Report Jap Forces on Rangoon Ships For India Invasion

Britain Sends Reinforcements to Ceylon; U.S. Bombers in India Smash Hard at Rangoon; Start Big Fires

By DREW MIDDLETON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 8 (AP)—The British Government sent reinforcements to Ceylon and strove to clean up any remaining Vichy-French resistance on Madagascar today as the urgency of controlling the Indian Ocean was stressed by reports that Japanese invasion forces already were aboard ship in Rangoon, ready to attack India.

Burma, scene of one of the most stubborn delaying actions of the war, was almost completely overrun by the Japanese for strategic considerations.

Military sources acknowledged the Japs probably had taken the West Burma port of Akyab, 300 air miles from Calcutta, but said they had no confirmation of a German broadcast assertion that the Japanese had already crossed the border into India. It was conceded that Japanese patrols may have entered India for propaganda purposes but the informants held to the belief that any Japanese invasion of th treasure-house of India would come from the sea, with Akyab and its airfields as the base of heavy preparatory air attacks on the Ganges Basin.

Aligned with this view was the announcement that Major General Lewis Brereton's United States army bombers from India raided Rangoon again today for their third attack in four days. The bombers defied storms and waves of Japanese fighters in setting big fires.

Informants said the Japanese had been concentrating much more than a holding force at Rangoon and this was the reason bombers had raided the port so often.

While British land forces in Burma continued to move up the Chindwin River viley to the Northeast, it was announced here that the island of Ceylon, off India's Southeast tip had been newly reinforced with troops from Northern Rhodesia, Kenya, Uganda, Nyasaland and Zanzibar. They are veterans of the conquest of Ethiopia. Their numbers were not disclosed.

On Madagascar, where a strong British force took the naval base and port of Diego Suarez on Thursday there was no definite word on the extent of any remaining French resistance.

It was apparent the British force would not rest, however, with control of the big Diego Suarez naval base, but would make other landings or inland drives to obtain French air bases farther South unless the entire French defence force came to terms.

CHURCHILL TO SPEAK SUNDAY AT NOON

NEW YORK, May 8 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill will broadcast a speech Sunday at noon P.D.T., according to a British Broadcasting announcement heard today by CBS.

Says New Order Conscripts Longshoremen

OTTAWA, May 8 (CP) — Conservative House Leader Hanson precipitated a heated debate in the House of Commons today when he described a recent order in council establishing a controller of Halifax longshoremen's activities as "conscription" of labor.

He declared that the powers given the new controller of longshoremen, Vincent C. Macdonald, dean of the Dalhousie Law School in Halifax, made him in effect a "czar."

But Labor Minister Mitchell said it had been considered necessary to ensure the rapid handling of vital war shipping in Halifax and that the move was taken only after consulting longshoremen and shipowners.

Munitions Minister Howe said the order had a degree of compulsion in it but men became longshoremen by choice and were subjective to the compulsion only if they entered into that work.

Mr. Howe, replying to the Conservative House Leader, said he was "astonished at a gentleman who has been demanding conscription—and immediate conscription—but objects so seriously to an arrangement that has a certain degree of compulsion as applied to longshoremen at Halifax."

Mr. Mitchell said the regulations in the new order, which provide a system under which longshoremen will work in gangs and be hired only as gangs, was obligatory in compulsory clauses on shipowners as well as longshoremen.

London, Ont., Baby Kidnapped From Carriage on Street

LONDON, Ont., May 8 (CP.)—Barbara Ann Wood, seven-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tarry Wood, was kidnapped today from her carriage on King Street in downtown London.

An intensive search by every available detective and constable on the city police force got under way soon after the child was boldly lifted from her carriage in the presence of hundreds of shoppers but so far no clue has been uncovered.

The distracted mother joined in the city-wide hunt in a police cruiser and the father also aided police in the search.

Mrs. Wood said no threats had been made against the family and she knew of no enemies who might have taken her child. She said no ransom note was found either in the carriage or at home.

It was the first kidnapping in the city's history and the first in this district since John Labatt, London brewer, was kidnapped near Sarnia, Ont., in 1934.

Mrs. Wood was in a grocery store for only a few minutes and when she left the store she found the carriage empty.

An unidentified woman told police she had seen a man carrying an infant East on King Street and walking at a fast gait shortly before Mrs. Wood missed her child. Police are questioning this woman further.

CHINESE SMASH JAP ATTEMPT TO FLANK STILWELL

Jap Casualties Are High; Many Trapped

FLYING TIGERS BATTERING JAPS

CHUNGKING, China, May 8 (AP)—Falling with savage fury upon two Japanese columns thrusting into China along the Burma Road, counter-attacking Chinese wiped out one invading force of 1,000 men, killed 500 out of another of equal strength and trapped the remainder, Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek's High Command announced tonight.

An official announcement said this triumph converted into disaster a Japanese attempt to flank Chinese troops of Lt.-Gen. Joseph Stillwell in the sector near Chefang, 25 miles inside the Yunnan Province from Burma.

The Flying Tigers of the American Volunteer Group protected Chinese bombers which battered Japanese troops and trucks in Western Yunnan yesterday, an A.V.G. communique said.

The Japanese aerial offensive in Eastern China, aimed at destroying possible bases for bombing Japan proper, was stepped up today with bombings in Kiagsi and the East Coast Provinces of Chekiang and Fukien.

In Hupeh Province the Chinese announced that 10,000 Japanese troops with more than 30 pieces of artillery started a drive in the Mienyang sector, 65 miles Southeast of Hankow, last Tuesday but were intercepted by Chinese forces and heavy fighting ensued.

Limping Home With Allies in Hot Pursuit

11 Warships Sunk

Thousands Drown

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, Australia, May 9 (Saturday)—(AP)—Allied naval and air forces fighting with "marked skill, courage, and tenacity" have repulsed a Japanese invasion fleet off Northeastern Australia in one of history's most fateful struggles, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Headquarters announced today.

With 11 or more of its warships sunk and six or more damaged—and presumably thousands of its finest warriors at the bottom of the Coral Sea—the battered Japanese force was reported limping Northward with United States and British units in hot pursuit on the sixth day of the epic engagement.

"Our attacks will continue," the Allied communique said in reporting that the battle had ceased "temporarily."

The repulse of the Japanese occurred after Allied war units discovered the enemy fleet steaming Southward six or more days ago, and the communique concluded with these words:

The latest communique made no claims of additional enemy losses other than those already reported yesterday both her and in Washington. (Also see Page 7).

The Headquarters communique said the action represented a "continued effort of the Japanese to extend their aggressive conquests toward the South and Southeast."

It was pointed out that the Japanese had been building up their forces, with emphasis on naval transport elements, for coordinated attack of the combined forces. This attack, the communique said, was "initiated several days ago."

SINK CARRIER, DAMAGE ANOTHER

The communique made no mention either of Japanese or Allied losses in the battle, but earlier communiques and reports told of the sinking of 11 Japanese ships, including one aircraft carrier and one heavy cruiser, and the damaging of another aircraft carrier along with the sinking of destroyers, gunboats and other vessels.

The battle was fought in the shadow of Australia and involved the safety of the continent and control of much of the Southern seas.

First eyewitness accounts reaching an advanced Allied base said hundreds of Japanese crewmen had to dive overboard amid smoke and flame from two aircraft carriers hit by aerial bombs and torpedoes in the first blow of the Allied assault.

These reports said Japanese personnel losses may run into the thousands.

STRIVE TO SAVE CARRIERS

Japanese destroyers tried desperately but vainly to save the carriers, blasted into torn and blazing hulks by bombing planes and naval units which pressed home their attack in a hail of anti-aircraft fire and challenging hordes of Japanese Zero fighters.

"We might have been blasted out of our beds last night if this hadn't happened," commented one naval spokesman ashore on the results thus far of the still-raging battle.

"But we got in there and did the job," he asserted, adding that "one Japanese carrier was seen sinking and the other was hit from stem to stern."

SECOND MAY HAVE SUNK

(According to Reuters News Agency, this second carrier also sank.)

The known score against the enemy as of last night:

Sunk: An aircraft carrier, a heavy cruiser, a light cruiser, two destroyers, four gunboats and a supply ship.

Damaged and believed a total loss: Another aircraft carrier.

Heavily damaged: A heavy cruiser, a light cruiser, a 9000-ton seaplane tender, a cargo vessel and a transport.

While the unfolding of the drama was awaited all over the world, Prime Minister Curtin of Australia went before the House of Representatives thus to assess as much of the situation as was known:

"I have received information from the Commander of the Allied forces of the Southwest Pacific that a great naval battle is proceeding in the Southwest Pacific area. . . .

"What is taking place is of crucial importance to the whole conduct of the war in this theatre. I have no information as to how the engagement is developing. .....

"This battle will not decide the war. It will determine the immediate tactics which will be pursued by ourselves and the common enemy."

The Deputy Leader of the Opposition, William M. Hughes, arose to declare that upon the result of the battle now in progress depended the immediate future of Australia.

"To the ramparts, then Australia," he cried, "and brace ourselves for the great struggle that looms ahead."

AMENDMENT TO MANPOWER ACT TO BE SOUGHT

Expect It Will Ask for Removal of Restrictions

NO INFORMATION GIVEN BY KING

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, May 8 (CP)—Prime Minister Macenzie King today made the first move towards amending the Compulsory Service Law when he gave notice in the House of Commons of an amendment to the National Resources Mobilization Act.

The amendment, terms of which were not disclosed, is believed to embody the policy decided upon by the Government as a result of the majority vote in the recent Plebiscite to release it from pledges against overseas conscription.

EXPECT FULL DEBATE

At the same time came indications of a full-dress Parliamentary debate on overseas conscription. Conservative House Leader Hanson told Mr. King "something decidedly more" was wanted by the Country than an amendment to the Act.

Mr. King said Mr. Hanson was speaking without knowledge of the terms of the amendment and would have to wait for his information until the Bill comes before the House.

The general impression is that the amendment will remove Clause 3 from the Act which gives the Government sweeping powers over the persons and properties of all Canadians. That clause restricts the general powers by prohibiting compulsion in sending men overseas.

There are, however, other possibilities, such as a redrafting of the action to embody a specific compulsory service plan or the addition of a section giving the Government power to repeal Section 3 by proclamation.

A Cabinet source tonight—while declining to comment on the exact terms of the Bill—said it would not mean immediate conscription.

This might mean that with the restricting clause removed the Government could proceed to change the present compulsory service system, placed in effect by Order-in-Council under the Act, when and if it deemed such action "necessary or expedient."

"I find no one (in the Cabinet) who says we need conscription immediately," this source said. "Most people are agreed the voluntary system is best as long as it works."

Naval Win Worth Losses Papers Declare

SYDNEY, May 9 (Saturday)—(AP.) — Australia's morning papers wrote confidently of the outcome of the Coral Sea Naval battle today, the Sydney Daily Telegraph declaring that "all the news smacks strongly of a big victory."

"Even if we were to lose ship for ship and plane for plane, it would still be worth it," the Telegraph said. "We must hit first and hit often, taking big risks to gain big ends. MacArthur is just the man for this policy of hit instead of sit."

52 Wooden Ships Being Built for Canadian Navy

OTTAWA, May 8 (CP)—Formal announcement that 52 wooden ships of substantial size were being built in Canada for the Canadain Navy was made in the House of Commons today by Navy Minister Macdonald.

Without going into any detail he said—"There are 28 wooden ships of substantial size—I am speaking only of larger types of ships, not about the smaller boats—being built in Canada for the Canadian Navy, and, in addition there are 24 wooden ships being built for the British Navy. These are all wooden ships, minesweepers and of that general class."

Atlantic Crossing Losses Less Than One Per Cent

OTTAWA, May 8 (CP) —Navy Minister Macdonald today told the House of Commons that loss by enemy action of ships leaving Canada to cross the Atlantic have been less than one per cent since the start of the war.

Sinkings along the East-West Atlantic lanes were "not alarming at all" at present and "not out of the ordinary" the Minister said. But the sinkings up and down the Atlantic coast were very heavy.

RUSSIANS WRECK THREE-WAY HUN SPRING ATTACK

Nazi Bombing Fleets Forced to Leave North Stations

SAY 30,000 HUNS LOST IN ATTACKS

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, May 8 (AP.)—The Red army and air force were reported in official dispatches tonight to have wrecked a three-way German Spring offensive aimed from Finland into Soviet Karelia and to have driven large numbers of Nazi bombing planes from forward bases near Russia's vital water and rail communications in the Arctic.

The army newspaper Red Star reported that German bombing fleets, after a futile six weeks' offensive against the Northern sea lanes and Russian rail lines over which increasing American and British supplies are moving via Murmansk and Archangel, had been forced to withdraw to more remote stations in Norway and Finland.

Still other dispatches, dealing with recent weeks of heavy fighting from Leningrad Southwest to Staraya Russa, estimated 30,000 Germans had been lost in counter-attacks which failed to take the initiative from the Red army.

The Nazi air force arrived at Northern Norwegian airdromes late in March and included four-motored planes, dive bombers and torpedo-carrying aircraft, reinforced by some Finnish types for scouting.

Red Star said the scanty results obtained by the Germans were exemplified by the fact that one railroad line was bombed 35 times, but tracks were damaged in only a few places and were repaired rapidly.

Terrific Barrage Greets Nazi Raiders in England

Battalion Moves Smoothly in Coast Operation

By STUART UNDERHILL

CAMP NANAIMO, B. C., May 9 (CP.)—Acting on the assumption an "enemy attack" was expected any moment on a key area of the West Coast of Vancouver Island, the 1st battalion Dufferin-Haldimand Rifles has completed one of the most ambitious phases of counter-invasion training yet attempted on this coast.

In the first full battalion movement including artillery and engineers carried out in Western Canada, the "Duffs" knifed across Vancouver Island in a column 10 miles long and fanned out to cover communications which would be vital both to defenders and an invaders force.

The entire operation, part of training which military units on the Pacific coast are continually undergoing, was completed without a hitch.

At "zero hour" the column moved out of this military camp. By early afternoon the men were rigging weapon pits and eating their lunches more than 50 miles away. They slept in the woods and were away next day as quickly as they had come. No major physical injuries or mechanical breakdowns were suffered although the movement involved nearly 1500 men and 130 vehicles.

Demon Squadron Hits Seven Ships Off Norway Coast

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 8 (CP Cable)—The Canadian "Demon Squadron" of the R.A.F.'s Coastal Command plastered hits on seven of 12 enemy ships moving along the Netherlands coast last night, it was disclosed today.

The Canadians, led by Wing Cmdr. A. C. Brown, D.F.C., of Winnipeg, flew alongside a squadron of the Royal Netherlands Air Service in a devastating attack on the heavily-protected convoy.

It was the second outstanding success for the "Demon" in four days. On Tuesday it was announcer Brown and Flt. Lt. R. M. Christie of North Bay, Ont., were pilots of Hudson bombers which scored direct hits on two ships off the Frisian Islands.

In last night's engagement three Canadian-flown Hudson bombers were damaged by a heavy barrage thrown up by anti-aircraft ships, but not a single Canadian was wounded and all the squadron's aircraft returned from the operation.

"In the first attack at dusk," a communique said, "several ships were hit by bombs. A second attack was made in darkness some hours later when another ship was hit. Two aircraft are missing."

German Prisoners Recaptured

OTTAWA, May 8 (CP)—Lieut. Reinhardt Pfundter and Lieut. Ernst Wagner, German prisoners of war who escaped earlier this week from the prison camp at Bowmanville, Ont., were arrested here today by Eastview Municipal Police.

Since their escape became known Tuesday evening a widespred search has been conducted by Canadian officials over Eastern Ontario and down to the United States border.

Earlier in the day the lieutenants were shaved in an Ottawa barber shop and customers became suspicious. Royal Canadian Mounted Police said the prisoners were recognized from pictures shown to barber-shop customers. The pictures were circulated to police forces in surrounding municipalities and early this afternoon the arrest was made by Constable Conrad Lavigne, of the East-View Force.

Soon after they were picked up, the Nazis were turned over to custody of the R.C.M.P. and were then brought to Ottawa.

Constable Lavigne said he was on his way home for lunch in his car, when he saw two men he thought looked suspicious. He stopped his car, jumped out and questioned the pair. They said they were American tourists.

He asked them to step into his car and go with him to the station. They complied without resistance, were taken to jail, and the R. C. M. P. notified.

Gift Cigaret Case Saves Canadian Air Hero Maitland's Life

BY LOUIS HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 8 (CP Cable) — There were two new Canadian air heroes today—Sgt.- Pilots Fred Hiley of Toronto and William Maitland of Vancouver, who covered themselves with glory when they disregarded wounds to bring back two damaged aircraft in a recent R.A.F. raid on Stuttgart.

The pilots of Hampden bombers, they boughtback their machines with one engine in each in flames, and the fuselages punctured by flak.

Hiley, who is 20, was wounded in the wrist. He struggled with his aircraft for 2½ hours before making a crash landing. Maitland, 20-year-old son of the British Columbia Attorney General, R. L. Maitland, was saved by a silver cigaret case in the breast pocket of his jacket which stopped a chunk of flak. He suffered a slight chest wound silently until able to land.

Both young Canadians were commended by their Commanding Officer, Wing Cmdr. D. A. R. Bradshaw of London, Ont.

Of Hiley's exploit he said: "It was a magnificent piece of work and the whole squadron is proud of him."

Maitland was described by Bradshaw as "a plucky, efficient pilot and a credit to his squadron."

The cigaret case which saved Maitland's life was a farewell gift from Miss Betty Gentles of Vancouver. Bulged and buckled by an anti-aircraft fragment which otherwise would have pierced his chest, the case is the young pilot's proudest possession.

"I guess I was pretty lucky," the tall, quiet-spoken British Columbian said. "We were on the outward journey near the coast when we were caught in a cone of searchlights and almost immediately there was a burst of flak directly above us.

"The port engine was hit and caught fire, the port wing and flap were damaged and the windscreen holed.

"I felt a chunk hit me on the chest. I couldn't tell how serious the injury was but it partly stunned me. Then I began to feel a bit queer. I figured the best thing to do was to head for home while I could. Flak was pretty thick but we jettisoned our bombload and with a bit more luck, we made it."

His observer, Sgt. Ernest Garrett of Toronto, interrupted: "It wasn't so much luck as sheer courage on Bill's part."

Sgt. Edward Danes of Toronto, the air gunner added: "It was a great show on Bill's part."

Maitland surveyed ruefully the ruined cigarette case and commented:

"Not content with spoiling my silver case, the flak had to go and cut through my one and only pair of suspenders."

Hospital Day Sunday Commemorates Birthday of Florence Nightingale

Sunday, May 10, a war-torn world will observe Hospital Hospital Day, commemorating the birthday of Florence Nightingale, and her unparelled efforts to reform hospitals.

Sunday is the day when all eyes are turned toward the nursing profession, to the sacrifices and courage that it requires, and receives, and to the steady labors of nurses all over the world in fighting disease, and preventing suffering.

Now at the time of a great world crisis, nurses are needed in every corner of the earth, making Hospital Day, 1942.. a means of bringing to the attention of young girls the nursing profession.

Nurses serving overseas with the army, navy, and air force, are doing a wonderful job, but nurses on the "home front" who are helping to keep essential civilian services going are meeting an equally important though much less romantic and spectacular need. A continued supply of nurses to meet both military and civilian needs must be insured.

The executive committee of the Registered Nurses' Association of British Columbia has planned a Vesper Service to be held in conjunction with Hospital Day. Miss Evelyn Mallory, R. N., Registrar of the A.R.N. of B. C., writes that "at this critical time when the need for nurses is perhaps greater than for many years, we felt it is most fitting that a combined memorial and rededication service be held on Remembrance Day."

In Nelson that Vesper Service will be held on Sunday, May 17, at Trinity United Church, Rev. G. G. Boothroyd officiating. Attendance at this service will include all graduate nurses. All ex-Nursing Sisters have been requested to wear their service badges and graduate nurses their graduation pins.

W.I. SPRING TEA AND SALE IS SUCCESSFUL

The Women's Institute staged a successful Spring tea and bake sale Friday afternoon in the Institute rooms, Mrs. H. B. Penny convening.

Bouquets of forsythia and narcissi graced the work tables and tea tables. Mrs. F. E. Wheeler, President, received the guests.

Mrs. Penny was convener of the tea and the bake sale, assisted by Mrs. R. Marshall. Mrs. R. Keffer, Mrs. G. A. Moir, Mrs. G. Sutherland and Mrs. W. M. Wallace were on the tea table Mrs. J. Draper and Mrs. I. Spiers were on the apron table and Mrs. W. Postlethwaite was cashier.

The compost pile is the most practical and the least expensive way to supply the garden with humus. Plan to build one this year for your garden's benefit.

Tired of School, Wants to Elope

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Every day brings me letters from young girls of 15, 16 and 17 whose parents think they are too young to go on long motor trips with these young men or attend public dances. The girls feel they have been badly treated.

One letter in particular is outstanding. This girl is 16. Her parents are anxious for her to finish high school, at least. They would like her to go through college also, but they don't insist on that.

The girl, only child of a well-to-do family writes me a letter about her troubles and sufferings, which are nothing more than having to finish her high school education.

She tells me that, in despair, she went to see an old friend who advised her to marry the first man or boy who presented himself as a possible husband, eloping with him if necessary.

Fathers and Mothers, as a rule, are not unreasonable. If normal, they desire above all things that their children shall be happy.

As for weepng because she can't go motoring and attend public dances, the parents' objection to this seem to me only reasonable.

If she marries the first man who comes along, and he proves to be lazy and incapable of earning a living, or is a philanderer, or drinks, and the marriage winds up in a divorce court, it will be her parents and not the "friend" to whom she will look for support.

Happy Home Best for Children

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph. D.

People today talk a great deal about the childs fears during a blackout and anxieties over possible air raids. There are some unhappy experiences, especially among children whose parents do not master their own emotions.

But these unhappy experiences of growing children hardly can be compared in frequency and intensity of the worries, fears and anxieties children and adolescents suffer because of strained relations, open conflicts, even divorce between their parents.

Recently I have received some very touching letters from high school girls about parents openly unfaithful to each other, or about the agonies these youths have gone through in connections with matters leading up to divorce proceedings.

It has always seemed to me that a divorced parent might best prove his true love for a child by helping the child forget him or her when this child is assigned to the other parent; and that the parent to whom the child is assigned should never attempt to instill hatred in this child for the other parent.

No Refuge From Love

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

He ground his cigarette into an ash tray. "There were so many little pieces that fitted together like a puzzle," he said. "I returned to New York on orders from my superiors. Your scientists here in America were kind enough to develop something which we would be very happy to possess.

"And imagine my surprise when I discovered that the little secret which I was assigned to ferret out was controlled by a firm known as Whitworth, Inc., construction engineers."

Molla frowned and Kurt continued. "It seems as though someone in your firm's employ stumbled across a process by which it is possible to make exceedingly strong and durable concrete."

Kurt Wilhelm folded his hands and smiled. "We want that type of concrete, too. There is a formula.

A dread feeling crept over Molla. It started in her head and continued down to her stomach. She remembered Mr. Whitworth's anxiety when by mistake she had copied the formula Kurt Wilhelm was after.

It all became very apparent now. Her mother wa sto be the hostage in this case. Her own mother's freedom, her very life depended upon this formula. Kurt would hold her responsible for getting it. Or else—"

Molla's heart raced madly. "But that is impossible. I did not know Whitworth's had perfected such a thing. If they did, certainly I would not have access to it." She was glad she was wearing gloves so that Kurt could not see how white her knuckles must be from clenching her hands so fiercely.

"Besides I am leaving Mr. Whitforth's employ within a week."

He raised a surprised eyebrow. "You are leaving? Where are you going?"

She shrugged helplessly. "I—I had some difficulty and I find myself forced to leave. So it will be impossible to do what you ask, Kurt. Please . . . anything but that. Anything—I mean that, Kurt," she said desperately.

"My fertile imagination leads me to believe the charming younger Mr. Whitworth may be involved." He smiled crookedly.

"A plague on your imagination!" she said. "It is none of your business why I am leaving. I will not do as you bid me. I will not have anything to do with you, do you understand?"

She stood up then, her fists clenched at her sides, her eyes blazing.

He sat there unmoved. "You make a pretty picture, my lovely one, but we are not interested in pictures."

Molla sank down helplessly and buried her head in her arms. For just a second the expression on Kurt Welhelm's face softened, but changed his mind. The hard look came into his eyes again.

"I am sorry, Molla. There is no use. You must do as I say."

Molla got up then. She fell on her knees before him. "Kurt,please," she whispered. "If it is within your power to let my mother keep her freedom do so, but do not force me to do something I am not able to do."

He lifted her to her feet, "I do not like to see you like that, Molla. It isn't like you."

He found it hard to look into her tear filled eyes. Kurt lit another cigarette. "I am a soldier," he said stiffly. "I have a duty to perform for the State and I must do it. My own feelings and sentiment cannot stand in the way."

"A soldier," she said scornfully. "If you were a soldier, I would not mind. "But you are nothing more than a low, filthy spy and I hate the very ground you walk upon."

He grabbed her roughly by the shoulders and shook her. "That will be enough," he grated. "You will do as I say or regret forever that you did not."

He strode to the door. "I expect results," he said curtly. "I will phone you. Whatever time you have left at Whitworth, Inc., I suggest you make good use of. How you do is your problem, not mine. But I want results."

Posture . . .

Mirror Will Show Up Your Faults

By IDA JEAN KAIN

How long has it been since you stood before the mirror and looked yourself over—without a stitch on? If you will do that a couple of times a year, a physiotherapist I know says you are not as likely to have the aches and pains, neuritis, neuralgia and rheumatism that so many women have.

This authority is convinced a large percentage of these troubles are purely postural in their origin.

Stand sideways to the mirror to get the full effect of poor posture—sagging abdomen, a spare tire, a cave-in at the small of the back, jutting hips, and rounded shoulders. Of course, you are not that bad. But that is what could happen, and in not so many years.

Begin by lining up your body segments. Pull up with the lower abdominal muscles and at the same time pull the hips down and under. If you do this correctly you will straighten out that sway back.

You are now in position for a very effective exercise. Keep an eye on your reflection to see that you do it correctly. Stretch your arms overhead without disturbing the alignment of your body—chin level, hips under you and back straight — then bring both arms straight out in front, shoulder level and parallel with the floor. Do this without hunching your shoulders. Now, keep heels on the floor and bend your knees. Slowly does it! The instant your body gets out of line or your heels come off the floor, stop! Go down as far as you can with your knee-bend, pause for a second, and make an exercise of rising to starting position. Finish by moving your arms up overhead, then separate hands and bring arms slowly down at sides.

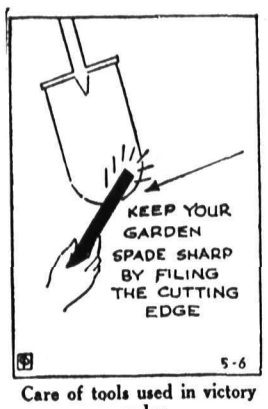
Taking Care of Garden Tools

By DEAN HALLIDAY

The garden tool is the gardener's friend and this year must be taken care of regularly, to last longer.

All tools should be put away clean. Rusty implements should be cleaned with a wire brush . d then rubbed with sandpaper or emery paper. Coarse emery powder and oil will also clean tools, or a rust remover may be used. After the rust has been removed, oil or grease the bright surfaces to prevent or, at least, retard further accumulation of rust.



Care of tools used in victory garden

Dull tools slow up work, while sharp tools make work easier. As illustrated in the Garden- Graph, frequent sharpening of the spade with a file keeps it in good working condition.

Painting the handles of tools a bright color often prevents their becoming lost. This is especially true of small tools.

Surgery Benefits to the Child

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

In a group of people the other day, when it was mentioned that a neighbor's baby had to undergo an abdominal operation, someone said, "I didn't know babies and children ever had such things," and everyone expressed doubt as to the ability of a baby to stand such a procedure.

As a matter of fact, while the necessity for abdominal operations in children arises much less frequently than in adults, they are not at all uncommon and surgeons believe that young persons are excellent surgical subjects, provided the treatment is conducted by qualified surgeons, the hospital equipment is adapted to the needs of the infant and child, the anaesthetic is well-chosen and skillfully administered and that certain special equipment ad instruments that may be necessary are available.

Even a newborn baby will tolerate and abdominal operation of considerable magnitude. There are several developmental conditions that require surgery immediately after birth; for instance, diaphragmatic hernia or "upside-down stomach" and certain forms of intertinal obstruction.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. L.: Would arthritis cause one's teeth to become sensitive to hot or cold drinks? What should be done for sensitive teeth?

Answer: Sensitive teeth of the kind you describe usually mean some infect'on or derangement of the teeth and instead of arthritis causing this, it is not unlikely that this causes the arthritis. The only thing to be done for sensitive teeth is to have a thorough dental examination, including X-rays, and clear up the fundamental trouble.

M. L.: Can diphtheria in childhood cause physical weakness in later life?

Answer: Yes, one of the rare but unfortuante sequelae of diphtheria is a form of paralysis or semi-paralysis which may affect any muscle in the body.

Facing Salvage Problem Realistically

When any variety of material is required to win the war, the dollar cost of it can never be prohibitive.

Wasteful practices in money or material must be kept to a minimum. But if tin, for example, normally worth forty cents or fifty cents a pound can be obtained at not less than ten dollars a pound and we would lose the war if we did not get it, fatal responsibility would rest on any government which refused to pay the price.

Ottawa is putting this principle into practical effect in its new plan for salvage. Freight rates are to be equalized so that required materials can be salvaged from any part of the country where it can be found.

Waste paper is a case in point. Mills need the waste because of pulp shortage, one of the main requirements being for use in packaging shells, but they have been getting practically none from Kootenay and similarly situated districts in Canada because of distances of haulage to mill.

Under the new policy of freight equalization waste paper can be shipped from districts in Canada far away from the hills to the extent that it can be collected and that mills reqiure it.

80,000 Food Parcels for Prisoners-of-War

Of the $9,000,000 required this year by the Canadian Red Cross nearly 40 per cent or $3,550,000 will be used in providing food parcels for British prisoners-of-war, including Canadian prisoners in the Far East.

The objective is 80,000 parcels a week, double the top figure attained last year.

Each parcel costs $2.50 and weighs 11 pounds.

Several hundred Canadian women volunteers do the packing job in packing centres in Toronto and Montreal, using the latest assembly line principles as developed by large-scale industry. Each parcel contains, the quantity in ounces:

Milk powder, 16; butter, 16; cheese, 4; corned beef, 12; pork meat, 10; salmon, 8, sardines, 4; raisins, 8; prunes, 8; sugar, 8; jam, 16; bisciuts, 16; chocolate, 8; salt, pepper, 1; tea, 4; soap, 2.

Today's Horoscope

Today's birthday children should guard against imposition and fraudulent misrepresentation in business during the next 12 months; then they will derive much benefit, and their affairs will prosper. Pleasant surprises are in store for them. They are persons of great intensity, endowed with powerful emotions which they reveal too plainly. They should concentrate on being more original and self-reliant. They are popular among their friends. Life will be somewhat complex and contradictory for the child who is born on this date. Good and ill fortune will be curiously intermingled, but recognition and permanent success are assured.

HOROSCOPE FOR SUNDAY

Those who celebrate birthdays on May 10th are equipped with unusual mental faculties. They are strong-willed, self-contained, gracious in manner, and possess the courage to face obstacles and failures without turning back. They should exercise caution in the next year in their dealings with lawyers and ecclesiastics, and avoid speculation and excesses in diet and imposition on their good nature. Elders will bring them gain. The child who is born on this date will gain by inheritance, and be successful in business. He or she will, however, be in danger of loss through legal matters, unscrupulous friends, gambling and excessive generosity.

My MOTHER

In my room there hangs a picture
Which is very dear to me
For it brings back happy memories
Of the days that used to be;
'Tis the picture of my Mother,
With her kind and loving face,
And though the world I travel through
None else can fill her place.

I seem to see her standing
In a garden full of flowers,
Admiring them, for there she spent,
So many happy hours.
How she'd comfort those in trouble
Or give a helping hand,
To all who were in need of aid,
For she could understand.

I can hear her softly singing
As she laid me down to rest,
The dear old tunes of long ago
The songs that she liked best,
How she'd tuck the clothes in tightly
To keep me snug and warm,
And with a kiss upon my cheek
Said, "Good night, dear, 'till morn!"

How I loved to sit and listen
To the stories she would tell,
Or ramble through the woodlands
To gather sweet bluebell.
But though that voice is silent now,
No matter where I roam
My thoughts shall always be of her,
And that place called 'Home, Sweet Home.'

(Said Hazlitt: "To be capable of steady friendship and lasting love, are the two greatest proofs, not only of goodness of heart, but of strength of mind." Observed La Rochefoucauld, "However rare true love may be, it is still less rare than true friendship." How many real friends have you? Well, anyhow, as the old toast has it: "May the hinges of friendship never rust, or the wings of love lose a feather.")

U. S. army Sergeant Herman Knoller claims he knows a girl in Oregon named Tressanela Noosepickle.—"We have named our cat Durling, after you," writes a Tulare, Cal., subscriber. That's fine. I'd rather have a cat named after me than a horse. When they name a horse after you there is a temptation to bet on it. Still, five horses named after living men have won the Kentucky Derby. The last was Clyde van Dusen, winner in 1929—"When you get dressed in the morning how many buttons do you have to button?" is the quaint query of a Californian, who adds: "I have to button 27 buttons. I counted them this morning." That sounds like too many buttons to me I only have to button 11 buttons this morning. But then I didn't put on a vest.

"As to training a husband," writes a Chicago matron, "it all depends on how old he is when you get him. Husbands from 21 to 25 are easily trained and broken into domestic harness. Breaking in a man who has led 10 or more years of bachelor life is tougher than breaking in a horse like the strawberry roan. But it can be done by a clever woman. Fateful Struggle Rages In South Sea

Warships Fight Epic Battle Into Fifth Day With at Least 16 Jap Ships Sunk or Damaged

By C. YATES McDANIEL
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, Australia, May 8 (AP).—The greatest naval battle of the war is in progress in the seas directly East of Asutralia, with the immediate fate of this continent depending on the undetermined result.

Allied headquarters announced that already 10 Japanese ships had been sunk and six badly damaged, as follows:

Sunk, an aircraft carrier, a heavy cruiser, a light cruiser, two destroyers, four gunboats and a supply vessel;

Damaged and believed a total loss: Another aircraft carrier;

Heavily damaged: A heavy cruiser, a light cruiser, a 9000-ton seaplane tender, a transport and a cargo vessel.

Allied bombers were credited with destruction of still another Japanese transport in a raid on the Louisiade Islands Northeast of Australia.

The Japanese claimed that an American battleship of the California class and two aircraft carriers of the Saratoga and Yorkton classes had been sunk, a British battleship and an Australia cruiser heavily damaged.

Neither side reported losses of its own, but the British Admiralty promptly denied the Japanese claim that the battleship Warspite or any British battleship has been sunk or damaged in the battle.

(The Japanese located the battle in the Coral Sea Southeast of New Guinea, saying it began Wednesday, when a powerful "Anglo-American combined fleet" was "discovered and caught.")

Allied headquarters did not specifically name the location but successive communiques indicated it is ranging over a wide expanse of ocean South of the Solomon Islands and extending into the Coral Sea.

If actually in the Coral Sea, the battle indicates the Japanese have broken through the outer screen of islands which shield the Australian continent on the East at a distance of about 1000 miles.

The critical importance of the gigantic conflict was apparent—perhaps rivalling that of the Battle of Jutland, which stands as the heaviest naval engagement of all time.

Prime Minister John Curtin gravely told the Australian House of Representatives that the present action is of crucial significance to the whole conduct of the war in this theatre.

The attacks on the aircraft carriers and heavy cruisers were announced in a communque from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters after a spokesman had announced the sinking of smaller naval units, including a light cruiser, two destroyers and four gunboats.

The spokesman indicated the battle is a continuation of the action announced yesterday in a Washington comunique, which reported that heavy damage had been inflicted on Japanese naval units off the Solomon Islands Monday.

His statement followed swiftly the disclosure that Allied bombers yesterday had attacked Japanese shipping in the Louisiade Islands, off the Southeastern tip of New Guinea, sinking one transport.

The spokesman did not give any additional information on this action or the naval battle he said is still underway, and did not indicate whether they are directly linked.

(The presence of Japanese transports, however, in the Louisiade's might mean the beginning of the long-expected assault upon Port Moresby, vital Allied outpost some 300 miles to the West on the Southern shore of New Guinea. It might even mean a thrust directly at the Eastern coast of Australia itself.)

The spokesman's announcement with reference to the naval battle said:

"A great naval and air action now is taking place in the Southwest Pacific area. In the initial phases our forces have inflicted heavy damage on the enemy.

"His losses consisted of: Sunk—one light cruiser, two destroyers, four gunboats, and one supply vessel. Badly damaged—one 9000-ton seaplane tender, one light cruiser, one cargo vessel.

"Our losses are slight."

(This announcement of the losses inflicted upon the Japanese duplicated the communique on the battle off the Solomon Islands issued yesterday in Washington, except that the latter included a transport among the vessels damaged. The action cost the United States forces "the loss of but three planes," the Navy Department statement said.)

The regular communique from MacArthur's headquarters also reported that eight Japanese Zero fighter planes had attacked Port Moresby and that one had been shot down.

Allied reconnaissance planes flying over Lae on New Guinea Island shot down another Japanese plane trying to intercept them.

It was the first test of strength between the Allied and Japanese fleets since the Battle of Java early last March, and first reports indicated it would far exceed that bloody struggle both in scope and aftermath.

All Australia waited eagerly for news to be flashed on the outcome of the engagement upon which it is generally believed her fate may depend.

While exact locale of the battle was not specified in official announcements, succeeding communiques indicated it was developing into a running fight South of the Solomon Islands and extending into the Coral Sea washing the shores of Northeastern Australia.

The first official intimation the Japanese were on the move along the sea approaches to Australia was given in a communique yesterday which reported that Allied bombers had sunk a Japanese transport in the Louisiade Archipelago.

The Louisiade Islands are on the route which the Japanese would have to follow in launching a seaborne assault on either Port Moresby or Australia from their bases in Northeastern New Guinea and New Britain—less than a day's journey to the North by ship.

A convoy could steam from the Louisiades to Port Moresby in another day or less.

William M. Hughes, prime minister of Australia in the First Great War and now deputy leader of the opposition, declared that upon the results of the battle depend the immediate future of Australia and that Australians are hoping and praying that victory may crown the allied forces.

"To the ramparts, then, Australians, and brace yourselves for the great struggle that looms darkly ahead," he called.

TOKYO, May 8 (AP)— Imperial headquarters claimed today that Japanese naval units had sunk a United States Navy battleship and two U. S. aircraft carriers, heavily damaged a British battleship and crippled a British heavy cruiser in a continuing battle over the Coral Sea.

The cruiser, identified as of the 10,000-ton Canberra type— was said to have been "seriously crippled."

The American craft reported sunk were identified:

A U. S. battleship of the California type.

A U. S. aircraft carrier of the Saratoga type and another of the Yorktown type.

The British battleship, of the 30,600-ton Warspite (the first Great War Queen Elizabeth type), was heavily damaged, the communique claimed.

The Admiralty in London promptly denied the claim of damage to a British battleship.

Two United States battleships, the California and the Tennessee, make up the California class. Both were built in 1919 and have a displacement of 32,800 tons and 32,300 tons, respectively. The normal complement to each is 1480 men.

The aircraft carrier, Saratoga, which displaces 33,000 tons, was built in 1925. Her complement, including flying personnel is 2122.

The aircraft carrier Yorktown, built in 1936 is a vessel of 19,900 tons. Her normal complement, including fliers, is 2072. Sh ehas space for more than 100 aircraft; the Saratoga's normal aircraft load is 81 planes; her maximum is 90 planes.

Toronto Blackout Eclipses Even Old London

By HAROLD FAIR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, May 8 (CP)—Battered old London can't hold a candle to Toronto when it comes to a blackout.

Last night's 45 minutes of law-enforced darkness over the 400-square-miles area, bounded by Leaside and Scarborough on the East and Bronte and Trafalgar on the West, more than reminded me of my 2½ years in Britain where exterior lights at night are something they write songs about.

Toronto's blackout, broken only by lights in factories engaged in war work, was more intense because

1. Here, except for three cases, traffic lights were doused when the sirens wailed at 9:15 p.m. In London, thin vertical and horizontal slits permit light to seep from behind protective discs.

2. Here were missing the small "candle lights" strung at intervals across many British streets.

3. Here also were lacking the ubiquitous, dimly-lighted big "S" signs that indicate air raid shelters to raid-hardened Britons.

But outside of that it was realistic. And when the sirens moaned—in a tone a shade lower than Churchill's "banshee wailers"—it seemed like London on those countless nights when we prepared for the worst.

There was another point of similarity. The Canadian Press office was just as hot and stuffy behind its blinds and blackout curtains as the London bureau in the hot Summers of 1941 and 1942.

R. C. N. Ships Take Equal Share in Convoy Duties

By FRANK FLAHERTY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer).

OTTAWA, May 8 (CP),—Members of the House of Commons heard last night from Navy Minister Macdonald that Canada's Royal Canadian Navy shares the duty of Atlantic convoys almost equally with the navies of the United Kingdom and the United States, doing nearly one-third of the work.

Mr. Macdonald's revelation of the Dominion's share in the vital convoy escort work came as the House was considering naval matters in connection with the war appropriation bill. It was the first intimation of the extent to which Canadian ships and seamen are helping to keep the Atlantic ship lanes open.

"Cooperation on the Atlantic is very close as between British and American ships and our own," said the Minister.

Mr. Macdonald said Canada's Navy was essentially a convoy navy. It had shepherded more than 56,000,000 tons of cargo and 9000 ships across the Atlantic since the start of the war.

The Minister disclosed a women's branch of the Navy is being organized and that leading members of the "Wrens," the British women's naval organization, are coming here to help get it established. He expects several thousand women can be used to replace men in various administrative and other jobs.

WASHINGTON, May 8 (AP). — The United States War Production Board was reported today to be contemplating the freezing of all manufacturers' sales of soft wood construction lumber, except to Government buyers, to conserve supplies for the Army, Navy and shipbuilding program.

Big Sea Battle Started by Americans Move to Stop Invasion Convoy

LONDON, May 8 (CP)—London naval observers declared today that from the information at hand the battle off Australia apparently resulted from interception of a Japanese invasion convoy bound from Rabaul or the Solomon Islands South to the New Hebrides or New Caledonia.

One source expressed belief that the present battle represented a final judgment and much deliberation on both sides.

"The Japanese recently have been building up naval strength at Rabaul," he said. "There is no doubt that the Allied Command, with daily reconnaissance reports on hand, anticipated the Japanese strength and move.

"It can be assumed that, demonstrating a first-class offensive spirit, the Americans have tried to intercept and destroy a Japanese invasion convoy.

"The Japanese intention appears to be to invest the New Hebrides or New Caledonia, or both, to encircle Australia further on the East and cut American supply lines.

"The action that started Monday probably began with aircraft from American carriers operating Southwest of the Solomons.

"It appears that the attacks did not stop the Japanese, who, with a powerful fleet, including battleships as well as aircraft carriers and cruisers, were able to push on toward their objective.

"The bulk of the two fleets then joined battle."

Another source said, "this sort of game is indicative of the fiercest type of naval action," and all said it was evident that it was the biggest sea battle since Jutland 26 years ago.

Old-Time Barber Ejected Customers; Joy Tells of Sutcliffe, Hypnotist Son of Mutiny Veteran

Eli Sutcliffe, so well known to many Old-Timers, has passed away.

If you needed a hair cut or shave or a bath (Eli had two bath houses on Baker Street at one time) or perhaps a fish line "made in England," or tobacco and cigars, in the old days, Eli could serve you. Some customers would be greeted with a cheerful "Good morning," but to others he did not like, he was silent, or made a remark the customer took offense at, thereafter not entering his store again.

I remember of one occasion a customer made some disparaging remark, to which Eli replied with his fist, knocked the man down, then removed the offending customer to the sidewalk. For many days it was hard for him to manipulate the razor and scissors because of a damaged wrist.

We also remember his ad, who was in India during the Indian Mutiny. The British authorities forgot to present him with a medal as a memento of the occasion. W. Holmes, who was a veteran of the South African War, was also secretary and accountant for Leslie Hill, with whom another Old Timer worked at the North Star Mine in East Kootenay, for Leslie Hill drove a team there at the same time. Dan McEachern of Silver King freighting days drove one also. Leslie Hill later made a great success of the Arlington Mines at Erie, abandoned same, but up to recently the mine paid many thousand dollars to leasers. Bill Holmes was also a member of the Rocky Mountain Rangers of Nelson, with Alex Carrie, R.J. Steel and Stewart the grocer, also Gilbert Anderson, who went to South Africa and was promoted to the rank of captain.

George Ferguson of the Winnipeg Free Press, in his broadcast of the early days of Nelson, spoke of an old veteran who headed all Nelson military parades. It was Sutcliffe, Sr., of Indian Mutiny fame.

I remember a smoking concert at the Armory in which our old friend T. D. (Deb) DesBrisay and Sergeant Robinson, an instructor, put on a boxing match. I think Robinson got the worst of the battle.

It was some time later that young Odlum was an officer in the Rocky Mountain Rangers. In civil life he was editor of one of our Nelson newspapers. Odlum ran for School Trustee; a local Merchant received more votes than the good soldier (for such is the way of Democracy). The merchant is — ! His opponent is now Canadian High Commissioner in Australia. General Odlum, congratulations!

What has this to do with Eli Sutcliffe? Forgive me, for the threads of memory are oftentimes interwoven.

Eli Sutcliffe was one time Vice-President of Lodge Nelson Queen, Sons of England Benefit Society. He was also a member of the Masonic Fraternity, and of the Odd Fellows, always taking an active part in ritualistic work. He was at one time also a member of the Order of the Knights of Pythias, his father attaining the rank of Chancellor Commander.

Eli was also an hypnotist. He sometimes used his powers to help some of the local doctors in difficult cases of the mind. At times he would give exhibitions, private. Mr. Winters, something of a wag, was one of those chosen to exemplify Eli's skill. After the exhibition Winters said he was not hypnotized, he just carried out Eli's suggestions. "Many of us are hypnotized but will not admit it."

You may remember the Spinning Fish that was over the door of Sutcliffe's shop. Some joker took it down and placed it above another store, and Eli offered a reward. Ex-Chief W. J. Jarvis knows more about that story than most of us.

Eli was an exponent of the art of swinging Indian clubs, and even to the last, the set of his shoulders and erect carriage were attributed to that form of exercise.

It was while waiting for a hair cut that I heard the conversation of one of his customers who was selling a line of fishing tackle "made in England," The question of strikes in some of the mines of Rossland came up, and the manufacturer claimed that he organized strikes when the stock of tackle was too abundant, so that the stock could be sold, and then when it was necessary the strike would be called off and the employees put to work.

Eli bought a grandfather's clock from one of the local jewellers. It was a beauty. He was very proud of it, and told me he would often sit at night when the family was in bed and listen to the "tick tock" as the pendulum swung to and fro. The clock is still on the floor giving forth its chimes and "tick tock", but Eli has gone to his rest "where time shall be no more."

Conquest of Madagascar Makes Libya Secure for Summer

By DREW MIDDLETON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, May 8 (AP). — The British position in Libya is secured for the Summer by the occupation of Madagascar's Diego Suarez naval base and Malta's successful defence against Axis air attacks which evidently were intended to open the way for invasion, a well-informed military observer said today.

Capitulation of French forces in the Diego Suarez Bay area reduced the Japanese threat to Indian Ocean supply lines. Dwindling of German Italian mass air raids within the last two weeks has left the rock-based naval and air forces of Malta still preying upon Axis convoys in the Mediterranean.

Gen. Sir William George Sheddon Dobbie, 62-year-old First Great War veteran who has weathered more than 2000 air attacks upon Malta, has been succeeded as Governor and Commander in Chief by Viscount Gort, 55-year-old former Chief of the Imperial Staff, it was announced last night.

Lord Gort, 55, is known to the British as "Tiger Gort." He led the British Expeditionary Force in France at the beginning of the war. Since April, 1941, he had been in command at Gibraltar.

Succeeding Lord Gort as Governor and Commander in Chief of Gibraltar, British base at the Western entrance of the Mediterranean, is Maj.-Gen. Sir Colin Jardine.

Sir William is expected to return to England to rest.

The military observer said that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Axis forces are not strong enough to open large-scale operations against the British armies in North Africa and that constant submarine attacks upon German-Italian convoys made the Axis supply situation precarious.

He said heavy air attacks against Malta had slackened since April 25 and added.

"There is no doubt in my mind that these were intended as a preliminary to a sea-borne invasion of Malta. The Royal Air Force and anti-aircraft batteries defeated the Luftwaffe just as they did in the Summer of 1940 over Britain. The invasion plans were upset. Malta is still operating and Axis supplies are still being sunk."

With a steady flow of supplies, the observer said, the forces of Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, Middle East Commander, "are strong enough on the ground and in the air to halt anything Romel can throw at them."

Gasoline and Tire Rationing Reduces Accidents

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gasoline rationing and scarcity of tires have resulted in a general decrease in the number of automobile accidents throughout Canada with a resultant drop in the number of fatalities, a survey by The Canadian Press dislosed today.

On the basis of incomplete and in some cases unofficial reports from five provinces from which comprehensive figures are available — Prince Edward Island, Ontario, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia — there were 1100 traffic accidents in April compared with 1892 in March and 1769 in April 1941. Fatalities showed a like decrease — 44 last month against 63 in March and 57 the previous April. In April, 1940, there were 1534 accidents with 59 fatalities.

United Nations Must Police Post War World Says Eden

LONDON, May 8 (CP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden declared in a speech at Edinburgh today that Britain, United States, China and Soviet Russia must police the post-war world to prevent "highway robbery and gangster methods."

"Upon them," he said, "must fall the main burden for maintenance of peace and the main responsibility for economic reconstruction of the world after the war."

The Foreign Secretary declared "the longer the German people continue to support and to tolerat the regime which is leading them to destruction, the heavier grows their own direct responsibility for damage they are doing to the world."

He called on germans to take "active steps to rid themselves of the present regime" and to prove to the Allies that they wish the return of Government "based on law and respect for the rights of the individual."

Japs Rushing Troops to North China Garrisons

LONDON, May 8 (CP).—Reuters News Agency reported today the Japanese are rushing troops into Manchuria, according to information in Chungking. The Japanese North China garrisons were reported being filled up with troops of the Wang Ching-Wei Chinese puppet regime.

The dispatch said reports from North China indicated the Japanese hoped to be ready to make a move from Manchukuo (Manchuria) against Siberia some time next month.

Wang now is in Hsinking, the Manchukuo capital, on a Japanese-sponsored visit of state to Emperor Kang Teh of Manchoukuo.

Wang's Chief of Staff made a detour en route to Hsinking earlier this week to call on Gen. Seishiro Itagaki, Commander of the Japanese Army in Korea.

When the Hsinking visit was undertaken it was suggested in informed quarters that it might be connected with impending Japanese moves in the North, presumably against Russia.

(The Japanese might make some use of troops of their two puppet regimes, Nanking and Hsinking, for services of supply or other rear-guard duties.)

Navy Allowances to Be on Par With Other Forces

OTTAWA, May 8 (CP)—Dependent's allowances for wives and children of men in the Navy will be on a parity basis with those paid dependents of men in the Army and Air Force as from April 1 this year, Navy Minister Macdonald announced in the House of Commons today.

The Minister said a decision had just been reached by the Treasury Board on his recommendations. Within the past few days private members have complained allowances for Navy personnel dependents were lower than in the other services and Mr. Macdonald said then he hoped soon to be able to announce an adjustment.

"It would seem the criticism directed against the Navy in this regard was well founded," said Conservative House Leader Hanson.

"Not entirely well founded," said Mr. Macdonald. "The Navy was better off in some respects than the Army and Air Force and not so wel loff in other respects. We will have to lower the amount granted the men for out-of-quarters alowance."

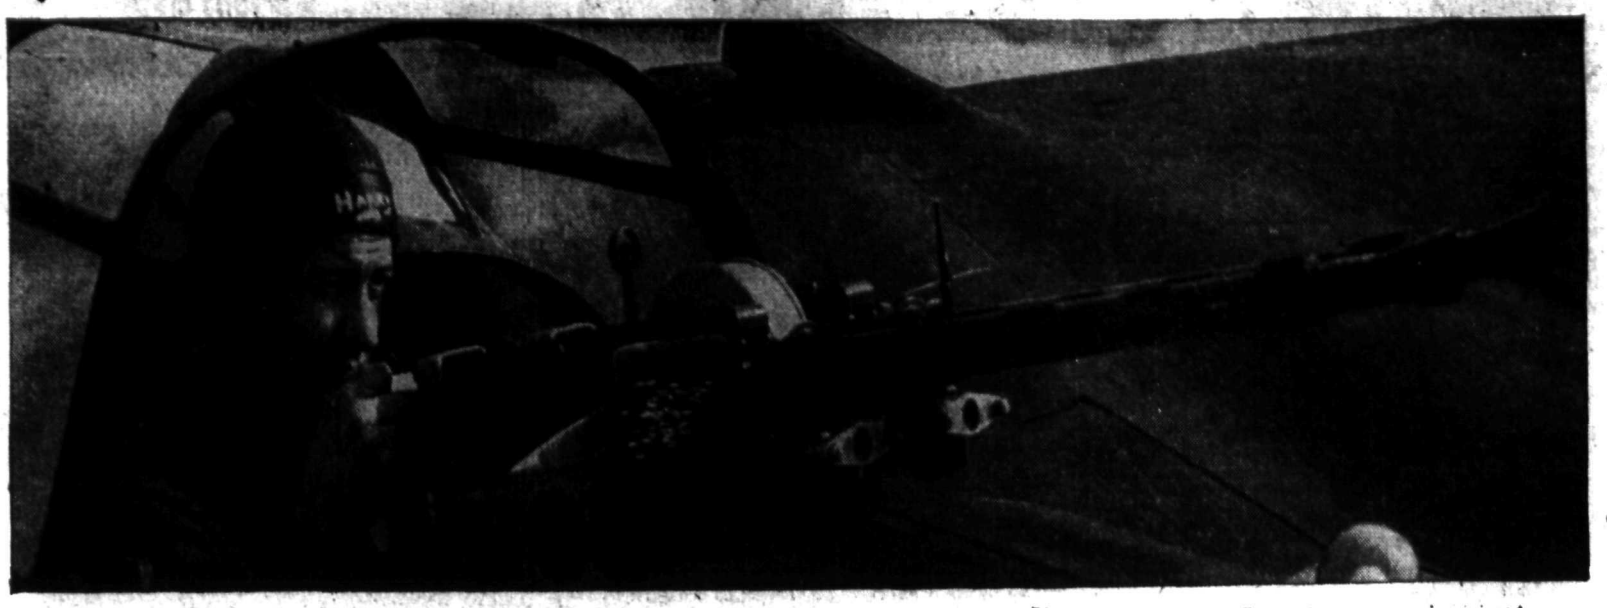
"We Make Sickly Printing Look Healthy"

From Office, Farm, Factory, R.C.A.F. Boys are Manning the Planes

Maps tucked into his boot'leg, Sgt. Chris Armstrong, of Ottawa, waits for his orders to "scramble". These are the latest photos of Canadian fliers in action overseas.



The lives of the aircrew and the extent of the aircraft's usefulness depend in large measure on the accuracy of the air gunner's marksmanship. Sighting his twin machine guns is Sgt. Harry Haskell whose "office" is in the stern of a U.S.-built "Boston" a twin-engined bomber "job" with which an R.C.A.F. squadron overseas is equipped. The Hun has learned at considerable cost not to "sit" for long on the tail of these fast and well-armed medium bombers which are sometimes also employed as fighters.

These members of an R.C.A.F. torpedo-bomber squadron take time out from harrying the Huns to shoot pool. L. to R. Squadron Leader M. E. Jones, Toronto, F/O R. P. Vaughan, Montreal, Pilot Officer Herschell Reilley, Montreal, and P/O J. R. Herbert, Regina.

Peering down from 4,000 feet through the mist at the dim shape of a ship, observers in coastal patrol squadrons must know friend from foe. These models teach them the difference. Learning are Sergeants Fred Field and Bob Edgar, both from Hamilton.

On his first operational flight piloting a Beaufort torpedo-bomber, Sgt.-Pilot C. E. Briggs of Calgary has Squadron Leader R. R. Dennis of Ottawa beside him for advice. Their R.C.A.F. Beaufort squadron has sent plenty of Nazi shipping to the bottom.

"There's the target." Two observers compare notes before their squadron of Boston bombers heads for Hun territory. Sgt. F. Brodeley, (L) and Sgt. M. Brandon, both Manitoba.

"All aboard the Wimpy". "Wimpy" is what these lads of an R.C.A.F. bomber squadron call their big Wellingtons. Off for a bombing raid are (L. to R.) Sgt. A. D. Swansburg, and Sgt. W. D. Emberce, both Nova Scotia; P/O R. M. Graham, Sgt. D. A. Blue, Ottawa.

"All clear?" This fighter pilot, Sgt. Lloyd Sinclair, of Paris, Ont., looks for the signal from his ground crew to take his Spitfire zooming into the air hunting Huns.

Official R.C.A.F. Photographs

Toting his parachute the air gunner climbs aboard "Wimpy". In his turret he watches for Nazis while his observer in the nose drops bombs. He's Sgt. B. A. Angers of Montreal.

Three "Yanks" in the R.C.A.F. came down in the "bad lands" and they're figuring a way out. L. to R. P/O Al. Lukas of Chicago, Sgt. Bill Randolph, Memphis, Sgt. Haskell, Boston. Landing on rocky treacherous ground is difficult enough as any pilot will tell you, but taking off again is an even greater test of a man's ingenuity.

Whitlow Wyatt, the outstanding tcher of the National League a year ago, lasted past the first inning for the first time in three games and went on to attain his first victory of the season, although he couldn't finish. The Dodgers' final and winning run came in the seventh on a great arching homer smashed over the right field scoreboard by Dolph Camilli. It was his seventh of the season.

Phil Marchildon, Canadian born pitcher, threw a five-hitter at Boston Red Sox today and thereby accomplished these results:

1. The Athletics beat the Sox 2-1 for the first time this year.

2. Kept Boston from tying the Yankees for the first place in the American League. In fact the setback dropped the Sox to third, a game behind the Yanks and one-half game behind Cleveland.

3. Ended Charley Wagner's string of nine consecutive victories over the A's. In fact it was the first time the Mackmen have ever defeated Wagner.

4. Ended Wagner's three-game winning streak this season. He previously had been undefeated.

It was Marchildon's fourth victory against two defeats.

Marchildon Retires 29 Batters in Row

PHILADELPHIA, May 8 (AP)—Imagine retiring 29 batters in a row, but not getting credit for a perfect game.

It actually happened to Phil Marchildon, the Penetanguishene, Ont., hurler who pitches for the Athletics. He retired the first 10 Boston batters to face him in today's Red Sox-A's game won by the Mackmen 2-1. Last Sunday he shut out Detroit 1-0, retiring the last 19 enemy batters in succession.

A pefect game is one in which no batter reached first. Charley Robertson, of the Chicago White Sox, pitched the last such game in the Majors, against Detroit, on April 30, 1922.

Associated Press Sport Writer

BALTIMORE, May 8 (AP)—A battered silver mug full of gold—and the glory that goes with it—today drew 10 top three-year-old gallopers into the list for tomorrow's 52nd Preakness Stakes at Pimlico.

It's the biggest field in six years and the widest open in 12, with any one of eight horses in it able to pick up the pot of more than $56,000. As a result, some 40,000 to 45,000 customers are expected to jam their way into old hill top for the race at 4:58 p.m. E.D.T. (1:55 p.m. P.D.T.).

Topped off by the double-barrelled entry of Shut Out, who won the Kentucky Derby a week ago, and Devil Diver, who was supposed to, nine of those whose names were dropped into Racing Secretary Charley McLennan's entry box this morning are definite starters. The only one uncertain of getting to the post is Sun Again, hope of Owner Warren Wright and Trainer Ben Jones for wining their second Preakness in a row.

The field also includes Apache, Alsab, Colchis, Domingo, Fair Call, Requested and Valdina Orphan.

Probable betting favorite—Devil Diver and Shut Out entry, 8 to 5.

Americans Like Derby and Kootenay Fishing

Kootenay Lake fishing and the Gyro Trout Derby are proving as popular as ever this season with American anglers, writes H. F. Wilmot of Gray Creek.

Mrs. Howard Paulsen of Spokane beat all anglers at Gray Creek with her 14 pound, 12 ounce catch during the week. R. G. Hutchinson of San Mateo, Calif., was at Kootenay Cottages for the opening of the season, and plans to return later in May.

Spokane anglers are as keen as ever on Kootenay fishing and many are storing their tackle at Gray Creek, planning frequent trips to the Lake, he writes. All are showing keen interest in the Derby.

Interpreting

The War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

The true significance of the sea battle that has raged since Monday off Australia cannot be calculated until the circumstances that brought it on are revealed.

There is no question, however, that it represents the onset of the battle of Australia and that Japan has suffered heavy, if not crippling, naval losses, in its first stages.

Conflicting accounts make it impossible at this writing to evaluate the scope of the action accurately. There is the same conflict to which side was the interceptor and which the interceptor or as to just where the action has taken place.

Tokyo, which dubs it the "battle of the Coral Sea" has thus far done more than either Washington or allied headquarters in Australia to paint up the fight as a major sea battle. There is obvious propaganda as well as fishing for information in Tokyo's naming of battleships and American plane-carriers Saratoga and Yorktown as casualties.

There is no doubt however, that nearly a score of Japanese craft engaged on some offensive mission, including light and heavy cruisers, lesser war craft, transports and supply ships, have been sunk or damaged beyond early repair. That virtually confirms the assumption that an allied task force of relatively light strength intercepted a well-guarded Japanese invasion convoy near the Solomons and scored heavily in the first clash. The running fight followed, although there is still little to suggest a major fleet action.

That may be impending. It would depend upon the disposition of the main elements of the Japanese and United States fleets. That Japan is ready to risk her battle fleet far down in the Southwest corner of the Pacific, leaving the approaches to Japan itself and her China Sea lifelines screened only by her North and Central Pacific island outposts is hardly believable.

The continuing sea action tends to confirm the impression that the Japs have shifted their main war effort from the Indian Ocean front to the Pacific. It goes far to warrant previous predictions that with the conquest of Burma complete, Japan must pause there and turn to protection of her vulnerable Pacific flank gainst an ever incresing allied threat.

S. Slocan Club Plans Empire Day Celebration

SOUTH SLOCAN, B. C.—A well attended meeting of the Sports Club was held in the Community Hall when plans were made for Empire Day celebration. H. Metzgar, President, was in the chair.

The meeting was unanimous in the selection of a name for the sports field. It will be known as Campbell Park. It was the wish of the Women's Institute that the Sports Field should honor the name of Lorne Campbell, who had been a generous patron in helping to procure the site.

W. J. Tindale was invited to open the ceremonies on Empire Day. The convenors of committees were elected as follows: A. MacCrone and H. H. James as tarters; Judges, W. A. MacCabe, J. O'Gensky and R. Mulloy. Mr. Metzger agreed to take charge of the race course. The teachers, Miss I. Walker, South Slocan; Mrs. L. E. deCocq, Bonnington, and Miss R. Palmer, Crescent Valley, were asked to be clerks of the sports.

The Women's Institute were asked to provide refreshments and have the usual booths for lunches, ice cream and soft drinks.

Admission tickets would be drawn for prizes at the close of events.

Mrs. F. H. Russel, Secretary, was instructed to get particulars of suitable grass to be used for the park part of the field.

Cochrane Beaten by Marine in Close Brawl

BOSTON, May 8 (AP)— The Navy and Marines have seldom put on a better street corner brawl than did private first class Garvey Young, 149, U.S.M.C., and Boatswain's male Freddie "Red" Cochrane, 146, world welterweight champ, in a 10-round non-title bout tonight at Boston Garden for navy relief which saw the leatherneck taking the split verdict by a close margin.

Young employed a tantalizing left jab, which kept Cochrane off balance during most of the milling, and backed it up with his famed triphammer left hand which did devastating work on the sailor's face and body.

Cochrane, who has tasted action only once since he took the title from Fritzie Zivic in New York 1st October, was slow to warm up but put on a blistering finish in the last few rounds that was not quite strong enough to gain him the verdict.

The bout was not according to the strictest of Queensbury' rules, with the ancient rivalry of marine and sailor figuring strongly as the pair walloped away.

At one point in the seventh round, Young waded in and sent Cochrane half way through the ropes. Instead of stepping back, however, he whaled Cochrane a resounding left to the head and some harsh words were exchanged before Referee Johnny Martin separated the pair.

Nephew Willow Point Man Ducked in Sea

Experiences of Sgt. Wireless Air Gunner Worth Chisholm as a prisoner of war in a North African camp are told in a London, Ont., newspaper clipping received by his uncle, Joseph T. Thompson of Willow Point. The story concerns a letter written by the internee to his father, W. S. Chisholm of London.

Apparently Sgt. Chisholm had a ducking in the Mediterranean before he was interned in French Algeria for he mentions a "ducking" briefly in his letter, and also "I am quite well and happy and have quite recovered from my swim in the Mediterranean."

The pleasure derived by the prisoners from their bundles of food sent by the Red Cross is mentioned.

Excerpts from his letter telling the story of prison camp life follow:

"We do not do very much here other than read, eat and sit around a fire. We are well treated but I suppose this isn't winning the war . . ."

"We sure keep wonderful hours. We are in bed by ten and up around eight. The French supply us with wood stoves and all essentials so we are not lacking a great deal. We have a radio and we listen to all the news broadcasts . . .

"During the day we have classes in languages, mathematics and almost all subjects. We have lectures at night. These are not compulsory at all, but just a way to pass the time . . . .

"Our quarters are Eastern style and aren't too bad at all . . . There is a Newfoundlander and a French Canadian officer here as well."

Three hundred tons of valuable wartime pulp have come out of London transport records some dating back 80 years.

To Honor Canadian Soldier During Army Week, June 29 to July 5

OTTAWA, May 8 (CP)—Defence Minister Ralston announced today the week of June 29-July 5 inclusive will be observed across Canada as "Army Week."

"The Army Week program has been arranged as a result of repeated and insistent demands from the public for an opportunity to see more of the Canadian Army and to provide an opportunity for citizens to honor the men in khaki who are ready to give their lives, if necessary, as their contribution to the nation's safety," a National Defence Headquarters statement said

"There is a feeling that while considerable attention has been centred on other phases of the war effort, very little has been done to honor the individual Canadian soldier," said Col. Ralston.

Numerous civilian organizations have pledged cooperation in plans for Army Week and the military authorities have begun preparations.

Final details of the Army Week program will be announced in a national broadcast, "Honor the Canadian Army," on Sunday, June 28.

The official program will get under way Monday, June 29, dedicatel "Soldiers' Day", with dances, parties and special entertainments for men on service in Canada. Arrangements are being made for the men overseas to be remembered with parcels and gifts.

Tuesday will be "Civilian Day." Details of a program to encourage fraternization between the Army and civilians are being worked out. Civilians will be asked to prepare meals on a food ration system which the Army said, "may yet be a necessity in Canada." Restaurants will be asked to service meals identical with those of Canadian soldiers.

There will be garrison parades on "United Service Day," Wednesday, Dominion Day, in which the Active and Reserve force, the Canadian Women's Army Corps and members of the Canadian Legion and auxiliary forces and services will take part.

The 11 military districts of Canada will be featured Thursday, July 2, when programs will be presented under district arrangements.

Friday will be "Reserve Army Day." All members of the Canadian Reserve Army will be instructed to wear their uniforms. Special events will demonstrate the part the Reserve plays in the present war.

The United Nations will be feted July 4, and the part played in the Canadian Army by Canadians of foreign extraction will be emphasized, Detachments from the United States fordes will be invited to visit Canada and there will be competitive sports with American teams. Parades of Allied Nations, particularly civilians will be held.

Church services at both Active and Reserve Army camps and barracks will be held July 5, and all churches will be asked to devote their prayers to men of the armed forces and successful termination of the war. Training centres and camps, both Active and Reserve, will be open to the public.

During the week it is likely many Canadian soldiers will visit the United States and American fighting men will be guests of Canada, the Army statement said.

You've heard about the ball player who couldn't hit the side of a barn . . . Now comes the story of one who used the side of a barn to learn to hit . . . Jack Wallaesa, the Athletic's rookie, reports that he used to lunge at a pitch. To cure him, Lefty O'Doul tied a rope around his chest, fastened the other end to a barn and made him practice hitting that way . . . "Now every time I feel myself batting the old way, I expect to be knocked down, so I don't do it," Wallaesa explains.

LONDON (CP) — Four international and other service rugby games in London and the provinces this season raised more than $50,000 for war charities. A wider scale is planned for next season.

Durocher Did Not Sign Player Contract

BROOKLYN, May 8 (AP)—Leo Durocher, the non-playing "Player-Manager" of Brooklyn Dodgers, did not sign a player's contract this Spring, it was learned today.

His retirement from active service after 14 years as an infielder in both the Major Leagues was kept secret apparently because the Brooklyn Club did not know whether it would be permanent.

If Durocher had signed as a player and then retired when the Major League squads are reduced to 25 players May 15, he could not have returned to the active list later during the season. By not signing a player's contract originally, however, he will be able to return to the active list at any time his services are needed.

He still is on Brooklyn's reserve list, but all other National League clubs have waived on him and the club is expected to give him an unconditional release as a player within a few days.

80 Masons Meet At Kaslo

KASLO, B. C.—B. A. Stimmel of Trail, District Grand Master of the Masonic Lodge, attended a successful meeting of local and out of town Masons last Tuesday evening. About 80 attended and a banquet was enjoyed at the pavilion at Vimy Park.

LONDON, (CP).—Jackie Paterson, who holds the British Isles and British Empire flyweight boxing championship, will undergo an operation for removal of a knee cartilage which has troubled him for many months. It is likely that when Paterson returns to the ring he will battle Jim Brady for Brady's Empire bantamweight title.

NORWEGIAN OFFICERS VISIT VERNON ON RECRUIT CAMPAIGN

VERNON, B. C., May 8 (CP)—FO. Dr. O. A. Weisener of Little Norway, Ont., where Norwegian airmen are being trained, and Lt. W. Melbye of Montreal, were in Vernon yesterday while enroute East after visiting important centres across the Dominion to conscript Norwegians.

Americans Enjoy Vice-Regal Tea Despite Curtsey

OTTAWA, May 8 (CP)—The little American lady didn't want to curtsey to Princess Alice, no matter what custom ordained.

"I always said I'd never curtsey to anybody," she said.

"But somehow there was something or other about her that made me want to. So I did. I hope I wasn't too awkward."

Her reaction was typical of that expressed by a handful of American women, guests of the Countess of Athlone, wife of Canada's Governor General, at Government House yesterday. Most of them were thrilled as schoolgirls to meet Princess Alice.

The visitors are in Ottawa as representatives of the United States Committee on the cause and cure of war to discuss problems with members of the Canadian Women's Committee on International Relations.

Princess Alice was every bit as interested in her visitors as they were in their hostess. She talked with many of them individually.

Order-in-Council for Shipyard Schedules Posted

VANCOUVER, May 8 (CP)—A Federal order-in-council "Ordering and Directing" adoption of continuous production schedules was being posted today in all British Columbia shipyards on orders of Labor Minister Humphrey Mitchell.

The order-in-council was released today by F. E. Harrison, Western representative of the Department of Labor. It was passed May 1 and apparently had been held in abeyance in hope of a peaceful settlement with the Machinists' and Black smiths' unions which have refused to give the continuous production program their support.

A spokesman for the Machinists' said today he had not been informed of the order, which puts the new program into effect as from May 1.

The order declared that the continuous production plan had been approved by all managements of the shipyards and by nine of the 11 shipyard unions with more than 14,000 members.

Ten thousand ton freighters are being built by the shipyards for Wartime Shipping Limited.

LONDON (CP) — Many British housewives, temporarily relinguishing the struggle to replace broken crockery in the usual manner, are buying beakers—handleless cups — instead of cups which are becoming more and more scarce.

CONTRACT . . . By Shepard Barclay

MAKE THE TRY AT ONCE

ONE COMBINATION of cards which is frequently misplayed, by a No Trump declarer of fair ability, is composed of a singly guarded queen in the dummy, opposite the ace and one or two little cards of the suit, when the opening leader has clearly chosen a fourth best. If the opponents had done no bidding to disclose the situation, it is nearly always best to play the queen at once. The reason is simple. That is practically its only chance to win, the chance that the king had been underled. If the king is held by the partner of the leader, the queen is as good as gone, whether it is played or not. If the small card is called, the next opponent should cover it with a high intermediate card and keep his king to knock off the queen later.

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♦	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 NT

It was a shame to see East fail to make his contract on this deal in a rubber bridge game. After South led the heart 2, he reflected briefly and decided that North probably had the K. Hence he played the 5, and the 8 was put on by North. East let that win, but then took the heart J with the A. His contract was wrecked right there for, as soon as he led the spade J, the A came in, and three more hearts put him down one.

If East had come in with the heart Q on the opening lead, he would have held the trick. When he then lost to the spade A, he still would have possessed the heart A as a stopper. Two tricks in hearts, plus four in spades, one in diamonds and two in clubs would have given him his game.

Four Week-End Lessons

What should be the very first lesson given by a sound teacher to someone who "plays at" bridge but has never studied it? Is it to use his thinking ability the best he can at all stages? Or does something still more fundamental than that come first?

Penalty Looms for Employers Who Don't Turn In Insurance and Registration Cards by Saturday

The Unemployment Insurance Commission has now fixed a deadline for the return of registration cards and old insurance books to Employment and Claims Offices.

In a statement received by the Nelson office it was announced by James H McVety, Regional Superintendent, Pacific Region Office that Saturday, May 16, has been set as the final day on which these cards and old books must be turned in to Employment and Claims Offices if imposition of penalties is to be avoided. By that date employers will have had more than a month in which to comply with the requirement that these registration cards supplied to them by the Commission shall be returned together with the old books.

The fact that information to be supplied on these cards is urgently needed in order that an inventory of Canada's available man-power can be made was emphasized once again by Mr McVety. In order that Canada's labor resources shall be utilized in the most effective manner it is necessary to secure information about Canadian workers. The registration cards supply this information and thus enable the Government to build up its man-power inventory. Employers who have failed to turn in the cards are thus holding up an important branch of War Work.

The insurance aspect of the matter was also referred to by Mr McVety. He pointed out that insurance books for the present fiscal year cannot be issued until the old books accompanied by the registration cards are turned in to Employment and Claims Offices. Employers, failing to fill out and turn in the cards, together with the old books, are rendering themselves liable to penalties.

Market Trends . . .

LONDON, May 8 (AP).—Today's stock market was quiet excepting for a sharp advance near the close in the kaffir development shares West Witwatersrand. Dividend papers were maintained.

NEW YORK—Selected industrial stocks continued to lean forward but buying faltered after an early brisk push.

There was a smattering of new highs and lows for the year.

TORONTO — The stock market failed to hold its early gains today. Gold stocks were down slightly for the day at the close.

MONTREAL — Utilities pointed upward in trading but the balance of issues boarded followed an irregular path.

VANCOUVER- Trading failed to show signs of a pick-up during the morning session. In mines Bralorne firmed to 6.75.

WINNIPEG — Moderate export trade combined with mill purchases and light local transactions came into trading. Wheat futures closed unchanged with May at 79¼B cents a bushel and July at 80⅝B.

Another export shipment of wheat estimated at approximately 200,000 bushels was reported worked to Portugal.

CHICAGO—Early fractional gains that carried wheat to highs for the past month and corn to best figures in about two weeks erased today as the grain market turned reactionary due to increased profit taking.

Monster Parade Marks Creston's 50th Birthday and Apple Blossom Festival; Floats Recount History of Valley

CRESTON, B.C., May 8.—One of the most colorful parades seen in the Interior featured Apple Blossom Day and Creston's fiftieth anniversary today. Following the parade, F. V. Staples, President of the Lions Club, which sponsored the event, called on Guy Constable, Trade Board President, to introduce the guest speakers of the afternoon. These were Lieut.-Col. E. Mallaindaine, Reeve of Creston, who spoke in congratulatory terms of the parade! Mayor N. C. Stibbs of Nelson, who brought that city's greetings to the Valley; and Frank Putnam, M.L.A., for Nelson-Creston, who briefly reviewed the Valley's progress during the past 50 years.

Led by Constables Whittaker and Cuningham of the R. C. M. P. in full dress uniform, mounted on horses and followed by standard-bearers and men of the Creston Legion and Creston band, the monster procession wound from the elevators, up Main street to Barton Avenue, swung up the block past the Creston Hospital, and down by the Creston Hotel, and along Main Street, which was crowded with cheering spectators, continuing down to the Exhibition Park, where it broke up, following band performances and speeches by the officials.

INDIANS, PACKERS, COVERED WAGON

Following the official cars in the parade was a Lions float, then the cavalcade of Creston, which included a group of Indians bedecked in their finest regalia, a pack train led by oldtimers, a covered wagon and the always popular medicine wagon, all drawn by teams.

Then came the railway, showing the first steel; the first car, and then the agricultural floats.

Floats depicting the forestry service, the hospital, high school track meet, as well as all the war organizations, and a large number of merchants, added color to the procession.

Very impressive and adding greatly to the parades magnificence was Nelson's 24 piece band, followed by Creston High School Cadets, Red Cross Cadet corps and Cranbrook's C.W.T.C. bugle band under the direction of Sergt. Price.

Completing the parade was a fine array of tractors, farm-alls combines and H. Young's first spraying outfit from Canyon, and the Electron Orchestra float.

LIONS' CARNIVAL AT PARK

At 4 o'clock the Exhibition Park swung open its doors for the Lions' Blossm Carnival, and hundreds of spectators jammed the booths, where wheels, bingo, housie-housie and various other games were in progress. An orchestra was in attendance, and jitney dancing featured the evening.

Outdoors Flats farmers challenged the apple growers to a baseball game, with the latter taking the honors in this field.

Saturday evening the carnival continues till midnight.
