June 16 (CP).—Paving of the Kingsgate-Radium Highway, 150-mile feeder from the International Boundary to Banff National Park, will be continued this year Arnold McGrath, M. L. A. for Cranbrook, said he has been advised by Provincial Works Minister, C. S. Leary.

The road has been constructed during the past four years with exception of final surfacing of the Northern 23 miles which will be paved now. The Radium terminal is about 80 miles South of Golden, Eastern terminal of the Big Bend Highway which officially opens on June 29.

France's Maginot Line Abandoned; 500,000 Secretly Join Weygand

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ, Jr.
Associated Press Staff Writer

BASEL, June 16 (AP). — France's might Maginot Line, long the symbol of security against an invader from the East, was believed virtually abandoned tonight, most of its 500,000 defenders withdrawn secretly in a new attempt to halt the armies of Adolf Hitler.

Along the whole 200-mile broken front, according to reports reaching Basel, the French fortress soldiers—"shellfish," they call themselves—who had fretted for weeks while their comrades tried to stem the Nazi advance farther West, had left in such great numbers that German legions penetrating the line found it almost empty.

Only handfuls of men were reported left behind to man artillery and machine-guns to harass the invaders and cover the great retirement of their own troops.

From the distant reaches of the winding Moselle in Northern Lorraine to the Swiss border at Basel, the French had moved West and Southwest from the now apparently useless steel and concrete fortifications to make an open stand with the army of General Maxime Weygand on a line West from the French Juras Mountains.

The German crossing of the Rhine at Neuf Breisach, which had been considered as a suicidal act until it was actually accomplished was said to have decided General Weygand on withdrawal, a hazardous undertaking considering the swiftness of the German advance and the obvious efforts they would make to cut off retreat.

The French withdrawal was so swift that when the Germans took Colmar after the Neuf Breisach crossing they found a single gun crew of 12 men occupying space which swarmed with thousands of troops only a short time ago, reports reaching here said.

As the retiring army moved South it dynamited strategic bridges to delay the mass of German troops. Since the major German successes in the campaign in Western France, the Nazis were said to be short of prepared pontoon sections which usually accompany the motorized legions and which were largely responsible for the rapid progress made in crossing Northern rivers.

This method of retarding the enemy also gave General Weygand time to place his new forces in line.

That line, according to reports reaching Basel, would extend from the Southern side of the Burgundian Gate, the historic gap of Belfort and ancient road to invaders from the Northeast, to the rugged wooded mountains and plateau of Langres and farther West to lower ground at Troyes in the Seine.

Somewhere Southeast of Paris this line would link up with the Loire Valley defence line running Westward to the sea.

The French had dynamited bridges between Switzerland and Alsace, including the Delle Railroad and highway bridge, in an attempt to halt Nazi forces which crossed the Rhine Saturday at Neuf Breisach, 40 miles North of Basel.

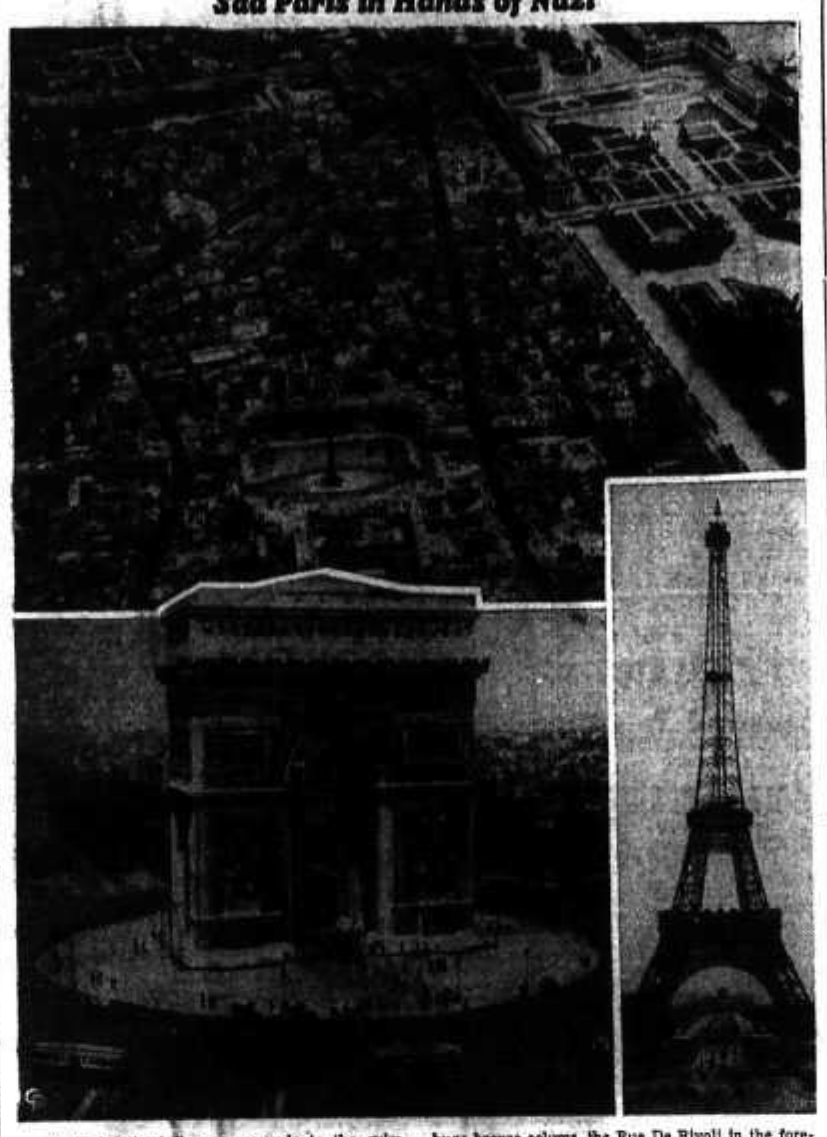
At that point 20 fresh German divisions, including at least one and possibly more motorized panzer divisions, were reported to have poured over pontoon bridges during a heavy river fog, and moved, protected by squadrons of bombers, into the Vosges Mountains.

The divisions which crossed the Rhine at Neuf Breisach were reported at the outskirts of Vesoul, about 32 miles West of Belfort and almost midway between Belfort and Langres That is behind the Maginot Line. The Germans were trying to outflank the powerfully fortified Northern side of the Burgundian Gap.

German advanced motorized units were said to have driven over the Langres Palteau from the North and into Vesoul from the Rhine on the East.

Should these columns join—and they may have done so already—they will have cut off that area of the Maginot fortified zone from the rest of France.

Sad Paris in Hands of Nazi



Paris, heart of France, resounds to the grim echo of marching Nazi legions, who took over the city Friday. The Arc de Triomphe, is shown lower left, and the famous Eiffel Tower, lower right.

Britain Firmly Determined to Fight Until Victory Is Hers

Peace Rumors "Baseless, Ill-Informed" Says Statement; Loss of French Army Would Not Mean End of the War

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 16 (CP Cable).—Great Britain is "firmly and resolutely determined to continue the struggle until victory has been won," an authoritative statement issued tonight said.

Britain's promise never to sheath the sword until the triumphant issue of the conflict is clear, was made after a meeting of the Churchill Cabinet.

The statement emphasized that rumors of peace proposals and peace negotiations were "baseless and ill-informed" and declared that even if French land resistance is weakened the fight will go on.

This correspondent has been informed on the highest authority that there is no question of French capitulation to the Nazi forces racing through France like a wind-driven prairie fire.

It is quite possible—and qualified sources say this fact should be faced squarely in all countries—that the French army as an instrument of resistance may be eliminated. That has not happened so far—it may never happen—but France has lost so much of her industrial life, so much of her mineral resources, has received such a pounding from the numerically superior German army that it remains a possibility.

But that eventuality, calamitous as it might appear at first glance, would not end this war.

Taking their example from Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands and from the Belgian Government, the French leaders could carry on the fight by that part of their army which could be evacuated by the French navy and their air force which is highly effective and efficient. Britain and the whole Empire with the material assistance of the United States, meanwhile would hold Germany and Italy in the tight grip of a sea blockade until the Allies are strong enough again to strike a deciding blow.

Qualified sources pointed out that in the uncertainty and obscurity of the present hour three reassuring factors stand out:

1. French forces are still fighting magnificently, still inflicting enormous losses on the Germans with every foot of soil contested.

2. Britain is pouring men and materials into the battle zone in a steady stream, a new army with new equipment, a fresh army ready to relieve the steady, tired, French Poilus, while President Roosevelt has promised to redouble American efforts to help the Allies in production of war supplies.

3. The resolute determination of this country to keep fighting, a determination forged in the full knowledge that Adolf Hitler may start at any hour what he believes will be the final campaign in this war—invasion of Britain.

Actual news of British activity in the war was brief.

The War Office announced that the British Expeditionary Force was still engaged with the French in Normandy, although details were not available.

Late Flashes

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP).—A broadcast on the wavelength of the French radio station TPA 13 intercepted this morning by the National Broadcasting Company said the entire industrial centre of Turin, Italy, had been destroyed by French air raiders.

LONDON, June 17 - (Monday) - (CP).—The Air Ministry announced today that "there was some enemy activity on the South coast last night," air aircraft dropping a bomb which caused negligible damage.

NEW YORK, June 16 (AP).—The Rumanian Cabinet of Premier Tatarescue has resigned, a French broadcast heard in New York by the National Broadcasting Company reported tonight.

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP).—Senator Key Pittman called on Col. Charles A. Lindbergh tonight to "throw aside all of his false political advisers and volunteer in the United States Government as an expert in aviation."

BOSTON, June 16 (AP).—Col. Henry Breckinridge, former personal counsel to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, assailed today, in a speech advertised as an "answer" to the flier, those who would try to "lull the American people into a false sense of security" by pointing to the breadth of the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans.

BORDEAUX, June 17 - (Monday) (CP).—An unconfirmed report circulating here this morning said that Jules Jeanneney, President of the French Senate, and Edouard Herriot, President of the Chamber of Deputies, had resigned.

LOST FLIER IS FOUND IN WOODS

GERALDTON, Ont., June 16 (CP)—Flying Officer Edwin Albin Dixon, 40-year-old Royal Canadian Air Force pilot lost in the Northwestern Ontario wilderness last Monday afternoon when his plane was forced down, was found alive today—uninjured but in a weakened condition.

Dixon, formerly of Vermilion, Alta., and Edmonton, was lost from a squadron of 12 R. C. A. F. planes flying from Kapuskasing, Ont., to Winnipeg.

When found Dixon was in a weakened condition from lack of food and the attacks of mosquitoes and other bush insects. He was taken to hospital at nearby Long Lac where authorities refused to permit newspapermen to interview him although his condition was not considered serious.

Three miners out on a fishing trip, Ted Cox, Jack Marlin and Art Agombar, rescued Dixon. The flyer hailed them from shore as they passed in their outboard motor boat from Boulder Lake into an unnamed second lake eight miles South of Geraldton.

Decision to Keep Fighting on Soil of France in Air

France in Peril as 2,000,000 Nazis Push Swiftly to South; Some Units Nearly 200 Miles South of Paris

BORDEAUX, June 16 (AP)—France, her life as a nation in deadly peril, chose 84-year-old Marshal Henri Philippe Petain as Premier tonight.

The Paul Reynaud Government is gone, fallen in the face of the awesome decision, which must soon be made, whether France can longer resist on her own soil the legions of Nazi Germany.

Those legions pressed farther and farther toward the South of France tonight, with more than 2,000,000 men thrusting across the countryside, almost from the sea to the Swiss border.

The fall of the Reynaud cabinet, after an almost continual series of conferences which lasted late into the night, followed discussion of an apparently urgent message from Britain's Prime Minister Churchill. That Mr. Churchill himself might be in France was indicated.

Marshal Petain, Commander of the French armies in the last war and famous as the hero who defended Verdun against German attacks in that struggle, named Gen. Maxime Weygand Minister of National Defence.

Meanwhile, the military situation of France grew constantly more threatening.

A communique said the Germans had pushed South of the Plateau of Langres into the region North of Dijon and the Saone above Gray.

It said Nazi advanced elements had passed Auxerre, deep in Central France, heading toward Clamecy and Avalon.

It reported French movements "in accordance with orders" in Alsace and Lorraine.

Indicative of the great depth of German penetration, at least by advance units, Dijon is 175 miles Southeast of Paris, it and Gray being near the Swiss border; and Auxerre is 100 miles from Paris in a more Southerly direction.

Tonight, the War Ministry spokesman said the general situation was "most grave."

A communique, issued after a brief morning cabinet session, said the United States Government "declares itself resolved to pursue to the end . . . the policy of direct assistance to the Allies which it recently adopted, and even to develop it . . . excluding . . . any declaration of war against Germany."

"In effect," the communique added, "it is up to Congress to take any such decision according to the American constitution"

Thus, the communique went on, it was necessary for the cabinet to discuss further "to what extent the reply of the United States is such as to permit France to continue the struggle on her own territory under conditions which can usefully serve the common cause of the democracies."

(In his reply to Premier Reynaud, President Roosevelt said the United States would "redouble its effort" to give the Allies help as long as they can resist the Germans, but stated clearly that his answer carried "no implication of military commitments.")

The French military spokesman said the Germans had broken through in the Champagne country, to the rear of the Maginot line, and were exploiting these advances with determined pushes toward the South and Southeast.

The High Command's communiques said the Nazis were throwing fresh reserves into the battle and making violent attacks over the Langres Plateau which extends through Cote D'Or, North from Dijon toward Chaumont.

The direction of this troop movement indicated an obvious German design to cut off the Maginot line from the rest of France.

The military spokesman said there were no important developments on the West flank between Evreux and Chartres, South of the Seine, apparently where a new line has been established. This was not because of French resistance, he said, but because the Germans had weakened their lines there by leaving units behind in Paris.

The French radio said the German attack in Champagne was powerful and had broken through the French positions at Chateau-Thierry and on Montagne de Rheims. It was from this point that the Germans advanced to the Yonne, the Seine and the Aube, going as far South as Troyes and Sens, according to the announcer.

The evening communique announced the Germans had crossed the Seine at Melun and Fontainebleau, just South of Paris, and had struck deep into Central France, passing Auxerre, 125 miles East of Tours, formerly the capital of France after evacuation of Paris. This is about 90 miles South of Paris.

The advance elements of this thrust were headed toward Clamecy and Avalon, about 20 miles farther South, and were said to have crossed the Yonne River.

Australia Will Vote on Conscription of Labor, Wealth, Special Session

By J. D. HOLDSWORTH
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

SYDNEY, June 17 (Monday) (CP Cable)—Prime Minister Robert Menzies announced today in a broadcast that Parliament will meet in special session June 20 to vote emergency powers conscripting the Commonwealth's wealth and labor for the war effort.

The main difference between the Australian emergency legislation and that voted recently in Great Britain is that the Government will not ask for the power to conscript men for overseas service.

Mr. Menzies announced strengthening of home defences and said the dominions would have to rely increasingly on their own resources in view of the military situation in Europe.

"Whatever calamity happens elsewhere the nation which wants to conquer us must come to take us," Mr. Menzies said. "We don't come from the surrendering breed."

The Government's proposals envisage a home defence force of 250,000 consisting of 40,000 Australian Imperial Force men temporarily in camps here, and maintaining this reservoir throughout the war while reinforcing and sending additions to the 20,000 A.I.F. now overseas; more men to be called up under the compulsory training scheme for the militia; calling up of older volunteers including ex-service men.

Normally Parliament would not meet until July 2.

The ministers have cancelled public engagements to concentrate on cabinet sittings.

"It is evident," said John McEwen, the External Affairs Minister, "that the main burden of the war now falls on the Empire. The full implication of that must be realized by every citizen."

A fortnight's speeding up of industries has made it possible to begin production of munitions worth £50,000,000 about $200,000,000), employing 150,0 men and women.

Sir Keith Murdock, director of information, said "Australia no longer looks toward Europe for any degree of munitions or help. Every private and public resource must be utilized with the maximum possible speed."

The Government has proclaimed the Communist party and two affiliated organizations illegal, and police have raided Communist headquarters.

French Decision May Hinge Upon Churchill Plan

BORDEAUX, France, June 16 (AP).—The decision of the French Government whether to continue the fight against Germany appeared tonight to hinge on a personal plan presented by British Prime Minister Winston Churchill as well as President Roosevelt's reply to an appeal for aid.

This was just learned before the Cabinet went into a 10 p.m. session after two earlier meetings at which the issue was debated. There was no indication as to the nature of Mr. Churchill's plan.

It was learned the Council of Ministers had a message from Mr. Churchill before them as they met.

After an earlier meeting, Reynaud received Sir Ronald Campbell British Ambassador, and Brig.-Gen. Edward Louis Spears, a Member of the British Parliament.

Reynaud's interview with Brig.-Gen. Spears was said to be of the greatest importance for the future cooperation between the Allies. It was recalled he was received by Reynaud recently when he bore a proposal in the name of the Anglo-French Parliamentary group of French Deputies and British House of Commons Members that they unite and hold a joint meeting.

4 U-Boats Sunk in Mediterranean

LONDON, June 16 (CP)—The Admiralty announced tonight that four "enemy submarines" had been destroyed in the Mediterranean. Italian shipping astray on the seas of the world continued to be chased by the Allies.

The Admiralty communique gave no details concerning the submarines, saying briefly:

"As a result of anti-submarine measures in the Mediterranean since the commencement of hostilities with Italy, four enemy submarines have been destroyed."

Last week three other Italian submarines fled for refuge in Spanish ports, one reported damage.

During the weekend arrival of crews of Italian vessels at various ports indicated further loss of Italian vessels. More than 210,000 tons of Italian shipping have been scuttled or fallen into Allied hands in the first week of warfare with Italy.

A British naval vessel landed a crew of 50 from the 7349-ton Italian steamship Tomavo at Durban, South Africa, and they were interned in a military camp.

For others three photographs of the holder must be turned over to the U.S. consulate before a visa can be obtained. Visas are issued free by the American authorities. British subjects resident here for less than five years will be compelled, however, to pay a $2 fee.

Patriotic Program Held at Fernie

FERNIE, B.C. — Students of the Fernie High School assembled in the school auditorium Wednesday afternoon to participate in an enthusiastic patriotic program.

A. L. McPhee, Principal, referred to the Royal visit to Canada last year. Crowds both in Canada and the United States had paid homage to Their Majesties. At that time there had been no war but since then history has and is being made. The British people were reticent in giving expression to their feelings in time of peace but in time of war vivid expressions of loyalty were shown, he said.

Jean Harrison on behalf of the Fernie Junior Red Cross read a letter of appeal for ambulances. The local branch of the Junior organization was putting on a school campaign to raise funds towards this worthy cause. She showed the excellent work already done by the Fernie group. Frank Gigliotti and Alex Stewart drew attention to the work of the Red Cross. The former pointed out the international scope of the organization and stated that voluntary sacrifices were required today. The latter exhorted his listeners to show their loyalty in all their actions. He severely criticized the actions of those who rushed from public functions during the National Anthem.

Eldred Boest, Mitchell Waslewicz and Fred Baker read essays on patriotism. Mr. McPhee referred to the precautions being taken in Britain against possible invasion and stated that the demands for help would not be ignored.

Community singing was interspersed throughout the program, the following songs being rendered: "Tipperary," "Roll Out the Barrel," "Good Luck to the Boys of the Allies," "Loch Lomond," "Keep the Home Fires Burning," and "Land of Hope and Glory." The meeting closed with a salute to the flag and the singing of the National Anthem.

McPHEE HOPES DEVELOP GRAND FORKS ATHLETES FOR K.B. TRACK MEETS

TRAIL, B. C., June 16—Howie McPhee, noted former track and field star of the University of British Columbia now teaching in Grand Forks High School, was in Trail several hours Saturday. He accompanied the Grand Forks High School tennis team which participated in the West Kootenay High Schools tournament in Trail and Tadanac Saturday. He accompanied Maurice Klinkhamer, coach of the Grand Forks team, who has charge of tennis at the school.

McPhee managed to get in a game after the close of the tournament, and stayed over with a number of Grand Forks players when they and others of the district engaged in friendly games at the Tadanac courts Sunday.

Mr. McPhee stated that he had not been at the school long enough to prepare any students for the Kootenay-Boundary track meet but said there was a lot of promising material at the school and he was hopeful that Grand Forks would be able to send a number of athletes to the 1941 meet.

ITALIANS RAID EGYPTIAN PORTS

ALEXANDRIA, June 16 (CP).—Italian naval airmen were reported tonight to have raided the Egyptian Mediterranean ports of Saloma and Sidi Barrani—an act such as Egypt has said might constitute one reason for her going to war.

The attacks caused 30 casualties among Egyptian soldiers and civilians, said a communique issued at Cairo. Saloma and Sidi Barrani are West of Alexandria, near Italian Libya.

The communique also said British forces taking Capruzzo, on Libya's Egyptian border, captured eight Italian officers and 200 soldiers.

King Farouk has flown from Alexandria to Cairo to confer with his Ministers. All Egypt awaited a Government declaration on the Italian attacks. Some observers held, however, that the bombings might have been directed at British air bases—not at Egypt herself.

With 60,000 persons removed from Alexandria and other cities, the Egyptian Government, fearing an Italian mass air attack, prepared tonight to transfer at least 200,000 more.

It was reported leaders of the Senousi Brotherhood, which controls large Arab tribes in the Western desert, had offered the Egyptian Government their support.

Attempt to Burn Air Motors Fails

SARNIA, Ont., June 16 (CP)—A railway guard foiled an apparent attempt during the weekend to destroy by fire a freight car laden with four airplane motors consigned from a Montana plant to the Fleet Aircraft Corporation at Fort Erie, Ont.

The fire is believed to have been set at Port Huron, Mich., across the St. Clair River from this Canadian border point. It was discovered before any serious damage had been done.

Holes were drilled through the floor from beneath the car and strips of blanket soaked in an inflammable liquid were shoved into the car under the crated motors.

The fire was noticed by Thomas Laign, Canadian National Railways constable, and the train was halted immediately.

The flames were extinguished quickly and the motors were not damaged. The motors had arrived at Port Huron during the day from the plant of the Glendale Motors at Kenna, Montana.

Italians Tell Tale of 1 Ship Defeating Nine

By The Canadian Press

Stefani, the Italian propaganda outlet, Saturday treated Italians to a story of how one Italian torpedo boat, a craft of 967 tons built 17 years ago, defeated five French cruisers and four modern destroyers.

This account of a "naval battle" off Genoa at dawn Thursday said the torpedo boat first attacked the four destroyers of the "Tartu type." Here the Italian Agency apparently meant the "Agile class, of which the destroyer Tartu is one, a class of destroyer completed between 1931 and 1934.

The Stefani account continued that when the destroyers, "creeping toward the Genoa coast in the drizzly semi darkness," opened fire on the torpedo boat, named the Calatafimi, the latter returned the fire and launched two torpedoes "at a distance of a mile and three quarters."

Despite this distance, the account for the Italian press continued, the amazing accuracy of the Italian marksmen resulted in one salvo striking a destroyer, which immediately was "seen to be covered with smoke." Then, it was claimed, the destroyer sank.

Stefani added that the remaining ships — five cruisers and three destroyers — then fled "under the fire of coast batteries."

The French High Command, in dealing with this affair, was less flowery. It said: "Our warships bombarded industrial establishments and the railway line along the Italian coast."

Swiss Move Against Possible Invasion

BASEL, June 16 (AP).—Posters advising the public in large black letters of the steps to be taken to meet a possible parachute invasion appeared all over Switzerland Saturday as the Rhine front North of Basel showed signs of increasing tension.

Sudden tightening of military preparations indicated to neutral observers that the Swiss Intelligence Service—long-famed as the best-informed concerning activities within the belligerent countries—had uncovered some disturbing information.

The tightening was reflected in orders cancelling the usual Sunday leaves for soldiers and forbidding them to receive the customary weekend visits from their families.

Wallace Predicts World Division if Germany Wins

BENNINGTON, Vt., June 16 (AP) —Henry Wallace, United States Secretary of Agriculture, predicted on Saturday that a German victory in Europe probably would result in division of the world into four great spheres of economic and political influence.

He listed them, in the order of their power, as follows: German-controlled areas of Europe and Africa, plus Asiatic territories which were once British and French colonies; North and South America, with possibly Australia and New Zealand included; Russia; and Japan.

"If Germany wins," he said in a speech prepared for delivery at Bennington College, "she will have the complete resources of the European and African continents and a slave population of 400 million people."

Wallace declared Hitler looked upon the Western Hemisphere as Germany's "eventual happy hunting ground."

"Once the leaders of the German Regime have stolen the soil of Europe and subjugated its people, they hope to channel new world exports to Europe through their own corporations, bartering in such a way as to create the maximum of economic nuisance value, looking toward eventual military penetration, in anticipation of the creation of military nuisance values which will yield either loot or conquest after the European model."

To meet the German threat, the Secretary said "the magnetic current of American good will, good trade, understanding, culture, language and travel should run more largely North and South rather than East and West."

Whether or not the Germans win the war, Wallace said, "chances are that they are on their way out as a dominating race. . . . Their philosophical extermism, their feeling of racial superiority, their repudiation of all moral standards, and their traditional antipathy to Democracy will cause them eventually to decline."

LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Most cases of diabetes occur in ople over 40, and in fact, most cur in people over 50. We said sterday in discussing diabetes children that the younger the rson, the more severe the diab- es in all likelihood. Diabetes is simply an inability the part of the body to utilize gars and starches. The excess su- r runs off in the urine and sugar the urine is the most reliable gn of diabetes.

SE OF INSULIN

Middle-aged people with diabetes, we say, having a mild form, can llize about one-half or three-quar- rs as much sugar and starch as in rmal health.

Therefore they need, in most in- ances only to cut down on sugar their coffee, sweets, desserts, read, starchy vegetables, such as otatoes and sweet fruits, and they ill usually get along all right. nly a small proportion of them eed insulin.

The tendency now is to give as uch carbohydrates (sugar and arch food) as possible, even if ccasionally some sugar appears the urine. The patients are more omfortable that way and do not omplain of hunger. They must, owever, stay within the limit of eir glucose tolerance and not y to eat more starch than the ody can absorb.

2 cups finely chopped cooked lamb
1 cup boiled rice
1 tablespoon minced parsley

SERIAL STORY . . . By Oren Arnold

HAPPINESS, C. O. D.

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:

BENJAMIN MERRIFIELD, aged capitalist, hires

GAYLE DIXON to make love to his grandson,

JEREMY TUCKER, a shy student of archeology, while

BILL BAILEY and six pretty girls are employed to help bring life and youth to the Merrifield mansion.

YESTERDAY:— When newspaper photographers discover the lovely subjects at the Merrifield home, publicity for a play Bill Bailey is staging becomes widespread.

CHAPTER 14

Gayle had a succession of minor problems to solve on Tuesday morn- ing. She had scarcely breakfasted when Celeste, the chambermaid, hired for her personal benefit, came to her with regrets that she would have to resign.

"There's been an emergency, miss" Celeste said. "I must go at once. I'll send someone from the agency for you, though."

The new maid came before noon. She seemed efficient and well-man- nered. With Weems' approval, she got the job. Her name was Maudie.

Before noon, there was a difficul- ty with a trades union man, who came protesting that the orchestra hired for that night, was non-union. Bill had engaged musicians from his own college crowd, youngsters he knew could play well.

The decorator with his flowers, Wallace, the cook, with his plans for refreshments, both had to be helped. Bill had forgotten to tell the six girls not to come that day, and so they showed up for "work" at 8 a. m., as usual.

For an hour the girls just stood around, trying to help, but in the way, really. Finally Gayle had an inspiration. She dashed upstairs to the library and grabbed Jeremy by the lapels.

"Jeremy, you've got to come and help me a bit. Look! The girls for the play are here, so won't you drop your library books for awhile and go help them?"

Jeremy looked very serious. Al- most shocked in fact.

"H-help them? You mean—"

"Sure. Be a sport, please. Take them out on the lawn—it's grand out this morning—and find a shady spot and talk to them."

"Talk to them!" Jeremy was at a loss for proper words.

"Sure. Lecture to them on drama, and help them rehearse the play."

"You must cultivate friendship among all young people like that. Why, we'll begin to think you're an old stick in the mud!"

As a matter of fact, he quite real- ized his need for experience among girls. He really wanted to do what Gayle said.

"Thanks! I knew you would, Jer- emy. Come on."

He hadn't even nodded an assent but she took his arm and led him happily downstairs. His heart was beating quite fast when they came to the six girls sitting now on the broad sun porch, chatting. "You girls can take your play scripts and go out on the lawn shade and rehearse with Jeremy," Gayle said. "He can read all the male parts for you. Scat now, we're all busy in here."

They scatted.

Jeremy never quite understood how it happened, but a swarm of loveliness seemed to engulf him and he found himself propelled among them. Fortunately he had nothing to say, because the six girls all seemed to be talking at once and he would have had no opportunity.

In the little walk toward a grove of great oak trees, he looked help- lessly around and observed that only five girls were talking, actual- ly. The olive-skinned Lola Mon- tesa, was saying nothing, but she did look happy and gay. Quite un- consciously, Jeremy edged nearer to her.

In a moment, though, bubbly little Tempe Hyde was clinging to his elbow in care-free comradeship, and that disturbed him tremendously.

"Laugh, Jeremy!" she command- ed "Life is not a funeral."

"Ha, ha," said Jeremy. It was a mechanical ha-ha, not a laugh at all.

Still, whe nhe glanced self-con- sciously around, nobody appeared to have noticed particularly. This reaxed him a little. He felt better.

When they had all sat gracefully on the cool grass, and Jeremy had tucked his rather long legs some- how under him, he realized that he felt a strange sense of enjoyment in all this. The exact nature of it was elusive, but it was good. It was as if he were being—well, ac- cepted. He was one of them. In a gang, a group, a group of friends, as if he belonged there! It was a new experience to him, accustomed to playing lone wolf in everything.

He found himself tremendously interested in the small talk they were constantly making. He wanted now, to laugh with them when there was a merry quip, and he daringly did so. Nothing happened! He had laughed genuinely, and liked it, and nobody had stared at him in sur- prise. Something very real and very precious began to swell within him.

There was a quarter-hour of talk about everything and nothing, cen- tering mainly on the dance that night, but it was finally interrupted by the dark girl, Lola.

"I theenk maybee we should re- hearse, no?" she suggested. Lola's voice had a delightful Spanish fla- vor.

"I theenk so, Lola," Tempe mock- ed her a little, and everyone laugh- ed at that. "You weel be thee hero- ine first, no?"

Lola agreed. She could take Gayle's part because her own was a comparatively small bit in act three only. Jeremee, he weel be thee hero. Beel's part."

Then it was that consternation assailed Jeremy anew.

He had forgotten, momentarily, about the kissing scene! He had been tried already for the male lead, had kissed Gayle Dixon, three times and, to his later shame, ran off ignominiously. Now here these girls were just naturally assuming that he would read the part again with them and act it out as well. His heart went thumping.

"I—I—" he started a protest, but nobody heard him.

They were suddenly all chatter- ing at once again. Jeremy had been assigned the male lead; nobody had even thought further about it, save him. They were interested in their own parts. They had much to say. Coachings. Suggestions. Plannings. Merriment sandwiched in. Jeremy perceived that they were not in the least concerned with him or his possible inability to do the male lead acceptably here. They were, in short, giving him no cause to be embarrassed or self-conscious.

All at once he felt ashamed of himself.

Certainly, now, he could not run nor refuse. They were depending on him. He was important to them. It would be contemptible indeed if he acted babyish, he told himself. He was sure they knew nothing of the first kissing scene.

The ensuing two hours were to be remembered by Jeremy all his life.

He was destined to look back at them as the grand interval, during which he first gained a glimpse of genuine happiness. Not that he quite realized the significance of it at the time, but even then he found it altogether delightful.

He acted three distinct male parts with more confidence that he had ever imagined he could show, read- ing the lines or saying them from memory, and he managed somehow to kiss Lola Montesa in the love scenes without revealing too much emotional stress. He was not affect- ed by Lola as he had been by Gayle, that first time. For a fleet- ing moment it did dawn on him that Lola was beautiful, her lips soft and delicious. But the matter was impersonal now. He was in the play, in character. He was also accepted as one of a happy crowd, doing his bit. All of this gave him a rich sense of exaltation, strange but priceless.

So thoroughly did the experience lift his soul that he was full of it when he came unexpectedly onto Gayle at noontime. Alone with her a moment there on the front porch, he spoke.

"I—I— Miss Dixon, I want you to know everything is grand!"

She was confused at first. She looked expectantly at him. "Jeremy, you mean—"

"I mean — everything! People. Everybody! Could I—would it be al right if I just called you Gayle, like the others?"

He spoke so earnestly, and the new light shone so unmistakably in his eyes now, that Gayle was suddenly suffused with a sense of pity for him.

"Of course, Jeremy," she whis- pered intimately, seriously. "I want you to." Quite unconsciously she reached to touch his arm, standing near to him.

"I—I—it's a—it's a beautiful day," he declared.

That was true. Gayle didn't look out at the weather; she looked quizzically at his face. But it really was a grand day. Birds seemed to be playing everywhere. The sun was shining. Spring was flaunting herself almost brazenly.

'Teen Age Frocks Smart' Not Sophisticated

Left to right, dusty pink wool suit; rose-colored and white play suit; pastel blue cotton dance frock

"Teen age girls may dress smartly, but should leave sophistication to their old sisters—or mothers. Glamor clothes make them look as if they are in fancy dress. Above are three costumes that are style worthy, and suitable for girls of this age. Left is Gale Storm wearing a dusty pink wool suit, with single-breasted vest jacket and pleated skirt. A white lace-trimmed batiste blouse is worn with the suit. Lucile Fairbanks, centre, wears a play suit of rose-colored cotton zigzagged in white, which has a flared skirt with one large pocket of rose, yoke and sleeves of the same color. For Summer parties the sheer cotton frock, right, modelled by Gale Storm, is glamorous and appropriate. It is pastel blue in color, in shirtwaist styling, with long flow- ing skirt. A golden butterfly in the hair, gives the last touch of charm to this pretty frock, with its graceful lines.

"Begin Today" Is Only Rule for Reducing

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I follow your column with inter- est, your answers are very sensible and unbiased, not the usual con- ventional ones. I notice you have been running articles of late on the eternal triangle. You are certainly not prejudiced toward the "other woman," your answers so far seem to have been leaning towards the wife.

I have two close friends who have been separated for years, though I am more intimately friendly with the wife, I know the husband is a good egg and deserves a break. The man in this case has always been good to his wife, even adopting her illegitimate child and giving it an excellent education. He is still good to her and I know he always will be.

However, he is and has been for years in love with another woman. His wife knows this, as do we, her friends, but she says he is legally hers and is going to stay that way. She refused to give him a divorce and flatly told him and bragged to us she did, that either he come to visit her or she would sue for legal separation and demand plenty and name the other woman, making an awful scandal which would hurt the other woman and his business.

She doesn't have any desire for men now, so is keeping the one she has, knowing that someday his worldly goods will belong to her child, the only person she gives a rap for. Surely you can't sympathize with a ruthless woman like this, who is ruining two other lives as there isn't any hope for her own being different. When you lose a man by neglect and nagging and putting another man's child first, what can a woman expect? Surely, this possession is nine-tenths of the law is not fair. She knows she can never have him, but won't let him have a little happiness, which she can't give him, in appreciation for what he has done for her and her child. What can a man do in this situation?

C.M.S.

Answer—There are two schools of thought on this problem. One would say he should never have got mixed up in a second love affair until he was freed from his wife; and having prior claim on her husband, the separated wife has moral right to save her face and let woman num- ber two do the sacrificing. This school would also say that the gentleman should have thought of number two's predicament before now, refused to involve her in a compromising affair and proved his love for her in this way rather than in hazarding her good name in the community by theclandestine method.

The other school of thought would say the separated wife is a dog in the manger, who, having forfeit- ed her husband's affection and made life so disagreeable for him that he went out to find solace elsewhere, should take the medicine she poured, release him, let him marry the woman he loves and ac- cept any crumbs of alimony he might choose to give her and her child. They would point out that only vindictiveness and greed on a separated wife's part would induce her to hang on to a man who no longer loved her, and that she couldn't stand on anyhigh moral plane regarding divorce while she was crucifying two human beings.

Like the judge who grants divorces, I should like to hear both sides of the question before I said what I thought of thecaseend, since this is impossible, we shall have to leave the decision to the man. Which is devil and which deep blue sea for him I wouldn't know, but he's cer- tainly between them.

Problems of general interest sub- mitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Letters unsuitable for publication will be answered personally provided they contain stamped, self-addr ssed envelopes. All names are held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, in care of this newspaper.

Prenatal Emotions Have No Influence on a Child's Traits

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

An expectaint mother may often have a mixture of emotions. Fre- quently she gets depressed just be- cause of her physical discomfort. During these long months when she ought to have most diversions, social contacts and recreation, she may have the least. Barbaric customs of people who presume to be intelli- gent, add to her burdens by com- manding her to stay at home and avoid the very persons, places and activities which for her health and the health of her child she needs most.

The expectant mother is told about those women who have had miscarriages and is given a long string of frightful warnings. She must listen also to the stories about mothers who have lost their lives during or soon after the confine- ment. When these savage, brainless busybodies have no more twaddle, they will chatter about baby mark- ings. I wish there were some way to put all such women in jail for their sins against expectant moth- ers.

Researches for evidence of such parental influences have been scien- tific. Not one of them has found a grain of truth that anything the expectant mother sees or hears, has any influence whatsoever on the physical features or later mental traits of the child.

Of course, some children have birth marks, and occasionally one is born with some physical irregular- ity. A rare few, indeed, are born with defective brains. But the cause of such things is unknown, although it certainly is not traceable to men- tal or emotional experiences of the mother during pregnancy.

YOU CAN HELP

If you are an expectant mother, you may ask, "Can I make a child become a musicin by listening to fine music during its pre-natal life? Can I, by looking long and of- ten at great works of art, make it become an artist? Can I, by be- ing very intellectual or religious now, endow my child with intel- lectual or religious zeal?

No, is the answer to all of these. You can, of course, by such pro- procedure, increase your own inter- est in art, music, intellectual mat- ters or religion. Then, after your child will have been born, you will be inclined to continue with these interests which your youngster, loving you, might imitate. Now is a good time to prepare yourself to be a good mother for your child, once he has been born.

"The Expectant Mother" is a pam- phlet to be had free by writing to the Children's Bureau, Washing- ton, D. C. If you want a list of names for boys and girls, with their meanings write me at 235 East 45th Street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it. In like man- ner, you may receive a simple chart to aid you in finding out how smart your baby is. Give his exact age.

Eternal Triangle . . .

Need Both Sides of Story to Fix Triangle Problem

By DONNA GRACE

Those who conduct gymnasiums and reducing salons are quite likely to have the conviction that the world is divided into just two classes: those trying to put on weight and the fat ones who are "going to start reducing tomorrow."

The "Going to reduce tomorrow," class is the funniest. They assure you they are too fat but after this big luncheon and that important cocktail party followed by that wonderful dinner at so and so's, they will certainly do something for that figure of theirs.

If you meet them in their homes they will be sure to pass you a fine big dish of rich candy or insist on giving you a special cocktail along with the hot buttered nuts and other little appetizers no one can resist.

The only way to reduce is to be- gin at once and stick to whatever routine is adopted. It's not nearly so difficult as they imagine. When they really begin to diet, they find they can get along on about half the food they have been eating.

The afternoon pickup has no place in the reducer's diet. A teaspoonful of nuts amount to 250 calories and cocktails range from 70 to 80 calor- ies for the liquor alone.

Those who have been accustomed to plenty of rich food find it hard to train themselves to a restricted diet but this hazard is in the mind. All one needs is a bit of will power and discipline. The stomach will soon behave and be thankful for a more peaceful time. It will go back to its normal size. This means comfort and satisfaction. "Begin to- day" is the slogan for all the com- fortable fats.

See Selves When See God Says Mr. Clerihue, Trinity

"We do not see the external God but we see inside Him. And when we see God we see ourselves and where we fit in in the real perspective of life," stated Rev. J. L. Clerihue of East Trail, in the pulpit at Trinity United Church on Sunday morning. He exchanged pulpits with Rev. J. A. Donnell, Trinity Pastor.

He compared the Sermon on the Mount—"Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God", with the Old Testament statement that those "who look on the face of God cannot live." But to see God indicated the highest possibilities of humanity, the deepest longings of human beings, and indicated the deepest need, he said.

Peter did not see the real Jesus. His true personality and spirit, until he had been with Him for a long time, and the same applied to Paul. "But with us, it is different. We don't see the external God, but His spirit."

Mr. Clerihue compared the sayings of old astronomers who stated that the world was the entire universe, with those of the modern astronomers, who said the world was only a small part of the universe. "When we see ourselves, we are repentant for the flaws in our lives. And with that penitence, there comes forgiveness, which is God's forgiveness. When that happens we get a new courage and with that courage comes a new usefulness—we want to serve. We can see and serve God all the time," he stated.

Mrs. S. C. Couch sang the solo "Peace" and Mr. Clark played a cello solo. The senior choir sang, with C. C. Halleran conducting.

Miss E. Gansner Tells Canadian Club, World Trip

A trip that took her to New York for Christmas, to Paris for New Year's, to Switzerland to see the Trail Smoke Eaters capturing the world amateur hockey championship; to Rome to see Mussolini and the King and Queen of Italy celebrating the conquest of Albania; and home to Nelson on the day war was declared, was described to the Women's Canadian Club of Nelson Saturday afternoon at the Legion Hall by Miss Elsa Gansner.

Leaving Trail about the middle of December, 1938, she went by bus to New York where she spent Christmas Day. She sailed the following day on the Normandie for LeHavre. New Year's Day she spent in Paris. From Paris she went to Switzerland, visiting Basel, Zurich and St. Gaul, where she observed in some of the schools. Because the school hours there were longer than in Canada, Miss Gansner thought the children were more advanced in their studies but less self-confident than students of the same age in this country.

Six delightful weeks were spent in the mountains skiing. People from all over the world—many of them titled—gathered for the Winter sports. There were ski schools where exercises were practised for two hours daily. There were long ski runs 10 to 15 miles in length. It was while in Switzerland that Miss Gansner saw the Trail Smoke Eaters playing their way to the championship.

In March she took a physical education course in Zurich. That was when Czecho-Slovakia was taken over by Germany, and feeling was high.

GENOA REBUILT

A four months' tour of the Mediterranean followed, when such historic places as Milan, Genoa, Leghorn, Pisa, Sardinia, Sicily, Tunis, and Malta were visited. Much of Genoa had been torn down under Mussolini's regime and rebuilt in a modern manner, she said. She visited an oasis village near Tripoli where large families lived in small circular one-room huts, and begged for money from all tourists. While in Tripoli she saw Field Marshall Hermann Goering of Germany, who was there inspecting the manoeuvres. Near Mount Aetna archaeologists were excavating a second Pompeii, she said.

Sailing through the Messina Straits to Naples, Miss Gansner passed the Isle of Capri, which appeared rocky and barren, but which she said was reported to be lovely and green. With friends she motored to the top of Mount Vesuvius, which was erupting every five minutes, and which she said was "most awe-inspiring."

After a week in Rome, where she saw Mussolini and the Royal Monarchs celebrating the conquest of Albania, Miss Gansner went to Florence and Venice with their marvellous art galleries and beautiful surroundings. The Grand Canal at night was most impressive, she said, as the palaces were illuminated with vari-colored flood lights.

After returning to Switzerland, Miss Gansner went by plane to Paris for a two weeks' visit, and then to London which she reached on May 24. After a short visit there she proceeded to Scotland visiting various points of interest in England on the way. She thought Loch Catrine in Scotland, and Malta on the Mediterranean were the two most beautiful places she visited.

Before returning again to Switzerland, she visited Belfast, Dublin and Killarney in Ireland. Then followed a trip up the Rhine River where she saw many Jewish emigrees to New York.

VISITS QUINTS

She returned to Canada on a freighter carrying six passengers. On her way across Canada she saw the Dionne Quintuplets at Callender, Ont. Miss Gansner stated that Canada seemed to be more or less wild and uncultivated after the sophistication of Europe—"but I was glad to get home, especially as war was declared the day I got here," she said.

The Club was entertained by two selections by a vocal trio, consisting of Miss Annie Busk, Miss Roberta Patterson and Miss Marie Stringer. They sang "Mistress Mary" and "All Through the Night." They were accompanied by Mrs. C. W. Tyler.

Mrs. A. T. Horswill moved a vote of thanks to Miss Gansner and the entertainers.

Tea was served. Miss Enid Etter, Second Vice-President, was in the chair.

God, Preserver Is Theme of Service

The subject of the lesson-sermon Sunday in The First Church of Christ Scientist, Nelson, was "God the Preserver of Man."

The Golden Text was: "The Lord is my rock, and my fortress, and my deliverer; my God, my strength, in whom I will trust; my buckler, and the horn of my salvation, and my high tower" (Psalms 18: 2).

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "Because thou hast made the Lord, which is my refuge, even the most High, thy habitation; there shall no evil befall thee, neither shall any plague come nigh thy dwelling. For he shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways" (Psalm 91: 9-11).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Old Testament assigns to the angels, God's divine messages, different offices. Michael's charateristic is spiritual strength. He leads the hosts of heaven against the power of sin, Satan, and fights the holy wars. Gabriel has the more quiet task of imparting a sense of the ever-presence of ministering Love. These angels deliver us from the depths. Truth and Love come nearer in the hour of woe, when strong faith or spiritual strength wrestles and prevails through the understanding of God."

Rutherglen is the third Choir member to offer for active service. The other two were Paul (Sandy) Ritchie, who was mobilized with the 111th Field Battery, R.C.A., and Peter Pearce, who enlisted with the 111th last September.

BRITISH EXPORTS CLOSE TO RECORD

Just how the miracle has been accomplished is not explained, but British industry, according to a London authority, who presumably is using Government figures, in April achieved the highest monthly export figure for nearly 10 years, supplying the world with £1,800,000 worth of British goods daily throughout the month.

At first blush, with the concentration on munitions, ship-building, and other activities important to the war, one would not expect the production for export to rise, and yet, on the other activities important to the war, one would not expect the production for export to rise, and yet, on the oher hand, it is by export of British products, manufactured and primary, that Britain will largely pay for the war, as well as obtain raw materials from other countries.

With foreign shipping shying away from the British Isles—in the case of the United States, by Government order—it would seem as if British shipping had a pretty sizable task in looking after food supplies, raw materials, and munitions from abroad, and yet every ship arriving at a British port needs a cargo for its outward voyage, so there is obviously the volume of bottoms needed for this outward traffic.

It is also apparent, when we think about it, that British manufactures are replacing German in countries that were getting goods from Germany by sea, and we can probably anticipate a further fillip to British exports later from the extension of the blockade to Italy.

BRITAIN STRIKES WITH EVERYTHING

Great Britain, we are told, is now fighting "all out", to buttress and relieve the faltering French armies, which can form a front line, but have few reserves left.

Fighting units, equipment, munitions, are pouring across the English Channel in a steady stream, to take some of the weight off the battered French, who now see their capital in the enemy's hands.

Forces it was intended to throw into the scale next year are now being hurled into the fray, to try to arrest the German drive, which is constantly reenforced with new mechanized divisions and new tank regiments, and British equipment that had been earmarked for Britain's defence is now moving into the battle-line in France.

The battle-line in France may save having a battle-line in England, if it is sufficiently supported.

Conversely, the surest way to have a battle-line in Britain is to let the battle-line in France be smashed for want of support.

At last Churchill is doing what The Daily News several weeks ago suggested he might do, in view of his Great War attack upon the policy of matching the army at the front with an army at home, both being built up simultaneously. In the Great War when, for a time, he was an ex-minister, he argued that of every six men added to the army, only three reached France, and only one was a front-line bayonet man, the others performing other duties.

But it seems to have taken France's terrible plight to shake the British war office out of traditional lines.

When the Low Countries were invaded, the Canadian Press said the British Expeditionary Force had a strength of 200,000 men. Almost simultaneously Berlin estimated it at 350,000, but a fortnight or so later, when the Dunkerque withdrawal had almost been completed, Anthony Eden told the world that the British Expeditionary Force was of nine divisions, and the Associated Press put the figures of 175,000 men into his mouth.

And all this was after the world had been told that the two new classes to be called up in June would bring the strength of the British military machine to 3,000,000 men.

Now the divisions that were being held back, to be fed into the hopper in an orderly manner in the future, are where they should be, and where they presumably could have been earlier.

It is possible that if the British had had say three armies, in France, or only half of their maximum of the Great War, the Germans might have found the going more difficult, and the Belgian King, with a British force beside him comparable in a small measure with the French strength, might have kept his courage up, and not withdrawn 350,000 troops from the battle and brought a major disaster to the Allies. No one can say what would have been the result if the British Expeditionary Force had consisted of a million men at the time that Germany struck on the West 8½ months after the start of the war.

But now Britain is striking, presumpably with large fractions of a million men, if not actually with that total, and pouring power upon the German mechanized legions.

For of course she also has an army in the Eastern Mediterranean, and a home defence army that no doubt now consists of the newer divisions and of those still in training.

AUNT HET

By ROBERT QUILLEN

"I reckon there's a bright side in everything, even politics. The more people study the candidates, the more they're goin' to see the need o' prayer."

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Letters may be published over a nom de plume, but the actual name of the writer must be given to the editor as evidence of good faith. Anonymous letters go in the waste paper basket.

"Carry on Canada" — Says Mrs. Goodman About Dominion Day

To the Editor of the Daily News:

Sir—May I be permitted to write a few words in reference to a letter written by Mr. Herbert W. Herridge of Nakusp, B.C., and published in your paper?

I certainly disagree with Mr. Herridge's ideas with regard to the approaching Dominion Day. We are all agreed that no words are adequite to describe the terrible brutalities that are being committed these days, but what good can we do with our ears pressed to our radios and our chins dragging on the floor?

It seems to me that the term "Carry on Canada" means to be as nearly normal as is possible while doing the jobs that must be done. The old saying of "Al work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" holds good in war time as well as in peace.

My suggestion is that we carry out all our plans for Dominion Day and turn the proceeds over to the Red Cross and other war efforts.

(MRS.) W. D. GOODMAN

Nelson, B.C., June 13, 1940.

Says Criticism of Refugee Heartless

To the Editor of the Daily News:

Sir—One cannot but register an unqualified protest of the extraordinary sentiments expressed by M. J. O'Leary of Waneta in his letter printed in this morning's paper, under the caption: "Blames Civilians for Clogged Roads." First reading led one to believe that Mr. O'Leary was having some local difficulty with pedestrians in navigating his own local highways, but unfortunately this was not the case, and further consideration of his remarks leaves one in amazement that any Briton could so address himself to the public.

I have been reading the Daily News for many years, but have never before read such an unhappily inapposite letter as that of your—presumably Irish—correspondent.

He refers, by inference, to the epic Retreat to Dunkirk of the British Expeditionary Force (admitting that "our forces found themselves in a rather difficult position") as "not having done too badly" in their endeavor to save the Day. Well, we are at least grateful that he did not condemn them altogether for "carrying on" in what he is pleased to term "civilian's most cherished amusement of war"! He then pokes his "innocent" fun at "the sacred gentry", the helpless tortured refugee with "his multitudinous family," striving to protect all he holds most dear, and being "blasted out of the way as an absolute military necessary"; in other words, a condonation of the infamous crimes of a ruthless and relentless foe of all the decencies of our common humanity.

MOCKING MISFORTUNES

Further analysis of his letter will serve no good purpose. Your readers will rightly form their own conclusions, and pity such a one as can at this hour of destiny mock the dire misfortunes of his fellow men.

Has Mr. O'Leary any first hand acquaintance of even the less modern war of 1914-1918? Has he ever seen an army in a fighting retreat, outnumbered and outgunned? Has he ever seen the wreckage of war behind the front lines, and has he any conception at all of what war is really like and what it means to the helpless civilians caught in its full tide of destructive fury?

War "The civilian's most cherished amusement" says Mr. O'Leary. If this is not at this time a subversive statement, I never heard or read one!

"Junk and carcases"—How would your correspondent like to have anyone refer to his "Lares et Penates" and the members of his family—possibly himself—in such terrible terms!

One can only compassionately assume that Mr. O'Leary has allowed himself to become afflicted with the same "prevalent hysterial incoherence" he accredits to many of his fellow Britons at this hour. "Carry on Canada!"

Spray to Control Asparagus Beetles

In certain localities, asparagus is seriously injured by the asparagus beetle. There are two species of the beetles, both about ¼ inch long. It is believed that these beetles feed only upon asparagus.

The common asparagus beetle has a dark metallic-blue underbody and head and its wings are marked with yellow and red. This beetle lays its eggs on the tender asparagus shoots. The only control at this time is to keep the shoots cut every day, thus removing the eggs before they can hatch.

Still another beetle which attacks asparagus is the 12-spotted beetle. It is orange-colored and has six black spots on each wing.

Once the cutting period for asparagus is past both of these beetles can be controlled by spraying or dusting with arsenate of lead. Use three pounds of arsenate of lead to 50 gallons of water for spraying. When dusting mix the arsenate of lead with four times as much hydrated lime.

POSITIVE OR NEGATIVE

FINE BIDDERS in contract keep three purposes in mind. First, they want to find the best declaration for their pair, if possible, a particular suit or No Trump. Second, they want to get the contract as high as the pair's two hands may justify, a most positive consideration in a contest which does not produce game or slam premiums except when contracted for. Third comes a negative, but also vital factor—the importance of not bidding too high, as bidding for too many tricks entails a loss of points instead of a gain.

The third consideration is the reason why experts have strained so to develop methods which will prevent what they call "crowding the bidding." They have sought to work out means which will ascertain the ultimate declaration on hands of ordinary strength while the bidding is still at a low level. That is the reason for what has been named the "one-over-one" principle—the exchange of as much information as possible without pushing the side beyond its depth.

1. ♠ 6 3 ♥ Q J 9 5 4 ♦ 9 7 6 ♣ K 8 6

2. ♠ 6 3 ♥ Q J 9 5 4 ♦ A 7 6 ♣ Q 10 8

With the first of these two hands, you have pretty close to the weakest collection of cards that you would bid opposite a partner who made an opening suit bid of one. Those who follow the one-over-one principle would bid 1-Heart on that after a partner's dealer bid of 1-Diamond, but if he bid 1-Spade, they would bid 1-No Trump, since the hand is too weak to carry the bidding voluntarily to the two level.

With the second of those hands, there is enough strength to bid the heart suit at 1-Heart over 1-Diamond and 2-Hearts over 1-Spade. In fact, that hand would be strong enough for what is called a "free bid," whereas the first one is not.

With the first, you bid at all for just two purposes—maybe the side may find the hand playable at a major suit or No Trumps, either of which produces more points than a minor, and maybe your partner has an extremely strong hand, not quite enough to make a game-guaranteeing two-bid in the first place, but enough to do it with a jump on his next turn if he learns you have a bare bit of strength.

In brief, your purpose in bidding this first hand is to "keep it open" and see what your partner wants to do next. But, if an opponent bids before it is your turn, he has done that work for you, and so you have no need to give your partner another chance by bidding yourself. Hence your making a bid after an opponent's overcall is to show him you have at least about the amount of strength in the second hand—a "free bid."

NAZIS CLAIM CAPTURES WITH NO FIGHTING, MAGINOT POSTS TAKEN; FRENCH CLAIM FIGHTING RETREATS

BERLIN, June 16 (AP). — The text of Saturday's German communique:

"The pursuit between the Lower Seine and the Meuse everywhere is in full force. Dissolution of the defeated French armies is progressing. At several points the enemy troops and units have surrendered without fighting.

"During the past days, the enemy hastily put up new divisions from remainders of defeated divisions and reserves.

"Since June 5, over 200,000 prisoners have been counted. The amount of material cannot yet be estimated.

"Paris was occupied yesterday without fighting and was passed through. The Reich's war flag is waving over the Palace of Versailles where in 1871 the German destiny was established and in 1919 German shame was sealed.

"South of the Argonne forest the enemy was thrown Southeastward and forced off the line of retreat.

"Flying units of all kinds on June 14, in a monster attack on the Saar front, raided the Maginot Line. Fortification works, bunkers, artillery and infantry positions, as well as columns, were bombed by all calibres the entire day.

"At the same time troops of the army, supported by strong artillery, broke into the fortified battlefield of the Maginot Line and wrested numerous defence positions from the enemy. A strong bunker group at Saar-Alben was taken.

"In the region of Verdun, Metz and Belfort an effective air attack was directed against troop concentrations and movements, rail line and roads. Numerous trains were destroyed and many rail lines interrupted. In other parts of France also good attack results were obtained by our fighting units against airports, important rail lines and retreating columns.

During the course of the night of June 14-15, the opponent undertook the usual flights in West and Southwestern Germany, thereby again dropping bombs aimlessly without hitting military targets.

"The opponents total air losses yesterday were 43 planes of which 13 were shot down in air fights, nine by anti-aircraft fire, and the rest destroyed on the ground. Five of our own planes are missing.

"The opponent's losses on June 13 were increased by 10 airplanes totalling 20, our own losses were raised by four planes to six.

"In the Narvik region, Harstad and Tromsoe were occupied in recent days without fighting. One detachment of picked mountain troops, which on June 2 started the Northward march from Fauske across roadless mountains, joined the Narvik group on June 13."

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE, June 16 (CP,-Havas) — Here is Saturday's communique from the French High Command:

"In Normandy the struggle is continuing in the region to the West of Louviers and Evreux (18 and 22 miles South of Rouen, respectively).

"Below Paris our armies completed the movements prescribed by the Command in the most complete order.

"In Champagne the enemy still further increased his pressure in the direction of Troyes and St. Dizier. Violent battles are underway.

"In Lorraine nad Alsace violent bombardments occurred along the front and on our communication lines."

Australia, New Zealand Support Message to France

BORDEAUX, France, June 16 (CP Havas). — Premier Reynaud Saturday received the following message from Prime Minister R. G. Menzies of Australia:

"His Majesty's Government in the Commonwealth of Australia wholeheartedly support the message sent by the British Government to the people of France.

"Australians are continuing their great effort of military preparation. They have undertaken to devote themselves, with all resources that are available, to victorious conduct of this war, the most decisive of all wars in world history.

"Whatever the temporary difficulties, we are resolved to continue the struggle with confidence and resolution until France and the ideals for which she is fighting have triumphed over the invader.

"If the human soul can express itself across 10,000 miles of ocean, as we believe it can, we hope that our own soul will succeed, in this hour of trial, in encouraging a little and in sustaining the valiant people which is fighting for us all in so grandiose a manner."

A message from Prime Minister Peter Fraser of New Zealand said:

"I also wish to reaffirm in the most solemn manner our determination to continue until victory the struggle into which France and the British Commonwealth of Nations with their Allies were forced to throw themselves for the defence of justice and liberty.

"Our cause is the cause of humanity and it is for that reason that we are sending our fraternal greeting and wishes to Republican and Democratic France in this decisive hour."

German Consul Claims Misquoted on Threat of Trade Reprisals

NEW ORLEANS, June 16 (AP). —Nazi Germany's General Consul in the South claimed Saturday that he was misquoted in a newspaper interview which made it seem that he was threatening the United States with trade reprisals because of American aid to the Allies.

Baron Edgar von Spiegel in a statement today denied that he made several of the statements attributed to him in an interview in the New Orleans States yesterday, and charged in addition that the reporter who wrote the story violated his confidence.

A guard of a single policeman was placed at the Consul's home on a 24-hour basis yesterday shortly after the appearance of the interview but no trouble had developed today.

James E. Crown, Editor of the States, said in reply to the Baron's charges that "we have absolute confidence in our reporter and the veracity of his report," which included a statement that Germany "will not forget" American aid to the Allies.

SPOKANE INDIANS UNABLE TO PLAY GAME IN NELSON

Regret for the Spokane Indians' inability to come to Nelson for an exhibition game July 8 were received Saturday by Con Cummins, Manager of the Nelson Baseball Club.

An excerpt from the letter written by the Western International League team's management follows:

"The reason that it is difficult to say 'We're sorry' is that we realize that we do have so many fans up there.

"The facts are that we are simply overloaded with league games, since we have to make up so many postponed games on account of rain. Then too, we are playing two games every Sunday and holiday, besides almost all of the remaining Mondays except three.

"So, you can see that the boys will really need some rest sometime.

"Specifically, we have a tough week here of July 1. Then we go 439 miles to Salem to play the next night. Then we turn right around and come back to start the ninth. So we had planned to use July 8 as a travelling day.

"Seriously I hope that you can understand our situation; because, if there was any way in which we could oblige you this year, we would be most happy to do so."

A 10 per cent cut of the gate was to be donated to the Red Cross, but Cummins stated that his team would still do its bit for patriotic purposes. It was thought likely that the Red Cross would share in the receipts taken July 7 in a game with one of Spokane's top-ranking semi-pro teams, the Richies.

Castlegar Softball Team Trims Annable 17-7 in Trail Game

The game became a farce in the ninth inning when Castlegar was leading 17-3. Cliff Wanless, Castlegar hurler, changed places with his brother Gerry, catcher, and the latter walked in three runs. Score by innings:

Wheatley Retires

CURLY WHEATLEY

"You can say quietly that I am through," George Wilfrid (Curly) Wheatley, of Trail, ace arbiter of Kootenay hockey and lacrosse, told a Daily News reporter between periods of Friday night's Rossland-Nelson lacrosse game.

Thus Curly writes finis to a successful and worthwhile career in sport. "I've been in sport for a long time," said Wheatley. "And I have had all kinds of fun and have no regrets for being active in sport since I was six years old, and that was a long time ago.

"I don't think I've made a bad friend either," he said. "Of course I've had occasional run-ins for the time being, but they have been quickly forgotten."

Wheatley wound up his hockey playing career in 1938 as a Smoke Eater, nine years after joining the Trail forces in 1936. He rose through midget, junior and senior hockey ranks at Bankhead, Alta., before coming to Blairmore and from there to Trail. He assisted in the introduction of box lacrosse in this district.

He has proved himself quite adept with a whistle, both in hockey and lacrosse. For the past three lacrosse seasons has served as an official.

"It's not on account of any trouble that I am quitting, for I am pleased to say I bam on splendid relations with executive members, players and so on," he emphasized.

His last assignment as an ice official was handling Memorial Cup playdowns in the West this Spring. Besides Kootenay League games and playoffs he has officiated in a number of Western Allan Cup playdowns.

The fourth game of the Rookies-C. Y. O. Nelson Ladies' Softball League series is scheduled for this evening at 5:30 at the Recreation Grounds. The Rookies are three games up at present, having won two games and having taken the third by default.

Hazel Spiers and Josie Elliot will form the Rookies' battery and Millie Horrigan and Georgie Eberley will handle the respective pitching and catching chores for the Catholics.

6-5 Win Puts Trail on Top of Ball League

TRAIL, B. C., June 16 — A veteran hard-hitting gang of ball players, who are now digging out of their own pockets so that they might have some more baseball in their waning playing days—Trail Indians—climbed into undisputed possession of first place in the West Kootenay League when they hammered out a 6-5 victory over the Nelson Seniors at Butler Park this afternoon.

There was a time when these same guys could demand sizable chunks of dough for their services, and several of them did get it. But this year the only way they could play ball was to pay their own way, and their love of baseball proved to be deep-rooted.

Today victory came the hard way. They blew a one-run lead gained in the first inning when Rico Martin drove a round-tripped far out into centre field with two gone. Then they had to overcome a 5-1 deficit which they carried into the last half of the fifth, but once they regained the lead they held it.

TULLOCK HOT

"Red" Tullock, a veteran with a rubber arm, had his fast ones really blazing this afternoon as he held the visitors scoreless until the fourth, and after the fifth. He allowed 11 hits in all, same number as his mates garnered off Steve Smith, Nelson Southpaw making his first start of the season, but six of them came in the two successive innings. From then on he was invincible, especially when men got on. Nelson leaving six men in scoring position compared to Trail's one.

Three successive doubles, by Humble, Beland and Euerby, gave Nelson two runs with no one out in the fourth, and with men on first and third, Smith hit into a snappy twin billing, Cameron to Hall to Jones, but Euerby scored on the play.

Nelson lengthened the lead two more runs in the next frame when Locatelli sacrificed McInnes, who had singled, to second and Seaby drove him in with a safe blow to left. Seaby continued the circuit when the fielder, John McIntyre, let the ball get through him. Casey Jones blasted a singe to right after Tick Hall had doubled over the short right field fence to cut the margin a run in the last of the inning.

SMITH HAS BAD FRAME

Then Smith, who had pitched brilliantly and cannily with baffling slow curves, met up with his nemesis of one bad inning when the Indians came to bat in the last of the sixth. Before a man had been retired Tullock had doubled over the fence, and Petrunia and McIntyre singled to produce one run. Smith then retired Norris and Cameron and then Hall brought in both runners with a double. Jones was safe on an attempted fielder's choice on a close play at third when Hall slid in, and then Martin singled home the Indians' fourth tally of the inning.

That was the last scoring as both pitchers then settled down for the rest of the route. Tommy McInnes, filling in for the injured Gordon Richardson, did a fine job of holding Smith. Both Smith and Tullock had fine control, neither issuing a single base on balls. Tullock hit one man, Humble.

Despite the fairly high score the game was run off in speedy fashion, the players requiring only one minute over an hour and a half to compete the 8½ innings.

Godoy May Have Surprise for Joe He Tells World

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

CARMEL, N.Y., June 16 (AP)—Arturo Godoy declared today that "Arturo—he ees no suckair."

Arturo has a date in Yankee Stadium Thursday with Joe Louis, with the heavyweight championship of the world at stake. Four months ago, Godoy befuddled Louis for 15 rounds with his crouching, weaving, "squat tag" type of ring work.

Most folks expect Arturo to come right back with the same style, and they figure the Bomber has learned how to solve it.

That's why the one-time fisherman from Chile is laughing that he is by no means a "suckair."

"That Louis," he explained after going over a pair of sparmates for four rounds at his training camp here, "he figure I crouch the same way and then know what to do theese time. Well, I can fight different too. And maybe Joe get a surprise."

The inference was that the "South American Way" may be changed somewhat from the game of "squat tag" of last Winter, in which Godoy dropped a split decision, to a more stand-up style, in which the Chilean will crowd Louis continually, keeping on top of him all the time and giving him no "punching room."

One thing, Godoy is in far better condition than in the last time he tangled with Louis.

Terriers Cop 2nd Straight Boxla Win, 10-8 Score

ROSSLAND, B. C., June 16 — Rossland Terriers gained their second successive win in the West Kootenay Junior Boxla series on their home floor Friday night when a furious game with the Trail Crescents left them on top 18-10.

Early in the fourth period the Crescents tied the score at 9-9 but the Terriers broke away on another splurge that the hard-fighting Trail boys could not stop.

Jack LaFace scored seven goals for the Terriers and Pagnan of Trail came nex with five goals. Honeyman, Rossland, who garnered an assist in the second frame, made a whirlwind finish by throwing in four counters in the last stanza.

Brownlee of Trail was injured in the third period when hit in the eye with a rebound from his own throw. Two fights marked the fourth period. The first mixup was between Densky of Rossland and Moon of Trail, who were both given match penalties. The second scrap was between Clark of Rossland and Castanzo of the Crescents who were given five minutes each.

Lineups were:

Trail — Uis, goal; Zasaratto, Castanzo, Biagioni, Titto, defence; Brownlee and Moon, rovers; Turik and Hall, centres; Pagnan, Bisaro and Sammartino, wings.

Rossland — Pollock, goal; Demsky, Clark, Bathie, defence; Cielland and Ray Scott, rovers; Page and Pagnan, centres; Cox, Exner, Jack LaFace, Lavaratto, Martin, wings.

Referee—George Anderson. Score keeper—C. H. Lowdon. Timekeeper—George Nixon.

King Carol Appeals to Keep War Out of the Balkans in Notes

BUCHAREST, June 16 (AP). — Diplomatic circles said Saturday King Carol of Rumania has dispatched a note to President Ismet Inonu of Turkey asking that Turkey maintain neutrality in order to prevent the war from spreading to the Balkans.

Through a Rumanian Government spokesman categorically denied dispatch of the note, reports persisted that King Carol's appeal was transmitted through the Rumanian minister at Ankara, Turkish capital.

The same reports said the monarch simultaneously had sent a note to Prince Paul, regent of Yugoslavia, making a similar plea.

Private School Pupils May Come to Canadian Soil

OTTAWA, June 16 (CP). — Several British private schools are planning to move to Canada and migration of the pupils and teachers may get underway soon, it was learned here Saturday at the Immigration Division of the Mines and Resources Department.

Pupils of both girls' and boys' schools are included in the scheme being considered. All expenses would be met by the parents.

In London today the Daily Mail said that the Atrincham, Cheshire, Grammar School, with an enrolment of 40 boys, may be the first to be evacuated to Canada.

This movement would be apart from the refugee children immigration into Canada which is receiving the close attention of Government officials here.

Nazi Guard Around U. S. Embassy, Paris

NEW YORK, June 16 (AP) — A German military guard has been placed around the United States embassy in Paris, and Ambassador William C. Bullitt "probably has been asked" to remain within bounds of the embassy buildings for several days, Edwin Hartrich, Columbia Broadcasting System correspondent, said in a Berlin broadcast Saturday.

He said German military authorities had taken similar steps with American officials in the occupation of The Hague and Brussels.

Rome Bombed With French Pamphlets

ROME, June 16 (AP)—The Government Saturday released news of an air raid over Rome early yesterday in which planes dropped leaflets indicating the raiders were French.

"The Duce wanted war. Here it is!" the leaflets said in Italian. "France has nothing against you. Quit and France will quit."

Anti-aircraft batteries went into action against the planes, one of the shells hitting a house where the explosion fatally wounded a woman

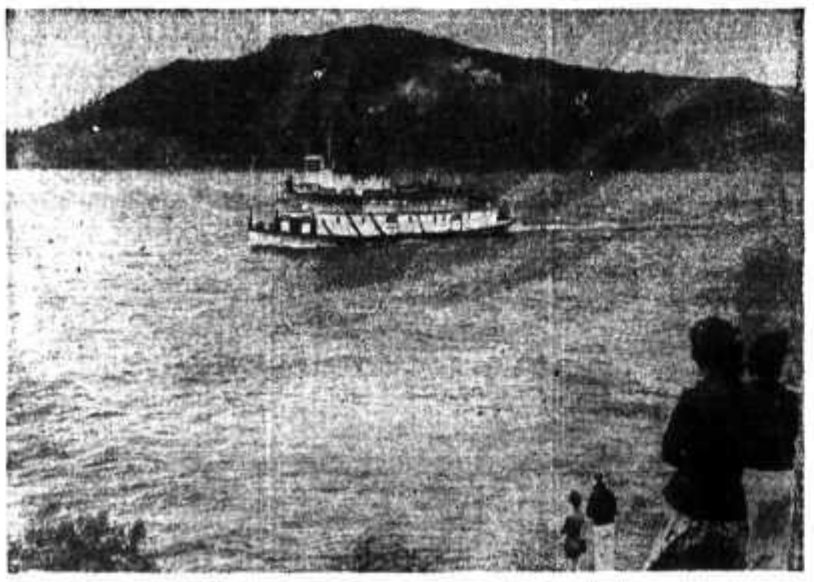
Canada Watches Pacific Waters

Inside a camouflaged observation post, lookouts keep watch on the coastal waters of the Pacific as part of Canada's coastal defences.



Sternwheelers of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company have always been a distinctive feature of Kootenay Lake, though with the years the need for them decreases and they become correspondingly fewer. Above, the Moyie, which on occasions substitutes for the Government ferry Nasookin on the run between Fraser's Landing and Gray Creek, holds close to shore for shelter from the wind before turning to round Cape Horn, en route to Gray Creek. Watching her are, left to right, Miss Margaret Morgan, L. Morgan, Miss A. Wall and Miss M. Plenderleith.

Winnipeg Dull

WINNIPEG, June 16 (CP).—In fairly dull operations Winnipeg grain futures prices Saturday moved narrowly and wound up the brief session unchanged to ¼ higher, July at 72¾, October 75 and December 76½ cents.

Reports that two cargoes of Canadian wheat, totalling 500,000 bushels had been sold to exporters, lent strength to trading along with light offerings and steadiness on the stock markets. Mills failed to appear in the pit.

Most of the trading was confined to light coal dealings. For lengthy periods trading was at a standstill, and prices throughout the short session were about unchanged to a fraction higher.

Cash wheat operations were dull and featureless, and prices unchanged. Coarse grains were livelier w / domestic interest shown in oats a... shippers displaying an interest in barley. Crushers also made flax purchases, but rye was neglected.

Reports from Chicago indicated operations there were irregular while Buenos Aires was unchanged.

This output will be increased as rapidly as development takes place and by the end of the year it is estimated that approximately three quarters of a million dollars' worth of mercury will be produced. The operation is said to be responding to development most satisfactorily.

Chicago Steady

CHICAGO, June 16 (AP). — After fluctuating nervously through the session over a rather wide range, wheat prices Saturday steadied and closed fractionally higher than Friday.

Prices were about a cent higher and almost a cent lower at various times during the session. Corn sagged more than a cent before recovering partially.

Some of the selling was attributed to dealers evening up accounts for the week-end in view of uncertainties resulting from the war. Favorable crop reports also attracted attention. Offsetting this was firmness of securities and prospects of substantial Government purchases of flour over the weekend.

Wheat closed ⅝ to ¾ higher than yesterday, July 80 to 79⅞, September 80¾ to ¼; corn ⅛ to ½ lower, July 61⅝, September 60⅝; oats ⅛ to ⅜ down.

Linns of Rossland Buys Equipment for Exploring Midnight

VANCOUVER, B.C., June 16—B. A. Linns, the one-time auto mechanic who made a sensationally rich strike of free gold in the old Midnight mine on O.K. Mountain, Rossland, and who acquired the mine outright from Mrs. L. E. Gilmour of Rossland recently, has purchased several thousand dollars' worth of new equipment with which to further explore the property.

It is reported that the mine continues to give up unusually rich ore and that free gold can be seen with the naked eye through the stope where work is being carried on at present.

Waterworks at Creston Shows Surplus In '39

CRESTON, B. C.—At the close of one year of operating its municipal-owned waterworks system Creston village has been able to pay out of earnings the annual instalment of $3700 for bond principal and interest, along with operating and maintenance costs, and has a small surplus. On top of this is the two mills of the 1940 tax levy that goes into a reserve fund for waterworks purposes, if and when needed.

This was one of the feature announcements at the June meeting of Creston Board of Trade Thursday night, and was made by Reeve Col. E. Mallandaine in reporting for the Municipal Committee. The meeting was in charge of President M. R. Joyce and was well attended.

The correspondence included a letter from Dr. G. E. L. MacKinnon, MP, for Kootenay East, notifying he had asked for the placing of guards on the more important utilities in this constituency, including the West Kootenay Power & Light Co Ltd., power plant at Goat River Canyon.

The Minister of Finance wrote asking that the President head a strong committee to look after the sale of war savings certificates in the Creston district. The personnel of the committee will be announced at the end of the week.

Deanch of Canada, Ltd., a Calgary truck transportation service, wrote asking that the Board forward a resolution to the B. C. Public Utilities Commission backing up their application to provide a freight service into Creston. After some discussion the letter was filed.

Highway matters were prominent. The Board will write the Hon. T. A. Crerar, Ottawa, who has charge of the Federal parks, urging that an appropriation be made to better the road between Rykerts and Creston and the Creston-Kitchener-Yahk road, both of which are now embraced in the Federal park-to-park highroad program. Col. Mallandaine said he had discussed this with some Federal members on his recent trip to Ottawa, who will back up the Board's letter, a copy of which will go to Dr. MacKinnon and W. K. Ealing, Kootenay representatives; Howard Green a Vancouver M.P., as well as Hon. Ian MacKenzie, Minister of Health and Pensions.

Frank Staples' motion to write the B. C. Minister of Public Works asking that the dust nuisance be abated on the Erickson-Meadow Creek road was unanimously approved, along with a motion by Guy Constable that Hon. Mr. Crerar's attention be called to the possibilities of a scenic highway along Goat Mountain in connection with Canada's park development effort. Hon. C. S. Leary, Minister of Works, Victoria, will be advised of this move on the part of the board.

The Secretary of the Associated Boards of Trade will be advised that statements made the Nelson Board in conection with the recent convention at Fernie are incorrect. These would give the impression that the Creston resolution asking for an additional three cents tax on gasoline for highway betterment had been sidetracked. Guy Constable, who reported on the matter, advised the Creston resolution was adopted with but two dissenting votes.

On behalf of the Italian citizens of the district Frank Celli, a member of the Board for many years, spoke with some feeling on recent European developments. He assured the meeting that his countrymen whether native or Canadian born were 100 per cent behind the Allied effort, and intimated a move was already under way to give public expression to this loyalty to the Empire.

EXCHANGE MARKETS

MONTREAL, June 16 (CP)—British and foreign exchange, nominal rates between banks only:

Argentina, peso, .2460
China, Hong Kong dollars, .2575
France, franc, 2.50¾-53½
Switzerland, franc, .2460
(Compiled by the Royal Bank of Canada).

NEW YORK, June 16 (AP) — Pound sterling Saturday suffered a loss of only one cent to $3.60 in relation to the United States dollar.

The Canadian dollar closed ⅛ up at a discount of 18⅞ per cent. (Ottawa Foreign Exchange Control Board rate 9.09-9.91 per cent discount).

The French franc was quoted at a nominal price of 2.20, .01 cent more than Friday's closing rate. However, trade in the franc remained at a standstill.

Sugar Beets to Be Grown, Creston

CRESTON, B. C. — Sugar beet seed production on a worthwhile scale is to become a feature of dyked land crops, according to F. V. Staples of the Industries Committee, speaking at Creston Board of Trade June meeting. Mr. Staples advised that H. Taylor, Field Superintendent for the sugar beet factories at Raymond and Picture Butte, Alta., visited here this week, and contracted with Christensen Brothers to plant 10 acres this Fall, and that there was assurance that at least 30 acres would be contracted. Mr. Staples advised sugar beet seed growing should prove a profitable venture. For some years past $200,000 was spent annually on imported seed.

Speaking also to the Industries Committee report, C. F. Hayes reported in some detail on the cannery situation, restating the case for the commercial cannery as requiring 250 or 300 acres of tomatoes. Some $3000 would be required to establish a domestic cannery, but the speaker had been unable to get information as to where one of this sort was being successfully operated. Two seasons ago there were two or three in the Oliver section, but nothing had been heard of them this year.

A. W. Dickenson reported a healthy demand for the recent publicity pamphlet. He spoke at some length of boys' band financing. A last effort in this connection would be a street concert June 22, and the appearance of the band the following afternoon at Twin Bays. The band would be at Kimberley for Dominion Day.

Reeve Mallandaine, reporting for the Municipal Committee, advised of the successful operation of the waterworks system and stated there was little hope that oil would be available. In this connection Council W. J. Craig also spoke. The Council had decided to hold the 1940 tax rate at the 1939 level, in spite of the fact that two mills had to be put in a trust fund for waterworks purposes. The taking of this two mills for the Water Department would cripple village revenues to the point where no funds would likely be available for oil. Reeve Mallandaine advised the Public Works Department had assured oil would be put on Victoria Avenue as far as the Post Office, and on Barton Avenue to the Town Hall.

Two New Houses, Week's Building; 8 Permits $6965

Applications for eight building permits at the City Engineer's office in the week ending Saturday were paced by two for new residences. These included a new house for G. E. Trainor, on Second Street, to cost $2100; and a new house for Henry Chester on Fifth Street, to cost $3800. The eight permits totalled $6965.

Other permits were issued to:

Mrs. R. S. Sargent to reshingle half of garage roof, Front Street, $25.

Percy Jeffery, to stucco house, Hall Mines Road, $250.

J. Dumont, to shingle house with cedar shingles, Latimer and Stanley Streets, $130.

Laurence Simpson, to put siding on the home of Dr. Wilfrid Laishley, 914 Third Street, $400.

D. Maglio, to patch roof with cedar shingles, 125 High Street, $10.

T. Hulls, to finish excavating basement, finish walls with rock concrete, and build new chimney and basement stairs, 709 Silica Street, $250.

TORONTO FIRM

TORONTO, June 16 (CP). — The Stock Market Saturday closed with a firm tone but there were few buyers in the field.

National Steel Car at 43 was up 1¼ and Dominion Foundries had the same advance at 23.

Imperial Oil, International Pete and British American recorded gains of ⅛ to ¼.

International Nickel tightened to 33 for a fractional gain. Smelters firmed a point and Steep Rock improved slightly. Eldorado improved a few.

Hollinger, Lake Shore, East Malartic, San Antonio, Halinor, Malartic Gold Fields and Aunor recorded moderate gains. Dome, Macassa and Preston weakened slightly.

Home Oil at 1.50 and Calgary and Edmonton at 1.10 were unchanged.

Cranbrook Men Are Continuing to Win Gold, Moyie Falls

James Ewan and Dave Oscarson who own and operate the Nero placer mines at Moyie River Falls, Cranbrook District, continue to make rich recoveries.

Ewan and Oscarson have been developing the property for the past six years, driving a tunnel beneath the Falls.

Coarse nuggets of considerable value are encountered quite frequently, it is said.

Calgary Oils Firm

CALGARY, June 16 (CP). — Firmness was again shown by higher bids for oils on Calgary Stock Exchange Saturday, but trading was light. Transfers 4400 shares.

C. & E. and Okalta were each bid up 3 cents and Anglo 7 cents above previous close. Lethbridge Pete lost fractions, while United and Monarch were unchanged.

Luce of New York Becomes Director Highland Surprise

Theodore Luce, New York financier, has materially increased his share holdings in, and has been added to the directorate of Highland Surprise Gold Mines Ltd. at Retallack, Kaslo District. Announcement of his election was made by Joe Gallo, Managing Director, following an inspection of the property by Mr. Luce.

The directorate now consists of R. W. Kennedy, President; Joe Gallo, Managing Director; A. G. Noble, Secretary-Treasurer; W. S. Applegate and Theodore Luce.

Using the Whitewater mill, recently leased, Highland Surprise is expected to go into production early in July. The Whitewater mill is three miles from the Highland Surprise mine, and it is planned to use tram and truck to transport the ore.

While Mr. Luce had been interested in the Highland Surprise for some time, it was his first visit to the mine. He expressed satisfaction with the progress being made toward putting the property on a commercial production basis at an early date.

Natal-Michel Nine Heads Ball Loop

NATAL, B.C.—Natal-Michel Buffaloes, behind the four-hit pitching of youthful Bobby Halko, went into undisputed leadership in the Crow's Nest Pass Baseball League when they handed the highly touted Coleman Pucksters their third straight defeat 5-2 before a large crowd at the Natal ball park June 12. Although wild at times and allowing five bases on balls, Halko pitched masterful ball and was aided by two fast double plays that pulled him out of tight spots. Schneph pitched the entire game for the Pucksters, allowing seven hits and striking out 10 Buffaloes.

The game was called at the end of the eighth due to darkness.

SALMO, B. C., June 16—Metaline Falls, Wash., Juniors made it two in a row over Salmo junior baseball team when they blasted out a 16-3 victory at the Salmo Ball Park today. Previously the Americans had posted a win at home over the Salmo team.

Arvid Hamberg was the Salmo starting choice for the mound chores but with none out in the ninth Eddie Hearn came to his rescue. B. Records, who had buffaloed the Salmoites in the first game, allowed but three hits, struck out six and walked four. Hamberg fanned five and walked three and Hearn struck out one and hit a batter.

Collins doubled and homered for the visitors and Appel had a two-bagger to his credit. The only extra-base blow for Salmo was a round-tripper by Larsen in the eighth. The visitors reeled off a double killing in the third, E. Shaw to Rogich.

C.Y.O. Blitzkreig Too Much for News; Drop Fourth 27-16

With Rev. Edward Doyle stealing bases like a burglar and running like a scared rabbit; George Frocklage whipping the ball over with a mean hook on it; and Henry Frocklage smacking the onion out to the fence, the Daily News Sports Club boys couldn't withstand the Hitler-like attack of the Junior C.Y.O. at the Recreation Grounds Saturday afternoon. That's right—they lost their fourth softball game of the season. The score was 27-16. 'Nuff said.

Presenting not one left handed batter to Pitcher Bill Brown's offerings, the Catholics whammed the ball all over the lot. Every time Father Doyle got on base he went like a streak of lightning and his work inspired his mates to really classy softball. They far outshone the Newsies in fielding, hitting and baserunning for the better half of the game, and that was fatal. When the Inkslingers got down to work it was too late.

Homers were hit by Henry Frocklage, Father Doyle, and Tony Arcure for the Catholics and Raymond Burgess and Art Matheson for the Newsies.

Lineups were:

Salmo Girls Beat Trail, Softball

SALMO, B. C., June 16—A sensational five-run rally in the last of the eighth inning gave the Salmo girls' softball team a thrilling 18-16 victory over the Trail Maryettes in a softball game at the Salmo Ball Park today.

Falling behind early in the game, the home girls staged an uphill climb that brought them even with the Trailites 13-13 at the end of the sixth inning. Then Trail pulled ahead again with a run in the seventh and two more in the eighth, before Salmo banged across five runs in their half of the eighth.

Doreen Gibbon led the Salmo assault with a pair of circuit clouts and a single and Sadie Hamberg smashed out a homer, a double and a brace of singles in six times up. For Trail Edna Knowler, Kay Lennon and Hazel Mason hit homers and Gladys Owen bagged a double. Miss Knowler, the visiting starting hurler, had five safe hits altogether.
