ALLIES DELIVER GREATEST DAYLIGHT RAID

1st Army Holds on in Face of Fierce Hun Attacks

By BLAKE SULLIVAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 6 (AP)—The stalled British 1st Army with its American components was reported fighting a bitter holding action in the face of German dive-bombing and tank attacks in the mountains around the Mateur-Tebourba-Djedeida rim in Northern Tunisia tonight while waiting for important reinforcements with which to resume its offensive.

While Allied bombers struck long-range but sharp blows on Axis supply centres, a new threat to the Axis position in libya was taking form in the direction of the Sahara, 850 miles south of Tunis.

The Morocco Radio, broadcasting a communique from the Headquarters of French Gen. Henri Giraud said Mehari (native) companies have occupied heights on the Algeria-Tripolitania frontier east of Djanet. Djanet is in the southeastern corner of Algeria, south of Tunisia and about 30 miles from the Libyan frontier.

It is on the flank of a possible route of invasion by Fighting French forces who might advance from Port Lamy in French Equatorial Africa through Southern Libya.

Another Morocco Radio report said other American and French units slashing across Southern Tunisia toward the coastal road linking Axis positions in Tripolitania and Tunisia, had occupied a new fortified position.

The location was not given, but presumably the operation was carried out by forces last reported at Sidi Bou Zid, 80 miles west of Sfax.

Most reports of the heavy fighting came from Axis sources and these pictured the Allies as having suffered a serious setback, with an American infantry division and part of an American tank division among the forces that were in rout or wiped out.

The Allied communique tonight as reported by the Morocco Radio said nothing about the situation at the front, but it said heavy aerial assaults were continuing on the docks and air fields at Bizerte and Tunis. Bizerte airdrome was attacked twice yesterday and the docks once Friday night, it said, while hits were scored on ship depots and the freight yard at Tunis yesterday.

It admitted, however, that Allied fighters were encountering heavy going with eight of them shot down compared to seven of the enemy.

Although no recent dispatches from Allied Headquarters have been received, a five-day-old dispatch from William B. King, Associated Press reporter at the Tebourba front, made it clear that the Allies had out-run their fighting plane umbrella and had got deep into difficulty.

The dispatch, dated Dec. 1, said a large body of British troops was cut off east of Tebourba by a German counter attack on the flank but a subsequent dispatch dated Dec. 2 said the troops escaped the encirclement by a night march and the timely arrival of important American armored reinforcements.

The Morocco Radio said Bone was raided Saturday night by the Italian and German bomber formations in another of their assaults on that Allied reinforcement port.

Anti-aircraft batteries and fighters offered vigorous resistance, the broadcast said, and shot down four of the raiders. Eighty Axis planes have been shot down over that town alone since Nov. 13, the radio added.

LINE UNBROKEN

The Morocco broadcast indicated that Lt.-Gen. Kenneth Anderson's Allied forces still were holding their unbroken line along the Mateur-Tebourba-Djedeida triangle in Northeast Tunisia.

The Italians claimed capture of "an important locality," which they did not identify. They also claimed the capture of 400 prisoners, destruction or capture of 25 armored cars, seven tanks, 41 guns, about 300 motor transports and quantities of ammunition.

According to the German version, 1100 Allied prisoners have been captured and 70 tanks destroyed. Berlin added that in the Axis-occupied Tebourba area "mopping up operations are continuing."

HIT AXIS SHIPPING

Close on the heels of Friday's destructive American air assault upon Naples in which Liberators sank a cruiser and damaged a battleship and another cruiser, British Middle East Headquarters announced an Axis destroyer was left aflame yesterday after an attack by long range fighters off Tunisia.

The destroyer was set afire after a night assault on La Goulette and Tunis during which a merchant vessel was destroyed. Hits were scored on docks, buildings and railway sidings in the Tunis area and fires were started, the communique said. The Spanish Mole at Tripoli was attacked again Friday night and hits were observed there, it was reported.

American Headquarters at Cairo said it had been confirmed that the vessel sunk at Naples, in the first American raid of the war upon the Italian mainland, was a six-inch gun cruiser of the Attendolo class. The warship was reported lying now on her side in Naples Harbor where heavy destruction was inflicted by the attackers.

The intensity of the Axis efforts to halt Africa-bound convoys was shown meanwhile by a recapitulation listing 40 attacks on submarines by one R.A.F. Coastal Command squadron operating from Oran and Algiers.

"There were dozens of the U-boats around," the Air Ministry News Service said. "Hardly a Hursen came back without having a go at one.

"One submarine after a running gun duel with two or three Hudsons and depth-charge attack was forced to beach itself near Oran. The U-boat and crew were captured by American troops."

Evacuation of Sicilians Reported Ordered

LONDON, Dec. 7 (Monday) — (CP.)—Reuters reported hearing the Morocco radio broadcast an announcement early today that the Germans had ordered the Italian High Command to evacuate civilians from Sicily, strategic Mediterranean Island which might conceivably be used by the Allies as a stepping stone to invasion of Italy from North Africa.

The Morocco radio said, according to Reuters, that a strong garrison under German command would be stationed on the island which lies between the Italian mainland and Tunisia where the Allies and Axis forces have joined battle.

The Germans have had a strong air force stationed on Sicily since early in the war and according to frequent reports have incurred the deep anger of the Sicilian people.

With the Allied occupation of North Africa, Sicily became a vital key in the Mediterranean war and because of its location obviously a first point of vulnerability in any Allied plan for invading Italy from Afrila.

RUSS CAPTURE FOUR NAZI STRONGPOINTS

Push on After 20 Counter Attacks by Nazis Turned Back

FIGHTING HEAVY

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Dec. 7 (Monday) — (AP.)—Smashing as many as 20 desperate German counter-attacks in one day, Soviet Russian Soldiers captured four Nazi strongpoints West of Rzhev Sunday while their tireless companions pushed ahead in the Velikie Luki area and Southwest of Stalingrad over the bodies of hundreds of Germans, the Russians announced today.

The Sunday midnight Soviet communique disclosed that the heaviest fighting yesterday took place Southwest of Stalingrad and on the Velikie Luki and Rzhev fronts, West of Moscow.

"West of Rzhev one of our units beat off 20 enemy counter-attacks," the communique said. "The enemy sustained heavy losses. Our troops captured four German strongpoints, eight tanks and other war material."

Several populated points were liberated in the area of Velikie Luki, the Russians announced, and enemy equipment also was gathered into the Russian offensive net as the Red army kept its Western offensive rolling forward through deepening snows.

Just where the Russians were advancing Southwest of Stalingrad the communique did not disclose but it did say that the Germans, who have been trying vainly to stem the Russian tide there with reserves, left hundreds of dead on the battlefield.

Northwest of the battered Volga city fierce German counter-attacks also were repulsed.

In Stalingrad itself, the Russians said, the Red army destroyed four German gun emplacements and seven dugouts and silenced three artillery and six mortar batteries. A company of Germans was reported wiped out on the Southern outskirts of the city.

The Sunday-noon war bulletin announced capture of another village Southwest of Stalingrad and the slaughter of 1200 Nazis to the Northwest where riddled German defences were declared breached again in bloody fighting. A tank-paced enemy counter-attacks, it said, was smashed with heavy German losses.

On the general front, the communique said the Red army encircled a Nazi-held town in the Rzhev-Velikie Luki sector and was proceeding with the extermination of the garrison.

In the battle for Tuapse, Black Sea resort, a Pravda correspondent reported today miners, sailors, soldiers and airmen were smashing every attempt to seize that vital point on the route skirting the coast to the oil of Batum.

Three Killed in Plane Crash

WHITEHORSE, Y. T., Dec. 6 — (CP.)—Pilot Leslie Cook and two mechanics, Donald Dickson and Kenneth McLean, died of injuries suffered in a plane crash here Friday night.

The wives of Cook and Dickson reside at Whitehorse while Mrs. McLean is now in Edmonton.

The plane, a United States army machine, was on a test flight after an engine adjustment. It was circling over the town when the engine stopped and Cook apparently attempted to land it in the street when the left wing struck a telephone pole.

Three-Year-Old Called to Colors

SOUTHEND, England, Dec. 6 — (CP.)—Anton Smith got his marching papers last week. The Ministry of Labor ordered him to report for homeguard duty.

His father thought there had been a mistake and wrote a letter, but the Ministry threatened jail for Anton. So Mrs. Smith took him down to the local Board and asked for his uniform.

Officials took one look at Anton's chubby, three-year-old figure and retreated. Anton went toddling home.

Say Ships in Greek Port to Take Out Rommel Forces

MOSCOW, Dec. 6 (AP.) — The Moscow radio broadcast a report from Athens today that about 100 Axis transports were concentrated at Greek ports for the purpose of evacuating Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces from Africa.

"The crews consist chiefly of Germans," the broadcast said. "The commander of the fleet is reliably stated to have received an order to evacuate Rommel's remaining armor before his men."

ROME DEFENCE MINISTRY MAY EVACUATE

May Be Preliminary to Declaration of an "Open City"

By FRANK BRUTTO
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERNE, Switzerland, Dec. 6 (AP)—A dispatch from Rome on Saturday night said it was possible that the Ministry of Defence and other departments which could be considered military objectives had been evacuated from Rome. There was no official confirmation.

(Such moves are the usual preliminaries to the declaration of an open city, the device that saved Paris from destruction by the Germans.)

The Rome dispatch said that up to now published appeals had urged the evacuation of the civilian population, especially women, children and aged persons but other information was considered to be of military nature and authorities and official publications are observing complete silence.

Another Rome dispatch had said earlier that the Pope expected to remain in the Basilica in the centre of the city if bombing attacks began.

"It is thus possible that at this actual hour more important departments concerning defence, departments which also could be considered military objectives, no longer are situated in Rome," added the Rome dispatch.

Meanwhile, observers here added that Italy's financial woe was one of the few subjects Premier Mussolini left unmentioned in his speech Wednesday in which he reviewed the war.

Italy's expenditures in 1941-42 totalled 118,000,000,000 lire, against income of only 38,000,000,000.

The Italian stock market was said to have been stalemated for several days by a decree compelling the purchase of three per cent treasury bonds for an equal amount of stocks purchases.

The Milan newspaper said it was impossible to carry out any transaction inasmuch as the government bonds, announced last May, had not yet been seen by anyone, and that buyers also were puzzled by the fact that the decree for issuance of these bonds was scheduled to be reexamined by the Chamber of Deputies.

Water Level

A drop of .06 foot was registered by the lake during the 48 hours ending Sunday at 1 p.m. The lake was 5.18 feet above the low water mark at Nelson Saturday, and 5.15 feet Sunday, compared with 5.22 feet Friday.

FRENCH KEEP UP STRUGGLE FOR LEADERSHIP

Report Good Wishes Exchanged by Eisenhower, Darlan

LA BORDE FREED

LONDON, Dec. 6 (CP)—A cordial exchange of message between U. S. Lt.-Gen. Eisenhower and French Admiral Jean Darlan with mutual good wishes for victory and the resurrection of France was reported tonight by the Morocco radio amidst a three-day struggle for support of the French masses.

Darlan in North Africa, Gen. Chas. de Gaulle, in London, and the Laval Doriot-Deat clique in Vichy and Paris are pulling in their own separate ways for the backing of French popular opinion.

The Vichy radio broadcast an announcement today that Admiral Jean de la Borde who gave the order for the scuttling of the French fleet at Toulon had been released by the Germans on the request of the Vichy government.

There was no explanation but observers guessed that the temper of the French people as a result of the scuttling necessitated some gesture of appeasement by Pierre Laval.

The German-controlled Paris radio last night broadcast the report that Darlan would shortly visit London to report to the British government on plans to aid the Allies.

British official circles said however that they had no knowledge of such an intended visit, and the Fighting French sources asserted: "We are sure he won't come to see us. He probably would get an unpleasant reception."

Gen. de Gaulle last night broadcast a statement over the Brazzaville radio in the Belgian Congo which the Fighting French said they doubted would have been permitted by the British Broadcasting Company.

The broadcast said that the French nation would not permit a handful of men who symbolized capitulation collaboration and usurpation to save themselves by creating conditions from which would bring civil war.

The British press continued to express suspicion of Darlan.

The Sunday Express reported in a dispatch from Tangier, that in the French Morocco a new army is now being formed by Darlan which will have as its basis men who until now have been training in Petainist youth camps and are well inculcated with Fascist tendencies and doctrines, plus Axis sympathies."

Bombers Active in Far East

NEW DELHI, Dec. 6 (CP)—Japanese bombers and fighters raided the Chittagong area on the Bay of Bengal Saturday, causing slight damage and light casualties, while R. A. F. forces struck at two enemy points in Burma, a British communique announced today.

(The Tokyo radio claimed without confirmation Japanese airmen had hit many vessels of a 40-ship convoy off Chittagong, near the Burma-India border.)

The R.A.F. struck at an enemy railway station near Katha, in Central Burma.

"Bombs were dropped on the lines and among station buildings," the communique said.

All the British raiders returned.

New Guinea Allies Penetrate to Beach East of Buna

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Monday, Dec. 7 (AP)—Hard-fighting Allied troops in New Guinea have pentrated to the beach East of Buna, isolating an enemy pocket of resistance, the High Command announced today.

General Douglas MacArthur's troops now have driven at least three prongs through to the sea on the Northeast shore of New Guinea, splitting the Japanese hold on the coast. Earlier communiques have told of the Allies extending their beachheads both East and West of Buna.

Steady pressure was maintained against the enemy in other sectors of New Guinea, the communique reported. Both Allied and enemy aircraft were active over the entire area.

American airmen on Sunday administered a heavy pasting to the entrenched Japs at Buna.

The Sunday communique said also that United States bombers had made a destructive raid on Kavieng, on the Island of New Ireland, spilling 50 tons of explosives on the airdrome, dispersal areas and ammunition dumps.

48 Axis Ships Sunk or Damaged in Mediterranean

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, Dec. 6 (AP)—Britain's warships in the Mediterranean have sunk or damaged 48 Axis ships since the westward offensive began two months ago.

Enemy submarines suffered severe losses during the entire campaign. In one brief period, 13 submarines were destroyed, five in two days alone.

MARINES SMASH 5 JAP BASES; KILL 400 TROOPS

Planes Batter Jap Ships 150 Miles From Guadalcanal

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—A band of the United States Marine Corps wiped out five Japanese bases and 400 men on Guadalcanal Island and lost only 17 of their own number in doing the job, the Navy announced today. Their exploit covered a number of weeks.

The Navy's report of this accomplishment, also disclosed that Dec. 4, the day the raiders returned to their base, an Army patrol killed seven Japanese during operations along the Matanikau River which borders the western flank of the American position on the South Pacific Island.

This total of 407 dead Japs raised to 6,641 the number of enemy troops officially listed by the Navy as killed in Guadalcanal land fighting since United States forces invaded the Southeastern Solomon Island four months ago tomorrow. This figure is based on an actual count of bodies and does not include thousands of Japanese estimated to have been wiped out in sea actions or by aerial bombings or artillery fire directed into areas which the Japs still hold.

Details of fresh damage inflicted on Japanese sea forces were awaited tonight after the Navy announced Saturday that American aircraft from Guadalcanal Island had attacked enemy surface units in the Central Solomons about 150 miles northwest of Guadalcanal. The assault was carried out Thursday by dive bombers and torpedo planes.

Out of the South Pacific war zone, meanwhile, came indications that the victory scored by American warships last Monday night over a flotilla attempting to reinforce hard-pressed Japanese troops on Guadalcanal may have been greater than announced.

A communique early last week placed enemy losses in that encounter at two destroyers or cruisers, four destroyers, two transports and one cargo vessel. An Associated Press dispatch from the South Pacific Saturday quoted an American task force commander as saying that in addition to the ships sunk, one heavy cruiser, one light cruiser, about six destroyers and two transports fled from the scene.

At dawn American planes searched the area north of Guadalcanal where the Jap ships should have been and found only one cruiser and one destroyer afloat. It was not known whether the others had sunk or hidden among the islands.

Trading Post Asks for Aid in Fighting Epidemics

TELEGRAPH CREEK, B. C., Dec. 6 (CP.) — An appeal to Federal and Provincial authorities for medical and nursing aid went out today from this Northern British Columbia trading post, which, for the past two months, has been fighting epidemics of flu, measles and pneumonia that have claimed more than a score of lives.

While local authorities believed the epidemics on the wane, the Board of Trade, in its appeal for aid, took cognizance of the death list and the fact that more than 220 cases and an undetermined number of flue and pneumonia cases have been reported.

Smash Locomotive Works, Airdrome and Radio Factory

By ERNEST AGNEW
Associated Press Staff Writer

LODON, Dec. 6 (AP)—Hundreds of British and American bombers from England and a cloud of 400 fighting planes swept over Hitler's Western Europe in a day-long offensive today which informed quarters described as the greatest Allied daylight operation of the war.

Battle formations of American four-engined Flying Fortresses and Liberators joined in smashing tons of explosives upon the locomotive works at Lille and the giant airdrome at Abbeville as their part of a mighty demonstration that United Nations air forces can wage war on Germany's Western Front at the same time as in Africa and the Mediterranean.

A truly Allied armada of British, Norwegian, Canadian, American, Polish, Fighting French, New Zealand and Indian fighter pilots roared across the channel on their morning, afternoon and evening missions into Holland and Northern France.

In all about 600 planes participated, including between 100 and 200 bombers.

The largest previous Allied daylight bombing foray was on Oct. 9 when 105 big American bombers and about 500 fighters made a terrific onslaught against Lille.

LOSE 17 PLANES

Air Ministry sources said there were 400 planes engaged in these protective and offensive sweeps, and the size of the whole operation was indicated by the official report that 17 planes were lost. Two of them were American four-motored bombers and 12 of them were R.A.F. bombers which left a radio tube factory at Eindhoven in Holland gutted and swept by flames.

Tonight there were indications the raids were continuing as German and Danish radio stations went silent.

Tons of explosives were dumped on the Fives Lille locomotive works, which has been building engines for Germany's hard-pressed railway system, and the Abbeville air field where Germany bases one of her largest fighter groups.

DOWN SEVEN PLANES

Seven enemy planes were shot down in the battles that raged around the heavily-gunned bombers.

At the same time a powerful force of R.A.F. bomber squadrons attacked the Philips Wireless Tube and Radio works at Eindhoven in Holland in a raid on which 12 bombers were lost.

The Air Ministry said the assault was pressed home from a low level and that serious damage was done to the main part of the works.

The attack was made in several waves, with the first coming in so low that the pilots could read the time—12:30 p.m.—on the clock of the factory. This wave scattered its high explosives, and the last wave four minutes later, dropped a shower of incendiaries mixed with high explosives.

"The most magnificent bombing I ever saw," exclaimed Sqdn. Ldr. Brian Wheeler.

The Eindhoven factory is the biggest maker of radio tubes in Europe and its whole production has been going to the German armed forces, the Air Ministry said. The factory employs more than 15,000 people.

PLANT GUTTED

The Air Ministry said reconnaissance showed one section of the plant enveloped in smoke and flames and it "seemed to have been gutted throughout." Explosions were still going on in the larger of the two blocks, it added.

Mustang fighters of the R.A.F. on independent sweeps this morning, attacked railway targets, shipping, barges and enemy troops in Holland, and damaged an electrical transformer and railway targets in Brittanny, France.

Two fighters failed to return from this sweep.

Possibly indicating that British-based planes again were on the way for a follow-up night blow, Deutschlandsender, Germany's principal radio station abruptly went off the air at 8 p.m. tonight in the midst of an announcer's sentence.

The big bomber raid was the 16th attack on Lille, which was the target on Oct. 9 of a bombing force of more than 100 Fortresses and Liberators and an escort of 500 Allied fighters.

It was the first combined Allied sweep over France since Nov. 23 when the Nazi submarine lair at St. Nazaire was bombed.

A few hours before the Allied craft swung across the Channel, low-flying German planes shot up several villages in South-Eastern England. Some houses were hit, but no casualties were reported.

German Centres Bombed After Day Raid

LONDON, Dec. 7 (Monday)—(CP.)—The Royal Air Force smashed at objectives in Germany last night, it was stated authoritatively today, following an Allied assault by 800-planes on German-occupied Europe, the greatest Allied daylight operation of the war.

Commend Gov't for Backing Metals Output

SPOKANE, Dec. 6 (AP.) — The Northwest Mining Association, in a declaration of policy adopted at its conference Saturday, commended the Government agencies for their cooperation with the mining industry in boosting production of critical metals.

The action was taken after the conference had heard one speaker criticize "lack of collaboration" between Government agencies dealing with mining.

The declaration, however, also urged greater cooperation of these agencies with one another and with the mining industry to continue the increase in production of war metals.

Dr. Francis A. Thompson, President of the Montana School of Mines at Butte, had charged earlier "there is a serious lack of collaboration, cooperation and exchange of information between Government agencies."

The agencies themselves would like to effect a liaison, he said, adding "but there are reasons why they don't."

The declaration of policy approved and encouraged "the firm stand taken by those well informed members of Congress who advocate the maintenance of silver as an integral part of the money system and who realize that silver is produced mainly as a by-product of the war metals."

Trade and Commerce Marks 50th Year

OTTAWA, Dec. 6 (CP)—The Federal Trade and Commerce Department celebrated its 50th birthday Saturday with the cheerful study of comparative figures showing Canadian exports in 1892 were valued at $139,000,000 and for the first 10 months of 1942 at $1,305,300,000.

The Department was constituted on Dec. 5, 1892 with trade, customs, inland revenue and a few other odds and ends under its control.

Today Hon. J. A. MacKinnon, Minister of Trade and Commerce, has under his control a score of branches never though of by his counterpart, Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, 50 years ago.

High School Girls Busy Knitting for Red Cross, Soldiers Parcels, Raising Money; Plan Sale, Concert

(Contributed)

Buzz-zz-zz—the bell. It's 3:20. One more period to go at Nelson High School. It's Wednesday. There's a rush to the lockers, and a loud banging of doors. The boys are off, with notebooks and pencils, to Winter Cadet classes in small arms training, map-reading, and field-craft. The girls are scurrying to get their work for the Red Cross Period.

Within three minutes quiet has settled once more over the corridors,—a quiet that belies the buzz of activity behind classroom doors. Let us visit these rooms. Here's a group of girls, painting, sewing, varnishing,—each one working diligently, for there is no time to waste now, if she is to have her contributions ready for the Handicraft Sale to be held in the High School, December 11. There, a great variety of dainty shell necklaces, hand-painted bowls, trays, candlesticks, boxes, stunning buttons, cuddly stuffed toys, and many other unusual gifts, will await the discriminating Christmas shopper.

40 KNITTING

Upstairs we go, now, to the knitting room. Here are almost 40 girls, winding wool, and knitting furiously. A good part of the yarn is supplied by the Nelson Red Cross Society, and the articles are returned to them. Some girls, however, are making socks and sweaters for the Women's Auxiliary, to be put in Christmas parcels, for the boys on active service. Others again did knitting for outsiders and the money, which was paid for their work, was put into the Junior Red Cross Funds.

PLAN CONCERT

Strains of music from below. Down we go again, and listen for a few moments to the choral group. They are preparing solos and ensemble numbers for the program to be given at a Junior Red Cross Concert, early in the New Year.

Finally we call in at the library, where the secretary of the Sewing Group is busily checking off finished articles, as they are turned in, and giving out materials to be sewn during the week. She has just brought up a great parcel from the Red Cross Rooms, which supply—for this work—all material except quilt batting. There are only 23 girls, but already this year, they have completed 125 articles,—handkerchiefs, surgical towels, triangular bandages, children's pyjamas, nightgowns, and undergarments. From one corner comes the busy hum of the sewing machine, generously donated by the School Board to facilitate the work of the club. There, around a table, three girls are putting batting in a quilt, while, at this table, two others are pressing finished articles to be sent in today's parcel to the rooms.

All this smoothly, purposeful activity had its beginning in the Fall of 1940. These Wednesday meetings are but a means of directing and coordinating war work, which is carried on by the girls in their spare moments throughout the week. Moreover, this handiwork is only a part of the activity of this enterprising teen-age service group. Once a week, the executive meets with the teacher-sponsors to consider the problem of making money and spending it. Two obligations must be met every month, a regular donation to the Nelson Senior Red Cross, and one to the Central Junior Red Cross in Vancouver, under which all this work is organized throughout the Province.

In previous years it was not difficult to raise $50 or $75 at a tea, or by catering to a banquet. In these present days of rationing, other less lucrative means must be sought. At the trackmeet in September, the girls sold hot dogs, chocolate milk and pop. Last Friday, at the House D Mixer, they made money in the same way again. In November, their Guy Fawkes-Sadie Hawkins Dance was as much a financial success as a social. They were able to give $30 to the Women's Auxiliary towards their Christmas parcels. Here again, circumstances forced the girls to alter their policy, for in 1941, they had, themselves, been able to make up and post 100 service parcels.

But what are these lurid and mysterious signs we see on every blackboard? "Are you overworked and underfed?" Well, you won't be after next Wednesday, students. At noon, the Junior Red Cross, will give you a lunch, with dessert and a picture show—all for 15 cents!

You'd like to know who comprise the executive that thinks up these bright ideas? It is:

President, Margaret Goggin, a most capable executive member ever since she came to the High School, now Margaret takes the place of Isobel Kay, who had to resign recently, when she left school. We shall all miss Isobel's never-tiring, cheery efforts; Vice-President, Shirley Robinson; Secretary, Maureen Fitzgerald; Treasurer, Joan Young; Presidents of Groups, Rosalie Triggs, Jean Erskine, Gwen Jones. Sponsors the lady teachers.

15 Tons Salvage Sent From Nelson, Creston

A freight car loaded with approximately 15 tons of mixed salvage left Nelson for Vancouver Saturday night. Half the car was loaded at Creston and the other half by the Red Cross Salvage Committee here.

The car contained about 400 pounds of fats and grease, now being called for in increased quantities, along with quantities of rags, aluminum, brass, copper, bottles, and batteries.

Wickard U. S. Food Boss

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP) — President Roosevelt installed Secretary of Agriculture Wickard as Commander-in-Chief on the home food front today with supreme and sweeping control over the production and distribution of food and other farm commodities.

An executive order transferred to Wickard the supervision over marketing and distribution previously exercised by the War Production Board and strengthened the controls over production which he already wielded.

Wickard was placed in full charge of determining the requirements in this field of the civilian population, the armed services, the lend-lease administration and foreign governments; of formulating and conducting a program to produce the necessary foods; and of allocating them when they are produced.

SAYS JAPS TO ONE DAY ENTER U.S. CITIES, LONDON

NEW YORK, Monday, Dec. 7 — (AP.) — On the first anniversary of Pearl Harbor, Japanese Admiral Sankichi Takanashi today broadcast from Tokyo a prediction that Japanese forces may one day enter "Seattle, or San Francisco, New York or Washington," even the "port of London," but warned the Japanese empire that these achievements must "wait until the proper time arrives."

British Announce Loss of Submarine

LOUDON, Dec. 6 (CP)—The Admiralty announced today that the submarine HMS Unique is overdue and must be presumed lost. The Unique was under command of Lieut R. E. Boddington.

The Unique, a submarine of the Ursula class displacing 540 tons, carried a normal complement of 27 men, according to Jane's Fighting Ships.

PROTESTS LACK OF CHRISTIAN BURIAL OF HUNS

Raids Reminder of Judgment Day Archbishop States

AT THE GERMAN FRONTIER, Dec. 6 (AP)—Michael Cardinal von Faulhaber, a frequent critic of the Nazis, has protested the lack of Christian burial for Germans who died under air bombardments, and has told his people these air attacks are a reminder of the last judgment day, reports reaching this border point said tonight.

The Cardinal's message was the first of three given by German Catholic leaders since September, the others being a condemnation of sexual excesses under the Nazi "pure race" doctrine, and an exhortation to the people to remain faithful to the teachings of God, especially those on the purity of marriage.

The protest of Cardinal von Faulhaber, Archbishop of Munich, followed a mass he celebrated Sept. 28 for persons killed in the bombing of Munich Sept. 20. He declared a picture of mass burial ceremonies by the Nazis showed not a single Christian Cross, although many who died were Christians.

The Cardinal declared the bombing was "a prelude of the last judgment. The entire history of the world already is a universal judgment, but from time to time catastrophes befall which like a powerful trumpet blast tell us of the last judgment day."

He insisted it was necessary to erect crosses over the tombs of bombing victims, saying "pictures, circulated to the press, of the ceremony at the cemetery in memory of their deaths show not a single Christian cross. As reports to the Press make no mention of any religious ceremony, the impression is created outside Munich that the victims of the air bombardment were interred without the cross. Nevertheless a majority of the dead were Christians."

Cardinal Faulhaber implied that no Christian ceremony whatever was involved during the Government-directed program, and declared "if the dead could speak they would ardentaly protest" and insist upon Christian burial.

He concluded that none among his people could know when or how death might come suddenly, and therefore it was necessary to insist upon the inalienable rights of Christians to the blessing of their church

Say Linlithgow to Remain Viceroy for India

LONDON, Dec. 7 (Monday). — (CP.)—Lord Linlithgow will remain Viceroy of India for an indeterminate period because Prime Minister Churchill has been unable to find a suitable successor, the News Chronicle said today.

Lord Linlithgow's five-year term expired in April, 1941.

Sir Archibald Sinclair, Secretary of State for Air, turned down the post, the newspaper said.

God as First Cause Is Church Theme

"God The Only Cause and Creator" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday.

The Golden Text was: "All nations whom thou hast made shall come and worship before thee, O Lord; and shall glorify thy name. For thou art great, and doest wondrous things: thou art God alone" (Psalms 86: 9, 10).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "My soul, wait thou only upon God; for my expectation is from Him God hath spoken once; twice have I heard this; that power belongeth unto God" (Psalms 62: 5 and 11).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "We cannot fathom the nature and quality of God's creation by diving into the shallows of mortal belief. We must reverse our feeble flutterings—our efforts to find life and truth in matter—and rise above the testimony of the material senses, above the mortal to the immortal idea of God."

Canadian Farm Income Gains Sharply

OTTAWA, Dec. 6 (CP.) — Sharp increase in cash income from the sale of Canadian farm products during the first nine months of this year is reported by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in a review setting sales in the 1942 period of $672,400,000—13.8 per cent higher than the comparative 1941 total of $590,900,000.

The increase over the first nine months of 1940 was set by the Bureau at 37.7 per cent.

"Cash income was higher in all Provinces except Saskatchewan where the income from wheat was sharply lower than during the same period of 1941," the Bureau said. "The greatest increase in the first three quarters of 1942 occurred in the Province of Ontario, although substantial increases were also reported for Quebec, the Maritimes and British Columbia.

Cash income to farmers from sale of livestock and livestock products amounted to $478,000,000 during the first nine months of 1942 compared with $369,300,000 in the corresponding period of 1941.

"Income from the sale of dairy products increased most sharply with a gain of $44,400,000 while the income from the sale of hogs increased by $29,800,000," the report stated.

Church Built of Witnesses States Forbes

Speaking on the relationship between "Christ and His Church", Sunday night in St. Paul's United Church, Rev. H. Stewart Forbes, Pastor, described the Church as a visible society of which Christ was the Master-builder. It is not a merely human institution; it was founded by Christ, and is composed of His disciples, who though not perfect, were disciples, or "learners" of Him. It was a brotherhood from which other brotherhoods had learned their ethics. It is something that was was being built, and that some day would be perfected, he concluded.

"And I say unto thee that thou are Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church, and the gates of Hades shall not prevail against it."

Mr. Forbes acknowledged that this text had provoked "volumes of controversy." He said that Christ had founded his Church on Peter, because of the confession Peter had made; on Peter as a witness, bearing a triumphant testimony. The promise was for all who truly bore witness to the Christ.

People had wrong ideas about the Church, said the preacher. It was a living body through which Christ expressed Himself. It was not a mere retreat from the world, nor a nursing home where one could be waited on, nor a place where one could sit back and let a minister lug him up to glory. The Church was the salt of the earth, to prevent rotteness, to preserve that was perishing. It was to bear witness. It was to declare the transforming power of the grace of God, that the world might be remade.

The purpose of the Church was to bring men to a sense of God. It was the most valuable asset in city and country. "Think what our city and country would be without the Church, and its witness", Mr. Forbes exclaimed. "Very remarkable is the continued existance and growth of the Church. Not until her work is done will the Church of Christ pass away. 'The gates of death shall not prevail against her'."

He quoted from a radio broadcast: "Nothing could be more tragic than the winning of the war by an unchanged Britain and America."

"But we believe that the Church, founded on a community of witnessing Christians of Christ can and will change not only Britain and America and Canada, but the world,' he concluded.

Montreal Buses Resume Schedules

MONTREAL, Dec. 6 (CP.) — Bus schedules over routes through Montreal's war plant belt were back to normal today after 400 striking drivers and mechanics returned to work on the promise their plea for a "closed shop" agreement would be heard at a Tuesday meeting of union and management officials.

QUAINT MEMORIAL RECALLS DARNLEY

GRAVESEND, England (CP)—In the midst of nearby Cobham park stands Britain's quaintest monument—recalling a peer's lost toe. On that spot 107 years ago the Earl of Darnley became dissatisfied with the way a woodcutter was wielding an axe. The Earl took the axe and lunged at the tree, but the blade struck a glancing blow and when it bounced severed one of his toes.

A few days later the Earl died of blood poisoning from the injury and the monument—a family mausoleum which has never been used—was erected on the spot in his memory.

Giant Russ Furnace in Operation

MOSCOW, Dec. 6 (AP.) — A giant iron furnace, described by the Russians as the biggest in all Europe, went into operations Friday at Magnitogorsk, Soviet industrial centre behind the Urals. The furnace was said to have a capacity of 1400 tons of pig iron a day.

Magnitogorsk is one of the Soviet Union's newest and greatest steel and coal centres, nearly 800 miles East of the present war-front in Russia.

NAPLES HEAVILY SMASHED BY LIBERATORS

Batter 3 Warships, Smash Docks and Rail Yards

"159 ARE DEAD"

LONDON, Dec. 6 (AP)—Liberators, striking in support of embattled allied forces in Tunisia, loosed a restructive daylight assault upon Naples Friday and are reported to have hit a battleship and two cruisers with a deluge of bombs which Rome admitted left heavy damage and casualties in that main Axis supply port for North Africa.

The four-motored B-24 Liberators, which can carry up to 10 tons of explosives, flew across the Mediterranean past the powerful Axis air fleet based on Sicily to carry out their attack at dusk—the first American attack of the war on Italy proper—and every one returned home safely.

The Italians said casualties inflicted included 159 dead and 358 wounded.

King Victor Emmanuel, who has made frequent trips to bomb-damaged areas of Italy to boost morale, was reported by the Rome radio to have arrived in Naples this morning to tour the city and visit the injured.

SPAATZ ARRIVES

U. S. Middle East headquarters in Cairo announced the raid a few hours after it was disclosed that Maj.-Gen. Carl Spaatz, commander in chief of American air forces in the European war, had arrived in North Africa to help British and United States officers cope with the Axis squadrons aiding German and Italian land troops in the bitter struggle for Tunisia.

Cairo reports said that, in addition to the three Italian warships reported hit at Nales, rail yards were smashed and great havoc was wrought among docks where ships were being loaded with Africa-bound Axis supplies.

The casualty figures given by the Rome communique ran higher than those in the first Fascist reports on heavy raids heretofore by the R.A.F. on Northern Italy.

The Liberator raid—the Italians called it short and violent— was the 31st of the war against that port with its great Capo di Chino airdrome, arsenal, torpedo and plane factories and its vital oil facilities.

Lying about 1000 miles from R.A.F. home bases in Britain but only about half that distance from allied held points in North Africa, Naples apparently is to feel more and more the mounting might of the Allies in eht Mediterranean theatre.

The Italian communique broadcast from Rome described the raid as a short, violent one executed by airmen who followed up our planes from Tunisia.

There was heavy damage and numerous casualties among the civilian population," the Italian communique said. "One hundred and fifty-nine are reported dead and 358 wounded.

"One four-engine British lane was hit by anti-aircraft fire and crashed in flames in the Gulf."

Italian civilian buildings also were reported damaged by allied bombs dropped in the neighborhood of Potenza.

Japs Told People Victims of Allied War Plot

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (AP)—Japan marked the eve of the surprise attack on Pearl Harbor by a steady flow of broadcasts today designed to show the Japanese people that their were the innocent victims of a war plot hatched by the United States and Britain.

Foreign Minister Masayuki Tani, in a broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, declared Japan must set herself to the task of the "annihilation of America."

The Foreign Minister declared that "the unreasonable demands of the United States were the direct cause of the current war," and that "the war broke out entirely due to the planned provocation against Japan by America and Britain."

Big U. S. Camp for Japs Placed Under Military Law

MANZANAR, Calif., Dec. 6 (AP)—Ralph P. Merritt, Project Director at the Japanese evacuation centre here, said tonight the camp, housing about 10,000 interned Japs has been placed under military law after violence in which at least one man was severely beaten.

The injured man, said Merritt, is Fred Toyama, leader of the Japanese American Citizens' League. He said another Japanese-American, Tad Ureno, was taken to the Inyo County jail at Independence.

Merritt declared trouble had been brewing for some time between a large number of Japanese who belonged to Kibei—those born in Japan or in the States and educated in Japan — and Japanese-Americans who are pro-American.

One group, said Merritt, attacked the hospital, trying to reach Toyama after he was beaten, but a doctor managed to move him to safety.

Another group, Merritt reported, surrounding the camp police station and demanded that Ureno be brought back to camp, and still a third group forced the Japanese patrol to take refuge in a building, where they barricaded themselves until troops arrived.

"This started to be a celebration of Pearl Harbor by the pro-Axis group among the Japanese," Merritt declared.

$50,000 FIRE STARTED BY CHILDREN

HALIFAX, Dec. 6 (CP)—Children playing about floating oil on the shore near Eastern Passage Saturday started a fire that caused about $50,000 damage in the little community across the harbor from here.

A match tossed on the drift oil touched off flames that leaped a road and destroyed seven dwellings, 10 fish houses, 10 motorboats and a large amount of fishing equipment.

Canadian Flier Takes to Cowboy Tactics

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R. C. A. F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (CP)—When Dick Stone of Winnipeg, a squadron leader in the Canadian Halifax squadron, enters the mess now, fellow pilots greet him with the cry, "ride him, cowboy".

It happened like this. Dick was landing his Halifax rather earlier than expected and looked for a guiding light. Obligingly, a light bobbed up and began to wave encouragingly.

"But the light veered off to the left, then to the right, until it appeared to be dodging all over the 'drome", an officer said. "He had no alternative but to follow it. Then it went out altogether."

A scared member of the ground staff appeared. "S-S-Sorry, sir," he said, "b-b-but I wasn't expecting you"

The mystery was solved in short order. The young man had been given the job of rounding up cows which had strayed on the airfield from a neighboring field.

Two pilots of an R.C.A.F. squadron who shot up a freight train and a gun post in occupied France have been congratulated by the Air Officer commanding their group.

The Spitfire pilots, PO. L. W. Powell of Edmonton and Sgt. Pilot W. H. Tape of Lethbridge, Alta., found a freight train on a siding South of Dieppe and scored hits on the locomotive.

Coming out, Sgt. Tape saw an enemy gun post on the cliff. German soldiers ran to their positions as the aircraft approached and hits were seen as the Canadians opened up with their cannon. Flak didn't touch either aircraft.

Sgt. Frank Doran of Toronto is reported to be the only Canadian airman qualified to wear a bomb disposal badge on his sleeve. A headquarters man, he arrived in Britain 2½ years ago and recently completed a course in Bomb disposal.

Not all photographers would like the job Sgt. Pilot Eddie Thomson of Nanaimo, B.C. has. He's with the R.A.F. and takes snapshots of Nazi land in a single-seater fighter. Wings Abroad, the R.C.A.F. newspaper over here, reported that the "German attitude toward our collecting this type of tourist information doesn't seem to be very enlightened or cooperative."

Some branches of the R.A.F. are changing over from blue to khaki. Army-type battle-dress with an R.A.F. overcoat is the new heavy duty dress. The Air Ministry says the new style is more suitable for some jobs in certain areas. Airmen in khaki have to give up their blue service dress in exchange for battle-dress.

NANAIMO, B. C., Dec. 6 (CP.) — John Stokaluk, Vice-President of District 18, United Mine Workers of America, said here today that he would make no statement at present on his investigation of an alleged slowdown in No. 8 mine here.

He said he would release a statement before leaving Nanaimo for Calgary.

Coast Housing Situation a Serious One

VANCOUVER, Dec. 6 (CP) — "Ten dollars reward for information leading to the renting of five-room house . . ."

So begins an advertisement all too common in Vancouver. Newspapers these days as hundreds of families huddled in basements and former stores, or living in hotels at rates they can ill afford, seek desperately for more suitable lodgings.

An influx of war workers and servicemen's families, coupled with the cessation of home building to conserve vital materials, has created a housing situation so serious that the National Housing Committee is seeking permission from the Federal Government to advertise it in Eastern and Prairie papers.

In addition to warning would be newcomers there is no accommodation here, the Committee is appealing to Vancouver citizens to turn over extra rooms to serviceman's families, war workers and civil servants.

Despite all warnings, soldiers' wives with anything from one to seven or eight children continue to arrive in hopes of being near their husbands. One woman with a batch of youngsters arrived in Vancouver believing she would be near her soldier-husband at Prince Rupert, actually several hundred miles to the North.

The Housing Committee is now preparing an appeal to citizens with extra rooms in hopes that families, many with small children, will be able to leave dank basements or ill-heated shops for more comfortable surroundings.

"Those who wanted to make money renting rooms are already in the business," says Mrs. Gordon Selman, Chairman of the Committee. "All we have left is an appeal to their patriotism."

King Returns to Ottawa

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (CP) — Prime Minister Mackenzie King and President Roosevelt concluded two days of steady conferences in the quiet of the White House when Mr. King left today for Ottawa.

The Prime Minister said he found the conferences profitable and stimulating and admitted that he and the President emphasized post-war problems in their discussions.

In addition to conferring with Mr. Roosevelt, the Prime Minister twice saw Secretary of State Hull, the last time when they paced arm-in-arm along the station platform, a few minutes before departure time.

Trade and financial arrangements between Canada and the States are believed to have been discussed at length, particularly in the light of the diplomatic notes exchanged last week pledging the two countries to freer trade and closer economic collaboration.

Cons. Delegates Pour Into Convention City

WINNIPEG, Dec. 6 (CP.) — Advance groups of delegates to the National Conservative convention on "leadership and policy" here Dec. 9, 10 and 11, were pouring into Winnipeg today in readiness for committee meetings which start tomorrow.

Hotel corridors buzzed with speculation as to who would be chosen party leader, if Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen of Toronto, present national chieftain, offers his resignation to the convention Wednesday, as is expected.

From this speculation two things seemed fairly definite:

1. With rare exceptions, the more than 1000 delegates will come to the convention unpledged as to who they will support for the leadership.

2. Premier John Bracken of Manitoba would be prepared to take the leadership under certain circumstances.

Delegates interviewed said they expected Mr. Meighen would ask the convention to be relieved of the leadership although there was no certainty in the matter. They said Mr. Meighen had declared specifically the convention was being called to consider "leadership and policy" and this left the impression he desired either the appointment of a new leader or an expression of support for his own leadership.

The national leader is expected to arrive tomorrow or Tuesday, but is not expected to make any announcement until he gives his keynote speech at the convention opening Wednesday.

Australia Improves Dairy Prospects

OTTAWA, (CP)—The Commercial Intelligence Journal reports that the Australian Food Council is making an effort to meet the minimum manpower requirements of the Australian dairy industry and ensure production to cover domestic needs and the Commonwealth's contractual obligations to the United Kingdom.

Preliminary figures issued by the Council indicate a slight increase in the number of dairy cows throughout the Commonwealth which, as recorded by the annual census, totalled 3,406,007 for all states in 1940-41.

Figures for 1941-42 are incomplete, but some improvement is shown by the preliminary returns issued by New South Wales, Victoria and Western Australia, while the number of cows recorded by dairy farmers showed a total of 2,313,245 as at July, 1942, as compared with 2,192,919 in July, 1941.

Churchill Predicts Hard Fighting in Africa Campaign

BRADFORD, England, Dec. 6 (AP)—The text, in part, of an address by Prime Minister Churchill yesterday from the steps of the Bradford Town Hall:

We have just passed through the month of November, usually a month of fog and gloom, but on the whole, a month I liked a good deal better than some other months I have seen in the course of this present unpleasantness—a month in which our affairs have prospered, in which our soldiers, sailors and airmen have been victorious, in which our gallant Russian allies have struck redoubtable blows against the common enemy, in which our American Allies and our kin far off in the Pacific from Australia and New Zealand also have seen their efforts crowned with a considerable measure of success.

A great month, this last month of November. But I must tell you, and I know you will not mind me saying it because I do not think it wise to deal in smooth words or airy promises, that you must be on your guard not to let the good fortune which has come to us be anything else but a means of striking harder.

The struggle is approaching its most tense part. The hard core of Nazi resistance and villainy is not yet broken in upon.

We have to gather up all our strength and if, by any chance, unexpected good tidings come to us, that will be a matter which we can rejoice at but which we must not count upon.

We count upon our strong right arm, honest hard-working hearts and our courage, which has not yet been found wanting, either in domestic or foreign stresses during the whole course of this war.

These are simple virtues which our island race has cultured and nurtured during these generations and these are virtues which will bear us through strife and in which we must put our faith.

We have broken into North Africa with our American Allies and now have, in short time, advanced from the Atlantic Ocean almost to the centre of the Mediterranean—a distance of nearly 900 miles.

But there still are 20 miles to go and very hard fighting will take place before that small distance is overcome and the violent military power of the enemy there has been beaten down and driven into the sea.

I do not doubt the result but I cannot lead you to suppose it will be easily achieved.

Away on the other side of North Africa, our armies are advancing, having taken thousands of prisoners, and are driving the enemy before them—but here again hard fighting is to be expected.

But what I have felt during this month . . . has been a feeling of gladness that we who are engaging the enemy closely are not leaving an undue burden to be borne by the Russians who have carried this immense struggle through the whole of this year and a large part of last year.

They are defending their own country and we are defending our own country, but we are all of us defending something which is—I won't say dearer—but greater than country, namely, a cause.

That cause is the cause of freedom and justice. That cause is the cause of the weak against the strong. It is the cause of law against violence, of mercy and tolerance against brutality and iron-bound tyranny.

That is the cause we are fighting for, the cause which is moving slowly and painfully but surely, inevitably, inexorably forward to victory. And when that victory is gained you will find you are in a better world, a world which can be made even more fair, more happy, if only all peoples will join together to do their part and if all classes . . . stand together to reap the fruits of victory as they are standing together to bear and face the terrors and menaces of war.

Our enemies are very powerful. They have many millions of soldiers. They have millions of prisoners whom they, in many cases, use like slaves. They have rich lands which they have conquered. They have large gifted populations in their grip.

They have a theme of their own which is the Nazi theme of tyranny and domination of a race in the shameful idolatry of a single man, a base man elevated almost to the stature of a god by his demented and degraded worshippers.

They have this idea of the suppression of the individual citizen, man and woman, to be mere chattel of the State machine. All this, in our view, is at stake. But our enemies are powerful. They consider they will have the strength to wear us out even if they cannot beat us down.

Their hope is now to prolong the struggle so, perhaps, differences will arise between friends and Allies and so that, perhaps, the democracies they despise and whom they underrate will weary of the war.

All these are their hopes so I say to you here in Bradford what I said when I was last here nearly 30 years ago—"Let us go forward together and put these grave matters to the proof."

Benes Predicts France Will Be Full Ally Again

MANCHESTER, England, Dec. 6 (CP)—Eduard Benes, President of the Czechslovak Government, declared Saturday the Allied war effort has entered its final victorious phase and urged immediate consideration of the terms on which an armistice ultimately may be signed.

Speaking to an audience at Manchester University, Benes predicted that France would "fully re-enter the war on the side of the Allies" and declared "we shall welcome this regenerated France at the Council Table of Europe at the earliest possible moment."

In a discussion of the post-war world Benes said he believed the United States would "agree to abandon her traditional policy of isolation," but only after considerable internal controversy.

He stressed that "Soviet Russia will have to play her full and rightful part in the post-war settlement."

First Winter Storm Damages N. S. Lobster Industry

HALIFAX, Dec. 6 (CP)—A whistling rain and snow storm, the first of the season, pelted Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island last week end to usher out what had been the mildest November in years. Publication of news of the storm had been forbidden until yesterday under censorship regulations.

Biggest sufferers were lobster fishermen along Nova Scotia's South shore who opened the Winter lobster season in conjunction with the storm's arrival. Hundreds of pots set in shallow waters were swept ashore and ground to bits. Two motor boats were sunk at the lower Wedgeport, N.S., breakwater.

Heaviest loss in any single incident came when an R.C.A.F. Catalina flying boat was swept from its moorings in Halifax harbor and dashed ashore. The big aircraft was badly smashed.

All U. S. Battleships Were Sunk in Pearl Harbor Attack

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—The United States Navy, in the first full report of its losses at Pearl Harbor last Dec. 7, revealed Saturday that the surprise Japanese blow sank or damaged every American battleship—eight in all—in the Hawaiian area, 10 other ships and a large floating drydock. (See pictures in Today's News Pictures).

Yet the job of raising and repairing these ships has been rushed at such a successful pace that more than half have rejoined the Fleet and only one, the torpedoed, bombed and burned battleship, Arizona, is accounted a total loss.

The Navy's Pearl Harbor anniversary summary divided the ships hit there in two classes:

Damaged but soon repaired and which rejoined the Fleet "months ago":

Battleships Pennsylvania, Maryland and Tennessee.

Cruisers Helena, Honolulu and Raleigh.

Seaplane tender Curtiss.

Repair ship Vestal.

Sunk or damaged "so severely that they would serve no military purposes for some time":

Battleships Arizona, Oklahoma, California, Nevada and West Virginia.

Destroyers Shaw, Cassin and Downes.

Minelayer Oglala.

Target ship Utah.

A large floating drydock.

A number of these vessels, the Navy said, "are now in full service but certain others, which required extensive machinery and intricate electrical overhauling as well as refloating and hull repairing, are not yet ready for battle action."

Which of these ships are back in service was not disclosed in the Navy summary.

The eight battleships represented almost half the Navy's strength in that category. When the war began, the United States had 7 capital ships. Others since have been added.

Besides ships, losses were given as 80 naval and 97 Army airplanes and the following personnel casualties:

2,117 officers and men of the Navy and Marine Corps killed, 960 missing and 878 wounded who survived. (The Navy lists as dead only those whose bodies are recovered.)

226 Army officers and men killed; 396 wounded "most of whom have now recovered and have returned to duty."

All these losses, the Navy estimated, were inflicted by 105 Japanese planes.

The Navy alone had 202 aircraft on the island and the Army additional numbers, but many were destroyed or disabled on the ground.

The enemy lost 26 planes and three small, two-man submarines. These submarines also took part in the surprise attack but are believed not to have inflicted any damage on the Fleet.

Happily, there were some aspects that were not so bad as they might have been. When the Japanese attacked, there were 86 ships of the Fleet moored in Pearl Harbor. Two task forces were carrying out missions at sea. None of the vessels in Pearl Harbor was an aircraft carrier, and these ships, it has developed, are essential to present-day naval operations.

Losses of cruisers and destroyers were light, and these categories were most needed for the immense convoying job war forced on the Navy.

"Torpedo planes, assisted effectively by dive bombers, constituted the major threat of the first phase of the Japanese attack, lasting approximately a half-hour," the summary said.

"Although the Japanese launched their initial attack as a surprise, battleship ready machine guns opened fire at once and were progressively augmented by the remaining anti-aircraft batteries. Machine-guns brought down two and damaged others of the first wave of torpedo planes."

Along with its statement, the Navy made available to the Press some photographs of damaged ships.

There was one of the California listing and settling, the Navy caption read, "slowly into the mud and muck." A later one showed the California raised.

BODIES WASHED ASHORE OFF NATAL COAST

LONDON, Dec. 6 (CP)—South African dispatches said yesterday that 80 bodies had been washed ashore or picked up by ships off the Natal coast in the area where a German submarine torpedoed the liner Nova Scotia, plunging 700 Italian prisoners into the Shark-infested waters.

The 6796-ton British vessel was enroute from Eritrea to Durban at the time of the sinking. Previous reports said 193 prisoners and other passengers had been rescued by a Portuguese warship.

A Reuters dispatch from Johennesburg said 280 survivors had been picked up from the torpedoed British liner Llandaf Castle, 10,799 tons, leaving few if any unaccounted for among her passengers, made up chiefly of South African soldiers going home on leave.

Coffee and Tea, Oranges to Be Reduced Today

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 6 (CP)—Donald Gordon, Prices Board Chairman, announced Saturday night that reductions in the Price of coffee, tea and oranges—arranged through the Government's new subsidy and tax remission plan—will go into effect Monday, Dec. 7, and that milk price reductions will be effective "well before the end of this month."

He estimated the price reduction for oranges at approximately seven to 10 cents a dozen from the prices charged at the beginning of this month.

His summary of effective dates for the price reductions announced last Thursday by Finance Minister Ilsley was this:—

"On December 7, the retail price of tea must be reduced by at least 10 cents a pound for pound and half pound packages and slightly less for smaller size packages.

"The retail price of coffee must be reduced by at least four cents a pound.

"Prices of oranges must be substantially lower than they were at the beginning of the month.

"The price of milk will be reduced by two cents a quart and this reduction will become effective well before the end of this month on a date to be announced very soon."

Retail prices of oranges must "at once reflect decreased costs to distributors and dealers," brought about by lower prices for the new crops now coming in, by removal of the import duty and by removal of the war exchange tax. But Mr. Gordon said it was not possible to name a specific figure for the price reduction.

However, the board was preparing an order "fixing an authorized profit margin for the wholesaler and retailer." It would be a couple of weeks before the reduced costs were all in effect, but it was anticipated the price drop for medium sized oranges would be about seven to 10 cents a dozen less than at Dec. 1. Mr. Gordon appealed to all Canadians to help the Government with its price control program.

"Canada is fighting the greatest battle ever staged by a democratic country against that arch enemy of the common man—inflation. We must win this battle—we can win it—but in order to win we must have help and understanding from everyone.

"This means simply that buyers and sellers alike must all play the game and carry out the price control regulations."

In the case of tea and coffee, a subsidy would be paid to all persons who had stocks on hand for resale as at close of business Saturday. No one who owned such stocks would suffer monetary loss by complying with the order to cut prices Monday.

All holders of tea and coffee stocks would be provided soon with forms to enter their stock position. These would be transmitted to the Prices Stability Corporation and "the claims will be paid promptly."

Future supplies of tea and coffee would be furnished to retail stores at reduced wholesale prices so the price reductions could be maintained.

Mr. Gordon said he was not able to say precisely when the milk price reduction of two cents a quart would go into effect.

"On the date which will soon be announced the retail price of milk sold for human consumption must be reduced by two cents a quart.

"This two cents per quart reduction will apply to all fluid milk that is sold for human consumption except in a few markets in remote areas where current prices are already much below the general market.

"Distributors of milk will be paid a subsidy of two cents a quart for all fluid milk that is delivered for human consumption.

"The subsidy will not be payable on milk that goes into the production of any other dairy products. The subsidy is not a subsidy to the milk producer or to the milk distributor.

"It is a subsidy to you, the consumers, so that you may obtain your milk at a lower price. Milk is one of the most widely consumed foods and is accordingly one of the chief items in the household budget".

Mr. Gordon reminded Canadians that everyone who buys goods is bound equally with everyone who sells goods by the price ceiling law. It was just as much an offence to offer or to pay more than a lawful price as it was to ask or charge more than a lawful price.

Mr. Ilsley had said Thursday that the payment of subsidies and remission of duties and taxes to bring about the price reductions would cost about $40,000,000 a year.

"This is a large sum said Mr. Gordon, "but not large in the light of the objective, which is to prevent a runaway rise in the cost of living.

"In Great Britain, the rate of subsidy for foodstuffs is in the neighborhood of $600,000,000 a year and in New Zealand a country of only 1,500,000 people, it is $8,000,000 a year. Payment of subsidies to offset unavoidable increases in costs brought about by war conditions is an equitable method of sharing these costs."

"Price control has been of tremendous benefit to every person in this country," Mr. Gordon continued.

"It has prevented a runaway rise in the cost of living which would undoubtedly have resulted from wartime spending and increasing shortages of goods. The plan now announced is a direct attack upon a threatened rise in the over all cost of living, which if allowed to get out of hand will lead to national disaster."

Villeneuve Lends Patronage to Russian Fund

TORONTO, Dec. 6 (CP)—J. S. McLean of Toronto, Chairman of the Canadian Aid to Russia Fund, today made public a letter he had received from Rodrigue Cardinal Villeneuve, Archbishop of Quebec, in which His Eminence said "I am happy to accord my patronage to the campaign in aid of the Russian nation, and also to recommend this campaign to all Canadians."

In joining with Most Rev. D. T. Owen, Primate of the Church of England in Canada, the Rt. Rev. J. P. Sclater, Moderator of the United Church of Canada, and Rev. Donald McLeod, Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, as patrons of the Fund, His Eminence said:

"We cannot but retain our admiration and gratitude for the valor of the Russian people in their valiant resistance to the common enemy. We should, however, continue to protect our land against atheistic Communism, the propagation of which would embroil our people in class struggle and revolution.

"Christian charity naturally inclines our souls to aid them, (the Russian people) in their troubles, to alleviate the misery of all those who suffer as victims of an unjust war . . ."

The Executive of the Fund also announced today that three Canadian labor leaders have accepted appointments tothe National Committee: A. R. Mosher, President of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, and Alfred Charpentier, President of the Federation of Catholic Workers of Canada.

POLAND PREPARES POST WAR BORDERS

LONDON, Dec. 6 (CP Cable)—The Polish National Council, in a resolution on war aims, has called for a frontier with Germany "which should be extended sufficiently toward the West, straightened and shortened."

(A straight frontier Northwest from the Carpathians to the Baltic would give Poland a block of Pomerania and run close to the port of Stettin.)

"In the question of our Eastern frontiers," said the resolution, adopted Wednesday, "the National Council holds to the basis of the Treaty of Riga of 1920."

The resolution declared the fundamental principle of Polish policy is to strive to secure Europe against new German aggression. A large access to the sea is necessary for Poland to maintain her security, it said.

CHRISTMAS CRACKERS

English Housewife "Shops" No More

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, (CP.)—The average Canadian woman would go home crying after a joust with Britain's grocers, greengrocers and butchers. It would not be because of the men or women working in these stores. They are just as courteous as any in the world. But a British food ration book can be remarkably rude.

In the pattern of present-day shopping in Britain there may be an indication of what is to come for Canadian women. If it does, they will look back on the meat famine of 1942 and periodic shortages of canned goods as the palmy days.

The system is simple, because there can be no flitting from one shop to another looking for bargains. A housewife registers her ration books with a certain shopkeeper, and this registration may not be changed unless for an exceptional reason such as moving from a district. There really would be no reason to change from one grocer to another, because staple good are pegged prices.

These prices are posted in long lists in every shop—a system certain organizations of Canadian women have wanted ever since establishment of the Canadian price ceiling in 1941.

TOO MUCH VARIETY

But Canadian women would miss the variety of the choice they have now. Sheer ingenuity is necessary in Britain to keep one meal different from another, or occasionally to keep them coming at all. The ration of one egg per person per week allows practically no baking.

So the system in an average London shopping expedition is this:

A call at the bakeshop for bread and rolls, which are unrationed then on the grocers. You discuss with the grocer how many points you wish to spend (the points system, always fluctuating depending on the supply, discourages or encourages buying of certain goods) then decide upon what you wish to spend the points. Most tinned goods are sold under the points system. You buy the full ration of staples—butter and margarine, sugar, cheese and tea. Coffee is unrationed, but not good.

MEATS AND VEGETABLES

Then on to the butcher, where you buy your full ration of meat, an amount approximately equal to what an average Canadian family would eat in one day. On the way home there is a stop at the greengrocer to buy brussels sprouts at sixpence (about 12 cents) a pound, English apples at one shilling tuppence (about 28 cents) a pound, onions at five pence a pound. Vegetables and fruits are quite expensive, and most of them are available only seasonally.

Striking to the Canadian is the absence of such advertising as: "Shop Here and Save," and so on. This is replaced in most shops by a small notice reading: "Make No Mistake This Time—Register Here."

Thrift, Nutrition Combined in Fish

With so many foods we've been accustomed to becoming harder, if not impossible to get, there was never a better time to do some exploring into the possibilities of our native fish.

More than 60 different kinds of fish and shellfish are put on the market by Canadian fishermen. Delicious and healthful they are also economical considering their nutritive and health value.

Here are simple, wholesome methods of serving any kind of fresh fish.

BAKED WHOLE FISH

Fish weighing 3 to 6 pounds.
Oil or melted fat.
Finely sifted bread crumbs.

Prepare the fish by cutting off head, tail, and fins and splitting it down at the backbone so that it will lie open. Oil a baking pan and place fish in it, skin side down. Sprinkle with salt and bread crumbs. Now sprinkle with oil or melted fat. Place in a hot oven of 500 degrees Add no water. Bake quickly until well browned, allowing 10 minutes per inch thickness of fish. Reduce heat for larger fish towards end of cooking time.

Colorless fried onions may be spread over the fish before the blanket of bread crumbs.

STUFFED OR PLANKED FISH

Use a whole fish, or fillets. Clean fish or wipe fillets with damp cloth wrung out in cold, salted water. Salt lightly and stuff.

DRESSING

2 cups soft bread crumbs, ½ can tomato soup or ½ cup cooked strained tomatoes. 1½ tablespoons melted butter or fat, ½ teaspoon salt, if soup is used, or 1 teaspoon if cooked tomatoes used, ½ teaspoon onion juice, ¼ teaspoon poultry dressing.

Mix together and stuff whole fish, or place stuffing between two fillets. If a plank is used, pre-heat it for 5 minutes at 400 F. Grease the plank or pan, place stuffed fish on it, and sprinkle with oil or melted fat, and bake in a 400 F. oven until fish is cooked. Usually from 8 to 10 minutes per inch thickness of fish is sufficient. Tomatoes and par-boiled onions, both stuffed with buttered bread crumbs and grated cheese, may be placed around the planked fish and bake with it.

SALAD COMBINATIONS

Diced apple, celery, flaked lobster, mayonnaise and lettuce.

Any fish (flaked), celery, dressing, lettuce.

Flaked fish, chopped celery and lettuce.

Sardines, diced beets and potatoes sliced eggs, dressing and lettuce.

MARK'S WIFE

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

Barbara said desperately, as if she were explaining to the whole town, "Ruth, the cook at Stormwold is on her vacation. Why isn't it just nice and natural for me to ask him to come back here for supper tonight?"

"For the same reason that it is wrong for you to go to the golf club alone with him. Of course it's fun and it's nice and it's natural, but you can't take a full page ad in the Clarion and explain to Mrs. Grundy. Even if you could, you couldn't change what she thinks."

Barbara brushed cake crumbs into a neat little pile. She said, "What does Mrs. Grundy think?" as if she didn't know very well what Mrs. Grundy did think. She'd known it all along but she pretended to herself that it couldn't be.

"Everybody knows that Claire Kilcran isn't much of a wife, but until they are divorced, Tom Kilcran, in the eyes of this town, is a married man."

"Of course," Barbara murmured.

"And any man," Ruth went on, "married or single, who sees as much of a young, attractive widow as Kilcran sees of you, doesn't do it unless he is more interested than he should be."

Barbara's face flamed into pink. "I deny it!" she said angrily.

"I knew you do, but I'm afraid your denial isn't going to change public opinion."

The anger went out of Barbara's voice. "But Ruth, darling, when a man's own daughter is part of it. When we're always a threesome or foursome, how can they talk? They don't think Pamela would approve anything like that? Everybody here adores Pamela! They call her the Kilcran Princess."

"Leaving Pamela out of this, let me remind you that the point is to keep it a threesome or foursome. It's when you go over that line, that you're running a risk."

"Ruth, people in this town are all my friends. They know me. They couldn't—"

"Yes, they know you. You're very popular, but my dear, no woman's place is so secure among other women that she can run the risk of scandal. One little thing they can seize upon for proof, and the whole pack will tear you to pieces."

"And you think I'm headed for something like that?"

"Not exactly. No. You've got too much common sense and good judgment. When you see this the way it looks to other people, I expect you'll . . . well . . . you'll know what to do."

Barbara said, "Yes, I'll know what to do."

Ruth said, "If I thought that you and he were in love and that he were going to get a divorce—"

"Divorce!" the younger woman said sharply. She hadn't even imagined Tom free, or what it would mean to her. "I do not believe in divorce."

"That's what I thought," the nurse said calmly. "Well, our little talk seems to be over. I hope you'll forgive me."

"I'm grateful to you, Ruth."

"We'd better get busy and set the table for three if he's coming in a few minutes. No reason to send the man away hungry. He can have supper with us—if you don't mind my company—and go on to his golf later."

Barbara said, "He won't mind, but I'd rather not . . ." she was going to say that she'd rather not see him again until she'd decided what she was going to do, but Ruth was looking at her with an expression of mild surprise, so she said lamely, "I'd rather not eat so early."

Hints for Housewives

By BETSY NEWMAN

When cold weather is here with its colds and coughs, we shoud check our diets to see that we are getting enough Vitamin A. Make it a rule to eat highly colored vegetables, some of them raw, each day. Milk, eggs, butter, meat, potatoes, oranges, prunes all contain this vitamin, and if you feel you aren't getting enough, take liver at least once a week.

TODAY'S MENU

Liver With Sour Cream
Carrot Ring With Peas
Boiled Rice
Apple and Green Pepper Salad
Custard Pie Coffee or Tea

LIVER WITH SOUR CREAM

1½ pounds liver, flour, salt, pepper, 1 cup sour cream.

Have liver sliced one half inch thick, wipe with cloth and remove skin and tubes if this has not been done. Dredge with four seasoned with salt and pepper, and cook in hot, well-greased frying pan about 5 minutes, turning occasionally until well-browned, adding more fat if needed. After meat has browned add sour cream to cover and cook over low heat until cream bubbles. Sprinkle with minced parsley. Serves 6.

CARROT RING

2 pounds carrots, ¼ cup butter, salt and pepper.

Cook carrots, drain and put through meat grinder or mash well. Add butter, salt and pepper to taste, and place in greased one-quart ring mold. Set mold in pan of hot water until ready to serve. Turn out on hot platter and fill center with cooked peas. Serves six.

APPLE AND GREEN PEPPER SALAD

Train Child in Right Diet and in Manners

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

The child at six or 12 is in as much need of a properly selected diet as the child at three or four. Besides, this older child is at the age when he needs to acquire the social graces in order to be comfortable and likeable later. You know what a nuisance a dinner guest may be who has all sorts of food dislikes.

WON'T TRY NEW FOODS

"Dear Dr. Myers:—We have a great problem in our home. Our boy 6 years old was raised from an infant on corn syrup and milk and as he grew older was fed all kinds of strained food and now will not eat the following foods—potatoes, vegetables, meat—and will not taste them to see if he likes them. He wants bread and jelly, pastry, fruit, and milk. He comes to the table and begins to cry when he sees his plate ready and will not touch any of these things. He is very active and sleeps well but must always have some kind of cereal before going to bed. What do you suggest in this case?"

I advised this mother to be very gentle and patient with this child; that she should not expect quick and easy results with him; that she should not tell her child he must eat anything nor serve all the proper foods on his plate at one time. I told her, instead, to let him name one of the foods among those he dislikes and then to place or let him place as little of this food on his plate as he wished, just so the amount were large enough to be visible, saying to him he did not have to eat this but that he could have no other food at this meal unless or until he did.

Then let him have no other food before the next meal, when she would proceed in like fashion. In case he chose to eat this food he should be allowed to eat what he liked for the rest of the meal. Count it a great success if he chooses to eat, after a few days, as much as half a teaspoonful of food he formerly refused entirely.

Very gradually proceed in like fashion to get him to eat other foods he formerly disliked.

Some parents will be wise in not attempting to get a child to eat one or several foods over which he has had violent emotion but provide substitutes containing practically the same food value.

SOLVING PARENT PROBLEMS

Q. No matter how hard I try, I can't get my five-year-old girl to talk. She can say different words but when it comes to forming sentences, one cannot understand what she is saying.

A. Have a specialist check her hearing. Read a great deal to her. Talk slowly and distinctly in her presence. Don't ask her to talk but talk to her about what you are doing with or for her. Being with other children her age should help her.

Food Minister Hears Why Cooking Is Bad

LONDON, (CP.) — A number of correspondents, most of them housewives, have answered the statement of Lord Woolton, Foods minister, that bad cooking is a crime. They say bad cooking in most homes is due to lack of adequate kitchen utensils, which were given away in response to scrap metal drives earlier in the war.

The Too Thin Girl Can't Take It

By IDA JEAN KAIN

The ultra-thin girl is not only out of style for the duration—but for good. They don't want her in a war job because she can't stand the strain. They don't want her to teach school because she hasn't the patience. They don't want her in Hollywood. She has too much temperament and that holds up production and costs money.

Temperament is just a nice name for nerves. We can't afford nerves today, or nervous breakdowns, and being too thin is a risk. If your weight is below normal for your individual structure, you are too thin. Do you weigh less than 106 pounds for the first five feet of height, plus five pounds for each inch over that? With a medium frame, that would be your normal weight.

With very small bones you can weigh as little as 100 pounds for the first five feet but with very heavy bones you should go up to 110 pounds for the basic weight. In any case, allow five pounds for each extra inch of height.

The average girl of five feet, four inches should weigh about 125 pounds and if she registers only 110 pounds she is not as fit as she should be.

If you are below your weight par, put yourself on a program to gain. Food is first. Your three meals—and you must always have three—should be appetising and easily digested and high in both protection and calories.

During the day get a full quart of milk, at least six slices of whole wheat or enriched bread, generously buttered; a liberal serving of a cooked whole grain cereal with rich milk and cream, a cooked green leafy vegetable, a yellow vegetable, a salad, and potatoes. You should also have a serving of meat, fish or fowl, plus an egg and at least two fresh fruits. One of these should either be citrus or tomatoes.

You must build up a habit of eating and the best way to do it is to have your meals regularly. Food must be important to you. Choose your menus carefully, eat regularly, and take your time.

You also need some exercise, plenty of fresh air, and from eight to nine hours' sleep.

Even on such a well-rounded program, you won't gain right away. You have to condition yourself to add curves. But in just a couple of weeks you will begin feeling like a new woman and you won't need any urging to keep up.

Newlyweds . . .

Finds Husband Inconsistent

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We've been married only seven months and my husband is already disgusted with married life. So he tells me, but what I can't understand is that he says he loves me. These two statements don't agree. How can a man say he loves his wife and and then pretend to be bored with marriage?

My husband never did run around a lot, and he still doesn't like to go out much. But every now and then he gets snappy, and says he wishes he'd never married. That hurts me, because I love him very much and there isn't anything I wouldn't do for him.

Please tell me what to do when he gets like that. I don't want to argue with him at such times, because he says I'm nagging. S. M.

I agree with you that a husband who insists he loves his wife and yet wants to break his marriage ties and claims he's bored is inconsistent. Perhaps there is something in your conduct as a wife that gets on his nerves. Are you possessive? Do you think he belongs solely to you?

Are you sweetly coying? Do you hang on him, kiss him when he doesn't want to be kissed, pet him when he wants to read his newspaper? Are you a good cook and housekeeper, or does he have to go to a restaurant when he wants a good meal? If your conscience doesn't answer guilty to any of these things, try a good stiff dose of indifference to him.

Smuggler's Wife in Old Ireland Gives the High Sign

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOMEWHERE IN SOUTH ARMAGH, Northern Ireland, (CP) — There can be anxious nights for the woman of the house when her man is out in the hills running the Eire-Ulster border with tea, or butter, or sugar, or even such things as bicycle cement and lipsticks.

Mrs. Jimmy says so. She knows because her husband—his name is Jimmy only for the sake of this story—makes smuggling trips back and forth almost every day or night, now that wartime rationing and shortages make the business profitable.

"It's not just the man who counts but his woman as well," said Jimmy, interrupting his stories of border smuggling to pat the arm of his wife as she sat beside the open fire in the kitchen of their Armagh farmstead. "Many's the night she sat up waiting—and wondering too, I guess."

GOOD SIGNALLER

"There are times when I'm coming back and I get a light, or sparks up the chimney, or I see clothes have been hung out on the line since I left. Then I know to wait a bit; that the police are stirring," Jimmy says.

If you've ever been out in a South Armagh bog you know why Mrs. Jimmy worries a bit about her husband quite apart from the possibility that Policeman Doherty or some of his pals may be chasing her Jimmy. He knows the footpaths through the hills and the bogs but a step or two off them and sink down deep. A man could disappear there very easily.

Jimmy and Mrs. Jimmy are the most hospitable people in the world. Anything they have belongs to the visitor for the asking. Actually you don't have to ask. They are honest as the day is long. But about smuggling . . . well, on the border the feeling is you might just as well because you'll be suspected anyway. The only thing is—don't get caught.

They live far back in the hills on a tiny farm. Few people from "outside" come their way. If one does people say "I knew he wasn't from around here because he looked respectable."

SHE LIKES TO KNOW

Mrs. Jimmy takes an interest in her 39-year-old hubby's smuggling activities. If he had to detour somewhere on the way home to avoid the police she wants to hear all about it. And Jimmy, a hearty big fellow with laughter lines around his mouth, would sooner sit up all night to tell about it than go to bed.

There's one thing Mrs. Jimmy would like—a kitchen range. But Jimmy, so far, has said no; that they've cooked over the open hearth here for years; that it's best. And over this open hearth Mrs. Jimmy can get together a great meal for a man who's been travelling the bog for half the night and is cold and tired.

"After all," she said, "a man needs it—he's fair jaded after some of these trips."

Wartime Hints . . .

Laundering Tips Save Clothes

By ISABEL ALLAN

CHEESE DAINTIES—Have you got a pair of scissors handy? Clip this out for your recipe folder as a sugar saver . . . It comes from Laura Pepper, Chief of Consumer Section of the Department of Agriculture. Take 1¼ cups sifted cake flour, one-quarter of a pound of cream cheese, one-quarter of a cup of sugar and one tablespoon caraway seeds (optional). Sift flour and salt together. Cream shortening and cheese and blend in sugar. Gradually stir in flour. Shape in two-inch rolls, wrap in wax paper and chill thoroughly in refrigerator. Slice thinly. Sprinkle lightly with caraway seeds and bake at 400 degrees Fahrenheit for about six minutes.

LAUNDERING—Here are a few hints for the busy wife who wants to save her family's clothes and her linen by washing them herself. Bring your clothes in immediately they are dry. Experiment has shown that sunlight can be injurious to them . . . If ou live in a manufacturing centre hang your clothes indoors during the cold season. The sulphur doxide in the smoky air combines with the cold air to form sulphuric acid when absorbed by the wet clothes. This is harmful to the fabric when it is ironed.

GLOVES—Like everything else these days, you need to select your gloves carefull. You may have to wear them a long time. Remember these tips from those who know when you buy your next pair. Make sure they fit, small gloves are a poor buy. Your right hand is usually larger than your left . . . Never rely on being fitted to a former glove size. Glove sizes like shoes vary according to the company that makes them. The finger ends of cloth gloves won't wear out so quickly if you place a small piece of tissue paper in the very end to protect the fabric from your finger nails.

STOCKINGS—New Zealand girls suffered a stocking shortage before Canadians did and here is one method they use to conserve theirs . . . They rub a candle over the inside of the heel of a new pair of silk stockings. It won't interfere with the washing of your stockings and it will put off the day when a hole appears.

MAKE CHANGE IN NURSES' UNIFORMS

In London hospitals a revolution in nurses' uniforms is taking place. The traditional starched collars, cuffs, belts and caps are to be replaced by short-sleeved one-piece dresses with soft turn-down collars. These changes will affect economies in material and laundering which will be welcomed by these English nurses.

Cod Liver Oil as a Lotion

Fishermen have long recognized that cod liver oil sooths and heals wounds, frostbites and skin lesions, notes the New York Times. It was not until 1934, however, that cod liver oil began to be used externally in modern medicine. In that year a German physician named Lohr published the results of his clinical experiments. In 1936 two Russian doctors reported that they had used a cod liver oil ointment in 263 cases of various wounds and burns with dramatic recoveries.

Now comes Dr. R. H. Aldrich of the Harvard Medical School with the results of an eight-year study of a 70 per cent cod liver oil ointment in treating wounds and burns. He finds cod liver oil, as a wound dressing, safe and as effective as the sulfa compounds.

The experience of the British air force has shown that face burns present a difficult problem. The skin of the face is extremely thin and contains more sweat glands and hair openings than other parts of the body. Because of the nose and mouth, face wounds are liable to become easily infected. Dr. Aldrich's results with cod liver oil were better than those obtained by scab-formers such as tannic acid, which are uncomfortable and provide an ideal scaffolding for infection.

Churchill to Italy

Prime Minister Churchill's warning to the people of Italy is more than mere scare talk. It is obviously the beginning of a major psychological offensive, directed at a particularly weak point in the Axis armor. A continued campaign of this kind can have important effects.

The news of United Nations successes in North Africa cannot be kept from the people of Italy. The more they hear of them, the greater will be their anxiety, for they will realize the immense possibilities for an air offensive across the narrow reaches of the Mediterranean. Mr. Churchill's words serve to let them know that we are going to use our opportunities for destruction to the full.

It is a horrible picture which he sketches for these people, who are already wavering in their zeal for the Axis cause. He threatens a ruthless campaign of demolition and death. It is not nice to contemplate, but it is according to pattern of this war, a pattern drawn by the Nazis) which we must resolve to follow. Let us once get complete control of North Africa, and we can wreak terrible damage on Italy, and this we are prepared to do. What is more, the Italians know that we can do it.

This first warning will not bring about the demands for a separate peace from the Italian people at which Mr. Churchill aims, even if it manages to reach any large proportion of that population. But it will be repeated again and again, and it will be backed up with action which will speak even more plainly than the Prime Minister's words.

Added to all the other worries badgering Hitler, there will now be the threat of Italian defection, which, spineless though the support has been that he has received from that quarter, will constitute a major blow to his plans, and a further breach in his armor.

Today's Horoscope

If your birthday is today, you are strong-willed, keen-witted and intuitive. You mingle with people easily, have excellent manners, poise and a warm, sunny disposition. You are energetic and capable, and also immovable once you have reached a decision. Mixed influences prevail in the next year. Gain under unusual circumstances and through the military, art, music or literature is prognosticated, also a sudden upheaval, loss or separation. An independent spirit will be displayed by the child who is born on this date, positive, determined, but restless, erratic and despondent if compelled to stay in a groove. Freedom of action will ensure success.

Wall Street Marks Up Securities of Allies

(New York Herald-Tribune)

We know how the experts feel about the progress of the war, and we know how those nonexperts feel about it who are always ready to give their views on anything, so long as it costs them nothing. But how do those persons feel about the situation who not only have opinions but are ready to back those opinions with money?

The place to find this out, of course, is in Wall Street. This is not to say that Wall Street "makes book" on the war as it is in the habit of doing on major sports events. But in Wall Street securities are bought and sold eery day whose values depend directly on (1) which side seems to be winning the war and (2) how soon the war may be expected to be over. It may be said, therefore, that the course of the prices of these securities represents the combined judgment of the investors of the United States.

This index of financial opinion is not to be found in the stock market, where too many cross-currents are present, but in the market for the dollar bonds of our allies and of Axis-occupied countries. This is one market free at present of nearly all considerations except that of the war's progress, and which, therefore, represents a genuine barometer of financial public opinion. And a glance at the performance of this market shows how events of recent weeks have shifted the "betting odds" from the Axis toward the United Nations.

For example, earlier in the year, when the invasion of Australia was regarded as an imminent probability, Australian 5 per cent bonds sold as low as 38. These obligations closed last week at 74, an increase of nearly 100 per cent. Or, take the 5 per cent bonds of the kingdom of Denmark. Not many weeks ago they were quoted at 29 cents on the dollar; last week they had risen to 57½, or nearly double their low price. Greek 6s still are quoted at only a little more than 14, but at one time their value had been written down almost to 6 cents on the dollar. They are still rising. Polish bonds have, roughly, doubled in value, and City of Oslo, Norway, 4½ per cent issue has soared to within a fraction of 70 after falling at one time as low as 27½.

These quotations, it will be seen, represent an extraordinary reappraisal of the war's outlook since the days before Guadalcanal and the Allied invasion of North Africa. And, as ponited out earlier, this does not represent either wishful thinking or a position that is lightly assumed. It is the considered opinion, not of a few but of the entre investment community and it is backed with hard American dollars.

Who Are They?

(Thomas Cook Brown in Buffalo Courier Express)

If anyone asks the identity of the fighting Allies who held tenaciously to the Eastern end of that African front for two discouraging years, all we can say is this: They are troops of what mysterious "other United Nations" which landed something like 150,000 men in North Africa almost simultaneously with our own better publicized landing. They are merely the fellows who fought the Axis alone before Hitler decided to attack Russia, and Japan ventured to attack us. They are merely the fellows who deflated the purported genius, Rommel, and demolished his supposedly invincible army.

How we would cheer those fellows if they were Russian—or even Frenchmen who had changed their uniforms a couple of times like Darlan! But they are only Britons; so we can continue to slight them, to insult them, to minimize their victories (except when we can take credit for them) and to magnify their defeats. They don't care about that. All they care about is winning this war.

Press Comment

JUST ONE MORE GALLON

Eastern motorists who are complaining about losing that fourth gallon of gasoline on each ration coupon might feel better after considering the feeling of men on the fighting fronts as they hear the sputter of a gasless motor. There is the case of Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and his companions who undoubtedly wished for just one more gallon. What civilian motorist wouldn't gladly have given up his whole ration book if it would have helped these men to reach their destination?

Maj. Ben S. Irvin, home on furlough at Washington, Ga., tells of flying with other officers over the wastes of Borneo with the gas gauge sinking fast. "For a while we thought we were goners," he relates, "but finally we identified a river in the jungle and found our way to an airport with only about ten minutes fuel supply left." So far, demands at home have not forced any plane to go out without a full tank. But today full tanks over Africa may require empty tanks in America.

If Eastern motorists, by temporarily giving up one gallon each gass coupon, can release enough tanker space (which is the real shortage) so that the boys who really need it can have the one more gallon required to bring them safely back, they may well feel a glow of satisfaction that comes from giving where it is needed.—Christian Science Monitor.

GENERAL ODLUM IS RIGHT

Major-General Victor Odlum has expressed some sensible sentiments in Toronto. Canada cannot effectively help to win the war by keeping scores of thousands fo soldiers in Canada. The United Nations will not really be in sight of winning the war until the armies now poised in Britain and elsewhere are able to strike right at the heart of Germany.

The best defence of the whole Pacific area, including the coastal region here, is a dynamic defence such as suggested by General Odlum. That is one where the available troops are used to fight the Japs, not to wait for the Japs to come and attack them.—Vancouver News-Herald.

Toronto Hurricanes Beat Winnipeg Bombers 8-5 for Dominion Title

BY FRASER MACDONGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Dec. 6 (CP)—The R.C.A.F. Hurricanes from Toronto became the first service team to win the annual East-West football game when they defeated Winnipeg's R.C.A.F. Bombers 8-5 Saturday in a thrill-packed battle for the Grey cup and Dominion title.

Hurricanes, adding the Canadian crown to their Eastern Canada title and the Ontario Rugby Football Union Championship, overcame the threatening forward passing attack of the Western Canada Champions with a superior plunging and rushing offensive which carried them through to victory.

It was the fourth time that the Toronto coach, Fo. Lew Hayman, had led a team into the East-West game, and it was the fourth time that a Hayman-coached squad emeged victorious. He had coached Toronto Argonauts to the title in 1933, 1937 and 1938.

The Toronto win broke the Winnipeg hold on the Grey cup which the Bombers took West in 1939. There was no East-West game in 1940 but in 1941 the Bombers came East again and once more took the coveted trophy home.

Hurricanes took a 3-0 lead in the first half, relinquished that early in the second when the Winnipeg team—made up of civilian, air force, army and navy players—staged a 55-yard forward-passing march to a touchdown and then went on to victory by virtue of two great plunges by Ac2. Don Crowe, one of which produced a touchdown and the other a single point.

Flt. Lt. Eddie Thompson made possible the Hurricane's two single points in the first half when he intercepted a pass on his own two-yard line and ran 64 yards down the field before being forced into touch by Mel Wilson. His brilliant run came when it seemed almost certain that the bombers would tally an early touchdown. Ac2. Rube Ludwig had recovered a Toronto fumble 12 yards from the goal line to give the Westerners their chance.

McSpaden Wins First Money in Miami Golf

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 6 (AP.)—Harold McSpaden of Philadelphia put on the pressure under fire today to card a triumphant last-round 66 and snatch the biggest golf prize of the Winter—the $1000 first money in the Miami open tournament.

His 72-hole total of 272—three strokes higher than Byron Nelson's winning score last year gave him a four-stroke edge over Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., the half way point leader.

Revoltar, playing in the threesome with McSpaden, who holds the Canadian open title, pulled even on the sixth hole today, the 60th of the tournament, but couldn't hold the pace and finished at 35-33—68 for 276.

The youthful Bob Hamilton, professional at Evansville, Ind., municipal course and virtually unknown to Winter event galleries, had his second 67 of the tournament today and took third place. His 277 was a stroke better than the scores of E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Little Rock, Ark., and Herman Barron of White Plains, N. Y., tied for fourth.

Revolta picked up $700 of the $8000 prize money—all paid in war bonds—while Hamilton took away $500 and Harrison and Barron got $350 each.

Willkie Turness, United States amateur champion of 1938, came back today with a two-under-par 69 to card a total 281 and pace the amateur contingent.

Lots of Pucks Getting by N.H.L. Goalies

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The National Hockey League netminder who wins the Georges Vezina trophy this season is not going to write home about the achievement.

In 16 years of competition for the trophy awarded annually to the goal keeper with the lowest goals against record during the regular season, only three backstops who won the honor have allowed more than 100 goals in a single campaign. The highest total over that stretch was recorded against Frank Brimsek of Boston Bruins last year when 118 pucks filtered by the man Art Ross regards as the greatest in the game.

It's early to say so but it seems safe to predict that Brimsek's total will be exceeded by the 1942-43 trophy winner when the final reckoning comes next Spring. So far 276 goals have been scored in 37 league games.

Using that as a yardstick, it's less than a remote possibility that more than 1100 may be tallied before the full schedule of 150 games is played. That total would compare with 1047 counted last year when Brooklyn Americans were still in the League.

GARDINER BEST

Bert Gardiner of Chicago Hawks owns the best record so far this season with 36 against in 12 games but even at that his season's record will be something like 140 if he maintined his present gait. Three goalies have allowed 39 goals, Johnny Mowers of Detroit Red Wings, Turk Broda of Toronto Leafs, and Brimsek. Paul Bibeault of Canadiens shows a record of 54 against while Steve Buzinski has yielded 55 and Jimmy Franks 14 for a cumulative total of 69 against Rangers.

Lethbridge Bombers Edge Out Calgary Mustangs

CALGARY, Dec. 6 (CP)— Mike Badyk, former Saskatoon Wesley net-minder, was the star when Lethbridge Bombers defeated Calgary Mustangs 3-2 in an Alberta Service Senior Hockey League game here Saturday night. It was Bombers first League victory of the season and Mustangs' first defeat.

With Mustangs one goal down during the last 10 minutes, Coach Tiny Thompson ordered all but his netminder up to the attack and while they carried play right to the goal mouth time and again during a veritable bombardment, Badyk proved unbeatable.

Garth Boesch, Doug French and Alex Pringle were the goal scorers for Lethbridge, while Johnny Chad and (Red) Hunter were the marksmen for Calgary.

TORONTO (CP) — Among the players participating in this year's British Columbia Mainland Hockey League as members of the Army team are Hec Highton and Ken Hague formerly with the Tulsa Oilers; Bus Zobrosky of the Kimberley Dynamiters; Wally Klyne formerly of Moose Jaw Millers; and Shorty Coombs of Minneapolis.

Leafs Blast Canadiens 9-1 for Sixth Win in Seven Home Starts

TORONTO, Dec. 6 (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs recorded their sixth victory in seven home starts Saturday by smothering Montreal Canadiens 9-1 before 10,671 fans to move into third place in the National Hockey League standings ahead of Boston Bruins.

Leafs took a 3-0 lead entering the final period and then fired six shots behind Goalie Paul Bibeault for an easy triumph. Dutch Hiller converted Rookie Maurice Richard's passout for Montreal's lone counter.

Two of Toronto's big guns—Sylvanus Apps and Sweeney Schriner—missed the game because of injuries suffered Thursday in Montreal when Canadiens won 4-2, but Gaye Stewart, Jack McLean, Billy Taylor and Lorne Carr took full charge of the offensive as Leafs tallied 23 scoring points compared with two for Canadiens.

Stewart counted two goals to stretch his season's sniping yield to 11 for a one-goal edge in that department over Schriner and Apps. Taylor and Carr each tallied once and drew three assists, while McLean was credited with two goals and one assist.

The other Toronto goals were counted by Norman (Bud) Poile, Mel Hill and Walter (Babe) Pratt. It was Pratt's first appearance in a Toronto uniform since his acquisition from New York Rangers, last week.

Thirteen penalties were handed out in a wild first period, including two majors and a misconduct.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (AP)—There isn't much point in criticizing the New York State Athletic Commission, as that August body has been worked over pretty thoroughly by expert critics, but its handling of the lightweight title situation was nothing less than noteworthy . . . Looks as if the Commissioners might have decided they won't be in office after the new Administration takes over and wanted to leave at least one good headache for their successors . . . or maybe they were reminded that keeping the "titles" under their control is one way of keeping the big gates here and thus providing more tax money for the State . . . at any rate, you can expect Beau Jack or Tippy Larkin to trip over his long, gray beard some day when he's told that the 13-man elimination finally has ended and he's due to defend his championship against the survivor.

SALLY'S SALLIES

Contract . . . By Shepard Barclay

BE A REAL "COMPETER"

A COMPETITOR is supposed to be anyone who takes part in a competition. But there is a big difference between those who only participate and those who do some real competing. Some of the players are merely in there trying to play as nice a game as they can, trying to bid as accurately as possible, trying to take as many tricks as they can in the play. The attitude of some others is entirely different. Their prime thought is that they are trying to beat the other entrants. They are "competers," ever ready to double your bid when you get too high.

North: ♠ 7 ♥ J 9 5 2 ♦ J 9 8 5 ♣ Q J 4 2

West: ♠ K 8 6 ♥ K Q 6 3 ♦ 4 2 ♣ A 7 6 5

East: ♠ A 10 ♥ 8 7 4 ♦ A K Q 7 3 ♣ K 9 3

South: ♠ Q J 9 5 4 3 2 ♥ A 10 ♦ 10 6 ♣ 10 8

(Dealer East. North-South vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♦	2 ♠	Dbl

Everybody in this rubber bridge game knew South as a player who uses that kind of a jump overcall as a "barrier bid," indicating a long suit in a weak hand and intended to crowd the opponents, possibly keep them out of their best contract.

Knowing that, West felt that 2-No Trumps should be easy for his side to make. But he also took account of South's being vulnerable and saw that setting him two tricks doubled would produce points worth more than a not-vulnerable game. Realizing from his partner's opener that South could hardly take any tricks in the side suits, he doubled.

Two diamond tricks, the ruff of a third by South with the spade 9 and over-ruff by the K, the club 5 to the K and return of the diamond A brought a high ruff from South with the spade J. That play made it certain East would get two trump tricks with his A and 10, as South could not get into the dummy to lead through them. Besides these three tricks with their trumps, the defenders got two tricks each in the minors and one in hearts, eight all told, setting South three tricks for 800 points, practically twice the value of the No Trump game they could have made playing the hand themselves.

India with her present output of finished steel at the rate of about 1½ million tons yearly, and the prospect of an early increase of that rate to two million tons, will now be virtually independent of all steel imports for her manufacture of machine tools, munitions and armaments. All railway equipment, too, is now being made in the country.

Canadian Trade With India Grows With War

Written for The Canadian Press
By Sir Atul Chandra Chatterjee

LONDON (CP)—The trade between the Dominion of Canada and the Indian Empire which was slowly growing in value and volume in the years before the war has received a phenomenal impetus in the first three years of the war.

During the four years immediately prior to the outbreak, imports from India into Canada exceeded in value 20,000,000 rupees, or roughly $7,000,000, while Canada's exports to India amounted to about half that sum. The reason for this disparity is simple.

The two largest single items of Canada's imports from India consisted of jute manufactures and tea, goods in which India has comparatively few competitors. Other articles imported from India were of a miscellaneous character, such as woollen rugs and carpets, peanuts and other seeds, raw jute, spices and cleaned rice.

Canada on the other hand had only one major class of goods for export to India, namely motor vehicles and parts, and in these she had a very powerful competitor in her neighbor, the United States. There was also a variable but minor trade from Canada in paper and paste board, machinery, provisions, chemicals and metals.

Since the beginning of the war, for obvious reasons, Canada has very greatly developed her imports of Indian tea and jute manufactures. Her consumption of other Indian goods has also expanded rapidly.

Similarly India now imports very large quantities of paper (mainly newsprint), metals, and so on, and the value of motor vehicles and parts sent from Canada to India is also much greater than it was before the war. As a result the value of the trade became practically equal on both sides and the total value of imports and exports between the two countries was in the year 1941-42 more than four times as large as it used to be during the years immediately preceding the war.

It is earnestly to be hoped that after the war, this trade will be stabilized and lead to a further expansion of the commercial relations between India and Canada. For these two components of the British Empire do not compete with one another in any important class of products. Jute is virtually a monopoly of India and the country in the vicinity of Calcutta enjoys special facilities for the manufacture of jute goods. Tea comes down to the seaboard of India mainly by water transport and the transit charges are consequently kept down to the minimum.

Most of the other articles exported from India to Canada are either food products, such as rice, coffee, nuts and spices, or other raw materials which cannot be grown in Canada. On the other hand, India is not likely to be able for very many years to come to supply from her own factories the rapidly increasing number of motor vehicles and parts needed for her expanding internal transport.

LABOR NOT NEEDED IN COAST YARDS

OTTAWA, Dec. 6 (CP)—The Labor Department in a statement issued yesterday said men who are leaving the Prairie Provinces to obtain work in shipyards on the West Coast are likely to be disappointed.

Reports reaching the Department indicated there was a movement of labor from the Prairie Provinces to the Coast.

"Information from the Pacific Coast indicates there is no demand for labor in the shipyards at present," the statement said. "There is a demand for experienced miners in the mines on Vancouver Island, but, for the time being at least, there are no opportunities in the shipyards."

FIVE PERMITS IN DECEMBER TO DATE

The City Engineer issued five building permits during the first week of December, authorizing construction at an estimated cost of $688.

The largest permit was issued to R. A. Peebles to construct ceiling over workshop, Front Street, at an estimated cost of $350.

Other permits were issued to:

Clifford Smith to cement floor and shingle side walls of house, Robson Street, $175.

A. S. Read to excavate part of basement and install two new posts, 904 Third Street, $25.

T. H. Waters & Co. Ltd., to shingle portion of roof, Elwyn Street, $38.

M. M. Abey to reshingle home, 806 Vernon Street, $100.

By the recognition of native trade unions by the Government of South Africa, the right of collective bargaining will now be extended to the natives, who represent between 80 per cent and 90 per cent of South Africa's unskilled labor.

Market Trends . . .

NEW YORK.—The cloudier battle picture in North Africa tended to depress recently buoyant peace stocks but, conversely, failed to touch off any real buying of the market's war issues. Minor losses were a shade in the majority near the close.

TORONTO—Stocks closed irregularly lower on the Toronto Stock Exchange today after a featureless session with gold issues easier and industrials uneven. Oils and base metals also moved uncertainly.

MONTREAL—Prices were firm narrowly irregular near the close.

VANCOUVER—Mines closed firmer with Pend Oreille edging up 8 points to 1.10 and Sheep Creek up 4 at 85.

WINNIPEG—Usual Saturday dullness prevailed. Wheat prices closed unchanged, December at 90 cents a bushel and May at 93⅝.

A large local buyer made scattered purchases in oats and barley futureless.

Per Capita Cost of War Lower Than Last War

Average interest per capita on the debt of the Dominion of Canada for the year ended March 31, 1942, was $13.25. This compares with $15.88 per capita in 1921. Commenting on these figures the "Quarterly Canadian Review" published by the New York Office of Dominion Securities Corporation, emphasizes that cost of financing the present war expenditure has been much less on a per capita basis than in the case of the last war.

The review states that war finance in Canada today is in striking contrast with the methods utilized during the First World War. Between 1914 and 1918, almost the entire cost of the war was borne through borrowing. In order to successfully market the necessary bonds, the Dominion found it necessary to offer the public 5 per cent and 5½ per cent coupons, in many instances tax free.

In distinct contrast to these high interest rates, money rates since 1939 have been maintained at or near the 3 per cent level with the result that current war and victory loans are far less costly.

Two prime factors conclusively prove that Canada has the ability to provide for the money which is required to successfully carry on the war, says the Review. In the first place, her vast natural resources are being utilized at a rate which was actually undreamed of in 1939. In the second place, the Canadian people have the willingness and determination to do the job. Even after making allowances for greatly increased taxes, the disposable income in the hands of the Canadian people this year is definitely greater than in the preceding year.

Bayonne Options Scheelite Claims, Rossland

Claims optioned by Bayonne Consolidated Mines Ltd., about three miles northwest of Rossland, carry scheelite in conspicuous amounts, according to a report by Dr. Victor Dolmadge, Consulting Engineer. On recommendation of Dr. Dolmadge Bayonne Consolidated will proceed as soon as possible with the driving of a tunnel to explore the scheelite deposit. The contour of the ground lends itself to obtaining backs quickly.

The property, known as "Blue Eyes Mineral Claims," are located on a small shoulder of Record Mountain and the discovery was made recently by Pete Radich and Anthony Profili of Rossland.

In his report Dr. Dolmadge described the ore occurrence as follows:

"The mountain on which the claims are situated is composed of alkali granite which is cut by a vast number of pure white quartz veins. These strike westerly and dip nearly vertically and vary in width from a small fraction of an inch up to three feet. In places they are so closely spaced that they constitute fifty per cent or more of the total rock mass. Many of the veins carry scheelite in conspicuous amounts."

Dr. Dolmadge said he "was impressed with the number of veins and the amount of scheelite in some of them, and in places the amount of scheelite in the granite. The purity of the quartz veins is also a remarkable feature. Not a grain of metallic sulphide was seen, except a few specks of molybdenite in one vein. This is important metallurgically, since it enables a very pure concentrate to be easily made."

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—A freight car load of 15 tons of tin cans—consigned from the Canadian Ordnance Corps Training Centre at nearby Barriefield to a Toronto metals company—has just been shipped from Kingston, the forerunner of many similar shipments. The cans, salvaged from the ordnance centre by Army personnel, will provide metal to make armor plate tough enough to withstand shrapnel and deflect shells.

First of Fast Ball Pitchers Dies

SEATTLE, Dec. 6 (AP.) — Amos Rusie, 71, one of early-day baseball's big time pitchers who hurled the New York Giants to a world championship in 1894, died at a hospital today.

Rusie was one of the first of the fast ball pitchers. Some sports writers have claimed the rules makers moved the pitcher's box back five feet, because of his blazing speed. He was among the ranks of Pop Anson, Mike Kelly, Dan Brouthers, and other early-day baseball immortals.

Plans to encourage a broader international outlook in teachers are being prepared by the British Board of Education, with the help of Mr. Winant and Mr. Maisky. There are special courses designed to make way for better appreciation of the industrial, political and cultural life of the Allies.

Interpreting

The War News

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

There were a few flaming, breathless moments just a year ago today in which the Japanese might have won the war in the Pacific. They could have captured half or more of the American Pacific fleet, the main fleet base and the most strategic position held in all those waters.

Employing full striking power to take advantage of that initial gain, they could have swept on to the virtually unprotected West coast, to Alaska and to the Panama Canal. Unready as we were for war, they could have deprived us of any place from which even to begin to fight in the Pacific. From such disadvantages it is hard to imagine how the United States could have fought back to full victory.

Japan's almost unbelievable opportunity—born of treachery and a combination of strategy and circumstances such as history but rarely produces—came in the hour or so after the air raid on Pearl Harbor.

With publication by the navy of the final report of the havoc wrought by the Nipponese bombers, it now becomes entirely clear that the defences of Hawaii were at the point of helplessness.

Both the army and navy had lost their air power. The backbone of the fleet on which the defences depended had been crippled. Organization of the second line of defence, on the beaches, must have been, at the outset, halting and confused. For confusion and uncertainty were characteristic of the defensive moves of the Hawaiian command that day, as witness the fact that such of the Pacific fleet ships as were at sea or managed to get there failed to find the enemy carrier forces which launched the air attack.

It was Japan's error and America's great good fortune that Japanese strategy was designed to produce a result other than the conquest of Hawaii. All the Japs seem to have desired was to cripple the Pacific fleet and its operating base so badly that they would have no interference with the campaign in the China Sea.

During the months immediately following Pearl Harbor it actually seemed they had succeeded in accomplishing that result. From the perspective of this first anniversary of the war's beginning, however, it appears that such was not the case.

The fact on which military and naval men generally agree is that the Philippines, Hong Kong, Malaya, Singapore and the Netherlands East Indies would have fallen anyway. The old, slow battleships knocked out at Pearl Harbor would have been unable to deliver supplies and reinforcements to the beleaguered Allied armies in those distant places because the Japanese had control of the air. The fate of the China Sea bastions was settled when the American air force in the Philippines was destroyed soon after the attack at Honolulu.

Thus in a military sense the greatest advantage the Japanese gained at Pearl Harbor was to deprive America of the services of hundreds of trained officers and men whose heroic deaths were the real tragedy and the great loss of that infamous assault.

In a political sense the Japs actually defeated their own purposes. Up to the moment that the White House announced the attack that fateful Sunday afternoon 12 months ago this had been a divided nation, reluctant to plunge into war, uncertain of its fate in the chaos of world conflict. Almost in an instant news of the outrage angered and unified this nation.
