GREAT BATTLES FOUGHT IN AIR IN R.A.F. RAIDS

Nazis Suddenly Put Up Many Planes in Defence

EIGHT BRITISH, 9 NAZIS DOWN

By J. WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 17 (CP)— The Germans in occupied France suddenly put up its first real opposition to British fighters in several weeks today and sought in day long battles to smash one of the biggest R.A.F. cross channel sweeps of the year. At least nine Nazi and eight British aircraft were reported destroyed.

So heavy was the R.A.F. attack that observers described the morning bombardment as one of the heaviest and most continuous series of explosions since the days of Dunkerque."

Marshal Goering's air force for the first time in weeks put its full-scale fighter strength into the attempts to smash back the British attack ,reversing sharply the recent German policy of conserving their strength while trying to pick off stragglers.

In this connection Goering was reported to have been in Paris recently and it was not definitely known whether he had gone back to Germany. It was possible that one of the objects of his trip to occupied Frnce was to bolster aerial resistance, with the results shown in Sunday's heavy fighting.

Boston bombers, roaring under an umbrella of Spitfire and Hurricane fighters, smashed at Boulogne's much bombed docks.

CEASELESS ACTION

The R.A.F. fighter sweeps continued ceaselessly from dawn to dusk despite the German resistance. Some channel observers said it was the largest scale air combat since the German battleships dashed through the Dover Strait with their heavy aerial protection.

The detonations on the enemy side of the Channel jolted buildings in England for half an hour during the morning.

Four German Messerschmitts raided a Southeast coast town, doing some damage to buildings and caused a few casualties.

It was presumed that bad weather over the continent again grounded long range planes of the bomber command but bright sunlight today made sweeps possible.

Malta Batteries Blast E-Boats

VALETTA, May 17 (CP)—Coastal batteries sank one and possibly two swift E-boats Saturday night and anti-aircraft fire and R.A.F. fighters downed eight more Axis planes in continuing raids during the night and today, the communique said.

It was the first mention in months of Axis surface craft near this Mediterranean stronghold, 60 miles off Italian Sicily.

One pilot shot down three Italian bombers during two hours and 25 minutes of fighting late Saturday.

Relatively light raids were made today and one German bomber and four fighters were destroyed. Two flying boats and two fighters were damaged, the communique added.

74 Citizens of U. S. Free

LISBON, May 7 (AP.)—Seventy-four bedraggled citizens of the United States—diplomats, news correspondents and their families—arrived in Lisbon Saturday night after five months of internment in Germany.

They were on the first of three special trains bringing 132 United States citizens and 120 Central and South Americans from concentration points in Germany, where they had awaited completion of tedious negotiations for exchange of German diplomats and news men in the Western Hemisphere.

One hundred and twenty-five Americans already had arrived in Lisbon from Italy.

All are to go home on the diplomatic exchange ship Dottningholm.

Should Make Base of Australia at Once

LONDON, May 17 (CP) — Britain and the United States would "fly to the rescue" if Japan attempted to invade Australia but the Commonwealth could be secured as a base now with smaller expenditure of material, Dr. Herbert Vere Evatt, Australian External Affairs Minister, declared tonight.

"Japanese invasion bases in New Guinea threaten Australia as surely as Britain was threatened by enemy holds in Calais and Dunkerque," the Minister said adding that the "Battle of Australia" now has begun.

British Prepare Last Stand on Burma Front

LONDON, May 17 (AP.)—A hardy handful of the sorely tried British army in upper Burma is preparing a last desperate rear-guard action against the Japanese along the Chindwin River parallel to the Indian border while its spent and wounded comrades are withdrawn Westward through the savage hill country, a London military commentator declared yesterday.

For the second successive day the New Delhi military spokesman said there had been no contact with the enemy during the last 24 hours, but the London commentator said General Harold Alexander was posting those of his men who still had equipment to hold the Japanese back from India as long as possible.

The wounded and those who have lost their equipment are making their way into India to rest and reorganize.

This movement led to reports here yesterday that the army already had retired into India, said the commentator, but there has not yet been a general withdrawal.

To Cancel War Contracts Behind Schedule

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP) — A spokesman for the United States war Production Board said Saturday night that almost all contracts for war plants which cannot be completed and in production by mid-1943 will be cancelled.

The decision—giving complete emphasis to Chairman Donald Nelson's do it now philosophy, means that approximately two thirds of all the war plant construction approved or under contract will be abandoned.

The W. P. B. was said to have been guided by two maor considerations, severe shortages of raw materials and belief that developments this Spring and Summer may spell a turning point in the war.

It was explained that construction will be pushed on such facilities as synthetic rubber and aviation gasoline, plants, but will be cut down on such projects as new steel plants.

Japs Forced Back With Terrific Losses by Chinese

Flying Tigers Pound Base Where Japs Prepare Attack

REPORT CHINESE WIN 3 BATTLES

By SPENCER MOOSA
(Associated Press Staff Writer).

CHUNGKING, May 17 (AP).—The Chinese have administered a series of resounding defeats to Japanese columns probing Northward of the Burma Road on the West side of the Salween River in Burma, the Chinese High Command announced today as attacks by the American Flying Tigers indicated a new threat may be developing from the South in French Indo-China.

A communique said the column which had moved Northeast of Lungling on the Burma Road had been driven all the way back to the highway with half of its original strength wiped out.

At the same time the Chinese Central News said the Japanese who had captured Tengyueh, 25 miles West of the Salween and 35 miles Northwest of Lungling, and then advanced against Hungsmushu had been thrown back in headlong retreat to the South.

The New Delhi radio in India reported a third Chinese victory to the South, between the Salween and Mekong Rivers, but apparently not until the Japanese had made a further advance to Kengtung, 60 miles inside the Burma frontier from Thailand. This report said the Chinese had driven the Japanese out of Kengtung, inflicting more than 1000 casualties upon them.

HEAVY BOMBING

Widespread bombing action by American and Chinese fliers was reported by the Central News, and one of these raids pointed to the possibility that the Japanese may be preparing to begin a new offensive from their bases in Indo-China.

The Flying Tigers carried out a devastating attack on Laokay, in Indo-China near the Chinese border, sending bombs among Japanese trains and causing great damage.

If the Japanese are, in fact, preparing to open up a new front from Indo-China, the offensive would mark an extension of their operations already menacing the Chinese from a more Westerly Southern front along the Thailand frontier.

With the Chinese holding firmly the Eastern bank of the Salween River, the Japanese were attempting to threaten their rear by driving Northward from Thailand between the Salween and Mekong Rivers.

Observers said the mountainous country, the sparse population and the prevalence of malaria were factors weighing against the success of this Japanese thrust at Kengtung.

DIMINISHED GAS RATIONS TURNED DOWN BY N. S.

Discrimination is Charged of Premier

MANY PEOPLE WERE STRANDED

HALIFAX, May 17 (CP.)—Nova Scotians refuse to accept diminished gasoline rations while all Canada outside the Maritime Provinces continues with unchanged rationing, Premier A. S. MacMillan declared Saturday in a telegram of protest to Munitions Minister Howe.

(The basis of gasoline rationing tickets in the Maritimes was reduced Friday from five to two gallons because of a shortage in this area. The rest of the Dominion remained on a five-gallon basis).

"We in Nova Scotia will accept any conditions found necessary if the same regulation is general throughout Canada but refuse to accept present order while Maritime Provinces are discriminated against," the Premier said in his telegram.

RESENT ACTION

Mr. MacMillan said the action was "resented" in the Maritimes.

In the first place, his message said, "reasonable notice" of at least 24 hours hould have been given. Many persons had been "hundreds of miles away from their homes and could not secure sufficient to enable their return."

The Premier added:

"We in Nova Scotia, I think, have demonstrated our willingness to cooperate in the war effort, but cannot accept arbitrary discrimination."

With a refinery in Halifax, he told Mr. Howe, gasoline always has been available in the Maritimes at the "lowest possible prices." Gasoline company officials had claimed they were obliged to ship gasoline to Quebec at a loss, "thus preventing discrimination against Quebec."

"Today, however, the situation is reversed and, because there is a shortage at Halifax refinery, we are discriminated against and are not on a par with the rest of Canada."

FREDERICTON, May 17 (CP.)—Reduction of gasoline rations in the Maritimes was protested Saturday by Premier J. B. McNair of New Brunswick in a telegram to Munitions Minister Howe.

He declared that the order carried the "odor of gross discrimination' 'particularly in view of recent Press reports that the consumption of gasoline in other areas of Canada last month was higher than a year ago.

Hart May Seek Gov't. Views on U.S. Purchase of P. G. E.

OTTAWA, May 17 (CP)—Informed sources said today it was proable that Premier John Hart of British Columbia, now en route to the capital, would seek the federal government's views on the proposed purchase of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway by American interests and its extension to Alaska.

Adam Johnston, Vancouver lawyer, said yesterday in that city that New York and Chicago Railroad interests which he represented were negotiating for purchase of the road and if they were successful would extend it to Alaska.

Vichy Threatens to Sabotage Ships if U. S. Attempts Seizure

VICHY, May 17 (AP)—Authorized Vichy sources gave an implied warning to the U. S. today that any effort to take over French merchant ships at Martinique would be answered by orders to their crews to sabotage the vessels.

Sunday afternoon newspapers, the first to appear since Laval's announcement of rejection of most of the U. S. demands published in full the text of the communication that chief of government said Washington had delivered to High Commissioner Admiral Georges Robert at Martinique and of the communication Laval said he had sent to the U. S.

Meanwhile Vichy ordered observance of "empire fortnight" with demonstrations, including officially organized protests against the British occupation of Madagascar in the Indian Ocean.

A meeting at Lyon, which was presided over by Pual Creyssel, director of Propaganda, adopted a resolution supporting any effort to "reconsider the territories which have been wrested from us" and ended with a parade of several hundred persons through the heart of the city crying "down with England!"

ALLIES DOWN 9 JAP PLANES IN PACIFIC ATTACKS

Nine Turned Away in Attempt to Raid Port Moresby

ALLIED ATTACKS REPORTED HEAVY

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, May 18 (Monday)—(CP.) — Nine Japanese fighters were repulsed this morning attempting to attack Port Moresby, Allied base on the Southern coast of New Guinea, with one raiding plane destroyed and two damaged.

Nine Japanese planes were destroyed in three attacks at Lae, New Guinea, and a 10th was damaged in the Deboyne Islands in four destructive raids by bombers with mixed Australian and United States crews, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced yesterday.

"Numerous fires were started" in three attacks on Lae, much-bombed enemy invasion springboard to the Northeast of Australia, the communique said. Eight bombers were destroyed on the ground and a Zero fighter was shot down in flames.

Hits were registered on the ground, runways and buildings at Lae, a seaplane was damaged at Deboyne island in the Louisiade archipelago , Southeast of New Guinea.

The raids on Lae were described unofficially as among the heaviest ever made by the Allies in this area.

Heavy, highly explosive bombs pitted the airdromes and incendiaries were used, freely and the whole area was burning fiercely when the raiders turned home.

"The Japanese were surprised completely," a correspondent with the bombers said. For the first time the Japanese used anti-aircraft guns from floating rigs in the harbor. These were heavily attacked. Two near misses "probably killed many of the crew and damaged the guns."

There were no Allied losses.

12,000 Nazis Fall As Great Kharkov Advance Continues

Tons of Equipment Taken, 65 Planes Shot Down; Fierce Battle Raging in Kerch; Red Fleet Beats off Attacks

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, May 18 (Monday) (AP) — The Russian offensive on the Kharkov front has resulted in a Soviet advance of from 20 to 60 kilometres (from 12.4 to 37 miles) and the recapture of 300 populated places, the Government announced in a special communique today.

The smashing Red armies have inflicted a terrific toll upon the Germans, killing about 12,000 Nazi soldiers and officers during the week's onslaught in this area, the announcement said.

"The offensive continues," the bulletin concluded.

More than 1200 prisoners have been taken, the announcement said, and a great amount of Nazi war material has fallen to the Red Army. Four hundred German tanks have been destroyed.

The special announcement followed official advices from the front telling of the headlong flight of broken German forces before Kharkov, key to the all-important Ukraine. German resistance in the Kharkov sector has been "definitely broken," it was stated.

The special announcement summarized action before Kharkov since the opening of the Soviet offensive there May 12, and pronounced the first week's operations a resounding success for the Red Army.

It said:

"On May 12 our troops, launching an offensive in the Kharkov region, broke through the German defence line and, having repulsed a counter-attack of large enemy tank formations and armored troops, are pressing forward Westward.

"From May 12 to May 16 our units advanced to a depth of 20 to 60 kilometres and liberated more than 300 inhabited localities.

"During the same period, according to incomplete figures, our troops captured the following trophies from the enemy: 365 guns, 25 tanks, 188 mortars, 379 machine guns, 46,413 shells and 89 cases of shells.

"Other trophies were 23,384 mines about 1,000,000 cartridges, 13,000 hand grenades, 90 trucks, 29 radio stations, and 38 artillery provision and supply dumps.

1200 PRISONERS

"More than 1200 prisoners were taken.

"During the same period we destroyed 400 German tanks 210 guns, 33 mortars, 217 machine guns, about 700 trucks, more than 100 supply carts, 12 dumps of various kinds and 147 planes.

"About 12,000 German soldiers and officers were killed during the period from May 12 to 16.

"The offensive continues."

With both the German and Russian Air Forces playing a big role in the fighting, the Russians said their airmen and ground defences knocked down 65 Nazi craft during Saturday when Soviet losses were 20 planes.

Reorts received by Red Star, Soviet Army newspaper, did not disclose just where the German Ukrainian defences had been breached but other Russian reports said a Red force flanking Kharkov was approaching Krasnograd in a deep flanking action 10 miles Southwest of Kharkov after Soviet artillery, massed along a front of many miles unleashed a two-hour bombardment.

Far to the Crimea, official Russian reports said, a fierce battle throughout the night in the region of the city of Kerch, which the Russians claimed Saturday had been captured but where Russian resistance was said to continue.

An Exchange Telegraph dispatch to London from Moscow said fighting within Kerch itself was continuing with Red Star reporting destruction of a "multitude" of German tanks and armored cars.

Krasnograd, immediate objective of the Red Force driving into the heart of the Ukraine, toward the Dnieper River, formerly was Constantinograd and about midway between Kharkov and the Dnieper.

So heavy was the bombardment of the Russian artillery in the Ukraine that Red Star ironically observed that "the noisy approach of Spring undoubtedly was heard in Kharkov and Krasnograd."

While the Red Army kept up the fight on the Kerch Peninsula, the Red Fleet and its air arm were reported to have repulsed a German torpedo-plane on a transport.

Seven planes launched 10 torpedoes against the vessel, it was said, but all missed the mark and the planes were dispersed by the Russian planes.

Continued clashes in Far Northern waters was indicated by the announced sinkings of a 6,000-ton enemy ransport trying to negotiate the Barents Sea. The Russians reported Sunday that a transport and a destroyer had been sunk and another destroyer probably sunk in those waters.

Coroner's Jury Finds Powell Death Accident

A verdict of accidental death, with no blame attached to anyone, was returned by the coroner's jury which investigated the death of David Powell, Nelson hotelman fatally injured April 25 in a collision between his car and a Greyhound bus driven by Earl Reid. The inquest was completed Friday after a lengthy adjournment to permit the evidence of Mrs. Powell, who was injured with her husband, to be obtained. This was taken at Kootenay Lake General Hospital.

The jury at its final sessions also heard J. J. McEwen, mechanic, give evidence on the condition of the car; and heard Dr. G. R. Barrett, who made the post mortem examination, state death was due to internal injuries which caused hemorrhage.

The jury consisted of C. F. McHardy, foreman, W. H. Smedley, Ole Olson, Frank Weber, Joseph Crosby and William H. Oliver.

MCLARY RENOMINATED

PORTLAND, May 17 (AP)—Senate minority leader Charles L. McNary, who was so busy in Washington he couldn't come home to campaign, overwhelmingly won the republican renomination Friday.

The Weather

Nelson had two visitations of frost over the weekend. After Friday temperature extremes of 37 and 57 degrees, Saturday had a low of 30 and a high of 63, while Sunday the dip was to 33, and the top temperature, 6, giving a spread of 33 degrees two days in succession. While Friday had a few hours of sunshine in the afternoon, Saturday registered 11½ hours of it, and Sunday 2 hours.

Rising over a foot in three days, the lake at Nelson stood at 6:28 feet above the low mater mark at noon Sunday, compared with 6.03 Saturday, 5.70 Friday, and 5.17 Thursday. Friday's rise was .53 foot, or over half a foot. The rise for the 24 hours ending at noon Sunday was just a quarter of a foot, or .23 foot.

"Not Guilty" Is Jury Verdict in Martha White Manslaughter Trial Completed Here in Its Sixth Day

"Not guilty" was the verdict returned by the jury Saturday afternoon in the trial for manslaughter of Martha Aileen White in Supreme Court here. The 19-year-old girl, charged in connection with the death of her 10-weeks-old son, strove to control her tears as she stood in the prisoner's dock to hear Mr. Justice Ellis' words, "The jury has found you not guilty. You are discharged."

The charge against Miss White was that 'at Trail between Nov. 17 and Jan. 28 she did kill and slay Edward Wayne Kantel, otherwise known as Edward Wayne White."

VERDICT ON 6TH DAY

The verdict was given as the trial completed its sixth day. The jurors after hearing arguments of A. G. Cameron, of Trail, Defence Counsel, and C. B. Garland, Crown Prosecutor, and the Judge's charge, retired at 2:15 p.m. Foreman W. A. Harrison announced its findings at 3:16 p.m. Spectators filled the galleries to hear the verdict. Fifteen prosecution witnesses and seven defence witnesses had been heard in the five preceding days.

'I shall not endeavor to indicate to you my opinion in the case," Mr. Justice Ellis said in his charge to the jury, emphasized "It is for you as sole judges of the facts to come to your conclusions on evidence presented to you."

Manslaughter, he explained, was based on death without intent to kill, but in the presence of unlawfulness. Attention was drawn to the differences between manslaughter and murder. A charge of manslaughter could be based on the failure and omission to provide the necessaries for the care of a child in the charge of an adult, on the omission being without lawful excuse, and on the death being caused by such omissions.

The jurors, he said, must distinguish between statements sworn to, and the fact, at the same time being careful not to accept inferences as he truth. Guilt must be established beyond a reasonable doubt, they were told.

"It is for you to give the benefit of the doubt to the accused if you believe her excuses, and to acquit her," said Mr. Justice Ellis, after presenting a resume of the evidence.

SHOWS INNOCENT MIND

One of the strongest points in the favor of Miss White and one that revealed an innocent mind, Mr. Cameron said in his argument to the jury, was the fact that the mother, though going for medical attention herself, and having the baby in a car close by at the time, did not even take it in to a doctor because it was so well. He recalled her statement when giving testimony on her own behalf, "I would have taken my baby to the hospital if there was anything wrong with it.

He pointed out that the loss in weight of the baby, whose death it was believed resulted from malnutrition, had been almost infinitesimal, a third of an ounce a day over a 60-day period. Coroner J. S. Daly of Trail had said that gradual losses of weight in a baby commonly went unnoticed by those used to the presence of the baby.

Evidence before the court had shown the baby was premature, he declared, and medical testimony had shown such babies lacked the stamina of other infants. In addition the parent had been supplied with a formula meant only as a supplementary feed, and the infant was dieted on something that apparently was not sufficient.

He recalled testimony of the mother's grief at the child's death, and the description of many witnesses that she had been a loving mother. Miss White had not attempted to hide the fact when she noticed her baby ailing, Mr. Cameron pointed out from testimony, but had rushed for aid.

"Will you convict a girl, who was sick, who swore she did all she could or knew how for her baby, of unlawfully killing and slaying a baby whom she loved and cared for?' he asked.

Mr. Garland stated he intended only to rehearse the evidence of the accused and of F. W. Kantel, registered father of the child, for 'to these two alone is known the truth of the treatment given to the baby."

From a welter of affirmations and denials had come facts. It was apparent the baby had been born alive to Miss White, he said, and had been progressing when it left the Trail-Tadanac Hospital, and despite all evidence it was fed, it died of starvation in 59 days.

"It is enough to say, and the fact is, that the baby died of starvation, Mr. Garland declared. Testimony had shown that the adoption of the baby had been discussed even before the baby had been born, and that a month after its birth a further attempt had been made to part with her baby by adoption. Mr. Garland recalled evidence showing the girl had previously rid herself of other irksome situations, suggesting that the baby had become a burden to the mother when the circumstances of her life and surroundings were considered. Evidence showed Miss White had been capable physically and mentally to 'meet Kantel and administer to his domestic needs. Surely then she was capable of the care of a baby."

Before opening his argument Mr. Garland said he was "sure that never before within the walls of this room has there been an abler case for defence than that presented by the Defence Counsel."

The jury consisted of W. A. Harrison, Foreman, Albert Renwick, and Leo A. Desireau, Nelson; William L. Lake, Warfield, Harold Evans, Rossland; Samuel J. Harlow, Sheep Creek; Allister C. Milne, Edgewood; William E. Lane Jr., of Ainsworth; and C. D. N. Taylor of Ymir.

Adolph Lapointe, Sailor, Brickmaker and Pioneer Hotelman, Dies

Adolph Lapointe — sailor of the days of sail; brickmaker of smelter building days in Nevada, Montana, Idaho, Washington and the Kootenays; brickmaker after Spokane's great fire; and long-ranking hotelman of Nelson—died Saturday at his residence here. He was 86. From the time he left his birthplace in St. Helena, Que., at the age of 17, his life was eloquent of the development of the West.

Surviving him are his son George and a daughter, Mrs. Bruno Bourgeois, both of Nelson; eight grandchildren and two great grandchildren. Mrs. Lapointe, partner in his many ventures in the West, died Sept. 29, 1940, five years after they had celebrated their golden wedding. Mr. Lapointe was also predeceased by a son Arthur, who drowned on Kootenay Lake in May last year; and a daughter, Mrs. William Mills, who died in April, 1935. His first son died in infancy in Idaho.

AROUND CAPE HORN

Mr. Lapointe left home when 17 to seek his fortune abroad. After a short time in New York State he went to sea aboard a West and Southbound sailing ship which, in the course of an arduous seven months journey, took him around stormy Cape Horn. He left the ship at San Francisco with $5 in his pocket and made his way to Eureka, Nev., to follow his trade of brickmaker.

This work took him to Phillipsburg, Mont., and then to Idaho. During his stay in Idaho he returned home to St. Helena, where, on February 10, 1885, he was married to Miss Georgina Monin.

Returning to the West, Mr. Lapointe set up a brickyard in Phillipsburg, Mont. The ashes of the great Spokane fire were still warm when he saw opportunity there, and he immediately removed to Spokane and started a brickyard to supply the needs of the city as it was rebuilding.

From Spokane he went to Montesano, Wash., and after establishing a new yard he obtained a contract for a bank building.

TO KOOTENAYS IN 1892

The Kootenay was then opening up and when the Pilot Bay Smelter on Kootenay Lake was launched he was engaged to make bricks for it. He crossed the border in 1892. His contract completed with the erection of the smelter, he became a miner in the Bluebell at Riondel. There his future was charted, for six months after going to Riondel, he took over management of the mine boarding house.

In 1895 he moved to Nelson, and during the first year or so of his residence here erected the Grand Central Hotel, later destroyed by fire. He sold the hotel and for two years operated a boarding house. Then he sold out again, going to Vancouver and purchasing the Ottawa Hotel on Pender Street. Eighteen months later he went to Kamloops and for 3½ years operated the Kamloops Hotel.

The Kootenays called him again, and he returned to Nelson to purchase, and for many years to operate, the Queens Hotel, Baker Street. In later years he had not been active.

Interpreting The War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
(Associated Press War Analyst)

Mid-way of this crucial year of 1942 has been ushered in by a deepening new crescendo of battle nad sudden death. No continent or sea is utouched by a war that has no limits.

In the midst of the ever-mounting conflict of conquest loosed upon the world by the Axis blossoms the hope that this final tumult will prove the beginning of the end that somehow, somewhere it will be made clear before Winter that the Axis war lords are being herded into the pit of destruction they have dug for themselves.

Is that hope just another fond delusion in the minds of peoples dragged into the vast struggle? Or has it some basis of reality? Os possibility, to help brace Allied courage and resolution?

Nowhere except in Russia has an expectation of 1942 victory been authoritatively voiced. And it is in Russia, now aflame with battle on a scale that staggers the imagination yet is only a mere curtain raiser for what is to come, that the answer must be found.

There now is little doubt that Hitler's week-old lunge Eastward in the Crimea heralds the opening of his promised Summer campaign to annihilate Russia.

The most hopeful indication is that Red Armies are fulfilling the pledge of their leaders to strike back effectively.

On the basis of meagre and utterly conflicting Russian and German disclosures as to the progress of these first clashes of the 1942 campaign it is impossible to gauge the battle trend except in one crucial respect. There is every early intimation that Hitler has lost in Russia the weapon he used effectively to carve out his previous stunningly swift victories on the continent, the trump ace of the marked deck with which he plays the game of war—surprise.

Russian reaction to the Crimean drive is to attack simultaneously at many scattered points. The major purpose obviously is to pin Nazi reserves to defencive positions.

Red leaders are taking full advantage of the limitless manpower reserves at their command. Their strategy also must be governed by what they know definitely of the Winter wastage of German manpower in meeting endless and scattered Russian attacks.

That Russian Winter offensive—substantial as was the aggregate of Russian territory released from the grip of the foe—primarily as a battle of man-power attrition.

Russian supiority in that respect is probably the dominant element in the situation which prompts Russian official hopes of 1942 victory.

Huge Meteor Passes Over Nelson

A fiery meteor of unusual proportions and brilliance was seen in the sky above Nelson about 4:15 a.m. Saturday. Constable John Whitfield of the City Police Force, and trainmen of a late C.P.R. freight when at Procter, reported seeing the phenomenon.

Constable Whitfield described the fiery body as appearing to be about a large globe and blue-white in color. A long trail of smoke showing the meteor's course, starting in the West and travelling in a Northeasterly direction, remained several minutes after it blacked out, which was while it was still above the horizon.

Three Hun Supply Ships Set Afire

LONDON, May 17 (CP)—R.A.F. Hudson bombers set fire to three German supply ships and hit several others in attacks on two German convoys off the Frisian Islands in the North Sea Friday night.

The British pilots raked the convoys from a lew level despite strong German escorts.

Five of the bombers failed to return.

It was the second sortie in as many days in which three enemy ships were sunk or damaged. Yesterday the R.A.F. attacked a German minesweeping flotilla off Cherbourg France, sinking one, leaving another sinking and damaging a third.

Hudsons of the Canadian Demon squadron took part in last night's attack and scored direct hits on some ships.

The Canadians were led by Flt. Lt. Roy Christie, broadshouldered North Bay, Ont., pilot, who until recently was an instructor at Brantford Ont.

It was the third time in two weeks that Canadians have blasted Nazi shipping and, as in previous raids, they were accompanied by a squadron of the Royal Netherlands Naval Air Service.

The enemy ships were heavily escorted and the aircraft had to pass through a more powerful barrage than usually encountered. Strength of the escort was an indication of the importance the Nazis attached to the safety of the convoys but bombs found their marks nonetheless and three supply ships were left burning and four others were probably hit.

Christie, who attacked a vessel of 4000 to 5000 tons, reported a terrific explosion on the stern.

"I left the ship well on fire," he said. "Twenty miles on the way to home I could see it and two others still burning."

Internal explosions were seen in another ship after it was hit while a Netherlands aircraft was turned almost upside down by th eforce of the explosion when its bombs fell amidships in a large vessel. The crew of another Hudson saw flames 100 feet high after a mast-high attack.

BERLIN—The German radio today said that small formations of British planes raided Heligoland and the West coast of Denmark Friday night.

Churchill Says "We Can Play Rough Too"

LEEDS, England, May 16 (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill told Yorkshire workers today if Britain's enemy "plays rough, we can play rough too."

Following is the text of Prime Minister Churchill's address today at Leeds Town Hall:-

(The Prime Minister began with a brief impromptu introduction in which he said he had come to give the people of Leeds a word of encouragement in the work they were doing to promote the common causse of many nations in many lands. He then continued:)

That cause appeals to the hearts of all those in the humanrace who are not already gripped by tyranny or who have not already been seduced to its insidious vice.

That cause is hared by all the millinos of our cousins across the Atlantic who are preparing night and day to have their will and rights respected. It appeals to the patient millons of China, who have suffered long from cruel agression and still fight with faithful stubbornness.

It appeals to the noble mankind of Russia, now at full grips with them urderous enemy, striking blow for blow and repaying better ones for blows struck at them.

It appeals to all Britons without distinction of class or party and to the British Empire.

We send our warmest message of goodwill to our kith and kin in Australia, who like ourselves lie under the menace of imminentattack and who like ureslves are going to strike a heavy and successful blow on all who spring upon us.

You havehad your test at battle but lately the enemy has not been so ready to come to this island: first, because a large portion of his air force is engaged against our Russian allies, and secondly, because he knows our arrangements for meeting him, thanks to the assistnace of hundreds and thousands of active minds and hands, are improving in power and efficiency every day.

I konw well the great contribution which is being made to the whole forward and upward thrust of the war.

We have reached a period in the war when it would be premature to say that we have topped the ridge but wee see the ridge ahead now. We see that perseverance, unflinching, dogged, inexhaustible, tireless and valiant, will surely cary us and our Allies, the great nations of the world and the unfortunate nations who have been subjugated and enslaved, on to one of the most deep founded movements of humanity which has taken place in our history.

We say they will come to the top of the ridge and then they will have the chance not only of beating down and subduing those evil forces who have twice let riun and havoc on the world but they will have a further and grander prospect beyond the smoke of battle and the confusion of the fight. That is the prospect which lies before us.

Here in the 33rd month of war none of us is weary of the struggle. None of us is calling for any favors from the enemy. If he plays rough, we can play rough too. Whatever we have got to take, we will take and we will give it back in even greater measure because when we began this war we were peaceful and unarmed people.

We have striven hard for peace. We had even gone into folly over our desire for peace, but started all primed up and ready to strike.

It is not now going to be brave men against men armed, but a fight of people not only with the resolve and cause but who also have the weapons.

We will go forward together.

The road upwards is stony. There are upon our journey dark and dangerous valleys through which we have to make our way and fight our way but it is sure and certain that our perseverance will see us through these dark and dangerous valleys into sunlight more lasting than mankind has ever known.

Residents Report Hun U-Boats

MONTREAL, May 17 (CP)—Residents along the St. Lawrence River shore near the scene of the torpedoing of two freighters told the naval authorities that one or more Nazi submarines were seen in the vicinity just previous to the sinking, it was reported here.

A report received here from one fishing port said the U-boat was seen close to the beach Monday night. From another point a report said a U-boat turned its searchlight on a wharf and then disappeared.

Reports indicated the roar of explosions as the torpedoes struck the two freighters was heard soon after the U- boats were seen from shore.

No indication was given as to how the residents were able to identify the reported underseas craft as enemy U-boats.

P.G.E. Rail Line May Be Sold to U. S. Interests

VANCOUVER, May 17 (CP). — Adam Smith Johnston, Vancouver lawyer, said Saturday that New York and Chicago Railroad interests which he represented are negotiating for purchase of British Columbia's Pacific Great Eastern Railway and if successful intend to extend it to Alaska from its present terminus at Quesnel, in Central British Columbia.

"About two months ago we made a tentative offer to the Government and while the Government did not commit itself then, the understanding is that when we have completed a survey of the proposed route the authorities at Victoria will entertain any reasonable offer covering bonded indebtedness and other expenditures.

Extension of the Railway through the Yukon Territory to Alaska would require approval of the Federal Government.

"War conditions and the relative isolation of Alaska have made an alternative land route to Alaska of vital importance to the United States,' Mr. Johnston said.

He added, however, the first step would be to make Vancouver instead of Squamish the Southern terminus.

Vichy Refuses U. S. Proposals for Martinique

VICHY, May 16 (AP)— Pierre Laval, Chief of Government, announced yesterday that Vichy had informed Washington officially that it could not accept the United States' conditions regarding the status of Martinique.

Laval told the press that a note sent to Washington had declared the American conditions to be a "grave blow to French sovereignty" over France's West Indies possessions.

"France will not relinquish any of her rights over Martinique, no matter what happens," the pro-Axis Chief of Government told correspondents.

Laval said that the French warships at Martinique were "in the point of fact already immobilized" and that Vichy had agreed to give the United States a guaranty only not to aggravate the strain on French-American relations.

He added that "immobilization of the ships will not in any case permit handing them over to any foreign power—including the United States."

Saying he had waited three days in vain for Washington to make public a response sent by Vichy May 13 to the American demands, Laval read the complete text of the American note given to Admiral Robert.

He stressed that Admiral Robert was acting under direct orders of his Government despite Washington's efforts to by-pass Vichy in the negotiations.

He remarked "my presence in the French Government does not exactly appear to inspire the entire confidence of the Washington Government."

Before Laval held his press conference it was announced that he had visited German-occupied Paris yesterday.

The 16-point reply of Laval said "the demand that merchant ships be turned over" to the United States "could not be envisaged by the French Government because it violated the (German) armistice conditions."

Church Approves Labor's Right for Bargaining

This Year

MORE COAL MUST BE MINED IN THE SUMMERTIME

NOW is the time to place your next season's coal order—not next fall or winter. And here is why . . .

Coal miners do not ordinarily work full time in the summer months. This year, if temporary lay-offs come, miners will seek other employment and will not return to mining. If this occurs coal supplies will be short next winter.

Dealers' yards can only hold so much, and unless householders order early and take delivery, new supplies cannot be brought in. If coal production is permitted to slacken off this summer, the railroads will not be able to move the coal required this fall, because of the increased shipments of war materials.

Canadians can be sure of warm homes and offices next winter only by placing their coal orders at once. This will enable the mines to work steadily all summer, without lay-offs, and the railroads to move the coal over a longer period.

Germs Invade the Lungs From Varied Sources

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

The lungs are naturally subject to germ invasion more than any other form of disease. Eighteen times a minute for all the years of your life you take into the lungs some of the outside air.

In the air there may be not only germs, but dusts and molds from plants and other sources, pollen grains and animal dander. Thus the most frequent respiratory diseases are the common cold, influenza, pneumonia, tuberculosis, asthma; and in fact this group of diseases constitutes the most frequent group to which human beings are subject.

I say 'molds from plants and other sources," for while a phyician naturally thinks first of influenza, pneumonia or tuberculosis when he has an acute or chronic case of respiratory infection, the number of mold infections that are being discovered is increasing very rapidly. These molds are microscopic vegetable organisms which are much more complicated than the bacteria of ordinary germs.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

J. I. D.: What is the disease known as paroxysmal tachycardia and what cure is there for it?

Answer: Paroxysmal tachycardia is an attack of very rapid heart. The heart suddenly jumps up from a normal rate of 72 to over 180 and sometimes over 200. The attack stops just as suddenly as it began. Doctors do not know very much about the causes. Sometimes the attacks can be stopped by pressure over the nerve ganglia in the neck. Records show that in spite of the apparently alarming nature of the condition, patients get over these attacks and live for a long time. I have known one who had his first attack over 20 years ago and is still going strong.

"Ugly Duckling" Seeks Sure Road to Romance

"What occupation should a girl choose to follow in order to make love and marrige a sure fire matter?" asks a girl who signs herself "Ugly Duckling". She was very serious when she wrote me, insisting she isn't pretty, has no style, and that boys don't notice her at all.

To me she's a courageous little Ugly Duckling, and a sensible one. She knows what she wants in life, and instead of just dreaming about it, as girls ar etraditionally supposed to do, this youngster is willing to work for her goal.

She is 18. She could stay at home, be domestic and wait. But she is very sure that she would lose out by this method.

Then, there's nursing. She has heart that romance with a doctor is almost certain. Is tha ttrue, she asks me?

If this inexperienced girl were a little older, she would, of course, know that there is certainly no line of work open to a girl that will guarantee her a husband. There's no royal road to romance.

If she has no social background, she will do well, as she clearly realizes, to get out in the world, both to educate herself and to meet men.

In any case, her fate depends upon herself, on her beauty, if she is so fortunate, on her personality, if she really has one, or on such solid qualities as sound sense and good temper, which I suspect this little Ugly Duckling is supplied with and to which some man sooner or later will respond.

Try Terragon in Victory Garden

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Tarragon, belonging to the Artemisia family of plants is used for flavoring tarragon vinegar. Heretofore, it has come to us from France; this year gardeners will grow their own tarragon for flavoring. Tarragon is also used to flavor mayonnaise, pickles mustard, brown stock and fish sauces. Its green leaves, chopped and scattered over a salad give an unusual flavor which will redeem even the most uninteresting dish.

Try tarragon in victory garden

Plant out the roots in the Spring purchase growing plants, only accepting plants with simple leaves, as illustrated in the Garden Graph. Plants having divided leaves are not the true tarragon, but nevertheless are frequently sold for the true.

Set the plants one foot apart. Keep the flower stems cut off to force more leaf growth. For the first Winter, cut back the foliage and protect the plant with a straw mulch, or "hill up" as for roses. Some people "grow on" the plants over winter in a frame, thus having fresh leaves the year round.

SERIAL STORY . . . . . By JERRY BRUNDFIELD

No Refuge From Love

CHAPTER FORTY-ONE

GRADUALLY the fear left Molla and her confidence returned. Somehow, she knew Neil would be able to handle the menace of Kurt Wilhelm. She watched Neil silently stalk the darkened room. Then he came to a stop.

"You will do just as he ordered you," Neil said finally. "At 2:30 you will go downstairs and open the door. You will admit Wilhelm's man and then return to your room. I'll handle the rest. We'll plant a phony formula and let him snatch it. That's the evidence we'll need to convict them as saboteurs and not as just plain thieves when we catch up with them—and we will."

"I'll be outside, and when our visitor leaves I'll tail him to Kurt's hideout. That's what we want. There probably are more just like him to deal with."

"You will have the police help you, of course?"

"I'll have a couple of the company guards from the experimental laboratory. They're all special deuties with pretty broad powers under the national emergency. The regular police might cramp a little act I might want to put on with friend Kurt."

A thought hit Molla, chilling and stark. "But if you close in on Kurt—capture him—what will happen to my mother?"

"I've thought of that. The way I understand the story, Kurt ordered your mother's release out of sentimental reasons and before he knew of his assignment on the Whitworth concrete formula. So, then, when we nab him he'll be able to harm her only if he orders it. And I have a plan that should make him think twice even if he were able to get word through from prison. I think I can convince him that prisoners can be shot 'attempting to escape' just as they are in some of his familiar European haunts."

He put on his coat. "It's late—almost 2 o'clock. You'd better get to bed. Goodnight.'

It was an abrupt, impersonal departure, and it left Molla with a slight feeling of disappointment. Just a few short hours ago he had wanted to marry her. Now he was a cold machine, intent only on getting her out of a scrape.

The next three days dragged interminably for Molla. Neil, she knew, was making arrangements with Burton Whitworth for her part in putting their plan into execution. He was to know about it, of course; Agatha Whitworth was not for fear of what her emotional reaction might be at learning of such impending excitement right under her very nose and her own roof.

Agatha always retired early on Thursday nights because the domestic staff with the exception of James, the butler, had the evening off.

That was good, too. Molla thought, because she didn't particularly relish seeing or talking to Agatha while the broken engagement was so fresh in her mind. In the morning she would be gone and Agatha would be none the wiser what had happened during the night.

Shortly before noon, Kurt telephoned Molla at the office. "Tonight, then?" he said.

"Tonight," Molla repeated, speaking guardedly on purpose. "I will be ready."

"It is good that you are sensible. At 2:30, then—and may I suggest there be no slip on your part."

"You need not worry," she said coldly. "I have no other alternative." She heard the click of the receiver at the other end.

Keep Your Chin Up to Avoid That Double Line

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Only a baby looks cute with a double chin. In the sunny teens and 20's, about all it takes to keep the chin lovely is an erect head carriage. But by the time a woman reaches the intersting age of 30—in fact, not fiction—it takes a bit more to ward off chin trouble.

First, wash your neck. Use hot water and a fairly rough cloth. Then massage cream in. Leave the cream on while you do your exercises.

The secret of good chin exercise is to keep the muscles of the throat firmly tensed while doing the exercis. Take your exercise slowly and you won't get dizzy. Slow circling is excellent.

Tip your head back and chew. Open your mouth, oval shaped, then resist strongly with your lower jaw muscles as you close your lips. Repeat three times. Slowly relax your throat muscles. Finish by tipping your head back and blowing—fill your cheeks with air and blow as if you were inflating a toy balloon. If you have a toy balloon handy, blow it up. It's good chin exercise.

After you have done your exercises, remove the cream and dash cold water over the throat. After the cold water application, apply a small amount of cream and leave it on.

All this must be backed up by an erect head carriage. Otherwise, the good effects are being constantly counteracted.

Gunner Carries Babe From Torpedoed Ship

By ROBERT CLARK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MATAPEDIA, Que., May 18 (CP)—Survivors of the first ship ever to be torpedoed in the St. Lawrence River said today six men listed as missing undoubtedly lost their lives when the second of two torpedoes tossed by a Nazi submarine crashed into a life raft and then smashed into the ship.

A party of survivors passed through here on their way to Montreal, and one of them, Joseph Stirling of Glasgow, said the life raft was at the side of the ship when it was crushed by the missile fired by the German raider. Stirling was in a lifeboat not far from the raft and the explosion "knocked one of the men in our boat about 10 feet out into the water." The man was picked up again safely.

Eighty-six persons in all were aboard the ship, the first of two sent to the bottom early in the week by the U-boat. In the other sinking, there were 31 survivors with one man dead and 11 missing.

As far as could be ascertained, the survivors of the first vessel reached safely as follows: 41 in a motorboat and 28 in a lifeboat. A woman and a child were among those in the lifeboat.

The woman was Mrs. Natham Silverbeck, wife of a oyal Air Force officer and now a resident of Montreal, with her two-year-old son Michael.

Stirling said that one of the gunners aboard the ship was "a real hero." The gunner, immediately after the first torpedoe crashed into the vessel, dashed below deck and carried the two-year-old baby to a lifeboat. The mother, Stirling added never showed any signs of "cracking" during the lifeboat journey.

Stirling and Cuthill said the submarine shot one torpedo into the ship, and then circled around the vessel, taking about 10 minutes in the manoeuvre. Then, from the other side, it fired its second missile.

Ernest Gordon Ady, petitioner of Fruitvale, was granted a divorce from Kathleen Mary Ady of Flin Flon, Man., and custody of his 1½-year-old son. Leonard Burrows of Flin Flon was named as co-respondent.

Galdino Ermacora of Trail received a decree of divorce from Helen Mary Ermacora of Kimberley, and was granted custody of his son. Costs against the co-respondent, William G. Colvin, of Fernie, were granted.

Call Is Made for More Veterans for the Canadian Guards

"The spontaneous response of Canada's veterans to offer their services to the country in the time of need has been something that each veteran has occasion to be proud of, Captain Pitt-Brooke stated in an interview Friday afternoon. At the outbreak of war, these men throughout Canada were quick to answer the call to the colors, offering their services wherever heeded and at the present time strong units of the Veterans' Guard of Canada are operating efficiently.

"The time has now come," said Capt. Pitt-Brooke when the duties and work for veterans is increasing daily and an urgent call is being sent out for recruits. "About 700 veterans are needed to bring the unit up to full strength and veterans are asked to contact the nearest Veterans' Guard of Canada recruiting centre.

Men eligible for the Guard must be veterans of the First Great War not over 50 years of age, and in Category C2, or better.

Capt. Pitt-Brooke stated that although there had been great voluntary response to all branches of the service from the Kootenays there was still a great need for more recruits.

We Could Stand a Little Under-Statement

British statesmen, and highly placed Britishers generally, have a reputation for under-statement that is all too well founded.

Actually British prestige has long suffered for this weakness of the Englishman to use great reserve when speaking of his country's achievements.

But one happy consequence of this amiable weakness is that, at least, any statement by a British Minister is given 100 per cent acceptance.

Would that the courteous and well informed gentlemen who do the announcing for the British Broadcasting Corporation had the weakness of under-statement! But, alas, they haven't. Without making any actual misstatements, they paint disagreeable facts in such rosy tints that defeats seem victories, and a fog of pleasant illusion envelops all that they recount.

For an instance in point, we were told Friday of how brilliantly General Alexander had outwitted the Japanese commanders. Listeners naturally were prepared to hear of some coup that accomplished something against the enemy. It was then revealed to us that the British force in the last valleys of Burma had continued its masterly retreating, had got across a roadless area with baffing celerity, and had first won for itself time in which to utterly destroy all its heavy equipment.

Of course, it is gratifying that the British force that an infinitely larger and better equipped Japanese force drove before it out of Burma escaped the Japanese net, with only the clothes it stood in, so to speak.

But why sugarcoat every defeat, every retirement, every loss, as if superhuman cleverness had been shown by our side!

The defence of Britain's Asiatic possessions has been a continuous retrogression from the time of the first Japanese attack. Losses impossible to have been imagined in advance have taken place. Now at last India has been entered.

Let's have the picture in the forthright way Churchill would give it. We can stand the truth.

But we can't stand, with any patience, the constant gilding of defeat.

Today's Horoscope

If your birthday is today, you are gay, free of care, and should curb an innate tendency to take reckless chances without though of the consequences. You will have a happy marriage. Treachery threatens you in the next year, through a lover or feminine friend. Your affections and fortunes will suffer in consequence, although some good fortune will come your way during this time. Born on this date a child will be very sensitive and impressionable, and may suffer through the deception of others and double-dealing. A strong love of sensation and notoriety must be curbed.

J. B. G., Nelson—Would you please outline instructions for making papier-mache Also how it can be applied to walls.

Following are the ingredients necessary to make a lump of papier-mache weighing 17 ounces. Wet paper pulp, dry paper, one ounce; water, three ounces, (avoirdupois); dry plaster Paris, eight ounces; hot glue, four and a half tablespoonfuls.

While the paper pulp is being prepared, melt some of the glue. On taking the paper from the water squeeze it gently but do not try to dry it. Put in a bowl, add about three tablespoonfuls of the hot glue, and stir the mass up into a soft and very sticky paste. Add the plaster of Paris and mix thoroughly. By the time about three ounces of the plaster have been used, the mass is so dry and thick that it can hardly be worked. Add the remainder of the glue, work it up again until it becomes sticky once more, and then add the remainder of the plaster. Squeeze it vigorously through the fingers to thoroughly mix the mass, and work it until free from lumps, finely kneaded and sticky enough to adhere to the surface of a planed board. If it is too dry to stick fast, add a few daps of either glue or water, and work it up again.

In using it the mass should be kept in a lump and used as soon as possible after making. Keep the surface moist by means of a wet cloth laid over it. If it is to be kept overnight, or longer, wrap it up in two or three thicknesses of wet cloth, and put under an inverted bowl. If it is to be kept for a week and used daily, add a few drops of glycerine when making, so that it will dry more slowly.

ACTION NOW

What Canada is concerned about, is how Mr. King and his ministers intend to interpret Monday's emphatic release from their commitments. There would appear to be only one answer to such speculation. The Government is in duty bound to use all the statutory authority it possesses, which, of course, it has possessed all along, to implement the wishes of the people as so obviously reflected by their votes. Without hesitation, or equivocation of any kind, it should immediately allocate all the nation's resources in the only way that will enable Canada to pull her full weight in this conflict of the continents and the oceans. The time for quibbling is past; this democracy has spoken, and the Prime Minister would be false to his own concept of representative Government were he to attempt to dilute the implications of his new instructions with consideration for sectional views or timid interests. National morale is at stake.—Victoria Times.

THE NEW ORDER COMES

What Miss Bondfield says is what most enlightened British men and women have been saying since the start of the war. Britain has two advantages in her progress towards any new way of life. She has a large and highly expressive section of reform sentiment advocating various forms of social legislation, and she has had the experience of two and a half years of war on her own soil. War has broken down British class distinctions, eliminated "school tie" allegiances, changed property values, brought the people together in a common bond of suffering and loss, restored the traditional honor of heroism, discounted the worth of financial power as compared with the human values which defend a home and repel an enemy. Miss Bondfield may or may not have the correct vision of the "New Order", but that a woman of her intelligence is so certain there will be a new world is proof that the old order is dead.—London Free Press.

CAN WE DISPENSE WITH GOLD?

How is Germany able to carry on the war at a vast expenditure of perhaps ten to twelve millions a day? It is not because she has vast resources in gold, but because she exploits all her natural resources with the help of science and chemistry, and expenditure incurred today in wages and materials returns tomorrow to be spent again. Is it not an anomally that in a world in which purchasing power has been almost wholly destroyed, in which national assets are daily going up in flames, the cost index in labor and materials in the U.S.A., which holds about half the whole world's hoard of monetary gold, should have risen to four times the level existing ten years ago? What then are the prospects for post-war reconstruction for distress, unemployment, penury, unless we return to fundamentals and hurl to the ground this golden image?—Writer in Empire Produced, London.

She Didn't Tell Half About Japs Writes Ex-Coast Fisherman

To the Editor:

Sir—I had read Miss Fontaine's comment, in the Liberty magazine re Jap hatred, but she did not say the half of it as I know them.

For some years I had a gas-boat, and plied up and down the West coast between New Westminster and Alaska and I knew the Jap and his methods very well.

BREAKS EVERY FISHING LAW

He is a quiet, inoffensive fellow, but he breaks every fishing law yet made. There is a law which says "no illegal fishing," but he smiles and goes ahead and breaks it. There are rules where to fish and how to set the nets, otherwise his nets are to be confiscated by the master of the port. How he breaks this law is: A number of boats set off in Indian file, sometimes a mile long. The first one to spot a salmon leap puts up a flag. Then the whole fleet forms a big circle and drop their nets, the whole school of salmon is trapped and caught.

Another law says, "No one shall fish or have nets down between 12 midnight Saturday and 12 midnight Sunday." The patrol boat comes down the Fraser River every Sunday morning, about 9 o'clock, the officer on the bridge looks spic and span in gold braid, and brass buttons. The Japs are lounging about on their boats and when the patrol is well out of sight, the Japs know he never comes back, so out they go and fish all Sunday unmolested.

PUBLIC SERVANT FIRED

One time, at Rivers Inlet, a master of the port confiscated some nets, as he had a number of complaints and when he went out, caught them red-handed, they complained to Ottawa of the high-handedness of the man who did his duty and that man was relieved of his position by the Fisheries Board without a trial.

The Jap comes to Canada and takes over a boat. How it is one, none but the Japs know. The white fishermen have to purchase their boats and nets. The Jap is ensconsed in some old disused cannery, where he has a cabin and the interior of the cannery is a net-making shed. Women and children make new nets, men broken ones, the twine is made there as it comes in bales, raw.

There is a law which says every man owning a fish boat must hold a licence and have the boat numbered, the man holding the licence to work the boat. But the Jap does nothing of the kind. He has two lodgers, one works the boat eight hours, then the other eight hours, then he works it eight hours during the day. The boats do not come in with each tide. There is a tugboat which goes out with a couple of barges in tow laden with drums of gas, new nets, waterkegs and men to change shift. In that way the boats lose no time and it is only when a boat is compelled to come in, such as damage by floating logs, etc., then they bring back the catch and the relieved men.

FROM JAPANESE NAVY

Every one of those men could boast of coming straight from the Japanese navy. They also boasted that they knew the soundings of every oprt and river up the whole length of the Canada coast. I have heard them say "We only want the ships and we could take over Canada!" They sent their children to the day schools along with other children, but when recess cam the children did not have a holiday. There was a large place at Esburne where they were taught Japanese all through the recess.

I tried once or twice to buy gas from them when my supply was running out, but no, they would not oblige me, but an Indian went in his canoe to New Westminster, five miles up stream and got it, and would not take anything for the fetching till I forced it upon him. One time, I went ashore for groceries and left my boat tied up below Eburne. When I returned, the anchor lines had been cut, and my boat, a five-toner was wrong side up at the bottom of the Fraser. All my goods, bed, clothes, table and gas sank in the mud, for the Fraser is a terrible dirty stream. I was a week getting her up, for, although the Jap boats were often passing, none would give me a hand. not even for pay. It was plain to judge who had done the trick.

There were many other fishermen up the Coast who had just one boat and when they had their nets torn or other damages, they spent days repairing. Not so the Jap. There row on row of new nets in the canneries, there were several boats lying in the offings where he could choose from, because the Japs are a clanish lot.

I saw a letter in your paper some time ago from the Chief Constable of Vancouver which stated that the Japs were a law-abiding people. He either didn't know what he was talking about, or he knew nothing about Jap fishermen.

I could fill pages and authenticate every one, of the Japs' breaking laws.

RAISED NIPPON FLAG

Not long ago Sergt. Barber, who was once at Nelson, complained to the Government about every Jap boat flying the Nipponese flag, illegally, up at Three Rivers I think it was. Of course that was just before Pearl Harbor.

AT AIR CONFERENCE TODAY

Three times Group Captain Stefan Sznuk has fought the Germans in the air—three times from three countries. First in Poland, when Hitler's hordes invaded Sznuk's homeland, and later after he had helped to spirit his flying fighters across the border to Rumania and thence to France he again led them in battle from French airdromes. After the collapse of France he managed to reach England where, as chief of staff of the Polish Air Force, he directed the squadrons whose exploits in the Battle of Britain have already become legendary. As head of the Polish Air Mission in Canada Group Captain Sznuk will represent his country at the United Nations Air Conference which opens in Ottawa today. Delegates to the conference picture above are, left to right: Air Marshall A. G. Garrod, Air Member for Training, and Rt. Hon. Harold Balfour, Parliamentary Undersecretary of State for Air, leading a large delegation from the United Kingdom; Lieut.-Col. Janusz Ilinski, military attache at the Polish legation, and Group Captain Sznuk, representing the Polish Government-in-exile, and Daniel Steen, Norwegian Minister to Canada.

King and Queen See First Game Since War

LONDON, May 17 (CP Cable).—The King and Queen attended their first football game of the war today, visiting Stamford Bridge to watch the Interallied Services Cup final between the British Army and the Police.

The King, wearing Army uniform, shook hands with members of both teams and officials before the game and the Queen, dressed in powder blue ensemble, presented the trophy to Tom Smith, Captain of the Police team, which scored an easy 6-2 victory.

The cup final marked the close of the season of competition between British and Allied Services teams, including the Canadian Army which was eliminated in the second round.

The Polce, with five internationals in the lineup, were too experienced for the Army amateurs and never were threatened after Leslie Compton scored his first of five goals.

The match, watched by a crowd of 5000, was the first Their Majesties had attended since the Portsmouth-Wolverhampton Cup final at Wembley in April, 1939.

Byron Nelson Wins Big Eight Golf

NEWTON, Mass., May 17 (AP.)—Byron Nelson, winner of this year's Masters' Tournament, produced mechanically perfect golf Saturday to put together a five-under-par 67 and a regulation 72 in winning the second annual Massachusetts big eight golf tournament at Charles River Country Club.

Nelson's 139 total for the 36 holes of medal play for the benefit of the United States Relief Society was one stroke better than his nearest competitor.

Cartmel and Clark Win Golf Final; 2 Tourneys for Empire Day Weekend

Sunday at the Golf and Country Club saw L. D. Clark and John Cartmel score an up set victory over Vic Owen and Lloyd Wilkins in the final of the men's Get-Acquainted tournament.

MISS CHANCE ON PUTTS

Clark and Cartmel took a two hole lead in the first two, and held it throughout the game till the 17th hole when it was cut to dormie one. The 18th hole was halved to give the match to Clark and Cartmel. The Owen-Wilkins pair missed a four-foot putt on the 18th green to miss tying the match and going to the 19th hole.

Although the Owens-Wilkins aggregation looked better according to the handicap sheet, the early lead of the Clark-Cartmel team proved too much for them, with the lead at one time going to three up. The cutting to one hole at the 17th was the nearest that they were able to come to erasing it.

TWO NEW TOURNEYS

The Empire Day weekend will see the first Spring handicap tournaments gets under way at the Golf Club. The men will be competing for the Wilson Cup and the ladies fr the Noxon Cup. A slight change has been made for these events in that full handicap difference will be given instead of the usual three-quarter difference. This should give the higher handicap player a better than even chance of ending up with the silverware, which is the purpose of the handicap tournaments.

Ladies play will get under way Saturday afternoon and the men will start the ball rolling on Sunday morning.

Entry sheets have been posted in the clubhouse and all members are urged to sign up as soon as possible. Entries will close Friday evening so that the draw can be posted in the Daily News on Saturday.

Last year in addition to the Wilson and the Noxon Cups there were the Blanche Pollard and the C.I.L. Cup run in at the same time, the entry list being divided into the high and low handicap groups. This year the C.I.L. (men's) and the Blanche Pollard Trophy will be played off during the evenings in June, taking advantage of the daylight saving and the long evenings and introducing 'twilight tournaments' to the Nelson golfers.

GAME REMAINS

The only remaining game in the men's Get-Acquainted tournament is the final in the consolation, A. H. Allan-S. T. McCulloch vs. W. Wait and W. Barrett. The Committee hopes this will be played off this week, clearing the decks for the Victoria Day tournaments.

Ideal weather prevailed over the weekend and the golfers turned out in good numbers.

Equipment Governs What Japs Can Do on Hope-Princeton Says Bruhn

Progress with Japanese labor on the construction of the Hope-Princeton road depends upon the amount of heavy road-building equipment which can be obtained, said Hon. Rolf W. Bruhn, Minister of Public Works, while in Nelson during the weekend.

By hand work not much can be done except to clear the right-of-way. Mr. Bruhn and his department are checking up to see what suitable equipment can be spared from other parts of the province, and it is hoped that the Dominion Government may be able to allocate some machinery to the project.

Five hundred Japanese are employed on the Revelstoke-Sicamous road, 1400 on the Jasper-Blue River Highway, in which the federal government is directly interested, and 500 Japanese have been promised for the Hope-Princeton road. So far Japanese for only two Hope-Princeton camps have been provided A third camp for 100 men is ready.

Directly provincial engineers have been released from survey work which is being done for the Dominion government near Prince Rupert a definite survey for the route finally to be adopted for the Southern Transprovincial highway between Trail and the Boundary will be made and a final decision reached. "My hope is that by the next session of the House we will have prepared a complete highway program for the British Columbia to be carried out after the war, and as part of the post-war rehabilitation program," said the Minister.

Decision will be reached shortly, said Mr. Bruhn, as to the improvements to be made on the Taghum Hill, West of Nelson, to complete the work begun last year.

Definite conclusions will also be reached as soon as possible as to road conpection between Kaslo and Gerrard. It is expected that the rails will be lifted from the C.P.R. right-of-way by the end of June or early in July.

There is no intention of doing any heavy construction this year on Nelson-Nelway highway, but the department will do what it can to keep the road in shape for traffic.

In fact, Mr. Bruhn pointed out, there can be no heavy construction because of the total appropriations is $500,000, and of this, $200,000 will be required for permanent surfacing so that roads which were prepared last year will not disintegrate.

New Lighting Rules May Spell End of N.Y. Night Ball

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP.)—Drastic new regulations affecting New York's night lighting—among them one which in all likelihood would eliminate night baseball—were ordered today in a move to control the dangerous silhouetting of ships at sea.

Mayor F. H. La Guardia, acting with the approval of the army and navy, ordered into effect tomorrow night a dim-out program which for the first time will screen all flood lighting in railroad yards, manufacturing plants, shipyards, docks and terminals.

Asked if this would eliminate night baseball, the Mayor replied: "I guess so."

My contract says:

"ONLY GENUINE HERBS and BERRIES...NO SYNTHETICS"

There are no artificial ingredients in the London Dry Gins and other gins produced from my centuries-old English formula—only the natural roots, berries and herbs prescribed by that recipe, which I am under contract to carry out to the letter.

This formula, which I used in London, England, to produce world-famous brands of gin, now includes the snow-pure, non-alkaline mountain water so abundantly available here in Vancouver. Thus, the brands of gin carrying the "UDL" label are even superior to those I produced in England.

Chinese Warlord Rallies Forces to Rout Japs Along Salween River

BY DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press Staff Writer

CALCUTTA, India, May 17 (AP)—The Japanese apparently have failed in an attempt at lightning conquest of China's Yunnan Province, thanks to Lung Yuen, defiant Chinese Governor who rallied his weakening troops, and to daredevil Chinese and American fliers who ruled the air.

The story of how a Japanese push stalled near Paoshan a week ago, leaving the enemy with a tough, expensive campaign still to fight came today from members of the American Volunteer Group who were in the battle.

These fliers gave the laurels to Governor Lung Yuen, a former Chinese warlord and trusted confidant of Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek. They said he organized a successful defence of the province almost overnight, stiffening leadership of the scattered Chinese 6th Army retreating from the Shan States of Burma.

An advance enemy detachment had raided the environs of Paoshan itself when the Governor assumed the military responsibility.

Within 48 hours, the American fliers said, the Japanese had been driven back from the Salween River and even now, although the invaders have been reinforced, Chungking reports the Chinese still hold the West bank of the river in strength and the Japanese still are 55 miles from Paoshan, which is on the Burma Road about 125 miles from the Burma border.

(The Chinese Central News Agency said today the invaders had suffered more than 4000 casualties in Yunnan in the last week.)

Tough Governor Lung was reported to have ordered the execution of a disgraced former Army General when he ignored an opportunity to commit suicide. Then, it was said, Lung directed the annihilaton of 300 Japanese whose raid on Paoshan had been repulsed.

Cheered by a virtual ringside view of bombing Japanese positions along the Salween May 6 and 7, dispersed Chinese troops on the West bank reorganized and, with fresh reserves, closed in on the enemy from all sides.

For the first time in the fighting in Burma and China, the Japanese laced air support and without it they were forced into flight.

CONTRACT . . . By Shepard Barclay

BLACKWOOD AT ITS BEST

NEVER DOES the Blackwood convention show to better advantage than when an opponent has bid a suit in which your hand is blank. You can make a cue-bid in that suit and on a later round call 4-No Trumps to ask your partner what aces he holds in the other three suits, his answer to be followed by 5-No Trumps, which asks him about his kings in those suits. By this means, you can sometimes learn to a certainty that a small slam or grand slam is possible.

When North heard his partner bid hearts, he became immediately slam-minded, and was about ready to bid a small slam, even if the pair had been using only natural bidding. But he also decided that a grand slam should be possible in hearts if South had both of the red kings. This might have been difficult to find out ordinarily, but when West bid 2-Clubs, it became easy for users of the Blackwood convention who really understand it.

North's bid of 3-Clubs, coupled with his next call for 4-No Trumps, informed South that he had no clubs and wanted to know how many aces South had in the other three suits, knowing full well that South must answer with 5-Clubs to show none. Then came the crucial question, when 5-No Trumps asked South about the kings in the three other suits. South showed two of them with his 6-Hearts response, whereupon the gamble and guess disappeared.

West's lead of the club K was ruffed, two trumps dropped the hostile ones, three high diamonds and a diamond ruff set up the fifth diamond for a discard of a second club, and South's remaining two clubs were ruffed, so that the slam was made.

Market Trends

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—Leading stocks again moved higher in Saturday's market without the aid of a great deal of buying power. Gains of fractions to a point or so were seen in most departments at the close.

Air transportation stocks, which went into a tail-spin Friday regained their equilibrium.

TORONTO— The Toronto stock market rounded out the week in dull trading and barely firm prices.

Foods, senior oils, and papers were unchanged and steels were a bit stronger.

MONTREAL—Trading was dull. C. P. R. worked fractionally higher in carriers and Shawinigan was down a bit in utilities.

VANCOUVER — Sales showed a slight pickup during the brief session of trading with favorable increases in the oils and mines.

WINNIPEG — Export purchases, minor mill demand and local trades were noted. Wheat futures closed unchanged with May at 79¼ cents a bushel and July at 80⅝.

Export business estimated slightly in excess of 200,000 bushels was reported with a shipment of wheat presumably destined for Portugal. This transaction reflected in the pit with export houses on the buying side of wheat.

CHICAGO—A sudden rush to sell tumbled wheat prices as much as 2 cents a bushel today, weakening the entire grain market.

THAILAND CAPITAL TO BE MOVED

TOKYO, May 17 (AP).—The Thailand Government has decided to move its capital from Bangkok near the coast to "the Buddhist city" of Sara Buri 70 miles inland to the Northeast, Nichi Nichi said yesterday. Bangkok would remain the commercial centre of the country, and the transfer would not be completed until 1945, the newspaper said.

Labor Shortage Only Trouble in the Interior

VICTORIA, May 17 (CP).—British Columbia farmers would be quite happy if they knew they could obtain labor this Summer, Agriculture Minister K. C. MacDonald said today on his return from a trip to the interior.

"Everything is pretty good up in the interior," the Minister said. "The farmers, of course, have some worries, but mostly about labor. The labor situation on the land is becoming serious. I think Ottawa will have to do something about it, and I think Ottawa has it in mind to do something.

"Tomorrow" Wins Name Prize for Chamber Organ

TRAIL, B. C., May 15—Les Rimes was awarded the prize for the best name submitted to the Junior Chamber of Commerce publication, at Thursday night's meeting. The name chosen was "Tomorrow."

An invitation from the C. C. F. Club for a speaker from the Junior Chamber to attend a public meeting urging the adoption of conscription of manpower, wealth and industry by the Dominion Government was declined, as against the constitution of the club, although the chamber had endorsed the principle involved.

Plans for a publicity parade in connection with the Red Cross drive were made, and President Tom Armstrong was placed in charge. The parade will take place Monday night, when the Junior Chamber members will tour the city in a truck equipped with loud speakers, urging citizens to contribute to the drive.

Barrie Welliver, Chairman of the Committee on the Red Cross Drive, reported that every member of the chamber had a job in the drive, and that the canvass was progressing satisfactorily.

CONVENTION REPORT

T. Armstrong and Dr. A. B. McDonald, who were delegates to the recent convention in Vancouver, reported on the convention.

Lawrence Nicholson, Regional Director from Rossland, gave an account of his report to the Vancouver meeting, as well as a resume of the work of the district during the year. He emphasized the importance of getting the Nelson Club active again this year.

Ald. J. R. Corner, of Rossland, dealt with the address of Walter Finke, President of the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, delivered at Vancouver, as well as some of the humorous highlights of the convention.

U.S. TO START BICYCLE RATIONING SOON

WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP) — The U. S. government will begin rationing bicycles in about three weeks, the office of price administrator announced today. At the same time, O.P.A. amended its orders freezing sales to permit manufacturers to ship to distributors in preparation for rationing.

Controlled Sales Essential to Apple Growers

With an estimated apple crop in British Columbia in 1942 of between six and six and a half million boxes, A. K. Loyd, General Manager of Tree Fruits, Ltd., sees growing necessity for the maintainence by growers of their present organized and single control system of marketing. Stone fruit crops also are growing.

"If we dont keep together we will soon be back to red ink," said Mr. Loyd, who left Nelson Sunday on his return to Kelowna from Creston.

Even a small amount of uncontrolled selling, such as that which existed on a wide scale before the present organized marketing was brought into effect, would break the market and bring losses to all growers.

Shipyard Sets New Record

OTTAWA, May 17 (CP).—One of Canada's shipyards has just set a new 80-day record for building the hull of a 10,000-ton freighter—cutting more than one-third from the best previous mark.

Identity of the yard can not be disclosed for security reasons and it is not even possible to say in what part of the country it is located.

The record-breaking hull was launched just 80 days after the keel was laid, and it was complete. The ship lacked only engines, running gear and so on. The builders thought they had a record but weren't too positive.

In Montreal, Wartime Merchant Shipping was sure. Its officials looked up the files and reported the previous record was 125 days for what was termed an "incomplete" hull.

But Canadian yards still have to go some to catch up to the best time set in a United States yard. Last night from Washington it was reported Henry J. Kaiser's Oregon yard recently turned out the hull of a 10,400-ton freighter in 43 days and he succeeded in fitting the ship in 26 days more.

Plan to Improve Telephone and Telegraph Lines

VANCOUVER, May 17 (CP). — The Vancouver Province said Saturday it had learned a $4,000,000 National Defence program for modernizing and improving telegraph and telephone facilities in British Columba and the Northwest Territories has been drafted by Federal authorities and will be started in a few weeks.

Services to be enlarged and improved include all those on Vancouver Island, in the Cariboo country and in the Prince Rupert, Peace River and other Northern areas, the paper said.

Claim Powerful Jap Fleet Enroute to Australia

Kootenay Unit of Reserve Army Goes to Vernon

Kootenay members of Canada's Reserve Army, 200 strong, entrained Sunday for Vernon to undergo two weeks' intensive training in camp. Gathering from Fernie, Kimberley, Cranbrook, Nelson, Rossland and Trail, they came together as a unit—part of the 2nd Battalion, Rocky Mountain Rangers—for the first time since their organization last Fall.

Special coaches attached to the regular Westbound train carried the reservists. About 80 were on the train when it arrived at Nelson and 27 more boarded it here. At Castlegar 89 Rossland and Trail men joined the unit, making a total of approximately 200.

The Kootenay officers and men will undergo two weeks intensive training at the Vernon camp. In their home parades they have followed a syllabus designed to give them the preliminary basic training, and this training will be advanced during the next two weeks.

Vernon, an army training centre since shortly after the outbreak of the war, as in 1914-18, is the central point for Interior reservists to attend their anual camp.

Trail Wins Inter-City Cup With Highest Average Firsts as 13th Kootenay Music Festival Ends

Climaxing three days of competition in music and elocution, at the Capitol Theatre, the 13th Annual Kootenay Musical Festival came to a close Saturday evening, when a close race for the Intercity Trophy donated by Hume Hotel, Nelson, for the centre with the highest average mark for two or more place winners was won by Trail. Rossland was edged out by a mere .09 points, and Nelson by 1.21 points. Rossland had the lead in the first part of the Festival, but Trail scored the final winning average of 84.91. Rossland followed, a close second, with 84.82 and Nelson was third with an average of 83.70. Nelson was last year's winner.

The Festival Committee, though there were not as many entries this year, was congratulated by the adjudicator "for keeping musical interest alive during wartime, when it is especially needed."

Nelson led the list with 139 entries. Trail had 39, Rossland 20, Nakusp 17, Castlegar 10, and the remainder were spread over Kaslo, Robson, Fruitvale, Tadanac, Gray Creek and Longbeach.

"The simplicity of the entrance and exit was very effective," he said. "The singing was excellent, and the tone could be envied by many choirs. Pitch was very good, there were nice full tones. The girls were very natural, and the action songs were excellent. They have a sense of humor and are very enthusiastic.

Victoria O'Dell, single entrant for the Pianoforte class, open, was given 78 and 76—154 for her performance. "It was very ambitious of the young lady to enter this class," he said. "She has the making of a nice, tidy technique," said the adjudicator.

He was presented with a small bust of Liszt.

ADJUDICATOR ADJUDICATED

The "adjudication of the adjudicator" was presented by Mr. Horstead, when he took Mr. Benjamin's place on the stage, and very realistically imitated his method of adjudicating. He described Mr. Benjamin's disposition as "firm but kind. Imagination, unlimited, intonation, superb, and technique, beautiful." Mr. Horstead awarded him a certificate with marks "unannounced". Mr. Benjamin kindly consented to play for the audience, and he chose one of his own compositions, and Mr. Horstead sincerely thanked him for adjudicating the Festival this year.

In reply, Mr. Benjamin said he "could not leave this charming city and excellent Festival, without commending you for such a well-organized Festival. I hope you realize how indebted you are to the people behind this Festival for the amount of work involved. I wish also to congratulate the efficient secretary and accompanist.

"In places where there really is a war," he said, "music is so essential, and since the war and during the bombing of London, music advanced even more than in peacetime, and I sincerely congratulate you for keeping your festivals going too. I think that every encouragement should be given to people here to make a full house during the Festival."

Continuing with the evening's performances, Rosemary Fleming, single entrant for the instrumental solo class competing for the H. R. (Hank) Lauriente, Trail, Cup, scored 82 points for her violin solo. "It was very correct and many parts were most beautifully played. The contrast was good, and she has some very good points," Mr. Benjamin said.

In the elocution challenge competition the only entrant was Rae Coates, Edgewood; for her two recitations from Shakespeare, she was given 82 and 86—168 points. Mrs. Davies described it a "very artistic performance; she has a very good voice, and she put feeling into the verses. It was a very good attempt indeed."

In the Violin Class, open, another single entrant, Margaret Gerrish, was given 77 points for her solo. Mr. Benjamin said it was "a very ambitious choice, and she has the best musical intentions."

MISS WALTON CHAMPION VOCALIST

Jean Walton, Nelson, won the championship in the vocal solo class, gaining first place against Mr. A. J. Bradshaw, only other competitor, and winning the Noble Binns Challenge Cup. "There is a possibility of a good contralto in this very good voice, "the adjudicator said, "her singing has a dramatic sense, and it is in view of a public performance that I place her first. The other voice is a small but very pretty voice, but is not quite so suited to public singing."

The Nelson String Orchestra, conducted by Mrs. Gladys Webb Foster, won 88 points for each of its performances. Mr. Benjamin said its "performance was excellent, and rhythm, pleasant. There was excellent contrast in the minor key, the contrast of tone was good, and the trio movement specially good. In the second piece, the gradations were excellent, and they were both all round good performances for an elementary orchestra."

TRAIL WINS HUME CUP

Concluding the three days of competition, the special Intercity Cup, donated by Hume Hotel, Nelson, was awarded to Trail for the city with five or more competing entries gaining the highest average marks for two or more first place winners. Trail's average was 84.91, Rossland, 84.82 and Nelson 83.70.

A special trophy, the Rossland Parent-Teacher Association Trophy for the contestant gaining highest average marks, from Rossland, was won by Carol Martin, with an average of 86.

Leslie Craufurd, President of the Association thanked Mr. Benjamin and Mrs. Davies for their efficient adjudication and words of advice to the contestants. He also thanked the audience for their attendance which "encourages the association to carry on from year to year despite adversities."
